Khrushchev Given Two Big Defeats In UN Committee

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev went down to defeat today on two of his major objectives in the United Nations, the admission of Red China and an immediate, full-scale debate on "aggression in the Congo."

This was one of the main grounds on which Khrushchev had assaulted Hammarskjold. He used the word "stooges" and accused the secretary-general of abusing his office — to the advantage of the west — in the way he handled the Congo crisis.

Fashion Festival Big Success

MRS. MORRIS BRODY . . . looks stunning in tweed suit with matching blouse.

Amid an array of fall colors, the Greenville Book Clubs staged a Harvest Fashion Festival in the Moose Lodge Hall Tuesday afternoon for the benefit of the East Carolina Art Society, sponsors of the Greenville Art Center.

Guests stepped into fall as they entered the foyer where the focal point was a basket-tray arrangement of fall leaves and cattails in gold, brown and bronze. Mannequins in fall ensembles gave a preview of the fashions to be presented during the afternoon.

Mrs. Harry Allen Jr., president of the Pickwick Book Club, greeted the 350 guests in attendance, expressed the appreciation of the book clubs for the cooperation and assistance given by local merchants and introduced Mrs. Bob Windle, commentator for the afternoon.

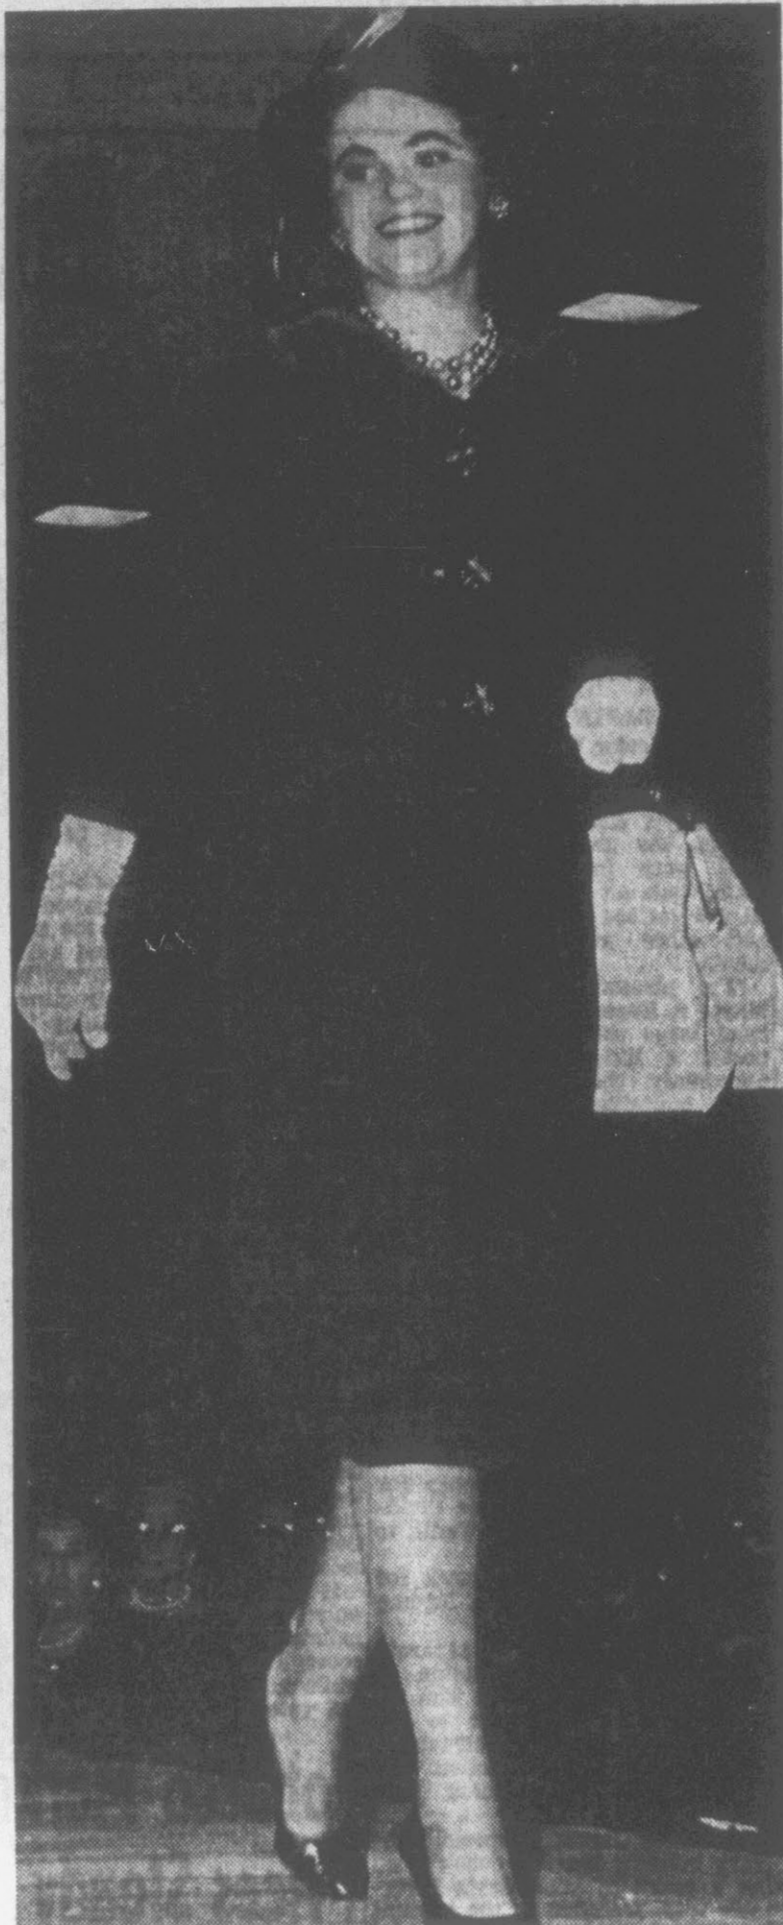

Models stepped through a gold picture frame onto the stage. Arrangement of fall leaves, flowers and fruits against gold drapes banked each corner of the stage. Mrs. Windle described the ensembles as the models proceeded onto a grass-covered ramp. Sportswear, suits, coats, children's apparel, and afternoon and evening costumes were shown during the program.

Models, appearing in four costume changes, were Mrs. Henry Coleman, Miss Leigh Dobson, Miss Peggy Corbett and Mrs. Lyman Ormond Jr., representing Blount-Harvey Co.; Mrs. Thomas Hardy of Maury, Mrs. John G. Clark Sr., Mrs. Fred Webb and Miss Betty Lane Evans, C. Heber Forbes; Mrs. H. L. Ormond Sr., Mrs. Ralph Garrett Jr., Mrs. E. E. Rawl Jr., and Mrs. Morris Brody, Brody's, Inc.; Mrs. Ed Monroe, Mrs. John Howard, Mrs. Joe Clark and Mrs. Clarence Tugwell, College Shop.

Following the program, guests were served refreshments from a table covered with a green linen cloth, edged with white fringe. The table was centered with a large white antique soup tureen, filled with a harvest arrangement of gold and bronze chrysanthemums, chartreuse glads, and bells of Ireland. Matching candelabra with tea leaves and gold candles lighted the table.

The Harvest Fashion Festival was termed a "huge success" by members of the sponsoring book clubs.

'Cake Lady' In Carteret Celebrates 30th Year

By MAIDRED MORRIS

Have you ever dreamed of baking 15,000 cakes? Well, next May, Miss Alice Laughton of Morehead City will celebrate her 30th anniversary.

That will mark her 30th year of selling homemade cakes on the Home Demonstration Curb Market in Morehead City. Even before then, Miss Alice sold cakes to her neighbors in Carteret County.

"I can remember when I sold a three-layer cake for 75 cents back in 1931," says Miss Alice. "They later went up to $1.00 for several years and now sell for $2.00."

For many years, Miss Alice has been known as the "cake lady" to many people who visit the curb market. Summer residents at Atlantic Beach look forward to summer when they can get homemade cakes while vacationing.

Miss Alice sells approximately 50 cakes each week. The market is open on Wednesday and Saturday mornings and Friday afternoons. "One day I sold 50 cakes in less than an hour," reports Miss Alice. Mrs. Floy Garner, home economics agent, reports that occasionally people crowd around Miss Alice's table in an effort to get special cakes. "She is so low that she almost gets lost trying to move around," says Mrs. Garner.

She has cakes to suit anyone's taste. She bakes fresh coconut, lemon, chocolate, pineapple devil's food, and many birthday and anniversary cakes. "I sell more lemon and chocolate layer cakes than any other kind," reports Miss Alice. "I also, make jelly rolls and cup cakes."

When asked about cake failures, Miss Alice admits there have been a few. Laughingly she says, "Sometimes I get to talking and forget to put my baking powder in the flour."

When Miss Alice first started selling on the market, she sold eggs, milk, cream, and many other products. Now she sells homemade cottage cheese, butter, and flowers. Since her reputation has grown as the "cake lady," most of her sales are from cakes. Miss Alice has help from her sister, sister-in-law, and nieces when baking. After completing a cake, she places it in a large white box with a cellophane window in the top so customers can get a good look before buying.

Only Good Can Come From Debates

In our judgment the opening round of "the Great Debate" lived up to its promise.

As time drew nearer for the face-to-face meeting of Vice President Nixon and Senator Kennedy we confess feeling some doubts . . . a suspicion that in setting rules for the debate there would be a weakening of its spontaneity and value.

Such was not the case. The candidates were thoroughly prepared and able to rove freely through diverse fields as farm

Disaster Plan Provides Power

(Guest writer today Dick Byrd, Assistant Publicity Director, Carolina Power & Light Company)

LIGHTS BACK ON — Lockwood Phillips, publisher of the Carteret News-Times in Morehead City, is one of several editors who praised our company for the speed with which electric service was restored after Donna.

After viewing the destruction in Morehead and nearby Beaufort and Atlantic Beach, Phillips was resigned to a two-day delay in getting the paper on the street. (No one but a newspaperman can appreciate this dismal feeling.) He was pleasantly surprised to find power back on Monday night and the linotypes clacking away.

"How do you do it?" he asked. The answer lies in the CP&L disaster plan utilizing all of the company's 2,200 employees, from the "big boss" down to the lineman. When disaster strikes, each employee slips into a pre-assigned emergency role. The coordination born of long years' experience never ceases to amaze me, and to the outsider it must be especially impressive.

Tracing the power restoration to the grass roots, praise comes to rest at the feet of the linemen, servicemen, radio-men and engineers, many of whom stayed on their feet for a straight 24 hours. They carried the ball and made the touchdown, but they had a smooth-working team behind them.

ACHING CORNS — Traveling through Eastern North Carolina in Donna's wake, I couldn't help wondering what folks used to do about "big blows" like this. Nowadays we know hurricanes from the time they're born until they blow themselves out.

I suppose before the days of modern communications, Tar Heels depended upon the bum knee or aching corns for bad weather forecast. Or perhaps they consulted the Ladies Birthday Almanac.

THOSE WHO STICK — Dr. Harris Purks, who has served the State well as chairman of the State Board of Higher Education, tells this story of the quandary in which educators often find themselves.

A fellow college graduate went west and in true Ho-cho Algor fashion soon amassed a respectable fortune. He later invited Dr. Purks to come into the business as a partner. Dr. Purks declined. His reason—he was contracted to teach school for $2,700 per year. Time passed. Recently Dr. Purks had an opportunity to visit the man again and to tour his plant near Dallas, Texas. They sat far into the night talking over old times. Each asked the other, "Who did right?" The industrialist argued that Dr. Purks chose the right course. He was molding minds, getting a personal satisfaction from his work, doing something worth while. "All I've done is make money," he complained.

The temptation to leave the field of education for greener pastures is a perennial one for educators. Many succumb to it. We owe a real debt to those like Dr. Purks who stick.

JUST A MINUTE, PETE — This subject reminds me of a comment by a stock broker friend here in Raleigh. "We work ourselves to death making money, and when we get it we're usually miserable."

problems, education aid, budget balancing and the like.

There were no distractions caused by a studio audience or contrived backdrops; the viewers' attention was wholly on the two men, their words, their facial expressions, their own rapt interest in the topics at hand. In this instance the television industry did itself proud.

Neither Richard Nixon nor John Kennedy contributed anything new in the way of campaign material Monday night. It had all been stated before. Their audience benefitted by hearing their positions re-stated and re-argued within the limits of the brief hour.

The atmosphere was businesslike, quite formal and most polite. Neither man permitted a flash of annoyance nor touch of humor.

Occasional glimpses of the Vice President, while Senator Kennedy was speaking, seemed to show him in a thoughtful, sombre mood. And when the camera focused on the listening Senator, his alert attention was contagious.

We doubt that many minds were changed by this public debate. We think, too, that Nixon supporters believe their man showed to better advantage . . . and Kennedy supporters believe their man benefitted most.

As one watched, the big point was being driven home: Here were two men playing for the greatest stakes of all, the presidency and leadership of the free world. A misstep here, a thoughtless comment, an ill-timed gesture—and a brilliant political career might come to an end.

This close-up comparative view of two able men contending for the highest office in the land can only benefit America.

The Reflector feels confident such debates arouse a sharpening interest, in the men and the issues, among the voting public.

We look forward to future such meetings.

Agriculture, Too, Can Benefit From Tours

On reading yesterday's account of thirty-five N.C. businessmen touring the West on an industrial development study, we were struck anew by the potential value of such trips.

The Tar Heel group was "awed" by the scope and variety of California agriculture but, as the story said, they also observed potential bets the West may be missing.

This was primarily a study of industrial development, but it raises the question as to why not extending such tours to agriculture.

Just suppose the N. C. Dept. of Agriculture made it possible for ten annual agriculture study groups to inspect the practices and farming conditions of other segments of the country.

By seeing first-hand the farm problems and accompanying solutions in other sections of America, Tar Heel farmers would gain a better perspective of their own operations. Not only would they find supporting evidence for points in which they were "right" but they might also turn up a crop of new ideas, new standards, new inspiration.

