Slate Talks By Bishop Wright

The Missionary guest speaker of the Episcopal Churchwomen, Diocese of East Carolina, at their Edenton and Wilmington Conventions next week will be Bishop Thomas H. Wright of Wilmington.

Bishop Wright is National Chairman of Overseas Missions, and has recently returned from a tour of nearly one hundred overseas missions.

The Convocation of Edenton will convene in St. Andrew's Church, Nags Head, Wednesday, Oct. 19, with the president, Mrs. Dodd Bonner, Aurora, presiding.

The Wilmington Convocation will meet in Fayetteville at Holy Trinity Church Thursday, Oct. 20, and the president, Mrs. Paul Borden, Goldsboro, will preside.

The theme for both convocations will be "In Christ, There Is No East or West," each opening at 10 a.m. and beginning with the celebration of Holy Communion.

After a business session the Churchwomen will hear an address by their Diocesan president, Mrs. Heman Clark of Fayetteville. A new feature on the program this year will be a symposium by the Diocesan Executive Board on the departmental work of Episcopal Churchwomen. Bishop Wright will speak immediately after lunch.

The convocations offerings this year will go for work among the lepers on Okinawa, and to the missionary needs in the diocese of Eastern Carolina.

Gardening Today

By JOHN G. DUNCAN

Hedges are useful as screens to set off one's property and to divide areas on the home grounds. Whether the hedge is used to set off the garden area, or to hide an unsightly view, or for any other reasons in keeping with the entire planting plan, a good choice of hedge material is essential.

Evergreen and deciduous hedges serve a purpose. However, the answer lies in the meaning for, or purpose of the hedge. When the hedge is used to break the view of an open field in the country, a deciduous hedge will do either the deciduous or evergreen hedge can be used as dividers on the home ground to separate garden and house areas.

For a neat low growing hedge, Ilex convexa should fit the need. It trims nearly as does the Ilex microphylla (small leaf holly) which also has a good use as a hedge in a like situation. Abelia grandiflora makes a good medium hedge. Not only are its bronzy evergreen leaves pleasing, but the flowers come in June and stay until October. Abelia has no known enemies and should be maintained at a low cost.

Elaeagnus can be used in sunny areas or in the shade. This type hedge can usually be trimmed hard in the spring and kept in bounds by keeping the young new growth headed back.

Barbery Juliana, with its thorns, does double duty when employed as hedge material. One trip through it is usually the last for either man or beast. This kind of hedge is not recommended for use between friendly neighbors, but in a garden area where stray dogs are a problem, you might use it to advantage.

Yew, with its dark green foliage, is one of the best plants for the formal hedge. Its slow growth makes for a minimum of trimming. These plants are not cheap and a hedge would no doubt be quite costly. However, if you could afford one, a hedge of Yew is very effective and gives the grounds a distinctive look.

Where you can let them grow at will, such as at the rear of a country lot, the Chinese Holly (Ilex burfordii) with shiny green leaves and large berries makes an excellent hedge. These plants because of their stiff growth don't fit too well in the foundation planting.

Spiraea, Forsythia Weigela, and Quince make good hedges. These deciduous plants are well known for their springtime beauty and can be used in combination or singularly with results that are eye catching.

For an unusual hedge, try the dwarf blue leaf Artio Willow. It thrives in sunlight or light shade. Its masses of white flowers last quite some time. These plants get up to two feet or a little more. You can keep them down to 18 inches high and with a spread of 12 inches without impairing its blooming.

For an unusual hedge, try the dwarf blue leaf Artio Willow. They grow where other plants fall—in heavy or wet soil. Its natural height is about 3 feet high but it can be trimmed to 12 inches high and 12 inches wide.

The choice of good hedge material is limitless, but always keep in mind the maintenance. Use those that trim easily. Avoid plants with growth that is too stiff and those whose foliage is large (English Laurel, etc.).

In pruning hedges never box them, or prune them into rounded shapes. The top of a hedge should always be narrower than the bottom. This allows sunlight to get to the plant and prevents dead areas so often caused by parts of it being shaded out. Any plant or groups of plants should answer a definite need in any landscape scheme, so put your hedge where it does the most to bring out the best in your property.

wave solutions, rinses and tints are almost impossible to remove when the garment is cleaned.

Perfumes and colognes lose some of their enchantment when they've caused spots. These liquids should never be applied directly to clothing. The alcohol content tends to bleed some dyes and stains are easily formed.

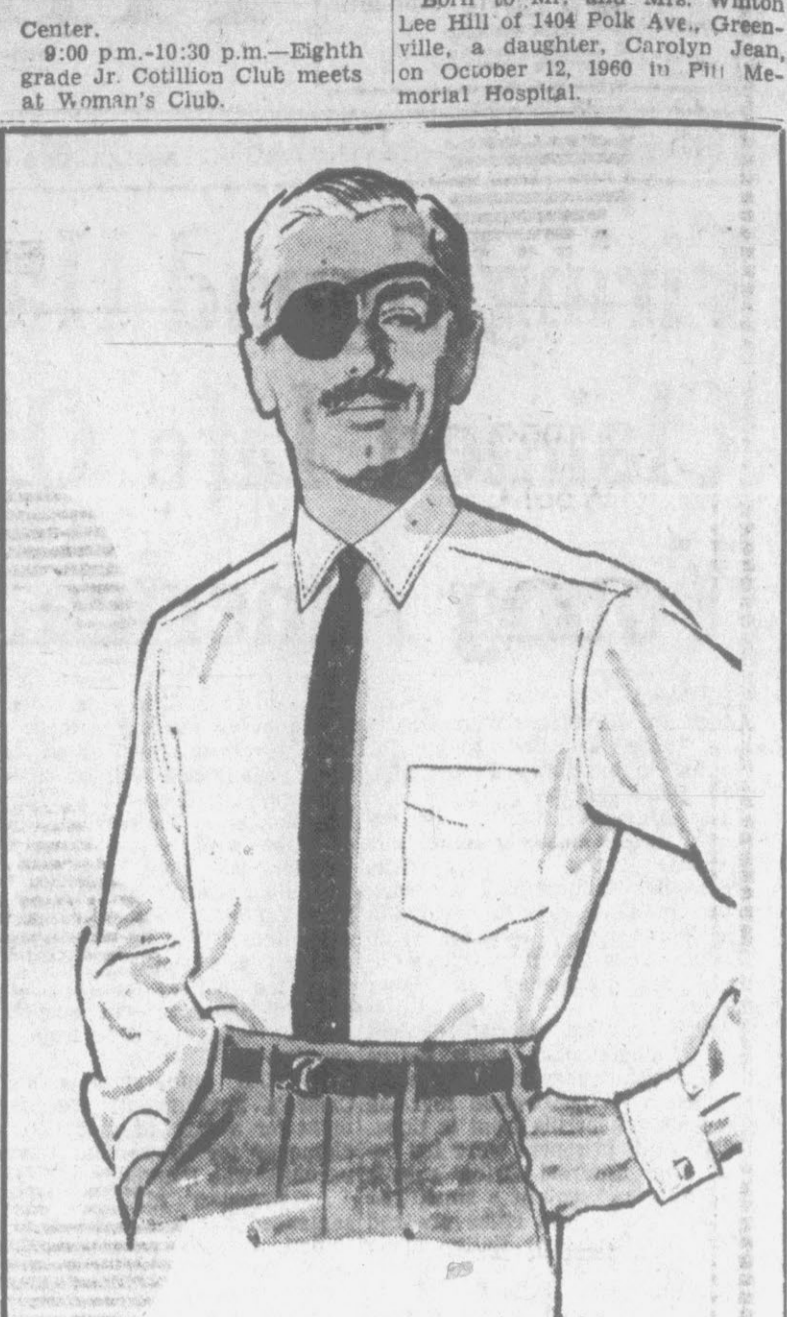

Miss Julia Melver, clothing specialist for the N. C. Agricultural Extension Service, says another feminine grooming preparation which may cause damage is nail polish. Women should avoid the home removal of nail polish stains. Acetate fabric may be ruined by applying polish remover in an attempt to remove the stain.

"To minimize or prevent this type of damage, users of these products should follow carefully the directions for use which appear on the containers," says Miss Melver. "It is also better to use only the products which state that they are safe for fabrics."

Since stains have a tendency to "set" the longer they stay in fabrics, the harder they are to remove. Most ordinary stains should be rinsed at once with cool or warm water. New synthetic fabrics and their reactions make stain removal risky. Unknown stains and those which have been set over a period of time should be left for the cleaners.

One Man's Program Is Supported

The Daily Reflector is frankly delighted at the reception given earlier this week to Dr. A. A. Best's educational program among Negro children.

Our pages have carried the story of the Greenville physician's health and hygiene program among city and Pitt County schools and its expansion in ever-widening circles.

Sunday's meeting here launches the campaign into its most ambitious phase. In January of 1957 Dr. Best began an active health education program in six Negro high schools in Greenville and Pitt County. During the three short years since Dr. Best transformed the program from an idea into reality by his own volunteer efforts, it has spread beyond the six high schools of this county into 29 eastern Carolina counties this fall. By next fall it may be a state-wide program in North Carolina and from there expansion is likely beyond the boundaries of this state.

While Dr. Best's immediate goal is the better understanding and application of hygienic practices, there are accompanying benefits: a lowering of the illegitimate births and a raising of individual economic status.

By the very nature of his program, it is doubtful there are many persons who could have made it the success thus far enjoyed. Pitt County is indeed fortunate the Negro physician conceived the project and then found it in himself to devote so much of his personal time and effort to carrying it out. He alone knows of the sacrifices he has made in terms of time and personal finances he has made in carrying out this program. The rest of us can only guess and be appreciative.

The campaign's popular acceptance is evidenced by the turnout at Eppes High School Sunday. More than 1,600 attended the meeting representing some 40 counties of the state. Significantly enough, there were a number of the "working leaders" in the cause of health and education present.

No one can pretend to anticipate great results this year, next year, or even three years from now. Dr. Best himself has set 10 to 15 years as the period during which the program "should mature materially."

Even so, important results from the program have been seen in Pitt County during the three years since the program began. Each year has brought progress toward the goal of the program. With its expansion from six schools in one county to schools in 29 counties, more young people are being reached and the problem is being combated on more fronts. Continued expansion of the program throughout North Carolina and eventually into other states will multiply its achievements many times.

This is an idea being put to work, and such great hopes as are being felt for this program necessarily require time and the expending of much more effort.

Dr. Best's program has been accepted; there is no question of that. Carrying it out will call for a continuing and dedicated effort by all who see in it an answer to ever-present problems of ignorance and poverty.

Wanton Destruction Cannot Be Tolerated

The wanton destruction of property, the application of violence for the sake of violence, these things we abhor.

Reports of organized spreading of nails on roadways into a General Electric Co. plant in Massachusetts is an instance of lawlessness which can only arouse antipathy toward parties thought to be responsible.

Associated Press accounts say more than 2,000 punctures resulted when non-striking workmen drove their cars into the company gates. When the nails were swept up by a magnetic sweeper, the conspirators devised a means of balking the sweeper.

Such practices, as well as dynamite bombings and stone-throwing and beating up non-striking only turns sympathies away from a union promoting the strike.

If we are to assume union officers have nothing to do with these acts of violence, know nothing about who is behind them, and are equally perturbed by it all, they still owe it to their membership to caution against such undertakings and if necessary take steps to insure they do not take place and the union will not suffer a black eye.

Public tolerance simply will not forever accept callous disregard of human rights and private property. Organized labor movements still depend on public acceptance for their own existence. . . they cannot sink to, nor allow people to believe they hold a "public be damned" philosophy.

Reds' Strategy Of Intimidation

By JAMES MARLOW WASHINGTON (AP) — Premier Khrushchev's actions—by all the orderly standards of the United Nations—have been abnormal. It seems fair now to ask: How much balance does he have?

For 22 days in this country, instead of appealing to reason and fairness, Khrushchev has tried repeatedly to obtain what he wants by threats. Whether or not his fits of anger are real or for effect, his purpose has been to intimidate.

One after another his proposals have been frustrated. Each frustration seems to have driven him to a new excess.

He could have presented his ideas in one well-arranged package. Instead, he seems to have improvised, thinking up new extremes as he went along.

If he follows through on some of his threats, then his main accomplishment in visiting the United Nations has been to wreck it.

He said he wanted disarmament. But he also said he wanted Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold thrown out and replaced by a three-man secretariat, one representing communism, one the West, and one the neutrals.

Then he coupled disarmament with Hammarskjold. Khrushchev said that if he didn't get the three-man secretariat, then there would be no disarmament.

Even the dullest U.N. Delegate could see what Khrushchev wanted was not really a three-man, balanced secretariat but a hunting license.

If Russia tried an adventure anywhere in the world and the three secretaries sat down to discuss action to stop it, the secretary representing communism

Everything Else Being Equal—

By ALVIN TAYLOR

Recalling The Fair Week

One of those big whirling rides suddenly went dark as your columnist entered the "fair-grounds" other night.

"Hey you!" yelled the carnies operating the ride. "I looked his way."

"Yeah you!" he shouted. "See that red box right there. The one with the plug you just pulled out. Go stick your nose in it."

"Come hold my hand while I do," I yelled back. But I don't think I sounded very convincing. Somehow those carnies can be overwhelming.

