Improvement Of 13 Miles Of Pitt County Road Is Included In Projects List

A 13-mile road improvement proposal for Pitt County may be included in a half-million-dollar allocation for 30 secondary road improvement projects in the state made yesterday in Raleigh by Gov. Luther Hodges.

Through details of the appropriation were not available this morning, a general listing of the projects to be financed from the state's highway surplus fund included "reconstruction of the secondary road leading to the Voice of America installation near Shelmerdine in Pitt County."

Division Two Engineer C. W. Snell Jr. said this morning he had submitted proposals to the State Highway Commission involving improvements to secondary roads leading to all three VOA sites in the Pitt-Beaufort area. He said, "We must begin now to prepare for the heavy traffic those roads must bear."

Nikita Proposes UN Shakeup And Move; Denounces President

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev proposed today to move the United Nations out of New York to a new site, and to eliminate the office of secretary-general.

He also denounced President Eisenhower as risking World War III in the U2 plane incident of last May, demanded immediate independence of all colonial areas, proposed a three-stage disarmament plan looking toward what Khrushchev calls complete and general disarmament, and repeated a demand for a new summit conference "in a few months time" apparently to discuss the future of West Berlin with the U.S. president and the French and British heads of government.

Khrushchev dropped the proposals to the hopper in what was developing as a showdown duel of personal diplomacy between him and the U.S. President. He denounced President Eisenhower by name in his remarks concerning the U2 incident.

After broaching his disarmament plans and his proposals on colonial areas, the Soviet leader launched into a bitter attack on the President on the basis of the U2 spy plane incident of last May, which preceded the blowup of the Paris summit conference.

These proposals were circulated in advance of the Soviet premier's anxiously awaited appearance on the Assembly rostrum, a day after President Eisenhower's challenging address to the United Nations as the main clearing house for disposal of perilous issues.

Kennedy Sees Unease Over Drift In National Course

DENVER, Colo. (AP)—Sen. John F. Kennedy, hitting back hard at Vice President Richard M. Nixon, declared today the American people are uneasy "at the present drift in our national course" and by the "relative decline in our prestige."

he stakes his candidacy on his belief that the people share "the single assumption that the American people are uneasy at the present drift in our national course—that they are disturbed by the relative decline in our vitality and prestige—and that they have the will and strength to start America moving forward again."

He added: "But if I am right—and I firmly believe that I am—then those who have held back the growth of America for the past eight years will be rejected this November, and America will turn once again to the leadership of the Democratic party."

Buying A Fall Suit? Think Before You Buy

RALEIGH — Before you buy decide which type of coat or suit you need. Is it for dress, sport, or general wear? Think, too, of whether you want an all-purpose, all the time, everywhere costume, or something for sale occasions. Decide which color will harmonize best with your wardrobe. Miss Julia McIver, clothing specialist for the N.C. Agricultural Extension Service, says many women are now in the process of buying a fall suit. With prices high, it is necessary to think carefully before you buy. Look for the wool content tag and for additional information concerning the fabric. Don't just look at it, use the touch system. Take a fold of it in your hand. It should be neither too heavy nor too light. Do you know how to judge good fit? There's more to it than whether the wristband needs adjusting or the sleeves shortening. Let's take suits first. Naturally, the first thing you consider is actual appearance. Does the jac-

Stretching Dollars

RALEIGH — Shoppers will find plentiful supplies of broilers and fryers on the market this week-end. Prices are low and quality is high, making them a top meat buy.

Best turkey buys are found in large size birds. Buy one for roasting and serve in hot or cold dishes for several meals. Egg prices continue to rise but remain an excellent protein choice. Your best buy will be on medium and small sizes.

Mrs. Ruby P. Uzzle, consumer marketing specialist for the N.C. Agricultural Extension Service, reports you will have many choices to choose from when buying beef, pork, veal and lamb cuts. However, your better meat values this week will be in beef roasts, pork loins, and lamb specials. Beef from heavy calves and heavy type veal are reasonably priced.

The hurricane disturbed fishing but fresh supplies include bass, mullet and flounder. There are ample offerings of frozen fish and shellfish.

Mrs. Uzzle says apples are improved in color, size, and flavor. Buy in bushel lots for greatest savings. Bartlett pears are good buys this week along with Red Tokay and white seedless grapes. Plums and melons offer variety at the fruit counter.

There are reports that Florida is still in the citrus business despite the hurricane. The greatest losses are to grapefruit which will run 35 to 40 percent.

Fresh vegetable supplies are light due to hurricane damage in the eastern part of the state. Cucumbers, fall beans, cabbage, potatoes, and peppers show extensive damage. This will cause higher prices on fresh vegetables. Mrs. Uzzle says Western Carolina tomatoes are in peak production. California lettuce, carrots, and celery are available.

Clothing Specialist To Retire

RALEIGH — Miss Julia McIver will retire on September 30 as clothing specialist for the N. C. Agricultural Extension Service, after spending 30 years helping North Carolina families to become better dressed.

Miss McIver first joined Extension in 1930. After five years as home economics agent in Scotland and Pamlico counties, she came to Raleigh as clothing specialist. In 1948, she was placed in charge of the clothing program.

As specialist in charge, she has spearheaded two major clothing programs: "Well Dressed at Small Cost" and "Dress for the Occasion."

She is going back to her home at Lumber Bridge in Robeson County where she hopes to do a lot of gardening and traveling. Already, she has visited Europe and Africa. Plans now call for a trip to Australia.

Of course, there will be plenty of sewing for Miss McIver. "I'm going to make up all those pretty materials I have purchased through the years and haven't had time to make," she explained.

Mrs. Ruth Current, assistant director for the N.C. Agricultural Extension Service, calls Miss McIver "a recognized authority" in Extension clothing education. "She is especially noted in the South for her work," Miss Current adds.

Shampoos Give Lift

Convalescent patients need frequent morale-boosters — such as a shampoo, which provides a lift to the spirits as well as vital care for the hair and scalp.

A good way to shampoo a bed patient is to set up a washboard in a metal tub next to the bed. This equipment is similar in principle to professional equipment. It permits the patient to rest in a comfortable position—with her hair on the protective surface of the washboard while it's being lathered and rinsed.

WHICH ONE?—A paint job needs a specific brush, and knowing the one to choose will make it easier.

By ANDY LANG
A paint brush is every bit as much of a specialized hand tool as a chisel, saw or pliers. Each is made for a specific range of work. Each has built into it a certain amount of quality which can either aid or hinder its user.

A good paint brush will cost more than a poor one. But there are more ways of selecting a brush than by price alone. Here are some facts that may help you to make the proper choice.

Always use the widest brush that is practical for the job. For large flat surfaces, the brush should be from three to six inches, with the four-inch models the most popular. Special wall, flatting, stucco or calcimine brushes are made in this size range for painting special surfaces.

One to three inch brushes are handiest for decorative work, such as woodwork, paneling and trim. If enamel or varnish will be used, get an enameling or varnishing brush, which contains softer hairs, chiseled to aid in cutting in and flowing the finish onto the surface.

For sashes, dadoses and trellises, pick an oval or flat one to three-inch brush, finely tapered to ease the painting of fine, neat lines. For furniture and toys, the enameling or varnishing brush is recommended, with the narrow sizes for chair legs and rungs. The broader widths for table tops. A good brush may contain either natural fibers (pure hog bristle or mixture of hog bristle and other animal hairs) or synthetics, such as nylon. Bounce the bristles against your hand. They should be neither too soft nor too stiff, having a moderate amount of resiliency or springiness. Check the flags, which are tiny splits or paint-holding branches at the end of the brush. Hog bristle is naturally flagged; synthetic fibers are artificially flagged. Cheap brushes do not have these flags.

While better brushes as a rule have longer bristles, the bristles should not be uniform length. Bristles of different length insure even wear by exposing more flagged ends as the original ones wear down.

A secure setting prevents bristles from coming loose while painting. Tug the bristles gently. A few loose bristles should come out, but if you get too many, pick another brush.

Virtually all good paint brushes contain one or more filler strips of wood, metal or plastic in the base of the brush, just inside the bottom of the ferrule. The filler strip helps shape the bristles into a natural taper and provides better paint flow. Check for the presence of a filler strip by separating the bristles at the center of the brush and looking down into the ferrule.

One final thing: Those wrappers around quality brushes are not for decoration but to keep the brush properly shaped as well as to keep the bristles clean.

Knives, Gun Confiscated At Party Honoring Castro

NEW YORK (AP)—Police confiscated two knives and a gun from among 250 persons attending a party Thursday night for Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro at his Harlem hotel.

Repercussions continued from the slaying of a Venezuelan child, innocently caught in a battle between rival Cuban groups in a restaurant.

At the party in the Hotel Theresa, detectives found the weapons as they risked persons entering the 11th-floor skylight room. The gun was carried by one of Castro's guards. For future reference, police photos were taken of all guests.

Otherwise it was a peaceful affair. An organization called the Fair Play for Cuba Committee presented Castro with a bust of Abraham Lincoln.

Outside the hotel, Communist party members distributed leaflets entitled "Harlem moves for freedom" to an estimated crowd of 2,000.

Earlier in the day, Castro denounced as "lies" newspaper accounts of how Magdalina Urdaneta, 9, was fatally wounded by a stray bullet Wednesday in a West Side restaurant.

The girl, visiting here with her parents from Caracas, was shot in the back. She died Thursday morning in a hospital.

Police said the fight was touched off, and the shots fired, by Castro sympathizers who spotted anti-Castro men in the restaurant. A pro-Castro man was shot in the shoulder and anti-Castroites were beaten.

Castro blamed the shooting on enemies of his regime, saying: "Sad. They printed lies in the newspapers. The men who made the fire (fired the shots) were the same men who killed 20,000 Cubans and were welcomed to the United States. The United States welcomes all kinds of war criminals. This is the consequence."

It was a fairly quiet day on the campus during the summer session.

The Ayden office, located on the corner of Lee and Third Streets, occupies the space that formerly housed Wheeler's Jewelers. The jewelry firm has moved next door.

Tugwell said the building has been "completely renovated and remodeled inside" and October plans include "a general face-lifting" for the outside.

The front of the new office will be covered with a gray porcelain material and electric clock, 38 inches in diameter, will be mounted above the front door.

Personnel
Tugwell said the Ayden branch "will be fully staffed with experienced personnel." Robert Messner will serve as branch manager. Mrs. Martha Davis of Ayden will be teller and bookkeeper for the office.

The firm executive said, "We are proud to have the opportunity of providing savings and loan services to the people of Ayden and the surrounding community. The services at our Ayden branch will be identical to the services provided at our home office in Greenville."

He continued, "The Ayden branch will be equipped with the latest office machines and will have readily available the resources of the home office which has assets of over $9 million with $450,000 in reserves."

The firm's board of directors and officers are: Dink James, president; J. A. Collins Sr., vice-president; Tugwell, executive vice-president and secretary; Allie P. Whitehurst, treasurer and asst. secretary; Roscoe L. King, loan officer and asst. treasurer; Dr. M. B. Massey; M. K. Blount; Alton R. Barret; Kenneth G. Hite; and C. Frank Dail.

Tugwell said officers and members of the board and their wives had a "preview" of the new branch Wednesday night when they visited the Ayden office before having dinner together at the Greenville Country Club.

These are part of a state plan to widen and deepen the 19-mile long Outfall Channel of the valley's main river, the Jhelum. The first phase of the plan is scheduled to cost 80,000,000 rupees ($16,800,000).

Kashmir Plans To Fight Floods

SRINAGAR, Kashmir (AP)—Kashmir is buying dredgers from the United States and shovels from Britain to keep the valley free from floods.

Two dredgers are scheduled to arrive here in early 1961, each with a dredging capacity of 750 cubic feet per hour.

Bethel Church To Have Rally Day

BETHEL—Rally Day will be on Sunday, Sept. 25. This is the Sunday School Revival Day—a time when emphasis will be given to Christian Education of the Sunday school and the importance of its place in the life of the church, a time of drawing back into the life of the Sunday school those who have become lax in their attendance during the summer. It is also a time to bring in those who are not now a part of it. Help us reach the goal by supporting Rally Day with your attendance and efforts to bring these around you.