It never hurts to see how "the other fellow" faces up to problems similar to your own. The value of such inspection tours is recognized by individuals in varied business fields, government and the professions.

On the surface there seems no reason why Tar Heel farmers should not similarly benefit.

Debate Had Two Useful Purposes

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — The big TV debate between the presidential candidates—Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Sen. John F. Kennedy—didn't add much new in the way of ideas but it served at least two useful purposes.

1. It gave the whole country a chance to see the two men side by side and compare them—as each argued his claim to the White House—on various grounds of personal appeal and ability to handle themselves, at least in debate.

2. It gave the whole country a chance to hear their main arguments, since what they said Monday night pretty much summed up what they've been saying since the campaign began.

So far, except for the areas visited by them, voters have had to judge them and their arguments by what the voters read in the newspapers or saw in occasional "but separate" appearances by them on TV.

The reason people in other countries may not see much difference between the candidates came out clearly enough when Nixon agreed the differences between him and Kennedy were not in goals but in the means of achieving them.

To Americans, however, those means—so far as any differences can be distinguished—are the important points in the campaign.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS WITHIN THAT LOVING PURPOSE

We speak often of a person's having experienced an untimely death. Yet think about it for a moment and ask yourself if there is really such a thing as untimely death.

It seems terrible when a young child is taken away, or a promising young man, or a husband at the time when his family needs him most. The mother who dies and leaves a growing family causes the hearts of all to tremble and bleed. But is there such a thing as untimely death? Not if we believe that all life is in the hands of that Creator who first made it. God's hands are so large and God's heart is so full of love that death comes within the circle of his being and there it is absorbed and reconciled. It is reconciled to our broken hopes. It is reconciled to our outraged sense of justice. It is reconciled finally to our pain and sorrow.

When death comes within our circle let us try to remind ourselves that God is still in charge of an even greater extent than now—our loved ones are living within the circle of God's love. Let us not fear for them. Of course we will grieve. Our hearts would be of stone if we did not grieve. But let us have hope, for a God of love has made all things do within his loving purpose and all things continue to exist.

Not Keyed To The Sports

We are advised that we are "falling down" in our column writing—nothing about hunting, fishing and such stuff.

Well, gee whiz, what do you expect? A walking, thinking, shooting, picture - looker - alter, music listener, book reader, card player, casual observer, writer, critic newspaper bug, typewriter ribbon and fish hook? We could elaborate further. For your benefit we will not.

However, we might pass a few comments on about the one and only football game here Saturday night, East Carolina played Guilford, remember.

Two couples attended, together. The men shoved the women to be outdoors, but.

Besides, this year, women are taking up politics in the place of other sports. It is the great game.

Women for Nixon like him because of his funny nose. Women for Kennedy like him because he's so appealing.

Women against Nixon hate his funny nose. And women against Kennedy are jealous of his pretty wife!

The business of "Pat's clothes versus Jackie's clothes" really clears up the question of whether the American people vote for personalities or over-issues. You might call their tastes in clothes an issue, how much they pay and who designed what, but personalities make the clothes look one way or the other. Which lady of the White House do you prefer? Which man will you vote for to get the clothes-horse in the White House whom you prefer?

Man, what we need is another Great Debate to decide this. That's strictly cube, man, cube.

Other Editors Saying Is It Possible?

(WASHINGTON DAILY NEWS)

Is it possible that at this time Richard Nixon is building up his campaign to the point he knows so well and engages in so efficiently—that of charging John F. Kennedy with giving aid and comfort to communism?

Mr. Nixon recently called upon Mr. Kennedy to stop talking about American weaknesses and attacking American foreign policies while Nikita Khrushchev and other hostile political leaders are attending the United Nations session.

Mr. Kennedy has refused to accept Mr. Nixon's advice. As a result, some political leaders in this country are of the opinion that this refusal on the part of Mr. Kennedy has given Mr. Nixon the provocation he seeks in order to pursue the type of campaign he waged so successfully in California for the House of Representatives and the United States Senate.

Against Jerry Voorhis and Helen Gehagen Douglas, Mr. Nixon played the communist angle for all it was worth. He, we must say, was very successful in convincing a large number of California voters that Mr. Voorhis and Mrs. Douglas were giving aid and comfort to communism if not actually allied with the communist movement in this nation.

Of course, Mr. Nixon says he has grown up since that time. He says that he realizes that Mr. Kennedy is not a communist and that he is a dedicated American. But he said these things a while back and before the recent admonishment not to dwell upon American weaknesses. Now, in the eyes of many people, Mr. Nixon might resort to his old tactics and begin labeling Mr.

Kennedy a man who might be looking at communism with a consorting eye.

Certainly, those who have read about the Nixon campaigns in California but nothing in politics out of his reach. The two California campaigns we mentioned above were among the dirtiest and most nauseating political battles ever staged by any candidate in America for any public office.

If we are to speak frankly, this newspaper sincerely believes that today both Mr. Nixon and Mr. Kennedy are strongly anti-communist. Neither would lead America down the road to communism. Both are men who believe in the American way of life.

If Russia today doesn't know American political and economic weaknesses, then Mr. Kennedy or any other aspirant for public office is going to help the cause of communism by calling attention to our weaknesses. Probably far more about our problems, our weaknesses, and our strong points than does the average American. Mr. Kennedy certainly is not divulging security secrets when he tells the American people we need to be able to talk peace from a position of strength.

And when he tells Americans how to strengthen our position, then we cannot believe that he is telling Russia anything she doesn't already know.

If Mr. Nixon is going to label Mr. Kennedy with the "aid and comfort to communism" charge, it most likely will come within the last month of the campaign. And if we are to judge by previous Nixon campaigns, it might well come.

Railroad Mergers Not All Cake

By ELMER ROESSNER

Maybe the top toppled the wrong way.

For half a century marriages, romances or even flirtations between railroads were looked upon as ominous. The railroads were the monsters of our fathers' younger days. They gave birth to such phrases as "All the traffic will bear," and "The public be damned."

Any merger plan was, ipso facto, a plot to rob the public. The basic objection to mergers was that mergers might reduce competition and competition was the almost imaginary device that protected business and the public from utter exploitation.

But as years rolled on, real competition arose. Trucks, buses and planes skimmed off the creamiest business. Then people—including this columnist—began to say that mergers of railroads, were in the public interest and that the government, instead of discouraging them, should encourage fiscal romances.

PUBLIC ATTITUDE CHANGES. Most people accepted this idea and in recent years there have been mergers and rumors of mergers as never before.

But perhaps the wrong kind of mergers were encouraged. Two railroads, joining, might eliminate a small amount of duplicate trackage and services.

There would be an immediate surplus of officers, but instead of firing any, the general practice has been to keep all on the payroll, without replacing those who retired or died.

Competition would be unchanged. The short, off - rail traffic shipments would still be shunted to the railroads, and long-distance passengers would stick to planes.

THE BETTER SOLUTION Perhaps what we should have been awaiting for all these years was not mergers between railroads, but mergers between railroads, trucklines, busses and planes.

Instead of merging the Pennsylvania and the Central—which still may happen—it may have been better for the national economy to encourage a merger of each railroad with truck lines, bus lines and airlines within the area served by each.

Then a single transportation organization could route both freight and passengers by the most economical means. Passengers could be picked up by bus at one point and taken to a railroad station at another and chugged to an airport (or taken by bus directly to an airport), flown to the airport nearest their destination, and then moved by rail or bus (or even taxi or rental car) to destination.

Just as the express companies have given the public door-to-door parcel service, so could merged air-rail-road services give the public door-to-door

Leaders Are The Solons

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
Copyright, 1960, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

While the election of the President is very important, it is never the whole story. In our form of government, the center of power is in the Congress, in both Houses, and the election of Senators and Representatives is equally vital to the welfare of the nation. Only too often, they are passed over in the excitement of the Presidential campaign, particularly in these days when television makes the debate more exciting than it really is.

During both Eisenhower Administrations, the Congress was usually Democratic which made for delay and confusion. Were it not for the statesmanship of Senator Lyndon Johnson, the Democratic Leader in the Senate and now candidate for Vice President, and Speaker Sam Rayburn, the business of the country would have been at a standstill. For it is Congress that appropriates the money for government operations and which determines fundamental government policy. The administrative agencies of government also make policy by day-by-day procedures, but it is Congress which can undo anything that an administrative agency does or can even abolish the agency.

On the whole, the Congress of the United States is a superior body of men who represent every section of the country and every phase of American life. There is still a predominance of lawyers, but there are also businessmen, labor union men, professors in universities, farmers, almost every kind of person. It is a cross-section of American life and truly representative.

The tendency in recent years in both parties has been to elect to the Senate and the House of Representatives candidates who are neither conservatives who remain in the Congress, Senator Styles Bridges of New Hampshire is up for reelection this year. Senator Bridges is the leader of the Republicans in the Senate. He has been in the Senate 24 years and has served on some of its most important committees. His influence upon his Republican colleagues has been enormous, particularly since the death of Senator Robert A. Taft to whose position he succeeded. It is very important for the conservative elements in the country that Senator Bridges be re-elected this year. So few men of his experience and quality remain in the upper house.

He may, for the first time in his career, encounter some difficulty should Senator John Kennedy carry New Hampshire as he well served on some of the most important committees of Congress. It was while Karl Mundt was temporarily presiding over the House Committee on Un-American Activities that that Richard Nixon, then a novice in Congress, found his opportunity to uncover the activities of Alger Hiss. Mundt played an enormous role in uncovering Communist infiltration in government, a condition which is now exposing itself again.

It is interesting to note both Senators Bridges and Mundt started their careers as teachers. Among the Democrats, conservatives will favor Senator John L. McClellan of Arkansas who has been a member of the Senate Committee on Government Operations. He has been a firm supporter of the Hoover Commission recommendations. As presiding officer of the principal investigations into subversion and into labor union practices, he has been outstandingly judicial as well as judicious.

I mention only these three because were I a voter in their states, I would vote for these men. They have had long service, know how our particular and peculiar government functions.

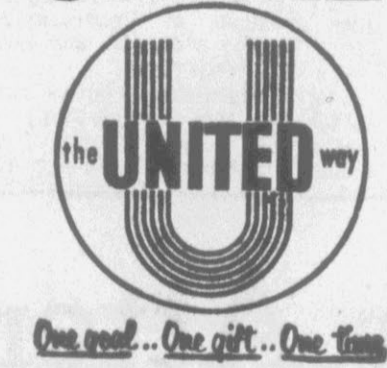

Opinions In Brief

"We must make our choice between economy and liberty, or profusion and servitude. If we run into such debts, we must be taxed in our meat and drink, in our necessities and in our comforts, in our labors and in our amusements." — Thomas Jefferson.

"In all the discussion of the problems of the aging, there is seldom a suggestion that this great reservoir of man power may some day be needed." — Dallas Morning News.

"If you do not think about the future, you cannot have one." — John Galsworthy.

Gavin Says Party Is Not Target, But Terry Sanford

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Republican gubernatorial candidate Robert Gavin has aimed his campaign squarely at the policies of his Democratic opponent Terry Sanford and not at the state's Democratic regime.

"I have never said the Democratic policies are corrupt," said Gavin at a rally Tuesday in Asheville. "I have never said the administration is corrupt."

"I have compared the actions of my opponent, who left the great Democratic party and joined the radical socialist wing of the Kennedys. I am against Sanford, not the North Carolina Democrats."

Sanford, campaigning in Beaufort, Hyde, Tyrrell and Washington counties, got off a few jabs of his own.

Asked his opinion of a newspaper poll placing him and presidential nominee John Kennedy behind the GOP in the High Point area, Sanford said he wasn't surprised. "High Point is the most Republican city in the state and unfortunately I believe they are beyond redemption."

He again called on Gavin to clarify his position on the United Forces for Education proposal to pump $106 million into public school improvements for each of the next two years.

Calling this the most important issue facing the state, Sanford said "Gavin endorsed the United Forces program in the spring, but now seems to denounce it in the fall."

A reporter asked Sanford if he would be willing to debate with Gavin during the campaign. Sanford quipped, "Gavin would have to debate with himself first, to see how he himself stood."

Sanford told a rally at Washington he would not participate in a

"brickbat throwing contest." On the contrary, he said, "I am going to use my bricks to build the foundation for better North Carolina."

Gavin listed six issues he felt divided the two candidates. He named the two-party system, Sanford's endorsement of Kennedy's candidacy, states' rights, constitutional reform in North Carolina, labor relations and a state civil service system.

Gavin told an Asheville audience he would tour the state twice more before Nov. 8. He speaks today at Elkin.

tions and understand how the Congress operates in relationship to the Executive. One of the difficulties that a newcomer to Congress faces is his assumption that the Congress is a debating society, not a working body. The orators soon discover that the leadership lies not among those who, like Senator Wayne Morse, talk a lot but rather among those, like Senators Bridges, Mundt and McClellan, who work hard.

In a Presidential election it is too often overlooked that other names are on the ballots. This leads to what is called the straight vote; that is, for all on the same line with the Presidential candidate. Often excellent men are lost to the country because of this.

those who will base their presidential choice on ideas, programs and attitudes instead of on personality and various forms of persuasion.

One thing neither candidate made clear was just how he was going to get his programs through Congress. It seems likely the Democrats will retain control of both houses of Congress.

The great bulk of the Democrats and Republicans, too, is conservative, as was shown in the late summer session which accomplished little and left liberal-minded Kennedy defeated on two major items he wanted: a program of medical care for the aged and a $1.25 minimum wage.

The best he could offer was the hope that if elected president of a Democratic-run Congress he could expect more cooperation than if Republican Nixon was elected and had to deal with a Congress where Democrats had a majority.

Since Nixon conceded the Democrats will positively retain control of the Senate and could only hope the Republicans would win the House, the best he could offer was the wish he'd make out all right, too.

Univac Ready For Quick Prediction On Election

By SAW DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — Now that the nation has seen and heard Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Sen. John F. Kennedy debate on TV and radio another electronic marvel is all set to tell the people early on the night of Nov. 8 how they've made up their minds.

