Congo Govm't Is Asking UN Help Restore Order

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (AP) — The Congo government has asked the United Nations to intervene and restore order in this former Belgian territory, Belgian Minister Ganshof van de Meersch said today.

The appeal was forwarded Sunday after talks between the U.S. Ambassador Clare Timberlake, Premier Joseph Kasavubu, Premier Patrice Lumumba and Dr. Ralph Bunche, United Nations troubleshooter.

No response from the United Nations has yet been received. Rebellious Congolese troops were reported terrorizing whites today in Luluabourg and Stanleyville and fleets of planes were rushed to help European refugees flee the torn new African nation.

Belgian paratroops arrived in trouble centers, to control the native troops rampaging in far-flung sectors of Belgium's former colony in central Africa.

Luluabourg, in the center of the Congo and once intended to become the republic's new capital, was reported still in a state of near panic, with mutineers attacking white civilians and looting homes and stores.

At least 10 Europeans were killed in the weekend of violence. Official Belgian reports said three were killed and one wounded when African rebels besieged hundreds of whites in a hotel in Luluabourg Sunday. They were rescued by Belgian paratroopers.

Seven Europeans, including the Italian vice consul and 25 Congolese were killed in fighting at Elisabethville, capital of the rich Katanga province in the lower Congo.

Belgian troops, called in by Katanga provincial officials, brought most of the native troops under control, but looting and pillaging was reported continuing. One report said a large number of whites were barricaded in a building in the center of the city.

Premier Patrice Lumumba and President Joseph Kasavubu left in a Belgian plane for Luluabourg and Elisabethville in an effort to calm the rebellious troops and the anxious whites.

Another flareup was reported in Stanleyville, storiied city astride the equator in the northeast. The Belgian radio said Congolese troops mutilated, invaded an airfield and prevented a plane loaded with refugees from taking off.

The Stanleyville rebels disarmed their European officers and took over command, and later "invaded the European city about two miles from the airfield," the Belgian broadcast said.

Leopoldville, however, was generally calm and there was less patrolling by native army units than previously.

A U.S. Air Force Globemaster capable of carrying 200 passengers flew into the Congo to pick up Americans and other refugees. The Globemaster took off from Salisbury airport in Southern Rhodesia for the Belgian Kamina military base in Katanga.

A Belgian government officer still working for the Congolese expressed doubt Lumumba could restore order.

"We can have no confidence in the influence of such leaders over those power-crazed African soldiers," he said.

Refugees were streaming out of the troubled land despite efforts of the Congolese army to check

Shot Down By Soviet

LONDON (AP) — The Soviet Union announced today it had shot down a missing American plane over the Barents Sea July 1 and that the two men were picked up.

Moscow Radio said a new Soviet note was handed to the U. S. Embassy protesting a "violation" of its air space by the B47 reconnaissance craft.

This was the first word of the plane, which disappeared July 1 with six men aboard while on a scouting flight over waters north of Norway and the Soviet Union.

The U. S. Air Force said the plane, based temporarily in England, had been on an electromagnetic mapping mission.

Moscow radio said the survivors would be prosecuted "with full severity of Soviet law."

The Soviet broadcast said Soviet notes also have been handed to Britain and Norway.

Cuban Complaints Offered For UN Security Council

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Cuba today requested a meeting of the U.N. Security Council to consider the worsening dispute between Cuba and the United States.

A spokesman for the Cuban delegation said a formal complaint has been handed to the current president of the 11-nation council, Ambassador Jose Correa of Ecuador.

No details were available immediately.

Cuban Foreign Minister Raul Roa arrived in New York Saturday and has been conferring with members of the Cuban delegation on the situation.

HAVANA (AP) — The Castro government implied Sunday it may demand that the United States abandon its Guantanamo Naval Base in eastern Cuba.

President Osvaldo Dorticos told a labor demonstration attended by 100,000 that Cuban territory is "not for rent or sale to foreigners." He said the annual rental check paid last month by the United States for the base would be sent back to Washington.

Under a treaty signed in 1934, the United States has a perpetual lease on the 45-square-mile base at a rent of 2,000 gold dollars—the equivalent of $3,386.25 a year.

The bespectacled, bearded President, growing daily in stature in Cuba's revolutionary hierarchy, delivered the main address at the rally after pneumonia kept Prime Minister Fidel Castro in bed.

But illness did not keep Castro off-stage entirely. Looking feverish, the 33-year-old Prime Minister put an army field jacket over his pajamas and made a 45-minute television speech from his bedroom.

Speaking in a hoarse voice, the revolutionary leader again attacked the United States as an aggressor nation and hailed the Soviet Union as the champion of underdeveloped countries.

There was growing speculation here that Cuba may be preparing a formal accusation of aggression against the United States before either the Organization of the American States or the United Nations. Foreign Minister Raul Roa made a sudden trip to the United States over the weekend for consultations with Cuban diplomats at the U.N.

Observers speculated that the Cuban leaders might be planning to throw the first blow in an attempt to get the jump on an expected U.S. move to chastise the Castro government in the OAS.

"The whole world is turning against the United States," Castro said repeatedly in his bedside chat, which he delivered with his usual arm waving to dispel any idea he was seriously ill. In solemn tones he wound up with thanks to the Soviet Union for its

Name Winterville Man To FHA Committee

George D. Cox of Winterville has been named a member of the Farmers Home Administration county committee, it was announced today by Ben White, the agency's county supervisor serving Pitt.

Cox succeeds Noel Lee, Jr. of Rt. 3, Washington, whose three-year term expired this year.

Two other members make up the committee. They are Harry J. Jarvis, Rt. 1, Ayden and Mark

H. Smith, Rt. 1, Greenville. Cox owns and operates his own farm with a tenant. He also supervises the operations of several other farms in Pitt County and is interested in farmers and their problems.

He has appeared before Congressional committees on several occasions in regard to matters beneficial to farmers in this area. He is a past president of the Pitt County Farm Bureau and is active in its program.

The FHA committee determines the eligibility of individual applicants for all types of loans. It also reviews borrowers' progress and aids the county supervisor in adapting the agencies loan policies to conditions faced by farmers in this area. Members are selected and appointed so that, so far as possible different areas or neighborhoods are represented.

The Farmers Home Administration makes annual or intermediate term loans to farmers who need adequate funds to buy equipment and livestock, and longer term loans to build or repair houses and other essential farm buildings, and to purchase or improve land suitable for family-type farm operations.

It also advances credit to farmers on their non-profit associations to establish and carry out approved soil and water conservation practices, and to install and improve irrigation and farmstead water facilities.

Democratic Convention Dominates The Local Coffee Break

By STUART SAVAGE Reflector Staff Writer

Only one thing could detract from the news of Castro, Cuba, and the Russian threats and that is the home-town talk regarding the National Democratic Convention now under way in San Francisco.

This morning three local lawyers got together over coffee and expressed their views on the convention and the way it is shaping up.

Attorney J. A. Harrell said he did not think "the convention is rigged at all. I think Kennedy is way out in the lead and has a mighty good chance of being nominated."

He said he felt "North Carolina would have gone to Johnson if Sanford had supported him but he (Sanford) will carry many votes to the other side."

Harrell pointed out that "Sanford is a young man and Kenedy is about the same age. That had a lot to do with his decision to back Kennedy," he said. "Sanford thinks Kennedy will get the nomination and he wants to be with him in the beginning."

"I would like to see a Johnson-Kennedy ticket with Johnson as president and Kennedy as vice-president but I do not think Kennedy would take the second place."

Attorney J. Con Lanier said he hated "mighty bad to see Sanford go on record" in support of a candidate "just to get on a band wagon."

He commented that he felt "this is a regular democratic way of handling the convention . . . with everyone in there pulling and trying to win."

"It looks like Kennedy is way out in front but at this point I would not say he has it sewed up," Lanier commented.

He added that "if we could get Kennedy and Johnson on the same ticket, that ticket could be a winner in November."

Dink James, Judge of the Pitt County Records Court, said, "It looks like the national convention as we have known it is on the way out. It is no longer the effective gathering it has been. It is no longer the final factor that it used to be because people so strongly indicate their preferences in other ways and the selection is already made."

"Instead of being rigged, it has been replaced by public expression."

According to James, "Sanford was apparently faced with differences of opinion and was trying to decide in the way that would be most beneficial to the state."

James concluded the political discussion by saying he thought Sanford's decision to back Kennedy was "a compromise." "He saw that he could not get all he wanted for the state and tried to salvage something for the state,"

Kennedy 'Solid Favorite' To Win Demo Nomination

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Democratic National Convention opens today with Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts booked solidly as a sure shot for the party's presidential nomination.

Barring some unforeseen last-hour development, Kennedy seemed likely to walk away with the coveted prize in balloting beginning Wednesday. Whether he would take it on the first count still was somewhat problematical.

But that he would take it there remained little doubt.

Crestfallen rivals kept their campaigns going. But Adlai E. Stevenson, a two-time winner of jackpots in the political gamble, said he was willing to accept a Cabinet post as a consolation prize.

There were some rather strong indications that supporters of Sen. Stuart Symington (D Mo) were about to toss in the sponge. They denied this, of course, but the seeming futility of opposing the Kennedy juggernaut impressed itself deeply on some Symington backers.

Steve Langmade, Arizona national committeeman, told a reporter he understands consideration is being given in the Symington camp to releasing the 104 convention votes supporters claim the Missouri senator has nailed down on the first ballot.

Any such action could be a fatal blow to the efforts of Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas to hold the line in the early counting and thus open the way for selection later of either himself or some other candidate.

Langmade is pledged to Kennedy on the first ballot and said he will stick through the second tally. If additional votes are needed, Langmade said, he is prepared to switch to Johnson on the third counting.

Kennedy backers said they are confident they will get more than half of the Symington votes if they are released.

Former President Harry S. Truman's double-reverse decision not to attend the convention after all cast a deep pall of gloom over the Symington camp. Symington dismissed the decision with the comment that "Mr. Truman always does what he thinks is best."

All of the presidential hopefuls came together Sunday night in a typical Hollywood setting — a festooned Beverly Hills hotel banquet room in which breathing space was at a premium.

Stevenson, greeted by a storm of applause, was lyrical. Tensely, Kennedy ripped off an old campaign speech at a furious gait. Symington played it down. He said nobody had done him wrong in the preliminaries of the convention, which gets under way late today.

Johnson, in the star billing as the last act on the show, lectured the Democrats about the souring condition of a world in which Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev can threaten to launch rockets against this country if it interferes in Cuba's undulating affairs.

Despite brave statements by his rivals, Kennedy continued to fence them in. While they talked of delegate gains, he battered down the barriers to an early nomination.

California and its 81-vote delegation was one of these. With what his critics called characteristic indecision, Gov. Edmund G. Brown announced he is backing Kennedy. Brown said the delegates could go their independent ways.

But he later denied that this constituted a release from their pledge to vote for him on the first ballot. The delegation put off until Tuesday any poll of sentiment, but most of its members thought it would summon at least 60 votes for Kennedy toward the 761 he needs for the nomination.

The decision of California and some other states could determine whether Kennedy snatches the prize on the first roll call or is forced to battle it out longer.

Among others, Gov. Herschel C. Loveless of Iowa released a favorite son delegation after it casts its 26 votes for him on the first tally as directed by the state's party convention.

Having done that, the delegation could switch before the final roll call was announced. A poll showed 16 1/2 votes for Kennedy, with the remainder split Symington 4, Johnson 2, Stevenson 2, absent 1 1/2.

Gov. George Docking of Kansas, who is looked upon as a potential second-place nominee if Kennedy wins the main prize, already had abandoned his favorite-son role to support the Massachusetts senator. Kansas casts 21 votes under the unit rule. There was talk Johnson and Symington were combining forces to keep the votes away from Kennedy.

Without going into any specific detail regarding this country's proposals, Eisenhower set them forth this way:

"First, we need to consider with other American republics practical ways in which developing countries can make faster progress in meeting their own needs and ways in which their friends can most effectively cooperate with them. . . ."

"I have in mind the opening of new areas of arable land for settlement and productive use. I have in mind better land utilization, within a system which provides opportunity for free, self-reliant men to own land, without violating the rights of others. I have in mind housing with emphasis, where appropriate, on individual ownership of small homes, and have in mind other essential minimums for decent living in both urban and rural environments."

