Hot Holiday Weekend In Pitt Ended By Downpour; Traffic Heavy, 5 Wrecks

Pitt Countians woke up to a rainy, dreary morning today and the three-day Independence holiday of beautiful weather. It was hot all three days of the weekend but the sun shone from near clear skies throughout the period.

The barometer was rising. Winds were northeast at 10-12 miles per hour. Gusts of 24 miles per hour were recorded during this morning's storm.

Yesterdays and, in fact, the entire weekend were rather quiet about the county. Traffic was heavy on highways but only routine traffic accidents were reported.

Nation Counts Record Toll For Highways On Holiday

California had 30 or more. The council, which had estimated 370 traffic fatalities for the period that began at 6 p.m. Friday and ended at midnight Monday, issued a statement saying: "If this country received warning in advance that a national catastrophe would strike on a given weekend, bringing death to more than 400, does anybody doubt that emergency measures would be taken to prevent such a thing from happening?"

to drive so as to save their own lives and the lives of others—that these appalling holiday tolls continue to prevail and to grow."

The weekend toll also eclipsed the 367 traffic deaths of last Memorial Day weekend, which also spanned the 78 hours between 6 p.m. Friday and midnight Monday.

Kennedy Answers Truman Charges, Point By Point

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) says he won't step aside at anyone's request, including that of former President Harry S. Truman.

That was Kennedy's reply Monday to Truman's suggestion that maybe Kennedy isn't old enough or experienced enough to be the Democratic nominee for president.

When newsmen pressed her how she knew of this, she said she learned about it from unnamed doctors. Then Connally broke in and said "let's not belabor the question."

Pierre Salinger, Kennedy's press aide, said angrily "it is a sure sign of the desperation of the opposition that they should resort to such despicable tactics just before the convention."

Evans-Willoughby Exchange Vows In Ayden

AYDEN — In the Ayden Christian Church on Sunday, Miss Joyce Annette Willoughby became the bride of Dallas Mason Evans. The bride's pastor, the Rev. John L. Goff, and the Rev. Goodwin Moore of Washington officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Miss Willoughby is the daughter of Mrs. Larry Bruce Willoughby and the late Mr. Willoughby of Ayden. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Canady Evans of Greenville.

The vows were spoken amidst a setting of bridal greenery, seven branched candelabras, floor baskets of white mums, gladiolas, and an arrangement of mixed bridal flowers which centered the communion table.

Mrs. Roy L. Turnage Jr., organist, and Mrs. Raymond Lee Collins Jr., soloist, presented the wedding music. Mrs. Collins sang, "O Promise Me, The Sweetest Story Ever Told," and used as the benediction the "Wedding Prayer."

Mrs. Dallas Mason Evans

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Joseph Daniel Willoughby, was dressed in a floor length gown of imported Chantilly lace and tulle. It featured a sabrina neckline, trimmed in sequins and pearls with a basque fitted waist and bridal buttons were used from the neck and waistline down back. Long fitted lace sleeves ending in a point over the wrist; the front of the dress featured the center panel of nylon sheer and rapped in scallops of puffs ending in a dramatic climax of white bridal satin bows at the end of each scallop. She carried a white Bible which was centered with a orchid showered with stephanotis and matching ribbons.

The bride chose for her maid of honor the groom's sister, Miss Judy Evans of Greenville. She wore a ballerina gown of two-tone blue over blue silk organza with fitted front cummerbund and had a large bow in the back draped over the hem skirt. She wore a matching picture hat of silk braid with tulle band and matching shoes and short white gloves. She carried a bridal bouquet of red roses with matching ribbons.

Mrs. Willard Joyner of Nashville, Misses Judy Hart of Grafton and Sylvia Taylor and Betty Vic Gaskins of Vanceboro were bridesmaids. They wore dresses and hats identical to the honor attendant. They also carried baskets of long stemmed red roses with matching ribbons.

Master Michael Nelms Joyner of Nashville was ring bearer.

Little Miss Louann Willoughby, cousin of the bride, was flower girl. She wore a dress similar to the bride's and carried a basket of rose petals.

The honorary bridesmaids were Misses Sue Fort and Jeannette Worthington of Ayden; Betty Jean Mobley of Winterville; Blanche Dudley and Joyce Jenkins of Greenville. They wore pastel cocktail dresses and carried cascades of white mums.

Mrs. Willoughby, mother of the bride, was attired in white lace sheath dress over blue taffeta with matching accessories and a white orchid corsage.

The distinguished award for the title was finally bestowed upon Mrs. Virginia Gillespie of Hendersonville. This is the highest award an individual auxiliary member can win.

Mrs. C. D. Thomas of Fayetteville was installed as Department President for the ensuing year. The new president appointed Mrs. West as Deputy Chief of Staff. Mrs. West will also serve as personal chaplain to Mrs. Thomas during her term of office.

Official communications were read and it was noted that any auxiliary member is eligible for and under the national and state cancer program. For several years the auxiliaries have sponsored a Cancer Research Center at Bar Harbor, Maine.

Mrs. J. A. Joyner Jr., chairman of the Caswell Training School committee, reported that nine gifts have been sent as per a request from the school.

Comparative Day Of Rest For 86 Beauties

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — This is a day of comparative rest for the 86 beauties in the Miss Universe pageant.

All they have to do is rehearse about six hours for the beginning of the eliminations Wednesday night and attend special luncheons and parties for the benefit of contest sponsors and contributors.

It will be a welcome respite for most of the girls to be in the air-conditioned Miami Beach Convention Hall for rehearsals instead of in the hot sun hours on end posing for pictures and riding on a parade of boats along the intracoastal waterway.

That's what they did Monday, and the muggy, 90-degree heat took its toll.

Surprisingly, a girl from a North African country, Tunisia, was the first to show the effects of the heat. Louise Marie Garrigues of Tunisia keeled over in the lobby of the exhibition hall after the 43 American and 43 foreign beauties had been out in the sun posing for official pageant photographers.

Later when the girls went to a hotel garden to pose for news photographers Judy Rebecca Fletcher of Alexandria, La., almost passed out and was taken to a rest room.

Teri Janssen of Los Angeles, Calif.—one of the favorites for the Miss U.S.A. title, deserted the outdoor photo session and went into the air-conditioned hotel.

Other contestants soon followed suit. Wednesday night the field of 43 American girls will be trimmed to 15 candidates for the Miss U.S.A. title. Thursday night Miss U.S.A. will be crowned. She then will join the 43 foreign entrants in competition Friday and Saturday night for the Miss Universe crown now worn by Akiko Kojima of Japan.

Modest Start On Massive Problem

By DON SEAVER
Charlotte Observer Staff Writer

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — "These children are scared to death. They are like a man in a landing boat on a beachhead waiting to face enemy bullets."

Thus calmly, quietly, 32-year-old Dr. W. C. Rippey Jr. explains the plight of the 10 Tar Heel children under his command.

The bullets they shrink from are what to you and me would be the normal experiences of every day.

They are psychotic children — suffering from childhood schizophrenia — house in a drab corridor of John Umstead Hospital in Durham. They are psychotic children — suffering from childhood schizophrenia — house in a drab corridor of John Umstead Hospital in Durham.

The unit doesn't look like much.

But it is a modest beginning in a massive problem.

From it may come knowledge for prevention and treatment of mental illness. And from it, too, may come hope for 10 children where, until the doors of Butner swung open for two children for the first time, in the Spring of 1957, there was none.

These kids are not retarded, but when they came to the hospital they had an effective IQ of zero.

To test a child's IQ you must communicate with him and with the schizophrenic child this takes time.

After a year's time, their IQs may be raised to 100. Normally, the IQs of these 10 kids would range from 100 to 220 or 130.

Two of them, five-years-old, do not talk. Another who is seven has never uttered a word.

One little blond-haired boy came in at the age of four and a half as a non-talker. Now at five he is beginning to use some words and phrases and can be understood.

These children live in a world filled with fear.

Childhood schizophrenics generally are more difficult to treat than adults. They require constant attention. They must learn as they progress for they have little or no experience with the world.

Tranquillizers are used on the children if they get very upset. But like aspirin with headaches, tranquillizers relieve the symptoms but do not cure.

"Because of their fears," says Dr. Rippey, "they create an imaginary world of their own where they can order things as they want them. The thing to do is to make yourself more attractive than their world and gradually get them to come out."

"Then explain to them their fears and what they mean. It takes a great deal of time — often a year before they show signs of improvement."

"But without a residential program such as this, their cases are hopeless."

Dr. Rippey estimates that the treatment programs for these nine boys and one girl will take from three to six or seven years.

The first child is expected to be released in 1961 from the psychiatric children's unit.

He will have been there four years. But he will have no place to go.

