

Furious Khrushchev Facing Another Setback By UN

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Premier Khrushchev, stunned by a steamroller setback in the U.N. General Assembly, was expected to return today to oratorical battlefield where he faces another in a succession of painful defeats.

A high Soviet source said Khrushchev likely would be on hand for the afternoon session to press his demand that the full assembly discuss his charge of U. S. aggression with regard to intelligence plane flights.

The Soviet chief appeared to be gripped by an almost apoplectic fury when the disarmament vote went heavily against him. He openly talked of rockets and war.

Time is running out for him—unless he changes his mind about flying back to Moscow Thursday night.

He has been beaten down repeatedly in the General Assembly, the latest setback coming Tuesday night in spite of a raging, threatening speech demanding that disarmament be debated at once by the assembly without preliminary committee consideration.

The 99-nation assembly voted 54-13 with 31 abstentions against Khrushchev's demand. Then it voted 61-12 with 24 abstentions to debate the issue in the Political Committee. Voting with the Soviet bloc on the first question were Afghanistan, Mali and fellow-traveling Guinea and Cuba. Afghanistan abstained on the second vote.

Today the assembly discussed Soviet demands to bypass committee consideration of two more Soviet resolutions. The U.N. Steering Committee has recommended that both be debated by the Political Committee before they come to the assembly.

One resolution charges the United States with aggressive actions against the Soviet Union, menacing world peace. It is based on the American U2 plane shot down over Soviet territory and the RB47 shot down off the north coast of the Soviet Union.

The other calls for a declaration by the assembly that all "colonial countries and peoples" should be granted independence immediately. In an earlier speech Khrushchev said all peoples should have immediate freedom regardless of whether they are ready for it.

Khrushchev claimed the assembly rostrum twice during Tuesday's debate on where disarmament should be debated first.

His first statement was quiet and reasoned. As expected, he urged a special summit session of the assembly be convened, somewhere in Europe and early in 1961, to discuss disarmament alone. He said American pre-occupation with the presidential election precludes the United States from assuming "any new important obligations" on disarmament.

"The Soviet delegation insists on the necessity of the consideration on the question at a plenary meeting of the U.N. General Assembly with the heads of government participating," he declared.

Western delegates opposed this proposition. Hours later Khrushchev suddenly demanded the rostrum again.

He lumbered onto the dais and began to storm.

He seemed to take the position that the West was trying to frighten him.

"We won't be bullied. We won't be scared," he thundered. "If you want to compete with us in the arms race, we will beat you at that. Our rockets come out like sausages from the machine. Do you want to try us out?"

Later he returned to this theme in another roaring passage.

"We are not bulls to be scared at red cloths. We are Communists. Our nerves are strong. Do you want to scare us with arguments? You haven't got the guts to do it. We are not afraid of war. If a war is to be foisted on us, we will be victorious regardless of sacrifices. But the losses will be unaccountable and appalling."

He told the delegates: "Some of you will not be here" if a nuclear war breaks out.

Khrushchev said he is ready to go back to Moscow Thursday night. But he added he would prolong his stay in New York if it appeared there was any hope of progress on disarmament.

Communist delegations matched his explosive words with explosions of applause. The majority of delegates watched in stony silence.

When he finished speaking, Jules Moch, French expert on disarmament, claimed the right of reply. Moch's face had been a study in controlled fury when Khrushchev accused him and France of winking at assurances given on disarmament.

The French delegate hotly denied this. He called Khrushchev's speech a "spectacle."

Waves of cheers and clapping rolled through the assembly hall when Moch sat down.

Even greater applause burst after James J. Wadsworth, chief U.S. delegate, followed Moch on the rostrum.

He began by saying: "If the intervention which we have just heard from the representative of the Soviet Union is typical of what he would say in the disarmament debate, that is all the more reason why it should not be held in this chamber."

Wadsworth briefly sketched nearly two years of efforts by East and West in disarmament talks.

"I say, 'be warned by experience,'" Wadsworth continued.

"When the representative of the Soviet Union tells you that if you will accept his principles of disarmament, he in turn will give you any kind of control that you want. I can tell you that is not true."

Khrushchev was still raging when he left the assembly and went to the Soviet delegation's Park Avenue residence.

"We have been defeated—the country fighting for disarmament," he told newsmen.

"Those who support the position of the United States can celebrate a victory. They put off again the decision for discussion of disarmament."

"These are steps closer to war. It is not a victory for peace but a victory for those who want war."

Japan's Socialist Leader Killed By Young Assassin

TOKYO (AP)—A fanatic right-wing student today assassinated the Socialist party chairman, Inejiro Asanuma, an avowed friend of Communist China and the militant leader of Japanese opposition to the U. S.-Japan alliance.

The assassin, a slender Olaya Yamaguchi, 17, stabbed Asanuma twice with a foot-long sword as Asanuma spoke to a political forum on clean campaign practices. Members of the audience hurled the youth to the floor and carried him off to police headquarters.

A leftist throng of 10,000 marched on police headquarters and then on the official residence of Prime Minister Hayato Ikeda, demanding Ikeda's resignation. They shouted "Down with terrorism."

A few of the marchers broke windows in an ineffectual attempt to break into police headquarters but otherwise there was no violence. The demonstrators began to disperse after a Cabinet official received leaders of the leftist labor federation Sohyo and told them the government would proceed with firmness.

Police reported that the young killer confessed he had plotted the assassination for the past three days and said he had no accomplices. Police said he told them Asanuma was a traitor who was trying to sell Japan to the Communists.

Asanuma was hurried to a hospital where he died of two chest wounds, one of them close to the heart. The assassin was a former member of the ultranationalist Greater Japan Patriotic Society.

Members of the extremist Zengakuren Student Association and of the big left-wing labor federation Sohyo—Asanuma's comrades-in-arms in demonstrations against the new U.S.-Japan security treaty last spring—led the march on the station.

They carried placards proclaiming "Down with the Ikeda Cabinet which killed Asanuma" and "Don't permit terrorism."

It was the first major political murder in 24 years in a country where "government by assassination" was prevalent before World War II. But it was the third political stabbing by a rightist fanatic in four months—the other victims recovered—and it raised fears that ultranationalist terrorism once again is becoming a major factor in political life.

Asanuma, 61, was in the midst of a speech when Yamaguchi rushed from the left side of the stage and struck twice with his sword. Asanuma staggered two or three steps, held his chest, mumbled some words and collapsed on the blood-spattered stage.

Conservative Prime Minister Hayato Ikeda was sitting less than two yards away.

At the hospital doctors administered oxygen and a heart stimulant, but he was dead when he reached the operating table.

The slaying gave the left wing a martyr and could help the Socialists in the campaign to cut down the conservatives' strong parliamentary majority next month.

Harnett's Indians To Go To Court

FAYETTEVILLE, N.C. (AP)—Harnett County Indian parents are going to court in an effort to have their children enrolled at the all-white Dunn High school.

This decision was announced here today by attorneys who have been representing the parents in negotiations with the Harnett County School Board during the past month.

Attorneys Joe Tally Jr. and Nelson W. Taylor, both of Fayetteville, said that their decision came after a final effort to reach an agreement had failed.

They are representing the parents of Emma Jean Chance, Juanita Chance, her cousin, and Huey Paul Maynard.

The three children staged sit-in demonstrations for several days last month in an effort to gain admission.

The parents objected to sending the children to East Carolina Indian school, 36 miles away, in Sampson County. They also have contended the Sampson school is substandard.

Last week two Indians were given suspended sentences on trespass charges growing out of the sit-ins. James Chance, father of one of the children, and Claude Groves were sentenced to 30 days in jail by Dunn Recorder's Court Judge H. Paul Strickland. He ordered the sentence suspended on payment of a $5 fine and court costs. He also stipulated that the two not trespass further at the Dunn school.

The Indians' attorneys have not decided whether to appeal.

They indicated they would file suit by next Monday, either in U.S. Eastern District Court or Harnett Superior Court if an agreement is not reached.

Their statement: "Last week after a thorough study of the law and the facts in this matter, we asked the Harnett County Board of Education, through their attorneys, to admit the three children to the Dunn High School on Monday, Oct. 10. The board has failed to do so. Accordingly, as we then notified the board that we would do in case of such failure, we shall, within five days file suit to have these three children and any other qualified Indian children in Harnett County admitted to Dunn High School."

"The board members of their attorneys, or both, have failed to follow what we think are the clear and compelling principles of law involved."

They are dealing with Indian children and not with chattel. The thing being sought is an equal education for them. Until the suit is decided, arrangements will be made by friends and relatives of these children to give them interim school instruction."

On Tuesday the first of the boycott started when 250 students at the Courtney Elementary School who are enrolled in the afternoon split session showed up for morning classes. They were sent home and told to return for their afternoon session which they did not do.

The City School Board previously announced plans for a new Negro high school as well as a 12-room addition to Courtney.

Spy-In-The-Sky Satellite Fails

POINT ARGUELLO, Calif. (AP)—The United States' first spy-in-the-sky rocket failed to orbit for reasons being sought today by Air Force scientists with only meager clues.

Project officials announced that the first in the series of Samos satellites radioed back a few messages of its performance Tuesday, then disappeared.

It was to be the forerunner of satellites equipped with scanning gear so sensitive they are expected to take pictures or TV shots better than photos made from the U2 reconnaissance plane.

Agree On Rates For VOA Outlet

RALEIGH (AP)—Virginia Electric & Power Co. and the General Services Administration have reached an agreement on the rate the federal government will pay for its big Voice of America transmitter in Pitt County.

The State Utilities Commission Tuesday dismissed a case which resulted from the rate disagreement. This cancelled a hearing which had been set for Thursday.

Utilities Commission Says Bloxam Return Was Talked At Joint Meet

By ALVIN TAYLOR
Reflector City Editor

Returning Leonard Bloxam to full-time Utilities superintendent duties was considered at a joint unofficial Utilities Commission-City Council meeting last Tuesday afternoon.

This was revealed by Utilities commissioners last night.

Chairman Charles O'H. Horne invited questions from a newsman at the opening of last night's monthly meeting. Asked if such a joint meeting had been held prior to the Thursday night City Council meeting, Horne replied that it had.

"We met here in this office (Supt. Bloxam's) at 5:15," he stated. "I called the meeting myself and both boards were here. There were two subjects to be considered, one of a personal nature and the other in regard to asking that Mr. Bloxam come back full-time."

Horne and other members of the commission verified that all members of the City Council were present with the exception of Dr. M. W. Aldridge.

That would include: Mayor S. Eugene West, Wesley Harvey, Charles King and W. S. Stafford. All members of the Utilities Commission attended the unofficial meeting. This includes: Chairman Horne, Ed Waldrop, Dr. Ray Minges, Dr. K. B. Pace and B. B. Sugg Jr.

Dr. Aldridge was not present at the council meeting Thursday night when official action was taken by council members concerning the change.

Informal Request

Horne said last night that the request was made of the council informally and that it had been under consideration for several months. In fact, he said, commission members had spoken to Bloxam about it late last spring.

"It wasn't thought up overnight," he declared.

Bloxam has been serving as Utilities superintendent and City Manager since 1956. The commission and the City Council agreed at that time to combine the two jobs after City Manager James S. Hughes resigned. Bloxam had been serving as Utilities superintendent for nearly two years in 1956.

It first came to light that a change was being considered when Utilities Chairman Horne appeared before the council Thursday night to ask that Bloxam be returned as full-time Utilities superintendent. The council passed a motion granting the request stipulating that there be "no rush" in order that the city have adequate time to find a new city manager.

Commissioner Ray Minges pointed out last night the commission has had previous informal meetings on occasions to discuss problems.

"We average at least one and a half informal meetings a month to discuss things that will have to come before the board for final action."

At another point in the meeting Dr. Minges said, "I don't think this commission has anything to apologize for. We are working for the good of the City of Greenville."

Commissioner Ed Waldrop said, "I've been on a few boards in my life. I'll have to admit this is the workingest board I've ever been on. I hope the Daily Reflector and no citizen of Greenville thinks that the only time the commission members work is at the hour and a half session the second Tuesday night each month."

He emphasized that "no official action is taken on anything other than at regular, public, open meetings."

No Motion Necessary

Asked if the commission felt that any official action was needed by the commission prior to requesting the change, Chairman Horne said, "It was my thinking that no motion was necessary. He is an employee of our organization."

Commissioner Minges concurred in this. "In fact I would object to a motion, he said."

Horne said that the commission had talked to council members about the proposed separation prior to the Tuesday afternoon meeting. In answer to questions, he described the Tuesday meeting as an informal one. He said there were no minutes and no motions "but we did come to a conclusion which was made official when I went before the City Council."

Following the questioning, Horne said, "The commission has been entirely satisfied with Mr. Bloxam's work during the time he has been in the combined jobs."

However, he said the Utilities has been steadily growing. The electric and water departments have been increasing in size and with the coming of natural gas an abnormal growth can be expected in that department. Construction of a sewage disposal plant, now underway, indicates the growth in that department.

On top of all that, Horne said, the city will have unusual expenditures over the next few years.

"The Utilities itself needs a full-time man," Horne declared. "He came to us in 1954 as a full-time man. The work load will be drastically increased over the next few years."

Horne said he also wanted to point out that the commission has tried to cooperate with the City Council.

"As far as the future is concerned, I don't see why we can't continue to cooperate under this new set-up."

He said that under city ordinances the city manager is a sixth member of the Utilities Commission.

"If this is not enough and the City Council wants to put anything else into effect, I feel the Utilities Commission will cooperate with them," he said. "We will bend over backward to be certain that this cooperation is continued."

Horne also said it was mentioned in the article (Friday's Daily Reflector) that some other cities place their city manager over the utilities. He pointed out that even in those operations the superintendent holds a full-time job serving under the city manager.

Specifications For New Water Well Prepared

Specifications for a new water well have been prepared and will be sent to well drilling companies for bids, Supt. Leonard Bloxam reported to the Utilities Commission last night.

The well is planned for Utilities-owned property near the intersection of Greenville Blvd. and 14th St. Ext.

It will be the second deep well to be put in operation on the water system. The first well was drilled only a few years ago at the 13th and Washington Sts. elevated tank site.

Prior to that, the city's entire water supply came from its water treatment plant which takes water from the Tar River.

Bloxam also reported that burned out coils on the Washington and 13th Sts. pump had put it out of commission temporarily. However, he said the water plant's production is adequate to take care of the city's needs while the pump is out.

Chairman Charles O'H. Horne reported that he had gone before the City Council to request that Supt. Bloxam be returned to full-time duties. The change will be made at a convenient time to the city.

Commissioners discussed a newspaper section to be carried in the Daily Reflector illustrating the Utilities' yearly report. Chairman Horne asked Bloxam to obtain specific information and report back at the next commission meeting.

The next meeting was set for Nov. 15 because of a Water Works Convention conflict on Nov. 8.

Bloxam reported on various Utilities projects and Business Manager Larry Brown gave the monthly financial report.

Religious Issue Tackled By Solemn Ex-President

WACO, Tex. (AP)—Former President Harry S. Truman Tuesday night delivered what the Democrats say they hope will be the knockout punch against attacks on presidential candidate John F. Kennedy's Roman Catholic religion.

In an unusually serious mood, Truman told a crowd that gave approval 24 times with applause that "innuendoes and downright lies" are being used to arouse religious prejudice. "I say to you this is un-American. It makes me sick and it makes me want to fight and that is what I am doing," Truman said.

Truman, on stage with House Speaker Sam Rayburn and Sen. Ralph Yarborough, both Texas Democrats, devoted more than half his 30-minute speech to the question of religion.

The setting was in a central Texas area heavily populated by Baptists like Truman, Rayburn and Yarborough.

Many Baptist ministers and other clergymen have openly questioned Kennedy's qualification to serve as president in view of his Catholic religion.

"I think that Jack Kennedy has responded very well to the attacks on his religion," Truman said. "He has answered all reasonable questions with patience, with dignity and candor."