"Second, in our common efforts toward these goals more attention needs to be given in a manner which respects the dignity and rights of all to improving the opportunities of the bulk of the population to share in contributing to an expanding national product. . . ."

"Third, within this framework, we need to consider whether there are better ways to accelerate the trend which is already evident toward greater respect for human rights and democratic government based on the will of the people as expressed in free and periodic elections."

"The interests of the United States, now less than those of all the Americas, are directly involved in this struggle, a threat to the security of the hemisphere. It is imperative that institutions be developed and strengthened sufficiently to permit the people's needs to be met through orderly processes of change."

"A renewed hemispheric determination to preserve principles of liberty and the dignity of man is needed. There is also an urgent need for a broader and more vigorous cooperative attack by all American governments and peoples if adequate progress with freedom is to be achieved."

The U.S. program for such cooperative help will be set forth formally at a meeting of the economic ministers of the American republics at Bogota, Colombia, starting Sept. 5.

San Juan, P.R. (AP) — The season's first hurricane, small but violent, roared into the Caribbean Sea today and appeared to be growing in intensity.

Hurricane Abby with winds of 75 m.p.h. whirling around its center eye, was expected to pass about 175 miles south of Cabo Rojo on the southwestern tip of Puerto Rico tonight.

There was little danger to Puerto Rico but as a precautionary measure a hurricane watch was in effect for the Dominican Republic and Haiti further westward. Gale warnings flew along the south coast of Puerto Rico.

Eisenhower Outlines Program To Aid Latin American Neighbors

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — President Eisenhower today outlined a U.S. good-will aid program for Latin American nations, but said Cuba's Castro regime would be included only if it shows willingness to cooperate.

At a news conference at the summer White House, Eisenhower declined to go to any extent into the Cuban crisis. For example, he brushed aside a question about his reaction to a hint by Cuba's President that Cuba might demand the United States abandon its Guantanamo naval base.

The President declared he would wait for such a demand before having any comment.

Eisenhower's only comment on Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's pledge last Saturday of all-out support to the Fidel Castro regime, was that he regarded Khrushchev's remarks as very crude.

The Khrushchev pledge brought from Eisenhower over the weekend a warning that the United States would not tolerate the establishment of a regime in Cuba dominated by international communism.

Eisenhower met with newsmen today after he and Secretary of State Christian A. Herter had conferred for nearly two hours on the Cuban crisis and the new U.S. plan to bolster economic and social standards in Latin American nations.

Eisenhower announced that he has instructed Herter to confer with representatives of these nations. If additional money is needed from Congress to finance the aid program, he will ask for it, Eisenhower said.

In outlining the plan, the President took no specific note of the tense situation regarding Cuba.

In a prepared statement, he did say, however, that Latin America is passing through a social and political transformation, and added that "dictatorships are falling by the wayside."

"Moderate groups, seeking orderly reform, are contesting with dictators of both right and left who favor violence and authoritarianism. Many of the extremists frequently endeavor to introduce dogmas which are inimicable to the traditions of the Western Hemisphere."

"The interests of the United States, now less than those of all the Americas, are directly involved in this struggle, a threat to the security of the hemisphere. It is imperative that institutions be developed and strengthened sufficiently to permit the people's needs to be met through orderly processes of change."

Blake-Bryan Vows Exchanged

WHITEVILLE—A double ring ceremony in the Whiteville Methodist Church on Sunday afternoon, July 10 united in marriage Miss Ann Brewer Bryan and George Collier Blake.

The Rev. P. O. Lee officiated at the ceremony, before a background of palms, white gladioli, and seven branched candelabras bearing burning white cathedral tapers.

Nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Kenneth Dorward of Whiteville, organist, and Mrs. Bobby Paxton of Whiteville, vocalist. Mrs. Paxton sang "Entreat Me Not To Leave Thee," "I Love Thee, Dear," and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length gown of Chantilly lace and bridal satin, designed with a circling neckline edged in seed pearls. The skirt ended with a cathedral train. Her full-length veil was attached to a bandeau of lace and seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of white roses and lilies-of-the-valley.

Miss Mary Bland Josey of Raleigh was maid of honor. She wore a street length dress of mint green silk chiffon over taffeta and a matching headdress with circular veil. Her arm bouquet was of garza daisies and white tulle.

Little Miss Nancy Smith of Whiteville as flower girl wore a dress of white organdy over pink and carried a basket of rose petals.

The bridegroom's father was best man. Ushers were Byron Mills Blake, brother of the bridegroom; John Norman Bryan, III, brother of the bride; Tom B. Collier of Franklin; and A. E. Shaw, III, of Wagram.

The bride's mother wore a street length dress of beige silk linen with beige and green accessories and a purple-throated orchid.

The bridegroom's mother chose a street length dress of blue lace with matching accessories. She wore a white orchid.

Following the ceremony, the bride's parents entertained with a reception at the Hotel Whiteville.

After the guests were introduced to the receiving line they were invited to the bride's table, which was covered with a white organdy cloth over pink satin and center-with silver candelabras bearing burning white tapers interspersed with white net, lilies-of-the-valley, and forget-me-nots.

For a wedding trip to unannounced points the bride wore a blue silk sheath dress with a white hat and accessories and a white orchid.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Bryan Jr., formerly of Greenville and now of Whiteville. She attended East Carolina College and Flora Macdonald College.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Mills Blake of Chadbourn. He attended the University of North Carolina and is now with the N. C. Forestry Service.

The couple will reside in Whiteville.

Card of Thanks

Presbyterian Church Is Setting For Wedding

FARMVILLE—The marriage of Miss Faye McNeill Mewborn, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. John Moses Mewborn, and William Henry White, Jr., son of William Henry White of Sanford and the late Mrs. White, took place Saturday July 2, 1960 in a late afternoon ceremony at the First Presbyterian church.

Views were spoken in a formal, double ring ceremony performed by the Rev. E. S. Coates, pastor of the bride, in a setting of candlelight, white chrysanthemums and pink and white gladioli.

Nuptial music was rendered by Mrs. Jack Allen, of Norfolk, Va., and Elbert C. Holmes, soloists, and Mrs. Russell Britt, organist.

Miss Linda Lee Mewborn was maid of honor and Miss Barbara Rae Mewborn, junior maid of honor, both sisters of the bride. Ann Rutledge Rankin of Sanford, niece of the bridegroom, was flower girl.

Bridesmaids were Misses Phyllis Ann Greer, Mary Miller Ryne and Lois Ann Gallagher of Charleston, S. C., Mrs. George Edgar Sumnerlin, III, of Mt. Olive, and Miss Martha Sue Flanagan. The honor attendants and bridesmaids wore identical dresses of white chiffon organza fashioned with petal pink cummerbund. Their hats were of white lace over pink silk with brims of pink malle. They carried cascade bouquets of mixed garden flowers tied with pink satin ribbon. The flower girl wore a dress of petal pink nylon with a white organdy pinafore. Her cap was made of sweetheart roses and she carried a white basket of rose petals.

The bridegroom's father was best man. Ushers were John Moses Mewborn, Jr., brother of the bride; Beverly Clyde Barksdale, Jr. of High Point, cousin of the bridegroom; William Ferrell Shufford, Jr. of Clinton; Jerry Leon Stewart of Spring Lake; Joseph Franklin Laton and Charles William Tullock of Aberdeen.

The bride entered the church with her father, by whom she was given in marriage. Her bridal gown was of white satin and rose-point lace embroidered with seed pearls. Styled in the princess mode, it had long sleeves with calla points over the wrists and a portrait neckline outlined in lace medallions which extended down the panelled front. The full skirt had lace medallion appliques at each side, and French roses of the satin were clustered at the top of a satin pouf at the back of the waist with folds falling into a chapel train.

Her fingertip veil of illusion fell from a Juliette cap of matching lace and pearls. She carried a nurse's white testament topped with a white orchid and showered with staphanotis and ribbon. Her only ornament was a diamond and pearl heirloom lavalier, worn by brides of the bridegroom's family for generations.

The bride's mother was gowned in champagne pure silk with matching imported lace, a hat of straw net and rosebuds, bronze accessories and a corsage of pink cymbidium orchids.

The bridegroom's aunt, Mrs. Margaret White of Sanford, wore a dress of mauve lace with matching hat and accessories and a corsage of pink cymbidium orchids.

Mrs. White is a graduate of the University of North Carolina School of Nursing and has accepted a position on the nursing faculty there.

The bridegroom is a rising senior in the University of North Carolina School of Medicine. He is a member of the Phi Chi medical fraternity.

The bride's going-away suit was of imported silk-linen in mint green with matching accessories and she wore the white orchid lifted from her bridal bouquet.

Following a bridal trip to southern points, the couple will be at home in Chapel Hill.

The parents of the bride entertained at a reception following the wedding at the D.A.R. chapter house. A color note of pink and white was carried out in floral decorations of the ballroom and the banquet hall of the second floor and in the refreshments.

Sixty guests attended the rehearsal party given by Mr. and Mrs. Sam T. Lewis Jr. and Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Sumnerlin, III of Mt. Olive at the home of the former. The bride-to-be presented her attendants with gifts at this time.

Mr. and Mrs. Cedric Davis were hosts honoring the young couple the evening prior to the rehearsal at a cook-out attended by 25 guests. A set of monogrammed towels was presented the honorees by the hosts.

Buildings Becoming "Wash-and-Use"

Even buildings are becoming "wash-and-use" these days. For instance: New York City's new Solomon R. Guggenheim Memorial Museum has been sprayed with a liquid vinyl coating.

Besides its many protective advantages, this "cocoon" coating permits keeping the museum clean simply by hosing it with sudsy water!

Reception Held Sat.

Members of the cast of the opera "Sister Angelica," the production staff, parents of those taking part, and a number of music lovers, out-of-town and in Greenville were guests at a reception at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Leo W. Jenkins following the opera Saturday evening.

The Jenkins home was decorated throughout with arrangements of roses and various summer flowers.

Mrs. Herbert Carter served punch from the banquet table, covered with a lace cloth and centered with an arrangement of miniature roses.

Guests included A. J. Fletcher, president of Station WRAL in Raleigh, who sponsored the opera workshop this summer, Mrs. David Witherspoon of WRAL, Miss Geraldine Cates of St. Mary's, Mrs. Lamm of Warrenton, Mother of Mrs. Cleveland Bradner who sang one of the leading parts, Mr. Hickfang of Texas, mother of Paul Hickfang, the director, and a number of other out-of-town guests; guests from Greenville included Mr. and Mrs. Charles White, Dr. and Mrs. E. W. Monroe and Mrs. Monroe's parents, Miss Eva Hodges, Mrs. W. H. Tolson, Mrs. Georgia Hearne, mother of Mrs. Allison Moss, who had the leading role, and Mrs. Elizabeth Bocklin.

Garden Wedding Unites Couple

With the setting of a garden wedding, Miss Kathryn Glynn Mazingo became the bride of John Woolard James, III, on Saturday afternoon, July 9, at five o'clock in the yard of the bride's home. Mr. Ray Nichols officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Prior to the ceremony, nuptial music was rendered by Miss Patsy Corey, pianist. Vocalist, Miss Patsy Jones, sang "Sweetest Story Ever Told," "Hawaiian Wedding Song," and "The Lord's Prayer" as the benediction. The traditional processional and recessional were used.

Miss Mazingo, escorted by her father, Mr. Larry G. Mazingo, wore a formal length gown of white chantilly lace and nylon tulle over taffeta. It was fashioned with a long fitted bodice, scalloped sweetheart neckline, and long sleeves of lace ending in calla points over the hands. The voluminous skirt featured scalloped lace side skirts. Her tiny lace bridal hat featured a pleated insert of tulle across the top, enhanced with squibs and pearls. A tiered veil of illusion was attached at the crown and fell to a brush length. She carried a prayer book with a red throat orchid.

Miss Mazingo was attended by Miss Janice Manning of Greenville as her maid-of-honor. Miss Manning wore a lace ice blue sheath underlined with acetate taffeta, outlined in dainty ball-fringe. Her headpiece was a short veil of the same color. Her bouquets was a basket of peppermint carnations with ribbons of red and white which she carried on her arm.

