

TENTATIVE BUDGET OF $857,216 FOR CITY

Tax Rate Held At Same Levels

By ALVIN TAYLOR, Reflecter City Editor. City councilmen approved an $857,216 tentative budget last night holding the city tax rate at $1.38 per hundred dollar evaluation.

The 1960-61 budget followed a trend of the past several years. It set another record for total dollars appropriated. The budget is $46,792.96 in excess of the 1959-60 budget. At the beginning of the last fiscal year it was proposed that $810,423.11 be spent.

The tentative budget will remain in the city clerk's office for a 20-day period during which time it is open for public inspection. At the end of the period it will be adopted in final form by the City Council.

This fiscal year expenditures call for the addition of three men to the Police Department and two men to the Fire Department. However, in view of the upcoming $550,000 bond election, capital improvement items were held to a bare minimum. Capital outlay items for the six city departments amounted to $30,614.41.

Balancing of the budget was aided by better-than-expected carry-over in the general fund from last year. Cash on hand at the beginning of the new fiscal year is shown as $55,085.88. This compares with $13,763.23 cash on hand at the beginning of last year.

Approximately half of the revenue for the year will come from property taxes. Income from this source is estimated at $404,790.95. Other major sources of revenue are: intangible tax, $20,000; beer tax, $18,000; Pitt ABC board, $8,000; privilege license, $25,000; court cost, $16,000; parking meters, $24,000; building and plumbing permits, $7,000; N. C. Franchise tax, $8,000; fingerprinting service, $1,740; Pitt County for rescue squad, $650; cemetery lots, $5,000; Greenville Utilities turnover, $150,000; Powell Bill, $72,000; miscellaneous, $10,000.

The Public Works Department will spend the biggest amount during the coming fiscal year. That department's budget is set at $185,350. Not included in that figure is $65,264 in Powell Bill funds which will be spent for street construction and maintenance. This fund is turned over to the city from the state.

The Police Department is second in appropriations. Its budget calls for expenditure of $167,404 during the fiscal year. Last year the Police Department received an appropriation of $145,594.

An expenditure of $163,706.82 for administrative and general government is included in the government. Last year the figure was $148,290.82.

Included in this category are expenses of the city managers' office, city clerk and tax collector's office and engineering.

Fifteen-Day Truce For Seething Italy Sought

ROME (AP)—Senate President Cesare Merzagora appealed today for a 15-day truce in political rioting and strikes. He said the rioting of Italy was endangered and his proposal won some early support.

Earlier the government had threatened tougher police action unless the Communists halt the wave of violence which has cost seven lives and injuries to 750.

Giovanni Leone, president of the Chamber of Deputies, announced his support of the truce, and similar indications of approval came from parties of the center and right, and non-Communist unions.

The pro-Communist Socialist party of Pietro Nenni approved the truce, "provided the government afterward does not revert to the same police tactics."

There was no word from the Communists, or the Red-dominated Confederation of Labor. Merzagora said he was motivated by "the gravity of the situation and the realization that the most sacred values of the constitution had been compromised, and the future of the country endangered."

Violence erupted at Palermo, where demonstrators hurled paving stones at police and ripped boards from a construction project to barricade a street.

Premier Fernando Tambroni accused the Reds of using anti-fascism as a front for an attempt to seize power and warned the government would do its "full duty" to restore order.

City Bond Vote Set Sept. 27

September 27—a Tuesday—was set by the City Council last night as the date for a $550,000 bond election.

Setting of the date was the next step in the legal procedures leading to the bond elections. The election must now be advertised and registration books opened for registration of new voters.

A number of capital improvement items, as well as a long range street paving program, are included in the nine items to be voted on in the election.

The largest item of $343,000 will include a street paving program which could eventually mean all city streets will be paved. Also in this item are funds for reconstructing Elm St. and funds for sidewalks in various school areas.

A $22,000 item would provide funds for re-building the Elm St. bridge across Green Mill Run.

A new Carver Library building would be constructed with $45,000. Another item calls for $14,000 to make improvements to Shepard Memorial Library.

An East Greenville sub-fire station would be constructed and equipped with $44,000 provided in the bond issue.

Various motor vehicles for municipal departments would be purchased with $42,000. A Public Works Department building would be provided with $13,000.

An $8,000 item would finance improvements to the Central Fire Station.

City Hall improvements would be carried out with a $19,000 item.

Inquest Called In Youth's Death

Pitt County Coroner E. W. Harvey said today that an inquest into the death of a 15-year-old Farmville boy who died from injuries received when he allegedly fell from a moving car, Wednesday night, will be held July 13 at 8 p. m. in the Farmville City Court Room.

Harvey identified the dead boy as Joseph Howard Stepps of Contentnea St., Farmville, and said the youth died while en route to Pitt Memorial Hospital in Greenville.

William Robert Jenkins, 24, of Route 1, Greenville, was quoted as saying the car was headed west on a rural paved road between Joyner's Cross Roads and Butt's Store, near Farmville, when the boy fell from the vehicle. Harvey pointed out that Jenkins also said the youth's hand was on the door handle when he fell.

Stepps was riding in the right front seat of the late model car. Two other Farmville men, Earl Baker and Linwood Holloman, were passengers in the back seat. Harvey said Jenkins and the two passengers took Stepps to the Farmville Police Department first, in an effort to secure a doctor. After finding one was not available, they headed for the hospital in Greenville, where Stepps was dead on arrival.

The coroner said death was due to internal injuries. The accident occurred about 9 p. m., Harvey said.

Panic-Stricken Europeans Flee Congo's New Violence

BRAZZAVILLE, Former French Congo (AP)—Thousands of panic-stricken whites, many women and children wearing pajamas, rushed out of the newly independent Republic of Congo today, fearful of assault and rape.

Later the exodus evidently was halted by the Congo army. Mutilous Negro soldiers were reported for some hours to be in effective control of Leopoldville, capital of the former Belgian Congo. The city lies directly across the Congo River from Brazzaville, which is in autonomous territory soon to receive its independence from France.

The Belgian Embassy in Leopoldville reported partial calm was restored after President Joseph Kasavubu personally addressed the mutinous soldiers.

But it was apparent the situation in the capital remained dangerous with the white population alarmed at reports of assaults and rapes of white women.

AP correspondent Lynn Heinszler, in a dispatch from Leopoldville, said bayonet-wielding soldiers stopped Belgians trying to take the ferry to Brazzaville. But he reported 3,000 to 4,000

Belgians, mostly women and children, managed to get across before the traffic was halted. He said some Belgians had been arrested, but that there was no violence.

The flow of refugees started about 2 a. m. The European settlers of Brazzaville turned out to care for the stream. Most of the women and children had fled their homes in haste. Many told of seeing violence.

With almost no formalities, the refugees were taken in charge by soldiers, police and Europeans and directed toward schools, army camps, the homes of Europeans, and hastily set up shelters. The president of the French Congo, Abbe Fulbert Youlou, named a committee to care for the refugees.

The Republic of Congo got its independence from Belgium June 30. Since that time part of the country has been in turmoil as soldiers demanded more pay and dismissal of all white officers.

There are about 700 Americans in the Republic of Congo but the State Department said it had no reports of injuries to them.

Kennedy Forces Agree No First Ballot Win Likely

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Realistic supporters conceded today they can't put Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts over on the first ballot for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Instead, these strategists concentrated on a second rollcall blitz they believe will deliver the prize in the party convention opening Monday.

And if they can't snag the gold ring on the second go-around, they were saying they can outlast any of the other contenders even if a half dozen countdowns are needed.

This possibly significant change in tactics indicated that Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri and those attempting to draft Adlai E. Stevenson may have won the first skirmish in what is developing into a fratricidal contest of major proportions.

Kennedy's outriders appeared to have enveloped a majority of the powerful 81-vote delegation from California. There were disputed reports that Gov. Edmund G. Brown will lower his favorite son flag in favor of Kennedy's candidacy.

Kennedy's lieutenants were said to have penetrated the Pennsylvania delegation with the result that he might get a sizable share of that state's 81 votes on the first ballot.

Competent observers said Mayor Richard Daley of Chicago would be ready to deliver all but about 14 of Illinois' 69 votes to Kennedy. The Massachusetts senator was credited with about 100 of New York's 114.

But when they added up all of these victorious forays, Kennedy's staff strategists agreed they had not destroyed the main body of the enemy represented by his rivals for the nomination.

Specifically, they seemed to have made no headway in their attempt to win over three favorite sons—Govs. Robert B. Meyner of New Jersey, Herschel C. Loveless of Iowa and George Docking of Kansas. There are 88 convention votes represented in this group.

Never did they have an assurance that Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota would join their camp with the 50-odd votes he still seems to control despite his withdrawal from the nomination contest after two primary defeats at the hands of Kennedy.

In their pitch for this vital bloc, the Kennedy forces were said to have held out the bait of interest in local service applications consolidated in 1958 for hearing before Keith.

The decision on which he was working at the time of the accident concerns both the Carolinas, and parts of Virginia, West Virginia, Tennessee and Georgia. A decision on areas seeking new and additional service in the western sections of Tennessee, Kentucky, Fayetteville, Florence, S.C., and Columbia, S.C., Augusta, Ga., and Atlanta, Ga., was also pending.

Piedmont also asked for a Richmond-Rocky Mount alternate with immediate points of Goldsboro and Kinston, Jacksonville, N.C., Camp Lejeune and terminal point of Wilmington.

Piedmont has asked to serve Wilmington and New Bern via Jacksonville - Camp Lejeune-Morehead City, N.C., and Beaufort, N.C.

There was speculation that if former President Harry S. Truman changes his mind and attends next week's convention the ultimate beneficiary of this visit might be Johnson.

Truman, who is backing Symington, bowed out as a Missouri delegate and said he would not attend the Los Angeles party meeting because he contended it was rigged for Kennedy.

On his way to Los Angeles, Johnson himself said in San Francisco that Kennedy had "lost more votes in the last week than he picked up in the handful of contested primaries he entered."

They are ready. It is on this count they hope to crack open the re-treating favorite son bloc and to take Humphrey's forces into camp.

This, they figure, will considerably more than offset any desertions they might suffer from the 34-vote Indiana and 64-vote Ohio delegations. They are worried also so about possible defections from Maryland's 24-vote group, pledged to their candidate in the initial

Mexico's Ruling Party Spokesman Supporting Castro

MEXICO CITY (AP)—A congressional spokesman for Mexico's ruling political party says the nation is solidly backing the Cuban people against the United States. Senators and deputies gave him rousing cheers.

President Adolfo Lopez Mateos was silent on the statement made by Emilio Sanchez Piedras, chairman of the permanent commission of Congress.

Sources close to the President said they felt the statement represented the view of a spokesman for the legislative branch and not the executive, which is responsible for Mexico's foreign policy under the constitution. But his speech was billed as an explanation of the basic policies of Lopez Mateos' government, and it seemed most unlikely he would have spoken without consulting top government officials.

Sanchez Piedras told a congressional caucus, "It appears that our northern neighbor (the United States) is closing the doors of its friendship and understanding in the face of the yearnings of the Cuban people to live in liberty and economic independence."

"We, the representatives of the people of Mexico, repeat to the Cuban people our same attitude of solidarity," he continued, "and we wish to tell them that we are certain that their right to live in social justice and economic liberty will have to prevail in this continent in the hope of peace and reciprocal friendship."

He made no direct reference to Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro.

The congressional leader said he was speaking for the Party of Revolutionary Institutions (PRI), which has an overwhelming majority in Congress and runs almost all phases of Mexican political life. Lopez Mateos is officially the leader of the PRI.

The statement appeared certain to cause concern on the part of the U.S. government. The U.S. Embassy was expected to ask the foreign ministry to what extent it reflected the Mexican government's official policy.

Vote Tentative Budget Of $63,129 For Bethel

BETHEL—Bethel's Board of Town Commissioners Tuesday night adopted a tentative budget for fiscal 1960-61 of $63,129 and a tax rate identical to the local ad valorem levy for the past two fiscal years.

Ad valorem revenue for the town's new budget will come from a rate of $1.60 per $100 valuation. The town's assessment valuation now stands at $1,679,300.

Final approval of the new Bethel expenditure list is expected at a special budget session of the board July 26, according to Mayor C. W. Everett today.

The largest share of the $63,000 budget is slated, as usual, for general fund expenses. A total of $36,380 has been marked for the town's largest fund that includes administrative expenses; the police, street, and fire departments, and garbage collection operations.

