

President DeGaulle Flies Into Washington To Begin Summit-Planning Session

WASHINGTON (AP)—French President Charles de Gaulle flew into Washington today to receive a warm welcome from President Eisenhower, and open four days of summit strategy talks. He is expected to make a new bid for a bigger French voice in Allied decisions on global strategy in the conflict with Soviet communism, but not to press the point particularly in his talks with the President. Eisenhower personally headed the welcoming party which waited in a warm sun at National Airport as De Gaulle's special Air France flight from Toronto, Canada, came in.

New Civil Rights Law Only Needs Official Signing

WASHINGTON (AP)—Only President Eisenhower's signature—certain to be forthcoming—now is required to put into force a new law empowering federal court referees to help Negroes obtain the right to vote. The House completed legislative action on the 1960 civil rights bill Thursday with a 289-95 roll call vote accepting Senate amendments to the measure the House had passed earlier. If he wants to take that long, the President has 10 days in which to act, but the administration's mind obviously is already made up.

Lyndon Johnson Comes Close To 'Announcing'

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.) moved closer today to the moment when he will join fellow senators in admitted quest of the Democratic presidential nomination. Johnson almost did it here Thursday and it was plain to all present at a news conference that the tall, tanned Senate majority leader will be—and is—a candidate for the big job. "I have served my country in every capacity in which I have been asked to serve," the Texan said. "I would not shrink my responsibility."

Sheriff Reports No Findings

Sheriff Ruel W. Tyson reported "no new developments" today in the case of a Stokes town woman who was choked and her house burned Wednesday night. "We are still working and checking on it," the sheriff said this morning. However, he indicated there was no new information which he could divulge. Mrs. Letha Bonner told officers yesterday that two persons entered her house Wednesday night after she retired for the evening and choked her with a towel. She said she managed to get out of the house and hide behind some bushes until the intruders left. Then she drove to a neighbor's home and was brought to Pitt Memorial Hospital. In the meantime her house burned to the ground. Mrs. Bonner, who had bruises on her neck, is in good condition at Pitt Memorial Hospital. The sheriff's department is being assisted by an FBI agent in its investigation of the case.

Supreme Court Decision Of 1946 Frees Students In Trespass Case

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—A 1946 decision of the U. S. Supreme Court that "ownership does not always mean absolute dominion" brought freedom today for 43 Negro student demonstrators charged with trespass. The 43 were arrested in February on the sidewalk in Raleigh's privately owned Cameron Village Shopping Center while attempting to stage a lunch counter demonstration in an F. W. Woolworth store. Four of the 43 students went on trial in Wake Superior Court yesterday, but at the close of testimony their lawyers moved for a dismissal, citing the Supreme Court case in an Alabama case. Superior Court Judge Jack Hooks upheld the motion today after solicitor Lester V. Chalmers conceded that under the Supreme Court decision the state "cannot get along with this case" and the matter ought not to be submitted to the jury.

In the Alabama case, the U.S. Supreme Court reversed the conviction of a woman who was passing out religious literature on the sidewalk of a company-owned town. The court said: "Ownership does not always mean absolute dominion. The more an owner, for his advantage, opens up his property for use by the public in general, the more do his rights become circumscribed by the statutory and constitutional rights of those who use it." Judge Hooks also passed sentence on two other students—Albert R. Sampson, 21, of Everett, Mass., and James A. Fox, 19, of Washington, D.C.—who were convicted yesterday on trespass charges. They were arrested in mid-March when they sought service at a lunch counter in a downtown McLellan's store. The judge gave Fox and Sampson 30-day jail terms suspended on payment of fines of $25 and costs and on condition they remain of good behavior and not violate any laws. Through their attorneys, the two served notice of appeal to the State Supreme Court.

Judge Hooks pointed out that the charges against the 43 students were on the sidewalk. He told the four on trial that "if you had gotten in the store and carried on the same type of conduct as on the sidewalk you would be just as guilty as these other two." Two Negroes also were convicted in Durham Recorder's Court yesterday. As he sentenced the two and dismissed the charges against the four others, Hooks sternly lectured the students. He told them that the law "protects people in their property and it is going to continue to do so. It is going to protect your rights." He added later, "The law is not going to tolerate any abuses." Hooks said "there are some ugly things in the conduct of Sampson and Fox." The two testified they waited until the McLellan lunch counter manager was not watching and slipped through a gate the store had erected to control admission to the lunch counter. Judge Hooks said the only difference in the two cases—McLellan's and Cameron Village—is that one happened on the sidewalk and the other happened in the store. He told the students "your future conduct is going to determine your rights in my opinion." "In my opinion your movement is not a student movement," he added, "you are only taking discipline from other people in my opinion." He told the students the main difference between their demonstrations and mob action was that the student demonstrations have been nonviolent. "You are setting up a situation that is dangerous," he added, "and the whole world is holding its breath."

Construction Of New Armory To Begin Next Week

Construction of Farmville's planned $140,000 National Guard Armory is expected to begin early next week, according to a construction firm spokesman today. Bill O'Neal of Dunn Building Supply Co. of Greenville, the low bidder for the project's general contract, announced this morning the finalized contract was received by mail from NG officials today. After receiving the approved contract, the firm has 21 days within which to begin construction. The Dunn firm will set the date and notify Maj. Robert E. N. Shelden, engineer for the N. C. National Guard Commission, and John J. McDavid Jr. of Farmville, the project's appointed consulting engineer, when preliminary operations will begin. Both Shelden and McDavid are required to be on hand when the project is started. The Greenville firm was awarded the general contract upon a low bid of $107,000. The contractor has completed armories for the National Guard in Windsor and Snow Hill. Another is under construction in Elizabeth City. The contractor will be allowed 240 calendar days to complete the project. O'Neal pointed out, however, that the Windsor armory, slightly larger than the structure planned for Farmville, was ready for occupancy six months after construction began. The Farmville armory will be situated on a six-acre site on W. Horne Ave. purchased from Chesnut and Pitt County funds. The building proper is to be financed by federal, state and local funds. Federal participation is 75 per cent. Other contracts were awarded as follows: Henry Baker Heating Co. of Wilson, heating contract, ($12,329); Mashburn Plumbing and Heating Co. of Farmville, plumbing contract; O'Neil Electric Co. of Washington, electrical contract, ($6,345). Twenty-five contractors submitted bids on the project.

Pres. Rhee Urged To Dump His Vice-President-Elect

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—An ex-premier today urged President Syngman Rhee to dump Vice President-elect Lee Ki-Poong, target of antigovernment rioting. He indicated Rhee is considering this action. The ex-premier, Y. T. Pyun, spoke with a reporter after a conference with Rhee at the end of another tense day during which 10,000 teen-age students demonstrated in the nearby port of Incheon. Pyun said Rhee has a definite plan for solving South Korea's grave political crisis. "He has formed certain ideas in his mind regarding what to do," Pyun said. "His ideas are roughly along my lines." Pyun, formerly a close associate of Rhee, has become increasingly critical of the government's domestic policies. Now an English professor, Pyun has been mentioned as a possible member of a reshuffled Cabinet. He published an open letter in a Seoul newspaper urging Rhee to discard Lee. The Incheon demonstrators shouted for the resignation of Lee, declaring his election with Rhee March 15 was rigged. The youths smashed four windows in headquarters of Rhee's Liberal party. Unlike the rioting Tuesday in Seoul and other major cities, there was no bloodshed. The police—already severely criticized for killing protest marchers Tuesday—fired three blank shells over the Incheon demonstrators but otherwise made no attempt to disperse them. The police even provided three water wagons for the students. It was the third consecutive day of antigovernment demonstrations in Incheon. The port is not one of the five Korean cities put under martial law Tuesday, when at least 125 persons were killed in

Seek To Whittle U.S. Foreign Aid By $1.5 Billion

WASHINGTON (AP)—Foreign aid critics set out today to whittle a billion and a half dollars from the $4,038,500,000 program approved Thursday by the House. Chairman Otto E. Passman (D-La.) of the key appropriations subcommittee handling actual funds for the program said "I doubt very much whether the committee in its wisdom will approve more than 2 1/2 billion." The bill passed Thursday 243-130 on a roll-call vote sets a maximum on spending and lays down policy guidelines. Actual funds are voted separately. The authorization bill made relatively minor cuts in President Eisenhower's recommendations—reductions totaling 136 1/2 million dollars. The House customarily votes less than the maximum authorized for foreign aid, the Senate sets a higher figure, the difference then is split in conference. The House tightened provisions to assure full information to Congress on the program and to guard against administrators committing U. S. funds in advance. On motion of Rep. Forrest Hardy Jr. (D-Va.), the House authorized an expenditure of 675 million dollars in economic aid for America's military allies, only information on the program is furnished congressional committees or the General Accounting Office on demand. The House action left untouched, pending debate on appropriations, the major part of the foreign aid program outlined by President Eisenhower. Passman said his subcommittee is conducting the most extensive hearings ever held on foreign aid and the closed-door sessions will continue for at least another month.

Watched Aghast At Mock Murder

A score of East Carolina College students stood aghast yesterday at 11 a.m. as a junior bus driver fired a shot that left a classmate sprawling in a puddle of red in the hall of the college's Rawl Building. Reports said the shot was fatal. Junior Paul Jenkins was rushed away from the campus by the Greenville Rescue Squad after another junior, Charles Muns, had gunned him down from point-blank range. Muns was taken into custody by campus Police Chief John Harrell and turned over to proper authorities. Student witnesses said Muns had threatened to kill Jenkins late Wednesday afternoon following an argument over a girl. One witness said, "Paul Jenkins threw a knife that narrowly missed Charles (Muns) and then Charlie said, 'I'll kill you for that.'" While students in the Rawl Building changed classes at 11, Muns was waiting for Jenkins in the hall, eye-witnesses accounts said. Without a word, one witness said, Muns aimed at Jenkins and fired. Muns dashed from the building and Jenkins crumpled heavily to

Approve Branch Office Project

FARMVILLE—At their annual meeting Tuesday, stockholders of the Farmville Savings and Loan Association approved the opening of its first branch office in Grifton, subject to approval of the State Insurance Department. The Grifton office is scheduled to open not later than July 1. Officials said the new branch has already been approved by the state insurance group. Also at Tuesday's meeting, the association re-elected the seven-member board of directors: A. W. Bobbitt, John B. Lewis, Manly Liles, W. A. McAdams, J. O. Pollard, T. S. Ryon, and Ed Nash Warren. Following the regular session a meeting of the directors saw the election of J. O. Pollard as president and W. A. McAdams as vice-president. Mrs. Ruth C. Gibbs was re-appointed secretary-treasurer and D. R. Morgan as her assistant. Mrs. Lane Roberts is the third member of the office staff. The association listed its assets at $3,034,414.98 as of March 31, 1960—an increase over last year of $500,000.

Nearly 1,600 In S. Africa Jails

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP)—Nearly 1,600 persons—including 94 whites—have been jailed in the government's drive to quell racial strife in South Africa, Justice Minister Francois Erasmus told Parliament today. This figure does not include the thousands of Africans arrested on various charges in the continuing raids on Negro settlements around major cities. The detentions were made under the broad powers of the Nationalist government's March 30 state of emergency proclamation invoked after bloody Negro riots against the white government's race laws.

Praised Him, All The Way To Jail

PULGA, Calif. (AP)—Butte County sheriff's deputies congratulated Elmer Johnson for risking his life to pull a crippled man from a burning mountain cabin. They praised him all the way to the jail. Johnson had just rescued McKinley Johnson (no relation) from the cabin fire that burned McKinley's 90-year-old father, Oscar, to death. Elmer was booked for failure to answer a four-year-old traffic warrant. He remained in jail because he couldn't post $110 bail.

CHILD BRIDE SUES

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—A child bride at 13, Sue Carroll Thomas Tipton has filed suit for divorce from Eddie Lee Tipton, 19. Mrs. Tipton, now 14, said they were married March 23, 1959, and separated last month. Her petition charged nonsupport and cruel and inhuman treatment.

Garden Club Stages Fashion Show

With the cooperation of a recently refurbished fashion shop, the Greenville Garden Club staged a Fashion Show before the luncheon and card tournament held at the Woman's Club on Tuesday afternoon.

