'Get Well' Is Said In A Great Big Way

PATROLMAN JOYNER . . . in bed with his giant get-well card.

How can I thank all of those children? That is the question Greenville police patrolman Earl Joyner was asking today. Joyner, hospitalized last Monday after being attacked by three men as he was arresting one of them, received a gigantic get-well remembrance from Elmhurst School.

President Rates U.S. As History's Most Powerful

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—President Eisenhower rates America as history's most powerful nation. He says it needs no giant new defense programs or any massive economic shot in the arm from the federal government. The President ended a cross-country speaking tour on that note Monday night—a nine-day trip filled by the White House as non-political. Today he flies back to Washington to prepare for putting on his political gloves in a stretch-drive effort to elect the Nixon-Lodge ticket.

Disarmament Debate In UN Is All But Abandoned By Soviet

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The Soviet Union virtually wrote off the current U.N. disarmament debate today by declaring that the only way of solving the arms problem is to convene a special session of the General Assembly next spring at the summit level. Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian A. Zorin made a new appeal to the Western powers to accept the Soviet approach, but he said "it is becoming increasingly evident that at present the United States is not ready to hold productive negotiations on disarmament."

Presidential Adviser Doubts Recession Theory

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower's chief economic adviser said today that economic facts do not sustain the theory that we are heading into a recession despite the summer dip in the nation's production. "I think the American economy is today in a good position to make another major advance," said Raymond J. Saulnier, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers. His speech was prepared for the convention of the Iowa Bankers Association in Des Moines, but the White House distributed text to newsmen in advance.

Castro Regime Seizes 167 More U. S.-Owned Firms

HAVANA (AP)—Fidel Castro's government today confiscated the most valuable remaining American-owned firms in Cuba to retaliate for the United States embargo on most exports to Cuba. A new nationalization decree ordered the seizure of 167 firms, leaving 213 American companies untouched. Most of those still not in government hands are comparatively small, and U.S. officials estimate their value at probably no more than $25 million.

Probe Possible 'Leak' Of Opinion Poll Taken Abroad

WASHINGTON (AP)—A House subcommittee staff is checking whether the government has made and kept secret an overseas poll of opinions on U.S. prestige. Rep. John E. Moss, D-Calif., chairman of a House Government Information subcommittee, directed the inquiry at the U. S. Information Agency (USIA). His action followed a CBS radio report Monday that a secret poll made by the agency showed overwhelming belief in other countries that Soviet military strength will surpass that of the United States within 10 years.

Killing Frost In Piedmont Area

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS A mass of cold air which swept into North Carolina Monday caused temperatures to tumble during the night to the lowest readings since last April. The Raleigh-Durham Airport reported a low of 30 degrees early today, the lowest on record for Oct. 25. The area had a light frost. A killing frost hit the Greensboro area, where the low was 31.

Several weather stations reported light frost, including Fayetteville and Wilmington. Hickory reported a low of 33, Elizabeth City 32, Wilmington 35, Cherry Point 40, New Bern 34, Winstonsalem 36, Asheville 33, Charlotte 34, Hatteras 47, Goldsboro 35 and Fayetteville 31. The forecast was for fair and rather cold weather today with high temperatures in the middle and upper 50s.

The weather bureau reported the temperature tonight should reach close to the same level of Monday night. It may drop as low as 30 in the mountains. A warm trend is expected late Wednesday.

Advises West To 'Demand More'

NEW YORK (AP)—The Estonian sailor who fled from Soviet Premier Khrushchev's liner Baltika says the West should "demand more from the Kremlin and yield less to false maneuvers." Viktor Jaaminets, in his first formal speech since being granted political asylum here, told delegates to the Assembly of Captive European Nations Monday. "Many tremble behind the Iron Curtain waiting for deeds of men from among you and your friends." The sailor jumped the Baltika while it was tied up in New York.

London's Gold Rush Persists Despite Denials

LONDON (AP)—The price of gold on the London bullion market opened at $37.80 an ounce today and quickly jumped to $38.36. Monday's closing price was $37.80. The rush to buy gold, which began last week, persisted despite official denials that the United States plans to increase its bullion price of $35 an ounce. The price of gold on the London market is fixed by five companies that handle the metal.

Sixteen Freight Cars Jump Track

SALTERS, S.C. (AP)—Sixteen freight cars of an Atlantic Coast Line railroad train jumped the track and piled up here early today. About 1,000 feet of track were torn up, closing the line to north and southbound traffic. Some of the cars crashed into the automobile bridge on U.S. 321 crossing the tracks. The bridge was closed temporarily to traffic.

These included the Nicaro Nickel Co. and such top luxury hotels as the Riviera, Hilton, Capri and Nacional. The government also has taken over operation of the Moa Bay Co. so its confiscation is only a formality to be taken when Castro needs something else to present to his people as a retaliatory action against the United States. Also confiscated under the decree issued at dawn were the Cuban properties of the Coca-Cola Bottling Co., Westinghouse, General Electric, the Minimax chain of supermarkets, Reynolds International Aluminum, the Railway Express Agency, the Havana racetrack and Havana's only air-repaired car service.

Suicide Verdict On Finding Body Alvin Wingfield

RALEIGH (AP)—Alvin Wingfield Jr., 40, who ran a colorful but unsuccessful campaign for the U.S. Senate in 1954, was found dead here today. Wake County Coroner Marshall Bennett ruled suicide by poison. Wingfield's body was found in his car, parked near National Cemetery. Officers said he apparently had drunk cyanide and another liquid. Raleigh Police Chief Tom Davis said a note was found in which Wingfield appealed to news media to be considerate of his family—a wife and five children. In the note, Davis said Wingfield wrote that if he knew another way out he would take it.

'False Issue' By Nixon Is Charged

IN ILLINOIS WITH KENNEDY (AP)—Sen. John F. Kennedy campaigned in Chicago suburbs today with a charge that Richard M. Nixon raised a false issue to defeat federal aid to education. The Democratic candidate said the false issue is a fear that federal controls would go along with federal funds for school construction and teachers' salaries. Kennedy made the charge in a speech prepared for delivery at a shopping center in Carpentersville. It was one of many stops planned in a 14-hour motorcade of an area heavily populated with young families.

It was part of Kennedy's push for Illinois' 27 electoral votes. Kennedy said Nixon, his Republican opponent, could have passed the Senate last February a bill providing federal funds for school construction and teachers' salaries. The Senate tied 44-44 on the issue. The Vice President may vote to break the tie. "But he did not vote," Kennedy said, "and then he made his speech clear. He voted to break another tie and prevented reconsideration of the measure."

Sentence Six As Spies For Israel

CAIRO, Egypt (AP)—An Egyptian court today sentenced six foreigners convicted of spying for Israel to prison terms ranging from 7 to 15 years. The court ordered death sentences for three of the 11 Egyptians tried with the foreigners. The others got prison terms ranging up to 15 years at labor. An Egyptian woman—the only woman defendant—was given a six-month sentence.

Strikes, Fights In East Germany

BERLIN (AP)—West Berlin sources today reported strikes and fights in Communist East Germany because of hidden wage cuts. The strikes were said to have occurred at government railroad repair shops in Cottbus and Eberswalde, east of Berlin, in the first half of October. After several hours, a private intelligence agency said, the strikers went back to work with promises that the old pay scales would prevail. The reports came from the Free Jurists Committee. It said a similar report had been received from the state airplane factory at Dresden, but that it could not be confirmed.

Declares U.S. Is 'Common Enemy'

TOKYO (AP)—Cuban Health Minister Jose Ramon Machado Ventura has called the United States the common enemy of Cuba and Communist China, Peiping radio said today. The broadcast said Ventura in an interview just before leaving Peiping said: "Our two countries have a common enemy, U.S. imperialism." Ventura is now in North Korea.

Tobacco Markets Of Greenville, Farmville Look To Final Sales

Tobacco markets in Farmville and Greenville will close Friday and Monday after experiencing better-than-average seasons, officials reported today. No official word was heard from Robersonville's market, but observers said the market there may close Friday.

Local Mart Closing Monday; Expect Season Volume Over 60 Million Lbs.

Sales Supervisor Louis Williams, speaking for the Farmville Tobacco Board of Trade, said the market there will have its last sales activity of the 1960 season Friday. W. L. Whedbee said today the executive committee of the Greenville Tobacco Board of Trade has set Monday as the closing date here. The Greenville market, Whedbee said, will probably wind up its 1960 season with a total volume of over 60 million pounds. Last year's total poundage was recorded as 47,330,580 pounds.

Four Chairmen For Demo Drives

Four Pitt County Democrats have been appointed to chairmanships of special campaign drives to elect Democratic candidates Nov. 8. Miss Janice Hardison, English instructor at East Carolina College and delegate to the National Democratic Convention last summer, has been named county chairman of the Telephone for Kennedy Campaign. Claude Harris, Greenville attorney; Bill McLawhorn of Ayden; and Bill Hamilton of East Carolina College have been named heads of planning in their respective areas for Democrats Visiting Day slated Nov. 1. Miss Hardison's appointment came from Mrs. Willard M. Marley of Durham, state chairman of the Telephone for Kennedy Campaign. According to Mrs. Marley, North Carolina Democratic women will "complete at least one million calls for Sen. Kennedy before Nov. 8."

After 28 Years, Re-Open Case Of Husband's Death

LOS ANGELES (AP)—After 28 years, the district attorney's office is again investigating the death of writer-producer Paul Bern, husband of the late Jean Harlow. Bern's death in 1932 was listed officially as suicide. Miss Harlow died five years later, at 26, of uremic poisoning. Dist. Atty. William B. McKesson said Monday a fresh inquiry is being made because writer Ben Hecht said in a recent magazine article that a suicide note reputedly left by the 42-year-old Bern was a forgery. Hecht charged that Bern was murdered by another woman whom he did not name. Hecht's article said film studio officials decided it was better that the public believe Bern killed himself than to let it be known that Miss Harlow could not keep her husband.

Groom's Father Performs Rites

WILMINGTON—Miss Martha Ann Mote and Robert Fisher Goff were married Saturday, October 15, at Temple Baptist Church.

The Rev. John L. Goff, father of the groom, performed the double-ring ceremony. He was assisted by Dr. W. D. Morris, pastor. Traditional wedding music was presented by Mrs. G. C. Gilbert, organist, and Mrs. O. E. Durant Jr., vocalist.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Frederick Mote and the bridegroom is the son of the Rev. and Mrs. John L. Goff of Ayden.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a formal gown of candlelight rose point lace and silk satin. The molded bodice featured an inset of tuck satin at the waistline and long tapered sleeves and a scalloped sabrina neckline which was embroidered in seed pearls and crystals. The bell skirt with scalloped hemline was fashioned with a carriage back topped with satin puffs and flowed into a chapel train. Her circular veil of silk illusion was attached to a crystal crown. She carried a bridal bouquet.

Miss Nancy Mote was her sister's maid of honor and bridesmaids were Miss Sylvia Thompson of Wilmington, Miss Martha Benton of Raleigh, Miss Jane Eart of Smithfield, and Mrs. Troy R. Jackson of Winterville, sister of the bridegroom.

The attendants wore tea length dresses of silk chiffon in French line fashioned with scooped neckline, short sleeves and bouffant skirt. They used a matching circular moline veil and carried bouquets of yellow Fuji chrysanthemums tied with green satin ribbon.

J. Warren Goff of Williamston was his brother's best man and ushers were John L. Goff Jr. brother of the groom, Gastonia; Maurice S. Moore, Hopewell, Va. brother-in-law of the groom; Eugene Miller of Wilmington; and Bruce Hanley of New York City.

The bride's mother wore an afternoon sheath dress of peau de soie and alencon lace in Moonstone. She used matching accessories. The bridegroom's mother used an afternoon dress of soft green lace over satin with harmonizing accessories. Both wore corsages of white orchids.

The bride's parents entertained with a reception in Fellowship Hall of the church following the rites. The bride is a graduate of New Hanover High School and Rex School of Nursing, Raleigh.

The bridegroom attended East Carolina College and North Carolina State College where he was graduated in Industrial Engineering. He is a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity, and is with the Superior Chair Company in Maiden, N. C.

