Kennedy-Nixon 'Great Debates' To Begin Monday

CHICAGO (AP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Sen. John F. Kennedy will confront each other before television cameras Monday night to discuss their views on the nation's economic condition.

The presidential candidates will meet in a studio of the Columbia Broadcasting System for the first of a series of television discussions. Three cameras will relay their images to all television networks.

Here is how the discussion will be organized:

Shortly after 8:30 p. m., CDT, Kennedy will appear on television screens throughout the nation. He will have exactly eight minutes for his opening remarks.

Nixon then will have eight minutes to discuss the economic question, an issue both agreed upon two weeks ago.

After both have fade their introductory remarks the cameras will draw back to four radio and television newsmen who will put questions to both candidates.

Kennedy will be asked the first question and will have 2½ minutes to answer. If Nixon chooses to offer a rebuttal, he will be given 1½ minutes.

With Howard K. Smith of CBS news moderating, this routine will continue until 9:22 p. m.

At that time, Smith will signal that the questioning period is over and Nixon will be given three minutes for a closing statement.

Kennedy will have the last word, having won in a drawing the last three minutes for his closing remarks.

All details of the presentation were tentatively accepted by the candidates some time ago, except the choice closing spot which a Kennedy aide secured Friday at the final planning conference in a drawing, a CBS aide said.

Dr. Jenkins is married and has three sons and three daughters.

Diplomats Opine United Nations Facing Crisis Raised By Nikita

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—A towering crisis confronted the United Nations today, raised by Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's bulldozer attacks on Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold and the keystones of the organization itself.

The first week of the General Assembly's 15th session ended on a note of gloom.

Western diplomats, stressing the gravity of the situation, called Khrushchev's blistering words "an attempt to destroy" the U. N. and a "declaration of war" on it.

Khrushchev used the word "stooges" and clearly implied that Hammarskjold had abused his position by his actions in the Congo. He then said the office of secretary-general should be abolished, to be replaced by a three-man committee of representatives of the West, East and neutralist nations.

Finally, he said the site of the U. N. should be changed from New York to Switzerland or Austria.

In New York, he said, U. N. representatives are subjected to "restrictions" and "attacks by gangsters."

President Eisenhower, while not commenting directly, agreed with Ambassador James J. Wadsworth chief of the American delegation, who said, "The crisis consists of an attempt to destroy the office and the very structure of the secretary-general and the secretariat and through it, to destroy the United Nations."

Secretary of State Christian A. Herter called it "a real declaration of war on the U. N."

Herter hopes Khrushchev will push his United Nations revamping proposals to a showdown, it was learned, because he is confident the Soviet Premier will meet with a stinging defeat.

Herter gave a private dinner Friday night for British Foreign Secretary Lord Home and French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville. The Western Big Three diplomats talked into the early hours in what amounted to a major diplomatic strategy session.

A British Foreign Office spokesman supported Herter's charge that Khrushchev had declared war on the U. N. and added, "The weaker the United Nations is, the greater the chance the Soviet Union has of achieving world domination."

"The fears we felt concerning the shape that the debate would take at this session are confirmed," said a French diplomat.

This remark touched on the great questions hanging over the U. N.

How can progress be made toward solutions of the problems on the agenda now that Khrushchev has attacked Hammarskjold's integrity and declared that the secretary-general's office is out-dated by events?

Does the Communist bloc intend sues coming before this session?

The questions rose as still more heads of state converged on New York—giving this session of the General Assembly the character of a super-summit.

President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic arrived Friday. Canada's Prime Minister John G. Diefenbaker was due today.

Scheduled to arrive Sunday were Britain's Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, India's Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru, and Prince Norodom Shianouk, key political figure of Cambodia.

President Eisenhower returns to New York Monday for another round of conferences with government leaders, continuing his intensive efforts in personal diplomacy.

Khrushchev—after days of heckling the State Department for confining him to Manhattan Island—said he would go to the Soviet delegation's estate on Glen Cove, to discuss seriously any of the issues coming before this session?

Khrushchev stood around, waiting for him in the entrance to the residence. He kept glancing at his watch as the minutes ticked by, but traded quips with reporters.

Castro finally arrived, dressed for dinner in his usual jungle fatigues, and the two embraced, throwing their arms around each other.

Castro stayed five hours. When he left—after midnight—newsmen asked what they discussed. The Cuban leader replied: "Don't worry about that." Later, he said they discussed "peace."

Other diplomats and heads of state were meeting privately in the city, no doubt to discuss the situation brought into being by Khrushchev's monolithic speech.

Herter Hopes For Showdown In UN

NEW YORK (AP)—Christian A. Herter hopes Nikita Khrushchev will push his United Nations revamping proposals to a showdown. The secretary of state foresees a stinging defeat for the Soviet Premier if he does.

Herter's attitude was reported on unimpeachable authority today after he met with the foreign ministers of the other two powers of the Western Big Three — Lord Home of Britain and Maurice Couve de Murville of France.

Soon after Khrushchev lashed out at U. N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold Friday and suggested his post be abolished in a major reorganization of the international organization, Herter publicly termed the Soviet leader's blast "a real declaration of war against the structure, the personnel and the location of the United Nations."

It was understood the British and French foreign ministers expressed agreement when they met for dinner in Herter's Waldorf Astoria Hotel suite.

The private dinner had been intended as a routine meeting for an exchange of views. Instead, it apparently developed into a major diplomatic strategy session, lasting into the early hours.

Among the problems believed to have been discussed was the difficulty, under U. N. rules of procedure, of bringing about a quick vote of confidence in Hammarskjold. This raised concern that the secretary-general might personally feel pressure to resign because of the expressed Soviet opposition to him, even though Khrushchev could not force his ouster.

Couve de Murville said in an interview he thinks one change proposed by Khrushchev, substituting a three-man executive for the secretary-general, is "not a possibility." It would amount to a charter revision "that would require the agreement of practically everybody," he said, and likely will die a natural death.

The next move, if there is to be one, apparently is up to the Soviet camp.

Greenville Man Claims Threats For 'Activity'

George Wiley Gardner of Greenville, chairman of the Young Republicans in the First Congressional District, said yesterday he was flown to Morganton by a GOP party boss to inform Republican State Chairman Bill Cobb of what he called a threat because of his "political activity."

Gardner, a television cameraman at the Washington, N. C., station, said that four men in a black automobile stopped him and threatened him about three weeks ago after he had attended a GOP rally in Kinston.

He was en route to his home in Floral Park, near Greenville, from the television station when the alleged incident occurred.

The Greenvillite reported the incident to Republican leader John Wilkinson of Washington. Wilkinson, in turn, informed Jim Rawleigh of High Point about the alleged threat. Rawleigh is GOP gubernatorial candidate Robert L. Gavin's campaign manager.

Gardner said that as he turned off NC 30 into a dirt road leading to Floral Park, a black car blocked his path. He said the car, possibly a 1950 or 1952 Chevrolet, had been parked beside the highway and pulled across the entrance of the dirt road.

Gardner reported there were four men in the car and one of them shone a flashlight beam in his face and told him, "If you don't get of politics, next time we'll hit you."

Gardner said he interpreted the remark as meaning the driver would "run into" his car. He added he doubted if he could identify any of the men.

He also said an earlier incident involved a phone call to his wife in which his baby was threatened by the anonymous caller.

Khrushchev Speech Apparently Kills Hope UN Can Lessen Global Strain

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press News Analyst

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—There is an oppressive air of uneasiness settling over the United Nations, Nikita Khrushchev created it.

The rotund leader of world communism, giving the impression of one trying to use the U.N. machinery as a private toy, has become a sort of gay troubadour of gloom.

His General Assembly speech Friday—his second before the U. N. and by far the most bewildering—seemed to dash any hope that this session might produce a real contribution to lessening tensions that have the world's nerves on edge.

Khrushchev not only set back the cause of peace, but did himself a disservice if his primary idea in coming to the United Nations has been to impress the world of his truly peaceful intentions.

There is a lot of dismay around the corridors of this big glass building today. It is not confined to those Western Europeans and Americans who may have hoped for some concrete advance from this historic session.

Khrushchev just about told the U.N. in so many words that he will not tolerate any action on its part that interferes with Soviet plans and policies.

The Soviet Union was upset by events in the Congo, where Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold won the support and admiration of most U. N. members in his handling of a crisis that the Soviets apparently, wanted to convert into a situation of chaos.

So, Khrushchev tells the U.N.: Let's get rid of Hammarskjold; in fact, let's abolish the post of secretary-general and set up an executive board where Communist representatives can raise hob with any peace mission the U.N. might try to undertake.

Some delegates even suggested that Khrushchev might not have been wholly serious in his proposals to rip up the U. N. machinery and move the headquarters to some other country. But if he was not serious, then he did an even greater disservice to the cause of peace. Peace-making in a nuclear age is a life-or-death affair that does not lend itself to airy clowning.

Khrushchev also aroused disappointment with his other proposals. On disarmament, he offered just some new, glittering ribbons wrapped about a tattered old package.

As for his proposal to end all colonialism at once, even those in areas thirsting for independence might be expected to detect the patent transparency.

The proposal was in the typical Khrushchev style—the subtle approach of the sledgehammer.

When Khrushchev speaks about disarmament, he demands total and complete disarmament, knowing there is no possibility of it in a world like this one today. When he speaks of freedom for colonies, he thrashes out in all directions at all dependent areas, regardless of their status or even their willingness to be "liberated" under Soviet auspices.

With Khrushchev it's usually all or nothing. And the suspicion is that what Khrushchev wants in the long run is nothing.

The Soviet leader's speech indicated little real enthusiasm for agreement on any score. If he wanted agreement on disarmament, he surely would change his approach. If he really wanted colonies to be independent all over the world, he would make a more rational proposal than a call for an overnight miracle. But Khrushchev does not really want independence for backward areas so much as he wants the existence of situations that lead to chaos and confusion. This is the real impression left by his General Assembly address.

A measure of his sincerity might be judged from his own words. Areas like, for example, Puerto Rico, a territory of the United States which seems happy enough in that role, are colonial.

But nothing dominated by Soviet military might is colonial—not the satellite nations of Europe nor the non-Russian peoples of central Asia.

Khrushchev explained this quite simply. The areas under Russian domination do not have colonial status because the Russians and the non-Russian peoples under control love each other very much.

More Facets To City Bond Issue

(Last of a Series)

A garage building for the Department of Public Works would be built with $13,000 included in Tuesday upcoming election.

City Manager Leonard Bloxam said the building is needed to adequately maintain the city's automotive equipment. Included are 75 pieces of police, fire and public works automotive and construction equipment.

This structure has been under consideration for several years. However, it has been taken out of the budget each year as city officials sought to balance the budget.

In another item there is $8,000 for air conditioning the living quarters of the main fire station. Also included in this item are funds for re-roofng the main station which leaks considerably during heavy rains.

The final item on the ballot Tuesday will be $19,000 for renovations of City Hall. This includes partitioning vacant space which is now unused to make usable space out of it

The funds would also provide for the addition of an elevator shaft door on the second floor of the building. There would be money for the installation of a new boiler in City Hall. Air conditioning of the court room, renovation of plaster in the halls and painting of the entire building would be financed by these funds.

Castro Govm't Reveals Red China Recognition

HAVANA (AP)—Cuba today announced establishment of diplomatic relations with Communist china.

The announcement came after a cabinet session in which Prime Minister Fidel Castro participated by long-distance telephone from New York, where he is attending the U. N. General Assembly.

Cuba is the first nation in the Western Hemisphere to recognize Red China.

The Castro regime had previously signed a trade pact with Peiping.

The Castro regime also established diplomatic relations with North Korea and voted into law a commercial agreement with Yugoslavia. Castro's swing toward closer relations with the Communist bloc began last May when he reestablished diplomatic relations with the Soviet Union, which had been broken off during the regime of Fulgencio Batista. At that time he also raised the Czechoslovak legation to the rank of embassy.

The cabinet decreed recognition of the Peiping regime during a marathon session that ended early today.

Palace sources said the cabinet meeting was interrupted about halfway while Castro spoke by long-distance telephone with President Osvaldo Dorticos and with Raul Castro, his younger brother who is acting Prime minister.

Fidel Castro had announced his government's intention of establishing relations with Red China during a mass rally on Sept. 3.

At that time Castro said Cuba no longer recognizes the Chinese Nationalist government of Chiang Kai-shek. Nine days later Nationalist Ambassador Liu Yu-wan handed over all embassy property and flew to Miami on his way home to Formosa.

The 30,000 Chinese residents of Cuba are mostly all supporters of Nationalist China.

A Nationalist Chinese bank branch here, the Bank of China with $10 million in assets, was taken over earlier by the Cuban National Bank. It is believed the Chinese Communists will be given control of the bank.

'Echo' Returns In Mid-November

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Echo satellite will be back in full sunlight and visible on all its nighttime passes about the earth from Mid-November to early January.

However, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said Friday, Echo will be making most of its nighttime passes in the Southern Hemisphere for the next few months. It will be seen in the Northern Hemisphere only occasionally.

At present the satellite is in the earth's shadow for about 22 minutes during each orbit. This period of darkness will increase until Nov. 1, then rapidly decrease until mid-November, when it will be in full sunlight for 50 days.

The 100-foot balloon sphere had completed 513 trips around the earth by Friday, traveling more than 14 million miles.

Suspects U.S. Should Follow Own Space Goals

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Dr. James R. Killian said Friday night that the United States might be unwise in spending billions of dollars to launch a man into space.

Killian, board chairman of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, spoke at a conference on science and education in the United States and the Soviet Union.

Killian was special assistant to President Eisenhower for science and technology from November, 1957, until he resigned last July.

He said the United States should pursue its own objectives in space science and exploration and "not let the Soviet choose them for us by copying what they do."

"It may be argued that our man in space program can hardly be justified except as a competitor with the Soviet man in space program for world prestige," Killian said.

Claim Violation Of Air Space

BERLIN (AP) — Communist East Germany Friday accused the West German air force of violating its air space.

The East German Foreign Ministry said two West German F86s, flying at about 1,000 feet flew five miles into Communist territory toward Stapleburg, southeast of Berlin, Thursday morning.

Johnson Tour Of N.C. Announced

RALEIGH (AP) — Democratic vice presidential nominee Lyndon B. Johnson will whistle - stop his way through seven North Carolina cities Oct. 10 and 11.

The Senate majority leader will make appearances at Greensboro, Thomasville, Lexington, Salisbury, Charlotte, Shelby and Gastonia during his two-day stay.

Another Democratic campaigner, former president Harry Truman, will speak at Nashville Oct. 13 after addressing a State Fair rally in Raleigh. He also plans to visit Zebulon, Wilson and Rocky Mount.