Under the supervision of Miss Blanche Forbes several Garden Club members modeled dresses and hats of original design.

Shoes and bags chosen especially for the costumes by Mrs. August T. Schmidt matched or accented each costume. The hair styles of the models, done by Mrs. Annie Ruth Joyner, were in the latest mode.

Mrs. J. C. Galloway Jr. modeled a beige silk, a black lace over white satin formal cocktail dress, and a pink linen.

Mrs. S. L. Daughtridge wore a mauve pink linen, an aqua silk shantung with two-toned blue embroidery, and a sungold checkmate two-piece dress.

Mrs. Ralph Brimley modeled a yellow tuckered cotton and lace, an original black and white checked cotton two-piece suit, and a tailored navy blue silk linen.

Mrs. Tige Gardner showed a green and white voile, a black tuckered dress with white linen coat, and a lemon imported linen.

Get Tickets Now For Author's Lunch

Mrs. Clara M. Shackell, chairman of the "Ovid Pierce Day" luncheon on April 30, says there are still reservations available.

Deadline for the purchasing of these tickets is Monday, April 25.

Seven well-known literary figures will pay tribute to Pierce during the luncheon to begin at 12:45 p.m. in the South Dining Room, EOC. The lunch will begin the 25th Annual Fine Arts Festival.

Each artist will tell his or her connection with Pierce such as Mrs. Inglis Fletcher, as a writer; Mrs. Bernice Kelly Harris, as a neighbor; Miss Jane Hall, as a citizen of North Carolina; Henry Belk, as a friend; Thad Stem and LeBaron Barker as a writer; and Dr. Meredith N. Posey, as a teacher.

topography and craftsmen will be on display.

The Sixth Annual Sidewalk Art Show will be held Thursday, May 5, at the Center. Some of the art media to be exhibited will be for sale.

During the celebrated week, April 30-May 7, a series of programs will be held.

The Shakespearean play, "A Midsummer Night's Dream," will be given in the Flanagan Theatre at EOC, directed by Dr. J. A. Whitney, Friday and Saturday evenings at 8 o'clock.

Special exhibits, programs of music and folk-dancing will be held at the schools throughout the week.

Bridge Lunch Fetes Greenville Woman, Friends

GRIFTON—Mrs. John Glenn entertained last Friday at a luncheon for her daughter, Mrs. Craven Hughes of Greenville, and eight of her friends from Greenville.

The guests were received at the Glenn home on Queen Street which was decorated with floral arrangements with emphasis on the mantel where orchid chrysanthemums were placed. Other arrangements featured white chrysanthemums and purple iris.

A crystal and silver bowl filled with colored candy Easter eggs was used on the table. Guests found their places at individual card tables and were served fried chicken, parsley potatoes, string beans, molded fruit salad, hot rolls and iced tea. Later lemon meringue pie was served as dessert.

After the luncheon bridge was played and during the progressions Mrs. Morris Brody and Mrs. Ed Tipton were highest scorers and awarded prizes. The consolation went to Mrs. Mitchell Saled.

Others playing were Mesdames Francis Jordan, Charles Crone, Tom Rowlette, Bo Pair, Herbert Paschall and Mrs. Hughes. After the games Mrs. Glenn served lead drinks, cheese dainties and snacks.

Spring Flower Show Held In Forest Hills

The Forest Hills Garden Club held its Spring Flower Show Wednesday night at the home of Mrs. F. E. Lansche on Forest Hills Drive.

Mrs. W. J. Stell and Mrs. Dick Heller were judges for the show. Arrangements were on display, made by the members of the club.

After a short business meeting, conducted by Mrs. Howard Mims, members and guests were served refreshments by the hostess.

Begin Now To Correct Major Traffic Problems

RALEIGH—Begin now to correct the major traffic problems in your community. Why not make your community a safer place to live.

The national home demonstration council calls your attention to the 1960 highway safety contest. The highway safety contest is the National Home Demonstration Council in cooperation with the Allstate Foundation.

The national council emphasizes improvement of rural traffic courts; safety education in schools; improvement of traffic law enforcement; improvement of rural traffic signs, signals, and markings; and rural pedestrian protection.

All local home demonstration clubs in the United States and Puerto Rico are eligible to compete for honors in the 1960 highway safety contest. Monetary awards will be presented to the clubs placing in the national contest.

The basis for judging will be aggressiveness and ingenuity in planning and conducting the club's contest program; effectiveness of council action; type, quality, and quantity of publicity; and submission of written contest report before deadline, accompanied by a scrapbook of publicity clippings, correspondence, or other exhibits.

Greenville Pilots To Attend Spring District 6 Convention

The Pilot Club of Greenville will be represented at the Spring Convention of Pilot International, District No. 6, April 22-24, by Mrs. Orville Phillips, president, Mrs. Ann De La Mater, and Mrs. W. W. Howell, official delegates.

Alternate delegates include Miss Annie Moore, Mrs. T. W. House, and Mrs. G. J. Bell, alternates. Other Pilots and Co-Pilots planning to attend are Mrs. Chester Walsh, Dr. Georgia V. Mills, Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Fennell, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Jones, and Mr. and Mrs. James B. Mallory.

The convention will be in New Bern. Hotel Governor Tryon will be the place of the assembly, and Mrs. Edna Harris is president of the New Bern Club.

All business sessions will be presided over by the District Governor, Mrs. Mabel A. Hess, Charlotte.

One of the outstanding speakers will be Mrs. Dorothy Hotsfall, Jacksonville, Fla., who will be the Executive Committee Representative of Pilot International. She is now a director of the organization.

To appear on the Saturday evening Banquet program is Mrs. C. Gordon Maddrey, of Ahoskie and Raleigh.

"She is immediately loved by all women and she thinks like a man," has been recently said in describing Mrs. Maddrey. She is past president of the Baptist Women's Missionary Union of N. C., is a member of the Executive Committee of the Southern Baptist Convention, a member of the Board of Trustees of the N. C. Orthopedic Hospital at Gastonia, president of the Ahoskie Woman's Club, and organized the Junior Woman's Club there. She has served on the N. C. Federation of Women's Clubs and is the newly-elected president of this same organization.

New committee chairmen will preside over workshops for the new chairmen and members of committees on Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Howell of the Greenville club will preside over the Council for club directors at the Saturday morning session.

Mrs. Phillips has been asked to give the response to the welcome given the Pilot Internationals by the Mayor of New Bern.

Highlights of the convention on Saturday afternoon will be a tour of the Tryon Palace and other historical sites in New Bern. Newly-elected officers will be installed on Sunday following a devotional program.

Cobbs Give Bridge Supper

GRIFTON—Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Cobb were hosts on Monday night at a bridge supper at their home on Thomas Lane for members of their contract club and other players.

In the living room pink tulips, purple iris and pansies were used as decorations. The dining table was centered with a bowl of yellow tulips, white azaleas and yellow pansies flanked by white candles in flower holders.

A chicken supper was served buffet style.

Bridge was played at three tables with Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Jackson receiving the prizes for highest scores for club members and Charlie Hardee for visitors.

THERE OUGHTA BE A LAW!

By FAGALY and SHORTEN

Mrs. DeGaulle Stays In Shadow

By GODFREY ANDERSON Associated Press Staff Writer France's first lady, known affectionately as "Aunt Yvonne,"

Mme. De Gaulle at 60 is a serious, deeply religious person. And she has the provincial Frenchwoman's customary care in handling the family budget. Officials say she watches expenses at the Elysee just as closely as she does at home in Colombey. In dress the president's wife favors classic two-piece suits, often in black, and cut on severe lines. Her evening dresses are conservative also and in dark colors. She wears little jewelry. Her only known hobbies are flower arrangements and playing the piano. The great tragedy of the De Gaulles has been the long illness and death of their youngest daughter, Anne, who died in childhood 12 years ago. Anne's name was given to a foundation for backward children which is perhaps their greatest charitable interest. The De Gaulles have two other children—a son, Philippe, commander of a destroyer in the French navy, and a married daughter, Elisabeth. Their three grandsons, children of Philippe, often stay with them at Colombey. There Yvonne de Gaulle lives her happiest hours, watching the boys run cycle races in the park, driving to market in her tiny French car, and chatting with Philomene, the cook, about the day's menus.

The Third St. School Parent-Teachers Association elected next year's officers and heard a brief address by Dr. Earl Trevathan at the chapter's final meeting of the current school term.

Elected were Mrs. Milton Clarke, president; Reginald Gray, vice-president; Mrs. Frank Deiner, secretary; and James Davenport, treasurer.

Mrs. Clarke succeeds Ralph Heidenrich who was presented with an engraved silver tray by the new president on behalf of the PTA chapter.

Mrs. Kitty Bailey, president of the Greenville PTA Council, formally installed the newly-elected officers.

Dr. Trevathan, local pediatrician, told the group parents should realize the importance of their spending more time with their children. "It gives them more love and security as well as a closer parent-child relationship," he said.

'Strange' Primary For Pennsylvania

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Pennsylvania holds a strange primary next Tuesday. No one—including the professional politicians—seem quite sure what to expect. It's possible that the state will give a big boost to some presidential hopeful. It's also possible that the vote in two special congressional elections will give an indication of things to come nationally next November. Only one name is on the presidential preference ballot: Vice President Richard M. Nixon. There are provisions, however, for write-ins. Election boards plan to tabulate those of New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller on the Republican side and those for Adlai E. Stevenson and Sens. John P. Kennedy (Mass.), Lyndon B. Johnson (Texas), Stuart Symington (Mo) and Hubert H. Humphrey (Minn) on the Democratic side.

By all rules of politics, Nixon should win this contest hands down. Nearly every GOP leader in the state was for Nixon even before Rockefeller said he was no longer a candidate. And write-ins on election machines—used to count much of the state—can be a tricky, time-consuming process for a voter. So any huge outpouring of votes for one presidential hopeful would be hailed by his supporters as a spontaneous voicing of voter sentiment. If this should come on the

Blames Failures On Demo Rifts

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republican National Chairman Thruston B. Morton charged today that Congress has fallen victim to legislative paralysis because of what he called factional splits and power struggles within the Democratic majority. In an address prepared for the annual meeting of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, Morton appealed for election of a Republican Congress. He said Democratic party divisions go far beyond the civil rights issue. They have fostered competitive spending programs and immobilized legislation on farm surpluses and other key problems, he added. Morton said "the present Congress over a calendar period of more than 100 days, and yet until yesterday not one—not a single one—of the President's 166 legislative proposals had received final action."

Bungalow Built Of Old Bottles

WASHINGTON COURTHOUSE, Ohio (AP)—Nearly 10,000 bottles of all sizes, shapes and colors are built into a one-room structure near here which now serves as a cabin at a motel. The little house was built in 1935 by the late Addison McMurray, who collected bottles as a hobby. A fireplace mantel is decorated with a design of small medicine bottles implanted in concrete.

Took His House Piece By Piece

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Edward Gabbell told police thieves were carrying away an unoccupied house he owned—piece by piece. Gabbell said within six months thieves removed all the locks from the doors, regulators from cooler ducts, covers from electric outlets, light switches, a gas water heater, two wall cabinets — and a kitchen sink.

Discriminating If Age Involved

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP)—It's against the law in Connecticut to advertise for a "young" worker in newspaper classified columns. The state Civil Rights Commission recently held that when a firm specifies how old its prospective employees should be, it is discriminating against older workers.

BISSETTE'S PICTURE TALK. By DENNIS WARREN. ON WITH THE SHOW. It's a drizzly night. Nothing to read. Nothing good on TV. You feel restless for something to do. And then you remember your new movie projector!

That's the fun of owning your own home-movie equipment. It's show time any time you want it to be. And it's a brand of fun you can now enjoy without dismantling the family budget. Just $44.50 puts a new Brownie 8 Movie Projector in your home. This is the new projector that's only about as big as a portable radio, is just five and a half pounds light. But it puts on a whole of a show.

