Prisoner's Brother Jailed Following Two Accidents

Two highway accidents Saturday night led to the arrest of a man identified as the brother of a prisoner facing trial for manslaughter on multiple charges.

Theodore Roosevelt Dixon, 22-year-old Negro of Rt. 2, Box 258B, Farmville, has been arrested and charged with hit-and-run involving personal injury, driving under the influence of alcohol and leaving the scene of an accident.

The hit-and-run charge resulted from the injury of Willie Pridgen, 83-year-old Negro of Rt. 1, Box 380, Greenville.

The other charges resulted when a truck allegedly driven by Dixon overturned on U. S. 258 one mile north of Farmville.

Pit. Luther Long said Dixon is the brother of Frank Dixon, Rt. 1, Washington, who is awaiting trial in Superior Court on charges of manslaughter. That charge resulted from a wreck in which a nine-month-old infant was killed Sept. 18.

Both men were in Pitt County Jail this morning.

Long said Theodore Dixon's bond has been set at $500.

The accident in which Pridgen was injured occurred at 6:40 p.m. Saturday. Pridgen told investigating patrolman H. R. Winslow he was riding his bicycle on U. S. 264 about seven miles west of Greenville, when he was hit by a flat body truck. Pridgen received a compound leg fracture. The vehicle involved did not stop.

At 11:45 p.m. Pit. Luther Long was called to investigate a truck wreck on U. S. 258 one mile north of Farmville. He said a truck overturned at the scene.

A motorist came to the wreck scene with Dixon in his car, according to Long. The motorist told the patrolman he had picked up Dixon on the highway following the accident.

Long said Dixon was questioned at the Farmville Police Station. Dixon first admitted, then later denied he was involved in the accident in which Pridgen was injured.

Kennedy Denies Nixon Claim Of Identical Goals

ALTON, Ill. (AP)—Sen. John F. Kennedy, who has suddenly developed into an oratorical slugger, sharpened his attack on Vice President Richard M. Nixon today as he hunted votes in Illinois.

Kennedy compared Nixon with President William McKinley and said the vice president talked nonsense when he says Republicans and Democrats save the same goals for America.

It began as a gloomy, drizzly day, but the crowds greeting Kennedy were both large and gay. School children had been let out to watch the parade go by.

At Alton, where an estimated crowd of 5,000 stood in the rain to hear him, Kennedy recalled that it was here that Abraham Lincoln and Stephen A. Douglas had the last of their famous debates a century ago.

It was in Alton that Lincoln repeated his famous remark that the nation could not longer remain half free and half slave.

It is the same today, Kennedy said, only now it's whether the world can remain half free, half slave.

"That is the issue before the American people," Kennedy said. And he insisted that his Republican opponent is not ready to meet that issue.

At Granite City, where the sun began to peep through a crowd estimated by Asst. Police Chief Floyd Jelf at 10,000 was out to hear Kennedy.

Kennedy's direct attack on his Republican opponent seems to be a part of a new strategy.

Throughout a non-stop weekend Kennedy flailed away at Nixon.

The audiences seemed to love it. Especially one member of his St. Louis audience Sunday night, champion word slinger Harry S. Truman.

The former president enjoyed particularly Kennedy's remark that he noticed Nixon recently called him "another Truman."

"I regard that as a great compliment," Kennedy said. "But observing the content of Mr. Nixon's campaign, I have no hesitation in returning the compliment. I consider him another Dewey."

Other Action

The board voted that Jan. 2, 1961, be the makeup day for one day of school missed on Sept. 12, due to the hurricane, for county schools. The Farmville school is excluded, since those students attended school anyway.

The board approved assignment of several students living on "fringe areas" of Greenville to Pitt County schools, subject to approval by the Greenville City Board of Education.

It was pointed out that over 50 students actually in fringe areas are attending county schools, but that the situation could change if the city schools could handle these students.

Khrushchev Threatens To Ignore Decisions Of UN

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev today challenged Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld to resign. He threatened to refuse to recognize U.N. decisions unless the world organization's peace-making machinery is revised.

Khrushchev, addressing the Assembly under "right of reply" procedure, unleashed a new, heavy attack on Hammarskjöld. He is seeking to replace the secretary-general with a three-man executive with veto powers.

"To avoid misinterpretation, I want to reaffirm that we do not trust Mr. Hammarskjöld and cannot trust him," Khrushchev said.

"If he himself does not muster up enough courage to resign, so to say, in a chivalrous manner, then we shall draw up the necessary conclusions from the obtaining situation."

"It is not proper for a man who has flouted elementary justice to hold such an important post as that of secretary-general."

The Khrushchev attack came as the General Assembly's 98 members waited expectantly for new efforts to bring Khrushchev together with President Eisenhower.

The U.S. President indicated Sunday night he is not ready for such a meeting in view of Soviet behavior.

Khrushchev rejected the idea of a meeting with President Eisenhower unless there was what he called a desire to reach agreement on the part of the President.

"Some say that Khrushchev and Eisenhower should be locked in a room and kept there until they reach an agreement on disarmament, but this, of course, is naive," he observed.

"We may sit together indefinitely, but if no desire to come to agreement is evinced by the President, and particularly by those quarters that back him, no smoke will come from the chimney as is the tradition when a Pope is elected."

Khrushchev, in one of his swift moves, put his name on the list of speakers in the Assembly this morning. He took the action before word reached him of Eisenhower's refusal to talk directly with him "in present circumstances."

In a letter addressed to the five neutralist leaders who asked for the meeting in a resolution, Eisenhower said: "There is nothing in the words or actions of the government of the Soviet Union which gives me any reason to believe that the meeting you suggest will hold any such promise."

He did not entirely close the door, however.

The President's letter also said: "If the Soviet Union seriously desires a reduction in tensions it can readily pave the way for useful negotiations by actions in the U.N. and elsewhere."

A British official, speaking on behalf of Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, put an optimistic cast on the picture.

The prime minister welcomes the willingness which the President has now reaffirmed to take part in any negotiation which he feels is likely to prove fruitful."

A neutralist diplomat indicated that efforts to arrange the Eisenhower-Khrushchev meeting would not be abandoned. He pointed out that it was merely a request. He said it still stands.

The resolution was signed by Presidents Sukarno of Indonesia, Tito of Yugoslavia, Nasser of the United Arab Republic, Nkrumah of Ghana, and Prime Minister Nehru of India.

In his reply, Eisenhower pointed out:

1. It was Khrushchev who walked out of the summit conference called in Paris last May.

2. "The Soviet government has threatened a rocket retaliation against many members of the United Nations including the United States on the pretext of contrived and imaginary intentions on the part of these countries."

3. The Soviet Union rejected an impartial investigation of the destruction of "an American aircraft (the RB47) of the U.S. Air Force and is still holding incommunicado two members of its crew."

Jewelry: Big, Bold

COLOR ADDED... Jet, a new trend in jewelry color, mixes with slender gold links for a sparkling necklace, accented by long drop earrings.

AP Newsfeatures
What's the jewelry outlook as we head into winter fashions? It's no season for the timid, with bigness and boldness characterizing the sparkling ornaments that set off our favorite suits and dresses.

Emphasis will be on colors, with gold more popular than ever, on big stones, longer necklace lengths, new ring settings, and hair jewelry.
Black is a jewelry color this year — especially in glistening jet. Used alone in inky beads, it is a smart accent to the new browns. It is used to highlight and sharpen other jewelry colors, too, in necklaces, pins and earrings, says the Fashion Coordination Institute.

