

Govm't In Cuba Silent On Who Will Take Up Reins

By ROBERT BERRELLEZ

HAVANA (AP) — The Cuban government kept silent today on who will take over control from Fidel Castro, but the best bet appeared to be his anti-American younger brother, Raul.

Authorities maintained tight-lipped secrecy following Monday's disclosure that the bearded Prime Minister had laid aside his duties after his doctor ordered him to take a complete rest—"both physical and mental."

Informal sources said Castro, 33, had been finally convinced that he must stop all work to hasten recovery from his three-week illness, officially described as a lung infection. Maj. Raul Trillo, one of two army doctors treating the prime minister, announced he was taking a complete rest, "both physical and mental."

In Washington speculated that the announcement was meant to prepare Cuba for the Prime Minister's indefinite retirement from public life. There have been persistent reports in Havana — denied by sources close to the Cuban government — that Castro underwent a racial operation and was found to be suffering from cancer.

Fidel soon after he came to power officially designated his younger brother as his political heir.

Raul, 28, Cuba's defense minister, has just returned from official visits to the Soviet Union, Communist Czechoslovakia and the United Arab Republic.

Before anyone takes over from Castro, the Cabinet presumably will meet under President Osvaldo Dorticos and order the change. So far there was no indication any such meeting had been called.

Lowland On Neuse Flooded

River Expected Begin Falling Wednesday; Some Crops, Pastures Covered

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Waters of the Neuse River flooded pastures and some crops in lowlands between Goldsboro and Kinston today as the result of last week's tropical storm Brenda which deluged areas of eastern North Carolina with 2 to 8 inches of rainfall.

The weather bureau reported that the Neuse had reached a depth of 20.18 feet at Goldsboro—more than six feet above bankful stage—and was still rising this morning. It said the river is expected to crest at just under 21 feet and begin falling by Wednesday.

At Kinston, where bankful level is also 14 feet, the Neuse had reached 16.15 feet this morning, and a further rise of about a foot is expected during the next few days.

The State Highway Commission reported, meanwhile, that two sections of highway near Stantonburg which have been closed due to flood waters were expected to be reopened during the day. The roads affected at sections of N.C. 58 and N.C. 222 which were flooded by waters of Contentnea Creek.

The weather bureau reported that the Tar River is now falling after cresting about a foot above bankful level at both Rocky Mount and Tarboro. At Greenville, where bankful is 13 feet, the Tar had reached 13.0 feet today and the weather bureau said a further rise of about a foot is expected there.

Smoking-Cancer Link Up To Jury

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A federal court jury is considering whether heavy smoking causes lung cancer.

The estate of Edwin P. Green is suing American Tobacco Co., contending his death from lung cancer was caused by smoking the firm's cigarettes for 30 years.

Green, a contractor, died in 1958. It is up to the U.S. District Court jury to fix damages if it finds for the plaintiffs. Dr. Larry V. Hastings, has contended the sum should be in excess of one million dollars.

Hastings told the jury "every obstruction in the world has been put in the way of the case getting this far."

David Dyer, counsel for American Tobacco Co., told the jury a verdict granting damages would have to be based on evidence amounting to speculation. He said such a verdict could mean the death knell of the tobacco industry.

In a similar case last May in Pittsburgh, Otto Pritchard, 61, a Pittsburgh carpenter, failed to win a suit against another cigarette firm.

After 20 days of testimony, the U.S. District Court judge directed a jury to return a verdict against Pritchard.

Pritchard had sought $1,250,000 in a suit against the Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co. He said he smoked the firm's Chesterfield cigarettes for some 29 years before part of his right lung was removed in 1953 as cancerous.

The report concluded by saying that death was probably "caused by a traumatic injury and hemorrhage of the brain . . . which was quite sufficient to cause death."

The preliminary autopsy report, according to Coronor Harvey, showed the injuries were consistent with a fall, especially a fall from a moving auto . . . and non-consistent with a blow to the head which ordinarily would leave some indication of scalp injury. It also was reported that there was "no indication of disease which would have caused a natural death."

Gavin Opens Campaign To Get Hidden Demo Backing

CHARLOTTE (AP) — Robert Gavin, the Republican candidate for governor, today borrowed a page from President Eisenhower's campaign handbook and appealed for a "Citizens for Gavin" movement.

He also has borrowed Jesse Page, the Charlotte businessman who was state chairman of the "Citizens for Eisenhower" movement which brought North Carolina within 15,000 votes of going Republican in 1956.

Gavin, Sanford lawyer, said in a news conference here that he is counting on a sizable "hidden support" from Democrats, particularly in the past, in his campaign against the Democratic nominee, Terry Sanford, Fayetteville lawyer.

The Republican candidate, sitting comfortably in an overstuffed chair in the swank City Club, said he had received such "hidden support" from prominent Democrats in about 15 Eastern North Carolina counties. But he declined to name either the individuals or the counties, saying:

"A lot of Democrats want to keep their identity as Democrats in local areas."

Gavin, who identifies himself as a conservative "far to the right of Terry Sanford," declared, "I am appealing to Democrats, Republicans, Independents, all voters."

This appeal was characterized by a newspaper advertisement today, aimed at Democrats and declaring:

"Now you don't have to desert your party. It has deserted you. Nowhere did the advertisement identify him as a Republican."

Gavin declined to pinpoint whether this "desertion" was based in the Democrats' choice of Sen. John F. Kennedy, a liberal and Catholic, as presidential candidate or on the liberals' Democratic platform. But he conceded his own chances may have been weaker if the Democrats had selected Texas Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson as presidential candidate because "people in North Carolina identify Johnson as a conservative."

Of his own party's platform, generally identified as liberal also, Gavin said, "Our delegation (North Carolina) came home feeling satisfied with it."

In his appeal to disgruntled Democrats, Gavin promised that "no state employee who is doing his job will have anything to worry about" if Gavin is elected. He said he had received pledges of support from some state job holders, but again declined to identify them.

Gavin said his own program for the state — if there is a sufficient surplus — rates educational needs as the number one priority and some form of tax relief for the individual as second.

But he emphasized: "I am not going to commit myself to spending the state's money until we find out how much is there."

Gavin also pledged that, "If I can help it, the race issue will not be injected into the campaign."

Gavin's schedule for later today called for a meeting with friends and supporters at a private home, and a talk before the Young Republican Club here.

Accidental Death Ruling At Inquest Held Last Night

By STUART SAVAGE

Reflector Staff Writer

FARMVILLE — A six-man coronor's jury deliberated only 10 minutes last night before returning a ruling that the death of a 15-year-old boy near here July 6 was the "result of an accidental fall" from a moving car.

The jury also recommended that no criminal action be taken against the driver of the car, William Robert Jenkins, 22, of Route 1, Greenville.

The hearing, held in the Farmville City Court Room, was an inquest into the death of Joseph Howard Stepps, 15, of Farmville, who fell from a moving car July 6 on Rural Paved Road 1200 between Joyner's Cross Roads and Butt's Store.

Upon questioning by District Solicitor Robert Rouse of Farmville, Jenkins told the jury that he (Jenkins), young Stepps, and two other men, identified as Earl Baker and Linwood Holloman, had been to Fountain in search of an amplifier. Both Baker and Holloman are from Farmville.

He continued by saying they returned to Farmville and started to go back to Fountain. As they rounded a sharp curve on RPR 1200, which connects the Farmville-Bruce road with the Farmville-Fountain highway, Stepps fell from the auto. Jenkins noted that Stepps was sitting in the right hand front seat of the car which belonged to his mother.

"The first thing I know," Jenkins testified, the light came on, the door came open and "I saw him falling." Jenkins said he stopped the car, backed up and picked the injured youth up, then took him to the Farmville Police Department in an attempt to secure a doctor. Jenkins said "he seemed to be breathing" when he was picked up at the scene of the accident.

Earl Baker, 24, who was a passenger in the right-hand rear seat of the car, and who held Stepps in the rear seat as the youth was taken to the Farmville police department, then to Pitt Memorial Hospital, in Greenville, said "he moaned" one time in front of the police department but (Stepps) made no other statement. "I never saw anyone die before but he looked like he died about four miles before we got there (to the hospital)," Baker testified.

Farmville police officer Curtis Martin testified that he was on duty at the time the Stepps boy was brought to the police station and that he "attempted to call a doctor" but they were all out of town. "I looked at the boy . . . he was breathing fast and his head was skinned up . . . and advised Bob (Jenkins) to drive carefully and go to the hospital in Greenville."

Baker told the jury that "one time before" when he was riding back from Wilson with Stepps, the boy opened the door "like he was going to stand up on the side and climb on the roof" of the car. He added that he did not know if Stepps had his hand on the door handle just before the accident or not.

Following the testimony of the eyewitnesses and by investigating officer, Patrolman W. E. Williams of Greenville, who said there was no physical evidence at the scene of the fall, Solicitor Rouse read the summary portion of the report of the autopsy, which was conducted by Dr. Wiley D. Forbus of the Duke University School of Medicine.

According to the report the "scratches on the face" of the victim were "produced by a sliding of the face over a rough surface . . . it is quite possible he fell head first" from a car. There is "no evidence of a violent attack upon the body by any instrument" the report said.

The report concluded by saying that death was probably "caused by a traumatic injury and hemorrhage of the brain . . . which was quite sufficient to cause death."

The preliminary autopsy report, according to Coronor Harvey, showed the injuries were consistent with a fall, especially a fall from a moving auto . . . and non-consistent with a blow to the head which ordinarily would leave some indication of scalp injury. It also was reported that there was "no indication of disease which would have caused a natural death."

Evidence Said Stolen From Elon College Police Chief

ELON COLLEGE, N.C. (AP) — Evidence from whisky and gambling raids on a restaurant and service station near here July 16 have been stolen from the home of Police Chief Henry F. Hilliard.

The break-in at his home where whisky tip boards and lottery tickets were stored was discovered Monday night by his brother-in-law, Chief Hilliard and his family left Sunday afternoon for a week's vacation at Badin Lake. The chief's brother-in-law had a key to the house and came by to check the mail. He notified Hilliard, who returned here today.

The break-in and theft came after a series of threatening telephone calls to the chief following the raids. The anonymous callers warned him to go easy on his police activities. Chief Hilliard made the two raids within the two mile jurisdiction of Elon town limits.

He said that he had stored the evidence in his home because Elon Town Hall was not occupied at all times. Taken from the home also were notes and other information on the cases which he had stored in a dresser drawer.

Also in the drawer, but not taken, was $122.50 in cash — receipts from a self-service laundry and the chief owned—and a pistol he used in his police work.

The chief discovered that who ever broke in had searched some clothes he left in the house. They were strewn across the bedroom.

Chief Hilliard said today that he still has some evidence not in his home—he wouldn't say what—and feels that the two cases can be prosecuted without delay.

Scheduled to be tried Aug. 15 in Recorder's Court as a result of the raid are Roby Wolfe, restaurateur and operator, and Dock Overman, operator of a service station.

Not taken from the home were two coin-operated machines from one of the raids. They had been stored in Hilliard's basement.

Morehead City Bridge To Be On Board Agenda

RALEIGH (AP)—Location of a new bridge between Morehead City and Beaufort and of Interstate Highway 77 in the western part of the state will be on the agenda of the State Highway Commission when it meets at New Bern Thursday.

The commission is scheduled to release during the meeting the report of a group of consulting engineers who have studied possible location of Interstate 77 from a point east of Elkin north through Virginia to the southern end of the West Virginia Turnpike.