Asking the audience, estimated by local Kennedy-Johnson leaders at 5,000, to "listen carefully," he read the part of Article VI of the Constitution which declares that no religious test shall be required as a qualification to any office of public trust.

Tobacco Nearing Record Yield

RALEIGH (AP)—The 1960 North Carolina blue-cured tobacco crop looks like it will be 17.6 per cent above last year.

Based on Oct. 1 conditions, the Federal-State Crop Reporting Service said Tuesday it looks for a harvest of 826,850,000 pounds. This was 23 million pounds above the Sept. 1 estimate.

Record yields per acre would be set if the estimate is realized. The agency predicted a 1960 yield of 1,795 pounds per acre, which would be 68 pounds above the previous record set in 1953.

Production estimates by types were: Type 11 (Old and Middle Belts) 295,750,000 pounds; Type 12 (Eastern Belt) 427,500,000 pounds; and Type 13 (Border Belt) 103,600,000 pounds.

The burlap estimate of 19,600,000 was unchanged from a month earlier. The anticipated yield is 2,600 pounds per acre.

Other crop reports:

Corn—A North Carolina harvest this year of 83,228,000 bushels, which would be a record. The service said corn in the eastern part of the state made considerable recovery after damaging blows from Hurricane Donna.

Soy Beans—A record harvest of 12,079,000 bushels.

Supporters Of Lumumba Are Raising Tension

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—Scores of Patrice Lumumba's supporters, barred from visiting the deposed premier at his guarded residence, took out their anger on white motorists in this tense capital today.

Europeans driving by Lumumba's luxurious villa ran into a hail of stones from a crowd of Congolese massed in the area. No damages or serious injuries were reported in these and other sporadic incidents, but hostility toward white residents apparently was on the rise.

While opposing soldiers faced each other around the Lumumba residence, the Congo's ruling government commission pondered the next move in its efforts to arrest the ousted premier.

The commission Tuesday threatened an army uprising unless U.N. forces hand over Lumumba. Machinegunners of Ghana's U.N. contingent mounted a protective guard around the controversial ex-premier and prevented the execution of the arrest warrant for Lumumba signed by President Joseph Kasavubu.

Congo army troops formed an outer cordon around Lumumba's residence, keeping him a prisoner inside while the government commission and the U.N. Command wrangled over his fate.

Justin Bomboko, head of the commission appointed by army chief Col. Joseph Mobutu, renewed demands upon the U.N. Command Tuesday night for permission to serve an arrest warrant and said Congolese troops intended to take Lumumba into custody.

Any U.N. interference, he said, would set off an army uprising throughout the Congo, and this "could start a war in the Congo and a world war."

But he did not set a deadline for Lumumba's surrender. He said he was waiting for further word from U.N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld.

The U.N. Command declined to deliver Lumumba on the grounds that under the Congo's temporary constitution, Parliament must approve the arrest of one of its members.

College Program Urged Baptists

RALEIGH (AP)—A special committee has reported it will call the 1960 State Baptist Convention to meet early next year to plan a $45 million campaign for seven colleges.

The commission on advance program for the colleges told the convention general board Tuesday the figure represents minimum immediate needs for the schools.

The convention meets in Asheville next month. The committee said it will recommend a special session to be held early in 1961 to consider needs of the colleges.

The seven Baptist institutions are Wake Forest, Meredith, Campbell, Mars Hill, Wingate, Gardner-Webb and Chowan.

The general board approved a budget goal of $4,400,000 for 1961, to be presented to the Asheville session. This would be $300,000 over the present budget.

Runaway Surgical Patient Is Found After Night In A Field

The search for an elderly Negro surgical patient, who ran away from Pitt Memorial Hospital Monday night, was ended yesterday afternoon when the man was found, seemingly to be none the worse for wear after his night-long stay in nearby fields.

Pitt County sheriff's deputies and members of the Greenville Rescue Squad located the patient, standing in a field full of thorns, about a half mile south of the hospital, near the Stantonsburg road.

Sheriff's deputies said the man, Herbert Evans of Winterville, left his bed in the hospital and ran out into the cold night about 7 p.m. before nurses or nurses aides could stop him.

They noted that one of the aides attempted to catch him but could not.

A search for Evans, who was clad only in a hospital night gown, was started immediately. Officers noted the man was barefooted.

Deputy sheriffs searched the area around the hospital most of the night Monday, then started another search early Tuesday morning, using bloodhounds. The search, as did the one the night before, proved of no value.

Shortly after noon yesterday, the Greenville Rescue Squad was called in to aid in the hunt. When their search of the area did not turn up the man, it was decided to try an air search of the area and a plane was secured.

As the aircraft made its first pass over the area, Evans was sighted, standing in the middle of a field. The ground party was notified by radio and moved in to pick up the runaway, about 3:30 p.m.

Evans, whom hospital officials said was in a "confused" state, gave no reason for his actions, deputies noted. He had been admitted to the hospital for a kidney operation, they added.

Officers noted Evans told them he had been to "prayer meeting" the night before, and added the cold night was "right tight."

WOULD MOVE UN

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Participants in a Knoxville Journal poll voted nearly 2-1 in favor of moving the United Nations headquarters out of the United States. The paper said Wednesday the vote was 270-141 to move the U.N. elsewhere.

RUNAWAY PATIENT . . . Herbert Evans is shown being escorted from the field where he was standing to a waiting car by Deputy Sheriff Gerald Davis.

How To Care For Your Pelts

AP Newsfeatures

Here are rules to follow to make your furs look better and last longer:

1. DON'T comb or brush furs; shake them out.
2. DON'T hang damp furs in closet. Hang in cool place with circulating air. If thoroughly soaked, take to furrier for treatment.
3. DON'T put fur near heat. Both fur and leather will become brittle.
4. DON'T put perfume directly on furs. It's drying.
5. DON'T store fur in plastic bag. Without air circulation, leather will dry out.
6. DON'T mothproof with chemical sprays. Put in modern storage vaults in summer.
7. DON'T pin flowers or jewelry where it will rub against fur.
8. DO have furs cleaned regularly by fur specialist.

Gershwin Topic For Book Club

ROBERSONVILLE—The Book Lover's Club held its first meeting of the new club year Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. J. M. Little at her home on Main Street.

The new president, Mrs. Vance Roberson, presided. The secretary, Mrs. Barney Stokes, called the roll and read the minutes.

Mrs. Leo Everett, guest speaker for the afternoon, gave a program on George Gershwin. After giving important events in his life, she reviewed two of his most outstanding works "Rhapsody in Blue" and "Porgy and Bess."

During the social hour refreshments were served and the club listened to recordings by Gershwin.

Special guests were Miss Gladys Bailey and Mesdames Forrest Boone and Leo Everett.

Books were exchanged and the club adjourned to meet Oct. 11 with Mrs. R. K. Adkins.

Albemarle Christian Meet Held

ROBERSONVILLE—The Albemarle Christian Union meeting was held in the First Christian Church, Robersonville, on Oct. 5.

The president, E. Leon Roebuck of Washington, N. C., presided over the morning session. The theme was "Decade of Decision, 1950-60." He said, "These meetings give us a better understanding and appreciation of the entire brotherhood—the state, the nation and the world."

James Manning gave the devotional, followed by the welcome address by Mrs. C. Abram Roberson and response by the Rev. Wilbur Ballinger from Belhaven. The minutes were read by the secretary, Beaman Whitchard.

The Rev. John Goff of Ayden spoke on "Fifteen Years of Fellowship and Service." This was the 60th quarterly meeting of the union since its organization in the Robersonville church 15 years ago.

Warden Allen, assistant to the president of Atlantic Christian College, had as his topic "Looking Forward."

Lunch was served by the C. W. P. of the church.

Charles Brooks, vice president, had charge of the afternoon session. The first speaker was the Rev. Howard Groover of Williamston. After the business session, the Rev. Wilbur T. Wallace took as his topic "Echoes From Edinburgh."

The hymn "Blest Be The Tie That Binds" preceded the benediction.

Friends Honor Mrs. Griffin

ROBERSONVILLE—Mrs. Mario Griffin spent Thursday night at the home of her sister, Mrs. Betty W. Parker. Six of her friends, Mrs. Melton Ayers, Mrs. Jake Mobley, Mrs. Roy Edmondson, Mrs. Fred Taylor, Mrs. Murphy Smith, and Mrs. Kenneth Roberson, entertained at a surprise going-away party in her honor.

After the guests arrived, gifts were presented to the honoree. The hostesses served potato chips, crackers, salted nuts, and soft drinks to those present.

The former bookkeeper for A.O. Roberson will make her home in Raleigh while her husband is attending State College.

Walter Roberson attended the Chevrolet and Oldsmobile School in Charlotte last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Haislip and Mrs. Mabel Nelson were called to Newport News after their brother, Staton Haislip, had a heart attack.

Monday, Mesdames Vernon Jenkins, Reuben Everett, Lester Roebuck and Harvey Stalls attended the County Council meeting of the Home Demonstration Clubs held in Williamston.

Black and white pepper come from the same pepper berry. The former includes the whole berry, the latter is just the inner kernel.

Succhini is a type of squash that has a very thin green skin. Its shape looks like that of a cucumber.

Mrs. Alexander Speaker At Benjamin May Chapter

FARMVILLE—Mrs. H. H. Alexander of Goldsboro, state chairwoman of Good Citizenship, was guest speaker at the October meeting of the Benjamin May chapter, D.A.R., held here. Mrs. Ellen Lewis Carroll, Mrs. B. F. Lewis and Miss Nancy Lewis were hostesses.

Mrs. Alexander, a native of New Jersey, spoke on the subject, "The Achievement Necessary?" She told the group that achievement is necessary to an individual and a nation, as well. She emphasized the importance of the framing of the Constitution by the founding fathers.

She gave an account of circumstances which led to the Mayflower Compact, the first American document. The latter was a declaration of justice and equality for every one of the 102 passengers brought over on the Mayflower voyage of November 1620, which ended in a forced landing on Cape Cod instead of in Virginia, the original destination.

After describing sufferings and hardships of the colony, its fortitude and contribution to religious liberty and the public school system, and accomplishment in setting a pattern of democratic process in the new world, Mrs. Alexander mentioned the signing of the Constitution.

She spoke of the Plymouth Plantation restoration project at Plymouth, Mass.; described a visit to Cape Cod and exhibited bayberry branches and candles, with articles of antique glass and china.

Entertainment
Mrs. Carroll, program leader for the afternoon, earlier presented Mrs. Thomas G. Bullock, who entertained the chapter with vocal selections of old favorites with autoharp accompaniment.

The business session was called to order by the regent, Miss Elizabeth Lang. Mrs. M. V. Jones served as accompanist.

The subject of the meditation by Mrs. G. Alex Rouse, chaplain, was "There Is Hope for the World."

The regent read excerpts from the president-general's message for October, calling attention to the 11th as Founder's Day of the national society; the 12th, Columbus Day; and the 23rd as United States Day.

Ice Cream Dessert--Old Idea

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor
WHATEVER HAPPENED to the small metal ice cream molds that used to lie around in dark cupboards in many old-fashioned kitchens?

Occasionally in an antique shop or the dim reaches of a restaurant-supply place we come upon them and remember how, when we were very young, they yielded such unforgettable delights. Not once in all our grown-up years have we ever met a cook who used them. Their buyers? Curio collectors or professional chefs.

Much to the distress of my sister and me, the kitchen of our childhood didn't boast any of these molds, so fancy shapes couldn't be made at home with the luscious ice cream that came out of the birthday parties, my mother managed to heal our great sorrow. She ordered ice cream in individual shapes from the local dairy.

Such excitement on the days those shapes were to be delivered! Would the delivery man forget to bring them? When my mother tried to reassure us that such mistakes were unknown, we worried whether he would come on time. Finally the molded ice cream arrived and our fretting ended. The shapes were served up in all their glamorous beauty.

Along with the birthday cake, they were brought to the table on a paper-dolled tray. What magnificence! A floating swan and a bigger-than-life-size butterfly, a tiny elephant and a pig standing on his hind legs; a miniature banana and a pineapple; a bouquet of rosebuds and a daisy—or what was supposed to look like a daisy.

And the colors! Green, white, brown, yellow and pink—from the palest tint to a slightly garish purple. Each shape was made in the appropriate mixed hues.

There was just one sad note in all this. The chances that any little girl would get the shape she had her heart set on were slim.

The boys who came to our youthful parties were always the bouncy type. The moment the ice cream was brought to the table they "dibbled" the shapes they wanted with loud shouts. Of course they had been taught that "girls are served first," but at the sight of that ice cream they threw their manners to the winds.

On the other hand, the little girls were irreproachably ladylike. Not even one of my best friends, known in the neighborhood as "a regular tomboy," demurred. In her ordinary party dress, with her weekday pigtail combed out into long sinuous waves, she accepted this early taste of masculine directness with utter grace.

Does this talk of fancy ice cream bring back memories of your own? Search out an attic! Is there a box of old kitchen utensils packed away? Lift up the lid and unfold the crumpled paper.

WSCS Makes Its Fall Plans

Eighteen New Bern district officers of the Woman's Society of Christian Service met Thursday in Centenary Methodist Church, New Bern, for their fall planning meeting. Mrs. Albert Venters, president, presented goals for the year.

Mrs. Lewis Dillman, Secretary of Children's Work, announced that workshops will be held for workers with children in Kingston on Sunday, Oct. 30, and in Beaufort on Nov. 6. The meetings will be from three to five o'clock in Queen Street and Anne St. churches, respectively.

There will be two sub-district meetings held this fall, according to Mrs. Venters. Kingston and Greenville sub-districts will meet in Queen Street Church, Kingston, on Nov. 17. Jacksonville, Morehead City, and New Bern sub-districts will meet in Centenary Church, New Bern, on Nov. 21.

The Wesleyan Service Guild meeting for the New Bern and Goldsboro districts will be held in Queen Street Church Nov. 20. The speaker for these meetings is Miss Louise Nichols, Field Worker from the Woman's Division of Christian Service.

Mrs. Venters announced that the Southeastern Jurisdiction Meeting will be held in Trinity Methodist Church, Durham, on Feb. 21-22. This is the first time in 17 years this meeting has been held in North Carolina. All women are invited to attend the sessions.

Plans for a district retreat March 14-18 were given by Mrs. W. B. Rouse, spiritual life secretary. Dr. John Beisen, from Missouri, will be the speaker.

REPRESENTING ECC AT CHOWAN COLLEGE EVENT

Dean of Men James Mallory and Dr. James W. Butler of East Carolina College are representing the college today at the Founders Day Program and the dedication of a new dormitory for men at Chowan College in Murfreesboro. Mrs. Bernice Kelly Hall of Seaboard, North Carolina author, and Lloyd E. Griffin of Edenton and Raleigh, executive vice president of the North Carolina Citizens Association, will be chief speakers at events of the day.

BETTER GROOMING DAY FOR WAYNE 4-H'ERS
Linda Gardner, Jane Lee and Lillian Davis, Wayne County 4-H'ers planned a better grooming day for local 4-H girls and women adult leaders.

The day's program was filled with information on improving personal appearance.

Miss Sara Fagan, assistant home economics agent, reports the morning session was devoted to nutrition and exercises. The second session was on becoming colors, lines and styles for girls.

BASKET LADY
Mrs. Cimerio Broyhill, the "basket lady," as so many people know her, has an interesting craft. She makes durable, attractive baskets from white oak splits. Since the Trading Post opened, she has been supplying them with her baskets.

According to Mrs. Sue Beaver, home economics agent, Mrs. Broyhill does all the work herself. She even cuts the white oak and makes the splits.

CHUCK WAGON SUPPER
The chuck wagon supper proved popular at the annual junior dairy show held in Iredell County. Instead of serving the usual box supper to the 4-H'ers and guests attending the show, the Scotts Home Demonstration Club served char-coaled hamburgers, chuck wagon beans, and other foods from an authentic chuck wagon.

