Registration Of Voters Will Begin For Pitt Countians On Saturday

Voting registration is scheduled to begin for PITT COUNTIANS Saturday morning, the first of three Saturdays set aside for registering before the May 28 Democratic Primary election. Pitt County Board of Elections Chairman D. Sprull Spain last night emphasized proper interpretation of qualifications for registering to vote. He listed the following: A registrant: 1. Must be a citizen of the United States. 2. Must be 21 years of age by Nov. 8, 1960, the date of the general election. 3. Must have been a resident of North Carolina for 12 months prior to Nov. 8. 4. Must have been a resident of the precinct in which he is registered for 30 days prior to Nov. 8. 5. Must be a permanent resident of Pitt County. With the books open for the first time Saturday, the next two consecutive Saturdays (May 7 and 14) are also registration days. Saturday, May 21, is Challenge Day with the primary set for one week later, May 28. Spain pointed out some of the listed qualifications need explanation due to several common misconceptions. He said he has heard reports that many eligible registrants believe they must have been a North Carolina resident for 12 months prior to the Primary. He urged them to take notice the qualification refers to the general election in November, not the primary. Spain also explained the "permanent resident" requirement. "That means," he said, "a registrant must have moved here with the intentions, to the best of his knowledge, of establishing permanent residence." The following registering places and registrars by precincts were released by the elections chairman: Arthur Township — Arthur School, Mrs. John E. Wilkerson; Ayden—City Hall, D.C. Sumerell; Belvoir—Belvoir School, W.R. Tyson; Bethel—City Hall, Mrs. Annie Dare Ward; Carolina—Stokes High School, David M. Nobles; Chisolm No. 1—Old Barber Shop at Black Jack, Mrs. Curtis Spencer; No. 2—Filling station at McGowan's Crossroads, Grover Smith; No. 3—Filling station at Venter's Store, W.E. Support Heavy Spending Plans RALEIGH (AP) — The state Congress of Parents and Teachers today formally adopted a legislative program calling for an increase in public school appropriations of $45 a pupil. The increase would cost the state 50 million dollars a year if approved by the 1961 General Assembly. Similar to a proposal for the United Forces for Education, the plan would: 1. Increase the teachers' pay scale ranging from $3,600 to 5,600 for holders of A and G certificates. 2. Increase salaries of principals, supervisors, superintendents and non-professional personnel. 3. Provide an increase in special service teachers, with emphasis on counseling and guidance services. 4. Provide clerical assistance where necessary and reduce class size. The program also included provisions relating to health, safety and welfare of North Carolina youth. The delegates spent the morning voting by secret ballot for a president and secretary. Results were expected to be announced later today. Mrs. H. S. Godwin of Greensboro had no opposition for the presidency and Mrs. O. F. Dillard of Candler was unopposed for secretary.

Continued U.S. Support Of CENTO Assured TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—Secretary of State Christian A. Herter told members of the Central Treaty Organization today the United States will continue to give strong support to their alliance against communism. The United States sponsored the organization when it was formed as the Baghdad Pact several years ago but did not become a full member. It has separate alliances with several CENTO members, and Herter said America's indirect CENTO ties would continue in the interests of world peace. He said President Eisenhower is going to next month's summit meeting in Paris as part of his "unswerving quest for peace." The Shah of Iran welcomed the ministers and declared that CENTO's three Moslem members—Iran, Pakistan and Turkey—stand solidly behind their Western Allies. Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd of Britain gave the CENTO members an outline of three Western objectives for the summit meeting. Speaking at the opening session of the CENTO ministerial council meeting in the Iranian Senate chamber, Lloyd stressed disarmament as the prime Western aim and said progress toward an international settlement could best be obtained in this way: "Firstly, a genuine and concrete beginning along the road to comprehensive disarmament under effective international control. "Secondly, an agreement to suspend nuclear tests, also under international control. "Thirdly, evidence by deed as well as word that the great powers are not going to interfere in the internal affairs of other countries by threats or pressures of any sort." U.S. Secretary of State Christian A. Herter read a message to the ministers from President Eisenhower expressing the President's confidence that the current

Bloodmobile Failed Quota In ECC Visit With a quota of 120 pints of blood, 56 pints were given yesterday during the bloodmobile visit to the East Carolina College campus. The Pitt County Chapter of the American Red Cross has expressed disappointment over the showing during the visit. Mrs. Walter F. Out of that number, there were six rejects, leaving 56 pints collected—a shortage in the total quota of 64 pints. Korean Family's Suicide 'Atones' For Big Revolt

SEOUL, South Korea (AP)—Lee Ki-poong, his wife and two sons committed suicide today in oriental atonement for the revolt Lee's election as South Korea's vice president touched off. Ten hours after Lee and his family died in a cottage on the grounds of the presidential mansion, the chief casualty of the revolt, ex-President Syngman Rhee, left the president's house 100 yards away and was driven with his Austrian-born wife to a modest hillside villa where they took up life as private citizens. Sentimental, friendly crowds along Rhee's route applauded him and women wept, in sharp contrast to the bloody rioting which forced the 85-year-old father of modern Korea to end his 12-year rule over South Korea. The old man waved and smiled occasionally at the crowds. Rhee's successor, Acting President Huh Chung, named six independents to his cabinet, bringing the new government to nine members. All politically independent, they include a noted surgeon, an educator and two bankers. Still vacant is the key post of minister of defense, as well as the agriculture and communications ministries. Four more members of the National Assembly, all members of Rhee's Liberal party, resigned today. The Assembly had demanded that they quit, charging they were involved in rigging the March 15 elections which named Rhee to a fourth term and Lee Ki-poong to the vice presidency. Earlier Huh's government issued warrants for the arrest of the former home minister, Choh In-kyu and six others charged with responsibility for the voting frauds. Charges of fraud, intimidation and police brutality during the election set off the six-week revolt that overthrew the Rhee regime. Choh has been in hiding since the bloody climax of the revolt April 19. There have been unconfirmed reports that he has fled the country. Others whose arrest was ordered were Lee Kang-hak, former director of the hated National Police under Choh, and Han Hui-suk, Rhee's campaign manager. The death of Lee and his family was announced by the army command, which still is in charge of maintaining order in Seoul and other major cities under martial law. The announcement said the 64-old vice president-elect, his wife, Maria Park Lee, 52, and their sons, 2nd Lt. Lee Kang-suk, 22, and Lee Kang-uk, 19, committed suicide at the home of a member of the president's secretarial staff, a friend of Mrs. Lee. The announcement gave no details, but it was understood that the elder son — whom Rhee and his childless wife had adopted — shot his parents and his brother and then turned the gun on himself.

Englewood Addition Again Sent Back To Developers plat of Englewood which he said was approved by the city in 1955 and without the proposed thoroughfare street. He also showed the group the adopted city street plan on which the thorough street was not included. Taft indicated to the group that the subdivider could only plan new areas based on such official actions. West replied that the Planning-Zoning Commission had originally decided on a location of the street further west in Englewood. However, he said, "They started building houses out there and blocked it on us once." So the location was moved eastward. "Now they are determined it is not going there," he declared, "just as determined as I am that it is going there." "Others might go along with this but I will not and I hope the others won't," West declared. Taft pointed out that the Recreation Commission within the last few weeks had purchased a piece of land on 14th St. for use

Crop Outlook Is Improved With Rains Over Pitt

Pitt County Farm Agent S. C. Winchester reported this morning the general outlook for this crop year has "improved considerably" with the 2.3 inches of rain that fell over the area yesterday afternoon. Winchester pointed out the most serious situation that had been developing during the past rainless weeks was the fact that small tobacco plants in the unirrigated plant beds "had not made satisfactory growth." "We all feel much better this morning," he said, "This rain should help our situation considerably." Before yesterday's rain, the county agent said, the top surface of the soil "had gotten extremely dry and where plants had not had the advantage of irrigation, growth had been slowed down considerably." He indicated the outlook for all crops already in the ground had been growing progressively worse. He listed corn, cotton, and other Pitt crops along with tobacco plants that had begun to suffer. Winchester was optimistic about the number of plants that apparently will be available to plant the county's tobacco crop this year. "It appears now," he said, "that we've got a sufficient number of plants, but this year's crop is going to be late."

Last Ivy Bluff Escapees Caught

NEW YORK (AP) — Two long-term prisoners, the last of 20 who fled the tough Ivy Bluff, N.C., prison camp, were recaptured unharmed and without resistance on the streets of Brooklyn, the FBI said last night. Willie Bradford Shaw, 31, of Rougemont, N.C., and James C. McNeill, 28, of Fuquay Springs, N.C., face arraignment before the U.S. commissioner in the Eastern District of New York (Brooklyn) before they are turned over to North Carolina authorities. Twenty hardened convicts fled the rugged Ivy Bluff prison in the pre-dawn hours last Dec. 8. The break had begun at 12:40 a.m. and it was 4:30 a.m. before it was discovered. The convicts overpowered guards on duty, leaving them locked in the cells. A massive manhunt quickly developed and within eight days all except McNeill and Shaw had been rounded up at such points as Kentucky and Ohio. Nine were taken in various Virginia cities. Ivy Bluff, described as North Carolina's Alcatraz, sits in an isolated area of North Carolina 65 miles northwest of Raleigh—the capital of the state—and seven miles from the Virginia state line. The FBI said its agents had tracked the pair — both Negroes — through haunts they frequented in Brooklyn. Later, learning Shaw was working on a house remodeling job, they made final plans for the capture.

Weary Forest Fire Fighters Still Hoping For Rain

SMOKE RISES FROM COASTAL FOREST FIRE . . . more than 12,000 acres have burned (Photo by Roy Hardee)

CRESWELL, N.C. (AP)—Weary firefighters hoped for rains today to help in their efforts to bring under control two forest fires covering more than 14,000 acres. Eastern Regional Forester R. C. Winkworth reported little or no rain fell in the area Wednesday night or this morning. However, rain was predicted. Winkworth said the worst fire, located in Hyde, Tyrrell and Washington counties, has now burned more than 12,000 acres. About 150 men are battling the fire which broke out Tuesday during land clearing operations.

Winkworth said a fire fighting plane has dropped chemicals on land owned by the Lake Phelps Farms, a development corporation. A second fire, centered in the Piney Woods section near Fairfield, has burned an estimated 1,500-2,000 acres and is out of control.

A third fire, which broke out Monday near Columbia in Tyrrell County, is under control but is having to be watched closely, Winkworth said. No homes have been threatened by the fires and no injuries reported, he added.

New Earthquake Strikes In Iran

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — A new heavy earthquake today struck the ruined city of Lar, adding five more deaths to the 360 persons known to have perished in Sunday's quakes, the Iranian Red Cross said. Three of the victims were caught while searching the ruins of the southern city for bodies of missing relatives and for personal effects. The Red Cross said two others were walking in the street when the earthquake sent shaky mud-brick walls crashing down on them.

Gardening Today

By JOHN G. DUNCAN

The time for spraying the shrubs, trees, and flowers of our garden is now at hand. We should know what we are using, and when and how to use it.

Insecticides and fungicides are potent materials—they have to be to get the job done. The proper handling of them will insure beneficial results to both gardener and gardener.

The misuse of these materials is expensive and dangerous. Indiscriminate and haphazard spraying places wildlife and the gardener, himself, in danger.

There are some materials that do an excellent job as far as the elimination of insects are concerned; but are too potent for the average gardener to use. Extensive research has gone into the production and proper use of the fungicides and insecticides you use.

You should read and heed all the directions given you on the bags or containers. They should be stored in a safe place under lock and key if young folks are apt to get in them during their ramblings.

Each gardener should have a copy of the "Pesticide Manual," put out by N. C. State College. They cost one dollar and will save you much more than this in helping you to select the proper materials to use. Not only does it list the insecticides and fungicides, it also tells which pests and diseases it will control or prevent.

The following material has been taken from its pages and should give you an idea of its worth. This also should be helpful to you in your gardening at present, and aid you until you can get a copy of the book.

Any material that can kill a bug can kill you. The only difference is the dosage required. You don't have to get the stuff in your system, orally—it can be absorbed by the skin and the results are the same when you get the required amount.

"This is true of most phosphates which inhibit cholinesterase activity. The body requires considerable time to reactivate the inhibited material so that frequent repeated small doses could prove fatal."

So protection for the exposed skin is a must while using insecticides. Not all materials present the same hazard to man or beast. For example, the pyrethrins and rotenone are safe to man but if you spray the same material around your swine, the results could be fatal.

Before you use any material, be sure to read the labels for the three types of warnings you will find on most of the kinds of spray materials you have to use. They are as follows:

"Poison"—must bear word "Poison," in red, and have a skull and crossbones—Ex. Parathion;

"Warnings"—on insecticides of lesser toxicity but requiring considerable care and handling;

"Caution"—on insecticides less dangerous but dangerous enough to warrant care in handling.