The self-supporting water department, pending finalization of the budget, will operate during the new fiscal year on $14,400. Water sales and miscellaneous water receipts will supply the department's revenue.

Budgeted figures for other funds are: dept service, $2,640; capital outlay, $1,200; cemetery, $1,424; library, $1,048; and Powell Bill, $6,100.

Colorful Floats Abounded In Long Beaufort Parade

BEAUFORT CELEBRATION—Terry Sanford, Democratic nominee for governor, was among 10,000 people who watched a parade in Beaufort yesterday celebrating that town's 251st birthday. In addition to the parade through the town, shrimp boats carrying beautiful girls moved down Taylor's Creek, and there was flyover by jet airplanes. CAB Examiner's Injuries Delay Requests Of Area

WASHINGTON (AP)—Serious injuries to examiner James S. Keith of the Civil Aeronautics Board in a July 4 accident may delay an initial decision on applications for new or improved air service in the eastern section of North Carolina.

Keith and his wife are in an Alexandria, Va., hospital, where he has undergone two operations since the automobile accident in nearby Virginia. His mother was killed in the accident.

The CAB said Keith was drafting his decision as the holiday weekend started and took his work home with him.

Eastern North Carolina towns in which air service may be affected by the decision include Wilmington, Fayetteville, Wilmington, Elizabeth City, Jacksonville and Camp Lejeune. Other cities in the Carolinas also have expressed interest in local service applications consolidated in 1958 for hearing before Keith.

Richmond-Rocky Mount service except for a route via Norfolk, Va., even though authorized by CAB, Piedmont Aviation, Inc., petitioned the board for authorization to serve a Richmond-Rocky Mount route and an alternate segment including Goldsboro, Kinston, Fayetteville, Florence, S.C., and Columbia, S.C., Augusta, Ga., and Atlanta, Ga.

Piedmont also asked for a Richmond-Rocky Mount alternate with immediate points of Goldsboro and Kinston, Jacksonville, N.C., Camp Lejeune and terminal point of Wilmington.

Piedmont has asked to serve Wilmington and New Bern via Jacksonville - Camp Lejeune-Morehead City, N.C., and Beaufort, N.C.

in this case, Piedmont has requested authority for a Charlotte to Wilmington route via Florence, S.C., and Myrtle Beach, S.C., and to add Goldsboro to another route.

Greenville, N.C., and Pitt County, N.C., seek a stop there on a Norfolk, Va., and Knoxville, Tenn. route; plus Elizabeth City, N.C., and Rocky Mount as stops on a route between Washington and Atlanta, Ga.

Fayetteville seeks carrier service to Atlanta and Norfolk with stops at Columbia, S.C., as well as service to Wilson, Washington, Philadelphia and New York.

Since 1945 Lumberton has asked for air service to Washington via Goldsboro, Kinston, Rocky Mount and Greenville, N.C. or any combination of these cities, and-or Richmond and-or Norfolk; also service to Columbia and Atlanta and-or Florence, S.C., Charleston, Savannah, Jacksonville and Miami.

Goldsboro officials have testified the city needs air freight as well as air passenger service. The Secretary of the Army told the board that commercial air service should be inaugurated at Goldsboro's modern airport which he said can accommodate commercial planes. He said Seymour Johnson Air Force Base needs, and will continue to need, commercial air service.

Goldsboro wants service to Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York. Also east-west service to Raleigh, N.C., and Cincinnati, Ohio. City officials said six airlines operate in the general area of Goldsboro but none stop in the city's airport.

Other airlines involved in the case include Eastern Air Lines, National Airlines, Delta Air Lines, Ozark Airlines, Southern Airways and Capital Air Lines.

Dillingham-Middleton Say Vows

HARLAN, Ky.—Miss Amelia Ann Middleton and James R. Dillingham were married Saturday evening in the Harlan Christian Church, with the Rev. C. Lynn White performing the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Middleton of Harlan and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bradley Dillingham of Winterville, N. C.

After their return from a wedding trip to Kentucky Lake State Park, Harlan, Ky., the couple will be at home on North Main Street in Harlan.

The candlelight service was performed before the altar of greenery and bridal baskets of white gladiolus and flanked by candelabrum.

Mrs. James T. Morgan, pianist, presented several selections prior to the ceremony. They included "Oh Promise Me," "Because," "Wonderful One," "Day of Golden Promise," "Clair de lune," and "Thine Alone."

Jack Hoskins, vocalist, sang "Always," and "The Lord's Prayer." Mrs. Morgan played "I Love You Truly," and "Traumerei," during the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white street length dress of lace over taffeta with full skirt and fitted bodice. The high front neckline was accented with deep V in back. A huge lace bow was attached to the skirt back.

Her finger tip veil of silk illusion was attached to a halo of lace trimmed with pearls and lily of the valley. She carried a cascade bouquet of white sweetheart roses and stephanotis, centered with a white gold-throated orchid on a white prayer book.

Mrs. Alton Vickers, Jr., sister of the bride was matron of honor. She wore a gown of blue lace with scalloped hemline and satin cummerbund. Her headdress, gloves and shoes were matching. She carried a bouquet of pink gladiolus.

Miss Doris Dillingham, sister of the bridegroom, was maid of honor. She also wore blue lace with satin cummerbund and matching headdress and accessories. She carried a cascade bouquet of pink gladiolus.

W. Bradley Dillingham was his son's best man. Ushers were Charles Harris, Harlan; and Robert Berger, Pineville.

Mrs. Middleton, mother of the bride, wore navy blue lace with pink accessories and a pink rosebud corsage. Mrs. Dillingham was dressed in dusty rose lace with matching accessories. Her flowers were of white roses.

Reception

The bride's parents were hosts at a reception immediately following the ceremony in the service center of the church. The bride's table was covered with imported linen and held a centerpiece of white gladiolus and baby breath in a crystal container. The tiered wedding cake completed the table. Mrs. Earl Crushorn and Mrs. MacFarland H. Young presided.

The bride is continuity director and women's director of Radio Harlan, Inc. She is a graduate of Harlan High School and Union College. She is a member of the Alpha Iota Chapter of Beta Sigma Pi.

The bridegroom was graduated from Greenville High School and the University of North Carolina. He is presently employed by the Young Lumber Company here.

For her wedding trip, Mrs. Dillingham wore a street length dress of charcoal grey with full skirt and white eyelash trim.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. James C. Gore, Davenport, Fla.; Mr. and Mrs. Andrew J. Middleton, Jr., Lexington; Mrs. Mickey Peters, Dayton, O.; Miss Zeida Ledbetter, Asheville, N. C.; and Miss Betty Ledbetter, Arden, N. C.

Project Winners Will Receive Scholarships

RALEIGH—Sewing is one of the oldest skills known to man. A stone needle with an eye at one end was found among Stone Age relics. It is believed that the Chinese were the first to use steel needles more than 1000 years ago.

But it was not until the mid-19th century when needles, thread and sewing machines were manufactured in quantity that "home sewing" became a possibility.

Among modern day advocates of the make-it-yourself vogue are some three-quarter million 4-H Club girls engaged in a clothing project. And many of their mothers learned the fundamentals of sewing in 4-H since the clothing program is now celebrating its 20th year, according to Miss Mary Em Lee, clothing specialist for the N.C. Agricultural Extension Service.

Under the auspices of the Cooperative Extension Service, the clothing program has been supported since its inception by Coats & Clark Inc., of New York. Over two hundred deserving young seamstresses have won college scholarships for making the "best" garment. Several thousand have been awarded educational trips to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago. Last year, Rebecca Parker of Johnson County won one of the scholarships awarded.

And this year again Coats & Clark will provide 4000 scholarships to the top 12 clothing project winners in the nation. They will be selected from among 50 state champions, and will be announced in Chicago the last week in November. Meanwhile handsome gold-filled medals are being claimed by county winners.

Grandson Of Mayos Is Married

COLUMBIA, S. C.—Miss Elizabeth Barrow Farmer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Marshall Farmer of Columbia, and Edwin Rudolph Jones Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Rudolph Jones of Dillon, S. C., were married June 3 in Trinity Episcopal Chapel.

The bridegroom is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Mayo of Greenville, N. C.

The Rev. Gray Temple, rector, performed the double ring ceremony in the presence of the immediate families. Wedding music was presented by Robert L. Van Doren, organist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a wedding gown of silk mist taffeta, featuring a bodice of imported Chantilly lace beaded at the neck with seed pearls. Her fitted sleeves were long and pointed at the wrists. Her skirt of taffeta fell from a scalloped lace yolk and was appliqued at intervals with lace medallions, embroidered with seed pearls and centered with panels of lace.

She wore a finger-tip length veil of silk illusion attached to a tiara of pearls and lace and carried a lace covered prayer book topped with a white orchid.

Mrs. William Scott Berryhill Jr. of Chapel Hill, N. C., sister of the bride, was her only attendant. She wore a pastel flowered nylon organza dress over blue taffeta, featuring bouffant skirt with the waist accented by a pleated cummerbund of pale blue taffeta. Her accessories were blue and she carried a nosegay bouquet of pastel flowers.

Ushers were Bradley Brown of Florence, S. C. and Benny R. Phillips of Anderson, S. C. Edwin Rudolph Jones Sr. was his son's best man.

The bride's mother chose a dress of pastel blue linen and lace. Her corsage was of pink roses. The bridegroom's mother chose a pale yellow linen dress and a corsage of yellow roses. After the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Farmer entertained informally at a wedding breakfast in their home for the family and out-of-town guests.

For travel, the bride changed to a pastel blue silk shantung sheath dress with a short jacket. A matching beaded chiffon hat, white gloves, shoes and bag completed her outfit. Her corsage was the orchid lifted from her prayer book.

After a short trip, the couple will spend the summer in Pouch, keepie, N. Y. After September, they will be located in Madison, Wis., while the bridegroom does graduate study at the University of Wisconsin.

Mrs. Jones graduated in June from the University of South Carolina with a degree in Business Administration. The bridegroom graduated from Clemson College with honors in physics. He was granted a Woodrow Wilson Fellowship for graduate study.

Out-of-town guests included Mrs. James Edwin Jones and Miss Ruth Jones, grandmother and aunt of the bridegroom; Mr. and Mrs. Cary Mayo Jr., Cary Mayo III from Richmond, Va., and Mr. and Mrs. Francis Nixon and Betty Nixon from Elizabeth City.

Pitt Delegates Will Attend Farm Home Week In Raleigh

Delegates from Pitt County will attend the Farm Home Week Program being held next week at N. C. State College in Raleigh.

Those attending from Pitt County include Mrs. Albert Bell, County Council president; Mrs. Obed Castelleo, state treasurer of the Home Demonstration House Fund; Mrs. Sue B. May, Pitt home economics agent; Mrs. Alton Chapman, member of the State Safety Committee; Mrs. Alton Gardner; Mrs. D. N. Nobles Jr.; Mrs. A. C. Barnhill; Mrs. Wilbur Worthington; and Mrs. John Whitchard.

Farm Home Week will get underway on Tuesday, with an afternoon State Council meeting. Delegates from the counties will transact business of the organization and election of 1961 officers will take place. This meeting will be held in the Textile Building Auditorium.

That night, a reception honoring State College's new Chancellor and Mrs. John T. Caldwell will be held. Also on Tuesday, the group attending the program will be invited to tour the new home economics department and home management house at Meredith College, Jenny Lou Taylor, student at Meredith and a trainee agent in Pitt County this summer, has been invited to assist in conducting the tour. Mrs. May will also assist.

Wednesday night, awards will be given to Leadership Contest winners. Wednesday and Thursday, classes will be conducted on the following subjects: "Frame Your Pictures — Frame Them Right," "The Art of the Potter," "The Nervous Woman," "The Hope of Research in Cancer and What We Can Do About It," "Fabrics," "Understanding Among Family Members," "Learning to Appreciate Art," "1960 Inheritance Law for N. C.," "World of Good Eating," "Cancer—What Is Being Done in N. C.," "A Study of Leadership Needs" and "It's Nice To Know You."

The 35th Annual Meeting of the N. C. Home Demonstration Clubs will take place Friday in the Coliseum. Mrs. Gilbert R. English, president, will preside. Dr. John T. Caldwell, chancellor of N. C. State College, will be speaker.

Smith-Glisson Marriage Takes Place In Gates

GATES — Kittrell Methodist Church was the setting June 26 for the marriage of Miss Margaret Glisson and David Smith.