Red heads have a fair problem that nobody else can appreciate. It involves those wind-prize stands along the midway. You know—where the hucksters stand out in front and holler at the strollers to come over and win a prize for the girl friend.

When a red head comes by they have a target. "Hey Red, they yell. 'Come on over. Pitch 'til you win for a quarter.'"

As time passed and Khrushchev saw he was making no progress on this, he went much further than just saying there could be no disarmament unless he got his three-man secretariat.

He said that unless he got it—even though every other nation voted against him—"we shall uphold our interests outside the U.N. by relying on our own strength."

What are Russia's "interests"? They could be anything Khrushchev wanted them to be. This threat, if carried out, will in effect wreck the United Nations, leaving it a kind of shadow organization.

It is not only his continuing threats but also his seeming obsession with the idea of war, destruction and death which seems peculiarly abnormal. He never stops talking about it, linking it obliquely with his threats.

He has lost at every turn, on everything he wanted at the United Nations. Now the world has to wait to see whether he makes good on his threats.

No one would be quicker to agree to this than Vice-President Richard M. Nixon, who has just been nominated for the Presidency of the United States by the Republican party.

Why? — Because Nixon got his start in politics by answering a want ad. Nixon answered a want ad notice which had been placed in 26 California newspapers in August, 1945. The advertisement sought a candidate for Congress with no previous experience. His job? To defeat a Congressman who had represented the district for ten years.

Nixon was then a lieutenant commander who was awaiting his discharge from the Navy. He answered the ad and was interviewed by the committee which had inserted the notice. He won their approval and became the candidate. He won over Representative Jerry Voorhis for California's 12th district seat. The want ad started him off and he hasn't stopped since.

Many leaders of business and industry have started the same way. They have answered small classified ads for office boys and wound up as heads of America's biggest concerns.

The glory of the American story is told daily in the classified advertising pages of our nation's newspapers. With this, Richard M. Nixon agrees heartily.

A GENUINE KIND (OF FOREIGN AID) (The Macon Telegraph)

There are only 200 of them, but the job they're doing is tremendous. Young people under the sponsorship of the World Council of Churches have given up their vacations and gone abroad to live, work and learn in foreign lands. They are helping to rehabilitate slums in Sweden and improving a water supply in the wilderness of Kenya. Nobody made them go, or make life easy for them. And they pay their own expenses.

"This is a heartening story in several ways. First, it is a welcome relief from the sordid reports of the activities of the small minority of youngsters who are delinquent. Secondly, it shows that the American pioneering spirit is alive in the generation which most will need it.

Since 1947, more than 10,000 young people have participated in the program. Its future seems assured, for the spirit that launched it is inexhaustible.

He also owns a cotton candy machine which he operates at Jaycee and other functions.

For Today Strength

By EARL L. DOUGLASS RELIGION IS REAL

Is religion an "extra?" It is for some persons, and whenever this is true it is a costly extra. In fact there is real doubt as to whether or not it is worth what people pay for it in such cases.

When is religion an "extra," and for whom? It is an "extra" when men and women put in some place else than first, and it is an "extra" for those who want it only as an adjunct of responsibility or as a convenience.

Many people belong to church because it's the thing to do. They go when the weather is too bad for golf, or when they don't have a weekend engagement, or when fancy moves them. Of course they go at Christmas and Easter. Furthermore, they want to be sure, by membership in the church, that they will have someone to baptize, marry, and bury when the need arises in the family.

Now whatever one pays for religion—under these circumstances is too much, and for the simple reason that they are, under such conditions, getting nothing vital that religion has to offer. What religion offers us is the forgiveness of our sins and the release within our hearts and from high heaven of those powers which make triumphant living possible. Religion, when it is real, gives us something, and what it asks in the way of cost is not a pittance of cash but the opening of the doors of our hearts that the most high God may fellowship with us and we with Him.

Khrushchev has had an enormous influence upon Russian thinking and in the development of the Cold War, as his classic on war has served them as a guide. For the Cold War is nothing more than war by wholly new methods and by old methods adapted to new times.

Khrushchev came to this session of the General Assembly of the United Nations not to discuss the China question or disarmament or the future of Dag Hammarskjold but to fight a battle of the Cold War, as he did in Paris. His immediate objective was to impress the small nations, particularly those of Africa and Asia, with the strength of Soviet Russia and the futility of the United States. He brought with him all his pro-consuls and added to them the mighty neutrals who live in fear of his power. It was a very impressive performance which Khrushchev spoiled by his national vulgarity. Nevertheless, the impression he made may be advantageous next year.

Khrushchev is more able in directing the Cold War than Stalin was. Stalin was a revolutionist who only understood direct and immediate action. Khrushchev is a product of a post-revolutionary era and his techniques are less sudden, he is in no hurry. As he is conducting a war, he recognizes that it is unimportant to win a battle; it is important to win the war. Success in war means the total destruction of an enemy's will to resist. Khrushchev understands that economic warfare can lead to more permanent destruction of the will to resist than a military battle. In the present situation in the United States, for instance, gold is a superior weapon to a bomb, or if it is a bomb we think significant, the Congo is worth more than East Germany, for the Congo's minerals.

Now we are in a similar period of uncertainty. Some of the major indexes are leveling off; some forecasters are glum. Perhaps politics has something to do about it.

But this time the consumers are not showing enthusiasm for spending their way out of the doldrums.

The Federal Reserve Board's survey of buy-in intentions of 15,000 families in July showed a slight but definite trend downward.

In August, consumers continued to go into debt for goods and services, but the increase was the lowest for any month in two years. At a seasonable adjusted rate, the increase in installment debt was $168,000,000 and the total of noninstallment credit dropped $1,000,000. This decline was caused by a drop of $40,000,000 in charge accounts. Total retail sales have held up fairly well during August and September figures are not yet complete. However, department store sales lost vigor in the first four weeks of September. National totals were: week ended September 11, down 1 per cent; September 16, down 2 per cent; September 17, down 5 per cent, and September 24, up 2 per cent.

But, as stated here earlier, things may perk up after the election. The Doakes and the Kilroys, as well as business executives, may have more confidence when uncertainties end.

Khrushchev, it appears, lost the 1960 battle in the General Assembly of the United Nations. That does not at all mean that he lost the Cold War.

The nature of war has changed radically in recent years. When we think of war, what arises in our memories is shot and shell, cities destroyed, human beings left homeless, blood and death on all sides.

Today war is continuous. It utilizes together new techniques, not only such as missiles, rockets, biological and chemical devices, but since one of the objects of wars, as Clausewitz, the greatest theoretician of war, has pointed out, is for one nation to impose its will upon another, technical methods have been devised to achieve this without shot and shell.

Clausewitz makes the point: "War is an act of force, and to the application of that force there is no limit. Each of the adversaries forces the hand of the other, and a reciprocal action results which in theory can have no limit."

But force is of many natures. For instance, the systematic destruction of the value of a people is a more subtle form of force than killing a division of men, but it nonetheless is an act of war. Soviet Russia, which has adopted what has come to be called Aesopian language, uses the word peace to describe warlike acts which are of the new techniques that do not require shot and shell. For instance, intellectual subversion, which is a method for changing the thought processes of generations, is a technique of war. Its object is to destroy the will to resist an enemy.

Karl von Clausewitz states that war is a political act. Even more, he found the law that war is a political act but that it is one that is carried out by other means. He said: "What now still remains peculiar to war relates merely to the peculiar character of the means it uses. The art of war in general and the commander in each particular case can demand that the tendencies and designs of policy shall be not incompatible with these means, and the claim is certainly no trifling one. But however powerfully men react on political designs in particular cases, still it must always be regarded as only a modification of them; for the political design is the object, while war is the means, and the means can never be thought of apart from the object."

Clausewitz has had an enormous influence upon Russian thinking and in the development of the Cold War, as his classic on war has served them as a guide. For the Cold War is nothing more than war by wholly new methods and by old methods adapted to new times.

Khrushchev came to this session of the General Assembly of the United Nations not to discuss the China question or disarmament or the future of Dag Hammarskjold but to fight a battle of the Cold War, as he did in Paris. Safety Program High On Agenda

By LYNN NISBET

SAFETY—The convening date of the 1961 General Assembly is three or four months away. Whether three or four depends upon the status adopted by the special session expected to be convened in January for the inauguration of the new Governor. Every agency and department of State government is vitally interested in fiscal budgeting—getting enough money to do the job the agency wants to do.

There are other phases of operations besides money to which most of the agencies are giving serious thought. A case in point is the program for highway traffic safety being mapped by the Motor Vehicles Department.

Information is the department will make another vigorous effort for mandatory periodic mechanical inspection of motor vehicles. The debacle in administration of an inspection law enacted in 1947 led to its repeal in 1949, and since then it has been difficult to get favorable consideration of the idea. Motor vehicle folks think experiences with the quasi-voluntary inspection program for cars brought in from out of state, plus some instances of serious consequences of mechanical failures, may enable passage of an act next year.

Another item the safety folks will insist upon is some kind of scientific test for drivers charged with drunken driving. Majority of members of the Legislature in the past two sessions apparently thought the department asked too much in suggesting that the act of accepting a driving license should constitute willingness to take a blood or breath test. The present law may be tightened, but it is doubted that the next assembly will go as far as the department folks have asked in the past.

POINT SYSTEM—A big item in the safety legislation program will be tightening up the point system leading to revocation or suspension of driver licenses. North Carolina adopted this plan in 1959. Our system is similar to that in operation in about half the states and experience has proven its worth.

Briefly, and very roughly stated, the plan calls for noting demerits on driver licenses for such offenses as speeding, crashing, stop lights, "tail-gating" (running too close behind the car in front), and other violations of traffic safety rules.

Folks in the Motor Vehicles Department have three major revisions in mind. First will be to extend the period in which demerits for license revocation can accumulate from the present two years to three years. Next will be to count violations which contribute most to accidents. For example, Col. Ed Scheidt, commissioner of motor vehicles, who has served on several nationwide committees studying these matters, says "tail-gating" (running too close behind another car) is a heavy contributor to accidents. It carries only a two point demerit. Scheidt thinks it ought to carry at least four points. Anybody who travels the highways much knows that big trucks violate this regulation much more than passenger automobiles—and apparently get away with it to far greater degree.

ENFORCEMENT — That brings up the age-old question of whether additional and stricter laws are needed until more thorough enforcement of existing regulations is accomplished. And that again gets involved in another kind of statistics. The North Carolina State maintenance highway system includes approximately 68,000 miles of public roads—interstate, primary and secondary. Of that total mileage some 36,000 miles is hard surfaced or "black topped". Take off about 3,000 miles of city and town streets. Compare that with the highway patrol does not exercise primary jurisdiction, and about 21,000 miles of secondary surfaced roads which the patrol does not regularly cruise, and you have left some 12,000 miles of primary highways to be patrolled every day and night. That works out to some 25 to 40 miles for each patrolman on main primary highways. Count off special assignments for football games, family reunions, revival meetings, etc., off the primary routes, and allow the officers eight or ten hours out of the 24 hour day for sleep and rest, and you come up with something like one patrolman for each 100 miles highway. Compare that with the two to eight cops who patrol 50 to 100 miles of streets inside cities and towns and you get an idea of what the highway patrolmen are up against.

It is readily understandable that they want more easily enforceable laws. Question remains whether more manpower is most essential to doing the job cut out for overall highway safety.

YOU SUPPORT THE SALVATION ARMY WHEN YOU GIVE TO THE . . .

By ELMER ROESSNER What's the matter, Mamie Doakes? What's botherin' you, Kilroy?

No confidence? No courage? There have been a number of downturns in business since the end of the war. But each time Molly Consumer — and Mamie Doakes and Casper Kilroy—paid no attention to the statistics, and experts or the columnists. They plunged ahead as if nothing was happening or could happen, and bought their silly selves into debt.

The result was that the charts were upended and slumps were short and mild.

An example occurred last year. The gross national product was $499 billion in the second quarter and dropped to $480 billion in the third quarter.

That was recession in any statistician's language. But there was no bust. The Doakes and the Kilroys kept on buyin. They didn't believe the experts. They didn't believe even Roessner.

What happened? The gross national product rose three billion in the fourth quarter and shot up to $496 billion (all this at annual rates) in the first three months of this year.

Both government and Wall Street economists had been mumbling about "corrections," "necessary readjustments" and other dire things. But the Doakes and the Kilroys would have none of this. They, simple souls, thought the boom was still on.

REVERSED THE SLIDE And, largely because they believed it, the boom returned. Those readers who clip this column and store away the snips can find statements praising the consumers because their confidence prevented the recession from becoming serious.

Now we are in a similar period of uncertainty. Some of the major indexes are leveling off; some forecasters are glum. Perhaps politics has something to do about it.

Danced To Music Of Charlie Spivak

THEY MEET AGAIN . . . Entertainment Committee Chairman Eli Bloom (left) and trumpeter Spivak renew an old acquaintance.

Charlie Spivak, "The Man Who Plays The Sweetest Trumpet In The World," says the vogue for sweet music is returning; and he played it both sweet and hot for a crowded dance floor at the Greenville Moose Lodge last night.

For four hours, less time out for three intermissions, the Spivak-styled music filled the hall.

A policy of limiting attendance to 175 couples was invoked and tickets were distributed on a "first come" basis. Entertainment Committee Chairman Eli Bloom explained that otherwise the floor would have been too crowded for dancing.

Breakfast was served following the dance.

