Urged Toward Unity Demos Begin Work On Campaign

RALEIGH (AP)—State Democratic leaders, urged by Gov. Hodges to play on the party's team wherever they are most needed, fanned out across the state today to do their bit in the 1960 campaign.

In a lengthy analogy, the governor set the tone for the state party's participation in what is expected to be a tough fight between presidential candidates John F. Kennedy and Richard M. Nixon.

Hodges, noting that the Tar Heel delegation at the Democratic National Convention supported Texas Sen. Lyndon Johnson for the presidential nomination, said: "Let me make it very plain today that we have no gripes about losing. We are not turning our backs on the party. We are not picking up our baseball and running home to sulk because we didn't get to be the pitcher.

"No, we will play on the Democratic team, whether out in the field, as a shortstop, or as a batter, wherever we are most needed and wherever we can do the most good."

Voiced at a majority party unity rally Tuesday in Raleigh, it was Hodges' answer to murmurs of discontent over Kennedy's nomination.

Hodges noted frankly that the fact Kennedy is Catholic would be a campaign issue, but he said: "If this issue were not present, I confidently believe our party would carry practically every state in the union—if not all. Mr. Nixon,

Treaty Approval Looks Doubtful

By ERNEST B. VACCARO
WASHINGTON (AP) — Ratification of the Antarctic treaty with the Soviet Union and 10 other nations was in doubt today as the Senate approached a showdown vote.

The opposition, led by Sen. Clair Engle (D-Calif.) counted on a speech by Sen. Harry F. Byrd (D-Va.) Tuesday night, and a two-hour address by Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.) today, to tip the scales in their favor.

But Sen. J. William Fulbright (D-Ark.), chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, told a reporter he was hopeful the necessary two-thirds votes could be mustered to assure its approval. Another supporter, Sen. Mike Mansfield (D-Mont.), assistant majority leader, said he was not so sure.

All agreed "it will be very close."

Veteran Soldier Finds Family And Friend Dead

HONOLULU (AP) — A veteran soldier arrived home Tuesday and found his Japanese-born wife and two young daughters and the wife's former boy friend shot to death, he told police.

"We don't know what to think," said Asst. Police Chief Leon Straus. "It looks like three murders and a suicide. But we're not sure of anything at this point."

The dead were Tomoko Katori Tatsuno, 23, Margie, 14 months, Ann, 4 months, and Jack Warden, 35, of Atlanta, Ga.

The death scene was a small studio apartment in Wahiawa, a without the prejudice of the church issue, would probably suffer the greatest defeat in political history.

"As it is, he (Nixon) will get beat. But, I hope by this November the people of this country will vote for the best man regardless of his church affiliation."

The governor was one of a star-studded list of prominent state officials and party leaders who addressed the sweltering Democratic throng of more than 1,000 at the State Fair Arena in Raleigh.

He, gubernatorial nominee Terry Sanford and a telegram from Kennedy read by party warhorse John Larkins were the biggest hits of the three-hour unity luncheon.

The absence of I. Beverly Lake, defeated by Sanford in a heated runoff primary June 25, was not regarded by Sanford as a threat.

He said he was told "publicly and privately" by Lake that he would support the Democratic ticket in the fall, and have nothing to do with a write-in campaign for governor.

"Dr. Lake is a man of his word," said Sanford, "and I believe him in every respect."

Earlier, the party's state executive committee unanimously elected 69-year-old Bert Bennett of Winston-Salem as its chairman and Mrs. J. Henry Cromartie of Charlotte vice chairman.

Bennett was Sanford's campaign manager during his two primary losses last spring. He was named to succeed Woodrow W. Jones of Rutherfordton.

Mrs. Cromartie, another key Sanford supporter, took over from Mrs. John S. Richardson of Raleigh.

Their election completed a clean sweep of top state party offices by the youthful Sanford forces.

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP)—A communications blackout today

cloaked the situation in Laos, where a rebel army group seized the administrative capital Tuesday and proclaimed a neutralist policy for the isolated jungle kingdom repeatedly threatened by the Communists.

Vientiane, the administrative capital, at last word was reported calm after an initial outburst of shooting that killed two persons.

All airline flights to Vientiane were cancelled, at least until Thursday. Telegraphic communications were suspended.

Vientiane radio has given no news broadcasts since an initial outburst of rebel communiques Tuesday.

Diplomatic advisers said there was no doubt the rebels were in firm control of Vientiane. Unconfirmed reports said they posted a guard around the airport and erected roadblocks in the city.

Hanna insisted he was, and decided to look over the registration books himself. He and Hugh W. Johnston, chairman of the Gaston County Board of Elections, looked through the books and finally found Hanna's name.

It was not in the "H" file, but in the "overflow" file. Hanna's wife also was listed in the same place. The file showed they registered last May 7.

Hanna, who operates a Shelby radio station, is affiliated with the North Carolina Committee for Honest Leadership, which is sponsoring a write-in campaign for Dr. I. Beverly Lake for governor.

Democratic gubernatorial nominee Terry Sanford defeated Lake in the runoff primary.

Johnson said the mixup arose because his sister, Mrs. Ann Dixon, had been filling in for Johnson's regular secretary, Mrs. Charles Lewis.

"Mrs. Dixon just didn't know about this overflow part," Johnson remarked.

Funds Set Up For Industrial Lines

Greenville Utilities Commission has set up an industrial utilities expansion fund to be used for extending water, gas or electric lines to prospective industries. A $50,000 fund for this purpose was set up in the $2,631,922.17 operating, capital improvements and fixed obligation budget approved by the commission last night.

The budget covers the commission's fiscal year from July 1, to June 30, 1961.

Chairman Charles Horne explained the industrial utilities expansion fund will mean that the commission will have money to extend utilities lines to industrial sites when industries decide to locate here.

The fund could be useful in the case of the Dail Farm located north of Greenville. This farm was purchased by Greenville Industries to be used for industrial sites. However, the Utilities funds would not necessarily be limited to use in this area.

Horne said the $50,000 set up in this year's budget was to initiate the fund. It will be added to each year until it has built up to an amount considered sufficient by the commission.

In the budget, the commission approved a $643,138.10 capital improvement budget for the coming year. It is from this fund that various improvements to the Utilities system are made.

Horne pointed out at last night's meeting that the capital outlay item was approved as a "tentative base" and that Supt. Leonard Bloxam is to present to the commission additional information before beginning any major project. The major projects would then be finally approved by the commissioners.

Included in the budget, is $4,000 for continuing of an addition to the stockroom and $38,000 for a deep well and pump to be placed on a Utilities lot at 14th St. and Greenville Blvd. The new well will supplement the city's present water supply.

Chairman Horne said the budget included about $30,000 to convert the plant boilers for use of natural gas. Horne said gas would be used at the low rate of peak hours while other fuels would be used during the hours when high rates are charged for natural gas. The commission should save the cost of the conversion in three to five years.

Included in the water department capital outlay is $39,000 for running water lines to the Lake-wood Pines-Sherwood Acres area which was annexed by the city recently.

There is $45,000 in the budget for a sewer outfall line running along Greene Mill Run from the New Bern Highway. This line will be designed so that it can eventually be extended to pick up the Lake-wood Pines area.

An $8,000 item included for extending electric lines to the Voice of America receiving station site west of Greenville.

The budget sets estimated expenses for the electric, water and gas operations for the year at $1,988,784.07. Included in this amount is $346,922.17 in depreciation of Utilities owned facilities.

Net income before depreciation to setting up the industrial utilities fund at $971,138.10. In addition to setting up the industrial utilities expansion fund, the commission has the following fixed obligations for the year: bond retirement, $98,000; turnover of to the city, $150,000; subdivision owner advances, $30,000.

Commissioners last night also passed a motion requesting the superintendent to obtain two or three bids on automotive equipment for presentation to the board prior to the purchase of new equipment.

They turned down a recommendation by Supt. Bloxam that the commission purchase a Ford Rancher pickup truck for $1,885.45 for use in the gas department.

Commissioners asked Bloxam to obtain bids on two or three standard pick up trucks for this replacement.

The commissioners also adopted a policy of charging for lighting of gas appliances and serving such appliances. Formerly such services have been provided to utilities customers without charge.

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Defying a Communist boycott the 82-nation U. N. Disarmament Commission has been called to meet Tuesday afternoon to consider the failure of the Geneva disarmament talks.

Luis Padilla Nervo of Mexico, chairman of the commission, scheduled the meeting in response to a request the United States made July 22. The meeting will constitute a farewell appearance for Henry Cabot Lodge, chief U. S. delegate to the U. N. since 1954, who will resign at its conclusion to campaign as the Republican candidate for the U. S. vice presidency.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily V. Kuznetsov told delegates from 12 neutral nations the nine Soviet bloc nations would boycott any disarmament commission meeting and hoped they would do the same. Despite Kuznetsov's urging, most neutrals are expected to attend the session, and some Western diplomats think the Soviets also will show up.

The Soviets proposed that discussion of disarmament be deferred until the General Assembly opening Sept. 20 and that the 82 heads of government attend to provide a summit discussion of discussion of disarmament and other major world problems.

Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev plugged this idea again Tuesday in an interview published in Pravda, the Soviet Communist party newspaper. Khrushchev said he would consider it a great honor to be present for the disarmament discussion.

The Soviet proposal for a summit assembly meeting got the cold reception from the U. S. government that was generally expected, for instance, asserted that a Catholic president's "loyalties would be divided with conflicting interests of priority nature . . . the principles of his faith are diametrically opposed to the principles of the American government and jurisprudence."

