Economy Booming

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower today announced that the nation's economy has passed the half-trillion-dollar mark for the first time in history.

The President also disclosed at his news conference that employment last month scored the biggest April gain since World War II.

Reading from notes, Eisenhower took advantage of a question about housing legislation to discuss the economic picture which has been causing puzzlement and concern in many quarters since the first of the year.

Eisenhower said employment increased by 1,900,000 in April to 66,200,000.

He said unemployment dropped sharply falling by more than half a million.

Detailed figures on the job picture were to be announced later by the Labor Department.

Eisenhower's disclosure of the favorable employment report, it was learned on reliable authority, was pushed up a day to give the President something good to announce amid all the criticism of the handling of the American spy flight over Russia.

The government had planned to announce the new job figures Thursday. The job data is rarely handled out of the White House.

President Raises Doubts Russia Downed U. S. Plane; Defends Spy Activity

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said today there is some reason to believe the American spy plane which flew into the Soviet Union was not shot down at high altitude as the Soviets claim.

The President also told a news conference it is absolutely ridiculous for the Russians to contend the United States or any of its allies is engaged in any provocative action in the use of espionage planes.

Eisenhower said he still is hopeful—despite the furor over the plane incident—that the Paris summit meeting starting Monday will accomplish some good and help ease international tensions.

At the start of the news conference, Eisenhower read a prepared statement dealing with the American U2 plane which the Russians claim to have shot down from an altitude in excess of 60,000 feet.

In his statement, the President spoke of discrepancies in the Soviet account of shooting down the plane and capture of the American pilot, Francis G. Powers.

Explaining, Eisenhower said there is "some reason to believe that the plane was not shot down at high altitude."

In response to a request for elaboration about his mention of discrepancies in the Soviet account, Eisenhower referred to the photographs which the Russians released as pictures of the wreckage of the plane.

This government, Eisenhower said, believes that the pictures produced by the Russians are not actually photographs of the U2.

After he read his prepared statement, Eisenhower said he would have nothing further to say regarding the plane episode. But about a dozen questions were asked which dealt with at least the fringe of the episode, and he replied to all.

For example, he was reminded that he has said many times that he would not go to a summit conference under the circumstances of any Soviet threat or ultimatum. A spokesman noted that the Soviet government Tuesday threatened to retaliate against the United States if it continued to send spy planes over Russia.

Asked whether he regarded that as a threat in the category he had mentioned previously in relation to the summit meeting, Eisenhower replied that he did not. That particular threat, he went on, belongs in a special category and should not be regarded as an ultimatum.

In his prepared statement, Eisenhower touched on these points: The need for intelligence-collection activities, the nature of these activities, how should we view them and that the United States must not be distracted from the current real problems of the world.

On the point of need for intelligence, Eisenhower said no one wants another Pearl Harbor. This country, he went on, needs to have knowledge that will protect the nation's security.

The President said the Soviets make a "fetish of secrecy and concealment," and that this is a major cause of international tension today.

He spoke of gathering intelligence as a war deterrent.

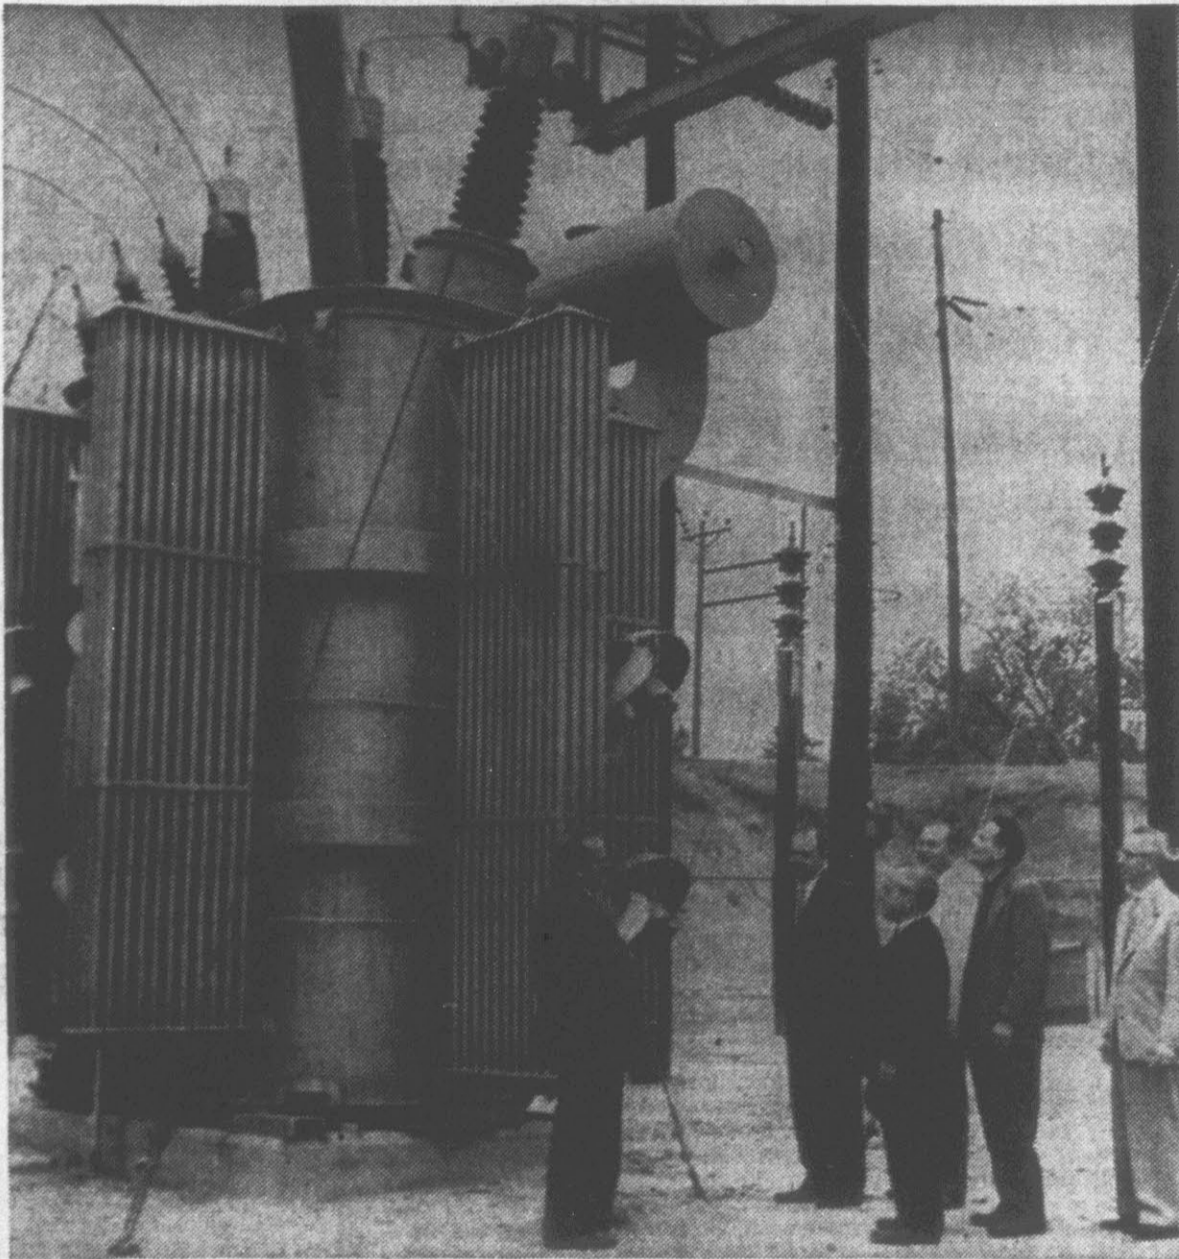

As for the nature of intelligence activities, they are of a special and secret character, he said. Such activities are intended to protect a nation's own military establishment, but at the same time are activities divorced from the military establishment.