"Wettable powders and emulsifiable concentrates are more dangerous to handle than finished dusts because of the higher percentage of toxicant. Emulsifiable forms are especially dangerous because they are readily absorbed by the skin."

"Regardless of the insecticide, wash all spilled materials off the skin as soon as possible and change contaminated clothing."

"When working in closed spaces, it is advisable to wear a respirator when using such insecticides such as Parathion, Lindane, Nicotine."

Let your first three rules in safe spraying be READ, HEED, and PROCEED. A safe start in spraying should insure you a successful spraying program.

Mix cream cheese and deviled ham and use as a stuffing for celery ribs.

Future Homemakers Make Plans

The Winterville Future Homemakers of America held their monthly meeting in the Home Economics cottage immediately after school Tuesday afternoon.

After the opening ceremony and the F.H.A. song led by Norma Worthington, Song Leader, Dolly Harris led the girls in a devotional and the Lord's prayer.

The president, Sue Ellen Hunsucker, asked for a report from the Twirp Week committee. The committee reported that the only time available at the Winterville Community Building would be May 20.

The motion was made and carried that the week of May 16 to 21 is to be Twirp Week and that the Twirp dance would be Friday night, May 20 at the Community Building. The dance is to be from 8:00 p.m. to 12:00 p.m.

Miss Taylor, the chapter adviser, announced the results of an election of the Winterville officer to be Pitt County Photographer, Dolly Ann Harris was elected to this office.

The Spring Rally which is to be held in Bethel, Saturday night, May 14, was discussed and announcements were made. Admission will be charged per couple at the dance which will be held from 8:00 to 11:00 and is to be semi-formal.

The president opened the floor for nominations for 1960-61 officers. Many girls were nominated and ballots are to be made and voting will take place at a later date to elect these officers.

It has been the custom to have the 8th grade girls as guests of the Future Homemakers in the Home Economics cottage every year. It was decided that instead of having these girls this year that they be invited to the Twirp Dance and bring a guest.

A Huge Crop Is Burned Every Year

It would be unthinkable in North Carolina or anywhere else that thousands of acres of cropland would be burned over year after year consuming the production of the land that meant potential dollars to the farmer.

Yet, in North Carolina each year—and particularly in the East—thousands of acres of valuable timber go up in flames every year mostly because of carelessness.

Some 9,000 acres of timberland has been burned in the Ponzer area in the past few days representing literally thousands of dollars in timber. And unlike other crops that are produced from the land, timber takes year, not just one season, to produce.

The unfortunate part is that most of us sort of take for granted that we'll have forest fires year after year, timber will be destroyed, and there's little that can be done about it. Certainly that is not true. Significant progress has been made in preventing forest fires, and fire wardens throughout the counties of the East have continually improved the facilities for fighting forest fires. Companies with large timber holdings have gone to considerable expense in their programs to prevent forest fires and to cope with the fires which cannot be prevented.

Timber is becoming an increasingly important agricultural product in Eastern North Carolina. The large holdings of companies and groups represent hundreds of thousands of dollars. The smaller tracts of individual farmers, while they may not be as impressive, represent important supplemental income on many farms throughout this area.

If several thousand acres of corn, beans, peanuts

Has An 'Out' In Political Race

By LYNN NISBET

DEDICATED—The plight of Steve Nimocks, although a little bit worse, is fairly typical of the situation in which many politically minded North Carolinians find themselves. Consider these facts:

Nimocks is a practicing attorney at Fayetteville, home town of Terry Sanford, where pressure is heavy to give the home town boy unanimous support in his campaign for Governor. Nimocks also is secretary of the State Democratic Executive Committee, to which post he was appointed by John Larkins, another candidate for Governor, during Larkins' tenure as state chairman. It is common knowledge among the acquaintances that the personal relationship between Nimocks and Malcolm Seawell, another candidate for Governor, approaches Damon-Pythias intensity. And Nimocks makes no bones about the fact there are a lot of things in Beverly Lake's platform which he likes.

What to do? While the problem facing Nimocks is similar to that confronting a lot of other voters, he has an "out" not available to most of the others. Democratic party rules require that officials in the party or organization maintain a neutral attitude among candidates within the party. When asked who he is supporting for Governor, Nimocks answers with a straight face: "You are talking to the most dedicated impartial secretary of the Democratic party in the whole history of that great political organization."

On two points he is outspoken. He will not vote for Robert Gavin (Republican nominee) for Governor, and he will vote in November for whichever of the Democratic candidates may be nominated in the primary.

BALANCED—The program of activities scheduled for the Eastern North Carolina Press Association meeting this week and illustrates the balance being sought in development of the area. A visit to industrial and business places at Ahsokie Friday afternoon, followed by a dinner that night at which Bill Henderson, chief of the industry section of C & D, will speak; an automobile tour of a large part of the county and a boat trip on the Chowan and Meherrin rivers, with a visit to the graphic arts school at Chowan College in Murfreesboro on Saturday, compresses into a period of some 24 hours participation in industrial promotion, tourism and education.

Besides the balance maintained locally between agriculture, industry, travel attractions and education, the visit of the newspaper men will convince them that the imbalance so often be moaned between that section and the rest of the state does not actually exist.

It is true that there is no big industrial plant thereabouts, but the aggregate payroll of the dozens of small operations—employing from ten to fifty persons each—is very substantial. Hertford county is off the publicized path for tourist attractions. Yet there are few places offering as much real beauty and pleasure for a short cruise as the upper Chowan and Meherrin rivers. Chowan College does not rate with Carolina and Duke or any of the big universities as an educational center. But it has the only school of graphic arts, which is highbrow for printing, sponsored by the North Carolina Press, promoted by and named for the late Roy Parker. Although the area lacks an outstanding installation like Tryon Palace or old Salem, it is replete with history and examples of ante bellum architecture.

BY-WAYS—As the main highways, the big hotels and the widely publicized resort areas become more congested, there is growing interest in these quiet places off the beaten paths. Every year more people seek out side roads and sequestered streams for restful travel and for real recreation—with accent on the original meaning of the word—re-creation, a renewing of the zest for comfortable living.

The trouble, of course, is that as more people are attracted to these off-side places the attributes of quiet restfulness are destroyed. Fortunately North Carolina has enough such places to last for a long time, and as traffic congestion pushes back the frontier there are still rivers and creeks and coves in pristine state beckoning the explorer. Many of these places which challenge the pioneering instincts of adventure seekers are within less than an hour drive from the most congested centers of population, and the nationally publicized tourist attractions.

When North Carolina proclaims its advantages as Variety Vacationland it means not only modern beach and mountain resort hotels, excellent golf courses, horse shows and organized fox hunts, outdoor dramas and all such. It means also sequestered nooks and crannies where the outside world is for all practical purposes completely inaccessible.

or any other crop were destroyed by fire in Eastern North Carolina even once, there would be raised such a prevention program that vast resources of the area would be thrown behind it. The loss in income represented by the fire would quickly be brought home to the agricultural area as a whole.

Why then do we take such a passive view of the forest fires which rob this section of the state of many thousands of dollars year after year? This represents the loss of potential agricultural income just as the loss of a crop of corn or tobacco does. Moreover, it represents a long-range loss because timber requires years, not just a few months, to grow to marketable size.

All of Eastern North Carolina needs to pay more attention to the fires which annually take a heavy toll of our timber crop. Greater efforts are needed to bring about more effective programs of preventing these fires, and also more effective programs of minimizing losses when these unfortunate fires occur.

Clear Indication U.S. Is Not Backing Down

President Eisenhower's warning to Premier Khrushchev that he will not go to any summit conference with a Soviet ultimatum hanging over the West is a clear indication the U. S. does not have in mind making major concessions at the May summit meeting.

It can be further assumed that the statement made by the President represents the thinking of the other Western powers which recently gathered for a pre-conference strategy meeting.

Although the President's statement was made in a reply to Khrushchev's veiled threat of again blockading West Berlin, it appears also to be an effort by the United States to prevent a deterioration of the international situation before the summit conference next month.

Premier Khrushchev, in his most recent Berlin statement, may well have been seeking to evaluate the West's determination to assist Soviet demands at the summit conference. By his reply, President Eisenhower has shown that the United States is willing to risk calling off the proposed conference if the Soviet Union tries to put undue pressure on the West before the conference begins. The President's statement also indicates that the United States does not believe that the forthcoming conference can produce a solution to the Berlin question and that the West is not going to the conference with the idea that the tension over Berlin must be eliminated regardless of cost.

There is another factor which must be considered in conjunction with the President's statement. That is the current review by Western military officials of resources the West would have to provide another air-lift to West Berlin if that becomes necessary. The fact that the West has begun tentative preparations for a possible Berlin airlift should further impress Soviet officials with the fact that the West will not give in West Berlin to East Germany.

While we are concerned because the West apparently has no new program to offer at the summit conference, there is at least some satisfaction in knowing that the West is not inclined to accept whatever Russia proposes as the only answer to problems of international tension.

Through almost two decades of negotiations with the Soviet Union, we should have learned by now that the communists put much more stock in action than they do in words. If they know before the summit conference begins that the West will not be intimidated by threats or boasts, things at the conference will go more smoothly. If they know the West intends to stand by the position it has taken—and is ready to back up that position with action if necessary—the chances are greater for a successful conference.

A New Approach Given Standoff

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—Just a little over a year ago this country's handling of foreign affairs began to undergo a profound change, at least outwardly, although there was no way of knowing it for a while.

The word outwardly was chosen carefully. There has been no basic change in American foreign policy which still remains a standoff with the Soviets. In this past year there has been no solution of any major East-West issues.

But at least the way of handling the standoff is different. It began in April a year ago when Christian A. Herter was sworn in as secretary of state, succeeding John Foster Dulles who soon afterward died of cancer. The difference in handling foreign policy is rooted in the difference between them.

Dulles, the dominant type, was given to flamboyant, startling, even provocative statements as part of his foreign affairs strategy to threaten an enemy or try to push him off balance. Herter is a mild man who pitches his foreign policy in a low, soft key. Dulles seemed to think nothing could be done unless he did it personally. Herter has more confidence in his subordinates, depends more on his staff.

Neither Dulles nor Herter has come up with an original basic policy. Both followed the Truman policy before them: stiff-arm the Soviets and the Red Chinese. But at least relations with the Soviets handled on a much milder plane than Dulles was capable of, seem to have improved.

In the long run this appearance may prove to be an optical illusion.

But the improvement in relations with the Soviet Union has its roots in factors which have nothing to do with Herter's manner. President Eisenhower has taken a more active part in foreign affairs, and the Soviets pushed Eisenhower into this. Almost from the time Herter took over Eisenhower moved out of the Dulles shadow and began asserting himself, with the result that Herter is now pretty completely overshadowed by Eisenhower.

In the beginning, because he didn't know Herter as well as Dulles, Eisenhower may have felt impelled to take charge. But in the background, forcing Eisenhower to move up front and center, was Premier Nikita Khrushchev who created such a crisis over his demands for the Allies to get out of Berlin he practically blackjacked Eisenhower into inviting him here to talk things over.

Further, the nimble Khrushchev had set an example for Herter by a head of state by his own personal trips to countries and areas he wished to impress or influence.

The Khrushchev activity and travels were a challenge to Eisenhower to do the same. And Eisenhower did. This of necessity put Herter in the background.

It would be the crowning achievement of his life if at the summit conference in May or sometime before he leaves office next Jan. 20 Herter could work out an arrangement with the Soviets to give better relations some permanency.

There is no doubt he will try his best, since he works hard, despite his crippling arthritis. Otherwise, he will go down in history more as a caretaker than a leader. It's too soon yet to say which he is.

Quote...

"Americanism means the virtues of courage, honesty, justice, truth, sincerity and hardihood—the virtues that made America. The things that will destroy America are prosperity-at-any-price, safety-first instead of duty-first, the love of soft living and the get-rich-quick theory of life."—Pres. Theodore Roosevelt.

Little Fellow In A Hurry

Although it was somewhat earlier than "scheduled," it happened anyway and left at least two people kinda numb-feeling.

Monday night we watched TV before stretching out for the night around eleven-thirty. We never got to sleep.

After more than three hours of wondering if this was the time and two sleep-rousing phone calls to the doctor, we swiftly made our way to the hospital.

Upon arriving we were quickly informed, "This is it."

You bet it was! Less than six hours after our arrival we suddenly became parents for the first time. But it took longer than the six hours for the reality of it all to sink in.

For the loneliest hours of the night we were separated. Only by a pair of swinging doors, but nevertheless separated. And you may be assured, those hours are pretty lonely.

During the wait, no two thoughts could be linked consecutively. Everything had been so sudden the ole brain just wouldn't do right.

Long months of thought and pleasant anticipation had gone before the "This-is-it" night. It had been firmly resolved to be percently calm and turn all thoughts toward constructive ideas. But, as most likely in all cases, no such luck.