The consulting engineers were hired by the states of North Carolina, Virginia and West Virginia to study possible routes for the new super-highway which will run from Charlotte to Canton, Ohio. In the report, the engineers are expected to discuss costs and other aspects of at least three locations of the highway from near Elkin to the Virginia line and at least four routes it could follow through Virginia.

The commission will hold a public hearing on location of the Beaufort-Morehead bridge. It has indicated it wants the new span located near the present bridge, but Morehead and Beaufort groups plus the State Ports Authority want the bridge located some distance to the west to make room for port expansion.

At the New Bern meeting, the commission also expects to hear from a group of Littleton citizens on the location of a new bridge over the Roanoke River to replace a ferry.

UN Steering Clear Of Congo Tribal Warfare

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo

(AP)—The U. N. Command took a hands-off attitude today toward bloody tribal warfare reported in the Congo's Kasai province.

The UNC stressed that the Security Council had sent in the international force so Belgian soldiers could withdraw, and that tribal disturbances are an internal matter for the Congo government and its army, "not a mandate of the U. N. forces."

Belgian sources consider that the disorganized 25,000-man Congolese army, which mutilated against its white Belgian officers early in July, is totally incapable of controlling the warring tribesmen.

Belgian officials said the warfare — between the traditionally hostile Lulus and Baluba tribes in Kasai, east of Leopoldville — was the worst flareup in the history of the two tribes.

Unconfirmed reports said hundreds had been killed in the battling with bows and arrows, clubs and torches. Baluba tribesmen were reported in flight, some to adjoining Katanga province, which has proclaimed its independence of Premier Patrice Lumumba's central government.

Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold warned Congolese leaders Monday night that any false move on their part could plunge the Congo into new turmoil.

He called on the infant government to follow the course set by the United Nations—"always free of all influence of groups, parties or ideology."

Confer Another Degree On Ike

KINGSTON, R. I. (AP) — The University of Rhode Island conferred an honorary degree of doctor of civil laws on President Eisenhower Monday.

Eisenhower traveled in a helicopter on the 20-mile trip to the campus here from the summer White House at Newport, R.I.

Francis Gary Powers penned these words to his wife on May 25 as he sat in a Moscow prison cell. They were the first received by Mrs. Powers after her husband was downed while flying a U2 reconnaissance plane over the Soviet Union on May 1.

Since then she has received two others, dated June 28 and July 19. Among other things, Powers reported he was permitted to smoke, take walks, sunbathe and read. He said he was getting "more than enough to eat."

The flier is to be tried by the Soviet Union on espionage charges beginning Aug. 17.

Excerpts from his letters were made public this week in Newsweek magazine. All the communications bore the postmark of Lubyanka prison in Moscow.

President Talks Campaign Plans

NEWPORT, R. I. (AP)—The summer White House indicated today President Eisenhower is planning some surprises in his personal campaign to elect the Republican ticket.

Eisenhower discussed campaign and congressional strategy for 65 minutes here Monday night with Vice President Richard M. Nixon, the GOP nominee for the White House, and his running mate, Henry Cabot Lodge.

At a news conference after the meeting Nixon made it clear the President plans an active role in the campaign.

Referring to Eisenhower as "the champ," Nixon said the President had given him some good campaign tips, but declined to elaborate, saying he was not going to be "helpful to our opponents."

Today, White House press secretary James C. Hagerty took the same tack. He said Eisenhower will disclose his plans at an appropriate time.

"I am sure," said Hagerty, "that the President will participate in the campaign. I am sure that some of his participation will be active—what I would call traditional political campaigning. But a great deal of it will not be."

Asked to explain that, Hagerty simply replied: "You'll find out."

Turkish Tobacco Has High Price

LAKE VIEW, S.C. (AP)—Turkish tobacco, grown in the Carolinas, sold for an average 80 cents a pound Monday when the aromatic leaf was put on the auction block at Lake View. The price range was from 15 cents to 1.25 per pound.

The Turkish tobacco was grown on about 12 acres distributed among 12 farmers in the Lake View area of North and South Carolina.

The approximately 5,000 pounds of leaf was purchased by Southeastern Aromatic Tobacco Co. of Anderson.

Hearing Set August 10 On Georgia Blue Tags

VALDOSTA, Ga. (AP) — The state today was granted a hearing in Brunswick Aug. 10 on a motion to lift a federal court order restraining Georgia from enforcing its law requiring special tags on Carolina and Virginia tobacco.

The time for the hearing was agreed upon by Asst. Atty. Gen. Hugh Harrison during a conference in Swainsboro with attorneys for Georgia warehouses who obtained the injunction Saturday.

The warehousemen charged the new law was unconstitutional. It attempted to require blue tags on tobacco which they sell from Carolina and Virginia farmers while that from Georgia, Alabama and Florida bear a white tag.

The market was higher Monday for Georgia and Florida flue-cured tobacco as tags distinguishing outside tobacco from belt-grown were removed in compliance with Scarlett's order.

About two-thirds of the grades increased $1 to $5 per 100 pounds over Friday's levels, the U.S. Department of Agriculture reported. The larger gains occurred for some priming and nondescript offerings. The top price reported paid by companies was $87.

Fairly heavy sales volume was recorded, and the tobacco showed improvement in quality over Friday.

Auction bid averages per 100 pounds on representative U.S. included:

Leaf—Fair lemon 64, unchanged; low lemon 62, up 3; low orange 62, up 1.

Cutters—Low lemon 65, down 1; low orange 65, down 1.

Lugs—Good lemon 66, unchanged; fair lemon 65, unchanged; fair orange 65, up 1; low orange 63, up 1.

Primings—Good lemon 65, up 2; fair lemon 61, up 1; low lemon 53, up 2; fair orange 59, up 1; low orange 48, up 1.

Non-leaf—Best in body 37, up 5; best light green 37, up 4.

FBI Denies It Is Hunting Two Govm't Workers

WASHINGTON (AP)—The FBI says it is not checking on the whereabouts of two U.S. National Security Agency employees who left for a vacation in the West and apparently went to Mexico instead.

Bernon F. Mitchell, 31, and William H. Martin, 29, began their vacations on June 24 and were due back in mid-July. They have not contacted their families nor the agency since they left.

Authorities said the men, both single, booked plane passage to Mexico City on June 25. A check of Mexico City hotels Monday showed they had registered there but later had left.

The two worked as junior mathematicians at the Ft. Meade, Md., Communications Intelligence Agency.

At the request of the Defense Department, the two were listed in the missing persons section of the FBI files. But the FBI said there were no indications that any federal law had been violated.

WORKMEN TAKE OVER

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Harold Macmillan started moving out of No. 10 Downing St. today. For the next two years the official residence of Britain's Prime Minister will be occupied by workmen rebuilding the rickety old structure.

Kennedy Plans To Visit Truman

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP)—

Sen. John F. Kennedy made peace today with former President Harry S. Truman in a telephone call and announced he will visit Truman in Independence, Mo., this month.

"I talked to President Truman by telephone and he was generous enough to say he would help us," Kennedy told a news conference. "I hope before the end of August to visit President Truman myself at his library in Independence."

Local Library Reports Growth In Circulation

Sheppard Memorial Library has realized an increased circulation during the past year of 13,515 books, according to an annual report released by Miss Elizabeth Copeland, librarian.

Increases were noted in books circulated among both the adult and juvenile readership in the city of Greenville, the report showed. There was a slight decrease in bookmobile circulation over last year, which has been attributed to more use of libraries in smaller towns of the county, as well as more use of the Greenville library itself by those living outside the city, Miss Copeland said.

Libraries have been established this year in Grifton and in Ayden, where a new Negro library was organized and named the Charlotte Hawkins Brown Library. A total of 4,768 new books were added to the shelves at Sheppard Memorial Library, which represented 2,293 different titles. As of June 30, 1960, Sheppard Memorial had on its shelves 61,927 books. In addition to the books, the library has a supply of non-book materials including 536 phonograph records, 93 microfilms, five newspapers, and 139 periodicals.

The following circulation statistics were announced: adult circulation at Sheppard Memorial, 51,930; juvenile circulation at Sheppard Memorial, 41,853; bookmobile circulation, 95,951, for a total of 189,734.

The Carver Library in Greenville announced a total circulation of 17,463 books, a slight decrease over last year when 19,936 books were circulated. The adult circulation was 8,140 and the juvenile circulation was 9,313.

Other circulation statistics showed that other towns circulated a total of 36,753 books, an increase of 5,721 over last year. However, this circulation does not include that of the Grifton Public Library nor the Charlotte Hawkins Brown Library, which opened during the middle of the annual fiscal year.

Bookmobile circulation was a greatest in the schools, with 56,907 circulation. Circulation in communities (houses, stores, churches) was 36,863; and in stations (libraries) was 2,181, for the total of 95,951.

total receipts for the fiscal year of July 1, 1959-June 30, 1960, at Sheppard Memorial Library were $49,933.43.

Broken down, this figure represents a general appropriation from the City of Greenville of $20,729.50; from Pitt County, $18,000; from the State of North Carolina, $4,826.89; Federal aid, $4,250; fund, $193.50; desk receipts totaled $1,933.64.

Other monies including the bank balance June 30, 1959, cash receipts and balance and non-recurring appropriation, brought the total budget to $51,969.36.

AT FIELDCREST LUNCHEON—Local civic and business leaders yesterday received from Fieldcrest officials a briefing on Greenville's new industrial firm at a luncheon given by Fieldcrest. Some 40 local persons attended the luncheon at which Fieldcrest officials were hosts. Pictured here following the luncheon are Henry F. Morris, who will head the local Fieldcrest operations; Vance Perkins, Chairman of the Pitt Board of Commissioners; R. A. Harris, Fieldcrest vice president in charge of manufacturing; W. W. Speight, president of the Committee of 100; Harold W. Whitcomb, Fieldcrest president; and Mayor S. Eugene West. Fieldcrest took over operations of Greenville Mills, Inc. yesterday.

Handmade Hats With A Professional Look

Hats are of "top-notch" importance in creating a harmonious costume. More individuality may be expressed in a hat than in any other accessory.

Mrs. Hattie Brown, a home demonstration club member in Northampton County, has been busy for several months making her own hats.

Mrs. Brown had made fabric hats to match special outfits but had not experimented with straw. But this past spring, she went to a workshop conducted by Miss Carol Winston, home economics agent. Miss Winston taught the club women to make hats using straw braid, since then, she has made about a dozen hats.

"I love to make hats because the work is fascinating," says Mrs. Brown. "It took me a day to make my first hat but now I can make one in about three hours."

Mrs. Brown tries to make hats which are becoming to her and ties in with her wardrobe. She knows that the contours of the face, height, and size of the individual are points to consider in making a hat.

Hats bring life and interest to a drab and tiresome costume. Mrs. Brown has always enjoyed sewing and finds creating hats a wonderful opportunity to be creative.

"I have gotten additional information on hat making from various sources," she says. "I saw a demonstration on television on making roses, so I wrote for information and quickly learned the technique for making them."

She also picks up trim for her hats which she thinks will enhance the beauty of them. Many of her fabric hats are made of scraps from dresses and suits she makes, so the expense is low. She can make a hat for six dollars which would sell for about eight-teen dollars. The hats she makes usually cost her around four dollars.

Not only has Mrs. Brown made hats for herself but also makes them for her daughters-in-law and for her neighbors.

"Anything can be used to block a hat in a desired shape as long as it is smooth and firm," she said. "I borrowed a hat block one time but often use a bowl or pitcher. To block a hat, use wet cloth and hot iron on the wet cloth to make steam. Then when smooth, pin down tight and dry thoroughly. Hats not only complete a silhouette but can lift a person's spirits. The choice of a hat reflects personality, courage, and gaiety.