The ceremony was performed at 4:00 p.m. by the Rev. William Pickett.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lester D. Glisson of Gates and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James D. Smith of Greenville.

The bride, given in marriage by her uncle, wore a street length dress of embroidered batiste. She carried a Bible and an orchid showered with baby's breath.

The maid of honor was Miss Joyce Dupree of Smithfield.

The best man was the bridegroom's brother, Jimmy Smith of Wilson. Ushers were George Owens of Gates and Glenn Owens of Chapel Hill.

The bride is a graduate of East Carolina College. The bridegroom is also a graduate of East Carolina College, where he received his B.S. and M.A. degrees in Science.

After a reception in the church social hall, the couple left for a wedding trip to unannounced points. The couple will reside in Greenville and Gates before taking teaching positions at Annapolis, Md., in September.

Mrs. Belle Tyson Hinson spent Friday and Saturday with Mr. and Mrs. Heber Tyson.

Platform Writers Told Economy Faces Stagnation

PINT SIZE WATERMELONS? . . . Nope, gallon-size cucumbers. Randy Nichols, 12, holds a two and one-quarter pound, eleven and three-quarter inch long cucumber while five-year-old Brad Nichols displays a three and three-quarter pound one. The heavier cucumber is 13 inches long and eleven and one-quarter inches in circumference. The fruit was grown in a garden belonging to the boys' father, Wilson Nichols, Route 2, Farmville. According to Nichols, the seed were hybrid and planted the last part of April.

Hospitality Of South Offered Conventioneers

By JOE LEWIS
LOS ANGELES (AP)—You can almost smell magnolias and hear the strains of "Dixie" at a tiny Confederate outpost on the Biltmore Hotel's third floor.
It's called the Southern Hospitality Room. And the place—open to all Democratic convention delegates and visitors—simply swings with Southern hospitality.
It's so hospitable that even a Yankee can feel like Robert E. Lee when he accepts a cool drink from some of the Old South's fairest flowers. A spacious closet is well stocked with any refreshment a visitor's little of heart might desire.

In an adjoining room, the Omega Trio from Nashville, Tenn., holds forth with jump tunes and bouncy folk songs.
Who's paying for it all?
Charles Shepherd, who describes himself as an Atlanta, Ga. real estate man, says he and a few friends chipped in to assure fellow Southerners of a home away from home. Strictly non-political, he adds.
Ask him about rumors that the place is a Southern front for Sen. John F. Kennedy and Charles Shepherd will tell you all about Georgia Tech's football team.
Kennedy's campaign headquarters staff publicly denies connection with or knowledge of the place.

One of the celebrants in the suite is James W. (Taxi) Smith, former mayor of Albany, Ga. Taxi, as he's known to his friends, says he's for Kennedy and consequently quit the Georgia delegation which is voting unanimously for Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas.

Ask him about politics, and Taxi will tell you how he got his nickname. It seems he was a cross-country runner for Georgia Tech many years ago. In a marathon race with the rival University of Georgia, Taxi was faltering until he spotted a taxi. He finished first, thanks to a friendly cab driver, and went on to become mayor of Albany. Or so the story goes.

Then there's Henry L. (Country) Johnston, of Valdosta, Ga., a former football player at Georgia during the late 30's and early 40's.
Country says he's a Kennedy man, too, and cites his Baptist faith as proof that Kennedy, a Roman Catholic, can win in the South's Protestant bible belt.

What's he doing here?
"Let me tell you about my dog that eats other dogs, answers Country. "He's only 10 inches high but 10 feet long. He's really an alligator from the Okefenokee swamps—but I cut off his tail and painted him yellow—and he makes a fine hound dog."
And so it goes. The visitor leaves, hardly able to hear the tinkling of glasses because of the tingling confusion in his head.

EXTENDED WEATHER OUTLOOK FOR N. C.

Temperatures for next five days will average normal to four degrees below normal. Chance of scattered thunderstorms Monday or Tuesday, averaging less than one-quarter inch precipitation. Temperatures a few degrees below normal Saturday and Sunday, little warmer Monday and Tuesday, cooler Wednesday.

Jean Simmons Asking Divorce

NOGALES, Ariz. (AP)—Actress Jean Simmons has filed for a divorce from actor Stewart Granger, apparently ending what was thought to be another of Hollywood's perfect marriages.
Granger was not expected to contest the action, filed Thursday in Santa Cruz County Superior Court. A hearing is expected in mid-August.

Miss Simmons seeks custody of their daughter, Tracy, 3½. The complaint, which charges Granger with cruelty, said property rights had been settled.
Granger and Miss Simmons, both born in England, were married Dec. 20, 1950, in Tucson. They own a large cattle ranch in southern Arizona.

Waterfront Has Double Explosion

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A double explosion rocked the South Philadelphia waterfront Thursday, killing three workers at an oil and solvent processing plant, and generating a four-alarm fire.
The first explosion hurled a seven-ton tank filled with paint-base soybean oil in a huge ball of fire 100 feet across a road and some railroad tracks.

It was followed quickly by a second blast and then fire with heat so intense that about a dozen cars parked outside sagged to the ground with tires burned and frames melted.
The victims were Sydney Dawson, 42; Ernest Jackson, 48; and Fred Dewitte, 43. They were employees of Cargill, Inc.
Cause of the explosion was not immediately determined.

Lost Radioactive Pellet Is Found

CARLSBAD, N.M. (AP)—A radioactive pellet of radium and beryllium has been found intact and returned to the trucking company that lost it.
A heavy lead case housing the tiny pill was discovered on a road outside Carlsbad Saturday evening by Henry Haney, 34, a construction worker, who took it home.
"I thought it was a hydraulic jack that had dropped off a truck," he said.

Officials of Frontier Perforators Inc., the trucking company, claimed it Thursday and said it was unlikely anyone was contaminated. Haney hadn't opened the protective lead case.
The pellet, used in oil field work is valued at $15,000. It was lost Saturday from a truck traveling from Texas to Hobbs.

Still Have Faith In Salk Vaccine

WARWICK, R.I. (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Bennett J. Finelli, whose son Wayne—2 years old—died of polio although he had received four anti-polio shots, say they still have faith in the Salk vaccine.
"I lost a son who had received four polio shots," the father said Wednesday after the boy's funeral. "But the night of his death I went to the doctor with my two other children, Jae, who is 10, and Dean, who is 7. Jae got her fifth shot that night and Dean got his fourth. I got my first."
Wayne, the first to be stricken with polio in Rhode Island this year, is the state's only fatality in 1960.

Didn't Learn All About Hypnotism

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—Florence Kent, 15, learned all about hypnotism from a book. Well, almost all.
She successfully hypnotized Sandra Kay Meyer, 15, Thursday—and then found she didn't know how to snap her out of it.
Sandra collapsed, Florence screamed for help, and Sandra was rushed to a hospital.
By the time she got there she was just drowsy, however, and a psychiatrist checked the girl and ordered her released.

great state of Missouri. The buttons handed out at his headquarters are a full three inches in diameter. Runner-up: Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson at 2¼. Also rans: Stevenson at 1½; Kennedy a surprising ¾. However, the Kennedy campaign shows no penny-pinching in other matters.

More than candidates' supporters have been busy. Two CBS correspondents reported their wallets were lifted in local crowds.
The pickets had an active day. A dozen showed up in front of the Biltmore to protest capital punishment—"Let Chessman not have died in vain." The placards were directed at California's Gov. Edmund G. Brown, who is nowhere around.

Amid all the political signs is one oddity in the Biltmore lobby: A banner for the Chicago Cubs. What are they running for? To get out of the cellar of the National League. They are also staying at the Biltmore.

Folks do a double-take to see Florida Highway troopers standing in the California sunshine in front of the Biltmore. They explain they're escorting Gov. LeRoy Collins, as required by state law. One trooper, who wore a pearl-handled pistol, was asked how he liked the Los Angeles traffic. "Real rough," he grumbled.

Mr. Tobacco Grower:

LET'S GET THE FACTS ON MH-30 STRAIGHT

We say use it if it is useful in your growing program.

You have heard and read a lot recently on the subject.

Much of this has been presented in a manner to confuse you.

Statements are made about poor-quality tobacco with MH-30 usage.

This statement does not stand up on careful consideration of the scientific data available.

It is important to use MH-30 properly and we are endeavoring to bring this home to you growers this year. This is true of any pesticide on any crop.

From this argument, talk then changes to such statements as, "never mind worrying about the scientific data, the tobacco will not be purchased anyway."

We say to this that over the last several years about 1,000,000,000 pounds of tobacco treated with MH-30 have been purchased.

Letters are then produced from foreigners stating they do not want MH-30-treated tobacco.

Yet Japanese tobacco which is, we calculate, over 80% MH-30-treated is sold in large quantities in these foreign markets.

The talk then changes to Canada and Rhodesia.

MH-30 is said to be "banned" in Canada. This is not so. The tobacco companies in Canada stated they would not buy. The Canadian growers are more easily intimidated than you are. But the material is not "banned."

In regard to Rhodesia, we have not studied the situation in that country. However, we suspect the growers are just not yet aware of the product or its advantages.

In both these countries, we believe MH-30 will eventually be used when all factors have been taken into consideration.

Various releases have emanated from U.S.D.A. We believe these give a misleading impression of U.S.D.A.'s attitude.

U.S.D.A. has not reached any final decision for the simple reason that the Department is engaged in a careful scientific review of the situation. This will require many months.

This comprehensive scientific study was requested of U.S.D.A. by a group that has your interests at heart—the Congressmen in Washington from the tobacco growing states.

IT SEEMS TO US THAT MUCH OF THE ADVICE AND COMMENT FROM VARIOUS SOURCES AGAINST MH-30 USAGE SHOWS LITTLE UNDERSTANDING OF THE GROWERS' PROBLEMS, AND NO WILLINGNESS TO COOPERATE FOR THE GROWERS' BENEFIT.

Hot sun is not pleasant to work under, and labor is in many instances unobtainable. What quality of tobacco is obtainable under these conditions?

This fact seems to be lost sight of. We realize it, however, and are making MH-30 available to you with careful and proper instructions for its use.

We believe under these conditions it will be a marked advantage to you.

Growers—thank you for your support of MH-30. Good luck with your 1960 tobacco crop.

Plenty Of Room For Improvements

Pitt County's rank of 28th among the 100 counties of the state in per capita income is a position which places the county in a favorable light from the standpoint of the state's economy.

It should be a source of pride and gratification to the residents of Pitt that the per capita income of this county ranks above that in 72 other North Carolina counties.

Notwithstanding the fact that Pitt occupies a favorable position when it comes to ranking the counties place-by-place according to per capita income, it is equally obvious that Pitt's position is one which should be improved.

In spite of the fact that Pitt ranks 28th among the counties in per capita income at $1,327 per year, this figure is $93 below the state-wide per capita income in North Carolina for the year 1958, the latest year for which statistics are available.

In spite of the fact that the per capita income in Pitt compares favorably with that of most other counties that are primarily dependent upon agriculture for their economic well being, the per capita income in Pitt is still below the state average.

These factors should clearly point up the necessity of Pitt's continuing its efforts to bolster its economic position, both in terms of agriculture and in terms of more industry. It is apparent that the county must continue to make a certain amount of progress year-by-year to retain its relative position in a state which is forging ahead in economic development. If Pitt's relative position to other counties is to be improved from an economic standpoint, the county must make even greater progress.

Again Going On The Budget Tour

By LYNN NISBET

BUDGET TOUR—Your capitol square reporter will be out of Raleigh most of the time for the next three weeks, traveling with the Advisory Budget Commission on its biennial tour of inspection of State institutions.

The official itinerary calls for visiting fifty or more installations, including more than 20 separate colleges and schools 15 or 16 hospitals, and sundry other facilities like deep water ports, commercial fisheries, correctional schools and historic shrines in which the State has invested taxpayers' money. The half hundred calls listed on the official itinerary do not embrace all the points where State money has been spent, or which might be visited by the budget group.

"We may casually drop in on some of the State parks, outdoor dramas, prison camps and other places not on the base schedule," said one member of the budget commission.

FACILITIES—The advance notices make it clear that this tour is for the purpose of checking on physical facilities, the use being made of them, and the justification—or lack of it—for additional capital investment in buildings, equipment and land. Operating expenses, except as they relate directly to maintenance of equipment, will not be considered. Those items will come up later in separate budget request presentations. The purpose of the inspection tour is to afford the budget-makers first hand knowledge of how the institutions are using the property which the taxpayers have committed to their charge.

