Baby Week May 1-7

Birthquake 1960

By DOROTHY ROE
 AP Women's Editor

Babies keep coming faster every year. Four a third million are expected to arrive in the United States this year, and by 1970 census experts predict a birth rate of six and a half million. That's a lot of babies, by anybody's standards.
 This means more demand for diapers, bottles, baby foods, nursery furniture, baby carriages, toys and baby clothes. And more and more manufacturers are turning their attention toward this vast market of brand new citizens.
 The effect of the baby boom is felt in many fields. It means a demand for bigger homes, bigger cars, more schools and playgrounds. With a bigger family, Mom needs more automatic appliances such as washing machines, dryers and vacuum cleaners to make her job easier.

 Real estate brokers, builders, automobile salesmen and furniture dealers all get into the act.
 It looks as if the country is on the way to a new prosperity peak, and much of it may be credited to babies.
 Never let a child sit down to a meal without first washing his hands with soap and water—nor let him leave the bathroom before sudsing hands carefully.

More Scholarships Are Required

Another school year is rapidly drawing to a close in North Carolina. High school seniors throughout the state are preparing to don the caps and gowns and parade across the stage to receive their diplomas.

A good many of the graduating seniors, to be sure, will go on to college to continue their formal education. Others already have begun learning a skill in high school and have their eyes on jobs in their local communities or nearby cities. Some will go into the armed services. Others will still be trying to decide what lies before them long after the big graduation night is over.

Unfortunately some of the most capable members of the graduating class of 1960 will not be among those who enter colleges next fall. Particularly in Eastern North Carolina the number of valedictorians and salutatorians from high school classes who do not continue their education is alarmingly high. In many cases, the lack of economic resources prevents these young people who have shown their scholastic ability in high school from going on to college.

Over a period of years the increase in the number of scholarships available from the various colleges, and those provided in the individual communities have gradually made it possible for more deserving students to continue their education after graduation from high school. The fact remains, however, that there are not sufficient funds available in the form of scholarships to meet the need. Each year in this section of North Carolina there are many high school graduates with good scholastic averages, who want to go to college, who cannot because of the lack of financial resources at home plus the fact there are not enough scholarships to go around.

Because of this, the section is forfeiting each year some of its future leadership potential. Youngsters with the desire for a college education and the mental ability to profit by it, find their way blocked by lack of financial assistance.

North Carolina has long recognized its investment in education as one of the most profitable it can make. Its people have willingly supported the public system. They have contributed through taxes and through personal donations to create within the state an excellent array of institutions of higher education.

But the need for more scholarships for high school graduates is acute in North Carolina. Too many of our best high school graduates are missing a chance for a college education because the demand for scholarship funds far exceed the funds available.

India's Neutrality Is Undergoing A Strain

The visit of Red China's Chou En-lai to India apparently failed to bring about any reconciliation between the two important Asiatic nations, and if anything increased India's official coolness toward the communists.

On his trip home, Chou accused Premier Nehru of being unfriendly toward Red China by telling the press and the Indian parliament that Red China was guilty of aggression against India.

Apparently Chou, in typical communist fashion, does not consider "unfriendly" the military occupation of several thousand square miles of Indian territory by his own troops. But it was "unfriendly" in communist terminology for the Indian Premier to call the act by its right name—aggression.

Chou's visit to India to patch up things between the two nations was a flop. He got nowhere with Premier Nehru, the Indian official, and obviously the people of India were not particularly pleased by his visit to their country.

The situation again emphasizes the role which India plays in Asia, and likewise puts India more firmly in the camp of the free world against communism than has before been the case. Although India still outwardly maintains her position of neutrality, there is every indication now that she does not feel friendly toward Red China. India has now been a victim of communist tactics similar to those used against other nations. This time, India has not passively supported the communist position as it has at times in the past.

Although the dispute between India and Red China has increased international tension, at the same time it has made India a stronger bulwark for democracy in an important area of the globe.

Credit And The Business Trend

By RALPH ROBEY

There are two aspects to the problem of consumer credit. First is the question of volume; second is the issue of whether borrowers know how much they are paying. The first is a matter of economics; the second is something which may be handled by legislation. In this column we discuss the volume; the next report will be devoted to the proposed legislation to inform borrowers of the cost.

Consumer credit includes both installment and noninstallment credit. The total now is at a new high record, just about $52 billion. Of this total about $40 billion is installment credit and $12 billion noninstallment credit. Automobile paper is the largest category, approximately $17 billion. During 1959 consumer credit as a whole increased almost $6.5 billion, of which $5.4 billion was installment credit. The total is still growing and promises to continue to grow.

Is this total too high? To answer that question one must have some base of comparison. Any number of items may be used as a base—gross national product, national income, volume of bank credit, and so forth. But the item which generally is considered best is personal income after taxes, or what is known as disposable personal income.

If we take disposable personal income as a benchmark by which to judge the present volume of consumer credit, we must conclude that the total is not too high. This conclusion is necessitated by the fact that the total is a smaller percentage of disposable personal income than it has been at various times in the past, although the difference is small.

Another test of the goodness of consumer credit is the behavior of delinquencies. Here the record is not so cheerful. Recently loans in the consumer credit category which were more than 30 days over-due have shown a slight increase. The percentage still is extremely low and the increase is nothing to get excited or frightened about. But one does not like to see an upward trend in this figure, and it is to be hoped that the next report will show a decline of delinquencies.

What is the relation of consumer credit to the business trend? It obviously enables persons to buy many things that they otherwise could not purchase. This means we have a larger total of business than we could have without such credit. It also means that this larger volume to a considerable extent is the result of stealing from future sales. But that is true of all credit, and just as the total of credit must keep on increasing year by year, so must consumer credit.

The only danger of consumer credit is that individuals over-extend themselves. This can happen, but history shows that even in periods of economic recession the payments on consumer credit are well maintained. For example, in the recessions of 1949, 1953-54, and 1957-58, more consumer credit was repaid in each case than in the preceding year.

Whether this record will be continued will depend primarily upon the care with which consumer credit is extended. This is a matter of lender's judgment, and there is no reason for assuming that this judgment is going to become seriously impaired.

In a word consumer credit today is not a threat to our business trend, and there is no evidence that it will develop into a threat.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

TO HIM THAT HATH
Fritz Kreisler once offered a wealthy man quite a large sum of money for a valuable violin which this wealthy man owned. The man persistently refused to part with the violin, saying there was no price that would tempt him to do so. Kreisler then asked permission to play it. He played as only Kreisler can play. Into the dead and silent instrument he poured the power and passion of his genius. The wealthy owner of the instrument listened in silence to the end. When Kreisler very tenderly returned the violin to its case, the wealthy man lifted it up and put it into the arms of the great virtuoso. "It belongs not to the man who bought it, but to the man who can use it."

All things belong to the men who can use them. There is no doubt a great deal of inequitable distribution of goods and benefits in this world. There are sections of the world where multitudes of people never know what it means to get a square meal. But it is true also that in this country of ours, things in a surprising majority of cases get into the hands of people who can use them. This may sound like social heresy to many who want to break up the status quo and start things anew on some other basis, but it is always well to remember that the disposition of the universe is constantly to put into practice the great principle that to him that hath it shall be given, but from him that hath not, shall be taken away even that which he hath.

If He Blasts It—

—FIELDERS ARE SET TO RUN.

In Love With Microbes

Copyright, 1960, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Herbert Matthews of "The New York Times" is an expert on Spain and Latin America and like most experts in all fields, he has fallen in love with the little microbes he sees through his glasses. His defense of Fidel Castro's regime in Cuba as a "social revolution" becomes meaningless in the face of the record as it unfolds. The denial of Communist implications does not hold up under any study of the facts.

Revolutions are made by men with ideas and purposes. Revolutions are never mass explosions. They are the product of careful planning, of the preparation of slogans and paraphernalia, of the readiness of the leaders to man their posts with immediacy. The Russian Revolution of 1917 was in the making for half a century and the Bolsheviks organized for it in 1903. All modern revolutions have been social revolutions. Matthews' redundancy establishes no additional information. What is meant by the phrase "social revolution"? It means the dispossession of the possessing classes and the redistribution of both wealth and power to other classes.

A Communist revolution, whether in the stage of a people's republic which Cuba is now, or in the stage of a Socialist state which Russia is now, or in the attempt to establish a Communist state which Red China is now, is always a dictatorship, for its essential characteristic is the dictatorship of the proletariat and thus whoever controls the proletariat is the master of the state.

Among the social revolutions which have failed are those of Hitler, Mussolini and Peron. The only proved successful social revolutions have been those of Lenin in Soviet Russia and Tito in Yugoslavia. Without a revolution, Franklin D. Roosevelt effected vast social changes in the United States.

To repeat, revolutions are made by men and Fidel Castro collected a group of men from many countries, most of whom are either Communists or fellow travelers.

The leading men are his brother, Raul Castro, Chief of the Army, Dr. Che Guevara, head of the National Bank, Antonio Nunez Jimenez, head of INRA (National Institute of Agrarian Reform), Dr. Wlodo Medina, head of the Legal Department of INRA, who can change the constitution, Pino Santos, head of the Commercial Division of INRA, Santos Rios, General Assistant with them are Czechoslovakians, Italians, Germans, Japanese, Guatemalans, Argentinians and others, who are one shade or another Left Wingers.

Cuba is practically without political parties except the Socialist Party which is Communist. Fidel Castro does not belong to a political party but is representative of a people's movement. However, the co-operation of the Socialist Party is accepted. Communism is regarded not as political but as ideological. The official paper of the government, "Revolucion," is edited by Carlos Franqui who is a Communist.

The first characteristic of a Communist revolution is the sequestration of land without compensation. It is a fundamental of the Marxian doctrine that the land belongs to all the people and its produce to those who work it with their sweat and blood. To compensate landlords is to give profits to the capitalist class, thus acknowledging that they have some rights. Before Mikoyan came to Cuba, there was some discussion of giving the landlords a kind of bonds for their lands, houses and cattle. Now they get nothing, after the Russian Marxian pattern. The next step will undoubtedly be the establishment of state-owned industries by seizing all the sugar mills, which will be nationalized.

The mark of a Socialist Revolution anywhere, by definition, is the seizure by the government of the means of production, distribution and exchange. The next stage is the abolition of the family, of religion, of nationality and the establishment of the dictatorship of the proletariat.