The Spivak band began its present tour on September 9, playing in the Southeast and later moving into the Southwest. From Greenville, the band is going to a dance date in Jacksonville, Fla., followed by another date at the University of Florida. The trumpeter opened his appearance here last night with a few remarks to the waiting throng and concluded with "we invite you to dance." . . . Then the music began, and people danced.

'Tap Day' Held For Farmville Students

By NOEL LANG

FARMVILLE — Yesterday was Key and Keyette "Tap Day" for students at Farmville High School. A total of 26 seniors, juniors, and sophomores were "tapped."

With the classes gathered in the auditorium seated in alternate rows, Keyette President Noel Lang explained the purpose and objectives of the organization for high school junior and senior girls. She also briefly outlined the history of the Keyette Club.

Following an explanation of the methods used in selecting new members, a four-member team tapped the following new Keyettes:

Seniors—Donnie Carraway, Shirley Everett, and Jane Hobgood; juniors—Jean Allen, Melba Dixon, Sally Donat, Ann Staton Everett, Sue Flake, and Margie Nichols.

Monty Pickett presented each new Keyette individually on stage, stating the qualifications for membership of each.

Key Club
J. Y. Monk reviewed the Key Club's history, purpose, and objectives before the tapping of new members for that organization.

New members included: seniors—Bobby Avery, Mitchell Cannon, Todd Holmes, Robert May, Ben Moore, Jimmy Pollard, and Eddie Thomas; juniors—Jerry Bailey, Jimmy Everett, Ben Monk, Chester Outland, John Owens; sophomores—Bobby Bass, Kenneth Dilda, Win Donat, Bobby Fisher, and Melvin Gay.

Sponsored by the Farmville Kiwanis Club, both the Key and Keyette Clubs are principally service organizations to school and community. Here, it is considered an honor to be tapped into either club.

The Key Club selects its membership from the sophomore, junior, and senior classes at FHS, while the Keyette group draws its members from junior and senior girls.

Study Secret Of 'Sea Cucumber'

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Navy hopes research on a poison given off by the "sea cucumber" fish will lead to an improved shark repellent, it was reported today. The sea cucumber, a marine creature related to the rear-fish that gets its name from its cucumber shape, secretes a toxic substance called "holothurin" to protect itself from its natural enemies. The chemical is under investigation, spokesmen for the Office of Naval Research told a reporter, not only as a possible shark repellent but also as something that may prove of value in medicine. They talked about it in amplifying on a brief report on the research in the current issue of Naval Research Reviews. They stressed, however, that it remains to be determined whether the chemical is safe for use in man as a medicine—or as a shark repellent that could be released by skin divers and others in the water. Basic research on the chemical is being carried on by scientists of the New York Zoological Society, Mt. Sinai Hospital, N.Y., and the Naval Medical Research Institute at Bethesda, Md., all under the sponsorship of ONR. Dr. Ross Nigrelli of the New York Zoological Society already has reported to ONR that animal experiments show the material increases the clotting time of blood and has stopped the growth of tumors in white mice.

Boys Know Score On Being Lost

WICHITA, Kan. (AP)—John Moore thought the earth circling balloon satellite, Echo I, offered a good chance to give some father-type instruction on astronomy. So he explained to his sons, Alan, 4 and Jim, 5, about the wonders of the heavens and how you can find directions by spotting the North Star. His lecture over, he asked Alan: "Now! What are you going to do if you become lost?"

"I'm going," was the quick reply. "to call a policeman and tell him I live at 204 South Hillside." Belgium is divided into nine provinces: Antwerp, Brabant, East Flanders, West Flanders, Hainaut, Liege, Limburg, Luxembourg and Namur.

ALLOWED TO STARVE PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Ida Abel, 22, gave birth to her sixth child last Thursday. She and her husband, Gerald, 24, were sentenced Tuesday to 9 to 18 months in prison. Both pleaded guilty to allowing their 3-month-old daughter, Dawn, to starve to death last December.

Church's Congregation Worships In Silence

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Every Sunday afternoon a small congregation of deaf people from the Richmond area gathers in St. Paul's Episcopal Church here to worship in silence.

The service, including hymns and prayer book responses, is conducted in sign language by the Rev. J. Jaquelin Ambler, assistant to the rector at St. Paul's. The Rev. Mr. Ambler learned sign language while attending Virginia Theological Seminary in Alexandria.

Sokolsky Col.

(Continued from Page 4) els, particularly uranium, are invaluable. It is necessary to recognize the nature of the Cold War to understand what is happening.

If anyone who is not deaf attends, Mr. Ambler speaks along with the signs. Otherwise the service is silent. In singing, the members of the congregation make their signs in wide, graceful and rhythmic motions—all in unison. There are no bowed heads during the service because all members have to watch the minister. He faces the congregation during communion for the same reason. On such occasions as Easter and Christmas the deaf congregation meets with the regular congregation of St. Paul's and an interpreter is furnished for them.

The first deaf congregation here was organized more than 50 years ago. It formerly met at St. Andrew's Episcopal Church but was transferred to St. Paul's eight years ago because of the more central location. St. Paul's is across the street from the state capitol and is the church Robert E. Lee attended.

Education Comes Easy For Youth

CHICAGO (AP)—Education comes easy for Mitchel J. Sweig, who at 20, has received a master's degree from the University of Chicago.

He took a scholarship test in 1954 when he was a high school sophomore. He was a winner but the test was open only to those who had finished two years of high school.

The university withheld the award until he had completed the requirement. He entered the university in February, 1955, and received his bachelor's degree in June, 1959. Now he begins his doctorate work in October.

Nostalgia Rules In Old Contests

GREENVILLE, Ohio (AP)—The Darke County Steam Threshers Assn., Inc., gets together each year to hold contests in sawing, threshing and baling for the big steam engines used a half-century ago.

In one contest, a board is laid across a railroad tie. Drivers edge their engines on the board, trying to reach a center of balance so that the board—acting as a teeter-totter—does not tip to either side.

Defecting Estonian Seaman Granted Asylum

NEW YORK (AP)—The Estonian seaman who jumped ship from Soviet Premier Khrushchev's liner, the Baltika, has been granted political asylum and turned loose to make a new life for himself in the United States.

The defector, Victor Jaanimets, 29, was in seclusion today thinking things out. P. A. Esperdy, district director of the Immigration Service, announced late Wednesday that the seaman had been cleared as a "bona fide political refugee." Esperdy said the International Rescue Committee, which aids refugees, had been selected as sponsor for Jaanimets to "look after his welfare and get him settled."

The Baltika, which brought Khrushchev and a retinue of Soviet bloc leaders to the United Nations session, will sail from her East River pier Friday. Khrushchev, who arrived here Sept. 19, will go home by plane tonight. Khrushchev tried to make light of Jaanimets' defection. At a sidewalk news conference outside the Soviet U.N. delegation's headquarters, the Soviet Premier said Wednesday: "He either lost his way or he wanted to stay. If he does, it's all right with me."

CAMERA Angles

SHUTTER BUGS—What's the first thing photo columnists do when they attend an international camera fair? Why they take pictures of each other, as this group is doing upon arrival in Cologne for Photokina 1960.

By IRVING DESFOR

AP Newsfeatures
COLOGNE (AP)—The Leitz company, famed for its Leica cameras, has entered for the first time.

Its 8mm motion picture camera was one of the features of Photokina 1960, held every two years on the banks of the Rhine.

Leitz introduced two uniquely designed cameras with: fully automatic, electric-eye operation, reflex through-the-lens viewing and focusing, a battery-powered motor drive. The new cameras are: the Leicina 8S which accepts interchangeable lenses via a plug-in bayonet mount; the Leicina 8 V, a zoom camera with a 1:1.8 variable lens whose unprecedented range from 8 to 40mm is a magnification of six times.

The unusual 13-element zoom lens is a joint development with the Jos. Schneider lensmaker and will be available for other 8mm movie cameras in a C-mount.

Both Leicinas feature a radically different body design with a folding hand grip, thumb-operated release button, and a steady-forehead to prevent camera motion, especially in panning. Leitz also unveiled the world's fastest wide-angle lens. It's an f1.4 35 mm Summilux to be produced by their Canadian subsidiary for the Leica M2 and M3.

Another firm that made news at Photokina 1960 was Franke & Heidecke, makers of the well-known Roliflex. Automatic electric-eye operation which invaded the 35mm camera field, will now appear on the 2 1/2 x 2 1/4 twin-lens reflex camera in their new Roliflex-magic 6 x 6. Filter factors are coupled with the automatic exposure control mechanism. For flash or time exposures, however, the camera is shifted from automatic control. Normally 12 pictures are produced but with a mask, the camera yields 16 pictures: 1 1/2 x 2 1/4 or 1 1/2 inches square.

The firm also branched out into another field by producing its first slide projector—the Automatic Universal Roliflex projector. It's the first machine that will accommodate all slide sizes in any type of mount arranged in any order. The mixed group can be shown in any forward or reverse sequence automatically or by remote control. The design innovation which makes these features possible is the use of two different slide magazine tracks on the same machine. One holds the larger size slides and the other holds the smaller slides.

This projector is good news for camera fans who have several cameras of different sizes or who may change their camera in the future and for schools or camera clubs which have to show slides from many sources.

Zeiss-Ikon's contribution was aimed at making it easier for those photographers who find it necessary to change film types while shooting—from color to black and white or from slow to fast film, etc. They came up with a workable interchangeable magazine back that fits their Contarex and Contaflex cameras. Changing to a different back with another type of film is accomplished without losing a frame and lets one camera take the place of two or more without sacrificing film.

They also uncovered—literally—the largest piece of precision optical glass attached to a miniature camera that I've seen for some time. It was a 500mm f4.5 Zeiss mirror objective lens. This is an extremely long focal length and unusually high speed for a 35mm single lens reflex camera. I have been told. It would be great for taking sports or nature study pictures in poor light.

Frats Pledged 143 Students In ECC Rush Week

East Carolina College's fraternities have completed their fall rush week program and have announced that 143 men students accepted bids to campus chapters.

Donald E. Conley of Greenville, president of the Interfraternity Council at the college, stated that "... this rush was definitely the biggest and best yet for all the social fraternities." Emmanuel E. Katsias of Virginia Beach, Va., acted as rush chairman for the IFC.

Lambda Chi Alpha and Pi Kappa Alpha, pledged 36 and 28 men, respectively, held top place in number of bids accepted by rushes. Pledges of other fraternities were: Kappa Alpha, 27; Sigma Nu, 18; Sigma Phi Epsilon, 17; Theta Chi, 15; and the Phi Kappa Tau colony, 2.

Hope To Bounce Back In Homecoming

Greenville Choice To Defeat EC

By JOHNNY HUDSON
Reflector Sports Editor

ordinarily Greenville and Elizabeth City aren't the strongest of rivals in the Northeastern Conference but tomorrow night, the two expect to tangle in a nail-scratching, hair-pulling affair.

The game will weigh heavy with Coaches Bud Phillips of Greenville and Honey Johnson of Elizabeth City. The reasons of Elizabeth City, the reasons of Greenville would simmer the ulcers for Johnson.

The Phants, badly outplayed by Tarboro Friday night, appear ready to bounce back after a good week of practice under their belts. Phillips indicates his club has been hitting better this week than at any time this year. He is only hopeful they don't leave their merits on the practice field Friday night.

Johnson gave the impression of being uneasy over the forthcoming game. "They (Greenville) are always tough there and will be trying to bounce back," he cited. "We have played some close games this year but lost most of them."

The fact that Nate Caddy, the standout quarterback for the Yellow Jackets, will be used only for kicking purposes gives the Phantoms room for a bigger margin.

The game should develop into a wide open affair. Elizabeth City has been blending its T-formation with the spread this fall, trying to loosen opponent's defenses. Greenville came out with a tab of the spread late in the game against Tarboro and was successful to the degree of setting up its lone touchdown.

In games to date, Elizabeth City has bowed to Edenton (28-6), Tarboro (12-6), Hertford (7-0), and Roanoke Rapids (13-6). The Jackets' lone victory came at the expense of Washington (6-0).

Greenville has victories over Ahoskie (19-0), Jacksonville (21-7), Kinston (33-14) and Washington (34-0). Tarboro ended the Phant rampage with a 15-7 setback last Friday night. No change is anticipated in the Greenville starting lineup but Phillips is ready to make some changes if the club doesn't jell Friday.

Adding spice to tomorrow's game is the gala homecoming events being planned for Rose High. Game time for East Carolina College's stadium is 8:00.

WC Cats Holding Series Margin

Coach Jack Boone of East Carolina College has experienced success with Western Carolina, his Saturday opponent, in his tenure at ECC, winning six of eight meetings. But East Carolina has not always held the upper hand and the Catamounts hold a 11-9 series edge.

The two teams first met on the gridiron in 1936. Western Carolina nosing out a 7-6 win. WC won the following year by the same score and EC pulled off its first win in 1938. Ironically enough, it was 7-6.

The scores in these first three games are indicative of the way ECC-WCC games have shaped up. Western Carolina claims the biggest win—a 39-0 triumph in 1949. Its largest margin came in 1950, 36-6.

Since Boone took over the reins at ECC, Western has served as a homecoming foe four times, and Boone has a clean slate, winning all four. The thriller came in 1956 when the Pirates upset the Cats before a large homecoming crowd, 20-19. It was one of only two victories EC posted that season.

Time To Start Speculating

When a football team wins four straight games its fans usually start speculating as to what the future holds. Such a time is ripe for East Carolina College followers.

