Banker Speaks To C-of-C

URGES AREA DEVELOPMENT . . . Davis "would like to see Northeastern North Carolina Development Association." (Reflector staff photo)

Big Development Group Favored By C-of-C Speaker

"It is almost impossible to change the economic situation within the confines of Pitt County alone," Archie K. Davis told the annual meeting of the Greenville Chamber of Commerce here last night.

Davis, chairman of the board of Wachovia Bank and Trust Company, was speaking to over 200 Chamber members and guests. He said, "I would very much like to see a Northeastern North Carolina Development Association," pointing out a similar association serves 11 Northwestern N. C. counties "very effectively" in industrial development.

Davis emphasized the Northwestern Association has not "and does not plan" to hire professional industry hunters. He said the association does not have them because "professionals tend to substitute money for talent and time."

He continued, "We feel that the time and talents of our own people, in many instances, provide us with services that cannot be bought."

"There is no reason in the world why Eastern North Carolina cannot take its place among the current trend toward industrial growth," Davis asserted, citing the "tremendous natural assets" of this area. "I know of no section of the country that is greater blessed with natural resources."

The Winston-Salem banker and Forsythe County Senator told his audience the Northwestern N. C. Development Association, since its origin in 1954, has "cooperated wholeheartedly" toward locating 68 new industries in the 11-county area with a population of nearly half a million.

He pointed out, since 1954 the area has added 7,141 new industrial workers and $23 million annually to the 11-county payroll.

He said the association encompasses 276 different communities with 141 already actively organized.

A policy of the northwestern association, Davis said, that has been "highly successful" is the willingness of each county within the association to aid the other counties in locating industries "when it becomes apparent the industry does not wish to settle in that county."

He explained an industry located "50 or more miles" from a particular community will still show its economic benefit in that community "largely because of today's mobilized labor force."

Davis declared, "Your area is faced today with the almost acute necessity to supplement personal incomes and that can only be done through industrial payrolls."

He cited comparative figures to indicate the economic progress in North Carolina during the 1950's which he termed "outstanding." He pointed out the rapid expansion of the state's population indicates "a considerable economic improvement, since expanding economies automatically attract population increases."

Davis said the state's income from manufacturing has risen from around $5 billion in 1950 to nearly $8 billion this year. The number of industries in Tar Heel during the same period rose from 6,575 to over 7,000, he said.

He told the group, "North Carolina farmers have just begun to scratch the surface" in diversification of farm production. "Farmers need as much help toward improvement as do industrialists," the banker said.

He indicated the trend in N. C. agriculture will necessarily lean toward consolidation into larger farms, since "farmers cannot prosper on a 68- to 70-acre farm." The average-sized farm in the state is around 70 acres.

Prior to Davis' address, the Chamber presented Dr. John D. Messick, former president of East Carolina College, a service citation.

Charles A. White, 1960 president of the Chamber, presided over the two-hour gathering and welcomed guests officially for the host group.

White introduced the new board of directors: Jarvis M. Allgood, P. Richard Atkinson, W. Stuart Bost, Morris C. Brody, John R. Hardy, J. B. Kittrell Jr., J. Brantley Speight, and F. Harding Sugg.

He also introduced the Chamber's officers for 1960: Kittrell, vice-president; J. Ed. Waldrop, vice-president; Hardy, treasurer; and Willard T. Kyzer, executive secretary.

White succeeds J. Howard Moyer. Kittrell and Waldrop succeed Joel Lawhon and White Hardy follows Waldrop as treasurer. Kyzer succeeds himself.

Appearing on the program, along with White and Davis, were Dr. Robert Lee Humber, Rev. J. W. Drank Jr., Kyzer, Mrs. Allison Hearne Moss and Miss Carolyn Hinton.

Air Force Officer Convicted Of Trying Sell Official Information

GOLDSBORO, N. C. (AP) — An Air Force officer was convicted Friday night of attempting to sell to businessmen "official Air Force information concerning proposed location of certain Air Force missile sites."

A general court-martial at Seymour Johnson Air Force Base here found Lt. Col. John E. Roesch, 41, guilty of conducting a military offense equal to a misdemeanor.

Roesch, who won the Silver Star at Pearl Harbor, was reprimanded, fined $490 a month for four months, and suspended from the privileges of his rank for 12 months without losing his rank. This means he cannot serve on a court-martial, loses his housing priority and similar other privileges. The conviction and sentence is subject to automatic review.

Roesch, a native of Dallas, Tex., reportedly could find no takers for his offer to exchange information about the proposed location of missile sites in this area for $2,500.

The Air Force emphasized that information about actual designation of missile sites was not involved in the case, that the act of "offering to disclose" what at best was highly speculative information was the basis of the case.

Roesch declined any comment. The court-martial deliberated an hour and a half before finding Roesch guilty of attempting to sell the information last Dec. 1 to two Goldsboro businessmen, J. M. Fordham, owner of a dry cleaning chain, and Bill Odom Sr., an auto dealer. He was acquitted of a charge of trying to sell it to real estate man C. W. Peacock on Nov. 24.

Odom said Roesch, whom he had known socially and through personal business dealings previously, approached "me and my associates" with the offer, but "we turned him down and forgot about it." He said the information reached Air Force officials through casual party talk at Fordham's home near the base.

"He was a friend of mine," Odom continued, "and I hope he still is. But the information got out and they called for a statement and I had to tell them the truth."

"I don't think he had any classified information. I think he was just trying to pick up some cash."

The Air Force said the information is not classified, but was not then authorized for disclosure to the public.

Roesch, a 19½ year veteran who would be eligible for retirement in December, is the aircraft maintenance officer for the 4th Tactical Fighter Wing at the Seymour Johnson base, which has units of the Tactical Air Command, Strategic Air Command and Air Defense Command. He is not a pilot.

Roesch won the Silver Star during the Dec. 7, 1941, attack by the Japanese on Hickam Field, where he was stationed as a first lieutenant. He was cited for heroism in loading a truck with machine-guns, driving across the field and setting up the weapons for retaliatory fire "while he himself was under heavy strafing by enemy planes."

He also was awarded the Purple Heart for wounds suffered in the same action.

Roesch is a son of Mrs. C. J. Roesch of Dallas. He is married and has three children.

The court-martial was composed of eight full colonels, with Col. William A. Adams of the 9th Air Force at Shaw Air Force Base, Sumter, S. C., serving as president. The law officer was Col. John G. Knaus of the Tactical Air Command headquarters at Langley AFB, Hampton, Va.

Former ECC President Honored

Messick Is Given Distinguished Citizen Award

Dr. John D. Messick, East Carolina College president from 1946 to 1960, was honored with the presentation of a Distinguished Citizen Award at the annual dinner of the Greenville Chamber of Commerce here last night.

President Charles A. White of the Chamber of Commerce reviewed the record of achievements of the educator-administrator, now assistant director of the National Committee on Special Education and Vocational Rehabilitation, Washington, D. C., in presenting the citation.

Expansion of the faculty, student enrollment and buildings, as well as enlargement of the services of East Carolina College under the administration of Dr. Messick, said Pres. White, contributed to the added prestige of the college.

Mrs. Messick accompanied Dr. Messick to the dinner, and was recognized along with other dinner guests at the Chamber meeting.

The citation, approved by the Chamber of Commerce directors, was read by White. It read: "Distinguished Citizen Award to Dr. John Deatur Messick; in grateful recognition of his many and enduring contributions to the progress and growth of East Carolina College in Greenville, and of Eastern North Carolina."

"In the educational world he has served with honor and distinction, his career being characterized by vision and wisdom, dedication to duty, and loyalty to the profession of education."

"In the business world he has participated with interest and success in many enterprises which have contributed to the development of the community of Greenville and Pitt County."

"In religious, humanitarian and cultural areas he has unselfishly devoted his time, great mental talents, energy, wise counsel and influence to the enrichment of all citizens of the region."

"In particular, as President of East Carolina College, he has been greatly responsible for the expansion and development of this institution of higher education from 1946 to 1960, leading it to a position of service to the State of North Carolina and to the Nation and building for its students and faculty an institution which holds greater promise for expanding service to our city, county, state and region."

"In recognition of his personal and professional service, we take pride in bestowing upon him this award of excellence and distinction."

The citation was signed by White, immediate past President J. H. Moyer, and Secretary-Manager Willard T. Kyzer.

Legal Battle Testing Application Of N.C. Trespass Laws Shaping Up

RALEIGH (AP) — A legal battle testing application of trespass laws in lunch counter demonstrations is inching forward toward a final decision.

The next step will come later this year when the State Supreme Court considers an appeal from a case decided Friday in Wake Superior Court.

Two Negro youths were sentenced after they were convicted of trespassing at the downtown McLellan variety store last month.

The trial was an appeal from a Raleigh City Court conviction. Attorneys for the Negro college students, who gave notice of appeal to the state's highest tribunal, said they would take their fight to the U. S. Supreme Court if necessary.

The two students, Albert R. Sampson, 21, of Everett, Mass., and James A. Fox, 19, of Washington, D. C., received 30-day road terms suspended on payment of $25 fines and under the condition they remain on good behavior for two years. Both are students at Raleigh's Shaw University.

Their attorneys contended the students' constitutional rights were deprived when they were arrested while sitting at the all-white McLellan lunch counter.

In another legal development Friday, Superior Court Judge Jack Hooks tossed out charges against 43 Negro college students accused of trespassing on the privately owned sidewalks of Raleigh's Cameron Village Shopping Center.

He acted after Solicitor Lester V. Chalmers conceded that a 1946 U. S. Supreme Court ruling left him without a case.

In that decision, the high court held, "Ownership does not always mean absolute dominion. The more an owner, for his advantage, opens up his property for use by the public in general, the more do his rights become circumscribed by the statutory and constitutional rights of those who use."

Hooks, however, warned the 43 students and Fox and Sampson: "You have now been adequately and fully warned it is private property. Even though the sidewalk is dedicated to public use, it is not dedicated to public abuse. The law protects people in their property and it is going to continue to do so."

He told the students, "you are setting up a situation that is dangerous and the whole world is holding its breath. In my opinion your movement is not a student movement. You are only taking direction from other people, in my opinion."

DeGaulle Sees No Solution To Berlin Problem

WASHINGTON (AP) — French President Charles de Gaulle proposed today that the Paris summit conference next month concentrate on seeking a relaxation of Soviet-Western tensions rather than on solving specific issues such as Berlin.

De Gaulle told a news conference at the National Press Club that disarmament should be a chief topic of summit discussion. He said, "One must limit nuclear armaments in so far as there exists a reciprocal control" of missiles, airplanes and other means of delivery.

De Gaulle began pre-summit talks here Friday with President Eisenhower in a 70-minute White House conference. He is on a four-day state visit to Washington.

In his news conference which was televised (CBS) he said, "As far as Berlin is concerned I do not see a possible solution."

The big need, De Gaulle said, is to bridge a relation of tensions between East and West. This should be accompanied by a beginning of disarmament, he said.

The French soldier-statesman whose views often disagree with those of Eisenhower and other Allied leaders said, "What is paramount is to create a 'detente' while striving to achieve something positive, something limited with one, or two, or three questions."

Rhee Agrees To Shake-Up Govm't

SEOUL, Korea (AP) — President Syngman Rhee today agreed to shake up his badly jolted South Korean government with a premier becoming the official chief executive.

Going back to the premier-cabinet system he once scrapped, the 65-year-old President moved to yield some of his powers as the nation's strong-man. He would remain as chief of state. Rhee's moves to meet demands for more democracy were received coolly.

Questions were immediately raised about how much power he actually would relinquish. Rhee was reported to have hand-picked cabinets through the premier when South Korea had the cabinet system before.

Former Prime Minister Y. T. Pym told newsmen that Rhee probably will resign as head of the ruling Liberal party to become a nonpartisan president.

Coming from a conference with the President, Pym also said Rhee agreed to suggestions for making his national police politically neutral.

The police have been under fire for their brutality in crushing antigovernment demonstrations.