The Carolina Baptist Assn., consisting of 63 churches in Henderson and adjoining counties, went on record Tuesday against "putting any man in the chief executive's office of this great United States whose first allegiance is to a foreign power."

Dr. J. C. Canipe of Hendersonville, a past president of the North Carolina Baptist Convention and one of those who introduced the resolution, said:

"Our nation is now face to face with the same threat that has put other nations in both political and religious bondage. The two mightiest enslaving powers on earth are contending for the souls and minds of men; namely, Roman Catholicism and communism."

State Democratic political leaders recognize the religious issue and are taking steps to fight it. "We're not being realistic if we don't recognize that this is an issue in this state," Tom Lambeth, a member of Sanford's campaign team, told a state meeting of Young Democrat Clubs in Charlotte.

To emphasize his words, one has only to turn to the election records. The only time in this century that a Republican presidential candidate carried North Carolina was in 1928 when Her Heels voted 348,992 to 287,078 for Herbert Hoover over Al Smith, a Catholic.

North Carolina - born evangelist Billy Graham said in Montreaux, Switzerland, Tuesday that he doesn't think Catholicism will be as vocal in this election as it was in 1928, "but it will go much deeper."

He said religion "definitely will be a major issue" in the campaign, but declined to comment further except to express his opposition "to all forms of religious bigotry and intolerance."

Ike Calls Contentions From Democrats 'Silly'

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said today it is a little bit silly for Democrats to contend it would take many weeks to enact the legislative program he has proposed.

Eisenhower told his first news conference since July 6 that he thinks it is more important to the country for Congress to stay on the job and pass legislation than to go home and campaign.

One cannot simply say, Eisenhower continued, that politics is more important than the nation's business.

In a wide-ranging discussion of domestic and foreign issues, the President said among other things there are no signs now of any economic recession or depression ahead for the country.

In the international field, the President said he had given no thought to having any personal conference with Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev if the latter comes to this country for the United Nations disarmament conference or the U. N. General Assembly session.

Eisenhower said, however, that if he concluded any useful purpose could be served he would not hesitate to meet with the Soviet Premier.

Khrushchev hinted in an interview published in Pravda, the Soviet Communist newspaper, Tuesday that he might visit the U. N.

In the domestic field, Eisenhower said that when he invites congressional members of both parties to sit down with him soon he has no intention of lecturing them on how they should carry out their duties.

He said he would explain the international situation as he sees it and report on some changes he has made in his own program.

Eisenhower struck back at Democratic criticism of his defense program and the 21-point legislative proposals he sent the Senate when it reconvened Monday.

Specifically, Eisenhower said that he has not frozen $21 million dollars in defense funds voted by Congress as charged by Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the Democratic vice-presidential nominee and Senate party leader.

There is no reason to say, Eisenhower declared vigorously, that these funds will not be spent. The President said the Democrats had cut his budget request 1 1/2 billion dollars but had added $1,100,000,000 for purposes he had not outlined. The juggling of this is not done in a few weeks, he added.

He could not say he continued, that the defense money had been frozen. He said it had not been put before him in any such terms.

Eisenhower said that if Vice President Richard M. Nixon, the Republican presidential nominee, has any differences with him on the defense issue, Nixon has not made these known.

The President said that so far as he is concerned he has no objection to Nixon's having press conferences and saying what he pleases. With a grin, he commented that Nixon's opponents certainly speak out.

Eisenhower added that he thinks that when Nixon talks, the vice president will be saying the same thing the President does except for minute details.

Put Rush Tag On Top Legislation

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP)—Democratic leaders put a hurry-up tag today on major legislation for which they hope to claim credit in the presidential campaign.

Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas passed the word he wants some committee action this week on a bill to provide medical care for the elderly. A meeting of the Senate Finance Committee, which is considering the measure, was called for today.

Johnson already has on tap for Senate consideration a measure to raise the minimum wage from $1 to $1.25 an hour and to add from three to five million workers to those now covered by it.

The road to action on these politically potent proposals was cleared when Johnson, the Democratic vice-presidential nominee, rallied party members Tuesday to scuttle an Eisenhower administration civil rights bill that threatened to provoke a time-killing filibuster.

The bill was shelved by a 54-28 vote that followed party lines.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois protested he had no political motives in mind in offering the measure. But Democrats denounced it as "political blyspain" calculated to demonstrate their party is split on an issue rated highly important to strategically placed minority voters.

The measure would have provided statutory authority for a presidential commission to supervise fair employment on government contracts and would have authorized federal aid for desegregating school districts.

June Bride Party Honoree

ROBERSONVILLE—Mrs. John Clinton House, a June bride, was honored at a party given Saturday morning by her mother-in-law, Mrs. M. C. House. For this occasion the home on South Main St. was decorated with arrangements of summer flowers.

The guest of honor was presented a white carnation corsage to complement her brown chiffon dress over matching taffeta designed with a bouffant skirt.

Mrs. Leo Everett, mother of the bride, presided at the register. An informal period was enjoyed in the living room and on the side porch. The callers were invited into the dining room where the table, covered with a pink linen cloth, was centered with a bowl of rosebuds.

Miss Mary Rogerson of Williamson, aunt of the bridegroom, served the drinks. Miss Helen Everett, sister of the bride, Mrs. A. E. James and Mrs. Philip Keel assisted with the other refreshments including ribbon sandwiches, cinnamon sticks, heart and bell shaped sandwiches, assorted cookies and salted nuts.

The bride received a brown linen table cloth, a gift from the hostess. Forty friends attended.

Green, Yellow Color Note Used

ROBERSONVILLE—A green and yellow color scheme was used Saturday evening in the home of Mrs. J. R. Crandall on Green St. when she and Mrs. Kenneth Roberson entertained Miss Barbara Roebuck at a floating miscellaneous shower.

The guest of honor will become the bride of Russell Johnson of Burlington on August 21 in the Chapel of the First Christian Church, Robersonville.

Guests were greeted by Mrs. Johnny Ray Crandall and introduced to the receiving line composed of the bride-elect, her grandmother, Mrs. W. K. Roebuck, and Mrs. Edgar Johnson.

After the presents were opened and displayed, the friends were invited into the dining room. The appointed table was spread with a white linen cutwork cloth centered by a large arrangement of yellow gladioli flanked by lighted yellow tapers in candelabra encircled with English ivy.

Mrs. Claude Wilson poured the fruit punch while ham biscuits, open-face sandwiches, potato chips with onion dip, mints and salted pecans were served buffet style.

Mrs. Louis Wells Melton presided at the register. Miss Christine Weatherington and Mrs. Janie Edmondson Roberson said the goodbyes to approximately 50 callers.

Joe's 'Luckiest Man Alive'

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—The doctor waited until Joe Grapple had rolled down his sleeve and buttoned the cuff.

"I'm afraid you're a bit tense again, Mr. Grapple," he said. "And your blood pressure is up. Are you having any business problems?"

"Now, everything's okay at the old salt mine," said Joe. He hesitated a moment, then said reluctantly: "It's my daughter, Doris."

Doris was one of the doctor's favorite patients. Into his mind flashed the picture of a 14-year-old girl with a prudent face and blue eyes serious beyond her age.

"She went to a summer camp last week," said Joe. "This is the first year I been able to scare up the dough to send her."

"Did she have an accident?" asked the doctor.

"Oh, no, Doc. Nothing like that."

"Well, we got a letter from her today — the first one — and it's kinda got me worried."

"Why?"

"Well, you know the crazy letters most kids write from camp. All about the goofy things that happen to them," he said.

"Guys at the office for years have been showing me the letters their kids wrote from camp—and they were all funny. Well, Doris didn't write anything funny, and I wonder if there's something wrong."

"Do you want to show me the letter?" inquired the doctor. That was exactly what Joe wanted. He quickly pulled out the letter.

The doctor read:

"Dearest Daddy,

"I am having a wonderful time at Camp Birchbark. The food is fine, and I have made friends with a girl named Ruth.

"We go swimming and canoeing together, and I am learning leather and I am making a couple of surprise presents for you and mother."

"Last night before I fell asleep I heard a whippoorwill outside in the dark, and it made me a little homesick. I thought of you and mother in the hot, sticky city and wondered if you miss me as much as I miss you."

"Ruth told me how much it costs to stay at this camp. I didn't know it was so expensive. I guess that's really why you didn't get the new car you wanted, isn't it, Daddy?"

"You and Mother have always done so much for me. I won't forget that either."

"Your loving daughter, Doris."

The doctor folded the letter and handed it to Joe. Joe looked at him anxiously.

"You think she's all right, Doc?" he asked. "She don't write nothing screwball like the other kids. You think she's okay?"

"I'd give everything in the world for a daughter who wrote me a letter like that," said the doctor. "Joe, you're the luckiest man alive."

Rat Test Yields Hope Of Lengthening Hefty Lives

By RENNIE TAYLOR

Associated Press Science Writer
SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—An experiment on rats has yielded hope that overweight people can prolong their life expectancy by as much as 20 per cent.

The secret is to eat half as much. Another experiment, also on rats, has shown that the young have some mysterious and potent quality that can be transfused into older animals to slow the aging process.

The two projects were reported in papers Monday before the fifth International Congress of Gerontology is the study of aging processes.

The work with the sharp dietary restriction was done by Dr. Henry S. Simms, pathologist of the Columbia University College of Physicians and Surgeons. It might well apply to overweight humans as well as to rats, he said.

