United Nations Troops Advance Guard Turned Back By Katanga; Refuse Entry

By ADRIAN PORTER

ELISABETHVILLE, the Congo (AP)—A 20-man advance guard to pave the way for U. N. soldiers was barred from entering Katanga today and sent back to Leopoldville with U. N. Undersecretary Ralph J. Bunche.

Bunche said the men were technicians and should be allowed to start work here. Katanga officials said they were U. N. soldiers and refused to allow them to get off their plane.

Premier Moïse Tshombe of Katanga, who has proclaimed the secession of his province from the new Congo republic, showed he meant business in refusing to allow the United Nations to put his territory under U. N. patrol. He has said U. N. forces would have to fight their way in.

Bunche, top troubleshooter in the Congo for Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld, came here Thursday and failed to work out a compromise with Tshombe. Today Bunche went back to the Congo capital of Leopoldville to report to Hammarskjöld.

him up was surrounded by Katanga police and soldiers as it stood on the airfield. Godefroid Munongo, Katanga interior minister, went aboard, and personally informed the U. N. delegation it would not be allowed to get out.

Munongo told newsmen he had warned Bunche that intervention of U. N. soldiers would be regarded as aggression and Katanga would then be entitled to take legitimate measures of defense. He said Bunche had told him that U. N. soldiers would not come until after further negotiations.

Just before Bunche left, Tshombe told a news conference: "I have gathered all tribal chiefs of Katanga in Elisabethville in order to explain the internal and external situation of Katanga. I have informed them of the decision to oppose the arrival of U. N. troops. The chiefs agree with me. Dr. Bunche has been informed of my decisions and he realizes the situation is dangerous."

It appears that Tshombe has carried his opposition to U. N. intervention as far as possible on the diplomatic level, and the next move is up to the U. N.

Tshombe appealed to Bunche Thursday to hold off on the movement of soldiers into Katanga and to refer his government's secession from the central Congo government to the Security Council for a review of the whole Katanga question.

Tshombe told a news conference Thursday night he was under the impression U. N. troops would not begin arriving Saturday but conceded Bunche had given him no assurances. Hedging, he added that he would not be surprised if the troops came.

Members of Premier Patrice Lumumba's central government were certain to oppose any attempt to take the question of Katanga to the Security Council. Katanga's mines, rich fields and pastures furnished 60 per cent of the wealth of the pre-independence Belgian Congo, and Lumumba and his ministers have made plain they consider part of the U. N. military force's mission is to enforce the central government's authority over Tshombe and his rebellious Katanga regime. Hammarskjöld in a statement Wednesday said the U. N. force had not been sent to take orders from the Congo government or mix in the infant nation's internal affairs. Elisabethville's Europeans were anxious, but there were no signs of panic or preparations for a mass flight in fear the province might become a battleground. But long lines of Africans 16 to 30 years old marched or cycled to an army barracks in answer to the provincial government's general mobilization order, issued after Tshombe announced U. N. troops would have to fight their way in Saturday. They sang independence songs as they came to sign up. Forty or so members of Tshombe's opposition, who favor U. N. intervention, gathered near Elisabethville's main hotel Thursday in the mistaken belief that Bunche was staying there. The police quickly pounced on them under emergency regulations banning public meetings of more than five people, and dispersed the crowd by tossing a couple of small smoke bombs.

To prevent any disturbance during Bunche's visit, most of the police were shifted to patrolling African residential areas. Jeeps loaded of armed men moved up and down the streets or stationed themselves at main intersections.

Charge Waste In Military Housing

WASHINGTON (AP)—The General Accounting Office says the Defense Department spent more than 147 million dollars needlessly in building military housing at 15 U. S. bases.

The watchdog agency, in a 129-page report to Congress Thursday, also found the military guilty of many abuses under the Capehart housing program. The Pentagon denied the charges.

Under the Capehart program, the government provides land and utilities to contractors, who build family housing at military installations for uniformed and key civilian personnel. Financing is obtained by the contractors in payments made from rental of the units.

In its breakdown of what it termed excess housing, the report listed 367 excess units at Ft. Bragg, N.C., valued at $9,200,000; 849 units valued at $21,200,000 at Cherry Point Marine Air Station, N.C.; and 213 units valued at $5,300,000 at Beaufort, S.C. (including Parris Island Marine Recruit Depot).

GAO said that in May, 1958, when the Navy gave final approval to construction of the 849 units at Cherry Point, information was available showing that the "maximum permissible program" based on data originally reported in 1956 had significantly decreased.

"In addition," the report said, "we found that an incorrect percentage factor for enlisted personnel was used in the initial computations, which also resulted in an oversight of needs."

When contracts were let in October, 1957 for an 1,100-unit project at Beaufort and Parris Island, the GAO said gross need for housing had decreased, although the project initially had been approved for 2,980 units on the basis of 1956 data.

The report explained the gross need had been reduced mainly because of reduction in number of officers and non-commissioned officers eligible for housing. It declared that had "proper recognition" been given to factors cutting down on the gross need, 213 of the 1,100 houses built "could not have been justified."

It added that "the evidence of overbuilding is further substantiated by the fact that FHA has been required to foreclose on 60 mortgaged housing units at Beaufort in the Battery Park, Inc. project."

"We were further informed," said GAO, "that the housing situation at that site now exists in the Beaufort area is having a very depressing effect on the overall real estate market in the area."

The report also noted that the company will employ about 300 people at first, working with one shift, and about the second week of operations will increase up to three shifts. A maximum of about 700 or 800 will be employed later, Ryan said.

He said the company "will remain open as long as the tobacco is here," tentatively until about Thanksgiving.

Word has been received from Harold Thomas, father of Bobby Thomas, that the Greenville youth was eliminated in the fourth round of the USGA Junior Amateur Tournament this morning.

Thomas, making his bid for the national title was defeated by Bruce Fischer, Manning Iowa. Thomas had a 37-40 for a 77, while Fischer shot a total score of 76.

He said the company "will remain open as long as the tobacco is here," tentatively until about Thanksgiving.

Street Given New Name By Council; No Action Taken On Traffic Lights

By ALVIN TAYLOR, Reflector City Editor

South Dickinson Ave., the four-lane drive from West End Circle to the city limits, has a new name as the result of City Council action last night.

The street will now be known as Memorial Drive to tie in with the older portion of Memorial Drive from the new Tar River bridge to West End Circle.

Formerly there had been a South Dickinson and a West Dickinson Ave. beginning where Dickinson Ave split in a "Y" at West End Circle.

However, road improvements in recent years have made Memorial Drive and South Dickinson Ave. a continuous thoroughfare.

The Farmville Highway from West End Circle to the city limits will continue to be known as Dickinson Ave.

City Manager Leonard Bloxam told the councilmen that the name change will not bring about any house numbering changes in the Hillsdale section. Numbers from West End Circle to the river will be worked in with the present numbers in Hillsdale.

The name change was recommended by the Planning-Zoning Commission.

Councilman W. S. Stafford reported that he had not heard from Fred Webb concerning a dust problem allegedly caused by the Fred Webb Inc. Grain Elevator.

Stafford and City Manager Bloxam had been appointed to work with Webb on the problem. Webb told the council at a special meeting last week that a representative of a dust control firm was to arrive here and study the problem.

Stafford said he had been unable to contact Webb yesterday.

However, the councilman said he had been called by two citizens in Meadowbrook who told him the dust situation still exists.

Mayor S. Eugene West asked Stafford to contact Webb to see what he can expect.

He suggested "leaving the matter open until the next meeting. Then if it is not carried through it will be time for the council to take some action."

Councilmen took no action on two traffic control lights pending traffic count results. One was an old request for a light at the college entrance near the administration building on Fifth St.

Bloxam said he had requested a traffic count by the Highway Commission but apparently the item had been overlooked. However, he said the report should now be available no later than Aug. 8.

The traffic light request came up some months ago.

Mayor West said he felt "we have neglected it and owe the college an apology for not having acted earlier than this date."

He called for a report on the matter at the next council meeting.

The second traffic light considered would be at Charles and 14th St. Bloxam suggested that traffic counts be made here after school opens when traffic is heaviest.

Councilmen approved a series of bond ordinances in connection with the bond election to be held September 27. Citizens will be voting on the issuance of $550,000 in bonds.

Councilmen were told that the city and Utilities Commission's total bonded indebtedness would be $2,974,000 if the bond issue is approved.

Presently the city government alone has a bonded indebtedness of $341,000.

Councilmen approved the purchase of a Ford truck from Jenkins Motor Co. at a price of $2,633.68. This was the low of three bids. White Chevrolet bid $2,642.33 and Greenville Equipment Co., $2,980.13.

The truck will be used for garbage collection and councilmen approved the purchase of a packer type body to cost $3,450.

Approval of an ordinance calling for inspection of water heater installations was granted by the councilmen. Inspection of the installations would be done by the Building Inspector J. W. Wilson at a fee, to be paid to the city, of $1.50.

City Fathers heard a complaint from Robert H. Seaborn about the dust problem at First and Eastern St. Mayor West said that the paving of the street would be possible if the street improvement portion of the bond election is approved.

In the meantime, the city officials said, use of calcium chloride would be continued on the street to help with the dust problem.

Also heard was a request for paving in the vicinity of St. James Church and this was deferred pending results of the bond election.

A taxi franchise in the name of Roscoe Norfleet was cancelled and it was re-issued to Eddie Mack Cherry at the request of the two men involved.

Councilman W. S. Stafford said he had been contacted by citizens in the residential area near Greenwood Cemetery concerning some houses being constructed facing an 18 foot alley. Since the houses involved are just beyond the city limits, the council could take no action.

Mayor West read a letter from Miss Elizabeth Copeland, Shepherd Memorial librarian, reporting on the library for the past year.

"I think that speaks fine for the library," the mayor declared. "I want to compliment them on the report."