Vice President-elect Lee Ki-poong, main target of the demonstrators, said he was resigning.

Incumbent Vice President John Chang, whom Lee beat in the mid-March elections that brought charges of rigging, did step down as a protest against the "continuing tyrannical, oppressive rule" of the Rhee government.

Chang, who had four months of his term left, said in his resignation statement he wanted to "ring warning bells to the Syngman Rhee government which is drunk with power."

He said both Lee and Rhee should resign to calm the nation, and new elections for both offices be called.

Lee said in a statement that both he and Rhee were agreed on creating the premier-cabinet type of government. He also stated that he was "determined" to resign.

This would necessitate new elections to fill the job Lee would have taken over Aug. 15. However, constitutional amendments setting up the cabinet system might abolish the vice presidency.

The 295,000-member Federation of Korea Trade Unions broke with Rhee's Liberal party.

The federation, the nation's only nationwide labor group, demanded in a resolution adopted by its executives that Lee take responsibility for the current crisis and retire completely from politics.

Meanwhile, Rhee left his mansion for the first time since "bloody Tuesday" for an unannounced visit to the wounded anti-government demonstrators at National University Hospital.

A government spokesman said Rhee stopped at the beds of 40 or more of the injured during the four-hour visit.

He said one of the injured told him, "I am grateful for your visit. I won't take part in another demonstration like that."

Rhee wept throughout the visit and left money to use for the patients.

Tokyo Students In Protest Rally

TOKYO (AP) — A thousand Japanese students shouting opposition to the new U. S.-Japanese security treaty demonstrated in front of the Diet, Japan's Parliament, today.

The protest rally was called by Zengakuren, the radical left-wing students federation and the League of Communists, which have been disowned as too militant to create a 'detente' while striving to achieve something positive, something limited with one, or two, or three questions."

The students were blocked 500 yards away from the Diet building by a wall of eight police armored cars and trucks lined up fender-to-fender across the wide avenue leading to Parliament.

Authorities sent 5,000 police to hold off the students at the request of the heads of both houses of the Diet.

The students sat down on the pavement and listened to speeches by their leaders.

Police urged them for four hours over a public address system to disband and repeatedly warned they were breaking the law by holding an unauthorized meeting and obstructing traffic.

Police repeatedly warned the speakers not to agitate the students but made no attempt to arrest or disperse them.

At dusk police resorted at last to force. Using only their hands, they pulled apart the students still sitting tightly clutched to each other and singing the Internationale.

Site For New N. C. Legislative Home Is Chosen

RALEIGH (AP) — State officials can now work toward acquiring property for a 4½ million-dollar legislative building.

A special commission reported Friday the structure will be located one block north of the Capitol astride Halifax Street.

"There has been no total estimate on the cost of the property," Commission Chairman Thomas J. White said at a news conference. He added, however, plans are to use the 4½ million dollars for the building itself and not for land.

He said funds for the land would come from other sources. About $900,000 has been set aside for land purchasing, but this money is not earmarked specifically for the legislative building site.

To acquire the property, the state must deal with the Seaboard Airline Railway and private individuals.

Bloodmobile To Visit In Ayden

AYDEN — The Bloodmobile will be in Ayden on Tuesday from 12 noon until 6 p.m. at the community building.

Citizens of Ayden and Grifton have been urged to give blood. Instead of the Bloodmobile's visiting both Ayden and Grifton during the same visit, it will alternate this time with Ayden and visit Grifton in the future.

All eligible persons have been urged to donate a pint of blood.

Wilson To Get Tobacco Plant

WILSON, N. C. (AP) — The Wilson Industrial Council announced today that the Imperial Tobacco Co., Ltd., of Great Britain has purchased a site for a big tobacco re-drying plant here.

Imperial has operated a re-drying plant here for a number of years, but it was believed that the new plant will be of greatly increased capacity, possibly consolidating other Imperial operations in the United States.

John H. Hackney Sr., member of the industrial council's special committee which worked with Imperial in plans for the new plant, said the site was purchased from the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad.

Manhunt Costs Set At $6,500

RALEIGH (AP) — The National Guard and other state agencies spent about $6,500 in the manhunt for outlaw Robert Tyson, whose body was found in a nearby wooded area April 8.

The guard was called out after efforts by other law enforcement agencies to find Tyson had bogged down. The Negro had been charged with murder and "rape after he escaped from a Raleigh prison."

Find Lessons In Tiros Satellite

WASHINGTON (AP) — America's first robot weatherman — the high-flying satellite Tiros — is already teaching new lessons in meteorology.

Government weathermen had nothing but praise at a news conference Friday for the satellite sent into orbit 450 miles above the earth April 1.

Since then the 270-pound space messenger has made over 300 swings around the earth and snapped more than 7,000 pictures.

Dr. F. W. Reichelderfer, chief of the Weather Bureau, said Tiros has revealed an unexpectedly large degree of organization in the cloud systems over much of the earth's surface.

The most striking patterns, he added, are the spiral cloud formations associated with large storms, some as much as 1,500 miles in diameter, observed over the United States, and the North Atlantic, Pacific and Indian oceans.

He said weathermen have long known from radar observations that hurricanes are characterized by bands of clouds which spiral inward around the storm center.

But Tiros disclosed that spiral banded cloud structures also exist in well-developed storms outside the tropics.

"In the months ahead," Reichelderfer said, "pictures are expected to reveal much new information about all sorts of atmospheric processes."

He said initial results from Tiros "lead us to believe that a new era in meteorological observing is about to open to us."

Pilot Escapes Serious Injuries In 'Copter Crash

COLUMBIA (AP) — An Army pilot escaped serious injury today when his small helicopter crashed at Owens Field from an altitude of about five feet.

Chief Warrant Officer Leon K Dow, 30, of Ft. Bragg, N. C., received an injury to his right leg and was confined at the Ft. Jackson Hospital. He lives at Fayetteville, N. C. (4402 Murchison Rd.), with his wife and two children.

Two witnesses, Walter Wagner, 13, and Lewis Ready, a Columbia taxi driver, saw the H13G helicopter topple over on its side while flying about five feet off the ground.

Ready pulled Dow out of the badly damaged helicopter.

The Ft. Jackson public information office said the helicopter was based at Ft. Gordon near Augusta, Ga. Dow was flying to Ft. Bragg for maintenance work.

Road-e-o Sunday For Young Pitt County Drivers

Approximately 25 Pitt County high school students will participate in the Jaycee - sponsored Teen-Age Road-e-o to be held on the Winn - Dixie parking lot tomorrow afternoon.

Douglas Allen, chairman of the event, said the driving skill tests will begin at 1 p.m.

All the participants took written tests in their respective schools to qualify for tomorrow's event. Each will perform four driving skill tests tomorrow.

First, second and third place winners will be chosen with the first place winner qualifying to compete in the state finals in Kinston. From there he will have a chance to go on to the national finals.

The local winner will also receive a wrist watch, Allen said.

Thieves Break In Jewelry Store

A quantity of watches, rings, jewelry and a shot gun were reported missing from Greenville Jewelers on Dickinson Ave. following a break-in last night.

Det. R. T. Rogerson said the thieves broke a front door glass to gain entrance. The missing merchandise was valued at approximately $750.

Police are investigating.

A window was broken in the office of Dr. George Harvey last night but nothing was reported missing.

Collection Of Old Masters Set For Art Center

A collection of 30 paintings by Old Masters, heralded as the first formal showing of Old Masters east of Raleigh, will be exhibited at the Greenville Art Center on its formal opening here May 1.

The paintings are on loan by courtesy of a number of New York galleries, through the efforts of Dr. Robert Lee Humber, a member of the East Carolina Art Society's Board of Directors.

The collection includes paintings by Masters such as Titian, Tintoretto, Frans Hals, Sir Joshua Reynolds, Jean Marc Nattier, and the American artist Gilbert Stuart's portrait of George Washington.

The East Carolina Art Society, sponsors of the Greenville Art Center, has announced the following list of artists, their paintings and nationality and the galleries who have loaned the paintings:

Lutheran Church Plans New Ties

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
Associated Press Religion Writer
MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP)—The newly unified American Lutheran Church today charted formal ties with interdenominational Christianity on the world scene—but not on the national scene. Amid some opposition, the church planned to affiliate with the World Council of Churches, but it did not seek membership in the National Council of Churches.

"Personally, I can't see much difference," said the Rev. Dr. Fredrik A. Schlotz, newly elected president of the merged church. However, he added at a news conference:

"There seems to be stronger antipathy to the National Council of Churches."

I suppose that's because it is nearer at hand, and because of the activity of certain groups in the country in maligning the National Council.

He obviously referred to the recent uproar over an Air Force manual, linking criticism of the National Council with charges of Communist influence in the churches.

Dr. Schlotz, elected Friday to head the newly consolidated Lutheran body, said there was "no mood to join now" in the National Council, although most departments of the new church will continue relations with various Council departments.

Neither of the three merging bodies, the 1,153,566 member Evangelical Lutheran Church, the 1,034,377 American Lutheran Church, and the 70-149-member United Evangelical Lutheran Church have belonged to the National Council in the past.

All three groups have been members of the World Council, and the plan of union stipulates that this affiliation be continued by the merged church, although there have been some objections to it.

First Presbyterian Announcements

"The Exalted Christ" is the topic of the sermon to be delivered by the Reverend Richard R. Gammon, Sunday morning, April 24, at the First Presbyterian Church.

The Christian Education Committee will meet Sunday night, April 24, at 8:00 o'clock.

The Senior High and Pioneer Fellowship will meet Sunday night at 8:00 o'clock for supper and Vespers.

The Women of the Church will celebrate their Birthday party Monday evening, April 25, 8:00 o'clock at the church.

Sunday evening, May 1, marks the opening of Christian Family Week in this Church; the theme, "The Family—A Christian Community?" Covered dish supper, program and recreation will highlight the evening.

Punish Prisoners For 'Sitdown'

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP) — Ten prisoners at the city stockade are on a bread and water diet today — punishment for a sit-down strike they staged in protest against wearing uniforms while on work details.

The prisoners claimed they were not criminals and that the uniform humiliated them.

From Rose High

Rose Cheerleaders Are Selected

By CRAIG WORTHINGTON
Judges chose the new varsity and junior varsity cheerleaders for next year Thursday and Friday afternoons in the Rose High School gymnasium.

Only junior and senior girls having a "3" average are eligible for varsity cheerleading. Junior varsity cheerleaders must be freshman or sophomore girls with a "3" average.

Cheerleaders are chosen in the spring from the upcoming classes and those chosen must maintain a "3" average while on the squad. Judges for varsity cheerleaders included Jane Reynolds, head cheerleader; Lois Tunnell, Frances Moseley, cheerleaders; Miss Carolyn Matthews, adviser; and Miss Lou Cheatham, former cheerleader.

The new junior varsity squad includes the following: Peggy

Bentley, Betsy Coughlan, Lynn Dodson, Myra Dupree, Nancy Harrington, Frances Harvey, Martha Henderson, Diana Hodges, Martha Hoot, Barbara Minges, Vicki Ricks and Donna Whitley.

Candidates for office in the upcoming Student Co-operative elections presented their campaign speeches yesterday in assembly in the gymnasium.

Charles Taft, vice-president of the S. C. A. and chairman of the Elections Committee, presided and introduced the candidates and their managers.

The following candidates, with their campaign managers, spoke and presented campaign skits:

4-Hers In Store For Two 'Firsts'

RALEIGH—Two "firsts" are in store for 4-H Club members and leaders attending the 90th National 4-H Conference in Washington, D. C., April 23-29. This will be the first time the annual conference has not been held in June and the first time both delegates and leaders will stay at the new 4-H Center.

The following 4-H delegates will attend from North Carolina: Oia Mae Bundy, Elizabeth City, Rt. 2; James Michael Goodson, Mt. Olive, Rt. 1; Judy Brown, Troutman, Rt. 1; and D. E. White, Statesville, Rt. 2. Miss Margaret Clark and Miss Mary Sue Moser, assistant state 4-H agents and L. R. Harrill, state 4-H leader, will accompany the delegates to Washington.