Following the Sunday school exercises, the 11 a.m. Rally Day services will be conducted by Rev. D. W. Morton, pastor.

Homecoming dinner will be spread on the church grounds or inside the Sunday school assembly room after the Rally Day worship service. Everybody bring a picnic basket.

Gavin Points To Sales Tax Hike

DURHAM, N.C. (AP)—Republican gubernatorial candidate Robert Gavin says he feels the state should study possible expansion of its sales tax if it needs additional revenue in the near future.

He backed off from earlier contentions that tobacco and soft drinks should be taxed, saying he had not had a chance to look into the matter before.

Gavin was quizzed Thursday night at a news conference televised over Durham station WTVD.

He reiterated his belief that state employees were being made to feel they owed their jobs to their bosses and not the taxpayers, and called again for a statewide civil service system.

"We need a civil service system to protect state employees from abuses," he said. "Civil service is not for the benefit of the state, but to protect employees from political bosses."

The GOP nominee said he felt teacher salaries could be raised substantially without a tax increase. However, he added that if new money were needed to support the government, he favored a study of, and if necessary, an extension of the sales tax.

Searchers Find No Survivors

NAHA, Okinawa (AP)—Search ships found a "lot of bodies in life jackets" but no survivors today amid the wreckage of a U.S. Marine Corps transport plane which crashed in the Pacific with a Marine crew of 6 and 23 Navy men aboard.

The U.S. Navy said all apparently perished but destroyers carried on the search of the crash area 180 miles south-southeast of Okinawa.

BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP)—A falcon, Pearl, who is also something of a film star has defected from Communist Hungary.

Her owner hopes to tempt her back by displaying a meal of pigeons near her loft.

Dr. Harrington drew this conclusion: The tree is a member of the family sapindaceae native to northern China. Genus is xanthoxerax, and the species is sorbifolia.

Second Stay Of Execution For North Carolinian

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Gov. J. Howard Edmondson, saying he wants more time to study the case, granted a second 30-day stay of execution Thursday for Eddie Oxendine, 28, of Pembroke, N.C.

Oxendine and James Spence, 32, of Kinston, N.C., were convicted and sentenced to death for the slaying of a Lawton housewife. Spence was executed Aug. 31.

Edmondson said he wants more time to study a recommendation by the Pardon and Parole Board that Oxendine's death sentence be commuted to life in prison.

Spence admitted shooting Mrs. Ruth Zimmerman, 19, and appeared before the Parole Board in behalf of Oxendine. Subsequently, the board recommended the commutation of the sentence.

No Immediate Results From Talk

President Eisenhower yesterday fired the opening guns of a campaign to sway the thinking of the uncommitted within ranks of the United Nations organization.

The chief spokesman for "the other side" has his inning today.

While the U. S. position was an impressive presentation designed to increase the status and responsibilities of the international body, we would be foolish in the extreme to think it will change the attitudes and policies of Iron Curtain countries. As the saying goes, there are none so deaf as they who will not hear—none so blind as they who will not see.

Nor can we count on reasonableness of the U. S. presentation to overly influence the newcomers or self-styled neutralists.

The "experienced" neutrals have witnessed much of the same thing before. The newcomers can be expected to righteously withhold judgment until after hearing all sides; and their verdict may be influenced more by inflammatory oratory than the calm approach. Too, if the spirit of revolution burns within their breasts a subconscious antipathy to established and and orderly patterns may prevail. Whatever the outcome, it will not be outwardly apparent for a long time to come.

The President figuratively touched all bases in his address.

Disarmament, help to new-born African governments, research in outer space, food-for-peace . . . all under the guiding role of the United Nations . . . were proposed.

Mr. Eisenhower made it clear that an end to rivalries by means of complete cooperation with the UN was America's hope and goal.

Time and again he said individual points of the American program should be handled through the United Nations, and not by governments working at cross-purposes.

To any and all who remember high hopes of a war-weary world in 1945, it comprised a re-endorsement and greater elaboration of those dreams attendant upon the birth of the United Nations.

In years to come people may look upon the address by President Eisenhower as the greatest single effort to make the UN live up to those earliest hopes.

To become effective Premier, Khrushchev would have to reverse past and present policies of his government. That would be tantamount to admitting the error of his ways.

We don't expect that to happen.

The Most Gaudy And Energetic Of Seasons

The calendar tells us this is autumn.

We look for the traditional falling leaves, but there are few. Our trees still carry their burden of green foliage, though it is darkening.

Sundown comes earlier. And some nights a blanket is welcome . . . something summer's warmth made implausible for long months that have passed.

Football practice, football games, football scores; World Series fever, crying towels and cheerleaders . . . they're in season now.

The Householder's experienced eye tells him his shrubbery and lawn show all the signs of Fall. And the cautious people are already having their home heating plants checked over by experts in that field, thus reducing risks in the cold days to come.

Heavy early morning mists are also the order of the day; the crisp clear days of autumn, with their invigorating snap in the air, are "just around the calendar" . . . a treat lying in store for us all.

The fall of the year is often referred to as a tired and aging period, which is a poor impression to give of the weeks and months marking a transition from summer's extremes to those of winter. One could do autumn no greater injustice.

This is the season of nature's gaudiest colors, the bluest skies, the most energetic days.

It's a great time to be out and doing.

World Unready For Big Changes

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP) — The world wasn't ready for the new freedoms and the changing mood of the last half of the 20th Century.

The result is one of the great dilemmas:

The contest between West and East to gain the allegiance of the new and independent nations emerging from colonialism and the older but smaller nations getting impatient with poverty.

Only 15 years ago the United Nations started out with 51 members. Gradually since then, as more nations became independent, the membership climbed.

This week it shot up to 96 with the addition of 13 newly independent African nations and the former British colony of Cyprus.

While batches of them are neutral in the contest between communism and the West.

And in Latin America nations which felt the United States was taking them for granted have begun to assert themselves. They showed this when they wouldn't go all the way with this country in chastising Fidel Castro's Cuba.

Now—and it's almost as if it had happened suddenly—both the United States and Russia have to find new ways to attract the newly free people and the discontented ones.

No wonder Premier Nikita Khrushchev came to the United Nations in New York to speak, perform and otherwise offer inducements.

No wonder President Eisenhower arranged to address the General Assembly and offer aid to the emerging new nations of Africa, and also invited the representatives of 18 Latin American countries to lunch in New York.

Strength For Today

INVISIBLE FORCES

It is good to be reminded, in our materialistic age, of the unseen forces and values which surround us.

Suppose someone showed you a large sphere and proposed that you should try standing on it while he whirled it around at the rate of 1000 miles an hour. Probably you would refuse to have anything to do with such a dangerous pastime.

Yet this is just what we all do, living on the outside of a large sphere which whirles rapidly through space. Gravity, of course, holds us down so securely that it requires a lot of energy to lift ourselves off even for a short time. If gravity were suddenly "turned off," we would be hurled off into space like water spun out of a washing machine.

The force of gravity is only one of the invisible forces which affect our lives. It would be almost as disastrous for us to be whirled off our society as to be whirled off into space. The ties that bind us to our community, our work, our family, our church, are unseen but important. And inside these groups, only the intangible but powerful forces of law, custom, and morals make possible a relatively safe and orderly existence.

The most important things in life are invisible and intangible. Let us never fool ourselves into believing that we know much of the great body of truth. Our knowledge is as a drop of the ocean.

Pitt Vote Is Important

From a discussion on one of Greenville's downtown sidewalks the other night we picked up a few bits of interesting information.

Several men were standing around discussing the weather, the crop situation, local football prospects, the dove-hunting picture, and, of course, politics.

On the latter topic, we learned from the comments going around that Pitt County very definitely has political importance and distinction.

The discussion centered, also, of course, around the upcoming presidential election and most of the commentators, like you and me, were wondering who would win.

Beyond that, they were wondering who would win in North Carolina. There were all kinds of opinions with many of them strikingly contrasting.

Aside from opinions, though, it was mentioned that North Carolina in the presidential tussle of 1956 fell into the Democratic column—but only by a majority of 16,000 votes.

Then somebody pointed out Pitt County in the '56 election provided 10,000 votes of that majority. "In other words," somebody said, "Pitt County pushed the state over for the Democrats."

We are important.

Junius H. Rose High School's football squad opens its home game schedule tonight with a scrap with arch-rival Kinston.

As most folks around here are aware, the Rose High Phantoms have their best opportunity in recent years to bring to Greenville the crown from the North-eastern Conference.

The local eleven has passed a pair of weekend tests with flying colors and stands ready to add its second straight conference win tonight.

Coach Bud Phillips has used the outstanding talent available to produce a closely-knit football "machine," as they call them.

It's been a long, long time since the local footballers have brought home top honors. Should that become a reality this year, it would certainly be refreshing.

But a championship is not won on the first or last day of the season. It is not won on any particular day. Winning teams accomplish their purpose day by day and game by game.

Local interest is always an important part of a high school football squad's success. That success is more meaningful to a town when the wholeness shares it.

Especially this season, when the Phantoms have an excellent opportunity to "bring home the bacon," Greenville folks should continue and intensify their support of the Rose High eleven.

Opinions In Brief

"They say the most embarrassing moment in the world is when your boss finishes doing something you told him couldn't be done."—Lexington Leader.

Worry On Two Sides

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
Copyright, 1960, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

The religious issue in the campaign has both parties worried and they would like to put an end to it. The Democrats fear its consequences. So do the Republicans. Politically, it is one of those issues which proves no point but leaves a great deal of bitterness in its wake.

The Republican position is that John Kennedy is not too popular among Roman Catholics but that the religious issue may force them all to vote for him. The Democrats fear the vice versa of this, namely, that as the campaign advances, Protestants who might have voted for Kennedy, will not.

However, there are important elements in the population who will not be silenced. It can be said, for instance, for Daniel Poling that he is a man of sincerity and decency. His son was one of the Four Chaplains who went down to a watery grave arm-in-arm. One of those chaplains was a Catholic; another, a Jew.

Men like this do not attack the Papacy out of bigotry; they are convinced that the fears of the 6th century must continue. These are the psychological facts which require understanding. John Kennedy's approach to the problem has been politically sound, if ecclesiastically uncertain. He courageously attended a Protestant convocation in Houston and told the ministers just what he thought of the religious issue and what his attitude toward his own church would be were he elected President. They cheered him; but did they cheer his courage, his frankness or his rejection of ecclesiastical control even in matters of faith and morals should he be elected President?

Richard Nixon must do better than he has done so far if he is to keep his lead in the first place, old line Republicans do not understand why he needs all the committees that are announced as supporting and advising him. Many of the names are not a little startling to Republicans. If Nixon follows the Willie pattern of bringing a melange of queer people into the Republican Party, some of his most ardent supporters will move out as they moved away from Wendell Willkie.

Secondly, he has thus far gone out of his way to extol the Eisenhower Administration. But the fact is that some phases of the actions of the Eisenhower Administration are not altogether defensible. What about Cuba? What about the testimony of Ambassadors Gardner and Smith? What about inflation? What about the losses to the gold reserve?

Nixon, in his interview with Walter Cronkite, said something about having learned his politics from Eisenhower. This is corny. Nixon in knee pants was a more able politician than Eisenhower, who managed largely on his personality and his build-up as a war hero. Surely, Nixon has not forgotten that when Harold Stassen organized a campaign to dump Nixon as Vice President, Harold had White House support, and that the President was slow in dumping Stassen whom he regarded as a great liberal mind.

And Nixon cannot forget that his principal political enemy was Sherman Adams who used White House influence to prevent the Vice President from performing when the President was incapacitated. The conduct of both Sherman Adams and James Hagerly still requires explanation for the historical record.

The talk about the changed Richard Nixon is nonsense. Nixon may have grown; he may have had more experience. But what is meant by changing? The whole thing sounds like Moral Re-Armament going into politics. It is sentimental.

