With their eyes set on Williamsport, Pennsylvania, and the Little League World Series, 56 Little League baseball players, and their supporters arrived in Greenville yesterday for the Division III playoffs which began here today.

The visiting Little Leaguers, who are representing the states of North Carolina, Georgia, Florida, and Tennessee, are all championship teams in their respective states. The winner of this tourney will advance to Norfolk, Virginia next week to compete in the Regional playoffs there, and the winner in the Virginia action will go on to Williamsport the following week.

The visiting baseballers, from Miami, Florida's South West Boys Club, Americus, Georgia, Elizabethton, Tenn., and Winston-Salem, N. C., arrived here yesterday and were escorted by Police through the city and to Elm Street Park.

W. C. James, Greenville Little League Commissioner, and director of the tourney here, told the Daily Reflector this morning that the tournament, thus far, had all the indication of being, "the most successful thing we have ever put on in Little League in Greenville."

James reported that various plans had been made to entertain the visiting Little Leaguers, and those that have accompanied them to Greenville. According to the tourney director, swimming parties and dinners at the Greenville Country Club and the Moose Lodge will be on the itinerary each evening. Entertainment has also been provided for the adults, each day.

James, in speaking of the tournament as a whole, said, "It looks wonderful, everybody has given us their fullest cooperation, and I have never seen a more cooperative and appreciative bunch of visitors." James further commented that, "We haven't called on anyone who hasn't responded."

The tournament play began this afternoon at Elm Street Park, and will extend through tomorrow afternoon when the champions will be decided.

ANOTHER JUMP

HOLLOMAN AIR FORCE BASE, N.M. (AP) — Air Force Capt. Joe Kittinger will make another high altitude jump Aug. 16 from an undisclosed height.

Kittinger parachuted from a balloon gondola last November from 14 1/2 miles up. On Dec. 11, he made a jump from 74,700 feet.

Soviets Throw Out 3rd
American In Three Days

By STANLEY JOHNSON
MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union today expelled a young American YMCA tourist, accusing him of trying to enlist a Ukrainian in "anti-Soviet agitation" by giving him clothes, three Bibles and American publications.

The American was identified as James Schultz of Washington University, St. Louis, Mo., a tour sponsored by the U. S. Young Men's Christian Assn.

An article in the newspaper Komsomolskaya Pravda said that Schultz' act had "caused indignation among honest people and he is being expelled. He forgot the elementary rules of decency and politeness."

Hammar skjold, Troops
Land In Katanga Province

By ADRIAN PORTER
ELISABETHVILLE, the Congo (AP)—United Nations Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold and the first U.N. force to enter secessionist Katanga province landed today.

The force—220 Swedes—arrived in five planes, touching down at 10-minute intervals.

Hammarskjold and the soldiers almost did not land after all. The crowd at the airport saw Hammarskjold's plane circle the airfield three times.

Katanga's Premier Moise Tshombe and other government officials waiting at the airport were told as the plane circled that the secretary refused to land.

It appeared the control tower's European operator had told Hammarskjold he would be allowed to land but that permission would be refused to the planes carrying the Swedish soldiers.

Tshombe was appalled and quickly ordered the control tower to allow all U.N. planes to land.

Although Tshombe three days ago announced he now was willing to accept the U.N. force under the Security Council mandate for replacement of the Belgian soldiers on duty in Katanga, the order to prevent them from landing never was withdrawn at the airport control tower.

That explanation was given to newsmen by Tshombe himself.

Preceded by bodyguards, the secretary-general walked down the steps of his white twin-engine plane and was greeted by Tshombe and all the members of the Katanga government now in Elisabethville.

Planes still were coming as Hammarskjold and Tshombe drove to Tshombe's official residence to begin their talks.

Belgian soldiers remained at the airport and terminal.

Armed with a mandate of the U.N. Security Council to secure the withdrawal of Belgian soldiers from disputed Katanga, the secretary general took off within 10 hours after landing in Leopoldville from New York.

The armed Swedish troops went off officially as an honor guard for Hammarskjold. But in reality they are the first units of the U.N. force to replace the Belgian forces in the rich mining province.

Hammarskjold led a flight of six troop-loaded planes chartered from the Congo airline for the 950-mile trip. Two supply planes that flew to Luluabourg Thursday were to join up en route.

Katanga Premier Moise Tshombe, rebelling against the central Congo government of Premier Patrice Lumumba, promised a safe welcome for Hammarskjold and his men.

The first Swedish troops were to remain on the Elisabethville airfield while Hammarskjold had his initial conferences with the Katanga premier. Afterward they probably will be used to secure the airfield as the Belgian troops withdraw.

Other troops then will be flown to Elisabethville, and other units—including probably some of the Irish battalion—will move in from Kivu province.

Hammarskjold flew into Leopoldville from New York Thursday night in a jet plane loaned him by President Eisenhower.

With demands for local autonomy and a weaker central government growing in the Leopoldville area as well as in Katanga and other provinces, Lumumba meanwhile was taking steps to strengthen his authority and check opposition.

Rifle-carrying Congolese police and soldiers are carrying out patrols in the central capital. They have been halting cars on the road to the airport—even those of diplomats—and searching them for weapons.

Capsule Rushed To Hawaii

By ELTON C. FAY
WASHINGTON (AP)—A space capsule fired back to earth from an orbiting U.S. satellite was rushed toward Hawaii today with a payload of data that could help in perfecting a spy-in-the-sky system.

With recovery of the capsule—for the first success in 13 attempts—the United States appeared to have won a lap in the space race with the Soviet Union.

The 300-pound capsule, loaded with instruments, was fished from the Pacific Ocean about 330 miles northwest of Hawaii Thursday by a helicopter which hurried to the spot from a waiting ship.

A little over three hours earlier, the Air Force triggered the ejection mechanism of its Discoverer XIII as it made its 17th pass over Alaska in polar orbit.

U. S. Orbits Huge
Balloon Satellite

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The United States sent a huge communications satellite into orbit high above the earth today and quickly signalled its success by bouncing a message from President Eisenhower across the nation.

The new space messenger, Echo I, was rocketed up from this missile test center at 4:39 a. m.

A little over two hours later the National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced it was successfully in orbit.

Then less than four hours after launch, the recorded message from the President was played back at a news conference in Washington.

The message came back loud and clear when received at Hightstown, N. J., after being sent from Goldstone, Calif.

It said: "This is President Eisenhower speaking."

"It is a great personal satisfaction to participate in this first experiment in communications involving the use of a satellite balloon known as Echo."

"This is one more significant step in the United States program of space research and exploration."

"The program is being carried forward vigorously by the United States for peaceful purposes for the benefit of all mankind."

"The satellite balloon which has reflected these words was used freely by any nation for similar experiments in its own interests."

"Information necessary to prepare for such participation was widely distributed some weeks ago."

"The United States will continue to make freely available to the world the scientific information acquired from this and other experiments in its program of space exploration."

The recording was broadcast to the satellite on its first sweep around the earth.

Dr. T. Keith Glennan, NASA administrator, described the Echo launching as "well-nigh perfect."

The fact that the satellite was in successful orbit had been confirmed by both telemetry and visual sightings.

Observers on the Pacific Coast reported that in the early morning darkness it shone some seven times brighter than the North Star.

Glennan gave the new satellite the name of Echo I.

First Border Day
Sees $57 Average

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Farmers who sold tobacco Thursday when markets of the South Carolina and Border North Carolina held their first sales of the season received an average of $57.68 per 100 pounds for their leaf.

The federal-state Market News Service reported that the opening day figure was down $1.84 from last year's opening average of $59.52.

The opening day poundage was also off slightly from last year, totaling 9,073,138 pounds as compared with 10,076,178 pounds auctioned on first day sales last year.

The belt's South Carolina markets sold 4,208,889 pounds at a $58.51 average while the North Carolina marts moved 4,864,249 pounds at a $56.97 average.

Average prices Thursday for lugs and cutters were higher than on 1959's first day sales, but lower quality primings and nondescript leaf and smoking leaf. Quality was not so good as on last year's opener.

Increases ranged from $1 to $3 per 100, declines $1 to $4. Most sales ranged from $45 to $70. Grade averages exceeded their respective loan rates by $1 to $22. Most top quality grades were $1 to $2 above support level.

The Federal - State agriculture departments said quality declined because of more offerings of non-descript and fewer of good and fair leaf.

The Flue - Cured Stabilization Corp. received an estimated 3 to 10 per cent of sales, compared with 9.4 per cent at the 1959 opening.

Auction bid averages per 100 pounds on a limited number of representative U.S. grades:

Cutters—Low lemon 71, up 1; low orange 71, up 1.

Lugs—Good lemon 70, up 1; fair orange 69, up 1; good orange 70, up 1; fair orange 69, up 1.

Primings—Good lemon 67, down 1; fair lemon 65, unchanged; low lemon 56, down 3; good orange 68, up 1; fair orange 64, up 1; low orange 52, down 2.

Current Session
May Be Prolonged

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST
WASHINGTON (AP)—Politics and the weather may keep the current post-convention meeting of Congress in session well into September.

While Labor Day—Sept. 5—is the adjournment target date set publicly by congressional leaders, their private estimates aren't as optimistic.

One thing is reasonably certain: If Congress doesn't adjourn by Labor Day, it could be in session a long time after that.

The Senate convened last Monday to start work on a backlog of measures left unfinished in July. The House won't convene until next Monday, but its members have been told they can stay away until Aug. 22 because there is no business on tap in the House for next week.

That leaves two weeks—if the Labor Day target is to be hit—in which Congress will have to dispose of a docket it couldn't complete in almost six months of pre-convention sessions.

House members straggling back for next week's opening are basing their adjournment plans on mid-September or early October.

Rep. Carl Albert of Oklahoma, Democratic whip, said he doubted that Congress would adjourn before the middle of September.

Another top Democrat, who wouldn't permit identification because he publicly has been boosted in the Labor Day adjournment date, said privately he would settle for Oct. 1.

"There is just too much work to be done," he said. "The little things can be handled in a hurry. It's the big things, like school construction, minimum wages, housing, medical aid, and farm legislation, that could slow us down."

Many of the "big things" have progressed to the point where they are near the final voting stage, but many of them still face a balky House Rules Committee which hasn't even scheduled a meeting for the current session.

From a purely political point of view, some congressional leaders don't seem too concerned over a prolonged session.

"Where else can a candidate for national office get a bigger press audience than in Washington?" one of them asked. "Here, all you have to do is announce a press conference and several hundred reporters will show up and you have national coverage. When you are out stumping, you have a smaller press and a smaller sounding board. And it's much more comfortable in the air-conditioned halls of Congress than it is under the open sun on the campaign circuit. It's cheaper, too."

Other troops then will be flown to Elisabethville, and other units—including probably some of the Irish battalion—will move in from Kivu province.

Bloodmobile Effort
Sees Light Turnout

Chairman of the Pitt blood program, Dr. Howard Gradis, said the bloodmobile program here yesterday "went very poorly."

Out of the quota of 140 pints of blood, only 67 were collected. Dr. Gradis said. However, 78 donors appeared, 11 of whom were rejected for various reasons.

Dr. Gradis said one reason for the poor showing yesterday was that 15 organizations who had pledged to participate in sending donors to the bloodmobile, failed to send any donors at all. In addition, about 19 persons who signed pledge cards failed to appear.

