Daily Reflector Preparing For Largest Election Party

The Daily Reflector is putting the finishing touches on plans for its most elaborate election party for taking primary returns Saturday night.

Area Candidates Going All-Out In The Closing Hours

With Saturday's primary less than 48 hours away, Pitt County and first district candidates for Democratic nominations for offices at stake were planning cover-all windups to their respective campaigns.

In one of the first district's most vigorous congressional campaign battles in recent years, incumbent Herbert C. Bonner of Washington and Walter B. Jones of Farmville, the challenger, were throwing their full strength into various areas of the district.

Bonner, according to his headquarters today, was working the Chowan County area, spending most of the day in Edenton. The 20-year congressional veteran was scheduled to carry the final day of his campaign to the Plymouth area before settling down in Washington Saturday.

Jones' wife, accompanied by several "Jones for Jones" members, left Greenville around 10:30 a.m. today for a day of campaigning in Williamston and Martin County.

The other commission candidate, Strickland, could not be reached for comment today, but it is expected he will wrap up his county-wide campaigning activities today, tomorrow, and Saturday and attend the Reflector's "election party" to watch Pitt's precinct voting returns beginning when the polls close at 6:30 p.m.

Betting Odds In 1960 Primary Are More Even Than Anybody Thought Possible

By LYNN NISBET

RALEIGH—In the parlance of the race track the candidates in the 1960 Democratic primary are on the last lap, approaching the mythical wire, and betting odds are more even than anybody thought probable three months ago.

Beverly Lake, John Larkins, Terry Sanford and Malcolm Sewell are in the race for the Democratic nomination (equivalent to election) for Governor of North Carolina.

C. V. Henkel, David McConnell and Cloyd Philpott are in similar close race for Lieutenant Governor.

The candidates are listed alphabetically which seems the safest "out" in these admittedly close races.

Other statewide primary contests are those between incumbent and he enunciated a program early in the season, the main point of which was a plan for cooperative effort of small communities in developing industry.

Philpott is the working executive of a big furniture manufacturing business. Henkel has practically retired from textile manufacturing and merchandising, devoting his energies to his large real estate holdings. McConnell is a lawyer, his principal connection being general counsel for the Belk department store system. Active support throughout the state is a chief source of his strength.

Pilot Club Installs New Officers

Highlighting the Greenville Club of Pilot International dinner meeting Monday night was the ceremony of installation of officers for the new Pilot year.

Mrs. Ann Phillips, elected to serve a second term as president and having been inducted into office at the District Meeting at New Bern, installed the officers to serve with her.

As she called each new officer's name, Mrs. Phillips read the duties of the office. In addition to Mrs. Phillips, those elected to pilot the club for the coming year and installed at this time were Mrs. Robert W. Fennell, first vice-president; Mrs. Lucy Bell, second vice-president; Mrs. E. G. McMullen, recording secretary; and Mrs. N. M. Jorgensen, treasurer.

Installed as members of the new Board of Directors were Mrs. Robert W. Fennell, Mrs. W. W. Howell, Mrs. James Mallory, Dr. Georgia Mills, Miss Lelia Higgs, and Miss Annie Moore. At the close of the service Mrs. Phillips read the prayer of dedication.

Mrs. Douglas Jones, sponsored by Mrs. James Mallory, was received into club membership.

As a part of the ceremony of membership, Mrs. Mallory lighted a yellow candle as a token of Pilot International's motto, "True Course Ever," and Miss Jane Hadley lighted a green candle signifying the member's responsibility for service.

Mrs. W. W. Howell, chairman of the Membership Committee, read to Mrs. Jones the duties and responsibilities of membership and presented her with a copy of the

Book Club Has Meeting

GRIFTON—The Grifton Book Club met Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Tom Gower for the May meeting.

Mrs. G. L. Tucker presided during the business hour and it was reported that $80 for scholarship had been presented to Principal E. B. Bright to be awarded to a member of the current senior class. The announcement will be made on graduation night.

During the program hour Mrs. Gower presented Miss Sharon Stone who spoke on "Grifton Today." She gave her impressions of the town as a comparative newcomer and the growth in the past several years and progress.

Mrs. Gower served a salad with sandwiches and iced tea. Members present were Mesdames Tucker, W. I. Bissette, Alton Chapman, H. F. Quinerly, Bryan Davis, Thurman Williams, J. L. Tucker, Cecil Cobb and Miss Bert Johnson.

Cast Given Cook-Out

GRIFTON—On Sunday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Odell Bowen entertained informally at an outdoor party in honor of members of the cast of the play "The Second Look" which was given by the Subdistrict Young Adults of the Methodist Church.

Steaks were served with fried chicken and other accompaniments.

Present were Rev. and Mrs. Ralph Epps, Barbara, Karen and Ikie Epps, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Moore, Shirley, Linda and Cliff Moore, Ann McClaine, Tommy Riley and Pat and Linda Bowen.

Outdoor Party Marks Birthday

GRIFTON—Rusty Gower was feted on the occasion of his eighth birthday Friday afternoon when 29 of his school friends joined him at his home here for an outdoor party.

The young guests were directed in the activities by his mother, Mrs. Tom Gower, and Mrs. G. L. Tucker.

After the games and supper, strawberry shortcake was served and the decorated cake, made by his sister, Betty Lynn, was also served.

Council Has State Convention

The annual convention of the Men. They were representatives of the Great Inchoones, James Archer, and the Degree of Pochontas, was held in Rocky Mount last week.

The first event was an informal reception given in the ballroom honoring Great Pochontas, Gladys Crisp of Chocowinity, and Great Sachem, George Davis of Greenville. Memorial service was held Sunday night in honor of the deceased members over the past year.

An informal reception was held at the wigwam of Tawpaco Tribe No. 18 later Sunday night. It was given by George Davis and Gladys Crisp to all the members as a token of their appreciation for their loyal support and the many kindnesses shown them in the past year.

On Monday morning a joint meeting was held of the Death Benefit Dept. The opening welcome was made by Mayor Mims of Rocky Mount. Separate meetings were held throughout the remainder of the convention. Three hundred were registered. A dance featuring Bob Jones and his orchestra was held in the ballroom on Monday night.

Mrs. Eva Craggs of Indianapolis, Ind., president of the National League, installed the officers for the Degree of Pochontas and Ivan Craggs installed the Red

Street-ch-ing Dollars

RALEIGH — Milk and dairy foods are heading the plentiful foods list for the month of June. Supplies are at their seasonal high for fluid milk and milk products.

Mrs. Ruby P. Ussle, consumer marketing specialist for the N. C. Agricultural Extension Service, says, dairy products offer convenience and good eating. Milk, in all its forms, is an indispensable item in any home. Since June is Dairy Month, you should plan to serve dairy products often.

You will continue to find some strawberries on the market from local gardens and some from Alabama, Louisiana, and California. Other fruits available are fresh pineapples, avocados and cherries. Melons—honeydew, casabe, cantaloupe and watermelons are available at first of season prices. Orange and grapefruit offerings are small at higher prices. Fresh juicy lemons are found at budget prices per dozen. Consider frozen and canned fruit and juices for wise use of the fruit money at this time. Fresh peaches should start appearing on the market during June.

Local vegetables available now include all kinds of leafy greens, English peas, cabbage, and green onions. Tomato quality and prices are improving each week. Florida

It's Easy To Dye New Bath Decor

By VIVIAN BROWN AP Newsfeatures Writer

If you are bored with your bathroom accessories, why not give them a dye bath right in the washing machine? It's been done successfully by many women, who say that it is a cinch if directions are followed.

You can dye everything from the shag rug to the plastic shower curtain, if the curtain is vinyl and sewed. If it is glued or heat sealed do not try to dye it.

Clear or white vinyl plastics can be tinted any shade except black or navy blue. Pastels can be tinted a darker or covering color. Patterns may change color if the background is clear or light, as usually only the background will take the tint bath.

OUT OF THE DYE BATH . . . And onto the shower rod. That's what happened to this shower curtain, which was dyed in a washing machine.

Time Has Strengthened Conviction

On Saturday people throughout the 14 counties of the First Congressional District will decide at the ballot boxes which of two candidates will represent this area in Congress for the next two years.

Some weeks ago, after a careful study of the records of the two candidates, and after careful evaluation of what each has to offer the people in the critical years ahead, The Daily Reflector urged the people of Pitt County to unite in support of Walter B. Jones for Congress.

The lively debate of the campaign issues in recent weeks has served to strengthen our conviction that Walter Jones is the candidate most capable of giving the people of this district the vigorous, forceful and progressive representation they need in Congress.

We urge the people of Pitt and other counties of the district to cast their ballots Saturday for Walter Jones for Congress.

Walter Jones earned his recognized place as a leader and influential member in the legislature, not by long tenure in office, but by active hard work, forcefully thrusting to the fore the needs of the people and fighting vigorously to see that those needs were met. His record as a legislator is not one of routine drifting with the tide. It is one filled with genuine accomplishments, reflecting a farsighted, realistic approach to filling the needs of the people and bringing about very real and practical benefits to our county, our district and our state.

On the eve of Election Day, it is evident that Walter Jones has constantly gained popular support, not only in Pitt County, but in the counties throughout the district. There has been daily a growing awareness among the citizens that the most important issue is the relative ability of the two candidates to do the job in Congress the people need and expect in the years before us. We feel Walter Jones is that candidate.

Saturday is the day for the people of the First District to speak out and make themselves heard at the ballot boxes. It is the day when the people of Pitt County should raise their voice in unison for the congressional candidate from their county who has shown himself eminently qualified for the high office.

We urge the people to cast their ballots Saturday for Walter Jones for Congress, a Pitt County man of proven ability whose election to Congress will mean fresh ideas, new thinking and a more vigorous championing of forward-looking legislation for the common good of all the people of this Congressional District.

Why Not A Big Rescue Squad For Disasters?

Nature has run wild in Chile. That narrow, rocky, mountainous strip of land running along the western coast of South America has been shaken by great earthquakes—pounded by tidal waves, and provinces terrified by revived volcanoes.

News reports have it that thousands are dead or missing, and perhaps millions homeless.

In the wake of such disasters there is always the aspect of plagues and famine over the stricken land. Several weeks ago a city in North Africa was literally erased from the map by a tremendous earth shock.

Iran, a frequent victim of heavy tremors, has also had its share of recent quakes. In many countries the elements have dealt hard blows of one kind or another this past winter and spring.

"Routine" disasters are usually handled with dispatch by the areas involved.

But there have been a number of incidents of devastation in which relief measures were difficult to institute and suffering by multitudes of people was unavoidably prolonged.

The Chilean government, for instance, faces a rescue relief task which their limited resources will require weeks to accomplish. And that is only to meet immediate needs; rehabilitation will take years to accomplish.

Such disasters suggest a rather obvious countermeasure in an international relief force ready for instant dispatch to troubled spots.

For such a body we can only visualize the United Nations as the sponsoring organization.

True, the UN has been nearly impotent in attempting to establish a police force for peace; but the maintenance of a task force designed to meet any kind of major disaster seems hardly grounds for controversy.

People and governments are always anxious to help other people in times of great trouble. Such a UN function would be a logical outlet for that kind of help... like an overgrown Rescue Squad.

We all know what that means to us here at home.

Togetherness Failed To Last

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP) — Togetherness lasted less than a week.

Democrats and Republicans, in a moment of bewildered silence which they called a united front, rallied behind President Eisenhower when Premier Nikita Khrushchev humiliated him and wrecked the summit meeting.

But politics and the upcoming elections got the better of them. Khrushchev performed on Monday, May 16. The togetherness here lasted until Thursday when it must have become suffocating to Adlai Stevenson. He attacked Eisenhower. Things got back to normal fast.

Now Democrats disagree with Democrats, Republicans with Republicans. And Democrats and Republicans are charging each other with being "soft on communism," a phrase not heard much since the days of Sen. Joseph McCarthy.

This is a kind of bonus for Khrushchev. Stevenson, who may once again get the Democratic nomination, said that while Khrushchev smashed the summit, Eisenhower handed the Soviet Premier a "cowbar and sledgehammer" through his administration's handling of the spy plane incident.

He said it was the obligation of the Democrats to expose and criticize any carelessness and mistakes by the Eisenhower administration.

Then a former Democratic national chairman, James A. Farley, lit into Stevenson for saying such a thing. Vice President Richard M. Nixon's press aide got his boss' name into print by saying Stevenson shocked him.

Thirty House Democrats in Congress broke their few days' silence with eight questions they want Eisenhower to answer on the "series of tragic blunders" connected with the spy plane and the summit.

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, leader of the Senate Republicans, came up with an angle. He said Stevenson himself had helped torpedo the summit before it began.

He said Stevenson in a pre-summit interview with a Paris reporter advocated concessions to the Soviets. After that, Dirksen said, Khrushchev would have been a fool not to postpone the summit until after election day.

Stevenson at first denied the interview. Then he said the reporter "confused discussion with opinion." The French reporter stuck to his story.

Somewhere along the line Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts, the front-runner among Democratic aspirants, got into the act with a comment in Portland, Ore. He said Eisenhower could have expressed regret to Khrushchev for the spy plane.

This was too much for Sen. Hugh Scott, a Pennsylvania Republican. He sent the Senate into an uproar by declaring Stevenson and Kennedy should be summoned before congressional investigators "to relieve themselves of the gross suspicion of appeasement."

Kennedy strode into the Senate, denied he was an appeaser. Scott said he'd accept Kennedy's saying, but another Democrat, Sen. John A. Carroll of Colorado went after Scott. He accused him of playing raw politics.

Some Democrats wanted a Senate investigation of the spy plane disaster and the summit debacle. Some Republicans didn't. But some did. A New York Democrat, Rep. Samuel A. Stratton, deplored the action of the 30 Democrats who want Eisenhower to answer eight questions.

Sen. Mike Mansfield (D-Mont) said Dirksen insinuated the Democrats, if elected next fall, would be "soft on communism." Paul Butler, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, said the Eisenhower administration had "too soft a policy

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
RELISH FOR THE HIGH THINGS
There is something very strange about the way appetite behaves itself in the scheme of life. Feed an appetite, and strangely enough, it is not appeased. It simply builds up an added capacity for more.

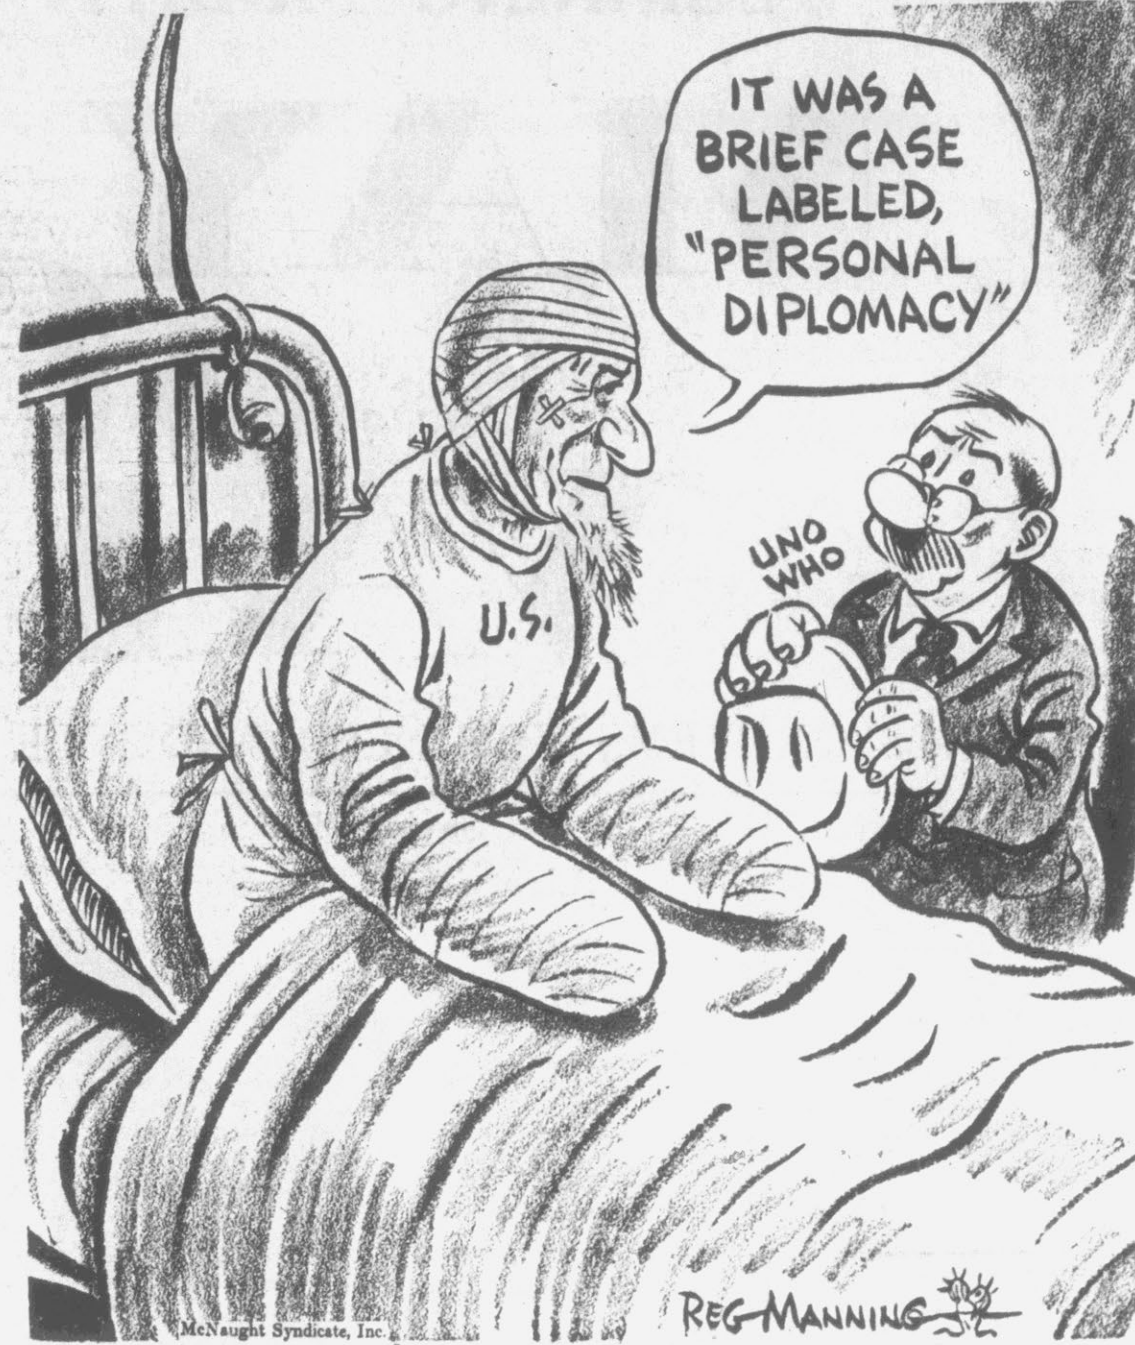

Everyone is conscious of this in the matter of food. The more we eat, the more we want to eat. The same is true of all other appetites. Feed them, and they become tyrannical. The urge of appetite and the law of habit blend and create a situation which becomes very compelling.