Mrs. Nancy Myers, home economics agent, reports there was also a horsemanship and roping show held during the event.

Toothbrushes Sell In Jones
Do you need a way to make money for your 4-H club? Recently, the Maple Grove Community 4-H Club in Jones County decided to sell toothbrushes as a money-making project.

To date, they have sold approximately 125 toothbrushes in their community," says Mrs. Fayette Gray, home economics agent. "The money will be used for special projects.

State President Honored At Tea
Mrs. David Williams, state president of the North Carolina Home Demonstration Clubs, was honored with a tea recently by the Duplin Home Demonstration County Council.

The local Duplin club women are proud to have the state president in their county and approximately 100 club women, plus other county leaders, attended the tea.

Let's Eat A Good Breakfast
"Let's eat a good breakfast" was heard in all the Home Demonstration Clubs in Transylvania County last month. Club members reported it was a problem to get their school children to eat an adequate breakfast.

Miss Anne Benson Priest, home economics agent, reports she showed how to make French toast using an electric fry pan at each meeting. The women were urged to try new breakfast foods served in an attractive way in an effort to get the children to eat.

Mrs. R. F. Clark Is Voted Outstanding Club Member

The Belvoir Home Demonstration Club recently voted Mrs. R. F. Clark the club's most outstanding leader of the year, at its monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. D.M. Hollowell.

The assistant home agent, Mrs. Mavis Johnson, gave the demonstration, "Living With Others". Reports were given by Mrs. D. M. Hollowell and Mrs. McAlvin Turner.

Plans were made for the County Council and achievement meetings.

N.C. Knows About Demo Program

It's taken a long time for the tobacco support program to gain the recognition it deserves as a sound model for an overall federal program for agriculture. At least, however, Sen. John Kennedy has given that program recognition by making it one of the cornerstones of his proposed farm program.

The Democratic nominee asserted in Washington some weeks ago when interviewed by Tar Heel newsmen that he felt the tobacco program is sound and could be used as a model for other farm programs. Again on his visit to Greenville a few weeks ago he voiced his approval of the tobacco program and called for its continuance.

Last week in a major address in Kentucky, Sen. Kennedy said forthrightly that the tobacco program represents the kind of realistic price supports and realistic production controls that are essential to a sound agricultural economy in the nation.

In contrast to Vice President Nixon's farm program—which at best is difficult to understand—Sen. Kennedy has indicated to farmers where he stands in regard to firm price supports and controls on production. Nixon, on the other hand, still talks in ambiguous terms about an agricultural program.

For North Carolina, where agriculture is still an economic mainstay and where tobacco is a major source of income, there should be little question of which agricultural program offers the best hope of improving economic conditions. In this area the tobacco program, while it has its faults, has long been recognized as the most realistic of all federal agricultural programs. With the endorsement of the Democratic nominee, the program has received further recognition in other areas of the nation.

From the standpoint of the farmer, there is no question that the Democratic party has offered through the years a much more realistic agricultural program than the Republicans. During the Eisenhower administration there has been a steady decline in the relative economic position of the farmer compared with other segments of the economy. This Republican administration also focused some of its most determined attacks upon the tobacco program in an effort to do away with its key points of firm price supports and strict production controls.

Fortunately it was unsuccessful in its efforts to kill off the tobacco program.

What then have the farmers of North Carolina to choose between when they consider the two national parties, and their presidential candidates?

On the one hand there is Sen. Kennedy who has asserted the tobacco program might well become a model for all agricultural programs of the federal government.

On the other hand there are the generalizations of Vice President Nixon promising support for agriculture, but these must be viewed against the backdrop of the present administration's efforts which have brought declining farm prices and which have sought to destroy the tobacco program.

Tar Heel farmers understand the tobacco program and what it means to agriculture. And Sen. Kennedy does too.

No Real Concern For N.C. Races

By LYNN NISBET

BATTLEGROUND—With the election less than four weeks away North Carolina is still a battleground with outcome in doubt as to the presidential ticket. There is no real concern on part of Democrats about the State officers, although many party leaders concede that Sanford's majority will be the lowest percentage since Max Gardner's 55.6 per cent margin in 1928. There hasn't been an election since 1928 that the Democratic candidate for Governor did not get better than a two-to-one majority. Most estimates are in the range of 60-40 for this year.

If the total vote goes to around a million and a half, as many observers forecast, that will mean approximately 900,000 for Sanford, 600,000 for Gavin. Translated into another kind of percentage rating, that would mean Terry Sanford would get about 12 percent more votes than any previous Democratic candidate, and Robert Gavin would get better than 50 percent more than any Republican candidate in the history of the state. Biggest vote ever received by a Democrat was 796,306 for William Umstead in 1952. That same year saw Herbert F. (Chub) Sewell Jr., get the biggest Republican vote in history of 383,329.

Other State officers—members of the Council of State and the judiciary—are expected to get the usual better than two to one margin in favor of the Democratic candidates. The fact is, very few people except the candidates for positions other than President and Governor are paying any attention to their races. For that reason it is probable that the total votes for these positions will fall further below the top total than usual.

STRANGERS—Both major parties are campaigning more intensively in every corner of the state than ever before. And there are more mavericks and strangers among the campaigning groups than oldtimers have ever seen. There is a big sign in the Sir Walter Hotel lobby for the "I.B. Lake for Governor Write-in Headquarters" on the second floor. Almost directly across the street from the Wake County courthouse is a big sign indicating "Wake County Republican Headquarters." This is the first time most Wake voters have seen anything like that. Couple of blocks to the west is another sign for the "Democrats for Gavin." This kind of diversified efforts manifest in every major city in North Carolina.

REGULARS—The maverick strangers get a lot of publicity, but they do not disturb the Democrats as much as the regular Republican party activity. For the first time in memory of most living voters the Republicans are staging county and district rallies throughout the state, in areas where generally they have not bothered to have ballots at the polling places.

This week congressional district rallies have been scheduled for Asheville, where a popular Republican is challenging the Democratic candidate for Henry county's seat in the Legislature; and at Winston, where it is reported the Republicans have collected a war chest of more than $3,000 in that bulwark area of the banner Democratic second congressional district; and at Goldsboro, long-time fortress of Democratic loyalty in the third district. There are not just perfunctory occasions. They have most of the attributes of real rallies. Fourth, fifth and sixth district meetings scheduled for later in the week at Siler City, Winston-Salem and Graham are in areas where Republican votes are not as scarce as in the other eastern districts.

ARTILLERY—It is traditional for the Democrats to send batteries of heavy artillery to North Carolina. They are running true to form this year with several appearances of Senator John F. Kennedy, Senator Lyndon Johnson, Harry Truman, Adlai Stevenson, Senator Henry Jackson, et al.

It is not usual for the Republican candidate for President to make two trips into North Carolina or for the candidate for Vice President to be billed for speeches here. Secretary of Commerce Frederick Mueller is to speak at the State fair the day before Harry Truman appears, and whole bevy of Republican Senators have been lined up for North Carolina speeches.

EFFECT—The effective result of this campaigning is to put North Carolina very definitely in the doubtful column with respect to the presidential vote. Trends of the past few weeks would seem to justify Democratic hopes that the State will give its electoral vote to Kennedy and Johnson. It is definitely a hope, not a certainty. Election of Terry Sanford as Governor and all other statewide elective officials appears certain, but with less than usual margins. There isn't remote chance that Republicans could gain control of the North Carolina Legislature next year. In fact if all their candidates were elected they would still be in a world minority. However, there is a certain to be gains over the one senator and four representatives in the 1959 session. Three senators, out of the total of 50, and a dozen representatives out of 120 is not an unreasonable forecast.

Thunder Of Jets Is A Comforting Reminder

That sometimes distant, and often overhead, thunder in the sky of military aircraft is a comforting sound in these days and times.

Only a sound, but it represents a fragment of a mighty arm for peace and the mightiest single arm of destruction for any who dare violate our peace.

Though the Air Age began within the memory of living men, the power it represented in two world wars and in a "police action" stirs the imagination.

Those giant air armadas of World War II were probably the last of their kind; but we took pride then, and now, that our flying men were the best trained and best equipped.

Today's airmen are even better trained, even deadlier than the deadliest pitted against the enemy on the many fronts of 1941-45. Their tools are better, too.

Today's thunder in the sky may cause a listener to glance upward . . . and perhaps be unable to locate the source of the sound. But he knows what it means, and, as we said before . . . it's comforting.

Not The Same World Anymore

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—The world won't be the same any more.

That's the one thing which came through clear after three weeks of uproar at the United Nations. That body started in business 15 years ago with 51 nations. Last week it added its 99th.

Those 48 new members include not only neutrals but former colonial territories which are anxious to come abreast of the 20th century in a rush. If they don't get help from this country, they can try Russia.

They can play the two giants off against each other. And each for its own sake will have to do business with them. In these next 15 years the balance of world power may be settled for a century.

It would be nice to think that the neutrals and former colonial nations might team up to keep the two great powers—and later the third great power, Red China—in line, out of a pure regard for the sake of mankind.

More practically they will probably be guided by economic needs and help and military pressure, following a course which nations have always followed—what's in it for me?

Premier Khrushchev is aware of the long struggle ahead. For whatever reason he was still confident over the weekend after demanding much and getting nothing in this session of the United Nations.

"We will win, we will win," he said, and although "today we the Socialist states are in a minority tomorrow we prophesy you the West will be in the minority."

The Communist world right now may be planning adventures undreamed of by the West for Khrushchev warned that unless he gets what he wants in the United Nations "we will rely on our own strength."

In its earlier days the United Nations, relying mainly on the support and leadership of the United States, was able to stop Communist ambitions in Iran, Greece, Korea.

Those were the days when this country was ahead in nuclear development. The United States then was indisputably the world's No. 1 power—financially and militarily, with its enormous industrialization and its monopoly of the atom bomb—but this country and Russia were partners.

Today Russia challenges the world leadership of the United States. The fact that Khrushchev lost every round in the U. N. session this year would indicate the majority opinion of mankind is still on the American side.

The great challenge in these next 15 years is to keep that opinion on the same side. This will almost certainly require new tactics, new strategy, new attitudes in this country, new understandings of other people's needs.

Opinions In Brief

"National Aeronautics and Space Administration officials say that balloon-satellite Echo's skin is wrinkling. Whose isn't?" Lexington Herald.

"Unusual pose: A news picture shows Khrushchev with his mouth shut—it was taken from the back." — Memphis Press-Scimitar.

"The politicians ought to get together on foreign policy and give the U. S. a solid front abroad. A hydrogen bomb dropped on Washington will kill both Republicans and Democrats." — Forsyth (Ga.) News.

Items, it seems to me should remain just that and not colored in either one candidates or the other's favor!

Believe it or not—like it or not—there are TWO candidates for the Governorship of this fair state, and ingoring one of them isn't going to make him go away. Simply because Mr. Sanford won a Primary doesn't mean he's been elected to the Governor's chair—in fact, it wouldn't surprise some people if he NEVER got to sit in it.

I DO think it would be appreciated by all of your readers if you would give BOTH men EQUAL coverage.

Respectfully submitted

Especially During Rain

From the complaints department:

One of our associates up here seems very disturbed at times about a recurring parking problem on Evans St. — especially when it rains.

According to the way she told us, there is a constant cluttering of the Evans St. drive-in mail drop — especially when it rains.

She maintains she pulled up behind the car parked by the outdoor mail drops the other day to wait her turn. With the rain coming down, she failed to notice at first there was no driver in the car. So there she sat, waiting for the car to pull away.

As she sat there, cars honked occasionally as they passed since the rear fenders of her car were protruding into Third St. She was, unbothered, however, because she felt sure she'd be out of the way in a few moments.

Other Editors Saying ... The 'Solid' Subjects

(Wilson Times)

Dr. Conant, whose name is more closely linked with public school education than with Harvard university, where he served as president, has completed his recommendations for the junior high school.

He warns against trying to make the junior high into a small or understudy of senior high. There is no need for elaborate graduation exercises from junior high, or stress on athletics, he thinks.

As you would expect, Dr. Conant urges emphasis on "solid" academic subjects, as reading and mathematics. And he says that the junior high school should have the very best teachers because of the demanding nature of the instruction and the need for understanding of the adolescent.

The report carries 14 specific recommendations. The seventh and eighth grade students would study English, with stress on reading and composition, social studies with stress on history and geography, and mathematics and general science. Biology or physics is added in the ninth grade. He stresses, again and again, reading goals, and urges the basic skills of reading and arithmetic, begun in elementary school, must be continued as long as pupils can gain from the instruction.

In mathematics, most junior high school students would be required only to study arithmetic but a small group of talented eighth graders would begin algebra "with an eye to completing freshman college mathematics in the twelfth grade."

He allocates classroom time to 60 to 70 per cent spent on English, social studies, science and mathematics. A foreign language may be begun in the seventh grade by some students, Dr. Conant says, but only if it can be continued for six years.

Dr. Conant sets high standards for the teachers. He considers the junior high school a difficult teaching period and requiring the best teachers, even better than the senior high. He calls for a minimum goal of 50 teachers for 1,000 pupils. And the junior high school should not try to be a replica of the senior high school with "all its attendant social pressures."

Dr. Conant goes into every detail, from pupil load, to number in class, as well as the size of the high school. He gives all the advice and recommendations necessary and so clearly that those far removed from the teaching profession can see the logic of his reasoning.

Today the public is being informed on the importance of education as never before. Parents are certainly given academic measurements for their children, they know the goals of the schools because of reports and surveys.

Even home work time is balanced against the grades and subjects. Dr. Conant sets one hour as the minimum in the seventh grade to two hours by the ninth. But "drudgery, however is not meaningful home work," he concludes.

Abundant opportunities are here for the youth of today. Now if parents would supervise the home work time, see that the radio and TV are turned off, the lighting bright and quiet prevails, the home work hours will be more rewarding.

All the reports that are to come, the best teachers to be found, and the bright pupils, cannot do their best work without a home climate conducive to learning. And Dr. Conant's report certainly stresses the need for knowledge, and in the "solid" subjects, for the junior high school students.

Bowling Today Is Big, Booming

By ELMER ROESSNER

The bowling business is bragging that it is the most popular sport in America today, a statement that will be challenged by those who prefer baseball, highballs and love.

Nevertheless, bowling is big and booming and may become the prime recreation, if not the prime sport, of America. I have been interviewing a number of dedicated bowlers and they tell me they are strongly in favor of bowling because:

1. Bowling is a suburbia game. Thousands of new alleys are being erected at shopping centers and other suburban spots, only a few and downtown areas. Today perhaps half the young-marrieds of America live within a walk or a short drive of a bowling alley.

2. Bowling is a neighborhood game as well as a suburbia game. While the average person can meet some neighbors at church, some at the PTA and some at the local saloon, at the bowling alleys they can meet everybody. There's democracy—and strong right arms—in action!

3. There's a deep psychological satisfaction in bowling. It's touted as a game of skill but even the clumsiest bunny (like yours truly) can accidentally get a strike and feel equal to the experts.

4. It doesn't demand thinking. There are no Deschappes coups, India gambits or triple Schneiders in bowling. You pick up the ball and let fling. It gives the brain time for other thoughts.

5. It's a conjugal game. A husband may hesitate to take his wife to a pool parlor, a saloon or a honky-tonk, but it's perfectly proper to take her bowling. What's more, on arrival, he can chivvy her off to other neighborhood women while he joins the men's game.

6. Bowling alleys often serve beer but rarely hard liquor; in this they approach the English pub, becoming a neighborhood club. Bowling alleys may become the pubs of America, where people get together on an equal basis, drink mild beverages and—instead of throwing darts—roll balls toward innate and preposterous tenpins.

7. Bowling alleys satisfy the great American urge to reduce. Keglers imagine they are sweating away weight, little realizing that the beer and snacks they consume more than balance their losses.

