New Charges By Republican Cobb

MORGANTON, N.C. (AP)—The chairman of the state Republican party made new charges Wednesday that there have been irregularities in the operation of the multimillion dollar Highway Department.

William F. Cobb of Morganton said he had written State Attorney General Wade Bruton detailing the charges, and including signed affidavits from three former highway employees who substantiated the charges.

Highway Director W. F. Babcock said when told of Cobb's charges: "I know absolutely nothing about it whatsoever. I'd just have to get the charges and investigate them."

Babcock said normal procedure would be to request the State Bureau of Investigation to assist in such a probe.

Mary McGalliard, an assistant attorney general, said Cobb's letter to Bruton was received this morning by registered mail.

Cobb said the three former highway workers, whom he did not identify, reported the alleged irregularities to their department head and were subsequently asked to resign or be fired.

The GOP chieftain, who frequently has accused the Democratic administration of pressuring state employees to vote Democratic, said the sworn statements deal with the alleged misappropriation of hundreds of pounds of fescue seed and fertilizer, hay, pipe and wire, and the possible

Junta Takes Over In San Salvador

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP)—The new ruling junta erased several decrees of deposed President Jose Maria Lemus and dissolved Congress today. The junta's avowed aim is to restore justice in this tiny Central American nation.

A state of siege imposed after student rioting last month against Lemus' strong arm administration was lifted by the six-man military civilian group which ousted him Wednesday in a bloodless coup.

Civil liberties had been sharply restricted. The junta revoked two other decrees of Lemus, forbidding public meetings and curtailing the authority of the national university's faculty.

In addition to dissolving Congress, in which Lemus had the support of a majority, the junta dismissed justices of the Supreme Court, members of the General Accounting Office, the National Election Board and the Social Welfare Service chief.

Lemus had vanished. There were reports the 49-year-old soldier-politician was seeking refuge in Guatemala or the United States.

"(Clerks at the Biltmore Hotel in Guatemala City said a reservation had been booked for Lemus and "we are still waiting for him." Guatemalan officials said they had no official knowledge of the fleeing president.)

$100,000 Suit

RALEIGH (AP)—The Knights of Columbus today filed a suit for $100,000 damages against Mrs. Ruby J. Timby of Eureka and Donald R. Bryan of Farmville.

The suit, filed in Federal District Court, revolves around the so-called Knights of Columbus oath. The Knights, a Catholic men's organization, contend that the oath is false and libelous.

According to the complaint in the case, Mrs. Timby gave copies of pamphlets containing the alleged bogus oath to Bryan for distribution.

The complaint also stated that the oath was included in a paid advertisement which it said Mrs. Timby placed in a newspaper. It said the editor of the newspaper later repudiated statements in the advertisement and condemned publication of the oath.

"Favorable opinion for the United States as a country, and for President Eisenhower, has declined in the wake of the summit collapse, but, notwithstanding, continues to predominate by large margins in both Great Britain and France, and remains far ahead of the Soviet Union and Premier Khrushchev, both of whom have also suffered losses in esteem."

The Post said Wednesday night it obtained a copy of the summary, compiled by the U. S. Information Agency's office of Research and Analysis. The newspaper said the summary was prepared for the National Security Council, of which Vice President Richard M. Nixon, the Republican presidential nominee, is vice chairman.

The Times, today publishing the full text of the summary as well as a story, pointed out that the survey is not the opinion analysis referred to last week by Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. Fulbright had been seeking copies of a prestige report dated Aug. 23 as well as what he termed later "barometer survey" by the USIA.

Sen. John F. Kennedy, Democratic presidential nominee, has charged that America's prestige is declining. Kennedy, arriving in New York by plane today, declined to comment on publication of the survey. He said he had not seen the newspaper stories.

Nixon has contended our prestige is at an all-time high. He said last Friday in his television debate with Kennedy that he has no objection to release of USIA poll findings.

The papers disclosed by both Nixon and Kennedy is classified as secret by the Eisenhower administration.

In a speech last Thursday night in San Francisco, President Eisenhower said reports of U. S. loss of prestige among European powers is debasement of the truth.

There was no immediate White House comment on publication of the report.

The survey percentage figures published by both the Times and the Post are the same.

The Times said the survey, based on an opinion sample of 1,150 British residents and 1,000 French residents made late in May, gave these major conclusions:

1. "Though the U. S. S. R. is blamed most for collapse of the (mid-May) summit conference, a majority blamed both sides at least in part.

2. "Favorable opinion for the United States as a country and for President Eisenhower has declined in the wake of the summit collapse.

3. "Particularly in Great Britain, current confidence is low in America's capacity for leadership in dealing with present world problems.

4. "There is little support in the present survey for any supposition that the story of the U2 overflights, however adverse in other respects, strengthened judgments of America's military standing vis-a-vis the Soviet Union."

Both the Post and Times reported this question was put to French and British citizens:

"How much confidence do you have in the ability of the United States to provide wise leadership for the West in dealing with present world problems—very great, considerable, not very much, or very little?"

The answers in England: Very great, 8 per cent; considerable, 27 per cent; not very much, 35 per cent; very little, 16 per cent; no opinion, 14 per cent.

The answers in France: very great, 5 per cent; considerable, 38 per cent; not very much, 24 per cent; very little, 15 per cent; no opinion, 18 per cent.

The pollsters also asked whether "You personally think your country should side with the United States or Russia, or neither."

In Great Britain: 42 per cent with the United States, 2 per cent with the Soviet Union, 46 per cent with neither, and 10 per cent with no opinion. In October 1958, a similar poll showed 58 per cent with the United States.

In France, 29 per cent favored the United States in October 1958, and 30 per cent in 1960; 61 per cent said "neither" in 1958 and 51 per cent said "neither" this year.

UF Drive Extended To Finish

The current United Fund campaign has been extended to Nov. 15, Pitt United Fund president R. L. Martin announced today.

He said the action was taken last night at a joint meeting of the campaign cabinet and the UF's board of directors.

Martin said the time extension was made "because we were a little late getting to some parts of the county with the campaign." The additional time should allow these sections to complete their solicitations, he said.

Martin reported UF officials hope to have all Greenville cards back in by next week along with the solicitation cards from most county towns. Cards from all areas should be in by Nov. 15, he said.

"The campaign is rolling," the president said. "We definitely have good prospects for a successful campaign."

General Campaign Chairman David J. Whitchard reported to the group that approximately $60,000 has been pledged or turned in during the campaign.

Martin said Ketchum and Co., which is assisting in the campaign, has agreed to provide professional service for an additional week without further compensation.

Martin was authorized by the groups to appoint a committee for collections of pledges. He said the committee will be announced at a later date.

WILSON — George Saleeby of Griffon announced his candidacy for vice president of the 11th Jaycee district at a meeting here last night.

Also announcing as a candidate was Louis Bryant of Goldsboro. The district's vice president will be elected by delegates from the clubs at a meeting in April.

Saleeby is currently president of the Griffon club. Twenty-three members of the Greenville club, who came by bus, were present for last night's district meeting here.

Al Sharpe, state president, and John Coffey, Jr., national director, spoke to the Jaycees.

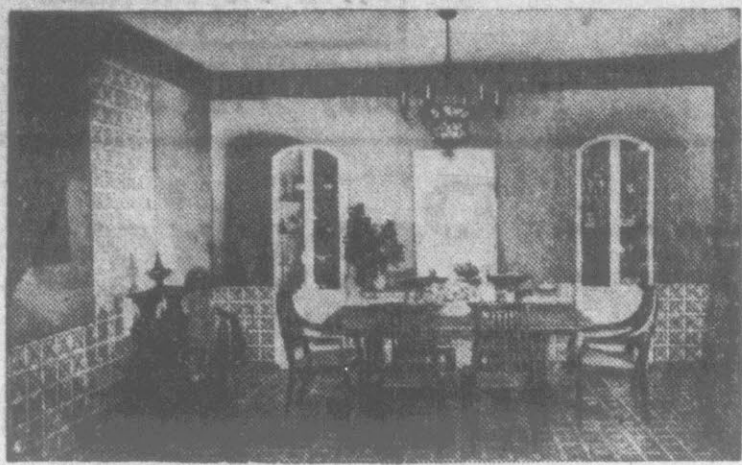

Presidents reports included comments on club activities by George Coffman, Greenville president; George Saleeby, Griffon president; and Tom V. Wheelis, Ayden president.

Clubs making up the 11th district are: Ayden, Goldsboro, Greenville, Griffon, Mt. Olive, Smithfield, Washington and Wilson.

COUNTRY DINING ROOM . . . Delft patterned floor tiles, black and white gingham wall covering dominated setting by Everett Brown at Design Show.

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Floors, walls, fabrics and color highlight the "Decorators and Design, 1961" show. More than 100 exhibits reflect the efforts of members of the New York Chapter of the American Institute of Decorators.

The furniture is elegant and perhaps a little precious for the average homemaker, but ideas are unlimited for a talented amateur decorator.

A Provincial Spanish family room with built-in hutch has sheet flooring of pink vinyl with an elaborate black inset, resembling Spanish grillwork. A Portuguese family room is done in colors taken from floor tiles decorated with fruits in amber, bitter green and Portuguese blue. A room keyed to black, white and red has a floor of parquet walnut combined with black Grouille in which black mosaic vinyl is set. A floor of Scotch plaid vinyl is also shown.

One floor has planks of varying widths painted gray with half inch strips of carpeting inserted between each board. Leona Kahn paints the wide wood floors of her country house a bright coral, a charming effect with her color scheme of yellow, pink and white. Everett Brown's country kitchen has a floor and dado in Delft design vinyl, handsomely offset by walls of black and white checked gingham, and shelves of American pottery and pewter.

Many walls are dark—black, brown, red, deep blue—and treated with unusual effects. Lloyd Bell uses small strips of green wood, crossed and recrossed to form a mural trellis decoration. Jens Risom has a wall of tree bark cork. Stuart Blaine and Robert Booth paneled two walls of their "country salon" in cane with walnut frames. The third wall is entirely covered in antique French paneled cabinets.

Patricia Harvey shows a wall covering of black on black vinyl, another of white on white vinyl. Another setting was highlighted by a brown and black toile covering walls and furniture. John Wisler uses deep blue grasscloth as a background for an antique console table. Hector Grant's 18th century foyer is draped in a wall covering of elegant striped gray satin. Melanie Kahane uses leather on the walls and a unique floor covering of real rosewood laminated over cork with a vinyl surface. Newly developed adhesives make it possible to use the fabric wall coverings seen throughout the show.

Brilliant reds, blues, greens, purples and pale yellows and pinks are predominant in all exhibits.

21 Students Pledge Angel Flight

As members or pledges of Angel Flight, co-educational auxiliary group to the Arnold Air Society, Air Force ROTC, 21 women students at East Carolina College have begun a program of activities for the 1960-1961 term.

East Carolina's Angel Flight was founded by Cadet Col. Robert L. Needs of Beaufort and received its national charter in January, 1960.

The campus organization, one of 41 in the nation, has among its purposes maintaining high morale in Detachment 800 of the AF ROTC at East Carolina and furthering recognition of the AF ROTC through service to the college. Members serve as official hostesses for military events on the campus and also function as a drill unit.

Mary Elizabeth Powell, junior from New Bern, is commander of Angel Flight at the college, with the rank of major.

Other officers, with their ranks, are Joan Phelps of Havelock, captain, deputy commander; Delores Avery of Dunn, lieutenant, administrative service officer; Judy Spott of Hampton, Va., first lieutenant, information service officer; Sandra Nelson of Jacksonville, second lieutenant, materials officer.

Martha Sue Davis of Clayton, first lieutenant, comptroller; Carolyn Vaughn of Wake Forest, second lieutenant, historian; June Tozier of Chocowinity, second lieutenant, chaplain; Brenda Nunery of Jacksonville, master sergeant, parliamentarian; and Melba Hargett of Rt. 2, New Bern, technical sergeant, social committee chairman.

Other members of the organization include Dorothy Hayes of Durham, major, commander last year, and Edith Stewart of Broadway, Airman 1C.

Advisors of Angel Flight at the college are Capt. Vance M. Lockamy, commandant of cadets; S-Sgt. William Harrison; and Mrs. Vance Lockamy, advisor on social affairs.

Diagnosis: School Phobia

By MARY CAMPBELL

CHICAGO (AP)—A common childhood disease that parents aren't always aware of is called school phobia. The symptoms: The youngster doesn't want to go to school, or he's afraid to go.

Dr. Jerme Schulman, attending psychiatrist at Children's Memorial Hospital, says school phobia strikes nearly all children at some time or other. Usually it happens when the child wakes up in the morning, realizes it's the day for a test, and suddenly has a stomach ache.

Treatment is easy, says Dr. Schulman. Boot him out and send him to school, or tell him he'll have to spend the whole day in bed with no playing. If he's not sick, this prospect may sound so dull he'll discover he feels like going to school after all.

Sometimes, Dr. Schulman says, the child may convince himself and his parents that he really is sick. Then he stays home from school and his mother takes care of him.

The doctor says illness can be mutually satisfactory to mother and child when the child doesn't want to grow up—perhaps from dread of competing with other children—and the mother finds it strengthening to keep her child a baby and dependent on her.

With this combination of mother and child, both can keep finding excuses why it's not good for the child to start back to school today, and the stomach ache may go on from day to day.

When the child stays home several days, it's time for father or someone else to step in, the doctor says, and take the child to the family physician. He can treat the organic illness if there is one or send the child back to school.

At Children's Memorial Hospital each year Dr. Schulman sees about 20 children with school phobia, some of whom haven't been to school for years.

Most of these, he says, start with a real illness. The child is in a hospital or at home for a long time. Then, when it is almost time for him to go back to school, he begins to be afraid.

He tells himself, "Maybe my friends will make fun of me; I won't be in the gang any more; I'm so far behind in my lessons I'll never catch up."

He wants to put off facing the return to school. Real symptoms shade off into a continuation of symptoms. He may feel his mother, or, again, she may enjoy coddling and caring for him and subtly encourage him to stay at home.

The longer this goes on, with the child getting farther behind in classwork and more out of touch with his friends, Dr. Schulman says, the harder it is for him to go back to school. The family needs to see a doctor who may send them to a psychiatrist. Stomach pains and headaches which really are school phobia may be most pronounced during school hours. Dr. Schulman says, but not always. He says a child with school phobia usually is bright and imaginative, able to think of lots of good excuses and keep his symptoms consistent.

It's not a new discovery. Mark Twain was aware of disease and treatment. When Tom Sawyer awoke on a Monday morning with a sore toe, only to be told by his Aunt Polly, "Now you shut up that nonsense and climb out of this bed."