The Brownie 8 can show your movies three feet wide at a distance of 12 feet. You'll like the steady, flicker-free picture, the sharp detail you see right across the screen. You can load a 200-foot reel on the Brownie 8 Projector and see a quarter hour of movies without stopping to change reels. Film threading is no problem. All you do is slip the film over smooth, sprocketless snubbers and behind the film gate. Then it's on with the show!

An Old Idea, But Still A Good One

Campaign fodder or not, Candidate Terry Sanford's proposal for an agricultural marketing commission to bring together the selling farmer and the buying processor is a program which should appeal to the agricultural region of Eastern North Carolina.

The proposal which has been incorporated into Sanford's campaign platform certainly is not new to North Carolina. The idea has worked at various times and in various sections of the state to give a boost to both the agricultural and the industrial economies of certain areas. It has certainly played a part in the industrial development program during the administration of Gov. Hodges even though a special commission has not been assigned it as a specific duty.

Individually community development groups have followed such a course as they sought industrial prospects which might help their existing agriculture as well as providing new industrial jobs in the community.

The proposal for having a special state commission to handle such a program on a state-wide basis is merely another way of giving greater emphasis to the need for industries allied with agriculture in certain sections of the state. A constant stumbling block to greater development of this kind of agricultural industry has been the question of which was to come first; the product from the farms, or dependable market in which the farmer could be assured of selling what he produced.

If, through the work of such an agricultural marketing commission, the problem could be solved, there would be a significant expansion of both agriculture and industry in the farming sections of the state. A farmer is naturally reluctant to invest considerable time and money in producing a new crop for which it is not certain there will be a dependable market in his immediate area. A processing company is not willing to invest funds in building a processing plant for tomatoes, strawberries or any other farm commodity in an area which may or may not produce sufficient supplies to justify operation of the plant.

The farmer holds off planting the crop until the market is provided, and the company holds off building its plant until the farmers are producing the needed commodity in sufficient quantities to justify the plant. The result is an indefinite stalemate which contributes nothing to help the agricultural or industrial economy of the area.

A special state group working on this problem in conjunction with local groups might bring about considerable gains for agriculture by providing cash income with new supplemental crops, and for the industrial economy by providing new plant jobs to handle the farm products.

If North Carolina can strengthen its agriculture at the same time it is developing industrially, the result will be a higher economic level for the state as a whole.

Scant Authority Over Mergers

By LYNN NISBET

BANKING—The State Banking Commission disposed of several items of business at its quarterly meeting Wednesday, but devoted most of the time to general and largely informal and inconclusive discussion of policy. Applications for two mergers and establishment of half a dozen or so branches were approved without question.

The merger and branch office business, however, set off one of the most interesting discussions of the day. It was precipitated by a casual observation on part of Edwin Brown, one of the few members of the commission not actively engaged in banking as a major business.

He voiced some concern over the trend and wondered if the banking commission was fully meeting its obligation to the public in not more carefully considering some of the applications. Conceding that a bank with huge resources can render service to industry which small banks cannot give, he sees possibility that sheer aggressiveness might tend to lessen service to small communities. He sees some danger that the merger trend may eliminate competition and result in banking monopoly.

John Lindley, director in one of the big banks which has recently absorbed several others by merger, thought the policy needed to afford more adequate competition and therefore better service all along the line. If competition could be afforded otherwise, he said, the merger trend would cease.

It developed that the banking commission has very little real authority over mergers. If the stockholders and the depositors vote to merge, and investigation shows both institutions are sound and that public interest will not be directly hurt, commission approval is almost routine under the law.

SMALL LOANS—Discussion of the small loan business, which had been heralded as a high spot on the day's agenda, developed very little new information and no positive action. It appears that the banking commission now has all the authority for supervision of small loan agencies that could be accorded by additional regulations. The commission discussion and the publicity of the past several months led to assurance that closer attention will be given to enforcing the law against one lender (whether operating from one office or several) duplicating loans and pyramiding service charges to one borrower.

Adequate control of the small loan agencies must wait for new legislation. Commissioner Ben Roberts offered tentative suggestions for such laws, which were approved in principle and purpose, with details to be worked out later by the commission in cooperation with committees already named by the State Bankers Association and the small loan industry. Basic objectives of the new law will be to limit insurance required of the borrower to an amount sufficient only to pay off the loan, for which the charge would be three to four dollars a year, as contrasted with present practice of requiring insurance, sometimes two or three policies on one customer, at average cost of $35. Another main point will be an effort to consolidate the numerous small charges for investigation, writing of insurance policies, etc., into one fee—even if that fee required a higher interest rate than six per cent. It was conceded that adherence to the six per cent interest rate, when everybody knows small loans cannot be made at that rate, has led to the numerous fees and charges—which in turn are susceptible to abuse.

RESPONSIBILITY—Discussion of the small loan situation to some degree, and the matter of the charter for a new bank at Shelby to greater extent, indicated a gap in the Banking Commission's authority. The Banking Commission, as far back as 1955 the commission authorized a charter for a new bank at Shelby. The then commissioner, W. W. Jones, declined to issue the charter. It was some months before the commission discovered that the charter had not been granted. It further appeared that the commission as a whole was not acquainted with some recent correspondence between the Shelby group and the present commissioner. A review of the Shelby case will be had at the next quarterly meeting of the commission in July. And Chairman Edwin Gill stated that such a situation would not arise again.

The banking commission is composed of eleven members, nine appointed by the Governor and two by the Attorney General. An ex-officio member and the State Treasurer ex-officio chairman. The banking commissioner is appointed by the Governor, subject to approval of the State Senate—but not a part of the banking commission. In many respects the commissioner is the agent of the commission and subject to its direction. In other respects he has independent responsibility, stemming from his separate appointment by the Governor, and is not amenable to commission direction.

It is tribute to the patriotism and statesmanship of the three commissioners and the 30 or more board members who have served during the three decades of the agency's operations, that so few instances of cross purpose or divided allegiance have arisen.

Gradually through the years the prestige of the commission has grown, without statutory sanction of the commissioner's powers. To begin with the commission was a five-member advisory group. It was enlarged to seven members and then to eleven, with more real power, and with the State Treasurer and the Attorney General continuing as ex-officio members.

Cuba's Hero Is Losing His Popular Following

Conditions developing in Cuba indicate Fidel Castro is finding it increasingly difficult to hold on to the hard-won control which he and his associates hold over the island nation.

Reports from within Cuba in recent months have told of growing unrest among Castro supporters who are disappointed in promised land reforms and other programs that were to raise the living standard of working people. There has been unrest also in other economic groups as the Castro government has taken over private enterprise to operate as government corporations . . . not for the benefit of the people, but apparently for the benefit of the government.

There can be no doubt that so far as military and police facilities are concerned, Fidel Castro has a firmer hold on Cuba now than when he came to power more than a year ago. From the standpoint of popular support, however, the past few months have shown signs that Castro's popularity has suffered a considerable decline in spite of efforts to solidify the position of his government.

Outside Cuba there was considerable support and at least sympathy for Castro's movement to overthrow the dictatorship of Batista before the final success of the Castro movement. Since Castro came to power, however, there has been a definite change of attitude toward his movement, not only on the part of the United States, but on the part of other Latin American nations as well. Sympathy, if not outright support, of other nations now seems to be with the anti-Castro forces that are developing in Cuba.

Castro the dictator does not represent nearly the hero of the people of Cuba that Castro the revolutionary leader did slightly more than a year ago. Castro the dictator does not seem to enjoy among the Cuban people the popularity that Castro the bearded revolutionary leader did among these same people.

These and other factors point to continued troubled times for Cuba and its people.

No New Ideas In Summit Planning

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Western Allies, with months to prepare, apparently are going to the summit meeting with the Soviet Union next month with no new ideas. And the Soviet Union, despite some big talk, hasn't produced any new ones, either.

The foreign ministers of the Western Big Four—United States, Britain, France, West Germany—met here recently to work out their plans and reconcile their differences before the conference which opens in Paris May 16.

But if all they said and agreed on could be summed up in one sentence this would be it: Stand Pat.

At home the Soviet Union is building up expectations for some dramatic developments when Premier Nikita Khrushchev joins President Eisenhower and the British and French leaders at the summit.

These are the fields most mentioned in Soviet newspapers: A German peace treaty and getting Allied troops out of Berlin, both of which Khrushchev has been demanding more than a year, plus disarmament. There's nothing new in that, either.

If what French President Charles de Gaulle was saying this week in Canada and what the American State Department said Wednesday look like vital differences on what's important at the summit, a close examination shows no real difference at all.

Khrushchev began calling on the Allies in November 1958 to get their troops out of West Berlin which, although linked with West Germany, lies 100 miles inside Communist East Germany.

The latter, with Soviet help, could shut off supplies to the city from the West any time. The Allied troops couldn't stand off a Communist assault—there are only 11,000 of them—but so long as they remain they are a symbol of the Allied right to be there. And Khrushchev wants the Western powers to sign separate peace treaties with West and East Germany. The West refuses. To sign would be to acknowledge Germany is rightfully divided. No doubt it would mean the division of Germany for generations, if not permanently.

That's the way it has been for more than a year. So far as is known that is the way it will be when Khrushchev and the Westerners face each other next month.

This week in Canada De Gaulle said France is against any pressing attempt by the West at the summit to get a solution on Berlin, although he is not against discussing it. He said France will seek an easing of tensions.

Wednesday Douglas Dillon, Undersecretary of State, made a statement which at first and casual glance might have looked fiery. He said the central issue at the summit will be Berlin.

But the key lay in this sentence: "We are willing to consider interim arrangements to reduce tensions in Berlin and lessen present dangers."

That turns out to be pretty much what De Gaulle said. And since the French leader said he will seek a start toward nuclear disarmament—and the Soviets put disarmament high on their summit agenda—there's nothing new there.

If there isn't much evidence of optimism that the summit will solve anything, there's good reason: Neither side yet has come up with anything which indicates the summit will be anything more than a pleasant get-together.

Real solutions, if any, will probably have to wait for summit meetings in the future. Nevertheless, the Soviet Union and the West have agreed three matters will be on the summit agenda: Germany, including Berlin; disarmament; and East-West relations.

Issue Should Shame

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
Copyright, 1960, King Features

In a recent column, I proposed a statement to be agreed upon by Senator John Kennedy and Senator Hubert Humphrey. The statement read:

"We, John Kennedy and Hubert Humphrey, contesting for the Democratic nomination for President, without hatred or envy, request Democrats to choose between us on the basis of our records in the United States Senate and our integrity and fitness to be President and not on the form of our ritual and church discipline."

Senator Hubert Humphrey chose to reply by telegram as follows:

"Congratulations to your column of April 14. I thoroughly agree with you that Democrats should choose between Senator Kennedy and myself strictly on the basis of our records and our integrity and fitness to be President. This isn't just a political expression . . . If nobody thinks they are going to use Hubert Humphrey as a rallying point for anti-Catholicism, they are wrong: Because I am convinced that any man who is seeking the Presidency of the United States on either ticket today would serve the office with national responsibilities. A man's religion is his own most intimate private choice and we must respect that religious choice. And as far as I am concerned I don't think a man ought to be voted for because of his religion and I don't think he ought to be voted against because of his religion. Unquote."

"I am perfectly willing to join Senator Kennedy in any similar joint statement."

Senator Hubert H. Humphrey telephoned that of course he concurred in any statement that Americans should not vote for or against a man because of his religion.

The reason that I think the subject is important is because of the enormous mail I receive from readers and the vast amount of printed matter, some republishing fine intelligence; others the spewings of hate.

In this country, we have no secondary citizens and no matter what efforts are made by this or that group, the Fifth and the Fourteenth Amendments to the Constitution forbid secondary citizenship. Let those who desire to establish secondary citizenship agitate for a constitutional amendment and if the American people favor such a concept, they will vote for it. If an American citizen because of his religious affiliations may not hold any public office, then a religious test has been established.

How far shall we go in religious tests? We start by saying that no Roman Catholic may be President. But many of those who object to John Kennedy for President because he is a Roman Catholic favor him for Vice President. In fact there is an agitation to nominate Governor Pat Brown of California or Mayor Robert Wagner of New York City, both Roman Catholics, for Vice President on the Democratic ticket, and James Mitchell, Secretary of Labor, for Vice President on the Republican ticket.

