Falling Space Capsule Is Plucked Out Of Air By Plane; A 'First'

By HENRY HARTZENBUSCH HONOLULU (AP) — The jubilant U. S. Air Force today celebrated history's first aerial catch of a capsule ejected from an orbiting satellite — bringing man's journey into space a giant step closer.

The capsule, snared by a dangle device which hooked into its parachute shrouds, was plucked from the sky 8,500 feet over the Pacific Friday by a C119 Flying Boxcar after its ejection from Discoverer XIV over Alaska.

Packed with instruments and equipment designed to speed development of space spy and missile warning satellites, the 35-pound capsule and three of the crew from the catch plane were sped to the U. S. mainland after a short stopover in Hawaii.

"I don't see why we can't catch it from now on," exclaimed the successful plane's navigator, Lt. Robert Counts, 25, Yuba City, Calif., who with others of the 10-man crew was decorated on arrival back in Hawaii.

A plane sped the gold-colored capsule from Hawaii to the Lockheed laboratory at Sunnyvale, Calif., for scientific analysis before it continues on to Washington.

Powers' Wife Plans Stay In Russia To Seek Clemency For Her Husband

MOSCOW (AP)—Barbara Powers said today she will not leave Moscow until she has done everything possible to help her husband, Francis Gary Powers, sentenced to 10 years detention for espionage.

But she told a news conference that the pattern of the future is dim and she cannot be specific about her plans.

The brunt of the wife of the convicted U2 pilot answered "yes" when asked if she found the man she called Gary still emotionally and physically "the same husband you knew."

In a separate interview the pilot's father, Oliver W. Powers, talking about the family's dramatic reunion with the flier directly after the conclusion of his trial Friday, said: "He's the same old boy I raised from a little feller right on up." When the elder Powers arrived here a week ago with his wife, Ida, he said he planned to appeal to Khrushchev "as one father to another." He disclosed that Khrushchev had promised to help him, but he did not say how he received a message from Khrushchev or elaborate on its contents.

An appeal through the courts could be based on points of law and made to the president of the Supreme Court or the procurator (prosecutor) general. But this is a lengthy, complicated process.

If Soviet authorities agree to consider such an appeal, it must be considered by 12 judges of the Soviet Supreme Court sitting with presidents of the Supreme Courts of all 15 Soviet republics.

It would be simpler for Barbara Powers, 24, the pilot's wife, to follow the plan she outlined Friday to a Soviet reporter.

She said she would appeal for clemency directly to Leonid Brezhnev, the president of the Soviet Union whose duties are mostly ceremonial, and the Presidium (Parliament) of the Soviet Union, which always follows the policy laid down by the Communist party.

The Powers' family today was in a condition best described as stunned following the ordeal of the three-day trial, the verdict and their bittersweet reunion with the pilot.

Pilot's Trial Summed Up As Propaganda That Failed

LONDON (AP)—Western Europe today summed up the Powers' trial as a propaganda showpiece that failed to impress the nations of Western Europe.

The verdict never was in doubt. The sentence generally was regarded as lenient.

Throughout the Continent there was sympathy for the accused U2 pilot, Francis Gary Powers, his wife and parents.

They were seen as an ordinary family caught up in the clash between the world's two biggest powers.

But there was little sympathy with the Soviet bid to put U. S. policy in the dock alongside Powers'.

Britain's Daily Telegraph commented: "Powers was sent over Russia because America needs to know what is going on there and could not find out in other ways."

"The more the prosecutor sought to materialize President Eisenhower in the dock at Powers' trial, the darker grew the shadow of Mr. Khrushchev on his left."

It was conceded the United States may have acted rashly in sending the U2 over the Soviet Union on the eve of the Paris summit conference. But all this has been said before and the trial brought out nothing fresh on the subject.

But II Messaggero added that a study of prosecutor Rudenko's final statement reveals "statements so strange, falsehoods so evident and distortions of truth so suggested European newspapers all over the world."

Neutral Sweden was equally unimpressed by the prosecution's denunciation of U. S. policy, but otherwise the Swedes found the Soviet handling of the case "a satisfying surprise."

The Stockholm-Tidningen speculated that when a new U. S. president takes office, Powers should stand a good chance of a pardon.

Other European newspapers also suggested Powers may not have to serve his full 10-year sentence. The Paris newspaper Figaro said he might be expelled from the Soviet Union after three years in jail.

Sparrow Is Only Casualty Of A Short-Circuit

The English Sparrow that caused the trouble was the only reported casualty yesterday after the bird had short-circuited an Evans St. transformer and interrupted downtown Greenville's electrical service for about 15 minutes.

According to Greenville Utilities Supt. L. P. Bloxam, the feathered villain became trapped in the safety fuse on the transformer at the Pitt Theater and "shorted it out" around 5 p.m.

The short caused a wire to heat, melt and burn completely through at one point, causing the power interruption.

Service was restored in 15 minutes by the use of other circuits, while repairs required about an hour, Bloxam said.

The sparrow was reported electrocuted.

Senators Taking Up Medical Care

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate today begins debate on what many Democrats and Republicans are sure will be one of the hottest issues of the fall campaign—medical care for old persons.

Senate leaders hope the medical care bill can be disposed of by Monday or Tuesday night.

The big showdown will come on the effort to add onto the measure a medical aid program operated under and financed by the Social Security system.

This is strongly supported by Democratic presidential nominee John F. Kennedy and his running mate, Senate Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas.

It is just as vigorously opposed by the Eisenhower administration. Vice President Richard M. Nixon, the Republican presidential nominee, has said the President will veto a bill carrying a Social Security health care plan.

In Friday's activities: 1. The Senate authorized a 600-million-dollar program to develop Latin America. The proposal was approved by a 54-19 vote, but Democratic leaders said Eisenhower should have proposed it a long time ago.

Delegates awaited Sunday's Council session with growing anxiety as fiery Congolese Premier Patrice Lumumba continued to widen the breach with black-mail charges against Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold and demands for withdrawal of all white troops from the Congo.

Lumumba capped his latest outburst by declaring that he was ready to renounce the services of the U.N. because the Congo "is nobody's property."

Delegates of nine African member countries have been conferring daily since Lumumba defied Hammarskjold and prompted the angered secretary-general to return to the U.N. last Tuesday to ask the Security Council to endorse his neutrality policy in the Congo. Since then attacks on U.N. personnel have increased tension in the African nation.

A Soviet plane carrying the five-man delegation from the Congo arrived in New York Friday night after being rerouted to Andrews Air Force Base, Maryland, because of bad weather. Vice Premier Antoine Gizenga, heading the delegation, was upset at the change in routing. He and his four aides glumly sat out the last 45 minutes of their wait in the silver Ilyushin 18 turboprop plane where they had a three-hour delay.

Their irritation began with a delay in landing clearance for the plane, which had not passed noise tests to land at New York City airports. The U.S. State Department finally persuaded airport officials to let the plane land anyway, but the Congolese had to wait overnight in London while the details were worked out.

After arriving at New York's Idlewild Airport, Gizenga would say nothing to reporters.

The 11-nation Council is scheduled to meet at 11:30 a.m. Sunday. Still mindful of Hammarskjold's Aug. 8 statement that unless the U.N. can keep order in the Congo there is danger of global war, the Council has some extremely delicate factors to weigh.

Observers at the U.N. have gained the impression that the African U.N. members are working hard behind closed doors to bolster Hammarskjold's statement that U.N. forces will not conquer rebellious Katanga province for Lumumba but also will not halt Lumumba's troops if they try it.

Airing his "blackmail" charge at a Leopoldville news conference, Lumumba said he had received a letter from Hammarskjold saying the secretary general would be obliged to ask the Security Council to reconsider its activities in the Congo in light of recent events in the Congo.

"This blackmail of the secretary general does not impress us," Lumumba said.

France receives relay by 'Echo' HOLMDEL, N.J. (AP)—A radio station in France has received a signal sent by Bell Laboratories tests well ahead of schedule. A spokesman for the laboratories said the signal was the first such overseas transmission.

Bell said it was advised that a radio station at Isy les Moulineaux had received a 960 megacycle signal Wednesday night from the laboratories.