8. Bowling offers an easy way to conform to the great American commandment: "Be a pal to your son!" To be a pal in basement work shop may cost a finger; to be a pal by taking the kid to a movie may take two or three hours of your life. But by taking him to a bowling alley, you can give him a feeling of being an equal with the grown generation and get him home within an hour. Furthermore, if you handle the ball right, you can let him come within a few points of beating you, which is supposed to do something for his psychic self. Besides, he might beat you.

9. High-powered promotion is behind bowling. Television, newspapers and other media are being used to convince America that bowling is exciting, fun, desirable, glamorous, distinguished and the sport of queens and princes.

10. Bowling is cheap. If it were not for automatic pinsetters, the cost of bowling would be prohibitive, especially if Hoffa organized the monkeys—the pinsetters. But automation makes the cost per game moderate.

11. Bowling leans often get employers to pick up the tab as a promotional expense.

12. Bowling is an evening game. Despite talk about shorter work-weeks, despite the rise in attendance at afternoon races, average slob and I can't go stametering until the sunset. They must choose bowling in preference to tennis, badminton and archery.

Tips: If you want to go into business for yourself, especially if you have $50,000 to invest, cautiously look into bowling. If you want to invest, with even more caution look into stocks in the industry.

Writer Backed Castro

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
Copyright, 1960 King Features Syndicate, Inc.

In June 1957, the "National Review" had this to say:

"The 'New York Times' seems to be taking over sponsorship of the revolt against President Batista of Cuba that is being led by the ex-law student, Fidel Castro, and his miscellaneous dissidents, locally and internationally backed by the Communists. Two months ago 'Times' correspondent Herbert L. Matthews, after spending a couple of days with Fidel in his Sierra Maestra camp, wrote an account that read like a Public Relations handout. Matthews is now back in Santiago, not far from the Sierra Maestra, wiring dispatches that would qualify him as chief of Fidel's psychological warfare section. Already, a quote attributed to 'a graduate student,' Matthews is displaying the Larger Vision: 'Fidel has lifted Cuba out of the inertia that was engulfing us as it has the people of the Dominican Republic, Nicaragua and Venezuela.' . . ."

We are not in the last quarter of 1960 and we know that Castro is not the angelic figure that Herbert Matthews painted him to be. We know that Cuba is a Kremlin satellite. We know it precisely now because Castro himself said so in an impromptu press interview at Idlewild airport. I listened to it on television. Castro did not use the word, satellite. But the implications were clear.

However, it was this same Herbert Matthews who was called in by the State Department to brief a new ambassador to Cuba.

In his testimony before the Senate Subcommittee on Internal Security, Ambassador Earl E. T. Smith said:

" . . . Mr. Matthews informed me that he had very knowledgeable views of Cuba and Latin American nations, and had seen the same things take place in Spain. He believed that it would be in the best interest of Cuba and the best interest of the world in general when Batista was removed from office."

The following colloquy is significant:

"Mr. Sourwine. Mr. Smith when you talked with Matthews to get the briefing before you went to Cuba, was he introduced to you as having any authority from the State Department or as being connected with the State Department in any way?"

"Mr. Smith. You asked me a short while ago who arranged the meeting with Mr. Matthews."

"Mr. Sourwine. And you said Mr. Wieland."

"Mr. Smith. I said William Wieland, but William Wieland also had to have the approval of Roy Rubottom, who was then Assistant Secretary of State for Latin American Affairs. . . ."

"Mr. Sourwine. I asked if, when you were sent to Mr. Matthews for this briefing, he was introduced to you as having any official connection with the State Department or any authority from the Department?"

"Mr. Smith. Oh, no. I knew who he was, and he obviously knew I knew who he was, but I believe that they thought it would be a good idea for me to get the viewpoint of Herbert Matthews, and also I think that Herbert Matthews is the leading Latin American editorial writer for The New York Times. Obviously the State Department would like to have the support of The New York Times. I believe there was a close connection. . . . between the Latin American desk and Herbert Matthews. . . . I would say that Mr. Wieland and all those who had

Talk Fall Campaign Plans For Moose Clothing Bank

Greenville Moose Lodge Monday night sketched plans for its fifth annual clothing bank drive to be held on the evening of October 17.

Drive Chairman Norman Garrison asked for, and received, volunteer help from a score of members who will serve as collecting agents in the campaign.

Since its inception, the clothing bank has helped many hundreds of families throughout the county.

Soviet Newsmen Covering Trials

SANTA CLARA, Cuba (AP)—The biggest conspiracy trial of the Fidel Castro regime rolled here today behind doors closed to all foreign newsmen except four Russians.

Newsmen counted 170 defendants, about a dozen of them in military uniform, who entered the courtroom at the trial opening Tuesday. Defense attorneys said more than 200 were on trial.

The accused are charged with waging armed rebellion in the Escambray Mountains or with collaborating with the insurgents.

Among those on trial was an American identified by the semi-official newspaper Revolucion as Richard Pecoraro of Staten Island, N. Y.

A New York City fireman by that name was fired from his job earlier this year after overstaying his leave on a trip to Cuba.

A second military tribunal at Santiago in eastern Cuba, was to begin hearing evidence today against 21 men the government says invaded the northeast coast of Cuba last week. They included another American identified as Anthony Zarba.

The Armed Forces Ministry announced Tuesday night that only five of the 27-man landing party was still at large. The leader previously had been reported killed.

anything to do with Cuba had a close connection with Herbert Matthews.

"I will go further than that. I will say that when I was Ambassador, that I was thoroughly aware of this, and sometimes made the remark in my own Embassy that Mr. Matthews was more familiar with the State Department thinking regarding Cuba than I was."

Herbert Matthews has been a reporter and correspondent since 1922. He has served in many foreign posts. He was "The New York Times" correspondent in the Spanish Civil War from 1936 to 1939, and during this period showed editorial sympathy for the side which has come to be an adjunct of international Communism. The Spanish Civil War was a struggle among Communists, anarchists and the Falange for the control of Spain. Out of it eventually came the regime of Franco. Like many foreign correspondents, Matthews became personally absorbed in this situation and his articles were more editorial than objective. It was this experience in Spain which won him recognition as an expert in Spanish and Latin-American affairs. He influenced American public opinion in favor of Fidel Castro who is now our enemy.

"Last year alone," said Garrison, "the clothing bank distributed necessary items of apparel to more than 250 persons."

In conjunction with the used clothing collection in Greenville, arrangements are being made for a similar program in Bethel.

Garrison also announced the State Fair Sees Heavy Turnout

RALEIGH (AP)—North Carolina State Fair officials looked for new attendance records today, with the weatherman's promise of continued sunny and mild weather.

A feature on the program today was the scheduled speech of Secretary of Commerce Frederick H. Mueller, campaigning for the Republicans.

He will be followed Thursday by former President Harry S. Truman, who will speak for the Democratic party.

Under bright skies, the fair opened Tuesday with crowds estimated at well above the old opening day record of 150,000.

Beauties and bands also will be in the spotlight today. Contestants for the International Tobacco Queen title will be saluted in a morning parade around the fairgrounds. High school bands from throughout the state will form part of the parade.

The youthful musicians also will present a band contest this afternoon.

State Agriculture Commissioner L. Y. Ballentine officially opened the fair Tuesday morning, with members of the State Board of Agriculture in attendance.

Defector Defies Russian Urgings

NEW YORK (AP)—The young Estonian sailor who fled Soviet Premier Khrushchev's own ship has defied Soviet diplomats who urged him to return.

Victor Jaanimets, 29, described the dramatic confrontation at immigration headquarters Tuesday.

"At first I refused to see them. But inasmuch as they requested once more to see me I said I would talk to them," he said.

"Both of them asked me whether I was forced to make my decision. I told them, 'No. Nobody forced me. I made my decision a long time ago.'"

"They said, 'Go in other words this is your will, your wish.' They said every Soviet citizen has the right to decide where he will live. And I told them, 'Your remark doesn't reflect the truth. It is a lie.'"

The Soviet officials were Victor Ozipov, second secretary of the Soviet Embassy in Washington, and Valeri Kravchenko, an embassy attaché.

The slim, light-haired seaman slipped away from a five-man shore party during a shopping and sightseeing expedition in Manhattan Monday afternoon. After calling Estonia refugee groups, he was taken to the immigration office.

An Immigration Service official said Jaanimets would remain in custody while "a few matters are being checked."

State Theater, in Greenville, will give a special movie for youngsters on October 22. The "price" of admission will consist of one article of clothing.

"All items of used clothing are acceptable," he said, "but as in past years we particularly need children's clothes." Garrison said experience has shown that almost every family has "some article of clothing their child or children has outgrown and is still serviceable. The Moose clothing bank makes it available to people who need help."

Bethel citizens who wish to contribute may telephone VA 5-4371 Monday (October 17) up to 7:00 p.m. and the clothing will be collected.

In Greenville, collection teams will be dispersed over the city to begin collections at 7:00 p.m. Families with clothing to donate are asked to leave their front lights on, and a canvasser will call.

Garrison said the donated clothes need not be clean. As in other years, College View Cleaners has offered to clean, free of charge, all clothing given the bank.

By OVID A. MARTIN
WASHINGTON (AP)—Production of farm products—both crops and livestock—appears to be marching toward a new record this year.

The Agriculture Department's October crop report Tuesday estimated crop production at 2.5 per cent above the previous record produced in 1958 and matched last year.

The crop volume was put at 121 per cent of the 1957-59 average compared with 118 per cent in 1958 and 1959. Likewise, production of livestock and livestock products—meats, milk, eggs, poultry and wool—appeared to be keeping abreast of last year's record.

Flue-cured tobacco production for this year was estimated at 1,235,000 pounds, 33,000,000 pounds more than figured a month ago.

A crop this size would be 14 per cent above last year's production but 3 per cent below the 1949-58 average.

This year's burley crop was estimated at 488,000,000 pounds—6,000,000 more than was forecast a month ago.

North Carolina's burley crop was estimated at 19,600,000 pounds compared with 20,188,000 in 1959.

The estimate for states producing flue-cured tobacco with last year's shown in brackets included:

Type 11—North Carolina 295,750,000 (281,000,000).

Type 12—Eastern North Carolina 427,500,000 (345,650,000).

Type 13—North Carolina 13,600,000 (96,292,000), and South Carolina 144,180,000 (142,965,000).

The indicated yield per acre and production, respectively, of other important crops by major producing states included:

Corn—North Carolina 46 and 88-228,000; and South Carolina 33 and 28,611,000.

All wheat—North Carolina 23.5 and 8,037,000; and South Carolina 22 and 3,542,000.

Peanuts (picked and threshed)—North Carolina 1,800 pounds per acre and 320,400,000 total production.

Tobacco—North Carolina 1,790 and 846,450,000; and South Carolina 1,780 and 144,180,000.

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP)—Some top military chiefs were reported ready to ask President Arturo Frondizi to resign as Argentina's government crisis grew worse.

War Secretary Gen. Rodolfo Larcher resigned Tuesday night and unconfirmed reports said the rest of the Cabinet had offered to quit.

Nixon Confident He Has An Issue In Defending Quemoy And Matsu Isles

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon is confident he now has an issue that will help push him into the White House.

Nixon will spend three and a half days in his native California, and it's almost certain that in each speech he will insist he is right—and Sen. John F. Kennedy, his Democratic foe, is wrong—about policy for Quemoy and Matsu.

Today he has a comparatively high schedule: a trip out to Burbank to record television film clips and a couple of picnics late in the afternoon and tonight, at Long Beach and at Knott's Berry Farm.

Thursday comes the third round of the big television debate between Nixon and Kennedy.

Nixon has gone halfway around the world to latch onto his issue, two tiny islands, off the coast of China. He is sure to hammer away at this two-point theme:

1. That Quemoy and Matsu should be defended.

2. That Kennedy is wrong—and engaging in "naive and woolly" thinking that could lead to war—when he says the defense line should be pulled back to the sea between Formosa and the China mainland.

Possibly the best clue to Nixon's thinking came in his reply to Kennedy's suggestion for a fifth television debate.

Why not set back the debate on foreign policy, now-booked for Oct. 21, a few days and expand it two hours?

Ass'n Promotes Retailing Career

The Greenville Merchants Association is cooperating with the National Association this year in the observance of "Careers in Retailing" Week, October 10-16, according to announcement today by J. H. Blount, representing the local association as a State Director of the North Carolina Merchants association.

Observance this year will take the form of a State Fair exhibit in the Arena adjacent to that of the North Carolina Press Association, he said.

"The purpose of Careers in Retailing Week is to acquaint young people and their advisors with the unlimited career opportunities in modern retailing," Blount noted.

"Stores today employ more than double the number of workers they did only one generation ago."

Theme of the Careers in Retailing Week this year is "Get Ahead Faster in Retailing".

The exhibit is being directed toward the approximately 300,000 teen-age boys and girls expected to attend the State Fair this year.

Herbert G. Klein, Nixon's press secretary, said Tuesday night the campaign seems to be settling down to international issues, and two hours would provide plenty of time to explore them. Klein smiled when he said it.

Another Nixon proposal: That the two vice-presidential candidates, Henry Cabot Lodge and Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson, be given the Oct. 21 spot.

There's no doubt that Nixon thinks he has something hot in Quemoy and Matsu.

Quemoy is 29 square miles, 100 miles northwest of Formosa and 26 miles from Red China. It has a population of 11,000. Quemoy, with a population of 45,000, is 120 miles from Formosa, and only five miles from China.

Red China began shelling Quemoy in August 1958. The U. S. 7th Fleet moved in to support the Chinese Nationalists, but intermittent shelling has continued.

On his arrival at the airport in nearby Burbank Tuesday night, Nixon was met by an enthusiastic crowd estimated at between 12,000 and 15,000.

He put out a statement in which he challenged Kennedy to answer how much the programs he sponsors will cost.

Nixon said: "I have had his platform costed out and have stated that it would cost at least $10 billion a year more than the program that I have advocated. I have also stated my conviction that his extravagant approach would produce less progress than the programs I favor."

Nixon said Kennedy has claimed these figures are incorrect. If this is so, Nixon said, Kennedy should give the correct answers.

"He owes it to the American people," Nixon said, "on our television debate Thursday not to dodge any longer."

He hit hard at Kennedy in speeches Tuesday in San Diego before more than 10,000 roaring partisans in the ball park, and in Albuquerque, N.M., where 6,000 heard him.

"You'll be hearing a lot about them (Quemoy and Matsu) in the next few weeks and months because they have become a symbol, a major issue, in the presidential campaign," Nixon said.

At another point: "I'm going to tell you today that, regardless of the political consequences, I intend to fight at every opportunity any return to the naive and woolly policies which led to the loss of China and the war in Korea—and I'm going to do it throughout."

Nixon has taken what seemed to be a relatively minor disagreement in the television debate and developed it for all it's worth.

The basic argument boils down to this: Kennedy—the two islands are small, unimportant and, since they are so close to the China mainland, cannot be successfully defended. Therefore, Kennedy says, the line of defense should be pulled back.

NIXON—To give an inch will be looked upon by the Communists as appeasement. "That kind of woolly thinking," he said, "is dangerous for America. It's dangerous for world peace."

But everything wasn't on an international level Tuesday. The old American custom of throwing tomatoes was revived at Albuquerque but the marksmanship was terrible.

The tomato hit a car behind Nixon, where representatives of press associations were riding.

PAUL GALICO'S NEW BESTSELLER Mrs. 'Arris Goes to New York

CHAPTER 17 Mrs. Harris knew that she had erred in not taking Mrs. Schreiber into her confidence immediately, and it flustered her to the point where she did the wrong thing. On top of giving Mrs. Schreiber a short and unsatisfactory answer regarding the impossible behavior of Mrs. Butterfield, she then went out for a walk on Park Avenue to try to think things out and keep the situation from deteriorating still further.

