Nothing Saved When This Dwelling Burned Today

TWO FIRE DEPARTMENTS... one the newly organized Staton-House Fire Department and the second the Bethel Fire Department responded to this dwelling fire in the Greenfield Terrace subdivision north of Greenville on U.S. 13-N.C. 11 early this morning.

Katanga Premier Declares Ready Oppose UN Troops

ELISABETHVILLE, the Congo (AP) — Premier Tshombe announced today his government has ordered mobilization of all able-bodied men in Katanga province to oppose the scheduled Saturday entry of a U. N. force.

decision to mobilize. He charged that a U. N. entry would constitute aggression. "Katanga troops will not fire first, and we do not intend any aggression," said Tshombe, whose government has declared Katanga's independence of Premier Patrice Lumumba's central Congo government.

U.N. troops were ordered in, there was no sign of any exodus. Mass departure of the 15,000 Belgian civilians in Katanga would bring a quick shutdown of the province's copper and uranium mines, the Congo's economic mainstay, and would bring Katanga to the same state of economic paralysis now afflicting the rest of the country.

Hodges Looks To Public Service

EDENTON, N.C. (AP) — Gov. Hodges said today that he plans to spend the remainder of his life in public service after he leaves the Governor's Mansion in January.

"I have no specific announcement to make concerning this, only that I will spend the rest of my life in public service in North Carolina or some place else in the nation." The governor said he felt the most significant achievement of his six-year administration has been "a development of cooperation throughout the state with particular reference to the higher standard of living and income of the 4 1/2 million inhabitants."

Big Barbecue To Honor Johnson; Count On 7,000

BLANCO, Tex. (AP) — Barbecue fires burned today under 10 big beavers in preparation for a big spread tonight at Blanco State Park in honor of Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson, the Democrats' vice-presidential nominee.

Civil Aircraft To Be Grounded In Defense Test

Washington (AP) — The Federal Aviation Agency asked today for public understanding and acceptance of the need to ground all civil aircraft for six hours on Sept. 10.

The sky will be swept clear of civilian aircraft during that period for a large-scale training exercise of the North American Air Defense Command.

The FAA said that normally during a six-hour period 1,000 commercial flights would carry 37,000 passengers, and about 700 general aviation aircraft also would be flying.

E. R. Quesada, FAA administrator, appealed to the public, the airlines, and the thousands of private and business pilots for support of the Sky Shield exercise which will ground civil aircraft from 1:00 to 7:00 a.m. Eastern Standard Time.

He described the exercise as a "vital training requirement for our entire air defense system."

Quesada said the time for the exercise was picked to meet military need and result in a minimum disturbance of airline schedules.

Aide To Castro Flees To U.S.

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — Raul Chivas, treasurer of the Cuban revolution and railroad administrator in Fidel Castro's government, has fled to the United States and political asylum.

He arrived in Key West Tuesday aboard a 17-foot boat. No immediate reason was given for his defection, but former associates said he had been growing disenchanted with Castro's communistic leanings.

Reuther Predicts Labor's Support For Demo Ticket

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP) — Walter P. Reuther, president of the politically powerful United Auto Workers Union, said today Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson has won the right to have organized labor's support for election as vice president.

Reuther spoke out after a talk with Sen. John F. Kennedy, the Democratic presidential nominee, who smiled widely at Reuther's words.

They stood side by side on the lawn of Kennedy's summer home to address a news conference.

Reuther had been one of the earlier Kennedy-for-President supporters. Friends, however, said Reuther, like some other labor leaders, was dismayed when Kennedy chose Johnson.

Asked whether he always had considered Johnson an "excellent" candidate as he described him today, Reuther parried: "In conventions and contests people have preferences."

He said he can speak only for himself but he believes organized labor "will make clear shortly" its support of the Democratic ticket's "two excellent candidates."

A reporter told Kennedy that Vice President Richard M. Nixon, the Republican presidential nominee, has stated that Kennedy "paid the price for labor's support."

"I wonder what he meant?" Kennedy said. Reuther at this point said he'd like to comment that "the American labor movement is going to work hard for this ticket—we're going to support Kennedy and Johnson. Sen. Kennedy is supporting the things America needs. He hasn't had to pay a price."

Gov. Michael V. Di Salle of Ohio was expected here later today.

Kennedy said he had invited Reuther as chairman of the Economic Policy Committee of the AFL-CIO to come here to discuss economic problems in basic industries.

Kennedy said he was concerned about "high unemployment in July and prospects for the future trends" in employment. He said he received from Reuther a summary of conditions as the AFL-CIO sees the situation and that he was most helpful.

Reuther then released to newsmen copies of the summary which expressed fear that a "third Eisenhower-Nixon recession" may be imminent.

"There are numerous disturbing signs in the economy today which indicate that we cannot afford to ignore these warnings of the imminence of the third Eisenhower-Nixon recession," the summary said.

Reuther added orally that he was "very disturbed about the state of the economy. He said 5 1/2 per cent of the nation's work force was unemployed in May and June, and 2.9 million workers were employed on part-time basis "for economic reasons but would have worked full time if they had been permitted."

Reuther said he has "unlimited faith in the American economy." He said it can finance the nation's needs on the home front, stronger defense programs and whatever is needed for an adequate foreign policy.

Reuther said he fears "all the values we cherish" may be placed in jeopardy unless the government produced affirmative leadership he described as lacking now.

Reuther said he was "elated by the platform" and personally would "enthusiastically work to elect Sen. Kennedy and Sen. Johnson."

He said the official position of organized labor on endorsement will be made clear shortly.

Nixon Leaves For History-Making Hawaii Campaign

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A chipper, bright-eyed Richard M. Nixon flew off into a black pre-dawn today to open his presidential campaign in Hawaii.

After posing for photographers at the airport, the vice president and his wife, Pat, climbed aboard the airliner.

Takeoff time was 5:08 a. m. The Republican presidential nominee and Mrs. Nixon boarded their chartered plane before dawn for a history-making political trip to the mid-Pacific islands that make up the 50th state.

Nixon, due to land in Honolulu at 11:30 a.m.—4:30 p.m. EST—will be the first presidential candidate to seek votes in Hawaii.

Sen. John F. Kennedy, the Democratic contender, plans to visit Hawaii and Alaska around September.

At the end of the first day of his hurry-up campaign tour to the West Coast and Hawaii, Nixon accorded a returning hero's welcome at Whittier College, his alma mater. It was his third election year homecoming to the college in his home town, 20 miles from Los Angeles.

Hundreds of townspeople applauded as Nixon's motorcade went by, and a crowd of at least 16,000 packed the little stadium where Nixon played on Whittier's football squad as a substitute tackle.

In his speech Nixon said that "keeping the peace without surrendering principle" is the foremost responsibility of a president. The Eisenhower administration, he said, is keeping America strong, not because it wants war, but because "we know this is the way to avoid war."

He held to a policy of firmness without engaging in a war of words in dealing with nations that threaten the peace. He also the United States wants "the of disarmament instead of fiction of it," which he said the Soviets have been composing.

Nixon tied in Kennedy and the Democratic platform with union leaders at a news conference after landing in Los Angeles.

