Something Different, Two Parties Will Woo Tar Heels

By NOEL YANCEY

RALEIGH (AP)—Tar Heel voters are in for something new this fall — they're going to be wooed ardently by major figures in both political parties.

For the first time since 1928, the state is regarded as a real battleground in a national political campaign.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon, the Republican nominee for president, was given a warm greeting in Greensboro last week by upwards of 14,000 enthusiastic Tar Heels. Nixon was so encouraged that he promised to return before election day, and reports from Washington said he planned to intensify his campaign throughout the South.

Republicans also are hoping to bring to North Carolina Nixon's running mate, Henry Cabot Lodge, for speeches. Republican gubernatorial nominee Robert L. Gavin also has been waging an intensive campaign.

It wasn't long after Nixon's visit that Democrats announced their presidential nominee, Sen. John F. Kennedy, will visit the state on Sept. 17 and likely will visit several centers in a whirlwind tour. Kennedy's running mate, Sen. Lyndon Johnson, also is expected to make one or more campaign forays into North Carolina.

This week, Democratic leaders from North Carolina flew to Washington to make plans for the fall campaign—plans that call for at least two rallies in each of the 12 congressional districts and probably more.

Reporters covering the session heard expressions describing the current political situation in the state as "alarming" and "the worst I've ever seen."

Rep. A. Paul Kitchin of the Eighth District was quoted as say-

Precipitation Here Each Day Since Sunday

It's been a rainy, dismal week for Pitt County, even though the opening of tobacco market brought a golden glow to it all.

Greenville Utilities weather observers reported there has been some precipitation each day since Sunday, and for the last two or three days skies have been overcast all day.

The Utilities reported a total rainfall for the week of 3.89 inches through midnight last night. Observers had to go back to last Sunday midnight to find a reading in which no rainfall was recorded.

Monday midnight the precipitation gauge showed a rainfall of .9 of an inch. Tuesday midnight the reading was .98 of an inch. Wednesday the reading was .04 of an inch. A deluge hit this area Thursday and 1.45 inches of rainfall were recorded that night. Last night at midnight the reading was .52 of an inch.

Clouds still hung over Greenville this morning and it was misty.

Gloomy days of this week brought relief from the summer temperatures, however. Yesterday's high, recorded by the Utilities Commission, was a comfortable 75 degrees. Low for the day was 67 degrees and at 8 o'clock this morning the thermometer stood at 72 degrees.

Winds were out of the southwest at three to nine miles per hour.

The Tar River stood at nine feet three inches this morning.

Nixon's Welcome In South Is Called Portent Of Demo Woes

WASHINGTON (AP)—Enthused by crowds that greeted him on his second Southern campaign trip, Vice President Richard M. Nixon says he thinks the Democratic ticket is in real trouble in the South.

"The Democrats no longer can consider any Southern state safe," he added.

The presidential campaign is only a few weeks old, but already Nixon has shattered a political tradition.

Since reconstruction days, the belief has been that the deep South is barren, dismal ground for Republican presidential candidates. With the exception of Dwight D. Eisenhower, who campaigned in Alabama and Georgia in 1952, Republican candidates have concentrated their fire where the prospects looked much better.

But Nixon has invaded the South twice. Last week he was in Greensboro, N.C., and Friday he plowed further south, with these results:

He was given a warm welcome in Birmingham, Ala., and then hit the political jackpot in Atlanta.

On his arrival back in Washington Friday night Nixon issued a statement in which he said:

"The size and the enthusiasm of the crowds exceeded the highest estimates we had received in advance. We now believe that the Kennedy-Johnson ticket is in real trouble in the South and they no longer can consider any Southern state safe."

"And I hope that this trip, together with our trip to Greensboro, N.C., will forever have broken the unhealthy pattern in which the Democratic presidential candidate never bothered to campaign in the South and took it for granted and the Republican candidate on the other hand conceded it."

"Those who have often traveled with Nixon say that you would have to go abroad, to his trip to Warsaw, to recall a welcome more enthusiastic than the one Atlanta gave him."

The Nixon motorcade went down Peachtree Street to the heart of Atlanta. Five Points, where it turned on Edgewood.

All along the crowd was large and enthusiastic. At Five Points it got out of hand. The Nixon car was stopped by the surging throng.

Nixon, his hair filled with confetti, got out and started busily shaking hands.

Mrs. Nixon kept smiling.

But the police and secret service were not amused, and it took their combined efforts to get the motorcade moving again.

Then it moved so slowly that young people could easily keep up by running along, so that the motorcycle police at times were literally forcing their way through. Police Chief H. T. Jenkins figured the crowd at 200,000.

In Atlanta and in Birmingham Nixon made almost identical pitches to the voters.

The South has been neglected, he said, by candidates of both parties.

Nixon said Eisenhower is the only presidential candidate in 25 years to visit Alabama and Georgia.

And he made this plea to his audiences:

"If the decision the voters make

Favors Broader Appointive Right

RALEIGH (AP)—Broader appointive powers for the government were proposed Friday by Paul A. Johnston on the eve of his departure from state government.

Johnston, ending three years as director of the Department of Administration, said he feels four top officials now elected by the people should be appointed by the governor.

Two others now elected should be appointed in other ways, he suggested in a biennial report to Gov. Hodges.

Johnston proposed that the secretary of state, commissioner of agriculture, commissioner of insurance, and commissioner of labor be named by the governor.

He said consideration should be given to having the state auditor selected by and responsible to the Legislature, and to having the superintendent of public instruction selected by and responsible to the state board of education.

Amendments to the state constitution would be required to make the proposals effective.

Johnston noted that the governor, as head of the executive branch of government, should have authority to pick department heads. Exceptions, he added, should be the state treasurer and attorney general.

Gang Of Youths Tries Take Over Park In Belmont

BELMONT, N.C. (AP)—Police said today a gang of youths from Gastonia, armed with knives, chains, brass knuckles and belt buckles, started a fight in a park here Friday night. Two persons were injured.

Belmont Police Chief Frank Carpenter said it was a near miracle that no one was seriously hurt. He said about 2,000 persons were milling around in the park during the fight.

Fourteen persons were arrested on charges of creating a disturbance.

The chief said about 25 were in the gang, which calls itself The Untouchables. Carpenter said the fight started the fight with the avowed intention of taking over the park.

One man suffered cuts on the arm, and another received a cut on the head.

Those arrested face trial in Belmont Recorder's Court Sept. 1.

Deserter Brings Spy Accusation

MOSCOW (AP)—An American GI deserter accused the U.S. Army attaché in Moscow of espionage activities in what could forestall another Soviet ouster action.

The Air Force vice chief of staff said he did not think "most Americans realize what work stoppage and slowdowns can do to our defense effort. I am not entirely sure in my own mind that all echelons of industry and labor realize the full meaning."

He spoke to the Convair Management Club and the Fort Worth Air Power Council.

He said that as of today U.S. forces are strong enough both to prevent war and win it. He said the Soviets lack the forces "capable of prevailing under all circumstances."

Plan Furloughs If Strike Called

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Pennsylvania Railroad has notified 52,000 employees they will be furloughed in the event of a strike set for Sept. 1.

Notices to the employees were posted Friday at the railroad—the nation's largest—prepared to meet Monday with the Transport Workers Union and the National Mediation Board.

The furlough notices do not affect 2,000 managerial employees, the main issues in the dispute are the contracting out of work by the PRR and work rules.

Congolese, UN Troops Clash; Americans Beaten

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—Congolese soldiers today attacked an American Air Force Globemaster in Stanleyville and beat up and seized three of its crew members.

United Nations headquarters here announced that "two or three" other crew members were missing.

Almost at the same time, the Congolese army raided the United Nations office in Stanleyville, where it clashed with U.N. personnel.

The United Nations said three U.N. officials were under arrest and "two of them are wounded."

A U.N. spokesman said early reports identified the two wounded men as Canadians and the third a Swede.

United Nations officials said the situation in the area appeared completely "out of hand."

Premier Patrice Lumumba flew to Stanleyville this morning in his new Russian plane. He invited several newsmen along, saying "you will see how peaceful everything is there."

With the Premier in the plane, presented to him recently by the Soviet government, were some Congolese officials. A Soviet crew flew the craft.

The Premier said at a news conference Friday he wanted to show the world how well Stanleyville is being run under the Congolese police and army.

Congolese troops in Stanleyville never have laid down their arms. Until recently they have controlled the airport there. Business in the city is practically at a standstill, and shipping in the river port there is greatly reduced, recent visitors reported.

ELISABETHVILLE, the Congo (AP)—Three hundred troops of Premier Patrice Lumumba's Congo army today captured Bakwanga, capital of the forlorn-old "mineral state" of southeastern Kasai Province, the leader of the secessionist region said.

Albert Kalonji, chief of the breakaway state, said Lumumba's forces had entered his capital at 8 a. m.

He claimed they were led by three officers of the Communist Czechoslovakian army and that the forces included some troops from Guinea, which was contributed to U. N. forces in the Congo.

He also charged that Tunisian troops of the U. N. force in Bakwanga prevented his army from defending the town.

He said all communications between Katanga and Bakwanga had been cut now but it was known that Tunisian troops had disarmed the Bakwanga garrison, confiscated its weapons and prevented it from using the radio station and airfield.

Kalonji refused to admit that the capture of Bakwanga meant the end of his state and said that the remainder of his 800-man army would fight back from other parts of his "republic."

He said he left 10 members of his cabinet in Bakwanga and it was not known what had happened to them.

Kalonji, who flew from Bakwanga to Elisabethville Wednesday, was asked if he would return to his state. He replied: "That depends on the circumstances."

Kalonji appealed to all forces of the free world, especially the United States, Britain, France and the independent states of former French Africa, to send volunteer detachments to help in the fight against "Lumumba aggression."

"I asked Belgium to help, but this appeal has had no results," he said.

Kalonji said he also had asked the Tunisian government to inform its troops in the Congo exactly what powers they had and to define the limits of these powers clearly.

"Tunisian troops in Bakwanga are preparing the way for Lumumba's army," he declared.

Latin American Ministers Evading U.S. Charges, Condemning Castro

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica (AP)—Latin American foreign ministers today hammered out a draft resolution which would sidestep U.S. charges against Fidel Castro but condemn Nikita Khrushchev for making rocket threats in defense of Cuba.

A compromise worked out by four nations faced possible changes and even bitter debate before being finally approved by the 20 ministers of the Organization of American States.

The proposal specifically denounced the Soviet premier for threatening to rain rockets on the American mainland if the United States intervenes in Cuba.

The United States had called for an outright condemnation of Communist penetration of the Western Hemisphere and charged that Castro was an ally of the Soviet bloc.

The Cuban leader has pledged friendship for the Soviet Union and Red China in defiance of any move by the OAS to rebuke him.

The draft was drawn up by a working committee of ministers from Mexico, Chile, Uruguay and Colombia after a grueling four-hour session that lasted until 2 a. m.

The proposal was slated to get an airing later today before a 10-nation committee named by the Organization of American States to prepare a final resolution on extracontinental menaces and subversive activities.

Later it will go to the full Council of Ministers meeting here. A widely divided vote may result if the draft fails to meet Cuba's objections.

The move for a compromise came after the 20 OAS ministers split over U.S. demand that they condemn Castro's leftward march for piercing the wall of hemispheric solidarity against Communism.

Secretary of State Christian A. Herter ran into opposition with some nations holding out for a watered down draft which would merely condemn "extracontinental intervention" without naming Castro's regime, the Soviet Union or Red China.

Cuban Foreign Minister Raul Roa has twice avoided any formal repudiation of Khrushchev's threat to fire missiles against the United States if the United States sought to intervene in Cuba.

Other points approved by the working group calls on the ministers to reject any reference to intervention in affairs of the Western Hemisphere; Reaffirm the principle of nonintervention; reaffirm the right of peoples to develop their countries as they choose; declare against any form of totalitarianism; seek peaceful settlement of disputes, and reaffirm faith in the regional system.

The committee of 10 foreign ministers was named in hope of healing the breach between adherents of a hard policy espoused by the United States and those who want a milder resolution.

The committee consists of Colombia, Costa Rica, Panama, Honduras, Mexico, Brazil, Venezuela, Uruguay, El Salvador and Argentina.

Chile was reported to have readied a compromise resolution that appeared to have majority support. It would condemn foreign intervention and reaffirm faith in the inter-American system.

There were also reports the final draft would include a Colombian proposal that a committee be formed to try to resolve Cuban-U.S. differences. It would also note Cuba's offer Thursday to negotiate with the United States.

The United States has made it plain it wants a resolution that would avoid highlighting its differences with Castro and concentrate instead on Cuba's swing to the left as a danger to the hemisphere.

