Bombers Crash Over Stormy Sea

Gov. Hodges Draws Boos

At Mention Of Catholicism

SHANNON, Ireland (AP)—Two U.S. Air Force B47 jet bombers on a three-plane flight from the United States collided over the storm-tossed Atlantic today. One spun down through the overcast. The other limped 300 miles to Shannon with an engine dangling from one wing.

With visibility closing in and waves running high, five Royal Air Force rescue planes and British destroyer were ordered to the area to search for the three-man crew of the downed plane. The search operation also was reported to include three U.S. submarines on duty in the area. Search headquarters said the first ship may not reach the crash site until midnight, leaving the survivors, if any, to be tossed about for hours on their small rubber escape rafts.

The B47s were bound from Plattsburgh Air Force Base, N.Y., to the U.S. base at Brize Norton, England.

While air authorities in Britain and Ireland said they were satisfied the plane was down at sea, U.S. Air Force officials at Plattsburgh clung to a belief it might have managed a safe landing somewhere on European soil. They listed it officially as missing.

The B47 is a six-engine jet with a maximum speed of 650 miles per hour and a ceiling of 50,000 feet.

Shannon Airport officials said they did not know whether the pilot of the ditched bomber was able to set it down in the water successfully, or whether it hit the sea hard and broke up.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gov. Luther Hodges of North Carolina was booed by some listeners Tuesday night when he referred to the religious issue in the presidential campaign.

The boos came when Hodges, addressing the National Association of Life Underwriters, said Vice President Richard M. Nixon, the Republican presidential nominee, "would be annihilated in North Carolina in the vote for president in November if it were not for the Catholic religion of Sen. Kennedy which has become an issue there."

Hodges, chairman of the Committee of Business and Professional People for Kennedy and Johnson, said later he believed the boos resulted from the fact that his listeners thought he was referring to Nixon's election chances nationwide and not just in North Carolina.

The governor said today he feels that "Nixon wants a cut-off on religious talk because he's afraid of a boomerang."

Asked if there has been any change regarding the religious issue in North Carolina, Hodges replied: "I think there is improvement. I hope I'm not just hoping. The thing is beginning to turn. People who are fair minded resent this religious emphasis because it's sometimes a cover-up for other reasons for not wanting the ticket of Kennedy and Lyndon Johnson and sometimes because they want no religious issue affecting the vote for president and vice president."

Hodges, who is working for the election of the Democratic nominee, Sens. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts for president and Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas for vice president, said also today that "Democratic prospects are getting better in North Carolina all the time but I just hope we don't get ahead too far too fast."

"The appearance of Democratic presidential candidate John F. Kennedy in the state at five cities Saturday will have a tremendous effect," Hodges said. "Anybody who looks at him sees patriotism in his face."

Kennedy is scheduled to speak at Greenville, Greensboro, Asheville, Charlotte and Raleigh. The governor said he will accompany Kennedy, along with the Democratic gubernatorial nominee of the state, Terry Sanford, and Sens. B. Everett Jordan and Sam Ervin, North Carolina Democrats.

Hodges spoke today at a breakfast to organize the greater Washington Committee of Business and Professional Men and Women for Kennedy and Johnson.

He said each state will have a similar committee and that Judge Roy Morgan, Greensboro, N.C., will set up an office here Thursday to form a Southern group. Hodges said he will speak to about 40 businessmen in Chicago Monday.

The governor told the group of about 40 men and women here today that employers as well as employees must work for better business through the election of Democratic leaders.

"We've been brainwashed the last eight years by an idol," he said. Hodges said the most dangerous challenge facing the country now is world leadership.

He said each state will have a similar committee and that Judge Roy Morgan, Greensboro, N.C., will set up an office here Thursday to form a Southern group. Hodges said he will speak to about 40 businessmen in Chicago Monday.

The tentative time-table and details for Sen. Kennedy's 97-minute visit to Greenville were announced here today.

The time-table has been worked out based on the anticipated arrival of the Democratic presidential nominee at the Pitt-Greenville airport between 8:45 and 9 o'clock Saturday morning.

From the airport Sen. Kennedy and his official party will go to Farmers Warehouse on North Greene St. where the nominee will witness a mock tobacco auction and then hold his only official news conference of his North Carolina campaign swing.

Charles O'H. Horne, Jr., co-chairman for local arrangements for Sen. Kennedy's visit to Greenville, requested local citizens who wish to see and hear Sen. Kennedy to assemble in College Stadium rather than at the warehouse.

Horne explained that only a limited number of people will be allowed in the warehouse because of the press conference which will be held there exclusively for the 100 to 150 newsmen who are expected here for the nominee's visit. He also pointed to traffic problems which would be created if a large number of people attempt to see the nominee at the warehouse.

From the warehouse Sen. Kennedy and the official party will travel in a motorcade down Greene St. to Fifth and on Fifth Street to the college stadium where Sen. Kennedy will deliver his address. Sen. Kennedy will return to the airport by the same route at approximately 10:20.

Approximately a dozen bands are expected here to greet Sen. Kennedy and they will be stationed along the motorcade route and at College Stadium. The motorcade is expected to leave the warehouse at approximately 9:35 enroute to the college campus.

"We expect a good many people to line the streets along the route the motorcade will follow," Horne said today. "We want them to turn out to welcome Sen. Kennedy to Greenville and to Eastern North Carolina. We also expect a huge crowd at college stadium and we urge the people to assemble at the stadium not later than 9:15 to 9:30."

Horne explained that the schedule for Sen. Kennedy's visit here has been worked out on a minute-by-minute basis as has the rest of his flying tour through North Carolina. During the day the motorcade will cover some 700 miles and make five stops in the state.

People from throughout the eastern part of North Carolina are expected here for the Kennedy rally. Co-chairmen Horne and John G. Clark have estimated some 20 to 25,000 people will see and hear Sen. Kennedy during his stop in Greenville. Democratic gubernatorial nominee Terry Sanford said two weeks ago he expects "is Greenville to provide the largest gathering in the state for Kennedy's visit."

In addition to Greenville, Sen. Kennedy's tour of North Carolina will include Greensboro, Asheville, Charlotte and Raleigh.

Disaster Area Plea For N. C.

RALEIGH (AP)—Steps were being taken today to have a large section of Eastern North Carolina declared a major disaster area because of hurricane Donna.

State Civil Defense officials prepared the necessary papers for Gov. Hodges to consider upon his return from Washington.

Meanwhile, Maj. Gen. Edward F. Griffin, state director of Civil Defense, was making another survey of the eastern section, planning to visit sections he did not reach in a flying trip Tuesday. He was accompanied by Thomas Goodman of Thomasville, Ga., southeastern director of the federal office of Civil Defense Mobilization.

Gen. Griffin planned to visit Southport, Wilmington, and the Beaufort-Morehead City area. The Civil Defense office estimated damage to private property at Atlantic Beach at $1,190,000 and damage to municipal property at $85,000.

For Morehead City, the estimate was $850,000 to private and $125,000 to public property.

For Pender County, Surf City and Topsail Beach the estimate was $650,000 damage to private property and $75,000 to public facilities.

The damage figure for Sneed's Ferry was $52,000 and for Swansboro it was $50,000 each for private and public property.

At Holden Beach, it was $18,000 private property loss and $3,500 damage to roads; Ocean Isle $6,000 damage to private property and $3,000 damage to roads; and for Shallotte $14,000 private and $10,000 public property damage; Long Beach $9,000 private and $80,000 road damage; Yaupon Beach $10,000 private and $2,000 road damage; Caswell Beach $3,500 private and $1,500 road damage.

In Carteret County from Harter's Island to Atlantic an estimated 50 homes were damaged at an average of $150 each.

A report compiled by the Red Cross for Civil Defense officials gave these figures for seven counties hit by the storm:

New Hanover—One dead, two injured, two hospitalized, seven homes destroyed, 100 homes with major damage and 500 homes with minor damage.

Sampson County—Eight injured, eight hospitalized, three homes destroyed, two homes with major damage, two with minor damage and six buildings damaged.

Brunswick County—One injured, none hospitalized, 13 homes destroyed, three homes with major damage and 175 with minor damage.

Beaufort County—13 injured, six hospitalized, 37 homes destroyed, 50 homes with major damage, 400 homes with minor damage and 47 buildings damaged.

Dare County—Three dead, none injured, eight homes destroyed, 43 homes with major damage and 15 with minor damage.

Onslow County—One injured, two homes destroyed, 12 with major damage and eight buildings damaged.

Communications and electrical circuits in Pitt County were gradually being restored to order today after virtually all were knocked out by Hurricane Donna.

All day Monday and part of Tuesday Greenville was isolated from a communications standpoint except for police and ham radios.

Some telephone toll lines were restored yesterday by Carolina Telephone Co. yesterday. However, this morning many of the circuits were still out.

Local manager Frank Harrington said this morning there were some toll lines to each town which Greenville reaches.

He said there were perhaps 1,000 individual telephone lines on the local system which are still dead.

N.C. Death Toll At Eight; Damage Outlook Brighter

RALEIGH (AP)—The bodies of three Coast Guardsmen, perhaps duped by the false serenity of Hurricane Donna's eye, were found Tuesday in Roanoke Sound near Nags Head.

The discovery brought to at least eight the number of persons killed in the massive storm which muscled up the Tar Heel coast Sunday night and Monday morning.

Meanwhile, clean-up operations continued at full tilt as coastal residents and eastern farmers tried to salvage what they could from their hard hit homes and croplands.

The Red Cross announced that it was opening headquarters in New Bern today, under the direction of Milton Jackson of Alexandria, Va., to assist storm-stricken families. Thirty-five Red Cross workers have been assigned to the North Carolina storm area.

Paul M. Moore, manager of the Red Cross Southeastern area, said that incomplete surveys Tuesday in eight North Carolina counties show 92 homes destroyed, 246 with major damage and 1,335 with minor damage. The counties are Beaufort, Pender, Brunswick, New Hanover, Craven, Dare, Hyde and Onslow.

Moore said the heaviest North Carolina destruction was at Washington where Donna destroyed 37 homes and damaged 450. The hurricane destroyed 173 in Southport and damaged 25 homes and damaged 400 in Pender County.

State Civil Defense Director Edward F. Griffin was to make another trip to the storm area and report to Gov. Hodges today on his estimate of the damage. Indications are the figure would not be as high as originally anticipated.

Griffin expressed his belief Tuesday after a flying trip from Elizabeth City down the coast to the Morehead City-Beaufort vicinity.

Three Coast Guardsmen were last seen when the storm's eye was passing the Nags Head area. They were on the causeway leading to a bridge which spans Roanoke Sound between Nags Head and Manteo.

At about 5:30 a.m., a half hour after they were seen on the causeway, the storm's furious west winds—which inflicted most of the damage in the Nags Head area—began crashing in.

The three were identified as Frank Collins, Everett Barnett and Ben Mann, all of Manteo. They were on leave from the cutter Ingham.

Tar Heel corn and bean farmers received a word of cautious optimism from Bob Moore, Washington, N.C., Civil Defense man who accompanied Griffin. Moore said the damage was great "but with five days of dry weather much could be salvaged." The Weather Bureau has forecast clear weather for the next several days.

Highway Director W. F. Babcock said he felt the storm inflicted only about half a million dollars in damage to North Carolina roads.

He said it would take about $100,000 to repair the causeway between Morehead City and Beaufort which was severely torn by wind and wave action. The causeway was opened Tuesday to essential traffic on a one-way basis.

Major utility firms servicing the area continued their task of patching up telephone and power lines. It had been restored in most areas by late Tuesday. Distribution lines to individual customers still were down in many areas.

Wrightsville Beach residents were permitted to return to their homes today after the board of aldermen decided that water and sewer systems were again safe.

Mayor George Dill of Morehead City surveyed Atlantic Beach and said the damage was not as severe as that inflicted by Hurricane Hazel in 1954.

He credited a concrete restraining wall, built along the ocean front by property owners after Hazel struck, with preventing another heartbreaking disaster.

Early damage estimates included a $2 million loss at Atlantic Beach, $2 million to Pitt County crops and several million in New Bern.

Water was being hauled in by truck in a few areas where salt water fouled wells or where electric power, needed to run pumps, was cut off.

Trees and power lines were down as far east as Tarboro in Edgecombe County. That town's attractive common was torn by the high winds.

Ike Plans Speech Before Khrushchy

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower decided today to beat Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchey to the punch and address the United Nations General Assembly before Khrushchey speaks there.

The White House announced that Eisenhower will go to New York Thursday, Sept. 22, to address the General Assembly.

This date would put Eisenhower well ahead of the Soviet premier in the speaking list under United Nations procedure.

At the U.N. Brazil has the first right to address the General Assembly, with the United States presenting the second speaker. The assembly opens Sept. 20.

There was no immediate indication when Khrushchey will get his turn, but it was thought probably that he will not make his speech until after Eisenhower returns to Washington.

Eisenhower's decision marked a sudden shift in plans, presumably dictated by an administration desire to prevent Khrushchey from stealing the propaganda spotlight unchallenged.

The previous administration plan was for Eisenhower to go before the General Assembly some two or three weeks after Khrushchey left New York, thus avoiding any prospect of a face-to-face meeting.

Secretary of State Christian A. Herter was to have been the top U.S. spokesman with the task of replying from day to day to Khrushchey propaganda attacks and boasts about Soviet scientific and military might.

This administration strategy, however, was known to have worried British authorities, who felt high-level competition was needed to counter the impact of Khrushchey's words around the world, particularly in neutral countries.

Press secretary James C. Hagerty hinted Monday night for the first time at a shift in administration thinking. At that time he cautioned newsmen against speculating that Eisenhower would go to New York after Khrushchey left.

Hagerty, announcing today the President's plans to speak before the assembly, said: "He will have specific proposals to make to the United Nations delegates at that time."

But when questioned by newsmen about the possible proposals, Hagerty declined to go beyond the wording of his formal statement.

Castro, Too, Held To Manhattan Isle

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States today ordered Cuba's Fidel Castro restricted to Manhattan Island when he attends the United Nations general assembly session in New York, beginning next week.

The limitations imposed on Castro's movements are the same as those previously set on the travels in this country of Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchey and two other Soviet bloc leaders.

This latest move by the United States in preparation for dealing with the New York assembly of many government chiefs who follow the lead taken by Khrushchey was announced at a news conference today by Secretary of State Christian A. Herter.

Herter said the Cuban embassy was formally advised this morning of the restrictions on Prime Minister Castro.

In addition to Khrushchey, the curb previously had been ordered into effect for the Hungarian premier and the Albanian Communist party chief.

Herter said no decision has been reached about limiting the travels of Yugoslav President Tito, Egypt's President Gamal Abdel Nasser or any other top-level visitor.

Herter made these other main points:

1. One of Khrushchey's U.N. maneuvers may be to make a personal bid for the seating of Red China as a member. Herter suggested that only as a possibility.