BALANCE—Prior to inauguration of the budget system in 1925 inspection visits were made by special legislative committees concerned mainly with developing the institutions coming within purview of their committee responsibility. The plan of having one group visit all the institutions, study the needs of each in relation to the total problem of State responsibility, makes for balanced effort.

There have been charges made in recent years that the budget folks have shown partiality to the University over other State supported colleges, and that hospitals for mental patients have gotten more than fair share of total State appropriations—for both capital improvements and operations. Analysis of the record does not justify these charges.

Surely appropriations to the University and to the mental hospitals have pyramided—from thousands of dollars on percentage basis they have not pyramided as much as allocations to educational and hospital services below the top level. The balancing force of the budget set-up has been largely responsible for this orderly development.

MAKE UP—The composition of the present Advisory Budget Commission gives assurance of fair treatment to all institutions. Let's take a look at it. Every member has had legislative experience and every one has proven ability to succeed in private enterprise. Four of the six members are ex-officio by reason of chairmanships of legislative money committees. Two were appointed by the Governor, and both of them had prior experience as legislative chairmen, and as members of the budget commission.

Consider first the appointees. Kemp Doughton of Alleghany, banker and farmer; six times member of the General Assembly, chairman of House Appropriations in 1953 and 1955, and Speaker in 1957. Joe Eagles of Wilson, banker-farmer-lawyer-tobacco warehouseman, chairman of Senate appropriations in 1955 and 1957.

Ex-officio members include Arthur Kirkman, High Point business and railroad executive, veteran legislator with service in both branches, and chairman of the Senate finance committee now; and William Copeland, lawyer-farmer of Murfreesboro, veteran senator and chairman of the Senate appropriations committee in 1957 and 1959.

Clifton Blue of Aberdeen, newspaper editor—publisher less than three years experience in the legislature, and each one of them has a record of success in his private business. It would seem from that background that they will not recommend foolish or extreme policies to the next General Assembly. Particularly in view of the fact that Eagles, Blue and Harris will be in the legislature and have to support their budget recommendations. Copeland, Doughton and Kirkman did not seek re-election to Pitt can be proud of the fact that its economic progress has afforded it a per capita income above that of Wilson, Beaufort, Martin, Edgecombe, Nash, Greene and other counties in this immediate area. At the same time, we must not overlook the fact that the per capita income in Pitt is below that of neighboring Lenoir and Craven which ranked 17th and 19th respectively in the county-by-county standings.

Although Pitt County's agriculture has continued to develop over the years in terms of diversification, quantity and quality of production, there remains a significant potential for further development and improvement of agriculture in this county. So far as industrial development is concerned, Pitt has made progress in recent years, but most people will agree that the county has just begun to scratch the surface of its potential in this phase of economic development.

The per capita income of Pitt—as is the case in every other county—is directly tied to the economic progress made in the county. If Pitt is to continue to improve its relative position, it must improve its relative rate of economic development.

Well Represented At National Convention

There are few, if any counties in North Carolina and probably few in the nation, who will be as well represented at the Democratic National Convention as Pitt County.

When the Democrats gather in Los Angeles next week four Pitt Countians will be on hand as either delegates or alternates to the convention. John G. Clark, Sr. of Greenville is a delegate at large from North Carolina, Dr. Paul E. Jones of Farmville and W. Ivan Bissette of Grifton will be two of the four delegates from the First Congressional District. Miss Janice Hardison, a member of the faculty of East Carolina College, will be one of the alternates from this congressional district.

In the strict sense of the party organization, these four will represent not Pitt County, but the state as a whole at the convention along with the other delegates and alternates chosen at the State Democratic Convention in May. From the standpoint of Pitt, however, it is somewhat unique that three delegates and one alternate should come from one county.

The situation affords Pitt County a larger voice in the North Carolina delegation at Los Angeles than one county normally has, and therefore enhances the position of Pitt among the state delegation.

Truman Is Left Standing Alone

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—The only big Democrat to use a cleaver so far in his party's presidential race is former President Truman who was never renowned for subtlety.

Already he's beginning to look deserted and lonely. The only other weapons used up till now have been velvet sandbags. Truman last week tried to chop Sen. John F. Kennedy's presidential chances to bits by implying the Massachusetts senator's supporters were rigging the Democratic National Convention which opens next week.

It was a sensation for a moment but began to resemble a frustrated whisper as one after another of the top Democrats sought to disentangle themselves from any connection with Truman's charges.

Florida's Gov. LeRoy Collins, convention chairman, denied rigging. Paul M. Butler, in charge of convention arrangements because he's chairman of the Democratic National Committee, also said it wasn't so.

And even the two men who figured to gain most by Truman's charges if they were true—Sens. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas and Stuart Symington of Missouri—left Truman standing by himself.

The two are Kennedy's leading rivals for the nomination. Symington is Truman's personal choice for it, although Eleanor Roosevelt says Truman really is on Johnson's side.

This week Symington said, "there has been nothing to indicate to me there has been any rigging." He said to the best of his knowledge his people had been treated fairly on convention arrangements.

The left up to Johnson to trail along with Truman or disown his charges. Johnson, never a simple man, seemed to be on Truman's side and suddenly he didn't seem to be.

The day after Truman had his say on Kennedy, Johnson leaped in on Truman's side, saying he agreed with the former president and accusing Butler of failing to consult him on convention arrangements. At that time, Johnson had not yet publicly admitted he was even a candidate for the Democratic nomination.

But for lack of support Truman's attack on Kennedy began to look like a pale rider on a pale horse. By the time Johnson got around to announcing two days later he was a candidate, he had no complaint to make.

He was asked that day if he was going to cite a single instance of rigging—this was the lanky Texan's big chance both to back up Truman and to help demolish Kennedy by citing some evidence of a fix, if he had it.

But Johnson's answer was no. All three contenders—Kennedy, Johnson, Symington—have been more or less as gentle as cousins on each other, except in a backhanded way.

Symington, in fact, has stayed so far back in the picture he's been almost out of it. His only hope for the nomination is that Kennedy and Johnson will knock each other out and there'll be nobody left but him.

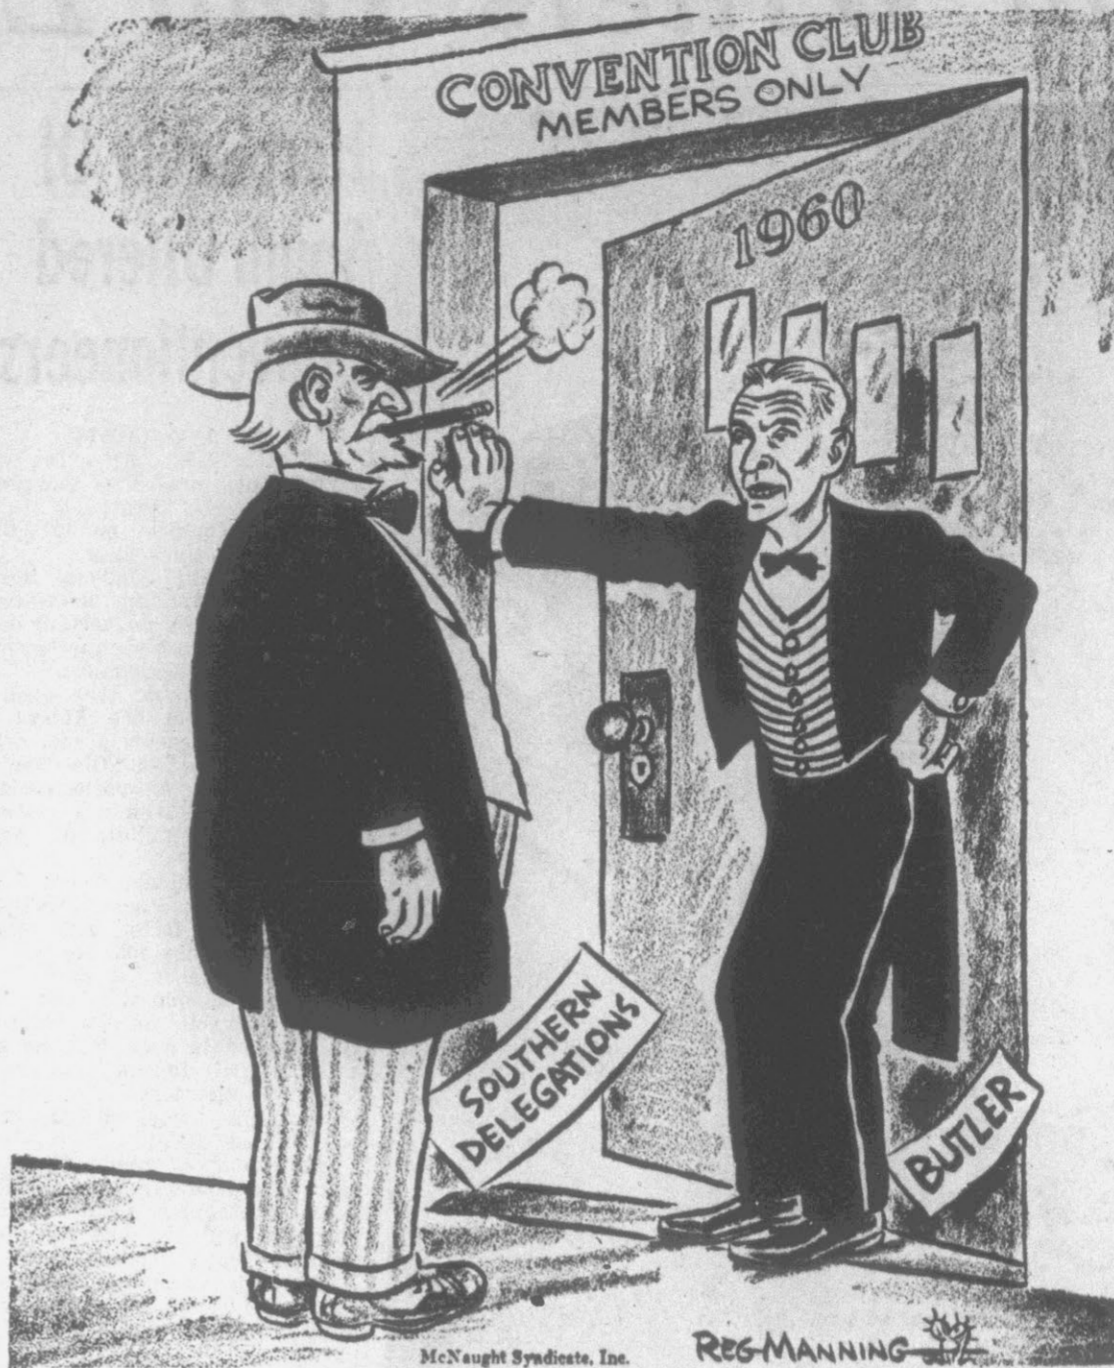

When Kennedy on July 4 answered Truman, by denying any knowledge of a fix, he stressed the need for a healthy young president. This would have been taken as a dig at Johnson who had a heart attack in 1955.

That's just how some of Johnson's top aides took it and responded at once with a look who's been almost out of it. They said Kennedy hadn't always been so healthily boucny.

Whether or not they did this with Johnson's approval is not known. The Johnson forces might be able to damage Kennedy if his aides attacked him while Johnson remained a symbol of sweetness and light.

At any rate, when Johnson finally announced his candidacy he not only didn't raise any questions about Kennedy's health but went so far as to say Kennedy had demonstrated he didn't have any health problems.

I've Gotta Frisk You, Colonel

Dog-Washing Is Futile

Summer's warmth invites the tackling of chores that winter, spring and fall discourage. Take dog-washing, for instance.

When the temperature rises above 90 one doesn't overly object to a little splashing around in the backyard; all of which is a prelude to Cotton's annual bath this week.

Back in his puppyhood Cotton learned there was a cool shade beneath the family car in summer; and the same hideout also offered a measure of protection in the winter. So the grease and dirt on the back of his furry frame has been a sort of chronic condition. His back has been washed faithfully (once a year), but strangers and people who are not strangers of ten remark on seeing Cotton "My, what a dirty dog!"