The delegates are named each year for exceptional project achievement, demonstrated leadership ability, community service, and citizenship activity. During the conference, the youths will prepare for more responsible citizenship and service in their communities through hearing prominent speakers, sharing group discussions, and observing the federal government in action.

The theme of the week will be "Getting Set for the Sixties." Highlight activities for 4-H delegates will include visits to the Capitol, the White House, Mount Vernon, the Supreme Court, and the Agricultural Research Center at Beltsville, Md. At the Capitol, delegates will hear from legislators on "What Happens on Capitol Hill, including how an agriculture bill becomes a law.

All 4-Hers learn to apply the latest research in home economics, agriculture, and other areas—and learn the "whys" as well as "hows" of what to do. The aim is to help them make the most of their talents and abilities for careers in rural or non-rural areas, to serve better in their communities, and to achieve a satisfying way of life.

Few Southern Demos Favor Bolt

There are a good many Democrats who would like to see a major part of the Southern delegation walk out of the Democratic national convention this summer and boycott the party.

The surprising thing, however, is that most of those who would like to see such a split are not Southern Democrats, but some of the more liberal factions of the party from other sections of the country.

It is true that most Democrats in the South are sick and tired of the needling by National Chairman Paul Butler. They are also tired of spokesmen for the Democratic Party of other sections of the country declaring what the Democrats from Southern states should and should not do. Most Southern Democrats have about had their fill of demands being made on them by other elements within the party.

But when you come down to the core of the matter, there are few Southerners who want to leave the Democratic party which is the only political faith they have ever known. Most Southern Democrats, we believe, realize that the only way they can help steer the party in the direction they would like for it to go is to hold their ground and fight against changes other elements are seeking to impose.

The elements which do not like the Southern ideas within the Democratic party are also aware of this fact. If the Southerners would walk out, these factions that lean more to the left would have an easier time imposing their will upon the party as a whole. They would find the strength of those who oppose them greatly depleted by the loss of the Southern delegation.

As a whole, the South has stood by the Democratic party through the decades when other sections of the country deserted it. The Solid South has been a vital source of strength to the Democratic party which could be depended upon when the party was in charge of the banquet table.

Most Democrats throughout the South are fully aware that they cannot change what they do not like about the Democratic party by leaving the party. As long as the South remains a vital part of the Democratic party, however, it has its voice in party affairs, and it may be able to realize gradually some of its goals for the party.

As an important segment of the Democratic party the South should no more be subject to criticism for seeking to have the party embrace its proposals as other elements within the party.

If the Democrats of the South are to be of service to their party, they must remain in and fight for their principles rather than pulling out of the party and leaving it to those who would steer the party away from the fundamentals which have made it a positive and powerful political organization.

One Word That Fits Pres. Charles DeGaulle

If there is a "greatest living Frenchman" in the world, he's visiting the United States now.

That would be President Charles DeGaulle, of course.

And what makes him "great"? We've thought on it. His fame certainly is not due to military genius; and as for statesmanship or political acumen, only history can decide.

Neither literature, nor music, nor medicine, nor law claim him. He has found science useful, but he has not served that field.

So in what way is President DeGaulle great? The answer can be boiled down to one word: Faith.

He was unwavering in his faith that France would rise again, even during the darkest days of World War II.

He kept faith with France when peace was restored by refusing to assume the dictatorial role which was open to him. Nor did DeGaulle involve himself in the political upheavals which followed the war; instead, he said that France called him he would answer.

Eventually, when revolution threatened, General DeGaulle was given the reins of government by the overwhelming will of the French people. The faith DeGaulle had in France was mirrored by the faith of the people in him.

Aside from giving France the greatest degree of interior stability it has known since the end of WWII, DeGaulle's work in exterior matters remains a questionmark.

But he has faith; and the French people have faith.

It's something no one can discount.

This Visit By Pres. DeGaulle

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP) — It's like a visit by the Grand Canyon when President Charles de Gaulle comes to Washington. He's one of the wonders of nature. But it's doubtful he'll work any wonders here.

Right now towering, 69-year-old De Gaulle is France's indispensable man, a kind of miraculous human glue keeping France stuck together. It may not be permanent. In the end he may finish with his prestige badly diminished.

He became the rallying point for his countrymen, the symbol of their dreams for a resurrected France, when it fell in 1940. Two years ago he was recalled from his self-imposed seclusion to save his tottering country from anarchy.

He had lived out of sight, above parties, aloof, keeping alive in himself and his countrymen a vision of himself as the supreme and final custodian of French grandeur, ready to make it a reality if called upon. He was called.

It would have been pathetic if he hadn't been and, instead, had died in seclusion with his mystical belief in himself and his country unused.

What has he done? He has sought to keep three balls in the air:

1. To make France an atomic power. He succeeded, but only because the foundations had been laid long before he took office. He simply kept the program going. Now France has had two nuclear explosions.

2. To convince the world France must be treated as an equal. His importance in this effort has been overplayed and grossly exaggerated. France is not actually the equal of the biggest powers, the United States and the Soviet Union, in manpower, strength, or resources. And, since it still has no nuclear arsenal, it is not militarily equal. Nevertheless, the United States and Britain, which do have nuclear weapons, have brought France into its considerations. They did this before De Gaulle.

3. To restore tranquility to a France which was torn apart over the Algerian crisis and badly split internally over its domestic problems when he took office two years ago.

He still hasn't solved the Algerian problem and may never be able to before he leaves the presidency. The Algerian war is now in its sixth year. French farmers are restive under his economic policies.

And the French political parties—even though his leadership remains unchallenged as of now—are getting restless under what is practically his one-man rule.

In short, despite his pride and his enormous self-confidence in himself and France, he may wind up settling nothing and leaving his countrymen with the memory of a grand illusion that he was accomplishing what he didn't accomplish.

He will discuss with President Eisenhower the Western position at the summit in Paris May 16 when he meets with Premier Nikita Khrushchev and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.

But that may prove to be nothing more than a pleasant chat, and for this reason: The Western position was agreed to recently when the Western foreign ministers, including De Gaulle's, met here and agreed on summit strategy. They agreed to stick to the positions they had held for months in dealing with the Soviet Union.

North Carolina Gas Chamber

By LYNN NISBET
GAS CHAMBER—North Carolina has not abandoned capital punishment or the lethal gas chamber at State prison, although it has been invoked less frequently in recent years. A reader said the other day he was under the impression the chamber had been abandoned.

Actually there are five men on death row. All are waiting for outcome of appeals or for new trial. The present occupants are Otis Manning, white, of Edgecombe convicted of murder and now waiting for a new trial; Clarence Pugh, white, of Lee, convicted of murder and waiting a new trial; Jesse Graves, colored, of Alamance, convicted of rape, on appeal; Elmer Davis Jr., colored, of Mecklenburg, convicted of murder and on appeal; Leroy Jones, colored, under two sentences for murder in Harnett and Scotland, one on appeal.

The most recent execution was that of Matthew Bass, Wake county Negro, convicted of rape and put to death on December 5, 1958.

HISTORY—The gas chamber has been in use as the method of executing capital felons for a quarter century. It replaced the electric chair, which had been in use for a quarter century, in 1935.

Prior to 1910 executions were by hanging in the county where the crime had been committed. The 1909 General Assembly outlawed the gallows and local hangings, substituted the electric chair in Central Prison at Raleigh, and required all executions to be there.

The first victim of the electric chair was Walter Morris of Robeson, colored, convicted of rape. He went to his death on March 18, 1910. The last man electrocuted was Wiley Brice, colored, convicted of murder in Alamance county and executed on July 1, 1938. Between Morris and Brice the electric chair claimed 170 victims.

TRANSITION—There is a bit of interesting political history in the substitution of the gas chamber for the electric chair. It is one of the very few instances in this century of a major statewide bill of such import sponsored by a Republican being enacted into law. Dr. Charles A. Peterson of Mitchell county introduced the bill early in the 1935 session. At first the Democratic leadership didn't pay much attention. Dr. Peterson assembled and presented testimony of medical authorities, outstanding sociologists and humanitarians from all over, and built up a case that could not be successfully challenged in favor of gas over electricity as the method of legal killing. The Peterson bill was enacted into law, and the gas chamber was installed. There was a transition period of more than two years when facilities for both methods of execution had to be maintained. There were prisoners on death row who had been sentenced to death by electrocution before the method was changed, but had not been put to death. So it was that Allen Foster, Hoke county Negro convicted of rape, became the first victim of the gas chamber on January 24, 1936, nearly two and a half years before Wiley Brice, Alamance murderer, was electrocuted on July 1, 1938. After Brice's death the electric chair was dismantled and all executions were by gas. The gas chamber has claimed a total of 189 victims, including two Negro women executed for murder — Rosanna Phillips of Durham on January 1, 1943, and Bessie Williams of Mecklenburg on December 29, 1944.

Records are not immediately available on number of women executed by hanging prior to 1910, but the total is known to be small. Since all executions were held at Central Prison records are complete and accurate.

BREAKDOWN—The total is 361, of whom 172 died by electricity, 189 by gas. Of this total 279 (including two women) were executed for murder, 71 for rape and 11 for burglary. Further breakdown shows that 73 white men, 281 Negro men, two Negro women and five Indian men ended their lives in the lethal room at Central Prison.

The records offer an interesting study in capital crime incidence. There were no executions in 1913, 1954, or 1959. The "big" years were 1936 and 1947, in each of which 23 persons were put to death by the State. Runners up were 1934 with 20 executions and 1938 with 19. Penologists are not sure about why this wide variance occurred. Most acceptable explanation is the delay in court procedure, rather than incidence in crime, accounted for the heavy accumulations of some years and the blanks or near blanks in others.

Only five executions have occurred since 1953. This is attributable to the 1955 act which permitted juries to recommend mercy in capital convictions for murder and rape, carrying automatic life time sentences, following earlier removal of attorney's right to demand death sentence list.

The death penalty for heinous crime has not been abolished in North Carolina. Chances are it will not be for a long time to come. It will be invoked less frequently, as indicated by the trend of the past decade.

Whirlwind In West Virginia

By ALVIN TAYLOR

Seoul, Then And Today

As we read of the near revolt which swept through one major South Korean city after another this week, we couldn't help but recall the time we spent in that country during our army days.

The Koreans always struck your colonist as being polite, happy, peace loving people. However, the riots of this week show they can be aroused to violence as more and more of their liberties disappear.

One thing that makes the riots so awesome is the huge number of participants the dissatisfied element could muster apparently spontaneously.

We read accounts of thousands of students and others bearing down on the presidential mansion and on the bombed out capital building. It brought back memories of the old Korean capital on quieter days.

We could recall driving by the empty capital building and down a wide boulevard which was one of the few real wastes of ground space in the heavily populated country. Government buildings lined the boulevard on each side. They, like the capital, were bombed out and not in use.

We also remember having the presidential mansion pointed out to us at one time. Now we try to imagine the thousands of demonstrators pouring down that wide boulevard toward the still empty capital.

We can almost see the determined horde of demonstrators marching toward the presidential mansion where an old, old man resides.

And we can see the army troops opening fire as the rioters come forward and dozens of young men falling before the bullets.

The mobs of this week in Korea have brought harshly to the attention of the free world that the Oriental nation is still a troubled land.

And with American troops still there, left over from the days of war with North Korean and Chinese communists, South Korean problems could mean troubles for the United States.

Other Editors Saying... Classroom Shortage

(Henderson Dispatch)

Arguments are being revived over the question of classroom shortages in the nation's public schools. The Council of State Chambers of Commerce claims that "solution of the problem is readily well under way without Federal assistance," and a spokesman for the National Education Association charges the council is "playing with figures."

NEA has for years been trumpeting for Federal aid and marshaling an array of statistics to prove its point. It has gone so far as to give the impression that it is more interested in the available cash than in meeting an actual need, and that claims that have been made are exaggerated. Almost anything can be proved with statistics when properly manipulated, and that goes for both sides in this particular argument.

