ON A DESOLATE HILL. It is not strange that someone chose this lonely spot to erect a reverent memorial. It was on a desolate hill that three crosses stood many centuries ago... the Cross of the Saviour... and of the penitent... and of the scoffer. Always these crosses have seemed to belong to the desolate hills of life. When a man feels the crushing burden of worldly care upon him, when he trudges the steep trail lost and alone—then, either he will claim the Love and Strength of Christ as did the penitent, or like the scoffer he will let his unbelief destroy his soul. But no man should wait for a time of desolation to make life's most joyous decision. It can be made today... and sealed with years of happy service in the church of one's choice.

Still The Arsenal Of Free World

The role of the United States as arsenal of the free world has been emphasized again by an announcement that Great Britain is abandoning its program of developing fixed-site rockets that could deliver nuclear attacks.

One of the primary reasons given for the British decision is that the cost of the program was beyond the financial resources of the country. Thus a greater burden for the protection of the free world against a possible aggressor falls upon the United States. It is a financial burden which this nation must bear, and at the same time there is the burden of continued progress in development of new weapons which this nation must assume if the free world is to keep up its defenses.

During World War I and during World War II it fell the lot of the United States to provide a major amount of the material needed to wage war against the aggressor nations. A large share of the responsibility for developing as well as manufacturing in quantity the new weapons needed during the conflict also became the responsibility of the United States.

In both World Wars, however, the United States did not assume the responsibility until other nations were engaged in the conflict and the United States itself was drawn into it. In seeking to remain aloof from the troubles that engulfed the rest of the world,

One Reward Of Campaign Trail

(Guest writer today, Addison Hewlett, Jr., Democratic Candidate for United States Senate.)

One of the greatest rewards of the long, exhausting hours a candidate for public office must keep is the opportunity it gives him to meet his fellow citizens. The more I see of North Carolinians the more certain I am that the future of our State is secure in their hands.

And the more I see of them, the greater is my conviction that their government should be kept close to them so it will be sensitive to their needs and responsive to their will. Only when Raleigh or Washington becomes a remote, inaccessible place—a name only—to the average citizen are we in trouble.

The ideal government serves as a sort of transformer for the desires of its people. Remove the transformer too far from the home folks, and the currents of their feeling become feeble and faintly heard. The bigger a government grows, the greater the tendency to remoteness.

Our military establishment is a vast enterprise. It has to be so in a tense world. But I am convinced that more efficiency and less waste is not only possible but is necessary in this field. In the past ten years, the government has spent $228 billion for military supplies. And yet, nearly ten per cent of this cost has been declared surplus.

Of the $40 billion in stocks now, $14 billion has been declared in excess of needs. This is 35 per cent of the total stocks, and the glut of surplus materials—larger even than what some politicians call the "farm surplus"—is the direct result of unbusinesslike operations. A business man who turned over his stock only once every two and one-half years would not long remain in business. Yet the military forces have a two and one-half year supply of so-called "housekeeping" items in stock.

It has been estimated that standardizing purchasing would save over a billion dollars a year. Why should the separate military services have differing standards for such common things as blankets and toothpaste, or even for helicopter parts? Why should these services be permitted to continue costly rivalries, even in the field of ballistic missiles?

As a member of the General Assembly, I have had it brought home to me in session after session: taxpayers have the right to demand the greatest mileage possible from each dollar they spend. What is true on the state level should be true in Washington. We cannot afford waste and inefficiency, under whatever guise it comes, and we should not tolerate it.

And, on the subject of taxation, I think the time has come to divide taxation more equitably between the federal and the state governments, and between the state and its political subdivisions. Let that government which renders the service be repaid in taxes, but do not let any government preempt a field of taxation at the expense of another government.

North Carolinians do not have to be told about the farm problem. They live with it every day. It was announced recently that the state's net farming increase in 1959 declined by more than fifteen per cent, to the second lowest point in ten years. It was no news to us. The farmer could tell by examining his equipment dealer could tell by his sales chart—so could the corner grocery store and the downtown shops. This is still mainly a farm state and when farming is jolted the tremors are felt throughout our economy.

I admit to some bias on this subject. The farm down in New Hanover County has been owned by my family for more than 100 years. It irritates me when someone blandly blames the farmer alone for the troubles which beset him. Other industries are applauded for becoming more efficient, but the farmer often is criticized because a fewer number of them are able to produce some of the necessities of life.

Farm surpluses constitute a problem, but I feel that it can be solved. It is a moral as well as an economic dilemma, for while surpluses mount, people in certain parts of the world are starving to death. The late Senator Kerr Scott, soon after he went to Washington, proposed a "World Food Bank" under which our surpluses would have gone to countries in need. These countries would have repaid the loan in kind or in commodities we could use. It seems to be a practical idea.

In some parts of the world, the United States could gain many more lasting friendships by extending a loaf of bread than by offering glittering promises.

I believe it is time for farmers to go on the offensive, instead of retreating. Very properly, we allow the manufacturer to set the price of his products, and we allow labor to bargain for the price of its labor. Is it wrong, then, to say that the folks who put the food on our table are entitled to more sympathetic understanding and help? I do not think so.

Many other problems of varying degrees of complexity confront us. I would not be so presumptuous as to claim I have all the answers. But I do believe that vigorous office-holders at the national level can solve many of them by giving ear to the people, who cannot be heard unless the instrument of their hopes and ambitions is close at hand.

our defenses had been let down, our interest in developing new weapons and devices to be used in war had lagged.

The world now lives in a new era. If war comes again, it will be swift and horrible. Every segment of the world will be vulnerable to attack. Rapid development of events will not allow months or years to launch a development program for weapons, and then more time to transform the program into production schedules. The free world must stand ready to defend itself—perhaps finally as well as initially—upon a moment's notice.

The defense effort of the United States must be re-evaluated in light of this new development in the overall picture of the free world's defenses. Our potential for development and production may not be sufficient if another war should be forced upon the free world. The decisive factor may be what the United States and its allies have on hand when the fateful moment arrives . . . and how well they are able to use what is immediately available.

Hodges Being Pulled Into N. C. Campaign

As the tempo of the state's gubernatorial campaign increases, it becomes more apparent that problems of the Hodges administration will be key issues in the contest, and that Gov. Hodges himself will take a greater part in the campaign picture.

At his news conference this week the governor made what must be considered a tentative endorsement of Candidate Malcolm Seawell, if indeed not an outright endorsement. Asked if his praise for the "way that candidate speaks out favorably on some of the things we are trying to do for the people of North Carolina", were an endorsement of Seawell's candidacy, Gov. Hodges said he would let the statement stand for itself.

Coupled with the governor's criticism for Candidate Terry Sanford at the same news conference, it would appear now that Gov. Hodges has been pulled directly into the gubernatorial campaign. Until this week the governor had said time and again he did not intend to take part in the campaign unless it became necessary for him to defend the policies of his administration.

