Cuban Munitions Dump Is Exploded

HAVANA (AP) — Cuban army officials today said it was premature to say anything about the origin of a munitions dump explosion that rocked Havana with the force of an earthquake, killing one person and injuring more than 50.

The munitions dump was on a tongue of land less than a mile from where the French ship La Coubre blew up March 4 while unloading munitions, killing about 100 persons.

Castro suggested that U.S. officials were to blame for the La Coubre explosion but admitted he had no evidence to back up his suspicions. U.S. Secretary of State Christian A. Herter denounced Castro's statements as baseless and accused him of attempting to stir up anti-American feelings among Cubans.

A hymn was sung and candles, held by each person, were lighted from one person to another. A prayer and the friendship circle closed the meeting.

The following menu was served: tropical fruit punch, Pharaohs chicken on snow-flake rice, tiny whole Harvard beets, green beans, congealed vegetable salad with cream dressing, miniature clover-leaf rolls and butter, lime ice with petit fours, and iced tea.

Real Accomplishment For Greenville

Low bids on Greenville's sewerage disposal plant, well within estimates and funds available for the project, put Greenville one step away from bringing to reality this much needed facility.

The bids received Friday likewise assure the project will be brought to completion without the necessity of a bond issue on the part of Greenville and its Utilities Commission.

It is indeed no small accomplishment when a city the size of Greenville is able, through long-range financial planning, to afford its people a million-dollar-plus facility such as the sewerage disposal plant without the necessity of a bond issue. The Utilities Commission deserves high commendation for the sound planning which has made this possible.

In planning over a period of years for this project, the Utilities Commission has built up in its sinking fund more than a million dollars earmarked for construction of a sewerage disposal plant. In addition to these funds, there is also available to the city for the project some $250,000 in federal matching funds.

Had it not been for the careful financial planning by the Utilities Commission for this project over a period of years, Greenville voters would now face the necessity of a bond issue to finance construction of the project. The fact that careful financial planning was carried out over a period of years makes possible the plant without a bond issue.

Approximately one-half the million dollars now in the sinking fund for this project came from the sale of a portion of Greenville Utilities rural lines to Carolina Power and Light Company several years ago. In addition to this large sum, the Utilities Commission since 1954 has added to the fund each year amounts ranging from $20,000 to $200,000 as conditions permitted. The interest drawn each year by this sinking fund has likewise added to the total sum available for the project.

It is gratifying indeed that bids on the project were well within estimates of the cost and well within the funds available.

It is equally gratifying in this era when a considerable portion of capital expenditures by governments at every level is done on the strength of future revenues, that Greenville is able to finance this important new facility out of funds that have carefully been put aside, rather than by borrowing money against future revenues.

Time For Extra Care By The Lawmakers

With the last days of June running out and Congress anxious for adjournment before the national political conventions, a natural setting is created for the passage or unwise legislation and the rejection of needed laws in the rush for adjournment.

It is a situation in which every legislative body on both the state and national level finds itself when adjournment is near at hand and the backlog of business to be handled remains huge. In the interest of time debates are cut short, committee considerations are hurried, floor actions are taken in rapid succession.

Under such circumstances, it is relatively easy for unwise legislation, usually in the form of amendments, to gain approval and become law. It is a time when appropriations that otherwise would be rejected are added to pending bills and are pushed through in the headlong rush to wind up the business at hand.

The days immediately ahead are important indeed to members of Congress and the people of this country. Though this session of Congress has been tedious and lengthy consideration has been given many matters, much work remains to be done before adjournment. Leaders are now pushing for a more rapid pace as the legislative wheels of the nation turn. Members of the House and Senate are anxious to wind up their affairs in Congress.

In spite of the adjournment deadline which they face, members of Congress must be more careful of their votes in these final days of the session than ever before. They will be pushed for quick answers on important matters. They will be asked to vote 'yes' or 'no' on matters to which they have given little if any consideration.

This is a time for extra caution. It is the time to be on the look-out for hasty conclusions that will result in poor legislative proposals being enacted.

Legislation passed by Congress in June and early July is just as important, just as binding, as that passed in January or April when there is no rush to get the business completed. If bad legislation gets through, it is just as detrimental to the nation and to the people, in January or July.

Unemployment Still With Us

By RALPH ROBEY
It may be recalled that the employment and unemployment report for March was highly unfavorable. The explanation was that the weather over a large part of the nation in the survey week, April return to the normal trend and revealed substantial improvement in both categories. We now have the report for May. It again shows normal seasonal changes.

Actually the April improvement in unemployment was not as great as expected. In February the seasonally adjusted unemployment was 4.8 per cent of the civilian labor force. In March the figure rose to 5.4 per cent. April should have erased this entire increase but it failed to do so and in that month unemployment, seasonally adjusted, still was 5 per cent of the civilian labor force. In May there was a decline of 200,000 in the number of the unemployed, but the percentage of the civilian labor force unemployed dropped to only 4.9 per cent.

It is not possible to be complacent about this volume of unemployment. Clearly it is higher than either necessary or desirable from both the economic and the social viewpoints. However there are some favorable elements in the picture when one examines other than the total figures.

For example the long-term unemployed, those who have been seeking work for 15 weeks and over, declined in May by 300,000, and this brought the total of this group well below its earlier level. Secondly, nearly half of the unemployed have been seeking jobs for less than 5 weeks. Finally the average factory work-week reversed the downward trend of the past three months and rose to 39.8 hours. This was in spite of a reduction in hours of work in steel plants. As a result of this longer work-week average weekly earnings rose 91 cents to $90.74.

On the other hand the volume of employment in factories continues to drag. It currently is well above a year ago, but the total is still 400,000 below the pre-recession level. This means that employment in manufacturing is not increasing as rapidly as production, and it appears that this probably will remain a permanent trend.

