Here For Annual Episcopal Convention

Committees Appointed By Bishop Wright Before Diocesan Meet Here

In his annual address yesterday before the 77th Convention of the Diocese of East Carolina, Episcopal Bishop Thomas Wright of Wilmington appointed two important committees.

Two Greenville and two Wilmington delegates were included on these committees.

The first committee, the Committee on Study of Diocesan Structure, was appointed to "carefully examine our present structure and explore avenues for growth in the year that lies ahead."

Committeemen appointed were not notified in advance of their selection. They include Peter B. Ruffin of Wilmington, chairman; the Rev. Henry Johnston, Fayetteville; the Rev. Charles I. Penick, Goldsboro; the Rev. A. Heath Light, Elizabeth City; Dr. Sidney Christian, Williamson; Heywood Weeks, Kinston; Fitzhugh Duncan, Greenville.

The second committee was Committee on Study of Diocesan Boundaries. Bishop Wright suggested that the Diocese of East Carolina, Diocese of North Carolina and Diocese of Western North Carolina have committees which meet jointly and study the whole question of Diocesan boundaries.

Those included on the committee were not announced prior to the convention. They are John W. Graham of Edenton, chairman; the Rev. Hunley Eiebasch, Wilmington; the Rev. C. Edward Sharp, Beaufort; the Rev. John Drake, Greenville; the Rev. John Ormond, Williamson; Will G. Gathers, Elizabeth City; Hugh Dorcht, Goldsboro; Henry Anderson, Fayetteville.

Bishop Wright commended "historic St. Paul's Church in Greenville, a church that has a history of useful and effective service for the past 122 years." He said the educational building was "one of the best equipped educational buildings in the entire Diocese."

Gas Rate Hike Is Turned Down

RALEIGH (AP) — The State Utilities Commission today turned down the request of Piedmont Natural Gas Co. for a rate increase totaling about $543,000 annually.

At the same time the commission ordered the company to make refunds, with interest, of the rate increase it placed into effect under bond last Nov. 13.

In a separate order, the commission directed Piedmont to reduce its rates for coin-operated laundries and fast-service laundries to the level of those charged residential customers. These laundries are now under a commercial rate schedule.

The North Carolina Assn. of Launderers and Cleaners had complained that the laundry rates were unwarranted and discriminatory.

In turning down Piedmont's request for a rate hike, the commission held that the company is now earning a "just, reasonable and fair" rate of per cent on a property investment of $18,400,000.

Commissioners Sam Worthington and Richard H. Long wrote concurring opinions to the majority opinion by Thomas R. Eller.

Commission Chairman Harry Westcott dissented in part to the majority opinion.

Piedmont, with headquarters in Charlotte, serves 44,346 customers in North Carolina, including Charlotte, Greensboro, Winston-Salem, High Point, Burlington, Spencer, East Spencer, Salisbury and Graham.

At Charlotte, Buell G. Duncan, president of Piedmont, said he was surprised at the order and has no comment until he sees the commission order.

He brought up the matter of confirmations in the Diocese, reporting that the number has exceeded the number of any previous year, with 594 persons confirmed this last year.

Dr. Frederick M. Morris last night warned Episcopalians attending an annual convention here of the pitfall of "allowing the church to get in the way of God's purpose."

Dr. Morris, who is rector of St. Thomas Church in New York City, drew a parallel from the action of the ancient Jewish Church which turned aside from the teachings of Christ's gospel because of their jealousy of the popularity of St. Paul's teachings.

He said that the Jewish Church turned its back out of jealousy because of the teachings of St. Paul met with great favor with the masses. He said that God's work may pass us by as it did the Jews if we are not careful.

Pointing out that "God will not tolerate restrictions placed on His work," Dr. Morris repeated that God's word is for all people everywhere and not exclusively for any special group or church. He said further that "God is concerned with what a man does on week-days just as much as He is about what a man does on Sunday."

"God, the creator of our minds as well as our souls, demands that we be intelligent as well as loving, hard-headed as well as soft-hearted," Dr. Morris said.

Following Dr. Morris' evening address during the Annual Convention Service of the 77th Annual Convention of the Diocese of East Carolina, a reception was held in St. Paul's Parish House honoring Dr. Morris, Bishop Thomas H. Wright of Wilmington and other dignitaries.

Included in the receiving line were the Rev. and Mrs. John Drake, host pastor; Bishop and Mrs. Wright; Dr. Morris; the Rev. and Mrs. Ottaway, college chaplain; Clyde Matthews, president of the Canterbury Congregation at E. C. O.; Sr. Warden Dr. and Mrs. W. H. Pott; Jr. Warden and Mrs. Ed Waldrop; Mr. and Mrs. Erskine Duff, convention chairman.

During a business session held yesterday afternoon, John Graham, Chancellor of East Carolina Diocese, presented a report on the canons, or church laws. He made a motion to delete section six of the canon on the Executive Council, which results in all camps and conferences in the East Carolina Diocese coping under the Department of Christian Education.

Heretofore, Camp Leach was included in the section. As a result of the motion, Camp Leach, Camp Oceanside and Alice Hoffman Conference Center are included under the Dept. of Christian Education, according to Rev. Drake.

Many of the delegates to the convention took a tour through the East Carolina College campus yesterday afternoon. The tour was led by Dr. James Poindexter and a group of college students. A large group of delegates also visited the Greenville Art Center, where Mrs. J. H. B. Moore and Miss Barbara Batchelor conducted a tour.

St. Andrew's Mission, located on Boner's Lane, has assisted in hospitality during this convention. The mission, newly decorated, has been open for inspection during this convention, which closed today about noon.

Put Off Inquest In Poison Death

SYLVA (AP) — An inquest in the poison death last Feb. 5 of Edward Chandler Cunningham, scheduled to have been conducted this morning, has been postponed until 10 a. m. Saturday.

Dr. Philip E. Dewees, Jackson County coroner, deferred the hearing after reporting difficulty in interviewing a jury.

Cunningham died and his wife, Patricia, came close to death herself after the effects of some poison at their home near Whittier. One of their two small children also became ill but responded quickly to treatment.

The poison has never been identified.

Adds 46,473 To Census Figures

FAYETTEVILLE (AP) — District Census Supervisor Ray V. Revel added 46,473 persons to Cumberland County's tentative census figures today and admitted it rectified a mistake.

Revel announced previously that the county's tentative census showed 100,018 persons. However, he said he forgot to include the population of Fayetteville, the county's largest community.

His revised figures show the county with 146,491 persons.

Gen. Norstad Has 'Slight' Attack

PARIS (AP) — Gen. Lauris Norstad, supreme Allied commander in Europe, suffered a slight heart attack while playing golf in Germany last Sunday, his headquarters announced today.

Norstad was rushed to an American Army hospital in Munich, where he has been under treatment and observation. The announcement from Supreme Headquarters Allied Powers in Europe said Norstad, 53, would remain in the hospital for about two weeks.

Family Fallout Shelters Urged

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — A regional director of the Office of Civil and Defense Mobilization said Wednesday night each American family should be prepared to shelter and maintain itself for two weeks after an enemy attack.

Robert E. Waggoner told an American Meteorological Society conference that "all Americans must be prepared to sustain themselves for two weeks following enemy attack. After that the government is prepared to help you."

He said private home fallout shelters would be the best means to save the most lives in an attack. Such facilities could cut fatalities as much as 25 per cent, he said.

Waggoner is director of OCDM's region six which embraces Colorado, Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska, North and South Dakota, Wyoming and Missouri.

Mountains See Touch Of Snow

GATLINBURG, Tenn. (AP) — A thin layer of snow covered higher elevations of the Great Smoky Mountains today as a chill drizzle fell over much of East Tennessee.

Herrick Brown, operator of a lodge on Mt. Leconte, said the snow measured .07 of an inch there. Mt. Leconte is 6,593 feet high. The temperature dropped to 25 degrees.

Eisenhower Reluctant To Call Off Visit To Russia

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower was quoted as saying today he still plans to visit the Soviet Union next month unless Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev withdraws the invitation.

Rep. Arch Moore of West Virginia said Eisenhower told him and a group of other House Republican members that if Khrushchev does decide to pull back the invitation "it's all right with me."

Eisenhower's views were reported against the background of Khrushchev's suggestion that the President might not be welcome because of the American spy plane incident.

Moore and several other GOP congressmen had breakfast with Eisenhower at the White House.

Moore said Eisenhower was saying further than the 10 days he now is scheduled to spend in the Soviet Union "could be utilized elsewhere" if the Kremlin leader should withdraw the invitation.

Eisenhower did not elaborate on that, Moore told reporters.

In response to a question, Moore said Eisenhower made it plain he intends to wait for Khrushchev to bring up the matter of the visit. The Kremlin leader said Wednesday that he and Eisenhower would discuss the matter when they met in Paris next week for the summit conference.

For this and other reasons, the outrighting of the U2 spy plane incident loomed large as an unwritten agenda item at the long-awaited meeting of East-West chiefs of state.

The rising tension over the affair cast gloom on chances for success at the summit parley as well as shadows on Eisenhower's Soviet trip, which has been scheduled for June 10-19 in return for Khrushchev's visit here last September.

The United States was preparing a formal reply, to be sent to Moscow soon, to Tuesday's Soviet note. The Soviet protested the May 1 U.S. plane flight into Soviet territory and threatened reprisals for any such future "hostile act."

Eisenhower told his news conference Wednesday that "I expect to go" to the Soviet Union. But that was before news reports were received here of the Khrushchev statements which cast doubts on the kind of welcome he would receive.

He told newsmen inspecting the purported wreckage of the spy plane, Khrushchev said "The Russian people would say I was mad to welcome a man who sends spy planes over here like that."

The spy flight had changed his opinion of Eisenhower, Khrushchev added, and he would not like to be in Eisenhower's shoes when the President visits the Soviet Union.

He said the two can discuss at Paris whether Eisenhower should visit Moscow and, as though assuming Eisenhower will make the trip anyhow, added there would be "no excesses whatsoever among the people."

Khrushchev's words startled officials here. There was an impression that the Soviet host was deliberately hanging out an "unwelcome" sign.

But authorities also studied press reports to see if the talkative Soviet Premier was just wisecracking. Moscow clamped censorship on Khrushchev's remarks after they had stirred a furor, although not until it had let through much that cast doubt on Eisenhower's welcome.

Khrushchev's outburst came at what the Soviets set up as a display of equipment taken from the downed U2 and its captured American pilot, Francis G. Powers.

The public display and Soviet refusal so far to let U.S. diplomats interview Powers added further to U.S. resentment over Khrushchev's actions.

Eisenhower has viewed previous belligerent-sounding remarks by Khrushchev as the type of Communist drumbeating that might be expected in advance of an international conference.

He has made plain to associates, and publicly, that he believes he can strike a blow for peace and for easing of East-West tensions by traveling to the Soviet Union.

The decision on whether he will go through with his trip depends on his personal reactions to Khrushchev's acts as well as on the counsel of his advisers.

At the face-to-face meeting with Khrushchev in Paris next week, Eisenhower will have a chance to decide for himself whether Khrushchev's tough talk is bluster or is really threatening.

Eisenhower Wednesday defined the real issues at the summit as the long-listed items of disarmament, Germany-Berlin and East-West relations.

Captured U. S. Pilot To Face Stern Trial As Spy

LONDON (AP) — Pilot Francis G. Powers has been charged with espionage and Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev has promised: "We shall try him—try him severely as spy."

This was reported today by the Soviet news agency Tass.

The penalty for espionage in the Soviet Union ranges from 10 years in prison to execution by a firing squad.

The latest developments were announced in Tass broadcasts from Moscow today in the wake of the news conference Khrushchev held Wednesday at the Moscow exhibit of espionage articles which the Soviets say Powers carried when he was downed May 1.

Part of Western correspondents' dispatches on the news conference had been held up in Moscow censorship. The Tass account of Khrushchev's remarks was carried from Moscow 20 hours after the news conference took place.

The Tass version carried this exchange between correspondents and the Soviet Premier: "Q. Will this plane incident influence Soviet public opinion when Eisenhower comes to Moscow?"

A. I would not like to be in Eisenhower's place. I would not like to answer the questions which might be put to him when he comes to the Soviet Union! I can only say the Soviet people and our public are very polite, so there will be no excesses. But questions will be asked of course. (animation, laughter). I would put it this way: "One person, namely U.S. Secretary of State Christian A. Herter, has helped the President particularly in this respect. At his press conference Herter made an outrageous statement! Far from feeling guilty and ashamed of aggressive actions, he justifies them and says that this will continue in the future. Only countries which are in a state of war can act in this way. We are not in a state of war with America. These aggressive actions and Herter's statement are impudence, sheer impudence!"

Tass said Khrushchev made the following reply to the question how the plane issue could affect the summit meeting: "Let those who sent this spy plane think over this question—though they should have thought about the consequences beforehand. After all, an aggression has been committed against our country, and we shall continue routing at the aggressors who dare raise a hand against us.

"You see how accurately our rocketeers shot down the plane without setting it on fire. The pilot is alive, the instruments intact—in other words the material evidence is here for everyone to see. These are very skillful actions of our rocketeers. We are very grateful to them for this."

At another point, Tass said, Khrushchev stated: "If the United States has not experienced a real war on its territory, has not experienced air raids, and if it wishes to unleash a war, we shall be compelled to fire rockets which will explode on the aggressor's territory in the very first minutes of war."

Tass in its account said one news conference questioner referred to the exhibit of Powers' alleged effects. Among these, according to the London Daily Worker's account, is a piece of silk bearing the Stars and Stripes and an inscription in 14 languages

Bethel Grows

BETHEL — A 10-year population increase here of nearly 13 per cent was indicated by preliminary U. S. Census Bureau figures announced by Bethel Mayor C. W. Everett this morning.

Everett told the Daily Reflector he received a report from John W. Brinson, district supervisor of the official census in Washington, N. C., today showing Bethel's population now stands at 1,574. A rise of 176 residents since 1950 when the official population was tabulated as 1,398.

"We've had a substantial increase for a little town," the mayor commented.

Everett received the report after his request, in writing, to the district office.

Rewards Of Teaching Cited By Chancellor Aycock In Address

Rewards of teaching include the giving of the "inner self" in setting goals for the enrichment of students, Chancellor William B. Aycock of the University of North Carolina told East Carolina College students and faculty members at a dinner sponsored by the Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation Wednesday evening.

The dinner, held to stimulate and promote interest in college teaching, was attended by near 75 students whose records of academic achievement were outstanding. The Foundation provides financial aid for a year of graduate study in certain academic areas.

Dr. Robert L. Holt, dean of the college, presided and presented Dr. Leo W. Jenkins, ECC president, who introduced Chancellor Aycock.

Colleges will need 25,000 additional teachers during the 60s, the speaker noted in opening his address on "College Teaching As a Career."

Quoting Historian H. G. Wells as saying that the future of civilization is a race between education and catastrophe, Dr. Aycock said not only is there a race between democracy and communism, but there is a race to conquer outer space and the necessity to win fairly the uncommitted millions of people in different parts of the world. The teacher has the role of helping in our survival through leading young people to desire to move toward the goals of truth, understanding, and service.

There is the need for a more adequate number of teachers, persons who have been trained and prepared to encourage the art of thinking and the desire to become creative, Aycock said.

The times challenge young people to proclaim and enunciate the idea of public education, to set the quality of education as an objective, and bring the totality of the kind of leadership essential for advancement of civilization through the small forums of the classroom, the speaker declared.

The true test of good teaching is not found in great material rewards, but from inspiring persons who are dedicated to the task of giving more than they receive, Chancellor Aycock concluded.

Dr. Holt encouraged students to make applications for the Woodrow Wilson Foundations for graduate study fellowships, and noted that conference for the scholars-hip may be made through the office of Dr. James H. Tucker, director of student personnel, c. Dr. Holt, dean of the college.

Winterville's 1950 population was 870.

Thus the town has shown a growth of 553 persons in ten years.

An Important Day In Pitt History

Tomorrow Dr. Leo W. Jenkins will be inaugurated President of East Carolina College.

It is a momentous occasion for the college, for Pitt County, for North Carolina, and for Dr. Jenkins.

In the past decade East Carolina has emerged from the position of a relatively small college to one of the leading institutions of higher education in North Carolina and indeed over a broad region of the United States.

The demands being made upon East Carolina College, both from the standpoint of enrollment and from the standpoint of academic achievement are increasing with each passing year. With its growth, its responsibility to higher education in North Carolina and in the South is likewise expanding far beyond its former scope.

