$1,635,148 BUDGET IS ADOPTED FOR PITT

Ike Confident In Nation's Strength

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower today rejected New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's contention that America's military strength has deteriorated.

At a news conference, the President also accused Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev of very crude attempts to interfere in this country's presidential campaign.

Eisenhower voiced confidence that neither Democrats nor the Republicans will find the Kremlin leader's advice of any value.

As for Rockefeller, Eisenhower was reminded that the Republican governor has been critical of the administration in the economic as well as military fields, and has contended that U.S. military strength has declined while Russia's has increased.

The President commented that since 1953 he has sent eight budgets to Congress. Five, he said, were cut by Congress and three increased—in each case in election years.

The President said that by and large the Democratic-controlled Congresses have agreed with his Republican administration on military spending.

It is true, Eisenhower went on, that some individuals get deeply concerned about the presidential and congressional election campaign, and some get worried.

As for Rockefeller, he is entitled to his opinions and has a right to express them. Eisenhower added that he doesn't think such views will wreck the Republican party.

The President then said Rockefeller's views are his own—and they are not Eisenhower's.

In this news conference, his first in eight weeks, Eisenhower dealt also with these other matters:

CUBA—The President indicated he would act later in the day or Thursday on a bill giving him discretion to reduce shipments of Cuban sugar to the United States.

He gave no indication of whether he would cut Cuban quotas immediately after signing the bill.

BUDGET—Eisenhower declared it will be a miracle if the four-billion-dollar budget surplus which he estimated for the fiscal year which started July 1 is now realized.

Prospects for a surplus of that size have been dashed, the President said, by the failure of Congress to meet his request for higher taxes on gasoline and for an

Slight Increase Over Old Figure

By HENRY HOWARD
Reflector Staff Writer

Pitt County's Board of Commissioners yesterday adopted a $1,635,148 budget for fiscal 1960-61's operating expenses in the county.

The newly-approved budget will receive its ad valorem tax revenue from a tax rate identical to last year's. A record-breaking rate of $1.23 per $100 valuation was enacted last July with the hope a constant rate could be thereafter maintained until the county's newest hospital bond issue can be paid.

With only two minor revisions in the budget during yesterday's session, the commissioners gave unanimous approval to the 1960-61 expenditure list in their afternoon session.

The 1960-61 figure is only $5,400 above the budget that expired June 30. During fiscal 1959-60, the county operated on $1,629,725.

Ad valorem revenue for this fiscal year will come from an assessment valuation increased from $78.6 million last year to $82.9 million.

As usual, the county's school system gets more than one-third of Pitt appropriations. Allotted to the schools this year is a total of $627,585. Of this total $426,851 will go for the schools' current expenses. The remaining $200,933 is earmarked for capital improvements. The school budget last year was $606,109.

School funds from ad valorem revenues will come from 55 cents of the $1.23 levy.

The general fund received the second largest share. Its budget for this fiscal year stands at $361,670 compared with a total of $357,420 during 1959-60.

A considerable decrease in the amount required for debt service this year allowed the commissioners $54,000 to apportion among the county's various departments without a tax rate rise.

Debt service last fiscal year required $177,295 compared with the figure of $123,210.73 approved yesterday in the new budget.

Figures for other county departments (with last year's figures in parentheses) are: hospital—$29,939.02 ($21,146.25); industrial development—$22,817.77 ($24,850.00); county home—$31,193.87 ($27,827.00); outside poor and relief—$62,723.89 ($58,705.00); welfare—$93,998.26 ($94,260.00); aid to blind—$12,870.00 ($12,189.00); aid to dependent children—$24,843.55 ($22,500.00); aid to permanently and totally disabled—$22,272.00 ($17,442.00); old age assistance—$47,820.54 ($42,240.00); health department—$114,230.55 ($111,868.53); mental health—$46,210.00 ($41,734.08); and dog fund—$13,773.00 ($14,138.00).

In other action yesterday the board appointed the following as members of the Pitt County Extension Advisory Board: Howard Moye, Howard Hodges, Harry Jarvis, Charles McLawhorn, Ed Hemingway, Ruel Dilda, Jamie Long, B. B. Turnage, William E. Robert, Alex Corbett, Mrs. Albert Bell, Mrs. A. D. McArthur Sr., and Mrs. Elmore Hodges.

Tax collector Robert S. Moye reported the county's tax collections are running ahead of last year's schedule by nearly $146,000. He said $32,659 in taxes was collected during June, running the total for fiscal 1959-60 to $1,397,913.41. This figure is comparable to $1,252,012.64 for the same period a year earlier.

The board awarded the contract for the annual audit of the county's financial records to D. R. Hollowell, CP, at the same rate as last year. Hollowell expressed the hope the audit would be completed by sometime in October.

Castro's Cabinet Writes Broad Seizure Decree

HAVANA (AP)—Fidel Castro's Cabinet today authorized him to expropriate all American property in Cuba and pay for it only if the United States buys more—not less—Cuban sugar at premium prices.

The new seizure decree, drafted by the Cabinet at a session last night beyond midnight, authorized President Osvaldo Dorticos or the prime minister to take over any property owned by U.S. companies or citizens in Cuba "when deemed necessary in the national interest."

The law also provides for expropriation of companies in which U.S. citizens may have "interest or participation." An example is the British-Dutch Shell Oil refinery whose operation—along with the U.S. Esso and Texaco refineries—was taken over by the government last week.

The Cabinet said the expropriation was authorized because of "the constantly aggressive attitude" of the U.S. government and particularly the authority given President Eisenhower by Congress to reduce Cuba's sugar sales to the United States.

Underlying the retaliatory nature of the action, the decree planned compensation for the seized property directly to American sugar purchasers.

It said the American owners would be paid in 2-per cent, 30-year Cuban government bonds backed by a special fund. But the fund is to come from 25 per cent of the dollars paid for sugar sales to the United States in excess of 3 million tons a year and at a price of 5 1/2 cents a pound or more.

Cuba's sugar quota this year is 3,100,000 tons, and sugar industry sources in Washington expect Eisenhower to cut it perhaps 700,000 tons. That would put American purchases 600,000 tons below the figure at which the first dollar would go into the compensation fund.

The decree also put a super-premium price on Cuban sugar before the American owners can be repaid. The United States has been paying about 5 1/2 cents a pound, or about 2 1/2 cents above the world market price.

The decree specified that expropriation edicts could not be appealed.

It also contained what appeared to be a retroactive clause stating that it annulled all "legal dispositions and regulations that are opposed to the application of this law."

The decree gave no indication of the next target for seizure but the Cuban Electric Co. is assumed to be high on the list. Half of its 300-million-dollar valuation is American held, and it is the largest single American holding in Cuba.

Utilities Body Accepts Bid For Sewage Disposal Plant

By ALVIN TAYLOR
Reflector City Editor

Greenville Utilities Commission last night accepted low bids totaling $1,124,706.27 for construction of the city's sewage disposal plant and lines leading to it.

Awarding of the contracts is subject to final approval by the state Department of Water Resources and the federal Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

The contract for the major portion of the job—construction of the plant itself—went tentatively to Anderson Construction Co., P. O. Box 676, Dunn. The contract, with certain alternate changes, sets a price for construction of the plant at $712,049.

Coley and Peterson, Inc. of Norfolk, Va. received the award for construction of sewer lines leading to the plant site. Their bid using concrete pipe was $357,792.27.

Two Greenville firms received contracts for work on the plant. Shack's Electric Co. of Greenville was tentatively awarded the contract for electrical work on the sewage disposal plant. The final price with certain alternates was $40,601.

Riddle Brothers of Greenville was tentatively awarded the contract for plumbing, heating and air conditioning. That contract totaled $14,264.

The commission, which met last night to consider the bids, followed the recommendations of Freeman Engineers in awarding the contracts. C. G. Tilly, president of the firm, and George Freeman were present to explain the various phases of their recommendations.

Freeman is engineering the project.

In answer to a question from Commissioner K. B. Pace, Tilly said a full-time supervisor will be furnished by his firm while the plant construction is in progress.

Commissioner J. Ed Waldrop and Chairman Charles Horne questioned the inclusion of air conditioning for the laboratory, halls and toilets of the building. Tilly replied that he would recommend air conditioning. He pointed out that virtually all plants of this size now include the air conditioning.

No changes were made in the air conditioning specifications.