Gov. Hodges, Sens. Sam Ervin and B. Everett Jordan and Democratic gubernatorial candidate Terry Sanford will board Johnson's train in the afternoon of Oct. 10 at Danville, Va.

Johnson's program, announced Friday by State Democratic Headquarters, calls for addresses in Greensboro and Salisbury in the afternoon and at an 11th Congressional District rally in Shelby that night.

Johnson is to speak at the convention of the State League of Municipalities in Charlotte Oct. 11.

Party headquarters cautioned that the stops at Thomasville and Lexington are tentative.

Pledge Fight To Oust Americans

TOKYO (AP)—A all-out struggle to oust American troops and bases from Japan was pledged in Peiping today by the head of Japan's biggest labor union, now visiting Communist China.

"At the same time, we shall struggle for the complete restoration of diplomatic relations between Japan and (Communist) China," Akira Iwai was quoted by Peiping Radio.

Iwai, 38, is secretary general of Japan's leftist Sohyo labor federation.

Khrushchev At Russian Estate

NEW YORK (AP)—Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev, taking advantage of special State Department permission, left today to spend the weekend in a secluded Russian estate on Long Island.

Khrushchev departed by car at 11:01 a.m. from his quarters in the Soviet U.N. delegation headquarters on Park Avenue.

Originally, the premier has been restricted to Manhattan during his visit to the United States. He asked and got an easing of the rule in order to go out of town for the weekend.

He was accompanied by some of the top leaders of Soviet satellite nations. A heavy security guard accompanied the party.

Khrushchev rode in the front seat of a limousine alongside the driver. He offered the rear seats to Antonin Novotny, president of Czechoslovakia, and Gheorghe Gheorghiu-Dej, secregary general of the Romanian Communist party.

A third man also sat in the back but his identity was not immediately learned.

A caller at the Soviet country estate, located at Glen Cove on the north shore of Long Island, will be President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic. Nasser is due there at 4 p.m. today.

Frida; night, the blossoming friendship between Khrushchev and Prime Minister Fidel Castro of Cuba led to a five-hour dinner meeting between them. Castro said afterward they discussed "peace."

Khrushchev is to return to Manhattan Sunday night.

PLANT IN MEXICO

MEXICO CITY (AP) — A huge assembly plant for Japanese Datsun automobiles will be built soon in Mexico, representatives of the Nippon Motor Co. have told the Ministry of Industry.

U.S. Moon Shot Is Postponed By Bad Weather

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Bad weather today forced postponement of a U. S. attempt to send a space craft to the moon. Another attempt may be made Sunday.

The space craft is designed to orbit the moon and make the most extensive study ever attempted of lunar environment.

The count down on the Atlas-Able carrier rocket progressed to within an hour and 15 minutes of the scheduled launch time before the shot was called off.

A brief announcement by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said the space probe was postponed because of high winds and bad weather.

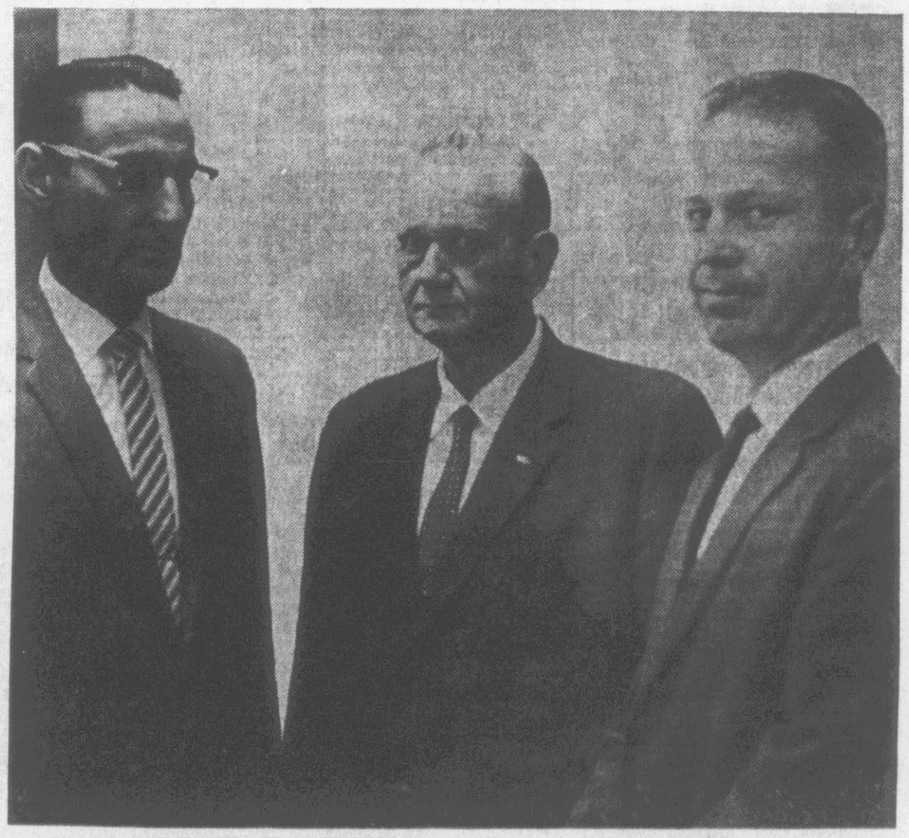

Today was the second day of a five-day period in which the moon is in a favorable position for the launching. If the rocket does not get off the ground by Tuesday, the shot will be postponed until the next favorable period, 28 days from now.

Quotas Signed For New Nations

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower today signed a proclamation establishing annual immigration quotas of 100 each for 14 new republics in Africa.

The 14 republics, each granted independence this year, are Cameroun, the Central African Republic, Chad, Congo, the Republic of Congo, Cyprus, Dahomey, Gabon, the Ivory Coast, the Malagasy Republic, Niger, the Somali Republic, Togo, and Upper Volta.

Edwards Again Chosen ASC Chairman

J. Lyman Edwards of Grimesland was elected last night to his fifth consecutive one-year term as chairman of the Pitt County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee at the annual convention of Pitt's 22 community chairmen at the ASC office here.

Along with Edwards, William Francis Tyson of Stokes and A. Poe Worthington of Winterville were re-elected to the other committee posts of the vice-chairmand and regular member, respectively.

Tyson was named to his fifth term while Worthington will be serving his fourth.

The committee officially begins its new year of service Oct. 1.

Both alternate members were re-elected but to opposite positions. J.B. Smith of Grimesland, who is currently second alternate, will serve the county during 1961 as first alternate. Current first alternate W. P. Thigpen of Bethel was elected 1961's second alternate.

All re-elected members expressed "pleasure and gratitude" at the majority vote at the convention that re-elected them.

Office manager Wayne L. Wang said today the convention "expressed a vote of confidence in these men and in the ASC program in the county." He said last night's vote "nearly unanimous."

Duties of the county committee include the supervision of the entire ASC program in Pitt. The group sets policies to adapt the national farm programs to fit the needs of Pitt County.

Specific duties include administration and supervision of the county's acreage allotment program, Agricultural Conservation Program (ACP), marketing quota program (for tobacco, cotton, peanuts, wheat, and corn), soil bank program, price support program, and related functions with the United States Department of Agriculture.

The re-elected committee said it is "extremely pleased with the way the office is functioning." It pledged itself to "even greater accomplishments during 1961."

The committee is scheduled to meet each Tuesday during the year at 2 p.m. in the ASC offices in Greenville.

What a strange feeling it gave me, the first time Laura went to school! As I watched her, I realized that these were her first independent steps. From this day forward, she would be increasingly on her own.

I don't think I ever felt my responsibility as a mother as much as I did at that moment. Had I given her the proper foundation to meet the trials, the temptations and frustrations that are an inevitable part of even a school child's life? Had I done enough for her?

Being human, I probably hadn't. But there was one thing I had done. From the beginning, I had made the Church a part of Laura's life.

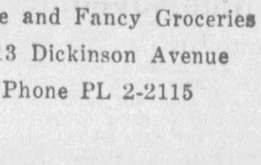

You can't shelter your children from harsh reality. But you can, through the teachings of the Church, help them face life with strength and faith, giving them the assurance that God is ever-present.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Solution of Yesterday's Puzzle

To Be November Bride

MISS SHIRLEY ANN McLAWHORN . . . is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Bruce McLawhorn of Grimesland, who announce her engagement to Bobby Joe Lucas of Roanoke, Va., the son of Mr. and Mrs. Weaver Brown Lucas of Roanoke. The wedding will take place November 26, 1960.

Private Ceremony Unites Miss Hall, Mr. Corey

In a private ceremony Tuesday afternoon, September 20, 1960, at four oclock, Miss Jean Ellen Hall became the bride of Bob Winstead Corey at the home of the bridegroom in Greenville.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Swanson Hall of Aulander, and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Jack Corey, and the late Mr. Corey, of Greenville.

The bridegroom's brother, Charles L. Corey, a missionary of Rancagua, Chile, South America, officiated in the double-ring ceremony.

Wedding music was presented by the bridegroom's sister, Miss Patsy Corey.

The couple said their marriage vows before two seven-branch candlelabras holding cathedral candles and decorated with Fuji chrysanthemums and huckleberry greenery.

The bride, who was unattended, chose a street length dress of ice blue eyelet with a matching bolero trimmed in blue, completed by a solid blue cumberbund and matching accessories.

The mother of the bride wore a navy blue sheath dress with matching accessories, and the mother of the bridegroom chose a pink dress with white accessories.

The bride is a graduate of Aulander High School and is currently employed by Pope Moters in Rich Square.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Greenville High School, and since 1952 has been employed by the North Carolina State Highway Patrol.

After a brief wedding trip to unannounced points, the couple will reside in Woodland where the bridegroom is stationed.

Reception

Immediately following the wedding ceremony, the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Jack Corey, entertained the couple at a wedding reception.

The refreshment table was covered with a pink imported cut work cloth. A centerpiece of pink gladiolas and pink roses was used.

The mother of the bride served fruit punch to the guest, and the mother of the bridegroom served the wedding cake after the couple had cut the traditional first slice. Salted nuts and assorted mints were also served.

Out-of-Town Guests

Out-of-town guests attending the Hall-Corey wedding included Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Ha and Mr. John Vann Hall, Aulander; Mr and Mrs. D. Wade Johnston and children; Sherrie, Danny, and Clay, or Raleigh; and Mrs. L. E. Pope, Rich Square.

Debbie Alphin Has Birthday

AYDEN—Little Miss Debbie Alphin was honored on her seventh birthday by her mother at a Weiner Roast recently in the Jaycee Park.

Birthday cake as served after singing happy birthday to the honoree.

The guests played games and participated in amusements at the Park.

The young miss received many gifts from her guests.

Majorettes Perform First Half-time Show Friday

ROSE HIGH MAJORETTES . . . present fire baton routine at the Phantoms' first home game of the season last night in College Stadium.

By CRAIG WORTHINGTON

The Rose High majorettes presented their first half-time show of the season last night at College Stadium. This snappy-looking group performed with precision accuracy and was well-received by the large crowd at the game.

The majorettes began by leading the Phantom marching band on the field in a straight line. Then the band switched into a "V" formation. Scott Smiley, drum major; and James Rodgers, directed the movements of the band.

Then the band switched to company front in front of the Greenville stands. The majorettes and band presented the "Choo-Choo Cha Cha."

The climax of the half-time show was a presentation of fire-baton routine by the Phantom majorettes. As laways, this was well-done and well-liked by the audience.

The Phantom majorette include Mary Goodwin, chief; Judy Tucker, Alice Mae Cannon, Sally Willis, Anne Hardee Joyner and Ann Beseau.

Cheerleaders Give Party

The Phantom Varsity Cheerleaders honored the team with an after-game party in the home economics department of the school last night following the game.

The cheerleaders served soft drinks, homemade cookies and homemade sandwiches to the team and the football coaches, Richard G. Phillips, Roland B. Farley, and Jerry Warren, better known as 'Bud," "Bo" and "Jerry".

In addition to the Greenville cheerleaders and their adviser, Mrs. Pat Stauffer, the Kinston cheerleaders and their adviser were present.

The Phantom cheerleading squad includes Melinda Coleman, chief; Myrtle Moon Bilbro, assistant chief; and Ginger Melton, Sara Collier Webb, Janice Bentley, Phyllis Moore, Jayne Willis, Gigi Guice, Lina Christopher, Ross Clark, Jeri Sue Clark, Ann Hunt and Brenda Bowden.

Council Representatives

Mrs. Nellie R. White, new adviser to the Student Co-operative Association, has announced the election of the following hoomeroom representatives and alternates:

Rooms 103 (Bing)—Dalton Owens, Tommy Webb; 104 (Worsley)—J. G. Proctor, Jeri Sue Clark; 108 (Gross)—Chris Christopher, Nancy Harrington; 109 (Mims)—Louis Jones, Rick Sauve; 112 (Carraway)—Anna Overton, Donna Forbes.

Rooms 116 (Howell)—Dan Johnston, Pat Worsley; 202 (White)—Jimmy Jenkins, John Lansche; 205 (Pritchett) — Richard Taft, Norma Heath; 207 (Haskett) — Frances Harvey, Donna Whitley; and 208 (Baldwin)— Sherby Everett, Ann Daniel.

Although these are not all of the homerooms at Rose High, the remainder have not reported the election of their representatives.

Th council will have its first regular meeting Monday morning. The executive council has already had a meeting. This council consists of the officers: Erskine Duff, president; Larry Roberts, vice-president; Johnny Reynolds treasurer; Janice Laughter, secretary; and Anna White and Martha Henderson, roving representatives of the schools in which they are interested.

This year, students in all of the county schools have been invited to participate. Also, interested parents are urged to come to the program and talk with the various representatives.

Sara Collier Mebb, secretary; and Miss Frances R. Smith, adviser; have handled the letters of invitation while Ben White, president, is in charge of the event. Other Honor Society members will assist at various places during the program.

Magazine Sales Continue

Juniors plan to continue their annual magazine subscription sales drive throuht next Fiday, Oct. 3.

The juniors sell these subscriptions every year as their annual project. They use the proceeds from these sales to pay for the jjunior-senior, which they sponsor every spring in order to honor the seniors.

The following committee chairmen complete the executive council: traffic, Bill Wade; building and improvement, Ben White; welcome and dance, Jean Crawford; publicity, Betsy Bryant; open forum and assembly, Myrtie Moon Bilbro and Melinda Coleman; judicial, Sara Webb; orientation, Dallas Clark; and citizenship, Donna Day Bissette.

The SCA will begin selling plasticized Phantom book covers Monday morning. Students are urged to support the council and protect their books.

