LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sen. John F. Kennedy formally accepts the Democratic presidential nomination tonight...

A middle-of-the-road vice presidential candidate. Kennedy could placate these dissenters, however, with a liberal acceptance speech tonight...

Sen. Kennedy asked Sen. Johnson to run, and Sen. Johnson accepted. A spokesman for Johnson also said there was "absolutely nothing to the story."

John F. Kennedy's acceptance speech was formally ratified by the Democratic convention Thursday night.

House Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas, who urged Johnson not to take second place, shook his head and sighed a little sadly...

Gov. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan, a pre-convention supporter of Kennedy, said his delegation feels the nomination of Johnson was a mistake.

Robert R. Nathan, head of the District of Columbia delegation and an ADA leader, wanted to put up the name of Gov. Orville L. Freeman of Minnesota to oppose Johnson in a floor vote.

Invalids Get Charm Steps In Hospital

MADELINE KETCH thought she had 20 different diseases after listening to her customers talk about their operations. She also thought she should have had nursing training for the job she took on: running the beauty parlor in the new 25-million-dollar Washington, D. C., Hospital Center. "It took about a year to build up business," Mrs. Ketch recalls two years later. "Now I work six days a week and have two beauty operators working with me." Some of her customers come in with fractured backs, legs, arms. Others are post-operative cases, unable to get out of a wheelchair. "I have to be like a nurse," Mrs. Ketch explains. "Some women are really ill and I've learned how to handle them with sympathy. When I hired a second operator, I found one who was also a practical nurse because it's so important to know how to move wheelchair patients."

Pots, Pans Add To Kitchen Decor

By VIVIAN BROWN
WOMEN GET fun out of decorating their kitchens. It is one room that utilizes just about every inch of wall space. Walls often are decorated with illustrations, popular ones of the moment including giant vegetables, fish, birds and framed colorful menus. But almost anything that applies to a kitchen is considered fair game for walls. One space-saving technique in the kitchen is a display of pots and pans, ideal when cabinet space is limited. Copper ware is usually selected because its warm pink tones flatter almost any kitchen decor. However, it should be kept clean when it is stored on walls. While grandma slaved over her copper with various pantry concoctions, today's paste cleaners retard tarnish, and ease the chore. Even if one does not have wall space for treasured molds, plaques or pots and pans, a little consideration of the problem may result in a way to display those objects. Here are some ideas:

-Utilize space between counter and cabinets for displaying smaller utensils such as molds, butter warmers, sauce pans and tiny skillet.
-A folding screen can look very decorative with glistening pots and pans fastened to wall board with holes. The screen can be removed for convenience of the cook -Asbestos pads (the kind that may be bought in any variety store) can be painted in different colors and grouped on a wall in a pattern that can serve as an interesting background for a display of pots, pans and other kitchen items.

COPPER POTS and pans may be used on a screen in small kitchen. This one is painted yellow and white to match color scheme.

PANS AND MOLDS offer interest to this kitchen arrangement with art work and herbs tied in ribbons. ASBESTOS PADS in soft colors form an interesting background for pans. Flower paintings are on wood.

Savings From Paper Route Accumulate

LLOYD AND TERRY . . . Allen are shown checking their rout records with their mother who serves as "secretary" to her boy-businessmen.

AYDEN—Private enterprise is a famous American principle and Lloyd and Terry Allen, carrier boys for "The Daily Reflector" in Ayden have capitalized on it to save money for their college days . . . days of higher education. Lloyd, who is 15, has been a carrier for the paper for "a little over six years." He started helping his older brother deliver his papers, and has saved over $2,000, including $200 in bonds, from his earnings. He is also paying for a $1,000 insurance policy from his route money. Terry, 13, has carried paper for two years and has saved over $500. He has invested about $100 in bonds.

Both boys, in addition to their savings, make spending money by delivering the papers, and both plan to use their money to further their education in college. Lloyd said the "paper route has helped" him to "understand people" better and to "speak to and meet people." Both Lloyd and Terry pointed out that the experience they have gained has helped them to understand the value of money and how to use it wisely. Terry adds that it is also an "easy way to make money." The boys noted that they purchase the papers from "The Daily Reflector" at a wholesale price, then sell them at a retail price in order to make a profit. Lloyd serves about 50 subscribers while Terry has about 68 customers. Lloyd and Terry are sons of Mr. and Mrs. W.W. Allen who live at 810 West Eighth St., Ayden.

U.S. Flying Help To Fire Victims

GUATEMALA (AP) — The United States is flying medical supplies and clothing here today for survivors of the fire in the Guatemala City mental asylum which took more than 200 lives. Many of the 1,400 inmates, some classified as criminally insane, escaped during rescue operations Thursday, making it difficult to fix the exact death toll. About 60 survivors were burned. Lt. Gen. Robert F. Sink, U.S. military commander in the Caribbean, ordered relief flown from Panama. The remnant of hurricane Abby, now near Guatemala, may delay the planes. Authorities said a short circuit probably sparked the asylum's fire, which caused the heaviest death toll ever experienced by Guatemala in a disaster other than an earthquake.

Johnson Choice Pleases Garner

UVALDE, Tex. (AP)—Former Vice President John Nance Garner said Thursday he was "pleased and happy" that Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson accepted the Democratic vice presidential nomination. Garner earlier declined comment on the presidential nomination of Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts. Garner, who is 91, watched the national convention on television. He packaged two gallon cans of Uvalde honey as gifts to Mrs. Kennedy and Mrs. Johnson. The only Texan ever to serve as U.S. vice president, Garner had endorsed Johnson for president. Garner served during the first two terms of President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Try Again Today To Elect Four Bishops

LAKE JUNALUSKA, N.C. (AP)—Delegates representing 2 1/2 million Methodists met here today for another attempt at agreement on the election of four new bishops in the Southeastern Jurisdictional Conference. Four ballots that kept election officials busy into the night Thursday were inconclusive. Leaders were Dr. James W. Henley, Nashville, Tenn., 206 votes; Dr. Walker L. Gum, Norfolk, Va., 194; Dr. H. Ellis Finger, Jackson, Miss., 143; Dr. John O. Smith, Charleston, S.C., 137; Dr. Lee F. Tuttle, Winston-Salem, 120; and Dr. Paul Hardin Jr., Birmingham, Ala., 117. A total of 60 per cent of all votes cast is needed for election. Dr. Henley was short by 41 votes on the fourth ballot. The conference on this church-owned lakeside area, rimmed by mountains, is being attended by about 2,000 persons, including 416 voting delegates. The delegates represent 12,650 churches in Alabama, Mississippi, Georgia, Florida, Tennessee, Kentucky, Virginia, the Carolinas and Cuba. Two of the vacancies in the jurisdiction's ranks of bishops were created by retirement and a third by death. The fourth occurred when the conference voted Thursday to increase the number of its episcopal areas from eight to nine. By a narrow margin, the delegates voted in a session lasting until after 10 p.m. Thursday to hold the 1964 quadrennial meeting within the boundaries of the jurisdiction. The alternative was to meet at the time and place of the church's general conference. The vote was 276 for keeping the meeting in the South, against 129 for meeting jointly with the general conference, top legislative body of the Methodist Church. The vote was a scant 6 more than the required two-thirds. By voting to keep the meeting within jurisdictional limits, the conference followed advice offered in its publication "The Daily Christian Advocate." The Advocate said: "It is our considered judgment that the best interests of the whole church, as well as of the whole jurisdiction, will be served by providing for the jurisdictional conference to meet within the bounds of the jurisdiction where it may remain vitally in touch with our people."

Polaris Passes Tuneup Launch

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—A Polaris was fired successfully from an underground tube early today in the missile's final tuneup for key launchings from a nuclear submarine. The Navy announced the missile achieved all objectives in scooting more than 1,000 miles down the Atlantic missile range. A major goal was to check the performance of the Polaris' sensitive inertial guidance system. The success, the 18th in 23 Polaris firings this year, followed a pair of failures for the stubby rocket last week. Within a few days the big atomic sub George Washington is expected to fire one of the missiles for the first time wholly submerged about 30 miles off Cape Canaveral. The critical shot will signal the beginning of a Navy drive to make the Polaris operational by October. The first two Polaris subs are set to go on patrol by the end of the year. Each will carry 16 missiles capable of delivering nuclear payloads to targets more than 1,200 miles away. A later model will have a range in excess of 2,500 miles. The tube from which today's missile was ejected is similar to that aboard the Polaris submarines. Compressed air shoots the 28-foot rocket about 70 feet into the air and its solid-fuel first stage, activated by a timer, ignites. The second stage comes to life a minute later, about 15 miles up. The compressed-air ejection enables the missile to ignite above water during a submerged firing. The George Washington has been here two weeks, launching dummy missiles while submerged in rehearsing the vital role it will play in the Polaris development.

2 More Years

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP)—President Eisenhower has signed a bill extending for two more years the GI home loan program for World War II veterans. In the 14 years the program has been in effect, five million veterans have acquired 48 billion dollars worth of property through low interest loans guaranteed by the Veterans Administration. The bill also continues for another two years the appropriation of 150 million dollars a year for direct loans to veterans unable to get private loans at the government-guaranteed interest rate of 5 1/2 per cent. Both programs would have expired July 25. For Korean War veterans, the guaranteed loan program is in effect until 1965. The administration had opposed extending the World War II program any further, but the bill passed both houses of Congress by overwhelming margins.

