Highway Commission Okays Plans For Morehead City-Beaufort Bridge

NEW BERN, N.C. (AP) — The State Highway Commission today unanimously approved location of a new two million dollar bridge connecting Morehead City and Beaufort.

Commission Chairman J. M. Broughton Jr. urged the Highway Department to start work as soon as possible on the bridge, which he described as the state's No. 1 highway problem.

The commission approved the proposal of the highway engineering staff to place the new bridge in close proximity to the present outmoded bridge.

Objections of some Morehead City groups to this location apparently dissolved after Highway Director W. F. Babcock explained plans for the project.

Babcock also noted that provision would be made so that a lift-type drawspan could be provided later to permit the passage of ocean-going vessels if the area of the Newport River north of the present bridge is ever dredged for port development. The commission's vote followed a lengthy hearing.

Also on the commission's agenda was preliminary discussion of a 15-year highway improvement plan being worked on by agency engineers for several months.

The commission will review low bids on more than eight million dollars of road projects. Bids were opened July 26.

The list included a grading, structures and paving project on about seven miles of Interstate 85 between the Salisbury bypass and the west end of the Lexington by-pass.

Dr. Ralph Bunche Rushed To Soothe Katanga Threat

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP) — U. N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold rushed his chief troubleshooter to Katanga today after giving assurance that U. N. forces will not try to enforce the central Congo government's claim on the rich secessionist province.

Dr. Ralph J. Bunche flew to Elisabethville, the Katanga capital, a day ahead of schedule after Katanga Premier Moise Tshombe warned U. N. forces "will have to fight their way in" to his province.

Hammarskjold sought to soften the defiance of the Katanga leaders by emphasizing the U. N. troops were not acting as agents for the central government of Premier Patrice Lumumba.

He said in a statement that the U. N. force is not under the orders ahead with plans to send its first units to Katanga Saturday despite Tshombe's threat.

Privately U. N. officials said they expected no serious resistance in the mineral-rich province, whose secession would spell economic doom for the rest of the vast central African country.

The Katanga government ordered general mobilization of all able-bodied men in the province, both black and white, to back up the hard core of 500 loyal Congolese troops serving under Belgian officers.

NATO Counting On Fast Arrival Of Reserve Units

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — Western forces in Europe would be augmented by formidable reserve manpower if the Soviet Union were to attack Berlin, says U.S. Gen. Lauris Norstad, supreme commander of North Atlantic Treaty Forces.

He made the prediction after a conference with President Eisenhower at the summer White House Wednesday.

Norstad, who started back to his Paris headquarters immediately after his report to the President, said the NATO deterrent power is highly effective and in his opinion will become even more effective.

Norstad and Eisenhower conferred shortly after the summer White House had announced that Eisenhower will end his seaside vacation Sunday and fly back to Washington.

He will arrive in the capital the night before the Senate reconvenes. The House, which also recesses the early last month for the political conventions, goes back to work Aug. 15.

During these last few days of a vacation which started July 7, the President is enjoying the company of his four grandchildren. They are David 12, Barbara Anne 11, Susan 8, and Mary Jean 4.

With their mother, Mrs. John Eisenhower, they arrived by plane from Washington Wednesday. They will return with the President and the First Lady Sunday.

Norstad declined to provide any detail regarding his conference with the President.

Newsmen asked him, however, about reports that the Soviet Union might make a military move against West Berlin.

He replied that he had no personal knowledge of any imminent Communist push — beyond what he had read in the newspapers. The U.S. government has said it knows of no basis for such reports.

Asked whether he is confident that NATO forces in Europe could handle any such Soviet attack, Norstad replied that "the forces in my belt" are not the complete deterrent force in that area.

The general said the troops he commands are very significant in size and are becoming increasingly well equipped.

But he emphasized that in the event of any Soviet attack on Berlin, the Soviet Union would have to reckon with all the forces of the Western Alliance and not just the NATO troops now stationed in Europe.

Commission Begins Hunt For Economic Consultant

By ALVIN TAYLOR Reflector City Editor

A Pitt County Development Commission committee has been appointed to search for L. A. Weston's replacement as county economic consultant.

Commission Chairman Leonard Bloxam announced this today in the face of a statement by Weston advocating the discontinuance of the commission and the position of economic consultant.

Bloxam said he had not seen the statement prior to this morning.

"That release has never been given to me," he declared. "It has never been discussed by the commission and it has no grounds for release as far as being a news item for the commission. We've never discussed it. We've never gone into it. In fact there is a committee now looking for a new economic consultant."

Bloxam said the committee, appointed by Bloxam as chairman, is headed by Frank Allen of Farnville. Other members are Vance Perkins, James J. Edwards, J. M. Horton and Robert Lee Humber. The committee's duty will be to screen applicants for the post of economic consultant and recommend one man to the full commission.

The commission chairman said Weston's duties were concluded Friday, since the office is not open on Saturday. Weston's resignation was effective July 31, on Sunday, Bloxam said the keys to the office were turned over to him as chairman on Friday.

Bloxam emphasized that Weston in his recommendations spoke as an individual and not as a representative of the Pitt County Development Commission.

"I, as chairman, and I'm sure I speak for the rest of the commission, do not feel that our mission has been accomplished," Bloxam declared upon hearing Weston's statement. "If anything, there is more need than ever before and on that basis we are now looking for a replacement for Mr. Weston."

"We realize that the communities are better organized than ever before but these are made up of businessmen who have businesses and professions to look after and they cannot devote the time, money and effort to secure the information that industry requires when they become interested in an area.

"There have been instances where the Pitt County Development Commission has had to prepare for prospective industry reports as much as a hundred pages in length of special information which changes from month to month as the county and communities grow.

"Progress brought about by further development of this area brings about changing conditions that also have to be taken into account and shown in reports to prospective industry.

Weston Favors Abolishing Commission, His Old Post

Former Pitt Economic Consultant L. A. Weston has advocated the abolishment of his job and the Pitt County Development Commission.

Weston, who ended his duties July 31, said in a prepared news release that his department had aided in setting up community industrial committees and has been "promised real help by the State."

"All of this means just one thing," he declared. "An organization such as this commission and a full-time engineer is no longer required. It has now become a duplication of effort and an added tax expense that can be eliminated. This commission has fulfilled its mission and can now be discontinued. This would mean a reduction in the county property tax."

"It is not often that someone will advocate the discontinuance of a tax-supported agency and eliminate his own job. However, I have actually worked myself out of a job and consequently served notice to the commission that I am resigning to accept a position elsewhere. It is preferable that the county tax be reduced and thereby serve as a stimulant to attract industry to his area.

"Each of the local development organizations has been provided with names of prospects and by diligent effort on their part they should be successful in obtaining one or more for Pitt County. It is advisable the local office of the commission be retained for a period of time with a secretary only to act as a clearing house for industrial inquiries, preparation of reports and the mailing of brochures. That office though could be incorporated as part of the county operations and included in the county budget without any special tax assessment."

Weston said he told the local Rotary Club on April 21, 1959 that Pitt County would eventually become the best organized county in the state, as far as its development program was concerned.

"That prediction has now become a fact," he declared. "With the help and guidance of this commission, development organizations have become established in each of the communities of the county. These organizations are now fully capable of handling their local development programs.

"This commission came into being because the individual communities lacked the organizations and knowhow to properly set up and handle their local industrial development programs. Now with industrial committees in each town, and four industrial corporations, each of which has had months of training, this condition no longer exists. In the past this county had received only token assistance from the Department of Conservation and Development in Raleigh, but now that Pitt County has made itself heard and has organizations capable of working with prospects, the county has been promised real help by the State."

Weston also released a letter of resignation which he sent to Leonard P. Bloxam, chairman of the Development Commission. In it he made his resignation date effective July 31. However, he said it was his understanding that the commission had agreed to pay the "retainer fee" until Sept. 15, 1960.

Weston said he would be glad to accept a position elsewhere. It is preferable that the county tax be reduced and thereby serve as a stimulant to attract industry to his area.

New President Of Trujillo-Land

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, Dominican Republic (AP)—Joaquin Balaguer, the Dominican Republic's new president, told Congress Wednesday his main task will be "continuing the process of democratization" of the country.

Balaguer, who was vice president, succeeded to the presidency when Hector Trujillo, brother of Generalissimo Rafael Trujillo, resigned on the ground of ill health. Hector has been president since 1952.

Rafael Trujillo, who had promised the country free elections for president in 1962, earlier this week moved out of his office in the National Palace. Some time ago he quit as commander in chief of the armed forces, his last official post, and gave up the presidency of the Dominican party, his powerful political arm.

Withdrawal of the Trujillos from the spotlight was interpreted abroad as motivated by a desire to calm rising opposition abroad and to try to forestall possible inter-American action on charges that the Trujillos engineered an attempt to assassinate Venezuela's President Romulo Betancourt.

Betancourt was burned in a bomb explosion and his charges that the Trujillos were responsible at a meeting of Western Hemisphere foreign ministers in San Jose, Costa Rica, Aug. 16.

Agenda Includes Traffic Lights

Two-traffic control lights will be on the City Council agenda for consideration tonight.

The council meets at 8 o'clock in City Hall.

Councilmen will discuss an old request for a stop light at the college entrance near the administrative building on Fifth St.

A new request for a light at the intersection of Charles and 14th St. will be considered.

Councilmen will discuss a bond ordinance concerning the upcoming bond election and hear a statement of the city's bonded indebtedness.

Purchase of a truck and packer type body for garbage collection is on tonight's agenda.

Robot Scare

RANGLEY, Maine (AP) — A 12-foot 200-pound robot covered with green scales had the whole town in a stir Wednesday.

A waitress came across it by accident in a restaurant walk-in refrigerator.

Barbara Brackett said she brushed against the robot, starting off its machinery, and became terrified. She raced out of the restaurant screaming, followed by about 25 patrons.

James Marshall said he built the machine in his spare time over the last two years for use in a traveling show called "Terrors of the Unknown." He was using the refrigerator to test the robot for cold-climate operation.

The restaurant proprietor, Elmer Grant, said he had granted Marshall use of the refrigerator.

"I never want to see Marshall or the monster again," he said. "I have never seen such a hideous creature in all my life."

Russian Press Is Full Of Spy Tale

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet newspapers kept a full blaze of publicity today on an alleged American spy who, they said, was captured trying to sneak out to Iran.

Expanding the meager details first given, it is now claimed V.M. Slovnov was parachuted into the Soviet Union by a U. S. spy plane.

The U2 and RB47 cases have shown that repeated and successful penetrations of Soviet air defenses by American aircraft, such as reported by Soviet authorities, touch a most sensitive nerve in this country.

The Communist party paper Pravda published pictures of material claimed to have been seized from Slovnov.

Reckless Driver Of Motorboat Draws $200 Fine

BELMONT, N.C. (AP) — A Gastonia truck driver today was convicted of reckless operation of a motorboat on the Catawba River.

Fred Knight, about 30, was fined $200 and costs in Recorder's Court for the speeding incident last Sunday when his boat bore down on two youths lying on life preservers in the river. Roy Lang, 16, of Gastonia, testified that when he saw the boat bearing down on him, he dived under the water.

The boat's propeller, passing overhead, cut a toe from his right foot.

Roddy Johnson, 14, testified the boat missed him, and continued down the river.

Knights gave notice of appeal to Gaston County Superior Court.

WADESBORO, N.C. (AP)—Two carloads of teenagers, rocketing along a newly paved highway in an apparent race, went out of control Wednesday night and wrecked, killing one youth and injuring five.

Members of the Anson Rescue Squad searched for nearly an hour before finding the body of 18-year-old Don Teal, an N.C. State College freshman, who was thrown from one of the wildly careening cars. His body was found in underbrush bordering U.S. 52 about 4 miles south of here, a stretch of highway notorious locally for drag racing.

A spokesman at the Anson County Hospital said today that 17-year-old Victor Ormsby Jr. was in critical condition. He suffered a fractured skull, chest injuries and a broken leg and has not regained consciousness.

John Holmes White III, 17, was reported to be in serious condition with a fractured skull, two broken jaws and a broken kneecap.

The hospital spokesman said the other three youths were in fair condition: Gerald Adams, 18; Richard Gregory, 19; and Tommy Tate, 17.

Local Companies Begin Processing '60 Leaf

Imperial Tobacco Co. and Export Tobacco Co. are the first local companies to begin receiving and processing tobacco this season.

The Imperial Tobacco Co. began receiving tobacco from all the Georgia markets Monday and began processing at noon Tuesday. Approximately 475 people are working now on a two-shift operation "around the clock," J. R. Moyer Jr. said today.

He said about 400,000 pounds are being processed every 24 hours. The company expects to continue operating straight through the season, even after the local market closes. Moyer said, perhaps up to the first week in December.

Imperial will employ more people as the season progresses, Moyer said, working up to about 575, which includes the laborers as well as the regular staff. "We are looking forward to a very successful season," he said.

The Export Tobacco Co. received its first tobacco Saturday

Lake Apparently Unable Halt Write-In Effort

RALEIGH (AP)—Raleigh lawyer I. Beverly Lake's request that a gubernatorial write-in campaign in his behalf be discontinued apparently has failed to dim the spirit of the movement's leader.

Shelby radio station manager Boyce Hanna, sparkplug of the newly formed Committee for Honest Leadership, said Wednesday night, "Personally I don't think it will change our plans one bit."

Hanna referred to a letter released by Lake Wednesday in which he thanked the committee for its efforts but asked them to halt the campaign.

Thus Lake, unsuccessful candidate in two primaries for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, tried to squelch the movement only hours after it was officially launched by Hanna at a news conference Wednesday morning.

Hanna, noting that Lake earlier had said he would not participate in a write-in movement, took the letter lightly. He said, "We don't feel it is anymore of a hands-off policy than Dr. Lake took originally."

However, Hanna said he and his still unidentified committee members would meet to discuss their next step.

Lake has said he is pledged to vote for Terry Sanford, the man who defeated him by a hefty margin in the June 25 runoff primary, in the gubernatorial election in November.

Lake said he continued to believe in the principles for which he campaigned and added: "It is my hope that in the Democratic primaries and conventions of the future, we who believe in these principles will regain control of our party in North Carolina and the nation."

He told Hanna he would continue to work to that end. But, Lake said, "It is my belief that the proposed write-in campaign will not contribute to that objective. . . . I request that the campaign be discontinued."

Hanna, besieged by questions at his news conference, predicted victory for Lake in November, said he had several millionaires behind the movement and denied that the committee was tied to the Republican party.

In fact, he predicted that Robert L. Gavin, the GOP nominee for governor, would have sworn the state had the write-in campaign not been staged.

Hanna told newsmen he was a registered Democrat but twice voted for President Eisenhower.

He declined to identify the millionaires, but said the names of committee members and campaign plans would be revealed Friday.

Hanna voted for Sanford in the runoff primary, but said he later realized it was a mistake. "Dr. Lake is not the radical or extreme segregationist he was pictured to be," Hanna said.

"Ee told the news conference, "We have no hope to pick with Terry Sanford. This is not a hate campaign. We do not plan to use segregation or religion in our platform. I believe that God is having me to do the thing that I am do-

Back-To-School Laundry Tips

Don't Coddle Sweaters

(Editor's Note: For the next several days articles concerning fashion-laundry, furnished by the American Home Laundry Manufacturers' Asso., will appear on the Woman's page in the Daily Reflector.)

In the spring a young man's fancy turns to thoughts of love... and in the fall a young mother's thoughts turn to outfitting the brood for back-to-school, and keeping clothes neat and clean throughout the school year.

This article will furnish information on laundering sweaters, a major clothes item for the girls.

There's no longer any need to coddle cashmeres, cuddly angoras or any other sweater with a lot of "lavatory puddings," according to the Association's report. Just toss them in the automatic washer.

Mothers, in general, used to think the only way they could launder their daughters' sweaters was by hand in lukewarm water, otherwise fibers would be damaged and sweaters would shrink. This could mean hours since an informal poll shows that the average school girl has from six to 60 sweaters in her wardrobe. Then there was a two-day wait while every flat surface in the house was spread with towel topped by drying sweater.

One college sophomore reports that her family hadn't had a sit-down meal on weekends from October through March since her junior high days. Both dining and kitchen tables were reserved during this period for drying her sweaters.

Wet sweater hazards are not conducive to study in dorms, but cleaning bills would "kill you," moan the girls who do their own, except for special sweaters which they send to the drycleaner. Nor are they satisfied with those sent out. They come back looking nice, but still retain the odors of stale perspiration or reek of strong cleaning fluids used to take perspiration out.

This report assures mothers and their sweater-wearing daughters that the appliance manufacturers have solved the problem.

Current model washers have settings for delicate fibers. When washing under these settings, agitation or tumbling is slowed or stopped entirely. Some manufacturers recommender removing the agitator. This is necessary for tests show that excessive friction is responsible for breaking down and shrinking fibers.

Another factor that caused shrinking was heat. This has been solved with settings which allow warm or even cold wash water in addition to hot.

To wash a sweater then, requires a setting that has a choice of washing action or a soak period, warm wash water, and warm or cool water for rinsing. While the names vary with the make or model of washer, "gentle," "wool," "delicate," or "wash and wear" are among those dial settings that would be safe for sweaters.

The use of a fabric softener in the rinse water will reduce pilling and static electricity and give a softer touch.

As many as a dozen sweaters can be washed at one time. However, caution must be taken to be sure that none of the sweaters will fade before washing several together. Reds, navy and black are most likely to fade or have their tones picked up by another color. Most pastels can be washed together without harm.

White should never be washed with colors, particularly white nylon. It's a great color stealer, and even though other sweaters don't seem to have faded, the white ones will take on a gray or yellowed tone.

When machine washing heavily jeweled or sequined sweaters, place the sweater in a porous bag to prevent the sequins or jewels from catching on other garments. Some manufacturers recommend that the jewel encrusted not be agitated at all, but be allowed to soak in the washer in warm water, soap or detergent added, for 20 minutes. Then run the sweaters through the rinse cycle.

The dryer setting for jeweled or unadorned sweaters should again be the "gentle," "delicate," "wash and wear" or whichever name the lower heat, shorter cycle is called on the particular dryer used.

Some nylon and orlon sweaters may be completely dried in the dryer, but it is still best to be on the safe side and remove sweaters from the dryer when damp dry. The sweater may then be shaped and sized, thus removing further chance of shrinking or stretching which is sometime the case with orlon sweaters.

A good place to smooth out the sweaters is the top of the dryer, where the heat of the dryer will furnish drying it in an hour or so.

If several sweaters are washed at one time, then spread wax paper between the sweaters and smooth them out on top of the other on the dryer.

MacRae-Watson Marry

COLUMBIA, S. C.—Miss Annette Watson became the bride of Tom MacRae in a double-ring ceremony at 11 o'clock Friday morning, July 29, at the Washington Street Methodist Church in Columbia. Dr. Wallace Fridy, pastor of the church, performed the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. G. M. Watson and the late G. M. Watson of Bethel, N. C. Mr. MacRae is the son of Mrs. Thomas MacRae and the late Thomas MacRae of Atlanta, Ga.

White gladioli and chrysanthemums with fern and greenery were used to decorate the altar, before which was placed a satin covered pillow.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, John L. Watson of Bethel, N. C., wore a ballerina length dress of white nylon chiffon and chintilly lace. Her bouquet consisted of a white orchid set on bridal ribbons, carried on a white prayer book.

Major Almyra Watson of Ft. Knox, Ky., sister of the bride, served as maid of honor. She wore a beige dress with green accessories. Her corsage consisted of Rubium lilies. The bridegroom's best man was his brother, Douglas MacRae of Atlanta, Ga.

The bride's mother chose for the wedding a beige dress of silk shantung and lace, with a white carnation corsage. The groom's mother wore a sheer nylon print dress with a white carnation corsage.

Mrs. H. C. Cannon of Bethel, N. C., sister of the bride, was director of the wedding. G. M. Watson Jr. of Baltimore, Md., brother of the bride, served as usher.

