'Donna' Sweeps On; Florida's Gulf Coast Threatened

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Hurricane Donna brushed past the Miami area with heavy rains and wind gusts up to 97 miles an hour today and headed northward toward the Tampa Bay area—second most populous in Florida.

At 9 a.m., EST, the center of the massive storm was 80 miles west of Miami and plowing slowly across the sparsely settled Everglades.

Florida's lower Gulf Coast already was getting a forecast of Donna's fury. High winds broke telephone lines into Naples, a booming resort town 125 miles south of Tampa and 100 miles west of Miami, long before the center was due there.

Farther on in the big storm's path lay Fort Myers, with 22,000 population, Sarasota with 33,000, Bradenton with 19,000, then the cities which face one another across Tampa Bay—Tampa with some 270,000 people and St. Petersburg with 178,000.

The Tampa Weather Bureau urged quick evacuation of low coastal sections of the entire area. It said Donna would pass close or just to the east of Tampa Bay early Sunday morning.

High storm tides, ranging from 5 to 11 feet, were forecast for the coast in Donna's path.

The Coast Guard was rushing evacuation of residents from Sanibel and Captiva Islands near Fort Myers. Sanibel is famed among seashell collectors, while legend labels Captiva the island where the pirate Gasparilla kept women prisoners.

The hurricane warning flags flew along all of Florida's Gulf Coast north to Cedar Key, 85 miles up the coast from Tampa.

The famed Tamiami Trail, highway crossing the Everglades from Miami to Naples and Fort Myers, thence north to Tampa, was blocked when Donna felled numerous large pine trees across the roadway. Detours around these obstacles are impossible in the marshy glades, where water levels rose steadily as the hurricane dumped hour after hour of heavy rains.

Winds up to 120 miles an hour were reported by radio from Everglades City, on the coast below Naples, as the hurricane center approached that area.

Donna claimed its first Florida victim earlier today.

The body of an unidentified white man was found at Tavernier, a small island south of here which was battered by the full force of Donna's sustained winds at 135 miles an hour.

The highway patrol had no specific information on how the man died but listed him as a storm casualty.

"That's the first one," said highway patrol Dispatcher C. J. Johnson. "I hope there aren't any more."

The Florida Keys were raked Friday night and today by winds and tides which washed out bridge approaches, broke the main water line to Key West, piled seaweed three feet high across the overseas highway, scattered trailers at a tourist camp for half a mile, and ripped the roof from a school building in use as a refuge.

Earlier highway patrol reports that several people were injured on the keys could not be confirmed by the Red Cross at Miami. However, the Red Cross said there may be casualties still unreported.

Relief missions were headed southward from Miami and northward from Key West to the battered central islands of the chain of keys which curves southwest ward from the mainland.

Doctors, medical supplies, field kitchens and food were on the way. The Navy planned to dispatch five helicopters to the scene as soon as the winds slackened.

The Coast Guard raced against time to remove more than 100 persons who wanted to flee Sanibel and Captiva Islands off the Lee County coast of southwest Florida.

Two helicopters from the St. Petersburg Coast Guard Station flew 80 persons to beaches near Fort Myers where school buses took them to shelters.

A sheriff's deputy said the remainder of about 305 persons had elected to stay on the islands and ride out the wind.

Other beach areas on the southwest coast were evacuated. At Fort Myers shelters were opened at schools, the City Hall and the Court House.

Word of the night of horror on the exposed and low-lying Keys trickled out by highway patrol and amateur radio.

The Weather Bureau and police had begged the Keys residents to evacuate but many chose to take their chances.

Miami was buffeted all night long by winds near hurricane force. The beating continued this morning, felling trees and utility poles, knocking out electric power in many sections, flooding streets, breaking windows and destroying billboards.

The 104 foot Liberian freighter was caught by a wind gust of better than 70 miles an hour and tossed up on an island beach 20 miles southeast of Miami.

All 11 aboard were safe but the skipper complained it wasn't very nice to have a motel on his port side and trees on his starboard. There was no immediate damage report.

Over 12,000 residents of low-lying areas took refuge in public shelters in South Florida. Two of the shelters—an armory at Homestead and a school building on the Keys—lost parts of their roofs to Donna but no evacuees were hurt.

Methodists Approve Plans For Raleigh Headquarters

Delegates attending a special session of the N.C. Methodist Conference here yesterday approved plans for a $650,000 headquarters building to be erected in Raleigh.

Prior to approving original plans for the building, delegates defeated a proposal for a smaller, less expensive building by 22 votes.

By written ballot, the delegates cast 189 votes for the substitute and 211 votes against it. Voting on the original proposal, contained in a majority report, was by a show of hands.

The voting settles the controversial issue of the headquarters building. Disagreement over original plans, which included

Ballentine To Keynote Farm Bureau's Drive

L. Y. Ballentine, North Carolina Commissioner of Agriculture, will be the key-note speaker at Pitt County's Farm Bureau Membership Drive "Kickoff Meeting" Monday at 7 p.m. at Respass Bros. Barbecue here.

Farm Bureau community chairman and solicitors will meet to map final plans for their upcoming membership drive and to receive field instructions according to county Membership Chairman Charles Quinley.

Members of the State Farm Bureau Staff, including field man, Bill Little, will be on hand to help in the planning session and to outline current farm bureau activities, including work that has been done toward getting farm program legislation passed in Congress.

Local activities will receive their share of attention and county membership chairman and solicitors will receive materials for the rest of their community and township team members.

The membership increase being sought here will permit Pitt County farmers, leaders say, to have "a greater voice in the policy and activity of the state organization."

Quinley said today, "We farmers are dependent upon our organization to express our needs and desires, and unless we support that provision for spacious rental area to help finance construction, first flared in June at the Annual Conference in Rocky Mount. This led to selection of a special committee to study the situation and the setting of this meeting to settle the issue once and for all.

The opposition to the majority report did not favor the plan of building a headquarters spacious enough to house rental agencies outside the church. Part of this opposition was based on the theory that the church should not enter the business world, in competition with its members.

Though a majority approved the original plans, the vote was overwhelming. A motion by Rev.

W.A. Quick of Zebulon that the special session make approval of the majority report unanimous was defeated by a small show of hands.

A total of 561 registered delegates attended the meeting, though the number of visitors swelled the total to over 900 persons in the sanctuary of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church.

Rev. Graham S. Eugank, Raleigh District superintendent, presented the substitute plan for the headquarters building. Speaking in favor of the alternate, smaller building plan, were Rev. L.R. Sparrow of Roper; Gen. Wiley Pickens of Raleigh; M.T. Spears, former judge, of Durham; and E.C. Crawford of Fayetteville.

Favoring the original plans were Rev. A.D. Byrd Jr. of Plymouth and Dr. A.J. Hobbs and Nat Dixon, both of New Bern.

Bishop Paul N. Garber, presiding over the session, called for adjournment following the conclusion of voting. Meetings of the building, committee, finance and other committees were scheduled to follow adjournment.

Thorough Plans For Kennedy Visit Here Are Praised

Co-chairmen of the Eastern Carolina Kennedy rally set for next Saturday, conferred here yesterday afternoon with representatives of the national campaign committee ironing out details for the Democratic nominee's visit to Greenville.

John G. Clark and Charles Horne of Greenville met yesterday afternoon with Chick Riddle liaison man between the state and national campaign organizations, and Ron Linton, an advance man on Sen. Kennedy's staff.

The group reviewed local plans for the first stop here of Sen. Kennedy on his one-day, 700-mile tour of North Carolina. They went over the route Sen. Kennedy will follow from the Pitt-Greenville airport to the college stadium where he will make his address and checked on detailed arrangements for the program.

Riddle and Linton expressed pleasure at the thoroughness of the planning which has been done locally in connection with Kennedy's visit here. They also voiced the opinion that Greenville's plans and arrangements for the Kennedy visit are considerably more advanced than those of some of the other cities in which the presidential nominee

Religious Census Set For Sept. 18

The Greenville Ministers Association voted last spring to take a city wide religious census in the city of Greenville during this month. The responsibility for planning this effort and enlisting the churches to participate in it was given to the Committee on Christian Education, Thomas M. Davis, Chairman. The Rev. Mr. Davis reports that the plans are complete.