Patrick said the road will be closed while State forces construct two composite type bridges on the road. While the road is closed, traffic will be routed over NC 118 and secondary road 1917, a distance of 2.4 miles on paved roads. There were 10,535 inmates in the prison system last Jan. 13.

Books & Stuff

By DR. ED HIRSHBERG
Those of you who aren't very happy about some of the results of the Los Angeles convention may take solace in the editorial by Max Ascoli in the latest edition of THE REPORTER, entitled "The Winning Ticket." With the benefit of hindsight we can second what he says concerning the leaders of the Democrats:

HIRSHBERG

"They are honorable, capable men, who happen already to be holders of power in the Senate. . . . Within this leadership the differences in personalities balance each other and make for a formidable complex. With the new Presidency, they will all be in some ruling in the Senate with enhanced prestige, while the two lucky ones head the winning ticket and the nation." Adlai Stevenson, Mr. Ascoli adds, whether elected or not, will be entitled to a position of distinction in the new regime. The important thing is that a group of Democrats—regardless of who is the President—will be in control. To most of us around here this circumstance alone ought to compensate for our disappointment concerning individual victories or defeats. . . . Provided, of course, that the Republicans are beaten in November—but any other alternative is not possible, we'll all admit.

Tarheel Authors

A new biography of Thomas Wolfe, North Carolina's most famous 20th century author, has just been issued by Doubleday. It's by Elizabeth Nowell, for many years Wolfe's friend and literary agent. Though many readers think that LOOK HOMEWARD ANGEL and YOU CAN'T GO HOME AGAIN are strictly autobiographical novels, and therefore that everything there is to be known about Wolfe he's already told, yet much can be learned from an account written from somebody else's point of view. For Wolfe fans, then, Elizabeth Nowell's new book is a big contribution. . . . Another Tarheel author, but very much alive and kicking, is Ovid Pierce, whose ON A LONESOME PORCH is doing very well in its first edition. 8000 copies having been sold. Also from Doubleday, the book is scheduled to go into a second edition soon—it came out, if you remember, last May and apparently has been having a healthy, steady sale ever since Greenville launched it at the historical luncheon honoring Mr. Pierce during the Arts Festival.

Russian by Machine

"Literature by Electronics" in the current Saturday review details the startling implications of a new IBM machine that translates automatically from Russian to English. Robert J. Clements of the Comparative Literature Dept. at NYU describes how it works and supplies some examples of its translation of writings by two great Russian authors, Boris Pasternak and Leo Tolstol. Sooner or later, he says, great literature in all foreign tongues will be available in quick translations. What will happen then, he asks, to the newly-revived interest in the study of foreign languages? In our opinion it will be a long time before machines take the place of the human translator of great literature—and before they can substitute for the enjoyment a person gets out of reading great books as originally written in the language of their creators.

Today's Review

One of The Column's most perceptive critics contributes her remarks about a dull book on an exciting subject.

PAT GARRETT, By Richard O'Connor, Garden City, New York: Doubleday & Co., 1960.

A Western buff may enjoy this bullet by bullet account of the Lincoln County range war and the subsequent tracking and death of Billy the Kid, but the average reader will find it appallingly dull. Pat Garrett was the marshal who hunted Billy, and finally shot him to death in a darkened bedroom. This biography of Garrett attempts to "winnow out fact from fancy" and to justify Marshal Garrett. The author succeeds admirably in both these purposes, but is left with a story as dry and dusty as the western plains. The only interesting person in the book is President Teddy Roosevelt, whose flamboyance shines through the trail dust and gun smoke with customary brilliance. Each page of the biography shows evidence of painstaking research. It is undoubtedly accurate in every detail and will be a valuable addition to any library. By Elizabeth Williams

Average Male's Value: $200,000

NEW YORK (AP) — The average U.S. male can claim an economic value of $220,000, the Institute of Life Insurance said today. The figure, representing his prospective lifetime income, has climbed from $133,000 since 1949. The institute computed both totals from government income data and survival rates. The increase, the institute said, mainly reflects a persistent gain in longevity, rising educational levels and skills and the long-term increase in economic output. Average lifetime income, the institute noted, varies with educational attainment. A man with a grade school education has a prospective lifetime income of $178,000, well under the over-all average. The average high school graduate can expect to earn $243,000. A college degree adds $100,000 to the average man's earning power, bringing it to $347,000 and "thus more than making up for the cost and time spent on higher education," the institute said. "As far as the great majority is concerned," the institute commented, "the figures clearly indicate the value of education in an individual's progress."

Has Punishment For Car Thieves

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—Juvenile Court Judge Benjamin Schwartz has figured out a punishment for first offenders among juvenile automobile thieves. They'll be put to work washing and waxing city and county government cars. "Kids seem to have an obsession about cars these days," Judge Schwartz said. "But maybe if they have to break their backs washing and waxing these cars for a while they won't be so fascinated. In fact, they may hate the sight of an automobile before they're finished."

Democrats Gird For The Battle

The relatively cool early Southern reaction to Senator John F. Kennedy's nomination as the Democratic party's candidate for the presidency is largely rooted in the platform struggle waged earlier in the convention.

As a party standard-bearer it was possible to overlook and overcome those doubts as to the candidate's age (for that is a relative thing), his wealth (for that is a necessary ingredient these days), his religion (something no candidate should be without), his geographic origins (after all, Massachusetts is one of the fifty states).

But when the shouting was over and done, some there were in Los Angeles who said the Kennedy tactics for victory had hurt their feelings.

It doesn't tally with the facts. For every Southern politician, who is worthy of the name and game, knows that you enter the arena to win. There are no laurel wreaths for running second; there is no point in running unless you intend to win; and chivalry, in this instance, is a poor virtue.

So why the complaints about a winner's tactics? Let's chalk it up to a disgruntled few who didn't like being out-politicked by one they considered a rank amateur and found instead he was a first-class organizer and strategist.

For Kennedy beat the best who dared challenge him. That is something you can't take away from him as candidate.

He made it his business to start early and work

Some Change In Highway Body?

By LYNN NISBET
HIGHWAYS — Some changes, maybe material changes, will be made in the organizational structure of the Highway Commission by the 1961 General Assembly. These organizational changes almost certainly will mean turnover in administrative personnel, perhaps as extensive as that which followed the "Scott revolution" in 1949 and the "Hodges concept" in 1957.

The Scott and Hodges regimes are used for comparison because they represent the extremes of division commissioner authority and centralized control. From the first state highway commission appointed by Governor Locke Craig in 1915, through the administrations of Governors Bickett, Morrison, McLean, Gardner and Ehringhaus, the commission had varying numbers but maintained generally a state concept. Governor Clyde Hoey in 1937 set up a division plan of control which continued, with no basic changes, through administrations of Governors Broughton, Cherry, Scott and Umstead.

At instance of Governor Hodges the 1957 General Assembly went back to the central state policy, reducing the 14 division commissioners to seven at large. The chairman was divested of administrative authority, which was placed in a Director of Highways. The highway act provided for the director to be named by the commission, subject to approval of the Governor. In fact, Governor Hodges announced appointment of the director some days before the commission was named.

Despite tremendous progress in road building during the past three years, feeling has prevailed throughout the state that the administration was autocratic and dictatorial, that citizens had no contact for registering complaints or making requests. Efforts to revamp the organization in the 1959 Legislature failed.

CAMPAIGN ISSUE — Highway organization became a secondary issue in the recent campaign, and Governor-nominate Sanford is committed to bringing it back closer to the people — particularly in the area of secondary, county and neighborhood roads. Central state control over interstate and primary highways probably will be retained. Neither Sanford nor any of the other candidates gave specific details of a new organizational plan. They all promised that changes will be made.

One extreme suggestion is to have two commissions, patterned somewhat along lines of the State Board of Education — which has charge of public schools, and the Board of Higher Education — with jurisdiction over education.

cational institutions above the high school level. This suggestion contemplates one public roads Commission with jurisdiction over county and secondary roads; and a highway commission, to handle primary and interstate highways.

At top of the pile would be a Commissioner of Highways, to whom the chief administrative officers of both boards would report, and who would handle contacts with the General Assembly and the Federal government. Admittedly there would be more serious administrative and budgeting problems in highways than in educational institutions, because individual roads projects do not have the separate entity of the colleges. Study of the proposal for two highway commissions might prove the idea to be entirely impracticable. Its proponents think it is worth studying.

The one practical certainty is that some changes in highway organization will be effected, seeking to retain central control over main routes and afford closer to the people administration of secondary roads. CONCERN — Inescapable conclusion from developments over the past decade and particularly in the recent primary campaign, is that the rank and file citizen — the mamas and papas of school children and users of local roads — is much more concerned about the elementary school and the farm-to-market road, than about universities and superduper interstate highways.

AIR CONDITIONING — Nearly every State agency has in current budget requests items calling for air-conditioning. The budget folks look askance at these items. At the same time they seem disposed to approve without much question requests for repairs to boilers and heating equipment, when inspection proves need. That calls for a definition of "air conditioning."

Is there any basic difference in the need for heating cold air and cooling hot air? It has been a long time since State buildings depended upon fireplaces and individual stoves for heat. General heating units for buildings has been standard equipment in public and private buildings for two generations, at least.

Only within less than ten years have individual room cooling units been installed, and called "air conditioners." They are comparable to the old individual heating units. It is predicted that from now on both private and public buildings will be equipped with central cooling as well as heating devices.

late toward this goal. He surrounded himself with a team of able and devoted aides, he applied a single-minded approach, and the results are in front of us.

