Tar River Gave Up Its Victim

FISHERMAN'S BODY is carried away from scene.

Recover Body Of River's Victim

The body of Waylan Williams, 32-year-old Greenville Negro who drowned Sunday afternoon when his boat capsized, was pulled from the muddy waters of the Tar River a short distance down-stream from the spot where his fishing companion swam to safety.

Pitt County Coroner E. W. Harvey ruled the death "accidental drowning."

Rescue Squad members said the body was recovered at 2:05 p.m., just as the rescuers resumed their search after lunch.

Officers said Williams and a second man, J. D. Dillard, 35, of 1408 Ward St., were headed up river about a mile west of the Port Terminal Sunday, when the small craft overturned, throwing both men into the water.

Dillard, who swam to safety, was quoted as saying he saw Williams "swimming, then he went under."

Coroner Harvey noted that Williams lived at 1620 South Pitt St. with his wife and children.

The search for Williams' body was started about 4:30 p.m. Sunday, after Dillard reported the accident. The hunt was dropped at sundown and resumed early yesterday.

President Urges A Stronger UN

RED WING, Minn. (AP)—President Eisenhower called today for a ceaseless struggle to strengthen and assure success of the United Nations, target of Soviet Premier Khrushchev's bitter attacks.

"We dare not stumble," Eisenhower declared in asserting that the United Nations offers the foundation for elimination of the causes of war.

The President vigorously championed the international organization in a speech prepared for dedication of the Hiawatha Bridge spanning the Mississippi River at the Minnesota - Wisconsin boundary.

Eisenhower, on a cross-country speaking tour flew here from Detroit. In the Michigan City Monday night the President said all the world's free nations must share the burden of resisting the Red threat lest Communist propagandists "playing their Pied Piper's tune" make new inroads around the globe.

In the Detroit address at the 43rd auto show dinner, Eisenhower also dealt with a domestic situation. He said the time has come for labor and management to conduct their affairs with ever increasing regard for national welfare.

Moscow Warns Of Consequences To Great Britain

LONDON (AP)—Moscow radio warned today that an agreement giving Poland-equipped U.S. Nuclear submarines base facilities in Scotland "is fraught with the most serious consequences for Britain."

The British-American agreement represents a new capitulation of the British government to U.S. aggressive circles, the broadcast said.

The agreement reportedly will allow the United States to base a submarine tender at a Scottish port and to build up comprehensive servicing, maintenance, and communications facilities in Britain for a Polaris submarine force.

Red Star, the Soviet Defense Ministry's paper, asserted today the United States intends to send the atomic submarine George Washington armed with Polaris rockets into the area close to Soviet frontiers at the end of this month.

Red Star said this would be another provocative act "against the Soviet Union."

The committee reported today Greenville Mayor S. Eugene West and ECC President Dr. Leo W. Jenkins "are among local representatives invited to greet Mrs. Roosevelt."

Four men were killed today when a light plane in which they were riding crashed and burned near here, authorities reported.

Officers said the craft was a Piper Tri-Pacer and that the men were thought to be furniture buyers from Ohio. The crash was said to have occurred about 2 1/2 miles south of here, behind a motel on U.S. 29-70.

Authorities said the men had landed a few minutes before a private strip here to stretch their legs. After a few minutes they took off again and the plane crashed just after takeoff.

No one was known to have seen the actual crash, although a woman resident said she saw the plane flying upside down before it came down.

Federal Aviation Agency spokesmen said the plane had filed a flight plan for a trip from Knoxville, Tenn. to Raleigh-Durham.

The Lexington Fire Department put out the fire. The bodies were badly burned and hard to extricate.

$3 Million Lost In Safe Burglary

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A three-million-dollar safe burglary was reported today by sheriff's deputies.

Officers said the loot—jewelry and stocks—was taken Monday night from the home of retired broker Raoul Fernandez, 50, of West Hollywood.

He is the widower of Katherine Johnson Candler Fernandez, described as an heiress to the Coca-Cola fortune. She died four years ago.

The haul consisted of approximately $1 million worth of jewelry and $2 million in stock of the soft drink firm, said Lt. Lee Bergman of the sheriff's detective bureau. He said the stock was non-negotiable.

The burglary took place while Fernandez, who lives alone, was out to dinner.

He came home about 11:30 p.m. to find a safe gone. There was no obvious means of entry, officers said.

The safe also contained deeds to real estate he owns in Atlanta, Ga., and Los Angeles as well as U.S. citizenship papers he obtained many years ago, said the Spanish-born, retired New York stockbroker.

Believes Husband Eaten By Sharks

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The wife of a missing skindiver believes her husband was eaten by sharks.

John Taylor Wilson, a professional skindiver, disappeared last week. His car was found parked near a bridge. His diving lung was missing. His clothes were there.

A helicopter searching for him spotted a school of sharks attacking a white object "15 feet below the surface 300 yards from shore."

The department said Hurricane Donna had damaged docks, dwellings, farm buildings, equipment and other property in the area and that many farmers need supplemental credit to continue operations.

Volunteers' For Cuba Training

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP)—Several thousand Communist "volunteers" are being trained and equipped in Czechoslovakia for military service in Cuba and are due there next month, the Inter-American Press Association was told Monday night.

John R. Bellemeyer of the Hartford (Conn.) Courant reported to IAPA directors the FBI had informed him that the so-called "military volunteers from Communist bloc nations" are being made ready for Cuba.

"We also have reason to believe certain Chinese (Communists) troops are already there," he said.

Air Rifles, Sling Shot's Becoming Problem

AYDEN—The air rifle and sling shot situation reached the Ayden Town Board meeting last night and was discussed at length, Town Manager Cleveland Paylor said today.

It was brought out before board members that malicious activity has resulted from use of sling shots and air rifles. Paylor said that if the situation does not improve, it will be necessary to pass an ordinance calling it a misdemeanor to shoot an air rifle or sling shot in the city limits.

There is an ordinance now which prohibits shooting air rifles off a property owner's own boundaries. The board, in other business, passed a resolution urging the Interstate Commerce Commission to approve the application of the Seaboard Airline Railroad Co. and the Atlantic Coastline Railroad Co. for authority to merge their properties into one rail system.

The board feels that a merger of rail facilities would "result in benefit by this area through the medium of a sounder railroad service designed to help meet the transportation needs in this general area."

Board Discusses Equipping New City Playground

Plans for equipping the new City park on 14th St. between Engelwood and Coghill were discussed last night by the Greenville Recreation Commission in their regular monthly meeting.

Dr. Leo W. Jenkins, Chairman of the group, appointed Mrs. W.R. Guise and Mrs. L. W. Edwards to a committee to study plans for the park submitted by several playground equipment companies and to discuss the matter with local citizens and decide on a list of equipment to be used.

According to Gordon Goodman, Greenville's Recreation Director, the commission "intends to make a model playground" of the new park, using the "newest design in equipment."

In addition to the latest design in playground equipment, the park will be equipped with a shelter and restrooms, picnic tables and a ball field, Goodman continued.

The plot of land, which contains 1.6 acres, is fronted by 14th St. and backed up by the Norfolk and Southern Railroad.

Goodman commented that an estimated $2,500 will be required to equip the playground with the modern equipment.

The Commission also passed a resolution endorsing the program of Dr. A. A. Best of Greenville, which is aimed at improving health education and all-round citizenship of the Negro race, through training in the public schools.

The program, which had its beginning in Greenville and Pitt County Schools several years ago, has now spread over Eastern North Carolina and may spread over the rest of the State.

Emergency Loans Open To Pitt

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department today designated 31 North Carolina counties as an area in which the farmers home administration may make emergency loans to farmers through next June 30.

The counties are Beaufort, Bertie, Bladen, Brunswick, Camden, Carteret, Chowan, Columbus, Craven, Currituck, Dare, Duplin, Edgecombe, Gates, Greene, Hertford, Hyde, Jones, Lenoir, Martin, New Hanover, Onslow, Pamlico, Pasquotank, Pender, Perquimans, Pitt, Sampson, Tyrrell, Washington and Wayne.

The department said Hurricane Donna had damaged docks, dwellings, farm buildings, equipment and other property in the area and that many farmers need supplemental credit to continue operations.

Suspects Death Due To Penicillin

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A 13-year-old boy collapsed moments after being given a penicillin injection and died two hours later.

Police quoted Dr. Orion V. Carr as saying he gave the boy, David L. Shoopman, 20,000 units of penicillin for an earache.

Carr, who told police the boy had a weak heart, said death apparently came from a penicillin reaction.

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Henry Cabot Lodge seemingly tripped up on words again today. He at first told reporters he promised that a Negro would be appointed to the federal Cabinet if Vice President Richard M. Nixon were elected president. But later, he said it was his "guess."

"If Nixon is elected, there will be a Negro in the Cabinet. This is a promise," the Republican candidate for vice president told reporters as he alighted from a plane at Albany Airport.

Later, in a television interview in Schenectady, Lodge said he could not promise there would be a Negro since the president would make the appointment.

"But I believe it will happen if Richard Nixon is elected," he said "I will make that guess."

Previous Lodge statements on the subject had been interpreted as pledges, which he later denied. In Schenectady, Lodge said that, on this issue, he had the right as a citizen to give his opinion as to the wisdom of appointing a Negro to the Cabinet. He said Nixon's policy was that he would not make any commitments on Cabinet appointments at this time.

Lodge said his own opinion was that it would be a splendid thing to appoint a qualified Negro to the Cabinet.

At Albany, after his "promise" he said appointment of a Negro would do "enormous good" for US foreign relations and would be "fulfillment of our national purpose."

Lodge was asked to comment on a charge by a Negro congressman that he had reneged on a pledge to have a Negro in the Cabinet.

The Democratic congressman, Rep. Charles Diggs of Michigan, also said Monday that the highest Negro appointment of the Eisenhower administration had been nullified when the appointee was fired to give the job to one of Lodge's sons. Lodge said this charge was not true.

"I would have heard of it, if it were true," he said.

Diggs said in Washington Monday that J. Ernest Wilkins, assistant secretary of labor, "was thrown out" so George C. Lodge could have the $20,000-a-year post. As for Diggs' charge that Lodge had reneged on a promise of a Negro in the Cabinet, Lodge said: "How could I renege? I can't appoint members of the Cabinet."

Then Lodge added that he would make "this promise" that if Nixon were elected "there will be a Negro in the Cabinet."

Albany was the first stop of Lodge's second swing in upstate New York in the campaign. His day also called for stops at Schenectady, Rome, Utica and Syracuse.

The former ambassador to the United Nations had drawn a storm of debate over statements he made in Harlem and Virginia concerning a Negro in the Cabinet. There were differing interpretations of the statements.

Jonas Says Lodge Shouldn't Promise

CHARLOTTE (AP)—North Carolina's only Republican congressman, Rep. Charles R. Jonas, suggested today that Henry Cabot Lodge should not have promised that if the Republican national ticket wins, there will be a Negro in the cabinet.

"A candidate for vice president," said Jonas, "ought not to talk about who is going to be in the cabinet. It is not his selection, but the responsibility of the president-elect."

"My feeling is that Mr. Lodge should have refrained from discussing it."

Lodge told newsmen at Albany, N.Y. today, in emphasis of his earlier statements, that "if Nixon is elected, there will be a Negro in the cabinet. This is a promise." An hour later, in Schenectady, Lodge qualified the "promise" by saying "I believe" it will be an outcome of a presidential victory by Nixon.

Jonas was asked if he has any objection to a Negro being named to the cabinet.

"My feeling is that the cabinet should be chosen on the basis of experience and qualifications for the job, not the basis of race, religion or what have you."

The congressman then was asked if this could be taken to mean he would not object to a qualified Negro. He replied, "You can take it just the way I said it."

Stengel Reports Fired By Yankees

NEW YORK (AP)—Casey Stengel said today he had been fired by the New York Yankees.

"I was not offered a new contract. I was paid up in full but they want to put in a youth program as an advance way of keeping this club going," Stengel said.