Then if the President died or became incapacitated, the Vice President would become President in accordance with the Constitution. Surely if a Roman Catholic is unworthy per se to be President, he is similarly unworthy to be Vice President. But what about a Jew? No Jew

Pitt The Battleground?

Somebody was saying the other day he'd heard the incumbent seeking re-election to Congress in the First District in the May 28 Democratic Primary has the race pretty well sewed up, "especially in Northeastern North Carolina."

After Wednesday night's rally for the challenger in that neck of the woods, though, about 700 people were wondering about that.

In fact, most of them went so far as to say the challenging candidate has real support in that area—well-organized and very impressive.

Some said they felt doubtful if the incumbent has mentionable support north of the Albemarle Sound, and that area, they said, "has a nice-sized chunk of the vote."

The Jones rally up there set many minds to serious thought in the Pitt County area. Many of the Farmville's supporters here wonder how such solid-appearing support sprang up at one end of the district while the candidate halls from the other end.

"Jones appears to be well-liked indeed in the Pasquotank, Camden, Currituck County area," one supporter observed with a degree of surprise.

"Like the man said," another chipped in, "Pitt County's going to be the battleground in this fight."

Somebody else said, "Jones' wife come from up that way and you can never underestimate the power of a woman."

So the observations went. Different ideas were set forth as to the why's and wherefore's of the coming primary's tentative results.

Then one of the wiser Jonesmen had this to say: "You can talk pro and con all you want to, but not a solitary soul's gonna cast a solitary vote until 6:30 in the morning on May 28."

Pretty sound reasoning. Most of the folks from this area that attended the rally in Elizabeth City Wednesday made their way to the affair via special caravan.

We went along to observe. As the processional approached its destination, we got the feeling we were involved in some kind of "snow ball" deal.

That is, at the outset there were comparatively few members of the column. Every member of the caravan could readily recognize every other member until suddenly the snow ball began to roll downhill.

It got faster and faster and larger and larger. Soon we felt like we were just a small snowflake in the center of the bottom section of a giant snowman rolling northeast.

Before the line rolled into Elizabeth City, horns and sirens, even flashing red lights, had heralded our approach.

The thing that dispelled our "snowball" thoughts: Usually, when a huge snowball is spread out it melts. This one remained firm.

Kidding Ourselves On Income Tax

By ELMER ROESSNER

It may be that we are kidding ourselves with our "progressive" income tax system. The system is termed "progressive" because the rate progresses as income rises. It has nothing to do with "progressive" in the sense that Communists apply it to themselves.

Under the progressive system, the tax rates rise from nothing on the hapless few whose income is less than taxable minimums, to those almost taxed 91 per cent, theoretically, on incomes over $200,000 if single and over $400,000 if married.

Government figures show that about 12 per cent of personal income and about 21 per cent of the total national income is taken in taxes. Last year total personal income was about $380 billion and personal taxes were $45 billion. Total national income was about $400 billion and total Federal taxes were about $85 billion.

Our income tax system largely conforms to the Communist slogan, "from each according to his ability." However, the Communists did not conceive that idea. It was earlier expressed in Biblical parables. See Matthew XX and XXV.

Ours has also been described as a level system of taxation; it seems designed to reduce the wealthy or the hard-working somewhat toward the level of the poor or lazy, thereby bringing the kingdom of Heaven to earth, in accordance with Matthew XX.

But this level is slowed in two ways: 1. Those with investment income avoid it as much as possible by using such tax shelters as tax-exempt bonds, oil and other investments with bountiful depletion allowances, capital gains and other devices.

2. Those with other income seek to pass the tax on to others, including those low on the income scale. This is so common that the idea of the wealthy and hard-working paying the greater part of taxes is partially false.

Corporations pay up to 53 per cent of profits in Federal taxes. This tax is always, repeat always, passed on to customers. If a corporation makes enough profit after taxes to pay 6 per cent on its capital—and many of them do—then it must keep prices high enough to earn 12 or more per cent before taxes.

Actually, the pass-on is greater than that. In point is General Motors' announcement that its board chairman, Frederic G. Donner, received $670,350 in salaries, fees and bonuses in 1959. Good man. Worth it.

His take-home pay after taxes was $111,782. To give Mr. Donner $111,782 last year, G. M. had to pay him an additional $58,568. This meant that G. M. had to pass on about $8 to everyone who bought one of its cars. It also had to pass on other taxes to car buyers: the tax excess on other executives' earnings; the taxes on employees' wages, and the hundreds of other Federal, state and local taxes it pays.

So must every company pass on taxes, even if it hasn't a Mr. Donner. A good mechanic negotiating for a job, may insist on a certain take-home pay. Add amounts for taxes must be borne by the employer who passes them on to customers in higher prices for his products or services.

The amount after taxes is what counts, whether it's a mechanic's $150 a week or Mr. Donner's $2,149.65 a week.

And when that money is spent, it's a good guess that both men pay about the same percentage in higher prices due to passed-on taxes, say about 21 per cent.

Next week, as most of you know, will be Greenville's 25th Community Arts Festival Week. Kick-off event will be "Ovid Pierce Day"—Saturday April 30, will be given over to honoring Ovid Pierce on the occasion of the publication of his second novel, "On A Lonesome Porch." There'll be a big launching luncheon at ECC, sponsored by the Woman's Club, where some of Mr. Pierce's admirers will have a chance to talk about him and you will have a chance to buy his book—though official publication date nationwide is May 13, here in Greenville it's April 30. Copies of the book will be available and Mr. Pierce will also be available to autograph them. . . . On Friday—our Editor willing—we will run a review of "On A Lonesome Porch," and we can tell you right now on the basis of a preview that it is a beautiful book. We think everyone in Greenville should buy a copy for himself and another one for the friend he likes best. . . .

Today's Review One of our critics comments on an unsolved true mystery—and doesn't solve it. . . .

THE LIFE AND DEATH OF SIR HARRY OAKES.

By Geoffrey Bocca. New York: Doubleday & Co., 1959. There is an old saying that truth is stranger than fiction. Geoffrey Bocca proves this as he unfolds the fantastic account of a man so created by a dream that the very realization of it destroyed him. The story of Harry Oakes has become such a legend that it is difficult to sort the facts from the fancies. Mr. Bocca engaged in very extensive research in order to present Sir Harry in his true light, which he has done with a rare ability that would make the novelist envious. The author seems to probe the very heart of the man about whom he writes as he shows how a frenzied 14-year search for a Midas treasure twisted and decayed the very soul of a man who was once well loved. Harry Oakes had a gift for making enemies and wherever he went he left a wake of hatred, which drifted around the world and ended in Nassau where he died. Harry Oakes died in 1943 by the hands of an assassin, but it was not the murderer who really killed him. Greed had already inflicted the mortal wound many years earlier. "Who killed Harry Oakes?" is still the most frequently asked question in Nassau today. Many believe it was the son-in-law, who was tried and acquitted. For this reason Mr. Bocca feels the investigations ended with the trial. Through his own personal investigations the author has found many reasons to believe that much evidence was purposely overlooked and destroyed by the law enforcement agents themselves, which indicates the possibility of a hired killer. Geoffrey Bocca feels that this case should be reopened and satisfactorily concluded not merely to bring the criminal to justice, but to bring justice to the members of the family and the friends whose lives have, indeed, been painful. . . .

Cancer Articles Stopped Smoker

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — Magazine articles on lung cancer have frightened Gov. Robert B. Meyner into giving up smoking. "I had to either give up smoking or give up reading magazines," he told a news conference Thursday. If the governor fails, it won't be because of inexperience. "This will be the fifth time I've given up the habit," he said.

One Way To A Singing Career Is Birthplace

By JAMES BACON HOLLYWOOD (AP) — One way to make your son famous is to see that he's born and reared in a certain neighborhood of South Philadelphia. That intelligence came after a chat with Frankie Avalon and Fabian, the teen-agers' delights. Both come from the same neighborhood in South Philadelphia that produced Eddie Fisher, the late Mario Lanza, James Darren, Bobby Rydell, Al Martino, Buddy Greco and Jody Sands. "All of us come from an eight-block radius," says Fabian. Avalon adds, "It's the only place in the country where mothers ask: 'How's your son's record doing?'" Although Fabian and Avalon compete for the same rock 'n' roll dollar, they are the best of friends—even share an apartment here. "We're just old neighbors," says Fabian. Avalon is 19 and Fabian has just turned 17. Both boys are doing very well in pictures, Avalon was in "Guns of the Timberland" with Alan Ladd and just finished "The Alamo" with John Wayne. Fabian is making a movie with Bing Crosby, who might be called the Frankie Avalonor Fabian of 1930. Fabian says Bing is one swell guy but he's not his favorite singer. "Who's that?" "Elvis, our leader, who else?" answers Fabian. Avalon's favorite is Frank Sinatra. Fabian, still going to high school, also studies acting with Sandy Meisner, the famed coach. He is an honest recording star, one of the few to admit he hasn't sold his first million record yet. "I had a couple around 800,000 but that's the closest."

Opening A Package Is 'Test Of Genius'

By HAL BOYLE NEW YORK (AP) — The test of real genius in America today is one's ability to open a package—not a particular package, just any package. An old-timer is a man who can remember when, to open a package, all you had to do was pull a string. Then—presto!—the knot would magically untie itself, you unfolded the wrapping paper, and the package was open. But to open a modern package is a job for neither a woman nor a weakling. It is a task for a man at his peak, and even he will find pure muscular strength is no longer the answer. He will find he also needs durability, scientific ingenuity, hope, animal cunning—and often all the outside help he can muster. Here are a few tips on how to open a package: Try to catch it by surprise. Call in a few trusted neighbors, and surround it in the dark. At a given signal you switch on the lights, and everybody attacks it. and destroyed by the law enforcement agents themselves, which indicates the possibility of a hired killer. # MEET DR. BEVERLY LAKE

Democratic Candidate For Governor

Dr. Beverly Lake

An Open Letter to the People of Pitt County

P. O. Box 620
Greenville, N. C.
April 23, 1960

Dear Fellow Citizens

The State Headquarters of Dr. I. Beverly Lake for Governor last week appointed me as Chairman of the Pitt County Committee working for Dr. Lake's nomination in the May 28 primary. This action followed my selection by a group of citizens from the various communities of Pitt County.

Dr. Lake is a resident of Wake County, his father, Dr. James L. Lake having been Professor of Physics at Wake Forest College from 1888-1932. He is 54 years of age and is married to the former Gertrude Bell of Raleigh. They have one son, now in Law School, at Wake Forest, and one granddaughter.

Dr. Lake holds the following academic degrees: Bachelor of Science (BS), Wake Forest, 1925; Bachelor of Laws (LLB), Harvard, 1929; Master of Laws, (LLM), Columbia University, 1940; Doctor of Science in Law, (SJD), Columbia, 1946. NO OTHER CANDIDATE POSSESSES THIS EDUCATIONAL BACKGROUND.

At the present time Dr. Lake is a practicing attorney. FOR 18 YEARS, FROM 1937 TO 1955, HE WAS A PROFESSOR OF LAW IN THE LAW SCHOOL OF WAKE FOREST. During a part of this period, he also taught in the Law School of Duke University.

As a teacher himself for 18 years, DR. LAKE HAS HAD MORE FIRST-HAND EXPERIENCE IN EDUCATION THAN ANY OTHER CANDIDATE FOR GOVERNOR. He believes it vital and necessary to our state and national welfare to improve the quality of our public schools. He favors reducing the classroom pupil load to 25, as soon as funds are found to accomplish this.

DR. LAKE WROTE THE NORTH CAROLINA PUPIL ASSIGNMENT ACT, THE LEGAL KEystone OF THE PEAR-SALL PLAN, UNDER WHICH OUR PUBLIC SCHOOLS NOW OPERATE. This law has received almost unanimous praise from school officials in North Carolina.