The bride and groom will be at home after August 7 at 1620 Gloucester Circle, Tarawa Terrace, N. C.

Merrill and daughter, Kaye, and son, Kent, of Myrtle Beach, S. C. Miss Ernelle Brooks, a medical missionary of Nigeria, was not present for the occasion.

Approximately 150 guests were greeted by the Rev. and Mrs. Percy B. Upchurch. They introduced Mrs. Robert Payne and daughter, Nancy, of Columbia, S. C., Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Sawyer of New Bern, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Bell and Mrs. and Mrs. Rodney Robertson.

Fruit punch, decorated cake squares, and nuts were served to the guests from an appointed table decorated in the gold and white motif. An individual table near the refreshment area held the traditional wedding cake. The decorative three-tiered cake featured gold leaves and a miniature bride and bridegroom.

Gold containers held gladioli, chrysanthemums and other summer flowers, which were placed throughout the receiving rooms.

Other relatives in attendance were Mrs. J. C. Brooks of Monroe, Mrs. H. W. Gullledge of Hamlet, Mrs. Robert Payne and daughter, Nancy, of Columbia, S. C., Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Sawyer of New Bern, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Bell and Mrs. and Mrs. Rodney Robertson.

Completed Course In Medical and Surgical Nursing

RECEIVING CERTIFICATES . . . are 13 licensed practical nurses who have completed the first course in Medical and Surgical Nursing offered through N. C. Dept. of Public Instruction, Division of Vocational Education. The course was taught in 80 hours by Pitt Memorial Hospital's Director of Nursing, Mrs. Phyllis Martin, R.N. Among those completing the course was Mrs. Dolly Hill shown receiving her certificate last night from J. H. Rose, superintendent of Greenville City Schools. Pictured also are Mrs. Martin on the right, and Mrs. Mabel Tucker, Mrs. Faye Creech, Mrs. Evelyn Wade, Mrs. Victoria Smith, Miss Esther Cox, Mrs. Irene Gurganus, Mrs. Glynn Keeter, Mrs. Dorothy Manning, Mrs. Lucille McArthur, Mrs. Rosa Phillips, Mrs. Sallie Musselwhite, and Mrs. Hazel Barnes.

Miss Perkins Given Lunch At Clubhouse

Miss Jane Perkins, bride of August 21, was guest of honor at a luncheon Tuesday at the Greenville Golf and Country Club. Hostesses, the faculty of Third St. School, presented Miss Perkins and her mother, Mrs. Vance Perkins, corsages of white carnations. Tomato juice was served the guests upon their arrival on the terrace. The dinner featured shrimp salad, ham, and for dessert lime sherbert. A floral arrangement of pink gladioli and baby's breath centered the bridal table. Miss Perkins was given a silver tray by the hostesses and Miss Cynthia Cranford, also an August bride-elect, was presented a silver relish dish.

Gardening Today

By JOHN G. DUNCAN
Man has, since a long time back, envied plants for their tranquility and their apparent immunity to things human clay is heir to. Now, it seems that scientists are about to put an end to such envy. According to those that probe and peer, plants and humans do not differ much when it comes to having their share of pain, frustration, nervous breakdowns and other ills that the flesh has unwittingly laid claim to for centuries. All of this should put an extra load on the shoulders or mind of those that garden. Not only will the gardener have to keep up on his pesticides, fertilizers and garden practices, but now he will have to become an expert in plant psychology. Schools will have to add to their courses in Botany and extra course to study the physical feeling and the emotional pattern of our leafy cousins. According to the men who are looking beyond leaf tissue and the accepted make up of a plant, many things are coming to light. They say a tomato can hurt and feel pain the same as those that relish them. To prove this they have machines to record pain and data to back up their claims. If your cold slaw hasn't been tasty, your cabbage may have been manifesting nervous tendencies. Bananas, peas, and beans have "strokes" and die of clots in their tissues. And we may have been putting down that the effects they have on us to bad indigestion, while the causes run a lot deeper than this—or does it? It is said that injured flowers and plants poison the air with carbon monoxide. This could be the cause of that dizzy feeling you may have had while weeding in such a flower bed. With all of these new approaches to what ails the plant opening up to the gardener, what has the individual to look forward to in his gardening program? It may mean an entirely new approach to raising and caring of plants. For example, the ordinary chore of cultivating the flower bed once took only a hoe and muscle. Now this chore may have to be undertaken with added equipment and a new insight. New rules will go with the gardener as he sets about his jobs. Such slogans as "Never weed a bad of nervous petunias", "Tranquillize your roses before pruning", "Don't use harsh language near your violets" (they are shy, you know), and "Watch your manners and your tongue while working near the daisy" (they say they won't tell, but you can't be sure) may be the fashion of the day. Create an atmosphere of tranquility in your garden. Soothe and ease the growing things. A transistor radio should be a big help. Such songs as Debussy's "Clair de lune" the lilting waltzes of Strauss should be stirring and soothing to the chlorophyll and make for better plants. Sing to your plants and boast their morale with words of praise. Your neighbors will think you are nuts, but your plants will appreciate it.

Marriage Has New Look In USSR

marriage, especially the marriage ceremony, are the big topics of the day among the Soviet people. Newspapers and magazines are filled with suggestions from readers on how to glamorize marriage, which up to now has been a drab ceremony in a shabby registry office. One man wrote that he strongly supported the idea of wedding palaces like the first one which opened in Leningrad. The "palace" is a lavishly decorated hall which sells everything necessary for the wedding ceremony.

Some letters to the editor suggest that guests be admitted by invitation only to avoid wedding crashing, and that administrators be respectable elderly people "in good suits."

One reason for opening the palaces is to supply a substitute for the church ceremonies which many young Russians are going through nowadays in reaction to the bleakness of the official civil marriage.

Recreation Program Is Tops With 4-H Girls And Boys

RALEIGH — "All work and no play makes Jack a dull (4-H) boy," explains why recreation is one of the half hundred available to club members throughout the state. Naturally its popular with 4-H'ers of all ages, and is one project that can be carried on in towns as well as in the country. While the recreation program itself is not new in 4-H, the present national sponsor is. This marks the first year that John Deere of Moline, Ill. will be host to the top state and national winners during the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago next fall.

The broad scope of activities include arts and crafts, sports, club and community social events, nature lore, music and dramatics. One outgrowth of the recreation program is "share-the-fun" talent shows which have become popular both in and out of 4-H. The 4-H Club Week program will come to a close on Friday night as the talented 4-H'ers from all over North Carolina present "4-H Stars of the Sixties."

Queen Mother Marks Birthday

This week at State College, 4-H representatives attending club week have learned techniques for teaching recreation in their local counties when they return home. Pheane Boss, Extension recreation specialist from the University of Kentucky, has conducted a class in recreation leadership during the week. The boys and girls have also enjoyed recreation following the evening program directed by Boss.

LONDON (AP)—Queen Mother Elizabeth—her three grandchildren at her side—unpacked a pile of presents on her 60th birthday today.

Last year, Neita Stout from Rowan County won the state recreation award and attended Congress. Bruce Lourie, vice president of John Deere says, "John Deere's sponsorship of the national 4-H recreation program is a most rewarding experience. Teaching boys and girls how to enjoy and constructively use their leisure time, and training them in leadership is important to us."

Better Off Using Local Markets

Georgia's blue-tagging of out-of-state tobacco on its markets has in effect been settled on a temporary basis for the remainder of this year. Certainly before another marketing season opens in Georgia, the legality of the practice should be finally determined.

A federal court restraining order issued Monday of this week stopped the Georgia practice under which out-of-state tobacco was tagged with a special blue card since then, for all practical purposes, there has been no discrimination between the Georgia leaf and the leaf from the Carolinas offered on Georgia's warehouse floors. Certainly the broad discrepancy in prices which prevailed the first couple of days of the selling season have apparently disappeared.

With the hearing on the restraining order slated for August 10, only one day before the opening of the Border Belt, Georgia's blue-tag law will be ineffective for the remainder of this selling season. Most of the Carolina's tobacco which moves into Georgia auction markets does so early in the season before the opening of the Border Belt. When that belt opens its auction season, the flow of Carolina's tobacco to Georgia is virtually shut off. Farmers who want to sell their crop early can do so closer home without traveling all the way to Georgia.

The net effect of the blue-tag law, coupled with the reaction of companies which all but passed up all the Carolina's tobacco on Georgia markets, has been to stir up commotion in the tobacco industry and to sharply decrease the volume of tobacco being sold on the Border and Eastern Belts when those markets open later this month.

Significance In Excess Revenues

By LYNN NISBET
STATE REVENUE — The State of North Carolina collected nearly five and a quarter million dollars more in taxes from its citizens in July of 1960 than in July of last year. Four million of that increase was due to the new withholding plan for collection of income taxes, leaving an actual increase of about a million dollars in the general fund account. The significant fact is not the higher receipts, but the excess of collections above estimates made by the General Assembly as basis for appropriations. More money had been anticipated and appropriated, so the five million increase is not a fair comparison.

It appears that the estimates of revenue were too low, and despite record-breaking appropriations there is likely to be a substantial surplus at the end of the current fiscal year next June 30. The disposition of that surplus will be cause for major controversy in the next General Assembly. School teachers are contending that the 5 per cent contingency bonus for the 1959-60 and 1960-61 years should be carried forward as a part of the "A" budget as a base salary. Since it was provided that no deductions for retirement should be taken from that extra contingency bonus, the budget folks insist it was clearly a bonus, not a base salary raise.

During his primary campaign Governor-nominate Terry Sanford argued that increased yield from existing tax schedules would enable the State to spend many millions more for public schools without new taxes. The collection records to date seem to justify that view — if the General Assembly wants to use the additional money for such purpose. That is where the battle is apt to be waged.

PERMANENT — Some members of the Advisory Budget Commission are convinced that any surplus moneys should be dedicated to non-recurring permanent improvement or debt reduction items — rather than for current operating expenses of State government. It is recalled that one of the first acts of the 1945 General Assembly was to earmark enough of the war time accumulated surplus to pay off the general fund State debt. Conditions were not conducive to building that year, but in 1947 most of the remaining surplus was allocated for permanent capital improvements.

Informal and unofficial estimates of the probable "surplus" next July range from fifty million to more than a hundred million dollars. On its recent tour of State institutions the Advisory Budget Commission entertained requests for more than a hundred million dollars for improvements and expansion of institutional facilities. These needs can be met only by use of the surplus or issuance of bonds by vote of the people. In either event, chances are that not more than thirty to forty millions will be approved by the budget folks, approximately one-third of the total requests. What the General Assembly and the voters will do about making money available is problematic. The record of bond voting in recent years indicates that the people are willing to take a chance on continuing prosperity. The traditionally conservative Advisory Budget Commission doubts the people will vote necessary bonds if the accumulated surplus is plowed into current operation expenses.

One suggestion is that in lieu of contingent promises of higher salaries, the accumulated and surplus funds be devoted to buildings on contingent basis — borderline needs for facilities be authorized "if the money is available."

PARTY — Recipients of invitations to the big Democratic luncheon at the State fairgrounds next Tuesday hope they will not have to down a receiving line to shake hands with all the honor guests. The invitations read: "Paul H. Thompson, Democratic national committeeman; Terry Sanford, Democratic nominee for Governor; H. Cloyd Philpott, Democratic nominee for Lieutenant Governor; Senator B. Everett Jordan, Democratic nominee for U. S. Senate, request the pleasure of your company at a buffet luncheon on August 9, at 12:30 p.m., State Fair Arena, Raleigh, North Carolina, in honor of Governor Luther H. Hodges, Senator Sam J. Ervin, Jr., Woodrow W. Jones, Democratic members of the U. S. Congress from North Carolina; Democratic nominees for the Council of State; Democratic Executive Committee members; Delegates to the 1960 Democratic National Convention; Chairmen and Vice-chairmen of County Executive Committees; Democratic nominees for the General Assembly, and husbands and wives."

That adds up to four hosts and a thousand or more "honor guests." The luncheon, which will come right after the formal meeting of the State Democratic executive committee, will serve as a kick-off for the fall general election campaign. It is a new idea, one of the innovations which may be expected under the leadership of Governor-nominate Sanford.

It is also likely that regardless of the final outcome of the court test of the Georgia blue-tag law, less tobacco from the Carolinas will flow to Georgia markets in future years. Many farmers who in years past have sold some of their crop in Georgia have become disgruntled over their treatment on the Georgia markets this year and have decided to sell their tobacco at home in the future.

In the long run, in our opinion, tobacco growers of the Carolinas will be better off to keep their tobacco at home to sell on the markets here and let the Georgia markets handle only Georgia tobacco.

Improvement In Rural Fire Protection Seen

Perhaps more than at any other season of the year, the value of many community fire departments in Pitt County is recognized in saving of literally thousands of dollars worth of buildings and tobacco that otherwise would be lost to fires.

The tobacco curing season is the period in which fires in the rural areas of Pitt County are more numerous than at any other time. To be sure, these community fire departments have small success in saving tobacco barns that are ablaze when they are called. Without the response of these fire departments, however, the number of other farm buildings annually lost to fire would increase astoundingly.

In most cases tobacco barns are located near other barns and other farm buildings. Many times the building that is afire is beyond saving by the time a volunteer fire company arrives. Even so, these firemen are able to prevent the fire from spreading to other buildings and thus prevent the losses from becoming greater.

Although the rural areas of Pitt County still lack the calibre of fire protection many people would like to see, there has been a vast improvement in recent years with the establishment of a number of community fire departments. There are few rural areas of the county today that cannot be reached in a relatively short time by one fire department or another. The promptness with which these volunteer departments respond to calls has been an important factor in keeping fire losses to a minimum in rural areas of the county.

Already this year many tobacco barns have burned to the ground in this county, and a considerable amount of tobacco has been lost in these fires. Even so, the total loss in tobacco and farm buildings, is considerably less than what it would have been had not community fire departments been ready and willing to answer calls throughout the rural areas.

Has Inside Track For Sec. Of State

By JOHN SCALI
WASHINGTON (AP) — Douglas Dillon, 50, a fellow who talks tough to the Soviet Union, but softly to Congress, seems to be the backstage favorite for the job of secretary of state — if Vice President Richard M. Nixon is elected president.

Neither Nixon, the Republican standard bearer, nor Sen. John F. Kennedy, the Democratic presidential nominee, have given solid clues on choices for the top cabinet post. But Kennedy has two leading prospects in Chester Bowles and Adlai E. Stevenson, his foreign policy advisors.

Nixon could always turn to some dark horse candidate as his selection. But lately in Republican circles, the name of Dillon, the State Department's No. 2 man, has been bobbing up in informal surveys.

Dillon, a millionaire former investment banker, is mentioned more frequently than former New York Gov. Thomas E. Dewey who might be available as Nixon's foreign policy chief, if asked.

Dillon assets are readily apparent. He would be far less controversial than Dewey who has voiced some biting criticism of Democrats. For 7 1/2 years Dillon has worked in the State Department's top echelon handling many of the tough international problems that will continue to plague the nation in the 1960s.

A third important reason could be the increasingly close Nixon-Dillon friendship that has developed in the past few months. Dillon's aides confirm that the two men have met frequently and sometimes talked twice daily on the phone.

All these talks were objective discussions of foreign policy problems, they say, without any move by Dillon to prove Nixon with campaign ammunition to shoot at the Democrats.

Dillon is known, however, to be delighted with the stress Nixon put on foreign aid and the size of the federal budgets. But the fact remains that in the long-term help to underdeveloped countries in his speech accepting the nomination for the presidency.

Dillon's views perhaps were also visible in Nixon's belated pledge to seek to step up the nation's rate of economic growth in order to keep ahead of the Soviet Union's mounting industrial drive.

For two years, Dillon was the lone administration voice publicly advocating this, at a time when such suggestions came mainly from the Democrats and New York's Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

Dillon's readiness to champion liberal economic-trade policies, many of them conceived under Democratic administrations, helps explain his popularity with Democrats.

But his main appeal is his low key non-sensational approach to the questions asked him at hearings. He gives congressmen a maximum of information and a minimum of diplomatic double-talk. He backs up his replies with detailed statistics, facts, and figures.

Opinions In Brief

"We are pleased with the report of the American Bible Society that it distributed a record of 17,650,917 volumes of the Scriptures in this country and abroad last year. The figure exceeded by a substantial margin the average of 15 million for the six years previously. Nothing but good can come from this record distribution of the Bible." —Boonton (N.J.) Times-Bulletin.

"It's commonly said and believed that defense costs are almost solely responsible for the present burden of taxation and the size of the federal budgets. But the fact remains that in the 1955-61 period, defense costs rose only 12 per cent, while non-defense items rose 43 per cent." —Industrial News Review.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
HARD ROAD FOR NEW TRUTH
New truth always has a hard time getting accepted.

Several centuries before the ministry of Jesus began, Socrates had tried to get certain new truths into the minds of his contemporaries in Athens. He was put to death, and he accepted the judgment of the court gladly because he knew that new truth is always advanced at great cost.

The suffering of Jesus and His immediate disciples are known to every Christian believer. There was an immense suffering during the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries over the matter of religious differences. George Washington and his colleagues pressed new political truth upon a generation which found it hard to believe that common men could govern themselves. Pasteur was threatened with a murder indictment if his anti-rabies injection failed to work. The Wright brothers were classed with Darius Green and His Flying Machine. Even as recently as fifty years ago Dr. Albert Einstein, because of his theory of relativity, was largely looked upon as a crackpot.

Perhaps if new truth did not have to fight for the possession of our minds, it would never possess them. But the more man beats down truth the more does it appear to rise up in majestic strength and splendor. People are certainly right in holding to old truth until new truth demonstrates its value. But new truth has always had a hard time—and in the nature of things probably always will.

No Impact From Report

What has the surprising report on Crest toothpaste by the Council on Dental Therapeutics of the American Dental Association done locally?

Nothing, as yet, two druggists reported.

Each of the pharmacists said they could detect no particular change in the sales pattern of the great number of tooth paste brands.

In an unprecedented action the Council recognized the usefulness of Crest toothpaste as a caries preventive agent.

The Council even went so far as to allow Proctor and Gamble, manufacturers of the dentifrice, to use the following statement in their advertisements:

"Crest has been shown to be an effective anticaries dentifrice that can be of significant value when used in a conscientiously applied program of oral hygiene and regular professional care; Crest dentifrice may also be of value as a supplement to public dental health procedures."

One druggist said, while he had seen no particular increase in the sale of Crest, he expected sales would increase as "the word got around."

Unlike the rush that develops when it becomes known that a product is to become scarce, most buyers will probably use up their present toothpaste supply before purchasing new tubes and presumably switching to Crest.

"By that time," the druggist predicted, "the other manufacturers will have out their own approved brands."

At any rate it will be interesting to see how the buying public reacts to this latest development in the toothpaste battle.

For decades the public has been bombarded by advertised claims for various toothpastes. On the other hand, the public has for years been advised by the nation's dentists that no toothpaste actually prevents tooth decay. The only real preventive has been adequate brushing with any good toothpaste, the dentists have said.

Me? I use baking soda and salt, myself.

Received final correspondence from Pete Heller and Tom Irons, Greenville scouts who sent back information to the Daily Reflector from the Scout Jamboree.

Although the Jamboree is now over, I can report that Pete and Tom along with the other scouts saw the President of the United States on his visit.

Most of the boys finished their National Jamboree Adventure Awards prior to the end of the event, Pete and Tom reported.

Quote ...

"According to press reports the staged revolts with the Communists, the Labor Unions and the Socialists in Japan, calculated to withdraw the invitation to President Eisenhower to visit that country, cost the Communists a considerable cash outlay. Report is that they paid the participants $1.65 a day, and Japan that is said to be in the upper class wage group." —Oswego (Kansas) Independent.