The date for the taking of the census has been set for Sunday, September 18. The Census workers will be sent out from their own churches at the close of morning worship on that Sunday with instructions to visit each home in the assigned area, and list the religious affiliation of each person living there.

A religious census of the city provides the churches with much information about the community that will enable them to meet the spiritual needs of the community in a better way. The information gained will be valuable as the churches plan the enlargement of their organizations, and plan for

UN Announces Cease-Fire Order For Congo Troops

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP) — The United Nations announced late today the Congolese army has issued cease fire orders to its troops throughout the Congo. This order, if obeyed, would put an end to the bloody warfare in Kasaï Province and end Patrice Lumumba's planned invasion of rebellious Katanga Province.

The announcement came a few hours after Premier Lumumba demanded that the United Nations stop Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld and his aides from what he called their interference in the Congo's internal affairs.

Lumumba had called on Hammarskjöld and all U. N. members "to prevent the Congo from becoming a battlefield of World War III."

Lumumba made the appeal in a letter. He asked the intervention of "all nations" to help restore peace to this politically and militarily divided nation.

Embattled President Joseph Kasavubu stood firm in his determination to end Lumumba's rule and rid the Congo of Communist influences.

Informants close to Kasavubu said he is going ahead with his announced plan to form a new government with the Senate's moderate president, Joseph Ileo, as premier.

(Brussels Radio reported that the pro-Kasavubu Abako party has circulated leaflets in the Leopoldville area calling for a general strike late today by the 400,000 inhabitants against Lumumba's regime.)

The president has remained behind the closely guarded doors of his residence on the outskirts of Leopoldville since his broadcast Monday night announcing the fir-

Khrushchev Not To Be Allowed Off Manhattan

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) —The United States notified the Soviet Union today that Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev during his visit to New York must not travel off Manhattan Island.

In a memorandum delivered to the Soviet U. N. delegation, the United States requested that arrangements be made for the Soviet leader to reside as near as possible to U. N. headquarters and to limit his movements to those required by his official mission as head of the Soviet delegation to the United Nations.

U. S. sources said similar restrictions were being placed on Hungarian Communist party chief Janos Kadar and Mehmet Shehu, premier of Albania.

The U. S. memorandum said the restrictions were being imposed in order to provide adequate security for the Communist leaders.

The memorandum added: "The question of assuring the necessary security for Mr. Khrushchev and the Soviet delegation has, of course, been complicated by the hostile public statements of the head of the Soviet government and by the destruction of an American plane over international waters by Soviet action and the continued illegal detention of two American fliers."

This was a reference to the RB47 reconnaissance plane which the Soviet Union claims was shot down over Soviet territory July 1. The United States avers the aircraft was over international waters and has demanded the release of the two surviving crew members, a demand the Soviet Union thus far has rejected.

The memorandum requested the Soviet delegation to notify the U. S. government at the earliest possible moment the exact time of Khrushchev's arrival, his place of residence, length of stay, and time and method of departure.

State Department officials indicated that an appeal would be made to the public to "act in a dignified and restrained fashion, in regard to the Communist visitors."

Khrushchev, with other Communist leaders, is aboard the Soviet liner Baltika at sea heading for New York. He is due in New York Sept. 19, the day before the U. N. Assembly convenes.

Restriction to Manhattan Island would mean Khrushchev would be unable to use the Soviet Union's mansion at Glen Cove, Long Island.

Air Force Checks Defense Set-Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — Screaming through skies cleared of all commercial planes, jet interceptors thundered destruction threats against bomber for six hours early today in the biggest demonstration of North American air defenses.

Then with dawn the warplanes of the United States and Canada began settling back at their bases, finished with their demonstration of might and a giant test of effectiveness.

There was no immediate evaluation of the results of the test, Exercise Sky Shield.

A brief communique issued by Gen. Laurence S. Kuter, chief of the North American Air Defense Command (NORAD), merely said that the six-hour operation had been carried on and completed at 7 a.m. EST.

Kuter's joint command, based at Colorado Springs, with deputies from all services of the United States and Canada, is responsible for defense of the two nations against attack by manned bombers.

During the six-hour interlude, all U.S. and Canadian commercial aviation was grounded while jet bombers and fighters roamed the air, picket ships at sea tracked with radar and missile launching crews went through the motions of sending their weapons aloft.

The communique said the entire NORAD command "was exercised under realistic conditions and lasting benefits would result." That was the only official comment on this huge training operation.

The military, imposing as much secrecy as it could on an operation involving hundreds of warplanes, clamped top security on "Exercise Sky Shield."

Headquarters of the North American Air Defense (NORAD) Command at Colorado Springs and the Strategic Air Command (SAC) at Omaha, warned in advance that newsmen would be banned from all affected bases for reasons of security and the "touchy international situation."

This was in sharp contrast to the normal inclination of the Air Force to show the public as much as it can about its capabilities. It aroused speculation about the underlying reasons.

One apparent reason: the necessity for secrecy about exact routes and deployment of defending and attacking forces, or any information which would show precise strengths or weaknesses in NORAD or SAC forces.

The reference to a touchy international situation was less apparent. It could have been to possible flights of some bombers and fighters across northwest Alaskan areas — not too far from Soviet territory.

Or the reference might have related to Canada, which took part in the sky operation. Canadian sovereignty, the contribution of the Royal Canadian Air Force, and the operation of U.S. Air Force planes over Canadian territory has been a controversial subject in Canada.

Designer Says Home Should Be Individual

"What good is a decorator if he can't supply unique ideas for his clients?" asks Frank Lynn, half of a New York design team that specializes in unusual ideas.

A decorator can't get by just calling himself a decorator and forcing the same ideas on everyone, assembly line fashion, he explains.

CIRCULAR STAIRWAY . . . Wallpaper in two tones of charcoal cut from their sets makes more interesting staircase.

"The client should get what he wants and likes for his home. But the decorator should be able to give the idea a new twist to make it unusual."

Lynn and his partner, Glenn Wiggins, try to get to know their clients before they ever attempt to decorate a home for them. He says:

"We get to know the entire family socially. We try to learn what all members of the family like, their favorite color schemes, hobbies and what makes them tick as a unit. Then we make suggestions to them, and wait for their reactions."

Many clients become intimidated by decorators, however, and are likely to accept something suggested just because they believe they should like it, if it is plush or the right thing. Later they will be unhappy, says Lynn, so it is much better to tell the decorator at once that what he suggests isn't your speed, and let him try again.

Business executives who have traveled a good deal and broadened in their outlook lean on the decorator to the fullest extent.

He is very likely to say, "Make my home as elegant as you can make it," because he entertains a great deal, says Lynn, and he will accept anything that is in good taste, and looks expensive.

There are many problems for the decorator, however, such as one this decorating team faced not long ago.

"We had a circular stairway and had to figure out how to decorate the walls without distortion. We used a vinyl mural wallpaper in two tones of charcoal and at the bend of the wall had to cut out and alter the design. It was tedious, but had the proper effect."

One job they enjoyed particularly involved turning an outside patio into another room. He explains:

"We enclosed the entire patio in glass and put a fish pond in the middle of it, complete with ferns and tropical plants. The patio could then be used all winter long, and in summer the glass panes rolled back so that it was still part of the garden. Heat was supplied from registers in the floor completely hidden behind chairs and other pieces of furniture."

Woman's Club Has Dinner Meet

The Woman's Club of Greenville held its annual dinner meeting at the clubhouse Wednesday. A social hour, during which tomato juice and crackers were served, preceded the dinner.

The President, Mrs. Sam Mitchell, presided at the business meeting following the dinner. She welcomed Mrs. Dorothy Johnson and Mrs. Pat Grulke, president of the Junior Woman's Club, as guests, and these new members: Mesdames M. H. Bynum, Frank Little, Jr., and Wyatt Highsmith.

The Secretary, Mrs. Ralph Brimley, read recommendations from the Executive Board. The recommendations voted upon and approved by the Club included a return to the June to June club year, with the present officers continuing until June 1961. Another was that the President appoint a secret committee of five to choose the "Clubwoman of the Year", an award given annually by the Woman's Club.

The House Committee, with Mrs. Vance Perkins as chairman, was told to proceed with needed repairs to the clubhouse.

After a discussion, the members voted not to have a food booth at the Fair this fall. Instead, members will be asked to donate what they can to the building fund, sending or giving the donations to the treasurer by November 1. The Treasurer, Mrs. Ed Ricks, asked that checks be marked "for Building Fund".

