Eisenhower Joins Nixon In N. Y. To Promote Ticket

NEW YORK (AP) — President Eisenhower said today that Vice President Nixon and his running mate Henry Cabot Lodge offer the nation "the finest type of leadership today that is available to the nation."

Eisenhower joined campaign forces with Nixon, the Republican presidential nominee, at a wind-blown rally at the big Roosevelt Field Shopping Center in suburban Long Island.

The President and the man who hopes to become his successor met at the field after helicopter flights.

Eisenhower flew there from Idlewild Airport and Nixon from Brooklyn, where he spoke at a breakfast rally.

Opening a side by side campaign which will take the President and vice president to a series of New York City rallies and a parade to Herald Square, Eisenhower gave Nixon and Lodge a ringing endorsement in their battle against the Democratic presidential nominee, Sen. John F. Kennedy, and his running mate, Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas.

On seven points, Eisenhower said Nixon and Lodge stand out above their Democratic opponents.

The President said he compares the two political teams on these points:

1. Character. 2. Moral courage. 3. Capacity. 4. Readiness to undertake disagreeable tasks. 5. Experience. 6. Ability to make decisions. 7. Devotion and dedication to the United States.

Standing bareheaded in bright morning sunshine, the President expressed his concern over the issues involved in the presidential election.

Eisenhower, wearing a brown business suit, wore no topcoat despite the stiff breeze that was blowing.

The President said he wanted to give his full endorsement to the Nixon-Lodge ticket. With emphasis in his voice, Eisenhower said solemnly and slowly:

"Richard Nixon and Henry Cabot Lodge offer to America the finest type of leadership today that is available to the nation."

The President went on to say that the two nominees "can do better than anyone else toward keeping the peace . . . and toward lifting from the backs of mankind the burden of armament."

Then in a thrust at Kennedy the President added:

"No glittering promises, no glib oratory will give you this kind of leadership."

Eisenhower said that "for eight years I've worked with Nixon and Lodge, and they've shown the utmost enthusiasm—never a complaint or excuse—no matter how difficult the task they've done it effectively."

There was a tremendous cheer after that remark. He emphasized that his concern for the United States will be just as great after he leaves office as when he became president.

Nixon commented that this "probably is the greatest day of the campaign, with the President right here with us campaigning in New York."

Nixon said that he felt the tide began running in favor of the Republican ticket about 10 days ago.

The crowd, estimated by police at 50,000 persons, gathered in the sunshine to hear the kickoff of a drive aimed at giving Nixon New York's vital 45 electoral votes.

Nixon told a wildly cheering crowd of 2,200 at a Brooklyn breakfast rally that in the past 10 days his campaign has "moved all over America."

He said the crowds that have greeted his whistle-stopping campaign over the nation have been the most enthusiastic he has ever seen.

$12,173,000 Is Lowest Bid On VOA Facilities

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Low bid for construction of the Voice of America facilities in Pitt and Beaufort Counties was submitted by Alpha of Texas, Inc. and Continental Electronics Manufacturing Co. of Richardson, Texas.

The low bid received yesterday in the Washington offices of USIA was $12,173,000. This covers all phases of the project including construction of buildings, paving of roads, erection of towers and installation of equipment.

It is expected it will be several weeks before the bids are finally let. Work on the structures is expected to begin in January or early February.

Total estimated cost of the project including land, equipment and construction is $25,345,850. Land has already been acquired and site preparation has been underway, under a separate contract, for the past several months.

Other bidders on the project included: Nat Harrison Associates Inc. of Miami, Johnson, Drake and Piper and Cleveland Atlantic Co. of Atlanta, $12,415,508; Blount Brothers Construction Co. of Montgomery, Ala., $12,859,000; Melan Construction Corp. and Broadway Maintenance Corp., New York, N. Y., $12,877,000.

