Smith-Norris Exchange Vows

Miss Lee Ann Norris became the bride of Albert Anthony Smith in a double-ring ceremony at four o'clock Sunday afternoon, July 17, 1960, in the Greenville Free Will Baptist Church. The Rev. Raymond Gaskins performed the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hermon L. Norris of Greenville and the bridegroom is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Eddie W. Langston of Fayetteville. The church with its background of emerald jade bridal greens, standards of large white gladioli, illuminated by seven wrought iron candelabra with cathedral candles, made the setting for the impressive ceremony.

A program of nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Smith Worthington.

Entering the church together, the bride wore a ballerina length gown with long Chantilly lace sleeves and sabrina neckline. The full skirt showed back emphasis to form a chapel train.

The bride's fingertip two-tiered veil of silk illusion was attached to a crown of seed pearls and sequins. Her bouquet consisted of white roses surrounded by bridal ribbons and stephanotis topped a lacecovered Prayer Book.

Melvin Norris, uncle of the bride, and Larry Powell of Greenville acted as ushers.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Norris chose a champagne sheath dress of silk organza with matching accessories and a corsage of tangerine carnations.

Mrs. Eddie W. Langston, grandmother of the groom, chose a rose lace dress with matching accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

Mrs. Godwin, grandmother of the bride, was attired in a black and white dress with matching accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

Last Workshop Set July 26

The last in a series of workshops sponsored by the Lakewood Pines Garden Club will be conducted Tuesday, July 26, at Greenville Art Center. The workshop is open to the public.

Those interested in participating are asked to bring "pre-arranged" arrangements for discussion at the 9:30 session.

Mrs. Harry Billica, vice-president of the club, spoke at last Tuesday's meeting on collecting and preparing plant material for dried arrangements. She displayed foliage, grasses and pods which had been conditioned either by drying or by being glycerized. A third process for preserving, that of covering flowers with borax for a period of time, was explained by Mrs. Billica.

In addition, Mrs. Richard Heller, a former president of the club, discussed mechanical processes, such as wiring and using picks, which are essential to a lasting arrangement.

In mixing fresh and dried materials in an arrangement, two ways of supplying water to the fresh part were named by Mrs. Heller. Tubes containing water and stems of the fresh material may be inserted among the dried material or stems of the treated material can be elevated above the water in a container by means of picks.

Mrs. Heller demonstrated how the use of supports, made of floral wire and tape, aided in preparing an arrangement of fruit.

Following the talks, those attending prepared arrangements of summer flowers and exchanged criticism of them.

The Lakewood Pines Club, which is a member of the North Carolina Federation of Garden Clubs, begins its seventh year of activity with the following slate of officers: Mrs. R. E. Wilfong, president; Mrs. Billica, vice-president; Mrs. John Barnhill, secretary; and Mrs. Tommy Morris, treasurer.

Guests were greeted at the door by Mrs. Respass, Miss Garner and Mrs. W. G. Garner, mother of the bride-elect.

Mrs. Oakley invited the guests into the dining room where punch, chicken salad puffs, open face sandwiches, cheese straws and cakes were served by Mrs. Melvin Moore of Staten Island, N. Y., Miss Carol Farrow and Mrs. Hugo Williams. An arrangement of yellow and white mums were used on the table. Mixed summer flowers were used in the living room and den.

Books & Stuff

By DR. ED HIRSHBERG

This week marks publication of Harry Golden's newest book, called ENJOY, ENJOY! Most of us already are familiar with "the fat little guy" who prints and distributes "The Carolina Israelite" out of Charlotte at irregular intervals throughout the year, and many of us have learned to love him. He writes about anything that occurs to him, from segregation to salami, and usually has something wise and telling to say about it. A militant backer of the forces of liberalism and enlightenment, not only in the South but everywhere, Harry Golden is a nationally known figure and has done much to make Charlotte and North Carolina better known than they were before he started writing his Carolina Israelite editorials - which have grown into their third book. The two previous were ONLY IN AMERICA and FOR 2¢ PLAIN, and both became best sellers.

HIRSHBERG

ENJOY, ENJOY! is a continuation of his editorial comments, though some of its material has not yet been seen in print. Much of it appeared in recent issues of The Israelite, but it bears republication, especially his articles condemning prejudice and bigotry in any form. We wish Harry Golden good luck on his third venture in book-publishing and hope it's as successful and wide-

They Team Up, Capture Bandit

JEFFERSON, S.C. (AP) - The town's newly hired police chief and a bank officer teamed up Thursday to capture a bandit who had used a toy gun to rob the bank of Jefferson of almost $15,000.

The capture was made 15 minutes after the skinny robber had entered the bank and made off with $14,493.

"It all happened very quickly," said F. M. Hartman, bank vice president. "He pulled a gun on all of us, got the money and ran out."

Police Chief H. E. McKeenan said he heard the burglar alarm while in a drug store across the street.

Hartman picked up a gun, and he and McKeenan jumped into the police chief's car and chased the getaway car.

Hartman said he fired two shots at the bandit's automobile.

"One shattered the rear glass and the other hit his gas tank," Hartman said. "I guess it shook him up. We were shook up, too. Anyway, he stopped."

The banker said he felt "awfully nervous" before the bandit surrendered the toy gun and paper bag containing the money.

Charged with bank robbery in a federal warrant was John Gardner, 37, of Florence. He was arraigned later before U.S. Commissioner William Tyson in Florence and ordered held under $50,000 bond when he waived a preliminary hearing.

Gardner is expected to get a hearing during the December term of Federal Court in Florence. He was lodged in the Darlington County Jail overnight.

Melee Followed Demonstration

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A crowd of some 500 milled about Thursday as white people and Negroes threw punches in a melee that followed lunch counter demonstrations in two downtown Greenville, S.C., stores.

There were no such incidents in two other South Carolina cities where anti-segregation protests were carried out by Negroes.

Three white youths were arrested in Greenville, charged with disorderly conduct, and released under $30 bonds. They were identified as Bobby Sims and Dean Willis, both 17 and both Parker High School students, and Dennis Nevis, 26, of Travelers Rest.

Nevis also was charged with carrying an illegal weapon, a knife, and posted an additional $30 bond.

The fight began after Negroes had staged sit-ins at the S. H. Kress store on South Main Street and the W. T. Grant store on North Main Street.

