Senate Votes To Adjourn Saturday; Revolt In House

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate voted today to adjourn Congress Saturday for the political conventions and return to work Aug. 8.

The 63-26 vote backed up the proposal by Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas and sent the question onto the House. On that side of the Capitol, Republicans were in revolt against returning to session after the political conventions.

But Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex) said the recess plan would be approved. He said the House probably would vote on it Saturday.

Meeting in a forenoon caucus, 125 GOP House members overwhelmingly approved a stand of opposition to what their spokesman, Rep. Charles B. Hoveen of Iowa, called the "politically inspired" Johnson-Rayburn move to bring the Congress members back after the conventions.

Rep. Charles B. Hoveen (R-Iowa) announced the GOP stand after a party caucus.

He called the recess proposed by House Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex) and Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas "just a politically inspired move."

"There is still plenty of time to complete the public's business," declared Hoveen, spokesman for the caucus.

Johnson in comment on the House GOP action, said "these folks are day dreaming" if they think Congress could finish its work before the conventions. "It sounds like they don't want a (legislative) program," he added. "They know their own members won't let you pass one."

Johnson said it also sounded "rather partisan," since some Democrats in Congress serve on their party's national convention platform committee which is to start work in Los Angeles Tuesday.

Republican senators also talked over the recess plan at a caucus but took no stand as a group.

However, two GOP senators told newsmen that a show of hands produced about a 2-1 margin against the recess idea.

Hoveen said he expects to pick up some Democratic support in a fight against the recess.

He said there had been no attempt to sound out Republican sentiment in the Senate on the issue. The Senate Republican leader, Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, supported Johnson's recess stand Wednesday.

Since all members of the House must run for re-election, if they are to remain in Congress, there is greater collective sentiment there than in the Senate for getting back home to political fence-mending duties.

Only one-third of the senators need face the voters at the ballot boxes this year.

Before it became known Wednesday that Johnson wanted a recess, several Democratic senators and several Republicans said they are against the idea of a post-conventions session.

The general tenor of their remarks was that Congress would produce more political oratory than anything else by meeting in the midst of the presidential campaign.

Hoveen said House Republicans are willing to work around-the-clock and on weekends and holidays to finish up and adjourn before the conventions.

The Democratic convention, first of the party conclaves, opens July 11 in Los Angeles. The Republicans will meet two weeks later in Chicago.

Civil War Pension Applicant In Pitt

By HENRY HOWARD Reflector Staff Writer

Pitt County's list of Civil War widows receiving pensions is almost certain to increase soon for the first time since its original listing.

A new application by a veteran's wife recently, pending final approval, will up the county's list from two to three.

The application was received by Clerk of Superior Court D. T. House Jr. through the local Veterans Commission office recently and was passed along to the state auditor who disburses the monthly pensions.

House was confronted with a slight problem, however, before the application could be sent to Raleigh. According to state law, a county Board of Pensions must approve the applications of Civil War veterans' widows and recommend final approval.

That part was simple enough, but the law also stipulates the pensions board must be comprised of three direct descendants, in either the first or second generation, of the century-old war's veterans and the clerk himself.

Though a long-standing board, a vacancy had been created some years back with the death of F. C. Harding. Since there were no new applications to be reviewed, there was no immediate need for an appointment to fill the empty chair. As a matter of fact, said Clerk House, it was not expected the pensions board would ever have another application to review.

House was fortunate indeed to simply stroll across the courthouse corridor and discover the son of a man who had been in the thick of the interstate conflict.

County tax collector Robert S. Moyer was appointed and joined House, Charles P. Gaskins, and J. Hicks Corey on the pensions board. The new application was reviewed and sent to Raleigh for approval there.

The new applicant, whose name has not yet become public record, causes the unprecedented increase in the county's pension roll. The two widows currently on the list are Mrs. Lucy Worthington and Mrs. Willie P. Gardner. Both have comprised the entire list for a number of years.

Records in the clerk's office, beginning with 1920, show a steady decline in the number of pensions paid to veterans and their widows. In 1920, Pitt had 37 veterans and 37 widows receiving the grants.

By 1932, the lists had dwindled to only four veterans and 29 widows. By December, 1933, no veterans were left on the pension list and the list of widows had been reduced by three from the year before.

Then, by January, 1960, only two widows were left. This month, the pensions board received the application that will mark the first increase in the program's history here.

New Pastor For Jarvis Memorial

The Rev. Mr. Howard McKinnon McLamb, district superintendent of the Goldsboro district, will succeed the Rev. Mr. William M. Howard, Jr. as pastor of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church in Greenville.

The change was announced this afternoon in Rocky Mount at the annual North Carolina Conference of the Methodist Church.

Rev. Howard, who has been pastor of Jarvis Memorial since 1955, has been appointed pastor of the Trinity Methodist Church in Durham, one of the largest churches in the North Carolina Conference.

The Rev. Mr. C. F. Hirschel is reappointed to the St. James Methodist Church of Greenville.

Other appointments to Pitt County Methodist churches include: Bethel, Rev. C. W. Barbee; Stokes, Rev. Hal Callahan; Ayden, Rev. L. A. Aitken; Grifton, Rev. F. R. Shuller; Grimesland, Rev. J. G. Way; Farmville, Rev. Allen C. Lee.

Rev. McLamb, who has been named pastor of Jarvis Memorial Church, will move to Greenville from Goldsboro where he has been superintendent of the Goldsboro district since 1952.

Rev. McLamb, 49, is a native of Sampson County, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. McLamb of Clinton. He attended Clinton High School, Rutherford College and Duke University where he received his AB and BD degrees.

He is married to the former Axile Brock of Mount Olive, and they have two children, a son, Kinnin, 18, who graduated this spring from Goldsboro High School, and a daughter Juinevere, 16.

Prior to becoming superintendent of the Goldsboro district, Rev. McLamb served as pastor of Methodist Churches at Pink Hill, Fairmont Church in Raleigh, Ahoskie, and Hamlet. He served as president of the Raleigh Ministerial Association in 1948. He has organized or started a number of Methodist Churches including: Westover in Raleigh; Nobles Chapel, Pink Hill; Fellowship, Hamlet; North Goldsboro and Airboro Goldsboro; Aretia, in Duplin County; Grace in Clinton; West Smithfield and Asbury, Smithfield; and churches in Pinelevel and Salemburg.

President Vetoes Increase Of Federal Employee Pay

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower today vetoed a bill to raise the pay of 1 1/2 million federal employees by 7 1/2 per cent. He called the measure "indefensible by any light."

However, Eisenhower left the door open for a smaller hike—what he termed "a modest increase reasonably commensurate with the percentage rise" in the cost of living since the last general pay increase.

Democratic leaders in Congress are planning, however, an attempt to override the President's veto to override the President's veto of the 7 1/2 per cent measure.

The House is expected to vote on an overriding attempt Friday. In his veto message, Eisenhower said:

"This hastily-drawn bill violates every concept of fairness, every rule of reason and logic. Were this measure to become law, the already conspicuous unfairness and discrimination in our antiquated federal pay system would be greatly intensified.

"Instead of making progress—by improving the federal pay structure—we would actually be taking along step backward."

It takes a two-thirds margin of members voting in both the House and Senate to override a veto. The measure passed in both the House and Senate by more than that margin.

Eisenhower's statement that he would be willing to approve a smaller pay hike, in new legislation, appeared to be a move to rally votes to sustain his veto.

September Bond Vote Date Likely

September now appears to be the most likely time for the election to determine whether the city will issue $550,000 in capital improvement bonds.

That was the time most often mentioned as the Planning-Zoning Commission discussed the far-reaching bond issue last night.

City Manager Leonard Bloxam said this morning that the question of a date for the bond election will be on the City Council's agenda for its July meeting.

Bloxam told the commission that plans for the bond election had proceeded to the point where the date for the election must next be set.

The largest item in the bond issue will be a street improvement fund of $343,000. A portion of this money is earmarked for reconstruction of Elm St. from Greenville Blvd. to Tenth St.

There is also money for construction of sidewalks in strategic areas around schools. The remainder would be set up as a fund for paving of dirt streets within the city.

Used in conjunction with Powell Bill funds, which come from the state as street construction money, the fund should eventually provide for paving of all the city's streets, city officials believe. Property owners share in the cost of street paving and curb and gutter costs. This policy would continue under the new program which would be established by the bond issue.

A $22,000 item would provide for the replacing of the existing bridge over Greene Mill Run at Elm St.

Library bonds in the amount of $45,000 would be used to acquire land, erect a building a purchase equipment for a new Carver Library.

For Sheppard Memorial Library there would be a $14,000 item for various improvements to the building.

A $44,000 item would provide funds for construction of a sub-fire station in East Greenville and equipment for it.

Various municipal vehicles would be purchased with $42,000 which is set up as a separate item of the bond issue.

A Public Works Department building would be constructed with $13,000 in the bond issue.

Improvements would be made to the Main Fire Station with $8,000.

City Hall building improvements would be done with a $19,000 item in the issue.

Each of the nine items in the bond election will be voted on individually and any one item could be turned down while others were being approved.

Beauties Attend Pageant

ROCKY MOUNT — Approximately 20 Miss Universe contestants proved an additional attraction at the Miss Rocky Mount Pageant here last night.

The beauties visited the local pageant on their way to Florida. There is no connection between the two since the Miss Rocky Mount Pageant leads to the Miss North Carolina Pageant which is a preliminary to the Miss America Pageant in Atlantic City.

The Miss Universe contestants are on their way to Miami where the Miss Universe contest will be held from July 2 through the 10th.

Among the beauties were Miss Germany, Miss Holland, Miss Morocco and representatives of other foreign countries. Also in the group were Miss Virginia, Miss West Virginia and Miss Maryland.

The state representatives will appear in the Miss United States contest preceding the Miss Universe event. The one chosen to represent this nation will compete with the representatives of other nations for the Miss Universe title.

The group stopped in Rocky Mount as a part of the U. S. 301 highway promotion. U. S. 301 is known as the Miss Universe Highway.

They arrived here by special bus, had dinner with the Jaycees and then attended the pageant. They left this morning for Fayetteville where they were joined by the North Carolina representative in the Miss Universe contest.

In the local pageant, Linda Strickland of Middlesex was named Miss Rocky Mount. First runner-up was Mary Neal Scott and second runner-up, Edith Williford.

Among the judges for the pageant were Betty Lane Evans of Greenville, former Miss North Carolina and Mrs. Margaret Hardee of Greenville.

Other judges were Jim Reid, mayor pro-tem of Raleigh; Dottie Cameron, News and Observer woman's editor and Mrs. Carol Martin of Rich Square.

Head-On Crash Into Bus Is Fatal

ROANOKE RAPIDS, N.C. (AP)—Billy Young Riggsbee, 21, of Durham, was killed early today when his car crashed head on into a Carolina Trailways Bus.

Highway Patrolman J. G. Rhodes of Littleton said Riggsbee apparently went to sleep and his car swerved into the left lane into the path of the bus.

"He never knew what hit him," said Rhodes.

The patrolman said Riggsbee was heading east on U.S. 138 between Roanoke Rapids and Weidon and was about a mile east of Roanoke Rapids when he met the westbound bus.

Rhodes said the bus driver, Lynn Milton Briggs of Norfolk, Va., suffered only minor bruises to an arm and leg and a woman passenger a bruised elbow. He said there were about 10 passengers aboard the bus.

Officials estimated the loss at $30,000.

1500 Expected At Farm Home Week Observance In Raleigh

RALEIGH AROUND 1,500 Home Demonstration Club women are expected to attend the 52nd annual Farm Home Week at N.C. State College, July 12-15.

Miss Ruth Current, assistant director for the N.C. Agricultural Extension Service, says the activities will begin on Tuesday afternoon when the state council of Home Demonstration Clubs meets. Later in the evening there will be a tour of the Ellen Brewer Home Management House and the home economics department at Meredith College.

Miss Current says, "We will have many of the other state organizations' leaders present on Tuesday evening, July 12, for our formal opening. They will join with us in honoring Chancellor and Mrs. John T. Caldwell at a reception following the program in the coliseum."

On Wednesday afternoon, Iris Davenport (Mrs. Charles A. Mahan) of Lexington, Ky., will give a lecture-demonstration on the everyday necessities one should practice in living more graciously and getting along with others. There will also be a parade of the Home Demonstration women wearing hats which they have made during the past year. The honors and awards program will follow that evening in the coliseum.

The club women are invited to a tea at the home of Chancellor and Mrs. John T. Caldwell on Thursday afternoon. On Thursday evening, the women will be entertained by the Greensboro Chapter Chorus of the Society for Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America.

Miss Current says, "We have planned classes this year which we think will further the educational opportunities of the rural women."

The subjects include: "Frame Your Pictures—Frame Them Right", Miss Pauline Gordon, State College, and A.D. Wilder, Kinston; "Tour of John Harris's Garden, John Harris, State College; "The Art of the Potter", Mrs. Slater E. Newman, Raleigh; "The Nervous Woman", Dr. Hugh A. Matthews, Midway Medical Center, Canton;

"The Hope of Research in Cancer and What We Can Do About It", Dr. H. Max Schiebel, Watts Hospital, Durham; "The Wonder World of Modern Fabrics", William R. Martin Jr., School of Textiles, State College; "A Study of Leadership Needs", Mrs. Jewell G. Fessenden, USDA, Washington, D.C.; "Understanding Among Family Members", Dr. Albert Edwards, pastor, First Presbyterian Church, Raleigh, and Mrs. Corinne Grimsley, State College; "Learning to Appreciate Art", Charles Stanford, curator, State Museum of Art, Raleigh; "1960 Inheritance Law for N.C."

James C. Little, attorney at law, Raleigh; "A World of Good Eating", Nancy Carter, director of home economics, Colonial Stores, Inc., Atlanta, Georgia; and "Cancer—What Is Being Done in N.C.," Omer L. Heary, chairman, Commission to Study Cause and Control of Cancer, Lumberton.

Dr. John T. Caldwell, chancellor of N.C. State College, will speak at the 34 Annual Meeting of the N.C. Home Demonstration Clubs on Friday.

Miller-Madry Marry

Mrs. Thomas Price Miller

VIRGINIA BEACH, Va. — The wedding of Miss Patricia Ann Madry and Thomas Price Miller, Lieutenant, USMC, was solemnized at 6:30 Sunday evening at the First Presbyterian Church with Reverend Henry Morgan officiating in the impressive double-ring ceremony.

Given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Nelson L. Runger, Jr., of Yardley, Pa., the bride wore a gown of candlelight satin fashioned along Princess lines with a panel of Alencon lace, scoop neckline, and a cathedral train. Her fingertip veil of French illusion was attached to a coronet of seed pearls; she carried a nosegay of white roses, stephanotis, and gardenias.

Mrs. Nelson L. Runger, Jr. of Yardley, Pa., was her sister's matron of honor. She wore a gown of sherry silk over taffeta and carried a Colonial nosegay of mixed summer flowers.

Bridesmaids were Miss Janice Atkinson of Farmville, N.C., Miss Bernice Bazemore, cousin of the bride, Raleigh, Miss Melissa McLeod of San Diego, Calif., and Miss Sarah Miller, sister of the groom, as junior bridesmaid. Their gowns and flowers were identical to those of the matron of honor. The bride's mother wore a gown of dusty rose lace and accessories to match, and an orchid corsage. The groom's mother wore a gown of powder blue lace with matching accessories, and an orchid corsage.