Cuba's Foreign Minister Raul Roa has made a direct effort to capitalize on the sympathy existing in many Latin American nations for the Cuban revolution itself.

Roa has accused the United States of pegging that the revolution was and is entirely a home-bred movement. He derided U.S. charges that the Castro regime was becoming a captive of the Communists.

Roa told the conference Friday that "Cuba is not walking hand in hand with any bloc."

Leaf Marts Look To Coming Week

Tobacco markets in Greenville, Farmville, and Robersonville closed out their first week's sales activity with sales averages ranging from $1.16 to $2.30 below the Eastern Belt's average for the four days on $56 even.

Greenville posted a mark of $53.91 after yesterday's sale of 1,464,906 pounds. Growers receipts totaled $789,734.

Sales supervisor W. L. Whedbee said today the "floors were still dominated yesterday by low grade primings and lugs, with a substantial amount of tips. The market yesterday was stronger with more competition than we've seen before this season."

"Farmers," he said, "seemed to be satisfied with prices received for offerings made."

Farmville chalked up a sales average figure of $54.16 per 100 pounds from the sale of 587,536 pounds that paid growers a total $318,181.

Farmville prices and offerings remained about the same.

The Robersonville market recorded sales of 213,996 pounds that paid growers a total $113,403—an average of $52.99 per 100 pounds.

Prices, grade-for-grade, remained steady. A slight rise in quality of offerings was noted.

All three markets anticipated today "good" sales next week, but officials were anxiously watching overcast skies.

In Greenville, Whedbee urged growers to "keep tobacco dry in this excessive damp weather we're having." He pointed out prices would drop if wet tobacco showed up on the floors.

"As yet, though," he said, "we haven't run into any wet tobacco amount to anything."

The four-day totals for the 17-market Eastern Belt as reported today by the Federal-State Marketing News Service in Wilson stood at:

Total poundage—37,561,316; total receipts—$21,095,073; and sales average—$56.00.

Marketing News figures for the three area markets this week were: Greenville: poundage—5,646,604; receipts—$3,096,875; average—$54.84.

Farmville: poundage—2,257,330; receipts—$1,112,633; average—$53.72.

Robersonville: poundage—1,711,756; receipts—$629,389; average—$57.00.

(Robersonville figures were adjusted by the Reflector to allow for a correction of the Wilson office's figures for Wednesday's sales. Robersonville authorities notified the Reflector of the correction.)

General Warns Disputes Hurt Defense Goals

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—Gen. Curtis E. Lemay said Friday night that the United States has "fallen behind in our timetable in certain critical areas" and appealed to labor and management to solve their disputes without crippling defense projects.

The Air Force vice chief of staff said he did not think "most Americans realize what work stoppage and slowdowns can do to our defense effort. I am not entirely sure in my own mind that all echelons of industry and labor realize the full meaning."

He spoke to the Convair Management Club and the Fort Worth Air Power Council.

He said that as of today U.S. forces are strong enough both to prevent war and win it. He said the Soviets lack the forces "capable of prevailing under all circumstances."

Holloman Named Budget Officer

RALEIGH (AP)—Charles R. Holloman has been promoted to the post of state budget officer.

The appointment was announced Friday by D. S. Coltrane, whom Holloman will succeed. Coltrane has been selected by Gov. Hodges to head the department of administration.

Both Coltrane and Holloman will take over their jobs Sept. 1. Coltrane succeeds Paul A. Johnston, who resigned after three years as administration director.

Grand Jury Notes 10 Magistrates Delinquent

The Pitt County Grand Jury this week reported to the current term of Superior Court here 10 county magistrates delinquent in filing monthly reports at the office of the Clerk of Superior Court.

The Grand Jury report said, "Magistrates' returns in the Clerk of Superior Court's office were inspected and no irregularities found."

It was noted that there were no reports during 1960 from the following magistrates:

"Alton B. Clements, George Kirtrell, Virginia Stancill, W. E. Gardner, Jack M. Collins and Roland R. Cannon.

"No reports since April, 1960, have been filed by Gene McLawhorn, H. T. Savage and A. C. Jackson. The last report filed by C. A. Lilley was in June, 1960."

Justices-of-the-peace are required by state law to file monthly reports of their activities at the clerk's office to be forwarded to the State Revenue Dept. and the county Grand Jury.

True Bills

The new Grand Jury received 23 bills of indictment and returned 21 marked "true bills." Two were not passed on because the prosecuting witness in each, a highway patrolman, was not available.

The 18-man body submitted reports on jail, courthouse, county home, and school bus inspection.

The report read: "Committees of the Grand Jury inspected the jails at Bethel, Fountain Grimesland, Farmville, Winterville, Grifton Ayden, Greenville, Pitt County and the State Prison Camp and found them to be in good condition."

"It is, however, recommended that the kitchen, office area and jailer's sleeping quarters in the Pitt County Jail be painted. Also, some of the window sashes need repair as rain will sometimes beat through.

"The courthouse was inspected and found to be in good condition. Many of the offices are crowded and more space will have to be provided in the not too distant future if county affairs are to be handled efficiently.

"A report of the Highway Patrol's inspection of the county school buses dated April 23, 1960, was examined. All buses were found to be in good mechanical condition. We were informed that an inspection will be made this week of all buses to determine their fitness prior to the opening of school.

"The County Home was also inspected and found to be in good repair. It was clean and well kept."

Members of the new panel are: Foreman E. S. Webb, Lonnie G. Briley, Karl G. Cahoon, Johnnie Cooley, W. B. Dillingham, J. M.

Flake, M. V. Jones, Max Ray Joyner, James E. Lewis, Jay Edwards, M. L. Kirtrell, Guilford Lewis, William Jarvis Leggett, W. S. Moye Jr., R. S. Samrell, Gene T. Skinner, E. J. Wallace Jr. and Jimmie Wrenn.

True bills returned included: Delma Wilkins, murder; Johnnie Luther Moore, rape; Friendly Barnes, escape; David Sutton, escape; James Davis McIntire, public drunkenness and no operator's license; Billy E. Stainback, attempted arson; Frances Jones, no operator's license, careless and reckless driving and disorderly conduct; Perry Stonewall Mills, drunken driving; Julian Craft Smith Jr., speeding; A. D. Taylor, speeding in a safe speed and manslaughter; Henry Leon Turner, drunken driving and hit and run; Connie Earl King, drunken driving; and Wiley Clark, disposing of mortgaged property.

Jordan Chosen Campaign Chief

RALEIGH (AP)—Dr. Henry W. Jordan will serve as campaign director for the Democratic ticket this fall.

He was picked for the job Friday by Bert Bennett, state Democratic chairman. "We are counting heavily on him, both here at state headquarters and in the field," Bennett declared.

Dr. Jordan is a dentist and textile manufacturer who lives in Cedar Falls. He served on the State Highway Commission under R. Gregg Cherry, and he was named chairman of the commission by Gov. W. Kerr Scott. A brother, B. Everett Jordan, is junior U.S. senator from North Carolina.

Conduct Workshop in 'Oldest Music'

By BILL DEAN
BOYS TOWN, Neb. (AP)—Down in the cottages the kids were rocking to a platter by Tommy Sands or snapping their fingers to Bobby Darin's rhythms.

But on the hill, from the open windows of the music hall, drifted some of the western world's oldest music, the Gregorian chant.

The chant was the focal point for more than 100 men and women from 32 states and Canada who attended Boys Town's annual liturgical music workshop which ended today.

"The chant is the root of Western music," says Roger Wagner, director of the chorale which bears his name and a member of the workshop faculty.

"The chant is the supreme model for good liturgical music," agrees the Rev. Francis Brunner of Grand Rapids, Mich., another faculty member.

In a large measure, the liturgical music of the Catholic Church is the music of the High Mass. Through the ages the chant—which takes its name from Pope Gregory the Great, who reigned at the turn of the seventh century—has been the inspiration for the music of the Mass.

The timelessness of the music is emphasized by the setting here. The world of Boys Town, the haven for homeless boys founded by the late Father Edward Flanagan, is strictly 20th century—like the music in the cottages where the older boys live.

Except for the Boys Town Choir, the boys themselves were not involved in the workshop.

They called this the "choirmasters' workshop," though many church organists attended, too. Most, but not all, were Roman Catholics. The aim was to give them experience performing under top musicians, to provide background in the history of church music and to acquaint them with contemporary liturgical music as well as the basic chant.

The session this year ended with participants, under Wagner's direction, singing a modern Mass by Flor Peeters, director of the Royal Flemish Conservatory in Antwerp and a member of the workshop staff.

The familiarity gained with modern liturgical works encourages some choirmasters to perform these works in their own churches, says Msgr. F. P. Schmitt, director of the Boys Town choir and workshop head.

But Wagner, father Brunner and others agree there is a limit to how "far out" music can go and still meet liturgical standards. A recent jazz mass in England, they insist, was "neither jazz nor church music."

Liturgical music must be music with a purpose, explains Father Brunner. "It must enhance the liturgical text. It must help people give glory to God."

Spending Million On Listening

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Navy is spending a million dollars on plans for an underwater listening post network to guard against submarines carrying missiles, a Navy researcher says.

The plan calls for a sort of underwater saw line. Rear Adm. J. A. Jaap said in an interview Friday.

The cable-connected listening posts would do the same detection job under the sea as the DEW (defense early warning) radar system across Canada does for aircraft, Adm. Jaap said.

The admiral is director of development programs in the Office of the Chief of Naval Operations.

He said the Soviets have Polaris type ballistic missiles which can be launched from submarines. He said that a few listening posts have already been placed on the ocean floor off the East Coast.

The distance between the earth and the sun varies as much as three million miles.

First Church of Christ, Scientist

The vital significance of the life and words of the master Christian will be the central topic of the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Christ Jesus" which will be read at all Christian Science churches Sunday.

Scriptural selections will include the following from Luke's gospel (4:40-41): "Now when the sun was setting, all they that had any sick with divers diseases brought them unto him; and he laid his hands on every one of them, and healed them. And devils also came out of them, crying out, and saying, Thou art Christ the Son of God. And he rebuking them suffered them not to speak; for they knew that he was Christ."

A correlative passage to be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy includes the following (332:11-15): "The Christ is incorporeal, spiritual,—yes, the divine image and likeness, dispelling the illusions of the senses; the Way, the Truth, and the Life, healing the sick and casting out devils, destroying sin, disease, and death."

The SUN shines BRIGHT

But wherever it shines . . . there are shadows. Wherever there are golden opportunities there are also sombre tragedies. Some fail to grasp their blessings.

Ours is a nation which guarantees to every child the opportunity for religious training. Yet ours is a nation which smarts under the scourge of a moral disease — juvenile delinquency.

In blessing you with a son or daughter, God has entrusted to you a precious soul. You are required by law to give your child a secular education. But, despite the scourge of delinquency, a free nation must leave to your conscience the question of your child's moral and religious education.

God has blessed America. With a nearby Church ready and eager to provide Christian training for your child, and religious foundation for your family's life — the Sun shines bright. But there are shadows. You must decide!

A Career, Or More Education?

By Peggy Smith
Reflector Woman's Editor

Hundreds of thousands of American college graduates annually must decide the all-important issue—whether to continue educational achievement. Greenville grads are no exception.

Five local girls have decided the question. In a few days two will become teachers, one will get married and hopes for a job, one is a pharmacist, and the other is continuing her education. They are Miss Mary Kathryn Johnson, Miss Nelson Blount, Miss Suzie Pope, Miss Sylvia Bonner, and Miss Betsy Karsnak.

A 1960 graduate of East Carolina College, Mary Kathryn plans to teach this fall at Elm-hurst elementary school.

"I think it's really going to be an experience to teach in the same system which I grew up in," she said. "I practice taught in the same fifth grade classroom which I attended and under the direction of the same teacher."

Her ambition for the coming year is "to teach the children to think for themselves and write their thoughts down." She feels that journalism in college gave her this idea.

Mary Kathryn and her mother, Mrs. Dorothy Johnson, will be the first mother-daughter team in the Greenville City School system.

Teaching In California

Nelson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. K. Blount, left Greenville on August 25th for San Diego, Calif., where she will teach this fall. Her reasons for going so far from home was: "the experience and the pay increase."

Seeing the country is another big reason for her going to California. Prior to arriving in California, she plans to see New Orleans, and Grand Canyon, Tyler, Tex., Los Vegas and Los Angeles.

She and two other girls, all graduates from Duke University will begin teaching September 12th. Nelson's subjects will be junior high school English and History.

BETSY KARSNAK

Received Fellowship Before her graduation from Woman's College in Greensboro, Betsy Karsnak was awarded a fellowship sponsored by the Ford Foundation for prospective high school teachers.

She is at present participating in the experimental program at the University of North Carolina School of Education. The program is scheduled for 15 months.