Before leaving Washington, he had said Kennedy was taking the "low road" in statements attacking the vice president's disavowal of the secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson's policies.

In answer to a news conference question, Nixon said he would stick to the "high road" if by use of that term a reporter meant arguing the issues and avoiding personalities.

Promote Boycott Of UN Meeting

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The Soviet bloc campaigned today for a general boycott of the 32-nation U.N. Disarmament Commission meeting asked by the United States for Aug. 15.

Contact men from the nine Communist delegations were visiting Asian, African and other missions to the U.N. urging that they stay away from the meeting. The Communists were plugging the Soviet Union's rival proposal for a summit conference of all 82 U.N. members during the General Assembly convening Sept. 20.

The Communist argument was that the permanent U.N. delegates who make up the Disarmament Commission have authority to do no more than engage in the time-wasting debate, while the heads of government have full power to conclude agreements.

Diplomatic sources said most U.N. delegations had agreed informally to the Aug. 15 meeting before commission chairman Luis Padilla Nervo of Mexico proposed it formally last Friday.

The feeling in some delegations seemed to be that a disarmament meeting without one of the world's two big armed camps would underline and cement the deadlock between the West and the Communists.

The State Department said, however, that it was going ahead with its proposal for the commission meeting even without the Soviets. Press officer Lincoln White said in Washington any government head—including Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev—could attend the commission meeting if he wanted to, and that commission discussion did not preclude a disarmament discussion by the General Assembly.

White said the Soviet proposal for an outside summit conference was "a Soviet tactical maneuver to divert the Disarmament Commission from considering the question of disarmament."

U. S. Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge asked on July 22 that the commission meet "early in August" to discuss the June 27 Communist walkout from the Geneva disarmament negotiations. Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko had sent a request the day of the walkout that the Assembly take up the disarmament deadlock, which he said was caused by a Western refusal to negotiate seriously.

Direct Distance Dialing Begins Here August 10

Wednesday, August 10, is to be "D.D.D. Day" in Greenville Ayden, Farmville, Fountain and Snow Hill — "Direct Distance Dialing Day", that is.

On this day an exciting new service will be inaugurated enabling telephone subscribers in these five exchanges to dial most of their own station-to-station long distance calls without placing them with an operator.

Frank Harrington of Greenville and R. L. Spivey of Farmville, local managers for Carolina Telephone, said that beginning at 12:01 A.M., Wednesday, local telephone subscribers may dial their own long distance calls to points in North Carolina and across the nation.

A special direct distance dialing directory has been sent to telephone subscribers in these towns. This directory contains instructions for using customer long distance dialing, places that may be dialed and codes for dialing them. In addition a special instruction folder is available at the Greenville and Farmville business offices. The managers said that starting Wednesday local telephone users for the first time will be able to span the nation with a few spins of their dials.

The establishment of a standardized, nationwide telephone numbering system and intricate new equipment has made D.D.D. possible and marks an important milestone in communications progress.

This new customer long distance dialing is being installed to provide faster and more efficient telephone service in this area. Harrington and Spivey said. It is part of a long range program of the telephone industry which eventually will permit any telephone user to dial directly most station-to-station calls to any other subscriber in the United States or Canada.

Conversion of the five local exchanges to direct distance dialing has required a construction and expansion program involving an expenditure of more than $120,000 by the telephone company.

At Least Eleven Tobacco Barns In Pitt County Have Burned Since Saturday

By PATRICIA MOORE Reflector Staff Writer

Firefighters from throughout Pitt County have answered 11 calls for burning tobacco barns since Saturday.

Farmville seems to be the community most plagued with fires destroying the precious crop so far this year. Fire Chief Curtis Flanagan said there have been four tobacco barn fire calls since Saturday.

He estimated that 1,800 sticks of tobacco have been lost in these fires, in which three barns with the tobacco contents were losses. The fourth barn was saved.

Flanagan said that in the past eight days alone, his department has answered between 8 and 10 calls for burning barns. The most recent calls were to the farm of Albert Lewis early this morning and to the Alec Allen farm yesterday. Fire Chief of Ayden Tillman Chauncey said his department has answered 11 calls for burning tobacco barns this season, but none since the weekend. The last call, he said, was Friday morning. Out of the 11 fires, Chauncey said the department has been able to save three, as well as prevent damage to surrounding barns.

The Grimesland Fire Department, whose fire truck arrived only this past April, has reported a lot of activity. Fire Chief L. A. Moore said three calls were answered during the weekend and another was reported to have burned Monday evening on the Walker Faucette farm, with Will Howard as tenant. About 600 sticks of tobacco were lost. In the other three fires in the Grimesland vicinity, a four-room barn containing 600 sticks of tobacco were destroyed as well as three-tenths of an acre of tobacco surrounding the barn Saturday night on the Jamie Dail farm. Avery Andrews was the tenant farmer.

Sunday morning, a five-room barn on the Blunt Edwards farm, containing 950 sticks of tobacco, burned. The tenant farmer was Hyman Hudson. Sunday afternoon during the storm, another four-room barn containing 700 sticks of tobacco owned by Ulysses Payton burned, about a half mile north of Grimesland.

The Winterville Fire Dept. reported it has answered three calls since Saturday for burning tobacco barns. On the Garland Bullock farm, the farmer lost 750 sticks of tobacco, but firemen were able to save the barn. The department responded to the fire on the Blunt Edwards farm, also. The third fire, a barn located between Winterville and Ayden on the R. F. McLawhorn farm, was extinguished when the department arrived, Fire Chief Lloyd Worthington said. Worthington said there was no loss on this farm.

Saved 5,000 Sticks Wilbur Murphy, fire chief in Grifton, said his department was able to save 5,000 sticks which belonged to Bruce Pittman when they answered his call Friday afternoon.

Murphy said 650 sticks of tobacco were lost, but the firemen saved the greater amount which was stored under the barn.

Another fire near Grifton on Saturday morning destroyed about 700 sticks of tobacco belonging to Edward Rountree, Murphy said, but the department saved part of the barn, which can be rebuilt.

In Bethel, George Abeyounis, fire chief, said his department had been fortunate in having only two calls for burning tobacco barns this year. One call occurred Tuesday morning on the D. C. Carson Jr. farm. Abeyounis said the barn and about 600 sticks of tobacco were lost.

Carter Smith of the Fountain department said he also has had only two calls this season, but none recently. Harry Cook, assistant fire chief at the Staton-House fire station, said the department had just gotten he truck ready to go to answer tobacco barn fires since Saturday.

Success Marks Another Polaris

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The Navy has moved the Polaris a step closer to operational status with another successful firing of one of the submarine rockets.

A Polaris popped from an underground tube Tuesday night and raced more than 1,100 miles down the Caribbean range in a shot termed completely successful by project officials. It was the ninth Polaris launching in four weeks and 28th this year. Twenty of the firings were successful.

The shot followed the successful firing of a Hound Dog missile from a B52G jet bomber and the failure of an Atlas missile to take off on a 7,000-mile flight because of last-second trouble.

Formally Adopt 1960-61 Budget

Town Clerk Harold Allred said only two minor changes were made in the previously announced tentative budget.

