Perjury Charged Big Winners Of TV Quiz Shows

NEW YORK (AP)—Three big-money winners on television quiz shows—Charles Van Doren, Hank Bloomgarden and Elfrida Van Nardroff—have been charged with perjury, it became known today.

They were among 14 former TV quiz show contestants who surrendered to face charges which were handed up last week by a grand jury. Identities of those accused had not been made known previously.

Dist. Atty. Frank S. Hogan said six others were expected to surrender on the charges in the near future, making a total of 20 contestants accused.

Van Doren, Bloomgarden and Miss Van Nardroff all were top winners on the defunct show "Twenty-One."

Each is charged on two misdemeanor counts—giving false testimony before a September 1958 grand jury which investigated rigged TV quiz shows, and giving different testimony on the same subject before a July 1960 grand jury.

If convicted, each could get a maximum sentence of up to three years in jail and fines totalling $1,000.

The second degree perjury charges which are misdemeanors, grew out of a long investigation here during which winners and producers of the shows, "21" and "Tic Tack Dough" were questioned.

Van Doren, a former Columbia University instructor, won $129,000 on "21." Bloomgarten won $98,000 and Miss Van Nardroff $220,500 on the same show.

Second-degree perjury is punishable by a year in jail and a $500 fine.

Van Doren, who testified before a grand jury, originally claimed he didn't receive any help on the shows, but later changed his story after telling a congressional committee of coaching on the show.

Hogan said at the time he felt a number of witnesses had lied to the grand jury.

Arrest Man For Transporting Of Illegal Whiskey

Pitt County ABC officers and Greenville police, early Sunday morning, arrested a 22-year-old Negro on charges of possessing and transporting non-tax-paid whiskey for the purpose of sale when they allegedly found 18 and one-half gallons of illegal booze in his possession.

According to officers, Willie Earl Teel of 714 Vanderbilt St. was released under a $300 bond for his appearance in City Court today after he was arrested at 1:15 a.m. "caught in the act of unloading," the whiskey, "back of Pamlico Ave."

Officers noted that the car being driven by Teel was confiscated and is being held pending action by the court.

The vehicle is registered, Police said, to Isaac Taft of 712 Vanderbilt St. Officers noted that Taft himself has been arrested on several occasions for liquor law violations.

Pakistan Storm Fatal For 3,000

DACCA, East Pakistan (AP)—Winds of more than 150 miles an hour and a tremendous tidal wave have killed more than 3,000 people along the coast of East Pakistan.

Approximately 80 per cent of the surviving population in the area was left homeless by destruction of 30,000 homes.

The storm struck last Monday, doing most of its damage to six small offshore islands in the Bay of Bengal. They, like most of the rest of East Pakistan, are extremely primitive.

Communications with the outside world were cut. Not until Sunday, when government officials produced their report after an on-the-spot investigation, was the estimate of the dead made. It is feared that the correct figure may turn out to be higher.

Hundreds of bodies were believed washed out to sea when the tidal wave receded. A complete total of those killed may never be possible.

Such killer storms are common in this part of the world. Nearly 500 persons were killed in the same area by one in the fall of 1958.

Here they are called cyclones. In the Pacific they are known as typhoons; in the Atlantic, as hurricanes. No matter what the name, their chief devastating characteristic is the high-speed winds that boil up the sea and smash it against shores.

The tidal wave was the worst in memory.

Some villages were left a mass of mud, uprooted trees and destroyed houses. On the mainland, crops — mostly rice — were flattened.

Report $10,000 In Fund Effort

Approximately $10,000, or 9.1 percent of its $111,000 goal, has been raised so far in the United Fund drive.

Executive Director Dick Foster said this amount had been reported in the first three report meetings.

Three more report meetings have been scheduled for Oct. 18, 20 and 25. All will be held at 4:30 p.m. in the board of directors room of the Wachovia Bank building.

Foster urged all workers, captains, majors and chairmen to attend and submit their reports. Assistance will be provided in filling in report envelopes and any questions will be answered, Foster said.

All divisions will report together, the executive director stated. Tally sheets will be maintained for each division and the final total will be announced by 5:30 p.m. Any reports received after this time will be included in the next report meeting totals.

EXTENDED WEATHER OUTLOOK FOR N. C.

Search River For Local Man's Body

Members of the Greenville Rescue Squad continued their search this morning for the body of a Greenville Negro who drowned in the Tar River early yesterday afternoon when his boat capsized, throwing him and a passenger into the muddy waters.

Pitt County Coroner E. W. Harvey identified the man as Waylan Williams, 32, of 1620 South Pitt St.

According to investigators, Williams and J. D. Dillard, 35, of 1408 Ward St., were headed up river in a small flat-bottom boat about a mile west of the Port Terminal.

Dillard, who swam to shore and safety, was quoted by officers as saying he was seated on the middle seat of the boat when the craft suddenly lurched as if it had hit a log, then capsized.

The survivor told members of the Rescue Squad he "saw him (Williams) swimming then he went under." He added that Williams "swam about the length of the boat" before going down. Dillard pointed out that Williams was clad in a heavy coat and boots.

Coroner Harvey, who noted that the exact time of the accident could not be determined, said it probably occurred sometime between 1 and 3 p.m. He noted that Dillard, after reaching shore, began walking down-river toward the Port Terminal. He then hailed a passing boat, which took him to summon aid.

Rescuers, who were called about 4:30 p.m., found the overturned boat about one-half mile down river from where it originally overturned.

It was towed to shore this morning near the Port Terminal.

Harvey noted that Williams was married and had two children.

Cuban Firing Squads Execute Americans

HAVANA (AP)—A Cuban firing squad Sunday executed two more Americans from the small invasion force that Fidel Castro charged was part of a U.S. plot to provoke an incident at Guantanamo Naval Base.

The prime minister directly linked the 27-man expeditionary force that landed on Cuba's northeast coast Oct. 5 with mounting tension over the big naval base the United States holds on the island by treaty.

Castro said on television that the small band intended to create the pretext for U.S. intervention in Cuba by trying to form a "zone of operations and zone of perturbation" near the base.

The United States formally charged before the United Nations last Friday that Castro himself appeared bent on provoking an incident over the base.

Firing squad bullets just before dawn cut down a Louisiana adventurer and a former U.S. Marine seeking to avenge the Castro government's seizure of his father's Cuban plantation.

The two Americans were: Allan Dale Thompson, 36, a native of Queen City, Tex., who grew up in Mooringsport, La., and worked in fishing camps in that area.

Robert O. Fuller, 25, whose father moved to Miami, Fla., after confiscation of his property in Cuba.

Another American who landed with them, Anthony Zarba, 27, of Somerville, Mass., was executed with seven Cuban insurgents at the same firing range in San Juan Valley last Thursday.

A prediction of more invasions against the Castro regime came from Fuller's grieving father, Willian, in Miami, Fla.

"There'll be other expeditions," Fuller told newsmen. "Some may fail, but sooner or later the Castro regime may fall."

The younger Fuller, who served with the U. S. Marines in Korea, testified at his trial in Santiago that peasants had aided the invaders.

A similar revelation came from Angel Rivero, a Cuban member of the expeditionary force, who testified, "I came to combat communism in Cuba."

The court spared the lives of Rivero and another Cuban, Juan Gonzalez. They were sentenced to 30 years in prison.

The court rejected appeals for clemency for Thompson and Fuller, contending that the Americans and the Cubans should get equal treatment.

Fuller's mother, who remained in Cuba when the rest of the family went to Florida, attended the trial. Mrs. Fuller is a native of Massachusetts but has lived in Cuba since childhood.

Cuban prosecutor David Diaz charged the United States was backing the invaders and warned that future invaders "will bite the dust drenched in blood."

The U.S. State Department has denied any connection with the invasion.

Castro disclosed that one of his former cabinet members, Manolo Ray, was "one of the little leaders of the counter-revolution." Ray, a bomb expert who fought with Castro against the regime of Fulgencio Batista, was replaced as public works minister late last year by left-winger Osmani Cienfuegos.

Castro admitted concern, however, about the allegiance of the Cuban navy. He threatened to dissolve the force unless it shapes up in thorough revolutionary fashion. He disclosed two big naval installations in Havana and Cienfuegos had been deactivated, along with several warships.

The prime minister indicated, too, that the revolutionary program may be slowed down on the home front. With the institution of an urban reform law the past weekend, he said "drastic measures" on the social and economic front have ended. The urban law gives Cubans the right to buy their homes by applying the monthly rent toward the purchase price.

Fifteen Govm'ts Seek Ease Tensions Of UN Assembly

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Fifteen countries on five continents pushed a resolution today to calm things down in the U.N. General Assembly after the stormy visit of Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

Indian Defense Minister V.K. Krishna Menon planned to introduce the resolution formally in a one-hour speech ending the general policy debate in the 99-nation assembly.

The resolution would have the assembly call for full cooperation with the United Nations, ask all countries to refrain from actions likely to aggravate international tensions and urge that immediate steps be taken to solve world problems.

It speaks of a deterioration in international relations "both in the General Assembly and in the world" and says there is a need to arrest this trend because peace is threatened.

There was a possibility that the assembly would begin debating the resolution this afternoon, after a speech by visiting King Frederik IX of Denmark.

Sponsors of the resolution are Austria, Bolivia, Burma, Ecuador, Finland, Ghana, India, Indonesia, Mexico, Morocco, Panama, Tunisia, the United Arab Republic, Venezuela and Yugoslavia.

The idea for the resolution was Menon's. A source said it came to him when President Sekou Toure of Guinea addressed the assembly Thursday.

The day before, a debate over colonialism had turned rowdy. Khrushchev had banged the desk with his shoe, and the assembly president, Frederick H. Boland of Ireland had adjourned the meeting abruptly after a Romanian delegate had hinted Boland was biased.

Toure deplored the Romanian's statement and asked the Soviet group to refrain from trying to make propaganda with the colonial issue.

Menon suggested the resolution at an Asian-African group meeting Friday. Then he drew it up with Foreign Minister Mahmoud Fawzi of the United Arab Republic and ambassadors U Thant of Burma and Dobrivoje Vidic of Yugoslavia.

The 46-nation Asian-African group planned a private meeting today to discuss a pending resolution calling for the seating of a Congo delegation representing ousted Premier Patrice Lumumba. Ceylon, Ghana, Guinea, India, Indonesia, Morocco and the United Arab Republic are sponsoring the resolution.

The assembly admitted the former Belgian Congo to the United Nations Sept. 21 but has not yet chosen between two rival delegations, sent by Lumumba and by President Joseph Kasavubu.

United Fund Plaques To Be Presented Firms

"Big U" award plaques will be presented to firms meeting certain contribution specifications in the United Fund drive.

The award plaques will be presented to firms with two or more employees and meeting the following requirements:

1. Corporate or firm gift based on "fair share formula."

2. Eighty percent of salaried or hourly rate full time employees participating in "fair share giving."

3. One hundred percent of management participating in "fair share giving."

4. Payroll deduction or some other means of collection made available to all personnel or billing direct by United Fund office.

Executive Director Dick Foster said the following firms are now eligible for the award: Planters National Bank, Wachovia Bank and Trust Co., State Bank and Trust Co., Brody's Inc., Hendrix-Barnhill, The Daily Reflector and Security Life Insurance Co.

Foster said that this year a key man or key woman is being appointed in firms with ten or more employees.

"Their part in organizing a good campaign within the company or firm will contribute to the overall success of that firm meeting the requirements for the Big U award," Foster said.

For their efforts the key men will receive the United Fund "Topper Award."

The campaign this year is attempting to reach all prospective givers at their place of employment rather than at their residences. House-to-house solicitation as known in the past is not being used, though some will have to be done to reach retired persons, farmers and individuals who work out of their homes, according to Foster.

Employees solicited at their places of employment will have their contributions credited to the township in which they reside.

Foster said a new solicitation has been organized this year. It is know as the Public and Institutional Employees Division. It is made up of all city, state and federal employees, all city and county schools, East Carolina College and Pitt Memorial Hospital.

As with divisions these groups will also share in the Big U awards. A group which achieves 80 percent participation on the "fair share giving" scale will receive an award.

ECC Homecoming Day Parade Pronounced 'Biggest And Best'

TOP HONORS . . . in the sorority division of the East Carolina College Homecoming Parade Saturday were won by Chi Omega Sorority for this float, "As the World Turns". (Reflector Photo by Stuart Savage).

By PATRICIA MOORE
Reflector Staff Writer

Saturday was the day the Untouchables drove through Greenville in hot pursuit of moving whiskey stills down Evans Street.

And Greenville was invaded by walking tissue boxes, bands, pretty coeds and a jazz band. Not to mention the Republicans and the Democrats, who almost turned Evans Street into a political rally.

The 1960 Homecoming Day parade has been pronounced the biggest and the most colorful to be staged in recent years. Twenty-three floats, entered by campus organizations, vied for honors in the competition, which was sponsored by the Student Government Association.

Decorations were centered around television productions.

In the campus organization's division, the Y.M.C.A. took first place for "Adventures in Paradise." Delta Sigma Phi was second place winner with "Alfred Hitchcock Presents" and the Air Force R.O.T.C. third with "Have Gun Will Travel."

Top honors in the sorority division went to Chi Omega, first, for "As the World Turns;" Alpha Delta Phi, second, for "Wagon Train;" and Alpha Omega Pi, third, with "Rabbit."

Theta Chi with the "Untouchables" again mimicked their namesake with first prize in the fraternity division. Second and third places went to Phi Kappa Tau for "Hallmark Hall of Fame" and Sigma Phi Epsilon for "Checkmate."

