Princess Weds Today And Honeymoon Cruise Begins

LONDON (AP)—Radiant as a bride should be, Princess Margaret married untitled Antony Armstrong-Jones today and sailed off for a Caribbean honeymoon.

The wedding and its panoply of pomp and parade down the broad Mall gave London its most colorful pageant since the coronation. A million or more cheered the diminutive princess and the man of her heart as they moved along in a horse-drawn coach under cobalt blue skies.

In the massed throng there were more than a thousand casualties, most of them fainting cases.

A little more than five hours after the ceremony the beaming couple boarded the royal yacht Britannia for their honeymoon cruise. The yacht, with her deep blue hull and white superstructure, was a picture as she headed toward the sea.

The wedding ceremony had gone off with only one brief hitch. The bride had a moment of stage-fright in the middle of the ceremony. Within the medieval magnificence of Westminster Abbey, all went smoothly until Margaret began repeating her vows before the throng of 2,000 invited guests and millions listening on radio and watching on television.

When she came to the ancient ritual of pledging herself to Tony, she choked up for a moment.

"For better or worse," intoned the Archbishop of Canterbury.

No reply.

"For better or worse," the archbishop said again.

She then repeated the words quietly, her voice in a lower key than usual. It was part of the pledge by the bride in the ancient wedding service.

"I, Margaret Rose, take thee Antony Charles Robert, to my wedded husband, to have and to hold from this day forward, for better or worse, for richer or poorer, in sickness and in health, to love, cherish and to obey, till death do us part."

The groom spoke his wedding responses clearly and firmly as he knelt with Margaret before the archbishop, Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, who pronounced them man and wife at exactly 11:45 a. m.

It was the first time in four centuries that the daughter of an English king had married a commoner.

Outside, a million Londoners and tourists roared cheers for the newlyweds. It was a warm, sunny day.

Joyner Is Named Demo Keynote

RALEIGH (AP)—Col. William T. Joyner, Raleigh lawyer and long-time party leader, will give the keynote address for the state Democratic convention here May 19.

Woodrow W. Jones of Rutherfordton, state Democratic chairman, announced Thursday selection of Jordan as principal speaker for the party gathering.

Joyner also gave the keynote address for the 1948 convention. Oldtimers could not recall another man who has twice been chosen for the honor.

Joyner, 69, has practiced law in Raleigh since 1916. He is the son of the late Dr. J. Y. Joyner, an educational leader early in this century.

A graduate of the University of North Carolina and Harvard Law School, Joyner has served as chairman of the State Highway Commission, and the State Board of Elections. He played an important role in the work of the committee, headed by Thomas J. Pearsall of Rocky Mount, which charted North Carolina's course on the school segregation issue.

Savings And Loan Ass'n Branch Office Approved

First Federal Savings and Loan Assn. of Greenville has received final approval to establish a branch office in Ayden, Judge Dink James, president, formally announced today.

The approval came from the Federal Home Loan Bank Board of Washington, D. C.

With the announcement that the branch office has been approved came the announcement that Robert S. Messner, a present member of the organization, will serve as branch manager of the Ayden office.

Judge James, who has been president of the association since it was organized in 1937, said First Federal has "enjoyed over 20 years of successful operation in the town of Ayden." He continued, "Several years ago, our volume of business in Ayden had increased to the point that plans were made to establish an Ayden branch."

"These plans have been culminated by the decision of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board authorizing First Federal to open a facility in Ayden. The directors, officers and employees of First Federal are happy to have the day. The scene in downtown London was one of festive magnificence—stately, crown-topped poled flying-saucer banners and flags every where.

Inside the 900-year-old abbey the smell of musk, old stone and wood mingled with the fragrance of spring flowers and fresh perfume. Polished trumpets gleamed. The scarlet and gold vestments of the clergy added color. But most colorful of all was the bride.

A wide diamond tiara blazed on her head. Her gown was of white silk organza—untrimmed, high-necked, long-sleeved and full-skirted. A high chignon added inches to her 5 foot 2. A veil of white illusion tulle sprang from each side of her head above the ears, pulled back at the shoulders and falling to the floor.

Meanwhile, Seawell told the Salisbury Civitan Club that, while the U. S. Supreme Court decision against racial segregation may be deplorable, "no one man may seek to create public opinion or a climate of public opinion against law without creating a monster of defiance and lawlessness which would lead to the destruction of public education in North Carolina."

If he is elected, Seawell went on, he would set up a committee of school and finance officials to develop a legislative program for public education. He repeated his belief that such a program should not require new taxes.

Another cry against new taxes was raised by Larkins, speaking in Tabor City. He said the latest revenue report shows that a 15 per cent salary increase for school teachers, costing about 25 million per year, could be paid without new taxes.

Sen. B. Everett Jordan, whose seat Hewlett is seeking, will be active in Hickory and Newton.

In his taped address over the Greenville television station, Lake asserted that, if elected governor, "I shall use all my powers and influence to terminate whatever integration occurs, whether by voluntary action of the school board or by compulsion beyond its capacity to resist."

Lions Club this evening in North Wilkesboro. He plans no speeches. John Larkins addresses the Exchange Club in Wilmington, and also will make two television appearances in Wilmington. Terry Sanford will work in his base headquarters in Raleigh, where he has an afternoon news conference.

Addison Hewlett, Wilmington lawyer running for the U. S. Senate, also is in Raleigh today, to lunch with the Carolina Society of Assn. Executives.

Lake continued today on a campaigning swing through the west. He was up early this morning meeting workers at the mill gates in Rutherford County. He will speak at the courthouse in Rutherfordton tonight.

The other candidates also are busy. Malcolm B. Seawell visits the Kiwanis Club at noon, and the ceremonies at 10 a. m. today officially began construction of Farmville's new $140,000 National Guard Armory though actual preliminary preparations began Monday.

Present for the ceremonies were a group of local and state dignitaries. Walter B. Jones, congressional candidate who is credited by Farmvillites with securing the local facility, turned the spade that officially broke the ground.

Maj. Robert E. N. Shelden, engineer for the North Carolina National Guard Commission, took part in the ceremonies. Also participating were John J. McDavid Jr., commanding officer of the Farmville NG unit; local Mayor Charles S. Edwards; and T. W. Willis of the Farmville Economic Council.

The new building will be situated on a six-acre site on W. Horn Ave. adjoining the local golf course. The general contract work will be done by Dunn Building Supply Co. of Greenville. The Greenville firm submitted a low bid of $107,000.

The general contractor is allowed 240 calendar days after receipt of the approved contract (last Saturday) to complete the armory.

Bill O'Neal of the construction firm told the Daily Reflector, however, that much time may not be required since an armory in Windsor, slightly larger than the armory project, was completed by the firm in six months.

O'Neal pointed out the Greenville contractor has now undertaken four National Guard armories. Projects in Windsor and Snow Hill have been completed while another in Elizabeth City is nearing completion.

The building site was purchased by Farmville and Pitt County funds on a 50-50 basis. The armory itself is financed by federal, state, and local money. Federal participation is 75 per cent.

Other contracts let with bids in parentheses are: heating — Henry Baker Heating Co., Wilson ($12,329); plumbing — Mashburn Plumbing and Heating Co., Farmville; electrical — O'Neil Electric Co., Washington ($6,345).

WASHINGTON (AP)—Initial U. S. reaction to new Soviet boasts that an American plane was shot down over the Soviet Union by a "remarkable rocket" was to keep the matter in official diplomatic channels today.

The State Department press officer, Lincoln White, said there would be no immediate statement on the speech to the wildly cheering Supreme Soviet in Moscow by Marshal Andrei A. Grechko.

Grechko said it was on the personal orders of Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev that the American plane was destroyed "on the first shot."

Thursday when first word of the Soviet downing of the plane came in a speech by Khrushchev, the U. S. withheld any strong protest while awaiting more information on the incident, President Eisenhower ordered a swift inquiry, but made no public comment.

White said today U. S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson had been instructed to ask for information in Moscow and "we'll wait for that."

Khrushchev said his government "will make a severe protest" to the United States over the alleged violation of its airspace, but the communication had not been received Thursday night.

There was no official identification of the craft.

However, indications pointed to an American weather plane reported missing since Sunday. Its civilian pilot was identified as Francis G. Powers, 30, Pound, Va., a test pilot for the Lockheed Aircraft Corp.