2. Herter discounted the likelihood of any meeting at New York between Khrushchey and President Eisenhower although both men are scheduled to be in the city Thursday. Herter simply said he was unaware of any plans. He said Eisenhower's conditions for a meeting with Khrushchey still stand. These include release of two American fliers held since July 1.

3. No invitations have been issued yet for any of the government leaders attending the U. N. session to visit Washington. Any such bids would be the business of the White House, Herter said.

4. The United States considers that East German restrictions on travel to West Berlin constitute a serious matter. Herter would make no comment beyond this.

5. Herter declined to give any advice to the American press as to how it should cover Khrushchey's visit. He also said people who might invite Khrushchey to make public appearances, would have to decide for themselves whether they wanted to give an invitation to a man who had insulted the United States.

6. The situation in the Congo is so confused that Herter said he would not dare try to assess it from Washington. President Joseph Kasavubu and Premier Patrice Lumumba are engaged in a struggle for power, he said. The other outstanding fact about the Congo at the moment is that the country generally is much quieter outside the capital than in Leopoldville.

WORKING THROUGH WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower has worked his way through all but 35 of the 172 bills passed by the recent short session of Congress.

College President's Address Highlights First Session Of State FWB Convention

AYDEN—An address by Dr. W. Burkette Raper, president of Mount Olive Junior College, highlighted the opening session of the North Carolina State Convention of Free Will Baptist Churches at Elm Grove Church near here this morning.

Approximately 500 were expected to attend the two-day session, which will hear reports on various church institutions and projects and elect officers on Thursday.

Reports this morning included Free Will Baptist Press, the North Carolina Ministerial Association of Free Will Baptists and the Children's Home.

Rev. N. Bruce Barrow, pastor of Elm Grove Church and president of the State Convention, is presiding over the session. He announced yesterday that meals will be served at noon each day at the church.

Those seeking directions or information concerning the convention may inquire at the Free Will Baptist Press in Ayden. Rev. Mr. Barrow said. The Elm Grove Church is located off highway 11, between Ayden and Grifton. The direction is denoted by a sign.

Rev. Walter Reynolds is scheduled to deliver the Convention Sermon Thursday at the morning session. During this session, the report on Mount Olive Junior College will also be presented.

Utilities Employes Are Commended For 'Work Above And Beyond Call Of Duty'

By ALVIN TAYLOR
Reflector City Editor

Greenville Utilities employes were commended last night for "work above and beyond the call of duty."

Utilities Commission unanimously approved the commendation after Suplt. Leonard Bloxam reported on the work done to restore power throughout the badly battered utilities system.

Bloxam told the commission that major circuits were back in service last night. He said it was anticipated that all individual services would be repaired by tonight.

A major problem left by Hurricane Donna was the fact that a large number of individual services were pulled loose from the houses. Linemen have worked to restore main circuits first and restoring the individual services is a time consuming job, he said.

Bloxam has estimated there was $60,000 damage to the Utilities system.

The superintendent said his crews had "picked up 15 meters" yesterday. The light meters were pulled from the sides of dwellings by the electric lines as they were pulled down.

Eight or ten transformers were lost when poles on which they were mounted crashed to the ground.

day," Bloxam told the commission. "There were several hours during Hazel with not a single kilowatt going out."

The superintendent said more trees were blown over and into the electric distribution system during the Monday morning storm.

This was because there was more moisture in the ground this year than in 1954, he theorized.

"This summer we've had a good rain season and far more trees were uprooted than during Hazel by a long shot," he stated. "I checked back in the records and found there were three months of practically no rain at all prior to Hazel. The Tar River was at its lowest level in seven years."

Bloxam said that assessment of the damage caused by Hazel brought changes which strengthened the system and minimized damage from Donna.

He also praised the commission's two-way radio system as a coordinating and safety aid.

"What we would do without radio, I don't know," he declared. The superintendent said the hurricane ripped off a portion of the power plant roof. One section of it went through the top of a new truck at the plant. Another was found at Pitt and Greene Sts.

Co., $1,654 and $155 trade-in; White Chevrolet Co., $1,664 and $219 trade-in.

Commissioners approved the purchase of an Evans flat bed tandem trailer at a cost of $3,453 with trade-in. Evans was the lowest of four bids.

Also approved was the payment of $1,967.39 monthly to Virginia Electric and Power Co. for transformer facilities. Additional transformers and other facilities have been added to older facilities and have been in operation for some months.

The Utilities Commission's sewer disposal plant, now under construction on property behind Greenwood Cemetery, is progressing satisfactorily, Bloxam told the commissioners. Considerable excavation has been done and concrete for half of one of the trickling filters has been poured.

The superintendent also reported that condemnation proceedings have begun for a section of the sewer interceptor line right-of-way. The proceedings were brought about because Claxton Stancill would not agree to the sewer line right-of-way through property owned partially by him, Bloxam reported.

All other property owners along the route have agreed to the sewer line easement.

The commission's last gas leak survey turned up less gas leaks than ever, Bloxam reported. Only two major leaks were found and both have been repaired. Crews are still working on minor leaks, he said.

Everybody Loves Nature Why Neglect It At Home?

Overgrown, outmoded landscaping on the home property is an eyesore that reduces the value of land and homes in the immediate vicinity. Everyone has seen this in neighborhoods that have become run-down due to lack of attention to the grounds.

Mrs. Allen To Attend Meet In Washington

Mrs. Ichabod Allen of Rt. 1, Farmville will be among the North Carolina delegates attending the 15th annual meeting of the National Conference on Citizenship, Sept. 16-20.

On the other hand, says the American Association of Nurserymen, homes in areas where the grounds are well-landscaped not only maintain but increase their values in the real estate markets, and they provide better and more relaxed "garden living" for the family.

Whole real estate developments or other residential areas can be upgraded or downgraded by the "looks" of the landscaping alone, apart of the quality of the home construction, it is said.

Remodeling of landscaping is a key in home improvement. "People never before have realized this so much as today" say the nurserymen, "and it may be due in large part to the great surge of 'family garden living' in recent years."

As families have begun to live on the whole property with garden-living rooms, they have realized more than ever the healthfulness of living close to nature; and the need for and the joy of lovely plants of all kinds. Garden living is a wholesome trend that is expected to grow immensely in the coming year.

Community Service Sparked By 4-H Adult Leadership

By MAIDRED MORRIS
How long has it been since you had a 4-H safety campaign in your community? Mrs. Elmer Allen, an outstanding 4-H adult leader from Rameur, realized the necessity of observing safety practices in the home.

As adult leader of the "Holly Ridge" 4-H community club, which is comprised of the 4-Hers from Holly Springs and Pleasant Ridge communities, Mrs. Allen helped plan a full week of activities during National Safety Week.

Mrs. Allen has to plan time for each one. She discusses projects and records books with each of her 13 girls.

Mrs. Allen says, "We planned a different activity for each day."

The activities began on Sunday with a tea. The 4-H members served refreshments to people who called during the afternoon.

Although the present club has only been organized for one year, members are busily renovating an old store to be used as a club house.

As adult leader of the "Holly Ridge" 4-H community club, which is comprised of the 4-Hers from Holly Springs and Pleasant Ridge communities, Mrs. Allen helped plan a full week of activities during National Safety Week.

"I read 'National 4-H News' from cover to cover and have ordered wonderful materials for my girls to work with," reports Mrs. Allen.

Mrs. Allen attends special 4-H adult leader training meetings.

Other projects get special attention too. The 4-Hers are now painting mail boxes in their community. Members of the community development association furnish the paint and the 4-Hers get a small fee for the work.

With 28 4-Hers to work with, Mrs. Allen has to plan time for each one.

Miss Rose Badgett, home economics agent in Randolph County, says, "Mrs. Allen always has her car available for transportation to 4-H functions, her time is available to assist any girl or boy in 4-H activities, her energies are always available, and her heart is open to all 4-H work."

Mrs. Allen reports the members recently made favors for the district 4-H recognition banquet. They made 300 4-H girls and boys from pipe cleaners and dressed them in 4-H uniforms.

Privacy Is Mark Of Social Prestige

From time immemorial, families have sought a fair measure of privacy in order to relax and play and live their lives as they see fit whether in the company of close friends, or as a family unit.

Privacy becomes a very important need for the average family when homesites are close together.

At the conclusion of the program, the hostess, Mrs. Newton, assisted by Mrs. W. R. Harris and Mrs. George Jefferson served cherry pie topped with ice cream and cold drinks to the eight members.

The garden-living, or the play and dining areas should be screened off; at least some area of the property should provide a delightful spot where the family can relax amidst lovely surroundings of evergreen and deciduous plant life, which provides flowers, as well as "green walls".

There are two ways to attain privacy on the property. The first is to plant a hedge. The second is to landscape in depth so that the view from outside is blocked off, while maintaining an "open" look.

Mr. Dalton Joyner and children, Deta Mona and Vivian, of Farmville were Friday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hines.

Your nurseryman can point out the shrubs which are best suitable for the purposes of privacy. Most nursery catalogues list various hedge plants as a group.

One precaution: if you wish privacy in winter as well as in summer, you should include evergreens, although some hedge materials which shed their leaves have such dense twig structure that they also afford fairly considerable measure of privacy in winter.

The Lady Can Pardon

It was Michael V. Di Salle, Ohio's governor. He was wondering if she'd be interested in being considered for appointment to the state pardon and parole commission.

She said she would.

The next surprise came a couple of days later — also by telephone.

When the phone rang, the attractive young social worker was in the shower. The call was from a newspaper reporter. She'd just been named to the commission, he said and a photographer would be over shortly.

Miss Karpinski made her first decision as a commissioner.

"No," she shrieked. "I've just come out of the shower and my hair's a mess."

Thus, last October, the pert Cleveland girl—still in her early thirties—became one of the nation's few full-time women members of pardon-parole boards.

"They haven't been able to take me on a tour inside Ohio penitentiary yet, and I'm the only nonsmoker on the commission (I may take it up in self-defense), but so far I've encountered no serious handicaps by being the only woman member," she says.

Miss Karpinski looks more like a college coed than someone who helps judge the applications of about 700 penal institution inmates a month.

Bachelors, Single Women Aren't As Happy As Married Couples

ANN ARBOR—Bachelors aren't as happy as married men. And the same goes for single women. This sad news for the footloose and fancy free comes from The University of Michigan Survey Research Center. In nearly 2,500 interviews with adults across the country, the Center found "sharp differences" in the happiness of single and married persons of both sexes. Contrary to one popular stereotype, the single woman who lives alone is not usually a frustrated old maid. And, among those who live alone, women aren't the weaker sex. "Generally, single women apparently experience less discomfort than single men," says researchers Gerald Gurin, Joseph Veroff, and Sheila Feld of the Center. "Women report greater happiness, are more active in the working through of the problems they face, and appear in most ways stronger in meeting the challenge of their position than single men. The story of the single aunt who assumes the role of a doting mother figure to her nieces and nephews may provide a clue to these differences. Perhaps it is an ability to form personal attachments that aids the single woman. "On the other hand, divorce seems to affect the adjustment of women more than men. Women experience more disruption, more distress in their lives after a breakup of marriage. "Why should this be so? In looking again for a husband, the divorced woman is often tied down by her children. Her age is a further handicap, more so than for her former husband. Yet two-thirds of the divorcees believe their future will be happier, a substantially higher proportion than can be found among married women. "The picture of widowhood is bleak, both for men and women. Widows and widowers are more unhappy, worry more, and anticipate death in the near future more often than married persons of the same age." Married people generally tend to make an "emotional investment" in their spouses, one which offers them general support and happiness as well as comfort during unhappy periods, the researchers explain. At the same time, however, this investment may awaken concern in an individual, especially about material needs—a good home, for example—which must be reasonably met to fulfill the responsibilities of marriage. Complete findings of the U-M research are reported in "Americans View Their Mental Health" (Basic Books, 444 pp. $7.50).

Otter's Creek FWB Church Homecoming Sunday

FOUNTAIN — Otter's Creek Free Will Baptist Church here will observe its annual Homecoming Sunday, September 18. The day's services will begin with Sunday School at 10:00 a.m. followed with morning worship at 11:00. A picnic lunch will be spread on the church grounds at 12 noon. The pastor, the Rev. C. D. Hamilton, invites all former pastors and friends to attend the fellowship. On Sunday evening, September 18, revival services will begin with the Rev. Clyde Cox of Forest City as the evangelist. Mr. Cox will also sing. The pastor and the church invites the public to come and worship with them in these services.

WRAP RIGHT

Make sure that any meat you put in your freezer is wrapped properly, otherwise it will dry out quickly. The top wide part of a discarded nylon stocking can be used to cover an irregular-shaped piece of meat, then the whole thing should be wrapped in moisture-proof vapor-proof freezer paper or foil.

Wesley Guild Holds Meeting

The Wesleyan Service Guild of the Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church held their September meeting in the home of Dr. Malene Irons, on West Rock Spring Road, with Mrs. Rosa Herring, Mrs. Scoville, Mrs. Rebecca Starkey, and Miss Frances Wahl as joint hostesses. The meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. Margaret Farley, who led the group in prayer. Mrs. Rebecca Starkey gave the devotional, using as her theme, "The Word in Our Midst." After a short business session, reports of the Guild week of study held at Duke University August 13-14 was given by the three delegates, Miss Thelma Exum, Helen Perkins, and Miss Elizabeth Walker. Miss Thelma Exum closed the meeting with the Guild Benediction, after which delicious refreshments were served by the hostesses.

With Farm Women

By MAIDRED MORRIS (Items this week from Tyrrell, Anson, Surry, Henderson, Lenoir, and Gaston Counties.) Garden Cuts Grocery Bills Mrs. Gene Grainger, Columbia, Rt. 2, planted her first garden this summer. Wife of a bridge construction crew member, Mrs. Grainger and her family move frequently in her trailer home. She rented a garden plot soon after arriving in Tyrrell County. From this garden, Mrs. Grainger has an abundance of squash, beets, carrots, onions, and many other vegetables. Mrs. Ann Davenport, home economics agent, says Mrs. Grainger's grocery bill has been cut about half. Plans are now being made for a fall garden. Barter Days Do you know how to make high quality cakes and icings? Home Demonstration women in Anson County wanted high quality products to sell during Barter Days.