This football machine that operates with a victory hum is like the 1959 club but different too. Four straight wins are the same number built up by the team last season—the method in doing so has been different.

Western Carolina ended the dream a year ago and has the same opportunity Saturday afternoon. The Cats, according to the boys in the back room with the odds, stack up a little stronger this season.

Last fall Ralph Zehring set a conference passing record. Glenn Bass was the top league rusher, and ECC stood at the front in several statistic departments. Such accomplishments don't seem to be in the bag this fall. Yet, the win column keeps building up and in the end that's what pays the coach's salary.

WCC Spoiled '59 Grid Dream

Memories such as the 1959 meeting with Western Carolina in the hills are hard to erase. It was 14-14 at halftime but the storm came in the second half with the passing of Charlie Cooper and the running of jack-rabbit halfbacks, Tom Broadwater and Boogy Bass.

East Carolina lost the game and descended like a runaway elevator. Three more defeats followed before the Bucs snapped out of their shock. It was a little late to make amends.

Would another loss to WCC start such a rock slide? Coach Jack Boone doesn't think so but he can't be sure. The team is young and the schedule ahead isn't one to wade through.

Farmville Taking Shot At Unscored Beaufort Mark

By Leonard Lao

The Farmville Red Devils travel to Beaufort tomorrow night to do battle with a potent Beaufort team that is unbeaten, untied and unscored on so far this season.

The Red Devils, coached by Elbert Moyer will throw a strong offense against Beaufort that came of age last Friday night in a 20-13 upset win over Robersonville on the latter's home field.

Leading the Farmville attack will be halfbacks Danny Dilda and Jimmy Pollard, along with the passing arm of quarterback Dean Oglesby. Pollard led a second half drive last week to spark a second half drive for the Red Devils in producing their victory over the Rams of Robersonville.

The standout in the line for Farmville is Bob Avery. The big tackle stopped numerous running threats of Robersonville last week and is expected to do the same against the Beaufort club tomorrow night.

Coach Curtis Lancaster of Beaufort sports one of the finest teams in the history of the school, and in trying to name the outstanding players on his squad, the East Carolina College graduate had a difficult time of it.

According to Lancaster, the entire team is "Terrific". The Beaufort tutor singled out his entire backfield as one of the best in the conference.

At quarterback for Beaufort is Pud Hassell, who is termed by Lancaster as "remendous on defense" as well as offense. Manning the halfback spots for the host club are Eddy Taylor and Ray Hassell, cousin to Pud. Filling the fullback slot is Ernest House, a bulldozer type runner.

When asked about his team being unscored on, Coach Lancaster termed it as being lucky. Conference foe, Havelock pushed the ball to Beaufort's 2 yard line to be the closest to score on Lancaster's team, but they fumbled.

ed at that point. "Contentnea moved to our 15", end David Jones. Jones, an All-Eastern selection last season, also is a capable halfback replacement.

RUGGED TACKLE—Mitchell Cannon, Farmville tackle, is considered one of the best linemen in the Coastal Conference. He, along with other Red Devils, will be trying to break through the strong defense of Beaufort tomorrow night.

Eppes After Sixth Win

Eppes High of Greenville risks its unbeaten and unscored on record tomorrow night, journeying to Elizabeth City to butt heads with P. W. Moore High.
Coach Percy Daniels, in prepping for the conference game, has warned his gladiators not to take the 1-4 record of Elizabeth City too seriously. "They have a good ball club and we will have to earn every inch of ground—we can't expect any handouts," Percy noted.
Solid in the line, Eppes has been unable to get its offensive attack rolling with the same strength of its defense.
The Bulldog coaches hope things are picking up, being especially pleased with the 16-0 triumph over Kinston Friday.
Daniels thinks the 1960 contingent is the best in Eppes history. "It is the first time we have gone this far in the season without being scored on. It is a fine group of boys and I think we can go all the way," he stated.

Thus far this season, the Bulldogs have held five opponents scoreless while crossing the white stripes for 64 points. The victories include Oxford (14-0), Farmville (8-0), Washington (14-0), Jacksonville (12-0) and Kinston (16-0).
The Greenville team is currently in first place in the conference western division with a 4-0 record. Durham heads the other half of the conference with an identical mark.
Quarterback Freddy Watson and end Calvin Gatlin have combined for a potent offensive punch. Up front, the standouts have been Alton and Dalton Davis.

Spiders Receive Shot In Arm As Stoudt Returns

Halfback Earl Stoudt is back on the prowl again, and his return to old-time form could hardly have come at a more opportune time for the Richmond football team.
The Spiders are 0-2-1 for the season, and it's no secret the zero in the victory column is due largely to their inability to muster much of a running attack. Their rushing offense has averaged a mere 109 yards a game, lowest in the Southern Conference.
Last week at West Virginia, however, the Richmond ground assault showed signs of coming alive with Stoudt, the elusive star of the 1959 season, accounting for 63 yards in 15 carries. Result: a 6-6 tie.
Coach Ed Merrick was especially gratified to see this show of muscle, for the figures a strong ground offensive — with Stoudt in the leading role — is just what's needed to beat The Citadel in Richmond's homecoming game this week.
The Citadel finished rough work with a two-hour session in which it reviewed all phases of offense and defense. Davidson had a thorough workout on punting, a chronic weakness. Defensive half-back Duncan Morton was shifted to offensive halfback to give more punch to the Wildcat attack.

Pre-Season ACC Favorites Collide At Carolina

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Two pre-season favorites for the Atlantic Coast Conference football championship collide this Saturday when Wake Forest visits North Carolina.
Since the pre-season polls were conducted, however, things have not gone well for either team — to put it mildly. Today, the two squads can count only ONE victory in six games.
The Tar Heels, whose first win in three games was over Notre Dame last Saturday, worked on passing Wednesday. Coach Jim Hickey reported left end Skip Clement was not in full pads for the drill because of a bruised hip.
Wake Forest, still snorting over a 21-19 nipping from North Carolina a year ago, concentrated on defense. Coach Billy Hildebrand has watched the Demon Deacons give up 64 points in three losing efforts. Wake has been defeated by the Tar Heels in the last three meetings and the 1956 game was 6-6 tie.
Duke will try to push unbeaten North Carolina State from atop the conference ladder this Saturday. The Blue Devils (2-0 in the ACC and 2-1 overall) held their toughest work of the week Wednesday. Coach Bill Murray also informed his squad the Fred McCollum, sophomore tackle from Savannah, Ga., is lost for the season with a broken ankle suffered in Tuesday's drill.
N.C. State (3-0 in the ACC and 4-0 overall) worked on its offense. The Wolfpack has won two games by three points margins, and hasn't been scoring enough to suit Coach Earle Edwards. He insists, "We still haven't hit our stride on offense."
Clemson, ranked eighth nationally by the Associated Press, has run up three straight wins this fall in quest of a third straight ACC title. The Tigers' winning streak, now at six games, was begun after lowly Maryland surprised them a year ago 28-25.

Pushed into the lineup by injuries to two fullbacks last Saturday, sophomore Rex Collins performed well enough for Maryland to earn a starting nod this Saturday. Coach Tom Nugent said the 165-pounder from Richmond, Va., also would be joined in the backfield by another newcomer, Murrie Banner of New Salem, Pa., who will be at left halfback. Since beating non-conference West Virginia in its opener, Maryland has dropped three straight games — including two in the ACC.

A pair of sophomores, Gary Cuzzo and Carl Kuhn, will handle Virginia's passing chores against Virginia Military Institute of the Southern Conference this Saturday. And Coach Dick Fortis is matching his young quarterbacks against one of the best yardage men in the business, VMI's Howard Dyer, the nation's total offensive leader. Virginia has worked long on passing — both offensively and defensively.
South Carolina, soundly thrashed in its first two games, flies to Miami today for the Friday night engagement with the University of Miami in the Orange Bowl. The Gamecocks worked out Wednesday night under the lights, getting accustomed to after-dark action for Miami.
Two changes are expected to be made in South Carolina's starting lineup at Miami. Melvin Harris will start at a halfback and Frank Staley at a tackle.

Pirates Leading Ground Offense

GREENSBORO (AP) — East Carolina boasts a ground consuming offense which is good enough to lead the North State Conference in total offense.
The Pirates have rolled up 1,311 yards in four games — including 1,090 on the ground. Both figures are the best in the North State, latest statistics released Wednesday show. ECC, however, has an inept pass attack which is sixth in the seven-team circuit averaging only 55.3 yards a game.
Lenoir Rhyne, unbeaten in four games and ranked No. 1 among the nation's small colleges by the NAIA, leads in passing offense (477 yards) and rushing defense (allowing 339 yards for an 84.7-yards-per-game average).
Western Carolina leads in total defense (636 yards in five games) and passing defense, giving a meager 52 yards in five games. Foes have completed only 10 of 52 attempted aerials against WCC field by another newcomer, Murrie Banner of New Salem, Pa., who will be at left halfback. Since beating non-conference West Virginia in its opener, Maryland has dropped three straight games — including two in the ACC.

TOMMY WARD . . . set to go for Robersonville Rams senior was injured in the first period of play in the Farmville encounter. The hard-to-stop Ward sustained an ankle injury against the Red Devils, but it has healed and he is expected to be in top condition for the Friday night encounter with Plymouth.

Another added threat to the Rams is the return of wingback Jim Brown who has been out most of the season with an injury.
In the Ram forward wall the main threat is a big end by the name of Bonnie Stevenson. He is a dangerous pass receiver for the Rams and is the team's kicker.
Robersonville is in top physical condition for the game, with Ward's injury from last week's game being healed.
The Rams will get back to the Coastal Conference race next Friday when they host a strong Beaufort team, so they will be brushing up on their offensive play in order to break across Beaufort's goal line, a feat that has yet to be accomplished this season.
Sporting only two conference win this season, the Rams have remaining conference tilts with Beaufort, Havelock and La-Grange. At present, Robersonville holds down the number five position in the standings with a 2-2-0 won-lost-tied record.

Ayden In Tough Battle With LaGrange Club

By LEONARD LAO
Ayden's Tornado football team places its unbeaten record on the line tomorrow night when they travel to LaGrange to do battle with a team they have been looking forward to for the last two weeks.

Not only are the Tornadoes unbeaten, but they are also untied. And much of the credit is due to a hard running fullback by the name of Dennis Mills. He has proven that he is one of the area's top backs with his one-man running attack.

The spunky Mills scored both of the Tornadoes' touchdowns last week against non-conference foe, Williamston in a 14-0 Ayden win. Ayden head coach Stuart Tripp realizes the importance of this contest. "It is one of our key games, and if we can get past them we may go all the way."

But there may be a possible snag in the Tornado camp. All-Conference tackle Donald Carman and end Nolan Norman were both put out of action earlier in the week with knee injuries and Coach Tripp is not sure whether either will be ready by tomorrow night.

"These two boys being injured, plus the fact that a lot of the boys have colds which definitely affects their strength and effectiveness, puts us in the worst physical shape we've been in this season," said Tripp.

Even Mills has a slight cold, but that doesn't bother Tripp. "He keeps himself in shape. I don't have to worry about him."

There will be a lot of eyes cast on the outcome of this contest because LaGrange has been the first team to offer a considerable son. As Coach Tripp puts it, "They have been waiting for us and it should develop into a real knock-down, drag-out affair."

Over in the LaGrange camp, Coach Becton Corbin feels that his team has a very good chance of toppling the seemingly invulnerable Tornadoes.

The host team has a club that is capable of giving opposing coaches sleepless nights. Leading the LaGrange backfield machine is a brother combination. David and Randolph Pridden are two of the most terrific backs in the Coastal Conference, and the Tornadoes may find that they will have trouble in containing the double threat.

In the LaGrange forward there are such standouts as Charles Savage and Allen Grant to open holes for the fleet of backs. Also spearheading the LaGrange line are Hugh Bryan, Vernon Denning, Lloyd Canady and another brother combination, Roy and Jasper Lewis.

LaGrange has only been in the Coastal Conference for three years, and have lost only one conference game in that time. That was to Havelock two weeks ago by a 20-6 margin.

Final Game Of Series Set Today

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer
PITTSBURGH (AP) - The weirdest of all World Series comes to an end today in the seventh and payoff game, with New York's Yankees once again a 13 to 10 favorite to defeat the Pittsburgh Pirates, just as they were at the start of the activity eight days ago.

Vernon Law, who defeated the Yankees in the first and fourth games although he failed to last nine innings in either, was Danny Murtaugh's hope to bring Pittsburgh its first world championship in 35 years. The big right-hander, who won 20 games during the regular season, also sought to become the 11th three-time series winner and the first since Milwaukee's Lew Burdette tamed the Yankees thrice in 1957.

Casey Stengel, seeking his eighth world championship, as usual, wasn't sure of his starting pitcher. In the clubhouse Wednesday following Whitey Ford's steam-rolling 12-0 shutout, his second whitewash of the Pirates in four days, the 70-year-old professor may be masterminding his last game as Yankee manager, shouted above the din: "I may pitch (Bob) Turley, then again it may be (Bill) Stafford or it could even be (Bobby) Shantz. I haven't made up my mind yet. I'll let you all know before the game tomorrow."

Turley was credited with the only three hits in the fifth game day, the Yankees' first of the series. He needed relief help in the ninth inning. Stafford pitched five scoreless relief innings, allowing only three hits in the fifth game and lost last Monday. Shantz appeared twice in relief, permitting no hits in 1 1/2 innings.