After a wedding trip to the mountains of North Carolina and Tennessee, the couple will reside in Lincoln.

A.A.U.W. And Sigma Pi Alpha Entertain At Tea

In observance of United Nations Week, the East Carolina College Chapter of the honorary foreign languages fraternity Sigma Pi Alpha, and the Greenville Branch of the American Association of University Women, entertained Sunday afternoon at a tea, honoring foreign students now attending the college.

Approximately 125 people attended the social event at the Greenville Art Center, and were welcomed by members of the two organizations.

Among those receiving guests were Mrs. Robert L. Humber, chairman for Greenville of United Nations Week, and Dr. Humber; Dr. Kathleen Stokes, president of the city AAUW; Miss Cynthia Parker of Stokes, president of the college Sigma Pi Alpha Chapter, and Mrs. Margaret Perry, faculty advisor; Mr. James L. Fleming, director of the East Carolina department of foreign languages, and Mrs. Fleming and Miss Christine Johnston of the AAUW.

An exhibition of articles representing the countries in which the honor guests live was a special attraction of the tea. Included were pottery, weaving, embroidery, glassware, carvings in ivory and other materials, costumes, jewelry, leather goods, pictures, and other examples of arts and crafts.

Those who contributed to the exhibition included Mrs. Kirsten Benton of Sweden, Miss Kay Rodriguez of Mexico, Miss Sheila Guthrie of South Africa, Miss Julia Escalona of Chile, Mr. Hugh Motlagh of Iran, Miss Maggi Tamura of Japan, Mr. Tommy Heath of Randeman, all East Carolina students; Dr. Bessie McNeil, Dr. Jean Lowry, Dr. Kathleen Dunlop, Dr. Sue Matz, Dr. Henry Wanderman of the East Carolina faculty; and Mrs. Agnes Barrett of the college administrative staff.

During the afternoon guests were served refreshments from an appointed table.

Sigma Pi Alpha will also participate in the observance of United Nations Week by sponsoring Thursday, a presentation of the comedie Francaise production of Moliere's "Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme" with dialog in French and subtitles in English. Five showings will take place at the State Theater at the following hours: 1 p.m., 3 p.m., 5 p.m., 7 p.m., and 9 p.m. Tickets are now on sale from fraternity members, or at the College Union.

Miss Bowen Weds Mr. Wood

ORMONDSVILLE—In a ceremony at the home of the bride's parents, Miss Eloise Bowen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alford Bowen of Ormondsville, became the bride of Harrison Lee Wood, son of Mr. and Mrs. Virley Wood of Hookerton.

The Rev. A. C. Morgan, pastor of the St. Delight Free Will Baptist Church of Ormondsville, assisted by the Rev. R. L. Norville of Farmville, officiated.

The bride wore a royal blue suit designed by her sister, Mrs. J. E. Farmer of Lincoln, Neb. Her hat matched the suit which was also designed by her sister, and wore black accessories. She added a white corsage to her costume.

by the DuPont Co. of Kinston and the bridegroom is employed with Ayden Tractor and Implement Co. of Ayden.

After a wedding trip, the couple will reside in Ormondsville.

Red Oak HD Has Meeting

Members of the Red Oak Home Demonstration Club at the September meeting heard Miss Betty Lane Evans, former Miss North Carolina, give a talk on "Poise and Personality."

She demonstrated to the members ways to walk, sit, stand, smile and speak. At the conclusion of her talk, a question and answer period followed.

Mrs. B.L. Tyson and Mrs. Scott Heath were hostesses for this meeting.

On Wednesday, Home Economics Agent Mrs. Sue May, talked on "Living With Others." She compared one's life to that of a field of tobacco—one side growing and developing into a fine crop, the other side withering and dying. One can take the positive attitude of finding some good in everyone, or the negative attitude of finding fault. She concluded by asking the question, "Is Your Spiritual Harvest Great Or Small?"

Mrs. Charles Jackson, vice president, climaxed this talk with a devotion. She used fruits to represent joy, happiness, peace, love, kindness, patience, etc., and as she talked she placed each fruit in a basket. Mrs. Jackson stated, that is how our daily living can be—in place and lovely or all out of place. She concluded her devotion with a poem she had written.

Mrs. Joe Sutton and Mrs. Thurman Page were hostesses for the afternoon.

The bride and the bridegroom are both graduates of Maury High School. The bride is now employed

Mrs. Roosevelt Speaks HD Clubs During UN Tour

NEW YORK CITY—Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt predicted today that the United Nations will be stronger after the excitement of the past few weeks has died down. It will not only be stronger in membership, she said, "but we have awakened to the strong need of the United Nations assembly for world peace."

Mrs. Roosevelt was speaking to 174 North Carolina Home Demonstration Club women who are on an educational study tour of the United Nations Headquarters.

"People have become more interested in the activities of the United Nations in the last few weeks," she said. "And our delegates can do a better job when they know what their own people stand for."

Mrs. Roosevelt reminded the delegates that there are now 99 states in the United Nations which means the greater part of the world is represented in the assembly. "In some of the countries, education is practically non-existent," said Mrs. Roosevelt. "We must establish an educational system, strengthen health programs and be ready to help on the economic side. This can all be done through the United Nations," she said. "I have been criticized for entertaining certain visitors in my home recently, but you must remember unless we learn to talk to each other and live together, we will certainly die together."

Mrs. Marion McVitty, chairman of the Conference of Non-Governmental United Nations Observers, spoke to the delegates and clarified their thinking on many questions concerning recent happenings in the United Nations. Dr. Clark Eichelberger spoke briefly on the United Nations Week Observance, Oct. 24-30.

The delegates toured the headquarters and obtained information which will help them in reporting to their counties when they return home. The buildings were only reopened to the public on Monday. Private briefings have been held on China and Africa for the Tar Heel delegation.

The group will return home Saturday after visiting the Frick Art Gallery, Franklin Roosevelt home at Hyde Park and West Point Military Academy.

Glamorous Baths

The budget may not stretch far enough for the pink marble bathtub you've always dreamed of, but even a tiny bathroom can be made infinitely more glamorous by adding just one or two "Midas touches."

For example, a gold-plated soap dish in a fluted shell design gives a look of real luxury without fracturing the budget. A gleaming clothes hook in matching motif is as utilitarian as it is decorative, and a handsome gold double towel ring will encourage even the kids to replace their towels after washing!

Notes On The Passing Scene

Mrs. Lib Bodkin, president of the Greenville Music Club, Mrs. W. A. Pollard Jr., Mrs. Ann De La Mater and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Bennett attended the District Meeting, Northeastern District, of the North Carolina Federation of Music Clubs held at Elizabeth City on Saturday, Oct. 22. The meeting was held in the First Methodist Church and lunch was served by the Woman's Society of Christian Service. As a part of the program which followed the luncheon Mr. Bennett played a viola solo accompanied by Mrs. Bennett.

Mr. William De La Mater left Friday evening after a visit with his mother, Mrs. Ann De La Mater. He will be on official business for the Panama Canal Company in New York and Chicago for several weeks before returning to the Canal Zone where he is employed as management engineer with the Panama Canal Company.

Sorority's 58th Anniversary Is Celebrated With Banquet

The Zeta Lambda Chapter of Delta Zeta Sorority celebrated the 58th anniversary of its founding with a banquet here Monday.

Former advisors for the group, Mrs. Lillian Shotwell, sorority Mrs. Lillian Brat, Mrs. Spain and alumnae.

Traditional candlelighting ceremony honoring the sorority's six founders was conducted by DeLoress Holt, Barbara Jones, Jane Chandler, Joyce Currin, Amy Sue Gwaltney, Julie Moser.

Delta Zeta was established on the East Carolina campus in February, 1902 and is one of 129 college chapters and 182 alumnae chapters which have been established since the sorority's founding at Miami University, Oxford, Ohio in 1902.

On this occasion the Delta Zeta Woman of the Year winner was announced as Arlene Davis (Mrs. M. T.), of Cleveland, Ohio, internationally known in fields of aviation education. This honor is accorded each year to an alumnae of the national college sorority who has made outstanding contributions in and beyond her community.

Mrs. Davis is an alumnae of Baldwin-Wallace chapter of Delta Zeta, at Berea, Ohio. She was sponsored by the Cleveland West-side Delta Zeta alumnae chapter.

Since she won her first air race in 1934 (a close-pylon contest) her accomplishments are partly told in the pages of "Who's Who in Aviation;" in the Congressional Record of 1952 when she was chosen "Woman of the Year in Aviation;" and a citation for distinguished service to aviation from the national committee to observe the 50th Anniversary of Powered Flight.

In 1939 she became the highest rated woman pilot in the country entitled to fly all types of land and sea planes. After piloting a jet in 1954 she became one of the first members of the Air Force Jet Clan. In 1955 she became the 17th woman in the world licensed to fly a helicopter.

She serves the U. S. as its delegate to the Federated Aeronautique Internationale (represented in this country by N.A.A.).

Today more than 16 honorary and professional organizations count her as a member.

Dr. Leo A. Douglas of the Social Studies Department at East Carolina College was guest speaker for the evening. He spoke on the topic "Are Founders Immortal?"

Special guests for the occasion included: Mrs. Helen Snyder, College Chapter Director, Miss Ruth White, Dean of Women at East Carolina, Mr. and Mrs. William Hart and Mr. and Mrs. Sam Dry.

Art Glass Is Popular In Homes

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Some of the most popular objects sought by antique collectors are not really antique at all.

Art glass, as it is known, is the fancy colored glass of the '80s, '90s, and early 1900s. It was popular in Victorian homes, likely to be seen on mantel piece or sideboard.

The hitch is, it doesn't meet the 1830 antique date set by the government; it therefore is not classified as antique although many dealers specialize in it.

Production of art glass began when a Chinese vase of the Tang period was copied by two glass-works houses. It was called Peach Blow, a satiny vase that shaded from rose-red to pale yellow over a white lining. One of these vases could cost a small fortune today.

Antique dealers who realize there just aren't enough pre-1830 curios to keep their stocks supplied once again offer art glass at the New York Antiques Fair, Oct. 17-22. This year there is more of a supply to meet the demand. Some of it is very expensive.

There is amberina glass, running from amber to a deep red, and Burmese glass, salmon pink to lemon yellow, two of the more popular shaded glass styles. Other types of art glass include Spangled Glass flecked with color in spatter effect; Agata, a mottled glass; Vasa Murrhina with imbedded variegated colors, and the Nicholas Lutz glass.

Glass in the Spanish lace design—opalcent cranberry or vase-line decorated with white—is high on the list of desirable art glass, along with the cameo vases made in the 1880s.

Bothered By Noise?

If you're bothered by noise and clutter in your home, why not try sound conditioning one or more rooms with acoustical tiles? A popular material for this purpose is wood fiber, which offers a "bonus" advantage to homemakers.

Wood fiber acoustical tiles are coated with washable paint. When soiled, just sponge them with soap or detergent suds, and rinse. They will continue to be a decorative as well as practical addition to any home.

HELP FOR A SALAD

Ever try mixing chicken and lobster for a salad? Hollow out frankfurter rolls, butter and toast them and then fill with the poultry and seafood mixture.

INTERESTING FLAVOR

Halve a fresh tomato and gently squeeze out the seeds, then dice. Add it to cole slaw or condensed tomato soup for fresh and interesting flavor.

Pontiac announces the Trophy V-8 Engine

NEW PRECISION AND ECONOMY IN THE ENGINE ROOM OF THE '61 PONTIAC!

A completely new fuel induction system gives this new free-breathing V-8 more air . . . to save you gas. Closer calibration of this big 389-cubic-inch engine gives you maximum thrust at half-throttle without over-carbureting.

We made the engine lighter; mounted it lower for better balance. An oil refill now takes only 4 quarts. Tailor your Pontiac power plant to your needs. There are 11 versions to choose from. Horsepowers range from 215 to 348. (For best economy, specify the Trophy Economy V-8. Its lower compression lets you use regular gas.)

If this sounds a bit technical, just try a new Trophy engine soon. It's in all four Pontiac series. In one block, it will become clear why we've called this '61 . . . all Pontiac!