The course of the campaign so far indicates that it will be necessary for the governor to more frequently defend certain portions of his administration from attacks by some of the candidates. It would not be unlikely, therefore, that the governor in defending policies of his administration will also attack some of the proposals candidates are making. Such was the case in his rebuttal to Sanford's statements concerning the State Highway Commission.

These developments should not be surprising to the people of North Carolina. It has been the exception rather than the rule when a governor of this state did not take part in the campaign to name his successor. In most cases the governor has moved into the campaign arena with a forthright endorsement of one of the candidates in the field.

Whether that will come in the current four-way race for governor remains to be seen. At the moment it appears likely if not assured. In any event Governor Hodges seems to favor to succeed him the man he appointed a superior court judge and later attorney general of the state . . . Malcolm Seawell.

Rockefeller Not Out Of Picture

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP)—Republican party leaders last fall treated Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York like a gate-crasher at an exclusive party where Vice President Richard M. Nixon was the guest of honor.

So out he went, out under his own power. The frigid treatment he got so chilled his presidential ambitions—or at least his enthusiasm for making a race of it against Nixon—that the day after last Christmas he withdrew and left Nixon alone in the field.

What he said and what he left unsaid have to be balanced against each other. He said he was no longer a candidate but he didn't say he would object if the Republicans at their convention this summer decided to draft him.

He made no bones about the way Republicans around the country treated him. The professional Republican politicians, that is, said: "The great majority of those who will control the Republican convention stand opposed to any contest for the nomination."

But that didn't dim what seemed to be his belief he is a better man for the presidency than Nixon. From that day to this he has never once given his backing to Nixon by name.

And now, just as Nixon is running into some small bumps, comes the news that Rockefeller is going to resume his travels among Republicans around the country.

Nixon, who seemed a shoo-in for the Republicans' presidential nomination at their convention, has stayed pretty mum all year, as if speeches and statements on where he stands would be practically unnecessary till the campaign begins.

This was a little reminiscent—but in reverse—of New York's Gov. Thomas E. Dewey in the 1948 presidential race. Dewey did a lot of talking in the pre-convention days that year when he was trying to beat out Robert A. Taft and Harold Stassen for the Republican nomination.

When he finally got it he seemed to believe what the pollsters told him: That he was

Two Birds With One Stone

By HENRY HOWARD

Bounty Hunters Outfoxed

During this past week, the local area has seen wildly-colored Easter rabbits flashing around all over the place.

A local radio station decided to apply spring colors to some of the bunnies and turn them loose to bounty hunters. It seems there was a price on each colored rabbit's head.

Some fancy chases resulted. Over on the court house lawn late Thursday afternoon we were standing lazily around just being and listening to idle gossip, when the "Wanted Dead or Alive" crew swung into violent action.

Standing half-in, half-out of the doorway of one of the Edwards Building offices, we heard toenails clicking-clacking desperately down the sidewalk that runs parallel to the office building.

A split second later, the entourage passed. One of these bunnies came flashing by with three blurred images in hot pursuit.

Momentarily, the bounty hunters cornered the little fugitive against a wall. Then, with a professional-looking head feint, the little ball of fur shot out of the reach of clutching fingers and around the corner.

His swift retaliatory move left his assistants in momentary disarray as they scrambled wildly in three different directions. He glanced back over his shoulder as he leisurely hopped away.

As the hunters reorganized to begin the chase again, a pair of youngsters who had been standing silently by watching, exclaimed: "Did you see that lil' bunny outfox those three old men?"

Greenville's three-stage Easter Egg Hunt for the younger set should have gone off smoothly (?) by the time you read this.

It was to have been a big event with hundreds and hundreds of eggs scattered all over Elm Street Park.

A separate area was set up for each of three age groups. In one area egg hunters would be aged one to five years; another area was for 6-10 year-old youngsters; and the third site for kids 10 and up.

Several observers were wondering the other night how the thousand or more egg-hunting little people would come out of the annual event without being trampled down.

It was pointed out they always got along fine unless the big people got involved. We're wondering how many parents found eggs.

Other Editors Saying... Help For Education bond issue, and another county defeats it. Certainly, there must be divided opinion.

The candidates have talked of what they favor, but none of them has told the people of the state exactly where he proposes to find the money. It may be good politics to talk this way, but sooner or later there is a day of reckoning.

There has been general talk among our people that we might see a tax placed on property in our state. Any candidate who proposed this would have little chance at the polls. It would be bad politics to propose this, and this editor wants it known that this newspaper is opposed to the idea of the state invading a tax field heretofore reserved for cities and counties.

Other ideas are making the rounds such as increasing the sales tax, removing certain exemptions, increasing taxes on other items such as tobacco, increasing income taxes, and other approaches.

Candidates do not like to talk in terms of increasing taxes. But mark our word. We can't realize expanded services in any field without having money to pay for these additional services. We can't reduce taxes and increase services at the same time.

If educational improvements are to be realized, then the taxpayers must pay for these improvements. There is no way around it.

The legislature holds the purse strings. We recognize that fact. But the people pay the taxes. This is for sure.

Bosses Rule In Politics

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
COPYRIGHT, 1960, KING FEATURES SYNDICATE, INC.

The two political parties are not associations in the sense that members attend them and vote as individuals. They are bodies of delegations, chosen by various devices, each state determining the method of selection. Some delegations vote as a body (the unit rule); other delegations are bound, for a number of ballots, to be faithful to a particular candidate; other delegations are unstructured.

Those who attend conventions as delegates are not the greatest men in a particular party—most of those who sit on the platform or in boxes. The delegates are usually party hacks, locally chosen by political leaders either because of their services to the local party organizations or because of their contributions to the party. It is very rare for a delegate to be independent of his party leaders. Whenever a leader wants to, he calls a caucus and there any independent ideas which may beset a delegate are driven out of his mind.

It has often been suggested, but the idea has never been permitted to go far, that voting for candidates in the convention be done by a secret ballot. We elect Presidents, Governors, members of Congress, almost everybody by a secret ballot but at conventions a delegate is voted in public or when each delegate is polled, as it is called, it is by a viva voce vote. This is the delegate gets up and shouts his vote—nowadays over a microphone.

A secret ballot would change the nature of the convention. In the first place, the favorite son gimmick which is a waste of time would probably disappear. The favorite son gimmick has two functions: one, it advertises a Governor or a Senator to the nation and it might possibly give such a person a chance to run for Vice President, although that is not too likely; the other function of this device is that it gives the leadership of a particular delegation an opportunity to bargain for deals.

It will be recalled that in the 1952 Republican Convention when Senator Robert A. Taft and General Eisenhower were contesting for the nomination, the California delegation, pledged to Governor Earl Warren, was known to have decided to hold out to the bitter end for Warren. At one period of the convention before the actual votes started, it looked as though Warren held the balance of power and he was being implored by both sides not to vote for the other. As an instance of captive delegations, reference can be made to Governor John Fine of Pennsylvania, now forgotten politically, who in 1952 was expected to control 20 votes which both sides were seeking. The Governor himself could not be found. He had made his bargain, whatever it was.