Following the completion of this course, Betsy plans to teach English and Biology somewhere in the state. Betsy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Karsnak, reside at 400 Jarvis St.

SUZIE POPE

On September 11th Suzie Pope will become the bride of Bob Thompson. After their marriage, she plans to look for work in Camp Hanford, Wash., where he is stationed with the U. S. Army.

She hopes to find some type of research work in Biology, her major at Woman's College, Greensboro.

After six months, they plan to return to the University of North Carolina where he will become a student and she plans to get a job at Duke Hospital, "since so many jobs are available at the hospital."

Suzie lives with Mrs. L. O. Gross of 306 Jarvis St.

SYLVIA BONNER

Interning At Duke Sylvia Bonner, after receiving a degree from the school of Pharmacy at the University of North Carolina, is doing her internship at Duke.

According to Sylvia, Duke is the only place in North Carolina that offers internship in pharmacy. In February she will take the State Board examination and if she passes, she will become registered.

After February, she plans to go into retail pharmacy.

At present, Sylvia finds that there are "a lot of questions that come up in my work which we didn't cover in school. I realize that experience is best in this field, because, I know some people who have been in pharmacy for 20 years and still have to look things up."

"My hours are a lot shorter now than they would be in retail pharmacy; but, I'd rather have the hours and experience than money," she commented. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Bonner.

With The Farm Women

By MAIDRED MORRIS
(Items this week from: Carteret, Hoke, Haywood, Randolph, Nash and Rutherford Counties.)

Cancelled Stamp Collection Mrs. Guy Carraway of Merrimon Home Demonstration Club in Carteret County is chairman of their most recent club project. Each club member saves all her cancelled stamps and turns them in to Mrs. Carraway, who in turn, gives them to the Morehead City Hospital, the local collection station.

Mrs. Floy Garner, home economics agent, says the stamps are sent to a Children's TB Hospital in Norway. Several hundred stamps have already been turned in.

Rat Infestation Do you have expensive guests living at your house? Nancy Parker of the Wayside community in Hoke County told members of the Community Development Association that if they were supporting one rat, it was costing them at least $20 a year.

"Nancy told the audience how the rats destroyed property, contaminated food, and carried diseases," reports Mrs. Mary Lou Roman, assistant home economics agent. "The development association decided to look into the possibility of buying bait to be distributed in the community in an all-out campaign against rats and mice."

Wood Finishes A three-day workshop was held for agents in the western district on wood finishes. Miss Mary Cornwell, home economics agent in Haywood County, says detailed information on wood identification, wood finishes, wood care, varnish, waxes, sealers, and lacquers was given.

Each agent worked with different types of wood in developing suitable types of finishes.

Low Calorie Desserts According to Mrs. Virginia D. Smith, assistant home economics agent, waist lines are being watched in Randolph County. In a demonstration "Eat to Control Your Weight," it was emphasized that it was not what you eat, but how much you eat that adds extra pounds.

High calorie desserts were compared with low calorie desserts. After discussing different ways of reducing calories in recipes, the women tasted of one of the low calorie desserts.

Mrs. Joe Vick of the Corinth community and Mrs. Tom Corbette of the Pleasant Grove community in Nash County started rooting beds based on their long-time landscaping plan.

Mrs. Lydia M. Booth, assistant home economics agent, reports that Mrs. Corbette put in about 75 cuttings recently. Mrs. Vick has rooted 25 azaleas and they are ready to transplant from the rooting bed. All her cuttings rooted.

Workshop Shows Results As a result of the refinishing furniture workshop held recently in Rutherford County, the following furniture was refinished: two spool cabinets, two chairs converted to lamps, library table, bedside table, wash stand, chairs, dough trays, dining room suite, tables, coffee mill, planters, picture frames, rockers, cobbler bench, chest, and a desk.

Miss Eugenia Ware, home economics agent, reports that furniture that had been discarded is now in use again.

If the freezer stops operating because of power failure or other circumstances, the food will stay frozen for a couple of days in a fully loaded freezer but not more than a day in a freezer that is only half full.

BETHEL—Miss Camille Staton, president, opened the August meeting of the Woman's Society of Christian Service reading the purpose of the Society.

"Life For Today's Children" was the program topic. Mrs. Robert Davis combined her devotion and program using her scripture the seventh chapter of Matthew, eleventh verse, and verse 52 from the second chapter of Luke.

Mrs. Davis pointed out that the Bible depicts children accompanying their parents when the crowds gathered to hear Christ speak.

Miss Staton introduced Miss Grayson Waldrop of Greenville, who told of her experiences in Europe this summer with the Youth Caravan, sponsored by the Board of Missions and the Board of Education. This was the 11th such Caravan.

The purpose of these Caravans is to share the problems in other countries and to be Goodwill Ambassadors.

Each year the Society sends a colored delegate to Training School in Winston-Salem. A report was heard from this delegate, Julia Whitchard, who outlined her studies while attending the school. Two courses were taken by this delegate, "Children We Teach" and "Youth and Worship," emphasis being on training the youth for work in the church and church school.

HOME DECORATING TODAY

By MRS. R. W. DAVENPORT HOME DECORATORS, HERE ARE TWO RULES FOR "MIXING"

It's all right to mix furniture styles if you combine the right ingredients. The trick is to know what goes with what.

The Home Furniture Store offers two guides. First, choose styles that are similar in feeling, formal with formal and informal with informal.

Formal styles usually have the name of a king, queen or famous furniture designer. Informal styles often are associated with a country, Early American, French Provincial, Rural English, Danish Modern.

This rule-of-thumb won't separate all of the styles into formal or informal, but it covers a large number.

Second, combine furniture in the same arrangement only when it is similar in scale and line. Italian Provincial is similar in proportion to furniture we call contemporary.

Early American will combine readily with Rural English or with a truly rustic French Provincial. Fine oil-rubbed Danish Modern furniture and Shaker furniture are similar in their scale and spirit.

If you are not sure call the Home Furniture Store for more help.—(Adv.)

Pork prices are declining seasonally each week as expected, reports Mrs. Ruby P. Uzzie, consumer marketing specialist for the N. C. Agricultural Extension Service.

Consumers will find slightly lower prices on many pork cuts. Look for attractive buys in loins, hams, picnic shoulders and bacon. Beef-wise look for chuck, rib roast, and ground beef. Lamb is also a good choice in many stores.

Mrs. Uzzie says home-grown tomato season is at its height. There is excellent quality for canning whole and making into juice for next winter. Sweet corn remains abundant for use in many ways. Include corn-on-the-cob for cook-out meals.

Acorn and butternut squash are becoming more plentiful in this state. A good crop of field peas are available from local areas. Lettuce prices are lower but celery prices are higher. Budget buys are found in white potatoes, carrots, cabbage and snap beans. Green peppers and cucumbers continue in good supply at budget prices.

Now is the season for more medium and small size eggs. Egg prices are expected to be higher than a year ago due to reduction in the size of laying flocks. Watch for specials on fryers during the weeks ahead. Turkeys continue to be plentiful.

"Enjoy watermelons, cantaloupes, and peaches now before the season is over," says Mrs. Uzzie. "The local peach season is about over but some will still be available from other states."

Grapes, pears, and plums are filling the fruit counters. The color and quality look good on these early season fruits. Fancy eating apples are bringing high prices because of scarcity.

Start Eating Acorn Or Butternut Squash

RALEIGH—If you have never eaten acorn or butternut squash you have missed a real treat. You'll be seeing more and more of these vegetables in grocery stores in North Carolina because now they are being produced for market in many counties. Use them in many ways to pep up late summer, fall and winter meals.

The acorn and butternut squash may not look alike on the outside, but they both have a luscious, golden orange flesh on the inside. The acorn squash has a hard dark green outside skin while the butternut squash has a light pumpkin colored shell. Both belong to the winter type squash family.

Their deep yellow flesh tell you they are rich in the good eyesight vitamin A value. In fact 1-3 cup will meet your needs for this health protecting vitamin for one day. In addition, you will get small amounts of the B vitamins and ascorbic acid or vitamin C.

When left whole, acorn and butternut squash can be kept for a long time. After they are cut the flesh molds and spoils within a few days.

In addition to these recipes given below, try using acorn and butternut squash in any dish calling for sweet potatoes, pumpkin or squash.

Boiled Acorn or Butternut Squash Wash squash, then cut in halves. Remove the seeds and spongy part. Peel and cut into one or two inch squares or strips. Place in lightly salted, boiling water, or on a rack in a steamer. Cook 30-40 minutes or until fork tender. Drain and season with salt, pepper and butter, margarine or bacon fat to taste. The drained cooked squash may be mashed or put through a potato ricer before being seasoned.

Baked Squash Scrub and cut acorn or butternut squash in halves or quarters. Remove the seeds and spongy part. The peeling may be taken off or left on, although it is too tough to eat. Place in a shallow baking dish with cut side up. Sprinkle with salt and pepper, dot with butter, margarine or bacon fat. Cover with a lid and bake in a moderately hot (400 degrees F.) oven about 45 minutes or until tender. Remove cover last 15 minutes. Serve with butter or gravy.

For a sweet dish, omit pepper and sprinkle squash with brown or white sugar before dotting with butter.

Glazed Squash Cut acorn, butternut or any winter type squash in one inch cubes and peel. Place in a shallow, well greased baking dish. Pour over the squash a sirup made of 3-4 cup sugar, 1 cup water and 2 table-spoons of butter or margarine. Cover and bake for 20 minutes in a 400 degree F. oven. Remove cover and continue to bake until squash is fork tender and glazed. Baste occasionally with the sirup.

Baked Squash and Pineapple To 3 cups of mashed, steamed or boiled acorn or butternut squash add 1/2 to 3-4 cup brown or white sugar and 1/2 cup crushed pineapple. Place in a buttered baking dish. Top with marshmallows and bake until lightly browned in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.).

BRUNCH CRESCENTS

Ingredients: 2 packages active dry yeast, 1/2 cup warm water, 1/2 cup milk (scalded), 1/2 cup shortening, 1/2 cup sugar, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 2 eggs, 4 1/2 cups sifted flour, Peanut Butter Filling, butter or margarine (melted).

Method: Sprinkle yeast over water; stir until dissolved. Stir into hot milk the shortening, sugar and salt; cool; stir into yeast mixture with eggs. Beat in 1 cup of the flour until smooth; continue to beat in flour, 1/2 cup at a time, adding enough to make a soft dough. Cover bowl and refrigerate 24 hours. Divide into fourths; roll out each piece on floured surface into an 11-inch circle 1/4-inch thick; cut each circle into 8 pie-shaped wedges. Spread with Peanut Butter Filling. Roll, starting from wide side, and shape into crescents. Dip each roll into melted butter and place 2 inches apart on greased baking sheet. Cover and let rise until doubled in bulk (1 1/2 to 2 hours). Bake in hot (450 degrees) oven 10 to 12 minutes.

Peanut Butter Filling: Blend 2-3 cup peanut butter, 2-3 cup honey, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon allspice and 1 teaspoon cinnamon.

Highway Study Offers Good Basis

North Carolina's master plan for a major highway system to be developed over the next 15 years is a piece of impressive work by the State Highway Commission, but between the planning and actual completion of the network there are likely to be many major changes.

The plan is without question one of the most comprehensive projections of plans undertaken by a state commission in North Carolina. It offers in general one of the best long-range programs for a major highway system that North Carolina has ever had. Even so, the program must be viewed as only a tentative plan of what might be done rather than a fixed program of what will be done in developing the state's highway system during the next decade and a half.

Obviously conditions in many parts of North Carolina will change in the next 15 years, and these conditions will influence the kind of highways needed to serve certain areas. Unless there is a departure from past experience in the state, the structure of the state's Highway Commission will undergo not just one but perhaps several changes in the next 15 years, and these too will influence what finally is done with regard to the program released this week.

Add to these the fact that certain communities and sections of the state will take exception to the plans that were made for their immediate areas, and it becomes evident that the long-range study will undergo many revisions before it is transformed from paper into actual highways.

In spite of these things, the long-range study of anticipated highway needs in the state should be of value. It should not go the way of so many other reports that have been compiled at considerable expense to the state, made public, discussed for a few months and then placed on the shelf to gather dust with others of its kind.

North Carolina in the past has spent considerable money unnecessarily making studies and surveys of various kinds, many of which duplicate similar studies that had been made earlier. The lack of continuity these studies and reports has resulted in much duplication of effort and expense.

While this new long-range major highway study and plan is subject to numerous revisions and alterations, it can and should serve as a basis for subsequent studies and evaluations which will be made in connection with a major highway system in North Carolina. It should not be considered for a few months and then forgotten.