Bridesmaids were Miss Anne Focrite and Miss Judy Woolard. Their dresses were schiffli with flowery embroidery iced on nylon blue sheer. The headbands were tiny hats with covering net. They carried baskets of peppermint carnations accented with ribbons. Mrs. Howard Bullock, sister of the bridegroom, served as the receptionist. Her dress was of blue also with matching accessories and a corsage of peppermint carnations.

Miss Larrie Sue Mazingo, sister of the bride, was flower girl. Wearing a blue nylon dress with lace and ribbon, she carried a basket of rose petals. Her headband was of matching blue.

Master William Howard Cooke, cousin of the bride, was ringbearer.

Dressed in a white coat and dark trousers, he carried the ring on a white, satin and lace covered pillow.

Mr. Thurston James served as best man to the bridegroom. Ushers were William R. Fleming and Gordon Whitehurst.

The bride's mother, Mrs. Larry G. Mazingo, wore a sheath beige dress with green embroidery. Her accessories were of matching colors and a corsage of red roses. Mrs. John W. James, Jr. mother of the bridegroom, chose a navy blue dress with matching accessories and she wore a corsage of red roses also.

Mrs. B. E. Allen of Farmville, maternal grandmother of the bride, wore a beige dress accented by beige accessories.

Mrs. Hubert Mazingo, of Simpson, paternal grandmother of the bride, wore a black and white chiffon dress with matching accessories. Mrs. John W. James, Sr. paternal grandmother of the bridegroom, wore a blue crepe dress with matching accessories.

Before leaving for the wedding trip to unannounced points, Mrs. James changed into a black and white sheath. With that, black and white accessories were worn with the orchid lifted from her prayer book.

Mrs. James is a graduate of the J. H. Rose High School in Greenville. She has been employed as secretary for Worsley and Worsley for the past year.

The bridegroom is a graduate of the Stokes-Pactolus High School in Stokes, and he is presently serving with the U. S. Air Force, now stationed in London, England.

Cake Cutting

Honoring the bridal party and guests at the James-Mazingo wedding, Mr. and Mrs. Larry G. Mazingo entertained at a cake-cutting at the Mazingo residence on Spruce Street in Greenville on Thursday night following the wedding rehearsal.

Mrs. Howard Bullock and Mrs. Larry G. Mazingo greeted the guests and invited them into the living room which was decorated with summer flower throughout.

Guests were invited to the bride's table which was covered with a white tablecloth edged in blue cut-work. The centerpiece was of white mums and gladioli with fern and topped with a bridal set. A three-tiered wedding cake with a miniature bride and groom stood at the end of the table. After the bridal couple had cut the first slice, guests were served cake by Mrs. Mazingo, mother of the bride, Mrs. John W. James, Jr., mother of the bridegroom, poured the punch. Assisting in serving the mints, potato chips and nuts were Miss Judy Moyer, Miss Linda Manning and Mrs. Burney Moyer.

Out-of-Town Guests
The following were out-of-town guests attending the James-Mazingo wedding:

Mr. and Mrs. Thurston James, Washington, D. C.; Mrs. Bobby Andrews and son, Wayne, Washington N. C.; Mrs. Alice James Teele, Richmond, Va.; Mr. and Mrs. William R. Cooke, and daughter, Linda, of Thomasville; Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Allen, Mrs. Lloyd Crawford, Farmville; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hardee, Ayden; Mrs. H. M. Bowen, Willow Green; Mrs. Joe Beverly, Mrs. Lansing Allen, Mrs. H. C. Allen, Kinston; Mrs. Edward L. Allen, and daughter, Rose Marie, Ann and Donna Lynn of Raleigh; Clayton Barnhill, Mirk Briley, Mr. and Mrs. Dean Roebuck, Stokes; Mrs. Hubert Mazingo, Simpson; Mrs. William F. Tyson, Mrs. J. W. James, Sr. and Mrs. Mayo J. Rogers, also of Stokes, attended.

Holbert - Harris Are Married

Mrs. Richard Moore Holbert

The marriage of Lela Gray Harris and Richard Moore Holbert was solemnized Sunday, July 3, at half after four in the afternoon in a double-ring ceremony at Mt. Pleasant Christian Church. The Rev. Homer Styons, pastor of the church, officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Linwood Harris of Rt. 6, Greenville. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Ella Holbert of Greenville and the late Mr. Holbert.

The vows were heard amidst a setting of bridal greenery interspersed with lighted tapers in seven-branched and spiral candelabra with baskets of white gladioli and chrysanthemums. In the center was a cross, under which the couple knelt on a white kneeling bench for the benediction.

Prior to the ceremony, Mrs. Randolph Fleming, organist, rendered nuptial selections including "O Perfect Love" by Barnby, "Traumer-Romance" by Schumann, "Viennese Refrain" by Frey, "Poem" by Fibich and a selection by Schubert. William Clifton, vocalist, sang "The Sweetest Story Ever Told," "O Promise Me" and "The Wedding Prayer" as the benediction. "Libestraum" by Liszt was played during the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a wedding gown of Chantilly lace with a fitted bodice, fashioned with long sleeves and a Sabrina neckline, accented with seed pearls and tridescant sequins. The voluminous six-tiered skirt of lace over tulle extended to form a chapel train. Her fingertip, three-tiered veil of illusion was attached to a tiara of seeded pearls and she wore a string of perfect matched pearls, a gift from the bridegroom. She carried a white Bible topped with white roses and showered with bridal ribbons and tube roses.

Mrs. Daniel Iadarola of New York, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a dress of lake blue embroidered silk organza over taffeta, and carried a nosegay of blue carnations and pom poms with matching ribbon. The neckline of her dress was fashioned after the bride's gown. Her headpiece was a tiara of studded pearls with a circular veil.

The bridesmaids were Mrs. Willis Stancl and Miss Carolyn Ann Harris of Greenville, sisters of the bride; Miss Nina L. Perkins of Fayetteville and Stokes, and Mrs. Waymon B. Cooke of Monroe. They wore identical dresses of lake blue silk organza, over taffeta, fashioned after the matron of honor's dress, with matching cummerbunds of embroidered organza. They wore bridal caps with circular veils attached and carried nosegays of blue carnations and pom poms with matching ribbons.

The bride's mother wore a sheath dress of beige imported silk with matching accessories and a corsage of yellow roses.

The bridegroom's mother wore a sheath dress of Electric blue lace with blue and white accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

Following the rehearsal Saturday night, Mesdames Linwood, Norman and William Harris entertained the wedding party at the Mount Pleasant Community Building. The table was covered with a lace cloth over white with a centerpiece of blue hydrangeas flanked with greenery and candles in crystal candelabra. Little wedding cakes, nuts, open-faced sandwiches and punch were served.

first piece, Mrs. Iadarola served the wedding cake. Mrs. C. H. Hagan served coffee from an appointed table.

Rehearsal Party

Ushers were Fred Nobles and Howard King of Greenville and James William Harris of Greenville and Norman R. Harris of Greenville and Morehead City brothers of the bride.

Mrs. Holbert is a graduate of East Carolina College and joined the college staff in June.

Mr. Holbert is an undergraduate of East Carolina College and is presently employed at Wachovia Bank and Trust Co. of Greenville. For travel, the bride selected a navy blue shantung sheath dress with white accessories and the white rose corsage lifted from her Bible.

After a short wedding trip, the couple will make their home in Greenville.

Reception

Immediately following the ceremony, there was a reception given by Mrs. Daniel Iadarola, sister of the bride, at the home of the bride's parents. The guests were greeted at the door by the bride's parents and were invited into the den where a buffet dinner was served. The table was covered with a white linen cloth with a centerpiece of blue hydrangeas and candles in crystal candelabra. Ham, chicken potato salad, chicken salad, stuffed celery, pickles and rolls were served. Mrs. Charlie Harris poured lemonade from an appointed table.

The guests were invited into the dining room. The table, covered with a white lace cloth over white, featured a three-tiered wedding cake, decorated with blue and white wedding bells topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom. After the bridal couple cut the

Improvements Need Voter-Support

Greenville's progress in the next few years—so far as capital outlays for permanent improvements are concerned—will depend upon the outcome of a $550,000 bond election set by the City Council for September 27.

All of the many items included in the proposed bond issue are obviously needed by the city. Furthermore, the financial position of the municipal government puts Greenville in a favorable situation to finance these needs through the proposed bond issue without an undue tax burden on local citizens.

We urge local citizens to consider carefully the items included in the bond issue in the time between now and the date set for the referendum. If they do, we are confident they will on September 27 signify their approval of the bond issue by an affirmative vote at the polls.

Largest of the nine individual items which make up the bond proposal is $343,000 earmarked for street improvements. This includes funds for reconstruction of Elm Street between Tenth and the 264 by-pass and funds for sidewalks in the vicinity of various schools of the city. It also includes funds that could lead to the eventual paving of all the dirt streets of the city, thus eliminating a considerable portion of the city's annual street maintenance expense.

A total of $59,000 in two other items is earmarked for improvement of library facilities of the city. One item designates $45,000 for construction of a new Negro library to replace the inadequate facility now in use. The other provides $14,000 for improvements to Shappard Memorial Library.

Other capital outlays which depend upon approval of the bond issue include a fire department substation in the eastern section of the city which must be had if local fire insurance rates are not to be increased; funds for constructing a bridge on Elm Street; capital outlay funds for the Street Department, Fire Department, City Hall improvements, for the acquisition of motor vehicles for various city departments and other miscellaneous items.

The bond issue covers a broad field of improvements urgently needed by the city. They are improvements which should be made and improvements which should have the support of local citizens.

Kennedy's Supporters Aim At Early Victory

As the Democratic National Convention opens officially in Los Angeles today Sen. John Kennedy appears the odds-on favorite for the party's presidential nomination. He may not have the nomination in the bag at the moment, but there is little question that his first ballot strength will be considerably above that of any of his opponents.

If the Kennedy bandwagon continues to roll as it has the last 48 hours, it may well be that by Wednesday when the balloting begins he will have a comfortable majority of the delegate votes on the first ballot.

The question no longer is who will get the nomination, but rather what can happen to keep Kennedy from getting the nomination.

Two distinct changes have taken place in the heated battle for the Democratic nomination during the past week. A week ago, Kennedy supporters were making claims of a first ballot victory for their man. At mid-week their propaganda tactics were altered and the emphasis was placed on the ability of Kennedy to hold his pledged support through many ballots if necessary until he secured the nomination.

With the rapid series of events in Los Angeles since Saturday, Kennedy supporters are again pushing the bandwagon for all it's worth, apparently confident of the first ballot victory and seeking as many previously uncommitted delegates as possible to hop on for the ride.

Kennedy's stock in Los Angeles has gone up considerably with the announcement by some of the favorite son candidates that they were throwing their support to the young senator from Massachusetts. This assured Kennedy of a larger number of first ballot votes. Whether by Wednesday he will have enough to win the nomination on the first or second ballot remains a question that will be answered only when the votes are cast.

Any headway which may have been made by delegations by Senate Majority Leader Lyndon Johnson, Sen. Stuart Symington and Adlai Stevenson has been largely overshadowed by the Kennedy conversions.

Certainly Johnson, perhaps the most astute political strategist in the nation, cannot be counted out of the running in spite of the apparent Kennedy strength. While he has made no first ballot victory claims, he does have solid support that can be expected to stick with him. In his camp are some of the most capable and influential politicians in the party, and if Sen. Kennedy should fail to win on the first or second ballot, some of the bandwagon riders may become disillusioned. In such an event, the Johnson strategy could pay off handsomely and perhaps bring about a shift in the tide.

While signs in Los Angeles bespeak growing Kennedy strength, his best chance for the nomination will be on the first or second ballot. If he hasn't made it by then, he may begin to lose strength as another bandwagon begins to roll.

We get the impression that such a view is shared by top Kennedy supporters, and thus accounts for the big push being made for first-ballot votes for their candidates.

'Healthy' Or Tragic Friction

By LYNN NISBET

INTEREST — Two men were talking about the Siler City school squabble airing before the State Board of Education. One thought it tragic that a community should be divided on school policies. The other thought it a healthy condition, demonstrating lively concern and interest in improving the schools.

The friction in Siler City was over the failure of the Chatham county board of education to continue employment of a high school principal. A very similar situation developed at Mount Olive in Wayne county a few weeks ago. Several incidents involving principals, teachers and athletic coaches have flared in other communities.