Three young Negro men and three young Negro women staged sit-ins without incident at Woolworth's and Kress' in Columbia. It was the second straight day of such demonstrations in the capital city.

Guest Editorial

Area Has Promise In Decade Ahead

Editor's Note: The following editorial was prepared by JOHN T. MARSTON, JR., President of State Bank and Trust Co.

Five years ago, when the possibility of moving to Greenville and Pitt County was presented to me, I came down, with some hesitation, to look at the lay of the land. For a man doesn't leave home unless there are persuasive and compelling reasons.

I found those reasons, and decided to stay, primarily because I liked the people and I liked the community. It seemed to me, too, that this community could not fail to grow, and that the bank I was to be associated with was bound to move forward, along with other businesses in the community.

A newcomer to Greenville and Pitt County is impressed with the many opportunities which the area affords for education, cultural development, medical care, recreation, and for all of the aspects of human affairs which make up the progress of just plain living.

We have just begun to recognize our own strength and to tell others of what we have here, a balanced community, ripe for growth. On the business side, we have a tobacco market which is an industry leader, modern banks equipped to serve every financial need, progressive stores forming an outstanding shopping center, and a diversified group of moderate size industries producing products sold throughout the country.

Our progressive farmers lead the world in the production of smoking tobacco, and the soil of Pitt County, with the assistance of a climate made to order for farming can and is producing many crops for a healthy agricultural diversification.

From a cultural point of view, East Carolina College, fourth largest in the State, is outstanding. Our elementary school system, with its able and devoted leadership, moves forward each day in sustaining and surpassing its high level of achievement.

Every day, scores of individuals come to this country for medical treatment by a unique number of dedicated physicians, surgeons and specialists serving our people through the County's hospital, public health service and mental health clinics. Our new nursing school of East Carolina College is indicative of the leading roll in North Carolina which Greenville and Pitt County are expected to play in medical care in Eastern Carolina.

To all of these factors must be added the influence of sound and progressive county and city governments which are alert to the needs of the people and the growth of the community.

Finally, there is an intangible something here which gives great promise to the next decade. That is the people themselves. They love this community, and are constantly working for it, not for personal gain, but because of a desire to see the community move forward. They get a kick out of creative activity. For these reasons, progress will surely and certainly come.

Eye-Opener On Extent Of Economic Impact

At conclusion of the recently completed fiscal year, a report on the "State of the Third Army" has been issued by the office of the Commanding General, Lt. General Herbert B. Powell.

Of especial interest to citizens of the Southeastern States involved, it is noteworthy that expenses for operations ran to about $400 million; and of this, wages for active Army and civilian personnel amounted to around $345 million.

In its summary, the report says total Army expenditures in the area aside from those of Third Army amount to one billion, two hundred million dollars annually.

When one mentally adds corresponding activity by the Air Force, Navy, Coast Guard, National Guard and Reserve personnel, it comes to a tremendous economic impact on the Southeastern States.

Most Puzzling Of Republicans

By JAMES MARLOW WASHINGTON (AP) — The most puzzling Republican of 1960 is still New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

He dropped his bid for the Republican presidential nomination last December because, he said, the party bosses didn't want him. Apparently they still don't, but a few weeks ago he edged back into the picture by saying he's available.

While he's willing to be drafted for the ticket's No. 1 spot, which he says he feels sure he won't get, he says positively and absolutely he will not accept the vice presidential nomination, which might be offered him.

When he expressed his liberal views before the party's Platform Committee in Chicago this week, he got mild applause. But there was an ovation for Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, spokesman for the party's extreme right wing.

Rockefeller said he will campaign actively for the party and the ticket. But at the same time he said he may publicly disagree with official party doctrine during the campaign.

At a time when Republican bigwigs seem to yearn for unity, he has been a constant irritant by his criticism of Vice President Richard M. Nixon, who seems a sure-shot for the presidential nomination.

Yet in Chicago this week some observers thought they detected some softening in his differences with the administration and Nixon which would seem to be necessary if he's going to campaign for the ticket at all.

Whether this is so—and, if it is, whether Rockefeller is seeking some kind of reconciliation with the more conservative elements of the party — still isn't clear. But one thing seems to be obvious:

In the november elections the difference between a national Republican victory or defeat may be the difference between carrying New York or losing it. The party will be in tough shape if Rockefeller should sit on his hands.

Nevertheless, the party bosses have shown few signs of enthusiasm for the governor, at least to the point of buying his ideas for the platform or giving him the presidential nomination.

He has been a goad to the party, perhaps an embarrassment, with his proposals and his criticisms. His only purpose may have effect. Or perhaps he was thinking ahead.

If he's not on this year's ticket and it loses, Rockefeller has laid the groundwork for what might be his own selection as the Republican presidential nominee in 1964.

When Rockefeller said earlier this year he wouldn't consider being No. 2 man on the ticket headed by Nixon, the vice president seemed to be taking him at his word.

Then the Democrats came up with their North-South combination of Sens. John F. Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson, a formidable array of political talent, as Rockefeller acknowledged this week in saying the 1960 campaign would be a tough one.

It was after this that Nixon's unofficial campaign manager, Leonard W. Hall, said that if Rockefeller withdrew his firm stand against second place he would be open to consideration for the No. 2 spot on the ticket.

But after the cool reception he got in Chicago this week before the Platform Committee, Rockefeller may feel more determined than ever to stay out of the picture altogether since the presidential nomination for him seems out of the question.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS DOING GOD'S WILL

Yesterday we quoted a philosopher who said that man's chief duty was to know God's will and then to do it. We wrote, therefore, about how we may try to know God's will.

But to know it is not enough; we must try to do it as well. I say "try," because God's will for each of us is so challenging, so demanding of the very best of which we are capable, that we do not always succeed in fulfilling it.

Some qualities are especially helpful in doing his will. One is energy. No lazy or apathetic person ever carried out God's orders very well. We are given only a limited span of years on earth. If we are to accomplish anything, we must keep busy at it.

Another quality that aids us in getting on with the Lord's work—and our own—is cheerfulness. "God loveth a cheerful giver," and a cheerful worker, too. Gloomy, long-faced Christians do not add to their own effectiveness by their melancholy attitude, nor do they set a good example to others.