Jet is mixed with gold for evening glamor. And nothing recalls the glamor of the 30s so strongly as the long drop black earrings that accent the new darkened eye makeup.

DAYTIME WEAR... Gold chain, linked in long necklace lengths for simple dresses, is sparked by fringed gold drop tassels in earrings, necklace, bracelet.

The long line of these new necklaces helps to lengthen and slim the silhouette, also, they carry the eye downward to highlight the flattering effect of the slightly lower eased waistline. Classic cultured pearls have a new 22 inch length. Necklaces mixing pearls and jade keep their classic look in a fashionable 30 inch length. Big, bold, bright beads are dramatic in 29 inch lengths. Bibs of all descriptions, of from 3 to 10 strands of beads, stones and imitation pearls, drop to 29 inches.

Smooth gold chains and links are lengthened. Many of the new bibs are nested, so that two of them can be worn together to create the effect of the deeply jeweled bib.
As for rings, the diamond engagement ring is not a fashion item subject to change at the drop of a hem, but it is displaying a new face these days. Solitaires, still a popular choice, are receiving stiff competition from more ornately designed rings. A center diamond is set into white metal, and smaller diamonds are set below. Split level diamonds have come of age.

(Items this week from Wake, Catawba, Currituck, Surry, New Hanover, and Haywood Counties.)

Projects Help In Community Improvement
Members of the Fellowship Home Demonstration Club in Wake County have recently completed a money making project. They sold pepper and vanilla flavoring. In return, they received an 80-cup coffee percolator which is available for use in the community. Mrs. Margaret Babson, home economics agent, says the Fellowship members also plan to make improvements on their community building and surrounding grounds.

Orchids In Bloom

Are you an orchid lover? Many people are raising orchids in their greenhouses as a hobby. Miss Hilda Cloniz, home economics agent in Atawba County, reports she recently saw some orchids in full bloom.

It seems that Mrs. Henry Herman has her own small greenhouse. She and her husband spend many hours raising all kinds of plants and flowers as a hobby. They have many different types of orchids, some growing in pots and others growing on wood.

Should Have Won In Garden Contest

With determination, Charles Wellons should win the garden contest in Currituck County next year. Back in April, he turned his backyard into a garden. At the end of each row there were uniform labels telling what was planted in the row.

Miss Elizabeth Sanderlin, home economics agent, reports Wellons raked his rows clean before the judges arrived. Beans and tomatoes were staked, tomatoes and strawberries were mulched. Working by his score card, he won second place, but should come in first next year.

Reading Champion

Mrs. W.B. Williams of Surry County is a champion when it comes to reading. She has already read 65 books this year. Mrs. Williams has earned a reading certificate for many years. Although she reads on many subjects, her main interests are in reading biographies of well-known people and studying birds.

Miss Ella Hampton, assistant home economics agent, says Mrs. Williams does not neglect her duties as a homemaker, but just uses her leisure time to a good advantage.

Crafts Express Personality

Why are crafts gaining in popularity in the state? Miss Verna Belle Lowery, home economics agent in New Hanover County, told her Home Demonstration Club women that the reasons for their popularity are: people have the desire to do something creative; it provides a form of training for the mind; it provides a true form of recreation and pleasure; and it can be a source of income.

After seeing and evaluating crafts, members agreed that handmade crafts should be outstanding in quality of workmanship and design as well as unique.

Group Works On Pastels

Sixteen Home Demonstration Club members in Haywood County organized a special class to work in pastels. W.S. McCall, a noted portrait painter, instructed the women in their work.

Miss Mary Cornwell, home economics agent, says Mrs. Rankin Ferguson and members of the Lakeside Club were responsible for organizing the group which included members from other clubs.

Wash Ears First

An important time to wash your ears is just before you go to the beauty shop! The reason, of course, is that these shell-like anatomy parts become oily and grimy very quickly.

If they're dirty, your secret will soon be revealed on the towel when the beautician dries your hair after your shampoo. To spare yourself possible embarrassment, suds your ears just before every setting.

FLAVORING STEW

Use water left over from cooking mild vegetables such as green beans as a substitute for the water called for in the recipe for making stew. It gives the stew more flavor.

Business Women Have Celebration

To begin the celebration of Business Women's Week the members of the Greenville Business and Professional Women's Club attended church together Sunday night.

Members were entertained afterwards at an informal reception at the home of Mrs. Mildred Manning. The hostess and Mrs. Polly Dall, president of the local club, greeted the guests.

Punch and party foods were served by Miss Gladys Stokes, assisted by Mrs. Helen Snyder, Mrs. Virginia Spencer, and Mrs. Fred Owens. Special guests were Mrs. S. H. Mitchell, president of the Woman's Club, Mrs. James Grulke, president of the Junior Woman's Club, and Mrs. Orval Phillips, president of the Pilot Club.

Personals

Judge and Mrs. William J. Bundy have returned from Raleigh where they spent the weekend. On Friday night they attended Sudan's Annual Shrine Football game for the Crippled Children's Hospital; and Saturday night attended Sudan's Wrecking Crew Ladies Night Banquet.

Miss Mamie Chandler, Director of the Wesley Foundation, and three members of the Wesley Foundation Council spent the past weekend at Camp Chestnut Ridge, near Elford.

Registration Books Need Updating

Again in Greenville's bond election Tuesday the glaring need for a revamping of the city's registration books was revealed.

Although only slightly more than 750 people voted in the election, many had to stand in long lines for long waits while poll holders thumbed through registration books—often futilely—looking for names.

To put it candidly, the voter registration books of the city of Greenville are thoroughly fouled up. They need to be revised and brought up to date. Consideration should be given to the establishment of new voting precincts to replace the two polling places and five wards that have been used by the city for decades without change.

The City Council should immediately take steps to revise the voter registration books of Greenville even if it means establishing new voting precincts and calling for an entirely new registration. It would cost money to be sure, but at least it would give the city an acceptable set of registration books and make possible a more orderly conducting of elections and referendums.

It has been at least two decades and probably longer since there was a new registration for Greenville's voting records. The present registration books are cluttered with names of people who died or moved away from Greenville years ago. The books are also cluttered with names of people who have moved from one ward to another among the five registration wards of the city. In the process many names have been "lost" from the registration books while others appear two or more times among the list of people eligible to cast ballots in city elections.

The books have become so outmoded that many persons who have registered at one time or another in recent years find themselves turned away from the polls because of the poll holders are unable to find their names among the lists. Although the names are alphabetized in the books, there may be several places in the books of each ward where there are "Ms", "Ss", and so forth. Poll holders have to go through the tedious process of looking here and there in the books in an effort to find many names. Sometimes they are found, sometimes they are not.

Meanwhile some people who have taken time to come to the polls get tired of waiting and leave in disgust. Others who have stood determinedly in line awaiting their turn to vote are justifiably perturbed when the poll holders are unable to locate their names among those who are eligible to vote.

It will take considerable time to revise the voter registration books of Greenville and to bring them up to date. It will also take time to consider all the factors and problems involved in creating a more adequate distribution of voting precincts in the city. Obviously these need to be done, and the sooner the City Council takes steps to have them done, the better it will be for Greenville and its citizens.

Farm Vote Displays A Continuing Confidence

Continued confidence by North Carolina farmers in their Nickels for Know-How program was shown by the overwhelming vote last week in which farmers of the state approved for another three years the five cents per ton assessment on fertilizer and feed.