Hodges Salutes Highway Plans

By LYNN NISBET
PLANNING—Governor Hodges hailed the 15-year planning for highway construction as "the most significant report by any State agency" in many years. He said the highway folks had worked diligently on it for more than three years without saying anything about it. "Maybe," he said, "a program is better than publicity. The Governor expressed the hope at his latest news conference that other State departments, particularly education, would do a similar long range planning job."

Many people will concur in that hope, while wishing that the several agencies might have cooperated on planning. Certainly the location of school buildings will affect the need for public roads, and trends in population density will affect both.

In opposing proposals for expensive study of methods of processing and marketing seafoods at the C&D board meeting the other day, Mr. Watson (who in addition to other public service is believed to have a longer tenure record as member of the highway commission than any other person, having served full time under Governors Hoey, Broughton and Cherry), said there are a great many studies and planning reports that nobody has read. One trouble has been that each agency acted independently in its studies without understanding what other branches of the government were doing.

PROTEST—Already objections are being heard from the East about concentration of planned highway work in the industrial Piedmont, very little accorded to the East except on the interstate system. The easterners contend that if the beginning trend of industrial development there continues and accelerates—as they expect it will—the planning based on 1960 needs will be obsolete before the program is half completed.

Another contingency is that a new administration might discard this plan, as Governor Hodges discarded the recommendations of the Brinckerhoff et al group sponsored by the Umstead-appointed highway commission. General and basic planning should be long range. Details based on existing needs cannot bind future administrations when conditions change.

FINANCING—Total cost of the improvements recommended for the next 15 years is estimated at $2,417,500,000, while anticipated revenues "with the present State highway fund structures plus Federal aid" amount to $1,912,500,000, leaving a deficit of $505,000,000—more than half a billion dollars—or $33,600,000 each year. These estimates are based on presently estimated costs and revenues. There may be as much change in these items by 1975 as there is between present figures and those maintaining in 1945, just 15 years ago.

In 1949, eleven years ago, when the Scott-sponsored $200 million bond issue was voted, it was estimated the 1 cent additional gasoline tax would yield between seven and eight million dollars a year. Last year it yielded $14,781,505. Impact of compact cars may reduce that yield next year. If the trend toward smaller cars continues they may also make obsolete some of the broad expensive clover-leaf intersections currently adding to highway costs. It is true that while the trend is toward smaller passenger cars it is toward even bigger trucks, which need the expansive interchanges. That, too, might change in less than 15 years.

DIVERSION—While recommending no specific method for increasing highway revenue, the report does suggest that serious study should be given to "eliminate diversion of highway funds to non-highway purposes." That is an old issue. The Federal government is a worse offender than the State, because excise taxes on motor vehicles and accessories—batteries, tires, etc.—as well as some of the direct 4 cent gasoline gallonage tax goes into the general fund. (State sales taxes on automobiles and accessories also go to the general fund). Figures are not at hand on Federal diversion, but they are available as to State funds.

Last year the State collected $4,976,825 from fees for gasoline and oil inspection, and appropriated $448,598 for administration of the inspection program. That left a net yield to the general fund of $4,528,227. The inspection included kerosene and domestic fuel oils, as well as gasoline for farm tractors, motor boats, etc. Preponderant majority of the total was for gasoline used on highways. When the prison department was separated from the highway commission in 1957 the highway fund was left charged with full maintenance of the parol board ($376,978 last year) the probation commission ($298,969) and an appropriation of $3,221,340 recommended by the parol board commission for the prison department. There was also recommended $144,119 for the Utilities Commission for transportation inspection.

The allocation to the prisons is based on use of 6,000 prisoners for highway work. Actually the highway folks have seldom used that many and would like to be relieved of requirement to use any. The aggregate amount "diverted" from the highway fund for the purposes listed was more than eight and a half million dollars last year. Conceding that the prisoners contributed something and the utilities inspection program might be a proper charge against highway revenue, there still was more than five million dollars "diverted" for non-highway purposes.

Little Ammunition In Session Of Congress

The post-convention session of Congress that is expected to adjourn next week has afforded the Democrats less vital campaign ammunition than party leaders in the Senate and House had anticipated in arranging the session.

To be sure the lack of action by Congress during this session will afford some issues that will be hotly debated during the months between now and November. But for every advantage the Democrats have gained during this session, the Republicans have gained just as much to be used in the campaign.

Sen. John Kennedy, the Democratic presidential nominee, was unable to get the Senate to go along with his program for affording medical care for elderly citizens. At the same time the Senate failed to support the medical care program that had the endorsement of vice-president Nixon, the GOP nominee.

For the Democrats, Kennedy's minimum wage proposal adopted by the Senate obviously will not become law. If a new minimum wage act comes out of the House-Senate conference committee now considering the matter, it is likely to be closer to the House version than the more far-reaching program backed by Sen. Kennedy.

The Democrats will be justified in blaming Republicans in Congress for blocking some of the legislation already sidetracked in the post-convention session. The Republicans, on the other hand, will certainly assert that Kennedy and Johnson, with a substantial Democratic majority in both Houses of Congress, could not gain the solid backing of even their own party members to adopt the program they sought.

From this session there has come little concrete legislation that will enable the candidates of either party to go to the people, point to specific legislation and say, "Look what we did for you." About the best either side can do will be to point to the session and say, "Look what we tried to do for you, but they blocked it because they didn't want you to have it." And this approach, we may be sure both the Democrats and Republicans will use.

As the session approaches adjournment it appears that neither the Democrats nor the Republicans gained as much campaign ammunition from the post-convention session as their leaders had anticipated. How much the voters feel they gained from the session, and who was responsible for the gains may not be indicated until the votes are counted in November.

Conservatives Hold The Reins

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP)—Two things stand out after watching Congress in the past few weeks. 1. It is dominated by the conservatives of both parties.

2. Sen. John F. Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson have been about as comfortable as a pair of polar bears in a Turkish bath.

Since the Democrats outnumber the Republicans overwhelmingly in both House and Senate, Johnson and Kennedy might have expected the climate to be more agreeable.

And it would have been, too, if some of their own conservative Democrats, mostly Southerners, hadn't turned the heat on them by trotting along with the Republicans.

There's no reason to believe the conservatives still won't prevail next year, no matter who wins the November elections. The results of this Congress, now hurrying toward a close, tell the story.

Kennedy, the Democratic presidential candidate, and his vice-presidential running mate, Johnson, came back here with the whole country watching to see how much they could make good on the Democratic campaign platform promises. They were rebuffed again and again.

Meanwhile, Kennedy's opposite number on the Republican ticket, Vice President Richard M. Nixon, had the luxury of being able to keep his mouth shut and just watch without getting too much mixed up publicly in what happened. There was a good reason for this.

As vice president he can't take part in the debate. All he can do is preside over the Senate and vote only to break a tie vote on the floor.

Take housing. The Democratic platform promised a program of two million homes a year. Before Congress recessed for the conventions last July, the Senate had passed a $1,200,000,000 housing bill.

But the House Rules Committee—dominated by conservative Democrats and Republicans—still hasn't let a bill get through so the whole House can vote on it. The result: Almost certainly no housing bill this year.

Take the medical care bill. The Democratic platform promised—as part of the Social Security system—to provide medical care for the aged.

Before the conventions, the House passed a minimum kind of medical care bill providing mostly for poverty-stricken older people. When Congress returned Kennedy and Johnson fought to have the Senate make good on the Democratic platform promise. They lost because 19 Southern Democrats joined the Republicans in turning them down. The Democrats had already voted solidly to reject a Republican plan offering a different kind of broader benefits. The Senate then passed a minimum kind of bill, too, and a compromise of the two limited versions was ready for passage today.

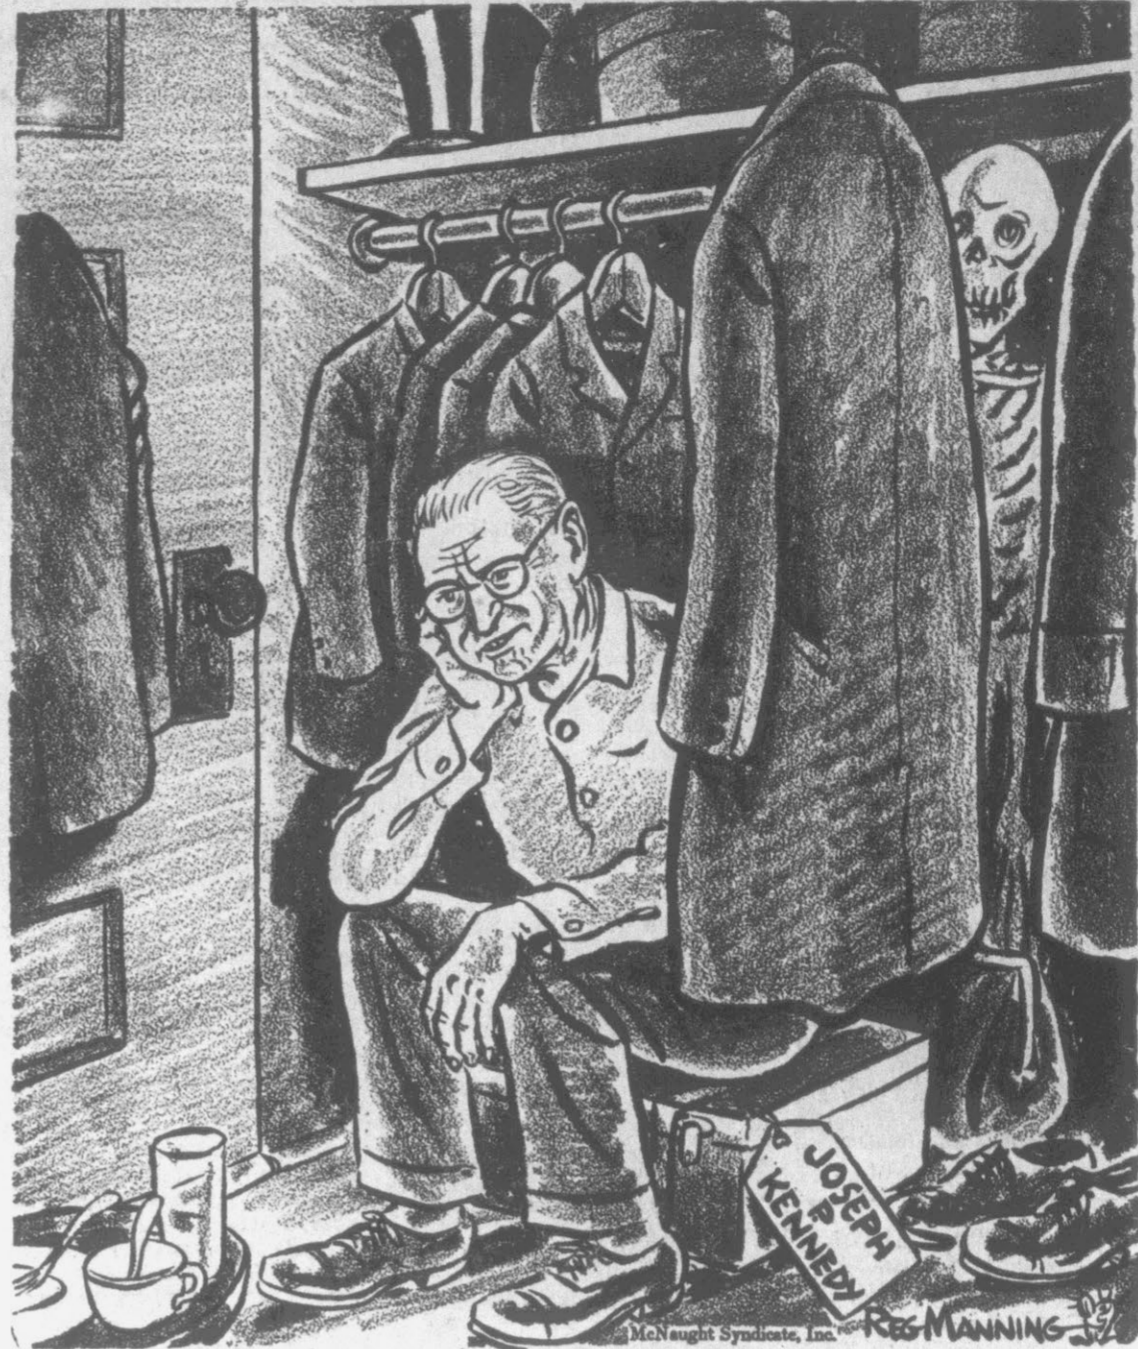

Take education. The Democratic platform promised federal aid for school construction and teachers' salaries. Before the convention both houses had acted on a federal aid to education bill.

The Senate passed one providing $1,800,000,000 over two years for school construction and teachers' salaries. The House passed bill authorized $1,300,000,000 over four years but only for construction.