Compliments Firm

Horne complimented the engineering firm on its preparation of the plans.

Following last night's meeting Horne also had words of praise for the Utilities Commission which originally set up the sinking fund for construction of a sewage disposal plant.

He commended that commission for looking ahead. Horne listed the commission of that time as being: Roy Martin, chairman; John Clark, Reynolds May, W. H. Woodard and Dr. K. B. Pace.

Only Dr. Pace is now a commission member.

"They are the ones who set up and foresaw this million and a half dollar plant," he declared. "We just followed in their footsteps."

A half million dollars was placed in the fund when Greenville Utilities Vancorbo facilities were sold several years ago. The commission has been adding to the fund since.

Now with the $250,000 federal grant which is available, Utilities officials say they expect no bond issue for construction of the plant.

Contracts call for completion of the sewer lines in 400 calendar days and completion of the plant, electrical work and plumbing, heating and air conditioning within 550 calendar days.

Tilly explained that these time limits will begin when the contracts are actually signed. Technically, this can't be done until the final bids have been approved by the federal and state agencies involved.

The sewage disposal plant will be constructed on property behind Greenwood Cemetery. The area has already been fenced off with chain link fence in preparation for the work.

An outfall line will be built along the river bank. This will act as a collector for sanitary sewer lines which now dump directly into the Tar River.

Upon completion of the sewage disposal plant no raw sewage will be dumped in Tar River.

Sect Ready For An Atomic Finale

BENSON, Ariz. (AP) — Members of a small religious sect apparently are barricaded in their sealed homes and church awaiting an atomic attack from which they expect to be the only survivors, a sheriff's officer reports.

Known as the Full Gospel Assembly, the group is believed to include about 20 families. Their homes and church are close together on the outskirts of this small southern Arizona town.

"It's like a town down there," Deputy Sheriff Ray Coffey said Tuesday night. "There isn't a soul around, not even a dog. They don't answer their telephones or their doors."

"In the past couple of weeks they've bought at least $30,000 to $50,000 of food. I saw some of them at about $25,000 worth in a truck at a wholesale house in Tucson myself."

"The neighbors tell me they carted the food into their homes until after midnight Monday. Then they must have sealed themselves in because they sure aren't around now."

"All of the windows and doors on the houses are covered with newspapers and tape. They've even covered their evaporative coolers and plugged keyholes. I guess they're afraid of radiation or something."

"From what I gather, they figure they'll be the only ones left after this attack."

Authorities became aware of the situation Tuesday when Warren Burke of Benson complained that his wife and four children were missing.

Burke, who is not a member of the sect, told officers his wife recently had talked vaguely about the church, the world's end and atomic attacks.

Members of the sect arrived in Benson about six months ago from Columbus, Ohio. Coffey said their leader is the Rev. Ann Welmer, former Assembly of God minister.

Two Servicemen Die In Lenoir County Collision

GRIFTON—Two Negro Marines, returning to Kinston after visiting at Black Bottom near here, were killed about one mile south of here on N.C. 11 in Lenoir County about 2:30 a.m. yesterday.

The Marines were passengers in a Kingston taxi, driven by James Gordon Anderson, Negro, of Mitchell Wooten Courts, Kinston, who was admitted to Lenoir Memorial Hospital suffering from facial injuries and a fractured hip received in the wreck.

Patrolman L. G. Pate, of Kinston, who investigated the fatal mishap, identified the two dead service men as Pfc. Harold T. Cleary Jr., 18, and Charles E. Flood, 21, both of the Food Service School, Camp Lejeune.

A third passenger in the car, Marine Robert A. Chatten, also Negro, was injured and has been transferred from the Lenoir Hospital to the U. S. Naval Hospital

Nab 2 In Theft Of Frozen Food

Two men were arrested yesterday by sheriff's deputies and city police on charges of larceny of frozen foods from Cold Storage, Inc.

Sheriff Ruel W. Tyson identified the two as James Brewington, 25, of 1400 West Sixth St. and Robert Williams, 31, of 1505 South Pitt St. Both are Negro.

The sheriff said the two are in Pitt County Jail under $200 bond. Trial is set for Pitt County Court next Tuesday.

Sheriff Tyson said the two made deliveries for Cold Storage.

Yesterday a call was received informing officers that two men were seen hiding something near Red Banks Church.

Deputy Ralph Tyson and City policeman C. E. Warren went to the scene. Soon after they arrived, the sheriff said, Brewington and Williams allegedly drove up and began loading the frozen foods on a car.

They were apprehended by the officers.

Approximately $50 worth of frozen foods were recovered by the officers.

The Sheriff's Department and city police are continuing their investigation of the case.

Discover Sunken Jap Midget Sub

HONOLULU (AP) — The Navy is investigating a Japanese midget submarine, believed to have been part of the force that attacked Pearl Harbor Dec. 7, 1941.

Navy divers accidentally discovered the submarine June 13, about a mile outside the harbor. The 80-foot craft, lying upright on a bed of coral, was heavily encrusted with marine growth in about 70-feet of water.

Emphatic As To Delaying Visit

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — U2 spy plane pilot Francis G. Powers has been emphatic in writing his family not to visit him before his Moscow trial, attorneys seeking to aid the imprisoned American said Tuesday night.

The attorneys told a news conference they could give no definite reason for Powers' comments.

With the attorneys at the news conference was Barbara Powers, wife of the pilot. She said little during the session.

Powers was captured by the Soviets when his plane went down deep inside the Soviet Union in May.

Mrs. Powers said she had received a second letter from her husband saying he was being well treated. She said she could not detect if the letters had been censored.

The attorneys said her letters and the two Powers had written his parents at Pound, Va., had been studied carefully by psychiatrists.

The three attorneys were named by the Virginia State Bar Assn. to offer legal help to Powers. They have applied for visas to the Soviet Union.

Veteran Officer Named Chief Of Police By Farmville Board

FARMVILLE — The Farmville Board of Town Commissioners last night named veteran police officer J. A. Gregory chief of the local department.

Gregory has been serving as the town's acting chief since early May when Chief W. M. Thomas resigned the post. Thomas had been hired in February.

Gregory, a Harnett County native, is a veteran of 35 years law enforcement. He spent 12 years with the Wilson Police Department before coming to Farmville, and the local department 22 years ago.

He and his wife have two sons and two daughters, and reside, with their youngest daughter, at 110 N. Greene St. here.

Thomas, now employed in Salisbury, succeeded Chief L. T. Lucas who retired after more than 25 years as the town's chief.

Last night's meeting, expected to be a budgetary session, did not see a discussion of the budget. The commissioners voted to meet again Monday night at 8 o'clock in a special budgetary session.

It is expected Farmville's 1960-61 budget, already approved in its tentative form, will be adopted. In the meantime, the town will operate on an interim financial ordinance passed at a June 23 budget session.

The board approved the painting of the interior and exterior of the Farmville Public Library.

Funds for the project will come from the 1960-61 budget.

Instructions were handed Town Clerk Harold Allred to order a new fogging machine for mosquito control in Farmville. The commissioners voted to continue the fogging service throughout the town.

A gasoline-fed fire recently badly damaged the machine used for the fogging program in past years.

The commissioners agreed that Farmville's auto license tags for 1961, to be ordered by July 15, would not bear a slogan. It has been a town policy in the past to include some slogan on the motorists' tags.

The county's deputies served a total of 5,133 legal papers during the fiscal year, the sheriff's report showed.

For Superior and County Recorder's Court, 3,069 papers were served, 106 were served for justices of the peace. There were 905 processes for other counties and states and 13 paper papers. Juror summons served totaled 1,044.

Fees and sheriff's commissions turned over to the county auditor's office during the year amount to $5,228.37.

The sheriff's office collected 600 bills of court costs for County Court and 81 for Superior Court. They totaled $34,716.10 which was turned over to the auditor's office, the sheriff said.

In Good Shape

County Auditor H. R. Gray reported yesterday to the Pitt County Board of Commissioners the county is in "excellent financial shape" to operate during the "lean tax collection months."

Gray reported a total of $416,139 in cash available on May 25 for expenditure for the county government's operation. Normally, Pitt spends around $100,000 monthly in its operation of various departments and agencies.

The nearly half-million dollars on hand, Gray said, "will comfortably see us through" until the bulk of taxes begin coming in around the first of September.