J. William Miller, the groom's uncle, of Virginia Beach, was best man. Ushers were Lt. Graham C. Lilly and John F. Miller, III, of Port Republic, Va., Lt. Thomas P. Burke of Alhambra, Calif., James L. Dunn of Scotland Neck, N.C., Dennis Madry, Jr., of Burlington, N.C., and Richard C. Chin of Jamaica, New York.

The bride, daughter of Mrs. James Thurman Madry of Scotland Neck and Virginia Beach, 4:30 p.m.—The wedding of Miss Lela Gray Harris and Richard Moore Holbert will take place at Mt. Pleasant Christian Church. Reception will follow the ceremony at the home of the bride, given by Mrs. Daniel Iadarola.

4:30 p.m.—Mr. and Mrs. Everett Faust Johnson entertain for Lt. and Mrs. Lonnie Craven Poole Jr. and guests at a reception at the Ayden Baker's Business College Awards Community Building.

Bridal Shower Given Miss Wynette Garner

Miss Wynette Garner was honored with a miscellaneous bridal shower Monday night given by Mrs. Julian Vainright at her home on Ragsdale Road and Mrs. Jack Howard and Miss Marguerite Howard of Raleigh.

Miss Garner will marry Abner Alexander, a Winston-Salem attorney, July 23.

Cool colors of green and white were used throughout in the decorations. The table was covered with a dark green linen cloth and an arrangement of white Gladioli flanked by green tapers in milk glass candle holders made an attractive centerpiece. Lime fruit punch was served in a milk glass punch bowl with petits-fours, nuts, ham rolls, and pimiento cheese pinwheels completing the refreshments.

Miss Garner was presented gifts which were concealed inside a large fake three-tier wedding cake. Several of Miss Garner's friends from out-of-state were in town on vacations and attended the party. They were Mrs. Paul Reinartz of El Paso, Texas; Mrs. W. Glenn Scott, Jr. of California; Mrs. Pinkney Young of Norfolk, Va.

Miss Garner, wearing a white Gladioli corsage presented her to the hostesses, and her mother, Mrs. Walter Glenn Garner, said the goodbyes at the door.

Among the many pre-nuptial parties honoring the bridal couple was a picnic supper held at the Rotary Club.

Picnic Supper
Honoring the Latham-Dean wedding party, the lawn of the Bethel Rotary Club was made festive for a picnic supper with hurricane lamps, torches, and patio accessories.

The supper was held Friday evening prior to the wedding rehearsal. Hosts were: Mr. and Mrs. Julian Smith, Dr. and Mrs. Connel Garrenton, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Ward, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. House, Mr. and Mrs. Larry James, Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Michaels Jr., Mr. and Mrs. S. D. Dewar, and Mr. and Mrs. F. Curtis Martin.

Guests were greeted by Mrs. James and Mrs. Garrenton and directed to the buffet tables by Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Dewar. The Rev. C. W. Barbee said Grace. Informally prevailed as the guests served themselves a fried chicken supper while Mrs. House and Mrs. Michaels served iced tea.

The tables were covered with green linen cloths and centered with picnic baskets of shasta daisies and feverfew. Hurricane lamps burning white candles were used with the centerpieces and in various places on the lawn.

Miss Dean was given a corsage of daisies. Approximately 70 guests were present.

Farmville's Oldest Citizen Honored With Family Dinner

FARMVILLE—The 92nd birthday of Mrs. Lula Askew Forbes, honored locally as Farmville's oldest citizen, and a highly esteemed gentlewoman of the old school, was observed Sunday with a family dinner given by her daughter, Miss Lula Forbes, and niece, Mrs. Carl Mooring, of Snow Hill.

The occasion, attended by 100 relatives and friends from Farmville and nearby towns, was held at the Jones Lake cabin, in traditional Southern style. The cabin was decorated throughout with artistic arrangements of gladioli, roses, daisies, pom poms and asters.

Mrs. Forbes, petite and Dresden doll-like in appearance, greeted guests with the hosts. She wore a white lace trimmed linen dress and a purple orchid at her shoulder.

The dinner, served buffet style, consisted of ham, barbecue, pickles, celery, deviled eggs, potato salad, rolls, hushpuppies and iced tea. The table was centered with a large tiered birthday cake. Assisting in serving were Mrs. W. E. Bagley and Mrs. Jimmie Harris.

The Rev. Allen C. Lee, Methodist minister and Mrs. Forbes' pastor, paid her a tribute of affection and esteem, to which she responded. The Rev. Mr. Lee also gave the invocation.

In addition to Miss Lula Forbes, with whom Mrs. Forbes lives, surviving children are Mrs. H. B. Hardy Jr. of LaGrange and J. Earl Forbes of Hampton, Va. She has six grandchildren and eight great grandchildren.

Recess Is Also A Two-Edged Sword

The post-convention meeting of Congress to finish work on important legislation offers both advantages and disadvantages to the nation. In the face of no acceptable alternative, however, the Democratic leadership of Congress has taken the only course open by advocating recess until early August.

This recess will provide time for individual Congressmen to give some consideration at least to the important matters still pending that must be acted upon before Congress adjourns for the year. It will afford them an opportunity to get more first-hand information from their constituents as to the popular sentiment toward matters yet to be acted upon.

The net result of the recess could be a more unhurried evaluation of legislation still pending, and avoiding the usual headlong rush which comes as the adjournment date nears.

On the other side of the ledger, the fact that both major political parties will adopt their 1960 political platforms and elect their nominees during the recess cannot help but paramour the November election in the mind of every member of Congress. The political implications of every piece of legislation remaining to be considered will become more important, and certainly representatives of the two parties will be extremely conscious of possible voter reaction to the stand they take.

In a national election year, Congress is naturally election-minded and vote-conscious even before the national party conventions. After the conventions, the presidential campaign begins and the matter of November votes becomes more important.

The post-convention considerations by Congress will be extremely sensitive to political pressure from the nominees, the party leadership, and all of the special interest groups in the country. How much these pressures will influence congressional decisions in August is a matter of conjecture. It is reasonable to assume congress will be more sensitive to these pressures following the national conventions than would be the case at this moment.

The recess stands as a two-edged sword which may work of the passage of better or poorer legislation when Congress meets in August to wind up its business for the year.

No Explanation Given For Slurs At Legion

If the American Legion is scratching its head seeking out a reason for the protest of some high school students to its giving citizenship awards to graduating seniors, the bewilderment is being shared by a good many other citizens.

A couple of weeks ago in Westbury, N. Y. a graduating senior shocked an audience, school officials, Legion officials and the public by refusing to accept a citizenship award from the organization. The student said he could not accept "an award from an organization whose policies I can not respect."

This week in Manhattan jeering, hisses, boos and cheers broke up another high school graduating ceremony when another American Legion citizenship award was presented.

Why? So far the question of why has not been answered. No reason, no explanation, no specific suggestions have been offered as to why these high seniors are down on the American Legion.

Was this latest incident merely an attempt by the high school seniors to imitate what had happened earlier in Westbury? Does the reason go deeper than just an attempt by some high school students to gain some sort of recognition?

If there is a basic reason for rejection of the American Legion citizenship awards, why haven't similar reactions shown up in other parts of the nation as thousands of high schools held graduation ceremonies in recent weeks?

The American Legion is a respected organization that has contributed significantly to the welfare of the nation since its formation following World War I. The presentation of citizenship awards to high school graduates is to be commended, as are the students who receive them.

If there is a serious reason behind the spurning of American Legion awards by these students in New York, they owe it to the Legion, school officials and the public to make these reasons known.

Rockefeller Not Following Rules

WASHINGTON (AP) — New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, once a likely prospect for the Republican presidential nomination, may wind up as his party's political touchstone of 1960.

At a time when Republicans ache for election year unity he has been sticking harpoons in the Eisenhower administration and Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

This has delighted the Democrats and angered the Republicans who denounced him and rallied behind President Eisenhower and Nixon. But a Republican cold-shoulder hasn't chilled him. He is used to it.

Rockefeller keeps on criticizing. Why? A couple of possible reasons come to mind:

1. He is saying what he thinks because he thinks it needs to be said.
2. He is trying to force Nixon and his party to accept some of his ideas or face loss of his support in the upcoming campaign.

Last Dec. 26 Rockefeller dropped out of the race against Nixon for the Republican presidential nomination. His reason: the Republican leaders around the country had cold-shouldered him.

Later, he said he would accept a draft. But the more he criticizes his own party's leadership, the further away a draft becomes. Nixon as of now is a cinch for the nomination.

Rockefeller says he wouldn't accept the vice presidential spot that? Never. We must have living ministers, living hearers, living deacons, living elders; and until we have such men who indeed have the very fire of life burning in their souls, who have got tongues of life and eyes of life and souls of life, we shall never see the kingdom of heaven taken by storm.

The atmosphere of each generation is different from that of preceding generations. The superficialities change. But be assured that moral problems today are what they were when Jesus Christ preached, and at that time they were basically what they had been a thousand years before.
Of one thing we can be sure — we can never run the church of Jesus Christ with dead men, or even with men half alive. Christ is interested not in what we have or are but in the whole of our lives.

Descriptive Description

Occasionally, words more descriptive than words in general make themselves known here and there.

For instance, the other day we were preparing to attend this set-together down the road a ways. We were about on time, but as characteristic of summertime, the affair was sort of late getting started.

Since it was hot, we stood around outside, waiting for the meeting to get underway. We just stood there sipping cokes and watching the folks saunter up one at a time.

This particular occasion had created a considerable degree of interest and many persons who might have been home watching TV otherwise were trouping up to the meeting. As people will do, each person had his own personalized touch to add to the general vogue for that day — conversation about that meeting.

We could hardly have avoided overhearing many of the passing comments — even if we'd wanted to. And many of them were amusing.

In general, most folks were speculating on just what the meeting would bring about. There were pros and cons from all conceivable angles.

Some of the phraseology was near-comic — as was a great deal of the "logical deduction" set forth.

The most descriptive description of all, spoken in all seriousness, reared its head a few minutes before the meeting started.

A late-latecomer (who was actually right on time for the affair's beginning) came hustling up inquiring, "What time does this SHIGAMALARK start?"

This bird down the street the other night was telling a small audience some really astounding things about this place. He spoke with apparent authority.

Many bits of information, sworn by him to be accurate, were indeed news to every ear. Though not really important, what he had to say was fascinating-like Paul Bunyan and his blue ox or any other tall tale.

He presented his bits of information in the form of questions — "Do you know" this or that.

For instance, "Do you know that 14 miles died in Pitt County last year?" He was like a walking almanac on facts and figures that didn't matter a great deal. Still we listened.

"Did you know that... Tires on Greenville's fire engines make a total of 314,976,006 revolutions per year?"

"The soil on one acre of Pitt County tobacco land weighs more than 300,000 tons?"

"In Pitt County alone last year, there were 6,723 puppies, 7,001 kittens, and 31,893 rabbits?"

"Pitt County youngsters shot a total of 11,219 rocks and marbles at birds last year?"

"The total length of all Pitt County's trees laid end to end would reach to Hong Kong and back twice?"

And so on for hours and hours — as long as anybody would listen.

He had very little important information to pass along, but it was so-called "earth-shaking" lectures nowadays.

"American tourists who go abroad and sneer at local custom or deride conditions that do not compare favorably with those in the United States may lose this country much of the goodwill that it is winning through its programs of assistance." — Carlton (Ga.) Tribune.

"You're young only once. After that it takes another excuse." — Richmond (Ky.) Daily Register.

Other Editors Saying Best Of Bad Situation

(Greensboro Daily News) President Eisenhower, addressing the American people Monday night on his Far East visit, made the best of the situation in declaring that the gains outweighed the losses despite Japan's disinvitation to visit Tokyo.

The President's evaluation is surely to be sharply questioned. The aim of the Communists was to block ratification of the U. S.-Japanese security pact. That aim was not attained. But the mere fact that the President was prevented from making his widely heralded Tokyo visit caused this country to lose face and prestige. Peiping and Moscow, already wringing every ounce of propaganda out of the U-2 incident, were given added fuel for their propaganda fires.

The President did get tumultuous welcomes in the Philippines, Formosa and Korea. His Okinawa stay was marred by unexpected but relatively minor demonstrations.

Mr. Eisenhower undoubtedly did what he felt was his duty and to his country's best interest. Certainly he should not have been allowed to go to any country where physical danger was not merely possible but probable. As in the U-2 incident, the handling of the President's Tokyo visit was bungled; somebody showed poor judgment; and our intelligence sources badly underestimated the situation which actually prevailed.

The President is a soldier; the call of duty transcends with him. His dedication to the promotion of world peace is a bold question. That is all the more cause for pity and concern; his final peace efforts have, whatever the reason, been ineffective and terminate his administration on an unhappy, frustrated and disappointed note.

While Mr. Eisenhower reiterated his readiness to go anywhere, any time, where a personal visit might strengthen or further world peace, it is rather clear that the era of personal diplomacy has come to a close. Friendly visits by chiefs of state have their place, as they create understanding and good will. But such visits, in their general effect and application, should be differentiated from summitry which the Russians have generally managed to turn to propaganda gain. A safer, wiser course will be to work through regular diplomatic channels. It may be that a summit conference will be in order sometime in the future. But if we have learned anything, it is that such a conference should be preceded by effective spadework, that agreement be substantially reached beforehand and that the principals be left to battle it out in the world spotlight or, in our case, subjected to indignity, disrespect and downright rudeness, such as the Russians have repeatedly exhibited and most recently revealed in their rowdy walkout from the Geneva disarmament conference.

President Eisenhower is a great American; one cannot help feeling deep regret and sorrow that the course of events—place the blame where you may—has taken an adverse turn during the final months of his administration.

Military spending: A sharp increase is coming. The temper of Congress, as shown in criticism of the President's foreign policy and in balking at excise cuts, favors higher spending for arms. If additional money is not voted, the Defense Department will be encouraged to speed up the spending of funds available.

Plants and equipment: Commitments already made indicate a 10 per cent rise in investment in new plants and equipment. This may be increased further by the rise in defense spending.

Money: Money has become slightly more available at slightly lower interest rates in recent weeks and that trend is likely to continue.

Housing: Home construction lagged during the first half of the year but is now showing signs of picking up. Two factors point to a continuance of the pickup: a somewhat greater availability of mortgage money and the still high rate of family formation.

THE STURDY CONSUMER Consumer spending: Consumer confidence has modified all recent business declines and there is no reason to expect consumers to slow spending in the last half of this year. There is nothing, such as fear of widespread strike or of recession to cause any slackening.

Wages and salaries: These will continue to rise, perhaps at a slower rate, because of built-in inflation. Many, if not most, existing union contracts provide for automatic increases.

Consumer prices: These too will rise for the same reason. As wages go up, so must prices because things cost more to make, and workers have more to spend.

Gold: The drain on the United States hoard will continue because there is no reason to expect any great increase in exports or any great decrease in imports, including our spending for foreign travel, which is an import. The recent rise of the interest rate in Britain will tend to attract investment money, hence, gold, from the U.S. to Britain.

Day Out On The Town

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY Copyright, 1960, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Unaccustomed as I am to the great outdoors life, I thought that I would go to a baseball game and a trotting race and a prize fight. The baseball game was most amusing. I went with Jim Farley, and distinguished Democrat, and he told me what was going on in the Democratic Party, which spiced the ball game, that, I am told, was an extraordinarily good one.