Dr. Gradis said that if the 15 organizations who failed to participate had sent even half their quota, "We probably would have made our overall quota."

The following organizations participated by sending the designated number of donors:

Red Oak Men's Bible Class, seven; VFW Auxiliary, eight; Moose Lodge, ten; Ladies of the Moose, eight; Service League, ten; Jaycees, six; Jay-C-Rites, five; Lions Club, four; Exchange Club, three; Greenville Newcomers Club, three; Winterville, three; National Guard, three; Greenville Utilities, four; Eppes High School, two; Pitt County Home Demonstration Club, one; Civitans, one.

The following organizations which previously pledged to participate in the program sent no donors at all; Rotary Club, City Union Usher Board, Business and Professional Women's Club, Woman's Club, American Legion, Toastmasters Club; Pitt County Life Underwriters

Brides-Elect Are Honored

Brides-elect Cynthia Cranford and Jane Perkins were honored Wednesday morning by Mrs. David Evans, Miss Anne Evans, Mrs. W. L. Whedbee and Miss Betsy Whedbee at the Evans home on East Fifth Street.

Arrangements of mixed summer flowers were used in the reception hall, den and drawing rooms. The refreshment table was covered with an applied white organdy cloth and centered with a complete arrangement of white clematis mounted on a reflector. From the appointed table guests helped themselves to iced drinks, assorted sandwiches, cheese straws, nuts and a variety of sweets.

The hostesses presented Miss Cranford and Miss Perkins with shoulder corsages and gifts of silver in their chosen pattern.

Among the many pre-nuptial parties honoring brides-elect Cynthia Cranford and Jane Perkins was a recent informal hour given by Mrs. D. A. Blue and Mrs. Virginia Basnight with their daughters, Jane Blue and Rebecca Basnight.

Corsages of wedding bells and gifts of silver were presented the honorees by the hostesses. Summer flowers decorated the home and a large wedding bell centered the refreshment table where 25 guests were served.

Rug Making To Be Taught At Workshop

The art of making rugs by hand is a tradition that has been handed down from the early American settlers. Braided rugs added beauty and comfort to the early homes, and are adding beauty and comfort to many homes today.

Home Demonstration Club women in 16 Eastern N. C. counties have the opportunity to learn the craft during the fifth annual handicraft workshop to be held at Roanoke Island 4-H Camp at Manteo, August 16-18.

Mrs. Mamie Sawyer, home economics agent in Camden County and Mrs. Elizabeth Saenderlin, home economics agent in Currituck County, are serving as chairmen of the event.

Mrs. Jerry Bradley of Jackson will be teaching the women how to braid rugs. Braided rugs are among the more common types of rugs made at home. Their beauty depends upon the workmanship, size and shape of the rug, materials used, design and color.

Rugs made of used materials require little outlay of money; however, by the use of remnants, mill ends, and blanket ends a rug of new materials can be made at a reasonable cost.

Supper Party For Clubbers

GRIFTON—Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Jackson were hosts on Thursday night at their home on Highland Drive at a supper party for members of their contract club and other guests.

In the living room and dining room arrangements of summer flowers were noted as decorations. A turkey dinner was served before the games.

Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Hodges were club high scorers and the guest prize went to Mrs. W. L. Daws. Others playing were Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Mewborn, Mrs. Richard Nelson, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Cobb, Mr. W. I. Bissette, Mrs. G. L. Tucker and Mr. and Mrs. Corey Stokes of Ayden.

Mr., Mrs. Daws Entertained

GRIFTON—On Sunday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Tom Gower entertained at their home with a barbecue chicken supper for Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Daws who will soon be moving to Roanoke Rapids.

Guests assembled on the back lawn and were served to juice cocktails. Later the chicken supper was served buffet style, which was followed by chocolate cup cakes as dessert. Fifty guests attended the party.

In 1935, the average hourly factory wage could buy five quarts of milk. Today, an hour's work will buy eight to nine quarts.

Party Marks 7th Birthday For Deborah

GRIFTON—On Saturday afternoon Deborah Phillips celebrated her seventh birthday by having a number of her friends at a party at her home on McRae Street.

Guests were directed in games by Mrs. Mark Phillips, mother of the guest of honor, and Mrs. W. E. Rasberry. Later they were invited into the dining room for supper. The table was covered with a pink and white cloth and held as the centerpiece a three-tiered birthday cake in white with pink candles and decorations.

After a fried chicken supper the cake was cut and served with ice cream as dessert. Each guest was remembered with a "Loot Bag" as a favor.

Those present were Sarah Lilley, Connie Barwick, Barbara Rasberry, Joanna Paul, Ronda Saleeby, Olivia Reeves, Alma Parker, Debbie Leonard, Michael Phillips, Patricia Johnson, and Becky Goolsby.

Out Of Jewel Case

(Editor's Note: The following column has been compiled from a news release concerning the right jewels to wear with what.)
What is the mode of this moment; fall-winter 1960?

It is the most luxurious and magnificent that women have seen in years. Everything is lush and lavish. The furs, and how they are used, the fabrics, the colors all point to a season of great glamor.

Longer torsos are in vogue, and the slightly fitted look is still much beloved by many top designers. Suit jackets come in all lengths and many of them have dropped shoulders. Coats are ample and dramatically full. Hats tower to new heights and the evening hat has had a renaissance.

Daytime clothes are unadorned, often with a neck cut high, straight across the throat. Many of the evening clothes are ankle length, silky sheaths with long, tight sleeves, a fashion that does great things for a shapely lady but looks almost monotonous without the proper jewels.

really makes the difference. In a season of great extremes, opulent fabrics and lavish furs or stark, unadorned, magnificently cut clothes, Trifari, the champion of costume jewelers, knows that precious looking jewelry is exactly right.

Not that many of us will have them, but it is indicative of this season's mood that they are showing ermine coats, lined with the world's most fragile and perishable fur, chinchilla.

It is unthinkable, with such a trend, to wear anything but the most dramatic, precious and fine-looking jewelry.

In a period of such daring, timidity is outlawed. The larger and more improbable the size of the jewel, the more enormous the stones that are used, the better the fashion. But they must look REAL.

Beloved Beads
This country of ours can never get enough color. While black will always hold its own as super-elegant, color is youth and gaiety, lively and becoming, and creates a mood.

At this point in the new season all shades of purple, particularly plum, are the leaders. Following closely in popularity comes brown, olive and emerald green, blue, red and grey.

Novel barrel shaped beads, free form, oval and cubes are given additional interest by a new stringing. Nearly every high style necklace has a textured gold connection between each bead that makes it fascinating and different. The "Ballerina" pearls are separated by textured gold, spiked nuggets, and it would be hard to say whether it's handsomer in the pearl and gold or when gold beads are separated by the gold nuggets.

Vying in excitement are grooved golden connectors that look like nothing so much as a shiny hour glass. Twisted, spiked, textured gold makes a bead connector of enormous charm and novelty.

Many of the bead necklaces run up to seven strands and most of the groups include ropes. (To be featured in the next article, is what to wear from nine until five, and cocktail jewels, and for that 'special evening'.)

Pitt Farmers, Local Mart Can Supply Trade Demand

By W.L. Whedbee, Supervisor, Greenville Tobacco Board of Trade

As all of you know the tobacco trade is now anxious for a greater quantity of standard, mellow, fluorescent tobacco with rich clear color, desirable body and outstanding for its flavor and aroma.

Where are you going to be able to obtain it in 1960? Let me answer this question for you. The Greenville Tobacco Market

Is The Answer

It has long been axiomatic in the world wide tobacco trade that "there is no substitute for quality". Realizing this the tobacco farmer in the area served by the Greenville Tobacco Market have given tobacco leaf for both export and domestic consumption, the quality of which cannot be surpassed in the entire world. It has been tried by many nations and many sections of our own nation, but it cannot be copied or duplicated.

Our Tobacco Is Standard

Tobacco has now become the standard of quality for smokers everywhere. It is by comparison with our tobacco that the tobacco grown in other countries is now judged as to quality.

Why?

The answer is simple. It is because our tobacco is the most desirable tobacco that is grown anywhere in the entire world.

Great World Wide Demand For Standard Old Line Tobacco

As evidence of the quality and desirability of our tobacco sold on the Greenville Tobacco Market, only 2 per cent of our entire sales on the Greenville Tobacco Market were taken under loan agreement by the Stabilization Corporation during the year 1959. The other 98 per cent of the tobacco sold on the Greenville Tobacco Market moved into the regular channels of tobacco trade for manufacture, consumption and enjoyment of smokers over the entire globe.

In short, the tobacco trade recognizes the superiority of our product and frankly want it in large quantities in order that they may not have to resort to substitutes of a less palatable nature.

Pitt County Farmers Are Specialists

Pitt County farmers are specialists in their field. They had 70 years experience in growing, curing and marketing high quality tobacco.

In 1960 the farmers in Pitt County and the Greenville area, realizing the great desire in world trade for this type of tobacco, have returned almost entirely to the cultivation of old line tobaccos and universally desirable varieties. At the same time they have returned almost 100 per cent to their old time cultural practices. At the same time they have returned almost 100 per cent to their old time cultural practices of proper topping, suckering, spacing, fertilization, and grading for market.

Greenville Market Draws From Large Territory

Every pound of tobacco produced in Pitt County, however, is not sufficient to make up the total pounds of tobacco sold each year in Greenville.

Within the territory surrounding Pitt County, however, is not sufficient to make up the total pounds of tobacco sold each year in Greenville.

Within the territory surrounding the Greenville Market and from which this great market annually draws tobacco for its auction sales will be grown this year 1-3rd of the nation's entire bright leaf tobacco crop.

Greenville Market Draws From Large Territory

Each year to the volume of home produced tobacco sold on the Greenville Tobacco Market is added many more millions of pounds of tobacco which are brought by farmers from adjoining counties to the Greenville Tobacco Market for sale.

This mass movement of tobacco from adjoining counties to the Greenville Tobacco Market starts with the opening day of the market and continues until the last day that the auction warehouses are open.

Greenville operates five sets of buyers simultaneously, every sales day, over its warehouse floors.

There are 19 tobacco warehouses and 10 warehouse firms in Greenville. To give you some idea of the size of these warehouses, the largest one of these warehouse floors alone covers over 11 acres.

Greenville Extends Friendly Welcome

Yes, Greenville, the friendly, extends to all farmers in Eastern Carolina most cordial welcome at all times whether they come for business or for pleasure.

The men connected with the tobacco industry want all farmers to feel that Greenville is their city and know that Greenville's citizens are anxious to courteously serve them.

Farmers Brag On Greenville Market

Farmers who sell their tobacco in Greenville brag that they get higher prices and better service here. They know that no other market in the world has more selling time or more sets of buyers or more buying strength than Greenville. They know that every important purchaser of tobacco in the world has a buyer on every sale in Greenville.

Nikita Might Appear Personally

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. authorities believe Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev is strongly tempted to carry his violent propaganda campaign against the United States personally into the U.N. General Assembly.

Khrushchev said this week he would consider it "a great honor" to attend the meeting opening in New York next month, and to discuss disarmament proposals. But he has not said yet he will attend.

One reason for his hesitation may be his apparent failure so far to obtain invitations from Latin-American countries other than Cuba to make personal visits to them.

