Voters To Decide On Municipal Bond Issue

VOTING UNDERWAY TODAY . . . $550,000 bond issue being decided by local voters.

Light Turnout For Bond Vote This Morning

Voting had been light this morning in the municipal bond election being held in Greenville today.

The two polling places reported at 12:30 that 193 citizens had cast their ballots in the $550,000 bond election.

At the Central Fire Station box 105 ballots had been cast, while at the court house box, there were 88 ballots by 12:30.

Voting is usually heavier in the afternoons, however.

Citizens are deciding the fate of nine separate items in the proposed bond issue. Included in one item is a revolving fund to speed up the city's street paving program.

In another item are funds for replacing Green Mill Run bridge on Elm St. There is money in an item for a new Carver Memorial Library building and a separate item sets up funds for improvements to Sheppard Memorial Library.

An item sets up money for construction of an East Greenville sub-fire station and another provides funds for municipal vehicles including a new fire truck.

Three other items provide funds for a new Public Works garage, improvements to City Hall and improvements to Central Fire Station.

Austrian Plane Crash Kills 30

MOSCOW (AP)—A four-engine Austrian airliner crashed in fog and rain near Moscow airport Monday night. An Austrian Embassy spokesman said 30 of the 37 persons aboard died in the fiery wreckage.

All seven survivors were reported injured. They included two attaches at the U. S. Embassy here — Air Force Maj. Edward Wooten of Wilmington, N. C., and Army Maj. Willis H. Knipe of Kokomo, Ind.

Austrian airline officials in Vienna said three of the dead probably were Americans. They were identified as Miss M. L. Simone, a Pan American World Airlines employee; and a Mr. and Mrs. Ganulin, who flew to Europe from Los Angeles.

The Austrian spokesman said one of the plane's four engines apparently caught fire during the approach to the airport. The airliner tore into a wooded area west of the airport, leaving a 400-yard gash in the field before coming to a halt.

It immediately burst into flames, burning at least 25 of the victims.

Officials here were unable immediately to identify all the victims because they had not received a passenger list from Vienna.

One of those who died was identified as Squadron Leader L. G. Cooke, air attaché at the British Embassy here.

Other victims included two Austrian government officials flying here for trade talks and 10 or 11 Austrian workmen who were on a reconnaissance mission to Lumbumbha. Surviving the crash with Wooten and Knipe were Maria Wernli, an airline stewardess; Lt. Col. Paul Bertrand, assistant French air attaché; and an Austrian citizen and two Russians.

Presidential Campaign Is Spurred By 'Great Debate'

CHICAGO (AP)—The 1960 presidential campaign gained momentum today from a history-making face-to-face clash of the rival candidates for the presidency.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Sen. John F. Kennedy opened up over their differences on farm, school, housing, medical care for the elderly and other issues Monday night before a huge television-radio audience.

The question of the Roman Catholic faith of Sen. Kennedy, the Democratic nominee, never once came up as they debated who can provide the better leadership in the competition with communism.

Kennedy's religion, while never raised by Nixon, his Republican opponent, is considered by most observers to be a major factor in the campaign, along with the civil rights issue.

And while Nixon didn't mention civil rights, either, Kennedy called it "a national responsibility" when a Negro baby, or a Puerto Rican or Mexican in this country "has about half as much chance getting through high school as a white baby."

Kennedy added that the Negro baby has only a third the chance of getting through college, or becoming a professional man and about half the chance of owning a home.

Nixon hammered away on the argument that his Republican programs will move America forward "on the wonderful record we have made over the past 7 1/2 years."

On the other hand, Nixon said, health, education, housing, farm, elderly medical care and other proposals advanced by Kennedy, would boost federal spending by anywhere from $13.2 to $18 billion dollars.

They would, Nixon charged, "lead to stagnation of the motive power that we need in this country to get progress," Nixon said.

Congo Soldiers Ask UN For Pay

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—Several thousand national Congolese soldiers surrounded United Nations headquarters at Stanleyville Monday night and demanded their overdue pay.

Some of the soldiers invaded the U. N. offices, but there was no violence, according to word reaching Leopoldville.

U. N. officials calmed the soldiers with a promise that pay would be flown in from Leopoldville, whose 3,000-man garrison had previously been paid by the U. N. Some of the money will reportedly come from Congolese funds and the rest from the United Nations.

Leopoldville informants said today a U. N. Ghana officer had been rebuffed for providing a personal escort for deposed Premier Patrice Lumumba when Lumumba left the premier's residence Sunday to cruise through Leopoldville streets "to reassure the public and the military by my presence."

Col. Joseph Mobutu, who staged a coup d'etat Sept. 14, has complained to the U. N. about what he terms favoritism to Lumumba. Ghana President Kwame Nkrumah is openly supporting Lumumba and the Ghana charge d'affaires, N. A. Wellbeck, is openly advising Lumumba, who refuses to admit he is out of a job.

Republican proposals would increase federal spending from 2 to 4.1 billions.

Kennedy insisted his program can be included in a carefully-drawn balanced budget "if our economy is moving ahead."

And so it went for an hour, with each candidate taking his turn in outlining his case, and answering questions from a panel of television reporters.

The program was carried by all the national television and radio networks—NBC, CBS and ABC, plus MBS radio network. Some individual stations made delayed telecasts and broadcasts of the debate. Television network officials estimated 65 to 75 million persons watched the telecast.

When the program was over, the two contestants agreed on at least one thing: that this first of four nationally televised appearances was good for the country and would increase the turnout of voters Nov. 8.

"Very good," Nixon said of the debate. "Very sharp exchanges," Kennedy, standing by, nodded and said, "Very useful."

While both seemed nervous in the studio before the debate started, they were at least moderately self-assured once the performance got under way.

Opening the debate, Kennedy called for "effective government action," saying: "I think it is time America started moving again."

While Nixon agreed that "we are in a deadly competition" with Moscow and Peiping, he called Kennedy's proposals for moving the economy ahead "simply retracements of the programs of the Truman administration."

He contended, as he has all along, that during the Eisenhower administration more schools have been built and more electric power developed than any administration in history while also building more houses and highways.

Kennedy said he does not think "we are doing enough," that he is "not satisfied with the progress we are making" with 50 per cent of the country's steel capacity unused, for example.

"This is a great country, but I think it could be a more powerful country," the Massachusetts Democrat declared.

Nixon said that in the economic race Soviet production is only 44 per cent of that of the United States; and Kennedy replied that 44 per cent was "certainly causing us a lot of trouble."

Richard Gillespie, an architect, said: "From Colorado on west, the houses and cities are all tight and compact. With all the room this part of the country is famous for, it seems odd that the newer developments aren't spread out there."

Gillespie said he was awed by the scope and variety of California agriculture, adding: "I used to raise 30 acres of tomatoes a year and I found I couldn't compete with other parts of the country. Coming through the Sacramento Valley, I saw the reason. Many, many farms of 300 or more acres and loaded with lush, gorgeous tomatoes. It's big here."

J. Norman Pease Sr., president of the J. N. Pease Co., builders and architects, pointed out: "You raise a tremendous amount of cotton in California and the West, and yet you manufacture none."

"You raise a lot of cattle and still import virtually all of your leather goods."

J. Mason Wallace Jr., another builder, was impressed with the new architecture. "What fascinates me," he said, "is the lack of fear of bucking tradition. Often here people get ideas and try 'em."

The Tar Heels were interviewed at a luncheon atop Nob Hill. Besides praising California, they did some boasting.

C. S. Reed, vice president of the Duke Power Co., told the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce: "If all the diapers made in the Piedmont area (of North Carolina) were put end to end, there wouldn't be a bare end in the country."

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—An Air Force B47 jet bomber and two Coast Guard rescue helicopters crashed into Tampa Bay Monday night but two miraculous rescues in the dark saved all 10 aboard from serious injury.

The heroes of the evening were a 13-year-old boy, his father and the crew of a Coast Guard rescue boat.

Owen Rex Singleton, 38, a gasoline transport truck driver, and his son, Robert, went out on Tampa Bay in a 15-foot boat, located six of the airmen and brought them to safety.

A Coast Guard boat crew found four men from the second helicopter in the water and rescued them.

The B47, a six-jet medium bomber, took off from MacDill Air Force Base at Tampa on a training mission. It crashed. One helicopter crashed while coming to rescue the bomber crew and the second helicopter crashed shortly thereafter, a few miles away.

WELLINGTON, New Zealand (AP)—Prime Minister Walter Nash left today for the U. N. General Assembly meeting after announcing his trip was due to the "grossly unjust, violent and damaging attacks" on Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld.

Pledge To Support 'Dag' By Eisenhower, Macmillan

NEW YORK (AP)—President Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Macmillan today pledged full support to United Nations Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld in the face of Nikita Khrushchev's demands he be fired.

At the same time, the two world leaders called on the 96-nation U. N. Assembly to buckle down to "serious, sober and constructive work" on international disarmament.

This appeared to be a plea to Khrushchev and his Communist allies to forsake further anti-Western propaganda attacks for the sake of serious efforts to ease East-West tensions.

Eisenhower and Macmillan, meeting to coordinate allied strategy, issued their joint declaration after a 2 1/2-hour meeting with their foreign policy chiefs.

An American spokesman stressed that Macmillan in no way sought to act as a mediator between Eisenhower and Khrushchev or to arrange a face to face meeting between the two cold war foes.

Eisenhower, pressing ahead with his campaign of quiet diplomacy, met with Macmillan at breakfast in his temporary White House headquarters on the 35th floor of the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel.

Afterward, he arranged to talk with top Ethiopian and Cambodian representatives in the next stage of his drive to woo neutral support for the Western side.

Canadian Prime Minister John Diefenbaker was to meet with the President this afternoon just before Eisenhower flies back to Washington.

Presidential Press Secretary James C. Hagerty summed up the Eisenhower-Macmillan parley at a news conference, saying in part: "The President and the prime minister reviewed the situation in the General Assembly of the United Nations and considered the policies best pursued by their two countries toward their common goal."

"They were in complete agreement as to the vital role of the United Nations, particularly in the Congo crisis, and the need to give full support to the secretary-general in his tasks."

Khrushchev also has been critical of the U. N. role in the Congo situation.

The Eisenhower - Macmillan meeting was a breakfast conference in the President's 35th floor suite at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel.