And it produced convincing evidence, Simms added, that reduced eating can delay the onset of disease as well as delay death once disease has taken its foothold.

In the other experiment, rats were turned into Siamese twins by surgery. This was reported by Miss Wanda R. Lunsford, a Cornell University nutritionist.

Incisions were made along the sides of the animals and they were joined by skin and muscle. Through this junction the animals exchanged blood and other body fluids. Usually a young rat was joined to an old one.

Whenever a set of these twins died they were dissected. The amount of elasticity in the tendons of their tails was one measure of how quickly they aged. Tendons lose elasticity with age. Bone density was another indicator. Bones become less dense as they age.

They Don't Laugh With Chucklers

GRANTS, N. M. (AP)—There were a few chuckles from local residents today, but the volunteer fire department didn't see the humor.

A fire Monday night destroyed a small frame building the fire department had built on city property.

It was to be burned Aug. 26 in a fire-fighting demonstration during a convention of the Tri-State Assn. of Volunteer Firemen.

Pilots To Meet On Strike Date

ATLANTA (AP)—A group of striking Southern Airways pilots will meet Thursday in Chicago with the president of the National Air Line Pilots Assn. to consider a new date for a sympathy strike by pilots of other airlines.

The five-man delegation meeting with Clarence N. Sayen will represent 146 pilots on strike who belong to the ALPA.

Sayen, as national president, has previously been authorized to ask union pilots of 13 other airlines serving the Southeast to observe the picket lines of their fellow pilots on Southern Airways.

Such a move, called the union's "ultimate weapon," would virtually halt commercial airline traffic in eight southeastern states.

In Montgomery, Ala., Gov. John Patterson Tuesday wired President Eisenhower to create a fact-finding board to work toward settlement of the strike.

South Will Need Powerful Friend

The question of who will become the Democratic leader in the Senate after January is one which for some reason has been pushed far into the background since Sen. Lyndon Johnson was picked by Sen. Jack Kennedy as his running mate on the national Democratic ticket.

Sen. Johnson has been Majority Leader in the Senate since 1953 when the Democrats regained control from the Republicans. In that position he has become one of the most influential men in government wielding his power with skill that has seldom been found in the Senate.

As a Southerner, Sen. Johnson has added prestige to the Southern bloc in the Senate, and while his voting record does not place him in the same "conservative" category with some of his colleagues from the South, his ability to bring about compromises has soothed the feelings of the South on many occasions. At the same time his ability as a compromiser has brought to the middle of the road a number of efforts by more liberal elements of the party to enact far-reaching legislation opposed by the conservative wings in both parties.

Some veteran political observers have said Sen. Kennedy picked Johnson for his running mate for two principal reasons: 1. to hold the South in the party in November and thus be assured of their electoral votes; and 2. to place Johnson in a position where he could not block Kennedy's legislative program if it were more liberal than Johnson would like.

Sen. Kennedy has already proved himself a careful organizer and a skillful politician. There can be no doubt that he will play the key role in selecting the Democratic leader in the Senate if he is elected president, just as he personally picked Johnson to be his running mate.

It is also true that Kennedy's selection of Johnson brought misgivings from some of the more liberal elements of the party upon which Kennedy depended heavily in his successful bid for the nomination. Since the vice presidential plumb was picked with the "conservatives" in mind, it would not be surprising if Kennedy would pick the majority leader with the "liberals" in mind.

Whoever he is, he is not as likely to be as sympathetic to Southern or "conservative" feelings within the party as Sen. Johnson has been.

There is another aspect of the overall picture which should not be overlooked. Sen. Johnson's present term expires in January. As a candidate for vice president he will not be a candidate for re-election to the Senate, and if the Kennedy-Johnson ticket fails to win, Sen. Johnson's important role in the top echelon of government would end at least for the time being.

Since there is almost no possibility that the South will have one of its own as Democratic leader in the Senate after January, it is even more important perhaps that it have a friend as vice president and the presiding officer of the Senate.

Institutions Are Source Of Pride

By LYNN NISBET

OBSERVATIONS — Here are some belated observations about conditions at the 50-state State institutions which your reporter visited last month with the Advisory Budget Commission.

The first observation is that no one can make this tour from year to year as your reporter has since 1944, without a feeling of gratification and pride in progress made during that time. In many respects the campuses of colleges, correctional institutions and hospitals retained familiar format. In many other respects it was like going into an entirely new world. The old atmosphere of despair has been replaced with an atmosphere of bright optimism and progress. It is almost like going from darkness of night into the bright light of day. And, yet—

The light shining into dark corners discovers such great continuing and increasing need, there is almost a sense of frustration in face of the appalling magnitude of the job still to be done. It reminds one of the travelers who sets out on a trip to the top of a hill, thinking that may be his ultimate goal; but when he reaches the top and views the panorama spread out around him, he realizes that his journey has only just begun.

To get back from the idealistic to the sordid realistic, every achievement creates new opportunities and responsibilities. Certainly the consolidation of control of universities, correctional schools, mental hospitals and TB sanatoria under respective centralized boards increased efficiency of operations. The question now is whether further centralization is desirable, or if de-centralization in some areas might be indicated.

CO-OPERATION — There is gratifying manifestation of co-operation, on the surface and for the record at least, among State agencies and institutions. There is also evidence of lack of full coordination of effort and energy for attainment of maximum results in governmental economy and efficiency. Whether full coordination can be attained without dictatorship, and without detriment to the special services rendered by the several agencies, is doubtful. And that runs into complications with respect to relations between State and local government.

At Chapel Hill the University operates the utilities for the whole community. There are recurring problems of relationship and responsibility. At Raleigh the Dorothea Dix Hospital generates its own electricity, with standby agreements with Carolina Power & Light, and provides current for the State School for the Blind and Deaf—and some collateral arrangements with State College. Up to now the plan has worked very well. Increasing demands for service pose questions about future uses.

FARMING — Time was, and not so long ago, when colleges and hospitals needed to operate farms to assure a source of food supply, as well as for therapeutic and vocational training. Conditions now make farming by institutions to provide food uneconomical, and the therapeutic and educational value is far less important, because of advancing mechanization. There does remain need for vocational training on farms, in industrial centers, print shops, etc. Distribution must be made more clear than formerly between the phases of therapy and training and commercial production.

PRISON ENTERPRISES — A big factor in this changed concept is the development of Prison Enterprises as a means of employing prisoners, both to keep them out of mischief and to produce goods for other State institutions. Farming, and its related operations in canning and freezing of farm produce, is a case in point. Why should colleges and hospitals duplicate facilities of the prison department, and at probably higher costs, for food production—unless the operation can be justified wholly on therapeutic and training bases?

There is effort now to have all institutional laundry processed by the prison department. It would be cheaper, and would afford employment for prisoners. Some hospitals object because they feel the need to keep control over surgical laundry, particularly, and over all bed linen in general. Training Schools protest, because they want to keep laundry work in their vocational training programs. Same idea goes for canning and other processing of farm crops. They contend it is no more important for inmates of the State prison to be kept employed and trained than for their own "pupils" to get this training. Further question is raised as to need for investment in capital stock of linen if a three to four day prison service is substituted for the one day institutional laundry.

CONCLUSION — Final conclusion is that while there is gratifying cooperation among all State institutions, a lot of work remains to be done in fully coordinating activities for economy and efficiency in the total program of education, rehabilitation and training of youthful and adult North Carolinians who find themselves enrolled, voluntarily or otherwise, in State institutions.

Pace Must Be Kept In Schools Improvements

Most North Carolinians are proud of the public school systems of the state, and at the same time they are aware of the many improvements in facilities and quality of instruction that are needed.

Steadily year after year, the public schools of North Carolina have improved. In every county of the state new schools have been constructed, better programs for the youngsters have been carried out and increased emphasis has been placed on affording better public education for our young people.

The fact that approximately 75 per cent of the funds spent by the state during the last fiscal year went into education is evidence of North Carolina's interest in her schools. A part of that amount went into state-supported colleges, but the majority went into public school programs.

In spite of the seemingly large share of the state budget which went into education, North Carolina in the years ahead must make greater strides to better educate its young people. Education is the basis of the increasingly better state we hope to make of North Carolina as years go by. Unless our young people are better prepared through better education for the problems which will confront them, we cannot hope to build a better North Carolina.

Johnson Faces Toughest Test

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress' renewed session — which turned into a political Donnybrook right from its start — will be the toughest test of Sen. Lyndon Johnson's leadership.

The tall Texan, often called the most able Senate leader in the 20 century because of his ability in getting warring factions to work together to get things done, has his hands full this time.

Johnson, for the first time, is playing a dual role. He is not only captain of the Democratic-run Senate but is the Democrats' vice-presidential candidate.

He and his running mate, Sen. John F. Kennedy, the Democrats' presidential nominee, came back to work with some ideas on what they hoped to get done before their election campaign gets under way in earnest in September.

Because the session had been planned to last only three weeks they would have to work fast and the number of pieces of legislation they could hope to get through would have to be fairly limited.

Then Monday President Eisenhower handed a long list of things he wanted done. It would be impossible, if Congress followed its usual pace, to get all of them through in three weeks.

Eisenhower was aware of this when he said "I urge that we stay on the job until it is done, certainly we cannot adjourn the public interest."

But for one very obvious reason Congress isn't likely to stay at work very far into September. All House seats and one-third of the Senate seats are at stake in November and the members want to get back home to campaign.