Prizes also were given to the best decorated dormitories. Winners for attractive and original decorations were Cotten Hall first; Jarvis Hall, second; and Ragsdale Hall, third. All are women's dormitories.

Parade Sidelights

In the parade, Tri Sigma Sorority staged a bright display, with one coed in a very tiny cigarette box labeled "It's What's Up Front That Counts." At the corner of Evans and Third Streets she called for the driver of the vehicle behind her "to slow down a little so I can take off my shoes."

Buc, the college mascot, had his 150 pounds stuffed into a red sports car, where he rared back and surveyed the crowds as he passed by.

Lambda Chi Fraternity furnished a jazz concert entitled "Bourbon Street," and the college and Rose High School bands furnished snappy band music, accompanied by high stepping majorettes and drum majors.

One of the most picturesque float displays was staged by Alpha Delta Pi Sorority, which sponsored a large covered wagon with coeds dressed as ladies from the old western days. Ladies on horseback and others on foot accompanied the wagon, urging the E.C.C. Pirates to "jump on the bandwagon."

R.O.T.C. units from the college also participated in the parade, but the most outstanding of these was the precision drill team from East Carolina College.

The most numerous vehicles in the parade were convertibles transporting coeds who were vying for the title of "Miss Homecoming of 1960." Last year's queen, Dottie McEwen, was the first of these. Other women students represented fraternities, sororities and other campus organizations.

The parade broke up shortly after turning off Evans at Third Street, proceeding past the Post Office. Remnants of proud floats could be seen later at the football stadium, as they were half dismantled, half decorated.

A number of dignitaries were on hand for the parade, including U. S. Representative Herbert Bonner.

Farmer's Death Ruled A Suicide

A Route 2, Ayden farmer's death has been ruled suicide Saturday afternoon, after threatening to kill himself on "more than one" occasions, according to Pitt County Coronor E. W. Harvey.

Harvey, who noted the man had been despondent over crop failures and financial worries, identified him as 40-year-old Heber Loftin.

Harvey noted that Loften, who shot himself in the head with a .410 guage shot gun, was found in an old tenant house about one-quarter of a mile from his home by his wife and children, who went to investigate after seeing his car parked near-by.

The coronor noted that he was found about 3:30—two hours after he had left his home headed for Ayden.

Las Vegas Gives Kennedy An Edge

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)— The Las Vegas odds on the presidential election have shifted in favor of Sen. John F. Kennedy.

Republican Vice President Richard M. Nixon was an 8-to-5 to 9-to-5 favorite right after the national convention, but the odds later to 7-to-5.

Saturday they changed again, and this time Kennedy emerged the favorite. The general price was 6-to-5 but one establishment made Kennedy at 7-to-5 favorite.

Mrs. S.R. Bartlett, president, presided over the business session and welcomed new members, Mrs. Ronald Edwards of Ayden and Mrs. Leslie Morton of Greenville. She also stated the aims for the year's work.

During the business session the auxiliary adopted a proposed budget. They decided to put "Today's Health" in at least one high school library in the county.

In other business, they voted to make a contribution to the Pitt Memorial Hospital chapel voted to continue supporting projects of the State Auxiliary, and planned to entertain at tea Nov. 10 in the home of Mrs. M.P. Hoot for the staff and students of the E. C. C. School of Nursing.

The chairman of the hospital library committee asked for a contribution of good books for the library, especially paper backs because they are light.

The program was given by the hostesses and consisted of a skit showing the procedure for protecting the family from atomic fall-out in case of such necessity. The skit was prepared by the Civil Defense Com. to impress citizens with the importance of being prepared.

Following the program refreshments of coffee, cocoanut squares, cheese straws, and nuts were served in the dining-room from a table centered with an autumn arrangement of flowers, gourds and fruit. Pyracantha was used in the hall and on the buffet.

Crackdown On Caviar Market

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—Tehran's police, with no sympathy for gourmets, are cracking down on a unique racket—a black market in caviar.

The fishy delicacy is a government monopoly, and a non-authorized or cut rate caviar peddler can get up to two years in prison under a new law.

Iran is almost the world's only source of the genuine stuff. Russia's famed caviar usually isn't Russian: they buy it from Iran.

Caviar comes from fish eggs, and the eggs come from the sturgeon—a big brown fish caught almost exclusively in the southern reaches of the Caspian, the half owned by Iran. The Soviet Union owns only the northern Caspian, where sturgeon for some reason don't get hooked.

Caviar is by no means a staple food in Iran, but a pound of the finest black imperial grade costs about 12 dollars a pound here. In a New York nightclub it can come to 10 dollars a spoonful.

Smugglers or black marketeers buy direct from Iranian fishermen, pack the caviar in used government tins which are sealed only with tape, and sell it for about half the government price. Only four government shops handle caviar in Tehran, and the caviar pirates operate from fish stores or by door-to-door peddling.

Some Plastic "Fabrics" Washable

Raincoats, shower curtains, tablecloths, and other plastic items can be washed by wiping with a sponge dipped into soap or detergent suds. But they may also be laundered in an automatic washer.

The trick is to use lukewarm suds and rinses, with a fairly short wash cycle. Remove plastics as soon as the washer shuts off, then hang them up or spread them flat to dry.

New Color Fibers

NEW YORK (AP)—The age-old problem of colors that run or fade after several washings will no longer exist in a few years if recent developments in dyeing processes prove successful.

Manufacturers of synthetic materials have been experimenting with adding pigments and dyes to the synthetic solutions before the fiber is spun.

After the color pigment or dye is added to the chemical solution the fibers are spun into threads and strands which are used in weaving synthetic materials. The color is an innate part of the material rather than something added after the fabric has been processed.

The bright pre-colored synthetic fibers and materials produced by this method are on display in the Cooper Union Museum's exhibit on color here.

Skin Irritated?

When your skin becomes irritated, its damaged tissues open up and are especially susceptible to germs and bacteria.

At such times, frequent washing with soap and warm water becomes especially important. The skin should be sudsed, rinsed, and then gently patted dry. After that, apply any powder or lotion that is recommended by your doctor.

Like a flavor that resembles licorice? Use anise seed in bland cookies and small cakes.

AP Newsfeatures

Fashion has never gone so fur before.

This winter it will be the rare woman who isn't swathed to the chin in fur, flaunting either precious pelts or the frankly fakes.

For those who invest in the real thing, the choices are staggering in both silhouette and skin.

Foremost among the silhouettes are:

The Princess Line—not closely molded, but a delicate shadowing of the figure.

The Cape Coat—with cape fullness in back, cut in one with short sleeves.

The Soft Coat—full across the back, tapering to straight at the hemline.

The Slim Coat — mandarin in line, simple and sleek.

Collars range from none to deep cape collars that can be pulled up into hoods, while sleeves are generally short, wider and uncuffed.

In lengths, jackets are coming to the fore, ranging from hipbone to bolero cut just at the waist. Stoles are being replaced by mobile capelets and global capes.

As for the fur itself, if she doesn't select the still ranking favorite, mink, she might see spots —ocelot, leopard, cheetah or jaguar; or stripes—tiger, civet cat. For the fluffy, bulky look there are opossum, foxes and Norwegian blue fox.

For the sleek, slimming look, South American otter dyed beige or natural brown; Southwest African Persian lamb, dyed black or in new shades, Alaskan fur seal—and most unusual of all, natural white Southwest African Persian lamb, a rare collection of skins sufficient to make only 10 garments, which one manufacturer is rationing to his key states.

For added glamor and evening wear, mink—natural, both wild and dark, plus all the shades found in the mutation colors, as well as chinchilla, sable and fitch, both in garments and in trim.

And don't be surprised to see unusual fur styles in ponchos, dresses, vests—and yes, even dinner trousers.

Bridge Class

The bridge instruction class will begin this Wednesday from 10 until 12 noon at the Elm Street Recreation Center. The instructor will be Mrs. Belle Harrell. The course will continue each week until May.

Peg-board Walls

If you're building a utility closet to hold housecleaning gadgets, remember peg-board.

Peg-board walls have a maze of little holes for holding hooks or pegs. These make it possible to hang much cleanliness equipment on limited wall space—mops, brushes, cloths, sponges, dustpans, brooms, and so forth. This assures a neater, more efficient closet—and peg-board itself is sudsable.

Shoppers Now Buying More Processed Food

RALEIGH—Shoppers are now buying more processed foods. When we buy prepared or partially-prepared food, we pay for factory labor, management, and other costs, in addition to prices the farmer received for his crops.

We are, of course buying convenience—freedom from kitchen chores. We also are buying food with less waste, that needs less trimming, sorting, or washing.

Three "ready-to-serve" meals costing $6.60 for a family of four could be prepared in the home kitchen for $4.50, or $2.20 less. The homemaker would use about 5½ hours to get the three "ready-to-serve" meals on the table.

The food cost saving of $2.20 in the three home-cooked meals represents an hourly wage of 55 cents for the 4 extra hours of work in preparing them.

Those are the two extremes. Most families use a combination of foods——unprepared, partially-prepared and ready to heat and serve.

We now pay about $41½ billion a year more than we did in 1939 for the convenience of having some of the work of food preparation transferred from the kitchen to the factory or restaurant.

Homemakers now have to decide if they can afford to use convenience foods. Greater buying knowledge enables us to make decisions regarding our food shopping habits.

Is Your Family Getting Proper Diet It Should?

By DOROTHY V. WHIPPLE, M.D.
AP NEWSFEATURES

Most Americans have enough money to buy all the food they need, yet many are not nearly as well nourished as they should be.

We don't see real starvation around us, but we do see people with no vim and vigor, youngsters with poor posture and flabby muscles. We hear cross, irritable voices and see tired, drawn faces.

Not all human ills can be cured by improving the diet, but you may be surprised how much unnecessary misery is swallowed in the form of doughnuts and jam.

Godd buoyant health is what we are after. Clear bright eyes, smooth firm skin, strong muscles, shiny hair, sound teeth, erect posture, straight bones, peaceful nerves.

If your body works well, at least some of the tensions of our hectic world will roll off your back.

It is not always within our powers to reduce tensions, but it is within our power to nourish our bodies to the optimum. As the mother of a family you can do more. You provide good food for your family and teach your children the principles of good eating, so that when they leave home they will continue what you started.

Why is it that the knowledge of nutrition is not better applied? There are several reasons.

Food faddists have given nutrition a bad name. Some of the horrible concoctions that are supposed to be good for you are enough to scare anyone off. The truth is, truly nutritious food is delicious to eat. There is no reason to eat anything you don't like. Nutrition is a question of selection and preparation of good food.

Another reason the real laboratory knowledge we have about nutrition is not absorbed by the public is because the bulk of our knowledge comes not from the scientists, but from commercial food manufacturers.

Highly refined foods keep better than do natural foods. Bacteria, fungi, molds and weevils do not grow in highly milled flour as they do in ground whole grains, because there isn't enough nourishment in the refined food to keep them alive. There isn't enough in them to nourish humans, either, but the food makers don't tell us that. They do tell us all the virtues of their product but keep quiet about all the minerals and vitamins they have removed to increase the ease of handling their product.

Mothers should take a course in nutrition, or look up a book on the subject. They may learn a lot they didn't know. They will be able to make food taste better, save money on food bills, and see the difference in their families.

Convenient Location For Laundry Desired

Recent trends indicate that next to time- and labor-saving laundry equipment, a convenient location for the laundry is desired by most homemakers. In fact, a separate laundry room on the first floor is preferred.

This stands to reason, because it permits the homemaker to accomplish other tasks while her efficient soaps, detergents, washer, and dryer do their work "unsupervised."

Suds Foils Spooks

With the spookiest night of the year coming up, here is some Halloween advice for the mothers —and neighbors—of young ghosts, witches, and assorted hobgoblins.

If diversionary tactics fail, and the "spirit world" marks up your windows, don't be unduly alarmed. Chalk scribblings can be washed off by using a sponge saturated with soap or detergent suds. For wax or crayon markings, use turpentine first; then follow with hot suds and rinses.

Bloodmobile's Response Improving

Renewed vigorous support of the Bloodmobile program in Pitt County as evidenced by the recent visits to Farmville and the DuPont plant holds out the hope that Pitt will continue to meet its quota each time the bloodmobile visits here.

After a period of lagging interest in which the bloodmobile quota was not filled by the county, these two recent visits gave a significant boost to the program for Pitt. In Farmville last week the quota of 120 pints of blood was donated by local citizens. Later in the week Pitt County was credited for 210 pints of blood—90 above the quota—when the unit visited the DuPont plant.

In recent years the bloodmobile program has received spotty support around the county. Some visits have seen the quotas reached while on other visits the number of donors fell short of the mark.

The result has been that Pitt County for the most part has received from the regional blood bank program of which it is a member considerably more blood than local citizens have donated to the program. There was a time that the county was about to lose its membership in the program because of lack of volunteers who were willing to give blood.

It is to be hoped that such a situation will not develop again. If the recent visits of the bloodmobile to Farmville and to the DuPont plant are any indication, certainly Pitt County will carry its fair share of the load in the program in the future.

The bloodmobile program has meant a great deal to this county and its people in the years in which Pitt has participated in it. Through the regional blood bank the local hospital is assured of an ample supply of blood at all times to meet the needs of its patients. In addition, the county's membership in the program assures that residents of this county will have blood available to them through the blood bank regardless of where they happen to be hospitalized.

Continuation of the program is important to this county and to the medical care that can be afforded local citizens. But continued support of the program by volunteer donors is likewise essential to the county's continued participation in the program.

We hope the pace that has been set by the recent bloodmobile visits to Farmville and to the DuPont plant will encourage people in other sections of Pitt County to follow suit on subsequent bloodmobile visits to the county.