The primary responsibility for seeing that East Carolina College adequately meets the demands being made upon it now rests upon the shoulders of the man who will be inaugurated president tomorrow. We are grateful indeed, that such a proven leader in higher education as Dr. Jenkins is available to guide East Carolina through the important period which lies before it.

No stranger to East Carolina or to higher education in North Carolina, Dr. Jenkins has shown his devotion to the college and to higher education in the dozen years he has been an important part of the administration at East Carolina. Those years have pointed up sharply his capacity for leadership, his ability as an administrator and his resolute determination to expend all the energy he has to provide better opportunities for higher education for all the young people in the area served by East Carolina College.

His unselfish devotion to the task of building a

Planning Fresh Platform View

By LYNN NISBET

PLATFORM — The main difference between the platform to be presented to, and almost certain to be adopted by, the Democratic State convention next Thursday and similar documents of other years will be what its architects call "a positive approach." Past emphasis has been too much on "pointing with pride and viewing with alarm," rather than presenting a bold program for action.

Complete text of the platform is not available. In fact, it will not be prepared until early next week. Enough has been learned to indicate that it will have the usual commendation of the incumbent State administration and the long record of Democratic control of State government.

Since it derives from the combined thinking of twelve good men, with varying political tenets within the framework of Democratic party philosophy, it is apt to be more representative of total opinion than previous ones was not generally known. The platform committee itself had small opportunity to study the text before it was presented to the convention.

The 1960 platform is being written and will be considered by the convention before the next Governor will have been nominated, and in an atmosphere of uncertainty about who he will be. For that reason it is expected to have less endorsement of particular personal ideas of the candidates, more of the general tenor of traditional governmental attitudes. At the same time, advance information is it will speak rather boldly on some points.

SORE SPOTS — It is clear on two matters which have been regarded as sore spots—race relations and legislative apportionment. The race relations plank has been revised to reaffirm North Carolina's belief in separation of races, but to delete implied protest of the right of the courts to interpret the constitution. The new version is regarded as an indirect slap at the campaign promises of Candidate Beverly Lake and a boost for Candidate Malcolm Seawell. It will not affect the positions of Candidates Larkins and Sanford.

For the first time since 1940 the platform commits the Democratic party and its overwhelming majority in the General Assembly to compliance with the constitutional mandate for reapportionment of legislative representation.

REDISTRICTING — Equitable apportionment of legislative representation involves only applied mathematics in allotting seats in the State House of Representatives. For representation in the State Senate and in the United States House of Representatives the much more bothersome problem of rearranging districts is involved.

Opinion prevails that North Carolina will lose a seat in the Congress on basis of the 1960 census. That will require complete revamping of congressional district lines. Preliminary census figures already show that a number of counties have lost population since 1950, further increasing the inequitable representation at Raleigh and Washington.

The Democratic platform faces up to this issue, and there seems no chance for the 1961 General Assembly to sidestep it. There is a growing sentiment that it might be well for the next Legislature, which must redistrict for Congress, to go all the way in State senatorial and solicitorial districts.

JUDICIAL—SOLICITORIAL — There has been no redistricting for Congress or the General Assembly since 1941. That has occasioned comment that no changes have been made in 20 years in political districts.

The 1955 Legislature increased the number of judicial districts from 21 to 30—and provided for two resident judges in each of two districts. Then the 1959 session split two solicitorial districts, increasing the total from 21 to 23. For many years prior to 1955 the judicial and solicitorial district lines were the same. The breaks made in 1955 and 1959 relieved court congestion in some areas, but did not go far enough to afford needed relief all over the state.

The matter of appropriate judicial and solicitorial districts is entangled with the whole question of court reform—which was a major issue in 1959 and looms as an even bigger one in 1961.

ISSUE — There is a not very remote possibility that redistricting may become the most controversial issue in the next Legislature, occupying more time and energy of members than any of the matters being paramount in primary campaigns of the several candidates for Governor—such as more money for schools, amendments to the highway laws, tax levies, and even race relations.

That possibility makes appropriate the question being asked with more frequency every day: Why does anybody want to be Governor now?

better college of East Carolina and of molding young people into better citizens by seeing that higher education meets their needs, has served as an inspiration to those who have worked closely with him. It has drawn the admiration of those who recognize the increasingly important role higher education plays in our modern society.

With the responsibilities which lie before him, Dr. Jenkins will need the support of this community and friends of East Carolina College throughout the state.

His inauguration is an important event in the history of the college and indeed in the history of this county whose destiny has been so closely tied with that of the college for the past half century.

Last Chance For The Voters To Register

Saturday is the last chance citizens have to register in order to be eligible to vote in the May 28 Democratic primary.

When the registration books close at sundown Saturday, those who are not properly registered will not be permitted to vote in the forthcoming election.

A number of people throughout the county have registered in their respective precincts on the two previous Saturdays that the registration books have been open. Without a doubt, however, there remain in Pitt many people that should be registered to vote, whose names are not on the polling books.

Some of these may have moved from one precinct to another since the last election, others may have moved here from elsewhere, and some have come of voting age since the last election.

We urge the people of Pitt County who have not registered to be sure to register Saturday at the polling place in the precinct in which they live. Those who are not sure whether they are properly registered should check to make sure they are registered.

Deception Still Part Of 'Game'

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department lied about the American spy-plane which Premier Nikita Khrushchev says was shot down over the Soviet Union. But maybe he was lying when he said it was shot down at all.

He said the plane was hit by Soviet rocket at 63,000 feet but that the American pilot, Francis G. Powers, parachuted to safety. That brings up question No. 1:

How could the pilot have escaped at all if a rocket hit his plane?

Khrushchev said the plane carried various equipment for aerial spying, such as cameras, instruments for spotting radar networks, and other special engineering devices.

He said the Soviets now have the plane's equipment. He said they have something else, too: The film used by Powers to photograph Soviet territory, such as airfields. The Soviets, Khrushchev said, developed this film.

And he produced photographs to prove it. He also produced photographs of what he said was the wreckage of the spy-plane on the ground. But that plane—or, rather, the wreckage—had been almost destroyed by fire.

So that produces question No. 2: If that was truly the spy-plane, how could the Soviets have pulled out of that burning wreckage not only the films but the special equipment Khrushchev said the plane had?

In this country the American designer of the plane, C. L. Johnson, spent many hours looking at copies of the photograph which Khrushchev said showed the spy-plane wreckage.

Then Johnson said: He was convinced it was not the spy-plane at all but some other plane. To back up his statement he went into detail about parts of the plane still visible after the fire and said they were not parts of the plane he designed. And Tuesday in Congress Rep. Clarence Cannon (D-Mo.) said the spy-plane had not been shot down but was forced down by "some unforeseen and unlogical defect."

Just how Cannon knew what he was talking about isn't clear, either. But he is chairman of the House Appropriations Committee which approves money for such activities as spying.

One thing stands out here: By Khrushchev's own admission the plane had penetrated more than 1,200 miles into Soviet territory before it went down. That doesn't make Soviet defenses look good.

Khrushchev boasts of Soviet might. It would have been embarrassing for him to admit an American plane got 1,200 miles into the Soviet Union and was discovered only after it came down by itself because of a mechanical defect.

Cannon went further in a way which makes the quality of Soviet defense against aerial penetration look pretty good from a military view.

He said spy flights over the Soviet Union had been made since 1946 and some had gone as much as 1,300 miles inside the Soviet Union.

In the past 10 years a number of U. S. planes have been shot down by Soviet aircraft. Cannon went further, however, happened in the Far East, on the fringes of Japan, Siberia, and Korea.

The State Department lied about the spy-plane when it said—before it knew how much information Khrushchev had—that there never was any "attemp to deliberately violate Soviet air space."

When Khrushchev produced the goods—mainly his revelation the pilot had been captured and was alive—Secretary of State Christian A. Herter admitted this country had been sending spy planes over the Soviet Union for years.

Strength For Today

Newspapers and magazines today carry an endless number of articles on the hazardous possibilities of atomic energy. Sometimes it seems as if war were only a few weeks away. There are some people who do not hesitate to declare that civilization and perhaps the world itself is in imminent danger of destruction as the result of this great scientific discovery.

But there are some who believe—and not without reason—that the greatest danger threatening our country is not an external but an internal danger. There are influences at work

"Those who harp so consistently on federal farm programs might take note of the fact that Capital Airlines has asked for a $12,900,000 Federal Subsidy." — Raleigh Times.

"Motorists had better start protesting now, and keep on protesting if they want to keep from being gouged even more and forced to reduce the use of their cars because of high gasoline taxes." — Industrial News Review.

among our people which bid fair to be more destructive than the atomic bomb. One of these is the influence of pressure groups which twists the beneficent machinery of democracy out of shape. Another is the spiritual ignorance of vast multitudes of people in no way connected with any church. Another is the growth of drinking and intemperance in modern social life. There are social injustices today which may well have a more destructive influence on our national life than anything Russia can ever do to us. We stand united against Russia but against these internal affairs we are divided because of our selfishness, our greed, and our appetites.

From Now On--Can Guess

A prophet without honor. . . Well, not much honor. Just what I've been able to maintain on the side.

Remember some weeks ago when the census business was being lined up? And there was some speculation (more than "some", it was rife) about how much Greenville had grown in a decade? Remember, this column did "speculating" too?

With much personal effort and the sacrifice of precious minutes this writer interviewed (1) two life-long residents, and (2) two long-term residents. Additionally, the record of Greenville's growth through past nose-countings was explored.

The material was digested and painfully compiled for readers' edification.

Not content with that, the writer went so far as to draw up a chart of past census figures and by projecting these arrived at a 1960 figure of 22,000-plus; a figure differing from others proffered.

Well, when the recent preliminary census report came in, did any of his coworkers rush up to the writer and remark in tones of wonder at his rimming the bull's eye? No. They studiously avoided all mention of the feat.

I suggested to one buddy that it was nice the Census Bureau and I were in such close agreement, and that their accuracy heightened my confidence in their work.

He nodded, then asked how the Giants were doing this season. I've been sulking ever since.

Just wait 'til one of them asks me who's going to come out ahead in this month's primary. I'll tear up a chart right in their face. . . and let them guess.

Just a year ago I stood bemused in our backyard as it was explained the bits of white fluff descending from a couple trees was a natural phenomenon of cottonwood trees.

It was a novelty kept alive by explaining to guests that the white stuff speckling that yard was not from an old mattress or a careless chicken-plucker.

The fluff stuff didn't fall for long; and with the passage of time it disappeared from the ground. Still, it was frequently recalled as a sort of as a kind of believe-it-or-not peculiarity for any and all who would listen.

Now our cottonwood is shedding again. The wisps float through the air like a gentle snowfall and their reappearance has occasioned more comment. This time, less favorably.

The trimmed weeds and grass that comprise our backyard is liberally freckled with white and it looks like a plague. I do believe it's a bumper year for cottonwood trees.

Thanks to prevailing winds, one of our neighbors is complaining. "If it were peacans you'd be over here picking them up", a pointed tone of voice points out.

In a way, it's a sort of a lesson: Last year's novelty can be this year's pain in the neck.

Opinions In Brief

"Man tries, but he does not always succeed in making himself different. In the Dan Hotel in Israel, or the Claridge in Paris, or Grosvenor in London, or any of the Hiltons in America, there is one invariable constant: for every single chair in the barber shop there are five booths in the Beauty Salon." — The Carolina Israelite.

"Until the American people realize that neither the federal government, nor anyone else owes them a living and special privileges for performing a duty, this country is going to go further and further into socialism." — Walterboro (S.C.) Press and Standard.

"Under present law a person must forfeit his social security money if he makes more than $1,200 a year. This is unrealistic. It would be different if social security were some kind of largess from the government. But it isn't. It's something the older has coming to him. He contributed to the fund, and so did his employer, while he was working. It's his money." — Eugene (Ore.) Register-Guard.

"There are over 1,000 taxes on a quart of milk—land tax, tractor tax, tax on feed, tax on income, tax on tax on tax. It appears that the politicians have bought our votes with our own money. By the simple device of sticking our heads in the sand, we have made it all possible." — London (Ohio) Press.

Spying Is For 'Pros'

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY COPYRIGHT, 1960, KING FEATURES SYNDICATE, INC.

Espionage is a constant and normal activity of government. All governments engage in it, according to their means and their purposes. It is often referred to by such fancy names as intelligence or information, but it is always the same task: A competent agent does not get caught. He commits suicide or he melts away. A spy that is caught deserves death from either side. When one engages in such activities, he knows what he is doing. He knows that there are practically no very significant rewards, except the satisfaction of having served his country. His job is not to get caught.

The professional agent often works for either side and sometimes for both sides. Such a spy is usually called a double agent. Often a double agent is known to both sides as such and is used to plant false information. He is valuable for leads. Also he is sometimes watched and tailed in the hope that he will lead to the real man, his employer.

Soviet Russia has maintained an open and a secret espionage corps in this country, at least, since 1920. The open espionage corps is the Communist Party of the United States. Every member of that party owes allegiance to the mother country of socialism, Soviet Russia. Every member of the party literally is a spy upon the United States, but not every member is sufficiently intelligent for espionage which is one of the most skilled professions on Earth, requiring abilities far beyond most men.

Therefore Soviet Russia employs two other agencies in this country. One is the Communist Underground of skilled and even brilliant Americans with special abilities. Such persons as the Rosenbergs were this kind of agent and their organized efforts made it possible for Soviet Russia to spy on the Manhattan Project where the atom-bomb was invented and manufactured. There were many others. Whittaker Chambers, one such person, has written the best account of the breed. Elizabeth Bentley, who was a courier among them, has also provided valuable information.

To add to these Americans and to instruct and direct them is a corps of Russians, Czechoslovaks, Hungarians and Red Chinese professionals who are engaged in this business. Each of the Warsaw Pact embassies, both in Washington and at the United Nations in New York, is engaged in the usual espionage activities. The United States does not usually shoot spies when caught. Americans are tried and sent to prison, often for such paltry charges as perjury as Alger Hiss was or for contempt of Congress, as many others were. Aliens are deported.

Attention must always be called to the fact that the Communist Party also maintains a United States government-in-exile in Mexico City.

The United States engages in espionage the same as any other government. Its principal agency for this work is the CIA, the Central Intelligence Agency, a very secret body. The Army, Navy, Air Force and State Department also gather information as do all similar agencies of all governments. The effectiveness of the CIA cannot be judged because its work must be secret and it is impossible to know how much of its evaluation of subjects is accepted by the State Department and the President who make policy.

The FBI also performs an important function in this regard. It deals with counter-espionage within the United States. Its function is to discover what the spies of all countries are doing in the United States, but the FBI is permitted to make arrests only on order of the Attorney General. If it is policy not to arrest a spy, as it was in the Roosevelt Administration concerning the Russian agent, J. Peters, the arrest is not made.

Khrushchev makes a great fuss over the American airman caught as a spy in the Ural. Our State Department, in one of the stupidest and unnecessary releases, admitted his espionage. To retaliate, the FBI should be instructed to pick up (Continued on Page 7)

Once again Mr. and Mrs. Joe Doakes are the heroes of the American economy.

Big business has been playing cozy. Advance orders have been trimmed. Inventory expansion has been slowed.

"The stock market has been cautious. Instead of the zip that might be expected in the first of the Swell Sixties, many issues have limped along. Moves toward more liquidity have been reported by management of several large funds.

Housing has been falling short of expectations.

Unmindful of all this, the Doakes and their neighbors have been buying as if everything will be all right. And as long as they do, things will be all right, barring any external catastrophe.

THE SENSITIVE INDEX
Although many economists have not recognized it, and it must always be adjusted for seasonal influences, new car sales are one of the most significant indicators of consumer attitudes. And new car sales began to rise in March and went on lustily through April. May sales are going ahead, partly because of seasonal influences.

The Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago says that the nation's consumers "have injected a fresh note of optimism into the economy."

"Helped by good shopping weather and the late Easter, consumers in April began to step up expenditures more in line with earlier expectations after a disappointing first quarter for retail sales," it reports.

It noted that auto sales in the first twenty days of April were 14 per cent above the corresponding 1959 days.

Consumer demands for all types of goods will be an important factor in the business outlook for the weeks ahead, the Chi Fed said. "Despite cutbacks in total industrial production and in steel and the rise in unemployment in March, mild optimism has prevailed on basis of consumer buying intentions."

WEATHER BLAMED FOR EARLY LAG
The First National Bank of New York's May letter said: "The marked rise in retail sales in late March and early April lends plausibility to the feeling that bad weather was primarily responsible for the disappointing business earlier."

Prentice-Hall's "Information" said: "U. S. economy passed a critical April test with a score of 'good.' Especially important: Mr. and Mrs. Average Consumer came back to market with their dollars in a big, free-spending indications, apart from a possibly too-cautious attitude toward inventories."