After an hour they called in their foreign policy chiefs, Secretary of State Christian A. Herter and Lord Home, to help plan coordinated Allied strategy for checking Khrushchev's anti-Western offensive in the United Nations.

In the afternoon, Eisenhower arranged to get together with Canada's John Diefenbaker before ending his busy round of foreign policy talks and heading back to Washington.

The President is reported increasingly confident that numerous neutralist nations will join Western countries in defeating Khrushchev's plan to revamp the United Nations to Moscow's design.

Pressing ahead on his one-man diplomatic mission, he also arranged to meet with top representatives of two more independent-minded nations, Premier Norodom Sihanouk of Cambodia and Deputy Premier Akililu Abte Wold of Ethiopia.

Eisenhower's chats with the Cambodian and Ethiopian leaders he has met since he launched his personal drive last Thursday to line up votes for the West in the diplomatic battle against Khrushchev.

Eisenhower is understood to be considerably heartened as a result of lengthy conferences Monday with India's Prime Minister Nehru and President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic.

The president met with each of these key neutralist leaders in his temporary New York White House, a suite on the 35th floor of the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel.

To continue his personal diplomacy, Eisenhower is understood to be considering a luncheon meeting with representatives of 13 new African states admitted to U. N. membership last week.

Eisenhower's tactics, unlike Khrushchev who has been leading the Soviet delegation at the United Nations, have been to talk quietly backstage, assisting Secretary of State Christian A. Herter, who heads the U. S. working representatives at the United Nations.

Democrat Leaders Of N.C. Gather To Help George Cherry 'Celebrate'

PACTOLUS — George Cherry, veteran Democrat party worker, had a birthday party here last night and among those attending was gubernatorial candidate, Terry Sanford.

The Democratic nominee headed a long list of Democratic leaders who came to help Cherry celebrate what he called his "39th birthday." It was whispered among the guests that it was actually his 64th.

There was a cigarette lighter from friends presented to Cherry by Sanford, himself, to make the birthday celebration official. And "Happy Birthday to You" was sung by the dignified political leaders from Sanford on down.

Primarily the party consisted of what politicians do best—considerable handshaking and considerable eating. The menu was chicken pastry, barbecue, ham, roast beef, slaw, potato salad and, of course, cornbread sticks.

Little of the formal-type speech making took place but Sanford did tell the group, "We are counting on a great majority down here to offset some of the more backward areas of the state."

"We are declaring all-out war on the low per capita income," Sanford told the group. "We are going to work together to develop all our talents with which we have been blessed."

Sanford arrived by plane at the Pitt-Greenville airport around 5 o'clock. He then was taken by car to the G. V. Lewis farm near here.

Among the political figures present last night were: State Senator Lindsay Warren, Congressman Herbert C. Bonner, State Senator Robert Lee Humber, Rep. Walter Jones, Rep. Nominee Clifton Everette, Greenville Mayor S. Eugene West, Griffon Mayor Wiley Gaskins, Jack Spain, administrative assistant to Sen. Sam Ervin.

John Clark, Pitt Democratic Executive Committee chairman, was master of ceremonies.

A number of municipal and county officials, party workers and friends of Cherry from Pitt and Beaufort Counties were among the guests.

Panelists Give Nod To Kennedy

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP)—A three-man panel from the nation's oldest undergraduate debating society decided by a unanimous vote Monday night that Sen. John F. Kennedy argued better than Vice President Richard M. Nixon in the candidates' televised meeting.

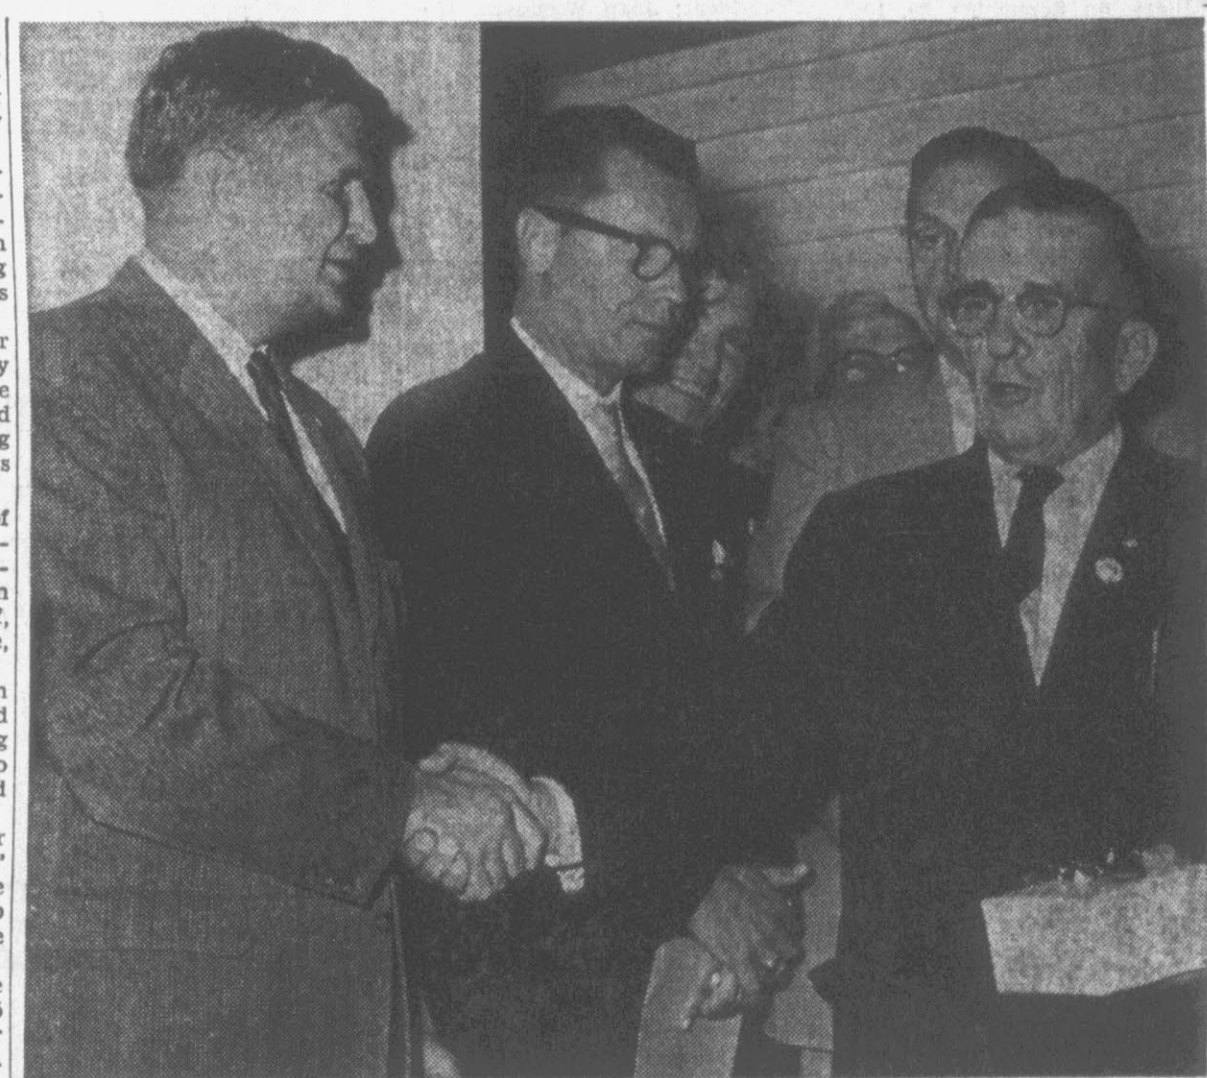

The student judges were Howard G. Pontius, 20, of Schenectady, N. Y., president of the American Whig-Closophic Society; Donald K. Emmerson, 20, of Lagos, Nigeria, vice president of the society; and Jonathan S. Day 19, of Houston, Tex., chairman of the panel.

Better Schools Committee Is Opening Series Of Meets Here

The first in a series of four meetings of the North Carolina Citizens Committee for Better Schools was scheduled for 2 p.m. today at McGinnis Auditorium on the East Carolina College campus here.

Raymond Stone, executive secretary of the state committee, said, "This meeting this afternoon is an area meeting to which people from all of the counties east of Raleigh have been invited."

He described the purpose of the four-session series as "meetings to give citizens an opportunity to hear about and discuss the recommendations of the state curriculum study which is being directed by Dr. I. E. Ready."

The discussion group, Stone said, "will consider ways and means by which the recommendations may be used to improve local schools."

FOURTEEN KILLED

DURANGO, Mexico (AP)—A bus trying to avoid a cow in the road collided Monday night with a crowded station wagon, and 14 persons in the smaller vehicle were killed. All were members of a family en route to Durango for the ordination of two relatives as Roman Catholic priests.

He said the committee's activity has been made possible through a grant from the Richardson Foundation. The Citizens Committee was "asked to communicate to the people of the state the result of the curriculum study," Stone said.

The four-meeting series will be climaxed Nov. 21 and 22 in Chapel Hill with a final session. Dr. James B. Conant will be the featured speaker there.

Stone said nominees to the 1961 General Assembly, county commissioners, school board members, school district committeemen, school superintendents and officials, and other interested citizens have been invited to today's gathering.

The committee's executive secretary, in Greenville this morning for an 11 a.m. meeting of the program's discussion leaders, was expecting a crowd of 500 to 600.

Carnegie Hall Is 'Born Anew'

NEW YORK (AP)—Carnegie Hall, once doomed to the wrecking hammer, was born anew Monday.

Six months ago the "Old Lady of 57th Street" was in dowdy shape—her facade black with decades of smoke and her interior tired and run down.

Wrecking crews were scheduled to destroy her. Then, in a last-minute intervention by a group of citizens headed by violinist Isaac Stern, the hall was saved.

State legislative action permitted the city to buy the hall for $5 million. A vast renovation began. New paint, carpeting, stage curtains, chandeliers and seats were added.

Mayor Robert F. Wagner cut a blue and gold ribbon across the center doorway Monday to open the new Carnegie Hall to the public.

Tobacco Prices Top $65 Average

Tobacco markets in Greenville, Farmville and Robersonville yesterday posted sales averages above $65 per 100 pounds for the first time this season.

Farmville posted its highest mark in two years from the sale of 827,608 pounds—a full sale—for a total of $539,037. Its average stood at $65.13.