White House, will be presiding over the Senate. Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts, the Democratic presidential nominee, and his running mate, Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, will be running things on the majority side of the aisle.

Nixon, after a conference with Eisenhower here last Monday, said the President had made it clear it was his view that it was vitally important that this be a (Congressional) session in which the interests of the people rather than politics be put first."

But at the same time Nixon was political realist enough to say he doubted that much will be accomplished at the brief session.

At the summer White House Eisenhower aides are looking for much political jockeying — and they say the President is planning accordingly.

James C. Hagerty, presidential press secretary, announced about three weeks ago that Eisenhower when Congress reconvenes would sound an appeal for restraint against big spending and for action on the administration's legislative proposals.

How Eisenhower does this — whether in a TV-radio address, in a message read for him to Congress or in a personal appearance at the Capitol — is only a matter of mechanics. And the President undoubtedly has made up his mind by this time as to just how he will make his appeal.

Hearing Planned On Superhighway

NEW BERN, N.C. (AP) — The State Highway Commission will hold a public hearing on new Interstate 77 at its next meeting, scheduled for Aug. 25 at Mount Airy.

The commission must decide on a route for the superhighway which will connect Charlotte with Canton, Ohio, and the Middle West.

Two routes — links between Elkin and the Virginia line — have been proposed. One would pass through Low Gap and cross the line near the Blue Ridge Parkway.

The second would run further east.

The most important act of the commission here Thursday was a decision on a site for a two million dollar bridge connecting Morehead City and Beaufort a short distance north of the present outmoded bridge.

Highway Director W. F. Babcock said construction can begin late this year or early in 1961.

The commission also: 1. Heard groups from Warren, Halifax and Northampton counties discuss location of a million dollar bridge over the Roanoke River upstream from the new Gaston dam; and voted to locate the structure in the vicinity of Eaton's Ferry.

2. Awarded contracts on 25 road projects opened for bidding July 26. The projects cost more than eight million.

3. Voted to take over operation of a privately-owned ferry service running from the mainland near Morehead City to the Emerald Isle section west of Atlantic Beach beginning next summer.

4. Established a hands-off policy in a dispute between farmers and a forest commission over water blockage resulting from a causeway across Dismal Swamp on U.S. 158 in Gates, Pasquotank and Perquimans counties.

5. Requested construction on an art museum wing-adjacent to the Highway Building in Raleigh — be halted because of crowded conditions in the present Highway Building.

Stories Conflict On Chaining Of Six-Year-Old

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — A six-year-old boy and his parents told conflicting stories after sheriff's officers found the child "chained like an unruly animal" to an iron bed in his home Thursday.

Sheriff T. O. Lang said the boy told him he had been chained to the bed "all my life." The tearful and frightened parents insisted he had been chained only a few months to teach him a lesson.

The mother said four months, the father two.

Ready To Begin Processing Leaf

FARMVILLE — Residents of Farmville are already aware of the tobacco aroma and "that time of the year" as preparations are being made to begin operations at the A. C. Monk and Company Inc.

T. S. Ryan, secretary of the organization, said today that the Monk tobacco company has already begun receiving tobacco from most of the Georgia and Florida markets. According to present plans, processing operations will begin about next Tuesday.

The company will employ about 300 people at first, working with one shift, and about the second week of operations will increase up to three shifts. A maximum of about 700 or 800 will be employed later, Ryan said.

He said the company "will remain open as long as the tobacco is here," tentatively until about Thanksgiving.

Word has been received from Harold Thomas, father of Bobby Thomas, that the Greenville youth was eliminated in the fourth round of the USGA Junior Amateur Tournament this morning.

Farmer Injured As Car Struck Tractor On Road

A 77-year-old Winterville farmer was injured last night when the tractor he was operating was struck in the rear by a car on Rural Paved Road 1711 about one mile east of Winterville.

Heber Francis Worthington of Route 1, Winterville, was "doing well," doctors said this morning. Investigating Patrolman R. E. Tayloe of Grifton identified the driver of the car as Harold Dalis Nobles, 28, of Route 1, Winterville. Tayloe said Nobles' wife received lacerations of the face and head but was not admitted to the hospital.

According to officers, the investigation of the accident, which occurred about 7:50 p.m., is incomplete.

Unclaimed Car Awaiting Pilot

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP)—The gleaming Mercedes-Benz automobile of Francis G. Powers, pilot of the ill-fated U2 reconnaissance plane shot down over Russia, still awaited a claimant here today after arriving by ship Monday night.

U. S. Customs officials here said no one has appeared to request release of the automobile and added that unless released duty-free by the U. S. Department of State, a tariff will be levied against it.

The automobile arrived in Charleston aboard the Lebanese freighter Helene which picked up the vehicle at Hamburg, Germany, along with a cargo of Volkswagen automobiles manufactured in Germany.

The car is consigned to Milledgeville, Ga., home of Powers' wife. Mrs. Powers was reported to be in Washington with her husband's family preparatory to leaving for Moscow where the pilot awaits trial on charges of spying against the Soviet Union.

The South Carolina State Ports Authority, at whose North Charleston terminals the car arrived and where it is stored, has waived any charges for handling the vehicle out of deference for the Powers family.

Pitt Industrial Development Spokesmen Assert Commission Must Be Continued

Government and Industrial Conservation and Development, development leaders of Pitt County is the only way we are going to get much industry in this county's Development Commission.

Perkins added, "I think one reason we haven't gotten any more industry than we have in Pitt is because there has not been a close enough relationship with the C and D. The commission was set up by the county to enhance our ability to secure industry and a detriment to our county now to abolish it, fulfilled its purpose and should be abolished. Weston's tenure as Development Commission."

Robert Martin of Bethel, County Commissioner and former member of the Development Commission told The Reflector, "I agree with Mr. Bloxam that the Development Commission, C and D places emphasis on area development and depends on county development commissions to supply a good bit of information and details and to work with locating prospects. Local think we still need a commission groups in Pitt County do not have to work together in the county time to do the job. Without a central county agency the commission to continue working with the local unit to carry the thing on."

Mayor Peterson is president of the Ayden Development Corp. Vernon White of Winterville, Development Commission, said, "I thought he (Weston) was out of line to make that statement. I certainly will disagree with what he said. We are getting now to where we think we can do something. We are at the point where we can accomplish something."

The work of the commission has been organizational until now, White pointed out. "I think it is something that should be permanent. It is not anything temporary. You can't get industry overnight. It takes quite a while."

White said the commission was going ahead in looking for Weston's replacement. As treasurer of the commission he said, "I don't know of any money that has been spent that I would consider unwise."

writing that has gone on for such a length of time that I personally lost confidence that Mr. Weston would ever secure any desirable industries for our communities."

W. W. Speight, chairman of the Greenville Committee of 100, told The Reflector, "In my opinion it would be absurd and sheer utter nonsense to do away with the Pitt County Development Commission and a full time economic consultant for Pitt County."

"Instead of reaching the stage that we can do away with the Development Commission, I am of the opinion we have just reached the stage where we need this body and an industrial engineer to furnish prospects with the attention, time, energy and details required in this highly specialized field."

"While it is true that we have local industrial organizations and committees, these are composed of businessmen and professional men who do not have time to spend to furnish the vast amount of statistics, brochures, maps, photographs, labor surveys and other details that have to be furnished in order to supply industrial prospects with the detailed information that is an absolute essential. We have a great need and will have a great need of the Industrial Commission and a technical expert who can work full time as a consultant and industrial engineer in planning and assisting in the location of industry in Pitt County and in its cities and towns."

"I feel that the small tax levy for support of this Commission is justified. If we did away with the Commission we might save a little tax and lose our economy."

J. M. Horton, Fountain member of the Commission, said of Weston's comments, "I think he is entirely mistaken should continue. The Industrial Commission should continue. It has done right much work and it looks to me like that work would be thrown away if it did not continue."

Horton is a member of the committee screening applicants for the job of economic consultant. He said he was in favor of hiring a new consultant "just as early as possible."

Mayor Wiley Gaskins of Grifton, commission member, said, "I don't agree with him (Weston) that it is time to abolish the commission. In fact I think we are just beginning to roll in Pitt County. People are becoming conscious of the fact that in order to bring industry to Pitt County we are going to have to get down to business."

"We think here that Mr. Weston has done a wonderful job for us in helping us get this industry over here, but I don't think the thing to do is abolish the commission just because he is leaving. I don't agree with him there at all."

"We feel here that through the efforts of Mr. Weston and the commission we were able to land the industry. Of course, it took a lot of local effort, too."

"As evidence of the progress made by the Development Commission we'd like to invite the people of Pitt County to come over and see our plant (Grifton Clothing Co.)."

Ayden Mayor S. F. Peterson said, "I think Mr. Weston has done a very remarkable job since he has been here in organizing the county for industrial development, especially working up local community or town organizations to try to get industry in here and also in getting up a brochure. He has been a very hard worker."

"However, as far as his article on the county not needing the commission services are further, I don't believe that is what we need."

"I feel we should continue the county-wide Development Commission working in the position that Mr. Weston has held."

Houseguest Given Dessert-Bridge Party

GRIFTON—On Wednesday night Mrs. J. L. Quinley was hostess at a dessert bridge at her home on the Greenville Highway to compliment her houseguest, Mrs. Griffin Patrick of Atlanta, Ga., and Mrs. J. W. Lynn of Burlington.

Eleven tables were placed throughout the house for the games. On the buffet in the dining room arrangements of red gladioli were used. In the den white gladioli bouquets decorated the game area.

Guests were greeted by Mrs. Sallie Johnson and the hostess who presented them to the honorees.

A dessert with salted nuts was served before the games and later in the evening iced drinks were passed.

Mrs. Quinley remembered her guests with gifts and the prizes for the evening went to Mrs.

'Dairy Dressing' Or 'Dip' Still Under Marketing Study

RALEIGH—Fresh, homogenized cottage cheese, frequently referred to as a "dairy dressing" or "dip", is one of the newest dairy products and is still under study in marketing tests.