We do not use the Army, Navy or Air Force in this intelligence-seeking program, the President said. It was at this point that Eisenhower spoke of discrepancies in the Soviet account of what happened to the American U2 plane, and voiced doubt that the aircraft was in fact shot down from a high altitude.

The President said espionage activities are distasteful but vital to the safety of nations conducting them. He recalled that at the 1955 Geneva summit conference the United States proposed a policy of "open skies"—mutual inspection from the air—but Russia rejected that proposal.

Commissioners On Annual Tour

Utilities Commissioners Inspect Power Facilities

Utilities commissioners made their annual tour of the municipally-owned power company facilities yesterday and offered commendation to the personnel.

During the tour they looked over a new transformer recently installed at the power plant substation. The transformer allows the utilities to double the amount of power it can take from Virginia Electric and Power Co. lines.

Supt. Leonard Bloxam told the commissioners that the new transformer was placed in service during a weekend last month without any interruption in service.

The transformer is identical to the original unit installed when Greenville Utilities first began purchasing power from VEPCO. The original transformer continues in operation. Commissioners also toured the power, water and gas plants as well as inspecting several jobs in the field.

J. Ed Waldrop offered a motion at last night's meeting "commending all personnel at the plant for the very orderly way they are keeping house and tending their jobs."

"Everything is in shipshape," Waldrop said.

Supt. Leonard Bloxam and all his subordinates should be commended, he continued. The motion passed unanimously. Chairman Charles Horne also commended the Utilities personnel.

The commission retained CPA John C. Proctor to do the annual audit of Greenville Utilities books. In a letter read to the board Proctor agreed to do the audit for $850.

Chairman Sugg appointed Commission member Bruce Sugg Jr. to work with Business Manager Larry Brown and Proctor on details of the audit.

Bloxam reported that all four of the city's water storage tanks have been emptied, cleaned inside and inspected. He said funds will be included in next year's budget for re-coating the interiors of the tanks and re-painting the outsides.

Commissioners approved a service pin system for Utilities employees as proposed by Bloxam. Gold filled pins will be awarded (Continued on page twelve)

Kennedy Sweeps W. Va.; Humphrey Out Of Running

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP)—Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass) took a giant stride toward the Democratic presidential nomination today with a smashing victory in the West Virginia primary.

He not only rolled over Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn) but also knocked him out of the presidential race completely.

At 1:08 a.m. (Eastern Standard Time) Humphrey conceded. Moments later he issued a statement in which he said:

"I am no longer a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination."

Kennedy flew back from Washington early today.

"West Virginia has tonight given me a major boost toward the Democratic nomination for president," he said jubilantly.

Kennedy, a Catholic running in a predominately Protestant state, thanked the voters.

"I had no doubt," he said, "that you would cast your vote on the basis of the issues and not on any religious prejudice."

Kennedy jumped ahead at the start and steadily increased his margin.

With 2,059 of 2,750 precincts reporting, the scoreboard looked like this: Kennedy 173,113, Humphrey 108,893.

The Kennedy victory wasn't entirely unexpected, but the size of it certainly was.

A few observers had thought that Kennedy might take a clobbering here. But usually the guess was that it would be close, with the edge, if any, going to Humphrey, a Congregationalist.

The timetable shows how unexpectedly easy it was.

West Virginia ballots are long, and most are counted by hand, so the prediction was that it might be 2 a.m., before a winner could be declared.

Yet by 9:30 p.m., only two hours after the polls closed, a reporter found Humphrey gloomily studying the early but, for him, already ominous returns.

The normally bouncy Humphrey, seeing the shattering of his presidential hopes, looked grave and resigned.

An hour later Kennedy's headquarters reported Kennedy would fly back here after all. Like Humphrey, he had gone to Washington Tuesday. Unlike Humphrey, he hadn't definitely planned to come back, saying he had to go campaigning in Maryland's primaries coming up May 17.

But as the results rolled in, Kennedy apparently decided this was too good to pass up. And back he came for the victory celebration.

By 11:20 Robert Kennedy, the senator's brother was saying that victory now seemed certain. "We are grateful to the people of this state," he said.

Camp followers for both candidates had made detailed charts of West Virginia, showing where Catholics are most numerous, where anti-Catholic sentiment possibly could be expected, where labor union voting is strong.

In the end, the charts proved largely meaningless.

Pitt Voters See Normal Increase

With the last of three voters' registration days approaching, available figures show a "normal increase" in the number of registered voters in Pitt County, according to observers.

The registration books are scheduled to open for the third time at each of the county's 25 precincts at 9 a.m. Saturday to register voters for the May 28 Democratic primary.

May 21 is Challenge Day. A spot-check of the county's precincts conducted by the Daily Reflector showed 752 new registrants in 14 precincts, including the largest in the county. In the precincts checked, the increase of names of registered voters went from 15,516 in November, 1958, to 16,268 last Sunday. Pitt's estimated registered voting strength is around 20,000.

The figures tabulated show an increase since 1958 of nearly five per cent. However, an estimated deduction of two per cent per year was made to allow for voters on the registration books who have either moved away or died. The deduction leaves a "normal increase" of around one per cent.

Registration Checkpoints County Board of Elections Chairman D. S. Spain emphasized last night three items about which questions have been raised:

(1) Persons registered on the Greenville city registration books are not automatically registered on the county and state books. The city books are "an entirely different thing," Spain said. A different set of books applies to registration for voting in both county and state elections.

(2) Persons who registered for the Pitt County Hospital Bond Election are not automatically registered for the May 28 primary. A special registration for the bond election was held, Spain pointed out.

(3) Persons who have moved from one precinct to another since registering for a state-county election should register in the precinct of their residence. A requirement for voting in the primary is that the voter must be a resident of the precinct in which he is registered for 30 days prior to the general election—not the primary.

Reports from various registrars indicate that large numbers of registered voters have turned out to make sure they are registered correctly.

Spain advised, "When in doubt, it is best to make sure by checking with the registrar."

Farmville Chief Of Police Resigns

FARMVILLE — In special session today, the Farmville Board of Town Commissioners unanimously accepted the resignation of Police Chief Walter M. Thomas and appointed Sgt. J. A. Gregory acting chief "until further notice."

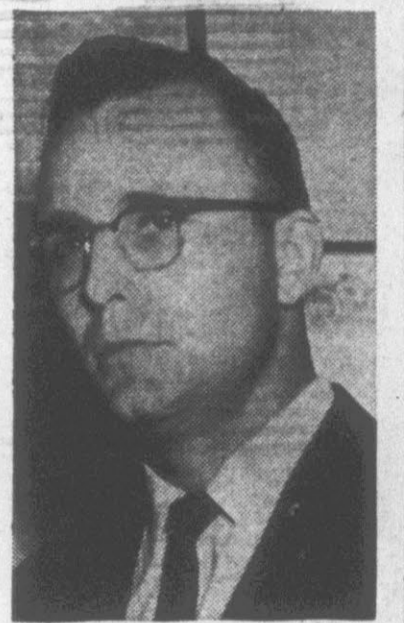

Thomas submitted a letter of resignation to the board's Police Committee naming the effective date of his resignation as May 25. The board voted that Thomas be "relieved of his duties as of this date (today) but approved payment of the resigning chief's salary through May 25."

Thomas, hired by Farmville last Feb. 15, handed the resignation statement to W. E. Joyner, town commissioner and Police Committee member, who submitted the letter to the board at noon today.

The statement said, "Due to continuous interference by some, it has been next to impossible to run the (police) department and enforce the law . . . I had rather start over from the beginning than to work under the now-existing conditions."