But there is a good side to all this. People can develop appetites for good things. There can be appetites for mental and spiritual things which are as strong, if not stronger, than the appetites some people build up for food and the grosser urgings. Anyone who has ever read St. Francis DeSales books on devotion realizes that there was a man whose appetite for heavenly things was as sharp as some men's appetites become for worldly things.

The secret of the matter is that we can develop an appetite for life's higher values if we resign ourselves to them and let them have their way with us. This is the way appetites develop in all fields, good as well as bad. We can develop an appetite for the higher things of life if we will.

Politicking Hits A Peak

Most folks are saying the politicking around here has just about reached a peak over past years.

They're probably right, too, because the candidates, and strong ones, for the various offices in Saturday's primary election are numerous. Notables all over the state are saying we're experiencing one of the "hottest" gubernatorial chases in North Carolina's history.

In addition, the congressional fights have created intense interest. The candidates and politicians have set the stage for a successful voting year in North Carolina. The interest, in most cases, has been sufficiently generated to draw eligible voters to the polls Saturday.

Voters should do a little advanced thinking. If they'd all pause for a moment and look into their personal futures they might see a time when they might be violently criticizing the government leaders elected by the people.

Such criticism is a wonderful thing. It's a basic principle of democracy. But, there should be a prerequisite to criticizing the government — especially for qualified voters.

No eligible voter should feel justified in offering criticism unless he exercises his vote.

So, when the polls open less than 48 hours from now, every registered voter should make every effort to cast a ballot. More important than voting for one candidate or the other is the act of voting in itself.

If for no other reason, eligible voters should cast their ballots to become certified government critics.

Reported developments during the last week or so of the first district's congressional campaign have been numerous.

The tempo has been constantly on the incline and will reach its climax Saturday. There will be a comparative lull in campaign activity while the ballots are tabulated.

The District is seeing its first congressional race since 1946 and the competition is refreshing.

Each side has been striving untiringly to persuade the 14 counties' voting population in his behalf.

The campaigning has resulted in reports from various areas in the district that conflict slightly in some cases. Each side has overlapping claims.

One wise observer pointed out the cruel truth: "You can say what you will, but not a single vote will be cast until 6:30 Saturday morning."

He's right, but it's still interesting to speculate.

When we arrived at the salt mine this morning, we noted a huge object in the process of construction directly in front of the Reflector.

It's a giant scoreboard that'll be used Saturday night to post election returns.

Though unofficial, the figures provided by this newspaper for the public's eye will be indicative of the official result.

Opinions In Brief

"Reports reaching the free world in ever greater volume from the Iron Curtain countries indicate that 15 years of sustained attack by the Satellites states on Christianity and 30 years of such atheistic crusade by the USSR have failed to eliminate Christian mores from the hearts and minds of the people." — Aledo (Ill.) Times Record.

"More than 3000 people are killed each year by farm work accidents... more than in any other major industry. More than 11,000 farm residents are killed each year in all types of accidents. Farmers are getting scarcer all the time; let's not waste them through accidents." — Wynne (Ark.) Progress.

"One needs only to review the life and actions of his forbears to realize how inadequately he compiles his own family records." — Plainview (Tex.) Daily Herald.

When they tell me about the glories of Adlai Stevenson, I become mean and ask each to write a 500-word composition on his perfection. They do much better with Nelson Rockefeller. Of him, they say: "I adore him." "He is divine." Apparently that is an answer to all questions! They also adore Clark Gable, Gloria Vanderbilt, Frank Sinatra, the late Aly Khan, Elsa Maxwell, and the Duke of Windsor. All are divine. Some day, they will come around to adoring Mr. Armstrong-Jones. He also is divine.

I describe Adlai Stevenson's principal support because actually there are no votes in it. To win against a fighting Nixon, the Democrats will need a strong candidate who can hold the Solid South and can win the Eastern and Western states. Both John Kennedy and Lyndon Johnson might be able to do this. Possibly Stuart Symington. (Continued on page six)

Farley Flipped Adlai?

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
Copyright, 1960, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

James A. Farley, former Postmaster General in the Roosevelt Cabinet, has come through many political oracles with the reputation of being an unusual politician who is unable to compromise with his moral principles. Although he is responsible for the original campaign to make Franklin D. Roosevelt President, he broke with him over the question of a Third Term, a breach not to Farley's advantage politically but, as it could be said of this man, he saved his soul. Since then, Farley has gone into private business, but his influence in Democratic politics has been continuous.

Adlai Stevenson, the pragmatist, was flipped out of this 1960 campaign by Farley who, when the need arose, came out of his silence and slapped down the impatient, pushing, hopeful candidate for the Presidency. Farley put country above party, as he naturally would be impelled to by his sense of citizen responsibility. He said: "... it occurs to me that Mr. Stevenson is attempting to use the incident (the Summit Conference) to 'sledgehammer and crowbar' another disastrous nomination for himself as the Apostle of Appeasement out of the Democratic Party."

What Adlai Stevenson seems to have forgotten is that in 1952 and 1956, he was nominated for defeat. This often occurs in politics when it is realized that a party cannot win, as the Democrats could not win against Eisenhower in those years. Stevenson, who had been an obscure figure, even as Governor of Illinois, immediately became a national personality and gained a personal following among the liberal intellectuals who preferred his literate language despite the foginess of ideas and the impracticality of his proposals.

In 1960, the Democrats feel that they have a chance to win, no matter whichever of their candidates the Convention nominates, except Stevenson. They therefore do not want to nominate Adlai Stevenson who has never defeated twice and who never developed any excited enthusiasm within his party, although he has done well among the Park Avenue Liberals — a special breed of rich persons, mainly female, who are inclined to go to any extremes to propitiate their consciences for being so rich, mostly by inheritance or always.

Such persons are rarely partisans. At this moment, for instance, they are for Adlai Stevenson and Nelson Rockefeller for President. This acrobatic stand is not new for their kind: they were for Franklin D. Roosevelt and Wendell Willkie simultaneously. Generally, they are opposed to John Kennedy because, they say, they know him and adore his wife, a non sequitur but typical of Park Avenue logic. They are opposed to Nixon because, as they say, "I never liked him." They have never heard of Lyndon Johnson and as for Stuart Symington — well, he is supported by Harry Truman whom they also do not like.

When they tell me about the glories of Adlai Stevenson, I become mean and ask each to write a 500-word composition on his perfection. They do much better with Nelson Rockefeller. Of him, they say: "I adore him." "He is divine." Apparently that is an answer to all questions! They also adore Clark Gable, Gloria Vanderbilt, Frank Sinatra, the late Aly Khan, Elsa Maxwell, and the Duke of Windsor. All are divine. Some day, they will come around to adoring Mr. Armstrong-Jones. He also is divine.

I describe Adlai Stevenson's principal support because actually there are no votes in it. To win against a fighting Nixon, the Democrats will need a strong candidate who can hold the Solid South and can win the Eastern and Western states. Both John Kennedy and Lyndon Johnson might be able to do this. Possibly Stuart Symington. (Continued on page six)

Sales Good, But Not 'Soaring'

By ELMER ROESSNER
Retail sales so far this year are ahead of comparable periods in 1959, but not enough to give substance to the "soaring sixties" forecasts.

In the first three months of this year, total retail sales were 3 per cent above the first quarter of 1959, according to Department of Commerce statistics. Department store sales in the same period were no more than even with the comparable period last year, according to Federal Reserve figures.

All sales have moved ahead somewhat since then. There are two easy obvious reasons: severe late-winter weather in many parts of the country, which curtailed shopping, and the lateness of Easter, which postponed many apparel sales from March to April.

That made April a lusty month for department stores. In the weeks ended April 2, 9 and 16, total sales were 22, 18 and 18 per cent respectively above corresponding 1959 weeks. In the next two weeks they were 4 and 7 per cent higher, then slipped to 1 per cent lower in the first week of May.

The Commerce Department series shows that the largest gains in the first quarter of this year were made by restaurants, cafeterias and lunch rooms, and by meat markets, each 9 per cent above a year ago. Next came drug and proprietary stores, up 8 per cent. Household appliance stores and men's and boys' clothing and furnishings stores were up 7 per cent. Women's ready-to-wear stores were down 7 per cent, indicating that while the girls postponed purchases because of the late Easter, the boys did not.

Six per cent gains were made by mail order houses in department store merchandise and by gasoline service stations.

AUTO SALES HIGHER
In the automotive group, franchised auto dealers reported an increase of 5 per cent over the same 1959 period. When used car dealers' sales were added to the total, the rise was only 4 per cent. Tire, battery and accessory dealers reported a 5 per cent rise.

Liquor stores and drinking places each reported a 3 per cent rise.

Declines were reported by shoe stores and by lumber, building, hardware and farm equipment dealers, both groups down 4 per cent, and by bakery products stores, down 1 per cent.

In the March, 1959 - March, 1960 figures, there were some unusual shifts. Fuel and fuel oil dealers lost in 24 per cent more than a year ago, in consequence of the weather, and book stores rang up 24 per cent more for goodness knows what reasons. Camera and photographic supply store sales were down 16 per cent, variety stores were down 13 per cent, and optical goods stores down 32 per cent.

MINNESOTA SINKS PRICE-FIXING LAW
The Minnesota Supreme Court has declared the non-signer clause of its so-called fair trade act unconstitutional. This is the 14th state to have ruled out this clause. Non-signer clauses provide that if a manufacturer and one dealer sign an agreement to fix the retail price of a product, no other dealer can suit that price.

PRINCESS GRACE'S TOTS CAN GO WADING NOW
A Chicago mail-order house reports a $196.62 order from Princess Ranier of Monaco. Items included a family-size wading pool, two power drills, a clothes line reel, blue jeans, a pants creaser, hosiery, children's shoes and play clothes and yard goods.

70,000 TONS OF PEACHES TO BE DESTROYED
California peach growers are about to destroy 70,000 tons of cling peaches. The crop is very heavy and growers and canners have agreed to destroy 10 per cent of it.

Every tenth row of trees will be shaken until the green peaches fall off. That's called the "green drop." If there is still a surplus at harvest time, it will be fed to hogs.

Grifton Bridge Clubs

GRIFTON—Mrs. Clifton Jackson had as guests for a dessert bridge on Friday night members of her contract club. On the mantel in the living room where the guests were entertained an arrangement of pink roses and ferns was featured.

Strawberry shortcake and iced tea were served prior to the games.

Mesdames Wilbur Murphy, John Glenn and Walter Murphy were prize winners. Others playing were Mesdames Frank Davis, Johnnie Smith, Conrad Hart, David Parker, and Miss Ruth E. Smith.

GRIFTON—Mrs. J. M. Hart was hostess on Wednesday night at a cesser bridge at her home on Queen Street. In the living room tallsmen roses were used in arrangements for decorations.

Three tables were placed for the games and high scores for the evening were held by Mrs. Ben G. Tucker, Mrs. Sam Nelson and Mrs. Tom Gower.

Guests included Mesdames Clay Burney, Woodrow Smith, W. E. Pasberry, Walter Patrick, Mark Phillips, Glendel Tucker, Sam Nelson, Robert Mewborn and Roger Johnson.

GRIFTON—Mrs. L. L. Mewborn was hostess last Thursday night at bridee at her home on McRae Street with guests for five tables.

Throughout the home a variety of summer flowers were noted in the decorations. In the dining room the table was covered with a cutwork linen cloth and held an epergne of pink roses. Supper was served buffet style prior to the games and strawberry shortcake was served at the card tables as dessert.

Prizes for highest scores went to Mrs. Alton Chapman, Mrs. J. L. Quinerly and Mrs. Archie Rogers.

Grifton News

Rev. and Mrs. Irvin Adcock have returned from the Southern Baptist Convention in Miami, Fla. Mrs. Walter Murphy and daughter, Shirley, have returned from Clinton where they visited for several days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Butler.

Summer Is Season For Festive Showers

BRIDAL SHOWER TABLE . . . A romantic theme of lace and roses is carried out in this charming shower table setting, by covering a crimson umbrella with a round lace tablecloth, in formal embassy pattern, and red roses on each spoke. Red rose motif is repeated on palette-shaped milk glass snack sets, and silver also is in rose pattern.

AP Newsfeatures Writer

America is noted for its showers. There are the traditional engagement showers, bridal showers, baby showers. Each year we try to find new ideas for the shower at hand, with some surprises. Perish the thought that one party shower should resemble another in the same social set.

Gardening Today

The old saying, "you can't see the tree for the woods," is very true, indeed.

A group of trees or shrubs present a total picture, but as such much is lost. It is only when you single out an individual and give it your attention are you able to catch the true meaning of nature.

If all the trees of the world were oaks, they would serve a purpose but the monotony of such a situation is readily seen. Not only would such a fact put nature into a small bundle; it would clip the hands of God to such an extent that the thought of a Divine Being would appear ridiculous.

The Creator has many types of trees, shrubs and flowers growing in His world. It is not by chance that this is so. As all persons have some differences, so have each of the growing things. God has made them individuals, yet a part of the greater whole. All are brothers under the canopy. The chief end of the sap in the oak tree is the acorn; that of the apple, a fruit; that of the rose, beauty.

On the campus of East Carolina College, you can find many individuals in the realm of growing things. At a glance, there is no striking difference—but look closer.

If you chance by the northwest corner of Austin this time of year, you will catch the fragrance of banana. Its donor is a tall shrub growing there. The shrub is well named. It is called the banana shrub (Mitchella fuscata), a member of the Magnolia family.

Across the street two of its cousins, (Magnolia grandiflora) are bursting into bloom. In front of the Austin building is a deciduous Magnolia. Here, in close proximity are three members of one family, whose native homes are far apart; the banana shrub is from China; the grandiflora is American; and the deciduous tree is from Japan.

In front of the Alumni Building stands the Chinese Parasol tree (Pirminia simplex). This smooth barked exotic with its large leaves is in sharp contrast to the fine leaved Junipers, and the boxed like leaves of the Yaupon growing nearby.

In the Arboretum area at the Rawl Building are found many trees and shrubs—both exotic and indigenous. The misty flowered cherry is from Japan; the graceful pine is as Carolinian as many of the students that walk by it every day. Here, too, in this group is the elm and the mulberry whose fruit is still cherished by some.

To the west of the area is a Cork oak (Quercus sobor) growing among the cedars. In the lake bottom where the water once stood stands a tall Bald cypress (Taxodium distichum).

It lifts its fine cut foliage high above the flowering peaches growing near its base. East of the Rawl building grows the Plane tree, called Sycamore. It offers another contrast in bark coloration and leaf form to the oaks and other trees growing nearby.

In Wright Circle, the tall Magnolia, Hollies and Photinias look down on the pool where a month back Hyacinths, Tulips and Narcissus lent their brief beauty to the new season.

Spotted around the campus, Redbud, Dogwood, and Flowering Crabs, each, tell their colorful part in the story of spring; then settle down to the green study of summer.

At the north entrance to Cotten Hall tall Chinese Pirs (Cunninghamia lanceolata) stand like soldiers, their spearlike foliage contrasting sharply with the shiny leaf Camellias and their annual cargo of flowers.

East of the Administration building, a large Pittosporum covers a good part of that side of building. Liberty Hyde Bailey, in "Hortus," says it is a shrub "attractive in foliage and flower."

At the circle in the service court at the Dining Hall, azaleas in their season spin a wheel of color: Day-break (pink), Avalanche (white), Lavender Queen (lavender), Mt. Laurel (light pink) turn on the hub of the deeper pink of Mayo Pride.

You can't really enjoy a tree or shrub from a car; you have to get out and look at them face to face. It is here, you catch their differences, however small. It is here, you separate them from the larger community of growing things.

One idea is obvious in 1960 shower circles. There is more emphasis on formality, without dampening the spirit of the occasion. Time was when the hostess was put to the task of achieving the utmost in conviviality by employing the least stress on formal accoutrements such as silver, damask and lace.

Roses and lace can set the theme for today's bridal shower — an elegant idea that could have been "old hat" a few years ago, but is just right for now. At one such shower, a bright crimson umbrella was covered with a large round white lace table cloth which fell in little swags around the umbrella, looking for all the world like a bridal headdress. Roses were placed at each spoke of the umbrella, the charming idea carried out with roses on the palette-shaped milk glass snack sets used for buffet food and on the table silver.

All the shower gifts were put under the umbrella. Lace scarfs were used to border the table and carry out the theme of the shower, roses and lace.

Whenever possible plan a shower with a theme to achieve the coordinated look that ties a party idea together. If you don't want to decorate an umbrella, make an enormous rose out of pink material and a round lace cloth. Just gather up the lace and wind it around in a rose shape. Take a flexible reed or wire and wind green satin ribbon around it to form a stem. A piece of buckram rolled into tube shape will serve to carry out the stem idea. Suspend the rose from the ceiling so that it falls almost to the table. Or use it in the center of a table with real roses or petals and packages spilling out of it.

Put honeysuckle around the cake or decorate the aspic plate with it. It is fun to wind honeysuckle around tall candle sticks. If you can't locate honeysuckle, decorate the cake with a couple of roses and scatter petals at serving places.

A fun idea for a bridal shower is to put small nosegays for each guest on the buffet table. Take a couple of roses and run them through any available large green round leaf. Put the rose stems through a small lace paper doily. Wind the stems with florist tape. Roses, honeysuckle and lace have been compatible for ages. You can't go wrong using that theme.

Do not fret trying to get the children to eat cooked cereal in the morning. Sprinkle a few cake decorations over it, and you will find they will welcome the cereal bowl.