This new product should be of special interest to consumers who are weight-watchers, budget-watchers, or like gourmet food items. Homogenized cottage cheese combines high nutritional value and low calorie content with a smooth texture which makes it ideal as a dip or spread for between meal or party snacks. It also may be used as a dressing for hot baked potatoes or cold salad, as many people use flavored sour cream.

Of various flavors used for this low-fat spread, market sales of thousands of pounds show that the most popular are Roquefort and Blue cheese, followed by horseradish, onion and pimento.

Stretching Dollars

RALEIGH—Fruit has been in the spotlight for several weeks now and will continue to be as apples begin to appear on the market. Fruit prices continue low as peaches are still in plentiful supply. Yellow-fleshed freestone Elberta peaches are excellent for all purposes.

Mrs. Ruby P. Uzzele, consumer marketing specialist for the N.C. Agricultural Extension Service, says watermelons and cantaloupes are in bountiful supplies now. Early apples for pies and apple sauce are beginning to reach market. The crop is lighter this year but quality is good. California's Bartlett pear production is expected to exceed 300,000 tons.

Beef is widely featured. Mrs. Uzzele says beef is on sale at thrifty, hard-to-resist prices. Take your choice since steaks and roasts as well as ground beef and stewing beef are being featured. Quality cuts offer most in economy for your beef dollar. Pork offers most economical prices on picnic shoulders, ribs and pork chops, sausage and bacon.

Economical purchases are being found in fridges. Egg supplies are decreasing so look for best buys in medium and small eggs.

Look for excellent vegetable quality in tomatoes, corn, butter beans, snap beans, peppers, cucumbers and squash. The western section of N. C. reports a good crop of snap beans and cabbage with first harvesting of potatoes due around August 15. Plan now to can and freeze these vegetables. California lettuce, celery and broccoli are available at lower prices.

Her Patience Pays Off For Handicapped

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Thirty-five years ago, Mrs. Emerald Barman Arbogast, American Mother of 1960, was faced with a frightening dilemma: Her sixth child was a Mongoloid.

She had two choices: put the child away, or keep him.

"People told me, 'get the child out of sight. Put him in an institution,'" says Mrs. Arbogast. "That was the way it was done, then."

Mrs. Arbogast called her family together and let them vote—because the child would be their problem, too.

"He was born to this family," she says. "He is one of us. Are we going to accept the fact and meet it as a challenge?"

The family gave her a vote of confidence. And Mrs. Arbogast started on a pioneering venture in child therapy. The results of her decision:

The son, Grant, today lives a near-normal life. plays the piano, paints, rides horses. He's one of the happiest people in town.

Techniques developed by Mrs. Arbogast in caring for her own child are now in use throughout the nation.

And Mrs. Arbogast—now 71 and still active in care of what she calls "exceptional children"—was also honored as California's Mother of Year.

"I haven't done anything, really," says Mrs. Arbogast. "I've just done the task that was set before me."

When she started caring for her own son he could neither walk nor talk. She searched libraries for books on care of Mongoloid child. There were none.

She started from the beginning, developing her own techniques. Some she borrowed from methods used in teaching Helen Keller. It required vast patience; teaching Grant to talk took 14 years.

She saw early that her son needed friends. She met Mrs. Allen McCoy, fighting a similar go-it-alone struggle for her son, Jerry. They established a small school which grew, in time, to Los Angeles' nationally-known Exceptional Children's Foundation.

"The Mongoloid child," explains Mrs. McCoy, "is an unfinished child. One whose brain develops too slowly. But he is capable of learning, slowly."

"He is sensitive and easily confused. His lessons must be reduced to simplicity and require much patience in the teaching."

The keys to therapy, the mothers found, were these: love, understanding and discipline. Some of their alumni are now attending public schools as a result of therapy. All of them have learned to live happier lives.

And today the shelves are full of books on care for such children—many of them dealing with the Arbogast techniques, or those developed as a result of her work. Her endeavors, say some, have helped pull thinking about retarded children "out of the Middle Ages."

For parents who fear their children may be less than normal, Mrs. Arbogast has this advice: "Find out as quickly as possible, seek aid—and accept the fact without dismay."

Colors Create Illusions

RALEIGH—Do you realize that colors can create illusions? They can make you feel warmer or cooler. They can even make you appear larger or smaller. And they can cause your skin to seem clear and lovely or red or yellow. Because color can play these tricks, it is important that you use it correctly.

Miss Mary Em Lee, clothing specialist for the N. C. Agricultural Extension Service, says red and orange seem to give an impression of warmth; blue and blue-violet, of coolness. Keep this in mind when selecting colors to wear at various times of the year. In winter, colors in the red family will seem much more pleasing than in summer.

You should also remember in selecting colors that light colors reflect light making a person actually feel cooler, whereas dark colors absorb light making one feel warmer.

The size of an object is also influenced by the value and intensity of the color. Colors, light in value and bright in intensity, seem to increase the size, whereas colors that are dark in value and dull in intensity appear to decrease the size. A good way to test this fact is by looking at your feet in white and in black shoes.

Miss Lee advises you to be careful in selecting colors while selecting your fall wardrobe. With such a profusion of color this year, be sure you plan a color scheme before shopping.

By DR. ED HIRSHBERG

Looking ahead—and behind—a little, we can tell you that August, despite the weather, is quite a month. . . . Here are some important anniversaries in it: Your Columnist's birthday. . . . Prince Margaret's birthday. . . . 15th anniversary of the dropping of the first and second atom bombs on Japan, and the end of World War II—a date which we well remember, as a youthful drummer-boy with the airforce in Germany. . . .

For women, August is also important—on the 26th, just 40 years ago, the 19th Amendment to the U. S. Constitution was put into effect, giving women the right to vote. . . . And back in 1890, on August 19, the Daughters of the American Revolution was organized. . . .

Just to show you it wasn't all clear sailing in the same month, in 1659—that's pretty far back—a Puritan member of the English Parliament tried to get a law passed preventing women from bobbing their hair. It didn't, and they still do. . . . For more details on women, not only in August, we recommend Morton Hunt's article in this week's N. Y. Times Magazine, called "And Now—It's the Femininity". . . .

The Rich Profits
Many academic members of the community and some others must have read with considerable interest the piece in a recent issue of "The Reporter" called "The Affluent Professors," concerning the lush lives which some members of the academic profession lead because of lavish fellowship grants and other plums. The article was misleading—the huge majority among the teachers in our colleges live very modest lives indeed, as we personally can testify and as statistics will show. People do not enter the teaching profession on any level in order to get rich. The most recent "Reporter"—for August 4—contains a rejoinder to the affluent profs article, by Seymour Harris, a professor of Political Economy at Harvard. He demonstrates our point—profs are not affluent, and are far from it when compared to the members of other comparable professions, particularly doctors, lawyers and businessmen. . . .

Folk-Song Interpreter Entertains Audience

Frank M. Warner, billed as one of America's foremost folk-song interpreters, lived up to his reputation Thursday evening in his folk-music recitals before a summer session audience in Austin Auditorium at East Carolina College. His concert was sponsored by the Summer Session Student Government Association. . . .

Not spectacular, but meaningful, was the description of the recital heard from the appreciative audience which forgot the August night humidity to listen to a man whose collection of American folk songs ranks him as "top" in the nation. . . . He is almost a crusader for the preservation of the American heritage in songs, and is a self-styled "missionary to the Yankees," now that he makes his home in Mineola, Long Island, N. Y. His collections of songs are being preserved by the Library of Congress in Washington. . . .

Sitting Ducks Given Attention

MISHAWAKA, Ind. (AP)—Who wants to be a sitting duck? Well, ducks do, at least in the opinion of Fritz Carlson, 78. So Carlson went to the St. Joseph County commissioners and complained about speed boats taking over the St. Joseph River from his duck friends. . . .

Josephine Perkins, Negro, of 106 South Side St. was charged with possession of non-tax-paid whiskey for the purpose of sale yesterday afternoon when officers found one and one-half gallons of illegal spirits in a closet of her house. . . .

Local Scene

Opening performance of the EOC Playhouse presentation of "See How They Run," an uproarious English farce comedy, will be next Wednesday night, August 10. Curtain is at 8 in Austin Auditorium, and it should be a welcome change in our jaded diet of summer entertainment. Lead roles will be played by Dornin Jenkins and Doug Mitchell, Greenville names of wide and varied acting experience. Student director is Elizabeth Smith, also a local girl. The show will be repeated on August 15th, and then goes on tour to the seashore—we've seen some rehearsals and can assure you that you'll have a good evening's diversion if you take it in—the public, as always, is invited for a small admission charge. . . . At the local cinema: another comedy, Jerry Lewis in "The Bellboy," coming August 9 through 12. Later on Alfred Hitchcock's "Psycho" will be in town. . . .

No, The Job Is Not Yet Completed

It is difficult to imagine in this era of keen competition between communities, counties and states for industrial and economic development that Pitt or any other county could become so well organized in this endeavor in just 18 months that it should even consider disbanding its county-wide development commission.

It is even more difficult to imagine that the county's communities are so well organized with volunteer laymen in this field that the services of a qualified, full-time expert in this field would not be beneficial to the county's future economic development.

Notwithstanding the recommendation of Leonard Weston, former economic consultant for the Pitt County Development Commission, it would be folly indeed for this county to now consider abolishing its tax-supported development commission and discontinuing the work of that organization. Important groundwork for economic development of this county has been laid by the work of the commission and its employees during the past 18 months. Individual communities throughout the county now have organizations of local citizens ready to work with industry if they indicate an interest in locating in Pitt County. But in a very real sense, this is just the first step toward establishing a vital county-wide organization that will help boost the economic level of this county and its people.

