Methodist Meet Here On Headquarters Building

DIGNITARIES AT THE SPECIAL METHODIST CONFERENCE . . . being held at Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church here today included Rev. Jarvis Hobbs, New Bern District superintendent, Bishop Paul N. Garber, Reynolds May of Greenville and Rev. H. M. McLamb, host pastor.

Alternate Plan Gains Support At Conference

By PATRICIA MOORE Reflector Staff Writer It appeared this morning at a special session of the N. C. Methodist Conference here that an alternate plan for the Methodist Conference headquarters building in Raleigh had growing support.

Indications were that the special session, called especially to consider the building plans, would extend far into the afternoon, with lengthy discussion of a spacious headquarters building containing rental space, to help the financing, versus a smaller, less expensive building to be used solely for conference purposes.

Mimeographed copies of the alternate plan were distributed to over 900 delegates upon their arrival at Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church here this morning. Copies of the original plans previously had been distributed to members.

The original plans call for a building 44,616 square feet in gross construction area at a cost of about $600,000. Of this space, over 9,000 square feet (excluding halls, closets and service areas) have been allocated for conference agencies. About 22,500 square feet (also exclusive of halls, closets and service areas) have been allocated for rental space.

At the Annual Conference meeting in Rocky Mount this past June, some members of the Methodist church objected to the idea of renting space to agencies outside the church.

As a result, a special committee was appointed to study the plans. The committee, at a July meeting in Raleigh, voted 20 to 3 in favor of the original plans and appointed a committee of four to report their recommendation of approval to the special session meeting here today.

Local Committees Plan Demo Rally

Some 14 local operating committees have swung into action here making arrangements for the visit of presidential nominee Sen. John F. Kennedy here Saturday week.

In addition to local committees making arrangements for the rally here, county Democratic chairmen throughout the Eastern part of North Carolina are following through with efforts to draw people from every county into Greenville Sept. 17 to greet Sen. Kennedy.

John G. Clark Sr., Pitt Democratic chairman and co-chairman for arrangements, met in Edenton today with county chairmen from the northeast section of the state to encourage a large attendance at the Eastern Carolina Kennedy rally here.

Charles O'H. Horne Jr., co-chairman in charge of local arrangements, said this morning some 20,000 to 25,000 people are expected in Greenville for Sen. Kennedy's address in college stadium. He said committee assignments have been made and that committees are now in the process of carrying out arrangements to take care of the huge crowds expected here for the event.

Louis W. Gaylord Jr., Greenville attorney, will be in charge of arranging the program at the stadium at which Kennedy will make his address. Gaylord will act as master of ceremonies for the program.

Street decorations and materials for the rally are being handled by a committee headed by Miss Janice Hardison, member of the East Carolina College faculty. Banners, signs, posters and bumper stickers to be distributed in connection with the rally are under the direction of a committee headed by Marvin Speight of Farmville.

A committee headed by Leonard Bloxam, Greenville City Manager, will handle the traffic control, traffic movement, parking and other traffic items in connection with the appearance of the Democratic nominee here. J. Ed Waldrop will be in charge of the motorcade and the movement of the official party of Sen. Kennedy from the airport to the stadium and back to the airport.

Dr. Leo W. Jenkins is chairman of the committee to make stadium arrangements for Sen. Kennedy's appearance at the East Carolina College stadium where he will deliver his address. W. Arthur Tripp heads the committee making arrangements for the tobacco sale which will be staged for the nominee during his visit here Saturday morning.

Robert D. Rouse Jr. of Farmville heads the committee who will be in charge of dignitaries, state officials and members of the official party who accompany Sen. Kennedy to Greenville. Walter B. Jones of Farmville heads the committee which will be in charge of the party chairman from the various counties of Eastern Carolina and other distinguished guests who will be here for the rally.

Ashley B. Futrell of Washington, president of the North Carolina Press Association, is chairman of the committee which will be host for the 150 newsmen expected here in connection with the rally and is in charge of arrangements for the news conference and press facilities at College Stadium.

William H. Watson is chairman of the committee to arrange for bands to be here for the occasion. Dave Whichard is chairman of the publicity committee. Jimmy Smith is in charge of the first aid and emergency committee, and Jack Whichard is chairman of the advertising committee for the rally.

Horne said this morning the duties of each committee have been outlined and each of the committees already has begun its work in connection with Sen. Kennedy's visit here.

"This is a tremendous undertaking," Horne said. "There is a great deal of work to be done in a very short period of time. We have tried to anticipate everything that will have to be done and the committees are making arrangements down to the last detail. The tight time schedule Sen. Kennedy will be following from the time he arrives in Greenville until he leaves necessitates a fast-moving program with no lags and no hitches."

Robersonville market paid growers a total of $216,367 from the sale of 376,442 pounds of tobacco.

The market there marked up another increased sales average that resulted from slightly higher prices for some grades and a generally higher-quality offering.

Yesterday's sales average in Robersonville was posted as $57.48. Robersonville totals through yesterday looked like this: Pounds — 4,060,252; receipts — $2,216,420; sales average — $54.59. Activity on the 17 market Eastern Belt yesterday brought an overall sales average of $58.07. This mark was posted after the sale of a total 12,933,572 pounds. Growers receipts for the belt were reported as $7,510,277.

Seaton totals for the belt as reported by the Federal-State Market News Service in Wilson stood at: Pounds — 133,271,075; receipts — $75,674,205; and sales average — $56.78.

Emergency UN Security Council Session Is Called

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold has requested the U.N. Security Council to convene an emergency session tonight to deal with the worsening Congo situation.

Diplomatic sources said the 11-nation body would meet at 8:30 p.m. and would remain in session far into the night.

Hammarskjold's request came amid increasing opposition to U.N. policies in the Congo.

The secretary-general planned to meet first with his 15-nation Advisory Committee to review the latest developments and shape up recommendations for presentation to the council.

Hammarskjold was expected to get a first hand report from his executive assistant, Andrew W. Cordier, who was due to arrive from Leopoldville during the afternoon.

Hammarskjold, under fire from several directions in the United Nations' role in the former Belgian colony, leveled a stern warning Thursday night to Belgian U.N. Ambassador Walter Loridan.

The secretary-general said he had received confirmed reports that nine tons of weapons were unloaded Wednesday from a Belgian Sabena Airlines plane at Elisabethville Airport in the secessionist province of Katanga.

He asked Loridan whether the Brussels government had authorized the sending of weapons to provincial authorities.

"Should this be the case," Hammarskjold said, "the secretary-general would consider it necessary to make a formal serious protest."

Hammarskjold, under attack from the Soviet Union, Yugoslavia and Congo Premier Patrice Lumumba, sought council action to halt the flow of outside aid to the battling Congo factions.

The call presumably was directed against both Belgium and the Soviet Union.

Moscow has been sending planes, troop carriers and technicians to Lumumba who is fighting Congolese dissidents.

The secretary-general has also called on the 11-nation council to provide $100 million to help the infant nation get its bearings.

The council was expected to meet Saturday in a session that may run well into the night.

Hammarskjold has insisted the U.N. operation in the Congo must remain nonpartisan and has proposed disarming non-U.N. military units in the country as a step to restoring order.

The secretary-general conferred Thursday with Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily V. Kuznetsov and Yugoslav Ambassador Dobrovoje Vidic.

Vidic issued a surprise call Thursday for an urgent council meeting to consider the deteriorating situation in the Congo.

The letter made no mention of Soviet aid to Lumumba, but it accused Belgium of supplying military equipment, instructors and other forms of aid to Premier Moise Tshombe of secessionist Katanga Province and other rebel Congo leaders.

Moscow has been accusing the 16,000-man U.N. Congo command of meddling in the Congo's internal affairs, favoring Belgium and helping Lumumba's foes.

Extension of the hurricane warning area north to Miami and Fort Lauderdale resulted, the forecasters said, "from a slight intensification of the hurricane and a very slight displacement northward of the track previously forecast."

They urged prompt emergency measures in the entire area.

At 11 a.m., EST, Donna's center was reported about 154 miles south-southeast of Miami and an equal distance east-southeast of Key West. It was moving west-northwest at about 12 miles an hour and no material change was expected in speed or direction during the next 12 hours.

Tide water might start overflowing some of the keys between the mainland and Key West by early afternoon, the advisory said. That would close the U. S. No. 1 highway—the only overland connection of Key West with the mainland.

Many thousands of Keys residents already have fled to the mainland and into Key West.

Top winds in the hurricane continued at 150 miles an hour and hurricane strength winds extended out 125 miles to the northeast and 80 miles to the southwest. Gale winds fanned out 250 miles northeast and 140 miles to the southwest.

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—Iran has imposed stiff new import taxes on luxuries that will increase the price of perfume six times and make the price tag on a $5,000 American car more than $13,000.

STIFF IMPORT TAXES

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The Weather Bureau hoisted hurricane warnings in Miami and Fort Lauderdale today as hurricane Donna churned a turbulent 200-mile-wide path near the south Florida mainland.

"A dangerous hurricane now threatens most of extreme south Florida," the Weather Bureau advisory said.

Gale warnings were raised as far north as Vero Beach, 135 miles north of Miami, and a hurricane watch extended to Melbourne, 178 miles north of Miami.

Storm forecaster Bernie Moore said Miami and Fort Lauderdale were expected to be in only the edge of Donna's hurricane-strength winds. The center of the storm, with the highest winds estimated at 150 miles an hour, was still expected to pass through the Florida straits south of Key West.

The Miami area probably will experience top winds of 75 miles, and those only in gusts, the forecaster said.

The area covered by the newly extended hurricane warnings extended around the southern tip of Florida and northward up the Gulf coast to Punta Gorda, 24 miles north of Fort Myers. It embraced the booming Naples area. Gale warnings were raised as far north as St. Marks on the Gulf coast, and the area included Lake Okechobee.

The monster storm already was pummeling the north coast of Cuba.

In an emergency warning to residents of the Keys—the long chain of islands extending south and west from the Florida mainland—the Weather Bureau said tides would increase to heights of six feet above normal at Key West, a city of 45,000 and site of a large naval base.

Tides elsewhere in the keys will range up to 11 feet, the morning emergency bulletin said.

Even six-foot tides would inundate a very large part of the Keys.

ROK ARMY CUT

SEOUL, South Korea (AP)—The United States and South Korea have tentatively agreed to cut the South Korean army by 50,000 men during 1960. The government originally planned to reduce the 600,000-man army by 100,000 but the U. S. government reportedly was opposed.

Visitors To Get Warm Welcome By City Council

By ALVIN TAYLOR Reflector City Editor

Eastern Carolinians will get a hearty welcome from the City of Greenville for the John F. Kennedy rally scheduled here Sept. 17.

Councilmen last night approved a letter to be sent to area communities welcoming their citizens to Greenville.

In the letter, approved unanimously, the city will "extend all possible courtesies" to the visitors on that day.

More than 20,000 people are expected here for the Kennedy rally which will be held in the College Stadium.

Councilmen also voted to invite Fred Webb, operator of Fred Webb, Inc., Grain Elevator, to appear at the next council meeting and report on progress being made in solving the alleged air pollution problem.

Councilman W. S. Stafford, who was appointed to work with Webb in connection with the complaint, told the council Webb has shown him changes being made to correct the problem.

Stafford said he had received calls last week from parties in the North Greenville area. They said they were still having trouble.

The councilman said he contacted Webb and the two went to check on the complaints. Stafford said he found there was still some dust settling on property in the area.

He reported that Webb showed him some "cages and screens" being constructed in the elevator and told him a plumber was to install sprinklers.

"Whether this has been accomplished or not, I don't know," Stafford said.

He suggested inviting Webb to the October council meeting for a report on his progress. This was unanimously approved by the councilmen.

The City Council approved a resolution voicing "no objection" to the proposed merger of Seaboard Air Line Railroad and Atlantic Coast Line Railroad. The resolution was passed as the result of a request from the two railroads.

Councilmen approved new values of city-owned buildings and contents for insurance purposes. City Manager Leonard Bloxam said the increase will up the premiums by $800 annually. However, he said new buildings constructed would be covered immediately under the new plan.

The insurance coverage changes can be written into the present policies which the city now holds.

Included in the changes were higher values for Sheppard Memorial Library building and contents. Bloxam told the councilmen it was this building he was "most worried" about. Until now the contents of the library, including books, have been valued at $40,000. This was increased to $113,800. The library building had been valued at $80,000. This was increased to $108,000.

Other changes approved were: Municipal building, from $221,000 to $380,000; Fire Station No. 1, $68,000 to $120,000; Fire Station No. 2, $16,200 to $20,000.

Councilmen re-zoned as commercial two lots at the intersection of Farmville Blvd. and Bancroft Ave. They were informed by City Attorney R. B. Lee that under state law they had no choice but to re-zone the lots since lots on the opposite two corners are already zoned commercial.

The councilmen requested Charles David Gladson to appear at a hearing next month and show Rand gold mine here.

ABC Enforcers Destroy Still

Pitt county ABC officers this morning destroyed a 100-gallon pot type still complete with cap and condenser and 300 gallons of mash in the Dixon's Cross Roads section South of Grimesland.

The officers also destroyed the six steel mash barrels which contained the mash, the unit's 55 gallon doubler and the 60 gallon cooler.

The unit was oil fired and was not in operation they noted. No arrests were made.

Taking part in the raid were J.M. Ward, H.V. Lilley and Walter Taylor.

Earlier this morning, Officers Lilley and Taylor arrested Charlie "Rail Road Slim" Smith, 56-year-old Negro of 1503 Railroad St., when they allegedly found three and one-half gallons of non tax-paid whiskey hidden in an old truck tire in his yard. The officers noted that a garbage can was sitting on the tire.

Smith, charged with possession of non-tax-paid whiskey for the purpose of sale, was released under a $300 bond for his appearance in City Court September 19.