GOP Critical Of Peoples' Choice

It should not come as a surprise that Republican spokesmen are hurling such charges as "election by extortion" at the Democratic government in North Carolina in view of the fact that the GOP gubernatorial candidate has chosen to compare the state's government with dictatorships in Cuba.

Such irresponsibility on the part of top Republican leaders in the campaign should leave little doubt in the minds of the voters of the state as to the caliber of government we would have in North Carolina if Republicans gained control of the state.

Republican charges notwithstanding, the Democratic party has given North Carolina good government over a long period of years. There has been no charges of misconduct on the part of officials, and certainly the progress North Carolina has made under Democratic leadership is proof of the effectiveness with which the Democratic party has led the state.

Perhaps Mr. Gavin sincerely feels he can compare the caliber of government the Democrats have given North Carolina to the dictatorships of Cuba. If he is sincere about it, one is prone to question his understanding of what has gone on in North Carolina over the years. One is also inclined to question the regard he has for the people of this state by implying that they have blindly followed inept, corrupt and ineffective leadership for decades.

Certainly the people of North Carolina are as interested in good, progressive and honest government as the people of any other state. Had not the Democratic party afforded them a caliber of government that measured up favorably to that of other states in the nation, the Democrats would have lost favor in the state long ago.

The Democratic leadership in North Carolina is

Demo Situation Is Better Today

By Lynn Nisbet

COUEISM — North Carolina Democrats have joined the cult of Coueism (pronounced like it was spelled kwayism) which the French doctor Emile Coue made so popular some 40 years ago. Before he died in 1928 Dr. Coue had millions of people saying over and over that "day by day in every way I get better and better." Many of them believed it, and therefore it followed that actually they were better.

From every sector of North Carolina comes word that the situation with respect to the national political campaign looks better for the Democrats. Literature and radio announcements emanating from headquarters and speakers at the various rallies being staged throughout the state insist that there is a "definite trend," that the "tide is running" toward Kennedy and Johnson. National pollsters report similar trend in the country at large.

There is reason to believe that so far as North Carolina is concerned the improvement in Democratic strength is much more than idealistic Coueism. The situation is better. There is evidence that the religious issue is less potent than it was 60 days ago. The two other principal objections to Kennedy—civil rights and labor influence, also are losing potency. Discussion has developed the fact that on civil rights there is very little difference in the platforms of the two parties. Fear on part of some industrialists that Kennedy might be subjected to influence of Walter Reuther and AFL-CIO is offset by the fact that Jimmy Hoffa and the teamsters are supporting Nixon.

CHOICE—With the choice on basis of civil rights and undue labor influence about equalized, and the religious question subdued, the big issues remain are foreign policy and domestic "welfare" programs. In that situation more and more North Carolina voters are coming back to traditional support of Democratic ideology.

An amusing angle to this "better and better" and "ooming back" claim, is the implied confession that North Carolina had strayed away and had to be lured back into the Democratic fold. (Like the cigarette ads which urge smokers to "change to Blank brand," which suggests that nobody now smokes Blanks.)

DISTURBING—There are disturbing factors in the situation with respect to the race for Governor of North Carolina. Conditions may be better in that area than they were a few weeks ago, but they were definitely worse than at comparable stage of any election year since 1928—and maybe even worse than that.

Your reporter has attended several of the congressional district Democratic rallies and numerous smaller booster meetings. He has visited key points in the state and talked with a lot of people. There are many places where signs proclaim organizations of citizens or Democrats for Gavin, but sticking with the Kennedy-Johnson national ticket. There were a good many automobile bumper stickers on display at the rallies at Hickory, Statesville and Burlington last week indicating support for national and congressional Democrats, but for the Republican candidate for Governor. That is something new in North Carolina, and it puzzles nearly all the political analysts—even those who are party to that new type of split ballot.

MAJORITIES — Majorities for Democratic candidates for President have been steadily declining since 1940, while majorities for Democratic Governors have remained fairly stable at a little better than two to one. Four years ago, for example, in 1956 election, the majority for Luther Hodges over Kyles Hayse was 385,101. The majority for Adlai Stevenson over Dwight Eisenhower was 15,468.

There are sections of the state this year in which experienced political observers forecast reversal of the long time trend, and that Sanford will run behind more votes than Nixon. In fact more Republicans, full-fledged or of the hybrid Democratic groups, are willing to concede a Kennedy lead in the state than will admit Sanford will win.

HOW COME? — Anything like accurate analysis of the reasons for this situation cannot be made at this time. More study of many facets of the overall picture must be made. One thing seems certain: It cannot be charged entirely to handover from the primary. Sure, there was a holly fought two-stage primary, but it was no more bitter than those of 1936 and 1948. And in those years there was no serious hangover disaffection in November.

Whether the current trouble stems from personality of the candidates, type of campaign being waged, or impact of issues stemming from developments outside the state, cannot be determined without further study.

the envy of its sister states in the South and others as well in other parts of the nation.

Does such a record smack of dictatorship? Does such a record signify that North Carolinians are not intelligent enough to recognize good government and exercise their right to determine in free elections which party shall be charged with the responsibility of taking the leadership in government affairs of the state?

North Carolina has had good, progressive government under Democratic leadership because the people of the state have taken sufficient interest to see that qualified people were elected to high offices. The people of the state have consistently exercised their best judgment, consistently they have rejected the kind of candidates the Republicans have offered to lead the state.

It has not been because of any "dictatorship" or "election by extortion" as Republican leaders have now charged, but simply because the people of North Carolina have seen that under Democratic leadership such things do not happen here.

Shortcomings, Danger In The 'Great Debates'

Our early enthusiasm for the series of televised debates between Senator John Kennedy and Vice President Richard Nixon is still with us despite awareness of shortcomings and dangers involved.

Shortcomings, we said? And dangers, too? Well, under the ground rules neither debater has been given an opportunity to argue his point to a conclusion. That's one failure. Another is a partially resultant inclination of listeners to interpret those "incomplete thoughts" as meaning one thing, when the speaker had another in mind.

As for the dangers involved, there's a gnawing suspicion a portion of the audience looks on these debates much as they would a motion picture drama or television show. That is, their likes and dislikes are weighted by such qualities as stage presence, voice, appearance, mannerisms, attitudes . . . rather than the more basic considerations of what they say, what they believe, what they are capable of accomplishing.

It has been so frequently stated that we fear it is becoming almost trite to say the next four years are fraught with the greatest dangers our country has ever known. Yet this is true, and because it is true we shall need during those years the greatest degree of leadership available from our population of 180 million people. The choice has been narrowed to two men.

Certainly a vote given either of them on the basis of a pleasing personality would be small tribute to their labors and strains of the campaign trail and their years of public service. We might add that such a vote would reflect on the voter's intelligence as well as a most hazardous thing for the country at large.

Yes, there are shortcomings and dangers in the so-called "great debates"; but there are also inherent benefits. More people are hearing and seeing presidential candidates than ever before; many of them are being exposed to ideas and worlds previously unknown; so the benefits quite possibly are outweighing any faults in the system.

Of Special Value To The Senator

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — Were the presidential candidates' four TV debates worthwhile? They had a special value for Sen. John F. Kennedy and for the voters, too, in the chance they got to form impression of the two men in action side by side.

But, from the standpoint of solid information on issues and programs, their value is questionable.

A lot of voters probably will make their choice on what they thought came through their TV screens: personality, sincerity or the lack of it, wisdom, forthrightness or self-righteousness.

Compared with Vice President Richard M. Nixon who had been in the public eye eight years, Kennedy was a virtual unknown, until the debates enabled him to appear four times in dispute with Nixon before an estimated 60 to 70 million people.

Nixon, because he was so much better known, had little to gain from the debates unless he could demolish Kennedy. No one suggests he did. A very sketchy Associated Press poll indicates Kennedy perhaps benefited more.

But just-how much solid information the voters got from the debates is something else. After all their campaigning and three debates Nixon and Kennedy, when the fourth began, were still not agreed on what the issues are.

Last Friday night Nixon insisted the issues were how to extend freedom without war, and peace without surrender while America moved forward in defense, economic growth, and diplomatic firmness.

Kennedy said this was no issue, since everyone wants peace and security, but that this was: Are we moving toward peace and security? Is our relative strength growing, and is our prestige up or down?

If this sounded like hair-splitting, it was nevertheless typical of this campaign in which the candidates don't differ on goals but only on the means for reaching them. Neither has really conceded. (Continued on page five)

Public Forum

TO THE EDITOR: As a native Southerner, who loves the South and is proud of it, I am justified and obligated to speak out with concern against our elected officials who endorse Kennedy whom they know embraces a philosophy unacceptable to the South. Our political leaders know that Kennedy's program would strip not only the South, but the whole country of its States' Rights and individual freedom; yet, for political patronage, material gain, or some other form of bribery or threat, they have refused to place integrity above political expediency.

Now is the time to reevaluate our principles, for our whole conception of constitutional government is endangered. The conservatives of the South have not left the Democratic Party. It has left us. It is no longer feasible to associate, if only in name, with a group which would deny us our personal freedom and force upon us a welfare state. We cannot surrender any more of our liberties, and we cannot forfeit our system of free enterprise. These are the philosophies that have made America the greatest country on earth. But we have been surrendering our responsibilities for ourselves. Will we allow the National Democratic Party to ignore us, claim no need for us, and not rebel?

Spending To Please Men

In recent years we've been told that women control most of the spending in this nation. Whether this is so or not I don't know, if it is, I would say that the spending is in capable hands. Anyway the issue is tossed back and forth between women's and men's magazines, both groups hoping to snare advertisers with, or by denying, such talk.

But a recently-completed independent survey of food shoppers in various parts of the country conducted by Press Research Bureau, Inc.

This survey showed that almost to a woman, wives will shop for a particular food or beverage if their husbands express a desire for it. Less than one percent of those interviewed said they would ignore his request, according to the study. Not only that, but in cases where wives prefer one beverage and husbands another, a vast majority will serve the husband's choices if they want to serve but a single beverage. The number of them who would do this outnumbered those who wouldn't by five to one. To the question "Does your husband ever express a preference for a particular brand of food or beverage?" the answer was "yes" by over 1.3 of the women shoppers interviewed.

About one in five of the wives participating in the poll were married to men in the category called "executives." This was the largest single group, with "salesmen" close behind. Others were retailers, teachers, civic employees, professional men, laborers, artists, clergymen, taxi drivers, and also represented were many other occupations. The survey was conducted in six widely separated states in as many different sections of the country, including the north, south, east, west, southwest and central regions.

Not many of the wives knew, even approximately, how much they spend each week on food, though the greatest majority of them admitted the family income was "over $150" per week. Said one survey interviewer, for example, in her report: "Several things surprised me . . . First, people simply do not know what they spend for food per week. Some had good reason: an egg lady and a bread man come to the door; milk is paid for by the month; and they own a freezer and have it filled every three months."

So, if this survey is indicative, the women must spend the money in the family but their menfolks decide how it is going to be spent.

Other Editors Saying . . . No More Payroll Taxes

(Henderson Dispatch) In their desperation for additional funds, municipalities of State, through the North Carolina League of Municipalities, is proposing to the 1961 Legislature that they be authorized to levy an occupational or payroll tax. This would be in addition to the Federal and State withholding taxes. To a harassed and long suffering public this could be the last straw.

Just about everything imaginable has been taxed by government at one level or another. And nobody seems to be satisfied with the amount of revenue received. Suppose, for instance, that the Legislature should acquiesce in this recommendation. In some respects, it would be the equivalent of an income tax, although a flat sum instead of based upon the individual's earnings.

One can wonder how many people there are who feel that they have been taxed enough and that there ought to be not only no increase but some actual relief from present impositions. Or is it possible for public officials to put over on the public anything they wish if gone about in the proper manner to achieve such ends? Sometimes it appears that citizens generally will submit to almost anything if a few loud-talking leaders pressure their claims strongly enough.

In all the stern demands for more liberal income by government, no one ever thinks of reducing expenses and eliminating non-essential spending. The cry is always for more money, not for economies, so much so that it appears officials scarcely know, and certainly do not appreciate, the meaning of the word thrift.