Truman Doesn't Duck Questions

By LYNN NISBET

PAST MASTER — Harry Truman again demonstrated at his news conference the other day that he is a past master at the art of fielding questions, answering them without qualitifaction or apology, or frankly telling the questioner that what he asked about was none of his business.

One reporter asked why he opposed Kennedy for the nomination and why he didn't attend the Democratic national convention at Los Angeles. His answers: "I didn't oppose Kennedy; I was for Symington. My man didn't get off the ground. The convention decision is law for the party. I'm a party man. So I'm all the way now for Kennedy and Johnson." He said he didn't attend the convention because he didn't want to. A reporter asked for some other reason. "I don't have to give any other reason," said Truman. "I didn't want to go, and I didn't go. That's all."

Asked what he thought of the Eisenhower administration's record, he said he would not criticize his successor in the White House. He would only quote Sen. Wayne Morse of Oregon, who got so fed up with the Republicans he switched to the Democratic party. Sen. Morse had said that the Eisenhower record had "made a statesman out of General Grant."

Asked to comment on Nixon's charge that he was indulging in "dirty politics," the former President said the idea of any Republican accusing any Democrat of dirty politics was absurd.

Mixed in with these effervescent and inconsequential quips was a lot of serious stuff about how only the President of the United States is responsible for foreign policy, and how the public has always supported any President, regardless of party, in steps to maintain the defense and security of the United States.

MULTIPURPOSE—Despite the progress in efforts by architects and engineers to design multipurpose buildings, experience demonstrates that a structure designed primarily for one use is not readily adaptable to other functions. Take, for example, the arena or "cow palace" at the State fairgrounds. It was designed primarily for exhibitions, cattle judging, rodeo shows and other phases of State fair acticity. Between fairs it is suitable for horse shows, some types of athletic contests, and similar activities. It was hailed also as an auditorium for public speakings.

Two incidents of the past week clearly prove its inadequacy for that purpose. Secretary of Commerce Frederick Mueller appeared there Wednesday for a Republican campaign speech. He had an audience of about 250, scattered among the mostly empty 6,500 permanent seats. Former President Harry Truman appeared Thursday for a Democratic campaign speech. He had an audience that filled the building—when he began. Almost half of them walked out during the speech, because they could not hear a word he was saying. The whole building arrangement, including placement of seats so that majoity of the audience would be near the middle of the arena for viewing purposes, is for visual shows. As a place for speaking, it's a big flop. On the other hand, the Raleigh Memorial Auditorium was built for hearing, rather than seeing, what's going on.

Side observation: There were probably 100 United States flags flying from poles on the fairgrounds. There was not a single regulation flag in the arena for either the Mueller or Truman appearances. Sure, there was a lot of red-white-and-blue-bunting, spread eagles, and such — but no flag.

CHANGE—As recently as 25 years ago some of the most interesting livestock exhibits at the State fair were farm work animals — horses and mules. These animals attracted more attention than did the beef and dairy cattle, poultry and swine. At the 1960 fair last week, the only representatives of the equine family were two or three Democratic donkeys and the performing horses for the grandstand shows. Instead of work horses and mules on display, modernized farm machinery occupied 10 or 12 acres of the sprawling fairgrounds campus.

RHIP & VIP — Nearly every "big meeting", whether political religious or social, requires that certain space be reserved for "very important people"—VIP.

One fellow who was rated as belonging to the VIP group was ASKED WHY. He replied with the asked why. He replied with the letters "RHIP." The questioner didn't know what he meant. He was told it meant "rank has its privileges," with additional comment that it was an old Navy custom and expression.

Your reporter got a new slant on the VIP idea the other day. A chap who resented being left out of the group, quipped that VIP means "vacuum in the pate." One of the fellows at the press table in the fairgrounds arena the other day when former President Truman spoke, had still another meaning for the initials. Looking at the VIP group in the "amen" corner, he quipped he thought the letters stand for "variety in personality." The three or four of his colleagues who heard that suggestion agreed that "variety" was more appropriate than "vacuum."

More Mellow, But Vigorous Campaigner

The years have mellowed former President Harry Truman somewhat, but at the age of 76 he remains one of the most vigorous campaigners and one of the most effective political speakers in the Democratic party.

A good many people developed a dislike for Mr. Truman during his years in the White House and many resent some of the things he did and some of the things he said. Be that as it may, he still holds the respect of his followers and his political enemies alike when it comes to a campaign battle.

The vigor with which the former President swung into the campaign during his swing through North Carolina Thursday and Friday amazed even those who were familiar with the way he does things and the manner in which he throws himself into speeches, handshaking stints and campaign jaunts.

As a speaker on a platform and as a mingler with the crowd, Mr. Truman possesses the rare ability to spur an audience to genuine enthusiasm for the cause he espouses. Though a dozen years have elapsed since he did the "impossible" in 1948 with his personal campaigning, he still ignites the spark in audiences which enabled him to win the presidency against seemingly overwhelming odds.

There is no doubt that his campaigning in the Tar Heel state last week helped the Democrats ticket for next month's election.

Budget Surplus Drop--And Why

By RALPH ROBEY

For months it has been evident that the original estimate of the Federal Budget surplus for the fiscal year ending next June 30 was too high. The only question has been the amount by which it would be reduced. We now have the official revised figure.

The original estimate was a surplus of $4.2 billion. The revised forecast is $1.1 billion, which is $100 million less than we had in the fiscal year which ended last June 30.

A part of the decline is a result of higher expenditures than were planned last January. But this is a relatively small part—$600 million. The significant factor is a really large drop in anticipated revenues. These are now forecast as $2.5 billion less than the January figure, and of this amount $2 billion is from a decline of corporate income taxes.

When the budget was being prepared at the end of 1959 it was assumed that corporate profits before taxes would be $51 billion. This estimate has now been reduced to $47 billion, and since corporations on the average pay half of their profits in taxes, this means a lowering of corporate taxes from $23.5 to $21.5 billion.

What accounts for such an error in estimating corporate income taxes? Was the Treasury just silly, or merely too optimistic?

Using the advantage of hindsight one can build a case that the Treasury was silly. Recovery had been continuing since April 1958, and it could not go on indefinitely. Further, the longest steel strike in history was certain to hurt profits substantially, and probably for a considerable period. Finally, every effort was being made to hold prices steady—by the Administration, by the Federal Reserve and banking authorities, and by purchasers who were simply tired of paying more and more.

But that is all hindsight. At the time the budget was prepared there was a sound basis for assuming a continued rise in pretax earnings. This was the same set of facts that led to the almost unanimous forecast that 1960 would be, by all odds, the greatest year in our history.

Well, it has been our greatest year by most measures. We have had the largest employment, the largest personal income, the highest wages, the greatest volume of dividends, and so forth, including the highest gross national product in the entire life of the nation.

We also have had, on the average, complete stability of other than farm prices, that is, industry has not been able to increase prices to cover the constantly increasing costs of production, a major portion of which has come from higher and higher wages. And competition has been extremely severe, both domestic and foreign.

Even though the total volume of trade has held up, therefore, it has been carried on at a lower rate of profit, and many concerns have had to go into the red.

None of this is said as an alibi for the Treasury and Budget Bureau. An error was made in the January forecast, and it was a large error. All we are saying is that the Administration merely made its calculations upon what was generally considered at the time as probable. And it still remains true that total federal revenues will be larger than in any previous fiscal year.

Quote...

"What is the criterion for a high standard of living? No. The answer is, 'Paper'. The higher a nation's standard of living, the more paper it consumes. The average American family uses a ton a year. Per capita annual use of paper in the United States is 417 pounds compared with 150 pounds in Denmark, one pound in Red China and virtually none in Central Africa."—Palatka (Fla.) Daily News.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

BEYOND THAT HORIZON

Christopher Columbus— a historical character who was wrong about almost everything except ing one very improtant matter.

Columbus was sure that the circumference of the earth was 8,000 miles. He insisted that if he could sail just beyond the horizon he would encounter the islands which abound at the southeastern portion of Asia. His opponents scoffed at him. They declared that the circumference of the earth was 20,000 miles and they were correct within 5,000 miles. Furthermore, they said that if Columbus tried to take men ships and sail the tremendous distance to Asia it would constitute murder and suicide. What neither party knew, however, was that the two great continents of North and South America, connected by Central America, intervened. Columbus was so sure he had discovered the islands of India that he called the natives of the Caribbean area Indians. He died not knowing that he had discovered a new world.

Christopher Columbus was one of the greatest men that humanity has produced. He was wrong in most of his assumptions, but there was one thing in which he was not wrong — he believed there was something beyond the horizon.

The great are those who believe that there is something beyond the horizon. The scientist who believes this makes discoveries. Those of religious heart who believe that there is something beyond the horizon have found the true secret of their faith.

MAKING FREEDOM RING

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

Communist Masquerade

Copyright, 1960, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Eugene Dennis, the head of the Communist Party of the United States, has been known as Frank Waldron and as Paul Walsh. It is not unusual for Communists to use a variety of names. Lenin's true name was Ulanov; Stalin's true name was Djugashvili; Trotzky's correct name was Bronstein. So Frank Waldron, born at Seattle, used the name of Eugene Dennis.

But this is not my story. What I am coming to is his son, Timothy. When Dennis was still Waldron, he fell in love with Regina Karasick Schneiderman, the wife of a Communist colleague. Reggie (Regina) was born in Brooklyn. The Schneidermans were divorced. A son was born to the Waldrons who, at that particular moment were using the name of Walsh. Thus it appears that Regina Karasick Walsh was travelling in Europe in 1931 with her son, Timothy Walsh, who was born in Los Angeles, California on November 30, 1929. It is clear from the record and photographs that Reggie Karasick Schneiderman is the same person as Reggie Karasick Walsh and from the date and place and photographs, it is clear that Timothy Walsh is the son of Eugene Dennis.

Here the story of Timothy Walsh or Timothy Waldron passes from view. But among Nikita Khrushchev's close and intimate advisers, who came to this country for the United Nations General Assembly, was Timur Tomofeevich Timofeev. While in New York, Tomothy stayed at the Sulgrave Hotel for a part of the time: then moved into the Russian Embassy.

Having seen photographs of young Timotyh Walsh, of his father, Eugene Dennis, and his mother, Regina Karasick, it is impossible not to believe that Timother than the Timothy Walso who disappeared in Soviet Russia between 1931 and 1935. Also, the two are of the same age. It would be conclusive that Eugene Dennis gave his son to the cause of which he is now the American chief.

Therefore, it is interesting to assume that one of Nikita Khrushchev's principal advisers on American affairs is a native American, whatever his present citizenship may be. Although I have no doubt whatsoever that I am right about this, futile efforts have been made to discuss this with Timur. Two reporters asked for Timur at the Sulgrave Hotel. Immediately thereafter he was moved from the Sulgrave Hotel to the Russian Embassy on Park Avenue and he was only seen thereafter, in Khrushchev's automobile. He refused to see reporters, although they saw him. He declined to meet any newspapermen or to answer any questions.

There is little significance in all this except for the fact that there are a number of Americans—that is persons who are entitled to have American passports—who are serving Soviet Russia in the United States. In fact, there are a number of Americans who have made Mexico their headquarters and who operate a sort of United States government in exile. In Mexico and in Cuba, Soviet Russia centers an espionage system not only for Latin America but on the United States. Regarding the latter, practically all the operatives are American citizens. Many of them are former Fifth Amendment Communists.

When Khrushchev makes such a fuss about the U-2, how does it happen that no American voice is raised concerning his espionage operations within the United States? Why was he not asked on David Susskind's program to explain why his trawlers cut our cables in the Atlantic? Why was he not asked about Russian planes flying over Alaska, of which our authorities have photographs? Why was he not asked about the trawlers and submarines which sail close to our coast to watch our rocket and missile tests? Why was he not asked about Americans who act as Russian spies?

In a word, Khrushchev uses native Americans to spy on us and then shouts about our employing whatever means we can to defend ourselves. Those who protest the U-2 forget the Rosenberg case, forget the Alger Hiss case, and many others.

Other Editors Saying... Debates Need Revisions

Rocky Mount Telegram

Much has been said about the series of television debates featuring Richard Nixon and John Kennedy. Most of what's been said dealt with the new importance the debates have lent to the presidential campaigns and the impact they will have on future campaigns. All of this is true; there is indeed great merit in sucn debates.

But Walter Lippmann, an astute observer of the political scene in America, suggests a key change in these so-called "debates" which could preclude the the chance of possible "rigging." He recalled with distaste the aftermath of the infamous television quiz shows which were discovered to be rigged.

It is quite possible for the same thing to happen to the political debate. How could this happen? Well, first we have a feature of the debates which calls for questions from a panel of newsmen. Thus, by its very nature, the debate ceases to be a debate when a series of questions are asked the two contenders by outsiders.

Says Lippmann: "Genuine debate can be had only if the debaters confront each other directly and are allowed to ask each other directly and are allowed to ask each other questions. To let the panel ask the questions is to rely too much on the judgment and on the unconscious bias of the members of the panel."

There is an even more compelling reason, he points out, why we must not let this format establish itself as a precedent for the future. It is the possibility that it could become corruptible. This doesn't mean to cast doubt on the thus-far distinguished correspondents who have participated with the two candidates.

It is merely that the format of the present debates is in reality only another quiz show, and if the political quiz show becomes the accepted format not only for presidential candidates, but for all others on other levels, the temptation to rig the program is almost certain to become too strong.