The healing power of spiritual understanding will be explained at Christian Science churches Sunday in the Lesson-Sermon on "Mind," which concludes the current series devoted to synonyms for God.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Table with 4 columns: Day, Book, Chapter, Verse. Rows include Sunday, Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday, Saturday.

Hardest fact for the adult mind to comprehend is that a teen-ager stands at the threshold of life.

When you enter a strange door you are uncertain. You don't know what's in store for you. You aren't sure which way to turn.

There may be familiar, welcoming voices—but even these now have the ring of uncertainty. For when your whole world is changing, can you be sure that the people around you are not changing also?

For boys and girls in this time of uncertainty the Church is the fulcrum of strength. Its truth is unchanging. Its teaching is clear. Its promises are worthy of hope, trust, endeavor, sacrifice.

The problems of the teen-ager are tremendous... but so is the might of his God. The character, the certainty, the charity of the Church inspires his ideals... challenges his courage.

Jay-C-Ettes To Begin Annual Candy Sale

Tuesday, August 23rd, the Jay-C-Ettes will begin their annual candy sale at the Greenville warehouse. Overall chairman is Mrs. Betty Clark.

The sale benefits the Pitt County Crippled Children's Clinic. The divisions of the sale include the warehouse sale, the downtown sale, the fringe area, and the house-to-house sale.

Chairmen of these divisions are Mrs. Julian Vainright and Mrs. Bill Taylor, warehouse; Mrs. Frank Diener and Mrs. Syd Carraway, downtown; Mrs. Bill Laughinghouse, fringe area; Mrs. Bill Howard and Mrs. Jim Lanier, house-to-house; Mrs. George Coffman, treasurer, and Mrs. Bob Windle, publicity chairman, are also on the candy committee.

The sale proceeds of last year were used to furnish milk and cookies once a month at the Orthopedic Clinic with Jay-C-Ette volunteers to serve; helped to send three children to camp; and gave a party for all the children at the Crippled Children's Camp, Washington.

The Jay-C-Ettes also purchased tables and chairs for use at the clinic, helped purchase special items needed for the children and furnished transportation to the Durham hospital.

This year, besides the caramels and fudgies, a larger bag of the two kinds combined will be sold, and, as in previous years, the house-to-house sale will be held prior to Halloween.

Chuck-Wagon Supper Given Debutantes

Debutantes Anne Evans, Betsy Whedbee and Ann Moore were honored on Friday night with a Chuck-Wagon supper, by Mr. and Mrs. N. O. Van Nortwick Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Henry Coleman, and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph S. Moyer.

The Van Nortwick yard was hung with old-fashioned oil lamps, lighting ranch signs such as Bar-O-Ranch, check your Pistols here, Chuck-Wagon, Dance Hall, etc.

Favors were cowboy hats with Deb-Bar Ranch painted on them and bandana handkerchiefs for napkins.

Supper was served from a table covered with red and white checked cloth, whose centerpiece was cowboy boots filled with zinnias. Auxiliary tables were lighted with hurricane lights and candles.

Meet The Deb Who Wants

Nursing Career

MISS BETSY WHEDBEE . . . is shown opening one of the many invitations she has received for debutante festivities.

(Editor's Note: This is the fifth in a series of articles concerning the 1960 Pitt County debutantes who will make their debut in Raleigh September 9-10.)

By PEGGY SMITH
Reflector Woman's Editor

What does being a debutante mean to you? This question was asked Miss Betsy Whedbee in an interview recently. She answered that "the most valuable thing you get from being a deb is that you acquire more poise and also get to meet many people at the deb functions."

A student at the University of North Carolina Nursing School, Betsy says she decided on her career in grammar school, "or maybe through the church."

"I've always liked science and I think it's good to put science into service," she continued.

Hoping to specialize, Betsy is at present interested in Public Health. She feels that by attending Carolina where nursing education is spread over a four-year program, "just like any other college major," makes one a more rounded individual.

While at Junius H. Rose High School, Betsy was interested in French and in the near future she hopes to make French an elective. She doesn't know how she's going to do it; but, she would like to work French and nursing together into a career.

The summer has been a busy one for this deb. Besides attending many debutante festivities, she has been vacationing at the beach and visiting a schoolmate in Margate City, N. J.

Her favorite pastimes are reading, swimming, and listening to good music. Good music is classified by her as being a Johnny Mathis hit; but, she does enjoy classical once in a while. As for her pet peeve, she lists insincerity.

Deb Weekend
Howard Garner, Coleman Ruffin, and Nat VanNortwick, all of Greenville, will act as Betsy's marshals. Howard is her chief.

When asked about her deb clothes, she replied, "I am so thrilled and delighted with my Ball dress. It was designed and made for me by Mrs. Rebecca Davenport of Winterville.

"Designing is her specialty and the gown she has created for me is in every detail what I have always wanted in the event I was ever invited to make my debut.

It is a fashionable, princess lines and made of peau de sole and lace. Its featured scoop neckline and cap sleeves are trimmed with hand-clipped reemboosed French lace sprinkled with iridescent sequins and rhinestones. This same type lace is used for the floral motif which trims the front of the bodice and down the front panel of the skirt.

"The bell-shaped skirt is accented with appliques of lace medallions reemboosed with the sequins and rhinestones."

For the Governor's tea, this vivacious young deb will be attired in a black sheath cocktail dress of Belgian linen and lace trimmed with velvet ribbon, designed by Mr. Mort. A cocktail hat of pink ostrich feathers and net will complete the outfit.

Betsy will attend the Friday luncheon at the Hotel Sir Walter in a Mix Mode dress of winter cotton with an unstitched pleated skirt. It is a geometrical print of blue and green shades on a black background, trimmed with black grosgrain ribbon around the V-neckline and belt. She plans to wear a blue variegated feather hat with this dress and black accessories.

A Harry Kruger creation of pink silk organza and lace with a full skirt and a lace bodice featuring elbow length sleeves will be worn at the tea dance held at the Carolina Country Club on Saturday morning.

Betsy's favorite colors are blue and red which is evident in her gown chosen for the second night dance. She will be wearing a long cherry red chiffon evening dress fashioned with a billowy skirt, cummerbund and tiny straps.

HOME DECORATING TODAY

WHERE LITTLE IMPROVEMENTS GIVE BIG EFFECTS

Your entrance hall is a place where first impressions may well be lasting ones. In just a few seconds an entrance hall can speak volumes about the personality of your home, and your taste in decorating.

It is wise to remember that entrance halls are passageways and should be treated as such. Though bare of unnecessary clutter that would impede traffic, they still can be warm and welcoming. Since no one lingers long in an entrance hall, unique treatment won't become tiresome.

Whether you're striving for a formal or an informal effect, entrance halls need plenty of imagination in color and design. And if you need a little more help or inspiration, visit the Home Furniture Store for help.—(Adv.)

Chance For A Grand Stand Gesture

The Soviet extravaganza of the espionage trial of U-2 pilot Francis Gary Powers leaves in question the ultimate fate of the American flyer who has drawn a 10-year sentence from the Soviet court.

It is significant that the court staged the trial with full television coverage for Soviet consumption and let down the usual secrecy bars to gain as much publicity for the trial as possible through press representatives from all over the world.

It is also significant that the Soviet prosecutor picturing "Powers' crime" as one of the worst in international history asked only for a 15-year sentence rather than for death—the maximum penalty. Neither should it be overlooked that the Soviet court not only sentenced Powers to five years less than the prosecutor asked, but at the same time specified that only three years of the 10-year term be spent in prison.

What will happen to Powers after the initial three-year prison term remains a matter of speculation.

There can be no question but that the Soviet Union was more interested in using the trial as a platform from which to carry out a propaganda campaign against the United States than it was in meting out punishment to Powers. Neither can there be any question about the hope of the Soviets for gaining international prestige by appearing lenient toward the U-2 pilot who went down in Russia on May 1.

It is likely that the Soviet interest in the Powers trial will wane rapidly now that the opportunity for propaganda is over. It may well be that Powers may gain his freedom not only from a Soviet prison, but from the Soviet Union as well in considerably less than the 10 years specified by the Soviet court.