The failure of factory employment to increase as rapidly as output is largely explained by the fact that during prosperity management is less cost-minded than normal and builds a larger labor force than is necessary. With a recession management reviews its operation closely and eliminates those workers who are not essential. Ultimately, it is true, management may again become careless and build a larger labor force than it needs, but this takes time and it has not happened over-all up to the present.

The reason for thinking that manufacturing will continue to use less labor in relation to production than heretofore is that wages have not attained a level where there is a tremendous urge to use machines rather than manpower when ever possible. Such technological unemployment does not indicate that the total number of jobs will be less. Most factories that buy machines attempt to find other spots for the displaced workers, and in many instances this is done completely. In every shop, too, there is a certain number of resignations, and this gives leeway for introducing machines without the necessity of discharging workers.

June figures will show a sharp increase in both employment and unemployment. This will be because a large number of persons get out of school and start looking for jobs. Following that there will be a month by month decline until October, for purely seasonal reasons.

Too much weight must not be put on the figures for any one month, but we must recognize that we have, and will have for a long time, a genuine problem in connection with unemployment.

Opinions In Brief

"The railroads, contrary to the belief of some people, are not trying to get out of the passenger business. They want to continue to provide service and the best possible service, when travelers demand and use it. But to force them to continue to operate near-empty trains, over routes that have been almost wholly preempted by the automobile, just doesn't make sense."—Industrial News Review.

An End To Mild Policy

Copyright, 1960, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

In 1904 and 1905, Theodore Roosevelt established the principle that as the United States, under the Monroe Doctrine, objected to any European power intervening in the affairs of Latin America, the United States had a moral responsibility to maintain order and protect life and property in these countries.

In his 1904 annual message, President Theodore Roosevelt said:

"It is not true that the United States feels any land-hunger or entertains any projects as regards the other nations of the Western Hemisphere save such as are for their welfare. All that this country desires is to see the neighboring countries stable, orderly, and prosperous."

Then he declared American policy as follows:

"Chronic wrongdoing, or an impotence which results in a general loosening of the ties of civilized society, may in America, as elsewhere, ultimately require intervention by some civilized nation, and in the Western Hemisphere the adherence of the United States to the Monroe Doctrine may force the United States, however reluctantly, in flagrant cases of such wrongdoing or impotence, to the exercise of an international police power."

Theodore Roosevelt never begged the issue. He was first of all an American. It was in that spirit that in this same message, he laid down this guiding statement:

"We would interfere with them only in the last resort, and then only if it became evident that their inability or unwillingness to do justice at home and abroad had violated the rights of the United States or had invited foreign aggression to the detriment of the entire body of American nations."

In his 1905 annual message, Theodore Roosevelt wrote for contemporary America:

Other Editors Saying World's Egg Basket

(Goldsboro News-Argus)
Dream of making southeastern and central Eastern North Carolina the egg basket of the nation comes nearer being realized.

This week in Pender County dedication of the Carlisle Egg plant was the time for a big county wide celebration. This market has a capacity of 2,500 cases of eggs a week. Its goal is the purchase of $2.5 million worth of eggs annually from farmers of Duplin, Pender, Wayne, and Onslow and farmers in nearby counties.

The state has heard of the great progress in recent years in poultry and egg production in Pender and Duplin Counties. Wayne County is getting its part of that development. Even close students of the changing agricultural situation were surprised to discover that poultry in Wayne has moved up to fourth place in gross income for poultry.

Back of the cheering in Pender and Duplin over the opening of the big plant there is a story of pioneering. We see the results of progressive enterprises and promotions begun years ago.

Heeding the petitions of forward-looking men such as Vivian Whitfield, Pender commissioners in 1945 authorized the employment of a poultry specialist. Two years later Pender became an early small rural county to build for its farmers a cooperative freezer locker plant.

Pender farmers about that time made a start in a cooperative move to sell graded and certified eggs direct to the consumer. The little band had its own trade name and attractive cartons for its product.

There was the start of what grew into the plant Pender and adjoining counties now are celebrating.

What is the basis for dreaming of making that region the great egg (and poultry) basket of the nation?

Climate is ideal. Soil is rich and plentiful for the production of feed. The region is within a few hours' drive for trucks of the nation's greatest centers of population.

Despite the depressed poultry market of recent months, poultry is holding its own. It has attracted operators who are in the business to stay and meet what competition comes. Other counties join with little Pender in celebrating the opening of the Carlisle operation.

look at its Soviet-trade policy and the chances are better than even that relaxation of restrictions will be recommended.

Moderate aluminum prices. Fast expanding aluminum production is thrust into a market that doesn't grow as fast, and although new uses of aluminum—some sensational—are being devised, there is still enough of the stuff to prevent a price hike.

Cheaper copper. Disruption of the Chilean economy by the series of earthquakes has generated fears that copper prices may soar. However, the amount of available copper indicates a price rise is unlikely; in fact, softer prices may be ahead.

Costlier heating oil. Despite the world oil glut, home heating oils will go higher in summer—when they usually recede. Residual oil imports have been cut back, creating a tight supply situation—on which heating oils thrive.

OLD PROMOTER PLANS

There was that gleam in the Old Promoter's eyes when he walked in today. The gleam spelled "proposition" and it wasn't long before he was explaining it.

"I am organizing a company to build cable cars," he said. "There will be no cables, however. And we won't sell them to run on tracks, but for people to install in their backyards. Imagine the fun of having a picnic in a cable car, with the kids working the grips and brakes, and clanging the bell just as if they were passing the St. Francis Hotel in Frisco." "Watch your language!" I warned.

"San Francisco," he corrected himself. "Now for a slight investment—" "A nickel is all you get," we said. "That's the original price of a ride on a cable car, and that's all I risk on being taken for a ride again." He left, disconsolate. He will be back.