Miss Virginia Wilson, food and nutrition specialist for the N. C. Agricultural Extension Service, had a workshop in the county and demonstrated making plain cakes, devil's food cakes, and seven minute and chocolate icings. "During the afternoon, the women made cakes and icings," reports Mrs. Ada Dalla Pozza, home economics agent. "Later the cakes were judged by Miss Wilson." Highway Safety Contest Home Demonstration Club women in Surry County have competed in the 1960 Highway Safety Contest. All clubs participated and 41 activities and projects were completed. Mrs. Evelyn G. Nifong, home economics agent, says "Projects of the clubs range from organizing school safety patrols to educational programs on highway safety; from speed limit reduction to installation of street lights; from railroad crossing safety to individual clearing of obstructions around driveways." Bazaar May Become Annual Affair The Good Neighbor Home Demonstration Club in Henderson County sponsored its first bazaar recently. The proceeds from the bazaar went into a scholarship fund which was set up by the club members to help some worthy boy or girl in the community go to college. Mrs. Henry Key, chairman of the event, reported over $300 was collected. Mrs. Kathleen Hodges, home economics agent, says the bazaar officially opened with a luncheon and later homemade food and other articles were sold. Canning Demonstrations Planned Homemakers, as well as local 4-H members in Lenoir County, will get information during the coming year on food conservation. Miss Marie Penuel, home economics agent, reports she has been busy canning pimento, apple sauce, beans, pears, and grape stock to use when teaching principles and procedures of canning as well as judging canned foods for home and exhibit use. Miss Penuel says grape stock will be used when teaching jelly-making to 4-H girls. 4-H Boosters' Club Miss Lucille Tatum, home economics agent in Gaston County, reports the 4-H Boosters' Club held their annual meeting recently. P. S. Hager, who is serving as president, reports over 200 attended the picnic. Recognition was made of former tomato and corn club members which were present, and then all national, state, and honor club members were recognized.

Visit Brings Conflicts Of Opinion

Obviously there are many points of conflict in the attitude of the people of the United States toward the visit of Soviet Premier Khrushchev to New York and the opening of the United Nations General Assembly.

There are those who question the wisdom of the U. S. action which confines Khrushchev to Manhattan Island during his stay in this country. There are those who see Khrushchev's call for a Communist summit conference to be held in the United States as a slap at the international prestige of this nation. There are those who feel that Khrushchev should receive the "silent treatment" by the American press and that his visit here should be ignored so far as news coverage is concerned.

In each of these instances, there are those who take the exact opposite view.

In restricting the Soviet Premier to a specific area of New York, the United States government acted in its own interest and in the interest of Premier Khrushchev. After all, he comes to this country for the announced purpose of attending the opening of the United Nations general assembly. If that is his genuine purpose, he will have no need to go outside the area to which the United States government has restricted him. He is, after all, coming to the United Nations, not the United States. He is coming for the opening of the general assembly, not as a guest of the United States to tour around the country as he sees fit.

It should be remembered that President Eisenhower had been invited to visit the Soviet Union, but that the invitation was heatedly withdrawn by Premier Khrushchev after the collapse of the Paris Summit Conference. The restrictions placed upon Khrushchev's movements during his stay in the United States will not interfere in the least with his announced purpose in coming here.

As for Khrushchev's call for a Communist summit conference in the United States, this is clearly a part of the propaganda program the Soviets hope to launch in connection with his visit to the United Nations. By Soviet designs it is expected to point up that the United States can do nothing about communist inroads in its own nation, much less about them in other sections of the world.

It should be realized, of course, that many people around the world will see this as a tribute to the principles of genuine democracy and freedom to which the United States is dedicated. They will also see it as an indication that the United States does not stand in awe of communist leaders being able to woo Americans away from the principles of democracy.

Certainly Premier Khrushchev would not permit any such meeting of free nations to take place on Soviet soil, say in Moscow or some other city. They would not do so for fear of the impact of such a meeting on their own people and those in other countries under the boot of communism.

As for the coverage of Khrushchev's visit to the United Nations, those who propose that it be ignored by the American press are suggesting that this country follow what the communists would do if the shoe were on the other foot.

In a free nation such as this, the free press has the obligation to inform the people of the news, whether it is good or bad, whether they like the person making the news or not. Khrushchev's visit to the United Nations will be important as news. He will make a propaganda pitch to be sure, but there will be important news in his words and in his actions while he is here. To ignore it would be to attempt to silence the unpopular view in this country just as views that differ with the official government position are silenced behind the Iron Curtain. The American press would not be fulfilling its obligation to the American people if it elected to give Khrushchev the "silent treatment" as some have urged.

Khrushchev's visit here already has caused a stir, and certainly before he leaves, there will be other points of controversy over what he says and what he does. Taken as a whole, however, the American people have nothing to fear from the decision of the Soviet Premier and his underlings to come to the United Nations. From the international standpoint, the United States' prestige may well be raised rather than lowered because of the attitude our government has taken toward the visit.

Ballots, Not Polls, To Render Final Verdict

This is the time of year when the various pollsters get busy with their predictions of who will win the election.

In every part of the nation opinion is being sampled by many means ranging from personal interviews to which candidate's picture is on the box of popcorn an individual buys.

There are so many polls and political straws in the wind that the average person can find his favorite candidate on both the high side and the low side of the poll-taking. It all depends on which set of statistics he looks at and how he analyzes them.

Certainly the polls reflect to some degree the public sentiment toward candidates. They may give a trend of one sort or another, but in the past there have been as many incorrect as there have correct predictions as to who would win an election. The classic example in recent history was in 1948 when all the polls showed GOP candidate Thomas Dewey of New York would route fiery Harry Truman of Missouri. The polls showed little strength for Truman, but the ballot boxes gave an entirely different verdict.

The pre-election surveys may give a sampling of public opinion toward candidates, but the thing that counts is how the ballots are marked when they go into the boxes. And the pollsters have never yet been able to figure out exactly how to make their surveys reflect what the individual voter will do when he marks his ballot in the privacy of a voting booth.

NEW YORK (A) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail: Husbands often complain their wives get upset over trifles, and this may be the medical reason: High blood pressure affects more than twice as many women as men.

Strength For Today

TAKE IT TO THE LORD
An old revival hymn tells us to "Take It to the Lord in Prayer." Even psychiatrists, many of whom are not religiously inclined, testify to the effectiveness of telling our troubles to someone who can help. Centuries have shown that no one can help as well as God.

A recent newspaper story told of a young man who did not take his troubles to anyone. An intelligent, handsome boy of twenty-two, he had just graduated from college. He had a job waiting for him and a bright future.

Not that we're really going to live in tents. But in a recent article in Harper's magazine, Arthur Watkins, noted architectural editor and engineer, warned that the present shortage is mild compared to what's likely around the end of the 1960's. That's when waves of postwar babies will be forming families. "INDIFFERENTLY PLANNED, SLOPPY BUILT"

Municipal Auditorium

Last column, I came up with the fantastic idea of reserving several acres in the proposed urban renewal area for eventual construction of municipal auditorium.

Again: why not? As I said last time, Greenville gets more than its share of Eastern Carolina meetings, conventions and gatherings. So why not plan for truly superior facilities to take care of such events.

The urban renewal area, which actually is not even on the drawing boards yet, will be generally from Second St. to the river.

A good auditorium in the area would be ideally located to serve the city. In addition the parking area with it, would be available for shoppers when needed, such as on Dollar Days.

Of course, such a building wouldn't be reserved for conventions alone. Charlotte and Greensboro have proved that municipal auditoriums can have many uses.

They can be set up for basketball or for general auditorium space at the college.

Well, a way can be found to handle the cost over a period of years and the college auditoriums are not suited to the all-purpose flexibility of a municipal auditorium.

Besides, this structure could be of great benefit to the college itself through the years. And after all East Carolina College is Greenville's big asset.

Like I said last column; Let's dream awhile. Maybe this dream will never come to pass, but if it does, it could assure Greenville's status as Eastern North Carolina's leading community.

Public Forum

As a citizen of Greenville and as Director of Civil Defense of Pitt County, I wish to pay tribute to groups of men who worked all Sunday night during the hurricane. These men worked under trying conditions.

At the top of the list stand the linemen of the Greenville Utilities. These men worked in spite of driving rain, in spite of winds up to one hundred miles an hour, and in spite of the dangers which go with their jobs under these conditions.

I was in a position to know because over the short wave radio set I could hear what they were doing. This community certainly owes something to these men.

The second group was composed of Sheriff Tyson and his deputies. These deputies were stationed through the county in a pre-arranged Civil Defense plan and by means of their short wave radios kept the Civil Defense Office informed as to what was happening throughout the county. These cars were stationed at eight check points throughout the entire county as they are in every hurricane. These men were on duty all night in spite of the hazardous conditions of driving.

The third group were the policemen of the city of Greenville who never ceased their patrolling of the town throughout the whole night in spite of all the handicaps. Also, the off duty policemen came to headquarters and were ready for any call.

I would also like to express appreciation to the firemen, duty and off duty, who were ready, and the members of the rescue squad who were on a stand-by basis throughout the night.

Other Editors Saying Modern Methods Easy

(Hertford County Herald)

There are too many "little monsters" loose and operating in the United States today. Some of them are the direct result of the modern school of rearing children, which blossomed so profusely in the last few decades.

One can see on all sides the oversized mother, who has been fed a theoretical diet of pap in the magazines and by theorists, concerning child behavior. They are the ones who are deathly afraid of crushing Junior's "spirit."

Occasionally, too, a father has been sucked in on this sort of rubbish, but — perhaps because he is away at the office most of the day — he is less likely to have succumbed to this sickness.

Because women are less prone to be consistent, anyhow, they are more susceptible to this line of fallacious reasoning, and thereafter, in the usual case, it is the mother who is too lenient, too easy, and too loving — to give Junior a proper start in life.

Let it be remembered here that the child who is brought up uncurbed, so that he does not know what discipline is, and is not prepared to face life as it must be faced, is under a terrible handicap. He will either run afoul of the law and be disciplined by the courts, or he will shrink into his shell at the first exposure to the tough world, and live the rest of his life behind his mother's skirt, or beyond the protective skirt of a newly-found wife, or some other shelter.

While we do not recommend that Dad use a razor-strap, the only reason we do not do so is our realization that Dad probably does not have a razor-strap. We definitely do recommend that Dad use his belt, or switch, or some form of discipline — when things get out of hand.

Of course, with many children it is possible that strict measures to enforce discipline will seldom, if ever, be necessary. With other children discipline is a "must," and unless they have it, and unless they are started out on the road of life correctly, with a sense of balance and values and discipline, they will suffer the consequences the rest of their life.

When home building drops, dozens of other industries are affected: home furnishings, appliances, tree nurseries, you name them. And building has sagged seriously this year.

By mid-1960 only 630,000 new homes had been started compared to 766,000 last year.

But the demand is there, not only for more homes but for better-built and larger homes. One leading builder recently said that if construction continues to lag behind our exploding population, in a few years we're going to be the best-dressed, best-fed, fastest-moving nation of tent dwellers on earth.

Who's Fault Is It

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

THE TRAITORS

The President referred to William H. Martin and Bernon F. Mitchell as self-confessed traitors. These young men who have lived together for years were employed in a sensitive agency of the American government as mathematicians although their records in the military service were spotty, not as subversives but as engaging in personal practices which made them subject to blackmail.

It is to be noted that the military services do their own screening. The FBI is called in for a name check — which is limited to identifying persons as having been listed as subversives. It is difficult to understand how Martin and Mitchell could have been employed in a sensitive agency of the government. As it is, they had access to our codes and to code-breaking machinery and they have decamped. Their route of treason was from Washington to Mexico City to Cuba to Moscow. Mexico City remains the center of Soviet espionage in the Americas. In fact, there is a large settlement of American communists in Mexico, euphemistically called "The American Government in Exile." Unquestionably Martin and Mitchell were directed to this group and by them to their present anti-Russian activities in Soviet Russia.

Another defector is Vladimir Sloboda, an intelligence sergeant, who had only been a citizen of this country a few years and who defected to the Soviets, making a 24-hour hullabaloo about his treachery. Who let him in?

It is not possible that there will be no American defectors. Greed, disappointment or blackmail play a role in this game. Homosexuals are particularly dangerous for government employment because they are always subject to blackmail. The Russians are notorious for taking photographs of persons who put themselves in queer and unmentionable situations. They then threaten them with exposure to the CIA. A colony of such folk has come into being in Moscow. The Russians, who are puritanical, have no respect for such persons, but their espionage is useful.

But the old McCarthy question: Who promoted them, must be raised. Who let them in? Who saw the record and nevertheless approved of their appointment? The OSS, for instance, was a cloak and dagger institution, the predecessor of the CIA. It was headed by General "Wild Bill" Donovan, whose patriotism could not be questioned. But the OSS gave employment to a number of Communists as the records now disclose. Certainly General Donovan did not invite the Communists in. Who did?

President Eisenhower calls Martin and Mitchell self-confessed traitors. But that is not now of any importance. What is significant and requires immediate investigation is who is responsible for their employment despite the record. What screening system is used? Who does the screening? How thorough is it? Does the screening agency of one department have access to the files of every other screening agency of the government?

It is not time to face the question of homosexuals frankly and courageously? Not to enter into the psychology and pathology of this homosexual is a peril in a sensitive agency of government. He is subject not only to blackmail but to ridicule. Granted that society is cruel and abuses those whose conduct is non-conformist. Be that as it may, in a time of total war when everything becomes a weapon, the homosexual has proved himself to be an easy tool in the hands of the Russians who have no scruples against using them to their own country.

In the 1930's the serious problem was the subversives who sought employment in the government with the object of taking it over from within. They used the AAA as an experimental (Continued on page five) magazine says with refreshing and accurate candor "Not so long ago, right after World War II, this country needed houses in a hurry. Many of these homes were indifferently planned and sloppily built. . . . New housing wasn't the only product to play loose with quality during the postwar period. If it seems that way in retrospect, it's simply because the errors of the housing industry are around to plague us for a longer time than most."

A quality house, the magazine urges, "is the greatest tangible contribution most of us make to our communities. . . . Set your standards high as you shop around."

If many families heed this and Mr. Watkins' advice, and there are many indications that home-seekers are increasingly quality-minded, builders and appraisers had better listen too. In fact, Mr. Watkins has produced a handbook for home-shoppers called How To Judge A House (available for $1 from All About Houses, Inc., 25 Rite St., Pierpont, N. Y.).

FHA? Not necessarily. The FHA insures mortgages made by private lenders (but) only if a house conforms with its minimum standards. . . . The key word is minimum. . . . It will not necessarily be the strongest, best-designed house. In fact, much borderline equipment will meet FHA's standards. And in things like insulation the FHA rules are lax, if not downright inadequate.

"FHA's rules are a major step forward. . . your best available safeguard. But for a really good house you have to go beyond FHA's minimum requirements."

BETTER HOME COSTS 5-7 PER CENT MORE

Mr. Watkins warns that it is the mechanical and electrical parts of most houses that often require special attention because of their subsequent effect on household operating costs. "Only about 5 to 7 per cent more money spent on a new house spells the difference between cheap, poor-quality materials and first class, he points out. "It costs hardly any more for the labor to install a top-quality product than for the cheapest."