Funds obtained from the special assessment is used for agricultural research in the state.

In the past nine years the program has financed a total of 48 research projects for North Carolina's agriculture, and Friday's vote assured continuance of the program for another three years.

The record of the Nickels for Know-How program in North Carolina indicates farmer interest in research programs that will contribute to the improvement of agriculture across the state and in the long run will provide greater knowledge for more scientific farming in North Carolina.

Nickels for Know-How is a voluntary program undertaken and paid for by the farmers of the state. It is just one of many examples of what is being done by the farmers in an effort to improve agriculture not only for their own benefit, but for the benefit of the general public which must purchase farm commodities. Programs such as Nickels for Know-How refute those oft-heard, unfounded assertions that farmers are not willing to help themselves and look to the government to help them.

A Welcome For N. C. Visitors

By LYNN NISBET

WELCOME—One of the most interesting panel discussions at the recent conference of national travel organizations at Virginia Beach was on the subject of welcome stations for visitors at state lines.

Florida has the most elaborate setup in this activity. There are only eight main highways equipped with welcome stations, a seventh is under construction and an eighth is expected to be authorized by the next Legislature. These stations cost $75,000 to $85,000 to build and about $31,000 a year to operate. Each employs about eight people.

North Carolina with half a hundred highway crossings from four states could not approach such expensive operation. Pennsylvania has a unique system of mobile welcome stations—office or house trailers which can be moved about from place to place as need requires. They are manned by small staffs who give out literature and information about the state—but make no recommendations about where to eat or sleep.

That kind of set up might work well for North Carolina. The mobile units could be stationed in the mountains and on the coast during the summer travel season, and then moved to the heavy traffic north-south highways for the movement to and from Florida.

Spokesmen from Florida, Pennsylvania, Georgia and Ohio noted that literature can be distributed more effectively and more economically this way than by mail. One advantage is that the recipient has already demonstrated interest in the state by coming.

FISHING MOVIE—Your reporter went with Charlie Parker, director of state advertising, to check on the color and sound movie of deep-sea fishing along the North Carolina coast, being put together by Haycox Photographic Co. at Norfolk. The folks who are supervising the editing and cutting are distressed because they must omit so much good film footage in order to keep the run to less than 15 minutes. They have enough film for a full half hour show. "It breaks my heart," said Jimmy Mayes, "but we just can't use it all." Funny thing is, when the movies was authorized by the C&D board fear was expressed that there would not be enough good material, and that some second rate stuff might have to be used.

COLOR—In the other end of the state the fall color parade is just starting down the mountain sides. Some of the oldtimers who have cashed in on this natural color as a business asset (Continued on page five)

Other Editors Saying Book From Angry Man

(Richmond News Leader)

This week saw publication of a book that could prove to be one of the most influential books of the Cold War: James G. Thompson's "The American Myth and Soviet Myth."

We say that his book "could be" this significant not for any want of confidence in Mr. Campaigne's powerful argument. His book could be enormously influential if only he can get it read in the right places, and that means reviewed in the right media, and pushed in the right circles. His publisher is the small and highly respected house of Henry Regnery in Chicago; the book is well designed and fairly priced at $3.95.

But Jim Campaigne is an angry man, and in today's climate of liberal opinion, he is angry at all the wrong things: Foreign aid, the United Nations, the Communists. He believes in an old-fashioned idea, in which most American commentators accept Moscow's figures as gospel truth, and yet discount the provable facts of American achievements. He has a truculent reply to the Communists' threats: "We should reply that we expect to see them buried, and freedom arise in Russia as well as in Eastern Europe and Asia."

When it comes to the Cold War with Communist Russia, Mr. Campaigne's idea is to win. It is an old-fashioned idea, not much in vogue these days, but it has a marvelous appeal. He proposes "to wage freedom" with the same aggressive vigor that Mr. Khrushchev wages tyranny, and he is far more concerned with winning freedom and liberty than with preserving a fearful "peace" on Soviet terms.

There is only one reason for carrying on the Cold War," he writes. "That is to preserve our liberty and extend all human liberty. If our liberty is not important, we should quit now and avoid further dangers. If liberty is important, nothing should deter us."

of the lunacies of foreign aid with his own alert and troubled eyes; he writes out of a monumental exasperation at the uncalculated exasperation at the foreign policies that manifestly have not worked. In his view, the billions invested in foreign aid have purchased neither firm military alliances nor lasting political friendships; all too often, these fantastically expensive exercises in global boondoggling have won for the United States not gratitude but a sort of envious ridicule.

Mr. Campaigne's particular anger is directed, however, at the unquestioning fashion in which most American commentators accept Moscow's figures as gospel truth, and yet discount the provable facts of American achievements. He has a truculent reply to the Communists' threats: "We should reply that we expect to see them buried, and freedom arise in Russia as well as in Eastern Europe and Asia."

This is fighter's talk. We hope devoutly that it can be heard, above the delicate cooing of the Lippmann set, in places of political influence across the land.

The Khrusher

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

No Fire In The 'Debate'

Copyright, 1960, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

First of all, it seemed very queer that two candidates for the Presidency of the United States were debating before a large audience, yet no American flag was on the stage. Such a debate held without a flag on a street corner in New York City would involve the arrest of the participants.

A year ago, Martin Gabel and Richard Boone put on a live show of the Lincoln-Douglas Debates. Martin Gabel was Stephen Douglas and Richard Boone was Abraham Lincoln. Their debating was superior.

Stephen Douglas was elected United States Senator from Illinois as a result of the debates; Abraham Lincoln eventually became President of the United States. The debates have become classics of American history.

Douglas said: "The Black Republican creed lays it down expressly that under no circumstances shall we acquire any more territory, unless slavery is first prohibited in the country. I answer that whenever it becomes necessary, in our growth and progress, to acquire more territory, that I am in favor of it, without reference to the question of slavery."

Lincoln replied: "I hold that the history of this country shows that the institution of slavery was originally planted upon this continent without these 'police regulations' which the Judge now thinks necessary for the actual establishment of it. Not only so, but is there not another fact: how came this Dred Scott decision to be made? It was made upon the case of a Negro being taken and actually held in slavery in Minnesota Territory, claiming his freedom because the Act of Congress prohibited his being so held there. Will the Judge pretend that Dred Scott was not held there without police regulations?"

This was debating. There was no softness of thought or manner. There was no absurd politeness which was so synthetic on the first Nixon-Kennedy Debate. There was no pleading about which two men was more experienced. There were no silly questions from radio commentators reading from a script. Lincoln said:

"I have stated upon former occasions, and I may as well state again, what I understand to be the real issue in this controversy between Judge Douglas and myself. The real issue in this controversy—the one pressing upon every mind—is the sentiment on the part of the class that looks upon the institution of slavery in this country as a wrong is the sentiment of the Republican Party. It is the sentiment around which all their actions, all their arguments, circle, from which all their propositions radiate. They look upon it as being amoral, social, and political wrong."

There is no nonsense in this statement about having the same goals but using other means. What Lincoln believed to be wrong, he said was wrong; what Douglas thought was right he said was right.