BOKSURG, South Africa (AP)—A final death toll of 25 was announced today in the rockfall that occurred last Saturday in the East Rand gold mine here.

Sales Averages Climb On Area Leaf Markets

Some prices were reported slightly higher while others appeared mostly unchanged in yesterday's sales activity on tobacco markets in Greenville, Farmville, and Robersonville.

Sales averages on all three markets climbed.

Greenville pushed its season total receipts figure above $10 million yesterday with a total sale of 1,787,856 pounds. Growers received a total of $985,597 and the market posted an average of $55.13.

Through yesterday's activity here, the market's season totals stood at: Pounds — 18,873,342; receipts — $10,372,358; sales average—$54.96.

A slightly heavier volume of leaf grades and a slight rise in some grades' prices enabled Farmville to post a sales average of $57.62.

Farmville ran its season dollar total to above $4 million with the sale of 788,624 pounds for a total $454,395.

Sales Supervisor Louis Williams reported full sales yesterday and today in Farmville. He said yesterday's practical top was around $72-$73 and "quality is looking better every day."

Williams forecast a "good sale" for Monday.

Robersonville market paid growers a total of $216,367 from the sale of 376,442 pounds of tobacco.

The market there marked up another increased sales average that resulted from slightly higher prices for some grades and a generally higher-quality offering.

Yesterday's sales average in Robersonville was posted as $57.48. Robersonville totals through yesterday looked like this: Pounds — 4,060,252; receipts — $2,216,420; sales average — $54.59.

Activity on the 17 market Eastern Belt yesterday brought an overall sales average of $58.07. This mark was posted after the sale of a total 12,933,572 pounds. Growers receipts for the belt were reported as $7,510,277.

Earns Applause Of Stolid Budget Advisory Group

RALEIGH (AP)—The stolid Advisory Budget Commission, coldly viewing 1961-63 appropriations requests, was moved to applause Thursday by the story of a woman who disobeyed orders and didn't ask for a pay hike.

D. L. Ward of New Bern, speaking for the Tryon Palace Commission, said Miss Gertrude Carraway was so devoted to her job as palace director she did not include a recommended pay hike on the proposed budget.

The Palace Commission had recommended unanimously that her pay be boosted from $8,500 to $10,000 a year.

Ward urged the Budget Commission to consider Miss Carraway's natural modesty. When she appeared before the budget agency, the members applauded.

Katanga Defies UN Airport Ban

ELISABETHVILLE, the Congo (AP)—Confronted by invasion from the north, secessionist Katanga's government today defied the U.N. order closing its airports and started a movement of military aircraft from Elisabethville to meet it.

Katanga army personnel, including white officers, forced Swedish U.N. guards at gunpoint to let two Katanga air force aircraft take off.

New ECC Faculty Feted At Reception

New faculty members at East Carolina College with their husbands and wives were honored at a reception at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Jenkins Thursday evening. About 150 guests were entertained.

The home was decorated with summer and fall flowers and a yellow and white color scheme was carried out in the dining room where Miss Frances Wahl and Mrs. Elmer Browning served punch, accompanied by nuts, mints, cakes and chicken salad patties. Guests were greeted by the host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Duncan, and departmental chairmen and their wives assisted in receiving in the music room, parlor and sun porch.

A string ensemble, composed of Charles Stevens at the piano, Miss Eleanor Timmons, cellist, Lyle Wilcox, bass, and Donald Hayes, violinist, gave a program of light and popular music throughout the evening.

HD Office Plans Fall Hat Workshop

A schedule for fall hat workshops to be conducted by the local home economics agent for Home Demonstration clubs has been announced for next week.

On Tuesday, Sept. 12 the Stokes club will meet at the home of Mrs. J. B. Congleton in Stokes; Wednesday, Sept. 14, the Bethel club will meet in the Bethel High School home economics department; and on Thursday, Sept. 15, the Pierce club will meet in the Pierce Community Club near Ayden.

All workshops will begin at 9:15 a.m. and will continue all day. Workshops will be conducted by Mrs. Mavis Johnson and Miss Lily Harper, assistant home economics agents, and Mrs. Sue B. May, home economics agent.

The purpose of the workshops is to teach Home Demonstration club women the art of hat making and to educate them in consumer buying. As a result of the instruction, she women will be more conscious of good construction features of a hat. The club members had previously expressed interest in hat workshops.

Those interested in participating in a hat workshop may contact the local home economics agent's office. A hat workshop on spring hats was conducted last spring, and one workshop has been conducted for non-club members.

Try Apples In Various Ways

RALEIGH—To get the most in apple enjoyment, look for a variety that suits family taste and the uses you have in mind.

Eaten in generous quantities, especially raw, apples can provide some vitamin C. The food value, however, varies considerably, depending on such factors as variety, storage conditions, and the way fruit is kept and served at home. Autumn apples are now beginning to come to market. Try a few of a certain variety to see whether you like the flavor and texture before buying in large quantity.

Try apples in various ways to get variety in the diet.

BAKED ACORN SQUASH WITH APPLES
2 small acorn squash, 3 cups chopped apple, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/4 cup brown sugar, Nutmeg, 2 tablespoons table fat.

Cut squash in halves and scoop out seeds. Place squash in a baking dish; fill centers with apple.

Pour a little water into the dish. Cover and bake at 350 degrees 30 minutes, or until partly done. Sprinkle with salt, sugar, and nutmeg and dot with fat. Bake uncovered about 45 minutes, or until the squash is soft.

APPLE FRITTERS
Fritters are special, and especially good with any lean meat—cold sliced or hot.

1 cup sifted flour, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1 1/2 teaspoons baking powder, 1 tablespoon sugar, 1 egg, beaten, 1/2 cup milk, 1 tablespoon melted fat, 1 cup thinly sliced apples, Fat for deep-fat frying.

Sift together flour, salt, baking powder, and sugar. Combine egg, milk, and fat. Add to the dry ingredients all at once, stirring only enough to moisten.

Stir in the apples. Drop by spoonfuls into hot fat and cook until browned. Serve with syrup or sprinkle with confectioner's sugar.

Preserve Poultry By Freezing

RALEIGH — There's no easier way of preserving poultry at home than freezing. Under the proper storage conditions, poultry from the home freezer can have the same flavor, color, and nutritive value as fresh poultry.

With more young fryers coming to the market, now is the time to stock the freezer. It keeps well when frozen in a variety of forms: uncooked—either whole or cut up; cooked—slices or pieces, with or without bone, and in combination dishes or sandwiches.

Home economists of the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Research Service advise that the major keys to success in freezing poultry are:

(1) Select only fresh, high quality poultry.

(2) Take special care to keep poultry meat and packaging materials clean to prevent the growth of bacteria.

(3) Package chicken in moisture-vapor-resist materials for freezing.

(4) Freeze and store at zero degrees Fahrenheit or lower.

(5) Keep in storage no longer than the recommended maximum time.

When poultry is bought wrapped in plastic film or in tray packs, remove these and rewrap in moisture-vapor-resistant material before freezing. Suitable wrappings include heavy-weight aluminum foil made especially for the freezer; cellophane-coated or polyethylene-coated freezer paper; and polyethylene plastic.

Freeze poultry quickly at zero degrees or below to maintain high quality. Place the packages against the sidewalls of the freezer or on metal freezing plates or shelves to speed freezing. A little space around the package speeds freezing by allowing cold air to circulate freely.

Bridge Club

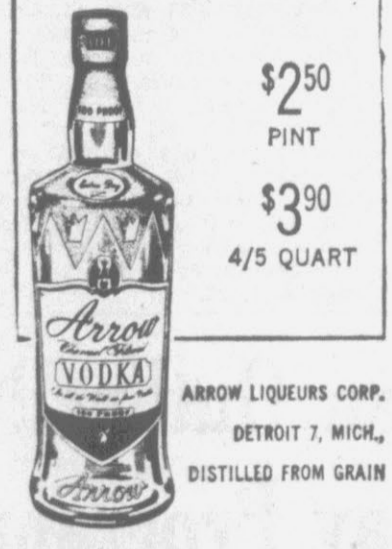

GRIFTON—Mr. and Mrs. David Parker were hosts on Thursday night at bridge at their home on McRae Street when they had as guests members of their contract club.

Three tables were in play during the evening and highest scores were made by Mr. and Mrs. John Glenn. The floating prize was held by Mrs. Ed Sutton. Others playing were Mrs. Robert Wheeler, Mr. Ed Owens, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Hart, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Goolsby and Mr. Sutton.

As a source of nutrition, squash rates high in the vitamin A department.

Who Holds The Purse Strings?

(Editor's Note: The following article was released in a report for the Institute of L's Insurance on family finances.)
When it comes to finances, who wears the pants in the family? Who decides on how the money is to be spent—husband or wife?

When the latter question was put to a representative group of rural families by home economists of Pennsylvania State University, the answers they received indicate that in many families financial decisions have become a joint responsibility of husband and wife.

Almost without exception, wives and husbands said they regarded it as good practice to talk over financial matters and to make decisions together, reports the Institute. Most said they found it easy to talk with each other about the use of money.

For some reason, wives who had a high school or college education found it easier to talk over money problems with their husbands than the wives with less schooling.

As soon as children are old enough to understand and take part in financial discussions, they should be included in the family planning circle, a large majority of husbands and wives agreed. However, this was a hypothetical answer for many of the families, since about half either had no children or their children were very young.

The home economists who conducted the study indicated that in actual practice families do not consistently invite their children to talk about money. Frequently this is impossible, as with shopping for clothing, because many mothers make purchases when children are not along, or when they run across bargains and sales.

The couples were asked about financial circumstances that might cause unhappiness in families. The chief one mentioned was lack of cooperation. Others were insufficient income, emergencies and poor financial management.

It is possible to conclude from these statements that some families can benefit by a more realistic attitude toward their finances and perhaps should try budgeting their funds.

A budget is simply a method of balancing spending against income. One good way of starting is to jot down everything that is spent for several months. A review of these expenditures can provide a guide to keep future spending within family income.

While some families did not always budget their finances the survey does make it clear that, in general, most families did have an eye on the future. For example, more than three-quarters of the husbands carried life insurance protection for their families. Families also had life insurance for the wives and children, although a smaller portion were insured than the husbands. A sizable percentage had health insurance, particularly hospitalization; many also had surgical and medical insurance.

From this study, the home economists who conducted the survey concluded that successful financial management calls for each family to consider what decision-making can best be done by husband and wife together; by either independently; and by children and parents together.

More important, perhaps, than who makes the final decision to buy a new chair, is an understanding by all family members of the goals to be achieved by financial planning. Participation by all in making these plans will enable the family to achieve its individual goals.

Garden Club Hears Speaker

GRIFTON—On Tuesday afternoon Mrs. W. J. Poffenbaugh of the Kinston Garden Club was guest speaker when the local Garden Club met for their first fall session in the Educational Building at the Methodist Church.

Mrs. B. C. Troutman gave the call to order and conducted the brief business hour. She presented Mrs. Poffenbaugh whose topic for discussion was "Permanent Line and a Few Fresh Flowers." She demonstrated and arranged containers with greenery and other materials to show the permanent line and added flowers. This arrangement she said could be set up and the flowers added in season or when needed.

To choose a few basic flower containers and use the permanent line rather than having too many varied containers would be most satisfactory to the average flower arranger, she said.

After the program light refreshments were served to the members and visitors by the refreshment committee: Mesdames Bill Mahler, L. L. Mewborn and G. L. Tucker.

Circle Meets

BETHEL—Circle No. 1 of the Methodist Church met with Mrs. W. E. Crisp Monday afternoon with 12 members present. Mrs. Robert Davis was co-hostess.

Mrs. J. L. Gurganus Sr. gave a combination of devotions and the program. She used the theme of the Woman's Society of Christian Service, "Purpose in Action." Her scripture reading was John 1:1-18.

From a scene in India, Mrs. Gurganus explained to the group how in India one missionary seeing the need of educating the women that they could be of proper service to their husbands, especially those who were wives of ministers of the gospel, prayed daily for help. As a result of this prayer, Brides School was established there for the women.

Alumnae Select Officers; Member Gets National Office

The Kappa Delta Alumnae Association of Greenville held their second meeting of the fall on Thursday, September 8, at the home of Mrs. Richard R. Gammon, retiring president. Officers for the year were elected.

Mrs. Harry R. Billica, former treasurer, is the new president, while Mrs. Tyson Bilbro was elected treasurer. Other executive positions are Mrs. H. H. Duncan, vice-president, and Mrs. Leland Stewart. secretary.

The National Council of Kappa Delta has recently appointed Mrs. Gammon to a national office, Beta North Province President. She succeeds Mrs. Paul E. Gibson of Charlotte.

In this position Mrs. Gammon will have nine college chapters of Kappa Delta under her supervision. These include chapters at Duke University, University of North Carolina, University of South Carolina, High Point College, East Carolina College, Queens College, Emory University, University of Georgia, and Valdosta State College. Because of this appointment it was necessary for Mrs. Gammon to resign the Kappa Delta Alumnae Association presidency and the Alumnae Advisory Board chairmanship.

Kappa Delta's National Council has appointed the following Alumnae Advisory Board members for Gamma Sigma Chapter at East Carolina College: Mrs. Robert W. Williams, chairman; Mrs. Reynolds May, membership advisor; Mrs. Norton Stewart, scholarship advisor; Mrs. Odell Welborn and Mrs. Robert Wolff, social advisors; Miss Mammie Ruth Tunstall, financial advisor; and Miss Sophie Fishel, pledge trainer.

Regular meetings of the Kappa Delta Alumnae Association are held on the second Saturday of each month.