Additional funds were included for the library for books. Also included was $1,250 addition for the fire department's equipment account.

With Farm Women

By MAIDRED MORRIS
 (Items this week from Chowan, Madison, Stanly, Wilkes, Moore, and Granville counties).

4-Hers Learn To Cook Out
 Would you like to have "some mores"? The 4-Hers in Chowan County are now learning to cook out. Miss Catherine Aman, assistant home economics agent, taught 4-Hers to make stuffed picnic rolls which were heated in foil on an outdoor grill. The girls prepared a finger salad from home-grown vegetables. For dessert they enjoyed "some mores," which is a combination of graham crackers, marshmallows, and milk chocolate.

Proceeding the outdoor meal, the 4-Hers had a handicraft workshop and learned to cover coat hangers by braiding plastic gimp on the hangers.

Home Planning
 Plans should be made before the actual building starts on a new house. Mr. and Mrs. Ray Buckner are progressing rapidly on their new home. Many hours of planning should pay off when the house is completed. Mrs. Buckner realized the necessity of planning so she planned each room individually so as to get each room well arranged. Storage space has been planned for all areas of the house.

Miss Ethel V. Townsend, home economics agent in Madison County, says when the home is finished, the Buckners' should have a comfortable, well-arranged, liveable home.

Adventurer In The Kitchen
 Thirteen-year-old Ronnie Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eldridge Smith of Stanfield, Rt. 1, is a real adventurer in the kitchen. Early in the summer he requested help in canning from Mrs. Rebecca T. Mooney, assistant home economics agent. Ronnie wanted to get good products so he could exhibit them at the county fair.

Mrs. Mooney says Ronnie showed the ingenuity of an engineer as he skillfully operated the pressure canner and carefully followed each step in the extension canning bulletin. Ronnie hopes to earn some premium money at the fair so he can go to 4-H camp next year.

Preserve Making
 Home Demonstration Club women in Wilkes County have learned the correct way to make preserves recently at club meetings. Many found they had not been making preserves according to recommended procedures.

Mrs. Sue Beaver, home economics agent, reports the color, shape, and syrup consistency of preserves made during demonstrations were excellent.

Fashion Show Staged
 The Jackson Springs Home Demonstration Club women in Moore County held a double-barreled meeting at the home of Mrs. Worth Bynum recently. Not only did they see a bread making demonstration but also staged a fashion show under the direction of Mrs. Paul Cole.

Miss Flora McDonald, home economics agent, reports that house, church, and evening dresses were modeled by club members. Miss Martha Currie was narrator for the event.

Refinished Furniture
 "You wouldn't believe that old black furniture could come to life and be so lovely," said Mrs. Roland Frazier of the Oak Hill community in Granville County, as she displayed a walnut buffet with a cherry marble top which she and her husband had refinished.

"We are now so proud of the beautiful piece of furniture," she said.

Mrs. Dorothy G. Wilkinson, home economics agent, says the furniture refinishing is taking place as a result of a workshop held in the county.

Suds Sisal Rugs
 Attractive sisal rugs can — and should — be scrubbed often. This is important because dirt allowed to settle between the fibers becomes difficult to remove.

Use a stiff brush dipped in thick, hot soap or detergent suds and scrub—first on one side and then the other. If possible, wash the rug out of doors so you can rinse it with a hose. Be sure to wash the floor, too, before replacing the dry rug.

Suggestions For Using And Kindling Charcoal

RALEIGH — Safety suggestions for kindling and using charcoal, which has become so popular for outdoor cookery, are important.

Charcoal now sold in lumps or briquets in many grocery and garden supply stores, is a convenient fuel for barbecues, grills, picnics and campfire cooking. But safety measures are required for successful use.

Be sure to set up your grill or dig the barbecue pit in an open place, well away from buildings, trees, dry leaves, grass or brush.

If you use a charcoal-lighting fluid be sure to use it according to directions. Soak a little into the briquets before lighting them, and be sure there is no liquid fuel that has not soaked in when you start the fire. Never use gasoline, paint thinner or any other highly combustible fluid to kindle charcoal.

Safest way to kindle charcoal is to use dry, crumpled paper, or a light substance like excelsior, under the pile of charcoal. Then simply light the paper as in starting an ordinary wood fire. It may take a little fanning to get the charcoal kindled. When you see grey or whitish spots around the edge of charcoal this means that it is kindled. In 20 minutes or so it will be hot enough to grill.

The charcoal chef — and others who join in the cook-out—should wear heavy, fire proofed gloves both in building the fire and using it. A fireproof or fire-resistant apron is a safeguard, too.

It is advisable to have on hand a sprinkling can full of water—one with a long spout preferred—to douse the fire in an emergency or when leaving the picnic site. Cooking can be done more conveniently with long-handled forks, tongs, skewers, skillets and saucapans. It is easier, too, if you have long-handled swabs or brushes for barbecue sauce.

One-Third Of U.S. Nuclear Subs Idled

WASHINGTON (AP) — Design changes, routine overhaul and an accident have put four of the Navy's dozen nuclear-powered submarines temporarily out of operation.

The Nautilus, the world's oldest atomic ship—she began operating with the fleet in 1955—is being refurbished. She is tentatively scheduled to go back into operation in two weeks.

The Seawolf, second of the atomic submarine fleet, commissioned in 1957, will have been in drydock more than a year when she returns to the fleet about Sept. 10.

The Navy stripped out the Seawolf's original reactor after the liquid metal system used for the heat exchange unit in the reactor created problems in piping. Another system using pressurized water, like all other U.S. atomic submarine power plants, has been installed.

The Sargo was damaged last June 15 when fire broke out in an after-compartment while the submarine was taking aboard liquid oxygen. To help quench the fire, it was necessary to flood the compartment.

The Navy says the Sargo is due to return to operation about Nov. 1.

The huge radar picket submarine Triton, which earlier this year circled the world while submerged, went into drydock for routine inspection and overhaul not long after completing its record-breaking shakedown cruise on May 10. The Triton is expected to be ready for return to the sea in about a week.

Up to now, 12 nuclear-powered submarines, including 3 Polaris missile boats, have gone into the fleet. Another, the Polaris sub Robert E. Lee, completed sea trials Tuesday.

The first two of the ballistic missile submarines, the George Washington and the Patrick Henry, are scheduled to be armed with 16 missiles apiece by the end of this year. The Robert E. Lee will devote several months to tests of missile-launching equipment and practice with dummy rockets before she joins the Polaris force.

At present, 39 U.S. atomic submarines have been built, are building, are ordered or authorized.

So far, there have been no solid reports the Soviet Union has atomic submarines in operation. But U.S. Navy officials says there are reasons to believe such craft are under construction.

James I. who ascended the throne in 1603, was first to call himself the King of Great Britain, but the title didn't become official for another hundred years.

'Goldmine' In Satellite Skies

WASHINGTON (AP) — A proposed "stationary satellite" would be a commercial goldmine and could sharply cut charges for sending messages throughout the world.

This estimate came today from the International Telephone & Telegraph Corp., which has made detailed cost studies of the project now planned as a part of the Defense Department's space program.

