Eisenhower Challenges Nikita To Work Through UN

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — President Eisenhower today fang a formidable challenge at Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev: To work primarily through the United Nations in attacking the world's most dangerous problems and thus build a structure of a true world community.

firm and confident voice, pronounced U.S. intentions. He challenged Khrushchev, who listened intently with earphones: To work for peaceful change in a swiftly changing world, with the U.N. in the guiding role; To guarantee that outer space will not be used for mass destruction; To avoid claiming sovereignty over celestial bodies. The U.S.S.R. has already planted a Soviet flag by rock on the moon; To resume immediately the efforts to reach agreements on arms control; To launch a food-for-peace program throughout the world, and To give substantial help to the emerging new nations of Africa, under the U.N. and to other developing nations. Eisenhower was the first chief of a major power to address the 15th assembly session. Khrushchev delivers his major address Friday, almost a year to the day after he broached his blockbuster total world disarmament proposal to the assembly during his visit to the United States. The President laid down a broad program through which the nations of the globe might work through their world organization in joint endeavors to create a better future for our world. Khrushchev delivers his major address Friday, almost a year to the day after he broached his blockbuster total world disarmament proposal to the assembly during his visit to the United States. The President laid down a broad program through which the nations of the globe might work through their world organization in joint endeavors to create a better future for our world. We must guard jealously against those who, in alternating moods, look upon the United Naas an instrument for use or abuse," the President said. The United Nations was not conceived as an Olympic organ to amplify the propaganda tunes of individual nations. As the President spoke, Khrushchev occasionally made comments to Gromyko. Khrushchev himself is said to have some sort of dramatic new proposal to make. The hall was jammed with diplomats and correspondents from all over the world. There was no space for the public, which is barred from U.N. grounds for security reasons. Among the assembly listeners were a dozen heads of government.

In effect, the assembly had become a sort of forum at the summit—though not quite the summit conference of all U.N. nations which Khrushchev had sought. There are no plans for Eisenhower and Khrushchev to meet, although the Soviet leader may confer eventually with Britain's Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, who is expected next week. The President left by a door behind the podium immediately upon completion of his address, and Tito came to the stage to make his major speech. He had just had his first meeting of this session with Khrushchev, who professed to look upon him as a heretic Communist.

Indirectly assailing the Soviet Union for actions in the Congo, the President proposed that all 96 member nations in the U. N. agree to respect the freedom of new African countries and refrain from sending arms or forces there. He upheld Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold against Soviet criticism and called for expanded help to Africa under U.N. auspices. He pledged U.S. aid toward that end. But his words on disarmament and the policing of outer space attracted most attention because Khrushchev has come to this U.N. assembly with the avowed aim of discussing disarmament with other heads of state.

The United States, Eisenhower said, is ready to submit to any effective and truly reciprocal inspection system. He criticized the Russians' walkout from Geneva disarmament negotiations June 27, just as the United States was submitting new proposals, and said: "Time and time again, the American people have voiced their yearning—to join with men of good will everywhere in building a better world. We always stand ready to consider any feasible proposal to this end. We ask only this—that such a program of give a military advantage to any nation and that it permit men to inspect the disarmament of other nations."

Hodges Doubts Gavin Can Be Excused For Charges

RALEIGH (AP)— Gov. Hodges today replied to charges of corruption and waste in state government hurled by Republicans in recent days. Hodges was asked at his news conference for comment on a statement by Robert L. Gavin, Republican candidate for governor, that state government is government by grafters, grafters and bosses. Hodges said he thought North Carolina would excuse Mr. Gavin for the ignorance of state government such as he showed when Gavin called for an immediate 50 per cent pay boost for teachers and later backed down when he learned how much it would cost. I don't think North Carolinians will ever forgive him for being un-North Carolinian in making rash statements and casting aspersions and inuendo and making charges which he probably can never substantiate," the governor declared. Hodges was asked also for comment on a charge made earlier today by State Republican Chairman William E. Cobb that there is a tremendous amount of waste in state government. Hodges challenged Cobb to be specific—to name names and examples of waste. The governor was asked for comment on Cobb's announcement that Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson is coming to the state for a campaign speech during the state Fair. I'm glad Mr. Benson is coming to North Carolina," said Hodges, because North Carolina will give him a respectful audience and then proceed to vote against his party and his program in November. In discussing charges hurled by Gavin, Hodges said he was reminded in what he (Gavin) is doing... that Mr. Nixon, presidential candidate for his own party, got his start that way. Later, in answering another question, Hodges lambasted the Eisenhower administration. He said the U.S. government had waited for the Soviets to move... We have been on the defensive all those years—waiting for them to act before we react. When Republican gubernatorial candidate Robert Gavin attacked the state Democratic regime in blistering language this week, he helped several Democratic campaigners with their speech-writing chores. Gavin's criticism was the main subject at Democratic rallies Wednesday night in Goldsboro and Raleigh. The speakers included H. Clayd Philpott, nominee for lieutenant governor; State Treasurer Edwin Gill and former State Treasurer Charles Johnson.

Sen. Kennedy Gives 6-Point Farm Plan 'Designed For Good Incomes'

SIOUX FALLS, S.D. (AP)—Sen. John F. Kennedy today outlined a 6-point farm program of "work and sacrifice and discipline" — a program he said is aimed at "bringing good incomes and a decent standard of living to all our farmers." In the first major agricultural speech of his presidential campaign, the Democratic nominee pledged as the keynote of his plan the securing of full parity of income for farmers. He defined that as income which gives average producers a return on their invested capital, labor and management equal to that which similar—or comparable—resources earned in no-farm employment.

Kennedy's long awaited program dealing with one of the major issues of the campaign was set forth in a speech prepared for the National Plowing Contest. His Republican rival, Vice President Richard M. Nixon is scheduled to discuss his farm program here Friday. With the Democrats seeking to increase their election gains of recent years in the farm heartland of the nation, Kennedy set forth this program: 1. Full parity of income for farmers in line with Kennedy's definition of the concept. He called it a concept which strikes to the heart of the farmers' problem — one which "does not concern itself directly or solely with prices —but with his net income, his return, the only figure which is meaningful in determining his standard of living—particularly in this year of cross-price squeeze." 2. Achievement of parity of income primarily through supply management of crops—what Kennedy described as "adjustment of supply to demand at parity income prices." He said government purchases and loans would be necessary on some commodities at certain times to supplement this program of supply management. 3. Use of the farmers' excessive productive capacity to feed the hungry and under-nourished here and abroad.

4. Use of "a sound system of soil conservation which does not destroy entire farms and which is administered at the local levels by local farmers." 5. Modernization of the government's specialized farm agencies "to meet the farm revolution—by revitalizing our agricultural credit agencies so that farmers can get the credit they need and at interest rates they can afford to modernize and expand." 6. Initiation of a special program for low production farmers — "A farmer who must work with inadequate resources, who lives in rural poverty, with a gross income of less than $2,500 and who forms part of an entirely different farm problem."

Tightest Security Work In UN History Undertaken

NEW YORK (AP) — Little chunks of New York were virtually sealed off today in the tightest security operation in the history of the United Nations. Already-strict precautions were drawn even tighter and extended out to Idlewild Airport for the arrival of still another chief of state — President Eisenhower. An estimated 9,000 security men all told, were on the job guarding the visiting dignitaries and keeping any demonstrations from getting out of hand. The estimate is a rough one because no one seems to know for sure just how many security agents are at work. The Communists put some security men on their delegations to the U.N. and haven't told American bodyguards who they are. At the U.N. building, now tightly sealed to all except those with proper credentials, the U.N. security force has been boosted from its normal complement of 200 to 300 men. The New York City Police Department has assigned 8,000 men — one third of its total strength — to guard the U.N. building area and the high ranking visitors. The city police, who are carrying the heaviest load, also must keep demonstrators under control. The U.S. government has several hundred men on the job. A precise total has not been disclosed.

The communists don't deny some of their men may be along just to protect the boss, but they aren't saying who. One guess is that the Soviets brought perhaps 30 bodyguards. The Communists don't deny some of their men may be along just to protect the boss, but they aren't saying who. One guess is that the Soviets brought perhaps 30 bodyguards for Premier Nikita Khrushchev. The only announced Khrushchev bodyguard is his security chief, Gen. Nicolai Zhakarov. Others' assignments are obvious from their actions.

Applicants Are Reviewed By Commissioners

By HENRY HOWARD Reflector Staff Writer The Pitt County Development Commission, still seeking a new executive director, last night reviewed briefly some applications and discussed the possibility of obtaining a technical training school for Pitt County. Chairman L.P. Bloxam submitted nearly 25 applications for the post officially vacated by L. A. Weston Sept. 15. The applications were turned over to Frank Allen of Farmville, chairman of the personnel committee, for further examination. All letters of applications, Bloxam reported, have been acknowledged by letter from the local Development Commission office. No names were disclosed. The only official action of the session authorized Bloxam to renew a Development Commission advertisement that appeared last year in the international Plant Site Journal, an annual publication that reaches industries throughout the nation. Cost of the ad remained at $100. Bloxam told the commissioners the group of applicants include two North Carolinians; but pointed out many of them were from industrial engineers who "apparently are interested in industrial engineering from a plant standpoint." Many of the applicants answered a commission ad in the Wall Street Journal. Though no formal vote was taken, the commissioners were in accord with repeating the wall Street Journal ad with revised terminology. The former ad, printed in five consecutive editions of the New York paper, was entitled, "Industrial Engineer." The commissioners felt the new ad should emphasize "Director of a development commission." Discussion favored the characteristics of "good salesmanship, efficient administration, and good personality" above an excessive degree of technical knowledge as requirements to be made of the commission's new director. Technical School Discussion on the possible location of a state-supported technical school in Pitt County lasted for nearly an hour. Commissioner R.L. Humber, Pitt County senator, told the group "a prohibitive legal measure" would currently prevent Pitt from housing such a school through a county-wide bond issue. He pointed out, "Under the Cleveland County Act of some 25 years ago, a county cannot finance a county-wide school building with a county-wide bond issue." He said the school district in which the structure would be located "must legally bear the financial burden." Sen. Humber said the law must be changed before such a county-wide effort could be undertaken. The state legislature, in its 1959 session, appropriated funds to equip and furnish teachers for such schools, but the funds, Humber said, have already been appropriated for specific schools in other areas. Under the state's arrangement the county involved in the program erects the building and state funds equip, and staff the

Charge 'Reign Of Terror' At Steel Union Convention

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—An FBI investigation is reported under way today into convention session violence between factions vying for control of the million-member United Steelworkers Union. One faction complained to the Labor Department in Washington that a reign of terror" at the convention made even elementary Democratic processes impossible. It said it received a reply Wednesday night the matter had been referred to the Justice Department for an FBI probe. This faction, headed by Donald C. Rarick, McKeesport, Pa., contender for the top union post held by President David J. McDonald, blamed two convention beating incidents on McDonald's goons. But McDonald, calling Rarick an absolute confounded liar" said he was deliberately playing two-bit politics" to provoke trouble and attract attention. Rarick claimed his organiza-

Skeleton Found In Ejection Seat

ISLIP, N.Y. (AP)—An airplane ejection seat, containing a strapped-in skeleton clad in a Marine Corps uniform, has been found floating in the Atlantic Ocean off the South shore of Long Island. It was recovered late Wednesday by the crew of the fishing craft Sarah Tomassen, a half mile south of the Fire Island Inlet. Suffolk County Medical Examiner William C. Porter Jr. said that, even though the ejection seat may have been in the water as long as two years, papers in the uniform could still be read in parts. He said they indicated the flier was a Maj. Stocum, a Marine Corps reservist of Ridgefield, N.J. The remains were turned over to the Coast Guard. A Marine Corps reserve pilot, Maj. Lemuel Stocum, 32, of Ridgefield, N.J., disappeared over the Atlantic on a training flight July 30, 1958. Stocum, a veteran combat pilot cited for heroism in the Korean War, was on a flight out of Cherry Point, N.C., at the time. A wide naval search was conducted after Stocum failed to land at Floyd Bennett Field in Brooklyn as scheduled. Stocum, who had also been a commercial airlines pilot, flew more than 100 missions during the Korean War and received the Distinguished Flying Cross.

Philip L. Goodson Funeral Set Friday

Mr. Philip Lorenzo Goodson, of 802 East 14th Street, president of the Goodson & Flanagan Insurance Agency, died at Pitt Memorial Hospital at 2:45 Thursday morning, having been critically ill for two hours. He was 66. Funeral services will be conducted at the Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church at three o'clock Friday afternoon by the pastor, the Rev. Howard McLamb. Burial will be in Greenwood Cemetery. The body will be carried from the Wilkerson Funeral Home to the church one hour prior to the time of service. Members of the Board of Stewards of the church will be honorary pallbearers.

Gavin Boosters Organize Here; To Pick Officers

John H. Behr, Greenville resident, was chosen temporary chairman of the local Citizens for Gavin for Governor Committee last night at an organizational meeting of the backers of Republican gubernatorial candidate Robert L. Gavin. A spokesman said this morning another meeting was scheduled sometime today at which permanent officers will be chosen to head the local campaign for Gavin. He said Behr will "probably be made permanent chairman." In addition to the selection of officers, today's meeting expected to result in the group's choosing a steering committee for the Gavin campaign in Greenville and Pitt. Preliminary plans include the opening of a "Gavin for Governor" headquarters downtown Greenville to remain open during the campaign.

Library Funds Included In Bond Issue

CARVER MEMORIAL LIBRARY... new structure will replace this if bonds approved by voters.

(Second of a Series) By ALVIN TAYLOR Reflector City Editor For years everybody has agreed that the structure in which The George Washington Carver Memorial Library is housed is a disgrace to the city. But the big question was how to obtain funds for replacing it. So when plans were made for next Tuesday's bond election, one of the items included was $45,000 to construct a new building for the Negro library. Presently it is located in a house — and an old, dilapidated one at that — on Sheppard St. If the Carver Memorial Library item is approved Tuesday, city officials plan to construct an up-to-date masonry structure in the neighborhood of Fifth St. between Tyson and Eppes High School. The new building will include an office, reading room, book storage and other facilities, all sadly lacking in the present structure. As a library, Carver Memorial is considered adequately staffed, and by exchanging with Sheppard Memorial its book supply is adequate. The building itself is the main problem now. The Carver Library item will be listed separately on the bond ballot. Listed as another item will be $14,000 for improvements to Sheppard Memorial Library on Evans St. This building was donated to the city. However, now it is considered badly in need of air conditioning. City Manager Leonard Bloxam says temperatures sometimes reach 103 degrees in Sheppard Memorial's reading room on hot summer days. Thus it becomes "almost unbearable," he says. Also included in Sheppard Memorial's improvements would be a new heating plant. Bloxam described the present boiler as "worn out." The boiler has gone out and closed down the library for as long as a week during the cold winter months.

Charge Man In Officers' Death

GOLDSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Charlie N. Brown, 50-year-old Goldsboro Negro, has been charged with manslaughter in the death of two Goldsboro policemen Monday night. Police said Brown was arrested Tuesday night and was being held without bond Wednesday. Records indicate Brown has been arrested four times since 1947 on liquor charges by city police. The manslaughter charge grew out of the deaths of Lt. Frank Faircloth, 54, and officer Mahlon Parks, 36, who were killed when their patrol car plunged through a bridge railing while chasing another vehicle. The accident occurred eight miles southeast of Goldsboro. Authorities said Brown denied being in the Goldsboro area Monday night, contending he was in Richmond, Va. However, Detective Capt. Archie Carter said a motorist claimed a car bearing the license number of Brown's auto passed him at high speed about 1:30 a.m. Tuesday near Morehead City. The motorist said the car had a defective taillight, which officers said coincided with Brown's car. Otis Jones, a police desk sergeant, also said he heard Lt. Faircloth radio three times, "It's Charlie Brown and we're right on him."

Expect 4,000 In Teacher Exams

RALEIGH (AP) — At least 4,000 persons are expected to take the state's new teacher examination Oct. 8, boosting the 1960 total to about 10,000. The program, authorized by the 1959 General Assembly, is geared to study the use of tests in teacher education and certification. The scores remain confidential and do not determine whether a prospective teacher gets hired.

Postage Due On Demo Pamphlets

SPARTANBURG, S. C. (AP)—Thirty-four cents postage was due on the large box that arrived at the Spartanburg Republican headquarters Wednesday. Wincle Chapman, thinking the box contained GOP pamphlets and brochures, gladly dipped into her purse and paid the postman. The package contained Democratic party literature.

Give City Guest Room A Country Look

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

A city guest room is not planned easily. It requires more imagination than one needs for country guest room decor—the light and foliage outdoors complements the room, even before you begin to select furnishings and wall coverings. But in the city, many apartments are on court-yards or have dreary outlooks.

One designer utilizes the window area to create the illusion of a garden beyond. A sitting room-guest room setting decorated by Howard Williams of the American Institute of Decorators emphasizes that clear, warm colors and foliage could make a city guest room a cozy setting.

He employs venetian blinds on a pivot to bring the feeling of the outdoors inside. The blinds were set into panels, used some distance or several feet from the room's windows. Between the blinds and windows a few ground-level plants, some vines and other foliage give a charming illusion of a garden, terrace or solarium. The play of light and shadows from the blinds is the final touch to the setting.

GUEST SITTING ROOM . . . The floors are yellow and white vinyl, walls are red and white, sofa is red tweed. Venetian blinds are set into panels, admit light from glass wall on other side. Foliage in between.

Bright Colors Used

The floor of the room is in alternate sections of sunny yellow vinyl and white tile. A cheerful in-expensive red and white damask is used on one wall. The same red shade is used in the tweed covering for the love seat which converts into a guest bed. Professional decorators are always braver in their use of colors than amateur decorators. It would take courage for some amateurs to mix yellow and red, but it can surely live up an area, especially a grim city room.

A collection of bottles, sea shells, and brass lanterns also give charm to the room decor. An antique brass lavabo is another interesting touch.

Tricks for the Amateur

There are many tricks one can employ to make a guest room cozy.

A tiny love seat can add a charming touch. A collection of anything—butterflies or sea shells can personalize the room setting. Old family samplers give a wall special depth. A large urn on the floor at the window filled with green leaves adds an outdoor touch to a room even in winter. A handsome clock can be the focal point in a room. Such conveniences as vanity table and desk are especially appreciated by guests, and lend a note of charm to a room.

It's wise not to think in conventional terms when trying to make the best of a room. It's a good idea not to shelve an idea because someone else hasn't done it. Consult a decorator, draw your idea out on paper and see what you can work out together. A guest room is a place to experiment with your own decorating ideas.

Gardening Today

By JOHN G. DUNCAN

The name Tulip comes from a Turkish word which means turban. The tulip, as we know it today, comes from one that was brought to Vienna from Constantinople in the 1500's.

Through the years, we have associated the tulip with Holland. It was in this country between the year 1634-1637 that a craze called tulipomania developed. This extreme irratric interest was due to economics as well as aesthetic interest. Much money was lost to this end and the government had to regulate the tulip trade.

Today we value them for the beauty they bring to our gardens in the spring. Too many of us enjoy them for only a brief time. This is because we limit the use to one or two late blooming kinds.

Plan to put in tulips that will give you a longer season of bloom. The first step in having a good tulip display is the selection of the kinds and colors you want to plant. The second step is to find out the sources of such bulbs. The third step is to buy your bulbs from a good reliable dealer. Don't go in for bargains. They never turn out to be bargains.

In planting, choose sites that are well drained and those that add to your landscape picture. Tulips look well in groups massed or spotted in other established plantings.

Plant your bulbs spacing them 6 inches apart and at a minimum depth of at least 6 inches. Deeper planting of 8 to 10 inches or even 12 inches should do equally well.

Deep plantings have a few advantages: It keeps new bulbs from multiplying. This should make the original bulb perform longer. It should continue flowering for at least five years instead of two or three.

Deep plantings lessen the chance of botrytis blight attacking the tulip. Another advantage is that overplanting with annuals can be made. Such annuals can be cultivated without hurting tulips.

The disadvantage to deep planting is that clay soil will hinder emergence, and if drainage is poor the tulip will fall.

Get your tulips in the ground well before freezing weather sets in. Do not mulch them from ground freezes. When planting, measure planting depth from tip to bulb.

Don't mix your tulips, plant them in splashes of same color. Keep dark colors in the background.