In short, it looks as if Joe and Mary Doakes have done it again. They have outguessed the economists and because they are putting their dollars—and their credit where their faith is, good times will continue.

Miss N.C. Visits Greenville Today

MISS NORTH CAROLINA . . . Judith Lynn Klipfel

By PEGGY SMITH
Reflector Woman's Editor

"Riding an ostrich, elephant and camel will remain in my memory of being Miss North Carolina for a long time," said Judith Lynn Klipfel at a breakfast this morning in a local restaurant. Miss Klipfel thinks that being Miss North Carolina has given her more confidence and poise.

Being an adopted daughter of North Carolina, Miss Klipfel felt she would not win the state pageant because she wasn't a Southerner but originally from Wisconsin.

When her reign ends in late July, she plans to venture into a singing career. "I've had a few offers to record; but, I don't know yet if I'll accept," Miss Klipfel commented.

If she can't be successful in singing, she will try to become an airline stewardess.

Her advice to the beauty entries for the "Miss North Carolina Pageant" is: "They won for what they are in their hometown or county, therefore they should be themselves . . . be what God gave them . . . not try to imitate someone they admire."

"You can't be born a star, that's something you have to learn," she pointed out.

Before July 28 Miss North Carolina plans to make 64 appearances, 25 of which are beauty pageants.

Following the breakfast Miss Klipfel appeared in a fashion show at Blount-Harvey in downtown Greenville.

Among those attending the breakfast were members of the local radio stations and press, W. T. Kyzer, manager of the Greenville Chamber of Commerce, Brooks Beddingfield, president of the Jaycees, Miss Betty Lane Evans, "Miss North Carolina of 1959," and officials of the local department store.

Alumnae Give Sorority Picnic

The Greenville alumni of Delta Zeta Sorority at East Carolina College gave a picnic for the sorority girls Monday night at the home of Mrs. Lillian Shotwell.

When the Lambda Tau local sorority went national the first weekend in February, eight Greenville women were also initiated as alumni. These include: Mrs. Virginia Adams, Mrs. Jean Brown, Mrs. Mildred Evans, Mrs. Jane Gaskins, Mrs. Lillian Shotwell, Mrs. Margaret Sutton, Mrs. Mildred Wells, and Mrs. Elizabeth Whedbee.

Mrs. Lillian Bost and Miss Ona Shindler, alumni also, were responsible for these initiates. Upon arriving, Mrs. Helen Snyder, college chapter director, and the Sorority girls were shown outside where they gathered informally before being served.

Mrs. T. J. Morris and Mrs. S. L. Wilkerson, the garden therapy committee, placed 12 bird feeders at the country home and plan to place two bird baths this summer along with keeping the home supplied with bird food.

Desegregating Of Library Put To City Voters

DANVILLE, Va. (AP) — Danville voters will be given a chance to tell city council what they think should be done with a public library which a federal court says must be desegregated. City council in a special meeting Wednesday voted 6-3 to hold an advisory referendum on the future of a library being operated for white citizens in the confederate memorial building. Corporation Court Judge A. M. Aiken will be asked immediately to set the date for the referendum. Federal Judge Roby Thompson has issued an injunction, effective May 21, prohibiting the city from operating the library on a segregated basis. The city has appealed. Council approved Councilman John W. Carter's suggestion that a special meeting be held the day before Thompson's injunction becomes effective. At the meeting, council apparently would decide whether to close the library temporarily pending outcome of the city's appeal of Thompson's order or integrate the facility.

Communist Summit Planning Began At Conference In 1957

By WILLIAM L. RYAN Associated Press News Analyst In November 1957, Moscow summoned leaders of 64 countries to an important conference. From it came a declaration which has colored Soviet policy ever since. It is the very essence of world communism's approach to next week's summit meeting in Paris. Disarmament and the dynamite laden Berlin-German questions will dominate the summit talks of President Eisenhower, Premier Khrushchev, President De Gaulle and Prime Minister Macmillan. But Communist preparation was concentrated elsewhere, on the real core of the East-West global conflict: the intense struggle over the future of underdeveloped countries in Asia, Africa and Latin America. Issuing instructions to the world movement, Moscow has been unable to hide this. Here's how the instructions have been reading:

Industrial Hunt Coming To N.Y.

NEW YORK (AP) — Northern Ireland will bring its campaign for new industries to New York during the British Exhibition June 10-26. The country, which has attracted 141 new industries since World War II including nine from the United States, will show models of 14 plants being constructed to American industrial representatives. Although 25 per cent more people of Northern Ireland are employed today than 20 years ago, the country still has a large surplus labor problem, says the Northern Ireland Development Council, which is conducting the search for new industry. An agreement reached by Greece and Turkey in a Zurich conference in February, 1959, provided the new Republic of Cyprus would have a Greek president and a Turkish vice-president.

The foundation of Soviet policy is "peaceful coexistence." The summit signals a "new phase" in world development. The decision to convene the meeting was an enormous victory for world communism. Authoritative communism in connection with the recent celebration of Lenin's 90th anniversary provide a treasure trove of Soviet aims and intentions. Stripped of double talk, this is the thesis: 1. Since World War II, Capitalism achieved further development because of huge spending for arms. A relaxed atmosphere will bring demands for relief from the tax burden for arms. 2. Whatever happens at the summit, efforts will be made to retain a relaxed mood for a while, in expectation of Western economic dislocations. The capitalist world will fall into quarrels and contradictions and a world crisis will follow. 3. While preparing for this, Communists will trust Moscow's "political wisdom," conduct themselves as "proletarian internationalists" and believe whatever is good for Moscow is good for world communism. 4. Communist leaders are chiefly concerned with "the ceaseless process of liberating more and more peoples" from imperialism. Events in Asia signaled the inevitable collapse of Western capitalism. The battle now shifts to the Middle East, Africa, and, as one Communist leader wrote, "to another continent where the people of Cuba have shown all Latin America an example of how a people can liberate itself from the yoke of American imperialist interests." 5. Communists, supported by Soviet economic and military power, will exploit such developments while marking time in Europe. Moscow warns Communists to make no mistake about "peaceful coexistence." This does not mean an end of political war for Communist world supremacy. It does not even mean cessation of armed conflict. Red pronouncements are laying heavy stress on these words of Lenin: "Peaceful proposals of Socialist (Communist) states, broad propaganda for the idea of coexistence of two systems, in no way signify renunciation by Communists of their ideological principles as they enter into any sort of arrangement with the bourgeoisie (capitalism)." The 1957 world Communist declaration stressed the same passage. Today in advance of the summit, the declaration is referred to constantly in important Moscow pronouncements as a guide to action for all Communists. The Soviet central committee calls the declaration a main guide for the international Communist movement "in present conditions." That phrase is a key to contemporary Communist policy. The term assumes that nuclear war would leave little to be won. It assumes a general weakening of Western resistance. It indicates intentions of attacking at the weakest points and blasting Western influence out of Asia, Africa, the Middle East, and eventually Latin America. Articles in Communist journals stress this in advance of the Paris meeting. So, it appears that to Moscow the summit meeting is just an incident on the path to world Communist domination.

Fabulous Philanthropist John D. Rockefeller, 86, Dies In Arizona

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—John D. Rockefeller Jr., famed philanthropist and head of one of the world's wealthiest families, died in a Tucson hospital Wednesday at the age of 86. Death was attributed to pneumonia and heart strain. A great humanitarian who abhorred waste, Rockefeller poured millions of dollars into welfare and cultural projects around the world. No estimate of his personal fortune was available, but his known gifts totaled more than 350 million dollars. Once looked upon by fellow capitalists as a radical, Rockefeller also was a pioneer in urging better conditions and an eight-hour day for the American worker. Early in his career, long before the era of public relations, Rockefeller was saying: "Labor has never had its just deserts. It should not be obliged to fight for what is its just due. Capital should be on the alert to find out what is equitable and see that labor gets it." In his philanthropies, as in his business career, Rockefeller followed the footsteps of his father, founder of the Standard Oil Co., upon which the family's great wealth is based. The total gifts of the Rockefellers is conservatively estimated at more than one billion dollars. This does not include interest on endowments financing such organizations as the Rockefeller Foundation, General Education Board and Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research. Rockefeller graduated from Brown University in 1897 with a Phi Beta Kappa key for scholastic attainment and immediately went to work for his father. He was no stranger to hard work. In his boyhood, Rockefeller split rocks, raked leaves, mended fences — for 15 cents an hour. Painstaking practice on his violin netted him 5 cents an hour. Rockefeller once remarked, "My father used to say that one of the easiest ways to make money was to save it. We children were brought up to regard waste as almost a sin." In 1901, Rockefeller married Abby Greene Aldrich, daughter of U.S. Sen Nelson W. Aldrich of Rhode Island. They had six children, a daughter and five sons — Abby, John D. III, Nelson, Laurance, Winthrop and David. Mrs. Rockefeller died in 1948 and in 1951 Rockefeller married Martha Baird Allen of Providence, R.I. A frequent winter visitor to Tucson, Rockefeller had been ill for several months. The hospital announced he had been taken off his critical list only an hour before he died. Rockefeller was admitted to Tucson Medical Center last December and remained there until being discharged two weeks ago. He was re-admitted Monday when his condition became serious, and members of the family were called to his bedside. His son Nelson, governor of New York, arrived by plane only a few hours before the death. At the time of death, Nelson, Laurance and Mrs. Rockefeller were at her apartment in Tucson's plush Arizona Inn. Funeral arrangements are pending. Burial will be in the family plot at Sleepy Hollow, Tarrytown, N.Y. Rockefeller's death brought expressions of regret from many notables, including former President Herbert Hoover, former New York Gov. Thomas E. Dewey and financier Bernard Baruch. "His addition of funds to the great foundations established by his father and his wise direction of them have brought better health and wider opportunities of education to almost every family in the nation. And these foundations have spread benefits to all the world," Hoover said. Dewey said Rockefeller's "creative talents have enriched the economy and provided gainful employment to a degree almost unparalleled in history." "Modestly, unassumingly, John D. Rockefeller Jr. devoted himself to the well-being of his fellow men. His unexampled beneficence to medicine, education, the arts, has earned his memory endearing affection and gratitude," Baruch said.

M. Goode, Pitt Negro Farm Agent, said he hoped that clubs in the different communities in Pitt County "will see fit to invite many of these young people to their group meetings to present these educational demonstrations."

Possibly Earned One More Vote

CASPER, Wyo. (AP)—Raymond Whitaker, candidate for the Democratic nomination for U.S. Senate, parked his car at a service station and went next door for a cup of coffee. When he came out there was a truck tire in the back seat of his car. The service station owner explained his tow truck had tire trouble a few miles from town and asked Whitaker to drop off the tire. A vote's a vote, Whitaker reasoned, and lugged the tire, along

Travel Orders Joke Comes True

SCOTT AIR FORCE BASE, Ill. (AP)—A set of phony orders, drafted as a gag, convinced a Navy man assigned to the Military Air Transport Service that he was being reassigned to Antarctica. Before he learned it was a joke, Chief Journalist Leo G. Loftus spent a week assembling cold weather gear. Then his real orders arrived—assigning him to the Navy's Antarctic task force.

Again Postpone Satellite Effort

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The United States again today postponed an attempt to launch an immense balloon communications satellite into orbit about the earth. Technical problems with the carrier rocket blocked the effort.

The launching of the 100-foot sphere will be the first step in a long range investigation of the use of satellites for global communications.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced the launching was postponed "because of indications of technical problems in the command guidance system in the first stage."

No new firing date was set. If the trouble is minor, a launching could be tried again Friday.

The countdown on the Thor-Delta rocket had proceeded to within 15 minutes of launch today when a hold was called. NASA announced a few minutes later that the shot was off.

Leads Two Lives, As Coroner And At Pitt Hospital

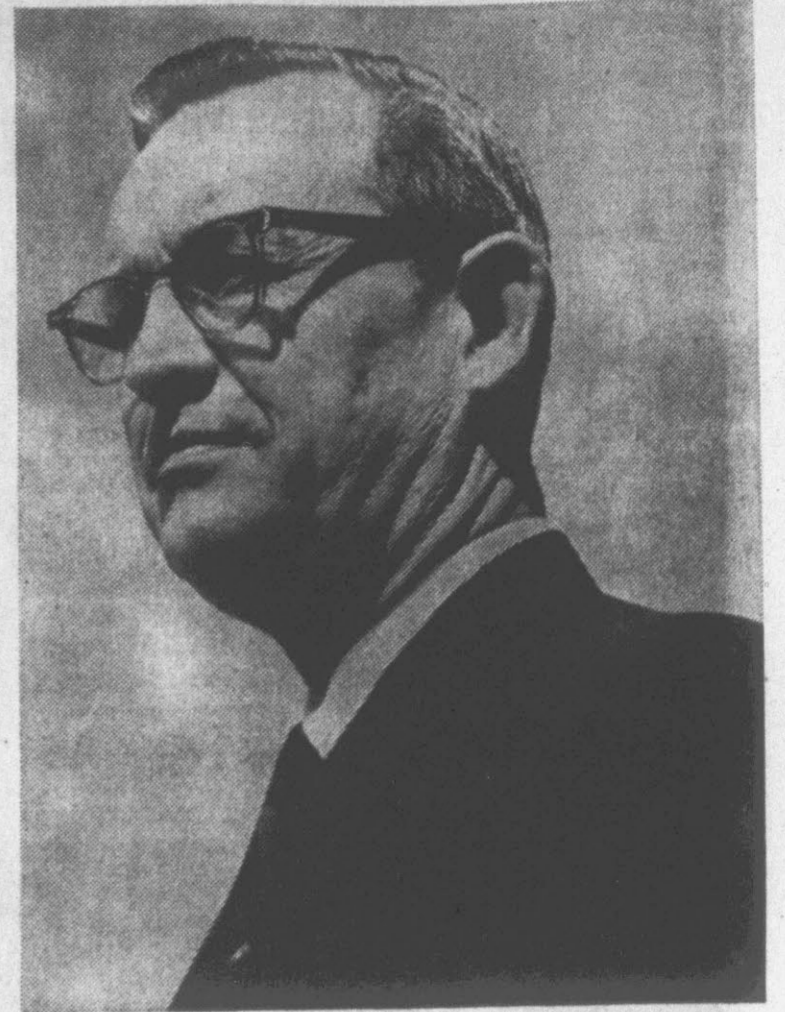

HOSPITAL CREDIT MANAGER . . . E. W. Harvey, Jr.

DISCUSSING FINANCES . . . with former patient

SIGNING ON . . . while answering a call as coroner

PITT COUNTY CORONER . . . a responsible position.

By STUART SAVAGE
 Reflector Staff Writer

E. W. Harvey has a double job . . . one of credit manager at Pitt Memorial Hospital and one as Pitt County Coroner.

A graduate of Greenville High School, Harvey attended Davidson College and operated a wholesale oil business here before becoming Credit Manager of the hospital in 1954.

As credit manager, it is his job to make satisfactory financial arrangements with the patients or members of their families for settling hospital bills.

He also has some administrative duties at the hospital and is Secretary of the North-eastern Hospital Administrator Association.

Harvey was appointed Coroner March 1, 1959 by the Board of County Commissioners following the death of Griffin H. Rouse who was Coroner at that time.

Harvey's duties as coroner include investigating any death caused by an accident, homicide or suicide and to co-operate with the Pitt County Health Department in investigating any unattended death, even if it resulted from natural causes. It is also his duty to sign the death certificate of those persons who have died by violence.

An inquest, in the event of a violent death, is left up to the coroner's "best judgement" in co-operation with the district solicitor. He also has the power of arrest just as any peace officer and is the only officer who may, upon orders of the court, serve legal papers on the high sheriff of the county.

Harvey, who said the job of coroner is a very interesting one, noted that no two calls are alike. "Each one is something new . . . it is all different."

"The 3 a.m. telephone calls are just one of the hazards of the occupation".

The Coroner said he enjoyed associating and cooperating with the law enforcement agencies in the County, which he praised as being among the best in the state.

Harvey, who is married and has two girls, included sporting events, especially football and baseball, high on his list of hobbies. He has officiated high school and college football games for the past 18-20 years, he noted.

He is a member of the Pitt County Peace Officers Association, the Lions and Moose and the First Presbyterian Church where he is an officer.

WOULD ASK HELP

TOKYO (AP) — Foreign Minister Aichiro Fujiyama told a Parliamentary Committee today the government would ask the United States for military help if Russia should attack Japan.

Pedestrian Called Major Factor In Traffic Safety

"One of the greatest problems in the prevention of traffic fatalities are pedestrians," according to Cpl. John T. Jenkins of the North Carolina State Highway Patrol.