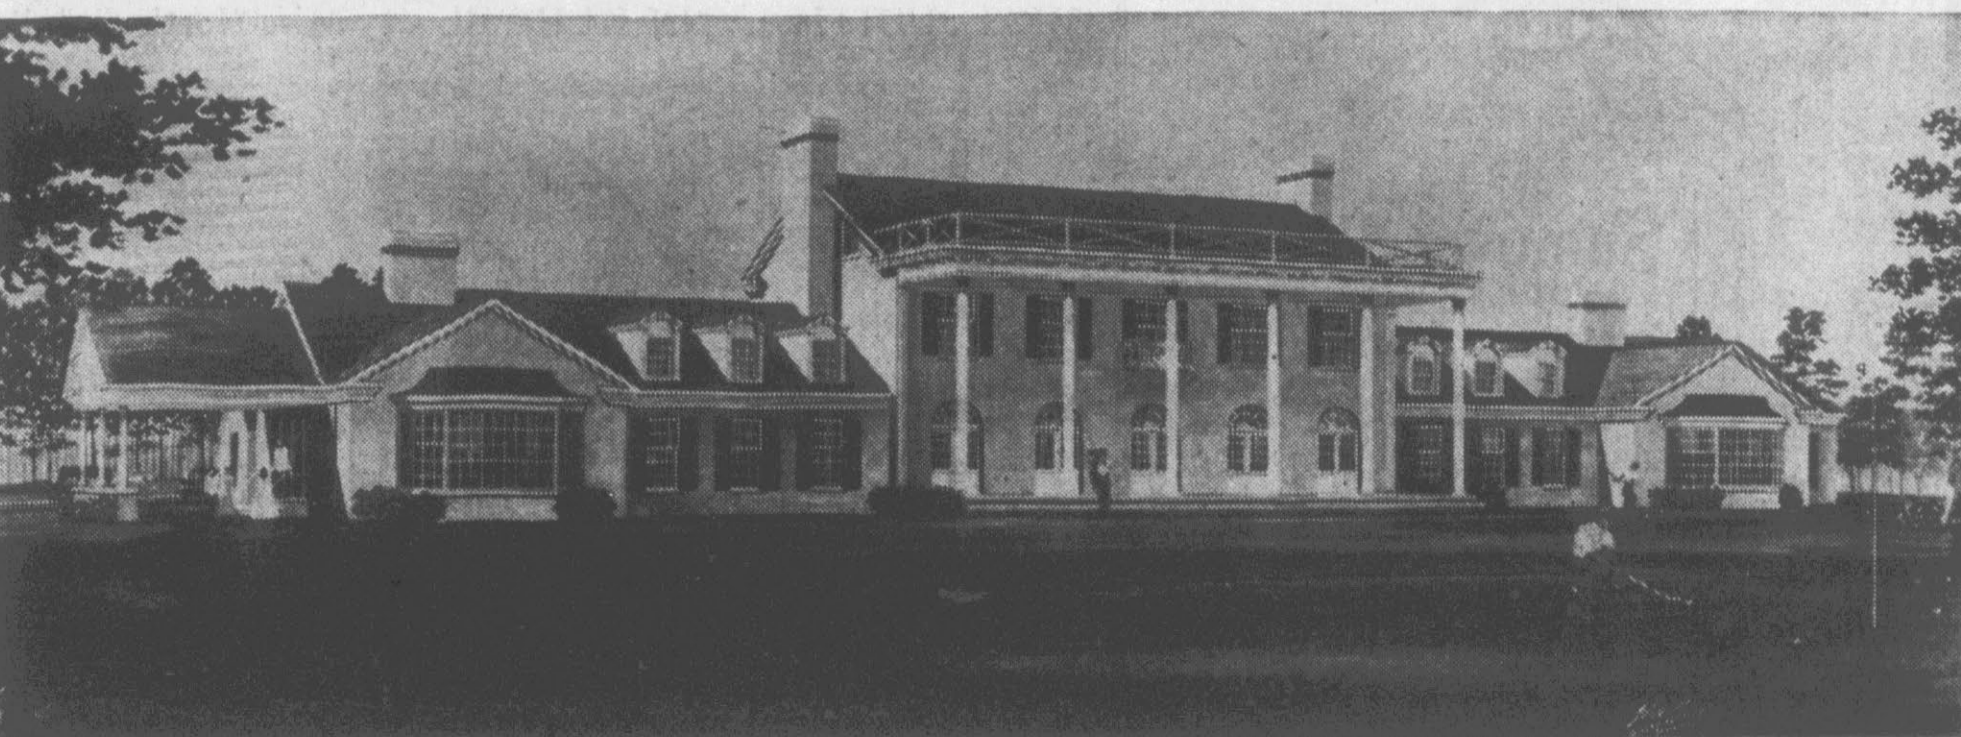

The special meeting was called this morning by Mayor Charles S. Edwards, but Edwards could not

Stockholders Give Approval To Expansion Plan For Greenville Country Club

PROPOSED NEW COUNTRY CLUB BUILDING . . . Architect's drawing of new clubhouse of Greenville Golf and Country Club which was approved by stockholders at their annual meeting last night. The club's board of governors was empowered to proceed with the project if they find it feasible.

Stockholders of the Greenville Golf and Country Club last night instructed their board of governors to proceed with plans for construction of a new 17,000 square foot club building.

Action on the major expansion and improvement program came at the annual stockholders meeting of the club. The new club building of colonial architecture would be constructed adjacent to the existing club building and would more than triple the existing clubhouse facilities.

At the annual election of officers James C. Lanier Jr. was elected president of the club for the coming year. Tyson Bilbro was elected vice president. Eight members were elected to the club's board of governors are: for three-year terms, John Proctor, F. D. Duncan, W. C. Clark Jr., and Carl Pierce; for two-year terms, Dr. Ray Minges; for one-year terms, Clay Stroud, W. L. Allen, and Hunter Keck.

Lanier succeeds David W. Mosier who has served as president of the club for the past five years. Following the election of officers, Lanier expressed to Mosier the club's appreciation for his years of service as president.

In approving tentative plans for the new club building, stockholders empowered the board of governors to borrow up to $125,000 for the project provided certain requirements are met prior to the beginning of construction. The resolution which approved the expansion program requires that it not be undertaken until the club has at least 400 stockholders, that no new indebtedness of the club be incurred until the payment of current indebtedness is assured, that club does not be increased to more than $15 per month, and that the board of governors determines that the plan for expansion is financially feasible.

Approval of the club's expansion program climaxed four years of study and planning by the club's building committee under the chairmanship of Ed E. Rawl Jr. Members of the committee in addition to Rawl are S. Reynolds May, N. O. VanNortwick Jr., Dr. M. W. Aldridge and Cameron Dudley.

In presenting proposals for the expansion program to stockholders last night, Rawl explained plans for the new building as well as the program for financing the project as proposed by the building committee. The new structure will include enlarged dining facilities, a large ballroom, new kitchen facilities and lounges. A portion of the existing building would be converted into facilities for teenagers.

District School Bus Road-e-o Stated Saturday

District Six School Bus Road-e-o will be held at Stallings Air Base in Kinston Saturday afternoon.

Russell Rogerson, driver education representative, said the Road-e-o will begin at 1 o'clock. District Six includes Greene, Pitt and Lenoir Counties. All of the participants will be seniors in high school and bus drivers.

Rogerson said there will be a boys division and a girls division. A $100 scholarship is to be awarded to the winner of each division. Hackney Bros. in Wilson is contributing the funds for the girls division winner while R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. is sponsoring the boys division.

Winners in each division will represent District Six at the State School Bus Road-e-o in Chapel Hill June 8 and 9. There they will compete for $500 scholarships. There will also be $200 scholarships for second place winners. A representative for each school was chosen to compete in the division contest. They were chosen on the basis of outstanding performance during the year.

Crop-Measuring In Two Months

Over 40,000 acres of Pitt County crop land to be planted in tobacco, peanuts, cotton, and wheat this crop year will be measured within the next two months, according to Chairman J. Lyman Edwards of the Pitt County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee today.

A major part of the Acreage Allotment and Marketing Program is the measuring of these acres after planting and prior to harvest. These allotment programs are effective as a result of farmers' approval in referendums held to determine if such programs would be desirable to the farm population.