But the most important and necessary quality for doing God's will is love. Unless his own great love for us is reflected in our love for Him and for our fellow men, we cannot really do his will at all. "Love one another, as I have loved you."

Where Economy Exists

When governments began, people began to talk about economy in government. They still do.

For those who do, there is a lesson to be learned in thrifty government spending. And the lesson-teaching example is right under our noses.

The municipal government in Falkland operates happily on a tiny budget. Of course, there are only 140 residents and elaborate expenditures are unnecessary.

Still, Falkland expends the smallest per capita amount of any government around. The reason?

Falkland pays only one salary — that of its policeman. Services of the mayor, commissioners, clerk and other personnel are gratis.

That's economy.

One day last week we happened by the Pitt County Office Building on Johnson St. just in time to be thoroughly amused. In the downstairs hall of the old hospital we were standing, talking about things in general.

Engaged in the conversation was one of the senior county employees. He was explaining details of something that's transpiring. Suddenly, a man burst through the door at the east end of the hall, about 50 feet distant, and charged wildly "awn the corridor — straight at us."

Quite normally, we were startled at such an abrupt interruption of the comparative quiet of the office building.

The charging man bore the expression that, as a rule, is borne by either a raving maniac or an expectant father.

It turned out to be the latter. The man, screaming to a halt in our midst, gasped, "Help me get her inside! Quick!"

Visibly disturbed by our comparative nonchalance, the man demanded, "Where's the doctor?"

Our puzzled expressions he finally noticed. A brief glance around told him he was definitely in the wrong hospital.

He grinned feebly. "Well, I used to come here for this." Then, resuming his former character, he dashed wildly from the building and sped off to the west.

In the calm following the storm, the senior employee ventured, "He ain't been to town in 10 years."

For sentimentalists and rebels: Yesterday was the 99th anniversary of a star in the Confederate crown that later disintegrated.

On July 21, 1861, the Confederacy won the first major battle of the Civil War by soundly trouncing Union troops at Bull Run.

For TV fans and other renegades: Eighty-seven years ago yesterday, ole Jesse James was indeed fortunate. He pulled his first train robbery at Adair, Iowa, and escaped with $3,000.

Lucky for him his heyday came and went before the now-immortal days of Eliot Ness and the Untouchables.

Quote

"After studying and working with juveniles for a period of over fifty years, and having ourselves reared a family of nine, we have come to the conclusion (long ago) that a great mother, along with a fairly decent father, can get the job done without any court action, clubs to fence them in, community houses or youth centers." — Denison (Tex.) Press.

"If people don't make proper arrangements for their mail, an otherwise pleasant vacation can be a mighty frustrating experience," says a note from the post office. "The careless preparation or handling of vacation mail can easily result in the traveler's having fewer friends when he returns than he had when he left." There, that ought to explain something you've been wondering about. — Lisbon (N. D.) Gazette.

Almost Like An Orphan

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY Copyright, 1960, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

The Americans for Democratic Action is an organization of the remnants of Roosevelt's New Deal—the bright young men who, during the prewar years of the Roosevelt Administration, migrated to Washington in large numbers to change the world. They were a young, excited, idealistic group of experts in many fields. They conceived and produced many of the alphabetical bureaus of the New Deal.

Unfortunately, the years have passed and they are no longer juvenile intellectuals; they are workers in many fields who have to earn a living as we all do. But they are all nostalgic for the good old days when F. D.R. sat in the White House; when Tommy the Cork held forth on his accord; when Henry Wallace was the social philosopher of the American dream and Rexford Guy Tugwell flexed his muscles against the future.

True, the Democratic Party continues to speak of its liberalism but with no definitions. The A.D.A. assumed the task of sustaining a Liberal program, quite clearly defined. Its hope originally was to work in both parties, but it has not met with much success among the Republicans.

In 1960, the group attempted to run its own candidate, Senator Hubert Humphrey, but he was unable to make the grade. It then attempted a Blitz for Adlai Stevenson which also collapsed. Some of the A.D.A. group finally supported John Kennedy, hoping to get on the bandwagon, but he no longer needed them. They particularly objected to his selection of Lyndon Johnson as Vice President.

Although most of the platform was written by Chester Bowles and Sam Rosenman, the A.D.A. managed to have some of their principles included in it. They believed that John Kennedy could be pushed into an acceptance of their inflationary policy in economics and their universalist position in international relations. They were sure that Robert Kennedy's friendship with Walter Reuther would help them to gobble up the next administration.

The nomination of Lyndon Johnson for Vice President was shock to them. Those who watched television must have seen the faces of Joseph Rauh and Robert Nathan as they moved about the convention hall trying to discover a way to get a Vice President to their liking. They were not only angry; they were in despair.

The truth is that they were dealing with the strongest political machine that had ever been developed in this country in either party. The Kennedy plans represents political genius, a capacity for realistic appraisal and an immediate response to problems. Kennedy faced the alternative of losing the South or losing the radicals. The loss of the South could mean defeat; the loss of the radicals means nothing in election terms. To whom will they turn? The Republicans and Richard Nixon? Obviously not. Some of them might attempt to do something about Nelson Rockefeller who, despite everything, will have his name presented to the Republican Convention.

Rockefeller has a Messianic complex, believing that he is a man of destiny and the Republicans do not know what they are losing in not accepting him. His managers have taken space for propaganda during the Republican Convention and the New York delegation is being impudently made his favorite son and to present his name as such.

Whereas the A.D.A. actually had representation at the Democratic Convention through the District of Columbia delegation, it will have no such representation at the Republican Convention.

Senator Kennedy's motif appears in every statement. It might be stated this way: he has won the nomination. He won every primary he entered. He won in the Convention. He will fight his campaign as his management of the enterprise plans it.

Despite all the gossip about how much money the Kennedys spent, no one came forth with

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL. "IT IS GENERALLY thought that the messages of Amos the prophet, recorded in the book that bears his name, were uttered about 760 B.C."—Pelouset's Select Notes, by the Rev. Dr. Wilbur M. Smith.