Every person in Cuba will sooner or later be working for the government and will be policed by Castro's militia. The development of such a militia (Trotsky's Red Army) can, in short order, hold any unarmed people in absolute thrall. Every revolution employs such a militia not to achieve social change but to keep in power those who have seized power. An example of (Continued on page five)

Other Editors Saying... Agriculture Big Business

(Elizabeth City Advance)

Some of our candidates for governor, Congress and other offices of importance are beginning to turn more attention to agriculture which, after all, is one of North Carolina's most important businesses.

It is of extreme importance to the Albemarle section as Chairman Pete Reid of the Pasquotank County Board of Commissioners has emphasized on more than one occasion. Recently he stressed that while the search for new industry is important to this section which has few such plants, it is even more important to develop the agriculture business for which this section is most noted.

Few of us realize that from the farms of the South flow more than $8,000,000,000 in products each year. And the counties of our own area are doing their part in making such a figure possible. Crop sales from Southern farms top $5,000,000,000 annually. Cotton occupies in first position, followed by tobacco. Fruits and vegetables hold third place. Other crops ranging from peanuts to cabbage to Irish potatoes to soybeans to corn—all or which are raised in abundance in the Albemarle section, turn over a billion dollars a year into the economy of our particular area.

The South produces 73 per cent of the nation's income from cotton, 100 per cent from peanuts, 93 per cent from tobacco and 24 per cent from fruits and vegetables. Its forests furnish more than $500,000,000 annually.

Livestock sales exceed $2,000,000,000 each year. Hog income nears $350,000,000. The South accounts for 18 per cent of the nation's cattle sales, 16 per cent of the dairy, and 13 per cent of the hogs.

The South in general, and North Carolina in particular, holds a spotlight position in poultry production. Broiler income approaches $500,000,000 each year with about $350,000,000 worth of eggs going to market annually, plus $100,000,000 in other poultry, including turkeys. Two-thirds of the broiler income of the United States is produced in the South.

The South's dream of balanced farming is fast coming true with livestock and poultry furnishing as much income as crops. When we have such figures before us we can easily see the importance of concentrating upon the things we already have and making them even more important in the economy of our particular area.

U.S. Drive So Good It May Flop

By ELMER ROESSNER

The American export drive may flop. Partly because it is so good.

The drive was dictated by necessity. American imports in recent years have exceeded exports by widening margins. To balance imports over exports, government has had to pay out gold. Our gold reserves have been shrinking, as has been told and explained in many previous columns here.

One cure would be an increase in export sales. If America could sell as much abroad as it purchases there, there would be a balance of trade and hence no imbalance of the gold supply. This is a simplification, because other factors, such as travel, gifts and military spending abroad are factors but, if imports and exports were in balance, our gold supply would be in little danger.

MORE COMPETITION
One reason America is buying more abroad than it sells is that foreign labor costs are lower. It is cheaper to import a transistor—and thousands of other items—than it is to make duplicates in the U. S. under current wage rates.

However, the money we send abroad for transistors and other items is available for the purchase of American-made goods and is encouraging business to step up sales abroad. This has started to work. There is sincere reciprocation among foreign nations; they want to buy American goods within their means and they do not want the U. S. dollar weakened.

THE WEAKNESS
However, the more friendly nations are impressed with our export drive, the more they are inclined to copy it. Since our export drive has been launched, the Japanese have started a campaign to increase their sales abroad by 12 per cent this year. The British have started a similar export drive and, before long, all of the Western nations will be working on plans to increase their foreign sales.

We can't complain; we can only show enthusiasm when allied nations follows us to the paragraph in planning. But in the end, if all the Western nations increase their export selling efforts as much as we do, our imports will continue to exceed our exports, and the threat to the dollar will remain. We will, in short, reach a Japanese standoff. This standoff situation will develop further during the U. S. World Trade Fair opening in New York. Coliseum American manufacturers will bring to heads many of their drives to sell foreign buyers, and many foreign sellers will make their climactic effort to sell the American market.

Better Look At Values

By ROGER BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass. — Probably no event this past year in higher education has stirred up more of a furor than the late Bardsley Rall's plan for curbing the fiscal ailments of our colleges.

A TAXPAYER'S FINANCIAL PROBLEM

Most readers know that inflation has made such an impact upon our colleges that fees have been constantly increased year after year. Today we are failing to develop some of our best brains because many brilliant high school graduates just cannot afford college.

To slow down this ever-accelerating spiral of educational costs, and to attract and hold better faculty, it has been proposed that the colleges mass-produce students as an automobile factory mass-produces cars. Theoretically, if a professor teaches 50 in a class instead of 25 students, he has doubled his production. Greater productivity should cut operating costs and in turn lead to higher salaries. Another suggestion is to chop out of the curriculum the many courses of study for which demand is slight and classes small. I personally do not believe in large classes; but I do believe that both high schools and colleges could omit many courses which are now cluttering up educational efficiency.

REACTIONS TO ECONOMIES

Reactions to these plans have been violent. Educators everywhere have been vociferous in their opposition. They argue that students are not to be shaped on a production line as chunks of metal are milled and bored for engine blocks. The large lecture hall, educators rightly contend, would then become little more than a means for transferring the professor's notes to the students' notebooks. A college education is not just cramming the mind with facts about history or science or business. There must be reaction by students; where there is no reaction, there is no learning. Ideas must be chewed, digested, assimilated into the student's own philosophy. To effect this reaction an instructor must challenge his students, listen to their questions, criticize or encourage them. Education is the sum total of one's development of character, one's attitude and reactions to life. With such educational goals I fully agree.

Yet if the average high school or college would be honest about how effectively it is accomplishing these goals, all it has to do is to seek the opinion of its most mature students. When it does this I wager many an administrator will be shocked to learn how many instructors are complete bores. The question of cutting out courses is entirely different; unless a few students want a certain course, let them go to a nearby college and get it. Such courses should be taught by only one college within a radius of 15 miles.

REAL PROBLEM IS ONE OF VALUES

A look at our national appetite for a good time, our national pastime of belittling things intellectual, our accelerating divorce rate, our shrinking from unpleasant responsibilities, our shocking juvenile delinquency, and our measurement of "success" in terms of material possessions, makes one wonder just how effective is the present educational method which our educators so stoutly defend.

What kind of citizens have we after they have graduated from college? Have they developed habits of straight thinking? Are they intellectually honest? Have they made their neighborhoods any better? Have they produced better children? Are they any freer of prejudice? Do they cherish and work for spiritual values for their community, the nation, and the world? These are what will make us or break us in our struggle for world leadership. While there may not be any easy academic short cut, I believe there must be a less costly way to sound education. Taxpayers who foot the bills have the right to expect methods that will produce much better education at much lower cost.

Few Pastors Voice Complaint Over Dress Of Congregations

By TOM HENSHAW AP Religion Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — How well do people dress for church? Do they still wear their "Sunday best" to worship? How do clergymen feel about confronting congregations in sports clothes? The American Institute of Men's and Boys' Wear recently polled some 200 priests, ministers and rabbis in the New York area and found that three out of four have few if any complaints about church dress.
In fact, a number of clergymen expressed regret that people are overly conscious of their church-going clothes. Said the Rev. George D. Younger and Rosencwald C. Robertson of Mariners' Temple Baptist Church: "We feel strongly that the concept of 'Sunday best' is a travesty on the Christian gospel. God beholds not the externals but the hearts."
"We are working with all our might to convince people that it does not matter how they dress when they come to church, so long as they will come."
"People should feel that they must be neat and clean when they come to church," said the Rev. Bradford W. Ketchum of St. John's Episcopal Church, Pleasantville, "but they should not be clothes-conscious."
The chief complaints stemmed from the dress-or lack of it—during the simmering summer season now approaching. Chief offenders: Women.
"Warm weather is no excuse for coming to church improperly clothed," said Msgr. Francis Cagnina of the Church of St. Clare in the Bronx.
"Sleeveless and backless dresses are never to be worn in church. Nor should anyone attend mass in shorts."
"This is a matter of respect to God and to parishioners. We urge the ladies to come to church properly clothed and with reverence and modesty."
Women who dress improperly, added a Manhattan rabbi, should be educated to know "that they should wear long-sleeved dresses to religious services and hats, that décolleté dresses are in bad taste."
With men, he said, "ties and jackets should be worn even in warm weather."

"Although God looks at the heart," said the Rev.ohn A. Gibbs of Alliance Church, Mount Vernon, "it is a sign of reverence and respect to dress properly when attending public worship. A wrong idea of God can affect our manners at worship. One church encouraged people to 'come as you are' during the summer months. Dress for the beach or golf course became dress for worship."
"This creates a familiarity which takes lightly sacred things. Again a wrong idea of God and of true worship does lead to this lowering of standards."
The clergymen also offered some guideposts for church dress: "A person who has an audience with a president, a governor or some other great person, takes care to look his best," said the Rev. Wesley D. Osborne of Searing Memorial Methodist Church, Albertson, L.I., presence of the Most High, we should make our best appearance."
"When we are entering into the temple," antville, "but they should not be clothes-conscious."

Has Article In Music Magazine

An article written by Mrs. J.E. Brown of Greenville concerning music students at the Trainable School for mentally retarded children here recently appeared in "The North Carolina Music Educator" magazine.
The article was entitled, "A Special Story About Special Children." It discussed the 21 students at the Trainable School and the meaning of music to them. Mrs. Brown said "It means action and participation; self-expression and communication for them. They are participants of music—not just consumers."
Mrs. Brown explained the materials used in direction of music at the school. Mrs. Earl Beach, music teacher for the Greenville City Schools, works with the children each week.
Mrs. M.E. Cavensh is principal of the Trainable School.

He is the son of T.R. Boyette of Wilson and Mrs. G.S. Reid of Rocky Mount. His wife is the former Evelyn G. Lawrence of Falkland.

'Sweet Smell Of Success' Stressed By Kennedy In West Virginia Rounds

PARKERSBURG, W. Va. (AP) — The sweet smell of success surrounds Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.), and he and his followers make sure no one forgets it.
Over and over again West Virginians are told that Kennedy has steadily won in the presidential primaries, and that voters can give his bandwagon just the push it needs to insure his nomination for president.

Kennedy's opponent in the West Virginia primaries May 10, Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.), is casually dismissed—in public at least—as a man who can't win the nomination, so why bother to vote for him?