Stocks In Bear Market

By ROGER BABSON

BABSON PARK Mass., — I have been thinking of this subject for some time, and have about concluded that seeing what happened in the last bear market may be the best way of answering this question. It will be noted that I have arranged the industry groups according to their percentage of decline.

STOCKS WHICH DECLINED ONLY 10 TO 20 PER CENT

Among the industry groups that suffered the least are the ship-building and tire and rubber-goods stocks, which declined about 15 per cent. Home electric appliance stocks fell 17 per cent, department-store stocks went off 19 per cent. This listing is likely to change, however, and stock groups which may suffer the least in the next bear market may be those relating to the supplying of electric power, the oil and gas producers, and bituminous coal mining. Fertilizers should have increased use, with the need to feed a growing population; this should enable this industry to come under the category of relatively small declines. Stocks of companies owning large tracts of timber lands which supply the basic raw materials for certain synthetic fibers and plastics may also be able to hold their own, especially because of their inflation-hedge characteristics.

STOCKS WHICH DECLINED 20 TO 30 PER CENT

The industry groups which showed up next best included the following: Soft drinks and canned foods, which declined 20 per cent; shoes, down 23 per cent; chemicals, publishing, and motion picture, down only 25 per cent; building materials stocks, down 26 per cent; farm machinery off 27 per cent; aircraft manufacturing down 28 per cent; and industrial machinery stocks down 29 per cent. Aircraft manufacturing, however, may fall off more.

STOCKS WHICH DECLINED 30 TO 40 PER CENT

Stocks in the auto, sugar refining, brewing, mail order, general chain store merchandising, and cement groups declined around 30 per cent. Paper stocks fell 32 per cent. Stocks in the textile and apparel and steel industries declined 30 per cent. Radio broadcasting groups declined 37 per cent. Meat packing stocks declined 39 per cent. Because of their timber land and ore holdings, certain of the paper steel, coal, and gas stocks may do better in the next bear market. Unless there is massive unemployment, the merchandising and apparel groups also may suffer to a lesser degree than in the last bear market.

STOCKS WHICH DECLINED MORE THAN 40 PER CENT

The groups which suffered the most included the radio and television manufacturers, and mining and smelting, which were off 41 per cent. Truck manufacture stocks dropped 42 per cent. Air and rail transportation stocks were off 45 per cent. Copper, lead, and zinc stocks fell 49 per cent; also aluminum stocks. The carpet and rug group declined more than 50 per cent. Over the long run, stocks of natural resource companies, should ultimately prove valuable to the investor with patience.

WHAT ABOUT ELECTRONICS STOCKS?

During the last bear market, the electronics stocks were not popular. There was then an attempt to fire long-range missiles, or to circle the moon with rockets. This is something which has developed during the present bull market, which has been in existence for about ten years. This electronic and space work might change the positions of many of the groups listed above.

My own opinion is that these electronic and space stocks would be listed with those which showed a decline of over 40 per cent. I, of course, am in favor of a gradual reduction in armaments. On the other hand, if gradual disarmament comes about, I fear that the electronic and space stocks could severely suffer. In fact, a good many of the other stock groups mentioned above would do well to hold their record of the last bear market.

Baptist Church Scene Of Wedding

FARMVILLE—The First Baptist Church of Farmville was the setting for the wedding of Miss Barbara Anne Paramore and William Edward Wooten Sunday, June 26, 1960.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Paramore of Farmville. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Wooten, Sr.

The Rev. E. N. Holmes, pastor of the church, officiated at the double ring ceremony. Mrs. Haywood Smith, organist, and Miss Henri Perle Johnson, vocalist, presided at the wedding music.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of Chantilly lace over tulle featuring a sabbina neckline etched in seed pearls and sequins with a back interest of a panel of net ruffles.

She wore an elbow length veil of illusion attached to a lace crown with seed pearls and tear-drop pearls. She carried a bridal bouquet of stephanotis centered with a white orchid.

Mrs. Gary Brooks of New Bern was her cousin Matron of Honor.

Miss Sandra Wooten, cousin of the groom, and Miss Phyllis Corbett of Fountain were bridesmaids.

The attendants wore dresses of pink silk organza featuring a midriff of pink satin. They wore pink bandeaus with circular veils and carried colonial nosegays of red roses and pink carnations sprayed with stephanotis.

The groom's father served as best man. Ushers were Roland Wooten and W. C. Wooten, Jr., brothers of the groom, Carroll Wooten, cousin of the groom and Larry Dilda of Fountain.

The brides' mother chose a blue lace dress with matching accessories and wore a corsage of pink cymbidiums for her daughter's wedding. The groom's mother wore a mauve rose dress of lace and chiffon with matching accessories and a purple orchid corsage.

The couple received in the vestibule of the church following the ceremony after which they left for a wedding trip to Niagara Falls and Canada.

The bride was graduated from East Carolina College, where she was a member of Pi Omega Pi.

National honorary business fraternity. She taught in the Scotland Neck School this past year. The groom was graduated from Farmville High School and is engaged in business with his father.

A short business session was followed by the devotionals and program. The scripture lesson was taken from Psalms 119. The general theme expressed the fact that the missionary society should try to encourage and educate our youth to be missionaries wherever they may be.

After closing the meeting with the benediction line sherrert and assorted party dainties were served.

At the conclusion of the program the hostess served open-faced sandwiches, toasted nuts, cake and punch.

Peaches Are Good In Summertime Meals

RALEIGH—Another good peach crop is in prospect for the South, with the harvest likely to top 15 million bushels. Prospects are for larger crops this year. North Carolina expects to harvest 1,350,000 bushels, compared to 1,250,000 bushels last year.

Peaches are now beginning to arrive on the market from Anson, Richmond, Moore, Scotland, Montgomery, Hoke, and Lee Counties in the Sandhills peach section. Weather conditions have been favorable so the quality is good.