Measuring is done for flue-cured tobacco, peanuts, and cotton by visiting farms and determining where allotment crops are planted and by plotting and measuring the acreage through the use of aerial photographs.

Edwards reminded farmers that the ASC reporters visiting the respective farms of the county to measure acreage are sent to perform a public service. He emphasized, "Assisting in this measuring and designation of fields planted to allotment crops is definitely the responsibility of the farmer or his agent."

Dr. Estes Talks To Heart Ass'n

ROCKY MOUNT—"Is Aging Necessary" was the topic of an address by Dr. E. Harvey Estes at the annual dinner meeting of the Coastal Plain Heart Assn. here this week.

Charles W. Howard Jr. of Greenville is president of the association. Reports from the fund chairmen in the five counties served by the Heart Association were heard and new officers were elected.

Dr. Estes, the guest speaker, is associated with the Duke and Veterans Administration Hospital. He is noted as a speaker as well as a well-known research scientist engaged in cardiovascular research.

Population - Wise, We Lost Ground

It should be disturbing to citizens of all of Eastern North Carolina that so many counties in this part of the state showed losses in population in the census figures released in the past few days.

Those counties which gained population are naturally proud of the progress that was reflected by the census count. The Eastern area of the state as a whole—which included four congressional districts—showed an overall increase of approximately 35,000 during the decade. That in itself is encouraging.

Even so, that gain in population during the 10 year period probably will be far below the national average. Certainly it will be below that shown for North Carolina as a whole when the census figures are completed. Population-wise, Eastern North Carolina has lost ground compared with the rest of the state and the nation.

Of even greater concern are the counties of the area which have seen their population dwindle during the past 10 years. Our neighboring county of Beaufort was shocked by a decrease of 1,500 in its population from 1950 to 1960. Our neighbor county of Martin showed a decline of 900 in its population during the decade. Spotted throughout the Eastern area were other counties which lost rather than gained population during the 10-year period.

In this section of the state we have been aware of the migration from the farms into the towns and cities in recent years. Mechanization of agricultural operations, curtailment of crop allotments, a sagging farm economy and other factors have hit hard many counties of this area, driving people from the farms in quest of earning a living. Though increased efforts toward industrialization the area and its individual counties have tried to provide new jobs for people who found it necessary to leave the farms.

For the most part, those counties in the area which showed gains in population during the decade are those which have made some progress in that direction. In those where population dwindled, the rate at which new jobs were provided was not sufficient to keep pace with the disappearance of year-round farm employment. The people had little choice but to go elsewhere to seek gainful employment.

The population count points up the fact that Eastern North Carolina needs to continue its efforts to stabilize and if possible expand its agriculture, and at the same time intensify its efforts to bring in industrial plants. Otherwise it will continue to see its population growth moving at only a snail's pace—if at all—while other sections of the state drain off its people to fill jobs.

The problem is not one which is solely the concern of those counties of this area which lost population during the decade. It is a problem to which the area as a whole must turn its attention.

We'll Never Get All The Puzzle's Answers

It would be nice to have the answers to questions about the U. S. plane that went down in Russia a few days ago. But international relations being what they are, national security policies of both the U. S. and the Soviet Union being what they are, there's hardly a chance that the people will ever know what really happened.

At least one U. S. expert on the U2 has said the picture of wreckage the Soviets claimed was the American plane bore no resemblance to the U2. Rep. Clarence Cannon, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee told the House yesterday the plane was not shot down by the Soviets, but apparently was forced down by "some unforeseen and unavoidable mechanical or physiological defect".

The claims and charges by both the United States and the Soviet Union so far have been conflicting, and there is every reason to believe they will continue to conflict. The Soviets will have their own propaganda version of the plane incident, and the U. S. probably will not want to give away secrets of its own in replying to the Soviet statements.

There are many questions which come to mind. Among them:

If the plane was hit by a rocket at 60,000 feet, how could it avoid being destroyed either in the air, or when it hit the ground?

If the plane was exploded in flight by rocket, how did the pilot escape? How was the plane's camera and other equipment kept intact during the explosion and crash?

Did the Russians really have the information they claimed, or did they make a supposition, a charge, and we fell for the bait by admitting the flight's mission?

Did the flight take the Soviets by surprise, or were they expecting and waiting for it?

We'll probably never get all the answers to these and many other questions, but if we could, they would provide interesting reading for people here and abroad.

The Ones That Weren't Caught

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP) — But what about the ones that got away?

This must be on Premier Nikita Khrushchev's mind at the very moment he is patting himself on the back with the claim of shooting down an American spy-plane over the Soviet Union. It was an event which, for various reasons, shocked the world.

But this event, because of Khrushchev's propaganda genius and our own State Department's clumsiness, has been blown far out of its true proportions, and for this reason:

Soviets spy on this country, this country spies on the Soviet Union. This time an American plane was caught doing it. Other times Soviet agents were caught here.

The only real achievement in all this was the propaganda use Khrushchev made of it. Yet, if the truth were known, he probably suffered a shock himself.

Monday Christian A. Herter, secretary of state, admitted this country for years has been sending spy-planes along the edges of the Communist world and sometimes deep into it, too.

This doesn't make the Soviet military look good. While Khrushchev can boast of one American plane knocked out of the skies, others for years were able to fly in over the Soviet Union, fulfill a spy mission, and get away untouched.

Monday night Khrushchev revealed "we took to task" some of the Soviet military who, he said, let a chance slip by to shoot down another American plane which he said was over Communist territory April 9. But it was the American government which presented Khrushchev with his propaganda chance for catching just one spy-plane on the job.

In the first place, the timing of the plane's mission over the Soviet Union was appallingly bad. It was sent on its mission just a few days before President Eisenhower was to meet Khrushchev at the summit in Paris. They met Monday.

There was the chance the plane would be nailed, with all that involved. It was nailed and it enabled Khrushchev to point to this country as a treacherous antagonist at the moment Eisenhower was getting ready for the summit.

Then Khrushchev ran into a better bargain: This government, apparently assuming the pilot was dead and Khrushchev could not prove anything, put out a feeble explanation: That maybe the pilot had lost consciousness for lack of oxygen and was carried over the Soviet Union by his unguided plane.

The State Department also tried something else which, as the department itself demonstrated later, was a lie. It said there was never any "attempt to deliberately violate Soviet air space."

Khrushchev was waiting for something like this. He moved in. He announced the spy-plane pilot, Francis G. Powers, had been captured and admitted spying.

Caught flat-footed, the State Department tried to alibi its way out. It admitted Powers might have been spying but that "insofar as the authorities in Washington are concerned there was no authorization for any such flight described by Mr. Khrushchev."

This raised immediate questions here and abroad: What goes on here? Doesn't Eisenhower know? Were military leaders or others carrying out spying without his knowledge or approval?

So the department had to clean this one up to show Eisenhower was in command. Herter said Monday American planes, under Eisenhower's general directives to gather information by every possible means, have carried out spy missions around and over the Soviet Union, although Eisenhower didn't authorize specific missions.

All this really meant was that while Eisenhower approved the spying in general he left it to others to carry out the details. But—remembering all the spying being carried out by the Soviet Union, past and present—if Khrushchev tries to get too self-righteous about this case, Eisenhower can say to him: Look who's talking.

Ghost Writers In The Sky

Equal Time For Us All

Recently we had a few words to say about Hooker Memorial Christian Church's groundbreaking ceremonies for their new church building.

And readers will remember that we have followed a rigid policy of equal time for political candidates in this column.

Well, we want to do the same thing for the churches.

Therefore it is our pleasure to announce that Eighth St. Christian Church will observe its annual Homecoming Day Sunday.

How's that for equality?

We're just joking of course. The reason we thought of it was because the ministers of these two Christian Churches happened by the Reflector office at the same time yesterday.

The Rev. Thomas Money of Hooker Memorial informed us that the contractor had already gone to work on his new building.

Someone commented that if

Sunday's groundbreaking had been delayed, it would have had to be a corner stone laying instead.