"Half of the fatalities in Pitt this year . . . two young boys . . . have been pedestrians", according to the officer, who added that six of the nine highway deaths in the county last year were pedestrians.

Jenkins urged motorists to be especially cautious and watchful during the summer months ahead because children will be out of school and farmers and farm hands will be walking more and more beside the roads in Pitt.

Jenkins warned that pedestrians seen violating the law by walking on the wrong side of the highway with their backs toward oncoming traffic will be brought into court.

The officer noted that persons having to walk beside a highway or road should walk facing the oncoming traffic. At night, the pedestrians should wear light clothing and carry a flash light to enable approaching cars and trucks to see them, Jenkins added.

He cautioned mothers and fathers of children to be watchful and instruct their youngsters not to cross a street or highway without first stopping and looking both ways to be sure the way is clear. Never permit the children to run across the road, Jenkins cautioned.

The patrolman also said drivers should be "on the look out when you see a ball roll across the street because in many cases a child will be following the ball."

HE RE-GREW HAIR

Before Erickson Treatment

A Few Months Later

Thomas A. Melton Jr. of Hollidaysburg, Pa. (above) shows he re-grew hair by the Erickson Home Treatment method.

Hair Specialists Here Tomorrow; Will Show How To Save Hair And Prevent Baldness

New home treatment methods for saving hair and improving its growth will be demonstrated in Greenville, N. C. on Friday, May 13, only.

Staff Director J. L. Cannady will be in charge, representing the dynamic Erickson Hair & Scalp Specialists organization. Erickson, the leader and largest organization of its kind, makes regular visits throughout the year to your city. He will personally see hair-worried men and women from 1:00 to 8:30 p.m. Friday at the Proctor Hotel.

At the home office of the Erickson organization, a new, even more successful method of treatment was announced—a treatment that you can easily administer yourself at home.

This new treatment is neither "mail order" nor "cure-all." It is adapted to the individual after a personal consultation and progress is checked personally at regular intervals by an Erickson expert.

For seven consecutive years now Erickson Hair & Scalp Specialists have been checking the hair of thousands of people across the country. They have encountered and dealt with hundreds of cases of every kind of hair trouble. From this experience has grown the body of scientific knowledge leading to the development of the new Erickson home treatment.

Will the new Erickson treatment cure baldness? "No!" For we cannot help men and women who are slick-bald after years of gradual hair-loss. But if you still have fuzz and your scalp is still creating hair, you can at least save and thicken what you have. Some conditions, such as "spot baldness," usually have complete coverage if caught in time!

Other conditions that usually bring on excessive hair loss — dandruff, itching, over-oiliness or dryness, follicle clogged with sebum or seborrhea—can be corrected by the Erickson home treatment if caught before the "hair factories" are destroyed.

Evidence of the success of the Erickson method is that the organization has expanded to serve several hundred cities throughout the United States. Last year alone, over a quarter-million Erickson treatments were used.

The most important thing is: "Don't wait until it's too late." Surveys among men and women in all walks of life show that the worst enemies of your hair are

(1) skepticism and (2) procrastination. The average balding person justifies his condition with one or the other of these two statements:

"I don't think anybody can stop hair loss!" "Oh, I'm going to see an expert when I get around to it."

Baldness won't wait for doubters to be convinced or for procrastinators to take action later. You're going to keep right on losing half till you're bald . . . unless you get your scalp in healthy, hair-growing condition again. Satisfy 97%.

We satisfy at least 97% of our clients—which, by any comparison, is an excellent record. Our biggest problem is to get the "doubters" and "putter-offers" to come in for a consultation.

Free Consultation
 We want to make it clear that you incur absolutely no charge or obligation by coming in for a consultation.

Your only obligation is to yourself to ease your mind of hair worries by learning how to save and thicken your hair at home. We will tell you frankly and sincerely whether or not you can be helped, how long it will take and how much it will cost. We do not accept cases that will not respond.

Written Guarantee
 The Erickson Hair & Scalp Specialists will give you a written guarantee for the length of treatment.

Friday only, call at the Hotel Proctor for Mr. J. L. Cannady's room number. Then come in to see him between 1:00 to 8:30 p.m. for a free consultation and discussion of your hair problems. He does not make appointments, so come in at your convenience.

You won't be obligated or embarrassed in any way. Consultations are given in private, but we encourage the husband and wife to accompany each other.

Road Hearing Is Set For May 19

BEAUFORT—Residents of the eight-county area comprising the Second Highway Division will have an opportunity to present road requests, petitions and problems to representatives of the Second Division at a public hearing here on Thursday, May 19. Announcement of the hearing was made by Division Engineer C. W. Snell, Jr., who is in charge.

City and county officials, along with the general public, are invited to attend the hearing if they have road requests which they feel should receive attention.

The hearing will be held in the Carteret County Courthouse at Beaufort between the hours of 2 and 4 p.m., on Thursday, May 19.

This is one in a series of public hearings being held in the Second Division, which is composed of Carteret, Craven, Pamlico, Beaufort, Pitt, Greene, Lenoir, and Jones Counties.

Boy Killer Gets Life Sentence

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Seventeen-year-old Dennis Whitney today begins a life sentence for murdering a Hialeah woman, the seventh person he was charged with killing on a cross-country tour.

Whitney was convicted last week of slaying Virginia Selby, 62, near Jupiter last March 5. The jury recommended mercy and Judge James Knott passed the mandatory life sentence Wednesday.

The North Hollywood, Calif., youth also is accused of killing two persons in the Miami area, three in Arizona and one in California.

REAL 'FIRE WATER'

Pre-Primary Polls Had An Impact In West Virginia

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Why didn't many polls of West Virginia before Tuesday's primary election portray better the trend that shifted and swayed here? Can polls alter the strategy of present-day campaigning? The Associated Press has surveyed the polls taken during the Kennedy-Humphrey campaign in the light of election results and in the following article discusses their effect.)

By JACK DAVIS
 CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — Sen. John F. Kennedy's eye-opening victory in the West Virginia primary Tuesday has been labeled the big upset of this young election year.

Public opinion polls—by newspapers and magazines and by Kennedy himself—apparently had much to do with the outcome.

A lop-sided majority of forecasters had predicted Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey would stop Kennedy in this economically unstable and predominantly Protestant state.

Humphrey's pro-labor record and Kennedy's Catholic religion made it an obvious conclusion, they reasoned.

And most of these predictions were based on private polls two to four weeks before the election, which showed that less than half the voters questioned favored the Massachusetts senator.

But seldom has the actual benefit of polls, as a tool for determining the voters' pulse, been brought in's such sharp focus.

West Virginia showed that a poll can be an acceptable gauge at the specific time it is taken. It's out of date a day later.

The state primary also underlined the importance of the "undecided" vote. It was this bloc, ready to swing unpredictable either way, that eventually gave Kennedy his whopping margin of victory.

Kennedy got into the West Virginia primary on the basis of polls.

Last November Kennedy's camp put out feelers to determine where the senator should enter state primaries. A professional public opinion survey team from New York checked West Virginia and reported that Kennedy would run strong here.

Sen. Kennedy entered.

Last month his team made another state-wide survey. The news was alarming. It showed public opinion had shifted, and he would be lucky to get 40 per cent of the vote.

Kennedy's headquarters, alerted drew up an intensive campaign schedule. It brought in Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. former President Roosevelt's picture in more homes in the coal mining areas than George Washington's.

Two weeks before the election, Kennedy's pollsters took another survey. It showed Kennedy might be picking up a little, but not much.

The latest poll indicated it wasn't much of a secret why Kennedy was trailing. He was a Catholic.

And many West Virginians hadn't talked with a Catholic about their beliefs. It just hadn't come up before. And they simply were suspicious and unwilling to go for something they weren't sure of.

A day or so later, Kennedy stopped campaigning against the Republicans and the Eisenhower administration and began talking at religion. Day after day, he hammered at the theme that his being a Catholic had nothing to do with his qualifications for the presidency. He believed in separation of church and state, he declared.

And last Sunday night, he declared flatly he would not let the Pope influence him on any matters, although he didn't believe the Pope ever would try.

You could see a bit of discouragement seeping in.

"I'm apparently unable, it seems, to convince people that a man's religion is his own affair, and has nothing to do with his qualifications," he said in an 11th hour talk.

What was happening to public reaction during this religion-stressed period?

Robert Holliday, publisher-editor of the Fayette Tribune, a semi-weekly newspaper in the heart of the rich Fayette County coal fields, polled coal miners at random on April 29 and came up with these results:

Humphrey 85, Kennedy 57, undecided 81.

He resurveyed the area several days before the election and found:

Kennedy 68, Humphrey 43, undecided 70.

"I'm not saying that Kennedy will take it down here," he said cautiously after the second poll.

"That's just the way people say they're feeling now."

The Charleston Daily Mail conducted a poll of four separate areas of the state about three weeks before the election. There was no follow-up.

Two were in the industrialized areas of Huntington and Charleston. One was at Layland, a coal-mining town of Fayette County where the mine hadn't been worked for a couple of years. The fourth was at Slab Fork, a mining town that had a working mine.

At Huntington, 46 per cent favored Kennedy, 45 per cent liked Humphrey, and 9 per cent were undecided. A fourth of the undecided said Kennedy's religion was a factor.

Actual vote: The undecideds went generally to Humphrey, who carried the county 9,298 to 8,231 — 53 per cent to 47 per cent.

Editor Raymond Brewster of the Herald-Dispatch said he thought the Kennedys might have defeated their own purpose there by too many stops and too much literature, fanfare, and overall pressure.

At Charleston, 46 per cent liked Kennedy, 40 per cent were for Humphrey, and 15 per cent were undecided, with most of the un-decideds giving religion as the reason.

Actual Vote: The undecideds went to Kennedy, who carried Raleigh County 9,961 to 4,608—68 per cent to 32 per cent.

Managing Editor Vint Jennings of the Charleston Daily Mail said Kennedy won the election "by meeting the religious issue head-on—just as the Daily Mail informed its readers back on April 14 that he must do it to win."

"There is no doubt in my mind," Jennings added, "that the senator won his major support in the last five to seven days of the campaign when he hammered hard time after time on the subject of Catholicism."

Just a week before the election, even Sen. Kennedy was doubtful that he could win," Jennings said. "But he never gave up. He's a champion campaigner, let there be no doubt about that."

The Daily Mail is Independent Republican.

Robert Kennedy, the senator's brother who is campaign chief-of-staff, said "People were wrong to get the impression — before the election — that West Virginians were bigoted. They simply didn't know Catholics, because there aren't many Catholics here."

"I personally feel the results of the election are a tribute to the residents of West Virginia. They show, more than anything else, that there is no bigotry here—that they were willing to listen to my brother discuss the issue fairly, and they reacted fairly."

Old-Model Planes, Or An Old Soviet Picture

POWERS MADE PICTURE?—The Russian newspaper Pravda published this picture on its front page and said it was made by U. S. jet pilot Francis Powers as he flew over a Soviet airfield. The planes are seen clearly as four-engine aircraft. Russians claim Powers was shot down by rocket crew as he piloted his Lockheed U2 over Soviet territory and that the camera and other material were confiscated. (AP Wirephoto via radio from London)

WASHINGTON (AP)—U. S. experts have deduced some significant information from the picture of a Soviet air base that Moscow claims was taken from an American spy plane.

The picture, made available for world publication by the Soviets after it had appeared in the Moscow newspaper Pravda, purports to show an airfield on which aircraft are arranged in two rows.

Specialists in the analysis of aerial photographs agreed that it was possible to get a picture as clear as the Soviet-supplied photo from an aircraft flying at an altitude of from 10 to 12 miles.

The most significant fact deduced from studies of the Soviet photograph, however, is that the aircraft shown are probably obsolete TU4's, the Soviet copy of the American B29 bomber that won fame in World War II. The Soviets were known to have mass pro-

Dr. Jenkins Will Be 6th President In ECC History

Dr. Leo W. Jenkins will officially become president of East Carolina College in installation ceremonies tomorrow.

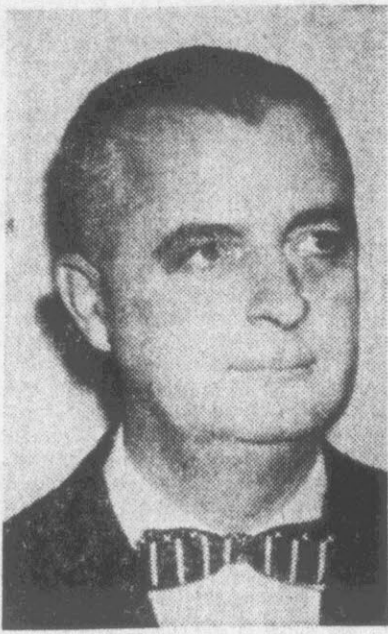

He is the sixth president of the state supported institution of higher learning.

The first president of the then-named East Carolina Teachers Training School was Dr. Robert H. Wright. He served as president from the first day the college opened its doors in 1909 until his death in 1934.

During that time Dr. Wright saw the name of the institution changed in 1921 to East Carolina Teachers College and the bachelor's and master's degrees were added. Upon Dr. Wright's death, Dr. Leon R. Meadows, head of the East Carolina Department, was elevated to the presidency.

Dr. Meadows served from 1934 to 1944 and at that time Dr. Howard J. McGinnis was named acting president of ECC. He served for two years until 1946 when Dr. Dennis H. Cooke was named president. Dr. Cooke served for one year and then resigned. Next Dr. John D. Messick was named president and he took office in 1948. He remained as head of the institution for 12 years until this year.

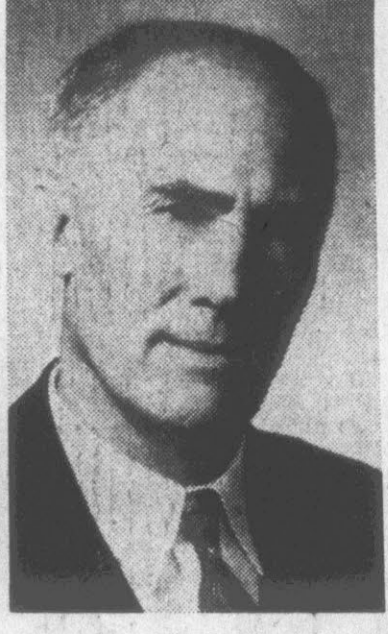

This was a period of great growth for the college and once again the name was changed. In 1951 it officially became known as East Carolina College. Tomorrow morning Dr. Jenkins, who has served for years as ECC's dean, will become official head of the fast growing state institution.

LEO W. JENKINS . . . dean since 1947, will become sixth president tomorrow.

JOHN D. MESSICK . . . acting president in 1948, resigned last year.

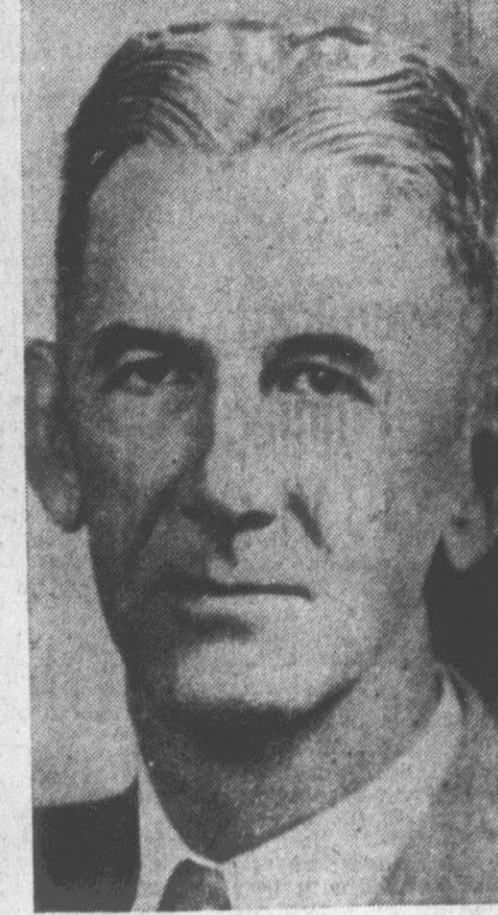

HOWARD J. MCGINNIS . . . acting president of ECCO 1944-46.

DENNIS H. COOKE . . . served as president for one year and resigned in 1947.

LEON R. MEADOWS . . . succeeded Wright as president, headed institution from 1934 until 1944.

ROBERT H. WRIGHT . . . served as first president of college from 1909 until his death in 1934.