In 1952 he was appointed Assistant Attorney-General of North Carolina by the Honorable Harry McMullen, then Attorney General. In this capacity, it fell upon his shoulders to defend our State in 1954 in the historic school case before the U. S. Supreme Court. HE RECEIVED WIDE ACCLAIM FROM

THE OTHER SOUTHERN STATES AND NEUTRAL EXPERTS IN THE FIELD OF LAW FOR HIS ABLE PRESENTATION, which revealed his knowledge and understanding of this legal situation.

From 1952-55, again at the request of Mr. McMullen, Dr. Lake represented our State and some of its municipalities in a series of utility rate hearings involving various power and telephone companies. The outcome of these hearings has resulted in considerable savings of money each year to the users of electricity and telephones in this state. For this service, DR. LAKE WAS COMMENDED BY OUR LATE GOVERNOR, THE HONORABLE W. KERR SCOTT.

In 1959, it fell upon Dr. Lake at the request of the Board of Elections of Northampton County, to defend the county elections officials and the State elections laws. This suit challenged the right of this State to require that voters be able to read and write. DR. LAKE WON THIS CASE IN THE STATE COURTS AND IN THE U. S. SUPREME COURT AGAINST A LEGAL STAFF OF THE NAACP.

During the next four years, every one realizes that one of the most important tasks facing our next governor will be the defense of our laws and institutions in the Courts. NO OTHER CANDIDATE FOR GOVERNOR HAS THE LEGAL KNOWLEDGE AND EXPERIENCE AS DOES DR. LAKE.

Dr. Lake favors a balanced State budget, is against deficit State financing, and is STRONGLY AGAINST RAISING OUR ALREADY BURDENSOME TAXES FOR DESIRABLE BUT NON-ESSENTIAL IMPROVEMENTS. (One other candidate has already offered a program which would necessarily increase our taxes substantially.) Dr. Lake fears the fundamental services of Government and necessary improvements would be endangered by non-essential spending and political extravagance. He does not believe our children and grandchildren should be burdened for our own conveniences which they will never see. For the past 4 years our state government has averaged spending $20,000,000 more each year than it received in revenue.

Dr. Lake believes that the right of workers to organize and bargain collectively and to strike for better working conditions and better wages is a fundamental freedom. He also believes in the right of workers to choose not to belong to a labor union and that no person should be denied the right to earn a living because of non-membership in a labor union. Accordingly, DR. LAKE WILL STRONGLY RESIST ANY ATTEMPT TO REPEAL OR WEAKEN OUR NORTH CAROLINA "RIGHT TO WORK LAW."

DR. LAKE STRONGLY SUPPORTS NORTH CAROLINA'S INDUSTRIAL PROCUREMENT PROGRAM. He believes that some changes in the rate schedule of our public utilities are needed to make North Carolina more attractive to industry.

DR. LAKE SUPPORTS THE WORK OF OUR FEDERAL, STATE AND LOCAL AGRICULTURAL LEADERS. "I shall seek the advice of farm organizations and the Department of Agriculture," he pledges. He will work cooperatively with these leaders in improving the markets for our farm products and finding new uses for them.

Dr. Lake favors certain reforms in our Court system directed toward a uniform, more efficient, and less costly system of justice for our people. He favors election of judges by the people and is against proposals which would eliminate this. HIS KNOWLEDGE, AS A PROFESSOR OF LAW FOR 18 YEARS, QUALIFIES HIM BEST IN DEALING WITH THIS PROBLEM.

DR. LAKE IS NOT A PROFESSIONAL POLITICIAN, BUT A PERSON EXPERIENCED IN GOVERNMENT AND LAW. He has no personal political ambitions, now or in the future. Rather, as governor, he wants to provide a progressive, balanced program which is suited to the needs, desires and interests of all the people of North Carolina. There are some who say this man is "radical"; IF DR. LAKE BE "RADICAL", I AM CERTAIN THAT 90% OF THE PEOPLE OF PITT COUNTY ARE ALSO "RADICAL."

North Carolina needs Beverly Lake for governor. I have agreed to head the Lake Committee of Pitt County because I am convinced he is best qualified by virtue of his intellect, his superior educational background, his experience in law and government, and his judgement of the needs, desires, and interests of all North Carolina. We need a governor who is not afraid of leadership. The interests of North Carolina will be best served by the nomination of Dr. Lake for governor in the May 28 primary. Your support will be appreciated.

Cordially yours,

K. B. Pace

Snead Back In Fairway With Greensboro Fans

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Famed golfer Sam Snead who put himself in a verbal sand trap at the close of the Greater Greensboro Open tournament, chipped out yesterday.

The Slammer, who has been in the rough with his fans since he admitted blowing a television golf match so the cameras could keep grinding, hit the sand trap Sunday when he commented on the "lousy" condition of the Star-mout Country Club course where the GGO is played.

"I have learned a lesson," said Sam from his White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., home yesterday. "I got my masters degree in public relations. From now on I'm going to keep my bloody mouth shut."

Snead won the Greensboro tournament for the seventh time Sunday, accepted the winner's check,

Cloninger Stars In Sally Loop-Win

By VERNON BUTLER
Tony Cloninger, who got a reported $115,000 for signing two years ago with the Milwaukee organization, wasted no time in making his presence felt in the South Atlantic League.

The husky, 19-year-old pitcher limited Asheville to four hits Thursday night in hurling the Jacksonville Braves to a 3-2 victory, their second straight by such a narrow margin.

Cloninger performed before a crowd of 3,013 fans who turned out for the Jacksonville home opener despite a steady rain that delayed the first pitch for 45 minutes.

Face setting Charlotte proved it is equally potent on the road by whipping Charleston 8-7 for a perfect slate after the first four games of the season. Columbia saved its best effort for the home inaugural, shading Savannah 3-2 for the first Redleg victory of the young season.

Knoxville pleased a crowd of 4,010 East Tennessee fans by slugging the Macon Dodgers 20-9. The four secondary openers attracted 11,472 fans, nearly 5,000 less than saw the first set of lid-lifters in better weather Monday

The White Sox won their first American League pennant in 40 years won 94 victories last season, and better than a third (35) of them were by one run. Winter deals for Minnie Minoso and Gene Freese and a spring swap for Roy Sievers, were supposed to provide more power and make things

ECC Stock

Frank Galloway, former standout tailback for Fike High in Wilson, will join football forces with East Carolina College this fall according to ECC pilot Jack Bowme.

A 175 pounder, Galloway was the workhorse in the Wilson backfield from his tailback slot. He played his last season at Wilson under Coach Paul Marklin and was a member of the 1959 North Carolina Shrine Bowl team. His post-season honors include All-State and All-Eastern.

A triple threat, Galloway will join a former teammate, Glenn Bass, on the East Carolina club. The prep star stands at six feet.

Approve Game

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The National Football League Players Assn. reports the league has approved a postseason game in Miami's Orange Bowl with 75 per cent of the gate going into the players' pension fund.

The tentative date of the contest is Jan. 8. It will match the second place teams in the Eastern and Western conferences.

At the opening session Thursday of its annual two-day meeting, the association discussed the extension of its pension plan to players on league rosters during the 1959 season.

During the American Revolution the British commander, Lord Cornwallis, found Charlotte, N.C., very troublesome. He described the city as a "damned hornet's nest."

easier this year.

So now the White Sox have played two and won two — and both have been put away by one-run margins, and in the last inning.

They beat Kansas City a second time Thursday, winning 6-5 on Ted Kluszewski's single in the 11th after winning reliever Gerry Staley had blanked the A's on one hit for five innings. That hoisted the White Sox into a first-place tie with idle Detroit.

The New York Yankees backed a four-hit shutout spun by rookie John Gabler and Eymé Duren with successive fourth-inning homers by Bill Skowron and Gil McDoug-

Heavyweight Contracts Signed For June 20th

By WHITNEY MARTIN
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—After nine months of quarrels and investigations, claims and counterclaims, champion Ingemar Johansson and Floyd Patterson have signed for a heavyweight title rematch.

Today, Johansson is back in Geneva, Switzerland, and ex-champion Patterson at his Newtown, Conn., training camp. The next time they meet will be at the weigh-in for their second match at New York's Polo Grounds June 20.

The fight was signed and sealed at the offices of the New York State Athletic Commission Thursday.

Simultaneously with the signing was announcement that the high bid of TelePrompster, Inc., of $700,000 for the closed-circuit television, radio and motion picture rights had been accepted by Feature Sports, Inc., promoter of the fight. The fight will be carried on closed-circuit TV only.

The ticket scale will range from $10 to $100, and Jack Fugazy, official of the new promotional organization, beamingly predicted a million-dollar gate.

The signing was accomplished amid more than the usual confusion, with a record turnout of photographers and reporters at the commission offices.

Both parties seemed content with the terms of the contract, which were, in brief:

Each fighter to receive 25 per cent of the gross gate, less taxes and expenses for ring officials and other expenses.

Patterson to receive 50 per cent of all radio, TV and film monies received by the promoter.

Johansson to receive 35 per cent of all radio, TV and film monies, plus all the receipts from film rights in Scandinavia and radio rights in Sweden.

Four days before the fight the promoter must deposit $200,000 in a Swedish bank in escrow for Johansson.

Patterson, should he win, to give Johansson a return bout unless the promotion of Feature Sports, Inc., within 90 days.

Should he successfully defend his title, Johansson will be free to name any promoter he pleases for his next title defense.

Tobs Lose 7-6 To Durham Nine

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Durham edged Wilson, 7-6, and Burlington blasted Winston-Salem, 8-3, in Carolina League games Thursday night.

Rain washed out the Greensboro-Raleigh contest at a 2-2 deadlock after five innings. The teams will make it up tonight with the loop's first doubleheader of the season.

Durham combined a seven-hit attack with four timely double plays for their win over Wilson. The Bulls got off to an early lead, with two runs in the first inning and another in the third.

The Tobs came back to tie it at 3-3, but Durham put together four runs in the sixth inning to get its margin.

Burlington catcher Doc Edwards slammed a homer with two runners on in the first inning to begin the rout of Winston-Salem. In the eighth, Jerry Webb showed some more Burlington hitting power with a homer with Edwards on base.

George Banks and Ronnie Paul hovered for Greensboro in the five-inning washout with Raleigh.

The games tonight: Raleigh at Greensboro (2), Winston-Salem at Burlington, Wilson at Durham.

Smith, Prentice Lead Golf Field

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Fay Crocker, the winning master of concentration; Wiffi Smith, piano-playing redhead, and Joe Ann Prentice, who again is knocking at the door to the big money, led the 10,000 Dallas Women's Open into its second round today.

They shot 2-under-par 68s Thursday to top a field of 40 pros and amateurs that started the fifth annual tournament.

Miss Smith, from St. Clair, Mich., carries a piano around in her car on which to practice classical music. She is after her second Dallas Open title.

Miss Crocker, the veteran from Montevideo, Uruguay, who thinks concentration is the best part of her game and is the leading money winner of the year to prove it, hit 17 greens and was putting like a machine.

Miss Prentice, from Birmingham, Ala., also was putting well, pushing in one for 30 feet and one for 20. She has yet to win a first place in five years of campaigning.

Louise Suggs of Cincinnati, who was champion here last year, wound up with a steady 70 for fourth place.

Sixth Inning Rally Dumps Griffon Club

GRIMESLAND—In a game marred by nine errors, Grimesland scored six runs in the sixth inning to overcome a Griffon lead and defeat the visitors 9-8.

The loss was the first of the season for Griffon.

The sixth-inning rally opened when Griffon starter Jack Groat ran into a streak of wildness, walking three batters. With the bases full, two errors allowed two runs to score and two more were forced in by base on balls.

Lindsey Williams delivered the fatal blow of the frame—a single that scored the tying and winning run. It was Williams' third hit of the game. He had previously singled and tripled.

Bruce Cayton went the distance for Grimesland, walking four and striking out nine. He allowed seven hits but five errors kept him in constant trouble.

Coach Jim Mallory reported this morning that it would take until some time next week for the Utilities Department to have the lights at Guy Smith Stadium in playable condition.

Pittsburgh On Home Run Spree, Dump Phillies 11-5

By EDWILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

No National League club hit fewer home runs (11) than did the Pittsburgh Pirates last year, but now the Bucs have boomed nine in their first seven games, tops for the new season.