Gardening Today

By JOHN G. DUNCAN

In a few more nights Halloween will be here, and with it comes the tall tales that surround this night of mysterious and mischievous happenings. It is a time dedicated wholly to mischief and make believe.

Ghosts have open season and access to almost every place. Elves and goblins will come down from out of the trees tops, and gnomes will venture from under their toadstool houses. It is not a night for the timid to rove around. Shadows take shapes and gates swing open in the chilled air. The night emphasizes the lack of lubrication—everything creaks.

The devil, when he has time of, from his regular job, will be trimming Belladonna, his favorite plant. That is, if an early frost hasn't killed it off. Where they are in season, the Fox Glove will be plucked by some evil fairy and given to the fox. He puts them on his feet to soften his tread so he can go about his chicken snatching unheeded.

Down in Mexico, the dreaded rattlesnake bush will have its venom restored by an evil elf milking the fangs of a big snake.

If you live on a farm, keep your cows under lock and key. Any cow that is loose on this night is liable to be given the evil eye by an elf. If this takes place, the milk given by such a cow will be sour. This is caused by the dancing of the cow. Play safe and prevent this lactic convulsion by locking your barn.

Even, if you don't believe in ghosts, it is best to know a few means to discourage or at least hinder them in their ethereal meanderings.

Ghosts will not cross a threshold that has been sprinkled with collard seeds. Cooking a big pot of beans so that their odor permeates the house is another method of warding off the filmy folks. Another way is to spread a lot of newspapers on the floor outside of your bed room door. Ghosts are very curious and will read every word and count each letter of the print. This task should take quite a time and keep the ghost busy all night.

They say, if you are confronted by a ghost, you can put it to flight by only asking it for money. Another way is to quote a few lines of scripture. According to those who subscribe to the above, both methods are effective.

So if you lean a bit toward the side of superstition on this night, be a bit cautious—keep your fingers crossed.

Hodges Declined Undermine Courts

By declining to intervene in the case of union officials and members sentenced to prison for conspiring to dynamite the Harriet-Henderson cotton mills, Gov. Hodges has allowed the wheels of Justice to continue to turn to carry out the verdict of the courts.

The eight union men, including Boyd E. Payton, Carolinas director of the Textile Workers Union of America, were convicted of conspiring to destroy the Henderson textile plant which became the scene of the most bitter labor dispute in recent history in North Carolina. Following their conviction in Vance County Superior Court on the charges, the case was appealed to the State Supreme Court and the U. S. Supreme Court.

The State Supreme Court upheld the findings of the lower court and has subsequently reaffirmed its own decision. The U. S. Supreme Court recently declined to review the case.

It is only right that these eight men be required to serve the sentences they have been given by the courts. For the governor to overrule the courts by granting executive clemency in this case would have been to undermine the courts of the state. It would have placed the executive branch of the state government in the position of giving the men convicted of the crime a pat on the head and telling them to run along. Certainly such an act would encourage rather than discourage the attempt to use similar violence in other labor disputes.

Gov. Hodges has been severely criticized from several quarters for the official position taken by the state government during the bitter Harriet-Henderson cotton mill strike. There can be no doubt that some of these same sources will criticize the governor for not rejecting the decision of the courts by granting clemency to these men.

For our part, however, we feel the governor is to be commended for his firm stand on this matter.

The accused men received a fair trial, their case has been reviewed by the State Supreme Court and their appeal has been carried to the highest court in the land where it was rejected.

If the laws of the state and the courts mean anything, it is obvious that the governor followed the only course open to him as a conscientious public official.

One Of Them Is Right, The Other Is Wrong

In the beginning, it was merely a part of the continuing round of argument between two presidential candidates... one of whom raised the point that America's prestige abroad was slipping and it is time to do something about it.

The other scoffed; said America never stood higher in minds of people in other lands.

His rival persisted in claims that all was not well, that surveys abroad proved his point that complacency at home, on the level of leadership, had to be overcome.

Obviously, one of the rivals was right and the other wrong.

Which? The tip-off came yesterday when the White House refused to make public a report on a survey of opinion abroad on aspects of American prestige.

One can understand why, if such a poll were conducted and the results unfavorable, Washington would be unwilling to make it public. Russian propaganda organs would use it with glee and a measure of gratitude. Results of such a poll that favored the U. S. hardly seems a matter for concealing.

Actually, we can not visualize a foreign government being shaken by results in polling opinion of America's man-in-the-street; nor do we feel exactly "shook up" by the survey in question.

The point we would make is that one of two most important men in the lives of 180 million Americans today knew what he was talking about, and the other didn't.

Of course, opinion as to relative military might is just one facet of what comprises "prestige." One could debate its overall importance in the picture all night long, and remain unsatisfied.

Most disturbing, though, is the fact the American people are not being told exactly what they have to contend with. This should be known, by everyone, in order that we may act intelligently and determinedly. Blind complacency and an attitude of papa-knows-best is not conducive to calling forth the effort that may well be needed.

These are dangerous years, a fact which sometimes appears forgotten. In a democracy it is all the more important that the people know.

Boo-Boo Apiece For Candidates

By JAMES MARLOW WASHINGTON (AP)—Each of the presidential candidates has pulled an international boo-boo: Vice President Richard M. Nixon, on Quemoy and Matsu; and Sen. John F. Kennedy on Cuba. Nixon favored getting more deeply involved in the offshore islands than President Eisenhower was ever willing to permit and more than this country might go for in a showdown. Kennedy's ideas—or some of them—on coping with Cuba's Fidel Castro would violate a treaty this country has with 20 other American republics by getting mixed up in Cuba's internal affairs.

If the candidates' dispute on these subjects proves anything, it is this: That they've spent far more time discussing Cuba and Quemoy and Matsu than those islands are worth in comparison with all the other problems which presidential candidates could be discussing at this moment.

The danger of presidential candidates—since one of the two would be confronted with his own words if he became president—of talking too fast on delicate subjects.

Nixon, who thought he had Kennedy at a disadvantage on Quemoy and Matsu, insisted the senator discuss them. Now, apparently thinking he has his opponent at more of a disadvantage on Cuba, Nixon is insisting he discuss that.

This country has a treaty with Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist government pledging defense against any Red Chinese attack on Formosa and the nearby Pescadores Islands about 100 miles from the China mainland.

But this country has no obligation to defend Quemoy and Matsu, two tiny islands also occupied by Chiang's forces but lying only a couple of miles off the mainland.

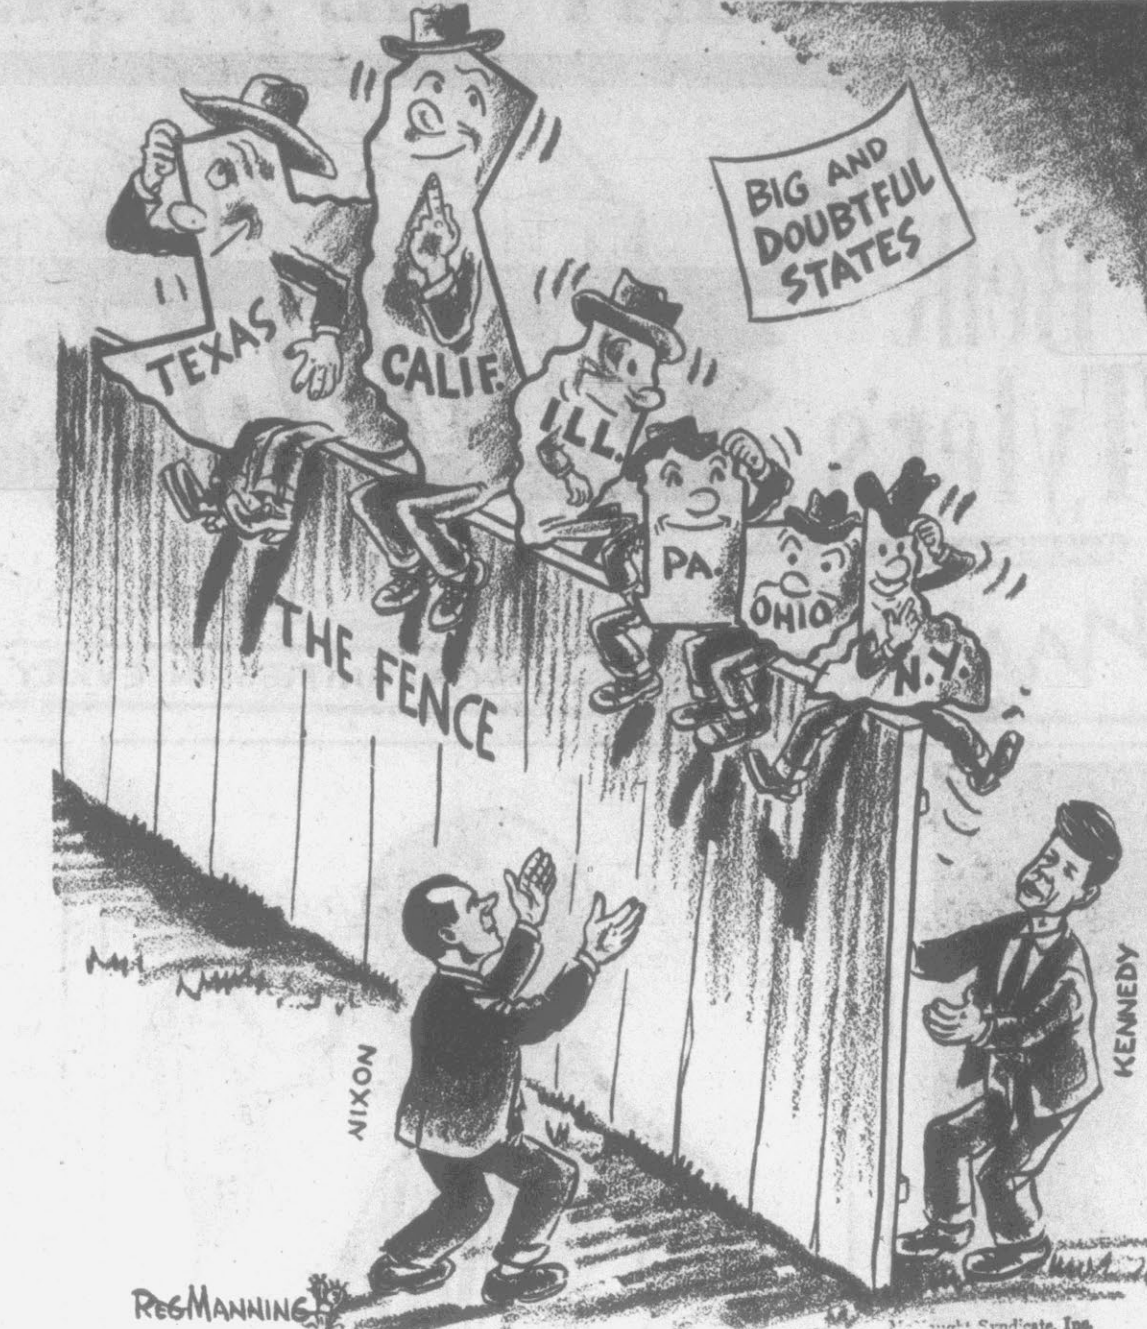

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS Suggestions for Memorization Yesterday we spoke of the necessity of memorizing Scripture and said we would indicate today what passages of Scripture can, we believe, be most advantageously memorized.

First, and above all, the Ten Commandments, Exodus 20:1-17; the Beatitudes, Matthew 5:1-12; Psalms 1, 8, 14, 19, 23, 24, 27, 41, 45, 90, 91, 100, 125, 150; the 14th and 15th chapters of the Gospel of John; the Hymn of Love, I Corinthians 13.

People sometimes object to Scripture memorization saying that it is a matter of rote and that the letter killeth but the spirit giveth life. This is true, but we need to know what Christian beliefs are

Think They're Leaning My Way!

By PATRICIA MOORE

Poor Handwriting, Too

It wasn't very long ago that we were discussing the journal, and the stereotype that movies made, then the one that television is attempting to make. Some of our trade secrets are definitely valuable.

We will let you in on a closely guarded secret, however, about those of us in the reporting world — or rather, some of us. It concerns our handwriting.

Have you ever known a newspaper person who had a pretty handwriting? There's an old saying that the best writers have the worst handwriting, and we all hope our bad hands will somehow qualify us to admittance to this cherishing realm.

However, there are some advantages to a bad handwriting. The worse we are, the less others can read our hand. In other words, it keeps those who would copy us without giving us the satisfaction of asking from deliberately copying. This happens frequently when there are several members of different press media attending the same thing. You get the beat, man.

And, it protects us from the curious public who are annoying when they peer over our shoulder at our secret note pads. Or look to make sure we have thus and so and think we can't spell because we abbreviate or use a type of shorthand. By scribbling so no one can read it, we avoid all kinds of trouble.

This brings to mind a rather unfortunate little incident which occurred a short time ago. We wrote a story about a new police chief in one of our neighboring metropolitan areas, and we had a nice comment from some town official, saying he would make a "good officer."

Somehow, between this typewriter, the press room, composing room, proofreaders, etc., the story came out that the man would make a "soon officer." Everyone (but us) has enjoyed that little story immensely. But, look, we like the man and we don't think that... This is the "advantage" of a mechanized society.

Opinions In Brief

"During the weekend: The Atlanta newspapers, Journal and Constitution, endorsed Sen. Kennedy; The New York Herald-Tribune endorsed Vice President Nixon; The Louisville Courier-Journal endorsed Kennedy; The Richmond News-Leader and Times Dispatch endorsed Nixon; The St. Louis Post-Dispatch endorsed Kennedy; The Milwaukee Journal endorsed Kennedy; At a gathering of directors of the Tennessee Press Association, six directors gave the opinion they think Kennedy will carry Tennessee, three said they think Nixon will win. One party press?" — The Oak Ridge Oak Ridger.

"In the fight against crime, communism and hatemongers, we members of the American law enforcement profession have a sacred trust. We must not only preserve the high ideals of this great Republic for future generations. We must continue to demonstrate that the battle can be won without infringing in any way upon the freedoms which are so precious to us all." — J. Edgar Hoover.

"We're old enough to remember when the good looking girl's compact wasn't something with white sidewalls and a bucket seat." — Miami Herald.

THE UNITED WAY

Other Editors Saying... The Next Speaker Speaks

(Henderson Dispatch) One of the most powerful members of the 1961 Legislature—as of all other sessions—will be the Speaker of the House. If he set his hands to the plow, he can wield more influence over his fellow members than even the Governor.