After it was over, it was absolutely impossible to even remember what all those thoughts were. But, by then it didn't even seem to matter any more.

A pair of nurses came through the swinging doors (anyway, it seems like there were two nurses) and said, "Guess what you've got." A raspy voice ventured, "Probably a boy or a girl."

The next words said something about it being a boy, but somehow that was far from the most

Within what was probably two or three minutes (that seemed quite longer) the skilled master himself, all clad in green, emerged through those doors at the end of the hall, smiling.

"Congratulations," he offered, then asked, "have you seen your baby girl yet?"

"I think you're pulling my leg. Doc," was the reply. Then came what sounded so sweet to anxious ears. "He's a real fine baby. Perfectly healthy," said the doc. "Your wife's fine, too."

A very proud and greatly relieved father turned his gaze through a plate glass window where the nurse was holding a tiny gentleman by the heels checking his height with a tape. They weighed him and carried him out of sight just as the swinging doors opened again and the loveliest young mother in the world was being wheeled down the hall.

They carried her to her room, and shortly afterward we were together again. "How is he?" she first wanted to know. After excited assurances of his well-being, she smiled wearily and said softly, "It all happened so fast."

"Yes," was the only answer she could get right then.

But a slightly befuddled mind was thinking that everything went so fast it was hard to believe it had really happened, already. We'd been taken by surprise. We just hadn't been quite ready.

But, it's like the man said, When Mother Nature gets ready, you might as well hitch up your galleons and go, 'cause, ready or not, here she comes.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

THE FIRST FURROW

In the old days when the Chinese had an emperor, it was the custom of the emperor each year to plow the first furrow.

There was a beautiful and forceful symbolism embodied in this quaint custom. Life initially comes out of the ground. The emperor is the father of his people. The well-plowed furrow stands between the human race and death. When the Chinese emperor plowed that first furrow in the spring, he was setting forth the faith of his people that God would give them a harvest. He was calling the attention of his people to the fact that high station exists to promote all those things which make human life better.

Every time some product is made overseas that could be made in the United States, jobs of Americans who could have made them are "exported" to the land where the product is actually made.

And while superior foreign skills are sometimes a factor, the principal one is that American labor costs are high. To that extent, American labor has priced itself out of jobs.

WANTS FEWER CHANGES IN EXPORT MODELS

Fewer new models will prevent the loss of foreign markets for hundreds of American products, J. Gordon Lippincott, industrial designer, told the American Management Association.

"Tooling up for new models to match every change in the calendar is making American products overcomplicated, overgadged and too difficult to repair and inventory," he said.

Start Of Our Times

By GEORGE E. SKOLSKY
Copyright, 1960, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Our age, in many respects, starts with Henry the Navigator, Prince of Portugal, whose 500th anniversary of his death is being commemorated this year in his native country. The United States should note this man's commemoration because he is the father of discovery—the spiritual ancestor of Columbus and the other navigators who crossed the seas or circled the Earth.

The 15th Century could not accept the folklore assumption that the Earth was flat, lying between Heaven and Hell. More knowledge existed of the Indian Ocean and the China Sea than of the South Atlantic, but progress was being made in the art of navigation and in the mathematics of astronomy. The beginnings of modern discovery started with Henry the Navigator's expedition of discovery of the Azores in 1419 and brave men continue to move into the unknown up to this very day when expeditions of discovery go to the Antarctic, the Himalayas, and prospectively to the moon.

More important than this event, which ultimately led to the discovery of America, was that Henry the Navigator was perhaps the first to approach navigation scientifically. He brought together and arranged to systematize the existent knowledge of the science of geography and lished an observatory at Sagres where more accurate tables of the declination of the sun were developed.

The journeys of the Portuguese navigators in the South Atlantic paved the way for Columbus, Magellan and all the others who were seeking a sea route to India, by which they really meant Indonesia where they could find spices. Columbus was on his way there when he found the Americas in his path. Europeans knew about India and China because they had been trading with those areas as far back as there is any recorded history. Even in the Bible mention is made of Siam which is obviously China. But nothing was known of the Americas.

There was an old folklore of Atlantis, a lost continent that may have existed at one time somewhere between North Africa and South America, but it had disappeared. The earliest European assumption was that if one traveled West from Europe at some point he would fall off the Earth. By 1453, it had become essential for Europe to find a road to the East which would not be held by the all-conquering Arabs. Enough knowledge was already available to justify informed men to believe that the Earth was round and therefore if one travelled West, one would ultimately reach the farthest East. It was a courageous thought and even a more courageous act to try to accomplish.

Henry the Navigator is not as well known in these days as Christopher Columbus, but he was a man of daring ideas. He was born in Oporto, Portugal, on March 4, 1394, the son of John I, King of Portugal. His mother was Philippa, an Englishwoman, the daughter of John of Gaunt.

It is difficult for us these days to realize what a great empire Portugal had managed to develop. Brazil itself is one of (Continued on page five)

Among Artists Whose Work Will Be Exhibited Here, Tintoretto, Hals

PORTRAIT OF A NOBLEMAN . . . was painted by Jacopo Robusto Tintoretto, an Italian, known as Tintoretto because he was the son of a dyer.

PORTRAIT OF A SCHOLAR . . . painted by Dutch artist Frans Hals, will be on exhibition beginning May 1 at the Greenville Art Center with a group of Old Masters.

By PATRICIA MOORE
Reflector Staff Writer
There is no connection between the artists Tintoretto and Frans Hals, except that they both are regarded as Old Masters and each on occasion used a "wild" brush stroke.

Of the two, Tintoretto is perhaps the more famous, and regarded as one of the all-time great painters. Reproduced in the accompanying photograph is a portrait painted by the Italian Tintoretto, whose real name was Jacob Robusti, which will be on display at the Greenville Art Center's opening May 1.

There is a legend about this student-teacher relationship, that soon after Tintoretto arrived at the studio of Titian, the master happened upon a group of Tintoretto's sketches and ordered the boy never to enter the studio again.

There are conflicting opinions as to what caused Titian's sudden action: some say Titian was jealous of what the sketches promised. He himself was already established as one of the favorites of the day. There are others who say that Titian could not stand the "wild impetuosity and quivering, leaping animation" in the sketches.

Tintoretto, therefore, went his own way and became no one's follower. His fellow painters disliked him—where they sold their paintings, Tintoretto often gave his away or sold them for a song, thus weakening the market.

Tintoretto was of the School of Venice, and Italian, with a wife and eight children. He is the third of the giants in the "Venetian culmination."

There is noticeable in his paintings an impatience of nature and a hurrying method, which deflect from some of his canvases. Some are confused, windy, even chaotic in nature.

But Tintoretto was a master of lighting, one of the greatest. He is best known for his monumental works for churches and public halls. His portraits are widely acclaimed, but here he did not match the master Titian.

Frans Hals was born in 1580, a Dutchman. He had a characteristic gusto and expansiveness, as well as a recklessness, which were evident in his painting.

Well esteemed by his fellow citizens and well patronized, he once was involved in wife-beating.

Frans Hals signals the transition from court portraiture to citizen portraiture. In the accompanying photograph is his "Portrait of a Scholar," which also will be on exhibition during the Greenville Art Center's opening May 1.

Actor Unconcerned Over Legend In Role

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Film-land legends die hard, and the one about H. B. Warner is returning to heckle Jeffrey Hunter. The 33-year-old actor has signed to play Jesus in "The King of Kings," a new treatment of the Christ story to be filmed by Samuel Bronston in Spain, Italy and the Holy Land for six million dollars. Jesus has often been portrayed fleetingly in films, but this is the first important biography since Cecil B. De Mille made his silent "King of Kings" in 1927.

Leap, fragile-looking Warner played the title role for De Mille, and his acting career was blighted for years thereafter. During one of his comebacks, the actor told me producers could see him in nothing but religious roles.

Athletic Hunter realizes the danger. "I know there are certain risks involved. But I'm willing to take them because the part is so great," Hunter said.

"I'm not worried about getting typed. Gee, I've played so many kinds of roles in my career that I don't think this one could stop me."

Hunter was playing a widely divergent role when we talked. He stars in "Hell to Eternity" as Guy Gabaldon, Los Angeles Marine who captured 2,000 Japanese on Okinawa.

"When I got back from the Okinawa locations, they sent me the scripts," he said. "I thought it was great and asked what role they had in mind for me. 'Like maybe Jesus Christ,' they said. I answered 'Sure.'"

The actor isn't certain how he was chosen. He has done no Biblical roles, didn't even test for the film. He hasn't even talked with the film makers: Bronston, director Nick Ray and writer Phil Yordan, who are getting ready to shoot in Spain.

The only hint he has is that Ray and Yordan both worked on "The True Story of Jesse James," in which Hunter played the bandit's brother Frank.

County Health Achievement Day Planned

Friday has been designed as Health Achievement Day for Pitt County. This day marks the culmination of the 4th year of concentrated efforts in the field of Health Education.

The program for the day will be highlighted by a contest of wits and knowledge between teams from the various schools where a course in Personal Hygiene has been taught.

The preliminaries are set to begin at 10:00 a.m. at Robinson Union School, Winterville. Elimination rounds will continue until about 12:15, when a break will be allowed for lunch. The finals will take place immediately after lunch (approximately 1:00 p.m.). These exercises with the awarding of prizes are expected to be complete around 2:00 p.m.

The overall purpose of this course has been to improve the physical and mental health in general and to decrease the high rate of illegitimacy in Pitt County through increasing the pride and knowledge of the individual.

Parents are especially invited, and all other persons interested in the promotion of the good health and welfare of your people, to be present.

the largest and richest countries in the world and it was once a Portuguese colony. Of the enormous activities of Portugal in the Indian Ocean and China Sea, little remains except scattered islands and such colonies as Goa in India and Macao off the coast of China. Trade was in different items in those days than it is today. Spices were of enormous value and gold was a commodity in active trading. But an active business was slavery. Slaves were captured along the African coast and shipped wherever there was a market.

It is reported that by 1446, the Portuguese had carried off nearly 1,000 slaves. The slave trade, at that time, was legitimate and very profitable.

The Portuguese were not very successful colonizers. In Brazil, they owned a domain which possessed natural resources beyond the dreams of man. These have not yet been properly developed and continue to be a reservoir for the future. Goa, which is the last remaining foreign colony in India, has never developed its possible potentials, nor has Macao in China.

Henry the Navigator was a scientist rather than a politician. His services to mankind were greatest in the fields of navigation and astronomy. Unlike most rulers and politicians, what he builded can never be forgotten or destroyed.

U. S. 'ALERT' TO FEATURE CONELRAD DRILL, CLOSE GOVERNMENT INTERPLAY

May 3, 4, and 5 are important days this year to all Americans. On these days the seventh annual civil defense preparedness exercise, Operation Alert 1960, will be held from coast to coast.

The objective of the 1960 Alert will be to train personnel in National, State, and local governments, in industry, and in private organizations to respond effectively to an all-out attack on the United States with nuclear weapons.

THE PRINCIPAL participation by the public on a nationwide basis in the exercise will be during the half-hour beginning at 1 p.m. (EST) on Tuesday, May 3, when a Conelrad radio broadcast will be aired on 640 and 1240 kilocycles. During this period, all television, FM radio stations, and those radio stations not in the Conelrad network must leave the air. The special Conelrad broadcast will originate from the Emergency Site of the Federal Government "somewhere outside of Washington." It will include brief addresses by President Eisenhower and Civil and Defense Mobilization Director Leo A. Hoegh.

The Conelrad broadcast will give the American public an opportunity to experience the kind of radio reception it would have to rely on during an enemy attack. The broadcast's importance will be emphasized by the fact that, under attack conditions, the 640 and 1240 channels would be the only source for survival instructions to the general public.

PARTICIPATION by the Federal, State, and local governments this year will be of special significance to the nation's preparedness program for it will demonstrate the effectiveness of coordinated action among them.

Federal agencies will invoke comprehensive plans for action during an attack on this country. All 50 States will operate under their statewide survival plans. Plans for emergency action in metropolitan areas and smaller communities will be screened for their effectiveness.

Equally important will be the conduct of the exercise in industrial plants throughout the country because emergency procedures in the larger plants are as comprehensive as those for an entire community. Mutual aid agreements within industry are another form of coordinated action.

FAMILY FALLOUT shelter constructed in the basement of the Orval M. Conner residence in Battle Creek, Mich., is typical of some 100 built or planned in the nation of either the basement shelter type or the outdoor above or below-ground designs. The Office of Civil and Defense Mobilization is building the various shelters for research and demonstration purposes. Group and community shelters are also among 150 projects now under way or being negotiated throughout the nation for construction in new and existing public and private buildings, in parks, and similar sites. (OCDM Photo)

Fallout Shelters Can Save Millions of Americans

Many Americans near the points of bomb impact could be killed in a nuclear attack by blast, heat and initial radiation. But millions could survive by the simple expedient of protecting themselves against radioactive fallout.