These controversies usually start with honest difference of opinion about the qualifications of the persons or the soundness of policies. Too often they grow into personal feuds with bitter feelings, even violence. The earliest stages indicate sincere interest in schools. The later stages frequently ignore school welfare; or, what is worse, places good people in position of being willing to destroy the school in order to maintain a pet idea or "vindicate" a friend.

So it may be that both men quoted were right. The interest is fine, the bitterness is bad. That the citizens of North Carolina are deeply interested in public schools was proven during the recent primary. The fate of the schools was a paramount issue in the gubernatorial race. More significant was the fact that in many counties positions on the board of education were the most hotly contested. And in that field the primary vote is advisory only, the official appointments being made by the General Assembly.

The Greensboro editorial comments Sanford for professional skill in carrying news conference questions, and says: "So North Carolina's Democratic Governor-nominate played it coolly, coolly and professionally. He goes to Los Angeles as vice chairman of his state's delegation but with an influence and force which only an incoming Governor has, prepared to make the most of the convention situation as it shapes up. A facet of what many have termed "a new day" in North Carolina politics may well be reflected in its recognized personification by an expressed determination that North Carolina's vote not be "cast down a rathole" as it has been in the past."

A glance at the tax bills rendered citizens in most of the counties, certainly the larger units, will show that from 60 percent to 80 percent of the locally levied ad valorem taxes go for schools. In many instances the local money, counting capital investment, supplemental salaries and extra personnel, is as much as the State spends in the county. There is more justification now for larger share of local control.

It has been said that inasmuch as the General Assembly elects trustees of the University, it is appropriate for it to elect public school boards. That is sound theory, but is utterly ignored in practice. Long standing custom has been to let the one legislator — or at most five members — from the county make the appointment. "Legislative courtesy" requires the other members to go along — unless the county happens to be represented by a Republican. The preponderantly Democratic membership has approved a number of Republican county board members, but that is considered a generous gesture, not in any sense a right to be exercised by the Republican. It also is true that the local school feuds seldom stem from partisan politics. They are based in personal differences.

Productivity Of Individuals 'Up'

By RALPH ROBEY

For many, many years the Bureau of Labor Statistics of the Department of Labor has been attempting to measure productivity or output per man-hour. It just announced its compilation for 1959, which revealed an increase of over 4 percent as compared with 1958. Actually the figures are 4.2 to 4.4 percent. This variation is the result of using two sets of employment data — establishment reports of payroll hours and labor force reports of individuals. This is worth noting because it gives one example of how difficult it is to get any figure that is worth printing. The Bureau is most conscious of these difficulties and also that the figures constantly are misused and have misleading conclusions read into them. But there is nothing the Bureau can do either to prevent this misuse or the misinterpretation.

Even granting the limited value of the figures there are some things that need to be said about them:

First, it is customary for output per man-hour to rise substantially after a recession. Various factors contribute to this, such as management adding employees only as they clearly are needed — the poor producers having been eliminated during the business downturn — and the introduction of all possible cost-saving processes and devices as volume rises. A 4 percent-plus rise in 1959, therefore, does not give even an indication of what will or may happen in 1960.

Second, a year-to-year change in productivity is never significant. Rather, only the long-term trend is indicative of what really is happening in the economic system; and the longer the period covered, the better are the results because in the longer period some of the inevitable errors may be offset. For the entire postwar period 1947-1959 the annual increase was between 3.1 and 3.4 percent, according to the Bureau depending upon which series of manhours is used. Considering that during this period there were three recessions, this is a rather remarkable showing, but the period is still too short to warrant hard and fast conclusions.

Third, the rate of growth varies widely from one section of the economic system to another. For example, during 1960 agriculture showed practically no improvement in output per manhour, but for the entire postwar period the annual increase was 6 percent. The Bureau has not published the rate by industries, but that unquestionably would reveal quite enormous variations; and the same would be true if we had data on individual companies.

Fourth, the figure does not represent merely the contribution of labor. As the bureau puts it in its release, the figure measures "the combined effect of a number of interrelated influences, such as skills of workers, managerial skill, changes in technology, capital investment per worker, utilization of capacity, layout and flow of materials, and labor-management relations."

The Art Of A Politician

Copyright, 1960, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Politics is the art of controlling people. In a democracy, the people can vote the politicians out of existence; in an autocratic or totalitarian form of government, the people can resort to revolution. In either instance, the people are led by quires a different idiom and a different gesture, but the art of manipulation is always the same. Stalin, for instance, had it easy because he could kill his opponents; Richard Croker deprived his opponents of a livelihood; the Vare brothers of Philadelphia drove men from public life. Their techniques were coarse as compared to Khrushchev's, the play-actor, who achieved so much by public relations. His techniques are mindful of those of Fiorello La Guardia who had so many different authentic sides that one hardly knew which was the real man — "The Little Flower" who read funnies to children over the radio, or "Butch" the tough ward-heeler fighting his way up in East Harlem.

Franklin D. Roosevelt was undoubtedly the most able exponent of the art of politics in our time, because he could manipulate the most irreconcilable persons and groups — the Republican Stimson and the Communist Browder; the idealistic Tugwell and the pedantic Ed Flynn; the Democrat, Jim Farley, and the Socialist, Sidney Hillman. One can go on listing Roosevelt's complexes, but the fact is that while he left few friends who worship him as Herbert Hoover continues to have, important elements among the masses adore his memory. His mark was upon the populace not upon the intimate. Those who knew him least loved him most.

From this description of Roosevelt's personality, one can draw the conclusion that the smart politician is one who walks on both sides of the street. It has never been true. A competent, effective, successful politician always takes his stand.

The reason that the businessman nearly always falls in politics is that he attempts to be cute. He believes that the customer is always right and he will sell the customer both white and pink soap if necessary. He molds himself to the customer's taste. Thomas E. Dewey depended upon polls to a greater extent than any other politician and he was defeated; Harry Truman depended upon his own sensibilities and he is still a factor in politics. Wendell Willkie wanted the support of the National Association of Manufacturers and of the Wilkie clubs which were New Dealish Republicans. Nelson Rockefeller has maintained a staff of all kinds of experts to tell him what to say.

Politicians must take a stand but they are flexible because they deal with the same emotionalism that requires a woman to wear her skirt one inch above or below the knee, depending on the year. But the woman does not change. The politician can turn on a dime, but he does not move from his position. The better he can accomplish this feat, the longer he lasts.

I have been in the business of watching politicians man and boy for more than half a century. I knew Tim Sullivan, Leon Trotzky, Sun Yat-sen, Baron Shidehara — to mention only a few very skillful manipulators of men. One of the brightest politicians of my experience was Mike Borodin, a Chicago lawyer, whom Karl Radek selected to become the dictator of China with Chiang Kai-shek as his pawn. Borodin was brilliant in a strange country among a very strange group of peoples.

The word, principle, is generally confused with the word, purpose. We say that Carmine DeSapio is without principle but that Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt has principle. What we really mean, in politics, when we say that is that each has a purpose and that their purposes are different. If, for instance, you want to test that to write down what you believe are the principles which guide Carmine DeSapio and Eleanor Roosevelt. No matter how different their purposes are, their principles will turn out to be the same — and very thin ones at that.

The politician who is all things to all men fails. Franklin D. Roosevelt was not all things to all men. His art was that he manipulated varieties of men to accept Roosevelt. Perhaps that too was the gift of Dr. Samuel Johnson who could not write as entertainingly as Boswell or paint at all like Reynolds or be a poet like Goldsmith — but all men sat at his feet.

Public Forum

To The Editor:

There are any number of excellent reasons why a person could, in good conscience, favor the candidacies of Senators Kennedy or Johnson or any other good Democrat of national stature for the presidential nomination.

There is another reason which should be among the last to enter into any consideration of a choice for president. That reason was the one emphasized by gubernatorial nominee Terry Sanford at his much-heralded press conference at which he was to have named his choice.

Mr. Sanford did not get around to naming his choice, but according to the press, "he said he thought North Carolina would benefit more by going with the winner from the first. He (Mr. Sanford) saw such an outlook as practical politics."

I hope that this is not going to be Mr. Sanford's philosophy as governor when he considers the desires of the 35 counties (including Pitt) which gave majorities to I. Beverly Lake. Or when he considers the desires of the 75 to 90 thousand bloc voters to whom he owes his nomination. It is to be hoped that decisions will be made on the merits of a question, not on "going with the winner."

State Senator Spencer Bell, one of Mr. Sanford's chief lieutenants, is reported in the press as indicating that North Carolina must change its outlook on political and social matters to be more in conformity with those who bestow the political favors. The inference to me is that political and social principle might well be sacrificed for material political gain. I take it that this would involve no sacrifice for Senator Bell.

The glorious "new day" is dawning! Let's all relax and "go forward" to our reconstruction.

Sincerely yours,
Allen Taylor, M.D.

Reading maketh a full man; conference a ready man, and writing an exact man. And therefore if a man write little he need have a great memory; if he confer little he had need of a present wit; and if he read little, he need have much cunning, to seem to know that he doth not." — Francis Bacon.

More 'Free Riding' Of Phones

By ELMER ROESSNER

There appears to be a considerable rise in free rides on phone company facilities. These consist largely of using the telephone bell signal for various purposes.

At a station I know, there are usually lines of male commuters waiting to use phones. Sometimes these callers make serious conversations. But most of them step into the booth, put a coin in a slot, dial a number, count the ringing sounds and, at a certain point hang up and get their coin back.

This is what happened: The wife knows that some time between 5:30 and 6:15, the phone will ring. If it rings three times and stops, papa is at the station waiting to be picked up in the car. If it rings five times and stops, it has brought someone from the office for dinner.

And so on along the line of phoners: most called up and, after a certain number of rings, hung up. The number of rings jinked out a message. One man I know does it from his office. He calls his wife exactly at 4-45. Three rings means he will be home on the 5:29. Six rings, he'll stay downtown.

ONLY FOR FRIENDS

The late, great Peggy Hopkins Joyce had a private telephone in her suite in the Hotel Delmonico in New York. If the phone rang twice, then stopped, she did not answer.

Only her relatives, lawyer, doctor and preferred admirers knew this code. Those without it could call in vain.

There are other variations. A boy friend may call someone and hang up after one ring; call again and hang up after four rings; call again and hang up after three. Obviously, this spells out "I love you."

There is another variation: A company executive in New York has a colored phone on his desk with an unlisted number. The office rule is that no one but he may pick up the phone if it rings. The reason: Only his California office knows the number; it can therefore make person-to-person calls at station-to-station rates.

MAKE 'EM ANGRY

All this infuriates telephone companies and AT & T stockholders. It involves the use of expensive facilities without paying full tolls. Furthermore, the lost income represents almost pure profit.

Phone companies say that the ringing around is not the actual sound of distant bells; that it is a recorded sound only roughly approximating the bell signal. They warn that the inadvertent dialing of a wrong number may lead to misunderstandings; that Mrs. Ferencz, hearing two rings, may dash to the station to find only Mr. Roessner.

They say that women who do not answer phones because they think the ring is part of their code may miss other important calls. And they say that in some states that such trickery is a technical violation of the law, although I know of no woman in a pokey today for failing to answer a phone.

Reasons for the rise in this telephone misbehavior are not hard to find. Many people resent the rise in phone rates. Pay station rates have doubled in

Future Jobs Of Grads

By ROGER BASSON

BABSON PARK, MASS.—Now that graduates from high schools and colleges are looking for jobs, may I devote this week's column to a discussion thereof? Let me start by saying that the first step is to analyze oneself and ascertain the line of work for which one is best fitted.

Five Different Pathways

Most of today's graduates have come to a "parting of the roads" and are faced with five different paths which they may follow. (1) The professions. If you feel you are best suited to be a doctor, dentist, lawyer, teacher, or minister, you must go back to a college which specializes in one of these professions. I sometimes think there are enough lawyers in the country, but certainly the other groups are rendering a needed service and are being amply rewarded.

(2) Engineering and Building. There are many opportunities in this line provided you work in a progressive and growing community. (3) Manufacturing. This is the line of work which will probably confine you to spending your life with one or more large companies. If you like people and are not ambitious to be your own boss, it is well to get connected with a large manufacturing company. You, however, must be willing to work where you are sent and to obey orders. (4) Agriculture. At one time this meant working on a farm, but it is not so any longer. The reason is that raising both crops and livestock has become an intricate business. Those loving such work could take an additional course at an agricultural college. Every state has such a college with low tuition.