As in the quiz programs of the past, the prize is too large and the temptation too great and corruption too easy. Lippmann proposes the only guarantee which the voters can have is that the two candidates question each other. Rigging them, would be impossible, since they would not face each other or have previous contact until the debate opened on the air.

Impact Of New Vending Machines

By ELMER ROESSNER

The biggest thing ahead in business may be vending machines that will make change for bills from $1 to $20, and sell anything from 5-cent tickets to $1,000 Florida lots.

These machines may revolutionize merchandising to extents never before imagined. They may become to retailing what automation is to industrial production.

They may eliminate countless retail clerks, but at the same time, make as many new jobs for technicians and specialists. But they will never eliminate th salesperson who can persuade a woman to buy a $500 Paris model, or a $30,000 mink.

They may require completely new layouts inside department and other retail stores.

They may stretch the retailing day from its present average span of nine hours to 24 hours.

NEW HORIZONS

Vending machines are not new. The first American patent was granted Frederick G. Lynde, a Briton, for an automatic vending apparatus" in 1886. Since then, vending machines have been on the lowly side of merchandising, first for penny candies and gum, later various 5-cent items, then for cigarettes, drinks, sandwiches and hot dishes.

But the ceiling has long been that of a single coin. Twenty-tive cents was long the limit. Then new apparatus was designed to take multiple silver coins and to make change. But the ceilings were still low. So few people had more than two quarters at airports that the insurance companies installed pretty girls in booths for those who wanted to shoot the works, on their lives by betting from $1 to $5 the plane would crash.

Now, the long talked-about machine that will accept paper money and return the correct change has been put in operation.

In fact, there have been two of them.

CURRENCY SCANNED

One was installed in Macy's downtown New York store. By hooking up a bill-changing machine to a vending machine, it is possible to buy men's shorts by depositing $1, $5 or $10 in bills and getting along with the shorts, the correct change.

The other, the Vendaticket, has been placed on display in Baltimore and isn't selling anything except confidence in vending. It can sell theatre, sports, airline and almost every other kind of ticket.

Two corporations, Universal Match and Universal Controls, have been cross-licensing their patents and adding their own skills to make these machines possible.

While there is considerable mystery about how these machines distinguish U. S. from foreign currency, good money from counterfeit, and $1 bills from $5 $10 and $20, you can learn here that it is done by electronic scanning devices. Unless a $5 bill deposited corresponds with every detail of an electronic image, the depositor gets it back — and a secret alarm may be sounded offstage.

With security against cheating promised, with assurances of low-cost merchandising assured, every big merchandiser in the country will soon be studying these new vending machines and calculating ways in which they may reduce sales costs. It may do more for mrchandising than the Model T did for motoring.

OLD PROMOTER WARNS OF SWITCHES ON BARGAIN AUTOS

"There are great bargains in new 1960 cars," the Old Promoter reminded us on his visit today. "But," he added, "check the accessories."

"Tell us more!" we said, thrusting a cigar into his yielding face.

"A few sharp dealers, selling a new 1960 car at a sharp discount, will be tempted to take off the tires and put on a cheap brand. Or they may be tempted to take out the radio and put in a cheaper import. And there are other components and extras that can be switched. A dishonest dealer can save $100 to $200 on a distress sale."

"What can I do?" we asked.

"Make the dealer specify on the bill of sale that all equipment is standard. Then if a check later shows substitutions, kick to the manufacturer. Most will make good, and some will jerk the dealer's franchise."

Many Bonds Issued

By ROGER BABSON

EN ROUTE HOME — The direct debt of our Federal Government today, for which government bonds or short-term bills are issued, is approximately $240 billion.

WHEN YOU BUY GOVERNMENT BONDS

This means that when you buy a government bond as the best possible security, you should realze that many billions in these bonds have been issued. They are looked upon by banks, educational institutions, and other investors like yourself as the safest place in which to have one's money, but it is not generally realized how many such bonds are outstanding. It is as if you were buying shares of stock in a corporation and looked only at the price without giving any attention to the number of shares issued.

In addition to these bonds, the government has also guaranteed billions of dollars in other fiscal obligations. These are known as "contingent liabilities," such as the guaranteed home mortgages, loans to farmers, aid to colleges, hospitals, veterans, etc. Although the U.S. is the greatest country in the world, it is very generous and extravagant. Furthermore, if we should go into a depression the Federal Government would take on some liabilities of states, municipalities, farmers, veterans, and many business concerns in order to prevent bankruptcies.

THE U.S. HAS MANY GOOD INVESTMENTS

All of the money being spent on armaments is not spent on missiles and other forms of explosives. When I visited Cape Canaveral in Florida and saw one of the missiles explode (all of us were in an underground vault watching via television), I saw a million dollars evaporate in a few seconds. This is not true of many military expenditures. The radar system which encircles this country to give us advance notice of enemy bombers is a good investment, — as are also our nuclear submarines, airplane fields, highways, etc.

I recently visited Washington, D. C., and was astonished to find that our Federal Government is building the largest and best airfield in the world. It is primarily for jet planes, and has runways two to three miles in length. War or no war, this is surely a good investment. This airfield is about 20 miles from Washington and the government is building a straight new highway from the airfield to the center of Washington. But this is not all. Some 12 miles south of the airfield is planned a most elaborate electronic control center on 20 acres of land.

This control center will look like an ordinary two-story office building in front, with walls of glass and stainless steel. Behind it will be a high building which will look like a mammoth safe-deposit box with cement walls 16 inches thick. There will be emergency living accommodations in the basement for the workers. In addition to the cost of the land and the building, it is said that the electronic devices therein will run over $3 million. No structure will stand a direct hit from an atomic bomb. But while it is believed that a bomb from an airplane or a missile from some Russian satellite could destroy Washington, it would not necessarily harm these buildings or the people and machinery therein. The only danger would be the fallout. To eliminate this there will be tanks on the roof which will hold 100,000 gallons of water, which, in 2 hours, would clear the roof of any contamination from fallout. I understand that mammoth airfields and structures similar to this are planned for areas near all the largest cities.

Regardless of what is said in Congress or by Presidential candidates, we should realize that expenditures have to increase rather than decrease. A tremendous effort must be made to keep the budget in fair balance in order to protect our gold supply and our credit abroad. The U.S. dollar must be kept sound as a means of protection. It is foolish to talk about reduced taxes. With the exception of reducing foreign aid and help to farmers, veterans, and other

AP Survey Indicates Sen. Kennedy Gaining On Nixon

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP)—Democrat John F. Kennedy apparently has pulled almost even with Republican Richard M. Nixon as they spring toward the finish in their hectic race for the presidency.

But a new Associated Press survey indicates that—with election day only three weeks ahead—neither candidate has been able to grasp a clear advantage in 17 states numbering nearly half of the 537 electoral votes.

It is among this undecided group that the winner likely will be decided. He will need 269 electoral votes.

This latest AP checkover of the political situation in all 50 states gave some evidence that Sen. Kennedy might be gaining an edge in some of the big doubtful states—like New York (45), Pennsylvania (32), California (32), and Michigan (20).

At the same time, some of the states in this group seemed to be tending toward Vice President Nixon—Minnesota (11), Utah (4) and New Mexico (4).

And in a number of states credited either to Kennedy or Nixon, it was possible the balance might tip the other way before voting time.

The survey indicates:

Nixon is ahead in 19 states with 141 electoral votes. Kennedy is credited with the lead in 14 states with 129 electoral votes. In a few Southern states, a scattering of Democratic electors might not vote for Kennedy even if he won their states.

The 17 states rated as tossups account for 267 electoral votes—close to enough to elect a president by themselves.

In the previous survey two weeks ago. Nixon was regarded as out front in 22 states with 161 electoral votes; Kennedy as leading in 14 states with 123 votes. And 14 states with 253 votes were listed as in doubt.

Thus, the indication is that Nixon has dropped by three states and 20 electoral votes. Kennedy has the same number of states as the last time—14—but has added 6 votes. And the doubtful group has grown by three states.

Kentucky (10), Colorado (6) and Arizona (4) moved from the Nixon column into the tossup class. Louisiana (10) went from the doubtful group into Kennedy's column. And Montana (4), rated last time as for Kennedy, slipped into the doubtful category.

Other tossup states: Ohio (25), Texas (24), North Carolina (14), Missouri (13), Tennessee (11) and Mississippi (8).

As before, the new AP survey combined the observations of its own veteran political reporters, the judgments of seasoned newspaper analysts, the opinions of political leaders and the results of certain reliable polls.

The material was gathered during the past week and might not reflect the full impact of th growing dispute between Kennedy and Nixon over the offshore Chinese islands of Quemoy and Matsu.

However, it does reflect some effects of the first two Nixon-Kennedy TV debates.

In Washington state (9) and Wisconsin (12), for example, some observers felt Nixon might have gained on Kennedy in the second face-to-face test. On the other hand, Kennedy seems to have benefitted in Colorado (6) and Wyoming (3).

The religious issue continues to be an unknown quantity. From some states, there are reports it is slacking off. From others, the word is that Kennedy's Roman Catholic religion is hurting his chances.

In the past two weeks, Kennedy's prospects have looked rosier in some of the Southern states that had looked shaky or worse for him.

The AP survey indicates these states now are considered for Nixon, to a greater or lesser extent: Delaware (3), Hawaii (3), Florida (10), Idaho (4), Illinois (27), Iowa (10), Indiana (13), Kansas (8, Maine (5), Nebraska (6), New Hampshire (4), North Dakota (4).

Also, Oklahoma (8), Oregon (6), South Carolina (8), South Dakota (4) Vermont (3), Virginia (12), Wyoming (3).

Considered for Kennedy, by varying degrees: Alabama (possibly 9 of 11), Alaska (3), Arkansas (8) Connecticut (8), Georgia (maximum of 12, possibly only 8), Louisiana (10), Maryland (9), Massachusetts (16), Nevada (3), New Jersey (16).

Also, Rhode Island (4), Washington (9), West Virginia (8), Wisconsin (12).

Here is a rundown that indicates the way the Nixon-Kennedy contest is shaping up in each of the Southern states (with each state's electoral vote in parentheses):

ALABAMA (11)—No substantial change from earlier survey when Nixon supporters privately conceded the state probably would vote Democratic. Recent survey by the Montgomery Advertiser indicates Kennedy may get as many as nine of state's electoral votes if Democrats win here—5 loyalists pledged to him and 4 of 6 unpledged states righters. The other two are unlikely to vote for Kennedy in any case.

ARKANSAS (8)—Going for Kennedy by comparatively close count. Gov. Orval E. Faubus says a private poll so indicates. Republican Winthrop Rockefeller, who lives here, recently conceded the state to Kennedy.

FLORIDA (10)—Nixon the frontrunner, but Kennedy - Johnson forces appear to be pulling up. Johnson's two-day swing last week was counted on to help and some Democrats feel the TV debates with Nixon are boosting Kennedy's stock. Withdrawal of Faubus from Florida ballot as presidential candidate of the national states rights party figures to help Kennedy.

GEORGIA (12) — Democratic party leaders claim Georgia is safe for Kennedy, although they have been spurred to an unusual effort by aggressive Republican campaigning. Four of Georgia's Democratic presidential electors still have not committed themselves to the national ticket, giving rise to the possibility Kennedy might not get their electoral votes even if he captures the state.

KENTUCKY (10) — Nixon previously was credited with a slight advantage, but the Blue Grass State now seems to be a tossup. Kennedy has made four trips here and was warmly greeted each time. However, opposition to Kennedy apparently lingers in some areas principally because he is a Roman Catholic.

LOUISIANA (10)—Reports indicate Louisiana is moving firmly into the Kennedy camp after being rated doubtful. The move toward Kennedy may have been pushed along by recent Supreme Court refusal to grant Louisiana a rehearing in the controversial tidelands case.

MISSISSIPPI (8)—The Republicans and two Democratic factions—one loyal to the national ticket and the other backing unpledged electors—are in a three-cornered battle that could go any way. Loyalist Democrats seem to be closing up on the unpledged group backed by Gov. Ross Barnett. Republicans, expecting good support in Jackson and other cities and scattered help in the counties, could take it all. Most politicians say privately Kennedy's religion hurts him.

NORTH CAROLINA (14) — A battleground, with both sides sending in top party figures to try to sway the balance. Veteran political writers agree it's close, but split on any trend. Some say the Democrats are on the upbeat, others give the nod to Nixon. Two polls—one by the Charlotte News and the other by the Greensboro Daily News—show Nixon leading in their areas.

SOUTH CAROLINA (8) — Kennedy and Johnson both courted the Palmetto State last week—the first time, by the way, that a Democratic presidential candidate ever bothered with South Carolina. But most political observers anticipate a narrow Republican win.

TENNESSEE (11)—Because the depth of the religious issue cannot be gauged with any certainty. Tennessee must be considered a tossup. Were it not for the religious question, Tennessee could be classified as leaning toward Kennedy.

VIRGINIA (12)—Despite a noticeable shift toward Kennedy in the past two weeks, Nixon appears to be clutching the lead here. Kennedy's campaign manager in Virginia and Gov. J. Lindsay Almond believe that if the Democrats can keep up their momentum, Kennedy should be able to come out on top. This view gets support from newspaper polls in Richmond and Norfolk. Some Democratic chiefs say the outcome may turn on whether Kennedy personally carries his campaign to the state's big population areas.

More Than 100 Students In ECC Marching Band

More than 100 student musicians at East Carolina College are participating during the 1960-1961 term in activities of the college Marching Band, Director Herbert L. Carter has announced.

At football games on the campus this fall the Marching Band has staged half-time shows which have received from spectators much favorable comment on their originality and attractiveness. The ensemble appeared by invitation before 20,000 people attending the rally for Sen. John F. Kennedy in Greenville Sept. 17 and took part in events of Homecoming Day for Alumni at the college October 15.