Unopposed for the speakership is Rep. Joseph M. Hunt of Greensboro, and what he says is at least interesting and may be significant. If he comes through with what he discussed in an address the other day to the Greensboro Lions club, citizens who hope the 1961 session will not go berserk as to finances may take heart. It can be hoped that he will remember when he gets to Raleigh, and be guided by what he said back home. Rational members are going to have to stand firm this winter if the State's solvency is to be preserved from assaults by pressure groups and liberals.

In his hometown address, Hunt said no increase in taxes is anticipated in the 1961 Legislature. It can be hoped that will be true, but if so the pie-in-the-sky boys will have to be stopped in their tracks. Quotations from his speech did not indicate whether the next speaker drew his conclusions from a belief that revenues would be sufficiently higher to avert a tax increase, or that the elaborate spending program so much talked about would be trimmed to keep it in line with available funds.

Kennedy seemed to think he had Nixon over a barrel on the subject of Cuba where, during the Eisenhower administration, anti-American and pro-Soviet Castro took over. Kennedy banged away on this subject until Oct. 20 when he issued a detailed statement, haming Castro's rise to power on the administration of which Nixon is a part, and explaining how he'd knock Castro out of the picture.

He said this country, among other things, should attempt to strengthen the anti-Castro forces both outside and inside Cuba. But this would be interference in Cuba's internal affairs—a thing Kennedy said later he did not advocate.

A Wonderful, Fascinating Field

By ELMER ROESSNER Because so few readers believe us, we keep saying that business is a wonderful and fascinating field and offer more and more facts to prove it. Here are some:

While overseas airlines are offering champagne and caviar, an American line — Mohawk — gives cheese, pretzels and beer, served by hostesses in satin and sequins. Blower fans and heaters are recommended for trucks carrying potatoes for chipping, advises the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Despite fresh American competition, British manufacturers hope to sell a total of more than 150,000 cars here this year. The United States is giving $11,495 of your tax money to the Polish Academy of Science to "study secretion of certain hormones relative to livestock reproduction." YOU GET LESS AND LESS Beginning January 21, 20 states will be withholding taxes on wages and salaries. Closed-door discount houses, the first of their kind in the field, are staging a comeback. Business Week says they sell only to members. Japan may produce a record amount of rice this year. Americans will drink about 1.3 gallons of hard liquor per capita this year, with many capita spilling in the morning. A Japanese firm has developed a house with walls of plywood sandwiching resin-treated kraft paper which can be erected by five unskilled men in two days. A technique for converting synthetic rubber latex into a replacement for natural rubber in foam products has been developed by U.S. Rubber.

BITSY EASY TO MOVE Another advantage of small cars, reports the Neptune moving company, is that they can be put in the van when shipping furniture from one part of the country to another. Incidentally, new U.S. regulations permit movers to accept travelers checks. Use of magnetic links can reduce the cost of processing grocery coupons, says one authority.

People like artificially sweetened grapefruit juice, concludes a government survey. Canned soft drinks are making a comeback, reports Progressive Grocer magazine. Fancy liquor decanters, after a slump for several years, will bounce back this Christmas season. Large distillers have poured out millions for the fanciest bottles ever. The first bowling alley with automatic pinspotters has been opened in Geneva.

Note: Costs of Thanksgiving turkeys, hams and other "nominal" gifts given employees are deductible as a business expense by employers. Furthermore, they are nontaxable to employees. But gift certificates, while deductible by employers, are subject to employee withholding taxes. These rules also apply to

Naive, Futile Display

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY Copyright, 1960, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

I listened to the four great debates; I heard nothing significant, important, startling, surprising, educating, uplifting. I read the four great debates; my knowledge of the state of affairs in my country was not improved. These debates have been exercises in utility, demonstrations of mental vegetation.

Both candidates could do better. Both are educated, knowledgeable men. I feel that they both show disrespect for the intelligence of the American people; otherwise, they would have elevated the quality of their discussion. The repetition of slogans sounds more like Hitler brainwashing the German people than intelligent disputations.

For instance, as the fourth debate was taking place, the gold market of the world was going through a shattering price experience. If the price of gold continues to rise, it might become necessary to devalue the dollar. The peril of such an act could be world-wide. It could devastate the economy of the United States. It could bring on an immediate economic crisis.

Did either candidate discuss this question? No! The reporters who were asking them rather silly questions, did not ask; therefore they did not answer. Ground rules had been set up to make the debates sound stupid. As, for instance, that unintelligibly naive question in the fourth debate regarding who is to be appointed Secretary of State. Why is it naive? First of all, the President conducts the foreign policy of the United States and is the only elected national official, with the Vice President, for the entire country. Secondly, it is neither customary nor politically sound in the United States to name members of a Cabinet during a campaign. These officers are not independent political personalities in this country as they are in Great Britain or France. They serve at the pleasure of the President and have to be confirmed by the Senate. They are not necessarily career men or experts and are often appointed to strengthen the President's bargaining position with Congress. No candidate who knows what he is doing would therefore name such an official prior to Election Day.

Take, for instance, Senator Kennedy's dilemma, should he be elected. He might want to appoint Chester Bowles, Secretary of State, and Abraham Ribicoff, Attorney General. Both come from Connecticut, a smaller state. It might not be politically sound to give such a state two Cabinet posts. Or Vice President Nixon, should he be elected, might want to appoint Thomas E. Dewey, Secretary of State, and continue William P. Rogers as Attorney General. Both come from New York State. It might be inexpedient to give these two New Yorkers such high posts in the government. Such matters are finely balanced, because the Cabinet often is made to be representative of all parts of the country.

Furthermore, these personalities have views of their own which may not synchronize with those of the leader of the party. After the candidate has been elected, that is another matter. He sets the direction and those who do not choose to follow have no place in the Administration.

These debates have been too formalized, too rigid. At no time did one or the other of the debaters provide documentation to prove a point. Statistics were in rough numbers. No time was used for definition of terms and therefore nothing was absolutely clear. For instance, Senator Kennedy's slogan about keeping America moving is fish. Vice President Nixon gave a few rough and ready figures to show that we are moving. Both candidates avoided the factual truth which is that this country has taken the 1929 Depression, World War II, the Korean War, the support of allies and the reconstruction of foes, the support of the United Nations and NATO, in its stride. The United States has actually done a magnificent job for mankind; it could have done only for itself.

Why does not Nixon point to the fact that it was the Roosevelt Administration which gave Sov-

Mrs. Mitchell Speaks To Garden Club Members

Mrs. Sam Mitchell spoke to the Greenville Garden Club at the October meeting. Her subject was "Sowing a Standard Flower Show."

Mrs. Mitchell is a member of the Greenville Garden Club, a former district director, and an accredited judge of flower shows. Speaking of the purpose and value of a standard flower show, Mrs. Mitchell stated that a well planned and executed flower show fulfills a three-fold purpose. First, it stimulates interest in horticulture; secondly, it develops an aesthetic sense in artistic flower arrangements; and thirdly, it is educational because its definite purpose is to raise standards of horticulture and floriculture in the community and the home.

Requirements for a standard flower show, according to Mrs. Mitchell, are that it is planned and executed by nationally affiliated garden clubs, that it is planned according to standard requirements with half horticultural exhibits and half artistic arrangements, and that it has a written schedule according to the theme of the show and that awards are made by standard methods, judged by accredited judges.

Standard flower shows may also include other sections such as an exhibit on conservation, Mrs. Mitchell stated. She then explained how to organize a show, naming committees and their duties and functions.

In connection with her talk Mrs. Mitchell demonstrated about 10 different designs for standard flower shows, explaining the elements and principles of design.

The president of the Greenville Garden Club, Mrs. P.E. Wells, presided over the business meeting following the program. Mrs. Wells and several members attended the district meeting in Rocky Mount.

Mrs. Wells welcomed two new members present, Mrs. E.L. Baker and Mrs. Norman Merritt. A meeting in Kinston was also announced for Nov. 5, when Mrs. Dorothy Thompson of Chapel Hill will speak at the Fairfield Recreational Center. This will be a benefit for the beautification of the new hospital at the Caswell Training School.

Mrs. H.G. Williams, calendar committee chairman, presented the new calendars, which are now on sale. The president thanked Mrs. George Staples and her committee for their displays at the Garden Center in The Appliance Mart on Evans St.

The Club decided to have two arrangements at each meeting to be criticized for educational purposes. Mrs. H.G. Williams and Mrs. J.B. Smith volunteered to bring arrangements to the next meeting.

Mrs. Wells stated that the November meeting will be a show of "Tables of All Seasons." She thanked the hostesses for the decorated table from which refreshments were served before the meeting, and for the floral arrangements.

Circle Meets

BETHEL—Circle No. 4 of the Baptist Church met with Mrs. James R. Andrews Monday at 8 p.m. with 11 members present.

The circle chairman presided at the business meeting and named the new slate of officers for the new church year.

New officers are as follows: Mrs. James Andrews, chairman, and Mrs. Willard Andrews, co-chairman; Mrs. W. E. Bullock, social chairman; Mrs. Branley Chesson, program chairman; Mrs. F. E. Price, stewardship chairman; Mrs. H. L. Rives, flower chairman; Mrs. Dalton Whitehurst, enrollment chairman; Mrs. Andrew Whitehurst, community missions.

Hostesses for each month of the year were tabulated.

Following a discussion of the goals for the year, the meeting closed with prayer.

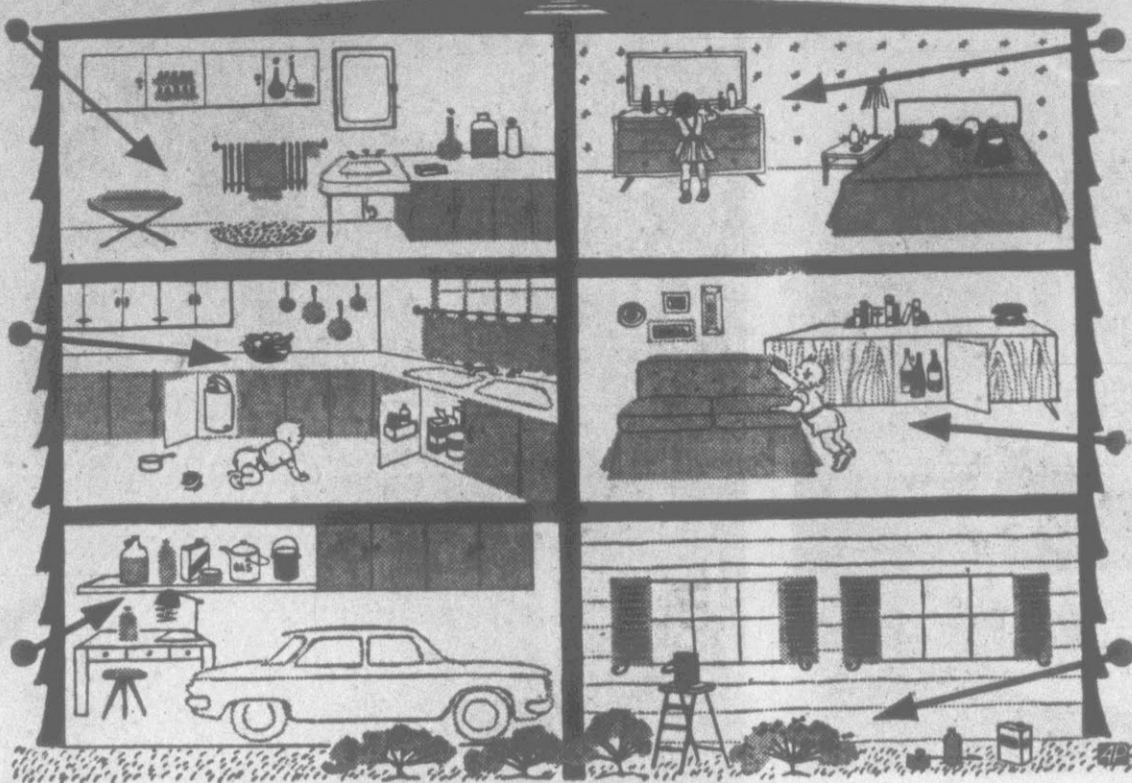

At the refreshment hour, party dainties with iced drinks was enjoyed.

Bosses Comments On Secretaries

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Self-aggeration and misstatement, and excessive artiness. Citing an example of "independence," Engler reports some supervisors say single women would rather quit than break dates to work overtime.

They made their comments in a survey made public at a recent meeting of the New Orleans Secretaries Assn.

Among other faults are undependability, clannishness and moodiness.

Dr. Henry J. Engler, dean of Loyola University of the South's College of Business, says the survey was made here among 100 supervisors employing between 5 and 20 women.

The survey lists other faults as: Unwillingness to accept responsibility, proneness to be hurt, excessive attention to details, and laziness.

WMU Meet

FOUNTAIN—The WMU of the Fountain Baptist Church met on Oct. 17, with 20 members and one visitor attending.

Calling the meeting to order, Mrs. R.F. Speight, president, asked the members to repeat the watchword in unison.

During the business session, Mrs. F. D. Furnage, mission study chairman, announced that the fall mission study book "Across the Bridge" will be taught on Nov. 8-9. The night of Nov. 8, a film strip will be shown at the church, and Nov. 9, a two-hour study of the book will be given by different members of the WMU.

Following other business, a program was presented by Mrs. Stanoli Dilda, program chairman, assisted by Mrs. F.L. Eagles, Mrs. W.B. Tugwell, and Mrs. L.P. Yelverton.

The meeting was adjourned after a prayer by Mrs. Speight and the group sang the hymn for the year, "Christ for the Whole Wide World."

Art Center Classes Draw Enthused Following

By PATRICIA MOORE
Reflector Staff Writer

Groups of people meet each week at the Greenville Art Center—not just to look at a picture exhibition—but to enjoy painting, drawing and ceramics and fellowship.

All classes, except for an Adult Amateur Artists group, have instructors with some experience in their fields. Some of the painting instructors hold master's degrees.

The classes have attracted a large following in the children's classes, particularly, where they work with charcoal, crayons, tempera and do painting and drawing. There is ceramics instruction for the youngsters, also, where they work with an oil base clay, which is usable time after time.

In the adult groups, classes have reached beyond the limits of Greenville and draw interest from Grifton, Farmville and even slight interest and participation from Kinston.

The classes actually were innovated this year, following the spring opening of the Greenville Art Center, which now is located in its own home and no longer in the Sheppard Memorial Library. Here those interested in painting and ceramics have their own studios in which to work.

The ceramics studio is located outside and behind the center. Those interested in ceramics fashion pottery on the kick-wheel by the soil method or make free form objects (by hand). Pieces are fired in the kiln.