Again the House Rules Committee comes into the picture. Because the two bills differed, representatives of both houses would have to confer and compromise on a single bill. The Rules Committee has blocked such a conference.

Out Of Sight . . .

No Ghost-Town Feeling

Your columnist took a walk among the almost ghostly Atlantic Coast Line main office buildings at Wilmington last week.

All but a few of the hundreds of workers who once scurried about the big buildings are gone. They now occupy a shining brand new structure in Jacksonville, Fla.

And gone with them is a $6,500,000 annual payroll, a blow to any community, regardless of its size.

How will Wilmington stand up under this severe economic loss. Well, its too early to tell just yet, but as I walked back down the street towards the port city's business district, I got no ghost town feeling. The streets were bustling. And Wilmington has at least one new gleaming building of its own. That would be the Wachovia building which has just been completed. This bright off-white stone structure towers over the city's water front.

A few blocks away the steel has risen for another new structure. It is to be the home of another financial institution.

I entered a big department store and found the big building crowded with the buying public. I lunched in a cafeteria and found it full of patrons. A drive around town showed many industrial plants. I saw countless oil storage tanks along one highway leading from Wilmington. For most of the major oil companies have oil depots in Wilmington. They are there to take advantage of the port facilities.

Those who read this column last Tuesday recall that more than 700 ocean going vessels sailed up the Cape Fear last year and the number is increasing this year.

I watched one of the giant oil tankers glide silently by the Wilmington business district to dock a short distance up the river.

All-in-all Wilmington struck me as being a busy, busy city. In fact the town has at last found its potential as a port which, in this healthily growing state, should be tremendous.

Wilmington withering away? On the contrary, I believe North Carolina's biggest port city is on the threshold of its greatest period of growth and prosperity. And the city's potential as a seaport should be responsible for this.

Other Editors Saying Is 'Equal Time' Equal?

(Greensboro Daily News) Congress has not solved the problem of "equal time" for political parties—only postponed it.

Making way for TV debates between Vice President Nixon and Senator Kennedy, Congress has suspended the "equal time" provisions for this campaign rather than abolishing it.

The case for "equal time" can be argued both ways. The Wall Street Journal thinks the idea that all candidates for public office should have equal radio and TV time unimpressive.

"We do, after all have a two-party system," comments the Journal, "which is what the people seem to want; it is silly for a candidate of some tiny minority party to assume he is entitled to as much of the air as Mr. Kennedy and Mr. Nixon."

Last year President Eisenhower signed a bill exempting news programs from the equal time provision. There are some 20 parties contesting this year's election.

In the 1956 race—and presumably to be back again—were the following tickets: States Rights, Prohibition, American Third, Greenback Socialist, Socialist Workers, Socialist Labor, Constitution, Conservative, Independent, Industrial Government, Mississippi Black and Tan, For America, Militant Workers, Virginia Social Democrat New Party, Christian Nationalists and the American Vegetarian Party.

So congressional action in limiting "equal time" to the two major parties is indeed realistic. But the decision ought to be made permanent. This is a question Congress might well study with the intention of making a final decision.

As for these splinter groups, C. L. Sulzberger of The New York Times argues that they have had their function in our history. The first American party convention was that of the Anti-Masons of 1831. In choosing this means of nominating candidates, since they had no members of Congress to hold a caucus, they made a useful — though currently debated — contribution to U. S. politics.

"The idealism that has often intruded in our politics since early days is vividly mirrored in some of the small-party programs," writes Mr. Sulzberger. "Here we still find pure Jeffersonian isolationism and Washington's distaste for entangling alliances, the belief in man's essential kindness and goodness and the kind of socialism which occasionally dotted our past with small communities of dreamers." They remain to the last depositories of outmoded ideas—Bryan's economic concepts, Andrew Volstead's dryness or Henry George's rudimentary socialism.

But reality forces the mass of Americans to adhere to either the Democrats or the Republicans. Indeed the English-speaking world has found by experience that a democracy functions best in a two-party system. Even many French and Italians, with their multi-party games of musical chairs, agree.

So congressional action in limiting "equal time" to the two major parties is indeed realistic. But the decision ought to be made permanent. This is a question Congress might well study with the intention of making a final decision.

Invited Leftist Lawyer

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
COPYRIGHT, 1960, KING FEATURES SYNDICATE, INC.
For reasons of their own, Soviet Russia invited Vincent William Hallinan, a San Francisco lawyer, to attend the trial of Francis G. Powers, the U-2 pilot. Hallinan attended as an observer. He was not asked by the Government of the United States to be an observer. For that purpose an embassy in Moscow was maintained in Moscow. Why then did the Soviet Legal Society ask this particular person?

Hallinan is not the president of the American Bar Association. He is not the dean of a distinguished law school. He is not a judge or even a particularly prominent jurist. So why was he asked?

Well, he is an American Marxist. He once said that he developed from an intellectual rebel to a Marxist-Leninist. By any definition, a man who so describes himself could be called a Communist by his own admission whether he belongs to the Communist Party or not. One of his clients was Harry Bridges whom he defended in 1949; another was Marion Bachrach, indicted under the Smith Act, in 1956. In 1952, he ran for President under the label of the Independent Progressive Party. If you do not know of this party, it is way out Left. He has been on the board of directors of the Civil Rights Congress and in 1951 was vice president of the National Lawyers Guild.

So far as the Attorney General's list is concerned, he has supported the Joint Anti-Fascist Refugee Committee, the California Labor School, the Northern California Committee for the Protection of Foreign Born, and the Committee to Secure Justice in the Rosenberg Case.

So the Russians regard him as a suitable American observer. Out of the thousands of American lawyers, they pick this one to return to this country to say that everything they, the Russians, have done is perfect. Actually, they have had experience with Hallinan. He founded European Labor School, a statement from Moscow to the effect that he had visited a Russian jail and that the Russian prison system is far superior to that of the United States.

In this, Hallinan is not altogether without intimate knowledge. In 1952, he served six months in McNeil Island Federal Penitentiary for contempt of court which arose out of the Bridges trial. In 1954-55, he served 18 months for income tax evasion as a result of which he was disbarred for three years. He resumed legal practice in March 1960.

This then is the needle in the haystack that Soviet Russia found to invite to Moscow as the American observer in the Powers Case. If there was to be an American observer, custom and decency require that such an invitation be extended to the Government of the United States. Then the Government could, if it wished, request a lawyer, request the Department of Justice to select a learned jurist, a man of distinction, to attend the trial. The likelihood is that somebody from the embassy would have attended officially. But Soviet Russia picked this lawyer who had once been disbarred, who had twice been imprisoned, to represent the U. S. It was not a little out of the ordinary, but then who expects the correct and the ordinary in matters affecting Russia?

Now presumably Vincent William Hallinan will return to the United States to engage in propagandistic speeches on behalf of Soviet jurisprudence. He will undoubtedly pose as an expert on Soviet law and American espionage and will condemn the Pentagon and the CIA. And there will undoubtedly be women's clubs that will pay a fee to listen to intimate talks on this subject.

It is amazing how many so-called Americans have suddenly become experts on Soviet Russia and how many of them travel about the country praising the ways of life of the bitterest foe we have had in our history.

I have come across a group of such extollers of Russia in the richest circles on Park Avenue and wonder precisely what great interest takes them so regularly to Soviet Russia and what

Lookaheads In Business World

By ELMER ROESSNER
Here are more look-aheads in the business field, based on analyses of developing trends:

Rise in car sales: A contraction in new-car sales will occur this fall. Usually sales taper off as buyers wait to see the new models. But the inventory of new cars is so high that dealers will offer prices cut so deep that sales will spurt. ("This year the amazing, deep-cut, below-wholesale-price bargains are amazing, deep cut and below wholesale prices.")

Mild pessimism will continue through the campaign: There is little on which to base hopes of a fresh rise in business generally. A survey by Dun's Review shows 54 per cent of executives interviewed expect last-quarter sales to be better than a year ago, 35 per cent expect no change and 11 per cent expect declines. That 54 per cent vote for prosperity is pretty low for the usually most-prosperous quarter of the year.

Heavy Easter selling: Because Easter comes early next year, on April 2, manufacturers and large retailers will advance and enlarge promotions. There will be more stress on the warmer spring clothes and less on the more summery wear. Wool and synthetic fixtures will be pushed, many with light fur trims. Some merchandisers will try for a double season, promoting moderately warm clothing for Easter fashion wear, to be followed closely with lighter styles for late spring.

The five-season year has long been a dream of American garment manufacturers. They may really try to popularize it this year.

More supermarket automation: So far, American shoppers have resisted the completely automatic supermarket. Clarence Saunders' "Keydollar" markets, in which a customer's key turned in appropriate slots sent her choices to the check-out counter, was a flop. But constantly rising costs of help (help?) is causing supermarkets to be alert to automatic devices. Many are studying a system developed in England by Solarton-John Brown Automation, Ltd., in which a customer selects her purchases by pushing a card into appropriate slots, and finds them collected for her at the check-out counter.

VACATION PAY BEATS SICK PAY, SAYS OLD PROMOTER. "The politicians are missing a bet," the Old Promoter said when he moved in today. "They are whooping up medical care for the aged when they should be talking about vacation pay for those able to toddle to the polls."

"Vacation pay? Most all companies give it," we protested. "Sure, but at regular rates. A man gets two weeks vacation and he needs the pay to live on and can't go away. So the government should provide an equal amount, so that a man can really enjoy his vacation. I think Federal vacation pay would attract lots more votes than Federal Health Insurance." —

Maybe the old codger is right, eh, John? Eh, Richard?

Yankees Sweep Pair In Crucial Weekend Series

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer
The New York Yankees have swept a pair of pennant races, rolling a pair of seven — seven home runs and seven shutout innings of relief help—while putting away the first weekend in the American League of three consecutive doubleheaders. But while they tagged Cleveland 7-6, in 11 innings, and 7-5 (another pair of sevens) at Yankee Stadium Friday night, they couldn't shake free from the pursuing Baltimore Orioles. The Baby Birds stayed just a game behind by sweeping Kansas City 2-1 and 11-3.

Third place Chicago belted Boston 9-2, but the White Sox lost a half-game and now trail by two. Boston also lost Ted Williams indignantly. The Big Guy, hounded by injury throughout his brilliant career, strained his left shoulder on a first-inning swing.

Washington tightened its grip on fourth place in the AL by beating Detroit 5-4.

In the National League, two of the best, Stan Musial and Warren Spahn, trimmed Pittsburgh's lead to 5½ games. Stan the Man hit a two-run homer that gave St. Louis a 3-1 decision over the Pirates. And Spahn, striking out 11 for his 16th victory, smacked a tie-breaking home run as second place Milwaukee defeated San Francisco 3-2.

The Yankees swept Cincinnati, 10-2, and 4-0 Philadelphia beat Chicago's Cubs 4-2.

The Yankees came from behind in both games. They unloaded five home runs in the opener, with Yogi Berra's second of the game, beating reliever Larry Locke (1-4). Duke Maas and Luis Arroyo blanked the Indians over the last three frames. Arroyo was the winner for a 2-0 record. Mickey Mantle, hitting 30 for the sixth consecutive year; Elston Howard, and Bill Skowron, who also powered one in the nightcap, crashed the other home runs.

In the second game, Bob Cerv overhauled a 2-0 Cleveland lead with a three-run homer in the fourth inning. And when they blew that edge, the Yanks bounced back again with a pair of unearned runs in the seventh when second baseman Ken Aspromonte threw wild trying to nail the tying run at the plate. Then Skowron iced it with home run No. 25, his one-season high.

The Indians, after getting rid of Bob Turley in the opener, shelled Whitey Ford in the nightcap, but were shut out over the last four frames by winner Jim Coates (10-3), who had lost three in a row, and Russ Meyer, who retired six. Woodling homered in perfect innings for the night.

All three runs came home on sacrifice flies in the opener at Baltimore. Marv Breeding brought in the clincher in the ninth, off Ned Garver (1-7), after a single by Gus Triandos and a pinch-double by Gene Woodling. Lefty Steve Barber won his ninth, giving up just four hits and striking out eight. The Birds then rocked loser Bud Daley (13-12) and three relievers for 16 hits in the nightcap while Hoyt Wilhelm won his 10th with six innings of one-hit, shut-out relief. Woodling homered in this one, while Breeding had two hits for two RBI and Triandos drove in three with a double and two singles.

Southpaw Frank Baumann beat his ex-mates with a seven-hitter for a 9-5 record with the White Sox. Earl Wilson (2-2) was the loser as Chicago collected a dozen hits, six of them doubles. Luis Aparicio drove in three runs with a sacrifice fly and a double, and Jim Landis counted two with three hits in five trips.