The belief here is that Khrushchev would like to combine a flying trip to the U.N. with a grand tour of as many U.S. neighboring nations as would welcome him. He has been fishing for such invitations, U.S. officials said, ever since it was announced earlier this year that he would visit Cuba at some unannounced date.

But Central and South American governments, concerned over expanding Soviet ties with Cuba and Khrushchev's hostility to the United States, have been cold to his show of interest.

The reportedly widespread concern in other American capitals about Cuba's swing toward communism is expected to help the U.S. effort at a foreign ministers meeting in San Jose, Costa Rica, next week to rally support for pressures against Soviet intervention in the Cuban situation.

Secretary of State Christian A. Herter is scheduled to leave here Monday for San Jose. Among his advisers he will take Charles E. Bohlen, the government's top expert on Soviet communism and its international operations.

Herter arranged to give the Senate Foreign Relations Committee a preview of the San Jose meeting today at a closed session. His appearance also provided an opportunity for him to discuss U.S. handling of the Cuban crisis, the situation in the Congo and Khrushchev's campaign against the United States and its allies since the Paris summit conference broke down May 16.

Herter and his associates are not so much concerned about Khrushchev making propaganda as they are about the tendency he has displayed in recent months to make or imply commitments

Marriage Licenses

The following marriage licenses have been issued to white couples from the office of Pitt County Register of Deeds, Mrs. Blair Cox Wheeler, during the past week:

John Dorsey Savage of Goldsboro and Sarah Elizabeth Ewell of Greenville; Kenneth Manhard of Bedford Heights, Ohio and Oline Faye Peany of Wilson; Richard Venable Haar of Greenville and Cynthia Ann Cranford of Rt. 1, Greenville; William Cornelius Barnhill of Rt. 2, Robersonville and Mattie Jane Bullock of Rt. 1, Stokes; James D. Blankenbecker of Richmond, Va. and Agnes Peyton Markham of Greenville; Eugene Williams and Annie Ruth Jones, both of Rt. 1, Ayden; William F. Scheller and Mrs. Ella Volk, both of Philadelphia, Pa.

The following marriage licenses were issued to Negro couples during the same time:

Floyd Melton Smith of New Haven, Conn. and Mae Berley Mobley of Winterville; Sylvester Outlaw and Evelyn Jones, both of Rt. 1, Hookerton; Alton E. Barnes of Camp Lejeune and Louise Johnson of Greenville; Joseph Earl Barnes and V. Effie Shelley, both of Rt. 1, Greenville; Jessie Person and Mary Mathews, both of Greenville; Charlie Brown of Rt. 6, Greenville and Josephine Whitaker of Greenville.

of Soviet military power far outside the range of Soviet defense interests.

Asst. Secretary of State Andrew H. Berding, speaking to a Jewish war veterans convention in Miami Wednesday, called such behavior of Khrushchev "inflammatory and dangerous."

Evidently referring to Khrushchev's threats to use nuclear rocket power in the Cuban and Congo situations against what Khrushchev called Western imperialism, Berding said it seems "The Communist bloc is now willing to employ military force to support both its own policies and anti-Western moves by other countries."

If Khrushchev does decide to attend the U.N. General Assembly session, U.S. officials say they think it would be not for the purpose of discussing disarmament seriously but for the purpose of sounding the U.N. as a powerful sounding board for his attacks on the United States.

President Eisenhower declined at his news conference Wednesday to slam the door on the possibility that he himself might go to the General Assembly session at some point, or that if he considered it useful he might ask Khrushchev to have a talk with him in Washington.

The President made it clear, however, that he has no plans for either move—he was just not putting any restrictions on his own future activities in these two respects.

Bank Cannot Function On Such Flops

The Bloodmobile has again visited Greenville and the result . . . a resounding flop.

People stayed away in droves. Now one could, with little difficulty, point to contributing causes: the heat, a relatively brief time since the last visit, Dollar Day activities, urgent needs on the farm, continuing vacations, etc.

But excuses are not enough. What is . . . and was . . . needed, an adequate supply of donors, simply didn't show up. (We have it on good authority that a large number of pledged donors failed to appear.)

A blood bank cannot function unless there are depositors. When they don't show up there can be no withdrawals, no matter how urgent the immediate need.

We have a considerable number of people who contribute at least four times each year. That's fine . . . any community would be proud of such selfless concern for the needs of their family and fellow man. But what should be done is the reaching of the many thousands who have never passed through the line.

"Oh they wouldn't want mine," is a frequent explanation. Another, "I need my blood worse than they do."

The fact is, most people would be pleasantly surprised at the results of the preliminary examination

Diligent Plowing Before Big Crop

By LYNN NISBET

IN THE GRASS — To paraphrase one of Sydney Lanier's delightful dialect poems about the "Baptists" being mightily in the grass, the Democrats of North Carolina are now mightily in the grass. The simile of course is to cultivated fields where grass is the chief asset. If the Democrats in North Carolina have a good crop of votes in November, they've got a lot of hoeing and plowing to do. That was made quite evident at the campaign kick-off here this week.

Of course there was harmony and unity of spirit among the thousand or so Democrats who attended the meeting. If they hadn't been singled straight ticket partisans they wouldn't have been here. The significant point is that they represented a very small percentage of the approximate 750,000 Democratic votes necessary to carry the national and state tickets to victory next November. The emphasis placed by all the speakers on the necessity for closing ranks, supporting the full ticket from top to bottom, et cetera, was testimony, perhaps inconspicuous and not intended, to the fact that disaffection and disunity exist.

SCHIZOPHRENIA—The Democratic party in North Carolina has been for some years a victim of schizophrenia—a high-brow word for split personality, lack of coordination of faculties and interests. Result has been effort to separate state and national loyalties, and to accept a situation in which Democrats could vote the national Republican ticket without loss of prestige in state Democratic circles.

Contributions to state campaign funds have been accepted with the qualification that "no part of this money shall be used in behalf of the national ticket."

UNIFIED — Prior to action of the executive committee in March of 1958, which was after the last presidential election, the Democratic Party Plan of Organization in North Carolina did not recognize the national party organization. Although it had been the custom for years for North Carolina Democrats to send delegates to the national nominating and platform-writing conventions, there was no provision in party rules for the practice.

Before the 1956 election citizens of North Carolina had no opportunity to vote for candidates for President and Vice President of the United States. The names of presidential electors were printed on the ballots, and technically each elector was a free agent to vote for whomever he pleased for President. A 1933 act, applicable for the first time in 1936, provided for printing the names of presidential candidates on the ballot, with further provision that a vote for these candidates would constitute a vote for the electors nominated by the same party to which the presidential candidates belonged.

That was one of the first statutory recognitions of a national Democratic or Republican party. The 1958 amendments to the Plan of Organization was the first time the state party formally affiliated itself with the national Democratic party.

There has been through the decades a conscious but unofficial unity. From reconstruction days, perhaps earlier, the appeal has been to support the candidates "from president to constable." For as long as your reporter can remember there have been persons who made so secret of voting State Democratic and national Republican ballots. This group has been growing for the past 20 years. In 1956 there were about a quarter of a million of them.

LOGIC — Admittedly there was logic in the reasoning by which the split vote was justified. If the north Carolina Democratic party as a corporate entity declined to recognize or affiliate with the national organization, it was inconsistent for party leaders to insist upon recognition and support by individual voters.

That situation has been changed, and the split-vote folks no longer have logical justification. The Plan of Organization as revised in 1958 provided for naming delegates to the national convention, for a meeting of the delegates to nominate members of the national committee, and otherwise cement the organic relationship of state and national party groups. The long time "common law" cohabitation has been legalized by formal marriage. Stated another way, the nominees of the national convention at Los Angeles were born in wedlock with the state convention at Raleigh, and are as "legal" members of the Democratic family as any candidates nominated in North Carolina primaries. That was not true in 1956 and prior election years.

Result is there is no logical basis for split votes and far more justification for appeals to support the whole family ticket "from President to constable." The moral obligation resting upon participants in party conventions and primaries to stand together in November is greater than ever.

In emphasizing this appeal the new management of the Democratic party in North Carolina is taking a calculated risk. There is recognized danger that the straight-ticket idea might result in some folks who think they cannot stomach the Democratic national candidates, going all the way and voting the state Republican ticket. That possibility is some of the grass that must be contended with as the Democrats cultivate the voters' crop for November harvesting.

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon's presidential campaign is following a coolly deliberative line he worked out for himself months ago.

It can be summed up like this: He's going to play up Nixon, not the Republican party.

As long ago as last April, acquaintances — meaning people he talked to — said he would try to run as an individual if he got the Republican nomination.

He got it. So what did he do? A number of newsmen who made the trip to Hawaii with him last week, watching him campaign and talking with him, reported:

The Republicans who trooped along with him wherever he went paraded the Republican banner. Not Nixon.

He himself didn't talk about being a Republican. He will try to sell himself rather than the Republican brand of government or even the Eisenhower brand.

Incidentally, that's just how Republican Nelson A. Rockefeller won the governorship of New York in 1958. He didn't tie himself very tightly to the Eisenhower label.

Last April those who talked with him said Nixon figured he couldn't win on the Republican vote alone because Democrats outnumber Republicans and that this was what he felt was necessary.

For his margin of victory he'd have to dip into that 20 per cent or so of voters who are called neither Democrats nor Republicans but independents.

The Hawaiian-trip newsmen reported his thinking on this:

1. While the winning votes must come from the independents, only a handful of them are thinking voters who study the man and the issues and cast their ballots on the basis of intellectual convictions.

2. The great majority are people who seldom vote and who have no deep convictions or continuing interest in government.

3. This majority is generally influenced by the candidate who talks last and loudest.

4. This is why President Truman beat New York's Gov. Thomas E. Dewey in the 1948 elections.

All this is based on the assumption on Nixon's part that the majority of voters — who don't vote a straight party ticket, no matter what the issues or the candidate — don't weigh the issues but make up their mind on loud talk.

If Nixon is wrong, he may wind up like Dewey.

At least two of the Hawaiian-trip newsmen indicated Nixon's style is to over-simplify the issues because he thinks this race will resolve into a personal duel.

But at the same time these newsmen reported Nixon doesn't think he can match Sen. John F. Kennedy, the Democratic nominee in glamour or as a "natural amiler."

How, then, could he outmatch Kennedy in personality?

One way would be to continue drawing contrasts between his own humble beginnings and the wealthy background of Kennedy, between the poor boy who made good and the young man who struck it rich the day he was born.

It will be interesting to watch how often Nixon tries that technique.

All the high hopes, plans and techniques of both candidates may go up in smoke when they meet face to face in TV debates since the voters — millions of them — will be able to judge both men on the spot on both issues and personality.

"Thrill is that habit of character that prompts one to work for what he gets, to earn what is paid him; to invest part of his earnings; to spend wisely and well; to save, not hoard." — Arthur Chamberlain.

"The American school system is supposed to encourage individuality, but we doubt college will tolerate little idiosyncrasies such as sleeping until 10 a.m., dressing like a retired hobo and avoiding the indignity of work until it becomes a matter of survival." — Dahlenega (Ga.) Nugget.