Now that same organization, augmented by the resources of the national Democratic Party are all to be bent toward a victory in November.

The Kennedy camp's political savvy was again demonstrated by the surprise coup of signing up Senator Lyndon Johnson as a running mate. That one decision and its amazing accomplishment did more to assuage Southern Democrats than anything else the nominee could have done.

Party unity, and with it Party victory, was in the forefront of the nominee's mind; just as it was in the mind of Senator Johnson when he accepted the Kennedy offer.

Even so, retaining the Southern electoral vote in Democratic columns is not a sure thing.

For Kennedy's weakness in this region remains tied to the ultra-liberal planks of the party platform.

The Kennedy philosophy, his personal views, are identical with those expressed by the Democratic platform. If he could have written it himself, we doubt there would or could have been a difference as infinitesimal as the dotting of an i or crossing of a t.

Even with the very able and knowledgeable Senator Johnson as his running mate, it will be difficult for Kennedy to overcome the reluctance of conservative-minded Southerners to wholeheartedly support him.

As against this, it should be remembered that Senator Johnson accepted the nomination as his duty to do all that was in his power to help his party by giving his prestige and support to the ticket.

It will be needed. In the months before November we may safely assume there will be no advantage for either political party in terms of financial backing, youthfulness, experience, vigor and dedicated effort.

Richard Nixon and John Kennedy, the presumed rivals, thus must depend largely on their personal appeal and resourcefulness in meeting questions raised during the campaign; their judgment in selection of running mates will be a factor; as will be their appeals to reason and emotion and loyalty.

Among many Democrats it has become almost a habit to downgrade the Nixon political appeal and ability.

This, we feel, is a mistake.

The Vice President and the organization behind him will unquestionably be ready for a hard campaign the kind that is intended to win and no holds barred.

In terms of determination and devoted efforts they are evenly matched.

The campaign ahead is shaping up as one we will recall for our grandchildren.

Progress Reaches The Prophets Of Doomsday

When things get a bit dull in a community it seems the thing to do is to proclaim a new day of doom is approaching.

Last week perhaps a hundred residents of a little Arizona town disappeared in their bombproof shelters in anticipation of an atomic doomsday.

They're due out in a few days with no harm done, and maybe some good.

In Italy, a hundred followers of a prophet of disaster hid out on a mountain; expecting to be sole survivors of a cataclysm. Fortunately for us all, it failed to materialize.

Actually the two cases are far from being especially unusual except insofar as being so closely linked by time.

One kind of doomsday or another has been confidently predicted and expected ever since people first conceived of a universal-type cataclysm.

The march of science is illustrated by these two most recent instances, in that their forecasters envisioned nuclear explosions of one kind or another causing the disaster.

That's progress.

Technicians In Political Field

By JAMES MARLOW
LOS ANGELES (AP) — The 1960 political conventions are not only old-fashioned. They're contradictions.

Here in the sixth decade of the 20th Century they retain all the corny, long-winded, disorderly claptrap of the 19th Century. But they are nominating presidential candidates who are thoroughly modern.

Neither Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts, who got the Democratic nomination Wednesday night, nor Vice President Richard M. Nixon, who seems assured of the Republican nod, exudes much personal warmth. Neither is a moving speaker.

And just because both lack the power to excite they may put on a dull campaign.

Neither has the personal charm of Franklin D. Roosevelt, the fire of Harry S. Truman, or the easy geniality of Dwight D. Eisenhower.

But both are superb technicians in politics. Getting the nomination is for them no accident. They have worked for it for years, not only in person but by surrounding themselves with excellent young staffs, taking care of minute details, and planning ahead.

They are so expert in modern political techniques — from how to handle themselves on TV to lining up support far ahead of time — they long-winded, disorderly to look too slick.

The one thing Kennedy and Nixon have in common is a thorough knowledge of national issues and the problems facing the country, although their stand on issues and solutions for the problems are not the same. Either man as president would do far more homework, firsthand, than Eisenhower ever did. They have been doing it for years.

Eisenhower depended so much on staff work — on his advisers for information about issues and events — that he cheerfully admitted he does most of his newspaper reading on Sunday.

Nothing illustrates better the old-fashioned flavor of the 1960 conventions than the fact it took the Democrats almost eight hours of nominating speeches and banner-waving Wednesday before voting on a candidate.

Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, Kennedy's closest rival for the Democratic nomination, disclosed at this week's convention he belongs to the old school of politicians.

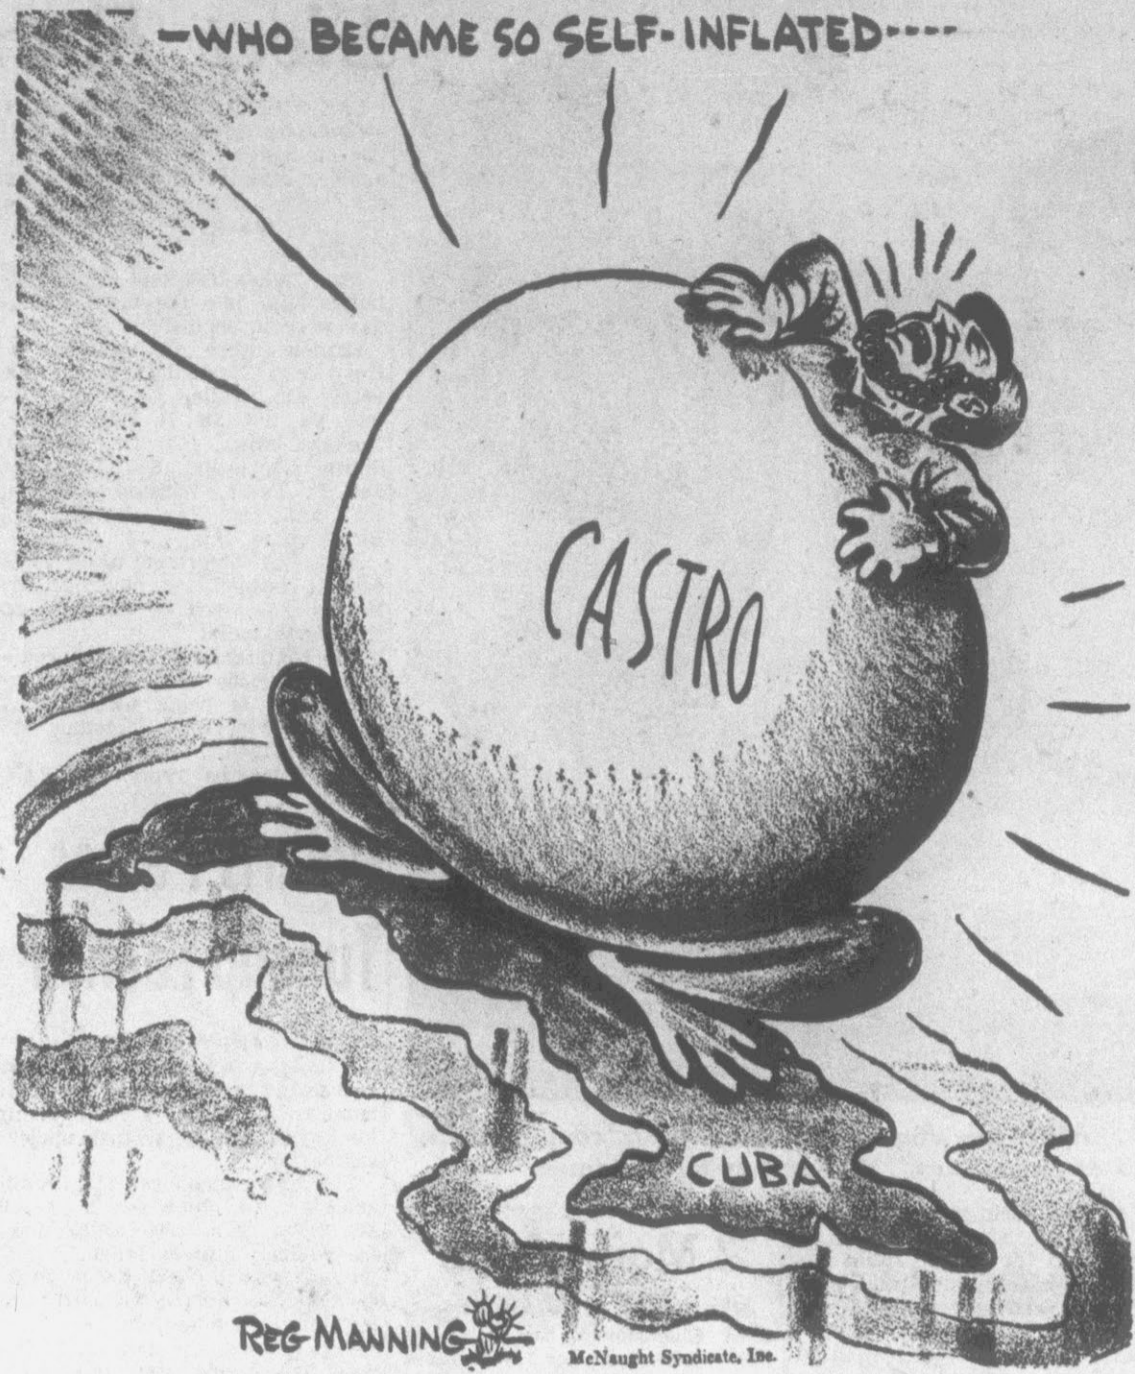

One example was the arm-waving, stem-winding speeches, the cliches and literary flag waving in his TV appearance with Kennedy, who finished in a few minutes without flourishes.