Until the candidates get down to issues and cut out the badinage, they cannot be taken very seriously. Thus far, neither has dealt with a public question of major magnitude and time is a-wasting. What are they waiting for? Have they an agreement to mark time and talk nonsense until a certain date? If so, why

Other Editors Saying Kennedy's N. C. Visit

(Washington Daily News)

Some writers are very positive in their statement that the visit of Senator John F. Kennedy to North Carolina last Saturday was a huge success.

Perhaps they are exactly right. But the final determination cannot be measured at this time. Only when the votes are counted on November 8 can we say with any degree of certainty that his visit was a huge success.

Those who saw and met him in Greenville are dedicated Democrats. They came to find what they were looking for—their own party standard-bearer. However, many Democrats came who were perhaps lukewarm to the Kennedy are no longer lukewarm but today stand in the ranks of strong Kennedy supporters.

As we view his visit to Eastern North Carolina from the standpoint of those who went to Greenville, we see not so much a captivating influence in changing voters from one party to another as we do in giving those Democrats there a real pep talk so that they will work much harder than they might have worked otherwise.

Make no mistake about his appearance. He did infuse fire and enthusiasm among peoples of Eastern North Carolina who are already Democrats. And these Democrats went home on Saturday afternoon determined to go out and do battle for the Democratic ticket in November.

A football coach prepares his team for a big game. He might like the practice sessions held prior to the big game, but after all, he cannot measure the real value of the practice sessions until the game is played and the final whistle has blown.

Enthusiasm is often times catching. Indifference is also catching, too, and this matter of getting out the vote is ever so important. And from the standpoint of political realism, if we who live here in Eastern North Carolina do not get enthusiastic and get out a big Democratic vote, we surely cannot expect North Carolina to be in the Democratic column on the night of November 8.

The fact that Senator Kennedy came our way, the fact that he spoke to thousands of North Carolinians, the fact that he was bubbling over with appeal and the fact that he met far heels on our own grounds all combine to make his chances of carrying North Carolina much better.

If we will all realize that North Carolina is a real battleground and that enthusiasm, hard work, and determination have no substitutes, then when those votes are counted after the election, we can very proudly proclaim that Mr. Kennedy's visit to North Carolina was the real success we want it to be now.

Quote

"Our fondness for collectivism and its appurtenant togetherness serves the communist ambition well. For it weakens the sinews of our industrial power and tends to soften up the tone of our productive will. It also relieves the communist apparatus of much heavy expense since we voluntarily destroy ourselves by inches. The comrades have only to urge us on in the direction we seem to have chosen, that leading to the welfare state."—Oregon Voter.

Taxes Cause Return Of Barter

By ELMER ROESSNER

Back in the days of the depression, bartering displaced hard money transactions in many areas.

There were two phases of bartering.

There was the grim phase. People without any at all traded their shoats and their corn for flour and calico at stores that would barter.

There was a gay phase, in which people with perhaps a little money would swap paintings and knit kerchiefs for tickets to shows.

Now, in these days of prosperity, bartering has come back. But it has come in a different way and for a different reason.

The reason is taxes. When money is changed for goods, the tax men collect their ounce of flesh and take the blood too. But when goods are exchanged for other goods or for labor—the tax men are often at a loss. So, as the poverty of the Thirties caused barter to displace currency, so is the taxation of the Sixties making barter displace financial deals.

Barter is now much larger, much grander than it was in depression days. Then a cake might get a woman a seat in a show. Today a 1961 car at fleet prices may get a corporation a good salesman and little more than his previous earning power.

It is most flagrant at the top.

An executive earning $50,000 a year would be little interested in a new job paying $60,000. After taxes, his increase might not keep him in cognac and yacht sails. So corporations barter.

A new car every year at 20 per cent under list; paid membership in a country club where he might meet business prospects; a month in summer at the Biarritz office; a month in winter at the Miami Beach office; furniture and appliances at wholesale prices through the company purchasing department, and use of the company yacht (for business entertainment purposes, of course!) for 30 days a year.

FILTERING DOWN

"That," as the song says, "is entertainment." It's also barter on a grand scale, and the ways noted above are only a few of thousands.

Goods instead of money are used below the executive level.

Grub is a common currency. Plant A may get good workers while Plant B muddles along with misfits. The reason may be that the A bus gives better service than the B bus; it may be that the walls of the A plant are more restive than the walls of the B plant—but the chances are that the A plant runs a better cafeteria. It may offer a thick slice of ham, two eggs and crisp potatoes for 49 cents while the B plant is trying to break even with a thin slice of ham, scrambled eggs, soggy toast and mashed potatoes for 97 cents.

This tax-escaping barter goes on and on. Out of it may emerge some guides:

1. Never sell or buy when you can swap. You may save taxes.

2. As far as legally possible, pay employees in goods instead of cash. You may save them and yourself income and Social Security taxes.

3. Use goods and services as much as possible in bidding for both executive and other employees.

4. Offer premiums instead of cash as incentives. Sure, premiums are taxed as income, but the tax is based on the resale value, not the agreement.

5. Consider low cost housing, low-cost use of rental auto consumer goods at cost, cheap baby-sitting services, and other tax-avoiding gimmicks to attract personnel you want.

The only danger is that some day the Internal Revenue Service may blow the whistle on you.

Micah's View of Religion

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Micah 6:1-8.

"Hear ye, O mountains, the Lord's controversy, and ye strong foundations of the earth: for the Lord hath a controversy with His people, and He will plead with Israel."—Micah 6:2.

"O My people, what have I done unto thee, wherein have I wearied thee? ... For I brought thee up out of the land of Egypt, and redeemed thee out of the house of servants."—Micah 6:4.

"Wherewith shall I come before the Lord, and bow myself before the High God? Shall I come before Him with burnt offerings? ... Will He be pleased with rams?"—Micah 6:6-7.

"He hath shewed thee, O man, what is good; and what doth the Lord require of thee, but to justify, and to love mercy."—Micah 6:8.

MEMORY VERSE—Micah 6:8.

Micah's View of Religion

THE UNREASONABLENESS OF MAN'S CONTINUING TO LIVE IN SIN WHILE ATTEMPTING TO PLACATE GOD BY OUTWARD ACTS OF WORSHIP.

Scripture—Micah 6:1-8.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

THIS LESSON is brief, but as the Rev. Dr. Wilbur M. Smith writes in his Peloubet's Notes, it "contains one of the most famous ethical statements of the Old Testament, which carries a great truth we should all acknowledge, but which, at the same time, must not be taken as summarizing all the basic truths revealed to us in the Word of God."

"God asks Judah why she has found serving Him a wearisome burden."

He calls on the mountains and hills to hear His voice. "Hear ye, O mountains, the Lord's controversy, and ye strong foundations of the earth: for the Lord hath a controversy with His people, and He will plead with Israel."—Micah 6:2.

MEMORY VERSE

"He hath shewed thee, O man, what is good; and what doth the Lord require of thee, but to do justly, and to love mercy, and to walk humbly with thy God."—Micah 6:8.

with His people, and He will plead with Israel."—Micah 6:2.

"O My people, what have I done unto thee? and wherein have I wearied thee? and wherein have I brought thee up out of the house of servants; and I sent before thee Moses, Aaron and Miriam" (sister of the two).—Micah 6:3-4.

This is but one illustration of God's goodness to His people. "O My people, remember now what Balaak king of Moab consulted, and what Balaak the son of Beor answered him from Shittim unto Gilgal: that ye may know the righteousness of the Lord."—Micah 6:5.

God's goodness to Israel was in the frustration of the plan formed by the Moabish king Balaak to destroy Israel by means of the curses of Balaak (Num 22-25).—Peloubet's Select Notes.

"The prophet now puts into words Judah's answer to God: 'Wherewith shall I come before the Lord, and bow myself before the High God? shall I come before Him with burnt offerings, with calves of a year old? Will the Lord be pleased with thousands of rams, or with ten thousands of rivers of oil? shall I give my firstborn for my transgression, the fruit of my body for the sin of my soul?'—Micah 6:6-7.

It seems a simple matter, but we may find sometimes that it is not so easy to follow. No boasting of the good we may do, or of our cleverness in business or our churchgoing or sports but humbly walking in God's and Christ's ways, giving love instead of dislike. God will help us if we pray to Him earnestly and sincerely.

The answer to what must seem to us a brutal and outrageous question was: "He hath shewed thee, O man, what is good; and what doth the Lord require of thee, but to do justly, and to love mercy, and to walk humbly with thy God?"—Micah 6:8.

Red Oak Christian Announcements
Dr. Robert L. Holt, Dean of Instruction at East Carolina College, will be the guest speaker at Sunday's morning worship service at Red Oak Christian Church.

From 1945 to 1960 Dr. Holt was minister at Baptist churches in North Carolina, including North Warren and Norlina. Dr. Holt is a deacon and teacher of the R. E. Lee Young Men's Bible Class of the Memorial Baptist Church of Greenville.

The Sanctuary Choir will sing "Great Is Thy Faithfulness," by Christolm-Runyan.

Flowers will be provided by Mr. and Mrs. H. H. May, Mrs. W. S. May and Mrs. H. W. Nobles.

Rev. Howard James left on Tuesday by plane to attend the Annual Board Meeting of the Southern Christian Home in Atlanta. On Thursday he went on to Jacksonville, Fla. to attend the board meeting of the Florida Christian Home.

Mrs. Harry Shonts of Winston-Salem is the other representative of North Carolina Christian Churches elected to serve on the Benevolent Home Boards at our Kingston State Convention in April.

The General C. W. F. Meeting scheduled for Sept. 26 has been postponed until a later date.

Sanctuary Choir rehearsal will be held Tuesday, Sept. 27, at 7:30 p.m. All members are urged to be present.

Our Membership and Evangelism is sponsoring Church Loyalty Month during October by encouraging every church family to attend each of the five special services planned for the Sundays of October. Attendance count downs will be held each Sunday with absentees being notified.

Grace F. W. B. Announcements
"What Is Real Religion?" will be the subject in the Sunday school at 9:45 a.m. Memory selection: "He hath shewed thee, O man, what is good; and what doth the Lord require of thee, but to do justly, and to love mercy, and to walk humbly with thy God?" (Micah 6:8). Robert Legg is superintendent.

"Christian Leadership Training" will be the subject for the pastor's message at 11 o'clock. A solo, "I'd Rather Have Jesus," will be rendered by Jimmie Spain. This Sunday is "Bible College Day." All members in the church are urged to bring an offering for the Bible College.

All league officers and sponsors are requested to meet at 6:45 p.m. to discuss ways and means of improving the league, as requested by the director, Bobby Smith. The leagues will meet at 6:45. Plans are being made to start a Christian Leadership Training Course. One section is to be taught in the Sunday school and one section in the league. All members of the church and friends will have an opportunity to enroll in the course.

The evening service at 7:45 will feature a quartet from the Free Will Baptist Bible College. No one will want to miss this service.

COMING EVENTS: Simultaneous Missionary Conference, involving 21 churches in this area, will be conducted October 18-23.

Anyway, Canyon Has A River
THERMOPOLIS, Wyo. (AP) — What river flows through Wyoming's scenic Wind River Canyon? Don't automatically say "Wind River." You may be wrong.

Somewhere the Wind River changes its name to the Big Horn River and there's a difference of opinion where the change comes. But everyone agrees that the canyon is the "Wind River Canyon."

The Wyoming State Engineer's office has chosen the confluence of the Wind and Little Wind rivers near Riverton as the birthplace of the Big Horn River. Therefore, under that interpretation it is the Big Horn River which flows through the Wind River Canyon.

On the other hand, the U. S. Geological Survey contends that the stream's name is changed to the Big Horn River at the mouth of the Wind River Canyon — and the Wind River actually flows through the canyon.

SOCIAL WASH
LOCKPORT, N. Y. (AP) — So-called social wash seems to be a by-product of the self-service laundry. Mr. and Mrs. John Slickland, proprietors of a laundromat, say one customer comes because she does not like to wash at home alone.

Sokolsky Col.