After listening to the Nixon-Kennedy Debate I sat down to read the Lincoln-Douglas Debates. It was a refreshing interlude. Suddenly it came to me that what was wrong in the Nixon-Kennedy Debate is that both men fear to be defeated. Nixon has taken on a new personality, polite, urbane, gentle. He is not like that at all. He defeated Jerry Voorhis by knocking him out in a debate on principles; he hit down Helen Gahagan Douglas by battling her on every issue. He frightened the opposition so much that they forever fear and hate him. It was Nixon the fighter that emerged from an obscure member of Congress to be the candidate for the Presidency of the United States in 14 years. The image of a different Nixon—a grey Nixon—which someone convinced this energetic, aggressive person to be, does not suit him.

On the other hand, John Kennedy is no capitalist. The fact that his father is one of the richest men in the United States speaks for his father's acumen; it does not speak for Jack's political position. After all, Frederick Vanderbilt Field, the Communist, is a descendant of Commodore Vanderbilt, and Corlies Lamont, the Socialist, is the son of Thomas Lamont, late chairman of J.P. Morgan and Company. There is no relationship between inherited wealth and uninherited ideas. The sooner Nixon and Kennedy fight out the issues, the sooner the people will respect them.

Mail Service Is Getting Slower

By ELMER ROESSNER

Mail service, already slow, will get slower in the period immediately ahead.

It's difficult to determine what's happening to the mails. It may be that morale has been weakened by Congress's refusal to confirm President Eisenhower's nomination for postmasters. It may be that the rank and file are dissatisfied with their new pay rise. But, as most business men will tell you, mail service is slower than ever since the war.

There are some dedicated men in the service—such as the mailman on my block who advances postage due charges to get mails through faster. Others work at a breakneck speed to move letters and parcels. But a miasma of indifference, overlays many workers.

DELAYS AHEAD

The reasons for more delays to come:

1. Weather will worsen in the months ahead. Rain, snow and gloom of night will slow these appointed civil service workers in the completion of their appointed rounds.

2. The holidays—Columbus Day, Election Day, Veterans' Day, Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Year's Day—will cause interruptions in the mailing of letters and parcels, and in the handling of them in post offices.

3. Christmas card and gift mailings will congest post offices. Your million mailed offers of touch-me-now gifts may linger in the corner of a post office while postmen speed Aunt Agatha's studio card to her niece at Oxnard, Calif.

4. Pay rates discourage the most able applicants for extra work before the holidays. I recall the extra last year who said to me, "You gotta write down 'California.' How does the post office know where San Francisco is?"

Air Transport Association, now meeting in Cannes, is expected to make material cuts in trans-Atlantic air rates.

New off-season round-trip rates that went into effect (Saturday) are scheduled to end next spring. But a big, unspoken secret in the airlines is that there will not be a full return to on-season rates.

Defense boom: Civil defense authorities are trying to make themselves believe that Khrushchev has so scared the public that it will at last start building shelters. But in the end they will find that Mr. K. has been no more successful in scaring the public than have Civil Defense job-holders and there will be no rush to burrows.

New diet food: Another low-calorie powdered meal product for weight reduction is being tested in three midwestern metropolitan areas. It contains proteins, calcium, iron, vitamins and a choice of chocolate, vanilla or banana flavors, but no drugs. If tests are encouraging, you'll see "Quota" in your market.

Views From Abroad

By ROGER BABSON

BARCELONA, Spain. — During the weeks I have been in Europe, I have constantly asked questions. I have talked with all kinds of people from taxi drivers to Ambassadors. Let me add that the U. S. Embassies everywhere have been very kind and patient with me, as they are with all Americans who call upon them.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

The first question I always ask is: "Do you expect World War III?" The answer, almost unanimously: "Yes, but not for ten or twenty years." Furthermore, most expect that it would be started by China.

"Will it be an atomic war?" Most people replied "Probably"; but some feel that by that time there will be some sure defense against atomic bombs.

"Will Cuba be Communist?" "Yes, but there are many breeds of Communism as there are denominations of Protestantism."

"If Russia attempts to go too far in Latin America will the U. S. enforce the Monroe Doctrine?" "Answer: 'Yes.'"

"Does Mr. K truly want a reduction in armaments?" "Yes, because to hold his power he must constantly improve Russia's standard-of-living. To do this, Mr. K must spend less on armaments."

"Could Europe possibly remain neutral in the event of war between Russia and the U. S.?" "Yes, in view of the new weapons which may then be available."

"Are you European people interested in 'space travel' and going to the moon?" Answer: "Not so much as you are in America. We have trouble enough on this earth without seeking more."

"What about Africa and undeveloped nations?" "European nations are interested in every part of the world where there are natural resources of minerals, oil, gas, water, and sunshine."

"How do Europeans feel about inflation?" "Everyone looks up on inflation as dangerous. It is very harmful for all who have savings in banks, insurance policies, or annuities."

"Have any Europeans benefited from 'inflation'?" "Yes, those few who held mortgaged real estate and the gold to repay these mortgages. Those who held unmortgaged real estate profited provided they had the gold or its equivalent to pay the taxes."

"In what are careful Europeans now investing?" "In rented or producing property away from possible Communist seizure. Such real estate is constantly increasing in value."

"What about utilities as investments in Europe?" Answer: "Since most of the utilities are owned by municipalities or the state, they offer practically no investment possibilities."

"How are personal taxes in Europe?" The European people think they are high due to state welfare projects. But I am inclined to believe the U. S. has the highest taxes in the world.

"What about unemployment in Europe?" "With the exception of West Germany, Italy, Switzerland, and one or two other countries there is much unemployment."

"What about wages?" "Both wages and the cost-of-living are low in Europe. Probably Spain has the poorest record."

"Is it safe for American manufacturers and investors to buy stocks of West German, Italian, or French corporations?" Answer: "Most of these are making money, but it is risky to buy such stocks unless one knows the corporation officers and understands why the owners are selling. There is no 'Dun & Bradstreet' in these countries, no 'Securities & Exchange Commission'."

"What about the American election in November?" The feeling is that Kennedy will be elected, although the people with property say they would vote for Nixon. Some believe that if Kennedy is elected, his father will try to back the biggest boom in U. S. history with the Dow-Jones Industrial Average going to 800.

Conclusion: When we visit these old churches and palaces we forget that Europe's experience with democracy is much (Continued on page five)

WASHINGTON (AP)—Neither Richard M. Nixon nor John F. Kennedy now has a substantial lead in the race for president. Experts rate the states with the big votes as tossups.

At this stage, Nixon, the Republican candidate, apparently has more electoral votes in his pocket than Kennedy, the Democratic candidate.

But Nixon's lead is slim and his total far from a majority.

These are the conclusions that emerge from a survey of 50 states just completed by The Associated Press.

To create its image of the election battle, the AP culled observations from its political writers, key party leaders, and veteran newspaper analysts. Various polls also were taken into account.

The survey showed that Nixon seems to be leading in 22 states with 161 electoral votes. Kennedy seems to be leading in 14 states with 123 votes.

The difference is only 38 votes, and neither man comes within 100 votes of the 269 votes needed to win the presidency.

The survey rated six of the largest states—New York (45), California (32), Pennsylvania (32), Ohio (25), Texas (24), and Michigan (20)—among the tossups, although there was some indication Kennedy had an edge in Ohio and Texas.

If either Kennedy or Nixon could take all or most of these 178 votes, he probably would win the election.

The data were collected while observers were trying to weigh the effect of last Monday's television debate on the voters. Some sources said they thought Kennedy had gained ground because of it.