The trotting race, I witnessed from indoors. The trotters were outside, running hither and yon, but we sat behind windows, having our dinner, while the trotters trotted. They seemed to be doing very nicely. I bet on each race and came out $23 ahead, which means that I am not an expert in picking horses. The way I picked them was by going along with certain numbers which sometimes came out well and other times badly, but I was told that half was equal to nothing, which denies the old adage that half a loaf is better than no loaf.

The fight that I went to was hollywood as the greatest. I had gone to a prize fight once before and had a ringside seat which seemed a mile from the ring—so I saw nothing and have little memory of the ordeal. This Johanson-Patterson fight started in the Stork Club where were gathered a multitude of politicians, lawyers, journalists and beautiful women. It was a pre-fight celebration. For me, it was the best part of the evening as I saw many friends, kissed politely several delightful girls, saw the philosopher, Max Lerner, freshly returned from India, watched Roy Cohn act as host in his new role of a fight promoter, and saw William Fugazy wear a pink jacket and a scalloped dress shirt.

Then we drove up to the Polo Grounds where the Giants used to play ball. Well, to get from the Stork Club to the Polo Grounds in New York, even on a busy day, is not much of a chore, but this fight night was something different. The cars were stacked up for a mile or so and I thought we would never make it, despite the fact that I drove in a car marked "official." When we came across a rare traffic cop, he could not read that sign or was a Jeffersonian, believing that all men are equal.

When we finally reached the Polo Grounds, we found that the aforesaid Jeffersonian doctrine was still prevalent. For the gatekeepers in those who had had those who had not tickets. We all went in together. A great argument has developed over this doctrine of equality. Bill Fugazy maintaining that if a man paid for his seat, he was entitled to it, but if he did not pay, he should not be permitted to enter. Police Commissioner Kennedy maintained that a fight is a private enterprise and the entrepreneur should spend his money to see that the gates are properly manned. Whichever side of this controversy prevails, the disorder at the gates was a sight to behold.

Once we got in, it was something of a chore to find the proper seat, the ushers not being familiar with the layout. Also, it was being whispered that the ushers performed no service unless properly tipped which was a new device for getting money without paying income tax. I know that more persons sat in my $100 row than there were seats for.

The place was jammed. Tickets or no tickets, it was said that 40,000 persons were at the Polo Grounds. It looked like more to me. Anyhow, I took a look in the press section and there were some faces I knew, having been in this business close on to half a century, boy and man, but there were many whom I never saw in any form of newspaper work. Between the press section and the $100 seats was a space, probably for people to walk. This space filled up and nobody threw the bums and free-loaders out.

The ring was at times invisible. Where I sat, there were some policemen, but they and the firemen came in uniform to see the fight.

C & D Target Of 'Splinter' Plan

By LYNN NISBET C & D.—There are forces at work seeking to bring about splintering the Department of Conservation and Development into several separate agencies. Latest of the suggestions was made by Governor-nominate Terry Sanford during the first primary campaign favoring divorce of the commerce-industry division from the rest of the department. Previously there had been proposals to restore the commercial fisheries division to the comparable independent status it enjoyed before C & D was set up 35 years ago. Forestry enthusiasts fear that current emphasis on industrial promotion is resulting in neglect of their projects.

The Department of Conservation and Development was established at instance of Governor McLean in 1925 to coordinate activities of the State in conserving and developing the natural resources embraced in commercial fisheries, inland fish and game, mineral deposits and water resources.

Early emphasis was on the conservation phase of the double-barrel program. The main idea was to save what we had, to retard wasteful depletion of the natural god-given capital assets belonging to all the people. Heavy accent on development and promotion came later.

When commercial fisheries was brought into the department it was basically a police agency, its function being to protect sources of seafood from depletions. Now almost as much attention is given to increasing the supply of fish and oysters, and to processing and marketing as to law enforcement.

Forest fire and tree disease control continues a major part of forestry division activities, but production of seedlings for tree farming has assumed greater proportion year by year.

DEVELOPMENT.—Slowly at first, rapidly within the past decade or so, emphasis switched to the "D" in the name. Development, not only of basic natural resources, but the intangibles of industry and tourism, claimed increasing attention. Nothing has been taken from conservation efforts, but nearly all the expansion has been taken from conservation efforts, but nearly all the expansion has been in the area of development. Growth of the commerce-industry and advertising divisions, and a new community planning section, illustrate the trend.

INTERTWINED.—The functions of these divisions are so intertwined it is almost impossible to distinguish or segregate them. The advertising division includes the State News Bureau and State Travel Bureau, staffed with competent writers and photographers, and an associated public relations firm. It has about a dozen full time regular employees, compared with about 30 for commerce-industry, but its budget is twice as big—because it handles all the advertising and printing of literature for the entire department.

Furthermore, it is recognized that travel is a major industry, as important as manufacturing. These agencies with annual budgets of nearly a million dollars grew from the little "Governor's Hospitality Committee" inaugurated by Governor Hoey in 1937. Community planning is essential to orderly growth in commerce, industry and recreation. The Federal government puts up about half the budget for this division, local communities most of the balance—because of the tie-in with total development. Expansion of planning services is contemplated.

DIVORCE.—Supervision of game and inland fishing was transferred from C & D to the Wildlife Resources Commission in 1947. Control of water resources, which had been divided among several agencies, was consolidated in the new Department of Water Resources by acts of the 1957 and 1959 legislatures. There have been instances of minor conflict because of overlapping interests, but they are not serious. The areas of activity are sufficiently independent and important to justify separate departments.

Pertinent questions arise in connection with proposals for further splitting C & D. Would a separate commercial fisheries department revert to a police agency, with functions of increasing the supply of seafoods and processing them handled by another department? The paper pulp industry has come to North Carolina in a big way and is expanding. It is dependent upon pulpwood trees, hence a good forestry program.

If industrial promotion, meaning manufacturing plants as distinguished from tourism and recreation, is given independent status will separate advertising agencies and budgets be required for factory-seekers, sports fishermen and vacationers?

COORDINATION.—The desire of special interests for more attention is understandable. But many conservation and development minded people, in and out of the General Assembly, looking at the State as a whole, believe that closer coordination and balance of departmental activities is desirable, rather than further splintering and dividing the power of the pull for economic growth.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS PUT LIFE INTO THE PROJECT In Coleridge's "Ancient Mariner" one confronts the scene of dead men rising up to manage the ship, some pulling ropes, some steering, some trying to spread the sails. Charles H. Spurgeon, one of the greatest preachers England has produced, and preaching about a century ago, spoke of this scene from the "Ancient Mariner" and then went on to say: "I have gone into churches and I have seen a dead man as a deacon, and a dead man holding the plate at the door, and dead men sitting to hear. I have seen these dead men go about the business of their Lord just as orderly and with as much precision as if they had been automations, and in bodies with no hearts and souls at all. Do you think God will ever bless a church like

More Of Same In 'Second Half

Not much change in the overall business level may be expected in the half year beginning tomorrow. In some sectors of the economy there will be a little slowing down; in others, there will be some acceleration, with the aggregate about the same. Some of the most significant sectors: Inventories: There will be little increase, perhaps none at all, because of the simple fact that most materials are readily available. The build-up of inventories in the first half of this year was largely a replenishment of stocks reduced by the steel strike. Autos: Current high levels of sales may be boosted even higher by growing interest in compact cars (one way calls them "toothless buggies") and the fact that once again new models will be introduced earlier. MORE WEAPONS Military spending: A sharp increase is coming. The temper of Congress, as shown in criticism of the President's foreign policy and in balking at excise cuts, favors higher spending for arms. If additional money is not voted, the Defense Department will be encouraged to speed up the spending of funds available. Plants and equipment: Commitments already made indicate a 10 per cent rise in investment in new plants and equipment. This may be increased further by the rise in defense spending. Money: Money has become slightly more available at slightly lower interest rates in recent weeks and that trend is likely to continue. Housing: Home construction lagged during the first half of the year but is now showing signs of picking up. Two factors point to a continuance of the pickup: a somewhat greater availability of mortgage money

Tobacco Tips

By S. J. WEEKS
Pitt County Tobacco Agent

Each year tobacco field days are held at the different tobacco research stations throughout the state. The farmers in Pitt County are very fortunate to have a tobacco research farm near Greenville. The annual tobacco field day will be held at the Lower Coastal Plain Research Station on Wednesday, July 6. The station is located 2 miles south of Greenville on the Old Tar Road.

A very interesting program has been planned for tobacco farmers, farm leaders, and others interested in tobacco production in Pitt and other counties in this area of eastern North Carolina. The program will begin at 9:00 a.m.

This will be a good time to see the experimental work that is being conducted on tobacco. There will also be some demonstrations showing some of the best and most up-to-date production practices.

Mr. Roy R. Bennett, Extension tobacco specialist, N.C. State College, will discuss the characteristics of old and new tobacco varieties. This will be done as you observe the different varieties growing in the field.

N. T. Powell, Plant Pathologist, and Richard Gwynn, Research Agronomist, will discuss the development of new varieties. They will probably show you some of the advanced breeding lines or strains not yet released for production.

W. G. Maxwell, Extension tobacco specialist, will discuss fertilizer placement. Method of fertilizer placement used can be a very important step in producing a good tobacco crop.

Frank Guthrie, Research Entomologist, will discuss insect control. Kind of insects, time and method of insecticide application will be included in his discussion.

S. N. Hawks, Jr., Extension tobacco specialist, will discuss recovery from hail damage. This should be especially interesting since several acres have been seriously damaged by hail this year.

P. A. Todd, Extension Plant Pathologist, will discuss Brown spot and Mosaic control. Brown spot has caused serious losses during the past few years. Mosaic can also cause serious losses in the tobacco field.

The program as outlined above should be beneficial to most if not all farmers in the county. Circle July 6 on your calendar and begin making plans to attend this field day. I believe you will be glad you did, after attending this meeting.

Rockefeller Apparently Will Back GOP Ticket Despite Disagreements

Builder Hayes Assures Work To Resume Again

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hal B. Hayes, the Hollywood contractor who has been having lots of trouble lately, called a news conference to announce he (A) hasn't disappeared; (B) hasn't skipped the country.

Hayes told the three reporters who attended Wednesday that such rumors have been afloat and he wanted to lay them at rest.

Hayes, whose public appearances with attractive blondes have attracted as much attention as his far-flung building operations, was full of assurances that everything is going to be all right.

He insisted that work hasn't stopped on housing projects at seven military installations—just slowed down.

Within a week or ten days, he predicted, construction work will be going full blast again.

One of the projects is at Camp Lejeune, N.C. Hayes attributed his troubles to what he called inflated claims of some subcontractors.

He said the Federal Housing Administration, which insures his loans to build the housing projects, ordered him to pay up in full. This, in turn, caused the banks and insurance companies putting up the money to cut off his flow of cash, he said.

Hayes said everything is being worked out, so that he will have to pay only "honest" claims of contractors, leaving any amount in dispute to be settled by courts.

Estimating his loss on the military housing projects so far at 1 1/2 million dollars, Hayes said he'll still have ample pocket money.

"How much?" he was asked. "Several million dollars," Hayes replied.

By JACK BELL
GLACIER NATIONAL PARK, Mont. (AP)—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller apparently is going to back the Republican ticket this fall despite policy disagreements with Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

Rockefeller left this impression after the windup of the 52nd annual conference of state executives Wednesday.

Democrats turned homeward with many of them carrying the impression that Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts is only a whisker away from their party's presidential nomination.

Rockefeller who has criticized the administration's defense and medical aid for the aged programs supported by Nixon, appeared to have left himself leeway in press conference remarks Wednesday to sit on his hands in the November election.

But when some other Republicans interpreted his statements as indicating he might desert the GOP, Rockefeller told a reporter: "I will not bolt the party."

While he did not commit himself finally to campaigning for Nixon as the expected GOP presidential nominee, Rockefeller indicated he thinks he can find enough common ground to do that. Republicans think that if the governor were inactive, Nixon might lose New York's vital 45 electoral votes.

Governors elected Gov. Stephen L. McNichols of Colorado as their new chairman. Next year's meeting is expected to be held in Hawaii.

McNichols is one of several governors who have held out thus far against the Kennedy blitz. He has been described in some quarters as an advocate of Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas. But he said that isn't true, he hasn't made up his mind.

His position and that of a quartet of favorite sons who also are holdouts seemed likely to be affected by the announcement of former President Harry S. Truman that he will not be a delegate to the Los Angeles convention.

Kennedy's backers hastened to interpret this not only as a collapse of the candidacy of Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri but as an indication that old pro Truman thinks Kennedy is a cinch for the nomination.

Missouri Gov. James T. Blair Jr. said Truman withdrew for personal reasons. Symington said in Washington Truman told him

"this decision on his part did not in any way change his unqualified support of my candidacy."

But the prevailing feeling among Democratic governors appeared to be that Truman has written Symington off as a possible winner and thinks Johnson will not be able to bring about a vote deadlock by which he could win the nomination.

This feeling may tend to push over the favorite son holdouts, including Govs. Edmund G. Brown of California, Robert R. Meyner of New Jersey, Herschel C. Loveless of Iowa and George Docking of Kansas. They represent states with 169 convention votes.

The possibility of the collapse of the Symington campaign seemed bound to feed the Kennedy drive for a first ballot nomination. If Symington's claimed 200 votes were to scatter — and a measurable part of them go to Kennedy — the possibility of a deadlock would be decreased sharply.

Just this possibility might persuade Gov. David L. Lawrence to put part of Pennsylvania's 81 votes at Kennedy's disposal.

It might influence Mayor Richard Daley of Chicago to come forward with a sizeable section of Illinois' 69. It could give Gov. Orville L. Freeman of Minnesota pause about putting that state's 31 on the line for Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey on the first go-round.

Whether any of this happens, Kennedy's supporters believed they have their handwagon rolling at top speed with a clear road ahead.

Gov. Cecil H. Underwood of West Virginia has charged Rockefeller with "political cowardice" for his blasts at the administration's defense policies. Underwood said he accepts at face value the New York governor's assertion that he will not bolt.

Underwood, named for temporary chairman of the Chicago convention expected to nominate Nixon, said he thinks Rockefeller will be out pitching for the ticket this fall.

In their most noteworthy resolution, the governors voted 30-13 to ask Congress to provide health insurance for the elderly under the Social Security system.

This was a victory for Rockefeller over the administration's program based on subsidies to pay premiums on private insurance policies on oldsters.

Rockefeller carried along with him on this issue the votes of the Republican governors of Arizona, Maine, Montana, Rhode Island and Vermont.

Chairman Denies His Committee Is 'Bottleneck'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of the 12-man House Rules Committee challenged today charges that the group is a legislative bottleneck which thwarts the will of the House.

"Anyone who makes such charges just doesn't know what he is talking about and isn't acquainted with the rules of the House," said Rep. Howard W. Smith (D-Va) in an interview.

Smith's remarks were prompted by newspaper editorials and statements of individual House members who haven't been able to clear their bills with the Rules Committee.

The committee currently is holding up bills on aid to education and on housing, which some members consider vital this session. It also delayed, but later released, a minimum wage bill which the House considers today.

"Anytime a majority of the House wants action on legislation, it can get it very easily," Smith said. "They proved that on the federal pay raise bill. All they have to do is file a discharge petition and obtain the signatures of a majority of the membership. That provides for an automatic vote on legislation."