Grandparents Raising The 4 Lanza Children

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The door flew open and in dashed three vigorous youngsters, home from school. Pony-tailed Colleen, 10, shouted that she couldn't find the dress she wanted to change into. Elisa, 8, ran to help her. Wiry Damon, 6 leaped about greeting his brother Mark, already home from kindergarten, who was delighting over presents that had arrived for his fifth birthday party.

This was the roomy Pacific Palisades home of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Coccozza, grandparents of the four. The children were orphaned by the sudden deaths within five months of Betty and Mario Lanza. Mary Coccozza, a lovely, dark-haired woman, took over the children's upbringing when the grieving widow died on March 11. Speaking in the living room, dominated by a dozen portraits of Mario in his operatic triumphs, she admitted the ordeal had not been easy for the kids. "The hardest blow was their father's death. No one prepared them for it. They came home from school in Rome one day and saw a lot of people milling about. It was a terrible shock. "When Betty died, I took them in my home immediately. I told them first that their mother had gone to the hospital then that she was very sick and wasn't expected to live. When I told them she had died, they took it well. "Now they are continuing with their own lives. Of course they miss their parents, but children forget easily. "When the children first came here, I had to get some things straight. I told them they weren't going to live in big houses with lots of servants any more. I think they like this way better. Before, they were always chauffeured and couldn't go out to play. Now they're going on the school bus, and they have friends in the neighborhood to play with."

mington might be able to do that. It is very doubtful if Adlai Stevenson can.

This country respects Dwight D. Eisenhower. Nobody will say that he has been the greatest President since George Washington. On the other hand, he has won respect as a courageous, patriotic gentleman who believes in his country, who seeks for its survival, and whose conduct in office has restored great dignity to it. He sought a non-partisan Presidency; he will leave it as an American rather than as a Republican.

To attack Eisenhower for gain is reprehensible. Political gain is as reprehensible as money gain at such a moment. A really great man does not risk his country for an advantage.

NOW LOOK WHAT CORVAIR'S GONE AND DONE!

The same Corvaire that tallied a thumping 27.03 miles per gallon* in the Mobilgas Economy Run . . . went right on to climb Pikes Peak earlier in the spring than any car has ever tried!

We wanted to show you what the fabulous traction of Corvaire's rear-engine design and the sure-footedness of four-wheel independent suspension really mean. So the identical Economy Run car went right on to 14,110-foot Pikes Peak—and right up to the top of that savage mountain, on April 15, still deep in winter's snow and ice. No other car—even specially equipped—had ever been able to conquer that nightmare alpine road so early in the spring. But Corvaire (with United States Auto Club officials aboard to certify that not one nut or bolt was changed) purred right to the summit without chains or even snow tires! That just underscores the fact that Corvaire is totally unique. But you'll find that out the first five minutes you're at the wheel!

Senator Jackson Calls For Increased Defense Outlays

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Henry M. Jackson (D-Wash.) today urged an immediate two billion dollar increase in defense funds because of what he called brazen and belittling moves by Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

ate Armed Services and Senate House Atomic committees prepared his appeal for the Senate Appropriations Committee. That group is considering President Eisenhower's 39 billion dollar defense budget for the fiscal year that starts July 1.

He urged that nearly one billion dollars of increases voted by the House be retained and that more than a billion of other military funds—including some cut out by the House—also be added.

The Polaris is the ballistic missile designed to be launched from nuclear submarines. The Minuteman is a solid propellant long range ballistic missile designed to be mobile or fired from protected underground sites.

Jackson said there is an urgent need to step up defenses "whether Khrushchev smiles or frowns, is calm or hysterical, talks peace or war, is willing to talk to President Eisenhower or not."

"A sound defense program is like a structure that is designed to hold up not only in fair weather, but also to withstand a hurricane," he said.

Husband Admits Hiring A Killer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Police say a young husband admits he hired a youth to kill his estranged wife—because he didn't want to pay her child support payments. The plot failed.

Both were arrested Wednesday and booked on suspicion of conspiracy to commit murder.

Police said Collins J. Williams, 21, hired Larry E. Butler, 18, for $400 to kill Linda Williams, mother of his son.

A motel manager reported Butler to police because he thought his girl companion was underage. Police arrested Butler and a 14-year-old runaway girl, and in his room found a letter describing the plot.

Williams' wife was reported in Las Vegas, Nev., getting a divorce.

Federal Funds In Road Research

RALEIGH (AP) — Some $100,000 in federal money will extend for another two years cooperative highway research by the State Highway Department, North Carolina State College and the Federal Bureau of Public Roads.

The State Highway Commission Wednesday approved the new lease for the program, begun two years ago. One upcoming project will study the impact of controlled access highways on land use, land values, and traffic operations.

The commission, after an all-day session here, set its next meeting for Cashiers, in the southwestern mountains, June 28-29. In July, it will meet in New Bern. The August meeting is set for Mt. Airy.

Highway Director W. F. Babcock told the commission cost data will be available within a few months to aid a decision on whether to build a high or low level bridge across the Cape Fear River at Wilmington. He said planning for the bridge has reached the stage of estimating right-of-way needs.

Thoroughfare designs for seven cities and towns were approved by the highway body. City councils involved already have given okays. The cities are Charlotte, Durham, Gastonia, Hickory, Conover, Newton, and Laurinburg.

Expressways and other traffic facilities estimated to cost 64 million dollars are involved in the Charlotte plan.

No action was taken on the request of a Beaufort delegation for state operation of a ferry and access roads around Emerald Isle, located at the west end of Atlantic Beach.

One Fatality In School Bus Crash

GRANITE FALLS, N.C. (AP)—A loaded school bus and a car collided at a rural intersection near here this morning, fatally injuring a child who was riding in the car. No one on the bus was hurt.

The victim was identified as Ricky Annis, 5, of Rt. 2, Granite Falls. The child's father, Melton Annis, driver of the car, was taken to a Hickory hospital for treatment of shock and possible internal injuries.

The driver of the school bus, 17-year-old Melton Gaither Teague, a student at Granite Falls High School, said he stopped at the intersection about a mile from here, looked both ways, saw nothing and started across the intersection.

The car, approaching from the left on the other road, and the bus collided.

Officers said the car was demolished and the bus badly damaged on the left front. No charges were filed, pending completion of the investigation. The school was loaded with students going to Granite Falls High.

Lady Marathon Walker Passes Midway Mark

RUSSELL, Kan. (AP) — Dr. Barbara Moore, the British marathon walker, covered another 34 miles Wednesday in her hike across the United States.

She passed the midway mark on her walk from San Francisco to New York when she passed through the village of Yocemento, Kan., Wednesday morning.

She covered another 26 miles to a point 2 1/2 miles west of here before giving up for the night. She was driven into town and entered the Russell Hospital for treatment of a swollen left ankle.

At the hospital, Dr. Moore ate a meal of sliced tomatoes, fried potatoes, blueberry muffins, bananas and milk.

Dr. Moore usually eats only vegetables, fruits and nuts. However, she has lost 14 pounds on her trek and has been supplementing her diet in an attempt to regain the weight.

Hope To Control Fire Late Today

SHALLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Fire fighters hoped to control late today a raging forest fire that has burned 4,000 acres of timberland owned by two paper companies in this southeastern tip of North Carolina.

Brunswick County Forester Kenneth Johnson said Wednesday that 35 firemen were battling the spreading forest fire. He said in a matter of hours it had burned over 6-7 miles of timberland belonging to the International Paper Co. and Reigel Paper Co.

Winds late Wednesday whipped the blaze, causing it to jump several fire breaks and start new fires.

Authorities said because of the remoteness of the area—six miles northwest of Shallotte—there has been no damage to property except what woods burned.

To Commission 12 Tar Heels

WHAT HAS HAPPENED

The business on which Hugh North was traveling to Bangkok under the name of Charles Boyden" did not allow his mind to dwell on himself for a minute. As a top agent of the U.S. Army's Intelligence Division, G-2, he had been detailed to guard the life and identity of another passenger, Dr. Hans Bracht, the missile genius head of the Army's Project Galaxy. The brilliant and well-known space scientist had shaved off his beard, assumed the name "Henry Barrows," and was chasing after his vanished young Siamese wife.

North was under instructions not to let Bracht suspect that he was being tailed, for fear of raising the wrath of the unpredictable genius. This order proved difficult to enforce, for two other passengers recognized Bracht.

CHAPTER 6

Hugh North and Hans Bracht went through customs without a hitch. North at the scientist's side, his eyes always free and never far from the butt of that hidden .36.

The reason North had chosen "Boyden" as a pseudonym was to be as close as possible to Bracht—"Barrows" in all such situations where an alphabetical grouping might occur. Both missile genius and G-2 colonel were shot through a curio customs inspection without delay at the "B" counter.

But if their move through customs was smooth, Lita Naline's wasn't, to judge by the uproar that arose from down the line under the big letter "N."

Lita was in full cry when Bracht and North entered the customs shed and she was still going strong when they moved out onto the platform where the taxis waited.

"A little temperamental, eh?" North laughed with a jerk of his head toward the sound and the fury behind them. "I pity Anton Carss when they're in the jungle making that picture."

"Oh, Carss will handle her," Bracht said. "He's done wonders directing more difficult stars than Lita."

This time Hugh could not hide his surprise as he glanced at the scientist. "Don't tell me you're a movie fan," he grinned. "The greatest space-travel authority in the world answered in a grating voice that lacked any hint of apology or embarrassment. "Not me, my wife," he explained. "She—she has eye trouble, so I must read the movie columns and the fan magazines for her." He paused and then added in a soft voice North had not heard him use before. "Poor little thing, the movies are about all the pleasure she gets out of life."

He caught himself and added hastily: "Her eyes, you see."

"Tough," North sympathized. He got the picture of this world-famous figure, this top man of all space scientists, sitting at home patiently reading aloud from the frothy movie magazines his beautiful young wife, Tao Muong, could not translate if, indeed, she could even read her own language.

"Here's our cab," the colonel offered into the brief silence that had fallen.

Bracht preceded Hugh into the rickety vehicle that slumped, fourth in the taxi line. The scientist had no complaints to make about North's choice of a cab, the shabbiest of the lot, and if he had Hugh could hardly have explained that he was merely following a G-2 agent's pattern, laid down by experience. Never take the first cab in line; they might have provided it.

Don't take the second, either, because they might expect you to pass up the first and have two waiting. They might even have three cabs in a line but hardly more than three. The fourth was as safe as any, as far as being a planted cab was concerned, but to confuse anybody who might be following the agent's choice of cabs over a space of time, the rule was to mix them up.

This taxi Hugh chose at the Don Muang Airport was a real veteran, a British Panhard of rewar vintage with fenders that seemed to flap even before the machine moved.

"Imperial Hotel," the G-2 officer told the driver, and they were off in a clatter of fouled sparkplugs, carbon-choked cylinders, and cricket-chorusing squeaks.

Don Muang Airport lay several miles upriver on the Menam Chao Phya, and because it was night, with none of the gorgeous scenery to distract his ward, Hugh North hoped to use the trip to gain Hans Bracht's confidence, if possible.

Oxcarts, automobiles, lumbering trucks, and an occasional ponderous elephant moved up and down the highway with a total disregard of the rules of the road. North's driver kept his horn squawking almost continuously, not that anyone, human, ovine, or elephantine, paid him the least mind, and the taxi more or less inched its way toward Bangkok.

Hugh realized it was the perfect setup for an ambush, the snatching of Hans Bracht out of his cab during of the innumerable traffic jams or a shot out of the night to dispose of Hans Bracht's one bodyguard.

Under such conditions it was impossible to guard against such a possibility; North had to ride out this trip wheel turn by wheel turn and hope he could meet and parry the stab in the dark when and if it came.

"Can't we go faster?" Bracht fretted. "I've got to get to the hotel before midnight. Somebody might call." His eyes met North's squarely. "I won't tell you who," he added diffidently.

"That up to you," Hugh said lightly.

"And just who are you?" the scientist demanded. "You aid aboard the plane you'd tell me when we landed."

Hugh nodded. It was time to tell Bracht who he was. His orders had been to keep the doctor from knowing he was being covered, but those orders, like all instructions given undercover agents, were open to change to meet urgencies and exigencies.

He pitched his voice low at the exact level that could be heard by Bracht and not by the taxi driver. "Colonel Hugh North, Army Intelligence," he told his ward. "Assigned as your companion, Dr. Bracht, until you're safely back in the States."

"They promised me there'd be no guards," Bracht muttered. North sighed. Bracht ought to be getting tired of the time he fiddled on that one string. "If you'll remember," he said, "your demands were that no security guards be put on your tail. You'll probably call it splitting hairs, but that was the promise they gave you—security guards. I'm not from Security. I'm Army G-2. The Army has a big stake in you, Doctor, just as the country and for that matter the whole free world has. We don't want anything to happen to you."

Bracht looked down at his big hands twisting in his lap. "Words are cheap," he grumbled.

"My word isn't," Hugh rapped out. He paused and when he spoke again he used German, a double precaution against some incredibly sharp-tongued, English-speaking taxi driver.

"Or do you prefer to take the word of the people who kidnaped your wife?" he asked calmly.

The results were electric. Hans bracht's long, lean body was transfixed by shock. He stared at the G-2 colonel, his protuberant eyes wide behind their glasses, his thin-lipped mouth agape.

"You know?" he gasped finally. "You know they stole Tao Muong?" He turned in his seat, and his spatulate hands shot out to grasp North's arm, his fingers biting. "How?" he demanded fiercely. "How did you find out? Was it something I said? They warned me that if I breathed a word they'd maim her, torture her, kill her!"

"Easy," North counseled. "Take it easy."

Bracht flung himself away and crumpled in his corner, the unnerved ruin of a man. "Take it easy," he half sobbed. "It's fine for you to tell me that, but those devils have my wife. Unless I do what they say, Muong will—!" He choked, staring down at his trembling hands, surrendered to his fear again.

Fear, Hugh knew now, for Tao Muong.

Old Broadsword Routed Varlets

ENCINO, Calif. (AP)—It was a bad night for knaves when Pedro Garcia, 26, started swinging the broadsword.

Garcia, night porter at the posh Queen's Arms restaurant, was snoozing early Tuesday when three men unhinged the front door and entered, intent on pilferage.

Garcia awakened, grabbed a broadsword from among the antique wall decorations, and charged.

The porter laid about among the varlets until he broke the sword's dull blade upon one fan's backside. The trio, beaten full sore, fled.

Soviet Jammed Like's Broadcast

LONDON (AP) — The live broadcast of President Eisenhower's report on the summit conference apparently did not get through to the Soviet people.

Washington headquarters of the Voice of America said the Soviets let the first 10 minutes of the speech get through, then jammed the last 15 minutes. But the U.S. Embassy in Moscow said the U.S. government radio was jammed all night.

Since Eisenhower's broadcast began at 3 a.m. Moscow time, it was doubtful that any Soviets would have been listening anyway.

There also was no report of the speech or comment on it in Moscow's morning papers. Moscow time is seven hours ahead of Washington's, and the President spoke long after the Soviet capital's papers had gone to press.

Associated Press Correspondent Stanley Johnson reported from Moscow that newspapers in the Soviet capital might mention the speech in their editions Friday but any extensive quotation from it appeared unlikely in view of the current state of U.S.-Soviet relations.

Johnson pointed out that in reporting the current U.N. Security Council debate on the Soviet complaint against U.S. spy flights over Soviet territory, the Soviet press confined its coverage of Chief U.S. Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge's speech to the statement that he defended the U.S. thesis.

Training and planning rank high on the list of duties of Pitt County Home Demonstration Agent Mrs. Sue B. May of Winterville.

Originally from Columbia in Tyrrell County, Mrs. May graduated from Woman's College of the University of North Carolina with a degree in home economics and then taught in her home town for five years. She next was employed by Lenoir County as Assistant Home Agent where, after two and one-half months, she was made Home Agent.

After two and one-half years in Lenoir, Mrs. May came to Pitt as Home Agent in 1950. She returned to her home in 1954 for four years "to have my family," then returned to Pitt and resumed her duties here.

Mrs. May, who has the "desire and hope to serve" the people of the county, likes her work because "we work with people I like them, and the work is so varied."

As home agent, she is responsible for the Extension Home Economics program here in the county and coordinates the work of the 20 home demonstration clubs here.

Commenting on the clubs, Mrs. May pointed out that they are the "chief means for out-of-school educational program."

The home agent is responsible for planning the programs, setting up leader training schools, workshops and special interest meetings in the county—all with the cooperation of the women who will be participating in the activities.

The leadership training schools are held to train leaders to go back and give demonstrations in their communities and in their home demonstration club meetings.

Making home visits is another of her activities as Home Agent. The thing Mrs. May likes least about her job is "the day is not long enough to get everything done."

Her hobbies include her family and, in her "spare time," making house plans.

Mrs. May married Milton May of Winterville and they have two children. Mrs. May is a member of the Board of Trustees of the Shepard Memorial Library, a member of the State and National Home Economics Association, Pitt County Safety Council and the Red Oak Christian Church. She is also a member of the Mental Health Association.

Her Sly Snipping Was All In Vain

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Casting a quick, slightly guilty glance around the lobby of a Knoxville hospital, a woman visitor produced a pair of scissors from her purse and proceeded to snip slips from the luxuriant plants.

Then, she carefully wrapped the greenery in paper moistened at a drinking fountain and hurried outside—apparently to transplant the pretty—and artificial—growth.

Her 600 Dogs Make No Noise

NEWARK, Ohio (AP) — Virginia Hanna, who lives in nearby Johnstown, has 600 dogs—but the only animal sound at her house is "meow."

That's because the 600 dogs—collected over a period of 30 years—are made of china, metal and wood, while the one cat, a family pet, is flesh and blood.

Drama Critic Brooks Atkinson Plans Retire

By WILLIAM GLOVER Associated Press Drama Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—Brooks Atkinson, dean of Broadway drama critics, retires next month from the reviewers' ranks—but not from writing.

"I'm really interested in newspapers, that's what really interests me," says the man whose reviewing career was launched by chance just 35 years ago.

Atkinson, 65, is continuing as a member of the staff of the New York Times. He will write several times weekly on a wide-ranging assortment of topics.

Succeeding him in the aisle seat on opening nights next season will be Howard Taubman, previously music critic for the Times.

Atkinson is probably the leading deprecator of the theatrical influence widely attributed to him by everyone from star to stagehand.