Public apathy toward this campaign increases as the candidates continue to be so polite that one would imagine that they were at a tea party instead of a political debate. It sounds like a Dewey campaign.

Richard Nixon is a fierce fighter who goes after an opponent with all the means at his command. He is not a soft man. The same is true of John Kennedy. They are both acting as though some old lady told them to behave themselves. Swing, boys, swing!

It had been Mrs. Butterfield who by taking over Mrs. Harris's clients temporarily had enabled Mrs. Harris a year or so ago to make a flying trip to Paris for the exciting and romantic purpose of buying a Dior dress, which same trophy now hung in Mrs. Harris's wardrobe as a daily reminder of how wonderful and adventurous life can be to one who has a little energy, stick-to-itiveness and imagination to make it so.

Ah'm afeared they have got me, Kiss me good-by, ol' Cayuse." Ugh!" said Mrs. Harris. I can't stand any more of that caterwauling. Turn it off, will you, love?" Mrs. Butterfield obediently leaned over and switched off the radio, remarking, "It's real sad, 'im being shot and wanting 'is 'orse to kiss 'im. Now we'll never know if it did."

Churches Warned May Lose Tax Exemptions

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Treasury said today any church which uses parishioners' contributions to finance distribution of political campaign material might jeopardize its tax exemption. However, a spokesman said any case would have to be considered by itself before the Internal Revenue Service could determine whether the facts warranted such action.

Price Supports, Land Retirement Plans From Nixon

Tito, Khrushchev Seem Almost Like A Pair Of Allies

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Nikita Khrushchev looked at his foreign minister, Andrei A. Gromyko, and smiled. He seemed pleased.

On the rostrum at the U.N. General Assembly session was the self-assured enigma of the cold war, President Tito of Yugoslavia. He had just remarked about the situation in the Congo.

An onlooker wondered: Were Tito and Khrushchev much closer than the world outside the Red orbit might suspect? Tito claims to be a neutral, but his Assembly address indicated neutrality heavily weighted on the Soviet side.

Tito was publicly thrown out of the Communist satellite family by Stalin in 1948, ostensibly in a fight over Moscow's right to dictate. He never got back in, although he came close just before the revolution in Hungary tossed the Communist world into an uproar.

Now, in the light of the ideological row with the Red Chinese, Khrushchev himself looks more and more like a Titoist. The Red Chinese are all but saying so outright. The exigencies of the time require some new Communist policy twists, and the day may not be far off when Tito can be of great value to Moscow.

How about Tito's speech? Well, he pictured himself as a potential bridge between two colossal powers, the Soviet Union and the United States.

How did this neutralism sound? It seemed to go down the line for Khrushchev to a greater extent than might have been expected.

Take this remark: "Owing to the policy pursued toward dependent and newly independent countries by the colonial powers as well as by other powers which support this policy for various reasons...conflicts and crises arise as in the case of the Congo, of Cuba...and seriously imperil world peace."

And this one: "It is our profound belief, however, that the assistance of the United Nations in the Congo has not proved sufficiently effective, primarily because there have been serious omissions and shortcomings in carrying out the resolutions of the Security Council."

The Russians said the same thing in stronger language, after

By ERNEST B. VACCARO

SIoux FALLS, S. D. (AP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon proposed to Midwestern farm voters today what he called "an effective system" of price supports and a greatly expanded land retirement program.

Once price-depressing surplus farm stocks are reduced to bring supply into a better relationship with demand, he said, "we should move to a long-term price support system with levels based on an average of market prices over the immediately preceding crop year."

The Republican presidential candidate outlined a six-point program to "keep new burdensome surpluses from accumulating" in a campaign address prepared for delivery at the National Plowing Contest, Sen. John F. Kennedy, his Democratic rival, proposed a six-point program of his own before the same group Thursday.

Nixon did not spell out details of his price support ideas—or say at what crop-to-crop levels he is aiming.

But he declared: "Price supports have a place, and an important place, in a dynamic program for farm progress. The challenge before us is to find ways to use them intelligently to help farmers."

It was the second phase of his two-part approach to the farm, which he called "Operation Safeguard."

The first phase, which he offered last week at Guthrie Center, Iowa, and called "Operation Consume," is designed to reduce the current 9-million-dollar government-held surplus to manageable levels over a period of four years.

His program today called for:

1. The "substantial expansion" of the soil bank program on a "temporary basis" by stepped-up voluntary retirement of productive as well as marginal lands for periods of from 3 to 10 years, at fair rentals, where they add to excess production.
2. An "effective system" of price supports, saying "first we must get through the transition period of cutting down the price-depressing surplus that overhangs the market, and of bringing agriculture into better balance." He generalized on this, but said that the U. S., by putting aside "self-serving politicking," should free itself from "fixations upon any pet formulas, any slogans and symbols."

3. A full mobilization of the rural development program for low income farm families to provide more full-time and part-time job opportunities by encouraging local industrialization.

4. Meeting the cost-price squeeze head-on through support of producer cooperatives "and by going all-out" to find new markets at home and abroad, strengthening credit facilities, marketing service and production aids to hold down costs.

5. A crash agricultural research program to reduce production and distribution costs and determine new industrial and other uses for farm crops.

6. Creation of a presidential council of farmers and ranchers to give advice on farm programs. Nixon campaigned in Illinois Thursday, stopping to make an airport address at Decatur and later a big rally at Rockford.

Nixon told his Decatur audience he is opposed to fastening government controls over the farmers "forever and forever," and that his proposals are aimed at giving to them their "fair share" of the country's general prosperity.

He leaves Rockford by motorcade at 9 a.m. for a speech at Beloit, Wis., dedicating a boy's club before flying to Sioux Falls. He plans to wind up the day's campaigning with a speech tonight at a Republican rally in the Municipal Auditorium at Kansas City, Kans., where he will remain overnight.

Sheriff Iver Johnson estimated that there were more than 5,000 persons in the crowd that gave Nixon and his wife, Pat, a screening ovation in the National Guard Armory at Rockford.

Nixon told them that United States economic policies under President Eisenhower have "paid off" while those advocated by Kennedy were "left behind in 1953."

He accused Kennedy and his colleagues of "talking down American strength, apparently in every field they can think of." Kennedy, he said, is "obsessed with finding weaknesses."

Ceramics Exhibit Draws Attention

Ceramics made by Harley V. Woodard of Route 2, Grifton, senior art student at East Carolina College, are now on display in the Kate Lewis Gallery in the Rawl building on the campus. The exhibition is attracting more than usual interest among art lovers both in the city and on the campus.

Woodard's display of pottery is the first senior art exhibition to be presented by the East Carolina department of art during the 1960-1961 term. It will be open to the public through next week.

The student artist has concentrated on ceramics for the past four quarters at the college. During the summer he set up a home studio and with the help of his father made his own pottery wheel. Much of the work included in the exhibition was done during vacation, while Woodard was away from the campus.

Variety and originality in size, shape, and arrangement characterize Woodard's show. Included are planters, bottles, cups, bowls, a 63-inch vase, and other designs. Use of plants and of dried arrangements produce a blend of the functional and the aesthetic in the exhibition.

The 63-inch vase has attracted the interest of a number of visitors to the Kate Lewis Gallery. It was made in three sections and has a leaf-like design around its neck. It first received bisque and glaze firing and was then laminated together with ceramic adhesive.

Dust Particles Can Tell Secrets

CHICAGO (AP)—Spying on hidden armies now can be done by counting dust particles in the air.

A research foundation has developed the technique with a device called a particle counter. Mounted on an airplane or placed near a road junction, it would measure the size and concentration of dust particles.

Monitors then could use this information to follow the movement of men and vehicles.

Not One Traditional Thread Found To Reveal Story Of Old Grist Mill

By F. ROY JOHNSON
Roanoke-Chowan News
(Written for The Associated Press)

MENOLA, N.C. (AP) — The stories of tradition have long been silent. . . 75 years and perhaps many more.

And were it not for the still intact mill dam, handwoven mud silts resting a full foot below the black water, and an attractive table in a Menola home there would be nothing left to point the way to the story of a little grist mill that was representative of one phase of early development of plantation life in old Bertie Precinct, which generally corresponded with other areas of North Carolina.

Today's old timers, counting their ages from 75 to 90 and including Jake Parker, Oscar Ouland and Alfred Furell of Menola, and Dr. Cliffo Parker of Woodland and Frank Liverman of St. Johns, put their heads together the other day to see if they could piece up the story of the little mill. But not one traditional thread could they find.

No one could recall oldtimers of their boyhood offering an explanation of the silent mill race, the second growth of large trees on the mill dam, absence of a bell bottom tree in the pond area where giant oaks were thriving.

Jake Parker, owner of the old site, said: "There seems to be only pleasant stories of youngsters catching fish in the old mill race."

Hertford County records have offered no help.

Ownership can be traced through six persons to W.N.H. Smith who owned it during the Civil War, but where the Yankees burned the Hertford County Courthouse along with the town of Winton in February of 1862 they ended the record.

When Smith became chief justice of North Carolina he sold a 12-acre tract on the mill branch to Cherry Miller, a colorful Negro woman. Old timers recall she gave the branch its present name. The deed refers to the parcel as a part of the "Bryant Tract."

Yet upon the void a parallel story throws some light upon the little mill's role in the building of the area.

Timber appraisers Louis Griffith of Murfreesboro and Charlie Hale of Scotland Neck classify it as a "branch" mill site; and the note it is one of several they have seen between the Roanoke and Chowan rivers. Griffith recalls there are three on one branch near Rich Square.

These were the small mills of the early plantations, and Griffith whose forebears obtained an original land grant on the Meherrin River ventures "nearly every plantation with a good branch or swamp had a mill of this kind."

He also is a veteran water mill operator and observed "some of these mills were so small I suppose they could grind a bushel of corn or wheat in two or three hours."

His sharp eye has told him: "The builders of these mills knew what they were doing. They were experts at choosing sites." Fall and ease of construction were the main considerations.

The little water wheel of the Cherry Branch mill may have turned nearly a century, but it could not go on tirelessly forever. Needs both of the plantation and the community mills found a place. Soon after 1800 a mill and a half from Cherry Liverman's Mill, designed to harness the waters of the large Curtawhiskie Swamp watershed, rose to become Hertford County's largest water mill.

Griffith, the old miller, explains the little mills of the area may have plodded on for a while after rising of the larger mills. But one day there came a heavy rain to wash out the dam or the equipment broke down. The owners found it more advantageous to pay grinding toll at the large mill than to make the repair.

This must have been the story of Cherry Branch Mill, ending about a century and a half ago. The story of the large mills concluded in the last half century. While once there were dozens there are now only two within 20 miles.

But one of the mud sills of Cherry Branch Mill has been preserved as a thing of beauty. A few years ago Clarence and Philip Parker, sons of Jake Parker, removed the hand hewn heart pine sill from the dark waters of the mill site, sawed it into lumber and fashioned a table for a neighbor.

Airplanes Given 'Flight Tests' In Laboratory

By FRANK CAREY
AP Science Writer

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — In one of the world's largest rooms, a crew of saboteurs is at work — trying to wreck the Air Force's newest airplanes, including the new B-58 supersonic jet bomber.

But the Air Force knows all about them; in fact, it pays them well to dream up and apply ways and means of wrecking aircraft that cost the taxpayers millions of dollars.

These saboteurs are on our side. Their job is to subject whole airplanes to a laboratory duplication of the worst possible punishment they might take in flight from a foe potentially more dangerous than the enemy cannon — the air through which planes fly.

The idea is to put unknown or previously undetected structural weaknesses in a given aircraft — so that amends can be made before aircraft of this type are put in service. If such an aerodynamic Achilles Heel is found in a replica of a plane already in service, all planes of this type are immediately grounded until the potential trouble can be rectified.

Problems Build Up

The saboteurs — engineers of the "Structures Test Facility" at the Air Force's Wright Air Development Division — subject the aircraft to the great mechanical "loads" they would face from the pressure of air, and also to the terrific heating encountered from air friction. Both problems increase as the speed capabilities of aircraft go up.