College Day

The Haskett Chapter of the National Honor Society will sponsor its annual College Day activities Wednesday afternoon from 1:30-3:30 in the high school cafeteria. More than 75 colleges and universities have been invited to send representatives to this program.

Juniors and seniors will each spend one hour talking to the rep-

Sorority Is Entertained By Miss Hawes

Mrs. Helen Hawes entertained the members and sponsors of Delta Beta Sorority at her home on Fifth Street Thursday afternoon at a supper party.

Mrs. Heler Hawes, mother of the hostess, greeted the guests at the front door. Miss Hawes and officers of the sorority, Sylvia Sam Pedro, president; Delores Holt, vice president; Doris Matthews, rush chairman; Amy Sue Gwaltney, treasurer; Barbara Jones, secretary; received in the music room.

Guests were invited into the dining room, where they were served tomato juice cocktail and hors d' oeuvres by Mrs. Helen Snyder, C.C.D. Miss Dorning Jenkins directed guests into the garden, where a buffet supper was served.

An arrangement of white mums were used as a centerpiece on the main table, which was covered with an imported cream lace cloth. A bout 40 guests were in attendance.

F.H.A. Meet In Winterville

The Winterville Chapter of the Future Homemakers of America met Tuesday afternoon after school in the Home Economics cottage with Dolly Ann Harris, president, presiding.

Regina Bullock, vice-president, had charge of the devotions after which the group repeated the Lords Prayer.

Plans for installation of officers for the 1960-61 year were discussed. Officers will be installed in a formal service. The Emblem Service will also be given at this time.

Ways to make money for the Mother-Daughter Banquet were discussed. In addition to selling magazines, the club voted to sponsor dances after each of the home basketball games. A Halloween masquerade dance will be sponsored by the Future Homemakers.

Buying scales for the home economics cottage was selected as the project for this year.

Dolly Ann Harris announced that the District I Rally will be at Perquimans High School at Hertford on Oct. 1 and urged all who could do so to attend. The Pitt County Federation will have charge of the devotions for this meeting and Dolly Ann Harris will be the representative for Winterville.

The new Future Homemakers of the Winterville Chapter are: Bettie Sue Avery, Lorraine Buck, Carol Brannon, Gladys Bowen, Dianne Caar, Ann Cox, Edwina Everton, Linda Forlines, Myrtle Forrest, Cerita Gardner, Joyce Judah, Jacquelyn Kerr, Jean Mayo, Mary Frances Nanney, Gloria Mills, Frances O'Neal, Rebecca Paramore, Dorothy Pollard, Rose Robinson, Rebecca Tucker, Loraine Tripp, Phyllis Tyer, Linda Vernelson, Carolyn Williams, Eva Wynn, Helen Cowan, Katherine Jones and Cora Lynn Worthington.

Elected To Office

Mrs. Percy (Jo) Scott has been unanimously elected first vice president of the Faculty Wives Club here.

She replaces Mrs. Ralph Brimley, former vice president, who took over the position of president to fill the unexpired term of Mrs. Joseph Whithey who is in Burma on leave of absence with her husband.

A Positive Step To Better Care

Trustees of Pitt Memorial Hospital have taken an important, positive step in the interest of better medical care for the people of this county by approving the admission of patients for short-term psychiatric treatment.

In time, this move by the hospital trustees will enable Pitt Memorial to provide an increasingly important medical service to the people of Pitt and surrounding counties. It will enable the hospital to take care of a need which heretofore it has not been permitted to do. It will mean that those in need of such treatment will not be forced to look to other medical centers far away for this type treatment.

Several weeks ago, after a study by Dr. Charles K. Bush, chief inspector for the Central Inspection of the American Psychiatrist Association, the medical staff of the hospital approved a resolution calling for the admission of patients at Pitt Memorial for short-term psychiatric treatment.

Conclusions from the study made by Dr. Bush pointed clearly to the need for such treatment at Pitt Memorial if it is to provide for the needs of the people it is designed to serve.

By being in a position to provide this type treatment, Pitt Memorial will be broadening its scope of servce to the people of this and surrounding counties. It will be willing a pressing and growing need and at the same time it will be taking another positive step toward establishing itself as a major medical center for this section of the state.

With its Mental Health Clinic, Pitt County has taken the lead in Eastern Carolina in providing outpatient treatment for literally thousands of people over a 20-county area of the state. With a trained psychiatrist at the head of the clinic, it is certainly fitting that the county, through its hospital, make provisions whereby in-patient treatment in this field is available here to supplement the out-patient treatment already being provided through the Mental Health Clinic.

The Pitt Memorial Hospital was built by the people of Pitt County in order that through it the citizens of this area would have available the best possible medical care. In the years since the hospital has been open the calibre of medical care has steadily broadened and improved. By opening the way for admission for psychiatric treatment at the hospital on a limited basis the hospital medical staff and trustees have taken another important step in fulfilling the purpose for which the medical facility was constructed.

The step indeed reflects credit upon the medical group of this country, the hospital trustees, and the progressive attitude Pitt County has taken in seeking to provide its people the best possible medical care here at home.

Wherein GOP Does Not Agree

By LYNN NISBET

CONTRAST — Robert Gavin, Republican candidate for Governor, and William E. Cobb, Republican state chairman, differ widely in their appraisal of what is wrong with North Carolina government. Gavin has said there are grafters and grifters on the State payroll, that law enforcement officers violate their oaths by discriminating against people who do not agree with them, and has made other serious charges of misfeasance and malfeasance on part of officials.

Cobb told a news conference here Thursday that he does not think there is any crookedness in North Carolina government, but he does think there is a lot of waste in time and evergy as well as dollars, by reason of having more employees than required to do the jobs and extravagant use of automobiles.

Governor Hodges was asked at his news conference what his reaction is to these charges. He said he and every other responsible official of the State would be glad to have notice of specific cases which would be thoroughly investigated. He declined to discuss the generalizations.

He added that he thought the people of North Carolina could readily forgive Gavin for his ignorance, as indicated by his advocacy of a 50 per cent raise in school teacher salaries—and then retreated from that position when he learned what it would cost. The Governor doubts that the people will forgive Gavin for being un-North Carolinian, casting aspersions on the good name of the State and disseminating unwarranted charges of crookedness.

COLLEGES—Governor Hodges extended a most cordial welcome to the two new Methodist colleges opening this month at Fayetteville and Rocky Mount. They will help to take the load off the tax supported State institutions and afford opportunity for Christian background education for young men and women.

The State Board of Higher Education, which has supervision over all State institutions above high school grade, has long been concerned for development of church-related and privately endowed colleges to ease the tax load. Non-tax colleges have the advantage of being able to control enrollment, whereas the only control the State can apply is limitation of facilities.

Board members have expressed particular appreciation of the fine two-year colleges operated by the churches. The heaviest congestion at the four-year institutions comes in the first and second years.

DURHAM—So many tributes have been paid Carl Durham, who is retiring as Congressman in the sixth district after eleven terms (22 years) it is difficult to find a new expression. Governor Hodges also did. "Carl Durham is almost the perfect example of selfless dedicated public service," he said. Having none of the attributes popularly assigned to politicians, such as glad-handing and oratory, by devotion to duty he has served his state and nation far beyond the requirements of his office, the Governor added.

The Orange county Democratic committee sponsored a rally honoring the retiring congressman Thursday night at Chapel Hill.

ACCESS — "Access" has become a very important word in highway circles. All of the Interstate Highways (capital letters used to distinguish the I-numbered routes from the regular highways which traverse state lines) have controlled access. Most of the 4-lane highways on the regular primary State system also have controlled or limited access. This means that travelers can get on or off the road only at designated points, which usually are not less than one mile apart. This often requires construction of parrallel service roads.

There is another kind of "access" which in some respects is more important. That is a road from the main highway, whether or not of controlled access type, to school houses, churches, recreational centers and industrial plants. these roads range in length from a few hundred feet to several miles.

Governor Hodges this week allocated half a million dollars out of the "surplus" highway funds (which is not surplus at all, but merely unbudgeted) for 30-odd such access roads. The list includes at least eleven schools, seven industrial plants, and three military installations. The rest is distributed among hospitals, recreational centers and other public service places.

The reason the State must build these access roads is that counties have no current funds for highway construction or maintenance — although a substantial part of the tax levy in many counties goes to debt service on bonds issued for roads and bridges before the State assumed entire responsibility. Question has been raised whether a specific amount should be budgeted for discretionary use of the Governor and the Highway Commission for this purpose, rather than leaving it to the doubtful availability of "surplus" funds at end of the year.

Healing Of Economic Scars Will Take Long

When one reflects upon Pitt County's experience with Hurricane Donna two weeks ago, it is somehow difficult to imagine the terrific toll the storm took in a few brief hours.

To be sure, it was a terrible storm. Certainly it seemed the wind would never stop howling or trees would stop falling. Even long before daylight there was no question that the bumper corn crop had been heavily damaged and other crops as well.

The official estimate of damage amounting to more than $3.6 million in Pitt County from Donna, however, gives some idea of how hard Pitt was hit. By comparison with other counties which took a heavier blow from the storm, Pitt losses may be regarded as relatively light. Compared with those counties which were farther from the storm's huge center, Pitt's estimate of losses is heavy indeed.

A breakdown of the figures indicated the heaviest losses in Pitt were in the rural areas where damage to crops has been estimated at $1.5 million, damage to standing timber at a half million and damage to rural homes and farm buildings at another half million. Damage to public and private property in the municipalities of the county made up the remaining $1.1 million of the total.

It will take time for the county as a whole to overcome the losses caused by the storm. The clean-up operations which have about been completed have removed much of the outward evidence left by Donna's force. The healing of deeper economic scars left by the storm will take considerably longer.

Campaign Still Far From 'Hot'

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — The presidential campaign is getting a little warm. It's still far from being hot, even though Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Sen. John F. Kennedy are racing around with extraordinary vigor.

Bit by bit, but still on a rather lofty plane, the two men have been adding a few trimmings as they go along to the themes they have been hitting pretty much from the beginning.

It's the Nixon trimmings which this week added a little fire to their argument.

The Washington Star said he was using a "flashing style reminiscent of his hard-hitting campaign of the past." The New York Times said he had "quickened his tempo" in a way "reminiscent of his previous controversial Nixon campaigns."

The two men's themes have gone like this:

Kennedy — While criticizing the Eisenhower administration's handling of foreign affairs, he says both national defense and the America neconomy have to be stepped up to keep peace with Russia.

Nixon—Defending the handling of foreign policy, Nixon insists both defense and the economy are doing fine but promises to improve on both.

That kind of similarity doesn't make for excitement. But Nixon has made the campaign a little rougher by throwing in some extras which are derogatory of Kennedy.

For instance: Last May, when Premier Nikita Khrushchev blew up the summit meeting after Russia had downed the American U2 spy plane, Kennedy suggested the summit might have been salvaged if President Eisenhower had expressed regret over the spy flight.

Nixon from the campaign's beginning has been trying to wrap that statement around Kennedy's neck while at the same time trying to get across the idea Kennedy is too inexperienced for the presidency.

This week he began throwing the word "naive" at his rival, saying it was naive to think Eisenhower could have saved the summit meeting by voicing regret over the U2.

Further, this week Nixon said Kennedy has been obsessed with finding weaknesses in America (pretty much the same thing he's been saying, but stronger), has given the impression this country is "one vast depressed area," and is talking a "do-it-with-mirrors" philosophy of economic growth.

At one point he accused Kennedy of belittling America, saying he was making himself a spokesman for "national self-disparagement."

But Nixon also seemed to be having second thoughts on some things he said. In referring to Kennedy's statement about regret over the U2, the vice president had said: "When you are dealing with a dictator you must never make concessions without getting something in return because that is not the road to peace; it is the road to surrender or to war."

But when newsmen asked Nixon later if he meant to say Kennedy was espousing a surrender policy toward Russia, the vice president said: "Absolutely not. Mr. Kennedy didn't know what he was espousing."

Early this week Nixon proposed that while Khrushchev is at the United Nations in New York there should be a moratorium on "all talk about the United States being weak."

This would have all but gagged Kennedy who keeps harping on the idea that America needs to be made stronger. The sena-

Strength For Today

INDIRECT DISHONESTY

At the climax of a novel I read recently, the hero is saved from punishment when a friend lies to conceal his guilt from the authorities. The hero is present when the falsehood is uttered but does not contradict it. Apparently both the heroine, who is also present, and the reader are supposed to feel that since someone else told the lie, it is quite all right for the hero to profit by it.

This fictional incident is just one of many which seem to show widespread indifference to moral standards. A man was heard to boast that while he always reported all his income, he usually made some "mistakes" in figuring out his return that saved him several hundred dollars of taxes. As long as he reported the income, he said, it was up to the tax people to make sure that he paid what he should. And he saw nothing dishonest in this practice.

Someone in the novel might have told the hero that to consent knowingly, even though silently, to a falsehood involving oneself is a form of lying. Probably someone should have told the tax chisler bluntly that the taxes he evades by his "mistakes" are money he is quite literally stealing from his fellow citizens.

Indirect dishonesty is still dishonesty—still just as harmful to others, still just as corrupting to ourselves.

Ideal Source Of Advice

Lots of folks with love problems write letters to Ann Landers, Dorothy Dix and all those Advice to Lovelorn columnists.

Lots of folks do, but not me.

I go to the greatest advisor in these matters I know of anywhere, anytime. That would be none other than Bob Sugg, Jr., vice president and trust officer of State Bank and Trust Co.

Now to look at Bruce you wouldn't think he'd have the first thing to offer concerning such problems. He is a CPA, conservative banker and graduate of the Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration.

But looks can fool, as an old proverb says, and I've found out Bruce has the soundest advice that a counselor to the love sick batchelor can offer.

"Find yourself a rich, unattached woman," he told me "It doesn't make any difference whether she's a widow, single, divorced, fat, skinny, beautiful ugly, young or old. Just find yourself a rich woman."

Now this is noble advice and certainly one of the idealistic aims of every young bachelor. And I told Bruce so.

"But," I protested, "While that's a good deal for me, how am I supposed to convince this rich unattached woman it is a good deal for her?"

Bruce's eyes lit up. He reached behind him (we were in his office) and pulled out a book, gingerly handling it as if it were Aladdan's lamp itself.

"It's right here," he exclaimed. "Suppose you marry a woman with an income of $32,000. Her federal income tax is $14,000. You marry her, the two of you file a joint return and her income tax drops to $10,000."

That was impressive but I 'lowed as how she would need more than the $4,000 savings to support me in the style to which I'd like to be accustomed.

Bruce had the answer.

"Okay," he said, "how about a woman with an income of $60,000 a year. She pays $34,000 federal tax. You marry her and she pays about $24,000 a year."