They rapped three while tagging 15 hits for an 11-5 job on the Philadelphia Phillies Thursday night. Hal Smith hit his second of the year, both three-run shots, and Bob Skinner made his third good for a pair of runs.

Fact is, the only solo shot-saving relief from Roy Face in the seventh for his second major league victory, belted his first homer in the majors off Hank Mason in the sixth.

Young lefty Jim O'Toole (1-1) blanked the Braves on one hit until the seventh. Then Red Schoendienst, leading the league with a .455 average (10-for-22) in his comeback, got a hit off O'Toole's glove, went to second on a walk and scored on Hank Aaron's single. Mel Roach made it a two-run inning with a sacrifice fly.

Bold Predictions

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Rival managers predicted their boys would win by a knockout but oddsmakers counted Len Matthews an 8-5 favorite over Doug Vaillant for their lightweight bout tonight.

The scheduled 10-rounder at Miami Beach Auditorium will be nationally televised (NBC) starting at 10 (EST).

Neither Matthews, 20, of Philadelphia nor Vaillant, 22, of Santiago, Cuba, has fought as many as 30 times.

Vaillant, never knocked out, lost one fight in 23. His 20 wins include 12 knockouts plus a decision over Chico Morales for the Cuban lightweight title.

Matthews has won 24 of his 28 fights, has knocked out 14 foes and lost by kayo once — to Carlos Ortiz.

Blue Devils Host Deacs

Duke puts its leadership in the Atlantic Coast Conference baseball race on the line today when the Blue Devils invade second place Wake Forest.

Duke has won its only two conference games while winning six of 10 games overall. Wake Forest is 4-1 in the ACC and 9-2 overall. A victory would push the Deacons into first and drop Duke to third.

There were no games scheduled Thursday and the Duke-Wake Forest game was the only one set today. Only two games are scheduled Saturday, Virginia at North Carolina State and South Carolina at Clemson.

Riley New Cage Coach

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP)—The University of Alabama has named Hayden Riley as its new basketball coach.

Riley, an assistant at Alabama since 1958, was elevated by the school's athletic committee shortly after Dr. Eugene Lambert resigned Thursday to become athletic director at Memphis State.

Lambert's resignation terminated 18 years of basketball coaching. His record is 263 victories and 167 losses, including a 49-49 record at Alabama.

Smith Wins Golf Tourney

FT. BRAGG, N.C. (AP)—Danville, Va., pro Al Smith won the professional division of the Ft. Bragg pro-am golf tournament which closed here Thursday.

Smith was low pro for the two-day tournament with 64-70—134 over the par 72, 6,232-yard Officers Club course.

Smith and Gen Clyde Box and pro Avery Beck of Kinston and amateur Joe Melvin tied for the pro-am division honors with low ball scores of 126.

Second in the pro division was Marilyn Stroud of Greenville, S.C. who won $225. Beck, Gene Briggs of Raleigh and Aubrey Apple of Greensboro were tied for third. Each won $175.

Third in the pro-am was the team of pro Joe Davies of Spartanburg, S.C., with 128.

When you buy an automobile — new or used — from a reputable dealer, it's not the close of a sale for him . . . it's the beginning of an obligation that runs for the life of your car. The dealer has made a sale, but he hasn't made a customer until he has demonstrated his willingness and ability to service your automobile to your complete satisfaction. The success of an automobile dealer depends not so much upon making sales — but making customers.

The automobile dealer is a business man — but first and foremost he is a member of your community. And a mighty active citizen he is. His participation in civic activities includes everything from donating prizes for local contests to donating cars for high school driver-training programs; from providing transportation to church groups, local officials and visiting celebrities to sponsoring safe-driving promotions; from organizing local charity drives to presiding over the Chamber of Commerce. The dealer depends upon his neighbors for his livelihood — not only this year, but in years to come. Every car on the streets of your town, bearing his identifying emblem, is his responsibility — whether spanking new or a veteran of more than a decade of service. His reputation for keeping his cars rolling is his stock in trade.

How can you tell a good dealer? Ask about him. How long has he been doing business in your community? How many people come back to him every time they trade in their cars? How are his service facilities? Is he an active and respected member of the community? And look for this emblem in his showroom. It's your assurance that the dealer fulfills the strict standards for advertising, sales and service of the National Automobile Dealers Association.

U.S. Teens In Germany Point To Misunderstanding

By REINHOLD ENSZ

BERLIN (AP) — A curtain of misunderstanding and indifference is separating American and German teen-agers in Allied-occupied West Berlin.

More than 100 American teen-agers—the sons and daughters of American military men and diplomats—live in a tightly-knit community here, but only a few of them have German friends.

"Dating Germans is frowned on by the kids at school," says pretty Carol Willoughby of Muskogee, Okla., a 17-year-old cheer leader at the U. S. Army's high school. "The American teen-agers here tend to stick together and have very little to do with German kids. I think it is mostly a matter of ignorance."

Miss Willoughby, whose father is a major, says some Americans arrive with a hostile attitude.

"They come over here," she says, "with the idea that a war is still going on. I have two younger brothers and I know they were expecting the continuance of a war movie when they came."

Other students confirmed her impressions.

Says Carolyn Weyand, 17, of Berkeley, Calif., president of the high school's student council:

"Our kids are isolated. Life seems to revolve around the Army movie theater, the PX and the youth club. Prejudice against Germans develops as a result of this isolation."

"The kids think the Germans are different and they tend to criticize them for it."

Miss Weyand points out that foreign students are star attractions at schools in the United States. But here, where there could be daily contacts, there are almost none.

"It's a shame our kids don't get out," she says. "As a result, Germans think Americans are snobbish. The Germans are very surprised when they find out that we are ordinary people."

Gordon Rankin, 17, of Timonium, Md., another senior at the Army high school, says, "I go out of (the community) very seldom, but I go out more than the others."

"There are more girls than boys at the school here and they get awfully mad if you date a German girl. The American girls pounce on you if you even dance with a German girl. I know of only one student who dates a German girl. He's not exactly looked down upon, but he is kidded about it."

Rankin, whose father is an intelligence officer, says one reason he hesitates to get out of the community is the fact that Germans stare at Americans, especially at the light-colored flashy clothing the Americans frequent.

"It's really embarrassing when you ride on the U-bahn (subway) the way the Germans stare at you," Rankin says. "I know a couple of Germans and I like them. The ones who seek you out are nice, but some of the delinquent types you see on the streets look at you as if they want to stomp you right into the ground."

Howard Salisbury, 16, of Pasadena, Calif., son of the U. S. Army's Berlin command provost marshal, comments, "Some of the American kids tend to think the Germans are beneath them because we are here as occupiers. But when they get to know some Germans they find out that they are just like anybody else."

All agreed that a big factor in keeping German and American teen-agers apart is the different dating customs.

"The German boys," says Miss Weyand, "sometimes get fresh. American girls prefer to keep things on a friendly basis."

Miss Willoughby comments: "German boys have asked me for dates. I turned them down because I don't know what to expect and I would be completely ill at ease. And I think they would be too."

The lack of contact isn't the fault of the U. S. Army. It has tried in various ways to get the American and German teenagers together, but met with little response from the Americans.

The principal of the high school, David Cook, of Concord, N. C., says, "I suspect that par-aren't completely to blame. Germans have something to do with mans sometimes do have a tendency to be rude."

Would-Be Governors Talk School Problems

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

School improvements and how to finance them were topics Thursday for campaigning candidates for governor.

John D. Larkins told women supporters in Henderson that the state should be able to provide 25 million dollars for raising teachers salaries without new taxes.

Malcolm B. Seawell said in a Rocky Mount speech that any program for public schools must be within a balanced budget, in the state's tradition of "sound fiscal practices."

Terry Sanford, who has emphasized school improvements in his platform, assured a group at Shelby that "if progress demands that we find new sources of revenue, we will find them."

Dr. I. Beverly Lake took another tack on schools in an address at Reidsville. He called for the state to follow racial segregation as its official policy in school operations, and to "use every lawful, practicable, peaceful means" to limit integration.

He said this would include persuasion to get Negro children now in white schools to return to schools for their own race.

Both Lake and Larkins are scheduled to be in Winston-Salem today. Lake will meet with supporters in the afternoon, and appear on an evening television program. Larkins opens his Forsyth County headquarters today and goes on to Wilkesboro tonight for a reception.

Seawell will go to Fayetteville for a speech to the Kiwanis Club. Sanford meets with women supporters from 21 western counties in Asheville today. He will fly back to Raleigh in time for a news conference at 4 p.m.

In the race for Senate, Sen. B. Everett Jordan is due back in the state from Washington for another stumping tour in his bid for a new term.

Addison Hewlett of Wilmington, opposing Jordan, will be in his Raleigh headquarters after campaigning in the western mountains. He will head into the east for the weekend.

Quiz Suspects In Rape-Slaying

MCALLEN, Tex. (AP) — Police questioned suspects today in an effort to solve the rape-slaying of a dark-haired beauty queen whose partially-clothed body was found floating in a canal Thursday.

The body of Miss Irene Garza, 25, missing for six days, was pulled from her home and less than a dozen blocks from the busy downtown section of this Lower Rio Grande Valley city.

The autopsy report showed the teacher died from blows on the head before she was tossed into the small canal.

Authorities estimated she had been in the water since Saturday night, shortly after leaving home in the family car to attend church. The car was found near the church Sunday.

Police and the Hidalgo County sheriff's department gave suspects lie detector tests. Results of the tests were not disclosed.

Near Riot Caused By Ghana's Ambassador

NEW YORK (AP) — Ghana's ambassador to the United Nations dropped in at Birdland with his jungle drums Thursday night—and nearly started a behind-the-scenes riot.

The diplomat, Alex Quaison-Sackey, 3, a jazz buff, was smilingly unaware of the ruckus caused by his visit to the so-called capital of America.

The hassle was touched off after the ambassador and two of his countrymen played a jump arrangement of "Caravan" with jazz drummer Buddy Rich, who is white.

Another performer, Negro drummer Art Blakey, got in a heated argument with Rich in the kitchen, accusing him of "making a fool out of the ambassador" by cutting up on the drums behind the ambassador's back.

Rich denied he was being disrespectful, and added: "I had nothing to play."

"Why didn't you get off then?" demanded Blakey.

Later, the two drummers nearly came to blows and had to be separated.

Blakey's group, the Jazz Messengers, trade off on the bandstand with Rich's sextet. Blakey also said no one had asked his band to pose for pictures with the ambassador.

It took considerable coaxing by Rich before the ambassador and his two countrymen finally consented to perform.

The diplomat—a colorful sight in his toga-like costume—told the 300 jazz fans that he would like to compare the native rhythms of West Africa with modern music.

He also put in a plug for the world jazz festival, to be held here in June. Quaison-Sackey is festival chairman.

Then the ambassador got behind a big odd-shaped drum called a Boma. Francis Cann, a member of Ghana's mission to the U.N., grabbed a "talking drum"—played by squeezing under the arm. Peter Nuama, another Ghana official, played another small drum.

After several pulsating, table-thumping native numbers, Rich and the originator of the world jazz festival, clarinetist Owen Engel, joined them in "Caravan." Birdland had never seen anything like it.

Then the roof fell in backstage. The musicians were angry at the publicity man. The management was angry at the musicians for disturbing the patrons. And nearly everyone was misfired at clarinetist Engel, who originated the whole idea of the ambassador's visit.

Noted Vocal Groups At Charter Night

SOUTHERN ARISTOCRATS TO APPEAR . . . Braxter Westmoreland, Jim Henderson, Jack Elkins, Alvin Connell.

The Southern Aristocrats, who for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barbershop Quartet Singing in America, Inc. will officially receive its charter, during the program and its chorus will show Saturday night.

The concert will be held in Wright Auditorium beginning at 8 p.m.

Profits from the show will go to the ECC Music Scholarship Foundation. The Music Department, directed by Dr. Earl Beach, is sponsoring the show.

The local chapter of the Society

Greensboro have taken part in international competition for the past two years. They have been semi-finalists both years. This year they will represent the Dixie district in Dallas, Texas where the International Quartet and chorus competition will be held in June.