Get a printed bulb guide from your local seed store. It will enable you to pick the types you want as to blooming time, height of plant, and has other useful information.

Make and get the most from these colorful spring flowers. Stretch out their blooming season by planting the many types available to you.

Rug Cushion Is Wise Buy

RALEIGH — A rug cushion is a wise buy. It is also good insurance for it greatly increases the life of a carpet. It acts as a shock absorber that takes up much of the pounding of traffic over the rug.

Miss Pauline Gordon, house furnishing specialist for the N. C. Agricultural Extension Service, says the cushions are moderately priced and add years to the life of your rug since they reduce much of the wear and friction between the rug and the floor.

Being soft and resilient, it fills in the uneven spaces of the floor that might cause the rug to wear out in spots. The cushion prevents slipping and keeps the rug smooth.

"Good cushions are made of felt, fiber, hair and rubber," says Miss Gordon. "A medium weight cushion, about 40 ounces, (per square foot) is satisfactory for most home use."

Many of the cushions have one side rippled and the other side plain. The manufacturers directions should be followed when installing. All cushions are moth-proofed and can be swept and vacuumed. A good cushion gives luxurious softness, insulates against cold and absorbs noise.

Youth Celebrates Fifth Birthday

GRIFTON—On Sunday afternoon Michael Phillips, young son of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Phillips, celebrated his fifth birthday when 16 young friends were entertained at his home by his parents.

D.A.R. Meets In Farmville

FARMVILLE—Mrs. C. S. Eagles, Mrs. F. M. Davis and Mrs. Henrietta M. Williamson were hostesses at the September meeting of the Major Benjamin May chapter, D. A. R., held in the chapter house on Saturday.

Miss Elizabeth Lang, the new regent, presided and Mrs. G. Alex Rouse, chaplain, conducted a meditation with "Human and Divine Love" as its theme.

Mrs. J. O. Pollard, treasurer, presented a report for the past year, and the budget for the new year, exceeding $1,000 submitted by the executive board, was accepted.

Mrs. Howard D. Moyer was appointed to the board of governors and Miss Tabitha DeVisconti to the board of trustees. Mrs. R. T. Williams was welcomed as a new member. Reports of the observance of Constitution Week in the community were made by the committee, composed of Miss DeVisconti, Mrs. Williams, Mrs. Leroy Bass and Mrs. W. E. Joyner.

The recent made announcements in regard to the district meeting to be held here September 27 and appointed committees. She read a letter also from Mrs. W. D. Holmes Jr. of Edenton, state regent, accepting invitation extended by the chapter to attend the October meeting. In the absence of the civil defense chairman, Miss Lang read a selection relative to Cuba.

Mrs. M. V. Jones, serving with Mrs. Moyer as the yearbook committee, gave a report and distributed the new books. Mrs. Preston Murphy, chairman of the scrapbook committee, submitted the scrapbook for examination. Mrs. John B. Wright Jr. and Mrs. Moyer were appointed as a by-laws committee to make revisions, and the chapter voted to endorse for a second time a student at A. C. College for scholarship.

Mrs. Williamson presented the program leader, Miss DeVisconti, who had a table display in connection with Constitution Week. The leader read a selection giving the principles of the Constitution, circumstances regarding its framing and transformation from a blueprint to an everlasting document.

After adjournment, the hostesses served an ice course. Table arrangements of fall flowers formed a setting for the meeting.

NICER RICE

Rice grains cooked in a little fat before boiling are likely to stay separate, but they will not swell so much as they do when they are boiled without the pre-cooking.

Baker-Cox Are Married

WINTERVILLE—In a ceremony at Bethany Free Will Baptist Church on Monday afternoon, Miss Sadie Oleana Cox and Earl P. Baker, R. T. C., U. S. Army, exchanged vows. The Rev. J. Garland Teasley officiated.

The bride wore a dress of white lace and carried a bouquet of roses.

The bride and bridegroom entered the church together. After the ceremony they left for a short wedding trip. Upon return from the wedding trip the bride and bridegroom will make their home at Fort Gordon, Ga.

Miss Cox is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Cox of Grifton, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Baker of Winterville.

Mrs. Tyndall Bridge Parties Is Honored

BETHEL—Mrs. J. R. Bunting was hostess recently to members of her bridge club and two visiting guests, Mrs. Tom Carson, Jr. and Mrs. Bill Johnson.

Following the progressions, the high scorer, Mrs. James Crandell was awarded a prize. The hostess served banana splits and a beverage as refreshments.

Mrs. Whitehurst Entertains

Two bridge tables were in use for play Friday night when Mrs. L. J. Whitehurst Jr. entertained at bridge. At the end of the game Mrs. Dennis Hardy, a visitor, was awarded a prize for scoring high and Mrs. William C. Whitehurst won consolation prize.

At the end of the second progression a sweet course was served.

Mrs. Wynne Hostess

Three visiting guests, Mrs. Julian Smith, Mrs. James Womack, Miss Camille Stator and five club members were present when Mrs. J. C. Wynne entertained at bridge. Following the second progression the guests were served a hostess plate.

Winners in the game were Mrs. Fay Pollard, high, and Mrs. R. J. Whitehurst, consolation prize.

Home Bathtubs Nix Russian Rubbers

What's wrong with the country? Too many bathtubs, according to Local 17794 of the Brotherhood of Russian Bath Rubbers, who lament that business has fallen off drastically in the last generation.

Younger people evidently prefer to soak in the suds at home, for about the only customers left at the six Russian baths remaining in New York City are quite elderly. Most of the union members are themselves nearing seventy.

Russian baths differ from the better-known Finnish saunas in that they use oak leaves for rubbing, rather than birch twigs.

Towel Bath

The towel bath is an important travel technique—also fine for a hurry-up wash-up before an unexpected date.

Plunge a Turkish towel into rich soapsuds, wring it out, and give yourself a brisk all-over rubbing. Rinse the towel in clear water and repeat the body rub-down. Finish off with a dry toweling trip. Upon return from the wedding trip the bride and bridegroom will make their home at Fort Gordon, Ga.

Miss Cox is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Cox of Grifton, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Baker of Winterville.

Mrs. Tyndall

FOUNTAIN—Mrs. Eddie Tyndall was entertained Saturday night at a stork shower in Crisp Community Building. Hostesses were Mrs. Leah Jefferson, Mrs. Darlene Norville, Mrs. Gertrude Cauley and Mrs. Josephine Tyndall.

The refreshment table was covered with a yellow cloth and centered with a bowl of assorted grapes. The hostesses presented Mrs. Tyndall with a corsage of pink and blue baby pins. Games were played.

The prize winners were as follows: Mrs. Martha Jane Webb, Mrs. Maebelle Tyndall, Mrs. Lois Dall, Irene Alford, Mrs. Janie Flora, Mrs. Josephine Tyndall, Miss Jackie Tyndall, and the door prize winner was Mrs. Eleanor Tyndall.

Potato chips, pimento sandwiches, pickles, cake and iced drinks were served to the following guests: Mesdames Ruth Edwards, Lillie Summerlin, Martha Jane Webb, Ora Leigh Smith, Lois Dall, Maebelle Tyndall, Betty Britt, Carrie Penwell, Irene Alford, Janie Flora, Addie Baits, Mary A. Turner, Ruby Chapman, Miss Jackie Tyndall and Miss Darnell Norville.

Grifton Bridge

Mrs. Thurman Williams entertained members of her contract club at supper and bridge recently. Guests assembled at the Williams home and were served a fried chicken supper prior to the games.

Decorations in the home were of flowers and fruit. Highest scorers for the evening were Mrs. W. J. Bissette and M. B. Hodges. Guests included Mr. and Mrs. Bissette, Mr. and Mrs. Hodges, Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Mewborn, Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Cobb and H. C. Oglesby.

Two Tables were in play when Mrs. Howard Holcomb was hostess at a dessert bridge on Friday night at her home for members of her bridge club. Early fall flowers decorated the home for the occasion. Prizes for the high-scoring went to Mrs. George G. Sugg and Mrs. Denver Sasser. Making up the tables were Mesdames Sugg, Sasser, Phillip Insoce, George Fuller, W. L. Mahler, Cecil Lilly Jr., Robert Wheeler, Joe Padgett.

At the dessert hour apple pie with whipped cream and coffee was served.

News And Notes From Farmville

Bond Proposals Worthy Of Vote

In less than a week the citizens of Greenville will be called on to say at the ballot boxes whether the city will issue slightly more than a half million dollars worth of bonds for a variety of capital improvement programs.

In the interest of the continued progress of the city, all the bond proposals should be approved.

Unlike many other municipalities in this state, Greenville has a bonded indebtedness that is well within the means of the city to defray without placing an appreciable burden on its taxpayers. Even with the issuance of these new bonds as proposed, the city will have in outstanding bonds far below the amount which could be considered if the need arose.

According to city officials, the proposed bond issues can be defrayed by the city under the current portion of the tax rate that is earmarked for debt service. The existing bonded indebtedness of Greenville has been reduced to the point that without an increase in local taxes, it will be possible to repay proposed bonds and their interest.

This of course is an important consideration for citizens who will vote in the bond issue referendum next Tuesday.

Another factor which must be considered, however, in any matter of this sort is the need for the things the bond issues would provide.

Included in the bond issues which will be decided

Bright Spot In A Dark Picture

By LYNN NISBET
PUBLIC SCHOOLS—So much has been said about the terrible situation prevailing in the public schools of North Carolina about the good teachers leaving the state because of low salaries and unsatisfactory working conditions, and other "poor mouth" protestations, the statement made by Dr. Charles F. Carroll prefacing the presentation of the public school budget last week offers a bright spot on the generally painted dark and drab picture.

Dr. Carroll told the budget folks that "we have in North Carolina a vibrant, ongoing public school program that reveals more achievement per dollar expended than any state system of public schools in America." He pointed out that this State system is the cumulative product of the efforts of many people, for which credit should be distributed among a score or more of Governors, hundreds of legislators, thousands of other state, county and municipal officials, and hundreds of thousands of aspiring consecrated taxpayers during a century or more of progress.

Dr. Carroll was followed in the budget presentation by Dallas Herring, chairman of the State Board of Education. Neither Carroll nor Herring pulled any punches in pointing out deficiencies and inadequacies in the North Carolina public school system. Both men by positive statement and implication, denied the charge that all the good teachers have gone or are planning to leave the state.

During the past school year a record number of 1,055,000 pupils were taught by the best educated teachers in our history. And they had overall better facilities than ever, both teachers and equipment provided jointly by the State and the local units.

COOPERATIVE—Impression prevails in many quarters that the State pays the entire bill for public schools. Dr. Carroll reported that just last year (he did not give figures for prior years, which would have been impressive) 12 administrative units voted bond issues for school buildings in the amount of $31 million, and 11 local units voted new or increased taxes to enrich the school program. In many counties the tax levy for schools—including bond issues for buildings and supplements for enriched programs—amounts to more than half the total ad valorem tax bill.

Whether the tax levy is on the intangible sources of State revenue, or the property tax at local government level, Dallas Herring emphasized that tax money levied and collected for education should not be considered as business expense. Rather, he said, "it is the most important investment we can make toward the improvement of the total economy."

Theoretically, the Department of Public Instruction is the cultural education arm of the public school program. The State Board of Education is the business management agency. Actually, it is impossible to make that distinction in the practical operations of the two officials heading these agencies.

Fact is that bachelor Dallas Herring, supposed to be the hard-boiled chairman of the Board of Education, is just as idealistic and imaginative in his views about what the public schools need to do as is Charlie Carroll. He quoted Walter Hines Page and Charles B. Aycock and others, and asked what man among us is wise enough to assess the true value of their prophetic wisdom. And he added that history must take into account how much more dangerous are the consequences of failure in our times than in theirs. We cannot risk the luxury of resting on the laurels of our fathers.

DIVERSION—One of the recognized problems is the "diversion" of some dollars, but more of energy and time of school teachers to nonteaching activities. Testimony was offered to the effect that about one-third of the teacher's time is taken up with non-instructional activities. (That is, the regular classroom hours—and does not count the demands made upon school teachers as "public servants" for extra work in civic duties, teaching Sunday school classes, etc.) Some of this work is essential to teaching. Certain records must be kept, conferences attended, and papers graded after hours. Much of it could be eliminated if additional clerks at less than teacher salaries were employed. That was an important item in the new budget proposals.

There are lots of things wrong with the North Carolina public school system. There are also lots of things right in it. Emphasis in budget presentation this year was on the good parts and the desire to make them better, rather than on the deficiencies.

It will be interesting to see what the legislative reaction to this approach will be. It is an open secret that the "poor mouth" presentations in the past have engendered belief on part of some legislators that the situation is hopeless and a few more dollars won't help it. The current appeal is based on pride in achievement as a challenge to greater effort. The idea is that if we've done so much, we can do a little more; rather than that we've made a complete bust of things up to now.

upon next week are items of vital importance to the city if it is to keep pace with the needs of its citizens and the demands being made for service. A major portion of the total proposed capital improvement outlay is for street improvements that obviously are needed. The improvement of Elm Street is an apparent need to all who have given thought to the increasing volume of traffic in the eastern section of the city. It is vital that Elm Street be converted into a major thoroughfare if the increasing traffic load on this artery is not to become an impossible situation.

The need for relieving the city of the continuing costly job of maintaining dirt streets is also evident. Through the proposed street bonds the city will be able to pave a considerable portion of its worst streets and thus reduce the amount of money that is now spent year after year keeping these streets in usable condition. The long-range maintenance savings effected by this program would more than offset the initial capital outlay cost of paving.

Sidewalks in the vicinity of schools, the new Negro library, the new fire department substation and other items included in the bond proposals are all of utmost importance to the continued progress of Greenville and the calibre of service the city is able to offer its citizens.

The capital outlay program the bond issue would finance is indeed a forward looking undertaking for the city. In a very real sense, however, the items called for are essential to the general well being of the city and its people. To postpone or thwart the programs called for in the bond issues would be to deny the city and its people things that are needed immediately.

We trust the voters of the city will give careful consideration to the bond proposals between now and Tuesday. If they do, we are confident they will go to the polls and vote in favor of each of the bond issues in order that the city may continue on the road of progress.

Don't Underestimate N.C. Role In November

It is quite possible that North Carolinians are underestimating the importance of the role this state will play in the outcome of the presidential election in November.

If North Carolinians are underestimating the political importance of the state, certainly national leaders of the political parties are not.

Saturday the Democratic Presidential nominee made a swing through the state in a strong bid for the state's continued support of the Democratic ticket. Earlier the Republican presidential candidate had visited the state, and already he has announced plans for another visit. There have also been indications other national GOP leaders will likewise campaign for votes in North Carolina in behalf of the GOP national ticket.

On the Democratic side of the ledger, other top names in the party will follow Sen. Kennedy into the state between now and November. Already former President Truman has announced campaigning engagements in North Carolina—in Raleigh, Wilson and Stevens other points—and it is expected that Adlai Stevenson and other national figures in the Democratic party will campaign in the state in behalf of the ticket.

With such unprecedented emphasis being placed on the importance of North Carolina's vote by the two political parties, Tar Heels cannot remain aloof to the situation. It is time the rank and file Democrats of the state grasp the urgency of the situation and set about in enthusiastic and determined fashion to see that North Carolina remains firmly in the Democratic column when the November votes are counted.

Debates Appear Less Than Great

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP)—The "great debates" on TV between the presidential candidates figure to be something less than full debates and probably something less than great.

In all four confrontations between Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Sen. John F. Kennedy newsmen and television commentators will be on the nation's screens with them, asking questions.

This is a lot different from watching the two candidates standing face to face, by themselves, pegging arguments at each other. In at least one of the four encounters the candidates will be a continent apart, appearing on split screens.

These meetings will be historic to the degree it will be the first time presidential candidates meet on TV to discuss the issues—no matter how they do the discussing.

The first invitation to the two men to join in a "great debate" came from Robert W. Sarnoff, board chairman of the National Broadcasting Co., after the national political conventions in July.

The result is that all the national TV and radio networks will carry the debates, each lasting an hour. This is the way they will go: First meeting—Monday, Sept. 26, from Chicago from 9:30 to 10:30 p.m. EDT. The discussion will be on domestic policy.

Each candidate will be given eight minutes as an opener. Then a panel of four TV people will ask one of them a question. He'll get three minutes to answer. Then his opponent gets minutes are left.

The panel will then ask the second man a question. He'll get three minutes to answer. His opponent gets 1 1/2 minutes to reply. This will go on until only six minutes are left.

Then each of the two candidates will get three minutes to sum up.

Second meeting—Friday, Oct. 7 from New York from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. EDT. This probably will take the form of a news conference with a panel of newsmen asking questions of both candidates.

On this one Nixon and Kennedy will appear together if possible. If they both can't be in New York at the same time, they'll have to appear on a split screen to answer the questions.

Public Forum

To the Editor: The term "backslider" as used in a recent Reflector editorial is a coarse and sweeping epithet when applied to the hundreds of thousands of Americans who each year cross party lines to vote for the "better man" or on "key issues."

Neither the Republican nor the Democratic party is a sacred cow. Each must and should be responsive to the needs and desires of its adherents and each year prove its right to prevail at a general election. No free American owes his eternal allegiance to any political party. Those who blindly and adventurously follow the callings of perennial politicians serve no useful end toward their country's betterment and greatness. Governor Hodges and now the City's only newspaper, echo Nixon and Sanford's disdain for America's traditional two-party system. The system they advocate makes a mockery of November elections and renders them wasteful and useless expense. Small wonder a Sanford feels secure in putting his constituents' vote in his hip pocket and taking it to Los Angeles!

The one party system may be good enough for China, Cuba, or Russia but it has no place in America. Despite the alarm of many, free and mature voters will enter the secrecy of the polling booth and vote as they well please, come November. John H. Behr

Those Shoes Come Off

It must be quite obvious to the newspaper reading public that there have been several church conferences in this great center of culture of late.

The churches have definitely varied in denomination, in purpose, accomplishment and temperament.

But—there is one thing in common. At every one, there has managed to be at least one woman who, when she has thought no one might notice, has taken off her high heeled shoes.

You can't say they were all new shoes and therefore, uncomfortable, either, because we noted that they weren't all new. You see, we did notice. Even all the way across one church.

This is what you might call food for thought.

And, we might call to sour at-ention the fact that this is Indian Summer time. There's some of every kind of garb. Summer clothes, winter clothes, white straw hats and colorful feather hats of the fall season.

Indian summer is supposed to be one of the most delightful seasons. Even the name is a little nostalgic. A warm, yet invigorating time of the year. Also a good gathering time for conferences—school, church and others.

All of which brings us to the point of—nothing.

We are still meeting people we knew who were at the Kennedy rally the other day whom we didn't see and who didn't see us. We tell them we were trampled, they tell us they were being trampled—but we were all there.

There must have been at least

Other Editors Saying Write-In Won't Help

(Rocky Mount Telegram)

While the group backing Dr. I. Beverly Lake persists in its efforts to press a write-in campaign for Lake as governor, it is forgetting two salient points. First, Dr. Lake himself has disassociated himself from the write-in movement and pledged himself to support the state Democratic ticket. Second, the group claims that the only person available to the voters in this case Terry Sanford is fall capable of fulfilling certain objectives is Dr. Lake. Well, they had their chance in two primaries to prove their point. The majority of voters in North Carolina must be reckoned with by any dissident political group, whether their man wins or not.

Now the majority vote must be respected. One wonders how many times a candidate has won in order to prove himself. He won in the first primary over several candidates, but failed to gain a majority over the field. He did defeat Dr. Lake rather handsily in the runoff. What more proof does anyone need?

A write-in campaign will not help the Democratic party of this state. The write-in group claims it was formed primarily for the preservation of the Democratic Party. Nothing is placed in that position, then it should not waste its energies in directions that not only fail to help the party, but gains nothing for its choice of candidate.

Working within the party is still the best method for advancing a candidate of ability.

Thus one must conclude that

Real Estate And Small Investor

By ELMER ROESSNER

Real estate may become the favorite of small investors. The stock market is wavering. Interest on Federal securities is being lowered. Mutual fund shares have declines.

But the omnibus tax law, signed by President Eisenhower into law, provides a new tax shelter for investment in real estate investment trusts. It goes into effect next January 1.

It will also encourage transfer of investments in real estate partnerships and really investment corporations pay taxes on their profits. The remaining profits are taxed again when they are paid out to stockholders. This has caused many investors to turn to general or limited partnerships, on which profits are taxed only once. But many investors find partnerships cumbersome. It is often difficult to sell shares.