"If I had been offered a new contract I would have wanted certain changes made."

"I would have wanted to have known who was the boss," he said.

"My own plans are indefinite. I am not thinking about another job. At the present time I don't know what I would do if I had an offer to manage another club."

There was no immediate naming of his successor. During his 12 years with the club, Stengel won 10 American League Pennants and seven World Series.

The gravel-voiced manager, who replaced Bucky Harris at the Yankee helm, is independently wealthy and is regarded as a millionaire. He owns oil wells and also is a banker in his home town of Glendale, Calif.

At the start of the noon press conference, Topping announced that Stengel had retired. Then Stengel followed by saying that he had been told by both Topping and Del Webb, the other co-owner, that his services no longer were required.

Have Foreign Meal In Home During United Nations Week

RALEIGH—The American dining table is thoroughly familiar with foreign dishes. The international origins of all of us and the fact that we are the "traveling" people in all history have combined to give us a great interest in and a great fondness for dishes from our friends across the seas. During United Nations Week, Oct. 23-29, the U. S. Committee for the United Nations has encouraged a growing tradition to have a "United Nations Day Family Meal" in the home.

This is one simple, effective, and delightful way of making the children aware of lands and other peoples. One day they may well travel abroad with more confidence and pleasure because of the international meal they enjoyed at home.

These recipes are taken from "Favorite Recipes From The United Nations" cookbook.

Jackie Kennedy Visits Campaign Headquarters Dinner Honors Bride - Elect

By JOY MILLER
 AP Women's Editor
 NEW YORK (AP)—The other day Mrs. Jack Kennedy left her hotel suite to make a handshaking visit to the Volunteers for Kennedy headquarters.

She was wearing the same double-breasted purple maternity coat and mushroom-type beret ("Call it 'just a hat,'" she suggested by way of description) in which she had made recent public appearances with her husband. She had a hacking cough, from a head cold.

On the way to the volunteer offices, someone mentioned that a newsmen traveling with Kennedy had said the Democratic presidential candidate wasn't eating right. Jacqueline Kennedy's big brown eyes grew sorrowful, and she said in her soft, low-pitched, breathless voice: "That's one of the reasons I'm saddest not to be traveling with him. His campaign is so fast-paced, there's often not time to grab even a sandwich. When I'm there, I make sure he eats." She looked bleak. "I'm especially sad not to be with him now, to help him in this greatest crusade of his life."

After a pause, she said with a well-bred chuckle containing the slightest suggestion of a stiff-upper-lip: "But I must say, every time I see him he looks better than before. It's really rather bad for one's ego."

These days Mrs. Kennedy hasn't been traveling with her husband because of the baby expected in December.

Someone volunteered he had heard a woman say: "It would be just like Jackie Kennedy to have her baby on election eve."

Quick as a quip, straightfaced, she came back: "Oh I hope not. I'd have to get up the next day to go vote."

Does she want a boy or girl? "Either one would be welcomed with equal joy," she said gravely.

"I'm so delighted with our little girl (Caroline, nearly 3) that I can't think of anything nicer than another little girl."

As for names, if it's a boy it will be named after his father. "Girls' names are in the wedding-out stage."

Jacqueline (she doesn't like "Jackie" but everyone calls her that) says she is getting "a little bit more confident" every day about the election's outcome.

Divorced Twice From 2 Wives On The Same Day

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Ronald Ralph Reiter is a rare man. He belongs to that small number who can say they were divorced twice—and from two different wives—on the same afternoon.

Although Reiter, 26, was a somewhat innocent pawn in a strange crossing of paths, he'll never remember his afternoon before. Common Pleas Judge Charles W. White Monday.

Here is what happened. He won a divorce from his first wife Hazel Parr Reiter, whom he had married in 1952 in Lawrenceburg Ind. The charge was that she had left him in 1955. The judge awarded custody of a 6-year-old son to Reiter's mother.

Next, Pauline E. Reiter, 22, won a divorce from him on grounds of gross neglect and cruelty. The judge awarded her custody of their year-old daughter and $15 a week for the infant's support.

Reiter married Pauline in Mountain City, Tenn., in 1958 after Hazel telephoned his mother that she had received a divorce from him in Florida. Hazel later told a domestic relations investigator she was drunk when she made the telephone call.

Reiter, a fireman for the South Shore Railroad when he is working, brought suit for divorce against Hazel to clear up that marital tangle. Meanwhile, not knowing he still was married to his first wife, Mrs. Reiter No. 2 (Pauline) brought suit for divorce.

Pauline's attorney said he doubted there would be any big action since it appeared that Reiter entered the second marriage innocently.

Reiter has been in the workhouse since Sept. 19, charged with assault and battery against a policeman. His term runs until Feb. 15, 1961.

Only The Pilot Hurt In Crash

PANGUITCH, Utah (AP)—The wingtip caught on some brush. The plane cartwheeled and crashed, Curtis James, 1, was hurled out of the aircraft.

Not a scratch, said Sheriff George Middleton after the child was picked up.

Roxy Pitlock, 6 months, was not hurt either.

Roxy's father, Charles Pitlock, 21, Merced, Calif., the pilot, was seriously hurt, but her mother, 21, was not.

Curtis' father, Ronald James, 21, Alwater, Calif., was cut up a bit. Mrs. James, 19, was not hurt.

They were flying to Denver when bad weather forced Pitlock to try to land on a nearby emergency landing strip Monday. The plane was demolished.

Trading Stamps Don't Pay Taxes

CHESTERFIELD, Va. (AP)—Commonwealth's atty. Ernest Gates has some bad news for a woman who found what she thought was a painless way to pay delinquent taxes.

She mailed a big batch of the trading stamps to the county treasurer in payment of property taxes due for 1956.

Gates ruled they're not legal tender and County Treasurer George W. Moore Jr. is going to mail them right back.

CROYDON, England (AP)—Six raiders broke into a big department store, blasted open a safe and escaped with 17,000 pounds ($47,600). They stopped off at the store restaurant on the way out, helped themselves to ice cream and left five shillings (70 cents) to pay for it.

PARTLY HONEST

For one thing, he played the leading role, with Henry Fonda, Lauren Bacall, Tom Bosley, Anne Bancroft, Jason Robards Jr., Talulah Bankhead, Myrna Loy and Orson Bean among the supporting players.

For another, the twice-defeated presidential candidate had to act like Adlai Stevenson on the stage of the Morosco Theater a couple of hours before Melvyn Douglas went on for the night performance of "The Best Man"—a role many observers consider a Broadway version of Adlai Stevenson.

And finally, Stevenson the political wit had to follow a performance by Mort Sahl, the night club wit whose wittiness is sometimes more political than Stevenson's.

The occasion was a Democratic party rally for show business voters, with Douglas, Sahl and Stevenson assisted by former Sen. Herbert H. Lehman—going all-out for Sen. John F. Kennedy.

The show was advertised by quaint, old-fashioned theater bills announcing "Adlai on Broadway."

It was emceed by Douglas, who introduced all the stars on stage, then brought on Sahl, "the man who calls himself the next president of the United States."

Stevenson said: "I'm going to talk about the Republicans and it's not a very demanding subject. You don't have much of a problem keeping up with them as they stay in the same place. As you all know from the circus parades, the elephant proceeds best by grasping the tail of its predecessor."

Of Vice President Richard M. Nixon, he said: "I don't think anyone has shown so many different faces to the American people since the death of the late, lamented Lon Chaney."

UNICEF Drive To Be Held October 31

Plans are underway for the annual Halloween Day UNICEF drive in Greenville.

UNICEF, the United Nations Children's Fund, is the world's largest international effort to improve the health and welfare of children and mothers in all nations.

In Greenville, UNICEF is sponsored annually by the United Church Women of Greenville.

Instead of the usual "trick or treat" on Halloween, Greenville children canvass the city asking for pennies, nickels and dimes for UNICEF.

This year's canvass by the children has been set for Oct. 31 (Halloween) from 5:30 until 7 p.m. Greenvilleites have been asked to leave porch lights burning between 6 and 7 Halloween Night.

The canvass has been organized through the local UCW. Each church has been provided with a city map with definite assigned territories. Using this method, the city is canvassed with each residence being visited only once.

Last year, children of the 12 participating Greenville churches collected a total of $314.30 for UNICEF.

Leaders in the UCW have urged local residents to cooperate with the children's canvass "by donating pennies, nickels and dimes for UNICEF—not candy and cookies for the children themselves."

Second Accident Proved Deadly

EAGLE PASS, Tex. (AP)—State police told today how Marcelino Campos narrowly escaped death in an automobile accident only to be killed minutes later in another.

Campos, 35, Laredo, Tex., was killed Monday on U. S. 277, six miles west of the Dimmit County line in Maverick County.

Alvarado Garcia, 30 San Antonio, Tex., was killed when the car in which he and Campos were riding ran off the highway.

Campos finally extricated himself from the wreckage and walked back to the highway. A passing auto struck him and killed him.

Realistic Transportation Policies

The State Highway Department's posting of weight limits on secondary roads leading to the three Voice of America sites in Pitt and Beaufort Counties poses a problem that could be serious for this entire section of the state if a more common sense approach does not gain the upper hand.

The Highway Department is now said to be considering a limitation, for vehicles moving over the posted roads, of a maximum load of 8,000 pounds per axle. Such a weight limit is below what has been allowed over a good many secondary roads of the state, and certainly it appears inadequate when one considers the many tons of machinery which must be moved to the three sites in order to construct the $26 million installations.

The Highway Department is, of course, doing its job with the view of preventing the secondary roads from being torn up by the unusual amount of heavy traffic they will have to carry during the period in which construction is going on at the sites. Even under the weight limits now posted on the roads, however, considerable repair work will have to be done to keep the roads in good condition because of the volume of traffic that will move over them to the sites. Repair work will also be required when the heavy loads cease after construction is completed.

Posting the roads with such a weight limit obviously will handicap the movement of materials to the sites. While it will not prevent construction of this important government project, it may serve to discourage other future projects in which private enterprise might be considering major construction in areas of Eastern Carolina accessible only over secondary roads.

The point is that if Eastern Carolina is to realize the economic development for which it is working, we must have realistic transportation facilities not only for moving goods which may be produced, but for moving in materials necessary for constructing major facilities and plants.

Since highways in this section are our primary means of transportation into many locations, we must depend on our highways to meet the demands of new facilities and new industries that might be located or interested in locating here. The Highway Department as well as other state agencies have the obligation to "lend a hand" to an area that is trying to enhance its economic development, and certainly it is not too much to expect realistic cooperation when a major project is under construction.

It would probably be out of the question now to ask that the roads leading to the VOA sites in this vicinity be reconstructed immediately to carry the heavier traffic necessary to construction of the facilities. It is not unrealistic, we believe, to suggest that the weight limits now posted on the roads be given further consideration with a view to bringing them up to a figure more in line with the traffic which will have to move over these roads.

Unless the Highway Department does give further consideration to the matter of the present posted limits on these particular roads, the decision which now exists may discourage industries from giving serious consideration to major installations at many locations in this section.

Quemoy And Matsu No Issue For November 8

The play on words by rival presidential candidates regarding Quemoy and Matsu appears more of a fishing expedition for issues than shedding light or new thinking on those islands.

Senator Kennedy is fully aware current U.S. policy on those two bits of land has been deliberately left vague to permit more room for choice of reaction in event of Communist attack. This same policy also gives reason for uncertainty in Peiping.

The Senator is also aware, as are most of us, that the islands are poorly located for effective U.S. assistance . . . that their greatest importance lies in the amount of military strength Chiang Kai-Shek chooses to allocate them . . . and that they pose a continuing temptation to the Communists. He too has said they should not be relinquished "at the point of a gun." He simply does not approve of Nationalist insistence these tiny islands be held at all costs . . . even, perhaps, involving this country in a major war.

The Vice President has insisted the islands not be surrendered as a "matter of principle"; and later modified his words to more closely fit current policy. He has chosen to picture his rival's words as "soft" and inviting trouble.