Drain On U. S. Gold Continuing

By ELMER ROESSNER

Neither of the Presidential candidates have come up with a workable suggestion to check the outflow of gold from the United States. However, neither has Congress, the Treasury nor the Federal Reserve.

Meanwhile, the drain continues. The last Federal Reserve report, for the week ended July 27, the U.S. had $19,164,000,000 in gold.

That was $60,000,000 less than a week ago and $445,000,000 less than a year ago.

The U. S. gold stock reached its peak in 1949; the Treasury held $24,427,000,000 at the end of that year. The year-end figures for succeeding years, in millions:

1950	$22,706
1951	22,695
1952	23,187
1953	23,032
1954	23,713
1955	21,990
1956	21,649
1957	22,781
1958	20,534
1959	19,456

The over-all decline is all the more remarkable because during those ten years we produced more than $60,000,000 worth of gold.

HOW DO WE LOSE IT?

The supply of gold increases or decreases because foreign state banks may exchange American dollars for gold. If the United States imports $1 billion more than it exports, foreign business firms accumulate that much in dollars or dollar credits. These are usually deposited in the central banking system, which can thereupon claim $1 billion in our gold.

In practice, the gold is seldom shipped abroad. It is simply earmarked in the name of the foreign owners.

In the same way, when American citizens sell goods abroad, the proceeds, after deposit in the Federal Reserve System, can be collected in gold. But the gold is kept by the Federal Reserve because American citizens, unlike the citizens of most other countries, cannot own gold coin, except as collectors.

But foreigners and their governments are gaining more credits than Americans are. We are importing more goods than we export, and our travelers are spending more abroad than foreign travelers here. Our balance of trade is expected to show a deficit of $2.5 billion this year. OUR GOLD IS MORTGAGED.

While $19 billion seems like a lot of gold — about half the world's total — there are claims on it.

The law requires that $12 billion of the gold be held as backing for Federal Reserve notes (paper money) and other Federal Reserve obligations. This leaves only $7 billion.

Meanwhile, foreign holdings of convertible credits exceed $15 billion. Thus, they could demand more than twice as much gold as is available for foreign claims.

There is no danger at present that our foreign creditors will stage a run on our Federal Reserve System. For one reason, the dollar is still a fairly stable currency, even though inflated; dollars still buy American goods. For another, if there ever is a run, the U. S. will promptly embargo gold, preventing its transfer.

Lodge Knows World

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
Copyright, 1960, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

I first met Henry Cabot Lodge perhaps 35 years ago or so in Shanghai, China. He was then working as a reporter for the "New York Herald Tribune" and was getting an eyeful of the world. I was an editor and columnist in those days, all of which might have been avoided had the businessmen and other amateurs on the Eisenhower side known the rules of the road. The bitterness survived many years, even after the death of Robert A. Taft because there was vindictiveness on both sides. There are Taft advocates today who look askance at Henry Cabot Lodge, Thomas E. Dewey and Herbert Brownell and who would ordinarily sit on their hands rather than vote for one of them. That lone delegate from the Lone Star State was such an idealistic cuss.

But this can be said of Henry Cabot Lodge: since 1953 he has served his country valiantly, constantly and courageously. Day after day, in the United Nations he had to take insult, abuse, humiliation, and outrage. The Russians ridiculed him. They denounced his country.

But Lodge fought on ceaselessly. One watched his anguish as he fought for freedom and for the good name of his country. Every day, he was on the firing line, debating, arguing, making his point, winning battles which affected the course of human history. Perhaps Cabot Lodge would make a preferable Secretary of State. But what is usually forgotten about a Vice President is that he might at a moment's notice become President of the United States by constitutional process. Surely, Andrew Johnson, look at it as you please, was not a worthy successor to Abraham Lincoln.

When we nominate a man for Vice President, do we always recognize this possibility?

There will be Taft Republicans and Joe McCarthy Republicans who will hold it against Cabot Lodge that he was antagonistic to both. There are Middle Western Republicans who still believe that regional considerations are important in these days of stress. They will object to a New Englander.

But if they think clearly, they will set aside their sectarian and regional attitudes and in both parties. The times are too serious. This can be said: four competent men are running for the highest offices. During the next four or eight years the fate of this country will be settled not by war but by ingenuity, sincerity, morality, character.

I know all four. I have spoken well of the four of them. But as a citizen, you and I will have to make a choice, not as to the lesser of unworthy men but the superior of worthy men and the superiority must be measured in terms of ideas, in capacity for leadership, in essential patriotism which includes a large measure of humility. During the next three months, our people will be able to take a close measure of these men.

By his acceptance speech Henry Cabot Lodge made it clear that he would not be a gavel-pounding Vice President. He held a seat in President Eisenhower's Cabinet; it is to be assumed that he will be in Nixon's Cabinet and in the National Security Council and the new organ which Nixon hopes to set up to concentrate all our forces for the war of attrition which Soviet Russia is waging against this country.

Cabot Lodge is pitted against no small man in Lyndon Johnson. And that is what makes this campaign so interesting. The two candidates for Vice President are men of accomplishment, knowledge and character. These are not fellows who are likely to come up with the wise-crack

Inspector Seeks Prevent Fires In Homes, Businesses

FIRE PREVENTION INSPECTOR . . . Cpt. Lyman Nethercutt

CHECKING BASEMENT . . . of building for fire hazards

EXPLAINING INSPECTOR REPORT . . . to a store operator.

FILING REPORTS . . . of the day's inspections.

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

Fire, even in this modern age, is one of the greatest killers and thieves man has ever known. Fire has stolen our nation's wealth . . . wealth enough in the past 10 years to build enough $20,000 homes to house all the inhabitants in a city of one million. Last year fire caused damage which totaled over one billion dollars. Fire killed over 2,200 children in the United States last year . . .

in one year alone, more than 13,000 of our countrymen were killed by fire.

In an effort to prevent fires and reduce the mounting fire toll, the City of Greenville and the fire department established its Fire Prevention Bureau.

The bureau was established April 10, 1958, when the Greenville City Council adopted the National Board of Fire Underwriters Codes, and made Cpt. Lyman Nethercutt Greenville's Fire Prevention Inspector and head of the bureau, which works under the fire department.

Nethercutt, a veteran firefighter, joined the department in 1943. He came to Greenville in 1941 with the prison maintenance department. Previously he had been employed by a Maury tobacco curer manufacturing firm.

live," says he has been well pleased with the cooperation the majority of the business men had given the fire prevention program. Nethercutt, who married the former Syble Allen of Ballards Cross Roads, is a member of the Greenville Moose Lodge and the Greenville Rescue Squad. The Nethercutts have two sons.

His hobbies include fishing and hunting when he can find time in his busy inspection schedule. Fire prevention is everyone's job, Nethercutt said, and should be practiced before one of the "statistics" caused by a fire was "a little girl who lived in your block . . . or your young nephew . . . or your own youngster!"

Pitt 4-H Clubbers In Spotlight At Session

Pitt County 4-Hers were in the state spotlight recently when they presented the health pageant at State 4-H Week. The pageant, "Rock and Roll to Health" was staged in William Neal Reynolds Coliseum before 1,500 onlookers.

Dr. Elizabeth Nielson, former faculty member of East Carolina College, wrote the pageant. Lois Garren (well known in Greenville for her role in "The Lost Colony" as Eleanor Dare, and in a starring role in New Bern's recent "The Third Frontier") directed the pageant. Dr. G. Earl Trevathan Jr., president of the Pitt County Medical Society, crowned the State King and Queen of Health.

There were three scenes in the pageant, the Beach, the Health High Gym and the Dairy Bar. These three areas were used by the healthy boys and girls to persuade the unhealthy boys and girls to participate in their health activities so they, too, would be healthy. When the unhealthy boys and girls promised to give up their unhealthy habits, they found that they were able to date and were invited to the Health High Hop.

As a part of the pageant, over 150 county health kings and queens were presented to the audience. Pitt County was represented by Alex Corbett of Fountain and Diane Whitehurst of Stokes. State king was Melvin Guy Williams of Duplin County and queen was Phyllis Ann Laton of Richmond County.

Those from Pitt County participating in the pageant included Lil Dilda, Pansy Jones, Carol Porter, Tommy Braxton, Monroe Waters, Carolyn Barnes, Mary Louis Hudson, Linda Evans, Mary Virginia Langston, Curtis Hardee, Gerald Childs, Jimmy Dilda, Melvin Haddock and Van Everette. Sandra Wade of Richmond, Va., summer school student at East Carolina College, had a leading role. R. O. Tharrington, assistant agricultural agent in Pitt County, served as master of ceremonies.

Committees sponsoring the presentation included:

Finance: J. Howard Moye, chairman; W. Alex Allen; Mrs. J. B. Speight; Mrs. Thomas Langston; Mrs. Sue B. May.

Property and scenery: Tommy Braxton; Mrs. Albert Bell; Mrs. Don Langston; Miss Mary Virginia Langston; Miss Lily L. Harper; Miss Jenny Lou Taylor.

Script: Sam Winchester; Howard Moye; Mrs. Herman Banker; Mrs. Helen Mohan; R. O. Tharrington; Mrs. Adelaide Dunn; Miss Carolyn Barnes.

Publicity: Alvin Taylor.

Costume: Mrs. Wiley Waters, Lil Dilda, Nesa Ann Page; Mrs. J. T. Manning Jr.; Andra Whitchard; Mrs. Joe Gay; Mrs. Mavis Johnson.

The state event is sponsored by the Medical Society of North Carolina.

Storms Pound U.S. Midsections

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Punishing storms drove deeper into the nation's midsection today, leaving at least two dead and seven injured and property damage in the thousands of dollars.

Sweeping out of the North Wednesday the line of squalls toppled trees and power lines, flooded streets and homes and smashed buildings and store windows in parts of Wisconsin, Illinois, Michigan, Indiana and Iowa.

Today, the Weather Bureau said locally severe thunderstorms with damaging winds and hail were still occurring over the middle Mississippi Valley and the Lower Great Lakes eastward into the Ohio Valley.

At Decatur, Mich., a construction worker was killed and three others were injured when 50 mile an hour winds blew down a half-built warehouse and they were working on. What the Weather Bureau said may have been a small tornado demolished a Kalamazoo, Mich., greenhouse.

Winds were clocked up to 75 miles an hour at St. Joseph, Mich., and Chicago's O'Hare International Airport, but air traffic at the latter continued uninterrupted.

One fisherman drowned off the Chicago lakefront when his boat overturned in the rising waters. In flood-besieged Tampa, Fla., the rain-swollen Hillsborough River crested Wednesday and officials said the worst was over.

The Rock of Gibraltar has been a British possession since 1713.

MORTARMEN—Young soldiers at The Infantry School, Fort Benning, Georgia, prepare to fire a round from Army's new 81-millimeter weapon during a recent training exercise. Option of direct enlistment to Airborne and Infantry Battle Groups, and Tank and Artillery Battalions of the Strategic Army Corps is offered to all young men under the Army's "CHOOSE-IT-YOURSELF" Program. Training of Army specialists like these infantrymen is thorough, and the work holds strong interest for men of action. Young men may enlist for specific fields and assignment and be guaranteed that they will get the type of work for which they have the most aptitude and the greatest interest.

that what this country needs is a good five-cent cigar. Either of them could be President of the United States with dignity and benefit to the country. Both have had wide experience in government. Cabot Lodge has this one great advantage; he has had more experience in dealing not only with the Russians but with all the new nations of the world than any American — more than any Secretary of State has had at any time.

What A TV Cost 25 Years Ago

If someone complains that a television set costs more today than it did 25 years ago, you'd lift an eyebrow. A quarter-century back, there were no television sets to be had — at any price! This same logic applies to the statement that "prescriptions cost more today than they used to cost." The drugs you now get didn't even exist until recent years. So the benefits these drugs bring . . . the rapid cures, the lives saved . . . could not be bought at any price. That's why we at Bissette's Drug Stores Say . . .

Oblivion Near For Lightships

WASHINGTON (AP) — The red-hulled lightships which have guided sailors off America's shores for 140 years are headed for oblivion, giving way to the business-like but ungainly "Texas Towers."

The U. S. Coast Guard, celebrating its 170th birthday today, nostalgically announced the changeover in the name of progress. It said the lightships' "memory will remain every fresh in the minds of seafaring men."

Plans were unveiled to replace at the rate of two a year, all but two of the 24 lightships with the towers similar to those used by Mexican gulf oil and sulphur producers.

The skeleton-beamed Texas towers are cheaper to build and operate and are more efficient. The Coast Guard figures they can be maintained at one-third the cost of lightships, will last half again as long as the ships' average 50 years and can beam their signals more effectively.

The first tower lightships will start a building early next year to replace vessels at Buzzards Bay, off Massachusetts, and Benton Reef, off Rhode Island.

The two lightships the Coast Guard wants to keep afloat, because they ride waters too deep for lower construction, operate along the Pacific northwest coast.

OVER 1550 PICNIC LUNCHEONS were served by the Greenville Moose Lodge to its members and families yesterday. Hundreds of the fried chicken dinners were taken home, and many more hundreds were consumed on the spot. Serving of the picnic dinners was continuous between 5:00 and 7:00 p.m. Local Women of The Moose played a prominent role in serving the food. (Photos by S. L. Rowland) least 10 gasoline stations in southern Vermont are selling gasoline from a single tank through differently labeled pumps at different prices. Atty. Gen. Thomas M. Debevoise says.

Different Labels And Price Tags

MONTPELIER, Vt. (AP) — At

The difference in price is as much as four cents a gallon. The attorney general warned that such a practice, if done knowingly by attendants, constitutes fraud.

Argentina And Israel Settle Kidnap Dispute

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israel and Argentina have settled their differences over the kidnaping of Adolf Eichmann, accused of directing the mass murder of six million Jews under Hitler. Israeli agents seized Eichmann in Argentina May 21 and whisked him off to Israel, where he now awaits trial as a war criminal. The Argentine government charged that Israel had infringed on Argentine sovereignty by acting without its knowledge or consent. It demanded Eichmann's return to Argentina.

A communique Wednesday night in Buenos Aires and Jerusalem said: "The governments of Israel and the Republic of Argentina, animated by the wish to comply with the U.N. Security Council resolution of June 23 in which hope was expressed that traditionally friendly relations between the two countries would be advanced, have decided to regard as closed the incident that arose out of the action by Israeli authorities which infringed the fundamental rights of the state of Argentina."

SMALL FRY GYMNASTS

With skill she recently acquired, Toby Caraz, 12, uses 30-minute free time period to work out on trampoline as others at camp watch.

Twelve-year-old Janie Madding gets instruction on balance bar executing single knee hand balance. Lienert likes way she does it.