If the discharge procedure is too cumbersome, Smith added, "there is always calendar Wednesday, which allows committees to call up for votes any bills they have approved, regardless of how the Rules Committee feels."

Calendar Wednesday is a seldom-used procedure. Usually, the House disposes with it by unanimous consent.

But it was used this year by the Banking Committee to obtain a vote on the depressed areas bill, which the President later vetoed.

Smith said he was inclined to suspect the sincerity of some members who have blamed the Rules Committee when they can't get their bills considered.

"If they have good bills and if a majority of the members agree that they are good bills," he said, "it doesn't make any difference how the Rules Committee feels. They can get them considered."

Beauty Leaving For Big Pageant

FAYETTEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Pretty Lyndia Ann Tarlton of Wingate, the North Carolina representative in the Miss Universe contest, was to board a special bus here today en route to the Miami Beach, Fla., beauty pageant.

Sixteen contestants were on the bus when it arrived here. They spent Wednesday night in Rocky Mount where they witnessed the crowning of 18-year-old Lyndia Anne Strickland of Middlesex as Miss Rocky Mount for the Miss North Carolina beauty pageant later this summer.

From Fayetteville the bevy of beauties go to Dillon, Florence, Orangeburg and Bamberg in South Carolina.

The Washington Monument is located at the meeting of an axis running south from the White House and west from the capitol.

Secret Mission to Bangkok

CHAPTER 36

"Think of being shot down, Cars!" Hugh North cried over the transmitter. "The fire! The drop, down and down! Out of control! The flames around you and your ship going down, spinning! To die by fire is a terrible thing, Cars! Ever seen anybody who's been burned to death?"

He saw Antonio Carss's mouth shouting words into his mike as the faster plane shot past the cabin door. He went over to receiving in time to hear Carss yell, "Gimme a break! If I turn back what will you do for me?"

"I'll have anything to do with it," Hugh North replied. "That will be up to Thailand, Land Bracht safely and you won't have his death to answer for."

Lemang, North's pilot, whirled his aircraft over and started back at Carss. The director producer saw the pursuit plane plummet down at him, and the starry Red agent's nerve cracked at last.

"All right, all right!" he howled. "I quit. I give up. Keep that wild man off me. He'll kill us all."

"Will be sorry to see you leave Thailand, Colonel North," Captain Pokh said wistfully. "Most excitement since the war. Now you go, everything back to ho-hum. But I guess you glad to take doctor home, hey?"

"Very glad," Hugh said heartily, "especially since he's going home under a small army of security guards."

The little captain cast a glance at the connecting door between Room 437 and 439. "How he taking it?" he asked in a low voice. "How does he like finding out his wife playing Carss's game?"

"He's taking it very well, considering," Hugh replied. "Of course it was a shock, but—well, Tao Muong was long on beauty but short on brains. A movie struck girl, and Bracht can all can."

"So she not kidnaped at all in beginning, hey?"

"No, according to that part of Carss's full confession—"

"How he do all this talking, Colonel?" Pokh interrupted. "Thought Red agents die with sealed lips."

"Carss is in a terrific bind," North explained. "He messed up one of Moscow's most important plots after convincing the Reds that his plan was foolproof. Carss's life wouldn't be worth a tical if he was turned loose tomorrow. His only hope is that your government will give him a prison sentence instead of the rope or the firing squad, and toward that end he's telling everything he knows, hoping his information will be worth a stay of execution."

"He don't know Thai prisons very well," Pokh said grimly. "Getting back to Tao Muong," North said, "Carss says she set the whole thing in motion herself. First she wrote to John Wallen, her movie idol, sending her picture and asking him to get her into the movies. Wallen showed the letter to his director, as a joke. You see, Wallen didn't know who Tao Muong Bracht was, but Carss did; he knew a lot about Hans Bracht, as did every Commie agent in the United States, naturally."

"And Carss told her to come to Hollywood?"

"No, he sent her a letter and signed Wallen's name, offering her Hollywood with a fence around it and enclosing a plane ticket. He was careful to say that if she had any relatives who objected to her having a screen career she could forget the whole deal. He knew she'd never give up this chance and he had a hunch she'd run away from Bracht, being sure Bracht wouldn't say yes. The hunch paid off. Tao Muong ran away to Hollywood."

Captain Pokh nodded. "what happen then?"

"Carss met her plane explained Wallen was on the set, took her to his home, and made his proposal. Tao Muong knew he was a great director and she listened. Carss told her that if she wanted to be a second Marilyn Monroe she'd have to make these tapes he'd rehearse her in. Never mind what the tapes were for, did she want to be a star or not? She decided she did. She made the tapes."

North went on with his packing. Beyond the connecting door came sounds of Hans Bracht, similarly engaged. The great man had borne the shock of his experience, his heart-rending discovery of Tao Muong's death and her role in this plot, with remarkable fortitude. Now, although his face still was rigid with grief and disillusionment, he seemed to North to be putting everything behind him but the need to get back to Project Galaxy, and that was as it should be.

"How John Wallen mixed up in this so he killed too?" Pokh asked.

"Wallen had a side line of blackmail," North explained. "He found out that Tao Muong was at Carss's house. When he went back to get more dope on Carss, Tao Muong wasn't there. The tapes were finished and she was gone. Carss has told us where the body's buried, incidentally. Down near La Jolla."

"Wallen went to Carss and told him what he knew, asked for money plus the starring role over Lita to keep quiet. Carss told him to go to hell, and when Wallen threatened to talk, he knew he had to kill Jack."

"With Misser Ross's knife."

"Yes, he used that convenient balcony to steal the knife."

The colonel walked to the bureau to lift out a pile of shirts. "You see, Carss had to put up with Wallen, as dangerous as he was, until the company reached Bangkok. To have disposed of Wallen before that would have upset the Tiger, Tiger! production plans and Carss had everything set on a certain time schedule. That's why Carss married in Hong Kong until Bracht arrived. His schedule, of course, was ruined and when it was kicked over Carss's best laid schemes."

"Carss killed Marchet, certainly?"

"Yes, poor Marchet was doing just what I thought, hanging around Wallen's suite in the belief Bracht was standing there, waiting to make a touch. At least Carss said that when he came out of Wallen's bedroom after knifing Jack there was Marchet in the living room. He'd seen it all. Marchet escaped, but didn't know who to go to. He went to his room after wandering around, and Carss trailed him there. You know the rest."

"Who is this Walter Wells I overheard you speak to Carss about?" Pokh asked.

"At one time, when he was mixed up with a society pinko group years ago, it was Lex Ross. Later, after Ross left the Comies, the Reds gave the same Party name to Anton Carss. It's a trick of theirs: when a comrade deserts they give his Party name to another agent in the same field. Then, if the real ag-

"OH! SAY, CAN YOU SEE.."

The flag which inspired Key during bombardment is now in the U.S. National Museum at Washington.

"The Star-Spangled Banner," theme song of Independence Day, was written in a time of great national crisis. American fortunes in the War of 1812 were at a low ebb. The capital had fallen to the British. Its most important buildings had been burned, and on Sept. 13, 1814, the British fleet was preparing to attack Fort McHenry defending Baltimore.

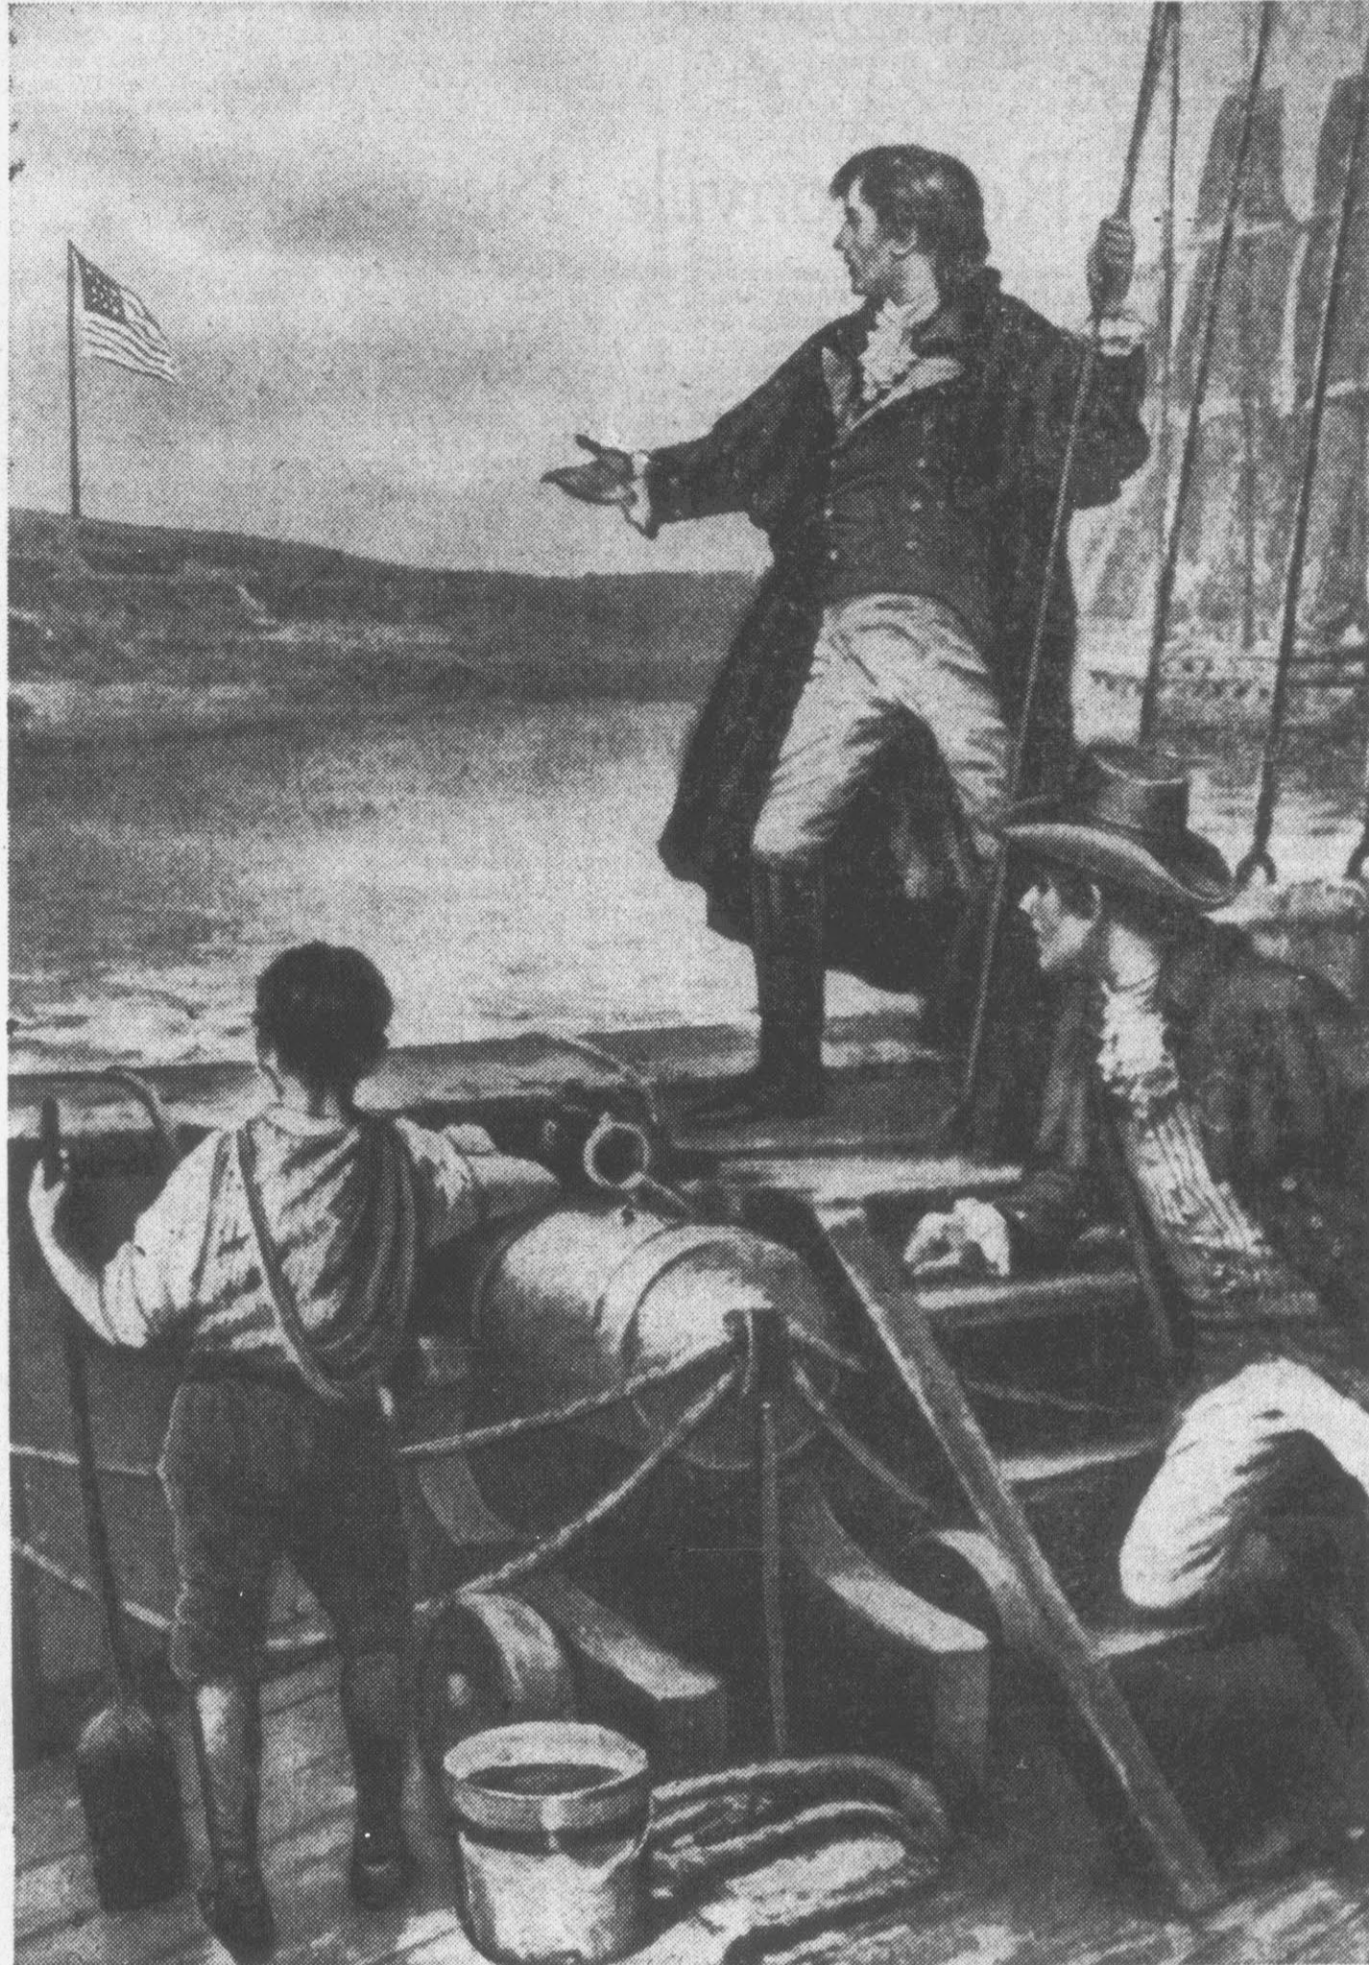

That day, Francis Scott Key, a Washington lawyer, had gone aboard the British flagship in an effort to secure the release of a friend who had been taken prisoner. Key was not allowed to leave the fleet until the bombardment of the fort was over.