Miss S. Virginia Wilson, food and nutrition specialist for the N.C. Agricultural Extension Service, says peaches are a fairly good source of vitamins A and C. Because they are low in calories they are good to include in your meals if you are trying to lose weight.

Miss Wilson suggests you use peaches often in your summertime meals.

Broiled Peaches

Place peach halves — either fresh or well drained canned ones — in a shallow pan. Dot each piece with butter or margarine. Run under broiler until heated through the "fringed" with brown. Serve hot with bacon for breakfast or with chicken or meat for dinner.

Peach Parfait Pie

1 pkg. lemon gelatin
1 1/2 cups boiling water
1 pt. vanilla ice cream
2 cups chopped ripe peaches
1/4 teaspoon almond extract
1/4 cup sugar
9 inch baked pie shell

Add boiling water to gelatin and stir until dissolved. Break up ice cream with a fork and stir into gelatin. Chill 10 minutes. Add peaches, sugar and almond extract to gelatin mixture. If desired, omit almond extract and add 1/2 cup chopped almonds and six macarons; crumbled. Pour into pastry shell. Chill until set. Garnish with sliced peaches.

Vacation Is Togetherness Time

By DOROTHY V. WHIPPLE, M.D., AP Newsfeatures

TOGETHERNESS—that's what you hear on all sides. Families who do things together are good families, and good families produce good children.

This is all very true, but it can be run into the ground too. Sometimes a little separateness is good for the soul. A man, woman or child may need a parcel of time to be himself in his own world. This is not necessarily an indication that the family is falling apart. A person sure of the "me" inside him comes back to the family with a greater contribution to make to group living.

Take a good look at yourself and at your family. Don't be pushed into a family jaunt for your vacation by the pressure of public opinion. On the other hand don't be pushed out of it in order to establish some mythical independence.

Make It Fun

A vacation is for fun. Do what is going to be most fun for every member of the family and do it without misgivings and without guilt.

Some families look forward with eager anticipation to getting away from the pressures of the regular life and having delightful blocks of free time to do together the things they all enjoy doing. Such families enjoy life together at home but never seem to have as much time as they would like to be together.

For such a family a cottage on a lake, at the seashore or in the mountains provides the atmosphere for talk and play. Families like this have a great deal of inner resourcefulness. They do not depend upon the outside world for their entertainment. They swim and fish, dig in the sand or climb mountains and picnic and their joy comes in doing these things together.

If the children are widely separated in ages an extra child or sometimes two to pair off with the family's children add good companionship. In such a vacation Mother still has all the household chores to do. If this is no burden to her she will have fun, too, in the outdoor environment.

But maybe Mother would like some freedom from the kitchen. Then perhaps a vacation in a resort would be good—some place where meals and housekeeping are provided. A resort offers other advantages. There are pleasures to seek apart from the family group. There are other people and various members of the family can enjoy new friends. A resort vacation combines the togetherness of the family unit with the possibility of as much separateness as desired.

Together or Not

Then there are gypsying vacations—trips to new parts of the country with every night or two spent in a different place. If you plan such a trip, look carefully at the ages and stages of your children. Long hours in a car can become very tedious, and little children become bored with sights. Ten-year-old Vance was far more anxious to stop when he spied a group of youngsters playing baseball than he was to look at a beautiful waterfall or a historic monument.

But maybe you don't want any part of a vacation where the whole family traipses off together. Perhaps Dad would just love a chance to go off with the boys on a fishing trip or maybe Mother would get a new lease on life by attending a church or club convention. Don't feel guilty if this is what you really want to do. Vacation is for fun. Plan a break in the year's activities that refreshes you up for the season ahead.

Feuding Governors Scuffling Out Those Party Lines

By JACK BELL
GLACIER NATIONAL PARK, Mont.—Feuding governors are scuffling out party lines as Democrats blast at political kinsmen and Republicans harpoon each other in this election year governors' conference.

With snow-thatched Rockies as a backdrop, the Democratic battle is hot and heavy between adherents of the top contenders for the party's presidential nomination—Sens. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts and Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas.

On the Republican political shooting range, it's Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York against a rampaging field of Republican state executives pledging their campaign all for Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

The score card on Sunday's opening-day round left the definite impression that a sizable majority of Democratic governors believes Kennedy needs only to tie the final strings to have the nomination in the bag.

This is disputed by Johnson's backers. But there seemed almost no sentiment among the governors—most of whom will head state convention delegations—for Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo) or Adlai E. Stevenson, who says he won't dodge a draft.

On the Republican side it was Nixon almost all the way. But there was an ominous note from the party's publicized lion wolf—Rockefeller—that the election is going to be "very tough and close race this year for the Republicans" to win.

In this vein, Rockefeller asked and got an early morning caucus of all the GOP governors present. He gave no advance notice of the topic of discussion.

Turning aside from their political jousting momentarily, the governors scheduled consideration of education problems at the first business session of their 52nd annual meeting. They will hear Prime Minister John G. Diefenbaker of Canada at their formal state dinner tonight.

Depicting New Villains Isn't Fair In Mysteries

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—In television, even in the Westerns, the villain is increasingly being depicted as a pathetic, pitiable fellow in need of competent psychiatric assistance.

That's all right for serious drama, but it isn't fair to use him in a mystery, to most of us an entertaining puzzle. In this form you got to have a villain who is a bad guy.

NBC's hour-long Mystery Show Sunday night was no mystery at all. It was, instead, a story about a fear-ridden husband and wife—he afraid that something in his past would be found out and she afraid of her husband.

What suspense there was involved whether Simon would toss his wife down a 100-foot cliff and what was causing her migraine headaches. That may be an adequate plot of a month or so of soap opera episodes, but it's not the stuff for a 60-minute evening mystery show while Alfred Hitchcock and his bright suspense tales are opposite on another network.