Matt Reese, executive secretary of the West Virginians for Kennedy organization, put it this way: "Don't waste your vote on a man who cannot be elected."
This reporter has spent a couple of days with Kennedy in this mad scramble to gain West Virginia's favor. It was something like watching a ballet star trying to dance with a broken leg in a plaster cast.

Kennedy had the occupational disease of politicians—he had lost his voice.
Skeptics noticed that Kennedy mangled a few words everywhere but that his voice seemed to improve miraculously whenever the crowds were large. Here in Parkersburg Sunday, where 4,000 showed up for free sandwiches at an ox roast, he gave a ringing speech in explaining how he couldn't talk.
But certainly Kennedy suffers less in such a situation than other politicians. As they say in sports, he has a powerful bench.
While Kennedy toured the towns along Cabin Creek, coal mining country hard hit by shutdowns, Reese stepped in as a pinch-hitter. A huge 340-pounder, Reese likes to stress Kennedy's war record—and point out that he is the only veteran running.
This is a subtle way of saying that Humphrey, who was deferred because of a hernia, didn't serve in World War II.
"This is a hero," Reese said. "This is a heroic man."
As further evidence of his man's

Gov. Rockefeller Shrugs At Draft

CHICAGO (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, continuing to thrust aside the possibility he will try for the presidency, touched both political and non-political issues in a quick trip here Sunday.
The Republican governor, talking to newsmen, shrugged off the chance he would run for president, either as a Republican or Democrat. Asked about accepting a GOP draft, he said: "The possibility is so remote, it is not worth speculating about."
He assailed racial segregation in a speech at the new University of Chicago Law Center, declaring that Americans who tolerate racial segregation laws are breaking faith with the Founding Fathers and deserved disrespect.

Then he rushed off to make a taped television interview in which he said the United States should offer technical information on birth control to nations which ask it and that the United States should not recognize Red China with the situation as it now exists.
The primary purpose of Rockefeller's visit was to address the law school convocation. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld of the United Nations spoke there later and he urged caution lest the creation of too many independent agencies to handle disarmament and other world issues sap the strength of the United Nations.
Rockefeller has been pressed about his presidential views ever since he said some time ago that he wouldn't make a race against Vice President Richard M. Nixon. But he never has endorsed Nixon and he didn't Sunday when Nixon was in Chicago for an address. They did not meet.

In response to a question about running as a Democrat stemming from a report that Chicago's Democratic Mayor Richard J. Daley put out feelers to Rockefeller he answered: "It would be fantastic." Daley has denied the report.
In his talk at the university, Rockefeller said: "We did not found this nation upon any manner of racist concept, but upon a basic belief in the individual—his worth, his dignity, his freedom."

heroism, Reese said Kennedy was showing up despite doctor's orders that he should have stayed in bed.
In the evening, when the show moved to the Charleston area, Theodore S. Sorenson, Kennedy's administrative assistant, took over. At one stop, at a Unitarian church, Sorenson was able to deal with the religious issue, touchy here because Kennedy is a Roman Catholic campaigner in a Protestant state.
Sorenson said he's a Unitarian, from a family suspicious of Catholics, who has spent eight happy years in Kennedy's employ.
As the campaigners moved from Ravenswood here, through prosperous country along the beautiful Ohio, a new throat was hustled in. This time it was Ted Kennedy, the senator's young brother. Ted not only dusted off Humphrey quickly—"The opponent of my brother here hasn't the slightest chance of becoming president"—but also hinted that Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.) and Stuart Symington (D-Mo) had flunked their homework.
Having spurned the primaries, Ted said, they don't have first-hand knowledge of West Virginia. Since other Kennedys, and numerous hired help, are eager to leap into the game, it's no wonder Humphrey has complained that he sometimes feels he's matched against a small army.
"It makes me wish I were 27 again," said the 42-year-old candidate. "He's full of vim and vigor."
"When he's 35," the senator fondly said, "he can run for president, too."

Handy Is Honored On Beale Street

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — The newest thing on Beale Street is a statue to an oldtime habitué—William Christopher Handy—who went away and made it famous.
Friends and family unveiled a bronze statue to the famed composer of the "St. Louis Blues," "Beale Street Blues" and other sad-sweet songs who drew his inspiration for the blues from Negro life on Memphis' Beale Street.

Handy's son, Bill, and his widow, Louise, both of New York, where Handy died two years ago, pulled a cord to undrape the monument.
Some 2,000 spectators jammed in and around tiny Handy Park, a plot of grass, trees and benches in the midst of city traffic. They heard singers honor him in song, politicians eulogize him and friends recall good times.

WIPE OUT TERMITES ORKIN SINCE 1901 CALL PL 2-5666 WORLD'S LARGEST

U. S. Assailed In Two Hemispheres During May Day

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The United States was blasted in both hemispheres as millions of workers celebrated and Communists paraded their armed might on May Day.

Cuba's Prime Minister Fidel Castro proclaimed "our country or death" in an angry 3 1/2 hour harangue to between 250,000 and 500,000 shouting cubans who turned a May Day rally into an anti-United States demonstration. The crowd was far below the 1 1/2 million the Castro regime had hoped to bring out.

Tokyo demonstrators hanged President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi in effigy and blanketed the capital with placards denouncing ratification of the new U. S. Japan security treaty.

On both sides of the Iron Curtain, parades, rallies and speeches marked the worker's holiday established 61 years ago by the international Socialist Congress. The United States celebrates on the first Monday in September.

Marching troops, guns and rockets were the center attraction in Moscow, where Premier Nikita Khrushchev and other Soviet leaders reviewed the mammoth parade. Thousands of Muscovites applauded the display, but it contained none of the terrifying new weapons Khrushchev talked about in a speech to the Supreme Soviet last January.

Communist East Germany's 110,000-man army - marched through East Berlin in a parade branded by the Western Big three as "a threat to public order."

Communist chief Walter Ulbricht and other East German leaders looked on in front of a huge sign proclaiming "West Berlin will be a free demilitarized city."

Across the city line, Mayor Willy Brandt of West Berlin defied the Soviet threat to the city in a speech before 600,000 cheering followers and called on the Western Allies to remain until Germany is reunited.

About three million Chinese jammed Peiping for a giant May Day carnival that Radio Peiping hailed as the liveliest in the city's history.

More than 400,000 Hungarians marched through Budapest in a parade featuring red flags, white doves and enormous balloons.

About 100,000 Polish workers in Warsaw heard Communist party leader Wladyslaw Gomułka promise that living standards would be raised.

Czechs staged a five-hour parade in Prague. President Antonin Novotny broadcast a pledge that Czechoslovakia would continue to fight alongside Russia against West German "militarism and policy of revenge."

Pope John broadcast from the Vatican a sharp rebuke of atheistic communism and called on workers to emulate St. Joseph the Carpenter of Nazareth. The pontiff did not mention communism by name, but he spoke of "mistaken ideologies that on one hand exalt uncured liberties and on the other suppression of personality."

Norwegian workers paraded in Oslo and protested against South Africa's racial policies and nuclear weapons. Swedish marchers denounced racism also and called for a reprieve from the gas chamber for California kidnaper-terrorist Caryl Chessman.

On Malta about 25,000 supporters of ex-Premier Dom Mintoff, labor leader, marched through Valletta denouncing the British.

About 100,000 Venezuelan labor unionists marched through Caracas. Communist groups cheered the Cuban revolution and denounced the United States.

Thousands of British trade unionists held a peaceful observance in London, Manchester, Birmingham and other industrial cities.

Boy Opens Fight To Escape Chair

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Dennis Whitney, 17-year-old Californian whose frontier-pistol snuffed out seven lives in a casual coast-to-coast robbery spree, began a court battle today to save himself from death in Florida's electric chair.

The red-haired youth went on trial on a first-degree murder charge in the killing of Virginia Selby, 62, a Hialeah, Fla., grandmother whose body was found March 4 in bushes near Jupiter, 80 miles north of Miami.

Whitney confessed he shot Mrs. Selby with a long-barreled .22 caliber pistol when she hit him in the face with a hammer after he had commandeered her car in Miami. He admitted he also killed three men in Arizona, two in Florida and one in California.

The hope of an insanity plea for Whitney was squashed Sunday night by a psychiatrist's report that the sullen teen-ager was sane when he killed Mrs. Selby, and is sane now.

State atty. Phil O'Connell will demand the death penalty. Charles A. Nugent, court-appointed defender of Whitney, said he hoped to prove that the slaying of Mrs. Selby was a case of second or third-degree murder.

If Whitney gets any sentence but death, Dade County (Miami) authorities want to try him for the killing of two service station attendants.

A dragnet was tightening around Whitney for the Miami killings when he stalked into a department store parking lot and climbed into Mrs. Selby's car the night of March 3. One of three service station attendants he admitted shooting had survived to describe Whitney to police.

An artist's conception of Whitney had been printed in a Miami newspaper and it was such a close likeness the jittery youth knew he had to get out of there, he said.

He hadn't minded much about shooting the others, he told police. In his robberies, which netted a total of $500, he said he killed for no particular reason.

But he didn't want to shoot Mrs. Selby, he said. He ordered her to get out of the car. Stubbornly, she refused and rode with him to her death on a lonely road.

A posse tracked Whitney across marshy land from Mrs. Selby's body and cornered him on a canal bank where he surrendered.

Nixon Refuses To Divorce Self From Current Record

CHICAGO (AP) — Retorting to Democratic challenges, vice President Richard M. Nixon says he has no intention of divorcing himself from the record of the Eisenhower administration. Nor, he adds, will he just stand pat on it.

Nixon, considered a shoo-in for the Republican presidential nomination, talking to newsmen and over television, declared Sunday: "I intend, in the field of farm problems, in problems dealing with our cities, in various other areas, to build on from here and to present to the American people my own program for the future at the same time I defend the policies of the past."

Nixon emphasized the farm problem, saying there must be a new one to replace one "everybody agrees is wrong. We need a new approach agreeable to the farmer and to the nation as a whole."

Referring to medical aid for the aged, the vice president said he favored a limited non-compulsory federal program. He conceded this stand was a departure from the views of some members of his party.

Nixon hurled a challenge at Democrats who had criticized him Saturday night by saying he would never be able to divorce himself from the Eisenhower record.

"The eight years of the Eisenhower administration have been the finest record of any administration in history," he said.