"A filling station attendant told the owner: 'Boss, your doctor is here with a flat tire.' 'Good,' said the owner. 'Diagnose the trouble as punctured wheels residing in a proslapsed perimeter. Prescribe plastic surgery followed by complete treatment with inflatus windus. Then charge him accordingly.'" — Lamar (Mo.) Democrat.

they get prior to having a vein tapped. If the check-up does disclose a condition that requires medical attention, it's to the individual's benefit that it be identified so remedial action can be taken. If the volunteer's condition is found satisfactory, that too is good to know; and on passing through the examining process it is an eye-opener to learn of how many things can be wrong with you, that are not.

In times past we have heard fears voiced the Regional Blood Center would drop Greenville and Pitt County as contributory sources and as beneficiaries. After Thursday's visit we are probably going to hear the same warning, this time more seriously given.

There are scores of families in Pitt County who, in one year after withdrawal of the blood bank, would personally feel its absence.

Is there anyone who is inclined to gamble it could not, and would not, be their own family?

No Complaints Yet On Unenviable Job

We'll concede there have been occasions in the past when Congress correctly saw further ahead than the military leadership in matters of appropriations and defense spending. As against this, the military have also a record of farsightedness that at times outshone the legislative attitude.

Be that as it may, there is now being discussed a considerable amount of money that has been appropriated for defense, and unused by the Administration. The total amount shifts from time to time; a month ago it was a billion dollars, now it is a shade more than half that sum.

Question: Should Congress dictate the specific use of such "withheld" funds, or should that decision be left to upper echelons of the brass hats?

Of utmost importance is the "how" of such spending.

Briefly, one of the great juggling acts of all times in military matters is underway: attempting to adopt and functionalize weapons systems of the future, and at the same time maintain in balanced proportions adequate defensive and striking power in their more familiar terms.

It has been said that military men went to war with the equipment and thinking of the preceding conflict. Today's Defense Department is trying to change this.

With this in mind, we are not inclined to be overly critical of funds withheld to be subsequently applied where and as needed when "breakthroughs" occur or as necessity dictates.

On the other hand, if military preparedness were allowed to sag simply for the sake of "balancing the budget" or on grounds of false economy, the public would really have something to worry about.

The money in question is being spent . . . we can only assume, judiciously so. Our inclination is to believe the Chiefs of Staff are as concerned about national security as anyone else in these United States and in view of their responsibilities, perhaps more so.

We don't envy them their burden, nor wish to distract their attention on the job before them. As of this date there seems no ground for complaint over the work they have been doing.

He Had T'Be Coaxed A Little

By PATRICIA MOORE

Why Don't They Bunch Up?

There are more women than men in the United States.

And there are more women voters than men in the United States, we are told. In fact, "WOMEN'S Role in Politics," a booklet produced by the National Association of Manufacturers, says in an introduction by Mary B. Brown that in the last several elections, women cast 50 percent or more of the total vote.

This year, it has been predicted that women's votes will exceed the men's by about two million. And Miss Brown says that 53 million women are of voting age this November.

My, that makes the women powerful.

Makes one wonder why the women haven't all banded together to elect a woman something—except, we'll give odds of ten to one that if a woman runs, three-fourths of the women would be the loudest in voting against her.

And speaking of women, we are reminded of Dollar Day. We aren't advertising, since the day is past.

We'll bet more men took advantage of Dollar Day than ever before. That old adage of women's being bargain hunters is pure myth. When most plain old sales don't turn a hair on a man's head, this time they were seen secreting packages into cars and office buildings.

We had reports that (and this is the truth, straight from the horse's mouth) one man went into a very crowded department store and immediately was swallowed up in the mob. The mob scared him so, that he shrank from his original destination—the materials counter.

While looking frantically for some escape hatch (can't you see him cowered like a mouse, girls) he spotted some garden tools. Remember that this is taking place in a department store.

He reached for a hoe and a rake and forcefully told a saleslady "I'll take these." Then, armed with the rake in front on one side, and the hoe on the other side, he marched forward to the front of the store and out the door.

He felt quite proud of himself for getting out that way. And, imagine, he escaped the real brunt of the battle. He never even reached the second floor.

The turning point came when President Eisenhower on July 19, after a high-level conference, decided to stand up to Moscow. The next day Henry Cabot Lodge told the UN Security Council the U.S. would do whatever necessary to prevent Soviet entry into the Congo. It was a clear threat to risk war if Moscow pressed further. The U.S. in short would not be intimidated and proved it in the UN debate on the RB47 case.

It may be too soon to assess the impact of this new intensification of the East-West hostility. But Western firmness seems to be paying off. The Soviet threat in the Congo evaporated. Russia failed to gain UN condemnation of the RB47 program, which is continuing. Soviet threats have brought support to the U.S. from Tunisia and other nations.

Risking war on an atomic scale is not a policy which comes naturally to Western democracies. Now, however, when Khrushchev brandishes his rockets, American rockets are being waved back, and so far observers think the effect has been healthy.

Khrushchev had the effort-ery to tell the U.S. to keep hands off Cuba; he claimed the right to send the Red army to the Congo. Previously Western policy had been to let Khrushchev simmer down after the summit, keeping open all doors and giving him maximum incentive to get back on the detente trail. But he seemed determined to exploit Western restraint.

States Rights Old One

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Consistency in thought and action is rare and to politicians not too important. For instance, Governor Meyer of New Jersey and Governor Rockefeller of New York do not believe in the kind of states rights that Governor Faubus of Arkansas believes in. Governor Faubus holds that with regard to all matters which are not literally and verbatimly delegated to the Federal Government by the Constitution, the Federal Government should mind its own business. The Governors of New York and New Jersey would hold that the 14th and 15th Amendments forbid the designation of any American citizen as a lesser than any other American citizen, but when it comes to the constitutional provision that the states shall make no compacts without the consent of Congress, they raise the issue of states rights just as the Governor of Arkansas raises the same issue with regard to the management of the schools of his state.

This is no new issue in American history and over it the only civil war in our history was fought. The war did not settle the basic quarrel over federalism because men's minds were diverted to the question of slavery. What the war did settle was that no state could secede from the Union and that the Congress of the United States could pass social legislation. It also settled the matter of states making compacts among themselves. The Confederacy was such a compact and when the Confederacy was defeated, that settled the question of compacts and treaties between states without the consent of Congress.

On the other hand, the daily business of the United States is such that states have to engage in joint enterprises. The Port of New York Authority is such an enterprise. There are many such enterprises in the United States. In some instances, such as the TVA, the Federal Government organizes its own management body. The forms vary, but in every instance that requires a joint operation in more than one state, the consent of Congress must be obtained. And the operation is forever subject to Congressional scrutiny, because when Congress grants, it can revoke.

This issue is so important that in the Port of New York Authority's controversy with the House Judiciary Committee, appeal has now been made by both sides to the Governors of all the states and to each member of the House of Representatives. Undoubtedly, before it is over the question will go to the courts because at stake are the Congressional rights: the right to amend or revoke a consent to a compact between states and the right of the Congress to investigate the operations of public bodies existing by Congressional consent. The Congress will not give up either of these rights.

If states may enter into a compact for a good purpose, it is for the reason that the Constitution specifically forbade such compacts without the consent of Congress. At issue is this: if Congress has once granted consent to a compact, is the consent eternal and unalterable or may Congress from time to time investigate the compact to discover whether it is still in the interest of the United States and whether it is performing the task for which consent was permitted by Congress, or is producing an excess of power.

It does not matter that the compact serves a good cause or that those who supervise the compact are reputable men. Tomorrow others take their places who serve their own purposes. It is a fallacy to base a judgment on the virtue of men; it is essential that the law be correct and that the law be obeyed.

In the present Port of New York Authority controversy, the virtue of the individuals is not questioned; what is questioned is the right of a Congressional committee to inquire into the activities of a public body which exists by compact between two states and

INSPIRATION AND PERSPIRATION

The Greek historian Plutarch once wrote, "No man ever wetted clay and then left it, as if there would be bricks by chance and fortune." Plutarch had learned what some people never truly learn that if we want something worthwhile out of life, we must work for it.

Preachers and teachers seem to be fond of recommending thought and meditation, and not saying very much about work. Good thinking is a wonderful thing. It guides all our efforts, and without it we are not likely to get far. But let us not exalt thought alone to the point that we never reach action.

Hard work is a magic key that unlocks many doors. The lack of it has spoiled many a promising enterprise. More people have ruined their lives through laziness than through ignorance. More undertakings have failed from lack of industry than from lack of intelligence. But material success is not the real measure of what work is worth. The personal benefits of vigorous and energetic effort in a good cause include self-respect, a deep sense of satisfaction, and a straightened and disciplined character.

An old teacher of mine used to say that genius was ten per cent inspiration and ninety per cent perspiration. We can well believe that he was about right. Inspiration is a divine reality which flashes upon mind and heart and leads us to achievement, but work is the handling of the job he has given us to do.

'Gold' Nations Have Restrictions

By ELMER ROESSNER

Americans can't redeem their paper money for gold.

They can't hold gold coins except as collectors.

However, in no other country is there a true gold standard in that its citizens can freely exercise ownership of gold or freely redeem currency for gold, according to Monetary Notes, by Walter E. Spahr, published monthly by the "Economists' National Committee on Monetary Policy." Dr. Spahr, probably the outstanding advocate of a return to the American gold standard, reported on a survey of international monetary authorities.

In some other countries citizens have a limited right to exchange currency for gold, and to exercise limited powers of ownership, his bulletin pointed out.

In Switzerland, which perhaps comes closer than any other nation to a gold standard, it is provided in a Federal law of December 23, 1953, that "The National Bank is obligated, except under Article 22, to convert its notes at par at its own choice into Swiss gold bars at the legal mint-parity." Dr. Spahr wrote, Article 2, provides that in time of war or of disrupted monetary conditions, the Federal Council may suspend convertibility. But even more important are the words, "at its own choice," which means that the National Bank can choose not to redeem currency any time it wishes.

In other countries, such as Syria, France, Greece, Mexico, Chile and Bolivia, governments have sold coins to the public at varying prices, and in Saudi Arabia and some other countries, gold coins still serve as a means of domestic payment.

By Jay Reid, Information Officer of the International Monetary Fund, reported, "We are not aware of any country that, at the present time, is required by law to redeem its own currency with gold or gold coins; nor are we aware of any country that in practice redeems its own currency with gold at a fixed price. There may still be statutory requirements for redemption in some countries, e.g. of notes of central banks, but those requirements have been suspended by proclamation or executive order."

NO FULL OWNERSHIP PERMITTED

Dr. Spahr's survey of ownership restrictions brought this conclusion: "Apparently in every country in which citizens own gold there are some restrictions."

Gold can be bought and sold freely in West Germany, Belgium, Austria and Switzerland. But West Germany imposes a prohibitive tax on exports; Austria requires government permission for export, and in all four countries export can be prohibited by governmental decree. Free gold export is permitted only residents outside the sterling area by Great Britain.

Americans can buy gold coins or bars abroad, but they cannot keep possession of them if they bring them into the country. However, they can own it and keep it on deposit in many countries. Many now have gold bars in vaults in Canadian banks.

NO STICKY TAX ON CROQUET WICKETS

There is good news today for croquet players: A new International Revenue Ruling (4025) holds that while the manufacturer's tax on sporting goods applies to croquet balls and mallets, it does not apply to other items in croquet sets.