(5) Selling and Advertising. If you want to sit in an office and dictate to a blonde, you should not take up selling — not even selling advertising. If, however, you are willing to wear out shoe leather, ring door bells, and fight for business, selling offers you a great opportunity.

Salesmen have never needed a labor union in order to get higher wages or commissions. A salesman can always get well paid, according as he produces. I know a salesman who earned more money than any one who had gone into the first four of the above mentioned lines of work. A salesman must be willing to start at an average wage; but "the sky is the limit," if he will produce. This especially applies to those who secure a position with high-grade banking houses and are able to help float important underwritings.

Another thing, all of those who choose one of the first four lines of work listed above are dependent upon the selling of their products or services. This is especially true of construction, manufacturing, and agriculture. The customer must be "sold" if he is to buy houses, merchandise, or even farm products. Truly, "the harvest is great." Although the good salesmen are few, the national problem of employment adds in fact the prosperity of the nation are dependent not on the Administration or the Congressmen and Senators in Washington, but rather upon the salesmen of the nation; they control its economic destiny. Some will wonder why I did not make a special sixth division for Banking, but the successful bankers must be excellent salesmen.

When climbing a ladder, use the first rung, and climb slowly upward. Do not try to start where your parents leave off. The fun of life is in the striving, rather than in the arriving. Present starting wages in all the above five groups are good at the present time; but sometime there will be a day of reckoning. "Trees do not grow to the sky" and prosperity does not continue forever.

I opened this week's message by referring to graduates who are meeting a "parting of the road." It may not be long, I fear, before these five paths may converge again into a temporary period of readjustment and unemployment. Then the travelers of all these pathways will be competing with one another, and surely with the hardworking, intelligent, people of Europe.

Opera Company Will Repeat Its Program

Last Saturday's performance of Puccini's SISTER ANGELICA by the East Carolina College Opera Theatre was one of the smoothest and most artistic pieces that we have ever seen on the stage at McGinnis Auditorium.

The thrillingly beautiful voice of Allison Moss, playing the title role, dominated the scene throughout the highly-charged and emotional unfolding of the story, and she was truly magnificent at its climactic conclusion, in which she sees a vision of her dead son — played by her own son, little Reynolds Moss — consoling her dying moments.

Dramatically and musically the opera showed a professional finish and a surety rare on a college stage. Every detail was rehearsed to perfection so that the audience could share completely in Sister Angelica's tragic history. The singing, acting and scenery combined to achieve the effect of real opera at its best. The accompaniment — Gerald Powell at the piano and Robert Hesse at the organ — also blended perfectly with the singing voices.

Particularly effective in supporting roles were Martha Bradner as Sister Angelica's coldly cruel aunt, Jessamine Hiatt in the dual roles of the Abbess and the Monitor, and Jeanne Peterson as Sister Genevieve. All of the sisters, in their white, picturesque costumes, did beautifully in supplying the colorful, sombre background of the convent to which Sister Angelica had been banished for her mysterious crime.

Before the main attraction Musical Director Paul Hickfang, Jeanne Peterson and James Piver presented a concert version of two scenes from Gounod's FAUST, which also showed finish and artistry of a high order.

Greenevillians who missed Saturday's program will have an opportunity to see and listen again in the fall. The ECC Opera Theatre will give repeat performances on Saturday and Sunday, September 23 and 24, and music lovers can look forward to a real operatic treat.

A total of 18,594 miles were traveled by Greenville police in the performance of their duties during June, according to a report by Police Chief S. G. Gibbs.

There were 203 cases known to the local department during the month and 152 arrests made. A total of 238 complaints were recorded for the month, Gibbs said.

Gibbs added that 39 cases were recorded for other authorities while 43 arrests were made for others.

Twenty-three arrests were made for drunkenness during June while 83 arrests were made which involved a violation of motor vehicle and driving laws.

The majority of the motor vehicle laws involved improper registration of license. Twenty-four were charged with an infraction of these laws. Speeding ranked second with 15 while non observance of traffic lights or sign placed third with a total of 12.

L. D. Page, Clerk of the Greenville Recorder's Court, reported that of the 196 cases for the month of June, 158 convictions of guilty pleas were recorded while 22 acquittals were handed down.

Two cases were continued while five were not pressed. Four were bound over to Superior Court, four were called and failed to appear and one forfeited bond.

Schools Offer Natural Battleground To Fight Children's Mental Illness

By DON SEAVER
Charlotte Observer Staff Writer
Written for The Associated Press

CHARLOTTE (AP)—In discussing childhood mental illness—wherever you go, whoever you talk to—a finger is pointed at the public schools.

Here is the most natural battleground for detection and prevention of much mental illness not only among children but among all people.

These children grow up. An ounce of prevention now may eliminate the need for a pound of cure later on.

"There are many, many youngsters in our school systems not achieving to levels expected with their particular IQs because of emotional disturbances," says Dr. H. J. Harris, head of the Chapel Hill Child Psychiatry Clinic.

These reading and other learning problems appear to be increasing all across the nation.

"This type of youngster is flooding child psychiatry and guidance clinics all over the country," Dr. Harris says. "We know more about what to do about these youngsters than about the cause."

Mostly, they can be treated at clinics on an out-patient basis if the facilities are available. Too often, they are not.

Dr. Marshall L. Fisher, head of the Charlotte Mental Health Center, says that one-half of the cases in his clinic come from the public schools.

In North Carolina last year, of the more than 4,300 persons seen in 11 mental health clinics, three out of five were under 18 years of age.

The Charlotte clinic received one new case per school day per year from among school age children in Mecklenburg County.

Dr. Fisher has asked for a clinic team—composed of a psychiatrist, a clinical psychologist and a psychiatric social worker—to work fulltime with the public schools.

North Carolina's special education program provides special classes for retarded children — those with IQs below 75. It provides nothing for the emotionally disturbed child.

The few classes that are provided for these children operate on a shoe string at the local level.

Dr. W. C. Rippey, head of the psychiatric children's unit at Butner, considers school counselors and special education classes one of the four basic "musts" for North Carolina's mentally ill children.

David S. Baumstein, program consultant for the National Organization for Mentally Ill Children, sees these special education classes primarily as a system to keep children from needing treatment

Bing Takes A Negative View About Retirement

EDITOR'S NOTE — AP TV-Writer Cynthia Lowry is on vacation. In her absence, noted television and entertainment personalities are pinch-hitting. First at bat is none other than durable Bing Crosby, with some reflections on durability.

By BING CROSBY

Written for The Associated Press

Comes now my seasonal seminar on the subject of retirement. I've given it considerable thought — in a negative sort of way.

My stand is that a fellow shouldn't go into voluntary retirement while his golf game is up to par, and he is genuinely enjoying the kind of work he is cut out for.

Golf was not invented as a game for desiccated old duffers who are trying to duck the boredom of counting their money and hoping to escape the social fluff invented by their wives.

Let's think about that categorically: My golf game isn't too bad. I let the government count my money. I'm having a ball performing my none-too-strenuous professional chores. And Kathy has no truck with social chaff.

This brings me to the subject of Bob Hope, the fellow who refers to me as the "crow of the crooners." Why he works so hard, I'll never know. He's really loaded, but he works even to the exclusion of his golf which is a game I know he loves with all his heart. But he works day and night. He would do anything, fly anywhere to pick up a plaque.

It's better to do an odd job here and there — as the spirit moves you. The ABC spirits only move me to do two of their specials a year, and I take the jobs out at Twentieth Century-Fox when they don't interfere with my time with my family, my fishing and golf. Why, I can have a romp with the children after their morning feeding and be ensconced in the barber chair of the Fox make-up department in five minutes flat.

We've got "High Time" all wrapped up now and, from what I've seen of the rough cut, we may have a winner.

The ABC TV studios are a bit further down the road from my home, but I can tend to my recording chores enroute and pick up some fishing gear at the same time.

My next special for the network is set for October 5, and there isn't much I can tell you about it at this point except that I'll have three of my boys for a return engagement. They did right well on their last outing.

Come to think of it: These lads have been piling up so many bookings of late, they might begin to give some serious thought to their retirement. Dad will be only too happy to keep on working.

End Advance for PMs of Mon July 11.

Boy Survives In Crash Of Plane

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP)—An 11-year-old boy survived a crash of a small plane and then, seriously injured, walked over five miles for aid.

Killed in the crash were Mrs. R. C. Sasser, mother of Randy Sasser, and R. H. Myles, 37, pilot of the plane. All were from Waycross, Ga. The single engine Comanche crashed Sunday night atop Mt. Actna, about eight miles southwest of here. Tennessee highway patrolmen said the man and woman were thrown from the plane. Wreckage was spread over some 50 square feet.

Randy, seriously injured after being thrown from the plane, staggered through heavy underbrush to a dirt road and down the mountain to the home of Xen Austin. After he told his story he was taken to a Chattanooga hospital where he was listed in fair condition with lacerations, abrasions and a possible broken leg.

A. B. Cochran, airport manager at Waycross, said Myles filed a flight plan Wednesday saying he was going to Chicago and back alone. The plane was returning from Chicago at the time of the crash—during a thunderstorm that dumped an inch of rain on some areas and bore wind gusts up to 51 miles an hour.

Police in Waycross said Mrs. Sasser and her husband were separated.

Glamor Capital Is Adding To Big Show

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—It's only a dozen miles from Hollywood to the site of the Democratic National Convention. So naturally, the big show will take on some trappings of the glamor capital.

It's not like the old days, when Hollywood was virtually an FDR camp. Like many wealthy and fairly settled towns, Hollywood now leans toward the Republicans. But there are still enough Democratic stars to give the convention a glittering look.

Tonight's opening session will see a star-spangled choral singing the national anthem on TV. Among the chorists: Ralph Bellamy, Nat King Cole, Tony Curtis, George Jessel, Peter Lawford, Shirley MacLaine, Lee Marvin, Sherree North, Vincent Price, Barbara Rush, Frank Sinatra, Sammy Davis Jr., Shelley Winters and Jan Sterling.

The man who corralled the talent and prepared the entertainment is veteran screen writer Allen Rivkin, director of the Democrats' Art Council. He explained: "We're not going to give the delegates a lot of entertainment at the Sports Arena. They're here for business; they can get entertainment elsewhere. The main thing we provide is a musical frame for the sessions. We'll have the national anthem at the beginning and at the end, too, following some spirituals. I've seen the English sing their anthem at the beginning and close of their public events and it's a good system."

Helping to complete the frame will be the 35-piece brass band that also plays for the Los Angeles Rams, plus Gaylord Carter at the mighty organ. They'll no doubt be belaboring TV and radio listeners with the convention's official 1960 tune, "Walkin' Down to Washington." Described by Demo musical Director Johnny Green as a "wower," it goes: "I'm walkin' down to Washington."

"To shake hands with any good Democrat."

"Like we used to do!"

"Hosannah! Hosannah! . . ."

A llano is a flat, treeless plain. Also there is a town in Texas named Llano.

Accident Victim Impaled 3 Hours On Tree Limbs

SONORA, Calif. (AP)—Howard A. Davidson was in fair condition here today after spending three hours impaled on a tree after his truck went off a canyon road and into the Tuolumne River Sunday.

Davidson, 37, of San Carlos, was returning from a Sierra excursion with Mrs. Avis Watson, 31-year-old divorcee and her two-year-old son, Michael, when his truck went over the 300-foot embankment.

The little boy was thrown to the bottom of the canyon and died instantly.

Davidson was thrown out half way down and tree limbs pierced his upper chest and lower abdomen. His feet touched the ground but he could not move. Rescuers had to saw away part of the tree to free him.

Mrs. Watson was trapped in the cab of the truck, which plunged into the river. Mark Lippert, a Modesto motorcyclist who saw the accident, got to her in time and held her head above the water until rescuers arrived. She is in fair condition.

Chimp Changed Baby's Diaper

TACOMA (AP)—A female chimpanzee, trained to change a baby's diapers, seized a six-month-old girl from her stroller Sunday and refused for 20 minutes to surrender the infant.