The Rev. W.J. Hadden, of Eighth St. Christian came in at the same time to bring some information on his church's Homecoming services. The church will be celebrating its 60th anniversary also on Sunday.

So everybody is shaken up by the revelation that an American spy plane has been downed over the Soviet Union.

The U.S. public, of course, never really knew that our planes were making such trips, although perhaps some U.S. citizens suspected it.

So we find out we really don't know what's going on in this strange world struggle for which there is no historical precedent.

On the other hand, the Soviet public didn't know about such flights either. Now they find out that so-called enemy planes can be sneaked into their territory without detection.

The resulting public reaction might be the same as that in this country when the Soviets put the first Sputnik in orbit.

Finally, citizens of both countries find that what they've been told about resisting enemy attack just won't hold water now.

In the United States the nation's leaders have established elaborate radar systems and missiles are being set up.

The idea was, we were told, to have the missiles ready to "massive retaliation" in case enemy planes ever headed this way. Presumably Soviet leaders have said the same thing.

Now we find American planes have flown over Allied nations.

So the question now is: When do the missiles start flying? Certainly not when the first enemy plane is sighted. And if not when the first plane is sighted it will apparently have to be when the first bomb lands.

Rather than ruining hopes for the Summit Conference maybe this spy incident will help things along. After all it only emphasizes what the world has known since that first A-bomb was dropped on Hiroshima. This has got to be the age of the diplomat, rather than the soldier.

Other Editors Saying All Summer Or 10 Months?

(Hertford County Herald)

Just now when the end of school is approaching and the summer vacation is in sight, along comes the report of the Commission for the Study of a 12 Months' Use of Public School Buildings which says a majority of the school superintendents in North Carolina favor cutting down the vacation time from three months to two, with operation of the schools ten months in the year.

The commission that made the report is one of the numerous study commissions that have been named by the General Assembly. It was created in response to the Legislature's wish to know more about the probability of greater utilization of the investment in school buildings and to cut down on classroom construction costs.

Perhaps the school superintendents are right and ten months of school instead of nine would be more practical and economical than the long established practice of a nine month term.

In some quarters it is being argued that the summer vacation period should be abolished altogether, not simply shortened. They contend that the summer vacation from school is outdated, that it is too costly, they say that the reasons for summer vacations are no longer valid, that the practice is hurting American education.

When public schools started, they say, the majority of the children lived on farms and were desperately needed during the summer months for work on the farms. Now less than 10 per cent of the school children come from farms. And farming, so the argument goes, has changed so much in the past decades that there is no longer a special need for the children during the summer.

Proponents of abolishing summer vacations say:

1. Today's children need to spend more time in school if they are to receive a full education. There is not enough time under present schedules.

2. Summer vacations are too costly. Millions and millions of dollars of school property are shut up for three months and stand idle—completely useless. Also we are not using the talents of our teachers efficiently.

Other arguments concern teachers. Some say teachers are underpaid for nine months of the year, then spend the summer months doing odd jobs—work that doesn't require their specialized training. If the teachers taught throughout the year, they could be paid a fair salary and would be using their special training.

Others contend that teaching throughout the year would be too much of a strain on the teachers. The teachers need the summer months to rest up, prepare for the coming year, and to go to school themselves.

How about the students? Do they need the summer to recuperate, or is it just time idled away? How about those pupils who work to earn money for college or to help out with family expenses?

Those against summer vacations say the serious students who need to earn money can find part-time jobs throughout the year. Time during the summer now spent at camps, swimming pools, baseball fields, would be better spent in school.

There have been experiments in some places with year-round teaching, but with staggered nine month terms for both pupils and teachers. Generally speaking, according to school people, these experiments have not proved satisfactory and have resulted in a lower quality of instruction.

Perhaps this proposal of a ten month term will offer a practical compromise and solution, affording more time for more education, although it will not be a solution to the problem of reducing the cost of construction of needed classrooms.

One In 65 Employees Will Steal

By ELMER ROESSNER

One out of every 65 employees will steal from his or her employer this year, according to Roy C. Taylor, business controls analyst, of Akron, Ohio. He told the American Management Association that each year 1,000,000 persons yield to temptation.

Only a small part of the inside-jobbers are persons with a criminal past, he said on a basis of studies of hundreds of cases. From these studies, he was able to describe the typical embezzlers.

The male: He is married and has children. Both he and his wife are from good families. They mow their lawn and cut the hedge at the home they are buying or renting in a nice section of town. They often attend church and their children Sunday school. They are buying an automobile, TV, refrigerator and appliances on the installment plan, with payments due or past due. They are in debt for money borrowed and other obligations. They have the normal illness and hospital problems that confront most people. The family dresses neatly but not expensively, are accepted socially and to their friends appear to live a normal family life. He earns a comfortable living wage or salary but his wife who is usually unaware of his stealing, thinks he earns more than he actually does.

THREE FEMALE TYPES
The female: She may be classified in three or more ways, (1) the woman who steals to help her family, invariably depriving herself of any luxuries, (2) the one who seeks a quick jump from a life of semi-poverty to luxurious living and (3) the one who steals to finance a boy friend invariably running the gauntlet of expensive clothes and accessories, flashy convertibles, gambling in many forms and otherwise living dangerously. If the second or third has given any thought to the day of reckoning, believes she can charm out of it and often is found to call on her employer for leniency and business associates for assistance and support.

His studies, he said, showed three principal motives in this order: living beyond means; gambling and high living, and costly illness of self or family.

EXCUSES OFFERED
Factors contributing to those motives, as offered by those apprehended, he said, were:
Smaller take-home pay; larger families with higher costs; abused installment buying; high interest on money borrowed; increased taxes and fixed charges; High liquor and entertainment expenses; costly vacations and trips; costly strikes and effect on income; "corruption and deception in high and low places," and more leisure time in which to plan trouble.

These reasons seem to be largely self-serving excuses. They seem to be efforts to blame other people for speculations.

Mr. Taylor had no single cure for this widespread larceny, but he urged internal controls, training of supervisory personnel, sound and frequent audits and inventory checks, alertness to new methods of pilfering, professional advice and constant vigilance.

It seems that thefts could be cut if all employees were educated to understand that losses diminished their chances of higher pay and reduced their job security. Few internal thefts can be successful without the connivance or tacit approval of other workers.

Haters Still Around

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
COPYRIGHT, 1960, KING FEATURES SYNDICATE, INC.

Some time ago, I received a letter from E. Mullins of the Policy Committee of the Institute for Biopolitics of Chicago questioning me as to the truth of the report the aforesaid Mullins had received from H. L. Hunt, the oil tycoon, that Len. Hunt, Trotsky and I made the Russian Revolution. Amused, I replied that it must have been another fellow.

Subsequently I heard that some Chicago private eyes, formerly FBI agents, were searching through files of my voluminous writing. Their apparent object was to discover whether I was or was not Zinoviev or Kamenev, or maybe Madame Kollontai or perhaps even Elsa Maxwell.

The conspiracy deepens!

Behold! I am told that a Chicago millionaire, who I assumed is a friend of mine, is financing the Institute for Biopolitics, which made me a bit miserable, for the name mentioned is that of a good American. Let us pull a veil over it all!

Then I received a letter from the Institute for Biopolitics saying: "Your support is needed today!" The document is addressed to "The White Men of America." The subject of the letter is "Parasitism." The first paragraph of this letter reads:

"The philosophy of the group led by Jews, which now holds power in the United States and in the other 'people's democracies', is that of humanism. This doctrine holds that since all human beings are equal, any human being who works harder and earns more shall have a percentage of his earnings taken from him and donated to those who work less or not at all. As any biologist knows, the human beings who subsist on the efforts of others are parasites. . . the philosophy of humanism is the philosophy of parasitism."