PUBLIC PHONES IN HOLLOW POLES

A new space-saving public telephone device is appearing in Japan. It consists of a hollow steel pole, 12 feet high and 1 1/2 feet in diameter. When a foot pedal at the base is pressed, a window pops open, disclosing a dial phone. There's not much privacy, but neither is there in Nippon, where most of them are on small stands in front of stores.

Isaiah's Vision of God

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Isaiah 6.

The prophet Isaiah had a vision of the Lord sitting on His throne in the temple. Above it stood the seraphim, each one with six wings.—Isaiah 6:1-2.

One cried to another, saying, "Holy, holy, holy, is the Lord of Hosts: the whole earth is full of His glory." The door moved at the voice.—Isaiah 6:2-4.

Isaiah cried, "Woe is me! . . . I am a man of unclean lips!" The seraphim touched his lips with a live coal, saying, "Thine iniquity is taken away."—Isaiah 6:5-7.

The Lord asked who would tell His people of His message. And Isaiah said: "Here am I; send me."—Isaiah 6:8. MEMORY VERSE—Isaiah 6:3.

Isaiah's Vision of the Holy God

THE HOUR OF REVELATION WHICH BECAME THE MAJOR SOURCE OF THE MIGHTY MINISTRY OF ISRAEL'S GREATEST PROPHET

Scripture—Isaiah 6.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

"WE ARE now about to study one of the most transfiguring experiences recorded of any servant of God in the Old Testament, comparable to God's call to Abraham, the experience of Moses at the burning bush, the call of Samuel when a boy at Shiloh, and the experience of Saul of Tarsus on the road to Damascus. What we are to study is a vision, but the result of it was not visionary. The experience led to the greatest prophetic ministry carried on by any one man in the 2,000 years of Israel's history before the advent of Christ."

house was filled with smoke."—Isaiah 6:3-4. Then Isaiah said: "Woe is me! for I am undone; because I am a man of unclean lips, and I dwell in the midst of a people of unclean lips; for mine eyes have seen the King, the Lord of Hosts."

"Then flew one of the seraphim unto me, having a live coal in his hand, which he had taken with the tongs from off the altar: And he laid it upon my mouth, and said, Lo, this hath touched thy lips; and thine iniquity is taken away, and thy sin purged."—Isaiah 6:5-7. The voice of the Lord said,

GOLDEN TEXT

"Holy, holy, holy, is the Lord of Hosts: the whole earth is full of His Glory."—Isaiah 6:3.

That is a quotation taken from Peloubet's Select Notes, edited by the Rev. Dr. Wilbur M. Smith.

Isaiah writes: "In the year that King Uzziah died (742 B.C.), I saw also the Lord sitting upon a throne, high and lifted up, and His train filled the temple. Above it stood the seraphim: each one had six wings; with twain he covered his face, and with twain he covered his feet, and with twain he did fly."

"Whom shall I send, and who will go for us?" Isaiah answered, "Here am I; send me."—Isaiah 6:8.

So Isaiah was commissioned by God Himself to warn the people of the woes to come unless they came back to Him and were healed. Then Isaiah asked, "Lord, how long?" He answered, "Until the cities be wasted without inhabitants, and the houses without man, and the land be utterly desolate, and the Lord have removed men far away, and there be a great forsaking in the midst of the land."—Isaiah 6:11-12.

So were God's chosen people punished for their worshipping of idols and their other sins.

Red Oak Christian Announcements The Rev. Howard James has announced that he will preach at Sunday's 10:45 a.m. morning worship on the subject "The Enlargement of Life." Flowers will be provided by Mr. and Mrs. Jarvis Tripp Jr. "Give Unto the Lord the Glory" by Goode will be the choir anthem.

In the pastor's annual report to the state office at Wilson last week, it was revealed that Red Oak Christian Church and all its organizations reached the goal of giving a title for missions! The total paid out during the period July 1, 1959 to July 1, 1960 for all local expenses (including Educational Building and Parsonage) and missions was $14,406.24. The amount given by all organizations of Red Oak Christian Church for missions was $1,490.35 or a little more than one-tenth of the total expenditures. We are proud of this record and plan to do better in the next 12 months! There are now 160 resident members of Red Oak Christian Church.

Each of our four Christian Women's Fellowship Circles will meet on Monday night, August 15, at 8:00 p.m. in various homes as scheduled. New circle leaders this year are: Mrs. Amos Evans, Mrs. Hubert Garris, Mrs. Jesse Jordan and Mrs. Charles Manning.

Castro Making Enemy

By TOM HENSHAW AP Religion Writer NEW YORK (AP) — Cuba's strong man—Prime Minister Fidel Castro shows signs of making a formidable enemy in his own backyard — the Roman Catholic Church.

In at least two cases in recent years, the ouster of strong man governments in predominantly Catholic Latin America has been preceded by church dissatisfaction with the ruling regime. The most notable instance was in Argentina in 1955 when Dictator Juan Peron was overthrown after a long bitter dispute with the church that resulted in his excommunication.

Again in 1958, Venezuelan strong man Marcos Perez Jimenez so antagonized the church that Venezuela and the Vatican were said to have been on the verge of a diplomatic break when Perez Jimenez was ousted. The church in Cuba is worried over the "increasing advance of communism in our country" under the 1 1/2-year-old Castro regime.

The Cuban hierarchy expressed that concern last Sunday in a pastoral letter read in the country's churches. The letter noted the "close commercial, cultural and diplomatic relations" that have been established with Communist countries. "Catholicism and communism respond to two concepts of man and the world that are totally opposed to each other and can never be reconciled," the letter said.

On Tuesday the archbishop of Havana, the Most Rev. Evelio Diaz, threatened to close all of Cuba's Catholic churches unless the Castro regime guaranteed freedom of worship. A week earlier, Cuban Catholics emerged from mass in Havana shouting "Cuba, Yes! Russia, No!" and tangled in street fights with pro-Castro crowds.

Castro has singled out some priests as "enemies of the revolution," a cry reminiscent of the early days of Peron's troubles with the church. The Argentine dictator labeled some priests "troublemakers" and arrested or detained 60 clergymen for showing "disrespect" for him. The Roman Catholic Church occupies a complex position in Latin America.

Most of the nations south of the American border are heavily Catholic. Cuba is 84.3 per cent Catholic. Yet, even the church admits, many Latin Americans are Catholics in name only. It's regarded as a prime mission field. There is also the element of anti-clericalism. Some Latin Americans find no contradiction in being devout Catholics and harbor deep suspicions of the clergy at the same time.

But, nominal Catholics, anticlerics or not, the church still retains a powerful appeal to its Latin people, as Peron has found out — and possibly Castro will discover.

The contention of one side is that the public body, in this instance, the Port of New York Authority, needs to report only to the Governors of the states in the compact; the contention of the Congressional committee is that the right of investigation is inherent and that a consent once granted may be revoked.

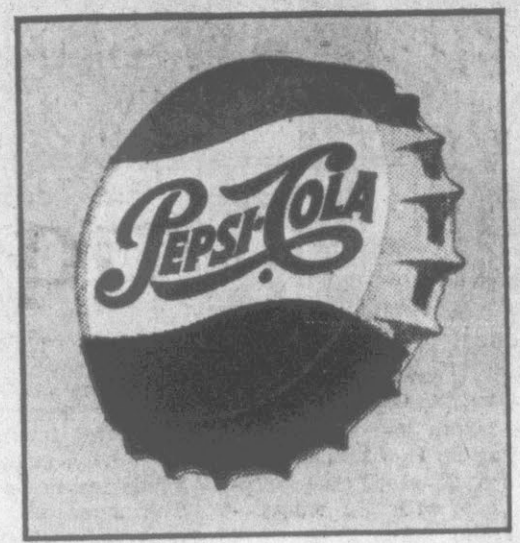

It is a tricky subject and out of it could come decisions of far-reaching effect. "The Star Spangled Banner" actually is a poem sung to a tune called "Anacron in Heaven."

Cards' Antique Brings Win

By WHITNEY MARTIN Associated Press Sports Writer Here's a warning to other National League clubs: When playing the St. Louis Cardinals don't go into extra innings. The old man in left field is liable to get tired standing around and blast one so he can go home.

The personable fellow blasted one Thursday night when the Pittsburgh Pirates persisted in prolonging the game. In the 12th inning Stan the man smacked a Bob Friend pitch into the stands with a man on base to give the Cards a 3-2 decision and cut Pittsburgh's lead to four games. He had a pair of doubles earlier as a warmup.

Los Angeles blanked Cincinnati 3-0 and San Francisco nipped Milwaukee 8-7 in other NL games. Chicago's Cubs and Philadelphia were not scheduled.

The sizzling Baltimore Orioles beat Detroit 6-1 and pulled within one game of the first place Yankees in the American League. Boston beat Cleveland 5-2 and Washington took Kansas City 5-4 in other AL games. The Yankees and Chicago had an open date. Oddly, most fans don't think of Musial as a home run hitter. They think of him as a line drive hitter—singles and doubles and triples. Yet he has a career total of 424 round trippers. Musial's home run Thursday night broke up a stirring pitching battle between Pittsburgh's Bob Friend (12-9) and the Cards' Ernie Broglio (14-5). Each went the distance, Broglio allowing eight hits and Friend 7.

The Bucs made a valiant effort to prolong their seven-game winning streak. They scored once in the bottom of the 12th on Bill Virdon's single and Rocky Nelson's double, but that wasn't quite enough.

It was the Cards' fifth straight victory and their 30th in their last 41 games. Sandy Koufax was the whole show as the Dodgers blanked the Reds, Koufax, who seven times this year has fanned more than 10 batters in a game, struck out 13 and allowed only two hits.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Batting — Stan Musial, Cardinals, hit a two-run homer in the 12th inning which gave his team a 3-2 victory over Pittsburgh and cut the Pirates' lead to four games. He also connected for two doubles. Pitching — Sandy Koufax, Dodgers, shut out the Reds with two hits and fanned 13. Not a Cincinnati player reached first from the second inning until the ninth.

Contrasting Problems For Ayden, Farmville In 1960

By JOHNNY HUDSON Reflector Sports Editor

Facing a clean slate, coaches Elbert Moyer of Farmville and Stewart Tripp of Ayden were looking to the 1960 football season today with a twinkle of optimism.

Both coaches have been whisking through final preparations for summer drills this week and appeared anxious to greet their squads for the opening practice Monday night.

Farmville will be trying to improve on its second place standing in the Coastal Conference in 1960 and Ayden, a member of the same league, will try to bury the scars of an unsuccessful 1959 campaign, entering its second season of rebuilding.

OVER at Farmville, Coach Moyer will welcome seven lettermen and a squad expected to number 25-30 Monday afternoon at 5:30.

The grid mentor indicates work will be confined to "light" the first couple of days and twice-a-day drills won't open until the following week.

In pre-season speculation, backfield is foremost on the list of problems for Moyer. "We should have a pretty strong line returning but have lost all but one of our backfield starters. We will have to come up with some ample replacements if we hope to match our 1959 season," says Moyer.

In order for the Farmville harvest to be rich again, the vital spots to be filled in the backfield are quarterback and fullback. Danny Dilda, a second team All-Conference choice in 1959, is the lone returning back and will spearhead the offensive maneuver.