Plans for the annual spring tour of the band are now being made. Rehearsals for this event and for programs on the campus during the school year are in progress.

Members of the band, all carefully selected because of their talent, include the following from PITT COUNTY — Luther Ronald Finch of Greenville, bass; Melburne Blackwell of Greenville, cornet-trumpet; Bruce S. Hart of Pactolus, cornet - trumpet; Mildred Elizabeth Derrick of Greenville, clarinet;

Joann Parks of Greenville, clarinet; Sara Smiley of Greenville, clarinet; Mack Worthington of Winterville, trombone; Sue Worthington of Winterville, clarinet; Jolinda Brewer of Greenville, majorette; and Elizabeth Rogers of Greenville, majorette.

Enough paper napkins were made in the United States last year to make a sheet long enough to go around the world 700 times.

Plane Hit House, None Are Killed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A single-engine plane stalled shortly after take-off from North Columbus Airport Sunday and crashed into a house. The plane's four occupants were injured, but a couple in the house were unharmed.

The pilot was Robert Keller, 28, who was taking the plane up as part of an air show to celebrate his becoming manager of the airport, the Ohio Highway Patrol said. Dennis Speakman, 29, was going to make a parachute jump from the plane.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Tedrick were in the living room of the frame house when the plane crashed through the roof over the kitchen a few feet away. The kitchen was wrecked.

The Cessna 172 hooked onto the roof and hung there. The plane did not burn.

PAUL GALLICO'S NEW BESTSELLER

Mrs. 'Arris Goes to New York

CHAPTER 21

At the abrupt, and though not wholly unexpected, but still startling piece of news that Mr. Schreiber had found little Henry's father, Mrs. Harris leapt from the edge of the seat she had taken as though propelled by the point of a tack, and cried, "Blimen—'ave you? 'Oo is he? Where is he?"

But Mr. and Mrs. Schreiber did not react to her excitement and enthusiasm. Nor did they smile. Mr Schreiber said, "You'd better sit down again, Mrs. Harris. It's a kind of a funny story. You'll want to take a grip on yourself."

Something of the mood of her employers now communicated itself to the little charwoman. She peered at them anxiously. She asked "What's wrong? Is it something awful? Is 'e in jyle?"

Mr. Schreiber played with a paper cutter and looked down at some papers on his desk before him, and as Mrs. Harris followed his gaze she saw that it was U. S Air Force stationery similar to the kind she had received, plus a photostatic copy of something. Mr. Schreiber then said gently, "I think I'd better tell you, it's — ah — I'm afraid, someone we know. It's Kentucky Claiborne."

Mrs. Harris did not receive the immediate impact of this statement. She merely repeated, "Kentucky Claiborne little 'Enry's dad." And then as the implications of the communication hit her with the force of an Atlas missile she let out a howl. "Ow! What's that you say? 'IM little 'Enry's dad? It can't be true!"

Mr. Schreiber eyed her gravely and eaid, "I'm sorry. I don't like it any better than you do. He's nothing but an ape. He'll ruin that swell kid."

Waves of horror coursed through Mrs. Harris as she too contemplated the prospect of this child who was just beginning to rise out of the mire falling into the hands of such a one. "But are you sure?" she asked.

Mr. Schreiber tapped the papers in front of him and said, "It's all there in his Air Force record —Pansy Cott, little Henry, and everyone."

"But 'ow did you know? 'Oo found out?" cried Mrs. Harris hoping that somewhere, somehow yet a mistake would have occurred which would nullify this dreadful news.

"I did," said Mrs. Schreiber. I should have been a detecative, I always said so — like Sherlock Holmes. I got a kind of a nose for funny business. It was while he was signing his contract."

Mrs. Schreiber said, "It was really brilliant of Joel." Then her feelings too got the better of her, and she cried, "Oh, poor dear Mrs. Harris, and that poor, sweet child—I'm so sorry."

"But I don't understsand," said Mrs. Harris. "What's it got to do with 'is contract?"

"When he signed it," said Mr. Schreiber, "he used his real name, George Brown. Kentucky Claiborne is just his stage name."

But there was a good deal more to it as Mr. Schreiber told the story, and it appeared that he really had displayed acumen and intelligence which would have done credit to a trained investigator. It seemed that when all the final details were settled and Kentucky Claiborne, Mr. Hyman, his agent, Mr Schreiber, and the battalions of lawyers for each side gathered together for the signing of the momentous contract and Mr. Schreiber cast his experienced eye over it, he came upon the name "George Brown" typed at the bottom and asked, "Who's this George Brown feller?"

Mr. Hyman spoke up and said, "That's Kentucky's real name — the lawyers all say he should sign with his real name in case some trouble comes up later."

Mr. Schreiber said that he felt a queer feeling in his stomach — not that for a moment he suspected that Claiborne could possibly be the missing parent.

The qualm, he said, was caused by the contemplation of how awful it would be if by some million-to-one chance it might be the

They went on with the signing then, and when George Brown alias Kentucky Claiborne thrust his arm out of the sleeve of his greasy black leather jacket to wield the pen that would bring him in ten million dollars, Mr. Schreiber noticed a number, AF 28636794, tattooed on his wrist.

Mr. Schreiber had asked, "What's that there number you've got on your wrist, Kentucky?"

The hillbilly singer, smiling somewhat sheepishly, had replied, "That's mah serial number when Ah was in the Air Borce. Ah could never remember it nohow, so Ah had it tattooed."

With a quick wit and the sangfroid that would have done credit to Bulldog Drummond, the Saint, James Bond, or any of the fictional international espionage agents, Mr. Schreiber had committed the serial number to memory, written it down as soon as the ceremony was over and he was alone, and had his secretary send it on to Air Force Headquarters in the Pentagon Building in Washington.

Three days later it was all over: back had come the photostat of the dossier from the Air Force records, and Mr. Kentucky Claiborne was unquestionably the George Brown who had married Miss Pansy Amelia Cott at Tunbridge Wells on Spril 14, 1950, and to whom on September 2 a son was born, christened Henry Semple Brown.

To make matters completely binding, a copy of the fingerprints were attached and a photograph of an irritable-looking GI who was incontrovertibly Mr. Kentucky Claiborne ten years younger and minus his sideburns and guitar.

Mrs. Harris inspected the evidence while her mind slowly opened to the nature and depth of the catastrophe that had suddenly overwhelmed them. The only worse thing that could befall little Henry than to be brought up in the poverty-stricken, loveless home of the Gusets was to be reared by this ignorant, selfish, self-centered boor who despised everything foreign, who had hated little Henry on sight, who hated everything and everyone but himself, who cared for nothing but his own career and appetite, and who now would have a vast sum of money to splash about and cater to them.

Mrs. Harris in her romantic fancy had envisioned the unknown, faceless father of little Henry as a man of wealth who would be able to give the child every comfort and advantage; she was shrewd enough to realize that unlimited wealth in the hands of such a person as Claiborne would be deadlier than poison, not only to himself but to the boy.

And it was smack into the fire of such a situation and into the hands of such a man that Mrs. Harris was plunging little Henry after snatching him from the frying pan of the horrible Gussets.

If only she had not given way to the absurd fancy of taking little Henry to America. With the ocean between he might still have been saved.

With designing reason, Mrs. 'Arris takes out her Dior dress, momento of her trip to Paris. The story continues tomorrow.

Hollywood Not Now Center Of Industry

Editor's Note—Once there was a day when you could count on finding just about all of movieland's brightest stars right here in little old Hollywood, living it up in lavish style. Nowadays a goodly percentage of the big flicker names shun the place for foreign shores. A startling percentage of the movies they toil in are made in other lands. They call it "runaway production," and AP columnist Bob Thomas tells all about it in three articles, starting today.

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Twinkle twinkle, movie star,
Why do you live so afar?
Hollywood is nice for sun.
But taxes there are not much fun.

That rhyme might be applied to a situation that is causing concern and controversy in the film world. More and more movie production by American companies is shifting to foreign countries. Hollywood labor has raised an outcry, but the effort is largely futile.

Take a look at the production schedule for major film companies last week. Of 24 films shooting, 13 were out of the country. Two were being filmed entirely on location elsewhere in the United States, six partly on location elsewhere in the United States, six partly on location and partly in Hollywood. Only three were being made entirely in Hollywood.

Contrast this with 20 years ago, when less than 5 per cent of Hollywood films were made on location.

The movie unions, hard hit by the move of production overseas, have tried to fight back with resolutions and threats of action. The cameraman's union has decried the stars who establish residence overseas for a tax advantage.

Principal target has been William Holden, a member of the growing film colony of Switzerland. The cameramen have threatened to picket his films made abroad.

Holden has replied that he lives in Switzerland for a central location to his worldwide film work and business enterprises.

"I'm not trying to beat taxes," he told the AP's Jim Bacon recently. "Hell, I'm paying more taxes now than I ever have in my career." He says he pays top-bracket income taxes in six countries.

The cameramen have also dubbed Ava Gardner a "runaway star." Union memgers recently picketed the showing of a Gardner film here. The action was called off when it developed there were more pickets than patrons.

Herb Aller, business agent of the 1,000-member union, explained why cameramen are militant: "We're the only studio union that can't get work in other industries or other cities. Movies are the only work we can do. Our members have been hard hit by the production slack. But our motive is not merely economic. We hate to see Hollywood decline as a center of culture."

Are the so-called runaway stars really guilty in the swing of production overseas?

A top Hollywood lawyer says no. "Bill Holden is the only top name who doesn't want to work here," he said. "Bill wants to be able to keep a fair share of what he earns. Can you blame him for trying to protect the future of his wife and children?

"As for Ava, she lives abroad because of emotional reasons. She didn't want to work in Hollywood any more after the split with Frank Sinatra.

"The real guilt in the move of production overseas lies with the U.S. government in not protecting the interests of the American film industry overseas."

Arrested As Spy For Red Regime

PARIS (AP)—A former Polish count, now a naturalized French citizen, was arrested today and accused of spying for the Polish Communist regime.

Jacques de Hauss de Broncza, 52, a Paris chemical engineer who was once a member of the Polish nobility, was formally charged with treason.

French counterintelligence police said De Broncza had furnished the Polish consulate with documents on the treatment of metals used in building jet plane airfields.

It takes two tons of iron ore, a ton of coke and a half ton of limestone to make one ton of pig iron.

Stresses Role Of Accountants

The responsibility of the accountant is "to take financial information and attempt to decode it so as to make it useful to management in the control of business," Charles H. Adderholdt, Goldsboro CPA, told members of the Society for the Advancement of Management at East Carolina College Wednesday.

Mr. Adderholdt addressed student members of the organization and faculty members of the college department of business at a meeting in the Rawl building on the campus. He was honor guest of SAM officers at a dinner preceding the program.

His talk emphasized three chief responsibilities of the accountant —recording; stewardship, or keeping up with assets and indebtedness of a business; and reporting promptly and accurately at the close of an accounting period.

"In dealing with taxes," he said, "the accountant's position has not been settled He is thought of as an advocate of private enterprise rather than a tax expert."

Though accounting is a part of management, he stated, the accountant should stick to his particular field and not take over other managerial functions.

Believe Fears Led To Death

CULLOWHEE, N. C. (AP)—Authorities believe the fear that he would be charged with breaking parole contributed to the death of Carl Coggins, 28, a construction worker.

Coggins drowned in the fog-shrouded Tuckaseigee River near here Saturday night while running from a State Highway patrolman after a minor automobile accident.

Coggins of Cullowhee, wasn't driving. But authorities believe he fled for fear he would be charged with breaking parole, still in effect for a previous law violation.

Protests 'Perverting' Of Reformation Sunday

NEW YORK (AP)—The executive director of the Fair Campaign Practices Committee has protested what he calls the plan of many Protestant churches to "pervert" Reformation Sunday by turning it into an anti-Catholic, anti-Kennedy rally.

Some conservative Protestants, seeking to defeat Sen. John F. Kennedy because he is a Roman Catholic, have announced plans to deliver anti-Catholic sermons on the anniversary.

Meanwhile, a prominent Protestant Episcopal churchman says a flood of anti-catholic literature has all but stopped rational discussion of legitimate issues in the presidential election.

Bruce K. Felknor, director of the Fair Campaign practices Committee, said in a lay sermon at the Bedford, N.Y., Presbyterian Church Sunday: "I am ashamed to say to you that this anniversary in 1960 will be perverted from a sacred to what I think is a quite profane use in many churches in our country."

Reformation Sunday, Oct. 30, marks the day in 1517 when Martin Luther nailed to a Wittenberg Cathedral door his "ninety-five theses," thus initiating the Protestant Reformation.

Felknor, a Presbyterian, said, "In every election cursed by dirty campaigning, the worst lies always appear at the last minute.

"Article VI of the Constitution is unequivocal: 'But no religious test shall ever be required as a qualification to any office or public trust under the United States.'

Dr. George Ford, Wheaton, Ill., director of the National Association of Evangelicals, announced Saturday that a massive campaign will be launched next Sunday dealing with the role of the Catholic church in the presidential election. The movement will be climaxed reformation Sunday he said.

Church Is Asked Endorse Banning Nuclear Tests

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—The United Lutheran Church in America was asked today to adopt a resolution calling for the outlawing of nuclear tests.

The Board of Social Missions of the UCLA presented the test ban proposal to the church's 22nd biennial convention. The resolution, if adopted, would call on nuclear powers "to persist in the efforts to arrive at effective multilateral agreements on the cessation of all kinds of nuclear weapons testing."