More Of A Two-Party Battle Seen

While most political observers throughout North Carolina see little real threat that the Republicans will gain control of the state government in November there have been growing signs that Tar Heelia will face more of a two-party battle this year than has been the case in many years.

Taking advantage of the bitter gubernatorial campaign in the Democratic primary, GOP gubernatorial candidate Robert Gavin is seeking to capitalize on a conservative position to contrast himself with Democratic nominee Terry Sanford and woo away from Sanford normal Democratic votes. Because of the bitter second primary battle between Sanford and Dr. I. Beverly Lake in the Democratic run-off there is at least a small hard-core of normally Democratic voters who probably will refuse to vote for Sanford under any circumstances. Whether they will vote for Gavin or "go fishing" remains to be seen.

There is also the fact that Gavin is making a more vigorous bid for election as governor of North Carolina than any of his predecessors in many years. Coupled with the positive program of the Republican national organization to break the "solid South" from the Democratic ranks this year, North Carolina finds a genuine fall campaign shaping up within its borders.

In considering the factors influencing this political year in North Carolina, one cannot overlook the Democratic platform, parts of which obviously are not to the liking of a good many Democrats in North Carolina and other Southern states. Certainly the Republican platform is no more to their liking; but then as Democrats they didn't expect the GOP platform to give much consideration to Southern views. Whatever arguments are set forth, there is no getting around the fact that Sen. John Kennedy's being a Catholic will influence some voters in North Carolina just as it will in other states.

One general election campaign will not establish the two-party system in North Carolina on a permanent basis. Between now and November, however, Tar Heels will see more of a two-party fight for votes than they have in this state in many years. If the state is to remain in the Democratic column, a great many rank and file members of the party who have taken for granted the Democratic majority in the state in past years, will have to get out and do some work in behalf of the Democratic nominees.

Following Donna Has Become N. C. Pasttime

Following Hurricane Donna's course has become a sort of Tar Heel pasttime.

Ever since first announcement of the mighty storm, people, with memories of past hurricanes that swept across North Carolina, have been awaiting latest dispatches on Donna's course.

The current "lady" is the first of the season to really swing into position that raised apprehensions. She's a killer, with over one hundred known dead in her wake and possibly twice as many people "missing". Meanwhile, we who are yet safe, are now reading some colorful nameplaces in Donna's path. Such as Crooked Island, Ragged Island, Mayaguana Island as well as the Florida Keys.

While millions of North Carolinians are watching, there are as many Floridians who are awaiting word of the big blow.

A hurricane is a dreadful thing, whether it strikes in Florida or in North Carolina.

Holidays Over Light Weekends

By LYNN NISBET
HOLIDAYS — North Carolina has had four long weekends this year by reason of Memorial Day (May 30) and Independence Day (July 4) falling on Monday. Labor Day is always the first Monday in September. North Carolina observes Easter Monday as a holiday—only state to do so.

The three long weekends occasioned by the nationally observed holidays has revived interest in the plan to set all holidays on Friday or Monday, except perhaps New Year's Day and Christmas. There is merit in the idea. It also has many serious faults. Sanctity of the seriously observed dates is no sound reason for continuing them.

Unless the calendar is completely overhauled—and there is sentiment for that—not much can be done about again changing New Year's Day. The other holiday dates have been arbitrarily set in fairly recent times, except Christmas which has been observed on December 25 for some 1500 years. In the early part of the Christian era the birth of Jesus was celebrated at various dates between November and May.

George Washington was not born on February 22, but on February 11.

Memorial Day was standardized on May 30 because at about that date more flowers are in bloom throughout the whole country than at any other. Confederate States established various memorial days, all in late spring or early summer. Mississippi fixed April 26, Jefferson Davis' birthday; North and South Carolina set May 10 and Virginia June 9.

The Declaration of Independence was ratified by Congress on July 2, signed by John Hancock on July 4—and by other signatories all during the next two or three years.

MOVABLE — Thanksgiving is the only general holiday, except Labor Day, set for a day of the week instead of a calendar date. For many years Thanksgiving was observed by custom on the last Thursday in November. President Franklin Roosevelt decreed observance on the third Thursday, and Congress later fixed it on the fourth Thursday. There had been formally decreed observance of Thanksgiving at dates all the way from April to December long before the Pilgrims observed the occasion, misnamed the "first" Thanksgiving, in July of 1620. It could be observed with equal propriety on Monday or Friday any time after major crops are harvested—in October or November. The same reasoning applies to other holidays.

MERIT — The long weekend provided by tagging an extra day to the commonly accepted non-working days of Saturday and Sunday would afford what has been termed a "vest pocket vacation" for workers. It would make possible longer trips, and would not interrupt working time during the rest of the week.

CONGESTION—The chief disadvantage is that the three-day weekend occasions congestion on highways and accommodation points which does much to negate the value of the extra time. It tends to put an unconscionable burden on caterers to travel trade, resulting in less efficient service and dissatisfaction on part of the customers. It must be remembered that a lot of people have to work in order to make it possible for others to play.

Fact is, traffic engineers have long been trying to stagger use of facilities, rather than concentrate them on one or two days—or hours.

A few years ago the Federal government offices in Washington staggered working hours to eliminate the congestion of the streets. Some began the workday at 8, some at 8:30 and some at 9 o'clock. That distributed the traffic load both in morning and evening.

NON-STOP — Whether it is a one day holiday, a two-day weekend or longer, there are many segments of economic activity which cannot take holiday at all. Communication facilities must be maintained without recess. That means newspapers, telephone, radio, air, bus and rail accommodations, cafes, hotels, motels, gasoline stations and related services, electric and gas companies—without which none of the other facilities could operate. These service businesses should not be expected to maintain full staffs all the time for just part time demand.

Basis of the argument in favor of the three-day holiday period is that the workers are entitled to that extra time for recreation. What happens when a car breaks down and the garage repairman is also taking holiday? Or the gas tank runs dry and the filling station is closed on account of the holiday?

Rather than establishing more 3-day weekend holiday periods, it might make sense to distribute the holidays throughout the week.

This Time, No Political Shout

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP) — Shades — but only minor shades—of 1952! Just about this time eight years ago in the 1952 presidential campaign Republicans had hit on a theme to get them votes and beat the Democrats: It was "Reds in government" under the Democratic administration.

Now under the Republican Eisenhower administration two employees of the highly secret National Security Agency—William H. Martin and Bernon F. Mitchell—have defected to Russia and bobbed up in Moscow.

And in the midst of the 1960 presidential campaign the Democratic-run House Committee on Un-American Activities will begin this month an investigation to find out how the two men got into government under a Republican administration.

The whole problem of rooting out subversives out of government has quieted down in recent years. And, just because it has, this recent, sudden, Mitchell, Martin flareup is unlikely to be anywhere near the size of the issue of 1952.

For two years before the 1952 campaign Sen. Joseph McCarthy had troubled and aroused the nation with his one-man hunt for Communists in government and his sly insinuations against some of the most highly placed people.

For instance: His references to Secretary of State Dean Acheson as the "Red Dean."

In addition to McCarthy's efforts, the nation had been shocked by the Hiss case, developed principally by the work of Richard M. Nixon, then a California congressman on the House Committee on Un-American Activities.

Alger Hiss, once highly placed in the State Department and one of those who accompanied President Roosevelt to Yalta, had been linked with a Soviet spy ring and, before the 1952 campaign began, had been found guilty of perjury.

Even presidential candidate Dwight D. Eisenhower looked upon the "Reds in government" theme as a legitimate issue, for he said he felt free anytime to denounce the "infiltration of subversives" into government agencies.

But there is a difference now. There has been no steady buildup that could make the country feel very uneasy and suspicious about any widespread infiltration. There hasn't been any talk. There hasn't been any McCarthy laying the foundations.

President Eisenhower, at his news conference on Wednesday, didn't blink at the idea that Communists may be sneaking into the government.

"I recognize," he said, "that even in government, although government employment is a privilege and not a right, that the rights of the individual must be respected but this incident, I believe, should be a lesson to all of us that we must never cease our vigilance in the large and small places at any time."

It is so heavy that thousands upon thousands of well qualified boys and girls today are being denied the opportunity.

It is true that there are many scholarships available for boys and girls. But few of these scholarships are based on actual need. Mostly they are for proficiency in scholarship in high school, and the rich man's son as well as the poor man's son has the opportunity to receive one of them.

Here in the Pamlico area where our economical scale is not as high as it is in many places, there must be hundreds of boys and girls who would like to go to college and better prepare themselves for future life, but who find it impossible because their parents are just not able to bear the financial costs.

There was a time when a boy or a girl wanted a college education so much that the idea of working one's way through held great promise and even glamor. Many of us who desired a college education followed that line.

Today it might be true that boys and girls are not anxious enough for college educations if washing dishes is part of the deal. But after all, there are just so many dishes to wash, and we do find students engaging in such work today in college. So the idea has not fallen complete victim to progress as some would have us believe.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
ALWAYS THE KINGDOM
Jesus was always talking about the kingdom. Sometimes he called it the kingdom of heaven and at other times the kingdom of God.

What did he mean by the kingdom of God (or of heaven, for both mean the same thing)? By the kingdom of God, Jesus meant the rule of God—the rule of God in the heart of individuals and in the affairs of the race. We have kingdoms and nations scattered over the earth and these kingdoms and nations are ruled by manmade laws. But above this governmental body there is a spiritual order that has a government of its own. The kingdom of the earth and the kingdom of heaven need not be in conflict one with the other and may not necessarily differ essentially one from the other. But in the kingdom of God or heaven the will of God comes first. Sin is an outlaw. Selfishness is despised and rejected. Love reigns supreme.

Jesus claimed that he came to establish this kingdom among men. It did not necessarily mean the overthrow of political kingdoms. It meant their infusion with a new spirit. The kingdom, or rule of God, is also meant to operate in the heart of every individual. The final consummation of the kingdom will come when Christ returns to make the kingdoms of the world his own. "Thy kingdom come, thy will be done in earth as it is in heaven."

The Kindergarten World

Having missed the experience of kindergarten, it's catching up with me these days. . . vicariously, that is. Our five-year-old is embarking on the uncertain seas of education and the experience enriches his parents probably as much as the boy himself.

For instance, before the magic first day in school he was customarily up and disturbing the household by 6:00 a.m. Such unreasoning behaviour strains the charity of doting parents; but now that is all changed.

With the advent of kindergarten it is not he who awakes first, it is he who awakens others, it is he who has to be awakened. All that brain-strain must be tiring.

A neighbor experienced in the ways of young people told us it would be like that; and I scoffed. No more.

After that first day in his new world what did his curious parents hear by way of describing what went on?

Other Editors Saying Big Education Challenge

(Washington Daily News)
It costs a lot of money today to send a boy or a girl to college. Just ask a parent who has a youngster in college, and he or she will tell you that the financial burden is heavy.

It is so heavy that thousands upon thousands of well qualified boys and girls today are being denied the opportunity.

It is true that there are many scholarships available for boys and girls. But few of these scholarships are based on actual need. Mostly they are for proficiency in scholarship in high school, and the rich man's son as well as the poor man's son has the opportunity to receive one of them.

Here in the Pamlico area where our economical scale is not as high as it is in many places, there must be hundreds of boys and girls who would like to go to college and better prepare themselves for future life, but who find it impossible because their parents are just not able to bear the financial costs.

There was a time when a boy or a girl wanted a college education so much that the idea of working one's way through held great promise and even glamor. Many of us who desired a college education followed that line.

Today it might be true that boys and girls are not anxious enough for college educations if washing dishes is part of the deal. But after all, there are just so many dishes to wash, and we do find students engaging in such work today in college. now that is all changed. With the advent of kindergarten it is not he who awakes first, it is he who awakens others, it is he who has to be awakened. All that brain-strain must be tiring.

A neighbor experienced in the ways of young people told us it would be like that; and I scoffed. No more.

After that first day in his new world what did his curious parents hear by way of describing what went on?

The summer months have included an extra attraction in the form of a couple of ice cream and milk-shake purveying trucks that cruise the streets.

Infrequently the writer has had occasion to drive past the college in late evening hours and note one of these trucks catering to lines of students distracted from studies or other passing fancy.

Those glimpses indicated no small taste for ice cream among the student body. The contrast between that scene and memories of my college days is considerable.

The "inn" was (in ye olden days) situated just across the street from the campus; I resided then in a hall for students virtually next door to this home base for sizzling steaks, blueplate specials, magazine racks, soda fountain and juke box. This natural HQ for Joe College also dispensed beer; a commodity noted for slaking thirst and inspiring conviviality among congenial folk.

Even the most scholarly will dawdle and lose precious time watching the frothy foam and contemplate the rising bubbles in his golden brew. Too, there is an accompanying inclination to talk "of shoes and ships and sealing wax, etc."

Ice cream is different. It is much more efficient; and also healthful.

One eats ice cream before it melts, requiring moderate haste. The eater cannot become too deeply engrossed in problems of the world, for ice cream requires attention during its brief existence in cup, plate or cone. Once consumed, the consumer is immediately free to return to his pursuit of knowledge.

I suspect the world will be better for ice cream.

Dr. Brazer suggests the following types of income, now exempt, should be subject to Federal income taxes:

- 1. Insurance proceeds, to the extent they exceed premium payment;
- 2. Gifts and inheritances, except for specified amounts within the immediate family;
- 3. Interest on state and local government bonds;
- 4. Capital gains and losses. The following tax deductions should be eliminated or substantially reduced:

"I had to do five pages of arithmetic, two pages of spelling and a lot of reading. Whew, but I'm tired!"

Well, it turned out to be something he'd heard a veteran of the schoolbook set say, and it sounded impressive at the time, so he passed it along.

Later we heard one of his classmates told a parent "I sure like our teacher, she's easy on us. . . no homework."

Those eight, nine and ten-year-olds really spread the word on what's to be expected in school.