Robersonville's market chalked up its second $65 day this season. That market sold 321,494 pounds for a total of $209,532. The Robersonville sales average was recorded at $65.18.

The Federal-State Market News Service in Wilson reported a $65.97 sales average for the 17-market Eastern Belt.

The belt sold a total of 13,838,910 pounds yesterday for a total receipts figure of $9,088,577, the Wilson office said.

Arrangements for United Nations Week, to be held Oct. 23-29, will include a dinner for the public with an international menu—special exhibits at the library and other places, and a tea at the Greenville Art Center.

Representatives of Greenville organizations met recently with Mrs. Robert Humber as chairman, to make plans for the annual observance on a local level.

S. Metz; Rotary Club, Dr. Robert Humber; Herbert Wilkerson represented Greenville business men.

Each organization was asked to select a special day during the week for its own group to observe the U. N. theme.

On Oct. 26, the Women's Club will serve a dinner for the public, when an international menu will be offered, as well as a program of international songs and dances. Details will be announced later.

A special exhibit of U. N. books will be on display at Sheppard Memorial Library. Greenville merchants are to cooperate with special displays of imported merchandise to emphasize the international keynote.

The Greenville Art Center will be host for a tea and exhibit of materials representative of their countries, to be loaned by foreign students at East Carolina College. The date is to be announced.

Local ministers will be invited to key their sermons to the United Nations theme during U. N. Week.

Mrs. Humber said plans are in progress for a television program during the week in which local judges and lawyers will participate in a panel discussion to explain to the public the organization and purpose of the International Court of Justice.

Make Floor Dramatic

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

A wall-to-wall carpet can give a static look to a room, a point the home decorator should not overlook, says rug designer-weaver Bittan Valberg.

"We should think of the floor as a fifth wall, an area to be decorated attractively, not just another area to cover up," she explains.

Bittan agrees bad floors in good condition and handsome floors should be polished and accented with a beautiful rug.

"Why not make the floor dramatic? Put the colors you love in your rug, then lift the colors you particularly like and use them in the room. It is best to purchase a rug before you buy other furnishings for a room," she advises. Bittan concentrates on abstract patterns in rug designs. She likes to choose patterns and colors from nature. They fit into any room scheme, she says.

"I made a small water color swatch of shells and pebble hues because they looked so harmonious in a color sense and that evening the same colors came to life in the sky. Nature's colors are always happy combinations, pleasing to the eye, and in harmony in the home, a good idea to keep in mind when puzzled about color schemes," she says.

Once she designed a rug after observing New York at night from an airplane. Blues, and the brightness of red and yellow, representing neon lights were prominent in the rug.

"I try to achieve a movement of colors without any actual pattern. I did a circus tent in a sharp red and orange design, and a rug I call early strata in tones of blues produced some unusual effects," she says.

When the rug has an abstract pattern it can be a staged drama that fits in with everything in the room, and does not have the hard clash that a definite pattern might create, she says.

Even if one must use a plain wall-to-wall floor covering, area rugs may be used to bring color to the floor. In Sweden, where she began her career, wall-to-wall carpeting is virtually unknown, she says, and the area rug is thought of as a work of art, like a painting on the wall. She designs one-of-a-kind rugs as well as those that are industrially produced.

Bittan's rugs are on display at the National Design Center in New York, part of an American designer series of exhibitions. They have been shown at the Museum of Contemporary Crafts and shortly will move into the Atlanta Museum.

Family Ceremony Unites Couple

LUCAMA — Miss Betty Lou Campbell of Grimesland and Fredy Lamm of Lucama and Kinston were married on Saturday, September 3, in the Upper Black Creek Church of Lucama. Rev. Paul Lamm, father of the bridegroom, officiated at the private ceremony.

The bride is a graduate of Chocod High School. The bridegroom graduated from Lucama High School.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Campbell of Grimesland. The bridegroom is the son of Rev. and Mrs. Paul Lamm of Lucama.

The couple entered the church together. Only members of the family were in attendance.

The bride chose a full length wedding gown of lace over net and taffeta. The neckline was scalloped, with long sleeves ending in points over the wrists. Her elbow-length veil was attached to a bandeau of velvet. She carried a wedding bouquet of white carnations.

Mr. and Mrs. Lamm took a short wedding trip to points in Virginia. They plan to make their home in Kinston, where the bridegroom is employed by Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Company.

Some homemakers feel that the most difficult aspect of floor scrubbing is mopping up the used suds and water after the floor has been scrubbed clean. If you have this problem, there's a helpful attachment available for any type of vacuum cleaner.

It works on the suction principle, sucking the scrub water into a special tank. This useful device also vacuums up soiled suds and moisture after you "shampoo" upholstery and carpeting.

The producers of "The Sun-downers," a movie shot in Australia, made sure there were no black sheep among the herd used in the film. Every one of the 3,000 was scrubbed to a gleaming whiteness prior to its screen debut.

Big Outpouring Of Support For UN

Premier Khrushchev's threat to destroy the United Nations unless it is revamped to suit his purposes comes at a moment in history when the international organization enjoys the greatest prestige and influence in its 15-year history.

The open threat by the Soviet Premier comes at a moment when the leaders of nations from the West, the East and the neutralist blocs have come together at the United Nations for the greatest gathering of heads of state in modern history.

Were the United Nations a weak, ineffective and unwanted agency in the field of international affairs, certainly the heads of state would not have come in great numbers to New York for the opening of the 15th annual U.N. General Assembly. If the nations of the world were not determined to continue the peace-making efforts of the United Nations they would have concerned themselves with domestic problems in their own countries rather than coming to the U. N. session.

Although Khrushchev's assertion that the United Nations must be reorganized along the lines he calls for poses a threat to the U.N., the situation created by the Soviet Premier likewise has brought from many nations the greatest outpouring of support for the U.N. that has even been seen. Rather than marking the point at which the United Nations influence in international affairs takes a down-turn, we believe this historic 15th session will mark the beginning of a period of unprecedented strength and influence for the United Nations.

Individual nations throughout the world are

N.C. Provisions Compare Well

By LYNN NISBET

TIME OFF — The Department of Personnel reports in its current publication for State employees, "Career", on surveys made comparing vacation and sick leave time in North Carolina with other states and cities. State workers fare very well in the comparison. They can earn 15 days vacation time, which is three weeks based on the five-day work week. Vacation time can be saved and accumulate to 30 days, or six weeks. Ten days sick leave is granted each year, with unlimited accumulation. In addition, the State observes 10 holidays each year, equivalent to two work weeks.

Georgia gives the same vacation time, 15 days sick leave with 120 maximum accumulation, and 11 annual holidays. Virginia has arranged of 12 to 18 vacation days vacation, depending upon tenure, with 24 days accumulation; 15 days sick leave with 120 days accumulation, and 11 holidays.

The City of Raleigh allows 10 to 15 days vacation, with 22 days accumulation; 10 days earned sick leave with 60 days accumulation, and 7 holidays.

The survey discovered that most government units pay for unused vacation time when the employee leaves the service. None pays for unused sick leave. The common limit on sick leave accumulation is 60 days.

Most states and cities give paid holidays on New Year, Memorial, Independence, Labor, Thanksgiving, Veterans (Old Armistice) and Christmas days. In North Carolina Easter Monday is a legal holiday, and practice is to take at least three days off for Christmas.

Public school teachers are required to devote 180 days to classroom teaching, and are given two before and one after. They refer to these as "two to set up and one to clean up."

HIGHWAY ASSET — George Stephens of Asheville, chairman of the Travel Council's roads committee, comes up with some suggestions for capitalizing on the Interstate System of highways to promote more jobs for North Carolinians. He notes that travelers from the industrial areas in the northeast and midwest will end their first day's trip just inside North Carolina. So will northbound travelers from Florida and the Gulf states.

Information centers at the points where the I-numbered roads (and some other major highways) enter the state could be established and manned at very small cost in relation to the service they would render. These centers at modest outlay could show how North Carolina is building for the future: The Research Triangle; University teaching and services to the people; statewide modern public school system with bus transportation; largest State maintained highway system in the country—and no tolls; statewide research; also the national and state parks, private owned but public used lakes and beaches, etc.

The idea contemplates one high-class attendant at each information center to give out leaflets, arrange for push-button sound movies, and explain other pictures and charts.

The construction, maintenance and operation of these centers would run into a good many dollars. Stephens and other advocates of the project feel sure that they will yield dividends far above the cost. The State already has welcoming billboards at most major highways entrances, but they afford no information about the advantages in North Carolina.

FAIRGROUND SPEECHES — Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Benson will speak at the N.C. State Fair on Wednesday, October 12, in behalf of the Republican party. Harry Truman, former President of the United States, will speak the following day for the Democrats. Question has arisen about how to handle fairground admission charges for these occasions. Final decision has not been announced, but majority opinion among all those jointly responsible for arrangements is that regular admission charges should be maintained. Under that plan the political speeches can be classed as extra attractions for fair visitors; and the sponsoring political parties will benefit by the crowds drawn on account of the fair—and a cost-free arena for the speakings.

Both the Benson and Truman speeches will be on the air and thousands who do not go to the fairgrounds will be able to hear them. Those who do go at the regular 75 cents admission charge will be able to see the speakers at closer range—just like guests at the $50 and $100 plate money raising dinners get a closer look at the speakers than outside radio and teevee audiences.

At that, the fair management is apt to come on the short end of the deal. Wednesday and Thursday crowds usually fill the fairgrounds to capacity anyway, so the drawing power of the politicians is no great advantage. And many of the activities from which the fair makes money will be suspended during the speechmaking.

showing their confidence as never before in the ability of the U.N. to cope successfully with problems that threaten world peace. With this greater confidence there has come more and stronger support for the undertakings of this international organization.

History alone will tell whether Premier Khrushchev has over played his hand this time in his violent attack upon the United Nations and his threat to continue the cold war unless the U.N. is revamped to suit his own purposes.

In spite of the uncertainties of the moment, however, signs point to a strengthening of the United Nations during and after the present crisis rather than a deterioration of its position in world affairs.

Calling To Reflector Readers' Attention

Elsewhere on this page The Daily Reflector is carrying an editorial written by Henry Belk of the Goldsboro News-Argus.

We call our readers' attention to this impression of Senator John Kennedy as set forth by one of the senior editors of Eastern Carolina.