Foreign Sales Push Paying Off

RALEIGH — An advertising program, launched four-years ago to boost foreign sales of cigarettes containing United States-grown tobacco, is paying handsome dividends.

The first "boost foreign sales" project began with a tobacco exhibit at a trade fair in Osaka, Japan in April, 1956. Japan is now using over 11 million pounds of U.S. flue-cured leaf annually, compared with five million pounds when the program began.

J.C. Frink of Washington, D.C. vice president of Tobacco Associates, Inc., who supervised the initial phases of the tobacco exhibit four years ago, reports that the Japan Tobacco Monopoly began this week the manufacture and sale of a new medium-priced brand of cigarette, which contains 15 per cent of U.S. flue-cured. The name of the new brand is AAA Five other brands containing from seven to 40 per cent U.S. leaf are also being manufactured in Japan. Sales of the Peace brand (25 per cent U.S. flue-cured), which has been given the most prominent place in the promotion budget, are currently increasing at the rate of 10 per cent annually.

"The outlook is favorable for a continued expansion of flue-cured leaf exports to Japan, if we can continue to supply her with quality leaf," says Frink, adding "Japan produces over 175 million pounds of flue-cured tobacco annually and uses United States leaf only for the purpose of upgrading the quality of her cigarettes."

Frink said that plans are now being made to renew the present sales promotion contract with Japan which expires June 30th.

"Critics have some influence—but I'm sure no one knows what it is," he comments "It certainly isn't any ability to make or break a show."

"One thing I do know. The critics like a lot more shows than the public does."

The slender man from the Times has seen more than 3,000 play premieres—he was away from the theater 1943-45 as a foreign correspondent. After each he has hurried to his desk to write the comments—in swiftly pencilled lines on yellow copy paper—which subsequently suffuse producers with joy or anguish.

"Difference of opinion about a play—sometimes total, sometimes partial—derive from the biological fact that no two people are identical," he recently observed.

An optimist about the future of the theater, Atkinson feels that although there has been a marked decrease in the number of productions, there has been no appreciable loss of quality over the years since he began reviewing. Atkinson came to the Times from Boston in 1922, for the next 2½ years headed the book reviewing department. In August 1925, drama critic Stark Young left the newspaper.

On the evening he resigned, there was to be an opening," Atkinson recalls. "The managing editor asked me to cover. I had been assistant drama reviewer on the Boston Transcript and done some second-string reviews here."

The show that night was "The Little Man," a drama about St. Francis of Assisi. "The review was adverse but not unkind," he says.

Through the years, Atkinson says, his tendency has been to look at offerings in kindly spirit, except on rare occasion.

"When those involved were incompetent or gross I had no scruple about letting them have it," he says.

He is determined to avoid any critical writing about the theater hereafter, but expects to continue seeing a lot of shows—after reading what the other reviewers say. That's only natural. Atkinson listed theatergoing as his only hobby in his "Who's Who in the Theater" sketch.

He has firmly resisted requests to name the greatest performances witnessed during his career.

He does, however, regard Tennessee Williams as "our finest technical writer although he sometimes gives me the horrors." Reviewing a recent revival of "The King and I," he said that this show ranked among his Rodgers and Hammerstein favorites.

"Carousel" and "South Pacific" are two others.

Atkinson is the author of five books. His wife, Oriana, has written six. The couple have no children but Atkinson has a son by a previous marriage.

May Enlarge Big Consular Set-Up Now In Mexico

By JACK RUTLEDGE MEXICO CITY (AP) — The United States consular operation in Mexico is the largest in the world, says the U.S. Embassy. It may be enlarged.

The flow of Mexican travelers to the United States is expected to average around 200,000 a year from now on. More than half a million Americans visit Mexico annually. Over 50,000 Americans live and work here, and more are moving to Mexico to retire. Trade relations are booming.

To handle the work and problems arising from these conditions the United States maintains 12 consular offices outside Mexico City.

There are seven along the border (Tijuana, Mexicali, Nogales, Ciudad Juarez, Piedras Negras, Nuevo Laredo, Matamoros), three at Gulf of Mexico ports (Tampico, Veracruz, Merida), and two inland (Monterrey, Guadalajara).

Even so there are many complaints about the service. Mexican citizens particularly protest over red tape and "delays in getting visas."

"An expansion is being studied," says the supervising consul general, Robert F. Cartwright. "Conditions could be improved if we had a consulate every 500 miles and in time this may come about. But it is too costly at present."

The U.S. Embassy in Mexico City employs 408 persons in various departments, including the 12 consulates outside Mexico City. Mexican citizens make up half the total. The consular operation alone includes 117 Americans, 112 nationals.

"When Mexican champions like Jose Becerra fight in Los Angeles, we're really swamped," says Cartwright. Eager fans line up for blocks.

An estimated 15,000 U.S. veterans or dependents now live in Mexico on a permanent or temporary basis. The embassy Veterans Affairs office takes care of their claims for compensation and pensions, insurance, death benefits, hospital and medical care, education and training.

In addition about 850 Americans living here in retirement receive social security benefits through the embassy.

readers. After he polishes off his scheduled reviews—at the Stratford, Ont., Shakespeare Festival—he expects that he and his wife will go on a big reading spree.

President Urges Business-Like Dealings With Soviet

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States today with a broadcast appeal from President Eisenhower to forget the failure of the Paris summit conference and join in "business like dealings" for East-West peace.

"The path of reason and common sense is still open if the Soviets will but use it," Eisenhower declared Wednesday night in a radio-television broadcast from the White House.

Translations of the speech, carried throughout the world by the Voice of America, were being beamed to the Soviet Union today in 22 separate broadcasts in seven languages spoken in that area.

Eisenhower asserted his intention to seek improved relations with the Soviet Union "despite our recent disappointments," and said specifically that the United States will continue to take part in conferences at Geneva on disarmament and on prohibition of nuclear weapons tests.

At the same time he made emphatically clear that—in spite of cancellation of U2 spy flights—he intends to continue gathering intelligence information about the Soviet Union's military developments by all practical means.

Obviously referring to spy-in-the-sky satellites, he said "new techniques, other than aircraft, are constantly being developed" to do this.

But Eisenhower stressed that he would much prefer that the United Nations undertake the task of keeping watch on the military efforts of all the great powers.

He reaffirmed his intention to propose a new open skies plan to the U.N., and announced that the United States would supply "part of the aircraft and equipment required." Press Officer James C. Hagerty said this offer would include the high-flying U2 jet lanes used by the United States in aerial espionage of the Soviet Union for the past four years.

At this point in his speech Eisenhower dramatically turned away from his prepared text, as it was released in advance, and displayed a photograph of the North Island Naval Station at San Diego, Calif.

Explaining that it was taken from an altitude of more than 70,000 feet — about 13 miles — he said that some of the lines shown in the picture were only six inches wide.

The photograph provides an example of "what could be accomplished through United Nations aerial surveillance," the President said. He did not mention the fact but it also provided an example of the kind of detailed photographic information which the United States evidently collected with the U2 photographic missions over Soviet territory.

Eisenhower went into some detail on the May 1 U2 incident which Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev cited as a reason for breaking up the summit meeting.

He said Khrushchev knew of similar flights when the Soviet Premier visited this country last year and "he did not then see any reason to refuse to confer with American representatives."

Replying to Democratic and other critics who have said such flights should not have been made just before the summit meeting, Eisenhower said:

"As to the timing, the question was really whether to halt the program, and thus forego the gathering of important information that was essential and that was likely to be unavailable at a later date. The decision was that the program should not be halted."

He did not specify what information was being sought at the time.

The President again defended aerial espionage as vital to the security of the United States and its allies because it provided information on Soviet military developments. But he said that U2 missions were only "one of many methods we have used to keep ourselves and the Free World abreast of major Soviet military developments."

Eisenhower said Khrushchev's action at Paris last week perhaps had "turned the clock back in some measure." But all that happened in Paris must not be written "in red ink," he said, for some of the things should be "written in black."

On the positive side he said that Khrushchev "did not go beyond the invective" in denouncing the United States, in breaking up the summit meeting and in canceling Eisenhower's trip to the Soviet Union next month. What he seemed to be suggesting was that Khrushchev had not actually changed any basic Soviet policy.

Also on the positive side, Eisenhower said, the Western allies had strengthened their unity in the face of "Soviet intransigence" and the United States and its allies had also demonstrated their willingness "always to go the extra mile in behalf of peace."

The most important question now, Eisenhower declared, is what happens next. He said the United States must follow three policies which he put in these words:

"1. We must keep up our strength, and hold it steady for the long pull—a strength not neglected in complacency nor overbuilt in hysteria. So doing, we can make it clear to everyone there can be no gain in the use of pressure tactics or aggression against us and our allies.

"2. We must continue business-like dealings with the Soviet leaders on outstanding issues, and improve the contacts between our own and the Soviet peoples, making clear that the path of reason and common sense is still open if the Soviets will but use it.

"3. To improve world conditions in which human freedom can flourish, we must continue to move ahead with positive programs at home and abroad, in collaboration with free nations everywhere. In doing so, we shall continue to give our strong support to the United Nations.

Small Price Hike By Esso Gasoline

CHARLOTTE (AP)—The wholesale price of Esso gasoline has been raised in 27 Carolinas towns and cities, Esso Standard Oil Co. announced here Wednesday.

It said the hikes, already in effect, are either 3/4 or one cent a gallon and designed to recover part of May 10 and May 17 wholesale reductions for competitive purposes.

A spokesman for Esso, a division of the Humble Oil and Refining Co., said the action would have no binding effect on the retail price independent dealers charge, but would result in a higher cost of the gasoline they buy for resale.

The 3 cent per gallon raise was effective at noon Wednesday in these towns:

Asheville, Fayetteville, Forest City, Hickory, Asheboro, Rockingham, Winston-Salem, High Point, Greensboro, and Burlington, N.C., and Orangeburg, Bamberg, Mullins, Myrtle Beach, Columbia, Greenville and Spartanburg, S.C.

The one cent wholesale jump was made in Charlotte, Salisbury, Concord, Kannapolis, Statesville and Gastonia, N.C., and Chester, Rock Hill, Lancaster and Pageland, S.C.

FIRST COLUMN
WASHINGTON (AP)—The first of the new marble columns was to be set in place today on the Capitol's revamped east front.

The 24 white columns will replace the original sandstone shafts. Each weighs 18 tons.

Nixon's Name Figures In A District Primary

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A 1956 congressional investigation and a name well known in California GOP circles—Richard M. Nixon—figure in a blue chip congressional district's Republican primary race.

Seeking the 16th District GOP nomination are wealthy, socially prominent Alphonzo Bell, a veteran party official but a newcomer as public office-seeker, and Murray Chotiner, an energetic attorney with a controversial record.

The other two contenders for the GOP nomination in the June 7 primary are relative unknowns—Jack Hagler, a real estate man, and Anne Hever, a housewife.

In the district are movie colony personalities, socialites and industrialists. It includes such silk-stocking communities as Beverly Hills, Westwood, Bel-Air (which Bell's father founded), Brentwood, Pacific Palisades (where Chotiner lives) and Santa Monica (composed primarily of middle-class homeowners). It is one of the county's two congressional districts where Republicans outnumber democrats (75,980 to 68,416).

The veteran incumbent, Republican Donald M. Jackson, isn't running for re-election after seven terms. He plans to return to private business.

Chotiner, 50, has been in politics 30 years. He successfully managed the senatorial campaigns of Nixon and ex-Sen. William F. Knowland. Chotiner was a close friend as well as chief strategist for Nixon until 1956—when he was asked to testify before the Senate investigation subcommittee.

Chotiner had been accused of using his friendship with Nixon to wield influence on behalf of law clients. The subcommittee never filed a report — which Chotiner cites as a "clear indication that I'm completely clear."

Chotiner's present relations with Nixon are nuclear. He says the vice president "has never said or done anything calculated in any way to discourage me from running."

A Republican said of Chotiner: "Politics is Murray's life. Since 1956, he has been virtually purged from the party. And he has no other way of getting back in — except by running for office and being cleansed by the public."

In his only other try for public office, Chotiner ran for the Assembly 27 years ago and lost by a few hundred votes.

Bell, 45, heads his own oil company and is the scion of a prominent California family. He has been state and county chairman. Critics call him a "GOP money-bags." An admirer says: "Al's proud of the fact that he's never had any job in the GOP that's paid him any money."

Both men claim social intimacy with Nixon.

ing a White House conference Fleming released a letter to Rep. Carroll D. Kearns (R-Pa) hinting strongly at a veto unless the bill is altered.

He said the administration insisted on faking states match all federal funds and allocating a proportionately greater share of the money to poorer states. The Thompson bill would authorize outright grants the first year and require matching funds for the final two years of the three-year program. Allocations to states both the Democratic House leadership and President Eisenhower. Another proposal that could touch off a bitter debate is sponsored by Rep. Clement J. Zablocki (D-Wis). It would set aside 15 per cent of the money for low-interest, long term loans to private and church schools.

Sponsors of the Thompson bill fear the opponents may gang up to put the Zablocki proposal over in hopes it would make the bill unpalatable and lead to its eventual defeat.

are based on the number of school age children, regardless of the needs of individual states.

Voting on both proposals was expected today.

The big effort by those favoring a broader bill was directed toward a proposal by Rep. Lee Metcalf (D-Mont) to authorize the states to use the money for teachers' salaries as well as school construction.

This provision is in a $1,900,000 bill passed by the Senate but has been termed unacceptable by

Population Will Suddenly Jump

WILMINGTON, Ohio (AP)—The population of this southwestern Ohio area is expected to increase by 8,000 or more in the next few months. The Strategic Air Command will move an organization for 40 four-engine KC97 aerial refueling planes to Clinton County Air Force Base.

Air Force Reserve fliers, who have used the base in the past, will continue to train here on weekends, but SAC had added 14 million dollars worth of new buildings, runways and other equipment.

Buzzards Always Return In March

MEDINA, Ohio (AP)—One of Ohio's most intriguing natural mysteries is the annual return, always on March 15, of more than 70 turkey buzzards to Hickey Ridge.

They roost in trees in the northern Ohio area, just below Cleveland. The legend of their return goes back a century and a half and never has been disproved in recent years. The Cleveland Metropolitan Park District now discourages any disturbance of the roosting trees.

Earliest printing extant dates from 770 A.D. It was done by order of Empress Shiyau-toku of Japan.

Chotiner, conceding he has an uphill fight, is conducting a whirlwind campaign from house to house; challenging Bell to debates — Bell has refused — and making a dozen public appearances a day. Both men are staunch conservatives.

Jerry Pacht, a Beverly Hills attorney and a liberal, is running unopposed for the Democratic nomination.

To My Friends and All Voters In Greenville And Pitt County

Not one day has passed during the 35 years that I have been away from "Home," or Greenville, that I have not remembered my friends and associates, particularly my association with Mr. James L. Little, Mr. Fred J. Forbes, Mr. Charlie James, and others in the National Bank of Greenville.

I want to ask you, my friends, and all voters, to support the candidacy of Senator B. Everett Jordan to be returned to Washington as our United States Senator.

I have known Everett Jordan in both a business way and socially for 12 years. I know him to be above all else a man of strong Christian character who has served his political party in both our state and in Washington faithfully and diligently, with the welfare and best interest of our people always first in his efforts. Space does not permit me to detail what he has done and is doing for us. Sufficient to say that he is most highly regarded by his colleagues in Washington, and his advice and opinions are often solicited by other United States Senators. In my presence Senator Stennis of Mississippi stated, "We have two kinds of United States Senators—talking Senators and working Senators. Senator Jordan is a working Senator."

I earnestly solicit your serious consideration of Senator Jordan's request for your support in his campaign to be returned to Washington as our representative in the United States Senate.*

Sincerely

Graduates Hear Minister Speak

By FRANCINE PARKER GRIMESLAND—The Rev. A.J. Johnson of Robersonville told Pitt County Training School seniors this week that they were finishing to begin a different way of life.

The Rev. Johnson, addressing the graduates at their annual baccalaureate service, emphasized that of all other periods in history, this is the greatest to be alive and to be coming out of high school. He said a question mark confronted them, concerning "what you are going to do with your lives."

The Rev. Johnson urged respect for the virtues of womanhood and said that God had given each one character. Equality of mankind was emphasized and freedom for all mankind was the foundation upon which this country was built.

M.Q. Wyche, principal of Pitt County Training School, introduced the speaker. William J. Crandall read the scripture and prayer was offered by the Rev. C.B. Gray. Music was presented by the school Glee Club, directed by Mrs. Z.W. Langley. Mrs. W.P. McDonald was pianist.

Commencement exercises will be held Friday at 8 p.m., with the Elizabeth City State Teachers college president as guest speaker.

Hayes Says $40 Millions In Checks Ready To Pay Off

By DIAL TORGERSON HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (AP)—Hal B. Hayes leaned against the bar of a plush Sunset Strip restaurant and reviewed the recent fortunes of his financial empire.

"As of tonight," he told newsmen, "we've written 40 million dollars worth of checks. Everybody is going to get paid."

Hayes, onetime fiance of Zsa Zsa Gabor, admitted that work had stopped, completely or partially, at seven locations where his firms are building projects for the government.

"But all those people are going to be paid," Hayes said. "Work will start as soon as the checks get out."

He waved at a Los Angeles paper banner the headline, "Millions in jobs tied up as Hal Hayes missing."

"I haven't been hiding from anyone," he said. "I've been around the world in the past two weeks. I was at the summit conference—at that summit thing. I've been in Hong Kong, France, Cairo, Beirut . . ."

"I came back — stepped off the plane from Mexico City — and I found I was hung."

He was in Paris, he said, to discuss new government contracts with officials he wouldn't name. At most of the projects construction was halted because subcontractors said they weren't paid, or because funds weren't available to cover liens.

The projects are at Camp Lejeune, N.C.; Grand Forks Air Force Base, N.D.; Ellsworth Air Force Base, S.D.; Beall Air Force Base, Marysville, Calif.; Mather Air Force Base, near Sacramento, Calif.; and Fort Bliss, near El Paso, Tex.

He said the projects involved more than one at some bases—total more than 60 million dollars.

He blames the troubles on the contention that "competitors" had combined with "some of the bonding companies" to place him at a financial disadvantage. "They're all trying to get me out of the business," he said.