The secret ballot would obviate all this. The candidates would be lined up in voting machines and the delegates would vote and the highest man would win. The delegates could then go home and the Bosses would probably drop dead.

Another thing about conventions is the long argument about the platform. These are enormous documents, running to 10,000 or more words, covering every detail of the political, social and economic life of the nation. The platform is usually drawn up by a committee of one representative from each state. Few who serve on such committees know what they are doing. There are sub-committees and some of them hire experts.

The platforms are badly written and badly edited documents. I have recently gone over a dozen of them, covering a long period in our history. On the whole, they are worthless documents, unrealistic, unimpressive, incapable of being implemented, couched in uninspired language. Would it not be simpler if each party drew up a broad statement of principles?

'Brainstorming' By Housewives

By ELMER ROESSNER

Women are greatly irritated by many household products, it was demonstrated by wives of members of the Gas Appliance Manufacturers Association during their convention at White Sulphur Springs, W.Va.

Instead of spending time with cards and cocktails, the wives held a "brainstorm" session with the help of Lee H. Bristol, Jr., of Bristol-Myers, an expert on brainstorming techniques. The 125 women were divided into 12 teams and, uninhibited by criticism or argument, poured out ideas on "What products are not now on the market, or unknown to you, do you think would simplify home management?"

Suggestions ranged from doing something about the shape of ketchup bottles to providing a sheet of magnifying material to make telephone and cook books easier to read; from zippered storm sashes to a way of generating electricity from gas in the home to make appliances independent of plug-in power.

NO-WASTE TOOTHPASTE
Women said they want a toothpaste dispenser that measures automatically and has no loose cap, "childproof" wall paint, a device to remove static electricity from dryer-dried clothes, a built-in bathroom hair dryer, aints that won't change color, disposable oven and broiler liners, and light bulbs that last longer.

Others want hanging, pouring spoons on drug and medicine bottles, a way of connecting the house-heating system to pipes under driveways and sidewalks to melt snow and ice, disposable underwear and socks, and precut suits and dresses.

The GAMA girls said they favor lighting fixtures with pull-out and retractable cords, a no-stain spray for walls, a mildew leather, more one-way glass (mirror one way, transparent the other) for homes, a foolproof spot remover and a safe and efficient home dry-cleaning unit, a dishwasher with shelves that could be transported to the cupboard and better storage for spices.

Why not, the brainstormers asked, narrower sheets for children's twin beds, a good fluorescent paint for house numbers, disposable bibs, a warm air blower for hand-drying, a cheap recorder for home telephone answering service, lower telephone rates for teenagers, a power cleaner to wash and shine windows, a car-wash system for garages, push-button beds that rise and lower for cleaning and making-up and teapoons with measuring marks for "drop" ingredients in cooking mixtures?

MAGNETS FOR SWEEPERS
There was approval for carpet-sweepers with magnets to pick up bobby pins and such, more efficient apparatus for bath infants, a spray that effectively curls hair ends between permanent, a built-in compartment for paint rollers, disposable linings for potties, laundering and cleaning information on all garment labels, better devices for attaching objects to metal surfaces, plastic baseboards for easier cleaning, and pull-down closet rods to help children hang their own clothes.

Other ideas were a second-floor thermostat for remote control of the water heater, easier-to-read numbers on appliances dials, rounded corners for window easings, a good deodorizer for house pets, a suction cup to hold a mixer steady in a bowl, a cleaner for grout in bathroom tiles, a spray for cleaning crystal chandeliers without taking prisms apart, a double training-chair for twins, practical and removable drawer liners, reliable humidity control for heaters, improved rubberboards, and easier-to-clean drain pipes.

Illuminated door knobs, better ice-cube ejectors, an easier way to the children's shoes, a plastic spray to protect furniture, central heating with thermostatic control for each room, clear plastic protection for heavily traveled carpet areas, table outlets for appliances, shields to prevent electric heater accidents, unbreakable coils on electric stoves, automatic shut-off controls for all appliances and less clumsy dining table pads were other ideas of the delegates' wives.

White Sox 'Team To Beat' As AL Opens 1960 Season

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

For the first time in forty years the Chicago White Sox are the team to beat as the American League inaugurates its 1960 season Monday with the traditional opener at Washington.

Some 28,000 are expected to be on hand as President Eisenhower interrupts his vacation to throw out the first ball for the Senators-Boston Red Sox battle. Of equal interest is the appearance of Ted Williams in the Red Sox line-up. The 41-year-old slugger, either because of injury, illness, service hitch or marital problems, has missed the season opener in five of the last seven years.

Camillo Pascual, Washington's best pitcher and considered by some the No. 1 pitcher in the league, is slated to oppose Tom Sturdivant, Pascual (17-10) turned in half of his six lifetime victories over the Red Sox last year. Sturdivant (2-8) has been Boston's hottest pitcher in spring exhibitions.

Approximately 122,000 are expected to attend the four games Tuesday as the entire league probably will be at Cleveland's Municipal Stadium to see young Gary Bell (16-11) oppose Detroit's Jim Bunning (17-13). Around 30,000 will come out to see the White Sox open defense of their American League title against Kansas City. Early Wynn (22-10), the league's only 20-game winner last year, will pit his 40-year-old arm against the A's Bud Daley (16-13) at Chicago.

Cool weather is expected to hold the Boston attendance to around 22,000 for the Red Sox game with the New York Yankees. Jerry Casale (13-8) is the probably Boston starter. Jim Coates (6-1), another right-hander, may get the call from Casey Stengel. Another 30,000 may see Washington help the Orioles ring in the new season at Baltimore. Milt Pappas (15-9), the 21-year-old Oriole star, figures to get the starting nod against Pedro Ramos (13-9).

The White Sox, who haven't been favored to win a pennant since 1920 (when, incidentally, they finished second), appear to have improved themselves the most between seasons. They've added 65 home runs by the acquisition of Minnie Minoso, Gene Freese and Roy Sievers and they've picked up left-handed pitching strength in Don Ferrarese and Frank Baumann. These additions to holdovers Nellie Fox, Luis Aparicio, Sherm Lollar, Ted Kluszewski and the pitching headed by Wynn and Buck Shaw make then a solid choice to repeat.

General Manager Frank Lane has made 60 changes since he look over the Indians in 1957, but the big noise of the spring training season has been an unheralded 22-year-old rookie outfielder named Walter Bond. If the 6-7, 233-pound newcomer is no "morning glory" and proves his 407 exhibition game batting record is no fluke, preseason appraisals of the Indians will have to be revised.

The Yankees have a solid team except for pitching. Stengel has been experimenting with young pitchers all spring. Veteran Whitey Ford has been fair, but Bob Turley has had a wretched spring. It looks like Coates and newcomers Bill Short and Johnny James will have to take up the slack. If they do it, the Yankees could be tough.