Here they have their own sinks, tables, and chairs with no interference from "the outside world." Finished pieces are displayed in the art center. Two classes are taught for adults, one by Mrs. Sam Brooks on Tuesdays from 1 to 3 p.m., and another by Mrs. Bernard Jacison on Thursdays from 8 until 10 p.m.

Several children's classes are currently in session on Saturday mornings and on Friday afternoons. Lynn Burgess, senior art student from East Carolina College, acts as instructor. Burgess, incidentally, currently has an exhibition at the college which has received favorable review.

The classes are scheduled from 10-10:30 a.m., ages six to ten, and from 11-12 noon, ages 11 to 14. Again on Fridays from 4 until 4:30 p.m. a children's class is conducted for ages six to ten years.

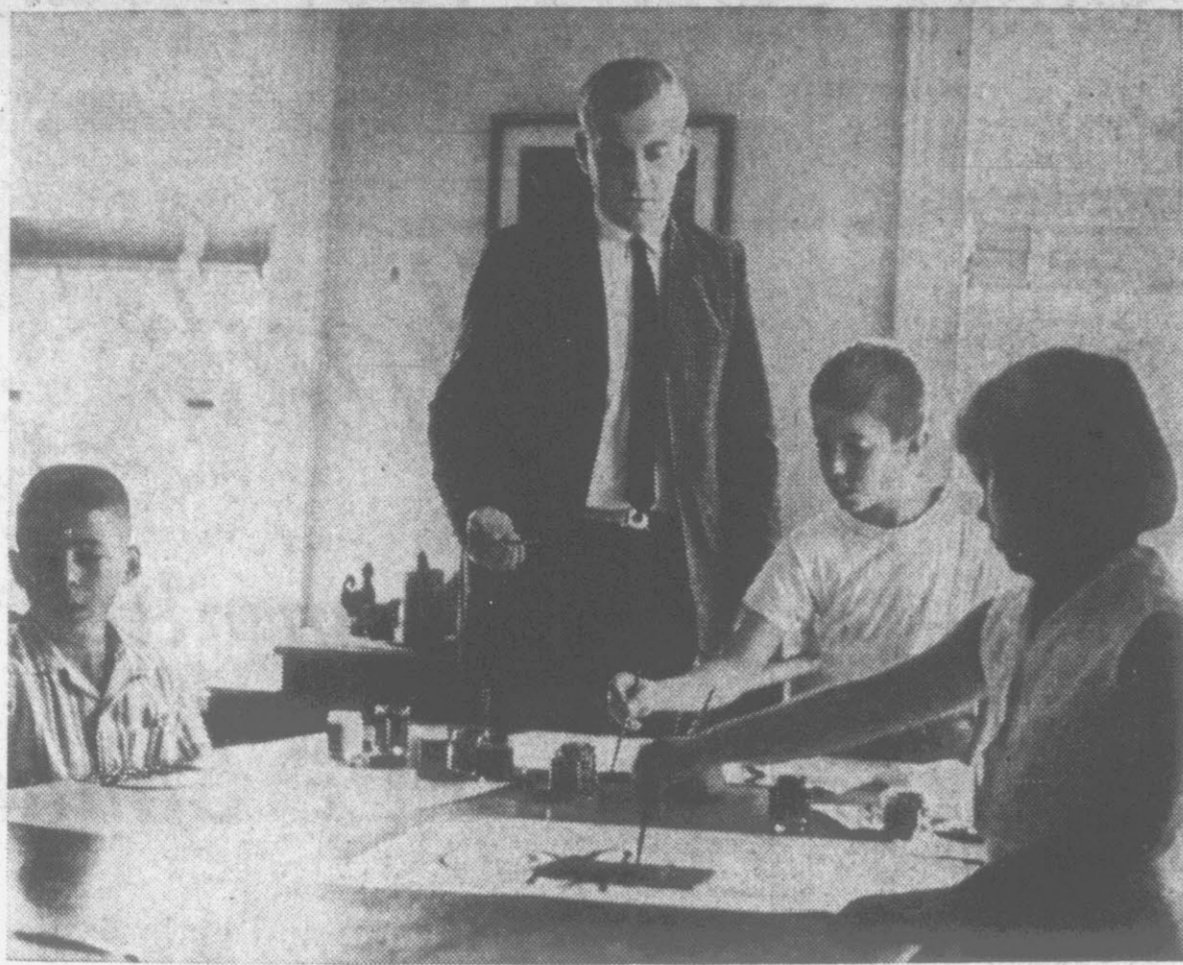

Adults meet for painting classes on Tuesday mornings, 9-11 under supervision of Mrs. Metz Cordley of Greenville, who has lectured and exhibited frequently in the local center. She holds the master of fine arts degree from the University of Oklahoma.

On Wednesdays from 7:30-9:30 p.m., Tom Mims teaches another painting class. Mims received his master of arts degree in painting from East Carolina College.

The Adult Amateur Artists, meeting Wednesdays from 9-12 noon, are a group of people interested in painting, who discuss and exchange criticism with each other.

Other classes have been proposed and have prospective teachers when the demand arises. For instance, weaving, using the loom, language. Already, a series of classes has been held for amateur photographers with competent instruction for those interested.

Many of the classes this fall have been filled to capacity. The fall session will continue through the week of Dec. 13. Those interested in joining classes may contact the art center, through the hostess, Miss Barbara Batvhelor, Director of the Greenville Art Center is Mrs. J.H.B. Moore.

Comedy Opens ECC Playhouse Season

Opening the 1960-1961 series of plans to be presented by the East Carolina Playhouse, "The Philadelphia Story" will go on the boards tonight at 8 p.m. in the McGinnis auditorium on the campus. Two other performances are scheduled at the same hour and place for Friday and Saturday nights.

The comedy by Philip Barry has been in rehearsal for several weeks under the direction of Dr. Ralph Rives of the department of English. Indications are that the production will be an outstanding one.

Alice Coriolano of Greenville and Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, senior at the college, heads a cast of student actors and actresses who will appear in Barry's popular play. Cast as Tracy Lord, somewhat prim Philadelphia socialite, Miss Coriolano will have the part taken by Katherine Hepburn in the Theatre Guild production in New York City.

The play itself is both gay and thoughtful as it presents events in the lives of Philadelphia's upper social bracket. One of the outstanding hits of 1939 and 1940, it has been described by leading drama critics as "Philip Barry at the very top of his form," "lively and entertaining, written with all of Mr. Barry's graceful wit," "a pleasant comedy about pleasant, believable people," and "sustained, sparkling, so sophisticated, completely captivating comedy."

The plot deals with Tracy's emotional awakening and her late achievement of maturity. Three men involved in the process are her ex-husband, C.K. Dexter Haven, played by Ben Avery of Goldsboro; George Kittredge, her snobbish ex-coal-miner fiance, played by James E. Smith of Newport News, Va.; and Mike Connor, class-conscious reporter on a gossip magazine, played by Ray Tolley of Edenton.

Scenery for the play was designed by Paul Minnis of the college art department and students in his classes. Two sets will be used—the parlor and the porch of the Lords' country home near Philadelphia.

The time of action is the present, and costumes are modern. A number of the women's dresses were designed and made for the Playhouse production.

A large technical staff in charge of back-stage details of production is working under the direction of Dr. Robert Rickert of the department of English. Rose Gornito of Wilmington is his assistant.

Others associated with Dr. Rives and Dr. Rickert in staging the Barry comedy are Robert Parsons of Newport News, Va., student director, and Gerald Harrell of Edenton, stage manager.

MEET TONIGHT
The Red Oak Christian Men's Fellowship will meet tonight at 7:30 in the Red Oak Community Building. Ed Harris and R. E. Squires will be hosts for the meeting. The Rev. Howard James will be in charge of the program.

NEARLY UNANIMOUS
James Monroe was a near unanimous choice for president in the 1820 election. He won 231 out of a possible 235 electoral votes.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market carried its recovery drive into the second session in quiet trading early this afternoon.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 30 to 202.70 with the industrials up 1.40, the rails up .60 and the utilities up .10.

Most key stocks advanced from fractions to a point or so while a number of higher-priced or volatile issues stretched gains to 3 or 4 points.

Brokers saw the upward move as primarily a continuation of a technical rebound from a sharp decline to a two-year low. It was assisted, however, by the federal reserve action to expand the lending power of banks.

The market was higher at the Both corporate and U.S. government bonds responded to the action by the Federal Reserve Board by making their best gains in several weeks. Trading in corporate bonds was active. The market in governments remained quiet.

No Charges As Car Struck Pole

An estimated $250 damage resulted to a car driven by Marvin Warren Aldridge, 37 of 1704 Knolwood Ave. when it struck a pole on East 10th St. near the intersection of Hamilton St. Saturday at 4:30 p. m.

Investigating officers, who said no charges were made and no injuries reported, quoted Aldridge as saying he lost control of his vehicle when a dog ran into the street in front of him and he swerved to miss the animal.

Class Hears Talk By Sanitarian

Students of municipal government at East Carolina College recently heard Linwood Kilpatrick, chief sanitarian of the Pitt County Health Department.

Kilpatrick, speaking to students of Dr. Kathleen Stokes, gave his student audience an insight into principles of sanitary science and public health.

He stressed the importance of the work of the sanitarian in protecting the health of citizens in the modern city and outlined recent advances in the field of sanitation.

"Sewage is probably the most dangerous waste product of a modern city," he said. "If it is not properly disposed of an is allowed to get into an unprotected water supply, it can cause typhoid fever as well as other diseases. The danger is presented not only to the people of the city, but to residents of surrounding territory."

A question-and-answer period followed the talk.

Is reason I have a number of used aids on hand now. Of course, I carry plenty new ones in stock, but I don't anticipate said old ones lasting long at the VERY LOW price I'm letting them go for.

If you buy new one in the next year, you'll be allowed the price you paid for old one at sale. Several of these are behind-the-ear type . . . few never been sold.

Tobacco Tips

By S. J. WEEKS
Pitt County Tobacco Agent

Most of the farmers in Pitt County are infested with one or more tobacco disease organisms. The situation creates a strong demand for good disease resistant varieties of tobacco.

Much progress has been made in the development of disease resistant varieties. For example, at the present time, several varieties are available with resistance to black shank, Granville wilt, Fusarium wilt, or combinations of these diseases. In addition to varieties with resistance as described above, there is a need for varieties that will also control such diseases as root knot, blue mold, mosaic, brown spot, and other diseases that take a toll from the tobacco farmer yearly.

Plant breeders and other experiment station scientists are working diligently toward the development of varieties that will fill this demand. Workers are testing some 600 different breeding lines each year. All of these lines are checked for resistance to the several diseases under study and about half of them for performance in terms of yield and quality. There are three major parts of the program for the development of disease resistant varieties.

Black shank resistant varieties now being grown were developed by using a cigar wrapper variety (361) as their source of black shank resistance, also TT 448 is being used as a source of resistance to Granville wilt and Fusarium wilt. Much progress has been made since the early 1940's with this work was begun. However, many problems have been encountered on levels of resistance, field type, and handling characteristics. An attempt is now being made to develop varieties with even higher levels of resistance to these diseases.

The purpose of the multiple disease resistance program is to develop varieties with resistance to as many as six major tobacco diseases. First attempts to develop varieties resistant to nematodes began some twenty years ago. The first attempt failed because of poor quality, small plant type, and other undesirable characteristics. During 1957, several of the lines resistant to root knot nematodes produced acceptable yields that showed promise of producing quality tobacco. These lines are resistant to black shank, Granville wilt, root knot and mosaic. Experiment station personnel are continuing to make progress in developing these multiple resistant lines.

Several wild species of tobacco, or botanically related plants, have a very high level of resistance to black shank. Through breeding techniques, Dr. J.L. Apple, at N. C. State College, has been successful in transferring the black shank resistance factor in a wild species of tobacco to 402, a flue-cured variety. This accomplishment of stabilizing a new source of black shank resistance, should make it easier for scientists to develop varieties with higher levels of resistance, and with better quality than the black shank resistant varieties now being used. However, varieties developed by this breeding technique will be thoroughly tested before being released for production of tobacco.

Satellite Fails To Attain Orbit

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—The first attempt to orbit a new satellite rocket—one planned as the workhorse of a series of key space tests—fell to failure in the Pacific.

Discoverer XVI blasted off Wednesday with a burst of flame from its big Thor booster. A top Thor was something new in the Discoverer series—a powerful, maneuverable and roomy new Athena B rocket.

The Thor was supposed to burn out and drop off, letting the Athena push itself into a polar orbit. But the stages failed to separate and the Discoverer plunged into the ocean.

Agena B is scheduled to carry Samos and Midas spy-satellite instruments into orbit. It is roomy enough to take monkeys into orbit in tests preliminary to manned space flights.

Agena A, orbited by earlier discoverers, was 19 feet long and weighed 8,500 pounds fueled. Agena B is 25 feet long and weighs 15,000 pounds fueled.

The entire new rocket was to go into orbit and then, on the 17th pass, eject a capsule of instruments. The capsule was to parachute into the sea near Hawaii, where Air Force planes and ships waited for a recovery try.

Two previous Discoverer capsules have been thus recovered, one by plane and one by ship. The Agena B's increased maneuverability may help in the ejection process. Unlike earlier Agenas, the B-model's engine can be started and stopped in flight.

Sudden Boom For Small Drive-In

SPARTANBURG, S. C. (AP)—It was quiet at a small drive-in restaurant near here Wednesday night. Then suddenly the place was jammed with customers.

In about an hour, Mr. and Mrs. James Green served 64 cheeseburgers, 39 hamburgers, 10 steak plates, 13 ham sandwiches, 22 hot dogs, six barbecue sandwiches, five fish plates, 8 triple-decker hamburgers, a chicken plate and 79 orders of french fried potatoes to Limestone College girl students. "They served liver in the college dining room tonight," one of the students explained.

DOUBTS U.S. FIRST

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The United States will be able to recover a man from space by 1961, but there's a possibility the Soviets will be first to do it, says Walter T. Bonney, a former information director of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. He addressed a luncheon group Tuesday.

Draws Jail For Refusing To Tell

DENVER, Colo. (AP)—The Colorado Supreme Court convicted a woman reporter of contempt Wednesday for refusal to disclose a news source.

Vi Murphy, 35, was released under $1,000 bond and ordered to report to the Denver County Jail Nov 5 to begin serving a 30-day sentence.

The brunette mother of four is a staff writer for the Colorado Springs Gazette-Telegraph. A daughter, 11, is to undergo surgery this week for a suspected malignancy.

Mrs. Murphy said she believed her refusal to name her news source in testimony before the court was justified by the U. S.