This one called "Fear Is the Parent" was pretty dull. It featured Mona Freeman, Arthur Franz and the interior of a perfectly delightful country house.

CBS radio will repeat its 55-minute recapitulation of events leading to the fall of France Thursday night (9:05-10) after receiving requests from listeners who missed it when it was originally broadcast on June 13, the 20th anniversary of that sad day.

Doug McClure who this season plays Flip Flippin in this season's NBC period "Overland Trail" will turn up next season playing a modern private eye in CBS's "Checkmate" series. The series promises well, incidentally. It was drammed up by Eric Ambler, one of the best in the mystery-and-suspense writing business.

ABC says its broadcast of the Johanssen-Patterson fight last week had the biggest radio audience in history for an entertainment or sports event. It was estimated by a ratings service at more than 50 million listeners and the network claims this total has been exceeded only by the numbers who listened to FDR's wartime speeches. And on a night when TV was competing with its Emmy award show, too.

Mexico's Potent Pulque Disappearing From Scene

By JOHN RUTLEDGE
MEXICO CITY (AP)—The potent native drink called pulque is slowly disappearing from the Mexican scene.

Pulque (pronounced pool'-keh) dates back before the Aztecs. Made from maguey cactus juice, it ranks with tequila and mezcal as Mexico's contribution to the world of hangovers.

Centuries ago pulque was reserved for the highest tribal priests, sacrificial victims and old men who had led useful lives.

When the Spaniards conquered Mexico in the early 1500s they enthusiastically adopted it. Making of pulque became a thriving industry. It was once so popular large saloons concentrated on it alone. Some had curb service—special high bars to accommodate customers on horseback.

Several types of maguey plants, much like the century plant in the United States, provide pulque, mezcal and tequila.

Pulque itself is from the sap of the cactus, the liquid being called aguamiel or honey water. Mezcal is a further fermentation of this juice. Tequila is made from the roots, crushed, cooked and processed.

Pulque is a milky, foamy drink with, to many, an unpleasant taste frequently altered by adding fruit juices. Fans drink it straight, sometimes with salt, sometimes mixed with powdered maguey worms.

It is potent, but not as strong as tequila and mezcal. But fermenting goes on and on and is difficult to control. Consequently pulque is hard to bottle. It is sold by the glass, filled from varied containers.

Hints Formosa Is Peiping Price

TOKYO (AP)—Red China indicated today that acquiring Formosa might be Peiping's price for going along with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's policy of peaceful coexistence with the capitalist world.

Mme. Sun Yat-sen, a vice president of Red China and widow of the founder of republican China, declared: "China is willing to co-exist peacefully with anyone, even imperialism. In fact, we have to coexist with it (because) imperialism exists as an objective reality."

But she added: "We will not allow U.S. imperialism to rob us of our own territory (Formosa). We have not won, after untold sacrifices, the independence of our nation and the benefits of our Socialist (Communist) revolution just to give them away under the false illusion of maintaining peace with insatiable imperialists."

Mme. Sun Yat-sen, now 69, is the former Soong Ching-ling and a sister of the wife of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, president of Nationalist China, which controls Formosa.

Red China's official Peiping radio broadcast in her declaration, which appeared in an article written for Peiping newspapers today. It appeared to take a softer line than previous Peiping assertions that coexistence was out of the question.

Crossing Wreck Kills 2 In Truck

KEYSVILLE, Va. (AP)—A tractor-trailer from North Carolina and a Southern Railway freight train collided at a grade crossing in southside Virginia last night. Two men in the truck cab were killed. Both were believed to be from Winston-Salem, N.C.

Fire and explosion followed the smashup, in which the diesel engine of the southbound freight train dragged the cab of the truck for 300 yards.

Traffic on U.S. 15-360, one of the southside's main arteries, was backed up for as much as 12 miles in the height of the Sunday evening crush.

The front end of the diesel engine was heavily damaged. All six cars behind the engine derailed and several caught fire. The train was hauling wood from Keysville to East Durham, N.C.

The tractor-trailer was owned by McLean Trucking Co. of Winston-Salem.

State police tentatively identified the dead truckers as D. J. Shepherd and R. H. Hickman, both of Winston-Salem. Both were badly burned.

There were no warning signs at the single-track crossing.

A Southern Railway spokesman said the diesel was a total loss. He said the loss of the engine was about $150,000 and the damage to the other cars, $50,000.

The city celebrated with a parade. Originally a mile and a half long, the boardwalk is now 5 1/2 miles long.

Composer Richard Rodgers, who wrote the music for "A Connecticut Yankee," "Oklahoma" and other Broadway musical hits, is 60.

Texas Gulf Coast Stricken By Heavy Rains, Floods

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Swift flood waters raced through a huge section of the Texas Gulf coast Sunday sweeping some persons to their death and forcing thousands from their homes.

The floods, caused by steady and heavy rains since Thursday, were called the worst disaster to hit some towns since a 1945 hurricane.

Eight persons drowned since Thursday. Two are missing and presumed dead.

Flood waters began to recede Sunday night but more thunder showers were forecast for today.

Up to 30 inches of rain fell in some areas since Thursday, forcing the Brazos River at West Columbia 10 feet above flood stage.

Fort Lavaca requested aid from the Navy and the 4th Army. Cots and blankets were sent to the city by helicopter and trucks.

While the floods caused widespread hardship many youngsters considered it an occasion for joy. They paddled down flooded streets in washtubs and floated in inner tubes.

Assistant civil defense director Floyd Miller of Houston said, "A woman called me and said a water skier was running up and down the street in front of her house."

Snakes from flooded bayou and creek banks searched for dry ground. They crawled on sidewalks in Houston, giving some persons more trouble than the floods.