That sounded more like it and after he told me I could quit working and every thing would come out the same, I could envision Utopia.

But it goes on. A woman with an income of $100,000 annually is now paying $67,000 in federal taxes. By taking on a no-good bum like me she could drop her her taxes to $53,000. This, of course leaves $14,000 for supporting me, which ought to do the job.

The two of us decided the moral of the thing was that tax laws encourage the rich and poor to marry and to stay married.

Incidentally if two people with incomes of $100,000 each married, nothing happens. — their income tax just doubles.

So, Bruce decided the tax laws, encourage these two people to live in sin.

Oh yes, one other think, in case other bachelors want in on a good thing. A new North Carolina law came in July 1. If this rich girl should die, her father and mother were dead and there were no children, all of the estate would go to the until then poor husband. Even if she should leave it all to charity in a will, the law says the husband can claim half the estate.

But lets don't dwell on that. It's too morbid and too, the widower would have the problem of finding a poor girl to share his wealth and everything starts over again.

Well, anybody can see Ann Landers doesn't hold a candle to Bruce Sugg, Jr. in this advice to lovelorn business. He's given me, and all bachelors a fine selling point with wealthy unattached women.

I'm prepared to discuss any sensible offer.

Insurance Problems

(Rocky Mount Telegram)

All does not appear to be well with the North Carolina financial responsibility program which requires motorists to have auto liability insurance. To begin with, it is understood that not all of the insurance firms are keen on the idea at all. Some of the companies want to take a look at two proposals dealing with the law before committing themselves.

One proposal would have one company write all auto liability insurance risks in North Carolina. The other would create a security fund for the protection of North Carolina auto liability policyholders and claimants in case a company became insolvent.

Insurance Commissioner Charles Gold, admitted there are a good many insurance companies that have been and still are opposed to the law. Some would like to see it defeated. The reason is that they didn't want all the business. They wanted safe drivers and those not accident prone.

There has been talk that many people want to see the state take over the liability insurance program. They feel the state would give them better treatment and save from one third to one half on the premium. Richard Wagner of New York, assistant general manager of the Association of Casualty and Surety Companies, said his firm has been opposed over the years to the enactment of security funds.

"We feel it ties up large sums for long periods," he said. Butt at the same time some obligation must be assumed toward the policyholders who are forced by law to buy liability insurance. That's one reason for the proposed law for security funds.

Some companies lean toward the present system under which assigned risks are handled. W. J. Ellis, a Davie County businessman, who spoke at the Raleigh hearing held by Commissioner Gold, said he feels the present financial responsibility program is unsatisfactory. "It discriminates against some people." he said.

He proposed that insurance be sold on the motorist and not on the car. He also proposed a merit rating plan for safer driving. This proposal should be considered. At present safe drivers are penalized by higher rates because of many drivers who are accident prone, Such a merit rating, leading to discounts for good records, would encourage safer driving, and that, after all is said and done, is the major goal behind the entire matter.

More Look-Aheads For Business

By ELMER ROESSNER

Here are more look-aheads in business, based on analyses of developing trends and, in some instances, advance information:

An industrial production upsurge: As new auto models swing into full production between now and the Christmas holidays, the figures will indicate a rise in industrial production. But the rise will not be general, and it will be dangerous to misread the figures.

New hot-stock area: Because it's natural wealth is largely uncharted and people imagine the 49th state studded with minerals and laced with oil, the promoters are moving to Alaska, or selling Alaskan shares from warmed locations. For every bona fide investment offer there will be a dozen sharp promotions. Note: Alaska comes under the Federal Securities and Exchange regulations; but slickers there know how to get around them just as do slickers in New York or Montreal. Scrutinize every stock, share and unit offer involving Alaskan wealth. Check with long-established brokers, banks, Better Business Bureaus. This one paragraph may save your savings.

AUTOMATIC CLEANERS

Coin-operated dry cleaners are coming. Whirlpool is testing 50 coin-in-slot dry cleaning units in 20 cities in New York, Texas, California, Michigan, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Nebraska, Arizona and Canada. First reports indicates public acceptance. Up to eight pounds of garments can be loaded in a machine and, for $1.50 in coins, the machine dry cleans them. If acceptance continues on present scales, these machines will appear in your neighborhood eventually.

Foam rubber competition: Manufacturers of eurethane foam, a plastic, have poised a drive to gain a fat segment of the foam rubber market. Biggest advantage: eurethane foam is light. One manufacturer will advertise that his plastic mattress. Next, a stepped-up drive for urethane foam sales to upholstered furniture manufacturers.

Crude oil surplus: The demand for crude oil will dip more than reasonably this fall. Industrial use is declining, and current stocks are high.

QUIET TIRES

Smoother autoing: A new synthetic rubber, reinforced with ultrafine talc, makes smoother, quieter tires. It has been tested in laboratories and may be in tires of 1962 autos.

More aluminum demand: Aluminum production capacity has long been far above demand. Now a new method of producing ingots is being developed. This is likely to lead to prices so low that demand will be stimulated.

Sharp rise in consumer credit: Recent shivvers in the economy are causing many consumers to buy installment items while their credit is good; they are also causing merchants to push goods out on installment sales. Result: A large increase in consumer credit outstanding for the remaining months of 1960.

PROMOTER SEES SIGNIFICANCE IN ORDER FOR PIN-SPOTTERS

"International relations must be worse than I thought," the Old Promoter remarked during his weekly visit. "I see the government has ordered 1,000 automatic pin-spotters for the 160 bowling centers at European bases.

"This will completely automate Army bowling in Europe. Something must be up, don't you think? Would the brass automate its alleys if it thought the Russians were going to fall back? Of course not."

I don't quite follow the old gent, but if the Army is suddenly automating its European bowling alleys, something is in the wind.

Under-Cutting Ideals

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Copyright, 1960, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

It is a long distance from the time when the United States was "God's own country" to the current period of indignity and humiliation. The intervening era included the Depression which shook the confidence of a nation with whom self-reliance was almost a religion, and World War II which was propagandistically used to negate a century and a half of American nationalism to soften up a people to accept the Rooseveltian concept of internationalism.

It was during this period that our educational concepts were revised. Geography disappeared as a separate subject, presumably on the hypothesis that as we are now One World, the less we know about it, the better. Adults attended lecture courses in increasing numbers until television lessened the lecture industry's hold on audiences. The lecture industry included men and women who were scholars or active students or participants in particular fields. It also included men and women who knew what they read in the daily press and who were invited to the State Department or to the U.S.I.A. for occasional briefing. Generally they knew less than nothing about their subjects but were experienced speakers and were skilled at answering questions glibly and cleverly.

I once met a lady who was quite wildly anti-Communist but for obviously the wrong reasons. Whereas it might be said that a person is right and proper whose righteousness and propriety are not reasoned at all but are the products of breeding, it is impossible to be right and proper for the wrong reasons without sooner or later getting caught up by the course of events. I knew such a woman once and she studied Russian to combat Communism which I thought was nonsense because the kind of Communists she wanted to fight did not speak Russian; their mother tongue was English. They were not Russians but Americans. They were not concerned with events in Russia but were planning a revolution in the United States.

Anyhow, she studied Russian and then went over to Russia to see how awful the Communists were. She is rather good looking and nobody was awful to her. So in due course, she read Marx and Engels and Lenin and others, and while she has remained a capitalist because heredity made her that way, she showed marked leanings toward the Red Fatherland and she always gave as her explanation, "Aren't they simply wonderful?" — meaning the Russians. She believes that they will soon give up their errors and come up with the ideas of approximately Mark Hanna.

I know another woman who goes to one of those Thursday morning clubs, organizations that have been made possible by the vacuum cleaner and other lick-and-spit devices that make housekeeping easy. At her house, they have only two meals to prepare a day — breakfast and dinner and often they go out to dinner. The children are grown. The husband lunches at his club and so does madam or at some restaurant with other women.

At 11 a.m., once a week, she goes to the Thursday morning club to hear Mrs. Whatshername expound on current events. I once met the expounder. She is a very bright woman who every summer goes somewhere. She has had State Department and Pentagon briefings and knows an important man or two. She is naturally an internationalist because that is the style of the moment and when some of her remarks are challenged, she might fall back on the ad hominem argument as to whether the challenger knows more than Mr. Herter, which is not difficult. At any rate, the questioner is thus silenced.

These ladies of the courses read the reviews of books and can quote gobs but not volumes. A definition is not only impolitic but impolite. It is not necessary to define terms because everybody understands them, including Messrs. Lumumba and Castro. Patriotism is unrefined. Why should we not be kind to the weak and backward nations so that they might come up to us and be equal to us! It is selfish and narrow to object to foreign goods coming into our Greenville struck for three quick touchdowns with the ease of a snowball rolling down a hill in the first quarter last night and matched touchdowns with Kinston the rest of the way for a 33-14 victory.

The rowdy Phantoms, a close-knit gang with long-range intentions, gave a home crowd of 4,000 plenty to shout about from the opening minutes to the final touchdown, which was scored just second before the end of the game.

For the Phants, it was victory number three and their second within conference feuding. Next on the Greenville menu will be Washington on the Pam Pack's field next Friday night.

Greenville, blending the radar passing of Erskine Duff with a stable of pony halfbecks, hammered across a touchdown the first time it had the ball and was never threatened afterwards.

Taking the opening kick-off, Greenville went right to work, sending its fast-striking back-field into the Kinston secondary like a boxer throwing jabs at a sparring partner.

Alan McArthur and Wayne Sumrell cracked away for two first downs but a 15-yard penalty sent the G-Men to the airlanes. Duff tossed his favorite—a jump pass—to Layne Jorgensen who hit the sidelines and went all the way for a touchdown, the play covering 48 yards.

Larry Roberts booted the point after touchdown but a penalty nullified it and a second try for the point failed.

A grim and serious face sported by Coach Bud Phillips was beginning to give off sunshine minutes later as Duff cut loose with a 37-yard pass that was close to perfection. Skip Wright was on the receiving end this time. The attempt for the extra point again failed but it was 12-0 and Greenville fans were happy.

Before you could snap your fingers, Kinston fumbled and the Phants were ready to add another six-pointer. Starting at the 21, it took only three plays for the touchdown, Sumrell bucking over from the 10. This time Roberts added the extra point.

Containing the Kinston offense like a caged lion, the Phants were on the march again in the second period, driving 71 yards only to fall short of a fourth touchdown by inches.

In the drive, John Adams, returning to action after missing the Jacksonville game, sprinted 27 yards before stumbling over his own blocker, depriving him of a touchdown, and Duff found Jorgensen loose again, this time for 33 yards. Operating from the seven, three plays carried it to the goal but a fourth down plunge by Kroghie Andresen resulted in a heap of bodies with the Phant runner short of paydirt.

Not to be completely outclassed, Kinston came back with a strong showing in the second half, matching touchdowns with the laurel-bound Greenville club.

Adger Stokes found daylight on the first play following the kick-off and raced 65 yards for a touchdown. The extra point was good, cutting the Greenville margin to 19-7.

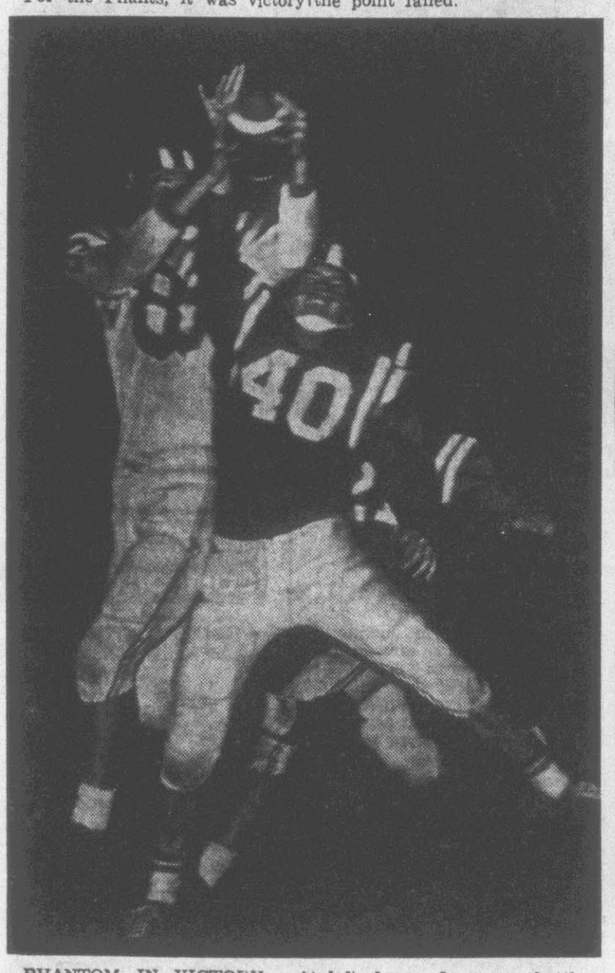

Eating away at the Kinston line like a termitt on wood, Greenville went 60 yards for its fourth toucndown. Only one pass—a 14-yarder from Duff to Wright—entered into this drive, MhArthur turned his right end and raced 34 yards for the touchdown.

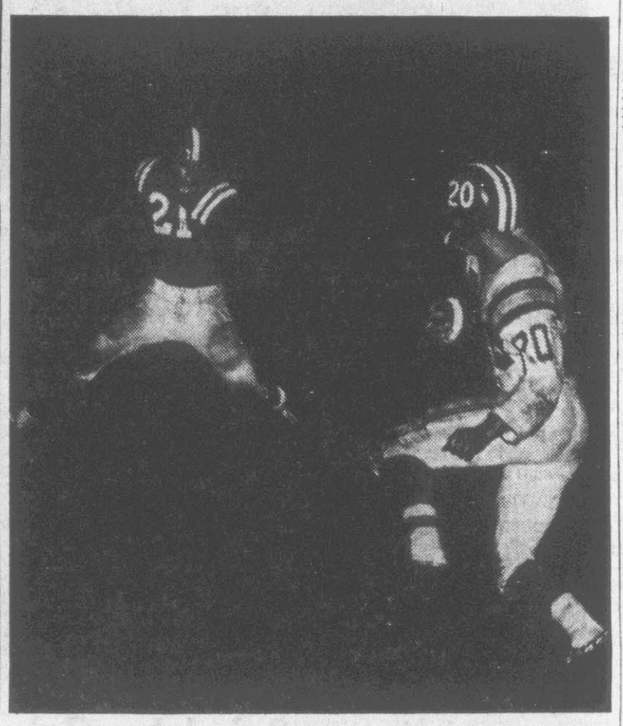

With Greenville killing most of the time with long drives, Kinston didn't get another scoring opportunity until late in the fourth quarter. Tommy Archie, senior quarterback, took a fourth down fake—punt pass and raced 36 fards. He passed for 21 more yards and Jimmy Capps bucked over from the two. Capps added the point on a kick.