It will be noted that a sizable percentage of the funds that would be made available from Federal sources would go to pay teacher salaries. We believe that holds, too, in the current agitation in North Carolina, where a frenzy has been whipped up in favor of colossal appropriations to meet what are described as urgent school needs. The heat has been and is being turned on in all directions. Many of those who are falling in line are swallowing statements given them without knowing firsthand what the true conditions are.

Calculations are presented to show what the school population will be in the next few years. The Council of State Chambers says the classroom shortage has not only failed to grow over the past five years as predicted, but has actually declined. Its construction of more classrooms each year than the many so-called authorities argued would be the maximums, and that "alleged shortages and projections of need were grossly exaggerated."

Advocates of Federal aid "are at least as interested in getting Federal funds for paying teachers' salaries as they are in school construction assistance," the council charged, adding that "the projections of classroom needs in the years ahead cannot be a cause for alarm."

Yet many people are allowing themselves to be taken in by contentions advanced by school authorities.

It has been our conviction all along that the whole principle of Federal aid is wrong, and that centralized government is overstepping the bounds when it barges into this field, which is essentially that of local communities, or certainly no higher than the State level. There may be those who would exchange local control for government aid in the hope of profiting personally by enhanced salaries.

Public education in this country has always hitherto been looked upon as the responsibility of cities, towns and counties, and the States. We do not believe there is such an emergency now as to demand or justify government funds. When that is granted, local control will largely vanish. Those who walk blindly into the trap that is being set for them will one day awake to the evil consequences of the surrender to which they shall have assented.

More Inflation Due This Year

By ELMER ROESSNER
There will be more inflation this year.

All the talk about inflation being halted is more wishful than realistic, more politics than economics.

The rate of inflation has been slowed down considerably. The consumer price index has actually dipped in recent months. From an all-time high of 125.6 in November, 1959, it dropped to 125.5 in December, 123.8 in January and 123.7 in February.

Money has become slightly easier and interest rates are a whisker lower. This is an important sign that inflation has abated for the moment at least.

NO ABATEMENT IN PAY RISES
But ahead is the steel wage rise in December, part of the steel strike settlement. It does not seem probable — or even possible — that this increase will be absorbed by the steel companies. Some advances in automation may enable producers to absorb part of it, but the rest will be met with higher prices.

Higher steel prices will mean higher autos, higher appliances, higher hardware and higher prices for other items with steel or iron components.

Higher wage for steel workers will mean higher wages for other workers; steel union settlements are a common pattern for other demands.

It is true, as was pointed out here recently (April 18), few major labor agreements expire this year. The one big dispute — that of the railroads and the operating unions — seems to be moving more toward a moderate settlement. It was also pointed out that there will be greater stress on demands for fringe benefits this year, and the cost of fringes must be packed into prices.

BUDGET AND TAXES
In the Federal government, the budget appears to be getting into balance so there is not much danger of any great increase in Federal borrowing, which is directly inflationary.

In states and cities, however, there are strong pressures for higher taxes and greater borrowing to meet other demands for higher pay for employees, more employees to provide services for expanding services, and for more construction.

There are few states and cities that do not face demands for higher pay from janitors up to mayors and governors. In New York City, for example, practically all salaries have been increased and taxes have property assessments. Where these increases boost the cost of doing business, they will be reflected in higher prices.

There are other increases ahead. Railroads generally are demanding higher commutation fares; hospitalization insurance is rising rapidly with higher wages for hospital workers, higher fees for doctors, and a

Sacco, Vanzetti Opera

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
COPYRIGHT, 1960, KING FEATURES SYNDICATE, INC.

It would seem that the reason for underwriting the forthcoming Sacco - Vanzetti opera by the Ford Foundation and for producing it at the Metropolitan Opera is that Khrushchev needs to be shown that we are not like Russians. In other words, to prove that we are very good, we have to do things that are very bad. For to do and suppress works which do not agree with their views."

"... Neither the Ford Foundation nor the Metropolitan Opera asked Mr. Blitstein to write an opera on Sacco and Vanzetti. It was he who chose the subject, and I don't think you would want to see our country aligned with Russia and the other dictatorships which tell their artists what and what not to do and suppress works which do not agree with their views."

This reply has this peculiarity, namely, that no opera house in the world needs to purchase an unwritten work on an unsuitable subject by a composer whose operas have never been produced in any major opera house in the world. (Blitstein's operas have been played in New York City Center under Ford Foundation auspices.) The question here arises as to whether the Metropolitan, in this instance, decided that the Sacco-Vanzetti incident was suitable operatic material or did the Ford Foundation do it? Actually the opera had not yet been written when it was optioned by the Metropolitan and the Ford Foundation. It was in the condition call "in process," which can mean anything. It is not expected that any of it will be ready until the Fall. None of the Ford or Metropolitan officials have seen it.

The Metropolitan letter also said:

"What concerns us most is whether or not the work will be good, and I think you must agree that subject which still arouses strong feelings more than thirty years after the event must have some dramatic value."

The Sacco-Vanzetti theme is not good theater. It is not particularly dramatic. Here were two anarchists engaged in a robbery. The excitement was not over the facts; it was over the court procedures. Did they have fair trials? The consensus is that they had fair trials. The issue has been captured by Communists to denounce American justice. Just as the Chessman Case is now being used by the Communists to denounce American justice, so in another decade the Sacco and Vanzetti trials were used for that purpose. Chessman is a rapist; Sacco and Vanzetti were robbers. How much trial is needed to convict men on the facts or do we need to go beyond the facts into their political allegiances to do them justice? Will the judge stab himself, as they do in Italian operas, to prove that moral justice lies at the end of a stiletto?

The Metropolitan is our principal opera theater. It is one of the glories of the human race. I witnessed its performance recently of "Madama Butterfly" with Dorothy Kirsten in the title role, which was, in staging, acting and musicianship, beyond anything that one could anticipate. The word, glorious, is not an exaggeration for it. Why does such a theater need to pollute itself by contracting to produce an opera subsidized by the Ford Foundation on the Sacco-Vanzetti Case? Is there nothing beautiful in American life?

Why not have an opera on the love life of Emma Goldman and Alexander Berkman, or on Polly's restaurant in Greenwich Village when Hypolite Havel was king of little Bohemia. Or perhaps an opera, like Carmen, might be done about a gun-moll who looked after Dillinger, or Virginia Hill Bugsie Siegel, or even about Mayor Jimmy Walker whose joys and tragedies are still recalled in dinner party conversations. If Rudolf Bing, general manager of the Metropolitan, will study American history, he can find dozens of themes and the one that comes to mind is

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
ACCURATE MEASUREMENT

Someone wrote a book some years ago entitled, "Money the Acid Test." It was a book on the Christian use of money. The title was an apt one. The words "acid test" suggest a lot of things about the nature of money, in addition to its being used as a medium of exchange.

For instance, we can usually arrive at a pretty accurate estimate of a man's character by observing the way he conducts himself in a money deal. Also people have in good causes by contributions they make to support them. Money is an acid test of character. That is why Jesus uttered so many parables on the subject of money. Watch the way a man reacts to situations in which profit and loss are involved, and we can be quite sure the kind of man he is on the inside of his heart.

There are a lot of people whose idea of friendship is handshaking, backslapping, and gadding about to parties. There are others for whom friendship is a matter of gushing sentiment. The true worth of friendship is revealed when the bottom drops out of the stock market, or when the mortgage on the house is about to be foreclosed, or when an estate is being settled. The way people behave toward their friends in these times when these friends are in trouble, or toward their relatives when the patrimony is being divided constitutes an acid test of character.

Money measures a lot of things, including the character of the people who handle it.

growing inclination of going to hospitals for a vast number of ailments.

So if anybody tells you that inflation is over, suspect political bias. Neither the Democratic majority in Congress nor the Republican Administration has fully checked inflation — nor can it as long as labor can freely win demands for more money and employers can pass the increases freely on to consumers in the form of higher prices.

FOOTNOTE ON TRENDS OF MORE INFLATION
In a study on "Causes and Effects of Higher Interest Rates," a New York University study by Drs. Jules I. Bogen and Paul S. Nadler observed:

"In the 14 years from 1946 through 1959, the increase in debt in this country was larger than during the entire history of the United States to the end of 1945."

Pirates Grab Second Place By Slapping Braves, 6-2

Tigers Gather Speed In AL Play

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Not one of the pitching "Big Four"—Frank Lary, Jim Bunning, Don Mossi or Paul Foytack—has been a winner, but home runs and singles have made Detroit a bunch of Tigers on a tear in the American League race.

Bunning, the no-hit right-hander who shared the Detroit lead with Lary and Mossi with 17 victories last season, missed in his first start Friday, but the Tigers plunked Chicago out of a share of first by handing the White Sox their first loss 6-5. A two-out single by Lou Berberet in the ninth gave the unbeaten Tigers their third success, all on last-inning runs, after earlier homers by Rocky Colavito, Eddie Yost and Steve Bilko.

The New York Yankees moved past Chicago into second place, beating Baltimore 5-0 as winner Whitey Ford and Ralph Terry combined for an eight-hitter. Kansas City won its first, sending Milwaukee Cleveland to a third defeat 4-1. And Boston, down 3-0, defeated the Washington Senators 5-4 in 11 innings on Vic Wertz' home run.

In the National League, San Francisco broke a tie with Los Angeles for first by whipping the Chicago Cubs 10-8. St. Louis rapped the world champion Dodgers 11-7. Pittsburgh jumped ahead of Los Angeles into second place with a 6-2 decision over Milwaukee. Philadelphia beat Cincinnati 10-7.

A pair of relief pitchers, Pete Burnside and Tom Morgan, have picked up Detroit's victories behind starts by Lary, Mossi and Bunning. Morgan won his second with one perfect inning against the White Sox. Bob Shaw, battered in his first start Thursday, was the loser in relief for Chicago, giving up two hits and five walks in 1 2-3 innings.

Ford, now 5-0 in home-opener assignments, singled home the first Yankee run off loser Hoyt Wilhelm in the third. Ford gave up seven hits in seven innings and gave way to Terry, who finished up.

Right-hander Ray Herbert of the A's gave up nine hits while beating the Indians. Norm Siebern and Bob Cerv hit consecutive second-inning home runs off losing rookie Wynn Hawkins, and Cerv tripled home another in a two-run third.

Wertz homered, off losing reliever Dick Hyde, climaxed a pair of comebacks for the Red Sox. Left-handed rookie Jim Kaat had them blanked on three hits until Frank Malzone's one-on homer triggered a tying, three-run eighth. The Nats went ahead in their eighth, but singles by Lou Clinton and Gary Geiger and a sacrifice fly by Ray Webster tied it again in the ninth. Bill Monbouquette (1-1) was the winner in relief.

Hal Smith Pacing Pirates With Powerful Batting

By MURRAY CHASS
PITTSBURGH (AP) — Don't be surprised that Hal Smith is curiously murdering National League pitching. The Pittsburgh Pirate catcher says he's had the power all along.

"I don't know why they say I don't have power," Smith said Friday night after clouting a double and a triple and driving in two runs in the Pirates' 6-2 victory over the Milwaukee Braves.

"Someone asked me the other day where I got all the power this year, but I don't understand why. I hit my share of home runs and other extra base hits."

So far this season, Smith—acquired during the winter from Kansas City in the American League—has had nothing but extra base hits. Of his six safeties, he's had three doubles, one triple and two home runs. He's hitting .429 and has driven in 10 runs.

With Kansas City last year, the right-handed hitting Smith spent most of his time at third base. The Pirates wanted him strictly as a catcher.

The 29-year-old receiver pointed to his 1957 season with the Athletics as an example of his power.

"By the first of June, I had 12 home runs and was leading the team in hitting and runs batted in," he said. "Then I was benched. I was only spotted here and there after that. But I wound up hitting .300."