To abolish the commission now and end its work would be to admit failure in our effort to cultivate a crop of smokestacks to go along with our fine agricultural economy. It would be to throw away the countless hours of time and effort put forth to place Pitt in a position where it could compete with other counties for industries that are seeking new plant sites in Eastern North Carolina.

Pitt County's Development Commission, in our opinion, has by no means fulfilled its mission of helping the county to develop from the standpoint of industry and a higher level of economy. The important work of economic development for the county must continue and it can best continue under the present organization of a county-wide tax supported commission supplemented by individual community development groups throughout the county.

Just because one man, associated with the project for 17 months, is not now associated with the undertaking appears to us inadequate grounds for disbanding the development effort as it is now organized in this county.

Economic development is not a short-range project that can be accomplished in a few short months. It is an undertaking which must continue over a period of years if maximum results are to be realized from the time, effort and money put into the project. It is, at the same time, a specialized field in which the services of a qualified full-time person can pay handsome dividends to a county in seeking out and working with prospects, working with community development groups, and coordinating a vital, vigorous development program for the county as a whole.

Pitt County needed its Development Commission two years ago when the citizens of the county approved its establishment by a majority vote. It needs its Development Commission now that work has been started on the road which will lead to greater economic progress for Pitt and its people. It will continue to need its Development Commission until such time as the county and its people are content to sit back and say "We're no longer interested in progress."

Already Asking Absentee Votes

By LYNN NISBET
ABSENTEES—At closing time Wednesday, August 3, the Secretary of State's office had 839 applications for absentee ballots from military personnel scattered all over the world. Some 200 of these had been processed for primary voting. The others have come in since the primary, and every mail brings a few additional requests. Thad Eure, Secretary of State, is reluctant to estimate the probable total number of military absentees, but thinks it will range from 1,500 to 2,000. Experience has proven that September is the heavy month, although applications are received all through October. Many of the October applicants will be left out in the cold, because of the time element.

Applications for ballots come into the Secretary of State's office and are promptly dispatched to the chairman of the board of elections in the resident county of the applicant. The county chairman forwards ballots as soon as they are available, and the absent voters returns them to the registrar in his home precinct. That process takes 10 to 30 days, depending upon the distance and mail service. And to be voted the ballot must be in hands of the registrar by November 8.

WRITE-IN—The campaign for write-in votes for L. Beverly Lake for Governor was launched this week by a "Committee for Honest Leadership". Boyce Hanna, front man for the group, stated a full-fledged news conference Wednesday to put his show on the road. He spoke in generalities, declined to answer questions about the make up of his committee and other specific items. He emphasized that Lake was not a party to the campaign effort, although ostensibly he would be its chief beneficiary.

VAGUE—Hanna was vague in answers to questions as to whether the "honest leadership" claim of his group was meant to imply that the regular Democratic and Republican party leadership in the state is not honest. He wiggled or wriggled (which word is most appropriate?) when asked if he would support the Democratic national ticket. He denied that main purpose of his "honest leadership" campaign is to aid the Republican candidate for governor. Its sole objective, he said, is to elect Beverly Lake as Governor.

Reporters reminded him that Lake got far less than half the Democratic votes cast in the primary, and historically the regular Republican candidate gets about one-third of the total general election votes, and asked where he hoped to get support for his man. Hanna's answer was to the effect he and his associates expect that enough voters will desert their parties to write-in the name of his candidate.

NEWSWORTHY—The organized write-in campaign is newsworthy on the basic theory that anything new and different has news value. That concept probably justified the newspaper, radio and television coverage given the Hanna interview. This is the first time anything like that has been attempted in North Carolina. The plan has been effective in other states, and four years ago Strom Thurmond won election to the United States Senate over Edgar Brown in South Carolina by an organized write-in campaign. Dale Alford won election to Congress in the Little Rock district in Arkansas by use of stickers, rather than write in of his name. Printed stickers are outlawed in North Carolina.

HELPFUL?—Many North Carolina Democrats think the write-in campaign for Lake may be helpful, rather than harmful, to Democratic nominee Terry Sanford. The reasoning behind that appraisal goes like this: Traditionally the Democratic nominee gets about two-thirds of the total vote, the Republican nominee about one-third. Off-side candidates with names on the ballot and write-ins have never received enough votes to disturb the major party ratio. The voters who will write in Lake's name probably would not have voted for Sanford anyway. They either would have voted for Republican Gavin or not voted at all. So they constitute no serious threat to the Democratic Sanford majority.

On the other hand, the fact of the write-in campaign with its attendant publicity may make a lot of regular Democrats mad enough to vote when they had intended to go fishing. Net result may be the biggest vote ever cast, with both Democratic and Republican candidates benefiting.

Of course, there is the possibility that the write-in campaign may capture popular interest because of its novelty and produce unexpected number of votes for Lake. Boyce Hanna is the only person your reporter has heard predict there will be enough Lake votes to seriously disrupt the traditional ratio of regular party participation.

Prospect Holds Small Hope For Friendship

The prospect of Fidel Castro's stepping aside as prime minister of Cuba and his brother Raul taking over the active command of Cuba's government holds out little hope that U. S.-Cuban relations will improve if the change becomes effective.

If anything, it is said that Raul is more anti-American than Fidel. In Raul's public appearances, there has also been the indication that he is perhaps more reckless and perhaps more ruthless than his brother who headed Cuba's revolution.

There is, however, the question of whether Raul has the personal ability or the popular appeal to hold the support in Cuba that Fidel has gathered behind his government. Will those who have followed Fidel follow Raul just as blindly if he becomes the active head of government?

While there is little to indicate any improvement in U. S.-Cuban relations if Raul becomes prime minister, there is the question of popular support of Castro's government if the revolution leader becomes a vague background figure rather than the man in the forefront. There is also the question of what conditions will exist at some future date when Fidel is pronounced physically and mentally fit to resume his duties of prime minister.

Any change in top command is bound to bring about a certain amount of unrest even among the devoted followers of Fidel Castro in Cuba. Certainly it will stimulate the unrest which already exists among Cubans who are opposed to the methods of government operations Castro's revolution has brought to Cuba. Though Castro's position in Cuba appears firm now, cracks could begin to appear if top-level changes take place.

Assassins Have Modern Tools

By JOHN SCALI
WASHINGTON AP—Old fashioned bomb-throwing assassins are becoming obsolete in an age where computing machines and electronic devices are essential tools of day-to-day existence.

The push-button, remote control killer has moved onto the international stage to pose the newest and most deadly threat to government leaders seeking to cope with problems in a tense, troubled world.

In the confidential world of spies, plots and security, the near-successful attempt June 24 to assassinate Venezuela's President Romulo Betancourt now is being studied intensively as an astonishing example of how killers have refined their grisly work.

Betancourt escaped death while riding in his official limousine when 1½ tons of dynamite, hidden in a parked car alongside the highway, were exploded by remote control.

His would-be killers set off the blast from a safe distance 300 yards away as Betancourt's car drew opposite the dynamite-rigged vehicle.

Blood streaming from cuts on his face, Betancourt staggered out, saved only because he had been sitting in the back seat. Three aides sitting in the front seat of his car were killed. Eight passersby were injured. His automobile was turned into a smashed fiery wreck.

A painstaking, relentless investigation by Venezuelan authorities since then has revealed the full scientific, cold-blooded scope of the assassination plot. The step-by-step details are due to be laid before the foreign ministers of the 21 American Republics when they meet in Costa Rica in two weeks.

At that time, Venezuela will offer a mass of evidence aimed at backing up its charges that Dominican strong man Rafael Trujillo, a bitter Betancourt foe, helped mastermind the plot.

A report last month in which Venezuela linked Trujillo with the plot was described in Washington by Dominican Ambassador Vergilio Diaz Ordóñez as a "fantastic reconstruction."

Top U. S. security officials who have examined the case report that it adds up to one of the most "sophisticated" assassination attempts in modern history. What worries them is that the Venezuelan example may inspire electronic gangsters around the world to try their hand.

The Venezuelan explosion was triggered off by a pocket-size radio-electronic device operated

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
THE MAN IN THE GLASS

Someone gave me recently a short poem entitled "The Man in the Glass." It is a reminder that the person whose respect we most need is the person we see in the mirror every morning as we wash our face. He needs to be our friend in the best sense of the term, he needs to have our respect, and we need to respect him if we are ever to be happy. If we can't look him straight in the eye, then we have failed to pass life's most difficult test. The item ends with these words: You may fool the whole world down the pathway of years, and get paid on the back as pass. But your final reward will be heartaches and tears,

By DON SCHLIENZ

Nearing An Anniversary

There's something to cleaning out a desk drawer, if one doesn't do it too often; you find some interesting items.

For instance, there was this year-old letter from the Tidewater Regional Blood Center (Norfolk, Va.) about the tenth anniversary of that blood-collecting agency.

That would make it now eleven years old... well, almost; that anniversary actually falls on September 15.

Now we have the bloodmobile coming into Pitt County next week, and the connection between that visit and an almost-anniversary and a desk-drawer cleaning sounds remote; but we try to pry.

The inspiration behind the Tidewater Regional Blood Center was a Dr. Southgate Leigh, of Norfolk. He got local citizens interested in the American Red Cross program and the Center was set up for business on September 15, 1949.

The bulk of the blood-collecting by this organization remains in Virginia. For instance, last year's quota of 45,000 pints was distributed between 23 chapters in Virginia and 20 chapters in North Carolina. The disparity doesn't end there.

Virginians were asked to provide 38,250 pints of blood, North Carolinians only 6,750 pints.

Other Editors Saying... Machines Scent An Issue

(Greensboro News)

Nothing makes a politician change his mind quicker than a political trend.

So the Republican convention had scarcely closed shop in Chicago before the agile Mr. Nixon was disengaging himself from the clutches of Ezra Taft Benson and proclaiming a new farm program.