From a small American vessel which had taken him to the flagship, Key watched the shelling through the night. At dawn on September 14 he saw the American flag still waving defiantly over Fort McHenry. At that moment, he said, his heart spoke and he asked himself, "Does not such a country and such defenders of their country deserve a song?"

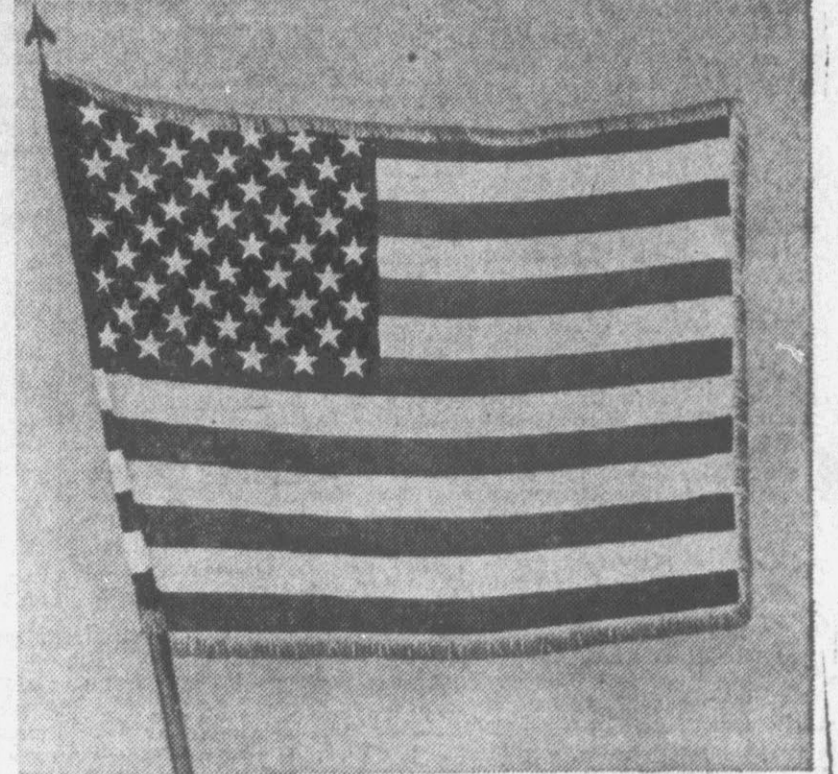

He started to write the first words of "The Star-Spangled Banner" as the British ended their attack. On his return to Baltimore, he added lines to his poem. The first dated publication of the poem, under the title, "Defense of Fort McHenry" appeared Sept. 20 in the Baltimore Patriot. Shortly after, the title was changed to "The Star-Spangled Banner."

The popularity of "The Star-Spangled Banner" was immediate. By 1861, it had taken first rank among our national songs, but it was not until 1931 that Congress voted it our national anthem.

Fort McHenry this year takes on added significance. On July 4, the new 50-star flag will be raised there officially for the first time.

By the dawn's early light, Francis Scott Key, top, sees Old Glory still waving over Fort McHenry.

Grimesland's New Water System Now In Operation

ELEVATED STORAGE TANK . . . in lower left portion of this picture is part of the Grimesland water system, which has recently been completed. Parts of the contract included a gravel wall well, elevated storage tank and distribution system.

GRIMESLAND — Grimesland's new water system which included a gravel wall well, elevated storage tank and distribution system were completed about two weeks ago. About 60 percent of the town's population are now connected to the new system, with new customers connecting every day.

Completion of the first contract of the new system also included purchase of a fire truck for the town. Funds were obtained from two town elections. Cost of the system was estimated at $70,000. The gravel wall well, drilled 270 feet deep in the ground, consists of a 20-inch steel casing that goes down 90 feet to seal off ground water, with an 8-inch inner casing with screens to the 140- and 180-foot levels.

The area between the outside and inner casing is filled with gravel to a depth of 195 feet. The original contract for a minimum of 250 gallons of water per minute was increased to a capacity of 300 gallons per minute after tests were made. Also included in the contract were 10 fire hydrants to service the major part of town.

Thirty-Five On Staff Of East Carolina Music Camp

Director Earl E. Beach of the East Carolina department of music has announced a staff of 35 instructors for the 1960 Summer Music Camp at the college.

The event, sixth annual camp, will bring to the campus approximately 400 junior and senior high school students from North Carolina and other states. Instruction is offered in vocal and instrumental music, theory, conducting, and other phases of music; in arts and crafts; in creative; and in techniques for majorettes and drum majors.

Three bands, organized at the camp for musicians of various levels of advancement, will be directed by Herbert L. Carter, director of bands at East Carolina; Edward D. Benson, supervisor of music in the Asheville schools; and Spencer Mims of the Myers Park High School in Charlotte.

Gordon Johnson of the college music department will direct the camp choirs. Donald H. Hayes, also of the college faculty, will be conductor and director of the camp orchestra.

Members of the East Carolina department of music who are included on the music camp staff and the subjects they will teach: Dr. Robert Carter, piano; Lewis Danfelt, reeds; Dr. W. Edmund Durham, theory; and James Parnell, brasses. Thomas E. Mims of the college faculty will teach arts and crafts, and Dr. N. M. Jorgensen, director of health and physical education will be in charge of recreation. Mrs. Laverne Crenshaw of Greenville, East Carolina student, will be instructor in creative dancing.

Visiting instructors include experienced band directors and teachers of music from both North and South Carolina. They are Donald Adcock of Rockingham, William Adcock of Wilmington, George Knight of Barnwell, S.C., Harry Shipman of Kinston, and Edward Taylor of Clinton, reeds; John Albee of Burlington, percussion instruments; Virginia Frank of High Point, Richard Southwick of Raleigh, and Janet Southwick of Raleigh, strings; and Robert Gaskins of Jacksonville, Harold Grant of Burlington, James E. Rogers of Greenville, and Lee Rogers of Smithfield, brasses.

Techniques for majorettes and drum majors will be taught by Robert Ellwanger of Rockingham and the Ayden-Winterville school, formerly drum major with the East Carolina Marching Band; Karen Kaiser of Grand Rapids, Mich., national twirling champion; Elizabeth Rogers of Greenville and Linda Leary of Edenton, East Carolina majorettes; and Dianne Mattocks of Jacksonville, Wake Forest majorette.

The counseling staff of the camp will be headed by Louise Winstead of Elm City, dean of girls, and Loy Wagner of Ware Shoals, S.C., dean of boys. Counselor will be Peggy Griffin of Douglas, Arizona; Ethel Leary of Wallace; and Marion Martin of Whiteville.

Walker Is Seeing Apple Country

ROMNEY, W.Va. (AP) — Dr. Barbara Moore planned to hike through the heart of Virginia's apple growing country today and bed down tonight at Winchester, Va.

That would be 43 miles along U.S. Highway 50 from her starting point in this West Virginia town.

The 56-year-old British vegetarian is en route to New York via Washington and has been on the road nearly three months since she left San Francisco.

Belgian Congo Given Freedom

LEOPOLDVILLE, Republic of Congo (AP) — King Baudouin handed over the rich Belgian Congo to 13 million Africans today with a warning to the new nation to beware of greedy foreign powers.

An artillery battery boomed slowly as the young King proclaimed the independent Republic of Congo, ending 80 years of Belgian rule.

"Your task is immense and you are the first to realize it," Baudouin told the new leaders of the nation one-third the size of the United States.

"The principal dangers which threaten you are: The inexperience in self-government of the populations, the tribal rivalries which have done so much evil in the past and which must not, at any cost, resume, and the attraction which foreign powers ready to take advantage of the least weakness may exercise on certain regions."

President Joseph Kasavubu, speaking after the King, praised Belgium for "not opposing the current of history."

Eighteen months ago, the round little political leader was in jail for his part in riots which caused scores of deaths in Leopoldville.

Both the West and the Communists cheered the new nation. But despite the rejoicing, the path ahead was filled with grave uncertainties.

Fabulously rich in minerals, the vast territory lying astride the equator is pitifully poor in native administrators and educated persons. Only a dozen held posts in the old colonial setup. Millions view independence as something magic that overnight is going to give them everything their Belgian rulers enjoyed.

Representatives of about 60 nations were on hand for the independence celebrations, including U.S. and Soviet delegations.

Robert D. Murphy, former assistant secretary of state, headed a five-man American party as President Eisenhower's personal representative.

Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev sent congratulations and said independence for the Congo "dealt another telling blow at the moribund colonial system." There was one brief incident Wednesday as Baudouin arrived, but it caused little disturbance. A Congolese described by police as demented grabbed the King's sword from the back seat of the open car as Baudouin and President Kasavubu rode by. The man unsheathed the handsome, gold-handled blade and brandished it about. Police seized him and reclaimed the weapon. Witnesses said there was no attempt to harm the King, who appeared unperturbed.

Photographed In Robbery, Caught

NEWARK, N.J. (AP)—The FBI arrested an unemployed cook with a plaid cap Wednesday night and said he was one of the men photographed in the act of robbing the York Savings and Loan Assn.

John Andrew Mendlock, 37, was charged with robbery in the theft last Thursday of $2,704. A teller activated a hidden camera during the holdup and got a picture of the two bandits, one wearing a plaid cap. The FBI said the second man was still at large.

Big Tax Liens On Grace Estate

BALTIMORE Md. (AP)—Liens totaling nearly six million dollars have been filed by the Internal Revenue Service against the estate of the late Negro evangelist, Charles M. Grace.

Filing the liens in Superior Court Wednesday, the IRS stated "Sweet Daddy" Grace was in tax arrears for 12 years beginning in 1945. The amounts ranged from $73,482 in 1945 to $1,531,003 in 1953 and totaled $5,990,648, said the IRS.

Grace died in Los Angeles Jan. 12.

Creeping Capitalism In Khrushchev System

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press News Analyst

In a corner of the enormous, sprawling building of GUM Moscow's central department store facing Red Square, and the gloomy Lenin-Stalin tomb, a sign advertises items that can be bought on installments.

These include photography equipment, motor bikes, electric sewing machines, refrigerators, other high-priced goods.

The ordinary Russian would have to save his money for a long time in order to be able to pay cash. Now all he has to do is bring a statement signed by his superior, testifying to his employment and income. Deductions will be made automatically from his wages. The stores all are operated by the government.

This is only one of the multiplying manifestations of what may be a burgeoning Soviet problem: What to do about creeping capitalism?

Capitalist methods edge into the Soviet internal trade picture for a variety of reasons.

Extremely high-priced hard goods normally move slowly, since they are out of range of most Soviet pockets. Everyday items like clothing, shoes and appliances are almost invariably shoddy. The shelves of the stores are becoming clogged.

Store managers begin to complain and even balk about accepting shipments of shabby consumer goods from factories. The prospective buyers are showing sales resistance, and such goods collect dust for months. The consumer often hoards his rubles to compete for better—and thus scarcer—items.

To attack merchandising problems in a rigidly controlled Communist economy, authorities resort to capitalist methods: installment selling, credit, more and more advertising, store windows blossoming with special sales announcements and slashed list prices, new neon signs flickering over Moscow proclaiming the virtues of a variety of products.

In some consumer categories there is a veritable glut of goods. But factory managers fulfill their quotas by quantity, without giving much of a hoot about quality.

A suit of men's clothing that couldn't fetch $20 in an American bargain basement goes into the Soviet stores priced at the equivalent of $140, or two months pay for the average Soviet worker.

Cotton dresses no American woman would want to wear in public retail at the equivalent of $10 to $20. A shoddy pair of sandals is priced at $28. A crudely fashioned men's shirt costs $11. Those who have money—and there are many highly paid Soviet people—resist such things.

Many wait for shipments from abroad—perhaps from Communist Czechoslovakia, which is years ahead of the U.S.S.R. in quality consumer goods. Muscovites tip one another off when shipments reach the stores, and rubles come out of hiding. Foreign shipments are snapped up quickly, while Russian manufacturers go begging.

In short, many a consumer is sick of shoddy goods. He would rather have quality goods than mere money. On the books, consumer production is there, but it is far from the quality the Soviet citizen is beginning to demand. The attitude apparently has been transmitted to the Kremlin. Seeking remedies, however, is difficult, since the remedies often can be contrary to Communist dogma.

Capitalist-like measures have been an outgrowth of Premier Nikita Khrushchev's policies, and probably are among the many factors that provoke annoyance among hidebound, reactionary Stalinists in high places.

Khrushchev has tried to follow a line of persuasion, rather than coercion, in keeping the Soviet public in line. But persuasion implies incentives and rewards. The consumer industry does not produce quality sufficient for rewards, nor can it without upsetting Soviet dogma.

The Soviet premier soon may be, if he is not now, in an unenviable position so far as his popularity is concerned. The process of social change that has been going on for years in the Soviet Union has been building something similar to a middle class—sober, intelligent and eager to better itself.

Relaxations, veering away from the police state since Stalin died, hastened social change to a point where it seemed to be getting out of hand. Khrushchev, in spite of himself, may be forced to try to halt the process.

The planned Soviet economy bases itself on quantity production. Quality belongs to the apex of the economy, where the talents, riches and energy of the state are poured into massive heavy industry, arms, missiles, Sputniks and other means of enhancing political authority.

For the rest of the economy, there must be a minimum of frills. The consumer cannot be offered too much by way of choice in what he buys, without breaking down some of the rigid barriers imposed by Communist doctrine.

Adopt Curbs For Airborne People

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A new law makes it illegal to smoke, eat or drink while in the air.

The law—effective in 39 days—won't affect people in planes or helicopters. It's aimed at a low-flying segment of the airborne population: those who go up via rebound mats.

Rebound centers are a current rage here, and some showoffs have been hurt while trying to eat or drink on the bounce. And cigarettes have been flipped into the darndest places.

The rule was one adopted by the Board of Supervisors in passing an ordinance regulating the commercial rebound centers.

Hope Meddling In Love Life Defeats Pests

BOSTON (AP)—Foresters are hopeful that a couple of unromantic scientists will help rid trees of the gypsy moth pest.

How are they going about it? By meddling with the love-life of this persistent pest, which causes millions of dollars damage to crops and trees yearly, according to the Forestry Digest.

Dr. Martin Jacobson, entomology research division, and Dr. B.H. Alexander, agricultural research division, U. S. Department of Agriculture, are working on the problem of producing a synthetic substance closely resembling a secretion by which female gypsy moths lure the males.

If they succeed, the researchers say, the synthetic compound could be used to lure male moths during the mating season to areas where they can be attacked with insecticides.

Rotarians Honor W. Jesse Moyer

FARMVILLE—As a tribute to the outstanding contribution made to Rotary by the late W. Jesse Moyer, whose sudden death occurred near the end of his term of office as District Governor, the present Governor, Tom Foscoe, of Maysville, has presented Mrs. Moyer, the former Miss Eloise Hyde, of Greenville, with a Distinguished Service plaque.