Jim Lemon's 30th home run cracked a sixth-inning tie for the Senators after Detroit had scored four runs in the first two innings. Pete Ramos (10-13) went all the way, giving up 10 hits. Jim Bunning (8-10) was the loser as the Tigers dropped their third in a row—after winning seven straight.

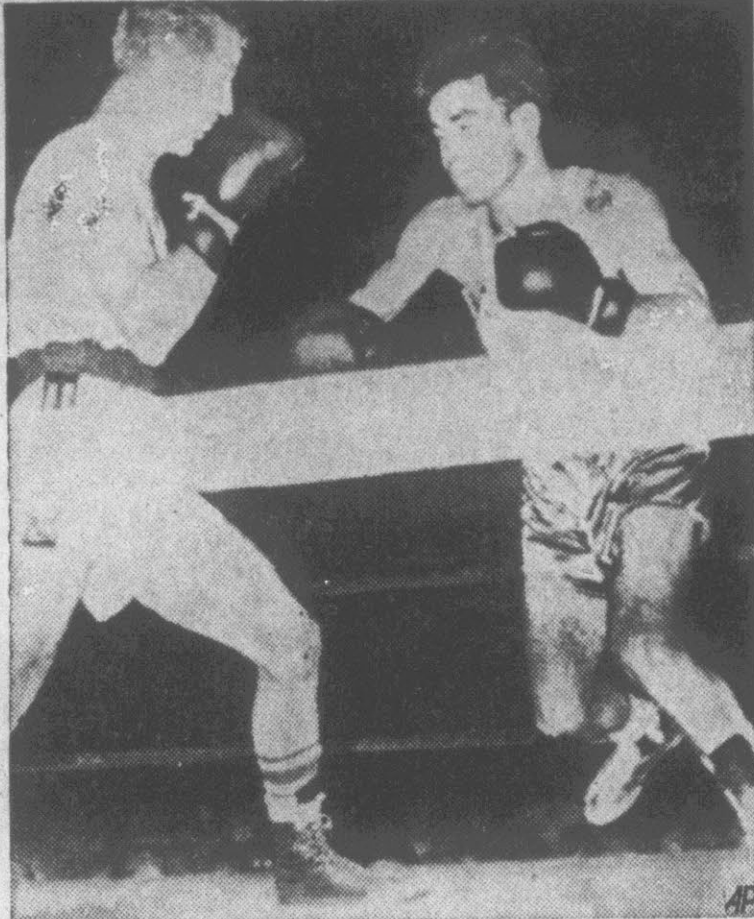

Stan Musial and Warren Spahn, two 39-year-old guys who ain't done yet, are making a race of the run-away in the National League pennant chase. With Stan the Man socking his 425th home run and breaking a 1-1 tie, the St. Louis Cardinals rapped first place Pittsburgh 3-1 Friday night. Spahn, striking out 11 for his 233rd victory, then broke up a 2-2 game with a home run that gave second place Milwaukee a 3-2 decision at San Francisco and moved the Braves within ½½ games of the Pirates.

Los Angeles swept Cincinnati in a two-night pair, 10-1 and 2-0. And Philadelphia beat the Chicago Cubs 4-2.

Musial's 13th home run of the year, coming with a man on in the seventh inning, beat Bob Friend (13-11) and backed a fourth hit pitching job by Ernie Broglio (16-6) that sent the Bucs to their second straight loss. It was Musial's first home run since he walloped a two-run shot that beat Friend on Aug. 11. This one tagged Friend with his second defeat in a row. The big right-hander now has won only two of his last seven decisions, and just four of his last 12.

Broglio, the first to win 16 for the Cards since Harvey Haddix bagged 18 in 1954, lost a shutout in the fifth, when Don Hoak doubled and Bill Mazeroski, who had two of the Buc hits, singled ahead of Bill Virdon's sacrifice fly. That tied it 1-1. The Cards scored in the second on Hal Smith's single after a walk and a single by Wall Moryn, who was 4-for-4 and has hit safely in his last six trips. Spahn, heading for his 11th season of 20 or more victories, put away No. 16. This was his fifth in a row, and he now has won eight of his last nine decisions. The Giants managed eight hits, one a solo home run by Orlando Cepeda that tied it 2-1 in the sixth, but Spahn walked only two. He struck out the side in the ninth. Georges Maranda, making only his second start, was the loser for a 1-2 record. He gave up seven hits in his seven innings, losing 1-0 lead when Ed Mathews tripled with two on in the fifth.

American Wrestler Gets Draw With Soviet Champ

By TED SMITS
Associated Press Sports Editor
ROME (AP) — America's Richard Wilson, a Greco-Roman flyweight wrestler, held world champion Ivan Kocherin of the Soviet Union to a stunning draw today as the second full day of the 17th Olympic Games opened with a liberal test of strength between the United States and the powerful Soviets.

But American women divers, "Maybe a little bit" too confident faced failure in 3-meter springboard diving, an event the United States has won eight out of eight times in the Olympics.

Ingrid Kramer, a shapely blonde from Germany, led the way into the afternoon finals of the event as Paula Jean Pope, 1956 bronze medalist in platform diving, and U.S. team mate Patsy Willard were well off the pace with only three dives remaining.

Miss Kramer increased her first round lead with three graceful efforts that boosted her point total to 98.38. Mrs. Pope, of Santa Ana, Calif., second after Friday's opening four dives, dropped to fourth at 90.02. Miss Willard, of Mesa, Ariz., was seventh among the eight who qualified for the finals with 88.78.

The men's 3-meter diving competition also opened today with Sam Hall of Dayton, Ohio, and Gary Tobian of Glendale, Calif., representing the United States.

Other swimming events on the day's schedule were the men's 400-meter medley relay heats, men's 100-meter freestyle final, women's 100-meter freestyle semifinals and women's 200-meter breaststroke final.

The U.S. basketball team faced Japan in continuation of the first round of eliminations. Yugoslavia eliminated France 62-61 in a morning game.

In water polo, the Soviets defeated Argentina 7-4.

Canoist Paul Beauchamp of Washington, D.C., finished fifth in his semifinal heat and was eliminated from the men's 1,000-meter kayak singles.

Wilson, a 114-pounder from Toledo, Ohio, surprised the Russian in a second round match. The result followed Wilson's loss of Friday to D. Pireunescu of Romania. Another loss would have meant elimination for Wilson.

Larry Allen, Portland Ore. featherweight, won his second consecutive Greco-Roman match, but heavyweight Dale Lewis of Milwaukee, Wis., lost a first round decision.

Miss Kramer's trainer, Evelyn Sibinski, is confident her protégé will win the women's 3-meter diving.

Asked if she thought the American divers were overconfident, Miss Sibinski smiled and said, "maybe a little bit."

But Mrs. Pope said, "I'm not worried, I still have a good chance although I went down two notches to fourth place."

"Ingrid has more difficult dives than her opposition," Miss Sibinski said, "and I'm sure she can increase her lead on the optional dives if she performs normally."

Strong Starting Eleven

Saturday Short Stuff . . .
Coach Elbert Moye of Farmville anticipates a starting eleven as strong as his second place finishers of 1959 but looks for reserve strength to be plenty weak. "We have some boys who have good potential but must develop," cites Moye.

Farmville will help usher in football at Snow Hill Friday night with its lid-opener. Football has been void at Snow Hill for several years but the club fielded this season is scheduled to be a strong one . . .

Shifts Made To Aid Line

Coach Bud Phillips has altered his personnel in hopes of producing material for his depth-shallow end and tackle slots.

Jack Foley, a halfback, has been moved to an end slot and Rommie Brock, also a back, is running at a tackle slot. With ends Layne Jorgensen and Skip Wright already sidelined and tackle Larry Roberts still unreported, the spots have given Phillips definite concern . . .

J. C. Thomas, former East Carolina cage star, has completed his M. A. work at Carolina and will be head basketball coach at Grey High in Winston-Salem this year . . .

Johnson Just Across The Hall

And it took Kathryn Johnson, former editor of the ECC newspaper, to solve a mental puzzle. Back in the summer of 1957, we attended a student government convention in Columbus, Ohio and met a fellow named Rafer Johnson, who was then president of the UCLA student body.

Several years later, the name pops up on every sports page throughout the country. It was hard to connect the low-speaking UCLA delegate, who roomed right across the hall from the EC delegation, as the world's greatest athlete.

But Kathryn fitted some pieces in place last night. And yep, after seeing his picture on the cover of Time magazine, Kathryn agrees it is the same Johnson . . .

Big Boost To ECC Sports

Smug Respass is a big booster of East Carolina athletics and contends one of the biggest promotions of the college was the train trip to Portsmouth, Virginia. This directed a lot of interest toward the college football team, said Respass as he reshaped several highlights of the trip which saw East Carolina play Richmond. "They should have more of them," is his advice to the college . . .

And the rumor is that ECC president Leo Jenkins has taken a shot at golf . . .

John West, the North State singles champion in tennis, is visiting in Greenville this weekend. West is working in Durham now but plans to enter service for six months this fall.

BOUNCING BACK by Pap'

Rafer Johnson gave ample evidence that he was ready to take on the best all-around athletes in the world at the Olympic Games in Rome when he smashed the world record for the National A.A.U. championship and a place on the Olympic team. The former UCLA star piled up a total of 8,683 points to eclipse the recognized world mark of 8,357 set by Russia's Vasily Kuznetsov last year. This was all the more remarkable in view of the fact that Johnson was making his first return to competition since an automobile accident shelved him last year and forced him to pass up the National championships, the dual meet with the Russians and the Pan-American Games in Chicago. The dual meet with the Russians in Philadelphia was the one Johnson felt worst over missing for it promised a return battle with Kuznetsov in the decathlon. Johnson had met and defeated

Thaw Put To Cold War By Soviet Athletes

By WILL GRIMSLEY

ROME (AP) — Soviet athletes are putting a thaw on the cold war by warming up to rival Americans in the Olympic Games and they're creating a giant guessing game.

Are the Russians really sincere or is this just another of their old propaganda gimmicks? "I'm convinced it's strictly on the level," said Kenneth (Tug) Wilson, president of the U.S. Olympic Committee, today. "Most of this camaraderie started at the track and field level, where the teams are very close."

"I see no propaganda implications, I think it's just a matter of mutual respect on both sides." Another Olympic official, who preferred not to be identified, said certainly the Russians were playing but nothing could be done about it.

"Whether it's sports or politics, these people have the greatest

Mike Cheek of Durham took the sub-junior championship trophy with a 36-hole total of 162 — 10 strokes ahead of second-place Aubrey Apple Jr. of Greensboro.

Behind Edgerton and Thompson in the junior division was George Watkins of Durham, with a 290. Bobby Thomas of Greenville faded out of contention with a 79 over the final 18 holes, finishing eighth in the championship flight. Chappy Bradner carded a 76 yesterday, finishing with 309.

Wally Howard completed his tour with an 88 to fall in the lower half of the third flight. Tom Duncan and Charles Vincent, other Greenville entries, fired rounds of 88 and 94, respectively.

Congo Seen Sliding Into Russian Bloc

Report Heavy Damage In Car Wreck

SLICK ROADS AND SLICK TIRES . . . probably contributed to this accident which caused an estimated $1,000 damage to this car yesterday on N. C. 43 about seven miles East of Greenville.

Editor's note: Lynn Heinzerling, veteran Associated Press correspondent and a specialist on Africa, was present at the birth of the Congo Republic. He has watched the infant nation slowly taking a shape that he says can be of momentous importance in the cold war.

By LYNN HEINZERLING

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—Western diplomats see this tortured nation—or at least the part controlled by volatile Premier Patrice Lumumba—sliding slowly but surely into the Communist bloc.

If they are right, an event of vast political importance is taking place in the heart of Africa with the United Nations standing by to preserve order.

Apart from the fevered activity of Communist bloc nations here, the pattern of events is becoming apparent to students of Communist policy.

Premier Lumumba's startling changes of position, his open challenge of the United Nations and Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld, his constant agitation of the largely illiterate Congress can be explained in no other way, veteran observers say.

Advisers of left wing persuasion are very active in the premier's own office, in the interior ministry and many other strategic points in the Congo government, informants say.

Lumumba begins to act more and more as if he were being propelled by someone with vastly more political experience and subtlety than he has ever been able to acquire.

A party of Soviets arrived Thursday in a Soviet Iluyshin jet. Information Minister Anicet Kashamura said the group included G. A. Zhukov, Soviet minister of cultural affairs. The foreign editor of Pravda was also reported aboard the plane.

The move toward the Communist bloc is taking place although there are secessionist moves or at least trends toward greater local autonomy in almost every province in the Congo.

Lumumba's political leadership would be very shaky in any country where political responsibility was understood and practiced.

But this is a nation which had its first national elections in April and May. Perhaps 10 million of the 14 million Congolese know no other authority than their local chief.