For the sake of Powers and his family it is to be hoped that he will not have to serve the entire sentence, and that he will be released by the Soviets in the shortest possible time. There is the outside chance that Premier Khrushchev might make the further grandstand gesture of commuting Powers' sentence in the hope of gaining recognition as a true humanitarian, interested in the welfare of people caught in the web of international controversy.

Such a move would afford the Soviets another opportunity for a propaganda barrage at the United States and an opportunity to point out what it feels is the important distinction between the "war-mongering American government" and the "peace-loving American people".

Whatever the ultimate Soviet plans for Powers include, the world is bound to recognize the distinction between this trial and the usual Russian court procedure that entails merely the terse announcement that some person has been tried, convicted and punished.

Everything Points To A Better Leaf Season

Tuesday will be a big day in Eastern North Carolina as auctioneers' chants begin to sell the millions of pounds of golden leaf produced in the area this season.

With the opening of the market upon us, everything points to a bright picture for the farmers and others of the area whose livelihood depends heavily upon agriculture.

The growing season has been far above average, and for Pitt County where production last year was usually low, predictions are for a near-record yield of the crop. Most estimates place the increase in the tobacco poundage this year in Pitt County at approximately 30 per cent over last year's figure.

There is also the factor of the quality of the crop and this year with good growing seasons, there appears to be a better quality crop of tobacco in this immediate area than was the case a year ago. Even with the increased yield, these factors should mean that prices will be at least equal to if not slightly higher than was the case in 1959.

On the basis of the increased yield there should be a considerable increase in gross income from tobacco over last year.

When the tobacco market opens on Tuesday, the usual atmosphere of expectation and excitement will be charged with optimism. Everything points to a much better year for the agricultural economy of Pitt than was the case in 1959.

The market opening is almost upon us, and it will usher in peak season of business activity for Pitt County and its people.

Democrats Are Now Catching It

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP)—At this point in the presidential campaign, just a few weeks old, the Democrats are doing the catching. The Republicans have put them on the defensive, or tried to, in one way or another.

Just this week a Gallup Poll showed Vice President Richard M. Nixon leading Sen. John F. Kennedy in the presidential race by 50 to 44 per cent of the voters questioned, with 6 per cent undecided.

This preference may switch around once the present session of Congress ends — perhaps around Labor Day — and the campaign starts in earnest. But, coming so early, the poll gives the Democrats cause for concern.

This session of Congress, when Democrats overwhelmed the Republicans, was supposed to last three or four weeks. The Senate has been in session almost two weeks with little solid accomplishment except a minimum wage bill passed Thursday night.

But the Republicans have been working overtime to use this session to embarrass the Democrats. For instance: The Democratic platform promises big strides in civil rights. The Republicans have challenged the Democrats to make good now.

A civil rights fight by Southern Democrats could stretch this session well beyond Labor Day and even ruin chances for any other legislation. Kennedy and his running mate, Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson, sidetracked the civil rights bill.

This gave the Republicans a chance to wrap the "look-who's-talking" complaint around the Democrats' necks. And they got another chance to do the same when President Eisenhower challenged the Democrats to pass a 22-point program he offered.

It would have been impossible for Congress' usual tardy performance on legislation is a criterion — but when the Democrats brushed this aside, the Republicans had fresh ammunition.

The Democratic platform promised medical care for the aged on a wide scale and under the

MISSING THE MARK
The verb "to sn" when found in the Bible is usually the translation of either a Hebrew or a Greek word meaning "to miss the mark." A sinner is a person who is missing the mark.

Let us retranslate a few well-known Bible statements with this meaning in mind: He shall save his people from missing the mark. Neither do I condemn thee; go, and miss the mark no more. We have all missed the mark and come short of the glory of God. If we say we have not missed the mark, we deceive ourselves and the truth is not in us. I came not to call the righteous, but people who have missed the mark to repentance. God commended his love for us in that while we were yet missing the mark, Christ died for us.

The whole testimony of Scripture is that the sinner is getting the best out of life, yet all the time he is missing the best. He is missing the very thing he was born into life to get. He is here to be tested for eternal life, to grow a soul; he wastes his time and sloughs off his spiritual qualities as he indulges his appetites, judges his fellows, lives a selfish life, compromises, and neglects every opportunity to know God and deepen the spiritual life. The sinner is missing the mark.

Might As Well Learn

Yesterday we heard a couple of folks downtown speaking their pieces about the new "DDD"—direct distant dialing or something.

One, a woman, said she thought it was just about the greatest. "It's so very simple too," she exclaimed.

She explained how she'd "just last night" dialed her sister way out in the middle-northwest somewhere. "I just dialed the numbers (it turned out there were about forty-seven trips around her dialing finger) and waited — and Sis answered the phone. We had the nicest talk."

The other, one of the weaker sex, said he "ain't tried it yet. Mostly because I just cain't

"Besides bein' a dumb block-head," he mourned, "I just ain't got th' guts."

Some of the rest of us "ain't tried it yet" either. Still, that "DDD" is a marvelous thing.

It's even awe-inspiring to think that eventually any particular telephone in this broad land of no-telling-how-many phones can be reached by merely dialing numbers.

That "some - of - the - rest-of-us" bunch might as well start learning.

We learned through Uncle Sam's lifesaver (the daily mail on column day) an astounding

Other Editors Saying Nixon's Triumph

(Greensboro Daily News)
Richard Nixon and the Republican Party have every reason to be elated over the vice president's reception in North Carolina.

A crowd estimated at 15,000 occupied every seat of Greensboro's War Memorial Coliseum, spilled over into both its auditoriums and stood milling around every entrance. Inside the reception for the Nixon's rivaled a national convention demonstration, complete with foot-stomping, cheering and wild applause.

If the vice president had any doubts about his popularity in North Carolina they were dispelled. As a result Mr. Nixon said he will make other forays into the South.

The vice president campaigned at his best in Greensboro. From his articulate, self-confident handling of press conference questions to his hard-driving speech and tireless hand-shaking, the coffee and skating party had everything a political rally could desire—except more space.

The only patrons skating on thin ice were Democrats—for they saw signs of an incipient political revolution. Nixon touched all the familiar chords. He unveiled his campaign theme: Republican and Democratic aims are much the same, but Republicans, through emphasis on government give-away, will achieve them best. Thus he appealed to the South's basic conservatism.

The Nixon technique is fascinating to watch. In both press conference and speech he conducts a sort of dialogue with himself, first staking himself fact. "Two out of every five Americans do not eat eggs regularly for breakfast," the Farm Marketing News reported this week.

Their info came from a survey of nearly 2,500 American homemakers conducted by marketing researchers of the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture.

USDA also found that per capita egg consumption has been steadily declining for several years now.

The real reason for the survey is, according to USDA, to help evaluate the potential market for eggs and to assist the egg industry in planning programs aimed at increasing consumption of their product.

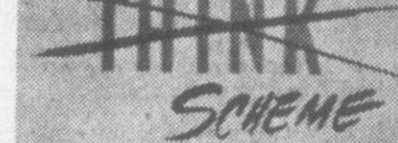

If the trend continues, egg-producers may well be on the way out — at least enough of the way out to reduce the supply to meet the demands of only the old faithful egg-eaters.

Egg producers might be in trouble, sure enough—but what about the REAL egg-producers, the poor old hens.

To save worrying so, it's lucky hens can't read.

"Some smooth-tongued politicians are giving us the full treatment these days. After all, this is an election year."

"We are told that the government will take care of us at the cradle, help us with our marriage, take care of our money, give us homes to live in through FHA, care for us in our old age through Social Security and then see that we are buried."

"All this sounds wonderful, but we often wonder who takes care of the government while all this is going on?"—Lambertville (N.J.) Beacon.

Both candidates face one serious problem, namely, that many will not vote for either of them unless strong leadership is exhibited. The Republicans defeated both Wendell Willkie and Thomas E. Only Boom Now Is In Politics

By ELMER ROESSNER

There's some sluggishness in business ahead, at least until after the election. The principal reason is that there is nothing to give business a shot in the thigh.

The only booming business is politics. The campaigns are swelling employment and pouring money into printing, broadcasting, travel and related lines, but all the millions flung around have been anticipated and discounted. Besides, campaign spending is over so fast it does not do much more for the economy as a whole than hula-hoops did.