There were some indications Kennedy's Roman Catholic religion was hurting him, particularly in the South, somewhat in California and Illinois, and increasingly in Arizona.

The issue seemed to be waning in North Carolina and Oklahoma and helping him in Pennsylvania and Wisconsin.

Other reports from the survey:

1. Some political leaders are keeping a close watch on the activities of the United Nations and Soviet Premier Khrushchev to see how they affect the voters.

2. There seems to be no major farmer revolt against the Republican party in the Midwest.

3. There is major dissatisfaction with the Democratic platform, particularly the civil rights plank, in the South. Because of this, six of Alabama's 11 electoral votes and all of Mississippi's 8 votes may go to another Democratic candidate.

The breakdown by states: Favoring Nixon by varying degrees—Arizona (4), Colorado (6), Delaware (3), Florida (10), Hawaii (3), Idaho (4), Illinois (27), Indiana (13), Iowa (10), Kansas (—), Kentucky (10).

Favoring Kennedy by varying degrees—Alabama (11), Alaska (3), Arkansas (8), Connecticut (5), Georgia (12), Maryland (10), Massachusetts (16), Montana (4), New Jersey (16), Nevada (3), New York (45), North Carolina (14), Rhode Island (4), Washington (9), West Virginia (8), and Wisconsin (12).

Tossup states—California (32), Louisiana (10), Michigan (20), Minnesota (11), Mississippi (8), Missouri (13), New Mexico (4), New Jersey (16), Nevada (3), New York (45), North Carolina (14), Rhode Island (4), Washington (9), West Virginia (8), and Wisconsin (12).

State Forester Will Speak Here

F. H. Claridge, State Forester for North Carolina, will speak on the "Forest Fire Program in North Carolina" at the October meeting of the Pitt County Safety Council, Thursday at 12:30 p.m., according to Council Chairman Luther D. Moore.

Claridge, a graduate of the Yale University School of Forestry has worked with the North Carolina Department of Conservation and Development's Forest Service since 1925, except time spent in the U.S. Army during World War II.

A veteran of the U.S. Navy during World War I, Claridge was commanding officer of the Military Police at Fort Bragg, N. C. and Provost Marshal of Camp Plauche and Jefferson Parish, New Orleans, Louisiana, during the Second World War. He was released as Lt. Colonel in 1946 and awarded the Army Commendation ribbon.

Moore, who said the meeting would be held at Respass Brothers Barbecue on North Greene St., said the meeting would last only one hour. He urged anyone interested in safety to attend the meetings of the council and to become members of the safety-promotion organization.

The Chairman emphasized the council is a "Pitt County" organization and urged people from all over the county to attend and take part in its activities.

Completely stifled in the first half by its own mistakes and a capricious Catawba offense, East Carolina put on a dazzling second half show in College Stadium Saturday night, thundering past Catawba 28-0.

The Pirates, who had previously proved their defensive toughness against Guilford, took to a second half pep talk like eager kids attacking a math problem and generated a second half ground attack that rolled up 260 yards and 28 points.

And, toward the end, the 5,000 fans had grasped the tingling feeling of a winner, bringing to light that the final stanza victory was something of a rarity for East Carolina teams.

It was victory number two for the young Boone-coached club and added luster to this Saturday's meeting with Elon and former ECC assistant George Tucker.

A different ECC team took the second half kickoff and marched

Fullmer Anxious To Whip Robinson

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Over the years boxer Sugar Ray Robinson has collected a host of admirers — and a fair share of bitter critics as well.

The latter category does not include middleweight champion Gene Fullmer.

He has nothing but respect and kind thoughts for the ex-champion — plus, of course, a healthy desire to knock the Sugarman's head off Saturday night.

"I have never seen Robinson take an unfair advantage of an opponent, or fight dirty, and that goes for my two fights with him," said Fullmer.

Fullmer, who whipped Sugar Ray in 15 rounds for the title Jan. 2, 1957, and lost it back via the knockout May 1 the same year, defends his NBA world title against Robinson in the Sports Arena Saturday night. It will be nationally televised.

Professionally, the 29-year-old Fullmer is a bruising brawler, a throwback to the old-time barroom style of pug.

Personally, Fullmer is quite the opposite. He is intelligent, most personable, an excellent conversationalist. Around his home town of West Jordan, Utah, a brief ride from Salt Lake City, he is a respected worker in the community and an elder in the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, to which he donates a tithe, or 10 per cent, of all his earnings.

of "The Untouchables" booted the extra point.

Nick Hilgert set the Bucs in motion following the kickoff with a 14-yard burst through the center of Catawba's hefty line. Glenn Bass, showing his heels most of the night, danced off tackle for 16 more. After two gouges at the Indian line clocked away only four yards, Bass shook loose around left end and sailed into the end zone untouched.

The next East Carolina movement came midway the third period and started on the East Carolina 24. Bert Stafford was the general in the advance and kept his club on the ground. The big plays were a 12 yard slice by Sonny Baysinger and a 19 yard rumble by Mac Thacker.

First downs came about as easy as picking posies and Nick Hilgert scored his first college touchdown by capping the drive with a six yard blast into the end zone.

Tommy Matthews set up the third score, nabbing a Gene Worthington pass and hurrying 20 yards to the Indian six. Billy Strickland, a number two Nick Hilgert, bulled his way for the six-point.

Henry Vansant interrupted the Indians' passing game midway the final period, putting the final touchdown drive in action.

Starting on the Catawba 38, Strickland ripped straight ahead for 23 yards and Baysinger pranced over from the eight, clinching the dramatic final half outburst.

To say that Catawba's single-wing attack didn't give East Carolina trouble would be false. The Indians were double-teaming and trapping the Bucs early in the game, clipping off some nice yardage. But it was incomparable with Lenoir Rhyne's smooth-clicking straight-snap foray.

But the Indians netted only 77 infantry yards in the first half and 22 in the final 30 minutes. They added 81 through the air.

Coach Presnell Mull's contingent stormed to the ECC 19 following the opening kickoff and tailback Gene Worthington was knocked loose from the ball with East Carolina recovering.

In the second quarter, Catawba whacked away at second stringers and moved to the EC 16 before Coach Jack Boone motioned for his number one defensive unit to return to combat.

Third Year In League Cellar

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Philadelphia Phillies finished the 1960 season in the National league cellar for the third straight year and the 21st time since 1900, breaking their own record for most last-place finishes. The Kansas City Athletics, who ended last in the American League, rank second with 20 last place finishes.

A penalty put the ball in play on the ECC six with second down and four for a first. Catawba rammed at the Pirate line with three consecutive power plays but the hard-nosed EC linemen failed to buckle, taking over on their own three.

Another bid to score by Catawba came in the second half but the number one unit was back on duty within the 20 yard stripe and Bobby Bumgardner plucked a Worthington pass from the sky on the EC two and raced back to the 20, killing the threat.

East Carolina launched only four passes and two were completed—both screen passes.

The line standouts were about as many as in the Guilford victory. Chuck Gordon and Clayton Piland were in on a large percent of tackles and Wayne Davis and Bob Gregson smashed through to spill the runners for minus yards. Ends Bobby Bumgardner and Jones Lockerman did a man-size job of turning the end sweeps to the inside.

Bass and Baysinger were the big ground gainers with 117 and 90 yards respectively. Nick Hilgert picked up 46.

ECC SCORES—Halfback Sonny Baysinger goes eight yards for the final East Carolina touchdown Saturday. The Bucs tallied 28 points in the final half, smothering Catawba 28-0.