And, not only are they keen on spotting gross weaknesses that might doom a plane on its first trip aloft. They also test planes for potential "structural fatigue" — the gradual weakening of the structure from tiny strains applied over a long period of time.

The idea of the fatigue tests is to forecast in advance the service lifetime of a given aircraft — so as to make sure it's never exceeded.

Laboratory for the various kinds of tests is a huge hangar-like building having one central room 260 feet long, 170 feet wide and high as an eight-story building.

Currently, a huge B-58 bomber literally hangs in mid-air inside the great room.

During an actual test, the plane would be freed of the derricks supporting it — and allowed, in effect, to "fly."

Plane Kept 'Aloft'

That is, it would be supported by the same aerodynamic forces that help keep a plane aloft in flight. A hydraulic system can apply air pressures to the plane, keeping it "aloft" — and also leaving it free to pitch, roll and yaw as it well might do, in actual flight.

Equipment at the test facility is capable of applying pressures up to 1,500 pounds per square inch and temperatures up to 10,000 degrees Fahrenheit.

Soon, however, the laboratory will have a heating system, employing special types of radio waves for testing nose cones of ballistic missiles and combination missile-winged aircraft spaceships of the future.

The engineers say present stress tests on winged aircraft — and also on such things as liquid oxygen tanks of Atlas and Thor missiles — involve subjecting them to 1 1/2 times the worst stress they might encounter in actual flight.

"Thanks to the latest in electronic aids — including high-speed computers — structural weakness can ordinarily be detected prior to an actual structural break."

Frost On The Pumpkin Brings Rise In Liquor Sales

By REESE HART
RALEIGH (AP) — Bare long the frost will be on the pumpkin, cold weather will be at hand — and the sale of legal liquor will increase in North Carolina.

Figures over the years show that ABC liquor store sales invariably rise with the advent of cold weather. December is the peak month.

Liquor sales during December are 50 per cent larger than for any average month," said Carl Wester, in charge of North Carolina's ABC store sales. There are two reasons for this: (1) the Christmas season, and (2) cold weather months spur liquor sales.

He added, "Some people who don't buy liquor at any other time during the year buy it during the Christmas season to make eggnog."

Whisky sales reflected economic conditions. Wester noted that in some eastern North Carolina counties last year the tobacco crop was not of the best quality and this was reflected in a decline in liquor store sales. Liquor is a luxury item. When people are enjoying a good income they spend more for liquor.

ABC store sales in North Carolina for the first eight months of this year amounted to $48,904,823, an increase of 12.47 per cent over the same period last year.

Wester attributed the increase to (1) a campaign to alert the public about poisonous moonshine liquor, (2) strong law enforcement and (3) good economic conditions.

He noted that at least eight persons in the Winston-Salem area died this year from drinking poisoned moonshine whisky. This caused an upsurge in legal liquor sales. For the first eight months of this year Winston-Salem's ABC stores took in $4,159,985, a gain of about 35 per cent.

As usual, Mecklenburg County led all units in total sales with $7,728,092 for the eight-month period. Greensboro was next with $5,129,175. The increase for Mecklenburg and Greensboro ranged from 12 to 15 per cent over the same period last year.

Probably 40 per cent of the legal whisky sold in Charlotte is to people in surrounding dry counties and to South Carolina residents," Wester said.

Before Mecklenburg became legally wet in 1947, many Mecklenburg drinkers went to South Carolina to buy liquor, Wester asserted. He added, "Now is has reversed. Many South Carolina people drive to Mecklenburg to buy bonded liquor because the price is 25 to 50 cents cheaper per pint."

We do not promote the sale of whisky and you can submerge the profit motive, but you cannot overlook the profits for the last 25 years. Tremendous profits by ABC stores have either reduced or prevented county or city tax increases that otherwise would have been inevitable in the localities where they have legal liquor sales."

He went on to say that North Carolina has shown a bigger increase in legal liquor sales this year than any monopoly state. A monopoly state is one in which the state controls the sale of liquor. An open state is one in which a qualified person may obtain a license to operate a liquor store.

Wester said that in July a tax increase of about 10 per cent went into effect in Virginia on liquor. During the first month Virginia's sales were down 13 per cent.

"We've gotten back the liquor business along the Virginia border that we lost to Virginia when our prices went up a few years back," Wester stated. "We are as cheap or cheaper on our prices than Virginia."

Bourbon is the biggest seller in North Carolina's ABC stores. Blended whisky is next and vodka third, Wester said.

Hundreds Expected To Be In Bike Road-e-o Saturday

Preparations are nearly complete for the first of what may become annual bicycle road-e-os in Greenville tomorrow.

Sponsored by the Greenville Moose Lodge, the event will be supervised by members of the State Highway Patrol, the Greenville Police Department, and members of the Drivers License Examiners office.

Lodge Civic Affairs Chairman Merrill Eynum has announced receipt of 870 questionnaires distributed among youngsters of city and county schools. "I don't think we'll have quite that many entries in the riding competition," says Eynum, "but we are prepared to handle that many Saturday."

The written test, a prerequisite for the riding test planned tomorrow, was prepared by the N. C. Department of Motor Vehicle Driver Education and Accident Records Division.

The bicycle road-e-o is primarily a program to develop safety consciousness among youngsters. Similar programs have been conducted in many communities across the state in past years.

New bicycles will be given winners in three age brackets: those of 6, 7 and 8 years; those of 9, 10 and 11; and those of 12, 13 and 14 years old. Runners-up in the three groups will be given a pen and pencil set. A large number of tickets to motion picture theaters and a miniature golf range will also be distributed. There will also be refreshments, and a bicycle safety film will be shown contestants.

The riding test for bicyclists will be administered on the paved parking lot of the Moose Lodge. That test, too, was prepared by the Dept. of Motor Vehicle Driver Education and Accident Records Division.

Competition has been scheduled to begin at 1:00 p.m. Saturday. A preparatory meeting was held last Tuesday evening at which time procedures for handling the competition were discussed.

The group will gather Saturday morning at the Moose Lodge to prepare the riding course for the afternoon's program.

London Today Is 'Naughty' City

LONDON (AP) — With more than 1,000 stripteases nightly shedding their chemises in 200 clubs, London has become perhaps the naughtiest capital in Europe.

A new law cleared the streets of prostitutes. Now instead of thronging the thoroughfares of the British capital, the good-time girls are cluttering up the private clubs now mushrooming in London.

In the single section of Stepney, at least 32 private clubs are operating where you can pick up a girl almost as easily as you can pick up the check.

In none of Europe's capitals can you see in volume the sort of stripping that blatantly goes on in London.

One striptease club says it's members include several millionaires and 10 members of the British Parliament.

Some Londoners predict the town's going to get even naughtier, because of gambling.

They say the country's new gaming laws—which will probably go into effect in the next 12 months — will allow baccarat, chemin de fer and roulette.

Already the money spent on gambling, mostly horse racing, totals more than $47, million pounds ($1,811,600,000) annually. The Churches' Council on Gambling is taking a serious view of the situation, particularly of what might lie ahead.

Said a spokesman in an interview: "Once individuals in desperation gambled recklessly, in the present time it is rather that a sense of social unease is growing in the general mind of society, bringing restlessness to more and more individuals."

'Saving For A Rainy Day' Sees Popularity Growth

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP) — Is saving for a rainy day making a comeback in popularity? Institutions that encourage it think so.

The U. S. Treasury is selling more Savings Bonds. Many banks report a gain in time deposits. Savings and loan associations report a sharp increase in savings from July to August. Investment in life insurance policies continues to rise. And repayment of outstanding installment debt is taking a sizable portion of personal income—a sort of saving in reverse.

The pickup in the saving rate since July is in sharp contrast to the trend in the April-June quarter when the net savings pace slowed notably.

Mortgage debt went up by $3 billion and installment debt by $2 billion during that earlier period. Americans put aside a billion in the second quarter but the year before they had saved $3 billion.

The summer switch to larger savings may herald a more conservative trend in family budget thinking. If so, it fits in with reports that consumers are growing more cautious in their buying plans.

But it also could coincide with the drop in personal income in certain groups, notably farmers and those employed in industries where production slowdowns have been frequent—that is, many who might have gone on adding to their debts were holding onto what they had instead.

A record volume of repayment of installment debt in July held the net gain in that form of consumer credit to $249 million. A cut in consumer spending was also a big factor, but part of this was doubtless seasonal. The biggest net gain in installment debt reported so far this year was $533 million in April.

The total of personal income—now at a $407.6 billion annual rate—continued to rise during the summer, but the rate of increase was notably smaller, and for a number of groups there was a decline.

This is credited with dampening consumer spending ardor. Also working to build up caution was the uncertainty over business prospects, disturbing international affairs, and weakness in the stock market.

Did See Woman Tied To A Chair

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Patrolman Don Lowe glanced through a window at 2 a.m. and spotted a woman tied to a chair.

Lowe entered the home, but the woman was no longer in the chair.

"Where's the girl?" he asked.

"The girl? That's my wife. She has been posing for pictures," a man said. The woman stepped into the room and confirmed his statements.

The couple showed police a marriage license and were advised to pull the blinds during any future early morning photography sessions.

ECC Vs. Guilford At College Stadium

By JOHNNY HUDSON
Reflector Sports Editor

The leather starts popping for the college dandy of this area, East Carolina, tomorrow night when King football makes his exordium in the form of a contest between the deep-shallow Bucs and once-beaten Guilford College.

The game between these two North State schools won't draw any headlines on the state scene or won't decide any conference title but it will weigh heavy for both teams.

Jack Boone's troop of masqueraders would like to triumph in order to begin erasing "skeptical talk" in this area. And this young pack of Pirates have three long weeks of toil and sweat behind.

Guilford is desirous for reasons involving its pride: (1) The Quakers haven't beaten East Carolina since 1939 when they won 20-0. A win would erase a mental block. (2) A Guilford team has never scored on a Boone-coached club, dating back to 1952. In four years of competition, the Boonemen have kept the scoreboards busy with 128 points.

The Quakers hold the edge in experience, entering the field of combat last week and suffering a deep wound—a 19-7 setback to Elon. For East Carolina, this is its opener.

Neither club is picked as a conference-beater and both coaches seem honest in saying they "don't know what to expect."

Boone, the East Carolina mentor, will lead with his ace, Glenn Bass, in the 8:00 curtain-lifter. The speedy Wilson senior is the man with the trigger in the Pirate arsenal.

Hitting the sport pages with a splash, Bass led the conference in rushing in 1959 with 833 yards and an 8-3 average per crack. He scored 14 touchdowns and grabbed 15 passes, covering 342 yards. He is considered one of the best trotters in EC history.

How well the men up front can shake Bass loose will determine largely how East Carolina will fare.

Sonny Bassinger, Tommy Matthews and Mac Thacker give the Bucs three more steady runners, a department where ECC isn't hurting.

Nick Hilgert has the inside shot for fullback. He has been impressive in pre-season practice and the staff, led by Boone, have heaped praise on his improvement.

Quarterback still worries the ECC coaches and if one can't do the job, don't be surprised if Boone makes some rapid and frequent changes.

Three inexperienced signal-callers—Burt Stafford, Gary Parker, and Dan Rouse—have been in the running all the way. Stafford, the only senior of the lot, will start tomorrow.

East Carolina's big selling point up front is Chuck Gordon, a co-captain will all types of potentials. But there's no soft peddling in the Davis boys—Wayne and Vernon.

Other starters in the forward wall will likely be Bob Gregson, Clayton Piland, Jones Lockerman and Bobby Bumgardner. But reserves will be called on frequently, ranging from the freshman giant Skipper Duke to mite-size Dempsey Williams, the smallest Buc lineman.

The Quakers are minus the scoring punch supplied by John Meroney, their all-time star, last year. But returning are enough veterans to give them a formidable club.

Jim Stutts, a converted end, has been shifted to fullback and is the big gunner for the Quakers. But other past stars such as Brodie Baker and Jim Elks join forces with Stutts to provide ample scoring talent.

Coach Herb Appenzeller, embarking upon his fifth year at the helm, predicts better defense in 1960. "We were a good offensive club last year but was the worst defensive team in the conference," he cited.