The conventions raised hopes that Congress, in a rush to start fulfilling campaign promises of both parties, would unleash spending for housing, education, care of the aged and all the other give-aways in the party platforms. But Congressional activities in the past two weeks show little more than an intention to spar for position.

OTHER OPINIONS

The Chicago Federal Reserve Bank's August report on business conditions conceded that business news has carried a somewhat pessimistic flavor, partly because profit margins are being squeezed and many goods are under downward price pressures.

The conservative Morgan Guaranty Trust Company's August Survey said that summer has done "very little to clarify the economic outlook for the latter part of the year," and adds that "a weighing of the factors now visible suggests that, either way, the line of movement in the fall is not likely to be especially steep." Few could have stated the outlook more cautiously.

Union Service Corp., an organization that supplies data to mutual funds, last week said short-term prospects for business are drab. Prentice-Hall's business information service said that as the campaign heats up, interest will be heightened as the sluggish pace of business drags on, and as signs of a possible recession — early in 1961 or before—multiply." A NOT-SO-FOGGY OUTLOOK

The view from this corner is not as dull. Reasons: While Congress may not do much for welfare spending, it can be pressured into a sharp increase for weapons, increasing government spending.

Steel inventories have been lowered and buying to restore balance, plus buying for steel requirements for 1961 autos, plus buying to beat the price rise at the end of the year, will restore considerable activity to the industry.

Government spending for roads is being increased; the amount for the current quarter is double original estimates.

Construction and housing may be moderately stimulated by the lowering of the discount rate, which will tend to lower mortgage rates.

Consumer buying, while weakening in the durables field, has not declined over-all. Income is high and consumer spending still rolls around. The consu-

Issues Not Yet To Fore

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
Copyright, 1960, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Nixon vs. Kennedy has not yet developed into a debate on issues. Kennedy has a brain trust of Harvard professors; Nixon has a brain trust of Harvard professors and some others. This is mostly window dressing. Both candidates have been in the national legislature for 14 years. They know what they believe. They also know that what they believe and what they are prepared to say are not quite the same thing. As men of great experience in politics, they will not and cannot depend on academic and business advisers to counsel them. Ultimately, they will follow those lines of least opposition which might assure election.

Nor are the academic and business advisers of either candidate particularly impressive from a vote-gathering standpoint. And elections have to do with votes; that is why they are held. Therefore, we can regard the announcement of these lists of great minds as a one-day news story and forget about them forever more.

Thus far, neither candidate has started the nation with ideas and purposes. John Kennedy's speech at Franklin D. Roosevelt's grave was a dramatic performance of no particular vote-getting significance. The appeal to the old voters was mindful of the long-forgotten Dr. Townsend.

Granted that the problem of the aged is constantly with us, the matter is not as acute, for instance, as the deterioration of the dollar. And about that neither of the candidates speaks a word.

Richard Nixon needs to take the initiative in dealing with major problems or he has to run in defense of the Eisenhower Administration. He needs to prove to the country that he has the stature of a President as well as that of Vice President. In the campaign he can prove it only by words. Thus far, the Republicans have put out the propagandistic ideas: one deal with Kennedy's very bad attendance record in the Senate. The entire country witnessed Kennedy chasing hither and yon winning primaries, seeking delegates, etc. A man cannot be in two places simultaneously; therefore if Kennedy was beating Humphrey in Wisconsin and West Virginia, he could not be in the Senate.

The other is a pamphlet on what other Democrats said about Kennedy and it is a devastating indictment. Now, I suppose the Democrats will issue a pamphlet on what Republicans said about Nixon over the years. Such pamphlets are not fundamental.

Thus far, the candidates have avoided fundamentals. Ordinarily this is good politics. This has long been regarded as correct technique. But it's not going to work too well in this campaign. The conditions the country faces are too serious and many of them will grow more complicated during the campaign. The people are looking for leadership. The people want a man to stand up forthright. If both candidates will note the response in the Republican Convention to the excitement over the speeches of Senator Barry Goldwater and Representative Walter Judd, they will learn much of what is in the minds of our people. And if they will have a look at the current ferment in the South, they will also discover that public opinion in this country is not made by a handful of college professors and exhibitionistic businessmen and labor leaders. If ever a people did its own, individualistic thinking, it is the American people in this election.

Both candidates face one serious problem, namely, that many will not vote for either of them unless strong leadership is exhibited. The Republicans defeated both Wendell Willkie and Thomas E. Dewey but not voting for them. This is demonstrable by a comparison with the vote cast in those elections for local officials. The Conservative Republican and the Conservative Democrat constitute a sufficiently large part of the electorate to influence the outcome of the 1960 election. (Continued on page six)

Washington Nips Yankees To Tighten League Race

By ED WILKS

Two of the oddities of this American League season are the fact that Early Wynn has been above .500 only once since May and Washington's whammy on the New York Yankees.

Put them together, and the Chicago White Sox are within 1 1/2 games of the first-place Yankees.

Wynn, the tough right-hander who has won more games than any other active pitcher in the AL, edged the defending champion Sox a bit closer Friday night with a seven-hit, 10-0 breeze at Kansas City. That gave Wynn a 9-8 record and his 28th victory, but it's the first time since May 20 that he had a 2-1 record, that he's been clear of the break-even mark.

Washington made it three straight over the Yankees with a 4-2 decision on the five-hit pitching of Camilo Pascual and a two-run, two-out single by Bob Allison in the eighth inning. It was the Senators' ninth victory in 15 games with New York this season. Detroit defeated Cleveland 5-3 in the only other game played. Baltimore and Boston were tied by fog.

In the National League, Pittsburgh retained a 7 1/2-game lead despite a 4-3 defeat at Cincinnati. Second-place Milwaukee lost 3-2 to Philadelphia. St. Louis beat Los Angeles 1-0, and San Francisco defeated the Chicago Cubs 2-1.

Wynn, 40, collected the 44th shutout of his career. He walked four and struck out six.

The Senators came from behind and took a 2-1 lead on Bob Lemon's 28th home run and Harmon Killebrew's 20th, then broke a 2-2 tie in the eighth after reliever Ralph Terry almost worked out of a jam. With the bases loaded on two walks and a single by Lennie Green, Terry got Lemon to hit 20, a force out at the plate, then retired Reno Bertola on a pop up before Allison broke it up.

The Tigers made it four out of five against the Indians since the two clubs swapped managers when Frank Bolling, hitless in 16 at bats, walloped tie-breaking, three-run homer in the sixth inning.

If Art Mahaffey had the hitters when he came up with the Philadelphia Phillies last month, they're long gone now. The kid right-hander has won each of his last two starts—and he's done it against Pittsburgh and Milwaukee, the 1-2 clubs in the National League race.

After beating the Pirates 4-3 last Monday in his first major league decision, the 22-year-old rookie came back and pitched his first complete game for a 3-2, six-hit victory at Milwaukee Friday night.

That kept the Braves from closing the gap on the front-running Pirates, who still lead by 7 1/2 games despite a 4-3 loss at Cincinnati. The St. Louis Cardinals, after losing six straight, regained third place from Los Angeles by beating the Dodgers 1-0, although held to just three hits by Johnny Podres. San Francisco beat Chicago's Cubs 2-1.

In the American League, the Chicago White Sox ripped New York's lead to 1 1/2 games after the Yankees had lost 4-2 at Washington. Third-place Baltimore, two games behind, was idled by fog at Boston. Detroit beat Cleveland 5-3. Mahaffey, now 2-0, shut out the Braves on three hits until the eighth inning, then gave up a double by Del Crandall and Ed Mathews' 27th home run.

The Phils, beaten 1-0 by Lew Burdette's no-hitter Thursday, scored twice in the first inning against loser Juan Pizarro (6-6), then clinched it on Lee Walls' bases-loaded sacrifice fly in the second.

The Reds came from behind with three runs in the fifth, capped by Vada Pinson's two-run homer, against Pittsburgh's Wilmer (Vinegar Bend) Mizell (9-6).

The Cardinals beat Podres (10-9) in the ninth inning without a hit, scoring an unearned run on a walk and Junior Gilliam's two-out error. Larry Jackson (14-10), who combined with Stan Musial and Daryl Spencer for the three singles allowed by Podres, gave up five hits.