The satellite would be a radio package orbiting exactly at the earth's rotational speed and thus remaining always above the same spot on earth—but 22,300 miles out in space.

Talk Emergency March Of Dimes

COLUMBIA (AP)—South Carolina chapters in the National (Polio) Foundation are considering an emergency March of Dimes appeal this fall because of the current polio outbreak.

The announcement was made today by statewide headquarters in Columbia following a meeting Sunday of officials from 10 county chapters of the National Foundation.

It was agreed that a concerted effort should be made to make the public aware of the polio situation in South Carolina. The National Foundation said a great deal of emphasis needs to be placed on polio vaccinations because a "conservative estimate" reveals almost 60 per cent of the state's population has not even had one inoculation.

The announcement said paralytic polio increased by 127 per cent in the state last year as compared with 1958.

The possibility of an emergency fund-raising drive was discussed because of heavy financial needs resulting from an increased number of polio victims.

About 35 cases of polio and three deaths have been reported in the Gaffney - Spartanburg area of South Carolina and in nearby Cleveland County, N.C.

A Strong Bid By N. C. Republicans

There is no mistaking the fact that the Republican party this year will make one of its strongest bids in several decades to capture North Carolina's electoral votes for the GOP nominees.

Neither can there be any mistake about the plans of Terry Sanford and his key supporters about making one of the most vigorous general election campaigns for the Democrats that North Carolina has seen in several decades.

While a threat has been posed to Sanford by talk of write-in votes for Dr. Lake and perhaps others for governor—plus the fact the Republican nominee Gavin is expected to campaign hard—the battle in North Carolina will focus more on the national ticket than on the state ticket.

At both levels, the success of the Democratic party in North Carolina will depend on how loyal individual Democrats are to their party nominees. North Carolina has an overwhelming number of registered Democrats compared with its number of Republicans. The only hope the Republicans have of carrying the state for their national ticket lies in the hope that enough Democrats will vote for Nixon and Lodge rather than Kennedy and Johnson.

In 1928, the last time a person of the Catholic faith was the Democratic nominee, the state voted Republican by a majority of some 62,000 on the national ticket. Even then the Democratic nominees on the state ticket managed to get the necessary majority of votes. It must be remembered, however, that in 1928 there were defections at high level in the Democratic party in North Carolina which do not appear in the making this year. There was also the prohibition question in that campaign which probably swayed as many Tar Heel votes as did the religious issue.

In 1940 the Democratic majority in North Carolina reached an all-time high of 396,000 votes when Roosevelt sought and won his third term in office. Four years later North Carolina gave Roosevelt a majority of 264,000 votes.

With States Rights inroads in 1948 Truman's margin in the state was only 72,000, but in 1952 Stevenson managed to get an 85,000 vote majority in the state.

Four years ago when President Eisenhower sought his second term, North Carolina barely held for the Democrats and Stevenson's margin dropped to 16,000.

With a record vote perhaps as high as one and one-half million predicted for North Carolina in November, it is easily understood that the Republicans hope to overcome the 16,000 vote margin of four years ago.

Democrats in North Carolina cannot expect a few hard-working party leaders to do all that is necessary to keep North Carolina in the Democratic column this year. This is a year in which Democrats at all levels in the party should demonstrate their interest in the party by putting forth an effort in behalf of the Democratic nominees in November.

Budget Question In Our 2 Ports

By LYNN NISBET

PORTS — North Carolina's deepwater ports at Morehead City and Wilmington present several difficult budget and policy questions. The state has an investment of $11,797,400 in facilities at these ports, against which has been charged depreciation of $1,867,400, leaving a current book value of $9,930,000. The Ports Authority is asking for $9,040,000 at Wilmington and $5,420,000 at Morehead City, mainly for extending docks to accommodate more and larger ships and additional warehouse space for cargo. Availability of funds to meet these needs will depend upon the people voting bonds in the amount of $14,460,000 or more for that specific purpose.

Business at the ports is growing and has almost reached capacity of existing facilities. During the first six months of this year, for example, the ports handled 301 ships as compared with 230 for the comparable period in 1959; carrying 460,572 tons compared with 329,768, and had gross operating revenue of $594,757, a 58 per cent increase over the $376,434 collected the first six months of last year.

Recent dredging at Morehead City has deepened the channel to 35 feet. The rated depth has been 30 feet, and rapid siltting reduced it to an actual 27-27 feet. Wilmington has a project of 34 feet. This will take care of all but the largest tankers. Trouble is there is not enough docking, transit shed and storage warehouse space.

One school of thought is the ports should be self-sustaining, that fees and charges should take care of all operating expenses and repairs. Director Le-William pointed out that no ports are fully self-supporting, and that Charleston and Norfolk have recently allotted more than $20 million each for capital improvements, and they already had better facilities than North Carolina.

BOOKKEEPING — The State appropriates $183,000 a year for operating and the ports earned $1,097,672 last year. These funds were intermingled with operating expenses and capital improvements being charged to both. The ports authority act permits use of the operating profits without budget control. The Advisory Budget Commission insisted that the accounting system be revised, so that the legislative appropriation would be earmarked for capital improvements. The revenue for operations. It also is likely that the law will be amended to bring the ports under budget regulation like all other State agencies.

Admittedly conditions are peculiar at the ports. It is more a business operation than a governmental service, and is in direct competition with other ports along the Atlantic seaboard and Gulf Coast. Furthermore it is impossible to schedule activities in advance because of shipping conditions elsewhere.

CONFEDERATE — The Confederate Women's Home at Fayetteville is one of the smallest independent State institutions, and is unique in its character and service. It was established in 1913 to care for the widows of Confederate veterans. The original charter act provided a life of 40 years, or until January 1, 1953. The 1949 General Assembly extended the period to January 1, 1960, and the 1959 Legislature added another ten years and made the closing time January 1, 1970. Such extension had been anticipated in 1957 when the Legislature appropriated $35,000 for capital improvements. Uses to which this money could be put were broadened in 1959 and provision was made for contingency and emergency supplements if necessary. The home is situated in northwest Fayetteville on the Old Fort Bragg road and consists of three brick houses on a six-acre tract.

GUESTS — Current population is 36 women, maximum capacity, ranging in age from 75 to the high 90's. About three-fourths are ambulatory, the others are unable to leave their bedrooms. Some years ago admission eligibility was amended to include daughters of veterans, in which group most of the current guests are classified.

The State appropriates about $57,000 a year for maintenance of the Home, approximately $1600 per person. UDC and other organizations supplement tax funds with donations, principally of such things as radio and television sets, electric fans, etc.

The institution is governed by a seven-member board appointed by the Governor, with Mrs. A. F. Hughes as superintendent. Improvements and renovations made under the 1957 appropriation have put the property in good condition. It is not thought any additional major sum will be required during the present life expectancy — until 1970.

Continued maintenance of this institution cannot be justified by logic or application of the non-discriminatory provisions of the constitution. But—the amount involved is small, and the emotional appeal so great budgeteers and legislators cannot resist it. Even though only 36 among the several thousand equally needy elderly women can be accommodated, The Home is quite likely to be continued beyond the present 1970 deadline.