Mrs. Ed Ricks, as chairman of the Help A Home Committee, asked members, when doing fall house cleaning, to remember to send "anything usable" in clothing, furniture, rugs, or any household equipment to the committee for distribution to the needy. Mrs. Ricks will pick them up if they cannot be delivered.

The Chairman of the American Home Department, Mrs. H. R. Rogers, announced the first meeting will be held on October 14th.

The Garden Club's first meeting will be a luncheon on Thursday, September 15th at the Woman's Club, when Mrs. Norman Winslow, District Director will be guest speaker. Mrs. P. E. Wells, president, stated.

Mrs. Dink James, chairman of the International Relations Committee, told of a study trip to the United Nations in New York, planned by a group of North Carolina clubwomen. Anyone interested in going, please call Mrs. James.

The International Relations Committee is also planning a meeting with an outstanding speaker on United Nations Day in October. Mrs. James asked that the club support the program and watch the paper for details.

Social notes, births and calendar additions will be accepted over the telephone prior to the morning deadline. All parties and other write-ups must be phoned in during the afternoon or either written and mailed to the Daily

Miss Ann Moore, who was introduced last night to North Carolina society as one of the 180 debs, was honoree at a recent luncheon here.

Hostesses were Mrs. Larry James and Miss Elizabeth Tibbatts at the Tibbatts home. They presented the guest of honor a mum corsage upon her arrival.

A color scheme of pink and lavender was used throughout the luncheon decorations. Amethyst crystal was used on the table from which a three-course luncheon was served.

The central arrangement was a crystal swan filled with pink and lavender flowers. Unique placecards marked the guests' seating arrangement.

The honoree and other debs present were remembered with gifts.

WHAT IS COMFORT IN FURNITURE?

The Home Furniture Store says it is "the right size, the right shape and the right amount."

People come in different sizes and shapes. So does comfort. You can insure the comfort of your family as a whole by making sure each individual has the furniture he needs. It should be right for him.

The chair that is right for a man probably won't suit his wife at all. Being smaller in size and weight she needs comfort in smaller dimensions. A chair must be fitted to the sitter, just as his shoes must be.

Every member of the family needs an area that belongs to him alone, even though it may be necessary for him to share a room. At the minimum, he needs his own bed, dresser and wardrobe space. He also needs a shelf or cabinet space for toys, hobbies or equipment.

A desk of his own will help him make, as well as the comfort of the child with homework. The teenage girl often longs for a dressing table. Her mother might prefer a table with a sewing compartment.

Ideally, there should be a table and good lighting next to every place a person sits and beside each bed.

Let the Home Furniture help you decide the right size, the right shape and the right amount of furniture suitable for your home.

Appearance Program Topic

Eight members attended the first meeting of the club year which was held at the Community Building. Mrs. Geneva Jackson, Mrs. John Dickens and Mrs. L. C. Powell were welcomed as visitors.

In a garden report, hints on planting and raising dogwood trees were given. The report said never get a tree larger than a broom handle, keeping as many roots as possible.

Mrs. Karl Hardee, president, directed the meeting.

Cheerleaders Enthused By School Spirit

By CRAIG WORTHINGTON

Last night, the cheerleaders of Rose High School removed the wraps from their 1960-61 squad, to show to the loyal Greenville fans packing the Ahoskie stadium a group of well-rehearsed, alert leaders, with a wide range of cheers and energy more than ample for directing the avid fans.

The girls cheered last night in their summer uniforms—bermuda skirts and blouses. They also have two other uniforms—winter, with sweater and skirt; and basketball, with skirt and vest.

Another useful addition to the group has been their new megaphones—Greenville "green" with a large white "G". Melinda Coleman, head, stated, "We hope that all of our supporters can hear what we are saying now."

The cheerleaders annually conduct several projects. This year, they are writing letters of welcome to the cheerleaders of the teams who play here. They hope that this will make the visiting cheerleaders relax more and have a good time while in Greenville.

The cheerleaders' biggest project is Homecoming. They sponsor and finance this annual affair, although other groups will help with the work this year. According to Monday planning this big event.

In addition to Melinda Coleman, head, the other cheerleaders include Myrtle Moon Bilbro, who is assistant head; Gigi Gulce, secretary; Phyllis Moore, treasurer; Lina Christopher, Ann Hunt, Ginger Melton, and Sara Collier Webb. Jayne Willis, Jeri Sue Clark, Ross Clark, Brenda Bowden, and Janice Bentley conclude the list.

Melinda made the following statement at the conclusion of last night's game: "We certainly were pleased to help us cheer our team to victory tonight. The group showed excellent school spirit and was certainly co-operative with all of us. We are proud and thrilled with our team and know we'll see them go on to the state championships."

The first varsity game for several of the cheerleaders caused mixed emotions among the group; however, one junior, Gigi Gulce, perhaps echoed the feelings of the whole group after the game last night by declaring, "I'm all pooped!"

Rose Speaks

At the first assembly of the school year yesterday, Junius H. Rose, superintendent of Greenville City Schools, was featured as the speaker.

Erskine Duff, president of the Student Co-operative Association, presided, introducing Melinda Coleman, who gave the devotion.

Erskine introduced Mr. Rose who spoke on several subjects. He showed the students the need to learn about one's own country and the role the school should play in making students patriotic citizens.

Mr. Rose injected several humorous notes into his speech and talked a few minutes on the subject of the Powers trial, recently held in Moscow.

All of the students enjoyed his closing remarks—he announced that school would dismiss early!

To Sell Magazines

The members of the junior class will begin their magazine sales drive on September 19. The class, which has done in years past, will sell subscriptions to almost all of the well-known magazines in order to raise money for their junior-senior expenses.

Relatives and friends of the juniors and other students are asked to please save their magazine subscriptions for this group.

Chilean Speaks to Class

Lindy Corey, a former Greenville High student now serving as a Jehovah's Witness missionary in Chile, spoke to Mrs. Elizabeth Mims' classes Thursday.

Corey has been in Rancagua, Chile, since 1949, when he left Gilead College in New York.

Corey told the classes that the average Chilean has an attitude of "awe and envy" towards the North Americans. He said that one rarely hears the United States being praised because the people wish to avoid seeming to be servile.

Chile has a democracy much as that of the United States, according to Corey. The people aren't too interested in religion, and although they are Roman Catholic by tradition, they are tolerant of other religions.

The teen-agers in Chile are more restricted socially, but still have lower moral standards than their U. S. counterparts. Chileans are very friendly people and some 40 per cent of them have some Indian blood. The remainder are of European stock.

Chile is 2,800 miles long and varies from between 100 to 120 miles in width. The population center is located in a 700-mile central valley. The Andes Mountains nearly cover Chile, whose capital is Santiago.

According to Corey, the United States should use more "sense" in dealing with the Chilean people. For instance, he cited as an example the fact that on food packages given free to the needy people by the United States, the U. S. writes in English the instructions and gift line.

Corey also thinks that the United States should exchange more college students with Chile and should try to tell the common people of Chile what the United States really is and stands for.

It is preferred that all wedding information and wedding pictures be in the office three days prior to the ceremony, unless other arrangements have been made with the Woman's Editor. Parties given bridal couples prior to their marriage must appear in the paper before the wedding write-up or with the wedding publication.

Wedding write-ups brought in a week late or later will be edited according to the diminishing news value.

Dinner Party For Couples

On Wednesday evening at the W. S. Corbitt home on Oak St., Mr. and Mrs. David Evans, Jr. and Miss Susie Pope and Bob Thompson, Jr. were honored at a dinner party.

Mr. and Mrs. Milo H. Smith and Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Moye were co-hosts and hostesses, entertaining with Mr. and Mrs. Corbitt.

Upon arrival, the honorees were presented white mum corsages.

Guests were served tomato juice cocktails after which they were invited into the dining room where they served themselves buffet style. The central table covered with a white cut-work cloth held an arrangement of pink roses and white pom poms.

Auxiliary tables for the 20 guests were arranged in the living room and den. After dinner, the guests enjoyed a social hour.

Food Production Isn't A Problem

While a host of statisticians worriedly shake their heads over soaring global population and predict a future of scarcity, it seems to us the more pressing problem of the moment lies elsewhere.