"I happen to be very proud of this record," he said again later. "I helped make it."

Nixon asserted that Democratic policy was unchanged since the administration of Harry S. Truman.

"The Truman record is one with which any Democratic candidate will be saddled. And I'd be happy to run on an Eisenhower versus Truman record," Nixon said.

In a contest between the Eisenhower and Truman records, he went on. "I have no doubt of the outcome."

Nixon and his wife, Pat, came to Chicago to address a gathering of the Polish National Alliance. In a speech to some 100,000 persons, he said the United States must never betray the faith of the Poles in their country. His other remarks came in talks with newsmen and in a program telecast over WBBM-TV.

Asked about the farm program, Nixon answered that he is studying a number of plans and "I do not consider myself bound to any school or any rigid policy."

Nixon said the administration will present to Congress next week its medical care for the aged program.

Commenting on Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.), a Roman Catholic who is a leading candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, Nixon said: "If Kennedy were elected president he would put his country and the constitution ahead of religion."

Long Wrong About A Matter Of Cats

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — When a man's wrong, he might as well admit it.

And I can't think of a better time than the eve of National Be-Kind-to-Animals Week to confess that all my life I have been wrong about cats.

When it comes to pets, most folks divide into "dog people" and "cat people." If they keep a dog, they usually don't keep a cat—and don't like cats. If they keep a cat, they usually don't keep a dog—and don't like dogs.

It is only human to be suspicious of anything we don't know well. And that probably explains why in the past most Americans have preferred dogs and been distrustful of cats.

That's the way I felt until Lady Dottie joined our household as a kitten a year and a half ago. She was black and white and had a black dot on the tip of the nose. Strictly alley cat. No more, no less.

As a life-long dog lover, I would have bet Lady Dottie wouldn't last out the month in our home. But now she owns us and everything in it.

At first I would have nothing to do with her, and she showed an equal lack of ardor toward me. As we got more used to each other, however, I learned a basic difference between dogs and cats. A dog tends to be everybody's pal; he wants the world to like him. But a cat selects her own society, and doesn't worry about public opinion.

Our cat has at least two distinct personalities. By day she is a sleek, plush-footed Grover Whalens, greeting visitors with all the dignity and calm of an ancient Chinese mandarin.

But at night she roams the house like a dozen clumsy burglars, pushing over wastebaskets, tumbling books from the shelves, knocking expensive table lamps to the floor. The furniture she breaks costs more than the food she eats.

The charge that cats, unlike dogs, don't really have a sense of gratitude isn't really true. Lady Dottie knows how to say "thank you." She just doesn't believe it's necessary to shout her gratitude out loud—as a dog does.

Just when I quit disliking Lady Dottie and became her servant I don't know. Cats have an invisible way of inflicting their sense of ownership over you.

And sooner or later they'll probably own the country. They are gaining a steady victory over their old enemy, the dog.

The last pet census showed Americans have 28 million cats, only 26 million dogs.

Rover has met his master.

Drop Search For Missing Airman

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—The controversial school-bus bill, increasing the distance that New York public schools must transport pupils of both public and private schools, was law today.

But cities will be exempted from its provisions. This will represent a major change in the legislation, subject of strong religious pressures.

Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller said he signed the legislation with the understanding it would be amended to exclude cities before it took effect Sept. 1, 1961.

The law will apply essentially to districts that now provide transportation. These must offer it equally to public and private schools. Most of the latter are Roman Catholic parochial schools.

The districts will be required to transport pupils up to 10 miles each way. The present maximum is 8 miles.

Canada's Pay TV Appears Off To Good Start

By MAX HARRELSON
 TORONTO (AP) — Canada's pay TV experiment seems off to a good start.

It's too early to tell whether the project will prove successful, but several customers and the sponsors say they are happy.

The operation began two months ago with installations in 1,000 homes in Etobicoke, a Toronto suburb. The system now includes 2,500 homes, with about 300 more each week. The aim is 10,000-12,000 by the end of the year.

The project, called Trans Canada Telemeter, has overcome many of the difficulties which beset other pay TV plans.

Installation is simple. The customer pays $5 to connect to the service. Then he drops coins in the slots whenever he wants to watch a first-run film, a hockey game or some other program.

Henry Griffing, U.S. theater owner who experimented with pay TV in Bartlesville, Okla., in 1957, calls the Etobicoke system the greatest innovation since talking pictures.

"I am convinced," he said, "that Telemeter completely solves all the problems I encountered in Bartlesville."

This system was developed by Paramount Pictures in experiments going back to 1951. Trans Canada Telemeter is owned by a Paramount subsidiary, Famous Players Canadian Corp., Canada's biggest distributor of movies. Eugene E. Fitzgibbons, director of TV activities for Famous Players, says: "We are delighted with the way things have gone so far, but it may take a year of study before we know the full results."

The main unanswered question is whether customers will pay enough to make the project yield a profit.

Telemeter officials say the intake must amount to about $2 a week for each participant. This is needed to pay for the initial investment of the company in the intricate coin boxes, the trunk cables and the operations center as well as day-to-day operating costs.

Fitzgibbons says he can't draw any conclusions until they get installations in 5,000 or 6,000 homes and pick up the coin boxes at least two or three times.

This correspondent checked at a number of homes. In every case the subscriber said he was satisfied and that he probably will spend $2 a week on a telemeter.

W. E. Foster, with telemeter for four weeks, had seen three or four movies and four hockey games.

"It's good if you use it within reason," he said.

Mrs. J. C. Dennison said she watched films every weekend and had seen all four hockey games carried by Telemeter.

Mrs. W. Croft said: "We like to go to the movies, but it's difficult to get out when you have two school age kids and there's always the cost of a baby-sitter." Telemeter's operations chief, William Crampton, cites two main reasons for picking Etobicoke as a pilot area. Almost everybody in the upper middle class suburb has a TV set and can afford to pay for television viewing if it is made attractive enough.

Second, it is a good testing area since viewers have the widest choice of free TV in Canada—three Buffalo, N.Y., stations carrying U.S. networks, a Toronto station of Canadian Broadcasting Corp. and a privately owned station in Hamilton, Ont.

It is only a 10-minute operation to hook up the coin box and outside wire at a home. The one wire offers three channels in addition to those already available on free TV. Two of the pay channels are devoted to first-run movies and operate only in the evening. The cost of seeing a movie is $1, though some children's weekend matinees cost 25 cents.

The third channel is available for sports, including hockey, fights, baseball and other events not shown on free TV. It also is used for showing "adult" films late at night. Telemeter officials hope to make available other pay programs on this channel, including Broadway plays and concerts.

The channel now operates free during the day, carrying mainly music and public service programs, such as panel discussions, neighborhood events and religious services.

Cautions Against Govm't Borrowing And Spending

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Commerce Frederick H. Mueller cautioned today that the "scarring 60s" could turn into the "slump 60s" if the government pursues a course of borrowing and spending.

In an address prepared for the 48th annual meeting of the United States Chamber of Commerce, Mueller predicted 1960 would be the most prosperous year, and the 1960s the most prosperous decade, in history.

But this will depend, he said, on keeping private enterprise free from "excessive government-made burdens and from a fatal dose of inflation."

Several thousand businessmen and guests, opening the three-day chamber convention, were to hear also an informal talk by President Eisenhower.

Mueller said he was proud to speak for a Republican administration which strives to "maintain a climate favorable to private initiative."

"During the last seven years, the American people have had more jobs, more new homes, new schools, new hospitals and higher income than in any previous seven years," Mueller said.

"The gross national product is close to 500 billion dollars — the all-time record. Business responsibility today is to help America to stay on that right course."

But the secretary told the delegates that the 290-billion-dollar federal debt, plus future commitments on government projects, plus the liabilities building up against government retirement and pension funds and other obligations, "amount to a mortgage on future earnings of nearly three-fourths of a trillion dollars."

"Yet with all those obligations hovering over this decade, the spendthrift chorus has not yet lost its voice," Mueller said.

Mueller cited the government's new export expansion program as an example of the correct approach to economic growth—providing advice and services to help private industry sell goods abroad and thereby stimulate business and employment at home.

"We firmly believe that it is not the wise course or the right purpose of the federal government to compete with private enterprise, harass private enterprise and drain from the bloodstream of the economy the savings urgently needed for investment in private production, private jobs and private growth," he said.

The U.S. Chamber's president, Erwin D. Canham told the delegates their meeting exemplifies America's genius for voluntary action. Without voluntarism, he said, "our society would be statist, it would be regimented to totalitarianism."

Canham is editor of the Christian Science Monitor.

UNC Student Shoots Himself

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — "I'm going to do the most foolish thing I ever did in my life."

Police said those were the words of George Wendell Vogel Jr., 20-year-old University of North Carolina Junior, before he fired a .38 caliber pistol bullet into his head Sunday afternoon.

Vogel, from Yonkers, N.Y., died in North Carolina Memorial Hospital a few hours after the shooting.

Two men students and a girl were with Vogel on the porch of a rooming house a few blocks from the campus when the shooting occurred. Officers said the three witnesses reported Vogel had appeared to be fooling with the gun. They said he gave no indication he planned to take his life.

Orange County Coroner A. H. Walker ruled the death a suicide.

Found Wealth Among His Rags

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Clinton Fleming, 86, a retired railroader, collapsed Sunday in a cafeteria in a section of town filled with down-and-outers.

In his tattered clothing, hospital attendants found nine $1,000 U.S. savings bonds, 13 $500 bonds, $400 in cash and a bank book revealing his total worth at close to $30,000.

"I worked 28 years for the railroad and I saved what I earned and invested it wisely," Fleming said. "I never married, you see."

Beverly Faces Custody Hearing

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Beverly Aadland faces a custody hearing today that could place her in a juvenile home.

The 17-year-old actress, last love of the late Errol Flynn, has been detained by juvenile authorities since the fatal shooting of Billy Stanciu, 21, in Beverly's apartment. She claims he was shot accidentally.

Her mother, Florence Aadland, 53, has been charged with five counts of contributing to the girl's delinquency.

Thieves Practice Safe-Cracking

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — A weekend workshop in cracking safes was held by burglars who broke into the Ballam Safe Co.

Besides burning and peeling off safe doors, apparently for practice, the thieves tinkered with safe mechanisms and jugged off every item of safe-cutting equipment they could find—plus two safes.