It is the sole direct connecting link in name and service with that period in North Carolina history which marked the highest point in courage and patriotism. The money spent here is no more than that better spent on inanimate historic establishments at other points, and it brings comfort and happiness to the elderly guests.

Illogical Request To Make Of Any Jury

It's an illogical situation. A jury of non-experts is asked to decide whether cigarette-smoking causes cancer or whether cigarette-smoking does not cause cancer.

The question is one which doctors of medicine can argue and then at best come up with an "opinion", which more than likely will not be unanimous.

(We know doctors who smoke.) But the laymen comprising a jury are asked to give a verdict which experts cannot really answer as yet.

They are bombarded with conflicting testimony by experts; their sympathies played upon; their nerves frayed by a period of confinement . . . and perhaps a third of them might well be habitual smokers praying for a recess so they can "light up".

Can anyone imagine a sane society calling upon twelve untrained "good men and true" to make a medical diagnosis? Would you trust your health to such a jury?

And yet, in one sense, that is what the federal jury in Miami was called upon to do. Only in this case the ailing man is already dead, and the jury can't do him any further harm.

It's his estate that is asking over a million dollars on the grounds that because he smoked cigarettes for thirty years and died of lung cancer, and for this the cigarette manufacturers should pay.

Has the family of an automobile driver, who died in a wreck, lately sued auto manufacturers?

This is an opportunity that shouldn't be overlooked if the jury in the Miami case had found for the plaintiff.

Only War Can Answer Issue

By ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON (AP) — One of the hottest issues in this campaign won't be settled by the voting.

Is the United States militarily able to counter an attack by the Soviet Union? The balancing will indicate only to a certain extent the amount of confidence in the claims or complaints of one party or the other.

Nothing except a shooting war could prove either right. The common goal of both parties is to deter a conflict in which neither the United States nor the Soviet Union could win but only apply a mutual and ghastly devastation. The hope is that if the United States has the ability to destroy the U.S.S.R., the Soviet logic should be against gambling on attack. There are unpredictable factors in this, including the degree of Soviet logic.

In general, the Democrats have been saying the Republican administration has been laggard in the race with Soviet military and related technological efforts, that the Reds are ahead. They say the Republicans have been stingy in providing defense funds.

This moves President Eisenhower to indignation. In his speech to his party's convention the former general contended that the Democratic administration of former President

Truman was laggard, that the succeeding administration had to start the military build-up practically from scratch. He contended that "in the sum of our capabilities we have become the strongest military power on earth."

Broadly, this will become the theme of the new Republican standard bearer, Vice President Richard M. Nixon. But the shaping of the Republican platform disclosed attempts to accelerate spending.

All four top men of the two tickets should be able to speak from the experience of service veterans.

Nixon, Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts, the Democratic presidential nominee, and his running mate, Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, have had naval service. U. N. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, Nixon's running mate, is a major general in the Army reserves.

The candidates and the country-debate in the political forum the relative strengths of the United States and the U.S.S.R. and the amount of dollar and technical effort which is or should be applied against a disturbing backdrop of international developments.

From the Soviet Union has come strident warnings of rockets on the United States if American action in the Cuban situation should displease the Soviet Union. (Continued on page ten)

Strength For Today

EXAMINE THOSE MOTIVES

"God, give me guidance." Most people who make this request make it sincerely. But there is the danger in the case of everyone of us that what we long for is not the guidance of God but the confirmation of our own conclusions. More often than we suspect we arrive at our conclusions rapidly. Our determination is quickly fixed to do a certain thing or not to do it. Then we may begin asking God for guidance—and doing it in all sincerity. But if we could only look into the bottom of our hearts, we would see that what we are asking for is not God's guidance, but a confirmation of our desires. Shall I take this course or that? Yet down in our hearts we are as determined as we can be about anything that we will take a certain definite course. To say this is not to condemn ourselves or to cast aspersions on the general run of human honesty. Just as the greater part of an iceberg is submerged, so most of our reasons and motives operate in a realm far below consciousness. Psychology sometimes calls this the subconscious. What the subconscious is no one knows, but certainly many of our acts and opinions stem from motives which emerge from beneath consciousness. Try once in a while instead of asking God for guidance to ask Him for the capacity to look into your own life and take a realistic appraisal of your motives.

Burned Offerings To Ra

NEW YORK (AP) — If Aristotle were suddenly transported through time to a modern American beach, what would he think? Glancing around at the sands studded with sprawling mortals slowly reddening under a hot sky, he could reach only one conclusion: "What a strange heathen tribe these Americans are! Obviously they are sun worship. But what an odd form their rites take!"

"Instead of sacrificing animals, they anoint themselves with oil, lie prostrate and turn themselves into burnt offerings under the terrible eye of their God. What awful guilt has driven them to this inhuman self-punishment?"

Wise old Aristotle would regard this as a form of cult madness, and even the most modern present-day physician would sadly have to agree with his diagnosis. Comes June and millions of Americans quit chasing the dollar, and begin a new mass pursuit — a summer tan. They turn the country into one vast human barbecue pit.

Those who can afford to do so, go to the nearest real beach. Others take off as much clothing as the law allows and spread-eagle themselves on the grass of back yard or public park. Still others climb to their rooftops and slowly stew in their own juices on "tar beach."

But wherever the sun shines, it shines on grub-white limbs and bald pates, on countless miles of human epidermis seeking a chameleon change. People too busy to lie in the sun try to apply instant tan from a bottle. The theory behind this zany fad is that a tan makes a man look more virile, a woman more beautiful — and both sexes more healthy.

But, as any doctor knows, 15 minutes in the sun each day will make the average person as healthy as he needs to be for all practical purposes. And, as any cosmetician knows, too much exposure to the sun will in time make the skin beautiful only to one who admires the pain of old leather.

Two generations ago any responsible mother would spank a daughter who went out in the sun bare-headed and thereby risked ruining her fair complexion. If this mass madness for an even deeper tan continues, the verdict of a future anthropologist on American civilization may be:

"They lay too long in the heat of the sun, and all went crazy at once."

What this country needs is sunnier winters and cloudier summers — to save us from ourselves!

(Boyle, who recently returned from a vacation, is still peeling from a bad case of sunburn.)

Other Editors Saying... Fairness For Growers

(Henderson Dispatch)

Controversy that has arisen over the blue tag law for tobacco outside the state as sold on Georgia warehouse floors is hardly more than was to be expected when the Georgia Legislature enacted the statute last winter. From the outset it had the appearance of discrimination, as is now being charged, and while it may operate to the advantage of Georgia growers, the tendency may be to reduce warehouse sales and hence profits of operators.

Suggestions that the South Carolina Legislature be called into extra session to enact retaliatory measures against Georgia farmers only aggravates the dispute and would be a further step toward raising something similar to tariff barriers between the States.

We have never seen the logic, or even the profit, to growers from other states who sell on Georgia markets. After they make the long haul by truck, sometimes as much as hundreds of miles, it would seem that costs would offset the advantage, such as it may be, of higher prices that might be obtained.