Both managers announced snafus in their lineups. Murtaugh benched Dick Stuart and Gino Cimoli, inserting Ricky Nelson at first base and Bob Skinner in left field. Stuart has hit safely only three times in 20 at bats and Cimoli has four of 19. Neither has an extra base hit.

Skinner, the teams' best left-handed hitter, jammed his left thumb in the first game and sat out the next four games. His finger is not fully healed but the Pirates are crying for more punch. They've made only 49 hits in six games, only 12 for extra bases. Bill Mazerowski has the only home run.

Stengel planned to keep Yogi Berra in left field and put Johnny Blanchard behind the plate. Blanchard took over Wednesday after Elston Howard suffered a fractured hand from a pitch thrown by Bob Friend and cracked three of the Yankees' 17 hits, two doubles and a single. Many of the 38,580 paying customers, after watching the Yankees manhandle Pittsburgh pitching for the third time in the Series Wednesday found it hard to understand how the Pirates were able to win three games from the American League champs.

In the six games played, the Yankees have amassed Series record totals of 78 hits and 46 runs. That's an average of 13 hits and 7.4 runs per game. Compared to the Pirates average 8.1 hits and 2.5 runs per game. The Yankees have outthundered the Pirates eight to one, have outscored them by 29 runs and have the only two shutouts pitched. Yet the Pirates could win the championship by taking today's game.

Pittsburgh outfielder Roberto Clemente, whose English sometimes is difficult to understand, probably explained the strange situation best.

"When we no have the good pitching, we fall apart," he said after Wednesday's debacle. "We look like minor league club today but tomorrow Law is pitching and (Elroy) Face is in bullpen. We win."

That's the way it's been. Law has won two; Face has saved three. The Pirates saved face Wednesday, sending Tom Cheney, Vinegar Bend Mizell, Fred Green, Clem Labine and George Witt to the slaughter after Friend failed for the second time against the Yankees.

The Yankees didn't hit a home run but eight hits went for extra bases. Little Bobby Richardson, the slugging star of the series, banged a pair of triples and drove in three runs to establish a series record of 12 runs batted in. That wiped out the old mark of 10 by Ferra in 1956 and Ted Kluszewski of the Chicago White Sox in 1959. Cletis Boyer, replacing Gil McDougald at third, also had a triple and Roger Maris, Bill Skowron, besides Blanchard, had doubles. The contest, to all intents and purposes, was over in the third inning when the Yankees shelled Friend from the mound with a five-run assault that boosted their lead to 6-0.

Ford, pitching with three days' rest, had had easier time than in his 10-0 shutout victory last Saturday. He yielded seven hits, all singles, walked one and struck out five. It was his first Series victory on enemy soil, his seventh in all to tie Allie Reynolds and Red Ruffing, former Yankees, for most Series victories. Berra, who celebrated Columbus Day with three hits to extend his record to 67 hits in 67 Series games, shook his head after the carnage was over.

"I dunno," he said, "there's no doubt in my mind we're a much better team but here we are all even in games. How do you make that out?"

Syracuse Tries To Bolster Strong Line

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) - The first string line of Syracuse's 1959 national champion football team, known as the sizeable seven, included four players who had been converted from ends to guards, tackles or center.

Two are back this season—guard Bruce Tarboy, who has played both end and halfback, and Al Bemiller, who holds the center spot despite some defensive weaknesses. And true to tradition and theory, Coach Ben Schwartzwalder still is moving his more agile players around and turning them into interior linemen.

The latest move to bolster the sagging right side of the Syracuse defensive line was to shift Brian Howard, a 205-pound sophomore, from end to guard. Last spring Ben converted senior Tom Gilburg from end to inside tackle. Dick Fiedler, the other starting guard, was what Ben called "a slow end."

Incidentally, two of the top three ends, Dave Baker and Norm Lemieux, are former halfbacks. This year's moves haven't been as successful nor the players as sizeable as they were a year ago. That's one reason the Orange has just squeaked through its first three games and is approaching Saturday's game here with potent Penn State with trepidation. It's a game that could have considerable bearing on the Eastern football championship and the national rankings.

What's the reasoning behind all this switching? Schwartzwalder explains it this way: "In our recruiting we try to get as many big backs and ends as possible. If a high school has one good hard-nosed player, they use him at fullback.

"We'd get all fullbacks if we could. Our second choice is ends. If we get an overflow, we play them inside." The success of this program shows in the records. Syracuse has a 20-game regular season winning streak going and over the past four years has a 31-6-1 record, including three bowl games.

The current weakness, according to Schwartzwalder, is "we don't have the over-all speed in the line and we don't have the big kids, either."

Four More Cars To Be Selected

CHARLOTTE (AP)—Four more cars will be selected today as qualifying continues at the Charlotte Motor Speedway for Sunday's National 400 late model stock car race.

Glenn (Fireball) Roberts of Daytona Beach, Fla., roared Wednesday to the pole position for the $65,489 race. He earned the inside nod for the sixth time in seven races this year with an average speed of 133.464 miles per hour.

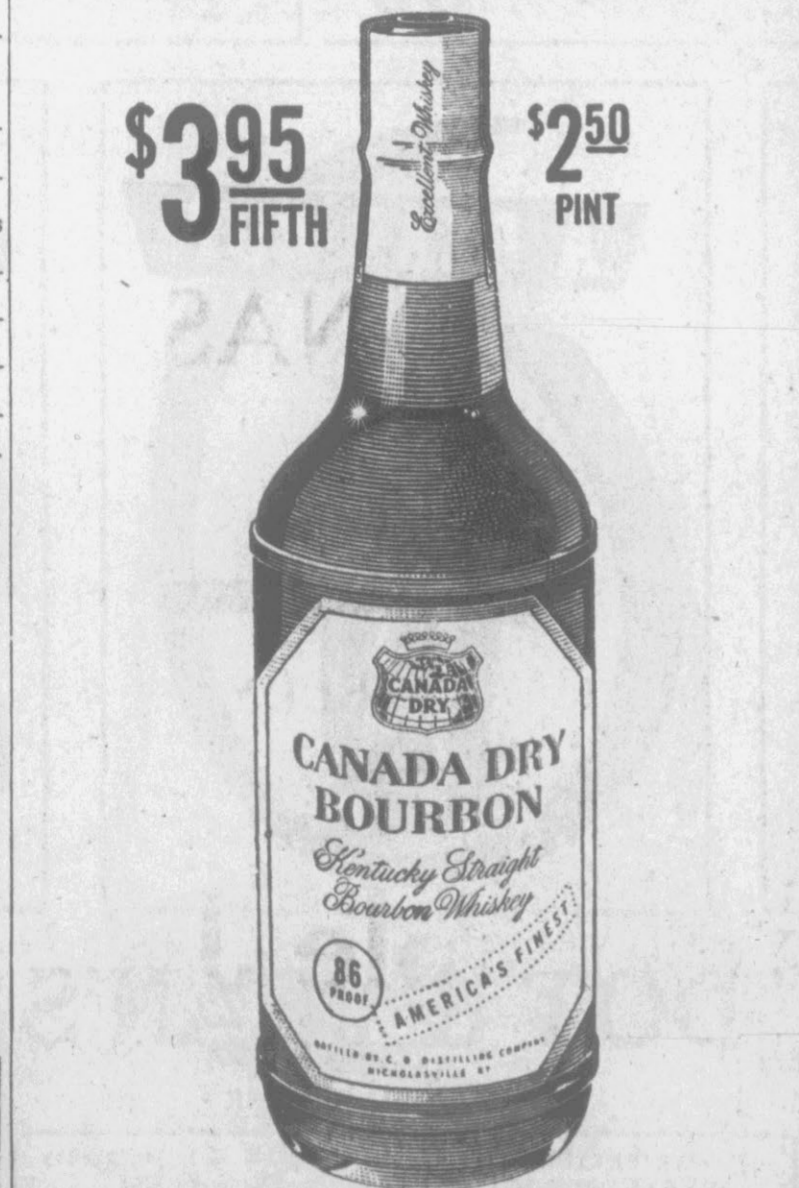

Driving a Pontiac, Roberts narrowly missed his speedway qualifying record (133.04 m.p.h.) set before the World 600 in July. Jack Smith of Spartanburg, S. C., also behind the wheel of a Pontiac, came home second. He earned the No. 2 spot with a 131.193 average.

Speedy Thompson of Monroe, driving a Ford, qualified for the No. 3 position with 129.458 and Rex White of Spartanburg, in a Chevrolet, was fourth from the post with 128.686 for the high-banked 1 1/4 mile track.

A field of 50 will be qualified this week. Besides the four Wednesday, four today and four Friday, the other 38 cars in the field will be chosen on Saturday.

White's No. 4 position comes only a week after he said the Charlotte track was in "lousy" condition. At that time, Speedway President Curtis Turner said White could not enter the race unless he apologized.

Atomic Power Project Draws Praise For Utilities

RALEIGH — The initiative of free enterprise in making breakthroughs in the field of atomic energy was lauded when ground was broken at Parr, S. C., last Friday for the Southeast's first atomic power plant.

South Carolina Governor E. F. Hollings cited the pioneering role of four investor-owned electric companies — Carolina Power & Light, Duke Power, South Carolina Electric & Gas and Virginia Electric and Power — in plans to bring the region its first electric energy from the atom.

The four companies, operating as Carolinas Virginia Nuclear Power Associates, will put the Parr atomic plant into operation in 1962. The 17,000-kilowatt prototype is expected to lead to development of larger atomic power producers in the two Carolinas and Virginia.

CVNPA's investment in the project is approximately $29,000,000. The plant will be operated in cooperation with the Atomic Energy Commission which will share in the cost of uranium fuel and research.

Executives of the four member companies, prominent South Carolina officials, business leaders, Congressmen and representatives of the A.E.C. witnessed the official groundbreaking.

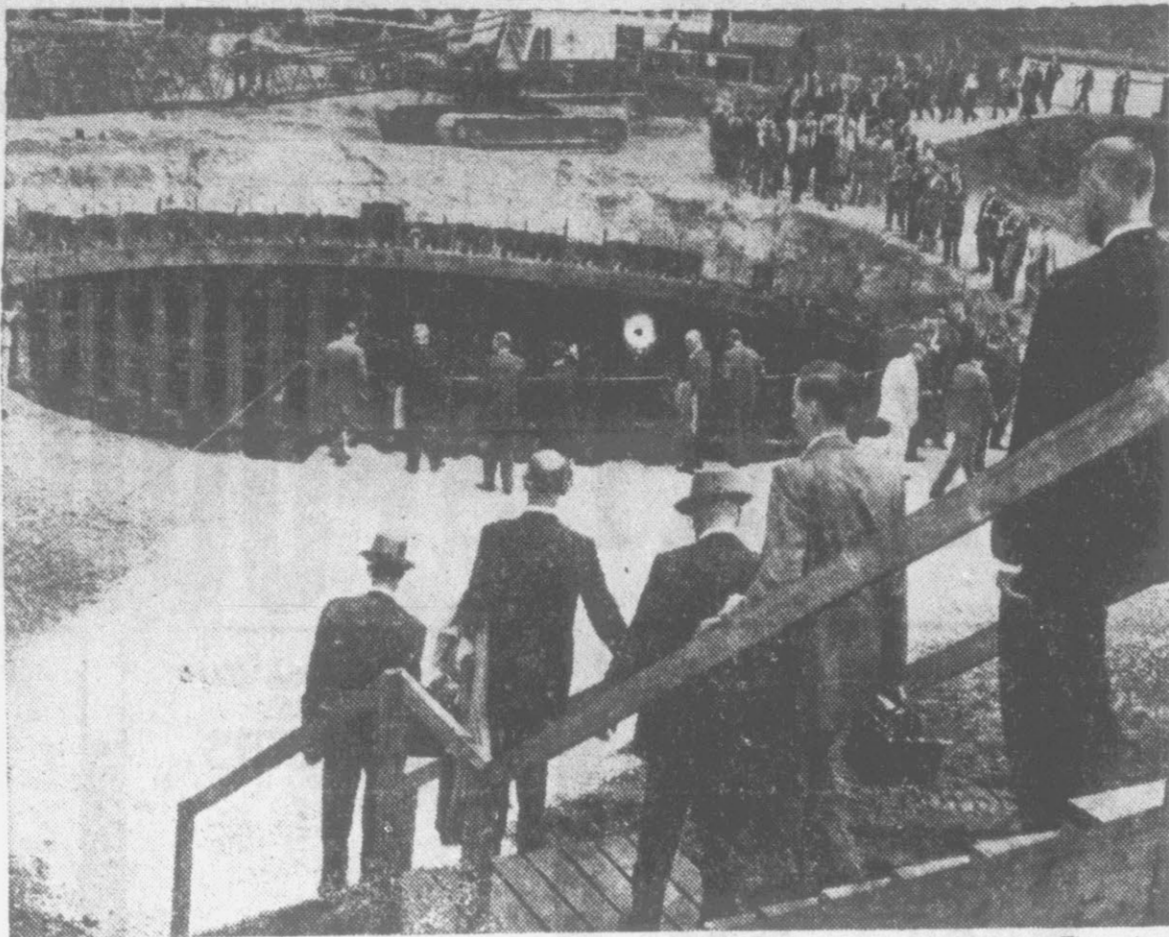

Robert H. Solomons III, executive secretary of the Regional Advisory Council on Nuclear Energy, an agency established by the Southern Governors' Conference, said of the CVNPA undertaking, "This plant is tangible evidence of the progressive attitudes shown by the people of the Southern states in meeting the challenge of the Atomic Age."