After a hat is completed, storage is important. They are often abused by improper storage. To insure a good shape after each wearing, stuff the hat crown with tissue paper and store in a good sturdy box.

Mrs. Brown not only likes to make hats but is an outstanding interior decorator. She makes her own draperies and upholsters furniture with the skill of a professional. Spare time is scarce around Mrs. Brown's home.

Cheese Gives Flavor To Mealtime Dishes

RALEIGH—Cheddar cheese, the most popular of the entire cheese family, lends flavorful and eye-appealing goodness to a multitude of tempting snack and mealtime dishes during the summer months. Cheddar or American cheese, as it usually is called, is available in a variety of flavors and textures. Both flavor and texture are governed by the length of time the cheese is aged. The color of cheddar cheese ranges from white to the deepest orange, but the color does not indicate either flavor or texture.

Homemakers should sample several of the different flavors throughout the summer. One way to serve cheddar is as cheese-essicles. Insert a pretzel stick into the center of a cube of cheddar cheese and serve like a popsicle. The pretzel not only serves as the "handle," but lends a crunchy, salt contrast to the cheese as well.

Another summertime recipe is cheese and onion sandwiches. Top buttered slices of dark rye bread with alternate layers of mild, flavorful cheddar, sliced to thickness desired, and sweet onions. Sprinkle each layer with salt, and if desired, add a crispy lettuce leaf and mayonnaise. Top with another slice of buttered bread and serve with tall glasses of pell-chilled milk.

Cotton Fabrics Are A Boon To Decorator

Fabrics in the cotton family are a great boon to the home decorator because they are colorful, durable, and washable.

Sailcloth and mattress ticking wear wonderfully well and stand up perfectly under repeated washings. Denims are equally hardy and come in a gamut of luscious colors. Corduroy never needs ironing if you let it drip-dry. Glazed chintz sheds soil and also washes beautifully.

Shellacked surfaces can be washed safely by sponging with dense soap or detergent suds. Just be sure that no water is permitted to permeate the finish during either washing or rinsing.

Bride's Lunch Served At Speight Home

Saturday at the home of Mrs. Powell Speight, Brookgreen, a luncheon was served in honor of Miss Susan High of Lucama, bride-elect of August 13th. She will wed East Carolina graduate Norman Edgerton of Kenly.

Hostesses were Mrs. William Spruill of Ahsokie and Mrs. Minnie Lee Spruill of Columbia. The hostesses presented their niece and granddaughter a corsage of white tulle and feathered carnations. As the guests arrived, friends of the bride-to-be and members of the wedding party from Wilson, Lucama, and Kenly were served punch by Misses Ann and Renda Speight.

The bridal motif and a color scheme of pink and white were used in the floral arrangements throughout the house. Miss High was given gifts of silver by the hostesses.

Housewarming Given In Honor Of Mrs. Barnhill

ROBERSONVILLE—Mrs. Forest E. Boone, Mrs. Nathan Roberson, Mrs. Haywood Everett, Mrs. Edgar Johnson and Mrs. Lee House were hostesses at a surprise housewarming given Mrs. A. F. Barnhill at her recently remodeled home Tuesday evening.

Two arrangements of summer flowers decorated the den and living room where the callers assembled.

After the guests arrived, they were taken on a tour of the nine-room house on Roberson St. The gifts were unwrapped and displayed before refreshments were served buffet style from the dining table spread with a white linen cloth.

The refreshments consisted of pimento-cheese sandwiches, potato chips, pickles, salted nuts, walnut cookies and drinks.

Those who attended were Miss Selma Andrews, Miss Gladys Balfour, Mesdames Hattie Hardy, Wade Vick, Elliott Taylor, Oscar Roberson, John Edward Boone, Willie Johnson, Hugh Roberson, Rosa Carraway, Lester Edmondson, Yadia Manning, Harvey Lewis Roberson, David Grimes Sr., Mayo Little, Walter Roberson, W. W. Taylor Sr., Arthur Roberson, A. Pitt Roberson, Nellie Taylor, Eugene Roberson, and her daughter, Minnette.

Fashions Are In The Bag

By NADEANE WALKER
PARIS (AP) — Everything's in the bag in the new Jean Dessea fashion collection shown today. Besides the longest skirts of the season — 17 inches from the ground — the show is chiefly remarkable for deflated football skirts and baggy-backed jackets. It stacks up to a rather dejected look for next fall and winter. Dessea calls his line "JD," the "D" shape being in the blouse-backed jacket and the "J" outlined by the long, bag-backed skirt.

Everything in the collection is long torso, generally slack-waisted for daytime and fitted for evening. Not all the skirts take the bag shape, which is achieved with melon gores and a sloping band beginning above the knees and tapering in to a hemline several inches below the knees. The rest are tube skirts, often with trouser creases in front.

Dessea is the Greek designer who sold Princess Margaret a good part of her honeymoon trousseau and who dresses Queen Frederika of Greece. Grecian drapery in chiffon is his tour de force, and this time he goes in for long chiffon sheaths with tortured draping around the knees.

For cocktail and dinner clothes he brings back an old length, about a foot from the floor or at the very bottom of the calf. There are also some long, train-backed tube sheaths.

Nearly everything is bias cut, and here Dessea is following a major trend of the season.

NEW HIGH—This million-dollar camera system, which photographs and records missiles in space, has "twin-cannon" telescope lenses on 70mm movie cameras.

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

President Eisenhower turned photoreporter on his nationwide television address a few weeks ago. He displayed a photograph of a naval air base taken from an altitude of 70,000 feet. The details of buildings, installations, runways and planes were remarkably clear.

"The white lines in the parking strips around the field," he pointed out, "are clearly discernible from 13 miles up." Then he added, "Those lines are just six inches wide."

The President's remarks were a tribute to the noteworthy heights achieved by modern photographic science. Still another example came to my attention recently which is just as incredible.

Imagine a camera which will photograph a golf ball in flight from a distance of eight miles so that the spots of the golf ball will show. Or reveal the name on a baseball in motion five miles away.

The remarkable eye which can do this is "a telephoto cine camera for high-precision photo coverage of a moving object in space and time," to quote the Air Force report of this achievement.

Naturally any camera with such farsightedness wasn't designed merely to cover sports events from afar. In fact, when it costs close to one million dollars, it's more than a camera. It's a theodolite, a system for tracking missiles in space.

The largest theodolite in the free world, capable of the golf and baseball stunt, has just been installed on the White Sands Missile Range at Holloman Air Force Base, N.M. It will produce detailed pictures of missiles up to altitudes of 100,000 feet from two 70mm movie cameras.

Taking pictures of such magnitude is part of the achievement. It is also important to aim the camera device, keep it on target and to record all-important data every step of the way. The Roti Mark 1 (recording optical tracking instrument, model 1) does this complete job. It is mounted on a modified naval anti-aircraft gun platform which rotates a full 360 degrees and also swings up and down. In operation, every point of the compass and degree of elevation is noted by a 35mm data-recording camera.

Targets are sighted through two astronomical telescopes with 16-inch apertures. These telescopes range through a combined total of eight separate focal-length settings from 50 to 500 inches for continuous focus just like zoom lenses on hand-held movie cameras. The 70mm movie cameras, one for each telescope, operate at variable speeds from 10 to 40 frames per second.

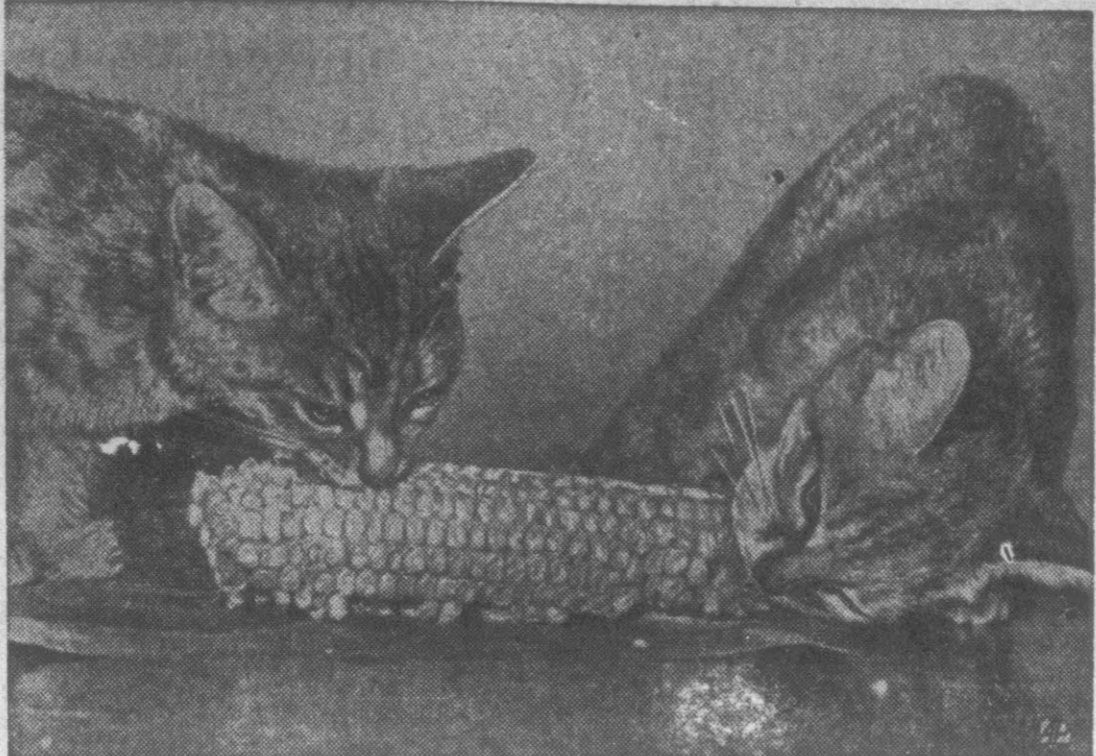

The Roti's 20-mile range is for missiles like the Falcon and Sidewinder. It can track larger missiles, rockets and satellites at far greater distances, up to several hundred miles while recording the flight path, velocity, acceleration and altitude.

"And beyond that," adds Air Force project engineer Orvie A. Steele, "it can still search out the craters of the moon."

To return to earth and more practical considerations of electronic cameras, here's an example of how we can be trapped by them. The Garden City, N.Y., Police Department has installed a $2,500 camera device called a "Photo Patrol."

This is placed by the roadside with two rubber tapes leading from it, extending across the road and three feet apart. When a speeding auto passes over the tapes, the camera can snap a picture of its rear, clearly revealing its license plate number. A photo record of the car's speed is included in the picture as evidence.

In effect, the speeder snaps his own picture by triggering the remote control.

Soprano Says U.S. Dosen't Brag Enough

By JOY MILLER

NEW YORK (AP)—The wildly dramatic second act of "Carmen" crashed to a close in the Bucharest Opera House.

As the curtain fell, gypsy-garbed Blanche Thebom spun around to leave the stage. She saw the chorus moving determinedly toward her in a body.

"She took a step backward and said, 'Oh dear.' This, from the poised and regal brunette beauty, meant she was a pretty uneasy mezzo soprano.

She was the first American singer to perform behind the Romanian Iron Curtain, more rigid even than the Soviet Union's. She was portraying Carmen as a sexy, seductive wildcat; Romanians always gave her the role an unrealistic, formalized treatment.

And, as everybody knows, opera singers come temperamental in any nationality.

The chorus closed in. The men seized her. Hoisting her to their shoulders, they paraded around the stage with shouts and applause.

At the opera's end, the audience stood on seats to cheer the Metropolitan Opera star. Crowds followed her blocks back to the hotel.