Powers was flying a high altitude weather research plane of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

The State Department, while not stating this was the plane involved, said it was possible that the pilot bled out because of a failure of the craft's oxygen equipment. It said the plane might have continued on automatic pilot and accidentally violated Soviet air space.

Investigating officers, who identified the driver of the car as George William Evans, 42, of 2606 Sunset Ave., said the child allegedly ran from the side street into the path of the vehicle.

No charges were made and no damage was reported to the car.

Only injuries reported to the girl, who lives at 1417 Short St. was an abrasion to her left knee.

Funds Plea By School Board Seen

RALEIGH (AP) — The State Board of Education may ask the 1961 Legislature for money to carry out recommendations for improving public schools prepared by the two study groups.

Dallas Herring of Rose Hill, board chairman, said study will be given to the proposals put before the board Thursday. Some may find their way into budget recommendations, Herring added.

He pointed out that the changes could not be ordered immediately by the board, since some would require action by the Legislature and others would need to be implemented at the local level.

Salaries for teachers competitive with other states and with other professions was one of the recommendations from a curriculum study directed by Dr. I. E. Ready.

The need for more teachers and other school personnel was emphasized by an advisory committee on school personnel. It asked for changes in teacher allotment which would mean an additional 1,200 teachers under present enrollment. Another suggestion was for state-paid assistants to superintendents in larger school units.

The curriculum study group said consolidation of small high schools should continue. Where consolidation is impossible, extra state support should be offered, it added.

Other recommendations: Lowering from 30 to 25 the classroom load in the three primary grades; raising standards for certification of teachers; better instruction in English; conversational foreign language courses in primary grades; and more math courses at the high school level.

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower signed today the 1960 civil rights bill keyed to new protection for the voting rights of Negroes.

Eisenhower called the law "an historic step forward in the field of civil rights" although Congress failed to include some of his recommendations.

"With continuing help from all responsible persons, the new law will play an important role in the days ahead in attaining our goal of equality under law in all areas of our country for all Americans," Eisenhower said.

The signing was without any extraordinary ceremony.

Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers and Deputy Atty. Gen. Lawrence Walsh came to the White House for it, but there were no other prominent persons invited.

Eisenhower used two pens in signing the bill, giving one to Rogers and the other to Walsh.

The President's statement noted that this is only the second civil rights measure passed by Congress in 85 years. He said it, like the 1957 law, was built on recommendations of the administration.

Congress passed the legislation April 21 after months of struggle, marked by one week of around-the-clock Senate sessions.

Stubbornly resisting Southerners battled the bill by every possible means. While they were unable to defeat the legislation, they squeezed out of it a number of features sought by the Eisenhower administration or by Northern Democrats—notably broad authority for the attorney general to seek injunctions in civil rights cases and a permanent commission to fight race discrimination in employment on federal contracts.

Although primarily a voting rights measure, the new law also strengthens federal authority to deal with bombers and persons who organize violent demonstrations against court orders such as those desegregating public schools.

The bill provides for the attorney general to file suit, asking courts to find whether there is a pattern of discrimination against the exercise of voting rights.

Until the change was effected the ordinance was approved by the council last month and the ordinance effecting the change was read at last night's meeting.

It will require 30- or 24-inch concrete gutter on all streets in new subdivisions.

The change was effected the city required developers to pave the streets. Curb and gutter was required at the city's discretion in difficult drainage spots.

City officials this morning said campaign managers for candidates in the May 28 Primary were being called and advised not to place campaign posters on utility poles and other city property without permission from city officials.

Police Chief S. G. Gibbs said several complaints have been received. He pointed out that there is a city ordinance governing the placing of posters.

It is illegal to place posters on poles without first securing permission, the chief noted.

Thoroughfare Street In Last Englewood Section Approved By City Council

By ALVIN TAYLOR Reflector City Editor

A thoroughfare street through the last section of Englewood, across Tenth St., Greene Springs Park and Fifth St. was approved last night by the City Council for inclusion in the city's major street plan.

Immediately afterward, the councilmen gave their approval of a plat embracing the final addition to Englewood which included the 70-foot right-of-way street.

City Manager Leonard Bloxam noted that the plat had received the Planning-Zoning Commission's approval yesterday afternoon.

Thus the city was assured of a north-south collector thoroughfare east of Elm St. and paralleling that busy street.

As envisioned by city planners, the street would carry traffic from First St., where it is eventually extended, to Greenville Blvd. As property is developed it could be extended to N.C. 43.

From 14th St. to Tenth it would follow in part Forns Road through an undeveloped section west of Coghill and College Court. Now that the street is a part of the thoroughfare system, the city can require inclusion of the street as land is developed.

It may take years for the full street to be opened since its construction must await development of the land along its route.

However, the sections from 14th St. to Greenville Blvd. through Englewood will be opened immediately as a result of last night's actions.

The street, as approved, runs to the east of the new recreation park area between 14th St. and the Norfolk and Southern Railroad. This was recently purchased by the Recreation Commission.

In fact, the city will pick up an additional area of approximately 5,000 square feet adjacent to this area.

The subdividers, Blount and Taft, agreed to deed this section to the city in exchange for the city installing curb and gutter along the east side of the street from the railroad to 14th St. The west side of the street would be the city's responsibility regardless since this will be municipal property. Under the agreement paving of the section will be the subdivider's responsibility.

Councilman W. S. Stafford made the motion to accept the Englewood Addition plat. It was approved unanimously.

The councilmen tabled a recommendation for appointments to the George Washington Carver Library board pending further study of the terms for board members.

A system of service buttons for city employees was approved last night upon recommendation of City Manager Bloxam.

City Bond Issue Plans To Lawyers

Greenville's proposed $500,000 bond issue is headed for New York bond attorneys in preparation for a municipal referendum.

Councilmen so decided last night after they were assured that changes could still be made even after the ordinances setting up the election have been drawn. Such ordinances must come back to the City Council for final approval.

Last night's action sent the bond election another step along the way to reality. It embraces far reaching street improvement, sidewalk and fire department projects in addition to several smaller projects.

Included is a $225,000 fund to carry on a major street paving plan. Councilmen expect that, using this fund plus property owners' share of the paving costs as it comes back to the city, most of Greenville's streets can be paved over a period of years.

There is $75,000 for sidewalk construction in school areas in the bond issue and $75,000 for reconstruction of Elm St. from Greenville Blvd. to Tenth St. A $65,000 item would go for construction of a fire sub-station in East Greenville and $45,000 would be used for building a new Carver Negro Library.

The remainder of the bond issue would be made up of building renovation and other capital improvement items.

City Manager Leonard Bloxam indicated that the city had been approved by the Local Government Commission for issuing the bonds. The next step would be to retain bond attorneys in New York. They will draw up ordinances grouping the various projects in as few items as possible. Citizens would vote on each item separately and any portion of the bond issue could be approved or turned down individually by the electorate.

In making the motion to proceed with the legal work, Councilman M. W. Aldridge said he was satisfied with the bond issue as it stood.

However, he told his fellow councilmen, "If you want to look at it again I'm willing to go along with you."

Bloxam and City Attorney R. B. Lee told the councilmen that changes are still possible even after the ordinances come back from bond attorneys for final approval.

The motion passed unanimously.

L.A. Williams Named Farmville C-of-C Secretary, Supervisor

FARMVILLE—Louis A. Williams, Farmville grocer, was appointed secretary of the Farmville Chamber of Commerce and sales supervisor for the local Tobacco Board of Trade at a joint meeting this week of the Chamber and the Board of Trade.

Williams, associated with his brother, Frank Williams, in the operation of the Williams Super Market in Farmville, succeeds Farmville Mayor Charles S. Edwards, who resigned the two posts to accept a position with the Carolina Wire and Cable Co. here. Edwards remains mayor of Farmville.

Williams will assume his duties May 15. He will leave the grocery business, he said yesterday, to devote full time to his new dual position.

"I am greatly honored by this appointment," he told the Daily Reflector yesterday, "and will try to execute my duties as efficiently and effectively as have my predecessors. My aim is to aid Farmville in its progressive development."

A native of Nash County, Williams graduated from Battleboro

High School where he was voted best all-around student in his senior class.

He graduated from Oak Ridge Military Institute near Greensboro before studying medicine at Tulane and Duke Universities. His medical training was interrupted by his father's illness and he returned home to manage his father's business.