Frank Hill, president of the local chapter, said tickets are being sold by several bands in this area including the Rose High School band, Winterville-Ayden band and the Farmville High School band.

Receptionist At Capitol Rides Herd On Youngsters

By REESE HART

RALEIGH (AP) The staid old halls of the Capitol echo the noisy chatter of school students these spring days. And thereby hangs a tale about a whistle.

Among her duties, Capitol receptionist Evelyn Clement rides hard on the thousands of rollicking youngsters who tour the Capitol.

"Sometimes they get so noisy it sounds like the roof is coming off," said Miss Clement. That's when she reaches in her desk drawer, gets her whistle and blows it.

When this happens, startled youngsters turn toward the area where the whistle-blowing came and are reminded to be quiet.

Occupants of the Capitol have become accustomed to the whistle and expect it.

From the last of March to mid-May, an estimated 75,000 school children from throughout North Carolina visit the Capitol and other points of interest here.

Miss Clement has been Capitol receptionist for 5½ years. Her job requires patience and understanding.

"Most of the students who go through the Capitol are noisy," Miss Clement said. "The first and second graders are easy to control. They are less of a problem and are cute as can be."

Miss Clement, who loves her work, is never amazed at the remarks of youngsters. One small boy strolled up to her desk and casually observed: "I'll bet you don't make much money working in this hole."

Most of the students want to see Gov. Hodges, but are unable to do so because of his tight office schedule.

"I tell them it's not that he doesn't want to see them," Miss Clement explained. "He takes the attitude that what he is doing is more important for the children as a whole than seeing them individually. Some students get to see the governor as he comes and goes to lunch. Sometimes the governor will see a group of students if they write in advance and ask that they be permitted to drop in to see him."

The Capitol, art museum, hall of history and museum of natural history are the major points of interest. Those in the eighth grade or above may visit the governor's mansion between 10:30 a.m. and noon weekdays. The class must first obtain a pass from Miss Clement.

"For some reason, the students like to go to Central Prison to see the gas chamber," Miss Clement said.

Getting back to her whistle, Miss Clement received a jumbo size whistle as a Christmas gift from Bill John, research assistant in the governor's office.

Bill composed a poem which accompanied the gift. It read:

"Twas the first day of spring-time and all through the Square not a creature was stirring; the rotunda was bare.

The pamphlets were stacked on a table with care, while Hodges and Barnhardt from another did stare.

Business as usual was being carried out, with never a sound approaching a shout.

When out on the lawn there arose such a clatter, there was never a question about what 'as the matter.

The school kids had arrived to visit the place, with noise and mischief on each little face.

The din was terrific as all through the hall the kids and their teachers began having a ball.

But worse was to come as all of us knew, the kids would turn white and the air would turn blue.

So each of us crouched on our pads like a missile, and waited for Evelyn to blow that damn whistle.

Invents Portable Landing Pad

MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Ordinary rooftops, sheltered bays or rivers, and even swamps could become landing areas for helicopters or other vertical-landing aircraft through use of his portable landing pad, a Mansfield inventor claims.

Fred E. Lingfelter came up with the idea several years ago, applied for a patent in 1955 and now has the idea ready for presentation. The pad is inflated with air, helium or some similar gas and the idea is to distribute the aircraft's weight uniformly over the area.

BIG LEAK

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (AP) — A leaking tank truck sprayed 5,000 gallons of oil over 50 miles of highway near here. It cost the highway department $2,000 to lay sand over the oil streak.

Another Step By Lutheranism To Heal Breaches; 3 Mergers

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — Lutheranism, organizationally the most divided branch of American Christianity, today takes a major step toward healing some of the breaches.

Three denominations unite into one.

In colorful ceremonies, 1,000 representatives of the American Lutheran Church, the Evangelical Lutheran Church and the United Evangelical Lutheran Church will seal their long-negotiated merger.

It is the first Lutheran consolidation in the 20th Century to combine bodies of different national backgrounds.

And it paces the field in a developing pattern of Lutheran unification that promises to bring 95 per cent of the eight million members into three large bodies within the next three years.

Today's union forms a denomination of 2½ million Lutherans.

It has been in the planning stage for 12 years, with thousands of man-hours spent in working out bylaws, a constitution, doctrinal statement and other merger documents.

The new church takes its name, the American Lutheran Church, from one of its merging constituents.

Dr. Henry F. Schub, of Columbus, Ohio, president of the old ALC, termed the union "a giant step toward the ultimate goal, one Lutheran Church in America."

It joins Lutherans of German origin from the ALC, those of Norwegian background from the ELC, and those of Danish background from the UELC.

Other Lutheran mergers, the last one in 1930, have involved members in the same national groupings.

The union reduces from 16 to 14 the number of Lutheran denominations in this country. Another merger, a four-way one set for 1962, will reduce the number to 11, with most all Lutherans then in three large bodies.

This is part of a trend. Back in the 1880's, there were more than 70 different Lutheran denominations, separated largely by cultural and geographical factors.

Although Lutherans, organizationally, have been the most widely divided, few other Protestant traditions have been so generally united in doctrines and practice.

They all hold virtually the same beliefs, with scripture the decisive authority.

The three groups involved in the merger passed out of existence Thursday, with a note of nostalgia, marking their final sessions.

But they faced the union with jubilation. "Praise God from whom all blessings flow," representatives of the ELC sang as they adjourned, for the last time.

Each of the groups had existed,

CHAPTER 13
"I've been here before with Miss Marshall," Hero said to Isobel Paradrine, "but there were some things I wanted to ask you."

His statement seemed to call for a reply from Isobel, and she made none. She remained quietly standing, leaning an elbow on the polished ebony case of the grand piano, while Hero went over to the harp and this time made a thorough examination of it.

She watched him silently as he rocked the instrument on its base, tested the tuning keys, the strings, the pedals, thumped the frame, and then stood looking at it puzzled, pulling away at his lower lip and shaking his head slightly.

Isobel said, "I can see that we have two different points of view, Mr. Hero—yours that the harp was somehow played by human hands, and mine that it wasn't."

"You are wrong there, Miss Paradrine," Hero said. "When I am engaged on an investigation I have no point of view whatsoever beyond what is suggested by the evidence. The evidence in this case is that," he nodded toward the harp—"this is a first-class harp, kept in tune, and in excellent condition. I see no indication that it has been tampered with in any way. Unless someone managed to enter this room, sit at it, and pluck the strings, it ought not to have played."

Isobel sighed, nodded, and then said gravely, "And yet it did."

"Will you tell me about it, please?" Hero asked.

Isobel said, "I think my brother would be better able to do so, since it was he who was first upon the scene the night it happened."

"Lord Paradrine has already been kind enough to give me his version. I should now like to have yours."

Isobel's smile contained some of that pensive gentleness of the sheltered and wellborn when they encounter cynicism and suspicion. She said, "It was during the night—I heard the harp play—I could not imagine—"

"Where were you when you heard it?" Hero asked her.

"In my room."

"Were you awake or asleep? That is to say, did the music awaken you?"

"I was awake—I have not slept very well since that night when—"

"Yes," Hero nodded sympathetically. "I see. Was your door open or shut?"

Isobel said, "Shut—no open—no, I'm sorry, I just don't remember."

"But you heard it clearly?"

"Yes."

"Did you recognize the melody?"

"Yes. It was Greves' My Bonnie Dear."

"Ah! You were familiar with it."

"My mother used to play it."

"Did you think perhaps it might have been—your mother—returned?"

"No. I only lay there quite cold with horror, thinking of the nun, the harp, and the doom that lies upon the Paradrines when the two come together."

Hero was surprised? a dramatic and Normlike quality had suddenly displaced the matter-of-fact housekeeper of Paradrine Hall. Her face had altered, as had the whole expression of her slender body.

"Mistakenly pursues those to whom the nun appears," Isobel continued. "There is misfortune upon this house."

Hero thought to himself, "Was she sincere or was it an act?"

Aloud he said, "You believe this, don't you?"

Isobel's gaze was direct and without guile. "Yes," she said with a kind of dignity and simplicity, "I am a Paradrine."

Hero returned to the thread of her narrative. "You lay there and listened. What happened then?"

"I heard my brother shout, 'Enid! Enid! This door is locked—fetch me your keys.'"

"Was the room ordinarily kept locked?"

"Sometimes—particularly if there were children in the house. Sometimes she is invisible, but she was there. She threw my father's picture down. It was an ornament! There is nothing you or anyone can do!" she cried.

"There will be a death in this house. Someone will die!"

"Who do you think?" said Mr. Hero with such matter-of-fact simplicity that it startled Isobel out of her drama.

She said, "I—I don't know, I'm sure—none doesn't."

Hero nodded perfunctorily. "Let's hope perhaps this time it may be avoided. And thank you for having been more than kind and generous with your time."

Halfway through the door he turned and said, "Oh, I'm sorry, I've been meaning to ask—is there a tide table in the house?"

"Yes," Isobel said, "there's one in the telephone closet by the entrance hall—where the telephone is. We keep it for those who go sailing."

Mr. Hero said, "Thank you," and went out wondering how much of all he had heard was fantasy or imaginings, or out-and-out lies, and how much truth there was in any of it, and whether Meg would be able to help him sort it out before all hell broke loose in that house again and someone got hurt.

since then in every century."

Hero merely nodded and said, "Might I see your room now? I believe it was there the first manifestations took place."

Isobel said, "Of course. Come. I'll take you there."

They went out, and Isobel did not lock the door. Hero wondered to himself how long it would remain unlocked.

As they crossed the threshold into Isobel's apartment, she said, "This was once my father's room." And then asked, "Was there anything you wished to ask me about it?"

"About the night of the manifestations."

Isobel said with a kind of resentment, "I was invaded on the night of June the twenty-ninth."

Hero remembered making a note of the date and quite suddenly knew why. "What happened?" he asked.

Isobel replied, "I seemed as though all the furies had been let loose. I was awakened by my bed being violently shaken, and someone or something pulling at the bedclothes. When I turned on the light the bedclothes were in a heap upon the floor. I had an Adam mirror. It is no longer there—it was shattered—and at the same time that talloxy was overturned. Before my eyes my father's picture fell from the wall to the floor."

"Were you frightened?" Hero asked.

"Yes, I was terrified," Isobel replied. "I knew it was the nun. Sometimes she is invisible, but she was there. She threw my father's picture down. It was an ornament! There is nothing you or anyone can do!" she cried.

Pessimist Or An Optimist In The Business Trends

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP) — Business news this week is as changeable as the April weather.

You can be a pessimist or an optimist depending on which item you choose to give the more weight. Or you can balance them and wait and see.

The stock market continues to have its sinking spells—and recoveries—as traders react to the sweet or the sour in the day's news.

That many think the market is in for further declines is shown by the rise in the short position for the second straight month. It now totals 3,165,338, the highest number of shares sold short since last November.

A trader goes short when he sells borrowed stocks. He expects the price to fall so that he can replace them at a lower cost, and thus pocket a profit.

But a high volume of short sales can help the market, too. It means that when prices fall those who sold short sooner or later will buy to repay their loans. This guarantees a market, or a cushion to the fall.

The mixed character of corporate business these days is being reduced to figures as the earnings reports for the first three months flow in. Record profits by some companies contrast with declining net income of others.

Scattered through the reports are a growing number of those who operated at a loss in the first three months of what was acclaimed as the dawn of the Golden Sixties.

But dividend payment totals continue to rise. In the first three months they ran 7 per cent ahead of the first quarter of 1959. In some cases the gains were from increased dividend rates. In others the increase came from paying the same rate on more shares outstanding.

The faltering in some lines of business after a brisk start could not stop the Gross National Product from rising to a record high. This is the dollar volume of all goods and services in the nation.

But even the record of 498 billion dollars, on a seasonally adjusted annual rate, shows some scars of the slowdown in business. The prediction before the slowdown was that the GNP would be even closer to the half-trillion mark.

Biggest factor in boosting the total to a new high was the build-up of inventories at an annual rate of nine billion dollars, a pace that was noticeably slackening in the final weeks of the quarter.

State and local governments did their bit by boosting their spending by 1 1/2 billion dollars at an annual rate. That old economic standby, the consumer, increased his outlays by 3 1/2 billion dollars at an annual rate.