A politician, like anybody else, should be able to change his mind without criticism, but the vice president was in a bind because he had been praising Benson's sliding scale of agricultural price supports for eight years. In April of 1954 he said:

I predict that the verdict of history will be that Secretary of Agriculture Benson has been one of the best secretaries of agriculture in our history and that he was a friend of the farmer.

In 1956 Mr. Nixon said, "I am confident that our program is right and if the people stick with us the farmer will share in unparalleled prosperity."

In January of this year Secretary Benson said he would expect Nixon to carry on present, Benson policies because the vice president "had participated in the development of the program."

Meanwhile, net farm income fell by 35 per cent and the value of stored surpluses increased from $1,500,000,000 in 1952 to $3,700,000,000 in the current fiscal year.

So last weekend, following evidence of Benson weakness all through the Midwest and election of a Democratic senator in North Dakota on an anti-Benson ticket, Mr. Nixon held a farm conference in which he declared:

It was rather apparent prior to the convention that I had some different views from Mr. Benson. I have the highest regard and respect for him. But it is essential to get out of the rigid, prepared position we have been in for the last eight years and make a major break-through. It calls for new leadership as well as new programs. We should approach this problem without being wedded to the past.

That was the death knell for Benson, Senator Kennedy lost no time getting into the act by using a few Nixon-like words on the vice president himself, Mr. Nixon, he said, has shown a lack of "basic beliefs" in his "betrayal of the Benson farm program which he helped to write."

Well, it all makes a hot political issue.

But the truth is Senator Kennedy himself voted for the Benson sliding scale of agricultural price supports in 1954. And as late as 1956 he voted against return to the fixed 90 per cent of parity supports mentioned in the Democratic platform but opposed by Mr. Benson as sinful.

Where does this leave the young IBM machines? It leaves them running as hard as ever, and hot on the trail of a vote-getting issue.

Meanwhile, Ezra Taft Benson, a good honest man with an over-simplified approach to the nation's agricultural woes, becomes the Typoid Mary of 1960 along with Nikita Khrushchev. The campaign will be won by the candidate who runs hardest against him. But the statesman of the future will be the man who comes up with a better mousetrap.

Last year's bloodmobile drive scheduled 263 community visits in Virginia and 84 in North Carolina. The over-all cost of the Center's operations is slightly under a quarter of a million dollars a year. (It's big business.)

Statistically speaking, the Regional Blood Center could probably get along without its North Carolina donors. Likewise, North Carolina could get along without a systematized blood-collection system. But I don't think we'd like it.

As a matter of fact, we get more out of the bloodmobile than we put into it. I can't recall an annual report that said the Center collected all the blood it had set as its goal.

But next week the bloodmobile opens its new "fiscal year" in Bethel and Greenville. There's no reason why the two visits shouldn't go over the top.

Giving blood is remarkably simple. Just be there, and if you're fit, they'll take it.

The process is neither painful nor harmful; you probably meet a dozen living testimonials to that during any week.

Ever since Monday I have been reminded that "after just one more church day" we're going fishing.

That's our boy; a memory like an elephant, if he wants to remember.

But now we come to the crux of the matter:

Do the fish know we're coming?

It would be a damaging blow to the future of the fishing interests if this initiation falls flat just because of a little lack of cooperation on the part of a few fish.

A fish-less return home could mean

- (1) the loss of a future buyer of tackle,
- (2) the loss of a potential boat-buyer,
- (3) the loss of a potential bait-buyer.

Add these, and associated spendings good fishermen are prone to make, and you've got a poor prospect for the sporting goods industry.

Consider too, this lad's eloquence today and what may happen when he talks others out of taking up fishing; not only his future associates are involved, but you've got to think of his children and grandchildren.

And all because no fish are biting next week?

Heaven forbid!

Good Buys In Autos Coming Up

By ELMER ROESSNER
Good buys in autos will be available for the rest of the year.

To get them, buyers will have to meet firm financing arrangements.

The cut-off in manufacture of 1960 models leaves dealers with fairly fat inventories. Counting autos in transit to dealers' showrooms, one firm, the Value Line Investment Survey, says dealers will have from 300,000 new used cars on hand before the end of the year. And counting used cars in dealers' hands, the American Bankers Association foresees an unsold inventory of about 1,000,000 cars.

The reasons for this are:

- 1. Manufacturers overestimated the year's car sales. They expected dealers to sell 6,750,000 cars and they made that many. Actually dealers will sell less than that before the new models appear.
- 2. The new models will be out earlier than usual this year, cutting the 1960 selling year short.

BUYERS WANT TO LOOK
The 1961 models, even though they exist only in mock-ups, have been gaining considerable attention. Throughout the year, in the trade, auto and consumer press, there has been talk about the coming models; larger compacts, smaller standards, aluminum engines, less trim, more trim, anodized aluminum instead of chrome, and trick devices without end.

Many people wanting a new car will wait to see what the 1961 models do. This attitude won't help move the 300,000 or more cars on the dealers' figurative shelves.

What's worse, waiting becomes a habit. The buyer who waits for 1961 models and then likes a special improvement on one is often the man who will wait until spring to see how the improvement works out in regular usage.

Therefore, demand for the rest of the year will be tempered, and dealers with heavy stocks will make concessions to close sales. Some will be forced to sell at less than their own delivered prices. And since the 1960 models are good — the average is probably the best so far — there will be good buys for sharp traders.

LENDERS SHOW CAUTION
However, banks and other lending institutions are aware of this and they have been alerted to be more cautious about credit terms.

In their eagerness to reduce inventories, dealers will be tempted to offer very soft terms, and then try to get banks or other lending agencies to accept them.

The American Bankers Association has already rushed a bulletin to members warning them that "pressure may be put on banks to extend terms in an effort to move unsold cars."

Most banks, it said, already hold a high volume of loans, direct and indirect, on both new and used cars. It added that more banks are maintaining a 36-month maximum on loans on new cars, both for dealers and customers, and 24 months for used cars.

The Federal Reserve reported that automobile loans, mostly installment loans for buying cars, reached an all-time high of $17-

Same Means For All

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
Copyright, 1960, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Words may have meaning; they mean by images; they may arouse emotions. They may really mean nothing. I was pondering on the words liberal and conservative as used in the Democratic conventions and came to the conclusion that while there were no precise definitions, there were images, pictures, emotions.

For instance, in 1952 Joe McCarthy was a problem to both the Democrats and the Republicans. He was regarded as a conservative, a Fascist, a hero, an anti-Communist, a pain-in-the-neck. But really how could one define Joe McCarthy in precise terminology? He advocated 100 per cent party but he would put every Communist in prison. Study that equation and what does it come up to in terms of ideas? Would not 100 per cent party cripple our economy so that the Communists could take us over? I once argued this point with Joe, who, despite all that has been said about him, was an intelligent man. The answer to this puzzle is that whereas anti-Communism is an emotional response to a profane phenomenon, it can be advocated by a liberal as well as a conservative. As a matter of historic fact, the most effective fighters against Communism were both in Europe and the United States are Socialists or ex-Communists; that is, Marxists.

The term, liberal, does not help us too much. It is a catch-all word used for many purposes and describing many states of mind. All the candidates of both parties regard themselves as liberals. But what do they mean? Kennedy wants more government, a Nixon less. Both will be forced by the course of events to have more government if the Cold War lasts another four years. It matters little what they say now; the course of events, altogether beyond their control, will determine the conditions.

Nixon recognizes that whether he or Kennedy is elected President, an explosion of ideas, events, movements will have to be met. But the means, he says, employed will be different. The factors of time, place, associates, enemies, neutrals will all have to be taken into consideration.

For example, at a moment when the United States was closest in alliance with Great Britain and France, the Suez war exploded. John Foster Dulles had minutes in which to weigh in the balance the attitude of the United States. Were we ready for a universal war? Was Russia ready? Would Russia risk that our unreadiness would be advantageous to the Kremlin? Could France, Great Britain and Israel hold the Arab forces at bay until the United Nations could settle the problem? If war broke out could it be localized or would it lead to a general war? Would the American people support a general war?

These decisions had to be made fast. The cost of error could be very great. For instance, when President Eisenhower permitted Khrushchev to abuse him in Paris, was he right? Should he have lost his temper and entered into a competition with a skunk? Should he have demanded that the summit meeting proceed without Khrushchev? Should he have declared war on Soviet Russia — such a one as the War over Jenkins's Ear?

Or to take one more example: Our State Department put Castro into power in Cuba. It turned out to be an error. Should we forthwith have sent our Marines into Cuba to take over?

These are a few samples of problems that come up and must be dealt with. Such problems will become more numerous as the Communist onslaught increases in intensity. Whether a man terms himself a liberal or a conservative, he will face these same problems. One day, it will be in the Congo; another day in Venezuela; another day on the streets of Ankara or San Francisco.

Whether a man is, by conviction, a follower of John Stuart Mill or Karl Marx or neither, he will nonetheless be faced by these problems and their immediate consequences. Usually political decisions are postponed

"When Israel was a child, then I loved him, and called My son out of Egypt," said God.—Hosea 11:1.

The prophets warned them, but the Israelites sacrificed to Baalim and burned incense to graven images.—Hosea 11:2.

"They shall walk after the Lord; He shall roar like a lion... the children shall tremble."—Hosea 11:10.

In spite of lies and deceit, "Judah yet ruleth with God, and is faithful."—Hosea 11:12.

MEMORY VERSE—I John 3:1.

God's Love for His Children

HOW THE LOVE OF GOD FOR ISRAEL WAS SPURNED AND HOW IT WILL FINALLY PROVE VICTORIOUS

Scripture—Hosea 11.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

"WHEN ISRAEL was a child, then I loved him, and called My son out of Egypt."—Hosea 11:1.

"This is the third time that Hosea reminds Israel of her earliest days of that youthful time when God called her out of Israel and led her through the wilderness."—The Rev. Dr. Wilbur M. Smith in Peloubet's Select Notes.