Williams moved to Farmville in 1943 following nine years as supervisor of the Durham Piggy-Wiggly stores.

AMAZING MOTHERS

Moms can operate the most involved electric appliances, follow recipes with the skill of chemists mixing formulas, open locks with hairpins but—put a camera in their hands and they freeze.

With womanly logic they tell you they can't use a camera because they can't. It's a sad situation because so many chances to take great pictures of the children pop up when dad isn't around to snap them.

But we happen to have a happy solution to this sad situation. It's called the Brownie Starmatic Camera. What's so special about the Starmatic? The electric eye that's built into it.

With the Starmatic there's no mumbo jumbo about f stops. The electric eye automatically sets the lens to suit the light. No focusing to fret about either. The Starmatic has a pre-set lens that produces sharp clear pictures of everything from a few feet away to the horizon.

The Starmatic reduces the job of getting good, clear pictures every time to just—"aim and shoot." And it can also solve your problem of what to get mom for Mother's Day.

Surprise her with a Brownie Starmatic—the camera that makes her a good photographer as soon as she picks it up. Only $36.50.

Jr., Teenage Credit Accounts Topic Used By Morris Brody

Morris Brody spoke on "Unlocking the Future with Junior and Teenage Credit Accounts" at the Credit Women's Breakfast Club meeting Tuesday evening.

President Clara Seago presided. Membership chairman, Louise Carrigan introduced guests Vivian Clark and Mary Alice Barrow. They were welcomed by the club as prospective members.

Educational chairman Polly Dail introduced the speaker, who taught the third Credit Education lesson.

Brody cited the need of credit training for young people as a necessary aid to their education in preparing them for coming adult responsibility, and noted that this phase of Credit is currently being sponsored by many business leaders, National Credit organizations and is one of the topics of study in the local CWBC study course.

This phase of credit extension, the speaker said, must be on a tentative trial basis, due to the fact that a minor was not legally held responsible for payment of an account unless it was guaranteed by a responsible parent or adult, thus making the situation extremely delicate and called for the utmost understanding and patience during the credit interview to assess all the facts.

He said that credit is a privilege and valued convenience and must be earned, therefore, some sound basis must be found, such as a part time job or a regular stated allowance coming in each month to enable a minor to merit credit.

In either case, the employee or parent should be notified and should give approval, if not a guarantee. The terms and date of payment should be clearly stated on a weekly or monthly basis, and a firm follow-up would be indicated.

With cooperation of parents, employers and credit grantors, young people could acquire good credit habits and learn to take responsibility that would be of great and lasting benefit in their coming adult life. Brody called upon the Club members for open question and answer discussion on the subject.

President Seago thanked the speaker for his understanding and interesting approach toward the complex problem, and Chairman Dail presented him with a gift of appreciation from the club.

Mrs. Seago discussed important Club procedures coming up in the State and International Convention to be held in May and June respectively.

She asked all members attending the joint CWBC and Merchants Convention at the Hotel Sir Walter on May 15-16-17, to check their hotel reservations and Convention registrations and make effort to attend. The Greenville Club president is chairman of the State Association's Monday Luncheon, and is responsible for decorations, favors and programs.

Miss Vivian Lockhart, bride-elect of June, was honored with a floating shower recently by Mrs. B. C. Branch, Mrs. Phil Goodson Jr., and Mrs. Lester Branch at the latter's home in Winterville.

Upon arrival the honoree was complimented with a yellow mums corsage by the hostesses.

Guests were greeted by Mrs. Goodson who directed them to the receiving line composed of Mrs. Branch, the honoree, Mrs. Ben Teel, Mrs. Charlie Russell, both aunts of the bride-to-be, Mrs. Ed Branch, mother of the bridegroom-elect, and Mrs. Warren Aldridge.

Mrs. G. A. Taylor directed the guests into the gift room where Mrs. Alma Branch and Mrs. Jesse Branch received. Mrs. Julia Branch presided at the guest register.

Guests were invited into the dining room where punch was served by Mrs. B. C. Branch and Mrs. Harold Smith. Bridal cake, nuts, and mints were served buffet style. Assisting in serving were Mrs. John Origer and Mrs. Adrian Adams.

The appointed table, covered with a white dacron cloth over green, held an off-centered arrangement of white gladiola and spirea. At one end of the table punch was served and at the opposite end pink burning tapers were used.

The hostesses remembered the honoree with gifts of silver and china.

Goodbyes were said by Mrs. Harvey Branch.

Princess Wears Tiara In Marriage

NOW THEY ARE MR. AND MRS. ANTONY ARMSTRONG-JONES . . . crowds cheered Margaret and Tony as they left Clarence House, London, last night for the reception at Buckingham Palace.

By NADEANE WALKER LONDON (AP)—In the midst of royal splendor, the bride wore a modest and simple dress. Only a wide diamond tiara blazing on her head distinguished Princess Margaret's bridal attire from that of other springtime brides.

The white silk organza wedding gown—untrimmed, high necked, long sleeved and full skirted—was a high fashion version of a traditional gown a shopgirl might buy at the local department store.

The royal wedding dress by British couturier Norman Hartnell was no surprise, for it closely resembled advance reports and sketches. But Margaret's hairdo was a high chignon was pinned on top of her own short hair, adding inches to her 5 feet 2 height. A veil of white illusion tulle sprang out on each side above the ears. It pulled back from the shoulders and fell to the floor.

The long sleeves of the dress fit light. The neckline formed a small "V" in the front. Rouleau pipings around the neckline continued down the bodice and to floor length in front. The voluminous skirt was formed by three layers of organza cut into 12 panels, shaped narrowly at the waistline and spreading to fullness at the hem.

Each panel was joined with fine rouleau piping. Similar piping bordered the entire hem of the full-flowing skirt, which fanned out into a train at the back. The dress was mounted on a foundation of stiffened white tulle, piped with organza rouleau.

Margaret's wedding bouquet was small and dainty, slightly crescent-shaped, of Cymbidium orchids—white with a slight pink flush on the petals, lilies of the valley and Stephanotis, with a few off-white Odontoglossum orchids. Her shoes were of white crepe with white satin facings. They had two and a half inch heels, among the highest Margaret has ever worn.

Around the hems were a band of graduated pin-tucking, bordered with three rows of broderie anglaise.

Rose High School now has brand new student council officers! Monday and Tuesday, April 25 and 26, students voted for their favorite candidates.

The new officers include Erskine Duff, president; Larry Roberts, vice-president; Johnny Reynolds, treasurer; Janice Laughter, secretary; Anna White and Martha Henderson, roving representatives.

Present Spring Concert

A large crowd of students, parents, teachers, and townspeople heard the Rose High band and glee club present their annual spring concert last Friday night in the school gym.

The mixed chorus, under the direction of Miss Ona Shindler, presented sacred numbers, spirituals, folk songs, and three contemporary numbers. They closed with the rousing song, "Oklahoma," and left the entire audience patting its foot.

The ninth grade girls' chorus sang "O Divine Redeemer," (Gounod-Cain), Carol Riddle, senior, rendered a solo entitled "The Lass with the Delicate Air," (Arne).

Following an intermission, Rose High's band director, James E. Rodgers, led the band in six numbers, ranging from Mozart to Rossini. They closed their portion of the program with the lively "Zaratecas" (Codina).

The newly organized Rose High dance band then presented two lighter numbers, "Prom Jump" and "Moon Indigo."

The combined glee club and band presented a final number, "Born to be Free," which was received warmly by the entire audience.

Money Problems Are Still With Us

North Carolina's big increase in tax receipts for the month of April should not be the signal for citizens or officials to complacently assume the state does not face financial worries in the future.

The increase of 27 1/2 million dollars in collections for last month over April of last year is indeed significant for the state. Because most of the revenue represented income tax payments for 1959, the receipts reflected the better general business conditions than existed in the state in 1958. Even so, the April figures also included some $6 million as the first installment of the new withholding tax system that began operations the first of the year.

Because of the change to the withholding system for collecting income taxes from individuals, April receipts in future years will not be nearly as large as was the case this year. Any increase in income tax revenues will largely be reflected in the quarterly reports from now on, with the exception of corporate income taxes which will still be paid each April.