Aware that this election has issues and stresses unlike those in the past, some 100 electronic computer researchers and programmers nevertheless insist they've got their big machine ready to foretell the final election outcome from only the earliest returns.

Data is ready to be stuffed into a waiting Univac which will compare voting returns this year with those going back to 1896. But it won't be all comparison. The changing trends of recent years, and the special issues of this one—even the tricky religious one—are being taken into consideration. The giant computer is expected to issue its first prediction early on election night to the ABC TV network. And Dause L. Bibby, president of Remington Rand Division of Sperry Rand Corp., is confident his machine's prediction will come very close to the final Electoral College vote.

But computer experts admit that if the upcoming election is as close as some observers predict, the first findings won't be conclusive. They insist that the trend, barring a tie, will soon thereafter be apparent, but that in any event it will foretell a close race as quickly as it will a strong trend.

If the religious issue changes the historical pattern in this election, Univac experts insist the computer will be able to spot the extent of the change quickly in early returns. The machine is set up to compare voting results with that and other particular issues in mind. Changing voting patterns in the 1930s and 1940s have been the subject of intensive mathematical studies of the presidential elections over that and subsequent periods.

Relations of voting trends for a region to those for the nation as a whole are studied. This is important because early returns are mostly from the East due to time differences. But Univac experts say that usually changing trends in a region can quickly be aligned to changes in the same direction elsewhere.

Many months of data research has gone into preparing Univac for its role. The instructions will be programmed into the electronic computer at a rate of thousands of numerical characters per second.

Programmers say the complex mathematical formula will instruct the computer how to reject errors in voting reports, translate raw data into working quantities and process these into final results. After that the computer is being instructed on how to present the results in a form readily interpreted.

Part of Bibby's confidence in Univac is admittedly built on the results of the last two elections. In 1952 just two hours after the first polls closed, with only 3,400,000 votes counted from scattered Eastern states, Univac predicted Eisenhower's victory within four electoral votes. In 1956, with 293,407 votes counted by 7:15 p.m., it predicted the final electoral vote within 13 electoral votes.

Asserts Mother Needs A Break

LONDON (AP)—Mothers need a break from their "noisy, dirty, walling, sniveling" kids, says a leading British child expert.

R. S. Illingworth, professor of child health at Sheffield University, suggested today that for the good of their health wives should have occasional weekends alone with their husbands.

"Too much attention is paid these days to preventing psychological problems in children—and too little to preventing psychological problems in mothers," Illingworth wrote in the British Medical Association Journal "Family Doctor."

Illingworth said husbands could help a lot by giving the harassed mothers time off to get a hair-do or go shopping. He suggested that occasional weekend separations of parents and children could do the child a lot of good.

"Such a short break helps him to begin to learn independence," the professor explained.

At Oxford, 300 American and British mothers attending the fifth annual conference of American and British Women's Activities agreed that spanking children up to 15 years old often was a good thing.

"We agreed there is a definite lack of discipline among juveniles today," said Nancy Blagg, wife of a U.S. Air Force captain and mother of three young children. Children over 15, said an American grandmother, Marti Anderson, "need love, understanding, trust and a sense of humor—for them, security is essential."

With 4 Legs, Could Be Fast

GASPORT, N.Y. (AP) — If number of legs has anything to do with speed, 17-year-old Richard Wojtkowski may have the world's fastest chicken. The farm lad spotted the baby chick behind a hay mound recently and, noting the odd way it was resting, picked it up.

He was surprised to see the chick had four legs.

S. C. Clergyman Selected As New Episcopal Bishop

SUMTER, S.C. (AP)—A Columbia clergyman was chosen late Tuesday to succeed the late Rt. Rev. Thomas Neely Carruthers as bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of South Carolina.

The Rev. Gray Temple, 46, rector of Trinity Church in Columbia for the past five years, was selected by clerical and lay delegates from the diocese from 14 nominees.

The selection was unanimous on the fifth ballot after the voting had narrowed to Dr. Temple and the Rev. Louis A. Haskill of Charleston, W. Va.

The choice is subject to the approval of the House of Bishops of the Episcopal Church and to a special committee of the diocese which comprises the lower half of South Carolina.

A native of Lewiston, Maine, the bishop-elect is a son of the Rev. and Mrs. Charles H. Temple. He attended Brown University and Virginia Theological Seminary of which he is a 1938 graduate. He was ordained a deacon of the church the same year and a priest in 1939.

The Rev. Mr. Temple served as curate at Calvary Church in Tarboro, N.C., and later as rector at Truro Church, Fairfax, Va., and these North Carolina churches — St. John's, Battleboro, St. Peter's, Charlotte, and Church of the Good Shepherd, Rocky Mount.

While in North Carolina, he was chairman of the department of church education and the department of youth.

After coming to Columbia in 1955, he became a trustee of the Episcopal Church home for children and the Episcopal Foundation.

The Rev. Mr. Temple and his wife, the former Maria Drane, have three sons.

Since the death of Bishop Carruthers in June, a committee of five laymen and five clergymen have been handling diocesan affairs.

Avoid Risk With July Christmas

SOUTH PASS CITY, Wyo. (AP)—Six years ago, John and Minnie Woodring, owners of the historic old ghost town of South Pass City, planned a Christmas party.

The tables were loaded down with food and about 100 guests were expected from Lander, 23 miles away.

Then the snow came. Six feet of snow fell on the little isolated mountain community—and none of the guests arrived.

The Woodrings aren't going to get caught like that again.

They still have their traditional Christmas party each year—but it's held on July 25.

KENTUCKY STRAIGHT BOURBON WHISKEY 86 PROOF

Documentaries See Nickles For Know-How Vote Scheduled Friday

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—A serious contender for honors among the documentary programs, ABC's new "Close Up" series, made its TV debut Tuesday night with a thoughtful look at prejudice and discrimination north of the Mason-Dixon line.

None of the show's raw material was new. Yet this pictorial roundup, with its earnest, restrained commentary, was a shocking indictment. Shown were the "Black ghetto" of Chicago, a Jewish physician excluded from Grosse Pointe, Mich.; Indians from a Nebraska reservation complaining about police brutality, Puerto Ricans crowded in expensive, crumbling New York tenements, and a snarling new-Nazi haranguing a crowd.

They were not pretty pictures, but they made a point. It is one of the most important new series. Anyway, it should be.

While television is blazing new paths in the public affairs area, it is rumbling along dully in the deep ruins of other seasons in its entertainment fare. Now at the end of the first month of the new season, there has not yet been one new show with a fresh approach. The comedies sound like retreads of last year's jokes. The Westerns and action tales are even more dedicated to small plots and great violence than ever before—in spite of all the pious talk by the medium's moguls.

Last week's "Thriller," on NBC drew some mail from horrified viewers with its tale about the mentally disturbed little boy bent on shooting out his hatreds with a rifle.

"Please, please," wrote one mother, "can't something be done to revise the code or censorship which allows a play like that to be shown?"

I guess not, madame. That series is dedicated to the proposition that exciting events befall an average citizen when a maniac enters his life, so it looks as if we are in for a full season of Tuesday night madness.

NBC tossed another little one into the day time channels Monday, this a stilted and coy item called "Here's Hollywood." The idea seems to be to catch entertainment stars in informal moments and ask them silly and stereotyped questions. Unfortunately the first outing were screen star Rossano Brazzi and wife who were braced with such in-depth questions as whether Mrs. Brazzi was jealous of other women and if she was a good cook. This was followed by an interview with 21-year-old singer Connie Francis entirely concerned with the evils of teen-agers going steady.

DECATUR, Ala. (AP)—Police have found $3,350 worth of U.S. savings bonds in a house unoccupied since its elderly owners went to rest homes more than a year ago.

City Patrolman Douglas Crabb said investigators have reports that young vandals took a large sum of cash from the residence.

Officers said the bonds—134 of them—were made out to Charles E. Bailey and Annie L. Bailey. The Baileys moved to rest homes more than a year ago and have since died, Crabb said.

The officer said the house had been ransacked and apparently had been entered several times.

Father Rescued By Carrier Boy

MARYVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Because a newspaper carrier boy hurried home to lunch, he was able to save his invalid father from a fire.

John Hodge, 11, Maryville, Ala., Daily Times carrier, opened his front door to find flames leaping to ceiling. A furnace had ignited a living room couch.

Groping his way inside, he roused his father and helped him outside. The boy's mother, at work, said she was certain her husband, who suffers from rheumatoid arthritis, could not have moved by himself to escape the flames.

RALEIGH (AP)— Tar Heel farmers vote Friday to determine the fate of a program agricultural leaders consider vital to the state's progress.

A host of farm leaders issued statements Tuesday urging passage of a referendum which would continue for three more years the state's Nickels for Know-How Program.

Under it, farmers assess themselves five cents for each ton of feed and fertilizer they buy. The money is used by North Carolina State College in agricultural research.

"The biggest nickel I know of is a nickel for know-how," said Agriculture Commissioner L. Y. Ballentine. "Plugging the gaps and undergirding the weak places, this modest contribution which North Carolina farmers are voluntarily assessing themselves is making a vital contribution to the state's agricultural research program."

The State Farm Bureau's executive vice president, A. C. Edwards said, "the results are sufficient for me to urge every farmer to help continue this program by casting his ballot for it Friday."

State Grange Master Harry B. Caldwell said the college has used the money for more than 50 research and educational projects.

Following the lead of Gov. Hodges who urged passage of the program last week, were A. G. Bullard, state supervisor of vocational agriculture; Wayne A. Corpening, vice president and manager of Wachovia Bank's agricultural department; Dr. H. Brooks James, North Carolina State College agriculture dean, and Dr. Roy L. Lovvorn, director of the college's agricultural research program.

Science At Work

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Truth tests for political leaders, telescopes on the moon, and the real height of hurricane seas engage attention of scientists.

True or False
Psychological tests of national leaders to determine if they are telling the real truth are suggested by a prominent neuro-physiologist, Dr. Ralph Gerard of the University of Michigan.

Force is the ultimate weapon to change an opponent's mind, he remarks, and misunderstandings, doubt and fear can lead to a shooting war.

"If major national figures could prove that their statements are true indeed, they would allay the disbelief and distrust that normally attend such pronouncements," Dr. Gerard says.

"The stamp of truth could be won if the speaker would submit to examination by lie detector or other truth detection procedures."

Whether the problem concerned nuclear bomb tests, colonies, or other matters, "any statesman wishing to convince the world that he is sincere and truthful could probably be induced to accept such a truth test."

Moon Gazing
One grand dream of astronomers is to place an astronomical observatory on the moon. Telescopes there could look out with startling clarity at distant stars and galaxies since the moon has no air to distort vision.

But would such an expensive observatory be banged disastrously by meteorites? Man-made satellites are finding space is full of tiny speck-like bits of meteoritic dust.

Yet it appears there may not be very many really large and damaging meteoritic missiles, says Dr. Harrison Brown, geochimist of California Institute of Technology. He estimates there may be only one meteorite weighing one gram (1/28th of an ounce) or more for every 100 thousand billion cubic kilometers of space.

A kilometer is a bit over half a mile. Thus chances for a safe moon observatory look pretty good to his mind.

Bitter, Bitter
An Edinburgh, Scotland, firm says it has found the most bitter chemical known to human taste. It is called T.H.S. 839, or Bitrex. One application is to add it to de-natured or wood alcohol used for toiletries or in industry, so people won't drink such products and go blind or die. It is a synthetic organic chemical not derived from vegetable oils, as are other present bitter chemicals.

Hurricane Secrets
Some sailors report waves during hurricanes are 100 feet high. Some ocean scientists think 50 feet is about the limit.

The answer will be forthcoming from special devices to measure wave height, installed in floating weather stations or buoys, by the U.S. Navy. One will be anchored off Barbados Island; the other will drift 500 miles east of the Lesser Antilles where hurricanes traditionally spawn.

Equipped with radio, the buoys will report wave heights for the first time, along with reports of temperatures, pressures, and wind speeds and directions during hurricanes.

The new wave-height knowledge is expected to be helpful not only in understanding hurricanes, but also in advising ships about safest and most efficient courses. The wave sensors were developed by General Electric scientists working at Ithaca, N.Y.

Chemical Society Meeting Slated
Dr. D. W. Wiley will address the Eastern North Carolina Section of the American Chemical Society at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, September 28, at Du Pont's "Dacron" Plant on the subject "Cyanocarbons." In his lecture, Dr. Wiley will review the synthesis of tetracyanoethylene and its unique properties and chemistry.

He will also discuss some new cyanocarbons such as tricyanoethylene and tricyanovinyl chloride. The meeting will be preceded by dinner in the plant cafeteria at 6:30. Those planning to attend should notify J. O. Weiss at the "Dacron" Research Laboratory.

PAUL GALLICO'S NEW BESTSELLER
Mrs. 'Arris Goes to New York

WHAT IS HAPPENING
 "I'll bet if I went to America I'd soon enough find little 'Emry's dad," said Mrs. Harris to her friend Mrs. Butterfield. "It's got to be somewhere, hasn't it?" The two elderly, widowed London charwomen are indignant over the abusive treatment of the child by their shiftless neighbors in London, the Gussets. The boy was abandoned to the Gussets by his mother after Henry's soldier-father, George Brown, went back to the U.S. Mrs. Harris is determined to do something about it. Chance is going to provide her an opportunity, for a Mr. Joel Schreiber, an American whose London flat Mrs. Harris tidies up, has been called back to New York. Mrs. Schreiber thinks of taking Mrs. Harris along.

CHAPTER 5
 Exactly fourteen and a half hours after Mrs. Harris had told Mrs. Butterfield she was about to be propositioned by Mrs. Schreiber to go to America, it happened. Mrs. Schreiber proposed the very next morning, shortly after Mrs. Harris had arrived, and was enthusiastically accepted upon one condition—namely, that Mrs. Butterfield be included in the party, and at a wage equal to that promised to Mrs. Harris. "She's my oldest friend," explained Mrs. Harris. "I've never been away from London more than a week at a time in my life. If I ad'er with me, I wouldn't feel so lonely. Besides, she's a ruddy good cook—cooked for some of the best 'ouses before she retired from steady work. You ask old Sir Alfred Welby who he got 'is good from." Mrs. Schreiber was almost beside herself with joy at the prospect of not only having Mrs. Harris to look after her during the first months of her return to the United States, but also at one and the same time acquiring a good cook who would get on well with the little char and keep her from getting too lonely.