Actually, the two are in agreement that Quemoy and Matsu should not be given up under pressure; that the islands present a source of future irritants. Both can quote military and diplomatic authorities to substantiate their views, but the Nixon "matter of principle" has been shaded into a less positive position.

Those specks of land in far-away China actually are providing no issue. They do demonstrate the candidates are aware that someday the problem of Quemoy and Matsu will have to be faced; but it cannot be resolved November 8. It will have to be confronted on another day.

Each Is Ignoring Other's Words

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP) — The presidential candidates compounded confusion—in their argument over Quemoy and Matsu — by ignoring what each other said and by their own fustian.

Rad Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Sen. John F. Kennedy carefully on this subject, which is not a burning problem now but may be later, and it boils down to a dispute not over what's right but what's shrewd.

Those two small islands, within 10 miles of the China mainland, are claimed by both the Red Chinese and Chiang Kai-shek on Formosa, which is 110 miles from the mainland.

Chiang, an American ally, has troops on them. The Reds have bombarded them for years and in time may try invasion. This country by treaty is obligated to defend Formosa itself from attack.

But the treaty carefully avoids saying Quemoy and Matsu must be defended by the United States. The Eisenhower administration has never said they would be defended unless such action was considered essential to Formosa's defense.

Kennedy, asked by a reporter in his Oct. 7 TV debate with Nixon what he'd do as president, said he would, of course, defend Formosa since this country is committed to do so.

But as for Quemoy and Matsu, he said they are not "strategically defensible." To support that, he quoted not only American military leaders as saying so but also Christian A. Herter, then undersecretary of state.

So, he said, he thought Chiang should be asked to withdraw from the islands to avoid our "being dragged into a war" over them. He did not say he'd force Chiang to do this. On the contrary, he said he'd let Chiang decide.

But he made it a point that the islands would be yielded only under peaceful conditions and not under Red pressure. He put it this way: He would not yield at the "point of a gun."

He would not favor giving up the islands. Why? He said it was a matter of principle, even though the islands themselves are unimportant. He said it would merely encourage the Reds' appetite for more territory.

At this point Nixon ignored what Kennedy had said. Nixon said "we should not force our Nationalist allies to get off" Quemoy and Matsu. But Kennedy had said nothing about forcing them off.

In the Oct. 13 debate Nixon was asked if he'd go to war over the islands. He avoided answering by saying it would not be to the best interests of this country to tip our hand to the Reds.

But by this time he had stopped talking about holding the islands as a matter of principle. Kennedy called this a Nixon retreat.

Nixon did go this far: He said he would defend Quemoy and Matsu from attack if an attack on them was believed to be a prelude to an attack on Formosa. So, he was now simply restating the Eisenhower position.

At this point Kennedy ignored what Nixon said by accusing Nixon of saying this country "should go to war if those two islands are attacked." Nixon had just said only if this attack was a prelude to an attack on Formosa.

Then Nixon did the ignoring. As if protesting a Kennedy position, he said: "We are not going to make a concession at the point of a gun." But Kennedy had said precisely the same thing.

So it boils down to this: Kennedy would yield the islands—but only under peaceful circumstances—to avoid getting into a war over them, since he considers them unimportant to Formosa's defense; Nixon would hold them because, he says, to yield them would be to encourage the Reds to look for more.

But both men raised a much bigger question than either of them answered. Both said they would not yield Quemoy and Matsu at the "point of a gun." (Continued on page five)

A Man With Problems

By HENRY HOWARD

Small Wonder It Happens

As often happens, one of the boys last night was freely tossing criticism at the poor ole newspaper.

He had something to say about how frequent mistakes can be in a daily. His critical remarks were indeed abundant as he wondered "Why can't newspapers be just a little more careful and do their job right?"

He then reeled off a long list of specific instances (he had apparently memorized for the occasion) as examples of what he was so tired up about.

He knew them, too. He recited instances of misspelling, incorrect identification, typographical mistakes, and so on for nearly an hour.

As we have a tendency to do at times, we leapt to the defense of the poor ole newspaper. If we hadn't, the daily would have had no defense. We thought that just wouldn't be quite fair. So, like we said, we leapt to our defense.

As we explained it to our assailant, he seemed at least mildly satisfied there is some tolerance, if not justification, of misuses around a daily newspaper office.

The thing he got the biggest kick out of was our description of a reporter gathering news via telephone. He really perked up his ears.

As we have learned from experience, some telephone conversations can be very trying, no matter how valuable.

We all realize we must gather as much news as possible—and that includes telephone conversations with just about anybody that happens to call or be called. And most of these phone talks are very pleasant and informative to say the least.

The main problem is this. No matter who you're talking to, they're talking like a house afire. Meanwhile, you're taking notes on a typewriter on the other end of the line.

As is the case with most reporters, you've had only limited training in typewriting and find yourself something less than a "speed demon" on the keyboard. Still, you must attempt to keep writing as fast as your friend on the other end of the line is talking.

An example:
A lady phones up and says:

"We're having a special meeting tonight and Mrs. Lucretia D. Brockenworth will introduce our main speaker. He will be Dr. Icon R. Zaberblast. He is president of the Tuscaloosa Mineworkers Association in Alabama and loves kids."

You type: "special meetin Mr. Loulaty D. Br will introduce speaker. Dr. Ik R. Zavrgras, pres. Tus mineworkers assn. in ala and loves kids."

There you have it. Of course, there are several questions you want to ask the nice lady but she hangs up before you can get in a solitary word other than "Yes Ma'm."

From there you take your pitiful notes and put together an announcement for today's paper. And people wonder how we make mistakes?

The Public Forum

To the Editor:

The rowdiness displayed at Evans and Third Streets over the weekend by self-proclaimed Democrats is apparently what we may expect from much of the rabble attracted to the party by its giveaway appeal and its studied resort of invective.

This type activity smacks of a "new day" in the party's apparent movement away from principle and dignity. It should be unthinkable to the conservatives of the old Democratic party, many of whom are quick to admit that their party has left them. This sort of thing is not new to people who have witnessed hooliganism of this sort in labor union centers up North.

Could this be an off-shoot of Harry Truman's name-calling and swearing in public? And do Democrats associate themselves with disgraceful rowdiness and 'Trumanism'? I certainly think not!

Other Editors Saying... Vegetable Opportunity

(Goldspore News Argus)

Eastern North Carolina farmers are neglecting a real opportunity in failing to grow a fall vegetable crop.

Actually we do not have as large a fall vegetable crop as we did some years ago. One explanation may lie in the fact that tobacco has been such a superior cash crop since the support price was established. Farmers are busy harvesting, curing and selling tobacco during the time they might be growing out some good fall vegetables.

A second explanation for neglecting this opportunity is that it is more difficult to grow quality fall vegetables than summer vegetables. The heat and sometimes lack of rain are extra hazards. And the destruction of plants by bugs, beetles, parasites and disease is greater, probably, in the late summer and fall season.

But these handicaps can be overcome with attention and care. For certain crops irrigation could be used to guarantee moisture. Many tobacco farmers already have irrigation systems that could be used. Great progress has been made in producing sprays or dusts to control disease and pests.

By all means Eastern North Carolina should be producing quality tomatoes until frost hits. There should be a supply of quality homegrown tomatoes on the market now.

But go to your supermarket and you will be lucky if you can find any homegrown tomatoes. The demand is largely being supplied by shipped tomatoes that have about as much flavor compared to the homegrown ones as shoe leather to quality steak. We do know of one exception to this statement. This enterprising farmer is making a good thing of late tomatoes.

The Vegetable Test Farm at Faison recently has called on area farmers to offer vegetables for a Raleigh market. Radishes were pointed to as a vegetable the Raleigh buyer needed.

If we had vegetables in quality and quantity now—we would have the market practically free of competition. When our spring and early summer truck crops are coming off we generally are in competition with Florida, Georgia, and South Carolina growers. Toward the end of our season our truck hits the market at just the time with that of Virginia and the Maryland shore.

It would take more time and trouble to grow fall truck crops, but it would be worth it.

That circle of bases we have drawn around the Soviets. BUSINESS TODAY CONT JOYCE NEW RULES

Perhaps we must re-examine policy even more deeply. If we are to conserve our gold supply for critical competition, perhaps it will be better to ship Wisconsin cheddar and Monterey jack to bases in Europe instead of buying local curds. And this idea can be extended to all the products that the Pentagon—and the State and other departments—buy abroad.

That will be only a stop-gap action. The heart of the battle for international competition ahead must, for us, surely be: 2. More automation. It is clear that European and Asiatic labor will work—eagerly—for far lower wages and far many more hours than American workers. It is also clear that it will be futile to ask American factory hands to work 10 hours for $3 so that the company can compete with Japanese transistors in the Bombay or Buenos Aires markets. America does have an edge in raw materials. Minerals and commodities are abundant. We waste more grain a year than France eats—a statistic pulled out of a hat but which nevertheless may be true.

That's not enough. One of our abundant materials is cotton. But the Japanese can buy it here, take it to Japan, convert it into garments and ship it back to the United States for sale at prices far below similar garments made in America.

More automation will enable us to compete. An American will not work for the wages paid an Asian or a European. But an automatic machine can turn out products far cheaper than an Italian, or a Japanese, can make them.

And in that is our big answer to competition in the five or 10 years ahead. A foreign laborer can work cheaper than an Amer-

A Real Fight Needed

By George E. SOKOLSKY

COPYRIGHT, 1960, KING FEATURES SYNDICATE, INC.

The midpoint in the campaign has been passed and there has been little change in atmosphere. Senator John Kennedy has become somewhat aggressive but he takes too much technical advice from his Harvard colleagues some of whom are doctrinaire liberals; Vice President Richard Nixon continues to move in smooth stride. Never have I witnessed a calmer, less exciting campaign. Apparently Charles Taft's pledge for what is called a clean campaign is being lived up to except by Harry Truman, who is not a candidate. It is also a deadly uninspiring campaign.

Why should anyone want these two very likable men to slug it out? The answer is quite simple and correct. There has been no debate in a Presidential contest since 1932. We have been suffering from "the same goals but different means." We have been deprived of reason by me-too-ism. We have lost all sense of proportion by the cry of the frightened ones that debate, discussion, reason would only supply the enemy with ammunition and give the impression of a divided America.

First, it was Hitler that scared us. He ran in every election while he lived. Even after his ghost was laid, he showed up in American politics. Whoever did not blindly agree with Franklin D. Roosevelt was a pal of Hitler. Whoever did not accept the legislation of Tommy Corcoran and Benjamin Cohen was a black fascist. Whoever did not believe in the basic assumptions of World War II was a pro-Nazi.

Then came Stalin and for years it was not sound to discuss domestic American affairs or our foreign policy lest it give comfort to Stalin. Senator Joseph McCarthy has been blamed for this atmosphere, but it should be clear that the American people became conscious of the peril of Communism long before McCarthy, and Richard Nixon uncovered the Alger Hiss "pumpkin papers" before McCarthy.

In word, the revulsion to Communism—particularly its American emanation—antedated the McCarthy investigations. Nevertheless, McCarthyism rather than Stalinism became a campaign issue and diverted attention from other domestic questions and from foreign affairs. Harry Truman defeated Thomas E. Dewey not by debate argument but by a stirring assault upon Republican negativism.

In this campaign, so far, the Republicans continue to pursue a defensive policy. Kennedy attacks the record of the Eisenhower Administration which ends on January 20, 1961. But Nixon does not attack with vehemence the Kennedy inflationary program. From appearances what we face is that if Kennedy is wrong because his inflation may cost $10,000,000,000 a year, Nixon is right because his will cost $9,000,000,000 a year. This Nixon cannot mean.

Of course, as I put it, the statement is exaggerated but is altogether within the spirit of this campaign. Don't step on anyone's toes, lest it lose six votes!