I mean, the marquis—I mean the grandson of the French ambassador. What on earth is he doing here? Even though this catastrophic bolt of lightning had been long awaited by Mrs. Butterfield, her reaction to it was what might have been expected: she fell upon her knees with her hands clasped, crying, "Oh Lord, ma'am, don't send us to jail! I'm only a poor widow with but a few more years to live." And thereafter her sobs and weeping became so loud and uncontrollable that they penetrated into the front of the flat and brought Mr. Schreiber hurrying to the scene.

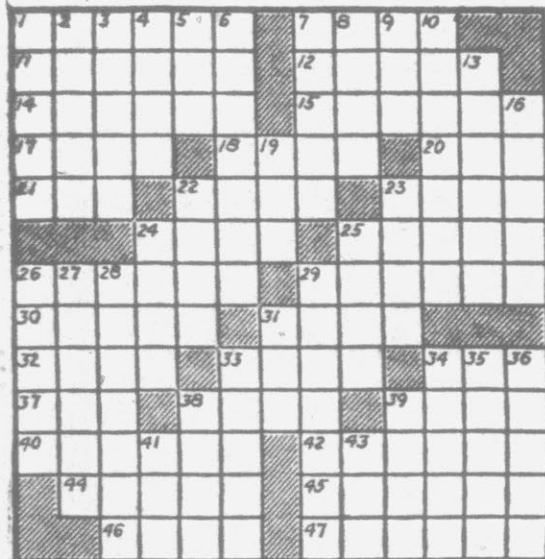

Mr. Schreiber was also staggered at finding in a state bordering upon hysteria his Cockney cook, plus a young boy whose image not so long ago had decorated the front pages of the metropolitan press as the son of a lord and the grandson of the French ambassador to the United States. "Can you explain this, Mrs. Harris?" Mr. Schreiber demanded. "You seem to be the only one left here with any wits about her. What the devil is the grandson of the French ambassador doing here? And what's got into Mrs. Butterfield?"

ton. "Ho," he scoffed. "Anybody who can play cricket can't it a baseball. I knocked one for six—only you call it a 'ome run' ere." "Say," said Mr. Schreiber, now genuinely interested, "that's good. Maybe we can make a ball player out of him." His round face flushed with pleasure, and he patted the boy on the shoulder. "Well, well," he said. "We'll have to see what we can do. In the meantime you can stay here with Mrs. Harris and Mrs. Butterfield." He turned to Mrs. Harris. "Just how far have you got in locating the boy's father?" Mrs. Harris showed him an official letter from the Air Force demanding to know which George Brown she referred to of the 453 who at one time or another had been in the service, and asking to know his birthplace, birthday, serial number, date of discharge, etc. Mr. Schreiber looked at the formidable document and scoffed. "Huh, those guys couldn't find anyone if he was right under their noses. Just you leave it to me, I can get a real organization. We got distribution branches in every big city in the U.S.A. If we can't turn him up for you, nobody can. What did you say his name was? And have you got any other dope on him—where he was stationed, maybe, or how old he was at the time of his marriage, or any other thing that would help us?"

Mrs. Harris shamefacedly had to admit that she could offer no more than that his name was George Brown, he had been an American airman stationed at an American air base in England sometime in 1950, and that he had married a waitress by the name of Pansy Colt, who had borne him little Henry, refused to accompany him to America, was divorced by Mr. Brown, had remarried, and vanished. As she revealed the paucity of these details, Mrs. Harris became even more aware and further ashamed of the manner in which she had let her enthusiasm carry her away and handled the affair. "Lumme," she said. "I've played the fool, I've been. If I was you I'd send costs of setting up the new track."

Mr. Schreiber made a small movement of his head and shoulders which indicated a doubtful but not antagonistic "Well" and then said, "Sure ain't much to go on, is there? But if anyone can find this fellow, our organization can." To little Henry he said, "O.K., sonny. Tomorrow is Sunday. We'll get a baseball bat, ball, and glove and go in Central Park and see if you can hit a home run off me. I used to be a pretty good pitcher when I was a kid."

Mrs. Harris makes an enemy and "has a goose to cook" as the story continues here tomorrow.

MISSILE BLACKOUT SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP)—A 94-foot Atlas missile caused damage at Wright-Patterson AFB without even being launched. It was being towed by truck, police said, when the pod clipped off a utility pole, cutting off electrical service to the city's east side.

Khrushchev Cancels Cuban Visit... Fears 'Backfire'

NEW YORK (AP)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev is reported cancelling a planned visit to Cuba—at this time—mainly because he fears it would backfire against the Soviet Union everywhere in Latin America.

Soviet security chiefs are also understood to have warned Khrushchev that mounting unrest and anti-Communist plotting in Cuba might imperil his personal safety.

This information comes from Iron Curtain officials who are in a position to know something about the Kremlin leader's decisions and moods.

He had tentatively scheduled a three-day goodwill visit to Cuba at the end of his United Nations appearance, they reported. Castro was under the impression he would come when he left New York to return to Havana 10 days ago.

But Khrushchev changed his mind, these informants said, when told his much-publicized meetings with Castro in New York already had badly hurt Soviet prestige in Latin America.

Pictures of Khrushchev, a delighted grin on his face, hugging Castro are reported to have aroused anti-Communist and anti-Castro opposition even in countries which had sympathized with the Cuban leader's social reform programs.

Rather than risk a massive setback to his campaign to "bring Latin America to the Soviet fold," Khrushchev decided to pass up the Cuban visit now.

The security problem is understood to have been a secondary consideration in Khrushchev's

Holding Man For Murder Of Girl

HICKORY, N.C. (AP)—A thin, sandy-haired Catawba County man, who police said apparently had known 16-year-old Jennifer Faye Spencer scarcely 24 hours, today faced charges of raping and murdering her.

John Floyd Bolton, 26, father of two and an employee of a Hickory bottling concern, was charged with first degree murder and rape late Tuesday night. He and two other young men, identified by police as Harold Mosteller, 19, of Catawba, and Coy London of Rhodessa, had undergone lie detector tests earlier Tuesday in Raleigh.

Police said Bolton, Mosteller, London and Miss Spencer had been driving around the Hickory area together Saturday afternoon, only hours before the Burke County girl met her death. Investigators said Bolton and Miss Spencer disappeared when Mosteller and London went into a Hickory cafe briefly.

Sgt. E. E. Horne and M. J. Dellinger said Bolton admitted slaying the girl but contended he did not rape her. He alleged she voluntarily agreed to have sexual relations with him.

Bolton, authorities said, admitted the slaying when confronted with a shoe that had been missing from the victim's body. The shoe was found Tuesday afternoon by a group of children in a secluded area of Hickory where the girl's body was found late Monday.

Bolton was held without bond pending preliminary hearing. Officers said Mosteller was Miss Spencer's boyfriend.

The time of the girl's death was placed at between 10 and 10:30 p.m. Saturday by police. Dr. John C. Reece of Morganton said she had been strangled.

Mrs. Marvin Spencer, the girl's mother, said she had left home Saturday afternoon to go to Hickory. When the girl failed to return home by Sunday night, the parents filed a missing persons report with Hickory police.

Promotion For Guardsman Here

James W. Harris of Battery "A" of the Greenville National Guard unit has been promoted from second lieutenant to the rank of first lieutenant, according to an announcement from N. C. Gov. Luther Hodges.

Lt. Harris, a Greenville native, is a graduate of Belvoir-Falkland High School and is currently attending East Carolina College here. He lives with his wife and two sons on Route 3, Greenville.

The local guardsman is employed as an instructor at Washington High School in Washington, N.C.

He is a graduate of the United States Artillery Guided Missile School at Ft. Sill, Okla., where he completed the Special National Guard Officers Candidate School in 1957 and the Field Artillery Officers Basic Course in 1959.

Lt. Harris served on active duty from April, 1953, until January, 1955. A portion of his tour of duty was served in Japan. From January, 1955, until March the same year he was a member of the United States Army Reserve.

He joined the North Carolina Army National Guard in March, 1955, with Battery "C," 29th Field Artillery, in Greenville and served with that organization until March, 1959.

At that time, due to reorganization of the North Carolina Guard, he was transferred to Battery "A," 4th Howitzer Battalion, the unit of his present assignment.

Pilot Down In Sea Near Wake

HONOLULU (AP)—Two North Dakota Air National Guardsmen, attempting a nonstop distance record in single-engine planes, were approaching Wake Island Tuesday night when one of the pilots radioed that he was unable to climb. A few minutes later Lt. Duane Stirling, 27, of Fargo, went into the ocean about three miles north of Wake.

His buddy, Capt. Charles Finnegan, 30, also of Fargo, landed at Wake.

The Coast Guard found Stirling bobbing in the Pacific. A Navy crash boat picked him up but there were no immediate reports on his condition.

The pilots were trying to fly nonstop from Oakland, Calif., to Manila.

Both planes were in view of the island when Stirling's plane went down. Finnegan circled once and headed into the Wake landing field.

Finnegan and Stirling left Oakland Monday morning on their projected 7,898-mile flight. They were after the record set last year when Max Conrad flew 7,665 miles nonstop from Casablanca, Morocco, to Los Angeles.

Arlene Seeking A Quickie Divorce

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (AP)—Actress Arlene Dahl is in Mexico to seek a quick divorce from Argentine actor Fernando Lamas, her press agent said Monday.

There are reports she plans to marry Chris Holmes, Texas oilman. An attorney for Holmes' wife, Nancy, said the couple signed a property settlement last Wednesday, and it was agreed Holmes could obtain a Mexican divorce if he wished.

During the Civil War the U.S. Naval Academy was located at Newport, R.I.

By ROBERT A. WILLIS

ANDERSON, S.C. (AP)—One of Lyndon B. Johnson's ham-like hands reached for the heartstrings of South Carolina Democrats Tuesday, while the others hammered at the Republicans as enemies of the farmer, the working man and all other common people.

The vice presidential candidate, his broad face crinkled with grins, and his comely wife, Lady Bird, exuding friendliness, visited eight South Carolina cities and towns as part of a whistlestop swing through the Deep South.

"I'm here to ask your vote for Jack Kennedy and Lyndon Johnson," he would say.

Johnson's Texas drawl, his just-plain-folks manner, and his homely talk spelled a message for his listeners: "I'm one of you." And not only that, but a Democrat to the core.

The friendly, sometimes sizeable crowds applauded his partisan sallies and laughed at his stories. At every stop, he and Lady Bird overflowed with pleasure at being able to visit. They were sorry they had to hurry.

At remote Rocky Bottom—with only 37 registered voters—Johnson dropped in by helicopter to address hundreds at a picnic supper. "You just don't know," he beamed, "how I'd enjoy sitting down and whittling with you a while."

Johnson and his party already had visited Virginia and North Carolina. Today and Thursday, by train and plane, they will campaign at the grassroots level in Florida and Alabama. Friday, appearances in Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana will wind up the week's trip.

In South Carolina the candidates held up the Democrats as "the party of the people, the party that cares... we don't array class against class, race against race, region against region... what has the Republican party ever done for you? Why elect a Republican president to undo what your Democratic Congress does?"

The Republicans were pictured as "not caring about you except a few weeks before election time. They stood pat since McKinley and worked against every progressive program."

Johnson, his voice somewhat raspy, flung especially hard at Vice President Richard M. Nixon. "You hear about an old Nixon and a new Nixon," he said, "but they're the same. He's the same Nixon who conducted that Communist-smear campaign for the House in 1946 and the Senate in 1950. He's the same one who sits up in an ivory tower, handing out press releases and withdrawing them a few hours later."

The 11-car "LBJ Special" drew police estimated crowds of about 3,000 at Gaffney, 2,000 at Spartanburg, 2,000 at Greer, and 600 to 700 at Easley, Clemson and Seneca, last stops in South Carolina.

On a side trip to address an Anderson Fair gathering, he drew a crowd of about 6,000. At Greenville, where the candidate spoke to about 800 at Cleveland Park, he was heckled by signs accusing him of being a radical and a traitor to the South. Identical signs were held aloft at Clemson.

The Johnson traveling party included Sen. George Smathers, Southern campaign manager for Kennedy-Johnson; and Tennessee Gov. Buford Ellington.

Among those who joined the Johnson troupe as it moved through the state were Gov. E. F. Hollins, Sen. Olin Johnston, Reps. Hemphill, Ashmore and Dorn, and Georgia Gov. Ernest Vandiver.

Consumers Hold Stage, Other Factors Failing

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP) — The consumer hogs the center of the business stage today. The other actors have failed to make a hit in their first fall appearances. Manufacturing, business spending, purchasing agents and retail buyers, easier money policies, even government spending have not come forward with the needed push for the economy. What the consumer buys, how much he spends, how much he saves, how much he has to spend — these are prime factors in setting the trend in the months just ahead. The figures for September have not been too reassuring. In an advance report, the Department of Commerce estimates retail sales slipped 1 per cent below the August level. But a number of stores have reported doing better than a year ago. The consumer was holding tighter to what he had to spend. Another indication of that has been the rise in the total amount of savings. Still another has been the slowdown in the rate of increase of consumer credit. Installment credit took a big jump last year, but in recent months the increase has been moderate. The total of consumer debt has been built to a record. Counting in personal loans and home mortgages, total debt repayment now comes to $32 billion a year, according to the Institute of Life Insurance. This would be about one-sixth of all personal income after taxes. If consumers are paying out around $1 billion a week on the various types of debt they owe, the crimp in their additional spending is evident. But personal income has been holding high. And the job report for September, while far from glowing, had its reassuring elements. The total of the jobless, however, is still far too high to make any great pickup in consumer buying a sure thing. The job situation brightened in the auto industry as it pushed toward supplying its dealers with enough new models to start a big sales drive. A slight rise in steel orders has heartened some companies. But the trade publication, Iron Age, warns, "The improvement does not mean a significant change in steel operations." Steel orders aren't consumer spending. But any major pickup in steel, auto, appliance and other manufacturing activities would soon be translated into higher incomes available for consumer spending. Even without this, consumers still have a lot of money to spend — and how they spend it, and if they spend it will set the business pace now more than any other one thing.

One Hollywood Couple Build Mansion In U.S.

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — At a time when some stars are fleeing to bomb- and tax-proof chalets in Switzerland, it's refreshing to find a glamor pair putting up a palace right in the heart of the high-rent district. The couple: Robert Wagner and Natalie Wood. Their place is located on Beverly Drive in Beverly Hills, hard by the homes of Kirk Douglas and Rosalind Russell. The Wagners are transforming their Southern-style mansion into a Roman palazzo. Bob gave me the 80-cent tour the other day, since Natalie was off playing a tenement wail in "West Side Story."

"Pardon the mess," he apologized. "We've been living in chaos for days. I usually wake up with a painter staring me in the face and asking me if I like the shade." The black and white marble of the entrance and dining room needs polishing, he explained, and the gold leaf that ornaments the balustrades and columns needs finishing touches. The living room lacks the hand-woven white rug. Still, the visitor can get a good notion of how the place will shape up. The living room is a great hall of glass and marble, with windows looking into the enclosed garden room. Two Roman figures in flowing robes preside over the fountains pools. Outside is the big pool, a turquoise free-form that will be converted into a Roman bath with columns and statuary. Upstairs,

Tobacco markets in Greenville, Farmville and Robersonville yesterday recorded sales averages of above $60 per 100 to continue to raise season averages. Greenville pushed its season mark to $60.02. The local market sold 1,000,342 pounds for a total of $622,999 and a sales average of $62.28 per 100 pounds. Farmville sold a total 316,012 pounds to post an average figure of $60.35. Total receipts were $190,699 as Farmville held its sales average for the season steady at $60.27. Robersonville sold a total of 91,418 pounds yesterday for a total of $55,800 and a sales average of $61.04 per 100 pounds. The season mark there advanced to $59.69. The 17-market Eastern Belt chalked up a Tuesday sales average of $61.89 from the sale of 6,924,058 for $4,285,028 and a season sales mark of $60.88, according to a report from the Federal-State Market News Service in Wilson.