The House Committee on Un-American Activities, in 1954, sued a report on "Neo-Fascist and Hate Groups." Among those mentioned was the National Renaissance Party and the report notes that Eustace Mullins, my Chicago pen pal, wrote an article for the NRP Bulletin, entitled, "Adolf Hitler: An Appreciation." He is also noted to be a staff writer for "Common Sense," a particularly vicious anti-Semitic publication. In his article on Hitler, Mullins wrote on October 1952:

"Eventually America must admit her debt to Adolf Hitler for it was Hitler who first called upon all Aryan people to unite and challenge (sic) Jewish economic and political power. It was Hitler who first enunciated the doctrine of national self-determination and led the armies of Christian Europe in a great crusade against the godless Jews of the Kremlin. Hitler, like Christ before him, was crucified on a Cross of Gold through the duplicity of his own Christian people."

Mullins is associated with Maynard O. Nelsen who heads the "Realpolitical Institute" which gives the same P.O. Box in Chicago. From the record that I have gathered Mullins is a very active and aggressive person. He seems to be obsessed with the word "whiteman" and his Institute has published "Pax Americana, the Elite Whiteman's Guidebook." Mullins' associate, Maynard O. Nelsen, started his Neo-Naziism while still at the University of Minnesota where he paraded in a Nazi uniform and distributed Nazi literature. The police went after him and he had lots of trouble. In 1954, he founded the "Realpolitical Institute," for Biopolitics. Nelsen is not only anti-Semitic but he is anti-Christian, he regarding Christianity as a Jewish subversive movement.

Another organization owned by these two men is called "M & N Associates." This firm engages in "Political Engineering." Here Eustace Mullins signs himself "State Chairman of the Constitution Party of Illinois." In an article written by Mullins in this guise, he says that "J. Edgar Hoover's recent book 'Master of Deceit,' was largely written for him in the ADL offices in New York, for favors received." A. D. L. (Continued on page five)

TOO MANY GHOSTS

CHAPTER 20
"Susan," Mark Paradine called after her, hurrying along the path shaded with thornbushes that led to the brightly colored patterns of the sunken garden. She stopped on the path to face him, crying, "Let it be, Mark! I've been told off properly and well."
He said, "Blast Mother! I suppose it was a family affair as well that you have been frightened, threatened, and bedeviled ever since you've been here."
"Then why didn't you say so?" Susan exclaimed, and was immediately sorry for she laid a hand on his arm and said, "Oh, I'm sorry, Mark—that was unfair."
There was a marble bench set in the border of small, closely bunched together red and blue flowers laid out in the lovely old-fashioned design. They sat on it side by side and Susan stirred the gravel smoothly with her toe.

She said, "I'm sorry, Mark, but something went wrong somewhere — dreadfully wrong. Not even Alexander—Mr. Hero—has been able to find out what it is. I don't think I want to stay here any longer. I don't believe in ghosts and spirits and that kind of thing, but I do think I believe in wickedness, Mark—and I don't like it."
Mark Paradine groaned. "If you'd only let me look after you, Susan..."
Susan asked, "Can anyone protect anyone from hatred? Can't you see how your mother dislikes me?"
Mark became suddenly changed and grim. He said, "I am not asking you to marry my mother, I'm asking you to marry me."

Susan looked up at him in surprise. These strange British with their weaknesses and their great strengths! After a little she said with a note of melancholy in her voice which made it almost childlike, "It was going to be such a lovely summer. Why do you suppose it went wrong?"
Mark asked, "Susan, are you in love with Sir Richard Lockerie?"
"Dick? Oh no!" Her reply had come so swiftly and naturally that it surprised even Susan, who had not known that he was quite so sure. She was certain of it now.
"It is Alexander Hero?"
Mark asked, "No, I don't think so. He's terribly attractive though, isn't he?"
"Yes, I'm afraid so."
"I don't think I could ever learn to love a man like that," Susan said half to herself. "I made him angry because his liking me interfered with his practice of logic and deduction—you see, he suspected me of making up my ghost. And besides, he wasn't quite sure of my virtue, either."
Mark cried, "What?"
Susan said, "The night Alex recreated the haunting in my room, someone tried the door—someone was trying to get in. If he had rushed out into the corridor he might have caught whoever or whatever it was."
Mark asked, "Why on earth didn't he?"
A half-smile turned the corners of Susan's mouth as she looked back upon that night. She replied, "He let on that it was chivalry, that he didn't wish me to be compromised — but really he was afraid of who it might be if he opened the door."
The young man looked bewildered. "But why?" he asked. "I don't see..."
Susan suddenly felt her heart flooded with tenderness at this innocence. All unknowing, Mark Paradine had answered the question as to what the man she could love would be like.
He then said, "I'm in love with you, Susan. I've asked you to marry me before — when it was too soon, perhaps, or the time wasn't right, or we didn't know one another, but time has run out. Susan — suddenly there isn't any left. I feel as though something dreadful might happen to you, that somehow, if we were one—if you would say that you cared for me and would marry me, I could stop it."

The girl looked at him out of troubled eyes, for she knew now that she loved him, and wished that it could be as he wanted it, but she was human and all the bitterness and hatred that had been directed at her since her coming to Paradine Hall stood between them — was widened by the manner in which Lady Paradine had only a few moments before thrust her aside and let her know in so many words that she was no more than an outsider.
She etched another design in the gravel with her toe and said, "Oh! Mark, Mark—I wish you weren't a Paradine."
"Why?" he said sharply and suddenly. "What's wrong with being a Paradine?"
"Oh!" Susan replied, startled. "I didn't mean — it's just that in our country we don't believe in hereditary titles, or..."
Mark asked, "Do you believe in families?"
"Of course I do," Susan said. "I love my family."
"I meant in the importance of families. In your country families are not important—in mine they are."
Susan looked at the young man in astonishment. "Why, Mark," she said, "I do believe you're angry."
"Yes," he replied, "I am."
She drew in a quick breath to say contritely, "Oh, Mark, I'm so sorry."
He said, "You needn't be. I didn't ask you to be sorry. I am not saying that I am either proud or ashamed of my family—there have been times when I have been both—but we are the Paradines. We live in and own a little corner of England, and the Paradines have been a part of English history for a long time."
Susan was looking at him with dismay. She said, "Mark, Oh dear..."
The young man went on, "Let's have this clear, Susan. I have loved you ever since I first laid eyes on you, but I like being a Paradine. I hope to be a good one. It's almost like being in a relay race, where one passes along the torch to the other — except that you can't go it alone—you run in pairs. I was asking you to become a part of me and with me to hand on the flame again when it came our turn to let it go. I wanted it to be you. That's about all I have to say."

And with that he arose and walked down the path, leaving Susan sitting there looking after him, feeling as though someone had closed the door in her face, and through that closing she had lost her world.
He was not yet out of sight when she was on her feet and calling, after him, "Mark — oh, Mark!"
He stopped and turned around to see her standing forlornly in the center of the path, and there was no longer about her any of the self-confidence or cool assurance that had been the shell of Susan Marshall but only a lonely and somewhat frightened girl.
He took slow, hesitating steps in her direction. It was hard for him to make his way back to her; it was harder for her to ask him to come, and yet they were human, young, and in love.
"Mark," she said again, with a wistfulness that was quite new to her. "I've been told off again." And then she added in a lower voice, "But this time I liked it."
He came closer still, until only a few yards separated them, and they stood thus looking at one another across the gulf that a few moments before had appeared to be so unbridgeable.

"Mark," Susan whispered, kind between them. "I'm glad you're a Paradine. Please—might I be one too?"
Here deduces two separate and distinct motives in the hauntings of Paradine Hall as the story was no longer distance of any continues tomorrow.

I have much more material on Mullins and Nelsen but this suffices to show what the Institute for Biopolitics is. We thought that Hitler was dead but it is apparently possible to make a living out of his ghost. The Neo-Fascists and the Communists ought to get together to pool their resources in their mutual effort to damage the United States.
It is often suggested that these small efforts be ignored. Nothing can be ignored in these perilous times when our country suffers subversive groups.

ECC Clings To Top Perch, Edge Bulldogs In Eighth

East Carolina blew a four-run lead at Guy Smith Stadium last night but came back with a single run in the bottom half of the eighth inning to edge past Atlantic Christian, 5-4, and keep its North State lead intact.