The reason for this is that the campaign does not show clearly who is going to win. The election is not in the bag. It is not a sure thing. The candidates are still playing for bloc votes from wherever they may come. Neither candidate feels sure. None of the experts forecast with assurance that if Kennedy is wrong, Harry Truman set out on his whistle-stop campaign. Nobody believed that Harry Truman could win except his friend, Les Biffle, who had made a preliminary survey. Dewey was practically counting his majority when Truman knocked him out.

In the 1960 campaign, nobody feels sure of anything. Candidates and experts are running frightened. It is just at such a time that one or the other could jar the nation from its complacency by stirring, fighting, inspiring speeches. But such speeches cannot be delivered by one who is afraid of offending anybody. Speeches can only be delivered by a man who dares to be defeated. The question is: which of the two men is the more courageous?

Emergency Successors for Top Officials

STATE GOVERNMENT

LOCAL GOVERNMENT

Successors for each key official in State and local governments are essential in extreme emergencies to assure that representative government would survive a massive attack and be able to function effectively. "Continuity of government legislation," Director Leo A. Hoegh, of the Office of Civil and Defense Mobilization, declares, "is essential to insure survival, recovery and victory." Many States already have provided for lines of automatic succession in proper depth for key executive officials, legislators and the judiciary. Fourteen States will be voting on emergency power constitutional amendments during the Nov. 8 presidential election.

Local Services Train for Civil Defense Emergencies

EMERGENCY SERVICES of government are an integral part of the Nation's nonmilitary defense. In many areas, such as San Diego County, Calif., the same local government services now train for civil defense emergencies as are assigned to duty in natural disasters or lesser emergencies. Among units shown at the San Diego County Civil Defense training center at Gillespie

Field near San Diego are (left to right): El Cajon, Calif., police (truck at left foreground and jeep); San Diego County Civil Defense rescue and communications teams (near truck and bus at left center background); San Diego County Sheriff's Reserves (bus in center); Santee, Calif., firemen, and County Civil Defense Radiological Defense Teams. Special Income Tax Form For 65, Or Older

WASHINGTON (AP) — Starting Jan. 1, taxpayers who are 65 or older will have to file a special income tax form in addition to their regular return if they want to claim deductions for medical expense.

Internal Revenue Service officials said today they are designing the new form to comply with a law which Congress passed almost without notice nearly six months ago.

The form also will be used by those who claim deductions because they pay the medical bills of dependent parents or parents-in-law who are 65 or older.

Taxpayers 65 and older have been entitled to special benefits for several years. They can deduct all medical expenses, within certain broad limits, whereas younger taxpayers can deduct only those medical bills exceeding 3 per cent of their taxable income.

Vital Papers Seen A Key to Survival

Suppose a great many vital records, including those safeguarding your property title, were suddenly lost.

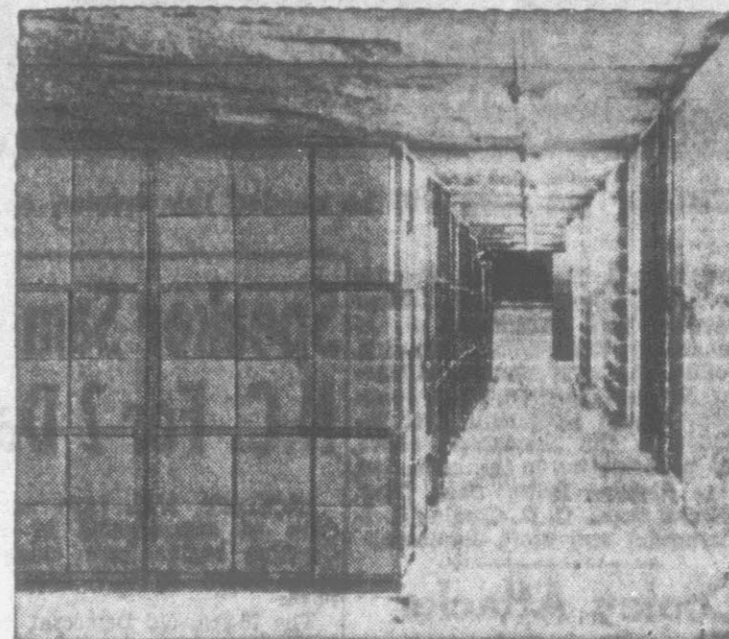

It could happen in the destruction caused by a nuclear attack on the United States. The vital records of many States and localities could be wiped out. The loss of records would hamper recovery. Many persons would have trouble proving ownership of property.

To guard against such loss of vital records, governments must take steps to preserve two classes of records:

Those essential for emergency operations — succession lists, personal and material inventories.

Those essential to protect the rights and interests of individuals — vital statistics (birth records), property deeds, voting records, constitutions or charters.

Governments which prepare now to preserve their records could reorganize faster and serve their citizens after attack.

UNDERGROUND STORAGE of vital government and public records is a step recommended by the Office of Civil and Defense Mobilization to insure that civil government and the economy could survive a massive attack. Storing vital papers through microfilm or other means also would protect the individual's legal rights, such as proof of birth or property ownership. This storage area, 650 feet down in a salt mine, is typical of similar facilities scattered across the Nation where vital records are preserved. 14-State Vote On Survival Proposal Set

Voters of 14 States, going to the polls Tuesday, Nov. 8, for the presidential election, also will vote on State constitutional amendments designed to insure that government will be able to function in event of enemy attack.

Proposals for amending the 14 State constitutions are non-partisan. They have been endorsed by leaders of both political parties. They involve no expenditures.

States voting on such amendments are: Idaho, Kansas, Maine, Maryland, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, New Hampshire, New Mexico, Oregon, South Dakota, Utah, South Carolina and West Virginia.

Under provisions of the amendment, the States would have authority to provide lines of succession and other measures necessary to insure post-attack continuance of civil government.

APPROVAL of the proposal would enable the State legislatures to take steps to:

- Continue leadership and government authority in executive, legislative and judicial positions, through pre-designated lines of succession.
- Minimize unlawful assumption of emergency authority.
- Assure effective State and local government in emergency.
- Preserve civil government.

The proposal, developed by the Council of State Governments, has been endorsed by leading civic, government, fraternal, veteran, labor and women's organizations.

It is typical of the growing number of protected emergency operating centers for government at all levels in the Nation. Key government officials are assigned to these emergency headquarters to direct survival and recovery efforts following enemy attack. Director Leo A. 4-Point Preparedness Program Emphasized

The Continuity of Government Program at National, State and local levels stresses government readiness in four ways to meet a nuclear attack on this country:

1. To designate legal successors for each key official in case he is killed or disabled.
2. To protect essential records.
3. To establish blast or fallout-protected control centers.
4. To provide for maximum use of government personnel, resources and equipment.

Training School Elects Officers For Council

GRIMESLAND — Election and installation of Student Council officers at Pitt County Training School was held here last week.

Henry Mills was elected president of the student governmental group. Other officers named and installed were: Vice-Pres. Haywood Wyche; Sec. Margaret Stokes; Asst. Sec. Sandra Leary; and Treas. Isaac Edwards.

At the installation ceremonies, A. T. Mills served as master of ceremonies. Mr. Rountree was the featured speaker. He pointed out to the student audience some "values of our student government:

1. Development of feelings of good will, friendliness and fellowship among students and faculty.
2. Reduction of the necessity of supervision and pressure by the faculty relieving them for more professional duties.
3. Increase in happiness of school life for students.
4. Improve the discipline and moral tone of the school.

Shipping Goods To Rebel Regime

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union is following up its de facto recognition last week of the Algerian rebel regime by shipping machinery to Algerian refugees in Tunisia.

The trade union newspaper Trud said the ship Fateh now is being loaded at Odessa with machine tools, tractors, automobiles, farm machinery, food, medicine and clothing.

Previously, the Soviet Union has sent only food to Tunisia for the Algerians. Tunisia is the seat of the Algerian rebel government as well as the training and supply base for the guerrilla forces fighting the French.

Clothing Bank Sees Promising Start

A LOT OF CLOTHING, but more will be needed this winter, say Clothing Bank collectors.

The first pick-up campaign by the Moose Clothing Bank Committee satisfied Chairman Norman Garrison that the drive was off to a good start.

"We found a good response," he reported last evening, "and as you can see, we have a fine stock of used clothing for the bank; but we're going to need more."

Garrison said collectors were frequently assured more clothing would be forthcoming at a later date, when closets and drawers were more thoroughly combed.

The chairman reminded that last year alone the clothing bank provided help for more than 250 people. "So from past experience, we know we are still far short from this winter's needs," he said.

Greenville residents with used clothing they could contribute were asked to telephone PL 2-3669 and they would be collected. The particular need for children's clothing was again emphasized.

Greenville Moose who participated in last night's collection included M. H. Bynum, R. E. Laughter, C. A. Odum, W. M.

Speaker Sam In N.C. For 2 Days

HICKORY, N.C. (AP) — Two days of campaigning in North Carolina begins here today for U.S. House Speaker Sam Rayburn.

The 78-year-old Democrat comes to Hickory from a swing through his native Tennessee Monday. He will conclude the North Carolina tour in Burlington on Wednesday night.

The Texan, who first went to Congress in 1913 and has been re-elected every time since, speaks today to about 800 pupils at College Park Junior High at the invitation of a ninth grade student there, Helen Willis.

Thousands are expected, a Democratic spokesman said, to a 10th Congressional District rally here tonight. The six counties in the district will be represented at a barbecue at 5:30 p.m. while Rayburn is holding a news conference.

David Clark of Lincolnton, Democratic candidate for the 10th District's congressional seat, will introduce Rayburn to the rally, which starts at 7:30 p.m.

Also on the program are Gov. Luther Hodges, gubernatorial candidate Terry Sanford, Sen. Sam Ervin, State Sen. Spencer Bell and State Democratic Chairman Bert Bennett. A number of other state Democratic congressmen also are expected.

A luncheon is planned Wednesday in Statesville at the National Guard Armory. From there, Mr. Sam will go on to a Sixth Congressional District rally in Burlington.

Cooley Attacks The Preachers Of Intolerance

YADKINVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Rep. Harold Cooley, D-N.C., criticized in a speech here Monday night those he said are preaching intolerance from the pulpits of the nation.

He addressed a crowd of 1,100 persons at a Democratic rally.

Cooley said he knew of no intelligent and right thinking people who will be swayed by what he termed the anti-Catholic campaign.

He said the campaign being waged against Democratic presidential nominee John Kennedy is a vicious, mean campaign, some of it from the pulpits, some of it by whispering.

The Democratic party is based on equal rights for all men and special privileges for none," he continued, adding, all men have the right to think and believe as they wish and the right to join any church they choose," Cooley said.

He Will Not Give To Republicans

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) Dear Republican National Finance Committee:

Democratic Gov. Robert B. Meyner is not a dear friend, as you addressed him in a fund-raising letter.

He will not give a campaign contribution, as you asked.

He has not supported the party outstandingly in the past...

As you suggested in your form letter to him.

Meyner told a news conference he doesn't know how he got the letter. It may be because he once met G. Clifford Folger, GOP Finance Committee chairman, he said.

Chemical Society Meets Tomorrow

Dr. Richard M. Wallace is scheduled to address the Eastern North Carolina Section of the American Chemical Society tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. at the Kinstonian Motel.

The subject of Dr. Wallace's speech will be "Unusual Chemistry in the Purex Process." The purex process is one by which uranium, plutonium and fission products occurring in neutron-irradiated natural uranium are separated by solvent extraction.

The guest speaker is presently working at the Savannah River Laboratory.

Tomorrow night's meeting will be preceded by dinner at the Kinstonian Motel Restaurant. Those planning to attend the dinner should notify R. E. Kitson at the "Daeron" Research Laboratory, Kinston, JA 7-0111, extension 471.

Thought Perhaps They Forgot It

COLD SPRING HARBOR, N.Y. (AP) — Bathers left their boat to picnic on the Crossman private beach. They left empty beer cans among the debris, plus an envelope and a magazine cover with their address. The owner collected the debris, packaged it neatly and on the outside wrapper wrote "Handle With Care."