Constitution's First Amendment, which guarantees freedom of the press. Defense attorneys and Publisher Harry Holles said they will appeal to the U. S. Supreme Court.

Corny Search To Find Little Boy

ATWOOD, Colo. (AP)—There is a difference between hunting missing persons in Colorado's mountains and on the plains.

When Allen South disappeared, Mrs. Earl South, his mother, notified Undersheriff Mel Honebein. A search party of 50 volunteers was organized. Each searcher was assigned to three rows of corn.

Tony Gonzales found little Allen sitting in a corn row a quarter of a mile from home.

Phants Host Non-Conference Hertford Friday Nite

Thursday's Rundown . . .

The manner in which Coach Jack Boone has juggled some of his East Carolina football players might remind you of an act in a circus. For instance, Vernon Davis, the tank-like tackle who swoops down on opponent backs like a vulture after his meat, played fullback in high school and was at the same position his first year at East Carolina.

Billy Strickland, the soph fullback, was a guard in high school but Boone and staff have exploited his running skills. Nick Hilgert, another crackerjack fullback, was the quarterback on Elizabeth City's state championship club. And Dempsey Williams, the 165 head-hunter . . . you name it and he plays it . . .

It's nothing new to the Pirates that Appalachian, beaten only by Lenoir Rhyne, will be the toughest defensive club they have faced this year. But to put it in figures, the NAIA statistical report shows the Apps ninth in rushing defense, limiting their foes to only 80.2 yards per game.

Their pass defense has been proven vulnerable, especially by Lenoir Rhyne . . .

End Play Has Developed For Phants

Coach Bud Phillips of Greenville doesn't like to compare his 1960 football team with past clubs but he can't complain over the way his team has developed. "We were counting on a good year but a lot depended on our tackle play. Larry Roberts has been a real outstanding boy for us", asserted the Rose High skipper.

He also found a lot of favor with the development of his ends. "Jorgensen (Layne) and Wright (Skip) have looked better each game and we couldn't work in helping stop New Bern's single-wing Friday night

The Greenville victory over New Bern equaled the 1959 record but improving it will be hard, although the Phants are given the nod in two of the final three games.

Both Hertford and Roanoke Rapids will invade Greenville gunning for upsets and some late season prestige. The Phants should be aware of these delayed bombshells, thinking back to the Kinston game of 1959 . . .

Daniels Confident In Futre Games

Coach Percy Daniels of Eppes High is confident his club can go all the way to an undefeated season this fall. "It is the best team I have ever coached," says Daniels who has been at the Bulldog helm for seven years.

Freddy Watson and the Davis twins, Alton and Dalton, constitute three of the best Eppes gridders in history, according to Daniels. He puts the three in the same category with James Brewington, 260 pound tackle who is now playing with North Carolina College in Durham, and Fred Otterbridge, a flashy backfield star who didn't have the weight to play college ball . . .

Wilkerson: Play Good Football When Things Go In Your Favor

By BUD WILKINSON
Oklahoma Football Coach
Written for The Associated Press

It's easy to play good football when things go in your favor. But can you do it when the going gets tough?

Colorado, coached by Dal Ward, put the question to our national championship team of 1956 in a dramatic battle at Boulder, Colo.

The Buffaloes won eight games that year and later defeated Clemson in the Orange Bowl. They were out to smash our string of 35 victories.

By the half, it was Colorado 19, Oklahoma 6. Our boys were only 30 minutes away from their first defeat in three years.

But the turning point came on the fourth play of the last half. Colorado had kicked off, and we had the ball on our 28. It was fourth down and two yards to go. Jimmy Harris, our quarterback, gambled. Clendon Thomas, got three yards for a first down on our 31. We were okay from then on.

On the Colorado 6 we had fourth and one. Tommy McDonald flipped a short pass to Thomas in the end zone. Harris kicked the extra point and Colorado's lead was cut to 19-13.

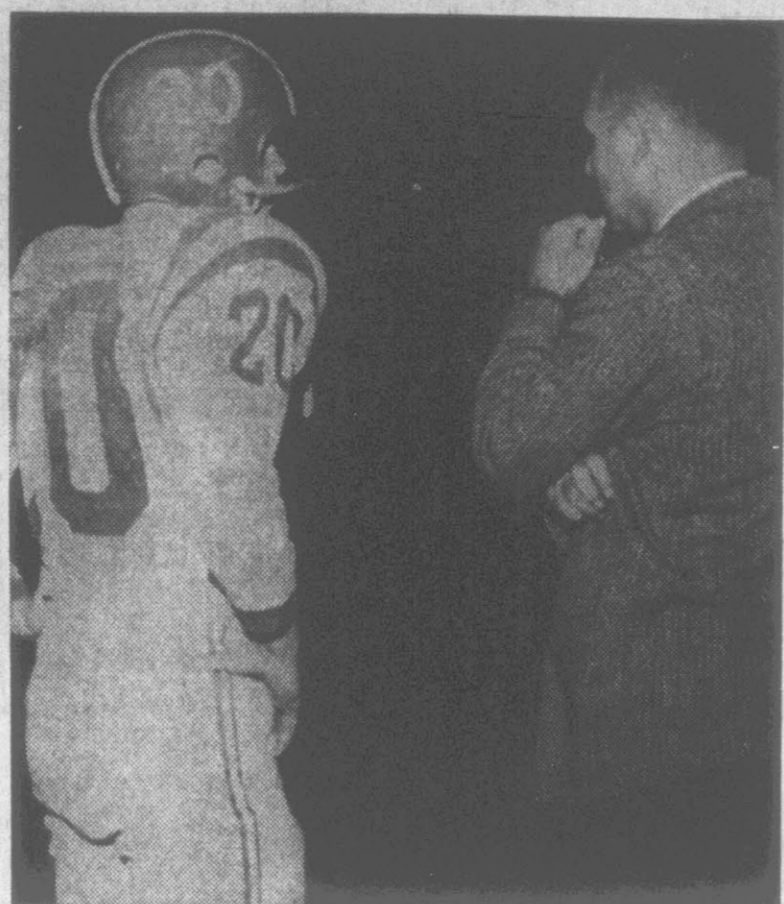

Then we thrust 48 yards in eight plays for the tying touchdown and Harris toed the point that gave us a 20-19 lead.

We moved 70 yards in 10 plays for a fourth touchdown. Harris again kicked the extra point. The final score was 27-19.

It was a game to remember.

Battle Of Year Slated In Coastal League Friday

By LEONARD LAO
Reflector Sports Writer

The game that Coastal Conference followers have been waiting for is finally here. League leader Ayden travels to Beaufort in a game between the loop's two unbeaten teams.

Advantages can be cited for both clubs. The Tornados are assured of at least a tie for the conference crown, even if they lose to the Sea Dogs. The Ayden club has rolled up eight straight wins without a loss and Beaufort is the last team on the Tornado schedule.

On the other hand, Beaufort has won four Coastal Conference titles, but the Sea Dogs were tied with Havelock (0-0) and were penalized with another tie for failing to schedule LaGrange, another conference member.

If Ayden loses, the conference officials will have to provide some kind of ruling in order to declare which team would represent the Coastal Conference in the state playoffs. If such a predicament arises in some of the other local conferences, the winner is declared in a play-off game between the two teams in question.

Beaufort Unscored Upon
The Sea Dogs, defending conference champions, boast the toughest defense in the league, as well as a potent offense. Not one opponent has crossed the Beaufort goal line in eight outings, while only Havelock has been able to contain the Sea Dog offensive unit. The number two team has racked up a total of 269 points, more than any other club in the conference.

Coach Stuart Tripp has sent his charges through several rough scrimmages during the week in preparation for the Sea Dogs. With a large crowd expected to follow the Ayden club, Tripp realizes the emphasis placed upon this contest. Several of the teams that the Tornados and the Sea Dogs have beaten have been inclined to stick with Beaufort as the better ball club, but Coach Tripp will be out to change a few views in tomorrow night's battle.

Expected to lead the Tornado offensive attack will be All-Conference fullback Dennis "Dinky" Mills. The hard running senior will be in tip-top shape for the Sea Dog encounter and is expected to be the biggest threat for the Tornados.

Last week in Ayden's 20-0 win over Centeneea, another star was born in quarterback William Edwards. The senior field general scored two of the Tornado touchdowns and returned two punts for plenty of yardage in establishing himself as a definite threat to the Sea Dogs. Edwards was the leading ground gainer in that contest and will have to be watched by Beaufort.

A few injuries to the Tornados during the week's drills to brothers Clem and Jesse McGovern have healed and the combination should be ready for the Beaufort contest.

Greenville's Phantoms may find some comfort in retiring from the rigid Northeastern Conference race tomorrow night but scrappy Hertford is in town gunning for an upset.

With a recent victory over previously unbeaten New Bern and an over-all record of 6-1, the Phants find themselves a target for foes who have experienced a disappointing season but hope to make amends with a couple of late season upsets.

Although Coach Bud Phillips doubts his Phants will be up to the performance of the past two weeks, he is confident his club will not take the visitors lightly. The charges of Coach Ike Perry have been able to break even within the Northeastern loop in two games thus far. They nudged past Elizabeth City 7-0 and lost to undefeated Tarboro by the LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Al Geiberger of Studio City, Calif., led the Sahara Pro-Amateur Golf Tournament today after 36 holes with a 135. Jerry Barber, Los Angeles, and Dave Marr, Boston, followed with 136s.

N.Y.U. will have eight lettermen playing basketball this season. The team compiled a 22-5 record last season.

Scouting reports on the visitors indicate a wide open attack with plenty of passing. Phillips pointed out yesterday that Hertford runs a lot from the spread formation.

Physically, the Phants will be in good shape. Only George Van-Norwick, a guard, is on the injured list. He is recovering from an ankle injury and may not be back before the Wilson game.

The Phants will rely heavily on the running of halfbacks Alan McArthur and John Adams and fullback Wayne Sumrell to pick up an expected seventh straight victory tomorrow night.

The three were instrumental in pacing Greenville to a 13-7 setback of New Bern last week.

Erskine Duff, the senior signal-caller, will bark the signals again and handle the major portion of the passing attack. Billy James, a junior, is his capable standby and

Kickers Have Long Season

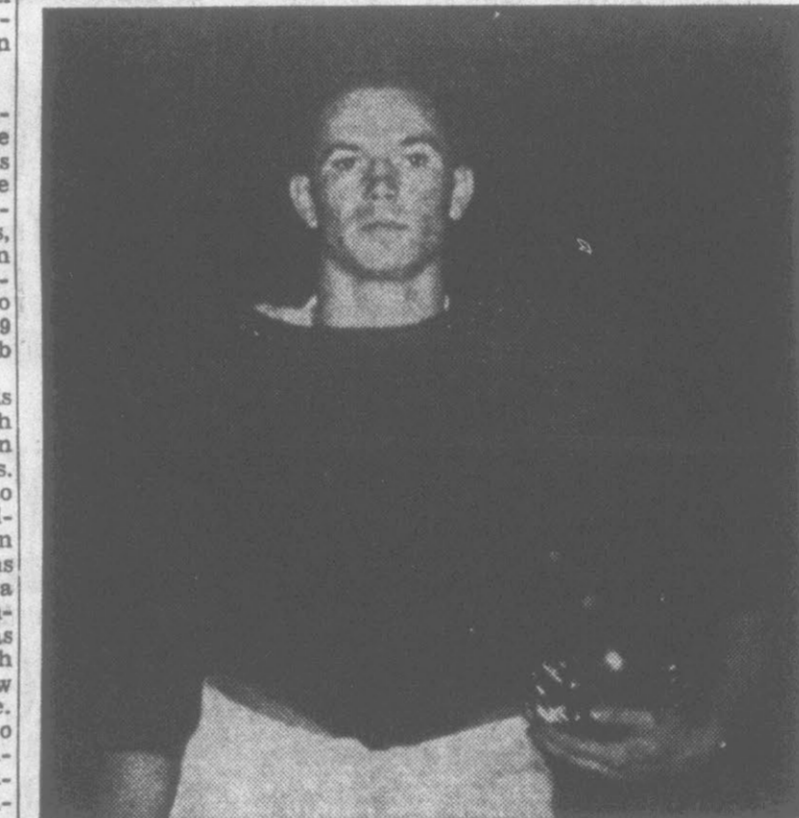

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
College football's leading kickers have more kicks coming before they can decide their 1960 championships.

Statistics released today by the NCAA Service Bureau show that Dick Fitzsimmons of Denver and Fred Cox of Pittsburgh are so close in the race for the punting lead that it's virtually impossible to separate them.

In field goal kicking, Georgia Tech's Tommy Wells, the season-long leader, now has two strong challengers—Eddy Dyas of Auburn and Durward Pennington of Georgia.

The NCAA figures credit Fitzsimmons with an average of 43.23 yards on the minimum of 13 punts and Cox with 43.19 yards on 21 kicks. Jim Bakken of Wisconsin is third with 42.9—one of seven players averaging better than 42 yards.

Wells has kicked a record-equaling number of seven field goals and Dyas and Pennington six and five, respectively.

AYDEN ACE—Dinky Mills, stocky fullback, will carry the offensive burden for Ayden tomorrow night when it closes out the season against Beaufort in a battle of the unbeaten. Beaufort, the defending Coastal Conference champion, has been tied this season, while Ayden has brushed past seven straight foes without too much trouble. Mills is a 1959 All-Conference selection.

will start on defense. Phillips considers his duo of ends, Skip Wright and Layne Jorgensen, as the finest in the conference. Jorgensen has been the team's number one pass receiver and the Wright has excelled defensively.

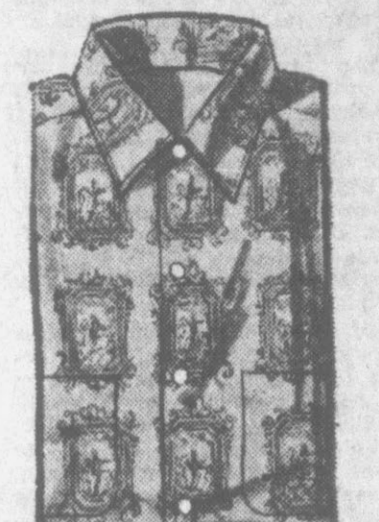

Few teams have been able to make their wide running game pay off against Greenville this season.

In the interior section of the line, Larry Roberts will anchor a tackle slot along with Tex Hooks. Dallas Clark and Don Joyner will get the nod at guards and Bill Wade will open at the pivot.

V.M.I. Facing Stern Test In Memphis State

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

VMI's unbeaten football record may or may not be preserved this weekend at Memphis State, but if it is, you can be sure that Stinson Jones and John Traynham will play prominent roles.