So we're caught up in the giddy world of kindergarten; and this is only the beginning.

The summer months have included an extra attraction in the form of a couple of ice cream and milk-shake purveying trucks that cruise the streets.

Infrequently the writer has had occasion to drive past the college in late evening hours and note one of these trucks catering to lines of students distracted from studies or other passing fancy.

Those glimpses indicated no small taste for ice cream among the student body. The contrast between that scene and memories of my college days is considerable.

The "inn" was (in ye olden days) situated just across the street from the campus; I resided then in a hall for students virtually next door to this home base for sizzling steaks, blueplate specials, magazine racks, soda fountain and juke box. This natural HQ for Joe College also dispensed beer; a commodity noted for slaking thirst and inspiring conviviality among congenial folk.

Even the most scholarly will dawdle and lose precious time watching the frothy foam and contemplate the rising bubbles in his golden brew. Too, there is an accompanying inclination to talk "of shoes and ships and sealing wax, etc."

Ice cream is different. It is much more efficient; and also healthful.

One eats ice cream before it melts, requiring moderate haste. The eater cannot become too deeply engrossed in problems of the world, for ice cream requires attention during its brief existence in cup, plate or cone. Once consumed, the consumer is immediately free to return to his pursuit of knowledge.

I suspect the world will be better for ice cream.

Stuck With Nikita

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
Copyright, 1960, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

So Nikita Khrushchev is coming here again to make a speech before the General Assembly of the United Nations. With him may come all the heads of satellite countries, including bewhiskered Fidel Castro. They will all make speeches. They will be in attendance during an American Presidential campaign. It will be Communist circus held during the most crucial period of the 1960 Presidential campaign. It is surely planned to be a version.

Protocol does not require any American except our Ambassador to the United Nations to recognize their presence. The President is not required to recognize the presence in the United States of Khrushchev or his dependents. Neither do Messrs. Nixon and Kennedy need to pay any attention to Khrushchev. Khrushchev and his aides are going to the United Nations which should have a hotel on its grounds where they might stay. Certainly after the outrageously inhospitable treatment meted out to our President in Paris and his rejection as an invited guest to Russia, no hotel is required to show the slightest hospitality to this boorish ex-peasant; no restaurant need receive him; no police need escort him.

There is no way to keep him out of the United Nations. This country agreed to let that body have a spot on the East River and the Rockefeller paid for the land. So we are stuck with it. But that does not mean that we need to disturb ourselves over who comes to or goes from the United Nations. They can come on their own steam and leave on their own steam. There is no reason why any agency of the United States should take cognizance of their arrival or their departure.

Any person who acted as rudely to the President of the United States as Nikita Khrushchev did has no place on American soil. The plot of land which the United Nations inhabits is not American soil as long as the United Nations is there. That much we have to admit, and according to the treaty, anyone who has business with the United Nations is free to come and go. But that does not mean that such a person is entitled to a police escort or that the streets of New York have to have traffic diverted or that the citizens be interfered with in any way.

Our President had been invited to visit Russia as a guest of the Russian people and government. This invitation was withdrawn with outrageous boorishness and even brutality. Common decency should incline Americans to treat Khrushchev on this visit with a minimum of respect, with the barest requirement of mannerliness. For him, there ought to be no receptions, no parties, no acknowledgement of his presence.

This is not retaliation. It is respect for the office of the President of the United States and for whoever occupies that office. Khrushchev has his fun at Paris and now he wants us to say that boys will be boys and to forget all about it. But that cannot be possible in a decent society. The unmannerliness of Khrushchev, his vulgarity, his use of untranslatable words and phrases in his references to our country and our President are intolerable.

President, at any rate, insulted us in the language of a gentleman, but Khrushchev is no gentleman. And there can be no reason, diplomatic or political, why we need to show tolerance for such a brutish creature.

There will, of course, be those who will say that they must entertain Khrushchev to get a contract for this or that or perhaps to be able to sell motion pictures or to make a deal of some kind. For such, we need not concern ourselves. Their souls function by I.B.M. machines and their minds have been corrupted by reading too many balance sheets. Nor need

Anti-New Deal Attitude On Tax
By ELMER ROESSNER
The University of Michigan maintains one of the largest propaganda mills in the country. It's "news service" pours out hundreds of words a week quoting professors and others on affairs of the nation. Most of the statements are strongly New Deal—so strongly that unless the institution changes its name to the Franklin Delano Roosevelt University, history will be done a disservice.
It is striking, therefore, that it has put out a story that is sharply critical of the Rooseveltian application of taxes as a great leveller. This release is based on a 50-page book, "A Program for Federal Tax Revision," by Harvey E. Brazer, Ph. D., and published by the Michigan Institute of Publican Administration (at $1.50).
In general, Mr. Brazer contends, federal taxes should be levied equally on all types of personal income. In addition, individuals should be allowed to average their incomes over periods of at least five years, so that those with steady and sharply fluctuating incomes should be treated similarly. Those off-stage noises you hear are the bodies of New Dealers rotting in their graves.
Dr. Brazer suggests the following types of income, now exempt, should be subject to Federal income taxes:
1. Insurance proceeds, to the extent they exceed premium payment;
2. Gifts and inheritances, except for specified amounts within the immediate family;
3. Interest on state and local government bonds;
4. Capital gains and losses. The following tax deductions should be eliminated or substantially reduced:
1. Charitable contributions, except those exceeding two per cent of income;
2. Interest payments, unless clearly a business expense;
3. State and local taxes;
4. Medical expenses, except those exceeding three per cent of income;
5. Casualty and theft losses, except those exceeding three per cent of income.
In addition, Dr. Brazer proposes these changes:
1. Eliminate double exemptions now allowed some taxpayers, their spouses, and the blind;
2. Subject dividend and interest payments to tax withholding;
3. Eliminate entertainment

Isaiah's Vision of the Future

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Isaiah 2:1-4; 9:2-7; 11:1-9.

"The word that Isaiah the son of Amoz saw concerning Judah and Jerusalem. And it shall come to pass in the last days, that the mountain of the Lord's house shall be established."—Isaiah 2:1, 2.

"And many people shall go up and say, Come ye, let us go up to the mountain of the Lord, to the house of the God of Jacob; and He will teach us of His ways, and we will walk in His paths."—Isaiah 2:3.

"And He . . . shall rebuke many people; and they shall beat their swords into plowshares, and their spears into pruninghooks; nation shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war."—Isaiah 2:4.

"And there shall come forth a rod out of Jesse . . . And the spirit of the Lord shall rest upon Him, the spirit of counsel and might . . . and of the fear of the Lord."—Isaiah 11:1-2. MEMORY VERSE—Isaiah 2:4.

Isaiah's Vision of the Future

THE REPEATED PREDICTION OF A DAY WHEN THE KINGDOM OF CHRIST, ESTABLISHED ON THIS EARTH, WILL EXERCISE AUTHORITY OVER ALL MANKIND

Scripture—Isaiah 2:1-4; 9:2-7; 11:1-9.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

"THIS LESSON concludes our series of studies in the major prophetic book of the Word of God, Isaiah—extensive, inexhaustible, with the most exalted sentences that ever came from the lips of any servant of God before the advent of our Lord. Alexander Whyte has rightly said, 'As we read and study Isaiah we come to feel and see that he was perhaps the greatest orator that ever opened his mouth on the face of the earth. He was perhaps the most eloquent speaker that ever stood up to speak to his fellow men.'"—Peloubet's Select Notes, by of the Lord from Jerusalem."—Isaiah 2:1-3. "And He shall judge among the nations, and shall rebuke many people; and they shall beat their swords into plowshares, and their spears into pruninghooks; nation shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more."—Isaiah 2:4. Isn't it tragic that in our day, centuries after the wise prophet Isaiah passed away, wars are still going on in certain parts of our world, and that there are threatenings of wars to be waged with infinitely more deadly weapons than were the Rev. Dr. Wilbur M. Smith. "The word that Isaiah, the son of Amoz saw concerning Judah and Jerusalem. And it shall come to pass in the last days, that the mountain of the Lord's house shall be established in the top of the mountains, and shall be exalted above the hills; and all nations shall flow unto it. "And many people shall go up and say, Come ye, and let us go up to the mountain of the Lord, to the house of the God of Jacob; and He will teach us of His ways, and we will walk in His paths; for out of Zion shall go forth the law, and the word dreamed of in Isaiah's time? "And there shall come forth a rod out of the stem of Jesse, and a Branch shall grow out of His roots; and the spirit of the Lord shall rest upon Him, the spirit of wisdom and understanding, the spirit of counsel and might, the spirit of knowledge and of the fear of the Lord."—Isaiah 11:1-2. This One is Jesus Christ, of course, and if we follow His teachings, we will love our neighbors and even our enemies. We must pray earnestly to Him to help us to live as He would have us; then we cannot go wrong. Let us read our Bibles and strive to be like Him. Likely Piece Of Junk He Found Was Big Bomb

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — Silas Robinson found what looked to be a likely candidate for a junkyard in a suburban residential area; He and a helper heaved the "tank" onto his pickup truck Thursday and Robinson drove to a junk company. "That doesn't look like a tank to me," said junkyard employe Pat Muskin. "It looks like a bomb." "It's a bomb and a big one," agreed Franki Bruck, owner of the yard and a warrant officer in the Army reserves. An ordinance team called from nearby Ft. Jackson said it was a 500-pound general purpose type bomb of World War II type. It was unfused, but held 250 pounds of TNT and was highly dangerous. The soldiers took it to the fort and exploded it. One theory was that the area where the bomb was found had once been a part of Ft. Jackson.

(Continued from page four) we worry about the Park Avenue intellectuals who will say that Khrushchev really came over to influence Americans to make Adlai Stevenson Secretary of State. We want no foreigners to butt into our elections. Nor need we concern ourselves with those whose flesh has already become carrion from fear and who would say, be kind to Khrushchev or he will bomb us with Sputniks. To them, we can only say that no head of state, in all our history, insulted our President as violently as Khrushchev insulted President Eisenhower. This we must not forget.

Kennedy Charts 'Six Pathways' To Peace, Calls For Break With Past

By JACK BELL
 With Kennedy in California (AP) — Sen. John F. Kennedy charted today six "pathways to peace" which he said can be followed only by breaking with the past and changing the national administration.

The Democratic presidential nominee pushed his campaign down the San Joaquin Valley toward night rallies in Los Angeles with the full dress talk on peace prepared for a Fresno appearance.

Kennedy said none of the suggestions he is making to assure the peace involves any easy effort.

"Not one of them can be done overnight," he said. "Not one of them can be accomplished without a break with the past, without a change in attitudes and change in administration," Kennedy said, however, he is not suggesting that either political party has a monopoly on the desire for peace.

"There is no one 'party of peace' in this country, just as there is no single 'war party' or 'party of appeasement,'" he said.

"The sooner we get these artificial labels out of the way, the sooner we can get down to discussing the real issues."

"For while both parties talk about peace, peace is not going to be won by merely talking about it. It requires action, and the Democratic party believes in action."

Kennedy said that to gain peace America must have a defense posture strong enough to convince any potential aggressor that war would be "a mistake—his mistake."

The Democratic nominee said it is not enough to say—as President Eisenhower and Vice President Richard M. Nixon have—that the United States is militarily the strongest nation on earth today.

He said potential aggressors have to be convinced this country has the power even after it has been attacked to win a war.

"And unless we can modernize our conventional forces and give them the mobility and firepower they need," he said, "we are in danger of seeing our strength and security gradually nibbled away by wars too limited to justify retaliation."

Secondly, Kennedy said the next president should establish a national peace agency to direct efforts toward disarmament, arms control and atomic testing curbs.

He said peace requires that the United States stand shoulder to shoulder with other free nations "united by close ties of friendship, commerce and mutual respect."

Kennedy called for a massive effort by the free nations to strengthen the political and economic independence "of those nations emerging on the bottom half of the globe—to prevent in those countries the chaos and despair on which Communist expansion feeds."

Another requirement, Kennedy said, is for "positive American leadership in a more effective United Nations working toward the establishment of a world wide peace under law, enforced by world wide sanctions of justice."

Finally, he continued, the best way to arouse world opinion against Soviet exploitation of satellite nations is to eliminate "unconscionable exploitation of human beings in this country."

Costly Research Said Still Vital To Drug Firms

WASHINGTON (AP)—A drug maker testified today that costly research and patent protection of new products are vital to the success of the industry's smaller firms.

Philip I. Bowman, president of Bristol Laboratories of Syracuse, N.Y., hit hard at the idea that elimination of patents in the prescription drug field would be a boon to little firms and to the public also.

He contended in testimony prepared for the Senate Antitrust and Monopoly subcommittee, that the effect would be just the opposite.

"We learned early in our corporate life that patents are a small firm's—and the public's—best friends," Bowman said.

Bristol Laboratories, a division of Bristol-Myers Co., is engaged in the discovery, manufacture and sale of ethical drugs, primarily antibiotics. It has been in existence since 1943.

Still a relatively small company with sales last year of $25.8 million, Bristol Laboratories has had "to grow by its own efforts with the help of some periodic financing by Bristol-Myers," Bowman said.

"First and foremost," he said, "the story of Bristol Laboratories is the story of the house that research built."

Bowman said that last year it spent 16.1 per cent of sales on research, compared to about 9 per cent for the industry as a whole, and has averaged 12 per cent from 1944 on.

"We estimate that major antibiotics have emerged with a frequency of one for every $20 million of industry research expenditure," he said, adding his firm alone has spent more than $20 million on antibiotic research.

Bowman said that patents are necessary to protect the fruits of such heavy research outlays.

"Without patents," he said, "the big, well-established firms with more effective production and sales teams could quickly rob a small firm of its research discoveries and could take the major share of the market."