Loss and damage was estimated at $7,000.

Mental Health Week Proclaimed Here

PROCLAMATION SIGNED . . . by Mayor West (left) proclaiming Mental Health Week as Pitt County Mental Health Association Pres. E. O. Parkinson Jr. looks on.

Greenville Mayor S. Eugene West called on Greenville citizens in a proclamation today to observe May 1-7 as Mental Health Week by joining in "Operation Friendship" and visit a mental hospital during the week.

The mayor signed the proclamation this morning designating the special observance week for mental health, sponsored by the Pitt County Mental Health Association.

The association and its officers are planning various types of promotional programs during the week-long observance.

The signed proclamation pointed out that "satisfactory progress" for "hundreds of thousands of mental patients is dependent on the awareness that their friends, neighbors and relatives have not forgotten them."

It continued, "Progress in the care and treatment of these mentally ill is also dependent on public awareness and enlightenment and it is to the advantage of all concerned—the mentally ill and the mentally well—that everything be done to help the mentally ill and to conquer the nation's number one health problem."

Officers of the Pitt association are E. O. Parkinson Jr., president; Frank G. Fuller, vice-president; Mrs. M. P. Bailey, secretary; and R. H. Staton, treasurer.

Demand Electing New Assembly

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — Nearly 30,000 South Korean college and high school students today defined the martial law ban on demonstrations to demand election of a new National Assembly.

The demonstrations were orderly.

High schools opened today for the first time since the nationwide uprising which overthrew President Syngman Rhee last week.

had taken no part in the demonstrations. He said all are members of the local chapter of the Congress of Racial Equality, an organization that has staged numerous sit-ins.

At Durham, N.C., a white man and two teen-age Negroes face trial on assault and battery charges in connection with a racial free-for-all at a drug store lunch counter Saturday involving about 20 persons.

Willie Burt, 17, a Negro, suffered a brain concussion before police broke up the melee. His condition was reported satisfactory at a hospital.

Jackie Robinson, pioneer Negro player in major league baseball, said at Raleigh, N.C., that Negroes were shying away from the presidential bid of Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass).

Robinson told newsmen the Massachusetts senator would have to "repudiate confidence in Gov. John Patterson of Alabama" to appeal to Negro voters. He expressed a preference for Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn) among presidential hopefuls.

The former ballplayer, now an executive of a New York restaurant chain, criticized President Eisenhower's record on civil rights, saying "the President is more interested in golf than he is in civil rights."

At Louisville, Ky., the Rev. James M. Lawson of Nashville, Tenn., told a state NAACP conference Negroes are seeking to raise a moral issue and speed the change toward a better social system by lunch counter sit-ins.

"At some point, American has got to stop running and face its responsibility," he said. Lawson was expelled from the Vanderbilt University Divinity School for his part in Nashville demonstrations.

ON THE HOUSE

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

Getting ready to buy a house? Ever think that it might be a good idea to talk to your banker even before you start looking? Well, it would. And here's why: Your local banker is experienced in all phases of home purchasing. Since processing and granting mortgage loans is an important part of his daily business, he knows all the reputable builders and brokers in the area. He wants a happy relationship with the home buyer and is just as anxious as you are for the success of your financial step in making the purchase.

Can Provide Answers
He can provide you with the answer to a very important question—how much house can you afford? There are certain rules of thumb in this matter, but they may not apply to you. All families have objectives that are not the same, as they have problems that are not identical. Your age, health, debts, responsibilities, earning prospects, size of family and assets all will be taken into consideration by your banker in advising you how much you can spend for a house.

Generally, a family with an annual income ranging between $5,000 and $15,000 per year can afford a house costing about 2½ times the annual income. To put it another way, the monthly charges of your home—including the amortization of the mortgage, interest, taxes and insurance—should not exceed 25 per cent of your monthly take-home pay. But there may be special reasons why you do not have to follow this theory. You may have a debt that would make it unwise for you to spend as much for a house as another family with the identical income. Or there may be a reason why you can spend more; you may have enough liquid assets to carry you over a rough financial period should it occur.

Large Down as Possible
Most home buyers feel that a 25 or 30-per cent mortgage with a low down payment is a wonderful deal for them. It is true that it may enable some persons to buy homes they couldn't otherwise handle. But you generally are better off and certainly will save money if you can make as large a down payment as possible and pay off the mortgage as quickly as possible.

Dr. Kurt Flexner of the Mortgage Division of the American Bankers Assn., points out that, with a 15-year mortgage of $10,000, you will pay about $3,500 less than with a 25-year mortgage of the same amount. True, everyone can not afford the larger down payment nor the larger monthly payments that would be necessary with a 15-year mortgage. There again is where your banker comes in. Give him all the essential financial details and he can advise you on what type of mortgage plan is best for you.

Runaway Cheryl Almost Captured

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Lana Turner's runaway 16-year-old daughter, Cheryl Crane, and two girl companions narrowly escaped capture Sunday night by police staked out at the home of a friend of one of the girls.

Officers said the friend, a former inmate of the county-operated home for girls from which the three escaped Friday night, tipped them over the phone not to show up.

Police gave this account: A telephone call was received at the friend's house from Donna Wilson, 15, who, with Cheryl Crane and Cheryl Zumbrum, 16, scaled an 11-foot fence and fled the El Retiro home for girls in Sylmar. Sylmar is a few miles north of Hollywood. Long Beach is about 25 miles south.

Donna telephoned her friend that she and the other "will be down tonight after dark."

Officers learned of this, went to the house and waited. Late Sunday night Donna telephoned again. Officers eavesdropping on the line heard her ask her friend: "We're on Pacific Coast Highway—how do we get to your place?"

The friend described the route, then, before officers could stop her blurted: "Don't show up or there will be trouble."

The friend was taken to juvenile headquarters and booked for violation of parole. Officers did not identify her.

In Palm Springs, Calif., Miss Turner's response to this was: "I'm heartsick. Now we just don't have a clue."

Two years ago Cheryl fatally stabbed Johnny Stompanato, Miss Turner's hoodlum lover, in the actress' bedroom. Miss Turner testified Stompanato had threatened her, Cheryl and Miss Turner's mother. A coroner's jury returned a verdict of justifiable homicide.

Duke Opens Trip In Palmetto State Today

UNDATED ACC BASEBALL By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Duke's front-running Blue Devils open a three-game trip into South Carolina today...

The game is one of five—all in the conference—set today. All eight teams are scheduled. Duke (4-1 in the ACC) meets South Carolina (2-6) before swinging over to Clemson for games Tuesday and Wednesday...

But before Coach Bill Wilhelm can concern his Tigers with Duke, they must meet Wake Forest in a twin-bill today. The Deacons are in a three-way tie for third with a 4-3 conference record.

Rounding out today's card, North Carolina (4-3) and also tied for third) travels to Maryland (4-4) and North Carolina State (4-3) and also tied for third, too) visits lowly Virginia (2-6).

In all, 17 games are set for conference teams this week. Thirteen will count toward the championship.

The week's schedule: Today—Duke at South Carolina, Wake Forest at Clemson (2), North Carolina at Maryland, North Carolina State at Virginia.

Major League Stars

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. Batting—Bill Bruton, Braves—Led Milwaukee to 5-4 victory over Philadelphia with five hits, including his first homer of the year and a double.

Pitching—Gerry Staley and Frank Baumann, White Sox—turned in brilliant relief pitching jobs in doubleheader sweep over Detroit 6-3, 5-2.

Pre-Season Line On Pirates Was Way Off Base; Win Ninth 13-2

By JACK HAND Associated Press Sports Writer The pre-season line on Pittsburgh's "Sound defense, good speed, thin pitching, lacks power." This is the same club that scored 12 runs Saturday and 13 runs Sunday while stretching its winning streak to nine games, the club's longest since 1944.

What happened? The batting averages tell part of the story: Smoky Burgess, .438; Roberto Clemente, .377; Dick Groat, .349; Bob Skinner, .327. The pitching records tell the rest: Vern Law 4-0, Bob Friend 3-0.

Law has come into his own to gain belated recognition as one of the very best pitchers in the National League. Overshadowed by Friend in previous years, Law compiled a brilliant 18-9 season last year only to play second fiddle to Elroy Face's sensational relief pitching (18-1) stopping Law this season. His fourth straight Sunday was a sound nine-inning over Cincinnati 13-2. He grew steadily better as the game went on, allowing only three harmless singles after the third inning.

Clemente got the Pirates off winging with a bases loaded home run off Don Newcombe in the first inning. Bill Mazeroski followed with a three-run homer in the eighth.

Pittsburgh's Sunday victory opened up a two-game lead on idle San Francisco which, like Los Angeles, had an unusual Sunday open date.

Billy Bruton collected five hits, including his first homer of the year, in Milwaukee's 5-4 victory over Philadelphia. Don McMahon rescued Lew Burdette in the ninth after a three-run rally had left the Phils only one short of a tie.

Tony Taylor was the big man for the Chicago Cubs, driving in three runs with his four hits in a 5-4 decision over St. Louis. Don Elston's fine relief work as the third Cub pitcher saved the victory for starter Glen Hobbie.

Chicago look over the undisputed American League lead for the first time by whipping Detroit twice 6-3 and 5-2. Cleveland swept a pair from Kansas City 6-4 and 3-1 and Baltimore whipped New York 9-5. A Washington-Boston doubleheader was rained out.

Nieder Wins Shot Put Event

DES MOINES, Iowa. (AP) — Ever had a good look at those fellows who can throw a 16-pound shot more than 60 feet? They are big, around the 250-mark, and mostly muscle. They are silent when performing. Set to throw, they take a big gulp of air. They crouch. They spring across the ring. They give a last, mighty effort. Up, up, out and out goes the shot. Down it thuds, burying itself in the sod. "Wow!" roared the crowd at the Drake Relays which saw Bill Nieder, Parry O'Brien and Dave Davis send the shot past the 60-foot mark 12 times.

None had a legal put of less than 60 feet. Nieder, the smallest of the trio at 240 pounds, won the AAU event Saturday with a record toss of 63-11½, but still far back of his best throw of 65-7.

O'Brien, two-time Olympic winner, was second with 63-1¼. Davis, who has a throw of 64-10 to his credit, could manage only 61-9¼. The victory boosted Nieder's stock for a berth on the U.S. Olympic team.

He was voted the meet's outstanding performer as rain and 45-degree weather hampered other athletes.