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER has called fallout shelters "the best single defense measure for the protection of the greatest number of our people."

For about $25 to $150 per person, families can construct shelters, on a do-it-yourself basis, into which they can go after any nuclear attack to stay alive until radiation intensity outside lessens to safe levels, civil defense authorities point out.

Any shelter must be equipped with the necessities of life, including food, water, first aid and sanitary supplies and lights. There must be enough for all shelter occupants for at least 14 days.

Two pamphlets are available to help you construct a suitable basement or underground shelter. One is MP-15, "The Family Fallout Shelter," which details five basic designs of concrete block, reinforced concrete and precast metal. The other, MP-18, "Clay Masonry Fallout Shelters," shows five other plans for basic shelters, calling for use of clay products (brick or tile).

THESE PAMPHLETS can be obtained from your local or State civil defense offices, or by writing to Box Home Shelter, Office of Civil and Defense Mobilization, Battle Creek, Mich.

Many persons building shelters are setting them up as recreation rooms, dens, or extra bedroom space, thus gaining multiple use of the facilities, civil defense officials report.

OCDM encourages multi-purpose use of shelter space. Its prime concern is that such radiation-proof shelter be provided now, officials say. On the day of any attack, such efforts would be too little and too late.

Has Article In Current Journal

Dr. Douglas R. Jones of the department of education at East Carolina College is contributor of an article on "Space: How Organized, K-12" to the current issue of "Educational Leadership," nationally circulated monthly published by the Association for Supervision and Curriculum Development of the National Education Association.

The April issue of the magazine develops the theme "Organizing for Effective Learning" in a series of leading articles. Dr. Jones discusses as a pressing problem of modern education "better use of current space and finding more space for increasing numbers of students in our classrooms."

He emphasizes the role of the teacher in planning effective use of available space in the classroom and draws a contrast between the "traditional" and the "progressive" instructor in their approach to the problem.

A series of practical suggestions for improved use of space from the kindergarten through the twelfth grade makes up a major part of Dr. Jones' discussion. Examples of wise use of existing space in the school include references to the Wahi-Coates Laboratory School at East Carolina and the Central Elementary School at Albemarle, N. C.

Dr. Jones, a native of Farmville, N. C., was graduated at East Carolina with the A.B. degree in 1947 and the master's degree in 1948. He holds the Ph.D. degree from George Peabody College and taught there before joining the East Carolina faculty in 1957.

RADIOLOGICAL MONITORS of the San Diego City-County Civil Defense organization go through their paces by checking on "fallout radiation" at a training site designed specifically for civil defense use. After taking their readings, the men in background would radio their reports to a central plotting and coordinating crew such as the one manning the radiological trailer in foreground. The nation's radiological monitoring capability is being expanded rapidly by civil defense at all levels, including more than 15,000 monitoring stations now operating. (OCDM Photo)

Art Award For Greenville Boy

NEW YORK—A painting by David Ross, 13, student at Greenville Jr. High School in Greenville, N. C., has won a major art award in the national Scholastic Art Awards competition.

Ross has been awarded the Hallmark Honor Prize for this region, according to an announcement from New York City. The award carries with it a $100 cash purchase prize from Hallmark Cards. In addition the painting by Ross, entitled "Let's Ride," will be exhibited at the Chrysler Salon in New York through May 13.

High School winners in 33 other regions throughout the United States won similar prizes.

Mrs. Georgia Franklin, teacher at the school, entered it in competition. Ross' painting, and others, were nominated earlier this year for Hallmark Honor Prizes at the regional exhibition sponsored by the local television station. Each nominee received a gold achievement key.

Ross resides at 607 Norris St., Greenville, N. C.

No More Locking Up By Policemen

CORTEZ, Colo. (AP)—Cortez police think local businessmen have been carrying things too far. When police find a firm unlocked in the night, it's been customary for them to telephone the owner and ask him to come downtown, check his assets and lock up.

It's also been customary for the merchant to reply sleepily. "Aw, you lock up for me." Police Chief George Elliott says from now on. "Either the merchant comes down and locks the door or it stays unlocked."

Students Goof On 'Clarence'

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—A group of Monroey Junior High School students presented Clarence the rat as their exhibition at a science fair.

Purpose of the exhibit was to show the effects of dope. However, Clarence became healthier and the day before the show opened "Clarence" gave birth to six rats.

Clarence went on display, but the kids changed his name to Clarice.

INDUSTRIAL DEFENSE exercise conducted by the Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp. in one of its Pittsburgh plants featured evacuation to shelters of all 2,000 employees in a well-rehearsed routine. The firm, like some other large companies, has a well-developed emergency plan including shelters, first aid training, a relocation site for management and vital records, and fire-fighting. Shown inspecting the plant during the exercise is Leo A. Hoegh (left), director of the Office of Civil and Defense Mobilization, and Dr. Richard Gerstell, Pennsylvania Civil Defense director. DISCUSSING . . . problems with livestock owner

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

As Pitt County Livestock Agent, Claude Goodman is charged with the responsibility of helping and assisting farmers grow, produce and market livestock.

Goodman, in addition to his work in livestock, works with a limited number of Pitt farmers in farm home development, for more production. In this program rotation of crops, fertilizer, varieties of plants and other factors are stressed to produce the greatest income for the farmer.

Another activity Goodman enjoys working with is the 4-H clubs in the county. Since he has been working with the clubs, Pitt has had 10 state and six National 4-H winners.

Goodman, who said he "enjoys working with young people" said he found satisfaction in serving the farmers and seeing them improve their farming methods and income . . . "creating a happier, more useful life."

One thing the extension service agent does not like to see is "the lower income group we have here.

I wish it were possible for all people to have a greater income and live a happier more meaningful life." Even though these people are poor as far as their finances go, they are "good people" Goodman noted.

Goodman, who graduated from N.C. State College with a degree in biological science and from Clemson with a degree in agriculture, has taught school and holds a principal's certificate. He came to Pitt County in 1949 after working in Caldwell and Martin Counties with the N.C. State College Extension Service there.

A leader in the development of better livestock in Pitt, Goodman was a leader in organizing the Pitt Livestock Development Association and is a member of the Pure Bred Swine Association and a member of the board of directors of the North Carolina Swine Growers Association. In addition to helping with the Feeder Pig Sales in Pitt each year, he does much work with youth in livestock.

Crop Insurance Deadline May 2

Applications for Federal "All-Risk" Crop Insurance will not be accepted in Pitt County and other Eastern Belt Counties after Monday, May 2, according to H. K. James, District Supervisor.

"Usually, applications are received until the transplanting of tobacco becomes general in the county; however, with the present plant situation and tobacco setting coming later than usual, the Corporation might become involved with abnormal risk if applications were received later than May 2," James said.

Tobacco growers who are not covered under the Corporation's New Guaranteed Production Plan should contact their county crop insurance office at one. Federal Crop Insurance is an agency of the United States Department of Agriculture.

Paralyzed Man Becomes Humanitarian In Water

By LARRY OSIUS

YUKON, Okla. (AP) — "I can't go up so I had to go down," says the powerfully built man in the wheel chair.

"I started swimming for pleasure and exercise, and then for adventure. Everything now is outer space. But I can't do that."

So Dean Wallen, paralyzed from the waist down since polio struck him at the age of 12, found his adventure at the bottom of lakes and rivers.

The 28-year-old Wallen, a justice of the peace, has helped recover dozens of bodies, wrecked cars and stolen goods from lake and river bottoms. It's strictly volunteer and has cost him hundreds of dollars for time, expenses and equipment.

When a call comes for help, Wallen wheels to his hand-controlled station wagon and heads for the scene. There, he wriggles into his skin-tight rubber "dry suit", a pretty neat trick for a man who can't use his legs.

He scrambles out of his wheel chair and into a boat. Once over the side and dons his air spot Wallen drops over the side and dons his air tanks, a face mask and lead weights.

In the water he uses the boat's anchor rope as a guide and the lead weights to overcome natural body buoyancy.

"On the bottom I go into a prone position and pull myself along, feeling for whatever — or whoever — it is we're looking for," he says. Although he's made the trip below hundreds of times, Wallen treats it with respect always.

"Anything can happen down there — a rock can cut your air line or a tree limb can snag you. The minute something goes wrong, you panic. Anyone who says he doesn't panic is a liar. The trick is to catch it before you do something wrong."

When the body or object is found, Wallen drags it to the anchor rope and ascends for a rope.

While Wallen and his team-mate — he never dives alone — are working below, the "surface man" is keeping watch above. He carefully checks all equipment and has it ready for instant use. He watches the divers' air bubbles on the surface.

"A good surface man," says Wallen, "can tell if you are following the right search pattern, if you're in trouble—even what you've had for breakfast—just by watching those bubbles."

Polish Athlete 'Born Again' On Coming To U.S.

MONROE TOWNSHIP, N.J. (AP)—Dr. John S. Zakrzewski, former Olympic swimmer and member of the Polish underground, feels he was born again when he came to the United States five years ago.

Of his earlier life, he recalls serving with the Polish underground against the Germans, being wounded and sent to a prisoner of war camp, liberation—and returning to the underground to fight communism.

Faced with arrest in 1951, he fled the country and finally reached the United States under the sponsorship of St. Francis Hospital in Jersey City.

The 47-year-old physician now serves in the New Jersey State Home for Boys, a correctional institution which houses some 600 youths. He will stay there, he says, because the institution and the hospital "are my family now" and the boys "need my help."

Rose High School Band Giving Concert Friday

The Rose High School Band, which recently won a superior rating in its district contest, will appear in concert Friday night at 8 o'clock in the Rose High School Gymnasium. The varied program will include several marches and a number entitled "Marriage of Figaro" by Mozart, as well as two selections by the dance band and an appearance of the Glee Club. The band and Glee Club will render "Hymn to America" by Williams at the conclusion of the program. Selections to be presented by the dance band are "From Jump" and "Mood Indigo."

The main part of the concert includes "Thunder West" March, March, the band received an "excellent" rating at the state contest held in Greensboro April 8.

Tickets for the concert may be purchased from any member of the junior and senior high school band. Proceeds will go towards the purchase of a bass drum and other items.

Looking Ahead To The 'Golden Years'

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—Are you middle-aged?

Then now is the time to start planning for your retirement. Now is the time to get ready to spend those "golden years" on life's cuff.

Just the other morning when I went in to wake up my daughter, who is nearly 7, she was murmuring worriedly in her sleep: "I do hope my dear father is planning a forward-looking retirement program fitted to his emotional and mental needs. It will come as a great shock to him when he suddenly has to quit work at 65."

It will like the devil. Having to go to work every day has been a great shock to me. Some days it has been more than I could bear.

Quitting work should always be far less of a shock to a sensible man's nervous system than going to work. I took my first job at the age of 10—delivering newspapers—and there hasn't been a day since then that I haven't dreamed of retirement.

The great danger in retirement is the same you face on the daily job. Boredom, therefore it is wise to avoid this menace in advance.

Here's my plan:
I intend to buy a small white house with a front and back porch. Instead of two cars, I will have me two rocking chairs.

One will be an old-fashioned rocker. The other will be a new model, high-style platform rocker with a seat done in fine needlepoint.

In the morning I will sit in the front porch rocker smirking at the people walking to work and jeering at them under my breath: "On, fools, on!"

In the afternoon I will sit in the back porch rocker and doze and watch the songbirds dig for worms in the yard. Whenever I feel the need for exercise, I'll rise and stretch myself—and yawn.

In the evening I will read "War and Peace"—this has been a life-long chore with me and so far I've only got up to page 74—and watch redos of shows on television.

They say travel helps avoid the ennui of retirement and I've planned for that. Once a day I'll travel across the street to the supermarket to buy my bourbon and peanut butter and shake my hoary head at the strange antics of lady shoppers. If I find I can stand the excitement, I may make two trips a day to the supermarket.

My retirement program is the fruit of 33 years of steady brooding—most of it on the boss's time.

When I'm 65, I plan to put it into operation. Maybe after 20 years this way of living might become a bit confining. If it does, I'm prepared for that, too.

At 65, I'll pack my knapsack, run away from home—and start life all over.

Urge Solution On Trade Level

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Burlington Industries spokesman says the United States must find some solution to trade policy programs within the framework of east-west relations.

Jackson Spears, one of about 50 textile industry representatives in Washington to plead for what they call the industry's fair share of international trade, made the remark Wednesday. Some of the group is to make a personal plea at the White House today.

Various segments of the textile industry, Spears added, are "going to pool our resources to help this country come to a solution of textile industry problems."

"It may well come to a country-by-country import quota," he added.

TRY AGAIN
SAN LIEGO, Calif. (AP)—This order went over the police radio: "Please shoot rat which bit boy to see if he has rabies."