Detroit Fans Wildly Welcome Surprising Tigers To Briggs

By DAVE DILES
Associated Press Sports Writer

DETROIT (AP)—They came in droves in a wildly enthusiastic welcome for the surprising Detroit Tigers and it has been a long, long time since Briggs Stadium rocked with such excitement.

Friday's throng of 53,563 at the Tigers' 60th American League home opener established a record opening day turnout and the local heroes didn't disappoint anyone except the Chicago White Sox.

The Tigers stayed in the game on home run power, then won on two walks and two singles in a dramatic ninth inning. When catcher Lou Berberet drove a two-out single to center field for the winning run, the delirious fans cranked up enough noise to make the pre-game aerial bombs sound like a pop-gun. The score was 6-5.

The big attraction was Rocky Colavito because Detroit fans wanted to see the man they got for batting champion Harvey Kuenn. "The Rock" didn't let them down. He turned loose an aerial bomb himself, a line shot into the left centerfield seats with a mate aboard in the second inning.

It was his first time at bat before the home folks, who rewarded him with a standing ovation that thundered for more than a minute. Colavito later contributed a single to the ninth inning heroics and Steve Bilko and Eddie Yost accounted for the rest of the runs with home runs.

"It was a wonderful, wonderful thing," said Colavito afterward.

Duke Remains Top In ACC Baseball

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Duke remained atop the Atlantic Coast Conference baseball standings today, thanks to the strong right arm of Don Altman, a football quarterback turned pitcher.

Altman scattered eight hits Friday as Duke downed second place Wake Forest 6-1 in the day's only ACC action. Altman earned his fifth victory of the season without a defeat as the Blue Devils won their third ACC game without a loss. They are 7-4 overall.

By winning, Wake Forest could have moved into the top spot. The defeat left the Deacons in second with a 4-2 record just a notch above Clemson and North Carolina State, each with 3-2 records.

Duke shortstop Lynn Fader homered with no one on in the fourth and right fielder Bob Rankin slammed a bases loaded homer in the seventh to ice the game.

Altman was in control the entire way. He fanned two, issued no walks and the Wake Forest run was unearned.

Two league games today sent last place Virginia (1-4, 1-6) to North Carolina State (3-2, 6-5) and sixth place South Carolina (2-5, 3-8) to Clemson (3-2, 8-3).

Miami Fight Ends In Draw

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Lightweight Len Matthews and Douglas Vaillant battled to a sizzling draw in 10 rounds Friday night and their managers were talking of a re-match before the crowd had cleared the auditorium.

"I thought he won the fight and I'm willing to meet him again any time, any place, even in his home town of Philadelphia," said Bernard Barker, the manager of Vaillant, who comes from Cuba.

Matthews' manager, Tony Graziano, said:

"I thought Matthews won on effective punching. He was the aggressor all the way. We're willing to fight him again, any time."

Matthews, who ranks fourth among the lightweights, favored in the nationally televised fight but the Cuban outboxed him with speed and a variety of punches.

Referee Jimmy Peerless scored it even and so did Judge Gus Jacobson, which meant a draw. Judge Stu Winston voted for Vaillant.

Record Holders In Virginia Meet

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — Two world record holders who've already met minimum standards for the Olympics, and another who hasn't are the featured attractions here today in the seventh Virginia-Pilot Relays.

The fellow who hasn't yet qualified for a try at making the trip to Rome is Al Cantello, the Quantico Marine who set a record for the javelin throw last summer with a toss of 251 feet, and Cantello feels he'll surely do that well soon — but probably not today. He's hampered by a minor back injury suffered in the Marine Corps Schools Relays last week.

The record holders who've already qualified for a try at berths on the U.S. Olympic team are pole vaulter Don Bragg and sprinter Dave Sime.

Meeting the Olympic standards, of course, is only the first step toward gaining a spot on the U.S. team. Both Bragg and Sime must finish among the top three at the final Olympic trials July 12 at Stamford to be sure of getting to Rome. Sime, plagued by leg trouble, never has been an Olympian.

Bragg holds the world indoor vaulting mark of 15 feet, 9 inches. Sime holds the world record in the 220-yard and 200-meter sprints with a clocking of 20 seconds flat, and four times has done the 100-yard dash in a record-tying 9.3 seconds. He runs today against another Olympic hopeful, Walt Filiman, who won the 100-meter dash in the Marine Corps Schools Relays, and William and Mary's Dale Bickert.

Lakers Decide On LA Franchise Move Next Week

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Whether the Minneapolis Lakers move their National Basketball Assn. franchise to Los Angeles is to be resolved next week.

Owner Bob Short of the Lakers and Walter Brown, head of the Boston Celtics, met Friday with the Coliseum Commission, which called a public hearing for next Tuesday afternoon.

If matters are ironed out for use of the sports arena, Short will go to New York and ask permission to move his franchise.

Raleigh Caps Move To 1st Place In Carolina Loop

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Defending champion Raleigh surged into a first place tie with Durham in the Carolina League after whipping Greensboro in two one-run contests Friday night.

The Caps topped Greensboro 4-3 and 8-7 in 12 innings and thereby dropped the Yankees from first to fourth place in the early-season race.

Durham grabbed its third straight victory after an opening night loss, defeating Wilson 7-3. Winston-Salem won its first loop victory, 14-7, over Burlington.

In tonight's games Durham is at Winston-Salem, Greensboro at Wilson and Burlington at Raleigh.

Killed By Train

KINSTON, N.C. (AP)—Norman Lee Sutton, 27, Negro, was killed here Friday night, police said, when he was struck by a freight train. He had last been seen alive walking on the tracks.

Rocky Colavito, former Cleveland Indian slugger who was traded to the Detroit Tigers, looks over Briggs Stadium in Detroit. The Tigers played their first home game of the season there Friday with the Chicago White Sox. Behind Rocky is the inviting left field fence 340 feet from home plate. The Tigers are counting on the big slugger to put a lot of home runs over that fence. (AP Wirephoto)

G-Men Post Win

Rose High's Golfers remained undefeated in Northeastern Conference competition yesterday as they defeated Williamston for the second time this season, 17-1.

Bobby Thomas was medalist for the match with a three-under-par 69. Buddy Murray, Rick Saue and Chappy Bradner, all Phant Linksmen, won their matches against the visitor from Williamston.

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — The University of South Carolina Friday named football coach Warren Giese as athletic director, succeeding the late Rex Enright.

At the same time, the Athletic Committee of the University Board of Trustees appointed Frank Johnson assistant athletic director. Johnson formerly was head basketball coach.

Enright died April 6 after a long period of declining health.

Giese, 35-year-old Milwaukee, Wis., native, became head football coach when Enright stepped aside to devote all of his time as athletic director. Enright had been football coach since 1938.

Giese's teams have a 25-15 overall record in the four years he has been coach here. His best seasons were in 1956 and 1958 when South Carolina had 7-3 records.

Giese came here from Maryland where he was an assistant under the late Jim Tatam.

This definitely is a new season for Bob Friend, the Pittsburgh Pirates' right-handed ace who wasn't last year.

He put away his second straight complete game victory Friday night as the Pirates beat the Milwaukee Braves 6-2 and jumped into second place in the National League race.

A year ago Friend lost his first seven and didn't win one until his 11th start. He didn't manage two complete-game victories in a row until his 29th start.

It was the third straight victory and fifth in six games for the Bucs, moving them within a half-game of front-running San Francisco. The Giants took a 10-8 win at Chicago while the St. Louis Cardinals dropped Los Angeles out of a share of first to third place by beating the Dodgers 11-7. Philadelphia whipped Cincinnati 10-7.

In the American League, unbeaten Detroit won its third, breaking a first place tie with Chicago by handing the White Sox their first defeat 6-5. New York beat Baltimore 5-0 as Whitey Ford and Ralph Terry combined for an eight-hit shutout. Kansas City rapped winless Cleveland 4-1, and Boston defeated Washington 5-4 in 11 innings.

Friend, who shut out Cincinnati on four hits Sunday, has allowed only one scoring inning in his last 18. The Braves ended his scoreless streak at 11 innings when Billy Brunt tripled, and scored on an infield out, and Hank Aaron followed with his third home run for a 2-2 tie in the third.

The Bucs, who chased Juan

Pizarro with two runs in the first, then cracked the tie and hung the defeat on reliever Joey Jay (6-1) in the third when he hit Don Hoak with a pitch and Hal Smith followed with a triple. Pittsburgh scored three more in the fourth, all with two out, on Bob Clement's two-run homer and Smith's double.

San Francisco walloped five home runs against the Cubs but it was Willie Mays' double in a two-run eighth that clinched it for the Giants. Jim Davenport walloped two homers for the Giants. Willie McCovey, ex-Cub Dale Long, who got off a three-run shot as a pinch-hitter, and Ed Bressoud hit the others.

Sam Jones gave up a pair of Cub homers, by Frank Thomas and George Altman. Billy Loes (2-0) won it in relief with a save by Johnny Antonelli. Don Elston (1-2) lost it.

The Cards scored five in the first, three on Stan Musial's double, against loser Sandy Koufax (6-1). But it was Daryl Spencer's two-run double off reliever Roger Craig in the fourth that won it. Spencer also homered for the Cards, who had 15 hits and nine walks. John Roseboro, Gil Hodges and Wally Moon hit home runs among the Dodgers' 14 hits. Marshall Bridges won it in relief, but needed Lindy McDaniel's help in the eighth.

Rob Roberts needed Ruben Gomez' relief after giving up home runs by Frank Robinson and Eddie Kasko, but won his first for the Phils. Jim Coker's two-run triple in the fifth put it away. Roy McMillan also homered for the Reds. It was his fourth — tops in the majors.

Lame Besselink Shares Lead In New Orleans Open

By ED TUNSTALL

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—There's little pleasant about a broken wrist, but big Al Besselink thinks such a mishap may have a direct relation to his sharing the lead with Dow Finsterwald in the $27,000 Greater New Orleans Golf Tournament today.

The 210-pound Besselink, playing out of Grassinger, N.Y., and a mainstay on the pro tour for several years, showed a 36-hole effort of 68-67-135 when the tournament headed into its third round.

The slightly-built Finsterwald, 30-year-old Tequesta, Fla., veteran, who is among golf's three big money winners this year, added a 66 Friday to an opening round 69 to deadlock Besselink for top place.

The two had a stroke lead over lanky Houston LaClair of Birmingham, Ala., while Bob Rosburg of Overland Park, Kan., was fourth at 137.

Former PGA champ Lionel Herbert of Lafayette, La., South African rookie Harold Henning, and J. C. Gookie of Knoxville, Tenn., were within whispering distance of the top at 138.

Besselink skipped in with 5 birdies on the back 9 Friday, capping his round with a birdie four on the 485 yard 18th. He had a bit of trouble on the front nine with bogies on seven and eight.

Because of a wrist fracture three years ago, Besselink said he deserted his "punch swing" for one that flowed smoother.

"I've been winning money, but I haven't been shooting any 65s or 66s," he said, "so I decided to go back to my old swing here, and well, look for yourself."

Mission Becomes A Church Sunday

The United Lutheran Mission of Greenville will be officially organized as a congregation of the United Lutheran Church in America this Sunday morning.

The Rev. F. L. Conrad, D. D., president of the United Evangelical Lutheran Synod of North Carolina, will deliver the sermon at the service, to be held at 10:30 a.m. in the chapel of Clark's Funeral Home, 1206 Dickinson Ave.

Immediately following the service, the Rev. Conrad will conduct the business meeting of formal organization. The developer and organizer, the Rev. Terry W. Agner, will serve as liturgist.

A constitution will be adopted at the business meeting, when Deacons will also be elected and the petition made for acceptance into the North Carolina Synod of the United Lutheran Church in America. Authorization will be given the church council to draw up a budget and nominate a pastor.

Sixty adult charter members, representing 32 families, will be received by the orders for Adult Baptism, Confirmation, Affirmation of Faith, or Letter of Transfer. The 38 members too young to be confirmed will be received as child members.