He didn't explain how they caused him to be unable to meet subcontractors' demands. Some of his problems he blamed on changes in government policy: "Camp Lejeune will never be completed," said Hayes. "Because the government doesn't want it. They don't have any need for it. The Marines are out."

Work on the 13-million dollar Capehart housing project at Camp Lejeune was stopped last Friday.

He produced a sheaf of press releases he said were written by his attorneys and listened with interest as a newsman read him what it quoted him as saying: "It is true what the papers say regarding my obligations being in excess of 60 million dollars, but there are ample funds to meet all obligations," the release read.

Hayes interrupted: "I wish I could settle for that (60 million)."

"There are certain major disputes," the release continued, "which I am involved in, but I am sure they will be solved in a manner satisfactory to everyone."

"Hah," said Hayes. "I know I didn't write this!"

A New Opportunity

A broad smile, a boxer-type face showing the results of past football fame and a recent automobile accident, and a belly-full of things to talk about were the equipment that made up George Tucker, former assistant coach at East Carolina.

With a high goal stuck way up front, the youthful coach embarked from East Carolina College and Greenville this past weekend and prepared to set up shop at Elon College—a bitter North State rival of his for some ten years now.

Moved At A Fast Gait

This young man has already carved a niche in the North Carolina coaching field and in record time. Playing at East Carolina in the championship era of 1952-1953 after a lost year at N. C. State College, Tucker stepped out into the coaching field with a prep job at Lancaster High School.

From there, he went to Wingate Junior College and installed football. Here, it was only a couple of years before Wingate was on the map as a football power, gaining recognition in the national limelight. Dayidson College employed him as an assistant grid coach in 1958 and last fall he moved over to his alma mater.

The chain of events have been quick and his foot is over half way in the golden gate. Coach calls it "luck" but lady luck isn't usually that generous unless their is some talent involved.

Grid Fortunes At Low Level

Tucker picks up the reins at Elon College at a time when the going is rough—mighty rough. A continuous string of losing seasons under Coach Sid Varney did not sit well with the loyal Burlington fans and he was ousted this spring.

The first couple of years, Tucker will be faced with rebuilding a powerful domain at Elon. The cycle seems to have caught up with the conference's centrally-located school but one thing in Tucker's favor is that Elon's football fortunes will have to go up . . . they can't come down.

"I feel that the breaks have gone my way," said an elated Tucker, "and I am tickled to death to get an opportunity of a head coaching job in the North State Conference. I don't know what Elon has returning for next year. We will just have to wait and see." He hinted.

Archie Moore Scores TKO In Tenth Round

By JERRY LISKA
Associated Press Sports Writer
INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Old Archie Moore (43) still has the punch, but the punch must go, before he defends his light heavyweight title against Erich Schoppner of Germany next July 18.

Moore, carrying a billowy 206½ pounds, Wednesday night scored a tenth-round technical knockout over Willi Besmanoff of Milwaukee in a nationally-televised heavyweight bout in the Indiana State Fairgrounds Coliseum.

The 175-pound king from San Diego, Calif., was dropped to one knee by a right-hand blast from Besmanoff in the second round.

Moore went to work, dropped Besmanoff for a mandatory eight-count in the fifth and then really wrecked the plucky German with a right which caught Besmanoff flush on the back and decked him near the end of the ninth.

Besmanoff's nose was bleeding profusely over everybody in the ring in the 10th round, and Referee Frank Gilmer, chairman of the Illinois State Athletic Commission, called it quits at 1:32.

Promoter Jack Fusazy of New York disclosed after the bout that Moore would defend his 175-pound crown against Schoppner on July 18, a Monday night. The site, he said, would be announced within a few days.

Moore conceded he was stunned by Besmanoff's solid right hand shot to the chin in the second. "I finally got over the right I wanted in the ninth," said Archie. "It was a right arched at 90 degrees and really bent his nose." Besmanoff, 198½, said Moore watched his right "like a tiger" after the second round knockdown. "I missed by chance by not following up right away," said the 27-year-old German. "I tried my best, but he's the best man I ever fought."

All three officials had Moore well ahead through nine rounds. Gilmer's vote was 43-37, while judges Tony Coppi and Kelse Mc Clure had Archie in front, 43-38, the same as the AP card.

Raleigh Pads League Lead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Raleigh pasted the faltering Durham Bulls, 8-4, Wednesday night and padded its Carolina League lead.

Meanwhile, Wilson humbled second place Greensboro, 8-3, and Burlington went 14 innings to edge Winston-Salem, 3-2.

Rain cut short the Raleigh-Durham game in the seventh inning. The Capitals had scored three runs in that frame.

Raleigh got off to a 3-0 lead after two innings. Durham went ahead, 4-3, with a run in the third and three more in the fourth, but the lead was short-lived. The Caps were back out front after the sixth.

Ray Looney, one of those back in the Wilson lineup, got two hits and one run batted in in his first appearance this season.

Burlington came from behind in the ninth inning to tie the score, 2-2, in the marathon battle with Winston-Salem. A single by Wayne Newberry brought in the winning run.

Tom Gansauer, who pitched seven innings for Burlington, was credited with the win. Sam McIntyre, Winston-Salem right-hander went to the 13th inning before he was relieved.

The games tonight: Greensboro at Wilson, Winston-Salem at Burlington, Raleigh at Durham.

Farmville Plays

Fresh from its first victory of the season, Farmville's semi-pro outfit will take on New Hope in Farmville on Saturday night and will play on the latter's field Sunday afternoon.

Farmville won its first Bright Belt League game Saturday afternoon by outscoring Pickney, 10-7.

Pickney bounced back with a 11-1 win on Saturday night.

A. W. Farris of Wilson has been added to the Farmville roster and will be in the lineup this week.

Dairy Blanked By Graniteers; Armature Wins

Dan Gordon, veteran fast-ball hurler for the Graniteers, tossed a no-hitter at the Carolina Dairy last night while his teammates pushed over a couple of tallies in the third and fifth inning for a 4-0 victory.

In the opener of the Greenville Industrial League doubleheader, Cox Armature cooled off a late-inning surge by Offset Printing Company for a 16-10 victory.

A good crowd was on hand to watch the Graniteer star pitch a perfect game and drive a long sacrifice fly to score a run. Gordon struck out five.

Mac Roebuck collected a triple for the only extra base hit off loser Howard Outland. The Carolina Dairy pitcher yielded only five hits.

A slugfest developed in the opener as Cox Armature blew a five-run first-inning lead and later blew a 11-run lead but managed to come out on top, 16-11.

The winners scored five runs in the first and let their lead mount throughout the game.

Offset scored four in its half of the first inning and then rallied in the sixth for six more runs.

Yates picked up the victory for Cox Armature who was outlitt 15-7. Gontoso had two hits for Cox Armature while Pollard and Strickland paced the losers with three hits each.

Orioles, Indians Control AL With Young Pitchers

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Pitching is getting to be a young man's game in the American League. And if you need a convincer take a squint at the Baltimore Orioles and Cleveland Indians, running 1-2 in the pennant chase.

Chuck Estrada, 22, a right-handed rookie, allowed only five hits for a 3-2 victory over 40-year-old Early Wynn at Chicago Wednesday that gave the Orioles a sweep of the two-game series. It was Steve Barber, a 21-year-old south-paw rookie, who plunked the White Sox out of first place with a seven-hitter Tuesday.

And Wednesday night, Jim Perry, an old hand at 24, pitched an 11-inning shutout for Cleveland as the Indians defeated Washington 1-0 and stayed within a half-game of Baltimore.

Detroit tied New York for fourth place, three games behind, by beating the Yankees 9-3. And Boston finally junked its losing slump at 10 games, defeating Kansas City 5-3.

In the National League, San Francisco gained a one-game edge with a 5-1 victory at Philadelphia while the Los Angeles Dodgers were handing Pittsburgh a third straight loss, 5-1.

St. Louis whipped Chicago's Cubs 7-4.

Estrada (3-1) walked four but struck out five as the Birds won their fourth in a row.

Sherm Lollar drove in both White Sox runs, trying it 1-1 in the fourth with a double and deadlocking it at 2-1 in the seventh with a home run. Wynn (2-2) gave up 10 hits and struck out eight.

Tito Francona's two-out single broke up Perry's shutout duel with right-hander Bill Fischer (0-1), who had a four-hitter until the 11th. Perry (3-2) allowed eight hits, walked two and struck out eight.

Frank Bolling drove in four runs for the Tigers, who won their fourth in a row as Bolling, Charlie Maxwell and Red Wilson all slugged bases-loaded doubles. Frank Lary (4-3) won it. Ralph Terry (2-2) lost it.

Don Buddin's second double and a squeeze gunt by reliever Ted Bowsfield gave the Red Sox the deciding run in the eighth at Kansas City. Bill Moubouquette (4-3) was the winner while Don Larsen (0-4) lost his 10th in a row since last June.

But no one thought he would do some pitching. But pitch he did Wednesday night, hurling 3 1-3 innings and allowing but two hits to pick up the win as Statesville rallied to down Gastonia 12-7 before 1,876 fans in Gastonia.

Elsewhere as the eight-team Class D circuit got its delayed season underway, Lexington down Salisbury 5-1, Rutherford County whipped Shelby 7-4 and Hickory downed neighboring Newton-Conover 12-8.

The teams play the same opponents tonight, but switch fields. The schedule has Gastonia at Statesville, Hickory at Newton-Conover, Lexington and Salisbury and Shelby at Rutherford County.

Steve Bolick plastered two doubles and two singles in leading Hickory to its win. The winners quickly counted five times in the first frame and were never headed.

Rutherford County pushed across three runs in the sixth and three more in the seventh to beat Shelby. Four walked keyed the sixth inning rally.

Glenn Eury blasted a two-run homer in the fifth to lead Lexington ast Salisbury. Eury also connected for a double and a single.

Phillie Series Cures Giant Ailments

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

There was nothing wrong with the San Francisco Giants that a series with the Philadelphia Phillies couldn't cure.

They went into Philadelphia in second place. Sam Jones, their right-handed ace won the opener with a four-hit shutout that put the Giants back in the National League lead, Wednesday night the Giants made it a sweep behind Mike McCormick, winning 5-1 in a game cut to eight innings by rain and picking up a one-game lead over second place Pittsburgh.

Los Angeles swept a three-game series against the second place Pirates with a 5-1 decision on three home runs—one a 550-foot wallop by rookie Frank Howard.

The St. Louis Cardinals defeated Milwaukee 5-3 in the ninth on George Crowe's 7 or 8-setting pinch-hit home run. Cincinnati defeated the Chicago Cubs and Don Cardwell 7-4 in a game held to 7 2-3 innings by rain.

In the American League, Baltimore retained a half-game lead with a 3-2 victory over Chicago's White Sox. Second place Cleveland defeated Washington 1-0 in 11 innings as Jim Perry out-fueled Bill Fischer. Detroit tied New York for fourth place, beating the Yankees 9-3. And Boston ended its losing streak at 10 with a 5-3 victory at Kansas City.

The Giants beat Robin Roberts (1-5) with Willie Kirkland's two-run homer in the second inning. McCormick walked two and struck out two.

troit) for the major league career record. Warren Spahn went eight innings for the Braves and allowed only three hits, but two were home runs by Ken Boyer. Larry Jackson (4-5) won his third in a row, giving up nine hits but shutting out Milwaukee after Joe Adcock's two-run double in the third.

The Reds socked Cardwell (2-3) for six hits and five runs, chasing the right-hander when they scored four in the third inning. Elio Chacon's single brought home the clincher. Southpaw Jim O'Toole (4-4) won it.

Outlook For America In Distant Events Is Gloomy

(Editors — The following story was written exclusively for The Associated Press by Larry Snyder, Ohio State and Olympic track coach, on America's prospects in the 1960 Olympics at Rome.)

By LARRY SNYDER

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—America's outlook in the distance races at the 1960 Olympics is a gloomy one.

America has won four of the last six 400-meter races, but prospects in Rome are not too brilliant. Three West Indians took the top medals in the 1959-Pan-American Games. All three are attending college in the United States, but they'll represent their home lands in the Olympics.

Romani Jr. of Wichita, Kan.; Jim Bowers of Illinois, and Don Bowden. Others yet to reach their peak may work into the picture.

The steeplechase—3,000 meters of it—is not one of our specialties. Horace Ashenfelter of Penn State upset the Russian world in 1952 with his great victory, but this is Russia's event since it has five men in the top 10 ranking.

Phil Coleman of Champaign, Ill., and Deacon Jones of Coffeyville, Kan., have been our best for several years.

000 meter is lower than our national record. Only Bill Dellinger of Oxnard, Calif., and Max Truex of Warsaw, Ind., have bettered the 5,000-meter standard.

Others rated among our top distance men are Lew Stieglitz of Hartford, Conn.; Bob Soth of Long Beach, Calif.; Miles Eismann of Tahachapi, Calif.; Bud Edelen of Minneapolis, Jim Beatty of North Carolina, and Paul Whiteley of Emporia, Kan.

We haven't scored an Olympic marathon point in recent years. John Kelley of Groton, Conn., Alex Breckenridge of the Marine Corps and Gordon Mekenzie of New York will be our representatives.

By no stretch of the imagination can the 5,000 and 10,000-meter races, or the marathon, be considered our domain.

Will Not Drive

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Jimmy Daywalt of Indianapolis, who qualified the Bryant Heating Special for the 500-mile race at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, said Wednesday night he will not drive in the race Monday.

Speedway veterans could recall no previous resignation of a driver after qualification.

Daywalt announced his decision after getting only 137.5 miles an hour out of the car in carburation tests. He said the Bryant crew had moved weight around so much in the car that its setup had been changed completely.

Expected To Hold AC Tourney In Raleigh Again

DURHAM (AP)—The Atlantic Coast Conference's basketball committee met here today and was expected to return to the conference's championship basketball tournament to Raleigh in 1961.

Charlotte and Greensboro collusion interests bid for the tournament, which has been held in Raleigh for the past seven years.

Athletic Director Eddie Cameron of Duke, who heads the basketball committee, said he expected a short meeting.

Cameron said he understood the NCAA looked with disfavor on Charlotte holding the ACC tournament a week ahead of the NCAA Eastern Regional, which has been played there for three years.

This may have been an indication that the NCAA will return its Eastern Regional to the North Carolina city a fourth time next March.

Charlotte's bid for the ACC stumbled last weekend when the city's Chamber of Commerce voted not to actively seek the conference event.

Besides Cameron, the basketball committee includes Roy Clogston, North Carolina State; Dr. James T. Penney, South Carolina; C. P. Erickson, North Carolina and Frest Maravich, Clemson.

ed that his plans called for landing a couple of outstanding gridders this summer.

A Tribute To East Carolina

Leaving East Carolina is one of the most distressing things for Tucker. It means leaving the many friends that he has accumulated but the climax may be a rewarding one for him. "I will get a chance to see if I can really coach," explained Tucker.

Coach Jack Boone hailed the appointment as a tribute to East Carolina College. "We hate to lose George but we feel it is a step upward for him. As a player, he was real aggressive and shows the same enthusiasm as a coach. He did us a real good job."

To our knowledge, Coach George Tucker is the first East Carolina graduate to step into a head coaching job on the senior college level. Also, he will be the youngest grid mentor in the North State league next fall.

With him, he carries a couple more ECC graduates, Gary Mattocks and Johnny Wike. Here's wishing them success next season in all games except the one against East Carolina.

Pitching — Jim Perry, Indians, gave up eight singles in an 11-inning shutout, walking two and striking out eight for 1-0 victory over the Senators.

Hitting — Willie Kirkland, Giants, had three hits and drove in three runs, two with a homer, in 2-1 victory over the Phillies.

Pitching Shoots Giants Into Lead

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—San Francisco's steady, effective pitching has shot the Giants into a one-game lead in the National League, but their big hitting guns are booming again and they're moving to pad the lead over Pittsburgh.

"The big guns have tied into a couple and we might be off now," Manager Bill Rigney said Wednesday night after the Giants defeated Philadelphia 5-1, getting 12 hits to back Mike McCormick's five-hit job.

The victory, No. 6 against only two defeats for the 21-year-old McCormick, hoisted the Giants to a full game lead as Pittsburgh lost 5-1 to Los Angeles.

"If we can keep going, we'll be in good shape," Rigney said. "Our starting pitchers have been going very good and we've bounced back and picked up a little in our hitting."

On the current road trip the Giants are 4-4, having taken two in a row from the Phillies. Sad Sam Jones blanked the Phillies 4-0 Tuesday night with a four-hit whitewash job.

Willie Kirkland, almost the forgotten slugger among the Giants, was the hitting star Wednesday night, belting his seventh homer — his first since May 17 — and getting a double and single to drive in three runs. He hiked his average from .281 to .287.

Willie McCovey also got two singles, ushering his average from .260 to .269.

Howard Makes Big Bang In Series

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Frank Howard, Los Angeles' 240-pound rookie, has ended his first series in Pittsburgh with a bang — one that fell about 15 feet short of the longest homer ever hit in baseball.

The 6-foot-7 outfielder blasted a ball over Forbes Field's left field wall Wednesday night and it landed about 550 feet from the plate. The second-inning homer was a solo shot that helped defeat the Pirates 5-1.

Asked what kind of pitch he hit off starter Jim Umbricht, Howard replied:

By C. YATES MCDANIEL

WASHINGTON (AP)—The suspension of U2 plane flights over the Soviet Union has forced the United States to fall back on more conventional espionage practices — until still-untried space spies can take up the slack.

Until that time—and it could be many months away—U.S. officials probably will have to do without the flow of clear photographs which could help them know what is going on within the Soviet Union.

CRACKS AT BRINK

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP)—Several new cracks at the brink of the American Falls have been discovered but officials say there is no immediate danger of a slide. Arthur Williams, executive secretary and chief engineer of the Niagara Frontier State Park Commission, said the cracks had been formed by temperature changes in a section of the falls now blocked by a cofferdam near Prospect Point.

A satellite system designed to provide such photographs is in the works. But the first test firing of the Samos isn't scheduled until September and a much longer time will be needed to get a series of them in orbit and operating satisfactorily.

Photographs, though taken from great heights, provide important clues to where the Soviets are setting up missile bases, how they are placing their manned bombers, and what they are doing with their other military forces.