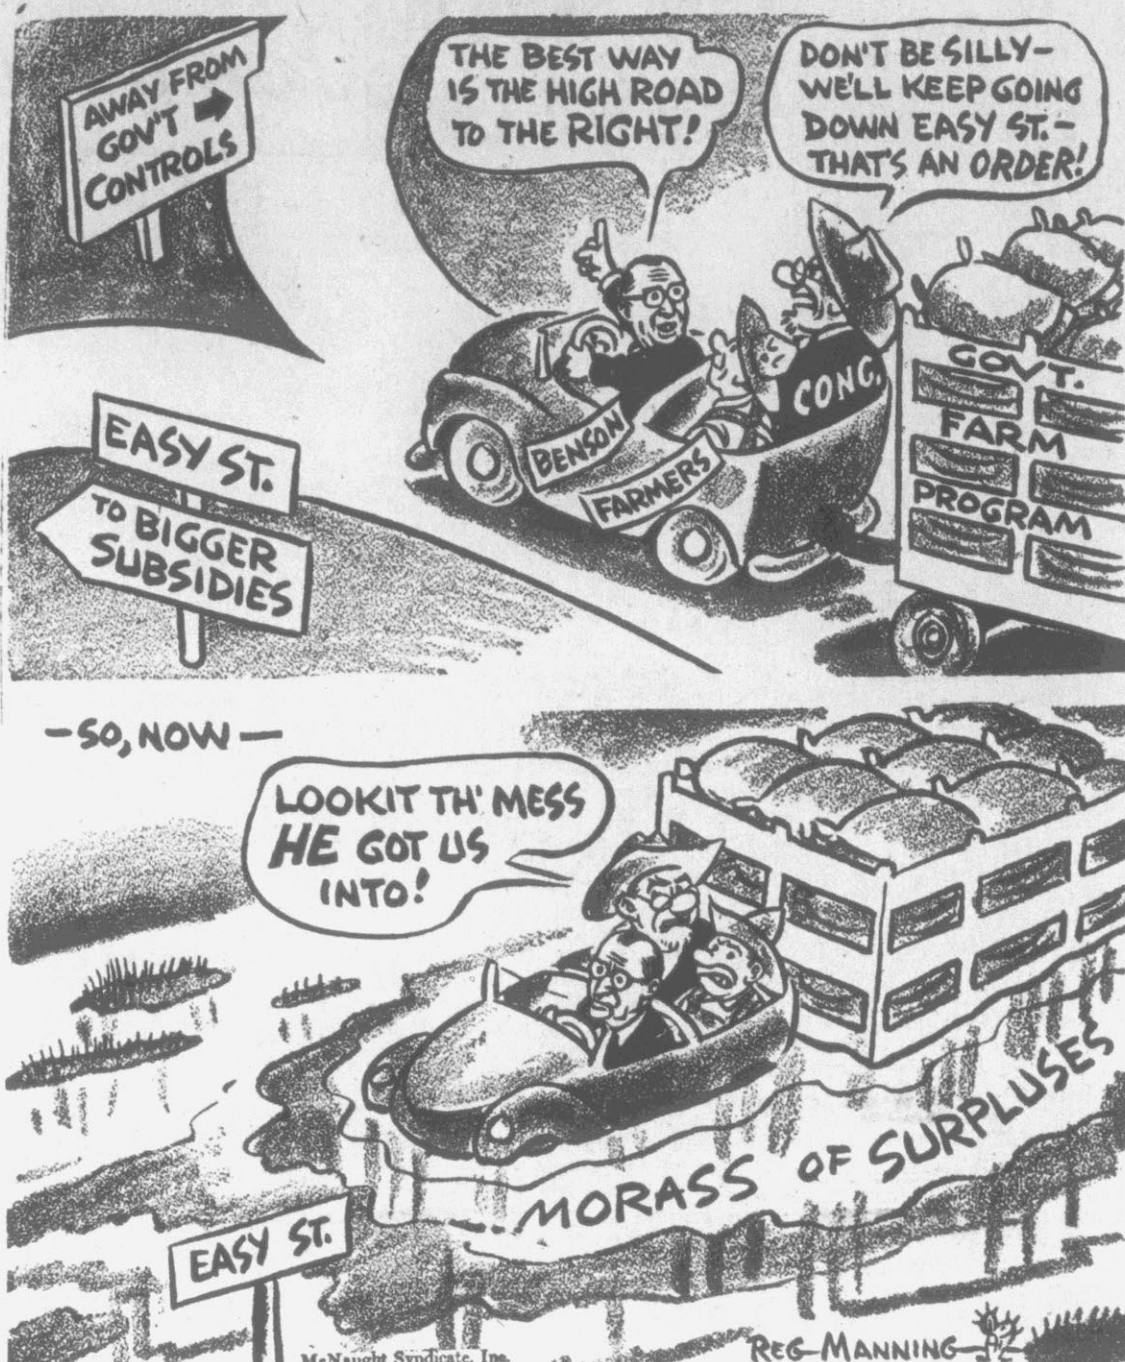

But if the Democrats, led by Johnson, ignore much of what Eisenhower wants, the Republicans will have a campaign argument that the Democrats were big on promises, short on performance.

Kennedy quickly indicated, but in very oblique language, that Eisenhower's basketful of suggestions was a political move.

The Massachusetts senator said: "A presidential message calling for action on bills previously vetoed, and complaining about spending after a broad series of demands, is not unexpected in an election year — but if it can be backed up with Republican cooperation and leadership, this will be a productive and constructive session."

Johnson also gave a political twist to the Eisenhower message. He said the President appears to be trying to "embrace vast portions of the Democratic

WHAT DO WE EXPECT

There has developed in the present political campaign quite a controversy over philosophical concepts which have generally and erroneously been classified as religion, so in order to clear the air and in favor of a better understanding let us dispose of the fallacy that this is a religious controversy.

Religion in its true aspect is an ascending philosophy of faith and hope for an eternal life. A belief in a supreme being. A human aspiration, religion, is neither the product nor the position of a particular group of humans nor a particular segment of the world population. It is the inherent individual right of every human being regardless of race, color, or creed. A religious creed is not a religion; it is adjunct. A religious creed prescribed an avenue or a path of approach to religion and involves an association of people, of like ideologies and practices. (An old Chinese proverb says: "There are many paths to the top of the mountain but the view is always the same.")

When God created man, he automatically created religions and other creeds. If this premise is not correct then we are unconsciously and unfairly castigating the Communist Creed. The first Bill of Rights does not specifically guarantee but usage has affirmed the freedom of any sect or group to propagate and support any particular creed or creeds — subject, however, to the limitation imposed and implied by other sections of the Constitution and Bill of Rights.

Under our Constitution, therefore, the rights of the Communists or Atheists Creed and so far as religion is concerned are just as sacred as those of the Catholic, Jew, Mohammedan, Protestant, or any other religious creed or the so called UNCHURCHED. The difference in the philosophy of human association upon various religious creeds are founded and may produce deep seeded controversies but religion itself is neither a controversial subject nor an issue in the United States and should not be between any of the peoples of the world. Let us not therefore, confuse the issue by cloaking it in the guise of religion.

The logic and the propriety of electing to public office people of minority ideologies, philosophies, creeds and color will be debated and discussed — very heatedly. We presume fairly and honestly we hope in coming months. It is going to be up to each of us, as American Citizens to decide and reach fair and logical decisions as to which of the candidates ability and which platforms are best qualified. We advocate, preserve an office welfare of our Country as a whole — not just one segment or section but the welfare of all of us individually and collectively. We should have no basic antagonism towards any candidate as a result of creed. We are fundamentally and probably selfishly interested in the welfare and continued progress of this country and preservation of our constitutional philosophy of human association.

Having seen some of the rest of the world, I know the unparalleled value of AMERICANISM, and don't propose to willingly neglect nor carelessly contribute to its emancipation or the substitution of any philosophy. We should ask of any candidate that he be technically and morally well qualified for the office he seeks. That he will honestly and conscientiously defend and support the constitution and its concepts of human association and provoke the welfare of this country as a whole to the best of his ability. While trying to put on paper a declaration of intent I felt would establish a candidates sincerity, honesty and patriotism. I came upon the Declaration of Intent required of a candidate of citizenship. Certainly if we can require such a declaration from a prospective citizen, we should expect a comparable one from the candidate for political office. If any of us have ever read this declaration before, it should be a valuable interest to all of us, as well as a reminder by solemn obligation as American Citizens.

"I hereby declare on oath that I absolutely and entirely renounce to adjure all allegiance and fidelity to any foreign prints, potentate, state of solundy, from whom or which I therefore, been a subject or citizen: That I will support and defend the Constitution and the laws of the United States of America against all enemy, foreign or domestic; that I will

CUSTOMER IS KIND DEPARTMENT — I was at a local drive-in the other night when a customer came up and ordered a hot dog all the way.

The only thing that made this different from all the other hot dogs ordered each night was that this particular customer wanted this particular wiener wrapped outside the hot dog roll.

No, I didn't find out why he wanted it that way. That's his business.

SIGHTS AT THE BEACH — Your columnist took a trip to Atlantic Beach last weekend and though I've been a hundred times, I always find the beach new and exciting.

A brisk breeze blew across the ocean and it was downright cool at Ft. Macon Beach where we were stretched out in the sun. With the development of plastics, the life preserver type rings which the kids use have become lighter and lighter.