FINAL CHECK—Dean Wallen, paralyzed skin diver, checks air tanks before diving into a farm pond. Assisting is Byron Griesel.

T-Men Pick Up Many Gamblers In Quick Sweep

WASHINGTON (AP) — With stopwatch precision, U.S. Treasury agents invaded backroom bookie joints and numbers rooms in nearly 50 cities across the country Wednesday.

Moving up today, they counted at least 65 arrests, and the figure may swell to 100.

The T-Men, after weeks and months of careful investigation, sprang their traps at more than 80 separate locations—backrooms of candy stores, taverns, private suburban homes, hotel rooms. In a few cases their quarry temporarily escaped the net.

The basis for the raids was this: Under federal law, any gambler must purchase a $50 tax stamp from the government, even if gambling is illegal in his state. If he doesn't have the stamp, he faces a maximum five-year prison sentence and $10,000 fine.

Though they found some evidence of connections between widely separated gambling operations, officials said, there was no immediate proof that any were tied together in a nationwide crime syndicate.

Gathering things comes natural to Staples. He is Rutherford's tax collector and treasurer.

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Deacon Vern Law is off to his best start in nine years with the Pittsburgh Pirates and a 20-game season could mean a pay raise and more money for the Mormon Church.

Pirates Year Late But Riding Hot Winning Skein

By ED WILKS Associated Press Sports Writer They're a year late, but the Pittsburgh Pirates, a bunch of bailing Bucs who have made their slim pitching pay off, are riding a six-game winning streak atop the National League standings.

Last year was supposed to be the Pirates' year, after finishing second in 1958. But they lost their first five, never got higher than third and finished fourth. And that's where they were generally figured this year.

Next Six Days Will Tell Story For Blue Devils

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS The next six days should be vitally important to the Atlantic Coast Conference championship aspirations of Duke University's baseball team.

The Blue Devils of Coach Ace Parker open a stretch of five games in that span today—meeting arch-rival North Carolina in Chapel Hill. And four of the five games are to be played on foreign soil.

New Scoreboard For White Sox Tonight

The Los Angeles Dodgers stayed within two games of first by beating the Chicago Cubs 9-4. Milwaukee kept fourth, defeating Cincinnati 8-5 in the only other game scheduled in the NL.

In the American League, Detroit's Tigers lost their second in a row, 3-1 at Kansas City, but retained a half-game edge over the New York Yankees, who were beaten 5-4 by Boston 8-3. Chicago and Cleveland were not scheduled.

Rain put the damper on a possible Greenville track victory here yesterday, as Phantoms led Roanoke Rapids and Jacksonville by a considerable measure.

The only events that were completed before the rain set in were the high jump, pole vault, shot put, and the 120 yard hurdles. Of these events Greenville managed to cop a slim lead by scoring 19 1/2 points, while Roanoke Rapids, running a close second, accumulated 16 points.

ECC Faces Crucial Three-Game Road Trip

East Carolina, currently in the North State drivers seat, departed from Greenville last night in hopes of a successful venture into the Piedmont Section of North Carolina.

Making their final road trip of the 1960 season, the Pirates will play three games during the next three days with two of them being against some rough North State opposition.

Mallory and his command stop over in High Point for a game today, meet Wake Forest tomorrow, and conclude the trip with a Saturday afternoon encounter at Elon College.

The ECC skipper has relied on the left flipper of Larry Crayton for the most part this season but the depth of the mound staff will be tested in the three game series.

Johnny Ellen, the veteran right-hander who was effective in 1959 but has plummeted somewhat this season, was scheduled to work against High Point today. Ellen, 2-2 for the season, lost his last pitching assignment to Catawba. Mallory may go again with Crayton against Wake Forest tomorrow or might choose to save his ace for the conference clash with Elon on Saturday. Nathan Green (1-0) will probably be a pitching choice in one of the three games.

Heading into the final half of the season, Gary Pierce, the 1959 conference batting champion, again leads the club in hitting with a healthy .387 mark. It is just a shade below his 1960 batting pace.

A recent hitting spree carried Wally Cockrell to a lofty .366 mark. Shortstop Glenn Bass is just a few points behind Cockrell in the batting race.

The defending North State champs will set up headquarters in Greenville for the final showdown of the '60 race. Next week, they open the night schedule at Guy-Smith Stadium with a doubleheader against Lenoir Rhyne on Wednesday. A game will follow with Catawba on Thursday

ROCKY ROLLS..... by Pap'

Frank Lane has made some 60 deals since he took over as general manager of the Cleveland Indians in the fall of 1957 but the trade which sent Rocky Colavito to Detroit in exchange of Harvey Kuenn is the one which could prove the most dangerous.

The 26-year-old Colavito hit 42 home runs and drove in 111 last season. His fielding is adequate and he possesses a powerful arm. The main "rap" against him is his failure to come up with timely singles when they could mean runs.

"I was very happy playing in Cleveland," said Colavito. "I loved the town and the people but it is quite obvious that Lane didn't like me. As long as I had to

NEW YORK (AP)—Informally, the Continental League is "in" in New York, but baseball's proposed third major league still needs formal cash support from the city for the construction of a 15-million-dollar stadium.

The Continental League, needing New York's approval before three other cities in the eight-team set up will commit themselves to stadium construction, received support in an informal vote by members of the Board of Estimate Wednesday.

Mayor Robert Wagner said the board definitely will approve a $450,000 expenditure for an engineering study and preparation of final plans for the stadium in Flushing Meadows, site of the 1939-40 World's Fair.

Dallas-Fort Worth, Houston, Atlanta, the three cities awaiting New York approval before going ahead with their construction, and Buffalo, Denver, Toronto and Minneapolis-St. Paul are the other cities in the league, which hopes to start play next year.

Rough Days For Big Clubs Supplied By Kansas City

By ED WILKS Associated Press Sports Writer

The Kansas City Athletics, a gang of guys other clubs figured they could do without, may not be able to keep it up, but they've been making it tough on the big teams in the American League race.

After eight games with the defending champion Chicago White Sox, Cleveland and hot-running Detroit, the A's are tied for third at .500, just 1 1/2 games behind the first place Tigers. They got there by beating Detroit 3-1 last night on a six-hitter by ex-Tiger Ray Herbert, a two-run single by Harry Chiti, a one-time Chicago Cub, and a home run by ex-New York Yankee Bob Cerv.

It was the second straight setback for the Tigers, who won their first five, but they stayed a half-game ahead of the Yankees, beaten 5-4 by Washington. Baltimore beat Boston 8-3 in the only other game scheduled in the AL.

In the National League, the first place Pittsburgh Pirates won their sixth straight, longest streak in either league, with a 3-2 decision at Philadelphia that put them a game ahead of idle San Francisco. Los Angeles defeated the Chicago Cubs 9-4 and Milwaukee rapped Cincinnati 9-5.

Herbert (2-0) walked just two and struck out five while putting away his second one-run game for the A's by blanking the Tigers on three hits over the last seven innings. Detroit scored on singles by Rocky Colavito, Chico Fernandez and Lou Berberet in the second. The A's, without a single product of their own farm system in the line-up, beat southpaw Hank Aguirre (0-1) in the fourth inning, when Chiti's single followed a single by Cerv and a double by Dick Williams. Cerv then homered in the eighth off reliever Bob Bruce.

Washington (3-5) tied the A's for third with a four-run eighth inning, capped by Jim Lemon's two-on homer, against lower Whitey Ford (1-1). Rookie Don Mincher also homered for the Senators.

Left-handed rookie Jim Kaat gained his first major league victory with a save by Pete Ramos. Kaat allowed just three hits, one Bill Skowron's solo homer in the seventh, walked two and struck out four before being lifted for a pinch-hitter in the eighth. The Yanks got their other runs, all unearned, in the fourth.

Arnie Portocarrero (1-0) had a two-hit shutout for seven innings and finished with a six-hitter for the Orioles in his first 1960 start. Jim Gentile drove in three runs for the third consecutive game for the Orioles. He was credited with one in the first inning against loser Frank Sullivan (0-1) when he grounded out.

Drake Relays Open Friday In Iowa

By RON SPEER Associated Press Sports Writer

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP)—The oldest record on the books is the least likely to be broken in the 51st running of the Drake Relays here Friday and Saturday.

Jesse Owens leaped 26 feet 1 3/4 inches in 1935 to set a broad jump mark that hasn't been beaten.

Jim Baird of East Texas State is favored in that event this year, but he isn't expected to better his best jump of 25 feet 3/4 inches by enough to threaten Owens' mark.

The next oldest record is the 7:31.6 two-mile relay mark set by Illinois in 1952.

It and other records will be assaulted by a field that includes three of the world's top shotputters, the nation's leading pole vaulter and many of the country's fleetest runners.

Parry O'Brien, Bill Nieder and Dave Davis have entered the AAU shot put in a match that climaxes a verbal duel between O'Brien and Nieder.

They have accused each other of dodging previous head-to-head scraps.

Nieder, ex-Kansas athlete now in the Air Force, has thrown the shot 65 feet 7 inches. O'Brien holds the accepted world record of 63-4. Davis, of San Fernando State, defeated O'Brien last week and has pitched the shot 64-10 1/2.

Another headliner is J. D. Martin of Oklahoma, who soared 15 feet 9 3/4 inches in the pole vault earlier this spring. The Drake record of 15 feet 1/4 inch.

Their are 824 college and university athletes entered in the relays.

Best Team

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—Thanks to a 706 of Louis Newman, the Froesch Bros. Inc., of Indianapolis, was the best scoring team in the open division of the American Bowling Congress tournament here Wednesday night.

Newman, 39, boosted his team to a 2,993 series almost single-handedly with games of 205-237-264. He had only one open frame, a 710 split in the second game. His total was the second highest in team events in 54 days.

Frank Lucido of St. Louis shot the high trio last Saturday, 714.

The Town and Village Insurance team of Findlay, Ohio, gave the booster division its first major standings change since April 22, taking 10th place with 869-978-879-2,726.

Play Tomorrow

With only one loss to their credit thus far, this season, and currently riding in the number two position in the Northeastern Conference standings, Greenville's Phantom baseballers travel to Washington tomorrow, where they will do battle with the Pam Pack diamond squad.

Coach Boley Farley's crew, whose only loss of the season came at the hands of Roanoke Rapids Tuesday by a score of 6-3, will be looking for their fifth win of the season when the take on Washington tomorrow.

Racial Policy Again Posing Threat Of Methodist Split

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer
DENVER, Colo. (AP)—A racially partitioned church structure, which enabled Northern and Southern Methodists to unite 20 years ago, today loomed as a possible wedge that could drive them apart again.

This was the crucial issue faced by the nation's largest Protestant denomination, as the quadrennial Methodist General Conference went into its first session on the matter.

On the eve of the test, bishops of the church said Wednesday night that the outcome will have a greater effect than any other conference decision on the present and future strength of Methodism "in America and beyond."

Up for consideration was a complex, explosive report on racial policy, drawn up by a 70-member commission in a four-year, $200,000 study that involved public hearings in 24 cities across the country.

It recommends continuance of a separate administrative jurisdiction for Negroes, arguing that this gives them the strongest voice in top echelons of the church. But the system is keenly opposed by some Northerners as a "symbol of segregation."

On the other hand, the report also proposed linking jurisdictional affairs, both white and Negro, more closely with the overall church government. This feature is strongly protested by some Southerners as an invasion of regional autonomy.

The 74 bishops, in their keynote episcopal address, commended the "general method and spirit" of the report, and said no course "will be acceptable that disregards the rights of any major segment of the church."

But they also reminded the 800 voting delegates of the church's official stand against any "racial discrimination or enforced segregation."

"Our problem is not a new pronouncement but to bring our actions into line with our professions," they told the church's supreme governing body.

In Alabama and Mississippi, some Methodists in resistance to any scrapping of the jurisdictional setup, have backed passage of state laws authorizing them to withdraw church property from the denomination. A similar law is being pushed in Delaware.

Churchmen, North and South, have said the unity of the 10-million-member denomination rests on the solution.

Charles C. Parlin, New York attorney and chairman of the study commission, defended retention of the separate Negro jurisdiction as giving Negroes higher representation—16.7 per cent—in top church agencies than their numbers—3.7 per cent—could command if placed in white jurisdictions.

New Trial For 2 Young Killers

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—Two young killers faced a new trial today after a judge died on the eve of sentencing them to life imprisonment or death in the gas chamber.

Robert Fulmer, 20, and Charles Lindstrom, 19, won a new trial Wednesday. They had confessed the Jan. 17 gun slaying of dairy attendant Leonard Moore during a robbery attempt.

Judge Joseph M. Maltby died Tuesday of a stroke.

Picture Of Sun Is Taken By Its Own X-Rays

By FRANK CAREY
Associated Press Science Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)—Using schoolboy "shoebox camera" techniques in a space rocket, the Navy has obtained the first picture of the sun by its own invisible X-ray light.