Jerry Carpenter rapped a single in the eighth, driving in Gary Pierce with the winning run. Pierce had reached first on Bene Byerly's error and moved around to third on Jimmy Martin's single.

Charlie Johnson hit into a double-play to end the eighth inning threat. East Carolina had pulled out front by touching ACC starter Larry Daniels for three runs in the first and another in the second.

A costly error by third sacker Wayne Quinton led to the first inning rally. Spencer Gaylord and Wally Cockrell singled, Pierce got a walk, and Martin hit a fly, scoring Gaylord. With two outs, Quinton muffed Carpenter's grounder, allowing Cockrell and Pierce to score on the play. Johnny Ellen, ECC starter, scored the fourth run in the second when he singled, moved to second on an infield grounder and scored on Wilbur Castellow's single.

ACC tied it in the sixth on an EC error, a walk, and four consecutive hits. Moving along smoothly for five innings, Ellen ran into trouble when he walked Terry Harris and James Fulghum reached first on Martin's error. Ellen struck out Daniels for the second out but Byerly, Quinton, John Shotwell, and Bobby Atkinson supplied a rash of hits, driving in four runs and sending Ellen to the showers in favor of freshman Kenny Snyder. Snyder retired Ken Bryan on three strikes and went on to blank the Bulldogs over the last three innings, receiving credit for the victory.

East Carolina batters broke their recent batting slump by pounding Daniels for 10 hits but ACC was picking up 12 off ECC pitching. The victory left East Carolina with a 9-2 conference record and a 13-5 overall mark. The Bucs have three conference games remaining. They meet Elon here on Saturday night and close out with an afternoon doubleheader against High Point next Tuesday.

With a field of over 60 already entered, Barnes plans to draw the pairings tomorrow afternoon. The first two rounds will be played for elimination purposes. Only the top 30 players will compete in the third and final round. The tournament will start at 7:00 Thursday night and will be completed in one night.

Carolina, Duke Leaders In ACC Baseball Chase

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

North Carolina and Duke stand on the threshold of the Atlantic Coast Conference baseball championship today with North Carolina State leading in third place ready to sweep away the laurels should either stumble.

Duke moved back into a tie with North Carolina Tuesday for first place, beating Virginia twice, 6-0 and 5-1. The Tar Heels, meanwhile, edged South Carolina 3-2 in 12 innings. Duke and UNC are 9-3 while N.C. State is third with an 8-4 record.

No games are scheduled today, but N.C. State faces its big bid Thursday, playing at North Carolina. And, should the Tar Heels dispose of the Wolfpack, they still must contend with Duke on Saturday in Durham.

N.C. State knocked Clemson from contention 8-7 in 10 innings and Maryland cooled Wake Forest 7-4 in other games.

Duke relied on the pitching of Butch Williams and Don Altman to hand Virginia the double setback. Williams now 3-1, scattered seven hits, walked two and struck out eight. Altman, beaten only once in nine decisions, gave up eight hits as Duke upped its overall record to 15-7.

A 12th inning squeeze play gave North Carolina its all-important run over South Carolina. The Tar Heels scored a lone run in the eighth which sent the game into extra innings. Three North Carolina pitchers limited South Carolina to five hits over the 12-inning route.

Clemson's loss to N.C. State eliminated the defending champions from the running for another baseball crown. O'Neal Eason homered and doubled, and Jimmy Williams singled, the latter leading to the winning run, to help the Wolfpack.

Maryland scored three times in the first inning, and utilized an 8-hit attack to down Wake Forest. Don Brown homered for Maryland and Aubrey Currie had a circuit blast for the Demon Deacons.

Champ Will Mix Business With Pleasure Again

By JACK HAND

Associated Press Sports Writer GROSSINGER, N.Y. (AP)—The world heavyweight boxing champion intends to mix business with pleasure once more as he prepares for his June 20 defense against ex-champ Floyd Patterson.

Ingemar Johansson, widely criticized last summer because he didn't worry about his boxing 24 hours a day, can point to the record to back up his strategy. "I box six or seven rounds every day," he said. (He only went four Tuesday.) "I think I actually worked harder for our last fight than Patterson. He just kept staying in the training room all the time."

Stengel Starts Second Half

NEW YORK (AP)—Casey Stengel started his second half-century in baseball today with his usual six-wink and a long look back to Kankakee, Ill.

It was on May 10, 1910, that Stengel, 19 years old, took his spot in center field for the Kankakee club in the old Northern Assn.

"They called me 'Dutch' in them days," rasped the 69-year-old New York Yankee pilot. "I dunno why, but they did. I remember the team like it was yesterday. 'The league only lasted until July 4, and no records were kept. I never did find out what I was hitting. After the last game, the owners split up all the dough they pulled in and beat it."

"I didn't know it during the last two weeks, but I was playing for nothing. I never did collect that pay."

Giants, Pirates Keep Pace In National Loop

By ED WILKS

Associated Press Sports Writer It isn't how many you win in a row that counts in the National League race. It's whom you beat and when. Ask the San Francisco Giants, who have a modest, four-game winning streak but a 1 1/2-game lead.

They matched their longest success string since 1958 with a 4-2 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies Tuesday night after replacing Pittsburgh in first place with a three-game sweep over the Pirates. And they needed this one to keep the Bucs from making up any lost ground. The second place Pirates, who had lost four straight after winning 10 of 12, defeated Los Angeles 3-2.

The only other NL game scheduled, Cincinnati at Chicago, was rained out. It was the Cubs' fifth straight postponement.

In the American League, Boston defeated Chicago 9-7 on a pinch-hit grand-slam home run by ex-Dodger Rip Repulski, but the White Sox retained a one-game lead as Cleveland beat second place New York 5-1 in 10 innings. The Detroit Tigers ended their slump at 10 games, winning 1-0 at Washington on Don Mossi's three-hitter and Rocky Colavito's two-out home run in the ninth.

Kansas City whipped Baltimore 10-0, backing ex-Pirate Dick Hall's six-hitter with a nine-run fifth inning.

The Giants, getting a pair of unearned runs as the Phils made three errors, won it on Don Blasingame's tie-breaking single in the seventh after blowing a 2-0 lead. The Phils caught up with Wally Post's two-run homer in the seventh off Johnny Antonelli, who was working on a two-hit shutout. Stu Miller (1-1) won it by facing and retiring just one man, loser Gene Conley (0-1) in the seventh.

Fullmer Looking For Knockout

WEST JORDAN, Utah (AP)—Manager Mary Jensen says 21-year-old Don Fullmer may have trouble knocking out veteran Stephan Redl of Germany, but Fullmer is going to try for a KO anyway in their 10-round nationally televised (ABC) middleweight bout here tonight.

But then Redl says he'll try for a knockout, too.

"Redl is pretty hard to knock out," Jensen said. "He gets underneath the punches and is very aggressive." Redl says he hasn't seen Fullmer fight, but figures his knockout record is better than the Utan's, who is the youngster of the "fighting Fullmers" which includes NBA middleweight champ Gene and lightweight Jay.

Redl, the 27-year-old German has a 26-5-1 record with 14 knockouts. Fullmer's record is 20-3 with eight knockouts. Early this year he won a decision over former welterweight champ Virgil Akins.

If Don wins tonight's battle, Jensen says he will continue to campaign in the middleweight division, possibly with an eye on replacing his brother as middleweight champion.

Most observers expect the fight to be a bruising battle. It will be Don's debut before the national TV audience. Fullmer will have a five or six pound weight advantage when he enters the ring at about 156 pounds. Redl says he will weigh 151 pounds at the most.

Tigers End Slump With Ninth Homer By Colavito

After dropping 10 in a row and going scoreless for 21 2-3 innings, the Detroit Tigers finally broke through Tuesday night, winning 1-0 at Washington on Rocky Colavito's two-out home run in the ninth inning and the three-hit pitching of left-hander Don Mossi.