Thus it was that, as the strong winds blew, it wasn't long before one such ring came sailing by on the sands. It traveled for a 100 yards or more. In its path came a little child probably under six, distressfully trying to close the ever widening gap between him and the moving plastic ring.

bare truth, faith, and allegiance to same; that I will bear arms on behalf of the United States when required by law or that I will perform noncombat service in the Armed Forces of the United States when required by law or that I will perform work of national importance under civildance, and direction required by law; and that I take this obligation free without any mental reservation or purpose of invasion; so help me God. And in acknowledgement, therefore, I have here unto affixed by signature."

I can see no honest reason why any true honest American can not wholeheartedly and conscientiously subscribe to the above.

Badger Game Victims

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
Copyright, 1960, King Features
Syndicate, Inc.

Physicians, from time to time, write to me, telling me of the badger game of which they suddenly discover themselves victims. Dentists are accused of raping patients, so that a wise dentist keeps his door open for his nurse or secretary to witness the propriety of his conduct. And such persons are not particularly good witnesses because they are hired help.

It is estimated that one in seven physicians is bothered by malpractice charges, using up their time and their means trying to prove that what they did was correct, what they prescribed was proper. Nowadays patients read advertisements and medical news items in the press and make demands on physicians, accusing them of malpractice if they do not obey the advertisement. When I was ill in the hospital, I received an enormous mail from readers advising me how to cure a cancer by everything from prayer to electricity. There are apparently radio stations which give medical advice, some of which can readily kill sick people, but there are thousands who believe that the man on the radio must be truthful or he would not be on the radio!

A physician sent me a clipping on this subject which he cut out of a medical journal, giving neither the name of the publication nor the date. Nevertheless, I quote from it because it contains an extraordinary good paragraph:

"A physician can be sued if he expresses an unfavorable opinion or a favorable one; if he conceals an error or reveals it; uses a new drug or fails to use one; keeps records or fails to keep records; discloses a fact about his patient or conceals same — the possibilities are without number."

There ought to be a carefully drawn up code specifying the responsibility of a physician to his patient. I have watched a physician go step-by-step to discover the cause for an unusually large number of white blood cells in a patient. He had to rule out many causes, some of which might have been fatal; some of which could be handled with anti-biotics. As he ruled out each possible cause, he started on another research because the white cell count remained high and there was no apparent reason for it.

Parents can become impatient with such thoroughness, but if they have any common sense they will be grateful that they have a physician who is not afraid to say that there is no obvious cause for the manifest results of a high white cell count. In the end, he will find the cause, but whether he can effect a cure depends upon many factors. This particular patient had once had mononucleosis and this might be an aftermath. But afterwards of illnesses can be quite a nuisance and even serious. Thus, parents would be wise to get a good local reputation and to trust him. He will not know everything because there is too much to know, but a good man, with a hospital connection, with access to a pathology laboratory will know how to discover whatever is available.

When I had a heart attack, I was bothered by countless friends to try this wonder of the ages or that brilliant man, I declined. A competent heart mended and that was sufficient. man, connected with a first rate hospital, had been recommended and that was sufficient. These great men and a pain in the neck sometimes. When a patient is very sick, the temperament of doctor and patient is very important. If they do not jibe, the doctor should drop the patient and recommend somebody else because the psychological effect of physician and patient is very important. They must be in absolute rapport. The same is true of nurses. A bothersome biddy can upset a patient no end; a friendly, kindly but rigid nurse can save a life.

Doctors and nurses should not be sued by patients who do not know what it is all about nor should they be tried by juries which cannot even understand the terminology. Just as lawyers are investigated by Bar Associations which make rec-

Opinions In Brief

U.S. Is Winning Cuban Cold War

By ELMER ROESSNER

We are winning the cold war with Russia over Cuba.

We are not winning Cuba or Cubans yet. But on the economic front we are licking the Soviets. They probably know it and, with Marxian cunning will probably abandon the ideological enclave there.

Cuba, like your own car, needs gasoline to keep running. To obtain it, the Castro government has seized American and British refineries and made deals with Communist countries to obtain petroleum.

But Russia is having difficulty in moving oil from the Baku fields of Rumania and from southern Russian ports to Cuba. Russia has not enough tankers, and world fleets are refusing to lease theirs. American oil companies have announced they will boycott lines that lease tankers to Russia. The Soviets have been offering up to 50 per cent above the going rate for tankers and, despite the fact that there's a world surplus of tankers, the Russians are not getting them.

SHORTAGE OF BOTTOMS — So far, Russia appears to have been able to deliver only minimum amounts agreed to, and Cuba is still short of gasoline without much hope of increasing imports.

The Soviets appear to have overextended themselves. They have offered oil to India as well, but so far have not been able to deliver adequate amounts.

The United States is also winning the battle of sugar. Our refusal to pay premium prices for Cuban sugar not only notified Cuba that the United States would not support a Communist-tolerant government there — but also that it was serious in its relations with the island republic which truly may not have been realized by locals.

Furthermore, there is a bountiful surplus in other sugar-growing nations, so much that the retail price of sugar has begun to slip back to normal, pre-Castro prices in recent weeks.

We have other advantages. Cuba's second largest industry has been tourism, and travelers are few and far between. This hurts the government where it is most painful—in the graft department—because tourists were the prime suckers in the crooked gambling games.

We are winning because we are nearer to Cuba than Russia or China. Shipments from Shanghai and Leningrad must have high transportation liability. Current goods will mean shockingly higher prices for the Cubans.

In short: Cuba needs the American market, American goods and American spending. The laws of economics will work everything out.

Cuba cannot maintain an economy based on deals with Russia and China, each half a world away, while America stands ready to supply the products of automatic factories.

No matter how much Russia does, no matter how little we do, Cuba will eventually resume economic ties with the U.S.A.

CHARGE SYSTEM SUITS INVOLVE NO CREDIT BUREAUS

A United States government antitrust action against two charge systems, one in Baltimore and the other in the District of Columbia, has worried merchants elsewhere who use credit bureau services.

This is to set fears at rest. These two companies are not credit bureaus. They buy consumer accounts receivable and bill consumers and collect from them. In doing so, the government alleges that they conspired to agree to set prices low to be one class and that by a violation of antitrust laws, if the exclusive features were eliminated, the plan would probably be unworkable.

Clan Members Head For 'Taft Gathering' Next Week

By JOHN KNOX
MENDON, Mass. (AP)—The illustrious and far-flung Taft clan makes a pilgrimage next week to the little farm town where it first took root in America. The occasion is the traditional Taft gathering on Aug. 20 when Taft, who settled in Mendon 281 years ago. The original Taft was a humble carpenter and farmer who came with his wife Sarah from the British Isles to carve a new home out of the southern Massachusetts wilderness in 1679.

His distinguished recent descendants have included: William Howard Taft, the 27th president of the United States and later its chief justice.

Robert A. Taft, the outspoken, longtime "Mr. Republican" in the U.S. Senate.

Charles P. Taft II, former mayor of Cincinnati and president of the old Federal (now National) Council of Churches of Christ.

Exra Taft Benson, secretary of agriculture and one of the Twelve Apostles of the Mormon Church.

5-Year-Old's Trip Is First And Last

ROCHESTER, Mich. (AP)—John Fitzwilson, 5, has gone on his first and last fishing trip, his mother says.

He and his brothers, Dick, 12, and Mike, 9, went fishing recently in Paint Creek which is near their avon township home.

While his brothers fished, John climbed onto a railroad bridge. A train came roaring along. John, too frightened to move, just sat there. The train struck the boy a glancing blow on the head.

John toppled into the creek. His brothers pulled him out, suffering a slight cut on his head and a bruised chest.

Another big Taft enterprise is the Taft Broadcasting Co. in which 24 members of the Taft and related Ingalls families are involved. They have stations in Cincinnati, Columbus, Lexington, Ky and Birmingham, Ala.

What happens at a Taft gathering? The big event on this year's program is dedication (by Charles P. Taft II) of a memorial plaque to mark the site of the long since vanished homestead of the original Taft.

The memorial site was donated by Carleton Gass, one of the many Taft descendants still living in the Mendon area. The clan began gathering funds for the plaque at the first reunion in 1874.

The gathering will start with a roast beef dinner, complete with background music, in a big, new ballroom. Then a business meeting and the speaker of the day. This year: Ezra Taft Benson.

After that there's entertainment (a magician), a trip to the memorial dedication ceremony and dancing from 6 p.m. to midnight in the Mendon Town Hall with informal talkfests available at a moment's notice for the non-dancers.

And, on Sunday, there will be a church meeting in the old Chestnut Hill Meeting House built in 1769—where Taft forebears worshipped during the critical days of the American Revolution.

WILLIAM PEARSON'S rousing bestseller on politics

A FEVER in the BLOOD

From the novel published by St. Martin's Press, Inc. Copyright © 1959, by William Pearson. Distributed by King Features Syndicate.

CHAPTER 35

In his room at the Dome, Charlie Hart Junior joined in the laughter of his coterie as Larry Cosmo concluded another anecdote about his great-uncle's political experiences. Then he walked over to his father, who sat in his wheel chair watching Paul Stimson's televised Election Night commentary. Charlie Hart Junior grinned. "About time to drop in at Democratic Headquarters, isn't it, Pop?"

Chomping on a dead cigar, the ex-Governor snorted. "You haven't been elected Lieutenant Governor yet. The downstate vote won't start piling up until about nine. That's what counts. You've still got a lot to learn about politics, Junior." He chuckled to himself. "So's Callahan. He didn't get enough votes in Rowton to carry him, Junior. Take it from a man who knows."

It was ten-thirty.