Of concern today is the matter of overproduction in some areas of the world, and pressing shortages in other areas.

People complain about overproduction in this country; but if by some black magic production was suddenly geared to exactly our needs, we'd all of us be living under a cloud of fear.

What the world requires is more production, not less.

Take food for example.

Over half the people of the world are said to be going to bed hungry each night. Another large percentage "hangs on" from one harvest to the next. In our country we worry about surpluses. It doesn't add up.

A lot of people anticipate a time when there will be so many people they will all have to go hungry. That doesn't add up either.

Over the world at large, humanity has accomplished much in its war against disease and in prolonging life. That's part of the picture . . . the world is a healthier place to live in than it has ever been. In time, we can expect an even higher degree of global health.

Food, we have. There are staggering possibilities inherent in the future of food production. That is not a problem. Our world can feed many times its present population without any effort.

Look at it this way:

Traditional methods of food production are still far from being fully exploited. Beyond them are newer methods, and after them again are the miracles wrought by biochemistry.

In America alone there are millions upon millions of acres of completely undeveloped countryside lying in wait. Think of the immensities elsewhere.

A British newspaper adds this thought—"Outside the West most agriculture is primitive, inefficient, and on the wrong lines. Fertilizers and other techniques could double food production in less than a generation. But it would not stop there. Many countries have recorded individual yields of five tons of grain an acre. This should be possible nearly everywhere."

Relatively speaking, only a small fraction of the land in our country is devoted to food production. And yet, we have from that land a "problem" of producing too much.

Production isn't a problem for us; rather it's the matter of distribution. Somehow, some way must be found to adapt our systems of transportation and international markets that will put our unneeded foodstuffs where it is needed.

This country has undertaken to send a few shiploads of wheat to India; there's talk of further distribution to other Asian peoples. The grain bears a "sold" tag, but that's only a part of the story. Food prices, even in this land of plenty, are too high for most people where poverty reigns.

When that one roadblock is solved, and an efficient distributive and transportation method is applied, there need be no more staying awake nights wondering how the world (five generations hence) will be making out.

That British newspaper (The Daily Mail) concluded its observations with the thought that "The human race is in sight of a very high standard of living and unlimited leisure. Unless we all go mad the best is yet to be."

That, about covers it.

The Dead End To Huey's Reign

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—Twenty-five years ago last night was one of the unforgettable times for me. Sen. Huey P. Long was dying in a hospital in Baton Rouge, La. It was an uneasy city.

Long had been shot the night before, Sunday, Sept. 8, 1935. Dr. Carl Austin Weiss was named the assassin. This has never been proved beyond doubt. There was no autopsy. The coroner's inquest was a fast, brief routine.

There is still a question whether one of the Long bodyguards excitedly and accidentally shot Long when he saw Weiss approaching with a gun.

At the time of the shooting I was in New Orleans, working on the Times-Picayune, and immediately afterwards was sent to Baton Rouge to join the T-P staff which was working on the Legislature when Long was shot.

None of us got sleep Sunday, Sunday night, or Monday, or Monday night. Monday night Long began slipping. I was sent over to the hospital just before midnight to join an Associated Press reporter and a girl reporter for the Baton Rouge papers.

We had phones in a small room off the lobby of Our Lady of the Lake Sanitarium. Long's room was upstairs on the second floor. The three of us had been warned by Long's bodyguards not to try to go up those stairs.

There must have been 40 bodyguards, all with guns, in the lobby. Outside, another 10 or 12 of them shouldered across the top step of the hospital.

All through the night another pair of bodyguards made endless rounds of doors and windows. In the basement and upstairs, to make sure no one could slip in to kill Long in his bed.

The Long people didn't know whether Weiss was acting on his own when he went up to Long with a gun that Sunday night or whether he was part of a conspiracy to kill the senator.

Over the years of the Long regime—in which he controlled the courts or some of them, the Legislature, the State Police, and some district attorneys—the senator's bodyguards had smashed newsmen's faces and heads.

Only a short time before one of those bodyguards making the rounds of doors and windows had fractured an Associated Press photographer's skull with a blackjack and was never prosecuted.

About 2 a.m. Tuesday the bodyguards in the lobby were nervous and agitated. A nurse had come down and said Long was going, that the doctors were giving him adrenalin.

About 3 a.m. Long's family and some of his top lieutenants came in quickly and went upstairs. About 4 a.m. one of the bodyguards came down and whispered to the girl reporter. I tried to hear. He said: "Get back you."

I got back. Then I heard him say Long had just died. I ran for the stairs. It was a reflex action. I couldn't report Long was dead with nothing to go on but a whisper. I had to go up to his room to verify it.

But that reflex action, made in forgetfulness of the warning not to go near the stairs, has scared me about my own reflex actions ever since. Suddenly all the bodyguards were running for the stairs.

Then the fright set in. I thought "here's where I get it." But I was near the stairs. I couldn't turn back. The bodyguards were all around. They had me squeezed in. I thought "what a way to get it."

And just as suddenly the guards melted away and let me through. I went up the stairs, walking, no longer running, the bodyguards walking slowly behind me, not interfering.

What happened to them at that moment when they had me surrounded and then let me through? I can't be sure. They used to keep in shape beating up newsmen. Maybe they realized the boss was dead and they didn't have anything more to do.

Maybe something else. Maybe they suddenly realized the one man who had always stood between them and punishment for their violence was gone and they were defenseless. I don't know. For that one moment the fight went out of the Long machine.

It came back later when Huey's brother, Earl who died last Sunday, became governor. But that moment when I reached the stairs with the bodyguards was the end of an era, before the second one began.

Strength For Today

WALLS OF JERICHO
The walls of Jericho fell down. So runs the ancient Biblical story. The place was not an impregnable fortress. There was not the slightest chance in the world that Joshua and his Hebrew host could capture it. And if by-passed, the danger of a fierce enemy lurking in the rear would be enough to keep the Hebrews from peace of mind, and probably from eventual victory.

But God's promise was that the walls would fall down. The Hebrews were to march around march about them seven times. And they did, and blew the horn—and the walls tumbled down.

What is the meaning of this story? It is, first of all, the divine acknowledgment that there are some problems in life which man himself can never solve. There are some victories he can never win by his own efforts. The second lesson is that we should trust God's assurance that what our lives desperately need and yet cannot get accomplished by any efforts of our own, God will do for us. He will not do for us what we can do for ourselves, but if we have to do for some Jericho, God will take that situation into his own hands. Let us be obedient and then dismiss the outcome from our minds.

Maybe you are confronted by such a Jericho now. Obeyance, faith, and God's grace will win the victory for you.

Graceland And Tourists

Did you think you had heard the last of vacations? Well, never! We ran into someone the other day with a bit of information concerning her family trip, which took her into Memphis, Tenn. In the past, Memphis has been noted as a large Southern town of Southern hospitality, overflowing population and sites along the Mississippi. There were colorful "Mammies" in polka dot dresses along the streets. But no more. Memphis will never be the same again. Where graceful trees, lovely Southern bells and fried chicken have reigned along with King Mississippi, Graceland has now taken over. And to Graceland the tourists—ah, visitors—flock in droves.

Graceland, you might note, is the pink walled estate of one Elvis Presley, the now-successful favorite of enough people to make him a million-dollar recording star and movie personality. (We must be in the minority.)

Mrs. Joyce McCoy, town clerk in Grifton, is the supplier of our information. While visitors are not allowed to enter the gates of the estate, they are allowed to pass by and wonder at the iron gates, upon which are musical bars denoting a once favorite tune, "Teen Age Idol." (Wow!)

The tale further takes up the fact that the gates are electrically controlled and can be opened by Elvis while he is sitting in his car or relaxing within his mansion.

The mansion is located on a 13-acre tract located outside the Memphis city limits.

Note that all this is hearsay, but what stuff. Note also that Elvis didn't live there before he "made the grade."

There are other things in life. While we were returning from a church conference the other day thinking how the story would go, a young bicyclist apparently was thinking about something else, maybe one of Elvis's songs.

We had a green light and were proceeding slowly along the right of way. When — up loomed a boy on a bicycle, going through a red light, across our path.

Apparently he never saw us, probably never even thought just went. But we stopped in time. And he went on. But not looking can cause a lot of accidents. Perhaps someone's parents might see this.