The Romanian Artists Guild gave a dinner for her. The Romanian Carmens forgot all about being prima donnas and begged the tall, shapely diva to stay and teach them her realistic interpretation.

important than liking; and respect is always built by cultural matters."

A permanently established Department of Culture in the U.S. government is vitally necessary, she says, both for foreign opinion and domestic efficiency.

"Our undersecretary of state for cultural matters isn't the same thing at all," she says. "We don't have anything on a level with what other countries have for negotiating exchange agreements."

The ANTA (American National Theater and Academy) international exchange program, administered in cooperation with the State Department, operates on a year to year basis.

"Everything is a crash program," she explains. "And like a crash diet, it is completely unrealistic."

Since 1954 Miss Thebom has been spending her vacations performing around the world under the ANTA aegis: Iceland, Central and South America, the Soviet Union, the Far East, Europe, and most recently Yugoslavia and Romania.

"Maybe the way I feel has something to do with being a first generation American," ponders the onetime Canton, Ohio, secretary. "My parents came from Sweden and I was brought up tremendously impressed with the privilege of voting and the responsibilities of citizenship. I've been called a flagwaver, and I admit it. But honestly now, what's wrong with waving a flag you love?"

Rotarians Hear Young Speaker

Miss Nancy Harris of Greenville, recipient of a Rotary Foundation Fellowship for a year's study abroad, spoke to the Greenville Rotary Club last night outlining her plans for study in Europe.

Miss Harris told the Rotarians she will take her first airplane flight August 14 when she flies to New York. It will also be her first trip to New York. She will sail from New York aboard the SS United States.

Following her arrival in France Miss Harris said she plans to spend six weeks in Paris where she will study conversational French at a division of the University of Paris. She will enroll at the University of Grenoble in Southern France in mid-October for a year of study.

While at the University of Grenoble Miss Harris will be under the auspices of the Grenoble Rotary Club and will visit and address various Rotary groups in that section of France.

"My job is to provide your hand across the sea for next year," she told the Greenville Rotary Club last night. "It is a big challenge and I will do my best to represent you well."

Miss Harris is the first Greenville student to be selected for a Rotary Foundation Fellowship and will represent district 773 of Rotary International.

Charge U.S. Has Files On Nazis

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (AP)—Czechoslovakia has accused the United States of concealing information on Nazi war criminals in files seized during world war II.

The United States denied a request from Czechoslovakia's government for material from the U.S.-administered document center in West Berlin. A Czech note delivered to the U.S. Embassy accused the United States of concealing "backing Nazi war criminals (who) are the exponents and mainstay of neo-Nazism, of ever-spreading revanchism and aggressive militarism."

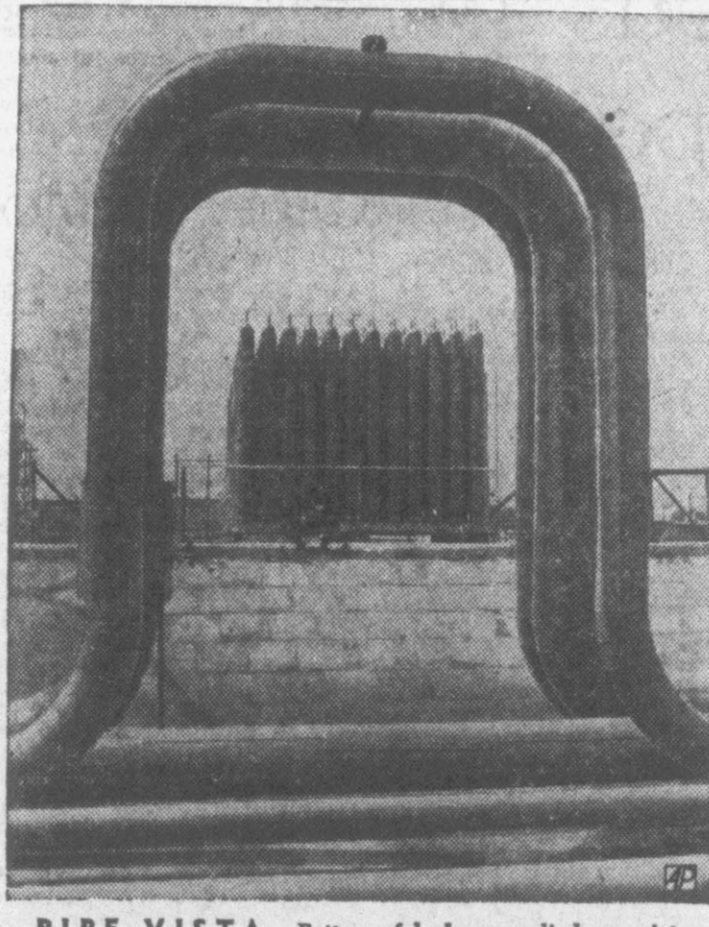

Adopted Infant Gave Fire Alarm

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—A 10-month-old boy, adopted last September, saved his foster mother from possible death.

Mrs. Harley Thornton told reporters she was awakened at 4 a.m. Monday by the crying of Kenneth, her adopted son. Their fringe house was in flames.

She grabbed the child and made a dash through smoke and fire to get outside. The blaze destroyed their suburban home.

Mrs. Thornton said her husband was working at the post office. The fire apparently was caused by faulty wiring.

They Can Play Politics, Or Work

When Congress goes back to work next week will the emphasis be on finishing up the work that was left hanging a month ago, or will it be on political maneuvering as a part of the national election campaign?

Top political strategists in both parties agree that the campaign already has begun now that the two major parties have chosen their nominees for the November election. Each of the parties and their officials will now be much more easily influenced by political considerations than was the case even a month ago. Democrats and Republican alike—in Congress and out—will be looking for votes that can be gathered now for the November election.

Against such a background members of Congress will return to Washington to try to wind up the business they did not complete before the national political conventions. Against such a background each party will try to display itself as the champion of the people in the hope that the image created during this rump session of Congress will attract the voters to their support for the campaign. Against such a background political expediency rather than careful, genuine consideration for the total welfare of the nation might be the determining factor in deciding what action is taken on legislation still under consideration.

It is important to the citizens of the United States, regardless of political affiliation, that the post-convention session of Congress does not become a battle to

State Will Be A Battleground

By LYNN NISBET
CAMPAGN — Both Democrats and Republicans are planning intensive campaigns in North Carolina in advance of the November general election. On the big circuit it is expected that the presidential candidates, Kennedy and Nixon, will visit the state — although some party leaders think the second place running mates, Johnson and Lodge, might be more effective in this area. Appearances of the big-timers will be arranged jointly by national and state organizations. Candidates for State offices from Governor down will work closely with national groups — but there will be a lot of separate activity. Every indication is that Robert L. Gavin, Republican candidate for Governor, and the Republican committee under chairmanship of William E. Cobb will wage the most vigorous campaign since 1928.

congressional district lines, and with emphasis on all-out support of all party nominees. A preview of the new idea was afforded Friday night when Sanford was host at an informal dinner party at Fayetteville attended by representatives from the third, fourth, seventh and eighth congressional districts. There are many points where voters from three or four districts can get together with less than half the travel distance required for attending their own district rallies.

This approach makes sense for the further reason that numerous judicial, solicitorial and state senatorial districts cross congressional district lines. In most instances voters have more common interest with close neighbors in these local units than in the far-flung gerrymandered congressional districts.

OVERALL — Your reporter has been privileged during the past three weeks to travel more than 2,200 miles of state highways, traversing 60-odd counties and visiting 10-odd State institutions with the advisory Budget Commission. Because of the tight schedule and emphasis on capital improvements of facilities, opportunity for political discussion was very limited. From bits of information picked up in quick interviews and casual conversation some conclusions were reached.

The Democratic national ticket, headed by Kennedy and Johnson, has slightly better than even chance to win. The religious issue will cut two ways and may not be influential in determining results, in view of other economic and political factors.

The State Democratic ticket, headed by Sanford and Philpott, is not seriously threatened — although percentage majority may be smaller than in recent years.

The November vote will be bigger than any in history, perhaps exceeding a million and a half total.

Despite current ballyhoo in promotion of a write-in movement for unlisted candidates, the number of votes to be cast for other than regular Democratic and Republican nominees will be negligible. Any person who permits his name to be used on a write-in ticket, without more vigorous protest than simple denial of active participation, will be committing political suicide.

That's how it looks from here as of now. The November election is just 14 weeks away. A lot can happen in that time. Very few of the people with whom your reporter has talked think enough can happen to deflect a majority of North Carolinians from voting the authorized party ballots.

see whether the Democrats or Republicans can give away more of Uncle Sam's money. It is important to the citizenry as a whole that in the extremely election-conscious session, Congress is not unduly influenced by highly vocal pressure groups that throw their weight behind special interest legislation that is still pending.

How much genuine accomplishment for the good of the country as a whole comes from this post-convention session of Congress remains to be seen.

It is a session which members of Congress should approach with caution, and a session which the citizens of the nation should watch closely.

Promising Outlook In Arrival Of Fieldcrest

The purchase of Greenville Mills, Inc. by Fieldcrest Mills, Inc., one of the best-known textile firms in the nation, places in Greenville a new corporate citizen whose record of growth and progress points clearly to future assets for this community.

Fieldcrest President Harold W. Whitcomb, who announced the purchase of the Greenville plant here yesterday, said his company hopes by early 1961 to be operating the plant on a three-shift basis at which time it would employ approximately 350 people. That would be a considerable increase over the number of people now employed by the plant which is operating only one shift.

The fact that the Greenville plant becomes the first plant in which Fieldcrest will manufacture its own carpet yarn likewise points to the possibility of expansion of the local operation at a later date.

Fieldcrest has enjoyed a steady record of growth in the textile industry and there is every indication that its growth will continue. It follows, therefore, that barring unforeseen circumstances, the Greenville plant which it has purchased should likewise have the prospect of good growth possibilities.

It is, in our opinion, an important new feather in Greenville's economic cap that Fieldcrest has purchased the local plant. With its position in the textile industry, its progressive management and its financial resources, Fieldcrest represents the kind of firm most communities dream of having as a part of their economic structure.

The Reflector joins with many other citizens in welcoming Fieldcrest as a new corporate citizen of Greenville. We are confident the Fieldcrest operations here will prove an important asset to Greenville, and we are likewise confident that Greenville will prove itself a good home for the new Fieldcrest plant.

Fuzzy Areas In The Campaign

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP) — This Presidential campaign will leave many voters so fuzzy on major issues their choice will turn on personality, history, and, to some extent, on prejudice.

This is the fuzzy area: 1. Democrats and Republicans agree on the need to step up the economy. Democrats say the national product must increase by at least 3 per cent. Republicans don't set a figure.

How is a voter going to visualize something so vast and vague as the national product, especially in percentages?

2. In foreign affairs both parties agree communism must be considered. But how is it to be done in a way recognizable different from what's been done in the past? Both sides will have a time trying to make this clear.

3. The parties disagree on whether our defense is good enough. The Democrats say it isn't. Both promise to increase it. In this field, full of secret information even politicians can't discuss, how can a voter know who's right?

Like it or not, there will be some religious prejudice for and against the Roman Catholicism of Sen. John F. Kennedy, the Democratic presidential candidate. The best the unbogged can hope for is that it won't be a deciding factor. The late Sen. Vice President Richard M. Nixon, Kennedy's opposite number on the Republican ticket, says he hopes religion won't be a factor at all.

Then there's the racial problem.

Northern Negroes are not happy to see Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas running for vice president on the Democratic ticket, even though he was the one who steered this century's only two civil rights laws through congress.

While the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People considers the civil rights records of Kennedy and Nixon excellent, it says Johnson's performance in this field over the years is unacceptable.