The new law will really investment trusts from corporation income taxes. A really investment trust is much like a mutual fund. The managers invest in real estate instead of stocks and profits are divided among the investors. Their certificates of investment resemble mutual fund shares.

There are limitations on the trust exempted. They must be beneficially owned by at least 100 persons, no five of whom directly or indirectly own more than half of the beneficial interest.

At least 90 per cent of the gross income must consist of rents from real property, interest, dividends, gains from the sale of property and securities and statements and refunds of taxes on real property. This is to prevent promoters from organizing investment trusts to take over railroads, spaghetti factories and other enterprises outside of real estate.

trust's income must come from real property, in rents, interest on mortgages, gains from sales, etc. Furthermore, gains from the sale of real property must be less than four years must be less than 30 per cent of the trust's income. In computing this, capital losses cannot offset capital gains.

OTHER RESTRICTIONS

There are other limitations. One requires that 75 per cent of a trust's assets be in real estate, cash, receivable or government securities. Another prohibits a trust from investing more than 5 per cent of its assets in the securities of any one corporation, or holding more than 10 per cent of the voting securities of any one. There are also limits on income from rents, to make sure the trusts are not tempted to become realty management companies instead of investment organizations.

Nikita's Poor Display

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
Copyright, 1960, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Nikita Khrushchev is within his rights to call together his private selection of heads of state with the object of ganging up on the United States. But his manners are foul. He had his opportunity for a Summit Conference on disarmament at Paris; this was beset with a nastiness rarely experienced in human history. On that occasion, he made an extraordinary display of bad manners.

He comes to the United States unbidden and unwelcome. His reason is that he wishes to head his delegation to the United Nations which he has a right to do. He has the treaty right to access to the United Nations buildings and no more. Our government has correctly limited him to Manhattan Island which is the center part of New York City. Even that is too much. He should have been taken to the United Nations buildings and told to stay there. However, our President wishes to be polite and to go by protocol. So we are being polite and going by protocol—no more. We have become so polite that we have lost all sense of moral indignation.

Khrushchev's assumptions are based upon his former experience when American bankers and businessmen wined and dined him; when the only opposition he encountered was from some labor union leaders and refugee groups; when the press, television and radio were profusely placed at his disposal; when the President of the United States took him to Camp David for a confidential talk. He watched newspapermen and camera fall all over themselves to be near him.

To Khrushchev, such conduct represented a nation of boobs; a nation whose leading men do not understand what is going on in the world; a people who lack pride and dignity and will sell their souls for a contract. He looked at capitalist Cyrus Eaton and farmer Garst and figured that they represented the American people. He could not realize how alien they are to the American feeling toward them.

And so he comes again not only to attend the United Nations General Assembly, but also to hold a Summit meeting on disarmament for propagandistic purposes, to insult our President more and more; to humiliate our country by invading its sovereignty; to conduct from New York a propaganda that would be meaningless from Moscow and generally to make a nuisance of himself. It is just another example of very bad manners had manners which are normal to him.

It used to be customary to ridicule diplomacy as the art of lying and diplomats as cookie-pushers who went to dinners and parties and who spoke with an imitation Oxford accent. But the fact is that all the ritual and ceremony of diplomacy smother the way for discussion and negotiation. Diplomats avoided personal involvement so that they could meet together on another occasion.

The Chinese phrase for this is to leave enough room to turn around in. It is a very useful phrase for a specialized job. For instance, after Nikita Khrushchev's display of boorish manners, his insulting language, his sneers and abusive attitude, it is useless for him to try to meet with President Eisenhower or with any other decent American. There must always be the feeling that he will explode into vulgarity; that he will use the occasion dishonestly; that his word is worthless.

On the other hand, if Khrushchev had used the language of diplomacy, he might with greater skill have smashed the Paris Conference and made it possible to call a meeting of another conference. The diplomat's job is to speak softly but to carry a big stick—if he represents a country that has a big stick. Khrushchev has to be loud and vulgar because he is a party worker, not a diplomat.

He has no manners because despite his advance to high estate, he remains a peasant.

This is not uncharacteristic of revolutionary periods, but Soviet Russia is no longer in a state of revolution. It is settling down to normal imperial-providences.

ECC Dean Of Instruction Has Many Responsibilities

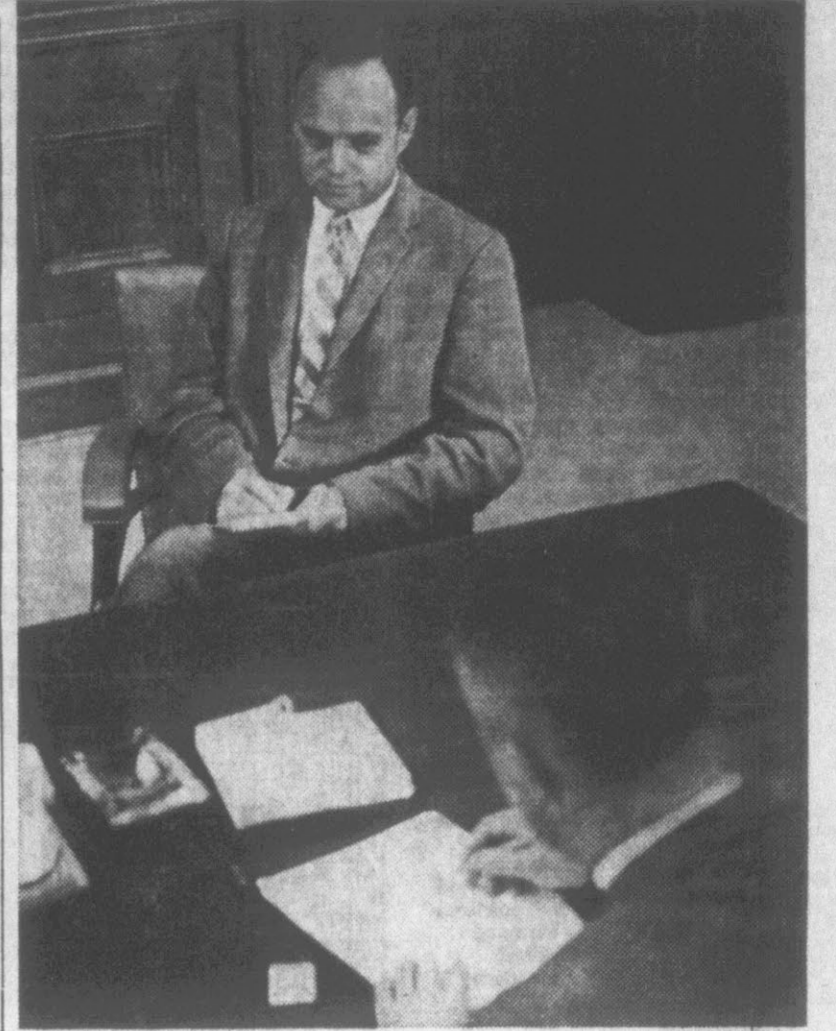

DEAN OF INSTRUCTION . . . Dr. Robert L. Holt.

DR. HOLT . . . approving request for supplies.

CHECKING . . . classroom usage with secretary.

MAKING NOTES . . . at regular morning talk with president.

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

Dr. Robert L. Holt, Dean of Instruction at East Carolina College, finds a great amount of enjoyment in both his work as Dean of the college and in his hobbies while relaxing from his job.

Holt, who says he comes "from as far south as you can get," Dixie, Georgia, attended high school in Mars Hill and Asheville, where he graduated.

He then went to Texas where he worked for two years and returned to North Carolina to attend Mars Hill College for two years. He then transferred to Wake Forest College where he graduated in 1943.

While at Mars Hill he was ordained as a Baptist minister and served several churches during his school career.

He then returned to Wake Forest as a Teaching Fellow to work on his masters degree which he got in 1946. Holt received his doctorate from Duke University in 1950 with work in Christian Ethics and Political Theory.

Dr. Holt then came to East Carolina College where he was the first Director of Religious Activities at the school. In 1953 he went to Mars Hill as vice-president in charge of public relations and returned to East Carolina in 1958 as Registrar and Director of Admissions.

Holt became Dean of Instruction of the college in January of this year.

Holt's duties as Dean of Instruction include being responsible for all scheduling of classes and usage of rooms at the college; performing the official campus duties of the president in his absence and assisting the president in coordinating all the curricular and extra curricular activities on campus.

Holt also counsels with others having to do with student welfare and has to be sure the school is meeting the accreditation requirements with the classes offered. His office also publishes the college catalogue and the faculty manual.

All requests for instructional supplies have to be approved by the Dean, who is an ex officio member of practically all committees of the college, including the Curricular Committee; the Policies Committee; Graduate Committee and the committee controlling the Closed Circuit T.V. class experiments at the college.

Holt said one of the things he likes best about working at the college is his daily conference with the President, at which time the "tone for the day" is set and problems which have come up are worked out. Holt noted that one of the reasons he came back to East Carolina College is because he enjoyed working with former President John Messick, Dr. Jenkins and F. D. Duncan, who is vice-president and business manager of the school.

Holt is also responsible for assigning the Teaching Fellows at the school and assigning the number of self-help jobs each department can use. He commented that this work, as all of the work done through his office, is "made much easier through the noble assistance of my noble assistant", Dorance Lamb.

Holt pointed out that East Carolina is constantly trying to find ways to keep improving the school and providing the best possible education for the people of Eastern North Carolina.

He noted that the administration at the college is "pleased to have the Nursing Program" and is looking forward to it being a major attraction for girls. "It was requested by the aim to provide it."

Holt pointed out that there are 52 girls enrolled in the program, 47 of whom are freshmen. Dr. Holt's hobbies include fishing, amateur radio, playing with his children at the beach, and watching sports activities. A new hobby of his, he reluctantly revealed, is trying to learn to dance. He noted he never knew before that he had four left feet, or that holding a female could be so difficult.

Holt pointed out that both he and his son were engaged in the "Ham Radio" business. He commented that through radio he enjoys "keeping in touch with people" he knew in Texas, "and with schoolmates over the country." He added that occasionally, he talks to parents of people in school here and gets to know others "pretty well."

He also likes to listen to his Hi-Fi set which he said he built himself.

Holt is a member of the Greenville Radio Amateur Club, The N. C. Association of Academic Deans; the national Education Association; The North Carolina Education Association; and the Delta Pi Chapter of Phi Delta Kappa, an educational fraternity. He is also a member of the Memorial Baptist Church and teaches a Sunday School class of young men.

Holt married the former Claire Hardin of Lincoln and they have three children, a boy 15 and two girls, one 13 and the other seven.

CHAPTER 36

Lisa Randolph stood disbelieving for a moment. It had been so dark she had not got a look at Coe Slade the night he had tried to drag her from the supply wagon when she had been lost beyond the Pecos. He had been unshaven and in rough trail garb on that occasion, and also on that day when he had shot down Matthew in Los Molinos.

This no doubt explained the impression of having seen him in the past. The three men were crossing the street, heading for shelter from the glare of the sun beneath the sidewalk portico of a harness shop.

"The one with the mustache is Coe's cousin, Jess Slade," Hester said. "He's a bad one, too." Hester said. "He's a bad one, too."

Coe Slade looked back over his shoulder, as though sensing that he was being watched, and saw Lisa. Into his heavy face came a shadow that was hard and lethal.

Suddenly everything was clear to her. She remembered the evening beyond the Pecos when she believed Slade had wanted to strangle her. Also the day in Los Molinos when he had looked at her over the pistol with which he had just slain Matthew.

He had shot at her through the window of her room at Monte Vista and later on had tried to creep in upon her sleeping quarters at Triangle O and had left Abel's horse and saddle as a blind.

She spoke to Hester. "He's the one! He killed Frank O'Hara!"

"What? How do you know that, Elizabeth?"

"He was with Kemp Travis that day," Lisa said. "He stayed out of sight while Travis talked to Abel and me while I was on my way to your place. Travis probably told Slade to follow me. He must have been listening outside the window to what I told you. Travis knew that Mr. O'Hara had met Perry Diehl and Major Gilchrist that morning. He didn't want anyone to talk to Mr. O'Hara, particularly you Barbes, until he had bought up cattle at a low price and clinched the contract for the six thousand head. Slade heard you say you were going with me to O'Hara's. That decided it. He had to act in a hurry. He couldn't take a chance on Mr. O'Hara telling you that cattle buyers were in the country. He knew of only one way of preventing it. He used a pistol."

"But how could Coe Slade have been wearin' . . . ?" Hester began.

"It wasn't a gingham shirt that he had on at all," Lisa said. "What it really was sounds fantastic. Hester, do you remember the apron you were wearing the day I first arrived at Monte Vista? Another just like it was hanging on the line. You told me not long ago that you had lost track of one of them. That stayed in my mind. Now I know what became of it."

"My good land!" Hester breathed.

"Slade saw his chance to turn suspicion on Abel, and stole the apron. After he had shot Frank O'Hara, he merely wrapped it around him for a moment and let us get that look at him at a distance."

She quit talking and walked out of the shop and into the street.

"Wait!" Hester screamed. "Elizabeth! You can't—"

Lisa paid no heed. Travis and his men had paused in the shade of the portico. She moved into the open street toward them. The came to rigid attention, watching her.

She halted, standing in the blaze of sunlight, and spoke clearly, for she wanted neutral on-lookers to hear the accusation.

She gazed at Coe Slade. "You shot Frank O'Hara. I know all about it now. You tried to murder me because you were afraid that I would be a witness against you some day."

She saw their attention shift slightly. There was in them the quality of the wolf pack. They had stationed themselves there for the kill. They meant to pay off for all their defeats, for all the cattle they had lost in the gorge. Their quarry had now appeared.

Abel was in the street. He had stepped around a corner and was moving nearer. He was coatless and wore two pistols. He spoke to Lisa. "Go back into the store, Elizabeth."

Her fear for him was in her eyes, mirroring what was in her heart, but he shook his head. "They came here yesterday and have been waiting ever since for a chance to have it out with me."

Paul Drexel stepped into view and moved abreast of Abel in the street. He also carried two six-shooters in holsters. "I'm in this, Kemp," he said.

Lisa realized that both men were utterly remote from her now. She walked back into the shop where Hester stood, staring into the street.

Abel spoke. "Here's your chance, Kemp."

Travis evidently had not expected Paul Drexel's appearance. But there was no backing out now. He went for his pistols. It was Coe Slade who fired the first shot, however. The bullet struck Abel's left arm, the force of it spinning him partly around. But he stayed on his feet and was shooting back with one weapon.

All were firing. Jess Slade was hit by a bullet. He took a stunned step and slumped down on his hands and knees, gasping for breath.

Travis and Coe Slade continued to shoot. Lisa saw Abel stagger as he steadied himself.

Paul was hit also. The force of the bullet drove him reeling back against a sidewalk post. He braced himself there and fired both pistols at Travis. The slugs tore through Travis's body. He fell forward on his face, pulled himself to an elbow, trying to bring a pistol to bear on Abel. Paul fired again and Travis's head slumped down, his gun dribbling from his fingers.

Paul also slid to a sitting position, and then slumped over on his side. Abel stood over him, blood dripping from his left arm, which had been broken by Slade's first bullet. Slade was shooting at him, and missing. Abel fired twice. Coe Slade was shattered by both slugs, and he fell alongside Kemp Travis in the street.

Abel's bullet-broken arm was an ugly, serious injury, but the second bullet that had found him had inflicted a flesh wound only.

Jess Slade would pull through. Coe Slade and Kemp Travis were dead.

It was twenty-four hours before Abel, accompanied by Lisa and Hester, was steady enough on his feet to walk out of the room at the doctor's office that was used as a hospital.

Paul was still there. He was improving and reasonably out of danger. Abel had his arm in a sling and had a bandage on his ribs.

Perry Diehl and Major Gilchrist met them and walked with them toward the Comstock House.

"The champagne supper can wait until Drexel is able to attend," Perry Diehl said. "Is there anything we can do for you in the meantime?"

"There's a wide green basin about a hundred miles south of here," Abel said. "Water, grass, everything a rancher needs. If you can advise us how to go about gettin' title to grazin' land there, we'd be obliged."

"Of course," Perry Diehl said.

Major Gilchrist winked at Lisa, but addressed Abel. "You

Seasonal Gains For Employment

RALEIGH — Nonagricultural employment increased 14,700 in North Carolina during August due to seasonal job gains in tobacco, food, transportation and trade, the State Department of Labor reported today.

Labor Commissioner Frank Crane said total non-farm employment in the State climbed to 1,157,000 during August to a point 14,700 higher than in July and 11,700 higher than the total for August, 1959.

Crane said a seasonal job rise of 8,400 in tobacco stemmeries and re-drying plants was the largest single factor contributing to the August employment increase.

Other seasonal increases of 1,500 in trade, 900 in transportation, 800 in State and local government and public schools, and 500 in food products also figured strongly in the August job gains, he stated.

Still another sizable factor affecting the employment figures, said Commissioner Crane, was the return to work of 3,400 textile mill workers who were on vacation during the pay period surveyed in July.

Although vacations affected the textile and total employment figures for both July and August, the return of the vacationing textile workers to their jobs means nothing in terms of real employment change, Crane added.

Ports Authority Gets Permission To 'Negotiate'

RALEIGH (AP) — The State Ports Authority has been given the green light to negotiate with a private industry to acquire docking and storage facilities for aviation gasoline at Morehead City.

The Council of State Wednesday approved a proposal whereby the authority gained permission to work out a deal with Aviation Fuel Terminals Inc. for the property.

A non-profit corporation would acquire the company's stock in exchange for $1.7 million in revenue bonds to be issued by the new corporation.

Revenues received by the corporation to operate the terminal would be used to pay operating and maintenance costs and to pay interest on the bonds.

Half of the remaining revenue would be used to pay off principal on the bonds and half would go to the Ports Authority. The bonds would be paid off after 20 years and the Ports Authority would acquire the property.

The plan must be approved by the U.S. Internal Revenue Service because interest on the bonds would be tax free.

Aviation Fuel Inc. stores gasoline brought into Morehead City by tanker for use by the federal government at air bases in North Carolina.

The Council of State and Gov. Hodges also approved an increase in the interest rate the state charges banks for deposits of North Carolina funds.

The boost — from 2 1/4 to 2 3/4 per cent — was approved on motion of State Treasurer Edwin Gill who cited an upsurge in the interest rate paid by the federal government on its short term securities.

The council approved an allocation of $52,877 from the contingency and emergency fund to operate the newly-created Water Resources Department and $2,000 to pay expenses of the Commercial Fisheries Advisory Board.

Airline Promises Improved Service In South For Route

WASHINGTON (AP) — Piedmont Aviation has promised prompt operation and frequent and faster service for a number of North Carolina cities if the Civil Aeronautics Board allows it to assume a Norfolk, Va., to Knoxville, Tenn., route.

After hearing considerable testimony on the revisions, the CAB took the case under advisement Wednesday. James S. Keith, an examiner for the federal agency, has recommended that Piedmont be given the route, now held by Capital Airlines.

Council for Capital told the CAB the company's financial situation would improve were it to abandon the route. He also asked the board to make Knoxville, Tenn., and Washington, D.C., terminals on its Route 51 if the revision is approved.

The present Capital route runs from Norfolk, Va., to Rocky Mount and Raleigh-Durham, N.C., with a segment north from Raleigh-Durham to Greensboro-High Point and Winston-Salem, Charlotte, Hickory and Asheville, N.C., then into Knoxville. Another segment south goes from Raleigh-Durham to Southern Pines-Pinehurst and Charlotte in North Carolina.

At the hearing, Rocky Mount spokesmen said Piedmont replacing Capital is the only proposal that would reasonably assure improvement of air service in Eastern North Carolina.

Meanwhile, the cities of Wilson and Greenville contended it would be unfair to certificate Rocky Mount for Piedmont service if that shuts off consideration of their application for adequate service. Wilson and Greenville, who are not on the proposed routes, requested the board for service convenient to both.

Trunk line service from Eastern Air Lines on its north-south flights was asked by the Raleigh-Durham Airport Authority. Greensboro, High Point and Charlotte authorities were concerned they might lose trunk line service in the replacement of Capital by Piedmont.

Piedmont could meet service at the Salisbury, N.C., airport, the Rowan County Commissioners claimed. They said they had no objections to missing the east-west route, if they could be on a north-south route.

