Quarrels, Tension Fade As GOP Looks To Tonight's Nomination

By JACK BELL
CONVENTION HALL, Chicago (AP)—In relaxed mood, the Republicans whirled through a round of social activities and sightseeing today preliminary to their convention's big moment tonight—the nomination of Richard M. Nixon for president.

Tensions and quarrels over the platform had faded. The mood was: Close ranks and wham the Democrats.

Nixon and Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, who once looked as prospective antagonists at this convention, breakfasted together in great harmony.

Accompanied by Mrs. Nixon, the vice president went over to Rockefeller's hotel for breakfast with the governor and the New York delegation.

Rockefeller met him at the curb and they all but embraced, looking like a couple of old college buddies at a 25th class reunion.

Nixon called New York the key state in what he said was going to be a very close election contest.

Rockefeller, his arm around Nixon, declared "he's going to win with New York state in the fall."

In an informal interview, Nixon made it definite that his vice presidential running mate will be selected until Thursday.

He said there would be a meeting tonight—or Thursday if tonight's convention session runs late—of party leaders from all sections to talk about a vice presidential nominee.

"I want to have a full discussion of it before we have a final decision," Nixon said.

In response to questions, he said Rockefeller will certainly be one of those consulted. He also mentioned Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona and Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois as among those whose opinions he desires.

Goldwater is at the extreme right wing of the GOP. He was critical of last weekend's Nixon-

Rockefeller statement of principles, calling it a surrender by Nixon. He also didn't like some aspects of the platform.

Nixon's mention of the Arizona senator as one of those to be consulted about the vice presidential nominee tended to emphasize the ranks-closing phase into which Nixon, in firm control of the convention, has now carried it. The name still getting most attention in speculation as to the No. 2 spot on the ticket was that of U. N. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge.

Also figuring in it were Sen. Thrustron B. Morton of Kentucky, Rep. Walter Judd of Minnesota and Secretary of the Interior Fred Seaton.

Rep. Gerald Ford of Michigan had his backers, too.

President Eisenhower, who was given his big day and night here yesterday in what the convention called "Thank You Ike Day," breakfasted with his own Cabinet officers and GOP candidates for various offices—about 600 in all.

Eisenhower was presented a bust of Abraham Lincoln. Gov. William G. Stratton gave it to him on behalf of the people of Illinois.

In a little speech of acceptance, Eisenhower recalled Lincoln's pronouncement that the government should undertake only those things that the people are unable to do themselves.

With this as his text, the President urged that GOP candidates follow "the great middle road" and ignore the gutter, left or right.

To roars of thunderous applause, Eisenhower told the convention Tuesday night that his administration had "employed the whole might of our military, economic, political and moral strength to prevent war and to build a solid structure of peace."

Then, in passing the baton of GOP leadership to Nixon, his specially trained vice president, Eisenhower added: "If we can be blessed with experience and steady leadership in Washington, the possibility of the outbreak of future war will be minimized and we can eventually win the peace."

Nixon was in full command of a convention as perhaps no other nominee-to-be except a White House occupant ever has been.

In the past a few outgoing presidents like Theodore Roosevelt and Andrew Jackson have controlled conventions, dictated their nominees, and had the final word on platforms.

This convention listened to and cheered President Eisenhower. It might bend somewhat to his wishes. But because of the two-term limitations imposed upon a president for the first time, he could not threaten or entice the delegates. He could only try to persuade.

So it was Nixon who wore the general's stars for the first time. It was Nixon who told the platform committee what to do. It would be Nixon who chose his vice presidential running mate.

Although he put off a final decision until after his own nomination, the odds were very heavy that Nixon will pick telegraphic Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., the Soviet-baiting United Nations ambassador, to run with him.

Nixon summoned a score or more of the party's leaders to meet with him in his hotel suite tonight on the vice presidential choice. That made it almost certain the convention will not act on that until Thursday.

There remained the outside chance that at the meeting, Nixon might be convinced that Sen. Thrustron B. Morton of Kentucky, the GOP national chairman, might be the better entry in November's bitter struggle.

Russian Complaints Over Air Violation Rejected By UN's Security Council

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Security Council debate on the American RB47 reconnaissance plane shot down by the Soviets ended Tuesday night with a 9-2 council vote rejecting Soviet charges against the United States and a Soviet veto of the U. S. proposal for an international investigation.

The Soviets also vetoed an Italian proposal that the International Red Cross contact the two surviving crewmen of the American plane, who are being held by the Soviets for trial as spies.

Despite the official impasse, U. N. diplomats chafed at the outcome as a defeat for the Soviet Union and a victory for the United States. They pointed out that on all three resolutions the vote was 9-2, with the Soviet Union and Poland opposed by all nine non-Communist members of the council including Ceylon and Tunisia, which usually abstain from voting on cold war disputes.

The vetoes brought the Soviet total to 89 in the council's history.

Chief U. S. delegate Henry Cabot Lodge said the Soviets by blocking an investigation showed "they do not believe their own charge" against the United States. He termed the Italian proposal for the Red Cross to contact the captured fliers a "compassionate resolution."

He told the council: "It is a sad thing when a people as warm-hearted as the Soviet people is represented by a government as cold-hearted, brutal, hard and cynical as they showed themselves to be tonight."

The Soviets had charged that the RB47, when shot down by a Soviet jet fighter July 1, was on a spy mission over Soviet territorial waters in the Barents Sea. The Soviet resolution that the council rejected would have condemned the United States for aggressive acts and called on it to cease such activity.

Lodge earlier in the debate said the plane was investigating electromagnetic currents in arctic waters for mapping purposes and that it never came closer than 30 miles to Soviet territory.

In a last-minute counterattack, the U. S. delegate produced a picture of a Soviet TU16 jet bomber with electronic reconnaissance equipment under a wing and said such planes had been flying off the Alaskan coast for years. He exhibited a map showing six such flights in 1959 and 1960.

"The difference between the United States and the Soviet Union is that we shoot their planes with guns and rockets and kill or imprison our crews," Lodge said.

Lodge also charged that the Soviet trawler Vega last April 26 made a vain attempt 105 miles southeast of Cape Cod to pick up a "loaded test vehicle" that the nuclear submarine George Washington had just shot from its Polaris missile ejection system.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily V. Kuznetsov replied that Lodge had produced no new evidence—only "a theatrical, circus-like performance."

Brief Comparison Of Party Planks On Civil Rights

By OVID A. MARTIN
CHICAGO (AP)—Here is a brief comparison between the civil rights plank adopted by the Democratic party and that approved by the Republican Platform Committee for submission to the party's convention tonight:

VOTING — Democrats pledged use of full powers of existing law to secure ballot. They promised to support action to eliminate state literacy tests and payment of poll taxes as requirements for voting.

The Republican plank also pledged use of existing law to end discrimination at the ballot box. But it pledged legislation to provide that completion of six primary grades in state accredited schools is conclusive evidence of literacy for voting purposes.

EDUCATION — Democrats promised to use full powers—legal and moral—to ensure the beginning of good faith compliance with the Supreme Court's school desegregation decision. They would give local school districts until 1963 to submit plans for first-step compliance with that decision.

The Republican plank pledged use of the Civil Rights Act of 1960 to prevent obstruction of court desegregation orders. It proposed legislation authorizing the Justice Department to bring actions for school desegregation in appropriate cases, as when economic coercion or threat of physical harm is used to deter persons from going to court to establish their rights. It rejected the Democratic proposal to give school districts three years to submit plans for beginning integration.

EMPLOYMENT — Democrats promised support of legislation to establish a fair employment practices commission to help end discrimination in employment. They also promised to use full executive powers to assure racial equality in federal employment and in all activities carried on under government contracts.

The Republican plank pledged creation of a commission on equal job opportunity to continue present federal efforts to end job discrimination on government contracts. It promised legislation to end discriminatory membership practices of some labor union locals, unless such practices are ended by the unions themselves. It pledged also development of a federal-state program to end discrimination in all employment areas.

HOUSING — Democrats promised to take action to end discrimination in federal housing programs.

The Republican plank pledged action to prohibit discrimination in housing constructed with aid of federal subsidies.

FEDERAL FACILITIES AND SERVICES — Democrats said the Justice Department should be empowered and directed to file civil injunction suits to prevent discrimination in all areas of community life, such as voting, schools, housing, jobs and public facilities.

The Republican plank promised to end discrimination in federal facilities, to oppose use of federal funds for building segregated community facilities and to insure that public transportation and other government-authorized services are free of segregation.

SIT-IN DEMONSTRATIONS — Democrats said such peaceful affairs are a signal to the nation to make good in guaranteeing civil rights.

The Republican plank reaffirmed the constitutional right to peaceful assembly to protest discrimination in private business establishments, and applauded businessmen who have abandoned discriminatory practices.

LEGISLATIVE PROCEDURE — Democrats said congressional procedure should be improved to permit majority rule.

The Republican plank pledged the party's best efforts to change congressional procedures that often make unattainable proper legislative action in the civil rights field.

Eisenhower Advises GOP To Take The Middle Road

CHICAGO (AP)—President Eisenhower today urged Republican candidates to follow "the great middle road" and ignore the gutter, left or right.

Eisenhower held forth to Republican office-seekers at a party breakfast the philosophy of Abraham Lincoln that the government should undertake only those things that the people are unable to do themselves.

"We ought to use it as a flaming battle flag on the highest mast the Republican party can put up and fight for it always," Eisenhower said.

This approach to government is difficult to defend, the President added, and requires intelligent explanation or will be attacked from both flanks.

"But that is exactly what we have to do," he said.

The Republican party possesses great strength, however, Eisenhower said, "because so many people want to go in exactly that direction."

Eisenhower addressed a breakfast meeting of his own Cabinet officers and GOP candidates for various offices. About 600 attended the affair, in the Morrison Hotel.

It was Eisenhower's last scheduled appearance in this convention city before heading with Mrs. Eisenhower for Denver, where he will spend the rest of the week.

"In the operation of any great human organism," Eisenhower told his fellow Republicans, "constructive plans and programs must be developed in what we call the great middle road."

The President said most people instinctively "grow to like the paved highway stretching before them and they understand that here is where human progress is achieved."

He said "we are truly a middle of the road party." By that, he added, "I don't mean walking just a wishy-washy path—no at all."

Eisenhower said there are others who insist on "marching in the gutters, the extremes of the right and left" but he declared that they "in the long run are always defeated."

He set forth this goal: "You must find the broad highway and you must ignore the gutters."

In the Republican party, he said, he found few, if any, "who are in the gutters."

The President was acclaimed in a manner he'll never forget when he arrived Tuesday.

A throng of about one million roared an exuberant welcome and showered the President and his wife with confetti, ticker tape and gay balloons.

Tuesday night the Republican delegates and their guests cut loose at Convention Hall with a thunderous ovation that obviously touched the President and Mrs. Eisenhower deeply.

It was a sentimental journey back to Chicago for the President and his wife. As they stood arm in arm on the platform, smiling and waving, their thoughts inevitably went back to a July day eight years ago when he was nominated for his first term in the White House.

Now he was approaching the end of his second term and the crowd was saying a rousing farewell.

The crowd wanted Mamie to share it.

"Thank you, Mamie and Ike," banners everywhere proclaimed. "Well done," others read.

The President delivered a fighting speech, hitting at critics and plugging for election of another Republican president. He was interrupted by applause 78 times.

He had a time of it even getting started. An ovation started the moment he was introduced by Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois. The President and the first lady walked arm in arm to the rostrum and the crowd went wild.

The band played—among other numbers, "The Sunshine of Your Smile," an Eisenhower campaign tune of 1952 and 1956—state banners were waved aloft, and the President waved back in his familiar gesture—arms outstretched high above his head.

Several times Mamie sat down. Several times the President laughingly got the smiling first lady back on her feet to share the tribute.

On his ride into town in an open car during the afternoon, Eisenhower got one of the most enthusiastic welcomes he has ever received.

The six-mile tour had ended the President sat in his Blackstone Hotel suite and declared it was an astonishing reception.

"It was one of the finest crowds that I have ever seen," said the man who has been lionized in Britain, France, India, Korea—and in every section of the United States.

$26,226 Bid On Highway Project

A low bid of $26,226 for a resurfacing project on N. C. Highway 11 between Greenville and Bethel was received from Barus Construction Co. of Kinston by the State Highway Commission in Raleigh.

The bid for the 4.7-mile project was one of 25 low bids heard yesterday that involve nearly 103 miles of road work across the state. Total bids amounted to nearly $3 million.

The section of N. C. 11 slated for repaving stretches from a point about a mile north of the highway's intersection with N. C. 30 to a point about one-half mile north of Griddle Creek.

Trust Territory Status Proposed For Congolese

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—The Belgian government believes this newly independent Congo republic should become a United Nations trust territory, highly placed Belgian sources said today.

"Only a strong United Nations administration can save this country from chaos and disaster," a Belgian official said.

He said it was the view of the Belgian government that there is no other solution to the strife-torn former Belgian colony but to turn it over entirely to the U. N.

A Belgian Embassy spokesman stressed that Belgium will continue to view the Congolese government as virtually nonexistent.

The return of Belgian technicians to help stave off the Congo's economic collapse is impossible at this time the spokesman said. He was commenting on Congolese Finance Minister Pascal Nkanyil's appeal to Belgians to return to their posts.

More Fires For U.S. Northwest

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—The Pacific Northwest, its biggest week-old fires still out of control, had more than 50 new lightning-caused fires today.

The new blazes in Oregon and Washington and Idaho came as a lightning storm passed over the area Tuesday. Most were small and fire fighters rushed to quell them early.

In Idaho, Bill Logan, 28, was killed for arson in connection with a 25,000-acre fire that blackened rangeland near Marsing, Idaho, and along the Oregon border.

Thousands of fire fighters continued their struggle. The biggest, the 20,000-acre Anthony Lakes fire in the Wallowa-Whitman National forest, remained unchecked.

Other big fires in the Wallowa-Whitman broke over fire lines Tuesday. They were the Cummings Creek fire of 2,000 acres in the Pomeroy district of southeastern Washington; the 5,000-acre Spring Creek fire at the eastern tip of Oregon; and Cow Creek fire, also in eastern Oregon of 1600 acres.