Yet many white Southern Democrats, angered by the strong civil rights plank in the Democratic platform, will probably persuade themselves to go along with their party just because Johnson is on the ticket. They don't have much choice. The Republicans' civil rights promises are pretty nearly as strong as the Democrats'.

But this year voters should have a chance — unlike any in this country's presidential election history — to make up their minds about the candidates through a close-up look.

The petition points out that Wilson-Greenville of course would not want to stand in the way of an emergency or unusual military need. The main point in the petition is that all considerations should be given to providing air service. And that the Wilson-Greenville petition is not to be jeopardized because of Piedmont's request to give temporary service to Goldboro. It should be remembered that the Wilson-Greenville petition has been pending for longer than two years now.

To understand and present a fair and unbiased picture the entire petition should be studied. And that is really what the Wilson-Greenville petition is asking, a study of the entire case.

The petition states this: "The cooperative efforts on the part of the cities of Wilson and Greenville to secure airline service is one of the few such instances to come before the board. Both communities have pledged themselves to abide by the decision of the carrier selected to provide the service as to the airport to be used until a centrally located airport can be constructed."

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
TRIUMPH
Death is regarded by many people as a calamity.

Very often it is. To have lived through a number of decades and to have come to the end without having developed any strength of character or any religious fidelity is a calamity indeed. Some people leave this earthly scene conscious that they have added not to the sum total of the world's happiness but to the sum total of its misery. For such, death is indeed a calamity.

But death is a triumph for many people. Maude Ballington Booth died some years ago, and the message of faith which she left and which was read at her funeral service constitutes a triumph that even those of most distinguished station might covet. From her earliest youth Mrs. Booth had been a religious and social welfare worker. She died at the age of 82, having poured out the whole of her adult life for the good of other people, and particularly for those who had sunk so low on the social scale that an unfeeling world paid little attention to them. "During the last few years of my earthly life," she wrote, "death loomed for me all its sadness and dread and shadow. I look forward to it as a shining portal into the new world of eternity." Then she added this word for her only son: "Let your tears shine with the rainbow brightness of joy what I would have you share with me. Keep the faith."

but then you are likely to wind up as a Dun & Bradstreet statistic.

WHAT TO EXPECT
This suburbanward drift has already had great impact on business. Shopping centers have multiplied, department store branches have proliferated almost as much as the crabgrass itself.

Many of the trends of the 1960's have already begun; most of them are recognizable. But it is important to realize that they will continue and that their effects will be greater in the months and years ahead.

Here are some of the trends which are already apparent, but which will become stronger in the period ahead:

A Prize, And Pasternak

For those who are interested in "Doctor Zhivago," author Boris Pasternak and his suppressed literary career in Soviet Russia, before his death, there was an interesting article which recently appeared.

The article, released by the Associated Press, was written by Gustav Svensson, who was formerly assigned to the Moscow staff of the AP and speaks Russian fluently. Though Pasternak spoke freely with the press, it was suggested that parts of this 1958 interview be withheld from Pasternak's personal safety during his lifetime.

Svensson said in his story that Pasternak once told him that he believed the Nobel Prize had saved his life. He said—contrary to some popular belief—that he, Pasternak, had never renounced the Nobel award.

The newsman continued, "Two days before King Gustaf VI of Sweden was to present the Nobel awards to the winners in Stockholm, Pasternak asked me, as a Swede, to tell the Swedish Academy that he still claimed the prize although he was unable to go to Sweden to receive it in person."

Consequently, the Nobel Committee inscribed Pasternak as the 1958 winner of the Nobel Prize for Literature, but the award money in the amount of $41,420 was returned to the fund "because he (Pasternak) had declined it."

The Russian author was the first of his country to be awarded the coveted honor.

Svensson said "The Communist party newspaper Pravda had published a letter in Pasternak's name declining the award."

Pasternak once told Svensson "I had to write that book and I had to publish it where it could be published. I put all I had of strength and ability as a writer into the book and there is nothing I would change.

"The Nobel Prize was of tremendous help. To me it meant the support of the world. This saved me from the worst. They could not get rid of me."

Now, since we are delving into the creative and artistic subjects, we might mention the exhibition currently showing at the N.C. Museum of Art in Raleigh, "Modern French Art—from Monet to Picasso."

Since the Greenville Art Center has closed for the month of August, those addicted to art might find this exhibition of great interest. Some of the artists included are Matisse, Renoir, Toulouse-Lautrec, Van Gogh and Gauguin, as well as Picasso and Monet.

The exhibition is the renowned Maurice Wertheim Collection. It will remain through September 4—a comprehensive loan exhibition composed largely of the work of impressionist and post-impressionist masters.

And if we've been too dry this time, this seems like a good opportunity for a cool dip in the nearest swimming pool.

Other Editors Saying... Area Air Service Case

(Wilson Times)
The Wilson-Greenville petition before the CAB has had much publicity recently because of Piedmont's petition for temporary service to Goldboro. And the reports that Wilson and Greenville filed a joint petition opposing an application by Piedmont Air Lines to serve Goldboro and Seymour Johnson Air Base are not borne out by the facts in the petition.

The petition points out that Wilson-Greenville of course would not want to stand in the way of an emergency or unusual military need. The main point in the petition is that all considerations should be given to providing air service. And that the Wilson-Greenville petition is not to be jeopardized because of Piedmont's request to give temporary service to Goldboro. It should be remembered that the Wilson-Greenville petition has been pending for longer than two years now.

To understand and present a fair and unbiased picture the entire petition should be studied. And that is really what the Wilson-Greenville petition is asking, a study of the entire case.

The petition states this: "The cooperative efforts on the part of the cities of Wilson and Greenville to secure airline service is one of the few such instances to come before the board. Both communities have pledged themselves to abide by the decision of the carrier selected to provide the service as to the airport to be used until a centrally located airport can be constructed."

Not To Prejudice Case
The main point in the petition filed by Wilson and Greenville is that the present request for a temporary permit to serve Goldboro by Piedmont should not prejudice the cause of the long standing Wilson-Greenville application. And good and sufficient reasons based on logic equally as sound for military consideration is set forth in the brief.

It should be remembered that the U. S. Information agency has selected the Pitt county area for the new Voice of America facility. Then Wilson has been designated as the location site of State government in the event of a civil defense emergency.

As the brief points out "Wilson-Greenville have taken the position in the hearing and on brief to the examiner in the Piedmont investigation that they do not oppose service to Goldboro by Piedmont unless it becomes necessary for the board to choose as between Goldboro and Wilson-Greenville." This is on permanent service.

And permanent service is what should be granted. Senator Jordan brought this out when he asked in a news dispatch dated July 21 that the Civil Aeronautics board speed up its decision on the Piedmont Local Service case.

This is the crux of the matter, the decision as to air service. When the CAB decides Wilson and Greenville will work to put over the area service, regardless of where it is located.

And the Associated Press story today shows that a decision is in the making on permanent air service.

Opinions In Brief

"It's strange that men should take up crime when there are so many legal ways to be dishonest."—Greenville Piedmont.

"Add up all the delegates claimed by the candidates and you get a total vote reminiscent of the time back home on election night when all the cetereteries came alive."—Miami Herald.

"Kentucky is going to keep fooling around building these super highways until we lose our reputation for having the fastest horses, prettiest women, and worst roads in the country."—Lexington (Ky.) Leader.

"People with drinking problems can be helped only if they want to help themselves. The same is true in other fields."—Lubbock (Tex.) West Texas Citizen.

"The awkward age for parents is when the kid is old enough to appreciate everyone's ignorance but their own."—Wall Street Journal.

"An old-timer is one who had tired blood back before TV made it popular."—Donalson (Ga.) News.

Barry Roused Respect

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
Copyright, 1960, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

What happened to Senator Barry Goldwater at the Republican Convention will have a profound effect upon the Republican Party and upon certain segments of the Democratic Party who are very unhappy. Goldwater asserted the principles of conservatism. He was uncompromising. He constantly used the term, "We conservatives." He dared to be himself without deprecating, without self-seeking, without demanding.

Nevertheless, it was clear that he had aroused the entire Convention to belief and to respect. Barry Goldwater emerged from the Republican Convention as, next to Richard Nixon, the principal leader of the party. His influence in Congress will be enormous. He has given the conservatives of both parties a new hope that one day soon they may find a spiritual and political home.

Goldwater might have stood before the Convention, as Lyndon Johnson and Adlai Stevenson did before their Convention, to be counted, to see what his strength was. He chose not to do that because what he numbers count when one seeks hearts and minds? His speech asking his followers to give their votes to Richard Nixon was one of the highlights of the Convention. It was a lecture more than a political speech. It was a lecture on the give and take of democratic organization; it was a lecture on the responsibilities of citizenship. So powerful were his words that the delegates sat spellbound and even such a cynic as Edward R. Murrow was moved to mark the phenomenon of a sincere man among politicians.

Who is this Barry Goldwater? He is a U.S. Senator from the small state of Arizona. He is a department store owner, as was his father and grandfather before him. He was a jet flyer and a brigadier general in the Air Force Reserve. He is, in effect, the small city, small businessman American who loves his country as he knows it and would like to keep it that way. He is progressive, as every merchant must be to stay in business, but he does not sacrifice quality for the ephemera of life. He is unafraid of what he left his father behind him in the dead of night as he flew in experimental jets. His ancestors were unafraid as they crossed the desert to peddle their wares in new territory.

The curiosity of the rich sons and grandsons of the East, particularly of New York and Washington, is that although they cling to their inherited wealth, they suffer a feeling of sin for possessing it. I once knew James Eads Howe, the King of the hobos, who inherited a million dollars but refused to accept the inheritance because Jesus never possessed a million dollars. Some people called Howe a nut, but he was an utterly sincere man who lived as he believed the truth required him to live. What he had not earned, he did not take.

The Park Avenue Liberals, scions of wealthy parents and grandparents, regard the methods of those who accumulated their fortunes as very evil, indeed. But they like to keep the fortunes. Nevertheless, they try to change this country from that of those who inherited today can under no circumstances accumulate wealth as their ancestors did. For them, the times have changed, but their assets are still enormous and remain their own. It is a curious phenomenon which some psychologist or sociologist may study but when one has to deal with it politically, it becomes very difficult.

Barry Goldwater is not ashamed of his ancestors and what they did to help build America. To him, they were good, hard-working men and women, who kept store and did not cheat. They accumulated some wealth and were respect in their small community. They lived quietly and did not squander their means. He honors them and is not cynical about the country where such opportunities existed and should always exist. He prefers to free this country from economic and social fallacies so that men and women may always take advantage of such opportunities without fear of government intervention in the private lives of decent people.

It is this, in American life, that Barry Goldwater wishes to preserve unspoiled by Park may have a scattering of clothes (like ancient "Sunday suits") they save for special occasions.

Changes in foods: A decade ago suburban stores carried only the meat-and-potato essentials. If you wanted caviar or bamboo shoots, you had to come to town. Today, many metropolitan stores carry only meat-and-potato items. If you want hearts of palm, you must head to peripheral shopping centers.

Entertaining is gradually dividing into two parts. There is corporate entertaining in the cities, usually viciated by caterers, hotels and restaurants; and there is family entertaining in the suburbs with everything ranging from grilled hot dogs to smorgasbord.

S. Lawns will never rival U. S. Steel, its prospects may be greener. (Joke.)

There will be more of many other things: outdoor toys; more editions of Robert's Rules of Order for Clubwomen; more teaching more door-to-door salesmen; more home-owner swindlers; more outdoor cosmetics; more fuel sales (single suburban houses require more than urban apartments); more sales of electricity; more television programs aimed at typical suburban families; more proselyting drives (the evangelical religions love young converts); more laundry services; more calls for young, low-fee doctors; more schools, more taxes.