Editor Henry Belk is widely known in our state as an able newspaperman and as a "layman" leader in the field of education.

His editorial writing is of a personal style seldom found today; largely, we suspect, because it is the most difficult form to pursue in the often hurried world of editorial writers. You will recognize, we are sure, in his writing the qualities of warmth and thoughtfulness, of deep insight and studied words . . . which have been his hallmark for many years.

Editor Belk was in Greenville and in Raleigh to hear and assay the Democratic candidate for the presidency.

The Reflector believes his impressions are well worth attention of Pitt County readers.

No Reason Now To Stay Around

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—Premier Nikita Khrushchev, having done his best to paralyze the United Nations, has no reason for staying around now except to watch a cripple try to walk. He had two purposes in coming here—to make propaganda and to undermine the United Nations. He accomplished both.

By his performance last week in New York—despite the bleeding heart he exhibited to backward peoples—he showed himself a hypocrite, a destructive force, a bully and a bore.

It is perhaps no accident he seems upset by the thought of death and disaster. It may be a pattern of his mind. Just read his speech to the United Nations and many previous speeches.

He dwells on annihilation. His two-hour speech to the United Nations could have been delivered in an hour. It was a long-winded kind he delivers to captive audiences in Moscow. It had a few moments of thunder. As a whole it was a bore.

Khrushchev talks peace but he acts like a man frightened of it. For more than a year he desperately wanted a summit meeting. Then at the last moment, after the U2 spy plane incident, he backed away and wrecked it. It was thought at the time he might have been trying to save face.

But he came to this country where it was possible at the United Nations to make a new start toward peaceful settlement. Instead, he exploded in denunciation and undermined the world's greatest agency for peace.

He talked, as he has many times before, of the need for disarmament. The next day he made disarmament impossible by declaring there could be none unless he had his way in demanding a basic change in the U.N. itself.

This was when he castigated Dag Hammarskjold, U.N. secretary-general, who had been critical of the Soviets' efforts to penetrate the Congo when the United Nations was trying to restore peace there.

Khrushchev called for revising the fundamental structure of the United Nations by eliminating Hammarskjold's job and creating a three-man secretariat to run the show. One man would represent communism, one the West, and the third the neutral nations. Under the setup a veto by any of the three would paralyze the United Nations.

But Khrushchev knew his idea was impossible of achievement when he offered it. What it boils down to is an effort to bulldoze the world organization into not interfering with Russian adventures in the future. Khrushchev did it by expressing a lack of confidence in the organization.

This leaves the future usefulness of the United Nations badly damaged if not ruined. Khrushchev spent more time in his speech on the evils of colonialism than he did on anything else, demanding that all territories now held by any power be immediately freed.

Here he was at his hypocritical worst, for he said: "It could be said that it is easy for the Soviet Union to speak for the elimination of the colonial regime since the Soviet Union has no colonies."

But the Soviet Union is the newest and biggest colonial power. Witness the bondage of Russia's European satellites. The proof: Khrushchev's bloody suppression of the Hungarians when they tried to shake off communism.

Why does he act this way? Perhaps it is in his nature, crude and explosive. Perhaps he feels it is necessary, as has been said, to convince the Red Chinese and his Kremlin critics that he is stalwart indeed.

Perhaps it is none of those but this: Russia has now tremendous power in weapons and he is bent on using that force — if only through threats because he fears American counterforce—to blackmail his way through.

"Is there a teacher shortage? If so, it's hard to pin down. There are 47.6 per cent more teachers now than in the 1949-50 period. The number of pupils has increased too, of course, but to a lesser degree—44.9 per cent."—Industrial News Review.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

FISHERMAN'S LUCK In the little seaside New England town where we have often spent part of the summer, one of the most popular forms of recreation is fishing. Every day dozens of boats go out, from humble rowboats powered by outboard motors to thirty-thousand-dollar sport cruisers, all full of eager fishermen.

For ten days last summer the fish did not bite. Every afternoon we saw dejected men walking gloomily away from their boats, arguing about different theories of bait, tides, weather, and all the other variables which can affect fishing.

But there was one man who was different. He had been out fishing too, and like the rest of us he had not caught anything. But he had a good time even so. He enjoys boating for its own sake. He loves the motion of the waves, the fresh breeze across the bay, the marvelous effects of cloud, sky, and water. Fish or no fish, he has a good time, and comes home relaxed and happy.

This man has an attitude toward life that we can all admire. Because he looks around to seek beauty and happiness, he finds them. Where other people concentrate on their disappointments, he refuses to make himself miserable because the fish don't bite, but look further to find the cheerful aspects which experience has taught him are always there. He has discovered the secret of contentment.

To him fishing is a sport, not a game or a project of overwhelming importance. Just fishing.

THE UNITED WAY

How Much Is Good Government Worth?

By DON SCHLIENZ

The Scattering Of Seed

This is the season for a lot of things . . . among them the scattering of winter grass seed across one's lawn. And to be honest about it, I think the Schlienz technique of seed-scattering is as good as any and better than most.

It has a classical aspect, borrowed from a painting viewed in the long ago entitled "The Sower," as I remember. The artist is unrecalled; and whether the picture adorned a calendar or a gallery, I could not say. But like the figure in the scene, I clutch to my bosom a sack of seed and with right hand gracefully throw broadcast the precious stuff which is to give me and mine a green lawn come wintertime. So it isn't the sowing to be blamed for total failure these past two winters . . . the old throwing arm is still good, and the price of grass seed these days prohibits suspicions in that direction.

As a matter of fact, neighbors told me the 1958-59 crop didn't show because the weather was too dry too long before the freezes set in.

The 1959-60 crop (my own deduction, here) failed me because it was sown too late in the season.

This data is furnished for free from the Snuff Information Center, 250 Park Avenue, New York.

After fourteen years of being surrounded by tobacco and tobacco talk, you'd think I would know about the snuff business. But I didn't . . . and I bet you didn't either.

Nobody can sneeze at 34 million pounds of snuff, unless you take it a pinch at a time.

I think Americans got their money's worth last night in the opening "Great Debate."

For the past couple days I can vouch for the fact there has been considerable local interest in the Kennedy-Nixon meeting on TV. A surprising number of people have mentioned it to me in casual conversation . . . with a high degree of anticipation.

And, considering my relative immobility, the frequency with which the anticipation was raised by the few folk I've encountered, it was truly a great audience waiting . . . this, I know.

This show really hit the road with a bang.

of esteem and recognition for more man in his best moments. It is a patriotic document in all its chapters which makes the blood run warmer because it tells how man when under greatest threat and stress can rise above mere humanity and prove that he is a little less than the angels. At Greenville the General Manager and I sat only a few feet from Sen. Kennedy during his talk. At Raleigh I was so tired that I went to bed in a hotel and listened by television and the radio. The General Manager again had a seat in the press section not far removed from the speaker, who in both his talks and in his answering of questions, Kennedy showed he knows the grave danger which faces us. He knows too that the soft and easy, self-willed, self-serving mood of the people is not equal to the task which is upon us.

Kennedy called the rolls of critical times and referred to the men who rose from among the people to lead us through dark days. He referred to the Democrats, of course, as the party for all of the people and particularly in critical days. I thought that back of his pronouncements I detected a great wish to take the people fully into his confidence and give them the score. He wondered, one felt, if they would soon after the Hurricane incident. We have had no rain since, only heavy dews. There has been also an abundance of birds alighting on our yard, and their take-offs are said to remind one of an overloaded cargo plane.

Question: What do you have to do to win?

It says here (I'm reading, now), that "about the easiest way to pick up lunch money today is to bet the average man that he can't tell you how much snuff is sold in this country."

"Four thousand pounds a year, would you say? Ten thousand? Fifty thousand? A hundred thousand?"

"In almost a hundred cases out of a hundred, your man—if he takes your bet at all—won't come within shouting distance of the actual true figure of 34,200,000 pounds sold in these United States in the last fiscal year."

After fourteen years of being surrounded by tobacco and tobacco talk, you'd think I would know about the snuff business. But I didn't . . . and I bet you didn't either.

Course Of The Child

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
Copyright, 1960, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Education is the accumulation of knowledge in an orderly manner. This function begins almost at birth. We learn to identify objects; to know persons; to establish preferences as a baby prefers its mother to a stranger, the family dog to a prowler, the family dog to a prowl, the doll that the baby takes to bed to the smoke of a cigarette. In time, the child learns to walk, to talk, to fear, to be careful, to know what is permissible, what is good and what brings punishment. If there is no punishment, everything is good and is permissible.

This process continues throughout life, but there is a period between the ages of five and 18 when the process of learning is accelerated and when it occupies the child's principal attention and time. It is the period when the child, beginning with kindergarten, goes to elementary school and to high school. The basic education of the individual is laid down in those years. If it is not done properly and adequately then, it is likely never to be done at all. Education is discipline of the mind and of the personality. Without discipline, a human being becomes a barbarian no matter how much veneer is used to clothe the person in the trappings of the day.

In the early school years, the child learns first the simple mechanics of acquiring knowledge, reading, writing, mathematics, the processes of nature, something about the physical sciences, some history, something about government, the distinction between one language and another, hygiene, and such fundamentals.

But there is another side to all this. This prolonged period of intense education must include drilling in self-restraint which is the essence of character-building; patriotism which is more than love of country—it is self-respect; and in a well-organized society, the child is safeguarded from ugly egotism by discovering that there is a Power beyond himself, outside of himself, whose majestic intelligence rings balance into the universe and makes for living. The child discovers advantages of self-restraint and the value of dignity of person. The child also learns communal living, of belonging. The best portents of this phenomenon currently on television is "Dobie Gillis."

This is the beginning of education and if it is incomplete, the child suffers in later years. Many continue the process of education in colleges and universities; a few continue it all their lives. But there are persons who accumulate no education, whose schooling is serving time as one might do in a prison. These unfortunates suffer all the wastes from the effects of a wasted childhood and youth.

Some children are fortunate in that during this process of education, they encounter a noble and inspiring character, a teacher whose human qualities are so elevating that it lifts the child or the teenager out of the doldrums of usual life by example or by precept. These inspired teacher are not too usual but surprisingly there are more of them than is generally supposed in these days. Children speak of them in their own vernacular. No machine, no television screen, no trick charts can be a substitute for a fine teacher. There are men who reach their 60's and 70's who recall a teacher who has enriched their lives and whose words have rung in their ears all their days.