In Idaho, the 12,000-acre Hells Canyon fire in Payette National Forest; a 4,000-acre Johnson Bar fire in north-central Idaho; and a 7,000-acre brush fire north of Dubois in Targhee National Forest were still out of control.

Castro Offers Others Example

LAS MERCEDES, Cuba (AP)—An ailing Fidel Castro offered his revolution as an example to other Latin American countries Tuesday and repeated charges of U. S. aggression against his government.

Obviously not fully recovered from his bout with pneumonia, the Prime Minister looked drawn and haggard as he hoarsely harangued the crowd. He spoke for two hours and 15 minutes and in the end practically stumbled into the arms of his followers behind him.

Instead of a predicted half million, about 200,000 Cubans struggled through rain, heat and muddy roads to celebrate the seventh anniversary of Castro's revolutionary movement in its birthplace, the Sierra Maestra mountains of eastern Cuba.

Accusing the United States once again of aggression against his regime, Castro said "the principal reason for aggression against our country is to prevent our being an example" to the rest of Latin America.

"We will continue making our fatherland an example that will convert the Americas range into the Sierra Maestra of the continent," he declared.

The Cuban leader also repeated his charge that the proposed new U. S. aid program for Latin America is a bribe to whip up opposition to him.

Everyone In Georgia-Florida Belt Anticipating Big Opening

VALDOSTA, Ga. (AP)—Everybody in the Georgia-Florida Flue-cured Tobacco Belt from bankers to the peanut vendors is looking forward to Thursday's market opening with high expectations.

Spot reports from key crop locations describe quality as average to superior, mostly excellent. The government predicted a yield 7 per cent greater than 1959's better-than-average turnout. That was of July 1 and since then prospects appear to have brightened somewhat. Many expert observers believe yield may be up as much as 1 per cent.

Price expectations likewise are optimistic. A few do not look for quite as good average as last season's record-breaking $57.83 a hundred pounds gross, $57.73 at Florida's 23 selling centers and $58.83 at Florida's 1. Others, on the other hand, predict the figure will reach a new high level.

A rather general belief that the return will be at least as good as in 1959 is in keeping with government price support averaging the same—$10-10 a hundred pounds for the belt's untied tobacco.

The Department of Agriculture's Marketing Service with headquarters at Valdosta suggested in a pre-opening survey that total cash receipts may soar some 1 1/2 million dollars above the 1959 total of nearly 93 million dollars gross.

The USDA based its calculations on estimates of an increased yield and the good chance that price would at least hold their own.

There is one possible cloud on the horizon. It involves the use by some growers of the chemical ME30 to retard sucker growth and lessen the hard labor of tobacco production. A few of the big tobacco companies look with disfavor on tobacco so treated and one or two claim quick tests to detect it on the warehouse floors.

Gavin May Make Seconding Speech

SANFORD, N. C. (AP)—North Carolina's Republican candidate for governor in the November general election telephoned friends here that he will make one of the speeches tonight seconding Vice President Nixon's nomination as GOP presidential candidate.

Attorney Robert Gavin, a Sanford resident, calling from Chicago, said he had been requested to make the speech by the GOP national party chairman.

The state's Democratic gubernatorial candidate, Terry Sanford, was among those seconding the nomination of his party's presidential nominee, Sen. John F. Kennedy, at Los Angeles.

Says Designing Grandma:

You Need Never Grow Old

KATHLEEN DONAY . . . With three of her favorite costume dolls—Camille, Eliza Doolittle and an early Tudor doll copied from a Flemish wall tapestry of around 1500. All are authentic.

By DOROTHY ROE
Women's Editor
 Worrying about old age? Don't, advises Kathleen Donay, who is having more fame, recognition and excitement at 70-plus than she ever had before.

A little Dresden doll lady, pink-cheeked, blue-eyed and white-haired, Mrs. Donay is the widow of a prosperous New York real estate man and the mother of three happy and successful daughters: Mrs. Alex Waller, wife of a West Coast doctor; Mrs. Oscar Caswell, wife of a well-known composer; and Miss Natalie Donay, a New York advertising executive.

But does Mrs. Donay live with any of her daughters? No indeed. She has her own apartment in Jackson Heights, Long Island, makes exquisite, historically accurate costume dolls and works two days a week as a volunteer relief teacher in the New York public schools.

One of the exhibitors in the recent hobby show for older persons in New York, Mrs. Donay says she is so busy that she scarcely has time to make chocolate brownies for her grandchildren, as often as they would like them. Says she:

"It's a shame when older people just sit and wait to die, trying to pass the time by playing cards or working crossword puzzles. There is so much that needs doing, and people are so grateful when you do it."

A former milliner, who had her own Fifth Avenue shop, Mrs. Donay retired from business after her children were born, and devoted her time to the many duties of wife, housekeeper and mother.

But after her daughters grew up and after the death of her husband she looked around for something to employ her active mind and vigorous body. Says she:

"I was on a vacation at the shore when I met a woman who collected rare antique dolls. She showed me a particularly valuable one she had just bought. It was in perfect condition, except for the hat, which was tattered. I offered to make a new hat for the doll, in the correct period, and that was the way it all started."

Mrs. Donay discovered there were many antique doll collectors around the country, and started making miniature millinery for them. Then she had to have a doll on which to fit the hats, and bought a stock model. But the doll didn't look right unless she had a costume to match the hat, so she started doing research on period costumes and ended up by dressing the whole doll. She now has a collection of about 50 dolls, each in an authentic period costume, which has been a highlight of the hobby show for several years. Says she:

"If I'm really inspired, I can finish a doll in a month. Otherwise it takes longer."

Among her collection are such characters as Camille, and Eliza Doolittle, of "My Fair Lady." Each is complete down to the last ruffle on the last petticoat. Fabrics for the costumes are carefully selected from attics and old storerooms and often dyed to achieve the mellowed colors of age. Says Mrs. Donay:

"When I finished Camille, I cried. She was so beautiful."

The two schools in which Mrs. Donay works as a volunteer are in the Harlem section of New York, and the pupils are all "just darlings," in the words of this active elder craftsman, who says:

"God has given me one great blessing—my love of children."

Oh yes—she's going to work this summer as a camp counselor at Camp Madison Felicia in New York State, on a volunteer basis. Says she:

"They've found that older persons can be a great help to the youngsters at camp. It's a new trend."

Notes On The Passing Scene

Dr. Nathan Brooks and wife of Louisville, Ky. will arrive Thursday to spend the weekend with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Brooks, who are celebrating their golden wedding anniversary. Dr. Brooks is president of Carver School of Missions and Social Work in Louisville.

Billy Cratt, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Cratt of Robersonville, was recently treated at Ward's Clinic after being injured while playing Prep League Baseball.

Mrs. N. O. Van Nortwick, Jr., director of "Ramona School of Dance" and Mrs. Wiley D. Forbes, assistant teacher, returned Sunday from a ten day visit to New York City. While there, they attended the "Dance Educators of America" conservatoire. Mrs. Van Nortwick also attended classes at the National Academy of Ballet under the direction of Miss Thalia Mara.

Mr. and Mrs. B. G. Irons of Evans St. are spending a few days at Del Monte Lodge, Pebble Beach, Calif.

Beware Mrs. Homemaker!

RALEIGH—Beware Mrs. Homemaker! As you rush off to your favorite picnic areas, don't forget to check your food to see that it is prepared and stored properly.

Miss S. Virginia Wilson, food and nutrition specialist for the N. C. Agricultural Extension Service, advises all homemakers to keep foods hot or cold until they are served.

"When foods are kept warm (between 60 and 125 degrees F.) harmful bacterial toxins may develop," she says. "This is the cause of what is commonly known as food poisoning."

Plan menus carefully. Mixtures containing milk, eggs, seafoods, salad dressing, poultry, and low acid vegetables (beans, peas, and corn) are most likely to develop this type of spoilage.

Foods can be prepared ahead of time. However, when you have a large bulk of food, don't try to cool all of it in one large container. Put it into several shallow trays so that the food will cool quickly all the way through. Keep refrigerated until ready to use.

If you're adding some articles to your camping equipment supply this year, perhaps a handy ice chest might be a wise choice.

Chief Marshal Gives Debutante A Beach Party

Louis May entertained at a beach party at his parents' cottage, Atlantic Beach, this past weekend honoring Anne Evans, a 1960 debutante. Mr. May will be chief marshal for Miss Evans when she makes her debut in September.

Guests included Greenville debs, Ann Moore with Billy Johnson, Carol Ann Tadlock with Bob Shackelford, and a New Bern deb and classmate of Miss Evans, Kitty Whitty, with Dickie Quick, also of New Bern.

A highlight of the weekend was a dinner party at the Coral Bay Club Saturday night. The centerpiece featured on the dining table was of the traditional debutante flower, roses.

A favor tied with a white bow centered by a small red rose was found at each place.

A corsage of red roses was presented to Miss Evans by the host during the evening. Dancing was enjoyed on the club patio following the dinner.

Baby Chicks Vaccinated

Have you had your baby chicks vaccinated? Nine 4-H'ers in Halifax County were given baby chicks in March as members of the 4-H poultry chain. The 700 chicks have recently been vaccinated for fowl pox.

Miss Martha Lee York, assistant home economics agent, reports the following 4-H'ers have chicks: Jack Whitfield, Mark Twisdale, Eleanor Padgett, Robert House, Linda Hamill, Frances Anderson, Peggy Liles, Aubrey Walker, and Brenda Allen.

Health Improvement

Sue Bishop has been working long hours on her health improvement record. She is adding many improvements to the long record she has established in previous years.

"She is now busily helping younger 4-H members in their health survey," says Miss Sue Ormond, assistant home economics agent in Beaufort County. "She is also helping with campaigns against rat infestation."

Sewing Needs

Plans have been made to instruct 4-H girls in operating their sewing machines. Mrs. Glenn Crissman, adult leader in the Ashley Heights community, plans to have four classes a week in order to take care of the girls in her section. Her daughter, Jennie, is helping plan and organize the girls into different sections.

Mrs. Mary Lou Roman, assistant home economics agent in Hoke County, says Mrs. Paul Heath of the Rockfish community and Mrs. Sam Hiser of Raeford community, also have plans to begin the sewing course.

Room Improvement

Why not let your daughter redecorate her room as her 4-H project? Mrs. Earl Brewer, Marshallville, Rt. 2, decided her daughter could decorate her bedroom as her home improvement project. Lovely new white fringed bedspreads for her twin beds and white daccron curtains have been purchased.

Miss Cloise Williams, assistant home economics agent in Union County, says that after rearranging the furniture, the room appears much more spacious.

First Lady Stars At Fashion Show

By FRANCES LEWINE

CHICAGO (AP) — First Lady Mamie Eisenhower, after a Republican convention ovation, stars today at a showing of historic fashions of past GOP occupants of the White House.

She is the guest of honor at a "Great Ladies" luncheon, a gala social event of the GOP convention.

It was much publicized, rehearsed and even previewed on television before the actual production today before some 2,000 women.

The display included a replica of Mrs. Eisenhower's Renoir pink inaugural ballgown, with 2,000 glittering pink rhinestones, modeled by attractive Mrs. William Stratton, wife of the governor of Illinois.

The gowns, representing the 12 first ladies of Republican presidents from 1860 to 1960, were careful copies, of actual dresses now on display in the Smithsonian Institution in Washington, D.C.

It has been estimated the copying job cost $25,000. It was done by Mme. Barbara Karinska, who has costumed the New York City Ballet.

Follow-through In Care Of Sickroom

Follow-through is as important to sickroom care as to golf. After a patient has recovered — especially from an infectious disease — plenty of soap or detergent suds and hot water should be used to scrub furniture and woodwork.

Washable fabrics should be boiled and sudsed, and toys thoroughly washed. Rubber items, such as hot-water bottles, also need to be sudsed, then rinsed and aired.

One of the most attractive and easily maintained wipe-clean fabrics is bamboo matchstick — used for curtains and draperies. Remove surface dust with a brush or vacuum cleaner then wipe both sides with a sudsy sponge or cloth. Follow with a rinse-wipe of clear water—that's all!

Married This Month

MRS. ROBERT L. WHITFIELD... is the former Linda Gay Duke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lee Forrest Sr. of Albemarle, who announce their daughter's marriage to Mr. Whitfield, son of Mrs. Carrie Whitfield of Robersonville and the late Lester Whitfield. The marriage took place July 2, 1960 in Tyner Methodist Church, Edenton. The couple are residing on ECC campus, where they are students.

Why Doesn't He Call Again?

Why doesn't he call again? That's the question likely to be uppermost in the mind of a teenager who has had a few dates with a boy she likes and in vain awaits another date.

He doesn't call again for reasons a girl might not suspect, says one mother of four dating boys. She has learned this from years of asking her sons, "What ever happened to so and so? Why don't you ever see her any more?"

Drinking out of a soda bottle, for instance, is taboo in the eyes of one son, she says. "Girls should drink out of glasses," he said when asked why he dropped Ann from his date book.

The same young man doesn't like girls who eat a lot when on a date. "He cannot bear a girl who is a constant nibbler. He doesn't like girls who munch, and chewing gum is subject to special scorn," says the mother.

One young man can't bear girls who wear tight slacks. Another young man abhors girls who carry dress too far, such as "dressing up like a racing car driver because you've invited her for a ride in your sports car."

Dribbling pizza pie when eating it so that the lipstick runs can annoy a boy who isn't a gem of neatness himself. But the same boy could be annoyed if a girl is constantly fussing with her lipstick.

A new complaint concerns girls changing bathing suits on the beach. Now that we have quick-dry suits, many girls wear their suits to the beach under culottes or skirt and sweater or what have you.

The boys do not like the idea. "I don't mind if a girl dries her suit thoroughly before she gets back in my car," says one fastidious jalopy owner, but she usually wears a cover-all she doesn't care about, insists on having a final swim before we leave the beach, and then gets my car upholstery soaking wet."

Girls are messy when it comes to bringing sand into the car, and one boy criticized a recent date because she wasn't more considerate of his car. He has a point. "We left the beach. My girl's legs and feet were loaded with sand. When we got to my car, she opened the door, climbed in, and proceeded to beat the sand off with a towel. When she had sand everywhere, she asked for a whisk broom so she could brush out the car, but I didn't have one. Why didn't she think of that before or take the sand off outside the car door? I just can't figure girls."