What the municipalities are asking is a device to avoid higher levies on real and personal property. They are not the least concerned with skimming and saving. There is less interest in stretching the dollars in hand than in clamoring for more of them.

This yearning will never cease so long as the public remains tolerant and submissive. Already incentive is being stifled and ambition to achieve is being eroded by forced taxes. That, of course, is of no importance to those who are given public money to dispose of. Many no doubt would rejoice at such a trend in the expectation that it would lead to a socialist or communist system of government, which is what they would like.

Every tax that is levied is an added blow at freedom of the individual in his right to produce and achieve and to be permitted to enjoy the fruits of his labor. In the end it will smother liberty and establish in its stead an iron dictatorship. Americans detest the very thought of such a system, but by their submission are encouraging every such move.

Growth Isn't So Simple

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
Copyright, 1960, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Everybody talks about growth. By growth is meant the increase in the economy of a country. Such an increase may be measured in several ways. Each form of measurement will bring a different result and therefore will lead to a different conclusion. If we measure growth by the national income produced, it becomes important to translate the dollar realistically from nominal money to real money and the figures reached are very different — and very discouraging.

It growth is measured in terms of tonnage or in terms of kilowatt-hours or some such measurement, the figure will be altogether different. Again, if we compare the increase of capacity for production, say between 1917 and 1960, Soviet Russia can produce favorable figures but if we use figures showing the actual production, the United States is so far ahead of Soviet Russia that there is no comparison.

Allen Dulles, the head of the CIA, put it sharply in this paragraph:

" . . . Khrushchev proposes to build up Soviet industry, the base of Soviet military power, by completing the ambitious seven-year plan which covers the period through 1965. This will still leave him well behind the United States in overall industrial production. But Khrushchev believes that he can devote to military and world power aims a far greater percentage of his industrial production than we are likely to do. He expects to satisfy his people with a far more modest share of the consumer goods and luxuries that have seemingly become for us so essential a part of our own much higher living standard. Whether he will succeed in deluding his people, who today have far greater knowledge of the outside world than during Stalin's days, remains to be seen."

Our greatest growth industrially was unquestionably between 1879 and 1914; nevertheless the expansions during the two World Wars in competitive war were designed to meet war conditions. Subsequent to World War II, American industry was required to supply for the rebuilding of both allies and enemies. There is no reason to assume that an industrial plant established to supply the entire world in war and in a reconstruction period after a devastating war can in competitive peacetime utilize an identical plant or increase that plant at the same speed as countries which had no plant at all or whose industrial plants were destroyed by war.

In 1920, steel capacity in the United States amounted to 60,000,000 short tons; by 1945, steel capacity rose to 95,000,000 tons; in 1959 it was 147,000,000 tons. This is realistic growth in capacity. However, production fluctuated. In 1920, we produced 46,000,000 tons; in 1945, it was 79,000,000 tons; in 1956, it was 115,000,000 tons, but in 1959, it was 93,000,000 tons. In 1951, we utilized 100.9 per cent of steel capacity; in 1959, only 63.3 per cent. It is only correct that by 1959, the countries which we helped to rehabilitate and others should have completed their own means of production.

The term, growth, then must be related first of all to the existent plant and its utilization; secondly, to the purpose of expansion and the intended use of expanded capacity; and finally whether the expansion is for war which is waste or for consumer consumption which is normal social use. Just to say that we must have growth is to say nothing clear and specific.

Our problem is not growth. It is to find the means to invest free American capital in new industries. The government takes too large a share of the individual's income for public use and thereby removes the incentive to invest in new and expanding industries. Thus, much American capital is exported out of the country not only for the development of industry but for better and larger returns on investments abroad. When capital is exported, it means that jobs are

More Going On The Night Shift

By ELMER ROESSNER

More than 4,000,000 American employees are working nights and the number will increase sharply, Peter C. Reid will say in the forthcoming November issue of Supervisory Management. Mr. Reid is an associate editor of the American Management Association magazine.

The reason for the expected increase: electronic data processing machines and other automated machinery cost so much they must be used 24 hours a day to get full value from them.

Many chemical processes must be continued around the clock. And many metallurgical and mechanical production lines must be kept in continuous operation. "Value and to avoid interruptions that can be excessively expensive.

Some enterprises, by their very nature—utilities, transportation and others—must operate continuously, and many of these are expanding.

ADJUSTMENT DIFFICULTIES
The rising number of night workers will compound personal problems for employers, Mr. Reid will point out. Night work often upsets the internal "clocks" that regulate important functions of the body.

The editor will cite the experiments of Dr. Mary C. Lobban in Spitzbergen, Norway, where the sun never sets in summer. Workers were given wrist watches altered to record 24 hours in from 21 to 27 hours. The workers ate, worked and slept at the hours their watches told them, instead of at normal hours.

But in American plants, many workers find it difficult, if not impossible, to adjust to working by night and sleeping by day.

Efforts to rotate shifts have failed because just about the time some workers become adjusted to one shift, they are moved to another. One biologist has proposed 25-hour working days, with each shift eight hours and 20 minutes. Thus employees would start working one hour later each day, gradually changing from one shift to another.

An Ohio supervisor found most night workers tried to sleep when their shift ended, which reversed the normal work, play, rest routine. He recommended recreation after work, with sleeping from three p.m. to 11 p.m. Workers reporting at midnight were in much fresher shape.

The basis for solving many situations, Mr. Reid will say, is in hiring "night people," those who prefer to work at night for physiological or psychological reasons. Some like night work because of daylight hobbies. Others like the freedom from interruptions and the impositions of other people. (Some, though Mr. Reid will not mention it, are just wacky.)

Others like the atmosphere of a "shift" job, "less formality, less supervision, less pressure," as Mr. Reid writes.

But others, required to work nights, may become personnel problems, with increased absenteeism, illnesses, accident and fatigue.

There are other problems related to multiple shift work. Each shift tends to pass the buck to another shift for lost tools, mistakes and misunderstandings.

Failure to leave work in shape for the next shift is common. Many supervisors feel abandoned because they never see their own boss. Seniority rules frequently load shift shifts with green workers.

"As more companies go on around-the-clock schedules, there will be greater demand for basic solutions," editor Reid will conclude.

Highway Program Beset By Profiteering, Folly, Fraud

Editor's Note — The United States is pouring huge sums into a highway program designed, ultimately, to let you whiz from coast to coast without a stop light. How well are the taxpayers' billions being spent? This is the first of four articles based on nearly five months' investigation of the project.

By BEM PRICE
AP Staff Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is now engaged on the colossal task of building 41,000 miles of superhighways at $1-billion a mile.

For many months now, this massive, four-year-old project has been plagued by rumors of widespread mismanagement and corruption. After nearly five months of on-the-spot investigation across the nation, the findings indicate that some reports of the program's troubles have been exaggerated. But they also indicate that, around the edges, the project is sometimes beset by politics and profiteering, folly and fraud.

And so is the 44-year-old federal-state program for construction of primary, secondary and urban roads.

In most cases, excellent highways are being built at an apparently reasonable cost.

But once the superhighways are completed—in 1975 if all goes well—you'll be able to zip from coast to coast at 60 or 70 miles per hour without encountering a stop light. Nevertheless, the programs are afflicted by problems ranging from simple ineptitude to brazen frauds—and taxpayers are footing the bill.

Every time you buy a gallon of gas you contribute four cents to the federal government's share of highway building costs. You pay an equal amount, or more, in state gas taxes.

Just to pay the federal government's 90 per cent share of a $1-billion superhighway project requires consumption of 22½ million gallons of gas.

Due to the vastness of the great federal program, even five months' investigation could not cover the details in every state. Facts disclosed in one state, however, could apply to many. Much of what has been going on in the highway programs is already known to Congress. Further investigation by federal or congressional agents with subpoena power may disclose additional troubles.

Meanwhile, what has this reporter's survey turned up?

One-land-buying scandal in Indiana has already been highly publicized. Two others of even greater scope appear to be brewing in Massachusetts and Florida.

A congressional investigating committee says a case of possible fraud in road materials is developing in West Virginia.

In New Mexico a $1-million road began crumbling before it was half completed. At least four other roads in New Mexico are in "distress" though they are less than three years old.

A federal engineer, W.J. Keller of Santa Fe, told a New Mexico investigating committee that the state's road problems are no worse than those in Colorado, Wyoming, Utah and Arizona.

In Ohio, work was delayed for three to six months on 21 projects in 1959 because the state had failed to acquire the rights-of-way before letting construction contracts.

These are only a few examples. There is, additionally, the $176-million federal bureaucratic goof which resulted in the building of 807 bridges too low to permit passage of certain defense equipment, including some missiles and tank field maintenance vehicles.

Two road-building programs across the nation are involved. The first began in 1916 and under this program the federal government matches state road funds on a 50-50 basis. Currently the federal government is contributing $225 million a year to this program.

The special "superhighway" program began in mid-1956. Under this program the federal government reimburses the states at the rate of 90 cents for each dollar spent.

These superhighways are designed to standards believed necessary to handle traffic in 1975. Fifteen years from now there will be an estimated 111 million vehicles on the roads, compared to 73 million now.

Upon completion, the superhighways are expected to carry about 20 per cent of the nation's traffic and will connect 90 per cent of all cities over 50,000 population.

Since July 1, 1956, about $3.5 billion, including $3 billion in federal funds, has been spent on the superhighway program.

In that same period $6.5 billion, including $4 billion in federal monies, has been spent by states and federal government on the primary, secondary and urban road program.

At present the expenditure of another $5 billion for superhighways has been authorized, while $3 billion has been earmarked for primary, secondary and urban roads.

The federal contribution for this future construction will be $5,916-

700,000 of the $8,065,900,000 total. What has it all bought and what is it buying?

To date, 3,692 miles of superhighways have been built with federal financial participation to 1975 high-speed standards and an additional 3,139 miles of existing primary roads have been improved to meet needs of the 1960s.

Additionally, work is under way on 4,896 miles and rights-of-way are being acquired for 10,092 miles.

These figures do not include the several thousand miles of toll expressways incorporated into the interstate system but financed by the states alone without federal participation.

As for the primary, secondary and urban road program, approximately 100,000 miles have been built or improved in the past four years. Contracts have been signed for work on an additional 26,000 miles.

There is one point in connection with the cost of the special superhighway program which has been a matter of considerable speculation and rumor.

When Congress began consideration of the superhighway program in 1954, it called for an estimate of costs.

The various states made their estimate, upon only six weeks' notice and came up with a figure of $27.5 billion. As it turned out, this estimate was studded with errors and guesswork.

After Congress approved the program, the states went to work on a more realistic estimate at the behest of the U.S. Bureau of Public Roads. This time they came up with a $40.9 billion estimate.

Most of the rumors of widespread corruption and waste have been predicated on the apparent increase in cost from $27.5 billion to $40.9 billion.

There undoubtedly is a certain amount of waste and corruption in the programs, as there would be in any project so large and diffuse, but there is no evidence that it amounts to $13.4 billion or anything like it.

Students Showed A Profit In Project

By DONNA ROBERSON and JANIS JORGENSEN

The first fund-raising project of the 1960-61 school term at Junior High School brought a profit of more than $340.

The project was a bridge and canasta tournament last Tuesday sponsored by Mrs. Don Calloway and Mrs. Lacy Harrell, co-chairmen, and all members of the Parent-Teacher Association.

Junior High has welcomed a total of 11 student teachers this term from East Carolina College.

Included are Gail Baxley, R.M. McKinney, Julian Spence, John F. Higgins, Evelyn Crutchfield, Evelyn Johnson, Hilda Owens, Thelma Skipper, Jeri Ann Dobson, Susan Wylie, and Carolyn Parker.

In addition to the student teachers, Mrs. James Rodgers has been added to the JHS staff. She has become secretary to Principal Joseph Smith.

Since the school pictures have been made, folks at JHS have come up with a brand new idea — an annualette.

The JHS annualette will be similar to the yearbook published each year by Junius H. Rose High School.

Included features in the hard paperback volume will be pictures of the students, student council, faculty, football team, cheerleaders, drill team, band, basketball team, and the school building.