My own experience with this thing does not matter and I am not pleading a case. I am pleading for speedy procedures, for eliminating pettifoggery and time-wasting and the pushing aside of the ritual of the rules of evidence so that the facts of a case may be discovered or uncovered without delay. If the wheels of justice must grind slowly, let them grind for the purpose of making data available, not for supposing.

Politicians have held up the increase in the number of judges despite the delay in the hearing of cases both in State and Federal courts.

When justice becomes too expensive a commodity, other ways have to be found to settle grievances. One way is the employment of the wise man—a non-legal adjudicator.

More Foreign Ties For Business

By ELMER ROESSNER

Big business has long been international-minded. Many of our largest corporations already have sent deep roots into other countries in the form of their own production plants abroad and joint investments with foreign nationals.

Now medium-size and even smaller companies are seeking to join the ranks of the business internationalists. The reason is not hard to find. Business is booming abroad. Listen to this report from just-retired Joseph Morse, financial vice president of Sun Chemical Corp. (annual sales: $60 million) which operates more than 50 plants turning out inks, coatings, resins, dyes, and other products for every segment of the economy.

"The economy of Western Europe is in a capacity-production full-employment boom that promises to run through 1961 and perhaps beyond, this 39-year old finance expert reports. "Western Europe's economic activity is rising at a much faster pace than in the U. S."

Joe Morse who developed his international economic tastes while serving as director of finance operations for giant Radio Corp. of America, did not scout Europe from London to Istanbul merely to corroborate the continental boom. He was searching out business opportunities for Sun Chemical. Since 1957, when Norman E. Alexander became its president, Sun already has set up show in Mexico, Venezuela, England and France. Before then, the company derived more than 99 per cent of its annual revenues from within our star-spangled shores. A Canadian operation was its only foreign stake. Now it says its foreign subsidiaries are contributing an increasingly significant portion of its volume. Sun wants still more foreign business. Morse says, "Profit margins abroad are fatter and the tax climate is more favorable. We figure Sun will make its greatest strides in number of plants and volume of business in the next three to five years in European countries."

Nor is Morse concerned that a U.S. recession may dim European prospects. He reasons: "Their boom appears to be independent of the U.S. economy. It feeds on domestic consumer demand in each of the European countries, which seem to be consuming all they produce over and above exports. Nor do we expect a recession at home."

Sun, says finance-man Morse, has one test for all its development: return on investment. It's applying that principle as enthusiastically abroad as here. . .

Rules Beyond Belief

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
Copyright, 1960, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Way back in 1953, I got into an argument with a garage owner in a lawsuit which is still pending. The whole business is no great shakes one way or the other, but the due process of the law is fascinating and I watch it with the keenest interest, although not with anxiety.

First of all, a small matter of this sort should not take so long. Suppose it were vital to the persons concerned. Apparently the course of justice is so slow that witnesses die, complainants forget what they are complaining about, the defendants go out of business and one actually may not know whom he is suing. In fact, in this case, the garage owner which I complain is no more. Even the building does not stand. The former owners are remote persons who own many properties under varying corporate names and a customer is dealing with changeable hired hands who disappear from the scene or perhaps even from this Earth.

Secondly, I find the due process beyond belief stupid. No reporter could ever get at the facts of a situation if he had to ask questions such as lawyers do under the rules of evidence. No one really wants to know the truth which may be a product of conversations which lawyers call hearsay. They want descriptions of actions taken. "Did you talk to so-and-so on the telephone?" "Yes!" But try to tell him the details of the discussion as you recall them and he objects. He wants you to answer only as he wants you to answer, which is nonsense.

I have just been reading an examination before trial which was a waste of time and money because in this case it ended in a brawl. The lawyer's questions were aimed at particularities which maybe helpful to his side but which actually could not be told truthfully according to the rules of evidence. These questions were aimed at suppressing the essential data and I am told that a judge might uphold the elimination of what a witness regards as essential data.

Relevance is a matter of knowledge. A witness may know what is relevant because he is part of the situation. However, a lawyer's attitude toward relevance has become so narrowed that it is no wonder that Perry Mason always licks the prosecuting attorney by making relevant matter admissible despite the rules of evidence.

Congressional committees, which are not bound by the rules of evidence, get at the truth by other methods. The word, McCarthyism, has taken on the meaning of inquisition. Joe McCarthy is pictured as a sort of Torquemada who squeezed the facts out of a witness by sheer brutality. Many persons would say that while they were favorably disposed toward McCarthy, which was McCarthy's objective, they opposed and even despised his methods.

By the rules of evidence, most of the questions that are asked by Congressional Committees are irrelevant although there is no way of establishing a conspiracy except by building brick on brick until one of the conspirators either confesses or leans to the truth. A lawyer who depends upon the suppression of the truth to win his case may serve his client but he does not serve justice which is what the courts exist for.

My own experience with this thing does not matter and I am not pleading a case. I am pleading for speedy procedures, for eliminating pettifoggery and time-wasting and the pushing aside of the ritual of the rules of evidence so that the facts of a case may be discovered or uncovered without delay. If the wheels of justice must grind slowly, let them grind for the purpose of making data available, not for supposing.

Politicians have held up the increase in the number of judges despite the delay in the hearing of cases both in State and Federal courts.

When justice becomes too expensive a commodity, other ways have to be found to settle grievances. One way is the employment of the wise man—a non-legal adjudicator.

GREENVILLE VICTORY — Rose High chalked up its first victory last night with a 19-0 decision over an outclassed Ahsoskie club. At left, Layne Jorgensen is shown after taking an Erskine Duff pass. Jorgensen scored, the play covering 46 yards. At right, Alan McArthur scoots around end for a sizable pickup. Earl Capps is the Ahsoskie defender in both pictures.

AHSOSKIE — Six fumbles by a jittery Rose High football eleven lay in the background this morning as a stout Greenville defense and three long offensive plays stole the show for a 19-0 opening game win for the Phants over Ahsoskie last night.

A fumble on the first offensive play of the game and another five minutes later almost spelled disaster for Coach Bud Phillips' veteran outfit in its first outing of the season. But each time a strong defensive forward wall led by Larry Roberts and Don Joyner put down the Ahsoskie threat deep in the Phants own backyard.

Wayne Sumrell bobbled the opening offensive play for Rose High and Harold Beaman recovered for Ahsoskie on the Greenville 36.

The Indians were unable to capitalize on the fumble and kicked on fourth down with Alan McArthur returning the punt to the Greenville eleven.

John Adams picked up 13 yards on an end sweep and McArthur gained 11 yards in two attempts to get the Phants out of a hole. But Erskine Duff and Sumrell collided in the Phant backfield and Benny Williams of Ahsoskie pounced on the loose ballet at the RH 39.

This time the Indian offense starting clicking and moved the ball to the Greenville eight, picking up three first downs en route. Backed up against its own goal, the Rose High defense failed to yield ground. Spencer Barrow played through the center for two yards but Joe Williams was tossed for a two yard loss on the second play. On third down, Earl Capps netted three yards to the four. It was Capps again trying for the final yardage but was pulled down by a host of Greenville tacklers on the two, ending the only serious threat of the game for Ahsoskie.

The two teams swapped punts for the rest of the quarter with Greenville staying in the hole most of the time.

Erskine Duff plucked a Ruffin Odum pass out of the air early in the second period and raced 28 yards to put the Phants on the Ahsoskie 47. McArthur couldn't find running room in the center of the Indian line, being stopped on the 46. On the second play, Duff tossed a jump pass to Layne Jorgensen who headed for the sideline and went the distance for the first touchdown. Kroghie Andersen booted the extra point.

Greenville was knocking at the Ahsoskie scoring gates minutes later with a drive that came to an end on the five when John Adams fumbled a handoff going through the center of the line.

Ahsoskie was unable to move the ball and punted to the Ahsoskie 48. With less than four minutes left in the half, Billy James came in for his first offensive play, faded back and tossed a 48 yard pass to Alan McArthur who took the pass on the run well behind the nearest defender. The extra point was good but Greenville was out in front 13-0.

Ahsoskie made its longest drive following the kickoff with the passing and running of Ruffin Odum accounting for most of the yardage.

Odum skirted end for a 26-yard run and completed two passes for 24 more yards. Time ran out for the Indians on the Greenville 24.