In addition to the cash, the auditor reported, as of May 25, securities amounting to $145,572. The county Bond Sinking Fund, he said, stood at $117,000 in securities and $1,936 in cash.

Demos To Carry N. C., Says Terry

RALEIGH (AP) — Democratic nominee for governor Terry Sanford believes the Democratic ticket will carry North Carolina in the November election "with or without" Sen. John Kennedy as the presidential nominee.

Sanford said Tuesday he feels the fact that Kennedy is a Catholic will cost the Democratic party some votes, but the state will still go for Kennedy if he is nominated.

He added he would "fight" for the Democratic party this fall regardless of who the nominees are.

Sanford told a press conference he will vote for either Sen. Lyndon Johnson or Kennedy for the presidential nomination on the first ballot at the national Democratic convention.

He said he plans to wait until he arrives in Los Angeles before throwing his support to the one he thinks will be the winner.

"I not only think one of these will win, I feel that the combination of these two men, one way or another, will be the Democratic ticket," Sanford said.

He added the Democratic nomination is obviously between these two. Sanford said, "Both of these men have the qualities and qualifications to serve as president."

Sanford told newsmen he does not agree with former President Harry Truman that Kennedy is too young or that the convention is rigged.

He does agree with Truman, he said, that Democratic chairman Paul Butler "is a fairly obnoxious person... and I think the party would be better off if he has a less responsible position elsewhere."

Sanford, who will serve as vice chairman of the Tar Heel delegation to the national convention, will have a half vote like the other delegates.

He said that regardless of how he decides to vote, he has no intention of pressuring other Tar Heel delegates to vote the way he does.

A recent Associated Press poll showed that 36 of the 74 Tar Heel delegates favored Johnson, with 26 undecided.

Miss Cross, Mr. James Are Married In Marion

MARION — Miss Jeanette Gilkey Cross and Alton Everette James Jr. were married in a formal ceremony Saturday, June 25, at 8 o'clock in the First Methodist Church of Marion.

The Rev. Moody Nifong, the bride's pastor, officiated at the double ring ceremony. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Cross, Jr. of Marion, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A.E. James of Robersonville.

Prior to the ceremony, Mrs. Everett Carnes, organist, presented a prelude of nuptial music. Mrs. Carnes accompanied Mrs. Frank Stillwell, soloist, as she sang, "Beloved It is Morn" and "I Love Thee." "O Perfect Love" was sung as the benediction. The traditional processional and recessional were presented.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a wedding gown of white Peau de Soie and alouca lace with seed pearls, styled with Moven age neckline and brief sleeves. The princess bodice accented a bell skirt swept to the back and caught with self-rose at the waist emphasized by the tulle cathedral train banded in lace and seed pearls.

Her triple-tiered veil of French illusion was attached to an all rose halo. She carried a nosegay of roses centered with gardenias showered with streamers of lilies-of-the-valley.

The vows were pledged before a background of simax garlands ascending into a peak at the center top of the altar where a flowing arrangement of white gladioli and large phalaenodon leaves were used. In the center of the altar was a four-tiered fountain of white glads white chrysantheums, white callodium leaves and white delphinium. Streams of nylon rain the effect of water. At the rear of the fountain were palms and seven-branched candelabra.

Miss Frances Proctor, cousin of the bride, was the maid of honor and Mrs. Eugene Cross III, sister-in-law of the bride, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were: Miss Jane Copeland of Kinston, Miss Virginia Tyson of High Point, Miss Octavia Phillips of Rockingham and Miss Dana Bordon of Goldsboro.

The junior bridesmaid was Miss Sealy Cross, cousin of the bride.

The attendants wore identical formal length gowns of romance blue silk organza fashioned with off-shoulder drape. The molded bodice accented a full flowing skirt and matching rose head clips. They carried delicate pink braided ribbon baskets filled with aqua and pink garza chrysanthemums and red roses.

Mr. James was his son's best man.

The ushers were: Ray Noblin Jr., of Oxford, cousin of the bridegroom, Lt. John Clinton House, Louis Burch of Robersonville, George Vick of Fayetteville, John Cross, Eugene Cross III Kelly Cross of Marion, brothers of the bride.

The mother of the bride chose a summer pink silk organza designed with a soft shoulder drape, a fitted bodice with rose and leaf applique and a full skirt with a slight back sweep. Her corsage was of pink roses.

Mrs. James, mother of the bridegroom, selected a gown of powder blue lace and chiffon. The bodice was re-embroidered with sequins and pearls. She wore matching accessories and a deep purple orchid corsage.

The bride is a graduate of St. Mary's Junior College in Raleigh and is now enrolled at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

She made her debut at the Terpsichorean Ball and also was presented to society at the Junior Charity League Ball in Shelby and the Rhododendron Court Ball in Asheville.

The bridegroom is a graduate of the University of North Carolina, where he is now a student in the School of Medicine. He is a member of the Phi Kappa Alpha fraternity and the Phi Chi Medical fraternity. Immediately following the ceremony the bride's parents entertained at a reception at their home, "Crosswood."

After a wedding trip to Montego Bay, Jamaica, the bridal couple will make their home at Glenn Heights, Chapel Hill.

Reception of the setting at "Crosswood," the home of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Cross Jr. when they entertained Saturday evening at a reception following the marriage of their daughter, Jeanette, to Alton Everette James, Jr.

The entrance to "Crosswood" was lighted by candles in tall lantern-type hurricane lamps.

An arrangement of red roses in a liver bowl was featured in the entrance hall. Floral bouquets in the living room were blended to a mantel arrangement which grouped pink roses in antique vases around an heirloom figurine of a bride. The wedding day was also the 21st birthday of the bride.

A three-tiered blush pink cake centered the refreshment table, which was covered with white cut-work embroidered linen trimmed with lace medallions and a deep lace border. On the second tier of the cake were 21 candles honoring the bride's birthday. Crystal teardrop candelabra holding white tapers and a shower of pink carnations flanked the cake.

Mrs. Robert W. Proctor and Mrs. William C. Chambers received at the door. Mrs. John H. Tyler and Mrs. Oliver Cross poured the punch. Guests were received in the gift room by Mrs. Terry Moore.

Assisting at other points in the house were: Mrs. Frank Goldsmith, Mrs. Joseph L. Noyes and Mrs. Lula Hawkins. Music was furnished by Frank Albertson and his ensemble.

Truman Weakened His Own Claims

Former President Truman's convention-rigging charges leveled at National Chairman Paul Butler have been weakened rather than strengthened by Mr. Truman's accompanying decision to personally boycott the Democratic convention next week.

While it is the feeling of the former leader of the former leader of the party that the convention-rigging he alleges is ample reason for his declining to serve as an official delegate, there are many—even those in sympathy with Mr. Truman's position—who regard his boycott of the convention a slap at the party as well as at Butler and Sen. John Kennedy.

Political party protocol in this country call for party factions to settle their differences in family fights and then unite in support of the candidate against the opposition. While there is no question about Mr. Truman's supporting the Democratic nominee in November, the fact that he is staying out of the convention as a delegate tends to put him on the outside rather than on the inside of the family squabble.

It may be likened to the position of the little boy who will not play ball with the gang unless they let him choose his own position. His demands are disregarded as long as he remains aloof from the game. Once he joins the game, however, his chances of getting what he wants are greatly improved.

It seems to us that Mr. Truman's charges that the convention has been rigged would make it more urgent that he remain a delegate to fight the alleged rigging.

Arguments For Special Session

By LYNN NISBET

EXTRA—The suggestion that a special session of the General Assembly might be called early in January to attend the inauguration of Governor Terry Sanford has been opposed on the basis of cost. Advocates of the special session insist that the additional cost would be very small. Getting the election of a Speaker of the House and other officials out of the way before the regular session convenes almost certainly would save as much time later as it would take in January.

The small extra cost would pay dividends in enabling the new administration to get started on its program a month earlier. In the long run that might save many times its cost in mileage for the legislators.

There is another justification for a special session unless the new Governor wants to delay his induction. The constitution fixes the beginning of his term as January 1 following his election. There are some statutory requirements, too.

G.S. 147, dealing with the induction of elected officers, reads in part: "... On the first Thursday after the convening of the General Assembly, the person duly elected Governor shall, in the presence of a joint session of the two houses of the General Assembly, take the oath of office prescribed by law and be immediately inducted into the office of Governor."