Junior High's majorettes will be reselected. It is generally felt that Junior High has always abided by high principles in sportsmanship.

It is hoped that the students here continue to hold that record and "make the best" of teacher-parent-student decisions.

Congratulations are in order for those who were chosen and then surrendered their white jackets and tassels.

Gridgers Win
The JHS football squad picked up its first victory of the season here Wednesday when "a good team effort" swamped Farmville Junior High, 20-6.

In the first quarter, Jim Gulliam, Greenville quarterback, scored the first JHS touchdown.

Malcolm Beamon and Jim Galoway added two more six-pointers for the local squad.

Famed Marine Band Will Give Concert In Wilson

The 161-year-old United States Marine Band will visit Wilson November 11 under auspices of the Wilson Civitan Club, as part of the Presidential-approved tour of fourteen states.

The visit of the oldest military symphonic musical organization in the country was announced today by recruiter Sergeant Leo Smith, USMC.

Sgt. Smith says matinee and evening concerts will be presented at Ralph L. Pike High School auditorium with musical works by the finest composers.

When the Marine Band appears in Wilson it will be making its first concert appearance in this area and the only appearance of the Band in Eastern North Carolina. The Band will not be back in this area for another five or ten years, according to Sgt. Smith.

Under the leadership of Lieutenant Albert Schoepfer, the Marine Band is known to millions of Americans. The Annual Tours originated under the direction of John Philip Sousa in 1891 and have afforded Americans living outside the Washington area an opportunity to hear and see the band whose history goes back farther than the Capital City itself.

Known as "The President's Own", the Marine Band has played for every inauguration since Thomas Jefferson's. Founded in 1798 by an Act of Congress, the Band has played for all official functions in the Nation's Capital and all important history-making events in this country since that date.

Officers Elected By Winterville Classes

By RALPH MILLS

WINTERVILLE—The classes at Winterville High School and several school organizations have settled down for the new school term and the following officers have been elected:

Senior class—President Lorenza Stox; Vice-President Larry Walton; Secretary Sandra Avery; Treasurer Dolly Ann Harris; and Reporter Bob Avery.

Junior Class—President Alfred Gold; Vice-President Andrea Whitchard; Secretary Vivian Strickland; Treasurer Carolyn Barnes; and Reporter Regina Bullock.

Glee Club—Sandra Avery, president; Larry Walton, vice-president; Norma Worthington, secretary-reporter; John Weatherington, treasurer; Carolyn Cuyton, Eleanor Hart and Judy Lawrence, librarians. The Glee Club meets each Friday. Mrs. William May is the conductor and Ralph Mills serves as accompanist.

Future Homemakers of America—Dolly Ann Harris, president; Regina Bullock, vice-president; Linda Hall, secretary; Carolyn Cuyton, treasurer; Eleanor Hart, reporter; La Verne Cuyton, song leader; Eliza Olive, pianist; Sandra Avery, photographer; Norma Worthington, parliamentarian; and Virginia Manning, historian.

Cheerleaders
By secret ballot, the Winterville student body recently elected the cheerleaders for the 1960-61 school term. Norma Worthington was chosen chief.

Others are: Sandra Avery, Vivian Strickland, Winnifred Averette, Regina Bullock, and La Verne Cuyton.

The superlatives for the purpose of Winterville High's yearbook have been chosen by the senior class.

Included are: best looking—Norma Worthington and Harold Nichols; biggest flirts—Angela Tyson and Larry Walton; best all-round—Dolly Ann Harris and Wilton McLawhorn; most popular—Sandra Avery and Lorenza Stox; cutest—Brenda Evans and James Forrest; most sincere and dependable—Mavis Butts and Ralph Mills; most intellectual and most likely to succeed—Eliza Olive and Kenny Fussell.

Senior Drama
One of the highlights of the senior year is the senior play. Winterville's seniors this term selected "Take Your Medicine" by Metcalfe and staged the annual production last Friday.

Directed by Senior homeroom teacher Mrs. Ronnie Mallison, the play's cast included: John Weatherington as Henry Dodson; Norma Worthington as Angela Warren; Lorenza Stox as Dr. William Jackson; Mavis Butts as Miss Holt; Dolly Ann Harris as Pat Pryor; Sandra Avery as Dorothy Carleton; Angela Tyson as Charlotte Nelson; Harold Nichols as Jack Benson; Wilton McLawhorn as Jonathan Puckett; Mona Kerr as Miss Cordelia Puckett; Judy Hardee as Miss Dove Finkeldink; Carolyn Cuyton as Dodie Blake; and James Forrest as Hoofendyke.

The Winterville FHA met Tuesday afternoon to make plans for a masquerade dance to be held Friday night. Publicity for the affair has been started in order to make it a highlight of the season.

It was announced that pictures for the Winterville High School annual will be taken at the FHA dance Friday.

Straw Politics
Winterville High has added a course in government this term and since the presidential election is just around the corner, the class has been studying about conventions, nominations, campaigns, and election.

In the government class, two committees have been appointed—one a Democratic group, the other a Republican committee.

On the GOP committee are Chairman Ralph Mills, Norma Worthington and Larry Walton. The Democratic committee included Chairman Eliza Olive, Mona Kerr and Lorenza Stox.

Each committee presents a five-minute address in behalf of its party and candidate at each class meeting.

On Nov. 1, a spokesman from each committee will present a speech in a study body assembly. After the group has heard the respective speeches, they will vote by secret ballot for either Richard Nixon or John Kennedy. Students from the government class will be required to recite the Preamble of the U. S. Constitution before being allowed to register and vote.

Three annual writers for the senior class are Norma Worthing-

Most Wanted Man Shot Down

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Clarence Leon Raby, who became one of the FBI's 10 most wanted criminals after he shot and killed two men, was shot to death Monday night as he tried to shoot his way out of jail.

A deputy, Kenneth Milligan, was wounded as he shot it out with Raby in the jail's corridor. Police were holding two women for investigation in connection with the break attempt.

Raby, 27, was being held in Knox County jail pending trial at nearby Clinton, Tenn., on two murder charges and two robbery charges.

Officers said Raby called officers to his fourth floor cell on the pretense he wanted to make a statement in connection with another death in his case.

He pulled a gun on them and said: "I'm getting out of here." He forced Tennessee Bureau of Identification agent Walter Boarden and Sgt. Clarence Brown of the highway patrol to get on an elevator—the only way out of the building—with jailer Dave Humphreys.

On the first floor, Raby got off the elevator, fired at other officers through the glass-partitioned jailer's office and ran toward the front of the building.

Raby was felled by two bullets on the front lawn.

Raby faced trial on Nov. 7 at Clinton on charges he killed Frank C. Keith, an Andersonville, Tenn., merchant last July during a robbery.

Sheriff's deputy Ben DeVault was killed Aug. 1 as he tried to arrest the fugitive on the murder charge.

On Aug. 28, the fugitive, bearded and dirty from living in the hills, turned himself in to former Knox County Sheriff E. B. Bowles and was lodged in the Knox County jail for safekeeping.

tributed any new ideas.

Nixon, as he told newsmen he would before the campaign began, has talked largely in generalities, gone light on details. Kennedy has been much more specific, sometimes perhaps too laboriously so.

Both approaches can be interpreted as showing some misunderstanding of the electorate.

It can be assumed that Nixon doubts the voters are interested in details. Yet details are the bricks and mortar in building an intelligent understanding of a problem.

Kennedy, by pumping out a flood of facts and statistics and historical references without explaining background, seems to assume voters are as well informed as he is.

Nixon appears to have a better sense of the dramatic-in-facial expression and selecting ideas to emphasize. Kennedy gives this writer the impression of a man who spent his life reading history, not literature.

This campaign has been distinguished by a supreme absence of notable phrasing. Maybe it's because both candidates prefer talking off the cuff to using prepared speeches.

Neither has been able to convey the friendliness of an Eisenhower, the homely humanness of a Truman, or the eloquence of a Roosevelt who could express the aspirations of a whole generation in a single sentence.

Five Are Arrested For Liquor Counts

Five Negroes were arrested over the weekend as a result of liquor law violations as county and city officers combined forces. Saturday, ABC officer H.B. Lilley and Carolina Township Constable William Crandall arrested Ruffin Artis, 43-year-old Negro of Route 6, Greenville on charges of illegal possession and transportation of non-tax-paid whiskey after Artis' vehicle was stopped and a pint of illegal booze was allegedly found in his possession. He was placed under a $200 bond for county court. ABC officers and Sheriff's Deputies combined forces Saturday to charge three Negroes. Silas Daniels, 32-year-old Negro of Pactolus, was charged with possession of non-tax paid whiskey and possessing lottery tickets when he was arrested Saturday night. He was placed under a $200 bond for his appearance in county court. Janice Paige Ebrom of Route 1, Stokes, was placed under a $500 bond after being charged with possession of non-tax-paid whiskey for the purpose of sale, when officers allegedly found illegal booze in her possession. Her sister, Louise Paige was charged with interfering with an officer and assault on an officer. She too was placed under a $500 for her appearance in county court. ABC officers Lilley, J.M. Ward, and W.M. Taylor and Farmville Police Chief J. A. Gregory arrested Zenobia Joyner at her home near Marlboro, Sunday when a quantity of illegal booze was allegedly found in her possession. Charged with possession of non-tax whiskey for the purpose of sale, she was recognized to appear in Farmville Mayor's court. ABC officers noted that when they entered the dwelling the Joyner woman threw a jar of illegal whiskey against the stove. When the jar broke, the booze caught fire, and spread fire to the floor, stove, and to a bag of coal. A piece of glass from the jar struck a Negro man on the face and he had to be taken to a doctor, they added. Officers also state that the Joyner woman's three young children were in the room at the time.

Comedy Team In $450,000 Suit

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Three Stooges comedy team has been sued for $450,000 damages by the widow of a former member of the troupe. Valerie Howard brought the action Monday with her two daughters, Jane Howard and Marilyn Server. The suit also asked for an accounting. They contend that earnings from the team's theatrical appearances should have been shared with the estate of Mrs. Howard's late husband, Jerome (Curly) Howard, because Howard aided in developing the shows. Howard died in 1952. Defendants are the present members of the team—Howard's brother Moe, Larry Fine and Joe DeRitis who replaced Jerome. Two corporations, Comedy III Productions, and Norman Maurer Productions Inc., also were named in the action.

Won First Place In Art Contest

Lewis Jones, son of Rev. and Mrs. Walter Jones, 400 Elizabeth St., won first place in an annual animal drawing and painting contest. Jones' entry was a painting called "Woodpecker." The contest was held in Minneapolis, Minn., in September. He received a check and the picture will be published in "The Illustrator," an art magazine in January. Jones is a senior at Rose High School. After graduation, he plans to enroll at East Carolina College, majoring in art.

Junior High PTA Meets Thursday

The Greenville Junior High School Parent-Teacher Association will meet Thursday at 8 p.m. in the school auditorium. Guest speaker will be Mrs. Georgie Franklin, who will present a demonstration on the effectiveness of the control reader. Nixon Aims Roundhouse Punches At Kennedy In Ohio And West Virginia

By JACK BELL
—Vice President Richard M. Nixon aimed new roundhouse punches at Sen. John F. Kennedy today in train and motorcade campaigns in Ohio and West Virginia. The Republican presidential nominee called up the strongest adjectives he has used in the campaign to describe his Democratic rival. Slugging his way into the final two weeks before the November 2 voting, the vice president launched a fresh attack on Kennedy's contention that the United States has lost prestige in the world.

"The truth of the matter is that Senator Kennedy has been trying to win this election by recklessly downgrading the United States," Nixon said. "He has done this with misleading statements, with misrepresentations, with half truths." The Republican nominee said in excerpts of an address prepared for a Marietta, Ohio, campaign appearance: "I do not believe that the people of the United States will support a man who offers no constructive programs of his own but has based his major campaign theme on playing politics with America's prestige by running it down."

scribes American slums as the "worst." Nixon said in the same speech his opponent had said that America is second in missiles and "second in education." He quoted Kennedy as saying in Lafayette, Ind., on April 7 that "17 million Americans go to bed hungry every night." Kennedy has said Eisenhower administration officials have testified in Congress that more than that number of Americans have an inadequate diet. Nixon told a cheering, partisan crowd of 6,000 which overflowed the 3,800-seat Syria Mosque in Pittsburgh Monday night that Kennedy's proposals for federal spending are responsible, at least in part, for the gyrations of the London gold market.