The plaque, a gift of Eastern Carolina Rotarians, bears the following inscription:

"Distinguished service award in memory of W. Jesse Moyer for devoted and unselfish service as Governor of District 773, 1958-1959, presented by Rotary clubs of District 773."

The past Governor's pin was awarded Mrs. Moyer also at the presentation ceremony, held at her home, with Cedric Davis, newly elected president of the local club, and John B. Lewis in attendance.

In recent weeks, the Farmville Rotary club has presented a brass cross and candlesticks as a memorial gift to the Farmville Christian Church, to which Mr. Moyer had rendered signal service through the years, both as a member and officer. Other memorial gifts to the church include a brass collection plate, presented by Mr. Moyer's Sunday School class, and silver communion plates by his wife.

Prepare Tougher Policy On Castro

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. strategists were reported ready today to adopt a harder policy of action against the Fidel Castro regime.

They have become convinced that the United States has passed the point of no return in trying to settle disputes with the Cuban Prime Minister through normal means. Diplomacy and words, soft or harsh, have bounced off him with no effect.

What precise action the United States will take depends on the time and circumstance.

One plan under serious consideration is to cut down on the U.S. sugar subsidies which Castro officials say enslave Cuba, and use the money to pay claims of Americans whose property has been seized by the Castro regime.

House action was scheduled today on an administration-backed bill which would give the President power to slash the Cuban sugar quota.

Over the longer range, U.S. authorities looked for possible action by the 21-nation Organization of American States to curb Castro.

But OAS action would require a larger degree of support than U.S. authorities figure would be forthcoming from the other Latin American countries at this time.

One important factor is the length to which the Communists are willing to go to uphold their Caribbean beachhead.

U.S. experts figure Castro could fall of his own weight without outside help. If Moscow goes all out to support Castro, including signing a military pact, these experts believe Latin-American opinion will more easily crystallize to the point of supporting joint OAS action.

Groundwork for a tougher Washington approach could be seen in two State Department pronouncements yesterday.

In one, the department made public a seven-point bill of particulars filed with the Inter-American Peace Committee—an OAS fact-finding unit which is to report to the OAS next February on Caribbean tensions.

The U.S. bill of particulars concluded that "the Cuban government's systematic and provocative campaign of slander and hostile propaganda against the United States... is a major contributor to international tensions in the area of the Caribbean and of the hemisphere as a whole."

Secondly, the department branded as "a naked seizure of property" Castro's takeover of the Texaco refinery in Santiago, Cuba, because the U.S. firm refused to refine Castro's imported Soviet crude oil.

Driver Ran Into Dynamite Truck

READING, Pa. (AP)—Hayes G. Thompson, 23, Orange, N.J., was unable to pay a $15 speeding fine levied Wednesday by Justice of the Peace Emil Rudjoss.

So Thompson put in a quick call to his father who persuaded the magistrate to let his son go with a promise to pay later.

Thompson got in his car and started for home. Four miles outside of Reading, his auto crossed the medial strip of the highway and crashed into a truck carrying dynamite, police said.

The dynamite did not explode and the truck driver escaped injury. But Thompson suffered a brain concussion and other injuries. He was admitted to Community General Hospital in fair condition.

No charges were filed by police.

Fullmer Stops Basilio To Hold Middleweight Title

By JERRY O'BRIEN SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (AP)—The National Boxing Assn. world middleweight crown was still in Gene Fullmer's hands today after he stopped challenger Carmen Basilio in 2:54 of the 12th round in a bruising battle Wednesday night.

Fullmer's manager, Marv Jensen, today dismissed Basilio as a contender and said he has a $100,000 offer for his battler to meet Joey Giambra next.

At the end came Judge Del Markham and Referee Pete Giacoma had Fullmer ahead 108-102, Judge Bob Yocum saw it 109-101 and The Associated Press 108-101.

Pitt Club Attempts To Junk Losing Streak

Coach Bud Phillips is anticipating that warm blood will start running in the veins of his Legion baseballers and this might just ignite a major upset over Rocky Mount Friday night.

After a game in Rocky Mount Friday, Pitt will play here on Saturday against Ahsokie. Game time at Guy Smith Stadium will be 8:00.

Maris Hammers Two Homers For Yanks; Braves Split

By ED WILKS

Associated Press Sports Writer Dick Stigman, the rookie who went sour as a reliever, has been nothing but a winner now that the Cleveland Indians have given him another chance as a starting pitcher.

The lanky lefty followed up a four-hit victory over the New York Yankees with a 5-3 job on Baltimore Wednesday night, giving up just six singles as the Indians edged ahead of the Orioles into second place in the American League race.

Cleveland is one percentage point above the Orioles, but the Birds, who have lost three straight, are a half-length ahead in the "games behind" column since they've played more games. They're 1 1/2 games back of first place New York. The Indians trail by two.

The Yankees stayed with it by whipping Kansas City 10-0 as Roger Maris belted two more home runs and Jim Coates won his 13th straight, nine this season, with a three-hitter.

Last-place Boston defeated Detroit 4-2. Chicago's game at Washington was rained out.

St. Louis regained fourth place from Cincinnati, beating the Reds 5-2. The Los Angeles Dodgers tied Cincinnati for fifth by sweeping a twinnight double-header at Philadelphia, 6-3 and 5-2.

Stigman, who beat the Birds and Jerry Walker (2-1) with a two-run single in the fourth inning, now has a 4-4 record—3 1/2 as a starter.

Coates, getting his usual support from the Yankees, put away the first low-hit game and second shutout of his somewhat fantastic 15-1 major league career. He walked two, struck out six and allowed nothing but singles.

Clete Boyer also homered for the Yankees, who have scored 104 runs in Coates' 12 starts this season—an average of almost nine runs a game. Both of Maris' homers, each with a man on, came off Ray Herbert (3-8) and upped his major league leading total to 24. He also leads the AL with 62 runs batted in.

The New York Titans of the new American Football League will play their 1960 home games in the Polo Grounds.

ECC Plans Grid Clinic

A football coaching clinic, sponsored by East Carolina College, will be held on the campus July 5 and 6.

The clinic will be conducted by the football coaching staff of East Carolina, consisting of Coaches Jack Boone, Frank Madigan and Bill McDonald. The clinic is free for coaches in this area and will be held on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, starting at 7:45 and winding up about 9:45.

The meetings will be held in the air-conditioned Library Auditorium. Expected enrollment is from 50-100.

The clinic will not be devoted to the East Carolina system but will spend time on all parts of the game, including fundamentals and practice organization.

Golf Tourney

WILSON — A pro-amateur, carrying a purse of $400 plus entry fees, will open the agenda of the 15th annual North Carolina Amateur Golf Tournament today at the Wilson Country Club.

Greenville pro Harold Thomas is entered in the pro-am and other local golfers seeking the amateur title will be Bobby Thomas, Chappy Bradner, Dallas Clark, Joe Exum, Don Conley Jr., and Simon Meye.

Seventy-two holes of medal play will get underway on Friday with 18 holes being played each day, Friday through Monday. After the first two rounds, the field will be divided into flights of 16. The field is expected to exceed 120.

Defending champion Larry Beek and Ed Justa of Rocky Mount are favorites in the tournament. Beck, of Kinston, shot a 71 in a practice round Monday and Justa had a 70.

Scout Swimming Meet Scheduled

FARMVILLE — The Pitt District Annual Swim meet will be held here at 7 p.m. on July 9. There will be two trophies awarded one in the scout division and the other in the senior scout explorer division. Scouts include all scouts 11-14 years of age. Senior scouts and explorers include those over 14.

Events to be staged include the knot-tying rescue with teams of five scouts, plunge for distant, free-style relay, medley relay, pearl diving event. The events will be staged at the Farmville municipal pool.

Fight Results

Salt Lake City — Gene Fullmer, 159 1/2, West Jordan, Utah, stopped Carmen Basilio, 156 1/2, Chittanooga, N. Y., 12. (Fullmer retained NBA version of world middle-weight title. Pete Rademacher, 200, Columbus, Ga., stopped Lamar Clark, 187, West Jordan, Utah, 10.

No one's calling the St. Louis Cardinals cheap, you understand, but they set aside just one locker in the clubhouse for more than half of their pitching staff. It's the one with Lindy McDaniel's name on it.

The lean right-hander has figured in 17 of their 33 victories—saving 14 and winning three. And here streaking along with an 0.64 earned run average, allowing just three runs in 42 1-3 innings of relief.

The one-time $50,000 bonus kid hung up his seventh consecutive save Wednesday night, nailing rookie Ray Sadecki's second major league victory in a 5-2 decision over Cincinnati that put the Cards back in fourth place in the National League race.

The second place Milwaukee Braves, 2 1/2 games out of the lead, split a doubleheader with the last place Chicago Cubs. The Braves lost the opener 3-2 then won the second game 3-1. First place Pittsburgh and San Francisco were rained out.

Los Angeles tied Cincinnati for fifth place by sweeping Philadelphia 6-3 and 5-2 in a twi-night doubleheader.

In the American League, the New York Yankees whipped Kansas City again, 10-0, while Cleveland took second place from Baltimore by handing the Orioles their third straight loss, 5-3. Boston defeated Detroit 4-2. Washington's game with the Chicago White Sox was rained out.

St. Louis, bouncing back from the bench after a long slump, singled home the Cards' first two runs in the third off loser Jay Hook (6-7).

A pinch single by Bob Will won the first game for the Cubs, tagging rookie Ron Piche (2-3) with the loss in relief of Bob Buhl. Southpaw Dick Ellsworth (4-5) won it.

The Braves had only five hits in the second game, but three of them were homers, two by Joe Adcock. After Hank Aaron hit his 18th home run in the second inning, Adcock broke a 1-1 tie with a fourth-inning shot off loser Bob Anderson (2-5), then hit his 11th of the year in the ninth off reliever Don Elston. Joey Jay (2-2) won it.

Rookie Frank Howard hit his 10th homer and drove in three runs for the Dodgers in the first game, driving in the winner in a two-run eighth with his second single. Larry Sherry (6-4) won it in relief of Don Drysdale. Dick Farrell (5-2) was the loser in relief.

Winner Sandy Koufax (3-8) and reliever Ed Roebuck held the Phils to four hits in the second game. A four-run fourth beat Gene Conley (3-4). Johnny Roseboro singled the winning run across after Norm Lorker extended his hitting streak to 14 games with a two-run single.

The four Dodger pitchers, who stopped Pancho Herrera's hit streak at 20 games, fanned 24, tying the major league record for a double header.

Jack Riley, coach of the Olympic champion U. S. hockey team, has coached hockey at West Point for 19 years.

Lehigh handed Penn State its worst football defeat in 1889 when it licked the Nittany Lions 106-0. Biggie Munn, athletic director at Michigan State, won the Big Ten's most valuable football player award in 1931.

HURLS SHUTOUT

The Jaycees pulled its season record to 7-7 yesterday afternoon with John Cayton tossing a four-hit shutout at the Lions for a 4-0 win.

A triple by Jeff Jenkins in the first inning led to the first and only run Cayton needed in hanging up the victory.

Alan Cayton had a single and double to share in the hitting honors for the winners. Bert Bennett, who yielded only one hit while striking out five in three innings, was charged with the loss. Brantley Register finished up the game for the Lions. Jaycees ..... 100 012-4 6 Lions ..... 000 000-0 4

Robinson Given Grid Freedom

By ED TUNSTALL

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Half-back Johnny Robinson of Louisiana State has his freedom today from the Detroit Lions after a court battle that a judge called "another round in the sordid fight" for football talent.

Federal Dist. Judge J. Skelly Wright ruled Wednesday an agreement the ace LSU runner and pass catcher signed with the Lions Dec. 2 was not a binding contract.

This left Robinson free to play with Dallas of the new American Football League, a team he signed a contract with after playing in the Sugar Bowl last New Year's Day. Detroit sought a court order to stop Robinson from playing for anyone else.

The ruling dealt the National Football League another severe setback, its third in as many weeks. A federal judge in Los Angeles released All-America halfback Billy Cannon, Robinson's running mate for three years at LSU from a Los Angeles Rams' contract, and last week Judge Claude Clayton, in Oxford, Miss., ruled the New York Giants had no legal hold in its agreement with All-America fullback Charlie Flower of Mississippi.

The fight for talent, Wright said in his written decision, "begins before these athletes enter college and follows them throughout their professional careers."

And this battle, he continued, has conditioned the minds and hearts of the athletes involved "to repudiate an agreement the following day or when a better offer comes along."

Democrat Holds Slender Margin In North Dakota Senatorial Election

FARGO, N.D. (AP) — Democratic Rep. Quentin Burdick held a narrow lead over Republican Gov. John E. Davis today in the special election for U.S. senator from North Dakota.

The election on Tuesday was to fill the seat of the late William Langer, a Republican. It was watched widely for possible clues to farm belt voting sentiment.

Burdick held a lead of 569 votes as returns from 30 scattered rural precincts trickled in by mail today to county auditor's offices.

With 2,284 of 2,314 precincts tallied in the unofficial total, the vote showed:

Burdick—103,731.
Davis—103,162.

It wasn't until late Wednesday, almost 24 hours after the polls closed, that Burdick forged into a slim lead—a margin that narrowed slightly as the vote-counting ended for the night. Davis had led in the early counting by as much as 8,000 votes.

Burdick, 52, a freshman congressman who became North Dakota's first Democratic representative in 1959, flew back to Washington Wednesday night. He said he would vote today to override the President's veto of the pay increase bill for postal workers.

"I'm not very sure of this one," Burdick said of the state election. "I want to see all the figures."

The State Canvassing Board must meet within 20 days of the election to compile final figures audited by county canvassing boards. Until then, neither man can ask for a recount.

Burdick said he hasn't even thought about a recount; Davis said "It will depend upon any irregularities we might hear about in the counties. So far we haven't heard of any, but some might turn up."

Most of the absentee ballots have been counted, although late ones will be delivered to county canvassing boards to include when they meet on or before next Tuesday.

Davis said he wished local election officials had reported the missing precincts to make the unofficial count complete.

"You'd think they'd want to be in on something this big," he said. "Today, Davis said, 'I'll just go back to being governor.'" He is 47.

Burdick said he felt he ran very well in the traditionally Republican city precincts, where GOP leaders felt Davis would have to show his greatest strength.

The run for the Senate was the high point in the political careers of both men. Davis was a small-town banker and state senator when he was tapped for the GOP gubernatorial nomination in 1956 and won a resounding victory.

Burdick's congressional victory in 1958 was the result of a sometimes shaky alliance between Democrats and the Nonpartisan League. The league, commonly referred to as the NFL, deserted the Republican column in 1956 after 40 years.

Burdick, son of former Rep. Usher L. Burdick (R-ND), again carried the Democratic-NPL banner in this election and had the backing of the Farmers Union, an organization for which he served as counsel for many years. Both men campaigned against farm policies of Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson.

The special Senate election coincided with the state primary. In the Republican balloting, voters apparently nominated endorsed candidates for two at-large Congressional seats and governor. Democrats had no primary contests.

Two Die As Car Hits Generator

PITTSBORO, N.C. (AP) — A station wagon carrying four Durham residents slammed into an electric generator that fell from a truck south of here Wednesday night, killing two and seriously injuring two.

The dead were listed as William Price Brown, 34, and Gayrene Durham Robbins, 27, formerly of Hillsboro.

Taken to a Sanford hospital were Mrs. Lela Harrison, 38, whose condition was critical, and 15-year-old Ronnie Watson, brother-in-law of Brown.