Detroit has the same team and the same problems. The Tigers are hopeful that Steve Bilko and Chico Fernandez can solve their problems at first and short, respectively. The Big Four of Frank Lary, Jim Bunning, Paul Foytack and Don Missi should make the Tigers respectable.

Boston is bound to miss Jackie Jensen and Sammy White.

Baltimore is committed to a youth program. Fali Richards has a number of remarkable young pitchers and pretty good defense, but he lacks power.

Kansas City has a strong outfield, a weak infield and erratic pitching.

Washington hasn't much aside from Pascual, Ramos and slugger Harmon Killebrew, Bob Allison and Jim Lemon.

Sand Snead Again Shares Lead In Greensboro Open

By KEN ALTYA

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP)—There was an old familiar look to the standings as the $17,500 Greater Greensboro Open golf tournament moved in today's third round.

Sam Snead, a frisky 47-year-old who has won this tournament six times since he took its inaugural in 1938, shared the 36-hole lead with Dow Finsterwald at 134. Snead, from White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., had a 66 and Finsterwald, from Tequesta, Fla., a 67 yesterday. They were eight-under-par for two rounds over the 6,651-yard Starmount Forest Country Club course. One stroke back was Bob Goaly of Crystal River, Fla., who shot a 66.

The three represented eight Greensboro championships. In addition to the six taken by Snead, Finsterwald won last year and Goaly the year before, his only major PGA circuit victory.

It took a score of 149 or better to survive the 36-hole cut and 62 pros made the grade for the last two days of scrambling for the top money of $2,400 and 29 other prizes.

In fourth place at 137 was Len Woodward of Sydney, Australia. Next came first round leader Thorne Wood of Asheboro, N.C., and Gary Player of Johannesburg, South Africa, tied at 138.

Alone in seventh place at 139 was Kel Nagle, also from Sydney. The 39-year-old Australian Open and PGA champion had a 65, best score of the tournament, including a closing 6-under-par 30, the best nine of the tournament.

Snead has made only two bogeys, each on the par four first hole.

The course was manhandled by the field of 128 Friday as 13 men shot in the 60s.

Only seven men broke par Friday on the difficult front nine, which has five exceptionally tough holes at the start. There were 57 sub-par back nines.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — General Manager Bing Devine is angry and impatient with the slow-starting St. Louis Cardinals and has issued a "win or else" ultimatum to his players.

Devine's bite could be as bad as his bark.

The 43-year-old front office boss flew to Los Angeles after the Red Birds dropped their first two at San Francisco, getting only three hits each game.

Then he suffered through a 3-2 setback to the Dodgers Thursday night. The Cards squandered nine hits with poor base running and the winning run scored on a wild pitch in the last of the ninth.

"I'm mad," blurted the usually mild-mannered Devine. "I just hope the club is as mad as I am."

Devine then warned his athletes "three could be player changes."

St. Louis lost 14 of its first 17 in 1958 and 13 of its first 17 last season. Devine said he didn't think it possible the club could go through another horrible start.

"Just by showing up," he said, "I thought we'd be better."

Devine made it clear he doesn't blame Manager Solly Hemus — "I couldn't be more emphatic about that."

But he made it just as clear he doesn't intend to sit back and let the early slump run its course. The Cards won 18, lost 8 in spring training and Devine's trade moves obviously had improved the club's power and pitching.

"I won't buy the theory that we're playing tougher teams at the start," Devine said. "So are the Cubs and they're 2-1, aren't they?"

Hemus will send Dodger-killer Larry Jackson against the Dodgers tonight, opposing Don Drysdale, who struck out 14 in winning the season opener. Jackson has beaten the Dodgers 12 times in 17 career decisions.

Solly felt deeply the third straight defeat. He fired his dressing and shaving cream in his dressing room. The frustrated manager had inserted Curt Flood for defensive purposes in center-field late in the game. Flood promptly, according to Hemus, played Gil Hodges' fly ball into a game-tying triple.

"If that's baseball, I'm a chinaman," Solly growled.

Cards' General Manager Angry; Has Ultimatum

WILSON, N.C. (AP) — Everything is in readiness for the Carolina League's 16th consecutive year. The six teams in the Class B circuit are awaiting the gong next week.

Born at the height of World War II, the Carolina launches a 140-game split-season on Tuesday night. It still has five charter members from the original starting field which formed the league at Durham, Oct. 29, 1944.

They are Winston-Salem, Greensboro, Burlington, Raleigh and Durham. The sixth club, Wilson, came into the fold in 1956.

The six members drew 322,678 paid customers last summer for the 130-game regular season, only 2,795 fewer than the same clubs drew the year before.

But President Bill Jessup, who has headquarters here, predicts the 1960 attendance will top last year's. "I don't recall the interest being shown all around the league topping what it is now," he said. "Every club reports renewed interest in baseball and I look for another banner season."

Opening games Tuesday night send Raleigh's defending pennant winners to Wilson, Durham to Burlington and Winston-Salem to Greensboro. The same pairings find the teams switching sites for the second round openers on Wednesday night as Raleigh, Durham and Winston-Salem play at home.

Sprinter Dave Sime Believes He Is Now About Ready Olympic Games

QUANTICO, Va. (AP) — Dave Sime, who set two world sprint records four years ago and has been trying to get back in shape ever since, thinks he's ready for the Olympics this year.

The big redhead came out of Duke in 1956 and set world records in both the 220 yards and 200 meters (both 20 flat), then was stricken with a series of leg ailments.

He's been fighting them off since. In 1956 he broke down in the final of the Olympic Trials. Despite the two world records he never has won a national title.

"Only three weeks ago, I thought I was really jinxed," said Sime today while waiting for the final of the 100 meters in the Quantico Relays. "I jammed my left foot through a board track and was afraid I was hurt. But it's OK."

Friday in his heat of the 100 meters. Sime started the long road back by winning in 10.4 seconds. That was good enough to equal the qualifying standard for the Olympics. Now all he has to do is finish in the first three in the official tryouts in July and he can pick up his ticket to Rome.

"I'm 15 pounds under what I weighed as an undergraduate," he said. "Now I come in at 175 pounds. Most of the weight has come off my legs and I think that's what was bothering me."

At any rate, I feel real good now and I'm going to do all the running I can to get in top shape."

The Quantico Relays is the first Eastern outdoor meet and for the first time since it was inaugurated in 1956, the rains stayed away.

The good weather helped the runners. All told, seven meet records were broken.

The 440-yard relay record was cut down twice in the heats. First, Morgan State hit the tape in 41.9, taking two-tenths of a second off Winston-Salem's mark of last year.

In the next heat, North Carolina College, with Bob Dobbs, Lou Seaton, Walter Johnson and Vance Robinson lugging the baton got under the wire in 41.7. The same team—with Joe Goodwater running in place of Seaton—whipped to a 1:25.4 in the half-mile relay, erasing the 1:27.5 standard set last year by Winston-Salem.

