

Trial Ordered To Begin Tuesday To Unseat Hoffa

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. District Judge Joseph R. Jackson today ordered a trial beginning Tuesday of civil proceedings aimed to oust James R. Hoffa as president of the Teamsters Union.

Jackson denied a motion by Hoffa's attorneys that he throw out the proceedings. Hoffa's attorneys immediately announced that they would go to the U.S. Court of Appeals in a new attempt to avoid the trial.

A situation which gives a particular legal twist to Hoffa's case is the fact that he took the union office under a court consent decree issued in January 1958. That decree let Hoffa take office provisionally with a three-man monitor board appointed by the courts to supervise a corruption cleanup.

President's Defense Bill Slightly Revised In House

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House Appropriations Committee revised many sections of President Eisenhower's 1961 defense budget today in a $39,337,867,000 bill to finance the Defense Department for the year starting July 1.

The $1,529,700,000 added by the committee to presidential requests was largely offset by reductions totaling $1,407,800,000. Larger cuts included a 400-million-dollar slash in general procurement funds to a force "more economical practices."

The additions made will unquestionably add greatly to our defense," the committee said. "The reductions were made to effect economies wherever possible. . . . The fatal mistake of too little and too late must not be made. . . . We should maintain our armed forces in such a way and with such an understanding that should it ever become obvious that an attack upon us or our allies is imminent, we can launch an attack before the aggressor has hit either of us or our allies. This is the element of deterrence which the United States should not deny itself. No other form of deterrence can be fully relied upon." The committee's recommendations are subject to House action next week.

With The Farm Women

By MAIDRED MORRIS (Items this week from Wayne, Granville, Chatham, Camden, Montgomery, and Macon Counties.)

Venetian Blind Workshop
Mrs. T. A. Beaman and Mrs. P. G. May, home demonstration leaders in Wayne County, have recently conducted a workshop in the county on repairing venetian blinds. They took an old blind apart and reassembled with new tape.

Mrs. Anne McArthur, home economics agent, reports 15 women learned how to repair blinds. This will save on the family budget if they have any more trouble.

Civil Defense
Home preparedness for an emergency sounds impersonal and indefinite. So much so that people are ignoring the vast amount of information being given them.

Mrs. Dorothy G. Wilkinson, home economics agent says, "In an effort to combat this apathy, every Home Demonstration Club in Granville County had a Civil Defense program last month. The discussion centered around what to expect, attack plus radiation fallout, and what to do about it."

Low Calorie Desserts
Low calorie desserts furnishes their share of health protecting food values, satisfies the appetite, and serves as moral boosters. These desserts were made at the Chatham County Home Demonstration Club meetings as a follow-up of the program on "Eat to Control the Weight."

Miss Flossie Whitley, home economics agent, says that low calorie ambrosia whip was prepared to emphasize low calories and to show another way of serving fruit to encourage two servings in the daily diet.

Year Around Beauty
Do you have year around beauty in your flower garden? When the Home Demonstration women in Camden County planned their work for the year, they requested information on how to plan for beauty in their yards all year.

Mrs. Mamie Sawyer, home economics agent, wrote a lesson sheet on the herbaceous border, with special attention given to spacing plants in relation to their height and season of bloom; a section on planning the color scheme for the border; and then suggested desirable varieties for that area.

Gardening Know-How
Mrs. Laura Stafford of Ophir in Montgomery County, is far ahead of most people in that county with her vegetable garden. She had her plowing done last fall, laid off her rows, put in the fertilizer and covered it.

"She took advantage of the one day in February when the ground was dry enough and not frozen, and planted English peas, onions, beets, radishes, lettuce, and Irish potatoes," says Mrs. Martha McK. Harris, home economics agent. "Now her garden is coming along fine."

New Buildings
Plans are shaping up for new fair buildings on a site near Franklin in Macon County. Community Development groups are cooperating to raise funds for this enterprise. Home Demonstration Clubs are also taking the initiative in raising the funds, reports Mrs. Florence S. Sherrill, home economics agent.

Probably the two new clubs, Mashburn Branch and Ruth Current, will be busy doing their part since they have just been recently organized.

Got the gang coming over to your house soon? If you have, here's a new fun idea you can try out on them—a Camera Party.

What's involved? A camera, some flash bulbs, some film, and some free-wheeling imagination. For instance: Heap up a pile of old clothes and odd props and challenge your guests to improvise costumes. Then a quick flash and you've saved the fun in pictures. Or you can come in costume. Then you can snap them in all their glory when they arrive.

The variations on this theme can be as involved and hilarious as you want to make them. But just make sure you don't run out of film and bulbs right in the middle of all the fun. (And we can help you avoid that minor disaster.)

It all sounds like fun but you don't own a flash camera? A Brownie Starflash for just $9.95 can solve that problem neatly, completely. It has a built-in flasher so you can't misplace, never gets in the way. It's just aim and shoot for bright clear color snapshots, color slides or black-and-whites.

Dessert Bridge Honors Miss Everett, Miss McArthur

ROBERSONVILLE—Mrs. Austin Williams and her daughter entertained at a dessert bridge party Friday evening honoring Miss Emma Nell Everett and Miss Ruthie McArthur, brides-elect.

The three card tables set up in the living room and dining room were spread with white linen centered with a pink floral arrangement and lighted candles in silver holders.

Prior to the game the hostesses served ice cream and decorated party cakes.

After three progressions Miss Emma Nell Everett was awarded for her high score and Mrs. Stewart McArthur won the consolation prize.

The hostesses remembered Miss Everett with china and Miss McArthur a gift of crystal in her chosen pattern.

In Korea, Our Own Hands Not Clean

It is difficult to accept as genuine the shock and indignation reflected by our top government officials at the charges of election rigging and other corruption which brought the swift downfall of President Syngman Rhee's government in South Korea.

The charges that South Korean elections were rigged and that corruption has made serious inroads in the government were not new when they flared with public protests and demonstrations in recent weeks.

Similar charges have been made in South Korea from time to time in the past five years. The State Department knew, or should have known of these charges. And yet no move was made—at least publicly—by the United States government to encourage reforms which would have removed the grounds for the protests.

Not until the resentment in Korea mounted into violent demonstrations did the United States strongly urge President Rhee to bring about long overdue reforms. Then it was too late. Rhee's government had lost favor with the people and its downfall was a foregone conclusion.

The United States cannot be held responsible entirely for what has happened in Korea. Neither can the State Department or other top agencies of the government completely absolve themselves of any responsibility in the tragedy. A word in the right place several years ago may well have prevented the election rigging and corruption in the Rhee government from going to the extent it did. Earlier insistence by the United States on needed reforms in the South Korean government may well have prevented the outbursts which have taken place recently.

There is no getting around the fact that U. S.

officials carried considerable influence with Rhee and other top officials knew what was going on in the South Korean government long before the demonstrations began. And yet our officials sat quietly by and hoped the corruption would disappear.

The State Department must assume at least a portion of the responsibility for what has happened in Korea because of its passive attitude toward the situation as it developed over a period of years.

It is another example of the failure of our State Department to speak out, until too late, on a matter which needed attention and could have been corrected before it exploded in our face.

The Continuing Fight Against James Hoffa

Another new effort to remove James R. Hoffa as head of the scandal-ridden Teamsters Union hinges on the outcome of the civil action now before the court which would ban Hoffa from his position as president of the Union.

Time and again the charges of racketeering and corruption have been leveled at Hoffa and the union which he heads. The charges have not only come from within the organization, but from witnesses before congressional committees, and from members of Congress and others. There have also been assertions that time and again efforts of court-appointed monitors of the huge union have been thwarted in their attempts to clean up the organization.