Other new marks were a 15 feet ¼ inch pole vault by Oklahoma's JD. Martin; Central Michigan's college mile relay of 3:12.2, and a 14:35.7 5,000-meter run by Bud Edelen of Minneapolis in the first running of the event at Drake. NS5 a ogyxywyf dg 2

Closed Entry List For Race

DARLINGTON, S.C. (AP)—The entry list has closed for the fourth annual Rebel 300 late model convertible race Saturday, with a record field of 47 fillies.

The $42,500 purse apparently attracted what raceway manager Bob Colvin called "the finest and fastest field we've ever had."

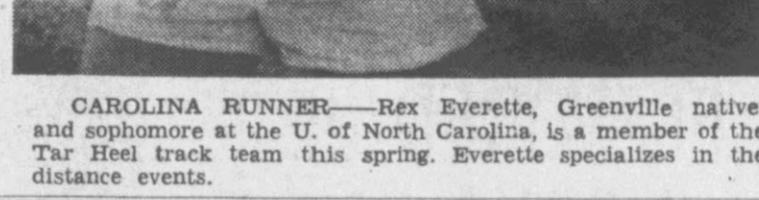

Time trials Thursday and Friday will cut the starting field for the 2:30 p.m. (EST) Memorial Day race to 36 cars.

Among favorites are Glen Roberts of Daytona Beach, Fla., who has won twice previously, and Curtis Turner of Charlotte, another former winner.

A crowd of 35,000 is expected for the 300 mile race that will be run under sanction of the National Assn. for Stock Car Auto Racing.

ECC Clings To Top Spot With 4-2 Win Over Elon

BURLINGTON — Luck-laden drove in two of the base runners. East Carolina scored four big runs in the second inning here Saturday afternoon and choked off several late inning spurts by Elon for a 4-2 victory in a North State Conference encounter.

Climaxing their final road trip of the season, the Pirates of Coach Jim Mallory rolled to their sixth conference triumph of the season behind the six-hit pitching of Larry Crayton. The win left East Carolina in first place with a 6-1 record.

ECC skipper, Jim Mallory, shuffled his lineup for one of the few times this season and it paid off in dividends in the second inning when Wilbur Castellow sliced a double to open the scoring in a four-run inning.

Accustomed to batting second in the lineup, Castellow was shifted to the eighth spot after a recent hitting slump. The lanky third baseman responded at his new slot after Gary Pierce and Glenn Bass walked in the second inning and Charlie Johnson was safe by virtue of a fielder's choice.

Castellow's one-out double hit a single to score Castellow from second, climaxing the scoring for East Carolina.

Elon pushed across a single run in the fourth frame and added another in the "final bid" ninth inning.

Working the distance for his seventh victory of the season, Crayton had an unusual streak of wildness. He issued eleven base on balls and struck out eight.

Gary Henson, the Elon loser, limited the defending North State champs to only five hits and struck out five. The Christian hurler issued only three walks but two of them came in the fatal second inning.

The Bucs return to Greenville this week attempting to lay further claim to another conference title. Red-hot Lenoir Rhyne is in town for a doubleheader in Guy Smith Stadium Friday night and second place Catawba will meet ECC under the lights on Saturday.

ECC Faces Big Test Saturday

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Catawba College's baseball team bid for East Carolina's No. 1 perch in the North State Conference baseball race this week.

ECC's 6-1 conference record is tested three times this week—all at home. The Pirates entertain fourth-place Lenoir Rhyne (6-4) in two games Friday night and on Saturday night, Catawba visits Greenville in a vital contest.

Catawba, No. 2 with an 8-2 mark, must beat third place Guilford (6-2) and Atlantic Christian (0-6) to keep pace with ECC.

The standings, after fourth-place Lenoir Rhyne, have Elon (5-3) fifth, High Point (3-4), Appalachian (3-7), Western Carolina (1-7) and Atlantic Christian (0-6). No games are scheduled today.

The rest of the week's baseball card: Tuesday—Elon at High Point, Guilford at Catawba.

Thursday—Guilford at Elon, Lenoir Rhyne at High Point (2).

Friday—Lenoir Rhyne at East Carolina (2-night), High Point at Western Carolina, Catawba at Atlantic Christian.

Saturday—Catawba at East Carolina (N), High Point at Western Carolina, Atlantic Christian at Norfolk William and Mary.

Eller Tries For Second Title

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Young Curtis copper Jody Eller started after her second straight Women's Southern Amateur Golf title today with her chief competitor a Texas veteran who has won the crown five times.

Miss Eller, the pretty 19-year-old pride of Old Hickory Tenn., leaves in two weeks for the Curtis Cup matches against the British. But for the next six days, her chief worry will be to retain the championship she won at Birmingham, Ala., last year.

The consensus is that Miss Eller is the one to beat, but she figures to get a big argument from Polly Riley of Fort Worth, Tex.

Miss Riley, who makes a hobby of collecting Southern golf titles, lost to Miss Eller 2 and 1 in the gripping 36-hole final round last year.

The qualifying round to determine the 32 entries in the championship flight was on tap today with 160 golfers shooting for the coveted berths. Match plays starts Tuesday with the finals set for Saturday.

Smith Wins Amateur Tourney Over Green

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP) — Charles Smith of Gastonia, N.C., for many years known principally as the younger brother of Dave Smith, the self-styled "Big 'Un," has come into his own as a top notch amateur golfer.

When Charles beat college sophomore Peter Green 5 and 3 Saturday in the finale of the North and South Tournament, he established himself as a player in his own right.

No longer need he be identified primarily as the brother of 240-pound, 6-5 Dave who is one of the longest hitters in amateur golf. Charles, who is 29, is a strong 6-1, 210-pounder and a graduate of The Citadel, South Carolina's military college at Charleston. The brothers operate an automobile agency at Gastonia.

The victory over Green, 19-year-old from Franklin, Mich., and the University of North Carolina, gave Charles his first major championship and a new confidence based on the knowledge that he can beat top amateurs.

En route to the finals match he knocked off Roger McManus, National Amateur semifinalist two years ago; Dick Chapman, winner of many national and international titles; and his brother Dave, the latter by the widest margin, 8 and 7.

Green 13 over for their 33 holes around the No. 2 course of the Country Club. It was a long-playing 7,007-yarder and the devilishly tricky pin placements on many holes were enough to make the weekend golfer shudder.

Brazil Joins 14 Clubs In Tourney

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Brazil's tennis stars joined 14 other nations in the second round of the European Zone Davis Cup Tennis competition Sunday without playing a match.

The Brazilians were scheduled to meet Turkey in Istanbul but the matches were called off as the result of student riots against the Turkish regime. Martial law forced cancellation of all sports gatherings.

Only one match is yet to be decided in the first round. In that one Luxembourg leads Monaco 2-1. The final two singles matches will decide the issue Monday.

The second round pairings, which must be completed by May 15, are: Spain vs. Sweden; Poland vs. West Germany; France vs. Argentina; Denmark vs. Austria; Brazil vs. Belgium; Holland vs. Great Britain; Hungary vs. Italy and Chile vs. the Luxembourg-Monaco winner.

Furman Sweeps Into Tie For SC First Place

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Furman's streaking baseball team visits Williamsburg today for a crucial Southern Conference doubleheader.

The Hornets have won five straight conference games while sweeping into a tie with The Citadel for the league lead. By stretching this streak to seven today, they'd become the team to beat for the conference championship.

The Citadel has just as fine an opportunity as Furman to win the championship. Its 5-1 record matches that of the Hornets and the Bulldogs also have four games ahead, the last two at Davidson next week.

Not to be counted out yet, either, are such contenders as Richmond (4-2), West Virginia (5-3) and George Washington (3-3), who could take it all if disaster should overtake The Citadel and Furman down the stretch.

There are 17 games for conference teams this week, 11 of them intra-conference skirmishes which could dispel some confusion.

Today—Furman at William and Mary (2); George Washington at Richmond. Tuesday—Pitt at West Virginia; Pfeiffer at Davidson (2). Wednesday—Virginia Tech at George Washington; South Carolina at The Citadel.

Thursday—VMI at William and Mary. Friday—VMI at Richmond; Davidson at Virginia Tech; The Citadel at Furman.

Deals Start Looking Good For Tribe; Chisox Take First Place

By JACK HAND Associated Press Writer When Frank Lane traded away Cal McLish, his 19-game winner, the Cleveland Indians announced that they were going to gamble with young pitchers.

Wynn Hawkins and Dick Stigman, two 24-year-old members of the 1960 rookie crop, made General Manager Lane and Manager Joe Gordon look good Sunday when they managed complex games in a doubleheader sweep over Kansas City.

Hawkins, a right-hander from the Mobile farm, allowed 10 hits but lasted nine innings to win his second game 6-4 with the help of five runs batted in on two homers by Bubba Phillips.

Stigman, a southpaw out of San Diego, turned in a steady six-hit effort in the 3-1 second game, won by Vic Powers's two-run single.

Despite the success of these precocious Indians, the defending champion Chicago White Sox took over the undisputed American League lead for the first time this season. The White Sox whipped Detroit 6-3 and 5-2 on the relief pitching of Gerry Staley and Frank Baumann.

Baltimore's young Chuck Estrada survived a three-run first inning and went all the way to a 9-5 decision over the New York Yankees. A Washington-Boston doubleheader was rained out.

35th Straight

Defending North State champion, East Carolina, won its 35th straight conference tennis match here Saturday afternoon, defeating Elon 7-6.

John West, Durham senior, who has won all but one match since enrolling at ECC, led the victory with 6-1 and 7-5 decisions over the Christians' top netter.

The East Carolina netters were scheduled to meet Atlantic Christian today.

In the National League, Pittsburgh won its ninth straight, humbling Cincinnati again 13-2. It was the longest Pirate winning streak since 1944. Milwaukee edged Philadelphia 5-4 and Chicago shaded St. Louis 5-4. Los Angeles and San Francisco had an open date.

Hawkins might have needed relief if it hadn't been for Phillips' slugging. He was nicked for two homers by Norm Siebern and one by Whitey Herzog among the 10 Kansas City hits. The Indians piled up an early lead off loser Ned Garver.

Bill Collins Holds Two Stroke Lead Over Palmer

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Big, blond Bill Collins, who claims he doesn't even think of the pressure, led the Houston Classic golf tournament into its final round today but the story still was: Will Arnold Palmer make it six?