There are other factors in the report of Revenue Commissioner Currie which suggest that the state has not overcome its money problems. April collections of gasoline taxes showed a drop of 8.3 per cent. Sales tax collections for the month were a half million dollars short of April a year ago.

While the April tax receipts of the state show continued economic progress for the state, soft spots in the state's economy are evident. The revenue increase is not yet sufficient to indicate that the annual receipts will more than make up for the $27 1/2 million in non-recurring revenue the state is spending for current expenses in this biennium.

The cloud of severe financial problems still hangs on the horizon for the 1961 legislature. The exact proportions of the problem will become clearer later in the year as budget recommendations are prepared by the Advisory Budget Commission and the revenue trends are more definitely established.

Encouraging as they are, the big revenue increases for April of this year do not remove the realistic financial problems which lie ahead of North Carolina.

We Agree, Agriculture In Most Need Of Aid

It took President Eisenhower a long time to find out what most farmers throughout the nation have known for too many years.

There is no domestic area in which there is a more obvious need for corrective legislation than in agriculture.

President Eisenhower made that assertion to Congress in a special message this week in which he reviewed the things which the legislative body should try to accomplish before it adjourns this summer. He also pointed out that he recently advised Congress that he would approve any constructive farm legislation adopted during the current session.

The only hitch is that what most farmers consider constructive farm legislation, the President does not. The administration for the past seven years has pushed through Congress and upon the farmers one Benson proposal after another only to push the farmer lower on the economic ladder rather than pull him up.

What the country needs is a positive, constructive program for agriculture, and along with it an understanding administration of the program . . . which it has not had under the Eisenhower administration.

We find ourselves in agreement with President Eisenhower that no other area of our domestic economy is in more obvious need of corrective legislation. And we can further agree with the President's earlier implication that he doesn't know what kind of program is needed for agriculture. His almost two terms in the White House have clearly shown that.

Although we do not like the idea of having to wait until next year for a positive, constructive program for agriculture, it appears that such will not be forthcoming until the Democrats gain control of both the administration and the Congress. No matter how good a farm program were written by the Democratic Congress, Republican administration of the farm program could keep it completely fouled up.

Health Care Of Aged Isn't Cheap

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP) — Most of the people over 65 would have to pay out a big chunk of their income before they could get any benefits under the Eisenhower administration's medical care program for the aged.

As a program, it's a lot less than ideal, probably because there was a lot of disagreement within the administration on what to propose, if anything. About 3 1/2 million of the 16 million people over 65 would not be covered at all. They are people with income of at least $2,500 for a single person, $3,800 for a couple. Those with that much income are excluded.

For the rest who might be eligible—and no one would have to join who didn't want to—the federal government and the states would share the medical costs above a certain figure which he himself would have to pay.

For example: An eligible person who joined up would have to pay a fee of $24 a year, whether or not he got sick. Then, if he did get sick, he'd have to pay the first $250 of his medical bills if single $400 for a married couple before he'd get federal-state help.

But, on top of that, he'd have to pay 20 per cent of whatever the cost was above $250.

Since not all states might want to take part in the program, people living in the ones which didn't wouldn't get under the program at all.

Full coverage at no cost would be provided for those 2 1/2 million people who have to depend on public assistance for their living. So when you eliminate the 3 1/2 million excluded by the size of their income and the 2 1/2 million on public assistance and getting the program benefits for free, you wind up with about 10 million people eligible to choose whether they will participate or will stay out of the program.

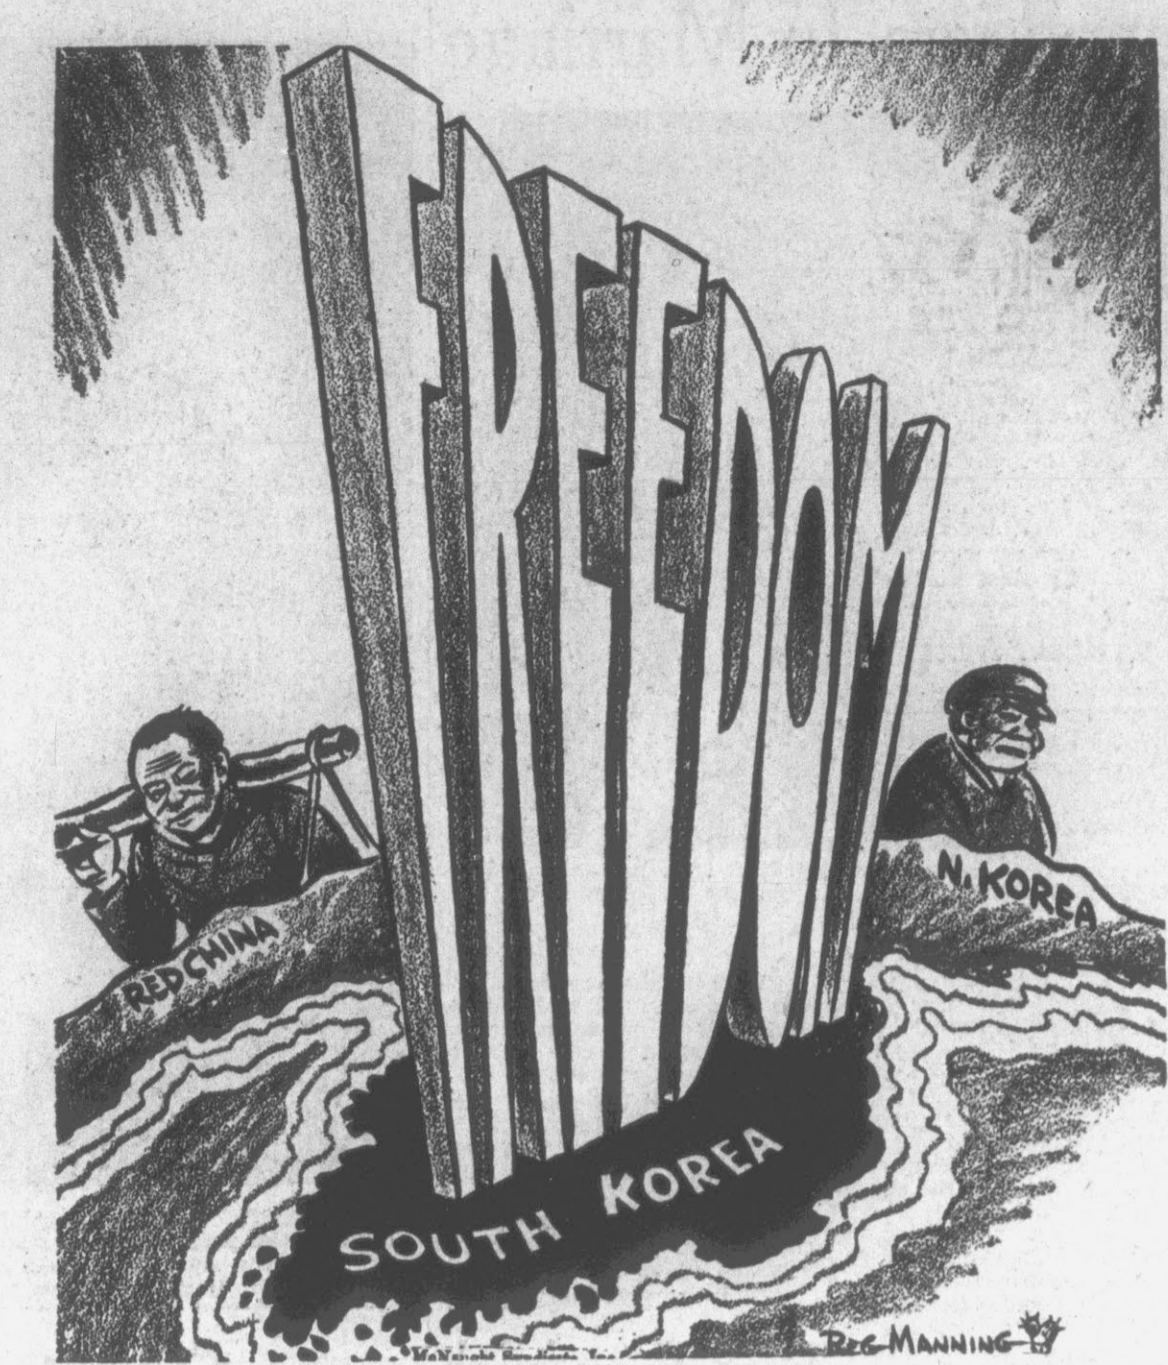

Most of them are on the Social Security rolls now. A government survey of such people in 1957 showed the average retired couple had a total income of about $1,140. The average aged widow had a total income of $880.