Whether Hoffa will weather this new attempt to dislodge him from his post as head of the powerful labor organization remains to be seen.

The outcome will write another chapter in the fight against corruption and racketeering in major labor organizations in this country. It will be another indication of whether the government has sufficient power under existing laws to cope with the intolerable situation which exists in the Teamsters organization. It will also be an indication of whether the American people will continue indefinitely at a loss to deal effectively with the kind of administration of affairs that has been afforded the Teamsters through Hoffa and his associates.

The present court action may not prove Hoffa's downfall as head of the powerful organization, but it may well be another step toward the eventual ouster of Hoffa as head of the organization.

Outlook Of The New Legislature

By LYNN NISBET

LEGISLATORS—One-half of the membership of the 1961 State Senate is known. Twenty-five candidates have no opposition in the primary, and if there is opposition in November there is less than one chance in a hundred that it will prove successful. Of these 25 certain senators, 20 have had prior experience in either the House or Senate, and several in both branches. Among the 25 contested seats, primary results can be pretty well forecast in at least half of them. Most of these are experienced legislators.

In several districts where primary contests are heated, the winner is sure to be an experienced man. In this group can be listed the fight between Lunsford Crew and Julian Allbrook in Halifax; Dewey Bridger and Ed Clark in Bladen; John Jordan and Edwin Poir in Wake; Archie Davis and Jim Hayes in Forsyth. Chances are there will not be a woman in the next Senate. Mrs. Irving Shafer is a Democratic candidate in Rowan and Mrs. Reva Rothrock is a Republican candidate in Wake. Long odds are against them winning. Alexander Barnes, Negro newspaperman, is the Republican nominee in Durham, accorded no chance.

The only reasonably sure Republican Senator will be the veteran Burr Brock of the 24th district (Davie, Yadkin and Wilkes). That district has never had a Democratic Senator—and Brock has never been defeated for the Senate or for the House in Davie when he was rotated out of the Senate. He is challenged this time by Julius Rousseau Jr. of Wilkes. Odds favor Brock, although he faces one of his hardest campaigns. In other close districts which have sent Republicans in recent years present odds favor the Democrats to win.

House of Representatives is less assured. Of the 120 members only 35 can be named with fair degree of certainty now. Of this number, 31 have had previous legislative experience. There are contests, or varying degrees of intensity, for the other 85 seats. While there will remain doubt until after the primary, and in some instances until after November, fairly accurate forecasts can be made in approximately half the contests. In majority of these cases the winners will be experienced men.

Three counties—Avery, Cherokee and Mitchell—have not nominated candidates for the Legislature. That will be done by convention later in the year. The only certain woman member of the House will be Mrs. Grace Taylor Rodenbough of Stokes, unopposed for a fifth term. Dr. Rachel Davis of Lenoir county, 1959 member, has opposition in the primary. Mrs. Lillian Cover of Cherokee, the other 1959 woman legislator, waits convention action on her candidacy. Five women Republican candidates hail from counties where their party has no hope of winning.

Analysis of the list of candidates compiled by Secretary of State Thad Eure indicates that approximately two-thirds of the membership of the 1961 House of Representatives will be experienced legislators. Further indication is that a large number of the inexperienced will be men of mature age who have dealt with economic and governmental problems in their business and professional activities. They will be new to legislative procedure, but not completely "green" as to the basic issues with which they will have to deal.

COMMITTEES—It is well known that important legislative work is done by committees. Who will name the committees in the Senate is less certain than who will be available for service on them. A three-way race is underway among C. V. Henkel, Dave McConnell and Cloyd Philpott for Lieutenant Governor. Whoever wins that race will appoint the Senate committees. By the time he wins he will be able to begin his job of making assignments.

It appears virtually certain that Joe Hunt of Guilford will be Speaker of the House, and name committees in that branch. By July 1 at latest, after the second primary is over, he will know all but six or eight of the members who will be available. By that time, too, it will be known who will be the next Governor.

These conditions set up a situation in which seems quite possible for the incoming Governor and the presiding officers of both branches of the general Assembly to confer in advance of the meeting date of the Legislature next Friday and have committee assignments ready to announce earlier than usual in the session. The result of that should be for the 1961 General Assembly to get down to real work without the usual "feeling out" period.

Public Prepared Expect Little

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—The American people are being prepared not to expect much more from the Paris summit meeting than a pleasant get-together between the West and the Soviet Union.

Is anything going to be solved, there? Probably not.

President Eisenhower Wednesday and French President Charles de Gaulle last week played down the idea of solutions and played up the hope the summit would produce better relations with the Soviets.

A great deal of time, a number of meetings, and a lot of visiting gone into the preparations of the Western Allies for the Paris conference.

They seem to lack in new ideas. What they seem to have is rigidity. If all that the statesmen and diplomats have said—in speeches, statements and communiques—could be wrapped into one tight bundle this would be it.

They are determined to stand solidly together in resisting Soviet demands; they haven't talked of making demands of their own.

At his news conference Wednesday Eisenhower was asked about his hopes for the summit session with De Gaulle, Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.

"I think the most we can hope for at this time," he said, "is ease of tensions, so some evidence that we are coming closer together—sufficiently so that people have a right to feel a little bit more confident in the world in which they are living and its stability."

"Now, how this might come about I don't know. There is, of course, the subject of ceasing tests, and with a controlled system for that, for developing some step in disarmament, and for greater contacts, particularly cultural contacts. I think that there are a number of ways in which this might begin. And that's about all you can say."

This was pretty much an echo of what De Gaulle had said repeatedly at different places on his visit to Washington last week.

He held a National Press Club luncheon that the matter of relations between East and West is the question with which the summit conference "primarily must grapple."

He said this would create the atmosphere for handling other problems like disarmament, Germany, and aid for underdeveloped countries. He said solutions for them "at the moment are impossible."

He said "what is paramount" is to begin the easing of relations between the Soviet Union and the Western Allies.

It takes four to dance to this tune and since Khrushchev is the fourth member of the quartet, everything depends on whether he is in the mood for dancing.

The last time he was heard from—over the weekend in Baku—he sounded like a man in a very foul mood, indeed. He seemed to be threatening the West, like this: You'd better talk business at Paris, or else.

Eisenhower Wednesday declined to take Khrushchev's week-end belligerency very seriously. "It's just more of the same," Eisenhower said. He pointed out Khrushchev knew Eisenhower wouldn't go to the summit at all under a threat.

But Douglass Dillon, undersecretary of state, last week made a speech which sounded fiery from the American side. If you read Dillon's fine print, however, you'd notice the blaze he created wasn't much more than match burning.

Since the summit meeting is now only 18 days away—and suddenly the two sides are growing a bit more confident in the world in which they are living and its stability.

Appreciative Audience

Notes Fresh From Cuff

POLITICS—Motorboat came by at Whiteharts Beach near Washington last Sunday. Plastered on the motor were "Vote for Jones" stickers.

Then we saw a car pass by in Greenville the same day. There were a couple of "Vote for Bonner" signs on it. Oh yes, Mr. Bonner himself was driving.

So the iron clad policy of equal time in this column has triumphed again.

SUCCESS—Five years ago "Speedy" Sideris left Greenville for the grand and glorious land of California. At that time he had nothing but a U. S. Army discharge and N. C. State College degree in his pocket.

He returned to Greenville this week for a visit with his parents. Now he's a prosperous young man about San Francisco, has acquired a lovely wife and a beautiful baby girl.

Welcome home, Speedy.