Quick approval of Piedmont to replace Capital was urged by the Forsyth Airport Commission (Winston-Salem) and Hickory. Elizabeth City and the Pasquotank County Board of Commissioners said they would like daily round trips to Raleigh and Washington.

South Carolina's Aeronautics Commission requested approval of a Piedmont application for a Washington - to-Atlanta run with segments including Columbia and Florence. The commission also said Eastern is the only line which could provide service for the South Carolina cities of Spartanburg, Greenville, Anderson, Columbia, Florence and Charleston to Norfolk.

Family Worship To Be Stressed In Final Service

Family worship, both at church and at home, will be this evening the emphasis of the final service of the Lutheran Evangelical Mission, conducted this week at Clark's Funeral Chapel, 1208 Dickinson Ave.

Rev. Jack E. Smith, pastor of St. Mark's Lutheran Church, Asheville, will conclude in a service at 7:30 p.m. his series of sermons on the theme "His Cross-Your Hope" by preaching a sermon entitled "The Basic Unit." Families attending are requested to sit together.

Tomorrow evening, families of the congregation are requested to conduct "Family - Worship - At - Home," using the guide which will be available at the Service this evening. To help families who are just beginning to conduct family devotions, the Miner Brotherhood family will this evening conduct a demonstration of "Family Worship-At-Home." The public is invited to attend both the Service this evening and regular Sunday worship, 11 a.m., Clark's Chapel.

Moore, along with the 13 additional heads and 33 assistants, has gone through a program of training and orientation of duties involved in his position.

The total of 47 graduate students who are serving as dorm counselors this year is an expansion from last year's total of 33.

High Rating For School Paper

FARMVILLE — Farmville High School's student newspaper, "News 'N' Views," has been awarded a first-class honor rating by the National Scholastic Press Association, according to Fred K. Kildow, director of the association.

The first-class rating is compared to "excellent" and second only to the All-American honor rating, reserved for the top publications in the first-class group. Only 14 other newspapers in the United States, entered under Farmville's classification, received the first-class award.

Billy Walker, FHS senior from Fountain, is editor of the local student publication which has also received a pair of first-class ratings from the Columbia Scholastic Press Association during the past two years.

Judging the NSPA publications were professional journalists with extensive backgrounds in newspaper work. Other honor ratings offered were second-class (good to very good) and third-class (fair to good). No honor rating was given fourth-class publications.

The NSPA ratings will appear in the November issue of "Scholastic Editor" magazine. Farmville will receive its first-class honor rating certificate in six to eight weeks.

Declare Jordan 'Massing Troops'

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP)—The Syrian press said today Jordan has massed between 8,000 and 9,000 soldiers along the frontier of the Syrian region of the United Arab Republic.

Political observers expressed the belief that these movements were a prelude to a demand by Jordan that a U. N. Emergency Force be dispatched to the 200-mile Syrian-Jordanian frontier to guard against an outbreak between the two countries.

Mahatma Gandhi's real name was Mohandas Karamchand Gandhi. Mahatma is a Brahmin title meaning "Great Soul" which was given him.

During the concluding session Wednesday afternoon, women of the Presbyterian church meeting here awarded a life membership to Mrs. W. W. McGinn of Steele's Creek Presbyterian Church in Charlotte.

Mrs. McGinn is a past Synodical chairman of church extension and has taught Synodical training school several times.

The women also installed five officers newly elected yesterday. They included Mrs. Archie Howard of Shannon, first vice president; Miss Mary Black of Davidson, historian; Mrs. Henry R. Poole of Lexington, church extension; Mrs. Adolf Otersen of Wilmington, general fund agencies; and Miss Mary Currie of Wallace, stewardship chairman.

Other officers will continue to serve until their terms expire. The women of the Church, Synod of North Carolina, Presbyterian Church in the United States, elect officers according to a rotation system. Mrs. Lacy Godwin of Fayetteville is their president.

Mrs. H. H. Bryant of Greenville was appointed to the Board of the Synodical Training School.

Mrs. Bryant, with Mrs. W. E. Roseveare, has served as co-chairman of the steering committee of the local Women of the Church, First Presbyterian Church.

Mrs. I. B. Koonce has been in charge of publicity.

No Longer Can Fly Without Net

PARIS (AP)—The days when the man on the flying trapeze could stun crowds by risking his life 50 feet from the ground with no net underneath are over in France.

The Official Journal today made it illegal to perform more than 15 feet above the ground without either a net or a security belt tied to the dome.

Not Amused By Knife-Throwing

BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP) — The Hungarian television service was rash enough the other night to feature a knife-throwing act.

Magyar Nemzet, the organ of the Peoples Patriotic Front, was not amused.

"These people think they are doing something fine, superior, elevating and clever," it said.

"The broadshouldered young man throwing the knives might not be unsuitable for other careers, such as mining bauxite or operating on appendicitis cases."

Fabulous Energies, Sums Needed For Study

(Editor's note: Like the probing of outer space, the study of the inner universe, the atom, requires tremendous outlays of energy and money. But, again as in space exploration, the rewards are as great as the costs.)

AP Science Writer
Rockets to explore outer space demand tremendous energy. So also it takes tremendous energy to explore the inner universe of atoms, using protons and electrons as the main "rockets." Speed them up with successive kicks of electricity and they can be sent crashing into atomic nuclei at nearly the speed of light. Electrons also can serve as a kind of microscope actually to "see" and measure individual particles in the nucleus: Since World War II, physicists here, in Russia, Europe and elsewhere have built atom-smashers leapfrogging up to fabulous energies. Knowledge learned is freely shared. The United States now has the most powerful accelerator at Brookhaven National Laboratory, firing protons at energies of 31 billion electron volts (BEV). This is triple Russia's strongest machine, but the Soviets propose one of 50 to 70 BEV. There are some reports they are already building it.

Rewards in knowledge are great. So are costs. Through the Atomic Energy Commission and other agencies, the government this year is spending almost 60 million dollars in this research. Projected plans and machines call for 135 million by 1965 — less than a third of the sum now spent annually to store surplus grain and far less than the costs of exploring outer space. It can cost three to six million a year to operate one of the big brute machines, mostly for electric power, maintenance, special equipment and experimental devices.

Electronic Kick
One main way of accelerating particles is with a few big electrical kicks along a straight line tube—the linear accelerator. The other is to whirl them around many thousands of times, slingshot fashion, with thousands of small electrical kicks. These are the synchrotrons and synchrocyclotrons.

The particles race through hollow tubes, evacuated of air. Electromagnets around or beside the tube keep the particles curving within the tube until loosed upon the target.

The machines must produce millions and billions of "bullets" each second. Otherwise, trying to score a hit on the tiny atomic nucleus would be like firing a rifle bullet at a gnat miles away.

The first slingshot, the cyclotron, was developed early in the 1930's by the late Dr. Ernest O. Lawrence at the University of California. Its energy was only 90 thousand electron volts. (An electron volt is the energy one electron, or one proton, picks up in falling across one volt potential difference.)

Energies increased with new machines and designs. In 1952 came the 3 BEV Cosmotron at Brookhaven.

In 1955 the 6.2 BEV Bevatron whirred into action at the University of California. It, like the Cosmotron, was based on a new idea of Dr. Edwin McMillan of California for controlling electrical frequency to push the bullets to higher energy. Russia's V. I. Veksler independently had the same conception.

The Bevatron pushed deeply into the unclear frontier, finding among other knowledge the anti-proton, anti-neutron and anti-lambda particles.

Russia has a 10 BEV proton synchrotron, built with 36,000 tons of costly magnetic steel.

Brookhaven's new 31 BEV synchrotron, using a new principle of magnetic focusing, sends protons around a half-mile track 300,000 times within a second, yet its magnets weigh only 4,000 tons.

In Switzerland, a similar machine of 28 BEV has been operated nearly a year now by the 12-nation European Organization for Nuclear Research (CERN).

Both machines can produce all the particles of the nuclear zoo. Most importantly, they can produce streams of them. So the newer particles can be studied intensely, or sent banging into other targets, to learn better what "cages" these "animals" belong in and how they relate to one another.

Building at Argonne National Laboratory near Chicago is a 45 million dollar 12.5 BEV machine which will produce a richer harvest of many of these particles.

Power for 70,000 Homes
Operated continuously, it would use enough electric power to light and run 70,000 homes. The great machines, in fact, often do run day and night, with experiments performed by professors and scientists from nearby universities and centers.

This opportunity for research strengthens universities, for top-notch teachers then are not so tempted to move to distant places where they can take part in this exciting research, Argonne's Dr. Albert Creve points out.

Here and abroad, literally scores of accelerators are at work. Regardless of size, each can contribute vital facts concerning the inner universe.

Linear accelerators are equally workhorses of this research. At Stanford, for example, electrons from the 1 BEV linear accelerator have been used as a microscope to determine the size, shape and other properties of the proton, neutron and electron in research by Dr. Robert Hofstadter and associates. Clues come from the manner in which electrons bounce off their infinitesimal targets.

From this work, protons appear to be like fuzzy peaches, soft on the outside, hard on the inside. Now with a $500,000 magnetic spectrometer, the scientists hope to push deeper into the cores of protons and neutrons, and check fundamental theories about the nucleus and its binding forces.

Stanford and Princeton scientists are cooperating in building a new device to make two electron beams collide and to check theories about laws governing atoms and the nucleus. Electrons from the present machine will collide with energies equivalent to that from a 1,000 BEV linear accelerator.

To open another frontier, Stanford scientists have proposed a two-mile long linear accelerator producing 10 to 45 BEV energies. It would cost about 107 million.

Beams in Collision
At the University of Wisconsin, the Midwestern Universities Research Assn. is building small models for a proposed 15 BEV synchrotron which would collide two beams of protons, at energy equivalent to one 540 BEV accelerator, to investigate deeper secrets of the proton.

In cosmic rays from space, nature showers down particles reaching energies of millions to a billion BEV. Balloons carrying special photographic plates are sent 20 miles or more high to record their hits and new data about the atomic nucleus.

At the California Institute of Technology, Dr. Carl D. Anderson and associates are constructing special new counters and cloud chambers to capture and study in the laboratory some of the explosive and revealing "events" created by cosmic rays.

With genius and tools, the search proceeds to make sense of all the particles, and four forces known so far to be involved in the inner universe. These forces are:

1. The "strong" forces binding atomic hearts together.
2. Electromagnetic forces within the atom, 100 times weaker.
3. The "weak" reactions which determine how any particle changes or decays into other particles — this is perhaps 10 billion times weaker than the electromagnetic forces.
4. Much weaker still, the gravitational force.

"Only through these four forces does any particle in the universe know anything about the presence of any other particle, and so to be influenced by it," Dr. Creve explains.

But therein lies a key to the whole universe.

Nature probably is simpler in her grandeur than now appears from the array of particles and physical laws so far understood, says Dr. Geoffrey Crew of California, one of the theoretical physicists puzzling over the entire problem. Present theories may have to be revised.

The need, as Dr. Oppenheimer has expressed it, is for discovery of a principle of "immense sweep and simplicity."

Perhaps, says one physicist, the answer may come from some bright kid, in high school now, who manages to glimpse and understand the whole beautiful pattern.

Advices Fans To Be There Early

RALEIGH — "Come and get parked early" was the word from Highway Patrol Capt. Richard H. Chadwick on the eve of Saturday's State-Carolina clash at Chapel Hill.

The patrol officer, who each fall directs the "get 'em in and out safely" traffic operation, said that 65 state troopers will be at the game site to assist motorists. He predicted probably the season's largest turnout with "most of them coming from the east."

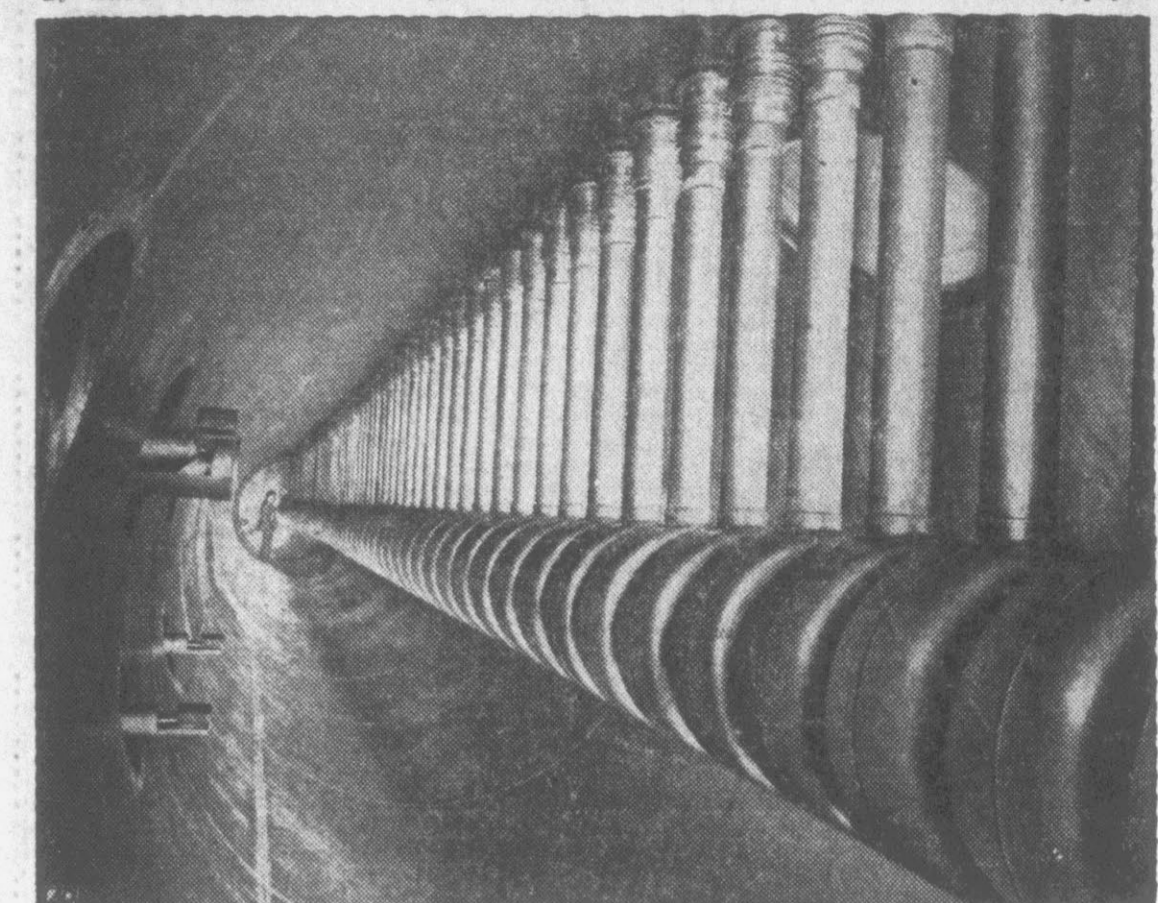

Chadwick urged game bound fans to leave home in ample time to arrive and get parked safely. Kick off time is 2:00.

He said that adequate parking facilities are available but that curbside spaces would vanish well before the kick off. Fans are requested to pay close attention to signals from patrolmen and to park promptly as directed.

The annual State-Carolina game is expected to draw upwards of 40,000 fans, according to school officials.

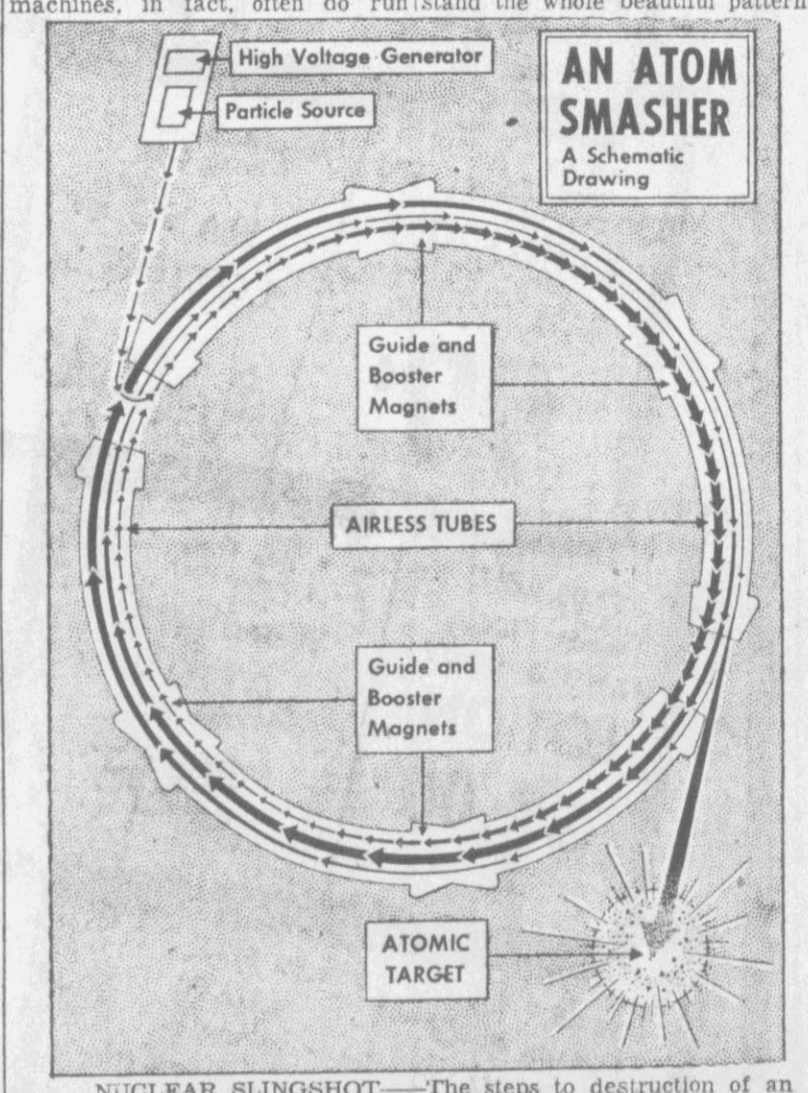

Chadwick said that no one way traffic plan would be in effect Saturday unless unexpected developments required it. In this event, he said, one way traffic would be effective only from Glen Lennox to the campus.

He also issued the customary warning against speeding, following too closely and drinking drivers.

ATOMIC 'GUN BARREL'—The immense size of the equipment needed to crack the tiny atomic nucleus is graphically illustrated in this photograph of the interior of a new type atom smasher at the University of California. The man standing at the end of the atomic 'gun barrel' is dwarfed by the doughnut-shaped 'drift tubes' through which heavy fragments of matter are hurled.

Schenley

NUCLEAR SLINGSHOT—The steps to destruction of an atomic nucleus are diagrammed in this greatly simplified schematic drawing of an atom smasher. Particle "bullets" are fed into an airless tube, guided by electromagnets and accelerated by booster magnets to speeds approaching that of light. Then they are hurled at the atomic target, splitting its nucleus and releasing its tremendous power.

REFUSES TO PAY

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—Cuba's Fidel Castro was dunned Wednesday for a $73.80 hotel bill run up by the father of Miss Cuba in the 1959 Miss Universe contest. The Lafayette Hotel assistant manager, Joe Ross, said the Cuban consulate here guaranteed and then refused to pay the bill of Jose Angel Buesa, father of Irma Buesa, Miss Cuba in 1959. Ross said he mailed the bill to Castro in New York.

CAMERA Angles

LADDERS AWAY—Dramatic action of firemen was shot by camera fan Norberto Rivera, a wheelchair patient from Goldwater Hospital, Welfare Island, New York.

By IRVING DESFOR AP Newsfeatures

Dense smoke billowed out of the old brick building as a company of firemen brought up hoses and a ladder. Firefighters climbed to strategic positions, streams of water shot out and gradually the situation was brought under control.

Through it all, a photographer, immobile in a wheelchair, followed the action through his camera viewfinder, snapping away as fast as he could turn the film. It was an exciting series of pictures for the wheelchair camera fan—but not of front page caliber.

There were 20 other equally handicapped photographers who were guests of New York City's fire commissioner at a special Fire Department training drill. The program was arranged by Volunteer Service Photographers, an organization which brings photographs to shut-ins in 46 hospitals and rehabilitation centers in six states.

The photographic field day for chair-borne and stretcher-bound photo fans is the latest exploit in the 20-year history of VSP. It marks the start of its fall program.