"We'll have no place to send him," says Dr. Rippey. "We can't throw him right back into society."

"Like victims of many illnesses he will need some rehabilitation."

What is needed, says Dr. Rippey, is an organized day-care program where children might go during the day for continued treatment and classes.

At night they might return to their homes. Their venture back into society must be on a gradual basis.

In addition, there is another major problem that will become more acute in the immediate future. The children's unit can care for kids only up to the age of 12.

With the beginnings of adolescence, the needs become vastly different, more difficult. Adolescence is a trying time even with the normal child, Dr. Rippey points out.

The programs for the smaller child are of little benefit to the adolescent and teen-ager.

"We had one youngster here who had to be taken out when he was 13," says Dr. Rippey. "We tried to continue his treatment on an out-patient basis. But it just didn't work out. He was just too sick."

Today, North Carolina has a meagre 10 beds for small children. It has none for adolescents and teen-agers, most of whom go to the training schools which are not set up to handle emotional problems.

Problems are nothing new to the Butner unit.

From May 1957 until February, 1959, the children were sent home each weekend because there were not enough personnel to staff the unit full-time. From February until December, the kids were sent home every other weekend.

The experience of tearing themselves away from their homes, each week was unsettling both to the children and the parents.

But finally last December, an increase in appropriations allowed them to hire the necessary staff.

Although the average yearly cost per child of the Butner unit may seem large, in comparison with total state hospital budget of $14 million, it is a mere pittance.

For the fiscal year 1957-58, an appropriation of $56,050 was asked $28,735 was granted. For 1958-59, $55,850 was asked and $38,002 granted.

More than $46,000 was requested for both 1959-60 and 1960-61. Approximately $41,000 was granted for each year.

These budgets do not include Dr. Rippey's salary, building maintenance or food bills.

The Butner unit began as a pilot project to determine whether it was needed, to see if it could be staffed and to see if it was feasible.

"Gradually, it became apparent there was a great need for it," says Dr. Rippey, who adds that they could probably fill all the beds they can get.

There is now a growing waiting list of North Carolina children who need the intensive treatment only Butner can offer.

A new building is now under construction at Butner to house the children's unit. It is expected to house 25 children when it is opened up, probably next October.

Plan Open Trial For U-2 Airman

MOSCOW (AP) — Francis Gary Powers, the American U2 pilot held here on spy charges, will be given an "open trial," says Soviet Deputy Premier Frol Koslov.

Powers' name came up in conversation between reporters and Soviet officials at a U. S. Embassy Independence Day party.

Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan said it was up to the prosecutor to set the actual trial date. Mikoyan added he did not know when the trial would be held.

He commented that Powers will get justice, and Koslov chimed in with the statement "it will be open trial."

Powers has been held since last May 1. His U2 plane had been downed while on a spy flight over Soviet territory.

Youths Invaded Swimming Area

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — Some 25 Negro youths invaded a white swimming area on Chickamauga Lake a few miles north of here, threw rocks at parked cars and taunted white swimmers with threats to disrobe in their presence, police reported.

Several of the Negroes Monday entered the water where whites were swimming.

Easing Of N. C. Financial Worries

North Carolina's financial condition at the end of the fiscal year, which terminated Thursday was much better than all but the most optimistic citizens thought a year ago it would be.

The legislature when it set up the budget for the past fiscal year estimated a credit balance of some 15 million dollars. Few thought there would be sufficient revenue during the year to pay the five per cent contingent bonus to school teachers which would cost some seven millions.

On the basis of preliminary figures, however, North Carolina ended its fiscal year Thursday night with a credit balance between $35 and $40 millions. This amount will be over and above the $7 million paid to teachers in the form of a bonus for the past year.

It is most encouraging indeed to see North Carolina's finances in such good shape. Predictions now say the state will have a credit balance of somewhere near $35 million next June 30 instead of a zero balance or perhaps be in the red as the legislature predicted in its session last year.

In view of the fact that North Carolina during this biennium is spending some $27 million of non-recurring revenue for operational expenses, the credit balance holds out the hope that taxes may not have to be drastically increased next year to meet the needs of the state. Regular sources of revenue will have to make up for the windfall withholding taxes being collected this year. If new taxes are to be avoided, current sources of revenue will also have to provide for expanding present services to keep pace with the needs.

It is extremely doubtful that the current tax structure of the state will be able to produce sufficient revenues to meet all the demands made next year. Even so, the fact that the state currently is in much better shape financially than was expected earlier eases somewhat the financial worries predicted for the 1961 legislature.

North Carolina is by no means out of the woods financially. The citizens of the state would at this point be foolish to conclude that no new taxes or higher taxes will be necessary for the next biennium. At the same time there is reason now to expect that we will not be bad off next year this time as was expected when the budget for this biennium was adopted.

Wishful Thinking, Or Is A Split In The Air?

Is it all wishful thinking on the part of the free world, or are there genuine signs that a major split is in the making between the Soviet Union and Red China?

Perhaps there are just straws in the wind which will blow away as quickly as they have appeared, but on the other hand developments in many parts of the world point to growing discontent on the part of Red China in its second fiddle role in the communist empire.

From Warsaw comes the report that Red China soon will open "friendship clubs" in all of the satellite countries of the Soviet Union. From East Berlin comes the report that Moscow has ordered the purging of all officials in the party suspected of being pro-Chinese. Soviet technicians in Outer Mongolia are being rapidly replaced by Red Chinese. Russians are being dropped as a required course in schools of Red China and is being placed on the elective list for students, as is English.

Since the U-2 incident there have come to light reports that spy planes have photographed missile bases in the Soviet Union whose only possible targets could be on mainland of Red China.

In spite of the implications, these ripples in the communist solid front do not mean that a major break is coming between the Soviet Union and Red China. They do suggest, however, that each of these powerful partners is suspicious of the other and neither is satisfied with its relative position.

Red China wants a greater say in communist affairs; it is no longer content to look to Moscow for its orders. The Soviet leaders, on the other hand, are perhaps growing more concerned about the strength and potential of their junior partner in the Far East. They are not willing to relinquish control of communist affairs on the international level and Red China is posing a threat to the Soviet position in some areas of the globe.

It is difficult to imagine these two great communist forces coming to an open break and perhaps conflicts in the near future. But in the dog-eat-dog philosophy of communism, neither is it unreasonable to believe that the thirst for power might put them at each others throat one day.

Final Solution To Middle Age

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Are you middle-aged? Do you feel worthless?

This feeling is very common to many people in their autumn years.

Even middle-aged women sometimes feel a sense of uselessness, once their children are reared.

If a woman is usually too smart—and has too much basic self-respect—to let that feeling linger long. She cures herself by taking off her shoes which is a feminine remedy for almost any ailment, by eating a steak dinner, by buying a new hat, or by picking a quarrel with her husband. For some reason women always feel better after fussing at their husband.

It is the middle-aged man who is more likely to get the feeling he is no good—and to brood over it.

He may be a pillar of the community. He may never have gone to jail in his life. He may be doing well on his job, paying his debts, and abstaining from striking his children or dog in public. He may even remember to send a greeting card to his mother-in-law on Mothers Day.

Yet he is dissatisfied with himself. He is swept by recurring moods of black melancholy. He feels, unreasonably to be sure, that he and his life add up to a mutual zero.

This man, obviously, is in need of what psychologists call "ego satisfaction." He needs to build a better opinion of himself, to regain a feeling of virtue and an appreciation of his own worth. How can a middle-aged man do this? If you have this problem, here are a few suggestions:

Buy yourself an automatic back-patting. When you come home from work, feeling low, you simply stand in front of the machine. It pats you repeatedly on the shoulder with a firm hand while a tape-recorded voice booms in your ear, "you're the greatest."

Confess to your wife you feel like a bum. From then on the problem is hers—and she will fight it, too. She won't permit any husband of hers to feel like a bum. She has too much pride.

Move to a hut in the wilderness, and build a better mousetrap. The world will then beat a path to your door—thus making it at least easier for you to move back into town.

Read the Encyclopedia Britannica clear through. Anyone who does this always winds up with an almost insufferable sense of superiority over the common herd.

Love yourself in a new and important cause. For example, you don't start a League for Higher Taxes? There is no surer cause to lose yourself in. Everyone will tell you, "Get lost."

The main thing to do is not to give into this widespread feeling of middle-aged uselessness. Do something about it.

If all else fails, there is one final solution.

Grow old. Then, at least, you won't feel middle-aged.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS BURDEN OF PROOF

"Christianity isn't practical." People have been making this accusation for centuries. They have been saying that while religion has its place as a wholesome factor in life, comforting people when they were sorrowful and giving its devotees a peaceful state of mind day by day, still, when it comes to the big issues of business and statecraft, men have to forsake the principles of religion and take up the arms of the world. Christianity just isn't practical enough to wrestle with the hard realities faced by the statesmen of today.