She knew Mrs. Butterfield and liked her, for she had subbed for Mrs. Harris during the latter's expedition to Paris to acquire her Dior dress. "But do you think she would come?" she asked of Mrs. Harris anxiously. "At the drop of a brick," replied the latter. "Adventurous, that's what she is. Always wantin' to rush off into the unknown. Sometimes I can 'ardly keep 'er back. Oh, she'll come all right. Just you leave it up to me to put it to 'er in the right way." Mrs. Schreiber was delighted to do so, and they began to discuss details of departure—Mrs. Schreiber was planning to sail in the French liner SS Ville de Paris from Southampton within ten days—as though everything was all set and arranged for the two of them. Mrs. Harris chose the psychological moment to move the attack upon her friend, namely, the witching hour of that final mellow cup of tea they shared before retiring, and this time in Mrs. Butterfield's ample kitchen, well stocked with cakes and biscuits, jams and jellies, for as her figure indicated, Mrs. Butterfield liked to eat well. At first it seemed as though Mrs. Harris had committed a tactical error in approaching her friend on her own home grounds instead of getting her away from her familiar surroundings, for Mrs. Butterfield was adamant in her refusal to budge and appeared to have an answer to every argument put forth by Mrs. Harris.

"What?" she cried. "Me go to America at my age, where they do all that inflation and shooting and young people killing one another with knives? Don't you read the papers? And let me tell you something else, if you go it'll be the death of you, Ada 'Arris—don't say I didn't warn you." Mrs. Harris moved up her intercontinental missile with megaton warhead. "What about little 'Emry?" she said. Mrs. Butterfield regarded her friend with some alarm. "What about 'im?" she asked, to gain time, for in the excitement and terror of Mrs. Harris's proposition she had quite forgotten who and what lay behind it all. "To find 'is dad and give the poor little tyke a decent life, that's what's all about 'im, Violet Butterfield, and I'm surprised and ashamed at you forgettin'. If you've 'eard it once, you've 'eard me say a 'undred times, if I could only get to America I'd find 'is dad and tell 'im where 'is kid was and what about little 'Emry! Don't you love 'im?" This was almost attacking below the belt, and Mrs. Butterfield let out a howl of protest. "Ow, Ada, 'ow can you say such a thing? You know I do. Ain't I always feedin' 'im up and cuddlin' 'im like a mother? But I don't want to go to America—I'm afraid to go."

"So am I," said Mrs. Harris. Mrs. Butterfield's astonishment turned now to amazement. "What!" she cried. "You, Ada 'Arris, afraid! Why, I've known you for more than thirty-five years, and you've never been afraid of anything in your life!" "I am now," said Mrs. Harris. "It's a big step. It's a strange country. It's a long way off. Who's to look after me if anything happens? I wish you were coming with me. One never knows, does one?" It might have sounded like irony, this sudden switch in the accustomed roles of the two women: Mrs. Harris the adventurous optimist suddenly turned into a kind of Butterfield timorous pessimist. But the truth was that there was no irony whatsoever in her remark. It was just that the realization had suddenly come upon her of the enormity of the undertaking into which she had thrust herself so lightheartedly and with her usual sense of excitement and adventure.

New York was not only a long way off, it would be totally different from anything she had ever experienced. True, Paris had been utterly foreign, but if you looked at a map, Paris was just across the street. America would be English-speaking it was true, and yet in another sense more foreign than France, or perhaps even China. She was going to uproot herself from that wonderfully secure and comfortably fitting London which had sheltered her for all her life and about whose streets and rhythm and noises and manifold moods she knew her way blindfolded. And she was no longer young. She knew of the many British wives who, having married Americans, had come running home, unable to adjust themselves to American life. She was sixty-one, a sixty-one that felt full of energy and brimming with life, it is true, but one never did know, did one? Supposing she fell ill? Who in a strange land would provide the necessary link between herself and her beloved London? Yes, for that instant she was truly and genuinely afraid, and it showed in her eyes. Violet Butterfield saw it there. "Oh dear," said the fat woman, and her round chins began to quiver. "Do you mean it, Ada? Do you really need me?" Mrs. Harris eyed her friend, and knew that she really did want this big, bulky, helpless but comfortable woman to lean on a little. "Yes, love," said Mrs. Harris. "I do."

"Then I'll come with you," said Mrs. Butterfield, and began to bawl. Mrs. Harris started to cry too, and immediately the two women were locked in one another's arms, weeping to gether for the next few minutes, and having a most lovely time. The die, however, had been cast, and the trip was on. (To Be Continued Tomorrow)

No Speeches At 'Summit Party'
 NEW YORK (AP)—India's Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru threw the biggest "summit" party in history Tuesday night—and none of the renowned speakers present even made a speech. In fact the leaders from more than 30 countries, including a score of national heads, didn't even toast each other. "We don't serve liquor," explained an Indian spokesman. So the approximately 80 guests sipped fruit punch and munched on roast lamb and rice with lobster curry at the super-buffet Nehru served at his Hotel Carlyle headquarters. Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev and his satellite leaders mixed gaily with the delegates from around the world who are attending the United Nations session. So did Cuba's Fidel Castro, who wore his field uniform as usual. Notably absent were Britain's Prime Minister Harold Macmillan and U.S. Secretary of State Christian A. Herter, who pleaded previous commitments. Also absent were Yugoslav President Tito and U.A.R. President Gamel Abdel Nasser. "No speeches. The atmosphere was wonderful. The food was delicious," exclaimed Mrs. Golda Meir, Israel's foreign minister, after the two-hour affair.

The acoustics of a 2,300-year-old outdoor theater at Epidaurus, Greece, are so good that an actor's whisper can be heard in the last row.

Probers Delve Into Negro Voting Status In Louisiana

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Louisiana Negroes today are scheduled for the second day to bare a web of devices in which they claim vote registrars are systematically catching them to deprive them of their right to vote.

"It's pure prejudice on the part of the registrar as to why there are not as many Negroes registered as there could be," testified Ernest N. Francis Jr., a Jackson Parish undertaker.

The U. S. Civil Rights Commission, a fact-finding body, is ending a two-day hearing on complaints of voter discriminations in Louisiana.

Only 28 per cent of eligible Louisiana Negroes are registered, the commission said. That compares with 82 per cent of eligible white voters.

Negroes—a vast majority from rural north Louisiana parishes—told the commission Tuesday they sometimes waited in line all day to register. White applicants merely walked in ahead of them, they said.

When the Negroes got in, a slight error—like "circling a word instead of underlining it"—often disqualified them, witnesses testified.

Others told the commission they were told there were no registration blanks available, or the registrar was out. Or they did not report their age correctly to the year, month and day. Or they hadn't properly identified themselves.

The Rev. Theodore M. Hesburgh, president of Notre Dame University and one of the commission members, said he found it "incredible" that a registrar had denied the ballot to Dr. John I. Reddix of Monroe, a Negro dentist.

Father Hesburgh said he would report the refusal directly to President Eisenhower.

After the opening session, Thompson Clark, district attorney for Madison, Tensas and East Carroll parishes, telegraphed the commission that false testimony had been given by Madison Parish witnesses. Clark asked for another hearing "before the same news media" to "afford us with the opportunity to refute these untrue allegations."

Some witnesses attributed voter discrimination to the wide latitudes that state law gives to vote registrars.

The biggest stumbling block, according to the six-hour testimony of 20 witnesses, appeared the constitutional interpretation test.

Many said they were told they hadn't read or interpreted the Constitution to the registrar's satisfaction.

Some witnesses said fear of bodily harm or of economic reprisal had kept the Negro vote down.

James Sharp, 47, a Monroe Negro lawyer, said Madison Parish Sheriff C. E. Hester threatened "to take (him) for a ride" if Sharp persisted in trying to help Negroes register.

Hester, reached by telephone, denied making the threat. He is one of Louisiana's presidential electors on the States Rights ticket.

MOTHER OF TWO

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP)—A Yugoslav girl, Biserka Hamidovic, 10, is the mother of two sons, the magazine Sport and World reported today. The girl ran away from home with Pasaga Osmanovic, 12, when she was 9, the magazine said, and their oldest child is now a year old.

World Traveler Sees Only Docks No Place Else To Go For Higher Education

LONDON (AP)—Samuel Abdulla, 25, has traveled widely, but all he sees of the countries he visits is their docks and prisons.

The stateless stowaway now is lodged in London's Brixton Jail while officials puzzle over his future, for Abdulla is a man no country wants.

He is believed to be an Indian from the East Punjab, but has no papers to prove his identity. He first showed up in England on the liner Strathmore in September 1959. He said he had stowed away at Colombo.

British authorities refused to let him land. He was transferred to the liner Iberia and sent back to Bombay. There Indian authorities refused to accept him, and Abdulla spent the next nine months sailing around the Indian coast.

In May, he was put aboard another liner for England, and again he was refused permission to land. He claimed he had come from Fiji—so to Fiji he went. But the Fijians didn't want him either and shipped him back to England. He arrived at Tilbury docks Sunday aboard the liner Strathnaver.

British officials said if no arrangements can be made for Abdulla to stay here he will be shipped out on the next Pacific and Orient liner to leave England.

NEW YORK (AP)—School has opened in the world's greatest schoolhouse, the big glass house by the East River known as the United Nations.

Some of the school board—a minority—are mad at the head of the faculty, Dag Hammarskjold, and want to break his contract because they think he is the wrong kind of disciplinarian.

But so far, Hammarskjold has put no "situation wanted" ad in the newspaper saying: "For reasons of personal health, veteran teacher and administrator seeks post in restful climate. Has textbooks, will travel."

And so far, the argument among the school board members has remained purely verbal. No one has thrown any rocks through the windows of the great fine gleaming new schoolhouse.

And so far none of the dissident board members has taken his delinquent children by the hand and led them out of the schoolhouse, or taken a single real step to build a rival schoolhouse of his own. He really can't afford to.

This may seem to some a curiously optimistic view of the present rumpus in the United Nations, but in the present moment—or in any moment—optimism is needed. There are those who see the present meeting of the General Assembly of the United Nations, attended by an unprecedented number of heads of states, as a diplomatic defeat and a propaganda disaster.

But aren't they giving up in advance? And is giving up an American art?

There are cogent reasons to believe it will end both as a diplomatic victory and a propaganda victory for the great glass schoolhouse and its permanent purpose—which is to become "The Parliament of Man."

When the din finally dies, and the school board members go home, maybe no one will be altogether happy.

But the big glass schoolhouse will still stand, and school will keep.

For a very good reason. There is no place else for anyone to go—for a higher education.

Duren Whips Senators In Role As Yank Starter

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer
Manager Casey Stengel of the New York Yankees may be undecided over his starting pitcher for the opening game of the World Series a week from today, but he knows for sure that one-time relief ace Ryne Duren is back in business.

The fast-balling right-hander had managed just one save while losing his only decision in 16 appearances since July 28. Things were getting so rough, he was knocked flat and suffered a cut over his right eye when he lost sight of warmup catcher Jim Hegan's return throw.

But Duren, making his first start in two years, showed he still had the stuff in a tune-up test for the series Tuesday night, tying a modern record by striking out the first five men he faced as the Yankees whipped Washington 5-1. Duren, who worked four innings, winner Eli Grba and Bob Turley allowed the Senators just three hits as the American League champs won their 11th in a row.

Baltimore walloped Boston 17-3 and took a one-game lead over Chicago in their scrap for second place as Detroit beat the White Sox 2-0 behind Jim Bunning's three-hit pitching. Kansas City defeated Cleveland 5-4.

Duren, showing only a 3-4 record and a 4.60 earned run average after early season arm trouble, became the fourth pitcher in modern times—since 1900—to strike out five in a row at the start of a game. Lefty Gomez of the Yankees was the last to do it, in 1937. The others were Walter Johnson, Washington, 1912, and Dazzy Vance, Brooklyn, 1926. The all-time mark is nine, by Mike Welch of New York in the National League in 1884.

Duren made it by whiffing Reno Bertola, Lenny Green, Harmon Killebrew, Jim Lemon and Faye Throneberry. Earl Battey ended the string by grounding out to short on a slider. Duren said if he had known he was within reach of a record, "I'd have reared back and fired away."

The Senators didn't get a hit until the fourth inning, when Bertola and Lemon singled. A two-out, bases-loaded walk to Battey then forced in their run. Duren, who hadn't worked more than three innings in one game this year, allowed just those two hits, walked two and struck out seven.

Grba (6-4) won it with three hitless innings. Turley gave up one single in his two frames.

The Yankees, riding their longest streak since they won 11 in 1956, beat Don Lee (8-7) with two runs in the second on a double by Dale Long, a triple by Johnny Blanchard and an error. Bill Skowron then rapped his 26th home run as a pinch-hitter leading off a three-run eighth.

Jim Gentile drove in five runs for the Orioles, who tagged 18 hits, including four homers, for their one-game scoring high this season. Skinny Brown (12-5) was the winner and Ike Delock (9-10) the loser.

Bunning (11-14) allowed nothing but singles, two by Sherrn Lollar, while pitching his third shutout this season. Early Wynn (13-11) lost it on a two-out wild pitch in the sixth inning.

Jerry Lumpe, who went 4-for-4, belted a home run and drove in two runs for the A's against loser Barry Laitman (7-7). Ray Herbert (13-15) won it with 3-1-3 innings of shutout relief by rookie Dave Wickersham.

The plot's beginning to perk up in the race for the National League batting title. There are just five days left, but here comes Willie.

While Norm Larker of Los Angeles and injured Dick Groat of Pittsburgh's champion Pirates are tied for the lead at .325, Willie Mays of the San Francisco Giants has climbed to .322 in his shot for a second title.

Groat has been sidelined since breaking his wrist September 6. He has only three games left. Larker has five, Willie four.