FACTS CONSUMERS WANT

FROM FOOD PACKAGES

Most food packages are not geared to sell because their labels fail to satisfy consumers' information wants, reports the Better Packaging Advisory Council. It made a survey of 18,000 consumers shopping in supermarkets in 32 states. The survey showed packages and retailers are using "mystery labels which are long on confusion but short on facts." Consumers were asked before entering the markets what information they wanted on a label to make them buy. There were four overwhelming demands:

1. How do I use the product?
 2. Has the product more than its obvious use?
 3. Are there recipes on the label?
 4. Does the manufacturer offer more information on request?
- The survey-makers found meat, dairy and produce packages most often lacking such information. In prepackaged fresh meats, 89 per cent of the packages failed to meet any of the consumer information requirements, although some did have a label indicating cooking method, such as "for roasting," "for potting."

Milhaus Nixon is elected, we'll have another piano player in the White House!

Apt definitions: Robert Q. Lewis defines a bachelor as a man who can eat at home any night he pleases.

The population explosion: In 1900 the world had 10 cities with a million or more population. Now there are 61 such cities.

Odd superstition: In the British Isles it was once thought a bride and groom could stave off unhappiness for a year if they shared a piece of bacon after the wedding ceremony.

agency where their leaders learned the trade of being a governmental official. Then they spread out in all directions. During World War II, the Communist and the fellow-traveler spread throughout our government, serving Soviet Russia and not the United States. The Alger Hiss case, more than anything else, broke their sway.

Now this type of idealistic Communist has disappeared. Instead we have the adventurous, professional spy and the blackmailed spy. Most of these men and women will be found not to be Communist at all. They are doing a job for what consideration is involved without idealistic overtones. In a few instances, there are those who fear war. It would help if the right to withhold passports were reestablished. It would help if screening were more capably done.

OLD-TIME WATERMELON PICKLE

Ingredients: 1½ teaspoons powdered calcium oxide, cold water, 2 pounds prepared watermelon rind, 2 cups cider vinegar, 4½ cups sugar, 1 tablespoon whole cloves, 1 tablespoon whole allspice, 4 sticks cinnamon (each about 2 inches), green food coloring.

Method: Dissolve the calcium oxide in 4 cups cold water to make lime water. Soak rind in mixture 1 hour; drain. Cover with fresh water; simmer until tender when pierced with a fork; drain. Combine sugar, vinegar, and 2 cups cold water; bring to a boil, stirring until sugar dissolves. Tie spices in a double-thickness cheesecloth bag and add. Boil until rind looks clear and syrup is fairly thick. Remove spices. Stir in enough green food coloring to make desired shade. Pack rind into clean hot jars; fill jars with boiling hot syrup, making sure it covers rind. Seal completely. Makes 6 half-pints.

Note: To prepare watermelon rind, trim off green skin and pink flesh; cut into 1-inch pieces; rind should be firm and as thick as possible. Two pounds prepared rind will measure about 2 pints. Calcium oxide is available at drugstores.

Former Judge Journeyed To China To Visit Brother

Captive Catholic Bishop, James E. Walsh, Settled In China In 1918 As Missionary

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Bishop James Edward Walsh was born in Cumberland, Md., on April 30, 1891. He is one year younger than his brother, William C. Walsh, who is a former member of the Maryland Court of Appeals and former attorney general of Maryland.

Both attended Mount St. Mary's College at Emmittsburg, Md., and both graduated with AB degrees in 1910. In 1912, James Walsh entered the seminary of the Maryknoll Fathers in New York and was ordained a Catholic priest in 1915.

He went to China in September 1918 as one of the first four Maryknoll missionaries, and since then had spent most of his life in China. He was consecrated a bishop in 1927—the first American bishop consecrated in China. In 1936, he was elected superior general of the Maryknoll Fathers at a meeting in Hong Kong and served in that capacity for the customary term of 10 years. During that period, he spent considerable time at the order's headquarters in Maryknoll, New York, and also paid frequent visits to China.

In 1940, he was assigned to work in Shanghai as secretary of the Catholic Central Bureau, and has been in Shanghai ever since. Sometime after the Communist regime took over, Bishop Walsh's work as secretary of the Catholic Central Bureau was interrupted. Apparently he was forced to leave his headquarters, and he apparently was placed under house arrest for seven or eight months in 1955 or 1956.

"We heard indirectly in December 1958 that he was no longer at the rectory of Christ the King," says his brother, "and upon inquiries being made at the Warsaw conference, which are held every month or two with regard to Americans held in prison in China, we were advised that he was under investigation."

Early last year, Walsh heard that Red Cross packages sent to the bishop through the American Red Cross were being accepted for him "but we had not heard directly from my brother since August 1958."

In March 1960 came the announcement that Bishop Walsh was convicted for espionage and sentenced to 20 years in prison.

End ADV for PMs Wed Sept. 14.

Editor's Note—A few weeks ago William C. Walsh, former attorney general of Maryland and former judge of its Court of Appeals, set out on a somber mission—to visit his brother, a Catholic bishop, in a Communist Chinese prison. This is the first of three articles Judge Walsh has written for The Associated Press on his trip.

By The Associated Press

Last March, the Peoples Republic of China announced that my brother, Bishop James Edward Walsh, had been tried and convicted of espionage as a veteran American spy and sentenced to 20 years imprisonment.

My brother, who spent most of his life in missionary work in China, is 69. I had learned that relatives of four other Americans imprisoned in China had been permitted to see them, and so I likewise applied to Chinese authorities.

In July, I received a cable from the Chinese Red Cross, stating that I would be allowed to spend 14 days in China for the purpose of visiting my brother.

My wife and I arrived in Hong Kong July 28. That afternoon, as previously instructed, I got in touch with the China Travel Service. I turned over my passport to them, and three days later I was advised that the necessary visa had been received.

I was authorized to enter China Aug. 1. At 10:30 that morning the British Red Cross representative, Miss Robin Hurst, called for me at the hotel. I drove with Miss Hurst, Mr. Joseph Carnella of the American Red Cross, and Father Michael J. McKiernan, head of the Maryknoll Fathers in Hong Kong, to the border at Shumchun. Shortly afterwards I crossed the frontier to the Chinese mainland. My passport and visa were inspected, I went through customs with my baggage, and I filled out an entry form and currency declaration. After completion of the formalities and lunch at the station, I took the train for Canton.

On the train ride to Canton, I was accompanied by a Chinese Red Cross representative, a Mr. Wong. He is the official who receives the Red Cross packages sent in every month for American prisoners in China.

At Canton, we were met by another Chinese Red Cross representative, and the two men took me to the Hotel Alchun, where I received a good room, had dinner, and went to bed after calling Mrs. Walsh in Hong Kong to inform her of my arrival in Canton.

The next morning, the hotel manager accompanied me to the airport, about 20 miles from the city. There was still uncertainty about the weather at Shanghai, and takeoff was delayed until noon. The hotel manager, a very nice chap, stayed with me until the plane left.

The plane had a capacity of 13 passengers, with five single seats on the right and five double seats on the left side. The latter were filled with freight and baggage. There were four Chinese passengers besides myself.

When we landed at Shanghai at 5:30 p.m., it was raining but the typhoon was over. No Chinese Red Cross or travel service representative had accompanied me on the flight, but at the airport I was met by Mr. Li of the Red Cross and Mr. Lo of the China International Travel Service.

Mr. Li, who could not speak English, was 30 years old. Mr. Lo was 23; he could speak broken English and acted as interpreter.

They took me in a car to the Peace Hotel (formerly the Cathay Hotel), one of the best-known in the city. It is a modern hotel, 10 or 11 stories high, located at the corner of Bund and Nanking Roads.

Here I was given a double room with twin beds and bath on the seventh floor. This room was to be my headquarters for my stay in Shanghai. The hotel dining room was on the eighth floor, and I usually walked up a flight of steps although there was elevator service.

The food was quite satisfactory; the menu printed in English and other languages as well as Chinese. I had apple pie a la mode for dessert that first evening, had no trouble getting orange juice and scrambled eggs for breakfast—and they even had French toast with syrup.

I thought the coffee was all right, and there was chicken, ham, pork and a variety of fish. Yougot potatoes, carrots and sometimes green beans with these dishes, and a Chinese vegetable whose name I didn't discover.

My room cost me 12 yuan a day, or a little over $5 in U. S. money. I don't think my meals ran more than 8 yuan per day, so the total cost was from $8 to $10 a day.

My passport had been taken up by the Chinese Travel Service representative the evening I arrived, in order to register me at the hotel and to have the passport cleared at the Foreign Office. I got it back the afternoon that I left Shanghai eight days later. On the morning of Aug. 4, Mr. Li and Mr. Lo came to my room shortly after breakfast. With them was a Mr. Shen, Chinese Red Cross interpreter. Later, I was received in another room of the hotel by Mr. Chang, chief of the Shanghai branch of the Chinese Red Cross. I was told the meeting was in the nature of a courtesy call.

During the morning, I suggested to Mr. Li and Mr. Lo that I might want to look around the streets of Shanghai, but they told me I was a stranger who might get lost, and so they didn't think I'd better.

In view of this, and because my passport had been taken up, I didn't go out without one of both of them accompanying me. After my interview with Mr. Chang, I went with them to the Bank of China to get additional Chinese currency, using the letter of credit had previously obtained from the Bank of China in Hong Kong. The expenses of the train and plane ride had left me short. I obtained the currency without trouble. The rate of exchange was 23.50 yuan for 500 Hong Kong dollars, which are worth somewhere in the neighborhood of 18 cents.

About 1:30 in the afternoon, Mr. Li and Mr. Shen called at my room and told me I could see my brother at 3:15. They came back for me about 2:45, and we took a car they had ready to the Shanghai jail.

Ronald Reagan Dislikes TV Producers' Tactics

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"Freedom of speech is one thing," said actor-producer Ronald Reagan, "but it certainly does not include permission for the producers of a television show to go out of their way to offend certain groups in the viewing audience."

Reagan, host and often star of the G. E. Theater which soon will start its seventh year on the air, was talking about frequent criticism of television for its lack of daring, its reluctance to experiment.

"There's a whole school of people in the entertainment business today which seems to exist primarily for its own amusement," Reagan continued. "And that's all right, but don't think these people have any right to expect that this eliminates their responsibility toward children and young people in the big audience, toward people who want entertainment from television and toward stockholders and boards of directors of companies that sponsor television entertainment."

Hollywood, said Reagan, became a great film capital by "matching up good stories with good, capable stars."

That, he said, is the formula his show follows in television—the story and the star formula. "We feel that it is our obligation to entertain people," he said. "If, in the course of entertaining them, we find a way to uplift them or to better them, that is a plus value. But if our show refuses to go in for sordid, unpleasant themes and unsavory subjects, it is not because of the 'cowardice' of the sponsors. It's just that we don't think that's our job."

Reagan, a veteran of many motion pictures and years of television, is not bothered at all by the fact that G. E. Theater has never been a special pet of the TV critics as were Studio One, Playhouse 90 and some other departed dramatic programs.

"In the first place," he remarked with only a slight hint of bitterness, "you can't be the darling of the critics if your show is in film. The critics, apparently, feel that the work of avant garde art groups never gets on film."

Reagan's Sunday night show is one of many which has had problems getting rolling this fall after the long writers' strike. The actor estimates that only about one script is accepted out every 100 stories submitted for production. But when his new season starts Sunday, constant viewers will find the program in its familiar format: the story hand-tailored to the star—usually of motion picture caliber. The formula worked in the old days of Hollywood's greatest glory, and it has made Reagan's program a TV perennial—one which has lasted longer than some of the more venturesome shows.

ABC will drop daytime reruns of "The Gale Storm Show" on Oct. 10 for a sort of psychiatric soap opera called "The Road to Reality." The cheery little prospectus promises that the story will outline the problems of three men and three women undergoing group therapy, exploring the problems which drove each to treatment. Come back, Ma Perkins. Where are you, Helen Trent?

NC Firm May Be One Low Bidder

CHICAGO (AP)—Continental Casualty Co. said Tuesday night it has asked for bids on $25 million worth of federal housing construction firms, which it bonded, have not completed.

Frank L. Michels Jr., of Continental's Surety Division, said, "Work stopped May 20 at eight projects and has not resumed."

He said Continental insured completion of work on eight Capehart housing projects at six Army, Marine and Air Force installations. When work stopped, he said, Continental asked for bids on the remaining work.

Michels said the following are apparent low bidders on four of the projects:

Keok, Inc., of New Orleans at Ft. Bliss, Tex.; Quattlebaum and Loving, Inc., of Jacksonville, N.C., at Camp Lejeune, N. C., and the WMCG Construction Co. of Oklahoma City, Okla., at two projects at Grand Forks Air Force Base, S. D.

The amounts of the bids were not released.

LEAVES FOR UN

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP)—President Tito left Belgrade Monday en route to New York where he will lead the Yugoslav delegation at the United Nations General Assembly, starting Sept. 20. He was accompanied by his foreign minister, Koca Popovic, party secretary Leo Mates and a number of foreign office experts.

WINSTON-SALEM (AP)—Ann Herring, who finished No. 3 in the Miss America pageant at Atlantic City, N. J., last Saturday, is back home today, happy with a rousing welcome accorded her.

When pretty Ann stepped from the plane Tuesday night, she was greeted by a crowd estimated at 2,000, including a number of newsmen, politicians and proud, sponsoring Jaycees.

Miss Herring told the crowd she was glad to be home and that "representing North Carolina is one of the highest honors any of the 54 girls in Atlantic City could have."

The second runnerup to the Miss America winner was accompanied home by her mother, Mrs. Owen F. Herring. Their trip was delayed a day by Hurricane Donna.

GOP Platform Termed 'Guide'

FRESNO, Calif. (AP)—New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller told a Fresno rally Tuesday the 1960 Republican platform was a guide to the solution of domestic problems.

It will "quickly our economic growth, realistically reorient our farm program and help remove the last vestiges of segregation or discrimination," Rockefeller said.

"It is a platform every American can support," he continued, and it charts "a new era of political creativity for American foreign policy."

Rockefeller earlier told a San Francisco airport news conference that world affairs were the 1960 campaign's biggest issue, and religion should not be one.

He said the United States needs leadership with courage, integrity and experience, and said the Republican ticket would provide such leadership.

Native Snacks Are Outselling 'Burgers'

By JACK RUTLEDGE
MEXICO CITY (AP) — Hamburgers and hot dogs are sold in Mexico's major cities but sales are only so-so. The native tortas, tacos and tostados are just too good. And much cheaper.

Mexico City's side streets are jammed with "puestos" or stands selling an amazing variety of savory items you can eat while standing on the sidewalk or on the run.

And on the sidewalks themselves are other vendors also selling edible specialties.

The average tourist shudders and visualizes instant dysentery, passes up these bargains. Look what they're missing:

TORTAS. These have been called Mexican Dagwoods and it's a good description. A zeppelin-shaped roll is packed with mashed frijoles (beans), a choice of shredded chicken, pork, beef or red sausage, avocado, fresh white cheese, lettuce, tomato, onion and any one of a variety of sauces. All for about 10 cents.