The girls feel the same way, boys. They just can't figure you. The same fellow who'll drive up in a dusty car to pick a girl up will object if she drops a hairpin on the seat of his car or if she moves the mirror so that she can make up.

GOP Convention Lacks Suspense

Try as they might, the Republicans are having a difficult time making their national convention as exciting and as full of suspense and surprise as was the Democratic convention two weeks ago.

The uncertainty which surrounded many important questions in the Democratic convention is missing in the Republican convention now in progress. Whereas the Democrats were confronted with the matter of selecting a presidential nominee, the Republican choice is already set and the matter of making it official is merely a matter of form.

A great deal of the struggle for power in the Democratic convention that involved behind-the-scenes maneuvering is completely lacking in the Republican convention.

To be a so-called "rigged" convention for the nomination of Sen. John Kennedy, the Democratic session provided a good bit of fireworks and politics. By contrast, the Republican convention is cut-and-dried, leaving the spectator only to follow the orderly events that will lead to the conclusion he knows will be reached.

From the standpoint of public interest in the parties, these factors give the Democrats a decided advantage as the stage is set for the opening of the national political campaign. The greater interest in the Democratic convention afforded the Democrats an opportunity to get their points across to millions of voters who were not members of the Democratic party. The vigorous manner in which the campaigns of the candidates for nomination were conducted is bound to have created interest in the final choice made by the party. Some of the interest stimulated during the Democratic convention will surely carry over as the campaigns get underway.

The Republican convention will show greater unity in that party than was the case of the Democratic convention. While that may attract some independent voters, the fact that differences of opinion were voiced in the Democratic convention before unity was finally achieved probably will attract more independent voters to the Democratic standard during the campaign.

How exciting a national political convention is does not necessarily determine which party will be victorious in the national election. It does, on the other hand, give some indication of the enthusiasm which may be expected in each party as the tempo of the campaign increases with the approach of election day. And that factor has a very real impact on the outcome of the election.

Guest Writers Posed Worthy Observations

For the past eight days the editorial column of The Daily Reflector has been turned over to eight guest writers whose background and knowledge in various phases of community life afforded them a sound position from which to voice editorial opinions on their chosen subjects.

We are confident the readers of The Reflector gained much from the editorial contributions of these leading local citizens and we trust the significant observations made in these guest editorials will serve as a stimulus to bring about the achievement of worthwhile goals for the people of this country.

Again we would like to express our appreciation to the men whose guest editorials have appeared in this column for the past several days: Herbert W. Wilkerson, president of the Greenville Merchants Association; Fred K. Blackburn, project manager, VOA Greenville installation; Dr. Leo W. Jenkins, president East Carolina College; Sam J. Weeks, Pitt County Tobacco Agent; John T. Marston, Jr., president State Bank and Trust Company; O. E. Dowd, principal Rose High School; W. W. Speight, president of Greenville Committee of 100; and W. T. Kyzer, manager of the Greenville Chamber of Commerce.

Same Old Show Seen In Chicago

CHICAGO (AP) — It's like a re-run of the World Series. You see the players running around the bases but you already know the score.

The Republican convention is pretty much a duplicate of the Democratic convention in Los Angeles two weeks ago.

Dull is an accurate word to describe them both. At Los Angeles there never was much doubt Sen. John F. Kennedy would be the presidential nomination.

Here there never has been any doubt Vice President Richard M. Nixon would be the Republican presidential candidate. The convention will say so today.

With Kennedy it was just a question of which ballot he'd be nominated on. With Nixon it's even more cut and dried. He'll get it on the first.

The only surprise at Los Angeles was the choice of Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas to be Kennedy's vice presidential running mate.

Here the choice of Nixon's running mate still is up in the air. So that's the only element of surprise in Chicago.

When Christianity became the religion of the Roman Empire, Emperor Constantine put a cross over every Christian church. This royal policy was a wise one. It announced to the world that Christians regarded the death of Jesus Christ not as a misfortune but as the most supreme of all achievements; not as a shameful thing to be explained away, but as a glorious symbol to be revered by believing men and women throughout the ages.

Too many people look upon Christianity merely as a code of ethics. To these people, the church is a great brotherhood. Christians stick by one another and work to make the world a better place in which to live.

Over the church of Jesus Christ in the cross—the only fitting symbol of our faith.

Opinions In Brief

"Sudden thought: Why is it they're called candidates when, if you get right down to real issues, there is so seldom anything candid about any of them?" — The Augusta Chronicle.

"The enforced idleness during summer months of so many young people who want to work is great social waste that is becoming greater year by year as the number of teenagers increases. Many experts consider this one of modern society's great problems." — The Jackson Clarion-Ledger.

"The unhappiest man in the world is the fellow who has just received his chicken from the politician who promised a 'chicken in every pot' and suddenly realizes that he doesn't even have a pot any more." — Shelby Daily Star.

"This is a thought, and just a thought, about the 'equal time' demands: How would it work out, we wonder, if the candidate demanding 'equal time' be first required to prove he had an argument 'equal in persuasiveness'?" — Savannah Morning News.

"The best of the good old days were when box suppers were the highlight of most social events." — Hartow County (Ga) Herald.

Facts C Political Life

Republicans Amongst Us

Following is an unsolicited, unpaid-for and unbiased political discussion which took place recently in the city of Grifton:

Man says the Republicans will have to come up with a good ticket to beat the Democratic ticket of Kennedy for president and good old Lyndon Johnson for vice president.

Girl says she hasn't seen many Republicans in her life. Another girl says she doesn't believe she has ever seen a Republican around these parts.

At this point, a former Bostonian, very much in favor of Kennedy, who's from Boston, looks very worldly, as he has seen and talked to many Republicans before.

Other Editors Saying Special Assembly Session

(Washington Daily News) The North Carolina constitution shall be inaugurated in January. The state legislature has changed its time of opening from January to February.

Thus, as the matter now stands, if Terry Sanford is elected governor as he is expected to be, he either must be inaugurated in January without any legislative body present, or a special legislative session can be called for January.

If such a special assembly session is called, it probably will last only two or three days at which time Mr. Sanford would take office, address the General Assembly and the people of this state, and then adjournment would occur until the regular session opens in February.

Two years ago there was talk of opening the legislature early so that the legislative machinery could be set up, committees named, and then adjourning until February. This suggestion never got off the ground.

This time the picture is different. We do have a new governor to induct. And Mr. Sanford says he favors a special session of the legislature for his inauguration provided that members of the General assembly are in agreement.

To date very few, if any, members of the General assembly have stated their views on the proposed special session. But in all likelihood if he incoming governor wants such a session, the lawmakers will probably go along with the idea. And if such a session is called, it might be well to go ahead and organize the legislature so that when the group returns to work in February the lawmaking processes will already be in motion.

It has been pointed out that it might be possible for Mr. Sanford to wait until February to take office. That is a constitutional question, and we are not prepared to discuss that possibility. But we can suppose that he wants to take office in January as his predecessors have done.

Many people point out that when the legislature goes into session, there is usually a lull of at least a month in which very little is actually accomplished. The legislators might be busy, but many people say that as much could be accomplished during an interim as can be done during the time the lawmakers are in session.

We now have a chance to see how a special January session and a regular February session will work. At the present time we are confidently expecting to see a special January session and a regular February session. And it might work well. It will give the legislators time to think about the proposals of the incoming governor, discuss them with their constituents, and make up their minds about these proposals.

As of now we see a special January session as very probable.

accounts and Uncle Max, and are unable to meet mortgage payments, won't the recession become a depression?

Wouldn't America be better off if there were less borrowing and less charging? If families had larger cash reserves, would not they be better able to ward off the effects of a decline in business?

Perhaps. But in actual practice credit buying (which is non-saving) increases true saving. Take the case of J. and B. They are planning to get married. They want to buy a house and they find that to get the one they want, they need $1,200 down. The rest comes later. So J. and B. save like crazy, living on watercrust sandwiches, and postpone their marriage until they have accumulated $1,200, at which time they make a down payment and come up owing $13,800. But 30 years ago, a couple in love would need a $5,000 payment on a $10,000 house, and because it was almost impossible to accumulate $5,000, the couple made the best rent deal they could and made little effort to demonstrated a most economical way of running things. A recreational building needed a new drink machine. The town office had a big machine, which held more than they needed. So they let the recreation center have the big machine, and they took a water cooler, using the lower part as storage space for the soft drinks.

And nobody had to buy a thing. Except the drinks, of course.

One sees many things, as one walks along the Greenville city streets.

On Monday, this reporter walked past a certain place four times, on Third Street. It took two times to notice dead, lying prostrate upon the hot pavement, a little brown bird with a speckled breast. The next two times, that same morning, the little thing was still there.

And today, we walked past the place again. There it lay, the same as yesterday, the dead little bird.

It would have been enough to send a sensitive little girl or boy, at the age when they hold burial services for bees, birds, and other animals, to numerous tears.

And it made us wish, a little, that we could have picked up the bird and taken it to some child who would have given such a reverent funeral.

Rugged Times Ahead

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY Copyright, 1960, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

This is going to be a very difficult campaign for both political parties. Nixon and Kennedy are about evenly matched for better or for worse. Nixon has enemies and admirers; so has Kennedy. But Kennedy has a swift-acting, well-financed organization such as Nixon cannot hope to have. This is one occasion which proves that a ceiling must be put on campaign expenditures or we shall sooner or later have our elections on the auction block.

If the Republicans attempt to compete with the Democratic give-away program, there will be no logical reason why anyone should vote for or against either party. The Democratic platform calls for the bankruptcy of the United States and the depreciation of the American dollar to worthlessness. Read the platform and try some mathematics on it. Try to calculate where the money is to come from. The Democrats say that it can come from increased production. They say that if steel production is down 50 per cent, bring it up to 100 per cent; if automobile production is down, the Democrats would bring it up, etc., etc.

But the question that arises here is how the Democrats do this? We have outpriced ourselves not only in foreign markets but in our domestic market. Young people are buying foreign cars in the United States because they are cheaper; they are buying foreign knitwear because they are both cheaper and better.

The Democrats going to increase production by a protective tariff? Are the Democrats going to reject GATT? Are the Democrats going to put a ceiling on wages, profits and prices to make American goods competitive with European and Asiatic-made goods? Are the Democrats going to end costly featherbedding by both labor and management in American industry?

These are very practical questions for the Republicans to ask not only of the Democrats but also of themselves because if the Republican platform imitates the Democratic platform in economic imprudence, there will be no choice between parties.

The Republican situation as regards international relations is better than the Democratic. Richard Nixon's reputation is solid. He has been more correct than President Eisenhower as regards Russia; he has recognized our difficulties in Latin America. Khrushchev's personal antagonism to him is an advantage. He has had eight years in the Cabinet and he has been on the National Security Council during the whole of the Eisenhower Administration. He needs no briefing.

It is true that the British would have preferred Adlai Stevenson for president and that they want him to be Secretary of State. It is not important as to whom the British or the Russians or the Congolese want to be President of the United States or its Secretary of State. There has been too much interference in American affairs by other countries. The reason for Khrushchev's hating Nixon is that he told that buffoon off on his own territory in Moscow for all the world to see. That was unforgivable in the eyes of the blown-up clown who builds his career on a hate-America program.

It is to be hoped that neither candidate will resort to cheapness and vulgarity, for if one can hit, the other can hit back. The issues before the nation are so serious that a debate on issues rather than a swatting campaign is in order. Both Nixon and Kennedy are able to debate without ghost-written speeches. Each can stand on his own feet.

Those Republicans who believe that the Republicans must outbid the Democrats are impractical. First of all they cannot out-promise the Democrats because the latter have already promised everything to everybody. The Republicans need to point to our perils, to the dangers we face, to the austere life we face.

East Carolina College Music Camp In 7th Year; 7 States Represented

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer
For the seventh straight year, young musicians from North Carolina and neighboring states have been given instruction and had an opportunity to become familiar with different forms of music and art through the Summer Music Camp sponsored by the Music Department of East Carolina College.

This year, specialists in each of the eight areas covered at the camp are instructing the campers who include high school-age students. The total number registered for the camp is 415. Seven states are represented by the students taking classes at the camp. They include: North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Virginia, Illinois, Pennsylvania and New York. Dr. Earl Beach, head of the ECC

Music Department and Music Camp listed the eight areas of instruction offered at the camp as band, orchestra, chorus, creative dance, piano, majorette work, drum major work and art. According to Dr. Beach, each camper is required to take at least two activities while attending the camp.

Each musician, in addition to playing in one of the three bands or orchestra, is given instruction by a specialist in sectional rehearsals and is also given an opportunity to take private lessons.

The camp was started in 1950 as a service idea for the college. Its purpose is to work with young musicians and to teach them to work together. It is also hoped that the camp will inspire them and send them back to their homes . . . as better youth.

Each night a program is put on for the students and includes activities such as shows, concerts, dances and stunt nights.

One of the big events during the two-week-long fun-and-study period was an open air concert on the front lawn of the East Carolina College campus Sunday.

The final concert by the camp's three bands, orchestra and chorus, will be held Saturday afternoon.

A majorette and drum major show will start at 1:30, with the bands beginning at 2:30. The grand finale for the concert will be a number by the combined chorus and orchestra.

Dr. Beach urged the public to come and hear the bands, and to watch the show by the majorettes.

Gale Force Winds Hit In Illinois And Texas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Gale-force winds battered several communities in Illinois and Texas during the night. More than a dozen persons suffered injuries, mostly minor.

A damaging storm described by some witnesses as a tornado struck the Lake Weatherford area west of Fort Worth, Tex., demolishing a cabin, hurling a boat dock across a road and tearing up several sheet iron boat sheds.

Two boats were missing on the lake, but it had not been determined whether anyone was aboard them. Damage in the area was estimated by civil defense authorities at $10,000.

Lightning toppled a tree which plunged into a home, injuring a Moline woman. She suffered chest injuries and was reported in fair condition.

A funnel cloud was sighted near the Moline airport and three more were spotted early today near Atlanta, in central Illinois, but there were no reports of damage or injuries from these twisters.

Mild temperatures prevailed along northern border areas and the Pacific coast. Central and southern areas were warm and humid. Salt Lake City had an all-time high—107 degrees—Tuesday.

There were no reports of injuries in the Texas storm. A severe thunderstorm packing wind gusts in excess of 60 miles an hour slapped Moline in northwest Illinois, dumping a tent on the audience of a summer theater. Two persons were hospitalized and 12 others treated and released.