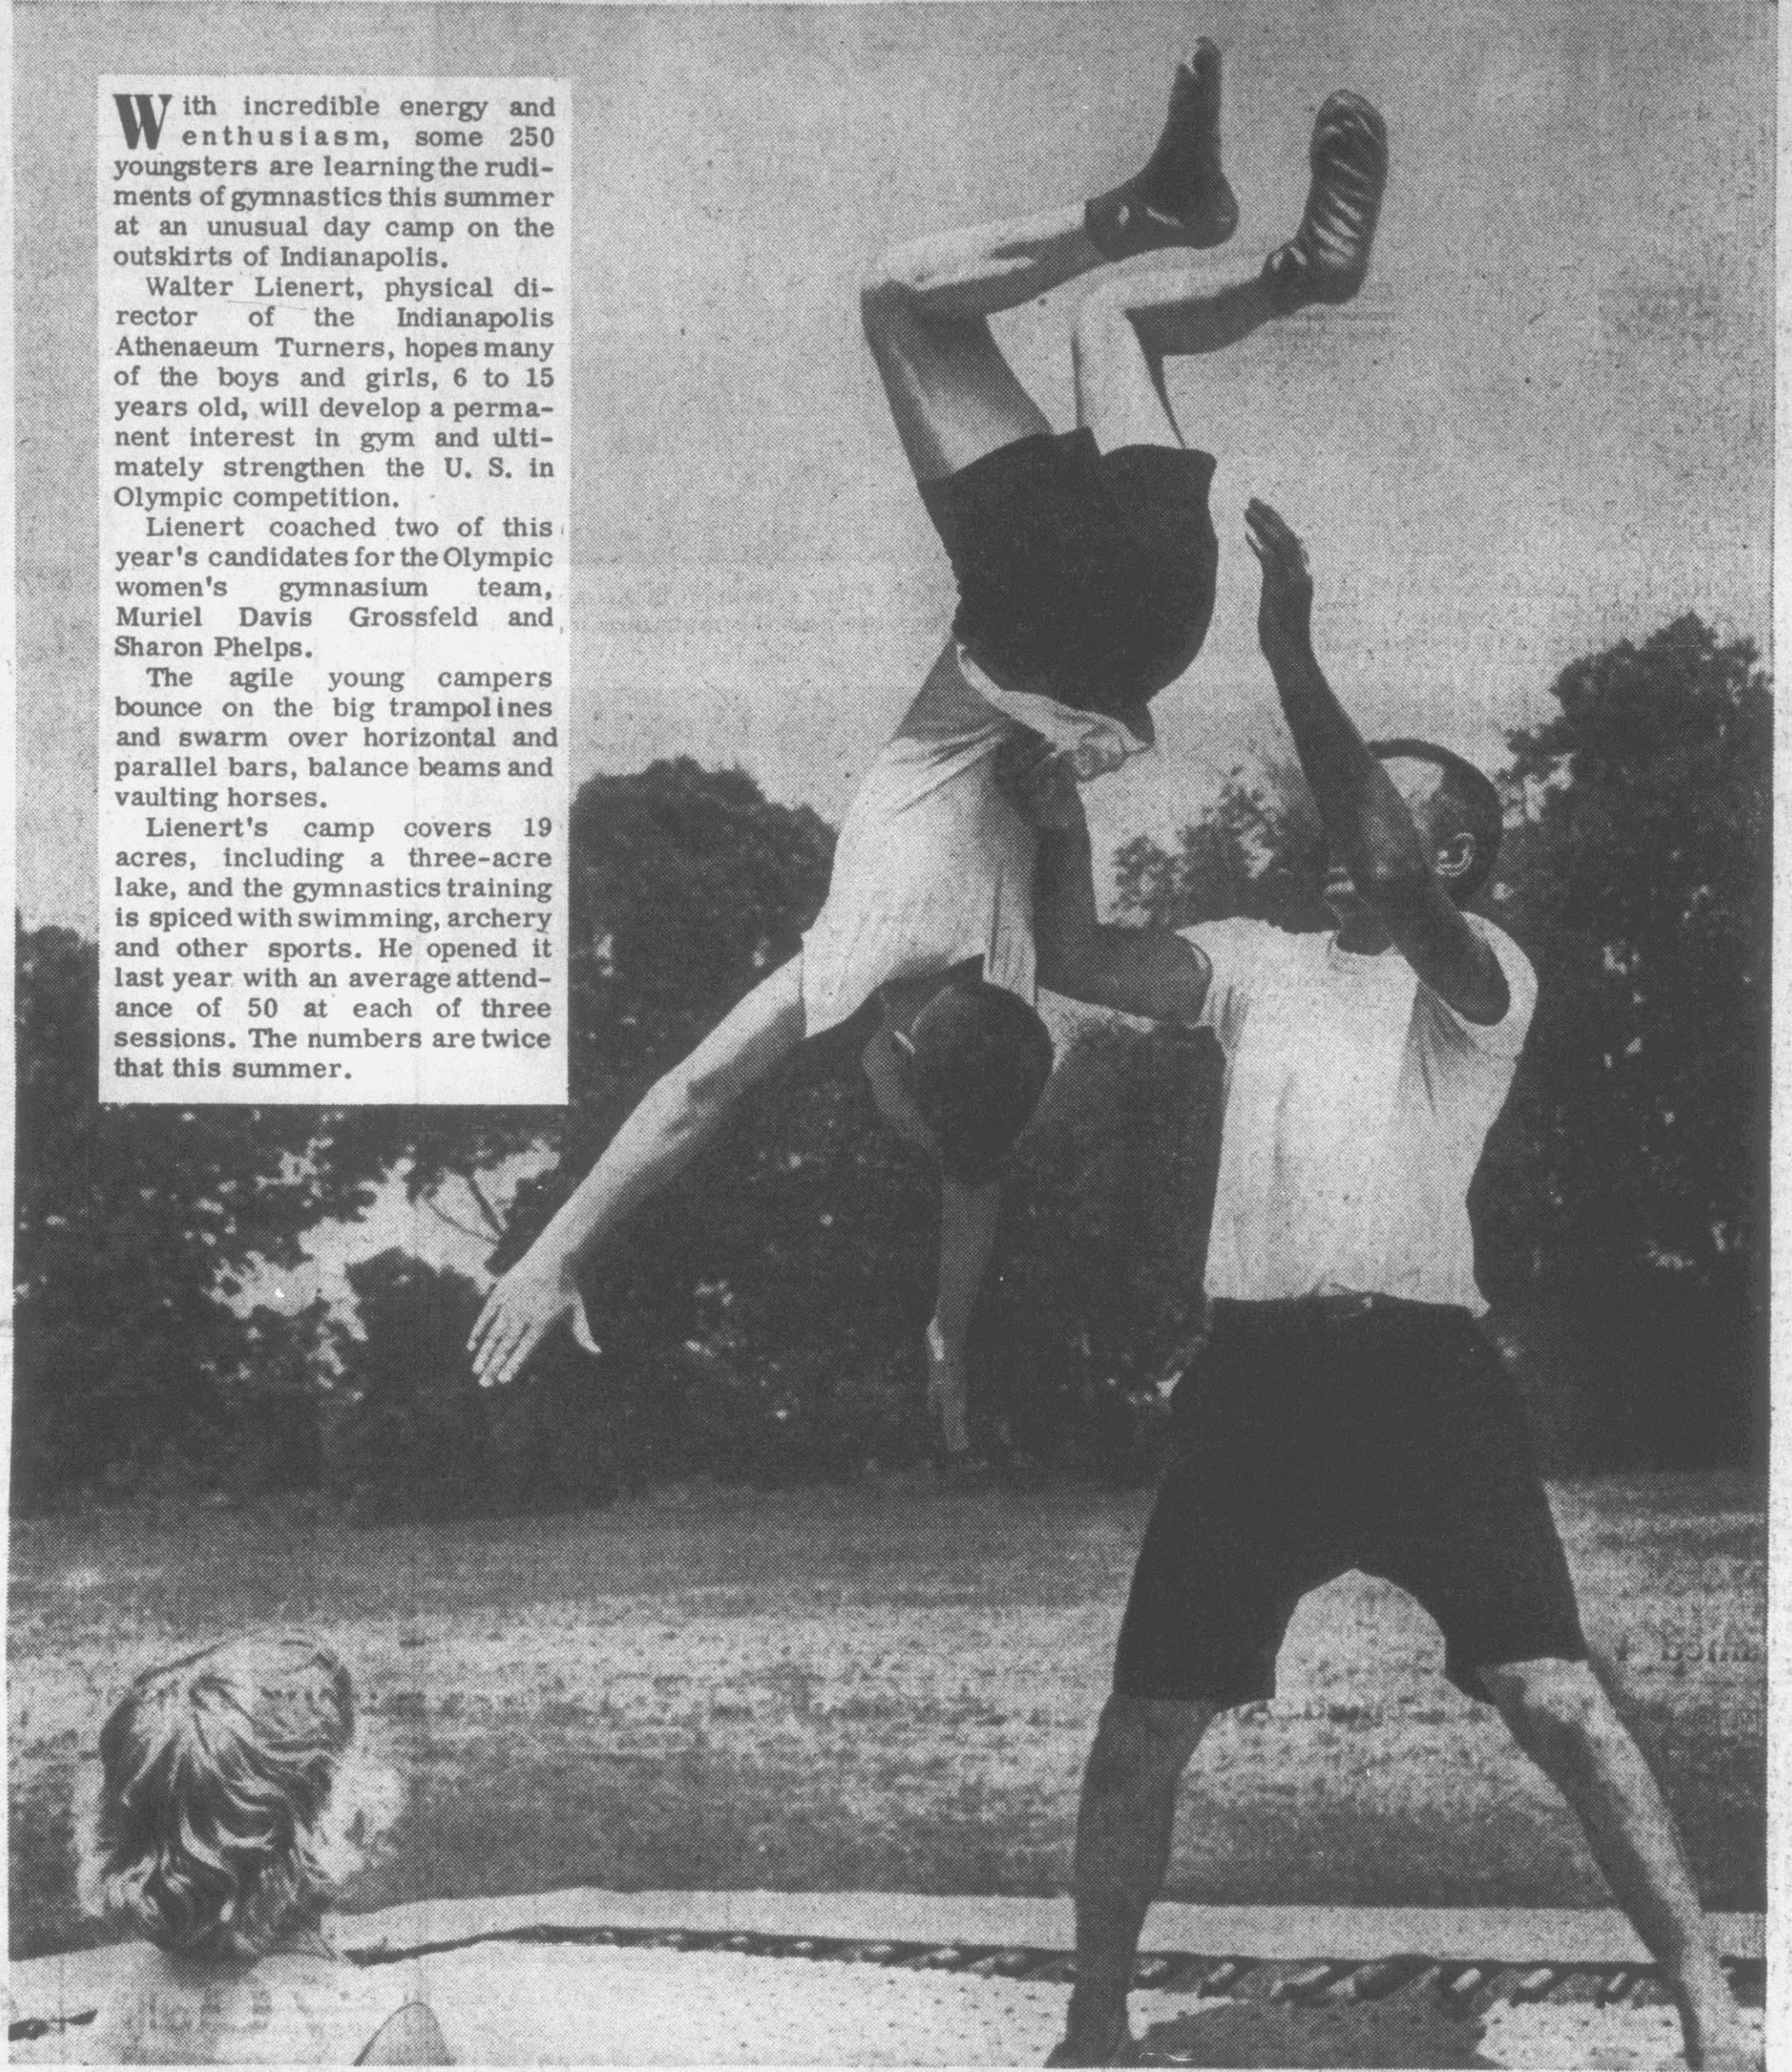

With incredible energy and enthusiasm, some 250 youngsters are learning the rudiments of gymnastics this summer at an unusual day camp on the outskirts of Indianapolis.

Walter Lienert, physical director of the Indianapolis Athenaeum Turners, hopes many of the boys and girls, 6 to 15 years old, will develop a permanent interest in gym and ultimately strengthen the U. S. in Olympic competition.

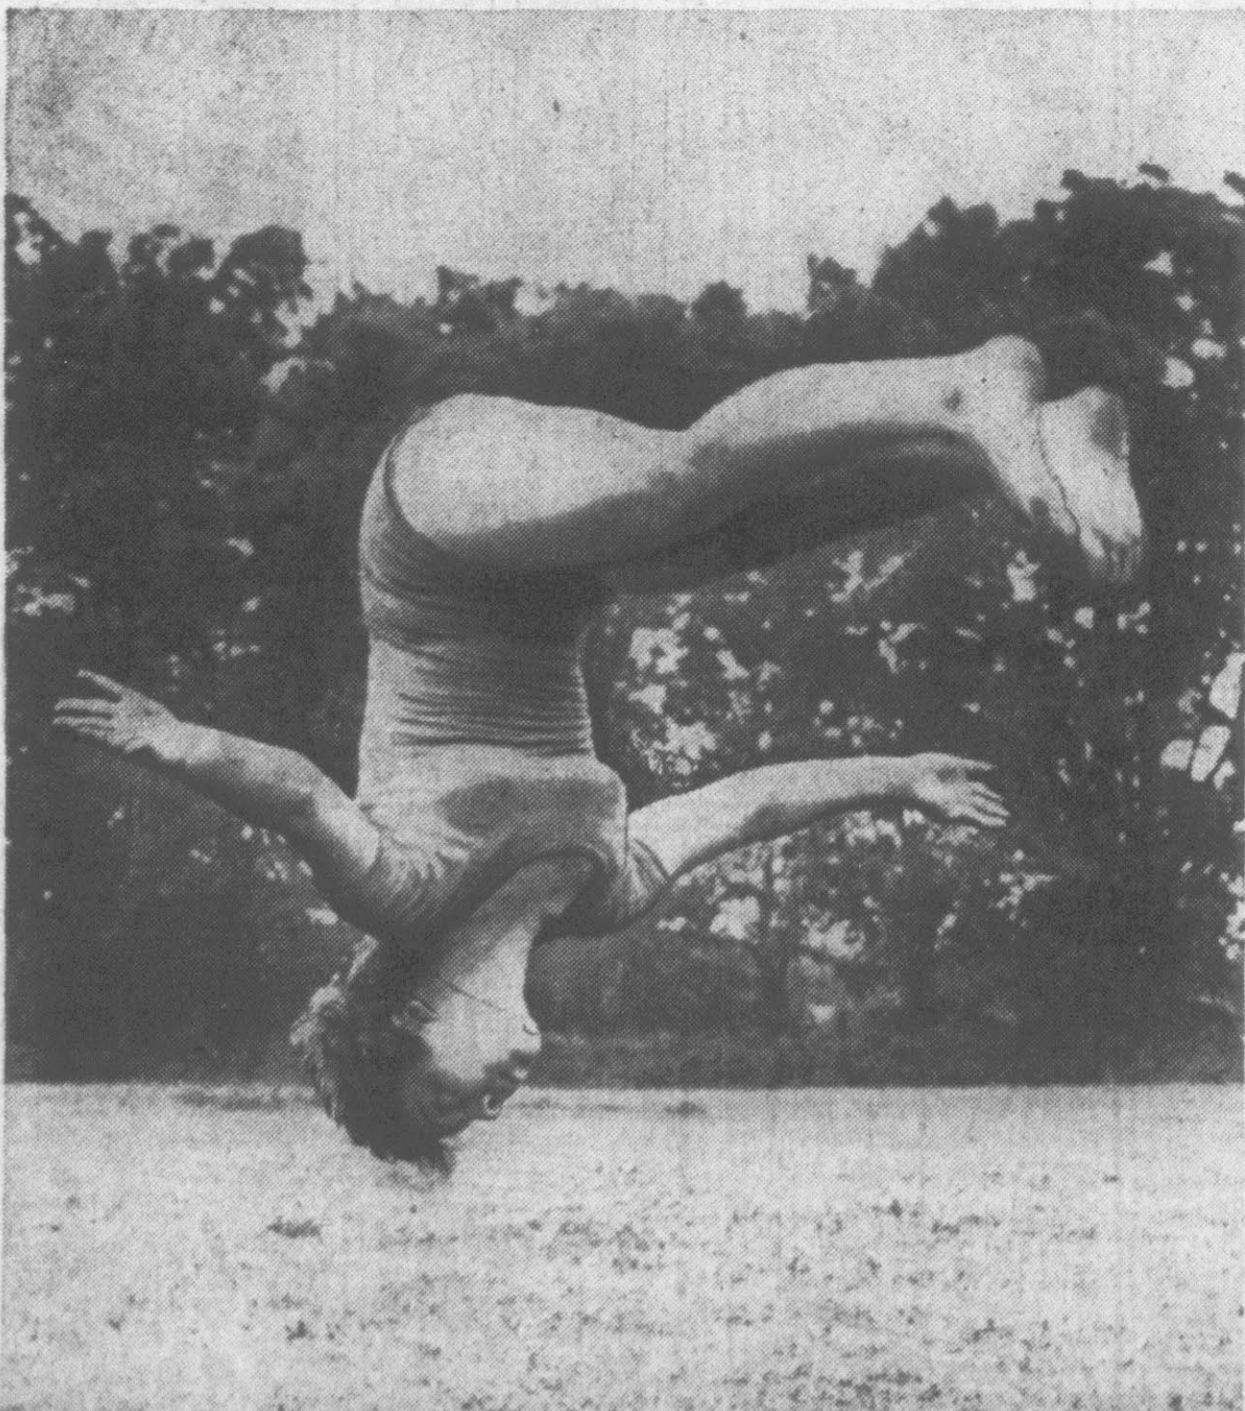

Lienert coached two of this year's candidates for the Olympic women's gymnasium team, Muriel Davis Grossfeld and Sharon Phelps.

The agile young campers bounce on the big trampolines and swarm over horizontal and parallel bars, balance beams and vaulting horses.

Lienert's camp covers 19 acres, including a three-acre lake, and the gymnastics training is spiced with swimming, archery and other sports. He opened it last year with an average attendance of 50 at each of three sessions. The numbers are twice that this summer.

UP—AND OVER. With instructor Walter Lienert guiding him, 11-year-old Paul Falkner does backwards somersault on trampoline.

Young Kristi Barkhimer executes back somersault in layout position from the grass.

Under watchful eyes of instructor Lienert, Bob Powell, 13, works with rings, while other young campers wait their turn.

Nixon-Kennedy Debates Felt Boon To Education

WASHINGTON (AP) — To most people, the proposed television debates between Sen. John F. Kennedy and Vice President Richard M. Nixon represent just another way the two men can campaign for the presidency. But to Dr. Ambrose Caliver they represent the greatest opportunity this country has ever had for a mass approach to adult civic education. He hopes to involve thousands of teachers and millions of students in a nationwide discussion of national issues facing the voters this fall. Final plans for the Kennedy-Nixon debates have not yet been worked out, although both candidates have agreed to participate. It is believed they will be carried by all three major TV networks, probably starting in September. Dr. Caliver, vice president of the Adult Education Assn. of the United States (AEAUS), outlined his high hopes and his tentative plans today. The plans are far from settled, and it's little wonder: He got the idea only three days ago while recuperating from major surgery, and he is working on it from a hospital bed. "We want to see discussion groups held in every city and town across the nation," he said. "It is entirely a local problem, and it can be handled within the present framework of adult education programs—in big groups or small, meeting in homes, churches, schools or wherever. "We in the association plan to provide study guides, which we hope local newspapers will print on the days of the debates. "We want the American people everywhere to watch and listen to the debates, and then to study and discuss the issues. This can be a great enterprise for citizenship education, and the involvement of citizens in a study of the issues and the fundamentals of our national life." Dr. Caliver also is chief of the adult education section of the U. S. Office of Education. But he emphasized he is working through AEAUS and his project has no connection with the government. He also emphasized that "this idea is approached from a strictly educational and nonpartisan point of view. He hopes to enlist the aid and cooperation of such organizations as the National Education Association, the General Federation of Women's Clubs, the League of Women Voters, the U. S. Chambers of Commerce, the American Library Association and the National University Extension Association.

Ayden Tennis Court Repairs Completed

THIS TENNIS COURT . . . has been recently repaired and improved, making it one of Ayden's best.

AYDEN—The city of Ayden recently completed repairs on the tennis court located on the grounds of the recreation center. The double court is paved and lighting has been provided for night use, making it one of the best in the city, Town Manager Cleveland Faylor said. The city enlarged the courts and improved them. Originally the court was a project of the Rotary Club here, who paved it some years ago.

'On A Lonesome Porch' Proves Very Popular Book At Library

Among the most widely read books being circulated in Greenville today is "On a Lonesome Porch" by Ovid Pierce of the East Carolina College faculty. Mrs. Jane Smith of the Sheppard Memorial Library staff, said this novel is popular because Pierce is a local author, interest in this most recent book has also revived interest in an earlier book by Pierce, "The Plantation." Discussing books which have been popular among readers at Sheppard Memorial Library, Mrs. Smith said the following have remained well read over a long period of time: "Hawaii" by James A. Michener, "From the Terrace" by John O'Hara, "Exquisite" by Leon Uris and "Advice and Consent" by Allen Drury. Other books on the "favorite" list of local readers include some which were the bases of movies: "Home from the Hill" by William Humphrey, "Ice Palace" by Edna Ferber, "Never so Few" by Tom T. Chamales and "On the Beach" by Nevill Shute.

Books by or about real personalities such as Jack Paar and Ika Chase seem to have a popular following also. "Beloved Infidel" by Sheila Graham, "I Kid You Not" by Jack Paar, "Three Fingers on the Left Hand" by Ika Chase and "That Certain Something" by Arlene Francis are well read. Some of the humorous books could be read for the title alone: "Don't Raise the Bridge (Lower the River)" by Max Wilk, "Never Trust a Naked Bus Driver" by Jack Douglas, and "Let the Crabgrass Grow" by H. Allen Smith. Current Events People seem interested, also, in books which have some connection with current events. Books on Alaska and Hawaii are popular. Books relating to politics, particularly now, are of "overwhelming" interest to readers. For instance, Greenville readers have been reading a lot about "John Kennedy, a Political Profile" by James M. Burns, "The Facts about Nixon" by William Costello and "Politics is Your Business" by Baumer. Several new books on politics will be available soon.

Other political books relate to Stuart Symington, and Nixon and Rockefeller. During spring and summer, books on nature (to identify snakes, birds, etc. seen during the summer), lawns, flowers, gardening, and wedding etiquette are a few subjects that revive interest. Best Sellers Some of the best sellers locally read include: "The View from the Forlith Floor" by White, "The Constant Image" by Davenport, "The Lonely Ambition" by Chase, "Set this House on Fire" by Styron, "Diamond Head" by Gilman, "A Distant Trumpet" by Horgan, "May this House be Safe from Tigers" by King, "Folk Medicine" by Jarvis, "Mr. Citizen" by Harry Truman and "The Enemy Within" by Kennedy. A new book which shows an immediate trend toward popularity, Mrs. Smith said, is "Pilgrims in Paradise" by Slaughter, largely because of the author's reputation as a good writer.

Pageant Depicts Mormon Story

By GEORGE W. CORNELL AP Religion Writer

PALMYRA, N.Y. (AP) — It's a strange story, drawn from an abstruse religious strand of American history. Tonight, and for two ensuing nights, it's being told anew in epic drama. There will be surging crowds, earthquakes, expeditions, prophecies and prayers, crashing thunder, crumbling cities, wars and a vision won. These, and other events, are depicted on the broad slope of Hill Cumorah south of here in a spectacular religious pageant. Called "America's Witness for Christ," it is presented annually by the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints (Mormon). The 130th anniversary of the church's founding is this year. "That gives it special significance for us," says Gerald G. Smith, president of the church's Eastern States Mission. The pageant is staged in a 100-acre amphitheater seating 50,000. It tells an extraordinary tale of an ancient migration to this continent from Palestine in 600 B.C., of a flourishing but ill-fated civilization whose people were visited by Jesus. The episodes in ancient America come from the Book of Mormon, whose contents assertedly were taken from golden plates found buried on the hill here by a young farmer, Joseph Smith, founder of the church in 1830. About 650 performers and technicians take part in the pageant, which unfolds on a sweep of five major and 20 secondary stages across the hillside.

False Alarm, Resumed Talking

MILWAUKEE (AP) — A woman telephoned police that she feared a friend with whom she had been talking on the telephone had collapsed. She asked that a squad car be sent to investigate. When officers arrived they found the woman talking again on the telephone. Her explanation: She suddenly remembered she had forgotten to turn off her washing machine, and in the midst of her conversation had dropped the telephone and ran to the basement.

Accepted, And Then Robbed Him

SAN FERNANDO, Calif. (AP) — Joseph Judge, 23, a salesman at a San Fernando jewelry store, saw two men looking in the shop window Wednesday and urged them to step inside for a better look. They did and robbed the place of $3,000 worth of diamonds and $100 in cash.

Expect Upswing In Employment

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Labor Department predicts a modest upswing in employment by mid-September, a trend normal for that time of the year. After taking a national survey, the department said Tuesday the moderate increases would come principally in auto centers as work starts on 1961 cars and trucks. Payrolls in about half of major steel areas are expected to move up in line with renewed demand from the auto industry.