Here are some of the things VSP does to achieve its program: It gives instructions to hospital patients in basic photography, lighting techniques, developing, printing, enlarging, making exhibition prints and photo coloring.

It trains its volunteers in hospital techniques and procedures for bed, wheelchair and ambulatory patients.

It provides hospitals with volunteers, photographic equipment, advice on rehabilitation photography and on constructing photo labs designed for different types

Former Banker Is Enrolled As UNC Freshman

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — Robert L. Cherry, a banker until his resignation a few years ago, has enrolled in the University of North Carolina as a freshman.

"I'm doing this purely to gratify my own personal desires," says the white-haired, 57-year-old former executive vice president of the Charlotte branch of the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond, Va.

"There could be all sorts of grand and glorious sounding reasons for this venture, but quite honestly, I want a degree because I think I will enjoy the process necessary to get it."

Cherry moved his wife and two children—12-year-old Lillian and 9-year-old Jim—into a Chapel Hill apartment and began the school's orientation program this week. "It's an education in itself just to learn your way around this campus," says Cherry, who has waited 40 years to begin his college education and has been planning it for 10 years.

"When I graduated from high school in Richmond," Cherry explains, "circumstances were such that I had to go to work. After working for five years, I again considered college, but my responsibilities had grown and I had to delay college until now."

Cherry, a native of Woodville in Bertie County, went to Charlotte when that branch of the Federal Reserve was opened in 1927. He remained in that branch until he resigned a year ago. Since then, he fulfilled one ambition by traveling extensively in Europe with his family. While in Europe, the children attended school in Switzerland.

A month ago, the Cherry's returned so that he could begin to fulfill his other ambition for a college education. "My wife, particularly, is delighted that I have begun college," Cherry says. "The former banker wants an A.B. degree from UNC, probably with a major in history 'gut it is a little early to say.'"

Beyond college, he has no definite plans.

"It is enough to enjoy college," Cherry adds. "After I get my degree, then I will think of that."

The motto "In God We Trust" first appeared on U. S. coins in 1864.

Tobacco Tips

By S. J. WEEKS, Pitt County Tobacco Agent

It is often difficult for all farmers to get their tobacco fields fumigated for nematode control early enough to prevent injury when it is applied in the spring. Some farmers have inquired about the possibility of fumigating in the fall. Row method of application in the fall would not give satisfactory results, but effective results can be obtained in the fall when broadcast application is used, provided the fumigant is applied properly.

Soil preparation is very important, regardless of which season the fumigant is applied. The soil should be free of undecayed roots, stalks, turf, and other debris where the fumigant is applied in order to seal the fumigant in the soil. For example, it would be very difficult to apply a fumigant in the fall in a field in which corn was grown this year. On the other hand, a field that was left idle could probably be conditioned for fumigation in time for a fall application. This would require early discing and breaking so that the organic matter could properly decay.

The soil temperature at six inches depth at the time of application should be between 40 degrees and 80 degrees F., preferably between 50 and 70 degrees F. If you do not have a soil thermometer, a tobacco curing thermometer could be used to determine the soil temperature.

The soil should be in good tilth when the fumigant is applied. It should be neither too wet or too dry. The best results can be expected when there is just enough moisture in the soil for planting seeds.

There are some possible advantages of fall application of fumigants, (1) you are sure of getting the job done regardless of the moisture conditions in the spring. (2) Fumigant injury should be less than when the tobacco is transplanted soon after application in the spring.

Remember the fumigant should be well sealed in the soil if you expect to get good results, regardless of the time of application.

Catches Fish Two At A Time

ALEXANDRIA, Minn. (AP) — Ray Shipwash, veteran Alexandria angler, has a fish story that's hard to top, and he has a witness to back him up.

Shipwash caught his limit—six bass—in three casts on Long Lake near here. He fished for quite a while without any action, then moved to a weedy area and got a sharp strike. He feeled in and found two bass hooked to the plug.

Several casts later the same thing happened. On the very next cast, Shipwash said, he got another bass duo, giving him the limit. Two of the fish weighed over three pounds.

Better To Store Grain On Farm

By S. C. WINCHESTER
County Agricultural Agent

With a 1960 corn crop that is estimated to yield 88.2 million bushels in North Carolina, farmers in Pitt County will find it profitable to store corn on the farm rather than take the low harvest season price. Approximately 40 percent of the corn crop will move out of state at harvest only to be purchased later in the year. The principle reason for this is inadequate commercial and farm storage. The milling and feed industries in North Carolina do not have sufficient storage facilities to buy their yearly needs at harvest; consequently, they are anxious to have a steady supply of good quality corn moving through their plants throughout the year.

The question of how to hold corn on the farm in good quality can be easily answered even though field shelling has caused problems with high moisture.

The first step is to provide a strong and tight grain building. This storage building can be built from lumber on the farm or it can be a steel bin manufactured specifically for grain storage. During the past several years approximately 10 million bushels of metal bin grain storage have been added on North Carolina farms. The majority of these bins have been paid for in three years because of the increase in price of grain that occurs six to eight months after the harvest season. Nowhere near an adequate amount of grain storage has been provided in Pitt.

The second step in assuring quality grain would be to have available some grain conditioning equipment. Unless grain moisture content is as low as 12 percent, the grain must either be turned periodically or cooled by use of a fan to prevent moisture accumulating or condensing in the building. This problem is commonly called "sweating." With an aeration or cooling fan, grain can be held safely in storage at a moisture content of 13.5 percent. The fans should be started as soon as the temperature of the outside air is as much as 10 deg. F. below the grain temperature in storage. During the late fall or early winter months, the temperature of the grain can be reduced to 40 deg. to 50 deg. In a tight bin, the grain will then remain cool until the following summer. At this temperature insect activity will be stopped.

The third step would be to occasionally check the temperature and moisture content of the grain in storage. A grain probe is an inexpensive item which can reveal the condition of the grain deep within the bin. A moisture meter is available at the county ASC office and at local grain storage facilities.

Grain drying equipment may be a part of the storage bin, or drying may be done in a separate operation. With the drying unit attached to the storage bin, the fan can be used for aerating grain during cool, dry weather.

Additional information on setting up new grain storage and grain drying equipment is available in the county agricultural agent's office.

It is recommended that growers harvest their corn as early as practical to keep damage from the recent hurricane to a minimum. Should wet weather develop with corn in contact with the ground, damage could take place rapidly.

ECC Yearbook Staff Organizes

Kenneth K. Kilpatrick of Hendersonville, editor of the "Buccaneer," student yearbook at East Carolina College, has announced that work on the annual began this week with 70 students organized to carry out various duties on the editorial and business staffs. "The 1961 Buccaneer," Kilpatrick stated, "is being planned as the largest and most colorful annual that East Carolina has ever had."

Heading the staffs of the yearbook, in addition to Kilpatrick, are Walter C. Faulkner of Henderson, assistant editor; Bobby B. Sasser of Rt. 2, Goldsboro, sports editor; Roland A. Smith of Greenville, assistant sports editor; William K. Willis of Greenville, business manager; and Gale Koonce of Rocky Mount, assistant business manager.

Photography for the "Buccaneer" will be done by professional companies. Portrait pictures of students and faculty members are now being made at the college. The taking of campus scenes and of student organizations and activities began in the summer and will continue until the publisher's deadline.

The yearbook, financed by the Student Government Association, will be distributed late in the spring to all students attending the college.

Phantoms Vs. Kinston Here Tomorrow

By JOHNNY HUDSON
Reflector Sports Editor

Greenville's football Phantoms will be turned loose like a pack of hungry wolves Friday night with local fans hoping to see them devour their prey, Kinston, in a mighty gulp.

Coach Bud Phillips of Greenville hopes his club will be set on an evening last year's final game upset but Coach George Thompson of Kinston has tooled of the warning horn that his Red Devils, despite two early defeats, won't be easy prey. As both coaches readily agreed, records and early season performances can usually be tossed out the window in the meetings of these arch-rivals. Predictions and paper clippings mean very little when the actual combat begins.

In the final brace of games, Greenville, thin in conference football laurels in past years, has been a rearing, tearing piece of football machinery. Phillips is hoping this same percentage of successful exuberance will be retained for the season and especially tomorrow night.

In two games, the Phants have scored 40 points while limiting their foes to only seven. The two victories, coming over Jacksonville (21-7) and Ahsokie (19-0), are already pleasant memories for the Phants and the rewards have been to their likings.

Ability to churn out the yardage on the ground and to toss the ball when the defense becomes dishonest have been features of Phillips' 1960 club. Also in their ranks, has been the talent to break the game wide open with the long pulsating dash or pass.

Phillips plans nothing new for the Lenoir County visitors. "We know we will have to play a good ball game to beat them," he said.

The Greenville skipper pointed to the close game Kinston gave Tarboro for three quarters in measuring his foe. "We expect them to be up for this game and we will have to go all out to win."

Only Tex Hooks, starting tackle, was expected to miss the conference combat. A virus kept him out of practice this week but may be available for spot service tomorrow night.

John Adams, fleet-footed halfback, worked in heavy gear yesterday and Phillips reported him ready for duty although he may still start with Billy James Friday night.

"We still have a lot of ailments and bruises from our game with Raleigh and our starting lineup is still indefinite," reported Thompson, the Kinston mentor. "We are a young club and lack experience but we think we have a squad which will improve with each game."

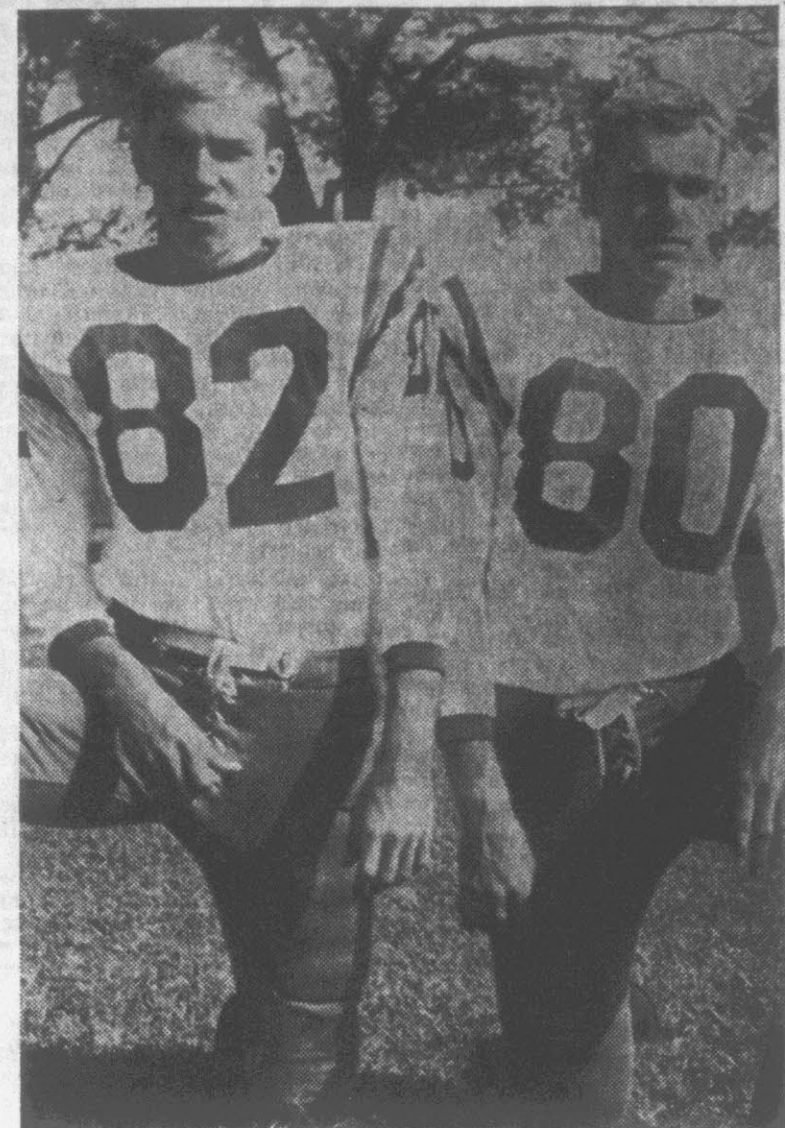

"We are looking forward to the Greenville game as a season within itself. We realize Greenville has its best club in some time but we aren't conceding anything," warned Thompson.

Thompson cited Greenville as one of the favorites in the conference but indicated his belief that no team would go undefeated. "Kinston, Washington and Roanoke Rapids are probably the doormats right now but if injuries don't hurt us too much we'll surprise a few clubs."

A couple of Kinston injuries, including the only veteran lineman, Charles Thomas, could play a large part in Greenville's home opener but just how bad the visitors are suffering won't be known until game time.

With Greenville on the conference warpath, a packed house is expected to crowd into College Stadium tomorrow night for the 8 o'clock kickoff. Rose High rosters have tabbed the battle as "Pill College Stadium Night."

DEPTH-DELUXE . . . Coach Bud Phillips can substitute with ease at his end positions when calling on Jack Foley and Richard Taft. Both are just sophomores but are billed for future stardom. The duo are slated to see action tomorrow night when Greenville meets Kinston here.

Robersonville, Ayden To Draw Top Billing In Loop

By JOHNNY HUDSON
Reflector Sports Editor

ROBERSONVILLE — Last fall Robersonville crushed Ayden 22-0 in a Coastal Conference football game but at the same time suffered an injury which sent them into a tailspin over the latter part of the season. Robersonville fans today were wondering what fate awaited them Friday night when they collide with a much tougher Ayden eleven.

Tommy Ward, a tailback who can run and pass with the best in the state, carries the burden of making the Robersonville single-wing click. "He has exceeded all expectations in running and passing," said head coach Bob Lee.

It was this same Ward that had Robersonville off to a flying start in 1959 but suffered a wrist injury in the Ayden game which eventually sent his club on the downhill trail.

Depth and overall strength isn't as strong for Robersonville this fall but Ward plus "some young boys with a remarkable spirit and desire" have produced a 38-7 win over Contentnea and a 6-6 tie with favored Williamson.

Lee can count only 16 boys on his active roster. "We have to save our scrimmage until Friday night," remarked the Robersonville mentor. "It has just been remarkable how these boys have worked thus far and the fine spirit they have shown."

Ward is expected to provide the biggest offensive fireworks but his running mates—Jimmy Brown and Charles Forbes—are also capable of picking up needed yardage. Forbes, the wingback, and lanky Bonnie Stevens are the prime passing targets of Ward. Stevens stands 6-4 and is a husky 200 pounder.

Coach Stuart Tripp, the Ayden tutor, will miss the full service of a couple of his backs. J. D. Wiloughby and Rudolph Cannon, but hopes his added depth will offset the loss. Jessie McGlohorn will step into the starting shoes at the vacant post, playing both offense and defense.

"We hope things are shaping up pretty good," noted Tripp last night. "We know we must stop Ward (Tommy) and their big end. I think we should be able to play on par with them."

Tripp was looking to Friday's combat as the barometer of his team's strength. "This is our first real test and we ought to know something after this game. If we can get by Robersonville, we should have a good season," pointed out Tripp.

Ayden won't be facing anything completely new in Robersonville's unbalanced single-wing. The Tornados also have a tab of the straight-snap formation mixed in with their multiple offensive attack.

Veteran backs Dinky Mills and Harold Edwards will feature the offensive game for the Tornados. Both have been standouts in previous wins over Havelock (27-6), Snow Hill (39-0) and Vanceboro (46-0).

On Ayden, Coach Bob Lee rendered plenty of respect. "We're worried about this game. They (Ayden) have several good boys and we know they can score from past games. We feel that if nobody gets hurt, we can give them a good game. We will try and be ready."

For Robersonville, a second conference victory would provide confidence to Lee's small squad. On the other hand, Ayden, bent on making its conference brethren pay for some rough lickings in 1959, could carve another niche in its 1960 comeback story.

Eppes Drills On Offense For Friday's Battle

Eppes High completed rough work for H. B. Sugg of Farmville last night with a one-hour scrimmage session under the lights.

Coach Percy Daniels and his coaching staff stressed offense in the workout and praised the running of halfback Willie Blount. Defensively, James Taft drew praise from the Eppes skipper.

Daniels reported that work will be completed tonight with work on pass defense and punt drills. He noted that the punting of Freddy Watson has been one of the assets of his club so far.

"Watson's punting kept Jacksonville in the hole all night last week," he reported.

Eppes and Farmville will be meeting for the first time Friday night and Daniels noted "we are expecting a rough night". The meeting is being billed as the Pitt County Classic.

The Bulldogs are in good physical condition and will go into the game with the slight edge although both clubs are unbeaten in two games.

Probable starting lineup for the Bulldogs tomorrow night will be as follows:

Ends—James Tyson, Calvin Gatlin
Tackles—Nathan Cromwell, Dalton Davis
Guards—Jesse Holiday, Alton
Center—Levon Little
Quarterback—Freddy Watson
Halfbacks—Larry Hardy, Willie Adams
Fullback—Marvin Anderson

The New York Rangers played their first hockey game on Nov. 17, 1926, defeating the Montreal Maroons 1-0.

Walter Blum, with 61 winners, took jockey honors during Monmouth Park's 1960 meeting of 50 days.

Army Club Void In Reserves And Stars

By JACK CLARY
Associated Press Sports Writer

WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP) — It's a very average football team that will take the field in the nine remaining games for Army this year. But it may also turn out to be the toughest, most spirited club they've seen up here in many a year. And one that could better its 4-1-1 1959 record if the injury bug passes by.

Coach Dale Hall said today, "our team has no depth and no stars."

Going down Army's lineup, it is hard to find anyone past guard Al Vanderbusch who excelled last year when injuries racked up a fine squad.

"We are two deep at every line position and this alleviates some worry," Hall said.

His backs include Tom Blanda at quarterback, George Kirschenbauer and Glen Adams at halfback and Al Rushak at fullback. Adams was the No. 1 signal-caller until halfbacks Roger Zalskas and Pete King went on the injured list shortly before Army's 37-0 inaugural victory over Buffalo last Saturday.

Army's backs have more experience after having been forced to play so much last year, Hall said. "And they're just those good solid backs, not super stars."

They'll have to be very solid to face a strong Boston College

Burford Looking For Hank Bout

CHICAGO (AP) — The next fight for Ernest Burford of Memphis, whose manager is Mary Jensen, may be with Henry Hank, a ranking middleweight.

"Each has beaten each other once and I think a rubber match would be a good one," said Jensen.

son, who also pilots Gene Fullmer, the National Boxing Assn. middleweight king. "But when, or where, it could be is a question."

Burford, 155, and Ace Armstrong of Elizabeth, N. J., 157, fought to a 10-round draw in Chicago Stadium Wednesday night.

It was the next to last nationally televised Wednesday night fight in the series that started when Bobo Olson beat Australian Dave Sands in 1951.

The series will end next Wednesday in Chicago Stadium with a 10-round heavyweight encounter between Cleveland Williams and Harold Johnson.

Groat Still In Running For NL Player Of Year

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Just about every one you meet in these parts is convinced that Dick Groat, the shortstop and captain of the Pittsburgh Pirates, is the National League's player of the year for 1960.

Mention such names as Ernie Banks of the Chicago Cubs or Willie Mays of the San Francisco Giants and they give you that disdainful stare which you interpret as meaning "Where have you been all year?" Banks and Mays are good, they acknowledge, but neither has made the over-all contributions to his team this year that Groat has.

Joe Brown, the youthful general manager of the pennant-bound Pirates, asks: "Where would we be without him?"