Cotton's two greatest admirers, Don F. and Mary J., had been promoting the dog-washing project for several months. They were overjoyed when a tub, scrub brush, detergent and water were assembled. Twenty minutes after it was over, even their young eyes could see it was a waste of time. For,

When Cotton-the-dirty-dog was transformed into Cotton-the-clean-dog, he first vigorously shook himself then raced away to roll in the grass. Once dried to his own satisfaction, the pooch made for his familiar shade under the car. He was routed out of there by an alarmed and slightly antagonistic family, only to race across the neighbor's yard, across the street, and under another car... with a fresh smear of dirty grease on his coat.

So we shrugged him off as a lost cause.

For some people it's alcohol; for others it's tobacco. For Cotton, it's a dirty back.

A story: In Castle Rock, Colo., an 8-year-old boy asked a girl of the same age to marry him, but was promptly rebuffed.

"We only marry relatives in our family," the girl replied. "My daddy married my mother. My granddaddy married my grandmother, and even my uncle married my auntie."

The presidential sweepstakes fever must be gripping local imaginations to a greater degree than you might expect. After all, the Democratic national convention doesn't open until Monday.

But Wednesday afternoon the newsroom phone rang and the staffer who answered it came running to the teletype.

"There's a man on the phone," she gasped, "who wants to know if it's true Harry Truman has announced he will be a candidate."

It jolted me, too.

Today I'm not sure whether the caller was the victim of a practical joke or whether he was pulling one himself.

Opinions In Brief

"It is interesting to note in a time when states require inspections of almost everything from elevators and boilers to barber shops and crows, that 34 states do nothing in regards to the biggest cripple and killer of all—the automobile."—Corvallis (Ore.) Times.

"We sometimes suspect that these psychiatrists who make public statements are only trying to drum up business. If so, they are probably succeeding. At any rate, we wish that some of them—at least—would confine their advice to the patients on the couch."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

"That still small voice within us used to be called conscience. Now it's a transistor radio."—Amarillo Daily News.

Other Editors Saying Government Stepping In (Raleigh Times) Senate investigators are rightfully disturbed over the increase in juvenile delinquency throughout the nation.

The learned lawmakers have come up with what they believe is a partial answer to the unpleasant events that are taking place in the world of young people. The members of the inquiring committee, in a preparatory statement, declare that the major ingredient which is lacking in controlling the problem is the lack of trained personnel.

The gist of the report is that the State and county governments are doing very little to control the problem of wild youth in their communities. It believes that the situation has reached the point where Uncle Sam should take a hand in producing experts to guide the teenagers on their way to the safe, straight and narrow road.

The committee says that establishment of such a training program is an essential way in which the Federal government can maintain its share of the responsibility for developing adequate delinquency fighting machinery.

Luckily Raleigh has been fairly free of juvenile delinquency to the extent that it upset the tranquility and peace of the community. As far as is known there are no organized gangs here such as have been operating with such disgraceful, often fatal results in the larger cities of the nation. But even with the situation as good as it is still a considerable amount of work for the local juvenile and domestic relations courts to handle.

The fact is that young people are enjoying a new freedom. There is a new day for youth in North Carolina as well as in the State government. Young people either own their own automobile or have ready access to the family jalopy; they roam to the beaches on the weekend and in general do about as they please. When such a situation exists there is bound to be a few "bad apples" in the barrel. It is a credit to the Raleigh young people that the few shady characters do not spoil the whole lot.

When young people permit their enthusiasm to get out of hand then there is bound to be serious trouble. The Newport Jazz Festival riots were a very recent example. When 12,000 youths could not get into a jazz show the situation got completely out of control. Troops were called, 100 were injured and scores were carted off to jail. There have been other, and dangerous, student outbreaks in South America and other parts of the globe.

It is probably a good thing to have government take a hand in helping to control the juvenile problem. There is one potential danger. Where government advances financial help it always steps in to control the local activities, adding to centralization of government and loss of status by the states and counties.

There was a time when poppa and mama aided and abetted by the hickory stick and the whodsdad had pretty good control of the juvenile problem. Now that day is gone, apparently forever. Whether it is a good or bad passing remains to be seen.

Strength For Today

By ELMER ROESSNER

The pay increase for Federal employees, which Congress passed over President Eisenhower's veto, will have many deep effects on business.

It will give another twist to the inflation spiral. In increasing Federal workers' pay faster than their productivity, it is directly inflationary. The increases of from 7 to 8 per cent appear to be greater than the increase in productivity since the last rise was voted in 1958. It is also greater than the rise in the cost of living, about 2.1 per cent, since then.

It will not mean any immediate direct increase in taxes, since the government is operating with a slight surplus at present. But eventually it must all come from taxes, either in added levies or in postponement of any reduction.

COMPETITION FOR SKILLS

A more immediate impact will be the greater competition for skilled workers. The government is the largest employer in the country; there were 2,342,900 on the civilian payroll in April. It is also the biggest competitor for office and administrative skills.

Furthermore, it is an active recruiter. From time to time government teams travel about the country to induce secretaries typists and other clericals to take government jobs, with such inducements as service abroad, etc.

Generally, private employers are forced to offer higher pay than the government does; it must offset certain government advantages.

The government offers more sick leave and vacation time than most employers; the Federal pension plan is more generous than Social Security and many private plans. The government offers—and this is a point many private employers might well study—more dignity. Employees are assured they have a superior status. Government etiquette provides that employees treat each other with deference. Tough bosses often find their employees arranging transfers to other departments, or find themselves questioned by Civil Service Commission employees.

Another great advantage the government offers is security. Firings can be only for cause, reduction of staff or the abolition of job, and in the latter two instances employees usually have rights to other jobs. And while there are declines in totals from time to time, the long-term trend is higher, providing more jobs and more promotions.

Consequently, private employers will soon find it necessary to offer 7 or 8 per cent higher wages to recruit workers who could get government jobs. This will probably prevail by fall. And for the same reasons, almost all wages will be 7 or 8 per cent higher by this time next year.

The increase applies only to 1,500,000 of the 2,500,000 government employees. Pay of the others is determined by prevailing local rates, usually union.

The average increase of those benefited will be around $500 a year. That means each of them will become a much better customer for most retail goods.

The first and quite human reaction will be to get that one thing it always wanted and never had quite the means for: a new car, an air conditioner, an outdoor motor, and on and on. Retailers right now should be identifying Federal Employees on their customer lists or buying local lists of such employees on their customer lists or buying local lists of such employees for special promotions, or cultivating this potential in other ways.

There's $794,000,000 more a year being poured into the economy and, since merchants are putting up a large share of it in taxes or in losses by inflation, they should get back as much as they CAN.

Truman Speaks Mind

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
Copyright, 1960, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

When Harry Truman speaks of the "special interests," he employs a term normal in American traditions. When he uses the phrase "a party of privilege," he means the same thing. It is the concept, not of the superiority of the mass over the skilled, but rather the Jeffersonian concept of the equality of man in the eyes of the law and of God. It is this view which produced Populism in the broad Missouri-Kansas area that also produced Harry Truman.

Strictly on moral grounds, Harry Truman made his protest against a "bought" Democratic Convention. Although Truman made it clear that his opposition was primarily aimed at John Kennedy and Adlai Stevenson, he was indicting the system of primaries and of conventions which chooses the candidates of either party. The expenses for these operations are enormous. The poor man who goes into this thing must become dependent on all sorts of persons and influences. Naturally, John Kennedy has large sums to expend; his father earned the money. Nelson Rockefeller also has tremendous sums to use; his grandfather earned it. But Rockefeller is inexperienced politically and too stubborn, so that the money did not help him. Hubert Humphrey ran out of money. Richard Nixon is a poor man and a campaign fund had to be raised, but as he is his party's sole candidate, not too much has been required.

In a word, the cost of getting nominated is so high that only those who are themselves rich or who can raise enormous amounts of money have any chance at all. Men like Abraham Lincoln or Woodrow Wilson would face real difficulties today.

Truman said: "The future usefulness of the party and the restoration of direction and leadership to the nation are of such paramount importance that I am impelled to disregard the pleadings of some of my friends to remain silent about the situation that has developed. They have urged me not to do anything to upset or offend anyone by speaking up now."

Those who proposed that Harry Truman remain quiet apparently do not understand the moral character of the man.

They fail to recognize that when Harry Truman was elected by the people in 1948, his personality underwent a sharp change. He was no longer an accident. He was no longer the Vice President who was cleared by Sidney Hillman. He was no longer the piano player with Lauren Bacall on the lid of the piano. He was chosen by the people after a tough campaign in which he appealed directly to the people against the "special interests." He had defeated Tom Dewey who to him represented the special interests. It was a moral victory for a moral man. He developed qualities heretofore not obvious.

This has to be understood in relationship to Harry Truman's opposition to John Kennedy, whom he does not like as a man although he pretends to. But apart from any personal feelings, Truman resents the blitz, the attempt to arrange matters that there will be no balloting at the convention—no realistic balloting.

His apostrophe to Kennedy is an amazing statement: "Senator, you are certain that you're quite ready for the country or the country is ready for you in the role of President in January, 1961?"

It will be used during the campaign by the Republicans. It cannot be withdrawn. The questions it raises cannot be ignored. The answers given by Senator Kennedy were impressive but they did not remove the sting of Truman's question.

Whether this comes too late to affect Kennedy's fortunes at the Democratic Convention, we shall only know after the convention, but that it will cut deeply in the vote on Election Day is beyond doubt.

Harry Truman developed into a surprising personality. He is broad. He is understanding. He is outspoken. He is uncompromising. He gains in popularity. (Continued on page 5)

Amos Demands Social Justice

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Amos 2:6-8; 5:1-4.

The Prophet Amos told his people: "Thus saith the Lord: For three transgressions of Israel, and for four, I will not turn away the punishment thereof; because they sold the righteous for silver, and the poor for a pair of shoes."—Amos 2:6.

"That pant after the dust of the earth on the head of the poor, and turn aside the way of the meek. . . They lay themselves down upon clothes laid to pledge by every altar, and they drink the wine of the condemned."—Amos 2:7-8.

"Therefore as your treading is upon the poor, and ye take from him burdens of wheat; ye have built houses of hewn stone, but ye shall not dwell in them; ye have planted pleasant vineyards, but ye shall not drink wine of them."—Amos 5:11.

"I know your manifold transgressions, . . . Hate the evil, and love the good, and establish judgment in the gate: it may be that the Lord God of hosts will be gracious unto the remnant of Joseph."—Amos 5:15.

MEMORY VERSE—Amos 5:15.

Amos Demands Social Justice

THE MESSAGE OF REBUKE AND WARNING WHICH GOD SENT TO HIS OWN CHOSEN PEOPLE THROUGH THE PROPHET AMOS

Scripture—Amos 2:6-8; 5:1-4.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL QUOTING from the Rev. Wilbur M. Smith, editor and commentator of Poloube's Select Notes: "Before his prophetic calling, reared on the edge of the desert, 11 miles south of Jerusalem, Amos, like Micah, was a rustic; and because his father's name is nowhere mentioned, it is inferred that he probably sprang from a poor and obscure family. He raised a peculiar breed of stunted, finewool sheep, a breed small in size, ugly in appearance, but highly esteemed for their wool. He lived close to nature. His occupation naturally carried him to the wool markets of the northern cities, and he had become acquainted with the life and religion of the people. Though he was untutored, yet, being by birth a morally noble, healthy, and vigorous yeoman we may set forth wheat, making the ephah small, and the shekel great, and falsifying the balances by deceit? That we may buy the poor for silver, and the needy for a pair of shoes; yea, and sell the refuse of the wheat?"—Amos 2:6-8.

Amos told them, "They hate him that rebuketh in the gate, and they abhor him that speaketh uprightly. Forasmuch therefore as your treading is upon the poor, and ye take from him burdens of wheat; ye have built houses of hewn stone, but ye shall not dwell in them; ye have planted pleasant vineyards, but ye shall not drink wine of them."—Amos 5:10-11.

"For I know your manifold transgressions, and your mighty sins; they afflict the just, they take a bribe, and they turn aside the poor in the gate."

MEMORY VERSE

"Hate the evil, and love the good, and establish justice in the gate."—Amos 5:15.

like John the Baptist, who spent most of his years in the same wilderness, he developed into a religious reformer, and eventually became supremely concerned for the rights of God and for justice."—George L. Robinson. Also from Poloube's Select Notes we are told, "Amos lived during the days of Uzziah, king of Judah, and of Jeroboam II, who reigned over Israel from 784 to 744 B.C. Israel was prospering, but the people were not living godly lives. They sinned greatly, and Amos rebuked them sternly, warning them of punishment to come."