Millionth Book For UNC Library

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — The University of North Carolina put the emphasis on its library today as it celebrated the 167th anniversary of opening its doors. Nathan M. Pusey, president of Harvard University, was the principal speaker for the observance. Gov. Hodges, a graduate of the university, took part in the exercises. The university faculty joined in an academic procession. A highlight of the ceremonies was the presentation of the millionth book to the university library, given by the Hanes Foundation of Winston-Salem.

Kiwanians Will Gather Oct. 16

RALEIGH (AP) — Kiwanians of the Carolinas District will hold their annual convention in Raleigh, Oct. 16-18. Around 800 to 1,000 members of the civic club and their wives are expected from the two-state area. I. R. (Whitney) Withburn of Milwaukee, president-elect of Kiwanis International, will be one of the speakers.

ACC Teams Blessed With Passing Quarterbacks

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A most valuable commodity to a football team is its quarterback, and the Atlantic Coast Conference seems blessed with an extra-bountiful supply.

Latest conference statistics show how pass-minded the conference has become. The top eight men in the total offense department are quarterbacks who have picked up most of that yardage through the air lanes.

Three conference games are scheduled Saturday, and each will pit a pass-minded quarterback against a similar counterpart on the rival team.

The headlines, of course, will be unbeaten North Carolina State's invasion of Duke. This will pit Roman Gabriel, the ACC's leading offensive producer (475 yards in four games) against Don Altman, who has run up 251 yards as Duke captured two of its first three games.

The No. 2 and No. 3 men in the offensive category, Norman Sneed of Wake Forest and Ray Farris of North Carolina, come together at Chapel Hill, N.C. The husky, hard-throwing Sneed has accounted for 38 yards as his Demon Deacons have been surprisingly humbled in their three starts. Farris, meanwhile, has gained 340 yards for the Tar Heels, 1-2 on the campaign.

Clemson's eighth-ranked nationally Tigers will get a double-dose of a quarterback-inspired offense at Maryland. Dale Betty (245 yards) and Dick Novak (226) will match arms with Lowndes Shingler (314 yards).

Virginia's sophomore whiz, Gary Cuozzo—who beat out two lettermen for the signal-calling spot—will lead the Cavaliers against nonconference Virginia Military.

Winless South Carolina, the only ACC team without a quarter-back among the offensive leaders, nonconference Virginia Military.

Bruins Top NAIA Team In Nation

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Lenoir Rhyne College of Hickory, remained at the top of the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics football ratings this week after making previously unbeaten Appalachian its fourth victim.

There was considerable shuffling elsewhere in the list.

Southern Illinois (4-0) rose to second place after a 21-12 victory over Western Illinois, which had won 15 straight. Idaho State (3-0) hopped from ninth to third. Humboldt (Calif.) State (4-0) broke San Francisco State's 13-game string 21-18 and remained in fourth place.

Whitworth (Wash.) College, averaging 244.5 yards a game with a flashy air show, jumped from 10th to fifth with a 4-0 mark. Southeast Louisiana made its record 4-0 with a determined upset of powerful Louisiana Tech and rose from 14th to sixth.

Concordia of Minnesota (4-1) was upset by Gustavus Adolphus and fell from second to seventh.

In eighth place was Texas A&M, 1-1, defending NAIA champion which had its record set at 1-1-1 by losing to East Texas State. Howard Payne of Texas and Northern Michigan, each 3-1, tied for ninth.

The NAIA poll is conducted by a panel of 44 football coaches.

Bucs Hoping To Wrap Up Series

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer
PITTSBURGH (AP) — Pittsburgh can wrap up its first world championship since 1925 today by beating the desperate New York Yankees in the sixth World Series game at spacious Forbes Field.

YOGI BERRA WHITEY FORD

Kyle Rote Tops Pass Receivers

NEW YORK (AP) — Kyle Rote, a somewhat gimpy-kneed Texan, has a new lease on life—National Football League style.

"I've been in this game of football all my life," Coach Jim Lee Howell of the New York Giants said today, "and you just don't see the moves made by a pass receiver the way Kyle is doing them now."

"He really has been amazing. Sudy them in the game movies and your eyes pop."

The "eye-popping" Howell talks about comes as part of Rote's three-game performance that has sent defensive backfields in the NFL into a tizzy.

In those three games—road tests at San Francisco, St. Louis and Pittsburgh—Rote has maneuvered himself free enough to catch 19 passes for 287 yards and four touchdowns.

At 31, the former Southern Methodist halfback who switched to end when his troublesome knee gave in to constant pounding from opposing behemoths ranks first among all pass catchers.

Thi, although opponents still double-team him on most pass patterns.

Rote, now in his 10th NFL season with the Giants, says he is not running any particularly new patterns—"just learning the old ones after 10 years."

Sammy Boulmetis, 33-year-old jockey, has been riding at 109 pounds, including four and a half pounds of equipment.

to the Yankees in the second game, was Manager Danny Murtaugh's choice to complete the gallant comeback by the fighting Bucs. Everybody on the staff, except Vern Law, was available for bullpen duty.

Casey Stengel leaned toward Whitey Ford, his experienced lefty, to bail out the Yankees in their backs-to-the-wall situation. Ford pitched a shutout Saturday. Bob Turley, well rested since whipping the Pirates last Thursday, also was primed for duty, along with the rest of the staff.

Stengel's lineup was subject to last-minute changes. He was expected to play Yogi Berra in left field, Clete Boyer on third base and Elston Howard as catcher. If Stengel used Ford, Murtaugh would shift from catcher Smoky PITTSBURGH (AP) — Manager Casey Stengel of the New York Yankees is irked because he has no office in the visitors' clubhouse at Forbes Field. After each series game, Casey has to go to Pirate Manager Danny Murtaugh's office to talk to newsmen.

Four girls who work at Forbes Field haven't seen any of the series games. They work for Bankers Lithographing Co., which occupies space under part of the grandstand.

The girls got to watch the Pirates work out Tuesday. One of them mentioned "Viridon Law." The Pirates have no such player. They have a Bill Virdon and a Vernon Law.

Burgess to Hal Smith.

Fair, warm weather was on tap, with the temperature due to hit 75 by the time the crowd of 37,000 had settled down in the ancient ball park.

The Pirates were favored at 4-1 to win the series, although the Yankees were picked at 6-5 for today's game.

If the Yankees square the series, the seventh game will be played in the same park Thursday afternoon with Law pitching for the Pirates and rookie Bill Stalford the likely starter for the Yanks.

The fighting Bucs laughed off statistics that showed they were batting only .246 as a team to the Yankees' .324 and had hit only one home run to eight by the Yanks.

Considering that the Yankee sluggers also had one grand slam homer and their pitching staff had the only complete game of the series—a four-hit shutout by Ford—the figure flirts were hard pressed to explain why Pittsburgh held a 3-2 edge in games.

Mickey Mantle, who needed only one more home to match Babe

Ruth's all-time series record of 15, was hobbled by a recurrence of the groin injury he suffered in late season. Mantle took a few cuts Tuesday when the club worked out after the Pirates' drill, but did not run.

The Mick also was closing in on the series strikeout record of 11 set by Eddie Mathews of Milwaukee in 1958. Mantle has struck out eight times.

The Yankees were desperate, but not quite as hopeless as they were in 1958 when they came back from a 3-1 deficit and beat the Braves in seven games.

Pittsburgh's last world championship was the result of the only other 3-1 comeback. The Pirates of 35 years ago bounced back all the way to nip Washington in seven games.

The Yankees appeared grimly determined to get back into this series with big money riding on every pitch.

"My men are not dead," said Stengel. "We may not talk much, but we're pretty good, too. We've been going at a pretty good speed for a month—until the last two games. I hope we're a little alive for you."

When a writer asked Stengel what he thought of Friend, who gave up six hits and trailed 3-1 when he was removed for a pinch hitter in the second game, Casey said, "Have you ever seen him pitch in an All-Star game? I wish they had fired him in the spring. I'd claim him."

Friend was bitterly disappointed when he was taken out of the second game. He thought he could have beaten the Yankees then.

PICKING ONE UP—Don Hoak, Pirates third baseman, scoops up Gil McDougald's first inning bunt with his bare hand before firing to first for the out in fifth game of the World Series at Yankee Stadium. That's Harvey Haddix, Buc hurler, in front of Hoak. (AP Wirephoto)

Mick Playing Series With Painful Injury

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Ask a Yankee how many times Mickey Mantle has played when he was hurt, really hurt, not just bothered by the chronic ailments which have become almost a normal condition.

Ask Bobby Richardson, for instance, while you watch the Mick grimace, grunt and run out of the batting cage, somehow managing not to limp despite a painful groin injury, in an off-day workout before today's sixth game of the World Series.

"I'd say quite a bit," said Richardson. "But it's difficult to really tell because Mickey isn't one to complain about anything. You never hear it from him, but you know it has to hurt."

You could ask Mantle's roommate about how the Mick put out as New York won its 10th American League pennant in a dozen years under Manager Casey Stengel. You could, if Mantle had a roommate.

Following Yankee tradition for their stars, the Mantles, the Yogi Berras, the Whitey Fords and the Joe DiMaggios live alone on the road.

Ask Mantle himself, and you won't get the answer. In typical fashion, he shrugged off the present groin ailment, a painful strain he tried to cover up, playing Monday's fifth game in spite of it.

Mickey denied he had suffered the strain in a pre-game warmup. "I woke up with it Monday morning," he said. "I don't know how it happened."

Back in the dugout, Stengel was watching. "I told him to take it easy," he said, "so he can be ready."

"But you watched him play in that fifth game, and you see they (Pittsburgh Pitchers) were pretty careful with him. How many times he get a walk? Three in that fifth game? How many home runs he hit so far? Three? How many home runs he hit in all his Series? Fourteen? And what's Ruth's record? Fifteen."

"And he's done a fine job in the field for us. You say that center fielder of theirs (Bill Virdon) has shown you something, and you're right."

But that Mantle's shown you something, too. He's made some catches in this Series. But he's faster and he gets there quicker. "He just starts runnin' and sticks up that glove and it's 'how are ya, kid?'"

Farmer Off To Big Start In NS Stats

GREENSBORO (AP) — Lenoir Rhyne's star tailback, Lee Farmer, is off to a blazing start in his bid for a second straight North State Conference individual total offense crown.

Farmer, who has been the chief workhorse in the Bears climb to the top of NAIA ratings, leads the conference in total offense race with 633 yards in the first statistics released by the conference service bureau.

The senior from Candler leads in all three divisions:

He has averaged 158.2 yards in total offense, gained 399 yards for a 5.3 average rushing and is the top passer with 24 completions in 50 attempts for 294 yards and two touchdowns.

Farmer has carried the ball 114 times this season in the first four games, and, barring a complete collapse, almost is a cinch to better his 1959 total offense mark of 1,178 yards.

Farmer also tops the conference in individual scoring with 34 points.

Second in the total offense race is Western Carolina's quarterback Ken Morgan, at 340 yards.

Jean Worthington of Catawba is third in total offense with 336 yards.

Worthington also trails Farmer in the ground department with 283 yards. Allen Bass of East Carolina, who won the 1959 rushing title with 833 yards, is third with 270 yards.

Appalachian's Tommy Wilson is pushing Farmer for the aerial lead. Wilson completed 22 of 54 passes for 249 yards. George Wooten, Elon's promising sophomore quarterback, is third with 17 for 39 and 237 yards.

Tony McClamrock, Farmer's sub at tailback, has thrown the most scoring passes, four.

Tom Broadwater of Western Carolina, the conference's No. 1 pass receiver last year, again tops the league with 11 receptions for 128 yards.

East Carolina

Rough work in the East Carolina football camp was limited yesterday as the Bucs became familiar with Western Carolina's offense.

ECC worked on defenses to be used against the Catamounts and also attempted to sharpen up their passing game.

Rough work was expected to pick up today with a short scrimmage session.

Coaches Bill McDonald and Odel Welborn presented the scouting report on Western, labeling the Cats as a team with "good speed, quick, and ample depth."

Eppes High

Still undefeated and unscored on, Eppes High received the scouting report on Friday's opponent, P. W. Moore of Elizabeth City yesterday afternoon.

Coach Percy Daniels of Eppes warned his squad that Elizabeth City was "big, tough, and rough—every inch we get we will have to earn."

The Bulldog coaches warned their squad that the 1-4 record posted by Elizabeth City to date is not a good indication of their strength on the football field.

No let-up is expected in the Bulldog camp this week as they seek victory number six Friday night in Elizabeth City.

Farmville

Farmville's Red Devils received individual attention from Coach Robert Bruce and Elbert Moyer in short time but spirited practice session held under the lights last night.

With a light turnout for practice, the squad spent time on sharpening its passing offense, hoping to become the first team this fall to score on Beaufort. Work on improving open field tackling and blocking was also emphasized. Miltrell Cannon, veteran tackle, was in light gear but is expected to be available by Friday.

National League Makes First Expansion Move

By JOE REICHLER

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The National League has taken the first concrete step toward expansion by virtually assuring Houston of a franchise for 1962.

The American League is expected to keep pace with its older rival by granting a franchise to Dallas-Ft. Worth.

Formal action on the Houston application headed by Craig Cul-linan and George Kirksey, is scheduled for next Monday in Chicago. The American League has set no definite meeting date, but undoubtedly will convene soon.

Warren Giles, president of the National League, said action also will be taken on applications by New York, and "other cities." He declined to identify the others.

New York, represented by Dwight (Pete) Davis Jr.'s Continental League group, made its formal application 10 days ago.

"We're going to do something definitive at our meeting in Chicago," said Giles. "We've delayed long enough. We want to make progress. We're not going to drag our feet any longer. I don't know whether we will approve one or two cities, but I believe Houston will get the necessary majority (six votes) if they've made the progress they've indicated."

With their ninth teams virtually accounted for, the two majors were looking at opposite ends of the country for their 10th teams—the National seeking a return to New York, and the American hoping to move into Los Angeles.

Each league committed itself at an August meeting, agreeing to add two teams as a compromise measure that dissolved the Continental League.

Of the two, the American appears to be facing the more difficult task.

does continued preparation for a conference contest with La Grange Friday.

End Nolan Norman and tackle Donald Carman missed practice yesterday with knee injuries. Both are expected to be ready for limited duty by Friday.

Punting and punt returns were emphasized yesterday with William Edwards, quarterback, handling most of the kicking. The team also brushed up its offense with a short scrimmage.

A majority of American League club owners, feeling they have been steadily losing prestige because of the Nation's absorption of the more attractive territories, insist they must have a share of the lush Los Angeles area. They face a major obstacle in Walter O'Malley, head of the Dodgers.

O'Malley has stated his opposition to an American League invasion of Los Angeles, at least until Chavez Ravine, his dream stadium, is completed. Construction plans, continually stymied and revised, now call for completion in 1962 at the earliest.

"O'Malley might be surprised," said an American League spokesman. "We may have a park in Los Angeles ahead of him."

The American League camp is split. One faction, headed by Hank Greenberg of Chicago, is stumping for a West Coast franchise and is even considering San Diego as a possibility. The other group, headed by Nate Dolan of Cleveland and Tom Yawkey of Boston, would prefer to give first consideration to Minneapolis-St. Paul.

"We agree that Los Angeles could support two major league clubs," said a member of the Minneapolis-St. Paul faction, "but it is our belief that it is only a matter of time before the Kansas City franchise is transferred to Los Angeles."

The American Leaguers are trying to conceal their chagrin in losing a chance for a monopoly in the virgin Texas territory such as the National has in California.

It was the AL's hope to lasso Houston and Dallas-Ft. Worth, thereby creating a natural rivalry. But following the NL's quick action, a spokesman said: "We prefer Dallas-Ft. Worth over Houston."

The major obstacle confronting all applicants for big league franchises is a stadium. Both Texas cities have approved bond issues for the construction of huge stadiums. New York City's Board of Estimate has approved an appropriation for preliminary plans for a stadium. Minneapolis has a 22,000-seat stadium which will be enlarged to seat 40,000.