He added that "if concentration is regarded as bad, then the patent system must be kept strong or approximately 1,275 small ethical drug firms will have little chance to grow and the big firms will get bigger."

Bowman also rejected the idea that elimination of patents would enable little firms to grow by taking advantage of the research of the big companies.

In the first place, he said, "new drug research would dry up" because it is so expensive that "no prudent firm would dare to gamble the money without the possibility of protecting the results."

Advisory Council Of Pitt's NCEA Unit Holds Meeting

The first meeting of the Advisory Council of the Pitt County unit of the North Carolina Education Association was held in the Tucker Building this week with Mrs. Kathryn Edwards, president, presiding.

It was announced that Dr. A. C. Dawson Jr., executive-secretary to the N.C.E.A. will be guest speaker for the first county meeting to be held Oct. 12 at Choccolate School. Other meetings are scheduled for Dec. 7, March 8 and a dinner meeting on April 12.

D. H. Conley, county superintendent of schools, and Arthur Alford, county supervisor for elementary grades, extended greetings to the group.

Conley reminded the representatives of the advantages Pitt County has and told them a good educational program cannot be bought in the "bargain basement."

Mrs. Barbara McLawhorn, secretary - treasurer, distributed membership cards and the participants were advised to urge active participation by all teachers in their professional organizations.

Ed Bright, principal of the Grifton School and newly elected president of the unit, was presented. Mrs. Elsie Cherry Lewis of the Stokes School, immediate past president, was also recognized.

The following committee chairmen were announced:

Legislative, Sam D. Bundy Federal Aid, Kelley Wallace; Planning Resources, Willard Pirch; International Relations, Mrs. Emily Harvey; Future Teachers of America, Mrs. Elsie Lewis; Ethics, Mrs. Edna Earle Baker; Public Relations, Arthur S. Alford.

The following building representatives were present: Mrs. Willard Finch, Ayden; High School; Mrs. Dale Sumrell, Ayden Elementary School; Mrs. Barbara Tyson, Belvoir-Falkland; John Coughlan, Bethel School; Mrs. Peggy Everett, Choccolate School; Mrs. Madeline Vincent, Falkland; Mrs. Mollie Pate, Farmville High School; Mrs. Anne Benfield, Farmville Primary School; Mrs. Yvonne Averette, Fountain; Mrs. Jean Musselwhite, Grifton; Mrs. Beatrice Little, Grimesland; Mrs. Martha Alcorn, Paction; Mrs. Evelyn Bullock, Stokes; Troy Jackson, Winterville.

Liberal Party Avers Peale Attitude 'Blind Prejudice'

NEW YORK (AP)—A Liberal party statement authored by two prominent Protestant ministers accuses Dr. Norman Vincent Peale of "blind prejudice" in his attitude toward Sen. John F. Kennedy's Roman Catholic faith.

Dr. John C. Bennett, dean of Union Theological Seminary, and Dr. Reinhold Niebuhr, vice president emeritus of Union, both vice-chairmen of the Liberal party, prepared the party statement issued Thursday.

"We believe that Dr. Peale and his associates, though they renounce bigotry, show blind prejudice because they see the Roman Catholic Church at all points in terms of the worst elements in its life, and that they show no understanding of the developments within Roman Catholicism in many Democratic countries which are favorable to religious liberty to all," it said.

The Liberal party statement referred to a meeting of 150 Protestants from 37 denominations presided over by Dr. Peale in Washington Wednesday. The group contended a Roman Catholic president would be "under extreme pressure by the hierarchy of his church."

Dr. Peale, a supporter of Republican presidential candidate Richard M. Nixon, later issued a separate statement.

"After serious and may I say prayerful thought and with no repudiation of my personal conviction I have come to the conclusion that the public agitation of religion as an issue can only be divisive and therefore in the long run harmful to our country," he said.

Dr. Peale said the religious issue will "no doubt be a factor" in deciding voters and that "it should be a matter of personal conscience." He added, however, that his sermons will be "scrupulously without political overtones."

The Liberal party, which exists only in New York state, has endorsed Democratic presidential candidate Kennedy.

Its statement said Dr. Peale's group "admit that on the particular questions involving church-state relations, Kennedy's own convictions are satisfactory."

"But they allege that no Catholic could remain true to his convictions under pressure from his church," the statement went on.

It said Dr. Peale's group failed to understand "the freedom of the American Catholic layman on civil matters which has been frequently manifested when Catholics have held such high offices as governors, senators or supreme court justices."

"To deny the presidency to anyone merely because he is a Roman Catholic would be an affront to 40 million of our fellow citizens and it would be likely to do great damage to the moral and social health of our country," the statement said.

"We repudiate this effort to divert the attention of non-Catholic voters away from the real issues that divide the parties and the candidates by emphasizing the false issue of Sen. Kennedy's religion, and we note that most of those Protestants who have been in the forefront of this effort would oppose any liberal Democrat regardless of his religion."

Meanwhile, the Presbyterian Outlook, a weekly publication, said in an editorial that religion should be considered in deciding which candidate to support, but added that it "is only one issue in the current campaign and not necessarily the most important one."

Republicans To Pay Demo Bill

BRADENTON, Fla. (AP)—The small print in its lease left the Manatee County Republican party in an embarrassing position today. The GOP is paying the Democratic Party's electric bill.

The two parties have headquarters in adjoining offices. One meter, located on the Republican side, records the electricity used by both parties. The lease requires the Republicans to pay the utilities bills.

"First and foremost," he said, "the story of Bristol Laboratories is the story of the house that research built."

Bowman said that last year it spent 16.1 per cent of sales on research, compared to about 9 per cent for the industry as a whole, and has averaged 12 per cent from 1944 on.

"We estimate that major antibiotics have emerged with a frequency of one for every $20 million of industry research expenditure," he said, adding his firm alone has spent more than $20 million on antibiotic research.

Two Signs In GOP Windows

ELKIN, N.C. (AP)—Local Republicans here in part of a building being vacated by a radio-television repair shop.

The lease entitles the GOP to use one of the two display windows. Thus, signs in one window boost the Nixon-Lodge ticket; in the other, a sign says, "Going Out of Business."

PLANNING AHEAD

FORT BELVOIR, Va. (AP)—The Army Engineers have disclosed preparations for lunar construction programs when Americans get to the moon. Harry N. Lowe Jr., an official of the army's Engineering Research and Development Laboratory here said Thursday the Army has completed preliminary design of lunar facilities and now is planning lunar mapping and survey studies.

BETTER COMPUTER

WASHINGTON (AP)—Government scientists said Thursday they are using a new electronic computer to locate earthquake centers more quickly and accurately than ever before. With the computer doing work formerly done by hand, the Coast and Geodetic Survey hopes to double the number of earth tremors pinpointed each year.

CHARGE INVASION

WELKOM, South Africa (AP)—South Africa's Nationalist Minister of Justice, Francois Erasmus, charged Thursday night that the Soviet Union is invading central Africa. Erasmus was referring particularly to Soviet infiltration into the disordered Congo.

It would take only 65 years for the entire population of Andorra to emigrate to the United States. Its population is 6,500; its American immigration quota is 100 per year.

Fairly Certain It's Futile Task

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP)—City Treasurer Herbert C. Hagele is reasonably certain it's useless to mail out one delinquent personal tax statement again.

The statement was returned to Hagele's office Wednesday with this notation on the envelope: "For three years you have been told she don't live here. She don't live here. Lady is dead."

Construction Projects At ECC Now Underway

Two new construction projects got underway at East Carolina College this week. Ground is now being cleared for an addition to the Graham classroom building and a new wing for the college infirmary.

The addition to Graham will be constructed at the rear of the present building and will provide classrooms, offices, and laboratories for the departments of geography and foreign languages. Vice President and Business Manager F.D. Duncan has announced.

The new structure will have three floors and will be parallel to the existing building. Rooms in the addition will open into the corridors running along the south side of the building.

Construction will be of brick and steel. The addition, designed by Architect A.J. Maxwell, Jr., of Goldsboro, will harmonize in design with the present structure.

Total cost of the addition to Graham will be $98,709.74, Mr. Duncan stated.

Contractors for the addition to Graham are: general construction, DuBose Construction Co. of Kingston; plumbing, Kingston Plumbing and Heating Co.; heating, Goldsboro Heating and Plumbing Co.; and electrical work, Davis Electrical Co. of New Bern.

Bids have been received and contracts are now being drawn up for the construction of an addition to the college infirmary. Mr. Duncan has announced. The new wing will be built at a cost of $67,800.

The two-story addition will be constructed at the rear of the infirmary. It will be a brick and steel structure. Plans were drawn by Dudley and Shoe, architects, of Greenville.

Space will be provided in the new wing for the addition of forty beds to infirmary equipment. A

TIME OUT — An unidentified East Carolina football player takes time out to patch a minor injury. The Pirates had their first contact work yesterday. A scrimmage session is on tap for this Saturday.

Eppes High Host To Oxford Tonite

A veteran Eppes High eleven will kick off the 1960 season in high spirits tonight when it hosts Oxford in a conference game scheduled for 8:00 at the Eppes Athletic Field.

Coach Percy Daniels opens his ninth season at Eppes with what may well be his best club. At least early indications have given reason for Daniels to be optimistic about the '60 season.

Only James Brewington, starting center, was lost for the '59 Bulldogs club which posted a 7-2 record, losing to Wilmington and Raleigh.

An opening game opponent last season, Eppes ran roughshod over Oxford, 38-0. Daniels is hoping for a repeat performance from his experienced-laden squad.

Pre-season practice, filled with scrimmage sessions, has not hindered the physical condition of the Eppes squad. Only William Adams, senior halfback, has suffered an injury and he may be used in sports tonight, according to Daniels.

"We have had more team effort and our largest turnout for football," surmised Daniels. "If we come around and win our first game we might surprise eastern Carolina this fall."

Figured to compose the large proportion of Eppes reserve strength are 18 freshmen, the largest number Daniels has had at one time. One of the yearlings, Raymond Tucker, is scheduled to open at tackle tonight.

Others expected to see action include Charlie Mills, Milton Brown, Leon Jenkins, Robert Moore and Charlie Cysland.

The starting lineup for Eppes tonight will be: Alton Harris and Calvin Gatlin at the flanks; Tucker and Nathan Cromwell at the tackles; Columbus Hunt and Charles Green at the guards; and Levon Little at center.

Quarterbacking the club will be Joe Tyson with his running mates being Larry Hardy and Freddy Watson at halfbacks, and Marvin Anderson at fullback.

Odds Still Favor U.S. Cage Team

ROME (AP) — America's basketball team appeared a lead pipe-cinch today to win the Olympic championship.

It needs only a closing victory over Brazil Saturday night for an 8-0 record. And, unless the Americans try playing only four men at a time, there should be no concern about the United States dropping its first Olympic decision, or even losing the gold medal.

The Americans Thursday night shook off a stubborn Italian team, 112-81, after leading only 54-48 at halftime. Ohio State's Jerry Lucas was the big gun, scoring 26 points — 20 in the first half.

That was the fifth time the high-seared U.S. club has surpassed the 100-point mark and it was its second highest score of the Olympic competition. The Americans trounced Japan 125-26. Russia Thursday night wore down a spirited Brazil team 64-62, which gave the Soviets a 1-1 record in the four-team scrap for the top four positions. Brazil also is 1-1 while Italy is 0-2 and the United States 2-0.

If Russia beats Italy Saturday night, then the United States could lose to Brazil by 22 points and still win the gold medal.

However, if Italy beats Russia, then the following USA-Brazil game is a head-to-head affair with the winner taking the championship.

Dow Finsterwald Leads Golf Field

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Dow Finsterwald of Tequesta, Fla., led nearly 100 touring professionals into the $20,000 Utah Open Golf Tournament today after scoring the lowest nine holes of his career in Thursday's pro-am preliminary.

Finsterwald, who won the Open in 1958, tied with Paul Harney of Worcester, Mass., for pro sweepstakes honors in the pro-am. Each got eight-under-par 63s on the 6,310-yard, par 34-37-71 Salt Lake Country Club course. They split the $540 pro prize.

ECC Looks Sharp In Contact Work

What is the future for All-Conference Glenn Bass without 1959 running mate James Speight? Yesterday Bass scored three touchdowns in a period of 15 minutes, leaving little doubt that the Wilson halfback will once again draw accolades from the North State Conference.

The flashy halfback scored twice on long runs and hauled in a Bert Stafford pass to account for all the scoring in a brief scrimmage for the first unit. It was the first time this season the Bucs tested their gladiators in contact work.

The first unit for the Pirates, quarterbacked by Bert Stafford, looked sharp against a defense set up by the third unit. Sonny Baysinger, left halfback, and fullbacks David Rogers and Billy Strickland ripped the line for long gains while Bass scored on a straight-up-the-middle play and a sweep around left end.

James Lockerman grabbed a couple of Stafford tosses to feature in the offensive workout. The second unit used a ground attack to score once against the third unit. Fullback Nick Hilgert picked up large chunks of yardage in the drive which was climaxed with Mac Thacker scoring.

"The Bucs have been working behind 'closed doors' for the past two days. Reasons for the 'closed sessions' are to eliminate distractions and to allow more attention to the freshmen.

McKay Ousted In Net Tournery

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — Barry MacKay still is the big man on the U.S. Davis Cup team — the guy the Americans are counting on to bring the cup back from Australia.

"Barry can get to the heights more than anyone," said Cup Capt. Davis Freed today. "He still has his big days. I'm disappointed in his performance in the National championships, but I still have confidence in him."

MacKay was knocked out by Bob Mark, a second-string Australian, in the fourth round of the National Thursday, 7-5, 6-3, 6-8, 0-6, 6-4 and looked good only in the fourth set.