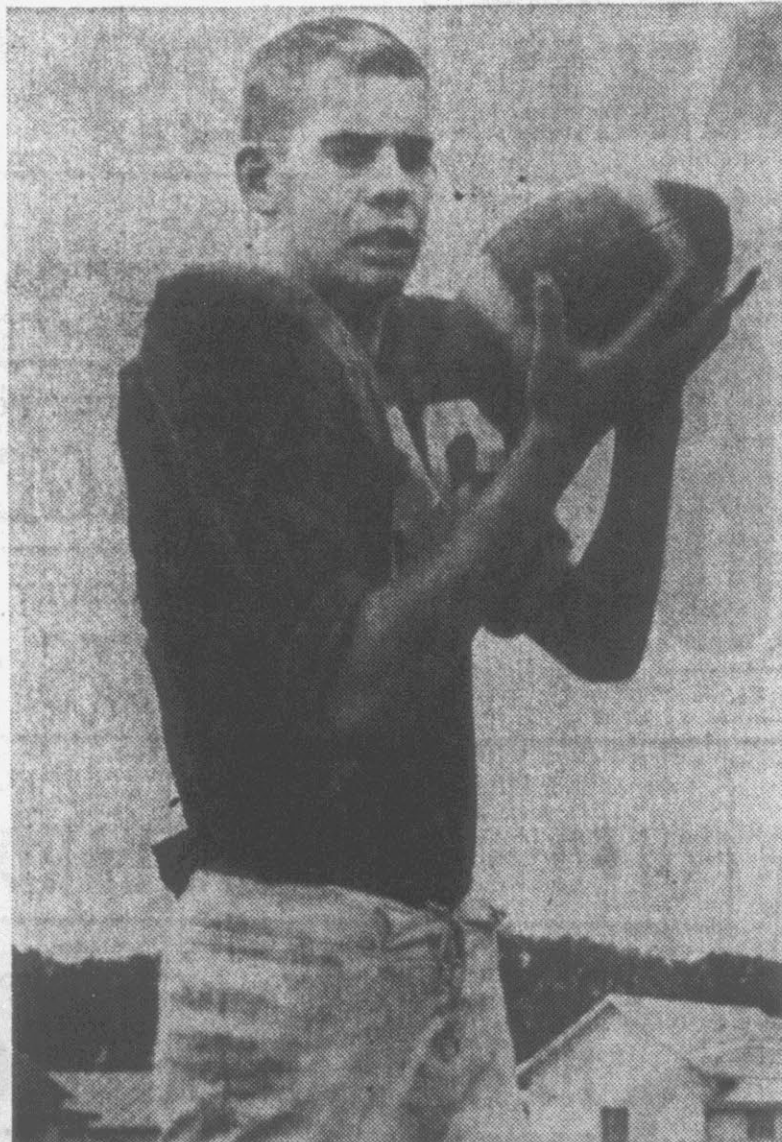

Danny Murtagh, the quiet, almost unobtrusive manager of the Bucs, says: "Groat? He's the guy who's held us together."

"We wouldn't be where we are without him," declares Harvey Haddix, the club's star southpaw. "Until he was hurt, he was instrumental, in one way or another, in virtually every one of our victories."

The lone dissenter is Groat.

"It's not fair to the rest of the club to single out one player and say he has been most responsible for winning the pennant," said Groat. "If we win, and I think we will, it will be strictly a team victory."

With a 90-55 record and nine games to play the Pirates can clinch their first flag since 1927 with four victories no matter what the second place St. Louis Cardinals do. Two victories are needed to eliminate the third place Milwaukee Braves.

LANKY END . . . Ted Norris of Ayden will be counted on to help bring the Tornados a fourth straight victory tomorrow night against Robersonville. The game will be the top affair in Coastal Conference warfare.

First Round Scheduled Today

OSTERVILLE, Mass. (AP) — The sixth annual U.S. Seniors Amateur Golf Tourney, delayed by rain for two days, still was under a cloudy today as the 32 qualifiers started the first round of match play.

Defending champion J. Clark Espie Jr. stalked off the Oyster Harbors Club course in a huff Wednesday after a tiff with U.S. Golf Association officials running the tourney.

Espie, 62-year-old Indianapolis advertising executive who won the tourney in 1957 and 1959, disagreed with USGA officials over planned use of caddy carts for Saturday's 36 holes and withdrew from the tourney.

USGA officials said the electric carts, not normally permitted in USGA events, could be used because two rounds were scheduled Saturday. The tourney was delayed two days by rain. All entrants are 55 years or older.

Espie 79 over the par 36-36-72 layout was well under the cutoff score for qualifiers, 82, and placed him 15th among a field of 110 that competed for the 32 berths in the championship flight.

Stuart S. Rokey, a 65-year-old Los Angeles real estate appraiser, put together a pair of one-over-par 37s for medalist honors at 74, one stroke better than Ed Lowery, a veteran campaigner from San Francisco.

Venetian Way, winner of the 1960 Kentucky Derby, was purchased as a yearling in 1958 for $10,500.

Farmville Seeking Win Number Three In Tilt With Mt. Olive Friday

By J. Y. MONK III
Reflector Sports Reporter

Farmville High School hopes to unleash a stable of fast backs this Friday night when they travel to Mount Olive for an important non-conference football contest.

Expected to carry the mail for the Coastal Conference Red Devils will be Jimmy Pollard, Bobby Avery, Alex Corbett, and Danny Dilda, an all-conference performer of a year ago. Pollard and Avery are power runners while Dilda and Corbett are of the scaback variety. Dean Oglesby is counted on heavily to handle the signal-calling duties.

Anchoring the line for Farmville will be ends J. Y. Monk and Rex Hodges, tackles Ben Monk and Mitchell Cannon, guards Moses Moyer and Bobby Eason, and centers Todd Holmes and Jerry Bailey. Cannon, a husky 210 pounder, is rated by Red Devils Coach Elbert Moyer as one of the best class A linemen in the state.

In their first meeting last year, Mount Olive felled Farmville 13-6 in a hard fought and hotly-contested game. This was one of only two losses handed the 1959

Red Devils who finished the season with a 5-2-2 record and a tie for second place in the Coastal Conference standings.

Games played to date find Farmville holding victories over Snow Hill 38-0 and Lillington 20-7 while Mount Olive has defeated the Wilmington "B" team 33-12 and Class AA Shallotte 40-7. The Red Devils dropped a 7-6 decision to Contentnea in their second game when five regulars were out of action or ailing due to injuries. Mount Olive was tied by a strong LaGrange club 0-0 in their second contest.

Top emphasis in the Farmville camp this week has been placed on stopping the Mount Olive option play. It is their "bread and butter" play according to Coach Moyer and they run it about fifty per cent of the time.

The Red Devils attack is quite a contrast to the Mount Olive style as Farmville relies on the quick pitchout and quick handoff to outrun and overpower its opposition. Their passes are all executed off fake running plays in an attempt to catch the opposing team off guard.

National Grid Loop Ready For Official Opener

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

The new-look National Football League, confronted with competition at the turnstiles for the first time in a decade, inaugurates its 41st season Friday night as the St. Louis Cardinals invade Los Angeles for the official opener with the Rams.

Hopeful of cracking its attendance record for the ninth consecutive year despite the emergence of the competing American league, the NFL has expanded to 13 teams with the addition of the Dallas Cowboys, and shifted the Cardinals' franchise from Chicago in an attempt to strengthen the circuit.

The Cowboys, coached by former New York assistant Tom Landry, will raise the curtain on their NFL-stocked club Saturday night in the Cotton Bowl against the Pittsburgh Steelers.

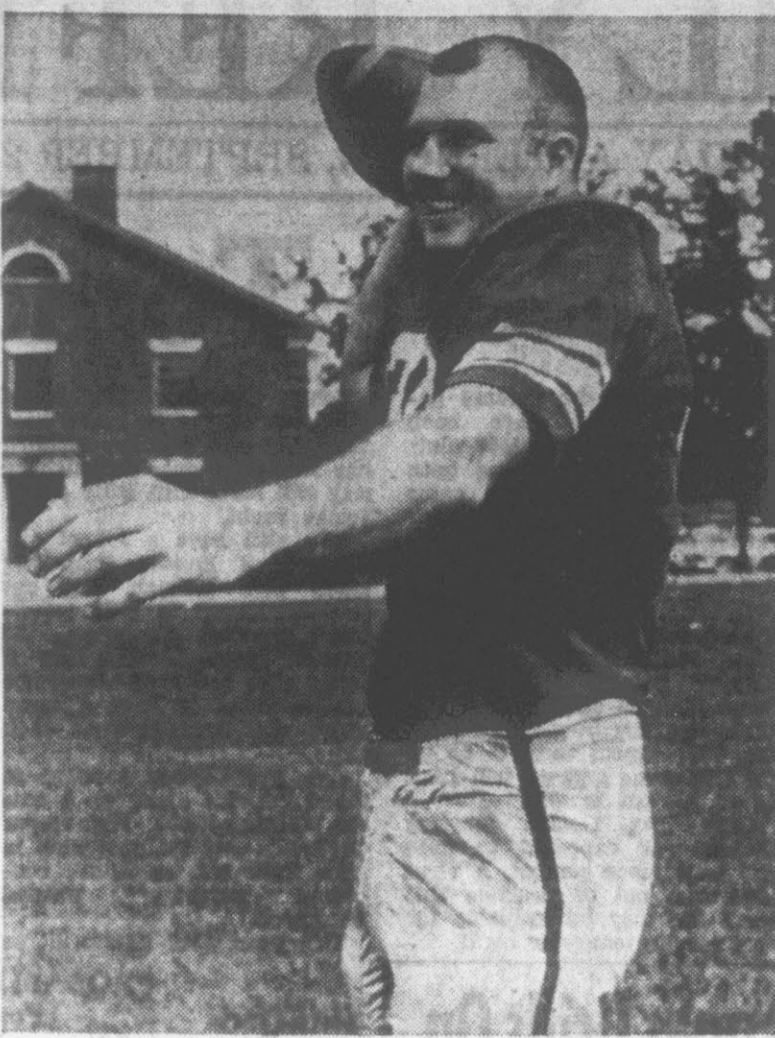

With the St. Louis-Los Angeles and Dallas-Pittsburgh games getting the spotlight treatment on separate days, the NFL pushes its main cast of stars on stage Sunday with a four-game program.

The Washington Redskins will meet the defending champion Colts in Baltimore, Eastern Division titlist New York is at San Francisco, Cleveland tackles the Eagles at Philadelphia and Green Bay hosts the Bears, now the lone Chicago representative.

Under the 13-club arrangement—Minneapolis-St. Paul is scheduled to balance the league in 1961—one team will be idle each week. Detroit sits out the first one.

The well-established and financially successful NFL will be in direct competition with the fledgling American league in four cities—Dallas, Los Angeles, New York and San Francisco, where the Oakland AFL club will play its home games.

Still the NFL has had tremendous advance ticket sales, and commissioner Pete Rozelle figures another attendance mark will be shattered. Last year 3,140,409 turned out for the 72 league games.

BRINGING TROUBLE for East Carolina College Saturday is Harold James of Guilford. A quarterback, James is regarded as a strong passer. He alternated in directing the Quakers' attack against Elon last Saturday.

Deacs Given Good Chance Of Ending Losing String

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A Wake Forest football team hasn't beaten Clemson in its last nine tries, but the Demon Deacons are given a good chance in some corners of upending the defending Atlantic Coast Conference champions this Saturday in Winston-Salem, N.C.

If the last two Clemson-Wake games can be any criterion, the 21,000 fans expected at Bowman Gray Stadium are in for a treat. Only four points—two each time—separated Clemson and Wake. And both times, Clemson was the ACC football champion.

Coach Billy Hildebrand, who inherited passing-whiz Norm Snead and a veteran team at Wake from Paul Amen, spent Wednesday sending his squad through its offensive plays then viewing movies of last year's 33-31 loss to Clemson.

Meanwhile, at Clemson, Coach Frank Howard kept his team on the drill field only an hour and a half. He said the Tigers had begun tapering off for Wake Forest. Howard last Clemson team to lose to Wake Forest was the 1949 edition, which fell to the Baptists, 35-21.

Tom Nugent, the Irishman who coaches Maryland football teams, can be a most optimistic person. He was in such a mood Wednesday when he made what he called his first prediction a football coach. Nugent told his Maryland team, "I predict that Don Van Reenan (No. 2 fullback) will score a touchdown Saturday against Texas and it will be a long run." The Terps play Texas in College Park, Md., seeking their second straight non-conference victory.

North Carolina was put through a rugged scrimmage as the Tar Heels gave down for Saturday's ACC inaugural, gainst arch-rival North Carolina State. Coach Jim Hickey aid the drill was lively, and added that the squad had completed rough work.

Meanwhile, in Raleigh, N.C., State stepped through a moderately rough workout with emphasis on defense. Coach Earle Edwards was informed that halfback Claude Gibson, injured in last Saturday's win over Virginia Tech, is responding to treatment and expected to play.

A light workout was planned in Durham, N.C., today for Duke's football team. Then the Blue Devils depart Friday for Columbia in Saturday's night opener with South Carolina. Coach Bill Murray started the pre-game training process for his squad Wednesday.

And at South Carolina, Coach Warren Giese ran the first three units through a review of offense and defense. "I like the condition of our team and its spirit," he said. South Carolina officials said they expect a crowd of 40,000 for the Duke game. Carolina Stadium in Columbia holds 43,000.

Virginia's offensive ackfield, Coach Dick Voris reports, is pretty well set. Expected to be in the top four for Saturday night's opener with William & Mary of the Southern Conference, are Sam Fischer at quarterback, Ted Rempel and Fred Tranter at fullback.

Hemus Has Last Laugh On Early Season Prophecy

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Solly Hemus had the last laugh on his prediction that his St. Louis Cardinals would be a pennant contender this season. Now his forecast that "We'll be improved in '61" can be taken as a warning.

The Redbird manager points out that his is essentially a young club that can reasonably be expected to improve.

"We started the season with a much different pitching staff than that with which we finished," Solly said. "You'll have to agree our pitching for 1961 holds more promise than it did before this season."

"Our defense is improved with Julian Javier at second base. The outfield is far from set but the acquisition of Walt Moryn helped a lot and this (Don) Landrum just might take (Curt) Flood's job in center field."

The Cardinals still have a mathematical chance for the pennant but it seemed proper to talk of 1961 after they ended their home season by losing 5-3 to the Los Angeles Dodgers in 12 innings Wednesday night.

By winning six of their last 10 games, all on the road, the Cards would finish with 89 victories, highest since the 1949 club won 96.

Teague: Long Way To Go For The Citadel

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

George Washington's Colonials entertain The Citadel Saturday night for one of two Southern Conference football games on tap this weekend and Bulldog Coach Eddie Teague says he can only hope his squad's attitude and hustle will "make up for some of the lack of experience and depth."

The Citadel clubbed little Newberry 19-0 in its opener last week, and Teague says that game "showed us we still have a long way to go."

"We were encouraged by the fact that our ball club made a minimum of the usual first game mistakes," says Teague, but he adds:

"We were somewhat disappointed in the timing and in the sharpness of our offense and we are somewhat discouraged by the over-all physical condition. However, most of this was brought on by a good aggressive Newberry team."

As for GW, Teague says he expects the Colonial "to be big and strong and we know that they will show us a varied offense and defense as opposed to Newberry. We will have to be in better physical shape than we are at the present to hold our own."

The Citadel worked out under the lights Wednesday night in their final rough drill of the week. Although all were in uniform Wednesday, Teague said Jim Reiney, Dan Coury, Doug Brines, Earley Eastburn and Tommy Edwards will not be available for full-time duty because of injuries.

Other Saturday games involving league teams, match Virginia Tech and West Virginia in Richmond's Tobacco Festival Game. Saturday night VMI goes to Buffalo, William and Mary takes on Virginia at Norfolk. Davidson is at Wofford and Furman goes to Tampa.

Furman will play without injured end Bill Newman, while halfback Bradley Fowler and guard Claude Davis also are nursing injuries.

Halfback Danny House, a converted end, returned to Davidson's drills after missing several days because of illness in his family. The Wildcats worked on defense and also their running offense.

Rogers Facing Stiff Opposition

PARRIS ISLAND, S.C. (AP)—It looks like Pfc. Phil Rodgers of San Diego, Calif., faces a stiff competitive battle in defense of his All-Marine golf title.

Going into the second round here today of the 6th annual All-Marine golf tournament, Rodgers found himself tied for the lead with Pfc. Ross Batzert, also of San Diego. Both shot 1-under par 71's Wednesday.

A stroke back at 72 were Pfc. Gerry Harmon of San Diego and Chief Warrant Officer P. A. Edmondson of Camp Pendleton, Calif.

In the senior division, Navy commanders Cecil Parrish and O. Ingvalstad, both of Parris Island, led with 79's. Gunnery Sgt.

E. J. Burd of El Toro, Calif., was in third place with an 80.

Maj. Doris Kleberger of Henderson Hall, Washington, D.C., had a three stroke lead in women's play. She shot an 88 Wednesday. Three-time women's title CWO Mary Thompson of San Diego had a 91.

Pittsburgh Gets Chance To Eliminate Braves; N.Y. Yankees Closer To Title

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Pittsburgh Pirates get a chance to eliminate the Milwaukee Braves and reduce their magic number over St. Louis to two today in a bid for their first National League pennant since 1927.

They play a doubleheader with the Chicago Cubs in the day's only major league action. The Cubs have won four in a row, sweeping twin bills from Cincinnati and Philadelphia.

Pittsburgh reduced its clinching combination to four although it Wednesday, when the Los Angeles Dodgers knocked off the second place Cardinals 5-3 in 12 innings. Any combination of Pittsburgh victories and St. Louis defeats totaling four locks it up for the Bucs.

The number is two over the third place Braves, who delayed the inevitable as Warren Spahn won his 21st with a 3-1 decision over Cincinnati in the only other NL game scheduled.

In the American League, the New York Yankees packed away nine unearned runs and beat Washington 10-3, gaining a 4½-game lead and reducing their magic number to five. Chicago's White Sox took over second place by beating Kansas City 7-2 while Boston spilled Baltimore to third, 4-1.

Singles by pinch-hitter Duke Snider, John Roseboro and Maury Wills gave the Dodgers two runs in the 12th at St. Louis after the Cardinals had tied it 3-3 on Bob Nieman's solo pinch home run in the ninth. Don Landrum homered for the Cards' first run, then tripped and scored the other.

Southpaw Johnny Podres, who gave up Nieman's homer, was the winner for a 13-12 record in his first relief appearance of the year. Ron Kline (4-9) was the loser in relief.

Spahn (21-9), who pitched his first no-hitter in his last start, gave up seven hits in this one, but did not walk a man.

Hank Aaron drove in two of Milwaukee's runs, capping a two-run third with a sacrifice fly, and then belting his 38th home run in the sixth off loser Jim O'Toole.

Since taking charge with that four-game, weekend sweep over Baltimore, the Yankees have rolled up 12 runs in two games and have won both—but only two of the runs, both homers by Mickey Mantle, were earned.

The Yankees took a 10-3 victory over Washington Wednesday with the help of nine unearned runs on four Senator errors.

It was the sixth straight win for the Yanks, and their 10th in 12 games, pushing them into a 4½-game lead over Chicago. The defending champion White Sox, who have eight games left, took over second place by beating Kansas City 7-2 Wednesday night after Boston had spilled Baltimore to third, beating the Orioles 4-1 behind Ike Delock's three-hit pitching, in the only other AL games scheduled. Any combination of New York victories and White Sox defeats totaling five clinches a 10th star for the Yankees' Casey Stengel, who would be John McGraw as the majors' all-time top pennant winner. The magic number is four over the Orioles, who trail by five with seven to play.

The Nevada bookmakers have conceded the flag to the Yankees, and have awarded the National League pennant to Pittsburgh, while making New York a 57 favorite over the Pirates in the World Series. The idle Bucs reduced their magic number to four when Los Angeles spilled second place St. Louis 5-3 in 12 innings. Milwaukee beat Cincinnati 3-1 a Warren Spahn won his 21st in the only other NL game scheduled. Mantle's 37th home run, in the fourth inning, was the Yankees first hit off loser Pete Ramos 11-16 of the Nats, who left when New York scored seven runs, all unearned, in the fifth.

Whitey Ford (11-9) was the winner, after giving up a solo home run by Earl Battey and trailing 3-0. It was the seventh consecutive time the southpaw veteran, listed for a pinch-hitter in the fifth, has failed to finish. Duke Mass mopped up with a two-hit relief job.

The White Sox beat the A's Bud Daley (15-15) with two-run homers by Minnie Minoso and Jim Landis. Herb Score (5-10) was the winner.

Delock, (9-9) a 33-year-old right-hander, allowed the Orioles nothing but singles, struck out seven and walked one. Baltimore's lefty Steve Barber (10-7) was the loser.

Khrushchev Plays Balcony Scene

By LEWIS GULICK
NEW YORK (AP)—New York, famed for its show business, had a new attraction today—a one-man performance played from a balcony.

The schedule for the new show was highly uncertain. It came on twice Wednesday, once in mid-afternoon and again in the early evening. Each time it lasted about three quarters of an hour.