Thai Fighter Is Title Winner

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Pone Kingpetch of Thailand, his left eye battered shut, won the world flyweight boxing championship today on a split decision from Pascual Perez of Argentina after 15 bloody rounds.

Perez, who had held the title since 1954, weighed 112, Pone 110 1/2.

It was the vote of Nat Fleischer of New York, world boxing authority that crowned the Thai fighter. Referee Lorenzo Torrealba voted for Perez, 145 to 143. Torrealba is from Argentina. Judge Wong Hiranleka of Bangkok, rated the challenger ahead, 148-137. Fleischer also voted for Pone, 146-140.

More than 30,000 Thai fighters, playing flutes and banging gongs, crowded around the ring for the bout which had been delayed two weeks to give the Argentine more time to get acclimated to Bangkok's steamy climate. Among the spectators, sitting in a gold and blue box, were the King and Queen of Thailand.

The flyweight championship belt was placed in a golden Buddha bowl on a table at ringside as the fight began.

Perez kept up a steady stream of short punches and kept close to his taller and younger opponent most of the way. Pone's long reach was his best weapon. He punished his foe with heavy smashes to the head during the late rounds.

WIND UP TRAINING

BOZEMAN, Mont. (AP) — Both champion Gene Fullmer and challenger Joey Giardello plan to wind up training today for their 10 p.m. (EST) Wednesday middleweight title bout in the Montana State College fieldhouse.

Sweep Series

HICKORY — East Carolina's Pirates moved into first place in the North State Conference baseball standings, as they swept the two games of a double-header from Appalachian yesterday.

In the first game, All-NAIA Larry Crayton hurled four-hit ball to lead his Bucaneer teammates to a 13-0 win. Jimmy Martin, Buc first sacker, was the big man at the bat in the initial game, collecting his first home run of the season.

Nathan Greene pitched the traveling Pirates to their second win over the Mountaineers, 11-2. This was Greene's first appearance in a starting role for the East Carolina aggregation. Big Gary Pierce, last year's North State batting champ, was the big gun for the Pirates as he smashed a home run over 400 feet into left center, also collecting two singles to pace the EC win.

The Pirates meet Catawba this afternoon in Salisbury. Johnny Elen has been designated as the starting hurler.

East Carolina's record in conference stands thus far at 4-0.

Weatherly Wins In Hickory 250

HICKORY, N.C. (AP) — Joe Weatherly of Norfolk, Va., won the Hickory 250 Grand National stock car race Friday night in the record time of one hour, 30 minutes and 26 seconds.

Weatherly recovered from an early spinout to win his first race in more than a year. Driving a 1960 Ford, Weatherly averaged 66.35 miles per hour for the 100-mile race. He won $800.

Second was Ned Jarrett of Newton in a 1960 Ford to win $525. Dick Petty of Randleman driving a 1960 Plymouth was third; Bob Welborn of Atlanta who was reeled by Jack Smith of Spartanburg, S.C., was fourth in a 1960 Chevrolet and Tom Pistone of Chicago was fifth in a 1959 Chevrolet.

Injured Boxer Is Still Critical

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Attendants at University Hospital reported early today that the condition of Wisconsin boxer Charlie Mohr was still very critical.

Mohr, of Merrick, N.Y., has been unconscious since he suffered a brain injury in the NCAA boxing tournament bout last Saturday.

Mauch Scoffs At Predictions Of Running Last

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — "What happens from now on is what counts," says Gene Mauch, new manager of the Philadelphia Phillies. Thus he scoffs at pre-season predictions the team will finish last in the National League.

The 34-year-old Californian arrived Friday and said he expected the Phillies to play winning baseball.

But in his first start with the Reds, McIlsh, admittedly a slow starter, who has trouble getting his trademark breaking stuff under control, was shelled for five hits, all for extra bases, and five runs in 2 2-3 innings for a 13-0 defeat at Pittsburgh.

A year ago, McIlsh won his first five decisions with the Indians and four were complete games. Only twice last year did he fail to last three innings, as he did against the Pirates.

The Cardinals, who ran up the top spring exhibition record (18-8), have had even a more sluggish start than McIlsh. They've missed three times, the only club in the league without a victory.

Right-hander Larry Jackson, who lost the opener at San Francisco, goes again tonight for the Cards at Los Angeles. Right-hander Don Drysdale, an opening game winner, will work for the Dodgers, who are tied for first with the Chicago Cubs and Giants.

A full, four-game schedule is in the works today for the NL after Friday's Good Friday lull.

The Giants, working Sam Jones with three days rest so he can come back against the Dodgers next week, resume their series with the Cubs against right-hander Dick Drott (0-0). Right-hander Bob Buhl makes his 1960 debut for Milwaukee at Philadelphia. The Phils, with Manager Gene Mauch making his debut as Eddie Sawyer's successor, will go with John Buzhardt (0-0), late of the Cubs.

Cincinnati, pitching young Jay Hook (0-0), is at Pittsburgh against Rookie Jim Umbricht (0-0) in the other game.

The American League, scheduled to get its late opener out of the way Monday with Boston at Washington, plays its next-to-last exhibition round today. It's Boston vs. New York at Yankee stadium, Chicago vs. Cleveland at Mobile, Kansas City vs. Detroit at West Palm Beach, Fla., Baltimore vs. Richmond at the International

Cincinnati's Cal McIlsh Is 'Question' After Shelling

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

As the National League rolls into its first weekend today every club has lost once and the most pressing questions of the moment are:

Can Cal McIlsh be a winner in the NL?

And, what's with the St. Louis Cardinals?

It was McIlsh, a husky right-hander with a skinny 8-21 record in the NL through 1951, who went square and became an ace in the American League with Cleveland after a four-year stay in the minors. He had a 46-27 record in four years with the Injuns, when they traded him to the Cincinnati Reds after he won 19 games last season.

But in his first start with the Reds, McIlsh, admittedly a slow starter, who has trouble getting his trademark breaking stuff under control, was shelled for five hits, all for extra bases, and five runs in 2 2-3 innings for a 13-0 defeat at Pittsburgh.

Easter Assembly Is Held At Rose High

By CRAIG WORTHINGTON
The Rose High Student Cooperative Association presented its annual Easter assembly yesterday morning in the school gymnasium.

Jeanette Taylor, senior, introduced David Nobles, freshman, who read the Easter Story from the Bible.

Then the Glee Club, under the direction of Miss Ona Shindler, rendered two a cappella numbers, "Early In The Morning" (McCormick) and "God So Loved The World" (Stainer).

The speaker for the assembly was the Rev. W. M. Howard Jr. of the Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church here in Greenville. Mr. Howard's talk concerned the meaning of Easter. He gave the various myths concerning the naming of Easter and told some of the most noted Easter customs.

He also explained Lent, Holy Week, and the observances of Palm Sunday and Good Friday. Orren E. Dowd, principal, closed the assembly after introducing two former Rose High teachers, Miss Frances Lamb and Miss "Pick," who were on vacation from their home in Florida.