Search For Oil

HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S. C. (AP)—The first step in a million-dollar search for offshore oil has started at Hilton Head Island. Construction has begun on a 165-foot electronic survey tower to guide survey ships gathering geological data from beneath the ocean's floor.

No Hidden Fields Of Tobacco Seen From Helicopter

Inspection by helicopter Monday revealed no hidden fields of tobacco in Pitt County, it was announced today by Pitt Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office manager Wayne L. Wang.

In its present stage, the offshore oil search will cover the Georgia coastal shelf from the Savannah River to the St. Mary's River, extending a distance of 40 to 50 miles offshore.

He said the aerial spot-check showed several questionable fields, but further investigation by local ASC officials turned up no excess tobacco.

The search is being conducted by Offshore Explorations of Houston, Tex., for an unnamed major oil company. L. E. Lee of the Texas firm said the Hilton Head tower will be the most northern of three other towers to be located near Townsend, Ga. and Jacksonville, Fla.

Conducting the air survey was Jim Price, assistant chief of the performance office in Raleigh, and Richard Benton and John Bass, state performance supervisors.

The state ASC officials reported no hidden fields discovered to date this year in the spot-check that follows an intensive air survey conducted last year.

The survey was conducted using Pitt's aerial photograph file.

Another Tobacco Barn In Grimesland Area Burned

GRIMESLAND — A second tobacco barn fire here this week destroyed 600 sticks of tobacco being cured and about four-fifths of an acre more surrounding the blazing barn Tuesday afternoon.

Assistant Fire Chief L. E. Tetterton said the blaze occurred on the farm of Mrs. Beulah Roberts, about five miles from Grimesland and about two and a half miles west of Ham's Crossroads. The tobacco in the barn belonged to a tenant, Jim Smith.

The barn was partially covered by insurance, Tetterton said. The fire evidently was ignited by a stick of tobacco which fell across the burner, Tetterton said, since the burner was at a temperature only of 160 degrees, not high enough to cause an explosion.

Smith may have averted a larger fire when he turned the feed line from an oil drum to the barn off, and opened the air vent on the tank. His action probably avoided an explosion of the drum, Tetterton said.

When firemen arrived on the scene, the heat from the blaze was so intense that tar paper on a second barn, about 35 feet away, was melting. Grimesland volunteer firemen, led by Chief L. A. Moore, brought the blaze under control and prevented the second barn's catching fire.

The alarm was called in about 5 p.m. Tuesday by Robert Mills. About 16 firemen participated in the fire fighting.

Test Fumes That Felled 31 People

GREENSBORO (AP)—Authorities today awaited results of tests to determine the nature of fumes that sent at least 31 biscuit company employees to hospitals late Tuesday.

None of the group was believed seriously injured. Officials felt the fumes were from carbon monoxide after getting a report from one doctor.

Johnny Jones, a driver for the Gladiola Biscuit Co., said he was standing in a door when the fumes started affecting workers. He said, "They started passing out like I did."

Lt. J. C. Troxler of the Greensboro police department, said a fork lift truck was being used near the production room. He explained, "The only thing we can figure is that the fumes (from the truck) were sucked into the building some way."

A hailstone weighing 1 1/2 pounds fell on Potter, Neb., in 1923.

Valor Medal For Dead Policeman

CHARLOTTE (AP)—Patrolman John R. Annas will receive Charlotte's first medal for valor posthumously. The award, approved Monday by City Council, was made on the recommendation of Police Chief Jesse James. Annas was slain May 21 as he and Officer J. G. Bruce tried to disperse a riot here. It was suggested the medal be created for bravery beyond the call of duty.

Practical, realistic instruction is a basic part of courses at the Office of Civil and Defense Mobilization's Staff College in Battle Creek, Mich. This scene shows how students learn to meet typical CD problems given them while they simulate emergency duties which government officials must be trained to perform under attack. Below, a class learns from a 3-dimensional city map how evacuation would be carried out if and when ordered.

RADIOLOGICAL DEFENSE class in session at the Chemical-Biological-Radiological Defense School of the Office of Civil and Defense Mobilization at Battle Creek, Mich. Graduates of this course are trained to teach others how to use radiological monitoring instruments to detect and measure fallout which would be widespread after a thermonuclear attack. The students receive free tuition and a portion of their travel and living expenses paid. To qualify for the courses they must have a knowledge of college-level science and algebra, have some teaching experience, and be willing to pass their knowledge on to others in their own communities. (OCDM Photo)

LIVING FACILITIES available to students at the schools of the Office of Civil and Defense Mobilization are comparable to private schools and convenient to classroom areas. Shown are the cafeteria and a typical student room for the OCDM Staff College or Chemical-Biological-Radiological Defense School at Battle Creek, Mich. Rooms are $1.50 a night. Students attending OCDM tuition-free courses under State sponsorship are eligible for partial Federal reimbursement for travel and living expenses. For additional information write to the above schools or to the Western and Eastern Instructor Training Centers at Alameda, Calif., or Manhattan Beach, Brooklyn, N. Y., respectively. (OCDM Photos)

MOST FREQUENTLY taught of all non-military defense courses is Radiological Monitoring for Instructors. It is designed to teach technically-qualified adults how to detect and measure radioactive fallout which would be spread by wind after a nuclear attack. The training course is stressed because, unlike most other fields, the radiological expert has few counterparts in ordinary civilian life who could be called upon in an emergency. Classes are taught at the Western Instructor Training Center (shown here) in Alameda, Calif.; the Eastern Instructor Training Center at Brooklyn, N. Y., and the Chemical-Biological-Radiological Defense School in Battle Creek, Mich. (OCDM Photo)

Learning—to Live

Schools of the Office of Civil and Defense Mobilization recently graduated their 20,000th student at courses designed to train individuals for emergency leadership to assure national survival in event of enemy attack.

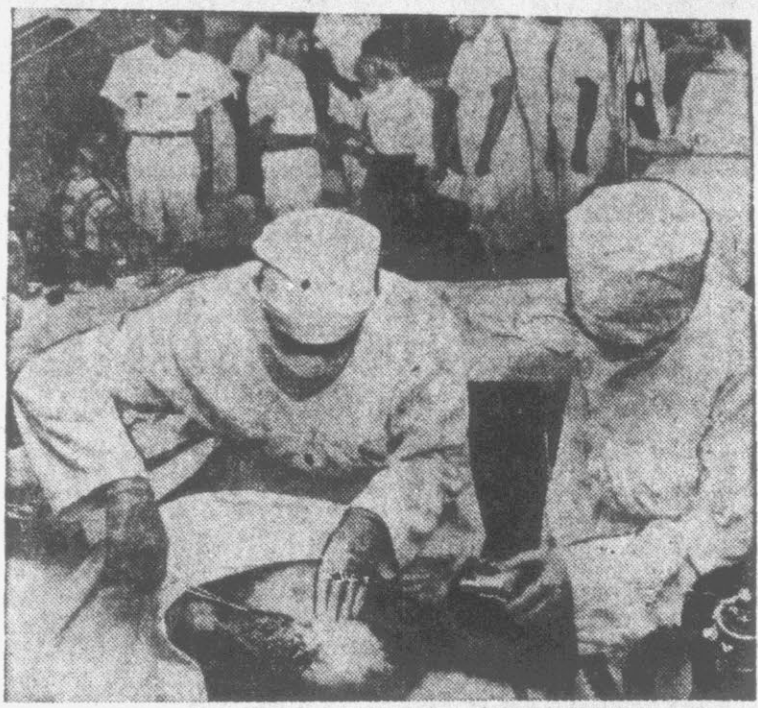

In the past nine years students have attended courses of the OCDM Staff College or Chemical-Biological-Radiological Defense School at Battle Creek, Mich., and the Eastern and Western Instructor Training Centers at Manhattan Beach, Brooklyn, N. Y., and at Alameda, Calif., respectively.

SUBJECTS INCLUDE radiological monitoring (to detect and measure fallout); basic civil defense; civil defense planning, operations, communications, rescue and care of the homeless or injured; emergency information; the civil defense role in natural disasters; emergency management of resources and production; and courses designed for special groups such as clergymen, medical personnel, industrialists, and the like.

Those attending the week-long, tuition-free instructor training courses teach others upon return to their home areas. Rooms are available at $1.50 a night at all training schools, and food at nominal prices. Many students also are able to qualify through their State civil defense offices for one-half payment of their travel expenses. Further information is available by writing to the schools.

CHEMICAL-Biological-Radiological Defense is taught at a general orientation course for community leaders and government officials who would plan and direct emergency recovery efforts after attack by thermonuclear weapons or chemical and biological warfare agents. The C-B-R Defense School course at Battle Creek, Mich. includes work with toxic agents. (OCDM Photo)

SPECIALIZED COURSES in fields related to non-military defense frequently are scheduled by the Office of Civil and Defense Mobilization's Staff College in cooperation with private or public organizations. This photo shows the use of moulages to train medical personnel in a Health Mobilization course on casualty care conducted in cooperation with the U.S. Public Health Service, using the Staff College's Battle Creek, Mich., facilities. Among other groups for which courses have been conducted are clergymen, educators, welfare workers and industrialists. (Photo courtesy Battle Creek Enquirer and News)

Generals Trying 'Airborne HQ'

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—Ten generals of the Strategic Air Command are taking turns manning SAC's airborne command post in twice-weekly command post practices.

The airborne command post is a KC135 jet tanker, especially equipped to permit communication instantaneously with all SAC bases.

In a period of international crisis one of the planes, with a general board, would be in the air at all times, prepared to take command of SAC retaliatory bomber and missile force should the command post at Offutt Air Force Base headquarters here be destroyed.

In a typical exercise recently the "go" signal simultaneously reached the general designated for the exercise and several aides. The flight crew and radio operators established radio contact with the Joint Chiefs of Staff war room at the Pentagon, with SAC headquarters and with the North American Air Defense Command headquarters in Colorado Springs, Colo.

As soon as the general and aides arrived the plane took off—within 15 minutes after the alarm sounded.

Faubus On Road To 4th Term In Arkansas Vote

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—Gov. Orval E. Faubus was on the high road to an unprecedented fourth term today after a smashing victory over four opponents in Tuesday's Democratic primary.

Faubus, central figure in the Little Rock integration crisis, faces Republican opposition in the November general election, but Arkansas has not elected a GOP governor since Reconstruction days.

Returns from 2,158 of the state's 2,328 precincts showed: Faubus 201,364; Joe C. Hardin of Grady

He won his first term as a write-in candidate against party nominee Brooks Hays in the 1958 general election.

In the 3rd District, 472 of 503 precincts gave Trimble 46,602 and Poe 16,632.

Arkansas' four other congressmen and Sen. John L. McClellan had no opposition. Their names were not on the primary ballot. They are automatically certified to the general election as Democratic nominees.

He needs to be told how the value of the dollar can be re-established. The American wants to work and he does not want foreigners to take his job away from him. He knows that we are exporting capital to all parts of the world, but can we export labor? How are our people to hold their jobs if we export capital to take their jobs away from them?

CHAPTER 23
 Two days after the primary the Herald ran a bitter front-page editorial attacking Dan Callahan for swinging his support to Senator Alex S. Simon in the November election.

"We think," Keenan's editorial said, "that a man who has been accused of trying to bribe a judge should face criminal charges, and we believe the District Attorney has an obligation to prefer them."

Calling a press conference as soon as he had read the editorial, Callahan blasted back with a hurriedly prepared statement:

"Mr. Keenan can run his paper, but he can't run me. Even more to the point, it's clear he can't run Senator Simon either. So the battle lines are drawn. Is Mr. Keenan going to run this state or are the people going to run it?"

ly, he shivered. "Is there a draft in here? I guess not. Funny, I feel kind of shaky. I've got hives, the hives, and the hives."

Forst said apprehensively, "You want to sit down a minute, Alex?"

"Hell, no. Itchy. I'm still blow-out-proof for another twenty thousand miles."

From the dais, long white tables stretched into the luncheon room like strips of adhesive tape. Eventually Arnie Smith of Bugleville, the master of ceremonies, introduced the Senator who seemed to rise to his applause with difficulty and knocked over a glass of water in covering the few feet that separated him from the speaker's position.

Hands shaking, Simon poured a glass of water. "However, it isn't about politics that I want to talk tonight. Anyhow, I don't think I'm giving away trade secrets when I tell you that a Republican vote counts for as much as a Democratic vote, so as long as we've got to have Republicans around, I'd just as soon have them around on my side. No, my good friends, tonight I'm not going to talk about politics. I'm going to talk about America."

snickered as the incoherent soliloquy went on:
 "There isn't much of it I'd change if I had the chance to live it over, but oh, boys, boys, for the chance to do it again! Remember the days on the moss by the riverbank and the girls with their hair of gold? Remember the smells of haystacks and clover and the flowers they wore in that golden hair? Remember the seven league boots we wore when we went out to conquer the world? Oh, boys, boys, life is a cycle of dimly remembered joys. Life is a search for the other side of the mountain, and you're never too old for the struggle."

He swayed back and forth; his wife, alarmed, pushed his pill bottle toward him, but he shook his head defiantly. The audience watched him with nervous solemnity, and Forst half rose from his chair to catch him if he fell. Then Simon threw out his arms in a magnificent gesture of abandon:

"Boys, life is a search for America, and America's a dream and a discovery, a land where the frontiers are always open, because boys, the future has no frontiers. Oh, it's a wonderful, wild and stirring trip to take, and I've had more than seventy years of it. I'm still a wanderer, and a searcher, and I still don't know it all, because it's a big country with magic names and magic places, a big country of panoramas and sunsets and roads which never end, and boys, boys, the frontiers are always open."

Callahan reached the Senator first. "Stand back!" he bellowed. To Forst he said, "Grab his feet, Itchy. I'll get his shoulders. We'll take him to that lounge across the hall."

Followed by Simon's hysterical wife, they forced their way through the surging crowd to the lounge where a doctor member of the audience joined them. They placed Simon on a couch and his wife, weeping and on her knees, leaned her head against his.

Crusted lids had closed in the time-lined face. Wing collar twisted, black string tie curling on the strapping bull chest, railroader's timepiece dangling on its long gold chain which lay across the stately paunch, a doughty old troubadour lay at rest.