Henry Loomis, director of the Voice of America explained the difference between Voice of American and Radio Free Europe before the Rotary Club the other night.

The VOA broadcasts for the American government, he said. It sends out its programs in 38 languages presenting the American point of view. Because of the wide number of languages, VOA broadcasts not more than an hour a day in each country with few exceptions.

Radio Free Europe broadcasts to six satellite countries and it is actually the voice of persons who have left those countries sending back messages to their fellow countrymen. Radio Free Europe is supported by private donations. Loomis the two work together, however.

There is also a third station. Radio Liberty which broadcasts only to the Soviet Union.

Motorists were heard scratching on Dickinson Ave. during the height of the downpour

Wednesday afternoon. Their controls apparently out of order, all of the traffic lights on Dickinson Ave. remained on red.

Some drivers, regimented in this traffic light age, sat at the intersections for minutes trying to decide what to do.

Finally with guilty looks, they inched across the intersections squarely in the face of the stop lights.

Opinions In Brief

"Union strategists are doing all they can to weaken, if not repeal, even the most moderate labor laws. That is their right. And it is the right—and the obligation—of those who feel different to work for legislation they believe to be necessary to the public interest."—Industrial News Review.

"Even in the dread age of nuclear destruction it is mournful to hear the voice of fear calling for us to lay down our atomic arms in the naive hope that the enemy will abandon his as well. . . . that Communism can be won over from its birthright of aggressive cynicism by a show of trustfulness."—Alameda (Calif.) Times Star.

"It should be obvious that the Soviet Union, which is trying to industrialize and is short of power, must add to its power-producing facilities at a faster rate than the United States, which is intensively industrialized already. Because Russia is building needed power facilities there is no reason why we should build unneeded power plants."—Saturday Evening Post.

"A nation without an ideology is self-satisfied and dead."—Konrad Adenauer.

"Definition of a door—something children always get a bang out of."—Gastonia Gazette.

"But of course we must realize that we cannot co-exist eternally. One of us must go to the grave. We do not want to go to the grave. They (the Western powers) don't want to go to their graves either. So what must be done? We must push them to their graves."—Khrushchev.

Family Role Is Upset

By GEORGE E. SOLESKY

COPYRIGHT, 1960, KING FEATURES SYNDICATE, INC.

The income tax increasingly weakens the family structure of our nation. The family is based on the concept of mutual aid: parent nurtures the child; brother helps brother; children care for parents in their old age. The income tax leaves little over from earnings so that the most prudent and hard-working persons find it difficult to maintain a fund for normal family relationships.

Therefore, the oldsters demand government aid and the passage of so morally degenerate an act as the Forand Bill which recalls the campaigns of Dr. Townsend to turn the United States into a parolized state of dependent people. From the cradle to the grave, the individual loses not only his initiative but his dignity. It would be more provident to make it possible for those who labor to keep a fairer share of their income, to be thrifty, to save and to provide for their old age. It would surely be more moral for children to care for their parents than to leave such care to question-asking bureaucrats who can become very harassing. However, the current trend toward socialization eliminates the qualities of gentleness, pity, kindness, hope. "Stand on line and be counted!" There is no freedom in that.

The youngsters have their problems, too. An actuary recently stated the case this way:

To illustrate: under the laws dealing with rent control, a necessity in wartime, but something our lawmakers neglected to abolish when the need for it no longer existed, an executive continues to live in an apartment he has occupied for the last ten years at a frozen rent ceiling of $65 a month; whereas a young newly married couple of more modest means, finds that as new tenants, they must pay $165 for the same apartment in the same building. That is to say, the rent control law allows the landlord to charge his new tenant the law of supply and demand rate, while the old tenant pays the rate that applied twenty years ago. . . .

Further, another and even more disastrous difficulty of young people was cited—uncertainty, postponed marriages, interrupted marriages—all lethal attacks on the family system. This actuary says:

"The future of the young men of our nation is in a state of perpetual suspended animation because of the draft laws which will neither take them into the Army nor free them for an industrial career. Any prospective employer is naturally unwilling to put a young prospective employee through a training period for a career with his company when the future of such a man is so uncertain as to whether he will be drafted and separated from the employer for two years, and probably not return to the company after service. Similarly, young men cannot plan their immediate future—it's too uncertain under these circumstances. The natural law must be released from the shackles of such illogical and unjust bureaucracy, if our nation's energy and imagination are to be fully exploited in making further progress."

The intention of socialization is to improve the lot of every individual; to reduce the power of the rich to become richer and safeguard the poor from becoming poorer. Actually the effect of socialization, nearly 30 years after the Roosevelt program was established, shows that those who possessed inherited or accumulated wealth have grown richer; the general level has gone upward but taxes and the cost of living have risen and individual debt has increased. What remains, when it is all calculated, is a life of diminishing returns for the family in sound currency and rainy-day savings.

These needs study by actuaries—such a study it has never had, so far as I know. Great attention is being paid to the problems of the oldsters who must not be permitted to suffer but

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
YES, PONDER THIS COURAGE

Some time ago the Finnish freighter "Anna" was shipwrecked. Captain Vuorio got his crew ashore, but he would not leave the ship until the owners of the ship sent him orders through rescuers to abandon the ship at once. The newspapers contained a picture which Captain Vuorio's descendants should contemplate with pride. It was the picture of the Captain being dragged ashore dead. He could do no good by remaining on his wrecked ship, but he would not leave that helpless derelict until his employers commanded him to do so.

This is what we may well regard as a real adherence to duty and to idealism. It is a marvelous thing in this world of shadow as well as sunshine to encounter now and again a person who takes the duties of life so seriously that his own welfare is to him a matter of not the slightest consequence. Such a person feels that he (or she, as the case often is) must stick by duty come what will. It would be more pleasant to do something else. Who would have blamed Captain Vuorio if he had left his vessel when he saw that all was hopeless. But he was a man who operated under a commission and a code of ethics. He would leave his ship when those who had put him on the ship commanded him to do so, and not before.

Ponder courage of this variety. It is amazing and stimulating in any generation.

Other Editors Saying Wins By Getting Rich

(Alabama Journal)

"There is no better way for the South to get revenue than to get rich," said a Texas professor of history to a Princeton faculty. Dr. Arthur Prescott Webb suggested that Southerners "forget the misfortunes and injustices of the past and drown their bitterness in success."

"It is probable that the next century belongs to the South," the former president of the American Historical Assn. told his Princeton friends. Dr. Webb is going even further than the Alabama Power Co. which has been proclaiming for the last 10 years that the "last half of the 20th Century belongs to the South."

The economic independence of the South has been increasing enormously in the past 10 years and it is due not only to the South's natural advantages and its resources but to its people and to the farsightedness of other sections who have decided to come down here and advance with the South.

There are those who feel that the South's enormous gains industrially and in every other way have more to do with Northern criticism of this region than has the race issue which is agitated as the main point of difference between North and South.

Bewitched By Dabbling In Magic

By ELMER ROESSNER

Businessmen may be bewitched themselves by their own dabbling in magic.

The primary meaning of the word "magic" involves supernatural powers. But that hasn't stopped business from using the word to describe everyday products made without the aid of sprites or fairies.

Ascription of magic to ordinary products has long been regarded by the Federal Trade Commission, district attorneys and Better Business Bureaus as permissible exaggerations, except when an effort is made to pretend a product has supernatural about it.

The only exception is when the claims of magic are stressed to the point that somebody may believe them. Thus, anyone offering a lotion on the claim that it will cause women to swoon at the feet of the user; subpoenas will float in over the transom.