If it should be held that reference is to the regular session only, a special session could be called on Monday and change the date for the regular session to Wednesday, January 4, the date on which sessions convened from 1868 until 1957.

"MACHINE"—Terry Sanford proved conclusively during the recent campaign that he is an effective political organizer. He was able to acquire and hold support from what had been widely divergent and vigorously opposing groups. Questions being asked now are whether he can maintain such a working organization for other purposes, as well as tighten up the administration of State government. He has talked about a "new day", and some of the opposition in the primary stemmed from the fear he might form a machine that would take over and run the State for many years.

It has been many times pointed out that North Carolina has never had a political "boss" like those in big cities and other states. The late Senator F.M. Simmons came nearer that status than any other man. He was recognized leader of the faction that was dominant through the first quarter of this century. He lost pres-idence when he refused to support the Democratic nominee for President in 1928. Two years later he was defeated in a race for a sixth term in the Senate by J.W. Bailey.

Within a few years Max Gardner had assumed recognized leadership of the dominant group, which contained many new people as well as a good many old Simmons folks. Gardner retained his influence until his death in 1947, despite several unsuccessful challenges.

Since then has been no dominant faction in the Democratic party, and no person recognized as the chief or authoritative spokesman. A "machine", maybe two of them, was in the making in 1948 but death broke it up before it really got started.

BROUGHTON-SCOTT — Joe Blythe, Mecklenburg senator and treasurer of the Democratic national committee, was known to have his eye on the governorship, had a good embryonic organization and was gaining acceptance as leader of the conservative group.

Kerr Scott had just been elected Governor, and J.M. Broughton had defeated William Umstead for the U.S. Senate seat. Scott had large personal following, but very little organization—as was later proven by his inability to transfer his strength to Frank Graham, Hubert Olive, Itimous Valentine and Murray James. Broughton had a pretty good organization carried over from his 1940 campaign for Governor and the 1948 Senate race. There was evidence that Broughton and Scott might combine and make a powerful group.

Then within three months after the new administrations began, Blythe and Broughton both died. There were no lieutenants able to step into their places. The machines broke down before they got on the road.

William Umstead was organization conscious. The day after his inauguration as Governor he suffered a heart attack. For two years he fought valiantly to do his job as Governor, with no time or strength for anything else. He died in late 1954.

Luther Hodges succeeded to the governorship and inherited the Umstead budget, legislative program and appointed personnel. Again there was no opportunity for machine building, and Governor Hodges has been in bad grace with much of the party leadership.

Sanford has the ability, as evidenced by his campaigning, and the opportunity is at hand for a powerful organization. How effective it will be and how long it will survive will depend upon many things besides his own ability.

from the inside. If all those who feel as Mr. Truman does stayed away from the convention as delegates it would provide a clear field for Chairman Butler to carry out his wishes without being challenged.

In 1948 Mr. Truman was among those who severely criticized delegations from some of the Southern states for quitting the party convention when they found the cards heavily stacked against them. Even more recently the former president has insisted that a walk-out or threatened walk-out from the convention or party showed lack of genuine interest in the welfare of the party.

Is Truman's decision not to attend the convention as a delegate any more of a slap at the party and the convention than the action of the Southern delegates who left the convention in 1948?

Party scraps, convention fights must be fought within the party and within the convention. Those who would alter the course in which the party seems to be headed must do so from the inside, not from the outside.

Mr. Truman would be in a much better position to battle the convention-rigging he charges if he had remained an official delegate rather than withdrawing as a delegate to the convention. His charges, both now and next week, would carry more weight.

How Will We Fare In The Next Nat'l Holiday?

The record holiday traffic death toll feared for the July 4th week-end has materialized to add a tragic note to the otherwise pleasant holiday.

Well over 400 lives were snuffed out on the highways of the nation during the three-day period which ended at mid-night Monday. While there have been holidays in which more lives were lost on the highways, the number killed this year sets a new high for a three-day July 4th week-end.

Pitt County was fortunate during the holiday. It got by with no traffic deaths, only three personal injuries and few accidents. Other areas of the state were not nearly so fortunate as at least 18 persons died in traffic accidents—two more than was estimated for the holiday period by the North Carolina State Motor Club.

It is tragic indeed that the major holidays in this nation have become periods of tragedy as well as periods of happiness and relaxation. With each holiday it is necessary to repeatedly warn motorists of the danger which exists on the highways. And more times than not, the traffic death toll for the holiday period surpasses even the grim predictions that are made.

The mid-summer holiday with its terrible traffic toll is now history. How well will the high price be remembered by the time the next national holiday is upon us?

Truman Didn't Tell Very Much

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — It was a strange performance.

Former President Truman got headlines in a sensational way by implying next week's Democratic convention is rigged—but there are still some unanswered questions about Truman himself.

He implied—although Truman is a man who always prided himself on his frankness—that the forces behind Sen. John F. Kennedy's presidential ambitions had the convention "fixed."

He never said it flatly. He never got specific. He never gave details and although he said he knew first-hand of some instances he never gave examples. This lack of example was one of the things Kennedy complained of Monday when, in a nationwide answer on TV, he pledged himself to a non-rigged, open convention.

Truman said he had resigned as a delegate to the convention because he had no desire to be taken to proceedings that are taking on the aspects of a prearranged affair.

"A convention which is controlled in advance by one group and its candidate leaves the delegates no opportunity for a Democratic choice and reduces the convention to a mockery," Truman went on.

After a few more paragraphs in the prepared statement Truman, without making a direct link between the alleged rigging and the Kennedy forces, said he was disappointed in "the manner in which some of the backers" of Kennedy have acted although he more or less absolved Kennedy himself from taking part in whatever they are supposed to have.

The point is that Truman never actually said what the Kennedy forces did.

At the news conference which followed a reporter asked Truman to get down to cases and say "what you have in mind."

Truman avoided a direct reply by saying the answer was in his prepared statement, although it wasn't.

This writer, watching the news conference on TV, thought the reporters failed to ask some obvious questions.

Since the former President said he felt compelled "to do whatever I can to alert the Los Angeles convention," he could have been asked:

1. Why resign as a delegate? Having alerted the convention with his Saturday statement, why didn't he, if he felt so strongly about it, then go to the convention as a delegate and fight what he didn't like?

2. Wasn't this the same as telling the other delegates to make a fight which he wasn't willing to go to Los Angeles to make himself?

3. What was resigning as a delegate going to accomplish except to deprive the convention of Truman?

4. Why, if he felt so strongly about it, didn't he go all the way in alerting the delegates by telling them specifically about the instances of rigging he said he himself knew?

5. Why did he even hold a news conference after making his TV statement if he didn't want to answer reporters' questions? Only one thing came through clearly. Truman wanted to stop Kennedy in the most sensational way he could think of—a nationwide broadcast on TV.

But Truman showed amazing inconsistency on what seemed to be his main opposition to Kennedy—the senator's age. Kennedy is 43. Truman listed a number of Democrats he considered worthy of consideration for the party's presidential nomination.

One was only a year older than Kennedy and one was a year younger. The two men, both from Minnesota, were Sen. Eugene McCarthy, 44, and Gov. Orville Freeman, 42.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

WHAT IS THE ANSWER?

A puny child was brought into a London hospital for treatment. Upon his arrival, the nurse offered him a glass of milk. The youngster was about to drink when he looked up at the nurse and said, "How deep may I drink, Miss?"

Behind this question stretches a panorama of wretchedness. In the home from which the child came, a glass of milk means a few sips for this child and the rest of the glass shared with brothers and sisters.

All over the world people have to ask the questions, "How deep may I drink?" This is not because there is not enough to go around, but because the human race with all its boastful wisdom cannot arrange an adequate distribution of life's benefits. In every country of the world there are people who have so much that they groan in surfeit. Alongside them live multitudes who have scarcely enough to hold body and soul together. This situation constitutes the base from which Communism and other subversive systems start their march against the present social set-up.

But Communism is not the answer. People are prevented from drinking deeply from the benefits of life not because of false economic systems but because false men and women all over the world keep others from their rightful share of life's benefits. The answer to the problem is to be found not in the writings of Karl Marx but on the pages of the New Testament

No Taste For Clambakes

Yesterday morning before the county commissioners got down to business the usual monthly greetings and hearty laughter filled the commissioners' room in the courthouse.

After all five men had arrived and were just before getting underway, Woody Wooten's familiar laugh attracted most attention.