Marine Capt. Tom Lucas helped man a rescue Jeep that took a maternity patient to a hospital.

They found her in a boat being pushed down a flooded Houston street.

Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Culver and their daughter, Diane, 2, left their Houston home after fighting the rains and winds through the week-end.

A number of shingles blew off the roof of their home Saturday. The weight of the water-soaked rock wool insulation caused the ceiling to collapse in their living and dining room Sunday. Culver put a tarpaulin over the roof but it blew away. Then Culver decided to stay with relatives.

Paris of Port Lavaca, a city of 10,000, were covered by more than five feet of water following 30 inches of rain. Typhoid serum was flown into the city.

Two boys drowned at Port Lavaca. Arthur Garza and Nieves Garcia, both 13, were wading in a street when they were knocked down by the swift current and swept into the city harbor.

Jay Hale, 47, an Aransas Pass, Tex., shrimp, drowned and two other shrimp boat crewmen were presumed drowned Friday when their boat sank in a tropical storm.

William E. Hamm, 32, a fireman, fell into Braes Bayou in Houston and drowned Sunday.

Lee McKeen, 24, and Calvin Joseph, 16, drowned in Houston flood waters Sunday.

Willie Rodriguez, 35, of Staples, Tex., and Armando Ibarra, 25, of San Marcos, Tex., drowned Saturday night when their car was washed off a culvert in the Seguin area west of San Antonio.

Outdoor Meals Subject Of HD Demonstrations

Eighteen home demonstration clubs held meetings on "Outdoor Meals" during the month of June.

Mrs. Amelia S. Capehart, county Negro home economics agent, said.

The women were shown how to make inexpensive barbecue pits in less than 15 minutes, the use of it as well as the commercial grill.

Mrs. Capehart said.

Members were instructed to start the fire at least a half hour before beginning to cook and follow manufacturer's directions for purchased equipment. The best outdoor menus, Mrs. Capehart said, are those which permit the home-maker to prepare simplified meals.

She said one should never use gasoline or kerosene to help the fire along.

The following leaders gave demonstrations: Mrs. Estella Edwards, Calico Home Demonstration Club; Mrs. Lucila Clemons and Mrs. Suddie M. White, Sally Branch Club; Mrs. Margaret Pitt and Miss Lucy Dupree, Fountain Club.

Conference

During June, the following club members attended the Annual Farm and Homemakers' Conference, June 14-17, at A & T College, Greensboro.

Fraxton and Mike Annie King, Ayden; Mrs. Mable Moore, Mrs. Suddie Sharpe and Mrs. Vernia Jordan, Sally Branch Club; Mrs. Lillie Wilson, Grimesland; Mrs. Amelia S. Capehart, home economics agent for Pitt County.

The meeting extended for four days.

Family Picnic

A family picnic was held by the leaders of the Calico Home Demonstration Club on June 14 at the home of Mrs. Lena B. Chapman. Forty-five adults and youths attended the outing, a climax to the half-year home demonstration club program and activities.

Swift Creek and Sally Branch Community Club members held their first outdoor cookouts June 7 and June 24 as part of the year's program.

The following home demonstration schedule has been released by Mrs. Amelia Capehart, Negro home economics agent for Pitt County:

Club Ready For 'Second Phase'

AYDEN—E. F. Johnson, president of the Ayden Golf and Country Club, told members last week that the club is now ready for the second phase of its program: a swimming pool and club house.

He spoke to 125 members and guests at a dinner meeting, during which they inspected the progress of the golf course and heard other speakers.

Bill Stroud, Mrs. Edison Gibson, Mayor Frank Peterson and Corey Stokes discussed advantages of having facilities available now.

The complete plan outlined by the Board of Directors included: first, a golf course; second, a swimming pool and club house; third, other needed improvements as voted by the members.

The speakers discussed the added attractions the club would offer to possible new citizens, new industry, a builder of civic pride, keeping up with neighboring communities, recreation for all ages.

The speakers said a survey of a tentative pool had been made and estimated to cost between $9,000 and $10,500, with a guarantee that it could be completed within 30 days of the order date.

Anyone interested in joining the club at a rate of $100 each has been asked to contact any member and ask for an application blank.

A goal of 80 to 90 new members has been set.

Russians Don't Want To Believe Khrushchev

Editor's Note—William L. Ryan has revisited the Soviet Union after an absence of seven years. This is the first of five stories in which the Russian-speaking news analyst compares the Russians of Stalin and Khrushchev, pointing out the problems that today's Soviet leader faces in trying to discredit the United States. Ryan wrote these uncensored dispatches after leaving Moscow.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press News Analyst
The citizen of Moscow, expert at spotting foreigners, approaches

Excuse me," he says. "are you German?"
"You shake your head."
"English?"
"You say you are American. The shyness vanishes. He breaks into a broad happy smile and showers you with questions."
The pattern was much the same in many an encounter during long walks in Moscow's hot summer sun.

The smiles are tokens of one of Nikita Khrushchev's big worries. Many Russians are not willing to believe all he tells them about the West.

That is a factor behind the Kremlin's strenuous campaign to blacken the name of President Eisenhower and vilify American leadership. But my experiences, coupled with samplings by competent Western observers in the capital and countryside, indicate that the majority of Russians do not want to believe all that Khrushchev is telling them today.

Torrents of abuse have been poured on the United States by Moscow's propaganda machine since the U2 spy plane incident and the collapsed summit conference. But ordinary Russians remain cordial and friendly — perhaps more than ever — to visiting Americans.

Russian popular opinion did react to the American confession of spy flights over Russia. The reaction amounted to a feeling of hurt and disappointment rather than one of anger. The attitude seems to reflect genuine fear that Soviet-American relations will bring back the iciest days of the cold war, in contrast to the warmth generated by Khrushchev's United States visit.