A few years ago I collected advertisements of 150 products in which "magic" was part of the name, or was used to describe the product. Someone else, with nothing better to do, collected 350. I became discouraged and abandoned efforts to compete. Since that time new "magic" products, or new products claimed to work "magic," must have brought the total above 1,000.

The president of a company dealing with a highly specialized service to businesses told me a few days ago about his impressions after a swing around the country.

THE SEARCH FOR CHARMS AND POTENTS

"I'm amazed at the number of business executives who seem to be looking for magic," he said. "They aren't looking for magic that comes from a wand, but magic that comes in a package or a contract. They think that when anything goes wrong, all they have to do is to buy a consulting deal and everything will be all right."

"The head of one business couldn't tell me how well he was doing. He said there was a lot of money coming in and a lot going out, and sometimes there is a lot left over and sometimes only a little. 'But I've gone to New York for a management consultant and everything will be all right,' he said happily. The simple step of hiring a new local accountant apparently didn't have enough magic to it.

"Another executive confessed that sales were down. 'But we've hired a new advertising agency and the boys will come up with a new campaign that will get us on our feet again,' he said. He had no idea whether the quality of his product was being maintained or what his competitors were doing.

"Another man in trouble said he was going to factor his receivables, not because he needed the money but because 'maybe the factor will tell me what I'm doing wrong.'"

Maybe there is magic businesses can buy from consultants advertising agencies and factors. But there used to be magic in understanding one's own business and plunging in to cure the fault with imagination and hard work.

Scripture—Matthew 5:8, 27-37; 23:25-26; Luke 2:52; 9:61-62; Philippians 4:8.

"Blessed are the pure in heart: for they shall see God." Christ preached to the multitude of people listening on the mountain.—Matthew 5:8.

Of swearing, Christ said, "Swear not at all, neither by heaven; for it is God's throne; nor by earth; for it is God's footstool."—Matthew 5:34-35.

"Give to him that asketh thee, and from him that would borrow of thee turn not thou away. . . . Love your enemies."—Matthew 5:42-44.

"And Jesus increased in wisdom and stature, and in favour with God and man."—Luke 2:52. MEMORY VERSE—Matthew 5:8.

The Pure In Heart

THE LAW OF GOD REGARDING INNER PURITY OF LIFE, WITH SOME SUGGESTIONS AS TO HOW SUCH A LIFE MAY BE LIVED

Scripture—Matthew 5:8, 27-37; 23:25-26; Luke 2:52; 9:61-62; Philippians 4:8.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

THE LESSON opens with the words of Christ in His Sermon on the Mount: "Blessed are the pure in heart: for they shall see God."—St. Matthew 5:8.

Most of all of us have evil thoughts in our minds at one time or another—thoughts of anger, perhaps, or revenge for someone who has slighted or wronged us. If we ask Christ's help to banish such thoughts, however, and we do banish them, we will be forgiven.

"In these modern times marriage is often entered upon," writes the Rev. Dr. Wilbur M. Smith, "and young people seem to be swept into it by some temporary emotional experience of the hour, some superficial attraction, or, worse, a state of asunder."—J. Oswald Dykes (1835-1912), Scottish Presbyterian clergyman and educator. About swearing, which is altogether too often indulged in by men, and even women, Christ said: "Swear not at all, neither by heaven; for it is God's throne; nor by earth; for it is God's footstool. . . . But let your communications be, Yea, yes; nay, nay; for whatsoever is more than these cometh of evil."—Matthew 5:34-37.

"Give to him that asketh thee, and from him that would borrow of thee turn not thou away. Ye have heard that it hath been said, Thou shalt love thy neighbour, and hate thine enemy. But I say unto you, Love your enemies, bless them that curse you, do good to them

"Blessed are the pure in heart: for they shall see God."—Matthew 5:8.

Intoxication. One divorce follows another, with many being married five or six times in a lifetime, returning to the dreadful state of Roman society in our Lord's time. All these things are tending to destroy in the minds of men the idea of sanctity which God always attaches to marriage in His Holy Word. Let us think for a moment of what makes marriage sacred. First of all it was actually instituted by God.—Genesis 2:24.

Faithfulness in a marriage disrupts the home and brings untold unhappiness to all in it. "Jesus proclaimed as the guarantee of wedded rights and the sanction of wedded duty within His Christian kingdom, this principle: 'What God hath joined together, let no man put apart.'"—Matthew 19:6.

that hate you, and pray for them which despitefully use you, and persecute you; That ye may be the children of your Father which is in heaven."—Matthew 5:42-45.

"And Jesus increased in wisdom and stature, and in favour with God and man."—Luke 2:52. He rebuked the Pharisees as hypocrites, saying that they were deceivers, pretending to be what they were not.—Matthew 23:25.

Very briefly we must mention the men who said they would follow Jesus, but they must postpone doing so because of other duties. Jesus said: "No man, having put his hand to the plough, and looking back, is fit for the kingdom of God."—Luke 9:61-62.

who also cannot become a drag on the community. Too little attention is being paid to the social problems of the youngsters who are the hope of the country. We get excited over their delinquencies but we fail to recognize that society has, in this generation, dealt them bad cards, particularly in loading them down with debt, giving them a bad currency, wasting their most fruitful and creative years and bringing them into the market place at too advanced an age. This problem we ignore at our peril.

Pitt Negro HD Club Leaders Commended For Their Service

Local leaders of the 18 Negro Home Demonstration Clubs in Pitt County have been commended for their services by Home Economics Agent Amella S. Capehart.

Mrs. Capehart said that the leaders, "by unselfishly offering their time and talents" have brought information, new technique and change of attitudes which have given mere homemakers an educational opportunity for people to learn how to help themselves.

Recognition of the contribution local leaders are making to home and community development comes as members of Pitt County Home Demonstration groups are observing National Home Demonstration Week May 1-7.

The leaders are trained by the Home Economics agents and specialists of A&T College, Greensboro, at special sessions before they present the lessons to their community groups.

Mrs. Capehart said, "Since there are now 450 homemakers who are members of home demonstration clubs, it is possible for the home economics agents to carry on their work more effectively through the rise of leaders to reach non-club members." The goal set is for each home demonstration club member to reach from one to five persons and trained leaders, five to ten persons.

Women who are serving as local leaders in Pitt County in the following programs of food production and conservative clothing, food selection and preparation, home management, house and furnishings and family relations:

Detroit Drops Label Of 'Terrors' With 2-1 Loss

AMN LGU SPOTS By ED WILKS Associated Press Sports Writer The Tigers are terrors no more. After hammering 11 homers and scoring 34 runs while winning their first five games, Detroit's Tigers now have managed to score just once in each of their last three. And they've lost them all.

defeating Boston 6-1 and joining the White Sox and Washington in a tie for fourth place at 5.00. In the National League, the Pittsburgh Pirates won their seventh straight as Bob Friend pitched his second four-hit shut-out in a 3-0 decision over Philadelphia that left the Bucs a game ahead of San Francisco. The Giants rallied for four eighth-inning runs, capped by Willie McCovey's three-run homer, and defeated Los Angeles 7-5 in the only other game scheduled.

the clincher in the sixth on a double by Bill Tuttle and a single by Jerry Lumpe. Hall, 29, who had only a 6-13 record to show for four years with Pittsburgh, extended the Tigers' scoreless slump to 14 innings before Lou Berberet homered in the eighth. It was Hall's first AL decision. He struck out five, walked just one. The White Sox defeated right-hander Gary Bell (1-1) for the fourth consecutive time. Rookie Steve Barber won his first for the Orioles. He walked four and gave up six hits, but struck out six and shut out the Red Sox over the last six frames. The Orioles ripped loser Bill Monbouquette (1-2) for four runs in the first.