Mrs. Nell C. Everett, English instructor, advises the group.

Students Attend Meeting

As a part of observing National Library Week, five Rose High student librarians attended the state convention of the North Carolina High School Library Association last weekend.

Sherby Everett, Susan Laughter, William Allen, Charles Forbes and Johnny Reynolds, accompanied by Mrs. Margaret Farley, their adviser, attended the convention in the King Cotton Hotel in Greensboro.

The highlight of the afternoon's program was a report, "Our Experiences as Delegates to the Golden Anniversary White House Conference on Children and Youth," given by the state president, Pat Adams, and the immediate past president.

The evening assembly included a banquet and then a dance with floorshow. Dillard Gardner, Librarian, North Carolina Supreme Court, spoke on "Look" at the banquet.

The morning's assembly included a breakfast for advisers after which the members again met in the hotel. This was the business session, including the reports of officers, election of officers, and committee reports. Pat Adams, outgoing president, installed the new officers.

After announcements, the Executive Board members, past and present, met for a luncheon. The committees working during the convention included the elections, resolutions, constitution, and scholarship committees.

Hosts for the convention were Greensboro Senior High School Library Club and Curry High School Library Club.

Publish Book Reports
Mrs. Margaret Farley, Library Club adviser, announced this week that book reviews in the state Library Club booklet, "The Tarheel Binder," were written by two Rose High girls, Ross Clark and Barbara McRoy.

RECRUITER'S HOURS

Master Sergeant John C. Holler, Army Recruiter for the Pitt County Area, announced today he will be in the Post Office building in Greenville on Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Fridays between the hours of 8:00 a.m. and 5:00 p.m. He will be in the office on Saturdays between the hours of 8:00 a.m. and noon.

Club Will Give Encyclopedia Set

Fifteen members of the Greenville Exchange Club announced last night they will go to Oxford April 24 to present the Oxford Orphanage with a full encyclopedia set.

The local group will be luncheon guests of the orphanage on the presentation date. The gift is made possible by the National Exchange which provides any local club may donate a set of books to any privately-supported educational institution.

John Hassell and Chick Newell are co-chairman of the presentation committee.

Last night's program featured a film—"Political Parties"—that pointed out the advantages of the U. S. two-party system of politics. The film was introduced by Exchangeite Bruce Koonce.

Pres. Ray Minges presided and reminded Exchangeites the next club meeting will be held jointly with the Chamber of Commerce's annual supper meeting Friday at 7 p.m. in the East Carolina College cafeteria.

Franklin Brown and Norman Garrison were guests of the club.

Pitt Man Wins Peanut Award

ROCKY MOUNT — J. W. Tripp of Edgecombe County, a Pitt County native, was awarded third cash prize here Monday night for growing 2,810 pounds of peanuts per acre on his 8.9-acre allotment.

Edgecombe's top peanut growers were honored at a special awards meeting here. Awards were given by Edgecombe merchants.

Top cash award and trophy went to J. D. Wordsworth of Rocky Mount for his average of 2,970 pounds of goobers per acre on 18.1 acres.

Tripp moved to Edgecombe County in January, 1954. Prior to leaving Greenville, he was an employe at Blount-Harvey.

Attend 2-Day ASC Meeting

Pitt County ASC Office Manager Wayne L. Wang, county Committeeman A. Poe Worthington, and four more ASC office employes attend the two-day quarterly meeting for ASC personnel in New Bern Tuesday and Wednesday.

Twenty-six counties of Eastern North Carolina were represented at the conference. The meetings are held each quarter for the purpose of better acquainting ASC personnel with procedures and to discuss changes in operations. All sessions are conducted by representatives of the ASC's state headquarters.

Others attending the meeting from the Pitt County office were: Livingston Roberts, chief clerk; Kenneth Allen, performance clerk; Lillie Mae Gardner, administrative clerk; and Elise Hannah, performance clerk.

Moose Buffet

Noted Musician To Be At ECC Piano Clinic

One of this country's most distinguished musicians will participate in a piano clinic to be held Monday and Tuesday, May 2-3, at East Carolina College. Dr. Rudolph Ganz, president emeritus of Chicago Musical College, will act as guest clinician at the meeting.

A number of teachers and students of piano in the state are expected to be present for a two-day program arranged by Dr. Robert Carter of the East Carolina department of music. All events will take place in the Choral Room of Whitchard Music Hall.

Student pianists will perform individually for Dr. Ganz on Monday. He will discuss these performances and the compositions played at sessions for both teaching and students.

Tuesday's program will be devoted to performance and discussion by Dr. Ganz of piano materials included on the 1961 Contest List of the National Guild of Piano Teachers.

Dr. Ganz is former conductor of the St. Louis Symphony, Conductor of both New York Philharmonic Orchestra and San Francisco Symphony Orchestra Young People's Concert for ten years; conductor of Children's Concert for the Chicago Symphony Orchestra. He is composer of many piano compositions, and orchestral and vocal works.

As a pianist, he is internationally known and has appeared in concert in principal cities of this country and Europe.

Service Of A Community 4-H Club

FINISHING TOUCHES . . . are being made to the dress to be entered in the Dress Revue by Carolyn Savage, left, as Catherine Edwards looks on. Carolyn and Catherine are members of the Bethany Club.

PIN-UP LAMPS . . . were made during an electric workshop by Mary Newton, left, Nettie Faye Sumlin, John Moore, Jimmy Dilda and Parmie Moore, junior leader, members of the Busy Beavers Club.

By ROSALIE MOORE
Reflector Staff Writer

What is a Community 4-H Club? It is a group of boys and girls, 10-21 years of age, organized on a neighborhood or community basis. The clubs are led by adult leaders. They meet once each month and the meetings are held by the leaders and are in addition to the school 4-H Club meetings held by the Extension Agents.

The purpose of a community 4-H Club is to serve a community that does not have a club and to supplement the regular or monthly meeting of the school club. A closer relationship is provided between the leaders and members through community clubs.

There are approximately 100 boys and girls in the five clubs in Pitt County.

The clubs and the leaders are: Winterville - Greenville, Mrs. Wiley Waters; Bethany, Mrs. Norman Savage; Bell, Mrs. Albert Bell; Red Oak, Mrs. Clarence Little, Mrs. Jarvis Allen and Mrs. J. T. Manning, Jr.; and Busy Beavers, Mrs. Alton Moore.

Junior leaders for two of the clubs are Parmie Moore, Busy Beavers and Lil Dilda of the Bell Club.

The first club organized was the Winterville-Greenville Club 10 years ago. Next was the Bethany, while Bell and Busy Beavers are only three years old. The Red Oak Club was begun in 1959.

The community 4-H club members have the same requirements as the school 4-H Clubs.

The demonstrations are planned by the home economics agents. Leader training schools or individual visits are provided by the agents to train the adult leaders to give the demonstrations. Here in Pitt County, the Extension Agents give the demonstrations in two of the clubs.