Let's take the widow with $880 who ran up a medical bill of $400 and see how much she'd have to pay out of her own pocket if she decided to get under the program. This would be it:

First, $24 for the enrollment fee. Then the first $250 of the $400. Then 20 per cent of the difference between $250 and $400, which would be 20 per cent of $150, or $30.

Total cost to her then on a $400 medical bill would be $304. The federal-state payment would be $96.

To Make Us Stay Home?

The first symptoms of vacation dreaming quickly followed the 1960 "Variety Vacationland" guide book which came in the mail this week.

The 64-page booklet of which dreams-are-made includes over 100 illustrations in full color. You get a perfect camera's eye view of pulling in bass and asking . . . or maybe it's a tarpon that catches the eye. There are also panoramic scenes snapped in the North Carolina mountain land.

Camping sites, playgrounds, resorts, historic Tar Heelia, flowering Carolina . . . they're all beckoning the guidebook's reader.

I don't know how generally widespread the vacation guide is circulated; but if it reached the home of every North Carolinian who planned a vacation this summer, out-of-state travel would see a decline.

It's easy to forget, or overlook, the scope and magnificence of holiday assets right here in our own state. The book is free. All you have to do is ask for one. Write the Advertising Division, Dept. Conservation and Development, Raleigh, N. C. (They're inviting you.)

It makes you feel very snug about your home state. There's a wry sort of humor utilized by, of all people, a recording company.

It isn't anything like the kind of smiles evoked by early "Chimpunk" recordings, nor the muffled chuckles you got from Andy Griffith's "what it wuz, wuz football" humor.

This collection relies on the sick-but-funny gimmick. The album is entitled "Smash Flops — A Collection of Ill-Timed Songs".

An introductory note in the album explains that "But for slight errors in timing, the 12 songs represented in this album might have been remembered as the greatest hits of their day. However, due to unforeseeable and ironic twists of fate each song's destiny was a failure."

A quick run down of the song titles tells you why: "We're Depending on You, General Custer"; "When the Hindenburg Lands Today"; "Congratulations, Tom Dewey"; "The Confederate Victory Song"; "Sleepy Cape Canaveral Moon"; "When Amelia Earhart Flies Home"; "I Wish I Was in Chicago on St. Valentine's Day"; "There'll Always be 48 States in the U. S. A."

I wouldn't have known such a collection existed but for Associated Press Writer Hugh Mulligan, who recently gave the album a good grade in the funny department.

Mulligan reports the songs are rendered dead-pan by a quartet called "The Characters".

The song titles suggest some might prove offensive to the thinskinners, but the writer thinks otherwise. "The lyrics are done with such amiable good taste that only a Stone Age intellect could complain," he concludes.

It sounds like something to look forward to.

Quote . . . "Massive retaliation has reached a dead end. In a period of atomic stand-off . . . (it) frightens and alienates our friends and fails to impress our potential enemies." General Maxwell D. Taylor (ret.).

Other Editors Saying . . . Trustees Must Set Policy

(The Raleigh Times)
The trustees of the Duke Endowment have, in effect, warned the Duke University Trustees that they are going to run Duke University, or else.

A news story from Durham yesterday contained this paragraph: "The letter then noted that the endowment trustees have the authority to cut off funds to the university if they find it is not being operated properly."

The letter in question was one in which the Endowment trustees expressed full agreement with a petition from 32 deans and department heads at Duke asking that the University's trustees be reorganized and that the trustees' action in demoting Duke Vice President Paul M. Gross was precipitate and ill-advised.

The Endowment trustees should have the full right to comment on any action the Duke University Trustees take. The deans and department heads of Duke should have that right. But, when the Endowment trustees go to the extreme lengths of threatening the Duke University Trustees with cutting off the money which supports Duke, the Endowment trustees have gone too far. For, in saying that, the Endowment trustees made it plain that they are going to run Duke University.

If the Endowment trustees are going to run Duke University, then there is no need to have any Board of Trustees for Duke University. The job of operating Duke University should be handled by the Duke Endowment people.

It would be possible to carry it one step further and agree that there would be no need for any man to be president of Duke. The Duke Endowment people have a director. Let him direct Duke from Charlotte or New York or wherever his office may be.

The best way to run a university is to have a strong, capable board of trustees which can set up the broad lines of policy within which the university shall be operated. Then, there should be a capable, strong president who can and who will run the university within those broad general lines of policy.

The Duke Endowment people are good people. They are good businessmen. But, they are not qualified to run Duke University, and the sooner that fact is forcibly impressed on them, the better it will be for all concerned.

The Duke University Trustees have been challenged. They should accept that challenge here and now and should let the Duke Endowment people know immediately and forcefully that the Duke University Trustees will run Duke University.

It is true that the Duke Indenture does give the Endowment trustees power to withhold funds if Duke is not operated in a way such as to achieve results intended as "attaining and maintaining a place of real leadership in the educational world."

But, it is hard to believe that the indenture was intended to be used as a club over the Duke University trustees.

The trustees would have no trouble at all in proving to a court that they have operated the University as the indenture intended it to be operated. And, if the Endowment people want a showdown, the trustees should give them that showdown in the proper court.

Rationalization By Consumers

By ELMER ROESSNER
We consumers are an ornery lot. We make irrational decisions and then try to rationalize them.

Those are inferences from "Progress Report on Design Research," published by Lippincott and Margulies, industrial designers of packages, products and trademarks.

Its researchers, it reports, have established these facts in the last three years:

"1. Consumer responses to design, though not rational, are nevertheless predictable."

Once the social class and personality composition of a group is defined, the firm says it can tell what kind of design will be most effective. A "sentimentalized" design is usually most effective in the broad mass market, but other designs appeal most to particular groups.

"SENTIMENTALIZED" LABEL
In one test a beer can label containing pictures of shocks of barley, a stein and a Bavarian inn was called "sentimentalized" and appealed most to the big, lower-middle-class group; but is almost totally inarticulate when it comes to talking about a design in the abstract.

When asked about a design, consumers usually say they like it because it is "nice," "bright," or "good looking," which are no help to the designer.

"4. The reaction of consumers toward design tends to support the existing realities in the marketplace."

When given a choice between a poor design in use a long time and a good proposed design, consumers invariably will choose the old one, perhaps through old-shoe familiarity. But once the design is changed, they tend to accept the new one.

"5. Consumer reaction to design is influenced by all the brand's other communications. In turn, consumer reaction to the brand's other communications is influenced by design."

Conclusions in this series of other promotion, advertising and displays are good, people tend to like the design. Conversely, if the design is good, people are more favorably impressed by advertising and displays. And a package can influence the believability of an advertisement. If the package echoes the advertising claim—for instance, if the package suggests "filtration" and the stresses "most effective filter," the combination can create a high degree of acceptance.

And that's what the design industry knows about you.

Sloppy Sort Of Rebels

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
Copyright, 1960, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Barnard College is the female part of Columbia University, a distinguished institution of learning. When I went to this university, the boys wore collars, neck-ties and jackets which, on the whole, gave the appearance of tidiness and even cultural gentility. The girls, of course, wore skirts which were then regarded as essential to a lady-like appearance. If a girl appeared on the campus in those abbreviated undergarments which now seem so stylish, she would have been arrested by the municipal police.

Well, as the saying goes, times have changed and as girl seeks boy, she dresses sexily. It could, of course, be said that a clean and virginal mind could gaze upon the nude without an ignoble thought. Perhaps that is possible if the body is of amazing beauty, but let it be said in Gath as well as anywhere else, that unfortunately few women, no matter at what age, can be uncovered without losing in esthetic value. The good Lord has not been so kind in His depository of curves, clumps of fat and similar inequities, to make beauty available altogether unassisted by the artifices that women have learned to use from time immemorial.

Therefore, a mass of half-nude teen-agers is a sight to behold. Their legs are too fat, too unformed. Too many young girls, in these days of sweetened beverages and high caloric foods, too early resemble Rubens' models for their own good.