Little Marcia Lynn Ebert was returned unharmed to her mother, Mrs. Frederik Ebert, after the chimp had completed a diaper change under surveillance of a state patrolman and store officials.

The incident occurred in a Tacoma department store which keeps the chimp for publicity purposes and lets it circulate among the customers on a leash.

The animal, whose name is April, is 4 1/2 years old.

Edgar Allan Poe was taken by his parents from his studies at the University of Virginia because of huge gambling debts, and assigned to work in a counting house.

Recognized It As A Snakebite

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—A Houston policeman was credited by a doctor with saving a young girl's life because he recognized punctures on her hand as a snake bite.

Pamela Jolen Walker, 6, became ill and swollen Sunday about an hour after she told her parents she cut her hand on a piece of glass.

Patrolman A. B. Cooley, 28, was cruising in the neighborhood when the girl's father, Wayne D. Walker, hailed him. The officer saw the punctures and escorted the family to a hospital.

"It was the most advanced case of snake bite I've ever seen," a doctor said. "A few more minutes and it would have been too late."

The girl responded to serum and appeared to be out of danger.

is upon which to determine wages.

Finally, there is a vast difference between the increase in output per manhour and the growth rate in gross national product, which, it will be recalled, is the monetary value of all the goods and services produced in the nation. An increase in output per manhour is only one of innumerable elements entering and determining the gross national product.

These comments may give the impression that it would be better if we simply stopped trying to measure productivity. That is far from true. We need the figure, and it will be calculated in any event. The need is to stop reading more in the calculation than is warranted.

National League Favored In First All-Star Game

Harold Thomas Top Pro In Smithfield Tourney

SMITHFIELD, N. C. (AP) — Harold Thomas of Greenville is the top pro winner in the annual Smithfield Invitational pro-amateur tournament.

Thomas won a playoff Sunday with former winner Al Goodrich of Goldsboro and Chuck Alexander of Rocky Mount. The three were deadlocked at 139 at the end of the two-day tourney.

The event sponsored by the Smithfield Chamber of Commerce carried $2,500 in prize money for winners.

Palmer Laughridge of Wilson won another playoff in the club champion medal play. Frank Chernega of Raleigh and Donnie Hedrick of Lexington tied for second.

Al Smith of Danville and Wright Garrett, with 130, won the pro club champion division. Gene Hamm of Raleigh and Dr. Walton Kitchin of Clinton, with 127, won the pro-am best ball division.

Thomas, the Greenville pro, won the medal play tournament with a par on the first hole. Goodrich and Alexander had bad shots from the tee and were three in reaching the green.

Hitting a shot that had a slight hook, Thomas was down the middle from the tee. He used an eight iron to reach the green and fall within six feet of the pin on his second shot.

Needing only par to win, Thomas played it safe on his putt and was just inches short of a birdie. He made his next putt to take first prize in the Smithfield event.

Thomas had scores of 71-68 for a total 139—five under par.

Ercel Webb played in the pro-am and came away with a Smithfield Ham.

Kilpartick Wins In Table Tennis Play

Norman Kilpartick of Greenville crushed Jack Carr of Hampton, Va. to win the men's singles division of the East Carolina College Union Invitational Table Tennis Tournament, held July 9 at East Carolina.

Kilpartick won out 22-20, 21-14, and 10-1 over the Virginia racket expert. In the first game Carr's spin defense and powerful backhand and forehand drives gave him a 17-15 lead over the local player, only to have Kilpartick's spin serves and forehand drives tie the game at 20-20 and finally win 22-20. From that point on the 1960 Greenville and North Carolina state champion took control of the match and won the second game easily.

In the men's doubles event Kilpartick and Preston combined forces to hit their way to the title without the loss of a game. The finals saw Kilpartick-Preston facing Nelson Tugwell and Charles Holliday of East Carolina. The top seeded pair finally won out over the E.C. duo 21-14, 21-19, 21-17.

Defending junior champion Michael Burke, of Norfolk, had to pull out all stops to keep his title, as the determined play of William Stancill of Greenville provided the spectators with the most tense match of the tourney, and almost its biggest upset.

Burke finally defeated Stancill with his great chop defense, from 6-12 feet back of the table, by scores of 21-17, 8-21, 10-21, 21-18, 21-25.

Burke, who has defeated every top North Carolina junior during the last year, won another championship when he and Burlington's Ronnie Steele took the junior doubles crown from Greenville's team of William Stancill-Andrew Kilpartick, 21-19, 21-16. Stancill-Kilpartick had defeated the defensive play of Sam and Ray Watson of Goldsboro to reach the finals, thus reversing the results of play earlier in the year. Burke-Steele defeated the Greenville team of Denny Harde- J. C. Proctor 21-12, 21-11 in their march to the finals, with Burke's thick foam rubber covered racket returning Proctor's drives time after time.

By JOE REICHLER
KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—The National League, winner of only one of the last four midsummer clashes, ruled a 13-10 favorite to defeat the Americans today in the first of two All-Star games this week.

A capacity crowd of 30,611 was assured for the first All-Star game ever played here. A larger crowd, between 45,000 and 50,000 was expected to attend the second game, to be played in New York's Yankee Stadium Wednesday.

Former President Harry S. Truman purchased four tickets and was expected to attend today's game, passing up the opening of the Democratic convention in Los Angeles.

The American League chances suffered a serious setback when it became known Sunday night that Mickey Mantle, the star center fielder of the New York Yankees, might not be able to play. Mantle reinjured a knee in last Saturday's game in Boston and was restricted to a pinch hitting role Sunday. "I don't know whether I can make it," Mantle was reported as saying, "and I won't know until just before the game."

If Mantle can't play, his place in center field may be taken by Al Kaline of the Detroit Tigers. Kaline was named to the squad as a reserve outfielder.

With both squads featuring right-handed strength, mngs. Walter Alston and Al Lopez chose to open with right-handed pitchers. Although late Sunday night neither manager was definite about his starting hurler, all indications were that the opening pitchers would be Bob Friend of Pittsburgh against Bill Monbouquette of Boston.

"I haven't made up my mind between Monbouquette and Bell (right-hander Gary Bell of Cleveland)," said Lopez, the Chicago White Sox manager, piloting the American League squad. "I understand Monbo looked great shutting out the Yankees Friday night. I may go with him, but I won't be sure until I have had a talk with all of my pitchers before the game tomorrow."

Walter Alston, Los Angeles leader of the Nationals, originally had announced he would pitch either Friend or his Pittsburgh running mate, Vernon Law. Later he switched to Larry Jackson of St. Louis but went back to Friend after Jackson was used in relief by the Cardinals against his Dodgers Sunday.

"I can't go wrong pitching Friend," Alston said. "He is well rested, not having pitched since Friday, and he has had All-Star experience."

The Nationals appeared to have the edge in power, especially if Mantle is unable to do any more than pinch-hit. The senior circuit has a power-packed lineup featuring such home-run sluggers as Ernie Banks, 26; Henry Aaron, 24; Eddie Mathews, 19; Ken Boyer, 20; Willie Mays, 18; as well as Joe Adcock, Bob Skinner, Del Crandall and Bill Mazeroski in the starting lineup.

Runs in the three-game series. Willie Tasby and Vic Wertz drove in 19 runs between them in the set. Tasby homered in the first inning off loser Ralph Terry, 4-4, went 5-for-5, and drove in four runs Sunday. Wertz put it away with a grand-slam homer in the second inning off Whitey Ford, who was making his first relief appearance of the year.

Bill Skowron drove in four runs for the Yankees with a single and two homers, the second off winning reliever Billy Muffett, 2-1.

That cut New York's lead to 2½ games going into the All-Star break. The Yankees, who have lost five of their last seven, were whipped 9-5 at Boston for a three-game sweep by the last place Red Sox.

Washington beat Baltimore 2-1; Detroit, after trailing 7-0, cracked Kansas City 12-10 as Rocky Colavito hit two homers and drove in six runs.

The White Sox made it five out of six—all against the Tribe—with five runs in the sixth inning of the second game. A solo homer by Jim Landis got it started, and a three-run homer by Roy Sievers who has hit in 16 consecutive games, put it away. Mucdat Grant 6-3, was the loser in relief of Dick Stigman, who gave up only three hits in 5 2/3 innings, but walked Russ Kemmerer (5-4) won it in relief, with a save by Turk Lown.

Vic Power won the opener for the Indians, tying it 2-2 with a two-out triple in the sixth and then breaking it up with a two-out double in the eighth. Reliever Johnny Klipstein 3-3, was the winner, while Early Wynn (4-7) lost his sixth decision in the last eight.

The Red Sox, matching their longest winning streak of the season with four, roughed up 11 Yankee pitchers for 31 hits and 23 runs in the three-game series. Willie Tasby and Vic Wertz drove in 19 runs between them in the set. ## Rowing Squad Is Much Stronger

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — The United States Olympic rowing squad, headed by Navy's varsity eight, is considered by officials the strongest combination ever put together.

Twenty-six oarsmen in seven rowing classes were picked Saturday in finals that climaxed three days of pulse-pounding trials over the 2,000-meter or 12 mile Onondaga Lake course.

Navy's powerful varsity heavyweights, coming with a rush in the final 500 meters, nosed out California and a Syracuse alumni boat in the premier eight-oared event.

It was the first big win of the year for Navy after a series of disappointing second and third-place finishes.

Seattle's Lake Washington rowing club landed four of the small-boat spots—apirs with and without coxswain and four with and without coxswain.

The Philadelphia Vespers' duo of Jack Kelly and Bill Knecht took the double sculls, and the Vespers' Harry Parker, 24, a Navy lieutenant, won the single sculls.

This will be the fourth Olympics for Kelly, brother of Monaco's Princess Grace and a former champion single sculler.

Fourteen of the oarsmen have previous Olympic or Pan-American experience.

"This is the strongest rowing squad we've ever sent to the Olympics," Clifford T. Goes, chairman of the U.S. Olympic Rowing Committee, said.

"But it will have to be," Goes added, "because the competition will be stronger."

The United States has been all-winning in the eight-oared competition since 1920.

That supremacy is being challenged seriously this year by Germany's powerful Ditmarsia Kell-Ratseburger eight, Australia and Canada, traditionally a late starter, also are expected to be strong.

The present Navy boat doesn't match the Navy Admirals of 1952 or Yale of 1.56. Goes acknowledged.

"But we're hopeful Navy will have developed into a champion eight by Aug. 30 when the rowing begins on Lake Albano, outside Rome," he said.

The United States won three Olympic rowing gold medals, two seconds and a third at Melbourne, Australia, in 1956.

Goes considers Lake Washington's entries powerful and Parker the best American sculler since Kelly and Joe Burk, now the Pennsylvania coach. However, Parker must defeat the spectacular Stewart Mackenzie of Australia. Kelly and Knecht may expect serious difficulty from the Russians.

WARREN, Ohio. (AP)—Veteran Louise Suggs of Atlanta won the $16,000 Trumbull Open Golf Tournament here Sunday, but the happiest warrior in the feminine field was tomboy Kathy Whitworth of Jal, N.M.

Miss Suggs, who at 36 has won everything the golfing ways have to offer, extended her year's winnings to $12,062, tops for the tourists. She racked up a 72-hole total of 288, four-under par, for Trumbull Country Club's 6,246-yard par 73 course. Her prize was $2,500.

Miss Whitworth, a tall, 20-year-old blonde with a boyish bob and a bashful smile, finished sixth with 294 for -800. That's the best she's done in two seasons as a pro. She had the tournament's best round, a four-under par 69 in the third session.

Leading money winners: Louise Suggs, Atlanta, $12,062. Fay Crocker, Montevideo, Uruguay, $10,061.

Red Sox Win Third In Row From NY; Chisox Kicking

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Writer

The last time the New York Yankees saw the Chicago White Sox they left 'em for dead, sweeping a four-game series and tumbling the American League champs to fifth place, five games behind.

They've won 14 of 20 since that Yankee sweep, scrambling back to third place and now just three games shy of the top after splitting a double-header with Cleveland. The Indians clung to second by a half game, ending a four-game slump with a 6-2 victory in the opener before the White Sox came from behind and won the lightcap 6-4.

That cut New York's lead to 2½ games going into the All-Star break. The Yankees, who have lost five of their last seven, were whipped 9-5 at Boston for a three-game sweep by the last place Red Sox.