"In the meantime," it continues, "in view of the health hazards from radioactive fallout and the danger inherent in further accelerating the weapons build - up through nuclear experimentation, we urge that the present moratorium on testing be continued."

The statement said war is always a threat but denied that war is inevitable.

Another proposed resolution would call for the abolition of capital punishment.

The statement supporting it said repeated statistical studies "do not bear out the assumption that capital punishment is an effective deterrent to crime."

"This is also confirmed by the increased knowledge of the psychological and social causes of crime," it added.

The UCLA claims about 2,500,000 members in 4,600 congregations in the United States and Canada. In the most significant action of the current convention, delegates voted 640-1 last Friday to merge with three other Lutheran churches to form a denomination of 3,100,000 members.

First Automatic Post Office Soon Going In Service

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP)—The nation's first automatic post office—a marvel of chutes, slides, conveyors and mechanical brains—is scheduled for dedication next Thursday.

The Post Office Department says it feels fewer hands will push through a larger volume of mail in shorter time with the aid of the new mechanical and electronic devices.

About 500 employes will work in the new post office, handling about 1½ million pieces of mail a day.

Postal officials say the new post office will have about 50 fewe employes than the present downtown Providence Post Office but will handle approximately a half million more pieces of mail daily.

The building is 420 feet long and 300 feet wide and cost $20 million to build.

The post office is equipped with four electronic machines which have been used separately before in the United States or Europe but never before as linked units under one roof.

The four major electronic machines are:

1. Six cullers with vibrating trays which shake the mail apart, pushing aside small packages and other odd bits of mail while permitting normal letter mail to slide past onto a conveyor belt. The belt eventually takes the letters to face cancelers. The small packages and odd-sized mail go to a point where they can be handled by hand.

2. Six face cancelers which turn the letters address side up and cancel the stamp. The machine is equipped with a scanning light which locates the stamp for the canceling unit. A total of 24,000 letters and cards can be faced and canceled by the machine each hour.

3. A 15-ton letter sorter. With the use of a key punch code system, operated manually, the machine carries each letter separately along a belt and drops the letter in any one of 300 bins, depending on its destination. The letters in the bins are picked out by hand, tied mechanically, and sent along in trays for sacking or distribution by carriers.

4. A package-sorting machine. Packages are sorted before clerks code each one. The code cards and packages move along a belt until a memory unit on the machine tips each one into its proper destination bin.

Each sack of outgoing mail is coded with the aid of a switch on the hook holding the bag so it can be dropped off automatically at one of 70 slides ringing the building.

The slides pile the sacks for movement into trucks.

A snail spreads mucus on the surface it plans to cross which protects it so well it can move along the edge of a razor blade.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

At least 22 persons died by violence in North Carolina during the weekend, most of them in highway accidents. But drownings also claimed a heavy toll.

ECC Freshmen Elect Officers

William P. Eyerman of Fort Bragg, N.C., was chosen by freshmen at East Carolina College as their president for the 1960-61 term in elections held on the campus last week.

Eyerman won over two opponents in the first balloting. Also elected at this time was Polly L. Bunting of Williamston, treasurer. Four other candidates were selected in a run-off election Thursday.

Eyerman is a graduate of the Fayetteville High School, where he was an honor-roll student, a class officer, and one of the school's group of senior superlatives. At East Carolina he is majoring in the social studies and physical education. He is the son of Dr. and Mrs. M.F. Eyerman of Fort Bragg.

Other officers chosen as leaders in East Carolina's freshmen class of more than 1,700 students, largest first-year group in the history of the college are Robert Christesen of Washington, D.C., vice president; Linda H Whitworth, Raleigh, secretary; C. Thomas Mallison, Jr., Greenville, and Marsha F. Whitworth of Norfold, Va., senators on the Legislature of the Student Government Association.

Mrs. Annette Burgess of Greenville acted as chairman of elections for the SGA.

Gavin Tours In Coastal Carolina

RALEIGH (AP) — Republican gubernatorial candidate Robert Gavin will be in coastal North Carolina today and his Democratic opponent, Terry Sanford, will campaign in the Piedmont.

Gavin has scheduled tours of the area around Manteo, Washington and Edenton and will appear tonight at a Lions Club meeting in Edenton.

Sanford will speak to the fall meeting of the Conservation and Development Board in Hickory and appear on the platform when U.S House Speaker Sam Rayburn, Texas Democrat, addresses a 10th Congressional District rally there.

Gavin will move west with appearances Tuesday in Burlington and Chapel Hill and Wednesday in Statesville. Saturday he will be in Raleigh to join Arizona Sen. Barry Goldwater when he delivers a political address.

Sanford will be with Rayburn Wednesday in Burlington for the Sixth District rally and then flies to Winston-Salem to introduce the party's vice presidential nominee, Lyndon Johnson, who speaks at the War Memorial there.

Sanford joins Adlai Stevenson Friday and Saturday with appearances in Clinton, Durham and Southern Pines.

SWEET CAPITOL

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — For a time things were mighty sweet at the Oklahoma Capitol. A swarm of bees attached 90 feet up the side of the building made a big batch of honey. The warm sun melted it causing the honey to stream down the wall like icicles.

East Carolina's Pirates, undoubtedly honed to a sharp emotional edge by a record-shattering homecoming crowd, shocked Western Carolina with a second period touchdown on a 90-yard pass interception, then fought the defensive war of their lives in the last half to repeatedly repel Catamount scoring threats and capture a noteworthy 7-6 victory.

Nine thousand persons, including numerous grads, were present in College Stadium on a hot and sticky afternoon marred several times with a couple of light showers. It was a crowd that cheered and marveled at East Carolina's defensive powers which preserved the North State Conference win and left friendly Jack Boone undefeated after five starts.

Mac Thacker, who is becoming about as popular as a one-dollar bill, filled in for All-Conference Glenn Bass and was the "man of the hour" when he intercepted a Ken Morgan pass on the EC 10 and hurried 90 yards for the only Pirate score of the afternoon.

Henry Kwiatkowski, about as accurate as a surgeon, toed the game-winning extra point. It was the senior tackle's ninth consecu tive perfect boot of the fall.

The long interception was the last offensive thrill for East Carolina rooters but for the Buc's nail-tough defense, the labor was just beginning.

The visiting Cats moved 53 yards early in the second period for their first threat. After being smothered on two running plays, Morgan, a sophomore quarterback, flipped a sideline pitch intended for Jack Spady.

Instead, Mac Thacker plucked the pigskin out of the air on the run and the Pirate blockers starting cutting would-be tacklers like an August harvest. The Henderson senior went on his scoring journey untouched and several blockers accompanied him into paydirt.

Its previously potent backfield stifiled by three crippled stars and a strong Western Carolina defense, East Carolina threatened only once and had to rely heavily on its defensive toughness.

East Carolina got its machine to functioning after kicking off and forcing WC to punt. Starting at the 26, Sonny Baysinger, Billy Strickland and Thacker had key runs in the drive and Bert Stafford completed a 15 yard pass to Bobby Bumgardner.

The drive was stopped at the WC 27 when a Stafford pass was intercepted by Ken Morgan.

Western Carolina used sheer power to punch the ball from its 29 to ECC's 18 early in the second period, seting the stage for Thacker's interception.

Tom Broadwater, All-Conference halfback, raced 21 yards for the key play in the drive. Halfback Boogie Bass and fullback Jamie Wilkes plowed for consistent chunks of ground.

After Thacker and Kwiatkowski combined for a 7-0 lead, it was a defensive battle the rest of the half. Western Carolina got the best of the match, picking up yardage on the exchange of punts.

Western, determined to weather ECC's depth-shallow forces with the constant change of personnel on a platoon basis, appeared to have the ruling gavel in the third quarter with a smooth-clicking ground assault.

Directed by Tobe Childers, the second unit swept from its 37 to the EC 25. A 15 yard penalty moved it to the 10 and uneasy hearts were beating in the stands. The Cats moved it to the two in two tries but at that point. EC's line failed to budge. On third down Jimmy Bryant made it to the one but on fourth couldn't get any closer than one-inch from scoring soil, with East Carolina taking possession.

The Cats were knocking again early in the fourth quarter. The Pirate ground forces again came up with a "Custer's last stand" and WC went for the field goal from the 14. Cecil Smith attempted the kick but it was wide.

Western finally hit the scoring sheet midway the final period with a drive that originated from the East Carolina 43.

Boogy Bass and Larry Thomas helped churn out the ground yard-

V.M.I.'s Dyer Writing History In SC Action

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Fabulous Howard Dyer has whizzed by the initial milestone in a season that no doubt will find the VMI quarterback rewriting most of the offensive records of Southern Conference football.

Though the 1960 season is only halt over, the first conference record already has toppled beneath the assault of Dyer's whiplash passing arm.

The "Mississippi Gambler" passed for three two-point conversions in VMI's 30-16 victory over Virginia last Saturday, and now has passed for seven in five starts. That's two above the old record of five set by West Virginia's Dick Longfellow in 1958.

Lined up in Dyer's sights are the records for total offense (1,227 yards), passing yardage (1,072) and points scored (78).

Since he already has 938 yards of total offense, including 802 by passing, Dyer seems a cinch to smash records in these categories, barring disabiling injuries.

His scoring total of 48 points leaves him quite a distance to go to smash the record set in 1953 by another VMI ace, Johnny Mapp, but it's easily the top production in the conference this year.

Trailing Dyer most closely is his teammate, Don Kern, with 40 points. Dyer scored twice, Kern once in the VMI win at Virginia.

Other high-scorers in the league include Furman's Tony Carmignani, tied for fifth with 24 points.

VMI, 3-0 in the conference, still leads the circuit but Virginia Tech (2-0) crept closer to the pace-setters Saturday with a 27-0 romp past William and Mary.

The Citadel (2-1) stayed up close to the leaders by whipping Richmond, 24-12, in another conference feature Saturday. John Clancy's 66-yard touchdown run highlighted the Bulldog offensive.

Bradley Fowler, just promoted to the first string, scored 22 points for Furman as the Hurricane breezed from behind and defeated Wofford, 41-26, in a non-conference affair.

West Virginia, which hasn't won yet, bowed to powerful Pitt 42-0, and George Washington fought Boston University to a 0-0 standoff in other non-conference action over the weekend.

Furman, 1-0 in the league, gets a chance to gain some ground this week when it plays host to The Citadel. Richmond (0-2-1) goes to Davidson (0-1) in another intra-conference contest. Non - conference activity finds VMI at Boston College, Virginia Tech meeting Virginia at Roanoke, and William and Mary at Florida State.

Teams Gunning For Old Miss In College Ranks

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

The heat's on Mississippi, but Ole Miss is playing it cool in a shot at its first national championshp in college football. Halfway through the campaign, the Rebels still are unbeaten, and haven't had any particular trouble in any of their five games.

That situation may change this weekend, however, when Mississippi plays Arkansas at Little Rock, where Ole' Miss has lost two of three in the past eight years. But Mississippi certainly did nothing to hurt it's No. 1 ranking in the Associated Press poll last Saturday night.

The Rebs rolled up 494 yards running and passing while beating Tulane 26-13. Quarterback Jake Gibbs again was the Rebel rouser, pitching three touchdown passes to end Johnny Brewer and running six yards for the other score.

While Mississippi was stretching its two-season winning streak to nine, second ranked Iowa (4-0) defeated Wisconsin 28-21, third-ranked Ohio State was spilled 24-21 by Purdue and fourth-rated Syracuse, the defending national champ, beat off stubborn Penn State 21-15 for a 15-game streak.

Navy and Missouri, continued to press the leaders. The Middies, ranked No. 5, won their eighth in a row by whipping Air Force 35-3 in the first meeting of the two service academies. Missouri (5-0), ranked No. 6, beat Kansas State 45-0.

Seventh-ranked Baylor (4-0) beat Texas Tech 14-7 as Ronnie Bull hauled a screen pass 50 yards for one TD, then went one yard for the other.

Clemson, rated eighth, was upset for the second year in a row by Maryland, 19-17. And ninth-ranked Kansas failed in its bid to overcome still-dangerous Oklahoma in the Big Eight, coming off with 13-13 tie in the Sooners' conference opener. Minnesota, rated No. 10, made a bid to move up by rocking Illinois 21-10. Only the Gophers and Iowa are unbeaten in the Big Ten.

Syracuse and Navy have another chance to pick up backers this weekend. Syracuse plays at West Virginia. Navy plays at Penn.

Among the contenders for the top 10, Washington (4-1) goes against Oregon State without All-America quarterback Bob Schloredt. The Huskies' ace suffered a broken collar bone in a 10-8 victory over UCLA that tightened Washington's grasp on the Big Five lead. Michigan State (2-1-1) goes against Indiana, after knocking Notre Dame 21-0. And Tennessee (3-0-1) meets Chattanooga, after beating back Alabama 20-7.

Duke, Clemson Battle For Top ACC Spot Saturday

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Another possible title game looms in the tightly packed Atlantic Coast Conference football scramble this week when Clemson takes its forces to first place Duke.

Duke kept its conference record clean Saturday with a 17-13 victory over previously unbeaten North Carolina State while Clemson touted to repeat as the conference champion, was upended 19-17 by Maryland. It also was Clemson's first loss of the season.

With Duke on top with a 3-0 ACC record and 4-1 overall, the Blue Devils immediately became the team to beat, replacing Clemson in that category. Optimistically, most of the other coaches think Duke can be had.

Clemson Coach Frank Howard remarked. "Don't count us out of the conference championship picture yet. They (Maryland) beat us last year and we won the conference championship."