Well, look around the world at its devastated cities, its dislocated populations, its starving millions—is this practical? This is what has resulted from trying the world's ways in the settlement of human problems. Could anything be less practical than the things we have been trying for the past ten years? Is war practical? Is the atomic bomb practical as a means for keeping recalcitrant humanity in line? Is international diplomacy, with its complete reliance on expediency and its cynical disregard of moral principle, practical?

The burden of proof rests on those who speak in a depreciating fashion about Christianity to show that they are using a better means, or know of a better means, for bringing the world out of moral chaos. As Chesterton said: "Christianity has not been tried and found to fail. It has been found inconvenient and not tried."

Bruised, But Awake At Last

Notes On This And That

The following message was sent to a certain person on a postcard from a motel-nightclub in Las Vegas:

"Stay here with me. Gogi." Gogi, needless to say, is part of the club act. The card was printed except for the message, made to look like ink writing. Gogi's picture was on the front. That's the personalized touch to advertising.

Also intriguing to some. Gogi, that is.

In the home of a young three-year-old named Lou Robin things are never dull.

The other day she dropped some of her toys, and everybody knew it because of the loud crash. That crash was followed by a raised voice, saying "DARN IT."

The clang expression brought the mother flying to the site of the obviously disgusted young lady. Mother asked Lou Robin where she had heard the awful expression she used. To which the young lady replied and blamed an older cousin.

After a lecture from her mother that such expressions are not ladylike and not becoming to a three-year-old, Lou Robin replied:

"All right, Mommy, I'll say it soft," and she whispered, "Darn it."

In another young family, the couple has a son a year old.

The mother, like a lot of mothers, calls her little son's toes "piggies."

The father has been most upset at his son's toes being called piggies, and at a time when the young man is learning things.

The father's reasoning: He'll grow up thinking his toes are really piggies!

Some fathers!

How many people go to these rivers, which still flow by houses dating back to the Civil War, with slave quarters and dungeons—and never notice?

Opinions In Brief

"The two-party system, in which we do largely follow our British cousins, is in itself logical and confusing. We have only to read the list of votes in Congress to realize that each party represents almost every legal shade of doctrine."—New York Times.

"Carry Nation was born about 75 years too soon. Today she could have a field day with her hatchet on shiny new station wagon, sports cars and even perambulators."—The Montgomery advertiser.

"Peace and understanding between nations lie more in a process of evolution than in summit meetings."—Industrial Review.

"If the postwar inflationary era is, indeed, ended, it means that the United States will have to obtain more production at lower or no increased costs. If we are to stay in competition with the highly efficient countries of western Europe and Japan, we'll have to avoid, among other things, costly strikes such as the one in steel."—Portland Oregonian.

"Unless a strong foot is put down by the United States, Russia may bring about a perilous disarmament agreement sooner than most people had thought. The clamor is led by well organized and well rehearsed students in the free nations. We cannot afford to give in to the wishes of such mobs if we want to avoid committing national suicide."—Elizabeth City Daily Advance.

Nikita Doesn't Belong

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Copyright, 1960, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Again and again, Nikita Khrushchev has interfered in the American election campaign. He has declined to continue negotiations for disarmament at Geneva because President Eisenhower no longer counts, according to the former said Khrushchev. He will negotiate further with the United States when it has a President who pleases him; besides Ike will last only until January. Then somebody else will be President. Why waste time with a man who retires in January?

It is no longer amusing that some Democrats and even some Republicans would play ducks and drakes with our foreign policy because it is a Presidential campaign and speeches have to be made. Senator Fulbright advocates that the Presidential campaign be open for a full discussion of foreign affairs. Many of us have advocated that since 1932, the last time that any major subject of national interest was discussed in a Presidential election. During the Depression and the war years, it was regarded as a sin to hold an independent view on any subject. If one differed from Franklin D. Roosevelt, he was painted as a Fascist, Nazi, or pro-Japanese.

By all means, let us restore freedom of thought and freedom of speech. But freedom always entails risks. The candidate that turns out to be Khrushchev's man will not be elected. There may be splinter votes in Khrushchev's denunciation of American candidates or his praise of them, but there are no American votes in it. Khrushchev's hatred for Eisenhower not only breaches the bounds of propriety but requires psychological rather than political explanation. The "Spirit of Camp David" was a Khrushchev phrase and was used by the Kremlin for propagandistic purposes throughout the world. It represented a Khrushchev victory.

The hatred for Eisenhower, the bitter attacks on the man personally, the costly worldwide propaganda to destroy President Eisenhower's reputation not only currently but in history present a vindictiveness hardly expected among serious-minded men. It sounds more like the chatter of those little men on the fringes of safe society who betray, belie and denounce to appear smart and important. It really does not sound at all like Khrushchev who worked his way to the top by tough steps.

This curious radioteletype was sent from Peking on June 17 to Europe and Asia:

"Eisenhower is going to visit your islands. The one who is coming surely has bad intentions. He could not have come with good intentions. He is the chief of U.S. imperialism. Like Dulles in the past, he has always harbored bad intentions toward you. More than a year ago, Dulles went to your islands to bring pressure to bear upon you. At that time, we conducted shelling operations and you resisted the Americans, and Dulles failed to achieve what he wished. Now Dulles is back, but the U.S. ambition to annex Taiwan is far from dead. Eisenhower's policy is the very same policy of Dulles, Eisenhower is our enemy of all patriotic patriots in Taiwan, Penghu, Quemoy, and Matsu."

Then this message precedes: "The reputation of U.S. imperialism more and more. Not long ago, Eisenhower sabotaged the four-power conference of heads of government and was opposed by people all over the world. The people of many countries in Asia have been subjected to long and acute oppression by the United States, and so their resistance to it is the strongest..."

President Eisenhower does not deserve this. In the United States his policy has been criticized as too pacifist, as too ready to give way to the slightest indication of a hope for a peaceful agreement. Think of what Eisenhower has taken from Castro and the Cubans! On June 16, the Radio Mambi of Havana, produced an "Open letter to His Majesty" which

Good Sales In 1959 'Recession'

By ELMER ROESSNER

Last year the yo-yo effect of the 1959 recession, retail sales in the United States were 8 per cent higher in dollar volume than in 1958, according to a new compilation by the Census Bureau.

Because inflation was less than 8 per cent, it appears that the physical volume was greater, too: about 5 or 6 per cent.

The biggest gains were in durable goods stores, up 13 per cent. Durable goods are those items that consumers don't use up right away, such as autos, appliances, furniture.

Sales in nondurable goods stores were up 5 per cent. Nondurables are those items consumed promptly, such as foods, beverages, gasoline. However, in these mad driving days, a ham may outlast a new car in the hands of a psycho driver. But the government insists that autos are durable, hams are nondurable.

Perhaps the most significant part of this census report is that the West is growing mightily. Sales in the West—Montana, Wyoming, Colorado, New Mexico and west—were 11 per cent higher than the year before. Out there, where the auto has almost completely replaced the horse, durable sales were 18 per cent above a year ago; nondurables, 7 per cent.

Part of the increase was due to the rise in population. However, the increase is much sharper than the 1959 population gain. The only conclusion is that the West has more of something than the East has. Namely, money.

In other words, it appears that spending power is increasing in the West faster than is population. And since spending power is usually generated by agriculture and industry, it may be assumed that the West is growing faster economically than the East.

NORTHEAST GROWS SLOWER

The Northeast made the smallest regional gain: 5 per cent over all, with 9 per cent in durables, 3 per cent in nondurables. The Northeast is New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and New England.

This was once the industrial heartland of the United States and still is very important, second only to the North Central region, which takes in Ohio, Illinois, Michigan, Missouri industrial complexes.

The figures also disclose what Mr. and Mrs. Joe America Doakes did with their retail dollar. Each buck went for these purposes:

Food	24.2
Eating and drinking out	7.2
General merchandise	10.9
Apparel	6.2
Furniture	5.1
Hardware, etc.	7.1
Automobiles	18.4
Gasoline, service	7.9

Other 13.0

General merchandise stores include dry goods, department, variety and mail-order stores. The furniture group includes group takes in lumberyards, building material dealers and farm equipment retailers. "Other" includes drugstores and liquor stores and a wide variety of miscellaneous business.

From these figures it is apparent that Americans spend more on autos and service (26.3 per cent) than on food (24.2 per cent) and more in eating and drinking places (7.2 per cent) than in either hardware or similar outlets (7.1 per cent, clothing and shoe stores (6.2 per cent) or furniture stores (5.1 per cent).

The figures also show that Americans spent $5,213,000,000 in drinking places and $4,729,000,000 in liquor stores. Do the Russians imagine they can lick a people with that much courage?