There will be lots more more. There will be a lot of lesses, too. Take a pencil and paper and figure them out. Hope that your own business does not show up on your list.

Voters May Be Choosing One Of Two 'Sons'

By JOE LEWIS
LOS ANGELES (AP)—The American voter for probably the first time will be choosing between two sons instead of father figures for the presidency this November.

That is the opinion of Dr. Martin Grotjahn, psychiatrist, University of Southern California professor and author of a book about family relationships.

Dr. Grotjahn contends there are more political and economic considerations at work when you vote.

He believes your unconscious—that mysterious part of your mind that never sleeps—and your secret attitudes about your family determine to a great extent your selection.

Grotjahn said the two presidential candidates—Vice President Richard M. Nixon, and Republican, Sen. John F. Kennedy, Democrat—have remarkably similar images.

"Both appear as victorious sons," he says. "But they are also brothers, alter egos in a sense, to many middle-aged persons who feel: 'I realize I cannot be president but my brother can.'"

"Of course, the son may grow later—in the voter's conception—into a benevolent father image like the way Franklin Delano Roosevelt did."

As vice president, Nixon "has been closer to the father (President Eisenhower) than Kennedy," Dr. Grotjahn adds. "Therefore he appeals more to people of conservative character who do not trust younger men."

"Kennedy projects a hope for the future with younger people. 'But older people can support both men because even they (older people) look to the future. No middle-aged fan likes to confess his life is half over. So an older voter thinks of Kennedy or Nixon like a father who wants to be re-born in his son.'"

What about the No. 2 men on the ticket—Lyndon B. Johnson and Henry Cabot Lodge? "They haven't yet registered a sufficiently strong impact with the voters to be identified either as a father or a son," Grotjahn says.

His concept of other national figures: President Eisenhower: "A powerful father figure. As a former general and also as a father, he has the right—in the voter's mind—to order his sons to battle—that's a father's privilege. Adlai E. Stevenson: 'Most people like him and want to be with him—but they expect more from a father image. Because he makes too many jokes, we unconsciously see in him that part in us which we don't take seriously.'"

Former Presidents Harry S. Truman and Herbert Hoover: "Retired father figures. A retired father outlives his reputation and loses his power. His sons may ask his advice but may not do what he says."

Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York: "He is in his fifties—but he's still a son in our unconscious because he got his money from his father."

Youth To Face Murder Charge
JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—A Massachusetts teen-ager waived extradition and will be taken to North Carolina to face a charge of murder in the fatal beating of a 63-year-old invalid man.

Officers from North Carolina are expected to take 18-year-old Albert Joseph Vaillancourt to Davidson County Thursday.

Vaillancourt surprised officers Saturday when he said he killed a man in North Carolina and took his car. After a minor accident, officers were questioning Vaillancourt on how he came to have possession of a car registered to Clarence South Grant.

Grant's body was found Saturday night along a road near Lexington, N.C.

Vaillancourt, whose home is North Billerica, Mass., said he killed Grant after the older man made improper advances.

Swimming Party Ended In Wreck
GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP)—A truck returning a group of boys from a swimming party crashed Monday, killing two of them and injuring 17 others.

Killed were Walter Bupp, of Rouzerville, Pa., and Patrick Giuze, of Shippensburg, Pa., both 15.

They were among a group from the Hoffman School for Children which had spent the afternoon at a swimming party in nearby Littlestown.

Lynn Gaylor, 23, the truck driver, told state police the vehicle ran up an embankment and fell back on the highway.

President Thomas W. Wilson was better known by his middle name—Woodrow.

Asthma Formula Prescribed Most By Doctors—Available Now Without Prescription

Stops Attacks in Minutes... Relief Lasts for Hours!

New York, N. Y. (Special)—The asthma formula prescribed more than any other by doctors for their private patients is now available to asthma sufferers without prescription.

Medical tests proved this formula stops asthma attacks in minutes and gives hours of freedom from recurrence of painful asthma spasms.

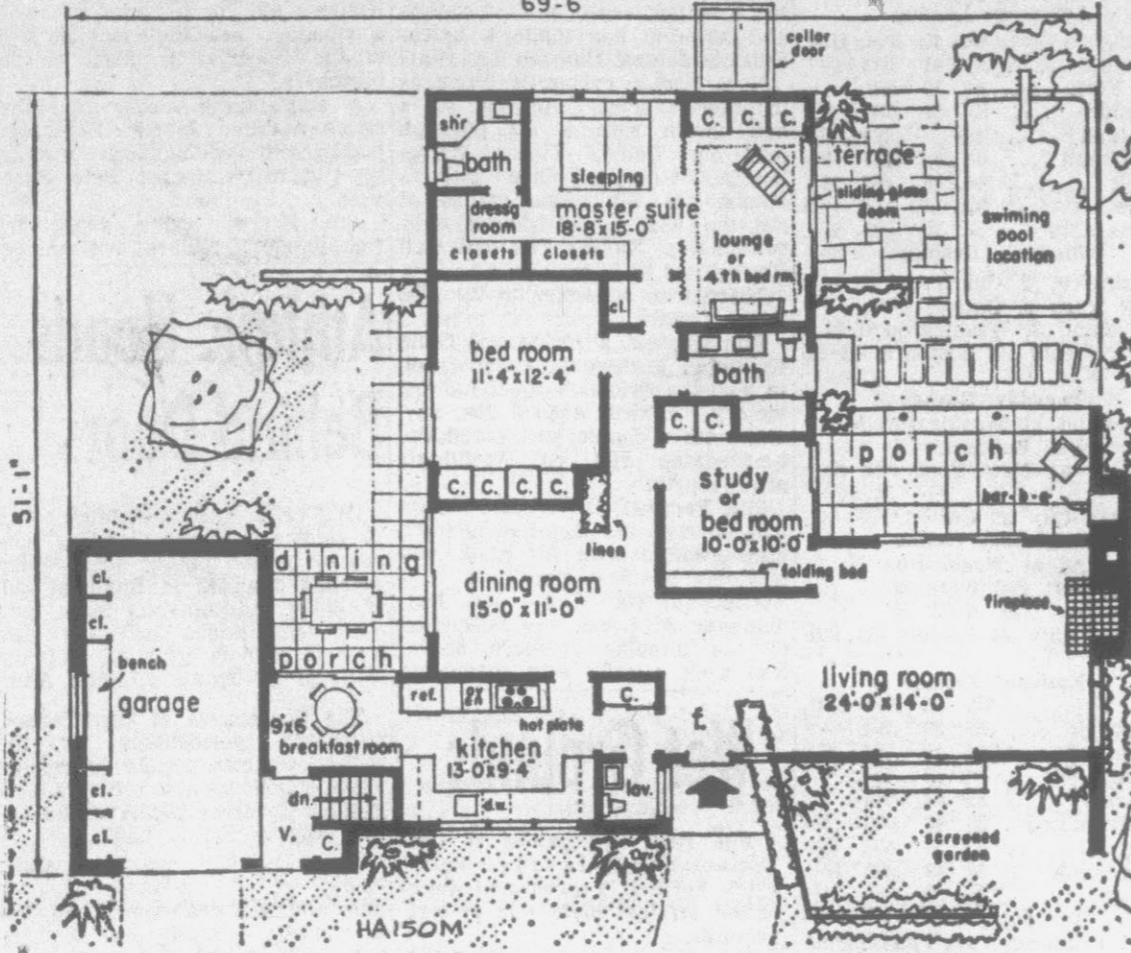

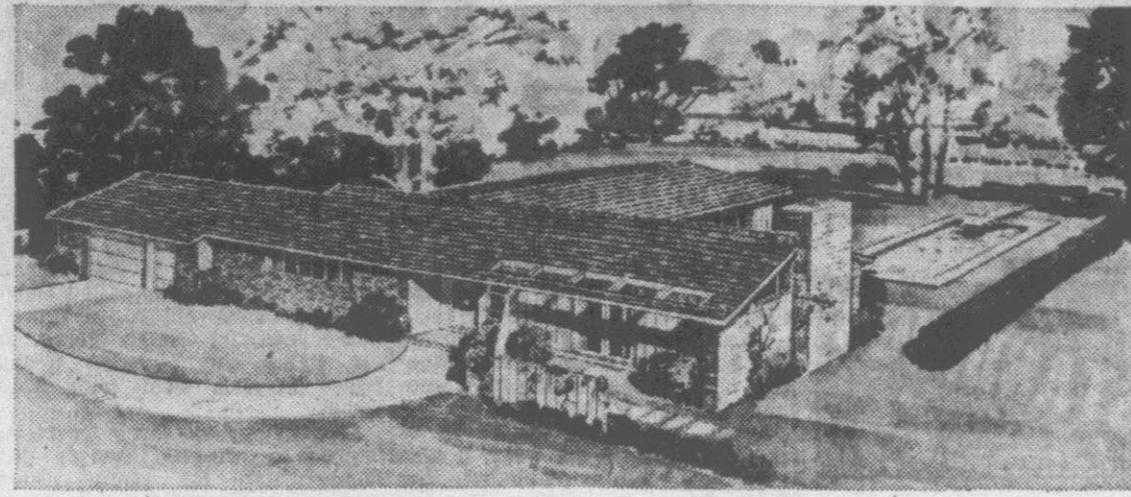

This formula is so effective that it is the physicians' leading asthma prescription—so safe that now it can be sold without prescription—in tiny tablets called Primatensin.

Primatensin opens bronchial tubes, loosens mucous congestion, relieves taut nervous tension. All this without taking painful injections.

The secret is Primatensin combines 5 medicines (in full prescription strength) found most effective in combination for asthma distress. Each performs a special purpose.

So look forward to sleep at night and freedom from asthma spasms... get Primatensin, at any drugstore. Only 98¢—money-back guarantee. Only 98¢—money-back guarantee. Only 98¢—money-back guarantee.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

LUXURY UNLIMITED: A master suite that can be made into two separate bedrooms is the big feature of this attractive home plan. The design affords maximum indoor-outdoor living with sliding glass doors to the outside in three bedrooms, dining and breakfast rooms. Screened garden in front and a terrace, dining porch and barbecue porch off the living room are other attractions. Architect is Rudolph A. Matern, 90-04 161st St., Jamaica 32, N. Y., and the plan is HA150M.

ON THE HOUSE

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

Ever realize how the boom in boating has affected the home building industry?

The major developers of summer home vacation areas say that boating is the impetus of more "second home" sales than anything else. Dwellers in the metropolitan sections purchase summer-time homes near or at the water so they can satisfy their boating desires.

While no national figures are available as to what percentage increase these new boating fans have created in summer home building, the general estimate is about 30 per cent. Boating enthusiasts are a clanistic group.

They want to make sure they will be close to other boating and fishing fans with their vacations undisturbed by landlubbers. But everybody in the family doesn't always feel that way. That's why some developers are beginning to provide well-rounded programs of activity, including day camps, dances, barbecues, etc.

We discussed the subject the other day with Irving Bander, head of one of the largest vacation home projects in the New York-Philadelphia area. We asked him why boatmen weren't satisfied with renting cottages or small homes. He replied:

"Renting is not the answer to boat owners' needs. They want to be in the same place every year. They want to know their own boat owners. They want to fix up their places the way they want. And if they rent a place for the summer, let us say, they can not go there at any other time of the year when the weather permits. All this is beside the fact that summer homes have excellent resale possibilities."