Amos could see clearly the sins of his people, the Israelites, and what dreadful future was in store for them if they did not mend their ways. So he warned them:

"Woe to them that are at ease in Zion, and trust in the mountain of Samaria, which are named chief of the nations, to whom the house of Israel came! Pass ye into Calneh, and see; and from thence go ye to Hamath the great; then go down to Gath of the Philistines; be they

Amos then rebukes those who are living lives of luxury, ignoring things to come. He says, "Ye that put far away the evil day, and cause the seat of violence to come near; That lie upon beds of ivory, and stretch themselves upon their couches, and eat the lambs out of the flock, and the calves out of the midst of the stall; That chant to the sound of the viol, and invent to themselves instruments of music, like David; That drink wine in bowls, and anoint themselves with the chief ointments; but they are not grieved for the affliction of Joseph."—Amos 6:3-6.

Greenville Stars Knocked From Eastern Slot, 9-3

ELIZABETH CITY — Greenville's bid for a berth in the State Ten-er League Tournament was sidetracked permanently for 1960 yesterday afternoon when Elizabeth City topped the charges of Coach Tom Money, 9-3.

The win for Elizabeth City was its second straight over Greenville—giving them the eastern slot in the upcoming tournament. The victors struck fast, scoring four runs in the first frame after spotting Greenville a single tally.

A double by Gregory capped the first inning attack, driving in two runs. A single by Capps and two errors had opened the scoring gates earlier in the frame.

Denny Hardee ran into a streak of wildness in the third, walking two and being charged with two wild pitches. A single by Seymour also came in the three-run scoring barrage.

The winners climaxed the scoring in the fourth with runs eight and nine. Singles by Capps and Seymour triggered the final scoring spree.

Greenville, unsteady in the field as well as at the plate, scored first when Kenny Joyner walked in the first inning, stole second, and scored on Dale Gidley's double.

Gidley scored the second run in the third after walking. Gene Henby and Kenny Allen drove back-to-back singles to ignite a small fire that was smothered when Dick Coltraine struck out.

The final Greenville marker came in the seventh and was unearned. An error, a base on balls, and a fielder's choice allowed Mike Cavendish to score.

Hardee gave up only five hits in taking the loss but walked three and committed four wild pitches. He struck out four.

CHICAGO (AP) — Jon Douglas, 23, a Marine, has established a beachhead in the National Clay Courts Tennis Tournament against the big guns of three Davis Cup players.

The stocky, unseeded Douglas—a first-string quarterback for the 1957 Stanford Football team—surprisingly has marched through to the semifinals and today faces the United States' top dog of the Davis Cup team, Barry MacKay.

The other semifinal match, which will be played Saturday, could well be a preview of Davis Cup championship competition. It sends No. 2 ranked Bernard (Dut) Bartenz, 32, the southpaw precisionist who is aiming for his third straight National Clay Courts title, against red-haired Rod Laver, another lefty and head man of the current Australian traveling Davis Cup squad.

Douglas gained the semifinals by trimming U.S. Davis Cupper Chuck McKinley Thursday 7-5, 6-4, 6-1.

MacKay's cannonball service blew apart Don Dell 6-4, 6-4, 6-2. Bartenz's placements overwhelmed Jack Forrest 6-0, 6-1, 6-1. Laver, displaying tantalizing drop shots along with power, ousted the small Ecuadorian, Miguel Olivera, in three 6-4 sets.

One of the heartbreaks came in the women's division when Janet Hopps of Seattle, Wightman Cup team captain, was forced to default in the quarterfinals to Nancy Richey, 17, of San Angelo, Tex.

Miss Richey took the first set 9-7, lost the second 3-6 and was leading 3-1 in the third when Miss Hopps suffered several leg cramps and had to be helped from the court. She was expected to be able to play in the doubles today.

Second-seeded Dorothy Head Knode advanced and will meet Miss Richey in the semifinals Saturday. Gwyneth Thomas of Shaker Heights, Ohio, and Carole Caldwell of Santa Monica, Calif., both unseeded, will battle in the other semifinals today.

Finals in both divisions are Sunday.

Rickey Pushing Ahead For Third Major League

NEW YORK (AP) — The Continental League is pushing ahead, determined to gain recognition as a third major baseball league, and the National League has turned down a bid by Madison Square Garden for a New York franchise.

These two developments Thursday could have a far-reaching influence in the fast-changing field of baseball expansion.

The Continental announced it had agreed on a formula for paying indemnities to invaded minor league cities, its most troublesome immediate problem.

Branch Rickey, Continental president, has agreed to meet with the expansion committees of the American and National leagues Aug. 2 in Chicago. Rickey thinks favorable action would permit admission of his league into organized baseball within 30 days.

Rickey announced a formula to pay five invaded American Assn. clubs on the basis of 40 cents for each admission in the year in which major league status is granted.

He said Ed Doherty, American Assn. president, had agreed to consider the plan. The five franchises involved are Denver, Houston, Dallas-Ft. Worth, St. Paul and Minneapolis. The Continental would operate Minneapolis-St. Paul as one franchise.

A similar proposal has been made to the International League from which the Continental expects to take Buffalo and Toronto. The same deal probably will be offered the Southern Assn. for Atlanta. The eighth member of the Continental is New York, ruled an "open city" by Commissioner Ford Frick.

Rickey said his league had drafted a formal application that will show full compliance with all the rules (10 points) set down by organized baseball.

The Garden offer for a National League franchise came as a surprise.

Admiral John E. Bergen, chairman of Graham - Page Corp. which owns the Garden, wired President Warren Giles of the National League that formal application will be made for a franchise. He said "preliminary investigation indicates that we can conclude satisfactory arrangements for leasing of playing facilities at Yankee Stadium or the proposed new City Stadium."

Giles quickly threw cold water on the Garden's plans. "I told him (Adm. Bergen) I appreciate their interest in the National League," said Giles. "But we are not in a position to discuss with anyone at this time any application for a franchise in the National League."

Earnhardt Wins

COLUMBIA (AP)—Ralph Earnhardt of Kannapolis, N.C., won the 35-lap limited sportsman race Thursday night at Columbia Speedway.

Earnhardt has entered six such races within the last 10 days and has won all six.

The Kannapolis driver overtook Bobby Isaac of Newton, N.C., on the 5th lap. Isaac faded to third behind Stick Elliott of Kings Mountain, N.C.

There was one wreck involving Johnny Miller of Kannapolis, Floyd Powell of Spartanburg and Harris Sox of Columbia. The drivers all escaped injury.