It would seem that after God had shown His people that He loved and cared for them, that the Israelites would be true to Him and worship only Him, but when false prophets called them "they sacrificed unto Baalim, and burned incense to graven cause of their own counsels, And My people are bent to backsliding from Me; though they called them to the most High, none at all exalt Him."—Hosea 11:5-7.

"How shall I give thee up, Ephraim? how shall I deliver thee, Israel? ... Mine heart is turned within Me, My repentings are kindled together."—Hosea 11:8.

Then the Lord said: "I will not execute the fierceness of Mine anger, I will not return to destroy Ephraim; for I am God, and not man; the Holy One in the midst of thee; and I will not enter into the city."—Hosea 11:9.

GOLDEN TEXT

"Behold, what manner of love the Father hath bestowed upon us, that we should be called the sons of God."—I John 3:1.

Images.—Hosea 11:2.

"I taught Ephraim (another name for Israel) also to go, taking them by their arms; but they knew not that I healed them."—Hosea 11:3.

"I drew them with cords of a man, with bands of love; and I was to them as they that take off the yoke of their jaws, and I laid meat unto them."—Hosea 11:4.

For their punishment God said: "He shall not return into the land of Egypt, but the Assyrian shall be his king, because they refused to return. And the sword shall abide on his cities, and shall consume his branches, and devour them, because based on copyrighted outlines prepared by the Division of Christian Education, National Council of Churches of Christ in the U.S.A., and used by permission. "They shall walk after the Lord; He shall roar like a lion; when He shall roar, then the children shall tremble."—Hosea 11:10.

"Ephraim compasseth Me about with lies, and the house of Israel with deceit; but Judah yet ruled with God, and is faithful with the saints."—Hosea 11:12.

Believe in God's goodness and in His love for us. Love and worship Him, carrying out the teaching of Christ Jesus, loving others as yourself. Then you will be doing your part in the fulfillment of God's will, says evangelist Oral Roberts in God Is a Good God.

A Boy Can Have A Broken Heart

NEW YORK (AP)—A boy can have a broken heart even if he is only 9 years old. When your dog is killed—

Shelby Gomez 10-week-old Collie died at sea in a shipboard accident. She was romping on deck and fell into a hatch.

The boy stood at the ship's rail with heavy heart Thursday when the liner Santa Paula edged slowly into its New York pier. Friends and relatives waved, but Shelby couldn't get interested.

Suddenly, he saw a Collie puppy on the pier. "She looks just like Lady," he told his father, Air Force Capt. Acurcio Gomas. The father, who has been transferred back to the United States after a tour in Venezuela, admitted the dog looked like Lady.

Father and son moved into the saloon. In a few moments a messenger walked into the saloon and gave the dog—a sleepy-eyed Collie, just 10 weeks old—to the boy.

The puppy was a gift from the ship's passengers and crew. They had taken up a collection and wired ahead for a dog matching Lady's description.

Shelby happily buried his nose into the dog's fur. "What are you going to call her?" someone asked.

"Lady," he replied. "Dog also can quickly mend the heart of a 9-year-old boy."

First Church of Christ, Scientist

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE Clarice ... Mankind's opportunity to awaken to God-given freedom will be emphasized at all Christian Science churches next Sunday.

The account in Acts (Ch. 16) of the imprisonment and deliverance of Paul and Silas will be related in the Scriptural readings. Selections from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy will include (227:14):

"Discerning the rights of man, we cannot fail to foresee the doom of all oppression. Slavery is not the legitimate state of man. God made man free. Paul said, 'I was free born.' All men should be free. Where the Spirit of the Lord is, there is liberty. Love and Truth make free, but evil and error lead into captivity."

The Lesson-Sermon on "Spirit" continues the current series which brings out the nature, essence, and wholeness of God.

Hemus: Los Angeles Did It And The Cards Can Too

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer
"Los Angeles did it last year. Why can't we do it this year?" That was St. Louis Manager Solly Hemus' reply today when asked whether he thought his Cardinals could make the jump from seventh to first place in one year.

Solly was right about the Dodgers. But whether he's right about his Redbirds is something else. The odds are overwhelming against him. Only three clubs—the 1926 Yankees, 1946 Red Sox and 1959 Dodgers—have ever leaped from seventh to first in one year.

Hemus, the eternal optimist, laughed at the odds. "What would you say the odds were last spring against our being in second place this late in the season?" he asked. That's exactly where the surprising St. Louis club landed Thursday night after knocking off Milwaukee, 4-2, to sweep the three-game series with the Braves and extend its winning streak to seven games. Not since May of 1958, when the Cards were managed by Fred Hutchinson, have they put together as many consecutive triumphs.

The defeat was the Braves' fourth straight and dropped them into third place, half a game behind St. Louis and four lengths back of Pittsburgh. The Pirates defeated the Dodgers 4-1 to remain 3½ games in front of St. Louis. San Francisco came from behind to nip Philadelphia 8-7 and the Chicago Cubs downed Cincinnati 5-3.

Washington dropped the White Sox 1½ games behind the American League leading Yankees by defeating Chicago 2-1. Boston swept an afternoon doubleheader from Kansas City 5-3 and 9-1. Cleveland, Detroit, Baltimore and the Yankees were idle.

Thursday was a day of "firsts" in the National League. The Cards whipped Bob Buhl for the first time this season. He has beaten them twice. Ray Sadecki, 19-year-old southpaw, hurled a six-hitter and helped register his sixth victory with a pair of singles.

George Witt posted his first victory in the rubber of the three game series with the Dodgers. Rocky Nelson's homer and Dick Groat's sacrifice fly following Bill Virdon's triple, snapped Don Drysdale's six-game winning streak and enabled the Pirates to defeat the Dodger's right-handed ace for the first time this season. He has beaten them twice. Willie McCovey's first hit since his recall by the Giants—a two-run pinch hit triple in the seventh —climaxed a five-run rally that enabled the Giants to overcome a 7-3 deficit. Johnny Antonelli won his fourth game.

Bob Will drove in two runs with a single in the seventh to break a tie and give the Cubs their third victory in the four-game set with the Reds.

The most damaging blow, however, was thrown by the Reds' Billy Martin. Objecting to a close pitch by rookie Jim Brewer which he claimed was deliberately thrown at his head, Martin first lunged his bat out toward the mound, then charged out and clipped Brewer under the right eye.

The 22-year-old rookie southpaw of the Cubs suffered a fractured orbital bone. He is expected to be out for a month. How long Martin will be out or how much he will be fined has not yet been determined. National League President Warren Giles has taken the matter under advisement.

Backstroker Frank McKinney and divers Paula Jean Pope and Gary Tobian have wrapped up their second Olympic trips. Eleven berths were taken up the first day, and seven more Thursday.

Now comes the tension-packed finale. There were finals in nine events and preliminary competition in three more today and tonight.

Rain pelted down during much of the day-long competition, but it failed to stop pretty young Lynn Burke of New York and stocky Mike Troy of Indiana University from setting world marks.

Miss Burke, 17, broke her own record in the 100-meter backstroke. She did it in 1:10.0 in preliminary heats. Troy bettered his own world mark with a 2:13.2 performance in the 200-meter butterfly.

Ann Warner, 15, an American record holder in the 200-meter backstroke, gained an Olympic berth Thursday night. Miss Burke has yet to get her place on the team but only a sharp reversal of form in tonight's final could keep her off.

Troy and McKinney earned their placed Thursday night. A West Coast 17-year-old, Robert Bennett, beat McKinney in his 100-meter backstroke for his place on the squad and Detroit's David Gillanders, a University of Michigan senior, finished second to Troy and won the trip.

Another exciting chapter will be written in the Jeff Farrell story tonight. The young appendicitis victim, who missed a courageous bid to make the Olympic team in two events only a week after getting off the operating table, has one more chance.

He will compete in the finals of the 200-meter freestyle. There are seven swimmers against him—and the six fastest in the group will be awarded Olympic spots.

Arm Trapped By Pool Drain Pipe
MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Fast work by another swimmer saved Trudy Kessler, 9, when her left arm was sucked into a swimming pool drain pipe.

Jim Pader held the girl's head above water and a pool attendant began lowering the water level. Firemen were unable to free Trudy's swollen arm, so the pipe rim was unscrewed. It was saved off at a hospital.

SERIES OF GAMES
A series of five baseball games will be held at South Greenville Recreation Park beginning Monday at 6:45 p.m.

Boston, winners of the first half of the Coastal Boy's League will be competing against the Giants, winners of the second half.

Laver, Holmberg Take Victories
SOUTHAMPTON, N.Y. (AP)—Three Australians—Rod Laver, Bob Hewitt and Bob Mark—were favored today to sweep into the semifinals of the Southampton tennis Invitational along with U. S. Davis Cup candidate Ron Holmberg.

Laver, the top-seeded Australian champion, faced Larry Nagler, the national collegiate champion from North Hollywood, Calif. Hewitt opposed Chris Crawford, Piedmont, Calif., and Mark played Lew Gerrard of New Zealand.

In the other quarter-final, second-seeded Holmberg of Brooklyn, met unseeded Rudy Hernandez of Detroit.

Gerrard scored a 6-3, 3-6, 6-3 win Thursday over Whitney Reed, Alameda, Calif. Laver advanced 6-3, 9-7, over Australian John Sharpe, and Mark routed Martin Riessen, Hinsdale, Ill., 6-0, 6-2. Hewitt advanced to the quarter-finals with a Wednesday win.

Holmberg polished off Allen Fox, Los Angeles, 4-6, 9-7, 6-2, as did Crawford, 6-2, 8-6, over Ramsey Earnhart, Ventura, Calif. Nagler routed Eduardo Zuleta of Ecuador, 6-3, 6-2.

Graniteers Rally For 5-4 Win Over Roanoke Rapids

By JOHNNY HUDSON
Reflector Sports Editor
A punchless band of Graniteers suddenly came alive in the fifth inning last night and went on to topple previously undefeated J. P. Stevens of Roanoke Rapids 5-4 in the third night of the district softball tournament.