How much do most "second homes" cost? For most persons, homes in the $5,000 to $8,000 category are the most popular. Most buyers want vacation houses with three bedrooms and easy-to-clean interior walls and floors. The ladies want modern kitchens to ease their cooking chores. Ample closet space is much in demand. Some of the houses have garages and some have nothing more than driveways, but the majority have carports.

The supply of existing houses for sale is greater than at this time a year ago, principally because the time required for marketing is longer.

Vice President Jack Havens said the changes were designed to make adjustment for the growth which several eastern North Carolina communities have experienced.

He said, "these adjustments will not produce any net increase in revenue for the telephone company."

WALLOPS ISLAND, Va. (AP)—Scientists today are evaluating information obtained from the short-lived flight of a Strongarm rocket launched late Monday night.

The rocket, failing to function properly in its fifth stage, soared to about 300 miles before dropping into the Atlantic Ocean.

A spokesman at Aberdeen Proving Ground, Md., said the test was aimed at measuring upper atmosphere electron densities at altitudes above 200 miles. He said the rocket was tracked for 32 seconds and some data was collected.

The launching was conducted by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration for the U.S. Army Ordnance Corps Ballistic Research Laboratories at Aberdeen.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Weather Bureau said today its 30-day outlook for August calls for cooler and wetter weather than normal in the Great Lakes region, along the South Atlantic coast and in the Pacific Northwest.

The bureau added that warm dry weather is expected to prevail in the Great Plains and Rocky Mountain area.

In the remainder of the nation, near normal conditions are expected.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Japanese government plans to build next year a new type of tank and a 10,000-ton helicopter carrier to be used in hunting enemy submarines. The Defense Agency plans to have ultimately two anti-submarine fleets of nine escort carriers each.

The Indians of ancient Peru wove cloth at 350 threads an inch. The finest modern weaves have only 175 threads to the inch.

Ask Hearing On Telephone Rates

RALEIGH (AP)—The State Utilities Commission has been asked to hold a hearing to decide whether a change in Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Co.'s rate structure is justified.

Assistant Atty. Gen. Kent Burns requested authority for the state to intervene in the case. He filed a petition calling for the hearing Monday.

Burns said to grant the changes "will result in unjustifiably increasing rates charged to the public, both now and in the future, without hearing and without the proof of justness and reasonableness required by law."

The company filed a petition last month asking for authority to extend base rate areas in several exchanges and adjust local exchange rates.

He has called a meeting of the state Democratic executive committee Friday to approve a plan to give Georgia voters a chance to decide in the Sept. 14 primary whether the state's Democratic electors will be pledged to the ticket or left unpledged.

Atlanta (AP)—Georgia's Democratic governor says he may decide to support his party's nominees for President and Vice President after the unpledged elector controversy dies down.

Gov. Ernest Vandiver made the statement at his news conference Monday. It was the first indication of how he feels about the selection of Sens. John F. Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson at the Democratic national convention.

The governor said he is not taking sides publicly on whether he prefers unpledged electors to electors who would be bound to support the Kennedy-Johnson ticket.

Thus far Vandiver has refused to voice support of the ticket because of resentment over the strong civil rights plank.

He has called a meeting of the state Democratic executive committee Friday to approve a plan to give Georgia voters a chance to decide in the Sept. 14 primary whether the state's Democratic electors will be pledged to the ticket or left unpledged.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Paul Allen Mayes met Paul Allen Mayes as the result of an accident. Officers said a car driven by Paul Allen Mayes, 26, rammed into a bus driven by Paul Allen Mayes, 39.

The men, whose names are listed side by side in the city directory, had never met before and are not related.

Malaya Premier Voices Concern Over Red China

By RELMAN MORIN
KUALA LUMPUR, Malaya (AP)—Prime Minister Tunku Abdul Rahman of Malaya says "Communist China is the most belligerent country in the world today" and he intends to discuss the problem with American officials when he visits the United States in October.

Rahman said in an interview he favors recognition of Communist China, and its admission to the United Nations.

"But I do not favor throwing the Formosan government out of the United Nations," he said.

Rahman said he believes Chinese operations on the Indian border, and in Tibet, "are simply to show that they are strong, a force to be reckoned with."

"I have been told by someone who was in China recently that if the government called for volunteers it could get 10 million of them in an hour, ready to throw away their lives for their country."

"I am very worried. If there is a war, we are sure to be in it because we are linked with the Western democracies."

Rahman said his government has extensive plans for building up Malaya.

"We are planning many things for the good of the country. But we need time and peace to do all the things we want to do."

"Hence, I have been concentrating on the China problem. We haven't spent any money to build up our armed forces. They are very well trained and well paid."

"However, I believe in food and clothes for a nation—not bullets."

Rahman was asked whether he believed the United States lost prestige in the Far East recently as a result of events in Japan, Korea, the U2 incident and the collapse of the summit conference.

"As far as we are concerned I do not think you have lost any prestige. There are some countries where this might be true. But not with us," Rahman said.

Third Major League Feel Sure Of Meeting Standard

By JOE MOOSHL Associated Press Sports Writer CHICAGO (AP)—The Continental League, armed with all the answers, meets today with expansion committees of the American and National leagues in an effort to get baseball's third major league on its feet.

Birds Follow Blueprint In Mapping Pennant Plans

By JOE REICHLER Associated Press Sports Writer Paul Richards' surprising Orioles appear to have hit upon a winning formula which may pay off in the first pennant in Baltimore's brief American League history.

Actually, it's a double-aimed plan—win the close ones and knock off the top team. The third-place Birds followed the blueprint to the letter Monday night, defeating the front-running Chicago White Sox 2-1.

Wise old Casey Stengel masterminded another victory for the Yankees. In the seventh inning against Detroit he called upon southpaw Luis Arroyo to protect a 3-2 lead for Ralph Terry.

for the Indians and Mike De La Hoz, rookie shortstop, figured in all of the Indians scoring with a pair of singles. Perry permitted the Senators only five hits for his 12th victory. He has lost five.

CHAPTER 25 From a corner of his consciousness Judge Sam Hoffman heard the courthouse clock strike the quarter-hour. He drew another savage line on his scratch pad. Across the desk, Matt Keenan cleared his throat. "I think that's about the whole story, Judge. Unless you've got something else to add, Bob?"

"No," Bob Vinquist said, "except that I think the evidence Callahan and Beers were talking about must be the cocaine bottle. But I doubt that we could ever trace it back to Beers now."

"Yes, I doubt it," Judge Hoffman said, though he struggled with an inner turmoil so great he could hardly bring himself to speak. But the hot anger he felt—this constriction in his chest and fingers trembling from emotion—was not to be must bitterly concede, produced solely by outrage for wrongs perpetrated on one Norman Hart. That man at least would have his new trial. But what about that other man, Sam Hoffman?

try to reduce any situation to its moral absolutes, the more arbitrary I have to be; the more arbitrary I am, the less just I am. I'm not complaining. If I could start my life over, I'd still want to be a judge. The job has many rewards, not the least of which, at my age, is a regular pay check."

Book Of Memories For ECC President

PHOTOGRAPHIC ALBUM FOR DR. JENKINS . . . Reflector publisher Whichard presents a photographic record of Jenkins' inauguration as ECC President as photographer Savage looks on.

A photographic album of Dr. Leo W. Jenkins' inauguration as East Carolina College president was presented Saturday to Dr. Jenkins on behalf of the Daily Reflector by D. J. Whichard, the newspaper's publisher.

The album included 38 eight-by-ten inch photographs of the inauguration. The pictures were taken by the Reflector's photographer, Stuart Savage, during the inauguration activities May 13.

"I know that under you, East Carolina College is going to continue to grow in the days to come," Whichard told the college president in presenting the album.

"We want you, your wife, children and grandchildren to be able to look back and say, 'This is when it all happened.'"

The album included pictures taken during the reception that afternoon and at the inauguration ball that night.

Many of the pictures were printed in the Daily Reflector the day following the inauguration in the newspaper's pictorial coverage of the event.

Coaxed Navy, Eyes Air Force

FRANKLIN SQUARE, N.Y. (AP)—Ever feel like life is slipping by, and you still have done precious few of the really exciting things you always wanted to do?

Harold Scheithas, 45, felt like that. Ten years ago, Harold decided to do something about it. All his life he had wanted to take a submarine ride.

What the heck, he decided, he would just tell it to the Navy and see what happened. The Navy turned him down. Civilians, they said, don't just climb aboard submarines on a whim.

Harold persisted. Nothing doing, said the Navy. Harold even wrote President Eisenhower. The President didn't reply, but the FBI sent some agents to call on Harold to see just what was up.

Convinced Harold was not subversive, the FBI moved out of the picture, and Harold kept writing letters. A boyhood friend, now a priest, also wrote a letter for Harold. Apparently that did the trick.

The Navy finally wrote Harold he could take his submarine ride at Groton, Conn. Harold did.

"It was wonderful," he said. "I usually get seasick on any boat, but not on that sub. Now that I've had a taste of it, I'd like to go again."

There's something else Harold always has wanted to do: take a parachute jump.

"I'm going to start writing the Air Force immediately," said Harold Monday night.

Alive, Because Absent-Minded

UNIONTOWN, Ala. (AP)—Absent mindedness isn't considered a virtue, but policeman Risten Spence, 32, says it may have saved his life.

The officer surprised two Negroes getting ready to burglarize a business firm Sunday night. As he was taking them to jail, they jumped him, one grabbing his revolver.

Spence said the Negro fired once at him, missed and then pulled the trigger again a almost point-blank range. The pistol snapped harmlessly.

The weapon didn't fire, Spence explained, because "it had only three cartridges in it." He had forgotten to buy ammunition.

Diamond-Hunter Is Finding Gems

MURFREESBORO, Ark. (AP)—A retired businessman, with two diamonds already, today headed back to the Crater of Diamonds looking for more stones.

E. W. Goode found a 4.64 carat diamond Monday morning. A few hours later he turned up a 5.12 carat stone.

Howard Millar, operator of the commercial diamond-hunting venture, estimated the value of the smaller stone at 61,000. He could not estimate the value of the other.

Goode, of Urbana, Ohio, may keep the smaller diamond, but crater rules must pay a 25 per cent royalty on the second because it is above five carats.

Tourists pay a small fee to hunt for diamonds.

The library of the British Museum contains more than six million volumes.

Demos, GOP Furthest Apart Over Economy

Editor's Note —What's the proper growth rate for the U. S. economy? What about budget balancing the government spending? Taxes and inflation? Here lie the bread and butter issues of the coming campaign, and here's an analysis of the presidential candidates' approach to them. Second of five articles on principal issues.

By STERLING F. GREEN
WASHINGTON (AP) — Other issues may make blacker headlines as the presidential campaign advances, but the biggest gulf between the Democratic and Republican standard-bearers is on the issue of national economic policy.

career of nearly 14 years in Congress. Vice President Richard M. Nixon is proud to call himself "conservative—conservative for progress." On few issues has he departed noticeably from the Eisenhower administration's line of fiscal prudence and least possible interference with the free economy.

On one basic objective the two young candidates concur — more rapid national economic growth. They differ in the routes to be taken to the goal. Kennedy invites the voters to rally behind the banner of easier money, federal outlays to stimulate income, consumption and employment, and higher taxes if need be to meet "national responsibilities" at home or overseas.

ability": stern use of the tight-money weapon against inflation; and higher taxes only if the cold-war or other emergency need requires greater government spending.

The vice president has charged that Kennedy is "pretty much under the thumb of the labor bosses" on welfare and spending issues, and is being pushed "far to the left of his party" by campaign pressures.

But Nixon himself seems to have been pushed leftward by political pressures, through his concessions to the liberal platform demands of New York's Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, on the eve of the Republican National Convention.