The two junior halfbacks are described by Keydet Coach John M. Kenna as "probably the most unappreciated players in the Southern Conference."

While the headlines are going, or necessity, to quarterback Howard Dyer — the nation's total offense leader with 1,076 yards — Jones and Traynham are busily helping Dyer look good.

Of the 58 passes Dyer has completed, Jones has been the target for 18 good for 298 yards. Traynham has speared 10 for 143 yards.

When the halfback twosome aren't utilizing their abilities as pass-catchers, they're heading the Keydet ground assault, Jones with 260 rushing yards, and Traynham with 238, rank No. 3 and No. 4, respectively, in the Southern Conference in rushing.

McKenna rates Memphis State as perhaps the toughest foe VMI must meet this year. The teams play Saturday night in one of two after-dark games on the Southern Conference card. The other sends William and Mary to Tulane.

In practice Wednesday, VMI gave most attention to defenses designed to stop the quarterback option play as executed by Memphis State's James Earl Wright.

William and Mary, meanwhile, welcomed back fullback H. C. Thaxton, who missed last week's game with a shoulder separation. End Jack White was shifted to fullback at George Washington to bolster the Colonials' offense for Saturday's game at the Air Force Academy.

Dave Hess and defensive guard Dick Struck replaced the injured Ken Hercock at right end in West Virginia's practice. The Mountaineers face Penn State Saturday.

Furman stressed offense in preparing for Mississippi College. It was the last heavy-duty workout for the Hurricane.

End Art McGee reinjured his knee at Richmond's practice and was declared out of Saturday's game with Virginia Tech.

Brown Predicts Victory Friday

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Lightweight champion Joe Brown promised today to knock Cisco Andrade into retirement when they meet for the title Friday night in the Olympic Auditorium.

Brown, usually mild-mannered except in ring action, described the California veteran as arrogant. He compared him to Art Aragon, the now retired local idol who doted on a pose of arrogance — and made it pay off in big box office figures.

Big 'O' Burning Up Pro League

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Pistons have succeeded in stopping the Cincinnati Royals, but Coach Dick McGuire is convinced no one is going to halt Oscar (Big O) Robertson.

The slick rookie scored 25 points, set up a dozen other baskets, outbounced much taller men and made spectacular plays all over the floor Wednesday night. Yet the Royals bowed to the Pistons 131-117, in the only game in the National Basketball Association.

McGuire had first Don Ohl, then Chuck Noble guarding the prize newcomer from the University of Cincinnati.

"But there's no way you can stop him," said the Pistons' coach. "He's such a fine player that I don't think anyone will hold him down."

Robertson's performance, and a 33-point burst by Jack Twyman was more than matched by the Pistons as the Royals lost their first game after four victories. Robertson has averaged nearly 26 points a game in five contests.

Eppes Play Tonite

In past weeks, Coach Percy Daniels has been forced to make an extra effort in getting his club "up" for a couple of unimpressive foes. Such will not be the case tonight when the undefeated Eppes High Bulldogs journey to Goldsboro in quest of an eighth victory.

With the game being played on Thursday, Daniels and staff were forced to alter their practice plans, but all week they have been beating the sticks over comparative scores thus far by the two rivals.

Goldsboro has whitewashed natural foes, Wilson, Elizabeth City, and Washington, and at the same time tallied 86 points. Eppes defeated the same three teams but the margin was no as large. The Bulldogs scored 66 points in the three wins while the opponents registered 12.

"Our scouting report on Goldsboro shows they have a good passing attack and a strong outside running game. Their backs are real fast," reported Daniels.

It will be homecoming in Goldsboro, putting an added burden on the visitors from Greenville.

Daniels will lead with his ace, quarterback Freddy Watson. The Bulldog signal-caller has given Eppes plenty of potential through the air, with Calvin Gatlin, an end, his number one target.

Running behind Watson will be three capable and proven performers, Larry Hardy, Willie Adams, and Marvin Anderson.

Joining Gatlin at the terminals will be Alton Harris, Alton Davis and Jessie Holliday will open at tackles, Nathan Cromwell and Dalton Davis at guards, and Levon Little at center.

Other than the three previously mentioned victories, Eppes has disposed of Oxford, Farmville, Kinston, and Jacksonville.

Reaction Differs Over AL Shifts

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"The more the merrier," said a newspaper hawker in Los Angeles. "We got a half-dozen season ticket orders in the first few minutes," said a spokesman for the Minneapolis-St. Paul Metropolitan Stadium.

"Our plan is more practical," said National League President Warren Giles.

"They'll run into problems in Los Angeles," said Walter O'Malley, president of the NL's Los Angeles Dodgers.

"Who do we get?" said Washington's man on the street.

That's an example of the reaction to the American League's expansion move that adds Los Angeles and Minneapolis-St. Paul. The league also has left the Washington franchise for a new owner and a new club, moving the Senators to the Twin Cities. Wednesday's action, while expected, was surprising in that it becomes effective next season.

The National League, which last week added Houston and New York, doesn't play on an expanded basis until 1962.

"I am surprised that they decided to expand in 1961," said Giles. "They know what's best for their league, of course, but I believe a more practical job can be done for the present eight clubs and the two new ones by waiting until 1962 and making the proper preparations."

Surprised wasn't the word for O'Malley. Try upset. "Another full baseball schedule would wreak havoc," said O'Malley of the Los Angeles sports picture.

Bill Nicholas, manager of the Los Angeles Coliseum, where the Dodgers play, said there would be room for an American League tenant, too.

"I checked our schedule this year from April 12 through September and counted 80 open dates. With a very little give and take, 81 American League games might be arranged," Nicholas said.

Among the comments in Los Angeles was this one by a secretary, Betty Ciccotelli: "I think it's great—but I wish it could have been the Pirates."

Albert Almanza, a member of Mexico's 1960 Olympic basketball team, is back playing for the University of Texas quintet. He averaged 10.8 points with the Longhorns last season.

Old Miss Star Is Lineman Of Week

UNIVERSITY, Miss. (AP) — To paraphrase an honored adage, if you don't make the grade the first time, just keep on plugging. And the successful application of this bit of advice earned Mississippi center Allen Green lineman of the week honors.

Green booted a 39-yard field goal on the game's final play against Arkansas last Saturday night to give the Rebels their 10-7 victory. And for this bit of heroics The Associated Press accorded Green the title of the week's best player.

Actually, Green succeeded the first time, contrary to the maxim, but the trouble was, it didn't count.

The game's officials had called time out and with three seconds left, Green kicked the winning points. And that ended the issue. Well, almost ended it. Arkansas Coach Frank Broyles complained bitterly the kick was no good. Broyles lost the argument. "The kick was good, no doubt about that," Mississippi Coach Johnny Vaught said in an interview when told Green was the nation's top lineman this week. "This was typical of Green, who has been a good, steady player for us."

Ward, Rams Battle Rough Havelock

Vaught said Green was a good example of what practice could do for a player. The kick against Arkansas was Green's first in competition and was the result of unrelenting practice.

CHOOSE RIGHT WOMAN

PLAINVILLE, Conn. (AP)—The local Business and Professional Women's Club picked a woman with an apt name to speak on "Membership." She was Mrs. Dorothy Joiner.

The Rams of Robersonville High School seek their third Coastal Conference victory tomorrow night when they travel to Havelock. Coach Bob Lee's Rams charges will be out to get back in the win column after losing three straight contests at the hands of Farmville, Plymouth and Beaufort.

Leading the Ram offense are backs Tommy Ward and Jimmy Brown. This duo form the nucleus in Coach Lee's strong single wing attack. Ward, a senior tailback, is a dangerous passer as well as runner.

The big man in the Ram line is 6 foot 6 inch Bonnie Stebens. The senior end is Ward's favorite passing target and they should team up to cause the Havelock gridgers some real trouble.

GREENSBORO (AP) — Lenoir Rhyne's Bears, rated No. 2 in the nation among small college football teams by The Associated Press, lead the North State Conference in total offense and pass offense.

The undefeated Bears have rang up 1,888 yards in winning six games for an average of 313.8 yards per game in total offense. Lenoir Rhyne's 656 yards for a 10.3 per-game average also tops the passing category.

East Carolina, also unbeaten in six games, leads in rushing offense with 1,391 yards for a 231.8 average.

Western Carolina has the best total defensive mark, an average of 148.6 in seven games. Appalachian leads in rushing defense, allowing 469 yards for a 78.1 per-game mark. Western Carolina also has the best pass defense, giving up just 178 yards in its seven games.

NCAA Slaps Penalty On Kansas; NCS Lifted

By JACK STEVENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—An automobile purchased by boosters for Wilt (The Slim) Chamberlain three years ago plagued the University of Kansas today as the NCAA slapped penalties against its basketball and football teams.

In a two-pronged action, the Jayhawkers were hit in the Chamberlain car case of May 1957, and for illegally recruiting football players from Southwest Conference schools more recently.

Under terms of a two-year probation, the basketball team cannot participate in the National Collegiate championships or any of the invitational tournaments cooperating with the NCAA.

The football team, this year one of the best in the school's history, goes under probation for one year. It shall not be eligible during that period, effective immediately, to participate in any post-season contests, including bowl games, or be in television programs subject to NCAA jurisdiction.

Kansas joined seven other schools currently on probation—Oklahoma, also of the Big Eight conference, Arizona State University, Southern California, Montana State, Auburn, Tulsa and Indiana.

The action against Kansas football followed complaints heard in the Southwest. Although the NCAA did not name the three gridders involved, halfback Bert Coan failed to report at Texas Christian University last year, and enrolled instead at Kansas. Guard Mickey Walker and end Jim Street both quit Texas A&M to go to Kansas. Rodger McFarland left A&M for Kansas while still a freshman.

NCAA rules stipulate transfers cannot be made without notification of the athletic directors involved.

The NCAA didn't use Chamberlain's name in its report, but A. C. Lonborg, director of athletics at Kansas, confirmed the identity.

"I feel like a coach who just lost a championship game," Lonborg said. "As I have said before, I wanted to get the Chamberlain case resolved. It is good to have it finally settled—even though I am not pleased with the results."

Also at Lawrence, Kan., Dr. W. Clarke Wescoe, chancellor of the university, declared: "We have no evidence that the University of Kansas has violated NCAA or Big Eight conference regulations. We have cooperated fully and completely with the NCAA during its extended investigation and are frankly puzzled as to the basis for this action. We have, of course, no alternative but to accept the action. We will continue to abide by the NCAA rules."

The Kansas track and field team, national champions the past two years, were not included in the prohibitions.

Three schools came off probation as the NCAA action concluded its session here—Wyoming, Mississippi and North Carolina State. The first two were handed one-year penalties in 1959 and are restored to full rights and privileges.

North Carolina State finishes a four-year probation status on Nov. 15.

Hickey: Carolina Hasn't Given Up

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Your team has a 1-4 record, and you admit you're "baffled and puzzled." This week you face an undefeated team that has scored 117 points in its last three games.

That's the uncomfortable position Coach Jim Hickey of North Carolina finds himself in today. He takes his cellar-dwelling Atlantic Coast Conference team across the mountains this Saturday to battle Tennessee of the Southeastern Conference.

Hickey has no answer for his team's record. He said Wednesday "our boys are disappointed and disgrusted, but they haven't given up." And he added, the coaches and team are "baffled and puzzled" at the results thus far.

In Tennessee, North Carolina will play a team that it has beaten only once in their last 11 games. Since the series began back in 1882, Tennessee holds a 19-9-1 margin.

If its any reassurance to Hickey, the Tennessee team (4-0-1 on the season) isn't taking the Tar Heels lightly. Ralph Chancey of the Vols' coaching staff told the team they could expect plenty of passes from North Carolina's Ray Farris. To vouch for North Carolina's strength, Chancey says "look at those scores. This North Carolina team hasn't been overpowered by anybody. All of their games have been close and could have gone either way." He said South Carolina led by only 8-6 "in the last quarter but got a few breaks and pulled away." North Carolina lost 22-6 to South Carolina last week.

North Carolina State (5-1) also faces a toughie, visiting non-conference U.C.L.A. in Los Angeles. U.C.L.A., boasting a 2-1-1 record, offers halfback Bill Kilmer to counter the passing of N.C. State's Roman Gabriel. The Wolfpack leaves today for the West Coast.

The ACC leader, Duke, held its roughest workout of the week Wednesday. Coach Bill Murray's club, once-beaten in five starts, is pulling out all-stopper for outsider Georgia Tech. Duke holds a slight edge, 14 wins to 12, in the 27-game series. One game was a tie.

Clemson worked hard. Coach Frank Howard's club, riding a two-game losing streak—longest since they dropped two-in-a-row in 1957, travels to Nashville, Tenn., to battle Vanderbilt. A 30-minute hard-knocking defensive scrimmage featured the workout.

Virginia worked on its pass defenses. And for good reason, the Cavaliers try to snap their long losing streak against serial-mined Wake Forest in one of two ACC games Saturday. Coach Dick Voris said he couldn't match Wake's bullet-throwing Norman Sneed, but expects considerable aerial fireworks from quarterback Arnold Dempsey and Carl Kuhn. Virginia's No. 1 quarterback, sophomore Gary Cuozzo, remains a doubtful performer because of a knee injury.

Coach Billy Hildebrand of Wake Forest, meanwhile, said he had installed several new offensive plays. He hopes this will aid the Deacon attack. Wake has won once in five games. Tom Nugent, Maryland's Coach Tom Nugent has re-inserted Tom Sankovich in the starting lineup for Saturday's game with South Carolina. The Terp coach had replaced the 190-pound Sankovich with 225-pound Roger Shoals hoping the extra weight would help his line. However, Nugent said he looked at films of the Wake Forest-Maryland game and said Sankovich played "one of the great games at tackle" he had ever seen.

A rugged, two-hour drill featured South Carolina's workout. Coach Warren Giese said guards Ken Derriso and Jake Bodkin and ends Jack Pitt, Jerry Frye and Bob Drost stood out.

Reaction In LA Is Favorable

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Nobody knows what they're going to call the new American League baseball team coming here next year, but the Dodgers indicate they might favor something like "the Los Angeles Intruders."

However, while the Dodgers welcomed the American League invasion about as enthusiastically as Richmond welcomed Grant, the general reaction here was favorable. In many cases it was better than that.

Dodger president Walter P. O'Malley had this to say: "The Dodgers, in making a schedule, have carefully kept in mind the prior rights of colleges, professional sports and the civic events traditionally held here. Another full baseball schedule would wreak havoc, in my opinion."

But O'Malley found little support, even among the people who were his chief allies when he moved to Los Angeles.