To this writer, who has seen every political convention since 1944, Wednesday night's nomination of Kennedy seemed the least enthusiastic of the past 16 years.

The answer may be that it is difficult to get emotional about a technician. Why then was Kennedy chosen, aside from the fact that he and his supporters had worked for months lining up delegates?

Perhaps because the convention felt, consciously or not, that the accumulating problems of today call not only for a hard-working, well-informed candidate but one who acts and thinks in

Fable Of The Little Frog—

By PATRICIA MOORE

The Built-In Drawback

THE MODERN DAY... with built-in conveniences sometimes outwits the person who enjoys the convenience.

We met a man the other day with a problem resulting from these built-in things. You know — there are built-in ovens, refrigerators, sinks, dryers and television sets. This was a television set.

It was only a few years ago that the man and his family moved in their new home. He had a beautiful shelf built with space for his current TV set and drawers on either side. Then there are drawers beside the drawers beside the TV.

Now the man wants a new TV set. He went a considerable distance to select a TV from a good friend, and he was highly successful in finding a TV he liked.

But, the TV he liked won't fit in the built-in place in any shape or fashion. Neither will any of the other new models, he said. And he can't widen the space sufficiently because of the drawers on the sides.

We've suggested he have his old set rebuilt. But he wants a new set.

As we said before, this man is very unhappy.

Finally Greenville got some of the rain that has been going around Pitt County all week. Tuesday it rained so hard near Ayden and in Grifton that drivers were almost forced off the road. Wednesday, it rained near Farmville and Bethel, but again not in Greenville.

Yesterday — as you well know it rained here. And the storm even blew part of the roof of a building in Farmville.

Seems that everything is blowing up as the political convention

Other Editors Saying Cooperation The Answer

(The Wilson Times)

Ever so often you read where one of our neighboring towns is to get some air service. Then we all go to work to see what we can do to be included or to see how the air schedule can be expanded.

The entire approach is wrong. The latest example is the application Piedmont is making to bring service to Goldsboro. It will certainly be a step in the right direction to get air service of any type for this section. At present there is token service from Capitol in Rocky Mount and the same from Piedmont in Kinston.

But this is only a part of the answer. And until we put aside our own interests and work for area air service, we are defeating all efforts. We meet and talk cooperation, of working for the area, we resolve to be big and see the whole rather than confine our interests and efforts.

Then what do we do? We come home and forget our broad resolves and begin to pull separately. Air service for any city can only be a half loaf for there is not enough business to support it. Air service will accomplish what is desired only if we work to obtain North-South, East-West schedules.

An area airport is the only effort that will bring in complete air service and it will take the area to support this. That is why we are ready to join forces to work for an area airport.

One is certainly needed. The Hackney Body company tells us that this concern has between 25 and 30 trips to make to the Raleigh-Durham airport a week. This is good business from this one firm. There are that many people coming and going from that plant alone, using air transportation.

Certainly Goldsboro needs air service. The air transportation needed for the personnel connected with Seymour Johnson air base should interest our companies. We are not speaking of army flying but civilian flights. But as long as we run to the Raleigh-Durham airport, as far away and inconvenient as it is, just so long will this continue. And as long as this area continues to pull apart and work individually we will never have anything but token air service. This is all that the individual cities can support.

So let's revive the effort for an area airport. Let us work for that end. And let us begin to put to practice some of the efforts we talk about and then do little to bring to fruition.

By ELMER ROESSNER
The government exercises almost life and death control over many corporations through defense contracts, Charles E. Lindblom, Yale professor of economics, says in the July issue of Challenge.

He points to the decline of Douglas Aircraft, once dominant in aircraft production. Government contracts accounted for 78.7 per cent of its volume in 1958. But after it passed its production peak on the Thor missile, it was left without a contract to replace Thor.

Many other companies are largely government contractors, he pointed out, with Martin depending on defense contracts for 99.2 per cent of its 1958 sales, and Raytheon 86 per cent in 1958.

"It is significant that in fiscal 1958-59 the total net value of military procurement with private corporations in the United States amounted to some $22.5 billion — which makes the U. S. Government the largest single customer in the country, even if we exclude its vast military programs," Prof. Lindblom wrote in the New York University magazine.

in Los Angeles, the city of angels (or we could typographically write the city of the angles, politically), progresses.

Everybody is entitled to his own preferences and predictions. In a previous column we said we were now taking bets on the nominations, and it came out we are not taking bets. Anyway, we thought Kennedy would win; that Truman would give in and attend the convention; and that the "Hodges" would be suggested as a vice presidential nominee.

There is an interesting (to us) observation we have made about this year's convention. And it concerns women: news-women.

There was a time when the old reporting world belonged to the men, and that even commentators, radio and TV, were all men. Somehow, the woman's voice was too shrill; or she wasn't shrewd enough; or most generally, men regarded the news media as beyond the woman's comprehension and effective concentration.

Whether the men think they are right or wrong, the women have come, successfully we think, into the news world. They have been prominent at this year's Democratic Convention.

They've interviewed the candidates' wives and even the candidates themselves; and Pauline Frederick has reported on the Congo crises during the convention interruptions over TV. And they've done well. (This opinion comes from a woman, of course.)

defense contracts in large, established firms. Others argue that government contracts encourage wasteful practices.

"Finally, there is the more basic argument that, in those instances where government becomes a major participant, the contract, in fact, robs the business of such traditional private enterprise virtues as eagerness to anticipate consumer tastes, legal freedom to react quickly to changing circumstances and a desire to improve its competitive position through increased efficiencies."

Professor Lindblom, it seems to this writer, did not touch upon what may be the most serious contract with government contracts; the fact that they can be the means of forcing bureaucrats' theories and wishes on the contractor.

Contracts usually make it expedient to hire only union labor; to tolerate featherbedding and other wasteful practices, and to comply with many other bureaucratic conditions. Even assuming that all of these conditions are for the best, the ends are obtained through the imposition of bureaucratic will rather than by democratic procedures.

In this, there is even greater

The Old Policies Remain

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Whoever is elected President of the United States in 1960 will face the crucial problem of Russian opposition to the United States and will have to handle it in the same way. It will not matter at all whether a Republican or a Democrat is elected; he will be forced by historical necessity to respond to the Russian challenge. The difference between one man and another can only be how fast he is in replying to Russian initiative. Much will depend upon who is Secretary of State. The Cuban fiasco proves beyond question that some of the deskmen in the State Department cannot be trusted. A knowledgeable Secretary of State cannot be deceived by deskmen. A well-informed President cannot be confused by deskmen. Fortunately the candidates of both parties are well-informed men.

The Russians now have a new purpose: they will contain the United States. They will seek to establish Soviet satellites in Cuba, Mexico, Venezuela and possibly Panama. They will seek to break up NATO.

This is a war of attrition. The objective of Soviet Russia is to defeat the United States without fighting a war. It can be done. It can be done by three devices:

1. By destroying the value of the dollar in world markets;
2. By stimulating riots in NATO and Allied countries. Student riots have already taken place in Korea, Japan, Turkey, Cuba, Italy, and will occur wherever Communist parties succeed in organizing them. One took place in San Francisco.
3. By mass disturbances in African, Asiatic and Latin American countries, so that there is constant disturbance without actual war.

This program is now in being. It is the successor program to "The Spirit of Camp David" which was the result of Khrushchev's visit to the United States. "The Spirit of Camp David" was a curious policy: it implied a deal between President Eisenhower and Nikita Khrushchev for the domination of the Earth. Apparently President Eisenhower did not understand that there was such a deal. Khrushchev became bitterly anti-Eisenhower because he did not understand why Eisenhower did not understand what was talked about at Camp David.

In a word, "The Spirit of Camp David" was confusion throughout — meaningless, purposeless confusion. It has been followed by the new policy of American containment.

Jay Lovestone, who was once high in the councils of the Communist Party and who is one of the most aggressively active anti-Communists in the world, writing for the "APL-CIO Free Trade Union News," says: "Khrushchev has always met the slightest dissatisfaction in the armed forces with intensified ideological activities and increased Party control especially of the officer corps. Towards this end, an increased number of periodicals have been published since the beginning of the year to propagate the Communist Party viewpoint in the Army. Several days before the Paris blow-up, there was held a conference of secretaries of the party organizations in the Army. It was devoted, among other objectives, to the strengthening of party surveillance of the armed forces."

"Concerning China, Lovestone writes: "Of course, there are differences between Moscow and Peking in regard to international and other matters. But these differences are in approach, in respect to propaganda forms, and not over principles. Between Moscow and Peking, there is absolute unity over the ultimate goal of Communist world domination. For a number of reasons, Chinese Communist tactics are more rigid and inflexible, more intransigent and aggressive, than Moscow's. Mao Tse-tung's China is in an earlier stage of revolutionary development than Khrushchev's Russia. During the comparable stage — thirty years ago — Moscow's international

Contracts Give Gov't Control

The conscious use of government contracts as a control device is to be found in the atomic energy industry," he added. "The production of fissionable material is controlled not through public ownership and operation, but through government contracts with various corporations, such as General Electric and du Pont who operate government-financed and equipment on lease. Thus the atomic energy industry is ruled neither by competition, public regulation nor outright government operation — the three traditional forms of industrial organization."