"Hear this, O ye that swallow up the needy, even to make the poor of the land to fall, saying, When will the new moon be gone, that we may sell our corn? and the Sabbath, that we may sow?—Amos 8:1-2. "Seek good, and not evil, that ye may live; and so the Lord, the God of hosts, shall be with you, as ye have spoken. Hate the evil, and love the good, and establish judgment in the gate: it may be that the Lord God of hosts will be gracious unto the remnant of Joseph."—Amos 5:14-15. God demands of us not "burnt offerings or other formal ceremonies, but for us to let judgment roll down as waters, and righteousness as a mighty stream."—Amos 5:22-24. Let us all, today's people, ponder and obey this wise man of old, striving to hate the evil and love the good, and do what we can in our individual lives to help to establish justice in our world. Red Oak Christian Announcements At the first Official Board meeting of the new church year on July 3, Claude T. Manning was elected chairman for one year. Elected to serve as vice-chairman of the Official Board for one year was Thurston Wynne. Mrs. Howard James, president of the Red Oak Christian Women's Fellowship, had her first CWF Executive meeting Tuesday night, July 5. The Rev. Howard James gave the devotional. Goals for the year were discussed and plans were made for the first meeting of the circles. Membership in the circles is being rotated this year with number of circles being expanded from three to four. Mrs. James, in an impressive closing ceremony, presented each of her officers a Gold Cross pin as a symbol of their challenge for service during the year. The pastor will preach Sunday morning at 10:45 on the topic "To Engage in His Temple." The Sanctuary Choir will sing "When We See Christ" by Rusthol.

Flowers will be provided by Mr. and Mrs. William Goin and Mrs. Lizzie Vandiford. A Pre-School Nursery is provided during the Morning Worship hour so parents can attend the service. Gladys Bowen, Barbara Braxton, and Rebecca Parmore will be attending Chi Rho Camp at Camp Caroline, near Arapahoe, July 11-16. About 75 members of Red Oak Church and Sunday school will have a picnic at Camp Caroline at 6 p.m. on July 16. The camp is reserved for Red Oak activities from 2:00-7:00 p.m. on that date. Members of all of the four newly organized circles of the CWF will meet in the church sanctuary on Monday night, July 11, at 8:00 o'clock. Mrs. Bill Goin will have the worship service for the occasion and Mrs. J. T. Manning Jr. will be in charge of the program. All ladies are urged to make plans to attend this meeting!

Youth Service at Rountree Church The young people of the Christian Youth Fellowship of Rountree Christian Church will conduct the service on Sunday morning, July 10, at 11 o'clock. Judy Pierce will read the Scripture lesson and Mary Allen will make the morning prayer. Faye Worthington will review the history of the Rountree Church, which is the oldest church in the Disciples of Christ in North Carolina. Linwood Branch will express the appreciation of youth for the present and past leaders of the church and Kay Pierce will tell of the church's world outreach in Christian service. Donald Carmen, Robert Cannon, Donald Craft and Bruce Branch will serve as deacons. The public is cordially invited to this service. Dr. H. G. Haney is serving as pastor at the present time.

Pioneer N.C. Soil Conservationist Dies

BURLINGTON, N.C. (AP)—Dr. Hugh H. Bennett, 79, who was a federal employee began the greatest soil conservation program ever services here Saturday. Dr. Bennett, who recently entered the hospital here from Falls Church, Va., died Thursday. His son, Dr. H. H. Bennett Jr., Burlington radiologist, said his father had been sick with cancer two years. Burial will be Tuesday in the Arlington National Cemetery. The elder Bennett, former chief of the U.S. Soil Conservation Service, spent more than 50 years of his life protecting the soil from man's abuse and nature's ravages. During the late 19th century, he saw the Pee Dee River wash away valuable topsoil from his father's plantation near Wadesboro. He also witnessed the damage done by years of farming without crop rotation. He was graduated in 1903 from the University of North Carolina and took a $1,000-a-year job as a chemist in the old U.S. Bureau of Soils. Thirty years later, during the administration of Franklin D. Roosevelt, he was made chief of the old Soil Erosion Service of the Interior Department. He sent thousands of soil experts throughout the country to start the world's greatest soil conservation program. Big Hugh, as thousands of farmers knew him, once was pleading for money from a congressional committee in Washington to combat Midwestern dust storms. Suddenly the sky grew dark and congressmen saw, from the windows, clouds of dust overhead. "There," declared Bennett, "goes part of the Midwest blowing overhead." He got the appropriation.

He retired five years ago, but continued traveling, writing and working with foreign governments on soil problems. Survivors include the son; the widow, Mrs. Betty Brown Bennett of Falls Church, Va.; one daughter, Mrs. Edna Bennett Akers of Charlotte; three grandchildren; and two sisters, Mrs. Ethel B. Dunlap and Miss Fanny Bennett, both of Wadesboro.

Predicts More N.C. Tobacco RALEIGH (AP)—A tobacco marketing specialist has predicted that North Carolina's 1960 production of flue-cured tobacco will total approximately 800 million pounds, a gain of almost 100 million from 1959. W. P. Hedrick of the State Department of Agriculture made his prediction Thursday in a report on crop conditions to the directors of tobacco associates in the state. Based on a price of 58 cents a pound, this would mean 58 million dollars more for flue-cured growers in this state in comparison with last year. Hedrick said the big Eastern North Carolina Belt has a "beautiful crop" and may produce 50 million to 100 million more pounds this season than in 1959. The yield per acre may run as high as 1,800 pounds, compared with 1,560 last year, he added. If prices are the same as last year and Hedrick's forecast comes true, this would mean an extra 29 million to 58 million dollars for Eastern Belt farmers from their 1960 crop. The border belt has a lighter and later crop than last year, Hedrick said. He added the Middle and Old Belt crops are in the growing stage and cannot be forecast accurately at this time. Reports from others at the tobacco associates meeting indicated Georgia and Florida have fairly good crops, while South Carolina's crop is late and will not be as heavy as in 1959. Virginia was reported in need of a good general rain. The directors voted to increase the grower assessment for the organization in North Carolina from 40 cent to 50 cents an acre. Tobacco associates was organized several years ago to promote the export sale of flue-cured tobacco.

BLACKJACK TO GO DECATUR, Ill. (AP)—Decatur police will carry nightsticks like those used by London bobbies by July 15, Chief James May said today blackjacks will be discarded. Nightsticks, he said, are short, springy, light and effective.

One-Time Slave Is Dead At 110 BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)—A one-time Negro slave is dead at the age of 110. Levi Germany, once owned by a Mississippi planter from whom, by custom, he took his surname, died Wednesday at Baton Rouge. He was born Aug. 7, 1849, and lived most of his adult life as a farmer in East Baton Rouge parish.

Grace F. W. B. Announcements Prayer meeting will be conducted at 9:00 o'clock Sunday morning. "Social Justice—Then and Now" will be the subject for all classes in the Sunday school at 9:45 a.m. The memory selection: "Hate the evil and love the good, and establish judgment in the gate." (Amos 5:15) "A Giant for God" will be the pastor's subject at the 11 o'clock worship. The League at 6:45 p.m. will feature pictures of the Children's Home and Y.P.A. trip to the mountains. The evening worship will feature a message by the pastor and testimonies by four young people about their trip to Youth Mission Conference last week. 9:00 a.m. each day during the week prayer meeting is being conducted at the church. All who desire to come and pray together and bring your request for prayer will be welcome. COMING EVENTS: National Association of Free Will Baptists July 12-14, Fresno, California; Youth Mission Conference, July 25-30, Cragsmont; Weekend Revival, August 4-6, at church; seventh anniversary of Grace Church, August 7th.

WILLIAM PEARSON'S rousing bestseller on politics
A FEVER IN THE BLOOD

From the novel published by St. Martin's Press, Inc. Copyright © 1959, by William Pearson. Distributed by King Features Syndicate.

WHAT HAS HAPPENED
 Senator Alex Simon asked District Attorney Dan Callahan: "Defer to this old man, Dan. I don't want a primary battle. I want to come home as Governor."
 Callahan is confident that his role as prosecutor in the upcoming Hart murder trial will get him enough public favor to win the election, and he rejected the deal.
 So Simon is dangling a promise of a Federal judgeship to Dan's home-town rival for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, Judge Sam Hoffman, if the Judge will declare a mistrial in the Hart trial and prevent Callahan from making political capital of the case.

CHAPTER 7
 The five-story crumbling brick tenement in Boxer Square where Dan Callahan grew up was wedged between a saloon and a second-hand clothing store. In summer the three-room apartment was hot, sticky, dirty, and aromatic with the stench of sweat and cooking fats unthinned by ventilation. In winter it was cold and dirty.
 The stove was lit only at mealtimes when one of the children provided a little foreword by knocking a few more slats from the rickety banister in the hall. Mrs. Callahan kept a geranium on the window ledge in dirt packed into an old tin can, a forlorn offering to the better days she had never seen.
 At nine years of age Dan organized his own block gang called the Sharks, which battled the other neighborhood gangs with fists, stones, and when they could be found, knives. On Easter of that year, Dan and his band of young crusaders kidnaped a five-year-old Jewish boy, tied stones around his neck and threw him into the Rowton River as their answer to the Crucifixion of two thousand years before. A passing adult managed to rescue the half-drowned boy.

 At twelve Dan took up politics. He began to hang around the Democratic Club, which was located over Giacomozi's Pool Hall and Billiard Parlor, and would volunteer for any kind of errand in any kind of weather. More than once he broke up Reform League street rallies by dropping bricks on the crowd from the roofs of nearby tenements. "Mr. Giacomozi," he would say with naive confidence and frightening intensity, "I'm gonna be a politician when I grow up."
 "Thassa boy," Mike had said, "you beeg shot."
 "I'm gonna be President of the Yewtidd States," Giacomozi had laughed and handed him an armful of campaign posters. "You take this around' and I give you beer when you get back."
 "Sure, Mr. Giacomozi. But don't worry about the beer I'm doin' it for experience. I gotta know politics if I'm gonna be President."
 He ran off with the posters. Occasionally Mickey Beers, his best friend, went with him. They would walk into a store and tell the owner that Mike Giacomozi had sent them. That was enough of a password to get a poster in the window. After the pack was half-gone, they would turn down a side street and put the rest of the batch down a sewer.
 "What if we get caught?" Mickey had once asked timidly.
 "Keep your shirt on," Dan had said, "an when I'm President I'll make you Vice-President."

Dan turned to look searchingly at Bob Vinquist. "I cheated, I lied, I stole," he said. "But at least I haven't rewritten the story to make myself a hero."
 He limped across the terrace, stumbling over a chair but catching himself. "I guess I want one thing out of life. I want to do something for all the people who live in Boxer Squares. But to do something about poverty and ignorance and disease, you need power. The days for amassing big, really big, fortunes are gone. So you have to go elsewhere for power. I've gone to politics. A politician isn't the noblest work of God, but he has opportunities nobody else has."

 Dan laughed too heartily. "It's as simple as that... and yet, it isn't simple at all." He looked at his artificial leg as if it were something alien and monstrous. "I came back from Italy hoping I'd die. Have you any idea of what it took to let my wife see, for the first time, the withered, shriveled stump that used to be my lower thigh?"

Weaving slightly, Dan limped to a table and helped himself to another drink.
 Bob waited.
 Dan's hand tightened on the railing. "God help me," he whispered, "I want to be President of the United States. And God willing, I'm going to be. Humility isn't one of my virtues, but at least I'm honest enough to go after what I want. And that's why I'll win out over better men."
 Trying to speak with understating tact, Bob said, "Dan, how could you possibly become a serious contender by the time of the next national convention? Or the one after that? Men have spent decades working up to that status."
 "Weep for them! Weep for all those bitter, envious men nursing the wounds of oblivion after a lifetime of trying," Dan grimaced self-consciously, as if to make amends for a too graceful confession. "I guess all this is pretty naive, and I damn well know it's cold-blooded. But it's honest. I'm a little older than you, Bob, and politics isn't for children."
 Curious, amazed, and reluctantly intrigued, Bob said, "Who's it for?"
 "It's for restless men of enterprise. Let the saints go into the Church and the thumbsuckers write books. The realists, not the theorists, have to run the world." He stopped abruptly. "All right, it'll be a long time before you hear me talking this way again. But I had to make you understand. The Hart case is the crossroads. If we flub it, everything's lost."
 He set his empty glass on the terrace railing. "My plans are big, Roberto, and maybe they're crazy, but you're in all of them. You said some weeks ago that you wanted to be a judge. All right, how'd you like to be Attorney General of the United States by the time you're thirty-five? How'd you like to be a Justice of the United States Supreme Court before you're forty?"
 Adopting what he hoped was the appropriate light-hearted touch, Bob said, "I wouldn't settle for anything less than Chief Justice."
 Dan was relaxing now. Some of the old laughter was in his eyes. "You know what your trouble is, Roberto? You're still an uncommitted man."
 "It's ridiculous. What qualifications do I have to be Attorney General? Not, of course, that I'm taking you seriously." Bob hesitated, dismayed by the disclaimer's hollow ring. Of course he wasn't taking him seriously. Of course, of course. But still a man had only one life to give his career.
 "Roberto, as they say down in Vince Sposato's District Five, it ain't who you know, it's what you got on him. Well, you couldn't have much more on me than I've given you tonight." Dan stretched out wearily on a lounge chair. "We're talking about something different from ambition, Roberto.