Rural CD Active 'In' the Field'

Residents of rural America's 5,000,000 farms are being urged by civil defense officials to plan now for their safety from nuclear attack as they consider ordinary hazards during Farm Safety Week, July 24-30.

Leo A. Hoeh, director of the Office of Civil and Defense Mobilization, points out that "the safety of the nation depends upon our farmers being prepared not only to reduce their human and property losses through accidents. They also should take the necessary steps to insure that if an enemy ever attacks us with nuclear, biological, or chemical weapons, our farmers would know how to survive, recover, and produce the food and other products upon which victory would depend."

A broad rural public information program is now underway in 3,000 counties. It stresses the relatively simple methods by which people can develop their own self-protection against the fallout hazard of a nuclear attack—the principal threat to people who live in rural areas.

Family fallout shelters are urged as the least expensive and most effective means of saving the greatest number of people from a nuclear attack. Shelters would be highly effective to protect families against tornadoes. All shelters should be equipped with a two-week supply of food and water, a battery radio, first aid kit, flashlights, bedding and other survival items, according to OCDM.

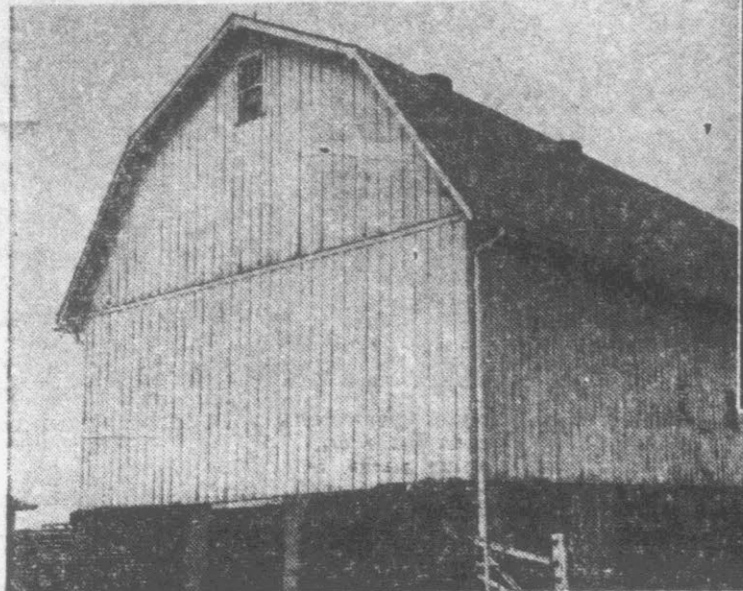

Family fallout shelters cost as little as $150.00 when constructed on a do-it-yourself basis. When built by contractors, the cost ranges from $500.00 upwards.

Precautionary reinforcement of barns and outbuildings can lessen the hazards of fallout on livestock. The more massive the materials between livestock and fallout, the less radiation will come through to injure or kill the animals. Steel and concrete are good shielding materials from fallout. Earth costs nothing and also is effective for shielding. Even bales of straw or wood, if thick enough, can keep out most radiation.

Detailed information on shelters, treatment of fallout-contaminated soils, what fallout-contaminated foods could be eaten and how they should be prepared, and other survival information is now available to rural Americans through public meetings sponsored by county civil defense directors. Printed material also is available from county directors or by writing to the OCDM Rural Activities Office, Battle Creek, Mich.

Shelter for livestock for protection against fallout was improvised in this barn by using bales of straw as a shield against potentially deadly "post-attack" radiation. Heavy concrete walls, with straw shielding windows, would protect livestock in pens on the barn's lower floor. Barn's upper floor (right) would be covered four bales deep directly above the pens. A shielded room for caretakers, and tractor-powered feed grinder and automatic feeder complete the shelter. (OCDM Photo)

FALLOUT SHELTER built by Louis Severance adjacent to his home near Akron, Mich., includes a special ventilation and escape hatch (right), an entrance to his basement, tiny kitchen, running water, sanitary facilities, and a sleeping and living area (inset) for the family of four. The shelter cost about $1,000. It has a 10-inch reinforced concrete ceiling with thick earth cover, and concrete walls. Severance says, "Ever since I was convinced what damage H-bombs can do, I've wanted to build the shelter. Just as with my chicken farm, when there's a need I build it." (OCDM Photo)

DUAL PURPOSE fallout shelter and carport-patio is shown under construction at the farm of John Holden near Hickory Corners, Mich. The shelter, to be used also for food storage, cost $1,200. With the carport and patio now being added, the cost totaled $2,300. Holden's family of three, and eight neighbors, gave the shelter a realistic workout recently when a small tornado struck nearby. An entrance to the shelter is in the foreground. (OCDM Photo)

RURAL CIVIL DEFENSE meeting in Henry County, Ind., takes place in the Prairie Township fire hall at Mt. Summit, Ind. Speaker is Robert D. Wolf, the county civil defense director, who has held similar meetings throughout the county. Civil defense gatherings such as this are part of a nationwide rural civil defense program to teach persons how to survive nuclear attack and aid the nation's recovery efforts. Experts say any area could be affected by fallout. (OCDM Photo)

'PARTY LINE' for the nuclear age is this two-way radio, one of four control units in a radio warning network operated by the Henry County, Ind., civil defense organization. There are some 30 other units in the network, which exists primarily to warn the county's remotest rural population of tornadoes or nuclear attack. Residents of towns and cities would get the warning from siren systems. (OCDM Photo)

Wed 25 Years, Now 3 Toddlers

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Twenty-five years of married life without children—and then, suddenly, three blond blue-eyed triplet boys toddling around their suburban home.

That's the story Mr. and Mrs. James E. Fornero, both 45, told Tuesday when, tearful but smiling, they walked out of a Los Angeles adoption court.

Richard, Robert and George, aged 2½ years, now belong legally to the Forneros. More than a year ago they were put up for adoption by a mother whose husband had deserted her. The three youngsters, nearly identical in looks, lived with the Forneros until the adoption was completed.

Twins Unable To Withstand Colds

LUXEMBURG, Wis. (AP)—An autopsy report disclosed that 10-month-old girls found dead in their cribs were identical twins born without spleens and died of the effects of a common cold.

A pathologist said that without spleens Carleen and Sharleen Romdenne of Luxemburg, a hamlet in northeastern Wisconsin, did not have sufficient antibodies to fight off the effects of colds.

The twins had been examined for colds by a doctor Saturday but otherwise appeared healthy. They were found dead by their mother early Monday.

Shooting And Dancing On Tap

CHAPEL HILL — "There will be pistol shooting on the range and dancing in the streets."

That is not an uprising, but a statement of some of the events scheduled for the annual convention of the N.C. Police Executives Association at the Institute of Government of the University of North Carolina here August 3 to 5.

Pistol matches begin at the Institute of Government Firing Range at 8 a.m. Thursday. Policemen who wish to practice may use the range all day Wednesday in target practice.

Wives will accompany the delegates, and square dancing and street dancing will take place at 9 p.m. Thursday on the grounds of the Knapp Building, following the 6:30 outdoor supper and presentation of awards.

W.A. McCall, Charlotte detective, is president of the N.C. Police Executives Association.

"Pressing problems of law enforcement on which police executives need to take counsel" is the theme of the major sessions on Friday. Other officers of the association are: vice presidents, A.R. Sluder, Asheville; Paul M. Shore, Thomasville; Col. Dave Lambert, Raleigh; L.E. Williams of the SBI in Raleigh; sergeant at arms, Chief Jesse James of Charlotte.

Suggests Brooms For Policemen

TORRINGTON, Conn. (AP)—A city councilman suggests that brooms and dustpans be part of standard police cruiser equipment.

His proposal stemmed from a complaint that glass from shattered headlights was on the streets for three hours after a recent accident.

Given A Handout From Panhandler

BALTIMORE (AP)—As Lee Poist, a soft drink supervisor, sat in a truck the other day, a man approached and asked him for money.

To teach the man a lesson, Poist thought, he poured out his own sob story about how tough things were financially. Then he gasped as the panhandler pulled out a roll of $17 and peeled off $1 for Poist.

Poist says he'll keep it for life.

Receives Rent: One Red Rose

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—John W. Early, Jr., an auto repair man here, received his first red rose—a year's rental for a church.

As the descendant in line it came to him for his great-great-grandfather, Baron Henry William Steigal, founder of the town of Mahalem, Pa. The Baron deeded property for a church with the stipulation that the rent would be a red rose annually, payable in June forever.

Three Teams Holding Edge For Title

Carolina Dairy, Roanoke Rapids And Graniteers Capture Wins

By JOHNNY HUDSON

An outsider and two home clubs were perched in the best position to grab the Civitan-sponsored Softball Tournament district crown this morning following the second round of action last night.

J. P. Stevens of Roanoke Rapids and Graniteers were the lone clubs still undefeated after last night's full-scale competition. But Carolina Dairy, ousted in its first game, battled back for a win last night and was slated to step aside to-night while the other four teams attempted to knock each other out.

In last night's results the Graniteers relied on Jessel Curry to stop Goldsboro 6-3; J. P. Stevens outlasted Cox Armature 2-0; and Carolina Dairy rallied on Earl Tripp's homer to defeat Washington in extra innings.

Beaten twice by Goldsboro in exhibition games, Jessel Curry was the winning factor for the Graniteers last night against the dazed service outfit from Seymour Johnson.

Curry slapped the clamps on the highly-touted hitting team with a nifty two-hitter and punched a couple of base hits himself, including a two-run homer in the first inning.

The Portsmouth showman stole the spotlight of the early-evening contest with his four-bagger and pitching, but to top it off, he stole home with an insurance run in the sixth. The steal was pulled off on the catcher's throw back to the pitcher.

The Graniteers opened up full blast on Goldsboro starter Gene Sealy in the first with a five-run production.

Mack Roebuck walked and scored on Ike Riddick's triple. Tingle was hit by a pitched ball and scurried home on Bobby Perry's double.

And then came Curry with his lose-the-ball act.

In the sixth, Curry was safe on a debated error, went to second on a fielders choice and stole third and home.

Goldsboro scored two unearned runs in the third and added another in a short-lived seventh inning rally.

J. P. Stevens, Roanoke Rapids representative, scored a couple of unearned runs in the third inning to nip Cox Armature 2-0 in the second game last night.

The Roanoke Rapids contingent scored in the third with a walk, Simms' double, and "Tadpole" Cates' miff of Gene Haskins' short fly to centerfield.

The Greenville team could touch the pitching of George Everette for only two hits, Charlie Yates yielded only four hits in being charged with the defeat.

Earl Tripp hit a dramatic homer over the left field fence—deepest spot of the Guy Smith field—in the bottom half of the eighth last night to give Carolina Dairy a 4-2 win over Washington.

The victory for the Dairy carried them into the semi-finals of the week-long tourney tomorrow night. For Washington, it was their second loss, eliminating them from warfare.

Trounced by Goldsboro 14-1 Tuesday night, Washington built up a 2-0 margin on single tallies in the fourth and fifth before bowing to a late-scoring surge by the Dairy.

A couple of successive walks and a single by Harold Smith sent Gene Moss in to relieve Haywood Outland in the fourth. Moss retired the side without anymore scoring but was the victim of Henry Bishop's homer in the fifth.

The Dairy tied it in the bottom half of the fifth when Pete Tripp walked and scored on Tom Boyd's triple. Boyd raced home with the tying run on Moss' bunt.

In the eighth, Brownie Tripp led off with a single and moved to second on a sacrifice, setting the stage for Tripp's game-winning clout.

Tonight, the feature game will involve the tourney's undefeated clubs—Graniteers and Roanoke Rapids—tapering off in at 8:30. Prior to that, Cox Armature and Goldsboro meet at 7:30 to decide the fourth team advancing to the semi-finals.

Results: Goldsboro . . . 002 000 1-3 2 0 Graniteers . . . 500 001 x-6 5 0 Sealy, Tepton (1), Walker (3) and Cielzes, Lee (5); Curry and Roebuck.

R. Rapids . . . 002 000 0-2 4 0 Cox Armature . . . 000 000 x-0 2 1 Everette and Taylor; Yates and McRoy.

Washington . . . 000 110 00-2 3 2 Caro. Dairy . . . 000 020 02-4 7 2 Housley and Bishop; Outland, Moss (4) and Dash.

STUDY SITUATION—Graniteers players study Goldsboro pitching from the bench in last night's Civitan-sponsored Softball Tournament. The Greenville team won the contest, 6-3.

Cards Move With Boyer's Hot Bat; Bucs Defeated

By JOE REICHLER Associated Press Sports Writer It's no accident that the latest spurt of the St. Louis Cardinals—six straight victories—coincides with the return to batting form of Ken Boyer.

A week ago, Boyer returned to the lineup and immediately began hitting. The Cards responded by running up a winning streak that Wednesday had them in third place, 3 1/2 games behind league leading Pittsburgh and only half a game behind second place Milwaukee.

Holmberg Behind As Rains Come

SOUTHAMPTON, N. Y. (AP)—Ron Holmberg, the second-seeded slugger from Brooklyn, N. Y., was in jeopardy today in a suspended match with Allen Fox of Los Angeles in the rain soaked 72nd Southampton Invitation Tennis Tournament.

The Holmberg-Fox match will be resumed with Fox leading, 6-4, 6-4 and Holmberg ahead, 40-15 on his own serve.

In another third-round match, Chris Crawford of Piedmont, Calif., leads Ramsey Earnhart, Ventura, Calif., 6-2.

"I better play well right from the start," Holmberg said, "or I'll be out of this tournament."

Gastonia Gains Teen-er Finals

GREENEVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Gastonia, N.C., has gained the finals of the Southern VFW Teener baseball tournament here, and will play the winner of a game between Calhoun, Ga., and Greenville tonight for the championship.

In Wednesday's games, Gastonia defeated Marianna, Fla., 13-1, and Greenville 12-1. Calhoun defeated Miami, Fla., 4-1 after losing earlier to Greenville 11-0.

Winner of the regional tournament moves to the national finals beginning Aug. 17 at Hersey, Pa.

Thomas, Hedricks Cop First Round Victories

KANSAS CITY—North Carolina's golf prestige took a sharp lift yesterday as Greenville's Bobby Thomas and Don Hedrick of Lexington joined 63 other golfers, half the starting field, in the second round of the 13th U.S.G.A. Amateur Golf Tournament today.

Thomas and Hedrick became the first North Carolina junior golfers to advance past first round competition in several years with respective match play wins over Robert Zender and John Dement.

Two matches were scheduled for each of the golfers today on the 6,586-yard par 35-36-71 Milburn Country Club course.

Thomas was scheduled to meet Mark Mathison of Fargo, N. D. in his first match early this morning.

Yesterday, Thomas pulled even with his long-hitting foe at the turn and came home with a 2-1 win.

The match was nip-and-tuck with the lead switching hands several times. After losing holes seven and eight, Bobby battled back by taking nine, 10, and 11. Zender won the 13th but Thomas cinched it by taking 17.

The turning point, according to Pro Harold Thomas, came on the 14th hole when Thomas sank a 30-foot putt to halve the hole.

Thomas was two over par on the first nine holes and was shooting an even par on the back nine when closing out Zender on the 17th.

Johnny Stevens, Kansas men's champion from Wichita; Gary Shemano, San Francisco; Rick Schultz, Aurora, Ill.; and Bob Kirova of Sharon, Mass. shot even par in defeating their opponents in first round play.

Final Touches For East-West All-Stars

GREENSBORO (AP)—Coaches of the East and West high school all-star football teams put final polishing touches to their teams today with the 12th annual classic only a day away.

They meet Friday night at Greensboro Senior High Stadium.

And from every indication the East will rely on the passing arm of Wilmington's Earl Cole. The West devoted considerable time Wednesday on plans to cope with just such an attack.

Coaches Roger Thrift and Roy Brown put the East through a scrimmage session Wednesday. Cole's aerials repeatedly found the waiting arms of Jerry Spivey, end and teammate from Wilmington.

Also on the receiving end of the tosses were Leonard Baxley, Lumberton; Jimmy Jordan, Dunn; Sam Green, Roxboro, and Phil Ennis, Smithfield.

The West's single wing offense came in for work by the East's defenders. Coaches Thrift and Brown sewed together a defensive line averaging better than 200 pounds end to end.

Red Wilson and Frank Barger, West co-coaches, concentrated on offensive strategy in a dummy workout. The West wound up heavy drills Tuesday.

With an eye cocked to the East's passing, Wilson and Barger also sent their charges through a thorough defensive drill with special emphasis on the aerial game.

The West's offense will apparently be guided by tailback Eddie Keasler of Salisbury. Joining him will be fullback Phil Rufford of Charlotte. Garinger, wingback c k Richard Jackson of Hickory and old Marty Riessen of Hinsdale, Ill., blocking back Lyle Bialock of Win-

Scores Ace

Edgar Exum, eleven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph D. Exum, of Greenville Boulevard, playing on the course of the Greenville Golf and Country Club, accomplished the dreams of many older golfers yesterday afternoon, scoring a hole-in-one on the courses' number three hole.

The younger Exum scored his ace with a Three-wood at approximately a distance of 145 yards. Playing with the Exum was Hank Worsley of Greenville.

Dykes Wants Year Contract In Big Deal Involving Managers

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Whether the most unusual trade in baseball history becomes finalized depends on today's meeting in Cleveland between Indians General Manager Frank Lane and Jimmy Dykes.

Jimmy is one of the pawns involved in Wednesday's unprecedented trade of managers, with the 63-year-old Dykes going to Cleveland and the 45-year-old Joe Gordon to Detroit.

Farrell Gets Last Shot For Trip To Rome

By MURRAY ROSE
Associated Press Sports Writer

DETROIT (AP) — Jeff Farrell, whose valiant attempt to make the Olympic swimming team has stirred the sports fans of the nation, gets his last chance today.

The courageous convalescent goes in the 200-meter freestyle race which could earn him a place on the 800-meter relay team—the only spot now open for America's fastest freestyle swimmer.

And he has high hopes of making it.

"I'll go better in the 200," he said Wednesday night. "It's longer and the start doesn't count as much."

First the spindly-legged, 23-year-old Kansan must finish in the first 16 of the later afternoon heats to qualify for the evening semifinals. Then he'll have to get in the top eight to qualify for Friday night's final. The first six in the final will earn the trip to Rome.

Jeff barely missed achieving his goal in the 100-meter freestyle final by a sudden swerve to the right and one-tenth of a second Wednesday night.

The swerve about 30 meters from the finish sent him against the rope lane marker and cost him the precious fraction of a second that meant the difference between second and third. The first two only qualified for the team.

Lance Larson, 20-year-old speedster from Los Angeles, won the final in 55 seconds flat. Bruce Hunter, a Harvard senior, finished second in 56 flat to capture second and the seat on the plane to Rome. Farrell was clocked in .56.1.

"I just didn't swim a good race," Jeff said later. He made no excuses. He is not the kind who does. This is the fellow who underwent an emergency appendectomy a bare week before the final and swam three days after the operation.

Miss Von Salza, the blonde baroness from the West Coast, is the American record holder in the spring freestyle.

Port City Club Captures Title

WILMINGTON (AP)—The Wilmington American Legion junior baseball team didn't want to make the return trip to Cherryville. It ended the state championship playoff here Wednesday night 8-1.

Wilmington's Post 10 thus won its second straight state junior title. In the best-of-seven series, Wilmington whipped Lincolnton-Cherryville four games to one.

The victory enabled Wilmington to play host to the six-state regional playoff, scheduled to begin here Aug. 15.

Gets Telegram

Bobby Thomas and his family, in Kansas City for the USGA Junior Amateur Tournament, expressed thanks by telephone, last night, for the telegram which they received from Greenville well-wishers.

The telegram, wishing luck to the Greenville youth in his bid for the National title, contained some sixty signatures.

Nashua, in three campaigns, won 22 races in 30 starts and earned $1,288,565.