When one reads that because of a shortage of teachers or the high cost of teachers, close-

A Study Of Kennedy's N.C. Visit

By Henry Belk, Editor
(The Goldsboro News-Argus)

Sen. John Kennedy understands better than he has yet stressed the dangerous days upon which the United States has come. He would like more soberly to present this crisis in the presidential campaign. He may yet do so.

That is my considered opinion of this earnest young man after hearing him at Greenville and listening to him at Raleigh.

Kennedy knows better than we do that America today from all its people requires the brand of courage shown by the figures of history—celebrated by the Massachusetts man in his Pulitzer prize-winning book "Profiles in Courage." There are a dozen or so great political figures profiled in the book. All of them are politicians. Their courage was the daring to do when the cards were down what their hearts and their consciences told them had to be done for the best interests of the nation. Their voice in critical issues held on the one hand security, personal prestige, even riches. On the other that vote meant political ruin. I meant to walk alone and led by a parish among men, needed at a spot upon. But these great ones of Kennedy's historically accurate book put their own hearts and consciences and the requirements of their country above personal preference.

Spirit For Today
It is a thrilling book. It is a book which raises the level accept now the harsh and cruel facts of our situation, or if it is necessary that advancing days bring more outward events of such import as regards our future that he who runs may need.

America Slowing Down
Even as Kennedy air-stormed at Greenville, Greensboro, Charlotte and Raleigh Russia's Premier Khrushchev with a full retinue of satellite leaders was moving by ship toward our shores.

Castro, the new Cuban dictator, was packing with a body-guard of scores and a staff of other scores to join Mr. K at the UN in New York.

The world saw us practically ignore our Good Neighbors of Latin America, as good neighbors, until Castro's acceptance of the Russian and Chinese friendship forced us to move. Hurriedly we made a half billion dollars available to them for various aid projects. Those Latins know, with a smile and a wink, the situation in which we find ourselves, with Communism in favor of us; to us; they know we acted in self interest and if there is a question of our sincerity it is most natural.

Kennedy stressed the necessity for the U.S. to be first in ability to defend or to make war. A second best arms defense is not better than the second best in a poker hand, he observed.

But what we must do for defense and for survival cannot be done by industry and armaments, planes, missiles and subs alone. Such great strength must be backed by the willing sacrifices, the belt tightening of the nation, a giving up of whatever of soft, forgetful living may be required.

Time is running out for us. The enemy of sloth, of ease, of enervating Communism, of leveling off economy, this enemy pushes as close to us as did the Germans against England when Churchill made his blood, sweat and tears call.

One listening to Kennedy knew that he knows that we must kindle the lost spirit of "I regret that I have only one life to give to my country." It is as simple as that. The wise may not crush you and me in our day, but that cruel rise will crush our children if we cannot find our way back to the spirit which to old days moved earth and heaven and made of America the greatest hope of man everywhere.

But as of today, Kennedy must follow the pageantry, the glamour, the way even of entertainment, of bands and parades, and hurrahs in seeking the votes.

Come on, Sen. Kennedy and Vice President Nixon, give it to us straight. Take off the brakes. Let us see exactly where we stand. Let us have the true picture. Americans can take it and do what they must, and if they do not we shall be a Russian satellite nation before another 50 years rolls round

Phantoms Face Rough Foe In Pam Pack Friday

STANDINGS table with columns for Conf., All, W, L, T, Pct., G.B.

The Northeastern 3-A Conference football field was cut to the two pre-season favorites and a "sleeper" today following three full weeks of action.

Greenville and Tarboro erased strong opposition Friday night and started gunning for each other on their October 7 date in Greenville.

While the two pre-season favorites starting preparing for a showdown, New Bern cranked up its single-wing attack with hopes of conquering its fourth consecutive victim Friday night against Jacksonville.

Tarboro, fresh from turning back a challenge from strong Jacksonville 14-12, steps outside the conference this Friday to butt heads with Hertford.

Greenville will have a big obstacle Friday night before meeting Tarboro in the "perfect match." The Phantoms must demolish a Washington "jinx" that has been present for more than a decade.

On performances thus far, Greenville should be heavy favorites. But Rose High rooters will be keeping their fingers crossed when they make the short jaunt to Washington Friday.

Greenville turned back an old nemesis, Kinston, in rearing, tearing fashion, Friday night, 33-14.

In other games within the league, Elizabeth City ended a long losing spell by tripping Washington 6-0 on a third quarter tally and New Bern dumped Roanoke Rapids 23-6.

Other games this week featuring conference clubs will be as follows: Wilson at Kinston and Elizabeth City at Roanoke Rapids.

Results: Greenville 33, Kinston 14; New Bern 32, Roanoke Rapids 6; Elizabeth City 6, Washington 0; Tarboro 14, Jacksonville 12.

Stengel High On Bill Stafford

WASHINGTON (AP) — Casey Stengel allows as how he wouldn't be averse to starting young Bill Stafford against Pittsburgh in the World Series if the situation presents itself.

The New York Yankees' manager tossed off that comment as he relaxed in his manager's cubical after Monday night's 10-inning 4-2 victory over Washington — a victory in which Stafford played a big role.

"This young feller has done a fine job for me winning three games since we called him up from Richmond a month ago," said Stengel. "And he has pitched well in two other games against Washington without being credited with victories. He's a cool customer."

Stafford Monday night had the Senators shut out on two hits until the seventh inning when Harmon Killebrew hit his 31st home run with one on to boost the Senators into a 2-2 tie.

The rookie then proceeded to get the Senators out through the eighth before being lifted for a pinch hitter. The seldom-used Duke Maas worked the last two innings and got credit for the victory.

Yankees Win Tenth Straight, 4-2

By ED WILKS Associated Press Sports Writer The Pittsburgh Pirates and New York Yankees clutch the flags, but the races aren't over yet in the majors, not with eight clubs scrambling for the left overs.

While the Pirates, still aglow after winning their first National League pennant in 33 years, were idle Monday, the Yanks, American League champs for the 10th time in a dozen years under Manager Casey Stengel, kept humming with a 4-2 victory at Washington in 10 innings. It was the 10th straight success for the Yankees, the longest of the year in the majors and the champs' best string since 1953, when they also won 10 in a row.

The races for a chunk of World Series cash, split among the first-division clubs in each league, centered around Milwaukee-St. Louis and Los Angeles-San Francisco in the NL; and the Chicago-Baltimore and Cleveland-Washington in the AL.

Eastman Dismissed From VIP Grid Team

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS This was supposed to be Frank Eastman's big year at quarterback for Virginia Tech's football team, but it seemed today to have turned, instead, into a season of utter frustration and eclipse.

Dogged by injuries through much of his football career at Tech, Eastman stayed in one piece most of 1959 and, in a starter's role at last, passed for 543 yards and 10 touchdowns.

The injury jinx, however, struck again this year a few days prior to Tech's Sept. 17 opener at N.C. State when Eastman sprained his wrist badly in practice. State saw little of him as he beat Tech 29-14.

By last weekend the wrist had mended, but West Virginia, too, saw precious little of the 23-year-old senior. This time it was because a non-lettered junior, Warren Price, had knocked him out of his job.

Monday, the final blow fell. Coach Frank Moseley dismissed Eastman from the Tech squad for disciplinary reasons, details of which he would not disclose.

So, when the Techmen go against Clemson this Saturday no one will see Eastman at all unless Moseley has a change of heart.

Coach Bill Elias went to work trying to jazz up George Washington's passing attack as the Colonials started drills for this week's game at William and Mary. Elias said a lot depends on the recovery of his star sophomore passer, Frank Pazzaglia, who's been on the injured list.

WM, meantime, tried to beef up its defense, which has allowed 54 points in two games to 62 the Indians have scored.

VMI looked at movies of its 28-14 win over Buffalo and then worked to iron out mistakes. Halfback Don Kern, with a hip injury, and fullback Dewitt Worrell, with a broken nose, took things easy.

Richmond emphasized the timing of plays and pass defense aimed at VMI quarterback Howard Dyer. The Spiders play at VMI Saturday.

At Morgantown, West Virginia's Mountaineers worked on group tackling and blocking for defensive play in preparation for Saturday's game against Illinois. The spotlight was also on defense at

Dismissed Suit To Have Little Effect On Case

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Commissioner Joe Foss of the American Football League said Monday night that dismissal of the league's anti-trust suit against members of the western division of the National Football League would have little effect on the case.

A federal district judge Monday dismissed the American Football League's $10 million suit against six western teams in the NFL. Judge Alexander Holtzoff ruled in Washington that the suit had been properly filed against six teams in the eastern division of the NFL and Baltimore in the western division.

He ruled that New York, Philadelphia, Cleveland, Baltimore, Pittsburgh, and St. Louis could be sued because their appearances in Washington are regular.

The AFL charges a conspiracy by the older NFL to monopolize football, including attempts to monopolize players and franchise and television rights.

Foss said "the whole league is involved regardless of whether part of the clubs are not actually being sued."

Monaco has a population density of 32,000 people per square mile, highest of any independent country on earth.

Cannon, Smith Top New League

DALLAS (AP) — The 1-2 punch of Dave Cannon and Billy Cannon of Houston sets the ball-carrying pace in the American Football League.

The Oilers lost their first game last weekend, 14-13 to Oakland, but it didn't knock Smith, the former Ripon star, out of first place in rushing.

Smith has romped for 256 yards and leads for the third straight week.

Cannon, the celebrated Louisiana State All-American, has moved into second place with 163 yards.

In scoring, too, Houston still has the leader—George Blanda, the old pro quarterback, who has made 49 points, 22 of them with placement kicks.

Al Dorow of New York took over the punting lead. He has a 44-yard average on six kicks.

Duke Looking Ahead For Maryland Contest

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Coach Bill Murray was quite pleased with Duke's easy 31-0 romp over South Carolina, but he's not taking Maryland for granted this Saturday.

"We haven't proven anything yet," Murray told his weekly news luncheon Monday. The Blue Devils, noted for their grinding ground game, took to the air — completing 19 of 27 passes — to implement a strong running attack in downing South Carolina in the Saturday night Atlantic Coast Conference opener for both teams.

Meanwhile, Maryland absorbed a 3-0 lashing at the hands of Texas. Murray said his scout reports the Terps "a dangerous ball club." Herschel Caldwell, Murray's aide who scouted Texas, predicted a wide open game in College Park, Md., with the Terps' varied attack and Duke's "new look" offense featuring the passes of quarterback Don Altman.