Inside a note said: "You left this on my beach. I thought maybe you had forgotten something."

Happy Shooting For Anniversary

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Here's one happy home in the topsyturvy entertainment world.

For her second wedding anniversary, singer Gisele Mackenzie received a .22 caliber revolver from her business manager-husband Robert Shuttleworth.

The reason? Shuttleworth recently became fascinated with the art of target shooting.

"Whatever Bob takes up," said Gisele, "I take up also. Otherwise, someone else is liable to take it up with him."

Convicts Win Demands, 3 Captive Guards Are Freed

WETHERSFIELD, Conn. (AP) — Three guards were overpowered and held as hostages for more than six hours early today by convict-prisoners in the hospital ward of the Connecticut State Prison.

The guards were released unharmed when prison officials granted the convicts' demand for a conference with a lawyer and a state representative. The few convicts involved gave themselves up.

Two of the prisoners, Walter Doolittle and Peter Kinosh, conferred with attorney Roger Gleason and State Rep. Marshall N. Dudley. Gleason was Doolittle's lawyer in the past, and Dudley is a member of the legislature's committee on penal institutions.

After meeting with the prisoners, Dudley and Gleason said that apparently the whole thing was pointless.

They said neither prisoner presented any list of grievances during the 40-minute session.

Doolittle, they said, talked in a kind of distracted manner as if he were under the influence of a drug, reeling sleepily back and forth.

"I can't say what caused this thing," Gleason said. "I don't know. There was none of this business of 'We want better food' or anything like that."

"I don't feel that this was a situation that was an outgrowth or continuation of the last riot," said Dudley.

Doolittle is serving a term for armed robbery, escape and participation in a riot at the prison. Kinosh is serving a one-to-five year term for armed robbery. The hostages were taken to a guard room where the lawyer and state representative were waiting them.

A detail of state police was on standby duty at the prison.

Deputy Warden Richard Steiner said the guards were "a little shaky but, other than that, in good shape."

Steiner said the guards were seized shortly after midnight. He said the convicts apparently were under the influence of drugs obtained from hospital stores.

The uprising was staged by at least four convicts although there were about 20 convict-prisoners in the hospital ward at the time, prison officials said.

The three guards overpowered by the convicts were identified as James A. Ough, Theodore L. Carbone and Joseph Mikalson.

Carbone said he was taken hostage when a prisoner came up from behind and held a club next to his head.

Ough said two of the convicts were armed with sharpened butter knives.

Mikalson, asked how he had spent the time while in the hands of the convicts, replied: "I just kept quiet."

Two of the other convicts identified as participants in the outbreak were Louis Cofone and Robert Pache.

Soviet Offer Followed By Resuming Laos Aid

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States has resumed its program of financial aid to the neutralist government of Laos and will pay salaries of the troops which helped put it in power.

The resumption order was announced Monday night a short time after the Soviet Union had disclosed an offer to fill in the financial gap left by suspension of U.S. payments.

State Department officials said the decision to resume the $46-million-a-year military aid program was based on talks in Vientiane last week between Laos' neutralist Premier Souvanna Phouma and J. Graham Parsons, assistant secretary of state for the Far East.

Suspension of the aid program was formally announced Oct. 7. It had been indicated earlier as the result of a conflict between troops of rightist Gen. Phoumi Nosavan and those following paratrooper Capt. Kong Le. The captain had led an Aug. 9 coup which ousted the pro-Western government of Laos and installed the neutralist government headed by Souvanna Phouma.

Nosavan has refused to take part in the new government. U.S. officials feel that Kong Le has openly collaborated with the Communist backed Pathet Lao rebels.

Efforts to close the breach apparently have failed, but the decision was made that Kong Le's troops would have to be paid so long as they are a part of the royal Lao army.

U.S. aid has as its prime purpose the development of a unified effort by Lao authorities to maintain independence against Communist pressures.

Officials did not spell out details of any agreement between Phouma and Parsons, but said sufficient assurances had been received from Phouma so that payments could be resumed.

Coach's Quotes

By JOHNNY HUDSON

Victory number five failed to slow down Coach Jack Boone as he hurried around the East Carolina Athletic Office yesterday like a fireman hurrying to a fire.

Another hard week's work on the practice field plus a flock of speaking engagements kept the Pirate mentor on the move.

Taking time out to compliment his club, he was all smiles over the "team effort" in the 7-6 victory against Western Carolina.

"It was a game we wanted and the boys just had enough desire to hold up against their abundant manpower," noted Boone.

This is Boone's analysis by departments: RUSHING OFFENSE—"They defended us real well—we were limited as to what we could do real well—to so many injured backs. It was the most conservative game I have ever coached."

PASSING OFFENSE—"We didn't get a chance to throw much but we have confidence in our passing game. Against Western Carolina, we were never in the position to do much passing."

RUSHING DEFENSE—"The best effort we have ever had here—the boys buckled down when it counted. With our offense hurt by injuries, we relied on defense to a large degree."

PASS DEFENSE—"With the exception of two plays we were pleased with our pass defense. It is improving each week."

PUNTING—"We like to think our kicking game is improving. Rouse (Dan) and Smith (David) kicked for the first time Saturday and pulled us out of the hole several times."

SUMMATION—"It was the finest Western Carolina team we have ever played against. They did a good job of defending us regardless of our limited offense. It was apparent they were trying to wear us down but our boys were in good condition and had a tremendous desire to win. We are glad to have them behind us."

Ayden Heavy Favorite In Friday's Action

Table with columns: Team, Conf., All, Last Week's Results. Rows include Ayden, Beaufort, Havelock, La Grange, Robersonville, Farmville, Contentnea, and Vanceboro.

By LEONARD LAO

Reflector Sports Writer Ayden and Beaufort brush up on their game this Friday night before clashing on October 28 in what shapes up to be the game which will decide who is to be the wearer of the Coastal Conference crown.

The Tornadoes of Ayden, who rest on top of the conference standings this week, host seventh place Contentnea, while the Beaufort Sea Dogs travel to Robersonville to do battle with the Rams.

Havelock, who still should not be counted out of the race, scored an impressive 31-13 victory over Vanceboro Friday night to gain undisputed third place behind Beaufort. Last week, Havelock was tied for third with La Grange, who was dropped by Ayden by a 19-0 score. The loss moved La Grange down a rung on the ladder to fourth place.

Beaufort, who has yet to have its goal line crossed, has racked up a total of 251 points so far this year while holding their opponents scoreless. The Sea Dogs were 45-0 victors over Farmville last week to run their winning streak to four. Farmville coach Elbert Moyer and his Red Devil squad returned home with plenty of respect for the Sea Dog club.

Beaufort was held to a scoreless tie in their third game of the season by Havelock, but since then no one has offered the Sea Dogs any serious competition. The second place club will be looking past their encounter with the Rams Friday and toward their long-awaited contest with Ayden.

The Sea Dogs also have another tie on their record as a result of not scheduling La Grange this season.

Other games involving Coastal Conference entries saw Contentnea "snow under" Snow Hill by a 26-0 score, while Robersonville dropped their non-conference tilt to a strong Plymouth team, 34-0.

American League Interested In Settling Realignment Problems

By JOE REICHLER

CHICAGO (AP)—The Associated Press learned today that the American League won't immediately follow the example set Monday by the National League when it committed itself to becoming a 10-team league in 1962 by granting franchises to Houston and New York City.

Instead, the American League, at its meeting scheduled for Oct. 26 in New York, will concentrate on settling its realignment problem.

A source close to Del Webb, head of the AL expansion committee, said the co-owner of the New York Yankees was "gravely concerned" over such problem cities as Kansas City, Washington and Cleveland.

"I think the American League might have to straighten out its realignment problem before it can take definite and positive steps on expansion," said the source.

According to the informant, the American League will discuss several possibilities:

1. The shifting of the Washington franchise to Minneapolis-St. Paul.

2. The desire of Hank Greenberg, part owner of the Chicago

White Sox, to obtain a franchise in Washington.

3. The possibility of the Kansas City franchise being moved to Los Angeles.

"And don't overlook the possibility of the Cleveland club being moved elsewhere," added the informant. "I understand the operators of the Cleveland club are fed up. They're terribly disappointed with the attendance this year despite a club that was in contention until the last six weeks of the season."

The American League, at its last meeting in New York Aug. 30, voted to expand to 10 teams no later than Dec. 1, 1961, but did not discuss any new teams. It is understood Dallas-Fort Worth has the inside track for a franchise. There are 17 other applicants, including Minneapolis-St. Paul, Toronto, Oakland, Seattle and San Diego.

The Kansas City club, owned by the widow of Arnold Johnson, who died last March, is expected to be sold in the near future. It is not known whether the new owners plan to remain or move the franchise elsewhere. The Athletics, by contract, are committed to remain in Kansas City for two more years unless the attendance falls short of the prescribed 850,000 in any season.

It is known that several American League owners want to move to Los Angeles immediately.

Dodger owner Walter O'Malley, who must approve of an AL franchise in his Los Angeles territory, said he would not oppose such a move. But he added he didn't think it would be a smart move at this time.

O'Malley reportedly is opposed to any AL move into Los Angeles before he has completed construction of a stadium in Chavez Ravine, a project that is not expected to be completed until 1962 at the earliest.

Should the American League decide to move to the coast, they may be able to override O'Malley's objection — if he should voice his opposition. Commissioner Ford Frick has been quoted as saying he will rule favorably should the two majors be deadlocked over the issue.

Frick may have to make such an unprecedented decision regarding New York should the American League oppose the National League's return to that city.

"Should the American League vote 'no', and I am not at all sure that it will," said Giles, "then the commissioner would be called upon to cast the deciding vote with the National League."

The commissioner has assured us that if we propose a rule to open New York's territory for a National League franchise, and assuming the American League would vote "no", he would vote with the National League."

Racers Reshuffled In Charlotte National

CHARLOTTE (AP)—All but three of the top 10 finishers in Sunday's National 400 stock car race have been reshuffled by National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing (NASCAR) officials.

In the action Monday, Speedy Thompson of Charlotte remained the winner of the 400-mile, $65,000 race. However, Richard Petty of Randleman, N.C., was moved from third to second and Junior Johnson of Ronda, N.C., formerly second, was dropped to fifth.

These changes brought the wholesale reshuffling.

Johnny Bruner and Joe Epton, NASCAR officials from Daytona Beach, Fla., said scoring errors were responsible for changes in unofficial finishes released by the track after Sunday's race. They said Johnson had been given two more laps than he actually completed, and Bobby Johns of Miami, Fla., who moved from sixth to fourth place, hadn't been credited with a lap he had driven.

Revised top 10 finishers with money won: Speedy Thompson, Charlotte, $11,506; Richard Petty, Randleman, N.C., $4,725; Ned Jarrett, Conover, N.C., $3,125; Bobby Johns, Miami, Fla., $1,950; Junior Johnson, Ronda, N.C., $1,625; Rex White, Spartanburg, S. C., $1,275; Emanuel Zervakis, Richmond, Va., $1,050; Jim Paschal, High Point, N.C., $825; Jim Pistone, Chicago, $700; and Banjo Matthews, Asheville, N.C., $600.

Besides Thompson, only Zervakis (seventh) and Matthews (10th) remained in their original finishes. Although dropped from fifth to sixth place, Rex White still clinched NASCAR's Grand National championship. Richard Petty was runnerup in the year's racing competition.

Lenny Page, 30, of Buffalo, N.Y., who was injured in Sunday's race, remains in serious condition at the Charlotte's Presbyterian Hospital. He suffered a brain concussion, several broken ribs and a severe neck cut when his car spun out on the fourth turn and was hit by another car.

Al Dorow First Two-Time Winner

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Al Dorow of the New York Titans today became the first two-time winner of the American Football League's award for player of the week on offense.

The 195-pound quarterback was voted the honor by AFL writers for his performance in the Titans' 17-13 victory over the Buffalo Bills Sunday.