The adult leaders are chosen by the boys and girls and people in the community, with the approval of the agents.

At the beginning of the school year, members of the Winterville-Greenville Club started a safety program as a club project. This project includes safety in the club, community and county.

As a part of the project, the club members are correcting hazards in the home, on the farm and in the communities. Some of these include, careful driving, cleaning out medicine cabinets and burning trash in an enclosed container or enclosure. Carolyn Barnes is chairman of the program.

An enriched corn meal program is now being held at the local clubs. A county-wide muffin bake-off contest will be held later in the spring as a part of this program.

In North Carolina, the law requires all white bread, flour, degermed corn meal and grits, milled or sold in the state, to be enriched; but the law does not cover the majority of corn meal used. This can be a serious problem as 50 per cent of the people in North Carolina eat corn meal or grits every day.

The purpose of this activity is to encourage 4-H Club and Community Club members and their families to use enriched corn meal.

Summer activities of the clubs include regular meetings during the summer months and a picnic.

A BAKING PRACTICE . . . for the corn meal muffin bake-off contest to be held later this spring, is held by Kathy and Gayle Little and Nancy Pate, members of the Red Oak Club.

BASKETS FOR . . . needy families were prepared at Christmas by the Winterville-Greenville Club, Hill Whichard, Carolyn Barnes, Monroe Waters and Tommy Langston.

To Participate In Conference

Cynthia Anne Mendenhall, recreation supervisor of the College Union at East Carolina College, will participate in the Thirty-seventh International Conference of the Association of College Unions at Indiana University, Bloomington, April 24-27.

This year's conference theme, "The Union's Part in the University's Education Program," reflects the purpose of college unions to train students in citizenship, social responsibility, and democratic leadership.

Stamp Machine Is In Disgrace

DETROIT (AP) — The post office here has put a talking stamp machine in solitary for cheating. The machine was installed in May, 1956. When customers put in a coin and set the dials for the stamps they wanted, the machine returned change and, via tape recording, tanked the customers.

But last winter mail clerks noticed the machine was repeating itself, becoming too profuse in its thanks. It even talked to itself when there were no customers in sight.

Emile Asa, post office administrative assistant, turned off the voice.

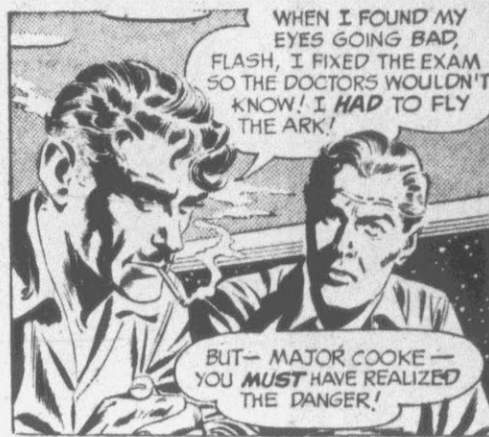

Last week there were many complaints that the machine was shortchanging customers a penny on every purchase. Now the machine has been shut off completely and stashed away in a box.

The factory in Milwaukee has been asked for parts to put the mechanical clerk back in shape.

The PHANTOM

By Lee Falk and Wilson McCoy

WE CAN'T STAY HERE. IT'S A HUNDRED MILES DOWN-RIVER TO THE SEA! WE'LL WALK!

WITH THE WHOLE JUNGLE AGAINST US?

THEIR BOAT GONE - THE RIVER PIRATES ARE A DESPERATE GROUP OF MEN.

WE'LL FIGHT OUR WAY THRU! WE GOT THE GUNS - AND THE DOUGH! LEAVE THOSE GUYS! THEY CAN'T WALK -

THE CATS'LL GET 'EM!

FATS - DON'T LEAVE US -

GUYS, YOU CAN'T STRAND US!

GET GOIN'! WE GOTTA SAVE OUR OWN NECKS!

THOSE PIRATES WOULD DESERT THEIR OWN MOTHERS.

WE CAN'T LEAVE THESE MEN! WE'LL CARRY THEM TO THE NEAREST VILLAGE.

REACHING THE VILLAGE - THE PHANTOM STARTS A MESSAGE -

CARE FOR THESE CRIMINALS AND GUARD THEM.

IT'S HIM!

THE TOM-TOM MESSAGE IS PICKED UP AND RELAYED.

WILL BRING RIVER PIRATES TO JUSTICE... PHANTOM...

WE'RE NOT BAD OFF. NO COPS IN THIS JUNGLE! WE'LL MAKE IT!

LISTEN - TOM-TOMS - COMING FROM ALL SIDES!

Handy Hobby For City Policeman

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—County officers had a honey of a case but they were happy to turn it over to a city policeman. It was easy for Police Sgt. W. F. Robertson to solve. He just scooped a swarm of bees off a rural mailbox into a hive he keeps for such emergencies. Robertson has kept bees as a hobby for 15 years.

BLONDIE

PAUL GALICCO'S Bestseller TOO MANY GHOSTS

CHAPTER 8
Hero turned to the confused and angry group standing in the midst of the chaotic room and said, "Sorry for being somewhat highbanded about this, but it is necessary for me to speak with you all privately about the condition of this room."

Lord Paradine remarked testily, "Well, the others have gone now. What is it?"
Hero said, "I will ask you all to look at this room again—its condition and the position of the various things in it—but with different eyes."

Paradine, who was badly rattled, shouted, "I should think it was as plain as the nose on your face what's happened—some thief has been in here and turned everything out, and when I lay my hands on him—"

The force of his words, coupled with the shock of the humiliation she had suffered, suddenly was too much for Susan Marshall.

"I'll break his neck," Mark Paradine concluded for him, and looked as though he would.

Hero watched the group for a moment with his intelligent and observant eyes, and suddenly felt himself filled with a conviction, as his gaze rested a moment upon Lady Paradine and he noted her expression, a conviction that he felt must be utterly ridiculous, and yet there it was. "Why," he said to himself, "she doesn't care—she doesn't care one single bit. But Isobel does—Isobel cares very much."

"It isn't a theory," Hero said, "it is a fact. Lord Paradine just used the phrase 'turned out.' The phrase is correct, only the context is wrong. There has not been a search for anything. It is not so much the belongings, it is Miss Marshall herself who is being literally turned out of her room."

Hero asked, "Does anyone here know why someone would wish Miss Marshall to leave, and who might take this means of making the point?"

"What?" Lord Paradine roared. "Why, that's ridiculous!" "I think you can safely forget that idea, Hero," Sir Richard said, and he was angry too.

Hero said smoothly, "I was coming to that next. To the knowledge of anyone here, is there any reason why any entity or super-normal being of any kind should concentrate its malevolence upon Miss Marshall?"

"You forget," remarked the young man emitted a groan of exasperation. "For heaven's sake, Susan, be reasonable. Would I want you to leave when I'm so in love with you that I'd go out of my mind if something were to happen to you?"