There is a feeling that the far southern markets, first each year to start their auctions, have an edge in prices. The contention, of course, is not wholly without justification. Many a time higher prices paid on the Georgia markets have tapered off by the time the season advanced as far north as the Middle Belt, or in Eastern North Carolina at times. Even so, costs of the long trip to Georgia neutralize to a large extent whatever benefit may have accrued.

It is difficult to understand why a grower would not be better off by selling his crop in his own neighborhood, even where the distance is no more than to Carolina. Fairness to growers and equal treatment for all is of primary importance.

Whatever of a move may be undertaken should be aimed at having the discriminatory law in Georgia repealed. If that cannot be done, and if Georgia growers and warehousemen want things to continue as they are, the best and most logical thing for South Carolina growers to do is to stay out of the Georgia markets and wait two weeks to sell on warehouse floors near their own homes.

The whole impasse is deplorable in the extreme, but it could be made far worse by action which has been suggested and which is being agitated in South Carolina. Fairness to growers and equal treatment for all is of primary importance.

Marvel Of The Times

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
Copyright, 1960, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Atop a hill in New England, in the silence of a secluded farm, miles from a city, I watched the Democratic and Republican conventions. I had been to several conventions and had suffered the heat, the noise, the smoke, the distractions. Here I had an opportunity to watch the proceedings calmly and in the event that I required more detailed information, I found the long distance telephone faster than my legs ever were. In fact, it seems to me that I was able to find whomever I wanted faster by telephone than by searching in the mazes of hotels and amphitheaters. As my task is not what is called the gathering of spot news but the relating of such news to the forces and movements of history and society, I find that I can do my work better by studying these events more calmly than on the spot.

The marvel of it is that, in this age of mechanical wonders, I was never out of touch with either convention, that my perspective was better and that by teletypewriter I could have documents almost immediately.

On this farm, not all television channels come in with equal efficiency. I found that a Hartford, Connecticut, station had a better signal in this area and I used it almost exclusively. This gave me C.B.S. rather than A.B.C. or N.B.C. coverage. This was not a matter of choice but of mechanics. I found the coverage to be excellent and the comments of Walter Cronkite and Edward R. Murrow informative.

I was surprised about Murrow. He had, in the past, struck me as a man who was so biased that it hurt him to be fair about those whom he opposed. I must say that such a criticism this year would be absolutely untrue and unjust. He went straight down the middle, as the expression goes. In fact, the television reporters and commentators seem to have matured since the days when they tried to brainwash their audience. They told the story straight and although there might have been a slip or two, they did not average more or were not less restrained than we, writing men, do under similar circumstances.

In a word, television is maturing and is leaving behind it the staccato shouting and fast-talking which marked radio and was so ugly and so lacking in information. I am told that the other networks did equally well.

The Republican Convention was much more difficult to report than the Democratic. The Democrats were, as usual, unruly and therefore picturesque; the Republicans were well-behaved, started on time and made their speeches like clockwork. The really important speeches were delivered and they were all conservative. Former President Herbert Hoover, Senator Barry Goldwater and Representative Walter Judd caught the imagination and the hearts of the delegates and gave life to the convention.

While Richard Nixon and Nelson Rockefeller were playing tidily-winks over a platform which was not even read to the Convention or by the delegates, the excitement over Goldwater and over Judd's speech was intense. Goldwater became a candidate against his will and a ground-swell developed for Judd for Vice President. What looked like a completely contrived convention, now, in the hotel bill, came to life in side issues. This gave the television men an opportunity for good reporting which they did.

Nelson Rockefeller tried to be an enigma, but it is impossible to be enigmatic before the blazing light of television. He started like a ball of fire and television was constantly upon him; he ended with a campaign strategy hat on his head, and a Nixon scarf about his neck — one of the boys.

Whereas television showed Herbert Hoover to be a gracious, sincere patriarch instructing the young, it showed Thomas E. Dewey to be a clever man who enjoys his own sarcasm. Hoover was given the greatest reception of his life; Dewey was just another speaker. So pass glory! I wonder what would have happened had Harry Truman attended the De-

Odd Facts In The Business News

By ELMER ROESSNER

More strange and curious jet-sam has been cast up on the business news beach. For instance:

A young member of the Amish sect in Pennsylvania has ordered a horsedrawn buggy with beamed headlights, turn signals and a dome light that goes on when doors are opened, still conforming with the faith's injunctions against automobiles. . . Feeding chopped cobs along with the corn produces leaner ham, a Michigan study shows. . . A Texas hosiery manufacturer has increased sales 10 per cent by scenting the plastic packaging.

A Webster Grove, Mo. man confessed he and his wife bought identical autos so neighbors would not think they owned two cars.

UNCLE SAM, CO-SIGNER "The man who rides the afterdeck of the company yacht, coplots the duck hunter's plane, sis by while caviar is spooned out and the crepes sizzettes are sizzling. . . is none other than Uncle Sam," writes Clarence B. Randall in the current Dun's Review. He points out that money channeled to expenses is also being channeled away from taxable income.

Colorado demands that all drivers' licenses after September 1 carry color photos of the applicants, distinguishing the Flutes from the whites. . . The recent anti-American flare-up in Japan has had little effect on American importers, according to a new marketing survey. . . Canadians are smoking more cigarettes—and wouldn't you if you had Americans living south of your border?

EMPLOYERS SAY UNIONS SEEK MORE FRINGS Almost two thirds of 268 plants surveyed by Mill & Factory magazine report that unions they deal with are planning to seek significant fringe benefits in future contracts. These include noncontributory insurance, more holidays and vacation time, broader pension coverage, severance pay and supplementary unemployment benefits.

Of the remainder, 19 per cent said unions were not planning to ask for more and 17 per cent said they did not know.

Science At Work

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

In Case of Shipwreck
Are a couple of alcoholic drinks harmful to a sailor facing a sudden plunge into frigid ocean water?

They may be both a comfort and a protection, report two University of Cambridge researchers in the British journal, Lancet.

They tested the speed at which body temperatures fall in men given alcoholic beverages and then plunged into 59-degree water for 30 minutes.

Alcohol did not speed the body temperature drop as previously believed, said Drs. W. R. Keating and M. Evans.

While drunkenness could clearly be dangerous, there was little reason why people forced into cold water after shipwreck should forego the relief that moderate amounts of alcohol can provide. The relief itself may have survival value by reducing the risk of panic, they said.

Music, Pain and Waterfalls
Some 5,000 dental patients in the Boston area have been introduced to a noisy sort of pain control, researchers report.

The patient dons earphones and is given a small hand device that controls whether he hears music or noise, and loudness. As soon as he anticipates or feels pain, he turns up the intensity of the noise stimulus—sound similar to a waterfall.

The function of the music is to relax the patient, explains Dr. Wallace J. Gardner, Cambridge, Mass., dentist in the U.S. journal, Science.

But for most patients the noise is the main element—the one that drowns out pain.

Experimentally the system has also been used by some Boston doctors in other operations, such as childbirth and the removal of tonsils.

For Some, Time Stands Still
Among some mentally ill, time is a lost element, two Veterans Administration psychiatrists report.

They put a group of elderly mental patients, hospitalized for many years, to the test, asking the question: "How old are you?"