In the jostling confusion of the Herald's City Room, smiling Charlie Hart Junior stepped in front of the television camera. Phil Stimson said, "Well, Mr. Hart, it looks as if you're the new Lieutenant Governor."

"I don't have enough of a lead to go completely along with that statement, Phil, but..."

And it looks as if you're going to be working with a Republican Governor. Do you think you'll be able to get along?"

"Well, I'm not sure about that. Republican Governor comment, Phil. A lot can happen before the night's over though I'll admit it looks bad for Callahan right now. However if Governor Hasper does win... well, I'm pledging my cooperation straight down the line. Of course, we'll have differences sometimes. That's inevitable. So I'll call the shots as I see them. I think that's my duty."

"George," Stimson said to Governor Hasper's administrative assistant, drawing him in closer in front of the television camera, "this must be a proud moment for you."

George Lowden responded with a jaunty grin. "It sure is, Phil. Has Callahan conceded?"

"Nobody's been able to locate him. But about eleven o'clock, his campaign manager, Bosworth, dropped out of sight. So maybe something will break in the next few minutes." Stimson put his empty coffee cup on the desk behind him and said dryly, "To what do you attribute the Governor's success tonight, George?"

"Phil, it's a combination of many things. Mainly though, I think people realize that Frank Hasper is 'basic.' They believe in him. In..."

"Excuse me, George. I see the Governor leaving Mr. Keenan's office now. Fine, he's coming over..." Stimson waited until the Governor was in front of the camera. "How do you feel about your re-election, Governor?"

Hasper straightened his pinneer. "Pleased," he said bleakly. "Do you consider that the election returns have special significance?"

"I consider they do."

Showing exasperation, Stimson said, "In what way, sir?"

"The returns are a mandate, a mandate to complete my program."

"A lot of people are already talking about your running for Senator two years from now. How do you feel about that?"

"Well, I think I've said before that I'm going to get out of politics."

"Would you refuse a draft?"

"I don't answer hypothetical questions."

"But if you thought it was necessary to work on the national level in order to complete your program, would you run?"

Bridling, Hasper said, "Mr. Stimson, it's my intention at this time to get out of politics. New situations, national events, world events, can change anyone's plans. But to answer your question, I'm going to get out of politics. As soon as I complete my program."

Hasper stalked away.

Through his doorway Keenan could see Stimson interviewing another winning candidate. The publisher turned to his managing editor. "Tomorrow we're starting our campaign to get enough signatures for a special election to recall the District Attorney. It's the only way to get rid of the bum. We'll have a Page One editorial..."

"What's Vinquist going to do?"

"It's about time to pin him down, isn't it? All right, in a few minutes I'll give him a call."

Dan Callahan stood by his hotel-room window looking down on the street where a group of jubilant marchers was celebrating Hasper's victory with a torchlight procession. He turned, with tears in his eyes, and looked at his wife, Lucia, all I ever wanted out of this was a chance to help the people who live in Boxer Squares. I thought... I thought I could do so much. People need help from their government."

Outside the room's locked door Bert Bosworth's voice cried urgently, "Dan! Dan! Let us in! We have to have a statement for the papers."

"If you don't open up this time," Jiggs Keichum, the district captain said, "we'll tell 'em you're here."

Callahan walked to the bathroom and washed and dried his face. He ran a comb through his tangled black hair. He limped to the door and unlocked it. Bosworth, wordless, touched him gently on the arm.

Callahan gave the three men who stood in the doorway a grim nod and limped back to the window to stare at the Capitol dome. "Anybody got a few last words?"

"These things happen, Dan," the press agent said.

"Yeah. So why do they happen to me?"

The press agent gave Lucia Callahan a furtive glance. "Well, Dan... that business about Italy, it..."

Callahan looked more bewildered than angry. "But was it a crime, and they elected him. I didn't break any law. All I did was make a mistake. I didn't bring up Italy."

"A mistake grows." "It wasn't my fault it got out of hand. Other people made me a war hero. It just... it just got away from me."

"Dan," Keichum said, "you lost because the organization sat on its hands. That's why anyone loses. Vince Sposato, Dave Redstone, they told me they were 'going fishing.' The whole bunch went fishing."

"Let me read this statement, Dan," the press agent interrupted, "because they're hounding me for it. See if it covers the water front. Then we'll shoot you over to the TV people."

"He isn't going," Lucia Callahan said, and her fragile figure suddenly dominated the room. "I'm taking my husband home."

"But... Mrs. Callahan, you can't do that... yet. He's got to make a concession speech. He's got to be interviewed. It's always done."

Her thin lips hardened. "It isn't going to be done tonight. He's been through too much. Too much."

"Dan," Bosworth said, "I want to tell you something. You carried Rowton. Now by much, not by enough, but you carried the city."

"I carried Rowton?"

"It means something, Dan," Bosworth watched Lucia Callahan nervously. "There's an election for Mayor next fall, Dan."

"Mayor?"

"It's a nonpartisan election. No convention, no primary to go through. Five hundred names on a nominating petition is all it takes to get on the ballot. There's a challenge, Dan. This city's a billion dollar corporation. How many men ever get to run a business that size? A man can make a record in a job like that. The other can be lived down. It can!"

Callahan stared into space (To Be Concluded Tomorrow)

Friend Sold Shoes For Jailed Friend

DETROIT (AP)—Robert Smith, 39, went to a police station to get his impounded auto.

Police refused to give it to him because his license had been revoked.

Smith left and returned shortly with George Lewis, 40, who showed a valid license and said: "I'll take the car. I can't let my pal down."

Officers made a quick check, found a record of eight dollars in traffic warrants outstanding against Lewis. The two men only had two dollars between them so Lewis was put in jail.

Smith left and came back—barefooted—with six dollars.

"I sold my shoes and socks to get my friend out," he explained. Lewis was released.

Mizell Trips Chicago 7-1

Vinegar Souring National League Bats

Cardinals Sweep Doubleheader, Regain Second

By WHITNEY MARTIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Back in 1952 the sports writers covering the major league spring camps voted a tall, raw-boned youngster named Wilmer Mizell the most likely to succeed.

He had a fast ball that sang, and the fact he came from a town with the intriguing name of Vinegar Bend, Ala., and had a quaint way of expressing himself heightened interest in the affable south-paw.

He was good enough, but he never quite lived up to expectations after the St. Louis Cardinals signed him in December 1951, and a stretch in the armed services didn't help him too much.

He started this season with an indifferent lifetime record of 68 victories against 67 defeats.

The Cardinals thought so little of him after he had won one game and lost three that last May 28 they swapped him to the Pittsburgh Pirates for a couple of their farmhands.

Since joining the pennant-hungry Pirates Vinegar Bend has won eight games and lost two. He has won five in a row, completed four straight, and until the Chicago Cubs pushed a run across against him in the fifth inning Tuesday night he had pitched 30 1-3 scoreless innings.

He won the game 7-1, allowing only five hits, and the Bucs retained their five-game lead in the National League race.

The cast of characters in the runner-up spot switched, though. Milwaukee, which had been in second place, lost to the Los Angeles Dodgers 3-2 while the erstwhile third-place Cardinals were taking a doubleheader from the Phillies 5-4 and 6-0 to leap frog into second. San Francisco was rained out at Cincinnati.

In the American League the New York Yankees evened their series with the Chicago White Sox by taking the second of three games, 7-4; Cleveland beat Detroit 6-3; Baltimore blanked Kansas City 3-0 and Washington and Kansas City split, the Senators taking the opener, 3-1 in 12 innings, and Kansas City the nightcap, 8-3.

A couple of veterans largely were responsible for the Cardinals' win triumphs. Stan Musial cracked a pair of doubles in the first game, scored each time, and knocked in another run with a sacrifice fly.

The second game was all Curt Simmons, who turned in his fourth victory against two defeats, and his third over his former teammates. When the Cards gave him three runs in the sixth inning without getting a hit, it was all he needed. Gene Conley lost his eighth game against seven victories.

Lindy McDaniel was credited with his ninth victory in 12 decisions in the first game. He allowed one hit in the 2-1-3 innings he worked. Musial's second double in the eighth resulted in the winning run. He scored on Curt Flood's single to break a 4-4 tie.

Johnny Podres, on the mound for Los Angeles, had everything under control for eight innings. He had fanned 10, walked only two, and had allowed the Braves only five hits.

Then the roof started to sag. Eddie Mathews opened the ninth with his 24th home run. Podres got the next two batters, but Billy Bruton doubled and Johnny Logan and Felix Mantilla singled and the Dodgers lead was cut to one run. Larry Sherry came in to get the third out and preserve Podres' 10th victory.

The Dodgers pushed across what proved to be the decisive run in the top of the ninth off reliever Ron Pierce, who took over after starter Bob Buhl was lifted for a pinch hitter in the eighth. Maury Wills' third hit—a double—and a single by Wally Moon brought the score.

AL Pitchers Hope Ted Oversleeps

CLEVELAND (AP)—Opposing pitchers have a new hope in their continuing battle with Ted Williams—maybe some day he'll oversleep.

Nothing else seems to stop Boston's Splendid Splinter, whose formula to combat advancing age includes an afternoon nap before every night game.

Tuesday night he was wide awake, blasting the 511th home run of his career to move into a tie with Mel Ott for third place on the all-time list. Only Babe Ruth (714) and Jimmy Foxx (534) have hit more.

The clout—Ted's 19th of the year—sailed over the right field fence with nobody on in the fifth inning. The victim was Jim Perry, winningest pitcher in the American League, who went on to defeat the Red Sox, 6-3, for his 14th victory in 19 decisions.