North Carolina State, the only ACC team with two wins, Monday worked out the bruises from its 3-0 win over North Carolina. Coach Earle Edwards warned of this week's foe Virginia at Norfolk. "Virginia is a team that is apt to break loose in any game. We just hope we won't catch them hot."

Virginia, which lost all 10 games a year ago, fell in the 1960 opener to William Mary, 41-21. Looking over the situation, Coach Dick Voris found a few bright spots, for instance, the backs picked up the most rushing yardage in any game since 1957 and senior fullback Fred Shepherd became the first Cavalier to pick up more than 100 yards since the days of Jim Bakhtiar in 1957.

Voris called N.C. State a well-organized defensive team.

"They can pass and they can run," Coach Warren Giese of South Carolina says of this week's foe, Georgia. Giese said he also planned a substantial defensive changes in an effort to stop South-eastern Conference team's running game.

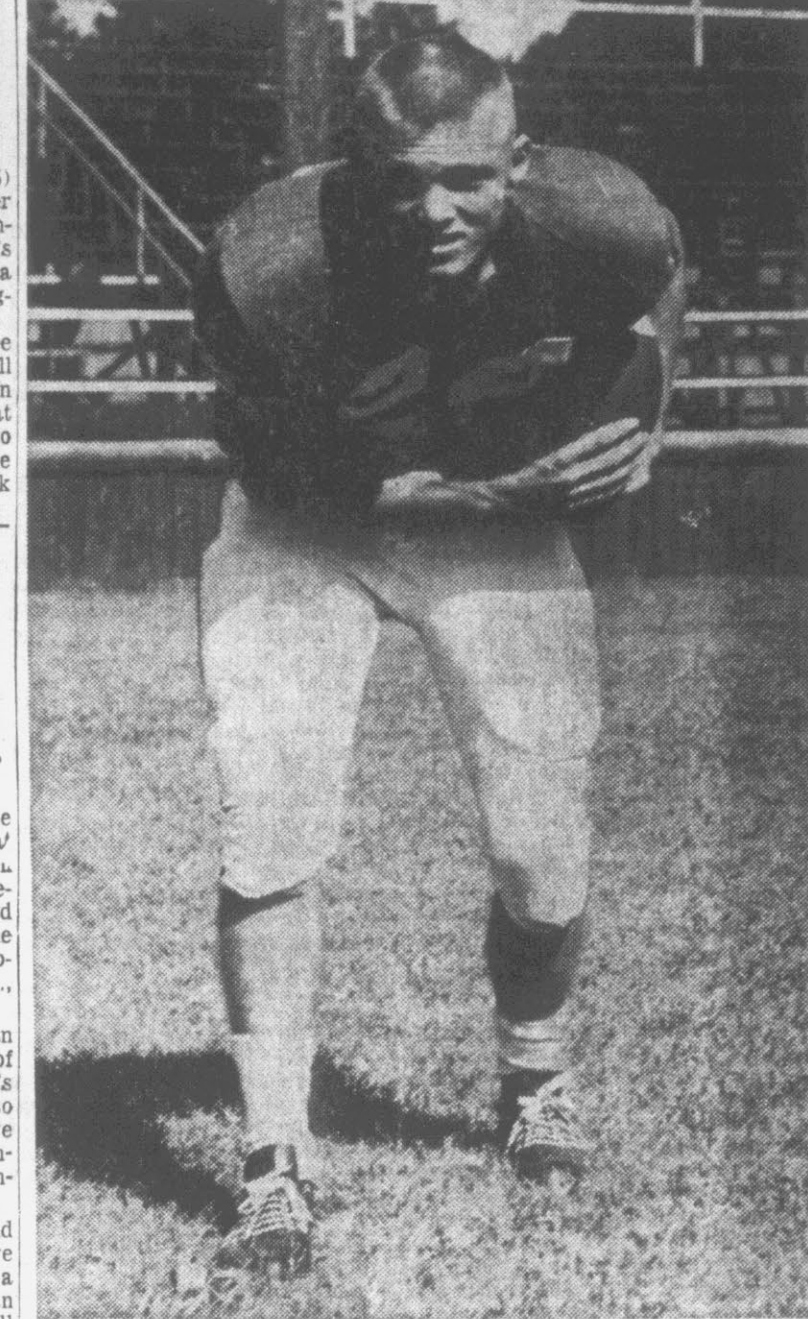

Clemson's Tigers, who've told all they're still very much alive and kicking and in quest of a third straight conference title, ran four teams through a dummy drill Monday. Frank Howard's club entertains Virginia Tech of the Southern Conference this Saturday.

Clemson is the only ACC team ranked in the nation's top 20 this week. The Tigers jumped from ninth last week to seventh.

Wake Forest, its conference title hopes jolled by the roaring Clemson Tigers, hasn't reached its offensive potential. That's what Coach Billy Hildebrand told a Kickoff Club luncheon in Winston-Salem Monday. He said pre-season preparations dealt mainly with defense — which "I considered the most important phase of football."

After the 28-7 Clemson loss, Hildebrand said "I think we'll rebound against Florida State" this week's non-conference opposition Saturday night in Tallahassee, Fla.

Williams Retires With Many Marks

BOSTON (AP) — Ted Williams ends his career as baseball's most colorful slugger Sunday but the Boston Red Sox will continue utilize his batting skill.

Sox owner Tom Yawkey made Williams' retirement official Sunday.

Yawkey said the aging 42 year old Williams will serve as a batting instructor at the pre-season camp at Scottsdale, Ariz., next spring. Williams then would remain in the organization and "assume duties in keeping with his great talent," the owner added. He did not elaborate.

The statement killed speculation that Williams might change his mind about ending his playing days. Number nine has said he was ending his stormy, off-and-on career before and come back.

When he hit his 500th homer at Cleveland in June Williams said it was his last year. He has repeated the decision frequently since then but it took Yawkey more like a father than a boss to his star, to seal the verdict.

With 520 home runs, Williams is third in the all-time derby, only 14 behind Jimmy Foxe.

With five games to play, Williams has 28 homers and a .318 batting average for the season — his 22nd since joining the Sox to stay back in 1939.

More than six of those years were lost to Williams through two service hitches, a cracked elbow, a broken collarbone, divorce, the game's most celebrated pain in the neck and numerous lesser injuries and ailments.

The last of the 400 hitter (406 in 1941) has the following Major League totals through Sunday with his all-time standing in parentheses:

Home runs — 520 (third) Runs batted in — 1837 (sixth) Runs scored — 1791 (seventh) Lifetime average — .315 (eighth) Doubles — 525 (14th) Games played — 2290 (26th) Hits — 2653 (31st)

Did you know that the national birth rate dropped in the first six months of 1960 from 23.6 per 1,000 to 22.6?

Does it worry you? Well, take heart! Over two million babies were born in this country in this same period, and the U.S. Public Health Service says the 1960 total will exceed 4 million.

This means an awful lot of pabum and cribs will be sold in 1960. It means, too, a lot of fathers and grandfathers will have a job on their hands.

Jayhawks Hope To Topple Syracuse

By JACK CLARY
Associated Press Sports Writer

Big Eight title, national ranking and other notions of football grandeur have been bouncing through the minds of the Kansas Jayhawks this year. They might have some basis for this rarely practiced optimism, even with second-ranked Syracuse coming to town Saturday.

The Jayhawk fans give three reasons: John Hadl, whose backfield versatility enables him to operate between quarterback and halfback; Curtis McClinton, a halfback, and his sophomore running mate, Bert Coan. You can't fault them so far, and the last to disagree is Syracuse Coach Ben Schwartzwalder.

The trio, in two games, has scored six of Kansas' eight touchdowns as the Jays rolled over a stunned Texas Christian team 21-7 and easily defeated Kansas State 41-0.

So far they seem to have borne out Coach Jack Mitchell's pre-season evaluation of the team being "10 times better than last year." It finished in '59 with a 5-5 record, including a 7-6 loss to Oklahoma and a 35-21 loss to Syracuse.

However Mitchell is being his usual cagey self while his team preps for the game. "We're better than last year, know," he said, referring to the chances of his trio of swiftness to get through the rugged Syracuse line. "Syracuse has the best defense in college football. We haven't played any real great football teams yet."

Syracuse allowed Boston University only two yards rushing and 35 passing in a 35-7 victory last Saturday.

Hadl did better than that himself against TCU. He scored on runs of 52 and 16 yards. Coan rallied twice against K-State on three yard bursts and once against TCU from the one-yard line. McClinton also scored from a yard out against Kansas State, and ground out 91 yards in 16 carries. Coan picked up 84 yards in 10 trips.

If this trio can't turn the trick in the nationally televised game then Syracuse has overcome one of the biggest obstacles toward another undefeated season and fifth-ranked Kansas will have to put all its eggs in the basket marked "Big Eight title."

Which is nothing to sneeze at when you think of it. The Jayhawk's hopes received a bit of a jolt Monday when No. 1 right end Sam Simpson was declared out of Saturday's game with a charley horse. He missed last Saturday's game after being hurt against TCU.

Red Sox Turn To Jackie Jensen

BOSTON (AP)—Now that Ted Williams' retirement is final Red Sox attention turns to Jackie Jensen for a decision.

Boston, opening its last two-game home stand against Baltimore today, may get its answer Wednesday. Jensen has called a press conference for noon at Fenway Park.

The California slugger who decided to quit baseball a year ago isn't hinting whether he will change his mind and come out of retirement or not. But his presence is stirring up plenty of controversy.

Manager Mike Higgins, who put in a long distance call to Jensen the day after he was reinstated as manager this summer, has a dinner engagement with Jensen which may settle a lot of things. Officially he's here as part of the promotion for the bowling alley which was opened Monday night.

Practice Briefs East Carolina

East Carolina had a good look at the Guilford-ECC film yesterday afternoon and hit the practice field with work being stressed on tackling and blocking.

The Pirates' first two units worked on tackling drills and brushed up on their offensive game. The third and fourth units held a full-scale scrimmage.

Sonny Baysinger, who missed the Guilford game due to a leg infection, was in heavy gear yesterday. He is expected to be back in the starting lineup for Catawba this Saturday.