Such information is important in determining the chance of a Soviet surprise attack, as this country noted in publicly defending its use of the U2 planes. With the U2 flights abandoned, information will have to be pieced together painstakingly from refugees, observant travelers, published documents and various other intelligence sources including, where they are used, paid agents. Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex) during the weekend called for a crash program to develop the Samos spy satellite. But Air Force officials only recently told Congress that the Samos project had the highest national priority and was moving ahead as fast as science could make it go.

The Air Force launched this week a test model of the Midas satellite, which quickly was dubbed a space spy. It isn't designed only to detect the actual launching of ballistic missiles.

The Samos satellite will be the first orbiting vehicle to qualify for the description "space spy." A team of Samos satellites, orbiting at regular intervals, would feed a stream of pictures to ground stations, thus keeping large areas of the Soviet Union under surveillance.

Although pictures televised from a Samos satellite would be useful for intelligence analysis, the United States wants to get the actual film back to earth for close scrutiny by human eyes aided by powerful magnifying apparatus.

Hence the importance of the Discoverer satellite program that was launched last year to perfect methods of ejecting capsules containing pictures and information gathered in space and then recovering such capsules. To date, several Discoverers have achieved orbits and capsules have been ejected, but none has been recovered.

Eventually it is hoped that the Samos can be developed with such a capsule that can take pictures as it orbits and return the film to earth for careful examination.

Spying, as such, has been practiced since the beginning of recorded history. There is no law against it except that the spy is not supposed to be caught.

There is also no law defining how high is up or where does space begin. The Soviets, significantly, have made no demands to halt satellite orbiting. Obviously they would be in a poor position to propound such a doctrine because their Sputnik was the first manmade moon to orbit over the nations.

The banning by President Eisenhower of further U2 flights over the Soviet Union is, not the first strategic reconnaissance disappointment this nation has suffered. Several years ago, when the U2 planes were first being tried in tentative, shallow penetration flights, the United States succeeded in floating a number of balloons from west to east across the vast domain of the U.S.S.R.

At that time, a greater number of balloons, carrying propaganda leaflets and sponsored by a completely nongovernment agency, also were floated across the iron curtain. It took the Soviets a while to determine the fact that some of these balloons carried considerably more than leaflets.

The United States recovered the capsules parachuted down from several balloons and developed pictures taken by cameras that were grinding all the way.

When the Soviets knocked down their first balloon, they displayed the paraphernalia and held a news conference to vent their displeasure. At that time the U.S. government sat tight and said nothing.

Guilford Attacking Mental Health Problem

By Dorothy Anne Benjamin
(Greensboro Record Staff Writer)
Written for The Associated Press

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Guilford County, a frequent leader in North Carolina, is embarking on a unique program in the field of mental health, a program designed to establish good mental health in a family even before the arrival of children.

Instead of devoting most of its time to consultations with individual patients, a five-member staff will go into the community and offer a full program on education about and prevention of mental illness.

"We are going to select our patients carefully," said Dr. Joseph Warner. "If we feel we can help them and help them in a short time we'll take the case."

"If they need intensive treatment over a long time we're not going to take them," said Dr. Warner, new director of the Guilford County Mental Health Clinic.

"It boils down to this—we can either work with the new generation and promote good mental health here or spend a limited time and staff on a few very sick people who need intensive treatment," he said.

Dr. Warner maintains that most of the 10 mental health clinics in the state are pressed by the need for clinical services and the staffs feel that if they do not meet these needs the people of the community will not see the need for the clinics.

"I feel we have a responsibility to the community at large as well as to the individual patients," he said. "We can learn from the field of epidemiology. For instance, typhoid—they found what caused it and eliminated the cause. We've got to do the same thing with mental illness."

"We know that there are certain areas in the county that have more people seeking help from the clinic than others. We want to find out what's causing it and do something about it."

One of the major projects in the new program will be research. The clinic staff will work with a group of expectant mothers and, later, compare their children with those of parents whom the staff has not seen.

"I expect we'll see more feeding problems, more colic, etc., in those cases we have not worked with," he continued. "The results of this study would be a contribution to the whole field of mental health."

Plans are being made to provide leaders for PTA child study groups; offer seminars for ministers; work with medical people and offer consultation service to other agencies such as the police ("We'd like to participate in their training program").

In recent months Dr. Warner and his staff have been attending staff meetings at the Guilford County Domestic Relations Court. A clinic staff member now is helping the court personnel with their interviewing techniques so they can get more and better information on cases.

"We will offer a consultation service for teachers and this fall we plan to have a community symposium so the people of Guilford County can tell us what is 'wrong' with the community," Dr. Warner said.

He admits that it is very difficult to sacrifice an individual in order to benefit the entire community but he feels this may have to be done.

A five-member or even a seven-member staff could not cope with all the problems in a county of 233,500 persons — "Prevention is the only answer!"

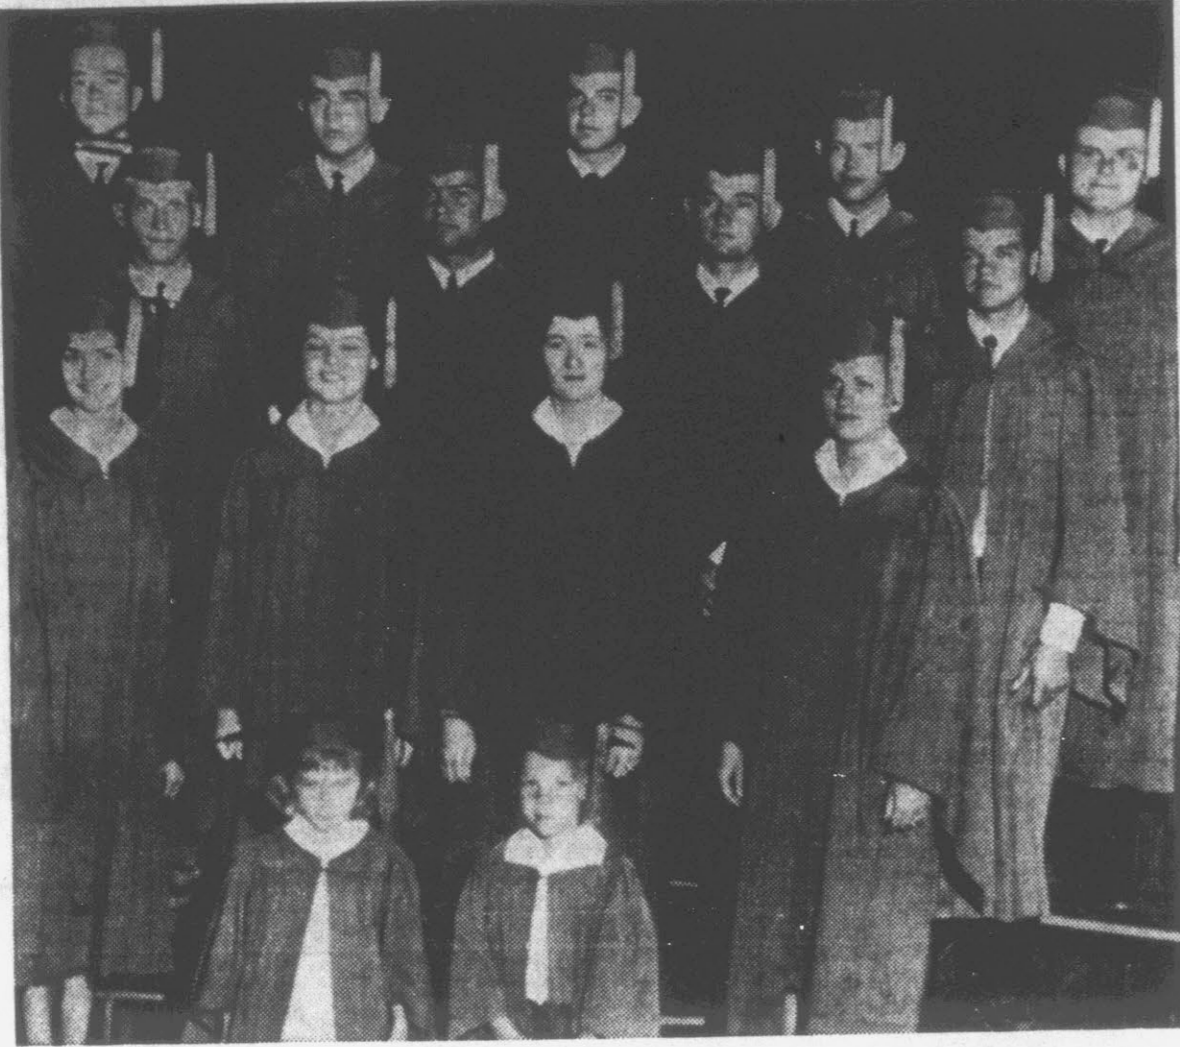

At a recent meeting in Greensboro of state mental health clinic personnel, juvenile court judges and others the need for more consultation among the groups was stressed repeatedly.

The judges emphasized their need for help from the clinics in determining the condition of a child brought before the court and what should be done with him. They wanted to know what symptoms to look for and when to refer a child to the clinics.

If Guilford County's new program goes as planned, the court, through consultations with the clinic, will know in advance how to deal with many situations and when to seek expert advice. Quicker action on referrals also will be possible.

Dr. Warner points out that while all clinics include education and prevention in their work, the staffs often have little time for either. The Guilford County Mental Health Clinic is going to take time and he believes it will pay off for the community.

Teacher Forced To Resign Over Bootleg Still Exhibit

LYNNHAVEN, Va. (AP)—What began as a somewhat unorthodox but apparently harmless exhibit for a state fair has resulted in the forced resignation of a high school teacher.

The project was a still—complete with mash. Federal authorities said Wednesday no law violation had been intended by the three students at Princess Anne High School who built the still as an entry in a state fair at Greenville, S.C. They dropped the case.

But school authorities asked the resignation of Parker Russell Johnson Jr., an industrial arts teacher who okayed the exhibit.

What brought the affair to a head was a scuffle between two boys in the industrial arts department. They asked to go home to change, because they had spilled mash on their clothes. School officials investigated and found the still, plus a vat containing flour, sugar and water.

J. Warren Littleton, principal of the 2,000-student high school, had the still destroyed and reported the affair to federal authorities. They investigated and found "no intent to violate the law."

Johnson, 27, declined to discuss the case until he has talked with school authorities. His mother had this to say to reporters:

"They didn't give him a chance to explain. The project was not a secret one. The thing was built openly in the class. Many of the boys discussed it with their parents. Other members of the faculty knew about it. A physics teacher asked if he could show it to his class when it was completed."

School authorities refused comment on the incident. Digitals, a heart medicine, is compounded from the dried leaves of foxglove. The latter can be poisonous.

Finds Wrestling Steers Is Harder

LARAMIE, Wyo. (AP)—Dick Ballinger, University of Wyoming senior, finds it's a little tougher to wrestle steers than humans.

Ballinger won the 167 pound national collegiate wrestling championship this spring. But in an intercollegiate rodeo at Bozeman, Mont., the best he could do was finish second in the steer wrestling event.

The Stuarts were restored to the English throne with the coronation of Charles II in 1660.

Candidates Begin Final Salvos As Campaign Moves Closer To Climax

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Candidates begin firing their final salvos today as the campaign moves closer to the Saturday decision at the ballot box.

Four contenders for the Democratic nomination as governor seek votes on the following schedule:
I. Beverly Lake, Raleigh lawyer, will tour Wake County.
John D. Larkins, Democratic party leader and Trenton attorney, will be busy in Greensboro and High Point.
Malcolm B. Seawell, former superior court judge and state attorney general, speaks to the Lexington Kiwanis Club and campaigns in Davidson County.

Terry Sanford, Fayetteville lawyer, will shake hands and ask for support in Cabarrus County.
Sen. B. Everett Jordan, running for a new term, will tour Stanly County.

Addison Hewlett, Wilmington lawyer seeking to oust Jordan, will spend the morning in Anson County and the afternoon in Richmond. A Republican primary candidate took the political spotlight Wednesday with a charge that illegal ballots are being distributed in Haywood County.

Heinz Rollman, Waynesville industrialist seeking the GOP nomination from the 12th District, made the charge in telegrams to the U. S. District Attorney in Asheville, the Federal Bureau of Investigation in Charlotte, and the State Board of Elections.

As a precautionary measure, Rollman suggested that rubber stamps be prepared to mark the ballots cast in the 12th District.

In the race for governor, Larkins told a Dobson audience that his experience in the Democratic party and state governor far surpasses that of other candidates. After reciting his 25 years of service for the party, Larkins questioned:

"Where were the other candidates for governor during all these years? How much have they contributed to the party in actual work and in funds?"

He offered a final bit of advice for voters: "Do not send a boy to do a man's job."

Lake toured Harnett County Wednesday, ending the day with a free barbecue and rally in Lillington.

Seawell, campaigning in the mountains, fired away at two of his opponents—Lake and Sanford. Referring to Lake, who advocates stern steps to preserve racial segregation, Seawell said it would be "a great tragedy to create a climate in North Carolina which would lead to the closing of public schools."

Seawell described as irresponsible Sanford's endorsement of a program for school improvements costing 100 million dollars. Seawell asserted such a program would require a 17.06 per cent boost in personal and corporate income taxes.

Meanwhile, Sanford assured supporters in Gaston County he feels voters "will not be fooled by last minute scares, smears and unsigned leaflets."

The Fayetteville lawyer said his campaign will be successful because it has concentrated on personal contacts with citizens in all walks of life.

In similar vein, Sen. Jordan said in a campaign statement voters will pick the man for the Senate on the basis of "legislative issues, not personal attacks."

Hewlett, in a statement of his own, renewed criticism of Jordan for comments on the U-2 spy plane incident. He said the Senator reversed himself on the issue, and added, "I feel that our people everywhere are entitled to know where we are going and what we are doing before we approach another 'brink of war' incident."

Increased Sale Of Savings Bonds

During the month of April, Pitt County sold $23,307 in Series E and Series H Savings Bonds, making the total sales this year $229,694, according to J.H. Waldrop, volunteer county chairman.

The April sales brought the four-month total to 39 percent of the county's quota for the year. Waldrop said. The goal for the year is $587,650 for Pitt County.

The combined sales of Series E and H Savings Bonds in the state during April showed an increase of one percent over April of 1959. During the first four months, 34 percent of North Carolina's annual quota of $51,100,000 has been realized.

Series H Bond showed a 38 percent increase during April, while Series E Bond was off two percent. For the year, Series E Bond is five percent ahead while H Bond is five percent behind last year's sales record.

BURLINGTON, Wis. (AP)—Newly elected Mayor Anthony Rwald has a problem—he can't give $900 away.

Enough Phones For City's Use

LOS ANGELES (AP) — There will be enough telephone equipment installed for the Democratic National Convention to handle the needs of a city of 25,000 people. That's what Pacific Telephone said Tuesday in announcing arrangements for the July convention. General Manager James S. # Republicans In Congress See Slim Chance For Rocky WASHINGTON (AP) — Republicans in Congress generally agreed today it's time to have Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller on call if Vice President Richard M. The New York governor's announcement Wednesday—that he would accept a draft but that the choice of Nixon "obviously is to be expected"—was received here with a minimum of surprise.

How can the United States defend itself against a Soviet missile submarine off the coast of Mexico?

"Fortress America," he said, "no longer exists."

VOTE FOR H. CLOYD PHILPOTT FOR LT. GOVERNOR

READ WHAT LEADING N. C. PAPERS SAY ABOUT H. CLOYD PHILPOTT

"Philpott is one of the most outstanding state legislators of recent years."—Charlotte Observer editorial, February 7, 1960.

"... He continues to show in Legislative circles the same kind of astuteness he has demonstrated in business and political affairs."—From Greensboro Daily News editorial, February 1, 1960.

EXAMINE HIS RECORD

During eight years as a representative from Davidson County, Cloyd Philpott was quickly recognized in each session of the General Assembly as a legislative leader. He actively supported better schools, better mental hospitals, good roads and a sound rehabilitation program for state prisoners. He pioneered in the campaign which resulted in North Carolina's Minimum Wage Law—the first such law in the South. His Legislative committee assignments included agriculture, education, appropriations, roads and finance.

ON THE HOUSE

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

Some years ago we learned an interesting lesson about the sale of a house.

We accompanied a friend on a full day's tour as he looked for a house that would suit both his pocketbook and his tastes. Nothing seemed to catch his fancy and, at the end of the day, we discussed some of the houses we had seen.

"You know," he said, "I might have been interested in that 7-room split level we looked at except for one thing. Did you notice the way that kitchen faucet was leaking?"

He explained that if the owner could not be bothered with fixing a faucet leak, especially when the house was up for sale, he probably neglected the big things too.

For the want of a washer, therefore, the sale probably was lost.

We have since had considerable confirmation of this point: prospective home purchasers often are discouraged from entering into negotiations because of small things. They may overlook the fact that a house needs painting (which will cost them several hundred dollars if they make the purchase), but they become wary if a door knob is loose, even though replacing a set screw at a cost of a few cents, will repair the trouble.

The philosophy of our friend was not without merit. It probably would not be true all the time that a home owner who neglects small things also neglects big things. But the chances are it would stand up under examination most of the time. And when you are making what might be the biggest investment of your life, you aren't in a mood to take chances.

So, before you place that house on the market, spend a few dollars and a little time fixing those small things that you might have thought really didn't matter. They do.

In what age group is the largest percentage of home buyers? Says the F.H.A.: the 25-to-30 age group. It accounts for more than 24 per cent of all new home buyers and more than 22 per cent of existing home buyers.

In 1954, 17 per cent of new homes had aluminum windows. Today, one estimate is that the figure is up to more than 40 per cent.

A survey by Swimming Pool Age indicates that some 85,000 new swimming pools—all of the permanent, in-the-ground type—will be constructed in the United States this year. About two-thirds of them will be of the backyard variety, the rest falling into the non-residential category.

In using marine paint on your boat, the axiom that applies to nearly all finishing materials is especially true: two thin coats are better than one thick coat.

They 'Bury' Political Dead

BRANDON, Fla. (AP)—They bury the political dead here—but it's all in good humor.

"Tomstones," bearing the names of local leaders who supported Doyle E. Carlton Jr. for governor, popped up in the center of town following the defeat of the Wauchula rancher.

The graves appear after every important election. They're regarded as a form of well-wishing from backers of unsuccessful candidates to political foes.

Business Notes

Attends School
Hayden Croom, special representative in Greenville for the Occidental Life Insurance Co. of North Carolina, recently attended a five-day training course at the company's Home Office in Raleigh.