He and Bob Martin were discussing something about a clambake.

When the other commissioners heard "clambake," they became suddenly attentive. Immediately all five were getting their kicks out of what was being said about the feast.

It seems the gentlemen were served baked clams as a special dinner or something during the recent state convention of county commissioners on the coast.

The way it turned out, however, neither of the Pitt delegation got any particular satisfaction out of the clams. As a matter of fact, they'd have rather eaten hot dogs and sour kraut or something.

No one had professed to be a connoisseur of fine foods or anything but the clambake, they said, just didn't appeal to the average eating layman.

Who had conjured up the feast was not disclosed, but the board, in unofficial action, was of the opinion that whoever it was should no longer be allowed kitchen privileges.

While Vance Perkins and Alton Gardner, remembering well the feast, sat smiling those kinds of smiles you smile when remembering something that didn't particularly agree with the taste buds, Robert Little vividly described the clambake.

"When they brought it out," he declared, "it looked like they had a little of everything all tied up in a dirty piece of cloth." He said he just couldn't take it.

Bob Martin, who was unable to attend the convention, just sat reared back in his chair thinking, in at least one instance, he was just as well off at home.

One of those notes heralding the need for a column (this column) puzzled the columnist yesterday. It read:

Did you know the column your due for publication in the tomorrow Daily Reflector?

It was easy enough to get the idea from the five lines, but how was it supposed to read? Smoothly or not? Even after several minutes of study, it appeared not.

So we inquired and found the lines are merely an example of an experimental system for speeding up reading. It has actually been under study for a time and some research experts think such a system would be beneficial indeed.

How does it work? The designers of the system realized a person reads, line by line, from left to right. They contended time was being wasted in moving the eyes from the right end of each line all the way back to the beginning of the next line at the far left.

The above five lines, when read properly so like this: "Did you know your column is due for publication tomorrow in the Daily Reflector?"

Other Editors Saying Truman And The Future

(Greensboro Daily News)

The St. Louis Post-Dispatch probably has the best explanation for its fellow Missourian Harry Truman's blast at Senator Kennedy and sudden boost of Lyndon Johnson's presidential stock.

"It is difficult to escape the view that Mr. Truman is acting out of frustration," comments the Post-Dispatch. "He went to the 1956 convention determined to gain the nomination for Governor Harriman. The effort was a decisive failure. Now he sees the campaign of his 1960 choice, Mr. Symington, bogging down. Mr. Truman pleads for an open convention; we wonder what his reaction would be were the positions of Senators Kennedy and Symington reversed."

But basically what Harry Truman seems not to have sensed is that the times are creating new leaders—that this is an age for younger men.

Senator Kennedy's ability to put together a combination of all sorts of Democratic politicians, ranging from Harvard Yard to the Chicago Stockyards, has impressed the young coming leaders of the Democratic Party.

"These young men in all the Democratic parties from New York to California who have come to power in the past decade are not disrespectful of Mr. Truman," comments James Reston in The New York Times, "but it is the old story, noted by Shakespeare among others, that 'men rather honor the rising than the setting sun.'"

This is the point that Harry Truman has missed. He thought he could startle the delegates at Los Angeles into doing what he wanted but he started late. And, notes Reston, whenever a convention is confronted with a choice between the past and the future it always tends to go along with what is coming up."

Spilling his charges of a "rigged" convention a week in advance, he obviously threw his weight behind the stop-Kennedy movement. National Chairman

Paul Butler openly favors Kennedy and Rep. Chester Bowles, a Kennedy adviser is chairman of the platform-writing committee, but evidence that the Los Angeles convention is rigged was not explicitly furnished by Mr. Truman.

In fact, a rigged Democratic convention is almost a contradiction in terms. Senator Kennedy may think he has a first ballot nomination all sewed up, but Democratic delegates are notably individualistic souls. Oddly enough, the stop-Kennedy movement Mr. Truman has joined could result in a Kennedy-Johnson deadlock working to the advantage of the man Mr. Truman regards so poorly, Adlai Stevenson.

Truman differ in their preferences of Democratic candidates. The Post-Dispatch favors Adlai Stevenson. Mr. Truman, in his Saturday press conference, pointedly ignored Mr. Stevenson while listing a string of Democratic possibilities, including some even younger than Senator Kennedy, whom the ex-President advised to be "patient" because of his age.

But this difference in preference hardly diminishes the correctness of the Post-Dispatch view. For it is also difficult to escape the view that Mr. Truman probably is out of touch with events and no longer has much influence within the Democratic Party.

With all the respect and popularity accorded Mr. Truman by his party, surely he would have a chance to speak at the convention next week.

That was more than 4 per cent of total consumer spending in retail stores. The total $215,413,000,000.

Spending in grocery stores amounted to $46,043,000,000. For nourishing vittles largely. But some went for beer and wine, and in some states, for liquor. No one knows how much. Two thousand dollars? Too small! Two billion? Probably too big, but perhaps not by very much.

Then there's a tabulation of eating places, as distinguished from drinking places. Total spending last year: $10,488,000,000.

That included cafeterias, where working people grabbed quick breakfasts, short lunches. It included meals for millions who have no kitchen (or cook) in their homes. But it also included luxury spending: men on the town, vacationers, business entertainers and a lot of other luxury eating, contrasted with subsistence eating; it takes on a lot of luxury eating, contrasted with subsistence eating; it takes on a lot of luxury drinking too, doesn't it, Mr. Martini?

How much? No one knows. But the luxury eating and drinking was probably less than generally supposed; probably no more than $2 billion.

OTHER LUXURIES Another item: $32,472,000,000 for passenger cars. How much for luxury? Again, no one knows. This included cars for salesmen, for small deliveries, for men and women getting back and forth to work. Perhaps only $10 billion was for cars for touring, gadding and getting to the supermarket in style befitting the 1960 model housewife.

General merchandise: $23,391,000,000. How much for luxury? Half? Apparel: $13,266,000,000. Half

Foreign Policy In Vise

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
Copyright, 1960, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

The Cuban situation further emphasizes the inflexibility of our foreign activities. We seem to be caught in a vise. Actually, the President, can hardly do anything except to order troops in. He could not, on his own, proclaim economic sanctions against a country which is definitely our enemy—an implacable, miserable enemy. He cannot order troops in without violating the Rio Treaty and we do not know whether the countries of the Organization of American States would support us or support Castro on doctrinaire grounds.

The Sugar Bill is a case in point. The United States subsidizes the Cuban sugar industry by purchasing a quota of sugar from Cuba at more than two cents a pound over and above the world price. No matter what Cuba does to the United States, the President has had no power of retaliation and the United States was required by law to continue to subsidize an enemy even if the money we give him is used against us.

The Sugar Bill (H.R. 12311) gives to the President authority to establish the quota for sugar, at whatever amount he sees fit for the balance of the year 1960 and for 1961.

There has been considerable resistance to giving the President this authority, the resistance coming from American sugar growers in Cuba who do not wish to have the present arrangements changed. Unfortunately for them, too many events are occurring in too many parts of the world for any current arrangement to be of a permanent nature. This is why there must be more Executive flexibility.

For instance, when the present sugar quota and prices were arranged with Cuba, the government of that country was pro-American. It may or may not have been the most satisfactory government in the world, but we could get along with it. That ought to be the sole criterion for the American attitude toward any government: is it or is it not friendly and compatible to the United States; does it deal with the United States fairly; are our goods well-received in its markets? We do not need to decide whether the form of any government is compatible with ours. Most are not.

Those desks in the State Department who were so violently anti-Batista and pro-Castro were not giving much thought to the United States. They were deep up to their hips in Cuban affairs; they were concerned with the intimacies of the Cuban situation. Did it ever occur to them that the United States had a stake in it all? When I lived in the Far East, the same attitude was always there—American officials in China were pro-Chinese; the American officials in Japan were pro-Japanese. Who was pro-American?

Thus, the State Department was violently anti-Batista and equally violently pro-Castro. Now, it has to find a way out of the deskmen's errors and it is very difficult. Will they resign as a Britisher would do or will they commit suicide like Sumatra? Not at all. They will be promoted to higher posts. No matter how many errors they make and how grievous the errors, seniority and secrecy save them.