John Adams broke loose midway the third period and sprinted 63 yards for the Phants final touchdown. Adams found daylight at the line of scrimmage and then followed a stream of blockers down the sideline. The extra point attempt again failed.

The Indians threatened in the final half when the Phants fumbled on their own 21. But the home club gave it right back to Greenville when George VanNortwick fell on an Ahsoskie fumble.

Standouts in the line for Greenville along with Joyner and Roberts were Skip Wright, Bill Wade, and Russell Fields.

Adams was the leading runner in the Phant backfield, picking up 92 yards in eight carries. Alan McArthur had 60 yards in 14 stabs at the Ahsoskie forward wall and Wayne Sumrell added 33 yards in seven carries.

Erskine Duff was a hawk on defense for the Phants, intercepting two passes. The veteran signal-caller also completed three passes in three attempts for 66 yards.

Eppes Edges Past Oxford Club, 6-0

C. M. Eppes High School's Bulldogs struck from 22 yards out on an end-around play last night to register the only touchdown of a game marked by fumbles and edge out a tough Oxford squad here, 6-0.

End Calvin Gatlin took a hand-off from quarterback Freddy Watson and swung wide around left end, out-racing Yellow Jacket defenders into the end zone.

The game's only scoring play came late in the third period after freshman back Willie Biont took an Oxford punt on his own 20 and returned it to midfield.

A Watson pass to Gatlin moved Eppes to the Yellow Jacket 30 and halfback Willie Adams took a pincushion around end to the 22. That set the stage for Gatlin's scoring play. The extra point attempt failed.

The Bulldogs moved the ball well against the Oxford defense, but the Eppes offense was halted by fumbles three times within the Yellow Jacket 20.

I the opener for both teams, Eppes moved quickly on its first series of downs. The Bulldogs took over after holding Oxford on downs.

Moving quickly, the Eppes offense rolled to the Jackets' 20 in three plays. An end around then moved Eppes to the six before fullback Marvin Anderson, on an off-tackle alert, fumbled on the three. An alert Oxford line smothered the loose ball, ending the Eppes threat.

While fumbles were bogging down the Bulldogs offense, Oxford could not penetrate a rugged Eppes defense. The Jackets netted only two first downs all night and these came consecutively late in the second quarter when the Oxford eleven marched from its own 25 to midfield.

Coach Percy Daniels' charges travel to Jacksonville to clash with a strong Phantom eleven there.

The Bulldogs line, however, will be bolstered by the return of Alton and Dalton Davis, twin linemen who led the Eppes forward wall last season. Neither saw action last night.

DEAF MAN PERFECTS SMALLEST HEARING AID

NOFOLK, Va.—(Special)—A remarkable midget hearing aid has been perfected by a man who has been hard of hearing for nearly ten years.

This small aid has no dangling cords or separate transmitting units and was announced in Virginia today as the most revolutionary product ever to appear on the market for the hard of hearing.

It is especially made for those people who can hear but not understand. This new hearing instrument provides "ear-level" hearing with the wearer picking up speech, sounds, television, and radio at his ear rather than at a transmitter located in the wearer's clothing.

Due to the use of 4 transistors, the user cost is extremely low and the instrument weighs approximately 1-4 ounce. It is about the size of a sewing thimble.

Sugg Tallies Easy Win, 38-0

FARMVILLE—Scoring in each of the last three periods, the Lions of H. B. Sugg High School here yesterday soundly trounced an outclassed Jones County Training School eleven 38-0.

Coach J. T. Evans' Lions used an explosive backfield to strike for two quick touchdowns in the second quarter.

Quarterback Bobby Joyner broke the scoring ice with an 85-yard scamper after taking a punt on his own 15 yard line early in the second quarter. Fullback Willie Wilkes added the extra points.

Sugg held the Trenton eleven on downs and took over on its own 40. On the first play from scrimmage, Wilkes burst straight down the middle to the Jones County two yard stripe. The driving fullback carried the final two yards on the next play and Joyner passed to end Thomas Green for the extra points.

The Lions added one touchdown in each of the final two quarters as the Trenton eleven failed to find a combination to stop the steady ground game.

Outstanding in the line for the Lions were co-captain Willie Tripp, Richard Gay, Jimmy Smith, and Willie Ellis.

It was the opener for both eleven. The Lions travel to Williams next Friday night in quest of their second straight.

Bucs Not Folding In Pennant Drive

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Did somebody say Dick Schofield was "a good-field, no-hit shortstop" when he broke into Pittsburgh's line-up as a replacement for the injured Dick Groat?

In three games since Groat was sidelined for the rest of the season with a broken wrist, Schofield has batted .556. And his first extra-base hit of the year, a two-run triple, gave the Pirates a 4-3 decision over the Chicago Cubs Friday night that retained their six-game bulge in the National League race.

The second place St. Louis Cardinals kept their slim hopes alive with a 4-1 victory at Philadelphia in a game held to five innings by rain. But third place Milwaukee slipped seven games back with a 5-3 loss to the Los Angeles Dodgers, who whipped one-time Nemesis Bob White for the fifth time this season.

In the American League, Baltimore lost 5-2 to the Chicago White Sox, shaving the Orioles' lead to a half-game over New York. The Yankees won 5-2 at Detroit. Washington rapped Cleveland 8-2, and Kansas City defeated Boston 3-2.

San Francisco and Cincinnati split a two-night game, the Giants winning the opener 4-2 and the Reds taking the second game 3-2. Schofield, 25, a one-time Cardinal bonus kid who had seven hits in 35 at-bats (200) as a part-time performer for the Pirates this season, now is 5-for-9 in three games. His triple, off losing lefty Dick Ellsworth (6-12) in the sixth inning, gave the Pirates a 4-1 lead after they had come from behind with a pair of unearned runs in the second.

Wilmer (Vinegar Bend) Mizell (11-7) was the winner, but needed a one-pitch, saving relief job by Elroy Face after holding the Cubs to four hits until the ninth. Then Chicago scored twice with two out, on a pinch single by Nelson Mathews, a double by Richie Ashburn and a single by Don Zimmer, and had the tying run on base when

Ayden Tramples Snow Hill In First Home Contest, 39-0

AYDEN—Ayden High's steam-rolling Tornadoes opened their home schedule last night in a blitz, bowling over Snow Hill 39-0 for their second win of the young football season.

For the winners, it was Mack

Tripp who broke the game wide open in the early stages. While Snow Hill was setting its defensive guns for All-Conference Dinky Mills, Tripp was scooting with ease through the Snow Hill line, scoring three of the first four touchdowns on runs of 27, 10 and 42 yards.

Ayden received the opening kickoff and scored in six plays. Tripp climaxed the 55-yard drive by hitting paydirt from 27 yards out. The extra point attempt failed.

The Tornadoes were in scoring position minutes later when Dinky Mills intercepted a Snow Hill pass and raced back to the visitor's 24. Harold Edwards, Ayden quarterback, circled end from that point to register the second score for Ayden. Edwards flipped a pass to Emmitt Gibson for the point after touchdown.

Tripp opened the second quarter with a scoring run of 10 yards, climaxed a 51-yard drive that took only five plays. Edwards bucked for the extra point, giving Ayden a 20-0 lead.

Midway the period, Tripp found a big hole in the left side of the line and scurried down the sidelines for 42 yards and another six-point. Mills plunged over for the extra point and a 27-0 Ayden lead.

The Tornadoes, moving the ball at will, added one more tally just before the half when quarterback Tommy Dunn found Emmitt Gibson open on a 30-yard pass play, climaxed a 67-yard march. The extra point attempt failed.

Using reserves in the second half, Coach Stuart Tripp's crew struck for a final tally in the third quarter. With Tommy Dunn directing the attack, Ayden marched 54 yards for the last score.

Dunn tossed a six-yard pass to Nolan Norman to climax the drive. The extra point attempt failed.

Snow Hill, trounced for the second time this season by a Pitt County eleven, was unable to muster any type of offense against Ayden. The visitors failed to register a first down in the first half and only against reserves in the final stanza they were able to pick up three first downs.

Heading the Ayden defensive line were Bud Carmon and Hubert Jolly.

Red Devils Lose First Game By Last Period TD

FARMVILLE — Injury-riddled Farmville gave out of gas in the final period last night, bowing to Contentnea 7-6 for their first loss of the 1960 football season.