How private, then, is a private corporation which depends for the bulk of its business on government contract? — The government contract may greatly reduce the reality of private ownership while retaining the form."

There are many advantages to government control by contract, Dr. Lindblom held. It may be better than complete government ownership, and it enables the government to tap private talent and skills.

DEFECTS — However, he added, many critics object to the tendency of government contracts to concentrate danger if a venal administration is ever elected. A firm grip on major corporations would give some future President — or his Defense Secretary — the powers that Fidel Castro now holds in Cuba.

DEPARTMENT STORE SALES IN MODERATE RISE
Department store sales in the first half of this year were per cent higher than in the same period in 1959, according to Federal Reserve figures. The largest gain was in the New York Federal Reserve District, up 6 per cent, and in the Minneapolis District, up 4 per cent. Losses of 2 per cent were reported in the Richmond, Kansas City and Dallas districts.

Fifteen million catalogs are going to shoppers from the two largest catalog companies this month. There are 9,000,000 1,594 page catalogs going out from Sears, Roebuck, and 6,000,000 1,194-page books from Montgomery Ward. While these are still called mail-order houses, most of the orders are now made by telephone or through order departments in the two companies' stores.

God Wants Steadfast Love ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Scripture—Hosea 1:1-4; 5: 5:15-6:4.

By Alfred J. Buescher

Said the prophet Hosea, "Hear the word of the Lord, ye children of Israel: for the Lord hath a controversy with the inhabitants of the land, because there is no truth, nor mercy, nor knowledge of God in the land."

"By swearing, and lying, and killing, and stealing, and committing adultery, they break out. Therefore shall the land mourn, and every one that dwelleth therein shall languish, with the beasts of the field, and with the fowls of heaven."

"I will go and return to My place till they acknowledge their offense, and seek My face: in their affliction they will seek Me early. Come, and let us return unto the Lord: for He hath torn, and He will heal us."

"After two days will He revive us; in the third day He will raise us up, and we shall live in His sight. . . . His going forth is prepared . . . and He shall come unto us as the rain."

God Wants Steadfast Love

GOD'S UNCEASING LOVE FOR HIS PEOPLE AND HIS ANGUISH WHEN THEY FORSAKE HIM

Scripture—Hosea 1:1-4; 5: 5:15-6:4.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL. In Peloubet's Select Notes, the Rev. Dr. Wilbur M. Smith writes: "The name Hosea probably means 'help,' and is derived from a Hebrew word meaning 'to save.' His ministry was almost exclusively not in Judah, where most of the minor prophets labored, but in the Northern Kingdom, Israel. He is described as the son of Beeri, of whom we know nothing further."

The Lord also said: "I will go and return to My place, till they acknowledge their offense, and seek My face: in their affliction they will seek Me early."—Hosea 5:15. Do we forget God and His Son Jesus Christ unless we are in trouble? We must love Them and show that we do by our daily acts and by our prayers to Them for guidance. "Come, and let us return unto the Lord: for He hath torn, and He will heal us; He hath smitten, and He will bind us. After two days will He revive us: in the third day He will raise us up, and we shall live in His sight."—Hosea 6:1-2. "Then shall we know, if we Judah, and in the days of Jeroboam, the son of Joash." The word of the Lord that came unto Hosea was to tell His people: "Hear the word of the Lord, ye children of Israel: for the Lord hath a controversy with the inhabitants of the land, because there is no truth, nor mercy, nor knowledge of God in the land. "By swearing, and lying, and killing, and stealing, and lying, and killing, and stealing, they break out, and blood toucheth blood. Therefore shall the land mourn, and every one that dwelleth therein shall languish, with the beasts of the field, and with the fowls of heaven; yea, the fishes of the sea shall also be taken away."—Hosea 4:1-3.

follow on to know the Lord; His going forth is prepared as the morning; and He shall come unto us as the rain, as the latter and former rain upon the earth. O Ephraim, what shall I do unto thee? O Judah, what shall I do unto thee? for your goodness is as a morning cloud, and as the early dew it goeth away."—Hosea 6:3-4. Thus God, through His devout and wise prophets, preached to the people of Israel. We, centuries away from those days, are still plagued by sins and crime. We should read our Bibles diligently and ponder God's words and the teachings of His Son, Jesus Christ.

Few Candidates Are Not Church Member

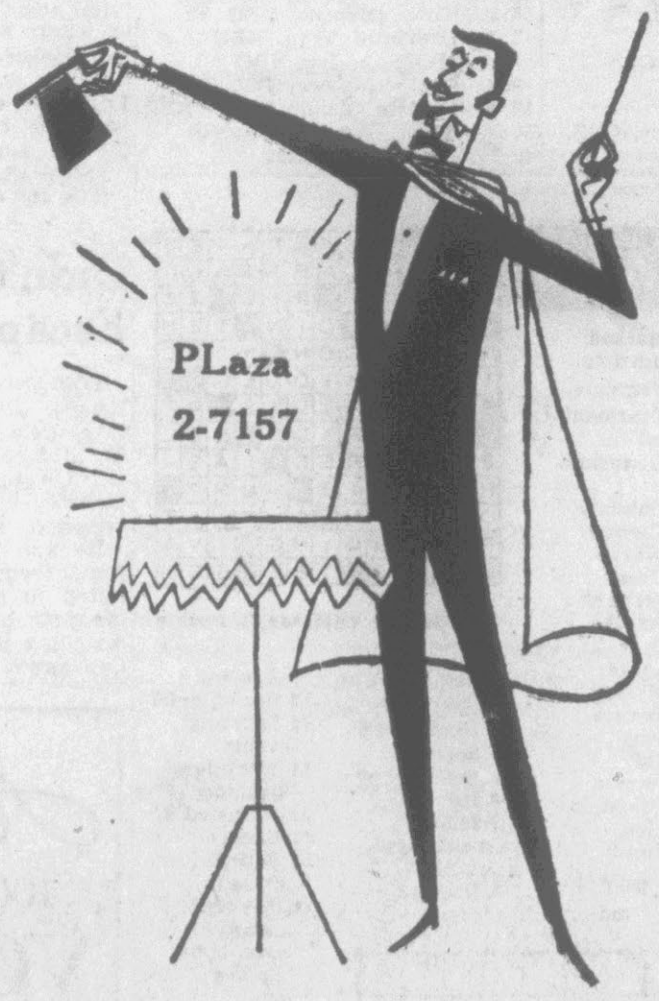

By TOM HENSHAW AP Religion Writer NEW YORK (AP)—Candidates' religious may or may not play an important part in presidential campaigns. But one thing is certain. They do well to belong to some church. It has been a long time—nearly 80 years—since President Rutherford B. Hayes could cheerfully admit he belonged to no church although he attended Methodist services on occasion. Thirty-three men have held the presidency, and only four listed themselves as churchless. In addition to Hayes, they were Thomas Jefferson, Abraham Lincoln and Andrew Johnson. But Jefferson often attended Unitarian services, Lincoln went to a Presbyterian Church in Washington, and Johnson apparently shared his church-going with Methodists and Baptists. Ten Presidents have been Episcopalians. Eight of the first 14 chief executives were Episcopalians, only 2 of the last 19. There have been six Presbyterians, three Methodists, three Unitarians, two Baptists, two Dutch Reformed, and one each of Quakers, Congregationalists and Disciples of Christ. In case it has passed unnoticed, a Baptist minister will be running for president alongside the Republican and Democratic nominees. He is the Rev. Rutherford L. Decker, candidate of the Prohibition party. "The fact that I am a minister, a Baptist minister, is simply incidental," says the Rev. Mr. Decker. "I am running as a private citizen. I represent neither Baptists nor Protestants." The Rev. Mr. Decker concedes his chances are slim. The Prohibition party polled only 41,937 of the more than 62 million votes cast in the 1956 election. One of the last acts of Congress before it adjourned for the political conventions was to settle an odd church-state relationship that has vexed the Virgin Islands for several years. The action turned over to the United Lutheran Church in America's title to three churches and two parsonages which had been owned by the federal government for 43 years. Seems the five buildings once belonged to the Danish government, which supports a national church, and title was transferred to the United States when it acquired the islands in 1917. Maryknoll missionary Father Joseph A. Grassi returned to the United States last week with the encouraging word that "things are looking up in my Indian mission" in Guatemala. "There are only 50 witch doctors to every priest there now," he reports.

(Continued from page four) propaganda line also was harsher and harder against the democracies than it is today. In those days it was Moscow which pursued an ultra-left course. In all this, Lovestone is correct. The Free World has been deluding itself about a split between the Kremlin and Peking. There has never been an indication of such a split. There has never been even a slight indication of such a split. It is very much like President Eisenhower not being able to understand what is happening in Cuba. What he calls "inexplicable" has never been inexplicable. It has been clear from the very start: Castro has produced a Soviet satellite state in the Caribbean. Surely we are sufficiently mature in the United States to face facts without doubt and without despair. Only small boys need to whistle in the dark. Oscar Wilde, annoyed at women, reported: "No woman should have a memory. Memory in a woman is the beginning of dowdiness."

Farmville Course Host To Pitt County Golf Tourney

A new golf tournament in Pitt County, entering under the name of the Pitt County Amateur Tournament, will be staged on the nine-hole Farmville course this weekend.