Cox Armature of Greenville was eliminated from the tournament in the first game of the Thursday night doublebill by Goldsboro, 3-1.

Strangled by the pitching grip of Roanoke Rapids' pitching ace, Maxie Clippard, for four innings, the Greenville club sent nine men to the plate in the fifth inning while scoring four runs.

Prior to the fifth, the Graniteers had picked up only one hit while Clippard had struck out nine.

With two out, Tingle was hit with a pitched ball and Johnny Foell followed with a single. An error in left field allowed Mack Roebuck to reach base and keep the rally alive.

Like Riddick, Harold Ingram, and Jessel Curry delivered back-to-back singles and the Graniteers had tied the game at 4-4.

In the bottom half of the seventh, Jessel Curry, winning his second pitching triumph in two nights, hit a bases-loaded single to score the winning run with only one man out.

Foell and Ingram had singled and Roebuck was safe on an error, loading the sacks for Curry to win his own game.

Curry, off to a shaky start in the first three innings, cooled off the two-game winning streak of Roanoke Rapids by blanking them over the last four innings on one hit—a single by Clippard in the fifth.

Along with driving in the tying and winning runs, Curry had another single in the fourth—the first one off Clippard—to pace his teammates with three hits in four trips.

Johnny Foell and Harold Ingram had two safeties each.

Four errors in the first inning and doubles by Zink, Trull, and Byers of Goldsboro was too much damage for Cox Armature to overcome as they bowed out of the double-elimination affair, 3-1.

Although hitting Charlie Yates with consistency, the Goldsboro contingent was unable to score after a three-run spree in the first inning.

Everett Wins In Net Tournament
ROCKY MOUNT, N.C. (AP)—Singles quarterfinals and the first round of doubles play in men's and veterans' divisions were scheduled today in the 15th annual Eastern Carolina closed tennis championship.

Favored Malcolm Clark of Chapel Hill, second-seeded Charlie Shaffer Jr. of Chapel Hill, third-seeded Semi Mintz of Raleigh, fourth-seeded Maurice Everett of Robersonville and sixth-seeded Mel Joreau of Chapel Hill survived opening day matches in the men's singles division Thursday.

Fifth-seeded Jerry Robinson, twice the singles champion, was upset by Frank Skillman, 3-6, 11-9, 7-5. The match took three hours, 45 minutes. Skillman, unranked, subsequently was defeated.

Cox Armature scored a single in the third frame when Mac Thacker singled and scored on a throwing error by Smith, Goldsboro first baseman.

Billy McRoy slapped a single in the sixth inning for the only other hit for the losers. The defensive outfield play of Thacker and Cates stood out for the losers.

By winning, the Graniteers moved into the championship bracket for Saturday night. They are idle tonight, awaiting their final round opponent.

In the first game tonight, scheduled at 7:00, Carolina Dairy meets Goldsboro. The winner will meet J. P. Stevens of Roanoke Rapids at 8:30 with the right to advance to the finals against the Graniteers at stake.

Thomas Still Happy...
KANSAS CITY—At the present rate, a showdown between North Carolina's two-man delegation of Don Hedrick, Lexington, and Bobby Thomas, Greenville, was anticipated in the semifinals of the 13th U.S.G.A. Junior National Golf Tournament Saturday morning.

Yet, the two Tar Heels had to polish off two more foes in the fourth and fifth round of the week-long tournament today over the par 35-36 Millburn Country Club course.

Both North Carolinians went whirling into today's competition after two match victories yesterday.

Thomas, the Greenville native, made a courageous and determined comeback to defeat Austin Straus of Woodhaven, N. Y. two-up in the afternoon match after eliminating Mark Mathison of Fargo, N. D. one-up in a morning match.

Lexington's Don Hedrick also had a narrow escape before turning back King Know, Lancaster, Pa., one-up in 20 holes of morning play. Hedrick swept past James Hadlock, Marshall, Tex., 3 and 2 in the afternoon.

Thomas was paired against Bruce Fischer, Manning, Iowa, this morning. Hedrick met one of the early tournament favorites, Maury Finklestein of Savannah, Ga.

After turning back Mathison in championship style in the morning match, the young Greenville golfer found himself four-down after nine holes with his afternoon opponent, Austin Straus.

Playing a steady game, Thomas whittled the lead by capping 10 and 11 but was back in trouble after losing 12.

Straus had the opportunity to all but wrap up the match on the 13th hole but missed a three-foot putt and Thomas sank a five-footer to halve the hole.

With renewed hope, Thomas was off and sailing, capturing four of the last five holes for

Martin's Punch May Bring Large Fine

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
Associated Press Sports Writer
CHICAGO (AP)—Jim Brewer, Chicago Cubs' rookie southpaw pitcher, today was out of baseball at least a month and possibly for the rest of the season after suffering a serious face injury from a punch by Billy Martin.

Martin, scrappy Cincinnati Reds second baseman whose career has been dotted with brawls, punched the 22-year-old Brewer Thursday in a second inning outburst of the Cubs-Cincinnati game.

Dr. Arthur Metz, Cubs' physician, said the orbit bone below Brewer's right eye is fractured and that an area of one inch is depressed by half an inch.

An eye specialist has been called in to determine if sight has been impaired and for surgery, which may be delayed because of swelling.

The incident resulted in the most serious bodily injury to a player because of a brawl since New York Yankee catcher Bill Dickey's poke broke Car Reynolds' jaw about 30 years ago. Dickey was fined $1,000 and suspended for 30 days.

Martin was awaiting word today from National League President Warren Giles who said he would not take any action until studying a report of the umpires.

Martin was at the Cubs' dugout when a Brewer pitch made him duck away. The ball caromed off his bat and hit his helmet. On the next pitch, Martin swung and sent his bat flying to the side of the mound.

Martin then walked toward the bat, met Brewer coming over, and let fly a right to the pitcher's face. Players poured in and wrestled the two to the ground.

Martin was banished, and while stewing in the Reds' dugout, Brewer returned to the Cubs' dugout. There he got a broken bat handle and started to march across the field towards Martin.

Brewer was stopped by teammates before he could get far. Later he was taken to Wesley Memorial Hospital.

"Brewer threw at my head, and nobody is going to do that," said Martin. "I was in the hospital last year when I got hit in the face (by Tex Clevenger of Washington when Martin was with Cleveland) and had seven fractures."

"Nobody's going to throw at my head again. That first pitch by Brewer was behind my head and Cub pitchers knocked me down three times Wednesday."

Proposes Change
GREENSBORO — (AP) — The North Carolina Coaches Assn. was to take up again today a rule change that would — for the purpose of selecting players for the East-West all-star games here — move 27 schools from the Western camp to the East.

"We just want to make the two sides equal at all-star time," said Bill Eutsler of Rockingham, chairman of a group that moved for the change.

Action on the motion was put off Thursday to allow those schools affected to talk matters over.

Under the proposal, three 4-A schools would change from West to East, five from 3-A, seven 2-A and 12 Class A. Some of these would include Greensboro, High Point, Burlington, Morehead, Reidsville, Asheboro, Greensboro Page and Greensboro Bessemer.

Picked To Head Soviet Teams
MOSCOW (AP)—Boris Shakin, 26-year-old post-graduate student from Kiev and Sofia Murotova, a petite 31-year-old housewife, were named Thursday night to head the Soviet Union's powerful gymnastics team in the 16th Olympic Games at Rome.

They won the overall men's and women's championships in the climax of two-day Olympic trials at the Palace of Sports.

Six men and six women were selected to carry Russia's bid in an event in which the country of the Hammer and Sichel won 23 medals and both team championships in the last Olympics at Melbourne.

They are the survivors of an original field of 77,000 gymnasts who competed throughout the vast Soviet Union.

Gymnastics is the national sport of Russia.

A FEVER in the BLOOD

CHAPTER 31
Pacing the floor in chambers, Judge Sam Hoffman regarded Matt Keenan with shocked disbelief. "You had an obligation to tell me the tape recording had been destroyed!"

That tape recording was something physical, subject to investigation as to whether it was authentic. But this! This is one of the evils our whole legal system was designed to destroy. What are the fine principles of that system worth if a court is free to find exceptions to their application, merely because it disapproves of the man seeking their benefits?

anything more about the Hart trial. But I still don't agree with letting a technically stand in the way of exposing Callahan...
"What about Norman Hart's rights in all this hullabaloo about principles?"

Georgia-Florida Volume 'Heavy'

VALDOSTA, Ga. (AP)—Volume continues heavy on the Georgia and Florida flue - cured tobacco markets near the end of the first full week of sales. Average prices are fairly steady.
The U. S. Department of Agriculture reported Thursday's variations were chiefly $1 to $2 a hundred pounds with gains and losses about equally divided.

Senator Kefauver Wins Third Term With Landslide Victory In Primary

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Sen. Estes Kefauver won a third term with a stunning landslide victory in Thursday's Tennessee Democratic primary, in which civil rights was the overriding issue.
The race, billed as the tightest of the lanky 57-year-old senator's career, turned into his greatest triumph as the state's voters made it unmistakably clear they preferred his liberal philosophy to that of Judge Andrew T. Taylor, a strong advocate of segregation and states rights.

Auction bid averages per 100 pounds on a limited number of representative U. S. grades included:
Leaf—Fair lemon $85, up $1; low lemon $83, unchanged; low orange $61, unchanged.

Despite the decisive margin polled by Kefauver, Taylor went to bed without actually conceding defeat. The soft-spoken circuit judge from Jackson admitted only "there are two strikes on me."
Kefauver swept across the state from East Tennessee with such an overwhelming vote even the most ardent of his supporters were surprised.

in the primary for the first time since reconstruction days. There were no incidents. Negroes outnumbered whites in both counties. About 90 per cent of some 400 registered Negro voters cast ballots in Fayette County and nearly all of some 200 voted in Haywood. Elsewhere in Tennessee, Negroes have voted for years.