The new "Service Book and Hymnal" will be used for the first time by the congregation at this service. Professor Gordon Johnson of East Carolina College music faculty has been rehearsing the congregation in the singing of the Gloria and Responses of the musical liturgy. The 78 service books and hymnals are the gifts of friends of the congregation.

The congregation owns a building site on the corner of Elm Street and South Overlook Drive in Elmhurst, where it plans to build worship and educational facilities.

Art Center Ready For Its Opening On May 1

Photos by Stuart Savage
Text by Patricia Moore

The Greenville Art Center will hold its formal opening on Sunday, May 1.

The home, formerly the E. G. Flanagan home, was purchased several months ago by the East Carolina Art Society to house the Greenville Art Center. The art gallery was housed on the second floor of Sheppard Memorial Library but expansion of library facilities brought the necessity of the society's seeking other quarters.

The Greenville Art Center will contain not only a gallery of paintings, but also studios for arts and crafts.

It has been readied for its opening largely by volunteer contractors, carpenters, painters, wall paper hangers, the Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Brownies and other individuals—who have given services and materials without pay. Work on the redecorating began in mid March and will continue until late April.

The main exhibition rooms and program areas are located on the first floor of the three-story home, located on the corner of S. Evans and Eighth Streets.

The second floor will house studios and workshops, including a studio for painters and sculptors, as well as a place for visiting and volunteer lecturers. A number of easels, which the art society has had for several years, will be used to advantage now.

Also on the second floor is the weaving and rug room, with a loom loaned by Mrs. J. U. Robards. It will be on display on the opening day.

The children's exhibition room and workshop is located on the third floor of the home, with facilities for displaying their work on the walls.

A garage behind the house will furnish quarters for various ceramics and workshops.

Staircase

Aside from the works of art and workshops which will be housed in the center, the home itself has its own objects of beauty. There are three cut glass and crystal chandeliers in the lower part of the home.

The most outstanding feature is the wrought iron staircase, with a walnut hand rail running from the first to the third floor in a spiral. The wrought iron was hand puddled, hand twisted and hand hammered, made by the Stewart Iron Works of Cincinnati. George Cherry of Pactolus installed the railing.

A photograph of the staircase has appeared in the magazine "House Beautiful." Built in the mid 1930s, a photograph of the staircase still appears in the Stewart Iron Works catalog as one of their most attractive installations.

Workshops

Leaders and instructors in the workshops are: Mrs. Robert K. Stuart, chairman of the children's classes and workshops; Mrs. Bernard Jackson, textile paintings; Mrs. Edwin Monroe, sculpture; Francis Lee Neel, ceramics and silk screen painting; Mrs. Robert Lee Humber and Paul R. Minnis, ceramics. Mrs. Georgia P. Hearne will discuss oil paintings and portraiture and Mrs. John R. Baker, landscape painting.

Director of the art center, Mrs. J.H.B. Moore, said it is hoped that classes will be organized later in conversational Spanish and French, both on the children's and adult levels. The Greenville Music Club has scheduled courses, also. Rug making, leather craft and book binding may be arranged, Mrs. Moore said.

Officers of the East Carolina Art Society, which has worked to offer a community fine arts center to citizens of all eastern Carolina, are M. K. Blount, president; Dr. K. B. Pace, first vice president; T. I. Wagner, second vice president; Mrs. W. E. Debnam, third vice president; Mrs. W. I. Wooten, recording secretary; J. Hampton Thomas, corresponding secretary; and Claude Taylor, treasurer.

Ten members of the society serve on the Board of Directors: Mrs. Lee Hannah, Mrs. R. M. Garrett, W. H. Watson, Dr. Robert Lee Humber, Wyatt Brown, Frank M. Wooten, Dr. Edwin W. Monroe, W. W. Speight, Mrs. Georgia P. Hearne and Miss Lilah Gaut.

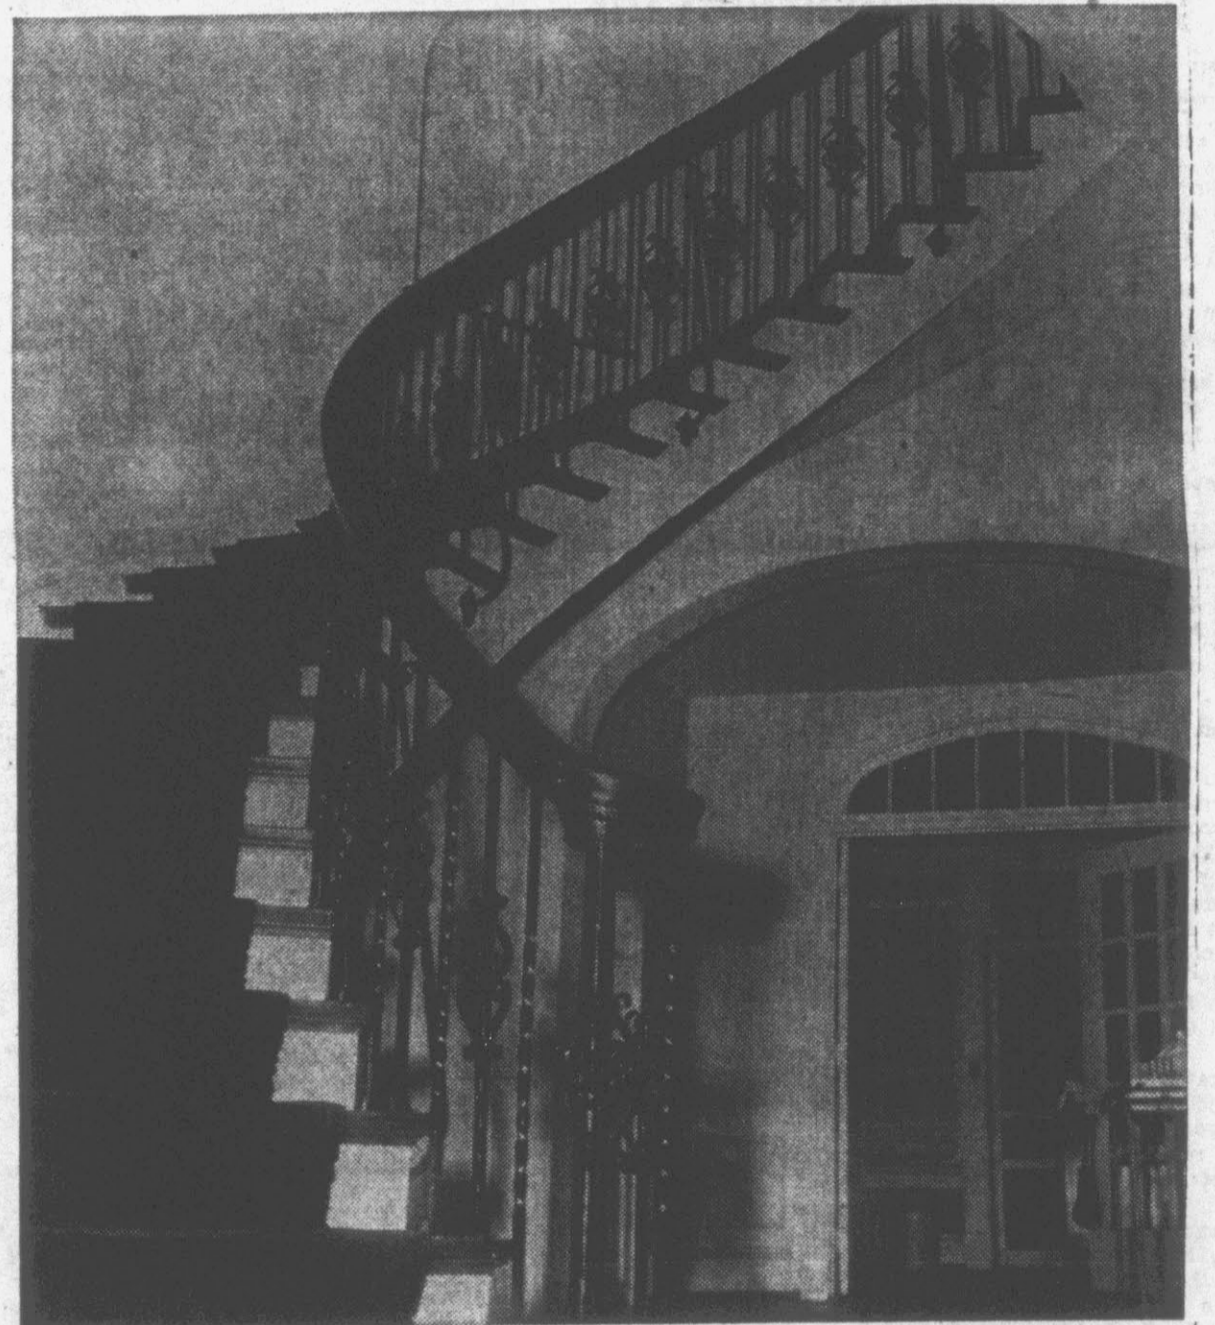

A number of paintings by Old Masters, considered one of the finest exhibitions ever offered to viewers east of Raleigh, have been secured for the May 1 opening, largely through the efforts of Dr. Robert Lee Humber.

THE GREENVILLE ART CENTER . . . will be housed in this three-story brick home purchased by the East Carolina Art Society several months ago. It will be open to the public May 1.