People May Blame Jobs, But Troubles Often Much Closer

By ALTON BLAKESLEE, AP Science Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Is your job getting you down? Well, a psychiatrist said today, people are usually very quick to blame their jobs for unhappiness, insomnia, depression, heart pains and other ills.

But more often their troubles stem from home or social life, or something within themselves, which then interfere with their work, he said.

Several studies indicate about 10 per cent of people have symptoms severe enough to interfere with their work, Dr. Alan A. McLean, International Business Machines Corp., New York, told the New York State Medical Society's annual convention.

"We have heard that 'overwork' caused Mr. Jones to develop an acute schizophrenic reaction."

"We read that 'your next promotion can kill you.'"

"We have read the recommendation made by skilled physicians that 'Mrs. Smith needs a medical leave of absence to overcome her feelings of anxiety and inadequacy.'"

And many times, McLean added, we hear that job pressure and tension has "caused" insomnia, loss of appetite, high blood pressure, angina or heart pains, and brain strokes.

But psychiatrists acting as consultants to industry report only a very small percentage of employees with psychiatric symptoms are actually sick because of their jobs, he said.

McLean reported a small study of 24 men, ranging from skilled craftsmen to corporate officials, who became emotionally ill. They were in their early 50's on the average, had been with their firms—seven different firms in the study—an average of 25 years.

All became ill after some change in their jobs, including promotions, change of a boss to whom the man was accustomed.

But in each case, the man had been under some other stress three to six months before the job change, McLean said. Some had been physically ill, others under emotional stress at home, in social life, or financially.

Each man was the kind who was dependent upon his company, who seemed to need a strong guiding hand, and appeared to be looking for emotional support from his company, he said. Then the job change came along when they were under stress.

McLean concludes that factors connected with the job don't seem to trigger most symptoms of emotional disturbances which are seen on the job.

Mrs. Reynolds Drives To Scene

DARIEN, Ga. (AP) — Fashionably dressed Mrs. Richard J. Reynolds drove into this small coastal town today for her first appearance to defend herself against a divorce suit brought by her millionaire husband.

"Well, they've got me here," the former Muriel Marston, 41, of Toronto, Canada, told newsmen.

The third wife of the tobacco heir drove 20 miles from Sea Island, Ga., where she has been staying at an exclusive hotel. She said she expects to be here for the remainder of the trial, now in its ninth day.

Reynolds' attorneys required eight days to present their side of the couple's domestic life and troubles.

Mrs. Reynolds wore a navy blue dress and blue hat of taffety to match. A garnet cross adorned the dress. She wore black shoes and belt and several gold bracelets.

Her 54-year-old husband, thrice married and reportedly too ill to appear in person, charges her with cruel treatment aimed at causing death so that she could inherit his wealth.

It's Legal, If Flying In Space

WASHINGTON (AP) — Flying over other countries is legal if it's done from high enough up in space.

That's the conclusion of U. S. international law experts familiar with the launching of the American weather-eye satellite Tiro I and other manmade moons.

The situation is different with airplanes, including the American U2 which came down deep inside the Soviet Union May 1. It is well established in international law that a nation's sovereignty extends into the airspace above its land boundaries. This country has sought to justify the U2 plane flights not under international law but under the requirements of self-defense.

International law — which is based on international agreements, practice and writings—is still in its infancy in the new world of space.

U. S. authorities say, however, that under the developing law it appears to be perfectly legal for a nation to toss up a peaceful-purpose satellite without another's permission even though the satellite does roam high across other borders.

The legality of such launches was indicated in a U. N. Space Committee report last summer. Launchings were made by both the Soviet Union and the United States under the International Geophysical Year scientific program.

His Interest Is Very Personal

ATLANTA, Ill. (AP) — John White's interest in meteorites is more than mere curiosity.

The 52-year-old television repairman was standing in his yard when he heard a whiz, then felt a thud on his head.

A pebble-like meteorite was burning a hole in his cap and had cut his head.

Now White clings to the lima bean-sized meteorite as proof and studies meteorites as a hobby.

Phantoms Topple Kinston For Second Place In Loop

G-Men Rally In Final Inning For 4-3 Victory

Freshman Kenny Joyner hammered a clean single to right field to touch off a hectic seventh inning that saw Greenville score two runs and defeat Kinston 4-3 in an uphill fight at Guy Smith Stadium.

The victory for Greenville broke a deadlock for second place between the two clubs. Coach Bo Farley's club concluded its conference warfare with a 6-1 record, second to only Roanoke Rapids. The Yellow Jackets, undefeated to date, close out their season with a game against New Bern this week.

Joyner's game-ending single brought Alan McArthur across the plate with the winning run. There were two outs when the center fielder delivered his hit of the game.

Heading into the bottom half of the "do or die" frame, the Phants trailed by one run. Kroghie Andersen reached first on an error by shortstop Tommy Mattocks, Randy Bass sacrificed him to second and McArthur walked, putting runners on first and second.

Billy James hit a grounder to second that appeared to be a sure double-play but McArthur slid into the base, upsetting shortstop Mattocks who allowed the ball to get loose. Andersen scored on the play with McArthur moving around to third.

Larry Roberts popped up but Joyner drove his single into right field with McArthur easily crossing the plate.

The Phants had taken the lead in the first on singles by Andersen, James, and Roberts with a couple of walks sandwiched in between. James' base knock scored Andersen and Roberts' hit brought Bass home with the second run.

Kinston tied the game in the fourth when Mattocks reached base on error and scored on Henderson's booming double to center field. Hemric laced another double to score Henderson with the second Red Devil run.

The Devils went ahead in the fifth on singles by Hale and Dall, a walk to Mattocks, and Kilpatrick's sacrifice fly.

Malchon Griffin worked the route for the winners, striking out four, walking two, and allowing six hits. It was his sixth conference win compared with a single defeat.

Kinston was guilty of four errors while the Phants made only one miscue.

Wolfpack Have Hopes Of Ending Carolina Streak

Lanky Joel Gibson was expected to be North Carolina State's pitching choice today as the Wolfpack tried to knock North Carolina from the Atlantic Coast Conference baseball lead.

Coach Walter Rabb of North Carolina indicated he probably would counter with the ace of his staff, senior Wayne Young, in the game on the Tar Heels' diamond in Chapel Hill. The 6-foot-4 Gibson has won seven of 10 decisions in leading N.C. State to an 8-4 conference record, good for third place. Young is 5-2 for North Carolina.

The Tar Heels and Duke currently are tied for the conference lead with 9-3 marks. Should North Carolina win over N.C. State, the title would be decided in Saturday's Tar Heel-Duke game in Durham. Only one more conference game - Virginia at Maryland - is scheduled after Saturday unless some rained out contests are reset.

Today's game marks the second meeting between the Wolfpack and Tar Heels, North Carolina winning the initial battle 7-2. North Carolina, after losing its first three conference starts, now has a nine-game winning streak going in the conference.

All teams were idle Wednesday and today's only game was the N.C. State-North Carolina test.

Wins First Tenpin Title TOLEDO, Ohio. (AP) - Billy Golembiewski, tired of finishing second, has won his first major tenpin title - the American Bowling Congress Masters Championship.

The slim youngster who left Grand Rapids, Mich., four years ago for bigtime bowling in Detroit, lost this same crown a year ago in the last game.

Golembiewski, 30, was ahead after three games in the crucial match with Ray Bluth of St. Louis here, and Ben Hogan, who has done more winning here than anywhere else, were the favorites as the $30,000 Colonial National Invitation Golf Tournament opened today.

Palmer has played in this tournament five times and won only $994, with a tie for twelfth his highest finish.

Palmer vs. Hogan Top Choices FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) - Arnold Palmer, who has been able to win most anywhere except here, and Ben Hogan, who has done more winning here than anywhere else, were the favorites as the $30,000 Colonial National Invitation Golf Tournament opened today.

Palmer has played in this tournament five times and won only $994, with a tie for twelfth his highest finish.

Major League Stars Pitching - Frank Lary, Tigers, blanked the Senators on five singles, walked just one and struck out seven for a 1-0 11-inning victory.

Hitting - Ed Mathews, Braves, drove in five runs with a pair of homers, a single and a sacrifice fly in 12-8 victory over the Cardinals.

Greenville Picked For Site Of All-Star Game

Greenville has been chosen for the site of the first prep East-West All-Star baseball game according to East Carolina baseball coach Jim Mallory.

This is the first year of such an event in North Carolina and the tentative date has been set for Friday night, June 10. The baseball contest will be modeled after the prep football and basketball games which are played annually in Greensboro.

Serving as president of the project is Jack Sink of Myers Park in Charlotte. Sink and other officers will appoint a committee to be directly responsible for the operations.

Coach Mallory will serve in an official capacity and will work with the Lions Club in helping promote the game in Greenville.

In announcing tentative plans for the first game, Mallory indicated that future plans may call for two or three games of this variety and also a coaching clinic. He also revealed that a golf tournament for the coaches may be a part of the program in the future.

Proceeds from the game will go to the Lions Club for its project of building a cottage at Boys Home at Lake Waccamaw.

A committee will select 15 or 16 boys from both the east and west. The Lions Club in the boy's respective town will sponsor the selectees, covering expenses.

The two teams will be coached by outstanding high school coaches from the respective areas of the state.

Wake Forest's Bill Cullen and Bruce Sylvia of North Carolina looked like the men to beat today as singles matches began in the Atlantic Coast Conference tennis tourney.

Cullen, defending champion, was seeded number one in the singles by coaches meeting Wednesday night, Sylvia, who beat Cullen during regular season play, was rated number two.

North Carolina has the favored team role. The Tar Heels have monopolized the tennis championship since the ACC was formed in 1954. The exception was 1947, when Maryland took the prize.

Three rounds of singles play is set today. The quarter-finals and semi-finals will come Friday. The championship finals is scheduled Saturday. Fifty-three players, representing all eight ACC schools, are entered.

Twenty-six doubles team go into action Friday. Semi-finals and finals come on Saturday.

The singles seedings included: 1, Cullen, Wake Forest; 2, Sylvia, North Carolina; 3, Joe Gaston, Duke; 4, Stigman is a tall, blond, 24-year-old left-handed rookie pitcher with the Cleveland Indians. He is from Nimrod, Minn. (pop. 100). He has the kind of wholesome and refreshing personality that wins friends and influences reporters.

Tuesday night he relieved Cleveland starter Jim Perry in the bottom of the eighth, with the score tied, runners on second and third, one out, with Gil McDougald, Mickey Mantle and Roger Maris the next hitters. It was only the fifth major league appearance of his life and undoubtedly his most difficult assignment.

All the green kid did was fan McDougald on four pitches, walk Mantle half intentionally, and dispose of the 400-plus hitting Maris on a weak popup. That wasn't all. While more than 25,000 Yankee Stadium spectators were asking who the kid was, Stigman calmly held the Yankees to one hit in 2-3 innings and won his second big league game when the Indians solved Ryne Duren's speed ball for four runs in the 10th.

"That was something," glowed Stigman, his eye popping. "The manager (Joe Gordon) told me to strike McDougald out. It was like an order. I threw him four straight curves. Low.

"Was I scared? I didn't let myself become scared. What was I thinking about? I didn't let myself think. I was afraid to think. You start thinking and you think what if I throw a ball, what if I make a wild pitch, what if the guy hits it?"

"And I did something else. But please don't laugh. I know you'll be scared to death, and I prayed and think I'm silling. But I sang. Yes, I sang. Out loud, too, honest, I walked toward the mound, sang."

Jones Pitches Two-Hitter For Giant Victory; Pirates, Braves Keep Pace

By ED WILKS Associated Press Sports Writer Ed Mathews hit two homers and drove in five runs for Milwaukee, and Erroy Face, the Pittsburgh reliever who couldn't lose, finally won one. But the man of the moment in the National League is Sam Jones, the guy with a toothpick and an arm.

Sad Sam did just about everything for San Francisco Wednesday as the first place Giants won their fifth in a row. The toothpick chewin' right-hander beat the Philadelphia Phillies 1-0 with a two-hitter and got the run home when he walked with the bases loaded in the second inning.

The Pirates retained second place, 1 1/2 games behind, by defeating Los Angeles 6-3 with three runs in the eighth and three shut-out innings of one-hit relief by Face. Third place Milwaukee rapped the St. Louis Cardinals 12-8 with Wes Covington and Del Crandall joining Mathews in the homer hammering. Cincinnati's game at Chicago was called off because of cold weather, the Cubs' sixth consecutive postponement.

In the American League—where rain idled Chicago, New York, Boston and Cleveland—Detroit's Frank Lary out-dueling Pete Ramos for a 1-0 victory at Washington on Al Kaline's two-out home run in the 11th inning. Baltimore defeated Kansas City 5-3 in 10 innings on Jackie Brandt's two-run homer.

Jones, 34, put away his fourth victory in six decisions with the fourth two-hit game of his career and his first shutout.

The Giants managed only five hits, four off loser Jim Owens (2-3), who worked seven frames. A leadoff walk to Willie McCovey and two-out singles by Hobie Landrith and Ed Bressoud loaded the bases before Owens walked Jones on a 3-1 pitch.

The Pirates got all their runs with two out, in the first, eighth and ninth. They scored in the first on Gene Baker's single, his first hit since he was given up for lost after a 1948 injury. But then they were blanked on three hits until the eighth when Hal Smith's tying, two-run single chased loser Sandy Koufax (0-3) and ex-Dodger Gino Cimoli clinched it with a single off reliever Larry Sherry.

Face, now 1-3 took over in the seventh after rookie Joe Gibbon gave way for a pinch-hitter. Rookie Bob Aspromonte drove in all of the Dodgers' runs.

Mathews' 30th career home run his fifth of the season, gave the

Furillo May Quit Game

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Carl Furillo, one of the most dreaded Dodgers of them all in the days when baseball flourished in Flatbush, may quit the game this year. But don't bet on it.

Furillo, troubled by tender legs in the twilight of a great career, has talked to the Los Angeles front office about going into voluntary retirement. But it will take nothing less than some of the best medical advice in the country to get him there, and that may not do it.

"I'm going to see a specialist in Chicago on the road trip coming up," Furillo said Wednesday night. "They say he's the second best in the country at this sort of thing. I'll probably make up my mind when we come back."

Furillo said a Dodger doctor has told him his legs are shot.

"Hell, I don't see how he can say they're shot the way I've been running around," Furillo said. "I want to see what this specialist says."

"And I may not quit even if he says the same thing," Furillo said. "I want to see what this specialist says."

Kaline's Homer Brings Detroit Second 1-0 Win

By ED WILKS Associated Press Sports Writer

The Detroit Tigers won their first five games, lost their next 10 and now have won two straight—both 1-0 decisions at Washington on two-out, last-inning home runs. Al Kaline's shot in the 11th inning did it Wednesday night with Frank Lary out-dueling Pete Ramos in a double five-hitter.

The victory lifted the Tigers past Washington into sixth place in the American League race, just four games behind Chicago's idle first place White Sox despite that 10-game skid.

Baltimore defeated Kansas City 5-3 on Jackie Brandt's two-run homer in the 10th inning in the only other AL game played. Chicago and the other first division clubs—New York, Boston and Cleveland—were rained out.

In the National League, the first place San Francisco Giants made it five in a row, beating Philadelphia 1-0 on Sam Jones' two-hit pitching and a bases loaded walk—to Sad Sam—in the second inning. Pittsburgh remained in second, 1 1/2 games behind, with a 6-3 victory at Los Angeles as reliever Roy Face finally won one.

Hot Controversy Over Decision

France, president of NASCAR, says he'll announce Friday his decision on the restart of the Rebel 300 convertible race.

The race was stopped because of rain last Saturday after 74 laps. France's announcement that the race would be started this Saturday at the 75th lap under the caution flag for five laps sparked by a hot controversy.

Joe Weatherly of Norfolk, Va., protested that the race should be started at the 75th lap after two warmup laps.

Starting under the caution flag would permit drivers who are low on gasoline to refuel without losing their position. This would take the advantage away from Weatherly, who refueled just before the race was stopped last Saturday.

Teen-er League

A meeting has been called for Friday night, May 13 at 7:30 p.m. to organize and make plans for the 1960 Teen-er League. The meeting place will be the court room of the City Municipal Building.

All boys planning to compete in the league during the 1960 summer are requested to be present. Parents are also urged to be present.

Any boy attending the Greenville schools that is 13 years of age or 13 prior to August 1, 1960, 14 or 15 years of age, and not 16 prior to Aug. 1, 1960 may compete in the league.

Practice for all new boys will start on Monday afternoon, May 16, at 4 p.m. at Guy Smith Stadium. Practice sessions will last for one week and the regular season will open about June 2.