Washington beat Baltimore 2-1; Detroit, after trailing 7-0, cracked Kansas City 12-10 as Rocky Colavito hit two homers and drove in six runs.

The White Sox made it five out of six—all against the Tribe—with five runs in the sixth inning of the second game. A solo homer by Jim Landis got it started, and a three-run homer by Roy Sievers who has hit in 16 consecutive games, put it away. Mucdat Grant 6-3, was the loser in relief of Dick Stigman, who gave up only three hits in 5 2/3 innings, but walked Russ Kemmerer (5-4) won it in relief, with a save by Turk Lown.

Vic Power won the opener for the Indians, tying it 2-2 with a two-out triple in the sixth and then breaking it up with a two-out double in the eighth. Reliever Johnny Klipstein 3-3, was the winner, while Early Wynn (4-7) lost his sixth decision in the last eight.

The Red Sox, matching their longest winning streak of the season with four, roughed up 11 Yankee pitchers for 31 hits and 23 runs in the three-game series. Willie Tasby and Vic Wertz drove in 19 runs between them in the set. Tasby homered in the first inning off loser Ralph Terry, 4-4, went 5-for-5, and drove in four runs Sunday. Wertz put it away with a grand-slam homer in the second inning off Whitey Ford, who was making his first relief appearance of the year.

Bill Skowron drove in four runs for the Yankees with a single and two homers, the second off winning reliever Billy Muffett, 2-1.

By JOE REICHLER
KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—The National League, winner of only one of the last four midsummer clashes, ruled a 13-10 favorite to defeat the Americans today in the first of two All-Star games this week.

A capacity crowd of 30,611 was assured for the first All-Star game ever played here. A larger crowd, between 45,000 and 50,000 was expected to attend the second game, to be played in New York's Yankee Stadium Wednesday.

Former President Harry S. Truman purchased four tickets and was expected to attend today's game, passing up the opening of the Democratic convention in Los Angeles.

CHAPTER 9
 Clem Marker gathered up a sheaf of notes and walked slowly to the lectern. Taking his position there, conveying an attitude of indifference to a courtroom full of people watching every move he made, he gave the witness a severe and searching scrutiny. Mickey Beers crossed and uncrossed his legs nervously. "Mr. Beers," Marker asked innocently, "this special tool which you opened the locked desk. Do you always carry a burglar's tool when on duty?" "It wasn't a burglar's tool!" "Oh, really?" Marker gave the jury a sad smile. "Well, as you wish. Now, Mr. Beers, you and Mr. Callahan were boyhood friends, were you not?" "Object. Immaterial." "It's very material, Your Honor. The jury is entitled to know." "Sustained," Judge Hoffman interjected. Marker frowned. He scratched out something from his notes. "Before you searched Mr. Hart's office, did you and Mr. Callahan discuss the effect this case might have on Mr. Callahan's plans to run for Governor?" Callahan slammed the table with his open palm. "Your Honor! I request that counsel be held in contempt for that remark." "Confine yourself to relevant questions, Mr. Marker." "Yes, Your Honor. Mr. Beers, the night that Mrs. Hart died, you learned, didn't you, that Mr. Hart was a nephew of ex-Governor Hart?" "That's right." "And you were aware of the publicity, the unusual publicity, that the prosecutor in a murder trial of an ex-governor's nephew would receive?" "Mr. Marker," Judge Hoffman said sternly, "I've already instructed you not to proceed with that line of questioning." "I'm sorry, Your Honor. Mr. Beers, you saw nothing in Mrs. Hart's bedroom that night to indicate that her death was other than accidental, did you?" Beers hesitated. "Well, you get hunches about these things." "This is interesting. You take it upon yourself to subject an innocent man to the indignity of a murder trial because you have, as you call it, a 'hunch'?" "Perhaps, Mr. Marker," Judge Hoffman said, "you can reach your question a little more directly." "Thank you, Your Honor." Marker walked slowly to the jury box. Then, whirling on Beers, he said with unmistakable disgust, "Just what in God's name gives you the right to try to ruin a man in this way? Is getting the District Attorney's endorsement that important?" "Mr. Marker!" Judge Hoffman said. "Your Honor," Marker said, "I do appologize, but the crudeness of this scheme shocks me." He advanced on Beers. "I call your attention to the night of Mrs. Hart's death. There was nothing there to indicate the commission of a crime, absolutely nothing, yet you intentionally set out to..." "There was plenty there," Beers said hotly. "Indeed!" Marker put his hands on the witness box. "A moment ago you told us you had only a 'hunch.' Now you tell us there was 'plenty' there. I find you hard to follow, Mr. Beers. Perhaps, though, you can explain yourself." "I can explain myself, all right," Beers' voice rose triumphantly. "The minute I walked in that bedroom I knew what had happened. Because I'd been out to talk to Mrs. Hart before. The time her husband tried to kill her with a carving knife!" There was stunned silence in the courtroom. Then pandemonium broke loose. Judge Hoffman added the hanging of his gavel to the uproar. Marker was livid. Above the uproar Marker cried, "Mistrial! Mistrial! Your Honor, Your Honor, this is absolutely grounds for a mistrial! This is the most damaging piece of viciously improper, false, and prejudicial evidence I've ever heard in a courtroom. I demand a mistrial!" Judge Hoffman looked angrily down on the courtroom. He banged his gavel again. "I am going to clear this room immediately if we do not have order. Mr. Bailiff, escort the jury to its quarters." A minute later he said, "Let the record show that the jury is not present. The Court will now hear arguments on the motion for a mistrial. Mr. Marker said, "If the Court please, the defense is aware of the general rule of law that the granting or the denial of a motion for a mistrial usually rests in the sound discretion of the trial court. However, an incident can be so flagrant that a denial of the motion amounts to an abuse of discretion and is consequently reversible error. And if ever there was such an incident, this is certainly it. I have never heard—and I'm sure the Court hasn't either—of a murder trial in which the prosecution has been allowed to introduce an allegation not only unsupported by evidence but impossible to support by evidence. So this testimony concerning it, even if it could be believed, is hearsay. It rests on an alleged statement made to Mr. Beers by Mrs. Hart. But Mrs. Hart is dead. How can we cross-examine her?" "You can put your client on the stand and let him deny the truth of the assault," Callahan said. "Now, you just wait until I'm finished, Mr. Callahan. You know that has nothing to do with the issue. The only issue here is: the defendant has been so prejudiced in front of the jury by Mr. Beers's last statement that the damage could never be undone. The introduction in admissible hearsay of a harmless nature is one thing, but this hearsay goes to the heart of the case. Furthermore, I submit that this witness has been coached to give just the answer he did. He's testified in criminal cases hundreds of times. He knew what he was doing. I submit that this was a vicious and premeditated effort to poison the minds of the jury." Judge Hoffman said impassively, "Mr. Callahan." Callahan faced the Bench. "Your Honor, I will concede, but only for purposes of argument, that the prosecution might not have the right to take the initiative in introducing evidence about the assault which preceded Mrs. Hart's death. But the situation isn't that simple. Mr. Marker, in his inimitable way, began to badger the witness, asking him to explain allegedly inconsistent statements. Mr. Marker also dragged in quite a few red herrings about my running for Governor. So it's rather interesting to hear him voicing all this outrage about poisoning the minds of the jury. Well, he asked his question and he got his answer. If there was a trap, it was a trap Mr. Marker set for himself. "Mr. Callahan," Judge Hoffman said, "had this witness been coached to volunteer the answer he did?" "Absolutely not! And with all respect to the Court, I am deeply offended by that question." Judge Hoffman blinked. He suddenly and sickeningly realized that both attorneys had finished. They were waiting for his decision. In the background he seemed to hear Alex Simon's whisper, coaxing him into a Federal judgeship with his hoary old pitcher's call. The test was, he thought miserably, to survive. Or was it? "The Court," he said austere-ly, "has listened closely to the arguments of counsel. It is of the

I thought I'd never hear the end of it. Seems he doesn't want me to use any gas but Amoco-Gas because it's the gasoline that has no lead in it. Well, I didn't know what that meant, but Dad explained. Seems that lead in gasoline fouls up the engine. With Amoco-Gas, he says the spark plugs act livelier longer and other engine parts stay clean and trouble-free. I'm convinced! Fact is, I don't know why anyone would want to buy any other gasoline but Amoco!" AND NEITHER DO WE.

Civil Rights Plank Poses Question For Dixie Demos

By OVID A. MARTIN
 LOS ANGELES (AP)—A plank pledging a bold federal attack on racial discrimination, written over strong Southern objections, appeared headed today for adoption in the Democratic party platform. The platform goes before the Democratic National Convention Tuesday after preliminary action today by the full Platform Committee. Approval by both groups seemed certain.

But unanswered was what Dixie delegates might do about it. They could walk out of the convention in protest as some did in 1952 to express dissatisfaction with a civil rights stand taken then. Or they could stay and fight out the issue on the convention floor and take a probable defeat.

Their final decision, some of them said, was tied to the fate of the candidacy of Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas for the party's presidential nomination.

Southern backers of the Texas were reluctant to stir up too much trouble at this point lest such action embarrass him with Northern delegates who support him for the nomination but also favor a strong civil rights declaration. They said drastic action by Southern delegates might well be associated with Johnson, inasmuch as he represents a Southern state and has many Dixie votes for the nomination.

Northern civil rights groups were jubilant over the plank approved Sunday night by a 20-member drafting committee of the convention's full 109-member resolutions committee. It gave them just about everything they had hoped for. The drafting committee also approved other planks covering foreign and other domestic issues, but civil rights promised the biggest fight.

Speaking for the Southland delegates, Sen. Sam J. Ervin of North Carolina said he could not accept the civil rights proposal. He was one of four Southerners on the drafting committee. However, two of these were absent from the session at which the plank was approved. Significantly, one of the absentees was Rep. Paul J. Kilday of Texas, a Johnson supporter.

Ervin declined to speculate, however, on what steps that Dixie delegates might take.

Wording of the plank was not made public. But it promised to use full legislative and administrative powers of the federal government to end racial discrimination in voting, public education, employment, housing, and other fields.

The plank commits the Democratic party to enactment by Congress of legislation to broaden powers of the attorney general in the racial field. He would be given authority to obtain injunctions against any infringement of constitutional rights because of race, color, or creed.

It also promises legislation to give permanent status to the present temporary Civil Rights Commission. The commission is authorized to investigate complaints of discrimination.

The proposal also expressed sympathy and understanding for what it called peaceful sit-in demonstrations carried on by student groups in many parts of the South against lunch-counter restrictions. These demonstrations have evoked bitter Southern criticism and arrest of many participants.

Ervin contended the reference to the sit-in strikes would, in effect, constitute party endorsement of the demonstrations.

Rep. Chester Bowles of Connecticut, chairman of the Resolutions Committee, said little difficulty was encountered in writing planks on foreign and other domestic issues.

Z. ATFORM PROMISES THAT A Democratic administration will set up programs designed to make America strong in major fields of human endeavor—industry, living, standards, welfare programs, science and research.

These programs, it says, would in time create a new image of the United States that would strengthen the country's influence throughout the world and reduce that of the Soviet Union and Red China.

It promises to raise taxes if that should become necessary to help finance new welfare programs. But it expresses the view that a properly expanding economy would pour enough additional tax money into the federal treasury to make new taxes unnecessary.

Miss Dors, 28, filed the suit in February of last year, claiming the studio had agreed to pay her $200,000 upon cancelling two movies in which she was to star. She said the studio not only refused to pay but also defamed her.

Miss Dors, now appearing in a Las Vegas nightclub, said RKO accused her of becoming "an object of disgrace."

The compromise was revealed when the case was removed from superior court calendar.

Button-Collector Prefers Nixon

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A woman looking for campaign buttons, walked into the ABC-TV office. She already had a handful of buttons, representing every major candidate for the Democratic Presidential nomination. This prompted someone to ask who her favorite was.

"My favorite, she said, "is Nixon."

And, explaining her button collection, she added: "I'm going to make coasts out of these."

Panicked After Taking His Walk

POTTSVILLE, Pa. (AP)—"I got tired chasing baseballs and went for a walk. When I realized how late it was I panicked. I knew everyone had checked in and I was afraid to go back..."