Earl Buchholz sailed into the quarter-finals with a 6-0, 6-0, 6-2 triumph over Eduardo Zucita of Ecuador, and met Ham Richardson today. Richardson gained his bracket with a 6-1, 8-10, 6-2, 3-6, 6-0 victory over Lew Gerrard of New Zealand.

Probably the top quarter-final however, pits Chuck McKinley of St. Ann, Mo., against top-seeded Neale Fraser of Australia, the defending champion. McKinley outlasted Vic Seixas 6-4, 2-6, 17-15, 6-4, while Fraser beat Mike Sangster of England, 6-2, 6-1, 6-4.

The other two quarter-finals sent Rod Laver of Australia, seeded No. 2, against Bobby Wilson of England, No. 8, and Mark against Dennis Ralston of Bakersfield, Calif.

Coach Banged Up

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Coach Jack Thompson of Farrago High School stepped into a linebacker's post to show how to ward off a blocker. Now he hopes to get out of the hospital in time for tonight's football game.

Thompson went to the hospital Wednesday with a shoulder separation suffered when he attempted to demonstrate a point he was trying to make and was knocked sprawling.

Tarboro, Kinston Clash Tonight

A pre-season favorite, Tarboro, and always dangerous Kinston, clash tonight, drawing the spotlight from other Northeastern 3-A schools swinging into football action for the first time this season.

The Tarboro-Kinston battle at Kinston will be the only league battle this week but all eight clubs will be in action.

Jacksonville, another pre-season choice, opened its season last week, stunning Chaborn by a one-sided score. Tonight it is host to 4-A Goldsboro.

Defending league champion Washington will also be stepping into higher ranks tonight when they tackle Wilson on the latter's field.

Other games in the conference find Greenville opening at Ahsokie, Elizabeth City at Hertford, Morehead City at New Bern, and Roanoke Rapids at Edenton.

Rudolph Wins Third Medal

By TED SMITS
Associated Press Sports Editor

ROME (AP) — Soviet Russia, its gold medal and team point leadership over the United States assured, looked to more of the so-called minor sports it excels in today to fatten its domination of the 1960 Olympic Games.

The first results of the day gave an indication of what was to come. In the first quarter-final match of the team epee fencing tournament, the Russians quickly advanced to the semifinals with a 9-2 victory over Germany. Italy beat Sweden 9-3 and will meet Russia in the semis.

With track and field ended except for Saturday's marathon race, the day's Olympic schedule showed competition in shooting, gymnastics, weightlifting, horsemanship, and fencing—sports in which the Soviets have been scoring well and regularly.

Shooting finals were scheduled in clay pigeon and rapid fire pistol with Russians leading at the halfway mark in each. The only U.S. possibility was Marine Capt. Bill McMillan of Turtle Creek, Pa., who was second at the midway point of the rapid fire pistol. Lt. Jim Clark of Bartlesville, Okla., was fifth at the same stage in the clay pigeon event.

Both Capt. McMillan and the leader, Russia's Evenyeh Cherkosav, were running ahead of the world and Olympic record pace.

Except for McMillan and John Kelley's remote hopes in Saturday's marathon, America's only other gold medal of the games which end Sunday would come from the unbeaten basketball team, which won its seventh straight game, 112-81 over Italy Thursday night.

A victory over Brazil would clinch it for the all-star club coached by California's Pete Newell.

The track and field games wound up Thursday in a surge of glory for some of the Americans and a day of doom for one.

Wilma Rudolph, Clarksville, Tenn., anchored the U.S. women 400 meter relay team to her third gold medal of the 1960 Olympics, placing her in a select class with all-time greats.

But her boy friend, Ray Norton, of Oakland, Calif., ran outside his zone of limitation in taking the baton in the men's 400 meter finals and the Americans were disqualified after it appeared they had beaten the Germans.

For Norton it was the climax to a dismal flop. He ran last in both the 100 and 200 meter sprints—the man rated on form to be the top favorite.

Wilma emerged the top star. She won the three gold medals the U.S. women collected to go with the men's nine. The Russians got 11 track and field firsts, six by their women, a sizeable dent in what the Americans once considered their own back yard.

The disqualification, though, spoiled what would have been a rousing finish for Uncle Sam. The men's 1600 meter relay team raced to victory in a world record of 3:02.2, breaking Jamaica's eight-year-old mark of 3:03.9. Jack Herman, Woodland, Calif., did 46.7, Earl Young of San Fernando, Calif., 45.6, Glenn Davis, Columbus, Ohio, 45.5 and then Otis Davis, the new 400-meter king from Los Angeles, clocked an anchor leg at :44.4.

Davis had to run the fastest 400 from a moving start in world track history to beat Germany's Carl Kaufmann who was second in :44.5.

In the final field events, the United States was shut out. Russia's Viktor Cymbulenko won the javelin with 278-8 1/2. Al Cantello, Norristown, Pa., world record holder at 282-3 1/2, threw only 245-1 and never got to the finals.

Romania's Iolanda Dalas captured the women's high jump at 6-1 1/2 in which the only American, Nemia Rogers of Roba, Ala., went out early.

The 10,000 meter grind went to another Russian, Peter Bolotnikov, in 32:32.3, better than the 28:45.6 Olympic mark of his countryman, Vladimir Kuts, but short of the latter's world mark of 28:30.4.

Max Truex, of Warsaw, Ind.,

the lone American entry, surprised with a fine sixth place showing in 28:50.2, the fastest he ever has run the event.

The Russians also picked up two gold medals in weightlifting, with Alexander Kuryov beating Tommy Kono, Honolulu, in the middleweight division on a lift of 964 pounds that cracked Kono's world record. Kono was second with a lift of 942 pounds.

The Grand Prix de Dressage in the equestrian competition also was won by Russia.

With the Olympics drawing to a close Sunday, the unofficial team title once more seemed to be Russia's with 34 gold medals and 618 points. The United States had 32 gold medals and 511 1/2 points.

Orioles Pick Up Game In AL Chase; Sox Lick Yanks

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Opening day, Baltimore beat Washington 3-2 behind Jack Fisher's 3-2-3 innings of three-hit, shut-out relief. Now there are just 18 games left, and that same young right-hander has pitched his third consecutive shutout, winning his sixth in a row as the Orioles clobbered Cleveland in a 9-0 outburst Thursday night that restored their 1 1/2-game lead in the American League.

The Chicago White Sox, with Ted Kluszewski driving in three runs, knocked off New York 5-4, after the second place Yankees had edged within a half-game of the top. The White Sox are third, still 4 1/2 games behind.

Washington rapped Kansas City 7-0, and Boston beat Detroit 6-1 in the other AL games.

Fisher, 21, who blanked the White Sox and Yankees in his last two starts, extended his shutout-inning string to 27 with a five-hitter against the Indians. But he didn't get a chance to coast until the seventh inning, when the Birds broke through for all their runs as 13 men went to bat against loser Dick Stigman (5-10) and two relievers.

The Yankees blew a 4-2 lead after a two-out miff by first baseman Bill Skowron in the seventh. Gene Freese started the rally with a leadoff home run against Yankee ace Art Ditmar, who left after an infield single by Luis Aparicio and the error.

Al Smith hung the loss on reliever Luis Arroyo (4-1) with a single that made it 4-3, and Klu then wrapped it up with a two-run double off southpaw Bobby Shantz.

Lennie Green and Bob Lemon homered for the Nats in support of Jack Kralick (7-4), who beat the A's and Dick Hall (7-12) with a seven-hitter. Ted Williams walked home run No. 27, the 519th of his career.

In the words of Milwaukee Manager Charlie Dressen, the Braves is not dead yet.

Not with guys like Ed Mathews driving in five runs on a pair of homers and Warren Spahn closing in on yet another 20-victory season as they did while clobbering San Francisco 9-4 Thursday night.

Spahnie, working for the third time in four days, won his 18th and crashed a home run along with Mathews and Hank Aaron as the Braves moved within six games of first place Pittsburgh. They also gained a virtual second place tie with the St. Louis Cardinals, who like the Pirates were idle, in the National League race.

The defending champion Dodgers, 10 1/2 games behind in fourth, won 7-4 at Cincinnati Thursday night. The Cubs beat Philadelphia 2-1.

In the American League, the Baltimore Orioles regained a 1 1/2 game lead, erupting for all their runs in the seventh inning while Jack Fisher pitched his third straight shutout in a 9-0 victory at Cleveland. The Chicago White Sox beat second place New York 5-4. Washington whipped Kansas City 7-0, and Boston beat Detroit 6-1. Matthews no longer a sluggish slugger, unloaded a two-run homer in the first inning, then tagged a three-run shot off loser Mike McCormick (12-11) in the second. Aaron hit his in the first. Spahn, 39, beaten as a starter and in relief at Pittsburgh on Monday and Tuesday, bounced back with an eight-hit job and hit his third home run of the year in the eighth off reliever Billy Loes.

Norm Larker drove in three runs with a pair of singles for the Dodgers, who wrapped up their scoring in the first two innings against loser Jay Hook (10-16). Sandy Koufax (7-12) was the winner with an eight-hitter. Rookie Art Mahaffey lost his first since called up by the Phils, although allowing just four hits by the Cubs in his seven innings. Ernie Banks' 39th home run scored Chicago's first run, and Ron Sanfey's single scored the clincher in the sixth after a triple by Bob Will. Glen Hobbie (14-17) was the winner.

Watkins Carries Offensive Hopes For Va. Tech

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

In the Virginia Tech football camp they're hoping this, finally, will be the "big year" everyone has been predicting for halfback Johnny Watkins since he came to Blacksburg in 1957.

When Watkins enrolled at Tech he was one of the most highly prized prospects in the land. At Norview High in Norfolk, he'd been the all-state offensive whiz of Virginia's championship scholastic team. His feats as a break-away runner were of heroic proportions.

Somehow, though, the 5-7, 162-pound scabcat never has been able to make it big at Tech. After a fine freshman season, he seemed a comer in 1958 when he ran for 138 yards in 37 varsity carries. But injuries hit him and he carried just four times last year for a mere 14 yards.

Now, with 1959 All-Conference halfback Alger Pugh gone, Tech is in dire need of Watkins' talents—and from the looks of things, he may at last be ready to have that "big" season, just in the nick of time.

The speedy halfback starred in Tech's spring drills and has remained a stickout in pre-season practice. Thursday he got off a sprint of 27 yards in a squad scrimmage, setting up a touchdown.

One of the conference's injured, quarterback Tee Redding, got back into action at Davidson after being out with an ankle sprain.

Richmond's Spiders learned some new plays in their morning practice. Center Don Christman, tackle Bob Buffman and end Bob Coolbaugh won praise for their work in a live tackling drill.

Tackle Harry Rakowski, a former center, drew plaudits from The Citadel Coach Eddie Teague. Thursday the Bulldogs looked sloppy and sluggish but Teague said he wasn't worried. "We have no complaints about the spirit of the club."

Furman had a disappointing workout, reviewing its passing game in offensive drills. There was other labor on punts and kick-off returns.

At William and Mary, sophomore tackle Martin Nosal advanced to the No. 2 unit and sophomore Stan Penkunas won promotion to the No. 2 fullback.

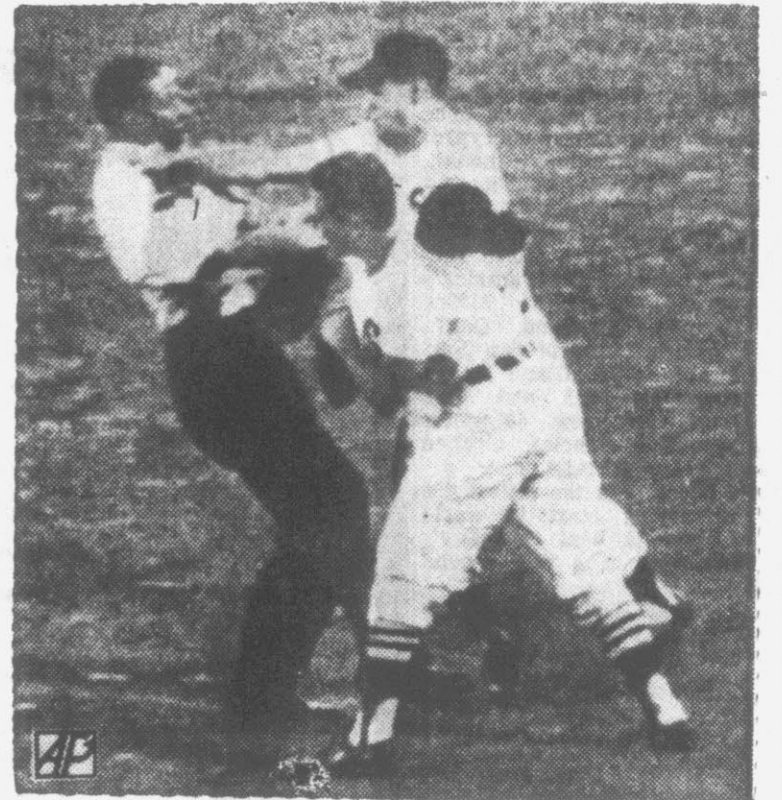

Quarterbacks Danny Williams, Dale Evans and Ron Romura pleased West Virginia Coach Gene Corum as the Mountaineers held a busy offensive session.

for a man but the mark could not be allowed because of a slight wind. At that she tied the world record of 111.3, in a heat and set an Olympic record of :23.2 in a heat of the 200. Wind in her face slowed her in the finals.

U.S. Scores 12 Medals In Track

ROME (AP) — The United States narrowly beat Russia in track and field, the blue ribbon sport of the Olympic Games, as the record book was torn into shreds.

Ray Norton Gives Up Racing After Blunder In Relay

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

ROME (AP) — "I can't do anything right," said Ray Norton dejectedly. "First I run too slow, then I run too fast."