Dr. Herbert Friedman of the Naval Research Laboratory reported the development today in a paper prepared for the annual meeting of the Academy of Sciences.

X-rays from the sun help at times to bedevil radio and other communications on the earth. And the new experiment conceivably will help in the effort to combat them, the report indicated.

Friedman said the unique photo of the sun was taken last week from a rocket soaring 130 miles above New Mexico. The experiment used a camera based on the pinhole method familiar to a lot of do-it-yourself amateur photographers.

This is a method in which a pinhole is poked into one end of a shoebox to admit light, while a tiny square patch is cut in the other end of the box and covered with tissue paper to serve as a viewing piece. The image on the tissue paper appears inverted and its size is proportional to the length of the box. The finer the pinhole, the sharper the image.

In the Navy's rocket camera, Friedman said, the pinhole was only five thousandths of an inch in diameter and the camera was only six inches long. Thus, visible light was blocked but X-rays from the sun got through.

These X-rays do not penetrate the earth's atmosphere below a height of 60 miles, but the high-flying rocket-borne camera—as evidenced by a photo Friedman displayed—caught the sun in sharp array.

The photo shows the sun circled by a bright X-ray "halo"—and several intense spots of bright X-ray emission are distributed over the sun's disk.

But the corona presents an outer reflection of the sun. The corona can be seen visually only during times of total eclipse of the sun, but Friedman's photo presents it—and therefore the sun's surface—in terms of its tell-tale X-ray component.

In another phase of his report, Friedman said the Navy is planning to attempt mapping of a hydrogen halo that surrounds the earth to a distance far greater than 1,000 miles.

A rocket shot to 1,000 miles altitude last January made a preliminary survey, Friedman said. The plan now, he explained, is to mount in an earth satellite a special telescope capable of surveying the halo by means of the ultraviolet light it emits.

Teachers Leave Surprise Estate

CASPER, Wyo. (AP)—Two spinster school teachers, whose top salary was $2,815 a year when they retired in 1945, have left an estate of $127,000 to the Casper First Presbyterian Church.

The Casper First National Bank, administrator of the estate, isn't sure where or how Marie and Mosa Ross accumulated the huge savings on their meager earnings.

Mosa died in March, 1959, at 82, leaving her estate to Marie. Marie died Jan. 25, 1960, at 87, leaving the $127,000 estate to the church.

Humphrey 'Speaks Language'

By ARTHUR EDSON
CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — West Virginia politics seem especially homespun for the likes of Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.).

Much has been made of what the religious issue may mean in the Democratic presidential primary here May 10. Too much, both candidates agree.

But even if Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) weren't a Roman Catholic running in a predominantly Protestant state Humphrey would have a lot of other things going for him in West Virginia.

For Humphrey speaks the language of the country.

He can tear into the Republicans with the fervor of a fundamentalist preacher on revival day. He can go into the industrial areas, and point to his votes on union labor legislation.

And when he hits the areas where the hills are high and the income is low, he can, and does, remind voters that, unlike the well-to-do Kennedys, the Humphreys have seen some mighty hard times.

"I know what it is to be poor," Humphrey will say, and he looks hungrily at the voters who obviously know what it means to be poor, too.

Yet so great is the magic of the Kennedy name that even here Humphrey is no shoe-in. Humphrey says he is the underdog, and he could be right. As of now, neutral observers are saying it could be close right down to the wire.

This reporter has spent two days traveling over West Virginia roads with Humphrey — a trip that started here and wound up, many a hairpin curve later, in the northeastern part of the state, at Charlestown.

For anyone without Humphrey's eternal optimism, this journey would have been written off as a disaster.

It was poorly planned. No one went ahead to drum up interest. (Political crowds rarely show up spontaneously; a large gathering usually means a little thinking and a lot of hard work have been combined to make it successful.)

The second day was particularly bad.

Humphrey was up at 5:30 to shake hands at a plant, and then he was off on a long, tiring trip. He hit the small towns mostly, and after seven speeches, usually from the courthouse square, he probably hadn't addressed more than 700 persons.

Curiously, this in a way serves to prove Humphrey's point: that the role of a fiscally troubled politician is fearfully hard.

"I hardly have the money to drive that bus down the road," he told one group, "Much less buy an airplane."

Whether money means as much as Humphrey says it does, whether Kennedy spends as much as Humphrey hints, whether Humphrey has as little to spend as he contends, — these are subjects for political historians and public accounts to mull over.

But there's no doubt that Humphrey drives himself hard in a business where a constant flurry seems to be standard operating procedure. He even attends to such details as making sure that the girls who pass out Humphrey literature are ready to spring from the bus the moment it grinds to a halt.

No small detail is missed.

Marvin Crouch, who drives the car with the loudspeakers, eagerly reported to the senator that he had just scored a political victory.

It seems that Jerry West, the great basketball player at West Virginia University, had been asked to nominate Kennedy at a mock student convention. West had agreed, Crouch said, on the theory the nomination didn't mean anything.

Fortunately, Crouch and West come from Cabin Creek, W.Va., and Crouch used the old home loyalty — plus the hint that this might be considered treasonable by West's future employers, the Minneapolis Lakers' pro basketball team.

"I talked him out of it all right," Crouch said.

Humphrey beamed approvingly. In West Virginia, which could be the end of the presidential trail for Hubert H. Humphrey, nor basketball player will be left unturned.

Univ. Of North Carolina Is Bequeathed $1.75 Million

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — The University of North Carolina announced today a bequest of 1 1/2 million dollars from the late William Asbury Whitaker of New York City.

Whitaker, a founding partner of Francis I. du Pont & Co., dealers in securities, specified that income from the trust is to be used for three purposes: (1) the library, particularly the Rare Book Room; (2) scholarships and fellowships; and (3) acquisition of works of art.

The donor, a native of Winnetka, N.Y., was a 1904 graduate of the University of North Carolina and a life-long friend of the institution. In 1955 he established a memorial loan fund at the university in honor of his father and mother, William A. and Anna Biting Whitaker. He also founded seven distinguished collections of books and illustrations at UNC.

In his gift to the library, Whitaker specified that a four-member committee be appointed to select items for the Whitaker Collection. He asked that emphasis be placed on the "acquisition of rarities, first editions, association items, etc., which would be representative of the recognized and outstanding writers of the past and present in English and American literature, and that efforts be made to acquire complete collections of the first editions of the outstanding writers of English and American literature.

"There should be included the first editions of contemporary writers who have received wide acclaim, and particularly of those who have received the Nobel Prize for Literature."

Whitaker, who received an honorary Doctor of Laws degree from UNC in 1955, left it to the university to determine the particulars of his scholarship and fellowship grant. He asked that preference be given to "worthy graduates" of high schools and preparatory schools in North Carolina, but did not rule out graduate students and non-North Carolina residents.

He listed scholastic standing and financial need as the chief requirements for scholarship applicants and said the value of the scholarships may be determined by a faculty committee but should "in general, be the cost of tuition for one year."

For the art collection, Whitaker asked that a three-member committee be appointed to purchase the items and charged the committee not to include "specimens of what is termed today 'abstract art,' or any type of art which may be termed 'faddish' or a departure from the accepted canons of art."

Whitaker also willed to the university his personal library of historical and art collections, prints, pictures, etchings, coins and other objects of art. Many of these items he collected during travels in Greece, Italy, France, England and other parts of Europe.

His earlier gifts to the Whitaker Collection of the UNC library include collections relating to Dr. Samuel Johnson, James Boswell and their friends; to Charles Dickens and first editions of Dickens-ana; to the illustrations of George Cruikshank; to the original folios of Shakespeare's plays; to costume plates in color; to books relating to William Makepeace Thackeray; and to first editions of books famous in English literature.

Following his graduation from UNC, Whitaker served as an assistant in chemistry, received his master's degree in chemistry at Columbia University, taught at the City College of New York and became professor of metallurgy at the University of Kansas. In World War I, he served on the Naval Consultation Board and afterwards worked in Greece and Turkey in the export-import business.

Whitaker retired from Francis I. DuPont & Co. in 1940.

Careers In Mental Health Urged In Coming Week

A crash program to interest teenagers in selecting one of the mental health professions as a future career will be launched next week by the National Association For Mental Health.

The program will be started during Mental Health Week, it was announced in North Carolina today by Mrs. J. B. Spillman, Executive Director of the North Carolina Mental Health Association.

The project is being started in an attempt to meet one of the nation's greatest health emergencies—a shortage of trained professional workers in the mental health field.

It is just one of several projects that are to be carried out during Mental Health Week. Another is Operation Friendship, an attempt to show the mentally ill that their relatives, friends, neighbors and fellow citizens really do care.

Mental Health Week will be observed in North Carolina from May 1 through May 7, Mrs. Spillman announced, and it will be conducted in conjunction with the national observance.

Several communities in the state are planning active programs to spotlight mental health. Among their projects will be a "Bell Ringer" campaign to raise funds in those communities that do not have United Fund appeals.

Ferrelating to the new health careers program, Mrs. Spillman said: "Shortage of trained personnel continues to be the Achilles heel of the nation's fight against mental illness. The country at large, for instance, has less than one half the number of physicians that are needed in mental hospitals."

"We know the situation is critical and we hope to do something about it," she said. "But we also are hoping to help young people who previously may not have thought about these professions. There are many of us who believe the excitement and challenge, the chances for discovery and research in the mental health field today are equal to any other this Space Age offers."

'Little Doubt' Payola Involved

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three House members said today they have little or no doubt that Dick Clark is involved in payola.

Clark, a network TV disc jockey, says he has not taken undercover payments or favors for promoting records.

A witness testified Wednesday that Clark had received $31,575 for advising a record firm on what tunes would sell well. He also said Clark was allowed to buy a one-fourth interest in a Philadelphia record firm for $125,000 an interest he said Clark sold last year for about $15,000.

Rep. John E. Moss (D-Fla.), a member of the House subcommittee which is looking into broadcasting practices, said today "it appears Clark took a very profitable form of payola."

Clark, a favorite of many teenagers, is due to appear Friday before the House Legislative Oversight subcommittee. But his name has come up often during two days of reopened hearings on undercover influences that may control the kind of music heard on the nation's airwaves.

Reps. John B. Bennett (R-Mich.) and Peter F. Mack (D-Ill.) agreed largely with Moss' comment to a newsman.

Teacher Fired In Paddling Case

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Bohdan J. Paskowsky, 30-year-old Langley High School teacher, has been fired for paddling more than 40 students because they didn't know their lessons.

The Pittsburgh Board of Public Education's decision came Wednesday night after a lengthy hearing.

A resolution passed unanimously by the board said, in part: "Mr. Paskowsky did on March 8 willfully and grossly violate the rules of the board by the mass use of corporal punishment as a teaching technique."

Coffin Covers Went Astray

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Two steel coffin covers—each weighing 450 pounds—bound from Ohio to Mississippi were found Wednesday on the banks of White Oak Bayou.

Lt. Rode Simmons said police were unable to determine how the covers were shipped or how they ended up near the bayou. They were bound in cardboard and steel bands.

The covers were shipped by the Clark Vault Co., Columbus, Ohio, to the Jackson Casket Co., Jackson, Miss.

In 1959 the United States imported about $2,000 worth of goods from Nepal, a tiny country on the India-China border. Part of the goods was yak fur, used in Santa Claus beards.

Capitol Housekeeper Has Active Life

By E. J. PARKINS

Written for The Associated Press
RALEIGH (AP) — He has rounded up mules on the Capitol Square. He provides more hot air than anyone in Raleigh. He sees that over a million square feet of floor space is cleaned daily.

Later the man again applied for a job. Cherry told him anyone dumb enough to steal from the SBI was too dumb to work for him.
Then there's the time he caught a man picking flowers by the hand on the capitol lawn. Asking the visitor not to pick the flowers, Cherry was told to mind his own business. The picker informed Cherry that he was a taxpayer and as such had every right to pick the flowers. He quit after Cherry told him he should save some for the other 3,900,000 Tar Heels.

When Gov. Kerr Scott was being inaugurated, Cherry instructed that a new state flag be unfurled. A janitor did, but put the flag upside down, a signal of distress. Cherry hastily had the flag righted just minutes before the governor passed.

When told about the matter later, Scott maintained the flag should have been left upside down. "Half the people in North Carolina were distressed by my election," said the controversial Scott. Another humorous twist occurred when one of his janitors was caught stealing money from the State Bureau of Investigation floor fund.

Editorials were written, organizations protested and a general outcry arose when steps were taken to wash the Capitol for the first time in years.
"Save the historic charm," was the watchword.
The historic charm was only dirt and pigeon droppings, opined Cherry.

Senator Favors Combined Effort On Science Front

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Mike Mansfield (D-Mont) urged today the enlistment of British and other free world scientists and resources in a combined effort to win the space and speed races.