Palmer Tied For First Round Lead In Tourney

By MAX B. SKELTON HOUSTON, Texas (AP) — Arnold Palmer and Bill Collins led the $35,000 Houston Classic golf tournament into the second round today but a homer by young Dave Ragan had the gallery talking. Ragan called the homer a "black-out or something," but whatever it was it cost him two strokes. As a result, Palmer, the big money winner of the year, and Collins, 1959 New Orleans Open winner, held 66s that put them one stroke ahead of Ragan and Billy Maxwell. Fourteen other players were within three strokes of the leader. The par 72 at the 7,122 yard Memorial Park course had a rough first round. A record 15,000 first day gallery swarmed onto the course as 33 out of a field of 139 broke par and 15 others were even. The field was to be cut to the low 80, plus ties, after today's 18 holes.

a fine, good putt. But the ball stopped about a foot short. I set the putter down, and when I took it back something happened. I sort of stabbed at it, not once, but twice. It was a blackout or something. I know what I was doing but I couldn't stop." Arguments developed all over the course on whether a stroke should be counted if you address the ball but stop your swing without hitting the ball. "I feel it is a stroke once you've addressed the ball and taken a swing," said Ragan.

Bid For Tourney

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP)—Charlotte and Greensboro have bid to hold the 1961 Atlantic Coast Conference baseball tournament in their colliseums. Whether the tournament will be moved from Raleigh where it has been successful, will be decided by the ACC during its spring meeting in Greensboro May 6. Paul Buck, manager of the Charlotte Colliseum, said Thursday he notified all tight ACC clubs and the conference that the Colliseum was interested in being the site of the next tournament.

Palmer, the 1957 Houston winner who is after his sixth title of the year, collected his 66 with a front nine 30 and a par 36 on the back nine. Collins, playing in the same threesome with Ragan, went out in 31 and came in in 35. Ragan, a 24-year-old from Orlando, Fla., had a 36-31-67 but his putting on the first green made him the most talked-about player of the day. The quiet-spoken father of twins took his boner philosophically. His putter touched the ball only twice, but he recorded four putts that gave him a 7 on the 558-yard par 5 hole. "I pitched 10 feet short of the hole," Ragan said. "It looked like

Two name players rejoining the golf tour were seven strokes off the pace with 73s. They were Peter Thomson, the Australian who has won the British Open four times, and Art Wall Jr., the 1959 masters winner. Jack Burke Jr., the defending champion, headed a six way tie at 68.

ECC Plays At WF Today; UNC Host To Duke

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Duke and North Carolina meet today, with the game opening a crucial series that could determine the power in the Atlantic Coast Conference baseball race. The Duke-North Carolina game was scheduled Thursday but was postponed to today because of rain. The Tar Heels, in sixth place at 2-3, need to start winning to stay in the race. Duke, 3-0 in the ACC, needs to win to keep its distance from second place Wake Forest, North Carolina State and Clemson, all 4-2 in the conference. Ben Hammet, a lefthander, was expected to get the starting call for the Tar Heels against either Don Altman or Ron Kalish, the two top pitchers for Duke. Saturday North Carolina meets N.C. State and Duke plays host to Wake Forest. Other games today sent East Carolina to Wake Forest and South Carolina to Georgia Southern.

Pittsburgh Wins Seventh Straight Behind Friend

By ED WILKS Associated Press Sports Writer The Pittsburgh Pirates have made it seven, extending the season's longest winning streak behind Bob Friend, the missing winner of last year's fallure. The right-hander who lost his first seven and wound up the biggest loser (8-19) in the National League when the Bucs flopped to fourth last season, pitched his second four-hit shutout and won his third without defeat Thursday as the Pirates beat Philadelphia 3-0. That left the Pirates, matching their longest success string since 1958, when they finished second, a game ahead of San Francisco. The Giants beat Los Angeles 7-5 in the only other NL game scheduled, but lost slugger Orlando Cepeda. The big outfielder was struck behind the right ear by shortstop Maury Wills' peg to first on an attempted double play. Cepeda was carried off on a stretcher, but X rays showed no fracture. In the American League, Kansas City handed Detroit a third straight loss, 2-1 on the four-hit pitching of ex-Pittsburgh right-hander Dick Hall. The defeat slipped Detroit into a tie for first with idle New York. Chicago's White Sox defeated Cleveland 3-1, and Baltimore ripped Boston 6-1. Friend, 29, struck out seven in the first three innings at Philadelphia. He wound up with 11, just one shy of the Pirate record set by Babe Adams in 1909, for a total of 32 in his 34 innings. The Bucs got to work on loser John Buzhardt (0-2) with two runs in the second on Dick Stuart's triple, Bob Clemente's single and an infield out. Singles by Don Hoak and Dick Groat and a sacrifice fly by Bob Skinner got the other run home in the fifth. Willie McCovey took care of things for the Giants, walloping a clinching three-run homer that capped a four-run rally with two out in the eighth. It was the fifth of the year for Willie, who drove in four runs for a league-leading total of 17 despite a .222 batting average. Right-hander Jack Sanford (2-0) was the winner, but needed help from Billy Loes, Stu Miller and finally Mike McCormick. Larry Sherry, the World Series pitching hero as a reliever, was the loser for a 1-3 record in his third start. The game took 3 hours, 35 minutes, just 3 minutes shy of the National League record for a nine-inning night game set by the Phils and Dodgers at Los Angeles last May 11.

Raleigh Streak Broken At Seven

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Winston-Salem snapped a seven game winning streak for Raleigh with a 7-4 decision Thursday night in the opening game of a doubleheader. The Caps, leading the Carolina League, called on the skilled right arm of Dick Radatz for a 7-0 revenge win in the nightcap. Radatz gave up three hits and struck out 18, only two shy of the league record for strikeouts set by Charlie Timm 15 years ago. Greensboro served notice of first place intentions with a double triumph over Durham. The Yanks edged the Bulls, 4-3, in the first game, but made it a convincing 7-1 in the finale. Wilson defeated Burlington 4-2 in the first game. The second game was called in the seventh inning because of the midnight curfew, with Wilson leading, 9-3. The game will be completed later. The games tonight: Greensboro at Winston-Salem, Durham at Burlington, and Raleigh at Wilson.

Jones Favored Against Denucci

BOSTON (AP)—Relentless, ring-wise Ralph (Tiger) Jones if favored to frustrate ambitious young middleweight Joe Denucci tonight in a 10 round fight at the Boston Garden. For Jones who calls himself "The Old Warhorse," it will mark his 43rd appearance of national television (8:30 p. m., EDT). In 10 years of professional boxing Jones has amassed a record of 49 victories, 28 defeats and four draws. Denucci, at 20 a dozen years younger than his opponent, is a willing slugger with a 23-2 record. Significantly, Denucci's only losses were to seasoned campaigners: Chico Velaz. Tiger holds triumphs over Sugar Ray Robinson, Joey Giardello, Kid Gavilan, Johnny Bratton and Charlie Humez. Odds favoring Jones have been quoted from 7-to 5 up to as high as 12-5. "This is the biggest chance of my career and my first TV shot," underdog Denucci said Thursday after winding up his training with three rounds of sparring. "It also will be my biggest payday. I'll get the $4,000 for television plus a percentage of the gate. If I get by Jones — and I'm sure I will — I can shoot for big money bouts." The contracts call for a 165 pound weight maximum but it is believed Denucci has a private understanding he won't be over 163. Jones is expected to weigh 159. But if Denucci hopes to go on to wealth on the TV fight circuit, Jones has as much bad news for him outside the ring as he hopes he'll have in it. "Years ago the TV purse was $3,600," Jones said. "Now they've raised it to $4,000. Big deal. I make more money in my fights that aren't on TV."