The President needs great flexibility of power during the Cold War. Without it, his hands are tied because the Soviet group moves so swiftly. In the Cuban situation, economic sanctions should have been employed almost immediately. That would have corrected the first error of the State Department deskmen who accepted Herbert Matthews of "The New York Times" as their guide and misread the entire Cuban situation.

This also needs to be said: you and I can make mistakes because we are never in possession of all the facts of a situation, no matter how hard we may try these days to inform ourselves. The same cannot be true of the deskmen in the State Department who have access to all sorts of data. For instance, they know all about Castro from our Ambassador to Cuba, Earl E. T. Smith, and they had reports from our Am-

WHAT HAS HAPPENED
 U.S. Senator Alex Simon asked District Attorney Dan Callahan: "Defer to this old man, Dan. I don't want a primary battle. I want to come home as Governor."
 Callahan is confident that his role in the upcoming Hart murder trial will bring him the necessary public support to win the election. Simon proposes to have Callahan reject the deal: "What are you promising the others?"
 Simon's promise of a Federal judgeship to Dan's hometown rival for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, Judge Sam Hoffman, has a string attached to it: the Judge must declare a mistrial in the Hart trial and prevent Callahan from making political capital of the case.
CHAPTER 5
 Leaving the District Attorney's office at eight, Dan Callahan ate a leisurely supper and took a taxi to his meeting with Matt Keenan, the publisher of the Rowton Herald.

commanding bark.
 Near the end of this meeting at which the publisher and the District Attorney formalized their alliance, Keenan said, "Simon in the statehouse would set us back fifty years. What does that senile witless wonder know about the Hydrogen Age, what's he care if we're sitting on TNT?"
 Callahan's booming laugh rocked the room. "Matt, we see eye to eye."
 "I hope we do." Keenan rumbled like an old volcano on good behavior between eruptions. "Because I think Simon's voted wrong, when he's voted at all, on every issue confronting the country since he's been in the Senate. But in the Senate, at least, there are ninety-plus other talking machines to shout him down. Heaven only knows what damage he'd do sitting behind the Governor's desk!"
 The publisher snorted contemptuously. "And for that matter, how the devil did we get our present Governor? They swore on the Bible before I moved here that Republicans never won the governorship."
 "The Democrats had a rough family squabble two years ago."
 "Well, all I want from you is a promise to do a job when you get to the statehouse. You've done a pretty fair one cleaning up Rowton, and maybe you'll be able to do the same thing for the state."
 "Matt," Callahan said, "that clinches my faith in you! We'll work well together."
 "I've heard that song before too. At least we're both alumni of the OSS, whatever that proves." His eyes dropped to Callahan's artificial leg. "How'd you lose your leg in Italy?"

 "Let's skip that one. I'm tired of people who campaign on war records."
 "A modest hero, yet! I'll let you have my statehouse reported for a couple of months. Phil knows his way around."
 Callahan grinned, but his jaw took a harder set. "No, you won't. Let's get the ground rules straight. You aren't going to run me, you aren't going to run my campaign."
 Keenan looked up sharply. "You're tougher than I thought." Then he laughed, the sound like that of a battered cement mixer tumbling sand and gravel. "Well, the devil knows we need a tough man in the statehouse."
 In the slow-moving cortege behind the District Attorney's limousine was a green MG, driven by his assistant prosecutor, Bob Vinquist. With him was Polly Hoffman, covering old Judge Guffay's funeral in her capacity as a Herald reporter. Learning forward to light a cigarette, Sam Hoffman's daughter said, "But I do quite like Mr. Keenan. In spite of his profanity, which I suspect is a pose."
 "So you've decided to forgive him for backing Dan?" Bob said.
 "Oh, I'm not as hostile to Dan as I sometimes sound. In fact, he has a certain charm. He has that kind of rumpled look women always find attractive. Like a young Carl Sandburg with more meat on the bones."
 Bob laughed. "I guess we can count on the women's vote."
 "I guess you can. Glory be to the Nineteenth Amendment. Glory be to many things. Glory be to hot dogs, Indian headaddresses, and steel guitars. What would candidates do without them? They might even have to run on issues, and that would be a deadly day." She sat back now, watching the men in the car ahead. "But I still think Dan's trying to use you . . . your money."
 "I never escape that, do I? Well, maybe I'm using him too. It would be nice to think I could accomplish what I want to accomplish on my own, but I'm learning, I think, to accept the fact that another man's coat-tails sometimes give you a longer ride."
 "Yes, even Caesar must have had a sponsor."
 He looked over at her quickly but there was neither sarcasm nor malice in the glance she returned. "Okay," he said, "so I don't have to worry about earning a living. But I'll be damned if I want to sit around doing nothing. In politics, in government, I can at least try to put my time to a useful purpose. And is it a crime, do you have to apologize for wanting to help people?"
 "You don't have to be in politics to help people. You could just give all your money to the poor."
 He smiled slightly. "You're a pillar of strength today, Polly."
 "It was a little glib, wasn't it? I'm sorry, Bob, but nobility always gets under my skin. Every politician I've ever known, including Dad, talks nobility. I love my father, but I do get tired of speeches." She grimaced. "I seem to be making a speech myself. But I've seen what happens to men who run for office. They seem to lose the vision, the intentions, they had when they started."
 She laughed. "Not that can't be meant to be as priggish as it sounds."
 "God, I hope not. What I meant was, I wouldn't ever be running for elective office in the first place."
 "What about this gubernatorial campaign of Dan's? What kind of role do you expect to have in it?"
 "Any one he gives me. If I had my choice, I'd like to be his campaign manager. I don't want much, do I? Just the moon."
 "But why should Dan give you that particular honor—or is 'honor' the right word? What experience have you had? How could you get the old pros to follow your hunches, your instructions?"
 "That's why Dan won't give me the job."
 "He might. Why do you think, really, he's using you as his assistant in this Hart murder case? How many murder cases have you tried? Why isn't he using one of his more experienced assistants?"
 "All right, it's my money!" But the outburst's childish petulance appalled him and he made an awkward attempt to take her hand. "That was a stupid thing to say."
 She immediately moved closer, regarding him with a mixture of tenderness and amusement. "Sometimes you get such an intense comic, serious look. Like a small boy who's been caught robbing his piggy bank."
 He made a vague gesture of acknowledgment. Was part of his defensiveness with Polly, he wondered, the fact that he had no way of knowing how much any affection she might have for him was also influenced by that same long shadow of . . . money? Then, shocked by the meanness of such suspicion, guiltily contrite, he said, "Yes, I've always been told that I appeal to the maternal instinct."
 "You appeal, you appeal. But not just maternally." Her blue eyes challenged him briefly before she said, "Now, though, let's go bury Judge Guffay. I never met him but I think we owe him at least this moment."

Fight On Pitt Theater Screen

The recent heavyweight championship fight between Floyd Patterson and Ingemar Johansson can be seen at the Pitt Theatre on Friday and Saturday of this week.

The film, reportedly better than ringside seats, will show the action in slow-motion as well as regular speed.

The Swede, with his thundering right paw, and Patterson's hatfull of cagey boxing tactics have added color to the boxing game this past year. Here's one that's looking forward to seeing the bout on the screen. It will be a good time to analyze the strong and weak points of both fighters, drawing some type of prediction for the third battle.

A thought to keep in mind while watching the fight will be the floating rumor of Johanssen being under hypnosis. The film should tell an interesting story.

Pitt Has Good Attendance

Despite the weak showing in recent weeks of the Pitt County American Legion club, it has been one of the top drawing powers in this area. Only Rocky Mount, defending champ and unbeaten this season, has drawn better crowds.

The return of Legion ball to Pitt has had its share of obstacles. Work on sponsoring a club was started late. Recruiting talent from around the county wasn't too successful and Coach Bud Phillips' biggest problem has been no reserve strength.

It has been a case where apathy could easily set in. Since early season, the top players were established and they were never pushed to hold their slots. The results have shown poor fielding and Phillips has been unable to bench a slumping starter in favor of new blood.

Next season, the Legion officials should scan the county well in search of talent. Travel problems might arise in some cases but summer jobs in Greenville could probably be provided during the Legion season.

Tonight, the Pitt club is home for the final time. Last-place Jacksonville is in town with hopes of moving into a tie with the erratic home club. Let's give the Pitt team support in its final home encounter.