Simmons Released By Phillie Chain

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Philadelphia Phillies have given Curt Simmons his outright release, marking the end of an era for the toughluck southpaw who broke into the majors in 1947 as an 18-year-old bonus baby.

Simmons, who was signed for $65,000 out of Whitehall High School in his hometown of Egypt, Pa., had been unimpressive the few times he worked this year. He pitched four innings in four games, two of which he started, and gave up a total of 13 hits and 8 runs for an 18.00 earned run average.

In announcing his release to meet the Wednesday midnight 25-player National League limit, General Manager John Quinn said "It was not a snap decision."

Quinn said it was decided to give the 31-year-old Simmons an opportunity to make a deal for himself. Last Saturday Simmons had asked to be traded rather than warm the bench with the Phillies who are rebuilding.

Simmons' release leaves Robin Roberts as the only member of the Phillies pennant winning whiz kids of 1950. Curt's best year when he posted a 17-8 record before entering military service in late July and missing the World Series.

Simmons, who won 115 games in his 13 years with the Phillies, had been beset by arm trouble last year and missed most of the season.

In getting down to the 25-player limit the Phillies also sent rookie southpaw reliever Chris Short to Buffalo of the International League, leaving the club without a left-handed pitcher.

Two other well known pitchers were among those chopped off in the NL.

Cincinnati optioned Brooks Lawrence, past ace with both the Reds and St. Louis, to Indianapolis of the American Assn.

Pittsburgh sent George Witt, the right-hander who won seven straight as a rookie in 1958 but hasn't won since, to Salt Lake City of the Pacific Coast League.

The Pirates also optioned outfielder Joe Christopher to Salt Lake and outfielder Ray Mejias to Columbus of the International League.

Only Los Angeles and St. Louis were within the limit before the last day rush.

The other deadline action: Milwaukee Traded pitcher Bob Giggie to Kansas City of the American League for pitcher George Brunet, who was sent to Louisville of the American Assn. along with outfielder Lee Maye.

Dr. Best's Health Program In Schools Is Spreading

By HENRY HOWARD
Reflector Staff Writer

"The only real criticism of the program is that not enough people know about it." That is the sentiment of local doctors as expressed by Dr. Fred Irons. The program referred to is one of real measurable value instituted in 1957 by a Lenoir County native and Greenville resident since 1953.

Dr. Andrew A. Best, local Negro physician, investigated, found a definite need for, and began an active health education program in Greenville and Pitt County Negro high schools in January of '57.

With what he terms "full cooperation" of education officials, a health education course in the six high schools in the city and county "has begun to show desirable results."

At the outset, the program was aimed primarily at sex education of high school seniors to reduce the large number of annual Negro illegitimate births.

Dr. Best and others discovered in January, 1957, the county health department had counted a total of 385 illegitimate births among the Negro population. The 1958, '59, and '60 releases showed the total figure dwindling from 305, to 316, to 274, respectively.

The climax in the program, to date, was the recent April 29 Achievement Day that publicly displayed what the county's high school seniors had learned from the program. That was the occasion of Dr. Irons' criticism.

Origination

Dr. Best began the program at C. M. Eppes High School in Greenville in '57 with "whole-hearted cooperation" from W.H. Davenport, principal at Eppes, and Mrs. Ellen Carroll, instruction supervisor for the Greenville City Schools.

The classes, taught once each week, included grades 10 through 12 and pointed out the various phases of personal hygiene—the name of the course.

Broad areas covered, says Dr. Best, were mental, physical, and moral health education. The entire course is geared toward preventive measures in each area.

IMMEDIATE SUCCESS

At the end of the first semester of the course, school officials were "indeed optimistic" about the possibilities of expanding the program. And by January, 1958, when the health department released illegitimate birth figures for 1957, a real improvement was entirely obvious.

Dr. Best cautions, "We could not definitely declare our program was responsible for the improvement, but we could say it had not made matters worse." During the summer of 1957, plans were laid to expand the personal hygiene course into the county system. With arrangements complete, the course moved into Robinson Union High School in Winterville as the new school term opened.

Almost immediately, students from South Ayden High School began to attend the Winterville classes voluntarily. Dr. Best saw the willingness to learn a subject that had been shrouded as "Taboo" by many parents.

Opposition

From the very beginning, the 44-year-old Greenville physician had been "fully aware of considerable opposition from the parents of the students involved in our program. We were prepared for it."

Since Dr. Best was involved strictly on a voluntary basis, it would be impossible to "lose my job," he points out. Gradually, the opposition began to decline as invitations were extended to parents to attend the doctor's lectures to assure themselves of the "value of education in the area of sex."

Dr. Best points out, "We had indicted our parents, schools, and even our churches for neglect in the area of personal hygiene education." The schools, he said, were found to be "woefully lacking" in curricula involving material contained in the hygiene course.

Three "Don'ts"

After complete investigation of the existing situation, Dr. Best, Mrs. Carroll, and other involved summarized their findings with three "don'ts" that resulted in adverse conditions for the personal hygiene situation of Pitt County's Negro population.

Lack of knowledge, pride, and economic independence resulted in the summation that many persons to be reached by the program "Don't know, Don't care, and Don't have." Dr. Best believed the primary "don't" was the first and set himself to the task of beginning to eliminate it.

"The remaining pair of 'don'ts,' he says, "will follow with time. The people must be taught first."

Expansion Outlook

This past year, each of the six Negro high schools in Greenville and Pitt County offered the hygiene course, complete with the sex education unit. The county schools required completion of the course for graduation. The course has grown over its three-year life from one of 16 weeks to a cover-all 23-week program, complete with mimeographed lectures and tape recordings. As school opens next year, Dr. Best says, a similar program is scheduled to begin its early stages in Lenoir County schools. The Greenville doctor's assistance has also been requested to institute hygiene education programs in Bertie and Wilson counties.

Though it will be impossible, he says, for his personal lectures to cover such a large area, he is now planning a program of "in-service" training of teachers representing the schools desiring to offer the course. Under the plan, Dr. Best will supervise the course in out-of-county schools.

The ultimate goal of the physician-turned-educator is to spread the program, or similar program, throughout Eastern North Carolina, and then throughout the entire state. To Dr. Best, educating the people is the first step in raising the economy.

He contends the great difference between white and Negro illegitimate births is not because of the race difference. "The difference," he declares, "is the difference in the education and economic situations of the two races."

Dr. Best has presented his program to the Pitt County Commissioners with the hope that governmental body will include funds in its budget for fiscal 1960-61 to hire a full-time assistant for the Pitt County program next school year.

He has requested cooperation of Supt. D.H. Conley of the Pitt County Schools in forwarding the course. "Mr. Conley has been most cooperative and the county commissioners appeared most receptive to the idea," he says.

Before school opens next fall, Dr. Best plans to arrange through Conley and other county superintendents in the Eastern N.C. area a planned meeting which will be attended by at least one teacher from each school in the area desiring to offer the course.

The program's originator, according to reliable sources, expected during the current school term, some $900 (a conservative estimate, they said) exclusive of his time spent in providing the hygiene course to all high school seniors in Pitt County. No charge has been assessed to the schools receiving the course.

Other Personnel

Dr. Best, in requesting full-time personnel from county funds, points out the tangible value of such an investment. "If the program works (and indications are that it is already working efficiently)," he declares, "the county will save money in future welfare payments by encouraging the program's operation."

And he has someone in mind for the job. Miss Mary Hawkins, who "showed tremendous interest" in the program prior to returning to college, has worked with Dr. Best in the hygiene course and is now completing work toward a master's degree in public health.

Dr. Best advocates the county's hiring her following her graduation to offer the course.

The program's originator, according to reliable sources, ex-

In addition to the doctor, Mrs. Carroll, Conley, Davenport, and Miss Hawkins, other education officials and leaders in the county have become interested and involved in the carrying out of the program.

J. W. Maye of the Winterville school, F.H. Mebane of H.B. Sugg High in Farmville, John Ward Jr. of Winterville, and Miss Hazel Jordan of Farmville have participated actively in promoting the hygiene education program.

"With the kind of cooperation we're getting," says Dr. Best, "we think we're really going to show some results in coming years." He has set 10 to 15 years as the period during which the program "should mature materially."

Lenoir Native

Dr. Best, born and raised near Kinston, graduated from Adkin High School in Kinston before enrolling at North Carolina A&T College in Greensboro. His college career was interrupted in 1943 when he became part of the U.S. armed forces in World War II. He was in action in Italy from November, 1943, until V-E Day. He was presented the Bronze Star Medal for "meritorious achievement in ground operations" in the Valley Campaign in Italy. In 1945, he returned to A&T where he graduated and entered Meharry Medical College in Nashville, Tenn., in 1947.

He received his Doctor of Medicine degree in 1951 and returned to the Army for his internee stint of 30 months.

Leaving the service again, Dr. Best came to Greenville in January, 1953, and set up his practice. He has remained here since.

Still a bachelor, Dr. Best is the eighth of 11 children. His father, Lewis W. Best, died in 1935. His mother, Mrs. Cassie Best, still resides at the "old home place" on Route 1, Kinston.

In colorful academic ceremonies the 46-year-old former dean of the college will be elevated to the top position.

Dr. Jenkins came to East Carolina in 1947 to become dean of the institution. In 1955 he was made one of the two vice presidents while continuing his duties as dean.

His record as an educator is impressive. Dr. Jenkins received his BS degree from Rutgers University. He received the masters from Columbia University. His Ed. D. degree was awarded at New York University. He has also done graduate work at Duke University.

He began his career as a public school teacher and dean of Somerville High School in New Jersey. Next he became a professor of political science and history at Montclair Teachers College, New Jersey. He was named assistant to the commissioner for Higher Education, New Jersey State Department of Education in 1945-46. He came to ECC in 1947 and was elevated to the presidency Jan. 5, 1960.

Dr. Jenkins has been much in demand as a speaker during his years with the college.

He has delivered approximately 135 graduation speeches in North Carolina public schools. He has also been frequent speaker at educational and business conferences such as the North Carolina Bankers Association and North Carolina Society of Engineers. He will be the featured speaker at the North Carolina Principals' Association meeting in November and at the Eastern North Carolina Press Association in October.

He is a former president of the Kiwanis Club and has been chairman of the Greenville Recreation Commission for two years. Dr. Jenkins is president of the North State Little League baseball and was a delegate to the White House Conference on Education.

Recognition has come to Dr. Jenkins for these many accomplishments. He is listed in Who's Who in America; Who's Who in American Education and Who's Who in the South and Southwest.

He is author of numerous articles appearing in "The Nation's Schools", "School and Society", "The American School Board Journal", "Overview", "The School Executive", "Clearing House", "Marine Corps Gazette", "Leatherneck".

Five articles are scheduled for publication in November and December of this year in "The American School Board Journal", "The School Executive" and "Overview."

Dr. Jenkins is a Methodist and a member of the board of stewards, former lay leader and teacher of the adult bible class at St. James Church. He was a speaker at the District Laymen's Rally in New Bern in 1958.

He is married to a former public school teacher, Lillian Jacobson. The Jenkins' have three sons, James, Jeffrey, and Jack, and three daughters, Suzanne, Patricia, and Sallie Jean.

The new president and his family are now making their home in the president's residence on Fifth St. across from Austin building.

Install Officers Of ACE Branch

Janice Langston of Goldsboro, president of the student branch of the Association for Crippled Children, Education at East Carolina College during the 1959-1960 term, has just been re-elected to the office for the coming school year.

A junior at East Carolina, Miss Langston is specializing in primary education.

Installation of new officers of the ACE took place May 10, in the cafeteria of the Wahl-Coates Laboratory School on the campus.

Serving with Miss Langston are Jacqueline A. Harris of Columbia, first vice president; Peggy Wynne of Franklinton, second vice president; Joan Elliott of Chadbourne, recording secretary; Juanita Wells of Clinton, corresponding secretary; Donna Langley of Spring Lake, treasurer; Carol Barrow of Snow Hill, historian; Ada Rae Rouse of Kinston, publicity director; Betty Bryan of Rt. 5, Lumberton, reporter; and Sophia Twiford of Englehard and Brenda Nunery of Jacksonville, social chairmen.

Dr. Mary Lois Stator of the education department is faculty advisor of the group.

After the installation ceremony, five ACE members who attended the recent convention of the organization in Cleveland, Ohio, made a report on their participation in the meeting. They were Molly and Marcella Cooke of Aulander, Sylvia Thomas of Sanford, Miss Elliott, and Miss Langston.

Too Many Dogs In His House, All 34 Impounded

FAIR LAWN, N.J. (AP)—Pelloving Frank Brewer, who kept 34 dogs around the house, faced some problems today.

Health Department officials, who kept counting Scottie dogs at Brewer's 14-room house, impounded the lot.

"They just multiplied," Brewer said.

The bachelor teacher was dogged by these problems: Magistrate Arthur Minuskin fined him $200 and sentenced him to 15 days in jail for violating borough ordinances on dogs. He said he would hold up the sentences while Brewer appeals.

Minuskin gave Brewer 10 days to get rid of the dogs and Brewer says it'll take at least 60.

A woman neighbor added a new complaint of disturbance by excessive barking.

Brewer, about 52, told a reporter he had started with just a few dogs.

"Scottie litters are usually three," he said. "All my litters got nine."

ECC Curricula Includes Fourteen Programs

Next fall, as East Carolina College President Leo W. Jenkins—to be inaugurated tomorrow morning—assumes the helm of the school for his first full year, more than 4,000 students will be choosing courses of study from a curricula that will boast 14 different programs.

That situation contrasts greatly from the schedule of courses offered when a mere handful of students formed ECC's first enrolled class more than a half-century ago.

Multiple Births Are Near Record

WILLIAMSTON, N. C. (AP) — Viola Rogers Brown, 31, may have set a record for multiple births, her physician said after delivering a set of triplets Monday night.

A hospital reported them alive and doing fine.

Since 1946, Mrs. Brown has given birth 20 times and eight of the children survive. They were quintuplets, quadruplets, two sets of twins, two sets of triplets and one single birth.

A problem of choice for the school's first students was not nearly so great at the outset. Under the provisions of the college's first catalogue, published for the 1910-11 school year, there was some choice—the school offered three programs of instruction—but regulations governing the programs rather effectively determined who should study what.

The curricula offered in the first catalogue were Preparatory, Professional, and a special course for teachers of rural schools. The first two were two-year courses while the third required only one term.

Today, included in the 13 programs available are five four-year schedules of courses leading to bachelors degrees. Two categories of masters degrees are available. The other programs are specialized courses including instruction in pre-professional work, a four-year business curriculum, a two-year forestry curriculum, a two-year curriculum in wood technology and pulp and paper technology, and a one-year engineering curriculum.

As the school term opens next fall, the 14th program—a four-year accredited nursing school — will join the East Carolina program of instruction.

Approximately 50 students are expected to enroll in next fall's class that, upon graduation, will receive the Bachelor of Science and the Registered Nurse degrees.

Another major recent development provided ECC a dual Master of Arts degree program. A Master of Arts in Education has been available since 1933 here, but in 1958, the program was redesigned to allow the conferring of a variation of the education degree. Now graduate students may pursue the Master of Arts degree — not in education only — but an M. A. with a major in one of the school's various programs. This degree is available with the major in most of the college's programs.

Overall Expansion

Since the end of the 1958 term, the school has added nearly 100 new individual courses to its catalogue. Notable in this expansion are such departments as art, music, business, geography, nursing, psychology, and the English graduate program.

An undergraduate program, now being pursued by nearly 1,000 students, is concerned entirely with a Liberal Arts Curriculum. The program is completely divorced from the teacher-training program for which the college was originally established.

Graduates in the Liberal Arts program receive the Bachelor of Arts degree, rather than the teacher-tuned Bachelor of Science diploma.

Pre-professional courses have been expanded to offer training in the areas of dentistry, medicine, laboratory technology, law, pharmacy, and optometry.