There can be little question about this: Russians hope for a higher standard of living. They relate this hope to better relations with the United States. They relate their fears of dashed dreams to the specter of renewed cold war.

When Khrushchev called Eisenhower a man of peace, Russians were eager to believe it.

But in the Communist party, the Soviet army and among Communist allies — particularly the Red Chinese — certain elements viewed the Khrushchev peace campaign as dangerous to the communist world movement.

I, the U. S. S. R. Khrushchev's activities seemed to generate new pressures from the population. Khrushchev himself from time to time reacted with promises and often a show of performance.

Some among the eight million members of the ruling Communist party likely were worried. Were their privileges in danger? Just one straw in the wind: some new apartment housing projects were giving priority to those needing housing rather than offering first chance to privileged party members.

Some in the armed forces were annoyed. Officers, high as the rank of general and admiral, had been demobilized and sent to civilian tasks, often as administrators of enterprises in remote, primitive areas — hardly suitable places for officers' ladies accustoming to the amenities of a privileged caste.

And there were those Communists who saw the relaxing of international tensions as threatening to bring a weakened world movement.

Khrushchev evidently reacted to these pressures.

The U2 incident provided an opportunity to backtrack on the overdose of peace and smiles. At high levels, the cold war was on again. At lower levels, Russians were reluctant to accept the idea. Tourism has had a heavy im-

They often would ask, querulously: "Why does the United States want war?"
This time the refrain was: "We want peace, just as you do."
In Stalin's time, ordinary Russians concentrated their energies on the problems of day-to-day living. Under Georgi Malenkov, with his promises of abundant consumer goods, they keyed their hopes to being able to buy the things they long had yearned for.
Today, many a Russian has raised his sights. Hopeful of buying the things he wants, he even dreams of emulating the Americans and traveling on his own, unguarded and unshepherded, to foreign lands.
To such Russians elimination of dangerous tensions means hope that a living standard equaling the West's is an attainable goal. That's why they want to believe in better relations with the United States.

Attend Editors' Session In S.C.

Two members of "The Green Lights" staff of Rose High School are attending the Ninth Annual Winthrop Editors' Conference at Winthrop College, Rock Hill, S. C., from Monday through Friday.

Craig Worthington, editor-in-chief and Mrs. Lucy M. Worsley, adviser, are participating in the week-long workshop for high school journalists.

The conference is open to high school editors and their staffs. In addition, special activities are planned for adult advisers.

An outstanding staff of experienced educators will direct an intensive course in the editing and management of high school newspapers. The conference is divided into two divisions—one for beginners and one for those with a year or more of experience.

Although class attendance is mandatory, ample time has been allotted for recreation, which will include dances, movies, socials, golf, tennis, swimming, cycling, hiking, volleyball, basketball, softball and archery.

Members of the staff will be available for consultation on special problems. The library and all other facilities of the college have been offered to the group.

The advisory staff includes two North Carolinians, Walter Spearman, journalism instructor at the University of North Carolina; and Robert H. Morrison, former Winthrop instructor, now an investment banker at Charlotte.

'The Notables' On ECC Series

East Carolina College will present as the second attraction of its 1960 Summer Entertainment Series an evening of music on the light and tuneful side by a group of talented young artists appearing as The Notables.

The program will take place Thursday, July 7, at 8:15 in the Wright auditorium. The public is invited to attend free of charge.

Members of The Notables are Douglas Williams, marimba performer; Bettye Brown, soprano; and Ortrun Gilbert, pianist. Each is a talented and well-trained musician with a background of study or performance, or both, in this county as well as abroad.

Miss Brown appeared for three seasons as leading soprano with the Rochester, N.Y., "Opera Under the Stars." Recently she gave twelve successive performances in the demanding leading role in Carlisle Floyd's new American opera "Susannah."

Williams is described as an artist "destined to make the marimba a familiar instrument of the concert stage." He has appeared in successful performances throughout the country and has played in concert and on television with both orchestral and piano accompaniment.

Mrs. Gilbert, a native of Germany, received her music training abroad and at Birmingham Southern College, where she did graduate study in piano and composition. In this country she has taught music at the Birmingham Conservatory of Music in Alabama; in Shelbyville, Tenn.; and at George Peabody College in Nashville, Tenn. At present she is a member of the Middle Tennessee State College music faculty.

Philharmonic To Visit W. Berlin For Festival

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Philharmonic plans two concerts in West Berlin in September to lend a musical hand in the ideological fight against communism.

The Ford Motor Co. will foot the $150,000 bill.

With Leonard Bernstein conducting, the 106-member orchestra will play Sept. 22 and 23 at West Berlin's 1960 cultural festival.

Henry Ford II said Sunday he regarded the move "as a fine opportunity to aid the courageous people of West Berlin in their ideological battle with Communist East Germany."

To make the flying trip the Philharmonic will shuffle dates for a seven-week transcontinental tour starting Aug. 10. Scheduled appearances in four cities during the six-day period of the Berlin trip will be dropped and made up in a post-season tour next spring. They are Raleigh, N.C.; Columbia, S.C.; Richmond, Va.; and Baltimore, Md.

VAN WYCK MASON'S newest thriller Secret Mission to Bangkok

CHAPTER 33 Colonel Hugh North headed for Room Seven-C, Lex Ross's quarters. He did not press the ivory button. Instead, he used one of his slender bunch of keys to throw the lock of the door and eased himself inside noiselessly, his pistol out and ready.

heavy eyebrows, the putty nose that made his profile an exact replica of the missile expert's. Ross sat on the side of this bed, stripped to his T-shirt and shorts, the clothes he had worn in his masquerade on the floor beside him. Hugh permitted himself a moment of marveling at the actor's genius of disguise before he stepped into the room, the 38 held at waist level.

my card—Mr. Walter Wells, Hugh rapped out. His face still Bracht's, the actor widened his eyes. "Walter Wells? But I told you about that. What's the idea?" "You told me you used that name a long time ago when you named a mistake and got mixed up with a fashionable pinko crowd," North said. "You forgot to tell me you're still using the name."

n't play ball with me. If the Reds were after Bracht I'd give them Bracht—only it would be Lex Ross in disguise. "Wait a minute," North interjected. "You mean you got this idea and got out of bed and disguised yourself as Hans Bracht, at four in the morning, and then went out a walked the streets waiting for a Red agent to come down on you?"