Eisenhowers Enjoying Vacation In Newport

NEWPORT, R. I. (AP)—President Eisenhower, happy as a hookey-playing schoolboy, looked forward today to his second round of vacation golf.
 The President and his wife arrived in this New England resort area from Washington late Thursday afternoon. They hope to stay a month.
 They had vacationed here in 1957-58, so they are anything but newcomers. The reception they received left no doubt about that.
 When they got to Ft. Adams, the naval base summer White House, the president and his lady linked arms and walked in the late afternoon sunlight across a spacious lawn to the summer White House on the shore of Narragansett Bay.
 Ahead of them was a 19th-century frame residence, cream-colored and trimmed in white, where they had enjoyed an Indian summer two years ago.
 Thirty minutes after arriving, the President was off to the Newport Country Club where from 4:45 p. m. until dusk he played 18 holes of golf.
 On the 18-hole round, the President played with an old friend, George E. Allen, who accompanied him from Washington. Howland G. Cushing, president of the Newport Country Club, and Jimmie Farrell, the club pro, son of Johnnie, one of golfdom's greats a generation ago.
 At the nine-hole mid-point of the round at the edge of the Atlantic, Cushing dropped out of play and was replaced by James C. Hagerby, Eisenhower's press secretary.
 "They clobbered us," reported Cushing who had been playing with Allen against the President and Farrell. There was no detail on the extent of the drubbing.
 By that time the temperature was dropping from the mid-seventies starting point, and the President remarked in the increasing chill:
 "I've got to put a sweater on here."
 He did, and reportedly he and Farrell had the best of it over Allen and Hagerby on the second nine holes.
 The President and Mrs. Eisenhower landed at Quonset Point, R. I., and got an enthusiastic welcome from a crowd of about 5,000 headed by Rhode Island Gov. Christopher Del Sesto.
 The governor gave Eisenhower three dozen golf balls inscribed "Mr. President." Mrs. Eisenhower received a big bouquet of pink and white carnations.
 Then, for the second time in a long history of flying, Mrs. Eisenhower joined her husband in a helicopter flight, this time across Narragansett Bay to the summer White House at Ft. Adams. Mrs. Eisenhower's first "whirlybird" flight was last year in Canada on one of the legs of a visit to Ottawa when she met Britain's Queen Elizabeth II.

 He closed his eyes. "And I've watched you, Roberto. You've got a big talent you're wasting in a small job. You've also got money, and how we'll need that! But capture in your mind the fun there'll be too. The thrill is in the chase. It's the greatest game in the world. You'll be living where life begins, and not on the skin of things."
 "We've come a long way from the Hart case."
 "Not so far. Tall oaks from little acorns grow. All we have to do is win it. But if we lose it, if there's a mistrial—" He grunted enigmatically and his head fell against his chest.

 He shook his head. This was ridiculous. Dan's ramblings couldn't be taken seriously. Dan was tired, keyed up by nervous tension, and Dan, this evening—the peaceful snores from the carcass in the lounge chair most certainly told you—was drunk.
 Still.

Accuses Cooley Of Misleading

WAYNESVILLE, N.C. (AP)—Republican Heinz Rollman, who is contesting the seating of Democrat Roy Taylor as congressman from the 12th District, has accused Rep. Harold D. Cooley of making a "misleading" statement that allowed Taylor to be sworn in last week.
 Rollman, a Waynesville shoe manufacturer, declared Thursday a statement made by Cooley to Congress concerning the short term election in the 12th District was "completely wrong and misleading."
 Contacted in Washington, Cooley said he would have no comment.
 Rollman, who will oppose Taylor in the November election for a full term to Congress, contends the short-term election June 25 was illegal.
 He said he saw in the July 2 Congressional Record that Cooley asked the speaker of the House unanimous consent that Taylor be permitted to take the oath of office.
 Cooley was quoted by Rollman as saying that Taylor's certificate of election had not arrived, but there is no contest and no question has been raised with regard to his election.

FLORENCE-MAYO
295 JET OIL CURER
100% AUTOMATIC—NO MATCHES NEEDED

The most modern oil-fired curer ever marketed. Completely automatic! Outside thermostatic controls let you cure an entire barn of tobacco without entering the barn. Eight extra-large galvanized heat-spreaders provide even temperatures throughout the barn, and last 5 to 10 times longer than block stove pipe. Above-ground installation makes the Jet Oil Curer easy to install. Economical, too! Burns low-priced No. 2 fuel oil. Curing costs $12 to $15 per barn.

F-M OPEN FLAME OIL CURER

Patented

Barn curer with a proven performance record in more than 50,000 cures. Simple to operate — easy to maintain. Automatic safety valves provide utmost safety! Economical to own and operate. Curing costs $12 to $15 per barn. NOW AVAILABLE! Automatic safety valves for each unit, at slight extra cost.

Florence-Mayo curers are 5 to 10 times safer than old-fashioned independently spaced gas burner curers (with side port burners and small heat-spreaders) using 9-12 or 16 burner units per barn that are expensive to operate. In fact, such gas curers have burned several hundred barns in the past 8 years.

MODERN TOBACCO CURERS USE ONLY 1 TO 6 BURNER UNITS
 Why burden yourself with operating tobacco curers that use 9 to 16 burner units per barn?

Pitt Closes Season With Extra-Inning Win, 16-7

Locals Score Nine In Extra Frame For Win

GOLDSBORO — The Pitt County Legion team closed out its first year back in Legion ball golf in the same fashion it started out, on a winning note, by turning back Goldsboro 16-7 with a nine-run rally in the eleventh inning.

A double by Paul Castellone was the big hit in the winning frame but singles by Kroghie Andresen, Alan MacArthur, J. Y. Monk, and two singles by Tommy Riley helped provide the final payoff for the Pitt nine.

Pitt has blown a four run lead in the ninth when Goldsboro sent starter Keith Sawyer to the showers in favor of Malcolm Griffith.

Griffith, after pitching a neat one-hitter in relief on Wednesday night, cut down the rivals in quick order but not before the score was tied.

After a double dished out to Sutton in the ninth, the only other hit off Griffith was a double by Whitfield in the eleventh but it went for naught.

Tommy Riley, Griffon native, led the winners with four big hits, two of them coming in the eleventh. Andresen, MacArthur, Monk and Castellone had two hits each.

The victory closed out the season for the Pitt team, running their win streak to two after a losing spell of six. Their final record was 4-6.

Sellout Crowd Expected For All-Star Game

By FRANK CRAWFORD

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—This city will play host next Monday to baseball's All-Star game amid a growing battle to keep its place in the big leagues.

The first of baseball's big two-game show will be played in a stadium where Kansas City's fan base has proved its mettle by pouring through the turnstiles 5,000,000 strong watching the Athletics in the five full seasons since the club was brought here in 1955 from Philadelphia.

Now, since the death of majority stockholder Arnold Johnson of Chicago last March, the club will be sold to the highest bidder. Whether the Athletics, currently floundering in seventh place in the American League, remain here depends on whether the successful purchaser is a Kansas City syndicate or one outside the city, like Johnson's, willing to operate it here in Municipal Stadium.

This will be the backdrop Monday when the National League's Willie Mays steps to the plate to face the American League hurler, perhaps Kansas City's own Bud Daley, a southpaw who has won 12 games and might conceivably win another before Monday.

The stadium's slightly less than 31,000 grandstand seats all will be filled. There are no bleachers in the park.

The playing field, which the players say is the best in the American League, is somewhat confining in the left field and left center areas where a medium power drive can clear the 20-foot fence for a home run.

Several National Leaguers will be getting their first look at the Kansas City park. A m e r i c a n League left fielders are more accustomed to playing the carom shots off the fence and the six feet of wire netting above it.

Kansas Citizens for the most part are optimistic that they can keep the Athletics here and eventually see a club that will play in another big baseball show—the World Series. They already have pledged $2,000,000 toward the purchase of the A's. There are plenty more small investors who will swell that amount in bidding against interests in Dallas, Houston, Minneapolis and other cities who want to move the club.

LA Looking Like Old Champs, Bucs Not Dead

The Los Angeles Dodgers have begun to look like world champions again, but they still have a long way to go to catch Pittsburgh's Pirates in the National League race.

The Dodgers, who trail by 8 1/2 games, moved within a half-game of third place San Francisco by whipping Chicago's Cubs 7-1 Thursday night for their ninth victory in 11 games.

But the Pirates put away their fourth consecutive success when Bob Skinner cracked a two-out, two-run double in the ninth inning that beat Cincinnati 3-2. It was Pittsburgh's 11th last-inning victory.

It also retained their 5 1/2-game spread over Milwaukee's second place Braves, who defeated Philadelphia 2-0 as Hank Aaron backed Warren Spahn's five-hitter with a home run and sacrifice fly.

St. Louis rapped San Francisco 7-3.

In the American League, New York regained a three-game lead by beating Baltimore 6-3 while the Chicago White Sox trimmed second place Cleveland 9-3. Detroit defeated Kansas City 6-3. Washington split a two-night doubleheader at Boston, winning 6-5, then losing 4-2.

Right-hander Don Drysdale now has won his last two starts for a 6-1 record. He allowed eight hits and walked four, but struck out eight and blanked the Cubs after George Altman hit his third home run.

Duke Snider drove in three runs. His two-run triple — a high fly that was lost in the twilight at the Coliseum — clinched it for the Dodgers as they scored three in the first off Mark Freeman (3-4).

The Pirates trailed 2-1 with two out and no one on base in the ninth at Cincinnati. Bill Mazeroski got them rolling with a single, his third hit off reliever Jim Brosnan. Smoky Burgess, just back from a two-day suspension, followed with a pinch single off loser Bill Henry (1-4), who then gave up Skinner's winner.

Wilmer Mizell (5-5) was the winner, allowing four hits. Elroy Face wrapped it up in the ninth, allowing the Reds' fifth hit as they lost their fourth in a row, nine hits.

Spahn (9-5), left off the All-Star staff, gained his 27th victory and 48th shutout—both all-time highs among NL southpaws—while walking just one and striking out 10. Lee Walls, who had two hits, and Bobby Del Greco singled with none out in the ninth for the Phils. But after Spahn gave up a walk that loaded the bases with one out, Bobby Gene Smith hit into a doubleplay.

Locals Favored In Table Tennis Event

Local senior players expect to keep most of the trophies to be awarded at Saturday's E. C. College Union Invitational Table Tennis Tournament, reports Tournament chairman Bowie Martin.

Last year left-handed John Hodgins of Burlington captured the Men's Singles honors by defeating all comers, including East Carolina Champion Norman Kilpatrick.

Since then, however, Kilpatrick has built up a string of victories that include the championships of East Carolina, Greenville, Eastern North Carolina, and the North Carolina State Championship, without the loss of a single game.

The versatile Greenville star used a wooden racket as large as a tennis racket to win the Eastern N. C. title, but regularly plays with an ordinary racket covered with a thin layer of smooth sponge rubber. Kilpatrick, a recent ECC graduate, utilizes a spectacular lob defense, which produces returns that often are 10-15 feet high, which he learned from studying Japanese players. He also uses a powerful forehand attack and a series of quick "wristed" flicks made on his backhand side close to the table. Kilpatrick mixes his shots up with low defensive "chop" returns from 10-20 feet back of the table, and currently is considered a defensive player.

He is the chief local hope to take the men's championship.