One-third of the schizophrenics who answered gave their age at the onset of their illness, report Drs. Otto F. Ehrenthel and Peter B. Jenney in the Archives of General Psychiatry.

Hairy Ear Rims
Hairy Ear Rims are a prime clue in a scientific detective hunt that may show a genetic link between the Mediterranean race of Europe and the brown race of India, a researcher suggests.

The characteristic of hair on the ear rim is passed on through the Y chromosome, explains Dr. R. Ruggles Gates of Cambridge, Mass., in the journal, Science. This means it is passed on from father to son.

The finding of this parental pattern of hairy ear rims in Italy and in the brown race of India is further evidence of a relationship between the two peoples, he said.

THERE OUGHTA BE A LAW! By FAGALY and SHORTEN

WILLIAM PEARSON'S rousing bestseller on politics
A FEVER in the BLOOD
From the novel published by St. Martin's Press, Inc. Copyright © 1959, by William Pearson. Distributed by King Features Syndicate.

CHAPTER 29
In the afternoon Judge Sam Hoffman received a visit from Dave Redstone, the Democratic party's county chairman. The plump, easy-going trouble-shooter said, "Sam, what do you think you're trying to do to our chances this November?"
"I'm not sure I know what you mean, Dave," Judge Hoffman said.
"The hell you don't. You're trying to torpedo Dan Callahan, and when you torpedo the Number One man on the ticket, you torpedo everybody else in the boat. You sent your clerk up to the D.A.'s office earlier today with a formal order telling the District Attorney to make himself and Mickey Beers available for some kind of screwy hearing in the next case tomorrow. The order says you're going to set as a referee to take testimony concerning a possible fraud on the Court. So it looks like a dig at the D.A.'s office, Sam, what's got into you?"
"So you're here to speak for Callahan?"
"You know me better than that. I'm speaking for the Democratic party. I've got thirty, forty people I'm trying to help get elected. I'm not trying to tell you how to run your shop. I don't have that much brass, but I don't think you have any right to hold some bareheaded hearing just because you and Callahan are having a feud. What kind of fraud are you talking about?"
"I'm sorry, Dave. The type of information I have and its source must remain confidential until the hearing. I've been leaning forward with a disarming reasonableness. Sam, don't you realize that you could end up losing us the general election? If we lose this one, it'll take five, ten years to bounce back. Do you want that on your conscience? Sure, you hate Callahan's guts, but that's no excuse. If there's really been some kind of fraud, you've got to come out and say so. Then we'll get rid of him. But if you're just conducting a fishing expedition, waging a personal vendetta, why are you going to be hurting innocent people. Where's your party loyalty? You've got the organization something. We've kept you in office twenty-two years. Redstone made a vague conciliatory gesture. "I'm not saying you shouldn't hold the hearing. But at least you could postpone it until after the election."
Listening, Judge Hoffman first experienced incredulity, then annoyance, then a dubious amusement. "Dave," he said without rancor, "we know each other pretty well. But let's keep a few things straight. Yes, Dan and you

Blind Man Gets His Gun Permit
ATLANTA (AP)—A blind man has been given permission to carry a gun for protection.
Paul W. Starnes, 54, an employee of the state factory for the blind, got his permit to carry a pistol from Fulton County official Eugene Gumbly.
In his application Starnes said he needs the gun for protection. He said he has been shooting guns for 20 years and is fairly proficient at it. He can see only well enough to distinguish bright lights and shapes.
"I have to go into court," Judge Hoffman said grimly "Good-by, Dave."
"Sam, I've had enough. Don't you understand? I've had enough!"

Elephant That Made Trek Dies
TURIN, Italy (AP)—Little Jumbo, the 12-year-old Indian elephant used last year in an effort to establish Hannibal's route across the Alps, has died in the Turin Zoo.
British historian John Hooton borrowed Jumbo to retrace what he thought were the footsteps of Hannibal's war elephants through the 9,250-foot Clapier Pass from France to Italy. Most historians think the Carthaginian took one of the lower passes near the Mediterranean coast.
Jumbo was blocked by a landslide within sight of her goal. The elephant lost 200 pounds on the journey but made up for it after she got back to the zoo. The zoo director said she died last week of heart trouble brought on by overeating.

Fewer Lives Are Claimed By Alps
ROME (AP)—Fewer persons have been killed climbing the Alps this year than in recent years but the toll half way through the climbing season has reached 58.
The dead include 34 climbers in Austria, 26 in Italy, 21 in Switzerland, 9 in France and 8 in Germany.
By this time last year 148 climbers had died. Guides say safety precautions don't appear to account for the reduction. It has been bad weather for climbing and the turnout has been smaller.

Blind Man Gets His Gun Permit
ATLANTA (AP)—A blind man has been given permission to carry a gun for protection.
Paul W. Starnes, 54, an employee of the state factory for the blind, got his permit to carry a pistol from Fulton County official Eugene Gumbly.
In his application Starnes said he needs the gun for protection. He said he has been shooting guns for 20 years and is fairly proficient at it. He can see only well enough to distinguish bright lights and shapes.
"I have to go into court," Judge Hoffman said grimly "Good-by, Dave."
"Sam, I've had enough. Don't you understand? I've had enough!"

If He Wins, Old Mule Is Credited
PULASKI, Tenn. (AP)—If Squire Sterling Stovall is re-elected Giles County magistrate in Thursday's primary he can give much of the credit to old Huldah—a real Democrat mule—that has carried its owner campaigning from one end of the district to the other.
Stovall is approaching his 81st birthday and would like to round out 40 years as a magistrate and member of the county court.
Campaign expenses? The veteran campaigner has spent $2.75, all of it for printed cards. He did most of his campaigning aboard old Huldah.
Pay? He'll get $50 a year as magistrate, provided he attends all four annual sessions of county court.

Folk Singer In Special ECC Program Aug. 4
Frank Warner, one of the nation's top folk singers, will appear in a special program in Austin auditorium at East Carolina College on Thursday, August 4, at 6 p.m. His appearance here is sponsored by the Summer Session Student Government Association.
Warner, a native of Alabama, resided in North Carolina during his youth and was educated in the schools in this state. His interest in folk songs was developed at an early age and Warner began studying the American folk music and interpreting the music. He now makes his home at Mineola, Long Island, New York.
He is a concert artist of wide appeal and his music has been preserved on Elektra records.
Last week he appeared in a recital at Purdue University, during the Newport, Rhode Island, Folklore Festival, Warner's music drew the loudest cheers, critics have reported. Carl Sandburg has described Warner as "America's outstanding folk singer."
He plays his own accompaniments on a genuine mountain banjo, a possession for many years.
The public is invited to this concert, for which no charge is made.

To Bounce Radio Waves Off Moon
HOLMDEL, N. J. (AP)—Sometime tonight, when the three-quarter moon rises in the summer sky, a group of scientists will bounce radio signals off the earth's first satellite and hold a two-way talk with colleagues 3,000 miles away.
Scientists at the Bell Telephone laboratories here and at the Jet propulsion laboratory, Goldstone, Calif., will give a public demonstration to show how they bounce radio signals off the moon to hold coast-to-coast wireless telephone conversations.
Army scientists at Ft. Monmouth, N. J., first reached the moon by radar in 1946 in 1954, the Navy was able to use the satellite to reflect the human voice.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—Gains and losses battled to a standoff on a tenuous, listless stock market early this afternoon.