Education Is A 'Necessity' To Pitt Farmer

By JOHNNY HUDSON
Reflector Staff Writer

"Education is a necessity in our world today. It is the one thing that will always stay with you. The only way a person can lose his education is by losing his mind".

Sitting comfortably in his living room on a hot and humid June afternoon, J. L. Mayo, ex-Fitt County farmer and father of 15, divulged his educational philosophy in a few but meaningful words.

A list of facts bear out the sincerity of Mayo's statements. Since the fall of 1922, Mayo and his wife had denied themselves many personal pleasures in order to bring a sound educational background to the children of their household.

Yet, eleven college degrees later, the friendly old gentleman and his wife express no regrets concerning the past. As the ultimate goal of giving all his children a college education draws nearer, Mayo points out that he actually hates to see the last one graduate.

With 15 grandchildren to their credit already, the Mayo's easily recount the many experiences enjoyed in past years, including a trip "fit for a king" to Cincinnati in 1952 when Mayo was chosen "Father of the Year" by the Cincinnati Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Chatting with this reporter like a relative he had known all his life, Mayo related one story after another concerning his children, adding his own keen touch of wit. He even unveiled a tidy little stack of fan mail received after a story of his large family had circulated throughout the United States by the Associated Press in 1952.

Living on a 100-acre farm outside of Greenville on the Belvoir Road, Mayo has made a wise investment of his tobacco, corn, and other field crops income.

Three of the Mayo boys are still in school. Ralph is a junior at East Carolina College and is majoring in science. George has just graduated from Rose High and will enroll at ECC this fall.

The family is unique in the fact that it has had a child in the Greenville school system for 38 years. The string will have reached 40 by the time Samuel finishes up his high school training.

J.H. Rose, Superintendent of City Schools, says "this group is the largest from one family that we have ever had. None have had discipline problems and all have done good work."

"They have held responsible positions in school and most of the family showed a strong interest in science."

Of the 11 completing college work, 10 have been enrolled at East Carolina College. One, Louis, went directly to Duke following high school graduation.

Although doing basic work at ECC, eight boys in the family hold degrees from N.C. State College. The two girls, Mattie and Lula, received their degrees at the Greenville college.

A run-down on the present positions and locations of the children indicate that most of the boys, all holders of engineering degrees, have set up working stations outside of Pitt County.

ENJOY GRANDCHILDREN . . . Mr. W. L. Mayo and wife spend time with three of their grandchildren, Jimmy, Teresa and Anne. A retired farmer, Mayo has seen eleven of his children obtain college degrees. Three are currently in school and setting sights toward a college education.

Wilbur, the oldest son, is a mechanical engineer at Langley Air Force Base, Louis, the Duke graduate in physics, is serving as consulting engineer for General Electric in Winston-Salem. Bruce is employed as an electrical engineer with the Radar Division of General Electric in Cincinnati, Ohio.

James, the only Pitt resident, is operator of a radio station in Farmville. Mattie, now living in Williamsburg, Virginia, worked at Langley Field for a short time. John, who went on to receive a Ph.D., is working with Bell Laboratories in Morristown, New Jersey. Robert is employed as nuclear engineer at Langley.

Edward is a mechanical engineer at Langley and has completed his M.A. work at Virginia Tech. Lula served as a computer at Langley following graduation but is now living in Hampton, Virginia.

Charles, the second oldest son, was the only one to study Agriculture and received his degree at State. A Captain in the Air Force, he was killed in 1949 on a flying mission in Argentina. One son died in infancy.

With his goal near an end, Mayo recently retired from the farming business and is living "the life of a gentleman" as he puts it.

Relating the trip to Cincinnati in 1952, Mayo tabs it as the one time in his life that he lived like "the governor and president." He and his wife flew to Cincinnati which incidentally was their first plane trip.

They received a warm welcome at the Jaycee banquet and Mayo received his coveted award as "Father of the Year."

"It was too much rich living for poor country folks," explained Mayo. Confined to the home soil of North Carolina for most of their life, the trip has been a highlight in the Mayo's life and won't be forgotten soon.

The exact number of children in school at one time is not definite but Mayo recalls the time when she stood up as a mother of students in five of the seven grades.

There is no disappointment on the part of Mayo that only one of his sons chose agriculture. "I let them make their own choices. I wanted them to choose their own lives."

Three college degrees still remain to be obtained but now there is little doubt that this feat will be accomplished. It will climax many a year of hard work and self-denial but for a farmer who placed education on a high pedestal, it will be a dream which becomes reality.

The soil surrounding this little white farm house may soon yearn for the toil and sweat of a Mayo but it has already proudly produced more than its share of fruit in a world focused on education and science.

President Rutherford B. Hayes, elected in 1877, served only one term at his own request.

Trip Concluded By Wagon Train

MURPHY, N.C. (AP) — More than 115 wagons, surries and ox carts and upwards of 600 horseback riders—stretching some four miles—arrived here Monday to complete the annual 35-mile journey across the mountains from Tennessee.

A crowd estimated at 35,000 was on hand in Murphy to welcome the wagon train, which came across the wild Unicoi Mountains from Tellico Plains, Tenn. The women who made the trip wore sun bonnets, the children were dressed as pioneers and the men sported beards—relics of an earlier day.

The wagon train trip was organized three years ago as residents of Murphy and Tellico Plains pressed for a paved road between the towns. Today the road is paved on the Tennessee side to the state line.

A blonde high school student, Jeanette Johnson of Rt. 1, Murphy, was named Miss Wagon Train of 1960. Kenny Jane Davis of Murphy was accorded the title Miss Junior Wagon Train.

On hand to welcome the train were Rep. Roy A. Taylor (D-N.C.), who took his seat in Congress as the state's 12th District representative only last week; his Republican opponent in the November election, Heinz Rollman of Waynesville; Richard Mauney of the North Carolina Department of Conservation and Development and several state legislators.

TASKER POLK (above), student of piano at East Carolina, will appear Thursday in a recital sponsored by the college department of music. The program, open to the public, will take place at 8:00 p.m. in the McGinnis auditorium. Polk is a sophomore at the college where he studies piano with Dr. Robert Carter. Since 1956-57 Polk has won each year outstanding honors in competitions sponsored by the North Carolina Federation of Music Clubs. His recital will include selections by Bach, Beethoven, Chopin, Rachmaninoff and Copland.

Paid $13 Million For Suggestions

NEW YORK (AP)—Those little boxes on most company walls marked "SUGGESTIONS" pay off handsomely to employees with money-saving ideas.

American industry awarded more than 13 million dollars for ideas on plant improvement and efficiency in 1958, latest year official figures are available, according to Steelways, official publication of American Iron and Steel Institute.

Of the 1,700,000 ideas proposed, one out of four was accepted. The magazine says in the steel industry alone 968 ideas were accepted from employees, enabling steel makers to save more than $872,000 a year in production costs.

In this Presidential election, Khrushchev will try to use every means available to him to intervene, to meddle, to seek to have a man satisfactory to him, elected. Some candidate may even boast that he can get along with Khrushchev. Who knows how long Khrushchev will last? But no matter how long, let us resolve to keep him out of our affairs.

Mike Souchak Wins Flint Open With 69

By DAVE DILES Associated Press Sports Writer
FLINT, Mich. (AP) — The memory of his final round fizzle in the recent U. S. Open gave big Mike Souchak "that little something extra" he needed to win the $9,000 first-place money in the Flint Open golf tournament. Souchak blazed home a winner in the $52,000 Flint event Monday, closing with a three-under-par 69 that included a sizzling 33 on the final nine holes. He nosed out Gay Brewer Jr. and Art Wall Jr. by a single stroke, and wrapped up his 13th major tournament victory on the very last stroke of the 72-hole extravaganza. The finish was as tense and dramatic as any Hollywood could manufacture. Souchak and Brewer played spectacular golf to fight off a half dozen final round challengers. They were locked in a dead heat leading the field by one stroke as they stood on the 18th tee. Both hit good drives. Souchak's second shot made the green 35 feet below the cup. Brewer's second shot went over the green into a trap. Brewer, 28, bidding for his first major triumph, blasted out seven feet from the stick. Souchak rolled his putt to within seven feet. Brewer, putting first, left the ball on the lip of the cup for a bogie five. Souchak stroked in the winner for a 282 total. Half of the holiday crowd of 20,000 was gathered around the 18th green, and let loose a mighty roar as the colorful slugger boosted his 1960 earnings to nearly $30,000, fourth highest on the tour. Brewer, finishing with a 71, and Wall with a 69, each collected $3,800 for second place. Wall narrowly made himself a repeat champion with his closing rush of 33 on the final nine holes. He and Dow Finsterwald tied at 282 last year and Wall won an 12-hole playoff. Souchak was leading the U. S. Open in Denver a few weeks ago but collapsed on the final round with a 75. "I needed that little something extra for this finish," said burly Mike, who trailed four co-leaders by one stroke entering the final round. Brewer was one of the co-leaders after 54 holes. Don January and Gene Littler, who shared the lead, finished with 74s and tied young Dave Hill at 286. Each won $2,333.33. Johnny Pott and Al Geiberger trailed at 287, collecting $1,800 each. Mason Rudolph, who slipped to a 76 after having a piece of the third-round lead, deadlocked with Sam Snead at 288 for $1,550.