Groat, who expects to get back into the line-up against Milwaukee this weekend, returned as a pinch-runner as the Pirates defeated Cincinnati 4-3 in 16 innings Tuesday night. It was the longest game of the year in the majors and ended the champions' losing streak at three.

Larker was 1-for-2 and picked up a point for the first-place tie with Groat as the Dodgers beat the St. Louis Cardinals and 21-game winner Ernie Broglio 5-1. Mays gained two points with a double and two singles in four trips, driving in the Giants' run in a 3-1 loss to the Chicago Cubs.

Milwaukee retained a half-game edge over St. Louis for second money in the standings despite a 5-3 defeat at Philadelphia.

In the American League, the champion New York Yankees won their 11th in a row, 5-1 at Washington, as one-time relief ace Ryne Duren tied a modern record by striking out the first five men he faced in his first start in two years. Baltimore belted Boston 17-3 and gained a one-game edge over Chicago for second place as the White Sox lost 2-0 to Detroit. Kansas City beat Cleveland 5-4.

Dick Stuart walloped a three-run homer in the first inning for the Pirates, then opened the 16th with a double off loser Cal McLish (4-14) as they beat the Reds on a follow-up single by Dick Schofield.

Rookie Tommy Davis drove in four runs, three with his 10th homer, as the Dodgers clipped Broglio's winning streak at five. It was his eighth defeat. Roger Craig (8-3) was the winner, allowing five hits and striking out six. That gave the Los Angeles staff a total of 1,080, breaking the major league strikeout record the Dodgers set last season with 1,078.

Four unearned runs with two out in the eighth inning brought the Phils from behind against Milwaukee right-hander Joey Jay (9-8). Dick Farrell (11-16) was the winner in relief of Robin Roberts.

READY TO GO—Berney Morris, junior halfback, will be called on Friday night to assist in ending a Washington "jinx" held over Greenville footballers. Morris is a defensive specialist.

Elroy Face May Bring Buc's Wins In 1960 Series

By BEN OLAN
NEW YORK (AP) — World Series huddle with stories of brilliant feats by relief pitchers. Larry Sherry added the most recent chapter, leading Los Angeles to victory in 1959.

Elroy Face is most likely to put his name on the list as a result of the 1960 series opening a week from today in Forbes Field. Because the New York Yankees have little to match the consistently brilliant performances of the little Pittsburgh bull pen specialist, the Pirates' pitching staff is given the edge over the New York's.

Southpaw Bobby Shantz and Luis Arroyo have been the Yankees' top relief men. But neither is in the same class with Face, whose 10 victories is as many as Shantz and Arroyo have combined. Face is backed up by Clem Labine, a series veteran with the Dodgers, who turned in an outstanding job after being picked up as a free agent in mid-August.

On the surface, Pittsburgh also appears to have an edge as far as starting pitchers are concerned. The Pirates' big four has won 61 games and lost 38. Vernon Law has a 20-8 mark, Bob Friend is 17-12, Vinegar Bend Mizell 13-8 and Harvey Haddix 11-10.

The Yanks figure to go with Art Dimar (15-9), Whitey Ford (11-9), Bob Turley (9-3) and Ralph Terry (10-8). That's a combined record of 45-29.

TOUCHDOWN CLUB BUTTONS—Louis Clark (right), Touchdown Club president, is shown pinning the first button on ECC President Leo W. Jenkins. The buttons will be worn to all ECC games to identify club members.

TD Club To Sponsor Band Day October 22

Plans for sponsoring Band Day at an East Carolina College football game this fall and a short analysis of the future of ECC's athletic program, given by President Leo Jenkins, featured the first meeting of the Touchdown Club last night.

Louis Clark, new club president, presented arrangements for sponsoring Band Day at the college Oct. 22. It will be the Saturday East Carolina plays Newberry. Seven bands have already accepted invitations, according to Clark.

Dr. Jenkins, who was made an honorary member of the club last night, told the crowd, which numbered over 50, that ECC's athletic program was undergoing a "crucial period."

He pointed out that East Carolina could stay in the North State Conference and go along with a new de-emphasis program scheduled by the conference or it could become an independent school with hopes of gaining entrance into the Southern Conference. He noted that many problems lay ahead in both instances.

Jenkins complimented the work of the Touchdown Club and expressed hope of continued growth and support by the newest organization backing ECC's athletics.

Large buttons bearing the Touchdown Club insignia were presented to members to wear to the games. The buttons, designed by EC Coach Frank Madigan, are to be used in the promotion of the college's athletics and the Touchdown Club.

Coach Jack Boone commented on the Guilford game, predicting his team would be tougher each week, and introduced the team

Revamped Front Office For Sox

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Red Sox, experiencing one of their worst years, drastically and suddenly revamped their front office staff Tuesday.

Stanley R. (Bucky) Harris who came out of the Pennsylvania anthracite region and led Washington to a pennant in 1924 as boy manager and who has held numerous managerial and executive posts in baseball, was fired as general manager.

John J. Murphy, better known as "Grandma" when a stout relief pitcher for the New York Yankees, was fired as head of the Boston American League club's farm system.

Coach Bill McDonald, EC line coach, predicts a healthy Piland in 1960 could give ECC one of its all-time top linemen. "He has the potentials of becoming one of the best linemen in the state," quipped McDonald.

The Winton junior is relatively small for a tackle but compensates his weight problem with strength and speed.

Saturday, the defensive line for East Carolina stopped Guilford scoring threats no less than six times, saving the opening game victory. Leading the defensive prowess was Piland from his tackle slot.

ECC fans can expect to see a lot of brilliant line play from number 56 during the 1960 season.

PIRATE OF THE WEEK

By JOHNNY HUDSON
Reflector Sports Editor

Last fall Clayton Piland played in the shawdow of All-State tackle Ed Emory. This year Emory is gone and Piland appears headed for laurels on his own merits.

Following Saturday's 7-0 victory over Guilford, East Carolina coaches were beating the drums with publicity for the 195-pound junior tackle.

Piland is playing his first season as a starter but his role on the ECC squad has been noticed before. Last year he received an injury just prior to the ECC-Western Carolina game.

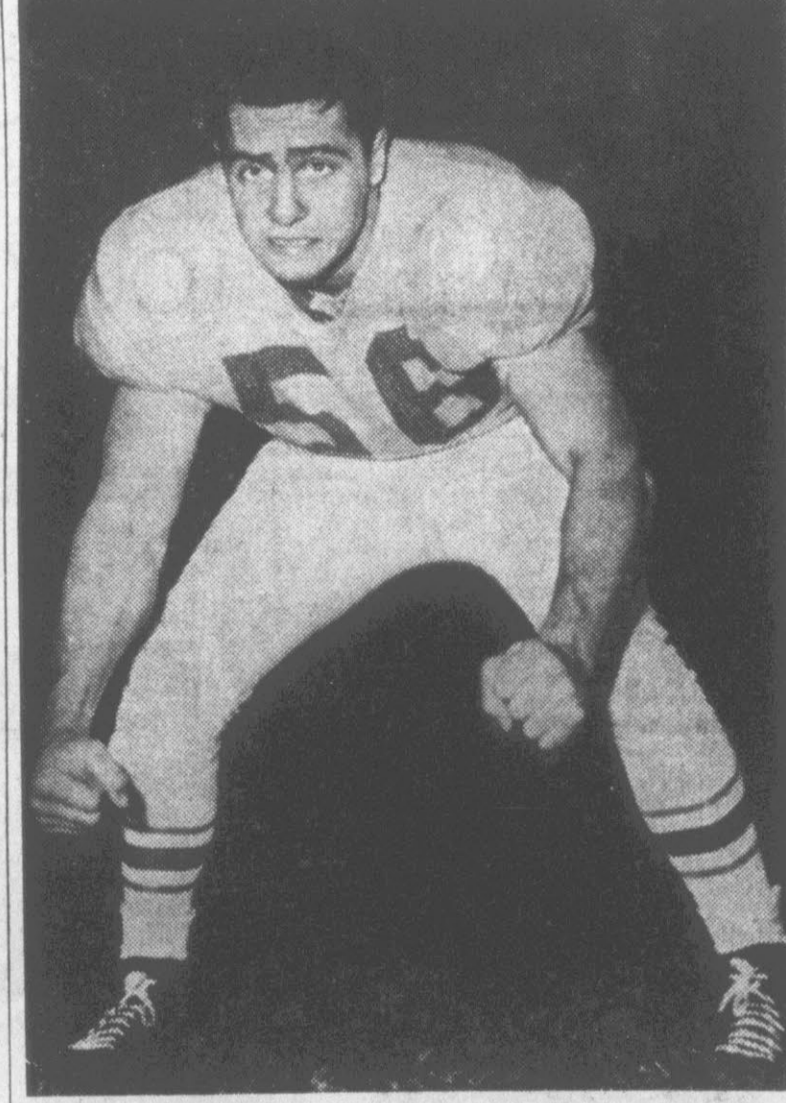

Without Piland and a couple other key reserves, ECC went into a tailspin, losing four straight. Lack of depth in the line due to injuries was described as reason for the slide of ECC's rock pile.

Coach Bill McDonald, EC line coach, predicts a healthy Piland in 1960 could give ECC one of its all-time top linemen. "He has the potentials of becoming one of the best linemen in the state," quipped McDonald.

Moorman, McGuirt Named AC Honors

RALEIGH (AP) — Duke end Claude (Tee) Moorman and Clemson halfback Bill McGuirt were selected today by the Associated Press as the outstanding linemen and back of the week in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

Moorman, 6-3, 212-pound senior from Miami, Fla., teamed with quarterback Don Altman to provide a devastating passing attack that carried Duke to a stunning 31-0 victory over South Carolina.

Moorman, swing or lonesome end in Duke's offense, caught 11 passes, two more than the old ACC game record, for 122 yards and one touchdown. A pre-med student, Moorman is president of the senior class.

He said modestly after the game, "I feel I was lucky to be on the receiving end 11 times. Our pass patterns were working fine and Altman could have thrown to others."

Duke Coach Bill Murray said Moorman "outmaneuvered their defenders." Moorman sustained a knee injury in the Pittsburgh game last season and missed the last six games.

McGuirt, 6-1, 204-pound sophomore of ancaster, S.C., nosed out Altman for back of the week honors. McGuirt scored touchdowns on plunges of 1, 2 and 1 yards in Clemson's 28-7 victory over Wake Forest.

In the fourth period, McGuirt intercepted a pass and returned it 24 yards to Clemson's 49 from where the Tigers went on to score their third touchdown. In the drive, he caught a 10-yard pass from quarterback Lowndes Shingler that gave Clemson a first down on Wake Forest's 19.

McGuirt had a net gain of 11 yards in nine tries. Clemson Coach Frank Howard called McGuirt's interception "extremely well played." He said the young sophomore "didn't let a receiver get behind him all day long and he played his position well on defense."

Jim Norris Renounces All Connections With Boxing

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

Associated Press Sports Writer CHICAGO (AP) — The Windy City has passed from the scene as a major professional boxing center with dissolution by millionaire Jim Norris of National Boxing Enterprises.

Television, which formed the financial foundation of his boxing empire, finally turned into a Frankenstein monster. The decision by the American Broadcasting Co. to drop the televised Wednesday night fights strangled the main source of revenue for NBE. An embittered Norris Tuesday renounced all connection with the sport.

Tonight, Eddie Perkins of Chicago meets Gene Gresham of Detroit in a 10-round lightweight bout in Chicago Stadium that ends a nine-year history of the Wednesday night fights feature.

"I'm sorry I never got into boxing," said Norris, owner of the Chicago Blackhawks hockey team a racing stable and part owner, with Arthur M. Wirtz, of the Chicago Stadium.

"I tried my best to bring good boxing to the public of America," continued Norris, who has been under congressional fire for alleged association with shady characters in boxing.

"My enemies—as vague as they were—beat me down. Our organization is quitting an impossible situation. Any usefulness or desire I had in boxing is gone. We put our heart, money and integrity into boxing only to get slapped down. Our belly is now full and we're quitting."

TV boxing will continue on Saturday nights—with most of the bouts in New York's Madison Square Garden—but the Chicago dynasty is dead.

"Death of the NBE is a knock-out blow to boxing in Illinois," said Frank Gilmer, chairman of the Illinois State Athletic Commission.

Norris said Chicago Stadium would be available for boxing promotions, but he didn't expect any topflight fights.

Norris organized the International Boxing Club in 1949 after buying controlling interest in Mike Jacobs 20th Century Boxing Club of New York. He set up headquarters at Chicago Stadium and Madison Square Garden and turned out two televised fights a week, on Wednesday and Friday.

The weekly double feature reportedly grossed $10 million a year at its height and averaged five championship bouts annually. Joe Louis was the figurehead, with Norris, Wirtz and Truman Gibson the back-scene powers.

The first Chicago Stadium TV show was Oct. 3, 1951, when Dave Sands defeated Bobo Olson in the first coast-to-coast televised bout. The first IBC promotion was the heavyweight championship fight between Ezzard Charles and Jersey Joe Walcott in Chicago's Comiskey Park, June 22, 1949.

Charles won. Eleven world title bouts were held in Chicago Stadium in the next seven years and sports' first darling of TV, Chuck Davey, was born. The last championship fight in Chicago Stadium was March 25, 1958, when Sugar Ray Robinson regained his middleweight crown from Carmen Basilio.

The Norris empire began crumbling in 1957 when the IBC was ruled a monopoly. The ruling was sustained in 1959 by the United States Supreme Court. The Norris-Wirtz holdings in Madison Square Garden had to be sold. Norris temporarily regrouped in Chicago with the NBE.

Thomas Lynch Jr. of South Carolina was only 26 years old when he signed the Declaration of Independence.

Richmond Has Faint Hopes Of Win Saturday

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"Naturally, we have hopes. We wouldn't make the trip if we didn't. But I'm afraid there are too many of them for us. They look too good."

The speaker is Ed Merrick, Richmond football coach. His subject: The Spiders' game at Lexington Saturday against VMI's Southern Conference champions.

Merrick watched VMI down Buffalo 28-14 last weekend, and he can go on and on ticking off the virtues of the undefeated Keydets.