Sammy Key, new Farmville pro, is officiating the tournament which will be open to all golfers in Pitt County that are members of a country club. This would include Grifton, Farmville, Ayden, and Greenville club golfers.

The nine-hole Farmville layout will offer 18 holes of play for the golfers on Saturday in the first round and 18 on Sunday in the final round.

Champion of the amateur event will be determined by medal play with first round play determining flights for the second day. Merchandise and trophies will be awarded to the winners.

Tournament officials rate Graydon Liles, former club champion, and Shelby Roebuck, current club titleholder, as favorites among the host golfers. John Felton, member of East Carolina College's golf team, is also a member of the Farmville club and expects to offer a tough challenge.

A bevy of golfers outside of Farmville, including Errel Webb of Greenville, is anticipated by tournament officials. As of this morning, no official number of entries had been named. Golfers have until noon Saturday to file their entry fee of $5.00.

Key expressed hopes that the tournament will turn into an annual summer affair with the possibility of rotating around to a different Pitt County course each year.

Better Pitching, Power Hitting Key For Braves

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Better pitching and more power hitting—that's how Milwaukee's Charlie Dressen figures to nose out the front-running Pittsburgh Pirates.

"The only way we're going to catch them is by winning, winning, winning, and that's just what we plan to do," said the Milwaukee manager. He had just seen his Braves drub the Pirates 4-0, cutting their league lead to four games.

Dressen said he is looking to Eddie Mathews, Wes Covington, Hank Aaron and Joe Adcock to supply the second-place Braves with the power punch.

"I'm counting on Eddie to lead the way," said Dressen. "He'll hit a lot better this second half of the season. I know it. And the other guys will follow suit. They've all got greater power. They just have to get started."

Dressen also claimed his pitching line for a comeback. He was high in praise for Bob Buhl, winner of Thursday night's game. He said he also expects a vastly improved Don McMahon during the second half of the season.

"Don has a good and bad half in every season," said Dressen. "Well, he's had his bad half already. Now he comes on for the good part and away we go to the pennant."

Rained Out

The final game determining the Little League city championship was rained out yesterday afternoon.

The game between the Elks and Texaco has been rescheduled for this afternoon at the Elm Street Park. Starting time is 4:30.

The Elks, Tar Heel representative, won the first game 3-0 but North State's Texaco bounced back with a 6-0 victory Wednesday setting the stage for a third game to be played.

Molding Pro Club From Collegians

SANTA CRUZ, Calif. (AP) — Coach Eddie Erdelatz is molding his Oakland Raiders of the new American Football League from a big bunch of little-known former collegians.

Five fans outside northern California ever heard of Tom Flores yet he could be the No. 1 quarterback of the fledgling pro team.

A 190-pounder, standing 6 feet, 1 inch, Flores played high school ball at Sanger, Calif., moved a few miles to Fresno for junior college competition, then on to College of the Pacific at Stockton.

As a junior in 1956 he ranked fourth nationally in total offense, and in 1957 was sixth in passing offense. He might have gained more fame nationally as a senior except for a shoulder injury.

After a season with Calgary in Canadian pro ball, Flores underwent surgery on the shoulder and coached the freshmen at COP. Today, at the age of 23, he looks on the Raiders as his big chance.

Coach Erdelatz ranks Flores as his top quarterback, followed by Paul Larson, formerly of the University of California, and Bob Webb, a 205-pounder who won Little All-America honors and gained 5,101 yards passing during his career at St. Ambrose.

College Coaches

Gary Matlocks and Johnny Wike, former ECC graduates, were officially named as assistant football coaches at Elon College yesterday.

The duo join another East Carolinian, George Tucker, in forming a completely new football coaching staff for the North State conference school.

Tucker, named to the head coaching post after serving at ECC as assistant grid coach for one year, stated before leaving here this spring that Wike and Matlocks would be his assistants and hoped to add a third ECC graduate, Jerry Carpenter.

Matlocks, a native of Southern Pines, was freshman football coach and head track tutor at ECC this past year. He has served as head coach of Hamlet and as physical director at the Fayetteville Y.M.C.A. He played football for Duke and East Carolina.

Wike is a native of Mt. Holly and played college ball at ECC for the past two falls. His first college ball was at Wingate Junior College under the supervision of Tucker.

Expect To Be In Thick Of Race

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago White Sox enter the last half of the American League race convinced they will be in the thick of the pennant battle until the last.

The defending champions open a four-game home series with Baltimore tonight, hoping they can continue — or increase the momentum that made them the hottest in the league prior to the All-Star games respite.

The Sox have won 12 of their last 17 starts, beating Cleveland in 5 of 6 successive meetings. They are three games behind leading New York, and 2½ behind the Indians — holding third place one game ahead of the Orioles.

Four Sox pitchers considered as regular starters may hold the key to the last-half bid to retain the crown. So far this foursome has only broken even, 23-23, with Bob Shaw 7-8, Early Wynn 4-7, Billy Pierce 7-4 and Frank Baumann 5-4.

Coffee is chief crop and export of tiny El Salvador, Central American republic which lies completely on the Pacific side.

Two Images Of U.S. Olympics

Two letters received this week gave the forthcoming Olympic games in Rome quite a different image in American's role.

The team has been chosen and according to the U. S. Olympic Committee, all that remains is raising $1.5 million. And with this sum, America can protect its facade of strength and superiority.

The Committee is not so interested in the image as it is the $1.5 million, but there seems no other way to induce American hands to reach into their pocket-books than to call on national pride.

Another piece of literature came from a group called "People-To-People Sports Committee, Inc." The letter includes on its letterhead the name of honorary chairman Dwight D. Eisenhower and such luminaries as Walt Byers and Edward P. Eagan.

Draw Comparison Of Nations

The People-To-People correspondence notes that it has long been the practice of sports writers to draw comparison between nations on the basis of the number of medals its Olympic athletes garner.

The writer urges that the sport scribes put emphasis on individual performances rather than national gold medal compilation.

"The variance in the interpretation of amateurism from one country to another makes national rankings meaningless. Small nations continue to send their best athletes to the Games as a reward for diligent training, knowing full well that they cannot hope to benefit from the standpoint of national prestige. "Beating the Russians" for example is the last thing our athletes think of when ardently pursuing their training" spake the People-To-People people.

The Olympic Committee's kit includes a public pitch for contributions to the U. S. Olympic fund.

Realistic Outlook Is No Change

This piece of reading includes this paragraph: "The Olympic games are an important aspect of our relationship with the world and in the eyes of many nations are a measuring standard of our national strength."

Thus the private pitch and the public pitch. And the sad but realistic prediction is things won't change between one Olympiad and the next.

The "big news" will remain how far ahead of Russia the U. S. is in gold medals, or the reverse. And the cite of the games will include a large scoreboard cataloging these facts.

The problem of raising the money to get the team to the games seems to be a pressing one. Taking time out from tabulating national standings in Olympics from 1896 to 1956, the U. S. Olympic group's figureheads throw out these figures. The $1.5 million is less than one cent per citizen.

That means by sending a dollar to Olympic National Headquarters, Olympic House, 57 Park Ave., New York you can be a big man. In addition to the big feeling of carrying the load of 99 other Americans, you get, mailed directly from Rome, a postcard displaying the insignia of the Olympics.

Junior Loop Resumes Rough Pennant Scrap

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

The American League begins its battle back from obscurity (that's a joke, Charlie) tonight, resuming the pennant scrap to decide who gets a crack at saving face against the National League in the World Series.

If you've forgotten how things stood before the AL was laid out by the NL All-Stars, the New York Yankees are on top, leading Cleveland by 2½ after dropping three straight at Boston. Chicago's defending champion White Sox are third, three games back, with Baltimore fourth, another length behind.

The only game scheduled Thursday in the majors was a make-up at Pittsburgh, where second place Milwaukee defeated the Pirates 4-0 and cut their National League lead to four games.

Going into the opener of a four-game series at Detroit tonight, Yankee Manager Casey Stengel mentioned the possibility of resting Roger Maris, the ailing thumper who leads the majors with 27 home runs. The young right fielder also led the AL in futility, leaving seven men on base, in Wednesday's All-Star game shut-out by the NL.

It's probable, however, that both Maris, bothered by a sprained wrist, and sore-legged Mickey Mantle will be in the line-up against Tiger lefty Don Mossi (7-6). Right-hander Art Ditmar (7-5) is the Yankee choice. He has lost two in a row after winning five straight.

The Indians, who play three with New York beginning Monday, get back to business against fired-up Washington. Right-hander Pedro Ramos (5-4) goes for the Senators, who have tied Detroit for fifth place (8½ games behind) after winning three in a row at Baltimore. The Nats have won seven of their last eight — since dropping three straight to the Indians.

Right-hander Jim Perry (9-4) is Cleveland's starting pitcher as the Tribe tries to get out of a rut. They've lost five of six after closing within one game of first place with a five-game streak.

The White Sox, the club that handed the Indians that 1-5 slump, send Billy Pierce (7-4) or Frank

MacKay, Bartzzen Carry U.S. Davis Cup Future

QUEBEC (AP) — The United States Davis Cup team starts the long road back today with Bernard Bartzzen and Barry MacKay carrying the American hopes in the opening singles matches against Canada in the first round of the American Zone competition.