Dorow passed for one touchdown in the first period and then passed or rushed for all but six yards in a 50-yard drive that produced New York's winning TD.

He first won the award two weeks ago. ANKARA, Turkey (AP)—Naval forces of CENTO countries and the United States will take part in an exercise Oct. 25-Nov. 9 in the Arabian Sea off Karachi, Central Treaty Organization headquarters announced.

Iowa Eases Past Old Miss In Close AP Poll

By JACK HAND

Associated Press Sports Writer Iowa eased out Mississippi in a photo finish to become the No. 1 college football team of the nation in the fifth weekly Associated Press poll of sports writers and sportscasters.

Of the 48 football experts voting, 23 gave Iowa first-place ballots and 22 gave the nod to Mississippi. Syracuse got two first-place votes and Washington got one.

Minnesota, Baylor, Washington, Ohio State and Purdue rounded out the top ten. Purdue and Washington retained places in the listings. Purdue jumping into the ratings on the strength of a 24-21 victory over previously unbeaten Ohio State, which still was ahead of the Boilermakers in the poll.

Iowa edged Wisconsin Saturday 28-21 on a diving catch by Sam Harris with only 58 seconds to go. It was Iowa's fourth straight victory. Their next opponent Saturday is Purdue.

Mississippi thumped Tulane 26-13 in a Saturday night game with Jake Gibbs throwing three touchdown passes and scoring once himself. Next in line Saturday at Little Rock is Arkansas.

Soph Dept Makes Iowa Clnb Click

By JACK CLARY

Associated Press Sports Writer "Our big problem will be to develop our sophs." Iowa football Coach Forest Evashevski said during fall practice.

Iowa seems to have done just that, added some polish to a talented corps of juniors, with the result being almost more than any Hawkeye fans dared hope for. Their favorites are currently ranked first in the nation in the Associated Press poll, have a 4-0 over-all record and lead the Big Ten with a 3-0 mark.

Northwestern fell before the Hawkeyes 42-0 and Michigan State went under 27-15. Last Saturday a tough Wisconsin outfit was beaten 28-21.

Evashevski's juniors, led by quarterback Wilburn Hollis and fullback Larry Ferguson, Senior Halfback, and Capt. Jerry Maurer, and soph backs Bill Perkins and Sammie Harris, have been outstanding to date. Harris' diving catch of Hollis' pass in the final minute beat Wisconsin last week.

But behind them all, Evashevski has been able to supply depth from a group of 26 sophomores that had to patch up the holes left by the departure of 19 lettermen, including nine starters.

Iowa's opponent, this Saturday is Purdue, the nation's 10th ranked team.

Tackle Charlie Lee and guard Bill Ringer are suffering sprains that have left them unknown quantities for the game.

Colorado lost starting guard Larry Cundall for the season after he re-injured a knee last week-end against Iowa State.

Kansas is expected to have halfback Curtis McLinton at full speed against Oklahoma State after being bothered the past two games with a charley horse.

Texas Christian Coach Abe Martin promoted quarterback Sonny Gibbs, halfbacks Harry Moreland and Roy Dent and fullback R.E. Dodson—his No. 2 unit —to the first team for Saturday's game with Pitt.

Minnesota tackle Dick Miller moved to the No. 1 unit after his defensive work last week against Illinois.

Syracuse Coach Ben Schwartzwalder said he planned to drop fullback Art Baker to the second unit for Saturday's game against West Virginia, replacing him with John Nichols. Nichols was the "man who saved our skin" in last Saturday's 21-15 victory over Penn State.

Meeting Tonight

The East Carolina Touchdown Club will meet tonight at 6:30 in the college cafeteria.

All members are urged to be present. Plans will be discussed for "Band Day" this Saturday and the weekend "Pick the Winner" contest winners will be announced.

Lions Are Not Getting Panicky

DETROIT (AP)—We can't afford to get panicky," said George Wilson. We're not going to make any radical changes just because people are yelling at us for losing."

The Detroit Lions' coach has blamed his team's three losses on first, a superior team, second, poor officiating, and third, ineffective quarterbacking.

Wilson announced he will stick with the same lineup, including Jim Ninowski at quarterback. The alternatives at quarterback are Earl Morrall and rookie Warren Rabb.

Wilson and his staff are on the spot after winning only seven of 27 National Football League games since the Lions won everything in Wilson's first season as coach.

But all of them got a vote of confidence Monday from President-General Manager Edwin J. Anderson.

I haven't given up on the coaching staff," Anderson told the Lions' Fan Club weekly luncheon. And I haven't given up on our players. We're going to win some games."

Anderson said he is inclined to shrug off the first three losses as part of the breaks of the game."

Steele Enters Surgery Today

WINSTON-SALEM (AP)—Jerry Steele, co-captain of the Wake Forest College basketball team, was to undergo surgery here today for a knee injury.

The injury was sustained about 10 days ago during informal conditioning workouts, a spokesman reported. Steele is expected to miss Wake Forest's early season games, but be ready for the Dixie Classic Tournament in late December.

Steele, who towers 6-foot-8, is from Elkin.

Meanwhile, Coach Bones McKinney also was informed that 6-foot-10 sophomore Bob Wollard has a cracked bone in his arm. The injury occurred in an off-campus affair in Charlotte over the weekend.

Wollard, from Bloomfield, N.J., averaged 16.2 points-per game with the freshman last winter.

Disciplined For Heavy Criticism

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The National Football League has taken disciplinary action against Ram Coach Bob Waterfield for his criticism of the officiating in the Ram-Chicago Bears game.

Waterfield told the Football Writers Association Monday that Commissioner Pete Rozelle had disciplined him for censuring officials when they disregarded his protests over the jamming of Ram offensive signals. He didn't say what the disciplinary action was.

Waterfield said he told the officials several times that the Bears were mocking the Rams' signal for the offensive charge. Waterfield said this caused illegal procedure calls.

Shortly after the Bear game in Chicago, Waterfield sounded off to the press. In doing so, he told reporters he had subjected himself to a $200 fine.

Paul Richards Is Manager Of Year

NEW YORK (AP)—Paul Richards whose Baltimore Orioles finished second today was named American League Manager of the Year for 1960 in the annual Associated Press poll. Richards drew 111 votes from the 193 baseball writers participating in the balloting. Cookie L. Vagetto of Washington was next with 63 votes. Casey Stengel of the pennant-winning New York Yankees collected the remaining 19.

The Orioles, selected to finish fifth in the preseason Associated Press poll, remained in contention for first place until two weeks before the season's end when they dropped four straight games to the Yankees. They finished eight games behind New York.

The past season was Richards' sixth as the Orioles' pilot. The team's previous high during his

Second Unit Men Report Injuries In Spider's Camp

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

There'll be a little extra incentive for William and Mary's backsliding football team when it goes against the Florida State Seminoles at Tallahassee Saturday night.

Without much doubt, this year's W&M club is the best Coach Milt Brewer has had since he came to Williamsburg in 1957. He had held high hopes for his first winning season: But unless the Indians can repeat their 1959 upset of Florida State, he seems unlikely to have one.

Now at the halfway mark of their campaign, William and Mary has a 2-3 record after consecutive losses to Furman and Virginia Tech. Ahead lie Florida State, Tulane, The Citadel, Vanderbilt and Richmond. In three of these games, the Indians will be underdogs, starting this week.

At Florida State, the Indians will be operating under one distinct handicap. They'll face the Seminoles without the services of their No. 1 ground-gainer, fullback H. C. Thaxton, who's picked up 237 yards. Thaxton was injured in last weekend's 27-0 loss to Virginia Tech and probably won't be available for much duty for a couple of weeks.

The news from the hospital was good at VMI, where the doctors reported that fullback Pat Morrison and guard Bill Haerberlein, both out for several weeks, will be ready for duty against Boston College Saturday. The Keydets held light drills Monday.

Davidson was warned that this week's foe, Southern Conference rival Richmond, "will be tough." Coach Bill Dole put the Wildcats through drills on offense and a short scrimmage and remarked, "we looked a little rusty because of last week's layoff."

Richmond got the word that second unit halfbacks Bob Ridenhour and Steve Stevenson won't be able to play at Davidson because of injuries.

Furman, which meets The Citadel in a conference game Saturday, spent most of its time planning defenses against the Bulldogs' ground game in a long defensive drill.

Virginia Tech's workout was limited to 20 minutes. Tech, which faces non-conference Virginia Saturday at Roanoke, suffered no serious injuries last weekend at William and Mary.

The top of Lookout Mountain, Tenn., where one of the great battles of the Civil War was fought, is now so heavily settled that few home sites are available.

Duke Facing Tough Clemson Team Saturday

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Duke football team is leading the Atlantic Coast Conference, but the Blue Devils—who have played half of their conference schedule—face formidable obstacles before flying the 1960 championship banner.

The first hurdle for Bill Murray's crew comes Saturday when the defending champion Clemson Tigers, roaring from a 19-17 sting-better than anything tossed at Clemson thus far in the 1960 campaign, Clemson, 2-1 in the ACC, is in third place.

Murray, meanwhile, says of Clemson: "You'll see the fightingest bunch of Clemson Tigers ever in Duke Stadium Saturday." He said they always have fine morale and are ready to play—and last week's defeat gives them an added incentive.

Maryland, meanwhile, bids for fourth place in the ACC when it visits Wake Forest this Saturday. Tom Nugent's Terps, morale boosted by beating Clemson, were told that fullback Pat Drass and tackle Roger Shoals would be available this weekend after being injured.

Small and fast is what scout Dick Hunter reported to Wake Forest of Maryland. And Wake's coach, Billy Hildebrand, added that "Maryland's I formation will present a lot of problems for us so we will spend much time on defense this week."

Despite last week's loss to Miami, Fla., South Carolina Coach Warren Giese says "We think, and the players feel, that we showed great improvement." He said hard knocking would continue for this injured list. Virginia plays non-conference Virginia Tech this weekend.

And North Carolina tuned its offense and ran some wind sprints. There were no changes in the Tar Heels first three units.

Virginia reports that Carl Kuhn and Fred Shepherd, the team's leading ground gainer, are on the Hattiesburg, Miss.

Coach Earle Edwards gave N.C. State's first two units the day off. State, which dropped its first game to Duke last Saturday, also steps out of the conference—and playing Mississippi Southern in leading ground gainer, are on the Hattiesburg, Miss.

Practice Briefs

East Carolina

The first two units at East Carolina eased up in practice drills, merely working up a sweat in a light Monday workout.

The entire squad was in full gear with only Nick Hilgert, fullback, nursing an injury. Hilgert received a bruised hip in the Western Carolina game.

The Pirate third unit and freshmen racked noggins in the weekly "Monday Dust Bowl." Halfbacks Frank Galloway and Bill Terrence stood out in the afternoon scrimmage.

Expect Decision

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) —

A grand jury's decision is expected Wednesday in a case involving charges by two American League umpires that they were targets of an extortion plot.

One of the umpires, Bill McKinley, testified before the Anne Arundel County panel Monday.

McKinley and Ed Runge earlier told police two men and a night club dancer were involved in a plot to extort $2,000 from them.

Rose High

Greenville's once-beaten Phantoms stayed indoors part of yesterday afternoon, receiving a scouting report on New Bern, its Friday night foe.

The Phantoms spent the last part of the session working on defenses against the Bruins single-wing attack. The club was reported in good physical condition.

The coaching staff expressed satisfaction with the Elizabeth City game. The running of the Greenville backs was pointed to as the big factor in the conference victory.

Houston Tops In League Offense

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Houston boasts the top offense and Buffalo the stoutest defense in the American Football League.

The Oilers, leading the Eastern Division, have gained 765 yards rushing and 1,021 passing for a five-game average of 357.2.

Buffalo has given up only 592 yards rushing and 746 passing for a 267.5 average in five games.

Robersonville

"Score" was the key word in Robersonville's workout yesterday afternoon as they opened drills for a home bout with undefeated and unscored on Beaufort.