But he left listeners in suspense as to whether he would actually be on hand for Eisenhower's speech. He professed not to know who the speakers would be.

At one point, the show jolted the usually impassive Soviet foreign minister, Andrei A. Gromyko. "Down with Gromyko," Khrushchev intoned. Then he made plain it was all in fun.

Commander of AFROTC Group

Cadet Lt. Col. George T. Ippock Jr. has been named new Group Commander of the 600th Detachment of the AFROTC East Carolina College Greenville, North Carolina.

Ippock, a senior in Industrial Arts at East Carolina, is looking forward to a career in the Air Force upon graduation next May.

He was born and raised in Greenville and graduated from Greenville High School in 1953. Now married and the father of a two year old son, he makes his home in Trenton, N. C.

As Group Commander, he is primarily responsible for the Cadet Corps which consists of some 255 cadets.

When asked how he thought the cadets would shape up this year, he replied, "We have an excellent group of cadets in the Corps this year, and they show much promise of growth and of becoming future Air Force officers."

DISCUSSES TRIP
CAIRO (AP)—President Nasser conferred today with U.S. Ambassador Frederick Reinhardt, presumably to discuss Nasser's trip to the U.N. General Assembly in New York.

Even the U.S. security men goggled in surprise when a shirt-sleeved Nikita Khrushchev first ambled onto the second-floor balcony jutting out from the mansion housing the Soviet delegation to the United Nations.

Khrushchev announced from the balcony he would go to the U.N. General Assembly meeting today, when President Eisenhower and others speak there, and Friday, when he himself addresses the group.

But he left listeners in suspense as to whether he would actually be on hand for Eisenhower's speech. He professed not to know who the speakers would be.

At one point, the show jolted the usually impassive Soviet foreign minister, Andrei A. Gromyko. "Down with Gromyko," Khrushchev intoned. Then he made plain it was all in fun.

At first glance Khrushchev looked like the 66-year-old he is, walking onto the balcony overlooking Park Avenue. He swung his head toward the newsmen and photographers who watch his residence around the clock, and he turned on a cherubic, toothy smile.

But the audience soon found out he was greased lightning mentally, able to get his points across with bulls-eye aim even though he needed an interpreter.

"I'm not seeing America. This is my America," Khrushchev shouted back to one questioner, gesturing at his balcony. "I'm under house arrest so what I can do is restricted." He referred to the U.S. order confining him to Manhattan, on security grounds.

Will he meet with Eisenhower? "Ask President Eisenhower."

Will he meet with Britain's Prime Minister Harold Macmillan expected here later? "If Macmillan wishes to see me I will never refuse. There should be talks."

Will American U2 pilot Francis Gary Powers be released by the Soviets before his 10-year sentence is up? "The trial is just over. It is much too early to talk about that."

Will the two captured fliers of the RB47 reconnaissance bomber shot down by the Soviets July 1 be tried as spies? "That's up to the prosecutors and investigators to decide."

What does he think of the two U. S. code specialists who recently defected to the Soviet Union? "I know them only in the way you know them," through their Moscow press conference. "But if they come to us they are very intelligent fellows."

When will the Soviets shoot a man into space? "Have patience. We will tell you."

Is there much difference between Khrushchev and Chinese Premier Mao Tse-tung on Communist ideology? "Ask Mao Tse-tung. I didn't talk to him about it. I don't think so."

Is Khrushchev ready to follow through on his call for complete disarmament? "I can immediately, as chairman of the council of ministers, sign an agreement to destroy all arms."

Does this mean acceptance of controls? "Why should there be any control if there is no need for any?"

Who does Khrushchev prefer to see win the World Series, the New York Yankees or the Pittsburgh Pirates? "I'm rooting for those who'll win."

Gromyko was the startled target of a Khrushchev joke when he returned in early evening from a French reception nearby.

"Good evening," Khrushchev shouted down at Gromyko as he emerged from a limousine. "Down with Gromyko," he said.

But Gromyko soon appeared on the balcony, then joined his boss who announced, "We're going to eat supper."

Khrushchev spoke derisively of hecklers and picketers, kept a block or more away by police. He needed no words at all to show what he thought about a reported attempt to assassinate him, he just gestured—with a righthand uppercut punch.

U. S. guards said afterwards that they had heard rumors of anti-Khrushchev plots but no actual attempt had been tracked down.

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP)—An earth tremor, accompanied by subterranean noises, shook Santiago and the adjoining region of central Chile Wednesday, but there were no reports of casualties or damage.

Prison Term Cancelled By Court On A Technicality

RALEIGH (AP)—Because the indictment was not drawn properly, the conviction of a McDowell County man on charges of writing and transmitting vulgar and obscene letters has been reversed.

The State Supreme Court handed down the opinion Wednesday, freeing Hezzie Robbins, 48, from a 29 to 24 month prison term.

Robbins, married and the father of two children, told the court he wrote the letters after he was inspired by "one of those little old dirty books."

The Supreme Court left the way open for the solicitor to prepare a new bill of indictment against Robbins.

The court also: Granted a new trial to Willard Turner, convicted in McDowell Superior Court of liquor violations.

The court said Judge W. K. McLean labeled Turner's brother-in-law an interested witness "improperly and prejudicially to discredit his testimony."

The court said that when a man risks criminal prosecution in order to testify for a relative the jury should not be instructed to be suspicious of the testimony.

2. Affirmed a ruling by Judge McClean who said a Rutherford County woman, Inez Gurley, did not have to serve a once-suspended sentence for liquor violations.

The woman was convicted of one offense and her one-year sentence was suspended. Later she was charged with similar violations and a Rutherford Recorders Court ordered the original suspended sentence into effect. However, the woman subsequently was cleared of the later charges.

3. Granted a new trial to Lawrence Lynch who was ordered to pay $5,250 to another man for injuries and property damage resulting from a Henderson County auto accident.

4. Granted a new trial to N. B. Revis because Judge W. Jack Hooks erred in reciting defense contentions to the Buncombe Superior Court Jury which convicted Revis of manslaughter.

5. Granted a new trial to Bobby Alexander Gurley because Judge McLean erred in his charge to the jury regarding criminal negligence when he was tried in McDowell Superior Court for manslaughter.

ed sentence for liquor violations. The woman was convicted of one offense and her one-year sentence was suspended. Later she was charged with similar violations and a Rutherford Recorders Court ordered the original suspended sentence into effect. However, the woman subsequently was cleared of the later charges.

3. Granted a new trial to Lawrence Lynch who was ordered to pay $5,250 to another man for injuries and property damage resulting from a Henderson County auto accident.

Canine Raffles Puzzles Grocer
NOGALES, Ariz. (AP)—Amalia Rojas has a smart dog—and her neighborhood grocer will swear to that.

The dog would enter the store, pick up a can of dog food and carry it outside where children would open it for him.

The grocer changed the location of his dog food display. Old Fido wasn't confused at all. He pranced to the new location and helped himself.

Police have been asked for a solution.

Pasture Brought To Their Cows
SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP)—More and more Onondaga County farmers are bringing the pasture to their cows instead of their cows to pasture.

This is because farmers are finding it harder to buy reasonably-priced grazing land, such as the competition from suburban and industrial expansion.

Fresh-cut forage is being delivered to herds daily. County Agricultural Agent Donald W. Hammond said the practice means additional work and cost for the farmer. But, he added, this is offset by more effective use of land, which means a higher milk return per acre.

Methodist Student Center To Be Dedicated Sunday

METHODIST STUDENT CENTER . . . to be dedicated in ceremonies Sunday by Bishop Paul N. Garber.

The Methodist Student Center, corner of East Fifth and Holly streets, will be dedicated in a special ceremony on Sunday, September 25, at 12:30 p.m., by Bishop Paul N. Garber, bishop of the Richmond Area of the Methodist Church.

Bishop Garber will arrive in Greenville in time for an Informal Reception at the Methodist Student Center, from 8:00 to 10:30 o'clock on Saturday evening, September 24. The Local Committee of the Student Center is inviting all members of the two Methodist Churches and friends of the Church to meet Bishop Garber at this time.

The Dedication ceremony will take place at the Methodist Student Center at 12:30 a.m. on Sunday, Dr. A.J. Hobbs will preside at the Ceremony. The Act of Presentation will be made by Mrs. H.C. Turlington, President of the Women's Society of Christian Service of the North Carolina Conference; The Scripture will be read by the Rev. C.F. Hirsch, Pastor of St. James Methodist Church; The Responsive Reading will be led by the Rev. W.M. Howard, Jr., Bishop Garber will perform the Act of Dedication, and the Rev. Howard McLamb will lead the Prayer of Dedication.

At 1 o'clock, following the Dedication Ceremony, the Local Committee will entertain Bishop Garber and out-of-town guests at a lunch in the Lounge of the Methodist Student Center.

building was completed and opened in September, 1958, at a cost of $135,000.00, furnishings more than $15,000.00. The final payment was made on the building in August 1960, just two years after completion of the building.

The Bishop will preach at the Morning Worship at 11:00 o'clock, Sunday morning, in Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church. This is a union service of the congregations of St. James and Jarvis Memorial Churches. Other Ministers of the Church who will be present for this occasion are, Dr. A.J. Hobbs, District Superintendent of the New Bern District, N.C. Annual Conference, the Rev. W.M. Howard, Jr., Pastor of Trinity Methodist Church, Durham, The Rev. C.F. Hirsch, Pastor of St. James Methodist Church, and the Rev. Howard M. McLamb, Pastor of Jarvis Memorial. Invitations have been sent to former Pastors of both Methodist Churches in Greenville.

Members of the Inter-Conference Commission on Student Work of The Methodist Church in the state of North Carolina; members of the Commission on World Service and Finance, Board of Education, and Woman's Society of Christian Service of the North Carolina Annual Conference; Directors of Wesley Foundations and Methodist Student Movement, in the State, and Methodist Pastors

Robber Fled Prison To Attend Child's Funeral

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Roland Lopez, his hands manacled, stood between two detectives and cried quietly beside a little boy's grave.

Lopez, 27, a convicted robber, had escaped from prison to attend the funeral of his stepson, Joseph, 5. But police caught him first.

Prison, a minimum security facility, for the robbery of a bowling alley near his Sacramento home Dec. 15.

His wife, Josephine, and Joseph Cordova, her child by a previous marriage, moved to a hotel in nearby Pomona so they could see Lopez on visiting days.

After the services Wednesday he turned to detective Vernon Weigand and said: "Thank you. Thank you for letting me see my son before he went to heaven."

The officers led Lopez away—back to prison, where he faces a charge of escape. It carries a sentence of from one year to life.

Last January Lopez began serving five years to life at Chino

On Aug. 18 little Joseph fell down a stair. After 18 days in general hospital, he died.

Lopez asked prison officials for permission to attend the funeral. Rules prohibit it. Permission denied.

So, Lopez said, he walked away from a work gang. He knew Joseph's body had been taken to the coroner's office, because he and his wife didn't have money for funeral services.

"I spent five days and nights outside the coroner's office," he said, "as near as I could get to Joseph."

Detectives traced Lopez and arrested him. In the meantime, services had been arranged. A couple Mrs. Lopez met in the hospital while Joseph lay dying raised $50 and called a mortuary to see if that would buy a funeral.

The mortician heard the story and agreed to provide the funeral arrangements free.

Pomona police heard Lopez' story and agreed to let him attend.

Hunted Money Once Too Often

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP)—It was one time too many Wednesday for a man who combs Baltimore sewers for money.

Police were waiting when David Robbins, 35, and two companions emerged from a manhole in the middle of a street intersection. The trio explained they had been searching for money in the sewer, and produced more than $13 in American and foreign money to prove it. Each was charged with unlawful entry of a manhole, and held in $500 bail.

It was Robbins' second brush with the law in sewer matters. The first time he had been luckier; the city had employed him last July to look for weak spots in the system, on the basis of his exhaustive knowledge of sewer geography.

Voting Machines Will Be Loaned

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Dade County voting machines are going on a junket to the Dominican Republic, if proper safeguards and insurance are secured.

Metro (Dade County) Commission gave formal approval to the plan Wednesday after the State Department gave informal approval. The United States broke off diplomatic relations with Dictator Rafael Trujillo's country this summer.

Manuel Ramon Ruiz-Tejada, chairman of the Central Electoral Board in the Dominican Republic, asked for loan of the machines for use in a municipal election Dec. 15.

NAME CHANGED

HAVANA (AP) — Hotel Saint Johns in the heart of Havana's tourist belt became Hotel Theresa in recognition of the Harlem hotel where Fidel Castro's U. N. delegation is housed. Employees of the government-operated hotel held a meeting Wednesday and changed the name.

Parking meters in New York City add revenue of about 7 million dollars annually.

Arrest Two In Bottle Battle

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP)—When a customer changed his mind about buying a bottle of hair tonic he had ordered specially, the barber let him have it—and the police got both men in their hair.

Officers said barber Horace A. Johnston, 54, hit T. J. Morgan, 50, over the head with a billy club when Morgan refused the bottle of tonic. Morgan suffered a scalp wound and was charged with drunkenness and disorderly conduct. Johnston was charged with assault.

Brothers Go To School, Pass Up $100,000

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Would you pass up $100,000 to go to school?

Silly question, huh? But the Everlys brothers come up with a sillier answer: Yes.

You might think that the record stars are a bit old to be going to school; Don is 23 and Phil is 21. But every day they report to Warner Brothers' little red schoolhouse to learn the business of being actors.

To do so, they had to cut out personal engagements for several months. They figure the cost at 100 gees. But the drama lessons are free, so I guess it all evens up. They have no deal with Warner studio, but record for the company's disc label.

Why are they playing school-boys at this late date?

"Because we had to start thinking about the future," said Don. "I tried to figure where I might be able to go in the entertainment business. The answer seemed to be to become a dramatic actor."

"Sure, we're doing all right in the music business," said Phil. "But it gets riskier all the time. You don't know what's going to happen to it tomorrow."

So far they haven't had to worry. They have collected six gold records, their latest big seller being "Cathy's Clown." But at their ages, they're looking for something with a steady future.

Regardless of acting talent, the Everlys seem well situated for their prospective careers. Both are handsome, with luxuriant shocks of brown hair. They are certainly not newcomers to audiences. Born in Shenandoah, Iowa, they started on local radio with their parents at the ages of 6 and 8.

They did various shows throughout the Midwest until live, local radio went into decline. The family settled in Nashville, seat of the revolution in American popular music. Starting as a team in 1955,

Congo Boss Asks Removal Of Ghana, Guinea Troops

By MICHAEL GOLDSMITH

LEOPOLDVILLE, THE Congo (AP)—Congo strongman Col. Joseph Mobutu has put forth a veiled threat to take action unless the U. N. command withdraws troops of Ghana and Guinea.

The youthful military ruler charged these African troops, who have been protecting deposed Premier Patrice Lumumba, with meddling in Congo internal affairs.

Mobutu warned that if the Ghanaian and Guinean troops are not pulled out of the Congo "it will become a problem for our general staff." He did not elaborate.

Ghana has about 2,500 troops in the U. N. task force, Guinea about 600.

Ghanaian President Kwame Nkrumah said on arrival in New York Wednesday night for the U. N. General Assembly that he had not heard of Mobutu's demand. Nkrumah emphasized that he still regarded Lumumba as the legitimate premier of the Congo.

Mobutu who proclaimed a form of military rule a week ago, has been frustrated by Guinea and Ghanaian forces from taking Lumumba into custody.

U. N. officials apparently feel they would be open to Communist charges of partisanship if they allowed Lumumba to be turned over to Mobutu.

When Mobutu announced he was "neutralizing" the politicians, Lumumba ran for cover and was believed to have been given refuge by the Guinea diplomatic mission.

Emerging from his hideout last weekend, Lumumba moved back into his old official residence behind a shield of Ghana troops and began issuing orders.

But Mobutu appeared in command, supported by the bulk of the Congolese army.

Lumumba was believed to have given up his attempt to get to New York to present his case to the U. N. General Assembly. A U. S. Embassy spokesman said Lumumba aides inquired three days ago about getting visas. They were told to submit their passports to the embassy but have not done so.

While Leopoldville was quiet outside of the political maneuvering, a skirmish between U. N. troops and African tribesmen was reported in southern Kasai Province. The U. N. command said no U. N. soldiers were hurt but the tribesmen suffered casualties before fleeing.

Big Christmas In A Tiny Baby

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP)—If all goes well, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Oliver will get one of the biggest Christmas presents in one of the smallest packages on record. Her name is Lisa June.

Now 7-weeks-old, Lisa June weighs only 30 ounces. When she was born July 28 at Children's Hospital, she weighed 23 ounces—and dropped to 15½ ounces within a week.

An incubator is the only home Lisa June has ever known, but she now takes three teaspoons of formula through a tube every three hours.

Edith Brown, head nurse in the hospital's premature ward, says she can go to her parents home in nearby Palmer, Tenn., when she reaches 5 pounds—probably about Christmas.

Only 'Nude' Was A Five-Year-Old

SALEM, Mass. (AP)—The police kept Gallow's Hill under surveillance Wednesday night, alert for appearance of female nudists protesting the hanging there in 1892 of 20 "witches."

But the only nude encountered was a 5-year-old miss who had lost her panties.

About a week ago Mayor Francis Collins received a letter signed "Robert Clough, public relations, National Nudist Council, Lyons, N. J.," advising him the demonstration would be held today. The letter asked the mayor to recruit some Salem women over 21 as participants.

The mayor ignored the letter, but the police took no chances.

Gibbs Addresses Parents' Meet

Greenville Police Chief S. G. Gibbs last night addressed the St. Raphael Home-School Association at its first meeting of the school term.

Gibbs pointed to the "disturbing trend of overzealous concern for the criminal" and novel theories of crime prevention coming to the force in recent years. These, he said, largely remove the threat of punishment which the criminal fears most.

"Parole and probation," Gibbs asserted, "should not be permitted to replace punishments designed to protect society."

He indicated belief the tendency of "favoring the underdog" can be overcome, resulting in "mad dog" killers in our midst.

Stressing the need of law enforcement for the fullest kind of support and cooperation from citizens, Gibbs said it was doubly necessary if the taxpayer was to get the fullest degree of service which is his due.

In conclusion, Chief Gibbs called attention to the upcoming city bond election which he said included provisions deemed necessary for maintaining and improving standards of city law enforcement work. He urged parents to vote.

Other business of the evening included an introduction of the faculty, discussion of a planned pupil trip to Raleigh, announcements concerning uniforms for the student body, and brief conferences between parents and individual teachers.

Home-School Association meetings will be held on the third Wednesday of each month.

Newsmen On Trip Missing Sleep

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Many of the 75 newsmen traveling with Vice President Richard M. Nixon feel they're Rip Van Winkles in reverse.

Sleep is their biggest problem, several reporters said Wednesday as Nixon's campaign swooshed through here. Last week they traveled 9,000 miles; this week it will be 4,000.

One reporter considered this week's schedule a break because he's been able to loll around in bed 4½ hours a night.

Stray Bullet Killed Child As Factions Fought

NEW YORK (AP)—A 9-year-old Venezuelan girl, struck in the back by a stray bullet in a fight between supporters and opponents of Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro, died today in St. Clare's Hospital.

The girl, Magdalena Urdaneto of Caracas, was dining with her tourist parents in a restaurant Wednesday when a gang of Castro sympathizers burst in. An anti-Castroite, Luis Rodriguez, 25, was wounded in the shoulder. Beer bottles flew, fists swung, and tables and chairs were overturned during the melee. It was touched off after a pro-Castro man came in to order sandwiches at the El Prado Restaurant, on 8th avenue near 51st street.

A man was arrested today in connection with the free-for-all, and another man was being hunted as the actual gun-wielder.

The pro-Castro man used a telephone in the restaurant, and minutes later about a dozen adherents of Castro appeared—and the battle began.

Rodriguez, whose wound was not serious, listed his home as Brooklyn. Two other anti-Castro victims who required hospital treatment were Francisco Pereira and Humberto Triana, both 23, who said they are Cuban exiles here from Miami. They were beaten over the head.

Three anti-Tito demonstrators were arrested Wednesday night after shouting insults through bull horns from a Fifth Avenue bus as it passed the Yugoslav U.N.

Later, six other anti-Tito demonstrators were seized near the Yugoslav residence. Police said they were throwing firecrackers.