Collins, the man from Baltimore who plays his golf out of Crystal River, Fla., shot a 4-under-par 68 Sunday to snare the lead by two strokes over Palmer, the Masters champion from Ligonier, Pa., who has won five tournaments this year and is the greatest money earner for the period involved in golfing history. He has banked $44,257.

Collins had 205 for 54 holes. Palmer, who shot a 70 in the third round, had 207.

This is not a very long lead for a fellow having to fight off the hottest man in golf today. But Collins professed not to be thinking of the pressure.

Collins attributed his show's here largely to a driver he borrowed from his golfing friend, Fred Gronauer of Briarcliff, N.Y. "I was driving so badly with my No. 1 wood that I often used a No. 1 iron until I got this driver," Collins declared.

Palmer was looking at the scoreboard Sunday when he came to the eighteenth green. He was finishing just ahead of Collins and at that time was three strokes behind. He ran down an 18-foot putt for a birdie and looked confident as he strode off the green.

Collins wound up 11 under par for 54 holes. Palmer was nine under.

The third round began with Collins, Palmer and Jack Fleck of Los Angeles, former National Open champion, tied for the lead at 137. Fleck held the pace for nine holes and was tied with Collins for the lead, both a stroke ahead of Palmer. But Fleck bogeyed the last hole by 3-putting.

WEIGH IN TODAY SYDNEY (AP) — Rudell Stitch of Louisville, Ky., weighed 144 1/2 pounds and Ralph Dupas of New Orleans weighed 146 1/2 at the weigh-in today for their 12-round fight at Sydney Stadium tonight.

It was James Ellis who observed: "Better an ugly face than an ugly mind."

Stigman helped himself in the second game. He started a rally with a single to open the fifth. After a sacrifice and a single by Johnny Temple, the pitcher bumped into catcher Harry Chitt at the plate and the catcher dropped the ball. The only run off the lefty was unearned.

The Yankees who had humbled Baltimore 16-0 Saturday afternoon, started out as though they planned to do the same thing Sunday. They scored three in the first on Estrada but faded when the Orioles attacked three New York pitchers for six runs in the fourth inning.

Baumann, former Boston Red Sox left-hander, took over for Dick Donovan with two out in the first inning of the second game and Detroit leading 2-0. He shut out the Tigers the rest of the way, allowing only three hits. Luis Aparicio, who had driven in a run in the first game, snapped out of his slump with three RBIs in the second game.

Algebra Proves 'Duck Soup' In The First Grade

BALTIMORE (AP) — Algebra may be a tough subject for high school students, but it's duck soup for the first graders.

That's the theory that is being put into practice at several elementary schools here. To be sure, the algebra itself is elementary. But it is at least an introduction, and by the time these pupils are in the sixth grade they can expect to be working equations with two unknowns.

They start out with simple equations: 5 plus X equals 8, what is X? In the second grade this might become (3 plus 2) plus X equals 8, what is X? A second grader might also get problems like X minus 5 equals 2, and 3 minus 2 plus X equals 8.

You might say that algebra is being downgraded. Normally, it's a subject taken in the 9th, 10th or 11th grades. But more and more schools across the country are offering it in the 7th or 8th grades, particularly to the brighter students.

There are even several experimental programs underway where algebra is being taught in the 3rd, 4th and 5th grades. Virginia C. Simmons, writing in the April issue of Harper's, said she was teaching elementary algebra to her five-year-old kindergarten pupils.

Mrs. Simmons, however, was teaching in a private school, with a maximum of 20 pupils. She acknowledged that a teacher with 30 to 40 pupils faces an impossible task regarding algebra.

These teachers who favor early introduction of algebra say that children like to play with numbers and that by solving various algebraic problems they come to understand how mathematics has been constructed.

Daniel M. Rochowiak, vice principal of the Margaret Brent elementary school in Baltimore, said the new approach adds meaning to mathematics early in school.

Rochowiak, who helped develop the program here, said "Students will understand the basic laws of mathematics and then will be able to apply them without great difficulty."

"Some (high school) students have difficulty with equations because the fundamentals were not taught early in school."

Sponsoring 'Sing' On Wednesday

At an "All Sing" Wednesday, May 4, sororities and fraternities of the Interfraternity and Panhellenic Councils at East Carolina College will compete for possession during the coming year of a plaque on which the name of the winning groups will be inscribed.

The Alpha Xi Delta sorority is sponsor of the sing, the first of which is held at the college. The public is invited to be present at 7:30 p.m. in the McGinnis auditorium.

Each participating group will present during the entertainment two songs and other entertainment. Taking part will be the following sororities and fraternities: Delta Zeta, Kappa Delta, Chi Omega, Lambda Chi Alpha, Sigma Nu, Kappa Alpha, Sigma Phi Epsilon, and Alpha Xi Delta.

Patricia Smith of Conway, college senior, is in charge of arrangements for the "All Sing."

Sen. Johnson's Supporters Prepare Convention Nomination Strategy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Supporters of Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex) have mapped out a convention strategy by which they hope to hoist him to the 600-vote mark on the second Democratic presidential ballot.

Their possibly over-optimistic forecasts of rising strength for the Senate Democratic leader are based on a quick collapse of the bid of Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass) for the nomination.

Although results of the May 10 West Virginia primary may upset current calculations, knowledgeable Democrats now believe Johnson and Kennedy will go into the first balloting with about 450 each of the 761 votes needed to win the nomination.

Unless he has nearly sewed up the prize before the convention opens, Kennedy seems more vulnerable to second-ballot losses than Johnson. The Massachusetts senator has some more or less reluctant first ballot support in states like Ohio and Maryland which could break away fast.

Johnson's strength in the South appears more likely to hold firm. His backers think that if he could benefit by a Kennedy slide on the second ballot, he might be able to go all the way in the end. But they obviously don't yet have in sight the necessary 761 votes.

The Johnson camp is inclined to downgrade the chance that Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo) might be the beneficiary of an early Kennedy slump. In the Johnson view, Symington can win only if the convention turns into a donnybrook and fails to name a nominee in eight or 10 ballots.

The logistics of this reasoning elevate Adlai E. Stevenson, twice the nominee, as Johnson's most serious threat. But the Texas senators friends say they doubt at this point that Stevenson can surmount what they call the "can't win" psychology built up by two defeats.

Johnson's chief goals at this stage of the pre-convention campaign are to shake off the sectional tag Texas gives him and to convince the party that it can win the presidency on the strength of a middle-of-the-road record of accomplishments in Congress.

At a Saturday night dinner to raise funds for this year's congressional races, Johnson replied indirectly to critics who have contended that as Senate majority leader he has been too willing to cooperate with the Republican administration.

"We can always be proud that we tried to make divided government work," Johnson said. "It would have been deceptively simple to have taken advantage of divided government to seek to embarrass the opposition."

Principal speaker at the dinner was former President Harry S. Truman, who steadfastly declined to say whom he supports for the party's nomination.

Truman said the record of the Democratic Congress "is so much better than the Republican record that it's not even close."

"We shall read the record on them time and time again—from Maine to Hawaii and from Florida to Alaska," he said.

Then, in a sarcastic reference to Vice President Richard M. Nixon, he said: "Now don't you feel sorry for the poor Republican candidate for president? Just think how—in addition to all his natural handicaps—he has to suffer under the burden of carrying on his back an administration like this."

In Chicago Sunday, Nixon commented that Democratic policy hadn't changed since Truman's administration.

"The Truman record is one with which any Democratic candidate will be saddled. And I'd be happy to run on an Eisenhower versus Truman record," Nixon said.

Gastonia Editor Dies Sunday After Illness

GASTONIA, N.C. (AP) — The editor of the Gastonia Gazette, Ben E. Atkins Sr., 52, died Sunday in a Charlotte hospital. He had been on the staff of the family-owned Gazette for 33 years and had served as editor and president of the Gazette Publishing Co. since 1954.

His illness began about a year ago and had been critical for two weeks. Atkins failed to rally after abdominal surgery.

Funeral and burial service will be held here Tuesday.

The Gazette was purchased by Atkins' grandfather, and turned into a daily in the 1920s. Ben E. began as a reporter on the newspaper following graduation from Duke University in 1927.

Atkins leaves his widow, the former Estelle Garland; two sons, Ben E. Jr., of the Gazette's classified advertising department, and Garland, a Charlotte News staffer; his father, James W. Atkins, Gazette publisher, and a brother, Stewart, vice president of the company.

Reynolds Divorce Suit Is Begun

DARIEN, Ga. (AP) — Divorce proceedings brought by tobacco heir R. J. Reynolds open today in a small courtroom in a Georgia coastal county.

Reynolds, 54, who charges cruelty, seeks a divorce from Muriel Marston Reynolds, 41. Both have been married twice before.

Mrs. Reynolds is contesting the divorce. If it is granted she asks alimony of $200,000 annually or a lump sum of six million dollars.

Reynolds, ill at his home on nearby Sapelo Island, was not expected to be present. How ill he was expected to be the first item for argument when Superior Court Judge Henry Durrence opens the case.

Telephone-Users Going On Strike

TIJUANA, Mexico (AP) — This city's 5,500 telephone subscribers are scheduled to strike today. The weapon—leaving the telephone receivers off the hook.

Representatives of organizations fighting the billing procedures and call limits of the Compania Telefonica Fronteriza called the strike at a meeting Saturday.

Costs Of Setting Up Married Couples Soar

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP) - Americans may be agog today over how much Princess Margaret's marriage this week will cost the British and how much more her honeymoon will dig into the royal purse.
But Americans who got married some time back may be just as surprised at how much it takes today to set the average young American couple up in housekeeping. The cost has been growing steadily—even if an increasing part of it is going on the cuff.
Princess Margaret's wedding bill is expected to run to about $60,000—with $14,000 of that set aside for music along the route and $9,000 for a million red roses to decorate the streets. Estimates of her honeymoon in the Caribbean come to $112,000.
An inflation note: When her sister, now Queen Elizabeth II, was married in 1947, the wedding cost $15,000.
Few, if any, American weddings this year will approach the sum being spent at Westminster Abbey. But the average cost is being set forth by a Madison Avenue advertising agency eager to let businessmen know what they may find forward to in sales opportunities.
It may be unchivalrous to publicize this figure during Leap Year and perhaps dirty pool to frighten already lined-up bridegrooms, but here are the figures, for whatever the estimate is worth—always remembering that an average figure never seems to fit any one person individually.
The average cost is put at $15,000 for the weddings and the real expense that follows—setting up the households. A week's honeymoon sets the majority of grooms back $237. The average bride can expect to receive $1,003 worth of wedding gifts—usually things she's managed one way or another to let people know she wants.
Based on the expected rise in the number of weddings in five years to 2 1/4 million annually, wedding bells soon will be ringing in a sizable proportion of the national spending.
This, according to the firm of Baiten, Barton, Durand & Osborne, will mean "a surging demand for apartments, houses, furniture, appliances, clothing, jewelry, automobiles and myriad of other items."
Progressions into the future suppose that the trend of the 1940s and 1950s toward earlier marriages and larger families will continue.