Cite Spy School In East Germany

BONN, Germany (AP)—The Soviet espionage service is training a great number of Algerians in a special spy and sabotage school in East Germany, Western intelligence officials said today. The school is located near Fuersterwalde, 60 miles east of Berlin, and is called Camp Molkenberg.

"Algerians are going in great numbers to East Germany, ostensibly to seek employment," the intelligence men said in an interview. "Actually, they are received by Soviet officers and are taken to Camp Molkenberg. There they receive indoctrination in Communist ideology and concentrated training in espionage and sabotage." The officials said that when "a course is over—usually in about six months—the Algerians are sent back to West Germany. Authorities estimate that between 3,000 and 5,000 Algerians are living in West Germany. "Many of these have no steady jobs but make their living as thieves and procurers," the intelligence men said. They added that a number of the Soviet-trained Algerians are given specific missions, but many are "sleeper" agents who are called into action only in an emergency.

Ir a rundown of statements made in their last national television debate, Nixon charged that Kennedy had displayed a "markedly convenient forgetfulness" about previous positions he had taken. The vice president said that on Jan. 23 Kennedy told a Democratic party dinner audience in Washington that the nation has "the worst slums, the most crowded schools and the greatest erosion of our national resources and our national will." Kennedy has repeated saying that he had de-suggestions made by my opponent concerning the fiscal and monetary policies of our country." Nixon was cheered on in his uphill efforts to win Ohio's 25 electoral votes and West Virginia's 12 by reports that he is leading in the contest for Pennsylvania's 32. Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., who joined the presidential nominee in a whistle-stopping tour across Pennsylvania, predicted Nixon will carry the state by 100,000 votes. The news was not so cheerful for him in Ohio and West Virginia, both reported leaning to Kennedy. But the GOP nominee hoped to make some hay with a major, nationally televised speech in Cincinnati tonight. Nixon was in a clouting mood as he campaigned across Pennsylvania with snow flying in the air. His crowds were large at whistle stops and they responded readily to the attacks he made on Kennedy.

Finch-Tregoff Jury Still Out

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Finch murder trial jury starts its sixth day of deliberation today. The 11 women and one man completed 22 1/2 hours behind closed doors Monday, debating the guilt or innocence of Dr. E. Bernard Finch and his ex-mistress, Carole Tregoff. The two are on trial for the second time in the July 18, 1959, slaying of Finch's estranged wife, Barbara. The first trial jury deadlocked last March. They are charged with murder and conspiracy.

Chemical Plant Blast Kills Four

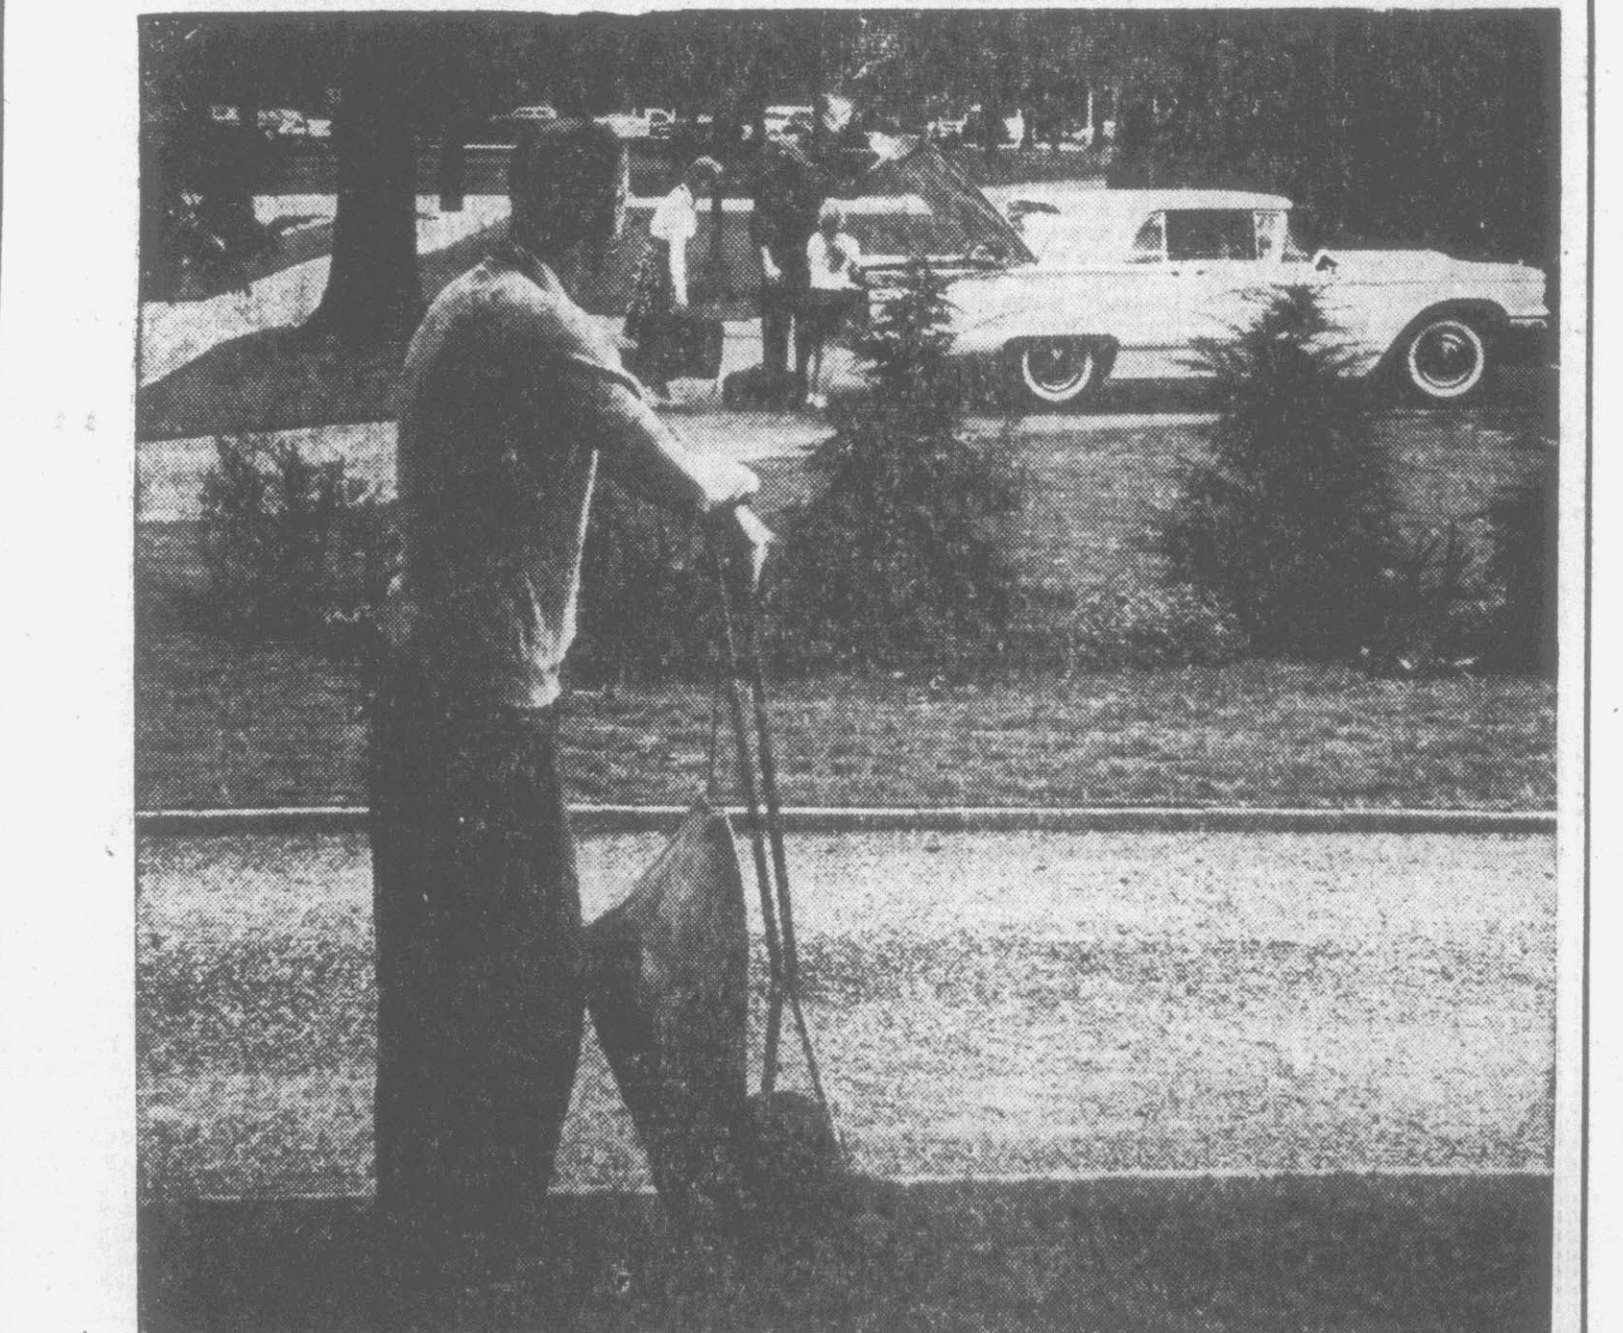

PREPOT, Tex. (AP) — Four men died and 12 others were injured Monday as an explosion and fire ripped a Dow Chemical Co. plant. The company said a rupture in a vapor feeder to a distillation column at its No. 1 glycerine plant caused the blast and fire, localized in the chloride unit of the plant. Damage was estimated by the firm at about $100,000. About 50 men were at work in the plant.

How do some families get so very money-wise?

Do they do more with their money than you do with yours? Maybe it's the family down the street . . . You're pretty sure that they don't make any more money than you do, yet they always seem to be the ones who take the trips . . . furnish the living room . . . buy the new car . . . build the addition to the house. How does it happen? How do some families get so very money-wise? One reason could be the way they handle it. You see, handling money properly is like doing anything else properly. It takes some learning, some practice, some skill. Behind most money-wise families, stands a full-service commercial Bank. A Bank that's ready and able to help in all matters of sound financial planning . . . and experienced in all the ways of making your money do more —go farther. Perhaps best of all, when you work with a full-service Bank, you build character, reputation—your "standing" in your community. 'Wild Card' Helps Pirates

In the North State . . . East Carolina's Jack Boone thinks the "wild card" rule had definitely proved advantageous to his football team this fall. In short, this new rule allows one man to enter the game at any time. Last season, a starting player could leave and enter but once in a quarter.

"Because of our inexperience at quarterbacks and lack of depth, this rule has been of great value to us", Boone mentioned. This rule allows the EC coaches to assist their quarterbacks from the sidelines. A reserve can also be sent into action to give the starter a rest. But when the going gets rough, a fresh starter is ready to step back in.

Because of the inexperience at quarterback and lack of depth, Boone feels the new rule couldn't have come at a better time. The past two seasons, the Bucs have been a little deeper in over-all personnel and know-how at the quarterback slot . . .

Wayne Davis, a guard who is one of the most underrated players in ECC's strong forward wall, contends this is the best club he played on since coming to ECC in 1957.

"The boys play as a team and everybody wants to win," quips the dependable senior guard . . .

Ray Martinez, Swim Coach at East Carolina, was recently named vice-chairman of the N.A.I.A. Swimming Committee for 1960-61. Dr. Francis Hoover of Appalachian was chosen President of the NAIA at the same time . . .

Tucker Wins But The Hard Way

George Tucker, Elon head coach who was here last season, is getting his first year thrills.

Saturday, Elon trailed Catawba 12-7 going into the final minute of play. To make it worse, the Indians had the ball and were driving toward the Christian goal.