New York, Minneapolis-St. Paul, Houston and Dallas-Ft. Worth were among the five Continental League cities given most consideration at the August meeting when the majors agreed to absorb four of its franchises. Toronto, the other, appears to be losing out since no concrete plans for a stadium are apparent.

Giles credited the Houston group with supplying the impetus for major league action on expansion.

"Of all the cities seeking major league franchises," he said, "I personally believe Houston has made the most progress. It has definite plans to build a ball park, club (Jacksonville) and started its organization. I don't anticipate any obstacle for the Houston group other than acquiring the territory."

Iowa Erupts Into Grid Powerhouse

By RON SPEER

Associated Press Sports Writer IOWA CITY, Iowa. (AP)—A young band of backfield opportunists has turned the Iowa Hawkeyes into one of the leading college football teams in the nation this fall.

This group, whose trade mark is the swift out-of-the-blue touchdown strike, has erupted into the No. 2 team in this week's Associated Press poll.

The Hawkeyes' explosive striking power has carried them undefeated through three games.

How do these opportunists operate? Here's an example:

Trailing 15-14 late in the game last Saturday and Michigan State threatening to score, Iowa suddenly came up with two touchdowns in less than three minutes and a 27-15 victory.

Sophomore fullback Joe Williams ignited the rally by grabbing the ball from MSU quarterback Tom Wilson and dashing 67 yards to score. Within minutes Junior Bernie Wyatt had intercepted a Spartan pass and junior quarterback Wilburn Hollis had sprinted 23 yards for another touchdown.

Was Williams' timely theft luck? Perhaps, but as Williams explains it the feat was typical of the Hawkeyes' brash defense.

"Wyatt gave the switch signal just before the play began," Williams says. "When he does that I'm supposed to shoot in and go for the quarterback."

Dyer Making Shambles In SC Offensive Race

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—VMI's Howard Dyer is making a shambles of the Southern Conference total offense race, and the discouraging thing for his closest rivals is that this superb football player seems to be getting better with every game.

The Keydets' senior quarterback picked up 233 yards Friday night against George Washington, his best performance so far, to run his league-leading total offense figure to 722 yards. Furman's Tom Campbell is a distant second with 324 yards.

Dyer passed for 202 yards and ran for 31 as VMI mauled GW 34-10 for its 11th straight victory and its fourth of 1960.

Campbell, a squat fullback, has gained all his yardage rushing and also has a shot at a record—the rushing mark of 807 yards set by West Virginia's Bobby Mass in 1955. Campbell has done his damage in just three games.

VMI's halfback Stinson Jones is the conference's top pass receiver with 13 receptions for 209 yards. William and Mary's Dan Barton continues to be the league's No. 1 punter with a 37.6-yard average on 12 punts.

The biggest gainer during the past week was Furman's quarterback Billy Canty. Unranked before, Canty climbed all the way to third place in passing with 15 completions in 26 attempts for 147 yards and three touchdowns. Dyer leads with 38 completions and 597 passing yards.

Downes Scores Big Victory

LONDON (AP)—British middleweight champion Terry Downes stormed into the world's top 10 Tuesday night with an overwhelming decision over ranking American Joey Giardello. He immediately challenged Paul Pender or Gene Fullmer to a world title fight.

Downes, 24-year-old former U.S. Marine who went to the United States to learn how to fight as an amateur, mixed his natural brawling ability with a kind of boxing skill he has never displayed before to defeat 30-year-old Giardello from Philadelphia.

Duke, Tar Heels Picked To Win

By HAROLD CLAASSEN

Associated Press Sports Writer NEW YORK (AP)—In fourteen hundred ninety-two, Columbus sailed the ocean blue.

He landed 468 years ago today amidst great confusion. Some of the confusion still exists but it is concentrated primarily among football forecasters. So great was the confusion last week that 17 incorrect picks were scattered among 34 others that were exactly on the button. That cut the season's average to 730.

This week's selections: Mississippi over Tulane; The Rebels' Jake Gibbs is an outstanding quarterback and has accounted for 533 yards, personally, in Mississippi's four straight triumphs this year. He's too much for Tulane to handle.

Iowa over Wisconsin: Two teams that have done better than expected but the Hawkeye speed will prevail.

Ohio State over Purdue: Bob Ferguson, the Ohio State fullback, is 217 pounds of pure dynamite. The Boilermakers present a leaky defense.

Syracuse over Penn State: A Syracuse official called the defending national champions "fat and complacent" after their squeaker with Holy Cross. Penn State will pay the penalty.

Navy over Air Force: A personal duel between the Middles' Joe Bellino and the Falcons' Rich Mayo. Bellino will get the more help.

Missouri over Kansas State: With the greatest of ease.

Baylor over Texas Tech: By about two touchdowns. The Carolina Tigers get revenge for the 28-25 setback of a year ago. It could go the other way.

Kansas over Oklahoma: Oklahoma has lost only one conference game in 13 years. The second loop defeat will be delivered Saturday with John Hadl and Bert Coan doing the heavy work.

Elsewhere: Minnesota over Illinois; Texas over Arkansas;

Washington over UCLA; Michigan State over Notre Dame; Tennessee over Alabama; Oregon State over Idaho; Arizona State over Brigham Young; Auburn over Georgia Tech.

TWO GREAT STORES TO SERVE YOU — 4TH & COTANCHE STS. & 1008 DICKINSON AVENUE — "WE RESERVE THE RIGHT TO LIMIT"

Kennedy Recalls Business Served Well By Democrats

NEW YORK (AP)—Sen. John F. Kennedy said today the assumption of an inevitable conflict between the Democratic party and businessmen "is one of the great political myths of our time."

"The business community has well served the Democratic party—and I believe the Democratic party has well served the business community," said the Democratic presidential nominee in a speech prepared for the Association of Business Publications.

Kennedy said his party has benefited business by such things as creating the Federal Reserve System as the basis of the nation's currency and banking system, by controlling securities speculation, and by raising purchasing power of farmers and workers.

He assured the association that, while as president he would not conduct a businessmen's administration, "neither will it be a labor administration or a farmers' administration."

"It will be an administration representing and seeking to serve all Americans," he said. The Massachusetts senator scheduled a busy program in the metropolitan area today, with a dozen appearances at a wide range of events.

He planned to begin with a breakfast at the home of Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt and finish up with a $100 a plate fund-raising dinner at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel.

In between were the address to the business group, a speech to the National Council of Women, an appearance at the National Conference on Constitutional Rights, a half hour in the review stand at the Columbus Day parade, a drive out to the Long Island Fair at the Roosevelt Raceway, rallies in Puerto Rican and Negro sections of Harlem in Manhattan, and some receptions.

This was Kennedy's third swing into New York with its big prize of 45 electoral votes. His tentative schedule calls for three more visits.

A pattern of heavy concentration on the big industrial states of the Northeast is clearly emerging in the senator's campaign.

He already has been in Ohio four times and will go back there twice more. Other states to get much attention are Pennsylvania, Michigan and Illinois.

Library Club's Officers Chosen

AYDEN—Booker T. Wilson was elected president of the South Ayden High School Library Club at its recent meeting in the school library.

Others elected were Martha J. Davis, vice president; Gloria Dixon, secretary; Eula B. Davis, assistant secretary; and Mary Davis, reporter. Mrs. L.P. Ormond is librarian.

A large number of students are now enrolled as members for the school year 1960-61.

The Democratic nominee told the business group today that both he and Vice President Richard M. Nixon are equally opposed to excessive or unjustified government intervention in the economy.

"Big government is not an issue," said Kennedy, "not at a time when the party which last made it an issue has expanded the federal payroll to an all-time high, operated at an $18-billion deficit, increased the debt limit five times, caused the highest peacetime deficit in our history, and spent two-thirds as much money as all previous administrations put together."

Mixed Blessing In Inventing Telephone

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Dr. Alexander Graham Bell did a great thing when he invented the telephone.

It served people apart. It brought them by wire closer together across county and continent.

It seemed for a while that the telephone was the greatest sociological instrument ever devised. It made the world a universal "Hello."

There are those who now believe the telephone has an even greater future by marrying it to television. I don't mean to explore here the possibilities of pay-TV by wire.

What I mean to discuss is the possibility you can phone people and see them as you talk to them personally.

This prospect may sound like a fine scientific achievement, but I think its real appeal is to teenagers rather than grownups.

Teen-agers seem to have a fascination for each other's face and voice which to the average grown-up is repellent. They could use the teaming of electronic voice and electronic sight to enjoyment. No one else I know can.

The truth is that the telephone rather overdid its ability to say "Hello" to everybody and anybody.

School Visited By TV Teacher

AYDEN — Miss Iola Parker of the N. C. In-School Television Studio, visited the American History class of South Ayden School on Monday.

She was introduced to students by Mrs. L.P. Ormond, faculty member. During her visit as the studio teacher, Miss Parker told the class about time required in getting ready to bring a telecast to the class and explained other workings at the studio.

The class recently concluded a unit on "The Struggle for American Independence."

The senator said that as president he would follow a fiscal policy that could be described as "highly conservative," and not at all radical.

He explained this meant he would use the federal budget as an instrument of economic stabilization with surpluses in good times, more than offsetting deficits incurred to fight business slumps.

This is a much better way to keep prices from rising unduly, he said, than the tight money, high interest rate policy he said the Eisenhower administration has followed.

Luxury Living For Red Visitors

NEW YORK (AP)—When Soviet Premier Khrushchev packs up his shirt and socks and heads for home Thursday he ought to carry away at least some pleasant memories—mainly of living it up in a style even American millionaires can hardly afford.

At Khrushchev's disposal were four of the most magnificent residences this country has to offer. All are now owned by the Soviet Union.

Whether Khrushchev was just too busy, or whether elegance palled on him, he got around to hanging his hat in only two.

These were a five-story Park Avenue edifice and a 37-acre estate with a palatial 45-room mansion on Long Island.

For a fellow who advocates the simple life for his 200 million subjects, that's a pretty fair way to rough it when you're away from home.

The 680 Park Avenue building, which Khrushchev made his chief residence during his stay, is the headquarters of the Soviet United Nations delegation.

The brick structure was built in 1910 and for many years was the residence of the Payne banking and realty family. The Soviets bought it in 1949 for a half-million dollars.

The Long Island estate at Glen Cove, one of the few of its size left on the North Shore "Gold Coast," also was purchased some years ago for Soviet weekend relaxation.

It was developed in 1912, reportedly at a cost of about a million dollars, by the late Charles Pratt, a founder of the Standard Oil Co. He gave it to his son, the late George DuPont Pratt, as a wedding gift.

The Soviets also have another country estate retreat on Long Island, a 60-room mansion at Upper Brookville, and a town house of many rooms adjoining the Park Avenue headquarters.

Star Farmer Awards Tonight

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—Honorary American Farmer degrees will be presented today at the 33rd Future Farmers of America convention.

About 8,000 youths from the 50 states, Puerto Rico and the Philippines were expected at the first session. The total may reach 9,000 during the three-day convention.

Star American farmer awards will be presented tonight.

Panel To Review United Fund Role

Another in a series of eight television panel discussions on work of the United Fund will be presented on WNCN-TV, Channel 9, Thursday morning starting at 9:15.

The panel will discuss work for the blind and the Salvation Army's program.

Season Opens Oct. 15 On Bear And Squirrel

Pitt County Wildlife Protector J. O. Teel announced today that the hunting season for Bear and Squirrels in Pitt County would be open from October 15 until January 2, while the open season for Deer will be from October 15 until November 5.

According to Teel, the bag limit is — 2 daily while the possession limit is 2. There is no season limit. Teel noted. The Protector added that it is illegal to kill a female bear with a cub or cubs at its side or to kill a cub bear (one weighing less than 50 pounds).

During the season on White-tail Deer in Pitt, Teel said, the bag limit is one daily with a possession and season limit of two. He emphasized that only male deer with visible antlers may be taken.

The limit for squirrels in Pitt and other counties East of Northampton, Halifax, Nash, Johnson, Harnett, Hoke and Scotland counties, limits are daily, eight; possession, 16; and season, 75. The limits may include two fox squirrels per day, four in possession and 10 per season, Teel added.

Lawful seasons and bag limits for each species are from sunrise on the first day of the listed season to sunset on the last day of the listed season, with all dates being inclusive except Sunday, the officer noted.

Teel also noted the first half of the Mourning Dove season would end October 15. The split season which started September 10 will end Saturday.

The second period of the Mourning Dove season will start December 1 and run through January 14. Shooting of the birds will be from 12 noon to sunset each day. The bag limit is 12 with possession limit being 24.

Teel noted that all season in Pitt will open November 24 and run through February 15, with daily bag limits of 8, possession limit of 16 and season limit of 100.

Nikita Illustrates Basic Obstacles

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press News Analyst
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Premier Khrushchev's words and attitudes during his visit to the U.N. General Assembly illustrate a basic obstacle in the path toward real peace. The Communists and Western parliamentary democracies are worlds apart in their conceptions of what the United Nations should be.

Khrushchev told the assembly Tuesday the United Nations was created for the discussion of disputes and for "solving important problems of ensuring peace."

The Soviet view apparently is this: That the United Nations can discuss and can agree, but it cannot either police or enforce agreements.

When the United Nations first came into being, Western leaders viewed it as a step toward the old dream of a parliament of man that would forever outlaw war and mass bloodshed.

Thus, the West—and particularly the English-speaking peoples—regards the United Nations as a sort of parliament whose decisions have the force of authority.

But there are no parliaments in the Communist world. Those bodies which are called parliaments can do nothing but talk, discuss and agree. Decisions are reached at the higher government levels. How does Khrushchev view the United Nations then? He told a meeting of U.N. correspondents Friday: "This is not a parliament. It is a forum in which questions should be resolved, but in such a way as not to endanger the interests of even a single state among those that make up this forum."

The rule of the majority, which is the foundation of Western Parliamentary democracies, is a puzzle to the Russians, who have had no experience with it. Theirs is strictly a rule of the minority.

Rule A Limit On Cats Per Home

DETROIT (AP)—The Highland Park City Council has voted that no home may have more than three cats. Violators will be subject to a $50 fine and/or 90 days in jail.

The ruling came after Police Chief Dewey T. Schultz told the council of numerous complaints of cats causing disturbances. He said he found 27 cats in one home.

CHARLIE SPIVAK and his orchestra will play for Greenville Moose tonight at a dance at Moose Temple, beginning at 9:00 p.m. Open to members only. Lodge Entertainment Chairman Eli Bloom has announced the full quota of tickets have been distributed and no more will be available.

THIRTEEN SPEAKERS

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Thirteen speakers remain to be heard in the U.N. General Assembly's policy debate. Frederick H. Boland, assembly president, declared the speakers' list closed with these nations still to be heard: Mali, Sweden, Ceylon, Costa Rica, Laos, Cameroon, France, El Salvador, Union of South Africa, Mexico, Niger, Cyprus and India.

Executives Club Speakers Named

Dr. Ralph W. Sockman, minister of Christ Church Methodist, New York, will be the first of five speakers to appear before the Pitt County Executives Club this fall and winter.

Dr. E.R. Browning, president of the club, announced the schedule of speakers today. Dr. Sockman, a minister since 1917, will be heard on Friday, Oct. 21.

Dr. Sockman has the unique record of having served over 30 years in his first parish. He has ministered to the people throughout this country and Canada over a nationwide radio pulpit since 1928.

President of the Church Peace Union, a Carnegie Foundation, and president of the board of World Peace of the Methodist Church, Dr. Sockman delivered the famed Lyman Beecher Lecture.

Cellist Cassals Gives Concert

NEW YORK (AP)—Pablo Casals, world-famed cellist, in what was technically his first New York appearance in a quarter-century, gave a concert Tuesday night in the midtown home of Mr. and Mrs. David Rockefeller.

It was a benefit performance. The 100 invited guests contributed an estimated $50,000 to the September 1961 Pablo Casals international violin competition in Israel. The competition, held before in France and Mexico, is sponsored by the America-Israel Cultural Foundation. Casals is chairman of the board of judges.