Industrial League

Carolina Dairy once again chopped the Graniteers down to size last night, pasting their arch-rivals with a 10-7 setback.

It was the only game played in the Industrial League as Offset Printing Company was forced to forfeit its game with Cox Armature due to lack of players.

The Dairy, apparent winners in the second half of the summer league, scored four runs in the first three innings and held a firm lead all the way. Before claiming the win, a last inning rally had to be snuffed out.

Brownie Tripp and Bob Moore laced out two hits each with one of Tripp's hits going for a double. Jerry Warren poled a homer in the third, scoring two runs.

Tingle had three hits, including a triple, to feature the Graniteer attack. Johnny Poell, Wendell Carr, and Pete Hudson had two hits each for the losers.

FLORENCE-MAYO 295 JET OIL CURER

100% AUTOMATIC—NO MATCHES NEEDED

PATENT PENDING

The most modern oil-fired curer ever marketed. Completely automatic! Outside thermostatic controls let you cure an entire barn of tobacco without entering the barn. Eight extra-large galvanized heat-spreaders provide even temperatures throughout the barn, and last 5 to 10 times longer than black stove pipe. Above-ground installation makes the Jet Oil Curer easy to install. Economical, too! Burns low-priced No. 2 fuel oil. Curing costs $12 to $15 per barn.

Florence-Mayo curers are 5 to 10 times safer than old-fashioned independently spaced gas burner curers (with side port burners and small heat-spreaders) using 9-12 or 16 burner units per barn that are expensive to operate. In fact, such gas curers have burned several hundred barns in the last 8 years.

Smith, Friend Put Halt To Buc Streak, Braves Lose

By JACK HAND

Hal Smith is the Babe Ruth of the Los Angeles Coliseum. The Pittsburgh catcher plays screen with the man who invented the game.

Smith hit two more over the screen Thursday night in Pittsburgh's 4-1 victory over the Dodgers. The pair ran his season total to nine. Six of them have been hit at the Coliseum, four in the last two days.

As a result of Smith's home runs and a five-hit pitching job by Vern Law, who won his 12th, the Pirates again lead Milwaukee by 1 1/2 games.

St. Louis gave the Bucs a helping hand in an afternoon game at Milwaukee where they broke the Braves' seven-game winning streak 9-4. A six-run rally in the sixth inning helped Larry Jackson win his 12th.

Philadelphia's Robin Roberts threw a one-hitter, blanking San Francisco 3-0. The only hit was an infield single by Felipe Alou with two out in the fifth.

Mgr. Gene March disputed the official scorer's call on the single that robbed Roberts of his first no-hitter. Roberts took the ruling by scorer Jim McGee philosophically.

"You don't know, you don't know," said Roberts, shaking his head. "If they didn't give the boy a hit on that one, they might have gotten another. The man made the decision, and that was it."

The single came on a ball hit at third baseman Joe Morgan.

Stepping back to field the bouncer, Morgan stabbed the ball but fell to the ground. It was scored a base hit.

Bob Anderson pitched the last-place Chicago Cubs to an 8-1 victory over Cincinnati in the other National League game.

There was only one game Thursday in the American League. Detroit built up enough early lead to offset Washington's late home-run power and defeated the Senators 9-5.

Pittsburgh scored two in the third at Los Angeles on Roberto Clemente's single with the bases loaded. Smith hit No. 8 in the fourth and No. 9 in the seventh, both off Johnny Podres.

Another big crowd of 51,193 saw the series finale. A total of 153,932 fans saw the three games, boosting the Dodgers' home attendance to 1,435,729 for 46 home dates.

It was Law's third victory over the Dodgers and his third complete game against them in three starts. The right-hander had gone the route six straight times at the Coliseum since he was knocked out May 1, 1958.

The Cardinals, blanked Wednesday night by Warren Spahn, were held to one hit in the first five innings, but they rose up and chased Carl Willey in the big sixth. Bill White's two-run double with the bases loaded opened the gates. Jackson needed help from Lindy McDaniel when the Braves threatened in the seventh.

Winkenwerder Vaults To First

ASHEVILLE (AP)—Bill Winkenwerder could do no wrong on the Beaver Lake golf course Thursday and he vaulted from 18th place to first at the halfway mark of the Beaver Lake Invitational Golf Tournament.

Winkenwerder was tied for 18th place after his first-round 74 Wednesday. But a brilliant six-under-par 66 Thursday shot him into a one-stroke lead.

Tied for second place at 141 were Bobb Ford, an Air Force sergeant from Sumter, S.C., and Eddie Honeycutt of Mooresville.

Gene Ochsenreiter of Asheville, the first-round leader with a 69, finished with a 74 Thursday and was in a four-way tie at 141.

Billy Perry of Greenville, S.C., was alone at 142.

Then came Ochsenreiter, Fred Blakemore Jr., of Highlands, George Sexton of Hendersonville, and Joe Bartlett of Asheville.

As Usual, Palmer Holding Lead In Golf Tournament

By FRITZ HOWELL

Palmer put together his round early and then let the starting field of 184 fire at his 67. Snead, 48, gathered by a hooking driver, came in late and made the biggest bid. Invited into the press tent for a chat with the scribes, the West Virginia slammer drawled: "Can't do it right now. Have to practice before I cool off."

Joining Palmer and Snead as the only parbreakers were Paul Harney, the silt tourist from Worcester, Mass., and veteran Freddie Haas of New Orleans, each with a 69. Bracketed at par 70 were Doug Sanders of Miami Beach, Fla., who tied for the runner-up spot last year; Don Fairfield, 31, of Casey, Ill.; Don January, 30 of Dallas, and sweet-swinging Ken Venturi of Palo Alto, Calif.

Three club pros huddled into a 10-way tie at 71. The top teachers were John O'Donnell of Baltimore, Bob Harris of Winnetka, Ill., and Ed Griffiths, former Ohio Open champion from Youngstown. With them were such tourists as long-hitting George Bayer, Al Beselink, and former champion Jim Ferrier.

The course was loose for the first round, with the tees well to the front and the pins in open spots, to hurry the big field to a before-dark finish.

But Ferrier, native Australian, said as he posted his 71: "This place was real friendly and probably will be for the second round, too. But they'll take the chains off Saturday, and this monster will wake up and roar back. Those last two rounds will be no picnic."