The Parr reactor will be fired by Uranium-235 and cooled and moderated by heavy water. Fission of the uranium will produce heat and steam to turn generators in an existing coal-fired steam-electric plant at the site.

A hydroelectric plant is also located at Parr, making it the first site in the nation to use water power, fossil fuels (coal) and atomic fuel to generate electricity.

Dodged Death 3 Times, And Won
CHATTANOOGA (AP) — Howard McMurry dodged death three times within five frantic minutes. When his car stalled at a grade crossing with a freight train bearing down, McMurry jumped—just before the train plowed into the car.

The crash sent the car hurtling toward McMurray and he jumped again—just before the car struck a railway signal crossing pole. The impact broke the pole in half and McMurray jumped again—just before the broken pole crashed down behind him. McMurray, 48, wasn't scratched.

ATOMIC PLANT BED—Out of this excavation will rise the first atomic power plant in the Southeast. This subterranean structure, heavily reinforced with steel, will house the reactor system for the Carolinas Virginia Nuclear Power Associates plant at Parr, S. C. Shown above are crowds attending the formal groundbreaking ceremony last week. Companies associated in the project are Carolina Power & Light, Duke Power, Virginia Electric and Power and South Carolina Electric and Gas.

Census Bureau Reports Family Farms Hold Up

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP)—The family farm is far from down and out. That is the cheery word from a study of early reports from the latest tally on agriculture by the Census Bureau.

The total number of farms has dropped in the last five years, giving rise to fears that the family farm—the small and middle-sized holding—was in danger. But reports from 23 states, first to be released in the 1959 census of agriculture, show only small gains in the number of corporation-type farms with 1,000 or more acres in the last five years, and only a slight increase in the number of farms of 500 acres or more.

The decline was in the marginal farms, while middle-sized holdings have held their own and gained modestly in size. The farmer's problems are well publicized. They include declines in total income, increases in operating costs, evelling off or declines in prices, both of farm products and farm land. But the Department of Agriculture has some good news this week. It says crop and weather conditions in October point to a record total farm output this year.

On the reverse side of the coin, the department reports that the government has $3.82 billion invested in price-supported surplus farm commodities on Aug. 31, higher than in the previous month or in August 1959. And it further reports that the market value of farm real estate has dropped $300 million since March, to 128.8 billion on July 1.

The Census Bureau estimates the United States has four million farms, a decline of 800,000 since the last tally in 1954. But 200,000 of the drop is due to a change in Census Bureau definition of what is a farm. It has eliminated the very smallest holdings, especially those with only small sales of products. In seven eastern states the bureau finds the average size is 164 acres, in nine central states it's 267 acres, and in seven western states the average size ranch is 1,016 acres. In the eastern states there were 657 farms with 1,000 or more acres, a gain of 24 in five years. In the central states the number was 31,530, up 3,000.

Battleship Will Be Sold As Scrap

WASHINGTON (AP)—The battleship North Carolina, which has been inactive since World War II, will be sold for scrap, the Navy has announced. Bids on the North Carolina, a 35,000-ton vessel, will be asked in January. Three other warships also are being auctioned for obsolescence, the Navy reported.

ERROR LENT WEIGHT
COLUMBIA, S. C. (AP)—A typing error in a South Carolina Supreme Court opinion inadvertently lent weight to suspicions of Army recruits. It said that the man in the case "has been in the Army 12 years and has risen to the 'rank' of sergeant."

Protest Over New Voter Registration Is Overruled

RALEIGH (AP) — Sharp Republican protests over a new registration of voters in Mitchell County were overruled Wednesday by the State Board of Elections.

Repm Charles R. Jonas, the state's only GOP congressman, was one of those urging the state board to throw at the county board's order. Jonas said he told a Republican group in Mitchell that the new registration "could conceivably cost the election and it could conceivably cost the state and national tickets" the election in North Carolina.

Republican executive committee for the county said the re-registration order is "creating more ill feeling in Mitchell County than anything I have seen in my life time." However, he agreed with chairman Arthur Bailey of the Mitchell Elections Board that the county's books are "in one whale of a mess." Harrell also said he admitted "Mr. Bailey's motives were 100 per cent honorable. It's his intent to get those books in order. The point at issue revolved around the parked car session at which the Mitchell board called for a new registration. Bailey and Fred Robinson, two Democrats on the county board, drove to the home of L. R. Buchanan, the Republican member. The new registration order was approved by Bailey and Robinson after Buchanan walked off, saying he was going to resign. The state board agreed the meeting was legal and proper. However, it urged that publicity be given to the new registration so that as many of the county's citizens as possible will have a chance to register during the three-week period beginning Saturday.

Whole Continent Apart Candidates Debate Tonight

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Sen. John F. Kennedy clash again tonight — a continent apart — in their third television-radio debate on presidential campaign issues.

The split-screen, hour-long transcontinental show, starting at 6:30 P. M. (Eastern Standard Time) will find the GOP standard bearer, Nixon, in an American Broadcasting Co. Hollywood studio and the Democratic aspirant, Kennedy, in an ABC studio in New York City.

On TV, the program will be shown at later hours in more distant time zones. However, radio station networks all will carry the debate at the same time.

The candidates will appear in identical TV studio settings. A combination podium and desk will allow each man to stand or sit as he chooses. Studio lighting will be duplicated at each end of the network, and both candidates have been asked to wear the same shade of attire.

ABC, assigning more than 20 technicians to the program, calls it the most complicated telecast in TV history.

In the two previous debates the candidates have faced each other in the same studio. The first was handled by CBS from Chicago, the second by NBC in Washington.

Campaign tours prevent them from debating face-to-face this time.

The moderator will be ABC news commentator Bill Shadel. Members of the panel will be Roscoe Drummond, New York Herald Tribune; Douglas S. Cater, "Reporter" magazine; Charles Van Fremd, Washington correspondent for CBS news; and Frank McGee, NBC news correspondent. Shadel and the panelists will be in the West Coast studio. The last of the four debates is set for Oct. 21. But the three networks have offered TV time for a fifth debate the week before the November 8 election. Kennedy and Nixon have not yet agreed on this proposal.

WPIX-TV, New York, and Wgn-TV, Chicago on Wednesday offered free time for a face-to-face debate between the vice presidential candidates, Democrat Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson and Republican Henry Cabot Lodge.

The stations suggested the pair meet in New York Oct. 19, or in Chicago about Oct. 22, adding that the one-hour program would be made available to other TV stations wishing to carry it.

Good, Taut Police Action Police TV Show Returns

By CYNTHIA LOWRY NEW YORK (AP)—A good, taut police action series, "Naked City," dropped out of the television lineup after the 1958 season.

It made a comeback on ABC Wednesday night, expanded to an hour, and better than ever.

The first episode was about a rogue cop pulling off a box office holdup in a fight arena. It was fast moving, exciting and well acted. Much of the show was filmed in New York City locations.

There was violence—a lot of it—but not a gun was fired nor a blow struck merely for violence's sake. The story developed logical police officers focused their attention on one of their own.

Paul Burke and Horace McMahon are the regulars. It was a good show, up to the standards of "The Untouchables."

I'd like to make as glowing a report on NBC's new "Peter Loves Mary," but honesty forbids it. It is one of those quasi-biographical situation comedies and it lured Peter Lind Hayes and Mary Healy, a talented and charming couple, into the treacherous mine fields of the series.

Maybe subsequent shows will improve and the first episode was merely an effort to get the situation and the characters established in the viewers' minds if not their hearts.

Perry Como had an off evening, too, although the star was in good voice. Sid Caesar was the guest star, and although he was there first with a spoof on "The Big Debates," the comedian kept safely away from any dangerous satirical areas and mostly made funny faces.

John Vivyan, who last season played the title role of the "Mr. Lucky" series, portrays a mentally deranged hunter who forces Bat Masterson into a gun duel on Gene Barry's Oct. 27 show. It's getting impossible to keep up with the changes of plans involving CBS' "The Witness." The management seems to change its mind about shows every day.

Most recent switch involves dropping the simulated probe of gambler Arnold Rothstein on Oct. 20 for the show about the murder of gambler Herman Rosenthal—but don't count on it.

Bob Hope's Saturday night spoof of politics, "Potomac Madness," sounds as if it were a musical cross between "Advise and Consent" and "Call Me Madam." But it has Perry Como and Ginger Rogers as guest stars which ought to help.

It's probably too late to help the current crop of politicians and their TV make-up problems, but a New York manufacturer has come up with a special make-up table with a built-in television monitor so that performers can preview themselves while they are still close to their cosmetics boxes. And it only costs $1,650, complete.

Wallets Robbed By A Neat Thief

JOPLIN, Mo. (AP)—Joplin firemen don't carry their wallets to fires — they leave them in a locker at the station.

Recently, the five firemen at the South Joplin station were routed out of bed by a false alarm.

When they returned, they discovered a thief had entered the station, located the locker key, pilfered five wallets containing a total of $116, re-locked the locker, hung the key back on its wall hook and vanished.

Highest recorded temperature in the shade was recorded at Azizia, Libya, on Sept. 13, 1922, when the mercury hit 136 degrees Fahrenheit.

Homecoming At Chowan College

MURFREESBORO—The Homecoming Day festivities at Chowan College, set for Saturday, October 15, get underway with an open house at the new men's dormitory from 2:00 p.m. to 4:00 p.m.

All of the campus residence halls will feature outdoor decorations for the occasion and prizes will be awarded for the most original.

The annual Homecoming parade will leave the campus at 6:30 p.m. After a jaunt down the main street of Murfreesboro, the parade will proceed to High School Field, the scene of the Homecoming gridiron contest. Included in the parade will be a number of floats designed by Chowan student organizations, the Norfolk Fire Division Band, and other surprise features.

Kickoff time is 8:00 p.m. for the pigskin contest between the Chowan Braves and their homecoming visitors, the Panthers of Ferrum College.

A varied program of halftime activities will be on tap for the fans including a performance by the outstanding Norfolk Fire Division Band and its prancing Majorettes.

Miss Vivian Burgess, a Chowan sophomore from Conway, will reign as queen over the Homecoming festivities. Her attendants are: sophomore class, Miss Patricia Watson of Franklington N. C., and Miss Mary Jo Low of Wilkesboro, N. C.; freshmen class, Miss Daune Rouse, of Ayden, N. C., and Miss Faye Rose, of Norlina, N. C.

Roost Ruled By A Talking Crow

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—Joe the Crow rules the roost in the Ralph Aielle home.

He talks, whistles and barks when the neighbor's dog barks at him. When he wants attention, he calls "Ralph," for his 15-year-old owner or "Mom."

The only time such behavior doesn't draw raves is in the pre-dawn hours.

In the two years Ralph has had the 3-year-old bird, he has found Joe pretty smart.

"Hew! I'll hide anything he can get his beak on," Ralph says. "Joe never learned to fly, so most of the time he stays outside in the yard, uncaged. Ralph says Joe knew a few words when he got him, but the bird picked up the rest of his vocabulary without any special coaching."

Debbie Reynolds Prefers To Avoid Political Role

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Among the movie stars who are not campaigning for a favorite candidate this autumn is a girl named Debbie Reynolds.

It's not because she isn't asked. "My phone is ringing all the time," she said. "Friends call me up from both sides to appear for this candidate or just lend my name for that candidate. I tell them, 'Ask me to do a benefit; politics—no.'"

She explained her reasoning: "I don't object to campaigning by stars. It's fine for those who want to do it. But it's not for me. I have my own feelings about the election; I'll express them on Election Day."

"After all, we have so little privacy in this business. I like to hold onto what privacy I can." This year, Debbie has managed to achieve a degree of private life after a couple of years in the goldfish bowl. As the hypotenuse in the Debbie-Eddie-Liz triangle, she lived under public scrutiny. But 1960 has been different.

"I've hardly worked at all," she said. "I've done half a picture—'The Pleasure of His Company,' which was interrupted by the strike and which we'll go back and finish next month. I've done my TV show. The rest of the time I've been with the children. I've been three months at the beach and I've loved it."

The only intrusion in her placid life has been the fan magazines. She is a hot item with the flicker mags, most of them requiring a Debbie article monthly. Some of them wax quite fanciful.

Shoe tycoon Harry Karl appears to be the man for Debbie, at least on her current social calendar.

Tobacco Tips

By S. J. Weeks
Pitt County Tobacco Agent

Tobacco fertilization make a definite contribution to the yield, money value and the quality of tobacco produced. The best flue-cured crops are produced under a controlled plant nutrient level. Rather definite amounts of nitrogen, phosphorus, and potassium must be available to the plants for the highest yield and quality. Too little nitrogen stunts growth—too much results in high nicotine content and poor quality in general. Too little phosphorus prevents full maturity of the plant, and too little potassium results in poor smoking quality of the cured leaf.