Although nine lettermen are absent from the roll call of the 1959 club which tied for second place in LaGrange, prospects are not considered real dim when Moyer anticipates his squad to number close to 40 by the opening of school. Back to anchor the line is Donnie Fulford, a guard named to the second team All-Conference last fall. Biggest gap in the Red Devil forward wall will be at tackle where All-Conference Jerry Weiser is missing.

COACH Stewart Tripp is looking for a little chunk of glory this fall—or at least more than the '59 campaign had to offer. Tripp will welcome his gladia-tors Monday night at 7:30 and will hold a short workout.

Tuesday the club will begin twice-a-day drills with early morning and night workouts.

All-Conference back Dinky Mills may be the chief piece of machinery to bring a panacea to Ayden woes. Ticketed for stardom as a junior, Mills fulfilled his potentials and could emerge as the top back in the league this fall.

Mills will head a list of 15 lettermen returning to the Ayden fold. The Ayden skipper is looking for 30-35 to turn out for opening drills Monday.

Tripp reports only two men lost from his '59 club. Experience and the maturing of his squad are expected to hold key spots in the '60 grid wars.

"We should be stronger than last season but we are still short on linemen," surmised Tripp prior to the opening practice.

WHILE the Pitt clubs start tackling contrasting problems next week, they will start casting a wary eye toward the task of overtaking conference winner and state champion, Beaufort.

By winning the state title last season, Beaufort raised the prestige of the Coastal Conference but at the same time warned its conference foes that things may be even tougher in 1960. With a veteran team back, Beaufort foes may feel the sting once again. Both Pitt coaches pick Beaufort as "the team to beat."

College Stars Plan Use Of Passes Against Colts

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — The College All-Stars tonight will try to make a daring, gambling game pay off against the Baltimore Colts. National Football League champions.

The 27th midsummer classic is expected to draw upwards of 70,000 customers to Soldier Field. It will be televised and broadcast over ABC starting at 10 p.m. Eastern Daylight Time.

Facing a defense hinged by the likes of 233-pound Gene (Big Daddy) Lipscomb and 270-pound Art Donovan, Coach Otto Graham's squad of 47 college graduates undoubtedly will be thinking of an air offensive rather than a ground attack.

Quarterbacks Don Meredith of Southern Methodist, George Izo of Notre Dame and Pete Hall of Marquette may spray the atmosphere with more passes than ever before in the series.

There even could be more aerial action than in last year's 29-0 Colt triumph in which the collegians tried 41 tosses, completed 15 for 189 yards, and Baltimore catapulted 28 for 14 hits and 211 yards.

Despite the potential passing power of the All-Stars and a group of fire receivers, odd-makers have installed Baltimore about a 29-point favorite. Gail Coddill of Washington State and Carroll Dale of Virginia Tech are regarded as two of the best pass-catching ends ever to make an All-Star roster. But the All Stars must protect their receivers from the huge Baltimore characters if they hope to crank up an air barrage.

Receiving passes for the Colts will be the master, John Unitas, now tabbed as completely recovered from cellulitis, an infection that earlier this week spread from his nose to glands below his eyes and up to his forehead. Unitas had a brief throwing drill Thursday night as the Colts worked out for a short time under the lights in Soldier Field. "I feel fine," he said. "I responded to treatments right away."

Some observers expect Ray Brown to see more action than Unitas, especially if Baltimore erupts for a substantial lead by halftime. The former Mississippi quarterback has been trained to fill in for Unitas as well as holding down the job as right safety in the defensive backfield.

Baltimore coach, Weeb Ewbank, an assistant to Paul Brown during Graham's years of glory with the Cleveland Browns, says that his Colts cannot afford to lose to the All-Stars. "A defeat would embarrass the NFL and also might hurt the morale of our squad at a time we are aiming for our third straight championship," he said. "The boys are right at the mental peak I want them to be. We came to play, and to win."

Graham describes his group as "probably the most quiet bunch of kids I've been around."

"I've seen other quiet groups explode when a game comes up," he added. "I hope this is that type. We could upset the Colts, or be defeated 50-0."

place with their victory. Taking a five-run lead in the first two innings, the Giants saw the Braves nibble away on it until it dwindled to the one run. The Braves loaded the bases with two down in the ninth, but Johnny Antonelli got Bill Bruton to ground out to end the game.

Billy O'Dell got credit for the victory, his sixth, but had to have help from Antonelli in the eighth when the Braves scored twice and were trailing by one run.

U.S. Golfers Trail Canada

OTTAWA (AP) — The United States amateur golf team faced a come-from-behind situation today if the American Cup is to be retained.

Going into the finale of the two-day competition, the United States trailed Canada by one-half point, 11-10½. Mexico was third with 5½.

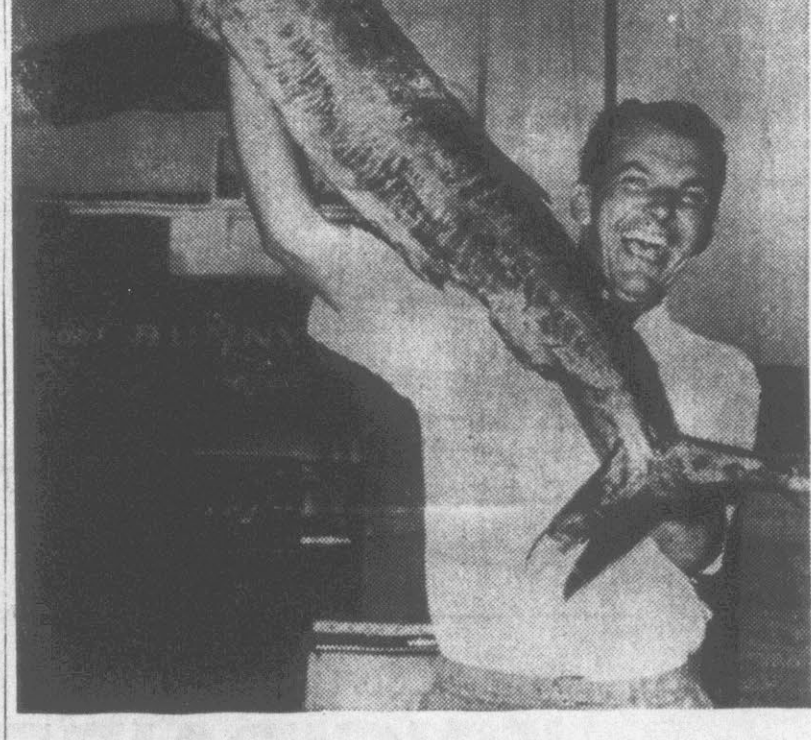

The windup calls for three twosomes from each country to meet in alternate ball competition in the morning and for six singles matches in the afternoon on the Ottawa Hunt Club course.

It was in the alternate-ball phase of the competition Thursday that the United States, lost prestige as Canada jumped in front with Mexico second. The Americans won only one match.

That was a 4 and 3 triumph posted by Dr. Frank (Bud) Taylor of Pomona, Calif. and John Konsek of Purdue and Buffalo, N. Y., over the Mexican duo of Robert Halpern and Tomas Lehmann.

But the Americans were in command of the singles with U. S. Amateur Champion Jack Nicklaus of Columbus, Ohio, fashioning an eight-under-par, 65, and joining with Dr. Taylor in winning two matches. The Americans won eight singles and tied three others. Charlie Coe of Oklahoma City was handed the only setback, losing 4 and 3 by Canada's Gary Cowan.

Nicklaus defeated Canadian title Johnny Johnston 3 and 2 and Hector Alvarez, Mexican junior champion, 6 and 5.

Little Leaguers Open Play At Elm Park Today

Elizabethton, Tenn. and Americas, Ga. met in the first game of the Little League baseball tournament here today at 2:00. Miami, Fla. and Winston-Salem squared off in the second game, scheduled for 4:00.

Today's games were the first in the weekend playoffs which will send one team on to Norfolk, Va. next week for regional playoffs.

Tomorrow the two winners of today's games will meet at 4:00. Losers today will play in a consolation contest at 2:00.

All four teams entered the tournament today with undefeated records, breezing through competition in their respective states.

The clubs arrived in Greenville yesterday and had workouts on the Elm Street Park diamond prior to their first games.

Fourteen boys make up the roster of each team along with two managers. The clubs are staying at Jones Dorm on the East Carolina College campus.

Dell Leading U.S. Netters

SOUTH ORANGE, N.J. (AP)—U.S. Davis Cup hopeful Donald Dell, who conquered third-seeded Australian Bob Mark, led a six-man U. S. contingent into today's quarter-finals of the Eastern Grass Court Tennis Championships.

With Mark ousted, only two world-touring Aussies remained—top-seeded Rod Laver, the Australian champion and Wimbledon runnerup, and fifth-seeded Bob Hewitt.

Dell, a recent Yale graduate from Bethesda, Md., hotted Mark, 6-3, 2-6, 6-4. But Laver ripped Ruddy Hernandez, Detroit, Mich., 6-2, 6-3 and Hewitt eliminated Bob Siska, San Francisco, 6-3, 6-3.

Dell opposes Ham Richardson, Fanwood, N.J., today while Ron Holmberg, Brooklyn, N.Y., plays Hewitt. Whitney Reed, Alameda, Calif., faces Mike Green, Miami Beach, Fla.

Grid Drills Open; Depth Problem For Rose High

By ROY MARTIN Reflector Sports Writer

"The biggest thing we have to worry about is depth," said Rose High grid coach, Bud Phillips, in speaking about the prospects in sight for his team as the competition of the 1960 season approaches.

Phillips, in his third year as the head Rose mentor, will blow the whistle, opening the summer sessions Monday.

With 16 lettermen returning for mented, "If we can just avoid key injuries, we will be in pretty fair shape."

As far as his plans for the opening session of practice is concerned, Phillips said, "The first day or so will be primarily taken up with getting organized, getting equipment out, and a sort of orientation period." Phillips indicated that Monday morning he would work his team in light togs, while in the afternoon, they would don heavy equipment for the workout.

Phillips is optimistic about the shape in which his footballers will report for drills Monday. "From what I have seen, they have been working out real good. I expect the lettermen to be ready for contact work on Monday."

In a pre-season, and unproven forecast, Phillips, in speaking in the general outlook for his team this season, said, "We have a good nucleus to work with, and I think the first unit will be good, but injuries to the first unit will possibly throw us." Phillips further commented, "We will be able to field a team with pretty much experience, not too much size, but we hope to compensate for that."

As far as the other teams in the conference are concerned, and the competition he expects in the coming conflict, Phillips declared, "Jacksonville has some really good backs, and I think they will be tough, and Tarboro has a real good line, and several good backs, and I think they will be another tough team. . . . Washington is always tough."

Of New Bern and Roanoke Rapids, having acquired new coaches since last season, Phillips said that it was hard to tell about their strength as of yet, but he expected them to be strong, as also he expressed the belief that Elizabeth City would also be a rugged competitor.

Concerning the first practice session slated for 8:00 a.m. on Monday, Phillips asked that the Rose gridders report to drills

NORTH ADAMS, Mass. (AP)—The proprietor of Apothecary Hall, one of the city's leading drug stores, posted this notice Wednesday:

"Beginning today, the ladies chit chat and gossip club will hold any more meetings on our benches.

"We regret that paying customers' complaints, shortage of fountain seats and just plain common sense make this change of policy necessary. See your secretary for your new location."

money in the pocket of every farmer who sells in Greenville on every grade of tobacco that he has to offer.