The drive by Catawba was a conservative one and was intended to kill the clock. On fourth down, they attempted a field goal as a means to wrap up the game.

But it backfired. George Wooten, Elon quarterback, took the kick, which was wide, and raced 108 yards for a touchdown, giving Elon a 13-12 victory. All this happened with five seconds to play in the game . . .

Jinx Year For Baysinger?

Sonny Baysinger, EC's senior halfback, weighs only 165 pounds but can rack with the big boys around. Just ask Western Carolina and Newberry.

Size hasn't been a handicap for Sonny who missed only two games in four years of high school ball because of injuries. In college, he went unscratched until this season when it looked like he was jinxed.

A boil on his knee kept him out of the ECC's first two games. Against Elon, a facial injury which required seven stitches slowed him down. But now he is back on the track, raring to go . . .

Said an EC critic: "They're winning now but wait till they meet Lenoir Rhyne . . .". After all, Lenoir Rhyne is only the top small college in the NAIA and recently reached the number one spot in the AP poll of small colleges. (And this was a Carolina graduate too) . . .

Don't forget the Touchdown Club meeting tonight at 6:30 in the college dining hall. The club has a good enrollment but attendance could be better.

Many such clubs in this part of the state have far more interest than Greenville and don't even have a college to support.

Bucs Pocket Nice Sum From Series

NEW YORK (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates, baseball's latest team of destiny, finally have reached the point where they can pocket the profit of the World Series monies. One full share of destiny was worth $8,417.94, before taxes.

That was the figure announced Monday by Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick. A full share of the losers' pool amounted to $5,214.64 for the New York Yankees.

The Bucs' bucks totaled $206,306.82 that was split into 33 1/2 full shares, divided among 38 persons — Manager Danny Murtaugh, players, coaches, their trainer and clubhouse attendant—and 12 cash awards totaling $4,500, divided among the bat boy, clubhouse assistants, the groundkeeper, part-time players and batting practice pitcher Virgil Trucks.

The Yankees split their over-all take of $191,000.95 into 35 1-3 full shares, divided 41 ways and 11 cash awards totaling $6,750.

Both the winning and losing shares were far short of the records set a year ago when the Los Angeles Dodgers and Chicago White Sox played two payoff games in the 100,000-seat Los Angeles Coliseum. The Dodgers' record winning share was $1,231.18, while the White Sox collected a top losers' share of $7,275.17.

Thirty per cent of the players' pool is divided among the first division teams in the two leagues — the runners-up getting 15 per cent, the third place finishers getting 10 per cent and the fourth-place finishers getting 5 per cent.

That broke down to a full share of $1,327.75 for the Milwaukee Braves, $991.39 for the St. Louis Cardinals and $501.58 for the Dodgers, who placed two-three-four behind the Pirates in the National League. In the American, the Baltimore Orioles' full share was $1,564.68, the White Sox' $935.00 and the Cleveland Indians' $494.31.

Thirty Pirates received full shares, including Hall of Famer George Sisler, the batting instructor; outfielder Joe Christopher, who was not with the club all season; trainer Danny Whalen and clubhouse attendant John Kallahan. There were six half shares of $4,208.97, and two-quarter shares of $2,104.48.

Spiders Shudder Over Chances Of Second SC Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Richmond's Spiders tucked away their first Southern Conference football victory last week, but Coach Ed Merrick shudders when asked about their prospects for annexing victory No. 2 Saturday afternoon.

Ready or not, that's when Richmond essays the task of stopping our rushing Virginia Tech—and as Merrick is aware, there's something about the sight of Richmond that brings out the beast in Tech.

The Techmen started getting particularly beastly after Richmond took some of the luster off their 6-3-1 season in 1955 by playing them to a 7-7 standoff at their homecoming in Blacksburg.

Since then Tech has shattered Richmond defenses for 166 points in four meetings, winning 46-14 in 1956 and by 42-7, 27-23 and 51-29 in the three succeeding years.

"I guess I'm going to have to do some persuasive talking just to get the boys to go out on the field Saturday," says Merrick, on a half in jest.

Tech will carry a 4-2 over-all record, a 2-0 Southern Conference log and a three-game winning streak into the game at Richmond City Stadium. Richmond is 1-1-1 against all comers, 1-2-1 in the league.

The Spiders worked lightly Monday on pass defense and punting after viewing movies of their 35-6 win at Davidson last weekend. Tech also took things relatively easy, welcoming back end Jim Farr, who has missed two games.

1960 Football Improved

By DAVID M. NELSON
Head Football Coach
University of Delaware

Written for The Associated Press

Football in 1960 is a better game in every respect than at anytime during its history.

The regulations of the conferences and other governing bodies have made the conduct of the game and the academic and eligibility requirements commensurate with the institutional setting.

This, coupled with pressure for better scholars brought about by the great influx of students and the Sputnik influence, has brought the quality of the student athlete to an all-time high.

The situation is far from perfect and there are those who still make a travesty of sound academic standards and the archaic rules of amateurism. However, progress has been steady and it is safe to assume the game will someday attain standards as far beyond today's status as we now are from the early 1900s.

The actual playing and conduct of football is superior to anything we have known in the past because of time, money and effort.

Great coaches and players of the past would be outstanding and successful in this era but the number of men of equal quality is far greater today. Because of the objectives of the modern game and the rapid progress over the years, today's coaches are ahead of their predecessors.

The modern coach has more assistants, spends the entire year with the game, has a single assignment and has access to information never available to former coaches. The enormous number of periodicals, manuals, books and clinics enable the coach in the smallest school to keep in step with the latest ideas in all aspects of the game.

There was a time, before television, game movies and clinics when a coach could use an offensive or defensive idea for several years without ever changing. Today a new idea, or the remedy for it, is spread over the entire country within a year.

A successful defense, or offense, seen on television will have the minds of all the coaches in the country working on a method to break it.

As a consequence, coaches are forced to coach a game with a greater variety of situations and the spectator is treated to a better game.

Gator Bowl Under Free Sub Rules

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — The Gator Bowl football game Dec. 31 will be played under free substitution rules.

George Olsen, general manager of the Gator Bowl Association, today announced the plan to hold the game between college teams under professional rules.

"We would expect a more wide open offensive game (to do) ing their specialties," Olsen said.

Several coaches have been outspoken this fall against the so-called wild card substitution rule which permits one player to enter at any time but still generally restricts entry and makes it necessary to coach players on both defense and offense.

THERE OUGHTA BE A LAW!

By FAGALY and SHORTEN

DeGaulle Wins Okay For An Atomic Striking Force

PARIS (AP)—President Charles de Gaulle today won the approval of a reluctant Parliament for his atomic striking force but faced more political storms. His $1.2 billion plan for France to develop her own nuclear deterrent outside any integrated NATO force was automatically adopted on first reading in the National Assembly when an opposition motion of censure won only 207 votes. This was 70 short of the necessary 277, but it was the biggest total yet massed against the government of Premier Michel Debre on a censure vote in the 552-seat Assembly. No total was announced of the votes against the motion, or of the abstentions, which were classified in the government's favor. The opposition mustered 109 votes for a censure motion arising when the 1960 budget was involved. Last May there were 122 votes for a censure motion arising over a farming bill. This time the issue was the military budget which included $1.2

billion for initial development of a nuclear striking force through 1964. The fact that censure took the place of a vote on the bill caused many deputies to hold back on expressing their opposition. Had the censure motion won, Debre could have been overthrown. De Gaulle, whose own job was not at stake, probably would have called for new parliamentary elections or a referendum. The bill now goes to the Senate, where it is expected to get further rough criticism, and finally back to the Assembly. Socialist leader Guy Mollet, who marshaled the opposition forces, argued that creation of an independent French striking force was a blow at Atlantic integration and European unification and threatened France with isolation from her allies. Debre denied France would be isolated and said the Atlantic alliance would be stronger if France had her own atomic force. The Algerian problem now bounds back to the center of the stage. Gen. Raoul Salan, former commander in chief in Algeria and a leading figure in the May 1958 revolt that put De Gaulle in power, is waging a personal fight against the president's policy of giving the Algerians self-determination. He was expected to announce the formation of a new party dedicated to keeping Algeria French. Jacques Soustelle, a former member of the de Gaulle government, already has announced the formation of one such party and is planning a strategy session with former Premier Georges Bidault and other right-wing opponents of De Gaulle's policy.

Glittering Start For Opera Time

By HENRIETTA LEITH

NEW YORK (AP)—The very oldest Verdi and the very newest of fashion shared the spotlight Monday night as the Metropolitan Opera got its 76th season off to a glittering—and lucrative—start. Notables of stage, screen, opera, television and the business world were scattered through the huge opening night audience which paid a record-breaking total of more than $91,000, with individual seats going for as high as $45. The Met had no trouble packing the house despite its opening choice of an opera—"Nabucco"—which had not been performed in New York for more than 100 years. A great many of those who attend Metropolitan opening nights are after gaiety, a taste of splendor and a peek at the celebrities. What they saw Monday night was splendid enough for anyone's taste. There weren't many society beauties or grand ladies visible. And one of the few gentlemen in tails and white tie was a magazine reporter. But there was Lauren Bacall, striking in white satin cut very low, and there was Dorothy Kilgallen of television and the press, sporting flaming orange hair; and there was, of course, Hope Hampton, who sang opera herself many years ago and annually amazes opening night audiences with her youthful illusion—this time swathed in gold and green sequins, ermine and emeralds. There was James Melton, in iron-gray distinction, smilingly escorting pretty young Barbara Meister, who wore green chiffon and white mink. Elsa Maxwell came to someone else's show, and comedian Henry Morgan chatted at the bar in an improbable group that included the Met's controller and several other men of finance. Met singers Patrice Munsel and Lucia Albanese took a busman's holiday, drawing eyes with respectively, brown velvet with sable and red brocade with ermine. Designer Suzanne Godart attracted attention in white satin trimmed with purple beads, with a tricky matching capelet lined in purple. An unidentified miss also attracted attention with a crazy hat formed of a gold snake, and the first ostrich feather boa seen in a generation. More subdued were Merle Oberon in white with red and black, and Mrs. Anthony Bliss in dark gold lame. "Nabucco," Verdi's first success, deals with the Biblical story of Nebuchadnezzar and is set in Jerusalem and Babylon. It was chosen to open the season for two reasons: Manager Rudolf Bing has a special interest in early Verdi and 1960 is the 100th anniversary of the Italian risorgimento, a patriotic movement stirred up in part by this 1842 opera about the oppressed Hebrew people. Whatever historical reasons may recommend it, many opera-goers found "Nabucco" a poor choice. Associated Press arts editor W. G. Rogers, reviewing the performance, thought that the Metropolitan might just as well have waited 118 years more before putting on its first performance of "Nabucco." He found it "a melancholy opus scored by a still inexperienced composer with a bumbling libretto" with "vast choruses lumbering about like herds and the principals often lost in the shuffle."

Titan Zooms On Record Flight
CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Thousands of people saw Titan No. 25 blaze across the sky on a record 6,100-mile flight to a South Atlantic ocean target area. Smooth recovery of the missile's data capsule at sea crowned the last scheduled test shot of the Titan "J" series. These intercontinental missiles are slated to become operational by next summer. Meanwhile, tests will begin on an "AJ" improved version of the Titan. Monday night's flight from Cape Canaveral was the longest a Titan has made in 18 launchings the Air Force called successful. Its tactical-type nose cone splashed into the sea 1,100 miles southeast of Ascension Island. At 7:53 p.m., 97 minutes after the launch, the Air Force missile range vessel "Coastal Crusader" hoisted aboard the data capsule which was ejected from the nose cone after re-entry into the earth's atmosphere. The Titan's after-sunset takeoff punched a weird luminous sky trail that thrilled spectators as far distant as Key West, more than 250 miles south of Cape Canaveral, and Savannah, Ga., 350 miles north of the cape. The Titan made its longest previous flight Sept. 29 when it traveled 6,000 miles. It was intended to fly 10,000 miles to the Indian Ocean, but fell short because of premature cutoff of its first-stage engine. The shot Monday night was programmed for the 6,100-mile distance achieved. The Titan's planned operational range is 6,325 miles. The first of 14 Titan bases is scheduled for readiness next summer at Lowry Air Force Base, Denver, Colo. Alexander Hamilton founded Paterson, N. J., in 1791 as a new industrial city.