He said Great Britain's cancellation of its Blue Streak missile project freed some of that country's outstanding scientists to help meet what he called "this highest challenge of the capabilities of free nations."

In a speech prepared for the Senate, Mansfield suggested the United States seek to enlarge its space and missile program by embracing at least the British and Canadian scientists in a joint development. Scientists from other NATO nations and other allies could be added later.

"But," he said, "There would be much to be gained if from the outset the effort could include the NATO members and other nations."

"If we should not underestimate the difficulty of such a joint enterprise, neither can we underestimate its urgency."

The British had been working on the 2,500-mile Blue Streak missile to take over from jet bomber forces in the mid-1950s. It was abandoned because of its cost and the likelihood it would be obsolete before it was ready for use. Instead, Britain announced plans to rely on U.S.-made missiles to deliver her own nuclear warheads.

Britain's action, Mansfield said, for all practical purposes, leaves only the United States and the Soviet Union with major undertakings in the field.

He said that while the Soviet Union is drawing on the scientific talents of its satellites the "free peoples are using only a fraction of their potential brain power in any cohesive fashion."

Modern Sculpture Falls Victim Of The Ashpile

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — A mammoth, 24-foot-high modern sculpture in cedar called Monarch of the Forest fell victim of the ashpile.

"I'm outraged," bemoaned the sculptor, Manuel Izquierdo Wednesday.

"I'm guilty," asserted Thomas Kerr, new president of Pacific International Livestock Exposition.

Richard Jeb Stewart, who recently paid an undisclosed sum for the Monarch that had cost lumbermen who commissioned it $1,500, said he would sue for full value.

The Monarch was created in three months by Izquierdo, who said it symbolized "the lumber and forests of Oregon." It was an assortment of wood shapes, jutting in all directions.

It had stood in the center of the Forest Products Building at the Oregon Centennial Exposition here last summer.

Stewart revealed Wednesday that about 10 days ago it was burned on a dump. He said he had planned to have it taken in parts and reassembled at a summer art workshop near Salem.

Kerr, obviously agitated by the commotion over the work, said the sculpture "was partially destroyed and had been dismantled by vandals."

He added "Kids had gone in with hot rods, whirled around it."

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — An electric razor was stolen from a home April 16 but the burglar overlooked the cord.

John Leonard Owens, 40, Ellendale, Tenn., was caught by police in the same house Monday night. His loot: The cord.

Detective Chief Charles Young said Owens was charged with stealing both items.

Stewart revealed Wednesday that about 10 days ago it was

"It seemed sensible to get it out of there. It was a fire hazard and blocks from it could be used to smash windows and damage property."

Kerr said he met with the P-I exposition board and they agreed that it should go. "It was no value to us," he added.

"I think it was an interesting use of wood; but when we took it over it wasn't of any value to anyone," Kerr said of the Monarch.

Izquierdo, the artist, quavered, "It is very sad. The idea of burning it, burning it without consulting anyone."

"Do quote me as very chagrined and saddened."

State's Big Job To Raise Income, Opines Larkins

ASHEVILLE (AP) — Gubernatorial candidate John Larkins said today the state's main job during the next four years will be to raise the income level of its people and not to impose new taxes.

"Some candidates feel that the job of the next administration is to spend and spend and spend, even if it means more taxes," he said.

To offset this and to raise the income level, Larkins added, "we will have to find new industry and new businesses to hire our young people, and we will have to do everything we can to help the farm families of this state out of the economic bind they find themselves in at the present time."

Larkins was in Asheville to greet supporters. He speaks tonight to the Western North Carolina Public Health Assn.

Larkins said the state must go forward with its programs for education, highways, agriculture and public health. "But," he added, "We cannot resort to senseless spending. Each proposed state government project bears a price tag, and the people of this state must pay the price through their taxes."

"Unless we maintain sound financial practices in state government, we can injure North Carolina's reputation as a practical state and we can hurt the people of this state by unreasonably high taxation."

"I haven't talked to anybody in this state who feels that he wants more money stripped from his pay check for state taxes."

Larkins said state income is growing along with the state's economy. "We can make the progress we need by spending wisely from this natural growth," he said, "and still stay within the

Cost Of Living Slated To Rise All Summer

NEW YORK (AP) — One thing at least is going just as expected. The cost of living is rising and probably will keep on going up till summer.

This comes at a time that average take-home pay for the nation's factory workers is falling. It also comes as business executives are explaining to their stockholders that the costs of doing business tend higher, but that keener competition and some consumer price resistance keep management from passing along all, and sometimes not even part, of this cost in higher prices.

Hence, profit margins are being squeezed and this year's earnings gain over last year will be slimmer than the year ago increase over the previous periods.

The stock market already had noted that prospect and adjusted prices accordingly.

There are explanations for this over-all rise in the cost of living while manufacturers say they can't raise their prices as desired. If the housewife and the family budget juggler have the patience for the explanations, here they are:

The cost of living is rising chiefly because food prices normally go up in the spring. Since this is the biggest single item in most budgets, the rise hurts quickly. It is felt particularly by those factory workers whose work-week has been shortened, or who have been laid off for short or long periods while output is being brought in line with sales.

Prices on the new spring lines of clothing tend a bit higher—as predicted — because wage scales had been adjusted upward.

Prices on new homes and furnishings strengthened, partly because of higher interest rates for mortgages, partly because of higher material and labor costs.

Medical care just keeps on rising, following a long-term trend. And people find many of their favorite forms of recreation costlier, as such personal care items as laundry, haircuts and beauty treatments.

These were predicted and they are of the creeping rather than the galloping kind.

The latter didn't come along as once feared by many. That is why economists say that the threat of another big round of inflation has been laid.

This fear was based on the earlier expectations that the settlement of the steel labor dispute would set off a big business boom. In such an atmosphere industry could more easily pass along in higher prices any increase in operating costs.

Business was expected to build inventories at a brisk rate for a prolonged period — a condition which would have favored price rises of manufactured goods.

The boom didn't materialize. Inventories were rebuilt to required levels but not beyond. Competition became keener if anything.

And so the rise in the cost of food and services, but very little in industrial products. Stock market bulls have been disappointed but the money managers in Washington are breathing easier.

Now if only the family budget keeper could too.

How Sitdown Demonstrations Started In Greensboro

Klansmen Appear In Demonstration

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ku Klux Klansmen picketed the mansion of a wealthy Georgia real estate man who rented an apartment in a white Macon neighborhood to a Negro family.

The real estate man, Chester Burge, marched out of his home Wednesday night with a pistol, but police sent him back with a threat to arrest him for carrying a weapon.

Georgia KKK Grand Dragon Lee Davidson said the demonstration was aimed at persuading Burge to move the Negroes out of the two-unit apartment where they live alone in a poorer section of the city.

In Austin, Tex., sit-down demonstrations were expected today after white and Negro students set up a mile-long picket line in a seven-block area Wednesday. The picketing followed failure of an attempt to end lunch counter segregation by negotiation.

At Tuskegee, Ala., a Negro leader sought to allay fears of white politicians that they might lose control in Macon County, where Negroes outnumber white residents 6-1.

"The idea that our people want to take over the government is simply not true," said Charles G. Gomillion, president of the Tuskegee Civic Assn. and faculty member of Negro Tuskegee Institute.

At another Negro school, Southern University in Baton Rouge, La., 16 Negro students charged with disturbing the peace in recent sit-in demonstrations will seek to have the charges dismissed at a hearing Friday. They contend they were denied rights guaranteed by the 14th Amendment.

Attorneys for five Little Rock Negroes indicated they will appeal the maximum sentences they drew for participating in a sit-down demonstration. The five, all Philander Smith College students, were fined $500 each and given 60-day sentences by Circuit Judge William J. Kirby. The judge doubled the original 30-day jail sentences and $250 fines after hearing the case on appeal from Municipal Judge Quinn Glover's court.

The Mississippi Senate, reacting to last weekend's Biloxi riots, voted for a bill making breach of the peace a penalty punishable by a 10-year prison term if anyone is killed or injured in a resulting riot.

Marshal Tito, ruler of Yugoslavia, went to school at the age of 15 to learn to be a locksmith. He was also taught metal-working, geography, history, and languages.

EDITOR'S NOTE—How did the lunch counter sit-downs get their start? In this first of a three-part series on the demonstrations that have spread across the South this spring, an Associated Press staff writer examines the incident in Greensboro, N.C., last February that set the pattern for what was to follow.

By PERRY MULLEN
Associated Press Staff Writer

Ten years ago a 7-year-old Negro newsboy was the victim, he says, of abuse by some white boys in Greensboro, N.C.

The newsboy, Ezell Blair Jr., grew up to become a teen-age leader in the first Southern lunch counter sit-down demonstration. In the three months since that action in Greensboro, the idea spread to many parts of the South as Negroes sought to end segregation in variety stores and other establishments that also were food.

Blair, whose parents are college graduates and teachers, recalled:

"I don't like having to go to a separate section of a public place. Older Negroes have always put up with that because they were afraid of losing their jobs. As college students we have no jobs to lose."

"The feeling I have began building up a long time ago. I had a newspaper route in Greensboro. Some white boys grabbed my papers. I went to the home of one and asked his mother to get the papers back for me. She began cursing and threatened to have me put in jail."

Blair, now 17, said he spent a great deal of time last winter discussing segregation with fellow students at North Carolina Agricultural and Technical College. At one such dormitory session, he said, Joseph McNeil, also 17, first suggested they try to obtain a cup of coffee at the F. W. Woolworth store in Greensboro.

Blair, McNeil and two others did try on Feb. 1. They were refused service. The manager was polite about it, Negroes working in the store's kitchen told the youths they were stupid and ignorant to press their demands.

Fearful of legal action, Blair said the students then sought help from George Simkins Jr., Negro dentist and head of the Greensboro National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People. He promised them backing, but warned against any violence.

"I wrote to CORE (Congress of Racial Equality) and asked them to put pressure on Woolworth in New York," Simkins said. "CORE sent representatives to see me. In the meantime, the movement had spread to Durham."

That is one version of the beginning of the lunch counter sit-down movement. It has spread to many Southern cities, to the accompaniment in some areas of tear gas, fire hoses and tension. Sympathy demonstrations have occurred in Northern cities where lunch counters are not segregated.

However, not everyone accepts this version. Said Alabama's Asst. Atty. Gen. Edwin Strickland: "The claim that the Greensboro sit-down was spontaneous is a lot of stuff."

It is his theory that CORE was behind this and other sit-downs of the kind. He claimed some of them were rehearsed in advance on the campuses of Negro colleges in the South.

Clarence Mitchell, Washington bureau director of the NAACP, said of the student sit-down movement:

"Part of it was due to activity by CORE. The other is that at our national convention in New York in 1959 we had a fine report from young people in Oklahoma about orderly sit-downs opening restaurants to colored people. Both the NAACP and CORE urged a nationwide boycott of stores that refuse to serve Negroes at lunch counters along with white customers."

"There wasn't any formal admonition to use it. One or two communities started doing it and it spread almost spontaneously."

"NAACP attorneys are providing legal service and local chapters are furnishing bail for students. Most of the demonstrations started quite independently of school integration ruling changed the atmosphere.

In Greensboro, Blair, McNeil and the others won support from other A. & T. college students and eventually closed down not only Woolworth's lunch counter but one also at the S. H. Kress store.

Mayor George Roach picked a biracial committee to seek a solution and a truce was called. But store managers refused to agree to a suggested compromise that would leave a section of their counters segregated while integrating the remainder. They said it would cost them white patronage.

Thereupon the Negro students resumed their demonstrations on April 1 and the lunch counters were closed again.

But by this time, the pattern first outlined at Greensboro had spread to many parts of the South. Whatever lay behind it—the alleged abuse 10 years ago of a Negro lad or a carefully planned CORE program—a new seed had been sown in the fertile soil of Dixie.

Tobacco Tips

By S. J. WEEKS
Pitt County Tobacco Agent

The stored tobacco moth is a common pest on many farms and often causes serious damage to stored tobacco. Most damage caused by this insect occurs between the time the tobacco is cured and the time it is sold. This insect generally prefers to feed on the better grades of tobacco—those high in sugar and low in nicotine.

The life history of the tobacco moth is similar to most other insects. The moth lays eggs in or near the piles of stored tobacco. The larvae are tiny when first hatched, but grow to about one-half inch in length. They are pinkish-white in color with a reddish-brown head. When the larvae is full grown, it spins a web-like cocoon in which it transforms into a pupa and then emerges as an adult moth. Usually the tobacco moth passes the winter as an adult larva. In the fall most of the mature larvae leave the tobacco and migrate to cracks and crevices about the building, where they spin loose cocoons of silk in which to hibernate.