"So what happens? I become the goat of the Olympics. There's nothing I can do about it. It's a memory I'll have to live with for life."

The world collapsed Thursday for the rangy San Jose State College student from Oakland, Calif., America's champion sprinter. His series of failures was climaxed by a blunder which cost the United States a victory in the 400-meter relay.

Norton, running the second leg, became too anxious and overran his zone in receiving the baton from teammate Frank Budd of Asbury Park, N.J.

The Americans nipped the strong German team at the wire in a fantastic race with Dave Sims running a tremendous anchor, only to be disqualified because of Norton's error.

Previously Norton—by his own admission "tied up in knots" from nervousness—had run last in the six-man finals of the 100 and 200 meter races, losing for America a sprint dominance which it had held for 32 years.

Thursday's mistake was a crowning blow. The tall Negro athlete tried to keep his chin up, but he couldn't completely hide all the agonies that chewed away at him.

"Ray can't fool me, I can tell," said Wilma Rudolph, winner of three gold medals and America's heroine of the women's track competition. "He tries to play it cool, but I know. He is dying inside."

Wilma won her third gold medal by anchoring the women's relay team to victory and then fled Olympic stadium in tears Thursday because of Norton's shame.

Ray and Wilma are the strange goat and heroine sweetheart combination of these 17th Olympic games. They have been inseparable. Ray has cheered the willowy Tennessee girl in her historic sprint triumphs. Wilma has commiserated with Ray during his mushrooming miseries.

"After I get home from this trip, I don't think I'll ever run again," Norton said. "I've had it. Now I'd better go out and try to make a living. I hate to end my career on this sour note, but that's the way it has to be."

The California speed star said he wanted to complete his studies at San Jose State, requiring about one more term, and then go into teaching and coaching.

The professional San Francisco 49ers want him to play football but he says: "I love football but I doubt that I will play."

plays it likely will see a lot of in the next couple of weeks.

These were pass patterns as run by the Wake Forest Deacons, whose senior quarterback Norman Snead set several ACC passing records last season—for example, 12 touchdown passes, 1,361 yards gained by passing, and most passes attempted and completed (191 and 82).

Clemson Coach Frank Howard made it plain Thursday his boys had better see those Wake Forest pass patterns in their dreams, if they don't plan on seeing them in nightmares. The Tigers open at Wake Forest Sept. 24.

"Ole Snead," drawled Howard, "is going to pass you boys dizzy if you don't get better." The Tigers defeated Snead and Wake Forest 33-31 in a woolly contest last year.

Meanwhile, at Wake Forest, the Deacons spent much of their two workouts correcting mistakes which showed up in Wednesday's scrimmage. Tackle Wayne Wolf, who did most of the punting last season, also worked on field goal and extra point kicking.

Maryland also gave attention to punting and other aspects of kicking in the Terps' scrimmages. End Gary Collins and quarterback Dale Beity did the booting. The first three teams also took turns on offense and defense against a fourth team using tactics employed by West Virginia—the Terps' opening opponent Sept. 17.

Duke and North Carolina State spent much time on passing. Don Altman and sophomore Walt Rapold of the Blue Devils found good targets in ends Teer Moorman and Pete Widener. Halfbacks Joel Arrington and Jack Wilson also got off good runs. The Wolfpack worked on offense and was to perform today for touring Atlantic Coast Conference sportswriters.

South Carolina held a short morning workout and saw movies of a previous scrimmage in the afternoon. Coaches said 220-pound Dwaine Godfrey and 218-pound Howard Sohn are contending for the No. 2 right guard spot vacated by Dave Adam, whose knee injury and operation will sideline him several weeks.

North Carolina ran offensive plays against reserves. Coach Jim Hickey praised three sophomores' work—270-pound tackle Tony Hennessey, linebacker Joe Craver and halfback Jimmy Addison.

Virginia worked on offense and defense in a hard scrimmage workout. Quarterback Gary Cuzzo and fullback Fred Shepherd stood out in passing and running.

Williams Shows Gratitude For Detroit Honors

BURLINGTON, N.C. (AP) — Greensboro's Yanks today are one game away from a sweep of the Carolina League championship playoff series with Burlington.

The Yanks made it 3 to 0 Thursday night with a 5-3 triumph at Burlington. They won the two previous games at home 5-4 and 1-0. Greensboro scored all five runs Thursday in the third inning. Then they put down a Burlington rally which netted three runs in the ninth. All scored on Doc Edwards' three-run homer.

Jim Orton, Fred Carpenter, Phil Linz and George Banks opened the Greensboro third with singles to account for three runs. Jim Johnston then doubled home the fourth run and scored the fifth on an error.

Greensboro pitcher Larry Delmargo gained the victory. Starter Tom Gansauer was tagged with the loss.

American Grid League To Open Season Tonight

BOSTON (AP) — The fledgling American Football League tries its wings, talent and gate appeal "for real" tonight when Boston and Denver kick off the season.

The drawing board plans, player acquisition, training camps and exhibitions are history. The test begins at revamped Boston University Field.

The other six members of the new professional loop—competing for the public dollars with the established National League—swing into action later this weekend.

Boston was made a 16 point favorite by the odds-makers despite the fact its fine breakout runner, Ron Burton, has an ailing ankle and will see limited action if any.

The Boston coaching staff, led by Lou Saban, ex-Cleveland Browns ace who coached Western Illinois University a year ago, is wary of the Broncos. The Denver club the Patriots beat 43-6 a month ago in an exhibition isn't recognizable. Film and scouting reports of that earlier meeting are worthless.

The Broncos now have a squad half of whom weren't with the team a month ago. Coach Frank Filchok feels he has the adequate help for veteran ex-Notre Dame and Canadian pro quarterback Frank Tripucka.

Boston has an exceptional passing attack featuring passers Butch Songin and Tommy Greene and standout receiver Jimmy Colclough. The Patriots have a solid offensive wall and a fine pass defender in Fred Bruney. The club still is shallow on the defensive wall which explains the last-minute acquisition of NFL castoffs Harry Jacobs of Detroit and Don McComb from the Philadelphia Eagles. Jacobs will play defensive end and linebacker while McComb will be a defensive end and tackle.

A Stirring Western Suspense Novel
The Lean Rider by CLIFF FARRELL

CHAPTER
It was not until morning that Lisa Randolph learned why the herd had stampeded. It was while she and Hester Barbee were serving a late breakfast at mid-morning that tired and dusty riders who had succeeded in rounding up the scattered cattle. She noticed a folded section of canvas lying beside the supply wagon. It had not been there a short time earlier. She picked it up, puzzled. The daily routine of packing and unpacking the gear had made her familiar with every item in both wagons. This was a wagon sheet, fairly new, but showing the first signs of weathering. It did not belong. She turned and started to frame a question. Abel Barbee had been watching her, and spoke first. "Put it in the wagon. We'll keep it with us. He dropped his empty plate and coffee cup into the wagon. He spoke to Hester in the reluctant manner of a son who feels that he owes an explanation. "The wagon sheet was used to start 'em runnin' last night," he said. "Somebody rode along the fringe of the herd, wavin' it, then let it go flyin' on the wind into the midst of them. The only other wagons that we know about within reach of us are Kemp Travis's. Somebody from his outfit was waitin' for us on this side of the river." He walked away to catch up his first day horse from the remuda led by Shadrack. Within half an hour camp was broken and the wagons were in motion. Well ahead of them, the herd was stringing out, still nervous as an aftereffect of the stampede but beginning to settle down to the routine of the march. The wagons reached higher ground and Lisa looked back. Beyond the river she could see a herd moving toward the crossing and nearby it a second drive closely held. Abel rode to share her view point and sat gazing. "The river must be even higher today," Lisa said. "They can't make it across, can they?" "Travis will make it," Abel said. "He's got two crews to help with. He'll make it or die." Later in the day and half a dozen miles farther on, from another rise in the land, she looked back and saw the ant-like movement of cattle and riders west of the river. Travis was succeeding in crossing his herds. The day advanced. The slow miles passed, step by step jolt by jolt, creak by creak. The sun beat down. A hot and arid wind came screaming at them at mid-afternoon, blowing dust and sand. The herd drifted with the wind eastward into rough, broken country along the river, in spite of all efforts by the riders. The wind died suddenly at sundown and the Longhorns settled down to grazing quietly. But they had lost five miles. Lisa was finishing the chores in camp after the late meal that night, when she paused. Once again that low and deep rumble had arisen in the darkness. This time the sound came from far away — so far she decided it might only be her imagination. She looked around. Matthew Barbee had been sitting on his blankets, his volume of odes open before him on his knees, but he had not been reading. A dead cigarette in his lips, he was listening to that muted murmur. She looked around again. Only Abel and Paul were unaccounted for. She realized now that they had not even appeared for the meal. She walked to the supply wagon, lifted the flap and peered in. The folded length of wagon sheet that had been used to stampede their own herd the previous night was missing. She dropped the flap. Hester was gazing at her, tired but grim. Hester said nothing. It was more than two hours before Abel and Paul returned. They picked their night horses and walked into the circle without speaking. They silently ate the food Hester and Lisa handed them. Later, after she and Hester were lying on their pallets in the supply wagon, Hester spoke in a whisper. "It had to be done. If we didn't hit back, Kemp Travis would have kept stampeding us 'til we'd have lost every head of stock." Lisa knew that no one in camp really slept that night. Abel doubled the guard on the herd, with the shifts alternating each three hours. The night passed without trouble. In the morning, after they were on the trail again, Lisa saw evidence of scattered cattle being rounded up far behind them in the flats west of the river. Both of Kemp Travis's herd had been stampeded. Toward mid-afternoon, two riders appeared on a skyline to the south. They halted their horses and remained there, plainly visible, for a time, watching as the drive crawled ahead. They were too far away to identify with the unaided eye. Hester brought out a small brass telescope. "Kemp Travis an' Coe Slade," she told Lisa. After a time the pair wheeled their horses and rode away. They had made no hostile move or gesture, but the threat was plain enough. They were promising retaliation. Only Abel left his place on swing and rode to the wagon Lisa was driving, saying he was out of tobacco and wanted to replenish his pouch from the supply he had in his war sack. She halted the wagon for a moment to accommodate him but remained on the seat, not interested in his activities. But as Quirk mounted to return to the herd, Abel came riding up and intercepted him. "Where's your gun?" Abel asked. "Lisa was a little frightened by something in Abel's voice. She saw that Quirk had once again removed the six-shooter with which Abel had supplied him, and no doubt had hidden it in the wagon.

"I didn't hire out to get mixed up in any shootin' scrapes," Quirk said. "A gun is for your own safety," Abel said. "As long as you've got one, you can defend yourself. In addition, you hired out to help get these cattle to Nevada." "They ain't my cattle," Quirk said. "I'm askin' to be paid off. I'm goin' back to San Ysidro. I seen Kemp Travis out there. Slade was with him. This drive ain't never goin' to make it to Reno. You know that as well as I do, Abel." Abel rode to the chuckwagon. Hester delved into a leather satchel and brought out a canvas bag which contained their meager cash supply. From this Abel counted out two gold-pieces and some silver which he gave to Quirk. "Turn your horse in with the bunch," he said. Quirk was suddenly aghast. "But I'll need a horse. I'll pay for it." "We've got none to spare," Abel said. "We're likely to be on short string before we get to Nevada. I don't have to tell you that." Quirk was breathing hard. "I've changed my mind. I'll string along." "We don't want a man that changes point with every swing of the wind," Abel said. "Get off the horse!" (To Be Continued Tomorrow)

News Briefs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Uncle Sam's tax sleuths investigated fewer cases in the last fiscal year than in the preceding 12 months but won more convictions, the Internal Revenue Service said Thursday. Its intelligence division made 3,561 full scale investigations, compared with 3,969 a year earlier, but won convictions of 1,079 individuals compared with 931 in the preceding fiscal year, the IRS said.

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (AP) — The Foreign Office notified the Dominican Embassy Thursday that Haiti is severing diplomatic relations with the Dominican Republic, its neighbor on the island of Hispaniola. The Foreign Office said it was complying with the San Jose resolution of foreign ministers of the Organization of American States calling for the diplomatic break.

NEW YORK (AP) — Pennsylvania Station, usually one of the busiest railroad terminals in the world, spent a lonely 50th birthday Thursday. No trains are running to or from the terminal because of the eight-day strike by the Transport Workers Union and System Federation.

NEW YORK (AP) — A turnaround record for New York Harbor was established Thursday night by the French liner Liberté. The time was 15 hours and five minutes. The previous record of 18 hours and 55 minutes was set by the Cunard liner Queen Elizabeth.

MOSCOW (AP) — The new Cuban ambassador to the Soviet Union, G. Faure Chaumont, arrived Thursday to take up his post. He is the first diplomatic representative from Cuba since relations were broken in 1952 under the Fulgencio Batista regime.

Kennedy Reports It'll Be A Boy
RICHMOND, Calif. (AP) — It's going to be a boy at the Kennedys. Sen. John F. Kennedy, the Democratic presidential candidate, has been explaining why his wife isn't along with him on this campaign and now he predicts what will happen. "My wife is home," he told a rally gathered around his campaign train here Thursday, "and we are having a baby, a boy, in November."