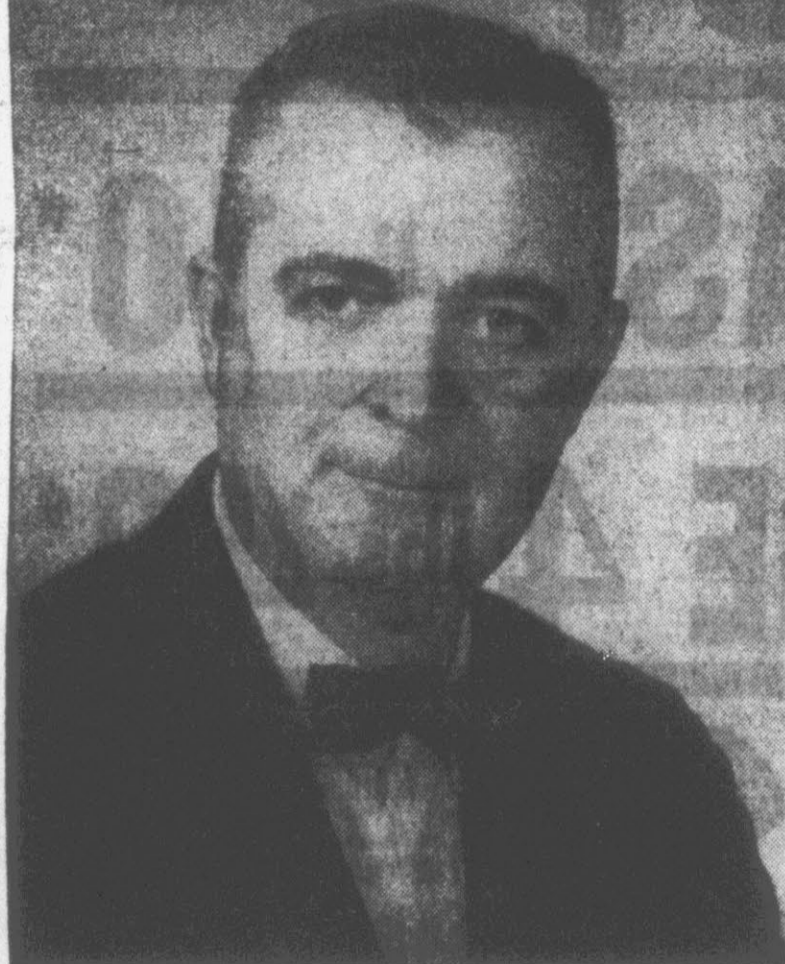

East Carolina's relatively limited program of instruction of the early 1900's was centered around a half-dozen buildings on a 47-acre campus. Today, a 175-acre campus dotted with nearly 30 buildings nurtains many times the enrollment of yesteryear and houses an instructional program of hundreds of courses.

And with the inauguration of its sixth president, the college, in the midst of a phenomenal period of growth, faces even greater and more rapid growth than ever before.

Many laymen and school officials are advocates of substantial expansion in the East Carolina graduate program. Unsuccessful attempts have already been made to expand the school's business department to authorize its conferring of graduate degrees. The EC geography department, rated by many as one of the best, appears near the threshold of entering a graduate program.

With the certain increase in enrollment, the college, of necessity, must continue to expand its physical plant and its curricula.

About 4,500 Students Due In Fall

East Carolina College's new president, Dr. Leo W. Jenkins, will greet about 4,500 on campus students when the fall quarter opens in September.

Dr. Jenkins himself has related the current "population explosion" throughout the United States with enrollment increases at the college. And figures certainly back him up.

In 1909, the school opened its doors to a total of 461 students, mostly female. In fact, in 1910 the first male students were registering, at a rate of only 22! Now, of course, the barriers are down and the males often outnumber the females.

By 1946, enrollment at East Carolina College had reached 1,047 but even this growth was nothing compared to the decade of 1950 to 1960, when the enrollment doubled. The count for 1958, in comparison to 1946, was 3,947 students on campus and 1,436 extension students.

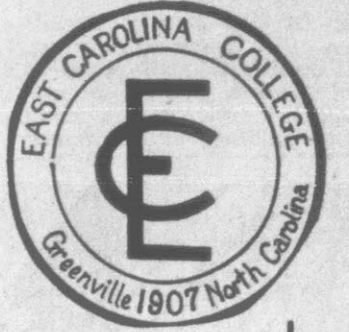

This year, there have been 4,583 students on the campus, during the three quarters, which includes day and dormitory students, but not the extension students, who number almost two thousand.

The estimated freshman enrollment for the coming fall is 1,850, which is almost four times the original total enrollment of the college. The estimated enrollment for fall on campus is 4,500. These figures have been supplied from the office of the Registrar, Dr. John Horne.

A breakdown of enrollment shows that Pitt County has 686 students enrolled at E.C.C. There are 348 out-of-state students, with Virginia leading the out-of-state enrollment.

The foreign students have increased sharply from 1958, when there were four. Now there are 11 in all. Foreign nations and students represented are Iraq, one; Mexico, four; Nicaragua, two; Brazil, one; Yugoslavia, one; Canada, one; Tokyo, Japan, one.

Ninety out of the 100 counties in North Carolina have students attending the college.

CIA Cloaked In Secrecy; Saying Nothing On Case

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Central Intelligence Agency is one of the biggest, and at the same time one of the most hush-hush, of the scores of federal agencies in Washington.

Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev says Francis G. Powers, the American pilot downed on a flight over the Soviet Union is a CIA agent.

As it has before and probably will continue to do in the future, CIA is saying nothing about the U.S. airman. It neither confirms nor denies that it had any hand in the affair. It remains as mum as the sphinx.

There is a reason for this: For CIA to give any hint of its activities, even to deny anything, might give out clues that would harm CIA's effectiveness.

It is widely known—though not officially stated—that CIA has undercover intelligence agents around the world. In Washington, the agency directs its far-flung operations, assesses the information gathered, and reports it to President Eisenhower and other appropriate government officials.

The agency employs thousands and spends millions of dollars yearly. Yet its activities are kept so secret that its appropriations are concealed in the money bills for other agencies and the number of its employees is not given out publicly.

CIA was set up in 1947 to meet modern cold war needs. A main aim was establishment of a central intelligence unit both to coordinate and to go beyond the work of various military and civilian intelligence agencies.

The Army, Navy and Air Force still have their separate intelligence arms but they are supposed to operate primarily in the fields of special interest to their service.

The CIA director is head of the intelligence advisory board, on which sit representatives from the various intelligence organizations. One of his jobs is to give Eisenhower's National Security Council intelligence concerning the national security as a whole.

Head of CIA since 1953 has been Allen W. Dulles, 67, brother of the late Secretary of State John Foster Dulles. CIA's deputy director since 1953 has been Gen. C.P. Cabell, 56, formerly of the U.S. Air Force.

Says Marriage Caused Insomnia

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Insomnia and a rash were the products of her marriage, actress-model Constance Fatten told divorce court.

"He was so temperamental and critical that if I said a thing was black he would say it was white, and vice versa," she testified Wednesday in reference to William Sat Jr., 25, a dental equipment salesman.

Sat dropped his counter suit and agreed to pay $15 weekly for support of their son, 2.

East Carolina College Grew Into A Big Institution

When Dr. Leo Jenkins officially takes office tomorrow morning, he will become the sixth president of East Carolina College—the college that has grown from a small group of buildings in 1909 valued at less than one million dollars to a vast and thriving educational institution sprawling over 175 acres, with nearly 30 buildings, and valued at $12 million. Chartered in 1907 by the North Carolina General Assembly, East Carolina College opened its doors for the first time in October, 1909. The physical campus included four completed buildings on 47 acres. Ready for use were Austin Building with classrooms and auditorium, a cafeteria, and two dormitories—Jarvis and Wilson Halls.

The new college that had found the favor of the state's lawmakers had made a vitally important stride—its beginning. It was located just outside the city limits of Greenville—"in the country," it was said.

Interest in the new-born institution began to grow rapidly and Austin Building was expanded in 1913 to meet already-increasing needs. It was enlarged again in 1917, 1921, and 1923, running its total value to $360,000.

By 1923, the "ECTC" campus also boasted what is now Whitchard Hall (the music building), Fleming and Ragsdale Dormitories, a president's home, and four faculty houses. The increased investment was nearly a million.

Rapid growth continued and, by 1930, the young college had greatly expanded its curricula and added another million-and-a-half dollars in capital improvements.

Joining the campus' physical assets were the first administration building, the first version of the training school (now Wahl-Coates), Cotten Hall, the power plant and laundry, the infirmary building, Wright Auditorium, Graham Building and an addition to the cafeteria.

The decade of the 1930's showed a marked decline in the physical growth of the East Carolina plant. The Great Depression had diverted what enlargement funds that might have been available to other needs, considered more urgent.

Nevertheless, before 1940, East Carolina had added its third major classroom building, Flanagan, at a cost of around $350,000 (in 1939), after building a $3,000 garage in 1938.

As the state's economy again began to thrive with the beginning of World War II, long-range plans were being laid at East Carolina to adequately serve and accommodate the tremendous upsurge of enrollment figures to be seen in the near future.

Before the "Fabulous Fifties" decade, East Carolina had added a new president's home, converting the old one to a woman's dormitory; a 214-man, half-million-dollar men's dorm; and an expansion of the power plant and laundry. The stage was set for a decade of phenomenal growth.

During 1951, more than $100,000 went into a maintenance building and storage facilities. That same year, McGinnis Auditorium was added to the training school at a cost of $300,000. The next year saw construction of College Memorial Gymnasium, a health and physical education center, and other athletic facilities valued at nearly $750,000. Also in 1952, Erwin Hall, a faculty dormitory, went up at a cost of nearly $350,000 and the power plant and laundry were again expanded.

Following an addition to Ragsdale Hall and a $10,000 "Y" Hut in 1953, the million-dollar Joyner Library became part of the East Carolina plant in 1954. That same year, Wright Building was expanded to include the present soda shop and $5,000 annex was added to Slay Dorm.

At the fifties' mid-point, Umstead Dormitory, accommodation for 310 men students, was constructed on the southern fringe of the campus at a cost of $640,000. Also in 1955, a spacious band room was added to the music building, running total investment there to nearly $300,000.

Another near-million-dollar dormitory, Garrett Hall for 304 women students, was added at the campus' west end in 1956. Additions to the Flanagan Building and the cafeteria and post office and the cafeteria and post office highlighted '56.

The next couple of years saw a comparative lull in construction as school officials laid plans for beginning construction of a record-breaking dormitory for men on new territory added to the southern edge of the East Carolina campus.

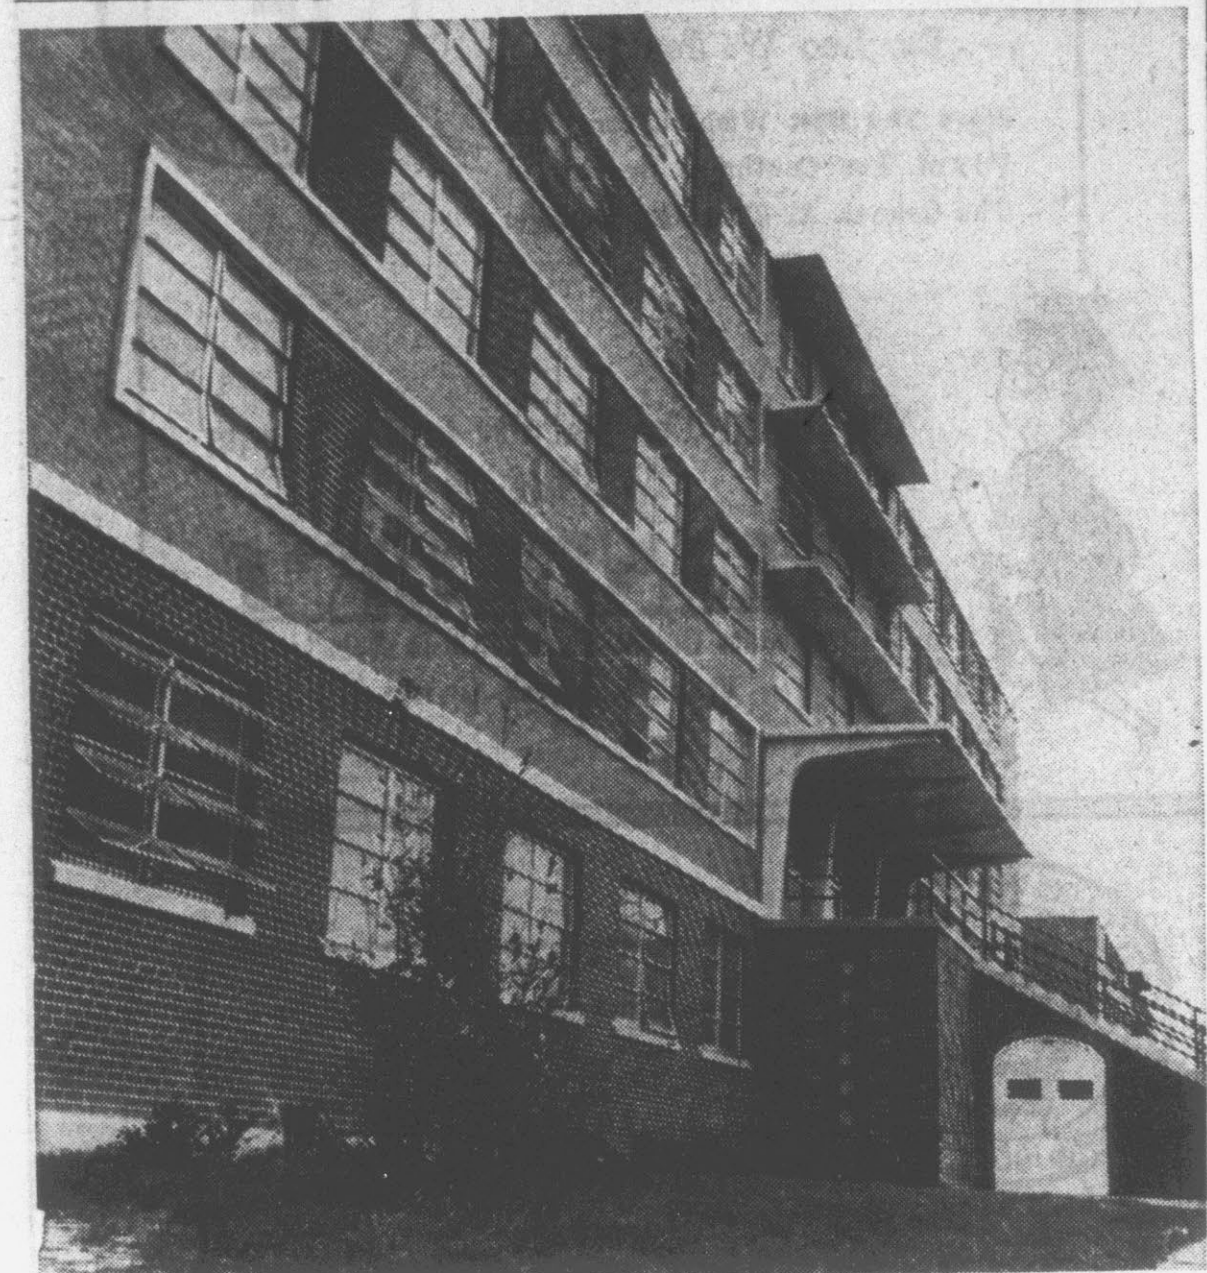

Construction was completed on Jones Hall, 520-man dorm, in 1959 at a cost of nearly a million-and-a-half dollars ($1,425,000).

Also in 1959, additions to Whitchard Hall, the administration facilities, and the cafeteria were completed. The New South Dining Hall addition also included a new soda shop and book store to expand the existing facility in Wright Building.

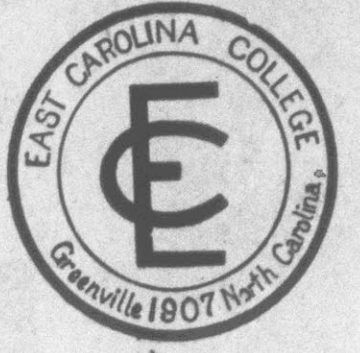

The Rawl Building was also added to the campus during 1959, at a cost of nearly $750,000. The spacious classroom building provided the campus with its fourth major instrumental building. An additional to the four-story building is already underway.

In addition to the Rawl Building to accommodate 500-plus students was under construction just to the south of Jones Hall, to be dedicated this Sunday. The new dorm will cost over one million. Additions to the Flanagan Building and to the cafeteria—presenting an investment of more than $200,000 were underway.

So, Dr. Jenkins takes over with bright prospects of East Carolina's remaining as the state's most rapidly-growing educational institution.

Million-Dollar Library At College Contains An Even Greater Wealth

A million dollar library with over a million dollars invested in books and periodicals. The James Yadkin Joyner Library represents just this—except as the years go by, the collection of books, as far as dollars and cents historic and knowledge value, will far surpass the value of the building.

East Carolina College has had a library since its earliest days, but certainly not a facility such as the modern and beautiful Joyner Library, where students have the advantage of almost every book listed in the "Essay and General Literature Index" and the "Short Story Index."

In 1954, the new Joyner Library was dedicated, named in honor of Dr. James Yadkin Joyner of La-Grange, who served a number of years as Superintendent of Public Instruction of North Carolina. The structure itself is generally regarded as one of the most beautifully appointed libraries in the state. Construction took about two years, and the cost of the building and its fixtures has been estimated at $900,000.