Movie 'Mothballed' For Another Effort

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—How do you mothball a movie? "The Pleasure of His Company" was suspended because of the actors' strike. It is the only one of the eight struck movies that hasn't resumed, and its situation is unique.

Production aide Ted Taylor explains "We reached the point of no return 10 days before the strike was settled. The company had to start shooting on "The Counterfeit Traitor" with Bill Holden and Lilli Palmer in Europe in June. We had arranged for studio space in Berlin, Frankfurt and Copenhagen. If we postponed the start, we'd lose the studios, which are at a premium during the summer in Europe."

"The only thing to do was shut down "The Pleasure of His Company" and resume at the earliest possible date. We talked to the cast and the first time they could be back together was Nov. 3.

"All we can do is hope they don't drop dead, get fat or pregnant in the meantime."

Just in case something does go awry, Perleberg-Seaton has insured them all, not their individual lives but the amount it would take to replace their footage.

Total cost of the film so far—it's 75 per cent done—is $1,700,000. This is the loss of an actor who appeared in most of the scenes could cost the insurance companies almost the whole amount.

The physical aspects of the production had to be assured of remaining the same, too.

"That meant that every set had to be returned to its original condition," said Taylor. "To do so, we had to catalogue and seal away 3,300 pieces of furniture, props and hand props, just as the Navy mothballs its ships." Problems may arise with the San Francisco location. The story tells of a June wedding, and the bay area won't look like early summer in November.

Personnel From College To Be In New Bern Drama

East Carolina College will be represented by both faculty members and students in the cast and on the production staff of "The Third Frontier" by Kermit Hunter, to be presented each night June 11-25 during the 250th anniversary of the founding of the city.

Dr. Joseph A. Withey, director of drama and faculty member of the department of English at East Carolina, will direct the drama. A member of the college staff since 1953, Dr. Withey acts as director of the student dramatic club, the East Carolina Playhouse. In Greenville he directed in 1953-1954 community productions of the Passion Play and for the past several years has directed an annual college-community Shakespearean production presented on the campus. In 1954 he served as chairman of the Eastern Regional Drama Festival.

Dr. Ralph Rives of Enfield, East Carolina alumnus who will join the English faculty next fall, will play a major role in "The Third Frontier," that of colonial governor William Tryon. Appearing in supporting roles will be Doris F. Robbins of Roanoke Rapids and Charles Ray Tolley of Edenton, students at East Carolina.

Two members of the East Carolina Playhouse who will serve with Dr. Withey on the production staff are William H. Bowen of Greenville, assistant stage manager, and Rose Marie Gornio of Wilmington, technical assistant.

Other East Carolina students who will appear in the New Bern drama are: Dancers—Robert A. Gooden of Clarkton, Al Dunkie of St. Petersburg, Florida; Diane McCulley of Quantico, Virginia; and M. Leigh Dobson of Edenton; and Members of the Chorus—Larry H. Prescott of Rt. 1, New Bern; and Marshall Braddy of New Bern.

NEW TREES FOR OLD

Silent sentinels guarding God's green earth...

Nature had always done a fine job re-generating forests until man came along with his axe and started cutting them down. Now he's slowly learning he must replace the trees if he wants wood for his house and pulp for his books.

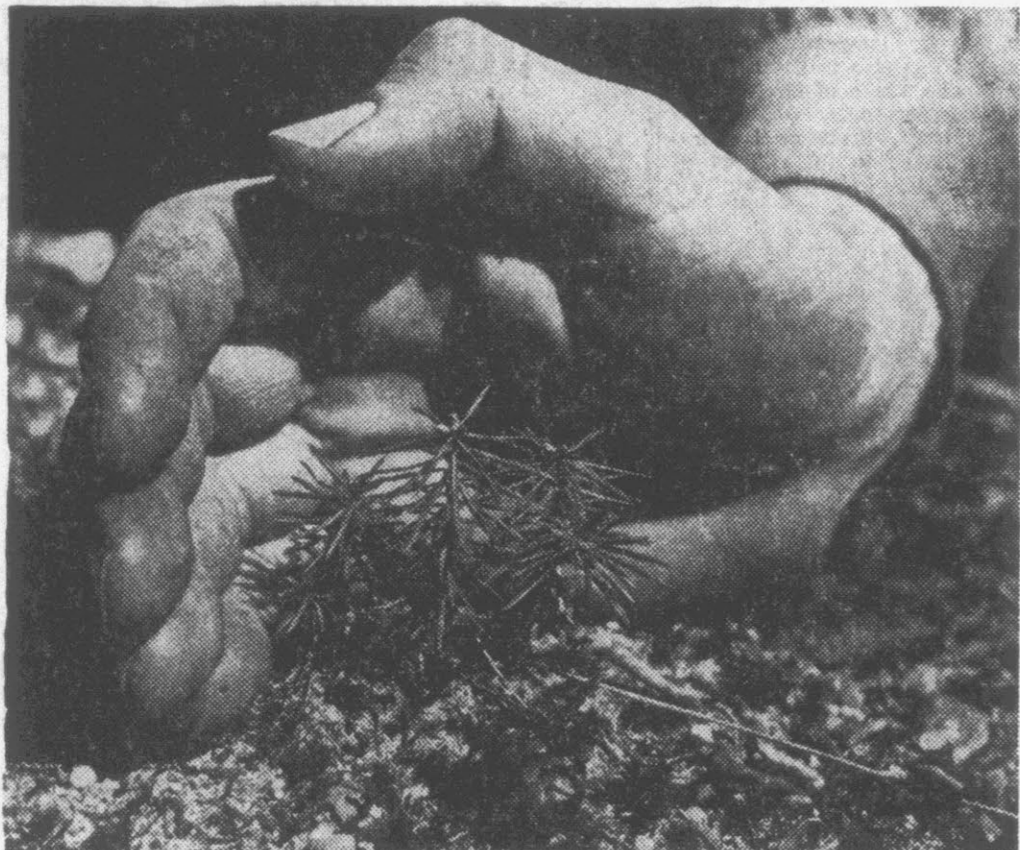

Last year, over 2 million acres were planted to trees in the U. S., a 37 per cent increase over the previous year. And foresters are even improving on nature. Through scientific forestry methods, seeds and seedlings in nurseries are given tender and loving care. This pampering continues through the years of healthy growth on tree farms until the trees are ready for harvest.

Most tree plantings are made by setting out seedlings by hand or machine. In recent years, there has been an increase in sowing by plane. Grafting techniques, in which branches from selected trees are grafted to established root stock, have advanced rapidly.

A new forest, from seedling to maturity, is pictured here.

Destined to become forest giants of tomorrow, these tiny tree seedlings are being cultivated in a tree nursery near Salem, Ore. Many will go to tree farmers.

Peeping through the ground, tiny seedlings get a look at the forested world around them. Seeds that produced baby trees came from cones which fell or were collected from mature trees.

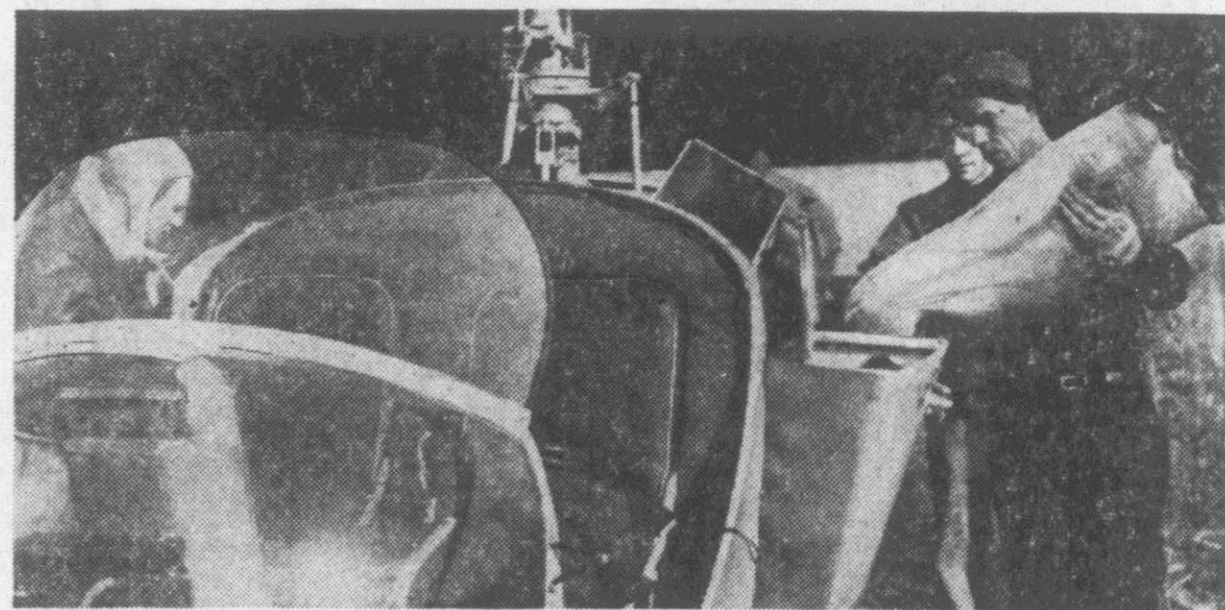

Young pine tree sprouts forth healthily in second year.

A forester inspects a vigorously growing pine plantation.

A new forest covers what once were acres of barren soil. These are fast-growing young pines.

Tree seeds are loaded into helicopter hopper as pilot prepares for reseeded flight...and the whirlybird, below, does its job over area hit by forest fire.