Gold Bond Division Manager Appointed
Appointment of Ralph W. Strayton as division manager of Gold Bond Company's recently opened Raleigh Division was recently announced by Curtis L. Carlson, president of the trading stamp firm.

Strayton, formerly division account manager in Gold Bond's New York Division will be headquartered in Raleigh. The trading stamp firm's Raleigh division was opened recently when Colonial Stores in a number of localities in Virginia and North Carolina including Greenville began offering Gold Bond stamps.

Service Emblems
Two Greenville employees of Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Co. became eligible this month for service emblems. A total of 15 years of combined telephone service is represented by the awards.

The two will receive gold pins. They are Larry G. Dew, an installer-repairman in the Plant Department, with 10 years service; and Charles W. Wall, Jr., an installer-repairman in the Plant Department, with five years of service.

Named Associate Manager
A Greenville native has been named an associate manager of the Life Insurance Co. of Virginia's Rocky Mount district office. He is James R. Smith. Smith is an alumnus of East Carolina College, and joined the company in 1955. He is a member of the Presbyterian Church and the National Association of Life Underwriters.

In Key Club
J. Frank Strawn, general agent in Greenville for the Franklin Life Insurance Co. of Springfield, Ill., has won membership in the firm's exclusive Key Club, a top production honor organization.

For the year 1959, Strawn ranked 16th in the nation in Franklin net paid business, having served the people of the Greenville area with over one million dollars of insurance savings and protection.

Because of this and other achievements, Strawn will be featured in the Franklin's national trade publication advertising for June.

In Top Fifteen
John W. Turnage, district manager and Hayden Crooms, special representative for the Occidental Life Insurance Co. of North Carolina, placed among the top 15 sales representatives of their company in the production of new business in April.

Attends Convention
Rodney Roberson recently attended the Oil Jobbers Convention in Pinehurst.

Receives Award
J. Paul Simpson of Williamson, Security Life and Trust Co. representative, was recognized nationally through his nomination for the "All-Star Honor Roll" of The Insurance Salesman, a leading magazine in the life insurance business.

A certificate was presented to Simpson at a recent meeting of the Pitt County Association of Life Underwriters.

Million Dollar Round Table
Two Pitt County insurance salesmen have qualified for 1960 membership in the Million Dollar Round Table. Quife M. Ward, Executive director, announced.

They are M. Louis Collie, New York Life Insurance Co. and W. M. Scales, Jr., Security Life and Trust Co.

Through last month approximately 90 percent of the expected total had been certified as having sold a million in 1959.

Alaskan Teacher Finally Made It

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—An Alaska schoolteacher who set out by automobile 12 days ago for the National PTA convention finally made it Wednesday—on the last day of the four-day meeting.

Mary Hawkins is a voting member of the Alaska delegation, but she got here too late to vote on anything.

She and her two sons, Charles, 14, and Richard, 10, left Nimitz, on the Kenai Peninsula, on Friday the 13th. But she said on arrival it wasn't bad luck which delayed her—"We didn't have so much as a flat tire"—it was just 4,500 long miles of driving.

The trip wasn't wasted. Her girlhood home is in Carlisle, Pa., and she plans a long visit there before heading back to her log cabin in late June. That log cabin, incidentally, has a full basement, oil heat, running water, electricity and television.

Meet Addison Hewlett

CANDIDATE FOR

U.S. Senator

PEOPLE BELIEVE IN AD HEWLETT

By background, character and legislative experience, Addison Hewlett is ideally qualified for the United States Senate.

His basic political beliefs are grounded on responsibility in government with service to ALL segments of society.

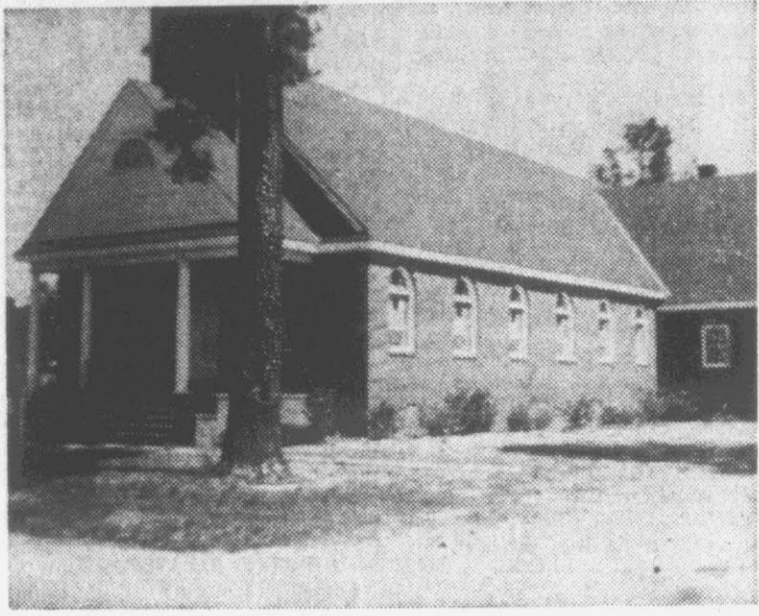

As a legislator, Hewlett has championed the causes of workmen's compensation, the state-wide community college plan, the mentally retarded children's program, industrial education and industrial development.

As he launched his campaign for the Democratic nomination, the 47-year-old veteran of public service made this statement: "I shall move on the simple precept upon which we were raised. The people of North Carolina have the right to select their own Senator; and no others are vested with that power."

For grass roots representation, send the young statesman to Washington and you will have a fearless and courageous champion for the North Carolina way of life, obligated only to the people of North Carolina.

No Respite For Chile As Quakes, Eruptions Continue

HOMECOMING DAY AT SALEM . . . Methodist Church, Simpson, will be observed on May 29. All former pastors, members and friends are invited, according to the pastor, the Rev. Alton S. Lancaster. A picnic lunch will be served at 12:30 following the morning worship service. An afternoon session of singing and messages is planned. Ernest J. Tartler of Raleigh will give an organ recital.

By THOMAS J. STONE
SANTIAGO, Chile (AP)—No respite appeared in sight today for southern Chile, wrecked by five days of continuing earthquakes, tidal waves, avalanches and volcanic eruptions.
The official death toll so far was 2,829 dead or missing, 2 million—a fourth of the nation's population—homeless and 300 million dollars property damage. And the count was mounting steadily.
The U.S. Air Force joined in flaying relief through the smoke billowing from volcanoes.

With countless communities still cut off and the upheavals of nature continuing, officials could not even predict the final toll. Low-lying clouds and rain hampered aerial rescue operations. Smoke and ash from volcanoes hung over much of the southern part of the mountainous land.
The Interior Ministry listed the known dead at 1,706 and 1,123 missing and presumed dead.

The face of the country itself was altered by the disturbances which began Saturday. Three new earth tremors were reported Wednesday. Tidal waves up to 15 feet high still pounded along 750 miles of the southern coast. Many islands along the coast could not be reached for word of their inhabitants.
In Cautin Province the earth's surface dropped as much as 1,000 feet over a 25-mile stretch. Two new lakes formed in the Andes near Lake Rinihue. Avalanches filled valleys with stone and earth.
The U.S. Air Force summoned planes from bases in New Jersey, Delaware and South Carolina to airlift two fully equipped, 400-bed field hospitals to Santiago. Thirty-four planes were to transport the 426 medical personnel and 350 tons of equipment.
Other Air Force units in the Panama Canal Zone already were rushing to the stricken areas with tents, blankets, field radios and litters for evacuation of the injured.

Other relief supplies were sent by Argentina, Cuba, Ecuador, Haiti, Peru, the Netherlands and Norway. The Chilean Red Cross appealed for more, for food and tents for the homeless articulating.

graphs, electric power supply, provided work for a high percentage of the population in the south banks. And the industries which have been ruined."

Alaskan Forest Fire Threatens Destroy Village

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP)—A forest fire raging in the midst of a sizzling heat wave threatened Wednesday night to destroy a village just above the Arctic Circle.
The blaze was stopped a mere half a mile from Ft. Yukon by more than 100 fire fighters, including all able-bodied men in the Indian village of 600.

Fred Varney, fire control officer for the Bureau of Land Management at Ft. Yukon, said the village was no longer in danger but the fire was still not controlled.
The mercury rose to 89 degrees in Fairbanks Wednesday for the second straight day, continuing a nine-day heat wave unparalleled for this time of year.

Varney said the fire was apparently man-caused in the tinder-dry forest. It broke out two days ago and spread through more than 3,500 acres of trees and brush.
Ft. Yukon is about 125 miles northeast of Fairbanks on the Yukon River.

PARMUS, N.J. (AP)—It would be impossible for an enemy spy plane to sneak over the North Pole and take photographs of America, say Air Defense Command officials.

The officials, in charge of the U. S. Distant Early Warning (DEW line) system of radar stations in the Far North, made the comment Wednesday at the end of a two-day meeting to discuss the system in light of the U2 spy plane incident.

Didn't Use His Head, Just Feet

SALEM, Va. (AP)—Benny L. Tice of Roanoke bought a 1951 sedan here for 36 cents.

"I didn't use my head, just my feet," said Tice. The bargain was offered to the man with the biggest feet. Tice wears No. 15 shoes.
"I needed the car," said Tice. "and I found 74 cents under the front seat when I got home."

Installation Night For Jaycees, Jay-c-ettes

Jaycee and Jay-c-ette officers for the coming year will be installed at Installation and Ladies Night ceremonies tonight.

The supper meeting will be held in the Moose Temple auditorium. Social hour will begin at 6:30 with the meal being served at 7:30.

Chairman John Hardy said the new state president, Al Sharpe of Lumberton, will install the new Jaycee officers with David J. Whichard, editor of the Daily Reflector, installing the Jay-c-ette officers.

George Coffman will become the new Jaycee president. Mrs. Nancy Smith is new president of the Jay-c-ettes.
Brooks Beddingfield and Peggy Briley will give outgoing president's reports for the two organizations.

Exhausted Rooster Dr. M. W. Aldridge will conduct the passing out ceremonies for club members who are aging out.
Hardy will act as master of ceremonies.

The chairman said president of other civic clubs and their wives have been invited as guests.

Poisoned Arrow Trophy Missing

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP)—A poisoned bushman arrow capable of causing death even from a scratch is missing from the South African Museum in Cape Town.

The case containing the bushman exhibit, including a figure holding the arrow, was opened Monday to enable it to be photographed. When the window was replaced, it was noticed the arrow had gone.

The arrow tip had been treated with a vegetable poison known to remain deadly for years. The museum appealed to the thief to return the arrow immediately.

Rockefeller Offering Self As A 'Reserve' Candidate

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller was offering himself as a reserve candidate for the Republican nomination for president today but there was no discernible sign he would be called to active duty.

Rockefeller said Wednesday he would accept a draft to run as GOP candidate for president, a development possible only if the party rejects Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

But Rockefeller agreed with the almost unanimous view that Nixon's nomination "obviously is to be expected."

Nixon remains the party's only declared candidate. He has more than enough votes, by unofficial count, to win nomination on the first ballot.

Nixon also has the backing of president Eisenhower.

Rockefeller's current assets as a contender for the nomination consist of the assumption he would get all 96 of New York's convention votes plus one Arkansas vote pledged to him and a New Jersey vote promised if a floor fight developed.

A majority of 666 of the 1,331 delegates will be needed for nomination at the convention which opens July 25 in Chicago.

Basically, Rockefeller's entire strategy is keyed to the possibility, however remote, that something might happen between now and convention time to turn the party away from Nixon.

"These are very fast changing times," Rockefeller told a news conference he held after explaining his position to a meeting of Republican county chairman and the state party's executive committee.

Rockefeller sees himself as a candidate the party could turn to if Nixon were forced to drop out of the running. The governor will not speculate on what he considers possible developments that could affect Nixon's position. And, the governor said, he will neither encourage nor authorize any campaigning in his behalf.

The state's 96-vote delegation to the convention will back the governor's long-shot approach. It will go to the convention uncommitted, Republican leaders decided after hearing the governor.

Rockefeller vetoed a proposal that he allow himself to be nominated as a favorite son. He urged instead the "wait-and-see" approach.

There is a good chance Rockefeller himself will lead the delegation, despite his announcement he would not attend for fear he would be drafted to run for vice president.

He told the GOP leaders he would go to the convention if he had firm promises from GOP national leaders that he would not be put under pressure to accept the vice-presidential nomination.

The possibility Rockefeller might go to the convention drew a kind word from the Republican national chairman, Thurston B. Morton.

The Kentucky senator, said that "Republicans in all states would like to see Rockefeller at the convention." On the nomination, he said, delegates will have "full freedom of choice."

Nixon had no direct comment. An aide noted confidently that the vice president was on record as willing to welcome competition for the nomination.

Dogs Becoming Best Friends Of Women

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — The dog, once man's best friend, today has become women's best friend, says Stephen Baker.

"In the cities the dog often takes the place of the old-fashioned marriage arranger. A dog is the best husband-catcher a single girl can find," he says.

Baker, a 6-foot-4 art director for a major advertising firm here, is author of "How to Live With a Neurotic Dog." He is convinced that if America has 25 million dogs "at least 25 million of them are neurotic—and that's a conservative estimate."

The reason is that living a dog's life in a civilized world is bound to make anybody neurotic.

But he believes the best Leap Year investment a girl in search of matrimony can make is to buy a dog—and take it for a walk.

"If they meet a bachelor out walking his dog, the wosome at once becomes a foursome. It's not a pickup. It's just one dog greeting another dog," he pointed out.

But in using a canine Cupid to help her track down a soulmate, Baker emphasized, it is important that a girl pick a pooch that best suits her own personality.

"A girl who is tall, elegant and aloof should choose a Russian wolfhound or Afghan hound, which gives the same appearance," Baker said.

"If she is friendly and outgoing, she should stroll with a French poodle. It is the friendliest of dogs."

Baker has owned dogs ranging from a Pekinese to a Newfoundland.

"No girl should walk with a cocker spaniel, a bulldog or a police dog," he said.

"The spaniel is the most neurotic of dogs, and raises the suspicion she is a complete neurotic herself."

"The bulldog is aggressive and masculine and makes her look that way. A shy man will cross the street rather than meet a girl with a police dog. He is afraid this is the kind of girl who would check his every movement if he married her."

What is the best combination of all?

"It is when a girl with a mongrel meets a man walking a mutt," said Baker decisively. "Each then realizes the other is broad-minded, nonconformist and not interested in trying to keep up with the Joneses."

"They should have a perfect marriage."

Tobacco Tips

By S. J. WEEKS

Pitt County Tobacco Agent

Each year insects reduce the value of the tobacco crop. Insect abundance varies from field to field and from year to year, therefore, it is essential that growers examine their tobacco fields frequently and treat with a recommended insecticide when necessary. It is very important that insecticides be used when the insect damage is serious enough to justify the expense. In order to avoid excessive insecticidal residues and to save money, do not make applications using excessive rates.

The flea beetle often causes damage to the tobacco crop soon after it is transplanted in the field. This insect can be controlled by applying either DDT, Endrin or Dieldrin.

Grasshoppers cause serious damage in some fields. They can be controlled by applying either Aldrin, Heptachlor, Dieldrin or Chlordane. These insecticides should be applied evenly to the tobacco foliage and to barrier strips 15 to 30 feet wide around the tobacco field.

Budworms are usually prevalent each season in the tobacco fields. Unusually close examination is often required to detect this insect before it does considerable damage. When controlling the budworm, the insecticide should be applied in the bud of each plant. This can be done best early in the morning, preferably before 10:30 a.m. Since the budworm is closely related to the corn ear worm, corn meal bait is one of the most effective means of control. Bait can be prepared by mixing one part DDT or TDE with 75 parts of corn meal. Endrin and Thiodan can also be used and will give effective results when applied as a dust or spray.

More information on rates of application of insecticides for tobacco insect control can be obtained from the County Agricultural Agent's Office in Greenville.

LIGHTHOUSE vs VOLCANO

Lava slowly engulfs entire ground area of the Cape Kumakahi Light Station. Only buildings left standing are water tank and engine room beneath tower. Shortly after this picture was taken, lava stopped flowing and lighthouse was saved.

The U.S. Coast Guard's Cape Kumakahi lighthouse on the island of Hawaii still stands today, erect and gleaming, despite a volcanic eruption that threatened its extinction. Several months ago, the Kilauea volcano, a few miles from the lighthouse, erupted, spreading destruction over a wide area. The nearby village of Kapoho was nearly wiped out. A flow of red-hot lava, in some places 40 feet thick, moved steadily toward the sea. The lighthouse and the two keepers' dwellings were in its path. Civilian Keeper Joseph Pestrella stuck doggedly to his post even after his wife and young son had departed. His assistant was in the hospital at Honolulu at the time. After a last warning, Pestrella placed the light in continuous operation on emergency power and left. His last act was to raise Old Glory over the station. A few days later the steaming lava closed in on the keepers' dwellings and destroyed them. It then suddenly divided and streamed toward the ocean in two rivers, one on each side of the tower, cutting off all access to it. But just when the tower seemed doomed by the lava's widening masses, the volcano stopped spouting and the lava stopped flowing. The lighthouse remained untouched.