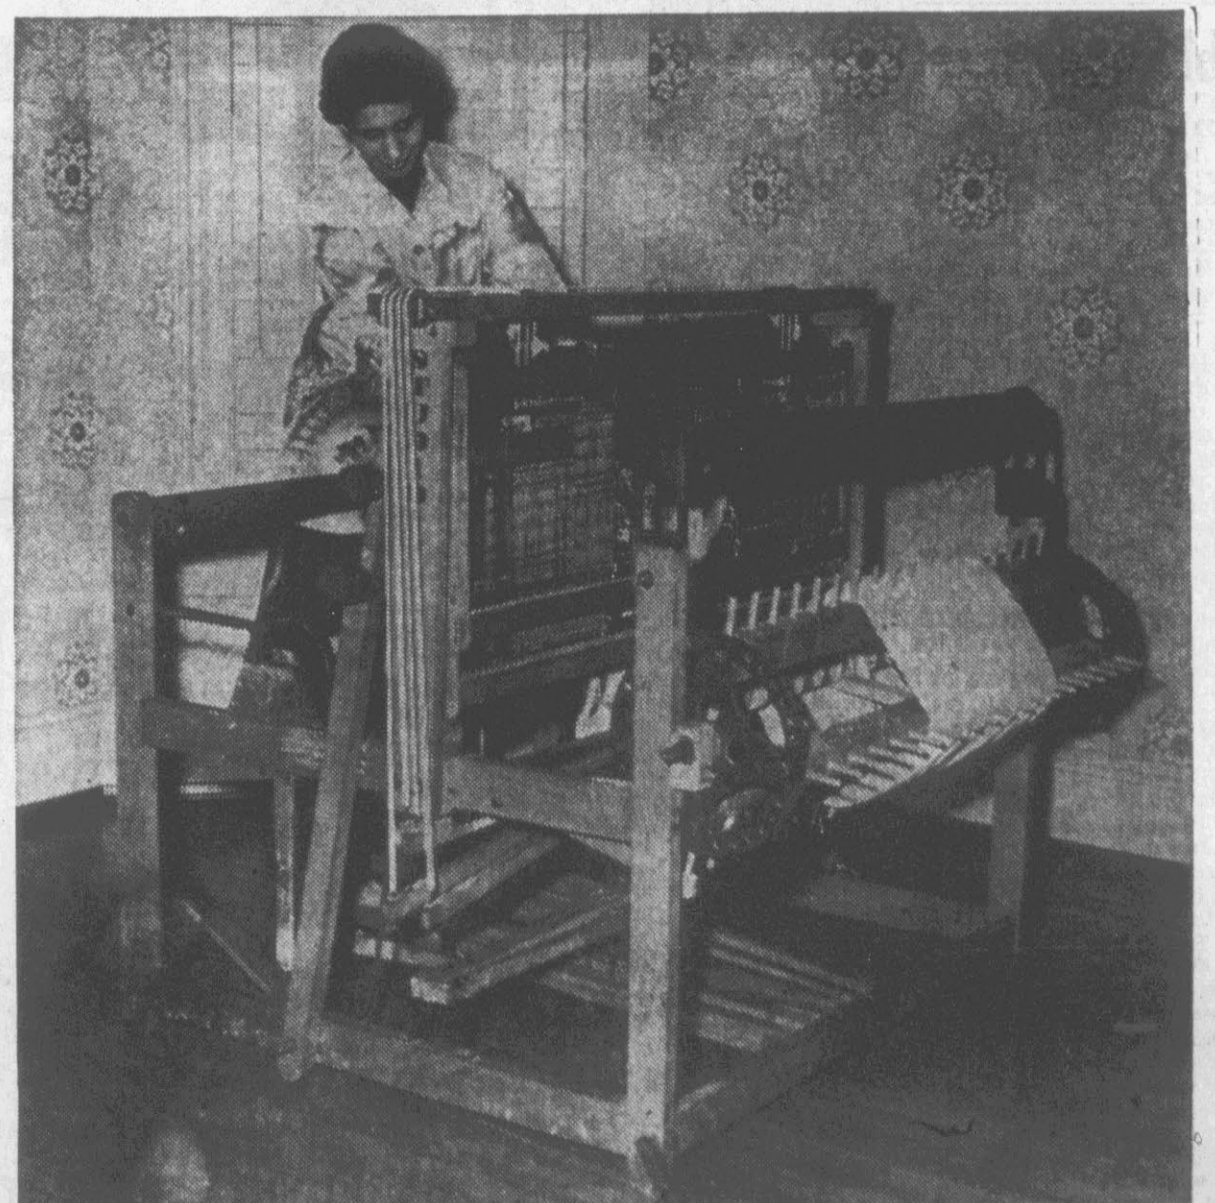

NATURE STUDY . . . including an authentic stuffed woodcock and a hawk, as well as a reproduction of Winslow Homer's "Weaning the Calf", appears in the third floor children's room.

WROUGHT IRON STAIRCASE . . . was hand puddled, hand twisted and hand hammered. It has been featured in House Beautiful Magazine and still appears in Stewart Iron Works catalog.

THIS STUDIO . . . located on the second floor, will be used by amateur painters, sculpture, and a place for professors to conduct classes.

A LOOM . . . which will be used in the weaving and rug room, was loaned by Mrs. J. U. Robards. Barbara Batchelor, art center hostess, demonstrates its operation.

Castro Claims Eisenhower Trying To Set Up 5th Column In Long Harangue

HAVANA (AP) — Fidel Castro accused the Eisenhower administration today of trying to set up a "fifth column" in Cuba.

The Cuban Prime Minister charged that recent remarks by President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Christian A. Herter were part of a "well prepared and premeditated plan" to create an internal front.

In a 3 1/2-hour TV speech running well past midnight, Castro declared that statements by Eisenhower and Herter were "all part of a preconceived intent to create a fifth column to encourage a counter-revolutionary struggle against the (Cuban) government."

He also accused the United States of trying to organize some sort of action against Cuba within the Organization of American States.

Castro rejected Eisenhower's charge that he betrayed the Cuban revolution.

"If we had done that," he said, "the American president would have called us loyal friends."

In a recent letter to the Chilean Students Federation Eisenhower warned against communism and said democratic ideas of the Cuban revolution were being betrayed. The Chilean students replied that they felt a true revolutionary process is developing in Cuba.

Castro pointed to actions by his government, some of which have hurt American investments here. If they had not been carried out, he declared, "that would have been a betrayal of the Cuban revolution and its people."

"If we had not done this, Eisenhower would have called us friends of democracy and might have given us the same embrace he gave Francisco Franco (of Spain)."

During his long TV appearance Castro looked weary and coughed repeatedly, as if suffering from a cold.

He repeated charges that authorities at the U.S. naval base at Guantanamo in eastern Cuba were linked to a plot against his regime. He said he knew "perfectly well" of a tie between U.S. naval authorities and counter-revolutionary elements at Santiago, capital of Oriente province, and other dissidents in the area.

The bearded leader declared that former soldiers of Fulgencio Batista's regime employed at the big naval base were involved. U.S. authorities have told the Cuban government only eight of the more than 3,000 Cuban employees at the base had records as former Batista soldiers.

Castro reiterated charges that American military planes had ranged over the Sierra Maestra in Oriente in an effort to make contact with Capt. Manuel Beaton, ex-Castro officer who is leading an insurgent band. Castro said his mountain troops had encircled Beaton and captured five of his men.

The Cuban leader brushed aside American assertions that aircraft had flown over the mountains with permission of his government to search for a missing American plane.

The Prime Minister accused two American TV men of twisting his remarks in eastern Cuba last week. The two, Richard Bates, Coco Beach, Fla., and Mario Bisset, Boston, both of CBS, were expelled by Cuban authorities Wednesday without official explanation.

They had reported Castro told them he was willing to meet either Eisenhower or Herter for a private discussion of Cuban-American differences. Castro later denied it.

N.C. Candidates Dwell On Money, Economy

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Money and the state's economy emerged as a key topic in this week's campaign oratory by the four contenders for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

The candidates discussed other perennial issues, such as the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People and the State Highway Commission, but it was revenue which drew most of the attention.

"If progress demands that we find new sources of revenue, we will find them," said candidate Terry Sanford.

The others, Malcolm Seawell, I. Beverly Lake and John Larkins, were more conservative.

Larkins told a news conference he felt the state could get by the next biennium with no tax increase. He said later he believed the state should be able to provide 25 million dollars to increase teacher salaries with no new levies.

Seawell called for continuation of the state's conservative fiscal policies. "The people of this state do not accept multi-million dollar schemes or ideas thrown out by candidates for public office, but insist that we continue to grow steadily as we become a more prosperous people."

Lake, on the other hand, rapped the current administration's fiscal policies as being "unbusinesslike, and called repeatedly for a balanced budget with recurring revenue.

Lake, Larkins and Sanford slapped at the NCAACP, reaching agreement that none wanted the group's support. Seawell, who made no public statement on the association during the week, has attacked it previously.

Candidates for the Senate, including incumbent B. Everett Jordan, were on the campaign trail during the week.

Jordan, in a weekly newsletter from Washington, declared the only way to deal with farm surpluses is "to write specific production controls into the law." He said it was the approach used successfully in the tobacco program.

Contender A. D. Lison Hewlett called for better preparation of American diplomats. He said more adequate training of foreign service personnel would be one step to better deal with problems in foreign affairs.

Students Hold Annual Junior-Senior Banquet

By NADINE GARRIS

BELVOIR—Friday night (April 8), the Belvoir-Falkland High School junior class staged its annual Junior-Senior Banquet at the Greenville Country Club.

The annual event is given in honor of the graduating seniors, sponsored by the rising senior class.

Supper, dancing, and a late show were the highlights of the evening. A Hawaiian theme was used and the buffet supper was served to the 110 guests.

Small souvenirs were presented to each senior and the class advisor, with appropriate verses accompanying each gift.

A surprise attraction of the event was the presentation of the 1959-60 edition of the "Columbian," the BFHS yearbook, to Mrs. Dorothy Hardy, to whom it was dedicated this year.

Monogram Club

The Monogram Club met last week to decide the location and date of its annual supper.

It was decided that a hot dog roast would be held May 6 at Gold Park Lake in Goldsboro. Committees were appointed to assume the responsibility of ironing out further details for the occasion.

Initiation of new Monogram Club members is scheduled for May 2-6.

Indian Lore

BFHS students were treated Monday (April 11) to Albert and Eula Stewart's Indian Lore program.

It was described as an interesting program of authentic knowledge of the color and romance of the native American Indian.

Typing Contest

Phyllis Nichols, BFHS junior, represented the school in the District Typewriting Contest at East Carolina College in Greenville Thursday.

She was one of 12 Pitt County students eligible for competition in the contest.

PTA

The final Parent-Teacher Association meeting for the current school term is scheduled for Monday night, May 25. The annual Spring Music Festival will be the feature attraction.

Planetarium

Mrs. Anna R. Cozart's physics class is planning a trip to the Morehead Planetarium on the University of North Carolina campus in Chapel Hill next Wednesday. The program featured there that day is listed as the "Sun and Its Energy to the Earth."

Extra-Curricular Activities Hit

WINSTON-SALEM (AP) — The State Curriculum Study Committee has hit extra-curricular school activities and says such activities should prove they have educational objectives.

The committee, which closes a two-day meeting here today, also included in its tentative recommendations that local country-wide and supplemental tax funds be used to support kindergarten instruction during summer months.

More than 75 educators met here Friday to study recommendations to be included in a final report to be submitted to the State Board of Education May 5 by Dr. I. E. Ready, study director.

Fourteen general recommendations are in the committee's tentative report.

The recommendation concerning extra-curricular activities said areas which need attention include week-night athletic games and other school events, extended championship series and post season bowl games, excessive demands on the school band, contests which take up student and class time, and piano, dance or band instrument lessons during class time.

The committee organized two years ago, will continue its study next year. The State Board of Education is expected to ask the Legislature to make the work permanent.

Several other recommendations have been discussed previously and Dr. Ready said many areas still are untouched.

Punch Followed An Extra Beep

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Magistrate Robert Fullerton heard Friday a story of an extra beep of an auto horn followed by a punch in the nose.

It goes back to March 19 when Edward Ramberg, 58, drove up at 2 in the morning, to find a car blocking his garage entrance. He began honking his horn. The other car's driver didn't show up but neighbors did.

One said that another blast of the horn and he'd bust Ramberg in the nose. Honk. Punch.

The magistrate told Ramberg the punch was "one kind of justice, now I'll give you another."

He fined Ramberg $100 for disturbing the peace.

Criticize Legal Eagles On TV

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Judges and attorneys should confine their histrionics to the courtroom and not the television studio, says the Los Angeles County Bar Assn.

It passed a resolution Friday criticizing judges and lawyers who appear in simulated court proceedings on television and radio, saying such appearances are improper.

The "Big Three Conference" between Roosevelt, Churchill and Stalin took place at Yalta in Russia in February, 1945.

VOA Director To Address Club

Henry Loomis, director of the U. S. government's world-wide broadcasting service, "Voice of America," is scheduled to speak to the Greenville Rotary Club Monday night.

Loomis will be in the Greenville area in connection with the $26 million VOA facility now in the initial construction stages in a triangle surrounding Greenville.

The 41-year-old official became head of the "Voice" May 22, 1958, when he succeeded Robert E. But-ton. Loomis joined the United States Information Agency's staff in 1953 as a special assistant to the director.

Loomis is a Harvard graduate and has done graduate work at the University of California. After leaving UC, he became a research physicist for the Atomic Energy Commission.

He has served as assistant to the president of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, assistant to the chairman of the Research and Development Board, consultant to the Psychological Strategy Board, and staff member of the president's committee on international information activities.

In World War II he served as a lieutenant commander in the Navy.

The guest speaker will be introduced to Rotarians Monday by Dave Whitchard.

'Annie Get Your Gun' To Open Tuesday For 4 Performances

With Jane Murray of Roxboro, senior at East Carolina College, in the title role, "Annie Get Your Gun," East Carolina College's ninth annual spring musical, will open April 26 at 8 p.m. in the McGinnis auditorium.

Three additional performances are scheduled for April 27, 28, and 29 at the same hour and place. The popular musical comedy, sponsored by the Student Government Association, is expected to attract capacity audiences for the four performances.

Donald H. Hayes of the college music faculty is music director of "Annie Get Your Gun." He has announced that a cast of sixty student singers, actors, and dancers, will take part in the production. A 25-piece orchestra will provide the musical background for fifteen principals in the cast, a chorus of men and women, and a corps of dancers.

Miss Murray, a senior at the college, was recently chosen by the Greenville Branch of the American Association of University Women as the recipient of a scholarship for the study of voice in Germany during the summer months. A contralto, she was one of six seniors selected by the department of music to give "honors" recitals at the college during 1959-1960.