I heard Jimmy agree to take over the Indians for the balance of the season. The deal would never have been made had Jimmy not agreed to it. I just can't understand his change in attitude."

Dykes, who remained in New York, saw a suddenly aroused Tiger team, which had lost nine of its last 11, pound out a 12-2 victory over the Yankees Wednesday night.

He told newsmen: "I understood on the telephone I was to get the same terms in Cleveland that Gordon had. What sense would it make for me to go to Cleveland just for seven weeks? I could stay out and still get paid for the balance of the season by Detroit."

"Unless I get next year written into the contract, I will quit and go home. I can't take a seven-week situation in which the players and the manager know that the manager will get fired at the end of that time."

Dykes originally planned to join the Indians in Cleveland Friday. Now he has decided instead to confer with Lane today.

"I don't anticipate any trouble with Lane," he said, "because he was very nice to me on the telephone."

Jimmy might be due for a rude awakening. Lane gave no indication he intends to give Dykes a longer contract than the one he originally offered.

Should Dykes take over the Indians, there also will be a swap of coaches, Luke Appling going to Cleveland as Dykes assistant and Jo-Jo White accompanying Gordon to Detroit. The other coaches will remain with their present clubs.

The managerial swap originated three weeks ago as a joke and was resumed seriously 10 days ago when both clubs fell on evil days.

"Why was it made?" explained DeWitt. "You do one of two things. You either get a lot of new players or you get a new manager. We got a lot of new players and that didn't help. So we got a new manager."

Lane said the change could bring a psychological lift to the Indians who had become dispirited by their recent failures.

"The boys were also pressing. They were also pressing. It was apparent to me that Gordon also had become dispirited. In fact, Joe had come almost to the point of giving up. I couldn't accept that kind of attitude. I felt it would rub off on the players."

Norm Siebern, who played left field for the Yankees, is playing first base for Kansas City.

In scoring his 45th triumph, 33 by knockouts, the slugger from Chicago made it look easy by knocking Ellis in 2:30 of the first round.

Hank, 161, sparred with Ellis 15 1/2 for the first two minutes of the fight. Then he let go a left hook which straightened the Chicago middleweight and followed with a right to the head, finishing off Ellis.

Because of the quick knockout, a six-round preliminary fight between Carl Hubbard of Philadelphia and T. J. Jones of Chicago was hurried on the nationally televised program. The match was awarded to Hubbard on a split decision.

Bill Hartack, in riding 58 winners during the Gulstream Park meeting, tied the record set by Joe Culumone in 1950.

Olympic Swimming Hopes Slip As Farrell Loses Out

By DAVE DILES
Associated Press Sports Writer

DETROIT (AP)—The Olympic swimming hopes of the United States had slipped a notch today, with people's choice Jeff Farrell out of the picture in at least two events.

The lithe sprinter lost his lion-hearted bid to qualify for three events by one-tenth of a second. He still can gain a berth on the Olympic squad by placing in the top six in the 200-meter freestyle—but even that would enable him to compete in just the 800-free-style relay.

Just as Farrell's amazing comeback from an emergency appendectomy eight days ago made him the overwhelming favorite of the gallery of 6,000 as he roared through the preliminary heats, so his failure to make the team Wednesday night caused more of a stir than the 11 men and women who nailed down Olympic berths.

It was the third setback in the U.S. swimming and diving trials at Brennan Pools.

Earlier, the country's best hope in the breaststroke, Ron Clark of the University of Michigan, was disqualified in the preliminaries for shoulder dipping. And Joe Albre of San Diego, until recently the country's second fastest sprint freestyler, failed to survive the preliminary heats.

Olympic officials tried to hide their disappointment over Farrell's elimination, but it is apparent that U. S. chances in the 100-meter freestyle and the 400-meter medley relay are weakened.

"We're disappointed, naturally, after Jeff made such a superb effort," said Olympic swimming coach Gas Sager. "But we have many fine young swimmers who are doing very well and we expect to be strong in the Olympic competition all down the line."

The Olympic swimming will be held in Rome starting Aug. 26.

Paula Jean Pope of Santa Ana, Calif., and Patsy Willard of Mesa, Ariz., earned Olympic berths by placing one-two in the three-meter springboard diving. Three-time Olympic diver June Irwin finished fifth among the eight finalists. Sam Hall and Gary Toban earlier won places in the men's springboard.

Lance Larson of the University of Southern California and Bruce Hunter of Cambridge, Mass., won places in the 100-meters freestyle.

Bill Mulliken of Oxford, Ohio, earned a place on the team by placing first in the 200-meter breaststroke. Alan Somers, Indiana University star, and Gene Lenz of Santa Maria, Calif., were one-two in the 400-meter freestyle.

Completing the early Olympic winners were 16-year-old Chris Von Salza and 14-year-old Carolyn Wood in the women's 100-meter freestyle.

Miss Von Salza, the blonde baroness from the West Coast, is the American record holder in the spring freestyle.

Farmville scored their win on the strength of 10 hits, which were divided evenly among five players, Eddie Allen, Eddie Evans, Grady Moseley, Bobby Corbett, and Dixon Sauls, each rapped two hits each to snatch the win.

Farmville hurler, Dixon Sauls, pitched five-hit ball against the Ayden nine, holding the visitors to scattered hits. Ayden's lone run came in the fifth inning. The losing pitcher was Stokes.

As a result of their win in yesterday's action, Farmville will play host to the winner of the Smithfield section tonight at 8:00 p.m. If the Farmville nine wins this contest tonight, they will advance, playing the winner of the Jacksonville section Friday night.

Score by innings:

Hank In Line For Title Shot

CHICAGO (AP) — Hammering Henry Hank, bitter despite his first-round knockout over Rudy Ellis in Chicago Stadium Wednesday night, is going rest and play a waiting game.

Hank has scored six victories in seven fights this year and wants a shot at the middleweight championship—either one.

The NBA title is held by Gene Fullmer while in the states of New York and Massachusetts Paul Pender is recognized as the division champion. Hank's bitterness is apparent in his charges that both Fullmer and Pender are ducking him.

"I'd belt either one of them if I met them in the street," said Hank, the father of five with No. 6 on the way.

Four Big Matches On Schedule For Olympic Matmen

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — Four matches, all crucial, are on today's abbreviated schedule of eliminations for the U.S. Olympic wrestling team.

Two of them were ordered after a pair of draws in the freestyle matches at Stillwater Wednesday night. Doug Elubaugh and Phil Kinyon fought to their 7th deadlock in as many meetings at 160 1/2 pounds and heavyweights Bill Kerslake and Hallow Wilson also drew.

They are scheduled to meet again this afternoon at the team training site, the University of Oklahoma. But the big stir was expected at 125 1/2 pounds where Terry McCann of Tulsa and Dave Auble of Ithaca, N.Y. were scheduled.

Airline Stewardess' Role Is Exciting To Greenville Girl

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

Every young girl at one time or another has probably wished that she could lead the so-called "glamorous" life of an airline stewardess and in this jet age when more and more aircraft are being produced, the urge to enter this profession is even greater.

Rachael Lang, a 24-year-old brunette with sparkling hazel eyes, is one of these airline workers and loves it.

Rachael, a 1954 graduate of Greenville High School, attended East Carolina College and graduated in 1957 with a major in English and History.

While at East Carolina, the beauty was an outstanding student and included among her honors were activities such as being secretary of the Student Government Association, being a marshal and cheerleader, chairman of the college handbook committee and a member of the May Court. She was also listed in Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges.

After graduation, Rachael spent two months in Europe. The trip over, Rachael said, was made by boat "but since I knew I was going to be an airline stewardess I flew back and thoroughly enjoyed it."

In September Rachael ventured to Miami, and to the Eastern Airlines school there for her training. During the five week schooling period, she learned the do's and don'ts of the lofty work.

After a year and a half of flying, Rachael was promoted and made an instructor in the training school, which is located at the Miami Springs Villas at Miami Springs. At present, she is one of two instructors at the school. Rachael explained that the new girls are given instruction, then tutors come in to give individual help and test the trainees.

Rachael told of the training given Eastern's Stewardesses: The girls come into the school on the weekend. The first few days are spent in appointments which include a thorough physical, a yearly requirement, uniform fittings, and a visit to a special consultant who appraises the girls' personal appearance and suggests to them things to do which will help their appearance. The girls are also advised on how to apply makeup...not to excess but rather so it will look most natural...and how to style their hair. She added that Eastern has a regulation which forbids a flight attendant's hair from touching the collar of her uniform.

A close check is kept on the girls, according to Rachael, "even outside of classes which generally run from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday."

The classes range in size from 30 to 100 students...all girls...she added.

Instruction during the five-week training period includes familiarization flights; instructions in the serving of meals and mixing of drinks; and basic technical instruction.

"Classes are also conducted in airplane theory...how they fly...and emergency equipment and procedures," commented the five-foot, five-inch Greenville girl.

"The main objective" of the stewardess, Rachael said, "is service." They have to be able to "talk intelligently with the passengers and to understand their needs...anticipate their needs. They also must be able to handle irate and sick passengers and be able to make the passengers have a pleasant trip."

In addition to being one of the instructors, Rachael is in charge of the final approval of the girl's uniform fit and has to inspect each girl's uniform for final approval before the girl leaves the school.

Eastern now has about 1,500 flight attendants, according to Rachael, who noted the turnover is "right good." She speculated that "a year from now about one-half of the girls now working as flight attendants will have resigned." She added that "most of them resign to get married."

Smiling, Rachael added that now, as an instructor, she would not have to quit her job "if that aerial man happens along."

AIRLINE STEWARDESS . . . Rachael Lang relaxes at home during her vacation.

One of the requirements, or qualifications for a job as a stewardess is that a girl be single. Rachael said. Other qualifications include a minimum age of 20; weight between 105 and 135 pounds and "in proportion to the height, and eyesight of at least 20-40. Other qualifications require the girl to be generally attractive, personable...or a good actor" commented the instructor...and be able to talk with people. "She also must be a high school graduate with two years of work experience or college."

"The basic pay for a stewardess is $265 per month for 70 hours flying time. If a girl flies over 70 hours per month she gets $3 per hour for her time," Rachael noted.

Looking back over her own flight attendant days, she recalled she "loved New York" where she was stationed. From there, she flew to San Antonio, Houston, New Orleans, Miami, St. Louis, Raleigh, and Montreal, to name just a few.

The flight she liked best, she said, was one which left New York, flew to Montreal then came to Raleigh-Durham where it had a 26-hour layover, during which time she could come home. The flight then went back to Montreal and returned to New York.

Bases at which Eastern maintains stewardesses include Miami, Atlanta, New York, New Orleans, Boston, Charlotte, Washington and Chicago.

"One of the most important things about the work," according to Rachael, "is the love for travel and the ability to enjoy people. And you have to enjoy helping them even when they are not pleasant," she added.

In answer to the question "is the work glamorous" she commented, "It is exciting and a lot of fun but it is a lot of hard work, too," noting that a girl is on call "all of the time" to substitute for one of her co-workers.

"There are many advantages to airline work if you like travel," she pointed out. Many airlines will give their employees a 75 per cent discount on European flights and a 50 per cent reduction on flights in the United States. Hotels also give airlines employees rate reductions, she said.

One of the highlights in her career came last August when she was one of eight Eastern employees sent to the Douglas aircraft plant in California to receive training for the jets being built for Eastern. The girls were given a ride in one of the new jet transports and she saw Eastern's first DC8B... still only a shell... on the assembly line. In addition to the trip to California, Rachael has also been working on experimental flight out of New York trying new service ideas for the company.

She counts Douglas Fairbanks' wife and children; James Roosevelt and wife; several ambassadors and two Russian diplomats as her most interesting passengers.

Rachael pointed out that "if an airline wants a girl they will train her free of charge. Private schools charge for their instruction and even after completing a course, the girl has to go through the airline's own school," she added.

During her vacation this year, she flew to Mexico, where she spent a week, then returned to Greenville to be with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Lang of 136 East Longmeadow Road. Rachael returned to Miami Saturday.

Seek Cause Of Railroad Mishap

WILLIAMSON, W. Va. (AP)—Investigators sought today to determine what caused the Norfolk & Powhatan Arrow to slam into another passenger train in the depot yard here.

Fifty-four passengers and crewmen were injured in Wednesday's wreck, but none seriously. Two of the injured, James E. Wilson, 50, Cincinnati, and Betty Blumer, 44, Louisville, Ky., were hospitalized overnight.

The Arrow, twin diesels pulling 11 cars from Cincinnati to Roanoke, Va., was supposed to switch from the main line to a track alongside the depot at Williamson, a coal town on the Kentucky border.

But the switch apparently was open and the Arrow continued about 100 yards on the wrong track, then collided head on with the standing Cavalier, an N&W train running between here and Norfolk, Va. The Cavalier was loading passengers for a return run to Norfolk.

The impact of the crash derailed the engine of the standing train and sent two of its cars crashing onto the platform of the station.

Raleigh Council Plans Consider Integrated Pool

RALEIGH (AP)—The City Council is to discuss the swimming pool integration problem at its next regular meeting scheduled for Aug. 15.

This development and agreement to appoint a citizens advisory committee resulted Wednesday from a conference between Negro leaders and Mayor W. G. Enloe.

The advisory committee, when named, will meet to determine some way to resolve the problem.

Enloe, who described the meeting as friendly and harmonious, said it dealt with various matters relating to integration — lunch counters, swimming pools and parks.

The meeting came after several Negroes were turned down in a bid to swim at the all-white Pullen Park pool Monday.

Afterwards, Enloe said he would be willing to meet with Negro spokesmen to discuss the situation.

He warned, however, that forced integration of the Pullen pool would cause it and the Negro pool at Chavis Park to be closed for financial reasons.

Meanwhile, in Charlotte, a second group of Negroes has utilized the city's formerly all-white Revolution Park swimming pool. A young man and two girls swam for about 30 minutes in the pool Wednesday.

Officials said there were no incidents, catcalls or jeers. However, they did say that about 15 or 20 of the estimated 150 swimmers in the pool when the Negroes arrived left. Thirteen white patrons asked for and received refund of their admissions.

Charlotte announced last week experimental integration of city pools. In the past Revolution and Cordelia pools have been for white people and Double Oaks for Negroes. No Negroes have yet used the Cordelia pool, although city officials said they would be admitted.

Old Volumes In 'Grab Bag Bid'

IMPERIAL BEACH, Calif. (AP)—A Navy chief petty officer, whose hobby is making what he calls "grab-bag bids" at public auctions, now has seven volumes of a set of the Encyclopedia Britannica published in 1778.

They were in an old trunk that H. W. Dukes bought unopened. The American Revolutionary War underway at the time they were published, is not mentioned. Anything about the New World, including New Zealand, is in the chapter on America.

Monday Visits To Jail Banned

DULUTH, Minn. (AP)—Sheriff Sam Owens says he has banned Monday visits at the St. Louis County jail to keep the jail from being turned into a "house of confusion."

Each Monday the jail receives prisoners from municipal courts in cities around the county and the sheriff says jailers have difficulty keeping track of who's coming and who's going.

He says he's surprised some visitors haven't been locked up by mistake.

The Arctic is also now a tourist resort. It costs $1,000 a week to live with Eskimos and go with them on seal and walrus hunts.

Selectmen Want Left Out Buck

FAIRHAVEN, Mass. (AP)—The buck wasn't passed. Selectmen recently opened a letter from the State Department of Public Works.

It was official confirmation that a parcel of town-owned land had been taken for development of a beach.

"Enclosed are $1 and a map..." it read. "Only one trouble, said a selectman: 'There was no map and no buck.'" Selectmen demanded payment.

FELL TO DEATH

NEW YORK (AP)—Mary Ellen Coyle, 7, fell to her death today from the window of a fifth-floor apartment. Police said she was sleeping on a sofa and apparently got up at 1:20 a.m., walked to a low-silled front window and fell out.

Civil Rights Issue Bound To Flare In The Campaign

Editor's Note — The Democrats adopted a strong civil rights plank and the one big fight in the Republican National Convention was over following suit. The subject is certain to figure prominently in the campaign. The following article, third of five on the major issues, examines the candidates' civil rights stand.

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP)—Some of the stoniest Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Sen. John F. Kennedy throw at each other in the presidential campaign will be scooped up out of the battle-torn field of civil rights.

By the yardstick of the militant National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People both presidential candidates have racked up excellent records on civil rights in their 14 years apiece in Congress.

Such imperfections as exist in their records—at least in the eyes of all-out civil rights advocates—may sound like hair-splitting if the two candidates get into a shouting

Disadvantage In Owning 2 Cars

VARNVILLE, S.C. (AP)—One disadvantage to the two-car family is that the car you hit may be your own.

That's what happened Monday night to Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Embler of Varnville.

Their cars met on a sharp curve. Both vehicles were wrecked but neither husband nor wife was injured.

They Will Vote For Namesakes

GENEVA, N.Y. (AP)—Richard M. Nixon and John Kennedy will vote for their namesakes in the November presidential election.

Nixon, a physics instructor, will vote for the Republican ticket from his home in Beverly, Ohio, probably by absentee ballot, he said Wednesday. He was discharged recently from the Navy.

Kennedy, a treasurer of metals, and a resident of Seneca, is a registered Democrat and says he will vote for his namesake.

Field Day For News Lensmen

NEW YORK (AP)—It was a field day for news photographers today at New York's Idlewild Airport as a transatlantic plane landed after a flight from Paris.

The passengers included 19 European beauties on route to an international beauty contest at Long Beach, Calif.

The group included Italy's entry, Maria Grazia Tacconelli, 29, a Rome fashion model; Poland's entry, Marzena Malinowska, 19, a student of architecture; and Kattinka Bleeker, 21, a fashion model of Amsterdam.

match on each other's civil rights performance.

Thus Negroes in the northern cities won't have much to choose between the two men on that issue. By the same token, neither will white Southerners who have long fought forceful civil rights legislation.

While the two men, Kennedy heading the Democratic ticket and Nixon in the Republicans' No. 1 spot, no doubt will spend some time trying to make each other look inferior on civil rights, they will probably spend more time talking about:

Boy Saved By Quick Reaction

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—Quick reaction by a power company employe saved the life of Kenneth Bynum when the 16-year-old boy was held for 15 minutes as a human ground wire for an electrical circuit.

Bynum became lodged between a gas stove and a wall Wednesday while trying to install a washing machine in a home. He apparently grounded an electrical circuit between the stove and some nearby gas pipes.

Jim Charles, an Arkansas Power & Light Co. serviceman, was alerted to the trouble by radio via the fire department. Charles found the youth unconscious. He moved the stove to free Bynum and began artificial respiration.

Bynum was conscious and listed in fair condition in a hospital. Charles said the boy had been acting as conductor of a 110-volt electrical current.

Republican platform planks on civil rights, although both planks this year are the strongest in the history of either party. (The NAACP says the Democratic plank is the stronger of the two, but adds that the areas of agreement are much more significant than the differences.)

2. On the civil rights performance of both parties over the years and what civil rights advocates can expect if (a) the Democrats win and if (b) the Republicans do.

Democratic foes of civil rights in Congress in their key committee chairmanships which, as in the past, would enable them to try to keep civil rights legislation bottled up in committees.

If that diagnosis is correct, then a number of leaders in the long-drawn out fight for more and stronger civil rights laws may favor Nixon over Kennedy in this campaign.

(It's possible, of course, that the two candidates' performance in this campaign and not their parties' record or machinery will be the deciding factor.)

A Nixon victory which gave Republicans control of the House would knock the Southern Democrats out of their committee chairmanships and replace them with Republicans, although it may be fallacious to consider this a boon to backers of civil rights bills.

If conservative House Republicans ignored Nixon and teamed up with Southern Democrats, as they have in the past, the blocks to civil rights bills would be just as effective as if the Democrats ran the House.

The picture gets even a little more confusing when you remember that in the Senate, where only one-third of the seats are at stake, the Democrats have such an overwhelming majority they will retain control even though Nixon wins the presidency.