Yanks Finish On Winning Note - Fifteen Straight

By ED WILKS

Associated Press Sports Writer
Pete Runnels won his first batting title. A couple of winning pitchers, Jim Perry and Chuck Estrada, were the winningest. The Washington Senators won 73 games, their best total since 1953. And Baltimore's modern-day Orioles finished second, their highest yet.

But the American League champions? The New York Yankees, and no doubt about it.

With Mickey Mantle winning the home run crown with 40, one more than teammate Roger Maris, who took the RBI title with 112, the Yankees broke their AL home run record, gave Manager Casey Stengel his 10th pennant in 15 years, and finished with a 15-game winning streak—the longest ever for a club headed into the World Series.

The Yankees, their pride stung by last season's frustrating third-place failure, bounced back for a 97-57 record, their sixth best under Casey, and crushed Baltimore's surprising bid by winning 19 of their last 21 games.

They finished with a flourish, coming from behind in Sunday's regular season wind up for an 8-7 victory over the Boston Red Sox on a two-run homer in the ninth inning by Dale Long that sent them barreling into next Wednesday's World Series opener at Pittsburgh against the Pirates—Long's onetime teammates.

That was the 193rd home run of the year for the champs, who had set the old AL standard with 190 in 1956.

Duke Maas was the winner for a 5-1 record as the fifth in a string of Yankee pitchers which began with Ralph Terry and probably Series opener Whitey Ford. Arnold Earley (0-1) was the loser as Boston (65-89) closed its worst season since owner Tom Yawkey took over in 1953.

Runnels, 32, Red Sox second baseman, sat out the final game and finished with a .320 average. Al Smith, injured Chicago White Sox outfielder was second with .312.

Perry (18-10) pitched a five-hit shutout for Cleveland as the fourth-place Indians defeated the 1959 champion White Sox 4-0. Early Wynn, last year's top winner with 22, was the loser for a 15-12 record. Estrada, a rookie who lost 11, won his 18th for Baltimore Saturday.

Last-place Kansas City beat sixth-place Detroit 2-1 for an almost even-break in the Tiger-Indians managerial swap of August 3. Jimmy Dykes, who left the Tigers for Cleveland, was 26-32 with the Indians. Gordon was 26-31 with the Tigers.

Putting first things first at the finish, the first-place Pittsburgh Pirates roll into their first World Series in 33 years with their first batting champion in two decades after winning 95 games in a National League season for the first time since 1925.

One week after clinching their first flag since 1927, the beat 'em Bucs wrapped up the regular season with a 9-5 victory over the second-place Milwaukee Braves Sunday. They did it by whipping Lew Burdette, blocking his bid for a third consecutive 20-victory season and completing a somewhat fantastic rout against two of the best pitchers in the NL.

It was the Pirates' second victory over Burdette in three decisions, and it came on the heels of their fifth victory over Warren Spahn in six decisions this season. That gave the Pittsburghs a 7-2 record against the two Milwaukee aces, who won 40 between them.

Dick Groat, back in the line-up for the final two games and feeling no pain in his injured left wrist, was 1-for-4 in the finale and finished with a .325 batting average. That gave the sparkplug shortstop the first batting championship to be won by a Pirate since Debs Garms hit .355 in 1940.

Norm Larker of the Los Angeles Dodgers was 1-for-3 and finished second at .323 as the 1959 world champions defeated the Chicago Cubs 4-3. Willie Mays of San Francisco had two hits in five trips, one his 29th home run, and finished third at .319 as the Giants beat the third-place St. Louis Cardinals 8-2.

Last-place Philadelphia finished with a three-game sweep over Cincinnati, beating the sixth-place Reds 6-1.

The Pirates, first Buc club to win 95 since the 1925 champs who went on to beat Washington in the World Series, tagged Burdette (19-13) for 15 hits while Wilmer (Vinegar Bend) Mizell won his 14th. Mizell gave up six of the Braves' 10 hits in his five innings. Harvey Haddix finished up. He allowed four hits and one run.

Hank Aaron of the Braves drove in one run, giving him the RBI title with 126. Ed Mathews, adding two against the Bucs, was second, two behind, giving the Braves a two-slugger total of 250 RBIs. Aaron was second in the home run race behind the Cubs' Ernie Banks, who hit 41. Aaron had 40 and Mathews, third, hit 39.

Lefty Mike McCormick (15-12) pitched a four-hitter for the Giants, and topped NL starting pitchers with a 2.70 earned run average, as the Cards bowed out by losing seven of their last eight.

Don Drysdale (15-14) was the winner in relief against the Cubs, topping the Dodger staff in victories, thanks to Maury Wills' ninth-inning sacrifice fly.

Rookie Art Mahaffey finished with a 7-3 record for the Phils, losing a shutout against the Reds in the ninth inning on Frank Robinson's 31st home run.

Disappointments In Rank Of ACC

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A quick impression of the Atlantic Coast Conference at this early stage of the football season:

There are more disappointments than surprises among the eight teams and plenty of headaches for coaches faced with having to scramble back into contention against tough competition.

North Carolina State, considered a dark horse, is undefeated in its three games and Duke and Clemson have won both of their starts.

It was gloomy Monday for the rest of the league. Maryland, rated a comer after its opening victory over West Virginia, has dropped two straight. Wake Forest and North Carolina, considered pre-season favorites, and South Carolina and Virginia all are 0-2.

South Carolina, with an open date Saturday, can lick its wounds this week. Of the rest, Clemson apparently has the lightest assignment at home against Virginia, which has lost 18 straight games. Maryland is at North Carolina State Saturday night in the other ACC game.

Duke is at Michigan. Notre Dame is at North Carolina, and Wake Forest invades Virginia Tech.

The biggest surprise of the conference is Duke, which took Maryland in stride 20-7 Saturday for its second straight victory. North Carolina State walloped Virginia 26-7 but the rest of the Saturday results were not as encouraging.

Defending conference champion Clemson had to score a last period touchdown to defeat Virginia Tech 13-7. Georgia mauled South Carolina 38-6 and Florida State upset Wake Forest 14-6. Miami had an easy time of it dropping North Carolina 29-12 Friday night.

The following two weeks Duke is host to N.C. State and Clemson, and the results of those games likely will go a long way in deciding the conference champion. N.C. State and Clemson do not play this season.

After unleashing a potent passing attack to its swing end against South Carolina two weeks ago, Maryland Coach Tom Nugent observed: "Duke has a very powerful ball club. They just had more blocking and tackling than we had."

Maryland decided to play us very loose in the secondary," explained Duke Coach Bill Murray. "They had two and sometimes three men on our swing man and covered our short end well. It was simply a day to run rather than throw."

PAUL GALLICO'S NEW BESTSELLER

Mrs. Harris Goes to New York

CHAPTER 9

"Oh dear," said Henrietta Schreiber suddenly. "I wonder if I've done the right thing." She was sitting in front of her mirror in her cabin, putting the final touches to her face. Beside her lay an engraved card of invitation which stated that Pierre Rene Dubois, Captain of the SS Ville de Paris, would be honored by the company of Mr. and Mrs. Joel Schreiber for cocktails in his cabin at seven-thirty that evening. The ship's clock was already showing the hour of seven-thirty-five.