Resistance to Lumumba is not nonexistent as was shown Thursday when a thousand or more youths demonstrated against him at the opening of the Conference of Independent African States.

But it is divided on political and tribal lines. There is no leadership. President Joseph Kasavubu, leader of the strong Bakongo tribe in western Congo, so far has gone along with Lumumba, apparently ignoring the aspirations of his people for autonomy and for freedom from Lumumba's government.

Lumumba closed the ferry between Leopoldville and Brazzaville in the French Congo presumably to stop the infiltration of Belgian and French spies and Belgian paratroopers. The reason given is ridiculous to any reasonable person but in this country of uneducated Congolese it was readily accepted by many.

The ferry was reopened Friday night to carry officials and those bearing a special police pass.

Joseph E. Babant, Associated Press photographer, crossed on the ferry Friday. He was held for two hours by police.

The action was taken after the government had been forced to ask the United Nations to fly several delegates to the Pan African Conference in Brazzaville.

The conference was still discussing its agenda in closed session. Only nine African nations have sent delegations so far.

Lumumba addressed the opening session Thursday. In his speech was this paragraph:

"We know the objective of the West. Yesterday it divided us at the level of tribes, clans and chiefs. Today—because Africa is freeing itself—it wishes to divide us on the level of states. It wishes to create antagonistic blocs and satellites and from that state of cold war accentuate the divisions with a view to maintaining its eternal trusteeship."

The secretariat issued a translation of the speech into English but that paragraph was omitted.

Lumumba's declaration Friday that his troops should leave the Congo when Belgian troops have left was in the pattern of his recent behavior. Large sections of the population would be opposed to U.N. withdrawal.

An estimated $1,000 damage resulted to a car being driven by a 19-year-old University of North Carolina student from Bayboro around 4:30 p.m. yesterday when it went out of control on a curve about seven miles east of here on N. C. 43.

According to investigating Patrolman Luther B. Long of Bethel, a 1959 model vehicle driven by Theodore Joseph Collier Jr., 19, of Bayboro ran off the pavement on the right side of the highway, pulled back to the left side, then skidded into a ditch where it turned around and came to a halt. Long noted that the car traveled 165 feet out of control on the left side of the highway, 150 feet of which was in the ditch.

Long, who charged the youth with exceeding a safe speed, quoted the boy as saying he was traveling at 60 miles per hour. Long pointed out that the road was wet at the time of the accident and the tires on the car were slick. No injuries were reported.

George Nash Gray, 30-year-old Negro of 215-A East Third St., was charged with improper passing as a result of a second collision last night.

Long, who also investigated this accident, said the Gray car collided with a car driven by Margie Miller Lewis of Greenville when it started to pass the Lewis vehicle as the Lewis car was making a turn off U. S. 13-N.C. 11 onto the Airport Road.

Damage to the Lewis car was set at $50 while damage to the Gray auto was placed at $100.

No injuries were reported in the 9:15 p.m. wreck.

Sanford Derides Hiding Of Label

FRANKLIN, N.C. (AP)—Gubernatorial nominee Terry Sanford urged western North Carolinians Friday to vote the straight Democratic ticket, and spoke scornfully of those who he said hide the name of the Republican party under another label.

"The key to the Democratic party is service to the people," Sanford said here. "I am proud to run as a Democrat and run on the Democratic record."

"We are not ashamed to use the name of the Democratic party in this state," he said. "We don't have to hide under straight labels as 'conservative candidate'."

Superior Court Judge George B. Patton, of Macon County, also urged Democrats to vote the party ticket and to work for its election.

Sanford praised the leadership ability of Sens. John F. Kennedy (Mass) and Lyndon Johnson (Tex.), the Democratic national ticket. He called Kennedy another Franklin D. Roosevelt, "a man with the spark of leadership and inspiration to people."

He also spoke at Highlands, Hayesville, Murphy and Robbinsville.

Vote Funds For Former Convict

RALEIGH (AP)—The State Prison Commission has come to the aid of a former convict whose feet were amputated while he was in prison 25 years ago.

Arthur Goodman, Charlotte attorney, pleaded the cause of Robert Barnes to the commission Friday. Goodman said that Barnes is out of work and in debt. "I really don't see how this man will live for the next month," the lawyer added.

The commission voted an immediate payment of $500 for Barnes, to be handled by Goodman. It deferred a final settlement of the case.

Barnes was one of two Negro convicts whose feet had to be amputated in 1935 after they suffered frostbite while confined to a Mecklenburg County prison camp punishment cell.

After the State Highway Commission paid the men an allowance of $20 a month for a number of years, the Legislature in 1953 authorized the Highway Commission to pay the two up to $4,500 as a cash settlement.

Woodrow Wilson Shropshire, the other man involved, collected his $4,500 in 1954. Barnes entered prison on a breaking and entering charge in July, 1953, and never got his money.

Goodman asked that Barnes get his $4,500 cash settlement, plus $20 a month for the period since Barnes' release from prison.

No Charges On Hitting Tree, Another Car

No charges were made yesterday by local officers when a car driven by Jack Andrew Calvert, 27, of 305 South Elm St. struck a tree, then collided with a car operated by Henry Fitzhugh Dade, 43, of 402 East Fourth St. on Fourth near the intersection of Holly St.

Investigating police said the Dade vehicle had backed out of a driveway onto Fourth St. when the Calvert vehicle, headed east on Fourth approached. Police continued by saying Calvert did not see the Dade car until he was close to it.

Calvert then pulled his car to the right in an attempt to miss the Dade car. The Calvert car struck a tree on the park strip, then struck the Dade auto, causing an estimated $35 damage to the Dade vehicle.

Investigators, who listed no damage to the Calvert car, placed damage to the tree, a redub in the yard of 400 Holly St., at $50.

Engagement Ring Is Worn On Toe

LOS ANGELES (AP)—"I like to be different," said actress Vikki Douglas, showing newsmen her diamond engagement ring.

She wears it on the fourth toe of her left foot.

Why? "Just a whim," said Vikki, 24, as she and actor Jim Sweeney, 25, former Texas Christian football halfback, obtained a marriage license.

They'll be wed Sept. 3, with Vikki dressed as Little Bo Peep. Just another whim, said Vikki.

She was clad almost demurely Friday—in a sleeveless, scoop-neck gingham dress—as she signed for the license. She's the girl who once startled Hollywood by wearing her gowns cut daringly low—not in front, but in the back.

Civilians Given Report On ECC Football Outlook

Civilian members got first-hand information on East Carolina's 1960 football team Friday at their meeting when Coach Jack Boone of the College served as guest speaker and was assisted by James Buttle, head coach.

A definite loss of personnel was reported by Boone due to graduation but he pointed out a banner crop of freshmen would be reporting here next week.

According to Boone, the North State Conference will have one of its best balanced seasons. For East Carolina to be in the race, he continued, the freshmen must mature quick enough to give ample depth to the squad.

Civilian president Kenneth Quiggins attended the district meeting in Goldsboro last week and pointed out the highlights of that meeting to fellow civilians.

The club honored Warren Whitehurst as a new member and welcomed Graham Davis and Jack Parker as visitors.

Liquor-Laced Candies Probed

TAUNTON, England (AP)—Police and customs agents today investigated liquor-laced candies that have become the rage among teen-agers. Samples of the candies, imported from Italy, were found to contain 10 to 11 per cent alcohol.

Officials said the alcohol probably would have little effect on an adult but "children might become tipsy if they ate the fillings of a number of the candies."

TWIN TROOPERS

TRENTON, N. J. (AP)—The New Jersey State Police got twin troopers when Joseph P. Nasti Jr. joined the force. On hand to congratulate him was Angelo, his 29-year-old twin, who joined the force a year before. A third brother, Philip 38 is a veteran in the state police.

DEAF MAN PERFECTS SMALLEST HEARING AID

NORFOLK, Va.—(Special)—A remarkable midget hearing aid has been perfected by a man who has been hard of hearing for nearly ten years.

This small aid has no dangling cords or separate transmitting units and was announced in Virginia today as the most revolutionary product ever to appear on the market for the hard of hearing.

It is especially made for those people who can hear but not understand. This new hearing instrument provides "ear-level" hearing with the wearer picking up speech, sounds, television, and radio at his ear rather than at a transmitter located in the wearer's clothing.

Due to the use of 4 transistors, the user cost is extremely low and the instrument weighs approximately 1-4 ounce. It is about the size of a sewing thimble.

Experienced Say Home Garden Worth The Work

By ROSALIE MOORE
Reflector Staff Writer

Locally, the home gardening season is past its peak — but this has been a notable spring and summer for many.

To the non-gardener, the sweat, toil and monetary outlays raise an inevitable question: "Is it worth it?" The answer seems to depend upon the individual. J.A. Tripp, Alfred Kennedy and Paul Dilda agree that gardens are worth the work. Gardens not only provide vegetables for freezing and canning—but for hobbies as well.

"In order to have a garden, you must have somewhere to have one and someone to tend it," stated Tripp. He further commented, "Working a garden is no trouble if you don't let it become grassy."

As for garden tools, Tripp does most of his work with a six-prong potato rake.

"After coming home from a day at the store, I get out and work in the garden. It helps me get my mind off the store and I can be close to nature," says Kennedy.

Kennedy has a special variety of butter bean. He has been using the same type for about 25 years. By planting the beans each year, he always has new beans for the next season.

"I enjoy raising snap beans, peas and butter beans, because we can use them for freezing and canning," claims Dilda.

The two problems that have confronted Dilda are insects and drowned vegetables.

An estimated 15 per cent of the population of Greenville have gardens of one kind or another.

The farm agents office is often called for advice and suggestions by home gardeners. Some of these include: management practice, varieties and the amount of fertilizer to use, condition of soil, insect and disease control and the best variety of seeds and plants to use.

One of the most frequent problems encountered by the farm agents is, "How to make tomatoes set on the vines." This is the problem of the blossom and tiny tomato dropping off the vine.

Sam Winchester, Pitt County Farm Agent, remarks that "Since I have been in the county, home gardens in town seemed to have gotten their biggest boost during the years of 1943-1946."

"We give the same advice to gardeners that we do to tobacco growers—garden vegetables are subject to nematodes — therefore, at the end of the season, the root systems of the old plants should be checked for nematodes. If the plants are diseased, the soil can be treated for better production for the next season," he further stated.

"I think gardening enthusiasts will be using the garden tractor more and more in coming years, depending upon the income. Tractors also save time and are convenient," Winchester opines.

During this off-season time for spring and summer vegetables, preparations should be started for the planting of fall and winter vegetables. Authorities suggest some of the vegetables that can be planted for the winter are asparagus, rutabagas, kale and turnips.