The doctor shook his head as he adjusted his stethoscope. To Callahan and Forst he said, "Keep everybody out. And have them leave an aisle so that the ambulance attendants can get through."

Paladin's Fame Has Its Drawbacks, Too

EDITOR'S NOTE—There aren't many sips between the cup and the lip when you're a TV star trying to eat lunch. Richard Boone, alias Paladin of CBS-TV's "Have Gun, Will Travel," tells of the perils of public dining when you have spoon, can't eat. This is a guest column for vacationing AP-TV-radio writer Cynthia Lowry.

By RICHARD BOONE
Written For The Associated Press
 The following could well be called notes taken from the diary of a grouch. What I am trying to say is that I would like the luxury of being myself—sometimes.

For instance, eating out in a restaurant. My charming wife and my growing son and I have not been able to eat a meal in a restaurant for the past two years without someone zeroing in on the Boone table with some advice and comment.

I realize that fame and identification are the result of being a well-known actor. Without it, I would brood—some of the time. But not when I eat.

Like Paladin, my character in "Have Gun, Will Travel," I appreciate the finer things created by any number of our American chefs. I like to lose myself in the enjoyment of fine cuisine. But let us partake of a typical Boone meal, attempted in public.

First, I like soup. I relish it at home, at work or on the set, in the studio commissary, at Romanoff's or 21. I always order soup. And then—

Suddenly, reflected on the surface of a bowl of onion soup, I see a face. It is not mine and it does not belong to my wife, Claire, nor to my son, Peter. It belongs to no one I know. But the face seems to know me.

Usually it is a friendly face. Somehow, from what the face says, I get the idea that Richard Boone, actor, is part of the face's bill of fare.

It used to say, "Hey, doc, izzat soup good fer yer diet? Haw, Haw!"

My stunning rejoinder usually is, "Pardon?"

Says the face: "I seen ya on 'Medic,' doc. Yer awright, kid. Now, jus lemme inderude myself, call me Bill Buckett. I'm from Des Moines, pal."

"How do you do?" I say. My soup is cooling.

ball."
 "Thanks very much," I say. Then he says, "What's that, onion soup? Never eat it myself. Can't stand it. See ya around, pal."

He, fine Iowa gentleman, ambles away. I quickly renew my affair with the soup. Then, looking up at me from the surface of the soup, and her face.

This face says, "Har ya, Paladin! What kinda soup ya eating?"

"Onion."
 "Don't like onion."
 "Sorry."
 "It's awright, pal. I like yer show, most a the time. Can't say I liked the one last Friday night."

"Pardon me, but 'Have Gun, Will Travel' is on Saturday nights."
 "Oh?"
 "Yes."
 "Well, look, I'm in a hurry. You sign yer autograph on these three pieces of paper, pal. To Irmgard, to Archie, and best of luck, George."

I sign my autograph three times, as directed. I've made three new friends.

Geese Leased To Beat The Grass

KENNETT, Mo. (AP) — Who would want to rent a goose or lease geese?
 They do it here. The reason is simple. A goose is the best deterrent known to pesky Johnson grass that keeps southeastern Missouri cotton farmers awake nights.

Unless the grass is controlled nothing grows. But the geese love it and two or three birds an acre will keep Johnson grass down all through the season so the cotton can grow.

That's why Tom Madden is in the business of leasing 15,000 geese a year. He turns the birds over to the farmers for $3 or $4 each and then agrees to buy them back at 75 cents to $1 a bird when the Johnson grass season is over.

Coaching Changes In League

The Northeastern 3-A Conference can expect new strategy within its coaching midst this coming year. At least five of the league schools will have new coaches on their staffs.

Greenville and Kinston will have new assistants in football. New Bern, Washington, and Roanoke Rapids will sport new faces guiding various sports in their athletic setups.

The removal of Wimpy Johnson at Roanoke Rapids and the resignation of Bill Sweel at Washington are expected to be the biggest and most significant changes in the league.

Sweel's Resignation Was Surprise

One of the biggest shocks in the NE coaching ranks came early this week with the announcement of Sweel's resignation. He has stepped down from the Washington post to take a similar position in New Jersey but for more money, naturally.

Sweel might well be called the Everette Case in the NE cage circles. His antics from the bench helped him to gain a flock of hecklers. Yet, he produced a winner almost every season and had the respect of most of his contemporaries.

Besides the natural rivalry already present, Sweel usually had the Greenville folks howling on his visits here with his constant jumping up and down on the bench in Bones McKinney fashion. His presence on the Pam Pack bench helped make the Washington-Greenville rivalry one of the keenest in the conference.

Played Baseball For Greenies

A Wake Forest graduate, Sweel came to Washington and the conference in 1947. While coaching in this area, he played summer baseball in the Coastal Plain League. He was a catcher with Kinston in 1948 and with Greenville in 1949.

"I regret in leaving this section of the country," related Sweel yesterday, "but I feel that the offer made to me was one too good to turn down. I have enjoyed my 14 years here and will miss the many friends that I have made."

"The caliber of sports, especially in our conference, has been a top grade. In leaving, I would like to express best wishes to all the coaches in the conference and would like to wish my friends, Jack Poone and Jim Mallory of East Carolina, success in their endeavors," concluded Sweel.

The veteran Washington skipper is scheduled to report to New Jersey by September 1—the starting date for football practice. He plans to reside in Washington for the next couple of weeks.

New Posts For EC Grads

Harry Archer, former Intramural Director at ECC, has accepted a job as principal at Mount Olive High this fall. . . . Paul Gay former All-Conference half-back for Coach Jack Boone, will leave Raleigh to take a head coaching post at Sanford. . . . Gaylord Randolph of Kinston will be the only Northeastern 3-A player in the East-West All-Star game Friday week. Adrian Waters of Washington dropped off the squad, entering service. Others from this area on the East roster are Frank Galloway of Wilson and Silas Snow of Rocky Mount. . . . Tommy King of Roanoke Rapids will be the lone representative on the East basketball squad. . . .

East Carolina coach Earl Smith reports that Jack Campbell, a New Jersey prep star, will enroll at EC on a basketball scholarship this fall. Campbell stands at 6-6 and weighs 220.

Greenville Teams Eliminated From Tarboro Tourney

TARBORO — Greenville's chances of advancing to the State Little League Tourney, which will be held in Lenoir next week, were dashed here yesterday afternoon, as both their representative teams went down to defeat in the second day's play of the District 4 playoffs.

Tar Heels Lose In Extra Innings
Greenville's Tar Heel League All-Stars, playing in their first game of the tourney were over- come by a three-run Robersonville rally staged in the seventh inning, which gave the Robersonville a 6-3 victory.

Throughout the game, the Robersonville team plagued the Greenville pitching with homers. The game was won in the seventh inning on a four-bagger, coming off the bat of Bullock, bringing home Colombo and James who had walked.

Greenville's scoring came in the first and third innings. In the first frame, Jerry Clark singled, reaching base, and then on a Robersonville error came scampering home. In the third inning, two errors, a walk and a wild pitch accounted for two more Greenville runs.

In the crucial seventh inning, Greenville came within a hair's breadth of taking the lead when Dickie Wade and Danny Keel rapped singles, which was followed by a long blast by Rickie Webb, which was pulled in just short of the fence.

Robersonville scoring, other than in the seventh frame, came also in the first and third. In the first inning, the first man up, Ward homered, scoring one run, while in the third inning, Everett slammed a homerun with one man on.

Greenville North Staters Lose
In the second game, the big inning for Greenville was the first inning, when the Greenvilleites scored five runs. The rally was sparked by doubles by Woody Hardee and Bobby Jackson, plus singles by Billy Ippock and Bert Bennett.

In the fifth inning, Greenville had two more runs, when Ippock and Chippy Calloway hit back to back homers.

Warsaw scored first in the first inning on three walks and an error. In the third inning, Warsaw also collected three runs on three walks and an error, aided by singles by Cook and Walker.

The big inning for the winners was the fourth, which provided the necessary margin for the win. Hilton led off the inning for Warsaw with a homer, followed by four walks, an error, all of which were capitalized upon a double hit by Carlton, and a single by Minshew. The Warsaw team scored six runs in this inning.

Both of Greenville's teams having lost yesterday, eliminates Greenville from the tourney, as the tourney is a single elimination affair.

Robersonville 102 000 3-6
Tar Heels 102 000 0-3
North State 500 020-7

Next Piersall Trouble May Involve Ford Frick

NEW YORK (AP) — The next Jimmy Piersall gets into trouble, he may have to answer to Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick.

Frick, The Associated Press learned today, met Tuesday with Harvey Kuenn and discussed the Piersall situation with the Cleveland Indian player representative. Kuenn brought the commissioner up to date on the Piersall matter and the commissioner told him he would keep close tabs on Piersall's actions the rest of the season.

The Piersall matter came up when Kuenn visited the commissioner's office to discuss plans for next year's All-Star game.

Frick earlier had talked by telephone to American League President Joe Cronin, who had given Piersall a fatherly talk Monday after slapping him with a $100 fine for being ejected, for the sixth time this season, in a game in Boston last Saturday. The commissioner had refrained from becoming involved as he felt Piersall's difficulties with umpires was strictly an American League matter.

The controversial center fielder of the Indians had incurred the wrath of his teammates who insisted Piersall "was hurting our pennant chances."

The Cleveland players, claiming Piersall's antics were making them nervous, were to have held a closed-door meeting with Manager Joe Gordon before Tuesday night's game with the New York Yankees. It was cancelled when Piersall promised Kuenn that he would stay out of rube raps and adhere strictly to baseball.

Kuenn, sympathetic to Piersall, told Frick he believed the troubled star, who is enjoying one of his best seasons, is earnest about mending his ways and should be given a chance to prove it.

Piersall was on his best behavior Tuesday as the Indians were beaten 6-1 by the Yankees. He scored the Indians' only run, following his second inning bunt single, and was cheered by a crowd of 37,632 each time he came to bat. He got one hit in four times at bat and is batting .295. He is tied for the club lead with 50 runs batted in and is second in home runs with 13.

Open Track
DEL MAR, Calif. (AP) — Del Mar opens its gates today for its 42-day, 21st summer season of thoroughbred racing at this seaside track Bing Crosby built.

A full field of 12 fillies and mares, including four stakes winners, was named for the $7,500 Inaugural Handicap, a six-furlong sprint which will bring the favored Conejo Ranch's Honey's Gem, the fastest girl horse in the nation last year, before Del Mar fans for the first time.

Landis Drives In Four Runs In 16-3 Win

By JIM KENSIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

You can look it up. Nellie Fox homered and Jim Landis drove in four runs.

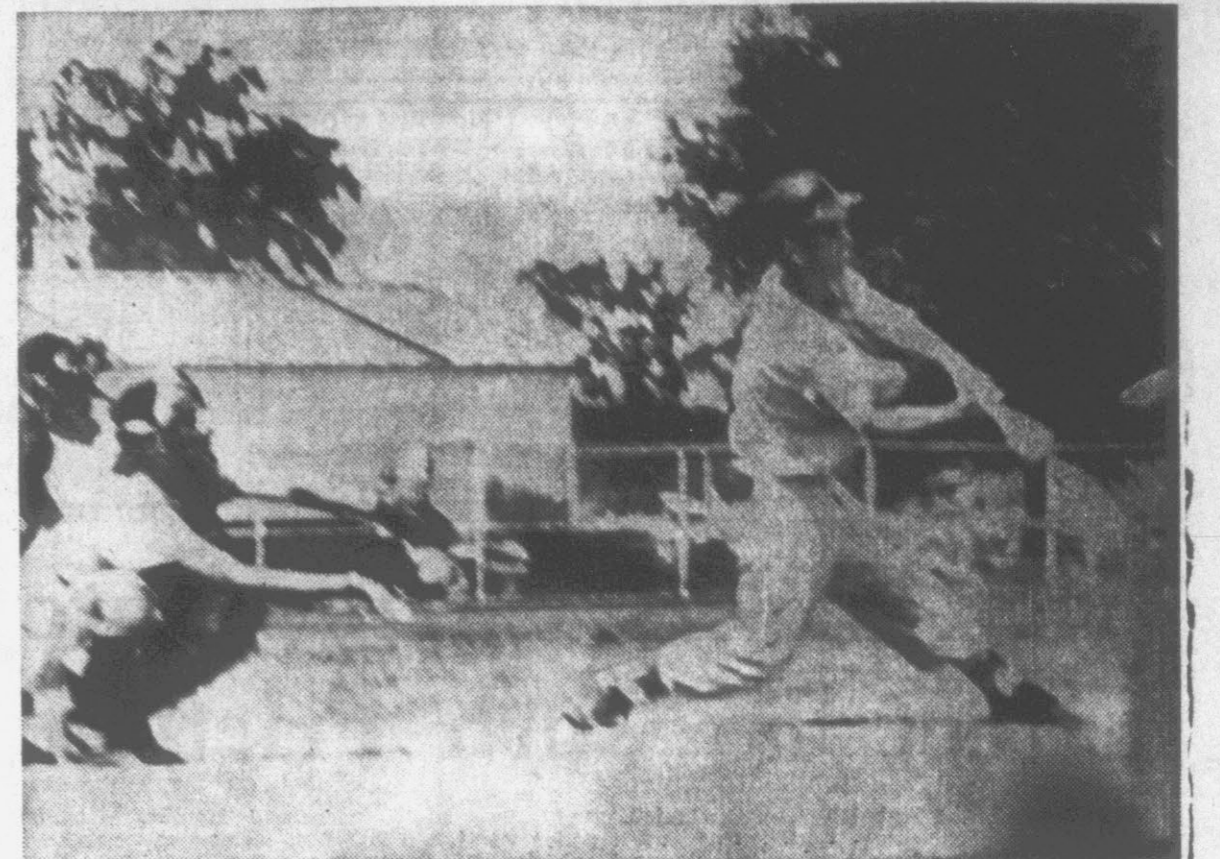

When the Chicago White Sox get this kind of hitting plus anticipated homers from their off-season power purchases — Gene Freese, Roy Sievers and Minnie Minoso — who's going to beat the defending American League champions?