"What's that?" said her husband, who, properly accoutered in black tie, had been waiting for ten minutes. "Sure, sure. You fine. I promise you, Momma, you never looked better. But I think we ought to go now. The French ambassador's going to be there, the steward said."

"No, no," said Henrietta. "I don't mean me, I mean about Mrs. Harris."

"What about Mrs. Harris? Is something the matter?"

"No—I'm just wondering if we've done right taking her and Mrs. Butterfield out of their element. They're so very London, you know. People over here understand about chaps and their ways, but—"

"You mean they'll laugh at us because we've got a couple of Cockneys?"

"Oh, no," protested Mrs. Schreiber. "Why, nobody would laugh at Mrs. Harris." She made another attempt upon her eyebrows. "It's just I wouldn't want her to be frightened. Who could she talk to? Who could she have for friends? And you know what snobs people are."

Mr. Schreiber went over and gave her an affectionate pat on the shoulders. He said, "Well, it's too late now. But maybe tomorrow I'll take a walk back to tourist and see how she's getting on. How about coming along now, baby? You couldn't look more beautiful if you worked for another hour. You'll be the best-looking woman there."

Henrietta rested her cheek against his hand for a moment and said, "Oh, Joel, you're so good to me. I'm sorry I get into such a muddle."

They emerged from their cabin, where their steward waited to guide them. He took them as far as the private stairway leading to the captain's quarters, which they mounted, to be received by another steward who asked their names. And then led them to the door of the huge cabin from which emerged that distinctive babble of sounds that denotes a cocktail party in full swing. Embedded in these sounds—the clink of glasses and the crosscurrents of conversation—was an impossible sentence which smote the ear of Mrs. Schreiber. "Lor' love yer, the marquis and I are old friends from Paris."

It was impossible simply because it could not be so, and Mrs. Schreiber said to herself, "It's because I was thinking of Mrs. Harris just before I came up here."

The steward stepped through the doorway and announced, "Mr. and Mrs. Joel Schreiber," which brought forth a drop in the conversation, and the bustle of all the men rising to their feet.

Entering thus late into a cocktail party there is a confusion of sight as well as sound—one sees everyone, and one sees no one. For an appalling moment Mrs. Schreiber seemed to be aware of another impossibility, one even more unthinkable than the auditory one she had just experienced. It was Mrs. Harris ensconced between the captain and a distinguished-looking Frenchman with white hair and mustache—Mrs. Harris wearing a very smart frock.

The captain, a handsome man in dress uniform with gold braid, said, "Ah, Mr. and Mrs. Schreiber. So delighted you could come," and then with practiced hand swung the circle of introductions—names that Mrs. Schreiber only half heard until he came to the last two, and no mistake about those—"His Excellency the Marquis Hypolite de Chassagne, the new French ambassador to your country, and Madame Harris."

There was no doubt about it, it was true! Mrs. Harris was there, apple-cheeked, beady-eyed, beaming, yet not at all conspicuous, and looking as quietly well dressed as, if not better than, most of the women in the room.

Mrs. Schreiber nodded graciously and then said to the marquis, "That's 'er I been telling you about. Ain't she a dear? If it 'adn't been for 'er, I never could have got the dollars to go to Paris to buy me dress, and now she's tying me with 'er to America."

The marquis went over to Henrietta Schreiber, took her hand in his, and held it to his lips for a moment. "Madame," he said, "I am enchanted to meet one with a warm heart that is able to recognize a warm heart and goodness in others. You must be a very kind person."

This little speech, which established Mrs. Schreiber socially for the rest of the voyage, also left her breathless, and she was still staggering under the im-pect of it all. "But—but you know our Mrs. Harris?"

"But of course," replied the marquis. "We met at Dior in Paris, and are old friends."

What had happened was that, having learned from his chauffeur of the presence of Mrs. Harris on board in tourist class, he had said to the captain, who was a friend, "Do you know, Pierre, that you have a most remarkable woman on board your ship?"

"You mean the Countess Touraine?" asked the captain.

"No, no," said the marquis. "I am referring to a London scrubwoman—a char, as they call them—who all day long is on her knees scrubbing the floors of her clients in Belgravia, or having her hands in dirty dishwater washing up after them—but if you looked into her wardrobe you would find hanging there the most exquisite creation from the house of Christian Dior, a dress to the value of four hundred and fifty pounds, which she purchased for herself."

When the marquis had finished his tale the captain, his curiosity aroused, had said, "And this woman is aboard and you say is a friend of yours? Well then, we shall have her up for a drink. I should be honored to meet her."

And thus it was that Mrs. Harris had received exactly the same kind of engraved invitation as had gone out to the Schreibers, except that on the card had been written: "A steward will come for you to your cabin and lead you to the captain's quarters."

Before Mrs. Schreiber was separated from her husband he found time to whisper to her, "Looks like you can stop worrying about Mrs. Harris, don't it?"

That composed and self-assured lady was now chattering happily and unconcernedly with the captain.

Air Force Opens More Fields Of Personnel Skills

Staff Sergeant Jimmy Skipper, U.S. Air Force Recruiter for the Greenville area, has announced the Air Force Recruiting Service is opening its doors again to many applicants who up to now were unable to return to the Air Force or enlist in the Air Force after completing service in other branches.

The new list of jobs skills needed by the Air Force for trained men now affects men separated from other branches; men previously turned down due to their military job training and skills were advised to again contact their AF recruiter. Many prior-service men may be given their same pay grade as held when discharged from the service.

Sgt. Skipper also announced he is now taking applications from lawyers for appointments as Judge Advocates in the Air Force. Persons with prerequisite qualifications will be given direct commissions.

The Air Force Recruiting Office is located in the Post Office Building in Greenville. It is open on Monday and Friday of each week.

So says Harold H. Sherman, retiring after 20 years as a federal alcohol and tobacco tax investigator.

"They don't try to pull a gun on you and shoot like they used to," Sherman reflected. "But there's more rabbit in their feet. They run."

America's first industry was a glass factory established at Jamestown, Va., in 1608, a year after the colony was founded.

Are you a nuisance to your neighbors?

"It's a wet fall," said my neighbor, Frank, pointing at my rose bushes. "Better spray or you'll get black spot."

I call Frank a nuisance but he's more of a conscience. So I sprayed. In fact, I borrowed his sprayer. Frank pretends I'm a nuisance, too.

"I should think people would get tired of you," he said. "They get married—you appear. They have a baby—you appear. They buy a house, or even do some little thing like have a birthday, and again there you are. Haven't they got enough on their minds?"

Yes. That's why I'm there. Frank knows it. He worries about roses. I worry about families. I sell insurance.

"Being a good nuisance is no snap, Frank," I told him. "It's my part in life to remember things people forget—like tomorrow, dependents, mortgages. But I don't mind one little bit if it spares families needless pain. A good conscience makes a good neighbor."

"How come you never sold me insurance?" Frank asked. "Well, Frank, I thought your cousin was an insurance man."

"Well, frankly," he said, squinting at me, "he isn't."

"And you?" I said, "with a mortgage and a family?"

"True," Frank said. "Come, neighbor, it's time we talked about it. And on your way, leave my sprayer in my garage."

6-BOTTLE CARTON

Bus Replaces

Their Car Pool

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (AP)—

Starting today, 13 mothers here have replaced their haphazard school car pool with a bus, driver and regular schedule.

The mothers decided recently they were tired of hauling 33 children to grammar school and kindergarten each day. So they bought an ancient school bus for $550 and hired a driver.