This was John C. Motley's explanation Sunday when police picked him up at his family's home in nearby Port Carbon some 25 hours after the trusty walked away from the Schuylkill County prison.

Motley, 27, serving a 1½-3 year term for stealing a fire chief's car, had been placed on a street outside the prison to shag balls that were hit over the wall during a baseball game Saturday.

He was charged with prison breach.

Jesse James Is In Jail Again

BRIDGETON, N.J. (AP)—Jesse James is in jail today, unable to raise $100 in bail.

The 30-year-old namesake of the famed Missouri bandit was arrested with four other persons Saturday night after police broke up a brawl in a restaurant parking lot. Police said they caught Jesse James with a broken bottle in his hand and charged him with disorderly conduct.

Jet's Backwash Injured 5 People

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—The backwash from a jet airliner hurled a 6-foot aluminum stepladder through a plate glass window in the terminal building at Love Field Sunday. Five persons were treated for cuts and bruises at a hospital and released.

A spokesman for the American Airlines said one of its Boeing 707 jets—flight 22 to Chicago—was taxiing away from the loading ramp when the backwash sent the ladder tumbling into the window.

Jet engines, which are tough on metals, use cobalt for punishing work. Cobalt, discovered in 1753, was not immediately used as a metal. It was first regarded as a pigment for yellow, blue and green paints.

Consumer Pays Higher Price On Cuban Sugar

By SAM DAWSON - AP Business News Analyst NEW YORK (AP)—You pay the premium on Cuban sugar, not your government. The grocery price of sugar—higher here than elsewhere in the world—is based on what U.S. sugar importers, refiners and distributors pay to sugar growers, millers and shippers, whether they be Cubans, Filipinos or Americans. The premium—which isn't paid to the foreign government as such in checks from the U. S. Treasury—comes about this way:—The current price of granulated white cane sugar at the store is around 14 cents a pound. Part of that is the cost of distribution and handling, which is higher than it once was. Part is the cost of refining, also higher than formerly. Part is the cost of buying and shipping the raw sugar. And better than two cents of that sugar price is the difference between the government-controlled price here and what sugar sells for on the world market outside the United States. Here the raw sugar price now is around 5 1/2 cents a pound but going as high as 6 1/2 cents where duty also is paid. The raw sugar price outside the United States has ranged recently just above or below three cents a pound. This two to three-cents-a-pound spread in unrefined sugar as it comes from the mills runs into big money when American refiners buy some three million tons a year from Cubans and some six million pounds from all other sources. That spread between world sugar prices and the price set here is what is referred to as the sugar subsidy. The same differential, varying in some instances due to U. S. tariffs and shipping costs, applies to all sugar raised either at home or abroad. Last week's trimming of the U. S. quota of sugar from Cuba is primarily a political matter rather than economic. But the U. S. quota system was originally set up in 1934, largely for economic reasons, with international politics in a secondary role. The price in the United States today isn't set by outright price controls but by a sugar quota system aimed at tailoring supply to demand. The U. S. Department of Agriculture is instructed to cut the amount of raw sugar that can be brought here when prices drop below a level deemed reasonable. This lowers the supply and perks up prices. Also under the law the department lowers the amount refiners and dealers can buy when the price here drops more than is deemed desirable. This pinch on supplies causes a price rise.

NEW YORK (AP) — Aircrafts and electronics moved ahead in a mixed stock market early this afternoon. Trading was moderately active.

Most key stocks showed narrow changes, a point or so at the outside.

The tense international situation brought renewed buying to stocks related to space age defense. Some of these were up well over a point but they were by no means running away.

Coppers were generally higher. World copper prices advanced due to unrest in the Congo.

Steels were mixed, although a rise in the steel industry operating rate from last week's low level was anticipated. A slightly lower tendency prevailed among rails, oils, utilities, and chemicals.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off 1.55 at 645.36.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off .20 to 223.40 with the industrials off .20, the rails up .30 and the utilities down .20.

Corporate bonds were irregular to slightly higher. U.S. government bonds were unchanged to slightly lower.

Helms Attending MIT Institute

Rufus M. Helms of East Carolina College is one of 40 college and university teachers in science and engineering who are studying at the summer institute on Radioisotope Technology at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

The program began on June 20 and will continue through July 29. Under the direction of Dr. Gordon L. Brownell, assistant professor of nuclear engineering, the institute will be presented by M.I.T. staff members and several lecturers from other universities.

The purpose of the program is to present basic information in physics, mathematics and chemistry, giving the participants enough background to grasp the fundamental problems in radioisotope technology.

There will be laboratory demonstrations, and opportunities for students to have direct experience with radioisotope instrumentation, enabling them to teach techniques to others. A number of the experiments will involve the use of the M.I.T. reactor.

The radioisotope program is sponsored by the National Science Foundation and the Atomic Energy Commission to encourage teaching concerning radioisotopes.

Trophy Poses A Baggage Problem For Utah Girl

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Linda Bement, 18, a Salt Lake City girl, faced a problem of excess baggage today as she prepared to return home after a clean sweep of honors in the Miss Universe beauty pageant.

Linda came to Florida 10 days ago as Utah's representative in the pageant. She became Miss USA Thursday and Miss Universe of 1960 Saturday night. Her assets included a figure of 37-23-36 carried on a 5-foot-6 frame.

"I don't know how I'll ever get this trophy home," the raven-haired beauty said. "Daddy may have to build another room just to keep it."

The Miss Universe trophy stands three feet high and weighs more than 20 pounds. In addition, Linda received a check for $5,000 as Miss Universe winner and a personal appearance contract for another $5,000.

Sen. Jackson To Back Kennedy

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington, an avowed neutral up to now, threw his support today to Sen. John F. Kennedy for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Jackson is one of those whose name has been mentioned as possible choices for the vice presidential spot on the ticket.

Local Lions At Chicago Meet

Three members of the Greenville Lions Club attended the Lions convention in Chicago last week. They were Pres. Harry Allen, Sec. Harry Douglass and International Counselor O. E. Dowd.

Wallace West of Wilmington was elected to the Lions International Board of directors.

There were 6,000 official delegates at the convention and about 42,000 Lions and their families attended.

Next year the convention site will be Atlantic City.

Democrats Equal GOP In Plush Entertaining

By ARTHUR EDSON LOS ANGELES (AP) — Democrats have proved conclusively that, given the opportunity, they can celebrate as high and as handsomely as the richest Republican.

The party went parrying Sunday, and, man and candidate, what parrying!

The big show was a double-decker $100 a plate affair at the Beverly Hilton, Los Angeles' plushiest hotel.

Around 2,500 turned out for the two-ballroom job in which the four presidential aspirants in the convention opening today trotted from one hall to the other to repeat their gems.

The route between halls led through the kitchen, which brought this crack from Adlai E. Stevenson: "I've been through the kitchen so many times the last time through they offered me a job."

In addition to the glamor performance, featuring the candidates, a big outside, for-free party was held for delegates and alternates in a department store parking lot across the street.

Child Survives Fall Over Falls

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP) — The odds against young Rodger Woodward's surviving his 161-foot tumble down the Horseshoe Falls were 100 million to one, a state engineer says.

Rodger, 7, was swept over the falls Saturday when a motorboat in which he, his sister, and a family friend were riding capsized in the upper Niagara River. His sister, Deanne, 17, was plucked from the swirling rapids at the brink by two New Jersey tourists.

The boat's owner, James Honeycutt, 40, of Niagara Falls, was missing and presumed drowned.

The life jacket the boy was wearing saved his life, said Roger Williams, executive secretary and chief engineer of the Niagara Frontier State Parks Commission.

Rodger landed in a 180-foot well at the base of the falls. Authorities believe that unlike the foot of the American Falls, the base of the Horseshoe Falls is free of fallen rock. There is no record of anyone surviving a plunge over the American Falls.

Rodger was in good condition Sunday night at Greater Niagara General Hospital in Niagara Falls, Ont. Doctors said he didn't need as much as an aspirin.

Both he and his sister suffered only cuts and bruises.

Honeycutt's employer said he was born in Raleigh, N.C. He had been living in a trailer park near here for a short time and an envelope found in his car bore the return address: East Lane Street 702, Raleigh.

Red China Opens Nepal Embassy

KATMANDU, Nepal (AP) — Three Chinese Communist diplomats slipped quietly into Katmandu Sunday to open Peiping's first embassy in Himalayan Nepal.

Local Communists canceled plans for an airport welcome because of anti-Chinese feeling resulting from the recent attack by Chinese troops on Nepalese border guards.

Head-On Crash Kills Two Men

RALEIGH (AP) — Two men died today following a head-on collision on U. S. 1 north of Raleigh.

Van Edward Bolton, 45, of Henderson, died in the crash which demolished the two cars and hurled the motor of one some 50 feet. Jones Wayne Hart, 20, of Louisburg died 30 minutes later at Rex Hospital.

The collision occurred during a heavy downpour at 6:45 a.m. on a straightaway some 200 yards from the Neuse River bridge and within a quarter of a mile of a service station where Hart was employed.

Patrolman A. D. Clayton said Bolton was traveling north on Highway One, nine miles out of Raleigh, and passed another car, colliding head-on with Hart who was southbound.

Chairmen Named By Ayden Lions

AYDEN — Dixie Cannon was re-appointed chairman of the Ayden Lions blind committee at the club meeting Friday.

Stancliff Sumrell was appointed chairman of the program committee and Kenneth Branch was named publicity chairman.

Because of the lengthy business session no program was presented. However, Lion C. O. Pratt will be in charge of the program for the next meeting.

The on-time prize was won by Ray Garris and Darrel Jackson was selected to bring the prize for the next meeting.

President Stuart Sugg presided over the meeting.

Chaos In Power Station Strike

LONDON (AP) — A wildcat strike of power station men today brought rush hour chaos to London's subway system.

Thousands were late for work. About 400 workers walked off the job at the transport board's three main power generating plants. The strikers are demanding more pay for dirty and inconvenient work. They jumped the gun on their union leaders, who are scheduled to negotiate with the transport board Thursday.

On Leave From A Veterans Hospital

Johnnie Tyson, a Pitt County resident who is a patient at McGuire Veterans Hospital in Richmond, Va., is home on leave and visiting his sister Mrs. Carrie Creech of 2100 N. Village Dr. Greenville. He will return to McGuire on Sept. 30.

Tyson, a disabled veteran, has served in both the Army and Navy.

Miss Mavis Oakley Dies In Hong Kong

Miss Mavis Lee Oakley, 55, of Greenville and Hong Kong, daughter of Addie E. and the late J. B. Oakley, died in Hong Kong Saturday. She was a Missionary of the Pentecostal Holiness Church and served intermittently in Hong Kong since 1934.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete, pending word from the Fai East.

Colored News

Mrs. Mary Sutton died at Pitt Memorial Hospital Sunday. Funeral services will be conducted Wednesday at 2 p.m. at the First Baptist Church in Kinston. She was the cousin of Mrs. Tazzie Williams and Mrs. Rosa Lee Brewington of Greenville.

Little Allan Renee Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. Willie Uzel Jones, 1516-B Pitt St., died in Pitt Memorial Hospital Sunday night after a brief illness. Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

Funeral Tuesday For Mrs. Claude Adams

FALKLAND — Mrs. Lorie Sugg Adams, 76, died Sunday morning at 2:30 o'clock at Pitt Memorial Hospital following two months of illness.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday afternoon at three o'clock at the Falkland Presbyterian Church by the pastor, the Rev. Jesse Parks, and burial will be in the Falkland Cemetery.

Mrs. Adams was born in the St. John's community of Pitt County and spent most of her early life at Ormondville in Greene County. She was married to Claude C. Adams in 1900 and he died in 1956. She had made her home in the Falkland community for more than forty years, and was a member of Falkland Presbyterian Church.

Surviving are four daughters, Mrs. Joe C. Peaden and Mrs. Helen S. Hales of Falkland, and Mrs. Lawrence Oakley and Mrs. Heber Stepps of Greenville; a son, J. Henry Adams of Tarboro; 20 grandchildren; 17 great-grandchildren; and a sister, Mrs. Mollie Peaden of Falkland.

A picnic for members of Cornerstone Baptist Church will be held Wednesday. Buses will leave the church for Shady View, located near Jacksonville, at 6:30 a.m. and will return about 6:30 p.m.