Moore Reveals Diet Secret

At last, Light Heavyweight champion Archie Moore has revealed his secret diet. According to the current issue of Sports Illustrated, the colorful boxer has been able to fight in all weight divisions from middle to heavy, and live high in between, through a regime based on sauerkraut juice and not swallowing the bulk of the meats he eats.

Ever since 1940, when Archie was in Australia training for a fight there, he has been mystifying reporters by taking his meals behind a screen during training. He says it was at that time that he observed the strength and vitality of the Australian Aborigines and deduced there must be a connection with the foods they consumed on their incredible long treks through the wilderness. This consisted solely of chewing on dried meat. They swallowed no bulk, only chewed the jerked beef until every bit of juice was extracted from it. The fighter tried the same with his meats and found that he lost two "solid" pounds in a week and remained as strong as ever.

Notes From Here And There

Doug Watts, catcher and co-captain of the ECC North State baseball champions in 1959, entered wedlock Sunday afternoon. He plans to reside in his native town, Southport, next fall. The football clinic at the college had over 50 in attendance last night. It was more than expected by the EC coaching staff. The Greenville Pitt-Putt ranked number one in the nation in attendance during the month of May. Bermey Stevens, ex-ECC baseball star, starts his fourth season as head coach of Tabor City this fall. He expects to field his strongest football team since entering the coaching field.

Yankees Lose Second In Row, Lead By Game

By ED WILKS Associated Press Sports Writer. Maybe this isn't going to be such a cinch pennant for the New York Yankees after all. Not when they use three starting pitchers in one game and get beat. And not when they lose two in a row for the first time in more than a month, but find their American League lead whittled to one game. That's what happened when they were held to three hits by Pete Ramos and Chuck Stobbs, blew a 3-0 lead and lost 5-3 in 10 innings at Washington Tuesday night. Art Ditmar, who had won five straight, was tagged for the loss after following Ralph Terry and Bob Turley to the mound. After dropping only eight of 39 games in June, the Yanks now have lost two of five in July. That's not exactly a total collapse, but both losses were to the sixth-place Senators and they now lead second-place Cleveland, idle Tuesday by just one game. They're also just two lengths ahead of the third-place Baltimore Orioles—who rapped Boston 9-4 in the only other game scheduled in the AL-going into the opener of a two-game set at Baltimore tonight. The Indians play six games in five days with Chicago's fourth-place White Sox, beginning with a two-game series at Cleveland. A two-out single by Reno Bertoia and Bob Allison's follow-up 10th homer beat the Yankees and Ditmar (7-4). The Senators scored in each of the last four frames, tying it on Faye Throneberry's pinch single off Turley with two out in the ninth.

With no reserve strength, Coach Bud Phillips has little choice in naming a starting lineup tonight. A couple of shifts in positions has failed to remedy the losing skid. The Pitt tutor is hopeful that his club can junk their "bad inning" tonight and get back in the win column. Phillips was not set on his starter for the Jacksonville tussle but indicated it would be either Malcolm Griffith or James Allan Braxton. Tonight's game will start at 8:00 in Guy Smith Stadium. The drawing for a free TV set will also take place tonight.

With Sneed and Ford are former winners, George Bayer of Gabriel, Calif., Doug Sanders of Miami Beach, Fla., 1956 winner; West Ellis, Jr. of Aldecress, N. J., titleholder in 1958, and veteran Jim Perrier of San Francisco, who pocketed the first-place money in 1950 and 1951.

Pitt Club Plays Last Home Game

The Pitt County Legion baseball team will be on home soil for the final time tonight when it attempts to escape a tie in the cellar with a win over last-place Jacksonville. The Pitt team will put its potent plate strength and weak fielding against a Jacksonville club that has also experienced its share of "ups and downs" in the current Legion season. With such solid stickers as Alan MacArthur, Billy James, Romney Brock, Kroghie Andresen, and Larry Roberts, the locals have been able to post only two wins and these came in the first two games. Tonight, a third will be a necessity if the Phillippians hope to stay out of the cellar in their first year of returning to Legion ball. Jacksonville has won only one game this season and it came over Pitt, 7-6, in the middle of its losing streak. The Pitt streak has now mounted to six straight with only two games left on the schedule. With no reserve strength, Coach Bud Phillips has little choice in naming a starting lineup tonight. A couple of shifts in positions has failed to remedy the losing skid. The Pitt tutor is hopeful that his club can junk their "bad inning" tonight and get back in the win column. Phillips was not set on his starter for the Jacksonville tussle but indicated it would be either Malcolm Griffith or James Allan Braxton. Tonight's game will start at 8:00 in Guy Smith Stadium. The drawing for a free TV set will also take place tonight.

Strong Field For Canadian Open

TORONTO (AP) — The 51st Canadian Open Golf Championship over the suburban St. George's course got under way today with the pros complaining about the state of the greens. Most of the field of 147 toured the 6,516-yard par-72 course Tuesday and comments were caustic. The grippers preferred to remain anonymous and the general theme was that the lightningfast spike-pocked greens would make it tough. "The greens probably won't stand the gaff of all the traffic," observed one pro who carded a three-under-par 69 practice round. "The late starters will have to give away a couple of strokes," commented another. "The greens are full of spike marks — not good," he added. The field is probably one of the strongest in the history of the tournament. Among the starters are six former winners, including three-time champion Sam Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., and defending champion Doug Ford of Crystal River, Fla., who turned in a four-under-par 68 practice-round Tuesday. With Sneed and Ford are former winners, George Bayer of Gabriel, Calif., Doug Sanders of Miami Beach, Fla., 1956 winner; West Ellis, Jr. of Aldecress, N. J., titleholder in 1958, and veteran Jim Perrier of San Francisco, who pocketed the first-place money in 1950 and 1951.

Palmer Has Big Gap In Winnings

DUNEDIN, Fla. (AP) — Arnold Palmer of Ligonier, Pa., didn't draw a paycheck last week, but his $66,600 income so far this year would make many a corporation president envious. So far, Palmer has earned $31,100 more than second place Dow Finsterwald of Tequesta, Fla. Finsterwald has made $35,500. Ken Venturi of Palo Alto, Calif., holds third place in the money list with $30,500. Mike Souchak of Durham, N.C., climbed into fourth place with $29,400 to replace Jerry Barber of Los Angeles, who dropped into fifth place with a total of $29,300. Others in the top 10 are: Julius Boros, Mid Pines, N. C., $27,700; Jack Fleck, Los Angeles $23,200; Doug Ford, Miami, Fla., $22,700; Gene Littler, Singing Hills, Calif., $21,600 and Bill Collins, Crystal River, Fla., $20,500.

Industrial League

COX IS WINNER. Cox Armature scored five runs in the second inning, and cruised to an 8-2 win over Offset Printing Company last night in Industrial League action. The winners spotted Offset two runs in the top half of the second but the lead was short-lived. Billy McRoy paced the win with three hits, including a double. Yates was the winner, scattering four hits. Offset Printing Co. 020 00-2 4 Cox Armature 051 2x-8 5 Williams and A. Hamil; Yates and McRoy.

THREE-RUN RALLY. Carolina Dairy staged a three-run rally in the bottom half of the seventh inning last night to down city champion, Graniteers, 5-3. Trailing 3-2 going into the seventh, Pete Tripp homered with one out to tie the game. Earl Tripp walked, Bob Dash singled, and Tom Boyd walked to load the bases. Haywood Outland stroked a single to center to score two runs and win the game. Pete Tripp had a double to go with his four-bagger. Ike Riddick had two hits for the losers. Dan Gordon, Graniteer ace, was the losing pitcher while Gene Moss of the Dairy was the winner. Graniteers 201 000 0-3 4 Carolina Dairy 000 110 3-5 6

Home Builders nipped a College View rally in the seventh inning last night to gain a 6-5 win in Teener-League action. Kenny Joyner had two hits for College View, including an inside-the-park homerun, but it all went for naught. Denny Hardee picked up the victory in relief. Chester Walsh was charged with the loss. LAST CHANCE—Ed Smoot, Kroghie Andresen, Alan MacArthur, and Billy James will try to make their bats speak tonight in hopes of breaking a six-game losing streak. Malcolm Griffith, bottom insert, may get the starting pitching assignment against Jacksonville.