"Sounds ridiculous, the way you say it," Ross conceded, "but that was the general idea. I thought the Commies would be sure to have this hotel staked out and when I showed myself as Bracht they'd just grab me and ask themselves no questions about why Hans Bracht would be up and around at that hour."

"No," the actor said in a low voice. "I-I didn't give that a great deal of thought. I knew they'd be rough on me but—well, I told you I had a lot to make up for."

Walter Wells, Hugh rapped out. His face still Bracht's, the actor widened his eyes. "Walter Wells? But I told you about that. What's the idea?" "You told me you used that name a long time ago when you named a mistake and got mixed up with a fashionable pinko crowd," North said.

Many Predicting U.S. Economic Gains Through '60

By STERLING F. GREEN
WASHINGTON (AP) — There's less business buoyancy this June than there was in January. Still, the midyear finds many more optimists than pessimists in Washington.

A majority of economists interviewed predict the economy will keep on making gains and setting records throughout 1960, and possibly beyond.

But the rate of advance has slowed markedly. It may slow further. National output probably will show less growth in the last part of the year than it did in the first quarter alone.

By the year-end, in the private view of government and industry economists, the economy will be moving on a high plateau having only a slight incline.

The time to watch out for a recession, if one is in the offing, is in early or middle 1961, some of the experts believe.

Meantime the outlook for the second half of 1960 is for:

1. A national output totaling about 507 billion dollars worth of goods and services. That is lower by around five billion, then the average of the new year's forecasts. It would be 5 1/2 per cent better than last year's gross national product, however.

2. A stable cost of living. Consumer prices are expected to advance by not much more than 1 per cent during the entire year, in spite of the May bulge caused by bad crop weather.

3. A rather sluggish job picture. Employment keeps setting records, but it is not full employment. Joblessness is staying stubbornly close to 5 per cent of the working force, compared with 4 per cent or less in recent years of high prosperity.

4. Rising incomes. Total personal income probably has topped by now the 400 billion-dollar mark; it reached 399 1/2 billion in May. The steady rise of wages, salaries and other forms of income has surprised many economists. Income rose during the 1959 steel strike and this year's March weather setback.

5. Strong consumer demand. Most economists believe the consumer is the real key to business growth in second-half 1960. The householder's proven willingness to borrow and spend should offset an already visible slowdown in business outlays.

6. Easier credit. The Federal Reserve Board's decision on June 3 to cut the discount rate — the interest charge on money it lends to banks — amounts to a proclamation that the board will wield its huge money power to stimulate business activity.

The board's move has a curiously stimulative effect. Nine times out of 10 in the past, Businessmen would have taken alarm. They would have interpreted a drop in the discount rate as an official recognition that a recession already was under way.

This time, the stock market went up and business confidence firmed. Businessmen generally accepted at face value the board's emphatic statement that "the economy is on a solid base and inflationary psychology has lessened."

Actually, the board moved deliberately and cautiously to make sure its action was properly timed. The reasons for its caution reflect an economic pattern of the past six months.

When the year began, economists and businessmen alike expected a rapid and possibly inflationary surge of demand. Industry had to replenish stocks depleted by the steel strike, and optimistic car manufacturers thought they could see a tremendous seven-million-car year ahead. It was commonly believed that inventory building would keep production climbing through most of the first half of the year.

But the inventory rush played out much sooner than expected. The auto outlook, while still very good indeed, wasn't up to the rosiest expectations. In March a noticeable business slowdown occurred. The board and everyone else had to wait and see whether a recession was developing or whether the economy had merely stalled temporarily in the massive March snows.

The latter guess proved correct. By the time this was clear, however, the 12 spy plane incident had aroused fresh inflationary alarms. Would businessmen and consumers rush to buy, in anticipation of a war scare and a crash defense buildup? If so, a cut in the discount rate would simply have added fuel to the fire.

Consumers and businessmen did not panic. The cold war crisis was taken in stride, and the board made the easier-money move that perhaps could have been made many weeks earlier.

The outlook now is one of conflicting trends, but most Washington experts believe that expansionary forces still have the upper hand.

Industry's outlay for new plant and equipment is scheduled to rise throughout the rest of the year. It will reach a 37 1/2-billion-dollar rate in the final quarter, by official estimate. Although this is a bit lower than some economists had expected, it represents enough spending to replace part of the drop in business outlays for inventory.

Auto sales surged with the arrival of spring. In May they hit the highest rate since 1955, the industry's best-ever year. A slowdown must be expected, however, as production lines are halted for the fall model changeover.

Steel production, which skidded to below 65 per cent of capacity after the strike-depleted pipelines were refilled, is expected to regain considerable momentum this fall when the auto orders pour in.

And although the federal government's budget operations will be strongly deflationary, the heightening of international tensions has encouraged sentiment in Congress for heavier defense spending. That could mean new military orders.

New orders to manufacturers have been diminishing in recent weeks. This could be a trouble sign, but consumer demand has been high and steady enough to suggest that it will be translated into heavier orders at the factory in the reasonably near future.

Homebuilding remains in the doldrums, still suffering from the tight-money squeeze. Yet over-all construction activity is at or near record levels. And the prospect of easier credit has aroused hope in the housing industry that more plentiful mortgage money will provide a shot in the arm.