FIVE COMPLETE SETS OF BUYERS

Greenville has five complete bona fide sets of buyers with every major export and domestic company in the world having a buyer on each of Greenville's five sales. No market in the nation has more buying strength than Greenville.

PITT COUNTY STILL WORLD'S GREATEST PRODUCER

Pitt County, whose largest tobacco market is Greenville, N. C., has been known by the trade for many years as the "world's largest producer of bright leaf flue-cured tobacco." The 1960 official Government acreage allotment for Pitt County is 25,172 acres.

Again, in 1960, Pitt County, as it has for many years, will continue to produce more bright leaf tobacco than will be produced in any other county in the United States.

GREENVILLE SERVES LARGE TERRITORY

Every pound of tobacco produced in Pitt County, however, is not sufficient to make up the total pounds of tobacco sold each year in Greenville.

Every year to this home production is added many millions of pounds of tobacco, which are brought by farmers of adjoining counties to the Greenville Market for sale.

This mass movement of tobacco from adjoining counties to the Greenville Market starts with the opening day of the market and continues until the last day that the warehouses are open.

ANOTHER RECORD

Pitt County, admitted to be the world's largest producer of bright leaf flue-cured tobacco, has also set another record, which is even more important.

QUALITY ALSO UNSURPASSED

Year after year Pitt County has also consistently produced, in this same volume, the world's choicest tobacco. The quality of this Pitt County tobacco is so consistently high that it is admittedly unsurpassed anywhere in the world.

CHANGED WITH WORLD DEMAND

When world trade demanded a heavy, bodied tobacco, Pitt County farmers easily produced this type of tobacco in great quantities for world consumption.

The demand then changed. World trade became anxious for a finer, thinner, lighter and milder smoking leaf. Again Pitt County farmers, specialists in their field, kept abreast of the times and changed their type of tobacco to suit the changing world tastes without removing the natural aroma of Pitt County tobacco.

Now the world trade is laying more emphasis upon choice

98 PER CENT OF GREENVILLE TOBACCOS MOVED INTO CHANNELS OF TRADE

Last year 98 per cent of all of the tobacco sold on the Greenville Tobacco Market was bought by buying companies and went straight into the channels of trade for enjoyment of smokers all over the entire world, only 2 per cent of the tobacco sold on the Greenville Tobacco Market last year being taken by the Stabilization Corporation.

Again Pitt County farmers, by utilizing their almost perfect soil and climatic conditions and by infinite attention to variety and cultural practices, have produced tobaccos for the changing world tastes exactly in accordance with current demands, both foreign and domestic.

CHOICE, BRIGHT LEAF, FULL FLAVORED, AROMATIC TOBACCOS

Those who are in the market for choice, bright leaf, full flavored, aromatic tobaccos will naturally turn to Greenville, North Carolina, U. S. A., for a large per cent of their 1960 purchases.

Greenville is now equipped to sell and process over one hundred million pounds of tobacco during the 1960 season.

No Takers For Non-Paying Job

AVON, Ala. (AP)—Nobody wants to take the nonpaying job as mayor of Avon.

"I'm not going to run again," says Mayor J. F. Preston. He says the post he has held since the town was incorporated in March, 1957, interferes with his fishing.

Preston has been appealing for several weeks for someone to qualify for mayor of the town with 200 population before the Aug. 16 deadline, but there have been no takers.

If no one decides to seek the office, Avon could lose its incorporation charter and revert to a rural status.

A Stirring Western Suspense Novel
The Lean Rider by CLIFF FARRELL

CHAPTER I
Lisa Randolph clung to the seat of the spring wagon as it lurched over the rough trail. The route was a meandering wheel track that labored through hills coated with brush and low, durable trees. Here and there were natural clearings.

Evidently he was an understanding man, for he did not press the subject when she offered no explanation of the thought she had voiced aloud. Instead he said, "Nice afternoon! Hot and dry for this early in spring."

The most of 'em were in calf. Lisa's expression halted him. She sat rigid. As a proper lady should, she pretended she had not heard.

She kept telling herself that she would turn back if it were possible. She felt that there was no chance of retreat now. The truth was that there was within her a stern sense of obligation which was forcing her to go through with this. She had given a promise.

She knew that he must be acutely curious about her, just as she knew that he must be acutely aware of the fact that she was a stranger in this land of uncertainty.

When Micah made no response to that she went on. "The death of those cows must have been quite a loss to him."

Her arms were numb from the effort of retaining her place in the vehicle. An apathy was settling upon her. It did not matter now. Nothing mattered. The distance she had traveled to reach this land of thorned growth seemed to stretch endlessly back to the orderly life she had led among her own kind in Chicago.

Lisa had stood in this strange place gazing around, hoping that Frank O'Hara would appear and claim her. But that had not occurred. She had hardly expected such good fortune, for there had been no way of appraising him of the exact time of her arrival in this land of uncertainty.

"Barbee?" Lisa repeated. "Mr. O'Hara mentioned that name in a letter. Neighbors, I believe."

After that, a stormy voyage in sail to a port named Galveston and a hot and crowded stagecoach trip from Houston to San Antonio. Another stage had brought her overnight to a settlement named San Ysidro.

She wanted no past to remember and no future to think about. As for the present—it was to be faced soon. Sitting in the spring wagon, she fought the increasing panic that was caying her legs to quiver beneath the many-peticoated traveling dress she wore.

Lisa stiffened inwardly, determined to be independent of this particular mothering person. After a time Micah cleared his throat and ventured his first direct question. "You a relative of Frank's?"

His name was Jones — Micah Jones. He was well educated and had courtly manners.

"Cows, ma'am. Female animals."

'Money-Knocker' Is Hypocrite

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—Curbstone comments of a Pavement Plato: Never trust a man who knocks money. He is bound to be a hypocrite. Money is one of the truly great pleasures of life, and the man who turns against it has lost one of the great tools to finer living. It is still true that money in itself can't buy happiness—and never could. But can you name a better down payment?

Liquidated Pests Swarming Again

HONG KONG (AP)—Flies and mosquitoes, which were reported liquidated several years ago, again are swarming over some of the biggest cities in Communist China.

The People's Daily, Red China's official organ, reports a new "all-out battle against flies and mosquitoes" in Peiping, Shanghai and Tientsin.

Factories, schools and government organizations in the three cities participated in this mass campaign.

"In Tientsin," the paper said, "an army of more than 500,000 people is engaged in the battle against flies and mosquitoes."

Some 2,800 anti-mosquito incense burning centers have been set up in the city.

In Peiping the battle slogan is: "Every man has a swatter in hand and swats to death every fly in sight."

First Britains on the Korean front were the Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders. They relieved the battle-weary men of the 23rd U.S. Infantry Regiment.

them.

For them, perfection in purchasing an order is not enough. They are equipped with the finest and most modern machinery obtainable at any price. They are operated by skilled workers. By infinite attention to even the smallest details, Greenville's independent companies follow perfection of purchase on the warehouse floors with perfect professing in their modern plants.

Thus has their reputation for filling a customer's order exactly as he wishes it, been built, and thus will it always stand, as long as these men remain in charge. It is a high standard to operate by, but one in which they take just pride.

PLANT CAPACITY IN GREENVILLE

With their plants equipped with the most modern machinery available, Greenville's independent tobacco companies are now prepared, in this same satisfactory manner, to buy, process and put up in hogsheads almost an unlimited amount of tobacco on orders of any kind.

Columbus Day is believed to have been first celebrated in 1792 under the sponsorship of Tammany Hall.

Ambushed Twice In Three Months

GLEN COVE, N. Y. (AP)—Wiley Oglesby, 40, is a law-abiding family man. His workday existence differs little from that of millions of other Americans. Yet someone has shot him from ambush twice in the last three months.

He doesn't know why. But this is what has happened to him in this quiet Long Island suburb:

On May 17, he was completing some do-it-yourself repairs on his car at a service station. A shot rang out and a bullet fragment entered his head. He was hospitalized five days.

Last Thursday night, he again was at the service station. Again he had just completed some repairs when a shot rang out. This time he was hit in the shoulder. The wound was not serious, and Oglesby is recovering satisfactorily.

"I'm scared," Oglesby said as he discussed the shootings. "I haven't got an enemy in the world that I know of."

There have been no threats to his wife or five children, to the attendants at the gas station, or to anyone at the Tungsten Corp. plant where he has a steady job. Police are investigating, but are baffled. They can't guard Oglesby against all possible shooting attempts.

So Oglesby goes on living, and looking over his shoulder.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP) — A strong stock market advance was tempered by scattered profit-taking early this afternoon.

Gains still showed a heavy majority over losses, but were trimmed back to around a point or so in the higher echelons. Trading slackened as reaction set in to the morning's strong performance, but the tape still was moving at a good rate.

Much of the market's early impetus came from the Federal Reserve Board's action Thursday in approving a lower discount rate (which member banks pay when borrowing from the reserve system) in four Federal Reserve districts.

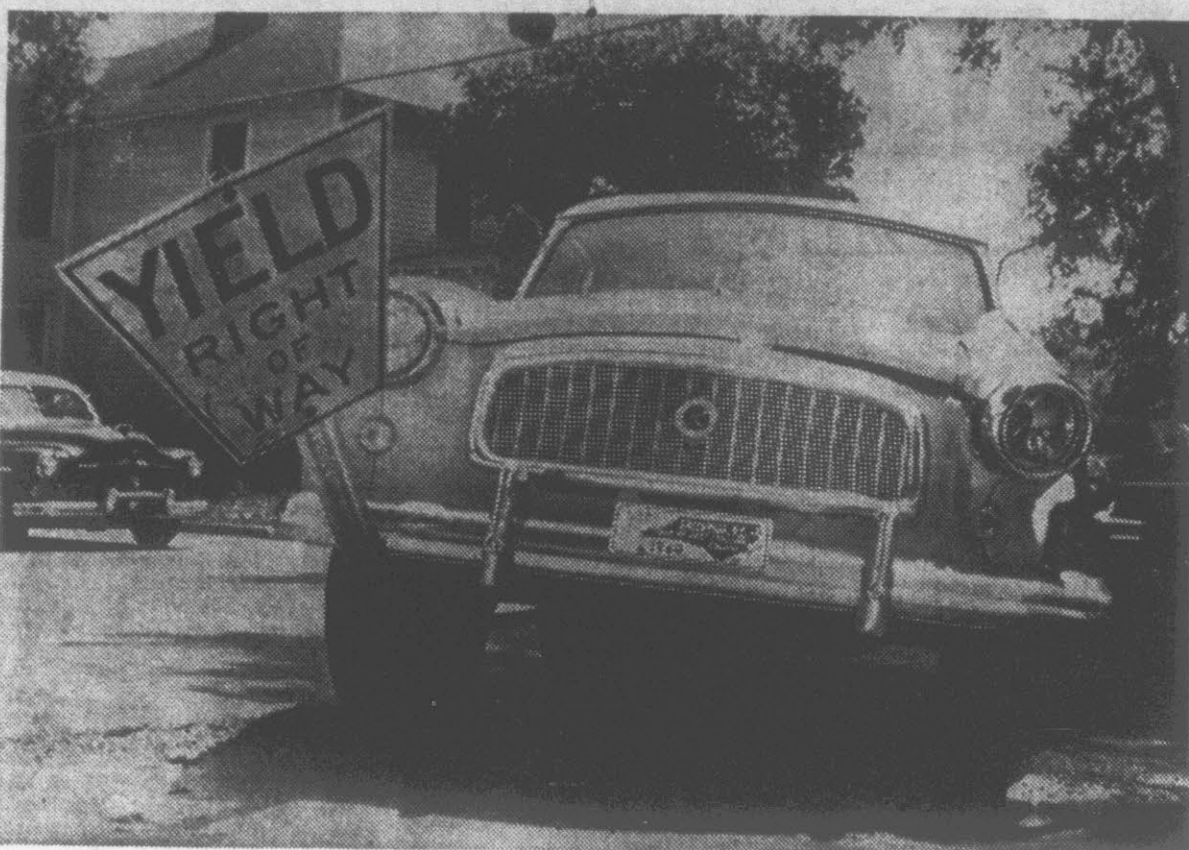

U.S. satellite successes helped to ease market uncertainties due to the tense international situation, it was said.