Trading continued at a moderate pace as the tape showed gains were held for fractions for the most part while some losses were widened. These were scattered throughout the list, emphasizing the specialized, selective tone of the market.

The aircraft group was fairly strong.

Brokers said investors seemed to be waiting to see what would happen and might well wait until after Labor Day, a traditional market milestone.

Group action was mostly diverse, although motors moved lower in a body, along with oils and most chemicals. Some strength in utilities was attributed to investor interest in defensive, or income type, issues.

Steels were mixed.

Air Reduction bucked the chemical trend, jumping ahead more than 2.

Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was off 1.58 at 612.10 at noon.

The Associated Press 60-stock average at noon was down 0.30 at 213.80 with industrials down 1.00, rails down 0.20 and utilities up 0.20.

U. S. government bonds were lower. Corporate bonds were mixed.

FBI Picks Up Man For Nixon Plane Bomb Hoax

WASHINGTON (AP) — FBI agents in Reno, Nev., today arrested a taxicab driver on a charge that he falsely reported a bomb had been concealed on Vice President Richard M. Nixon's westward bound campaign plane.

Nixon, Mrs. Nixon and their party are using a United Airlines charter flight on their present trip to Hawaii, which made a stop at Reno Tuesday before departure for Los Angeles.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover today disclosed that shortly before the Reno takeoff, a man approached flight personnel and said, "Your airplane is not going out today. I just put a bomb on it."

The man then drove away from the airport in a cab.

The takeoff was delayed slightly to permit a thorough search of the plane and luggage, which disclosed no bomb.

The flight left Reno at 3:21 p.m.

Hoover said FBI agents traced the bomb scare to Leonard Dale Sage, 34, who was taken into custody at his home in Reno this morning.

Sage was described as a former professional wrestler under the name of Johnnie Savage.

The FBI said he had an arrest record dating back to 1942 for minor offenses in California, Texas

To Accept Bids On Refuse Truck

FARMVILLE—Bids for a one and one-half ton garbage collection truck are being accepted by the Town of Farmville.

The Board of Commissioners authorized accepting the bids last night. The bids will be reviewed at the Sept. 6 meeting of the board.

The board agreed at last night's meeting to pay the County of Pitt $100 for a quit claim deed to a piece of property at the old Farmville junk site.

It was found that the county owned a section of the land. Town Clerk Harold Allred said the quit claim will straighten up property lines at the site.

Board members voted to give Negro workers in the Street Department a week's vacation with pay. The action will affect hourly employees with two or more years' service with the town.

The town will advertise for bids for paving, curb and gutter in a section of Langdale subdivision. Also included in the bidding will be paving of Pine St. Ext.

Permission for Bonnie's Cafe to sell beer on premises was granted by the commissioners.

ate will consider after it reconvenes Monday.

The money is provided in the public works appropriation bill, passed by the House of Representatives May 25 and approved by the Senate Appropriations Committee June 29.

After the Senate acts, the measure will be returned to the House, which reconvenes Aug. 15.

President-Eisenhower signed into law July 14 a bill authorizing the North Carolina projects, part of some 130 water projects in 19 states and Puerto Rico for the year that began July 1.

The Senate committee and the House have approved these construction project appropriations: Morehead City harbor $942,000; Pantage and Cucklers Creek $473,000; Wilkesboro reservoir $3,300,000.

Refuse To Blame Cigarette Firm

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Smoking is at least a factor in lung cancer, a federal jury has decided, but it refused to blame the cigarette maker.

The jury declined Tuesday to assess any damages against the American Tobacco Co. The estate of Edwin Green, who died of lung cancer, had asked more than one million dollars.

The plaintiff contended Green developed cancer of the left lung as a heavy smoker for 30 years of the firm's Lucky Strikes, with an occasional switch to other brands. Green, himself, started the suit before his death.

American Tobacco challenged lung cancer as cause of Green's death at age 49 in 1958. It also disputed that smoking causes cancer.

The jury found after eight hours deliberation that Green's smoking was "a proximate cause or one of the proximate causes of the development of cancer in his left lung."

It ruled, however, that the manufacturer could not be held responsible prior to the cancer diagnosis Feb. 1, 1956, for knowledge of any danger involved in smoking the cigarettes.

It was brought out in the trial that Green did not smoke again after the cancer diagnosis.

Two Charged As Car Hit Mission

Two Negro women were charged with motor vehicle law violations by Greenville police after the car one of them was operating rolled backward down a hill and struck the St. Andrews Mission on Bonner's Lane, causing heavy damage.

According to investigators, Mrs. Lorraine Burton Harris, 58, of 612 South Pitt St. was learning to drive with the aid of a second woman, Odessa Williams of 610 South Pitt St.

Investigators quoted Mrs. Harris as saying after she got into the vehicle, the car rolled backward down the hill and struck the church.

Damage to the car was set at $550 while damage to the building was placed at $50.

Police said the woman then drove the car back up the hill and parked it where it had been parked before, then went to her husband and told him their car had been hit by a hit-and-run auto. The husband, in turn, notified police that someone had hit his car.

Following the investigation, Mrs. Harris was charged with leaving the scene of an accident and operating a vehicle with no operator's license. Mrs. Harris' teacher, Mrs. Williams, was charged with allowing an unlicensed driver to operate a motor vehicle.

Weather Bureau Revising Set-Up

RALEIGH (AP)—A national re-arrangement of Weather Bureau assignments scheduled to go into effect this fall will make the station at Raleigh - Durham airport one of the country's most important.

The changes are scheduled to become effective in late October or November.

Under the new setup, each of the nation's forecasting stations will be responsible for two states. The bureau at Raleigh - Durham Airport will handle North and South Carolina.

The state's chief meteorologist, Charles B. Carney, said Tuesday his bureau will:

1. Prepare statewide and detailed regional forecasts for North and South Carolina.
2. Handle coastal weather forecast and warnings for the stretch between Cape Hatteras and Savannah, Ga.
3. Prepare five-day forecasts for North and South Carolina.

Under the current system, the Washington Weather Bureau forecasts South Carolina's weather and the Miami office issues coastal predictions and warnings.

Arrest Man In Alabama Kidnap, Flogging Case

COLUMBIANA, Ala. (AP) — A white man has been arrested in the abduction of two Negroes, one of whom was flogged.

Sheriff C. P. Walker said the man, Emmett V. Levereite, 42, is held on a warrant charging kidnaping.

Henry Jones, 20, a service station attendant, said there were six white men in the group which took him and his brother David, 13, from the yard of Henry's house at Harpersville.

Walker declined to say whether he had warrants for anyone else. Levereite has made no statement, Walker said.

Jones told officers that he and his brother were met by two carloads of white men at his home Saturday night. He said they were taken to a wooded section in adjacent Coosa County where he was stripped to his underwear, tied to a tree and whipped with belts and knotted ropes. The younger brother was not harmed.

Jones said the men told him they didn't want Negroes working at service stations in Harpersville.