In Harlem Wednesday night two men, one a Castro supporter and the other anti-Castro, were arrested and accused of using loud and boisterous language, and of being part of a milling crowd which blocked traffic near the Hotel Theresa, where Castro and his party are staying.

As many as 10,000 persons milled about the hotel during the night, but only one destructive incident was reported—a broken store window. No arrests were made. Shortly after midnight the crowd slimmed to 2,000. Many persons waved Cuban flags. Castro did not appear.

The "Youngsters' Club" of Calif., Germany, is one of the most exclusive in the world. Candidates have to be at least 90 years old to apply for membership. There are 13 members.

No Significant Changes Reported In Consumer Attitudes; Plan To Buy

(Editor's Note: The following report is based on a series of surveys which also included Pitt County.)

ANN ARBOR — No significant change in consumer attitudes toward the economy has occurred in the past three months. The University of Michigan Survey Research Center reported Wednesday.

Concern about general business conditions during the coming year has become more widespread, but this has not been accompanied by personal financial set-backs for most consumers. More people think it's a good time to buy cars and household goods, largely because of favorable attitudes toward prevailing and expected prices. But buying plans now are about the same as they were in May.

Director George Katona and Eva Mueller of the Center's Economic Behavior Program describe the consumer's mood, as one of "continued hesitation." While the sharp decline in consumer attitudes which occurred this spring has been halted, as yet no decisive change for the better has taken place, they note. The Center's Index of Consumer Attitudes advanced slightly, from 91.7 in May to an estimated 93.3 in August, but the gain is not statistically significant. In January and February, the index stood at 99.3.

Here, in brief, are the Center's findings in 600 telephone re-interviews of those questioned about the economy in May:

Business conditions: Expressions of uncertainty and outright pessimism have become more frequent since the start of the year. The stimulus of good news is lacking now, as it was in May. Unfavorable comments, such as "business is not good," "unemployment is high," or "people aren't buying," have increased somewhat. More people than in May 1960 and many more than in May 1959, judge that business is worse than it was a year earlier.

Uncertainty about the short-term business outlook has not affected expectations regarding the long-term (five years or more) prospect for business.

Market conditions: Evaluation of the market for household goods and cars improved considerably during the past few months. Notions about the housing market improved to a smaller extent.

Expectations of price increases, both in the coming year and five years hence, have declined slightly.

Personal finances: Reports about personal financial changes have become more favorable, while expectations for the coming year are slightly less optimistic. The small increase in worries occurred primarily in the area of job security and employment opportunities.

Over the past year, attitudes toward their personal financial situation among consumers have recovered fully from the 1958 recession. In fact, the latest measurements are close to the high 1956 mark. This may be one reason why the deterioration in consumer optimism which occurred earlier this year has been halted.

Buying intentions: Intentions to buy houses, cars, and major appliances were relatively low in May and showed practically no change in August. A sizable proportion of those who plan to buy new cars say they are looking for a compact model.

Whether the consumer will give some stimulus to the economy in the period ahead seems to depend on two crucial questions, Katona and Mueller conclude: 1. Will consumers, in fact, be pleased with the price tags which they find on the things they buy? and 2. Will business activity be maintained at a sufficient pace to prevent further layoffs, a shortening of working hours, and other disappointments with personal finances?

Had A Rifle

NEW YORK (AP) — A man with a rifle was arrested by police at the Manhattan end of Queens Midtown Tunnel just as President Eisenhower's motorcade arrived at the point. The presidential party, en route into midtown from Idlewild Airport, was temporarily delayed at the tunnel exit.

As the motorcade halted, police emerged from the tunnel with a slim blond man. One patrolman was carrying a rifle in a gun case.

"We found him just inside the tunnel," a patrolman said. After stopping briefly, the motorcade sped without further incident to the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, where Eisenhower is staying.

Seeks Some $200 Million In Loans

TOKYO (AP) — Japanese Finance Minister Mikio Mizuta flew to the United States today, seeking some $200 million in loans from the World and U.S. Export-Import Banks.

He said $50 million is sought from the Export-Import Bank for use in modernizing Japan's small and medium-sized enterprises and $60 million for the proposed Nagoya-Kobe toll turnpike and another $40 to $60 million for steel and power companies.

TV Public Remembers Whipped Cream Stunt

By CYNTHIA LOWRY AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — With the world nervously eyeing the future, it's a comfort to know that some people are going back to the good old days for their inspiration. To be precise, ABC's "Beat the Clock" plans to resume its whipped cream stunts.

"For the past three years we haven't had a single whipped cream stunt," confessed Bud Collyer, host and setter-upper of the day-time show's funny business. "But it wasn't because we're against squirting whipped cream all over people. We just ran out of whipped cream ideas. There are a limited number of ways you can get a blast of whipped cream in the face." Collyer, however, says that this former specialty of the show has remained an identifying mark—"Oh, you're the one who's on that show that squirts whipped cream all over everybody"—and that the program's mail indicates the public still fondly remembers.

The Garry Moore Tuesday evening show is set to return to CBS after a summer holiday. The replacement, "Diagnosis Unknown," is being retired for repairs, not the discard pile.

NBC's second "Thriller" was still preoccupied with neurotics and overplayed the psychiatric angles in the plot, but was a more effective show than the first of the series. Busy Arlene Francis, in addition to her weekly "What's My Line?" chores, has a daily local radio interview show and a weekly network radio series of her family life.

Red China Looks For Early Frost

HONG KONG (AP) — Communist China, already facing a food shortage because of floods, drought and insect plagues, has been warned to prepare for unseasonable frosts and an early winter.

The Peiping official newspaper, People's Daily said urgent warnings are going out to the provinces to take precautions for preventing frost damage to crops. An early winter "might create a great calamity," the newspaper said.

The Nova Scotian town of Antigonish gets its name from a Micmac Indian word meaning "the place where branches were torn off trees by bears gathering beech-nuts."

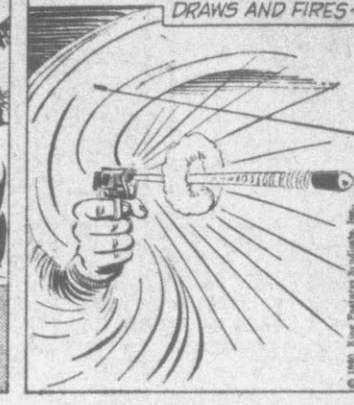

The first American Heritage play of the fall season (NBC, Oct. 21) is a drama about the last years of Alexander Hamilton's life, with Ralph Bellamy playing Thomas Jefferson.

The second NBC Hour of Great Mysteries on Sept. 27 will be a real vintage classic, "The Cat and The Canary," and one of the stars will be Andrew Duggin, late of "Bourbon Street Beat." Richard Long, who used to be Duggin's New Orleans private-eye partner, will be introduced Oct. 7 as the new partner of ABC's "77 Sunset Strip" firm. (Long will keep his Bourbon Street name and the show will explain that he's just moved from California from Louisiana for business reasons.)

Sub's Skipper Credited With Saving A Life

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The skipper of the submarine Redfish was credited today with saving a Marine demolition skindiver from an agonizing death of the bends.

Cpl. D. F. Merwing, 25, Ridge-wood, N. J., arose to the surface too quickly from 60 feet after working under the USS Cook on maneuvers. Pressure at that depth forces nitrogen into the bloodstream; rising too fast causes the gas to gather in tissues.

Merwing had convulsions, lost consciousness and had paralysis of one lung. The nearest decompression chamber was 200 miles away, at Hunters Point Shipyard south of here.

Lt. Cmdr. C. H. Lowry, Jr., and the submarine Redfish answered a radio call for help. Merwing was hustled into the sub's air-locked escape hatch and the vessel dove to 165 feet. As the sub cruised to San Francisco the pressure was gradually eased.

Navy doctors pronounced the Marine out of danger late Wednesday night, 17 hours after the unusual rescue effort began.

filed in the above entitled action. The nature of the relief being sought is as follows: Absolute divorce on the grounds of two years' continuous separation. You are required to make defense to such pleading not later than the 10th day of November, 1960, and upon your failure to do so the party seeking service against you will apply to the court for the relief sought.

This the 20th day of September, 1960.

"I tell you, Orville, it will never fly!"

But Orville was right — it flew — and today man is conquering space.

You, too, are conquering space . . . in a different way . . . when you use the advertising columns of this newspaper. For many years, a newspaper's circulation was what a publisher said it was. Advertisers like you had no way of knowing where or to whom their messages were going.

With the help of ABC* facts . . . and your merchandising experience . . . it is a relatively easy job to place your advertising program into an effective sales orbit.

ABC helps to safeguard your advertising dollars by auditing — actually verifying — our circulation. In auditing and through a published report, ABC provides a great many facts on our circulation . . . facts to help you know and understand our circulation audience . . . facts to help you use our advertising space more effectively.

Not all printed publications that solicit advertising are able to supply ABC facts. Some can't meet the exacting membership standards. Others feel advertisers should be satisfied with unverified claims.

We are members of ABC and would be pleased to show you a copy of our latest circulation report. It will quickly demonstrate how you, too, can conquer space.

THE DAILY REFLECTOR

* This newspaper is a member of the Audit Bureau of Circulations, an association of nearly 4,000 publishers, advertisers, and advertising agencies. Our circulation is audited regularly by experienced ABC circulation auditors. Our ABC report shows how much circulation we have, where it goes, how obtained, and other facts that tell you what you get for your advertising money when you use this newspaper.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—Slow trading and mixed prices prevailed in the stock market early this afternoon.

Pivotal issues showed small changes, most of them well within a point either way.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was unchanged at 212.20 with the industrials off .30, the rails up .20 and the utilities up .20.

The Jewish religious holidays dampened trading. At the same time, Wednesday's sharp rally brought the list close to a formidable upside barrier, analysts said.

Chrysler's plans to layoff 5,000 employees because of big inventories of unsold cars was a gloomy economic note. The proceedings at the United Nations also caused hesitation.

Aircraft-missiles were unchanged to a bit lower. Autos, steels, drugs, rubbers and oils drifted off. Selected gains among utilities, rails and various other groups supported the average.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off 2.03 at 592.23.

Corporate bonds were mixed.

U.S. government bonds were mostly unchanged.

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA) — North Carolina eggs, market mostly steady. Supply short, demand good. Prices paid producers for clean, ungraded eggs delivered to nearby grading stations on a grade yard basis, cases exchanged: Grade A large whites 50-53½; browns 51-54; medium whites 41-43, mostly 41-42; brown 42½-43; small whites 27-32, mostly 28-29, browns 28-31.

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA) — Hog prices mostly 25 higher. Tops of 17.25 to 18.25 at Kinston, New Bern, Benson, Mount Olive and Newton Grove; 15.75 to 18.25 at Wilson; 17.50 to 17.75 at Rocky Mount; 17.00 to 17.50 at Bethel, Murfreesboro, Sunbury and Edenton; 18.00 at Clinton, Fayetteville and Elizabethtown; 17.50 at Albemarle, Castle Hayne and Goldsboro; 17.25 at Rich Square, Tarboro, Enfield, Scotland Neck, Lillington and Greensboro; 17.00 at Siler City.

Wilson cash cattle prices steady: Steers and heifers, choice 21.00 to 26.00, good 21.50 to 23.50, standards 17.50 to 20.50; cows, beef type 14.50 to 16.00, heavy cutters 13.50 to 15.00; bulls, light weights 13.00 to 16.00, heavy cutters 17.00 to 19.00.

Frat Preparing Its New Chapter House

Members of the East Carolina College Chapter of Pi Kappa Alpha, social fraternity, are readying the house on East Fifth Street which they bought last week for occupancy in December. Remodeling, furnishing, and decorating will begin at an early date.

The handsome brick house, formerly the residence of the J. B. James family of Greenville, is the fourth fraternity house to be acquired by fraternity chapters at East Carolina. Other chapter houses are owned by Lambda Chi Alpha, Theta Chi, and Sigma Nu. Pi Kappa Alpha, first of the campus fraternities to maintain an off-campus house, has occupied a rented house on Cotanche Street for several years.

The new Pi Kappa Alpha house has a basement, two main floors, and an attic. It will provide living quarters for 34 members of the fraternity. Included, in addition to parlors and bedrooms, are a sun porch, to be fitted as a TV room, and a basement recreation room.

New plumbing and electric wiring will be installed in the chapter house; the kitchen will be enlarged; and a fire escape will be added. Remodeling of the attic will provide additional bedroom space. The house will be furnished and decorated by commercial firms, according to plans.

Pi Kappa Alpha members plan to hold open house when work on the building is completed. Guests will include national officers of the fraternity, faculty members and administrative officers of the college, members of the fraternity from Greenville and other localities, parents of Pi Kappa Alpha members; and other special guests.

Judge, Police Cleared The Air

CHARLOTTE (AP) — "It was all a misunderstanding" said Superior Court Judge Hugh B. Campbell of his initial encounter with Charlotte police.

The jurist said he was stopped Wednesday morning by B. G. Jones, a Charlotte policeman, just as he left the city limits. Jones said the judge was doing 47 miles an hour in a 35 m.p.h. zone. "Frankly, I don't think I was going 47 in a 35-mile an hour zone," Judge Campbell said.

The judge was disturbed that the officer wouldn't write him a ticket so he could continue on to Gastonia, where he is holding a criminal term of court. The police, the judge related, were not sure of his claim that he was a jurist.

The judge said Jones told him to go to the police station. No one in police headquarters knew the judge, and before Solicitor George Miller untangled things, the judge was in the booking office of city hall.

When Miller rescued Judge Campbell, the judge said he told him he'd heard someone was downstairs claiming he was Judge Campbell, but thought it must be some drunk.

The judge then conferred with Police Chief Jesse James and policeman Jones was called in to explain the situation. Jones said he decided to bring Judge Campbell to headquarters after Campbell had cursed him.

The judge said he hadn't cursed Jones, adding, "I cursed the idea of getting a ticket."

Police said that since Jones sent Judge Campbell to headquarters, he did not write a ticket and no charges were filed against the judge.

No Police Chief Yet For Ayden

AYDEN — A new police chief for the town of Ayden has not yet been appointed. Town Manager Cleveland Paylor announced yesterday.

The town manager is still reviewing dozens of applications which have come in since the resignation of former Police Chief H. V. Chandler Aug. 9.

Meanwhile, the department is operating under Sgt. James Ross, according to the supervision of Paylor and Police Commissioner Robert Harris of Ayden.

Drive To 'Get Out The Vote'

Jaycees will conduct a "get out the vote" campaign for the upcoming municipal bond election.

Club president George Goffman announced that Julian Vanwright will serve as chairman.

Coffman pointed out that one of the items in the bond election, which is to be held Tuesday, was a Jaycee supported project last spring. That is the proposed sub fire station for East Greenville.

Vanwright said the Jaycees will place posters around the city urging citizens to vote in the Tuesday election.

Veteran Agent Of SBI Dies

RALEIGH (AP) — A heart attack has taken the life of 60-year-old John A. Lowdermilk, a State Bureau of Investigation agent and 30-year veteran in law enforcement work.

The funeral has been set for Saturday at a time to be announced. Lowdermilk, a Raleigh resident, had been police chief at High Point, an FBI agent and a member of the Greensboro Police Department.

Survivors include the widow; a son, John W. Lowdermilk of Goldsboro; and two daughters, Mrs. Clyde Penny of Charlotte and Mrs. Charles Southern of Greensboro.

Higher Goal Set By Farm Bureau

Farm leaders here have announced the Pitt County Farm Bureau has set high membership goals this year and is "shooting for 2,800 members."

This goal represents 600 additional members to the county unit since 1959, according to county membership chairman Charles Quinerly of Farmville.

The goal with its increase is based on a number of factors, including the number of farmers in the county, the number of bureau members in the past, and the need for building a stronger organization, according to Quinerly.

Quinerly pointed out, however, the membership drive not only embraces the farm population of Pitt, but all persons within the county who are interested in the agricultural program and its improvement.

"Even now, community and township membership chairmen and their teams of solicitors are contacting farmers, giving them an opportunity to join the organization, which has as its major goal the increase of farm income," Quinerly said.

Farm Bureau has for years exerted strong influence on state and national agricultural legislation; but County Pres. Harry J. Jarvis explains, "It's becoming more difficult for farmers to make their recommendations known to Congress and other groups because of the small number of farmers and the misunderstandings between farmers and other segments of the population."

"Every farmer in Pitt County has something at stake in the membership enrollment," Jarvis said.

He called the Farm Bureau the "largest organization owned and run purely by farmers."

Farmville Club To Hold Carnival

FARMVILLE—Farmville Kiwanians stood ready today to kick off their annual Kiwanis Carnival at the high school gymnasium here tomorrow night.

Detailed plans for the two-day annual event have been worked out by the local Kiwanians. The carnival this weekend marks the 15th annual festival sponsored by the local club.

Proceeds from the two days of activity go annually into the Kiwanis scholarship fund that makes loans to local high school graduates to continue their education. Students receiving the loans would probably not be able to obtain a college education without the outside assistance.

Kiwanis Pres. George Allen is expecting a successful carnival this weekend. He reported cooperation from the club's membership in planning the event.

The local civic club usually nets about $1,000 from the carnival. Included in the plans are a barbecue and fried chicken dinner Friday night in the school lunchroom, a complete lineup of regular carnival-type games in the gymnasium, and the traditional train that takes the youngsters on brief tours of Farmville each year at Kiwanis Carnival time.

No Survivors As Plane Crashes With 29 Aboard

NAHA, Okinawa (AP)—A four-engine U. S. Marine transport plane carrying 29 persons crashed into the sea today 180 miles southeast of Okinawa. A U. S. destroyer which reached the site said it had found no survivors.

The DC6 Marine aircraft was carrying 23 passengers and a crew of 6 from Atsugi, Japan, to Subic Point, Philippines, when it reported an engine failure and said it was ditching.

Cmdr. John P. Crosby, operations officer of the Naha naval air facility, said the carrier Oriskany reported: "There are a lot of bodies in life jackets and the destroyer Perkins is picking up bodies. There are a lot of bodies and debris and dye markers are spread over a wide area."

Optimistic Reports Highlight Scout Council Board Meeting

Enthusiasm and optimism marked the Fall quarter meeting of the executive board of the East Carolina Council of the Boy Scouts of America held Wednesday evening.

Reports indicated progress in larger registrations in cub packs, scout troops, and explorer posts throughout the 22-county council, and optimism that the $121,000 budget for 1961 operations would be raised characterized the finance committee's session.

The finance campaign in Communities participating in the United Fund or Community Chest programs appeared to be headed toward success, leaders indicated and in counties where the campaign is independently held there will be acceptance of all quotas.

Tobacco Sales Averages Rise

Heavier volumes of high-quality smoking leaf and slightly rising prices for medium grades yesterday enabled sales averages to rise slightly above those recorded Tuesday on tobacco markets in Greenville, Farmville and Robersonville.

The three area markets followed the trend of the Eastern Belt that saw its average rise from $62.93 per 100 pounds Tuesday to $63.26 yesterday.

Greenville's market sold a total of 1,419,798 pounds for a total receipts figure of $905,702 and a sales average of $63.79 per 100 pounds.

Season totals through yesterday's Greenville activity stood at: pounds—32,403,160; receipts—$18,534,443; sales average—$57.20.

Farmville

Farmville's market saw higher prices offered for its medium grades, according to Sales Supervisor Louis Williams, as total sales hit 650,186 pounds.

Total Farmville receipts yesterday were $415,483 for a sales average of $63.90. Season totals stood at: pounds—13,682,338; receipts—$7,906,778; and sales average—$57.79.

Funeral Friday For Willis D. Mosley

AYDEN—Willis D. (Dick) Mosley, 48, died suddenly at his home here Wednesday night. Funeral services will be held from the Britt Funeral Chapel Friday at 3 p.m., conducted by Rev. Raymond Gaskins, pastor of the Ayden Free Will Baptist Church.

Burial will follow in the Ayden Cemetery.

Mr. Mosley was a life-long resident of the Ayden community and was formerly employed at the Allen Johnson Company here. In 1959, he founded the City Furniture Co. here.

He was a member of the Ayden Free Will Baptist Church. Surviving are his wife, the former Margaret McElhannon; one daughter, Mary Mosley of the home; and by a former marriage two daughters, Shirley and Diane Mosley, both of Ayden; two brothers Eugene Mosley of Rocky Mount and Donald Mosley of Jacksonville.