There, just as in the past, Southern Democrats would retain their committee chairmanships. Still, despite their power, they weren't able to prevent the Senate from passing civil rights bills in 1957 and 1960.

What does it all add up to? Simply that it's going to be tough choosing for those most anxious to see quick improvement in the civil rights picture.

Here are imperfections in the Nixon-Kennedy records in the eyes of all-out civil righters:

Nixon has been consistently against a strong FEPC—Fair Employment Practices Commission—whose purpose, if created, would be to forbid or discourage discrimination against job-seekers because of their color or religion.

In the 1957 civil rights fight in the Senate Kennedy took a step which displeased the NAACP and was contrary to the thinking of some of the Senate liberals.

The House had passed a civil rights bill and sent it to the Senate. The usual procedure would have been to send it to the Judiciary Committee for consideration before it was laid before the full Senate.

Ordinarily, this might have been routine. But this wasn't an ordinary situation. Sen. James O. Eastland, Mississippi Democrat and arch-foe of civil rights, was chairman of the Judiciary Committee.

Because of this position of power, he would try to bottle up the House-passed bill. Kennedy voted to send it to the Eastland committee, even though there was pressure on him not to do so.

At the same time, he told the Senate if Eastland tried to smooth the bill he would join 21st others in wrenching the measure out of the Mississippi's grip and forcing it before the Senate.

But Nixon, as vice president, helped kill the move to send the bill to the Eastland Committee; he let the bill by-pass the committee by an opinion from the chair.

Kennedy has a much longer record of voting for civil rights legislation if only because for the past seven years Nixon, as vice president, could not vote except when necessary to break a tie-vote on the Senate floor.

Nevertheless, as vice president he can give advisory opinions and he has used this power a couple of times in support of those trying to make it easier to block Southern filibusters against civil rights legislation.

Kennedy, by his own words, has an impressive record in support of civil rights. Nixon, by his own words, considers himself a No. 1 civil righter, too. The records of both men pretty well bear them out.

Romulus R. Ross, Jr., signalman third class, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Ross of Greenville, is serving aboard the destroyer USS Wallace L. Lind operating in the North Atlantic.

Roy Franklin Smith, one of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Smith of Ayden, has been promoted to Chief Commissaryman at the Oakland (Calif.) Naval Air Station. Chief Smith is married to the former Marianna Holloway of Greenville.

The Ayden native sailed last month aboard the carrier USS Hancock to Hawaii and Japan.

Private Norman F. Little, whose wife, Janet, lives in Falkland, has been assigned to the 14th Armored Cavalry Regiment in Germany. Pvt. Little is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin L. Little of Route 1, Fountain.

Business Notes

Attend Convention
John Sauced, Jr., D. H. Gordon and G. A. Jordan, local representatives of Pilot Life Insurance Co., accompanied by their wives, attended the Annual Agency Convention for the company in Atlantic City last week.

These Pilot representatives qualified for the four-day trip as a result of outstanding quality and amount of new business written during the convention period.

At Sales Conference
Manager Donald Eatmon of the local Southern Bakeries plant was among plant managers from a five-state area attending a sales conference in Greensboro July 28.

Graduates from Banking School
O. A. Verner, Jr., assistant auditor of Wachovia Bank and Trust Co., was one of 102 bankers completing the three-year course at the NABAC School for Bank Auditors and Comptrollers at the University of Wisconsin this summer.

Verner graduated with his class on July 31.

No. Six Position
J. Frank Strawn, general agent in Greenville for Franklin Life Inurance Co. of Springfield, Ill., has won the number six position in the firm's national sales organization for June with new sales totaling $243,388.

As a result of his achievement, Strawn will be awarded membership in the Franklin President's Club, limited each month to the company's 25 leading producers.

This marks the second time this year that Strawn has qualified for President's club honors.

Wins Recognition
Bill Ellington of Greenville, agent for Allstate Insurance Companies, has been awarded his company's "Seal of Confidence" in recognition of his performance in the areas of customer service and customer relations, production and loyal service.

The award was presented in special ceremonies by Regional Manager Nevin J. Rice and was approved by Allstate's vice president for the southeast.

Only nine agents from the company's agency force in the Carolinas were eligible for the award.

GRIFTON — William L. Daws, who has been cashier and manager of the Grifton branch of First Citizens Bank & Trust Co., has been elected a vice president of the bank.

Lewis R. Holding, president, said that Daws has been transferred to the Roanoke Rapids branch.

A native of Missouri, he is a 16-year veteran with First-Citizen. He previously worked with the Kinston branch before going to Grifton.

Mother Slays Her 3 Children

COPAKE, N. Y. (AP)—Three young children were killed Wednesday night by a mother who wielded an eight-inch butcher knife against their throats before critically wounding herself, State Police report.

The children, ranging in age between 7 weeks and 7 years, were found on a bed, their mother beside them, at Linden farm, about a half-mile from this Columbia County community.

Theresa Vucetic, 30, the mother, was reported in critical condition in Hudson. Her throat and wrists had been cut, police said.

Recruit Joseph A. McLawhorn (above), son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert McLawhorn of Ayden, is presently assigned to the 2nd Training Regiment at Fort Jackson, S. C., where he is undergoing eight weeks of basic combat training.

Army Reserve Captain Octavies M. Hooker, son of Mrs. Marian H. Hooker of Bethel, recently completed two weeks of annual active duty training at Fort Eustis, Va.

Privates Joseph M. Taft, Jr., and Jack W. Calhoun, of Greenville, last month completed the eight-week finance procedures course under the Reserve Forces Act program at The Finance School, Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind. Taft's parents live at 1705 E. Fifth Street; Calhoun is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Calhoun of 2508 E. Third Street.

Benny R. McLawhorn, fireman apprentice, USN, of 2133 S. Village Drive, Greenville, is serving aboard the attack transport USS Henrico, operating out of San Diego, Calif.

Technical Sergeant William C. Horne, son of Mrs. Charles Horne, Sr., of 706 W. 4th Street Greenville, recently received the Air Force Commendation Medal and Citation at the Air Force Missile Development Center in New Mexico. Sgt. Horne received the Commendation Medal for outstanding performance of duties in the Inspector General's Office at Ramstein, Germany, where he has been serving with the 17th Air Force.

Four Alternate Routes For '77' Proposed In Virginia

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Four alternate routes have been proposed for the Virginia section of Interstate Rt. 77, but consulting engineers are more in agreement for segments of the highway in neighboring West Virginia and North Carolina.

The three firms of consulting engineers made no specific recommendation Wednesday to highway officials in the three states, declaring "no one of the four final alternates stands out above all others."

However, one of the firms, J. E. Greiner Co. of Baltimore, has given West Virginia authorities a recommendation on the 5.8 miles of Interstate 77 in that state from the southern terminus of the West Virginia Turnpike near Princeton to the Virginia line.

And engineers have narrowed down to two the list of alternates northward from Elkin, N.C., to the Virginia line. The route of the North Carolina section from Charlotte to Elkin already has been selected. It roughly parallels U.S. 21 via Statesville.

Presumably, however, decisions in West Virginia and North Carolina could be affected by how Virginia acts on its four alternates since the highway passes through all three states as part of an interstate system that will extend from Charlotte to Cleveland, Ohio.

In North Carolina, engineers proposed two alternates. One would run due north from Elkin, pass four miles west of Dobson, then roughly parallel highway 89 through Low Gap, crossing the Virginia line near the Blue Ridge Parkway. The other to the south would run just west of Dobson, about four miles west of Mount Airy and cross the Virginia line about a mile west of highway 52, then parallel 52 for several miles

The recommended route in West Virginia would follow a general line south and west from the West Virginia Turnpike to Ingleside. It then would continue west and south to a point east of Bluefield, where a tunnel through East River Mountain would carry it into Virginia and on to Rocky Gap.

A hearing has been scheduled Aug. 19 at Bluefield, W. Va., to outline the recommendation, along with locations of several alternate routes that were studied. The Virginia Highway Commission said a public hearing on the four routes will be held in Roanoke at a date to be announced later.

The four alternates—Numbered 11, 12, 16 and 17—all use part of Interstate Rt. 1 through Virginia. Two of the alternates are north of Interstate 81, the other two south. Interstate 81 generally parallels U.S. 11 from southwest Virginia northward through the Shenandoah Valley.

Alternates 11 and 16 are the same in North Carolina to a point near Interstate 81. Alternate 11 then follows what consultants call an eastern corridor to the West Virginia Turnpike, alternate 16 a western corridor.

Similarly, alternates 12 and 17 are the same in North Carolina to Interstate 81. From there alternate 12 follows an eastern corridor northward to West Virginia, while alternate 17 takes a western corridor.

For the entire project in the three states, the consultants said alternate 11 would cost $128,489,000; alternate 12, $123,479,000; alternate 16, $131,166,000; and alternate 17, $126,426,000. Alternate 17 would be the shortest, 90.9 miles, and alternate 11 the longest, 97 miles. The mileage does not include that part of Interstate 77 common with Interstate 81.

Cow Chose Room With A View

LORIMOR, Iowa (AP) — Two women driving down the highway saw a cow peering out the second story window of a farm house. When they had recovered from their shock, they reported the incident. The cow was restored to its owner.

The animal apparently had wandered into the abandoned house and climbed the stairs, then was afraid to descend. When rescued, it was hungry and thirsty from its two-day stay in the house, but otherwise unharmed.

Surprise; Finds A Bullet In Foot

GENEVA, N. Y. (AP) — Linda Russell, 14, thought she had been stung by a bee last summer when she felt a sharp pain in her right foot.

She treated the area with lotion and forgot about it.

Recently Linda jumped off a bench at school and got such a terrific pain in her foot that she had to go home.

An operation uncovered a .22 caliber bullet.

ROME (AP) — Premier Amintore Fanfani's new middle-road government won a 126-58 vote of confidence in the Italian Senate Wednesday night.

W. Germans Use Science To Nab Smugglers

ARMORED SMUGGLERS—This World War II armored personnel carrier was used by smugglers attempting to crash into West Germany from Belgium with a load of coffee. They failed.

By JACK KOEHLER
COLOGNE, Germany (AP) — To the casual eye, the letter mailed to a known smuggler seemed innocuous. There was nothing unusual about the envelop or the greeting inside — or was there? A handful of scientists and technicians began poring over it with infinite care. From behind a high-powered microscope came a sigh of satisfaction. Between puffs on a big cigar, Dr. Erich Franzheim, head of West Germany's Customs Criminal Institute (ZKI), had found the well-hidden message on the intercepted letter's stamp. Slashes had been made along the stamp's perforation. Under the microscope they resembled dots and dashes. Matched up with the Morse code, they read: "Shipment tomorrow." The discovery enabled the ZKI to crack another smuggling operation, a task that has become increasingly common. In 1953 smugglers cheated the West German government out of more than 166 million dollars in tax revenue. By last year the figure had been slashed to 15 million dollars. Uses Modern Techniques The ZKI, using microscopes and chemicals as its most forceful weapons to discover forged shipping documents and find secret messages, has driven bigtime smugglers either out of business or out of the country. "We are the second most modern criminal research institute in the world," boasts Franzheim, a corpulent intelligence expert who is said to have forged the documents used by German spies who landed on America's East coast during World War II. Asked if he forged the spy documents, Franzheim smiles and says cryptically: "I don't know." Then he points to a framed motto above his desk which says "What Two Know, Is Known by 100." That ends any discussion on intelligence. But Franzheim talks enthusiastically about his present job. Today's smugglers are mostly highly intelligent men from almost all professions — jurists, businessmen and even doctors. "That's why we have to see that we're faster and better than the smuggler," he says. Two of the most popular smuggled items are coffee and American cigarettes. Because of import duty, American cigarettes sell for $1.50 a pack on store counters and coffee at more than $2 a pound. He tells of a recent case in which customs agents at a port noted that one side of a large number of barrels contained honey painted black. At that time, importing of overseas honey was banned but Dutch-produced honey could be purchased. Suspecting that the shipment came originally from overseas and not Holland, as the documents said, a chemist went to work, removed the black paint and up came an Argentine label.

Samples Taken

"The Dutch dealers said the barrels were just old barrels being reused but that the honey was actually produced in Holland," Franzheim says. "But we took samples of the product, analyzed it chemically and found it contained only pollen from plants found in Argentina and none from those growing in Holland. We had a good case and the court agreed."

Franzheim says he tells his staff of 40 scientists and technicians that no task is impossible to solve. When the ZKI was put into operation in 1949, it concentrated first on well-organized smuggling gangs. These were smashed within a short time or were forced to move their headquarters abroad. "There will always be smuggling," says Franzheim, "but I feel we can fight them enough so it doesn't pay."

CAUGHT IN ACT—West German customs agents recently took this picture of smugglers hauling coffee across the Belgian border. Coffee is a top item on the smuggler's list; high taxes keep the legal price at more than $2 a pound.

Scientists Talk 'On A Moonbeam'

By JOHN BARBOUR
Associated Press Science Writer

HOLMDEL, N.J. (AP) — Two scientists carried on a 490,000-mile conversation Wednesday night, from a soggy New Jersey hilltop to the torrid California desert—via the moon.

"Hi, Walt. Can you hear me?" asked William C. Jakes of Bell Laboratories, from Crawford Hill, N.J.

"Yes, yes, you're coming in fine," answered Walter K. Victor at the California Institute of Technology's Jet Propulsion Laboratory Station, Goldstone, Calif.

The voice of Victor sounded a little hollow—as if he were talking into a barrel. This was caused, the scientist explained, by the irregularity of the moon's surface.

Both voices translated into radio beams, flashed skyward at the speed of light—186,000 miles per second—and bounced off the moon to be picked up by receivers on the earth.

It wasn't the first such conversation for Jakes and Victor, both 38. They had others during the past weeks in tests of the equipment.

But it was a dramatic public demonstration of the principle in a Bell Telephone plan, outlined recently to the Federal Communications Commission, calling for 50 space satellites around the earth to provide quick worldwide communications.

The first contact was made at 8:21 p.m., not long after the moon had risen over the horizon in the California station's line of sight. It was already high in the sky over New Jersey.

There was a slight lag between each side's comments — running about five or six seconds, and caused by the time it took the radio signals to cover the 240,000 miles to the moon and the return trip.

Jakes spoke into an ordinary black table model telephone — a ridiculous contrast in itself to the gigantic equipment it commanded into operation.

His voice buzzed over telephone wires to the giant transmitter, a 60-foot dish on a huge pedestal, moving almost imperceptibly to keep his aim on the moon.

At Goldstone, the moon echo was caught by a gigantic horn-shaped ear.

The weak signals returning from the moon were amplified by ruby masers — the remarkable electronic devices that make such radio feats possible.

The latest moonbounce conversation was a natural consequence of improving know-how since the maser development. In 1946 scientists bounced a radar echo from the moon. In 1954 the first voice signal was reflected back from the moon. Last year a one-way moon message was beamed across the Atlantic. Weeks ago, the first two-way conversation was made.

Plans Another Dive From Space

ALAMOGORDO, N.M. (AP) — Capt. Joe Kittinger, of Holloman Air Force Base the man who attained fame by falling down, will take another high dive from the edge of space this month.

Kittinger made parachute jumps of more than 14½ and 12 miles last Nov. 16 and Dec. 11 respectively from a balloon over this southern New Mexico missile range.

The Air Force would like to see how far up Kittinger will make this attempt. Announcement of the date will be made by the Air Force in Washington.

Purpose of the long jumps is to test the equipment used at such heights and human reactions to them as part of the Air Force's space research.

'Revenge' Effort Failed Woman

DETROIT (AP) — A Detroit woman who sought political revenge against her estranged husband in Tuesday's primary lost. But she's determined to try again.

Erna FitzPatrick, mother of four grown children, ran against her husband, State Rep. Edwin A. FitzPatrick in the Eighth Senatorial District Democratic race but lost by more than 1,500 votes.

Mrs. FitzPatrick announced her intention to try again in 1962. She sought political revenge, she said, because "Fitz" failed to support her financially.

James Madison were second cousins.

Tobacco Prices 'Fairly Steady'

VALDOSTA, Ga. (AP) — After two successive days of increases, prices by grades held fairly steady on the Georgia-Florida flue-cured tobacco market.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture Wednesday reported orange grades of both lugs and primings and some nondescript weakened a little Wednesday. However, top bids in most cases by companies continued at $66, with an occasional basket being $67.

The Stabilization Corp. was reported receiving from less than one per cent to five per cent of sales on the various markets.

Volume of offerings was heavy, and this condition is expected to continue. Tobacco is now ripening faster than growers can harvest and cure and it appears that many leaves will be left in the field.

More of the leaf group was sold than either lugs or primings for the first time this season.

Auction bid averages per 100 pounds on a limited number of representative U.S. grades included:

Leaf — Fair lemon 64, unchanged; low lemon 63, down 1; low orange 61, down 1.

Cutters — Low lemon 66, unchanged; low orange 66, unchanged.

Lugs — Good lemon 66, unchanged; fair lemon 65, unchanged; fair orange 65, unchanged; low orange 61, down 2.

Primings—Good lemon 64, down 1; fair lemon 62, unchanged; low lemon 57, unchanged; fair orange 61, unchanged; low orange 49, down 3.

Nondescript—Best thin body 35, down 2.

Fish Swallowed .20mm. Shell

NAGS HEAD, N.C. (AP) — A Dolphin boated in the Atlantic east of here Wednesday presented a puzzler to this North Carolina coastal area's fishermen—how did it get a .20 millimeter machine gun shell in its stomach?

The shell was discovered when the specimen was cut open at Nags Head. It was caught aboard Capt. Willie Etheridge's Chee Chee fishing boat.

Observers said apparently the shell had fallen from a military plane doing target practice over the area. The shell was probably nabbed by the quick-swimming dolphin before it sank to the ocean floor.

LEGGING IT—Man coming from Holland attempted to conceal American cigarettes in his artificial leg.

Cost $200,000 To End Contract

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) —Broadway star Carol Channing said Wednesday she canceled her contract at the Las Vegas Tropicana Hotel because "nude chorus girls and comedienne just don't mix."

"I couldn't imagine them (the audience) accepting me after seeing a show filled with nude girls," Miss Channing said.

She estimated her decision to give up the remaining two years of her contract cost her $200,000.

Miss Channing said she and producer-husband Charles Lower would reactivate their musical "Show Girl" and begin rehearsals for a November opening in Baltimore.

Miss Channing made the announcement at her Beverly Hills home and said the cancellation was on a friendly basis with the Tropicana show producers.

Air Force Plans Push Eye-In-Sky

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —The Air Force will fire experimental Samos and Midas "spy-in-the-sky" satellites from here next year as a result of a step-up in these high-priority military programs.

This was revealed at a news conference Wednesday by Lt. Gen. Bernard A. Schriever, head of the Air Research and Development Command. He said several of the launchings will be shifted from the Pacific Missile Range, Point Arguello, Calif., because of "high-level pressure to accelerate and expand the programs."

Samos is a reconnaissance satellite system designed to photograph enemy installations. Midas will detect an enemy ballistic missile the instant it is fired and flash the warning to the United States. Both are expected to be operational within two years.

Artificial Reef From Old-Cars

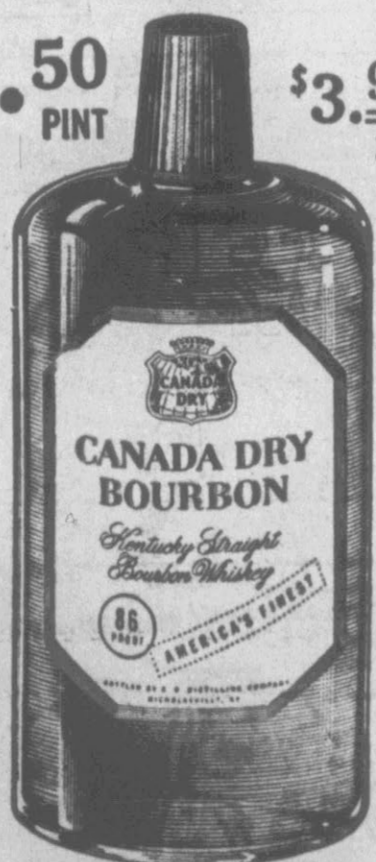

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—An artificial reef of old car bodies will be formed off Miami Beach in an effort to improve fishing.