Not Boston, that's for sure. The seventh-place Red Sox were the patsies again Tuesday night as Chicago slammed - slammed - slammed all over Fenway Park in a 16-3, 21-hit victory that regained their one-game lead over the New York Yankees. It was Chicago's eighth straight over Boston and 12th victory in 16 games with the Red Sox this season.

The Yanks came alive in their own stadium, stopping Cleveland 6-1 behind winner Art Ditmar (8-7) and reliever Luis Arroyo. Mickey Mantle's 25th homer, a two-run shot in the sixth inning, was the difference as the Yanks led for only the fifth time in their last 15.

Third-place Baltimore fell four games behind when ex-Yank Johnny Kucks beat the Orioles for Kansas City 2-1. Detroit moved into a fifth-place tie with Washington by defeating the Senators 5-3.

Vern Law (13-5) became the majors' biggest winner as Pittsburgh held its half-game lead in the National League with a 5-4 victory at St. Louis. Second-place Milwaukee stopped San Francisco 3-1 on a five-hit by Carl Willey. Cincinnati's Bob Purkey four-hit the Los Angeles Dodgers, 4-1, and the Philadelphia Phillies rallied to beat the Chicago Cubs 4-3 on a three-run, ninth-inning homer by Clay Dalrymple.

IT'S A HIT—An Elizabeth City batter is shown as he connects with the ball, sending it into the outfield in this morning's play between Elizabeth City and Lenoir in the Teen-er League Tourney action at Guy Smith Stadium.

Gastonia In Drivers Seat Of State Teen-er Tourney

A shift of the State Teen-er League trophy was anticipated today but still the title was not predicted to leave the western area of North Carolina.

Gastonia moved down the east's top challenge, Elizabeth City, last night 9-7 to gain betting odds as the club to end the three-year realm of Lenoir. The western youngsters eased past Whiteville, 4-0, in a morning contest.

On the verge of losing their grasp on the Teen-er trophy, Lenoir proved it would not relinquish the title without a fight, remaining in the double-elimination tournament with a 5-2 win over Whiteville.

The Lenoir club, favorites by virtue of past performances, lost their opener to Elizabeth City, 6-0. In the feature game last night, Gastonia uncorked a gek of power that was absent in their 4-0 win earlier in the day. Limited to only one hit in downing Whiteville in a morning contest, the westerners crushed Elizabeth City pitching for 11 hits.

Neil Forrester led the winner's hitting attack with a homer that broke open a scoreless pitching duel in the second and a run-scoring double in the fourth.

It took only two innings for the victory. Gastonia, triggered by Forrester's homer, scored five runs in the second and pushed across four more in the fourth. Elizabeth City staged a rally in the third with four runs and again in the seventh with a three-run scoring spree.

Marciano Makes Golfing Debut

BALTIMORE (AP) — Rocky Marciano, the retired heavyweight boxing champion, makes his debut in tournament golf today in the pro-am division of the Eastern Open.

"When I step out on the course, it'll be like fighting a four-rounder in a small town," Rocky said. "I want to get used to playing before crowds."

Rocky said he took to the links about 16 months ago, mainly because of the good golfing weather in Florida. He confesses he didn't think he'd like the game.

"But after playing about two months," he said, "I broke 90 and the golfing bug got me."

Tour Continues For Budget Body

KINSTON, N.C. (AP)—A training school, an historical site and two coastal agencies were on the schedule today as the Advisory Budget Commission continued its biennial tour of state institutions.

The group was scheduled to visit the State Training School for Negro girls here, Tryon Palace in New Bern and the State Ports Authority offices and commercial fisheries at Morehead City.

Institution officials made their requests for capital improvements during the commission's rounds. Later the budget men will develop the 1961-63 appropriations bill to be submitted to the General Assembly.

Tuesday, the commission heard requests for more than $1,600,000 for capital improvements from three institutions and a historic site.

Cherry Hospital at Goldsboro asked for $1,309,500 for the biennium. Key item was $500,000 for conversion of the steam distribution system to high temperature hot water facilities.

O'Berry School for mentally ill children at Goldsboro requested $212,500—$100,000 of it for additional classrooms.

Caswell Training School at Kinston requested $146,000 which included $75,000 to air condition the general hospital and crippled children's hospital.

The Charles B. Aycock birthplace near Fremont asked for $40,000 for a museum.

Officials of the state sanatoria system told the budget group at a stopover at the East Carolina Sanatorium at Wilson it needed no capital improvement funds.

Broad, 10,000-Word GOP Platform Set For Expected Approval Tonight

By NORMAN WALKER

CHICAGO (AP)—A broad, 10,000-word Republican platform with a sturdily rebuilt civil rights plank is ready for expected GOP convention approval tonight.

Prospects of any floor battle faded as most GOP chiefs indicated they would accept the compromise worked out Tuesday night by the platform committee on the touchy racial equality issue. The compromise was voted 56-28.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon, due to wear the party's presidential mantle, was described as satisfied with the completed platform product. Sen. Jacob K. Javits of New York echoed the reports after visiting Nixon early today.

Further along in the wee hours, New York's Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller added his endorsement to the revised plank, calling it "a strong and specific declaration in support of equal opportunity, human dignity and the supreme worth of the individual."

Both Rockefeller and Nixon had described an earlier platform plank as unsatisfactory. Rockefeller said he would like to have seen even the new plank go further in some respects, but said he was gratified with the revision. "The plank is comprehensive," he said. "It attacks discrimination in voting, housing, schools, jobs and public facilities."

Southern delegates, claiming a victory in keeping civil rights policy declarations as moderate as possible, said they had no desire to kick up any convention fuss.

G. Harold Alexander, Florida Republican chairman, said after a meeting of 10 Southern state chairmen he does not expect a minority report to go before the convention.

The platform, in a nutshell, adheres to traditional GOP conservatism in fiscal and economic policies, commends for continuation the tenets of President Eisenhower's administration, promises to provide any increased national defense expenditures found necessary.

The final defense plank represents a considerable revision from an earlier version also sharply criticized by Rockefeller. The original consisted primarily of a pledge to continue Eisenhower policies. The final plank calls for accelerated missile production and new weapon development in an intensified defense program.

On civil rights the GOP platform comes close to matching the pledges made by the Democrats. Some Republican pledges go further, such as one to sponsor legislation to end membership discrimination against Negroes in labor unions if the unions don't do it themselves.

But whereas the Democrats pledge support for new federal power to obtain court injunctions in all fields of possible racial equality violations, the Republicans advocate such power only in school segregation cases.

The GOP civil rights plank omitted specific reference to sit-in demonstrations—a point insisted upon by moderates.

Like the Democrats, the GOP promises to overhaul legislative procedures that in the past have been used to block action on racial equality measures.

City Orders Curfew Into Effect To Curb Friction

GREENVILLE, S.C. (AP)—The Greenville city council has ordered a curfew into immediate effect here against persons under 20 in hopes of curbing racial friction.

County officials, meanwhile, were pondering the feasibility of making the curfew countywide. Members of the county legislative delegation said they were ready to act, if requested.

The special law, passed Tuesday, forbids loitering in any public place or building or place of amusement between the hours of 9 p.m. and 6 a.m. The ordinance will remain in effect indefinitely.

The law applies to all under 20 unless they are accompanied by a parent or upon an emergency errand or legitimate business.

Violators face a $100 fine or 30 days in jail.

The curfew action was taken in the wake of a series of run-ins involving whites and Negroes. Some incidents occurred Sunday and Monday nights when gangs of both whites and Negroes, most of them young men, engaged in brawls at white drive-in restaurants in the Greenville suburbs.

The melee resulted in the arrest of 18 persons, 10 Negro and 8 white, and the confiscation of such weapons as brass knuckles, knives, razors, a pistol and a slingshot. Rocks were also thrown in one incident.

Although no serious injuries resulted, officials expressed fear that the situation might get worse.

Hodges Going To Tennessee Rally

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Gov. Luther Hodges of North Carolina accepted an invitation Tuesday to attend a Democratic rally Saturday night at which vice presidential nominee Lyndon Johnson will speak.

Hodges is among a number of Southern political leaders invited to the rally by Gov. Buford Ellington. The governors of Florida, Alabama, Kentucky and Virginia accepted earlier.

Johnson's speech is being billed as the opening of his campaign on behalf of the ticket headed by Sen. John Kennedy.

Sen. Kennedy Taking Day Off; Brother In N. Y. Talk

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP)—Sen. John F. Kennedy, the Democratic presidential nominee, took a day off today while his campaign manager brother Robert Kennedy was in New York with wrangling pro-Kennedy party leaders at that pivotal state.

The senator scheduled no appointments. He planned some boating and a lot of rest at his summer home, where his vacation up to now has featured more high-powered work than relaxation.

Kennedy said his brother would confer during the day with Michael H. Prendergast, New York state Democratic chairman, on plans to bring rival New York factions into some unified effort in the November election campaign.

Prendergast has voiced vigorous protest against Kennedy's efforts to create a New York branch of "Citizens for Kennedy" as an organization through which independent voters, dissident Democrats and even disgruntled Republicans could work for the Democratic ticket.

Robert Kennedy has been assigned to talk with various factional leaders. The senator said he felt pretty sure his brother would work out something with them before returning here Friday.

The senator says he has been keeping an eye, when he feels like it, on television broadcasts from the Republican National Convention. He said Tuesday he hoped the GOP would write a platform plank on civil rights "as clear and effective as ours."

Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington, new Democratic national chairman, files here Thursday for strategy talks with Kennedy.

Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the vice presidential nominee, is due to arrive Friday for a day of conferences on plans for the campaign Kennedy will launch with a speech in Hawaii around Sept. 1.

Kennedy has yet to spell out the legislative program he plans to offer when Congress reconvenes Aug. 8. This is one of the major problems to be considered in his talk with Johnson.

Nixon Gets Backing Of Gov. Rockefeller

CHICAGO (AP)—His own presidential hopes shattered for 1960, Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller was lined up today behind Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

But the New York governor claimed a victory in the party platform, which was reshaped to conform in several areas with his views.

The 96-vote New York delegation, at Rockefeller's bidding, adopted unanimously Tuesday a resolution endorsing Nixon as the Republican candidate for president.

Rockefeller, who had held himself open for a draft, said in introducing the motion: "It is clear that, insofar as the vast majority of delegates to this convention is concerned, there is only one candidate for the Republican nomination for president of the United States."

The governor said his concession of the top spot to Nixon did not mean he would accept a vice-presidential nomination.

He repeated earlier statements that he would even turn down a personal appeal from President Eisenhower to take second place.

It was obvious as the convention opened Monday there was no significant delegate support for a Rockefeller draft. But the governor continued to hold the delegation uncommitted pending an announcement of the party platform.

Last month, Rockefeller contended Nixon had not spoken out clearly on major issues confronting the nation, and should do so before the convention opened.

But he said Tuesday that Nixon now is "actively exposing the principles and programs which I view as basic to the future of our nation and to the future of freedom."

The Rockefeller statement proposing the endorsement of Nixon showed no sign of enthusiasm or warmth. It seemed to be keyed chiefly to the premise that Nixon now agreed with Rockefeller on basic issues and therefore was deserving of support.

Seaton Proffers Unique Platform

CHICAGO (AP)—Secretary of the Interior Fred Seaton came up with an unusual platform when Nebraska delegates launched a campaign to get the Republican vice presidential nomination for him.

Before discussing serious matters, Seaton said he advocates three things:

"1. All electric hand driers in men's washrooms be taken out and towels be put back in their proper place.

"2. Hotel proprietors should be forced to shave under the lights which they furnish for that purpose.

"3. Nothing of consequence at a convention shall begin before 9 a.m."

The White House has 132 rooms.

Rule Kinstonian To Be Executed

MCLESTER, Okla. (AP)—The State Pardon and Parole Board ruled Tuesday that James Spence, 29, of Kinston, N.C., must die in the slaying of Mrs. Ruth Zimmerman of Lawton, Okla., March 31, 1958. His execution date is Aug. 31.

However, clemency was granted to Spence's brother-in-law, Eddie Oxendine, 31, also of Kinston. He also was to die in the killing of the young mother but his sentence was commuted to life imprisonment, pending approval of Gov. J. Howard Edmundson.

Leisurely Shine Well-Publicized

CHICAGO (AP)—A Negro shoeshine boy waylaid Vice President Richard M. Nixon Tuesday and gave him a highly publicized and very leisurely shine.

Leon Thompson, 10, carried on a running conversation with Nixon for 15 minutes while a crowd of reporters and Nixon supporters looked on and cameras whirred.

Leon said his fee was 20 cents but this shine brought him a dollar.

Symington Name At GOP Session

CHICAGO (AP)—Republican or Democrat, you'll find a Symington at the convention.

Two weeks ago Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri was campaigning in Los Angeles for the Democratic presidential nomination. He lost.

This week File Symington of Baltimore County, Md., is mixing with his state's delegation at the Republican convention in advance of his campaign for Congress back home.

The Democratic senator and Republican House aspirant are first cousins.

The products and services appearing in this list are all part of what we call "considered purchases" in contrast to 5 and dime over-the-counter "impulse" purchases. This means that these businesses are conducted by making sales with grown up men and women... adults who have family responsibilities and the necessary money or credit to buy or finance these purchases. You don't sell air-conditioning, tractors, building contractors and furniture to kids! To forget this fact can be very costly.

In order for any of these businesses to be successful, the advertising must be directed to the right people—the adults in the community with money to spend.

In short, advertisers who use Radio WGTC are assured of reaching the right audience. Straight rock 'n' roll programming may be fun for a while, but as a steady diet it can only mean that you're beamed to an immature and teen-age audience. Because your kids (not all, thank goodness) may listen to rock 'n' roll, don't let it fool or confuse you in your media buying. Remember, you're not selling kids. That's why WGTC programming is balanced. Good music, authoritative news, farm reports, financial news, scientifically-gathered weather reports, community notes and the rest... This is the kind of radio fare you get on WGTC. It's the kind of programming that appeals to the majority of adults. Thus, WGTC gets better response from listeners, produces more sales per dollar for sponsors.

5000 Watts of Power Takes You Farther—Gives You More

Science At Work

Fallen Stars
Scientists are running into a shortage of meteorites, the shooting stars that fall to earth. Ingenious methods of analyzing these bits of stone and metal hurtling to earth from space tell much about their chemical structure, their ages, the distribution of chemical elements in the solar system, and much about the rain of cosmic rays.