In addition to these three major nutrients, some soils need extra supplies of calcium, magnesium and sulphur. Soils vary widely in their productive capacity and in available nutrients. This variation is so wide that individual growers cannot safely copy the field fertilization practices of other growers. The amount and analysis of fertilizer to be used on a particular field should be determined by such factors as cropping history, fertilization history, soil texture, depth of top soil, the variety, quality, of tobacco grown in the past, and the general fertility level. The general grown on average good productive fertilizer recommendation for tobacco grown on average good productive tobacco soil is 800 to 1000 pounds of 8-8-12, or equivalent, per acre. However, it may be advisable to use more or less than this amount on a particular field, depending upon the type of soil and past use of the field.

Farmers should avoid over-fertilization of the tobacco crop. According to Dr. W.G. Woltz, Agronomy Research Professor at N.C. State College, in practically every experiment where excessive fertilization has increased the yield the increase has been more than offset by the decrease in quality.

Information available to date indicates that there should be no change of rates in fertilization when irrigation is planned. Therefore, the rate used should be that for a normal growing season. Excessive rates, where used with irrigation, result in lower quality just as they do in the absence of supplemental water. These conclusions are based on the assumption that irrigation rates are not excessive.

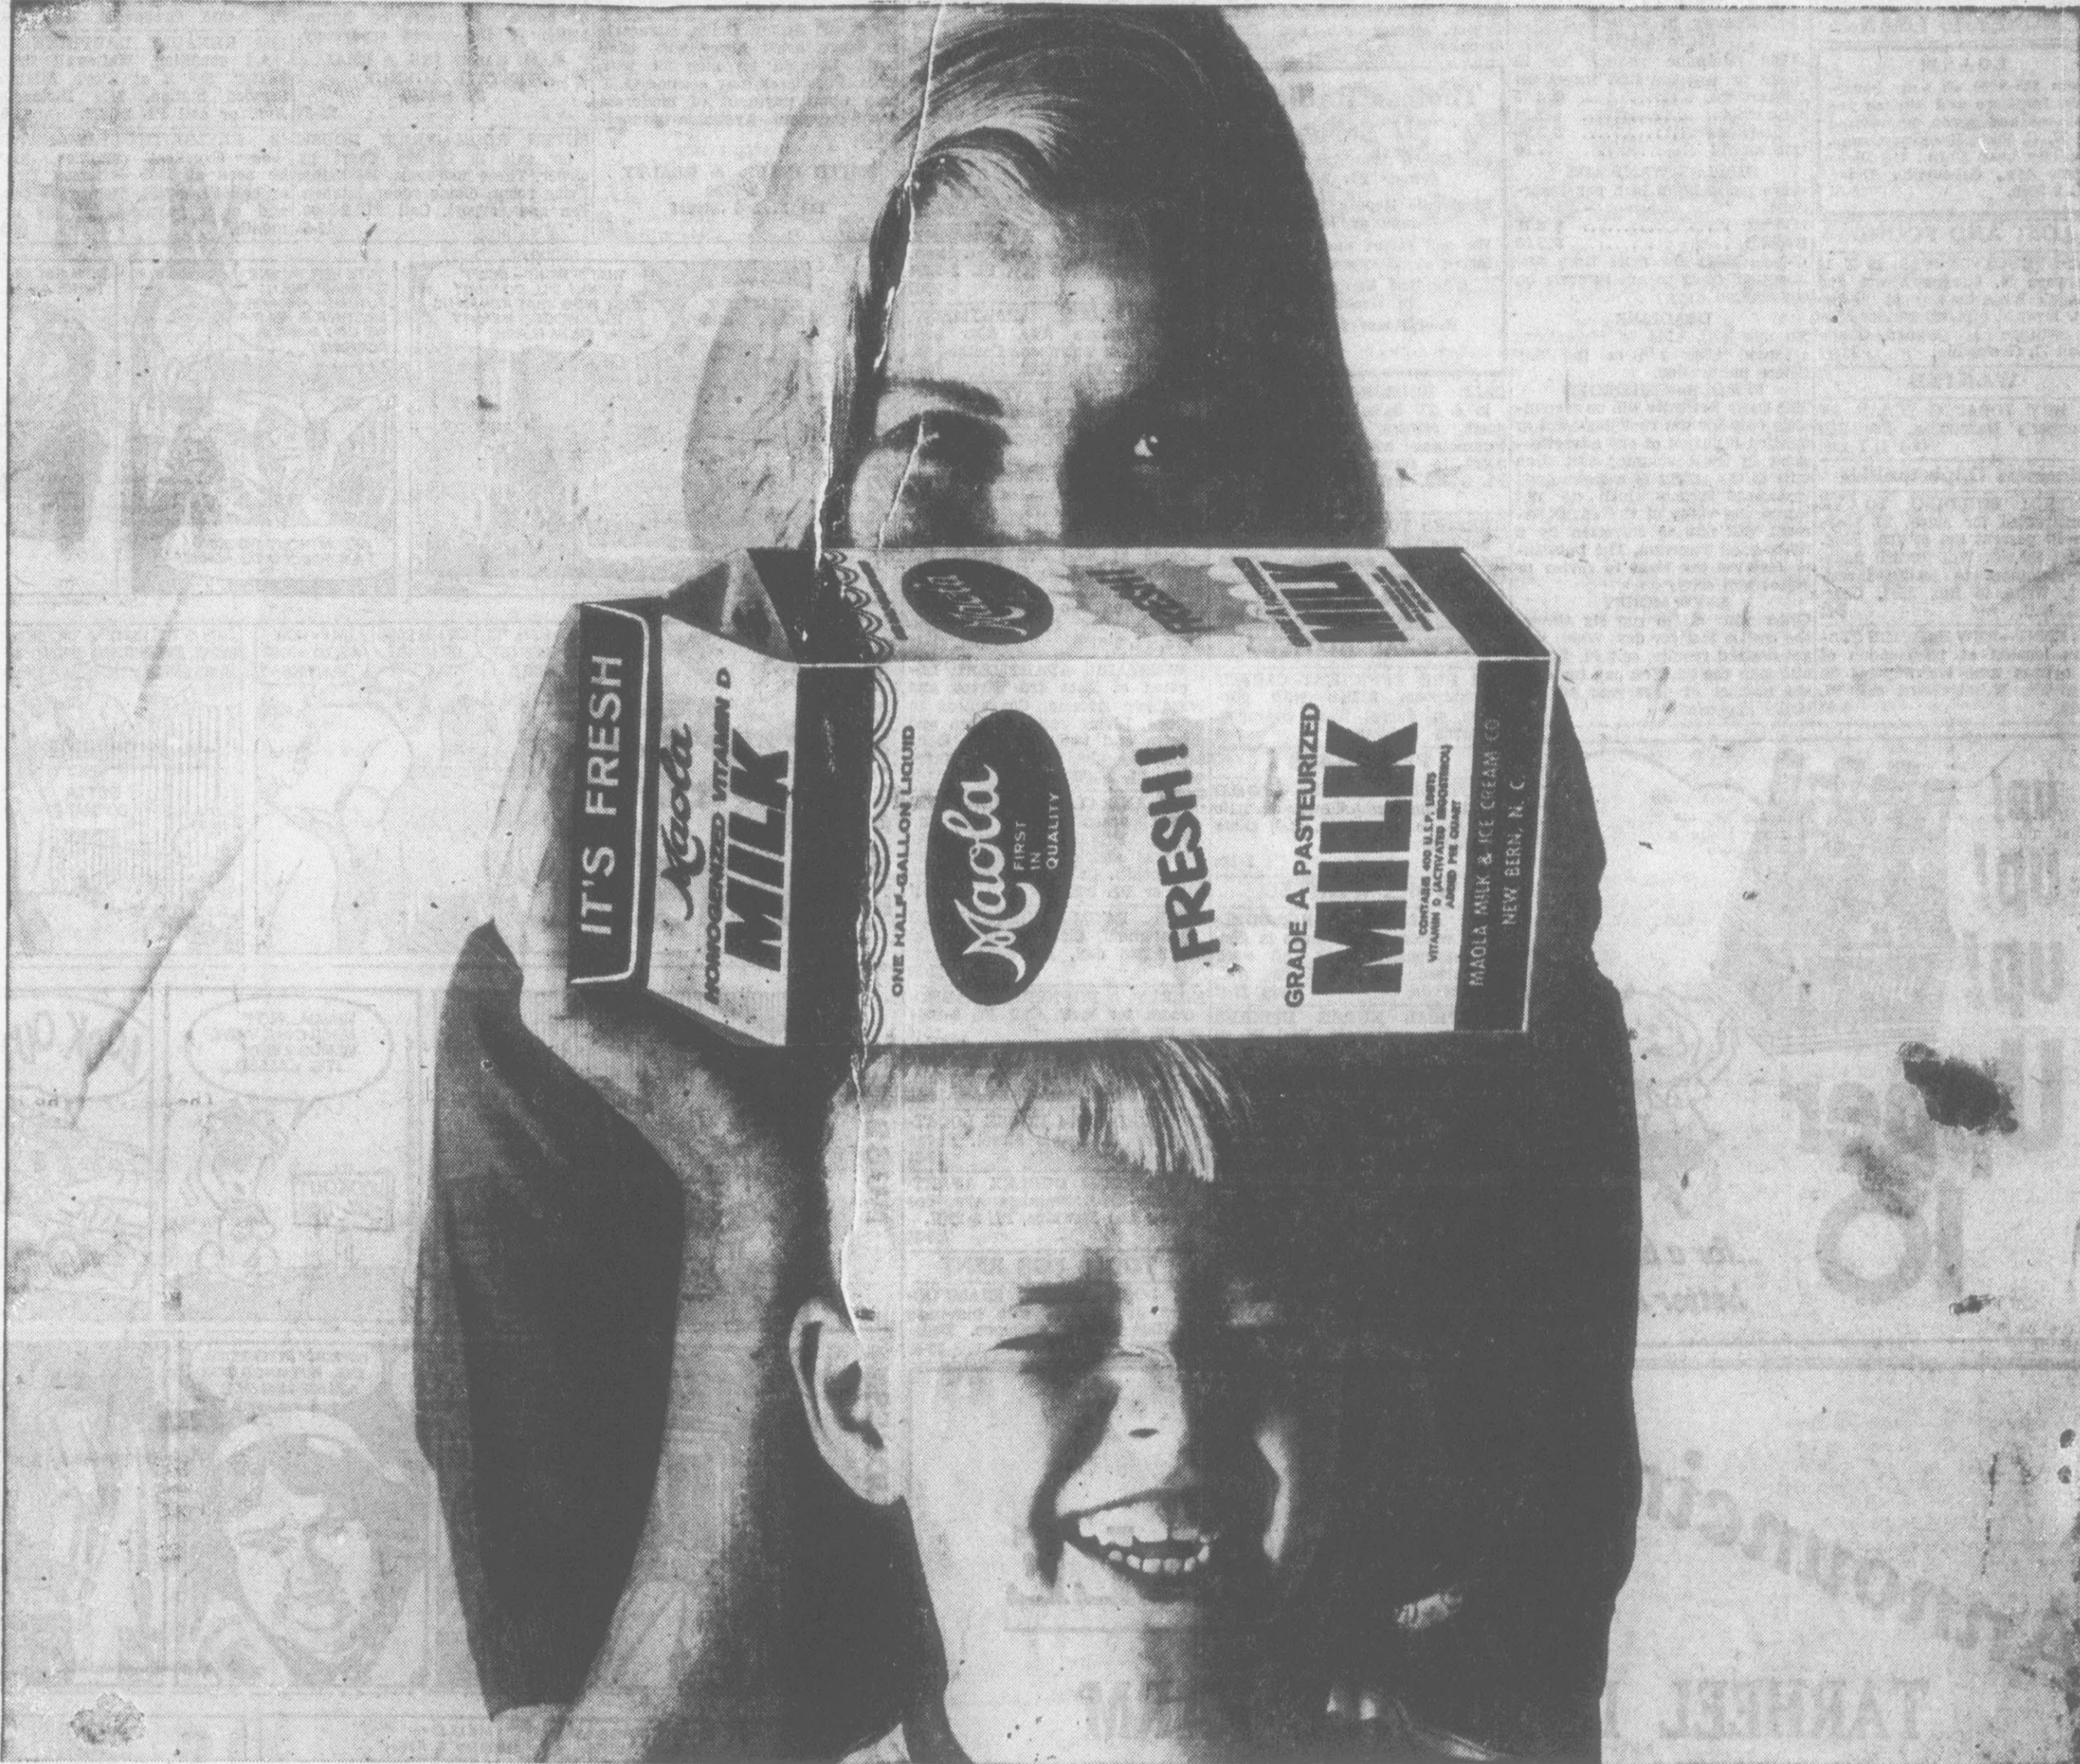

To be more accurate in determining how much and which analysis of fertilizer to use, especially on problem fields, it is suggested that a soil test be made about every 3 to 5 years. Based on the soil analysis, the soil testing department will be able to make suggestions on amounts and analysis that can be used as a guide for the grower.

Hardy Oldster Fell From Roof

CARTHAGE, Mo. (AP) — Mrs. Etta R. Hackworth picked herself up and called an ambulance. She said she had been on the roof of her house trimming a tree and fell to the ground. Hospital officials kept her for observation but said they could not find any injury. She is 72.

Buttons Part Of Americana

BLOOMFIELD, N. J. (AP) — Herbert C. Walton says there is nothing more typically American than election campaign buttons. He chronicles American history with his collection of more than 6,000 campaign badges and buttons. Catch words from just about every known political party dating back to the days of Ulysses S. Grant and slogans proclaiming "We Want Beer" and "Repeal Income Tax" appear in his collection.

fresh...fresh...fresh

MAOLA fresh means very FRESH

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market moved unevenly in quiet trading early this afternoon. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 20 to 207.80 with the industrials up 40 and both the utilities and rails unchanged.