Mrs. Harrison's husband said the four had been to Florence, S.C., for special dental treatment and were returning home when the accident occurred.

Coroner W. C. Thomas said the truck was driven by Jack Deraway, 30, of Waverly, N.Y., who was released on $2,500 appearance bond pending an inquest here July 22. No charges were placed.

Deraway, who was driving the tractor trailer for Transformer and Motor Repair Co. of Buffalo, N.Y., said the station wagon was traveling north on U.S. highway 15-501 four miles south of here when it crossed the center line. He told officers he swerved the truck to avoid hitting it and the motor tumbled from the truck. Deraway said he was en route to Sumter, S.C.

Highway Patrolman J. E. Lee said the truck contained several such generators, each weighing 3,000 pounds. He said they were secured by chains.

George M. Cohan always insisted that his early "Venus, My Shining Love" was the best song he ever wrote. He got only $25 for it.

Might Consider It Next Year

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (AP)—Mrs. Stella E. Phipps, an 84-year-old grandmother, figured she might have won the Wyoming eliminations for the Mrs. America contest. She entered the contest but dropped out shortly before the event.

Her reason? "It is my duty to take care of my husband, who is 90," she explained. "If I feel any younger next year, I might enter the contest then."

Picking Jury For A Second Trial

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The retrial of Dr. R. Bernard Finch and Carole Tregoff on murder charges is still in the jury-choosing stage, but the defendants already have suffered two setbacks.

In Superior Court Wednesday, prosecutors announced they would again seek the death penalty for both.

In Washington, D.C., the Supreme Court denied Miss Tregoff's request that trial Judge LeRoy Dawson be disqualified.

Finch and his red-haired sweetheart are accused of murder and conspiracy in the slaying of the doctor's wife, Barbara, last July. Their first trial ended in a deadlocked jury last March.

Counsel for both sides said jury selection probably won't be completed until week after next.

FOR BETTER FISHING
AUGUSTA, Maine (AP)—Since 1951, 68 Maine ponds have been "reclaimed" to improve fishing. Reclaimed ponds are open to the public and the daily bag limit is five trout.

County farmers began harvesting Pitt's 5,000 acres of wheat, barley, oats, and rye around June 15 and should have the grain bagged and the straw baled by this weekend. Farm observers describe the current grain crop as generally good throughout the county.

Many Organizations Today Imitate Formula Of 'AA'

By BERNARD GAVZER
AP Staff Writer

An old proverb has it that imitation is the sincerest form of flattery.

Today there's a Gamblers Anonymous for the compulsive plunger, Narcotics Anonymous for the addict, Youth Anonymous for delinquents, even Patties Anonymous and Divorces Anonymous.

All take their cue from the success of Alcoholics Anonymous—the pioneer fellowship that started with the idea that people who are in the same serious fix are best equipped to help one another.

The two men who founded AA were hopeless alcoholics: One a New York stock broker, the other an Akron, Ohio, surgeon. They found they could stay sober by helping each other. From this odd partnership grew the society, which now claims 300,000 members.

Perhaps 10,000 or more of these members—joined by wives, husbands and children—will gather at Long Beach, Calif., beginning July 1 in a three-day commemoration of the society's 25th anniversary.

That AA should have survived 25 years and grown so spectacularly is a remarkable achievement considering how it operates. Unlike other organizations, it does not recruit members, it has no elaborate promotional setup, it uses no public figures to attract members, it conducts no fund-raising campaigns, it does not permit publication of names or photographs of any of its members, it does not affiliate with other organizations, it keeps clear of controversy.

AA is not prohibitionist. It does not oppose social drinking.

The society is a loosely knit organization with fairly casual and informal connections between groups. The average community group meets twice a week. One meeting is open to anyone who cares to come. The second is limited to members who generally talk about their problems.

Almost any AA group looks like a cross-section of society. Membership is open to all races, creeds, colors. There are members in 80 nations. There are AAs in convalescent hospitals, in remote, lonely places, in prisons.

Reviewing the quarter century since he last had a drink, co-founder Bill W., says "in the early days most of the members ranged from 40 to 55 when they came in. Now they're between 35 and 40, and half of them are not last gasp cases—people who are at the point of losing family, friends and job. I believe this is because the public as a whole is better informed and can recognize the signs of a problem drinker."

The AA keeps clear of debates on the nature of alcoholism. There are various viewpoints on the sub-

Refugee Invents A New Concrete

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — A refugee who came from a castle in Vienna to a house trailer in Nashville says he has invented a new kind of concrete which is resistant to oil, water, acids, gas and fire.

"There is a need for such a concrete in American industry," says Walter Tiedt, who worked as an industrial director in Europe. "It can be used for reinforcing columns, foundations, doors, windows, some considering it a medical or psychiatric problem much like any other illness, others regarding alcohol itself as the primary evil. The AA says the 'alcoholic' is one drink away from a drunk" and lets it go at that.

What Alcoholics Anonymous does know is that its members comprise only a small portion of American problem drinkers. The estimate varies, but a commonly used figure is about five million. It is a major national health problem.

glar-proof safes. It is lightweight and quick setting."

Tiedt works as a night watchman for a construction company, but during the day works to perfect his concrete. It is now being tested by a contracting firm and he hopes to have it on the market soon.

The family castle, which the Tiedts had occupied for 500 years, was lost in World War II. "First it was the Germans and then the Russians," he says.

Tiedt and two sons arrived here four years ago. "This is a good country," he says. "We can sleep well here."

Note Decline In Gov't Workers

WASHINGTON (AP) — A congressional survey showed today 2,393,409 civilian workers on federal payrolls at the end of May.

The report by the Senate-House Committee on Reduction of Non-essential Government Expenditures said the total was 124,806 lower than for April. It marked the first decline in the number on the federal payrolls since the end of January.

Renew Warning On MH-30 Treatment

RALEIGH (AP) — The heads of two tobacco groups have warned against the use by farmers of MH-30, a chemical used for control of sucker growth on tobacco.

Carl T. Hicks of Winston-Salem, president of the Flue-Cured Stabilization Corp., called upon tobacco buyers Wednesday to discriminate against tobacco treated with MH-30.

"If you don't discriminate against it with the opening of markets down there in Florida and Georgia it's going to repudiate farm leadership," Hicks said at a joint session of the Tobacco Assn. of the United States and the Leaf Tobacco Exporters Assn.

C. Stuart Carr Jr. of Richmond, Va., president of the tobacco association, said that "in his period when we are battling for our survival in world markets, it is entirely too hazardous to permit unrestricted use of a chemical which is under suspicion of producing deleterious effects."

Hicks called for enactment of legislation to provide that no insecticides or chemicals be allowed to be sold until they have been tested and approved.

Louis N. Dibrell Jr. of Danville, Va., president of the export group declared that in the past two years at least 38 countries have increased their tariffs or discriminatory practices affecting U.S. leaf.

Dibrell and Carr called for changes in the tobacco quota and price support program to make U.S. leaf more competitive in world markets.

J. Ross Newell of Richmond,

Va., was elected to succeed Carr as president of the tobacco association. Elected first, second and third vice presidents, respectively, were A. C. Monk Jr., Farmville; L. N. Dibrell Jr., Danville, and W. I. Skinner, Williamston.

John Palmer of Wilson is the new president of the export group succeeding Dibrell. Carr was named vice president and L. S. Ficklen of Greenville treasurer.

Another 'Best Friend' Is Lost

OGDEN, Utah (AP) — Man's best friend lost one Tuesday.

J. Seth Wright, 21, was minding his business in his back yard when his father called out that a dog was floating down a nearby canal.

Seth ran to a bridge and reached down to help the dog. Man's old buddy bit Seth on the neck and chin. Seth's doctor patched things up.

Ayden Acquires Modern Sweeper Unit

THIS STREET SWEEPER . . . has the "new look." It belongs to the city of Ayden and is the only one of its type belonging to a N. C. municipality. Elijah Davis is the driver.

AYDEN — The town of Ayden can boast a "first" over other towns in the state. Ayden is the first municipality in North Carolina to obtain a vacuum type street sweeper, which uses no water like the conventional type. Town Manager Cleveland Paylor says. Actually, the town has had the new street sweeper since the first of the year, but with warm weather, Elijah Davis, who is in charge of the machine, can get out more to use it. Paylor said Seymour Johnson Air Force Base near Goldsboro has two which are used within the base limits. Outside those two vacuum-type street sweepers, Ayden's machine is the only one of its kind in the state that Paylor knows of. Paylor said the vacuum type street sweeper works equally as well as the conventional type, but it makes less dust and is cleaner to operate than the other. The city bought it at a cost of about $8,900.

LOST ONE, GETS 7

Sky-High Pantry Tumbled Down

PESHATIN, Wash. (AP) — When an old tree came tumbling down in the Sybern Tree Farm it sounded more like an earthquake in the pantry than the demise of a tall old tree. Startled bystanders found two granite-ware frying pans, seven rusty tin plates and four tin cups, wired together and attached to a limb. It was an outfit such as shepherders used in pioneer days. It had been cached about 70 feet up and the hole of the tree had grown completely over the wire. Frank Lane, a forest engineer, estimated the kitchenware had been roosting in the tree for 65 or 70 years.

RESERVOIR BURST

BOMBAY (AP) — Torrential rains burst an irrigation reservoir in a village near Hyderabad city today, causing 18 deaths.

Tankers Become Command Posts

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — An Air Force general in a Strategic Air Command Stratotanker conceivably could be the one to send America's aerial might against an enemy who attacked this nation.

Three KC 135 Stratotanker — the Air Force's flying filling stations — underwent mechanical surgery at Tinker Air Force Base, Omaha, Neb., was wiped as aerial command posts in the event SAC's underground headquarters at Offutt Air Force Base, Omaha, Neb., was wiped out. One of the 4-jet engine craft will be on 15-minute alert at all times, says Gen. Thomas S. Power, SAC commander.

From a high-flying tanker, communications could be maintained with SAC's global bomber and missile force on the White House.

Inside a soundproof cubicle the width of the plane is a desk for the general and three aides. Around the desk are pilot type seats equipped with safety belts and only elbow distance away are two radio operator positions.

More communication switches are built flush into the desk and covered with removable, clear plastic tops.

The Air Force declines to disclose how long the modified tanker could stay aloft. Its ceiling is listed as 35,000 feet and range 4,000.

Apparatus in the 135-foot long Stratotanker includes the usual, such as parachutes and life rafts plus extra oxygen containers. There is nothing in the craft not designed for a utilitarian purpose, not even a galley.

Thanks To Taxpayers, U. S. Ending Its Fiscal Year Using 'Black Ink'

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — Thanks mainly to the taxpayers, the U. S. Treasury is using black ink today as it closes its books for the fiscal year.

This is good news to all those who fear further monetary inflation—a mainspring for a rising cost of living, although there are other pressures, too.

Also the Treasury is going to borrow less new money in the coming next six months than in any second half for several years.

This is good news for all others who want to borrow—state and local government agencies, corporations, and individuals. It means there will be less competition for the available funds—and perhaps somewhat easier borrowing terms.

The taxpayers get the major credit for the happier fiscal days in Washington because the Treasury is collecting more from individual income tax returns.

Part of this is because rising prices this year have meant larger tax withholding payments.

And returns filed by individuals have been running higher. Some think this is because of the drive to make taxpayers more conscientious about reporting dividend and interest receipts.

But the Agriculture Department has been doing its bit, too, to help out the Treasury. Because of lower price support spending for corn and unusually heavy export sales of cotton, the Agriculture Department hasn't spent as much recently as earlier it had been expected to.

Although the books won't be tallied for several days yet, it now seems sure that budget revenues for the 12 months ending today will top the January estimate of 78.6 billion dollars, and federal spending will be a bit below the January estimate of 78.4 billion. Most guesses now put a budget surplus at 500 million dollars or better.

The Treasury late today will announce the terms of its first cash borrowing for the fiscal year starting Friday. The Treasury always has to borrow new money in the last six months of a calendar year because tax payments are slow then. It hopes to repay these borrowings in the first six months of 1961 when tax payments reach their peak.

Prospects now are for the Treasury to seek about 6½ billion dollars in cash between July 1 and Jan. 1. In the last three years its borrowing in the July-through-December period has run closer to 10½ billion.

If the Treasury taps the money market for four billion fewer dollars this fall and winter, there will be just that much more for other borrowers to divvy up between themselves.

The final days of the congressional session will have a lot to do in determining how much of a Treasury surplus can be expected in the fiscal year. Spending bills are piled high on the log jam in the final days of the session.

And the trend of business from now until next June will play a major role, too. If business is good and incomes are high, individual tax returns will be high. If profits rise, so will corporate income tax payments.

If not—but that's another story.

New Laws For FBI To Enforce

CINCINNATI (AP) — Ed Mason, FBI, agent-in-charge of the southern Ohio area tells of these new laws that the FBI has been asked to enforce:

Only one-armed persons can carry a switchblade knife across a state line; wild horses cannot be shot from a moving vehicle; it is illegal to transport across a state line a refrigerator that cannot be opened from the inside, and it is illegal to use a replica of Smoky Bear. (Smoky Bear is the insignia of the U. S. Forestry Service.)

CARPING CRITICISM

VIRGINIA BEACH, Va. (AP) — The carp in Lake Holly have really eaten their heads off, so to speak. They chewed grass and roots at the lake's edge and caused a highway collapse. A city council verdict ruled that the carp will be poisoned and the lake restocked with game fish.

ALL IN ORDER — George Macready, in role of Gen. Robert E. Lee, has hair combed by Hollywood makeup men before filming of an episode for television's "The Rebel."

Sabotage Laid To Sub Crewman

PORTSMOUTH, N.H. (AP)—The Navy says a crewman was responsible for recent sabotage aboard the nuclear-powered submarine Nautilus.

Capt. James B. Grady, commander of the Portsmouth Naval Base, did not disclose the name of the man who chopped a hose being used to test the sub's evaporators.

Grady said an investigation is continuing but declined to say whether the man underwent disciplinary action.

Last fall some electrical cable on the Nautilus was cut and the Navy called it "intentional damage." No report has been issued on that damage as yet, Grady said.

The Nautilus has been undergoing overhaul for more than a year.

Integration Will Reach Levittown

LEVITTOWN, N.J. (AP)—This mass-produced community will be racially integrated next month, Levitt & Sons, Inc. announced Monday.

The Levitt firm said two Negro families are buying homes. One will move in during July, the other in August.

Levitt was ordered to sell homes to Negroes by a New Jersey Supreme Court decision. The U.S. Supreme Court refused to review the state court order two weeks ago.

Sabotage Laid To Sub Crewman

PORTSMOUTH, N.H. (AP)—The Navy says a crewman was responsible for recent sabotage aboard the nuclear-powered submarine Nautilus.

Capt. James B. Grady, commander of the Portsmouth Naval Base, did not disclose the name of the man who chopped a hose being used to test the sub's evaporators.

Grady said an investigation is continuing but declined to say whether the man underwent disciplinary action.

Patrol Prepares For Big Weekend

RALEIGH (AP)—Faced with a rising traffic death toll in recent weeks, the State Highway Patrol will make an all-out drive to hold down the number of traffic deaths during the July 4 holiday weekend.

"Every available man will be on duty under instructions to rigidly enforce the motor vehicle laws," promised Col. Dave Lambert, patrol commander. Lambert said the patrolmen would have all of their "whammies" in operation.