When President Millicent McIntosh of Barnard, at the suggestion of President Grayson Kirk of Columbia University, told the girls to put on more clothes, she did it, I think, for the wrong reasons. She should have said to the girls who wear pants and Bermudas and other kinds of shorts:

"You look like hell! Go and dress up!"

It appears that some of the girls protested. They said that they could wear a black tie, a bolted shirt and striped trousers, not because I want to wear such clothes, but I recognized the universal principle of good manners that the host decides the clothes.

Kids who believe that they gain something of independence by such externals are at best ill-mannered. I do not believe that Walter Lippmann will recall this episode which occurred about 44 years ago. Some of us, in this same university, published a magazine called "Challenge" with which we were going to remake the world. We went down to the "New Republic" to see Walter Lippmann who was already a great man.

He looked at our paper and talked about its make-up. I do not recall its exact words, but I know what he said left a permanent impression on me. And I should like to paraphrase that impression:

"Great and new ideas need not be clothed in a trashy, cheap dress. You kids have something to say but you have not put your thoughts into a dress that others will look at."

We went away very disappointed. I am sure that most of us thought that, at least, Lippmann would pat us on our already enlarged heads and tell us how wonderful we were. He did not talk about content. Nevertheless, it was after that that it came to me that the way to attract attention was not by undressing in public or standing on one's head. It could be done by hard and earnest work.

There is an old Yiddish story which these Barnard girls might learn. There was once a young man who ate a cake of yellow soap on the steps of the synagogue on the Day of Atonement.

The Peacemakers

A TRUE DISCIPLE OF CHRIST DOES ALL WITHIN HIS POWER TO AVOID QUARRELS, NOT ONLY TO MAINTAIN PEACE, BUT TO CREATE PEACE WHERE QUARRERING HAS PREVAILED.

Scripture—Matthew 5:9, 21-26, 38-48; Mark 10:35-45.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL PEACEMAKERS: how badly we need more of them in our discordant world. Christ blessed such, saying that "they shall be called the children of God."

turn to him the other also." "Give to him that asketh thee, and from him that would borrow of thee turn not thou away."

"Ye have heard that it was said by them of old time, 'Thou shalt not kill; and whosoever shall kill shall be in danger of the judgment: But I say unto you, That whosoever is angry with his brother without a cause shall be in danger of the judgment; and whosoever shall say to his brother, Raca, shall be in danger of the council; but whosoever shall say, Thou fool, shall be in danger of hell fire.'

"Ye have heard that it hath been said, Thou shalt love thy neighbor, and hate thy enemy. But I say unto you, Love your enemies, bless them that curse you, do good to them that hate you, and pray for them which spitefully use you, and persecute you; that ye may be the children of your Father which is in heaven: for he maketh His sun to rise on the evil and on the good, and sendeth rain on the just and on the unjust. For if ye love them which love you, what reward have ye? For if ye love them which love you, what reward have ye?"

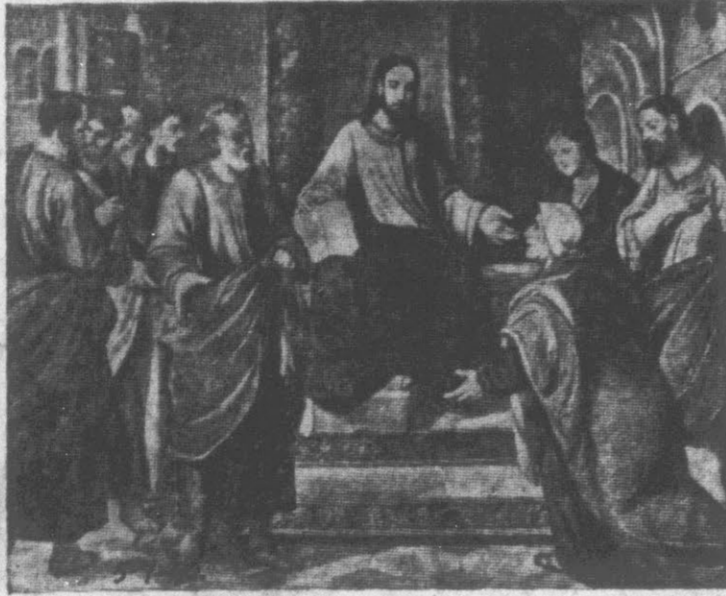

Very briefly we can mention the brothers James and John who asked the Lord if when they died they might sit one on His right hand and one on His left in glory. Jesus rebuked this selfish request, saying: "Ye know not what ye ask."

When the other disciples heard what the two had requested, they became displeased with them. Serving others, not serving self, was what Jesus demanded of His followers, all of us.

"Ye have heard that it hath been said, An eye for an eye, and a tooth for a tooth: But I say unto you, That ye resist not evil: but whosoever shall smite thee on thy right cheek, turn to him the other also."

Sokolsky Col. (Continued from Page 4) when everybody else fasted. He foamed at the mouth. His face was covered with soap-suds. The yellow soap was bitter and it stank. He was asked why he did such a stupid thing, on the steps of the synagogue on the Day of Atonement, when everybody else fasted. His reply was simple and to the point: "How else would anyone know that I'm a Revolutionary?"

'Fighting 6th' Marks Century FORT KNOX, Ky. (AP) — The 6th Armored Cavalry's agenda called for a light machine gun drill and tent pitching competition. Old fashioned? Certainly. The fighting 6th, first called to arms by President Lincoln, began its 100th year today. The color guard set the tempo by donning Civil War style uniforms for the anniversary ceremonies.

East Carolina Host To Lenoir Rhyne At Guy Smith Stadium

Tough Lenoir Rhyne comes into Greenville today with hopes of shattering East Carolina's pacesetter North State record.

The Bear baseballers slid into fourth place last week on a three-game winning binge. They will be seeking to carry over that streak into their series with the Bucs.

East Carolina slipped back into the North State lead last week with a victory over Elon. At the same time, the prime contenders, Catawba and Guilford, fell off their fast pace earlier this week with both suffering a loss.

Catawba's winning streak was uprooted by Elon and the Indians turned around to whip Guilford, making a two-way tie for second place. Both clubs have three defeats hanging over their heads.

The Pirates have picked up their pace of 1959 and could almost assure themselves of another crown with a double win against Lenoir Rhyne tonight and a triumph over visiting Catawba tomorrow.

Coach Jim Mallory will rely on Johnny Eilen (2-3) and Nathan Green (1-0) tonight with hopes that Larry Grayton, (7-1) will apply the whip to invading Catawba tomorrow night.

Little change is expected in the East Carolina lineup which is dotted with three hitters batting over .350. Gary Pierce, Wally Cockrell and Glenn Bass have averages that range close to the .400 mark.

Spencer Gaylord, slick-fielding second baseman, and outfielder Carpenter have averages hovering around the .300 mark.

The first game tonight will be a seven inning contest and will be played under the "speed-up" rules. A large crowd is anticipated for tonight's battle and also tomorrow's encounter with Catawba.

Harrington Wins With Shutout Over B-F Nine

Spencer Harrington tossed a five-hit whitewash at visiting Belvoir-Falkland here yesterday afternoon and his mates slammed across five runs in the third inning to give the Greenville 'B' club a 6-0 victory.

The Greenies scored a single run in the first inning on Kenny Joyner's infield single and consecutive hits by Elbert Felton and Ed Smoot.

Greenville clubbed B-F ace Jerry Little for only three hits in its five-run third inning rally but a two-base error and two walks kept the visitors on the defense.

Felton opened the frame with a single and a walk to Smoot and Harrington's punt loaded the bases. Wright struck out but Foley worked Little for a walk, forcing in one run.

Owen lashed a single and a two-base error was committed with three runners scoring and Owen winding up on third base. He later scored on an infield grounder. Harrington struck out ten in working the route for the winners.

New Bern Cops NE Track Title

Northeastern Conference track records toppled yesterday as New Bern's Bears defeated all challengers to win their second straight NE track crown here yesterday afternoon.

Records were broken in the shot put, when Heath of New Bern heaved the steel 47'6 1/4" for a record, and also Heath set a new conference record in the discus event by hurling the disc 139'9".

The conference meet, which was held at the Guy Smith Stadium track, was entirely dominated in scoring by New Bern, with 54 points, while Greenville placed second with 28 points.

Roanoke Rapids, with 22 points, rounded out the rest of the scoring totals were Jacksonville with 12 points, Tarboro with 9 points, Kinston with 5 points, and Elizabeth City with 7 points.