TACOS. Tortillas packed with any one of a dozen ingredients, folded and eaten in a hurry before the juice rolls down your shirt.

TOSTADOS. Generous-size dilled tortillas filled with about the same ingredients as a torta, and even cheaper.

CARNITAS. Crisply fried pieces of pork wrapped in hot tortillas.

PAMBAZOS. A special kind of hot roll filled with country fried potatoes and red sausage.

QUESADILLAS. Raw corn dough pasted into a circle, one side filled with any preferred filling and folded down the middle and quickly fried.

CHICHARRON. A wrinkly-looking thing, a sort of synthetic pork crackling, spiced with lemon, chile sauce or both. Good for a snack while standing in line to buy a movie ticket. Sidewalk vendors sell hot boiled or roasted corn which you sprinkle with rock salt or a sauce, eat on the cob; steaming hot sweet potatoes (usually from a cart with a steam whistle advertising the wares); hot chestnuts in season (they're called castanas here).

Then there is a native soup called calde de Indianilla. It's said to be tops for the morning-after. It's a rich chicken broth with garbanzas (chickpeas) and spiced with garlic, coriander, chile plquin, lemon and chopped raw onion.

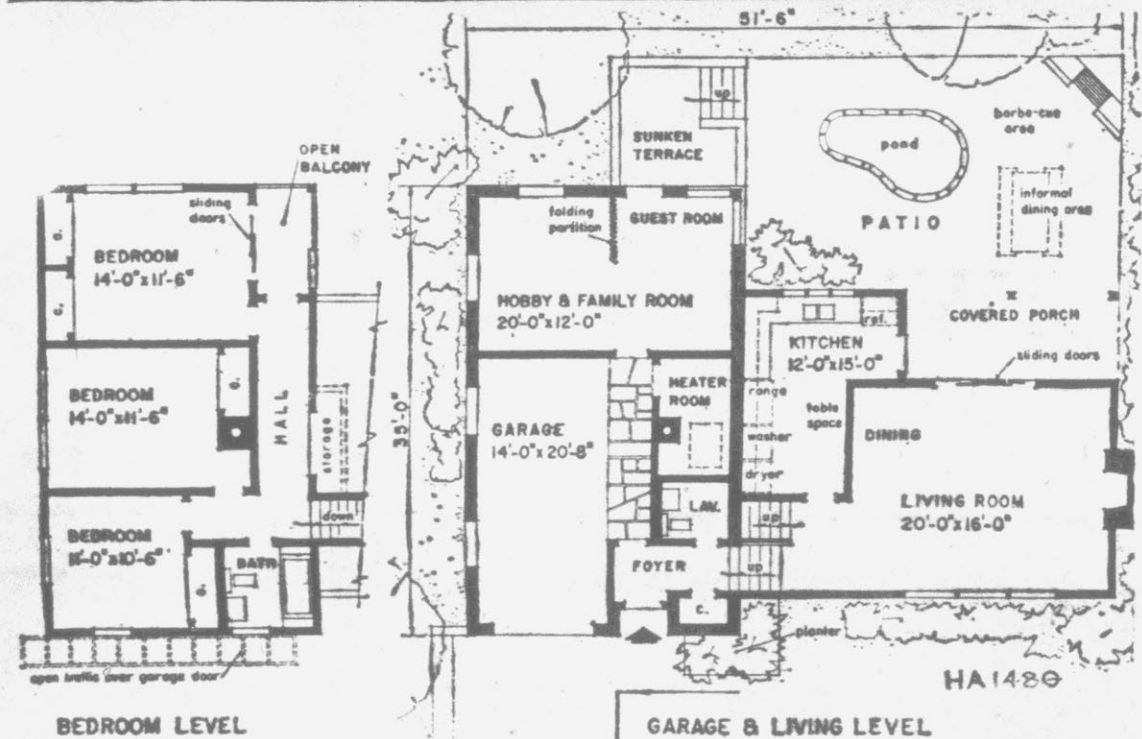

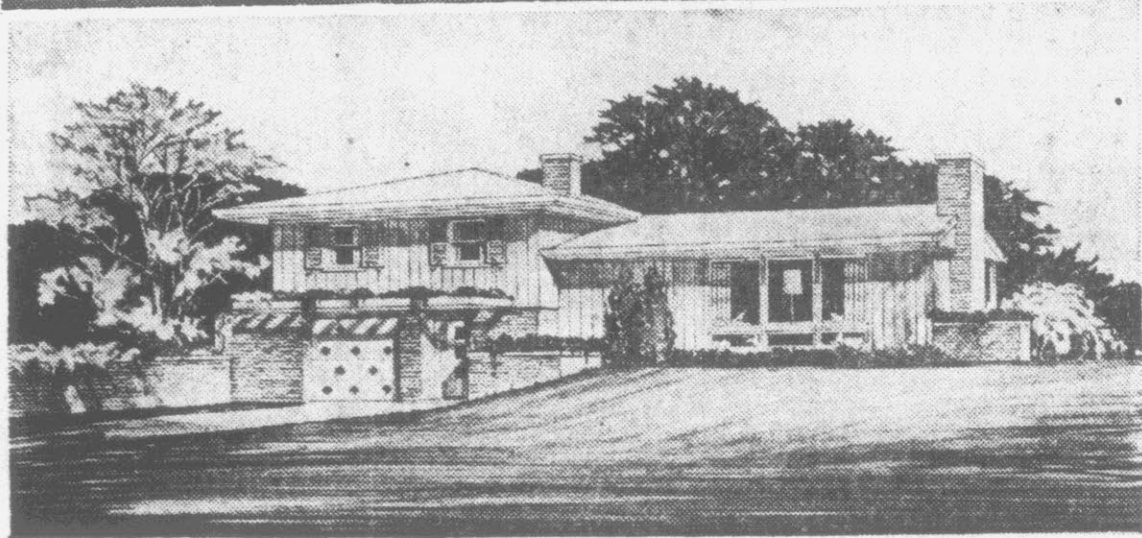

Another hangover - specialty, popular on the border, is called menudo, its major ingredient being tripe.

Is it any wonder the American hamburger and hot dog are having a hard time invading the Mexican market? Sure, the tourists buy them and then complain they don't taste like those made by old Smilin' Jack back home. But the natives, and the Americans in the know, prefer those old tortas, tacos and tostados.

HEROIC SCALE — Artist Juan O'Gorman pauses during his work on giant mural in Chapultepec Castle near Mexico City. Fresco depicts 150 years of Mexican independence.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

STYLISH SPLIT: Split level designs often have a sameness, but here's one with individuality. Built in a V-shape, the design features a combination living and dining room with sliding doors to the outside, well-arranged kitchen, family room on the lower floor, and three good sized bedrooms above a single garage. The bedroom level has an open balcony which overlooks the patio. The design, HA148G, is by Elmer Gylleck, P. O. Box 77, 358 E. Chicago St., Elgin, Ill.

Federal Judge Limits Salvors

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — A federal judge says two salvors are entitled to only 123 tons of Italian marble they recovered from a 66-year-old shipwreck.

Federal Judge Walter E. Hoffman ruled in a written opinion filed here Monday that E. H. Wiggins, 39, an Edenton, N.C., salvager, and William E. Munton, 43, a Princess Anne, Va., lumber dealer, had established rights only to the 123 tons they recovered. Lying off False Cape, Va., since it went aground in 1894, the barkentine Clythia is said to have carried 1,100 tons of statuary marble.

Hoffman, in his opinion, also said F. Mason Gamage, Princess Anne commissioner of wrecks, did not have the authority under Virginia statute to grant the exclusive right to the wreckage as claimed by two skindivers. David V. Burchard and Ronald W. Beavers contended they had exclusive rights to salvage the wreckage by Oct. 1, 1960.

Coast Guard Is Claiming Record

ELIZABETH CITY, N.C. (AP) — A Coast Guard turbo-prop plane left Shemya Island in the Aleutians and landed Tuesday at the Elizabeth City Air Station, covering 5,225 miles.

The Coast Guard claims the flight set a record for a non-stop, non-refueling trip. The distance was 513 miles farther than the previous such Air Force distance flight, Coast Guard officials said.

The plane, a Hercules SC-130B, required 14 hours and 6 minutes to cover the distance.

Piloting the Coast Guard plane was Lt. Cmdr. Lloyd L. Kent, 38-year-old Fayetteville, Ark., native. The co-pilot was Cmdr. Glenn Thompson, 39, of Newport, Calif., and operations officer of the Elizabeth City Station.

The plane had flown to Alaska last week from New York, carrying 31,000 pounds of electronics navigational equipment.

Aboard the trip to Elizabeth City besides the pilot and co-pilot, were seven other crewmen and a serviceman on emergency leave.

Dates, Times Are Announced

NEW YORK (AP) — Dates and times for the "great debate" between Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Sen. John F. Kennedy have been announced by television and radio networks.

The first debate will be in Chicago on Monday, Sept. 26, 9:30-10:30 p. m., Eastern Daylight Time on domestic policy.

On Friday, Oct. 7, 7:30-8:30 p. m. EDT, they will appear on the first of two programs of a news panel format. The program will originate in New York if both candidates can be here. Otherwise the networks will follow them and use a split screen.

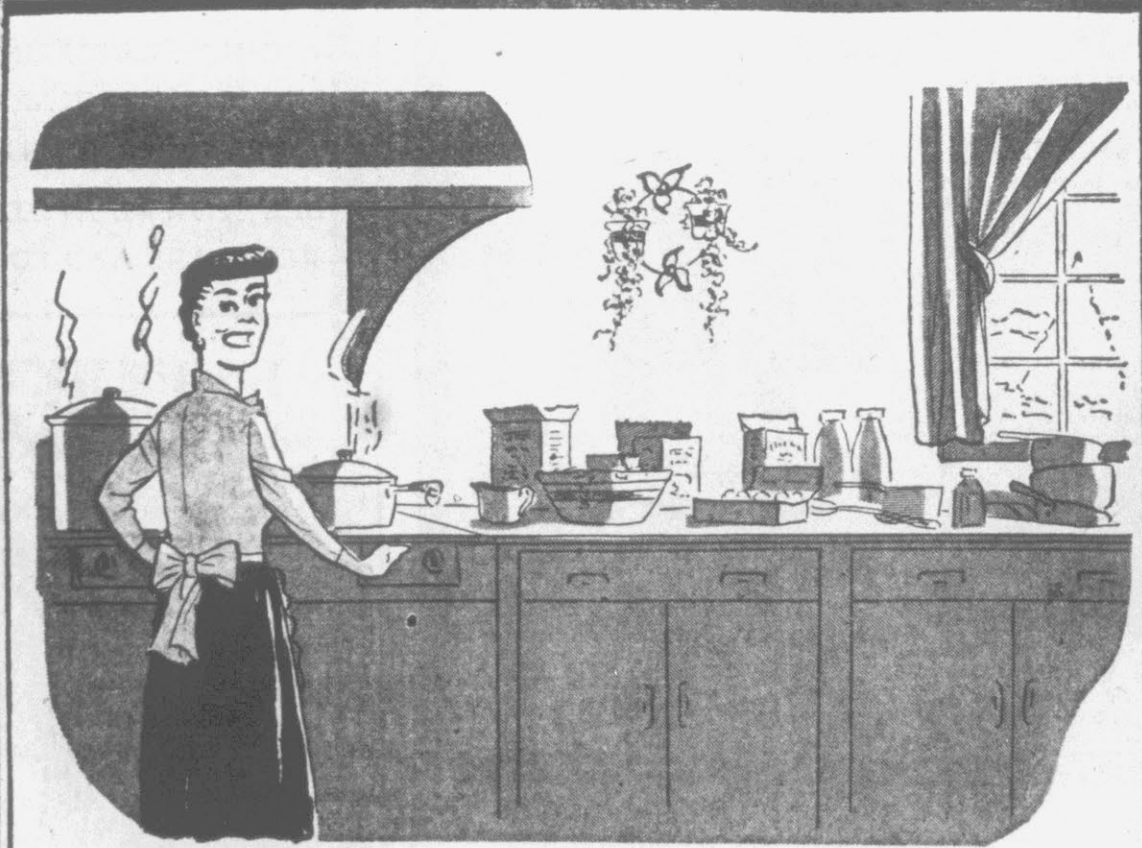

The second news panel program will be Thursday, Oct. 13, 7:30-8:30 p. m. EDT, using the split screen. Nixon will be in Los Angeles, Kennedy in New York.

On Friday, Oct. 21, 10-11 p. m. EDT, they will discuss foreign policy from New York.

Networks participating are the Columbia Broadcasting System, National Broadcasting Co., and the American Broadcasting Co.

The programs will be carried on both radio and TV.

White Sox Move Up In AL Torrid Race

Baltimore's up and down Orioles are still in a slump but thanks to Kansas City's Athletics, Coach Paul Richards' Birds are only one game behind in the American League.

Kansas City erupted with a barnstorm of hits last night in defeating the Yankees 12-3 in the first of their vital series. Meanwhile at Detroit, Jim Bunning jolted the Orioles hopes with a three-hitter and a 3-1 win.

Chicago's streaking White Sox cut the gap to two games with a 6-5 win over Washington in 11 innings. Cleveland edged Boston 5-3 in the other National League action.

In the National League, San Francisco sliced a game off pennant-bound Pittsburgh with a 6-3 setback. Los Angeles swept a double bill from Philadelphia 2-1 and 4-1, and St. Louis moved into second place with a 6-5 win over Milwaukee in 11 innings. Cincinnati defeated Chicago 6-5.

Home runs by Norm Cash and Rocky Colavito guided Detroit to victory over Baltimore. Cash hit a tape measure homer in the first inning and Colavito broke a batting slump with a two-run blast in the fourth. The home runs, the 18th for Cash, and the 29th for Colavito, came against Milt Pappas, who absorbed his 10th defeat.

Ren Hansen ruined Bunning's shutout with his 21st home run. It came with two out in the seventh inning and was only the second hit off the Tiger righthander.

Bunning struck out six, running his league-leading total to 195. He didn't walk a batter.

Mike McCormick survived a 10-hit attack in cooling the Pittsburgh pennant-fever.

Wilmer Mizell started for the Pirates and was in a 1-1 battle until the sixth inning when the Giants scored three runs. Mizell was followed to the mound by Clem Labine and Roy Face.

The three-run rally for the Giants in the sixth started when Willie Mays tripled and scored on a wild pitch by Mizell. Then after Felipe Alou doubled into the leftfield corner, Mizell intentionally walked Orlando Cepeda and gave a free pass to Willie Kirkland.

The Pirates made it close in the seventh inning on Gino Cimoli's third single of the game and Roberto Clemente's 15th homer.

M McCormick received two insurance runs in the ninth, with two out Mays singled to left and took second on a wild pitch. Faced walked Alou and issued run-scoring singles to Cepeda and Bob Schmidt.