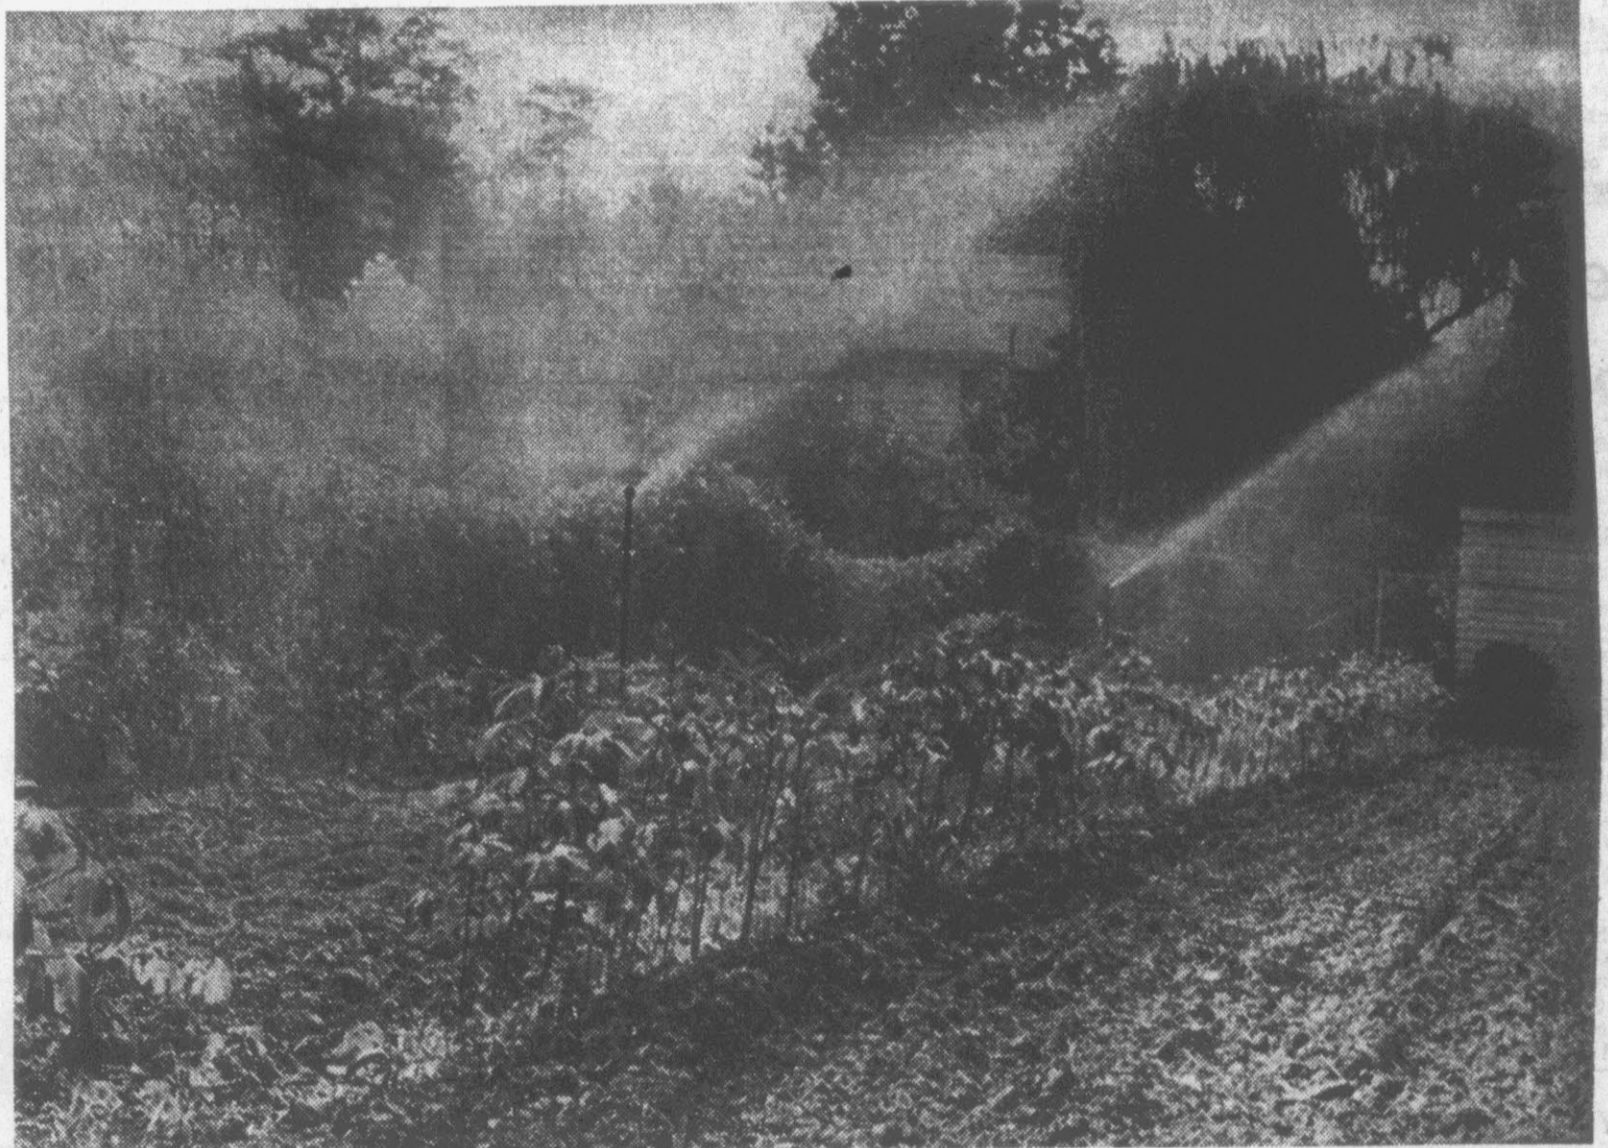

GARDEN TRACTORS . . . are becoming commonplace with people who garden on a large scale.

HANDPLOW IS . . . being used by Paul Dilda in breaking soil around vegetables that grow tall.

SECOND CROP . . . of tomatoes is being gathered for table use and freezing.

ROTATING CROP . . . sweet potatoes were planted by J. A. Tripp after the first crop of corn was harvested

SPECIAL VARIETY . . . of butter beans is planted by Alfred Kennedy each season.

Thousands Of Lawyers Gather In Annual Meet

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thousands of lawyers from the United States and Britain gathered here today to grease the wheels of justice and debate on the world court.

The American Bar Assn. starts its annual meeting Monday, but various groups met this week to prepare for the five-day conference.

Some 800 British barristers will take part. They were invited because in 1957 the ABA held its annual meeting in London at the invitation of the British bar. Canada and Australia are sending delegations, too.

One of the first controversies to develop centers around U.S. relations with the World Court.

Under legislation sponsored by the late Sen. Tom Connally of Texas, the United States can decide in advance whether it will be bound by a decision of the court. For 13 years, the ABA has opposed this proviso, known as the Connally Reservation.

Meeting behind closed doors, Friday, the ABA board of governors declined to take a position this year on the reservations, shunting the problem to the larger House of Delegates which convenes next week. A floor debate is in prospect when the issue is taken before the delegates on Wednesday.

The governors ducked the question because two ABA committees took conflicting positions. Favoring the retention of the reservation was the Committee on Peace and Law through the United Nations, headed by J. Cleo Thompson of Dallas. Opposed was the Special Committee on World Peace Through Law, headed by former ABA president Charles S. Rhyne of Washington.

Two members of the Thompson committee, filed dissents and urged repeal of the reservation. They were Arthur H. Dean of New York, a principal negotiator in the Korean peace talks, and Herman Phleger, former general counsel of the State Department. The five other members favored the reservation.

ABA officials said they expected at least two dissents from the 12-member Rhyne committee.

During the annual meetings, the ABA will discuss ways and means of improving laws and judicial procedures and will consider a series of proposed uniform laws on broad questions which will be recommended to state legislatures.

GIs Trained To Fill Medic Role

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—The American soldier wounded in the next war won't have to yell "Medic!" if a new Army training program succeeds. The man in the next foxhole will be able to give him expert care.

Army leaders believe fighting men will have to double as medical corpsmen if there is another war because of the tremendous number of casualties modern weapons can inflict.

Full-time medics and doctors, they reason, will have all they can do operating aid stations and hospitals.

To test the feasibility of making qualified medics of nonmedical personnel, the Army brought non-commissioned officers from companies of three reserve training regiments to Brooke Army Medical Center for two weeks of intensive training.

By the time they left for home today, each was supposed to be qualified to conduct more than 100 hours of classes and on-the-job training for men in his home unit.

Men taking part were from the 104th Regiment of the 104th Division, stationed in Portland, Ore.; the 320th Regiment of the 80th Division, based in Norfolk, Va.; and the 400th Regiment of the 100th Division, assigned to Lexington, Ky.

Instructors at Brooke, which the Army calls the largest medical training center in the world, split the reservists into committees for concentrated instruction.

They were briefed on cold and heat injuries; strangulation and mouth-to-mouth artificial respiration; care before and after surgery; and rigging splint for fractures.

The instruction includes introductory classes on such basic subjects such as anatomy, physiology and psychology.

Trainees went into the mesquite-covered hills of Camp Bullis, north of San Antonio, to learn how to care for battlefield casualties.

Kennedy Resting Up For Strenuous Race

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP)—Sen. John F. Kennedy is spending a long weekend at his summer home, stockpiling energy and ideas for the strenuous presidential campaign he opens formally a week from today.

The Democratic nominee for the White House flew to Cape Cod from Washington Friday night and plans to remain until Monday. He was accompanied by his brother Robert, manager of the Kennedy campaign, and several members of his staff. Mrs. Kennedy already was here.

The weekend was billed primarily as a let-up period in which aides said there would be no visitors on political business.

The Massachusetts senator spent three weeks here after he won the presidential nomination at the Democratic National Convention last month. While he did get in some relaxation, mainly boating and swimming from his family's 53-foot motor launch, he also put in plenty of hard licks during political strategy conferences with key Democrats.

What with the primary campaign that began back in January, the Democratic convention, and the short session of Congress intermingled with intermittent campaigning, Kennedy has been a busy man.

And aside from an occasional weekend such as this, no real let-up is in sight until the Nov. 8 election settles the presidential battle.

Kennedy leaves here Monday, goes to Boston to attend a private fund-raising luncheon then returns to Washington.

The candidate will carry his campaign into upper New England on Thursday, stopping at Presque Isle, Bangor and Portland in Maine; Manchester, N.H., and Burlington, Vt.

Then he sets out Saturday for Anchorage, Alaska, to raise the curtain formally on a campaign already well under way.

Have Guide For Handling Mobs

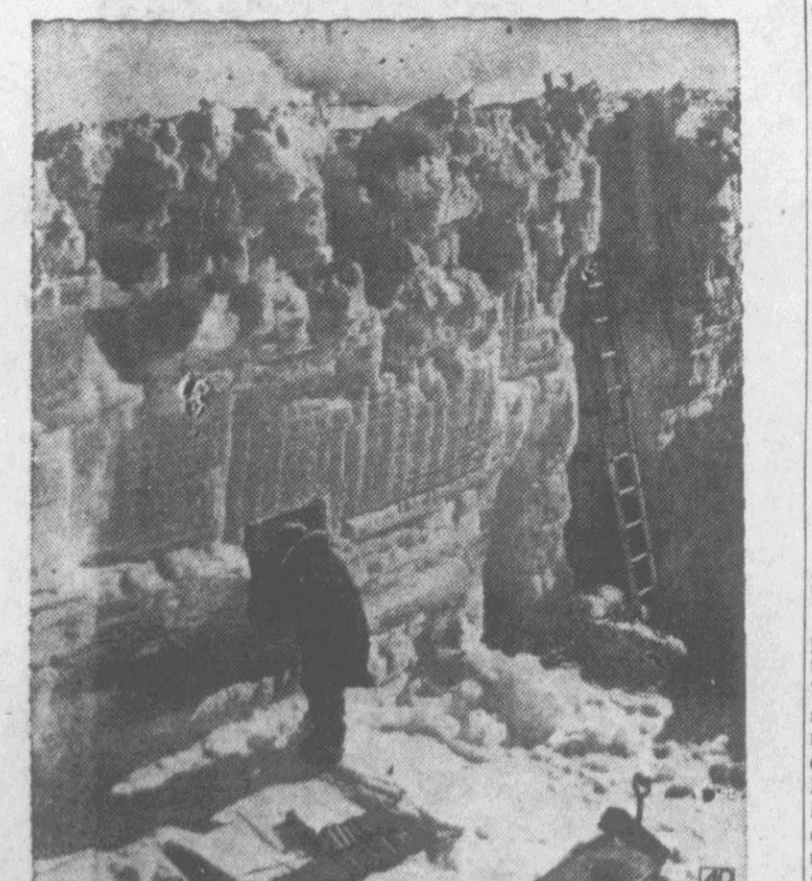

PARIS (AP)—The French government has published an official journal on the approved methods for dealing with unruly demonstrations.

Law officers can legally warn a crowd to disperse by using trumpets, drums, loudspeakers, a flashing red light or a red rocket shot in the air.

In case the use of arms should be necessary, the trumpet must be blasted twice more and the officer in charge must shout "Last call. We are going to use force."

Woman Premier Wins Test Vote

COLOMBO, Ceylon (AP)—Sirimavo Bandaranaike, the modern world's first woman premier, won her first vote of confidence today when parliament approved her speech opening the new legislature and setting forth the government's policy. Mrs. Bandaranaike, widow of assassinated Premier Solomon Bandaranaike, was elected last month.

Trapped 2 Days Beneath Tractor

HUNTSVILLE, Ark. (AP)—"Another day and I wouldn't have made it."

That's what 63-year-old farmer William Yingst told a nurse Friday in a hospital here after spending two days trapped beneath his overturned tractor.

Yingst's right arm had to be amputated above the elbow. It lay crushed for 5 1/2 hours between a heavy log and the tractor fender.

An unidentified boy found Yingst Friday trapped beneath the tractor on the 120-acre farm where the victim lived alone.

He had laid in pain since Monday morning when the tractor overturned.

Yingst's yellow shepherd dog, Billy, stayed beside him through the ordeal. When the farmer scrawled a note and tucked it in the dog's collar, the pet refused to leave.

A rural mail man drove by the scene of the accident twice, within 30 feet of the tractor, but he did not hear Yingst's feeble cries.

"It wasn't too bad until the second day," Yingst said. "I was about to give up. I wasn't particularly hungry, but I was very thirsty."

He dug a hole in the ground, some muddy water seeped in, and he drank it.

Hospital authorities said Yingst was very cheerful.

"He can probably go home in a week or so if someone will take care of him," a supervisor said.