Facilities
As of last July 1, Librarian Wendell W. Smiley said the library contains 128,427 volumes. In addition to this, 592 magazines and 15 newspapers are received currently.

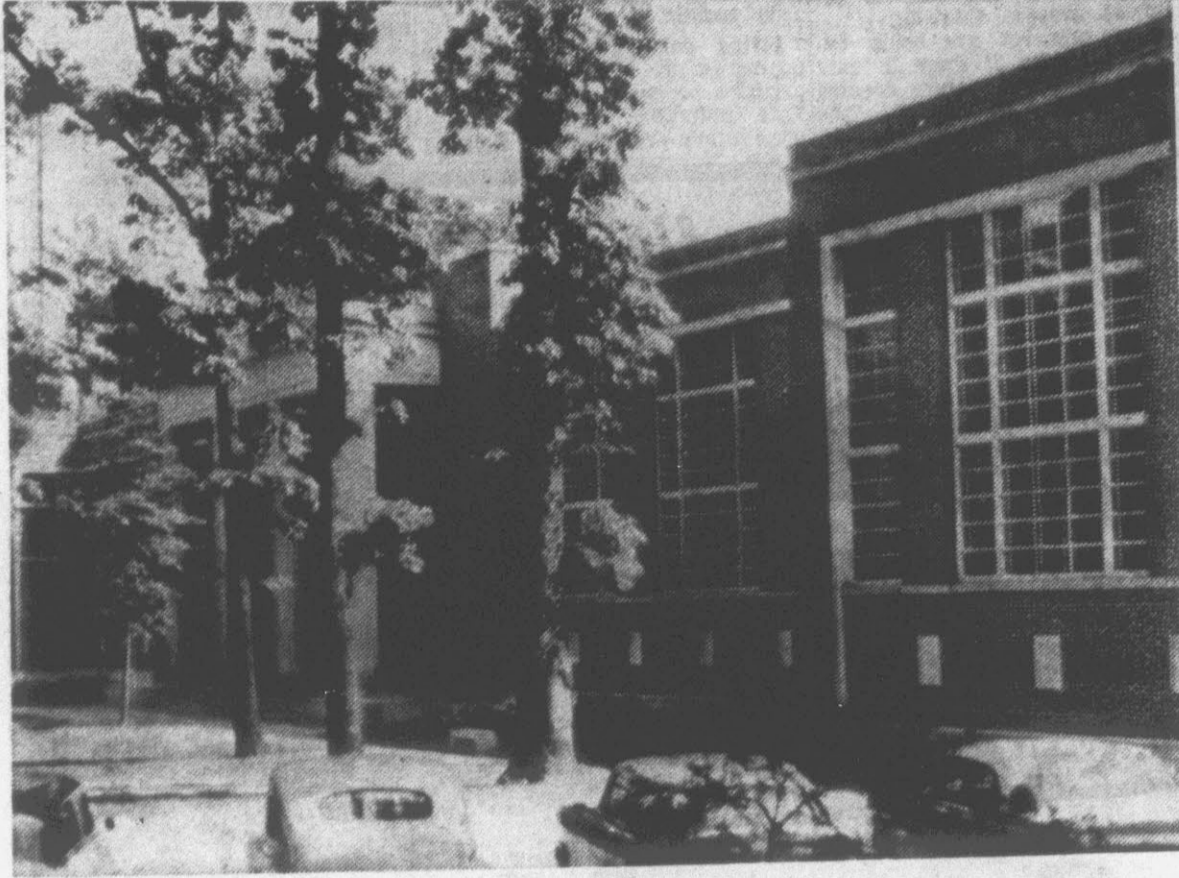

The collection of reading material in the library "would be impossible to replace," Smiley said. Included in the collection are the recently acquired collections of The New York Times editions on microfilm from 1851 until today, and the editions of The Reflector from 1882 up-to-date. These collections are among those replaceable, though a replacement of the microfilm of The New York Times would cost over $5,000.

Smiley said the Joyner Library has a 95 per cent complete collection of short stories as represented in the "Short Story Index" and more than a 95 per cent collection of books listed in the "Essay and General Literature Index." The latter indexes some 25,000 volumes of material, Smiley said. Gifts are received from time to time, Smiley said, and number a "couple of hundred a year." One of the "most recent gifts is a collection on insurance of about 10 volumes, given by the Underwriters Assn. of Pitt County.

As for additions to the library, Smiley said no additions have been made to the building since its construction, though the college is asking the General Assembly for appropriations to add a wing to the east end of the building. The wing would be used to form a general reserve reading room and general seminar room. Facilities include a main reading room, which will seat 320 students; a periodical reading room with a 100-student seating capacity; North Carolina Room, seating 25; a number of study rooms, seating 12 students each; a model school library housed in one room; a textbook collection in a curricular laboratory; and an audio-visual education center with an audi-dark room.

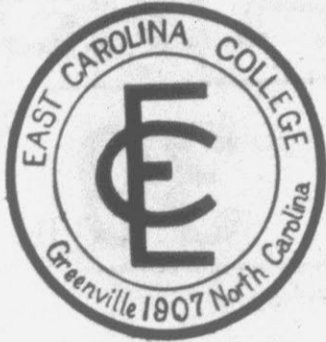

The library also houses the radio station and closed circuit television. The FM radio will broadcast 75 miles, but the AM facilities are for the college only, Smiley said. Library science instruction is carried on in the classrooms located in the library. There is, in addition to other facilities, an auditorium that is used for activities and various lectures which will seat 150 people and is air conditioned.

As of this year, the library employs 11 full time professional people, four secretaries and last year there were students who worked 18,678 hours during the year. The student workers number about 35 to 40, Smiley said.

Faculty Member To Study Abroad

James Brewer, faculty member of the department of English at East Carolina College, will study at the Salzburg, Austria, Summer School during the summer months. He will attend a school on a grant arranged through the Institute of International Education, New York City. Brewer will study voice, history of Austrian music and art, and the German language. After completion of his work at Salzburg he will be located for a six months' period at Munich, Germany, and will do research work in the German drama at the Munich Staat Theater.

Brewer's summer plans include also a tour beginning May 22 and preceding his work at Salzburg. He will visit Scotland, the Scandinavian countries, London, Paris, Zurich and Rome.

A faculty member at East Carolina since last fall, Brewer has been connected with a number of musical and dramatic events on the campus, including "My Three Angles," which he directed for the East Carolina Playhouse; "Annie, Get Your Gun," musical comedy for which he was drama director; and "A Midsummer Night's Dream," for which he was technical director.

Refuse To Ban Chessman Movie

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Superior Court has refused to ban a movie on Caryl Chessman, he executed "red light bandit."

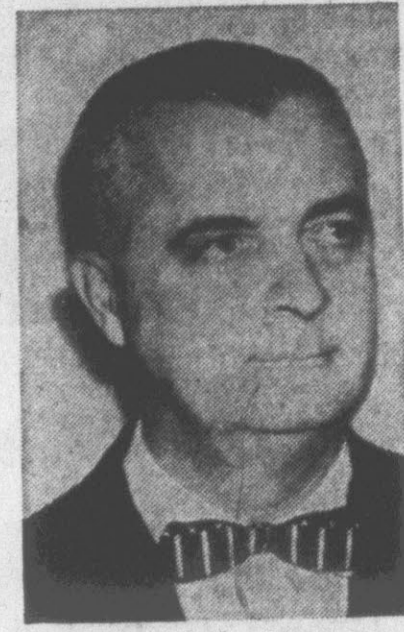

A district attorney's deputy sought a restraining order Wednesday to prevent the showing of "Justice and Caryl Chessman," produced by Terrance Cooney and Sterling World Distributing Corp.

The prosecutor, Rep. Dist. Atty. J. Miller Leavy, contended that his part in the film was a misrepresentation, because half of an interview was omitted.

However, the court held Leavy's request was unprecedented. Leavy's counsel said another attempt to halt the film's exhibition will be made, possibly through a $250,000 damage action.

FOOD FOR MILLIONS
ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP)—At a board of managers session here, Church World Service, relief arm of the National Council of Churches, reported that an average 7 million people overseas were dependent on it for some food every day last year.

Some 173 million cases of eggs were produced on U. S. farms in 1959.

College Concert Band Program Tonight

CONCERT BAND to give public concert this evening

A concert by the East Carolina College Concert Band tonight at 8 p.m. in the Wright auditorium will be presented by the department of music at the college as an event of Inauguration Week. The 80-member ensemble will play under the direction of Herbert L. Carter, selections emphasizing the familiar and the popular. The public is invited to attend.

Featured on the program will be the premiere performance of "Quest for Truth" by James H. Parnell of the music faculty at East Carolina. The work was composed by Mr. Parnell in honor of Dr. Leo W. Jenkins's inauguration as president of the college.

The symphonic band number by Mr. Parnell is described as contemporary in style and based on the theme of man's search for truth, beauty, and right. The composer will conduct the band as it performs "Quest for Truth."

Also an attraction on the program will be a performance of the recently composed "Concerto for Percussion and Band" by Clifton Williams. Seven talented student percussionists will appear with the band in this selection.

Other works to be presented include Percy Grainger's "Lincolnshire Posy," a medley of English folk tunes; Leroy Anderson's novelty number "Horse and Bugy"; the popular "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring" by Bach; and marches from Spain, France, and America. Band members will appear in formal attire at the inaugural concert Thursday and will be grouped on new risers recently purchased by the college.

More, Not Less Segregation In Big Cities

CHICAGO (AP) — A University of Chicago sociologist said today the American Negro is becoming more, not less, segregated in large cities.

Prof. Philip M. Hauser, chairman of the University's sociology department and former acting director of the U. S. Census, said the Negro is gradually moving outward toward the suburbs, getting better jobs and education.

Other immigrants did this as individuals and became assimilated, he said. But the Negro is moving as a group, taking his segregated ghetto with him.

This results, he said, from color prejudice and the fact that Negroes are arriving in metropolitan areas more rapidly and in greater numbers than did other immigrants.

"Unlike his immigrant predecessors, the Negro is becoming more, rather than less, segregated in American metropolitan areas," Hauser said.

Hauser told an international conference of mayors that metropolitan centers will face a crisis in human relations in the 1960s. This will result in part, he said, from the fact that though the Negroes fleeing segregated living, other groups want to live in enclaves and are resisting integration.

"The test of our Democratic order," he said, "will lie not so much in a shift from segregated to integrated living, as in the freedom of a person or a group to live either in integrated fashion or in enclaves."

Among those resisting integration, he said, are Catholic national church groups, the Jewish community and some Anabaptist Christian sects.

More than 1,000 mayors from throughout the world are attending the conference to discuss mutual problems their cities will face.

Hauser said that by 1970, 150 million persons, the nation's population, he said, will total 214 million.

But, he told the mayors not to expect huge increases in the population of the cities themselves. "The bloom is off the boom for central cities," he said.

Of an expected increase of 30 million in metropolitan area residents, he said, less than 5 million will live in the cities proper.

The population boom and continuing shifts of population, he said, pose great problems in the coming decade.

For example, he said, even if juvenile delinquency rates remain the same, "juvenile delinquency during the '60s will increase by 44 per cent, by reason of the increase in the size of the age group alone."

Other problems to be faced, he said, include how to provide transportation and physical services for the spreading population and how to prevent urban decay.

To Be Instructed On Right, Wrong

NAPLES, Fla. (AP)—A Seminole Indian who killed a member of his tribe in a knife fight has been placed in custody of a medicine man for instruction on right and wrong.

Cory Osceola, chief of the Indian group that lives in the wilds of the Everglades near Naples, said the tribe placed Bennie Wilson, 22, on probation for at least four months.

The ruling came at a trial during this week's Green Corn Dance, an annual judicial and festive get-together.

Wilson was freed by white authorities in the killing of Frank Osceola, 51. Both men were drunk at the time, officers said. It was agreed Wilson killed in self-defense.

JAMES H. PARNELL, composer's work to be presented.

Former ECC Students Are Scoring As Actors

Tom Hull, Don Dunson, and Charles Briggs, former students at East Carolina, are having interesting and successful experiences in the field of drama.

Hull, whose home is Durham, now an entertainment specialist with the U. S. Army, Augsburg, Germany, recently received a trophy presented to the best actor at the Southern Area of Command's Festival of Plays at Augsburg. A member of the Bavarian Crossroads Service Club's drama group, Hull played the harassed lover in Chekhov's "The Marriage Proposal." The award was presented by the famous actress Olivia de Havilland.

Dunson, also from Durham and now a speech teacher at the Glynn County, Ga., Junior High School, had the leading role in William Inge's Pulitzer-Prize play "Picnic," presented by the St. Simons Island Players. His wife, Judy, a home economics student at East Carolina for two years, also had a part in the play.

Briggs, originally from Mantoloking, also active in dramatics at East Carolina, is cast in the movie "Home From the Hills," shown in Greenville during April. He has appeared in a number of TV productions including "Lawman," "The Texan," "Wagon Train," "The Rifleman," and "Tightrope." With his wife, former East Carolina student Annette Bradley of Littleton, Briggs left East Carolina for California in 1957 to make his way in filmdom and is making a place for himself as a character actor.

Hull, Dunson and Briggs worked with the East Carolina Playhouse during their student days. Letters from them to Dr. Lucile H. Charles of the English department give interesting accounts of their experiences on the stage and of their continued interest in the theater.

New Disability Wage Plan Aired

KINSTON — W. E. Gladding, manager of the Kinton DuPont plant near here, has announced a change in the company's disability, accident, and health insurance plan for employees.

The major changes eliminate a two-day waiting period before payments start in the disability wage plan and extend the duration of benefits to as much as six months.

Under the new disability wage plan, employees will receive full pay for the first day of disability caused by off-the-job illness or injury. Formerly, the workers were not paid for the first two days of absence. Payments will continue for as long as six months, an increase of three months over the old provision. The company pays the entire cost of the plan, which covers all wage roll employees who have worked for DuPont one year or more.

Group Accident and Health Insurance benefits will be provided for a maximum of 26 weeks—double the former plan. Participation in this plan is voluntary and employees and company both contribute to the cost. Payments begin after the first week of disability. If an employee loses time because of an on-the-job injury, he will now receive full pay for as long as six months — another three-month increase.

The U. S. Army Signal Corps, celebrating its 100th birthday during 1960, started as a result of an Army surgeon's experiments to perfect a signal system for the deaf.

Suspects Switch In U2 Wreckage

BURBANK, Calif. (AP) — The designer of the U2 high altitude spy plane says the Soviets switched wreckage in releasing a second picture purporting to show a downed American plane. "This looks more like it," said C. L. Johnson of Lockheed Aircraft, when shown a reproduction of the Soviet picture showing wreckage on display. "This definitely is not the same wreckage shown in the first picture released by the Russians," he said. "That was of a heavy airplane, this is a lightweight one, like the U2."

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—Steels, motors and some electronics helped pace a moderate stock market rally early this afternoon. Trading was fairly active.

Gains of fractions to a point or so among leading issues outnumbered small losers.

The market was mostly higher from the start. Ability of the list to avoid another test of the 1960 lows Wednesday was an encouraging technical factor.

Aircrafts, chemicals, coppers, airlines, drugs and topaccos also showed a firmer tone although most of the gains in these groups were very small.

Rails, utilities and oils were mixed.

Steels and motors showed their most unanimous rise in quite a spell. Up around a point or so were Chrysler, U.S. Steel, Ford, Lukens Steel and Republic Steel.

Wide-swinging Polaroid rose more than 5 points. Gains of about a point were scored by NAFT, Lear and Raytheon. Have added more than 2.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 1.26 at 607.80.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .70 to 211.10 with the industrials up 1.40, the rails up .40 and the utilities up .20.

Corporate bonds edged higher. U.S. governments drifted lower.

Fifty-eight Cubs Scouts entered night at Elm Street Park in racers in the Pitt District Cub Greenville. Scout Pinewood Derby held last Henry Kidd of Pac 205, Greenville and Tony Sullivan of Pack 200, Greenville won Cub Scout pocket knives for having the most attractive racers entered in the event.

Mac Johnson of Pack 385, Greenville, took first place in the race and was presented the winner's trophy while the Runner-up trophy was presented to William Falley of Pack 200, Greenville.

According to Derby officials, John Crawley of Pack 9, had the fastest car in the race and was winning the race until the weights in his car fell out at the end of the Championship Race.

Pinewood Derby rules state, "No loose materials of any kind are permitted in the car," a fact which automatically disqualified the Crawley racer.