Wayne Henley, a 1958 All-Conference choice, anchors the forward wall from the tackle post. Others back from last season are Charlie Abernathy, Walter Wiggins, Fred Barringer, Larry Younts, and Jack Holley.

Game time for the North State battle is 8:00. Tickets are still available and may be obtained from the East Carolina athletic department.

PIRATES' GLENN BASS . . . All-Conference back

Don't Forget Tonight

A weekend full of flying footballs will be in store for Greenville and Pitt County residents, starting tonight.

The undefeated Greenville Phantoms go after victory number three tonight at the East Carolina College stadium. Arch-rival Kinston is the opposition. Kinston won the last meeting of the two teams in 1959, 13-7. Pre-game pronosticators give Greenville a two-touchdown edge.

Other teams in this area are also in action. Farmville will be on the road, meeting Mt. Olive in a non-conference stop. Ayden plays at Robersonville in what shapes up to be a rock-and-sock affair of the unbeaten.

Another game involving unbeaten will take place tonight when Epps High entertains H. B. Sugg High of Farmville. Both clubs have won their first two games.

Tomorrow night, East Carolina College takes the wraps off its 1960 club, meeting Guilford at the local stadium.

Epps, Sugg Are Set For Battle Tonite

Epps High and H. B. Sugg High of Farmville open tonight what could become a strong rivalry in years to come. The two schools meet on the football field and ironically enough, both are undefeated.

H. B. Sugg completed work for tonight's battle Wednesday evening with a rough scrimmage. Epps did likewise except they worked under the lights.

Both coaches, Percy Daniels of Epps and J. T. Evans of Sugg, were hopeful of victory tonight. H. B. Sugg, a class below Epps, rallied in the final seconds last week to come into the game undefeated. The Bulldogs of Greenville have had an easier time in registering its two wins thus far.

Halfbacks Sam McKenzie, Willie Wilks and Willie Nelson will feature the Sugg offensive attack. Epps will counter with

Jail Inmates Can Claim A World All Their Own

By MIKE ROUSE
 Goldsboro News-Argus Reporter
 Written for The Associated Press
 GOLDSBORO, N.C. (AP) — It was almost sunset. That's the happiest time in the jail. Another long day is almost over.

Cooperative police had booked me on a drummed-up charge so I could get a first-hand look at life behind bars in Wayne County jail.

Deputy Sheriff J. H. Gurley pulled a long steel lever and shouted, "Everybody move over a notch. Company's coming."

I walked in, and was swamped with welcomes like a new brother at a fraternity house.

There were two men, blood brothers, in for drunkenness. A cellmate told me they had been hitchhiking and made the mistake of thumbing a highway patrolman.

There was a youngster about 20, with newspaper clippings to prove how many times he'd been in jail.

A man who wore glasses and dipped snuff reprimanded him. "You oughta be ashamed of it," he said. "But you're proud of those clippings as I would be of a brand new Cadillac."

"At least I've made the papers," said the boy. "That's more than most people can say."

"You'll be another Al Capone," offered someone.

"Al Capone," said the boy, puzzled-looking. "Who's he?"

Supper was served. More conversation occupied the next few hours. Then lights out, and cell doors were closed.

The next morning was Sunday. The first sound was the loud voice of a prisoner down the row of cells:

"Anybody in here got a cigarette?"

"I got one or two," came from the adjoining cell.

"Preciate it. What you in for?"

"The same, I guess. All I know, I woke up in jail."

Early that morning I learned romance was brewing in the jail. The 20-year-old braggart had a crush on a blonde, upstairs in the women's quarters. She was serving 30 days for vagrancy and driving without a license.

The only way they could communicate was through notes, passed back and forth by obliging trustees. And my buddy couldn't read or write. But that didn't matter. There are virtually no secrets behind bars.

While I was sitting on the floor, reading the Sunday paper, Mr. 20-year-old approached, sat down beside me, and nudged my elbow.

"How 'bout writin' a note for me?" he asked.

"To whom?"

"Girl upstairs. I saw her one day in court and we've been writin' ever since."

When I told him I'd write the note, he jumped up, ran into a cell and brought back several paper towels for stationery.

The best I could, I wrote how it was torture to be in the same jail with her and not be able to see her. I read it back over to him, and it suited him. And since we were such buddies he said he'd show me one he got from her.

It was nice. It ended with, "... and when I get out, I will come down to see you and hold your hand and perhaps kiss you."

Sunday is "The Lord's Day," as one cellmate put it, even in jail. The snuff-dipper said three or four preachers usually show up around 2 p.m. each Sunday. They preach into the cellblocks from outside in the hall. The cell doors are locked.

Referring to the jailer, L. R. Cobb, a tall prisoner in brogans commented, "Cobb sure don't let nobody run away from the Lord."

"I got to be here," said the 20-year-old. "But I ain't got to listen."

"That's all of us' trouble now, not listening," said the man in brogans.

"Religion's all right," said another man. "It's kinda like likker. It ain't easy to get started on. But once you get a taste for it, it sure is good."

And from the way he said it, you knew, somehow, that he wouldn't always be behind bars.

Women Find Fall Clean-Up A Habit; Men Save Memories

By HAL BOYLE
 NEW YORK (AP)—Autumn is the time wives often pick to do one of their periodic, thorough jobs of housecleaning.

"The weather is just right for it," said my own wife, who is in this mood herself.

When I asked her why women did these things, she said: "It is good for their immortal souls. And it would be good for the immortal soul of one husband I know if he would go to his office right now and clean up his desk."

"It would make him feel much better," she said.

Well, I thought to myself on the way to work, maybe she's right—and I really ought to clean off my desk, a task I've been postponing now for some 23 years.

But when I got to the office and saw my littered desk, my resolve melted. I did close my eyes, pick up a few papers and discard them without looking.

But then I had to stop. My hands instinctively refused to do the bidding of my mind.

After all, how could I destroy in the frenzy of an orderly moment this masterpiece of disorder I had spent so many painful years carelessly perfecting?

The answer was, I couldn't. And I won't.

A man's desk is his home away from home. It is his paper-covered castle, and the fortress of his soul.

I hold with those who believe that a clean desk is the surest sign of a frightened mind, and that a lived-at desk should have a lived-at look.

It sometimes seems to me that people who maintain a clear and polished desk are people who lead polished lives that have only a surface value. They have too much of a mirror quality.

Show me a man who keeps his desk fastidiously spotless and I'll show you a man who is probably trying to hide something in him from himself.

There are two types of people in this world—those who throw everything away, and those who try to save everything.

Those who have a mania for throwing things away are the real life-haters; those who seek to hold on to things—to give even a piece of string a hereafter—are the real life-lovers. And naturally they keep disorderly desks.

But their debris-piled desks are not a wasteland or a personal junkyard. They are a treasure trove of the spirit, holding layer upon dusty layer of wonderful surprises, and the living autobiography of the owner.

Driver Crippled, Record Ignored

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A judge ignored former child star Scotty Beckett's record of traffic arrests Thursday and treated him as a first offender — because Beckett claimed auto accident injuries will prevent him from ever driving again.

Beckett, 30, a car salesman, went to court with an arm in a cast and walking with a cane. He was fined $250 on a charge of driving with a revoked license.

He said that 15 days after he was cited on this offense he was in an accident in which he suffered a hip injury which left him unable to drive. Charges against him in this case are still pending.

Gets Arrested 'By The Best'

MIDDLETOWN, Del. (AP)—"I get arrested by the best don't I?" Creedon R. Yost of Carlisle, Pa., said after his arrest for speeding Thursday.

Before he was caught and fined $204 for going 100 miles an hour, cars containing a State Police colonel, a captain, a lieutenant and Delaware Gov. J. Caleb Boggs pursued him.

Yost first caught the law's eye when he passed Capt. John F. Herbert and Col. John P. Ferguson, head of the State Police. They gave chase.

In his flight he passed the governor's car. Lt. Walter Nedwick was driving. He joined the chase.

Yost said later he was rushing a mechanic to a disabled truck.

Ike's Talk Draws Applause, Brickbats

By DENNIS NEED
LONDON (AP) — President Eisenhower's speech to the U.N. General Assembly brought the American leader both applause and brickbats in Western Europe today.

Many commentators saw his address as a blunt challenge to the Soviet Union to throw its weight behind the United Nations in the cause of easing world tensions. But Eisenhower also drew a measure of criticism for not including some startling new proposals.

On the Communist side of the iron curtain the President's words were received with predictable sourness. Tass, the official Soviet news agency, accused Eisenhower of "virtually burying the idea of total and general disarmament" by stressing control rather than immediate measures for reducing arms.

A Moscow radio commentator asserted: "The President's speech showed that the ruling circles in the U.S.A. have no disarmament program and that they are still hemmed in by their old conceptions which do not fit in with the interests of peace and security for the people."

"His task," it added, "was to exploit Mr. Khrushchev's failure in the Congo with sufficient tact and lack of self-righteousness or belligerence to avoid throwing the Afro-Asian states back into a less anti-Russian position."

Phrase In A Jeffersonian Letter Is Involved Today

By JULES LOH
NEW YORK (AP) — Thomas Jefferson once penned an informal note to a religious group which contained the phrase wall of separation between church and state.

In the 158 years that followed, the phrase has become so woven into political-religious discussion it long ago lost its quotation marks.

Seldom has the relationship between church and state commanded more attention than the present day, which makes timely an examination of Jefferson's metaphorical remark and of the country's laws on the matter.

The Constitution contains two references to religion: Article VI, which provides that no religious test shall ever be required as a qualification for any office or public trust; and the First Amendment which declares Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion or prohibiting the free exercise thereof.

British Labor leader Hugh Gaitskell called the speech "important and constructive."

The Laborite Daily Herald said: "America made the most impressive bid it has ever made to bring peace to the world."

Rising Tide Of New TV Shows

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The summer drought is over and now the new fall shows are starting literally to pour in.

During the next week, for example, nine series will make their debuts on the three major networks, presidential candidates Richard M. Nixon and John F. Kennedy will have the first of their face-to-face TV meetings, there will be two dramatic specials and Fred Astaire makes his annual appearance on our screens.

Believing with you that religion is a matter which lies solely between man and his God, that he owes account to none other for his faith or his worship, that the legislative powers of government reach actions only, and not opinions, I contemplate with sovereign reverence that act of the whole American people which declared that their legislature should make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof, thus building a wall of separation between church and state.

Mother love, motion sickness and a famous mosquito are in the news with the focus on health: Mother Love

Just how deep is mother love? Researchers have found it is so deep the mother biologically steals, when necessary, to feed her young.

Laboratory rats provided the answer for Drs. C. Willet Asling and Marjorie M. Nelson of the University of California.

One group of rats got a balanced diet. The other got a diet short on calcium.

When weaning time arrived, the bones of the young rats in both groups showed no calcium shortage. But the calcium deprived mothers were far below normal.

How often do Americans see or consult their doctors? The U.S. Public Health Service says the average person sees a physician five times a year. That means each year 851,600,000 doctor calls in the United States.

Aedes Aegypti once carried death across the United States. It is the yellow fever mosquito.

Now the mosquito is under scientific attack again—this time as the carrier of a malarial parasite, says Ronald A. Ward, entomologist at the Walter Reed Army Institute of Research.

By treating mosquitoes with X-rays, Dr. Ward can kill the malarial parasite, and he can make the mosquito less susceptible to the malaria attack. But at the same time X-rays seem to increase the susceptibility of the mosquito's offspring to malaria.

Truman Proffers Campaign Advice

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Harry S. Truman has some advice for Sen. John F. Kennedy and Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson on campaign strategy.

100 Million Said Laxative Addicts

CHICAGO (AP) — A doctor said today at least 100 million Americans are addicted to laxatives they don't need.

The Democratic standard-bearers should so where they are less well known—presidential nominee Kennedy to the South and Johnson to the North and East—says Truman.

Dr. Charles W. Hook of Augusta, Ga., writing in the current issue of Today's Health magazine, said superstition and advertising have brainwashed the public into believing regularity is necessary for good health.