WILLIAM PEARSON'S rousing bestseller on politics
A FEVER in the BLOOD

From the novel published by St. Martin's Press, Inc. Copyright © 1959, by William Pearson. Distributed by King Features Syndicate.

CHAPTER 19
 After lunch the District Attorney and Phil Stimson, the Herald's statehouse reporter, dropped in at Callahan headquarters so that the candidate could review the final draft of his Civil Rights speech for a rally that night.

The discussion turned to the Thomas woman and her injured son. Bert Bosworth, Callahan's campaign manager, joined them.

"I'm so close to working out a settlement with her," Callahan said, "it hurts. Oh, she's still a bit worried that the kid's going to have trouble from that accident in the future, but the doctors don't think so."

Stimson said dourly, "Why don't you get Mrs. Thomas to see your Civil Rights rally tonight? Have a big kiss-and-forgive-in-scene."

 "Yeah," Bosworth said, "you tell us how to do it without kidnapping her first and we might even . . . He snapped his fingers. "Maybe we could do it." He contemplated Callahan soberly. "With a college scholarship for her kid. A trust fund of some kind. Four thousand bucks appreciating in good stocks would see him through college by the time he was ready."

Callahan hesitated. "I'm not saying I buy the idea. She's a pretty bitter woman. But four thousand bucks? We couldn't raise that kind of money between now and tonight."
 "We could pass the hat at the rally. If we had a big gift to start it off. Say, two thousand bucks," Bosworth raised his eyes in a measured question. "Bob Vinquist?"

 "It's not very damn subtle," Bosworth said, "but anything's worth a try. And isn't Vinquist in the NAACP? The thing could come through them."
 Callahan frowned to himself. "Maybe so. Maybe so. But we'll have to work fast." He looked at his watch. "Damn fast."

"You wanted to see me, Dan?" Bob Vinquist said.
 "Sit down, Roberto." There was a scowl on Callahan's face. "The idea's been put forth that we get Mrs. Thomas to the rally tonight. On the platform."

"I've heard of wilder ideas."
 "Yeah, but the little boy's pulling out of things okay. If hospital bills, paid the doctors some organization, maybe the NAACP, was willing to make a presentation of a trust fund to his mother tonight, she might be willing to come. For his college education. It wouldn't take much to get it started. Maybe two thousand dollars?"

Held by something in Callahan's eyes, Bob said "Why are you looking at me that way?"

Dan laughed equivocally. "Where else could we get two thousand extra bucks in a hurry?"

"I couldn't do it, Dan."
 "By gosh, all through this campaign getting money from you has been like pulling teeth!"

"All right, as long as we're on the subject, there have been a few times when I've wondered whether my usefulness begins and ends with my wallet." He made a quick gesture to disown the words, more annoyed at himself than at Dan for confirming almost the truth of the taunt. "I don't mind putting in my money, but I like to have a little say in . . ."

"You want more than a little say, my friend. You want to run things. You haven't forgotten, have you, the go-around we had about Temple's affidavit?"

"I haven't forgotten. But I thought I talked you out of opposing the affidavit on the basis of the law that would be applicable. Anyway, later on you even asked the Supreme Court to grant Hart a new trial yourself. You can't say I made you do that."

"You don't want Simon to win, do you?"

"Of course not. You know I want to help. Any way I can. But . . ."

"Then this is the way you can do it." Dan said grimly. "Because I've got to get that woman off my neck. And I'll tell you why I have to get her off my neck, and I'm counting on you drunk. And what if I was? I have your word for that?"

 "I think I've shown I can be trusted."
 "I want your word." Bridling, Bob said, "This is very melodramatic. Certainly, you have my word."
 "You're damn right it's melodramatic!" Dan leaned forward savagely. "Because my political life's at stake. Mickey and I weren't to do the arrest a dope peddler. I was sick. From too much Barbecue. We were fighting that damn Fourth of July traffic, and it was taking forever. Mickey turned on the siren and . . . well, you know the rest."

Appalled, Bob said, "So everything Mrs. Thomas says is true?"
 "No!" Dan whirled. "We weren't joy-riding. I wasn't drunk. And what if I was? I wasn't the driver. And do you think Mickey wanted to hit that late the confidence Ever Do I kid? I've taken care of the hospital bills, paid the doctors. Roberto, it could have happened to anyone, but because it happened to a guy who happens to be running for Governor . . ."

"You actually intend to keep on saying you were on your way to make an arrest?"
 "How can I say anything different now? How? Don't you see any of my side of it? Don't you see why I want to get that woman to the rally tonight? Why I have to?"

"I wouldn't put up my money for that now for all the . . ."

"All the jobs I could get for you?"

Bob studied the agonized yet incongruously defiant and menacing figure looming before him.

"Roberto, it could have happened to anyone." "I remember that night at Kean's. You were going to suspend Beers. You were even ready to do that! And then you must have gone around to see him, and you suddenly realized he could blow your whole story sky-high. So you retreated. But even when you retreated, you made it look good. You said you weren't going to let down the man you grew up with, no matter what it cost." He felt caught up in bitterness and old resentments. "Boy, have I ever been had!"

"Roberto," astounded, Bob repeated Dan was on the verge of tears—"listen to me. You're so wrong it's almost funny."

"I'm through, Dan. I've had a bellyful. Ever since the Hart trial, ever since you stooge got up and said Hart had tried to kill his wife once before. I've been wondering what's happened to my sense of outrage. Well, I've got it back. I wanted lots of things, and one of them was, I wanted you to win, but I don't want them this badly." Then, struck by a chilling suspicion, he said, "Did you coach Beers to make that speech at the trial?"

"What right to you have to

Art Center Will Be Closed Next Month

The Greenville Art Center will close as of July 29 and remain closed during the month of August. The current exhibition of "Award Winners" will continue until July 23.

During August, all exhibitions, activities and classes will be discontinued. The time and schedule of resumption will be announced later.

The current exhibition of paintings by nine award winners of the N.C. Federation of Women's Clubs annual scholarships, 1951-1959, consists largely of abstract art. The artists are well known and most of them have teaching positions in schools and colleges. One is an architect.

The scholarships offered were in the amount of $300 and have been given yearly to students of outstanding promise. The artists included, still in their twenties and early thirties, have achieved recognition beyond their years.