Greenville had to fight a battle with the clock for its last touchdown. Erskine Duff set up the 43-yard drive with a 28-yard run on a "quarterback keeper" and scored on the same play from six yards out. The tally came with less than thirty seconds on the scoreboard.

McArthur was the top ground gainer with 71 yards in 15 carries. Sumrell was close behind with 61 yards in 11 attempts. Duff had 54 yards in seven, Adams 43 in six, and James 31 in five attempts.

ECC Opens Here Tonight

Kickoff Slated For 8:00; Some Tickets Remain

With football fever raging throughout the state, East Carolina College joins in the merry-making tonight with its 1960 opener against Guilford College.

Kickoff time for the North State Conference combat is 8:00. Good tickets are still available according to ECC athletic officials.

Guilford opened its season last week in a losing way, bowing 19-7 to Elon. East Carolina toyed with Newport News 21-7 in a scrimmage engagement.

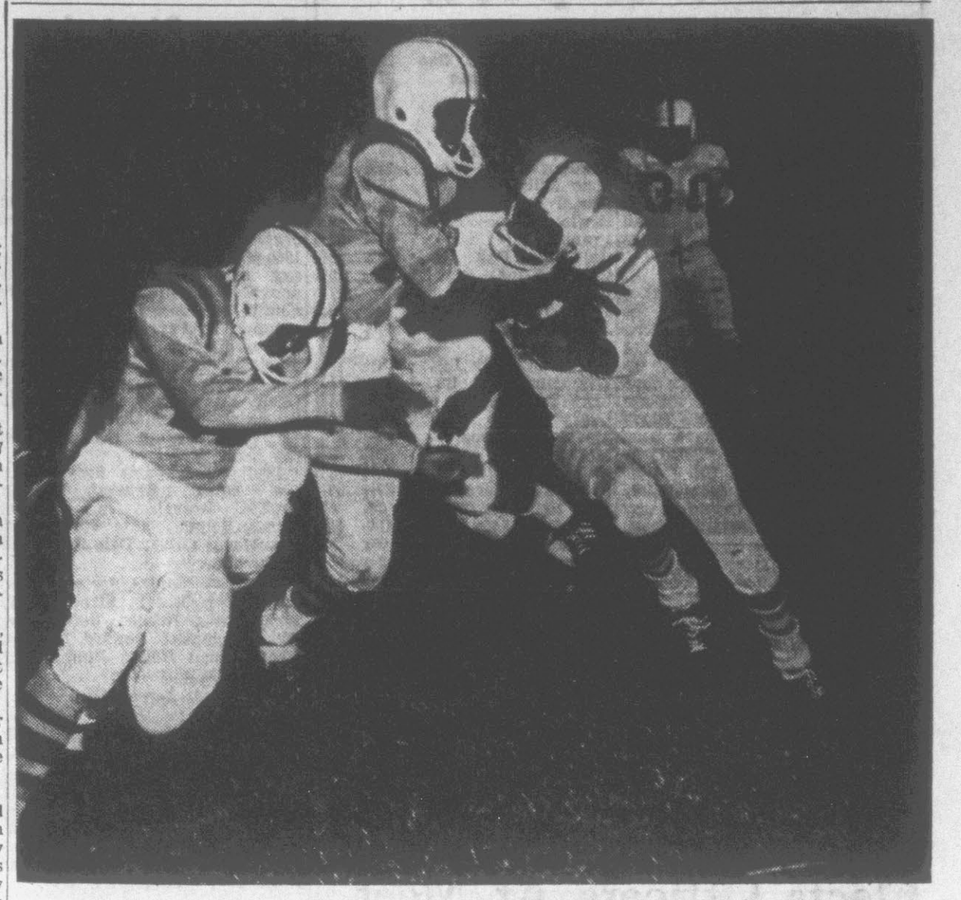

ECC is opening the season with a young and inexperienced team and Coach Jack Boone has marked it "unpredictable." Guilford is in the same shape although holding an edge in experience.

Glenn Bass, Tommy Matthews, and Nick Hilgert will try and make the ECC attack click. Bert Stafford will quarterback the club.

For the Quakers, Brodie Baker is the signal-caller with Jim Stutts and Ray Durham as the big runners.

Probable starters:

East Carolina		Guilford
Lockerman	end	Simpson
Davis	tackle	Abernathy
Davis	guard	Wiggins
Gordon	center	Holley
Gregson	guard	Younts
Piland	tackle	Hendley

Eppes High Edges Past H.B. Sugg High, 8-0

With pads popping like rifle shots, a bitter rivalry was developed, here last night, as Epps High's Bulldogs edged by H. B. Sugg of Farmville by a score of 8-0.

The game, played on the Epps High field before a capacity crowd was, according to Epps Coach Percy Daniels, "One of the roughest games I have seen in my seven years here."

The first quarter of play was pimarily a stalemate, with both teams, unbeaten prior to the opening kickoff, matching each other yard for yard, with their punters engaging in a kicking duel.

The deadlock, however, was broken in the second quarter, when Epps began the period by returning a Sugg punt from deep in their own territory back to the midfield stripe. From that point the Bulldogs began to roll.

In the first play after the runback, Adams carried for about eight yards, followed by Hardy, who carried down to the Farmville 30 yard line. At this point, Epps, highly-touted quarterback Watson drove down to the 20, edging nearer to paydirt. At the 20, the Sugg gridders made a stand, holding the Epps drive for three downs.

However this attempt be futile, when Adams, carrying on two consecutive plays finally cracked over for the tally. The extra point was good by a pass from Watson to Gatlin.

Sugg threatened only one time in the remainder of the contest, driving down to the 10 yard line in the fourth quarter, only to be met and held by a solid wall of Epps iron men who held the visitors for four downs.

In citing the standouts on the game, Epps' head mentor Percy Daniels said that his middle line played, what he termed, "a tremendous game". In further commenting Daniels pointed out that line coach F. R. Sanders wasn't too pleased with the defensive play of the Epps' footballers, however, he said that this would be polished up by the time his eleven meets their next opponent.

Now undefeated in three starts, Epps' will be at home once again next week, playing host to Jones High of Washington.

Farmville Runs Out Of Steam In Final Period

MOUNT OLIVE—"We just gave out of steam" were the best words possible for Coach Elbert Moye last night following a 24-6 defeat for Farmville by Mount Olive.

The Red Devils, experiencing depth and injury problems all season, played the undefeated Mt. Olive team on even terms for three quarters but weakened in the fourth period under the attack of fresh replacements.

Mt. Olive scored early in the game when a fourth down punt situation resulted in a fumble, the winners recovering on the Farmville 25.

Three plays carried it to the 10 and Dallas Sutton, scoring three touchdowns during the night, tallied the first of his six-pointers. The extra point attempt failed.

Farmville came to life in the second period when Danny Dilda wiggled loose and returned a punt to the Mt. Olive 40. On first down, Dean Oglesby completed a pass to Rex Hodges who was downed on the one yard line. Dilda dived over from there.

A chance to take the lead failed when the extra point was no good.

The third quarter was a see-saw battle with Farmville making the only serious threat. The Devils drove to the Mt. Olive 30 at the end of the period but stalled and were forced to punt early in the fourth period.

Sutton took the kick, followed a line of blockers, and raced 88 yards for the winning touchdown. The tally broke the tired Devils' back and two more six-pointers were to follow.

L. B. Brewer scored the next touchdown midway the period following a pass interception. Brewer sprinted 15 yards for the touchdown.

Another pass interception by Sutton led to another Mt. Olive touchdown in the fading minutes of the game. Doyle Whitfield set up the final drive with a 24-yard run. Sutton carried the final two yards.

The defeat left the Farmville club with a 2-2 record thus far. They tackle unbeaten Ayden next Friday night.

Mitchell Cannon, Bobby Eason, and Moses Moye were line standouts for the losers. Bobby Avery and Dean Oglesby were the offensive sparkplugs. Avery, starting fullback, broke loose for a 40-yard run on one occasion.

Big Day For AC Football Clubs

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The race for the Atlantic Coast Conference football title got under way today with two of the main contenders — defending champion Clemson and Wake Forest—clashing at Winston-Salem.

Another contender, North Carolina, faced North Carolina State at Chapel Hill on this first big footbal Saturday.

In the ony other conference game, Duke meets South Carolina at Columbia tonight. In the other games, Maryland entertained Texas and Virginia faces William and Mary of the Southern Conference at Norfolk, Va., tonight.

Clemson and North Carolina had a similar problem in preparing for today's games. Each team was certain to meet a fine passing attack.

Clemson, ranked ninth in this week's Associated Press poll and figured by many to be the team to beat again this year in the ACC, faced the task of stopping the deadly passing of Wake Forest quarterback Norman Snead.

The Tar Heels, meanwhile, had to find a way to stop the passing of State's Roman Gabriel, who led the Wolfpack to victory over Virginia Tech last week.

Today's game was the 50th of the series between State and North Carolina. State has won only eight of the 49 previous games. Between 35,000 and 40,000 fans were expected for the golden anniversary battle.

Clemson has beaten the Deacons in their last nine games, but the Deacons were keyed up for revenge and hoping to make new Coach Billy Hildebrand's debut a success. A crowd of 21,000 was expected.

South Carolina, winner of the last two games with Duke, is rated a slight favorite tonight, but Gamecock Coach Warren Giese and Duke Coach Bill Murray both contend their teams are "question marks."

There have been reports that both teams will abandon their ball control game and open up this year. Neither coach wil confirm it, but the 40,000 fans expected for the game may see a wide open contest.

The Longhorns of Texas are rated a sight favorite over Maryland, despite their 14-13 loss last week to Nebraska. Maryland rolled easily past West Virginia last Saturday.

Some observers give William & Mary a slight edge over Virginia. The Cavaliers have lost their last 18 games over a two-year span, but have a number of returning lettermen and a host of good sophomores. Tonight's game is the first for Virginia, but William & Mary lost 33-21 last week to Virginia Military, defending Southern Conference champion.

Meanwhile, Clemson's freshmen gave an indication of things to come Friday with a 46-6 lashing of the Wake Forest frosh.

The Clemson team dominated play from the start, driving 65 yards with the opening kickoff for a touchdown. The Deacons came right back with their only touchdown, which resulted from a blocked Clemson punt on the Tiger 8 yard line.

Clemson's future stars added two touchdowns in each of the next three quarters.

Ayden Still Unbeaten, Defeat Robersonville 25-6

In a contest which was billed as a battle of the unbeatens, Ayden's Tornadoes proved true to their nickname by roaring from behind, overcoming a 6-0 lead at the end of the first quarter, to paste Robersonville 25-6.

Robersonville jumped off to an early lead when Tommy Ward, Ram tailback, scampered 25 yards to paydirt, climaxing an 80 yard drive. The conversion attempt was no good, and thus the only Robersonville score of the evening's play.

The crucial break came for Ayden in the second period, when Carroll McGlohon recovered a fumble on the Ram 24 yard line. Quarterback Harold Edwards took command at this point, passing to Emmett Gibson at the two yard line. Edwards then cracked over from the two for the first Ayden score. The extra point was good on a pass from Edwards to end Mack Tripp.

Ayden scored again in the second period, when Fullback Dink Mills, in a brilliant display of broken field running, went 31 yards, culminating a 60 yard march by the Tornadoes. The extra point was no good, and Ayden led at the half, by a score of 13-6.

In the third quarter, Ayden drove 56 yards, and scored once again when Edwards bulled over from the three yard stripe, making the scoreboard read 19-6. The extra point attempt once again failed.

The fourth quarter was the final scene of scoring for Ayden, as Dink Mills hauled in a pass from Tommy Dunn on the 13 yard line and raced across for the tally.

Ayden standouts in the win, which now leaves the Tornadoes unbeaten in four games, were Mac Tripp, Harold Edwards, and Dink Mills on offense, Mills and Tripp rolled up 122 and 88 yards respectively in rushing gains. Defensive stars for the Ayden eleven were Kenny Jolly, Doug McGlohon, Brunson Tripp, and Donald Cannon.

For Robersonville, it was Tommy Ward, Jimmy Brown, and Bernie Stevenson as the evening's outstanding Ram performers.

DEAF MAN PERFECTS SMALLEST HEARING AID

NORFOLK, Va.—(Special)—A remarkable midget hearing aid has been perfected by a man who has been hard of hearing for nearly ten years.

This small aid has no dangling cords or separate transmitting units and was announced in Virginia today as the most revolutionary product ever to appear on the market for the hard of hearing.

It is especially made for those people who can hear but not understand. This new hearing instrument provides "ear-level" hearing with the wearer picking up speech, sounds, television, and radio at his ear rather than at a transmitter located in the wearer's clothing.

Due to the use of 4 transistors, the user cost is extremely low and the instrument weighs approximately 1-4 ounce. It is about the size of a sewing thimble.

Pitt Cancer Society Unit Elects Officers At Meet

The Pitt County unit of the American Cancer Society Thursday night elected Elbert Bennett its 1960-61 president and heard Dr. John R. Jordan Jr. discuss the development of cancer research.

At the annual fall meeting, Bennet was elected the unit's head. Other officers named last night included Dr. Howard Gradis, vice-president; Frank Little, treasurer; Mrs. Ann Hancock, executive secretary; and five standing committee chairmen.

Dr. Jordan, member of the executive committee and board of directors of the N.C. Cancer Society, pointed out the N.C. Division had national recognition in several aspects of its work over the past several years.

He said the N.C. unit has decreased the cost of "administrative overhead" by increasing participation of volunteer workers. "At the same time," he said, "we have increased our scope in work."

The second vice-president of the N.C. organization complimented the work of Mrs. Ruel Tyson over "a wide area of Eastern North Carolina."

He reported on the N.C. Cured Cancer Congress last fall in Raleigh. He said it was the "second largest ever held in the nation."

Dr. Jordan told the group there have been 4,400 cancer victims in North Carolina "already this year." He pointed out more school children died of cancer last year in the state than of any other disease.

Standing committee chairmen elected were: Rev. Richard Ottaway, education committee; Mrs. C.L. Lupton, membership committee; Mrs. John Biggs, service committee; Louis Gaylord, bylaws committee; and Jimmy Jenkins, public relations committee.

A special guest of the Pitt unit was Mrs. Martha Peele, executive secretary of the Martin County unit.

Judge Dismisses 63 Wet Drivers

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Sixty-three rain-sodden motorists went home scot free Friday when a judge, crowded out of his courtroom in a schedule mixup, summarily dismissed all traffic cases.

Judge Lloyd S. Marks explained, "I just thought the people had had enough punishment getting here, without being jammed into a little room and made to wait."