Meteorites are continually dropping in, but few are widely noticed or collected for scientific research. Now the Smithsonian Institution is serving as a central agency for a continent-wide collecting program. Information about recent or future meteorite falls should be sent to Dr. Fred L. Whipple, Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory, Cambridge, Mass., or E. P. Henderson, Smithsonian National Museum, Washington, D. C.

Leapfrogging Birds
Cattle egrets are resourceful birds. Normally they follow cattle or other animals which stir up insects from the grass. That makes easy pickings for dinner. With no cattle around, the egrets play leapfrog. One or two birds in the group hunt for insects, and their running stirs up more insects, for more egrets to chase. Then birds in the back fly over the heads of the foragers, gobbling up the insects. The original beaters leapfrog ahead too, later on, and the entire flock moves across the field. The story is told by Dr. Andrew J. Meyerreicks of Massachusetts Audubon Society's Hatheway School of Conservation Education, in Natural History magazine.

Shrinking Continents?
The total area of our continents is decreasing while oceans are growing, says Prof. Vladimir Belousov, Soviet geologist. As evidence for this Soviet theory, he points to some island arcs, such as the Kuriles, terming them mountain ranges which stopped growing because the continental crust growth had halted. Further, he thinks the Barents Sea, Sea of Japan, the Caribbean, and some others are quite young, having been formed only a few million years ago.

Space Traffic
Thirty-two man-made objects are somewhere out in space, reports the National Space Surveillance Control Center, Bedford, Mass.

Of them, 22 are American, with 20 satellites circling the earth, and two orbiting the sun. Seven of the 10 Soviet objects are remnants of the Soviet Union's recent test of a huge satellite designed to carry a man. The Soviets also have a satellite circling the earth, one orbiting the sun, and another presumably on the surface of the moon.

In addition, 10 American and seven Soviet satellites have fallen into the earth's atmosphere, and presumably burned up.

Why Iron Rusts

Rusting of iron is estimated to waste some six to seven billion dollars annually in the United States alone. The general explanation is that rusting is due to an electrochemical reaction, in which tiny electric currents are generated under influence of an invisible liquid film of water. Now a new theory about the first basic step, at least, comes from Dr. Earl A. Gulbransen and T. P. Copan of Westinghouse Research Laboratories, Pittsburgh. They find that hydrogen ions, from water vapor, first penetrate the iron, enlarging the sites where oxygen normally combines with the metal to cause destructive rusting. This could supply a key to more effective ways of preventing corrosion.

Jellied Oil

Billions of barrels of oil are trapped like viscous jelly in rocks thousands of feet below the earth's surface. It won't flow up oil wells.

An electronic oil well heater is to be tested to see if it will melt the jellied oil so it can be recovered. The device emits radar-like beams which could heat the rock and oil. It will be lowered into a Montana oil well in a project of Raytheon Co., Norwood, Mass., and Petro-Electronics Corp., Denver.

Third Army Tests Ability In Mock Nuclear Accident

RAEFOR, N.C. (AP)—The U. S. Third Army staged a surprise test at dawn today of Ft. Bragg's ability to cope with an accident involving nuclear materials.

With the State Highway Patrol and local police agencies cooperating, Third Army personnel set up a wrecked truck on U.S. 401 a half-mile outside Raeford, placed dummy bodies in the highway and then established a detour for civilian traffic around the area.

At 6:52 a.m. Ft. Bragg officials were notified that a truck carrying nuclear weapons from Ft. Campbell, Ky. to Ft. Bragg had wrecked at Raeford.

Within an hour, the first Ft.

Bragg troops had arrived on the scene, bringing geiger counters with them to check possible radioactivity from the accident.

Army helicopters and trucks started shuttling more personnel and troops to the area.

To maintain the element of surprise in the test, the Third Army personnel came to Raeford two or three days ago and worked out the details with police agencies. They stayed at a motel here, rather than announce their presence by checking into accommodations at Ft. Bragg, about 20 miles away.

The test attracted large crowds of civilians, who were barred from the area. Motorists could see smoke from the mock accident and many soldiers with geiger counters and special equipment, but were not advised of the nature of the incident.

Hoke County officers made a door-to-door round of residences in the area to tell them the true nature of the test.

Terms Kissing 'Just A Game'

BOWLING GREEN, Ohio (AP)—Kissing is an increasingly important factor in many games, says an assistant professor of psychology at Bowling Green State University, but a strong element of chance also is present.

Thus, concludes Dr. Brian Sutton-Smith, no one is inclined to take the kissing too seriously. "We need to remember," says the professor, "who is studying personality development, that this is the age of tongue-tied early dating. Kissing games provide a means for a socially acceptable relationship with the opposite sex."

New Cabinet For Italy Sworn In

ROME (AP) — President Giovanni Gronchi today swore in Premier Amintore Fanfani and a new Italian Cabinet that included three former premiers.

The new government, made up entirely of members of the dominant Christian Democratic party, appeared to be Italy's strongest in five years.

Scroll Given By Ex-Hungarians

CHICAGO (AP)—Four Hungarian freedom fighters presented a scroll to Vice President Richard M. Nixon Tuesday in honor of his trip to Hungary after that country revolted against communism in 1956.

The four men, all from Chicago, said they believed Nixon was the best qualified American to deal with Communist nations.

DREAM CRUISE AHEAD

At New London, enginemen of the Archerfish load stores through sub's engine room hatch in preparation for the long cruise. Left to right: Wayne J. Harmon, Kenneth C. Henry, and Thomas Zielinski.

Seamen Martin Lafferty and Dean Tygart man underway lookout stations.

Ship's executive officer, Lt. David Dimmick, left, looks over recording depth gauge in control room, as Alvin Williams, IC 1 (SS), checks bathythermograph, a gadget which combines recording of ship's depth and temperature of water.

Every sailor has a dream cruise tucked away in his duffel bag.

For the lads on the submarine USS Archerfish, the dream is coming true. It's a two-year cruise of the world, with liberty in every port.

The ship, a World War II veteran, has been assigned to the Naval Hydrographic Office for a scientific survey of the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans, checking on such matters as ocean currents, water composition, and temperatures and the like. The mission is called "Operation Sea Scan." A team of civilian scientists will be in charge of the actual observations.

It's a ship full of bachelors. All but one ("he loves the Navy") of its 67 crew members, and its skipper, Lieutenant Commander Kenneth Woods, are unmarried.

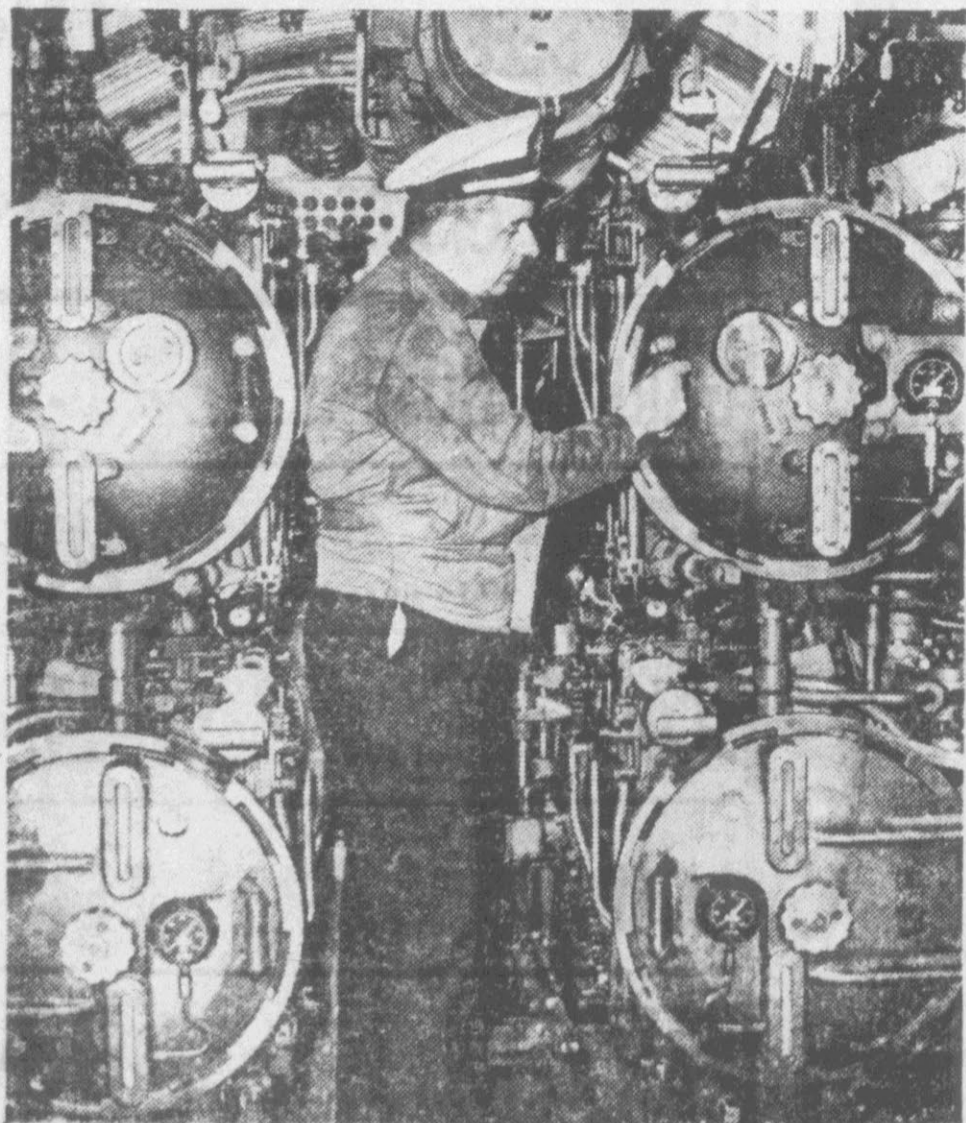

"It will be practically impossible to let a man off to go home in the event of some family emergency," Cmdr. Woods explained, "and so we preferred unmarried men."

For weeks the Archerfish teemed with activity getting ready for the trip, first at the Philadelphia Naval Base and then in New London, Conn. Every inch of the ship was gone over. All kinds of gear were examined, repaired and replaced. New equipment, instruments and supplies were hauled aboard. Old spots were repainted.

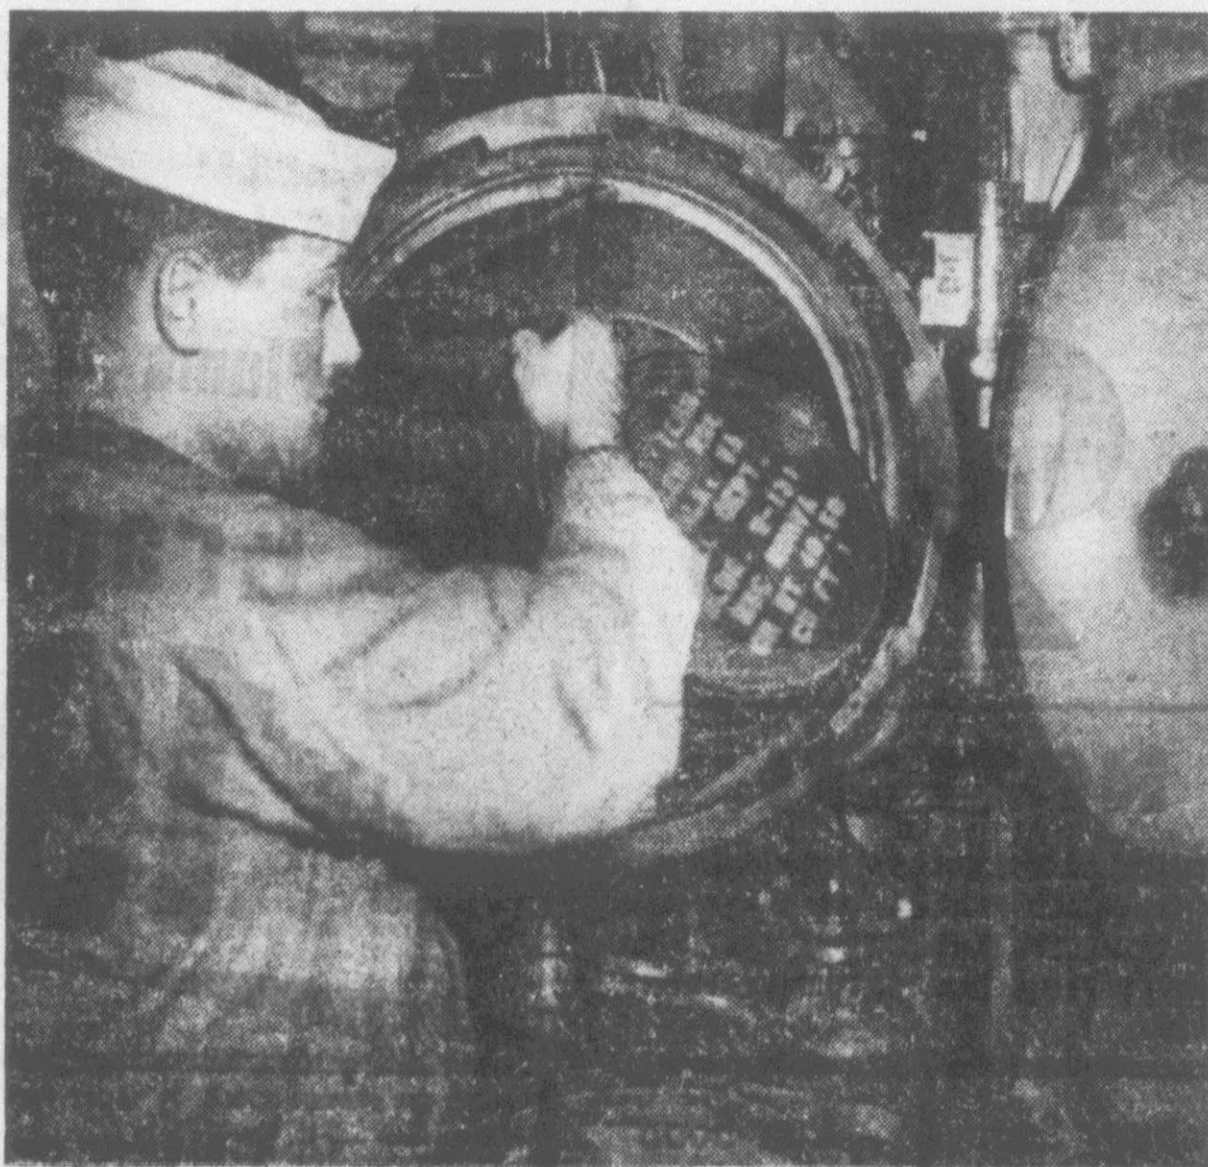

The Archerfish is shown being readied for its long-jant cruise.