American League All-Star Club Completed

BOSTON (AP)—The American League All-Star baseball squad was complete today with the selection of 22 players by manager Al Lopez, joining eight starters chosen previously in a poll among players. Lopez, the American League All-Star manager, named these players: Pitchers Gary Bell and Dick Sigman of Cleveland; Jim Coates and Whitey Ford of New York; Bud Daley, Kansas City; Chuck Estrada, Baltimore; Frank Lary, Detroit; Bill Monbouquette, Boston; Camillo Pascual, Washington, and Gerry Staley and Early Wynn, Chicago. Catchers Elston Howard, Yankees and Sherm Lollar, White Sox, were named to spell starter Yogi Berra of the Yankees. Reserve infielders are Luis Aparicio and Nelson Fox of the White Sox; Vic Power, Indians, and Brooks Robinson and Jim Gentile, Baltimore. Ted Williams of the Red Sox was named to a reserve outfield role. It marks his 16th time he has been named to the All-Star squad. Also named as reserve outfielders were Al Kaline, Tigers, Harvey Korman, Indians, and Al Smith, White Sox. One All-Star game will be played in Kansas City next Monday and a second at Yankee Stadium, New York, next Wednesday.

Two Named To Tennis Squad

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Two St. Louis tennis players were among the four members named Tuesday to the U.S. squad that will face Canada on July 15 in Davis Cup play. James B. Moffet, chairman, said the selection committee has named Earl Buchholz and Charles McKinley of St. Louis, Bernard Barzen of Dallas, Tex., and Barry MacKay of Dayton, Ohio. Buchholz and MacKay were members of the team that lost in the Davis Cup finals to Australia last year. Charles Schmitter, fencing coach at Michigan State, has been a member of the American Federation of Musicians for 30 years. He plays the tuba and the string bass.

RALEIGH (AP) — Nine out-of-state judges will choose Miss North Carolina in the annual state pageant beginning here July 20.

Bill Schliestest, general chairman of the pageant, said since the North Carolina contest is the largest in the nation "our main problem has been having enough judges to give the girls a fair chance."

The contest, which runs four days, will result in a successor to last year's winner, Judy Kilpief of Asheville. As usual, the North Carolina Junior Chamber of Commerce will sponsor the pageant.

Miss America of 1960, Lynda Meade of Mississippi, will attend. Schliestest said that since talent is 20 per cent of the judging, a maximum number of judges is essential. He added, "Some of the girls would certainly be classified as professionals according to information on the entry blanks."

Ovens Auditorium will be the scene of four evening shows with the winner crowned the last night. A parade also is planned on Friday afternoon, July 22.

A record $3,450 in awards will go to the winner and runnerup. The winner will receive $1,000 plus a chance to compete for Miss America later in the year at Atlantic City, N. J.

Pilcher was charged with driving under the influence of a toxicant but entered a plea of guilty to careless and reckless driving, which was accepted by the state.

The editors regret the error.

S.C. Demos Aged On One Front

COLUMBIA (AP) — South Carolina's 42-member delegation seems agreed that if one member is refused a seat at the national Democratic convention, all will walk out.

That was the delegation sentiment relayed to newsmen Tuesday by Gov. Ernest F. Hollings following a closed-door caucus of more than an hour.

"We'll be seated in toto or ousted in toto," Hollings predicted.

But the governor, who is delegation chairman, sees no serious danger that any South Carolina Democrats will cross party lines in previous presidential elections will be refused convention seats at Los Angeles, National Party Chairman Paul Butler has hinted as much.

Hollings said his exchanges with the convention's credentials committee leads him to believe none of the South Carolina delegates will be challenged.

U.S. Sen. Strom Thurmond, a South Carolina convention delegate this year, voted in 1952 for President Eisenhower, the Republican candidate.

"Sen. Thurmond is a fine Democrat," Gov. Hollings commented. "He should be seated since he was elected as a delegate by fellow party members in his state."

The uncommitted South Carolina delegation decided to remain that way. Hollings indicated a choice of one candidate could likely be made in Los Angeles next Monday at a delegation meeting scheduled for 10:30 a.m. The convention opens at 5 p.m. that day.

"By that time," said the governor, "we all should have had sufficient time to determine the views of the candidates and gather various other pieces of information."

That was a reference to the delegation's announced determination to bargain South Carolina's 21 convention votes for Civil Rights Concessions.

Hollings said he would like for all the presidential candidates to appear before the South Carolina delegation at the pre-convention meeting.

The governor told newsmen that both Sens. John Kennedy of Massachusetts and Lyndon Johnson of Texas have made overtures for South Carolina's support.

He said all the presidential hopefuls were "generally discussed" and the Tuesday meeting, but would not elaborate.

Hollings had said previously that Kennedy seems to be far out front in the race for the nomination.

The South Carolina delegation will use the unit rule in voting at the convention if at least two-thirds (28) of the delegates agree to employ it," Hollings said. He emphasized that the two-thirds majority would be needed on each question.

Under the system, delegation votes are recorded in a bloc if the necessary majority is attained.

Egypt hit a wave of prosperity during the American Civil War because of increased demand for Egyptian cotton.

The demonstrators in Leopoldville at one point roughed up the army's Belgian commander, Gen. Emile Janssen, and seized his pistol.

They finally marched back to their barracks after speeches by Prime Minister Patrice Lumumba and other government ministers.

The demonstration was confined largely to the Parliament building and the barracks. Otherwise life in the capital continued much as usual.

There were reports that the rebellious soldiers also want higher pay.

The force has no commissioned Congolese officers. It has been invaluable to the Belgians in maintaining order in this nation, where intertribal quarrelling and killing have existed for years and have flared again in the political uncertainties of independence. The Belgian officers are remaining at the invitation of the Congo government.

Aneurin Bevan Dies Of Illness

LONDON (AP) — Aneurin Bevan, deputy leader of Britain's Labor party and one of the great self-made men of British public life, died today. He was 62.

Bevan underwent a major abdominal operation last Dec. 29 in a London hospital and had been confined in his rural home since leaving the hospital Feb. 14.

Although the nature of his ailment has not been disclosed officially it was generally believed to have been cancer.

With Bevan at the end was his wife, Jennie Lee, a prominent Labor party figure herself and a member of Parliament.

A Labor party spokesman said Bevan died peacefully at 1:20 p.m. at his home west of London.

Bevan, a fighting Socialist with a fiery tongue, stirred up revolt and controversy within his own Labor party for years and delighted in tweaking Uncle Sam's nose.

He was the party's spokesman on foreign affairs, and had Labor won the last election he would have been foreign secretary.

In recent years, however, he underwent a subtle change as the loyal No. 2 man to the moderate, party leader Hugh Gaitskell.

When the party went down to defeat again in last October's elections he ignored the opportunity again to lead a militant revolt of the leftwingers for a thorough overhauling of the party's leadership and policies.

Congo's Soldiers Display Unrest

LEOPOLDVILLE, Congo (AP) — About 200 soldiers of the Congo army demonstrated for several hours today in front of the infant African nation's Parliament building, demanding removal of all their white Belgian officers.

Other soldiers mutinied Tuesday night in Thysville, 71 miles southwest of the capital, and imprisoned their white officers.

The demonstrators in Leopoldville at one point roughed up the army's Belgian commander, Gen. Emile Janssen, and seized his pistol.

They finally marched back to their barracks after speeches by Prime Minister Patrice Lumumba and other government ministers.

The demonstration was confined largely to the Parliament building and the barracks. Otherwise life in the capital continued much as usual.

Dairy Survey In Pitt Undertaken

Eugene E. King, Eastern N. C. District Sanitarian for the State Board of Health, this morning began a survey of agencies producing and distributing milk and milk products in Pitt County.

Working with Pitt Sanitarian E. L. Kilpatrick, King is expected to complete the U. S. Public Health Service survey sometime tomorrow.

According to King, the purpose of the survey, which the district sanitarians conduct in each county every two years, is two-fold.

The survey: 1. Determines a milk sanitation rating of the local milk supply to assure the public that they buy sanitary by the standards of the USPHS Milk Ordinance and Code. 2. Determines whether county-by-county ratings permit the inter-county distribution of milk and milk products.

King is one of three district sanitarians in the state supplied to the counties by the state board.

Investigating Patrolman Howard Winslow said Jackie Vernon Dixon, 16, of Rt. 2, Box 300, Greenville was charged after his tractor and a truck collided about a half mile south of Black Jack.

The operator of the truck, identified as Kenneth Harold Randolph, 30, of Box 321, Greenville, was charged with failing to see if his intended movement could be made in safety.