Coliseum Manager Bill Nicholas said: "I checked our schedule this year from April 12 through September and counted 80 open dates. With a very little give and take, 81 American League games might be arranged."

Los Angeles, in the last three years, has acquired the Dodgers, a second professional football team, a professional basketball team and now a second major league baseball team. There are about six million people in the county to support them, and the consensus is that they can do it—though perhaps not in the manner to which the Dodgers have become accustomed.

AL Going To LA; Senators Make Shift

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—The American Baseball League is going into Los Angeles next year, with Hank Greenberg as the owner, and Calvin Griffith is moving his Washington Senators into Minneapolis-St. Paul.

The American League expanded to 10 clubs for 1961 Wednesday with a new franchise to be set up in Washington. The ownership of the club in the nation's capital will be announced later.

The surprise expansion move beat the National League to the punch by one year. The older circuit only 10 days ago expanded to 10 teams for the 1962 season by granting franchises to Houston and New York. The American will operate under a 162-game schedule in 1961.

The American League has only six months in which to stock the Los Angeles and Washington teams, which will start from scratch. Minneapolis-St. Paul will inherit a seasoned club that includes such sluggers as Harmon Killebrew, Bob Allison and Jim Lemon, and such pitching stars as Camilo Pascual and Pedro Ramos.

A committee comprised of the present eight general managers sat down immediately after the historic American League meeting to set up a formula to provide players for the two new cities.

One plan, still to be accepted, would freeze 15 players on each club. The rest would be made available for purchase at a figure estimated at $75,000 a player. No more than three players could be purchased from one club.

The league player limit would be cut to 23 from the present 25 from May 15 to August 31.

The vote to grant a franchise to Los Angeles was unanimous, but Griffith just managed to receive the necessary six votes. The two clubs which voted against the Washington shift to Minneapolis-St. Paul were Cleveland and Detroit.

Greenberg first must dispose of his 20 per cent stock in the Chicago White Sox, of which he is vice president, before he can acquire the Los Angeles franchise.

No one would say Greenberg will operate the Los Angeles franchise, but it was learned definitely that the Hall of Famer is the man.

"No comment," said Hank when asked point blank whether he will take over the LA franchise. "Remember, I've got stock in the White Sox."

Greenberg denied an earlier report that he would purchase the Washington franchise, but he made no such denial concerning Los Angeles.

"Nobody knows who will be the new Washington owner," he said. "We won't know for a few days."

The Griffith family owns 60 per cent of the Senators. Gabriel Murphy represents a minority group holding the other 40 per cent. He has been fighting the transfer in the courts for some time, recently losing his second suit.

Griffith said he decided to move to Minneapolis-St. Paul "for the betterment of the franchise."

"We've been guaranteed a million attendance for the first five years," he pointed out. "Also, we have received five radio-television offers, each much better than the one we have in Washington. We also will have the concession rights, of which we will pay a small percentage to the Park Commission. They will retain the parking rights."

Griffith said the Senators were paid $180,000 for the radio-TV rights in Washington last season. The Twin Cities offers are all in the neighborhood of a half-million dollars.

The Metropolitan Stadium, where the Washington team will play, actually is in Bloomington, Minn. It currently seats 22,000, but it will be expanded to seat 40,000.

The New Los Angeles entry probably will play its 1961 home games in either the Los Angeles Coliseum or Wrigley Field, home of the old Los Angeles club of the Pacific Coast League. Both are available, said American League president Joe Cronin. "We decided on an immediate move because the parks are available and we realized we've got to get a move on," Cronin said.

The decision to accept Los Angeles and the Twin Cities left Dallas-Fort Worth, Toronto and Buffalo, other cities hopeful of landing franchises, out in the cold, at least for the time being.

"This is only the first step,"

Cronin declared. "We are considering other cities for future expansion to 12 teams, possibly in 1962 or 1963."

Cronin said the Kansas City situation had no bearing on the expansion decision. The club, he said, is in the process of being sold. No matter who becomes the new owner, the franchise definitely will be kept in Kansas City during the 1961 season.

Senator Fans Unhappy Over Shift Of Team

By STANLEY MEISLER
WASHINGTON (AP)—"It's a dirty trick," said one Washington Senator fan as President Calvin Griffith shifted his baseball club to Minneapolis-St. Paul.

"We put up with the 'bad teams' all those years," said Real estate man Marty Rubin. "Now, when they're getting good, they leave."

A travel agency owner echoed his sentiments. "The Nats were just getting started again," said Larry Frommer. "They would have moved up in the standings next year."

Fans, interviewed on the street, coupled dismay at the club's departure with relief that Griffith was going with it. They also held hope that their new entry in the American League would fare better than the Senators.

"I hate to see them go," said Jerry Cahill, a lawyer. "They had the nucleus of a good team but we're better off without Griffith. Maybe we'll get a live wire."

A former pitcher for the Senators, Walter Masterson, guessed that one reason for the move involved Griffith's resistance to using Washington's new stadium, where he would not control concessions.

"He would have had to get rid of that big family deal with so many relatives on the payroll," Masterson said.

The 1960 attendance—743,404—was the club's best in 12 seasons.

The Children Look To This Principal As Their Friend

AT WORK . . . in her familiar office.

MISS FRANCES WAHL . . . Principal at Wahl-Coates

TALKING WITH STUDENTS . . . much loved by the "school-mom".

REVIEWING REPORTS . . . with secretary

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

The association with teachers and children . . . the children not being afraid but instead looking at her as a friend, is what Miss Francis Wahl likes best about her job as principal of the Wahl-Coates Laboratory School here. Miss Wahl, a native of Paris, Arkansas, received her schooling in the Paris City Schools, Arkansas Teachers College, Peabody College and Columbia University. After teaching for several years in Arkansas, Miss Wahl moved to Greenville in 1925, and taught the fifth grade in the old "Model School" that once stood on what more recently has been Colaniche Street Park. After being promoted to the sixth grade, then the seventh over the next few years, Miss Wahl was made an "administralive" or part-time principal in 1931 . . . one year after moving into the then new, "Training School". She assumed her duties as full-time head of the school in 1936.

Miss Wahl's duties as principal include office work, supervisory work, administration of all types of things including the building and cafeteria; seeing to the welfare of the students and teachers and seeing that the needed supplies are on hand.

Miss Wahl, who said she has "always loved teaching" hesitantly noted that one of her duties that is most unpleasant is "punishing children if I have to. As a long-time employee of the Greenville City School System, Miss Wahl has seen much growth in the system, including growth in the number of children attending school and in the number of teachers; growth in the size and number of buildings; and a better curriculum for the students.

Now, more than ever before, Miss Wahl said, the school system "seeks to develop the abilities and potentialities" of the individual student and is "more aware of the child as an individual".

Miss Wahl, commenting the "working spirit between the teachers and children is grand", said at the school . . . now Wahl-Coates after the name was changed in 1954 to honor Miss Wahl and Miss Dora Coates for their service to education . . . are working, as a group, on a handbook for student teachers at East Carolina College.

Included in the list of professional organizations of which Miss Wahl is a member are: the National Education Association and the North Carolina Education Association, the Elementary Principals Association, and the Association for Childhood Education. She is also a member and past president of the Wesleyan Service Guild of the Methodist Church, the Eastern Star and a past president of the Altruza Club.

Included among her hobbies are: reading, knitting, embroidery, china painting and etching aluminum.

Former ECC Student Gives Copy Of Her Book

Mrs. Ona Griffin Jeffries of Tacoma Park, Md., has presented to the Joyner Library at East Carolina College a copy of her recently published book "In and Out of the White House . . . from Washington to the Eisenhowers." The author has inscribed the book "To-East Carolina College a loved alma mater."

A native of Union County, North Carolina, Mrs. Jeffries was for 21 years office manager of the Scripps-Howard Newspaper Alliance in Washington, D.C. A collector of old brass, copper, and silver, she became interested during this time in the social lives of America's First Families in the White House and devoted 20 years of research before completing her account of entertaining, etiquette, and protocol in the Executive Mansion. Published by Wilfred Funk, Inc., with an introduction by the Emily Post Institute, the 404-page work carried the authority of Mrs. Jeffries' long pursuit of information in old letters, diaries, memoirs, newspapers, and elsewhere. The book deals, among other things, with White House menus, furniture, china, table settings, and modes of entertaining. Anecdotes of the Presidents and their families are included; and more than a hundred photographs, portraits, and artists' sketches illustrate the social history.

Reviewers have given praise to the book. The Washington, D.C. Daily News describes it as "a tremendously interesting authentic history of the ways, manners, oddities of ALL the Presidents of the United States and their wives." The Norfolk Va. Virginian-Pilot calls it "the perfect bedside book for anyone interested in American social history." The Book-of-the-Month Club News calls attention to its timeliness as the country prepares for a new First Family to move into the White House.

Mrs. Jeffries is the daughter of the late John Culpepper Griffin and Dora Helms Griffin of Union County. She spent her early childhood near Monroe, N.C., on the farm of her grandfather Job Griffin. In 1915 she attended East Carolina, where her time was spent, she says, "studying technicalities of elementary education—most enjoyable experience."

Unfortunate Byproducts Of Huge Road-Building Job

Editor's Note—A million-dollar road failure, a grand jury investigation, and an administrative mixup—these are an unfortunate byproduct in some states of the vast program to build a $41-billion network of superhighways. They are examined in this third of a four-part series on progress and problems of the project.

By BEM PRICE
AP Staff Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)—Some of the problems encountered in the nation's huge highway construction program may be illustrated by a look at experiences in New Mexico, Missouri and Ohio.

Bureau of Public Roads for reimbursement, the state's paperwork was deemed so inadequate that the federal government is withholding payments of nearly $6 million.

In Missouri, a federal grand jury at St. Louis has begun an inquiry into alleged collusion among suppliers of highway steel. The investigation followed complaints from contractors that certain steel suppliers refused to bid against each other and that prices appeared to be rigged. Nine companies are involved.

In Ohio, the construction program under its present director, Everett Preston, seems to be leveling out toward an orderly $300 million-a-year business—but it was not always quite so orderly. When Preston took office in February 1959, he discovered that the previous administration had let 21 last-minute highway contracts. He discovered also that the contractors couldn't go to work because the state had failed to acquire rights-of-way.

Work was delayed three to six months. No one has yet analyzed whether the land for these 21 projects cost more than it would have cost under normal procedures.

Like many states, Ohio also has a land problem. Right now there are over 1,000 cases pending in court. Under the previous administration, the state made offers to purchase land on a take-it-or-leave-it basis. Many land owners left it and went to court where juries have proved generous.

Another factor apparently has complicated Ohio's land problem. Ray J. Glaze, Highway Department attorney, said in an interview some evidence exists that a few attorneys had been soliciting land suits from disgruntled owners.

Glaze added, however, that the solicitation—a violation of American Bar Association canons—was done so subtly it would be almost impossible to prove.

Some Ohioans are still grumbling over the 11-month delay in opening a leg of the Interstate route between Columbus and Cleveland. The delay has been attributed to a contracting firm which was overextended financially but was nevertheless permitted to complete the work.

In New Mexico, a wide variety of problems arose. It has had a $1-million road failure. At least four other roads in the state are what the engineers call in a state of distress.

The State Highway Department is not under civil service and, therefore, there is little job security. Who gets what job is often a matter of politics. Over the past 10 years there have been 61 occupants in the department's 11 top appointive jobs.

On July 15, 1959, L. D. Wilson resigned as chief engineer, complaining the highway commissioners had asked him to "do things bordering on the dishonest." Wilson, now in Alaska, has offered to testify under oath.

A state legislative committee hired the management consultant firm of Booz-Allen and Hamilton of San Francisco to study the highway department.

Among other things, it reported: "Contractors who object to state-employed project engineer decisions carry their appeals direct to the highway commission or chief engineer—and people at the top have often overruled the project engineers."

On July 24, 1959, Commissioner H. E. Leonard requested the transfer of an assistant district engineer, John Roberts, from Albuquerque. Wilson, then chief engineer, said the transfer was made because Roberts was too tough on contractors. Leonard denied this.

Last August, Paris Jordan, assistant district engineer at Roswell, resigned rather than accept a demotion. He said he had been put under pressure to approve payment of $6,000 to contractor Jack Adams for extra work performed. Jordan said he didn't think Adams was entitled to the money.

The present chief engineer, D. B. Dixon, says Jordan was not put under any pressure, that he was demoted because of his "inability to supervise construction properly."

Adams built the road at Lordsburg, N.M., which is now classed as a failure. On this project, the federal government is withholding payment of more than $200,000 until the road is brought up to federal standards. The state has paid Adams in full.

Involved was a $1,086,000 contract—a stretch of four-lane highway running nearly 4½ miles through the town of Lordsburg, which began settling, cracking, and developing potholes before it was half completed in 1958. Concrete sidewalks, gutters and curbs settled or buckled.

The state estimates another $477,000 will be needed to put the road in shape. (The federal government says a highway should be trouble-free for 20 years with normal maintenance.)

There were other headaches on New Mexico's part of the big highway program. Stretches of U.S. 85 at Belen and Glorieta suffered early loss of stone chips mixed into the top coat to provide traction. Slick pavement resulted.

Projects at Santa Rosa and Top of The World, near Grants, have developed cracks and potholes. Those roads are less than three years old. Some New Mexico roads are so slick that speed limits are reduced in wet weather.

In their report on Lordsburg, Booz-Allen and Hamilton said the material used was "borderline." Or other jobs, the consultants declared, the material was either too coarse or had been improperly applied.

What caused the Lordsburg failure is still unclear. Adams says he built the road to state specifications. In June 1959, a New Mexico legislative committee began an investigation.

After two days of hearings, the attorney general declared the committee was not properly authorized, and the probe collapsed.

During the brief hearings Leland Doty, state supervisor at Lordsburg, told the lawmakers his work diary had been stolen from his car. This was the day-to-day record showing weather, material delivered, and construction problems.

Testimony brought out that during the asphalt-laying period at Lordsburg there had been 14 inches of rain, and that concrete was laid in subfreezing weather. Both Adams and Doty testified that to the best of their knowledge, no asphalt was put down when it was either too wet or too cold to do the job properly.

Steel's Recession Has Points Of Uncertainty

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP)—Steel's private recession has had top billing in all discussions of this year's business uncertainties.

It has taken its toll in production, jobs, takehome pay and profits. But its profit bite has been less deep than many expected although the slump in orders has lasted longer than originally billed and still dashes the hopes of those who expect it to be over soon.

And steel's recession also has pointed out the difference between the big and little companies when it comes to making money.

All of the big companies reporting so far show profits for the first nine months running ahead of the same period last year. With few exceptions, the smaller companies report earnings lagging behind their 1959 figures.