Rose High Wins

Rose High golfers defeated Kingston here yesterday afternoon by a score of 26-1. Bobby Thomas was medalist for Greenville with 72. Other scores for Greenville were: Rick Sauve 75, Chappy Bradner 75, Dallas Clark 78, Buddy Murray 80, and Sonny Parkerson 83.

Rigney Doesn't Follow Advice

By CHARLES MAHER Associated Press Sports Writer LOS ANGELES (AP) — They told Bill Rigney to put Willie McCovey on the bench, but the San Francisco manager is much more inclined to put the gangling first baseman on a pedestal. McCovey started sluggishly this season and still isn't hitting for an eye-popping average, but he leads the major leagues in runs batted in today with 17 in 13 games. He drove in four runs Thursday night — three on a critical homer in the eighth — as the Giants staged a game behind league-leader Pittsburgh 7-5. "They (unidentified second guessers) kept telling me to bench McCovey," Rigney said later. "When McCovey wasn't hitting at all," Rigney continued, "I thought it was hit timing. "But he's coming around now. There's no doubt in my mind that this guy is a .300 hitter." McCovey's homer, his fifth this season, was his only hit Thursday night and he came into the game with a .222 batting average. "I never worry about slow starts," Willie said. "I always have them."

League Leaders

Pitching — Bob Friend, Pirates, struck out 11, seven in the first three innings, and walked one for his third victory, second four-hit shutout in 3-0 decision over the Philles. Hitting — Al Smith, White Sox, was 3-for-4, extending hit streak to eight and scored all Sox runs after getting singles his first three times at bat in 3-1 victory over the Indians. Smith Hitting At Torrid Pace

Associated Press Sports Writer CHICAGO (AP) — Al Smith is hitting at a fantastic pace as the Chicago White Sox new leadoff man, but the 32-year-old outfielder doesn't know from day to day if he will keep the job. Smith was given the No. 1 spot in the batting order Tuesday night at Kansas City. He hit a homer, a single, another single, a double and a single in five trips as the Sox won 8-0. He was int he leadoff role again Thursday night, smashing three consecutive singles and scoring all of the Sox runs before being stopped in the seventh on a foul fly to the catcher. The Sox trimmed Cleveland 3-1 behind Billy Pierce's route-going five-hitter. In two games, Smith has upped his batting average from .136 to .355. "I'll go along temporarily with Smith leading off, but I want to get (Luis Aparicio) back up there as soon as I can," said Manager Al Loptz. "Loole can't steal many bases batting eighth and I know I'm reducing the threat of his great running if he stays there." Aparicio, Smith and Jim Landis — all three are excellent lead-off men," Lopez continued. "When I managed Cleveland, Smitty was in the No. 1 spot most of the time. In 1955 when he was leading off he had his best year, batting .306 with 22 homers and 77 RBI."

Young Ballplayers 'Auctioned'

A total of 56 new players were "bought" by the 12 teams comprising Greenville's Little League at the organization's annual player "sale" last night at Respass Brothers.

With W. C. (Bill) Clark Jr. serving as auctioneer, the sale began around 8 o'clock and lasted for more than two hours. Player Agent Nealy James conducted the sale.

Each team is allotted 10,000 points—termed "dollars" by officials—with which it "purchases" players of its choice by bidding.

The highest bidder buys the player on sale.

Each coach, prior to the sale, has the opportunity to appraise the boys during the early-season tryouts that have just ended.

Two new teams joined the Little League this year. The new squads were allotted 25,000 points to help them have a successful first year.

Joining the junior baseball organization this season are teams sponsored by Coca Cola and Security Life.

Each team, its coach, and the number of players bought are listed:

Showings End At Recent Scout Camporee Called Largest In South

HIGH POINT, N.C. (AP)—The Southern spring furniture market closed today after an eight-day show of new styles in the home furnishings field.

More than 3,000 buyers toured the 14-story Southern Furniture Exposition Building here and factory showrooms and exhibition buildings in a 150-mile arc westward from High Point.

The buyers represented major retail furniture outlets in the United States and Canada. Officials at the Southern Furniture Exposition building described attendance as good. They reported advance registration was the largest for any spring market in the South.

In styling, the buyers saw a further blending of contemporary and traditional furniture lines—and a wider use of color in bedroom and dining room furniture.

Manufacturers introduced their new lines without any major increase in prices. Prices on new lines reflected current production costs. There was little, if any, change in existing prices, despite the squeeze of rising production costs felt by manufacturers.

Some price increases are expected by the October show, however, when many manufacturers introduce their major style changes of the year.

Generally, business at the market was good. Manufacturers who displayed new lines drew most of the buyer attention, while those who had nothing new to offer suffered.

Another factor affecting the market was the bad weather late in the winter. The series of winter storms hampered retail trade and left most retailers with large inventories at market time. As a result, there was a reluctance to buy in large quantities.

Helpful Guide Led Him Wrong

DETROIT (AP)—A motorist offered to lead Ruddy Maxwell to the Ambassador Bridge Thursday. He was driving a truck from Edmonton, Alta., to Toronto by way of Detroit.

The helpful stranger zipped under a railroad underpass. Maxwell didn't. His truck was 12 feet, nine inches high. The underpass was 12 feet high.

Several hours later he was able to resume his trip. He took a different course to the bridge.

Extortionist Is Caught By FBI

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—An ex-convict was in jail today charged with trying to extort $11,000 from three families with the threat he would gouge their children's eyes out with a barbed hook.

Frank W. Brooks, 47, was arrested by FBI agents Wednesday night in a payoff rendezvous set up by one of the persons he threatened.

Mrs. Otis Tennant, mother of six children, told the FBI she received the first letter April 18. Inside the envelope was a 1 1/2 or 2-inch long metal barb—"something like a fish hook"—plus the message demanding cash.

"The note said our children's eyes would be stuck with something just like this if we didn't pay," Mrs. Tennant said.

According to O. B. Roberts, scout executive, this was one of the most successful Camporees ever staged in the East Carolina Council.

The events at the gathering were conducted by Jim Malory who was assisted by Sherman Parks, both of Greenville. Erskine Duff of Greenville handled public relations for the Camporee.

Over 230 scouts from troops in Pitt County attended the large camp-out.

CHAPTER 19

The visit to the room of the Spendley-Carters was not exactly a social success. Sylvia Spendley-Carter was nervous, worried, and ill at ease.

Her husband was not at all glad to see Mr. Hero, and little Mr. Jellicot was as anxious as a parent awaiting his child's appearance at the annual theatricals. He was desperately eager that the poltergeist should perform for Mr. Hero and the daughter of an earl.

Spendley-Carter said, "I wasn't expecting you, Hero."

"Still, I suppose you're entitled to come and have a look-see. Don't expect anything will happen now."

Hero murmured, "I know. It's like the dentist's waiting room and the vanishing toothache. It has been my experience, unfortunately, that spirits are notoriously shy in my presence. Enter Hero, exit ghosts."

Meg managed to suppress a giggle, and got on with her part of the amenities. She gushed, "So good of you to let me come, dear Mr. and Mrs. Spendley-Carter. I think you are extraordinarily brave, Mrs. Spendley-Carter."

Sylvia Spendley-Carter limply took the hand that Lady Margaret held out to her. "I am not brave," she said in a voice that trembled. "I am absolutely terrified. I wish Horace would take me away from this horrid place."