The music program consisted of the Mendelssohn Trio in D minor and the Schubert Quintet in C major. Assisting the maestro were pianist Mieczyslaw Horowitz, violinist Alexander Schneider and the Budapest String Quartet.

Casals played at the United Nations here two years ago, and he came to the states twice before this year from his home in Puerto Rico, but to teach, not to play.

VISIT POSTPONED
LONDON (AP)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev's scheduled early October visit to North Korea has been postponed, Moscow radio reported Tuesday night. It said he will make the visit at a date to be announced later.

tures at Yale in 1941. He is associate professor of practical theology at Union Theological Seminary, trustee of Ohio Wesleyan, Syracuse University, Drew Theological Seminary and member of the Council of New York University.

Upon the death of President James Rowland Angell of Yale, Dr. Sockman was appointed director of the Hall of Fame for famous Americans which is on the campus of New York University, where he is also chaplain.

He has received honorary degrees from 21 universities. Others scheduled to speak, Dr. Browning said, are Mrs. Ethel Barrett, inspirational and talented story teller. Her address, "Nothing Succeeds Like Enthusiasm," will be heard Nov. 5.

On Jan. 21, John Crutcher, a lieutenant commander in the Navy during World War II and the Korean Conflict, and former personnel specialist and engineer with Johns Manville and Allis Chalmers corporations, will speak on "Yugoslavia, Kingpin of the Balkans."

Harold Eide, adventurer and explorer, will address the club Feb.

18 on "What a Life: Norway, Alaska, Iceland and Elsewhere." The final program of the series will be an address by Judge H.C. "Sam" Kessinger, internationally known humorist on March 18. The topic of his address will be "Living It Up."

Serving on the board of directors of the Executives Club are Dr. Browning, Dr. Robert L. Humber, Dr. W. E. Roseveare, Claude W. Harris, Carter Studer, W.H. Watson of Greenville, R.P. Hardee of Ayden, Dr. Sylvester Aycock, Mrs. Jesse Moyer of Farmville, G.M. Vincent of Winterville and W.I. Bissette of Grifton. Secretary is Anne Blair Smith.

Imaginative Evening For TV Shows Real Potential

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—After an evening like Tuesday night, it is obvious that there is nothing the matter with television that imagination, thought and hard work can't cure.

First there was the season's first "CBS Reports," a fascinating suspense story with a happy ending. It was a documentary about the long, extensive development of the Navy's Polaris missile, invented expressly to be fired by a submerged atom-powered submarine.

CBS has had its camera lens on both the submarine George Washington and — whenever security permitted — the missile for almost five years. Thus the program (narrated by Edward R. Murrow with great simplicity) was both absorbing and instructive. It was reassuring and heartening, too, to learn about a weapon with such a war-detering potential.

About an hour later, NBC gave us the "Donald O'Connor Show," a gay program of pure entertainment—great dancing, pleasant songs, good humor and handsome backgrounds. O'Connor, who turns up on TV as rarely as Fred Astaire, is a man of many talents and the greatest of these is dancing.

Mitzi Gaynor, his pretty costar, contributed her dancing and singing abilities and it was all delightful.

And in between, if one was twisting the dial selectively, there was a very good mystery episode on "Thriller," on NBC.

That familiar TV interview format-questions by a panel and answers by the guest—seems to have been chosen unanimously as the politicians' favorite means of getting their messages across. From the viewers' location in front of the TV set, however, it is a more satisfactory session when there is just one man answering the questions.

In the joint Nixon-Kennedy appearances, the business of limiting the time for both the answer to a question and the rebuttal period of his opponent leaves many questions up in the air when the questioners move on to another area.

Old TV series ideas never die, they just change stars and locations. For instance, ABC now has on the planning board a series called "The New Breed," concerned with the activities of the "Metropolitan Squad" of the Los Angeles Police Department. Remember NBC's "M Squad"? That was about the activities of the Metropolitan Squad of the Chicago Police Force.

Lee Marvin, who played "M Squad's" hero, soon will show up on the other side of the law. He'll play a bandit in the Oct. 26 episode of "Wagon Train."

CBS will pre-empt the time of its Sunday "Face the Nation" for an hour's special showing the 1961 models of American automobiles. NBC's "Meet the Press," at the same time—6 p.m., EDT—will interview Democratic presidential candidate John F. Kennedy. The overnight ratings on these two shows will make interesting reading.

Stock And Market Reports

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA) — North Carolina egg prices irregular. Supply short, demand good. Prices paid for clean, unsized eggs on a grade-yield basis with cases exchanged: A large whites 50 to 51, browns 53; medium whites 48 to 49½, browns 49½ to 50; small whites 31 to 34½, browns 32 to 34½.

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market moved irregularly under quiet, semi-holiday conditions early this afternoon.

Banks and many other financial institutions were closed in observance of Columbus Day. Another World Series baseball game was expected to further dampen trading interest.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off .30 to .208.00 with the industrials down .50, the rails down .10 and the utilities down .10.

Gains and losses of most key stocks ran from fractions to about a point. A number of issues showed little or no change.

Oils had a flurry and remained mostly higher. Coppers were depressed by the price cut of three cents a pound, the first change in the producer price since November 1959.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was down 1.03 at 587.72.

Corporate bonds were mixed. Investment houses trading in U.S. government bonds were closed because of Columbus Day.

Funeral
Mr. James Russell Atkins, Route 6, Greenville, died Sunday at a Wilson Hospital. Funeral services will be conducted Thursday at 3 p.m. at Little Savannah Baptist Church. Elder Bess Cooper will follow in the Wilson Cemetery in Tarboro.
Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Doris M. Atkins of the home; one daughter, Mildred and one son, Ricky, both of the home; three sisters and one brother.
The body will remain at Flanagan and Parker Funeral Home until the hour of the funeral.
The least number of tropical disturbances—from which hurricanes are spawned—recorded in the Gulf Atlantic states in one season is two.

CAPT. LYMAN NETHERCUTT . . . of the Greenville Fire Prevention Bureau is shown handing over part of the more than 10,000 pieces of fire prevention literature being distributed throughout the county schools this week, to Mrs. Ethel Tucker of the Pitt County Schools. The literature was purchased by the Pitt County Insurance Exchange. Pamphlets supplied by the Greenville Chamber of Commerce are being distributed throughout the Greenville City Schools this week also.

Nixon Cool To Talk Of Fifth TV Debate Charge Theft Of Govm't Property

NEW YORK (AP)—A great debate appears to be shaping up over the "great debate" between the presidential candidates. Sen. John F. Kennedy has accepted a network offer to make time available for a fifth debate early in November.

But Vice President Richard M. Nixon is cool to the idea and has suggested that instead of a fifth debate he and Kennedy expand their fourth joint appearance to two hours.

Kennedy has not yet replied. Originally, four one-hour debates were scheduled. Two already have been held and the third is set for Thursday night.

The proposal for another debate "around Nov. 2" was made in telegrams Saturday by three Democratic senators. The National Broadcasting System and the American Broadcasting Co. agreed to give television and radio time and the Mutual Broadcasting System offered its radio network facilities.

The Kennedy camp feels that the senator did so well in the first two debates that still another one would be beneficial to him. They also believe that, with the last debate now set for Oct. 21, too big a time gap would be left before the election and that the Republicans could finance a home-stretch TV blitz that the Democrats could not match because of a lack of funds.

The Republicans take another view.

Fred C. Scribner Jr., chief Republican National Committee negotiator on the four programs already scheduled, asserted that Kennedy had lost the second TV debate, held last Friday.

"It is not unusual for a man who has been beaten to ask for a return match," he said.

Nixon, in San Diego, Calif., suggested through his press secretary that the fourth joint TV appearance now scheduled for Oct. 21 be turned over to the vice-presidential candidates.

He also suggested that the two-hour debate that he proposed should be held some time in the week of Oct. 21-28 and that the time for both answering questions and for rebuttal should be increased from two-and-a-half to five minutes.

Nixon was quoted as saying that his schedule was too tight to permit a TV debate after Oct. 28.

CHARLOTTE (AP)—The Charlotte Federal Bureau of Investigation office today announced the arrest of six men, three of them Marines stationed at the Cherry Point Marine Air Station, on charges of theft of government property and conspiracy.

D. E. Rooney, special agent in charge of the FBI office here, said Marine authorities, who worked with the FBI on the case, reported the value of the government property recovered exceeded more than $13,000.

Those arrested were identified as:

Staff Sgt. Charles Preston Eldson, 31, who lives in New Bern; Sgt. Kenneth Fray Tomlin, 25, who lives at Rt. 2, Newport; Staff Sgt. Robert Neville Stone, 33, who lives at Cherry Point; Narbert Trent Lamm, 32, civilian employee at the air station, a New Bern resident; Samuel T. Roach, 66, owner of a New Bern machine shop, and George C. Cottle, 71, owner of a Washington, N.C., junkyard.

A warrant authorized by Julian Gaskill, U.S. Eastern District attorney, charges all six with theft of government property and conspiracy on or about last Aug. 15. They are charged with conspiring to embezzle, steal and defraud the United States by taking five lead dies, the property of the government.

In addition, Stone is charged with theft of a fork lift from Cherry Point on or about last June 21. Roach is charged with receiving it.

All were arrested yesterday and arraigned before U.S. Commissioner Matilda H. Turner, who bound them over for trial in U.S. District Court at New Bern next April 24.

Stone and Roach were released under $2,500 bond each. The others were released after posting $1,000 bond each.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The women of America may continue to buy lipsticks in their favorite colors.

The Food and Drug Administration has formally approved use of 13 specific coal tar colors for use in cosmetics, saying it is not inconsistent with the public health.

The finding, based on animal tests over the last two years, was made as a temporary measure pending more thorough testing over the next 2½ years.

The FDA once had ordered a ban on use of the colors, saying that test rats suffered liver, kidney and blood damage from a diet which included the dyes. The law then forbade use in cosmetics of any substance which caused damage in test animals.

Lipstick makers protested that no woman would swallow anything like the amount of the colors fed to the rats, but the law provided no leeway. Congress changed the law to permit use of the dyes in quantities found to be safe.

Those quantities were fixed in Tuesday's FDA order.

Grifton's Chief Of Police Resigns At Board Meeting

GRIFTON—Chief of Police Roy G. Jackson last night submitted his resignation, effective immediately, before the October meeting of the Town Board.

The letter stated his reason for leaving the Grifton post was for better job opportunity. Jackson had been chief since last September.

No action has been taken yet on a replacement. It was reported by a group now out of business.

In other business board members voted to give Utilities Superintendent and Parttime Policeman Luther Lewis a $10 per week raise. Raises were also given to Elias Jones and Louis Dixon, town employees, of five cents per hour. Morris Wall, another employee with the town a number of years, was given a $2.50 per week raise, Mrs. McCoy said.

After the Lions Club of Grifton expressed interest in assisting with Christmas street decorations, board members decided to inquire to other towns and companies as to procedures used in their decorations.

Commissioner J. C. Hart was asked to have the downtown merchants talk to their employees about the parking situation on the main street, during office hours. The Town Board has encouraged employees of the town and of downtown merchants to park their automobiles off the main streets during working hours, so that the streets will be open to shoppers.

Following an inquiry by the town officials about weeds growing through asphalt street pavement, a letter was read from a chemical company. The company said little could be done about the situation, Mrs. McCoy said.

The balance of Recorder's Court for the month of September was $335.35, Clerk Russell Bates reported.

Gavin Plugs Two-Party System In Eastern Tour

NEW BERN, N.C. (AP) — Republican gubernatorial candidate Robert Gavin said here today that if elected he would endeavor to bring prosperity to eastern North Carolina.

Gavin, in a campaign swing through eastern North Carolina, continued plugging for a two-party system.

"Today we do not live in the shadow of a one man, but we do have the one party system which is just as bad. Often the man who is best qualified for a particular job is not elected to that position because we do not have a choice of candidates," Gavin said.

"There is no two party system here, and there will not be a two party system until all North Carolinians are free to work for what they want."

"When I am elected governor, I won't promise to make North Carolina a utopia. I will leave those promises to my promising opponent, but I promise this: I believe I can open a new era for North Carolina which will bring prosperity to this eastern area of the state," Gavin declared.

At Winston Tuesday night, Gavin said one party politics has helped build up neglect for the east.

Gavin continued his foray into the east, traditionally heavily Democratic, with stops ahead at Beaufort, Jacksonville and Morehead City.

Gavin will go to Winston-Salem Thursday evening to be on the platform for an address by Henry Cabot Lodge, the GOP vice presidential candidate.

Ralph Rochelle, Guilford County Democrat, plugged for election of the Republican candidate for governor Tuesday night in a rally at Shallotte.

Aochelle told the Gavin for governor rally that Terry Sanford, the Democratic candidate, "has been the union bosses' darling since the beginning of his push toward the gubernatorial chair."

Rochelle is a member of the Democratic executive committee of Guilford County.

He repeated a charge which was used in the Democratic primary last spring, saying that Sanford received payments of union money in 1954. At the time, Rochelle recalled, Sanford was campaign manager for the late Sen. W. Kerr Scott. However, Rochelle said the amounts were not reported by Scott as campaign contributions.

Firemen Display Equipment's Use

STOKES—A demonstration on the use of a fire truck and fire extinguisher was presented to some 500 students of Stokes Elementary School today in connection with Fire Prevention Week.

The school has been observing Fire Prevention Week for several days. The climax of their observance was the demonstration this morning, given by Franklin Roebuck and I. Nelson Jr., of the Stokes Fire Department regarding the truck and by William Clemens, janitor, on use of the fire extinguisher.

The final demonstration will be a chapel program later this week with all 17 classes of the school taking part. M. T. Lewis is principal of the school.

CHARLOTTE (AP)—The Charlotte Federal Bureau of Investigation office today announced the arrest of six men, three of them Marines stationed at the Cherry Point Marine Air Station, on charges of theft of government property and conspiracy.

D. E. Rooney, special agent in charge of the FBI office here, said Marine authorities, who worked with the FBI on the case, reported the value of the government property recovered exceeded more than $13,000.

Those arrested were identified as:

Staff Sgt. Charles Preston Eldson, 31, who lives in New Bern; Sgt. Kenneth Fray Tomlin, 25, who lives at Rt. 2, Newport; Staff Sgt. Robert Neville Stone, 33, who lives at Cherry Point; Narbert Trent Lamm, 32, civilian employee at the air station, a New Bern resident; Samuel T. Roach, 66, owner of a New Bern machine shop, and George C. Cottle, 71, owner of a Washington, N.C., junkyard.

A warrant authorized by Julian Gaskill, U.S. Eastern District attorney, charges all six with theft of government property and conspiracy on or about last Aug. 15. They are charged with conspiring to embezzle, steal and defraud the United States by taking five lead dies, the property of the government.

In addition, Stone is charged with theft of a fork lift from Cherry Point on or about last June 21. Roach is charged with receiving it.

All were arrested yesterday and arraigned before U.S. Commissioner Matilda H. Turner, who bound them over for trial in U.S. District Court at New Bern next April 24.

Stone and Roach were released under $2,500 bond each. The others were released after posting $1,000 bond each.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The women of America may continue to buy lipsticks in their favorite colors.

The Food and Drug Administration has formally approved use of 13 specific coal tar colors for use in cosmetics, saying it is not inconsistent with the public health.

The finding, based on animal tests over the last two years, was made as a temporary measure pending more thorough testing over the next 2½ years.

The FDA once had ordered a ban on use of the colors, saying that test rats suffered liver, kidney and blood damage from a diet which included the dyes. The law then forbade use in cosmetics of any substance which caused damage in test animals.

Lipstick makers protested that no woman would swallow anything like the amount of the colors fed to the rats, but the law provided no leeway. Congress changed the law to permit use of the dyes in quantities found to be safe.

Those quantities were fixed in Tuesday's FDA order.