If you think back a little, though, Merrick's words have a familiar ring. They're the same ones he was using last year at this time, on the week before the Richmond-VMI game at Portsmouth.

What happened then, of course, was that the Spiders went out and played the Keydets to a 14-14 tie. Only a last-minute touchdown saved VMI from defeat. Since then it has won nine games in a row.

The Spiders, trying to find a way to stop VMI speed, drilled on getting downfield under punts Tuesday. VMI, in the meantime, sought to improve a leaky pass defense that yielded 16 completions at Buffalo. The Keydets also stressed punt protection and held a dummy defensive drill against Richmond offenses.

At Davidson, Coach Bill Dole replaced his entire No. 1 backfield in preparation for the Wildcats' home game against The Citadel. Out went Tee Redding, Bob Cordie, Danny House and Lynwood Mallard. In came Kent Tucker, Grant McCorrie, Gerry Sheffield and Bob McAllister. All of which was Dole's way of showing displeasure over last week's 6-0 loss to Wofford.

George Washington's chances in its game at William and Mary dipped somewhat when injured quarterback Frank Pazzaglia, an expert passer, still favored his ailing leg in a light scrimmage. He may not play Saturday.

William and Mary worked on defense against the GW running game, then spent some time on pass defense. Don Vaught, Johnny Watkins, Bob Crabtree and Terry Strock got off long runs in Virginia Tech's full-speed scrimmage.

West Virginia tried out some new plays designed to add variety to its offense.

Charles W. Fick charged in the suit filed Tuesday that O'Malley's car bumped him while he was directing traffic at a Hollywood Park race track gate. Fick said he may be permanently disabled with injuries to his thigh and groin.

Terps Attempt Rebound With Surprising Duke

A Maryland football team on the rebound, a Duke football team fighting to avoid a letdown.

That might sum up this Saturday's meeting between the two Atlantic Coast Conference squads in Durham, N.C.

Maryland's rebound is from its 34-0 pounding by Texas. And Coach Tom Nugent will do his rebounding with lower classmen. He said Tuesday that end Vince Scott would be the only senior starting against Duke.

"We were worried about our wild-eyed sophomores" before Texas, Nugent says. "But instead, it was some of the seniors who blew up."

Duke, which opened with an impressive 31-0 win over South Carolina, isn't displaying its laurels. Coach Bill Murray had his charges working on defenses for Maryland's varied offense and also testing the Terps' defense.

Virginia's defense, which gave up 41 points last Saturday, got some polishing. Coach Dick Voris called for a full-speed scrimmage for his No. 1 defense crew. He said the Cavaliers would need to generate a high-powered offense to score on North Carolina State, a team with two wins already under its belt.

And in Raleigh, N.C. State worked on passing. Coach Earle Edwards had his No. 1 sinner, Roman Gabriel, and Tom Dellinger, Bill Kriger and Gerry Mancini doing the throwing. Edwards called for an improved offense this week when Virginia invades.

Maryland-Duke and Virginia-N.C. State round out conference feuding.

North Carolina, which kicks off the weekend at Miami, Fla., Friday night, may turn to the passing game. Coach Jim Hickey hinted, "Our idea may be to go to Miami and throw the ball."

Furman, idle Saturday, ran offensive plays against a number of defenses.

Tar Heels Cast In Losers Role Against Miami Friday

By HAROLD CLAASSEN

Associated Press Sports Writer NEW YORK (AP)—Football is a kicking game. If you don't believe it, just listen to some of the alumni. More of them will be grumbling after this week's games. Here are the winners:

Mississippi over Memphis State: This looks like a breeze for the Rebel team but Memphis State statistically, has the second-best offense in the nation. But it wasn't built up against teams of Mississippi's caliber.

Syracuse over Kansas: The score was close a year ago but Syracuse led the Big Eight team in first downs, 32-4. This is the TV morsel for this week.

Washington over Navy: The Huskies see this as a big step toward greater national recognition. The Middies' Joe Bellino will give the Washington fans fits, however.

Illinois over West Virginia: Johnny Easterbrook's passing to make molehills out of the Mountaineers.

Iowa over Northwestern: Dick Thornton, the Wildcats' big gun, is out with a leg injury.

Clemson over Virginia Tech: The Clemson line is one of the best in the south.

Ohio State over Southern California: The Buckeyes' new offensive will make the afternoon a miserable one for the McKeever winners.

Elsewhere: George Tech over Florida; Tennessee over Mississippi State; Purdue over Notre Dame; Texas over Texas Tech; Alabama over Vanderbilt; Penn State over Missouri.

Friday night Miami over North Carolina; Louisville over Bradley.

Saturday EAST: Boston University over Holy Cross, Colgate over Lehigh; Rutgers over Connecticut, Bucknell over Cornell, Penn over Dartmouth, Delaware over Amherst, Princeton over Columbia, Buffalo over Temple, Yale over Brown.

SOUTH: The Citadel over Davidson, Wake Forest over Florida State, Georgia over South Carolina, Auburn over Kentucky, Duke over Maryland, Mississippi Southern over West Texas State, North Carolina State over Virginia, Virginia Military over Richmond, William and Mary over George Washington, LSU over Baylor.

FAR WEST: Wyoming over Arizona, Army over California, Colorado State University over Brigham Young, Montana State over Wichita, Montana over Idaho, Oregon State over Houston, College of Pacific over Hawaii, Utah State over Denver, Oregon over Utah.

Matthews Scores TKO In Sixth

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Now that third-ranked lightweight Len Matthews and seventh-ranked Kenny Lane have scored impressive victories, their managers went about today making plans to line up top matches in efforts to further advance the boxers.

Tony Graziano, Matthews' manager, said he is trying to close a deal to match the 21-year-old Philadelphia in a Saturday night television fight against welterweight Gaspar Ortega in Madison Square Garden, New York. The tentative date is Oct. 22.

Matthews looked exceptionally sharp Tuesday night in scoring a decisive sixth-round technical knockout over Panama champion Jorge Quintero in 2:04 of the sixth round of a scheduled 10-rounder after flooring him twice in the round with hard left hooks.

Matthews weighed 139 pounds, and Quintero 142.

Lane, of Muskegon, Mich., who wasted no time in disposing of less experienced Sidney (Sweetpea) Adams of Philadelphia with a technical knockout in 2:58 of the first round of a scheduled 10 round co-feature, said he would like a shot at lightweight champion Joe Brown.

Lane fought Brown previously and dropped a decision.

East Carolina College spent a day of ironing out kinks and looking at Catawba offensive maneuvers yesterday afternoon.

The Bucs, seeking win number two this weekend, brushed up on their offense yesterday, adding a few wrinkles especially for Catawba.

The freshman team gave ECC's first two units a good look at Catawba's single-wing attack in a brief scrimmage session.

Bert Stafford, Dan Rouse, and Cary Parker handled the passing chores as the EC club gave its overhead game a good test.

Ayden's football team emphasized defense in a workout yesterday afternoon as it continued preparation for its game with Farmville Friday night.

William Harrington, Ted Norris and Emmitt Gibson stood out on offense in the afternoon scrimmage and Doug Carman, Dinky Mills, and Jimmy Persinger drew defensive praise.

The Ayden squad was reported in full strength for its game with Farmville Friday.

Youngster Learned To Ride Horses 'By The Book'

By ETHEL RYAN
A 13-year-old girl, Dale Steinmeyer, of Greenville, fell off a horse when she was little more than a toddler; dusted off her bruises and got back on to ride to phenomenal success in recent horse shows. She learned how to ride out of a book.

She entered her first competition last October in the show at LaGrange, presided over by the reputedly austere Judge Crenshaw, while still only 12, (her birthday is on Christmas day), and rode in four classes; coming out with three first place ribbons and one second place ribbon. Significantly, she got her second ribbon in her first class when, despite her calm demeanor, she confesses the butterflies in her stomach were doing a rumba. This was a Walk-Trot Pleasure class. Later, after she took first in the Equitation class (where only a small percentage of the honor goes to the horse and real emphasis is placed on the rider) she went on to cop first place in the Walk-Trot Pleasure Championship and repeated top honors in the Equitation Championship.

Nobody was more surprised than Dale. Many experienced adults with ribbons from past horse shows to testify to their prowess, came over to congratulate the dazed child who had garnered honors they had hoped to get. She exclaimed: "Thank you. Thank you. I don't know how it happened. I never expected to win anything at my first horse show. I just thought it would be fun."

According to Judge David T. Lambeth, of Lumberton who judged her next two appearances at horse shows, in Greenville and Washington (in the latter she rode in four events and took four firsts) Dale is a natural. She has never had a riding lesson in her short life and does not come from a family given to the sport of horseback riding. Her mother, the former Betty Rose Ramsaur of Lumberton, never rode a horse in her life, and the nearest she ever got to it was covering an occasional nearby horse show for a down east weekly newspaper when she was its society editor. Dale's father, Charles E. Steinmeyer, a native of Philadelphia, Pa., and currently a tile contractor in Greenville, loves horses and enjoys riding for pleasure; but does not have time to ride and has never owned a horse of his very own.

His daughter has been more fortunate. She owns her horse and rides daily as well as in shows. Dale adores animals. She has from infancy owned pets (cats, dogs, goldfish, etc.) and for her 11th birthday, after what would amount to nagging in a less well-mannered child, her parents gave her a horse. It was to be just a pet, like the cat that was perpetually having kittens to her young mistress's delight and her highly pedigreed blonde Cocker Spaniel, named Honey Girl and to whom Dale is devoted and to whom she gives a great deal of intelligent training.

Riding is popular with the younger set in Greenville, and the Steinmeyers were concerned with getting a horse for their daughter that was reliable, broke to riding, gentle and a safe mount for a child. They ended up with a mare; mature, slightly on the emaciated side, named LuLuLane, which they bought from George Clapp who runs a riding academy in Greenville. He had bought the horse from a farmer. Prior to this LuLu's past life was an unknown quantity to her new owner.

Horse friends who came out to see Dale's birthday horse felt to a terrific bargain; for they saw evidences of fine blood and good breeding in the animal. Dale began to suspect that her parents had talents as horse traders and that she owned a better horse than they had bought her. An enterprising young gal (she is currently in an accelerated class of the eighth grade taking two additional ninth grade subjects) she began to trace down LuLu's background. To her delight she turned up a pedigree and a series of impressive ownership, among which was Junius Grimes of Washington. She wrote Grimes who was very helpful in tracing back LuLu's ancestry. Through his efforts the child learned that LuLu had been trained and used as a show horse by the original owner, the debutante daughter of a Texas oil tycoon.

Dale had been taught to take full care of all her pets, so she made no exception of her newly acquired show horse. She exhausted the books on horses available at the library and then began to spend her allowance on books on show horses and show riding. Whatever attainment toward perfection the judges now see in her riding, she says is the result of studying the books diligently.

The stable is about three miles from the house, and except during school days Dale makes the trip every morning. She feeds, grooms, trains and takes full care of her horse, which includes keeping its quarters clean. Each morning she rides with young friends three or four miles. In winter when school attendance precludes the morning visit to LuLu, a colored man feeds the horse its breakfast, which consists of oats.

"I spoiled her a little at first," says Dale, "but I'm learning to take a firmer hand with her—for when Judge Lambeth judged the show at Greenville, he told me LuLu was a little headstrong, and that you had to have complete control over a horse that was going to get itself or you anywhere in shows. He explained that even though my parents loved me very much when I was bad they spanked me, so I would learn to behave, and that I wouldn't be nearly as nice and sensible a girl now if they hadn't adore showing, and I'm in it for keeps, so I've made up my mind that I may as well see to it that LuLu always puts her best foot forward."

Reading is Dale's favorite subject in school and her favorite hobby out of school. She considers herself an average good student. She enjoys several other sports besides riding. These include golf, badminton, tennis (which she hasn't "mastered" yet), and swimming, which she "loves."

One of her birthday presents was a tiled swimming pool in her back yard. She learned to dance last year.

"Dating," she says "isn't popular in Greenville with the girls in our crowd. We like parties and boys, but we usually meet at the home of our hostess, and then the boys come for the party or dancing. Our parents usually call for us and take us home."

One of her favorite parties was the one she gave, herself, for Honey Girl last spring on the dog's second birthday. The guest list included her closets friends and their pet dogs. Honey Girl prefers horses to dogs; got bored before the party was over and retired to her tack box in the sunparlor. But the girls and boys and the visiting dogs had barrels of fun. The refreshments were cold and hot dogs.

Dale's most ambitious competition to date was the horse show at Rocky Mount, May 21, last, which was judged by Jerry B. Thornton, of Bradfordsville, Ky. In this she took first in the three events in which she rode—these being the Children's Pleasure class, the Equitation class and the Equitation Champion class.

She is currently training for her biggest show to date, the one to be held at Wilson, Sept. 24 and 25. She has already proved that her talents still works in the show old Sunday, Sept. 4, at Bethel, where she got a first, a second and two reserve championships.

Dale says she's mighty glad she got back on and rode the horse that threw her, back when she was barely out of kindergarten. It was a large pony, really. It stumbled, fell, and she went over its head. Ever since she's been head over heels in love with horses.

Kingston Trio Is Settling Down

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—No act in show business today is hotter than the Kingston Trio, three young men who refuse to act like show people.

Mind you, they're not square. They're as hep as any collegiates, which they were three years ago. But they refuse to be swept away by their whirlwind success.

Their success is already a legend. That their "String Along" is the No. 1 selling album should surprise no one; they have already earned four gold records for albums (sales over 500,000). A week ago, they headlined a concert at the Hollywood Bowl which drew $110,000 for two performances.

The trio — Dave Guard, Nick Reynolds and Bob Shane—were at Republic Studios to film commercials for a soft drink firm. Their pay: approximately $225,000 for 12 one-minute films.

The last I had seen of them was when they had smashed to fame with a song about a hapless lad named Tom Dooley. Has success spoiled the Kingstons? The answer is no.

Far from going Hollywood, all three have married and live in the San Francisco Bay area.