"Poltergeists aren't often dangerous," ventured Mr. Jellicot. "They are really only mischievous. Your husband will be famous throughout the scientific world when he writes this up."

Spendley-Carter glared at his wife as though she were pinching his dessert off his plate.

"There now, you see?" he said. "If Noreen and I can stand it, I guess you can."

The room was at the corner of the building in the east wing and consisted of a large bed-sitting room, pleasantly furnished and decorated.

From it there opened out a kind of small alcove, which was occupied by Noreen. It contained her bed and a dresser with a mirror, as well as a small table. The window looked out onto the park and the east pergola.

In the manner of children lost in their own work and disinterested in the chatter of the world of grownups, Noreen sat at a table and painted with water colors.

Hero wandered across the room and looked over her shoulder. She had made a passable enough sketch of the ugly white pergola, the trees, the river, and the priory ruins in the distance, and was engaged in filling in the water colors.

Noreen looked up and whispered, "Oh, I'm so glad you came."

Hero inspected her drawing a moment longer and then sauntered back to the group, being most careful not to stand too close to his stepister.

"It wouldn't be your imagination, would it, perhaps, Mrs. Spendley-Carter?" he asked. "Forgive me for seeming incredulous, but often in cases like this—"

Spendley-Carter blustered. "Damn it, sir, I guess I've got eyes in my head. You'd believe it soon enough if it happened to you. I only wish it might."

"Goodness knows," Hero replied equably, "so do I."

Sylvia Spendley-Carter emitted a sudden gasp and then a wail of fright as an object came sailing through the air and fell with a crash of breaking porcelain at her feet.

"Ha!" cried Spendley-Carter. "There you are! Now are you convinced?"

The object was a small vase, one of a pair from the mantel, for the other, a not very expensive affair in blue china, was still standing at the opposite end. Apparently this one had risen of its own volition and shattered at their feet.

There was a swish and two thuds as an apple and an orange fell from the ceiling and rolled into a corner, and a moment later several smooth, rounded, dark flint pebbles likewise sailed through the air to clatter onto the floor.

Mrs. Spendley-Carter began to shake, hid her face in her hands, and squealed agonizingly, like a muffled pit. Spendley-Carter was too triumphant even to notice her. In her corner, painting imperturbably, Noreen giggled shrilly.

"There, you see?" cried Mr. Jellicot. "A genuine apparition! In the corner of the room there was a tall, slender mahogany flower stand, and upon it a brass bowl containing roses. The flower stand now for no reason apparent, since no one was standing within a yard of it, suddenly teetered and fell over on its side, and the brass bowl with a clangor and splashing of water scattered its contents over the floor."

Mrs. Spendley-Carter rocked and moaned. While the other gazed at the scattered flowers a trussed chicken ready for the pan sailed into the room, from which quarter no one could tell, and was followed by another shower of stones.

Hero picked up the overturned stand and set it on its feet, gathered up the flowers and the bowl, and replaced them.

Spendley-Carter, his moist eyes filled with triumph bawled, "Well—are you satisfied now?"

"The chicken came in through the window," asserted Mr. Jellicot. "I saw it." He went over to it and looked down, adding, "There isn't anyone down there—there isn't anyone in sight at all," which, considering that the window was shut, seemed rather superfluous.

Meg murmured, "I shouldn't have believed it if I hadn't seen it."

Mr. Jellicot had picked up the chicken and was regarding it with wonder and affection. "I'll wager the mischievous entity stole this from the kitchen," he said.

"In that case," Hero remarked dryly, "I gather Cook would be glad to have it back again. Why don't you take it to her?" Then he added, "Don't any of you care what is happening to Mrs. Spendley-Carter?"

She was prostrate on the couch now, close to a state of shock from terror. He went over to her and said, "You must try to pull yourself together. I assure you there is nothing to be afraid of. Poltergeists are very much like children; they like to attract attention. If you don't give in to them, very often they get bored and go away."

He turned to Spendley-Carter and said, "If I might suggest, I'd have Dr. Winters to look at her. I rather think she could use a sedative."

Spendley-Carter said, "Damn it, man, I know how to look after my own wife."

"Well then, do so," Hero said abruptly, "before it's too late. She is ill."

Mr. Jellicot was standing over by the door holding the trussed chicken in his hands and looking a little foolish. Hero said to him, "I think you can get on with it, sir. End of performance. No more today, I think."

He picked up Meg with his eyes, and added, "Thank you very much for letting us witness this extraordinary business."

Lady Margaret added, "Oh yes, thank you very much indeed. It was so kind of you. I do hope Mrs. Spendley-Carter will be all right," and she and Hero went out together.

Back in Meg's room Hero said, "Well? Do you think...?"

"Lovely," said Meg, and opening her bag, disconnected Little Snooper from its motor, took it out, and examined the film indicator. "We ought to have about forty shots from which to choose. The light was just fine."

By DR. ED HIRSHBERG

It's our great privilege to present the first published review of Ovid Pierce's new novel, ON A LONESOME PORCH. Official publication date is April 30—only in Greenville N.C. Everywhere else it's May 13. We hope you'll like it as much as we did.

ON A LONESOME PORCH, by Ovid Williams Pierce. New York: Doubleday & Co., 1960.

ON A LONESOME PORCH is a lovely book. Ovid Pierce has written it with love in his heart for his region, his people, and his language. In compassion and pity and reverence he has caught a moment in time and translated to us its meaning for the people who lived it nearly a century ago.

The central character in the novel is Miss Ellen, who tries to return to her plantation after the Civil War with what is left of her family, and finds that there is no such thing as a return to a past that has died. Scarcely conscious of the passing of time in her dream world, Miss Ellen suddenly wakes up to the fact that she is of a present generation, dredged over in the place of better men than he, but the only one left because all the others had run away. And gradually, silently, other Negroes return—not all, but a few, and more will come back, to work again for the white man, but no longer as his slaves.

Over against this background are the three corresponding generations of whites: Miss Ellen, Lucy, and her son Garrett. Always the point of view returns to Miss Ellen—the plantation and its people are all hers. Her giving up what is hers, her final immolation, her sacrifice to the flood and to the pressures that it symbolizes, and her final emergence as a real force in the lives of those to whom she had for so long been simply peripheral—these are the elements of her story, the story of so many other old people who sit on lonesome porches watching their own memories fade, seeing new generations displacing theirs, doing better, sometimes, what they had tried to do and failed in doing.

Blending with and enunciating his love for his land and his people is Mr. Pierce's love of his language. His style is light, but evocative, spare but highly sensitized, with a soaring, brief beauty like a sunset's plunge. Of the land, he can write, "Here was the unchanging silence of earth, remote, eternal, remembering no path, nor the time of any war. . . . Once explorers, costumed figures with feathers and swords, had stood here as though at the edge of a stage, before withdrawing to the painted ships awaiting them on the Atlantic shore." And of what the rot of war had done to his land he can say, "Along this road time was a clogged stream, holding all the months of frog-loud, moon-haunted nights, all the hot days of showers and sun, containing them in wild pulp stems, in flowers bursting with beauty and perception such as these light up his story and his theme, ON A LONESOME PORCH is a lovely novel. It is also a beautiful poem.

Central in the story also is the perpetual counterpoint of the Negro-white relationships, always present, never silent. Undergirding the white society on which he depends, with his strength, his endurance, the Negro, then as now, is all-pervasive, a living presence, sometimes a necessary, benevolent protection, sometimes a dark, threatening menace. All of life that is left on the plantation when the Grays return to it are remnants of its Negro population: the three starving little ones, Benjy, Bojack and Pete, waiting for Mammy who never will come back; the dying, ancient one, Cora, a sort of Greek chorus who sees and knows everything; and finally Enoch, the only survivor of a present generation, dredged over in the place of better men than he, but the only one left because all the others had run away. And gradually, silently, other Negroes return—not all, but a few, and more will come back, to work again for the white man, but no longer as his slaves.