The Metro Commission Wednesday agreed to spend $10,000 on the project. The plan calls for linking about 1,000 junked automobiles together in groups of five and dropping them along a two-mile line.

The car bodies should become covered with marine life and make an ideal home for small fish which would attract bigger sea specimens.

Tobacco Tips

clear cut or characteristic, and they may be confusing and misleading. Many different tobacco diseases have similar symptoms. If you have a disease problem in your tobacco field, I will be glad to visit your farm and help determine which disease is causing the damage. If the symptoms are not pronounced enough to make a positive identification in the field, a disease specimen can be sent to the Plant Disease Clinic at N. C. State College. When the disease specimen is received in the clinic, examination of the diseased tissue will be made under a microscope and if necessary certain laboratory tests will be made to accurately identify the disease.

Once the disease is properly identified we can make positive control suggestions that you can use on your farm to help keep the losses caused by disease to a minimum. If you wait until the tobacco is harvested positive identification is difficult.

Builder In Match Sticks Is Dead

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A man who modeled a career out of match sticks is dead at the age of 50. Earl B. Walsh had constructed a model of a cathedral out of match sticks when he was a child. He built seven more models, each about four feet high and exhibited them around the country. He came to Miami from Rockland, Maine, about eight years ago.

Conquerors Of Mount Everest Called To Tests

By JOE BENHAM
SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—The men who conquered Mount Everest—tallest point on earth—may assist in sending man on into the heavens through a series of high altitude experiments.

An Air Force doctor plans to examine Sir Edmund Hillary and Dr. Hugh Griffiths, two members of the British party which first climbed the 29,002-foot mountain in 1953, during a nine-month expedition to Nepal starting next month.

Capt. Thomas O. Nevison Jr. hopes the experiments and observations of how men perform at altitudes of 19,000 feet and above over long periods of time will give medical men a hint as to how well space travelers can adapt to thin atmospheres.

Nevison, of the Air Force School of Aviation Medicine at Brooks AFB here, says it would be helpful to designers of space vehicles if the atmosphere inside the cabins could be kept fairly low to match the lack of pressure in space, which is a vacuum.

This, he said, would lessen the need for heavy materials to strengthen the space craft. Hillary, Griffiths and Nevison will be part of a 15-man party which hopes to scale Mount Makalu, fifth highest peak in the world, and catch at least a glimpse of the Yeti or Abominable Snowman.

Nevison said in an interview he plans to record the pulse, brain waves, respiration, body temperature, skin surface temperature and heart beat of the expedition members through cables attached to transistorized instruments on and in the bodies of the climbers. If possible, he will use telemeter equipment to send the information from the slopes of the mountain to a laboratory camp at the 19,000-foot pass near the mountain. Nevison also plans to capture samples of the breath exhaled by climbers and analyze it for oxygen and carbon dioxide content.

TAKES THE HINT
BALTIMORE (AP)—At the Enoch Pratt Free Library the other day, a 15-year-old duplicating machine broke down. It happened in the middle of a run of pamphlets entitled, "Aging Today."

Disillusioned By Soviets' Buying Up Thieves Market

BAGHDAD (AP)—In the twisted alleyways of old Baghdad is a bazaar known as the "Thieves' Market."

The Thieves' Market specializes in second-hand clothing — often stolen—and similar shoddy articles. But to Soviets working in Iraq, it is a shoppers paradise.

Swarms of Soviet and Communist-bloc experts were brought to Iraq after the anti-Western revolution of July 1958. These experts showed up in poverty stricken even by Iraqi standards.

Iraqis tell of the Soviet expert who came with only one shirt and washed it out each night. As many as five Soviet families moved into a single apartment. Half a dozen Soviets would buy a package of cigarettes and divide it among themselves. Three would go into a bar and share a single beer while they played Chess.

Hotel employees got no tips from the Soviets. Taxi drivers got no fares. The Soviets rode second class on buses or walked.

Iraqis turned up their noses at all this, but the Communist assault on the Thieves' Market was the last straw. Lower-class Iraqis regularly buy used American clothing in that bazaar. When the Soviets arrived, they moved in like locusts and bought out the market.

This is only a minor aspect of the general disillusionment Iraqis have had with the Communist bloc in two years. At the time of the revolution, the Iraqis generally felt they had been robbed by the West in the past. They diverted much of their economic and commercial dealings to the Soviet bloc, and in March 1959 concluded a sweeping technical and economic cooperation agreement with the Soviet Union.

The Soviet Union agreed to provide 550 million rubles for an industrialization program. The Iraqi revolutionary regime hastily fired its Western technicians in favor of Soviets. Now the Iraqis are having second thoughts.

For one thing, the Soviet experts were not nearly as cheap as they appeared to be. One was paid 275 dinars to replace an American who was getting 400. But the Soviet had to have an interpreter, and the American didn't (most educated Iraqis speak English).

This ran the cost of the Soviet almost up to that of the American. The American spent most of his 400 dinars inside Iraq, while the Soviet expert's salary was paid to the Soviet Embassy, which gave the expert 30 to 40 dinars a month. The remainder was sent back to the Soviet Union.

When the 1959 agreement was signed, Soviet equipment appeared to be much cheaper than that sold Iraq by the West. But when the agreement was put into operation, the Iraqis found the rate of exchange for the ruble had been placed at far less than the value of the Iraqi dinar.

All this does not mean the Iraqis intend to cancel Soviet aid. But it does indicate the Iraqis now understand that they cannot expect miracles from the Communist bloc.

DR. ROBERT E. WILFONG... of Greenville, Chairman of the Pitt District Committee of the Boy Scouts of America, is shown receiving an award for his work with the Scouts from the committee's vice-chairman, Russell Honecutt of Bethel. Wilfong, an employee of the DuPont Company, is being transferred to the home office of the corporation at Wilmington, Del. The presentation was made at the annual Pitt District Scouters Planning Conference held last night at the South Dining Hall on the East Carolina College Campus.

To Pay $10,000 In Back Alimony

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Singer Allan Jones Wednesday agreed to pay $10,000 in settlement of $25,000 in back alimony to actress Irene Hervey, from whom he was divorced in 1957.

Jones at that time agreed to pay her $1,500 a month and this was reduced to $1,000 a month the following year.

Jones now is married to the former Mary Florsheim, heiress to a shoe manufacturing fortune.

Unneed Revenue, So No Tax Levy

FIELDON, Ill. (AP)—This is a political year, but the Fieldon Village trustees say that isn't the reason why they voted not to levy any local general taxes for the next fiscal year.

The reason is simply that they don't need the money. This town of 250 has a balance of $2,606, expects to get $1,200 in license fees and about $600 more from its share of the state sales tax.

ANY SUGGESTIONS?
CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP)—Mrs. Paul Mayes has a set of twins so identical that the only way she can tell them apart is by their diaper pins. She uses yellow on one and white on the other. Her problem now is what to do when they grow out of diapers.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market's summer slump continued early this afternoon, although some steadiness appeared in portions of the list.

Losses ran from fractions to about a point for most key stocks, with some wide movers down slightly more. The lower trend could be expected, what with the generally depressing business news such as omitted dividends and lower earnings.

Hopes for increased defense spending, and increasing importance on this segment of the market in advisory market letters, buoyed aircraft-missile issues.

Boeing added about a point to recent rises, while Martin rose more than that and Douglas turned a small decline into a small gain. United Aircraft backed off a major fraction.

Some weakness developed in steels as U. S. Steel dropped about a point and Jones & Laughlin a shade more. Bethlehem was firm. Chemicals were pounded as DuPont fell more than 2 and Eastman Kodak and Union Carbide were down about a point.

Oils, airlines, rails and some metals worked lower in a fractional range. Other groups were mixed.

Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was off 4.38 at 604.31 at noon. The widely-heralded fourth 1960 test of the 599-600 level seemed imminent.

The Associated Press 60-stock average at noon was down 0.80 at 212.60 with industrials down 1.50, rails down 0.20 and utilities down 0.10.

U.S. government bonds were narrowly higher. Corporates also pushed upward.

May Have Laid Groundwork To Change NATO

BONN, Germany (AP) — The leaders of France and West Germany have laid the groundwork for a campaign to broaden the North Atlantic Treaty Organization into a global political force, usually reliable sources said today.

This was reported to have been the main theme of the secret talks held last weekend between President Charles de Gaulle and Chancellor Konrad Adenauer. The two were also said to have taken the first tentative steps toward a program of European political union, encompassing both the six common market nations and Britain and perhaps others as well.

Tricycle Set Is Mixed Up On Political Affairs

By KATHY SMALL

ELMIRA, N. Y. (AP)—The tricycle set, aged 6 to 10, is at least slightly confused about the national political situation.

This is proved by a survey conducted in pup tents, backyard wading pools and other likely spots. There was reward in trailing the ice cream man's cart.

Most of those interviewed had ready answers. A few seemed reluctant to commit themselves and asked for time to consult their friends. One young man answered every question with "I know the answer to that but I forgot it."

"What do you think of the world situation?" was our first question. An eight-year-old gaffe-it some sober thought. "I think it's round," he answered. "Other answers included: 'It's okay.' 'It's in outer space.'"

When asked to identify Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, the young people answered: "I think he's a wrestler." "He's a German spy." "He's a president who travels around the world."

Mercury Could Hit 100 Today

Temperatures Thursday were expected to soar to the 100 degree mark in the Greenville vicinity, with little relief given by wind or rain.

The low temperature for today was 78 degrees recorded at 4 a.m. It rose to 82 by 8 a.m., an indication of high temperatures. L. M. Bullock of the Greenville Utilities Plant said that Wednesday's low temperature was 76, reaching a high of 98 degrees Wednesday afternoon.

No rain was expected to cool off the temperatures today, with the exception of possibly widely scattered showers. Winds are expected to remain relatively calm, from about five to eight miles per hour, further reducing the hope of relief from the heat.

Kentucky Plant For Goldsboro

GOLDSBORO, N.C. (AP)—Gay-Bell Corp. of Paris, Ky., a manufacturer of tobacco hogsheads, has announced plans to relocate its plant here to avoid Kentucky's three per cent sales tax on the wood it uses.

The firm will occupy the Wallbrook Tobacco Co. building. The Wallbrook company, a tobacco processor, ceased operations earlier this year.

Guthrie Bell, president of Gay-Bell, said North Carolina has agreed to waive the sales tax on the company's product. He said the Goldsboro plant would employ 50 people by this time next year.

Funeral
AYDEN—Mr. Norman Guilont of Route 1, Ayden, died at his home July 31. Funeral services will be held Sunday at 1 p.m. at the Weeping Rachel F.W.B. Church in Aurora, conducted by the pastor.

An eight-year-old said: "He's a 'communs' man."

Our next question: "What's politics?" got this answer from a six-year-old boy. "Is it some kind of sickness?"

"What is a mayor?" drew these opinions:

"It's a bad dream" and "a horse." (A majority of those questioned knew positively that a mayor was a horse.)

"Who do you think will be the next president?" was answered: "Washington or President Eisenhower." "Kenneson." Ninety per cent favored George Washington, although some expressed doubt that Washington still was living.

"What's the Senate?" we asked and drew a blank from all but a six-year-old lover of jet planes. "It's a big loud noise!" he said. "I heard a senate boom one time when I was playing in my backyard."

"What's a convention?" was the next question. An eight-year-old girl said: "It's where they vote for two men to see who will be president." Other answers: "It's a kinda news report." "People with signs."

A 10-year-old interrupted at this point to tell us he saw a convention on television and it was just like his Cub Scout meeting because nobody would sit down and the leader kept telling them to be quiet and sit down or they couldn't have the meeting.

"What does the president do?" we asked. "He takes care of atom bombs and things like that." "He travels all over the world like the cops do to see if people are good."

"What's a caucus?" "It's a prickly plant that hurts if cowboys sit on them."

"At this point, someone yelled: 'I saw a lightning bug!' and off went the future voters, leaving us to mull over the results of our surveys."

Block Opened To 2-Way Traffic

One block of Third St. from Greene to Washington St. has been opened to two-way traffic, City Manager Leonard Bloxam said today.

The block has recently been widened on the south side. Bloxam said plans are to widen the north side of the block also.

East bound traffic can now turn into Third St. from Greene. However, only right turns can be made at Washington St. off Third.

The blocks of Third from Washington to Cotanche remain one-way in a west bound direction.

Routine Meet For Bethel Body

BETHEL — The Bethel Town Board had a routine meeting this week, with no special action on any matter.

The town paid its bills at the regular monthly meeting.

Mayor Clifton Everett presided, and members of the town board attended.

Kennedy Plans Mid-West Trip

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP)—Sen. John F. Kennedy announced today he will convene a Midwest farm conference in Des Moines, Iowa, Aug. 21 and will attend it.

He said he would visit former President Harry S. Truman at Independence, Mo., some time the same weekend.

Kennedy announced plans for the conference after a meeting with Gov. Herschel Loveless of Iowa. Its purpose, he said, will be to bring together "those immediately concerned with progressive farm policies in the United States" and work out long-range plans for legislation.

The Democratic presidential nominee also announced he is creating a National Policy Committee of Agricultural Progress to serve as a policy committee for the party.

The idea, he said, is to explore the problems of agriculture, "so that if we are successful in November, we will be prepared to act in January," when the next Congress convenes.

Kennedy said he also is planning a subordinate advisory committee to give voice to the producers of national farm commodities and to represent all sections of the country.

Kennedy said he also will establish "Farmers' committees in every county in every agricultural section of the United States.

Kennedy said he has not yet decided whether he will visit Truman before or after the Des Moines meeting.

Kennedy and Truman have just made peace. Truman had refused to attend the Democratic convention as a protest against campaign tactics used by Kennedy in winning the presidential nomination, but Truman now has agreed to campaign for Kennedy and his running mate, Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas.

Nuclear Sub In Charleston Port

CHARLESTON (AP)—The Polaris-firing, nuclear-powered submarine George Washington is tied up in the U.S. Naval Shipyard here today.

The ship, which on July 20 off Cape Canaveral, Fla., became the first fleet submarine to launch a Polaris missile from the ocean's depths, entered Charleston harbor Wednesday afternoon and proceeded up the Cooper River to a berth at the shipyard.

Post-shakedown tests and inspections are scheduled during her two or three-day visit here.

Charleston is the only Navy port in the world where the 380-foot George Washington, which was commissioned Dec. 30, 1959, can be loaded with her capacity of 16 nuclear-armed Polaris missiles. Each missile has an operational range of 1,200 miles.

The loading, assembly and service for the missiles is handled at the Charleston Naval Weapons Annex, which was activated April 1 and which has caused Charleston to be nicknamed "the war deterrent capital of the world."

The officers of the ship were guests today at a luncheon given by the city of Charleston, the Navy League and the Greater Charleston Chamber of Commerce.

The George Washington is scheduled to call here again in the fall to fill her missile tubes with Polaris weapons for her first sea patrol.

Sen. Kefauver's Seat Up For Tennessee Vote Today

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Tennessee Democrats choose today between Sen. Estes Kefauver and Judge Andrew T. Taylor in a Senate primary election fought largely over civil and states rights.

Kefauver, the Democratic vice presidential candidate four years ago, pitched his campaign for a third term on his 22-year record in the House and Senate. He was criticized by his opponent, a circuit judge from Jackson, for supporting civil rights legislation.

Indications were the vote would be close. Upwards of 650,000 persons were expected to vote, which would be a record turnout for a Senate race in this state.

Kefauver's base strength is his native East Tennessee, while Taylor expected to get a thumping majority in segregation-minded West Tennessee. This could make the heavy voting midstate region's vote decisive.

Returns from East Tennessee, the only section of the state on Eastern time, should begin coming in shortly after the first polls close at 4 p.m. The metropolitan vote will be later, since balloting continues until 8 p.m. at Knoxville, 7 p.m. at Chattanooga and Nashville and 7:30 in Memphis, all local times.

Except for Memphis, the West state vote will be counted by hand and the margin of Taylor strength in that region won't be known until late.

Several hundred Negroes were eligible to vote in the primary for the first time since reconstruction days in Fayette and Haywood counties, two West Tennessee counties where they outnumber whites. Elsewhere in Tennessee Negroes have voted without opposition for years.

The Democratic primary winner is certain to be elected in November. Three Republicans are seeking the GOP nomination, but they have waged no campaigns.

Tennessee's nine congressmen sought renomination today. Two Republicans, Reps. B. Carroll Reece and Howard Baker, were unopposed, as were three Democrats, Reps. Joe L. Ewins, Tom Murray and Robert Everett. Four other Democratic congressmen had opposition.

Rep. J. B. Frazier faced Cooper T. Holt, former national commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, at Chattanooga. Rep. J. Carlisle Loser was opposed by State Rep. Richard Fulton at Nashville.

Facing relatively minor opposition were Reps. Ross Bass of Pulaski and Clifford Davis of Memphis. Bass was opposed by E. L. Brown, Clarksville businessman, and Davis by Richard Farrell, a union official.

Thomas Wins

KANSAS CITY — Bobby Thomas of Greenville won his second match in the 13th USGA Junior Amateur Championship Gold Tournament this morning, defeating Mark Mathison one-up.

Thomas was scheduled to play his second match against Austin Straus of Woodhaven, New York at 1:17.

Raul Warns Of Fidel's Return

HAVANA (AP) — Raising clenched fists, Raul Castro told a midnight meeting of the Red-tinted Latin-American Youth Congress that his ailing big brother Fidel will bounce back with a vengeance.

Scuffing at rumors the Prime Minister is seriously ill or will be replaced, the 29-year-old minister of armed forces declared: "The best answer for those people (who spread rumors)—they're going to get it directly."

Raul, heir-designate to the leadership of the Cuban revolution, said his 34-year-old brother is "resting well" and "is going to come back really strong."

"Those detractors and the cynical international press and rumor-mongers are going to feel the strength of Fidel," he declared.

"Let them on looking at the Official Gazette have a doctor at their side."

This was taken as a warning that some new retaliatory laws—especially against Americans—are being cooked up. The Castro regime, in ruling by decree, puts laws into effect by publishing them in the Official Gazette.

Raul was in a fiery and confident mood in his first public appearance since returning from a visit to Moscow and talks with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

The youthful revolutionist hit hard at the theme of spreading the Cuban revolution through the Western Hemisphere.

B-58 Hustler Is Now In Operation

NEW YORK (AP) — A supersonic jet bomber, the B58 Hustler, has been put in operation by the Air Force Strategic Air Command.

General Dynamics Corp. said that 12 of the new bombers had been turned over to the 43rd Bomb Wing at Carswell Air Force Base, Fort Worth, Tex. The base will be used to train B58 crews.

Ethan Allen captured Ft. Ticonderoga in northeast New York state in 1775.

Hopes Gathering Can Show Power

MUNICH, Germany (AP) — Speaking of the Communist countries, which are Austria's neighbors, he said: "The situation of the Church there is very difficult, but as always when the Church is persecuted there are some who hold strongly to the faith. The Church cannot be destroyed in those countries, and what we lose in quantity we gain in quality."

The Rev. Hans Hirschmann, a Jesuit from Frankfurt who sat at the cardinal's side, gave a number of examples of cooperation between Catholics and Protestants.

Many Protestant families in Munich have lodged Catholics taking part in the congress, as Catholic families lodged Protestants who came to a major meeting here last year. A German Catholic archbishop, Lorenz Jaeger, is the guest of the Lutheran bishop of Bavaria, Hermann Ditzelbinger.