Pitt Plays Here Wed.

Pitt's slumping American Legion team will try to avoid the dark depths of the cellar tomorrow night when they host last-place Jacksonville at Guy Smith Stadium. Pinned for six straight setbacks, the Pitt Countians lead Jacksonville by only one game in the standings. Jacksonville won the first meeting, 7-6. The game will be the final home one for Pitt. They have one remaining away game with Goldsboro. Coach Bud Phillips has juggled his lineup around in recent weeks but has been unable to solve a glaring defensive problem. Errors have led to each defeat for Pitt.

Art Ruffin Wins Amateur Title

WILSON, N.C. (AP) — Methodical Art Ruffin Jr., a slim 41-year-old, shot par golf on the final three holes here Monday to beat down a challenge from defending champion Larry Beck and Bill Harvey to win the 18th annual North Carolina Amateur golf championship.

Ruffin's one-under-par 283 for the 72-hole event earned him his second statewide amateur crown, the first coming in 1922. The Wilson golfer had four birdies and three bogies in Monday's final 18 holes while Beck, who had led the first three rounds, slipped two-over-par on the first nine and couldn't catch the new champion. Beck, of Kinston, and Bill Harvey of Greensboro, finished in a tie for second. Beck shot a four and Harvey a five in a one-hole playoff to determine the runner-up. They each fired 284s over the four-day event—one stroke back of Ruffin. For Ruffin, the championship came on his home course. He has won the Wilson Country Club

The Cleveland Indians, who looked like a bunch of dead in-juns two weeks ago, suddenly have trimmed the New York Yankees' lead in half and trail by just 1½ games in the American League race after their second doubleheader sweep in two days. With right-hander Gary Bell pitching a three-hitter for his first victory in almost a month and Jimmy Piersall back on the job, the Indians made it five in a row with a 4-0 and 7-4 sweep of their July 4 doubleheader with the Kansas City A's. It was Cleveland's eighth success in nine games and 12th victory in 15 after tumbling out of the lead while losing eight of 10 two weeks ago. The Tribe closed in as the Yankees, despite a combination of unbeaten Jim Coates and four home runs, lost 9-8 at Washington in the only single game on the holiday bill in the majors. Coates escaped defeat, but the Yankees' winning string was chopped at six games by the Senators, who had just lost three in a row to Cleveland. It's the 24th time New York has led the AL on July 4—and the Yanks have gone on to win the flag all but four times in the past. Third-place Baltimore, blowing six-run leads in both games, split at Boston. The Red Sox won 10-7 before the Birds bounced back for an 8-6 victory. The Detroit Tigers took two from Chicago's White Sox, winning 3-0 and 3-2 with Jim Bunning pitching a three-hitter in the opener. In the National League, Pittsburgh retained a 3½ game lead over Milwaukee by dividing a twin-bill with the Braves. The Bucs on top on July 4 for the first time in 28 years, lost 7-6 in 10 innings, but won the second game 7-2. San Francisco beat the Chicago Cubs 4-0, on Jack Sanford's four-hitter then played a 1-1 tie called after 14 innings by darkness at Wrigley Field, the only park in the majors without lights. St. Louis split with Los Angeles, winning 6-2 and losing 5-4. Cincinnati beat Philadelphia 5-0 on Jay Hook's four-hit pitching, but the Phillies won the second game 5-2. Bell (7-6) allowed nothing but singles, walked two and struck out four while the Indians bugged Ray Herbert (3-9) for nine hits. An infield hit by Marty Keough, who had been subbing for Piersall in center field, and a two-out double by Harvey Kuenn gave Cleveland the winning run in the first inning. Piersall, ordered home for a rest a week ago, returned in the second game and scored Kuenn with a two-out single in the eighth for a 5-3 lead. Johnny Romano's second home run of the game capped the three-run eighth.

Palmer Fires Qualifying Round Of 69 For Tourney

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (AP) — Arnold Palmer, United States Open and Masters golf champion, has brought the rest of his gang into the fight for the British championship — his Pappy. Palmer senior — born Milford, but better known as Dede — taught the 30-year-old Arnold all he knows about the game. And Palmer junior is the first to admit the debt he owes to his father. It was Palmer's idea that his father make the trip to Scotland, his first outside the United States. He came to St. Andrews Monday. The American champion celebrated the arrival of the man he calls "Pap" by shooting a 67 over the New Course and made certain of qualifying when the field is cut to a maximum of 100 low scorers after today's round. Palmer senior started out in the golf world by helping to roof the clubhouse at Latrobe, Pa. Then he qualified as a greenskeeper and professional pro, working in steel mills in the winter to help keep his family.

Three old Scottish pros taught Palmer senior the way to play the game the Scots invented. And ever since he wanted to take a trip to the home of golf. Golfers in the big field from 26 nations humiliated both the Old and New courses Monday. Peter Allis, British Ryder Cupper, broke the Old Course record with a 7-under-par 66. Gary Player, the defending champion from South Africa, joined Palmer at 67 — both shot over the New Course. Seven players — Geoffrey Hunt (England), British Amateur Champion Joe Car (Ireland), F. S. Boobyer (England), Eric Brown Gonzalez (Brazil), Eric Brown (Scotland), P. J. Butler (England) and Christy O'Connor (Ireland) — had 68's.

An Interview with the Scientist Who Headed Up the Development Team of MH-30

John C. Williamson, prominent tobacco grower, Knightdale, N. C., interviews Dr. H. Douglas Tate, Director of Agricultural Chemical Research, United States Rubber Company, Naugatuck Chemical Division.

Mr. Williamson: You say, then, Dr. Tate, that MH-30 is the newest and most effective control of tobacco suckers?
Dr. Tate: Yes, although I would strike out the word "newest." MH-30 has been researched and field-tested for over twelve years, and has been used in the field-cure area for about five years. As to the word "effective," I agree entirely.
Mr. Williamson: You were quoted recently as saying that "This is the chemical age on the farm."
Dr. Tate: With efficient labor increasingly hard to find, and costly, the farmer must rely on chemical control of plant disease, pests, and weeds more than ever before. MH-30 is such a chemical. On the average it eliminates 30 costly and disagreeable man-hours of back-breaking hand-suckering per acre. It is very common for a single acre of tobacco to be attacked by as many as 125,000 suckers. Anyone who insists on pulling them by hand is fighting progress.
Mr. Williamson: But does MH-30 require time-consuming ways of handling? This chemical has to be used properly, I am told.
Dr. Tate: MH-30 involves simple treatment, although I must admit it has to be handled properly. But it is easy to handle; simply top and treat when the tobacco is in full bloom, apply one pint per 1,000 plants, and harvest when the tobacco matures. The instructions on the label are simple, and will result in the finest quality tobacco at auction time.

Mr. Williamson: Simple they are, I agree. But what would happen if a busy, hard-working farmer didn't quite follow the rules?
Dr. Tate: Because of failure to follow directions, just plain carelessness, trouble can develop. That's true of any chemical. And at auction time, the farmer most likely will be unpleasantly surprised — because such improperly treated tobacco does not bring in premium prices.
Mr. Williamson: No agricultural chemical in recent years has stirred tobacco growers so deeply as has MH-30. They like the extra yields, and the elimination of the toilsome job of hand-suckering.
Dr. Tate: That is right. And MH-30 alone, on the basis of coping with the problems of hard-to-get, costly field help, makes its use practically a necessity.
Mr. Williamson: A necessity? That's a strong statement.
Dr. Tate: If today's grower doesn't use the modern methods that are at his disposal, he'll find himself out of business. Without chemical mechanization, the grower will have laborious work, low yield, and poor quality tobacco. According to recent testimony to the House Appropriations Committee, "Labor comprises 65% of tobacco production costs." The urgent need for improving and mechanizing production methods was stressed. MH-30 was discussed as an important step in mechanization.

Mr. Williamson: Presumably, then, the wise tobacco grower would use, for example, MH-30 for sucker control.
Dr. Tate: Yes, the growers of good tobacco have always striven to produce quality with methods that assure a profit. The tobacco manufacturers, however, appear to be against MH-30 usage. Perhaps they resist change.
Mr. Williamson: If quality is so desirable, and so hard to attain, how can cigarette manufacturers justify the use of reconstituted and stem material — formerly considered waste?