Another local threat is East Carolina's promising sophomore star Nelson Tugwell. This spring, although playing in Kilpatrick's shadow, Tugwell captured the East Carolina Novice Championship, and was the second ranked player at the college. The agile spin expert also was runner-up in the Greenville singles championship.

They added a couple more markers in the fourth for insurance.

Spain, with two hits, was the hitting leader for the losers.

DAIRY WINS
Carolina Dairy made it two straight in the second half of play last night by crushing Cox Armature 8-0 behind the two-hit pitching of Haywood Outland.

A two-run homer in the first inning by Pete Tripp featured a five-run rally that gave the Dairy all the cushion it needed to coast home untouched.

Tripp had a signal to go with his homer and Tom Boyd had three hits in four official trips to the plate. Bob Moore slapped a homer in the fourth.

Associated Press Sports Writer
ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (AP) — "I'm going to gamble."
This is the spirit the U.S. Open and Masters champion, Arnold Palmer, carried into the last 36 holes of the British Open golf championship today, seven strokes behind pace-setting Roberto de Vicenzo.
"I gambled in the Masters and birdied the last two holes. I gambled again in the U.S. Open and picked up seven strokes on the last round to win," said Palmer, who is from Latrobe, Pa.
"I'm not going to change those methods now. If I were Roberto I would be inclined to play safe. But the only way I can get near is to gamble. And that's what I'll do."
Palmer, 30, was still relaxed and easy-going off the course. "But I'm not going to say what's going to happen," he said.
The thing that surprised the Scots was the calm way Palmer accepted it all. He was just the same a few hours after finding himself seven strokes behind as he was when he shot his first round.
There was no temperament, no prima-donna displays, no temper. The men who put Palmer under pressure were De Vicenzo, 37, an Argentinian who plays out of Mexico, and Kel Nagle, 39, an Australian.
De Vicenzo led the field going into the last 36 holes with 67-67-134. Nagle had 69-67-136. Then came Palmer, Peter Thomson of Australia and Sebastian Miguel of Spain at 141.
Forty-seven survivors from an original 376 starters went into today's final 36 holes.

Case History Of A Psychotic Child Now Being Treated At Camp Butner

By DON SEAVER
Charlotte Observer Staff Writer
CHARLOTTE (AP) — The little blond-haired boy stretched out his hands to meet the outstretched arms of the tall, blonde, attractive woman.

It was an accidental meeting between mother and son in the dingy halls of the psychotic children's unit at John Umstead Hospital in Butner.

And the tone of two words—"Hey, darling"—and the flush of two faces was more descriptive than a thousand words.

Even to a person unaccustomed to his pater the boy's words, "Where Daddy," were plainly clear. Two years ago this child would not talk.

This mother has known two years of wondering, worrying, not knowing — then knowing that her child was terrible sick and she would have to give up his care to someone else.

She is from Charlotte, the boy her only child.

The parents are moderately well-to-do but this was to little avail when it came to seeking aid for their mentally ill son.

The boy was born in the spring of 1955. "He seemed to be a bouncing, baby boy," says the father, in fact, maybe a little advanced.

He sat up at the age of seven months. At 12 months he was making distinguishable sounds. At 14 months he walked on his own.

At the age of 15 months, the danger signs appeared.

He didn't progress farther with his toys. He would point to an object and make an indistinct sound but would not say the word.

A pediatrician thought the child might be spoiled. He told the parents not to tell the boy what each object was, to try to get him to say the word for himself.

We realize now that we shouldn't have frustrated him that way. We know now that it was wrong," says the mother.

Then they began to think it was some physical disability causing the boy not to talk. At the request of a local eye, ear and throat specialist, he was taken to Charlotte Rehabilitation Hospital for special hearing tests in a sound-proof room.

The room was infiltrated with sounds at different levels to determine the hearing ability. Not until the sound was turned on full volume did the boy realize there was another force in the room, he was so withdrawn.

Between his second and third birthdays he had a silent, withdrawn period.

By the time he was three, the boy was sleeping badly.

"With an emotionally ill child you must give your all every minute," says the mother. "We sat up with him every night until he finally fell asleep from exhaustion."

"When we took him to eat in a restaurant, he would never eat a thing. He just went wild. Yet we felt there was no way to discipline him without hurting him."

"Under all this, I'm sure he could feel all the frustration and tension we had about his condition."

In May of 1958, the family pediatrician became alarmed because there was no progress and referred the family to the Chapel Hill Child Psychiatry Center.

"They told us, in effect, that he needed more love and affection," says the father.

Then came a rapid succession of clinics and hospitals, both in this state and Boston.

There was nothing physically wrong.

The Boston doctors told the family last year to come home and look for a private psychiatrist who could treat the boy at least three times a week.

"We talked with a local psychiatrist, a friend, who told us, 'I cannot help you, I'm not trained to do child psychiatry. As far as I know, there isn't a private psychiatrist in Charlotte who is so trained.'"

Then in April, 1959, they returned to the Chapel Hill clinic where they saw Dr. H. J. Harris and Dr. W. C. Rippey.

Dr. Harris told them the boy was severely disturbed and recommended they try to get him into a residential treatment program as soon as possible.

He told them there was one place in North Carolina, Butner, but it was filled. Butner had five children at the time.

"He mentioned a place in Kansas. We would have to leave Charlotte and move to Kansas, because the parents must take part in the treatment program," the mother recalled.

"A few days later, it was a relief to know what the trouble was for the first time and where we were going."

"Dr. Harris told us we would have to make up our minds whether we wanted to give up our child. We talked to my parents, our family doctor and some friends. Finally, we realized we would have to make up our own minds."

Three weeks later, Dr. Harris phoned them that an opening had developed at Butner. They went to see the unit there and found it "very depressing." They tried to put off a decision a little longer but were told that the need was urgent.

In mid-May the child entered the psychotic children's unit.

Until last Thanksgiving he came home every other weekend because the Butner unit did not have a full staff.

After Thanksgiving, she did not see her child for three months despite the fact that both parents go to Butner for weekly conferences with the psychiatric social worker.

"I became uneasy over what my reaction would be if I suddenly came upon him in the hall," the mother says. "When I finally did I was tense and stilted over approaching my own child."

"For the last two months he has come to me when I see him in the hall. Before he would stand off and smile and wave but he would not come to me. This spring he seemed to blossom."

"Now, he smiles and beams. I want to sit in that hall forever."

City Given New Chief Operator

Miss Verchie Alphin has been named chief operator here for Carolina Telephone. She was formerly assistant chief operator at Rocky Mount.

The announcement was made this week by T. K. McLaughlin, New Bern District Traffic manager. The appointment became effective on July 1.

Miss Alphin succeeds Mrs. Bertie P. Reed, chief operator since 1955. Mrs. Reed is being transferred to New Bern where she will serve in the same position.

Greenville's new chief operator is a native of Onslow County and a graduate of Comfort High School. She is a member of Lakeside Baptist Church in Rocky Mount.

Miss Alphin began her career with Carolina Telephone in 1947 as a junior operator at Jacksonville. Later she became an operator, junior service assistant, service assistant, and in 1953 was named assistant chief operator at

District Scout Swimming Meet Set Tomorrow

The Pitt District Annual Swim Meet will be held at the Farmville City Swimming Pool tomorrow at 7 p.m.

There will be two divisions of competition which include Scouts from 11-14 years of age and Senior Scouts and Explorers. Two trophies will be awarded, one in each division.

A troop will function and compete as a troop in each event and points will be given to the top five competitors in each event. The unit with the highest total number of points will win the meet.

Events scheduled for the meet include: knot-tying, rescue, plunge for distance, free-style relay (handicap), medley relay and a "pearl diving" event.

According to Harold Flanagan, a free swimming period will follow the meet. Flanagan also noted that all participants must furnish their own bathing trunks.

He cautioned that Scouts taking part in the events should not eat within one hour of the meet and said no horse play by contestants or observers would be permitted.

Scout Officials' Picnic Slated

A picnic for commissioners of the East Carolina Council, Boy Scouts of America and their families will be held Sunday at Camp Charles, according to Council officials.

The picnic is scheduled to start at 5:30 p.m. and each family is requested to bring a picnic basket. The Council will furnish soft drinks.

NEW YORK (AP)—Key issues nudged ahead on balance as the stock market posted a slight gain early this afternoon. Trading was moderate.

Fractional gains among leading issues outnumbered losses in the same range.

More volatile stocks among electronics, vending machine, recreational and selected groups continued to recover from recent sharp losses. Polaroid rebounded about 5 points.

The market was higher from the start in a follow through to Thursday's rally, the best in a month. As trading faltered some gains were clipped. Brokers said the list was putting on a typical pre-weekend performance.

Steels, motors, rails, aircrafts and utilities were ahead while the pattern was mixed for chemicals, nonferrous metals and tobacco. Oils were unchanged to a bit higher.

Radio Corp. was a feature among electronics, rising about 2. Motorola, spurred about 4 and Zenith was around 2 points to the good.

The major steels gained unanimously, Jones & Laughlin, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem and Republic adding fractions.

Auto also did fairly well. Studebaker-Packard getting a play and rising about a point while Chrysler did somewhat better.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 7 1/2 to 45.68. The Associated Press average of 89 stocks at noon was up 40 to 223.70 with the industrials up 20, the rails up .90 and the utilities up 20.

Corporate bonds were mixed in slow dealings. U. S. government bonds continued lower.

Cotton Penalty Rate Announced

The marketing quota penalty rate on excess 1960 crop cotton will be 19 1/2 cents per pound, J. Lyman Edwards, chairman of the Pitt County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, announced today.

Controlling legislation provides that the marketing penalty rate be set at 50 per cent of the parity price per pound of cotton, effective June 15. The parity price for upland cotton as of June 15, 1960 was 38.89 cents per pound.

At a referendum held in North Carolina last December 15, growers in this state approved quotas by a 97 per cent majority.

When cotton marketing quotas are placed in effect at the request of the farmer-voters, a farmer who does not comply with his cotton acreage allotment is subject to a penalty on his farm marketing excess. The cotton crop from the non-complying farm is also ineligible for price support under ASC's cotton loan program.

WELL UNDERWAY—Farmville's new $140,000 National Guard armory, future home of the town's Company "E," 119th Infantry, is beginning to take shape since initial construction began little more than two months ago. Situated on a six-acre site on W. Horne Ave. adjoining the Farmville Golf Course, the 13,500-square-foot masonry-and-steel structure is scheduled by government contract for completion within 240 calendar days from initial construction. Building firm spokesmen, however, expect the modern military facility to be completed "at least by the last day of October." The building itself, at a cost of around $125,000, is being financed by 75 per cent federal and 25 per cent state and local funds. The building site was purchased with Farmville and Pitt County funds.

Begin Checking Union Reports

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Labor Department has started checking thousands of financial reports filed by unions under the 1959 Landrum-Griffin Act.

Known officially as the Labor-Management Reporting Act, the measure requires unions to file yearly financial reports.

Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell said today both desk and field audits are under way and that in some cases, books and financial transactions of a union will be checked against its financial report to the department.

Financial reports must be filed within 90 days after the close of a union's fiscal year. So far, 39,080 international, national and local unions have filed reports. Thousands of additional reports are expected before the end of September from unions whose fiscal year ended June 30.

Reason of Kinston and Mrs. Harold Hobgood of Sumter, S. C.; two brothers, John Ivey Steps of Newport News and Marshall James Steps Jr. of the U. S. Army.

Almost two-thirds of America's adult stockholders have incomes of less than $7,500, says a New York Stock Exchange survey.

Arriving Monday To Fix Farmville Post Office

FARMVILLE — Postmaster Henry D. Johnson has received notice a regional equipment technician is scheduled to arrive in Farmville Monday to ready the town's new post office for occupancy.

Johnson said today Iverson Smith of Asheville, technician for the Atlanta Postal Region, plans to begin installation work in the $54,000 structure Monday. The postmaster said the work should take "about three days." He plans to move the local office's operation into the new building "as soon as Smith's work is completed."

For nearly two weeks, the 4,000-square-foot office has been standing completed except for installation of equipment, the duty of an authorized postal technician.

Smith and two carpenters, who will meet the technician here Monday, will install the new equipment.

The new masonry and steel structure features an outer room which will remain open at all times, leaving the mail boxes available to patrons. Inner doors may be locked at the office's regular closing hours.

Included in the project is a large concrete parking and loading area and a 288-square-foot loading and handling platform. The office is situated between the Fitzgerald and Williams medical clinic on the east side of N. Main St.

Brother Of Local Women Died Friday