Coach Bob Lee was trying to get his offense tuned up for the Friday night battle. Although heavy underdogs against the state champs, the Rams are determined to crack scoring soil.

Tommy Ward handled the passing yesterday and Billy Smith did the punting as the Rams, also spent emphasis in these two days.

New Stadium For New York Team

NEW YORK (AP) —Blase New Yorkers today shrugged off the return of the National League to the city. Most of them were indifferent.

The new baseball team will be quartered in the borough of Queens where a stadium is to be erected on the site of the World's Fair grounds.

Rep. Francis E. Dorn (R-NY) issued a call to Brooklyn fandom to rally behind him in his campaign to have the new team housed in the borough. He said he would try to find a spot suitable for a ball park if the new owners asked his help.

That's doubtful in view of the fact that plans are almost completed for the new 55,000-seat stadium.

Observed one resident of Flushing, the section in which the new stadium will be located: "It will mean a lot to the people of Flushing. The subway service will have to be improved."

GREENVILLE ACE—Halfback Alan McArthur and the rest of the Phantom football team will be hoping to knock off unbeaten New Bern Friday night. McArthur, a junior, scored three touchdowns and passed for one against Elizabeth City Friday night.

PAUL GALICCO'S NEW BESTSELLER Mrs. 'Arris Goes to New York

CHAPTER 22 Mrs. Harris left off inspecting the Army document that proved Kentucky Claiborne to be little Henry's father, went and sat down because her legs felt so weak. She said, "Oh dear — oh dear!" And then, "Oh Lor', what are we going to do?" Then she asked hoarsely, "Ave you told 'im yet?"

and stood looking down upon it, pulling at her lip and waiting to absorb the message it had to her. Once it had seemed unattainable and the most desirable and longed-for thing on earth. It had been attained, for there it was beneath her eyes, almost as crisp and fresh and frothy as when it had been packed into her suitcase in Paris.

father, or send him back to the horrors of his foster parents, Mrs. Harris knew that no one could help her—not the Schreiber, certainly not Mrs. Butterfield, or even Mr. Bayswater, or her friend the marquis. She would have to make the decision herself. It would have to be made quickly, and whichever she chose would probably never have another moment's quiet peace in her own mind. That's what came of mixing into other people's lives.

ered somewhat, she rejoined Mrs. Butterfield, and far, far into that night and long after little Henry had gone to sleep blissfully unconscious of the storm clouds gathering over his head, they debated his fate. All through the twistings and turnings of arguments, hopes, fears, alternating harebrained plans and down-to-earth common sense, Mrs. Butterfield stuck to one theme which she bloomed with gloomy reiteration, like an African drum: But, dearie, 'e's 'is father, after all, until Mrs. Harris, almost at her wits' end from the emotional strain brought on by the revelation cried, "If you say that once more, I'll blow me top!"

Film People Making Switzerland Home

By BOB THOMAS AP Movie-TV Writer HOLLYWOOD (AP) — What makes Switzerland so attractive to famous names who once inhabited Hollywood?

Is it the crystal, smogless air? The scenic grandeur of the Alps? A more likely reason for the American-Swiss colony is the new financial vista to be gained by residence there.

The fact is that the tiny country is becoming virtually an Alpine Beverly Hills with such inhabitants as Yul Brynner, William Holden, Audrey Hepburn and Mel Ferrer, Deborah Kerr and Peter Viertel, Sophia Loren, etc. not to mention Charlie Chaplin.

To be sure, some are foreign-born, but they have made their fame and most of their fortune in the American film industry, centered in Hollywood. There are other Hollywood actors and creators who live or do most of their work abroad: Jack Palance, Robert Mitchum, Orson Welles, Otto Preminger, Darryl Zanuck, Norman Krasna, Stanley Donen, John Huston.

Some declare they live and work abroad for convenience or for artistic reasons. Brynner has said that it is only accidental that his last four pictures were made out of the country. He explains that he is hard to cast in the usual Hollywood product.

The fact is that there are definite advantages for movie figures to live and work abroad. As a top Hollywood lawyer explained: "Film people often have only a few years of high income; they are not like business and professional people, who can earn good salaries most of their adult lives. It's only natural that they will seek ways to avoid paying 91 per cent of their earnings to the government."

"There are two ways to avoid — not evade — paying American taxes by going overseas. One class, establishes residence in another country, they do not live here or work here, they are not subject to U.S. taxes. They pay taxes in the countries where they receive their money."

"Switzerland is advantageous because residents are taxed in relationship to the size and cost of the house they live in. The amount of income isn't considered. Another advantage is in the secrecy of the Swiss banks."

"He doesn't establish residence anywhere, but keeps moving from one country to another. Thus he pays taxes nowhere."

The tax advantages of living abroad were exploited a few years ago under a totally different method. When the government sought to encourage use of American money and brains to develop foreign countries, it bowed to a request of oil interests to allow suspension of income tax for American workers who spend 18 months abroad.

Alert lawyers at a big talent agency discovered the clause and started shipping name clients overseas. Such figures as Clark Gable, Gregory Peck, Kirk Douglas and Gene Kelly made films abroad until they had served enough time for the tax exemption. But Congress caught on and placed a $20,000 ceiling on the exemption. Nowadays stars have to give up their American residence — not their citizenship — to gain the tax advantage.

But the expatriates are not the sole reason for the continuing decline of production in Hollywood, as we'll see Wednesday.

Pressing Theory Manpower Vital

HONG KONG (AP)—Sources close to the Chinese Communists here said today Mao Tse-tung's theory that manpower, not nuclear bombs, is the weapon to win the next war is being hammered into the mind of every commune member throughout Red China.

The theory is contained in the recently published selected writings of Mao.

The sources said commune members have been told nuclear weapons may destroy many cities but it takes manpower to occupy and run them.

Special Training For Radar Men

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Navy has ordered special training courses to sharpen the perception of radar men aboard "electronic intelligence" ships and planes.

The radar men are being taught to quickly distinguish between radar beams from unfriendly and friendly transmitters.

Such quick distinction is necessary in deciding whether a plane or ship has come under the radar search of a Communist, Allied or U.S. transmitter—and whether counter-radar equipment should be opened up to frustrate the searchers.

The recognition program includes sound tapes, slides and narratives to make a radar man familiar with what radar pings from friendly and unfriendly sources will sound and look like on his equipment. The course also will include instructions on the "type of vehicle from which the signal can be expected to emanate." This presumably means whether the radar beam is coming from an approaching interceptor plane, from a ship or from a land station.

The courses are being assembled by the U.S. Naval Training Device Center at Port Washington, L.I., and will be put into general use as soon as they become available.

Review Need Of Emergency Line

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP)—An investigation has been ordered to determine the necessity of the emergency telephone setup in suburban Metairie. The cost—over $10,000 per call—was considered too high.

The system, installed at a cost of $32,000, consisted of 284 telephones in strategic spots connected to Fire Department circuits.

Officials ordered the probe after learning only three calls were made last year.

Missing Son Is Found Napping

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. (AP)—An hour after Harry J. O'Brien of nearby Oreland left for work his wife discovered their son Tommy, 2, was missing. Soon the entire neighborhood was searching.

Nearly two hours later Mrs. O'Brien called her husband to come home when the search failed to turn up the boy.

When O'Brien went to his car, he found Tommy in the rear asleep on the floor.

German Scientist Expects Cheaper Uranium Refining

BONN, Germany (AP)—A leading German nuclear scientist said the day is approaching for uranium-refining machines costing about the same as an automobile does in the United States.

The West German government a few days ago moved to hang the secret label on the patent for the gas centrifuge method of refining uranium developed by Prof. Wilhelm Groth. The move was taken at the request of the United States, which fears lest atomic weapons get into the hands of irresponsible small governments.

chemistry at Bonn University, said in an interview that it will take at least a year, probably two, "before the instrument is developed enough to be used for commercial purposes."

Cost for installation: about 10,000 marks ($2,380). The greatest money saving the centrifuge method has over the accepted diffusion procedure now used in the United States, Soviet Union and Britain lies in the installation of the device, Groth said.

The centrifuge is used to separate uranium 235 from the heavy isotope U238. U238 is used as fuel in nuclear reactors.

Both methods begin after the uranium ore has been reduced to gas. In the centrifuge method the gas is whirled about at enormous speeds, isolating the richer U235 much as wheat is isolated from chaff.

In the diffusion method, the gas is pressed through tiny holes by the force of electrically produced thermal energy. This must be repeated many times to produce U235 rich enough to be used as fuel in nuclear weapons.

Prof. Werner Heisenberg, Nobel Prize-winning nuclear physicist and director of the Max Planck Institute for Physics in Munich, has said he did not attach much importance to the centrifuge method.

Heisenberg said he didn't think the method would reduce production costs considerably. He said the United States had experimented with it but decided to use gaseous diffusion as the cheaper process.

Groth suggested the reason the United States did not use the centrifuge during World War II was because of lack of certain raw materials necessary to produce the apparatus.

"And now that the Americans have spent $3 billion on the diffusion plants, they certainly are not going to change over," he said.

READY TO VOTE AT 103—Miss Emma Hurd, still vote-minded at 103, smiled as she registered her party affiliation for Nov. 8 election at Auburn, N. Y. What party? "Republican of course," she laughed. Oil Producers Turning To 'Outside Problems'

By SAM DAWSON AP Business News Analyst NEW YORK (AP)—Many in the oil business are finding the grass looking greener on the other side of the fence. Oil producers of varying sizes are turning to other fields to add to income or to off set some of the problems in their own industry.

At home, the problems are oversupply of crude and oil products, price weakness and imports. Abroad they include growing competition, unrest among Mideast oil producing nations, and market raiding by the price-cutting Soviet Union.

Major oil producers long since have established themselves in petrochemicals, shipping and pipelines and the like.

Now oil firms are branching out into such fields as land development, electronics, boating, books, food processing, variety stores, missiles and banking.

Sunset International Petroleum, Los Angeles, has a $7.5-million, 4,000-acre tract in San Diego, and plans a billion-dollar development on 12,000 acres in the Sacramento area.

Standard Oil of California has a 27-acre development near Long Beach, California, and through its Huntington Beach Development Co. has opened a motel, trailer park and restaurant.

Hydrocarbons Inc., specialist in the secondary recovery of oil and gas, has the $36-million Berkeley Shores Estates in New Jersey.

Diversa-Cal Properties and 83 per cent of Simi Valley Development Co., both land projects near Los Angeles.

In the last year it has branched out into other fields, acquiring United Petroleum Gas, Minneapolis Minn., marketer of liquefied petroleum gas and natural gas; Rich Plan Corp., Dallas, Tex., distributor of Carrier home freezers and Rich Plan frozen foods; 88 per cent of Chicago City Bank & Trust; and 90 per cent of Texas Electronic Products.

Hunt Oil Co. also has gone into the food processing business. Ada Oil Co. now has a chain of variety stores in southeastern Texas.

Oil equipment and services firms also are widely diversified. An early one was the Hughes Tool Co. which branched out into air transportation through Trans World Airlines, movie production, aircraft and electronics.

Socony Mobil is selling travel guides at its stations in league with Simon & Schuster.

But sometimes diversification backfires. One of the biggest oil firms stocked toys and seeds and shrubbery in its stations until local business complained of the competition.

Vanished When Smoking Resumed

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A disorder which appeared in four patients after they stopped smoking cigarettes vanished dramatically when they took up the habit again, says a medical journal.

These strange cases were reported by Dr. Ralph Bookman of Beverly Hills, in an article in California Medicine, official journal of the California Medical Association.

The disorder was canker sores in the mouth and on the tongue. They developed a few days after smoking was stopped.

Exile Says Red Taint Will Fade

PITTSBURGH (AP)—An exiled leader of the Polish government says his country will shed the bonds of communism "by evolutionary steps, not by revolution."