The consumer managed this although the annual rate of total personal income increased by less than 1 1/2 billion dollars during the period. Payroll totals were down, reflecting rising unemployment and shorter work weeks.

Individual industries also have their optimistic and pessimistic news to report. Automakers note that better weather has meant greater new car sales, but with dealers' stocks still high.

Would Seat Red China In UN If They Disarm

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — A package deal for Red China — a United Nations seat for agreement to disarm — was proposed Thursday by Nobel Prize Chemist Linus Pauling.

The California Institute of Technology professor said diplomatic recognition of Communist China could hasten disarmament agreements.

Pauling said nations have reached the point "where we are forced to give up the idea of war whether we like it or not. I should hope we would like it."

He spoke on a program arranged by the Chapel Hill - Durham branch of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom. He also held a news conference.

He predicted the Geneva talks will bring within three months an agreement to ban nuclear testing.

Both the United States and Russia have nuclear weapons stockpiled sufficient to destroy the world, he said. "The question in my mind now is what value would future bomb tests have for the two countries."

Photographers Gathering Today

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — More than 200 photographers gathered here today for the opening of the 11th annual Southern Short Course in Press Photography.

The keynote address was given by Joseph Costa of New York City, chief photographer for King Features and chairman of the board of the National Press Photographers Assn.

The two-day meeting includes talks and technical discussions. A Southern Photographer of the Year and TV Photographer of the Year will be named Saturday night.

Handful Tied Up Port Of New York

NEW YORK (AP)—A handful of white collar workers, including some girls on the picket lines, tied up the vast port of New York for ten hours Thursday.

The demonstration was called off after a representative bargaining election was set for next Thursday.

It was a case of about 90 office workers, half of them women, keeping some 20,000 dock workers off the piers. The dockers, members of the International Longshoremen's Assn., refused to cross picket lines.

An ILA spokesman said in late afternoon: "All the men will be back to work tomorrow morning."

One husky stevedore, commenting on the violence of past waterfront strikes, and watching two girls picketing a pier, said: "Goon squads couldn't stop us from going to work, but these dolls did."

All but four of the port's dozens of major piers were tied. The employees, the New York Ship-ping Assn. (NYSAs), which represents 170 major steamship and stevedoring firms, said Thursday's work stoppage cost them more than $900,000.

The dispute is between the NYSAs and Local 153 of the Office Employees International Union.

Would Nominate Gov Rockefeller

SCOTTSLUFF, Neb. (AP)—State Sen. Terry Carpenter says that if Nebraskans send him to the Republican National Con-vention he plans to nominate Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York for president.

"Only the governor can stop me," Carpenter said Thursday night.

"If the governor personally tells me not to nominate him, I won't. But that's the only thing that will stop me," Carpenter remarked.

Carpenter said it irks him to think that Vice President Richard M. Nixon might not have oppo-sition at Chicago in July.

"And I don't think Nixon can win in November," he added.

Carpenter created an uproar at San Francisco in 1956 when he became angered because Nixon had no opposition for vice presi-dent.

He attempted to nominate a mythical "Joe Smith" as an op-ponent. But he was cut off abrup-tly by the chair.

"Nomination of Nixon at Chi-cago without opposition would be just a sequel to San Francisco. It seems that those who control the Republican party don't even want to go through the motions at Chicago," said Carpenter.

He said he didn't know Gov. Rockefeller personally.

"But his public appearances have impressed me and I think he is our best man," Carpenter commented.

Carpenter has a double role in the state's May 10 primary, seek-ing the nomination for governor and a seat with the convention delegation.

Politically, his household is di-vided with his wife, Hazeldean, a candidate for delegate to the Democratic National Convention as a backer of Sen. John F. Ken-edy of Massachusetts.

Carpenter for 20 years was a Democrat, serving one term in Congress. He switched parties in 1952, saying he thought the Re-publican party had more room for improvement.

Churchwomen In Lenten Works

During Lent the Women of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Green-ville, were engaged in many wor-ship and study activities.

For their general meeting in March, the Curate, Rev. Richard Ottaway, presented a talk on "College Work." He explained his work with the students at East Carolina College.

At the April meeting the Altar Guild gave a quiz program. The questions were true and false based on the Altar Guild work.

Each chapter has studied the book, "Great Ideas of the Bible," once a week.

In addition to these meetings, Rev. Ottaway has led a study on "The Creed" each Tuesday night. Miss Venetia Cox has conducted instruction on the "The Gospels" Wednesday mornings.

On Thursday night a Pot-Luck supper for the Parish family has been held at which the Rev. John W. Drake, Jr., the rector, has spoken on the Holy Communion.

Communion services were held each Holy Day and every Thurs-day. The spring ingathering of the UTO was made at the morning service on the Feast of the An-nunciation.

Several women of St. Paul's plan to attend the annual meet-ing in Edenton. Preparations are being made for the Diocesan Con-vention to be held here in May.

Show Of The Month Ends Season On A Bright Note

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—CBS' Show of the Month wound up its season Thursday night on a pleasant, if minor, note. The play was "Years Ago," a 90-minute adaptation of Ruth Gordon's dramatic memoir of about how, in 1912, she set out from Wollaston, Mass., to become an actress.

The slight story was full of warm touches and gentle humor. Sandra Church, although a bit mature to be a convincing 18-year old, was a determined and completely stage-struck young Ruth Gordon Jones. Robert Preston, whose vitality is a bit over-powering when confined within a small TV screen, played the salty and loveable father. Peggy Conklin was just right as the senti-mental and affectionate wife and mother.

More vignette than comedy, "Years Ago" provided a gentle and sweet interlude in the week's out-pour of assorted mayhem.

Two of TV's most intelligent, brightest women stars can find regular network employment only by panel-sitting on games shows. It seems curious that CBS and NBC can't find a spot for a day-time show for either Arlene Fran-cis or Faye Emerson.

Arlene is such a skillful hostess that she, more than anyone else, is Jack Paar's vacation-time replacement. And Faye, who has been sitting in recently for Dave Garroway on the "Today" show has put seasoning into what was degenerating into a rather drear-ily predictable morning stew for the viewers.

That crazy Western with the jazz theme, "Shotgun Slade," now is seen over 200 TV stations—and it isn't a network, but a syndi-cated show. "Gunsmoke," with one of the biggest network line-ups in the business has 202 sta-tions.

Johnny Desmond, the singer, will be host on NBC's "Music on Ice" series which will take over the network's Sunday night rat-ings battle against Ed Sullivan this summer "Wichita Town," bounced recently from its Wednes-day night spot on NBC, and "Rich-ard Diamond," which suffered a similar fate earlier, will turn up soon—as reruns—in the current Startime Hour. CBS' "To Tell the Truth" has a chance to build its

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market leaned to the upside in moderately active trading early this afternoon. Averages were dampened by a sharp loss of Union Carbide.

For most key stocks, gains of fractions to a point outnumbered losers in the same range.

The industrial average was hobbled by a loss exceeding three points by Union Carbide. The big chemical company reported record quarterly earnings by a narrow margin but percentage sales increase was greater than profit growth and the firm's president said second quarter earnings may not equal the year ago figure.

A slightly higher tone was displayed by steels, rails, motors, aircrafts, tobaccos, airlines and coppers, the latter helped by firmer prices for the red metal in the world market.

Drugs, rubbers and building materials drifted off. Utilities and electrical equipments were irregular.

Radio Corp. was up more than a point of published news of a stepup in reduction of color television sets. U.S. Freight gained more than a point after the Interstate Commerce Commission approved volume rates proposed by freight forwarders for piggy-back or trailer-on-flatcar shipments between New York and Chicago.

Polaroid leaped more than 3. Ampex dropped about a point.

Republic Steel reported record first quarter earnings. The stock pared on early gain of about a point.

Gains of about a point were shown by Eastman Kodak, Brunswick, Siegler and Boeing.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off 27 at 618.88. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .10 at 213.90 with the industrials off .10, the rails up .30 and the utilities up .10.

Corporate bonds edged ahead. U.S. governments eased.

NEW YORK (AP) — A federal court jury resumes deliberations today in the case of Rep. Adam Clayton Powell Jr., charged with income tax evasion.

The jurors—eight women, including one Negro, and four men—were locked up in a hotel overnight after they reported to Judge Frederick van Pelt Bryan that they had been unable to reach a verdict.

The judge said at 10:15 p.m. that the jurors, who received the case at 1 p.m. reported in a note that they had been unable to reach a decision "and since 3 p.m. have been deadlocked."

Powell, 51-year-old Negro Democratic congressman, is charged with falsifying a 1951 income tax return he filed for his wife, jazz pianist Hazel Scott, Miss Scott, who is estranged from Powell and has made her home in Paris for years, is not a defendant in the tax case.

Powell, if convicted, could get up to five years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

During the trial that began March 8, the judge dismissed two of the three counts in the indictment on the ground the government had failed to substantiate them. The dismissed counts dealt with a joint return filed by Powell and his wife for 1952.

C-Of-C Annual Dinner Tonight

Archie K. Davis, chairman of the board of directors of Wachovia Bank and Trust Co., is the scheduled featured speaker for the Annual Dinner and Meeting of the Greenville Chamber of Commerce tonight in East Carolina College's New South Cafeteria.

Past Pres. J.W. Howard Moyer will preside over the first segment of the meeting that begins at 7 o'clock. Pres. Charles A. White, who took office Feb. 1, will preside during the second half of the program.

Willard T. Kyzer of the local Chamber reported this morning over 200 reservations have been made.

Davis, state senator from Forsyth County, has been a state leader in the field of economic development. He was the first president of the Northwestern North Carolina Developers Association.

The Wachovia banking firm with which he is affiliated has recently merged with the local Guaranty Bank and Trust Co.

Kyzer, this morning, expressed gratitude to the Greenville Exchange and Kiwanis Clubs for co-operating in tonight's annual affair. Both clubs will meet with the Chamber for their respective weekly meetings, scheduled each Friday.

The dramatic production, "Journey to the Day," tells the story of the hospitalized mentally ill through the experiences of six patients involved in group psychotherapy. It will also note the progress which has already been made in treating mental illness, and will point out the tremendous job involving research and application of research findings to treatment and prevention.

The play was researched at Columbus State Hospital in Ohio, and at the psychiatric division of St. Vincent's Hospital in New York. Fred Coe is the producer and John Frankheimer is the director.

This one and one-half hours of television viewing will not only prove educational, but also entertaining. Why not make a party of the occasion and invite friends to watch the play with you.

Members of the Tent Lodge No. 458 are asked to meet at the Lodge Hall tonight at 8 o'clock. Mrs. Launa Brewington, leader. Mrs. Martha Jones, secretary.

The City Union Usher will observe their 21st anniversary Sunday at 3 p.m. at Mt. Calvary Baptist Church. The Rev. J. A. Nimmo will deliver the sermon. The public is invited. Leroy Barnes, president.

A "Seven Seal" program will be held at Elm Grove Church Sunday at 11:30 a.m. The following speakers will be present: the Rev. N. Harris, the Rev. A. Harris, the Rev. Johnny James, the Rev. Freddie Foreman, the Rev. James Edwards, the Rev. A. Douglas and the Rev. Jasper Tyson.

Annual revival services are being held at Phillip Christian Church. The Rev. James L. Melvin of Goldsboro is the guest speaker.

The public is invited to attend the final service tonight at 7:30 p.m.

All candidates are expected to be present Sunday morning at 8 a.m. at the church for baptism.

The Youth Church will hold their regular monthly service Sunday. Sunday School will start at 9:30 a.m. and morning worship at 11 a.m. The pastor, Bishop J. F. McLaurin, will deliver the sermon. The Junior Choir, Gospel Chorus and the Junior Ushers will serve.

At 3 a.m. the Rev. D. A. Munford, of Hickory Grove Church of Christ in Kinston, will render services. He will be accompanied by his choir, ushers and congregation.

At 7:30 p.m. Bishop McLaurin, the Senior Choir, ushers and members will worship at Holy Trinity Church.

The Cavalier Club will have its monthly birthday celebration tonight for the members having birthdays in April.