The former president gave that tip to Johnson Thursday night when the vice presidential candidate arrived for an overnight visit.

"Your doctor know nothing could be further from the truth," Hook said. The idea of regularity is based, Hook reported, on old-fashioned habits, half-truths, incorrect beliefs and modern advertising.

Johnson said the party needed Truman's advice. "And this is one of the reasons I am here."

The two men scheduled a press conference today before Johnson departed for Garden City, Kan., last stop on his current campaign swing.

On Tuesday, ABC's "Closeup," a public affairs series, starts (9-10 p.m.) with an examination of prejudice in the North. At the same time (9 p.m.) "The Tom Ewell Show," a situation comedy, bows in on CBS. And at 10, NBC's "Hour of Great Mysteries" will do "The Cat and The Canary."

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP) — Princess Alexandra, representing the British crown at Nigeria's Independence Day Oct. 1, will avoid northern areas where recent riots have led to over 1,000 arrests. Although the situation now is under control, even a minor incident during the royal visit would mar the reputation of the entire province, the government said.

NEW YORK (AP) — Crown Prince Harald of Norway arrived at Idlewild Airport Thursday from Oslo on an informal visit to the United States during which he will attend functions in New York and Washington. He is scheduled to visit the Federal Bureau of Investigation headquarters, the Pentagon, the National Archives and the Smithsonian Institution in Washington today.

TOKYO (AP) — A Japanese-made rocket, launched to gather information of the ionosphere, soared as high as 124 miles Thursday to set a new Japanese record in experiment rockets firing. The two-stage 42-foot-long rocket was fired at the Michikawa Beach rocket center in Akita, some 250 miles north of Tokyo on the Japan Sea coast.

PARIS (AP) — The French government has put Algeria off limits to retired Gen. Raoul Salan, the man who played a decisive role in the 1958 Algiers uprising against the Fourth Republic. It obviously was punishment for Salan's recent criticism of self-determination for Algeria.

ALGIERS, Algeria (AP) — A grenade explosion wounded 26 persons in a crowded main street of Constantine Thursday night. The grenade was thrown at the peak of the evening promenade hour just as a group of Jews emerged from a synagogue. The grenade thrower was caught and was said to be an Algerian nationalist rebel.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — President Tito of Yugoslavia addressed the U.N. General Assembly Thursday in his native Serbo-Croatian, a Slavic language that resembles Russian and Czech. It is not one of the five official languages of the United Nations and the U.N. translators interpreted it to listeners on headphones from an English text provided them by Tito's aides.

One must make a decision about the 7:30-8:30 p.m. hour Thursday night. CBS' "The Witness" series premieres with a drama about Lucky Luciano, but so does NBC's hour-long "Outlaws," a Western, and ABC's "Guestward Ho," a half hour situation comedy. Distrust Prompted Outer Space Proposals

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Writer

From a launching pad, a rocket rises with a nation's proclaimed intention of launching a scientific payload for the exploration of Mars.

Instead, the rocket changes course and delivers an H-bomb warhead upon "X" city.

President Eisenhower presumably had this kind of worry in mind Thursday when he urged agreement through and by the United Nations to assure that outer space be devoted purely to peaceful scientific purposes.

He is suggesting all nations would rest more easily if space launches by any nation were certified as to their true purpose by international inspection teams at the launching site, whether in the United States, the Soviet Union, or later, other countries.

The nubbin of his argument is mutual distrust concerning potentials for peace or war in space, as in other areas of international life.

Some scientists hold that establishment of a base on the moon can give a nation control over other countries.

One way would be by launching nuclear warheads with great precision down upon another country from the moon. From the moon, one country could keep a potential enemy under constant surveillance, spotting any warlike activity through use of special instruments from the moon base.

Other scientists argue there is no special advantage in doing this from the moon.

They hold an attack could more effectively be launched from one spot on earth to another through intercontinental ballistic missiles, particularly since distances from Moscow to Washington, for example, are becoming pretty accurately known.

For ultimate exploration of other planets in the solar system, one suggestion is that space platforms first be established in orbit around the earth.

Such huge manned platforms might be constructed no more than 1,000 miles above the earth. This is about the altitude of the shiny balloon communications satellite, Echo.

Space ships taking off from such a platform would need far less fuel for take-off—since the earth's gravity would be largely overcome there—to travel to vast distances to Mars and back for purely scientific explorations.

But the same rocket presumably could be used as a nuclear weapon directed against a pinpointed target on earth.

Geneva talks concerning underground testing of A-bombs or H-bombs have split over the issue of assured inspections and controls. Scientists, at least on the American side, point out possible ways of making tests without detection.

Outer space offers a way of testing nuclear weapons thousands or even millions of miles from earth. In Project Argus, in 1958, this country shot up rockets which exploded nuclear devices 300 miles above the earth.

This experience indicated space could be used as one testing ground to conduct experiments for improving weapons.

This could pose difficulties for another nation to detect what was really happening.

Such tests conceivably could be conducted at vast distances, even millions of miles. Accompanying rockets or satellites might be equipped with recording instruments to radio back, in code, the information learned.

Wednesday's launch of the Blue Scout rocket from Cape Canaveral was aimed at developing a method of detecting such space testing through the types of radiation which would be released from a "concealed" nuclear explosion.

On this basis, some Western scientists are arguing that space tests be brought under control along with underground testing of weapons.

As skills develop, it is even conceivable that a seemingly innocent satellite launched far out might be guided back with great precision upon one spot on earth.

In the current East-West dispute, President Eisenhower apparently is asking for some method of policing any nation's use of space for peace rather than a surprise weapon.

Scientists on both sides of the Iron Curtain can see the potentials for peace or war as space knowledge develops.

Distrust of motives reaches from the earth into space.

Wadsworth retorted that the Assembly has a right to discuss Communist Chinese repression of the 1958 revolt in Tibet because "the fundamental rights of the Tibetan people continued to be systematically disregarded and equally systematically destroyed."

Another flareup came when the committee voted over sharp French objections to put on the agenda the Nationalist rebellion in Algeria.

French Ambassador Armand Berard declared France would boycott the debate again and disregard any Assembly verdict on Algeria is an internal problem and the United Nations has no right to meddle in it.

The committee also voted to have the assembly take up the perennial issue of disarmament, race conflict in South Africa, Korea, outer space, atomic radiation and a number of social and economic items.

with the bitter Chinese-Indian border dispute still unsettled, she has stepped aside and let the Soviet Union do the spadework.

Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev said on the eve of his departure from Moscow that Red China should have the seat now held by the Nationalists. But with Moscow embroiled in an ideological squabble with the Communist Chinese, the Soviets are reported not too enthusiastic about pushing Peking's cause in the U.N.

If defeated in the steering committee, the Communists are expected to wage a fight to overturn the decision when the agenda goes before the Assembly for approval, but diplomats expressed doubt if the Reds have enough strength to win out.

Fireworks are also expected today when the steering committee late today considers two other controversial items: The 1956 anti-Soviet revolt in Hungary and a new Soviet proposal "The menace to world peace created by aggressive actions of the United States of America against the U.S.S.R."

The Soviet Union and the United States clashed in the committee Thursday night over the charge of Red Chinese repression in Tibet.

The committee voted to air the charges in the Assembly despite protests by Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin that debate on Tibet would be "nothing but an attempt to renew the cold war."

Red China's Perennial Bid For UN Seat Again Appears To Be Doomed

By TOM HOGE
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)

—Red China's perennial bid for a U.N. seat appeared headed for another flat rebuff in the powerful steering committee today despite Communist efforts.

The United States was expected to call on the committee to shelve the explosive seating issue for another year, and thus avoid a long, bitter debate in the 96-nation General Assembly.

Observers predicted only seven members of the 21-nation steering group would oppose sidetracking the question. Those understood to oppose bypassing debate on the seating issue are the Soviet Union, Bulgaria, Romania, Ceylon, Yugoslavia, Iraq and Ireland.

India has spearheaded the seat-Peking move in recent years, but with the bitter Chinese-Indian border dispute still unsettled, she has stepped aside and let the Soviet Union do the spadework.

Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev said on the eve of his departure from Moscow that Red China should have the seat now held by the Nationalists. PTA Session Is Told Of Progress

GRIFTON—At the first meeting of the Grifton High School Parent-Teacher Association, Principal E. B. Bright gave highlights for 1960-61.

He regressed five years to show growth in the school and to show the percentage of students who were graduated and later attended college. He noted that the school board has agreed on three types of high school diplomas: with 20 units, a student receives an academic diploma; with 18 he receives a general diploma, and with 16, a certificate of graduation.

Bright noted that school enrollment has increased, with 145 students this year compared to 118 last year. He mentioned the necessity for more rooms and equipment for the high school.

Bright presented new faculty members. Mrs. Mary Schuller, Mrs. David Simmons, Mrs. Lilly Roberts and Mrs. Polly Starkey. Two East Carolina College seniors, Miss Hilda Barker of Apex and Ikie Baldrée of Ayden are also working with the staff.

President of the P.T.A., Dr. John Christians, who presided, announced the following committee chairman: Tommy Ward and W. A. Lyerly, ways and means; Les Kilpatrick, safety and house and grounds; Mrs. Nick Sunjer, Mrs. F. L. Cox and Mrs. Chris Skelton, library; Walter Murphy, program; Mrs. Gay Gagey, membership; Mrs. Fray Schutte, publicity; Mrs. W. A. Lyerly, legislative and planning; Mrs. Henry Tyndall, audit and budget.

Dr. Ed Haseley presented proposed changes in the by-laws, which will be acted upon at the next P.T.A. session.

Dr. Christians extended the welcome to parents, friends and teachers.

Attendance awards went to Mrs. Whitley's third and Mrs. Nixon's seventh grades.

Foreign Buyers Further Cut Into U.S. Gold Hoard

By FRANK CORMIER
WASHINGTON (AP)

Foreign buyers reduced America's gold hoard by another $181 million in the past week and some officials foresee a heavier drain in the weeks ahead.

Nevertheless, these officials say there is nothing particularly worrisome about the situation. They note the United States has ample gold to back its currency and in addition should be able to fill foreign orders for the foreseeable future.

The Federal Reserve reported late Thursday that the U.S. gold stock stood at $18,758,000,000 as of last Wednesday. This represented a drop of $564 million since July 1, compared with a decline of only $134 million in the first six months of the year.

Since $11.5 billion of gold is required to back nation's money, there is a surplus of $7.2 billion which can be used to fill foreign orders.

The U.S. gold outflow will be discussed next week at the annual meeting of the International Monetary Fund and the World Bank.

The conversations will focus on the two basic causes of the outflow:

1. The fact that European interest rates are markedly higher than those in the United States. This is prompting a transatlantic movement of dollars toward the higher rate. As these dollars fall into the hands of European central banks, a certain proportion of them is used to buy gold.
2. The persistent deficit in the United States' balance of international payments. For the third straight year, the United States is spending, lending and giving away abroad several billion dollars more than it is receiving from foreign sources. Some of this surplus also is being converted into gold.

Much of the money seeking higher interest rates has moved to Britain, where the Bank of England invariably converts the bulk of its dollars to gold.

The summer months traditionally are a season in which Britain shows little or no increase in its reserves. This year, however, the movement of capital toward England's higher interest rates has upset the pattern. Britain has been adding to her reserve and buying gold.

If the present patterns continue,

Britain probably will be adding even more to her reserve and claiming still more gold. But much of this money will probably start flowing back to this country if U.S. interest rates rise or British rates drop.

Another reason cited here for a possible increase in the rate of outflow is the situation in the London gold market.

A number of European central banks did much of their summer gold buying in London rather than from the U.S. government. Until very recently, they were able to buy gold a bit cheaper in London. The United States charges a standard $35 an ounce plus a small handling charge.

Now the London price is slightly above the American price, which may prompt more gold purchases from the United States.

Ex-Con Paid With Bad Check

CHICAGO (AP) — An ex-convict rented a chauffeur-driven auto to visit his old friends at County Jail and used a bum check to pay the fee, says the president of the auto rental firm.