WILLIAM PEARSON'S rousing bestseller on politics A FEVER in the BLOOD

WHAT HAS HAPPENED U.S. Senator Alex Simon asked District Attorney Dan Callahan...

"Alex! I heard you were in town. How are you?" "Fit as a fiddle and ready for love. But sad things happen, Sam."

"Sam, there is, however, one matter we should discuss. Our bootless local gangbaster. I understand that Callahan too proposes to give the governorship the old college try."

CHAPTER 4 In his youth, Judge Sam Hoffman, with any young man's exuberant self-confidence and special knowledge that the drums were calling him to glory, had seen that politics was often the last refuge of mediocre men.

Judge Hoffman choked back an impious laugh. "He was a fine old man." "Wonderful. It will be hard to find his replacement. It's too bad you've decided to give up the Bench for greener pastures, Sam."

"All right, don't run through that. All I'm asking, Sam, is there has to be a verdict before the convention?" "I can't do that. The defendant's entitled to a trial at the earliest date. Now, if both the prosecution and defense attorneys united in a motion..."

Yet how he worked—with cause, with cause—to keep his job! In fact, could any judge his age really want to risk a return to private practice? For while the public might assume that long service on the Bench made the ex-judge a first-rate advocate, judges themselves knew better: in their courtrooms, judges sat back and listened, and after so many years of listening, no longer had all their former journeyman enthusiasms for the detailed preparation and punishing uncertainties so much a part of any important case.

"I'd go to the bridge with you, Sam, except that I never take sides in primaries. Unless I happen to be one of the candidates myself. And in this election, that's what I happen to be."

"Alex, I couldn't do that." "Sam, you jump to conclusions. This is all I'm saying. Before the Hart case is over, there'll be, we can be pretty sure, a motion for a mistrial. Now if it's a good solid motion, you're not going to turn it down. It wouldn't be fair to the defendant. And who's hurt if he gets a mistrial? Not the state, it gets to try the man again."

As he reflected on this, the phone rang. "Sam Hoffman," he said.

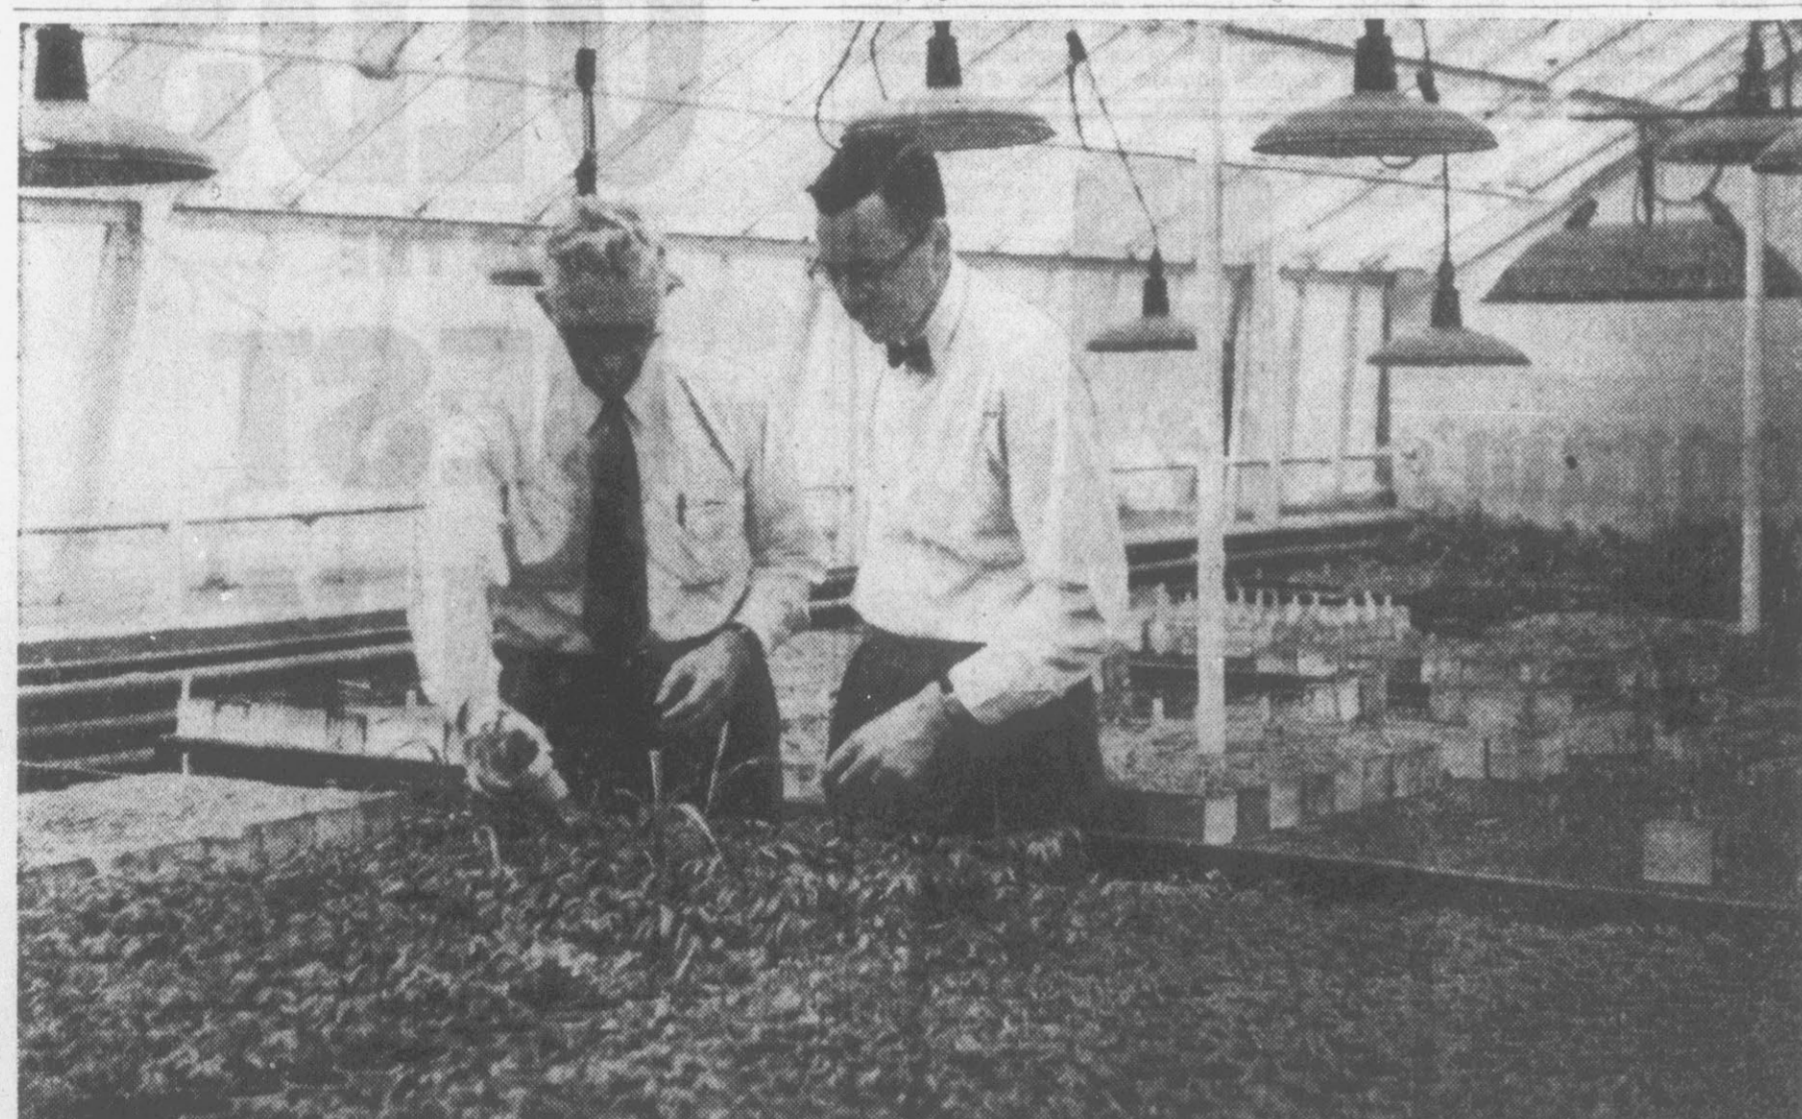

"Alex, I don't know what to say. This is so... so..." "Well, well, well," Simon said.