Production measured in tonnage is much more impressive, too than when measured in percentage of capacity. Tonnage, although lower than expected at the start of the year, hasn't fallen off nearly as much as the idle mills might indicate.

That is because the great expansion in capacity since World War II means that even running at half speed the companies can turn out more than they once could at full speed.

Also the newer mills can turn out more steel than the old ones in a week—and at a considerably lower cost. Hence the ability of the big steel companies to use only their newest facilities and show a profit when operating at less than 50 per cent of their total capacity. At the end of World War II, 80 per cent of capacity was the commonly used figure for the break-even point.

Profit comparisons with last year are thrown out of kilter by the crippling strike in the 1959 summer.

But of the 19 steel companies reporting so far, eight show increased profits in the first nine months of 1960. They include six of the larger and two middle-size companies. The 11 showing declines are either small or middle-size producers.

The big companies weigh the scale heavily. The 19 combined report this year's profits at $445,492,000, a gain of 1.2 per cent over last year's $440,185,000.

Most show that profits dropped during the summer from the earlier months of the year.

The largest, U. S. Steel, made $52,415,595 this summer, compared with a loss of $31,135,136 in strike bound 1959. The third-quarter earnings this year were sharply off from the spring quarter's of nearly $81 million.

Find New Home In Ex-Mortuary

NORTH BEND, Neb. (AP)—The post office here is being evicted. After 35 years in the same building, the office is moving today into a former mortuary.

Postmaster L. J. Gaughen said the eviction notice was serviced last week on behalf of the building's owner, Mrs. Rex Morgan of Sioux City, Iowa.

Gilbert Mullen, Wichita, Kan., regional real estate manager for the Post Office Department said, "We were unable to reach an agreement with the owners of the lease," which expired last May.

The post office should have a home of its own soon in this eastern Nebraska village of 900. Bids will be taken next month for a new building.

Sure enough. He is assigned with a Navy expedition at the Pole.

Nixon Promises Quick Negotiation With Soviet On Atomic Testing Ban

By JACK BELL
 WITH NIXON IN MICHIGAN (AP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon came into politically doubtful Michigan today promising voters that if he's elected, his running mate, Henry Cabot Lodge, will go immediately to Geneva to negotiate with the Soviet Union on a nuclear testing ban.

Should the Soviets agree to foolproof inspection under which military tests would be banned, Nixon said, he would be willing to meet in a summit conference with Soviet Premier Khrushchev and Prime Minister Harold Macmillan of Great Britain to make the agreement final.

Should no agreement be obtained by Feb. 1, and he is then president, Nixon continued, he would order resumption of underground shots designed to open possibly fantastic vistas for peaceful use of atomic power.

The Republican presidential nominee's virtual ultimatum to Khrushchev was made with full White House approval. It came Wednesday night in Toledo, Ohio, between speeches in which Nixon called on voters to support him Nov. 8 because, he said, he had sat in on and supported Eisenhower's vitally important decisions on foreign policy.

Nixon's growing emphasis on his backing of the Eisenhower actions and policies paid off in the Republican nominee's ability to announce that the Soviets probably have been cheating during the nuclear testing moratorium.

He disclosed for the first time that in the last two years, while the United States has not fired any shots, the Soviets have set off at least one underground explosion and several smaller ones.

The vice president, who has access to information in this field that his opponent does not, said that only a few days ago a new seismic station in Port Sill, Okla., had recorded a disturbance in the Soviet Union which might have been an earthquake or a large underground explosion.

Nixon's campaign blast seemed calculated to invite division among the Democratic supporters of Sen. John F. Kennedy. Some of them favor resumption of underground testing. Others are insisting any atomic firing while negotiations with the Soviets still are possible.

Kennedy, the Democratic nominee, said he is willing to make one more try at negotiating with the Soviets. He said with some emphasis that he had not appointed present U. S. negotiators. He indicated he would start from scratch with new representatives if elected.

Nixon told a small local meeting of members of Sigma Delta Chi, national journalistic fraternity, that because the Soviets have been "filibustering," Kennedy's proposal would delay a final showdown too long, "far beyond any margin of safety."

The Republican nominee said underground tests might open the way for tremendous engineering projects, for creation of underground heat which would run electricity-producing plants cheaply and for the extraction of oil from shale deposits which now won't yield it.

Nixon pointed in his whistle-stopping tour toward a major night speech at Muskegon, Mich., where Kennedy got a rousing reception in September.

In his Ohio sendoff, Nixon told of them favor resumption of underground testing. Others are insisting any atomic firing while negotiations with the Soviets still are possible.

Kennedy, the Democratic nominee, said he is willing to make one more try at negotiating with the Soviets. He said with some emphasis that he had not appointed present U. S. negotiators. He it, and they are supporting ours." Nixon was having some trouble with his throat after a day in which he stood bare-headed in the rain to talk at several whistle-stops. He conceded his voice was husky, but said he was not worried about it.

In his Ohio appearances, Nixon was lavish in his praise of Eisenhower as a man who had kept the Korean War and had "kept the peace without surrender" since.

Nixon told the crowds that because of his association with Eisenhower he is no stranger to high responsibility.

"I know what responsibility means," he said. "I've been through it."

In that vein Nixon said that he and Lodge "know our business." "We know what America needs," he said. "If you give us a chance, we can lead America the way you want it led."

Face Extradition To Face Trial

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. Dist. Judge David A. Pine has ordered three men extradited to North Carolina to stand trial on charges of murder in the slaying of Robert Schroeder, 35-year-old Camp Lejeune, N.C., Marine.

Jessie E. Perry, 24, of Memphis, Tenn., and Eugene W. Jacobs, 21, were ordered extradited effective today. The third man, Harold A. Smith, 20, also of Memphis, will be extradited after he is sentenced in the robbery of a Washington tavern.

The men were arrested here in the tavern robbery. Smith pleaded guilty to a nine-count indictment stemming from the tavern hold-up. His attorney contended he should not be extradited until the robbery sentence is served.

Attorneys for Jacobs opposed extradition, but Perry's lawyer did not. The hearing was held Wednesday.

Schroeder, a Marine gunnery sergeant from New Lebanon, Ohio was found dead in the trunk of his car near LaGrange, N. C., on July 24. Authorities said he apparently had been robbed and shot about three days earlier.

'Ample Lending Power' To Finance Christmas Trade

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Federal Reserve Board has given advance notice that the nation's banks will have ample lending power to finance Christmas business.

The notice was coupled with an announcement Wednesday of definite plans to make available $2.1 billion in new currency and credit "between Thanksgiving and Christmas, the peak season of rising cash and credit needs."

Elaborating on a formal statement, a spokesman said the board "intends to make ample provision for the credit needs" of the holiday season. This amounted to a promise of further action should the announced plans prove inadequate.

Because the board's intentions were disclosed well in advance, they could have a psychological impact on the economy even before they go into effect, starting Nov. 24. Some bankers and businessmen might take the promise of ample credit as a signal to adopt more bullish policies.

The board spokesman declined to label the planned moves as an anti-recession program. In the recent past, the board's steps in the direction of easier credit have been attributed officially to a lessening of inflationary pressures. Even so, they coincided with a slowing down of the economy.

By making its latest announcement 13 days before the presidential election, the board risked accusations that it is interfering in the political campaign. An aide discounted this by noting that a somewhat similar credit-easing move was announced several weeks in advance last August.

The board is independent of the executive branch and its seven members represent both political parties.

Here are the three actions which the board plans:

1. Starting Nov. 24, the 6,200 banks in the reserve system will be allowed to count cash on hand—vault cash—in fulfilling the legal requirement that they maintain specified reserves to back up deposits in checking accounts. Congress instructed the board in 1959 to take this action—the third and final move in a gradual process.

2. Also on Nov. 24, banks in smaller communities will be instructed to keep larger minimum reserves—12 per cent of checking deposits instead of the present 11 per cent.

3. Effective Dec. 1, the reserve requirements for big banks in New York and Chicago will be lowered by one per cent to 16 1/2 per cent. This fulfills a congressional directive that banks in these cities be put on the same reserve basis as those in other large cities where the requirement is 16 1/2 per cent.

The board said the net effect of the three steps will be the freeing of $1.3 billion now tied up as reserves. It said about $1 billion of this amount will be needed to meet the pre-Christmas expansion of the currency supply. That leaves $300 million as the basis for an expansion of credit. Since $1 of excess reserves can form the basis for $7 in loans, the potential lending power of the banks thus will be increased by $2.1 billion.

Marks 40 Years As A Bellhop

CHICAGO (AP)—Bellhop Gabriel Salcedo, celebrating his 62nd birthday and 40th as a bellhop, figured that he has met "maybe a half a million persons, and that most of them were pretty nice."

Known as Gabe to his friends, he came to Chicago from his native Guadalajara, Mexico, in 1919. The most unusual job he ever has was to walk a dog for a guest.

"The guest—he was from Oklahoma City—told me so long as I walked his dog I might as well break in a pair of cowboy boots for him," says Salcedo. "Fortunately the boots fit. He gave me $3."

Gas Light Era Seen Returning

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Think the gas light era ended some 50 years ago?

Richmond's last gas street light was extinguished when World War II blackouts became necessary—but they are coming back.

Fifty antique lights which once lit the streets of Baltimore will be used in courtyards of a new two million dollar apartment house here.

Officials of the Commonwealth Natural Gas Co. say Dallas has 2,000 in use, Phoenix 6,000; Kansas City 10,000; Los Angeles 20,000; Cleveland 4,000, and Shreveport, La. 48,000.

Volunteers Pay For His Mistake

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP)—C. A. Morrison Jr. of Louisville, went in the wrong direction on the Kentucky Turnpike. He drove almost to Shepherdsville—the first toll station—before discovering his mistake.

He turned around at a service area—but sent the state $1 and a letter saying: "This is my fault. The toll we would have incurred had we gone to Shepherdsville to turn around."

Alabama has not voted Republican in a presidential election since 1872.

N.C. Demos, Republicans Bid For Western Votes

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Campaigning has a mountain autumn setting today as both Democratic and Republican candidates bid for western votes.

Terry Sanford, running for governor on the Democratic ticket, speaks at the Polk County Courthouse in Columbus this morning. He will go on to the 12th Congressional District rally in Canton this evening.

Robert L. Gavin, the GOP candidate for governor, was at a rally in Spruce Pine today. He has an address lined up this evening at Marshall.

Dr. I. Beverly Lake, Raleigh lawyer and the man Sanford beat in the Democratic nomination for governor, was the speaker Wednesday night at the party's 11th Congressional District rally in Statesville. Lake asserted that troubles facing the party result from "a fear on the part of many North Carolina Democrats that the national leadership of the Democratic party has fallen into the hands of men who do not believe in the principles of government, society and economics on which Thomas Jefferson founded our party."

Education was the theme taken by Gavin at a Republican rally in Boone Wednesday night. The affair drew a crowd which overran the 500-seat Watauga County courtroom.

"We must take the necessary steps toward the needed revival of learning by abandoning the policy of 'social promotion' and return to the policy of recognizing promotion as a reward for work well done," Gavin declared.

Meanwhile, representatives of both parties continued working on a proposed team debate involving all candidates. They said they had encountered disagreements which would have to be referred to the Democratic and Republican state chairmen.

However, television station

WRAL-TV in Raleigh said it is not interested in such an event. Jesse Helms, vice president for news and programs, stated the position in a telegram to Democratic Sanford. Helms noted Sanford's failure to respond to an offer of one hour of time for a Sanford-Gavin debate, and said the offer has been withdrawn.

Helms pointed out that Gavin had immediately accepted the offer. However, he said repeated inquiries to Sanford campaign aides had failed to bring a response.

In his Statesville address, as in the First Congressional District two weeks ago, Lake made no mention of the Democratic party candidates for president and vice president.

ROCKY MOUNT, N.C. (AP)—Tar Heel residents will have a double-barrel celebration in 1963 when the centennial of the Civil War approaches. The year also marks the 300th anniversary of the granting of the Carolina Charter, and the joint observance calls for one of the largest commemorations in the state's history.

The events are separated by 200 years but commissions planning the observances have found a common meeting ground. Both have proposed a building in Raleigh to house archives and important state documents. Planned as a replacement for the crowded Hall of History, it would be called the Carolina Charter and Confederate Memorial Building.

Much of the groundwork for the 1963 observances already has been laid by the Charter Tercentenary group that was spurred on by a series of events. The more recent, according to the chairman, Francis E. Winslow, occurred in 1959, when the American Bar Foundation published a collection of documents listing the sources of American liberties. Omitted was the Carolina Charter, the first written guarantee that settlers of this section would enjoy the liberties of their native England.

Winslow, a history scholar and attorney of Rocky Mount, says this was a "gross neglect." "It shows that we have not made known, even to historians, the importance of the document," he points out.

The Charter was granted by King Charles II of England to the Eight Lord Proprietors of the Carolina colonies, and it outlines the civil liberties that are a basis for many American rights. Since it was obtained by the state, it has been housed in the Hall of History, but has never been placed on public display.

The Charter would become the central exhibit in the proposed history building where other archival, museum and publication activities of the state would be housed.

Eventually, the building might become the central structure in a state cultural center. In laying out plans before the Commission on the Reorganization of State Government, the Charter group suggested that a series of buildings to house the State Library, Museum of Natural History and State Art Gallery might be added.

The Carolina Charter is just a beginning of the list of historical documents that would be housed in the building. Winslow says there are many others that should be property of the state that are now stored in court houses and other places in the state. The 72-year-old attorney who traces his ancestry to early Albemarle settlements is concerned that they are not being preserved.

Winslow heads a committee of a hundred prominent Tar Heels. The group has outlined an elaborate celebration, centering around the dedication of a Charter building. Decendants of the Lord Proprietors and English royalty would be invited.

At the present, however, the commission is more concerned with building plans. The idea must be sold to the General Assembly where funds to match private contributions will be needed.

Pop Has Paid For 20 Years

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Pharmacist John T. Cummins has been paying tuition to Ohio State University for 20 years. He recently plunked down the entrance fee for the 11th—and last—of his college student sons and daughters.

Six earned degrees. Three daughters married after a couple of coed years. A son entered military service after three years. Eighteen-year-old Mike, the latest to enter OSU, should finish his five-year architecture course in 1965.

Burglars Burrow And Get Loot

LONGMONT, Colo. (AP)—burglars here found a new way to gain entrance to a market, ignoring the doors, windows, walls and roof.

Emulating moles, they got under the floor of the market and used a brace, bit and saw to cut an opening and gain entrance. Slolen were 50 cartons of cigarettes.