Orlando Cepeda's 20th homer, a two-run shot in the fourth inning, gave it to the Giants as southpaw Mike McCormick (11-8) out-dueled Dick Ellsworth (6-9) with a three-hitter.

Pitt County Gridders Anticipate Rough Work

By JOHNNY HUDSON

Football fans filled the air on the Farmville and Ayden turf this week with the opening of football practice but after five days of work neither of the Pitt county coaches, Stewart Tripp or Elbert Moyer, was predicting championship days ahead.

Both coaches endured several problems during the first week which was devoted to conditioning and fundamentals. Contact work was slated to begin at both schools next week.

"We were disappointed with the number we had out for the opening week . . . only 28," reported Coach Elbert Moyer of Farmville. "Some more boys will be out after school starts but most of these will be junior varsity boys."

More will help us this season. Actually we have only about 15 boys ready to play ball for us now. We have some good boys but not enough of them."

The Farmville coach noted progress had been good in the first week and the squad had reported in "reasonably good physical condition."

Backfield is still the biggest weak for the Farmville coach. "Our line should be good but we need additional help in the backfield," says Moyer.

Workouts were held only once-a-week until yesterday but twice-a-day drills will be the routine now until school starts.

WORK has been primarily light, according to Stewart Tripp, in the Ayden camp although the aspirants have been in heavy attire several times.

"Things are looking fairly good and we should be better than last year but of course it's hard to tell before we begin contact work," says Tripp.

Tripp views the opening of school in a different light from his Farmville foe. "We still have right many boys who haven't come out yet due to working in tobacco. Several of these boys are expected to help us and we don't know our true strength until these boys join us."

Like Moyer, Tripp has experienced the usual number of blisters and sore muscles during the first week but has also been slowed down with minor colds among his squad.

Ayden has been working out twice daily and will continue the training schedule until school opens.

BOTH Pitt schools open their football slate on September 2nd. Farmville will flex its muscles against Snow Hill in a non-conference contest while Ayden journeys to Havelock to open conference warfare.

Practice Briefs

Rose High

The running of Alan MacArthur and John Adams highlighted the offensive play for Rose High griders yesterday afternoon in a short scrimmage.

The two veteran halfbacks broke loose for touchdowns in the first scrimmage and ripped off long gains consistently. The passing of Erskine Duff also stood out in yesterday's butt-heads ceremony.

Ends Jack Foley and Layne Jorgensen were dressed in light gear yesterday following leg injuries in Thursday's drills. Both were expected to be back in heavy gear some time next week.

Tobs Win In Carolina Loop

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Carolina League leader Wilson outlasted Durham, 8-7, in a three-hour game Friday night, while Burlington beat Winston-Salem, 7-4, to remain two games behind Wilson.

Greensboro, in third, downed Raleigh 6-1, George Banks hitting his 19th home run of the year.

Six runs in the sixth inning gave Wilson its margin. The Tobs had to stave off a Durham rally in the eighth. Home runs by John Sullivan and Andy Kosco aided the Wilson cause.

Mitchell Jans's three-run homer in the fifth gave Burlington the lead. Ed Olivares hit his 31st homer of the season to break the Winston-Salem club record set in 1957 by Gene Oliver.

The games tonight: Burlington at Winston-Salem, Raleigh at Greensboro, Wilson at Durham.

Gastonia Winner In Teen-er Event

HERSHEY, Pa. (AP)—Gastonia, N.C., ran roughshod over four opponents to win the Teener Baseball Tournament.

The North Carolinians, undefeated in the five-day tournament, completed the sweep Friday to win the eighth annual event by beating Struthers, Ohio, 12-3, in a soggy championship game.

The final game got under way in a steady rain, at the insistence of both managers.

Struthers' pitchers appeared more affected by the soggy conditions, helping Gastonia get off to a five-run lead in the first inning by yielding four walks, hitting a batsman, making a wild pitch and giving up two singles. Four more runs in the second and three in the fourth inning put the game well out of reach.

Darriel Forrester picked up his second victory of the tournament, holding Struthers to just three hits. His other victory was a one-hit shutout over the Panama Canal Zone.

Forrester also continued his good hitting, getting three for four. His performance earned the trophy as the tournament's outstanding player.

Conference Stronger Each Year

Coach Dan Robinson of Western Carolina feels the North State Conference is getting stronger in football each year.

"It has gotten to a place now where we can't count on freshmen helping us too much but to rely on two or three strong units of veterans in preparing for a season. With the exception of two or three power houses, I think we're playing as good a ball as the general run in the Southern Conference. A boy has to be an outstanding football player to play in this league," explains Robinson.

Catawba is expected to become the second North State school to operate from the single-wing formation this fall. The Indians, ripped to threads by Lenoir Rhyne in the past decade, have adopted the "If you can't lick 'em, join 'em" attitude. Lenoir Rhyne runs from the single-wing attack.

Although showing high respect for the young Catawba team, the census of feeling among North State mentors is that the meeting with Catawba will better help their club in preparing for the potent Lenoir Rhyne club.

And rumors around the league find Guilford dicking with the idea of adding some form of the single-wing with it publicized "flying wing" of 1959.

Parker Visits Local Course

Former Duke All-American Ace Parker stopped in to play a couple of rounds of golf at the Greenville Country Club course early this week. The one-time Blue Devil great played around with Harold Thomas, Reynolds May, Jack Gates and Bo Farley.

Farley, one of the better golfers among prep coaches in the state, was unable to play in the coaches tournament at the recent clinic in Greensboro. He was scheduled for a late start from the tees and was afraid of missing the East-West football game. Instead, he joined up in a pleasure round of golf which included Bill Murray, football coach at Duke.

Cloud Of Mystery For Duke

"Veiled in a cloud of mystery" is the football word Duke University as the Devils prepare to report Aug. 31 and start drills the following day.

Coach Bill Murray has stated Duke will change its method of play but has gone no further.

Blue Devil fans can expect to see the "lonesome" or "swing" end often. This was the "new look" employed by Duke in its spring practice session. The emphasis at Duke for 1960 is obviously on offense which will be a moving away from the "conservation" brand of ball Murray has been noted for.

Steve Nobles, former Rose High athlete, is reportedly headed for East Carolina College this fall. Nobles attended Randolph-Macon last year, playing basketball and football. Because of a transfer rule, he will be ineligible for varsity sports at EC for one year.

Jeff Fountain, center on the 1959 Rose High club, has been working out with the high school team this week. He plans to cast his football talents with N. C. State this fall.

Casper, Hebert Share Golf Lead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP)—Lionel Hebert and Billy Casper, a couple of heavy set belters, today shared the half-way lead at 133 in the $30,000 St. Paul Open Golf Tournament.

Hebert, of Lafayette, La., missed a four-foot putt on the 18th green Friday and that was the kind of trouble he had all day as he picked up a 69 to go with his opening 64.

Casper shaved five strokes off of the Keller course par 72 layout, including an eagle duce on the 11th hole. The Apply Valley, Calif. golfer clipped it in from 80 yards out with a wedge. He shot a 67 after an opening round of 66.

One stroke back of the leaders at 134 were Joe Campbell of New York, the first day co-leader with Hebert, and Don Fairfield of Jacksonville, Ill.

Davis Cup Berth At Stake For Holmberg Today

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — A chance for a spot on the U. S. Davis Cup team may be at stake for Ron Holmberg of Brooklyn today as he meets Earl Buchholz Jr., of St. Louis in the semifinals of the Newport Casino Tennis Tournament.

Buchholz, 19, already is on the team. Off Holmberg's showing this summer, he might be a strong contender for a spot too, particularly if he gets by Buchholz today. Holmberg is seeded second and Buchholz third.

An international match in Sunday's finals is already assured since today's other semifinal is between top-seeded Rod Laver, Australian national champion, and fourth-seeded Bobby Wilson of England. The two have never met.

Holmberg got to the semis Friday with a 6-3, 3-6, 6-3, 3-6, 6-3 victory over Australia's Bob Mark. Buchholz defeated Robert Hewitt of Australia, 6-4, 6-2, 6-4.