FULLBACK PROSPECT—Nick Hilgert, former Elizabeth City prep star, is counted on to give East Carolina some power at fullback this fall. A letterman, Hilgert was a standout on defense last season.

Beaufort Top Choice In Coastal

By JOHNNY HUDSON Reflector Sports Editor

It's about as natural as walking and talking to pick Beaufort as the 1960 champion in the Coastal Conference football wars.

The Seadogs, state champs in 1959, are only in second place now but after unveiling their strength in a 79-0 massacre of Vanceboro Friday night, it is only a matter of time before they should rule the roost once again.

Football Coach?

There is a need for football coaches to assist in the Greenville Midget football league this fall, according to local recreational leaders.

Anyone interested in trying their hand in working with the tots should contact the Greenville Recreation Department at Elm Street Park.

Practice Briefs East Carolina

Hurricane damage has failed to slow East Carolina football practice and the Pirate gridgers are hoping to stir up a few tropical gusts of their own come Sept. 24 and the opening game with Gullford.

Yesterday, the Bucs had a short scrimmage session with all three units operating against defenses set up by reserves. As usual, Glenn Bass, Sonny Bassinger, Tommy Matthews and Nick Hilgert were impressive on offense.

Leading the line play were Chuck Gordon, Henry Kwiatkowski, Vernon Davis, Wayne Davis, and Henry Vansant.

Boone and his staff put stress on defense in yesterday's workout. The varsity squad was reported in "good condition" by Boone.

Scanning the North State . . . Coach Jack Boone expects to squeeze every point possible out of the 1960 football season. If the Bucs get into opposition territory and are unable to score in three plays by either the ground or air, look for an attempt at a field goal.

And the Pirate field general has the man that can provide the essential three points in Henry Kwiatkowski, a tackle. According to Boone, "Ski" is almost automatic in splitting the uprights. Last season, he converted two for the Pirates and this fall Boone plans to give him more opportunity to enter the scoring column . . .

Cats Win In Opener

Western Carolina, co-favorite with Lenoir Rhyne in the North State, opened its season with a 35-0 romp of Catawba Saturday night. The game was a non-conference affair as the two clubs meet later in the season.

ECC's Coach Odell Welborn scouted the game and was impressed with the WCC team. He also implied that Catawba is no "patsy" as many might expect. The Indians are big but slow, according to Welborn.

The Indians, piloted by Preston Mull, have shifted their offense to the single-wing, joining Lenoir Rhyne as the only schools in the state running from this formation . . . Coach Clarence Stasavich of Lenoir Rhyne is "crying the blues" again. The Bruin coach hasn't been impressed with his pre-season practice.

"We've had only one contact drill," said Stasavich, "and we were very disappointed in the performance of our first and second units. The coaching staff felt that we didn't move the ball well enough against the freshmen.

"This may have been due to the fact that we've put more emphasis on defense," he added.

The Bears open the season this weekend against Wofford . . .

EC Only Club Idle

With all North State clubs, with the exception of East Carolina, moving into action Saturday, the interest from this area will be following the outcome of the Guilford-Elon fray in Greensboro.

Coach George Tucker, ECC assistant last fall, is making his debut as a head coach in the North State and promises an interesting season from his Christians. Guilford is the opening opponent for East Carolina next week and ECC scouts will be "on the ball" in trying to spot flaws. The Quakers unseated Elon last season 27-0 in a mild surprise. . . .

Other action in the first busy week of North State schools will read something like this: Emory & Henry at Appalachian, Catawba vs. Davidson in Charlotte, Lenoir Rhyne at Wofford, and Western Carolina at Carson-Newman.

Jessup Leading In Carolina PGA Event

By KEN ALTA GREENSBORO (AP) — Out of the money last year, leading the field going into today's second round. That's the sharp turn about in the fortunes of Charles (Red) Jessup in the Carolinas PGA golf tournament.

The slender 45-year-old teaching assistant to Aubrey Apple at the host Green Valley Club shot a 35-34-69 for a one-stroke lead after the first round of the 54-hole $3,000 tournament.

Second in the field of 80 was Avery Beck, cigar-smoking Kinston veteran, who birdied the last three holes on putts of 20, 10 and 35 feet for a 37-33-70. Beck had only five pars against seven birdies and six bogies.

Then came three of the players who figured high in pre-tournament speculation. Furman Hayes of Gastonia, Thorne Wood of Asheville and Mac Main of Danville, Va., has 71s, no two alike. Wood had to birdie the ninth hole to turn in 38, one over, then settled down to an incoming 33. Main had a 37-34 round and Hayes did it in 39-32. His three birdies on the last six holes matched Billy Hoover, young Greensboro pro, for the best nine of the day. However, Hoover needed 42 on the front nine.

The best score of the round, a 67, was turned in by Brad Anderson, youthful Greensboro pro who is not yet eligible for regular PGA competition. It gave him the lead in the associate pro division by four shots over John Guyton of Wilmington.

Jessup missed the money by one stroke in last year's PGA championship at Kinston, finishing with a 78 after a 73-71 start. His mastery of the more difficult front nine was responsible for his pace-setting score. Only nine players in the field had par 37 or under for the front nine. Jessup's 35 was the best among the 65 players in the championship scramble. The front nine has only one par three hole and is 557 yards longer than the incoming nine which has three par threes and measures only 2817 yards.

Jessup, second man off the tee, had four birdies on putts of from two to 12 feet and only two bogies.

Clarence Owen of Hickory and Joe Zarhard of Spartanburg, S.C., shared the half-way lead in the 36-hole senior pro play with 73s. Each had a good shot at Jessup's lead, but both went three over par on the last two holes. Greensboro's Charlie Farlow was a stroke behind them. The winner represents the Carolinas section in the National Senior PGA event at Dunedin, Fla., in January.

Odell Massey of Durham powdered a ball 314 yards, two inches to win the driving contest and $100. Second was Mac Main at 309 yards, nine inches. Dugan Aycock of Lexington was next at 307 yards, 11 inches.

Joe Cheves of Morganton and Joe Davis of Spartanburg were disqualified because they mistook stakes on the 17th hole for out-of-bounds markers and played a second ball off the tee, abandoning the still-in play first balls.

The 20th annual tournament, richest ever, winds up with 18 holes today and again Thursday.

Clemson Tigs May Have Second Wind

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The "Keeper of Death Valley," as Frank Howard is known, tells the Atlantic Coast Conference that the Clemson Tigers have their second wind. And that could be bad news for the other seven teams.

The veteran Clemson coach announced after Tuesday's workout that he felt his club was beginning to whip into shape. Clemson goes after its third straight ACC title on Sept. 24, opening at rugged Wake Forest.

With improvement reported both Monday and Tuesday of this week, Howard also said he would cut down twice-a-day drills to once daily beginning Thursday.

"I believe we have made big strides in strengthening our defense," reported Coach Bill Hildebrand of Wake Forest. Hildebrand, whose head coaching debut will be against Clemson, added, "but there is still room for improvement." Wake Forest plans its last game-type scrimmage today before the opener 10 days hence.

When Duke's Coach Bill Murray is pleased with the progress of his football team, he gives the squad a soft drink break. That break came Tuesday and it also can be an indication that rough work is upcoming.

Coach Jim Hickey continues to search for the proper combination at North Carolina. The Tar Heel ridgers were juggled again Tuesday as the coaches tried to jell a starting eleven. Ray Farris, Skip Clement, Milam Wall and Joe Davies operated as the No. 1 backfield and Jim Shumate, a 215-pound junior, alternated with John Hegarty at left tackle.

The Tar Heels also got a day of respite from contact work, winding up the workout with a punt protection session.

At Virginia, Coach Dick Voris says halfback Tony Uehla has "come of age for college football." The mentor called the Belcamp, Md., letterman the most improved man on the squad in every way.

Meanwhile, the Cavaliers spent most of Tuesday's sessions at the Woodberry Forest, Va., training grounds polishing up the offense. Voris had Gary Cuzzo at quarterback on one of two main backfields, with Stan Fischer directing the other unit.

North Carolina State got a good look at Virginia Tech's offenses and defenses. The Wolfpack opens the season this Saturday, playing the Southern Conference team in Raleigh, N.C.

Coach Earle Edwards' N.C. State club spent 40 minutes working against Tech's defenses, then got a taste of the Tech offense as ran by the Wolfpack reserves.

The Maryland football team still have some tricks to toss at non-conference West Virginia this Saturday in Morgantown, W. Va., hints Coach Tom Nugent. The Terps' tutor told newsmen, "Our boys are running and throwing better this year and our receivers are catching the ball better . . . so we'll be trying some things we couldn't have tried before."

South Carolina's gridgers had today to themselves. After Tuesday's drill, Coach Warren Giese dismissed his squad from drills until Thursday. "The coaching staff feels the boys deserve a day's rest," said Giese.

Chosen area vice presidents in balloting here Tuesday at the group's annual meeting were: Al Goodrich, Goldsboro; John Schoonmaker, Burlington; Joe Maples, Boone; Bob Renaud, Pickens, S.C.; Mike Serino, Ft. Jackson, S.C.; and Charlie Farlow, Greensboro. Farlow is at-large vice president.

Scrimmage Called Today For 'Skins WINSTON-SALEM (AP) — A scrimmage has been called this afternoon for the Washington Redskins, who have begun pre-season drills at Wake Forest College.

The Redskins will play Green Bay in a National Football League exhibition here Saturday night. The Redskins arrived in Winston-Salem Tuesday and ran through a light workout.

Former North Carolina star Ed Sutton took a light drill Tuesday. Sutton, a back, suffered a leg injury in the Redskins 30-7 setback to the Baltimore Colts on Monday night.

UP IN THE AIR . . . is Wayne Sumrell, starting Rose High fullback, who hopes to see plenty of daylight Friday night when the Phants meet Jacksonville. It will be the first conference game for Greenville.

Richmond Preps For Saturday's Opener

Quarterback, a spot that's pleased him often in his nine previous seasons as head football coach at Richmond, has Ed Merrick worried as he prepares his Southern Conference Spiders for Saturday night's opener at Florida State.

Until last Saturday's final scrimmage, Merrick had given the job to Mel Ridsout, a 205-pound sophomore. Now Dick Curl, a 175-pound junior who never has lived up to expectations, is very much in the running.

Ridsout, although he threw one touchdown pass to end Bob Cooledge, wasn't impressive in the Saturday workout.

Quarterback is the only unsettled spot in the Richmond lineup for the battle with the Seminoles at Tallahassee, Fla. Elsewhere, the Spiders will put a team of lettermen on the field.

Only one workout was scheduled today because of a spirited drill Tuesday at William and Mary. Coach Milt Drewler said "the boys displayed good hustle out there" in getting ready for Saturday's debut at home against conference champion Virginia Military Institute.

At VMI, on the other hand, Coach John McKenna called Tuesday's key practice "somewhat disappointing."

Quarterback Warren Price threw touchdown passes to halfbacks Bob Crabtree and Terry Struck and halfback Buddy Perry ran 12 yards for another score as Virginia Tech held its final heavy scrimmage before Saturday's opener at North Carolina State.

Coach Frank Moseley called it a "disorganized practice."

George Washington lost three reserves for Saturday night's first game at Florida. Out of action with knee injuries are second-string guard Ronnie Reeves and two third-stringers, end Pete Sumner and center Walter Anderson.

An extra workout was held at West Virginia Tuesday and coach Gene Corum said he was well pleased with the way the Mountaineers snapped back after several listless showings. The Mountaineers open Saturday against Maryland.

Despite injuries, Davidson fullbacks Bob McAllister and Carl Hunt are expected to be ready to go Saturday night against Catawba. Coach Bill Dole wound up Tuesday. The Hurricanes stressed defense Tuesday.

Coach Bob King planned a final heavy workout today at Furman, which meets Presbyterian Saturday. The Hurricane stressed defense Tuesday.

Offense was emphasized at The Citadel, which opens Saturday against Newberry. Guard Aubrey Reeves and tackle Jim Reiney, who have seen limited service because of injuries, are expected to be ready.

Large Schedule For 4-A Schools

Tar Heel high school football teams playing in the 4-A group embracing 22 clubs in three conferences figure in 13 games this week. Six are conference affairs, four in the Western circuit. The Eastern and Central conference have one game each between circuit rivals.

South Mecklenburg, newest member in 4-A ranks, and West Mecklenburg start the busy week Thursday with a Western Conference game at Charlotte. All other games are on Friday night.

Other Western contests have Charlotte Harding at Asheville, North Mecklenburg at Gastonia and Garinger meeting Charlotte rival Myers Park.

Garinger is defending state champion, having defeated Greensboro for the title in last year's playoff final.

The lone Central Conference game sends Lexington to Salisbury. Wilson plays at Goldsboro in the only Eastern league game.

Otherwise, the schedule looks like this:

Rocky Mount at Burlington, Durham at Greensboro, High Point at Wilmington, Winston-Salem Reynolds vs. Winston-Salem Gray, Fayetteville at Asheboro, Kinston at Raleigh and East Mecklenburg at Kannapolis.

Rocky Mount, winner of its first Eastern title in 19 years last season, apparently is going to make a strong bid to retain the title. The Blackbirds of coach Chris Carpenter started impressively last week with a 64-13 rout of Oxford Orphanage.

Reynolds, the pre-season choice in the Central conference, waited until the last period to score, but Red Wilson's charges make their opener a rousing one, lacing Lexington 18-6.

Garinger opened its bid for another championship season with a 25-6 conquest of East Mecklenburg.

Furman Hoping For Good Team In '60 Season

GREENVILLE, S.C. (AP)—Coach Bob King of Furman University believes his 1960 Southern Conference entry will "be a sounder team than we've yet had."

This is King's third season at the helm in a major rebuilding operation for Furman's falling football fortunes.

"Our depth will be better, but we're still a young team," King says of his heavy load of sophomores and juniors.

"We won't be big enough to try running over the opposition, and we'll continue with our multiple offense and try to outsmart what we can't outrun."

Seven sophomores and 12 juniors are on the first two units, along with three of the squad's five seniors—all the seniors are co-captains.

Principal performers among the sophs are ends John Davis and Roger Senter; tackles Olin Hill and Joe Monti, who tip the trainer's scales at better than 230 pounds each; guard Bill Ogburn; and right halfbacks Bill Noonan and Jerry Thomas.

Noonan is a transfer from Maryland, and Thomas is the speed merchant who sparkled in spring drills.

"We've still got the injury shadow looming over us," King says, as do all teams. But we have been so thin in depth that it has been a real problem for us. This year, we have better insurance along those lines."

Furman has not always had the best in home schedules, but this season it offers good variety in six home games.

"We think playing this much at home will help squad morale a lot," King believes.

The success of the multiple offense hinges greatly on the quarterback. A pair of juniors, Billy Canty and James Revels, are the men on whom most of the quarterback work will descend.