DOG HELPS DOG
PUNTA GORDA, Fla. (AP) — When Fred Baudis' chow dog lost nearly all its sight, an airedale owned by Mrs. Baudis came to the rescue. The airedale now constantly shepherds the chow, much the same as a seeing eye dog does for a human.

The outcome had been watched nationally for an indication of the depth of Southern reaction to the civil rights proposals adopted by the Democratic National Convention. Taylor sharply criticized this platform plank, while Kefauver said only that it went a little too far.

Even in segregation-minded West Tennessee, Kefauver received a substantial vote. He held a narrow lead in the Ninth (Memphis) district. Taylor carried the Seventh and Eighth districts, but not by the wide margins he had hoped.

Democratic nomination to the Senate means election in this Southern state. Two Republicans, little known across the state, sought the GOP nomination. All nine of the state's congressmen were renominated, of them without opposition.

Occasionally a judge, in trying to fulfill the obligations of his office, takes action unwarranted by even the most liberal interpretation of his rights and duties. I regret to say that I have taken such action today. The court reporter is ordered to strike all remarks made to and from the Bench this morning. "I'm not going to accept that!" Dan Callahan walked to the Bench. "You've poisoned the mind of everyone here with insinuations about improper conduct in the District Attorney's office. You don't undo something like that by..." "Mr. Callahan, I warn you..." "I demand an apology." Judge Hoffman drew a deep breath. "Well, you aren't going to get one." Then Clem Marker stepped forward. "Your Honor, I only happen to represent the accused who, as far as I can see, is the forgotten man here. If there was a wire-tapped conversation and it affects him, I think we're entitled to know its details." "Mr. Marker, I understand your feelings. However, my statement stands. This Court will not and cannot make any further comment. I'm sorry, the matter is closed." He stood up. "Court is dismissed!" Marty Spewack banged his gavel. "Everybody rise. This Honorable Court now stands adjourned." "Your Honor!" Judge Hoffman, about to step through the door behind the Bench, turned. "Yes, Mr. Vinquist." From his seat in the front row, Bob advanced to the balustrade. Clearly under stress, he said, "With all due respect to the Court, Your Honor, I have to speak. I realize that the Court feels very strongly that the requirements of due process demand it terminate this hearing, but I'm a private citizen and don't consider myself under any such handicap. In my capacity as a private citizen I've learned that..." "Mr. Vinquist, you are out of order! I wish to speak to you in chambers. Immediately." Now the uproar was so great that Judge Hoffman could hardly make himself heard. "Balliff, clear this courtroom! Mr. Vinquist, I want you to follow me." He spun about sharply and stepped through the door. (To Be Continued)

$16 Billions In Aid To Undeveloped Countries By U.S. Said Not Enough

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and other industrial countries have poured 18 billion dollars worth of economic aid into undeveloped nations since the past six years. The American total was over 12 billions.

But the State Department says greater effort is needed to fill growing requirements, particularly in Asia and Africa, and to meet the expanding economic challenge of the Soviet Communist bloc.

In a report to the Senate Foreign Relations and House Foreign Affairs committees released Thursday night, the department summarized aid totals since 1954 from 15 industrialized nations of the Free World. The report concluded "efforts so far have not been adequate to fill the requirements."

The United States has supplied two-thirds of the economic assistance covered in the report for a total of $12,025,000,000. Fourteen other countries, including Britain, France, Canada, Australia, Japan and West Germany provided loans, grants and other assistance totaling $5,904,000,000.

The report to Congress emphasized that the United States is doing everything possible to get the other industrialized countries to increase their aid. But it said that in view of the vast needs such increases could not be counted on to bring any reduction in the U.S. effort.

The State Department also released a pamphlet on the Communist economic offensive stating that by last April the Soviet Union and other Red nations had given $3,800,000,000 in credits and grants for economic and military assistance to 20 less-developed countries.

"Since the modest beginnings in 1954," the pamphlet said, "credits and grants extended by the Soviet bloc to Free World less-developed countries have increased almost steadily year by year until they attained a rate of about one billion dollars per year during 1958 and 1959."

The pamphlet described the Communist use of aid as a means of making other countries subservient to Red policies and purposes.

In its report to Congress, the State Department said that total government long-term loan and grant outlays from the industrialized countries of the free world to less-developed areas have "increased substantially over the past few years."

"In the years since 1954," the report continued, "the flow of assistance is estimated to have averaged almost three billion dollars annually; in 1959 it was over four billion dollars. The increase in these aid funds over the past few years was almost equally divided between contributions from the United States and from the other Free World industrialized countries."

Threaten Seize Power Company

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—The state will seize the strike-bound Kansas City Power & Light Co. today unless a wage dispute is settled, says Gov. James T. Blair. Union officials say they will defy seizure order.

The governor issued his ultimatum Thursday night, saying the company and Electrical Workers Local 1464 have had plenty of time to settle their dispute.

Blair said he would invoke Missouri's anti-strike law which provides for technical seizure of a utility if a strike endangers public welfare. Supervisory employees have been operating company facilities since the strike began three weeks ago. There has been no suspension of service.

William H. James, local 1464 business manager, said: "We would have no hesitancy about going into court to test the constitutionality of the law in the event Gov. Blair should decide to seize the company."

The law provides a fine of $10,000 a day against a union that violates a state order to resume work, and a fine of $1,000 against union officers.

Both James and Phillip C. Metzger, vice president of the company, said negotiations on a new contract have broken down.

Issues include wages and working conditions but details of the dispute have never been released to the public.

The company supplies electric power to Kansas City and several suburbs.

New Independent Nation In Africa

QUAGADOUGOU, Upper Volta (AP) — Upper Volta, not even marked on maps 14 years ago, today became the world's newest independent nation.

The sparsely settled inland state in former French West Africa is half the size of France but has only 3 1/2 million people. It is the third French African territory to become independent this week, as part of a process which will see all French African territory except Algeria independent by November. However, all the new states are remaining in the French Community, a loose association similar to the British Commonwealth.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market struggled higher early this afternoon in a modest continuation of Thursday's late rally. Key stock rose fractions to about a point for the most part, although a fair number of moderate losers were evident. Trading was moderate in contrast to late Thursday when the market snapped out of its latest summer slump.

That rise was attributed to technical factors, meaning the market had reached a support level in the Dow Jones industrial average, plus hope the Federal Reserve Board might do something to ease money rates. The market's continued strength today despite the lack of action by government monetary authorities was taken as a hopeful sign.

Some favorable business news, such as higher department store sales and freight car loadings ahead of the year-ago pace, also helped.

Aircrafts were the strongest group as investors apparently felt more defense spending would be forthcoming to strengthen this group. Motors also advanced, after a slow start, while metals, chemicals, oils and some steels also moved ahead.

Dow Jones average of 30 industrials at noon was up 2.76 at 611.998.

The Associated Press 60-stock average at noon was up 0.0 at 214.60 with industrials up 1.40, rails up 0.20 and utilities up 0.10.

U.S. government bonds were lower. Corporate bonds were higher.

Boy Put Poison In Concoction; 3 Children Die

DANIA, Fla. (AP)—Three Negro children died after eating a lethal luncheon of guava fruit, pancake flour, onion, spice and roach powder prepared by a 12-year old brother.

Ernest Nuby Jr. could not explain why he added the poison-parathion — to the concoction Thursday.

Deputy Sheriff Jim Spears said Ernest apparently didn't realize what he was doing.

The deaths were termed accidental by coroner's officers. The victims were Dorothy May, 4, Marilyn Juanita, 9, and Charles, 11.

Two others who ate the mixture, Alan, 6, and Sharon, 11, received medical treatment in time to save their lives.

Marine Recruit's Story Of Abuse Brings Denial

CONCORD, N. H.—(AP)—A Marine Corps recruit's claim that mistreatment during his first three days in the service caused his desertion has brought a detailed denial from his commanding general.

U. S. Sen. Styles Bridges (R-N. H.), who asked an investigation of complaints by Gerald Snell, 19, of Nashua, Thursday received a telegram from Maj. Gen. Thomas G. Ennis of the Marine Recruit Depot at Parris Island, S.C., terming the allegations "without foundation."

Snell, arrested in a car allegedly stolen from a Marine sergeant, is in a Maryland jail under 16 months sentence for motor vehicle violations.

Snell's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Snell, had informed Bridges their son told them he fled the training center because of brutality to himself and fellow recruits.

The parents said their son told them one recruit was devoured by a shark while trying to flee, another had several teeth knocked out and a third suffered three broken fingers.

Gen. Ennis told Bridges: "Sworn statements by all recruits . . . plus medical and dental records reveal no incident of maltreatment or deliberate injury to Snell or any other recruit in the group."

Interviewed in the Elkton, Md., jail, Snell said: "I was fed up. I couldn't take that boloney. I would have ended up in the nut house. I didn't care if I was hit by a 45."

He said he enlisted in Boston July 19 because "I just wanted to get away from it all" — a succession of small jobs.

He said on his first day in camp a drill instructor "kicked me on the shins and yelled at me to place my feet in the proper position."

Resistance To Castro 'Weak'

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Raul Chibas, one of Fidel Castro's top aides in the Cuban revolution who fled to political exile in the United States this week, says a resistance movement in Cuba "is growing but it is not strong enough to be feared by the Cuban Prime Minister."

He predicted, however, that Castro "won't last six months."

Chibas, 44, was Castro's treasurer during the revolution and helped condemn foes of the revolution in the 1959 "showcase" trials. He said he fell out with Castro over his "obvious move toward communism."

He said in a Miami Herald interview Thursday: "Two months ago I was asked to resign as president of the Western Railroad Co. because I had expressed dissatisfaction with the government to persons I believed were my friends."

He refused and from that time on, Chibas said, he was under surveillance by Castro secret police.