Bartzzen, 32, Dallas, Tex., veteran of the team which will try to gain back the coveted trophy lost to Australia last September, takes on Bob Bedard in the opening match on the clay courts of the Civil Employes Tennis Club. The second match sends MacKay, 24, of Dayton, Ohio, against Don Fontana.

"We got the break in the draw," said U. S. Team Capt. David Freed. "I think we'll win the first two matches."

Freed, who succeeded Perry Jones as captain of the U. S. team, said he figured the two countries might have split the opening singles if the draw had gone the other way.

"Bedard would have had a good chance to beat MacKay but not Bartzzen," he said. "Bartzzen's will power and steadiness are hard to beat."

Bartzzen and MacKay switch opponents for the other singles Sunday. The doubles will be played Saturday with Bedard and Fontana the likely Canadian team.

However, Fred has not decided on the U. S. team. If Earl Buchholz of St. Louis has fully recovered from an old ankle injury he'll likely pair with Chuck McKinley, also of St. Louis. If not,

Three Tied In Western Open

DETROIT (AP) — Three veterans who have had some long gulps from professional golf's big-money fountain and a freckled rookie trying for his first sip shared the lead as the $25,000 Western Open Golf Tournament entered the second round today.

Redhead Butch Baird, a game little Texan trying to strike it rich on the bigtime circuit, barged into first round leadership with veterans Bob Rosburg, Jack Burke and Fred Hawkins.

Each fired a three-under-par 69 Thursday as the massive field of 158 went almost from daylight to dark in first day action.

That was good for a one-stroke lead over 10 other players. A total of 32 bettered par 36-36-72 at Western Golf and Country Club's 6,600-yard test.

Baird, on the pro tour only since November, has finished in the money six times. The Beaumont youngster has won more than $2,000.

Burke, a four-time Ryder Cup player, enhanced his reputation as one of the game's finest putters Thursday. He dropped in four long birdie putts.

Hawkins has averaged more than $20,000 a year in the last four campaigns although the 36-year-old veteran of 15 seasons on the circuit has only one major victory to his credit.

Last Place Clubs Cause Loop Stir

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The two teams deadlocked for the cellar position won the games Thursday night in the Carolina League.

Greensboro trounced first-place Raleigh, 10-5, with the Yanks getting 11 hits off four Raleigh pitchers.

Sonny Siegert tossed a one-hitter in Burlington's 3-0 win over Winston-Salem. He walked four and struck out eleven.

The Durham at Wilson game was a victim of the weather, postponed because of rain.

Boyd Coffie and Jim Johnston each had a home run to lead the Greensboro assault. Dick Sotsky had two homers for the losing Caps — one in the seventh and another in the ninth.

Siebert won his seventh game in 13 decisions, demonstrate again why he was switched from first base to the pitcher's mound. The only hit he yielded was a single to Ray Oliver in the first inning.

Burlington was off in front in the initial frame. Joe Teague got on with a single, came home on a passed ball. Bob Pucinelli reached base on an error and scored on a sacrifice fly. Mitch June accounted for the other Burlington score in the fifth.

The games tonight: Wilson at Durham, Burlington at Winston-Salem, and Raleigh at Greensboro.

Top Labor Leaders Split Over Johnson Nomination

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Some top labor union leaders say they are stunned and unhappy over the nomination of Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson to be No. 2 man on the Democratic ticket. But they count on some early benefits. Some other union officials welcomed the choice of the Senate majority leader for the vice presidential spot. Those looking for quick gains figure that with Johnson as the running mate of Sen. John F. Kennedy, the party's presidential nominee, the chances are good of pushing through some long-wanted labor goals when Congress reconvenes in August. As Senate majority leader, Johnson wields power over legislation. Most, if not all, such goals are contained in the platform adopted here earlier by the Democrats. The labor union chiefs attending the convention held a secret meeting Thursday night after the convention had ratified Kennedy's choice of Johnson to be vice presidential nominee. The group included George Meany, AFL-CIO president, and Walter Reuther, head of the Auto Workers Union. Reuther is an influence in the big Michigan delegation which glumly refrained from any applause when Johnson was nominated. James B. Carey, president of the International Union of Electrical Workers, said for the record he was "stunned and shocked" at the sudden selection of Johnson, the man Kennedy had beaten for the party top prize. But not all the labor chiefs held that view. Those openly applauding included Presidents David J. McDonald of the Steelworkers and Thomas P. Kennedy of the Mine Workers. The latter said, "We think it is all right—it strengthens the ticket all over the United States." One thing that displeased the top union men was that after working hard for Kennedy and against Johnson in the presidential nominating race, they say they were not consulted in advance of Kennedy's announcement of Johnson as a running mate. Woman Fined For Slapping Youth KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — A $10 fine was levied against Mrs. Glynn Locker for slapping an 18-year-old boy who brought her daughter home late. Mrs. Locker, a widow, said George R. Smith Jr. had brought Norma Locker, 14, home after midnight July 1. The boy attributed the late hour to a double-feature movie. At a hearing before Judge Alfred Frazier Thursday the boy's father said his son "looked like he had run into a wildcat" after he had run in with Mrs. Locker. Defense attorney Joe Juncan argued that "more parents should become upset when their young daughters stay out late."

Editors To Hear Clifton Daniel

ASHEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Clifton Daniel, assistant managing editor of the New York Times, will address the North Carolina Press Assn. convention here tonight. Daniel, a native of Zebulon, N.C., is son-in-law of former President Harry S. Truman. A veteran Washington newsman, retired executive editor Leon S. Dure of the Winston-Salem Journal-Sentinel, spoke to the Tar Heel editors Thursday night. Dure praised today's students as more earnest and virtuous than in other days "but they cannot spell, nor do many of them think this either odd or blameworthy. And they don't read very much; nor do they ever write except when this cannot be avoided." Dure also described a lack of competition in editorial thinking. "It seems to me more and more true all the time," he said, "that the only opinions we deliberately seek are those that reinforce our own ideas." As an example, he pointed to his home state of Virginia where "we do not have one single competitive situation. This means that all of our Virginia communities are getting only those ideas the editor thinks are good ideas."

'Second Banana' In Perry Mason Show

EDITOR'S NOTE — The author of the following guest column plays Paul Drake in "Perry Mason," presented Saturdays from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m., over the CBS network.

By WILLIAM HOPPER
Written For The Associated Press
I guess I'm what you might call a dramatic second banana in television, and I think it's the best spot in the bunch. As Paul Drake, the detective who acts as a kind of runner for Perry Mason, I can enjoy two great acting fulfillments — I'm creating a personality, and I'm needed. By that I don't mean that I'm indispensable, either as Bill Hopper or as Paul Drake. But the second banana is a necessary ingredient of a show like ours. If there weren't a Paul Drake, there'd have to be a character like him.

In less than an hour of show time, we have to tell a full story, and sometimes a pretty complicated one. Obviously there isn't time to include all the action that is necessary to the story and to full understanding of the details by the audience. So they have to be explained with a different device. In the "Perry Mason Show" you will notice that many of the necessary details—too minute to be presented in action but too important to the solution to be ignored—come out in conversations between the regular characters. In one short phone conversation, Drake and Mason can let the audience in on story details that might take many minutes to enact on the screen. That's why I say that I, or somebody like me, am a needed element in the show. As a fan of the Erle Stanley Gardner novels, I have been fascinated to watch this guy Drake develop from the printed page to television and back to the printed page again. Either I'm getting to be more like him, or he's getting to be more like me. In the original Gardner books Drake is much more breezy, talkative, and comic-reliefish than he is on the TV show. He's flashier, you might say. In our scripts, a lot of this personality stuff had to be toned down, mostly for the reasons I've already described. We have too much to include in a

May Soon Tell Of Big Surplus

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Eisenhower administration may soon announce a fiscal 1960 budget surplus of from three-fourths of a billion to a billion dollars—far above the 200 million surplus forecast to Congress in January. Near-final figures for the fiscal year, ended last June 30, are due in the Treasury's operations statement for June which comes out about the middle of next week. Informed sources speculated that the administration, perhaps President Eisenhower himself, might decide to announce the figures earlier. The news, coming between the Democratic and Republican conventions, seems certain to add ammunition for GOP campaigners applauding what they call the administration's record of sound government. Eisenhower will be posting his third surplus in seven years. Government experts said rising individual incomes of Americans accounts for the Treasury's brighter picture. Corporate profits have lagged behind expectations despite a sharp upturn for January-March 1960 which was reported Thursday.

Skydiver Dies As Parachute Fails

SANTA PAULA, Calif. (AP)—A young Navy man dived from a light plane Thursday over the Santa Clara River bottom, planning to pull the ripcord of his parachute at the last moment. The chute didn't open. Witnesses on the ground saw John Derby, 22, of Redding, Calif., twisting and turning frantically in the air moments before he hit the ground. He died five minutes later without being able to tell what went wrong. Derby, stationed at nearby Point Mugu Naval Missile Center, made a hobby of skydiving. This is the parachuting sport in which jumpers perform acrobatics in the air before pulling their ripcords. The Louvre in Paris has a portrait of King John the Good on a wooden panel with a plaster base. It was painted when King John was a captive in London at the beginning of the Hundred Years War.

'Blue Chips' Recapturing The Stock Trader's Fancy

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP)—Wall Street still has an eye for the romance stocks. But recently the blue chips neglected for much of this year have caught the stock trader's fancy, too.

The investing public is likely to get that way about the blue chips when the going is slow and cautious, not to say a bit apprehensive.