If you have not already cleaned the scrap tobacco from your packhouse it should be removed and burned as soon as possible. If corn or other grain has been stored through the winter in the packhouse or has been moved from the building this spring, it is time to give the packhouse a thorough cleaning. When cleaning, all slats should be removed from the walls, then the walls should be brushed down. After thoroughly cleaning, the packhouse and grading room should be sprayed with a five per cent DDT solution. This solution can be prepared by mixing two quarts of 50 per cent DDT emulsifiable concentrate with 5 gallons of water. The walls, ceiling and floor of the packhouse should be sprayed now even if they were sprayed when cleaned in the fall. At the latest, the DDT solution should be sprayed at least one month prior to harvesting tobacco.

PAUL GALLICO'S Bestseller TOO MANY GHOSTS

CHAPTER 18

After lunch Hero managed to isolate Sir Richard Lockerie and maneuver him into the library where he talked to him earnestly for ten minutes, told him something of his fears, and enlisted his aid.

Hero said, "I probably shan't have another opportunity to talk to you alone. I'm not certain what kind of a performance is scheduled for tonight—only that he completely trusted the young man he had been instrumental in bringing there to solve the haunting at Paradise Hall.

"Good," Hero said. "Whatever you see or hear, or think you may see, don't pursue and don't try to touch—leave that to me. One important rule of spirit hunting is 'don't grab.'"

"Ah," Sir Richard said, "then you'll be setting a trap for the ghost. But what if I were to see the nun?"

Hero repeated, "Don't grab. Whatever it is, let it be, or you may regret it all your life. I prefer her on the loose. Simply use your eyes and your head and observe."

Lockerie laughed somewhat grimly. "That's a good one! Who will be watching me?"

Hero said calmly, "I will."

Sir Richard snorted. "Oh, come now, aren't you taking rather a strong line, Hero? What about the testimony of such reliable and authoritative witnesses as Lord Paradine, the Reb. Harry Witherspoon, Dr. Paulson, and I might add myself, who am not to be taken in too easily? After all, if the word of a clergyman and a scientist..."

Hero said, "If you'll forgive me, when you consider the level at which any honest clergyman operates, it is entirely in the realm of faith."

"But damn it all, Hero," Sir Richard protested, "what about what all of us saw that night at the dinner—all of us right there in one room? You yourself would have had to believe."

Hero said, "Sir Richard, I am a younger man than you and ought not to be taking issue with you, except that I have devoted the past ten years and more to the study of just such phenomena as were reported to have taken place that night in the great hall. There is a difference between seeing and knowing what it is at which you are looking. You did me the honor to pay a small compliment in the matter concerning Dr. Bingham; if you will remember, in that case all of us, including myself, saw only what someone wanted us to see. Fortunately—before it was too late..."

Sir Richard suddenly thawed. He came over and laid a hand on Hero's arm and said, "Forgive me, Hero. I had forgotten. You are right. This is a field, I know nothing about, and I'm afraid my nerves have been somewhat shaken. You are in command here, and I'll do my best, and I think you may count on me not to do anything foolish. When do you think one might expect..."

Hero replied, "At about three o'clock in the morning there will be one hellish rumpus. It will come from the neighborhood of Isobel's room, where the manifestations first began. It is my theory that the disturbances will spread to other parts of the house, including the east wing. The nun may be seen again, the lights go out—the harp may play; I am hoping that it will."

Sir Richard said, "By jove! You are anticipating quite a program. Exactly what is it you wish me to do?"

Hero said, "Put out your light, open your door. You may stand in the doorway, but do not come out into the corridor or prowl unless..."

"Yes," said Lockerie, following intently, "unless?"

For a moment, Hero felt himself at a loss for words. Finally he said, "There is someone here—I need not mention names—who means a great deal to you. I want her watched—and protected. Should she appear, you may follow her and see that she comes to no harm."

Sir Richard looked up sharply and his face had become suddenly flushed. "Ah," he said, "then you know?"

"Yes," Hero replied, "I know. It was his first and only serious mistake of the entire investigation."

Hero returned to his step-sister Meg's room later in the afternoon. He found her changed into a brown ensemble. She was walking about the room with her brown handbag clutched under one arm. Ever and anon she would pause, stand still, turn around, move off again.

Not even Hero's keen ear was able to detect the whir of the small motor inside the bag or observe the lens of the camera concealed in the fold of the leather.

Meg said, "Rehearsing. One's hand gets out after a while. Stand there for a moment, like a good boy." She walked a few steps away from him; turned her back. After a few moments she said, "Poffick."

Hero said, "How can you tell?"

Meg replied, "Practice. It just wouldn't do to have it rigged up with the finder, and go peering at it, would it?"

"What have you accomplished, my love?" Hero asked.

Meg said, "I've wangled an invitation from Spendley-Carter to come and see their ghost. Your Mr. Jellicot is coming too. I thought he was rather a pet."

Hero said, "Did you now? I'm not quite so sure. What do you think of the rest of our characters?"

"Shockers, some of them aren't they?" Meg replied. "You Major Wilson gives me the creeps. I know that type of soldier. Professional killers. They enjoy it."

"And Aunt Isobel?"

"Hasn't changed, as I remember."

"What about the girls—Susan and Beth?"

"Judgment reserved."

Hero did not press the point. He looked at his watch. "It's about time for the party," he said.

Meg nodded. "Right. I'll feed Little Snooper first. He wants his din'." She opened the bag and extracted a small, beautifully compact camera of Japanese make, a precision job as carefully tooled and put together as a watch, and not much larger than an old-fashioned Hunter.

The lens, however, was German, and the film in the tiny steel cassette with which Meg loaded it the fastest superpanchromatic on the market, which would record a clear image in the light of a single electric bulb. Hero and his step-sister had labored long, arduously, and happily over this prying piece of machinery.

Coupled with the clockwork motor, which was started by a small spring which Meg depressed with her thumb on the catch of the bag, Little Snooper photographed everything going on behind Meg's back at the rate of a picture every three seconds, with some hundred frames available in the cassette.

Hero watched the glossy head and serious mien of his step-sister as she bent over her meticulous task, noting her practice and agility of her fingers, and experienced a great feeling of relief and relaxation in her presence: good old Meg, she did stand by when she was wanted.

If anything of substance moved across the lenses of her cameras she would capture it. He would have been surprised had he been able to penetrate the busy person of his step-sister to hear how her heart was singing with the happiness of helping him.

She looked up at the final click as the bag snapped shut. "There," she announced, "all set."

"Let's go," Hero said. They went down the corridor toward the Spendley-Carters' room and in

Actor Still Regarded As Baseball Player

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — When Chuck Connors played big league baseball, other players labeled him as "that actor."

Now that he's successful in movies and TV, other actors label him "that ballplayer."

"I can't seem to belong to the right group at the right time," means the 6-foot-5 ex-first baseman for the Brooklyn Dodgers, Chicago Cubs, Montreal Royals and Los Angeles Angels.

Connors, whose confidence is reminiscent of Dizzy Dean's, took me with him to the Los Angeles Dodgers' opener with the Cubs. I asked him if he ever regretted giving up baseball for acting.

"You want the truth?" he answered. "I don't regret it one bit. As a ballplayer, I was a good minor leaguer. As an actor, I'm major league—if I can get the other actors to accept me as such."

A few years ago, Connors deserved an Oscar nomination as best supporting actor for "The Big Country." His portrayal of the mean son of Burl Ives is a classic of screen villainy, but he didn't get the nomination.

"Too many actors refused to vote for a ballplayer," he says. When he was offered the starring role in TV's "The Rifleman," Connors confidently predicted that the show would make television's top ten its first season. It did—and it's still there.

"I wouldn't have accepted the role if I hadn't thought so," he says with a lable cockiness.

For a change of pace, he has a role coming up soon in a big budget epic to be filmed in Europe.

In 1952, he was earning $6,200 a year with the Angels here when he put his histrionics to spare time in the movies.

"I got $500 for the first three days I worked in the movies," he calls Connors. Other parts followed and he doubled his Angel salary in his off time. Now he earns $150,000 or better a year—double what Babe Ruth used to make.

"No," reflects Connors, "I have no regrets about leaving baseball."

Presents Paper At Meeting Of Societies

By JAMES BACON

ROCKY MOUNT — William James (Jim) Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Jasper Smith of Rocky Mount, and a former Bethel high school student, presented a research paper at the 44th annual meeting of the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology in Chicago.

Smith, a graduate student at Duke University, was signally honored recently when he was asked to present the paper describing a project on which he has been working. His paper described the finding of a vitally needed chemical through experiments with bananas.

The paper was illustrated with slides. It has been indicated that Smith's work is being keenly studied in connection with the behavior of cells as scientists continue their investigations which they hope some day will lead to a more intelligent handling of cancer.

Smith, 24, attended Randolph Macon and then Duke University, where he received his A.B. degree. He received an M.S. degree from Denver University and then returned to Duke on a research fellowship in biological chemistry.

School Drop-Out Costs Explained By Supervisor

"Drop-Outs" was the subject of a recent talk given by Arthur S. Alford, supervisor of Pitt County Schools, to the student body at Robinson Union School in Winterville.

Alford said contributions to society are geared to the amount of one's education. He pointed out the following facts: one must decide to make his own way; everyone needs an education; and the rewards include active participation in civic affairs, self support, understanding the American ideals and ability to make wise decisions.

"Education pays higher dividends than any other investment," Alford said, "so why not stay in school and prepare for future security?"

The program was sponsored by the Guidance Committee, S. E. Hemby presided and presented the speaker. The choral club presented three selections.

ACC Has Raised Over $500,000

KINSTON, N.C. (AP)—Atlantic Christian College has raised more than half a million dollars and seeks another $250,000 for development purposes in the next two years.

Arthur D. Wenger, president of the college at Wilson, made this report Wednesday night at a banquet meeting of the 115th annual convention of North Carolina Christian Churches (Disciples of Christ).

The three-day meeting will close tonight with an address by Dr. W. Wesley Shrader, religious educator and pastor of a Chapel Hill Baptist Church.

A business session was held this morning.

The Christian Women's Fellowship holds its annual meeting this afternoon. Mrs. Howard Moyer of Farmville is president of the women's group.

President Wenger reported to the Wednesday night banquet that $500,000 was the minimum goal for the first phase of Atlantic Christian College's 60th anniversary development campaign. The second phase calls for another $250,000 before the drive ends in 1962, he said.

Healing Service Planned Tonight

The Ministry of Christian Healing will be held tonight 8:00 p.m. at St. Paul's Episcopal Church.

The Rector, the Rev. John W. Drake Jr., will present a meditation on St. John 4:46, the healing of the daughter of the Nobleman's son. Hymns of healing will be sung by the congregation. The laying on of hands will be offered for those desiring this ministry.

Christian healing is taking a larger part of the Church's ministry. Try. More and more people are recognizing the essential element of the spirit in good health. By prayer, by faith, and by understanding the whole body, mind, and spirit can know the fullness of life.

The strength and well being of the whole man is the concern of Christian healing. The Church has this special ministry to the spirit of man by bringing to actual reality the Presence of the Healing Christ. This healing service offers the point of contact with the power of Our Lord to redeem and to renew.

Troubles of the mind, emotional disturbances, physical maladies with spiritual origin come under the special care of this Powerful Christ. The spiritual need of one's time is readily apparent. This healing service is available to men and women of need.

These healing services are a last Thursday monthly observance in St. Paul's Parish. People of this community are invited to be present. The prayers of faithful people are requested and the presence of all is desired.

Tonight there will be an induction of new members into the Order of St. Luke.

Over 2 Inches Of Rain Here Wednesday

STREET BRIEFLY FLOODED by yesterday's rain.

Yesterday's rainstorm dumped 2.3 inches of water on Greenville and its immediate area, according to a report from Vance Erley Jr. of the Greenville Utilities Plant.

The downpour was of such intensity that the city's storm sewers couldn't take care of the drainage as fast as it fell, but when the rain subsided, the water drained quickly, C. K. Beatty, director of public works, said.

Beatty said from the time the hard rain started and the water rose, until it subsided, one hour and 15 minutes passed. No damage was reported in Greenville, though some of the dirt streets "washed" a little.

Water under the Dickinson Avenue underpass caused traffic to slow down a bit, Beatty said.

However, none of the city streets were impassable.

The Tar River was at a 5.3 foot standstill this morning, though the rain from yesterday may cause it to rise later in the week.

Temperatures have dipped down somewhat since yesterday in this area. The high recorded for Wednesday was 90 degrees with a low of 62. Today's temperatures were the 4 a.m. recording of 60 degrees which lowered to 55 degrees at 8 a.m.

A NOTE TO OUR PARSONS: The shock values of this picture are used for their dramatic impact to strengthen the moral intent of the picture. At no point is there a hint or suggestion that corruption could be pleasurable or that cruelty and immorality might be rewarded.

This is a highly moral motion picture. The enemies of life are destroyed, the good survive. Through a powerful, perhaps unique story, a mature audience has the opportunity to come into contact with an extraordinarily moral vision.