1. Lava passes sides of station and enters sea emitting clouds of steam.

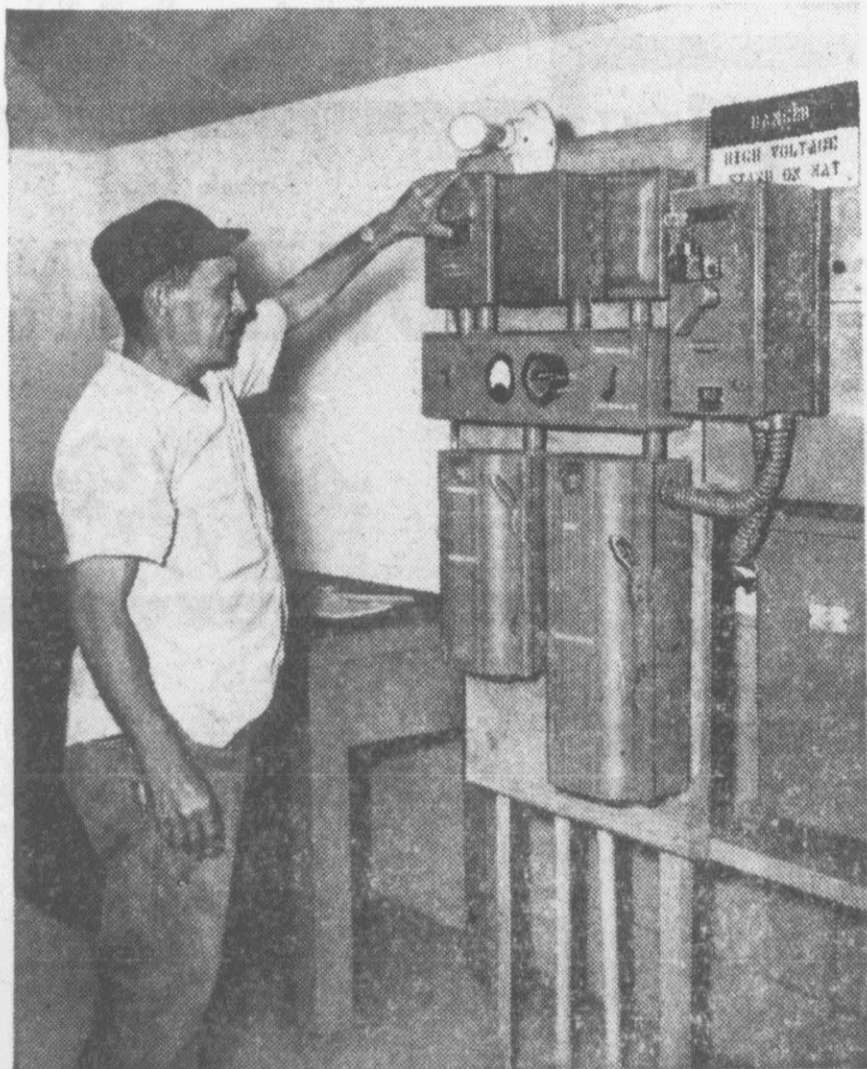

2. Seaman Billy Russell of Knoxville, Tenn., points to where lava is flowing into the sea. Area is 600 yards from Cape Kumakahi Light Station.

3. Civilian Keeper Joseph Pestrella and his wife watch eruption and wonder how soon the lava will reach their quarters at the light station.

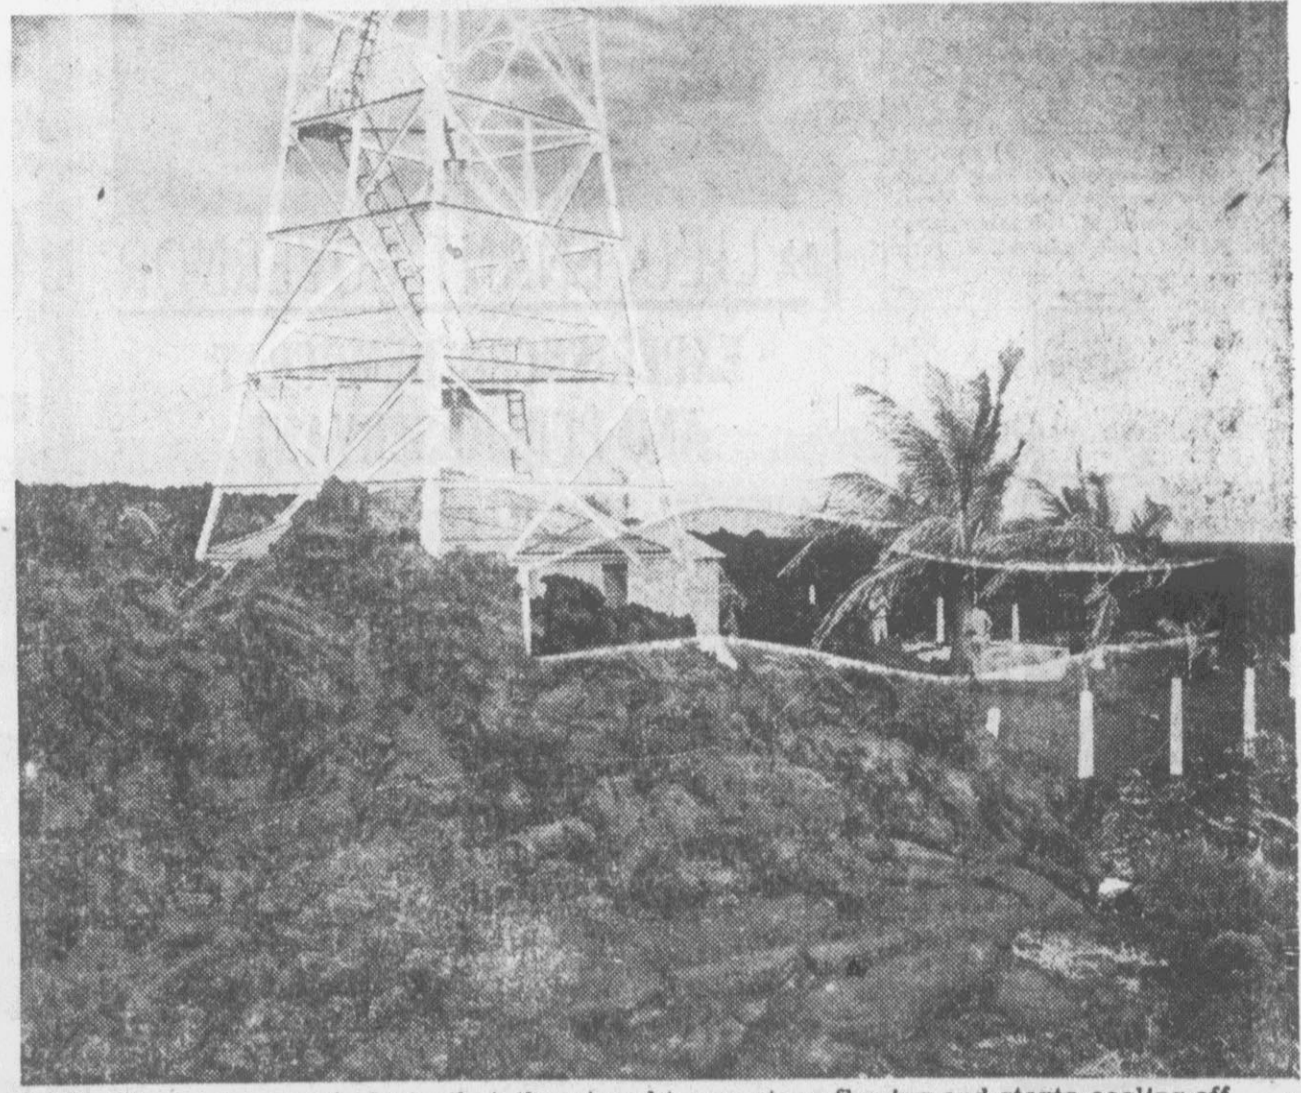

4. The Pestrellas remove valuables from their home prior to evacuation.

5. Pestrella turns on emergency power at station...

6. ...and then raises Old Glory before departure.

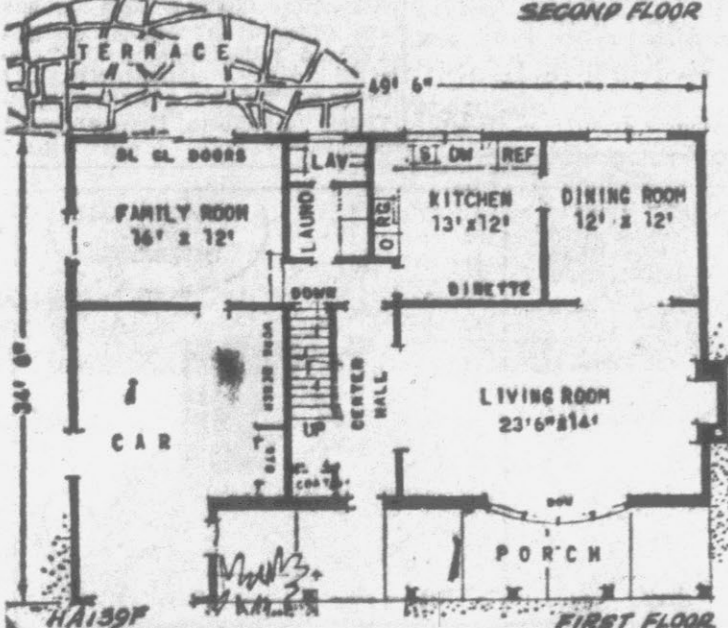

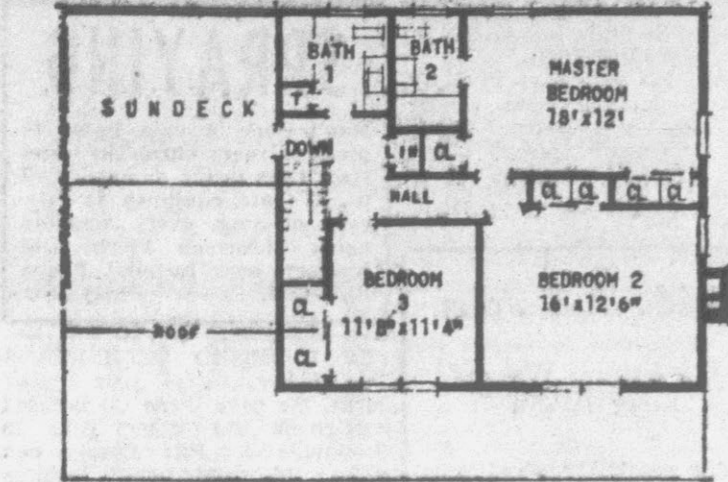

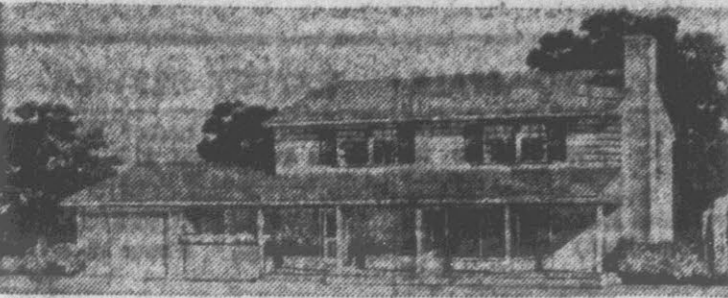

7. Lighthouse is saved. Lava that threatened tower stops flowing and starts cooling off.

Swedish Airman To Attempt Long Flight In Plane

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP)—Carl Olson, 35-year-old Swede, left here at 5:50 a.m. today in a single-engine plane on the first leg of a 5,450-mile flight to Stockholm. He expected to reach Bermuda, his first stop in six hours. He hopes to reach his native land Friday in the Piper Comanche plane.

From Bermuda, Olson plans to fly to the Azores — another 2,000 miles — and will bypass that area if the weather is favorable. "I understand they charge $35 for landing," he said in explaining why he hoped to skip the Azores. Lisbon, Portugal, another 1,000 miles, is his next scheduled stop. From Lisbon, he plans to go to Geneva, Switzerland, and then the final 1,000 miles to Stockholm.

Supporting Marilyn In Weird Film Production

By BOB THOMAS HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Tony Randall and Wilfred Hyde White were driving toward the "Let's Make Love" set. Randall (worriedly): Oh dear, I have a line today, I think. Something like "What a life!" White (soothingly): Cheer up, old boy. If you need help with it, call on me. Randall: Do you have any lines today? White: Heavens, no. I haven't had a line in a fortnight. Such grim humor has helped keep a hardy band of male performers from blowing their tops in the past six months. They are engaged in supporting Marilyn Monroe in one of the weirdest film projects in history.

Urbane Britisher White told of hurrying to finish a film in England so he could be here for the November starting date. He began "Let's Make Love" in mid-January, and his 10-week stay has stretched to six months.

VOTE FOR

TERRY SANFORD FOR GOVERNOR AND A NEW DAY FOR NORTH CAROLINA EDUCATION • AGRICULTURE • INDUSTRY

Terry Sanford's campaign for Governor of North Carolina offers the State a candidate with fresh viewpoints . . . a man of vigor, with imagination, with prudence . . . His experience is wide-ranging and balanced.

Terry is a leader. He is a church worker, a parent, a political campaigner. He has soldiered in combat, been a State Senator.

He knows North Carolina and her people. He has campaigned in every county, talked with people in every county because he wants to know and understand the needs and aspirations of the people. He believes that our government should be brought back to the people—should be close to the people.

The core of Terry's campaign for Governor is a "Crusade for Education."

"We cannot squander the lives of our children by sending them to schools that don't measure up," he says. "We must not be satisfied with second-rate educational opportunities."

His is a long-range program—"to achieve fully our economic potential by providing better educational opportunities."

"Public education is primarily a state responsibility," he says. "I am opposed to shoving the responsibility off on counties and towns, or doing nothing, and thereby inviting the Federal government to take over."

His goal is "quality education"—teaching the child to think for himself, to learn how to keep on learning, and to become educated, not just trained.

His campaign for a school program second-to-none would attract good people to the teaching profession and help make their teaching more effective . . . He wants a constant examination of teaching methods, and a study program that concentrates on basic subjects rather than frills . . . He recognizes that improvement in public education requires that people pay for quality education—financing that is geared to North Carolina's future.

Through development of our resources, and with energetic leadership that Terry Sanford offers, we can keep North Carolina growing . . . We can raise the revenue, increase the per capita income.

Terry Sanford believes our levels of earning and spending can be raised—and better schools provided—through development of a broad economic base, through industry and agriculture.

With renewed and dynamic emphasis on industrial development, we can take best advantage of the industrial revolution that is upon us. We need continued leadership and direction, planning and selection, to gain the advantages and avoid the blights of industrialization.

With the same sort of dynamic emphasis, we can strengthen and give new vigor to the State's traditional economic base—our farm economy. We have the people, the research facilities, the markets to be utilized. We do not intend to get out of the farming business.

Man on the GO for the State on the GO!

Enumerator Had To Spoil Story

DES MOINES (AP)—A census taker reasoned there must be some mistake. Here was a prosperous looking farm with two late model cars in the yard and even a private swimming pool. Yet the farmer had written on the census form that he didn't have an indoor toilet, or hot and cold running water in his home. "Leave it the way I filled it out," the farmer told the census taker. "I'm not going to have the government thinking the farmer is well off."

The enumerator changed the form to make it correct.

The Haydn Museum in Vienna, in memory of Franz Joseph Haydn, was reopened recently upon the 150th anniversary of the composer's death.

Correction

In Jenkins Motor Company's ad that ran in Tuesday's paper there appeared an error. Only the 1958 Ford was supposed to have been priced at $1295. This figure did not apply to the 1960 Renault Dauphine, 1959 Volkswagen or the 1959 Consul also appearing in the ad.

The Reflector regrets this error.

Sharpness Of Camera Eye On U-2 Plane Is Displayed

WASHINGTON (AP) — A U2 plane such as was downed in the Soviet Union took from 70,000 feet the sharply detailed photograph of a U.S. naval air station displayed by President Eisenhower on television Wednesday night.

The White House disclosed this today in an incidental manner in the course of seeking to clear up what it called some apparent confusion about the photograph.

Although the point was not mentioned at the White House, it appears to be a reasonable conclusion that hundreds of equally clear photographs of Soviet areas have been taken in the several years of U2 flights over the Soviet Union.

In his report on the summit conference collapse and the U2 spy plane episode, Eisenhower called it one point for an "open skies" aerial reconnaissance program under United Nations auspices.

Illustrating the effectiveness of such reconnaissance, Eisenhower showed a photograph, taken from 13 miles up, of the North Island Naval Air Station in San Diego, Calif. The White House said today the picture was taken from a U2 plane of the same type which figured in the May 1 espionage incident over Soviet territory.

The President told his audience Wednesday night:

"You may not be able to see them on your television screens, but the white lines in the parking strips around the field are clearly discernible from 13 miles up. These lines are just six inches wide."

Presidential press secretary James C. Hagerty said today that some who saw the picture, either on TV or reproduced in newspapers, concluded that Eisenhower was talking about prominent diagonal white lines which cover much of the upper left hand quarter of the photograph.

Those lines, said Hagerty, are of the air field and are much wider than six inches. He noted that Eisenhower spoke specifically of "parking strips around the field."

The photograph shows several automobile parking lots bordering the air field, and in the original photograph the lines to which the President alluded are clearly distinguishable.

Much of this detail almost certainly was lost to TV viewers and in reproduction of the photograph for newspapers.

Sanford Expects Second Primary

CONCORD, N.C. (AP) — Candidate Terry Sanford indicated today that he felt the four-man race for the Democratic nomination for governor would go to a second primary—and he would be one of the run-off candidates.

Sanford first gave that impression while addressing supporters here before starting a day-long tour of Cabarrus County.

Later, in a chat with a reporter, Sanford said:

"If we get out and really work (and he stressed "really"), I feel our lead will be enough to win in the first primary. If we don't have this work (by supporters), we'll be running in a second one."

He said he did not want to appear overly optimistic, or pessimistic, about the situation, but several times he made passing references to a second primary.

In addressing his supporters, Sanford said, "The best indication that our program is winning is the last-minute ads of the machine candidate who has been spending his time complaining of our program."

Healing Service Planned Tonight

The Ministry of Christian Healing will be held tonight at 7:30 p.m. at St. Paul's Episcopal Church. The Rev. John W. Drake, Jr., will present a meditation on St. Mark 5:25-34, the healing of the woman with an issue of blood. Hymns of healing will be sung by the congregation. The laying on of hands will be offered for those desiring this ministry.

Christian healing is taking a larger part in the Church's ministry. More and more people are recognizing the essential element of the spirit in good health. By prayer, by faith, and by understanding the whole body, mind, and spirit everyone can know the fullness of life. The strength and well being of the whole man is the concern of man by bringing to actual reality the presence of the Healing Christ. This healing service offers the point of contact with the power of Our Lord to redeem and to renew.

Troubles of the mind, emotional disturbances, physical maladies with spiritual origin come under the special care of this Powerful Christ. The spiritual need of our time is readily apparent. This healing service is available to men and women of need. Spiritual hunger can be satisfied and faith and trust renewed in this pious confrontation with Jesus Christ.

These healing services are a monthly observance (last Thursday) in St. Paul's Parish. People of this community are invited to be present. The prayers of faithful people are requested and the presence of all is desired.

The order of St. Luke will meet immediately after the service.