Among juniors, but proven outstanding performers on deck are fullbacks George Angelica and Tom Campbell, and left halfbacks Bradley Fowler and Tony Carmignani.

Sime: Reached Peak Too Early

DURHAM, N.C. (AP)—Sprinter Dave Sime of Duke returned from the Olympic Games Tuesday night and said most of the Olympic athletes from the United States had passed their peak by the time the games started.

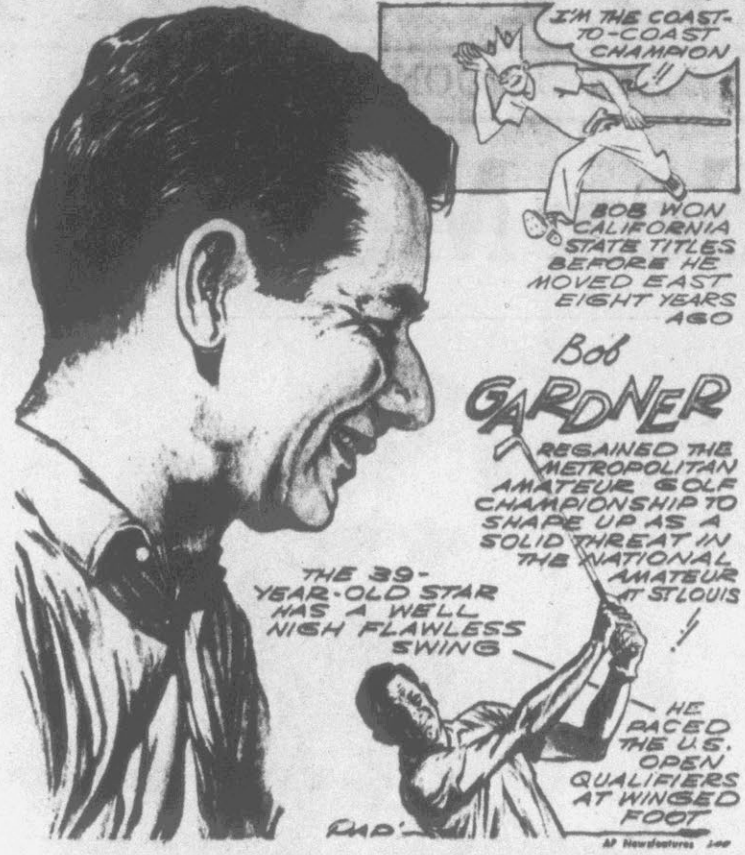

Sime finished second to Germany's Armin Hary in the 100-meter final. Both men were clocked in the same time, 10.2. Sime also anchored the 400-meter relay team which won the event, but was disqualified.

Sime said it wasn't true that the U.S. squad laid down. "We did the best we could, but what many people don't realize is that the Europeans were just hitting their peak at this time of year while most of us had passed ours."

"I hit my peak in California when I ran a :10.1 (tying the world's record) before going to Rome," said the handsome red-haired second year medical student.

"I am disappointed about losing to Hary because I feel I could have beaten him if we raced again. It was so close that when we finished, my foot crossed the finish line ahead of him. But his chest touched the tape first."

SOLID SWINGER..... by Pap'

Bob Gardner regained the Metropolitan amateur golf championship he held two years ago and continued his domination of golf in the "Met" area. Earlier this year the California-born star paced all U.S. Open qualifiers at Winged Foot and took first honors in the 72-hole Ike tournament with ease. At 39, Gardner is playing the best golf of his career and is shooting for a place on the next U.S. Walker Cup team.

Gardner moved East eight years ago after twice winning the California state amateur crown. That took a lot of doing since Gardner faced the likes of Johnny Dawson, Ken Venturi, Bob Rosburg, Smiley Quick and Gene Littler, to name a few. His swing is rated one of the finest in the game—smooth, graceful and controlled. Bob peeled off some 30 pounds earlier in the year and this could have contributed to his recent successes.

"I haven't changed much as a player since my California days," says Gardner. "The only difference I feel is that I have more confidence in myself now. Two years ago when I first won the Met title at the Knoll in Boonton, N.J., I was unemployed and rode on a bus each day from New York with my bag of clubs in my lap. I'm happy to say that things have changed since then."

Gardner hopes to enhance his chances for a Walker Cup berth in the U.S. Amateur championship in St. Louis. Twice before Bob has been close to being tapped, in 1955 and 1958. Both years he had posted fine records prior to the National. He bowed out of the 1955 National competition in the third round when he met Joe Conrad, then British Amateur champion. Bob made the fifth round in 1958, but Charlie Goe eliminated him and went on to win the title at the Olympic Club.

N.C. State Goes To Post Against Va. Tech Saturday

RALEIGH — North Carolina State, rated a dark-horse candidate for the Atlantic Coast Conference football championship, goes to the post for the first of ten 1960 starts when the Wolfpack hosts dangerous Virginia Tech, Saturday (Sept. 17) in Riddick Stadium.

The 1:30 p.m. game will be the first of the season for any of North Carolina's Big Four schools, and will mark the second year in a row that the two teams have opened the season against each other. In Norfolk last year State defeated the Gobblers, 15-13.

Virginia Tech is rated a co-favorite with VMI to take the Southern Conference title, after finishing with a 6-4 record in 1959.

Both teams will have strong All-America candidates in their lineups, with guard Mike Zeno of Tech and the Wolfpack's quarterback Roman Gabriel rating high at their positions.

The Gobblers do not figure to be as fancy on offense this year after losing Carroll Dale, an All-America end, and halfback Alger Pugh. But coach Frank Moseley plans a concentrated ground game and a solid defense, headed by Zeno, to bolster Tech, which has shown in pre-season scrimmages.

Gabriel is the key man in the winged-T and slotback offense of coach Earle Edwards. The 6-4, 218-pounder was the most accurate passer in the NCAA's listing of the top 25 passers last year. He hit on 81 of 134 passes for a percentage of 60.4.

Gabriel is called by Edwards the "best passer in college football" and the exciting play of the accurate Gabe gives prospects for a much improved season over last year when State lost its last nine games in a 10 game season.

Edwards has sought to add general overall improvement in the Wolfpack's offensive and defensive alignment, in an attempt to close the gap of some of the close losses of 1959 when the 'Pack lost five games by five points or less.

Fullbacks Roger Moore and Jim D'Antonio figure to strengthen the offensive phase, while an experienced starting line is available, headed by tackles Collice Moore and Tiny Reynolds. Moore, at fullback, is the only sophomore to break into the starting lineup.

State will be led by its All-America candidate Roman Gabriel at quarterback. Gabriel as a sophomore last year led the nation's top 25 passers in accuracy with 81 completions in 134 attempts for a 60.4 completion percentage.

The Wolfpack should have a strong, experienced line, spearheaded by tackles Collice Moore (5-11, 213) and Dick "Tiny" Reyolds (6-6, 270). In the backfield, fullbacks Roger Moore, a sophomore from Littleton, and Jim D'Antonio, a junior who was out of school last year, have added strength to the Wolfpack running attack.

State will use a winged-T and slot-back offense behind its unbalanced line.

Leopold Stars In Little Rock Win

ATLANTA (AP)—Bob Leopold, a lesser light among Little Rock left-handers for most of the Southern Association season, is Mr. Ace today as far as Manager Fred Hatfield is concerned.

The big (6-foot-3 and 225 pounds) Californian finished the regular season with two straight shutouts, and Tuesday night he stretched his string of scoreless innings to 32 before Shreveport scored its lone run in a 4-1 Little Rock victory. The Travelers are two up on Shreveport.

Birmingham assumed the safe commanding lead over Atlanta in their best-of-five series by trouncing the pennant-winning Crackers 9-5. George Thomas, whose home run whipped the Crackers in 15 innings Monday night, continued to flog Atlanta pitching. He drove in four runs with a homer and two singles.

Atlanta ace Pete Richert (19-9) will open the Atlanta home segment of the series against Birmingham left-hander Joe Grzenda first place money and a trophy. (4-3).

Bluth, Weber Win Bowling Tourney

CHICAGO (AP)—Ray Bluth and Dick Weber of St. Louis, who set a qualifying record for 48 games, Tuesday night, won the National Men's Doubles Bowling Tournament.

Bluth and Weber, winners of the title in 1956, earned $2,000 first place money and a trophy.

Baseball Star, Wife Settle Odds

GLEN COVE, N.Y. (AP)—Roy Campanella and his wife have settled their marital difficulties—for their children's sake.

Campanella, partially paralyzed from an auto accident 2½ years ago, announced last month he was seeking a separation from his wife, Ruthe, after 13 years of marriage.

In announcing the reconciliation Tuesday, Campanella, former Brooklyn Dodger catcher, said: "We both think it's best for the children. With prayer and faith I believe we can pick up the ties that once held us so closely together."

The armed forces of the United States last year included 32,078 women.

Temperatures Hit Lowest Since May

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
 Temperatures in North Carolina early today fell to their lowest readings since mid-May, the Weather Bureau reported.

Clear and sunny skies were forecast for today but temperatures were expected to continue mild—in the 70s in most localities.

Sample low recordings across the state included Asheville 45, Greensboro 46, Raleigh 48, Charlotte 52 and Wilmington 59. Exceptions included Grandfather Mountain, where the low was 39, and Cape Hatteras, where the low was near 70.

Low readings in the 50s were forecast for tonight.

WINDFALL

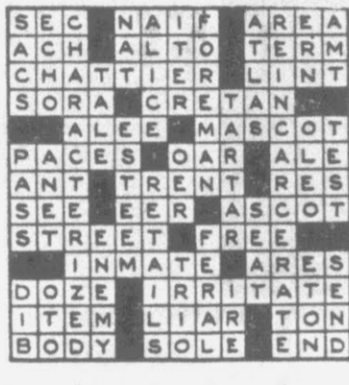

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — A rare first edition of Mark Twain's "The Innocents Abroad" has been presented to the University of Wisconsin collections by Norman Bassett, a Madison businessman.

The book, carrying a San Francisco imprint, is one of only four such volumes known to exist. The satire on European travel was considered one of the most daring books of its day.

Entry deadline is August 31.

AF Fliers Plan Air Rendezvous With Payload

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — Air Force fliers plan a sky rendezvous today with the parachuting payload of Discoverer XV.

The rocket, launched at 3:13 p.m. Tuesday, is circling the earth every 94 minutes. In its nose is an instrumented capsule airmen hope to snatch for history's second aerial recovery of an object from orbit.

Discoverer XV's capsule was caught in the air Aug. 19 as it dropped toward the target area near the Hawaiian Islands. Planes missed Discoverer XII's payload but it was fished unharmed from the sea.

Like previous Discoverer shots, No. 15 was fired from this big West Coast missile base into a polar orbit, south to north.

It went into orbit almost perfectly, circling the poles on an egg-shaped course as far out as 472 miles and as close as 130 miles.

On the 17th trip, about 8 p.m. EST today, the capsule should detach from the rocket carrier over the arctic and begin a descent toward a 60-by-200-mile target area north of Hawaii.

Hawaii-based C119 flying boxcars trailing huge trapezes will try to snag it.

Discoverer XV carried aloft "sky spy" are being tested for the upcoming Midas and Samos satellites. These are expected to be able to photograph foreign terrain and detect missile launches anywhere.

There is nothing live aboard this Discoverer. Later rockets will carry laboratory animals.

Florida Determined To Rebuild Better

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Flood waters, washed out highways, rats and mountains of debris won't stand in the way of Florida residents determined to sweep aside Hurricane Donna's rubble and rebuild "bigger and better than ever."

Typical of the feeling which prevailed was a move in Miami to adopt families left homeless by the hurricane. A 22-year-old bookkeeper discussed the idea with three of her co-workers and they decided to start a chain of good

The plan is for persons to give spare items which will help set families back up in housekeeping.

A "little WPA" which would not only help with the cleanup task but would provide work in the devastated areas was proposed Tuesday by Gov. LeRoy Collins. The governor said the project would be especially effective in 80 per cent devastation and he 80 per cent devastation and he work than accept handouts.

County's Officials Under Court Rule

MACON, Ga. (AP) — Terrell County officials accused of deliberately hindering Negro attempts to vote were under a federal court order today forbidding discrimination in any form.

Judge W. A. Bootle's injunction in the historic civil rights case forbids Terrell registrars from keeping separate Negro and white voter records, from giving Negroes tougher literacy tests than white applicants, or delaying Negro applications when white applicants are registered immediately.

The lengthy, detailed order also gave the three registrars 10 days to put four complaining Negroes on the qualified voters' list. The judge did not appoint a federal referee to supervise elections as asked by the U. S. attorney general.

In some areas rats, flooded out of their usual field haunts, moved into residential subdivisions. A South Miami boy was bitten and may undergo the series of painful rabies shots. Men in some communities formed shooting parties to kill the large rodents.

Effect of Hurricane Donna on wildlife in the Florida Everglades probably won't be known for some time. The hurricane's full force swept through the two-million-acre area on Florida's southern tip.

Some 250 storm refugees are at Islamorada, a once-busy sports fishing center 75 miles south of Miami. A mess hall was set up in a Methodist church. Food and water are being airlifted by Navy helicopters. Doctors have been busy giving typhoid inoculations.

State road department employees are working alongside Army, Navy and Marine Corps personnel building temporary bridges to reopen the 120-mile Overseas Highway. National Guardsmen are protecting what valuables remain from looting.

Shooting Incident Claimed Accident

GAFFNEY, S.C. (AP) — Bobby Gene Hedden, 27-year-old Chesnee white man, is quoted by police as saying the shooting of a Negro motorist was accidental.

Officers said Hedden told them it was the Negro, not he, who had the gun. Hedden said the pistol discharged as he tried to disarm the Negro. He said he didn't know the Negro had been wounded.

Robert Lee Shirley, a Negro hospital attendant of Long Beach, Calif., told police he was shot without provocation when he stopped his car near Gaffney Sept. 2 and asked a group of white men for highway directions.

Shirley has been dismissed from a hospital where he was treated for a gunshot wound in the stomach.

Hedden walked into the Cherokee County sheriff's office Tuesday and surrendered in the shooting. He was charged with assault and battery with intent to kill and released under $1,000.

WELCOME SIGHT LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — Sen. John F. Kennedy, his presidential hopes under attack by some Protestants because he is a Roman Catholic, found Protestant support when he landed here Monday. Signs held by members of the crowd read "Baptists for Kennedy," "Methodists for Kennedy" and "Lutherans for Kennedy."

KENNEDY BEFORE PROTESTANT MINISTERS—Sen. John Kennedy, Democratic presidential nominee, listens to a question from the floor asked by one of about 400 Protestant ministers during a campaign stop at Houston, Tex. He won a rousing final round of applause after the 30-minute session. He said he firmly believes in a complete separation of church and state and added that he would resign the presidency before letting his Catholic faith influence his policies. (AP Wirephoto)

Two More Tiros Weather Satellites Planned By NASA

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two more Tiros weather satellites will be sent aloft to take television pictures of the earth and its cloud cover.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration says that Tiros II will be sent into orbit before the end of the year, and Tiros III will be launched next year.