"We like it up there; it's stimulating," Nick explained. "We used to be on the road all the time. But now we're doing more concerts instead of long stands. If we get three days off, we can fly home. We're home about three months of the year now."

At home they lead normal suburban lives and don't even subscribe to Variety. Their standards have caused them to pass up a sizable amount of loot that could be gained from Las Vegas and Hollywood.

"We've been offered up to $25,000 to play Vegas," Dave remarked. "But we can make that much playing three nights of concerts to people who want to hear us, not the jaded Vegas crowd."

"There have been picture offers too," Bob added. "But they want us to come on the screen for two or three numbers and then get lost. Who needs it?"

From Now On, Diapers A 'Must'

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP)—"They are running loose and one of them's naked," cried the woman on the telephone to a Richland county deputy sheriff.

Two deputies went to investigate in nearby Forest Acres and found the culprits—age 3 and 1½. One, playing beside the road, wore training pants. The other wore nothing.

The runaway were returned to their anxious parents and this footnote added to the sheriff's department offense report:

"From now on, all deputies will carry clean diapers."

The population of Johannesburg, South Africa, is 1,052,600.

Elvis Presley Is Now Homeowner

MEMPHIS (AP)—Elvis Presley is now sole owner of his $100,000 Memphis mansion, Graceland.

When the rock 'n' roll singer bought the place several years ago he included his father and his late mother in the deed.

Now, records show the property has been "quit claimed" to Elvis with his father, Vernon Presley, giving up his interest for $10 and "other good and valuable considerations."

Vernon Presley, 46, recently remarried. The quit claim removes him from any possible legal connection with the mansion.

A Mount Holyoke College student wrote of Thanksgiving Day, 1948, "We had the privilege of sleeping as long as we wished in the morning, providing we were ready for breakfast at 8 o'clock."

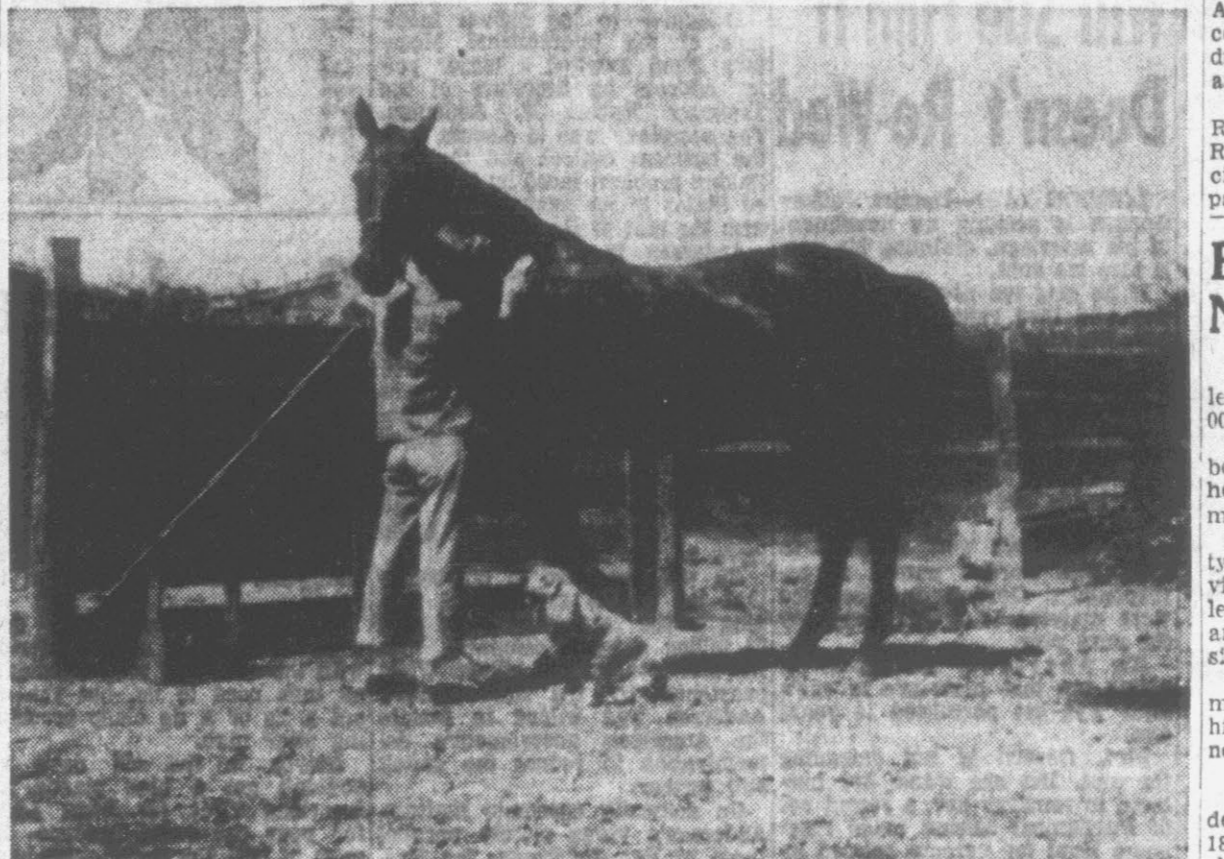

Much Trouble For A Lost Pet

BUFFALO, Wyo. (AP)—The Tom Wardall family of Wichita, Kan., must like its pet cat.

When Wardall stopped at a Buffalo service station, the cat strayed away, and couldn't be found.

Wardall asked radio station KBBS to broadcast an alert for the pet and to instruct the finder to wire him in Wichita.

The cat was found and Wardall was notified. He drove nearly 1,000 miles back to Buffalo to retrieve the pet—and gave the finder a $40 reward.

'61 CHEVY TRUCKS

WITH WORK-PROVED
INDEPENDENT FRONT SUSPENSION!

WORTH MORE BECAUSE THEY WORK MORE!

Chevy's '61 fleet swings in with a ready-made reputation as the trucks that are worth more because they work more...the latest editions of the haulers that scrapped the I-beam axle and proved the important advantages of independent front suspension!

You'll find new models in the '61 fleet—lower priced, long-wheelbase 4-wheel drive trucks—and thoughtful refinements throughout the line. But the big news for '61 is nailed-down proof (based on actual owner reports) that Chevrolet's torsion-spring design is the best thing that's happened to trucks in decades!

With Chevy's independent front suspension and Sturdi-Bilt design, you cruise over trails where other trucks creep. You feel the difference in less wheel fight and vibration. You can see why drivers are happier, why loads are better protected and why the truck itself will stand up to thousands of miles of more work. That goes for any size Chevy, too—pickups, tilt cabs, tandems, all of them.

Check the latest specs with your Chevrolet dealer: capacity, power teams, options, the works. Then, by all means, drive a '61. Once around your Chevrolet dealer's block and you'll never be satisfied with a front axle truck again!

Whip this Fleetside over a rutted road and find out what torsion springs are all about!

Castro Going Home Today, Leaves UN Scene As A Tarnished Warrior

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press news Analyst

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Fidel Castro goes home today—and so far as his reputation as a statesman is concerned, he should have stayed home in Havana.

He may still be a hero to his revolutionary cohorts at home, but in the eyes of many a delegate to the 96-member U.N. General Assembly, Castro is leaving this country a somewhat battered warrior.

The United States did well by itself Tuesday night. To Castro's interminable tirade of almost five hours, in which he accused the United States of responsibility for every woe Cuba ever suffered, U.S. Ambassador James J. Wadsworth gave a deliberately soft, calm reply.

That reply gave the representatives of the world's nations the impression of an understanding, tolerant uncle soothing a badly spoiled child.

Castro came off second best, by all odds. Nobody doubts that the bearded one came to New York with the intention of doing as much damage as possible to the United States. He missed his goal by a wide margin.

U. N. delegates, assessing the impact of the Cuban prime minister's debut before the world organization, indicated they thought Castro might even have created sympathy for the United States where little sympathy had existed before.

It usually is not difficult for a Latin-American speaker to win an attentive audience with an attack on the United States. Among the neighbors to the south there frequently is a certain amount of secret—or even open—satisfaction in watching rich Uncle Sam take it on the chin from one of his less fortunate Latin relatives.

This latent anti-Yankee feeling has been Castro's political capital in Latin America, where he still charms many among the masses and raises hopes among those of the extreme left. But he has frightened many, too, among them the men who at the present time are running Latin America's other governments and domestic affairs. He deepened their fright with his U.N. appearance.

Castro's speech obviously failed to arouse enthusiasm for his violent themes among Latin American delegations. Only the Communists, cheerfully led by Nikita Khrushchev, and an isolated few others joined in bursts of applause for the Cuban's meandering, scatter-shot attack on the United States.

Delegates of young African nations, with a sort of fascination looked on amazed while Castro spoke their interest in Castro as a potential neutralist seemed to fade. As for the veteran representatives from Asia and western Europe, the onlooker could almost feel a sense of shock among them at the burlesque appearance and approach of a man purporting to be a statesman.

How Castro looked to the Communists is not important. Whatever Khrushchev and the Communists think of him in private, they will lionize him publicly as a hero. For the Communists, Castro is a satisfactorily usable young man. That is all that counts to them.

Will Sue Him If Doesn't Re-Wed

LONDON (AP)—Dentist Jeffrey Gordon is seeking an annulment of his marriage, claiming his wife is also his aunt.

If he gets the divorce court action and then refuses to remarry her, Beatrice Gordon says she will sue her husband for breach of promise.

The dentist is Mrs. Gordon's second husband. Her first was Mervyn Snipper, the brother of her present husband's mother. That made her Gordon's aunt by marriage.

The Snippers were divorced in 1945, with Gordon named as co-respondent. Gordon and Beatrice were married at a civil ceremony the next year.

His petition for annulment points out that marriage to one's aunt was not permitted 14 years ago.

Mrs. Gordon is not defending the suit. But she wants her husband to remarry her, a recent act of Parliament having made marriage legal for persons related by other than blood.

Just to be sure, Mrs. Gordon has filed suit for damages from her husband, claiming breach of promise.

"If he won't remarry me, I shall proceed with my action," she said.

Odd Campaign Song Is Awaiting

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson, wife of the Democratic vice presidential nominee, comes to Kentucky next week and will be greeted by perhaps one of the oddest campaign songs ever.

It doesn't say anything about political candidates, doesn't mention a political party, and doesn't urge anybody to vote for anything or anybody.

As a sample, the first stanza says: "I keep my eyes on the skies With dreams about Lady Bird. Her radiant glow is there, I know— It always gleams about Lady Bird."

Has To Give Up One Of Offices

NASHVILLE, Ga. (AP)—A bachelor lawyer, who "just kept on running," has had to give up one of the two offices he won in this year's elections.

H. W. Lott, 35, notified state officials he was resigning as state representative from Berrien County, a $750-a-year post he won in a local primary in March. He is going to keep the Superior Court judgeship he won in the Sept. 14 Democratic primary.

The language of West Africa is Hausa, which is spoken by about 15 million people.

World Finance Leaders Eyeing U.S. Prospects

WASHINGTON (AP)—Financial leaders from more than 60 free world countries today focused their attention on the uncertain business situation in the United States.

Delegates to the annual meetings of the International Monetary Fund awaited a major policy address by Secretary of the Treasury Robert B. Anderson. The secretary was to discuss both the business outlook and the continuing problem faced by the United States in its financial dealings with the rest of the world.

Anderson is known to believe that the current mixed trends in the economy represent a "rolling readjustment" to greater price stability and increased foreign competition. He does not believe that the nation is headed into a recession, although some economists say one is already under way.

As for the continuing deficit in this country's transactions with other nations, Anderson again looks at the bright side.

He was prepared to emphasize that the deficit currently is running at the rate of no more than $3 billion a year, compared with the 1959 total of $3.8 billion. While heartened by the improvement, Anderson was willing to restate the American government's determination to reduce the deficit still further.

On domestic economic matters, Anderson's views closely parallel those of Per Jacobsson, the Swedish economist who is managing director of the International Monetary Fund. Jacobsson told a weekend news conference he expects the U.S. economy to remain relatively stable at high levels.

Even in his view, the nation is "learning to live without inflation." He said he sees an adjustment period in which there is neither boom nor bust.

The major development at Tuesday's sessions was a pledge by West Germany to increase its assistance to the underdeveloped countries.

Ludwig Erhard, West Germany's minister of economics, said his country has completed its postwar reconstruction and now can "undertake in larger measure to cooperate energetically in the extensive work of development aid."

Doctors Advise Quads Coming

DETROIT, Mich. (AP)—The quadruplets doctors say she is expecting have left Margaret Mary Guinnane of suburban Highland Park wondering how she will handle all the diapers and nursing bottles.

Mrs. Guinnane, 30, mother of two children, is a tiny woman—4 feet 11 and weighing 104 pounds. Her physician, Dr. Joseph Watts, placed Mrs. Guinnane in a hospital Sunday as a precautionary measure.

The quadruplets are expected Dec. 5, Dr. Watts said. Mrs. Guinnane and her husband Gerard, 29, a $68-a-week employee of a machinery manufacturing company, were married in their native England. Their two children—Stephen, 5, and Anthony, 7,—were born there.

In Swahili, an African language, a "mama" is a mama, but a "pap" is a shark.

Paraphernalia Of U. S. Politics Changes Little

By MARTHA COLE
WASHINGTON (AP)—The political paraphernalia of America changes little through the years.

These days maybe you don't wear a celluloid collar inscribed with the names of your candidates as men used to do, but you can get a tie or a tie clasp proclaiming your man.

Maybe in the old days you couldn't get a blue plastic flag inscribed "Pat for First Lady" for your car radio antenna. But even in 1800 you could get a hand-painted banner bearing a portrait of Thomas Jefferson.

Nothing has changed fundamentally since 1840, when the American presidential campaign emerged in its present form.

The main changes are more or less technical," said Dr. Wilcomb E. Washburn, curator of political history at the Smithsonian Institution.

The purpose of all the buttons, banners, balloons, photographs, symbols, slogans and hoopla remains the same—to project a favorable image of the candidate.

In the 1840s it may have been a metal token. Dr. Washburn said. When photography was developed, hundreds of thousands of pictures of the candidates were distributed. The played much the same role that television does now in getting the candidate's face known.