"That isn't the point." "Then what is the point? I thought the defendant in a murder case was entitled to the benefit of every doubt." Simon stopped suddenly. "Sam, sometimes I get too excited. I've got to watch myself. I had some trouble, you know, my heart..."

FASTEETH, an improved alkaline (non-acid) powder, sprinkled on your plates holds them firmer so they feel more comfortable. Avoid embarrassment caused by loose plates. Judge Hoffman tightened his grip on the phone. "I'll speak frankly, Alex. The Federal Bench, well, I've always wanted it. It's more than the face it's a lifetime appointment. The Federal Judiciary's something I believe in, something fine, something I respect."

"You're running for Governor?" "I shall announce my availability and, if the people want me, I shall heed their irresistible mating call."

Naugatuck Chemical Greenhouse, Agricultural Chemical Research Laboratory in Bethany, Conn. Left: Dr. H. Douglas Tate, Research Director; right: Dr. J. A. Riddell, New Products Manager.

Dr. Tate: Well, the manufacturers must realize they have the responsibility to meet the problems of the grower, just as they have accommodated their blending processes to filters, to the use of "homogenized" tobacco, and the stems and sweepings which used to be thrown away.

companies have an obligation to share some of the costs of adjusting. Surely the farmer cannot be expected to bear all the costs of adjusting.

Dr. Tate: That's right. And if you or any farmer or grower ever stop by our Bethany, Conn., laboratories, we'd be glad to show you around. You'll get somewhat of an idea of the facilities and resources and costs that are encompassed in the discovery and development of a useful chemical such as MH-30—the most effective and safest tobacco sucker control there is.

Mr. Williamson: What really is all the fuss about then, Dr. Tate? Dr. Tate: The only consistent reply I receive from the several experts I've quizzed is, "It's a matter of economics." The tobacco

Mr. Williamson: I deduce that when you say MH-30 has been researched and tested for over a dozen years, and used in the flue-

Poor Time And Place For Theft

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP)—Two boys arrested on purse-snatching charges couldn't have picked a worse time or place to pull the caper.

Standing in front of the police station Monday night were the chief of police, a chief inspector, two detectives and a patrolman.

The officers heard the shouts a block away of a man whose companion had lost her purse to a pair of 15-year-old youths. The policemen saw the boys running and began a chase—the chief, the inspector and a detective in an automobile and the other two on foot.

Around corners and across the streets the youths ran with the police close behind. Finally those in the car made the capture.

The boys' identities were not disclosed due to their age. They were charged with purse snatching.

Second Big Win By Kishi Party

TOKYO (AP)—Premier Nobusuke Kishi's ruling Liberal Democratic party was jubilant today over its second decisive victory in four days in a gubernatorial election.

Incumbent Hiroshi Kurihara, 60 was re-elected Sunday by a wide margin in Saitama prefecture bordering Tokyo. Kurihara polled almost twice as many votes as his two Socialist opponents, who ran on a platform attacking the Japan-U.S. security treaty.

Iwao Yamakazi also was re-elected easily on Friday against Socialist opponents who campaigned on the same party platform. Yamakazi is governor of Aomori, the northern province of Japan's central island of Honshu.

Both Aomori and Saitama prefectures are conservative strongholds and victories were expected for the Liberal Democrats. But the newspaper Asahi, Japan's biggest and a vigorous opponent of the security pact, said the number of votes massed by the conservatives "indicated the insignificant effect the anti-security pact demonstrations had."

The Socialists had invited the voters to "express your anger" over the treaty.

The left-wing student federation, Zengakuren, spearhead of the anti-treaty riots, split into three factions, all seeking to overthrow Kishi's conservative government.

Aged Champion Fiddler Dies

ASHEVILLE (AP)—The champion fiddler of the mountains, William A. (Fiddling Bill) Hensley, is dead.

The 86-year-old, who had fiddled at the White House for King George VI during a visit, died Sunday in an Asheville hospital.

Accompanied by his trusty fiddle, "Old Calico," Hensley had appeared on the radio program "We, The People," and in New York and Texas.

Survivors include six daughters, Mrs. June Lance of Arden, Mrs. Mamie Larson of Denver, Colo., Mrs. Nell Gray of Eustis, Fla., Mrs. Gertrude Leathers of Caney, Kan., Mrs. Genevieve Nott of Wadsworth, Ohio, and Mrs. Jessie Ledford of Hendersonville. He also leaves two brothers, John Hensley of Charlotte and Arthur Hensley of Marshall; and 17 grandchildren and 22 great-grandchildren.

His last words, just before he died, were to his daughter, Mrs. Larson of Denver. He asked her: "Did you get Old Calico?"

College Tour Group At Oberammergau

By MISS RUTH COTTON CLARK

On Thursday of last week, the East Carolina College Grand Circle Tour of Europe led us to Oberammergau, Germany, site of the famous Passion Play. Hundreds of tourists from many parts of the world had arrived in this tiny mountain village to view Friday's all-day performance of the play, given each zero year during the summer season.

Each of us stayed in private homes of citizens in the village. I stayed in the most charming home with an old man and his wife, their two sons, a daughter-in-law, and the most precious three-month-old granddaughter named Maria.

This was indeed a typical mountaineer family. Of course the weather got quite cool at night and in the morning, but you never saw them wrapped up like us!

Friday we got up quite early and made our way along with many other pilgrims to the Passion Play Theater. From eight o'clock to eleven thirty we viewed the first half of the play beginning as Christ made his entrance into Jerusalem on a donkey.

After lunch the play was completed with the crucifixion of Christ at Calvary.

My words couldn't even begin to describe the beauty and drama brought forth in the acting of the local people of Oberammergau. Each of them, even those who were in the mob scenes, looked as if they were actually feeling the part as if it was their own lives.

The man who portrayed Christ had been preparing for this year for ten years prior to 1960. To look at him put a funny feeling in my stomach because he fit every description I have ever heard of Christ.

It was interesting to note that no professional actors are ever hired to participate in the presentation of the play; all the parts are filled by citizens of the village and surrounding territories.

Rising amidst the cool mountain air Saturday morning, we boarded our bus and traveled through the most gorgeous sections of Germany and Austria. Then we had a short stop to see the smallest independent principality in the world, Liechtenstein. We certainly were honored to meet "the baron," who incidentally owns more than half of the country!

Through the mountains we went until we reached Lucerne, Switzerland, amid crystal lakes and swiftly flowing rivers. During our three days in Lucerne we took a side trip to Berne, capital of Switzerland, and home of the famous Berne frolicking bears.

As I said in my first column, Switzerland is the most gorgeous country in Europe that I have seen so far. I've already made up my mind that someday I'll return to this "land of lakes" and spend months here exploring every nook and cranny of the beautiful mountains!

Of course this is just a dream, but who knows? Dreams can come true!

Traffic Violator Is Outnumbered

MILWAUKEE (AP)—A formidable array of police officers confronted Patrick Kohloff when he was stopped on a traffic charge.

Out of the patrol car stepped Police chief Howard Johnson, Inspector Hugo Goehlen, Capt. Anton Komperda and a patrolman, who was driving his superiors home when they stopped Kohloff.

Four Occupants Killed In Crash

SHATTUCK, Okla. (AP)—A single-engine plane crashed and burned, apparently while trying to land, killing all four occupants Monday.

They were identified as Paul A. (Pete) Lightner, 63, veteran sports editor of the Wichita Eagle; Gary A. Humphries, 26, a photographer on the paper; Henry H. Jacobs, 32, a sports writer for the Eagle; and Jacobs' wife, Electra, 26.

Carl Mason, co-owner of a funeral home, said all were so badly mangled and burned that positive identification would have to be made from dental plates. Billings belonging to Jacobs and Lightner were found in the wreckage.

Officials at the Amarillo, Tex., airport said the plane left there for Wichita at 1:26 p.m., with Jacobs the pilot. They were returning from coverage of the Olympic trials in California. Officials of the Wichita newspaper said.

Witnesses said the plane circled this small northwest Oklahoma farm town twice then appeared to be heading for the grass landing strip. Suddenly the plane plunged into the ground 200 yards short of the landing strip.

Jacobs joined the Eagle sports department in 1948. Mrs. Jacobs has worked in the classified advertising department until a few months ago.

Lightner, with the Eagle since 1919, was widely known for his column "The Morning After." His wife, Leona, is a member of the Eagle society staff.

Humphries wife, Kathleen, also works for the Eagle as food editor.

Dr. Moore Hopes Hike Near End

SWEDESBORO, N.J. (AP)—Dr. Barbara Moore, Britain's cross country walker, hopes to reach New York Wednesday, climbing a hike she says will cover more than 3,000 miles.