Dr. Morris Pepper, NASA chief of meteorological satellites, told an Institute of the Aeronautical Sciences dinner meeting Tuesday night that attempts will be made to analyze data from Tiros II so swiftly that the information may be used immediately for actual weather observational purposes.

This would help especially in tracking such major storms as Hurricane Donna.

Tiros II launched April 1, took cloud pictures before its equipment failed at the end of June, but its pictures were of no operational use to weathermen.

Stock And Market Reports

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)— Hog prices steady. Tops 16.75 to 17.75 at Kinston, New Bern, Benson, Mount Olive and, at Winton Grove; 1.25 to 1.75 at Wilson; 17.25 to 17.50 at Rocky Mount; 17.25 at Clinton, Fayetteville and Elizabethtown; 17.00 at Goldsboro and Albemarle; 16.75 at Tarboro, Enfield, Scotland Neck, Lillington, Castle Hayne and Rich Square; 16.55 at Siler City.

Wilson cash cattle prices steady; steers and heifers, choice 24.00 to 26.00, good 21.50 to 23.50, standards 17.50 to 20.50; cows, beef type 14.50 to 16.00, heavy cutters 13.50 to 15.00; bulls, light weights 13.00 to 16.00, heavy weights 17.00 to 19.00.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)— North Carolina poultry markets: fryers and broilers, arm price 15.

NEW YORK (AP)— The stock market felt its way along a narrow path early this afternoon. Prices were mixed and trading slow.

Changes of most key stocks were fractional. Here and there a stock moved as much as a point either way.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was unchanged at 217.00 with the industrials up 10, the rails unchanged and the utilities off 10.

The list was still hovering above a support level which has held three times this year and opinion differed as to whether it would rebound as it has before or pierce the support and find a lower level.

Some aircrafts made further gains. The drift was a bit lower for autos, steels and oils. A somewhat higher tendency was apparent among tobaccos, rubbers and non-ferrous metals.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off 2.25 at 609.54. Corporate and U.S. government bonds declined.

The following bid and asked prices are obtained from the National Association of Securities Dealers, Inc. and other sources but are unofficial. They do not represent actual transactions; they are intended as a guide to the approximate range within which these securities could have been sold (indicated by the "Bid") or bought (indicated by the "Ask") at the time of compilation, Sept. 13, 1960. Origin of any quotation will be furnished upon request.

Courtesy Drive Underway Today

The courtesy campaign, being conducted by Greenville merchants in connection with "You'll Get More in Greenville", received its start this morning when an estimated 250-300 store clerks and managers saw a movie "By Jupiter", a motion picture exemplifying courtesy in everyday life.

The picture, shown at the Pitt Theater, was loaned to the Greenville Merchants Association by N. C. State College.

Larry Averette, Chairman of the Courtesy Committee of "You'll Get More in Greenville", presided and introduced Neil Howell co-ordinator of Distributive Education at J. H. Rose High School. Howell explained that a campaign to select the most courteous student at Rose and C.M. Eppees High Schools would be conducted. He also announced that the schools would conduct a Courtesy Poster Campaign.

Averette announced during the period of September 19 through September 30, there will be a campaign to select the most courteous salesperson or cashier in Greenville.

A prize of $35 will be awarded the winner of the campaign, he said, who will be selected by a panel of "Mystery Shoppers". Label buttons will be furnished for the salesperson to wear, showing their names, Averette noted.

Presentation To Highlight Meeting

Presentation of a portrait of Miss Frances Wahl will highlight the opening of the Wahl-Coates Parent-Teacher Association meeting Thursday evening.

The presentation will be made by Junius H. Rose, superintendent of Greenville City Schools, at 8 p.m. in McGinnis Auditorium of the Wahl-Coates School.

The annual reception for parents and faculty will also be held. All parents have been invited to attend. The oil portrait of Miss Wahl will be hung in the school's library permanently.

Officers of the Wahl-Coates P.T.A. are Mrs. Clay Burnette, president; Mrs. Paul Hickfang, vice president; Mrs. Jack Warren, secretary; and R. S. Moye, treasurer.

FUNERAL THURSDAY

ALBEMARLE—Mr. G. E. Gist, 81, of Badin, father of Mrs. C. D. Ward of Greenville, died Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Cape Fear Valley Hospital in Fayetteville.

Funeral services will be conducted Thursday afternoon at the Wrenn Lefler Funeral Home in Albemarle. Burial will be in the Albemarle Cemetery.

University Appeals Most For Pay Hikes

RALEIGH (AP)— The Consolidated University of North Carolina today requested $2,478,444 for salary increases during the next biennium at its three units.

William C. Friday, consolidated university president, told the Advisory Budget Commission the money for increased salaries is "our greatest need."

Stress must be made in each biennium, Friday declared, to meet the problem of getting and keeping qualified faculty members.

"Competition among institutions for faculty members has continued to increase," he said.

The money for salary raises is the biggest item in "B" budget requests totaling $5,272,416 for academic affairs at the University at Chapel Hill, North Carolina State at Raleigh and Woman's College in Greensboro. B budget covers new or expanded programs for the 1961-63 biennium.

W. D. Carmichael, vice president of the consolidated university, outlined capital improvement needs totaling $35,374,300 during the next biennium at the university at Chapel Hill and the Agricultural Experiment Station at Raleigh.

Friday listed the B budget requests salary increases of $408,000 during the next biennium at Woman's College, $1,035,500 at UNC at Chapel Hill and $934,944 at State College.

Broken down, the total B budget requests for academic affairs at the three schools were: UNC at Chapel Hill, $2,211,256; State College, $2,381,610; Woman's College, $679,550.

The capital improvement requests were presented to the budget commission during its recent visits to the institutions.

The State Board of Higher Education requested $29,608 during the next biennium in its B budget. This includes a $2,000 salary increase per year for Director J. Harris Purks and $10,000 per year for a new staff member.

It was the first of three straight days of hearings on budget plans by Tar Heel educational agencies. The State Board of Education is to state its case Friday.

In the morning the Board of Higher Education and the Consolidated University of North Carolina made their requests for money for new or expanded services during the next two fiscal years.

North Carolina Memorial Hospital at Chapel Hill, WUNC-TV and the Agricultural Extension Service, all affiliated with the consolidated university, were to appear during the afternoon.

The Budget Commission was told Tuesday the Agriculture Department would try for legislative approval of a law calling for compulsory meat and poultry inspection in North Carolina.

To finance the plan if enacted, Agriculture Commissioner L. Y. Ballentine told the budget agency.

Grifton Board Seeks Approval

GRIFTON—The Grifton Town Board decided last night to get the vote of the people on a proposal for changing downtown parking from diagonal to parallel.

Residents may indicate their feelings by signing one of three sheets of paper in the Town Office beginning the first of next month when they pay water bills.

One paper will denote parallel parking on both sides of the street downtown; a second will denote parallel parking on one side of the street; and the third will denote no parallel parking.

Town Clerk Joyce McCoy said the board members want to know "what the people think" about the matter. Anyone who resides within the city limits may indicate his feelings by voting.

The board decided to confer with the L.E. Wooten and Co., consulting engineers of Raleigh, before taking action on curbing and gutting of Pitt Street here. Edward Owens, street commissioner, presented the report on the curbing and gutting.

W.M. January, water commissioner, reported that a water pressure gauge had been bought for the town. In other business, the Zoning Commission here last week by J. Leigh Wilson, assistant executive director of the N. C. League of Municipalities.

At present the town is not zoned, Town Manager Cleveland Paylor said.

Wilson explained the zoning map fully and detailed how the ordinance should be administered. The commission will now study and review the proposal, preparatory to setting up a public hearing in the near future. Following the public hearing, the matter will be turned over to the Town Board, and they will conduct another hearing. All suggestions and complaints from residents will be taken into consideration, Paylor said.

Following the second hearing, the ordinance will be adopted and will become law.

The zoning commission was created by the Town Board of Commissioners at their April session. The proposed zoning ordinance provides for residential, business and industrial zones.

Averages Climb On Area Markets

Better averages were posted for Greenville, Farmville and Robertsonville tobacco markets yesterday despite storm damaged tobacco.

Greenville's average yesterday was $59.53 per hundredweight, according to the Federal - State Market News Service in Wilson. The market sold 1,278,254 pounds for $76,921.

Farmville yesterday reported an average of $60.63 in selling 551,694 for $33,465. Farmville's highest average of the season came yesterday.

Robertsonville's average yesterday was $61.69 as the market sold 193,278 pounds for $119,235.

Quite a bit of storm damaged tobacco was reported showing up on warehouse floors of this area. However, 73 cent tobacco was reported a little more common than in prior weeks.

Grifton Power, Water Interrupted

GRIFTON—With the town's power off following Hurricane Donna, Grifton residents were without water supply from 11:30 a.m. Monday until 8:30 p.m. Monday night.

Since the power had been off earlier, the reserve water supply was used during the night and early morning Monday. Grifton's water is supplied by means of an electric pump.

Through crews and linemen worked to restore power, parts of town were still without electric power Tuesday afternoon. Lines in rural areas around Ayden and Grifton were gradually being repaired.

Residents reportedly flocked to drug stores, which had supplies of ice, and relied on soft drinks until the water came back on.

Xmas Committee Meet Set Tonight

The Christmas Program Committee of the Greenville Merchants Association will meet tonight at 7:30 at the City Hall, according to Committee Chairman W. C. Taylor Jr.

Taylor said the meeting is being held to formulate plans for the Christmas decorations and the Christmas parade this year.

Carroll Carpenter of Hickory will meet with the committee, according to Taylor, and submit samples of decorating material for the committee's approval.

All members of the committee are urged to be present.

Johnson Touring In New Mexico

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP)— Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson campaigned here today to help his colleagues put New Mexico's four electoral votes on the side of Sen. John F. Kennedy for president.

Johnson, the Democratic candidate for vice president, found on his arrival that this was "Lyndon Johnson Day" by proclamation of the City Commission.

Johnson and his wife, Lady Bird, and their party came to Albuquerque after a fast six-hour automobile tour through five communities of Eddy and Chaves counties, in New Mexico's "Little Texas" region.

New Mexico, where Democrats outnumber Republicans in registrations about 2 1/2-1, voted for Eisenhower in 1952 and 1956.

Johnson goes next to Phoenix, Ariz.

Art Gallery Exhibit Opens Sun.

An exhibit of oil paintings, featuring W. Frith Winslow, well known artist in eastern North Carolina, will highlight the fall opening of the Greenville Art Center.

The gallery will open to visitors this Sunday, with the next exhibit on view from 2:30 until 5 p.m. Approximately 25 original oil paintings by Winslow's students in Plymouth, Williamston, Windsor and Jamesville will be included in the exhibit, which will occupy the entire gallery on Evans Street.

The painting of most interest to the public will be "Durant's Deed" by Winslow, a painting commissioned by the Parent-Teacher Association of his native Winfall. The painting depicts the signing of the earliest recorded deed in North Carolina.

This will be the first public showing of "Durant's Deed," which is permanently hung in the hall of Perquimans Central Grammar School in Winfall. The deed, recorded in 1662, conveyed a large part of what is now Perquimans County by a chieftain of the Yocum tribe of Indians to George

Winslow has exhibited throughout North Carolina, and in Norfolk, Va., Miami, Fla., and a gallery on Long Island. He has sold his paintings and portraits from Florida to Nova Scotia and west to Michigan. He is well known, especially, as a portrait painter. Many of his paintings are commissioned, and some of these will be included in the exhibit.

The artist is a past first prize winner for landscape at an Annual Federated Woman's Club exhibition in Charlotte. He has been invited for at least 12 years to participate in the Fine Arts Festival here in Greenville and has exhibited at the Sheppard Memorial Library.

In fact, two of his paintings, "Pigeon Cove," and "Bowden Place" are among the permanent collection at the local art center. They were gifts of the artist.

Candy Manufacturer

Aside from his painting career, Winslow had an interesting side note. At the age of 14 he manufactured candy and was the only person that the old tent show, "Chautauqua" ever allowed to sell at their performances. He continued his candy manufacturing while a student at the University of North Carolina.

It was not until after his marriage to Ruth Ayers of Plymouth that he seriously took up painting. While in the 5 and 10 cent store business in Plymouth, he painted and used space above his display shelves to hang his paintings, many of which he sold.

At the present time, Winslow teaches three classes a week in Plymouth, three in Williamston, and one each in Windsor and Jamesville. He has a total of 62 students, and teaches summer outdoor classes twice a week, in addition to painting commissioned artwork.

This exhibit will continue for four weeks at regular gallery hours from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday. The gallery will be closed on Sundays and Mondays, with the exception of the opening this Sunday.

The public has been invited to attend the opening. Many of the students will be present at the opening.

DURANT'S DEED . . . is an oil painting depicting the earliest recorded deed in North Carolina, by artist W. Frith Winslow, whose works will highlight the fall opening of the Greenville Art Center on Sunday. The public is invited to attend.

Zoning Measure Presented Town

AYDEN—A suggested zoning map and ordinance for the town of Ayden was presented to the Zoning Commission here last week by J. Leigh Wilson, assistant executive director of the N. C. League of Municipalities.

At present the town is not zoned, Town Manager Cleveland Paylor said.

Wilson explained the zoning map fully and detailed how the ordinance should be administered. The commission will now study and review the proposal, preparatory to setting up a public hearing in the near future. Following the public hearing, the matter will be turned over to the Town Board, and they will conduct another hearing. All suggestions and complaints from residents will be taken into consideration, Paylor said.

Following the second hearing, the ordinance will be adopted and will become law.

The zoning commission was created by the Town Board of Commissioners at their April session. The proposed zoning ordinance provides for residential, business and industrial zones.

Grimesland Plans For Firehouse

GRIMESLAND—The Town Board of Aldermen last night appointed a committee of three to prepare building plans to house the new fire truck.

The committee included Alderman Graham Hudson, L. E. Tetlow, assistant fire chief, and Mayor Leslie Elks.

The week of Sept. 19 has been declared "Clean Up" week by Mayor Elks, and residents have been instructed to clean all vacant lots.

The board, meeting in its regular monthly session, paid all outstanding bills; Town Clerk Mrs. Leila Bell Hoell said.

Ayden Bicyclists Given Bike Rack

AYDEN—Ayden school students have been provided with a new bicycle parking area, complete with a bicycle rack, behind the Post Office here, Town Manager Cleveland Paylor said yesterday.

In the past, the students had left their bikes on sidewalks and in the streets, causing congestion and hampering safety while at lunch, since they had no parking area specified. The town officials of Ayden secured a place behind the Post Office as the bike parking area.

Students are not permitted to park on the sidewalks anymore, Paylor said.