More than nine inches of rain fell hereabouts.

1,235 Pounds Of Diapers Needed

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — How many pounds of wet diapers does a baby use in a two-year period?

The Diaper Service Industry Ascoaition, meeting here today and Sunday, says the answer is about 1,235 pounds, based on 7,410 diapers averaging six to a pound.

Why wet weight? Well, says the association, that's the way they usually are.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —Western Union said it carried a volume of news at or near record levels out of the United Nations Friday—the day Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev addressed the General Assembly.

Western Union's record file on the U.N. was around a quarter of a million words, established in the early days of the international organization.

Carolina Township Volunteer Fire Dept. Organizes

STOKES—Officers for the newly organized Carolina Township Volunteer Fire Department at Stokes, were elected at a meeting of township people this week.

According to spokesmen, about 35 people from the community met and elected Frank Roebuck chief of the fire-fighting unit and made Slade Congleton assistant chief of the department.

Secretary of the group will be Don Glisson while treasurer will be C.S. Whichard. In addition to the election of officers, firemen for the department were also selected.

The truck, a surplus state truck modified with local labor, will be housed at Roebuck and Parker Service Station at Stokes and daytime calls for fires should be made there.

The truck is equipped with a 500 gallon - per - minute front mounted pump, a 700 gallon capacty booster tank and other needed equipment.

According to officers of the department, the truck is now in service but there is still a lot of work to be done on it yet. Money to purchase and equip the truck has been donated by residence of Carolina Township and at present, $2,634 have been donated.

Firemen pointed out that additional money is still needed in order to purchase other equipment needed to fight fire.

Paul Hunsucker, assistant chief of the Winterville Fire Department, and Roy Hardee, vice-president of the Pitt Firemens Association, spoke to the group at the meeting also.

Hunsucker outlined to the group the method Winterville used to establish their department; that of a membership subscription basis where persons getting fire protection pay a given amount per building to the fire department for purchase of a truck and it's maintenance.

Hardee discussed the need for training, safety and the safe operation of the equipment. He also told the group of the purposes behind the Pitt Firemen's Association. . .to foster the growth of new fire departments in Pitt and to provide for training and fellowship of the firefighters in Pitt.

He told the group that during the past year, fire departments have been organized at Staton-House and Grimesland, and plans for rural departments have been made at Greenville and Pactolus.

Hardee also told the group of the county-wide set-up of fire departments in Wayne and Nash Counties, emphasizing that "Pitt will in a few years have enough departments whereby such a county-wide system of firefighting could be operated effectively, provided necessary funds are provided by the Pitt County Commissioners as have been provided by the governing bodies of other counties.

"This system", Hardee noted," will result in a better mutual aid program and a reduction in the losses on a county-wide level."

Accident Victim Reported To Be Feeling Better

Doctors today said Mrs. James G. Smith III, who was injured in an automobile collision near Grimesland last Sunday which took the life of her nine-month-old baby girl, was "quite a bit better".

They said she is "resting more comfortably" and is "getting along well."

They noted, however, that her condition is still serious, "but improved," and she is still not allowed any visitors except close relatives.

According to the physicians, doctors yesterday performed manipulations of her elbow and foot which reduced the pain from the injuries and made her more comfortable. They said she still will require an operation, probably next week, on her knee.

They concluded by saying Mrs. Smith "feels good . . . is resting more comfortably "and is better generally."

Young Bicyclist Hit By Truck,

A 14-year-old Route 3, Greenville youth was admitted to Pitt Memorial Hospital last night after the bicycle he was riding was struck by a truck about three miles south of Greenville on N.C. 11, about 9:15.

Investigating Patrolman H.R. Winslow said David Thomas Clark of Route 3, was hit by a truck operated by William Are Mercer, 42 of 2019 East Fifth St., Greenville when Mercer attempted to pass a car on the road.

Winslow noted that Mercer was headed south on N.C. 11 and was meeting the boy who was headed North.

The officer said that the Clark bicycle did not have a light or reflector on it. He added that a second youth riding a bicycle with the Clark youth did have a light and reflector on his bicycle. The second youth was not hit by the truck.

Young Clark was admitted to the hospital suffering from bruises to his left leg and elbow. He was released early this morning.

Investigation of the collision is incomplete, Winslow noted.

President Sets Up Meetings

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower has set up personal talks in New York next week with a leader of Asia, a leader of the Middle East, and a leader of Europe.

All are in New York for the historic meeting of the United Nations General Assembly.

So far, Eisenhower has scheduled talks with Prime Minister Nehru of India and President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic on Monday, and with Prime Minister Harold Macmillan of Great Britain on Tuesday.

White House press secretary James C. Hagerty, while holding out the possibility of other meetings in New York, said that he knew of no plans for the President to sit down with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

Gavin Seeking Woo Dissidents

RALEIGH (AP) — Republican gubernatorial candidate Robert Gavin is seeking to woo dissident Democrats in time for the Nov. 8 election.

He told a news conference Friday he has found many Democrats dissatisfied with the record of their presidential nominee, John Kennedy.

Winding up a handshaking tour of Wake County, Gavin said other Democrats have turned from gubernatorial nominee Terry Sanford because he supported Kennedy.

Gavin said his supporters include prominent Democrats in the General Assembly. These he declined to name, saying, "They can tell who they are if they want to."

Gavin said he would expect help from the legislature if he is elected and added, "I would hope to bring over to my party" Democrats who supported him.

Earlier, Gavin identified as George Gardner the man he said was threatened with physical harm recently for participating in Young Republicans Club work.

Gardner said he was chairman of the First Congressional District Young Republicans.

Declares Soviet Would Confuse

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — Former United Nations ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge asserts Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev seeks to confuse the United States and her allies.

"What he said in New York certainly cannot be taken at face value," Lodge said here and in nearby Warren Friday while campaigning as the Republican vice presidential nominee.

Lodge termed Khrushchev's proposals for reorganizing and moving the United Nations "thoroughly frivolous, thoroughly specious".

"They demonstrate ill will toward world peace," Lodge said.

HOME DECORATING TODAY

By MRS. R. W. DAVENPORT

CLOTHES MAKE A MAN — LINES MAKE A ROOM

You want a room to be restful but not monotonous, interesting but not agitating. Lines and the way you use them will help decide whether your friends look at your home and say "Oh!" or "Ouch!", the Home Furniture Store counsels.

A horizontal line is a pleasing, soothing line. Sofas, long, low benches, beds and harvest tables lull the eye with their restful horizontals. But too much lulling will put you to sleep.

Vertical lines say "look up, look at me." A vertical line is like a man standing up in a meeting. It is going to get notice. A high-backed chair, a tall secretary, what-nots and towering headboards are bound to draw attention.

You need organization. You will reach or fall short of the effect in the way you combine lines. Every piece of furniture, lamp, picture and color in a room creates a line. So does every door or window. You have to get them organized into pleasing, satisfying combiriations or the lines will be going up and down like a pogo stick.

Parallel lines give each other strength.

Diagonal lines are tricky and it is usually wise to avoid rugs or furniture across a corner.

Call the Home Furniture Store if you want more line advice.

City School Cafeteria Menu

School lunchroom menus for the coming week, as announced by the supervisor of city school cafeterias, are as follows:

Monday—hot dog with chili and onions, buttered green peas, potato sticks, apricot halves, milk;

Tuesday — barbecue, cole slaw, buttered potatoes, cornbread and butter, cherry cobbler, milk;

Wednesday—baked bean casserole with Vienna sausage, congealed fruit salad, string beans, homemade roll and butter, ice cream, milk;

Thursday—spaghetti with meat balls, cabbage, apple and carrot salad, pickle rings, cheese biscuit and butter, sliced peaches, milk;

Friday — vegetable soup and crackers, pimiento cheese and peanut butter and raisin sandwich, pineapple salad, chocolate cake, milk.

Woodrow Wilson was elected president in 1912 with 82 per cent of the electoral vote but only 42 per cent of the popular vote.

East Carolina College's Story

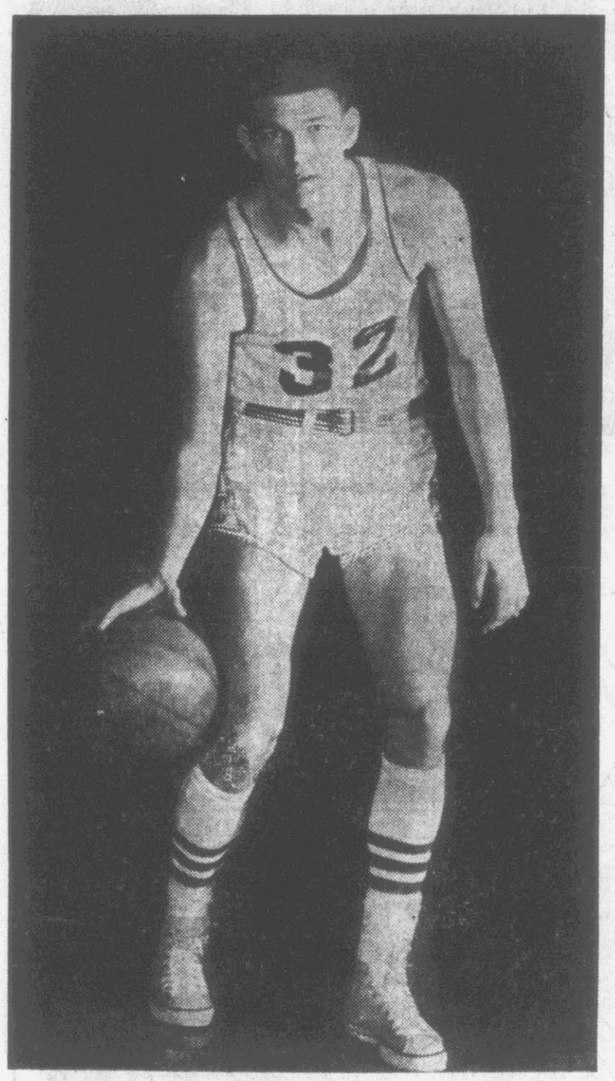

Hope Of Southern League Gives Lift To ECC Sports

Minor Sports To Be Strong Again

By JOHNNY HUDSON
Reflector Sports Editor

Successful sports at a college institution require many things. It takes a steady flow of income to support the program, it requires clear-cut organization, it needs the continuous support of its alumni and friends, and probably most of all it takes momentum on the part of the athletes themselves.

If ever was the case, East Carolina College athletes should have this accelerated drive during the school term of 1960-61. Behind this "new spirit" is a faint ray of hope for future association with the Southern Conference.

LACY WEST . . . starter as freshman

Since 1953 when East Caroling won the North State football title, an abstract cloud of "Southern Conference small-talk" has drifted over the campus. Yet, progress has been slow in coming.

Last Spring, this larger league of schools went on record as "considering expansion". This left the doors open for new members and ECC came to the front among prospective institutions.

Located in the "heart" of eastern North Carolina, this college has grown by leaps and bounds, far surpassing its conferences other schools. This quick step-up in enrollment didn't permeate into the athletic front, leaving a burden on the college's athletes.

Although the North State Conference shot-up in athletic prestige, East Carolina was still the recognized "giant". Aware of the school's growth, the athletic world came to expect ECC to dominate the league. Actually the level of operation of ECC sports stay on the level with the majority of the conference but as long as ECC excells in enrollment, the athletic plant will be expected to operate with the same ability in the conference—that of a dominant or excelling force.

Thus the athletes at this college would like to be able to cut the rope that binds them with the North State league.

A future chance at this larger conference is expected to instill new drive into ECC athletes this year. For with Southern Conference would come national prestige and financial rewards. This not only applies to the college but to the city as well.

In accordance with this "new spirit" comes the cry that "We will be better" throughout the Pirate plant. This applies especially to basketball and baseball, two of the major endeavors.

The minor sports have picked up in past years, dominating the North State and becoming a challenging power in many national circles. Little drop-off is expected in these fields for the coming year.

Earl Smith, basketball mentor, flatly predicts improvement in his roundballers. And Jim Mallory, baseball pilot, believes his club will be as well off as last season.

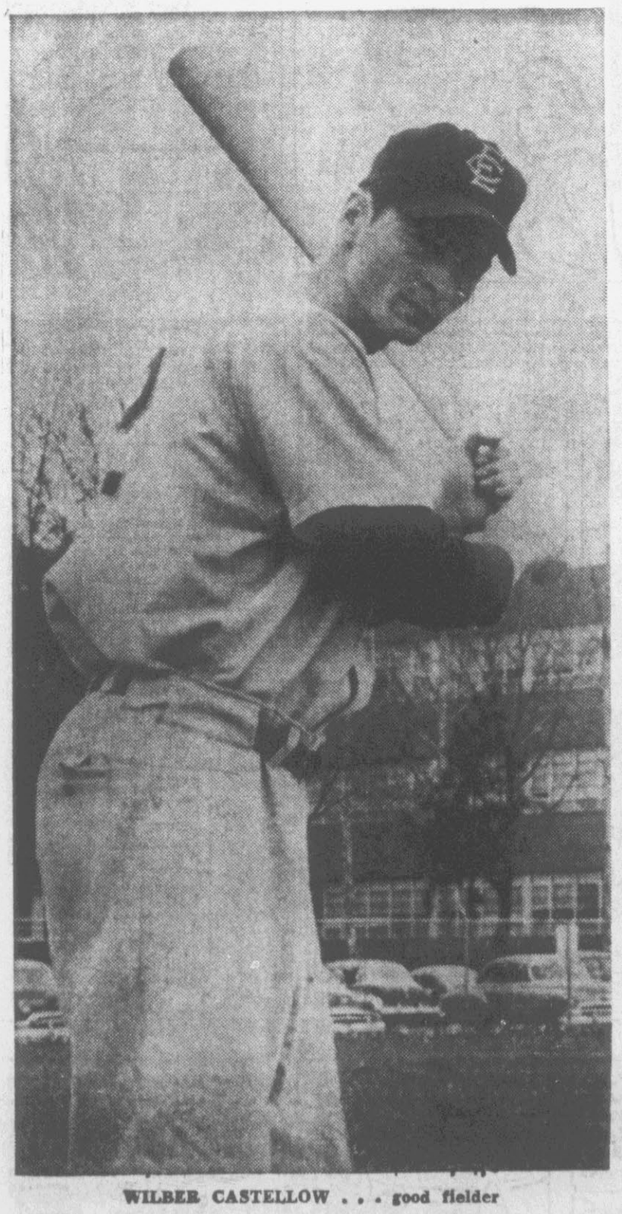

The pigskin party leads off the athletic program here tonight against Guilford College. It takes a lot of imagination to see East Carolina finishing at the top in football. The Bucs might be billed as a troop of spacemen setting sail for the outer banks with expectations unknown.