That 1840 campaign between Martin Van Buren and William Henry Harrison was a humdinger. The campaign symbol appeared with the miniature log cabin and cider barrel for Harrison.

Come on down through the years with symbols—the axe and rails for Abraham Lincoln, the plumed knight of James G. Blaine in 1840, the beaver hat of Benjamin Harrison in 1892, the gold and silver bugs of 1896 in the silver-gold issue, the red handkerchief or the rough rider hat of Theodore Roosevelt in 1904, the sunflower for Alf Landon in 1936, the worn-out shoe sole for Adlai Stevenson in 1956.

This year Democrats are wearing miniature PT boats for John F. Kennedy, who commanded one during the World War II.

This year the Republicans are putting the slogan "Experience counts" on their banners and posters. The Democrats are trying "Leadership for the 60s."

Going backward through history there were I Like Ike, the Fair Deal, the New Deal, We Want Willie, Keep Cool with Coolidge, the New Freedom of Woodrow Wilson, the "Cross of Gold" of William Jennings Bryan, Tippecanoe and Tyler, too. It hasn't changed much at all.

Work Will Be Completed On Idle Housing Projects

WASHINGTON (AP)—Work will be completed on a housing project at Camp Lejeune, N.C., and similar programs at six other military installations if the Federal Housing Administration is assigned mortgages on the projects.

Graham McGowan, general counsel of the FHA, revealed the government agency's plans here Tuesday. The $50 million construction program, involving 3,400 units, bogged down last May following a dispute between builder Hal Hayes of Hollywood, Calif., and other parties to the housing contracts.

The projects are insured by the FHA, but are entangled in a maze of lawsuits involving Hayes, subcontractors, banks and bonding companies.

Companies holding mortgages on the properties have an option of demanding completion of the project from the surety company, Casualty Co. of Chicago, or assigning the mortgages to FHA from 20-year debentures equal to the full amount of the mortgages. No decisions have been made yet by the companies holding the mortgages.

Hayes, a native of Caldwell County, N.C., became embroiled in a dispute last May as he neared completion of a project at Beale Air Force Base, Calif. The FHA would not close out the contractual obligations, claiming $59,000 in unpaid bills remained outstanding on the project plus a $200,000 lien against the project by a materials supplier.

Eventually, Hayes halted work at seven military bases—including Camp Lejeune. The builder contended he was made a "scapegoat" by the FHA because it approved construction of more housing units than were authorized.

McGowan said an estimated $30 million would be needed to complete the stalled military projects. He said $25 million of original mortgage money is available and if the FHA assumes the obligation it will seek the balance from Hayes' surety holder, Casualty Co. of Chicago.

Sixty-Six Students Of Music In College Choir

Sixty-six students of music at East Carolina College have become members of the College Choir, organization of talented men and women vocalists.

Under the direction of Gordon A. Johnson of the department of music, choir members have begun rehearsals for a series of programs during the 1960-1961 term. Tentative plans include several appearances at the college and two tours, one in the eastern section and one in the western part of North Carolina.

Mr. Johnson, a faculty member at East Carolina since 1959, became director of the College Choir this fall. He is a graduate of Milwaukee State Teachers College, Milwaukee, Wis., and the Eastman School of Music, Rochester, N.Y., and is now working toward the doctor's degree in music education at Michigan State University, Lansing, Mich. He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa.

As a teacher of music he has held positions in the public schools of Williamston, N. Y., and at Alpena Community College, Alpena, Michigan. At Michigan State University he served as a graduate assistant.

Pitt student members of the College Choir are: Fatsy Roberts, Farmville; Barbara Phillips, Grifton; Anne Fodrie, Barbara Wilson, H. Franklin Steinbeck, Ronnie Finch, and Kenneth Ginn, all of Greenville.

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market spurted to the upside after four days of decline, leaving the list slightly in slow trading early afternoon.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .40 to 206.10 with the industrials up .86, the rails up .70 and the utilities down .10.

Gains of fractions to about a point outnumbered losers.

After a ragged start, the market rallied with the ticker tape late briefly.

The rally preceded publication of a speech by Treasury Secretary Robert B. Anderson in which he said the United States is nearing the end of a recession-type adjustment which paves the way for a long period of growth without inflation.

Anderson also said the United States will not change the price of gold. The gold shares, which have been advancing in recent sessions, backed down rather sharply.

Most steels, autos, drugs, building materials, rails, electronics and oils made gains. Chemicals, airlines and nonferrous metals were mixed.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 1.18 to 375.99. Corporate bonds were mixed. U.S. government bonds showed little change.

Mobutu Invites See No Recourse Political Chiefs But Holding Base

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—Col. Joseph Mobutu dispatched 26 of his aides today into the provinces to invite political leaders to a roundtable conference that he hopes will end weeks of government chaos.

Among the scheduled air stops at the Congo's biggest cities is Elisabethville, where Mobutu's mission will try to persuade Moïse Tshombe, premier of secessionist Katanga Province, to join the roundtable next week.

Mobutu indicated that, if his mission there fails, he himself may go to Elisabethville to talk Tshombe into joining the conference.

The roundtable has the blessing of Premier-designate Joseph Ileo. Ileo was named to head the government by President Joseph Kasavubu after the president fired Premier Patrice Lumumba. Ileo has not yet been approved by Parliament.

Mobutu, 29, the Congo's strong man, has made several efforts recently to achieve a reconciliation with Lumumba, but apparently with little success. Lumumba has been insisting on reconciliation on his terms—namely, retention of his premiership.

The Communist-supported Lumumba refuses to admit he has been fired and still lives grandly in the premier's luxurious riverside residence.

Claim Effort To Abrogate Treaty

BONN, Germany (AP)—Western officials said today the Soviet Union is trying to pronounce the four-power occupation status of Berlin dead. The Western aides said they would not accept this attempt.

"We refuse to recognize the right of anyone unilaterally to abrogate the Berlin agreements," one official said.

Diplomats from the United States, Britain and France declined to comment officially on a Soviet note published Tuesday night. But it was clear from private conversations they took a very serious view of it.

"We feel," a French official said, "that this is the first time the Soviet Union has said so clearly the four-power status of Berlin is dead."

"It looks at first sight as if something very important has happened," he added.

The Soviet note said Communist East Germany has "full authority and freedom (involving) the whole of the territory lying under its sovereignty, including its capital."

The Communists consider East Berlin the capital of East Germany. Thus the Soviets were taking an unequivocal position that they no longer occupy East Berlin under the occupation agreement and that the Western powers and West Germany must deal with the East Germans where East Berlin is concerned.

The Soviet note, addressed to the United States, Britain and France, did not appear to be aimed at driving the Western powers from West Berlin. At one point it said that the three Western powers were "responsible for the situation in West Berlin."

Henry Armstrong, the pastor. Burial will be in the churchyard. The body will remain at the home and will be taken to the church one hour prior to the time of service.

Mr. Wiggins, son of the late Augustus A. and Ellen Morris Wiggins, spent all his life near Vanceboro, where he was a farmer. He was a member of Juniper Chapel Free Will Baptist Church.

Nixon Says U.S. Must Do Better Than In The Past

NEW YORK (AP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon said today the United States must present the case for the free world to underdeveloped nations "better than we've done in the past."

The Republican presidential nominee spoke in answer to questions from editors at a breakfast meeting of the Magazine Publishers Association before going to Long Island for a day of campaigning.

Nixon said the Communist world is telling the people of Asia, Africa, South America and the Near East that they need a change and that the Western world wants to maintain the status quo.

"We have to recognize that holding the line against communism is not enough," he said.

Nixon's effort to garner New York's 45 electoral votes came as he adopted an increasingly tough tone toward his Democratic rival.

The vice president slugged away verbally at Sen. John F. Kennedy Tuesday in Tennessee and West Virginia.

At Charleston, W. Va., Tuesday night, for instance, he accused Kennedy of having made a "false statement" that 17 million Americans go to bed hungry every night. Nixon called it "grist for the Communist propaganda mill" and demanded Kennedy retract it.

Nixon charged that responsibility for not getting action on a bill for the relief of the distressed areas of West Virginia and other states "rests squarely on the Democratic presidential candidate."

That charge was made before a crowd in the Charleston armory that observers said exceeded a turnout for Kennedy eight days earlier.

Immediately afterwards, in an impromptu talk to others who overflowed into an adjoining building, Nixon repeated a previous claim that Kennedy's campaign promises would boost federal spending $13 to $18 billion a year.

"This $13 to $18 billion isn't Jack's money," Nixon said of his opponent, the son of a millionaire. "It's your money he is spending."

"I know what it means to meet a family budget at the end of the month," Nixon continued, "and what a tremendous effort it is for most folks to pay their taxes and meet their bills."

That is why, Nixon told them, he, Nixon, is not trying "to buy the people's votes with their own money."

Earlier, to a big and rain-soaked crowd on the Mississippi riverfront at Memphis, Tenn., also bigger than when Kennedy spoke there, Nixon voiced support of the GOP civil rights plank and said he talked the same about it in the South as in the North, East and West.

He regret that my opponent, since his nomination, has not done that," Nixon continued. "But I intend to continue to do it because it is my responsibility."

Nixon, saying he was "feeling fine," campaigned with unusual vigor Tuesday, standing in a downpour of rain at both Memphis and West Memphis, Ark., where he also spoke.

He laughed at suggestions that he looked "a little drawn" in his face-to-face television meeting with Kennedy at Chicago Monday night. He said his wife, Pat, "didn't think I looked haggard."

Nixon's doctor, Hugh Pritchard of Long Beach, Calif., said the candidate is in "excellent health."

Dozens Of Cities Ask Air Service At CAB Hearing

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Civil Aeronautics Board today heard appeals from dozens of cities for improved transcontinental air transportation across the southern tier of states.

Leading off in the final day of three days of arguments before the board were representatives of various Southern areas.

Lee Wagener, speaking for the Broward County, Fla., Board of Commissioners, urged that Fort Lauderdale be made an intermediate point, rather than a co-terminal with Miami, on coast-to-coast routes to California.

Tom Castle, Gainesville, Fla., radio station operator, asked that Eastern Airlines be authorized to fly passengers coast to coast. He said Eastern proposes four flights daily from Jacksonville, while National Airlines, recommended for the route by a board examiner, would provide only two non-direct flights to the West.

Rep. Robert T. Ashmore, D-S.C., also urged that Eastern Airlines be authorized for transcontinental service. He said Eastern serves the industrial areas of Greenville, Spartanburg and Anderson which deserves one-carrier transportation to the West.

Counsel for the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, William D. Rogers, said both Eastern and Delta airlines are serving Puerto Rico and would be able to draw on its sizeable passenger contribution to a transcontinental route from Florida or New Orleans. He asked that the board not require passengers from Puerto Rico to the West Coast to make a stop at Dallas or Houston.

Charlotte, N.C., was represented by James M. Verner. He asserted that Charlotte stands to lose under the recommendations of the examiner if the interchange of equipment arrangement now operated by connecting airlines is eliminated.

Under the proposal of the examiner, Charlotte area residents, he said, would be "saddled with a mandatory stop in Atlanta" in flying to the West. He urged that the board authorize a more direct routing for Charlotte, noting that it serves as a gateway for numerous cities in North Carolina and Virginia.

economic structure of our society.

(5) "He should have a desire to respect the law and accept civic responsibility.

(6) "Finally, he should be religiously literate. This last goal may appear to be outside the realm of public education, but it definitely is not."

On religious education, Dr. Jenkins pointed out, "Although we recognize and respect the theory of separation of church and state, the schools, nevertheless, have the responsibility not only of encouraging students to worship God, but also of helping them to appreciate the great contribution made by religion to the American way of life and Western civilization."

No Undue Burden

The college president declared, "I believe we are not putting an undue burden on the public schools by expecting them to assume this much of the training needed by a person who dares to call himself educated. The good schools in the state are already doing this," he said.

"We are fortunate in learning, before it is too late, that survival and education are related," Dr. Jenkins said. "This discovery has caused our thinking citizens to become more sympathetic to the tasks which public educators face."

He declared, "They know that we as a people must run desperately in order to stand still. They know we must run heroically ... to make progress."

He asserted, "We know that there is a growing wish and demand ... for quality education." To achieve "this great objective," he said, "We must go beyond curriculum and instill a love for achievement and knowledge and understanding. Our schools are not going to become truly great unless dedication and devotion to quality education are manifest by all of us."

Following Dr. Jenkins' address, 10 study groups with discussion leaders from the ECC faculty and public schools held meetings during the afternoon to discuss, "What makes a good school?"

Program Adopted

A six-point program for "better public schools" was proposed by Henry Belk, Goldsboro newspaper editor, and unanimously adopted by the committee.

It provides for study by Parent-Teacher Association groups of the State Curriculum Study, local evaluation of schools by the recommendations in the study, a reasonable limitation of time spent on extra-curricular activities, scheduling of basketball games on Friday nights only, fewer extra duties for teachers, and encouragement of parents to get children to school "every day, on time, and with lessons prepared."

Herring, concluding the day's program, pointed out in his address that quality education is essential to the state and also to the nation "if the United States is to assume and maintain a position of world leadership."

He said, "The safety of the country and the future of the world depend on the kind of education we have."

Feeder Pig Sale Slated Thursday At Fair Grounds

County Agent C. J. Goodman announced today a feeder pig sale set for 1 p.m. tomorrow at the Pitt County Fair Grounds.

Sponsored by the Pitt County Livestock Development Association, Inc., tomorrow's sale is for feeder pigs from farms inspected and found to be free of contagious or infectious swine diseases for a period of 90 days.

All pigs sold are field inspected, vaccinated, wormed, castrated and healed, and healthy, thrifty growing pigs from 40 to 125 pounds.

Goodman pointed out today, "Many farmers can use these pigs for cleaning fields of corn that cannot be harvested by mechanical pickers" due to hurricane damage.

Succeeding feeder pig sales have been scheduled for Nov. 3, Dec. 1, Jan. 5, Feb. 2, March 2, April 6, May 4, and June 1.