Maryland's upset of Clemson was the second year in a row for the Terps to dump the Tigers, and again, the victory came on the passing of quarterback Dale Betty who fired two touchdown passes, the second which came in the final quarter to end Gary Collins and won the game.

"What makes you so mad—and makes you look so bad — is the tion—and we have only one consame passes and the same people beat you two years in a row," fumed Howard.

While Clemson and N.C. State perfect records were being spoiled Wake Forest, a pre-season favorite with Clemson, was winning its first game of the season, a 13-12 squeaker over North Carolina.

Coach Billy Hildebrand, in his first season as head Wake Forest mentor, said, "I think the boys are convinced now that they can play good football. With Maryland beating Clemson, I think we are still in the ACC race.

"I don't think any team is going to be unbeaten in ACC competi- ference defeat on our record. Yes, I think we are going to win it."

In addition to the Duke-Clemson brawl, South Carolina (0-1-3) is at North Carolina (0-2, 1-3) and Maryland (1-2, 2-3) is at Wake Forest (1-1, 1-3) in a night game in the ACC action Saturday. Virginia (0-2, 0-4) meets VPI at Roanoke and North Carolina State (3-1, 4-1) tangles with Mississippi Southern in a night game in the non-league games.

Virginia received its 22nd straight defeat last Saturday, a 30-16 drubbing from VMI and South Carolina was stopped by Miami 21-6 in a Friday night game.

age to within the 20. After picking up a first down on the 16, the Cats found running at the brutal EC line uneasy sailing again. But on fourth down, Morgan spotted Broadwater in the end zone, fired a perfect strike and it was 7-6.

Wanting a conference win badly, Western Carolina elected to go for the two-point conversion and a possible victory. Morgan tried it through the air but his pass was battered away by Baysinger and Tommy Matthews.

The Catamounts got one more shot with less than four minutes on the clock. Morgan made the final bid strickly through the air but Sonny Baysinger came up with a pass interception on the EC 34

East Carolina was able to ground out the final minute and the injured Glenn Bass injected offensive spark into the attack. Bass, called on to carry twice, almost saw daylight both times, picking up 25 yards and two first downs.

The victory equaled East Carolina's total number of wins in 1959, leaving them atop the North State Conference standings.

East Carolina was second in most statistics but Kwiatkowski's kick provided the victory margin, giving the Pirates their longest winning streak since the championship year of 1953 when they recorded six straight before being knocked from the unbeaten ranks.

Along with Thacker, the entire defensive line played a bang-up game for the winners. Drawing praise were Bobby Bumgardner, Jones Lockerman, Vernon Davis, Henry Kwiatkowski, Clayton Piland, Bob Gregson, Wayne Davis, Chuck Gordon, and Dempsey Williams.

Sonny Baysinger, the little junior college All-American, was also among the stars. Sidelined during the week with an injury, Baysinger made the pads pop from his halfback slot, causing several Catamount ends to drop perfect passes.

East Carolina steps into nonconference action this week against Newberry.

Casper Scores Third Straight

COSTA MESA, Calif. (AP) — Three straight might not be much of a winning streak in some sports, but it's been eight years since any golfer has done better on the tournament trial.

Now comes portly Bill Casper Jr. with a chance to make it four.

Casper, a 210-pounder who says he'd rather go fishing than golfing, scored his third consecutive tournament victory Sunday by shooting a two-under-par 69 in the final round of the $2,000 Orange County Open.

Casper came here after winning the Portland, Ore., and Hesperia, Calif., Opens. He next goes to Louisiana for the Cajun Open — of which he is the defending champion. If he wins there, he equals the four-in-a-row performance of Jack Burke Jr. in 1952.

Washington Rallies For Tie With Giants

By MIKE RATHET

Speedsters Lenny Moore and Bobby Mitchell, elusive packages of swinging hips and flashing feet, are dancing a touchdown jig in the pass-conscious National Football League while driving their teams toward divisional titles.

Mitchell, onetime Illinois standout in his third NFL campaign, returned a kickoff 90 yards for a touchdown, raced 30 yards for another and took a Milt Plum pass and ran 46 yards for a third score to pace the Cleveland Browns to a 48-7 thumping of the Dallas Cowboys.

Moore and Mitchell now are tied for the League's scoring lead with 42 points on seven touchdowns.

The Colt triumph, their third against one defeat, kept them in a tie for first place in the Western Division with the Chicago Bears, a half-game ahead of idle Green Bay. The Bears kept pace with a 27-10 victory over San Francisco.

The Browns' romp gave them a 3-0 record and edged them ahead of the defending New York Giants (3-0-1) in the Eastern Division. The Giants were tied by the Washington Redskins 24-24 on a touchdown pass by Ralph Guglielmi with 25 seconds left.

The Pittsburgh Steelers defeated the St. Louis Cardinals 27-14 and the Philadelphia Eagles whipped the Detroit Lions 28-10 in other games.

In the American League, Houston retained first place in the Eastern Division with a 20-10 win over Dallas and Denver kept the top spot in the West despite a 28-19 loss to Los Angeles. New York edged Buffalo 17-13 and Oakland beat Boston 27-14 to round out the program.

Moore's 57-yard burst in the second quarter shook the two-time champion Colts out of their lethargy after Lou Michaels' 51-yard field goal had given the winless Rams (0-4) a brief lead. Moore then plunged a yard for a 14-3 halftime margin and scored the clincher on his 34-yard scamper in the third period. Jon Arnett and Billy Wade scored Los Angeles' touchdowns.

With Mitchell running wild and Plum passing for two touchdowns, the Browns dealt the Cowboys (0-4) the worst defeat in the league this season.

Johnny Morris' 61-yard touchdown run gave the Bears a 13-3 lead in the second quarter. A 37-yard scoring jaunt by Morris and Ed Brown's 91-yard touchdown pass to Willie Dewveall put it out of reach for Chicago.

Guglielmi, completing 13 of 16 passes while bringing the Redskins (1-1-1) a 17-3 halftime deficit, arched a 23-yarder to Jim Podoley and Bob Khayat kicked the extra point to tie it against the Giants.

The Steelers (2-2) frustrated the Cards (1-3) with a pair of Bert Rechichar field Goals, Tom Tracy's four-yard touchdown run and a 26-yard scoring pitch from Bobby Layne to Buddy Dial which built a 20-0 lead.

Clarence Peaks' one-yard touchdown smash gave the Eagles (3-1) an insurmountable 14-0 margin at the half. Jim Martin's field goal and Joe Schmidt's 17-yard scamper with an interception brought the Lions (0-3) close before Van Brocklin sealed it with a 38-yard scoring toss to Bob Walston.

Face Home Folks

SUMTER, S. C., (AP) —Bobby Richardson, a New York Yankee hero of the World Series, says "I'd much rather play baseball before 70,000 people" than face the several hundred hometown folks who welcomed him back Sunday.

"I don't think I'm hot, I'm just nervous," said the perspiring second baseman after the ceremony.

Field Goals Play Important Part In Games

NEW YORK (AP) —Eight major college football games were decided by field goals over the weekend, as the three-point play continued its surge of popularity among the colleges.

Three of the decisive boots were in the Southeastern Conference, where eight games have been decided so far by field goals, and the season is not yet half finished. So far SEC booters have kicked 23.

Ed Dyas' 37-yard field goal put Auburn's crusher on Georgia Tech 9-7 Tech's Tommy Wells missed his first attempt after seven consecutive field goals this year, a national record.

Georgia's Durwood Pennington booted two, for 31 and 25 yards, in the Bulldogs 20-17 victory over Mississippi State, whose same Dantone chipped in with one. Clark Mayfield kicked one from 28-yards out for Kentucky's only points in a 3-0 upset of Louisiana State in another SEC game.

Arkansas upset Texas 24-23 on Mickey Cissell's 22-yarder in the final 15 seconds. It offset one of 25 yards by Texas' Dan Petty. George Fleming's 38-yard effort got Washington a 10-8 victory over UCLA.

Bob West of Tulsa matched Cissell for drama when he connected from 19 yards with 10 second to play that helped beat Arizona 17-16. Bill Joern of Holy Cross added a heart-stopper when his 30-yarder bounced over the crossbar with 20 seconds to play and gave the Crusaders a 9-8 victory over previously undefeated Dartmouth.

Walt Doleschal kicked a 20-yard field goal in the closing minutes as Lafayette edged Temple after his field goal the week before had beaten Delaware 3-0.

Bruins Rally For 21-6 Victory

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Guilford, with only one victory in four games, has proved it may make trouble in the North State Conference before the end of the football season.

The lowly Quakers threw a scare into mighty Lenoir Rhyne Saturday before the Bears won 21-6. Lenoir Rhyne went ahead 6-0 in the second period but Guilford tied the count at 6-6.

Then Lee Farmer caught fire and the Bears made it 15-6 at the half. Lenoir Rhyne got another touchdown in the third period, but was held scoreless in the final quarter.

East Carolina, leading the North State Conference with a 4-0 record, and unbeaten in five games, also was scared by Western Carolina. The Pirates finally won 7-6. Mac Thacker's 90-yard return of an intercepted pass was the margin.

In other games, Appalachian ran its record to 4-1 with a 12-7 victory over Catawba, and Elon lost to Tampa 31-0.

Lenoir Rhyne entertains Western Carolina next Saturday, Catawba plays at Elon, East Carolina is host to Newberry, Appalachian plays at Carson-Newman, and Guilford is idle.

Krause Wins Race Without Stops

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (AP)—Bill Krause's Birdcage Maserati had to be towed from the track, but that was after the Long Beach Calif., driver had won the Riverside Grand Prix for sports cars Sunday.

Krause, 27, made no pit stops during the 203.4—mile grind and his car ran out of fuel just after he got the checkered flag. He covered the distance in 2 hours, 13 minutes, 10 seconds for an average speed of 91.5 miles per hour. Krause took home $7,000 of the $25,950 pot.

Speedy Thompson Sets New Record

By KEN ALYTA

CHARLOTTE (AP) — Alfred (Speedy) Thompson, who didn't even have a car to drive in the $65,000 National 400-mile stock car race two weeks ago, today basked in the spotlight he had not known for more than three years.

The husky 34-year-old Charlotte welding shop operator made a belated connection with another racer Glen Wood of Stuart, Va., and agreed to drive his 1960 Ford in the inaugural National at Charlotte Motor Speedway Sunday.

Thompson made it a good deal for both men by grabbing the lead after Fireball Roberts of Daytona Beach, Fla., the pace-setter most of the way, blew a tire and was forced out with 33 laps to go. Thompson, seldom worse than second after 80 laps of the 267-lap race over the mile and one-half track, led all the way in after Roberts had to quit. Thompson's time was 112.905 miles an hour, a record for the new track.

The victory was worth $11,500 and was the first major score for Thompson since he won the Southern 500 three years ago at Darlington, S.C. He finished third the last four years in the Grand National Circuit point standings of the National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing.

Last July Thompson hit the low point of his up-and now so-so 1960 campaign when he blew a tire and cracked up, suffering several broken ribs in a race at Atlanta.

Stuart, who prefers to campaign at the smaller tracks, was looking for someone to drive his car here and, after he and Curtis Turner, veteran racer who heads the Speedway, failed to get together, Thompson got the assignment.

North Carolina drivers took the first four places. Junior Johnson of Ronda, in a 1960 Pontiac, was second, finishing in the same lap with Thompson, to win $4,725. Next came Richard Petty of Randleman, driving a 1960 Pl- -ith, to win $3,125. Ned Jarrett -on- over was fourth in his 19- -rd, winning $1,950.

Rex White, little Spartanburg, S.C., tiger, clinched the year's Grand National title with his fifth place finish in a 1960 Clevrolet to win $1,625. White has picked up 19,316 points to 15,380 for runner-up Richard Petty and there are not enough events remaining on the calendar for Petty to catch White.

Unofficial estimates placed the crowd at about 30,000 for the race which was slowed seven times, for 32 laps, by caution flags.

The most serious crackup casualty was 30-year-old Lenny Page of Buffalo, N.Y. Early in the race his car spun out on the fourth turn and the car driven by Don O'Dell of Phoenix, Ariz., crashed into Page's machine. Page was taken to a hospital in fair condition, suffering a neck wound and fractured ribs. O'Dell was unhurt.

Roberts led for 197 of the 267 laps to win $2,020 of the $2,770 lap awards. His 133.465 qualifying speed had won him the pole position.

Back of the first five came these drivers:

Bobby Johns, Miami, Fla., 1960 Pontiac, $1,275; Emanuel Zervakis, Richmond, Va., 1960 Chevrolet, $1,050; Tom Pistone, Chicago, 1959 Pontiac, $825; Jim Paschal, High Point, N.C., 1960 Plymouth, $700; Banjo Matthews, Asheville, N.C., 1960 Ford, $600.

About half of the 50 starters were on the track at the finish.

Former App Coach Dies Of Cancer

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)— Edward Cameron (Red) Duggins, 48, former head football coach at Appalachian State College, Boone, N.C., and Tampa University, died of cancer at a hospital Sunday.

Duggins coached at Murray State Teachers College, Murray, Ky., in 1958-59. He resigned last year to enroll at Peabody College here to work on a doctorate in education.

He became an assistant football coach at Appalachian in 1939, and went to Tampa University in 1940 as head coach.

After service in the Navy during World War II he returned to Appalachian in 1947 as head coach. He was replaced by Preston Mull in 1951, but returned in 1952 and continued through the 1956 season.

His Appalachian teams won three North State Conference titles and posted 61 victories against 23 losses and 3 ties.

Duggins, a graduate of Milligan College, received his masters degree from the University of Tennessee.

His widow survives. She is the former Jerry Watson of Burlington, N.C. They were married in 1957, and had no children.