Football coach Jack Boone thinks his program is making strides but the loss of 17 solid players would make any coach go on a vegetable diet. Yet, a good looking bunch of freshmen and a handful of promising lettermen project some talk of a "slumbering giant" here. But even Boone feels the process of re-building will be a slow one.

Glenn Bass is the muscle-bound athlete who carries the majority of ECC hopes. A merchant, Bass ranks with the best in the state and could easily write history here this fall.

Other names on the roster are familiar but there don't seem to be enough. But Boone has promised to field a club full of spirit and with the desire to win.

Thus, a new year on the athletic calendar opens at East Carolina and with it will be this extra momentum of "impressing the Southern Conference officials."

Depth, Experience Return To Mallory

Eleven lettermen will return to Coach Jim Mallory this spring, giving more than a backbone to ECC baseball fortunes in what could produce a third consecutive North State title for East Carolina.

Outside of one outfield spot and the number two pitching role, Mallory has retained the personnel that carried ECC to a 12-2 conference record and a 17-5 over-all mark last season.

Charlie Johnson, Burl Morris, Jimmy Martin, Glenn Bass, Spencer Gaylord, Wilber Castellow, Gary Pierce, Merrill Bynum, Larry Crayton, and Kenny Snyder are the returnees. Missing will be Jerry Carpenter and Johnny Ellen.

"Unless unforeseen difficulties arise we should be as strong this year as last season," says Mallory. "'Our only question is depth in pitching. One pleasing thing about our club is that they all played summer ball and should be more experienced."

As usual, Mallory has another schedule which is strictly "big time". Games are tentatively set with Washington and Lee, Michigan State, Springfield College, Wake Forest, Bowling Green, Delaware and Camp Lejeune.

Concerning the schedule, a Mallory aphorism is "playing the tough clubs first gives you a stronger team for conference play".

Several freshmen and other players uncovered by Mallory are also expected to constitute the 1960 squad. And "Cotton" Clayton and Lacy West, basketball hands, may be available this spring.

Improvement For 1960 ECC Cagers

Deprived of a North State Conference title in his first year at the helm by a late-season rash of injuries, Coach Earl Smith faces the 1960-61 wars of the cage derby with a much more optimistic attitude.

Four battle-scarred starters are back, causing Smith to reason that he has the makings of a fine club, "much improved over last season".

Last season, a freshman, sophomore-studded club brought victory after victory to the Pirate Den. Ike Riddick, flashy guard, is gone but the others on the barmstorming club are back and Smith feels it will be "more polished and eliminate some of the mistakes made last season."

Heading the holdovers is "Cotton" Clayton, the carrot-top youth with the magic touch. The bells of Little All-American are already ringing for Cotton following a marvelous freshman year.

Lacy West, Benny Bowes and 1960 captain Don Smith return with more confidence. Charlie Lewis, top reserve last season, is also back. Only Smith is a senior.

Members of last season's freshman squad expect to give bench strength along with a trio of freshmen, Bill Otte of Hawthorne, New Jersey; Robert Dick of Munice, Indiana; and Floyd Wicker of Snow Camp.

"If we keep our boys in school, we feel like we'll have a good team—nothing great but a solid ball club," reports Smith.

Rather 'Listless Draw' In First Farm Vote Battle

EDITOR'S Note—Arthur Edson, a veteran of many political campaigns, was on hand to observe the first major battle between the two presidential candidates on the crucial farm issue. In the following story, he analyzes the performances of the contenders and concludes that the result was a listless draw.

By ARTHUR EDSON

SIOUX FALLS, S. D. (AP) — Well, the big battle of the farmlands has been fought, and it turned out a rather listless draw.

Neither Vice President Richard M. Nixon nor Sen. John F. Kennedy, who came to the National Plowing Contest on successive days, was able to score a knockdown.

Neither side was able to even mess up each other's hair.

Neither was able to stir up much applause.

And each acted as if he was content to match his foe right down the line, without trying for a haymaker. Each came up with a six-point program in which there were few surprises.

Each gravely said this would solve the nation's farm problems and didn't dwell on the fact that if it couldn't solve the farm problems maybe it could at least get votes in the November elections.

Maybe it's because the stakes are so great—how will the farm states go this time?—that the two presidential candidates played it so coy.

Take Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson.

Normally you can't listen to a two-minute talk on farm problems without having Benson's name mentioned. Particularly by Democrats, who like to punch Ezra at every opportunity.

But neither Kennedy nor Nixon fade any reference to the controversial man who has been in Dwight D. Eisenhower's cabinet throughout his two administrations.

Possibly the most surprising thing was the reaction, or lack of it, in the crowds.

An enthusiastic National Guard official put the crowds each day at around 70,000.

Most reporters thought the estimate far too high, but certainly it was a large gathering that braved the rain and mud to hear the presidential candidates.

Yet they remained strangely silent while Nixon and Kennedy tried to make a sale.

Nixon's biggest hand Friday came not on his farm talk, but in the basic speech he usually gives to all audiences. When he said peace is the most important issue of all, he was loudly applauded.

Why the sitting on the hands?

Well, a farm program isn't exactly a thing to be wildly enthusiastic about. And anyone standing ankle deep in mud isn't likely to be in an applauding mood.

But Frank Lingo, manager of the agriculture service for the Morrell Packing Company, has another reason.

"These farmers are very conscientious," he said, "and they're sizing up both candidates. They're not going to be quickly committed to either of them."

If that's true, it looks like an uneasy, queasy autumn for both candidates.

Possibly both candidates this year face a problem that previous presidential hopefuls haven't had. Most have been able to identify themselves with farm life in some way. Even Adlai Stevenson, a gentleman farmer, could discuss buying a prize ram.

But Nixon and Kennedy are leading non-agriculturists and maybe a hand that hasn't touched a cow's udder isn't likely to sway a farm audience.

Nixon made a game try Friday. Said he lived on a citrus ranch. Said he once pulled some weeds. But it was a poor farm, and when Richard was 10 the Nixons moved away.

"I don't pretend," Nixon said, "to be an expert on the farm problem."

But the big story was the weather. The mud was so bad Nixon's car had to be pulled by a tractor so that he could leave the grounds.

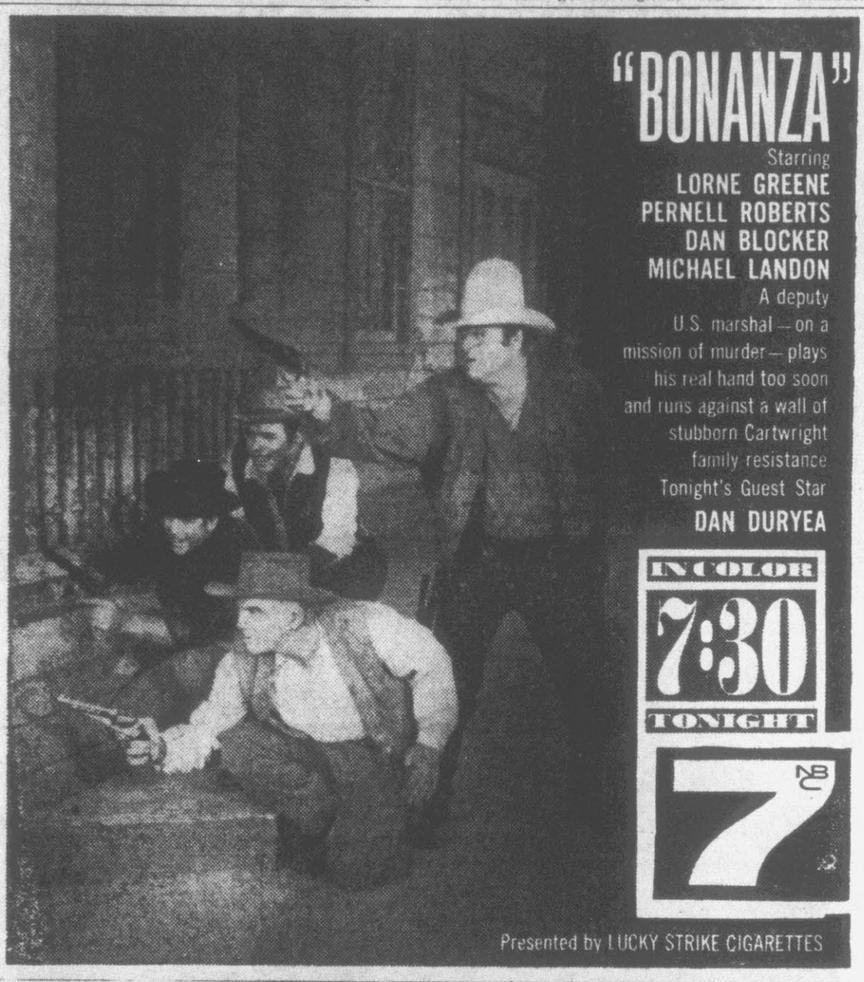

Sen. Karl Mundt, R-SD, who introduced Nixon, wore overshoes that came almost to his knees.

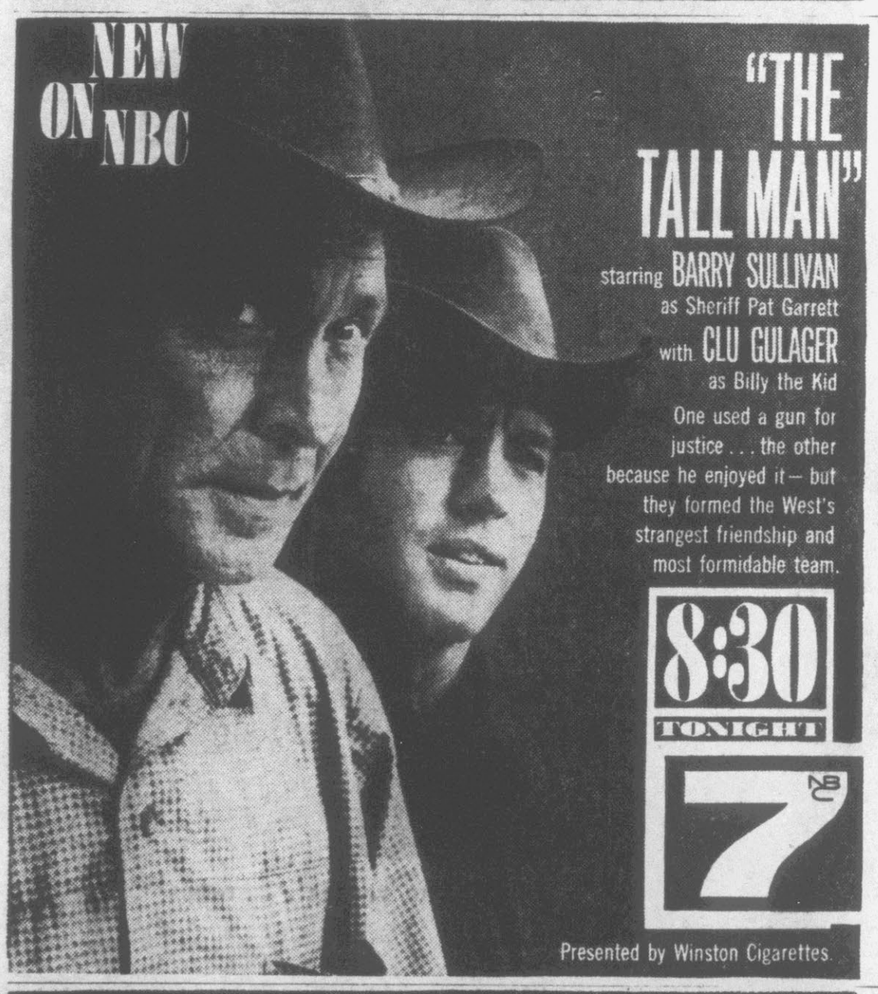

Nearly everyone was mud spattered.

Just before the Nixon party arrived straw was spread over the mud so the candidate could get to the platform without getting too dirty.

A farm woman thoughtfully watched the workmen.

"In South Dakota," she said, "that's our version of a red carpet."

Church Planning Revival Series

A week of revival services, September 25 through October 2, has been scheduled at Cavalry Missionary Baptist Church here.

Services will begin at 7:30 p.m. each evening, with special music by the choir.

The pastor, Rev. G. Marshall Godfrey, will preach.

Rev. Godfrey has only recently assumed his post with the Greenville church, having previously served as pastor of Temple Baptist Church in Marion, N.C.

A graduate of Tennessee Temple Theological Seminary in Chattanooga, Tenn., Rev. Godfrey and his family are making their home in Greenville.

NOTICE OF SALE OF REAL ESTATE
NORTH CAROLINA
PITT COUNTY

Under and by virtue of the authority contained in that certain Deed of Trust executed and delivered by Joe Carr Jr. and wife, Annie Laurie Carr, dated the 6th day of November, 1959, and recorded in Book H-31 at page 586 of the Pitt County Public Registry; and because of the default in payment of the indebtedness thereby secured and the failure to perform the stipulations and the agreements therein contained and pursuant to the demand of the owner and holder of the indebtedness secured by the said Deed of Trust, the undersigned trustee will expose for sale at public auction to the highest bidder for cash in front of the Courthouse door in Greenville, North Carolina, at 12 o'clock noon on Tuesday, October 4 1960, that certain lot or parcel of land described as follows:

Lying and being in the Town of Ayden and being all of Lot No. 18 and a small western strip (five (5) feet wide) of Lot No. 17 of the J W Jackson property as is shown on that map which is recorded in Map Book 3 at page 250 of the Pitt County Public Registry. BEGINNING at the southeast corner of Lot No. 19 on Bradford Street (now called Garris Street) and running thence with the eastern line of Lot No. 19 in a northerly direction 124 feet to an iron stake; thence S. 31-15 E. 66 feet to George Carr's lot; and running thence with George Carr's line (in a line parallel with the eastern line of Lot No. 19) in a southerly direction about 81½ feet to a point in Bradford (Garris) Street and thence with Bradford (Garris) Street in a westerly direction 55 feet to the BEGINNING. Being part of the property deeded to Joe Carr Jr. and wife, Annie Laurie Carr, by that deed from J. W. Jackson and wife, Jodie Jackson, which is recorded in Book J-24 at page 50 of the Pitt County Public Registry. And being the cement block house and lot at 216 Bradford (Garris) Street in the Town of Ayden, North Carolina.

This sale will be held open ten days (10) for raised bids as required by law.

This the 2nd day of September, 1960.