A painting by George Bireline, one of the winners, was bought by the Ford Foundation and later presented to the Mint Museum. Robert Burns was awarded the A.I.A. Gold Medal and the "Prix de Paris" in 1957. James Bumgardner recently had a one-man show in a New York gallery and is scheduled, as is George Bireline, for inclusion in another this fall.

David Huntley has exhibited his work in some 35 art exhibitions throughout the country in the past five years. His work has been reviewed in The New York Times, The New York Herald Tribune, "Arts," and "Art News." Maud Gatewood, among her honors, is a former winner in the N. C. Museum of Art Annual N.C. Artists' Competition.

Don Mahy has traveled over the world, and consequently has become acquainted with many of the world's major art museums. He used his scholarship award for a summer of art study in Guadalajara, Mexico. Peter Jacobsen, a graduate of the School of Design of N.C. State College, Raleigh, is presently an architect. He is also interested in the theatre.

Anne Mercer Kesler's paintings have been exhibited both in and out of this state and appear regularly in the Winston-Salem Gallery of Fine Arts. She is a part-time instructor at Salem College.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—Blue chips broke several points as the stock market continued a quiet, discouraged decline early this afternoon.

The market averages were off sharply, weakened by the decline in high quality issues.

The market was mixed at the start, some of the wheelhorses holding their ground or advancing fractions as they steadied after Thursday's setback. This was only a temporary stand.

Buying interest was slack and prices wilted under steady, unsensational selling pressure.

As earnings reports for the second quarter grew in volume, the same story was being repeated—a profits squeeze on leading companies some of which showed higher sales but lower income.

DuPont, which reported in that vein this week, reached another new low, falling close to 7 points before cutting the loss to about 4.

Steels, chemicals, oils, rails, nonferrous metals, and electrical equipment were among the losers.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off 6.83 to 609.80.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was down 1.50 to 214.30 with the industrials off 3.60, the rails off .20 and the utilities up .10.

Corporate bonds were slightly higher. U.S. government bonds declined.

Farmville Radio Station's Call Letters Are Changed

FARMVILLE—Under new management for nearly a week, former radio station WBTC here yesterday officially changed its call letters to WFAG—"Watching the Farmville Area Grow."

The new managers, H. Clold Wade Jr. and Carl V. Venters Jr., acquired the station last Saturday in a transaction with R. E. and J. H. Mayo of Farmville.

The Mayos instituted the local station last December. It operates on 1250 kilocycles and is located just north of Farmville on the east side of N. Main St.

Wade, a Zebulon native, told the Daily Reflector today the station will experience no great change in policy. "We plan well-rounded programming."

He added, "We will not be a 'rock and roll' station in a classical one. We will include a considerable number of disc jockey programs and will do a lot of public service."

Wade came to Farmville from a position as assistant manager of radio station WFSC in Franklin, N. C., the county seat of Macon County. He plans to move his family here "as soon as arrangements can be made."

Venters, a Jacksonville native, left his position as program manager of WUNC-TV the University of North Carolina's educational television station in Chapel Hill.

Both men are UNC graduates. They were classmates there and worked together at the university's radio and television facilities.

Venters also plans to move his family here as soon as possible.

Wade is married to the former Ann Howell of Alexandria, Va. They have two daughters—Ginger, 3, and Carrie Ann, two months.

Venters and his wife, the former Bobbie Hanby of Jacksonville, have two sons, Carl Jr., 4, and Lee, 3.

Note Sharp Rise In Polio Cases

WASHINGTON (AP)—A sharp rise in polio cases was reported last week, the Public Health Service said today.

There were 95 cases listed, 69 of them paralytic, as compared with 49 cases of which 39 were paralytic in the preceding week which ended July 9.

From Jan. 1 through July 16 there had been 457 paralytic cases reported by the states, compared with 969 at this time in 1959 and 437 in 1958.

Rhode Island with 24 new polio cases, and California and South Carolina with 12 each accounted for one more than half of last week's state total. The paralytic cases in these states totaled 37, also more than half the national count.

Again Seek Talks On Disarmament

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — President Eisenhower's call for resumption of disarmament talks to reduce war risk was reported today to be part of U.S. strategy aimed at putting the Soviet Union on the defensive.

The President announced Thursday night that the United States wants an early meeting of representatives of all 82 United Nations countries for urgent discussion of a way out of the arms race.

In a statement issued at the White House, Eisenhower said he had instructed Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, chief of the U.S. delegation to the U.N., to petition today for speedy revival of disarmament negotiations. Lodge arranged to do so.

In sounding his call for new talks by all U.N. members, Eisenhower recalled the Soviet delegates had walked out of the 10-nation disarmament negotiations at Geneva last month. At the time the United States was about to outline new proposals.

"Our efforts to get the Soviet Union to return to the conference table through normal diplomatic channels have not met with success," Eisenhower said.

"The need for disarmament in the present world situation is too important to set aside at the present time when deliberate efforts are being made to increase tensions."

That was an obvious allusion to the many-sided anti-American campaign the Soviet Union has been carrying on since Premier Nikita Khrushchev wrecked the Paris summit conference last May.

Eisenhower went on to say that under its charter the United Nations has primary responsibility in the disarmament field.

Then he announced that he had instructed Lodge to seek "an early meeting of the Disarmament Commission of the United Nations so that we and other members of the international community can continue to search for ways and means to achieve the universal desire to reduce the risk of war by controlled steps of disarmament." Such a meeting of the 82-nation membership requires a majority vote, at least 42 votes.

After the President's call Thursday night, U.N. diplomats expressed belief that the U.S. request for an early meeting would be approved.

However, many delegates — including some Western Allies — were extremely cool toward the idea.

These delegates expressed belief there appears to be little prospect for disarmament progress while the tension in East-West relations is mounting.

Dag Hammarskjold, U.N. secretary general, said recently the 82-nation commission should meet in advance of the fall session of the General Assembly starting Sept. 20. But he also said nothing could be expected unless new disarmament proposals are submitted.

At the same time Hammarskjold suggested a breathing spell to allow time for the dust to settle in the wake of the walk-out of the Soviet Union and other Iron Curtain countries from the Geneva conference last June 27.