For three periods, it looked as if a second period touchdown by Farmville would stand up in the defensive contest.

The Red Devils had struck the first blow in the second period when senior Bobby Eason fell on a Contentnea fumble at the visitors 18 yard line. Alex Corbett raced over from the six on the second play from scrimmage. The important extra point attempt failed.

The two Coastal Conference teams swapped punts most of the third period with neither offensive unit able to stage a potent attack.

In the fourth period, Billy Smith spearheaded a drive that paid off with a touchdown. Smith carried the pigskin for most of the 47 yard drive and climaxed the march with a 15 yard sweep of right end. Smith won the game when he dived over the extra point.

The game also presented another fatal blow for the luckless Farmville club. Mitchell Cannon, outstanding linemen in the game, was injured in the fourth period, joining starters Danny Dilda, J.Y. Monk, Billy Walker, and Billy Pollard on the crippled list.

Pitt Firemen To Meet Monday

The annual meeting of the Pitt Firemen Association will be held Monday night at 7:15. All fire departments in Pitt County are urged to have representatives for the important meeting. The Dutch supper will be at the Silo Grill on NC11 South. "We would like also to have any members of newly organized fire departments who are not members of the Pitt Firemen Association to meet with us" Roy Hardee, Vice President of the Pitt Firemen Association said in making the announcement of the meeting. "Since we organized several new departments have been formed and we would like very much to have these present for the meeting to learn the aims and purpose of our Association" Hardee said. The Pitt Firemen Association was formed a little over one year ago to promote better fire fighting in Pitt County among both rural and city departments and to foster the growth of new fire departments in the now unprotected rural sections. Since that time, two new departments have been formed, one other has been announced and a fourth is in the planning stages. Each department has two voting members but the meeting is open and all firemen are invited. It is requested that each department advise the number of firemen which will be present from each department.

God's promises to mankind are being substantiated today through scientific understanding of Spirit. This is a theme of the Lesson-Sermon on "Substance" which will be read this Sunday at all Christian Science churches.

Experiences of three men who received the fulfillment of divine promises—Abraham, Moses, and Zacharias—will be featured in the Bible readings, which also include this verse from Isaiah: "For the mountains shall depart, and the hills be removed; but my kindness shall not depart from thee, neither shall the covenant of my peace be removed, saith the Lord that hath mercy on thee" (54:10).

Among passages to be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy is the following (491:12): "It is only by acknowledging the supremacy of Spirit, which annuls the claims of matter, that mortals can lay off mortality and find the indissoluble spiritual link which establishes man forever in the divine likeness, inseparable from his creator."

Football Time Is Here Again

AYDEN'S TORNADOES . . . Defensive linemen "take a breather" during practice scrimmage as offensive unit huddles.

Though high temperatures are yet the order of the day, America's fall schoolboy sport has suddenly been thrown into high gear.

Pitt County's three high schools fielding football squads—Rose High in Greenville, Farmville, and Ayden—are definitely included in the swing to the gridiron sport and are busily preparing hardened elevens to wage their fall pigskin wars.

All three aggregations carried flawless won-lost slates into action last night. Two of the trio had victories under their belts.

Ayden and Farmville had subdued Havelock and Snow Hill, respectively, while Rose High was unveiling the 1960 edition of the "Phantoms" at Ahoskie.

The process of molding together a group of individual high schoolers into a fast-acting, effective unit is no easy task.

This fact may be borne out by all three coaches—Bud Phillips of Rose High, Elbert Moye of Farmville, and Stuart Tripp of Ayden.

These three men comprise the "chiefs" of high school football in Pitt County. They all share the common problems and even "nightmares" that can only be expected with coaching football teams.

Needless to say, all three mentors are well acclimated to sleepless nights, greying hair, a maybe high blood pressure on occasions.

All three will agree, however, the task of welding youths' physical capabilities into a machine-smooth unit that can "deliver" often is incomparably rewarding.

The pre-season practice routine, with which all coaches and players are quite familiar these days, often seems dull and monotonous at times.

Still the grind continues. Day in and day out until each "rough spot," taken in turn, is "worked out."

In a sense, each Friday night brings a test of what has been accomplished during long hours on the practice field. Alert coaches watch intently to discover weaknesses that need individual attention "after school next week."

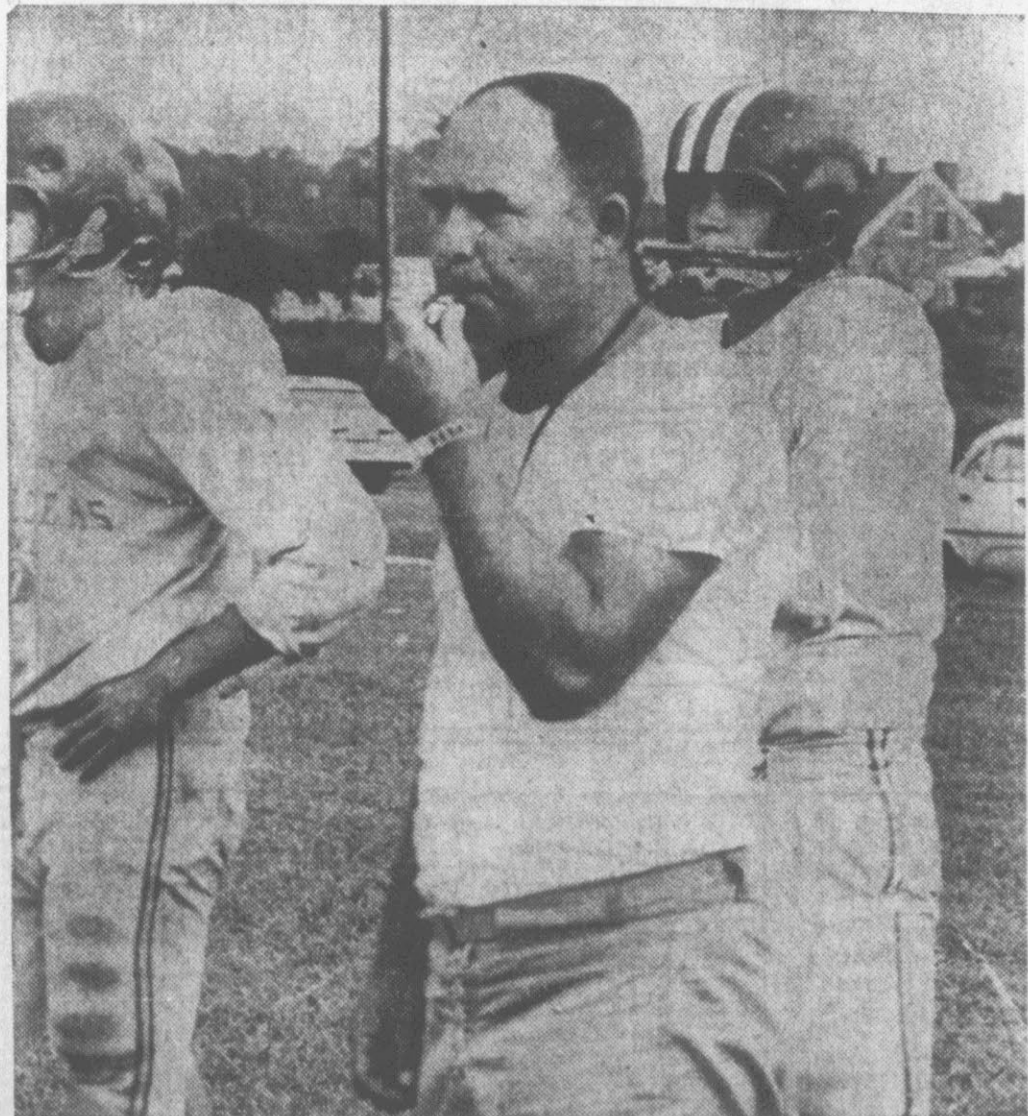

Coaches and their charges take the 10-week season in stride—sometimes suffering setbacks, often reaping the glory of gridiron victory.

They take the long grind in segments—one week at a time. They make mental and pencil notes. They make adjustments and corrections.

Then they look to next Friday—always hopeful, always confident.

PRACTICE HUDDLE . . . Phillips tutors Rose High starting unit on offensive maneuvers.