The funeral will be conducted in his native Greeneville, Tenn., Tuesday.

An American Girl Learns Another Way of Life

On a German farm, the potato finds glory in the kitchen. It is made into salads and pancakes, it is boiled, baked, mashed and diced, often for two meals a day.

And now, an American girl has introduced potatoes-fried-in-ketchup. The culinary contribution of Sarah Ann House, a 20-year-old co-ed from Harrellsville, S. C., it was enjoyed heartily by the Heinrich Glasers, one of the five German families she has been living with since she arrived in Germany last April. She will return to the States, and to her classes at Wake Forest College, in Winston-Salem, N. C., in November. The Glaser farm is in Nordheim.

Sarah is one of the American young people who have been sent abroad under the International Farm Youth Exchange, sponsored in the United States by the National 4-H Club Foundation. While Sarah is in Germany, a German farm boy is living on her father's farm near Harrellsville. Some 1,000 families the world over have taken part in the program this year. The exchange is conducted for developing international understanding.

The Glasers developed a quick liking for Sarah, and she for them. Papa Glaser called her "my second daughter." Son Robert, 17, and daughter Erika, 20, adopted her as their "sister." Sarah made herself useful at once. She washed dishes, set the table, helped with the vegetable garden, did house-cleaning and laundering, and went shopping. "We're not here to learn how to farm," Sarah says. "We're here to learn about the people."

At the Glaser dinner table, Sarah Ann House, second from left, beams as Robert serves her apple juice.

"You can smell the difference," explains Herr Heinrich Glaser, as he shows his American guest, Sarah Ann House, how to tell sugar beets from fodder beets. Sugar beets are a major crop on the Glaser farm.

As her host "mother", Frau Glaser, checks stove, Sarah Ann House prepares to set kitchen table for lunch.

Sarah watches town cobbler Jakob Deichelmann at work. She will wear home pair of his heels.

Sarah joins in game of blind man's buff. Blindfolded player finally guessed her identity by perfume she wore.

Sarah and Erika Glaser take stroll on country road. The two girls became close friends.

Understanding In Unique Dialogue

By JULES LOH

NEW YORK (AP)—Serious advocates of the ever-growing dialogue between the great faiths of America demand one exacting test of the othe's sincerity: Conversation, rather than conversion, mus be the immediate goal.

Two publishers have passed th test admirably with new offerings which deserve close attention by persons interested in the religious problems of a pluralistic society.

"An American Dialogue," by Robert McAfee Brown and Gustave Weigel, S. J. (Doubleday & Co., Inc.) brings together candid discussions of Protestantism and Catholicism by two brilliant spokesmen for the two religious groups—but not in the usual way.

Father Weigel, a noted Jesuit author, lecturer and theologian, gives his views of Protestantism. Dr Brown, author and professor of systematic theology at Union Theological Seminary, takes a Protestant look at Catholicism.

The approach of each is not limited to his critical appraisal of the other's faith. Both recognize shortcomings in views frequently taken by members of their own groups, and politely chide their followers for them.

"How are Catholics to react," asks Presbyterian Dr. Brown, "when they are pilloried on such charges as these: "The church insists that everybody believe the same things (nobody can question the dogmas); the church has too many conflicting opinions (whom are we to believe about the relationship of church and state?).

"The church is basically a political entity (American cardinals who vote for a Pope should be deprived of citizenship and forced to register as aliens); the church is not a political entity at all (therefore we should not send an ambassador to the Vatican).

"Now I submit to my fellow Protestants," Dr. Brown writes, "that they cannot have it both ways."

On the other hand Catholics learn, from a respected priest, that contrary to what many of them think Protestants do not "feel free to believe anything they please."

They learn that Protestantism entails the belief, deserving of Catholic respect, that man can and does "encounter God immediately."

Father Weigel also notes "moments when the Catholic envies the Protestant's modernity," and points out that "in the Catholic Church there is always a suspicion of current time. Catholicism adjusts slowly to any given age."

This is not to say Dr. Brown and Father Weigel do not find much to criticize about the other. But their criticism is beyond surface irritations. Both probe deeply into basic differences (and similarities) with a thoroughness that produces for the reader a richer respect for his neighbor's beliefs.

"Facing Protestant - Roman Catholic Tensions". (Association Press) takes a somewhat different approach to the dialogue.

The book is a collection of writings by 13 Protestant and Catholic authorities who deal with specific issues as well as general subjects on which the two religious bodies are divided.

Like "An American Dialogue" it is bereft of what Father Weigel calls "oily flatteries of each other." But it takes a more straightforward approach to the man-in-the-street issues—Public education, church-state relations, birth control and the like.

Its format consists in one writer answering or commenting on the other's statements. None indulge in pointless recriminations, but neither do any of them wear gloves.

BIG HAUL

ALBUQUERQUE (AP)—Thieves sometimes go to great lengths to make a haul. An Albuquerque firm reports someone made off with a bright orange, 1,200 gallon water tank weighing 2,500 pounds from the top of a 10,000 foot mountain east of the city.

Raspberries, blackberries, dewberries, boysenberries and loganberries all are classified as brambles.

'Non-Political' Speaking Tour Begun By President

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower leaves today on a nine-day coast-to-coast speaking tour which will take him into some of the major battleground states of the presidential campaign.

With the election only three weeks off, the White House is calling the 6,728-mile trip nonpolitical. But many backers of the Nixon-Lodge ticket obviously hope the tour will reap dividends for the Republican standard bearers.

Traveling aboard an Air Force jet airliner. the President arranged a mid-morning departure for Detroit, first stop on a six-state itinerary which also includes a brief visit to Mexico.

Michigan with its 20 electoral votes is one of the key states being battled over by Vice President Richard M. Nixon, GOP candidate for the White House, and his Democratic rival, Sen. John F. Kennedy. Appearances in California and Texas, two other battleground states, also are scheduled, along with one in Minnesota.

After a long motorcade into Detroit, Eisenhower receives the key to the city at a public ceremony. The next stop on the program is at a downtown luncheon of business and professional women.

The main event on the President's Detroit calendar is a major address tonight at the 43rd National Automobile Show dinner.

In that address and the others he will make on this tour, Eisenhower, unless plans change, will make no direct plugs for the GOP ticket. But he is almost certain to talk of the record of his administration and his philosophy of Government, and Republican strategists are hoping that this plus the President's personal popularity, will pay off at the polls next month.

Eisenhower will remain overnight in Detroit and fly on Tuesday morning to Red Wing, Minn., for a speech dedicating the Hiawatha Bridge over the Mississippi River.

The President will travel to his boyhood hometown, Abilene,Kan., for a brief visit at the new Eisenhower Library and a stop at the grave of his mother and father. He is due in Denver late Tuesday afternoon and will remain there, visiting old Colorado friends and just taking it easy, until Thursday morning.

The next state on the itinerary is California, which has 32 electoral votes at stake. Eisenhower wil. address the Commonwealth Club in San Francisco Thursday evening and speak in San Diego Friday at a luncheon sponsored by the Chula Vista Rotary Club.

Then he will go on to the Palm Springs area, one of his favorite vacation spots, for a weekend of golf as the guest of George E. Allen, an old friend.

A week from today, the President will travel just south of the border for a brief meeting with Mexico's President Adolfo Lopez Mateos at Ciudad Acuna. It will be their third get-together in two years.

Mexico's Foreign Ministry said in a statement Sunday night that only matters of interest between the two countries will be discussed. The statement was issued to discount speculation that U.S.-Cuban relations might be considered when the two men meet.

After the meeting, Eisenhower will fly to Houston, Tex., for a motorcade and a speech that night before a special convocation of students and faculty at Rice Institute in Houston.

He returns to Washington the following day.

Mrs. Eisenhower is not accompaying her husband on the cross-country tour, mainly because of the recent death of her mother, Mrs. John S. Doud.

Public Shown New Model Cars, With No Problems

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—CBS, with the cooperation of the Detroit automobile manufacturers, had the bright idea of taking the new model cars to the public by television Sunday night.

It was, in many ways, an improvement over the old system of inviting the public into a hired hall to see the new models: No parking problems involving the public's old cars, no weary feet, no sales pitches.

All the cars looked beautiful, shiny and—to this viewer who hasn't been able to identify any make of car since they changed the shape of the Packard radiator—very much alike.

---

Art Linkletter headed up a good-humored and rather uninspired special on NBC Sunday night called "Love Is Funny." It consisted of a few songs and sweet sentiments on the main subject, a couple of comedy sketches by Betty Garrett and Alan Young, and a lot of those audience participation gags and gimmicks Linkletter is so fond of on "People Are Funny" and his daytime show.

Teen-agers who were feeling deprived after the disappearance of Dick Clark's weekend show will be happy with NBC's new "Saturday Prom."

All in all it was a low key weekend in the entertainment area. Politics was front and center in the public affairs shows and I'm looking forward now to election day after which we can get around to some other subjects.

---

Renee Taylor, a bright new face among the ranks of comediennes, shines much more brightly on Jack Paar's late evening show than she did in a bit on the Perry Como Show. Maybe writer Goodman Ace and his crew don't quite dig her brand of humor. NBC, in exchange for a million dollars, has rights for the annual Emmy awards telecast for the next five years. Dr. Frank Stanton, president of CBS, has joined the lengthening list of TV types dipping into book-writing. His, however, will not be an autobiography or joke book, but a study of "broadcast journalism."

---

Jack Bailey, M.C. of the daytime "Queen for a Day" show will be a guest Thursday on NBC's Ernie Ford Show.

Steve Allen will take on another dramatic role—this time playing a serious role of a psychiatrist in the Oct. 27 June Allyson Show. Shirley Temple will tackle another Mark Twain story, "The Prince and the Pauper," on Oct. 30.

Elvis Presley Is Hospitalized By A Broken Pinky

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—Elvis Presley was in a hospital today with a finger broken in a touch football game with a crowd of old high school chums.

The rock 'n' roll king, home from Hollywood for a rest, snapped the little finger on his guitar-strumming hand Sunday when he made a dive for the ball carrier and missed.

After surgery to set the finger, Presley, 25, was admitted to Baptist Hospital for an overnight stay.

Touch football is a favorite pastime for the famed singer, a frustrated halfback who wasn't able to try for the team at Humes High School because he had to work after school.

Two six-man teams made up of Presley and pals were playing on an elementary school field near the $100,000 Presley mansion when it happened.

"It didn't hurt bad," said Presley. "I didn't even know it was broken until one of the boys noticed it was twisted around over the next finger."

CHECKERS CASUALTY

McALESTER, Okla. (AP) — Scout leader George Clewlow suffered a sprained ankle while playing checks at camp. His foot was elevated and went to "sleep." When he banged it on the floor to restore circulation, he twisted his ankle.

Hotel Guests Came By 'Copter

BIRMINGHAM, Ala (AP)—Cpl. Robert W. Jennings of the Maryland State Police and Edward Zachman caused quite a stir when they checked into a hotel near here.

They parked their helicopter in a field next door Sunday.

Jennings, the pilot, and Zachman, a mechanic, were en route to Baltimore from Palo Alto, Calif., where the helicopter was purchased for use in police work in Maryland.

NEW YORK (AP) — Autos kept to the plus side as the stock market moved unevenly in quiet trading early this afternoon.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was unchanged at 210.70 with the industrials up .20, the rails down .20 and the utilities unchanged.

Gains and losses of most key stocks were fractionaly. Here and there a stock moved a point or so either way.

A brightening of the business news was being counteracted to some extent by the technical position of the market. The Dow Jones industrial average had rebounded to about the 600 level which was penetrated on the downside last month after holding all year. To some, it seemed like a good time to sell and "get out even."

Some aircrafts, steels and utilities edged ahead. Chemicals were mixed but showed some fairly sharp losses which depressed the average. Many other groups were irregular.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up .37 at 596.85.

Corporate bonds were mixed. U.S. government bonds were irregular.

Farm House Is Saved Saturday By Fire Depts.

PACTOLUS—Damage estimates today ran from $200 to $500 after fire departments from Stokes and Washington extinguished a fire west of here early Saturday night.

Washington firemen responded to a call about 6 p.m. to a two-story frame building on the Daniels Farm owned by George Cherry of Pactolus. Shortly afterward, some 15 members of the Carolina Township Volunteer Fire Department arrived.

According to Chief Frank Roebuck, of the Carolina department, the fire apparently was caused by faulty electrical wiring in the living room. The flames, he said, broke around a mantel beside a chimney.

No injuries were reported as a result of the fire. The house was occupied by Willie Arnold, a Pactolus farmer, and his family. It is located about one and one-half miles west of Pactolus on NC Highway 30.

Firemen battled the flames for about 30 minutes before the fire was extinguished.

Two Fishermen Towed To Safety

Two fishermen whose boat motor had quit, were towed to safety by members of the Greenville Rescue Squad near Grimesland late last night.

According to Squad Captain Jimmy Smith III, Don Lowry and Ann Peaden of Greenville were taken into tow by a Rescue Squad boat near the mouth of Chicod Creek about 10 p.m. when they were found paddling toward the Tar River and the Seine Beach.

The Squad was called out about 8:30 p.m. when residence of the Grimesland Beach reported that the two fishermen had failed to return to their car before dark, noting that there were no lights on the vehicle.

The two had been last seen in Chicod Creek, the squad was told.

A search was started and the two were found paddling their way back to shore near the mouth of the creek. Smith noted that a cigarette lighter was being used by the two to give them light.

Participating in the search were Smith, Bob Blanton, Harold Ross, Roger Page, Roy Hardee, Stuart Savage, Niel Eggleston, and Nat VanNortwick.