However, Kennedy and Nixon still stand so far apart on so many issues that many voters are likely to think of them in terms of the loose labels, "liberal" and "conservative."

There is little doubt, for instance, that if the new Congress comes up with education, welfare, housing, depressed areas and other bills similar to some vetoed by President Eisenhower, Nixon in the White House would veto them, too. Kennedy is pledged to sign them.

Here are some of the principal areas of conflict between the two: GROWTH
Kennedy wants the growth target set at a 5 per cent increase in national production each year—and a national policy that the government will bend itself to achieving the goal. He concurs in the Democratic platform pledge to move swiftly against recessions by "public works or temporary tax

Nixon Heading West On Campaign Swing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon heads westward today on his first presidential campaign swing after aligning himself against any big spending measures Democrats might pass to win votes.

Nixon said President Eisenhower plans to veto any massive spending bills the Democratic-controlled Congress might vote for "purely political" reasons after it reconvenes next week. He said he agrees with Eisenhower on this.

Nixon and his wife scheduled an early takeoff for a five-day trip that will include a visit to his hometown of Whittier, Calif., a traditional campaign stop and a two-day tour of Hawaii, the nation's newest state.

But the first stop will be to honor Mrs. Nixon. Her native state has planned a "Pat Nixon Day" at Reno, Nev.

Before heading for the campaign trails, Nixon visited Eisenhower late Monday at the summer White House at Newport, R.I.

The vice president announced Eisenhower had assured him he would veto any massive spending bills the Democratic-controlled Congress might pass for "purely political" reasons.

Nixon said the President would consider big spending measures as purely political unless they carried with them increased taxes to pay the bill.

He indicated that even if such measures included tax provisions, Eisenhower would veto them unless he regarded them as in the public interest.

wide medical care for the aged, as the type of big-spending bill that would be vetoed.

Nixon had announced he planned to spend weekends campaigning. But he said Monday he will be on hand for Saturday sessions of Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts, the Democratic presidential nominee, and his running mate, Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, also promise to stay on duty.

U.N. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, the GOP vice-presidential nominee, accompanied Nixon on the trip to Newport.

Thief Selected His Rarer Coins

CHARLOTTE (AP) — "I think the thief knew exactly what he wanted," James Blackmon of Roanoke, Va., said Monday after police reported rare coins valued at $20,000 had been taken from the Charlotte Coin Exchange.

The money, which was uninsured, was taken over the weekend from the store. Blackmon told police he was unable to get insurance because of the business' location.

Missing were two coins of "extreme rarity," he said. An 1885 $3 coin and a 350 gold coin. He said both were proofs, a high-luster, sharp-impressioned coin made by the mint especially for collectors.

The rest was made up of an assortment of coins. Blackmon said the items could bring more than $1,000, depending on the demand, in various locations of the country.

U. S. Rejects Soviet Call For Disarmament Parley

UNITED NATIONS N.Y. (AP)—A U.S. spokesman Monday night rejected a Soviet call for an all-U.N. summit parley on disarmament as a "typically specious and frivolous maneuver." But some diplomats at the U.N. still hoped it might bring President Eisenhower and Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev together at the conference table.

Chief U.S. delegate Henry Cabot Lodge brushed off the Soviet proposal at a news conference at the summer White House in Newport, R.I. Presumably he spoke with the President's authorization.

The Soviet proposal accompanied a Kremlin objection of the American proposal that the 82-member U.N. Disarmament Commission be called into session this month. Lodge said the Soviet reply showed the Soviets "really don't want disarmament."

"The United States made its proposal in good faith," Lodge declared, but the Soviet counter proposal amounts to "a cynical attempt to prevent progress."

Soviet Ambassador Platon D. Morozov called for the summit disarmament meeting in a letter Monday to Luis Padilla Nervo of Mexico, chairman of the disarmament commission.

Rejecting Padilla Nervo's call for a commission meeting Aug. 15, Morozov asserted that disarmament talks could only be successful if held at the proper level.

Pitt's Blood Program Is Talked At Bethel Rotary

BETHEL—Dr. Howard Gradis addressed the Bethel Rotary Club recently on the importance of blood, giving facts and figures regarding the blood program in Pitt County.

Dr. Gradis said that Pitt County became a member of the Red Cross blood program through Tide-water Blood Center, with headquarters in Norfolk, Va., about eight years ago. This organization is composed of 20 counties in Virginia and 12 in North Carolina.

Dr. Gradis pointed out that the quota for Pitt County was established and that in return, the county was to get blood when needed and that blood was to be available for any citizen.

Dr. Gradis said that in the past four years, Pitt County has not met the quota. Last year, Dr. Gradis said, there was a shortage of 356 pints.

"The blood program is reaching a critical point," he said, "and if we do not meet our quota, somebody will not get blood when needed."

The speaker said that it is as important to have blood as it is to have running water in a hospital.

James Whichard appeared before the group and spoke briefly on the plan being used in Greenville, through which churches, service clubs and other organizations have been participating in furnishing donors and seeing that their individual quotas are met. Whichard said this plan is helping the program "considerably."

Dr. Gradis was presented by Dr. C.G. Garrenton, President

Re-Appointed

J. W. Joyner was re-appointed chairman of the Pitt County ABC Board yesterday morning.

Joyner was appointed as the Board of Education, Board of Health and the Board of Commissioners met jointly prior to the commissioners meeting yesterday morning.

Joint action was required by the three boards.

The commissioners approved a resolution proclaiming the week of Aug. 14-20 as Social Security Week. The resolution was presented by the county's Social Security representative Kenneth Whichard. He pointed out that the 25th anniversary of the Federal Social Security act comes that week.

Commissioners also approved a resolution urging the public to give blood during the periodic Bloodmobile visits in the county.

AWOL Airman To Native Cuba

SUMTER, S.C. (AP)—A Shaw AFB airman has gone AWOL to his native Cuba because of a reported fear that his country may be attacked by the United States.

The sensational Cuban newspaper Revolution quoted A.I.C. Serafin Raimundo Sanchez, 26, as saying he returned to Havana "to help defend my country if it is attacked by the United States."

Air Force officials at Shaw said only that Sanchez has been AWOL since July 18 and is presumed to be in Cuba. He was a member of the 411th Consolidated Aircraft Maintenance Squadron at the tactical Air Force base.

The Cuban newspaper said Sanchez arrived in Havana from Miami by air and has written his commanding officer at Shaw. The letter was not made public but Revolution said it attacked the United States for refusing to approve Cuban dealings with Soviet Russia and Red China.

In the American armed forces they believe Cuba has a regime of terror and that an invasion from the United States is required," the newspaper quoted Sanchez as saying.

Close Workshop On Visual Aids

The fourth annual workshop in Visual Aids in Education conducted at East Carolina College closed on Friday. The purpose of the class was to prove the usefulness of visual aids in effective instruction.

During a two-week period, 36 members of the class met in the Joyner Library for lectures, demonstrations and group meetings. Mrs. Marguerite Vanderlock Crenshaw of the library staff was instructor.

The class, divided into seven groups, met daily to discuss and plan demonstration lessons which were presented to the class later.

Activities included demonstration and individual check off on the use of various projectors, viewing and evaluation of films and filmstrips and a display of a variety of visual aids made as partial requirement for the course. Class members participating received three hours credit for the course.

Students proved that often, the simple, inexpensive class or teacher-made visual materials can be more effective than expensive manufactured ones in classroom instruction.

Leftists Of 29 Nations Meet To Fight War

TOKYO (AP)—Leftists from 29 nations opened the sixth world conference against atomic and hydrogen bombs today with a call to fight the "forces of war."

Dr. Kaoru Yasui, Lenin-prize winning head of Japan's Council Against the Atomic and Hydrogen Bombs, told the 106 foreign and 150 Japanese delegates that the conference would try to "establish the basic policy of the united struggle of the peace forces against the forces of war."

As the meeting opened 20 khaki-clad Japanese ultranationalists harangued the delegates from a loudspeaker truck and threw three smoke bombs into the 400-seat Tojo Kakkai Hall. Two of the rightists were arrested after a brief scuffle with police.

Yasui attacked the new U.S.-Japan security treaty as "a military pact of the most dangerous kind" and blamed "U.S. war forces" for the failure of the summit conference.

Honor Students Of Spring Term

CHAPEL HILL—Two students from Greenville were included on the University of North Carolina dean's list for the College of Arts and Sciences during the spring term.

Grover W. Everett Jr. not only made the dean's list, but was one of 19 students who made all A's during the spring semester. Everett is from Greenville.

Donald R. Patrick of the Greenville was also included on the dean's list, which is comprised of students taking a minimum of 15 semester hours and who averaged B or higher in subjects.

M. E. CAVENDISH (right), past president of the Greenville Optimist Club, is presented a plaque by President Walter Whitehurst as a tribute to Cavendish's record of service during the past year.

Demo Delegate Talks To Optimists On Convention

Former Democratic National Chairman Paul M. Butler "stacked" the party's platform committee to obtain the platform which was approved by the Democratic convention in Los Angeles, John G. Clark told the Optimist Club last night.

Clark, chairman of the Pitt County Democratic Executive Committee, was a delegate-at-large to the convention.

The meeting also saw presentation of a plaque to past Optimist President M. E. Cavendish, for outstanding services during his term last year.

Clark told the Optimists that, in parts, the party platform was objectionable but there was little anyone could do about it.

The delegate stated that he thought "there was no rigging" of the convention as far as the presidential nomination was concerned. Kennedy simply had enough votes in his pocket.

Clark said he was for Sen. Lyndon Johnson because most of the people he had spoken to before going to the convention favored Johnson. The local man cast his ballot for Johnson.

However, Clark said, "We came away from the convention with the strongest possible ticket in Kennedy as the Democratic nominee for president and Johnson as vice president."

Clark told the Optimists that he felt there was no need for nominating favorite sons because it was largely intended to show an honor and there was no intention of actually inserting one into a race for president or vice president.

Baseball Talk For Exchangites

Little League Baseball is no stranger to the Exchange Club for the club started the nucleus of Little League in Greenville, Neely James told Exchangites Friday night.

James outlined the purposes of Little League baseball. He discussed the growth of world Little League from its beginning in 1939 at Williamsport, Pa., through its inception in Greenville, March, 1951 up to its present 16-team two-league status in Greenville.

At present there are 5,500 Little League teams with over 55,000 boys participating in world Little League.

James pointed out that with the help of parents, civic clubs, friends and interested individuals, there are all indications that Little League will continue its growth in Greenville.

James was introduced by Exchangite Jake Hadley who is also a leader in Greenville's Little League program.

Pres. Ray Minges reminded the club of the Bloodmobile visit to Greenville Aug. 11. He urged members to be responsible for donation of a pint of blood.

Birthdays greetings were sung to Leon Moore, Jim Gilham and Lucia Koonce were guests of the club.

J. Howard Moyer invited the club to an afternoon outing Aug. 17 at his river cottage. It was accepted unanimously by the club.

Greenville Boy Is Wounded By Blades Of Saw

Four-year-old Robert Kirk Riddle of Greenville, vacationing with his parents near Sea Level, was struck by a skill saw which cut him in the stomach Saturday morning.

Fifty stitches were required to close the wound which miraculously did not injure the internal organs.

Riddle, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Troy Riddle of 208 S. Elm St., here, was standing behind his father who was cutting some timber for a pier.

The accident occurred when young Riddle walked in front of the saw as his father, shawkey due to a short, threw the saw away from himself.

The youth is now in Sea Level Community Hospital. His father said he is "doing well" and may be brought home this weekend.

College Planning Again Exhibit At County Fair