Over against this background are the three corresponding generations of whites: Miss Ellen, Lucy, and her son Garrett. Always the point of view returns to Miss Ellen—the plantation and its people are all hers. Her giving up what is hers, her final immolation, her sacrifice to the flood and to the pressures that it symbolizes, and her final emergence as a real force in the lives of those to whom she had for so long been simply peripheral—these are the

Expedition To Scout Ranch Is Set For July

A 23-day expedition to the Philmont Scout Ranch at Cimarron, New Mexico will be held starting July 19, according to East Carolina Council officials.

Explorers registered in an Explorer unit or senior members of a Boy Scout Troop (14 years old by September 1, 1960) are eligible to participate in the expedition.

Highlight tours while enroute to Philmont include: one full day visiting the National Scout Jamboree at Colorado Springs, Colo.; visiting Pike's Peak and Indian ruins at Pueblo, Colo.; and attending a "Wild West Rodeo."

Twelve days will be spent on the Scout Ranch.

Only 37 places have been reserved for Scouts in the East Carolina Council and those planning to attend should register as soon as possible.

The ranch is composed of 127,000 acres of rugged western country on the slopes of the Sangre de Cristo Range of the Great Rocky Mountain Chain. Highest point on the ranch is Clear Creek Mountain with an elevation of 11,600 feet.

Waite Phillips a Tulsa oilman, gave the 127,000 acre ranch, complete with water, mineral and timber rights, to the Boy Scouts of America and, as an endowment, donated the 23-story Philmont Building in Tulsa to the group.

All equipment and livestock were included in the gift with the idea that diversified ranch operations would add educational benefits to scouts and would also add to the endowment income.

More than 8,000 explorers and leaders visited Philmont last summer.

March Traffic Toll Proved Low

CHICAGO (AP) — The nation's traffic death toll in March was the lowest for any March in 11 years.

The 2,400 highway deaths in March this year, the National Safety Council said, represented a 1.2 per cent decrease from the toll of 2,850 in March 1959. The council said the decrease was the greatest for any month since 1947.

Howard Pyle, president of the N.S.C., called the statistics encouraging and interpreted them as equivalent to saving 460 lives.

The sharp drop in March also placed the 1960 first quarter toll 5 per cent below that of the first quarter of 1959.

Thirty-seven states showed decreases in fatalities last March compared with March 1959.

Dedicating Of Paul Jones Dorm Is Set For May 15

Dedication ceremonies for Paul E. Jones dormitory for men at East Carolina College will take place Sunday, May 15, at 3 p.m. President Leo W. Jenkins of the college has announced. The public is invited to attend.

The building is named for Dr. Paul E. Jones of Farmville in recognition of his effective support of public education in North Carolina and especially Pitt County and of his outstanding service in furthering the development of East Carolina College.

The dormitory, completed in the summer of 1959, has been in use since that time and now houses 520 men students. It was financed, at a cost of $1,250,000, by a loan through the Federal and Home Finance Agency.

Jones Hall was the first college building to be erected south of Tenth Street on land recently acquired by East Carolina. Its construction initiated a plan to build east and south for men students as the college expands and to reserve the west campus for women students.

A steel-reinforced concrete structure with brick and stone trim, the dormitory is modern in design. A cafeteria, in addition to rooms and recreational facilities for students, is included in the building.

Dr. Jones is a dentist by profession and has held a number of offices in medical and dental organizations, including the pre-sidencies of the N. C. Dental Society and of the American Association of Dental Examiners. He is a fellow of the American College of Dentists and the International College of Dentists. He is also a farmer and a member of the Farm Bureau.

As a friend of public education, he served for 25 years on the Farmville School Board and for five years as chairman of the Pitt County Board of Education.

From 1949 to 1957 Dr. Jones represented Pitt County as senator in the N. C. General Assembly. He served as president pro tem of the Senate in 1955.

Dedication ceremonies will be followed by a reception in honor of Dr. Jones, with members of the East Carolina Interfraternity Council as hosts, and by a tour of the dormitory.

EXTENDED WEATHER OUTLOOK FOR N. C.

Temperatures will average near normal for next five days with showers over the weekend and Tuesday or Wednesday. Warmer Saturday, cooler Sunday or Monday, warmer again Tuesday or Wednesday.

Woody Herman Concert Tuesday

Woody Herman and his 16-piece orchestra will present an evening of popular music at East Carolina College Tuesday, May 3, at 8:15 p.m. in the Wright auditorium.

The concert will be sponsored by the Student Government Association of the college. James H. Speight of Kinston, SGA president, has announced that the "spring and swing" program will be a two-hour affair and will feature many of the hit tunes of the day.

The program, Speight explained, is not an attraction of the college Entertainment Series, and so there will be an admission fee.

WHAT BRINGS SO MANY married couples to our Trust Department? If you were to ask those who use our services, the answers might be as varied as the people. But there is one basic reason for estate analysis—to preserve the estate, to save money.

You'll agree that most dollars are hard-won! There are few "soft" careers these days. So the dollars you have accumulated should not slip needlessly away through lack of planning.

Our Trust Officer and your attorney, with precise skills acquired from years of experience, can guide you through the intricacies of estate planning. And as we proceed together, you may see tax savings made, costly liquidation eliminated, the estate kept in balance.

We have observed this: When a man and wife share in the preparation of a plan, there is the added confidence that comes with understanding. The husband sees the savings for himself... the wife appreciates the security and peace of mind.

Moving Against Sunday Business

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—In the first legal move against Sunday business here, a warrant charging an illegal sale has been obtained against a suburban department store.

Family Fair was named in the warrant, sworn to by Mrs. Charles F. Drago.

Charles E. Keller, attorney for Citizens for Sunday Closing, said Thursday there are plans for additional warrants.

An old Kentucky statute prohibits Sunday business with a few exceptions. It calls for fines ranging from $2 to $50 for the illegal employment of each person.

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market staged a slight recovery early this afternoon from Thursday's sharp setback. Trading was moderately active.

The improvement was irregular. Advances of fractions to about a point among pivotal issues outbalanced losers in the same range.

The market was mixed at the start, holding at about the level of the previous close when a late rally cut some of the sharpest losses of the day. Buying support came in slowly to put the list generally on the plus side.

Rails, utilities, coppers, drugs and motors were higher on balance. Oils and rubbers were lower. Electronics, aircrafts and chemicals were mixed.

The action was regarded as mainly technical. The mixed earnings reports and generally drab outlook for second quarter profits overhung Wall Street.

Bethlehem was about unchanged after reporting higher first quarter earnings along with anticipations of lower results in the second quarter.

Minerals & Chemicals was fairly active and up about 2 on unconfirmed rumors it would be taken over by Universal Oil Products, which was steady.

Polaroid picked up a couple of points. NAFI rose more than a point. Union Carbide rose about a point and Eastman Kodak more than that.

Up about a point were Radio Corp. and Lukens Steel. Around a point lower were American Tobacco and Phelps Dodge.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up .99 at 605.32.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .50 to 210.70 with the industrials up .70, the rails up .30 and the utilities up .20.

Corporate bonds declined. The U.S. Treasury's two new issues offered in exchange for $6,400,000,000 of expiring maturities came into the market at slight premiums.