As soloist, she has appeared with the East Carolina Orchestra and the East Carolina Concert Band and has sung twice in campus presentations of "The Messiah." Last year she had a leading role in the East Carolina Opera Theatre's production of Smetana's "The Bartered Bride" and this year sang the leading role in

Menotti's "The Medium."

In "Annie Get Your Gun," Ronald Knouse of Winston-Salem will appear opposite Miss Murray as her lover Frank Butler. Knouse played a leading role in the 1958 freshman plays at the college and in "The Bartered Bride."

The East Carolina production of the show, a Broadway hit and a big success in the movies, will have authentic costuming, original settings designed by James Brewer of the college faculty, and dances choreographed by James Gillikin of Greenville.

Valedictorian And Salutatorian Are Named At South Ayden School

Five Delegates Will Attend Church Session

Five delegates appointed by the Greenville Seventh-day Adventist church will attend a two-state biennial church session in Charlotte on April 24.

The session has been called for the purpose of electing officers for the Carolina Conference of Seventh-day Adventists for the coming two-year term of office. Each Adventist church in North and South Carolina will be represented by delegates at the session.

All ministers are delegates at large, according to Pastor H. V. Boling of Greenville. He also explained that the Seventh-day Adventist church is a democratic organization and each delegate has a vote not only in electing officers but in forming policies and by-laws.

Offices to be filled at the election are: President, Secretary, Treasurer, Sabbath School and Home Missionary Secretary, Youth Leader and Educational Superintendent, Book and Bible House Manager, Publishing Secretary, and Public Relations Director.

Trio Fined For Induced Begging

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — Three men were fined $25 each Friday on charges they forced a blind man to beg for them.

Howard L. Cobb, 39; Irving Jr., 34, and Johnnie Thomas, 46, were convicted of disorderly conduct. Police testified they forced or "induced," Donald Waters, 32, who is blind, to go from tavern to tavern begging.

'Really Loved' Husband No. 5

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "I really loved this man — it was no passing fancy," said Hedy Lamarr, sadly reflecting that her fifth marriage had ended in divorce.

Texas oil millionaire W. Howard Lee, 52, won an uncontested divorce from her in Houston Friday. He testified she drove him to the brink of a mental breakdown.

Her lips quivering with emotion, Hedy told an interviewer at her Beverly Hills mansion Friday night:

"I guess one of my main problems was that I wasn't a Texan. I never could get acquainted with his family."

Her property settlement of half a million dollars includes an interest in 103 oil wells.

Remarried After 1932 Wedding

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP) — Valentin Vargas, 68, and Domitilia Medina, 59, were remarried Friday, 28 years after their first wedding.

There is no record of their first marriage in Sacred Heart Cathedral here except a document signed March 23, 1932. But that wasn't considered the legal proof they needed to receive a pension.

Girl Scout Camp Will Operate As Usual This Year

Camp Hardee for Girl Scouts will operate as usual this summer, even though the Pitt County Girl Scout Council is in the process of a merger into a large council area.

The camp will open June 26 through July 30, under the supervision of Mrs. Elizabeth Lindley of Stonehall, according to Mrs. William Reading Jr., president of the Pitt County Girl Scout Council.

The camp will be run under the same policies of all established Scout camps. New Camp folders will be ready for distribution the week of April 25, Mrs. Reading said.

The camp site will remain as it now is, Mrs. Reading said, even though the local Girl Scout Council is in the transition of merging into the Coastal Carolina Area, which will include some 6,000 Girl Scouts. Mrs. Reading added that the "merger will not change the policies; it will serve to affect better services to all."

Beverly Kept In Court Custody

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The California District Court of Appeal has ruled that Beverly Aadland, 17, must remain in juvenile custody at least until her hearing Monday.

Attorneys for the late Errol Flynn's former mistress sought unsuccessfully Friday to free her. The Monday hearing will determine whether Beverly is kept in custody until she is 18. Authorities say she is in danger of becoming a juvenile delinquent.

thing. Just exactly what was it you saw? Dr. Paulson began, "If you will accept the testimony of one who, you must admit, is a trained observer..."

"And where was the child?" "I know what you are thinking," said Mr. Jellicot, "but it was impossible for her to have been involved in any way. She was sitting in an alcove at the other side of the room with her back to us, painting in her water-color book."

Typing Contest Award Winners Named

Top scorers among Pitt County typists who participated in the Ninth Annual Typewriting Contest sponsored by the business department at East Carolina College were honored at an Awards Dinner at the college, final event of a series of county competitions and a district contest held on the campus yesterday.

Cerebral Palsy Drive Set In May

Arthur S. Alford, of 1113 Ragsdale Road, Greenville, has been designated as local chairman for the North Carolina Cerebral Palsy Campaign by State Chairman Frank McGuire of the University of North Carolina.

ARTHUR S. ALFORD Palsy March here for May 23, 24 and 25.

"The success of any campaign," he said, "depends upon the dedicated efforts of volunteers from all walks of life. We are fortunate in securing the services of civic-minded people who are deeply concerned with the problems of cerebral palsy."

"Anyone wishing to volunteer to help fight this most vicious crippling, that has attacked 600,000 men, women and children in America, is invited to contact me at my home or office."

The United Cerebral Palsy organization, reminding that the affliction strikes some individual every 53 minutes, has entitled their 1960 drive as the Fifty-Three Minute March.

Cerebral palsy is the result of damage to the brain and can happen to anyone at anytime, before, during, or after birth. It is neither contagious nor hereditary. Alford, born in Laurinburg, N.C., has been a Greenville resident for four years. He is now serving as Supervisor of Pitt County Schools.

WNCT Ch. 9

- SATURDAY 2:15-Baseball Leadoff

When he entered the village, he drew up at the post office and went into the telephone box. At least his deficiency in photography was to be remedied, but he knew that in addition to his stepfather's knowledge and skill he rather desperately wanted to be able to talk to her.

He called her at Barbizon's studio and when he got through to her said, "Hoy, Meg. This is Sandro."

"Are you all right?" was the first thing she asked. "Yes. Look here. Sis, you'll be getting an invitation to Paradise Hall shortly. When it arrives, take off on the double, old girl."

There was a moment's silence on the other end of the telephone, and then, "Oh, that's how it is. Anything particular in equipment?"

"We'll want the lot, that's for certain. Your subject has a preference for dark corridors."

Meg asked, "What about the Little Snooper?" "Yes, yes! By all means! We'll have Little Snooper. This place is positively crawling with ghosts, if you happen to like them in crowds—which I don't."

"When may I expect my invitation?" "Probably tomorrow sometime. Hurry down when you get it, Sis."

Meg said, "You bet I will." "Good. Good," Hero said, and hung up.

He was in the garden reflecting upon the incongruity that this manor, which for so many centuries had curtailed the privacy of the Parades, should before have been turned—call it what you would—into a public hotel, and what, if anything, the members of the family thought or felt about this, or whether they felt anything at all.

"Come out, come out, wherever you are," said Mr. Hero. Twelve-year-old Noreen Spendley-Carter appeared then diffidently from behind the tree.

"Could I sit with you for a little?" she begged. "Certainly," Hero replied. "Come around."

"Oh, isn't it wonderful today?" she breathed. "It's just like a dream."

"Shhhh," Hero whispered. "you must try not to wake up ehen."

She sat up and looked at him now with more interest. "Oh," she said, "you know that too? Sometimes when I'm having the best dream I know that I am and try ever so hard not to wake up."

"What kind of dreams?" Hero asked. She became slightly wary. "Oh—things," she said. And then added half to herself, "Like being a nurse in a hospital and wearing a white cap and starched uniform and holding a thermometer."

"That's a nice dream," Mr. Hero said. The girl turned her dark eyes upon him and asked, "What are you really doing here?"

Hero answered her frankly. "I am trying to find out about ghosts."

Noreen asked, "But what is there to find out about them? A ghost is or isn't, isn't it?" Mr. Hero smiled and said, "It depends a good deal upon how you look at them. Do you believe in ghosts?"

Winners of awards in the Ninth Annual Typewriting Contest sponsored by the business department of East Carolina College were announced Thursday at a dinner held in the New South Dining Hall on the campus.

The annual contests have the purpose of improving standards of work among young typists. This year approximately 875 students from 25 counties in northeastern North Carolina participated in preliminary county contests, and 170 young typists competed in the district contest on the campus yesterday.

Top individual awards went to Brenda Ann Justice of La Grange High School for compiling the highest individual score for beginning contestants, and Sammy Oliver of Granger High School, Kingston, for compiling the highest score for advanced contestants.

Top team honors in the beginning competition were awarded to Chowan County. Students comprising this team were Janet Louise Chappell of Chowan High School, and Mary Pearl Harrell and Patricia Ann Waff of John A. Holmes High School, Pamlico County ranked second with the following students making up the team: Linda Ann Buck, Sylvia Jean Dunn, and Vivian Ann Strickland all from Pamlico County High School.

Third-place honors went to the following students who comprise the Lenoir County team: Judy Axy Axelberg, Linda F. Hill, Madeline H. Mitchell, Catherine J. Farrott, and Lillian R. Phillips, of Granger High School, Kingston, Clyde F. Jernigan, Brenda A. Justice, and Linda F. Wade of La Grange High School, Eleanor G. Pate, and Marian B. Shivar of Moss Hill High School, and Katie L. Williams of Southwood High School.

In the advanced competition, Lenoir County received top honors. Students comprising the team are Barbara A. Hill, Sammy B. Oliver, and Gary B. Shaw of Granger High School, Kingston. Beaufort County contestants ranked second with the following students making up the team: Helen Elaine Sullivan of Bath High School, Verla Kaye Clark, Lexa Earle Edwards and Betty Carolyn McRoy of Chocowinity High School, and Genevieve Winstead of Washington High School. Louvenia Bunn and Carole Ann Dail of Maury High School comprised the third-ranking Greene County team.

The two top students, one in beginning competition and one in advanced competition, from each county received certificates. Receiving honors for Pitt County in the district competition were Tommy Oglesby of Winterville in the beginning division, and Linda Carol Williams of Ayden in the advanced division.

Presiding at the Awards Dinner were Mary Elizabeth Massad of Benson, a senior in business, president of Pi Omega Pi and Typewriting Contest Committee chairman, and Betty Hackett of Greensboro, sophomore in business, Phi Beta Lambda Typewriting Contest Chairman.

Dr. Leo Jenkins and Dr. E. R. Browning extended words of welcome to the group of high school students. W. S. Hart, business staff member, presented the pennants to the school teams who received highest scores in their respective counties.

The Awards Dinner is the highlight of a series of county typewriting contests and a district typewriting contest at the college for winners of the county contests. Co-sponsors of the contest events are the Beta Kappa Chapter of Pi Omega Pi and the Phi Beta Lambda Chapter of the Future Business Leaders of America, student organizations in the college department of business, and the College Office of Public Relations and Foundations.

Mrs. Thadys Dewar of the business faculty was chairman of this year's typing contest. Assisting her were Lena Ellis, Frances Daniels, Alton Finch, Peggy Holman, William Hart, and Velma Lowe, of the business department.

Christ, Scientist Announcements

How striving for spiritual perfection gives life new meaning and purpose will be explained at Christian Science services this Sunday. Readings from the King James Version of the Bible and from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy will comprise the Lesson-Sermon on the subject "Probation After Death."

One verse to be read from the Bible states (Matt. 5:48): "Be ye therefore perfect, even as your Father which is in heaven is perfect."

Correlative citations from Science and Health will include the following: "The divine demand, 'Be ye therefore perfect,' is scientific, and the human footsteps leading to perfection are indispensable" (253:32-2).

The Golden Text is from Matthew (24:13): "He that shall endure unto the end, the same shall be saved."

St. Raphael Menu

The following menus will be served next week at St. Raphael's School: Monday—Chili con carne with beans, baked sweet potatoes, cole slaw, corn muffins, chilled peaches, milk.