Changes of most key stocks were quite small, only a springling going as much as a point or 80.

Steels, airlines, tobacco and autos showed a slightly higher trend on balance. Oils and chemicals edged off. Nonferrous metals changed very little.

The opening was fairly active, then dealings tapered off to the slowest rate of the week.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 2.18 at 588.01. Corporate bonds were mixed. U. S. government bonds also were irregular.

Church Will Hold Homecoming

Guest speaker at the annual Homecoming Day at Red Oak Christian Church will be Dr. Charles Crossfield Ware, Curator of the Carolina Disciplina Library at Atlantic Christian College and Executive Secretary of the N. C. Christian Church from

A native of Rowland, Ky., Dr. Ware became a Disciple Minister in 1907 and served pastorates at Columbus, Miss., Sabinal, Texas, Lake Charles, La., and Eighth Street Christian here at Greenville. In 1954 he received the Litt. D. from Atlantic Christian College.

Special music will be provided for the occasion. Following the picnic dinner, Mrs. B. L. Tyson will direct a fellowship hour of music and greetings from ministers and friends. Guest musicians will be from Christian Chapel, Williamston; Greenville F.W.B.; King's Crossroads F.W.B. and the Reedy Branch F.W.B.

"We are anticipating a Homecoming Day of inspiring services and Christian fellowship," the Rev. Howard James says. The public is invited.

Japs Parade In Demonstration

TOKYO (AP) — A flag-waving, lantern-carrying crowd of 17,000 students and white-collar workers shuffled through the streets of Tokyo tonight in a massive demonstration of mourning for their assassinated idol, Inejiro Asanuma, chairman of the Socialist party.

The 3 1/2-hour parade was generally orderly. There was a spurt of violence when 50 leftist students, members of the Zengakuren association, broke away to storm the gates of Prime Minister Hayato Ikeda's official residence.

Shouting abusive language, they threw rocks and used flag-staffs to poke at the 1,000 policemen forming a cordon at the gate. Six policemen were hurt, none seriously.

The demonstration, second since Asanuma was stabbed to death Wednesday, was kept within bounds by police. Its mood appeared to be one of sorrow rather than deep anger.

Ikeda, who was at his private home three miles away, earlier in the day had denounced the use of violence and warned he would act against it whether it came from the right or the left.

Bomb Explodes In N. Y. Subway

NEW YORK (AP) — A homemade bomb exploded in a subway station beneath Times Square Wednesday, shattering train windows and knocking over dozens of victims.

At least 34 persons were injured, none seriously. It was the third device to explode in 11 days in the Times Square area.

The explosion and a puff of black smoke touched off a momentary panic as the bomb exploded inside a photo-taking machine near a Times Square-Grand Central Terminal shuttle train which was just loading.

The blast, which also destroyed a metal clothing locker, was felt at street level and some windows rattled in adjacent buildings.

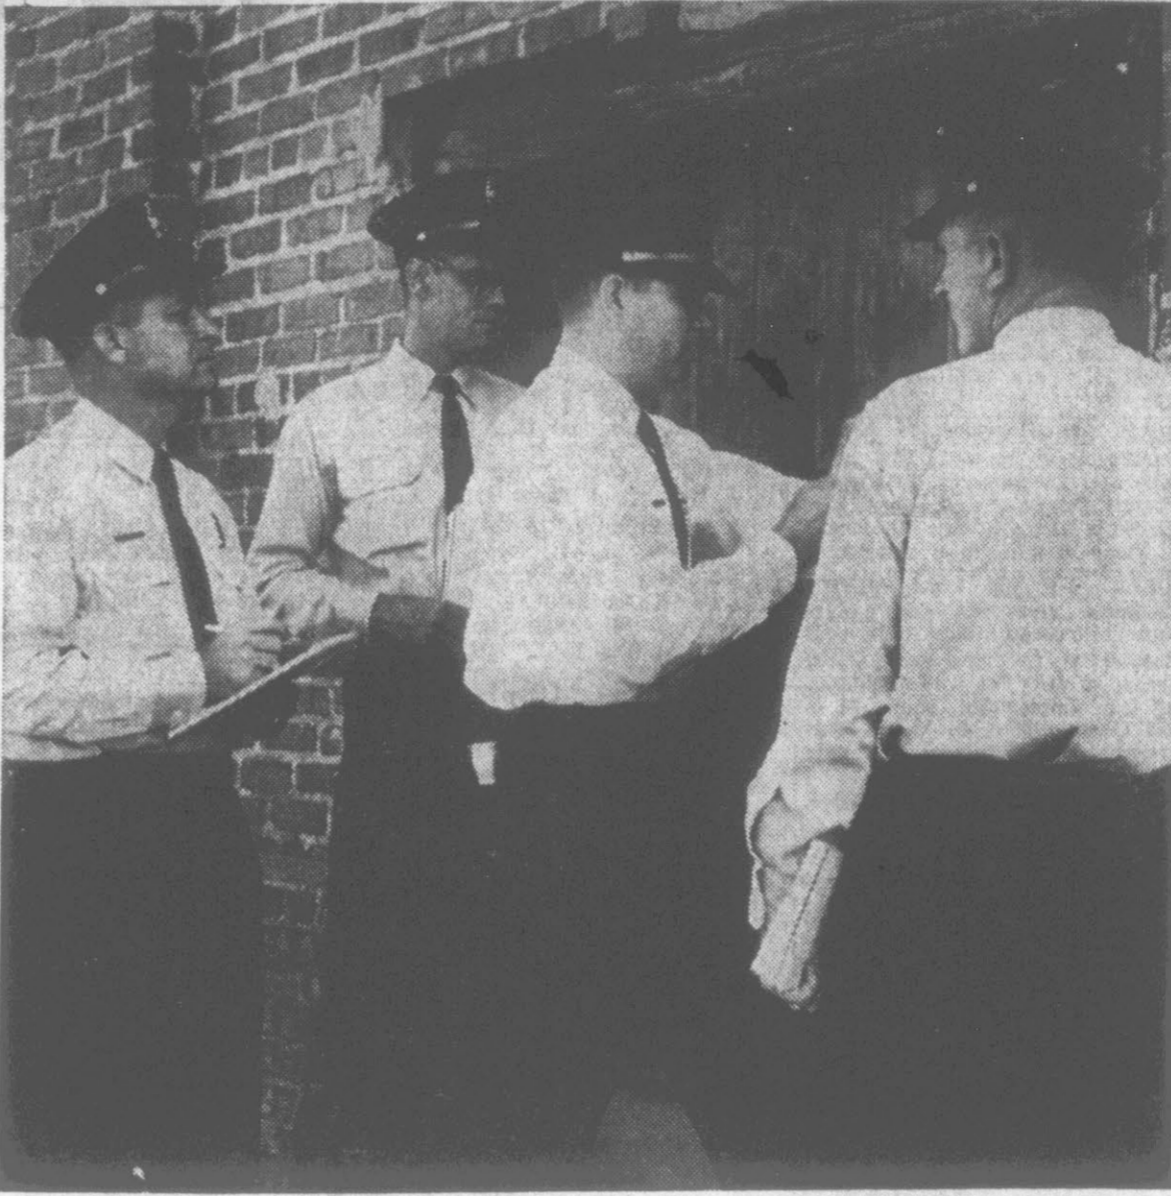

Witnesses said they saw two youths, their faces powder-blackened, race from the blast scene. Transit Authority Inspector Patrick J. Coughlin, 49, said he overheard one of the pair say "we got too close, I lost my hat" and the other reply "I lost my hat, too."

Two hats were found near the blast scene.

Two youths picked up for questioning shortly after the explosion were questioned and released.

In both previous bomb explosions, eyewitnesses told of two youths fleeing from the scene. Last Sunday, in Bryant Park adjacent to the Public Library at 42nd street and Fifth Avenue, a bomb went off but no one was injured. The first blast on Sunday, Oct. 2, in which seven persons were injured, came from shrubbery in Duffy Square near the northern rim of Times Square.

Full-Time Fire Prevention

FIREMEN . . . inspecting a warehouse door while on familiarization tour of local business places.

"Fire prevention should not only be practiced and emphasized during Fire Prevention Week, but should be observed each and every week during the year," according to Greenville Fire Chief George Gardner.

Gardner, who told of the local department's observance of Fire Prevention Week this week, said the firefighters are touring the City's business places to familiarize themselves with the layout of the firms so they can do a better job of fighting fire in the particular building should a blaze develop. The firemen are also making visits to the City Schools and demonstrating a fire truck and use of fire extinguishers.

Local firemen are conducting guided tours of the central fire station for interested groups of students this week, a service which, Chief Gardner pointed out, is offered all during the year.

The Chief, who noted that Mayor S. E. West in his proclamation of Fire Prevention week designated October 12 and 13 as Clean-up Days in homes and businesses throughout Greenville, said that "a clean house seldom burns." He urged Greenville Citizens to "clean up their basements and attics and throw out old newspapers, magazines and other accumulated combustibles such as old clothing and furniture because these are the things on which fire feeds."

The veteran fireman also said, "It is just as true that a clean stove or furnace seldom burns up a house." He urged homeowners to check their stoves and clean them out before lighting them for the winter months ahead.

"Now is the time to check the chimney too. . . it is particularly important if you burn wood or coal, and a clean, tight chimney means fuel savings as well as fire safety," he added.

Gardner warned, "If you use a portable oil or gas heater, always turn it off when you retire at night or leave the house." He also cautioned, "Place it so it can't tip over and curtains or

Ruritan Leader Addresses Meet

WINTERVILLE — Ruritan National President Fulton Stokes suggested methods Tuesday to a Ladies Night gathering of the Winterville Ruritan Club of "keeping our society strong."

The national president from White Oak, N. C., described the rise and fall of famous nations and compared their accomplishments and defeats with America's history. He spoke to some 75 Ruritans, their wives and guests.

Stokes outlined U.S. accomplishments since the 18th century and pointed out "ways we are beginning to decline." He offered suggestions to "eliminate our decline."

An agriculture teacher at White Oak, the Tar Heel was elected national president at the annual Ruritan National Convention in Louisville, Ky., last January.

He was introduced to the local gathering by Ruritan Ben White. The occasion was the local club's annual Ladies Night dinner meeting. Stokes spoke to the group immediately following dinner.

Included on the program was special group singing presented and led by Rev. Henry Melvin, James Little, president of the 35-member Ruritan club, presided at the meeting in the local community building.

Albert W. Massey Funeral On Friday

FARMVILLE — Albert Walker Massey, 69, died Wednesday morning in Woodard-Herring Hospital in Wilson.

He was a farmer and had resided in the Farmville community for 33 years. Mr. Massey was a member of the Presbyterian Church.

Other survivors include four sons, Roger V. and Douglas G. Massey, both of Roxboro and Curtis R. and George A. Massey, both of Farmville; two daughters, Mrs. L. M. Whitmore of South Hill, Va., and Mrs. J. E. Latta of Raleigh; one brother, Bert Massey of Trion, Ga., and 14 grandchildren.

Aerial Hunt For Crashed Pilot

HONOLULU (AP) — Seaplanes from Midway, Kwajalein and Wake joined in the search today for a North Dakota long-distance flier who crashed into the Pacific three miles north of Wake Island.

12. Duane Stirling, 27, and Capt. Charles Finnegan, 30, Air National Guardsmen from Fargo, N.D., were attempting to fly non-stop in separate planes, from Oakland, Calif., to Manila. They were 14 miles past Wake Wednesday night when Stirling ran into trouble and was unable to gain altitude.

"They turned back toward Wake but Stirling's plane crashed. Finnegan landed at Wake. The men had been flying 30 hours.

Stirling's single-engine plane, heavily laden with fuel, went into the ocean moments after his last message: "I can't pick up altitude." It remained afloat.

The fliers were 4,400 miles along on their projected 7,698-mile flight.

Finnegan joined the search for Stirling. The plane was found quickly but crash boats had a difficult time approaching it because of reefs, rain and heavy seas.

Deputy Caught With Answers

DETROIT (AP) — A Wayne County deputy sheriff may lose his job because he had notes on lectures which hadn't yet been delivered by his instructor in a training class run by the Detroit Police Department.

Undersheriff William C. Ryan said the deputy, Dolzier McDonald, 29, had his class notebook inspected by the teacher.

"The instructor found McDonald refused to say where he got the notes.

Ryan said he would ask the Wayne County Civil Service Commission to fire McDonald.

Salem Church To Hold Revival

The Rev. A. S. Lancaster, pastor of the Salem Methodist Church, announces a Laymen's Revival Oct. 14-16.

Card of Thanks

I wish to thank my neighbors, members of Phillip Christian Church, employees of E. B. Pickens Tobacco Co. and all my many other friends for their prayers, cards, flowers and financial help during my recent illness.

The earth is the Lord's and the fullness thereof. The world and they that dwell within. May the Lord continue to bless you.

DROPPING SEX

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — The Air Force is taking the sex out of the language of its project engineers. Until now postponed flights have been "aborted." When a scheduled test flight of the X15 was called off Wednesday, it was simply "canceled." The place where the X15 is locked under the wing of its B52 mother ship has been called the "mating area." Henceforth, this will be the "servicing area."