"We are urging all motorists to drive with extreme care and caution," said Lambert.

During the July 4 holiday period last year—a 2½-day span—there were 410 accidents on North Carolina highways that resulted in 209 persons injured and nine killed.

The ferris wheel is named for its inventor, G. W. G. Ferris.

Problems Of Early Corn Harvest To Be Discussed

Pitt County farmers will have a big stake in a meeting scheduled for Elizabeth City on July 8, according to Sam Winchester, Pitt County agricultural agent.

"The meeting has been called to help meet a serious threat to our early corn market," Winchester said.

Corn producers, grain handling equipment dealers, grain marketing firm operators, and other agricultural leaders are urged to attend.

For several years now there has been a trend toward earlier harvesting of corn in Eastern North Carolina. Farmers are trying to beat fall storms and get in on the high, late summer prices.

"A serious problem has arisen, however," Winchester added. "Much of the corn is harvested while it contains a high percentage of moisture, and the moisture isn't being properly removed."

"The result," Winchester said, "has been a decrease in the quality of our grain. Foreign buyers have become so concerned until they are threatening to buy their corn elsewhere."

The Elizabeth City meeting has been called to give producers, grain handlers, equipment dealers, and buyers a chance to discuss possible solutions to the problem. Attention will be centered on ways of properly harvesting and handling early harvested corn.

Participating in the meeting will be representatives of the departments of agriculture in North Carolina and Virginia, the U. S. Department of Agriculture, N.C. State College, VPI, the Farm Bureau, and the grain trade.

The meeting will be held in the county agricultural building in Elizabeth City. It is scheduled from 1:00 to 4:30 p.m. Discussions will be presented on how to properly harvest and handle early harvested corn. An opportunity will be presented for asking questions.

San Francisco's famed Union Square is constructed on land given to the city by its first postmaster, John W. Geary, who was later a general in the Union Army.

J. CLAUDE GASKINS, HESTER P. GASKINS and G. E. GRAIN MILLS, INCORPORATED, IN THE SUPERIOR COURT

Under and by virtue of that order entered in the above entitled action by the Honorable Malcolm C. Paul, Judge Regularly Holding the Courts of the Third Judicial District of the Superior Court of North Carolina, wherein the undersigned Receiver is ordered to advertise and sell the following described real and personal property:

REAL PROPERTY: That certain tract or parcel of land situated, lying and being in Greenville Township, Pitt County, North Carolina, on the North side of Tar River and on the West side of State Highway No. 11 and beginning at a concrete marker located 28 feet East of the Little Ditch in the line between J. A. Pollard and the lands of the State of North Carolina; thence running Eastwardly with said line to J. A. Pollard's corner in the line of the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad property; thence Southwardly with the west line of the said railroad property 700 feet; thence Westwardly in a straight line to an iron stob, a new corner; thence Northwardly from said iron stob a straight line 703 feet to the concrete marker at the beginning, and containing 3 acres, more or less, BUT THERE IS EXCEPTED FROM THE ABOVE DESCRIPTION that parcel of land containing nine-tenths of an acre (0.9 acres), more or less which is described in that option from G. E. Grain Mills, Inc. - to - N. G. Sim-onowich recorded in Book E-31, at page 97, Pitt County Registry as follows: "That certain tract or parcel of land situate, lying and being in Greenville Township, Pitt County, North Carolina, and beginning at a stake in the old canal, the common corner of Lot No. 2, and running thence along the old canal to a fence, South 69-16 East 248 feet, more or less; thence along and with the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad property, South 6-37 West 188 feet, more or less, to a stake in the existing metal fence; thence North 63-15 West 244 feet, more or less, to a fence; thence along and with the line of Lot No. 2, South 15 West 165 feet, more or less, to a ditch, the beginning point, and being Lot No. 3 of the property of the Greenville Parts and Metal Company, Inc., as shown on map record in Book 9 at page 60 of the Register of Deeds office of Pitt County, to which map reference is hereby made for a more complete and accurate description; AND THERE IS INCLUDED IN THE DESCRIPTION OF THE PROPERTY BEING SOLD, that certain lot fronting on the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad right of way which is approximately 100 feet square and which is described in that deed of record in Book C-27, at page 191, Pitt County Registry, which one-hundred-foot-square parcel is completely surrounded by the description given first above as containing 3 acres, more or less, which three-acre description is contained in that deed of record in Book R-27, at page 303, Pitt County Registry, to which reference is hereby made for a more accurate description, the property being sold being approximately two and one-tenths acres and being the grain elevators and feed mill of G. E. Grain Mills, Incorporated.

PERSONAL PROPERTY: The following amounts of grain: CORN: 18,135.41 bushels of Sample Grade Mix Corn. WHEAT: 501.62 bushels of Sample Grade Wheat. CORN SCREENINGS: 13,084.81 bushels of 30-pounds Test Weight, Musty. SOYBEAN SPLITS: 9,748.61 Sample Grade. All of said real estate and personal property is offered for sale free of lien and any and all sales are subject to confirmation by the Court. A ten percent deposit will be required on each of the sales pending confirmation by the Court. The grain shall be sold separately from the real estate and the real estate and grain will not be offered together in one sale unless the same is requested in writing at the sale. THE LOCATION OF THE SALE shall be at the premises of G. E. Grain Mills, Incorporated, just off North Carolina State Highway No. 11 in North Greenville, N. C. THE TIME AND DATE OF THE SALE shall be at twelve o'clock, Noon, on Friday the 8th day of July, 1960.

PRIVATE BIDS ON BOTH THE GRAIN AND THE REAL ESTATE will be received by the undersigned Receiver up until midnight of the 22nd day of June, 1960, but not thereafter. Bids mailed to the Receiver must be in the Receiver's hands by that time. Private bids, if accepted, are also subject to confirmation by the Court before any sale is final.

EXAMINATION OF THE PROPERTY by interested parties may be had by application to the undersigned Receiver at his office in the Edwards Building in Greenville, N. C. or to Mr. Pete Alderman at the offices of G. E. Grain Mills, Inc. in North Greenville at any time during business hours and before the date of the sale and samples of said grain will be available as apart of such examination at the property site if desired. This the third day of June, 1960.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market presented a spotty picture with prices mixed early this afternoon.

Gains and losses of fractions to a point prevailed among most pivotal issues. A few specially situated stocks made wider moves.

As Bethlehem joined other steel companies in plans to close many of their operations over the July 4 weekend, steels were mixed, holding steady after sharp declines early this week.

The approach of the holiday weekend, which usually marks a turning point in stock trading, created a mood of uncertainty.

Big Three autos showed a slightly lower tendency. Oils were off, paced by a drop of more than a point for Texaco which reacted to the takeover of its Cuban refinery by the Castro government.

Rails were up a bit as merger talk continued.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 1.55 at 639.94.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 20 to 221.80 with the industrials unchanged, the rails up .50 and the utilities up .10.

Corporate bonds advanced. Government bonds were unchanged to a shade lower.

Methodists Delay Headquarters Plan

ROCKY MOUNT, N.C. (AP) — The North Carolina Methodist Conference ends its meeting here today with the reading of ministerial appointments for the coming year.

The conference, after sharp debate, decided Wednesday to set up a special committee to study plans for its proposed $600,000 headquarters building in Raleigh.

The action delayed possibly for several months construction on the building.

A proposal that the structure be paid for with rent from other agencies which would use the building has drawn opposition in some Methodist circles.

The debate over the proposed building was touched off when a resolution was offered by the Rev. Paul Carruth of Raleigh. He declared a choice should be offered between an economy type building and a more expensive one.

His resolution proposed that a committee be appointed to study the entire project for a year. This was defeated. Instead, the conference adopted a substitute resolution setting up a committee which will report to a special session to be held after Sept. 1. The time will be set by Bishop Paul Garber of Richmond, Va.

The conference set up a headquarters building committee two years ago to make plans for the new building. The Rev. Graham S. Eubank, Raleigh district superintendent, said he resigned as a member of the committee in protest last February. He added he opposed the suggestion that a motel and restaurant be built on the property.

The 1960-61 budget recommended by the World Service and Finance Commission was adopted by the delegates. The budget, which totals $1,720,189, asks for benevolences by districts as follows: Burlington, $130,240; Durham, $149,933; Elizabeth City, $103,224; Fayetteville, $149,670; Goldsboro, $113,934; New Bern, $129,329; Raleigh, $175,080; Rocky Mount, $138,949; Wilmington, $101,435.

Healing Service Planned Tonight

The Ministry of Christian healing will be held tonight at 7:30 at St. Paul's Episcopal Church. The Rector, the Rev. John W. Drake Jr., will present a meditation on Acts 3:1-16, the healing of the lame man at the temple.

Hymns of healing will be sung by the congregation. The laying on of hands will be offered for those desiring this ministry.

Christian healing is taking a larger part of the Church's ministry. More and more people are recognizing the essential element of the spirit in good health. By prayer, by faith, and by understanding the whole body, mind, and spirit can we come to know the fullness of life.

This healing service is available to men and women of need. Spiritual hunger can be satisfied and faith and trust renewed in this joyous confrontation with Jesus Christ.

These healing services are a last Thursday monthly observance in St. Paul's Parish. People of this community are invited to present. The prayers of faithful people are requested and the presence of all is desired.

Tonight there will be a meeting of the Order of St. Luke following the service.

Space Trips Will Have Time Limit

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Space travelers in the immediate future will have to limit their trips to 130 days, a meeting of scientists was told Wednesday.

David Reitz, advanced design engineer for the Martin Co., told the Institute of the Aeronautical Sciences that 130 days is long enough for a visit to the moon, but too short for exploration of Mars and Venus.

Reason for the limit, he said, is radiation. He said that for trips of more than 130 days a space cabin measuring four by five feet in volume would require 40,000 pounds of shielding—more than rocket boosters can presently carry into space.

Competes Today For N.C. Title

DURHAM — Jeanette Worthington of Ayden is competing today for the title of North Carolina Dairy Princess here in Durham.

Miss Worthington, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur L. Worthington of Peaceful Acres, Ayden, was first crowned Pitt County Dairy Princess and later was selected Dairy Princess of Area 10, which included Pitt, Greene, Lenoir, Beaufort and Hyde Counties.

The state Dairy Princess will be crowned in ceremonies tonight. Most of the activities in connection with the state contest have been held in the Washington-Duke Hotel. Twelve young ladies are vying for the crown.

Activities have included social hour, a tour through a milk plant, a reception and participation in a fashion show.

Sponsors of the contest are the North Carolina dairy industry and the Durham Chamber of Commerce.

Miss Worthington, 21 year old, will be a senior at Meredith College next fall.

Underground Explosions Rock City, Cut Power

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Five underground explosions beneath Public Square shook downtown Cleveland Wednesday night. The blasts cut off electric power to nearby buildings, flipped manhole covers into the air and smashed several plate glass windows.

The only injury was to a man who suffered minor cuts from flying glass.

The explosions were triggered when gas and air — heated by smoldering insulation covering high-power underground cables — came in direct contact with cool air from the street.

Thick black smoke poured from a dozen manholes and flames spouted 15 feet high from one of them.

Vehicles and pedestrians, endangered by the flying manhole covers, were cleared from the square. Buses were rerouted for nearly three hours. Sixty extra policemen were assigned to the busy hub of downtown Cleveland.

Police officials said it was fortunate the blasts came an hour after the height of the going-home rush.

Fly Separately Back To Monaco

NEW YORK (AP) — Prince Rainier and Princess Grace of Monaco flew to Europe on separate planes Wednesday night, and both refused to comment on reports that they have been having domestic difficulties.

The prince was asked to comment on a newspaper columnist's report that the princess was angry at him because he allegedly forced her to return home while her father, the late John B. Kelly of Philadelphia, was seriously ill.

The prince replied to the newspaper's question: "Well, you read the columns. I DON'T."

The princess was asked about the domestic difficulty report as she arrived at Idlewild Airport alone.

"I really don't have time," she replied.

The prince and his princess, former actress Grace Kelly, had been in Philadelphia for her father's funeral. The princess had been at her millionaire father's bedside during part of his final illness, but was in Monaco when he died.

Lois Weber, of the Arthur P. Jacobs public relations firm which represents the Principality of Monaco, told newsmen the prince was flying to Paris for business reasons and the princess had chosen to go home direct.

Press Ass'n To Convene July 14

ASHEVILLE (AP) — The three-day meeting of the North Carolina Press Assn. opens here July 14. Clifton Daniels, a North Carolina native and now assistant managing editor of the New York Times, will speak at a banquet July 15 in connection with the meeting.

Robert Bunnelle, president and publisher of the Asheville Citizens-Times, is program chairman for the event. He said Leon Dure, retired executive of the Winston-Salem Journal-Sentinel also would speak.

Only Triplets? Navy Is Jolted

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — An enlisted man's wife jolted the Navy by giving birth to triplets instead of the expected quadruplets.

Mrs. Thomas A. Box, wife of a chief aviation technician, Wednesday night went into labor prematurely. The first of the triplets—two boys and a girl—was born about midnight.

The Memphis Naval Hospital's jacket expectations were chilled earlier by an X-ray taken when the early labor started.

"A film was made to determine the exact position of the babies," said Capt. Fitz J. Weddell. "This film revealed only three fetal skulls."

Weddell said the previous X-ray had shown what was interpreted to be four infants—which would have been a one in a million case.

Weddell said additional X-rays were not made earlier "so as to avoid unnecessary exposure of unborn babies to excess radiation."

Mrs. Box, 38, and her husband who is 40, already were the parents of four children, ranging in age from 20 years to 20 months.

The Navy said Mrs. Box and the three additions to the family were apparently doing well.

No Charges In Auto Collision

Approximately $90 damage resulted when two cars collided at Tenth and Railroad Sts. shortly after noon yesterday.

Police identified the drivers as Ralph Carey Warren of Rt. 2, Raleigh and Joseph Earl Brown of 1709 Trementon Drive.

No charges were placed by officers.

South Dickinson Ave. will become Memorial Ave. if Planning-Zoning recommendations of last night are followed by the City Council.

The commissioners recommended the change after City Manager Leonard Blaxam said the post office had reported some confusion due to the existence of two Dickinson Aves.

What is presently known as South Dickinson Ave. follows N.C. 11-U.S. 13 along Tucker Circle and Hillsdale subdivisions to the city limits.

There is also a West Dickinson Ave. which begins at Memorial Drive and continues to the city limits on the Farmville Highway (U.S. 294-A).

The commissioners indicated they felt this route is the logical continuation of the older portion of Dickinson Ave. from Five Points to West End Circle. They recommended no name change for the West Dickinson Ave. portion of the street.

The name change recommendation for South Dickinson Ave. was adopted after the commission unanimously passed a motion by Kenneth Hile that "in view of the confusion and for the convenience of the people living in that area, there should be some change in the name of the streets."

The name Memorial Ave. was suggested as the logical continuation of the present Memorial Ave. from the Tar River to West End Circle.

Two highway projects have made the entire length of the route, from the river to the city limits beyond Hillsdale a continuous four-lane drive.

The recommended name change must go to the City Council for final action before it can become effective.

The commission officially accepted a plat of Engelwood Addition No. 3 which includes a 70-foot right-of-way thoroughfare street which should eventually carry north-south traffic around the city.

Commission members had individually given their approval of the plat earlier.