Greenville's Phantoms, who copped a runner-up position for the consecutive time in two years, was passed, according to Phant coach by the performance of William Allen, a sophomore, who took a second place in the 440 yard run, and also was the anchor man on the winning Greenville mile relay team.

It was a relative duel for places between Dunn of New Bern and Allen throughout the afternoon of action. Dunn was the first place winner in the 880 yard run, and also the 440 yard run, with Allen grabbing the runner-up position in the latter event.

However, it was a different story when Allen and Dunn battled in the final lap of the mile relay, as the Greenville turned on a tremendous burst of steam in the final yards of the run, to pass his opponent, winning the event for the Phants.

Except for the first place in the mile relay, the only other event in which Greenville managed to cop a primary position was in the 120 high hurdles, when Erskine Duff posted a winning time of :21.5.

ECC Netters Win Over AC

East Carolina's tennis team, making shambles of the North State sport, won its 38th straight conference match on the ECC courts yesterday afternoon, blanking Atlantic Christian 7-0.

West took the opening set 6-1 and edged his foe 6-4 in the final set.

The East Carolina netters are host to non-conference Fort Eustis today.

Action On EC Application At Meeting Is Doubtful

Palmer Falls Back In Opening Round

Whether the conference will act on the application is doubtful. A new member first must be proposed by three conference schools, then must receive a 6-3 vote of approval by the membership.

The league is expected, however, to take action on setting up some sort of standards for possible new members.

Before the conference on the basketball front are decisions on whether to permit a league team to participate in the National Invitation Tournament in New York and whether to return the conference basketball tournament to Richmond for a seventh straight year.

Football coaches meeting Thursday night recommended that commissioner Lloyd Jordan be on the lookout for a possible bowl tie-up or post-season game that would enhance the league's prestige and financial status.

East Carolina, a school of some 4,000 students, sought membership in 1954 after the Southern Atlantic Coast Conference split but couldn't muster enough support.

Its four-man delegation—N. M. Jorgenson, athletic director; Dr. Robert Holt, dean; Dr. John Reynolds, faculty representative; and Jack Boone, football coach—indicated it would keep trying until it succeeded.

Jorgenson appeared before the conference's Executive Committee Thursday night and said he felt sure "a number of schools" support East Carolina's candidacy now.

"The problem is whether the conference feels it's in a position to want to enlarge," Jorgenson said. "If we're not accepted this time, we hope our application will be favorably held for future action."

Bally Ache Among Ky. Derby Favorites

League Leaders

This year Bally Ache has been out seven times for a record of five victories, two seconds and earnings of $211,800. Not once has he bowed in a rich stake as he chalked up victories in the Flamingo at Hialeah Park and the Florida derby at Gulfstream Park.

The two Florida triumphs plus a romp over Venetian Way in last Saturday's stepping stone at Churchill has established Bally Ache as the second choice at 5-2 to C. V. Whitney's Tompkin, 7-5 favorite. And Bally Ache could well go postward as the co-favorite of the crowd of 100,000.

Sylvan Theater Comedy Opens Tonight

Members of the cast of "A Midsummer Night's Dream" get together for a chat during dress rehearsal of the Shakespearean drama, pictured left to right, front row, are Mrs. Barbara Dixon of Greenville as Hippolyta; Mahlon Coles of Greenville as Duke Theseus; and Dick Heller of Greenville as Philostrate; back row, Karen Best of Mt. Olive, Marshall Braddy of New Bern, Leigh Dobson of Edenton, and Kenneth Harris of Ayden as the young lovers of the play.

Shakespeare's "A Midsummer Night's Dream," to be presented in the Flanagan Sylvan Theater at East Carolina College, will be given an artistic and carefully planned production by the East Carolina College Playhouse and the Greenville Little Theater.

Two performances of the comedy are scheduled, for 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday, and are open to the public. In case of rain on either night, the play will be given Sunday night at the same hour and place.

Dr. Joseph A. Withey, director of the East Carolina Playhouse, is director of the play, one of a series of spring productions of Shakespearean dramas at the college. In previous years his work as director of "As You Like It," "Macbeth," and "Romeo and Juliet" has won high praise. His ability is evidenced by his appointment as director of "The Third Frontier," historical drama to be presented in New Bern during the summer.

Working with Dr. Withey on "A Midsummer Night's Dream" is a talented staff from the city and the campus.

James Brewer of the college English department is serving as technical director of the production. He has designed settings for the play which, with the natural beauty of the wooded location of the theater, provide an attractive background for the action. Three simply designed platform areas provide a fairy mound, a hill in the wood, and scenes in Athens.

Costuming of the play will include Greek attire of principals in the cast and the fanciful garb of the fairies. Mrs. Lois Garren of Greenville designed the costumes, which for the first time in the spring Shakespearean productions were planned and made especially for the college production.

"A Midsummer Night's Dream" is a play which combines an entertaining story with music and the dance, presents a colorful spectacle, and appeals to the eye and the ear.

Mrs. Ramona VanNortwick of Greenville, choreographer for the production, has planned dances by the fairies and the Burgomash dance by Athenian workmen. In the final scene of the comedy the fairies will wear luminous crowns as they dance in honor of Duke Theseus' wedding.

Mrs. Garren and James Gillikin of Greenville, cast as Oberon and Titania, king and queen of the fairies, will also be presented in a dance.

Music for the production has been planned by Beatrice Chauncey and Ruth Graber of the college music faculty. Both the familiar Mendelssohn score and authentic period music will be included.

The cast of the play includes actors and actresses from both the city and the campus. Major roles are played by Mahlon Coles as Duke Theseus; Mrs. Barbara Dixon as Hippolyta; William Dixon as Bottom; Marshall Braddy, Kenneth Harris, Karen Best, and Leigh Dobson as the young lovers; Doris Robbins as Puck; and Mrs. Garren and Mr. Gillikin as the fairy king and queen.

"A Midsummer Night's Dream" is scheduled as an event of the Greenville Fine Arts Festival and of a week of programs preceding the inauguration May 13 of Dr. Leo W. Jenkins as president of East Carolina College.

Seven ECC Student Soloists, Orchestra, In Sunday Concert

Seven student soloists at East Carolina College and the East Carolina Orchestra will be presented by the college department of music Sunday, May 8, in a concert featuring concertos and vocal numbers.

The program will take place at 3 p.m. in the McGinnis auditorium and will be open to the public.

Scheduled as an event of Inauguration Week at East Carolina, the concert will be presented in honor of Dr. Leo W. Jenkins, who will be inaugurated as president of the college in ceremonies Friday, May 13, at 10:30 a.m. in the college stadium.

Immediately after the program, a tea in honor of Dr. Jenkins and his family will take place in the College Union. Faculty and staff members, representatives of student organizations, members of the College Union Student Board, and others attending the concert are invited to be present.

The East Carolina Orchestra will be directed by Donald Hayes at Sunday's program.

Mrs. Martha Bradner and Mrs. Alison Hearne Moss, both of Greenville, will appear as soloists on the program in arias from opera and in songs by outstanding composers.

Luther Gillon of Kannapolis will perform the Rondo from Mozart's Clarinet Concerto; and Theodore W. Beach of Greenville, Mozart's Concerto, no. 3 in E flat major, K 447, for French horn. Pianists on the program and their selections are: Emily L. Vinson of Auryville, the Allegro Con Brio from Beethoven's Concerto, no. 3 in G minor, op. 37; Carolyn J. Hinton of Zebulon, Beethoven's Concerto, no. 4 in G major, op. 58; and Tasker Polk of Warrenton, Liszt's Concerto, no. 2 in A major.

PAUL GALLICO'S Bestseller TOO MANY GHOSTS

CHAPTER 25
There was a note for him on the table when Alexander Hero returned to his room.

He read its brief contents: "Please meet me by the priory ruins. I'll be there at noon. Please come, Alexander, it is important." It was signed "Vivyan Wilson."

Hero said to himself, "Oh, Lord! Shall I not? Of all places, why the priory, where a dozen people can conceal themselves? What does she mean by 'important'—important to whom? Damnation, and damnation again! I suppose I'd better go. I did flirt with her. I did lead her on. I'll have to see what it is."