Nursing injuries yesterday were Tommy Matthews, Glenn Bass and Vernon Davis. Bass and Davis are scheduled to be ready for action by the middle of the week but Matthews' condition is questionable.

Farmville

Farmville opened preparations yesterday with five starters missing due to injuries and a squad of only 13.

The Red Devils, who have a 2-2 record for the season, run up against arch-rival Ayden Friday night.

Coach Elbert Moye held a light workout for his injury-plagued squad yesterday. The Farmville pilot complimented his club on their game against Mt. Olive but pointed to open-field tackling as a weak point.

Missing from practice yesterday were tackles Mitchell Cannon and Ben Monk, end Billy Walker, and halfbacks Jimmy Pollard and Danny Dilda. Fullback Bobby Avery suffered a broken nose in the Mt. Olive game but was dressed for drills yesterday.

Stepping into starting assignments were Johnny Nichols, Jerry Bailey and Jack Rollins.

The Farmville Junior varsity was scheduled to open their season tomorrow against Contentnea.

Ayden

Coach Stuart Tripp warned his Ayden squad today about becoming "overconfident." The Tornadoes, undefeated in four games, play Farmville Friday night.

The squad opened drills yesterday with passing and pass defense being stressed. William Edwards handled most of the passing with Emmitt Gibson, Mack Tripp and Clem McGilhorn being on the receiving end.

Several bruises were reported following the Robersonville game but other than that the squad was reported in good condition.

Ayden will be trying to end a three game losing string to Farmville Friday night.

SPORT SLANTS by Pap

For the first time in more than a decade, a strong opinion exists that Oklahoma will not win the Big Eight championship this year. The fact that the Sooners will be shooting for their 13th straight conference has nothing to do with the situation. Actually, other member teams of the Big Eight appear to be catching up with the Sooners. Kansas, the team Oklahoma barely shaded last fall, 7-6, has strong backing to win the title. Colorado could win it. But as long as Bud Wilkinson is coaching Oklahoma, the Sooners will be tough.

"We had an excellent spring practice from the standpoint of interest, morale and desire to improve," said Wilkinson. "Our line has adequate potential but our backfield situation is the weakest I can recall since coming to Oklahoma. If we could meet our first four opponents—Northwestern, Pittsburgh, Texas and Kansas—at the end of our schedule instead of at the start, we'd have a better chance to survive and develop our sophomores. The Big Eight conference race should be most interesting. Those teams which everybody is rating the strongest can lose any Saturday to any opponent!"

The Sooners have a lot of young players and they will be all charged up at the start of the season. However, if Oklahoma gets drubbed in one or two of the early games, it will be difficult for Coach Wilkinson to keep the spirit blazing. Mid-season morale is important and it all depends on how Oklahoma plays in its early games. This is a situation to test Wilkinson's skills as an organizer and developer of new talent to the utmost. But Wilkinson has never been one to face away from a challenge.

No Fight Slated For Sugar Ray And Aging Moore

GILMAN HOT SPRINGS, Calif. (AP)—No matter how he fares against middleweight champion Gene Fullmer Oct. 8, Sugar Ray Robinson won't fight Archie Moore.

"I had everything all set up for a match with Moore two years ago," Robinson said Monday at his training camp here. "Instead, he turned around and accepted an offer to fight Yvon Duerelle for $150,000."

"Under the setup I had arranged, Matty Fox would have staged out fight and guaranteed us $500,000 each."

"Why did Moore take the other offer? I think the promoters promised to set Archie up as a promoter in California."

Looking Forward For Shot At N.Y.

By JOE RECHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Probably nobody on the Pittsburgh club is looking forward to facing the New York Yankees in the World Series with more eagerness than Clem Labine, the veteran relief ace.

Not that this would be the first World Series for Labine; he has been in four of them. Not that he is seeking to vindicate himself against the American League champions; he has beaten them twice in four series decisions.

But just six weeks ago, Labine had to make up his mind whether to become a probable Yankee or a positive Pirate. He chose the latter.

Here's how it happened: Last August Labine, 34, was back home in Woonsocket, R.I., seriously considering quitting baseball and devoting full time to his men's outer wear business.

He had been handed his unconditional release by the Detroit Tigers only three days before. The

Matthews Hopes For Two In Row

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Third-ranked lightweight challenger Len Matthews, headlining an attractive card which ushers in the indoor boxing season at the Arena, hopes to make it two in a row over Panama champion Jorge Quintero tonight in a return 10-round bout.

Matthews, 21, and Lane, 28, are rated slight favorites on the basis of experience and previous bouts.

only calls he had received were a couple of bids from minor league clubs.

Then the telephone rang. A spokesman from the Yankees was on the line.

"Stay in shape," the Yankee official told Labine. "We'll probably take you on in a couple of weeks. We don't have room for you now. As soon as we cut down a man, we'll call you."

An hour passed and the phone rang again. It was Joe Brown of the Pirates.

"How's your arm?" asked the Pittsburgh general manager. "Nothing wrong with it," said Labine.

"I'd like to have you on the club," Brown said. "How soon can you come to Pittsburgh?"

"I'll start packing right away," was the reply.

It was a happy decision all around. Labine, a flop with Detroit after the Tigers had claimed him on waivers from Los Angeles, has pitched brilliantly for Pittsburgh and undoubtedly was a determining factor in the Pirates' pennant drive.

The veteran pitcher turned in three scoreless relief innings in his first appearance with the Pirates on Aug. 17. He has relieved in 14 games, saved four, has a 2-0 record and has under a 1.00 earned run average since reaching Forbes Field.

Explaining why he didn't fare well with the sixth place Tigers, Labine said:

"It's tough to be with a club that's going nowhere and doesn't seem to care. You can be the greatest fighter in the world, but if fellows behind you don't fight, you're licked."

PAUL GALLICO'S NEW BESTSELLER Mrs. 'Arris Goes to New York

WHAT IS HAPPENING "I'll be if I went to America I'd soon enough find little 'Enry's dad," said Mrs. Harris to her friend Mrs. Butterfield.

know how to dust, polish, sweep, rinse out a glass, or clean a piece of silver; they left pedestal marks on the floor where, immobile like statues, they had leaned for hours on their brooms, doing nothing. They smashed her good dishes, burned cigarette holes in her carpets, and wrecked her property and peace of mind.

with the servant problem. With renewed gusto she narrated for Mrs. Harris's appreciative ears all of the domestic horrors and catastrophes that awaited her on the other side of the Atlantic.

CHAPTER 4 Henrietta and Joel Schreiber were a loving and affectionate couple, and so they hugged one another first, and then Mrs. Schreiber danced Henrietta around the apartment until she was breathless and her comfortable matronly figure was heaving.

To Mrs. Schreiber, her mind hardly cleared of the ghastly parade of remembered domestic sobs, Ada Harris looked like an angel, and before she knew what she was doing she ran to the little chair, threw her arms about her neck, hugged her, and cried, "Oh, Mrs. Harris, you don't know how glad I am to see you — how very glad!"

That night when Mrs. Harris foregathered with Mrs. Butterfield, she said, "Old onto your hair, Vi, I've got something to tell you. We're going to America."

Joel, they should have made you president long ago." Then, to calm herself and collect her thoughts, she went to the window and looked out onto the quiet, leafy shade of Eaton Square, with its traffic artery running down the middle, and with a pang thought how used she had become to this placid way of life, how much she had loved it, and how she dreaded being plunged back into the hurly-burly and maniac tempo of New York.

And then unaccountably she began to cry. "Oh, Mrs. Harris, something wonderful has happened to my husband. We're going to New York to live, but I'm so frightened — I'm so terribly afraid."

Mrs. Harris nodded complacently. "I told you to 'ang onto yer hair,'" she said. "Mrs. Schreiber's going to ask me to go along with her until she can get settled into her new place in New York. I'm going to tell 'er I will but not unless she takes you along as cook. Together we're going to find little 'Enry's father!"

"Oh, Joel," Henrietta cried, "it's been so long since we've lived in America, or New York — I'm frightened."

It was a comfort to Mrs. Schreiber to let her do so, and she said, "If you'll make yourself one too, and as the two women sat in the kitchen of the flat sipping their brew, Mrs. Schreiber poured it all forth to her sympathetic sister — under-the-skin, Mrs. Harris — the great good fortune that had befallen her husband and herself, the change that would take place in their lives, the monstrous apartment that awaited them in America, the departure in two weeks, and above all, her qualms came from Henrietta broke a long period of taciturnity on her part by saying, "Joel, don't be angry with me, but I have an absolutely hopeless mad idea." In his present state of euphoria nothing was likely to anger Mr. Schreiber. He said, "Yes, dear, what is it?"

Fed up with foreigners, she had engaged American help, live-in servants who drank her liquor and used her perfume, or daily women who came in the morning and departed at night usually with some article of her clothing or lingerie hidden upon their persons. They didn't she was certainly startled. He said, "What?" "Only for a few months perhaps, until we get settled in an I can find someone. You don't know how wonderful she is, and how she keeps this place. She knows how I like things. Oh, Joel, I'd feel so secure."

Mr. Schreiber looked doubtful for a moment and said, "A Cockney char in a Park Avenue penthouse?" But then he softened and said, "If it'll make you feel better, baby, go ahead. Anything you want now. I want you should have."

Relatively Subdued Castro In Marathon UN Address

Editor's Note—Robert Berrellez, a Spanish-speaking native of Arizona and a member of The Associated Press Havana staff, has reported daily on Fidel Castro throughout the bearded revolutionary's spectacular regime and has toured with him in Cuba and the United States. Now at the United Nations, where Castro Monday bowed into the diplomatic big leagues on the Red team with a 4½-hour speech, Berrellez gives this closeup view.

By ROBERT BERRELLEZ
UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—It was a relatively subdued Fidel Castro who addressed the U.N. General Assembly Monday.

It was not an address that will be endorsed by the Daughters of the American Revolution. But the 4½-hour blast against the United States lacked much of the usual fire.

The Cuban revolutionary chieftain never reached the towering, incoherent rage that comes over him when he opens up against the United States in his speeches back home.

The fact that the audience—except for the Soviet and Cuban delegates—did not respond as Cuban audiences do may have been a factor in Castro's failure to reach his explosive peak. Castro thrives on a big cheering section. There were perceptible halts in his oratory when he gave the impression he was waiting for the familiar revolutionary chants that punctuate his speeches in Havana.