Just about every major group of stocks joined in the advance. Trading was so heavy just after the opening that the tape ran two minutes behind the pace of floor transactions for a period of 15 minutes.

The Associated Press average at noon was up 1.80 to 220.00 with industrials up 2.90, rails up 1.00 and utilities up 0.03.

Bond markets responded to the Federal Reserve action with gains running to 1/2 point for U.S. gov-

Weather Seen Cooler Friday In County Area

Friday's temperatures around the Greenville vicinity should be a bit cooler, the weatherman said today. The temperatures recorded at the Greenville Utilities Plant were a low of 72 degrees which rose to 77 at 8 a. m., Ray Padgett said.

Thursday's temperatures ranged from a low of 74 to a high of 87 degrees, the coolest day around here in some weeks.

The total rainfall up to today was 36 of an inch, Padgett said. The Tar River was five feet even this morning, and still dropping.

The weatherman said there would be some cloudiness today and moderately warm with occasional showers today, tonight and Saturday.

Mrs. C. L. Bland, 56, Dies Friday Morning

Mrs. Sudie Mayo Bland, 56, wife of Charles Linwood Bland, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Melvin Mazingo, in Greenville Friday morning following two years of illness.

Funeral services will be conducted at the Bethel Pentecostal Holiness Church at 3:30 Saturday afternoon by the pastor, the Rev. Wiley Parker, and burial will be in the Bethel Cemetery.

Mrs. Bland, daughter of the late Willie H. and Minnie Biggs Page, was born and reared in Martin County and spent most of her married life in the Stokes and Bethel communities. She was a member of the Crossroads Christian Church.

Surviving are her husband; a daughter, Mrs. Melvin Mazingo of Greenville; a son, Charles Edward Bland of New Bern; four grandchildren; a sister, Mrs. Stacion Leggett of Hassells; and a brother, Alex Page of Newport News, Va.

Gunshot Wound Fatal To Youth

VANCEBORO—George F. Smith, 18, died at 12:30 Friday morning near Vanceboro as a result of a gunshot wound in the chest. Funeral services will be conducted at Junior Chapel Free Will Baptist Church Sunday at 3 p. m. and burial will be in the churchyard.

George, the son of Stephen and Enla Mae Anderson Smith, spent all his life in the Piney Neck Community near Vanceboro. He was a rising senior at Vanceboro Farm Life High School.

Surviving are his parents; four brothers, Marvin and William O. Smith of the home, John Henry Smith of Vanceboro, and Stephen Smith Jr. of Bridgeton; three sisters, Mrs. Louis Corbeau of Vanceboro, Mrs. James Mayo of Calico Crossroads and Betty Lou Smith of the home; and his step-grandmother, Mrs. Henry Anderson of Vanceboro.

Author Chaucer (1340-1400) gave the slang word "bones" to die.

Mrs. Maggie Kirk Newbern died Thursday afternoon at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Maggie Harper, Winterville, after a brief illness. Funeral services will be held Sunday at 4 p. m. at St. Paul's Christian Church with the Rev. Barnes officiating. Burial will follow in the Ayden Cemetery.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Maggie Harper of Winterville and Mrs. Bonnie Hart of Newark, N.J.; three step-daughters, Mrs. Helen Moyer and Mrs. Hattie Cox of Baltimore, Md., and Mrs. Lucy Smith of Winterville; two sons, Robert Bruce and James Newbern of Baltimore, Md.; one step-son, Herbert Newbern of Baltimore, Md.; five grandchildren.

Insurance Exchange Endorses Firemen's Association Work

The Pitt County Insurance Exchange last night went on record as endorsing the work of the Pitt Firemen's Association in its program of promoting new fire departments in the county to meet the acute need for more rural area protection.

Likewise the Insurance Exchange voted to support the Pitt Firemen's Association in its work and to lend assistance, both financially and man power where ever it could in the county.

Action came following a talk on the needs of Rural Pitt County for Better fire protection and support for the existing fire departments, by Roy Hardee, Vice President of the Pitt Firemen's Association.

"In the past five years, great strides have been made here in Pitt County towards providing adequate rural fire protection, but the need is still great and acute," Hardee pointed out.

Rural fire organizations have been formed, in Bethel, serving parts of three counties; Winterville; Ayden, Fountain, Farmville and Grifton, as well as new departments at Grimesland, Stokes, Station House. Only this week a committee was appointed by the Factolus Ruritan Club to survey

Named Heads Of Farm Bureau Enrollment Drive

Charles Quinerly of Farmville and Ralph Tucker of Greenville were named last night to be chairmen of phases of the Pitt County Farm Bureau membership drive.

The appointments were made at the monthly meeting of the Pitt Farm Bureau Board of Directors.

Quinerly will be chairman of the regular membership drive and Tucker will be chairman of the associate membership drive. Regular memberships in the Farm Bureau are held by farm producers. Associate memberships are held those by farm-interested organizations.

Quinerly has for a number of years been active in Farm Bureau circles assisting with programs of a local nature. He has served on the Livestock Committee for the North Carolina Farm Bureau Program Development.

Tucker has also been active in Farm Bureau work. He served as regular membership chairman three years ago and he has been associate membership chairman for the past two years.

Pitt County has accepted a quota of 2,800 members in the upcoming drive.

The drive will officially open with a kick-off meeting on the night of Sept. 5. Harry Jarvis of Ayden, president of the Pitt County Farm Bureau, will preside over this meeting.

Tobacco Barn Is Said Total Loss

Ed Hemingway, chief of the Station-House Fire Department, reported a tobacco barn burned yesterday on the Jack Nobles farm, about two miles from the fire station, and located in the Sweet Gum Grove Church area.

Hemingway said firemen noticed the blaze, and since there is no telephone service in that area, the department voluntarily answered the fire without being called.

The barn and its contents of about 500 sticks of tobacco were total losses. However, an oil drum nearby as well as the surrounding barns were saved from damage, Hemingway said.

Cause of the blaze is unknown, Hemingway said.

Pres. Addresses Student Govm't

The co-operative spirit between students and administration was lauded in an address of Dr. Leo W. Jenkins, East Carolina College president, at a dinner given by the summer session student government association Wednesday evening.

President Robert A. Patterson, of the summer session SGA, presiding at the dinner, summarized some of the organization's objectives and program during the term which will end on August 18 and presented Dr. Jenkins for a message.

The ECC president noted the impact of a larger student body on the college facilities and faculty and quickly added that the "co-operative spirit in the past should strengthen the relationships for continued sound relations."

"This strong student-faculty relationship will be needed as the college continues its growth," Dr. Jenkins declared.

The present indications for new enrollment during the fall of 1960 show an increase of 48 per cent in registration above the same period a year ago, said Dr. Jenkins, and he called upon the student government officials to continue to aid the administration in maintaining "college spirit and growth in quality of instruction and campus citizenship."

College administrative officials and faculty members who have been associated in various phases of the summer program were guests of the SGA officers at the dinner.

Dutch settlers went first to South Africa in 1652.

Insurance Exchange Endorses Firemen's Association Work

The needs for fire protection in the rural Factolus area.

"Aim of the Pitt Firemen's association is to promote new departments, expand on the training programs for all fire departments in order to upgrade the fire fighting techniques and to provide a county-wide mutual aid program which will benefit all of the citizens of the county," Hardee said. The Pitt Firemen's association is only a year old but concrete results from its effort are being felt everywhere. It's a program of improvement and is designed for both city and rural departments.

"All you have to do if in doubt about the work which these rural fire departments are doing, is to talk with the people that are being served. The great amount of property which has been saved by the work of these volunteer fire fighters is all the evidence needed to prove the worth of promoting additional organizations."

"Because of its heavy population center, the Greenville rural area which is now totally unprotected should be a top priority project." Many of the rural folks in this area, which for countless years was served by the Greenville fire

Vote Donations To Pair Of Funds

Members of the Greenville Elks Lodge last night voted donations for the high school exchange student program, the American Cancer Society and the Damon Runyon Cancer Research Fund.

The Elks voted to appropriate $50 for the Rose High School exchange student fund which is bringing a student here from Denmark. A similar amount was given by the local Elks last year.

Lodge members also voted last night to donate $10 to the American Cancer Society and $25 to the Damon Runyon Fund.

A $70 donation was recently voted by the Lodge for the Little League area tournament which is being held in Greenville this week.

Sorcery Delights Large Audience

An evening of "sophisticated sorcery" and magical moments delighted a large audience as C. Shaw Smith of Davidson College entertained a summer school audience in McGinnis Auditorium at East Carolina College Wednesday evening.

The performance was both mystifying and entertaining and the college students enjoyed the acts, laughing as heartily at the tricks of magic as did the "small fry" of the auditorium. There was wholesome fun and hearty laughter during the 70-minute performance by Smith, a native of Mount Olive and well-acquainted with eastern North Carolina people.

Smith, a co-ordinator of student activities and college union director at Davidson, appeared under sponsorship of the East Carolina College summer session student government association. Assisted by his wife and two sons (and some persons from the audience), his acts produced some really humorous sequences as he reeled off his tricks and solidly funny punch lines.

Former Police Chief Has No Plans As Yet

AYDEN—H.V. Chandler, former police chief of Ayden, said yesterday he has no definite plans as of yet, but that he is considering "several things."

Chandler, police chief here for four years, was requested to resign Tuesday morning following a meeting of the Ayden Board of Commissioners on Monday night. Though the police commissioner, Robert G. Harris, made a report on the chief and the police department that was favorable to Chandler, the commissioners voted four to one in favor of recommending his dismissal.

Town Manager Cleveland Pay-

'One Of Most Successful'

William L. Deavours, chairman of the Trade Promotion Committee of the Greenville Merchants Association, said the early morning crowds here for Dollar Day continued until closing time to make Thursday "one of the most successful ones we have ever had."

Deavours said it was probably the largest crowd the town has ever had for a trade event. He commented that "We were very fortunate in that the weather held out and it didn't rain until late in the afternoon."

He said all the merchants he had talked to had been very pleased.

Herbert Wilkerson, president of the Merchants Association, said he thought yesterday's Dollar Day was "one of the best we have ever had." He said the crowd in the stores was very large, with an unusual number of shoppers from out of town.

Dollar Day has been sponsored by leading Greenville merchants for over 25 years.