"I hit the h--- off that ball," Williams said.

"I'll keep going unless I collapse. I gave the ball to (trainer) Jack Fadden to keep for me. No, it's not going to the Hall of Fame in Cooperstown. I'm going to a big dinner when we get back home and I'm sure I can auction this off for $1,000 for the Jimmy Fund, (children's cancer research fund)."

Williams, who will be 42 on Aug. 30, has a ready explanation for his napping routine.

"As you get older, you get peopless in the late innings of night games," he says. "I learned I can retain my sharpness at night by taking an hour or more of sleep in the afternoon."

A year ago Williams seemed a poor bet even to reach his goal of 500 homers, bothered by a neck ailment, he had his worst season. He finally wound up batting .254 with only 10 home runs.

This year's form reversal has been little short of amazing. Starting the season with 492 circuit clouts, he quickly moved into fourth place ahead of Lou Gehrig (493). Then, on June 17—also at Cleveland—he belted No. 500 off rookie Wynn Hawkins.

Walter Beach Is Top Scooter For College Stars

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP)—If the All-Stars have a surprise to tantalize the seasoned Baltimore Colts Friday night, it may be in the person of Walter Beach.

Beach probably is the best break-away runner Head Coach Otto Graham has—and speed is essential if the graduated collegians hope to score.

Graham likes to hark back to the 1958 game, his first as All-Star coach. His team ran up the biggest score in the mid-summer football series by trimming the Detroit Lions 35-19. Fleet Bob Mitchell of Illinois took two flat passes from Michigan State's Jim Ninowski for touchdown runs of 84 and 18 yards to insure the All-Star victory.

"We just don't have a Mitchell this time," Graham keeps repeating.

But the 25-year-old Beach may be close to the answer.

Beach, who will play pro football for the Toronto Argonauts, gained 2,968 yards rushing and scored 43 touchdowns in his varsity career at Central Michigan. And, as a member of the track team, the 180-pounder tied the school record for 100 yards in :09.7. Shoot him some flat passes and he may pull a Mitchell.

Beach is only one of four fast halfbacks who also rank as fine pass receivers. The others are Ed Kovac of Cincinnati, Dick Bass of College of Pacific and Prentice Gault of Oklahoma.

Captain for the All-Stars on offense will be Mike McGee, 230-pound guard from Duke. Captain on defense will be Jim Houston, 220-pound end from Ohio State.

The starting quarterback is uncertain. Graham can select from George Izo of Notre Dame, Pete Hall of Marquette and Don Meredith of Southern Methodist—all exceptional passers.

Fine On Martin Not Lifted - Point Made

CINCINNATI (AP)—The bone-breaking punch that Cincinnati Reds' second baseman Billy Martin gave pitcher Jim Brewer of the Chicago Cubs last Thursday still is going to cost him $300.

Martin has served out the five-day suspension that went with the fine.

National League President Warren C. Giles announced Tuesday night after a hearing requested by Martin that the penalties would stand. He said he heard nothing at the hearing that would cause him to change his mind about the fine and suspension.

A subdued Martin said he would abide by the decision but indicated he felt he had made his point.

"The thing I wanted to point out," he said, "was that I actually thought Brewer was coming over to fight. I'll never change my mind on that."

He insisted again it was not a "sucker" punch he threw at Brewer.

"I always said he (Brewer) wasn't surprised," Martin declared.

At the time of the incident, Martin claimed Brewer had thrown a pitch at his head. The ball nicked Martin's bat and carried off his helmet. On the next pitch, Martin's bat flew out of his hands toward the mound.

He went out to pick it up, then suddenly swung on Brewer after they had exchanged words.

The punch broke an orbital bone under the right eye. Brewer is expected to be out of action for at least a month.

In a Chicago hospital, Brewer said "I think it (the fine and suspension) is strong enough but I'm glad it wasn't lifted."

Reds' General Manager Gabe Paul and Judge Robert Cannon of Milwaukee, attorney for ballplayers, accompanied Martin to the hearing but Paul said Martin did most of the talking.

Although he refused to lift the fine, Giles said "Martin seemed very sincere in emphasizing that he did not intend any surprise blow and seemed truly sorry for the whole affair."

Martin closed out the affair by saying, "It's a past matter now. I'd like to see Brewer come back and play."

Another Attempt At Car Racing Record

BONNEVILLE SALT FLATS, Utah (AP)—The somewhat paunchy physician said quietly: "I'm not thinking about fear...but I know there is a certain element of chance."

You might think Dr. Nathan Ostich, a 50-year-old Los Angeles general practitioner, was preparing for a major operation.

In a way, he was. The physician's fingers carefully removed a screw from a bolt in the "Flying Caduceus," his 8,930 horsepower, red and black, missile-nosed racer.

But he wasn't in an operating room. He was under a canopy on the blistering Salt Flats of western Utah where he hopes Thursday to drive a racing car faster than any man on earth—about 500 miles an hour.

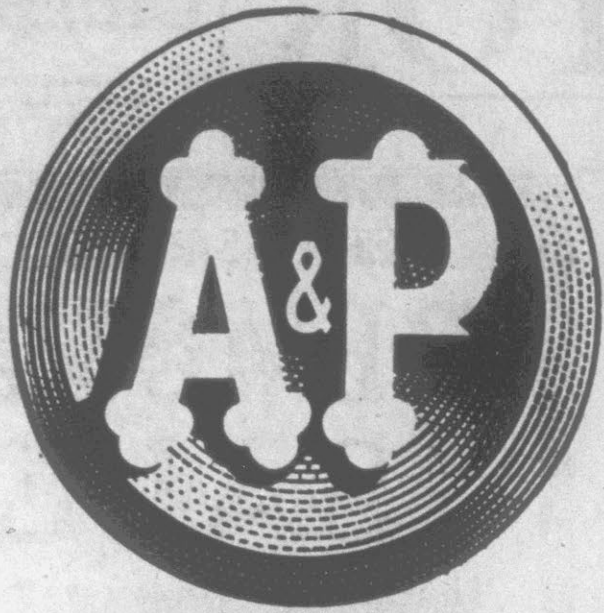

The doctor spent two days on the flats checking his car before he made a couple of test runs at about 140 m.p.h. Tuesday.

The jet-engine racer's design is radical. The nose is patterned after a missile cone. The body is round and the four-foot high wheels and tired uncovered to eliminate wind resistance.

"The wheels, each carved out of a 750-pound block of aluminum, will act like gyroscopes," said the physician. "We hope they will keep the car straight. At that high speed you can't turn the car if it goes into a skid. That's why we have the parachutes."

"If something goes wrong at 500 miles an hour and I have to pop the chute, I'll get 1½ Gs of deceleration (9,000 pounds pressure on his 5-9½, 193 lb body). Then when the second chute goes, I'll get another G (5,000 to 6,000 pounds)."

Final 1960 Eclipses, Moon And Sun, Will Be Observed On Sept. 5 And 10

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Eclipse, Eclipse
The last two eclipses of 1960 come next month—a total eclipse of the moon on Monday morning, Sept. 5—and a partial eclipse of the sun, Tuesday afternoon, Sept. 10.

The passage of the earth's shadow across the moon will be visible from much of North America, reports the magazine "Sky and Telescope."

Only the beginning will be visible in the eastern United States. Viewers on the Pacific Coast will be able to see the entire spectacle, beginning at 12:36 a.m. (PST), ending at 6:06 a.m. (PST).

Only about 61 per cent of the sun's diameter will be obscured by the moon in the solar eclipse on Sept. 10. Sunset bars the event for East Coast viewers, but it will be visible for most viewers from the Mississippi Basin westward.

Dates in Space?
Will the Soviets try some new space shots at the planets in coming months?
October is a favorable month to shoot a rocket to Mars, and January of next year is a good time to aim for Venus, reports the American Rocket Society journal, "Astronautics."

The Russians fired two big rockets into the Pacific in July the journal recalled, noting that two other Pacific shots earlier this year preceded the orbiting of the Soviet spaceship satellite in March.

Hunger—Off-On
Clues to how the control center of the brain regulates hunger and thirst come from new British experiments.

Salt water, injected into the hearts of rats, speeds to the control center—the hypothalamus—and the rat drinks water, says Dr. L. J. Herberg of the Institute of Experimental Psychology, Oxford.

A sugar solution, injected in the same way, appears to counteract hunger in the rats, inducing them to leave food uneaten in their cages, he writes in the British journal, Nature.

It suggests that the hypothalamus monitors the blood, orders you to eat when you need sugar or food, orders you to drink when blood salts are too concentrated.

Shark Attack File
There were 36 unprovoked and three provoked shark attacks on man during 1959, the Shark Attack File of the Office of Naval Research and the Smithsonian Institution shows.

Of these, about one-third were fatal, writes Dr. Perry W. Gilbert, Cornell University zoologist, in the journal, Science.

Five of the attacks were by unprovoked sharks on air or sea disaster victims. Twelve times sharks attacked boats with no fatalities.

Instant sweet potatoes may be the next quick food available to the housewife as a result of U.S. Department of Agriculture research.

"Flakes that produce instant sweet potatoes with the color and flavor of fresh pureed sweet potatoes have already been prepared in the laboratory," the department's publication, Agricultural Research, reports.

"When added to hot water or milk, the product is ready in 60 seconds to serve or to use in a pie or casserole."

Plan For Labor Day With Fingers Crossed

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Businessmen—and the money managers—are laying plans for the traditional upturn after Labor Day—but this time with fingers crossed.