PHANT COACH . . . Phillips, with star quarterback Erskine Duff looking over his shoulder, calls squad back for re-run.

ELBERT MOYE . . . Farmville mentor pauses to scan a list of potential all-conference Red Devils.

AYDEN TUTOR . . . veteran Coach Stuart Tripp watches intently as Tornadoes engage in intra-squad combat.

Mural Depicting N. C. History Is Presented School

OUTER BANKS . . . the "High Tide" area is illustrated by symbols ranging from the Wright Brothers first plane (upper right) to the famous "Nags Head Lamp" (lower left).

A four-panel tempera mural—depicting North Carolina history in the four geographic areas of the state—was presented to the Elmhurst Elementary School here Thursday night.

Painted by Dr. Bruce Carter, the four colorful panels were commissioned last March by the Memorial Fund Committee, agent for a memorial established in memory of Glenn Billica by his parents, Dr. and Mrs. Harry Billica.

The Billica youth, who died in 1959, was a student at Elmhurst for four years. He was a fifth grade student there at the time of his death.

The four panels, measuring four by eight feet, were hung on the walls of the Elmhurst combination auditorium - cafeteria and were presented to the local school to promote interest in Tar Heel history.

Represented by the paintings are the Outer Banks, the Coastal Plain, the Piedmont, and the Mountain Area of North Carolina.

Dr. Billica, attending Elmhurst's first Parent-Teacher Association meeting, formally presented the mural sections to school.

Dr. Carter, associate art professor at East Carolina College, explained the symbolism used in the paintings. The 30-year-old artist and art instructor described the process leading to the completed mural.

In order to gather information for selection of the symbols used, books, periodicals, field trips, and interviews with individuals were necessary.

According to Dr. Carter, "The range in research material stretched from mountaineer ballads to Nazi submarine logbooks; from muddy potter's wheels to North Carolina Civil War muskets; from cypress-margined, mosquito-ridden rivers to the wide empties of the Outer Banks."

He added, "In the study an attempt was made to determine the regional characters of the North Carolinians as reflected in their deeds and dress."

Each of the four paintings is designed to depict the history of a geographic section from the colonial period to modern times.

Spaced on the Elmhurst walls, the murals face each other in pairs across the auditorium.

Elmhurst Principal Mrs. Helen Wolff, a member of the Memorial Fund Committee along with Dr. and Mrs. Billica, told the Daily Reflector, "The Billicas wanted the fund to be used to secure some permanent type of art work for the school, which would appeal to the children and serve as an educational guide."

Of the mural, Mrs. Wolff said, "Through this work the boys and girls are provided with a means of understanding and remembering the various aspects of North Carolina's history and heritage."

Mrs. Wolff formally accepted the murals from Dr. Billica.

Rail Strike Ties Up Bus Meeting

WASHINGTON (AP) — For months, East Coast members of the National Trailways Bus System had planned to hold their annual sales convention in Atlantic City Sept. 13-14.

Now the convention is postponed—because of the Pennsylvania Railroad strike.

The bus companies explained they are so swamped with business to hold a meeting on how to increase business.

PIEDMONT MURAL . . . symbols used range from dazed Confederate artilleryman (upper left) observing Piedmont progress in disbelief to the research chemist (lower right) depicting industrial development.

A Stirring Western Suspense Novel The Lean Rider by CLIFF FARRELL

CHAPTER 26

Al Quirk was ahen. He looked at Abel Barbee and said, "You wouldn't put a man afoot out here, Abel? Not way out here? It's a hundred miles to nowhere."

"You can make it to the stage road in a day or so walkin'," Abel said. "You'll be pickin' up."

"Comanches might git me. Or 'Paches!"

Abel rode alongside Quirk. "Get off that horse!" he commanded.

Quirk slowly, fearfully slid to the ground. Abel stripped the saddle and headstall from the man's mount and tossed them at his feet. He mounted his own animal and sent the loose horse away with a slap, heading it toward the remuda.

He looked at his mother and Lisa Randolph. "Git rollin'!" Up to that moment Lisa had believed he would relent. "You can't leave him like this!" she protested. "Alone! On foot!"

Abel rode alongside the wagon and used the end of his lariat to startle the mules into motion.

Lisa leaned back on the reins, hauling them to a quick stop. "Give him a horse and enough food and water to carry him through, at least."

"No," Abel said. He brought the rope slashing down again on the mules. Hester Barbee released the brake and the chuck wagon began moving. Abel galloped away to rejoin the herd.

Lisa looked back. Al Quirk was a forlorn and frightened mope amid the immensity of the barren plain.

She prevailed on Hester to halt. From the foodboxes she made up a pack, along with a filled canteen, which Quirk came hurryng to accept.

Abel saw this and came galloping back. There was an unyielding set to his features. She sensed that he was on the point of smashing the canteen and scattering the food. She stood between his wrath and Quirk. For seconds they faced each other in a clash of wills.

Suddenly he turned and rode away. She had overruled his judgment and he had been forced to accept it.

As she drove the wagon away, Al Quirk burst into a frenzy of fury. He cursed Abel. He even cursed Lisa. When she looked back, he was still standing there, screaming imprecations and shaking his fist.

"It's cruel!" Lisa choked. "Cruel! Brutal!"

Tears streaked Hester's cheeks, but there was a fierce light in her eyes and almost a scorn in her voice. "Do you think Abel wanted to do that? But he had to. This ain't Chicago. You can't call on the law to help you out here. Abel did what had to be done. We've got to stand up to Kemp Travis. If any of us show we're scared, none of us will get out of this alive. Not one person, not one head o' stock. Kemp's gone too far, an' he's got too much money at stake to back down. Don't you understand that even yet, Elizabeth? Kemp's out to smash us. If he can sell that second herd of his along with the other one, it means he'll be a rich man. A rider's got no more right to quit a herd out here than a soldier has to desert his post, or a sailor to abandon his ship."

No one spoke to Abel that night. He was apart from them, remote even from his brother Matthew, who believed his action had been too harsh.

From the darkness, at long range, a rifle opened up. Paul Drexel, who was nearest Lisa, pushed her down into the uncertain protection of the wagon wheels.

She heard bullets ripping through the canvas tilts of both wagons. A second rifle joined in. Splinters flew as struts were nicked.

The firing stopped. After a time the echo of riders departing at a steady gallop came in from the night.

Abel got to his feet and stood listening. Presently he turned and looked at Matthew.

No word was spoken. Matthew laid aside his book and pulled on his boots. Paul Drexel, his smile tight and fixed on his lips, also got to his feet. The two of them walked to their night horses and methodically heaved the cinches tight and laced the latigos.

Abel got two rifles from the supply wagon and handed them to the two men. Hester lifted a protesting hand, opened her lips to voice a plea.

Abel spoke. "Shoot high, like they did. They're not on the kill yet. Neither are we. But notch low enough to show 'em that we'll notch lower if need be."

Hester's hand dropped helplessly, her protest unspoken. Matthew, without looking at her, rode away with Paul to carry on the contest that was building up between Abel and Kemp Travis.

A contest that, up to now, was one of nerves, of feint and counter-feint to test out the full temper of the other's will.

This time Abel was sending his brother into danger.

Abel beckoned Micah Jones and they moved apart. Abel had

She walked to Hester and kissed the elder woman on the cheek. "Hester has the savvy," she said. "But I have the advantage in weight, and in age. Hester's had her day at riding saddleback with cattle. She is the one to stay with the wagons."

Once again he saw the flicker of approval in his eyes. "It was what I was thinkin'. You're promoted from cook's swamper to full trail hand. Thirty a month an' keep."

Within a few minutes Lisa, now a trifle frightened, was with the cattle. She was mounted on a small gray horse, fitted with a worn sidesaddle that belonged to Hester.

The position Abel assigned her was the second swing on the right flank of the column. Ahead of her in the first swing was Lon Melton, and beyond Melton, Paul rode at point. Her partner on the opposite flank was Nephie Smith. He grinned encouragingly at her across the backs of the cattle.

This herd was trail-broke, but that was only a figure of speech. The Longhorns, still wild and unpredictable, marched westward only because a greater will was forced upon them. Abel was that will. The other men and herself were only the instruments of his planning.

"The armed man's attitude aroused a clutching dread in Lisa, for there was something famil-