That ended Detroit's longest non-winning slump since 1952, a skid that plunked the Tigers from top to bottom in the American League standings. Chicago's White Sox were beaten 9-7 at Boston by two grand slam home runs, but retained a one-game lead as Cleveland knocked off second place New York 5-1 in 10 innings. Kansas City walloped Baltimore 16 with a nine-run fifth inning and a six-hitter by Dick Hall.

In the National League, San Francisco stayed 1 1/2 games ahead of Pittsburgh with a 4-2 job on Philadelphia. The Pirates, who had lost four straight, defeated Los Angeles 3-2 as right-hander Vern Law became the first pitcher to win five in the majors this season. The only other game scheduled, Cincinnati at Chicago, was rained out—the Cubs' fifth consecutive postponement.

Colavito, the slugger Detroit got from Cleveland in an effort to avoid such things as a 10-game losing streak, broke up a three-hit shutout by Washington's Tex Clevenger (1-1). It was Rocky's fourth home run, all in victories. Mossi struck out seven and walked just one for his first victory in three decisions. He gave up singles by Billy Gardner and Reno Bertoia and a triple by Bob Allison while putting away the third three-hitter of his career.

Pinch-hitter Rip Repulski and Vic Wertz slammed the White Sox. Repulski, in his first AL at bat after Friday's trade with Los Angeles, won it with a tie-breaking shot in the eighth off reliever Don Ferrarese after borrowing the bat Wertz used for his bases-loaded homer in the first inning. Wertz' wallop made him the fourth active AL player with 1,000 RBIs.

Frank Baumann (1-2), the ex-Detroit Sox lefty, was the loser and Frank Sullivan (1-1) the winner, both in relief. Al Smith, Roy Sievers and Sherm Lollar homered for the White Sox.

Cleveland got rolling in the fourth run with a hit batter, a sacrifice and Johnny Temple's RBI single. It was the first hit of Ryne Duren (1-1) in 9 1-3 innings of relief stretched over six appearances. Jim Piersall's three-run homer capped it for the Indians. Rookie Dick Stigman (2-1) won it, leaving five Yankee runners stranded in 2 2-3 innings.

Dick Williams got the As started on their free-wheeling fifth with a double off loser Hoyt Wilhelm (1-2) and then climaxed the rally with a grand-slam homer off reliever Jack Fisher.

Dr. Garrenton Returns From Louisiana Meeting

BETHEL—Dr. C. G. Garrenton of Bethel has recently returned from a meeting in New Orleans, La., where 150 volunteer medical leaders gathered. Their purpose was to make recommendations for improving care of patients with certain crippling birth defects, rheumatoid arthritis and poliomyelitis. This was a regional meeting of the Southeastern Portion of the United States.

Dr. Garrenton is a member of the National Foundation Chapter Medical Advisory Committee, whose function is to advise the Local National Foundation Chapters in carrying out the organization's Patient Care Program.

Among the reports was one given by Daniel Bergman, M.D., associate director of the Dept. of Medical Care of the National Foundation in New York City, in which he pointed out that 90 percent of the children vaccinated by three doses of the Salk vaccine were protected against paralytic polio, whereas, 94 percent were protected by four doses. He also discussed the live vaccines which have been developed by Sabin, Cox and others.

Joseph L. Melnick, M.D., Dept. of Virology, Baylor University College of Medicine, discussed recent developments in virus research. He pointed out advantages of tissue culture for studying viruses and told of the attempt to find some type of chemical which might be effective against viruses.

Another talk was given by George T. Harrell Jr., M.D., Dean of Medicine, University of Florida, College of Medicine, Gainesville, Fla., on the subject of "New

100-Gallon Still Destroyed In Pitt Yesterday

WINTERVILLE — Pitt County ABC officers yesterday destroyed a 100-gallon submarine-type still located about one and one-half miles southwest of here in Winterville Township.

According to the officers the bottom of the still was lined with galvanized tin, which officers noted will produce "bad" whiskey, adding that the tin will tend to poison the liquor.

The still was complete with copper cap, 100-gallons of mash and a 100-gallon cooler box with radiator condenser.

The unit, which according to officers, appeared to have been run one time, was fired with wood.

The unit was not in operation and no arrests were made. Axes were used to destroy the illegal unit.

Car Hits Tree, Driver Uninjured

Damage estimated at $135 was caused yesterday about 5:35 p.m. when a car driven by Phillip Jean Moore, 17, of 208 Meade St. went out of control and struck a tree on North Eastern St.

Investigating officers, who made no charges in the case, quoted Miss Moore as saying she was headed South on Eastern St. when the rear door of her car came open. While attempting to close the door she lost control of the vehicle which ran up into the yard of 123 North Eastern St. and struck a tree.

Damage to the car was set at $100 while damage to the tree and shrubbery was placed at $35. Miss Moore was not injured.

Episcopal Diocesan Convention Opens Here Today

Episcopal Bishop Thomas H. Wright of the Diocese of East Carolina today appointed Fitzhugh Duncan and the Rev. John Drake of Greenville and the Rev. John Ormond and Dr. Sidney Christian of Williamston to serve on Diocesan committees.

The appointments were made during Bishop Wright's annual address before the 77th Annual Convention of the Episcopal Diocese of East Carolina being held at St. Paul's Church here.

Duncan and Dr. Christian were appointed to the Committee on Study of Diocesan Structure. Bishop Wright said that he considered this "a most strategic committee at a most strategic time in the life of our Diocese."

He appointed the Rev. Drake and the Rev. Ormond to the Committee on the Study of Diocesan Boundaries.

During his address, Bishop Wright revealed a request of approximately $800,000 to the Diocese of East Carolina from the estate of Dr. Louis Watson Alston who died this year and his wife, Charlotte Niven Alston, who died in 1955. It is the "largest bequest ever to be left to the Diocese," Bishop Wright said.

Bishop Wright of Wilmington is serving as presiding officer of the convention.

Bonner Speaks In Elizabeth City

ELIZABETH CITY — Congressman Herbert C. Bonner addressed the Elizabeth City Kiwanis Club here last night after speaking to the Newland Ruritan Club near here Monday.

In his address last night, the incumbent in the May 28 race for the Democratic nomination as the First District's congressional candidate indicted the Eisenhower administration for over-spending and waste. He lashed out at the national defense program and the wasted money spent for foreign aid.

At Newland Monday, Bonner discussed the importance of the merchant marine to the American farmer. He explained there is a close relationship between farmers and the service rendered by the merchant marine. "This relationship provides America with some of the national security strength necessary for survival in a Communist-threatened world," Bonner said.

In attacking government spending last night, Bonner declared, "We need to solve this economic problem . . . and this problem reaches every citizen."

"There are several bills in Congress at this moment that propose to raise the $600 income tax exemption," the veteran congressman pointed out. "I support a program of this type and will study the bills carefully to make sure all businessmen and other citizens will benefit," he continued, "I will do all in my power to see that it is equitable."

To reserve the facilities call Plaza 2-2355 between 9-12 a.m. and 2-5 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 9-12 a.m. on Saturday, or drive by the Recreation Center at Elm Street Park between those hours, Goodman said.

There is no charge for the use of the units, he notes, adding the Recreation Commission maintains five fire places and about 12 tables at the park.

Goodman urged parties using the facilities to clean up any paper or trash around the units so they will be ready for other groups to use.

Report Decline In Crop Receipts

RALEIGH (AP)—Cash receipts from the sale of meat animals, poultry and eggs in North Carolina during 1959 declined in comparison with 1958.

The North Carolina Crop Reporting Service said today greatest reductions occurred in the sales of broilers and eggs. Cash receipts for broilers totaled $68,920,000 a decline of $9,256,000. Eggs brought in $54,005,000, a drop of $7,381,000.

Cash receipts from the sale of meat animals amounted to $93,012,000, off 1.2 per cent from 1958. The loss was attributed to smaller marketings of cattle and calves and to greatly reduced hog prices.