Johnny Evans Defeats Favorite In Net Tourney

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The National Public Parks Tennis Tournament is minus defending champion Allen Tong and his conqueror, Johnny Evans of Louisville owns a berth in the finals.

Evans eliminated the UCLA star from Los Angeles in a rugged semifinal match Friday 6-3, 6-2, 10-12, 6-2.

This set up the possibility of an all-Louisville final Sunday since Mickey Schud, of Louisville, faces second-seeded Gerald Dubie, of Hamtramck, in the other semifinal today.

Barnett Stages Tourney Upset

BURLINGTON, N.C. (AP) — Pam Barnett, 17-year-old high school student from Charlotte, defeated medalist Pat Johnson of Spartanburg, S.C. 4 and 2 Friday to win her second straight Carolina Junior Girls golf title.

Lee Frir of Florence, S.C. also kept her Sub-Junior title, downing Peggy Elstein of Winston-Salem 5 and 5.

Miss Barnett was three over par for the match on the 6,200-yard Alameda Country Club course.

Soviet Olympic Stars More Mature Than U.S.

MOSCOW (AP) — Suppose the United States sent a team to the Olympics this month which included Wilt Chamberlain and Paul Pettit in basketball, Floyd Patterson and Archie Moore in boxing and Antonio Rocca in wrestling.

Visualize this and you get an idea of the kind of competition the Americans face in the Soviet Union, a strong favorite again for overall team honors.

Here behind the Iron Curtain there is no such thing as a professional athlete, in the sense the Americans know the term. There are only sportsmen. They are state-trained and state-supported, although most of them hold jobs. They have one driving aim: to win more honors and glory for the Soviet Union.

The Soviet athletes, hardened and conditioned by years of intense training, are, on the whole, much more mature than the American stars they face from the other side of the Atlantic.

"I don't understand why you keep sending new athletes into the Olympics," said one Russian athletic star. "It seems it would be much better if you used the sportsmen on the team before. Certainly they should profit by the experience."

It is impossible. To the non-professional American, sports can be only a sideline. Soon he must go on to greater responsibility.

For the Russian, sports offer prestige, security, a firm place in the Soviet way of life. There is no need to seek further. Sportsmen are the toast of the land.

When a Soviet athlete reaches international stature, it is a common practice to make him a post-graduate student in physical culture. As such, he is paid 800 to 1,000 rubles (80 to 100 a month).

Mustacheoed Albert Azaryan, 31, winner of a gymnastic gold medal at Melbourne, was for years a bjeksmith. Now he is a post-graduate student, weight-lifter Alexi Medvedev was a carpenter. Now he is a post-grad student drawing 1,000 rubles a month.

Most of the star athletes are post-graduates regardless of age or previous schooling. As such, they draw a stipend which is better than the salary of most factory workers, doctors or lawyers.

Port City Club In Legion Finals

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP) — Staunton, Va., and host Wilmington play tonight at 8 p.m. to decide who'll meet Miami, Fla. on Sunday in the finals of the American Legion Junior baseball regional playoffs.

Miami handed Staunton its first defeat Friday night, 5-4 in 11 innings, while Wilmington eliminated East Lake, Ala., 2-1.

A coin toss determined tonight's pairings. Dick Whitesell is likely to start for Staunton against Lou Howard for Wilmington.

Staunton, trailing 4-3, squared the game in the top of the ninth on an error, a stolen base, an infield out and Jerry May's long double. Miami put the game away in the ninth on Bob Schoen's single, an infield out and Dick Emerson's 370-foot double.

Only one run was earned in the Wilmington-East Lake game. Wilmington scored its winning run in the eighth inning when Quentin Parker got on base on a fielder's choice and came all the way around on successive errors by East Lake first baseman Wheeler Bice and shortstop Charles Lynn.

Two Collisions In City Friday

Damage, estimated at over $1,400, resulted from two collisions in the city limits yesterday, police reported.

Heaviest damage resulted when two vehicles collided at the intersection of Chestnut St. and Paris Ave. about 10:10 a.m. The drivers of the vehicles were listed as James Thomas Barnes, 44-year-old Negro of 301-A Center St and Elizabeth Ann Eason, 22, of 102-A West Fourth St.

Investigators, who charged Miss Eason with failure to yield the right of way, said her car was headed south on Paris Ave. at the time of the collision. The Barnes vehicle, a truck, was traveling east on Chestnut.

Mrs. Mamie Mae Jarvis of 302 Manhattan Ave. received treatment at Pitt Memorial Hospital for bruises received in the collision and was released. She was a passenger in the Eason car.

Damage to the car was set at $700 while damage to the truck was placed at $400.

An estimated $500 damage resulted to a car driven by Jo Anne Speight, 16, of College Park Trailer Court, when it was involved in a collision with a car operated by Allen Thomas Venters, 26, of Ayden at the intersection of Dickinson Ave. and Wilson St. last night.

Police, who charged Venters with exceeding a safe speed, said the Speight auto was headed east on Dickinson and was attempting to make a left turn onto Wilson St. when it was hit by the Venters car, headed west on Dickinson.

An estimated $200 damage resulted to the Venters car, officers reported. The wreck occurred about 10:30 p.m.

ECC To Present Plans For Its Branch College

Dean Robert L. Holt of East Carolina College said today that "in keeping with the suggestion of the Higher Board of Education of North Carolina, East Carolina College plans to file a detailed proposal for a branch at Camp Lejeune."

The state board Friday outlined steps that the college officials must take before it can carry out the proposal for establishing a branch college at Camp Lejeune Marine Base.

Holt said the college has operated extension courses at the military installation for about six years. The military requested that the college consider a branch there, and the college studied the proposal before submitting it to the State Board of Higher Education.

Holt emphasized that "in the event that East Carolina College should establish a branch school at Camp Lejeune, it will be done so in accordance with the requirements of Standard 14, of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, which means that the branch would be fully accredited by the Southern Association."

The State Board said the following steps must be taken if the college is interested in a branch at the military base: Show the board that the branch college will be self-supporting through tuition payments provided by the military; meet standards set down by the Southern Association; set up a budget, including the number of persons likely to enroll in the branch and the number of teachers required.

Dr. Ralph Brimley of East Carolina College, in charge of the extension division, said E.C.C. will work with the marines and the administration on preparing a report to be sent to the State Board of Higher Education for their approval.

Brimley said, "We will follow their requests, and turn in information concerning budgets, classes, instructors and the like."

Brimley said that extension classes at Camp Lejeune had been in operation for about six years, with instructors traveling to Camp Lejeune to conduct night classes. He commented that the program has been building up fast. The Marine Corps have put a very decided emphasis on education and believe that the Marine Corps needs educated men," he said.

The extension division has plans to operate 27 classes beginning in mid September, Brimley said, with one teacher for each class. Subjects include English, geography, mathematics, humanities, social studies, business, education and language, including Russian and Spanish.

He commented that many of the men taking extension courses become interested enough in college level work to resume college when they are discharged from the Marine Corps. He said some of them come to East Carolina College, but that his office had sent transcripts of extension work "all over the world."

Brimley emphasized that these 27 classes would be operated as extension work, and that if the branch school is approved by the higher board, the school will take further steps to set up the branch.

AYDEN — Two Negro brothers were arrested early last night on the western edge of Ayden on N.C. 102 when they threw a case containing three and one-half gallons of non-taxed whiskey from their car as the lawmen attempted to stop the vehicle.

According to officers, Roosevelt Thigpen, 31, and Robert Thigpen, 24, both of Ayden, were charged with transporting and possessing non-tax-paid whiskey for the purpose of sale after their vehicle was stopped. The lawmen pointed out that all but one gallon of the illegal booze was broken in the fall from the auto.

The two were placed in the Ayden jail under a $500 bond for trial in the Ayden court Monday. Their car, a 1951 model, is being held by police pending action by the court.

Officers taking part in the arrests around 8:10 p.m. included Pitt County ABC officers J. M. Ward and H. B. Lilley, James Ross, Acting Chief of Police of Ayden; and Ayden Township Constable Joel Wingate.

Apply Asphalt In Street-Widening

The first coat of asphalt was being applied this morning to the local $10,000 widening project on 10th St., City Manager L. P. Bloxam reported.