He also might have been acutely aware that his audience contained people whom he considered unfriendly. The strapping lawyer-revolutionary seems incapable of tolerating criticism or opposition. If the explosiveness was lacking, the usual mannerisms he employs to dramatize his remarks were not. He jabbed the air with his fingers and went into the familiar sawing gestures with both arms. But it was like a symphony orchestra conductor leading a string quartet.

There was perhaps another factor in the Cuban chieftain's failure to blast off in usual style. The reception he has received in New York so far, including in Harlem, has been far under what he probably anticipated. This could have dampened his spirits.

Although he has emphasized that he feels more at home in Harlem among the "poor and humble folk," the response from his new neighbors has been lukewarm. The noisy pro-Castro demonstrations by Cubans, Puerto Ricans and Dominican exiles in the city have attracted only a few Harlem Negroes.

Minskoff is here to assist in prosecuting Kentucky's first case involving alleged violations of the Trading with the Enemy Act.

There is a noticeable difference in the Castro of today and the one who came to the United States in April 1959.

Strained relations between the United States and Cuba may be largely responsible for his virtual isolation in his suite. He has said he doesn't want to create problems for the security forces around him. But under similar circumstances Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev has been holding regular and irregular press conferences.

In the sole instance so far that Castro permitted U.S. newsmen to question him, he appeared ill at ease and restless. His attempts to be the self-assured, jovial figure he cut for the American press in 1959 appeared to be forced.

Audrey Is Back In Strange Role

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Audrey Hepburn is back in town with a new baby and a new role—as a kookie trollop, of all things.

Again slim as a boy, the actress has returned to Hollywood with husband Mel Ferrer. She is starting work on "Breakfast at Tiffany's." The casting has raised a few eyebrows.

"I must say I couldn't see myself in the role, either," she admitted. "I didn't think it was anything I could play. But when they sent me the script by George Axelrod, I just couldn't resist it."

Famed as a portrayer of princesses and nuns, Audrey is doing a 180-degree turn to play Holly Golightly, a wild, weird creation of Truman Capote. She's the precocious New York doll, a bride when "going on 14" in her native Tulip, Tex., a sometime model who is not averse to taking $50 from gentlemen escorts.

"But they don't get anything for it," Audrey assured, "at least not in the picture."

Apart from her new role, Audrey admitted that her life has changed in the past year.

"My family has always been uppermost in my life," she said. "I enjoy working, but I don't miss it when I am away from it. I have too many other interests."

"Now the baby adds another element to my planning. Mel and I have always arranged our careers to be apart as little as possible, and we've done pretty well. With the baby, I'll have to consider pictures more carefully, if they involve extensive locations."

"It won't be so bad until he goes to school, because he will be able to travel. I'll continue working—if I can find the jobs. After that, I might quit work altogether."

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market backed away from a slight recovery and drifted irregularly lower early this afternoon. Trading was moderately active.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was down .50 to 206.50 with the industrials up .30, the rails off .30 and the utilities off 1.00.

The decline continued to push the general level down to its lowest since 1958.

The market had a slight snapback in early dealings from the sharp drop of Monday. The rise was spotty and there was little in the business news to lend it support.

Aircrafts, drugs and building materials kept an upside edge. Utilities, steels, chemicals, copers and tobaccos were mostly lower.

Some brokers mentioned a widely-quoted article of elder statesman Bernard Baruch who found "disturbing" points of comparison with the boom of the 1920s.

Gold shares continued for a while their rally of the past couple of sessions but most backed away from gains as the list softened.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off .37 at 576.77. Corporate bonds were firm.

U. S. government bonds lost ground.

Castro Speech Is One Facet Of Wooing Neutrals

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Fidel Castro's sledgehammer speech in the United Nations intensified the battle for neutralist votes today as President Eisenhower wound up—for the moment—his whirlwind campaign in personal diplomacy.

Private conferences between world leaders, committed and uncommitted in the East-West struggle, hit a feverish pace.

Everybody was seeing everybody else, behind closed doors, in a gigantic political round robin.

The results of this feverish round of conferences, plus the speeches by Eisenhower, Khrushchev and other principals in the conflict, may be reflected very soon in the debate on a perennial and critical issue—admission of Red China to the U. N.

The Soviet Union has before the steering committee a proposal to seat the Communist Chinese. The United States is determined to block it. Here, in all probability, the effect on the neutralists and especially on the newly admitted nations of the past week's maneuvering may become clearly defined.

The steering committee debate on Communist China was to have started Monday night. It was postponed, apparently because of Castro's 4 1/2 hour speech which went on until nearly 8:30 p.m.

The speech seemed to make some impact on the newly admitted African delegates to the U. N. and to a lesser extent on the known neutralists.

It was the longest speech in the history of the General Assembly. Yet the great hall was about three-quarters filled when Castro finished. Some delegates—Nehru among them—left during the speech but returned later to their places.

In short, Castro held his audience, and particularly the African and Latin American delegations. The applause that frequently interrupted him was led by the Communists. But they were not the only ones clapping for Castro.

Maurice Dejean, foreign minister of the Central African Republic, said later: "I have no comment on the political side of his speech. But on the economic side, we have many of the same problems as Cuba. Some of these points contained a great deal of truth."

That was fairly typical of the comments of delegates from uncommitted nations. A number said that "the speech had some points."

The U. S. ambassador to the U. N., James J. Wadsworth, quickly issued a statement after Castro stepped down.

"The record of the U. S. in its relations with Cuba is an open book," he declared. "That book has been studied with great care by the Organization of American States. Most of the charges Prime Minister Castro made today have already been examined by the Organization of American States and rejected."

The Communists were openly jubilant over what Castro said and the reception he received.

At one point, during a storm of applause, Khrushchev raised a clenched fist.

That was when Castro referred to Khrushchev's assertion that Soviet rockets would soar out toward the American cities if the United States attacked Cuba.

Castro's speech, in some long passages, was like a rambling, pilotless steamroller. It went all over the lot. But it had power.

He started with history, the Cuban revolt against Spain, the first American "oppression," and then on through a long indictment of American actions against him.

He pictured himself as a man badly treated, and his country as ground into the dust.

Twice, Assembly President Frederick H. Boland interrupted him to remind him of the diplomatic amenities.

Once was when he called the Democratic presidential candidate, Sen. John F. Kennedy, an illiterate and ignorant millionaire. Vice President Richard M. Nixon, he said, was no better.

As far as we are concerned, both of them lack political brains."

Bitter Income Tax Foe Is Rocket-Builder Will Ordered To File A Brief See Dream Realized

GREENSBORO (AP) — William Bostick of Bedford, Ohio has 30 days to file a brief in U.S. Tax Court here supporting his contention that he does not owe the federal government $731 in back taxes for 1957 and $701 for 1958.

When he appeared in court here Monday, Bostick, formerly of Cary, N.C., told Judge Norman O. Teitjens of Washington that his name is "Tax Slave Willard Bostick."

Then Bostick told the judge he could not owe any back taxes as the U.S. Internal Revenue Service claims. He contended he charged only a dollar an hour for his work and told his employer several years ago anything above that would be a loan or gift.

The welder said in court, "I would argue that money I accepted as a loan should not be taxed. I have tried to repay some of it, but it was refused. I argue now that it is a non-taxable gift."

Judge Teitjens told Bostick he had a novel idea, but the jurist said, "I have encountered it once or twice before."

Bostick also wanted to offer as evidence a check for $104.63 to the Internal Revenue Service for 1957 taxes. On the bottom of the check was written, "Stolen by the government." The judge overruled a prosecution motion that the notation on the check should not be offered in evidence as it was prejudicial.

A motion by Bostick that the action against him be dismissed also was denied.

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — The daughter of millionaire Robert Topping is now Mrs. Albert Sack. Sandra Topping, 20, Monday married Sack, a New York broker, in a simple oneering ceremony. They plan a honeymoon in this desert gambling resort and then in Hawaii.

Her father was married to actress Lana Turner, and her uncle, Dan Topping, is part owner of the New York Yankees baseball team.

GENEVA (AP) — Henry W. Dunning, American secretary general of the League of Red Cross Societies, retires at the end of this month after 14 years of service with the world organization. Dunning, 65, was born in West Point, Miss., and lists Wilmot, Ark., as his home. His successor is Henrik Beer, secretary general of the Swedish Red Cross.

VIENNA (AP) — Sofia, capital of Communist-ruled Bulgaria, had no fruits or vegetables for several days. The Communist party newspaper Rabotnichesko reported that the city's director of supply figured the local needs wrong, several suppliers delivered less than they were scheduled to and some collective farms could not make deliveries because they did not have enough baskets.

PARIS (AP) — Maurice Papon announced today that 2,124 persons have been killed and 1,354 wounded in Paris and its suburbs as a result of the Algerian rebellion since the revolt started nearly six years ago.

WINSTON-SALEM (AP) — Voters in Winston-Salem ballot today on a $6 million bond issue. The funds are for a proposed water plant and facilities designed to serve the city until 1975.

SPARTANBURG, S.C. (AP) — A 2-pound, 10-ounce bass jumped into S. E. Hunsuck's boat just as he dropped anchor in shallow water over the weekend.

"I didn't catch another fish all day," he said. "In fact, I never even got a bite."

OWATONNA, Minn. (AP) — A five-year dream comes true Wednesday for an Owatonna youth when he pushes the necessary buttons to launch his homemade rocket across the naval ordnance test range on California's Mojave Desert.

Marshall Kriesel, 20, got the idea for the missile while in science class in Owatonna High School. Earlier, a pair of pliers for tinkering and a penchant for building model airplanes were his trademarks.

Kriesel spent three years studying rocketry, scrounging information from books, scientific pamphlets and all the data he could scrounge from laboratories, scientific firms and the military.

As his plans took shape on his drawing board, the 190-pound, 6-foot-1 youth began traveling the country to seek the parts he needed from electronics and aeronautics companies. Impressed by his blueprints, more than 50 firms donated better than $20,000 worth of components.

Kriesel himself sank $3,500 in his project, all earned from summer jobs.

Parttime work, rocket-building and college proved too much so he quit college last year to stay with his first love.

His success in selling himself and his project stayed with him when he talked the Navy into letting him test it. So the slim missile, five inches in diameter and 11 feet long, was taken to California.

Immediately after the test, he'll hurry back to the University of Minnesota where he begins work as a sophomore in engineering.