The 56-year-old vegetarian covered plenty of territory Monday—her 83rd day on the road—before bedding down in this southern New Jersey hamlet. She walked from Baltimore to Wilmington, Del., to Swedesboro, an estimated 80 miles in all.

Dr. Moore, who took one of the less congested roads during heavy July 4th weekend traffic Monday, has been denied permission to walk along the New Jersey Turnpike because the turnpike commission says it is too dangerous. She'll walk along New Jersey route 130 north into New York, an estimated 95 miles from Swedesboro.

CAN'T OUTSMART THIEVES

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP)—When J. D. Green's car broke down, he carefully rolled up the windows, locked the glove compartment and doors and went home confident the vehicle would be all right. Returning next morning, he found the car still tightly closed but all five wheels, including tires and hubcaps had been stolen.

Illinois gets the name from an Indian word meaning "tribe of superior men."

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market headed irregularly lower in moderate trading early this afternoon.

Losses of fractions to about a point outnumbered gainers in the same range among pivotal issues. It looked like a nervous market to brokers. The international situation, combined with spotty reports on the business outlook, brought caution.

Steels declined. The electronics and other volatile issues presented a spotty picture.

Motors and airlines were generally higher. Chemicals, oils, and rails declined.

The temporary freeze on Cuban sugar shipments brought a mingled response.

Losses of more than a point by such key chemicals as DuPont, Union Carbide and Allied Chemical dragged at the average.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off 1.38 at 639.94. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off .30 to 222.00 with the industrials down .20, the rails down .50 and the utilities unchanged.

Corporate bonds were mixed. U.S. government bonds improved.

Silently Watch Accused Rapists

LEOMINSTER, Mass. (AP)—A crowd of 500 persons behind police-guarded rope barriers watched in silence today while eight white and two Negro defendants were taken into court for further hearing on charges they participated in a gang rape of a young white girl.

In contrast to the ominous attitude of crowds ranging up to 1,000 last Friday, and cries of "Lynch them," today's throng appeared to be merely curious. Ministers and priests, in every church pulpit in the city, conveyed their congregations Sunday at the request of Police Chief George H. Smith. The clergymen urged their hearers to refrain and discourage others from demonstrations like those on Friday.

The District Court resumed today its consideration of evidence for holding the defendants for the grand jury. The 10 defendants were variously charged with rape, kidnapping and robbery, or being accessories, in connection with both the rape of the girl, 19, and beating of her college-student escort.

Three other youths, classed as juveniles, because they are 16 years old, face a separate court session.

FELT BETTER AT 94 GLOVERSVILLE, N. C. (AP) — George A. Fellows, born on the Fourth of July, observed his 100th birthday anniversary Monday. Spiritually and in apparent good health, Fellows said "I don't feel as good today as I did at 94."

BRUIN A VICTIM STRAWBERRY, Calif. (AP) — California's highway death toll over the Fourth of July weekend included one large brown bear, struck by a car Monday on U.S. Highway 50 near here.

Believe Castro Cabinet Preparing For Seizures

HAVANA (AP) — Fidel Castro's cabinet ministers met into the early morning hours today. They were believed drafting orders for seizure of American property to be issued when President Eisenhower cuts the Cuban sugar quota. Eisenhower was expected to act promptly on the authority Congress gave him to suspend all or part of the still unfilled 1960 quota of Cuban sugar imported into the United States.

Eisenhower can also reduce or suspend the American purchases of Cuban sugar at premium prices for the first three months of 1961.

In retaliation, the bearded Cuban revolutionary has threatened to take over the property of Americans "down to the nails of their shoes."

The ministers met at the presidential palace at 2 p.m. Monday. Some were still in the squat, white three-story building at midnight. An official told newsmen there no announcements would be made and they could go home.

While the ministers were conferring, Conrado Becquer, head of Cuba's half-million sugar workers, told his forces to stand ready to seize the 36 miles in Cuba owned by Americans. The Castro regime already has taken over almost all American-owned agricultural land.

Jesus Soto, left-wing organization secretary of the Cuban Communist Party, told a television audience workers are ready to take a wage cut or even donate part of their salaries to keep the sugar industry going if the United States closes off its market to Cuban sugar.

The press and radio, almost completely under government control, delivered a day-long harangue against the United States. Revolution likened Congress to a "vulgar thief" for its action on the sugar quota.

Castro's official family exuded confidence the government would overcome the threat of an oil shortage arising from the seizure of the island's three foreign oil refineries and the companies' cut-

Latchstring Is Out In South For General Grant

By MARTHA COLE WASHINGTON (AP) — Maj. Gen. Ulysses S. Grant III, 79 today, has found the latchstring out among the Southerners.

"They're very hospitable and very cordial," said Grant, who has been going South as chairman of the Civil War Centennial Commission.

His grandfather of the same name probably found no welcome mats when he went South almost 100 years ago as general in chief of the Union army.

Grant, the grandson, gets invitations to go there. Karl S. Betts, executive director of the commission, reported that a group of Civil War fans in Columbia, S.C., asking for Grant as a guest speaker, said the South Carolinians tried to keep his grandfather out, but "we'll send his grandson back as C. S. Grant."

(CSA was the Confederate States of America.) Grant, a tall, erect, white-haired man, disclosed in an interview that he learned the words to "Dixie," the song of the South, many years ago.

In the camp at West Point, he said, a cadet from Mississippi had the tent behind him. "And he required me to sing 'Dixie' every time the band played, no matter what the band was playing," Grant said.

Grant heads a 25-member commission created by Congress to plan and coordinate the 100th anniversary of the great events of the Civil War.

"This is not a celebration, but a commemoration of a terrific struggle which went on in our country, out of which the united country was produced," Grant told Congress in his report this year.

The five-year commemoration will begin Jan. 8, 1961, when the President will deliver a message inviting Americans to participate in remembrance of this part of their history.

On the same day, the academies of the Air Force, the Navy, the Coast Guard and the military at West Point will stage special ceremonies at which the President's message will be read.

In the five-year period, state and local groups, with the help of the National Park Service and the Centennial Commission, will stage re-enactments of battles and other Civil War events and hold commemorative ceremonies. The re-enactments—scheduled for the battle of the first Manassas in Virginia; Antietam, Md., and Fort Sumter, S.C., have been drafted on a full-scale authentic portrayal basis.

Congress plans to meet in joint session sometime in October 1962, to mark the 100th anniversary of the Emancipation Proclamation by which Abraham Lincoln declared the slaves free forever.

Rhoda is the Greek feminine name meaning "a rose."

British Demand Oil Refinery's Return

LONDON (AP) — Britain's Foreign Ministry in Havana late Monday protested strongly against Cuba's takeover of the giant plant, owned by the British-controlled Shell International Petroleum Co. Ltd.

The British also reserved all legal rights in case Cuba does not comply with the demand to restore Shell's plant to its operators.

The British Foreign Office said there is no intention to publish the text of the note.

However, British government ministers may under pressure in Parliament give further details of their stand during the next day or so.

A Foreign Office spokesman announced that Fordham, who was due to leave his Havana post for reassignment, is now staying on while the crisis in Cuba continues.

Fordham is being replaced by Herbert Stanley Marchant, who is due to arrive in the Cuban capital toward the end of July.

The spokesman said the British government is continuing its consultations on the Cuban situation with the United States, the Netherlands and other interested countries.

The Cuban government Friday took over the refineries of the British-Dutch Shell Oil Co. and the American-owned Esso Standard.

The action followed by two days the seizure of the Texaco installations. All three refused to refine Soviet crude oil purchased by the Cuban government in a sugar-for-oil deal.

Juke Boxes Are All Over Mexico

MEXICO CITY (AP) — You're off the beaten path on a bumpy backroad. Lost, maybe. A coyote howls. Then there's another wail: Elvis Presley.

Shaken, you drive on and all of a sudden there's a little adobe village. A bunch of the boys are whooping it up around a juke box.

Juke boxes are everywhere in Mexico these days, forcing organ grinders and small native bands out of business.

Mexico, long the world's leading producer of Spanish language moving pictures, is now No. 1 in Spanish language phono records.

Eight major companies produce 20 million records a year, largely of the popular type. It is estimated that 60 per cent go into juke boxes.

Mexico also imports a substantial number of platters from the United States—which explains Elvis—and from West Germany. Record imports total $1,600,000 a year; Mexico's exports amount to about the same figure.

"Among durable consumer goods exports, phonograph records occupy third place," says the Bank of Foreign Commerce. Books and glass and glassware outrank them.

Major Mexican producers are Peerless de Mexico, RCA Victor Mexicana, and Discos Columbia de Mexico. The industry has eight plants.

Bevan, 62, underwent major abdominal surgery of undisclosed nature last December. He has been an invalid since, and last week suffered a severe relapse.