Hero said smoothly, "I was coming to that next. To the knowledge of anyone here, is there any reason why any entity or super-normal being of any kind should concentrate its malevolence upon Miss Marshall?"

"Then stop bullying me," Susan said, "and being so British. All you British bully your women, and they curtsy meekly and say, 'La sir, and do what you tell them. Well—I don't.' Mark's skin turned close to the red of his hair. 'Oh no, you don't,' he said, 'not you. I noticed you jumped fast enough when Hero cracked the whip.'"

Hero said smoothly, "I was coming to that next. To the knowledge of anyone here, is there any reason why any entity or super-normal being of any kind should concentrate its malevolence upon Miss Marshall?"

"Why, of course! I can see it now—all the bedclothes removed, everything taken out of my closet and bureau drawers—"

Hero said smoothly, "I was coming to that next. To the knowledge of anyone here, is there any reason why any entity or super-normal being of any kind should concentrate its malevolence upon Miss Marshall?"

Books & Stuff

By DR. ED HIRSHBERG
In addition to April 15, this month has many more important dates—especially to southerners. . . . Exactly 99 years ago last Tuesday—April 12, 1861, to be exact—the Confederates started the War between the States by firing on Fort Sumter. Four years later, almost to the day—April 9, 1865—General Lee surrendered to General Grant at Appomattox. And five days later—on April 14, 1865—John Wilkes Booth shot President Lincoln in Ford's Theatre, Washington. . . . April 12 also is an important anniversary for another great president—Franklin D. Roosevelt died at Warm Springs, Ga., on that date 15 years ago—1945, a few short months before World War II ended.

Another April date to remember around these parts will be Saturday, the 30th, which we suggest should be called Ovid Pierce Day. His second novel—already hailed before publication as an important work—will be released by Doubleday on that day in a series of special events sponsored jointly by the publishers and the Greenville Woman's Club as the main feature of Greenville's Community Arts Festival. The title is "On A Lonesome Porch" and we will be reviewing it in this column on the 29th or 30th, to coincide with the Big Day. . . . In other parts of the country, publication date for Mr. Pierce's novel will be May 13. . . .

Reminder
Last week we told you about Rocky Mount's Fine Arts Festival, which goes on over next weekend, starting April 21 with a concert by the North Carolina Symphony Orchestra, at the High School Auditorium at 8 p.m. We'd also like to add that the soloist at this concert will be a citizen of Greenville—Wolfgang Fetsch of the ECC Music Department, who will play Grieg's A-Minor Concerto. . . . Other activities at the Rocky Mount Festival—to which we're all cordially invited—include a sidewalk art show on Saturday and Sunday and an "Evening of Ballet" on Saturday evening, the 23rd, also at eight at the High School.

Heritage Bargain
Bruce Catton, who knows more and has written more about the Civil War than anybody else in the country, will climax his efforts with the publication early next fall of the American Heritage "Picture History of the Civil War." In addition to his narrative, the book will be completely unique because nearly half of it will consist of full-color reproductions of many pictures that have never been seen before. The Heritage people are putting out an initial publishing investment of about $2,000,000—quite a chunk if you want to reserve your copy at a saving, you can do it before April 30 by letting Heritage know—the price now is $14.50 a copy. After publication it will be $19.95.

Local Scene
Coming events: Most important, in our book, is the appearance here of Dr. Frank Graham, former President of UNC and one of Tarheel's greatest citizens. Now a high official with the UN, he will lecture at Austin Auditorium on Monday evening, April 25. We had the privilege of meeting and talking with him last summer, and we'll take this opportunity of telling one and all that he will be well worth hearing. His lecture is open to the public, under the auspices of the Danforth Foundation, so you're all invited. This past week's showing of "Wild Strawberries," the first of Ingmar Bergman's films we've ever seen, was to us an astounding experience. We thank the local cinema for bringing it—and hope more of Bergman can be seen here. Particularly recommended: "The Seventh Seal" and "Smiles of a Summer Night."

Today's Review
One of our capable faculty-wife reviewers comments on a recent novel about a disaster at sea. . . .

"WHEN THE SHIP SANK," By James MacGregor. New York: Doubleday & Co., 1959. The very thought of a passenger ship being torpedoed and sunk at sea is enough to send the shivers down the spine of the most stalwart soul. But the novel "When the Ship Sank" will send similar shivers down the literary spine of even a novice critic.

This is a story of the British ship Flavia, torpedoed by a German submarine just a few hours after declaration of World War II, and of her passengers who so needlessly perished. Author James MacGregor has attempted to give characterization to a few of the passengers, and lend insight into their behavior when the ship sank, but to the reader they remain more puppet-like than human. The reader does not feel the horror, nor the breathtaking suspense which the situation merits. Perhaps Mr. MacGregor has concerned the reader with too many people, for they remain a hodge-podge, rather than folk with definite identities. One simply does not feel well enough acquainted with any of them to share the intimacy of death, or even existence in a lifeboat sans clothes!

Somehow the author has missed giving reality to his characters (with the possible exception of one gruesome individual who tore the life jacket from a young girl who could not swim). . . . When the rescue ship is torpedoed and the again exhausted survivors again thrown into a merciless sea, you too may count the number of pages until the end.

Christ Jesus' teachings about the indestructible relationship of God and man will be emphasized Sunday at Christian Science services. Highlighting the Lesson-Sermon on the subject "Doctrine of Atonement" is the Golden Text from I John (2:1): "If any man sin, we have an advocate with the Father, Jesus Christ the righteous." Readings from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy will include the following (18:1-5): "Atonement is the exemplification of man's unity with God, whereby man reflects divine Truth, Life, and Love. Jesus of Nazareth taught and demonstrated man's oneness with the Father, and for this we owe him endless homage." The closing Scriptural selection to be read is from John (3:17): "For God sent not his Son into the world to condemn the world; but that the world through him might be saved."

His Goal Was To Be Remembered
DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Immortality is the goal of many, but each person attempts to achieve it in a different way. A 19th Century house was being torn down here recently when among the falling nails, plaster, timbers and boards workmen found a note. Harry Jackson, a workman at the scene, picked it up and read it. The note said: "When you take this impost out please take notice of this paper, and think of Francis L. Merrimert, a carpenter (who) worked for Jacob A. Day in the year 1870 in Dayton, Ohio."

Too Cold For Burglars, Too
PIERRE, S.D. (AP) — Apparently crooks don't like the winter weather in South Dakota. Long winter nights normally attract burglars. But evidently crooks find slogging through snow and braving icy winds unpleasant, says Rol Kebach, chief state criminal agent. He says that could be why this state runs exactly counter to the nation's seasonal pattern of crime. South Dakota's crimes occur more in the summer.

RESUME NEGOTIATIONS
TOKYO (AP) — After a 10-month lapse, Japan and South Korea today, resumed negotiations aimed at re-establishing diplomatic relations between the two countries.