He went out, got into his car, and drove it through the entrance gates to the Hall, and a mile to the left down the main road where he parked it; then he climbed and walked swiftly back along the river to the ruins of Wytrim Priory.

She was seated on the stone beneath the pointed archway of the ruins of the old chapel, clad in a scarlet skirt, white blouse, about her head. Hero thought to himself somewhat bitterly, "Just the outfit for an assignation in a churchyard." And then to his horror he found that he was glad to see her, that she looked lovely, and that in another moment she would be in his arms. She had not yet observed him. If he turned and ran as fast as he could.

He continued on, and it happened rather as he thought it would, except that she burst into tears and said, "I thought you might not come. I had to see you to warn you—I'm frightened Alexander."

He smiled at her and said, "Not another ghost, Viv?" She did not smile in return. She said, "My husband."

"What about him?" "He's dangerous. Alexander, I'm afraid. I'm afraid for you—I'm afraid for myself. I don't know what he's going to do."

Hero said, "Isn't it rather late for you to be worrying? If he had been going to do something he would have done it by now."

She shook her head and said, "You don't know Howard. He keeps things to himself and he never forgives. People take him for a fool but he isn't." Then she added, "He doesn't believe that I had come to your room because of having seen the nun. He believes that when he caught—that when he saw me I was coming out of your room—that I had been there."

She clung to him suddenly, her head pressed against his breast beneath his chin. She reached up and kissed him and said, "There now, see it, it really doesn't matter. But promise me one thing."

"Yes," Hero said. He felt a pang as he wondered if his relief was showing on his face. He found himself liking Mrs. Wilson.

"Promise me that you'll be careful," she said, "very careful. Watch out."

"For what?" "She shook her head and said, 'I don't know. For Howard, I suppose. Will you promise me?' " "Yes, and we'd best go back separately," he said. She nodded and without a word, turned and went. He stood and watched her go until he had lost sight of the scarlet skirt through the trees. Then he turned and walked thoughtfully back to his car. When he reached it he saw Major Wilson sitting in the front seat waiting for him.

"Ah, there you are," said the Major, and his tone was affable enough. "Thought you'd be along soon when I saw your car here. Been looking for ghosts?"

"Yes," said Hero shortly. He was conscious that his nerves were tingling and that he was watching the Major closely. Seen from the side with the jaw somewhat undershot to the Guards' moustache, he looked more than ever like a shark.

"Find any?" the Major asked. "No," Hero replied. He wondered where the Major had been, how much he had seen and heard, whether he had followed his wife and had been concealed behind some piece of the ruins, or whether he had been out walking and had simply come upon the car.

"Almost lunchtime," said the Major. "Mind giving me a lift back?"

"Not at all," Hero replied, and pressed the starter switch, and as he did so rather expected a bomb beneath the hood to explode in American style and send both him and the Major to their respective rewards. The car purred sweetly into action.

"I suppose you wonder what I really want," Wilson said. Hero replied, "I hadn't thought . . . A lift, I suppose, as you suggested."

The Major smiled his disagreeable smile again and looked even more like a dogfish. "Well now, Hero," he said, "what it boils down to is that I really owe you an apology."

Hero was genuinely startled. "Oh," he said, "not at all."

"Yes, I do," the Major insisted. "Lost my head last night. Damn silly of me to go wandering about with a gun. Ought to know better. But you know how it is coming out of a sound sleep, eh?"

"One is likely to be confused," Hero said. "Exactly. Matter of fact, I had woken up a few minutes earlier. I heard something out in the hall, then he heard Mrs. Wilson go out. Don't believe in that stuff myself, you know. The next thing you know there was that unholly row. Sorry I slanged you. All right?"

Hero said, "Yes, quite all right." He drew the car up before the entrance to the Country Club wing and got out.

The Major said, "See here, old chap, what about a drink before lunch? Got a bottle of damn good wine in my room. Come up and have one with me. Show there are no hard feelings."

"All right," Hero said. "Thank you, I will be very kind of you." He was filled with curiosity. The apology seemed sincere enough, but he wanted Vivyan Wilson's reaction.

The Major puttered about and produced a bottle, unopened and with the unloaf seal still about it. Hero thought, "Probably not tincture of cyanide, but don't forget, my boy, the hand is quicker than the eye."

It took some time for the Major to find the corkscrew. By the time he had tumblers assembled and the cork out Mrs. Wilson came in. Hero threw her a hasty look, but she had carefully repaired whatever ravages their meeting had inflicted.

"Ah, there you are, my dear. Been having a little chat with Hero. Brought him up for a drink. We'll all have one." (To Be Continued Tomorrow)

Swings At Wasp, His Bus Wrecks

CHARLEROI, Pa. (AP) — A school bus driver took a swipe at a wasp Thursday and the vehicle crashed into a utility pole. Flames consumed the bus within minutes, but all 36 children aboard filed out safely.

Said driver Eugene Pritts: "If it wasn't for that emergency door, a lot of the kids would have never gotten out."

A few of the children suffered minor bruises. The crash occurred on a narrow road about 15 miles northeast of this western Pennsylvania community.

Child Killed By A Piece Of Wire

CLARION, Pa. (AP)—A piece of a wire hanger killed a two-year-old girl at her home here Thursday.

Clarion County Coroner J. Ward Kier said Laurie Sikke died from a punctured right lung which was caused by the 10-inch wire.

Kier said the girl's father, John Sikke, was mowing the lawn with a rotary mower when the accident occurred. He said the mower apparently cut the hanger.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP) — Airlines, aircraft and electronics advanced early this afternoon in an irregular stock market. Trading was slow over-all.

Turnover among the favored issues was more brisk than in the pivotal rails, utilities and industrial. Gains and losses of fractions to about a point prevailed in these groups.

Among the "science" and other issues which have drawn speculative interest, gains ran to about 7/8 for Texas Instruments and around 4 for Haver.

Aircraft and some other defense-related issues gave belated recognition to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's bristling speech.

Airlines went ahead solidly on news they were moving to increase fares under a new Civil Aeronautics Board ruling.

Rails, motors, steels, tobacco and nonferrous metals were mixed.

The market as a whole was in its second day of uncertainty following a strong rebound from the 1960 lows.

Universal Match wiped out an early loss of more than 3 and showed a net gain of close to a point.

United Air Lines and Pan American advanced more than a point each. Eastern and Douglas Aircraft were about a point higher. American Telephone dropped a point.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up .32 to 608.64.

Safety Council Told Of Farm Pond Toll

Of the 143 persons drowned in North Carolina in 1958, well over 100 died in farm ponds, according to Miss Nell Stallings, who spoke to the Pitt County Safety Council at their meeting yesterday.

Miss Stallings, a member of the Physical Education Department of East Carolina College, talked to the group on water safety. She pointed out that land owners who had ponds should provide some sort of protection at the pond to aid a swimmer in the event of trouble.

The instructor noted that a long fishing pole could be used to reach a victim, as could an inflated inner tube with a rope attached. A plank could also be used to aid a person in trouble, she noted.

Boating accounts for half of the drownings in the nation each year, Miss Stallings said, noting that everyone riding in a boat should wear a life preserver. Those operating the boat should be familiar with the capabilities of the craft and not endanger the life of the passengers on his boat or any other boat through careless or reckless operations.

One of the best safety measures while swimming or playing around water is to have a buddy who can give help in the case of an accident, Miss Stallings pointed out.

In addition to the safety tips given by Miss Stallings, a film, "Teaching Johnny To Swim," was shown to the group.

Luther Moore, chairman of the committee on the Vehicle Safety Check Lanes, told the meeting that three lanes would be in operation in Greenville May 24 and 25, while one lane would operate in Bethel, Farmville and Ayden May 26.

Moore said the Highway Patrol, City Police and Civic clubs were cooperating with the Safety Council in setting up and operating the lanes. Moore noted that free refreshments would be given to motorists going through the lanes.

He urged the public to take advantage of the free safety inspection service and said it is for the "good of the public" that the Council is backing the program.

The question of whether large fuel transports passing through the city were creating a hazard was brought up before the meeting. Charles Wheelbee, Chairman of the Council, appointed a committee to look into the situation and make a recommendation to the Council at its next meeting, June 2.

Roy Hardee was named Committee Chairman while E.W. Harvey and Leonard Bloxam were placed on the committee as members.

All members were urged to be present at the June meeting at which time the officers for the coming year will be elected.