PAUL GALLICO'S NEW BESTSELLER

Mrs. 'Arris Goes to New York

From the novel published by Doubleday & Co., © 1960, by McCall Corp. | © 1960, by Paul Gallico. Distributed by King Features Syndicate

WHAT IS HAPPENING

"I'll bet if I went to America I'd soon enough find little 'Enry's dad," said Mrs. Harris to her friend Mrs. Butterfield. "'E's got to be somewhere, hasn't 'e?" The two elderly, widowed London charwomen are indignant over the abusive treatment of the child by their shiftless neighbors in London, the Gussets. The boy was abandoned to the Gussets by his mother after Henry's soldier-father, George Brown, went back to the U.S. Mrs. Harris is determined to do something about it regardless of obstacles. . .

CHAPTER 2

All of Willis Gardens knew the story of little 'Enry Brown and the Gussets, a tragedy of the aftermath of the war and, alas, too often repeated.

In 1950, George Brown, a young American airman stationed at an American air base somewhere, had married a waitress from the nearby town, one Pansy Cott, and had by her a son named Henry.

When at the close of his tour of enlistment Goerge Brown was posted for return to the United States, the woman refused to accompany him, remaining in England with the child and demanding support. Brown returned to the United States, mailing back the equivalent of two pounds a week for the care of the infant. He also divorced his wife.

Pansy and Henry moved to London, where Pansy got a job, and also met another man who was interested in marrying her. However, he wanted no part of the child, and the price of his making her an honest woman was that she get rid of it. Pansy promptly farmed out little Henry, then aged three, with a family by the name of Gusset (who lived in Willis Gardens and had six children of their own), married her lover, and moved to another town.

For three years the pound a week which Pansy had agreed to pay the Gussets for little Henry's keep (thus taking a clear pound of profit for herself) continued to come, and Henry, while not exactly overfed on this bounty, was not much worse off than the members of the Gusset brood. Then one day the pound did not arrive, and never again turned up thereafter. Pansy and her new husband had vanished and could not be traced. The Gussets had an address for the father, George Brown, somewhere in Alabama. A letter sent thither demanding funds was returned stamped "Unknown at this address." The Gussets realized they were stuck with the child, and after that things were not so good for Henry.

If the Gussets had been more brutally cruel to the child, Mrs. Harris could have done something immediate and drastic in co-operation with the police. But Mr. and Mrs. Gusset were too smart for that. No one knew exactly what it was Mr. Gusset did to eke out a living for his family, but it took place in Soho, sometimes during the night, and the general opinion held that it was something shady.

Whatever it was, it was known that the Gussets were particularly anxious to avoid the attentions of the police, and therefore, as far as little Henry was concerned, remained strictly within the law. They were well aware that the police were not able to take action with reference to a child except in cases of extreme and visible cruelty. No one could say exactly that the boy was starving or suffering from injuries. But Mrs. Harris knew his life was made a constant hell of short rations, cuffs, slaps, pinches, curses, as the Gussets revenged themselves upon him for the stoppage of the funds.

He was the drudge and the butt of the slatternly family, and any of their two girls and four boys ranging from the ages of three to twelve could tweak, kick, and abuse him with impunity. But worst of all was the fact of the child growing up without love or affection of any kind. On the contrary, he was hated, and this both Mrs. Harris and Mrs. Butterfield found the most painful of all.

In Mrs. Harris's opinion, Pansy Cott, or whatever her new name now happened to be, was the villainess of the story, the missing airman Brown the hero, and little 'Enry the victim. For one thing, Mrs. Harris was convinced that the father was continuing the support of his child and that Pansy was simply pocketing the money. It was all Pansy's doing—Pansy who had refused to accompany her husband to America, as was her wifely duty; Pansy who had withheld the child from him; Pansy who, in order to satisfy a lover, had farmed out the little boy to this beastly family; and finally, Pansy who had vanished with the loot, leaving the boy to his awful fate.

George Brown, on the other hand, was one of nature's noblemen; in the intervening years in all likelihood he would have made his fortune, as Americans did. Perhaps he had remarried, perhaps not, but whatever and wherever, he would be pining for his lost 'Enry.

This estimate of George Brown was based upon her experience with American GIs in England, whom she had invariably found friendly, warmhearted, generous, and particularly loving and kind to children. She remembered how during the war they had unfailingly shared their rations of sweets with the chidren surrounding their bases. They were inclined to be loud, noisy, boastful, and spendthrift, but when one got to know them, underneath they were the salt of the earth.

They were, of course, the richest people in the world, and Mrs. Harris reared a kind of fantasy palace where George Brown would now be living, and where little 'Enry too could be enjoyin his birthright if ony his dad knew of his plight.

She had no doubt but that if somehow Mr. Brown could be found and advised of the situation, he would appear on the wings of a faster-than-sound jet, to claim his child and remove him from the tyranny and thralldom of the nasty Gussets.

It wanted only a fairy godmother to give the knobs of Fate a twist and set the machinery going in the right direction. It was not long before, so affected was she by the plight of little 'Enry, Mrs. Harris began to see herself as that fairy godmother.

Somehow in a dream she was transplanted to the great United States of America, where by a combination of shrewdness and luck she turned up the missing George Brown almost at once. As she narratec the story of little 'Enry to him tears began to flow from his eyes, and when she had finished he was weeping unashamedly. "My good woman," he said, "all of my riches can never repay you for what you have done for me. Come, let us go at once to the airplane and set out to fetch my little boy home where he belongs." It was a very satisfactory dream.

But Mrs. Harris was not wholly given to spinning webs of fantasy. She was hardheaded, practical, and realistic about the situation of little Henry, the Gussets, and the knowledge that no one had been able to locate the father, coupled with the fact that no one had really attempted to do so. Underneath the dreams was a growing conviction that if only given an opportunity she could manage to find him, a conviction not at all diminished by the fact that all she knew of him was that his name had been George Brown, and he had been in the American Air Force.

His Sweepstakes Winnings Intact

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — Frank Ziegler, 63, winner of a $140,000 Irish Sweepstakes prize last June, didn't trust himself to handle a lot of money.

So the janitor at the Oakland Tribune went before a Superior Court judge last July 20 to ask help in managing his $40,000 net after income taxes. The judge named the Crocker-Anglo National Bank as his guardian.

Sept. 9 Ziegler fell on a sidewalk and suffered a skull fracture. He developed bronchial pneumonia and died Thursday night.

The $40,000 of which Ziegler had not spent a penny, probably will go to three nieces, his only known survivors.

Greenville F. W. B. Announcements

The Scriptures on the subject "What Is Real Religion?" will be studied this Sunday at 9:45 a.m. at the Greenville Free Will Baptist Church.

Stephen Walters and a group of Sunday school teachers extend a welcome to everyone to be present. At the 11 a.m. worship, the Senior Choir, under the direction of Mr. William Lloyd, and with Mrs. Bill Taylor, organist, will sing the hymn-anthem "On Jordan's Stormy Banks."

Rev. Eugene Waddell will preach his last sermon for a series of revival services.

A group from the church will go to the County Home at 3 p.m. for a service.

The Free Will Baptist Leagues will meet at 6:30 p.m. under the direction of Miss Helen Overton. The pastor's sermon topic at the 7:30 p.m. service will be "Life, or Death?" (I John 5:12). The Ordinance of Baptism will be observed at this service.

Monday through Friday near 7:40 a.m. television meditations will be conducted by Pastor Crawford.

Monday at 7:30 p.m. the Woman's Auxiliary meets at the church. Real Christian service is expressed by the women of this organization.

Tuesday 7:30 p.m. all visitation committees are urged to meet at the church annex basement.

Prayer service will be Wednesday evening at 7:30, and at 7:45 p.m. the annual church business conference should claim the attention and attendance of every member of the local church.

Thursday 8:00 p.m. the Senior Choir will meet for a rehearsal.

Saturday, Oct. 1, at 7:30 p.m. the Second Union District Free Will Baptist League Convention will meet with the Winterville Free Will Baptist Church.

Mrs. Alton Vincent and Mrs. Jack Bryant will be in charge of the nursery at the 11 a.m. worship.

First Presbyterian Announcements

Rev. Thomas M. Davis, General Secretary of Albemarle Presbytery, will be the guest minister at the First Presbyterian Church Sunday morning. He has chosen "Motives, Known and Otherwise" for the title of the message he will deliver, and the background scripture is taken from Philippians.

The Senior High and Pioneer Fellowships will meet at 6 o'clock for a snack supper and programs.

The Men of the Church will hold their regular meeting on Wednesday evening, September 28, in Fellowship Hall. Supper will be served at 6:45.

The public is invited to worship at this church.

Sunday, September 25, is Rally Day at the First Presbyterian Church.

This will be "Family Day" in this Sunday School and families are requested to be seated together in the Sanctuary by 9:45 a.m. It will not be necessary to report to the classrooms prior to the service.

In cases where it is impossible for the whole family to attend, the children may sit with their respective teachers.

A short program centering around "The Bible—The Book of Faith" has been planned. Attendance pins will be awarded and promotion certificates given out at this time.

Robert Leith and William Sipfle, superintendent and assistant superintendent, respectively, will be in charge of the program.

First Church of Christ, Scientist

The eternal, harmonious nature of God's creation will be brought out at Christian Science services Sunday in the Lesson-Sermon on the subject of "Reality."

Among the Bible passages to be read are these verses from Psalms (111:7,8): "The works of his hands are verity and judgment; all his commandments are sure. They stand fast for ever and ever, and are done in truth and uprightness."

Readings from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy will include this (208:20): "Let us learn of the real and eternal, and prepare for the reign of Spirit, the kingdom of heaven,—the reign and rule of universal harmony, which cannot be lost nor remain forever unseen."

The Golden Text is from Lamentations (5:19): "Thou, O Lord, remainest for ever; thy throne from generation to generation."

STOREROOM

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Haroliese Brown was conducting a union election for the National Labor Relations Board. The law required the truck drivers be allowed to cast their ballots in secret.

Miss Brown searched the guilding for a room to meet the building for a room to meet the secrecy requirements. She selected the only such place she could find—the men's room.

AT PRESBYTERIAL CAVALCADE . . . (left to right) Dr. J. Calvin Rose of Miami and Dr. Randolph Taylor of Washington, D. C., who will be in Rocky Mount October 5-6 for the Presbyterian Cavalcade. More than 100 church members from Pitt County are expected to attend. The area rally will climax weeks of intensive evangelistic organization work. Presbyterians are planning a special emphasis on evangelism in 1961.

Steps In Writing Of Novel Put On Display

How an author produces a novel is illustrated in a display of materials now in the lobby of the Joyner Memorial Library at East Carolina College.

Ovid Williams Pierce, faculty member of the college department of English and author of "On a Lonesome Porch," lent to the library for exhibition all materials used during his three years of work on the novel of North Carolina at the close of the Civil War. The book, a 1960 Doubleday publication, has received high praise from critics throughout the nation.

The display in the East Carolina library is entitled "Evolution of a Novel" and shows all steps in composition from the author's notebook through the published work.

Included are the manuscript notebook in which Mr. Pierce first outlined "On a Lonesome Porch" chapter by chapter and jotted down materials from his reading and observations which he planned to use in his book. The first draft, written by hand in pencil on 8x10 yellow paper; a first and a second typewritten draft; galley proofs; and the first edition of the novel are presented in sequence.

Extensive corrections and revisions in the manuscript and typed copies indicate the author's careful and critical methods of work.

The manuscripts, typed copies; and galley proofs will eventually be placed in the library of Duke University, of which Mr. Pierce is a graduate. Similar materials of his earlier novel "The Plantation" are now a part of the Duke collection.

PUPPET ON HIS WAY

TOKYO (AP) — The Panchen Lama, the Communist-appointed ruler of Tibet, is on his way to Peiping to attend Red China's national day celebrations in October, Peiping Radio reports.

'Rush Week' At ECC Scheduled

Rush week for fraternities at East Carolina College has been set for Sept. 27-30. Emmanuel E. Katsias of Virginia Beach, Va., and Frederick E. Daniel of Spring Hope are co-chairmen of the committee planning activities. Dean of Men James B. Mallory, advisor of the Inter-fraternity Council at the college, is assisting fraternity members in their plans.

A Rush Assembly in the college library Thursday, Sept. 22, briefed freshmen and upperclassmen interested in becoming fraternity members on events and regulations of the four-day period. Approximately 25 per cent of East Carolina freshman men and a number of upperclassmen will participate in activities, according to IFC estimates.

Freshmen who receive bids to fraternities must have a C average in academic work for the fall quarter before they can be pledged as members. Upperclassmen with averages below C are ineligible for membership.

Seven national social fraternities on the campus will take part in Rush Week. They are Phi Kappa Tau, Lambda Chic Alpha, Sigma Nu, Theta Chi, Pi Kappa Alpha, Kappa Alpha, and Sigma Phi Epsilon.

Art Classes Are Open To Pupils

A class for senior high school students on Thursday afternoons is open to registration at the Greenville Art Center. Saturday classes for younger children are already filled, however.

Mr. Lynn Burgess, a senior art student at East Carolina college and a new instructor at the center, will conduct the senior high class each Thursday from 4 until 5 p.m., for a nine-week period. Students may choose from the following subjects the ones most interesting to them: drawing (pen and ink and charcoal), modelling, fundamentals of painting, clay problems, and jewelry making. Materials will be furnished by the students.

Weekly classes for adults in painting and in ceramics are open to registration, also. Mrs. Metz Gordley and Thomas Mims, both newcomers to the staff, teach oil painting on Tuesday mornings and on Wednesday nights, respectively. Ceramics classes meet Tuesday afternoons with Mrs. Sam Brooks instructing, and on Thursday nights with Mrs. Bernard Jackson instructing.

Registration may be arranged by phoning the Center, PL 8-1946. An instruction fee will be charged students in the senior high class and in the painting classes.

Mrs. Harold Hoke, supervisor of craftwork, announces the following classes will be organized when there is a demand: weaving, textile painting, scrapbook and portfolio binding, and rugmaking (braided and crocheted).

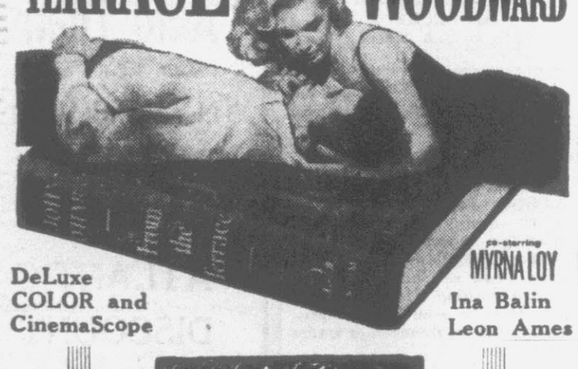

A sculpture class can be organized, also.

President Kwame Nkrumah of Ghana is a graduate of Lincoln University in Pennsylvania.