Curbing and gutter installation has already been completed on the entire project that stretches along 10th St. from Charles to Clark.

Bloxam said the operation should be completed early today. Then, he said, the new surfacing will be open to traffic for a few to allow packing before the finished coat is applied.

Given desirable weather, Bloxam said, the finished coat should be in place within the next week or 10 days.

Future plans include similar widening of the south side of the same stretch of 10th St. The current project is widening the north side.

Now Every Day A Fishing Day

THE TAR RIVER . . . is pictured here in a typical scene, which invites you to rent a boat and enjoy a day of fishing. The fishing boats may be rented at various spots along the shore near Greenville.

FISHING EQUIPMENT HELPS . . . collecting rods and reels, as well as all sorts of "bugs" and artificial bait, becomes as much a hobby to some as fishing itself.

IF THEY DON'T GET RESULTS . . . from the shore, they may try the boat. Here, Mr. Teel has switched to a rod and reel, with artificial bait.

By PATRICIA MOORE
Reflector Staff Writer

Come hot weather time, and every day is a fishing day for many residents of Pitt County.

This occupation, a livelihood for some, sport for some and recreation for others, is not limited to the menfolk, though they certainly are in the majority. Some have wives who tag along, but the man may have to bait her hook!

Pitt County abounds in places to fish. The Tar River probably is the most popular place. Wildlife protector Joe Teel says. This river, which over the years has meant so many things to many people—once filled with boats, a major source of transportation, the source of the town's water supply—now beckons to the fisherman.

Fishing in the river has been very good this summer, Teel says, though the rains have swollen the waters and they've been high, at times.

Some of the other popular places to fish, Teel says, are Big Contentnea Creek, Tranters Creek near Little Washington, Chicod Creek at Grimesland, and, of course, the ponds.

But if you fish in a pond, you usually need the permission of the owner.

The Pond

To the farmer, a farm pond serves two purposes: irrigation and fishing. Mr. and Mrs. Medis M. Teel of Greenville have such a pond, which they had made under contract with the state of North Carolina. Many other farmers have done the very same thing on their farms.

Under these contracts, the state will dig out the pond in exchange for the dirt, which is used for the state highways. The only catch is, the dirt must meet qualifications for use in the highway system.

After the pond was finished, Teel, stocked it through the U. S. Department of Soil and Conservation, with 500 bream and 50 bass. The bass naturally eat some of the bream, a smaller fish, and the number becomes more balanced.

Mr. and Mrs. Teel are both fishing enthusiasts, and in their one-acre pond, they may fish from the shore, or use the flat bottom boat for deeper water fishing. Mrs. Teel sticks to the bamboo fishing pole and live bait, while her husband uses both the bamboo pole and sometimes a rod and reel with artificial bait.

They take pains not to let foreigners get in the pond, such as snakes, turtles and tarapins, and not to have "rough" fish put into the pond by mistake.

Fishing Necessities

Wildlife Protector Joe Teel says that residents of Pitt County can fish in their own county without fishing licenses as long as they use natural bait, such as shrimp or worms. Use of artificial bait calls for a fishing license, which can be obtained at most hardware stores.

Teel said the fishing license alone is $4.10 and a hunting license is the same price; however, a combination may be obtained for $5.25, which is getting to be more popular now, Teel said.

The fisherman may fish in sounds and oceans without a license.

As for quotas on the fish you catch, 25 is the limit for perch, which includes bream, robin, white perch. The limit for bass is 8 and they have to be 10 inches long. Rock, or the striped bass, have to be 12 inches long, and the limit is 25.

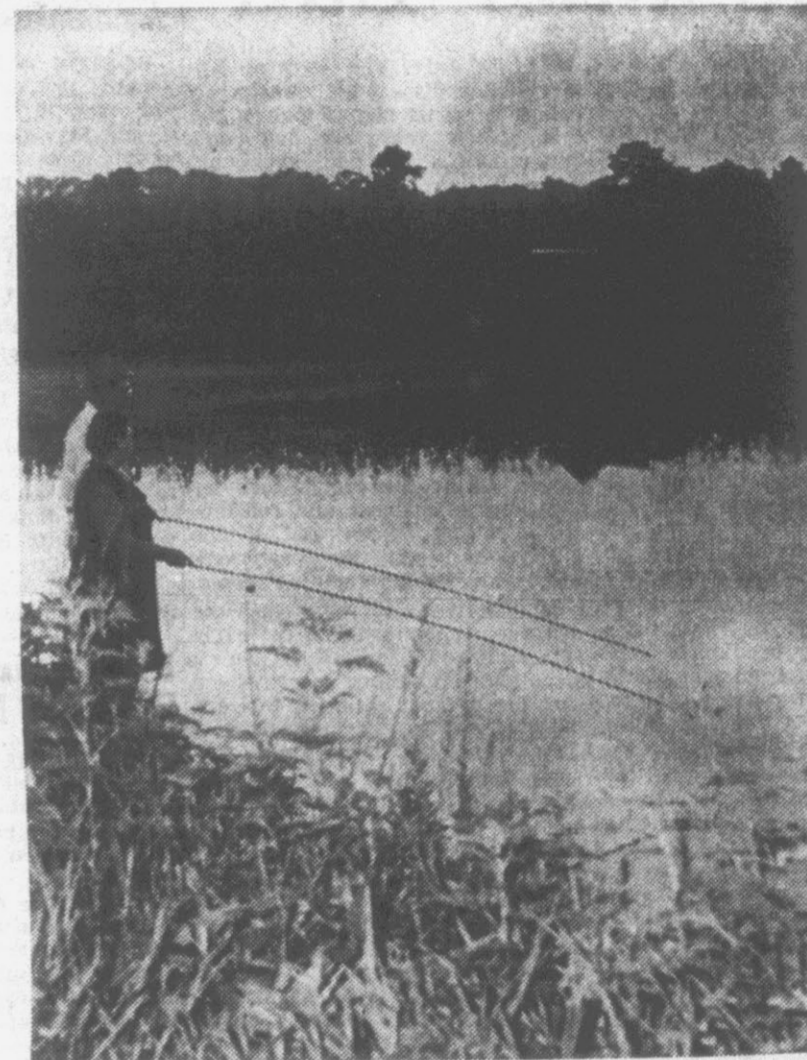

This year, Teel says the fish most caught are bass, bream and robin, and recently the white perch, which is a bit unusual for this time of the season.

The best times to fish are spring and fall, when the nights begin to cool and the water is cooler. Though sometimes a fisherman has luck anytime throughout the day, the early morning and late afternoon, again when it is slightly cooler, are better times of the day to fish, Teel says.

Besides keeping check on fishermen's licenses, the number of fish they catch, and the streams, Teel has a newer duty which relates to fishing. Ponds that are powered with over a 10 horsepower motor must be numbered. They must have a life preserver for each passenger and lights at night to operate.

Teel has been wildlife protector in Pitt County for 23 years. He is employed by the N.C. Wildlife Resources Commission and has about 23 license agents over the county who are dealers and may sell fishing licenses.

THEIR OWN POND . . . is a wonderful haven for Mr. and Mrs. Medis M. Teel, who had it built on their farm near Greenville. Here both fish from the shore, using bamboo poles.

OBVIOUSLY . . . Mr. Teel knows his business. Using his rod and reel and artificial bait, he pulls in a nice bass.

Tipsy Marine's Phone Call Sets Off A Vacation Chain

By PATRICK MCNULTY
LAGUNA BEACH, Calif. (AP)—A little man from Peoria is about to become the biggest man in Laguna Beach—thanks to a million-to-one spot telephone call from a slightly befogged Marine. He is Melvin Miller, married, father of three, hitherto unsung employe of a tractor firm in his Illinois town.

The Marine is Capt. Joe Gestson of Camp Pendleton, near here. He's a 32-year-old career man, rugged, extroverted, lover of jokes, lover of telephonic communication.

What promises to become known as "The Saga of Melvin Miller" started last fall when Gestson and buddies from Pendleton and nearby El Toro Marine bases wound up a wet Labor Day in their favorite off-duty fox-hole, the Sandpiper Bar.