Ben-Gurion told Parliament examination of relations between the United States and the Soviet Union indicates fear of a third world war is exaggerated.

WARSAW (AP)—Four persons were killed and five seriously injured when a freight train and a locomotive crashed head-on Sunday near Jaroslav in southeastern Poland, the official Polish news agency Pap reported Monday.

WORTH MORE DEAD
OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Oklahomans last year apparently were worth more dead than alive. They had $5,724,000,000 worth of life insurance in force while personal income was estimated at $3,624,000,000.

"OPEN WIDE, NOW"—Two-year-old Michelle Griffith feeds her pet hummingbird, Susan, a vitamin compound with an eyedropper. Michele's father, F. W. Griffith, of Smyrna, Ga., an Atlanta suburb, found the bedraggled hummingbird near his home and brought it in to be revived. Susan soon regained health under the eyedropper treatment. (AP Wirephoto)

Election Could Bring Out Near 67 Million Voters

WASHINGTON (AP) — Next month's presidential election may bring out five million more voters than the 1956 contest between President Eisenhower and Adlai E. Stevenson. An Associated Press compilation of estimates from state officials and political experts in the 50 states indicated a record 67 million votes next month from the 84 million eligible to cast ballots. The 1956 presidential race drew 62,027,040 votes from an estimated 80 million eligibles. The figures were based on actual registrations in states which require advance listing of potential voters, and on voting habits and surveys in those states which have no registration requirement. The Census Bureau said 107 million persons will be old enough to vote, but many either will not meet eligibility requirements or will not bother to cast their ballots.

NEW YORK (AP) — A mixed stock market groped for support in quiet trading early this afternoon.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .10 at 263.90 with the industrials off .20, the rails up .10 and the utilities up .30.

Changes of most key stocks were small, a few going a point or so either way.

The market was higher at the start in a recovery from six straight sessions of decline. After a spurt of activity, dealings slowed.

Gold shares were mixed. Steels, autos, rails, nonferrous metals, tobacco and oils were irregular. Building materials and electrical equipments were mostly lower.

U. S. Steel, which reports on third quarter results after the close, was up a fraction. Jones & Laughlin also nudged upward but Bethlehem and Republic Steel dropped slightly.

Texas Instruments rebounded more than 3 points in early dealings, then pared its net recovery to less than a point. Polaroid slumped another 2 points or so. Universal Mat. lost a fraction.

Ford was steady while General Motors declined slightly and Chrysler eased.

Among small losers were Johnsonville, Goodyear, International Harvester, Douglas Aircraft, Southern California Edison, U. S. Gypsum and International Paper. Slightly higher were Woolworth, Public Service Electric & Gas, Standard Oil of Indiana and Southern Railway.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off .63 at 571.30.

District Rotary Governor Here

Rotary District Governor Bruce Eure of Fair Bluff made his annual visit to the Greenville Rotary Club yesterday, holding a conference with club officers and addressing the club at its supper meeting.

Eure, governor of Rotary International District 773, told members of the local club that individual Rotarians must put forth a greater effort to achieve the objectives of Rotary. He stressed the importance of Rotarians participating in the Rotary Foundation which provides fellowships for young people to study for a year in countries other than their own. Miss Nancy Harris of Greenville, who was sponsored by the local Rotary Club, is studying this year in France as the Rotary Foundation Fellow from district 773.

Prior to the club meeting the district governor conferred with officers and committee chairmen of the local club, discussing activities and plans of the club for the current year.

Khrushchev Off On His Vacation

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet Premier Khrushchev appeared today for the opening session of Parliament but left after 15 minutes, reportedly to begin a vacation on the Black Sea.

Khrushchev got a big hand from the more than 800 deputies of the Supreme Soviet. After the agenda was announced, he quietly slipped out.

Soviet Expected Push Debate On Cuban Charges

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — The Soviet bloc was expected to press in the U.N. steering committee today for quick General Assembly debate on Cuban charges that the United States is mounting a large-scale invasion against Fidel Castro's regime.

With the Soviet Union, Romania and Bulgaria all members of the 21-nation committee, the Communists were seen certain to push hard for speedy debate of the charges in a plenary assembly session instead of in the political committee, the normal U. N. procedure.

Manuel Bisse, Cuban ambassador to the United Nations, said that the steering group recommends against putting the complaint on the assembly agenda and tries to send it to a committee first. He will seek to reverse the recommendation when it is sent to the assembly floor for ratification.

In a memorandum accompanying the aggression charges, Cuban Foreign Minister Raul Roa cited the three Americans executed recently for their part in an anti-Castro expedition that landed in Cua's Oriente province. He also claimed that arms had been dropped in central Cuba by a four-engine plane with U.S. markings.

The memorandum said Cuban authorities had reliable information that a large-scale U.S. invasion against Cuban soil would be launched soon.

Such an invasion, it said, could lead to a "conflagration of unimaginable proportions." This was an apparent reference to Soviet Premier Khrushchev's threat to use rockets to defend the Castro regime.

Prospects of an assembly debate on the Cuban charges aroused speculation whether Castro himself would make another appearance at this assembly session.

Castro leveled a whole array of charges against the United States in his 4 1/2-hour speech to the assembly Sept. 26. When he ended his visit two days later, the bearded leader said he would return to the assembly "if necessary."

Cuba first accused the United States of aggression last July in a complaint to the Security Council. The council referred the complaint to the organization of American States. Cuba stalked out of the OAS conference at San Jose, Costa Rica, in August when it rejected the Cuban complaint.

Hospitalize Five In Two Accidents

Five people were admitted to Pitt Memorial Hospital and two cars demolished as the result of two one-car accidents in Pitt County Sunday.

Investigating Patrolman Luther Long of Bethel said four Negroes were thrown from a car two miles from Greenville on the Statesburg road at 12:30 p.m. Sunday when the car, driven by Willie Lee Taylor, 23, of Farmville, went out of control for 300 feet, and overturned several times.

Two passengers, Barbara Jean Suggs, 16, and Dorace M. Rhodes, 17, were admitted to the hospital along with Taylor. The other two passengers in the vehicle were treated for minor injuries and released. All of the passengers were from Farmville.

Taylor was charged with reckless driving and operating without a license. The car was a total loss.

In the second wreck, Jasper Earl Blount, Negro, of 509 Battle St., the driver of the car and William Earl Gorham, address not given, a passenger, were admitted to Pitt Memorial Hospital after the Blount car headed South on N.C. 11 rounded a curve at the intersection of N.C. 11-N.C. 903 and went out of control, traveling about 350 feet and overturning "two or three times," Long noted.

Two other passengers in the car, which was demolished, were treated for minor injuries and released.

Blount suffered a fractured skull while Gorham is suffering from lacerations of the forehead and face, Long reported.

Long quoted the passengers in the car as saying Blount was "flying" and "would not slow down," adding that the passengers had on several occasions put the car in neutral in an effort to reduce the speed of the car.

Blount was charged with reckless driving.

School's Lab Is Ripped By Blast

CHICAGO (AP) — Ten students and their chemistry teacher were injured Monday when an explosion ripped a high school laboratory while a student experimented with a rocket fuel. Ten of the injured were treated and released. Eugene Benes, 17, the experimenter, was hospitalized with facial cuts. School officials said the explosion occurred after Benes added an "unauthorized chemical" to a harmless mixture.

N. C. Artists Ass'n. Honors Mrs. Moore

WINSTON-SALEM — Mrs. Rachel Maxwell Moore of Greenville, active participant in the arts programs of North Carolina and director of the Greenville art gallery, has been named an honorary member of Associated Artists of North Carolina.

Mrs. Moore has been director of the Greenville Community Art Gallery for the past 19 years. Owen D. Lewis of Winston-Salem, president of Associated Artists of North Carolina, said the honor was conferred in recognition of Mrs. Moore's "many accomplishments in her home town of Greenville and her tireless efforts on behalf of the arts throughout the state."

Nearly 30 years ago, Mrs. Moore established a temporary art gallery in Greenville, which was the forerunner of the city's present art center. In 1942 she established the Greenville Community Art Gallery, of which she is still director. She has served on the Board of Directors of the N. C. State Art Society since 1947 and was named chairman of the art department, N. C. Federation of Women's Clubs, in 1958. In 1955 she helped found the East Carolina Art Society, which includes membership from Pitt and surrounding counties.

Mrs. Moore will be presented with a plaque containing the enablement adopted by Associated Artists of North Carolina, which reads, in part:

"Throughout these years she has given generously of her time, energy and money for the encouragement and promotion of the arts and instigated the formation of a collection of paintings by North Carolina artists for the Greenville Art Center."

Associated Artists of North Carolina is an organization of artists and art patrons who encourage appreciation of North Carolina art through traveling exhibitions and art education.

Rockets To Join Tornado Study

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Camera-carrying rockets will join planes next spring in tracking down the mysteries of tornadoes.

"It will be the most concentrated attack ever made on the study of severe storms," said Harry Wexler, head of meteorological research for the U. S. Weather Bureau. "More planes and equipment will be used than in even the hurricane study project."

Twenty-nine scientists from five government agencies are meeting in Kansas City to plan the program which will start March 1. Headquarters for the project will be Oklahoma City, Okla.

Special rockets will be launched from Ft. Sill, Okla., to photograph clouds from a height of 175,000 feet, said C. F. Van Thullen, project director.

Grimes Talks To Optimist Club

Pitt County Welfare Supt. J. S. (Pete) Grimes last night presented a brief description of the local public welfare operation to the weekly meeting of the Greenville Optimist Club.

The superintendent called on Optimists to "think about what you want in a welfare department and drop in and tell us about it." He said the agency "has no way of knowing what the people want unless they pass along to us their thoughts."

Grimes pointed out the Pitt agency annually handles around $1 million in county, state, and federal funds. He told his Optimist audience one of every 22 persons in North Carolina is reached "in some way" by public welfare.

The local agency's head described the duty of "any public welfare department" as "providing aid to those persons who are unable to help themselves."

Grimes pinpointed the three major legal responsibilities of the Department of Public Welfare: "To give, within legal limits, financial aid to persons unable by their own efforts to meet minimum living costs; to offer social treatment or rehabilitative services to individuals and families with personal and social problems they cannot solve themselves; and to keep the public informed of social problems and assist in planning to improve community conditions."

Prior to Grimes' talk, Optimist Johnnie May stated that the club tickets for the annual Optimist Christmas tree sale will be ready next week. May said Boy Scouts in Greenville have agreed to help with the sale of the tickets.

Bethel Children To Stage UNICEF Drive Thursday

BETHEL — Children of Bethel will meet Thursday night at 7 p.m. at the Methodist Church to begin their annual "Trick or Treat for UNICEF" canvass.

Children, grades one through four, will cover the entire town canvassing for pennies, nickels and dimes for the United Nations Children's Fund, benefiting children all over the world.

The drive here is sponsored by the Woman's Society of Christian Service of the Methodist Church, with Mrs. D. L. Perry as chairman of the canvass. Following the canvass, ladies of the Bethel Baptist Church will serve refreshments to participating children.

Accident Victim Now In Durham

Mitchell Wooten of Falkland, who was critically injured in an auto accident near Wilson Saturday, has been moved to Duke Hospital where he underwent an operation Sunday morning.

His family reported the 20-year-old ECC student is getting along as well as can be expected. However, he is still in serious condition.

Wooten was injured when his car ran off the highway and struck a tobacco packhouse early Saturday morning. The accident occurred on U. S. 264 about five miles west of Wilson.

REV. AND MRS. WESLEY CALVERY, returned missionaries from Japan, are currently conducting revival services at Winterville Free Will Baptist Church. Wednesday night will be featured as "Japan Night" with a program including the Calverys' adopted four-year-old son from Japan. The program will consist of speaking and singing in Japanese, slides on Japan, and a report of the Free Will Baptist mission work in that country. The public is invited.