They're getting set for an increase in buying demand—but depends on how consumers feel and also on how businessmen themselves feel about the outlook for fall.

The Federal Reserve Board will make more bank credit available by Labor Day.

Usually more credit is sought in the fall to finance retail preparations for back-to-school and Christmas business, and to finance the progress of crops from the fields and orchards to the grocery shelves.

Merchants expect big things from the back to school business. The advance guard of the war babies is crowding colleges. The first of the big postwar baby crop will be entering high schools. Those born in 1954, when the birth rate was high, will be facing first-grade teachers.

As any parent knows outfitting children grows more expensive at each stage of education.

The food business stoutly predicts steadily increasing consumption and spending for food. And the increased processing and selling should call for more credit.

The auto industry is starting to produce its 1961 models. Steel, rubber, glass and other suppliers hope for more business soon. But the vogue for compact cars, using least materials, will cut into demand of these primary industries.

This has kept new orders for steel lower than first hoped. But the industry is now looking for October to be its biggest month, when new car production will be in full swing.

After that it's up to the car buyers.

Consumers have kept their spending in general at a high rate. What the consumer may do this fall, however, worries some. They cite the nervous stock market, the squeeze on business profits, layoffs here and there, and stubborn unemployment totals as offering a threat to continued strong confidence on the part of the buying and borrowing public.

Senator Predicts Payola Outlaw

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. John O. Pastore (D-R.I.) today predicted early Senate passage of a House-passed bill to outlaw payola and quiz show fixing in the broadcasting industry.

Although the television-radio industry objects strongly to several provisions in the bill, Pastore told a reporter he is confident the measure will encounter little difficulty.

"It won't have any trouble," he said.

Pastore is chairman of a Senate subcommittee which opens limited hearings on the bill today. Chairman Frederick W. Ford of the Federal Communications Commission was called as the lead-off witness.

Pastore said he hopes to confine the hearings to two or three days and to limit testimony to just two of the more controversial provisions.

He referred to provisions which would authorize the FCC to put offending TV or radio stations off the air for up to 10 days and to impose fines of up to $1,000 a day on stations that violate FCC regulations.

Both were written into the bill by a House committee following disclosures of TV quiz show rigging and of undercover payments to disc jockeys and others to promote popular music records.

Advocates of the twin penalties contend they are needed to give the FCC greater flexibility in punishing offending broadcasters.

Md. Prison Strike Turned Political

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP)—Maryland's no-work prison strike has turned political.

Inmates of the House of Correction at Jessup have asked for a special session of the Legislature to give them the privileges they seek. And Washington county delegation in the legislature has asked for investigation of the state's entire prison system.

Those were the latest developments as the excitement over prisoners' sit-down demonstrations died down and prison officials looked forward to a full return to regular routine.

Prisoners working inside jobs at three Maryland prisons staged protest work stoppages after an order which reduced sentences of inmates assigned to public works projects outside prison but gave no credit to those working inside.

Three Answer If Shirley Called

MEMPHIS (AP) — All is confusion in the Shirley O. Sisk residence when the telephone caller asks to speak with "Shirley." And a letter addressed simply to "Shirley Sisk" is just as baffling.

Sisk's wife also is named Shirley. So is their 13-year-old daughter.

Premier Lumumba Offers Aid To UN In Moving Belgians

By LYNN HEINERLING LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—Premier Patrice Lumumba who has been threatening a lone-wolf invasion of rebellious Katanga province, offered today to help the United Nations get Belgian soldiers out of the Congo. Most are now concentrated in Katanga. In a letter to U. N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld, Lumumba said his government is at the disposal of the international organization.

A pacific note was sounded at the same time in Katanga's capital, Elisabethville, by Premier Moïse Tshombe. Tshombe announced he has cabled Hammarskjöld that he is ready to negotiate with a U.N. envoy for the eventual entry of the U.N. force. Lumumba's government had threatened a general mobilization for invasion of Katanga unless the U.N. force entered that secessionist province by the weekend.

Information Minister Anicet Kashamura voiced the mobilization threat in an interview and added: "We will enter Katanga alone."

Whatever the weight of this declaration, officers of the U. N. force told newsmen they expect orders to move into Katanga before Saturday. Commanders of the 12,000-man U. N. force were confident a detachment will enter soon, and without any shooting. The diplomatic community and U. N. officials awaited the return of Hammarskjöld, probably Thursday, to see how he deals with Lumumba in carrying out the U. N. Security Council's new mandate to replace Belgian soldiers in Katanga with the U. N. force. Tshombe has conditionally assented.

Tshombe, who blocked a scheduled entry of the U. N. force last Saturday with a threat of war, backed down Tuesday and offered conditions for them to enter the territory he has declared independent of Lumumba's central government in Leopoldville.

Tshombe said the U. N. troops could only enter if none came from Communist or Communist-influenced countries and if the U. N. did not intervene in Katanga's internal affairs. Tshombe said his government retained the right to bar anyone from Lumumba's government from the province and that Katanga and U. N. troops would jointly guard all roads into the province.

GRIMESLAND—The Board of Aldermen of Grimesland last night discussed the possibility of constructing a fire department building and also considered the possibility of a rural fire truck.

Interest in the local fire department as well as in a rural fire truck has increased in recent months, Mayor Leslie Elks said. The town's fire truck is now housed at the back of the Town Hall under a shelter. The truck was purchased in April of this year.

Other business at the meeting focused on paying town bills.

GRIMESLAND—A barbecue supper for the benefit of the town fire department raised $366.75 and was a big success, Mayor Leslie Elks said today.

The supper, held last weekend, was an effort to raise money for different things the fire department would need. About 500 residents of the community now served by the Grimesland Volunteer Fire Department attended the supper. Tickets were sold and supper was served between 6 and 8 on Friday evening.

AYDEN — Ayden received its share of the 'Intangibles' tax yesterday in the form of a check for $3,425.88, Town Manager Cleveland Paylor said.

The tax, received from the state of North Carolina, is for the year ending June 30, 1960.

The town budget estimated that $3,260 would be received, so that the actual amount exceeded expectations.

AYDEN — A spokesman for the Grimesland Volunteer Fire Department said today "not too much damage" resulted from a fire in a home in Simpson yesterday.

The fire occurred in the attic of the Roscoe Heath home in Simpson, as it ravaged some quilts and blankets. However, the building was saved. Cause of the blaze is unknown.

The Winterville Fire Department also answered the call.

AYDEN — A new transformer which controls the street light circuit has been purchased for the town of Ayden, Town Manager Cleveland Paylor said yesterday.

The transformer in use was damaged by water which was blown in by winds during tropical storm Brenda about two weeks ago. In the meantime, the town was using a transformer loaned by the town of Apex in Wake County until their own was repaired.

Paylor said the cost of repairing the controller was so great that officials purchased a new one.

Rose To Serve Panel Session

MARS HILL—Superintendent of Greenville City Schools J. H. Rose will serve on a panel discussion during the annual administrative conference sponsored by the State Department of Public Instruction which convened here Tuesday.

The conference will end on Friday. State Superintendent Charles F. Carroll said.

The panel on which Rose will participate is composed of eight superintendents who are currently serving on a committee concerned with statewide school organization and personnel. Their topic is "What Changes Need To Be Made In School Organization and School Personnel in Order for the Schools To Keep Pace With a Changing North Carolina?"

Addresses will be made by state and national leaders in education during the four-day conference, including Dr. Wayne O. Reed, deputy commissioner of education, U. S. Office of Education, and Dr. Oliver J. Caldwell, director of the Division of International Education.

Haney Invited To Georgia Seminar

Dr. H. G. Haney of Greenville has been invited to attend the Seminar on American Strategy at Fort Benning, Ga., Sept. 9-10.

More than 350 leaders of business, educational, civic and church groups from the seven Southeastern states have been invited to attend the seminar by the planning co-chairmen, Dillard Munford, national director of the Young Presidents Organization, and Maj. Gen. H. D. Ives, Third U. S. Army Chief of Staff.

The purpose of the two-day meeting is to alert Southeastern citizens to the dangers of the cold war conflict presently confronting the nation. Estimated Paving Costs Exceed Available Funds

GRIFTON—The Town Board of Grifton last night decided an estimated paving cost of $25,513 for three streets exceeded the amount available for the project.

L. E. Wooten and Co., consulting engineers, had made the report which estimated that cost of paving projects on Charles, Pitt and St. Joseph Streets would total over $25,000. The commissioners plan to break up the project and continue with some street work, clock following the presentation of a petition from residents of N. Church St. that the speed limit there be reduced. The petition asked that the speed limit be reduced from 35 miles per hour to 25.

No action was taken on the matter. The board decided that it would instruct the police chief to enforce the present law.

Edward Owens was appointed street commissioner. In other business, the building inspector reported that no building permits and no plumbing permits were issued in the town during the month of July. The town received its intangibles tax check from the state for $1,837.58. Town Clerk Joyce McCoy said.

In reports, the Police Commissioner Paul Whitley gave the Recorder's Court report and said the balance for July was $388.27. Whitley also presented the police department report which included 25 arrests for July, and 26 found guilty; three accidents investigated, two funerals and five fires.

The first library report was given by Librarian Mrs. Gladys Burney. During July, 502 books were issued; 19 magazines were issued and $10.37 was collected in fines.

The board discussed plans to buy a new lawnmower, for use on town property, at an estimated cost of $359, Mrs. McCoy said.