Gestson had forgotten where he parked his car and, feeling the need of a navigator for the homeward journey, tried to call a friend. Somehow, he wound up with a long-distance operator.

Through some mystic mischance resulting from a blend of brandy and modern electronics, he wound up talking to hero-to-be Melvin Miller, in Peoria.

"This is Joe down at the Sandpipor," Gestson barked. "Where the hell is my car?"

"This is Melvin Miller and I don't know any sandpipers," responded the voice in Peoria.

There was more, but the conversation ended when Melvin said: "Listen, it's Labor Day here in Peoria—and I'm much too busy for your college boy pranks."

Gestson took a cab home. Next day, while marching off his hangover, he remembered, "Melvin Miller, Peoria."

A few weeks later, from a party, Gestson called Melvin again.

"Listen, Mel, this is Joe Gestson in Laguna Beach. We're having a party and we're out of ice. Could you bring some over?"

Mel, still thinking he was being kidded by a Peoria prankster, nonetheless chatted amiably. Next day, Gestson sent him a post card to prove that the call came from California.

The story got a big laugh down at the Sandpiper. It seemed so droll they decided to stretch it.

Gestson got a box of Christmas cards, signed them, and handed them out to anyone going anywhere. Came Christmas and Melvin was deluged with season's greetings from such exotic spots as Japan, Hawaii, Cuba—even from ships at sea.

Every once in a while Gestson phoned Melvin. They became "Joe" and "Good ole Mel."

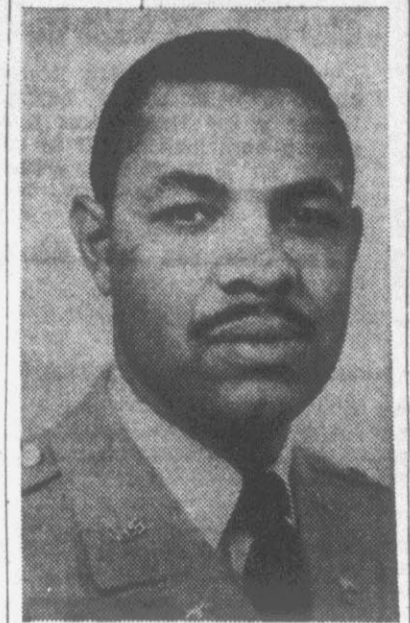

One winter day Gestson banged his stinger glass on the bar and told bartender Grant Maxwell:

"Let's bring Mel to Laguna!" Maxwell cooperated by posting

A Turning Point In Summer Lull

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—With the third quarter of the year just past the halfway point, business today is totting up:

1. How much of a lull the summer has brought in industrial and trade activities.

2. How strong are the signs of a business upturn in the fall.

At the midway point the best answers seem to be: The summer lull was just about what was expected in most fields subject to this seasonal cycle and also in those going through their own individual recessions this year. But most signs of a strong rebound are either lacking or delayed beyond expectations or hopes.

On either side of this view are the optimists and the pessimists. Both are offering predictions freely, some based on current statistics and some on guesses on what the current lull is building up to.

Those who think that 1960 has seen its worst days and that the year will go down in the books as a short readjustment to reality after over-enthusiastic hopes, make these points:

Industrial production held

Damaged Little Cars Returning

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — More than a thousand little cars are going back to France for repairs.

The 1,303 new Renaults were damaged in a June flood while on a storage lot.

"The water was waist deep on a tall man," a Renault company spokesman said. "That's pretty deep on Renault."

Ivy-Covered Wall Is Also Ruinous

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP)—Forget that "ivy-covered" bit—it's ruining the walls.

At least that seems to be the case at the Naval Academy where the Department of Public Works is busy removing the ivy from the walls of the academy chapel.

The greenery is being removed because roots have grown into the cement between the bricks and have gradually begun to deteriorate the walls.

RIGHT AT HOME — Nancy Cooke of Fayetteville will be at home when she competes next week with other majorettes and baton twirlers for the Majorette Queen of America title. Nancy placed second in the Miss Majorette of Dixie contest. The week-long contest is sponsored by the Fayetteville chapter of Optimist International.

steadily in July. The Federal Reserve Board's index was two points below its record high of the first of the year, but one point better than a year ago. This could mean it has hit bottom for this cycle and is ready to move higher as industry gets going in the fall.

Employment has climbed to a new high, even if four million persons are still out of work.

Consumer spending has stayed high—strong buying in the non-durable fields offsetting a letup in durable purchases.

Money and credit are getting easier, laying the groundwork for a pickup in business and consumer borrowing, when and if the businessman and his customers decide to step up their activities.

But happy as they are that the downturn that started in the early spring hasn't developed into a steep slide, many are unconvinced that the present situation foretells much of an upturn in the fall.

They note these deterrents: The stock market shows no signs of expecting a new boom. And the market has a big effect on public thinking.

The profit squeeze holds businessmen back from making expansion plans. Even though pushing sales into record high ground, many companies have reported lower earnings. And a sizable number see little hope of a quick reversal of that trend.

Factory orders for durable goods were expected by many to have turned up before this. The delay is making many businessmen nervous.

BLONDIE
by CHIC YOUNG
DAGWOOD—IT'S TIME TO GET UP—HURRY!
BUT IT'S AN HOUR EARLIER THAN USUAL

WASN'T IT NICE TO BE ABLE TO READ YOUR PAPER AND EAT A LEISURELY BREAKFAST FOR A CHANGE?
I'VE REALLY BEEN MISSING SOMETHING ALL THESE YEARS

GETTING UP AN HOUR EARLIER HAS ITS GOOD POINTS, BUT I CAN'T KEEP MY EYES OPEN

DITHERS?—I'M THE EFFICIENCY EXPERT YOU SENT FOR
I WANT YOU TO FIND OUT WHY THIS PLACE IS RUNNING LIKE A WAGON TRAIN IN THE ROCKET AGE

WITH YOUR PERMISSION, I'LL SNOOP AROUND, INCOGNITO, AND UNCOVER THE DEAD WOOD
THAT'S WHY YOU'RE HERE—WHAT YOU SAY GOES

LET'S BUILD A HOUSE WITH THE LEDGERS AND STUFF AND HAVE KITTY AT THE SWITCHBOARD RING HIS PHONE
YEAH—THAT WAS A RIOT THE LAST TIME

IT'LL TAKE HIM A WEEK TO STRAIGHTEN UP THIS MESS
TAKE THE REMAINDER OF THE DAY OFF AND REST YOUR POOR TIRED BRAIN

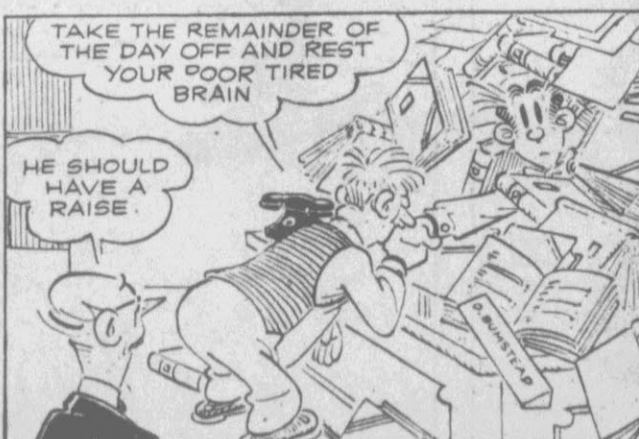

DITHERS, I'VE FOUND YOUR BOTTLENECK!
BEAT IT, QUICK—HERE COMES THE BOSS!
IT SURE PAYS TO HIRE A PRO

THIS MAN IS OVERBURDENED—HE'S LITERALLY ENGULFED WITH WORK
AND I THOUGHT HE WAS A LAZY OAF

COME OUT FROM UNDER YOUR WORK LOAD, DEAR BOY, AND ACCEPT MY HUMBLE APOLOGY
IN ALL MY YEARS IN EFFICIENCY, I'VE NEVER SEEN THE LIKES OF THIS

HE SHOULD HAVE A RAISE

AND HE GAVE YOU A RAISE?
YEAH—THERE'S REALLY SOMETHING TO THIS GETTING-UP-EARLY BUSINESS