Lt. David Dimmick stands at torpedo tubes which will be used as storage lockers during cruise. From these tubes came torpedoes which sank Japanese carrier Shinano during World War II.

Robert W. Athorp, Electronic Technician, third class (SS), stows a container of grease in one of sub's forward torpedo tubes prior to ship's "round-the-world" cruise.

In crowded after engine room, men replace exhaust header on ship's diesel engine during overhaul.

Abandons Bid To Be Nominated

CHICAGO (AP)—An Indianapolis Negro lawyer's dream of becoming the first Negro to have his name placed in nomination for the presidency ended Monday.

Frank R. Beckwith, who ran against Vice President Richard M. Nixon in Indiana's presidential primary, delivered a withdrawal speech at the Indiana delegation's caucus, calling for Nixon's nomination and praising the GOP as the "party of freedom."

Gov. Harold W. Handley, delegation chairman, said he had explained to Beckwith that he could not be placed in nomination by Indiana because Nixon had won the primary.

George P. Rice Jr., a Butler University speech instructor and Indianapolis lawyer who is white, had said he wanted to present Beckwith "only as a symbolic candidate."

No Crying Towels Here, Says Halleck

CHICAGO (AP)—Rep. Charles A. Halleck Tuesday night delivered a blasting attack on the Democratic party. Its leaders, he said, are "belittling the progress of a people they seek to lead."

Halleck's hammer blows drew partisan roars from Republican conventioners packed into the International Amphitheater, waiting to hear President Eisenhower later.

The occasion was Halleck's assumption of the convention's permanent chairmanship.

"There are no crying towels in this Republican convention," the House GOP leader said. "And there are no prancing buttons. There will be no wringing of hands—no shameful attempts to downgrade the majesty of America."

Republicans know, Halleck said, that the Russians "are not suddenly 14 feet tall. We do not propose to operate from a posture of fear. We are not going to mistake a big mouth for a big stick."

Halleck took his biggest club to the record of the past Democratic-controlled Congress, in which he serves as a veteran member from

4-H Clubbers Open Political Campaign

RALEIGH (AP)—The state's 4-H club youngsters, urged by Gov. Hodges to take an active role in government, today began some politicking of their own during their annual week at North Carolina State College.

Twelve candidates for the group's top three offices, president, vice president and secretary-treasurer—were presented at a morning assembly. The 1,400 youngsters will ballot Friday.

Also on today's schedule was a luncheon for 4-H leaders and more finals in statewide farm demonstrations.

Presidential candidates announced were Harold Vick of Rt. 3 Nashville, Cole Porter of Wilmington, Eddie Davis of Cornelius and Don Chaplin of Tyrrell County. This year's president will be a boy because the present group

Bomb-Dropping Case Near Close

FLORENCE, S.C. (AP)—Completion of testimony was expected today in a special federal court hearing on a damage suit arising from the accidental dropping of an unarmed atomic bomb two years ago.

The suit which seeks a total of $185,000 in damages was brought by Walter Gregg and his family against the Air Force as a result of the fall of the bomb from an aircraft on March 11, 1958. Gregg has rejected a $43,000 settlement offered by the Air Force.

There was no atomic explosion but a TNT component in the bomb blasted a large hole in the Gregg home at nearby Mars Bluff and wrecked the Gregg home.

The testimony of a government witness Tuesday regarding property damage conflicted with that offered Monday by other witnesses.

Dr. A. R. Goodwin of Florence, an insurance adjuster, estimated damage to furniture, clothing and other belongings in the Gregg home at $5,543. Other witnesses had placed the damage at $22,000.

Other testimony came Tuesday from top Air Force medical officers on the subject of radiation.

Brig. Gen. T. C. Bedwell Jr., senior medical officer for the Strategic Air Command Headquarters, Omaha, Neb., said there was no significant radiation contamination from the blast.

He said further that there was no possibility that an atomic explosion could have occurred through accidental release of the bomb.

This testimony was dramatized when presiding U.S. District Judge C. C. Wyche lent his radium dial watch for demonstrations showing how radiation is detected and measured.

To Review Bids On 25 Projects

RALEIGH (AP)—The State Highway Commission will review low bids totaling more than eight million dollars for 25 road projects Aug. 4 when it meets at New Bern.

The bids were opened Tuesday at the Highway Building in Raleigh. Projects covered nearly 103 miles of work.

Included was an Interstate Highway 85 job under attack by a group of Davidson County property owners.

Brown Paving Co. of Lexington and Wilson Construction Co. of Salisbury offered the low bid of $2,182,792 on the job which entails grading, structuring and paving of 6.92 miles between the Salisbury Bypass and the west end of the Lexington Bypass.

The Davidson County residents asked that the project be halted pending an investigation of property evaluation proceedings.

Other jobs in the letting included relocation of 13.4 miles of U.S. 52 from a point near Pilot Mountain to the Stokes-Forsyth County line, and relocation of 6.39 miles of State Highway 268, necessary because of construction of the Wilkes Reservoir.

Mount Airy Grading Co. bid $1,298,728 on the roadway part of the U.S. 52 job and James T. Triplett of Chester, S.C., bid $1,141,804 on the structure job.

Low bidders on the Highway 268 project were roadway, Clement Brothers Co. of Hickory, $720,654, and structures, John H. Brinkley, Thomasville, $346,684.

A new bird found on New Britain Island in the Southwest Pacific has been named "eichlorinis grosveneri," after Dr. Gilbert Grosvenor, chairman of the board of trustees of the National Geographic Society.

Assault Attempt Charged Doctor

WINSTON-SALEM (AP)—Dr. Julian Lynn Harris, 38-year-old physician, was indicted Tuesday on charges of assault with intent to commit rape on a patient.

The charge was brought by Mrs. Shirley Ann Whitley, 21, who said the alleged assault occurred in the doctor's office June 27.

An attorney for Dr. Harris said he would try to get the trial continued until the September term of Superior Court.

Given 30 Days To Answer FTC

WASHINGTON (AP)—Seven Carolinas auto supply jobbers have been given 30 days by the Federal Trade Commission to reply to a complaint alleging they violated the Robinson - Patman Price Discrimination Law.

The FTC accused the seven, along with 49 others in eight other states with buying through an organization, National Parts Warehouse, Atlanta, Ga., in an effort to gain bigger discounts from wholesalers.

In its complaint, the FTC charges the Atlanta organization is not a purchaser but merely an agent through which member dealers are billed and pay for their purchases. The FTC said the practice "substantially lessened competition" not only between jobbers and their independent competitors but between their suppliers as well.

Carolinas jobbers named were Barnes Motor & Parts, Wilson, N.C.; Battery & Electric Co., Greenville, S.C.; Dickson Auto Supply, Shelby, N.C.; Motor Supply Co., Columbia, S.C.; McLean Auto Supply, Laurinburg, N.C.; Parts Supply Co., Orangeburg, S.C.; and Brothers Parts Co., Hemingway, S.C.

Lodge Attacked In Soviet Paper

MOSCOW (AP)—The government newspaper Izvestia Tuesday called Henry Cabot Lodge a cynical liar and a buffoon for defending the six American fliers shot down in their RB47 reconnaissance plane off the Soviet coast.

The paper referred to the men as "Air pirates." It attacked Lodge, U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, without printing any of his speech to the U.N. Security Council Monday.

The Statue of Liberty weighs 225 tons.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market ran its recovery into the second straight session early this afternoon. Trading was very quiet.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 70 to 214.10 with the industrials up 1.40, the rails up .10 and the utilities up .10.

The list was carrying through a technical recovery from just above its 1960 lows—a level which provided support twice before.

Brokers felt the news background was a bit brighter. U.S. Steel reported a recovery in its orders. Auto sales continued their uptrend.

Steels, motors, retail, and electronics were higher. Leading chemicals produced some good gains. Tobacco eased. Drugs were mixed.

The market was higher at the start when backed away from its best gains. Most of the advances were fractional and a wide assortment of stocks showed little or no change.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 1.79 to 608.54. Corporate bonds were slightly higher. U.S. government bonds improved.

Reflector Carrier Boys Take Tour Of Marine Base

REFLECTOR CARRIER BOYS EXAMINE AIRCRAFT . . . on tour of Cherry Point Marine Base.

Sewer System Project In Ayden Practically Set

AYDEN—Town Manager Cleveland Paylor said yesterday the sanitary sewer system project is practically settled with the exception of a few unfinished contract items and a few claims which are pending.

The sewage plant, completed about last August, has been in operation almost a year. The plant has been accepted by the engineers and town board. Affairs in connection with the plant have been settled previously.

Consolidated Construction Co. of Lumberton was the general contractor for the plant.

The sanitary sewer system was under general contract to Sanford Construction Co., who sublet it to Tri-Mac Corp. of Greenville.

The sewer system project ran into difficulties, including soil and weather conditions, Paylor said, which delayed its settlement.

There will be a meeting Friday at 9 a.m. to further discuss any unfinished business. Those expected to attend the meeting include Thomas W. Rivers, consulting engineer; Al Johnson of the Rivers firm; W. L. Corbin of Chlorca Construction Co., employed by Sanford Construction Co. to make the corrections on the project; Mayor S. F. Peterson; and Town Manager Cleveland Paylor.

Twenty Daily Reflector carrier boys from all parts of Pitt County visited the Marine Corps Air Station at Cherry Point Sunday and Monday.

The boys, guests of the Special Services Office and the base newspaper the "Windsock" arrived at the large air base about 10 a.m. Sunday.

During their stay on the base, they toured the base weather station, the control tower, the radar control room, the massive Overhaul and Repair Department, and the flight line.

While on the flight line, the boys were given a chance to sit in the cockpit of several different types of aircraft and during other parts of the tour, they watched a jet engine being tested and saw how a parachute operates.

During breaks in the tour, the carriers were taken swimming in the base pool and allowed to play basketball, volleyball and jump on the trampoline in the gym. The visitors were also treated to a free show at the base theatre.

While at the gym, the Cherry Joint Judo Team gave a demonstration of the techniques of Judo and Capt. Wes Santee, USMCR, who was at one time one of the fastest mile-runners in the United States, talked to the boys.

While at Cherry Point, the boys were housed in the Marine Corps Barracks there, and had their meals in one of the Mess Halls on the reservation.

The boys were accompanied on the tour by Hall Miller and Mrs. W. W. Allen of Ayden, and John Slaton, Circulation Manager of The Daily Reflector.

CORTINA D'AMPEZZO, Italy. (AP) — Seven young Italian alpinists were found dead today in a 1,500-foot deep crevasse on An-te-lao Peak. They were roped together.

The four men and three women from 17 to 20 years old, all amateur mountain climbers, left Tuesday to climb 10,705-foot An-te-lao. It is one of the Dolomite peaks overlooking the north Italian sports resort where the 1956 winter Olympics were held.

CAB Asked To Speed Up Ruling

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Civil Aeronautics Board has been requested to speed up a decision on a case involving airline service to several North Carolina communities, most of them in the eastern part of the state.

Sen. B. Everett Jordan (D-NC) said in a newsletter Tuesday, "It has been a year now since the submission of evidence was completed, but no action has been taken by the board."

Hearings were held more than a year ago to determine ways to connect several Tar Heel communities with existing airline routes.

Jordan said there is no substantial airline service east of Raleigh.

Store's Grand Opening Rites Set For Tomorrow

Greenville's branch Rose's 5-10-25 Cent Stores has scheduled a grand opening ceremony for tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock.

Heading a group of notables will be the president of the 147-store chain, T. B. Rose, and Greenville Mayor S. Eugene West.

A ribbon-cutting ceremony will officially open the business here that has grown recently to 10,000 square feet since it was plagued by fire several months ago.

With all new fixtures and equipment the local store has expanded virtually every department.

Other guests at tomorrow's ceremony will be Mrs. Rose; L. H. Harvin Jr., executive vice-president; John T. Church, vice-president and secretary; C. H. Tucker, vice-president and personnel director; and a number of the local buyer staff from Henderson.

The local store was opened in 1938. Manager J. A. Taylor came to Greenville in 1948 as a 12-year Rose's veteran to manage the local branch.

The variety store chain extends over a seven-state area—N. C., S. C., Virginia, Georgia, Alabama, Kentucky, and Tennessee—in the Southeast.

Ayden Prepares To Move Poles

AYDEN — The city of Ayden was preparing yesterday to move electric poles along a 3.2 mile stretch in connection with a paving project by the N. C. Highway Commission.

Cleveland Paylor, town manager said the paving project calls for a 60-foot right-of-way, which has necessitated the moving of the electric poles back from the road.

New poles arrived yesterday and will be installed along the roadside. The old poles will be used for light construction in other places, Paylor said. Cost of the project is unknown at the present time.

The paving project calls for paving State Road 1900, which runs almost parallel with the Atlantic Coastline Railroad to Hanrahan. The project begins at State Road 1902 and extends to State Road 1110, Paylor said. The extension is located beyond the Ayden city limits.

Women Raped By Youth Gang In Convention City

CHICAGO (AP)—A gang of Negro youths assaulted two white men with baseball bats, raped their pregnant wives, and knifed another youth Tuesday night in Lincoln Park.

Police felled one gang member with a bullet in his neck and seized the other four within a mile of the park, which fronts Lake Michigan on the North Side.

The five youths—one 18 years old, three 16 and one 15—admitted taking part in the assaults, police said.

The victims required hospital treatment.

Police said the gang first assaulted and robbed Roy Helmut, 18, as he walked alone in the park about 10 o'clock Tuesday night. Helmut was stabbed twice in the back, but his wounds were not serious and he was released after treatment.

Next, police said, the youths surrounded a couple walking with two children and beat the husband to the ground with a bat. The mother, 27, was raped three times.

The youths also waylaid a woman, 23, and her husband, again beating the husband with a bat. The woman was raped twice.