Lodge, in confirming he would request a U.N. commission meeting, said he is ready to set forth disarmament proposals. But he declined to elaborate. He said that the United States would like to see the commission meet early in August.

There appeared to be little doubt that the President's call for a commission meeting is keyed to a U.S. decision to hit back hard and fast every time the Kremlin cuts loose with a fresh propaganda barrage against the United States.

FHA Reports Loans Of $609,790 In Fiscal Year

Loans totaling $609,790 were made by the Farmers Home Administration to farm families in Pitt County during the 1960 fiscal year, according to Ben H. White, the agency's county supervisor.

The bulk of the funds borrowed are in operating loans, those for fertilizer, pesticides, livestock, machinery and equipment and to make recommended adjustments in farming systems. Borrowings during the year to meet this type of need totaled approximately $545,130.

Farm real estate loans during the year amounted to $64,660. Farmers use these loans to improve or purchase farms or farm land, to build or repair farm dwellings and finance other essential farm construction, to install or repair irrigation systems, level land, establish good permanent pasture, terrace fields and otherwise improve farms.

Even though 1959 was a bad crop year in many sections of Pitt County due to excessive rainfall during July and August FHA borrowers repaid 97 percent of the amount due on their loans, White said.

Improvements which FHA families are trying to achieve include more pigs saved from each litter, better housing for themselves and their livestock and equipment, improved pastures, increasing yields per acre of all crops through soil testing, proper fertilization and proper use of insecticides and putting their farming on a more business like basis by keeping an accurate record of their income and expenses.

Throughout the county are many farm families who have borrowed in former years and are still making scheduled repayments, White stated. Many other families now farming in Pitt County, and who had borrowed from FHA, have now repaid their loans in full and are financing their needs through banks and other lenders.

Begin Aug. 11

FAIRMONT, N. C. (AP)—The 19 markets of the South Carolina-North Carolina Border Belt will begin 1960 flue-cured tobacco sales Aug. 11.

Observers said a fine crop is in prospect in spite of bad spring weather which pushed the opening date about two weeks later than normal.

The North Carolina Border Belt Warehouse Assn.'s board of directors agreed on the date at a meeting here Thursday night. South Carolina's Tobacco Warehouse Assn. already had set its opening for Aug. 11.

Last year the belt's market began sales July 30.

The North Carolina association includes markets at Fairmont, Lumberton, Chadbourne, Whiteville, Tabor City, Fair Bluff, Clarkton and Fayetteville, in North Carolina, and Mullins, S. C.

Grimesland Votes Next Week On Water Funds

GRIMESLAND — Residents of Grimesland will vote Wednesday in a special election on the withdrawal of $16,000 for extension of the water distribution system.

The sum, if approved, will be withdrawn from the principal sum now held by Carolina Power and Light Company and representing the purchase price of the town's electric distribution system.

There will be no new registration of voters, and election will be by a majority of voters.

Recently the water system was completed with other funds from sale of the electric system. In all, $85,000 have been withdrawn from the electrical system sale funds, and have financed the new water storage tank, gravel wall well and distribution system and a new fire truck, which arrived in April.

Withdrawal of the additional $16,000 will bring the funds used up to $101,000. Mayor Leslie Elks said, leaving $55,000 in the sale fund. Elks commented that the town is in "good financial shape."

Polls will be open on the day of the election from 6:30 a.m. until 6:30 p.m. Each registered person is entitled to vote. Mrs. Lela Bell Hoell will be registrar and judges of the election will be Annie W. Buck and Lucille Elks.

Board Meeting

On Wednesday night following the election, the Board of Aldermen will continue their monthly meeting. A budget for the town of Grimesland will be discussed at that time.

Driver Charged In Collision Here

Damage estimated at $300 resulted to a car driven by John Isaac Prater, 29-year-old Negro of 1310A Mills St. yesterday when it was struck by a truck at the intersection of Dickinson and Atlantic Aves.

According to investigating officers, the Prater car was stopped for a stop light, headed South on Atlantic Ave. when a truck operated by James Franklin Wade, 24, of 110 West Ninth St., making a turn off Dickinson Ave. struck the stopped auto.

Officers, who placed damage to the truck at $400, charged Wade with improper turning.

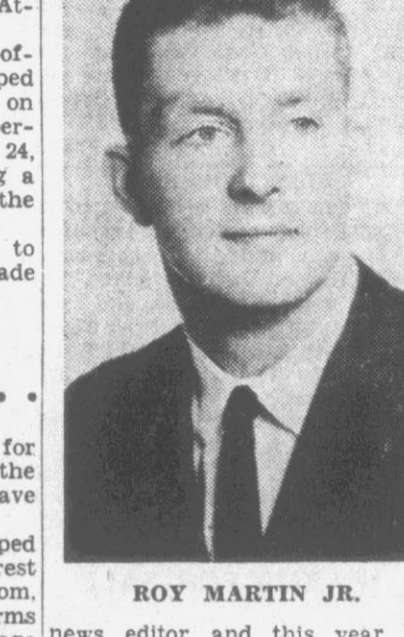

No injuries were reported.

Mills Seized By Castro's Decree

HAVANA (AP) — The Cuban government announced officially today it has seized three mills belonging to the Cuban American Sugar Mill Co.

An intervention order signed by Prime Minister Fidel Castro said the action was taken "for the protection of workers and the national industry."

The decree accused the American company of failing to liquidate its obligations to suppliers "leaving thousands of Cuban cane growers in a state of ruin."

Experts estimate the mills — two in Cuba's eastern Oriente province and one near Havana — have a total value, including adjoining land, of nearly 75 million dollars.

N.C. Fugitive Is Caught In Norfolk

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — Detectives surrounded a home Thursday night and brought out handcuffed James Jackson, 38, who escaped from a North Carolina prison camp in 1956.

At the time of his break, Jackson, Wingate, N.C., farmer, was serving a life term for the hammer slaying of his wife in 1950.

Jackson offered no resistance and told detectives at police headquarters he would not seek an extradition hearing.

"I suppose I intended to go back anyway," he said.

Jackson, who has been working for an industrial firm here for three years, was arrested in Norfolk for felonious assault July 11 and received a 60-day suspended jail term.

The FBI later informed police that Jackson was a wanted man. North Carolina authorities asked police here to arrest him again.