City and state education officials approved the idea.

"Someone was always being late or having car trouble," said

Dr. Sylvia Richardson, one of the mothers. "And on icy winter mornings, I just don't like to drive

—much less with a load of kids."

Oldest Senator

REHOBOTH, Mass. (AP)—U. S.

Sen. Theodore Francis Green, D-

The oldest man ever to serve honor here at a combination clam-bake and birthday celebration staged by the First Ward Democratic Club of Providence. Green lives in the First Ward.

The senator enjoyed every minute of it. He shook hands all around, complimented the ladies —and kissed one of them.

Liquor Transfer Action Draws Reprimand Of Board

Discrimination In N.C. Charged

RALEIGH (AP) — The state Civil Rights Advisory Committee says Negroes are being discriminated against both in school assignment and school expenditures in North Carolina.

The committee, in a report issued over the weekend said, "77 out of approximately 324,234 Negro pupils are enrolled in desegregated schools; this is slightly more than 1.50th of 1 per cent."

The committee reported that in the spending of public money, "there has been discrimination against non-white pupils. The gap has been narrowed in recent years."

The committee concluded that "discrimination on account of race in public schools is general in North Carolina" according to the definition offered by the U.S. Supreme Court.

This was the group's first report on education. It will be incorporated in a nationwide survey which will be presented to the President and Congress by the Federal Commission on Civil Rights.

"The course of action in North Carolina," the commission said, "is token integration, that is, the admission of a minimum number of Negro children into white schools."

It said such conditions make normal adjustment of the Negro youngsters difficult. "The lone or handful of Negro children in a large white student body endure substantial handicaps and disadvantages," the committee commented.

"It is obvious that North Carolina still thinks of education as its 1,116,700 pupils as a responsibility to be discharged haphazardly under a continuing pattern of segregation," said the committee.

It listed Chapel Hill as the only school board to announce a voluntary plan of school desegregation.

Supreme Court Is Gathering Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court reassembles today to begin a new term which could be one of the busiest and most difficult in the tribunal's long history.

By tradition, today's session was limited to brief opening formalities. After a week of conferences, the court will announce next Monday which of many new appeals it will hear, and then will start hearing cases already scheduled.

The justices face a docket crowded with appeals already numbering nearly 1,000. Veteran observers say this is an all-time high.

In its last term the court agreed to hear 100 appeals, another high in the argument sessions beginning Oct. 10. Listening to these arguments could occupy the justices up to mid-March.

Included in the 100 appeals due for final decisions are cases in such sensitive areas as state birth control laws, Sunday blue laws, use of union dues for political purposes, refusal to serve a Negro passenger at a segregated bus terminal restaurant, and tailoring of state boundaries to eliminate Negro voters.

Once again the court tackles the constitutionality of a requirement that the Communist party must register with the government as a subversive organization dominated by the Soviet Union, and of a clause of the Smith anti-Communist law making it a crime knowingly to belong to an organization that advocates violent overthrow of government.

Among appeals filed during the court's vacation months these questions were raised:

May Maryland bar from public office persons who do not believe in God? (Maryland's highest court said the state may.)

Does Bible reading and recitation of the Lord's Prayer in public schools violate the U.S. Constitution? (A special three-judge court in Philadelphia said it does.)

Chicago (AP) — "I only thank God that the power failure came once we had altitude. If this had occurred during take-off 153 persons probably would have died."

Hans Mueller-Nalbach, Lufthansa German Airlines captain, was talking with reporters Sunday after he landed an airliner with two of its four engines out and 143 passengers and 10 crewmen aboard.

Shortly after a predawn take-off for Frankfurt the two engines of his huge Boeing 707 failed and Mueller-Nalbach circled precariously over Lake Michigan for nearly an hour, jettisoning 77,000 pounds of fuel.

He then returned to O'Hare Field and made a smooth landing.

"They say that once in his life, a captain really earns his pay. Last night was my turn," said Mueller-Nalbach, a veteran of 22 years of flying.

A little liniment fixed him up.

The Pitt County ABC Board, this morning in its regular monthly meeting, reprimanded G. C. Elks, Pitt ABC supervisor, for his actions during July and August in transferring liquor from the Pitt County warehouse to the Beaufort County ABC facility.

The resolution which was passed unanimously by the Board read after "having had an inventory of the whiskey in the Pitt Warehouse and said audit . . . disclosing there was no shortage of whiskey in the Pitt Warehouse and records be in correct and proper order . . . and the board being of the opinion there was no willful violation of any criminal law and only an inadvertent violation of State Regulation . . . ordered that Mr. Elks be—and he is hereby reprimanded and cautioned not to violate any law or regulation in the future."

The Board's action stemmed from a case brought to light last month in which Elks released three cases of liquor to Beaufort County ABC supervisor James M. Silverthorn for sale in the Beaufort County ABC stores.

According to Board members, who said Elks has discussed the matter fully with the Pitt Board and with William S. Hunt, chairman of the State ABC Board, David Thomas Sparrow of Washington, a sales representative of A man who allegedly claimed about a quart from a quantity of bootleg liquor was charged along with his wife Saturday night.

Chief ABC officer J. M. Ward said Milton Barrett, 39-year-old Negro was arrested after he told officers a quart of non-tax-paid alcohol belonged to him.

The officers had just charged his wife with possession of one and a half gallons of non-tax-paid liquor for purpose of sale. She was identified as R. Miller Barrett, 30. Both live at 300 W. First St.

Barrett was placed under $200 bond while Mrs. Barrett's bond was set at $300. They were to be tried in City Court this morning.

Juanita Phillips, 32-year-old Negro of 711 B. Fleming St. was charged with possession of non-tax-paid liquor during the weekend. She was to be tried in City Court and her bond was set at $200.

a liquor distillery and Silverthorn came to Pitt County on two occasions to "borrow" several cases of the salesman's brand of whiskey for the Beaufort County Stores which were out of stock. Both times the liquor was transported from Pitt to Beaufort County on Sparrow's car.

Each time, Silverthorn signed for the whiskey which was ordered and replaced in the Pitt Warehouse and charged to the Beaufort County facility.

As a result of a hearing on the case in Raleigh, September 20, the State Board suspended Sparrow's permit to sell whiskey for 60 days when he admitted hauling several cases of liquor to Washington in his car on two occasions.

State law prohibits anyone from hauling more than one-gallon of liquor except employees of the state warehouse who make all deliveries to county ABC systems.

In addition to suspending Sparrow's permit, the Board stopped the sale of the particular brand of whiskey over the state for 60 days.

It was explained that all whiskey coming into North Carolina has to come through the central warehouse in Raleigh for delivery.

Orders are taken by distillery salesmen and the liquor is shipped to the central warehouse. After the state warehouse receives the shipment, it then delivers it to the county warehouse from which the order originated. The county warehouse in turn supplies the ABC stores throughout the county.

The Board in reprimanding Elks for his actions, said he has been an employee in the ABC system in Pitt since 1935. His records, which are always checked by an auditing firm from Raleigh every three months have always been "perfect," the board said.

At the close of today's meeting ABC Board Chairman J. W. Joyner reported that ABC sales in Pitt County for the month of September had increased $19,368.45 over the same period for September 1959. Sales for September, 1960 totaled $149,575.55 while 1959 sales amounted to $130,207.50.

Sales for the first quarter of the fiscal year including July, August and September are up $33,198.75 over the same period one year ago, Joyner added.