John Carter, 34, told newsmen Thursday he was able to afford the gesture because he won a $67,000 settlement in a personal injury case.

Peter Raber, president of motor livery firm, asked police to issue a warrant charging Carter with paying the fee with a bad check.

Carter ended a one-year sentence in the jail in February. He was sentenced for operating a confidence game involving bad checks.

Wild Coyotes In Hollywood Hills

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Packs of wild coyotes are plaguing the Hollywood hills, residents complain.

But their complaints are to no avail.

City, county, state and federal authorities say they haven't any authority to deal with coyotes, one resident declared Thursday.

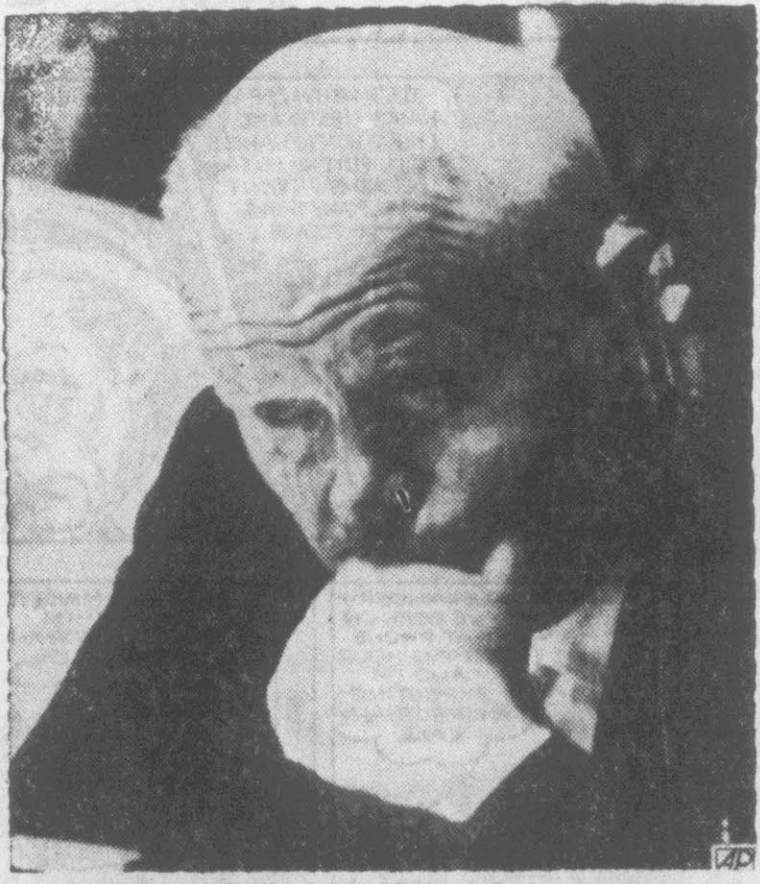

"Let dogs have been mauled by the marauders and many house cats have disappeared.

The hillside homes are in the city, where it's illegal to discharge firearms. One resident shot a coyote anyway. "He was on my doorstep," he said. "That's too close."

Experts said thirst may be forcing the animals into inhabited areas. The last real rain in the Los Angeles area fell April 27.

Newspaper Slot Plays Dual Role

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (AP) — The news bureau of the Newport News Daily Press is in the Williamsburg Post office Arcade, connected with the post office by a hallway. The entrance door has a slot for persons to drop in news items when the bureau is closed. But summer visitors have been depositing letters in the slot which the paper's newsmen have been relaying to the post office.

Bring College To Air Force Base

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Strategic Air Command's "Operation PDQ (Professional Development through Quality)" is designed to encourage every Air Force officer in the command to earn a college degree.

And at Lockbourne Air Force Base, it means bringing a college inside the gates.

Ohio University, which has its campus at Athens, now has instructors teaching 12 courses at the huge air base. The number will be doubled in the fall and officials expect to triple the program offerings by 1961.

Nebraska replaced the house and senate with a single legislature in 1937.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—Gold shares spurted in a generally lower stock market early this afternoon. Trading was moderate.

While most key stocks fell from fractions to around a point, the golds made advances in a similar range.

The drop in the United States government gold holdings to the lowest level since April 1940—the largest weekly decline in about 29 years—drew speculative interest to gold mining stocks.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon fell .50 to 211.10 with the industrials down .90, the rails down .20 and the utilities down .30.

Aircraft-missile shares were down, along with steels, rails, most chemicals and electronics.

The market was irregularly lower at the start and continued that way. Some other nonferrous metals made gains.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off 3.66 at 588.49. Corporate bonds were mixed. U. S. government bonds were unchanged.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Navy has spotted a Soviet submarine—and maybe two—lurking about in the North Atlantic near two Soviet ships that have been stationed there for several days.

The sub was seen twice at different times, or else there are two of them. What the Soviet tanker and tug are doing in the area off Newfoundland's Grand Banks is not known.

The Navy said Thursday night that a Neptune patrol plane made radar contact with a submarine four miles from the Soviet tanker Krand about midnight Tuesday. The Navy plane switched on a powerful searchlight and sighted a heavy wake left by a submerging sub, which sank out of sight as the plane passed over.

Some 5 1/2 hours later, the U.S. patrol plane saw a submarine snorkel sticking up from the water 10 miles astern of the tanker. A Soviet helicopter, which had pre-

Ervin Asks New Programs To Favor Small Farmers

RALEIGH (AP)—U.S. Sen. Sam Ervin of North Carolina today urged new programs, including additional industrial employment, to aid the state's small farmers.

He called for increased "live-at-home programs" in areas devoted primarily to money crops, cooperative marketing practices and cooperative storing facilities.

Ervin made his remarks in a speech prepared for the annual joint meeting of the Farmers Cooperative Exchange and the North Carolina Cotton Growers Association.

Farm men and women from North and South Carolina attended the session at the state fair arena here.

Four directors of the Cooperative Exchange were to be elected and four Cotton Association directors, already elected by postal ballot, were to be certified.

Nominated for the Cooperative Exchange posts were C. V. Howard, Salemburg; R. H. Kennedy, Harmony; George D. Cox, Winterville; and James H. Campbell, Williamston, S.C.

Elected as Cotton Association directors were J. McN. Gillis, Fayetteville; W. W. Andrews, Goldsboro; A. H. Harris, Concord; and J. V. Taylor, Bethel.

Ervin, the state's senior senator, told the groups that when a farmer buys land he takes the title "as a trustee for himself, his family, and all the unborn generations which are destined to follow him."

He said government has the duty to aid the farmer in his trusteeship and has done so through its conservation, flood control and marketing programs.

He pointed out that North Carolina has the largest farm population of any state in the nation, but its farms average only 67 acres in size.

"Indeed, about 40 per cent of them are under 30 acres in extent," he said. "As a consequence, the pressure of our farm population upon our farms is great and the per capita income of our farmers is small."

He said if the state can obtain the new marketing and storage programs and can intensify the conservation of land, water and timber resources, "those of her sons and daughters who reside on her farms will enjoy the more abundant life which they so richly deserve."

Policemen Given Terms In Prison

GREENSBORO (AP) — Three Greensboro policemen, one a veteran of nearly 20 years on the force, were sentenced to prison Thursday for breaking and entering, larceny and receiving.

J. C. Troxler Jr., 41-year-old former lieutenant with almost 20 years' service, pleaded guilty to seven counts after being convicted on one count and was given a 7-10 year sentence by Judge Allen H. Gwyn.

Harry W. Jones, 41, also a former lieutenant, and William E. Warren, 37, former sergeant, were given 3-6 years each. Both pleaded guilty to four counts each.

Troxler was convicted Wednesday by a jury of breaking into the golf shop at Starmount Country Club last April 17 and taking money and golf equipment amounting to $897.20. Troxler pleaded guilty Thursday to seven other counts and no contest to another.

Warren had testified for the state against Troxler, saying he went into the golf shop with Troxler and Jones. Warren said he was with Troxler on three other break-ins.

Judge Gwyn said in passing sentence that he thought suspended sentences might leave the policemen "slightly embarrassed," and with a feeling that "justice had not been done."

The judge added that he would have to take into account the impact upon the public of break-ins by men on the police force at the time.

Say Nikita Not Taking Initiative

PARIS (AP) — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev is willing to meet with President Eisenhower but will not take the initiative for doing so, the Paris newspaper France-Soir reported today.

Quoting Khrushchev in an exclusive interview with its special correspondent, Michel Gorday in New York, the newspaper said Khrushchev asserted: "I can not take the initiative because I am still the offended party. And then I am in the President's country."

France-Soir said Khrushchev summed up Eisenhower's speech before the United Nations as "on the whole rather conciliatory."

Jimmy Byrnes Is Opposing Demo Party

COLUMBIA (AP)—A strong endorsement of the Republican presidential ticket as the best hope for the free world was issued Thursday by James F. Byrnes, who helped shape U.S. foreign policy under two Democratic presidents.

The former secretary of state accused Sen. John Kennedy of giving ammunition to the Soviets in campaign statements. "The presidency is no place for an immature or impetuous man," Byrnes said.

He took the Massachusetts senator to task for a statement he attributed to Kennedy which said, "The United States will continue to lose ground relatively to the Communists, unless we have a president in the '60s who acts first and acts fast."

Byrnes said, "The danger is that Khrushchev, who like Sen. Kennedy believes in 'acting first and fast,' may be misled by these statements and believe we are weak."

"First," he continued, "I deny that the United States is losing ground to the Communists, and I regret that a candidate for the presidency should give such comfort to Mr. Khrushchev."

The 81-year-old Byrnes, a former U.S. Supreme Court justice and "assistant president" during the Roosevelt administration, said Kennedy has had "no experience in an executive capacity."

On the other hand, said Byrnes, Vice President Nixon has for eight years been attending cabinet meetings, has been acting chairman of the National Security Council and has been in constant touch with the president on foreign problems.

The former South Carolina governor called the Democratic party platform "the most dangerous program ever adopted by a political party."

Even if it contained no reference to civil rights, Byrnes declared, "it constitutes a threat to our system of free enterprise and a threat to what is left of local government."

He said Kennedy owes his nomination to labor leaders, "and they know how to collect."

"I do not want a president who, before making a decision on important questions, will be forced to say 'clear it with Reuther (United Auto Workers President Walter Reuther).'"

"The people of South Carolina are intelligent, independent and courageous," Byrnes continued in his written statement. "They should not vote for a party label just because their grandfathers voted that way a century ago."

"They should consider the present and look to the future."

In 1952 Byrnes supported a Democratic for Eisenhower organization in South Carolina, and in 1956 backed, and independent ticket which sought to elect Sen. Harry Byrd, D-Va. The Democratic party carried the state by narrow margins in both elections.

PRaise President

BERLIN (AP) — West Berlin newspapers today praised President Eisenhower for his seriousness of manner in his presentation of his peace program before the U. N. General Assembly.

Editor Horace Greeley, nominally a Republican, was the Democratic candidate for the presidency in 1872. He lost to Ulysses S. Grant.

NATO Embargo May Be Answer

BERLIN (AP)—A well-informed source said today the United States is working to get all North Atlantic Treaty Organization signers and some key neutrals to choke off vital supplies to the East German Communists in their tight grip on their squeeze on isolated West Berlin.

The plan was described as a "selective embargo," adjusted to whatever measures the Reds take. An attempt will be made, the source said, to get neutral Sweden and Switzerland to cooperate, at least in part.

One reason for West German reluctance to cut off important steel shipments to the Communists is fear that Sweden would step into the market.

There is still a long way to go before agreement is reached. There are 15 countries in NATO, and some are always reluctant to let politics hinder trade.

Every day the East German Reds tighten the screws a little more on West Berlin, which lies 110 miles inside their borders.

Authoritative sources said the Communist "people's police" arrested the driver of a U. S. Army laundry truck for speeding and held him for hours Thursday. A Soviet officer finally came and let him go.

In the Western view, Berlin still is under four-power rule and the East Germans have no right to act against U. S., Soviet, British or French citizens.