Sanford Asserts No Arm-Twisting

RALEIGH (AP) — Democratic gubernatorial candidate Terry Sanford says he does not feel state employees are being coerced into contributing to the party war chest. "I haven't twisted any arms, and I don't intend to twist any," Sanford said Thursday at a news conference. The sandy-haired candidate also got off some digs at his Republican opposition. He said the state needs a two-party system about like "a mechanized farm needs a plug mule." He answered a question by saying he would think about debating with Republican nominee for governor Robert Gavin "when he gets through debating with himself." Gavin has his hand at recent circulars and letters soliciting Democratic party funds from state workers. He has called for a civil service system of hiring and firing to eliminate what he called coercive attempts to get contributions. Sanford told reporters he had issued a statement earlier in the campaign that "no state employee will ever be required by me to take part in any political activity." Sanford said the Democratic party has boosted the state to the top position in the South and has increased its prestige nationally. Sanford said he felt televised debates served no purpose unless the candidates were questioned by a panel of newsmen or similar interested persons. He said if such a joint news conference were set up with Gavin, "I would not object." He said the Democratic party has been gaining strength, and expressed the opinion that the "bitterness over the Catholic question is dying down." The party's presidential candidate, John Kennedy, is Catholic.

Donna Is Fourth Storm Of Season

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Hurricane Donna is the fourth tropical storm of 1960. The first three, Abby, Brenda and Cleo, did little damage. If Donna does serious damage in the United States, its name will be retired for 10 years. Except for this, the Weather Bureau has four sets of female names which are used in rotation, one set each year. Other names for 1960 are Ethel, Florence, Gladys, Hilda, Isbell, Janet, Katy, Lila, Molly, Nita, Odette, Paula, Roxie, Stella, Trudy, Vesta, Winny.

Child Fell Dead, Bullet In Heart

COLLINGSWOOD, N.J. (AP) — Elaine M. Gary, 7, and three other children were playing on the lawn of her home Thursday when suddenly Elaine fell to the ground with a bullet through her heart. Police said Harry Morton, 20, had been shooting at targets with a .22 caliber rifle in his home just across the street and fired six shots. Officers quoted him as saying he hadn't realized the bullets had gone through the wall. No charges have been filed against Morton.

Long Summer Drought On TV Shows Signs Of End

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

After the long summer drought, the channels of television are beginning to fill up again. Not only will the annual girl-watching show, the Miss America Pageant, turn up again on the home screens, but we'll be seeing the first episodes of three new series and some special programs as well during the next seven days.

The annual crowning of Miss America will be shown-live, of course-Saturday night on CBS and will, as usual pile up one of the year's big ratings.

Earlier (9-9-30) NBC's new western series, "The Tall Man," will bow in with Barry Sullivan playing the law man and Clu Gulager the outlaw.

On Sunday, there will be the national tennis championships from Forest Hills from 5 to 6 p. m. on NBC, concluding just in time for Vice President Richard M. Nixon to appear on "Meet the Press."

Monday night there is the premiere of "Presidential Countdown" on CBS, a series of half-hour shows designed to keep the nation posted on the progress of the campaign. Tuesday night

First Rain In Over 2 Months

NEWCASTLE, Wyo. (AP)—Newcastle in northeastern Wyoming received its first rain in 2½ months Wednesday night.

The downpour, from 6:45 p. m. to 7:30 p. m., dropped 1.8 inches of moisture. That was the most for a single rain here since Sept. 24, 1959.

Power for about half of the town was knocked out for 35 minutes.

marks the debut of NBC's "Thriller" series (9-10) with the first show called "The Twisted Image."

ABC's Wednesday evening musical hour will be "Football Kick-off" — 1960" (7:30-8:30) with emphasis on songs, dancing and grid stars. And for those who prefer other sports, there is the premiere of CBS' "Aquanauts" at the same hour — this is an hour long facsimile of "Sea Hunt," but with two divers having adventures instead of one.

And all along the way there are season premieres of old shows, among them "Have Gun, Will Travel," "Lassie," and "Bachelor Father."

CASTEL GANDOLFO, Italy (AP)—Pope John XXIII received several thousand people in general audience Wednesday among them scores of athletes who have been participating in the Olympic Games and heavyweight boxing champion Floyd Patterson.

Stock And Market Reports

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA) — North Carolina eggs. Supply short. Demand good. Prices paid producers for clean, unsized eggs delivered nearly grading stations cases exchanged: A large white 46-47 1/2; mostly 46 1/2-47; A large brown 48-50; medium whites 39-40 1/2, mostly 40; browns 37 1/2-41, mostly 39-40; small whites 26-27, mostly 27; small browns 27-31.

NEW YORK (AP) — Speculative interest spread to a wide variety of issues as the stock market moved to the upside in moderate trading early this afternoon. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 1.00 to 218.00 with the industrials up 1.60, the rails up .90 and the utilities up .10.

Pivotal stocks among the steels, rails, auto, drugs and nonferrous metals scored gains of fractions to about a point. Aircrafts continued unchanged to slightly lower. Oils and building materials were mixed.

Advances running to about 5 points for Polaroid and Lehn & trading interest in the livelier Fluk highlighted a widening of stocks.

Nothing much in the business news helped spark sentiment but the market was close to the support level from which prices rebounded three previously this year.

The market and a mixed opening then jogged to the upside. The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 2.07 at 613.49.

Corporate and U.S. government bonds were mixed.

Meade Alcorn To Appear In N.C.

CHARLOTTE (AP) — Meade Alcorn, former chairman of the Republican National Committee, was scheduled to arrive here by plane today for the first of a series of weekend political appearances in the Carolinas.

James Hendley of Stanley, who announced Alcorn's schedule Thursday, also said Vice President Richard Nixon will come to North Carolina a second time, probably to Charlotte in mid-October.

Hendley added that Alcorn's successor as Republican national chairman, Sen. Thurston Morton of Kentucky, will speak Sept. 16 at Wilson and Asheville on behalf of Robert Gavin, GOP gubernatorial candidate.

Alcorn was slated to arrive here from New York at 12:40 p.m. and

Passenger Liner Lures Talked

RALEIGH (AP) — Gov. Luther Hodges said today he would favor a bond issue, if necessary, to provide adequate facilities for passenger liner service at the Wilmington and Morehead City ports.

Hodges told his news conference he is "inclined to think it is a smart move" for the state to try to lure passenger service to the two ports.

He said the passenger liner business could be fairly good. "If we can catch it while we've got the momentum" at the ports, passenger liner service can be made a big thing, Hodges said.

Earlier this week, D. Leon Williams, executive director of the State Ports Authority, suggested that the state go all out in an effort to entice passenger liner service to the state ports.

Turning to politics, Hodges took a verbal poke "at Republicans who masquerade as Democrats." Hodges was referring to self-labeled Democrats supporting Robert Gavin, GOP nominee for governor.

"I don't like this masquerading," he added. Hodges repeated that he thinks a two-party system "is all right if the other party isn't too strong."

The governor, just back from a

Nikita Departs Moscow For UN

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, heading a big delegation of Communist brass, left Moscow today to prosecute "American aggression" personally before the United Nations.

He flew from Moscow to board the vessel Baltika at the port of Baltisk for a 10-day "floating Communist summit meeting" en route to the U. N. General Assembly in New York.

Khrushchev waved his hat to a crowd of 600 or 700 persons who had assembled to see him off, and boarded the plane after receiving a chaste farewell kiss on the cheek from his wife, who remained behind.

One of the Soviet leader's final efforts before departing got the leader of the African republic of Guinea lined up behind the U.S.S.R. on the Congo.

He pulled out all stops in heralding the accord he reached with Sekou Toure during the Guinea president's two-day visit to Moscow.

Toure, who proclaims himself a Marxist but not a Communist, said he would attend the U. N. session opening in New York Sept. 20 and presumably will support Khrushchev on African questions.

The Soviet premier and African leader declared in a communique Thursday night that they were "unanimous in their evaluation of the situation in the Congo."

They demanded "the immediate and complete withdrawal of aggressive troops" from the Congo but did not identify whom they regarded as aggressors.

Firemen reported the motor was smoking. No damage resulted.

Iron Curtain Is Raised By Reds Within Berlin

BERLIN (AP) — Communists erected an iron curtain against West Germans inside Berlin today.

In a new challenge to the West, the East German regime forced West German visitors to get red-stamped passes for entry into the Communist sector of the divided old capital.

The move defied the four-power agreement for free movement within the city—an agreement that even the Soviets have respected since the four powers took over in the summer of 1945.

Ludwig Erhard, acting head of the West German government in the absence of vacationing Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, rushed by plane to West Berlin. He charged the Communists with committing "a striking breach of law."

Erhard, who is vice chancellor and minister of economics of the Bonn government, was met at the airport by West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt. They went into an immediate conference.

The travel restrictions went into force at midnight and were gradually tightened at main crossing points between the two sectors of the city.

The action by the Soviet satellite regime had the effect of making West Germans get "passports" to cross into East Berlin.

Weekend Event To Open Pitt Scout Fall Program

Opening of the Fall program for Boy Scouts of the Pitt District was set Friday with the beginning of a three day Skill-O-Camp at Troop 205's camp site near the WGTC transmitter on N.C. Highway 43 west of Greenville.

All Boy Scout troops in Pitt county were expected to be represented in this event which is being directed by the District Camping and Activities Committee headed by James B. Mallory and the Advancement Committee of which Dick Heller is chairman.

Boys in Scout uniform are accompanied by one adult attending with each troop. The schedule opening with a check-in, setting up camp and arranging supper was from 3 to 8 p.m., Friday, followed by gun safety and first aid movies at 8 p.m., an hour of astronomy from 9 to 10 p.m., and free time for 30 minutes before taps at 10:30 p.m. Saturday's program will include scoutcraft events in the forenoon, three-hour demonstrations in the afternoon from 2 to 5 p.m., the tenderfoot and second class scouts in skills and first class and above scouts in merit badge work in art, forestry, leatherwork, metalwork, nature, pioneering, woodcrafting, and fishing. Also, scout patrols will prepare a meal, cooking a raw meat, two vegetables, bread and dessert.

A court of honor begins Saturday evening at 8 o'clock, and taps will be at 10 p.m.

Sunday morning the program will include a breakfast, church from 9 to 10 a.m., followed by inspection and camp clean-up. Parents are requested not to come for their boys until check-out time at 11 a.m.

Chairman Mallory announced that plans have been developed to make this the biggest event of its kind in the Pitt District.

First Meeting Of Elmhurst PTA Is Highlighted By Presenting Of Mural

The first 1960-61 meeting of the Elmhurst Parent-Teacher Association was highlighted last night by the presentation of a four-panel historical mural painting to the school by Dr. Harry Billica.

The mural was hung yesterday on the walls of the school's cafeteria-auditorium.

Pres. Warren Aldridge welcomed newcomers to the Elmhurst PTA chapter. Rev. Terry Agner, Lutheran minister, pointed out "we must launch this new year of educating our children with renewed faith" in a brief devotional.

Following the secretary's report, the proposed 1960-61 budget was presented by Budget Chairman Sam Weeks. A unanimous membership vote accepted the budget.

A major project for this school year was announced as "Not only to secure more library books, but also library supplies that can be used to build up the usefulness and efficiency of the new library."

The Safety Committee, under the direction of John Grier, reminded members of the bond issue to be voted soon. The chapter is supporting the issue that would provide sidewalks for all the city's schools.

Pres. Aldridge introduced the officers to serve during 1960-61. After adjournment, refreshments were served by the social committee.

President Rides To Gettysburg

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP) — President Eisenhower arrived at his Gettysburg farm today by automobile from Washington for a quiet weekend.

Only minutes after his arrival, he went to the Gettysburg Country Club for a round of golf.

Cloudy weather had forced him to change his plan to travel from Washington by helicopter.

Eisenhower plans to remain at the farm until Monday morning, then fly to Friendship Airport near Baltimore for a big sendoff for Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

The Republican presidential nominee is starting that day on a 9,000-mile campaign tour.

Farmers Asked Check Fields For Witchweed

"Pitt County farmers are being asked to observe their fields closely the next few days to determine if there is Witchweed present," Sam Winchester, county agricultural agent, said today.

"If Witchweed is found, report to the county agricultural agents office immediately," he urged.

The area office of the Department of Plant Pest Control, USDA, Goldsboro, is sending five teams to the county Monday to make a routine check of several areas. If

U.S. Aid Plan Going Before Conferees Today

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — A landmark agreement under which the United States pledges backing for a new major plan for economic and social development in Latin America goes before the inter-American economic conference today.

The accord—halled as a turning point in U. S. relations with Latin America—will be acted on by the Committee of 21 later.

The only major change in the U. S. plan was addition of a new section which promises additional resources will be made available for projects of basic economic and industrial development in Latin America.

The Latin-American nations had asked that this section supplement the U. S. proposal to make an initial grant of $500 million for a special fund for such social developments as land reform, education and low-cost housing. The fund would be administered through the Inter-American Development Bank.

Favor Accepting Of Dr. Nelson

The Pitt County Mental and Dental Society last night passed a resolution favoring the acceptance of Dr. Phillip Nelson on the Pitt Memorial Hospital staff for the purpose of rendering psychiatric treatment to patients.

The addition of Dr. Nelson had previously been recommended by the hospital staff to the board of trustees, that has the final decision in the matter. At their last meeting, the board failed to take action on the recommendation.

Dr. Nelson is presently director of the Pitt Mental Health Clinic.

Dr. S. E. Coffman of the Society noted this morning that the resolution was passed in hopes of promoting action by the hospital board of trustees.

According to Dr. Coffman, the Society felt the addition of a psychiatric doctor would be a service to the community, giving Greenville and Pitt County a better medical center.

U.S. Gold Supply At Unusual 'Low'

WASHINGTON (AP) — For the first time in 20 years, the value of the U. S. gold supply has dropped below $19 billion.

The Federal Reserve Board released figures Thursday showing a drop in gold holdings of $700 million from the previous week. The total averaged $18,999,000,000 in the week ended Wednesday.

Foreign governments in the past three months have bought more than $500 million of American gold, compared with about $700 during all of 1959.

Treasury officials expressed no concern over the gold movements. Two reasons cited for the outflow were higher interest rates abroad and a buildup of dollar credits overseas.