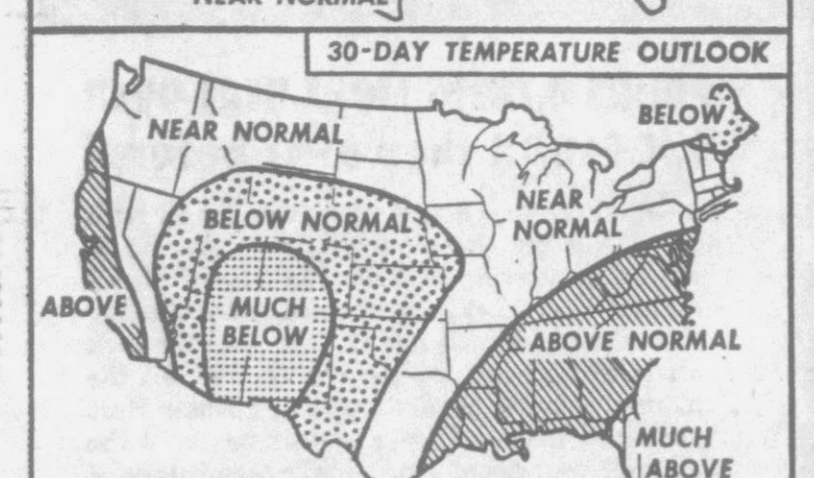

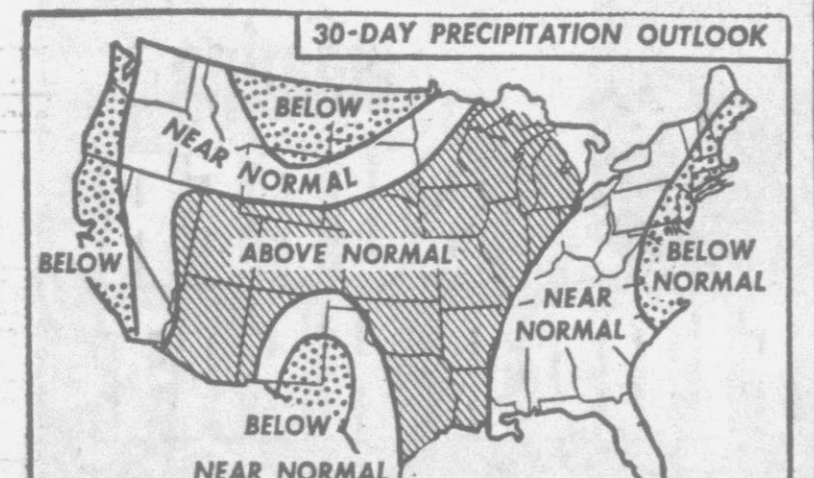

"It will be a slow process, but we must be patient, so that not only Poland, but all nations will be free again," Prince Stanislaw Radzivil said Sunday.

Radzivil, a brother-in-law to Sen. John F. Kennedy, Democratic candidate for president, spoke at the annual Pulaski Day dinner of the Western Pennsylvania Division of the Polish-American Congress.

Propagandizing Khrushchev Plan

MOSCOW (AP)—Propaganda drums along the Communist circuit: beat mostly Sunday in support of Premier Khrushchev's program for total disarmament and demands to end colonialism. The soviet Communist party organ Pravda led off with a page-long article headed, "Colonialisms will be smashed."

The paper published a map showing the northern two-thirds of the African continent largely free, except for Algeria. But the southern one-third was shown wrapped in chains.

WEATHER OUTLOOK—These maps forecast the probable temperatures and precipitation for the next 30 days. They were released by the U. S. Weather Bureau Oct. 14. (AP Wirephoto Map)

Captured One Of 'Most Wanted'

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP)—A suburban policeman parlayed good eyesight and memory, a newspaper photo and an FBI circular into the capture Monday of one of the nation's most sought after criminals.

Patrolman Robert May of Kirkwood recognized Charles Francis Higgins, 34, as one of the FBI's 10 Most Wanted Men.

Sunday night May read a St. Louis Globe-Democrat story that the fugitive might be in the St. Louis area. He studied Higgins' picture.

Monday morning, the patrolman, 29, dug out the FBI circular, read that Higgins was a heavy drinker and had the initials "C. H." tattooed on his right forearm.

That afternoon, May spotted Higgins staggering along a street. At the police station a fingerprint check quickly proved Higgins' identity.

"If he hadn't been staggering I might not have noticed him," May said.

Higgins was sought as an escapee from the Colorado penitentiary where he was serving a term for robbery.

Launch Hunt For Two Adventurers

PINELLAS PARK, Fla. (AP)—Law enforcement officers and the Coast Guard are searching for two teenage adventurers who set out in a 14-foot boat to see what the world looks like.

The sheriff's office said Jimmy

Harmon, 14, and Walter P. Fuller, 13, had enough supplies for a month. They had a school friend deliver a note to their parents after shoving off Monday. The note said they were not mad at anyone but wanted to see the world.

Record Turnout In N.C. Indicated

RALEIGH (AP) — The fierce presidential campaign and keen interest in state and local politics may result in a record turnout of voters in North Carolina Nov. 8. Reports from several Tar Heel counties which have permanent registration systems show that record numbers are signed up to vote.

In Mecklenburg County registration will reach a record of more than 100,000. Preliminary figures were above normal in Wake and Cumberland counties. Forsyth County registration has been extremely heavy. The period there does not close until Saturday.

Six North Carolina counties, Cumberland, Guilford, Forsyth, Mecklenburg, Wake and Wilson, have permanent registration. Persons may register throughout the year except for a few weeks before an election or primary.

Rev. Irby Jackson Presiding Today At Fall Session

PLYMOUTH—Rev. Irby B. Jackson, of Greenville association moderator of the South Roanoke Baptist Association, will preside at the annual fall session which began today.

Also participating in the annual fall session of the association is Rev. P. B. Upchurch of Greenville, who delivered the Association Sermon today.

Tuesday's sessions are being held at the Ludford Memorial Baptist Church here. Messengers from the Baptist churches in the six-county area of the association will meet to hear reports of Baptist work and inspirational messages by Baptist leaders and to transact the business of the association.

The general theme of the meeting is "Good Stewards of the Manifold Grace of God." This is in keeping with the 1961 Baptist Jubilee Advance There, "Stewardship and Enlistment."

On Wednesday the session will convene at the First Baptist Church in Wilson. Election of officers will take place on Wednesday afternoon.

Bear Lured By Bottled Drinks

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — Nervous police officers lured a black bear back to his cage on a highway with two bottles of soft drink and a quart of milk.

The bear had escaped from its cage in front of a motel, entered a chicken house and was calmly de-feathering and devouring a hen when police arrived.

The offer of a soda and milk chaser was promptly accepted and the bear was again caged.

Local Policeman Injured In Fight During Arrest

Optimists Plan Yule Project

Greenville's Optimist Club last night announced plans for pre-season sales of Christmas tree tickets, an annual Optimist project. Chairman Johnny Maye of the tickets committee told Optimists the tickets "will be ready for sale by the first of next week."

The local Optimist group, as last year, will sell Christmas trees at Elm St. Park as a fund-raising project to finance its "Friend of the Boy" activities.

Under this year's program, purchasers of tickets will use them as coupons toward purchase of Christmas Trees when they arrive in early December. Prices of the tickets are constant.

New Optimist Bill Talton was declared the winner of last night's program presented by Optimist Jack Turnage. In the program, Optimists alternated in relating "all tales and anecdotes." Talton was declared the winner by Optimist President Walter Whitehurst. M. E. "Red" Cavendish reported plans for the club's annual sponsorship of Youth Appreciation Week Nov. 14-20 are nearing completion. The special observance is sponsored by the local Optimist group in conjunction with Optimist International.

FBI Notes Red Envoys Also Spy

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover today quoted estimates that between 70 and 80 per cent of the Iron Curtain diplomatic representatives in this country have "some type of espionage assignment."

In an address prepared for the American Legion's national convention, Hoover said "they are today feverishly attempting to obtain this country's secrets."

He did not give the source of the estimates, but said they came from reliable sources.

"The long list of Soviet officials declared persona non grata by this government following their exposure by the FBI as espionage agents bears testimony to their flagrant abuse of diplomatic status," he said.

Hoover addressed the convention and praised its Americanism program after receiving the 1960 award of the American Legion Press Association.

Revolution Goes On Chess Board

BERLIN (AP)—The East German Communists have taken their Marxist revolution to the chess board.

Kings and queens have been toppled from their thrones and knights unhorsed in a new set of chess figures designed to represent "the forward thrusting revolutionary spirit."

The new chessmen are on display at Leipzig in an exhibition in connection with the chess Olympics opening here Sunday.

The king is now a worker, reading a Communist economic plan. He is supposed to typify the creative power of the working class.

The queen is a rather plain woman, with hair in a severe bun. She is a woman scientist representing "the progressive intelligentia" hand in hand with the workers.

The bishop is a relay runner and the knight a prancing, well-drilled show horse. These two figures were said to show Communist achievement in sport.

The castle, or rook, is a factory worker in overalls carrying a sub-machinegun across his chest. As a member of the factory militia, he shows communism's ability to defend itself.

Dr. Eller Talks To Lions About State Of Alaska

Dr. Frank W. Eller of the East Carolina College Science Department spoke to the Greenville Lions Club last night about the state of Alaska.

Dr. Eller, who has studied at the University of Alaska, told the Lions of the geographical wealth and beauty of the 49th state and illustrated his talk with a series of color pictures of the region.

He also showed pictures of the natives and their way of life in contrast to the modern Alaskan cities and the scientific research that is being conducted at the university.

Guests at the meeting included A. F. Felton, John Felton, and Junior Lion Billy Neal James, a student at Ross High School.

Boys Lose Lives Playing 'Chicken'

SOUTHPORT, N.C. (AP)—Two young boys lost their lives Monday night while playing a game of "chicken" on the highway, police report.

The fatal accident touched off a widespread search for a non-existent hit-and-run driver.

State Highway Patrol Sgt. A. H. Clark, who did not clear up the confusion surrounding the case until today, said that 8-year-old William Clarence Williamson and 9-year-old Donald Allen Stidham were paying a suicidal game: lying in the highway until a car approached, then leaping clear.

Sgt. Clark said this information came from youths at the scene. On N. C. 211 just inside the Southport city limits, and a passing truck driver who lived nearby.

Malcolm Frink, 39, of Southport, was placed under bond of $1,000 pending a coroner's inquest, but no formal charges were filed against him.

Confusion at the scene prompted reports that a white sports car had hit the two boys and fled. Roadblocks were set up — and not pulled down until about midnight, four hours after the accident — and police from at least three towns assisted State Highway Patrolmen of both Carolinas in a search for what was thought to be a hit-and-run driver.

One policeman even chased a white sports car for about 5 miles. State Highway Patrolman H. F. Deal said the car Frink was driving belonged to a coast guard station stationed at Southport. The officer said Frink stated he passed a pickup truck en route to Wilmington and while in the left lane noticed some foreign matter in the highway.

The officer said Frink related that he proceeded to a wide place in the road where he turned around and returned to see what he had struck.

Another patrolman, Roscoe Edwards, said he was notified the boys had been killed and upon arriving at the scene, took off in pursuit of the car. Edwards said he was gone only a short while and upon returning found Frink at the scene.

Deal said law enforcement agencies in the southeastern tip of North Carolina were alerted upon Edwards' report to prevent the car from leaving the vicinity. When Frink was at the scene, the search was discontinued.

Carrier Boy's Lost Money Is Found, Returned

An honest man returned $28 in collection money to a Daily Reflector carrier boy yesterday.

The funds were lost by newspaper carrier Mike Davis on Tenth St. They were found by a man driving a television station WITN car.

Young Davis, who was near the Reflector office when he discovered the loss, retraced his steps.

The WITN employee saw the boy searching in the E. Tenth St. area. When the carrier identified the money the television man returned it to him.

Davis had been on his way to the Reflector office when he lost the $28.

Officials at WITN in Washington this morning identified the man who found the money as P. A. Taylor, Jr., an advertising salesman. He lives in Greenville at 2407 E. Third St.