The blue chip's conservative reliability is more appreciated than its sisters, the growth stocks, seem a bit less glamorous.

However, it's an attitude that can, and often does, change overnight.

The blue chip is the darling of the institutional buyers and of most stock price indexes. But that is more a result of being one than a reason for being one.

How do you tell a blue chip from the multitude of stocks on sale on the country's stock exchanges? And what makes a less well known stock suddenly glamorous?

The romance stocks that have caught the trader's eye this year for a brief or protracted dalliance fall largely into these classes:

SPACE-AGE STOCKS — Shares of companies deemed set to cash in on the spending for space satellites, for missiles and rockets, and electronics in general. Example: Texas Instruments Inc., which sold at around 53 times its annual earnings.

DEFENSE ITEMS—Every time Khrushchev huris some verbal missiles at the United States, stocks of companies deemed sure to profit by any step up in currently favored forms of defense turn glamorous.

GROWTH STOCKS—Darlings of the long bull market. These are shares of companies that through excellent management, or in up and coming new industries, seem sure to grow faster than the average. Examples are International Business Machines, recently selling at around 55 times its annual earnings, and Minnesota Mining & Manufacturing, selling at around 52 times earnings.

NEW PRODUCTS — Glamour also touches stocks of companies that seem sure to grow because of a consumer product that catches the fancy. Prime example: Polaroid, whose stock price climbed to around 80 times its annual earnings.

Such a thing could hardly happen to a blue chip of the old school.

The blue chip used to hold pretty close to a price that was 10 times earnings. But in these days of inflation of most market values, many of them now sell at prices well above that ratio. Before the stock market break early this year some were at 20 times earnings.

Unlike the blue chip, the growth stock usually pays small or no dividends, the company putting earnings back into further growth. In relation to the market price, the return to the buyer is quite small in comparison with the higher yield of the blue chip. But the buyer of growth shares is looking for capital gains through rising prices of his stocks more than for dividends.

The blue chip is the tried and true one. Its appeal, both to the institutional buyer and to the compiler of a stock price index, is its stability, its reputation for both conservatism and steady, if un spectacular, growth, its long record of consistent earnings and regular dividends, its lesser risk of wide price fluctuations. These characteristics cut out many top companies in industries given to marked cycles of output, sales and profits.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market kept a narrow edge to the upside in quiet trading early this afternoon.

Fractional gains outnumbered small losses among pivotal issues. A number of leaders was unchanged and a few issues made gains of 1 or more points, some recovering from recent sharp losses.

The average was suspended about a "support" level regarded as a test area by Wall Street observers.

Little news backgrounded the market as very small changes prevailed among steels, autos, rails, drugs, oils, and building materials.

Nonferrous metals, electrical equipments, mail order retailers and electronics showed a higher trend. Aircrafts and tobaccos were a little ground.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 1.36 at 632.68. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .10 to 219.30 with the industrials up .30 and both the rails and utilities unchanged.

Corporate and government bonds advanced.

of the Belgian troops from the Congo.

"If the aggression continues in spite of this decision, the Soviet government declares that the necessity would arise for both the United Nations and those peaceloving states which sympathize with the Congo to take more effective measures," the message said.

"If those states which are carrying on direct aggression against the Congo do not stop their criminal measures, the Soviet Union will not hesitate to take decisive measures to halt the aggression."

Khrushchev's warning followed an earlier caution against intervention by the Western nations in the Congo. He said Monday Western countries, led by the United States, were trying to reimpose a colonial rule over the Congo less than two weeks after it received independence from Belgium.

Tass said: "On July 14 Kasavubu and Lumumba sent Khrushchev a telegram stating that Congolese state territory had been occupied by Belgian troops and that the lives of the president and the premier of the republic were in danger."

"It is possible," they pointed out, "that we will be compelled to ask for intervention by the Soviet as for intervention by the Soviet Union if the Western camp does not desist from aggression against the sovereignty of the Congo Republic."

Anniversary services will be held at Cornerstone Baptist Church Sunday. The day's program will include: dinner at 2 p.m.; Rev. Person of Macedonia Baptist Church, choir and congregation, Farmville, will be in charge of the 3 p.m. service; and at 7:30 p.m., the Rev. Dr. Tillett will be the speaker.

Belgium Rejects Soviet Charges 'With Contempt'
BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — The Belgian government "rejects with contempt" a Soviet statement charging Belgium with aggression in the Congo, a Belgian note said today.

"The Belgian government and the Belgian people have learned with indignation the Soviet government's attitude toward the Congo events," the note said.

"The (Soviet) note distorts the intentions and the facts in an odious way."

The Belgian response referred to a statement Wednesday by Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko declaring the United States, Belgium and West Germany were committing aggression against the Congo. The statement was delivered to chief diplomatic representatives of North Atlantic Treaty members in Moscow.

The statement denounced Belgium for sending troops to the Congo and accused the United States and its allies of trying to undermine the new African republic's freedoms. West Germany, France and Britain were indicted as supporters of the Belgian action.

Johnson Stands As Big Surprise Of Convention

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson, 51, the Texan who is the Democratic leader of the Senate, stood out today as the big surprise of his party's 1960 convention.

The surprise was not that his bid for the presidential nomination failed; rather, it was that he is coming out of the convention as the vice presidential candidate.

Few expected that he would accept second place on the ticket, even if it were offered to him, although he had never slammed the door on this possibility.

But there he was in the glare of the convention hall Thursday night, after his nomination, saying, "I am proud to stand beside and to stand behind the next president of the United States, Jack Kennedy."

What had happened after Kennedy, 43, Massachusetts senator, had soundly trounced him in the battle for the presidential nomination?

The sequence of events, as pieced together from Johnson and from other sources in and out of the Kennedy camp, was clear.

Thursday morning Kennedy sounded Johnson out on taking the No. 2 spot on the ticket; but didn't offer it to him.

House Speaker Sam Rayburn, Johnson's fellow Texan and long-time political mentor, was opposed to Johnson's running for vice president, fearing it might be a dead end for him politically.

Johnson apparently let Kennedy know this because a short time later Kennedy slipped away to Rayburn's nearby hotel suite. In the end Rayburn was won over, but not without some reluctance.

After seeing Rayburn, Kennedy returned to his own hotel suite where Gov. David L. Lawrence of Pennsylvania, Gov. Michael V. DeSalle of Ohio, Carmine DeSapio of New York and other party leaders who played a major part in Kennedy's nomination were gathered.

A decision was reached that Johnson would strengthen the ticket the most. Other possibilities, such as Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri, Sen. Harry M. Jackson of Washington, and Gov. Rorville L. Freeman of Minnesota, were discarded.

Word of the decision was relayed to Johnson by telephone, but it was only a few minutes before the news was made public, shortly after 4 p.m., that the Texan had agreed to accept the No. 2 spot on the ticket.

S.C. Tobacco Markets To Begin Sales On August 11

Britons Pressing For 'Safeguards'

WASHINGTON (AP) — British diplomats were quietly pressing today for tighter safeguards against possible incident-provoking flights by American military planes from English soil without Britain's knowledge.

The White House announced Thursday night that President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Harold Macmillan have agreed to talks now under way between British embassy and State Department officials.

Press secretary James C. Hagerty called the negotiations a review of the present working arrangements on American bases in Britain with a view to "any possible improvements in coordination."

Impetus for the talks comes from Macmillan, who has been under pressure at home to make sure U.S. planes do not zoom away on unusual flights from Britain without their hosts knowing about it.

The present U.S.-British understanding on bases was reached in 1951 between President Truman and Prime Minister Clement Attlee. A joint statement by Truman and Winston Churchill, Attlee's successor, confirmed the deal the following year.

Since then aircraft have advanced a long way and East-West tensions have reached a new stage. The Soviets swung into a new cold war offensive after downing an American U2 spy plane deep inside their territory. On July 1 they claimed to have shot down a British-based American RB47 craft invading Soviet airspace. Washington said the plane was outside Soviet territory.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The South Carolina Belt will open its 1960 flue-cured tobacco sales Aug. 11, with predictions that the crop will approach or equal last year's record production.

But members of the North Carolina Border Belt, which generally follows the same sales season as South Carolina, voted to delay a decision on their opening auctions.

The South Carolina Belt opening date, set at a Lake City, S.C., meeting of directors of the S.C. Tobacco Warehouse Assn. Thursday, is 12 days later than last season's July 30 opening. Marion Fowler, association executive secretary, said that the late cold weather caused the crop to mature about 10 days later.

But Fowler said a survey of crop conditions indicated that if good weather holds for the next two weeks, production could approach or equal last season's record production of 1,765 pounds an acre. The South Carolina Belt's 1959 crop totaled 142,900,000 pounds and brought an average market price of $63 a hundredweight.

The weather also was the reason the North Carolina Border Belt Warehouse Assn. listed for re-elected P. R. Floyd of Fairmont the question of an opening date. The warehousemen set no deadline for action by the directors.

About 60 representatives of Border Belt markets attended the meeting at Lumberton, N.C. They to a third term as president of the association.

The South Carolina Belt markets are Conway, Loris, Dillon, Darlington, Timmonsville, L. A. M. A. F., Kingstree, Lake City, Hemingway and Pamplico.

The 11th flue-cured market in South Carolina, Mullins, is a member of the Border Belt, along with Fairmont, Lumberton, Chadbourn, Whiteville, Labor City, Fair Bluff, Clarkton and Fayetteville.