Page Communications Engineers Inc. of Washington, D. C. and T. A. Loving and Co. of Goldsboro, N. C., $13,333,333; Electronic and Missile Facilities Inc. of New York, N. Y., $13,462,000; Radio Corporation of America, Camden, N. J., $13,621,635; E. C. Ernst Inc. of Washington, D. C. and Nager Electric Co. of Brooklyn, N. Y., $13,659,000.

Wise Contracting Co. and Nello Teer Co. of Richmond, Va., $15,300,000; Peter Klewit and Sons Co. of Omaha, Neb., $15,480,070; Virginia Engineering Co., Newport News, Va., $15,585,000; Frederick Spore Corp. and Lord Electric Co. of New York, N. Y., $15,740,405; Sylvania Electronics Systems of Needham, Mass., $15,966,834.

Officials in Washington said the bids will be evaluated before contracts are awarded.

Truman Says It's Emergency Call

FISHKILL, N. Y. (AP)—Former President Harry Truman said today the Republicans have "sent train an emergency call for help—they are asking Ike to try to rescue Nixon."

"It has been apparent for some time that the Republicans are falling behind in the presidential race," Truman declared.

The rescue remark referred to President Eisenhower's appearance in New York City today to campaign with Nixon, and the President's talks on television and radio in behalf of the Republican candidate.

Terry Sanford On A Whirlwind Tour

Gubernatorial candidate Terry Sanford yesterday afternoon whisked up Evans St. here and was gone before some 200 well-wishers at the local Democratic headquarters could blink an eye.

On his final Eastern North Carolina stumping tour before election day, sandy-haired Sanford worked his way through the 200 extended Democratic right hands gathered around the headquarters before hopping back into his campaign auto. His itinerary from here carried him to Smithfield and an address at the Fourth Congressional District's Democratic Rally there last night.

Prior to his Greenville stop, the Democratic gubernatorial choice spoke briefly at Farmville's Town Hall before a group of around 250 supporters.

He urged Farmvillites to support the Democratic program "that stands for progress" while he accused the Republicans of "looking backward."

Sanford compared the Democrats to the button marked "D" for an immediate U.N. Assembly, and the Republicans to an automobile's automatic transmission dial. He matched the GOP effort with the "R" for reverse.

"When you want to go forward, you press the 'D' button; you push the 'R' for reverse," Sanford quipped.

The Fayetteville attorney referred to Sen. John F. Kennedy as "our next president" and seemed to feel the Democratic chances in North Carolina were good.

Sanford carried his whirlwind tour through LaGrange and Snow Hill before making his brief stops in Farmville and Greenville.

In Greenville, his only comments were greetings and farewells to his hand-shaking supporters. Before his visit to the Evans St. headquarters, Sanford had stopped by television station WNCT to make a campaign film.

Hodges Attacks GOP Charges

RALEIGH (AP)—Gov. Hodges today accused President Eisenhower and Treasury Secretary Anderson of helping lend credence to "trumped up political propaganda" against Democratic presidential candidate John Kennedy.

Hodges said this at a news conference at which he attacked Republican charges that a Democratic victory Nov. 8 would result in "unsound fiscal policies, including a devalued dollar."

"We are not going to have a devalued dollar and we are going to have a balanced budget," under the Democrats, asserted the governor, who also predicted a Democratic victory on Nov. 8.

He said statements to the contrary are "just trumped up political propaganda with credence lent to it by no one other than the president of the United States and the secretary of the Treasury."

He accused the President and Anderson of taking part in a campaign of "fear and hysteria" in the closing days of the campaign. He said Anderson was trying to build up a bogeyman.

Hodges, who heads up a committee working to boost support for Kennedy against Eisenhower and professional leaders, said he had requested that the Kennedy forces to comment on the "treasonous attack" by Vice President Nixon on Democratic fiscal proposals.

He declared that "the fiscal foolishness of the Eisenhower administration" is fully apparent to the American people.

General Fund Collections Up

RALEIGH (AP)—The new income tax withholding plan led the way as the state's general fund revenue collections during October showed an increase of $4,970,464 over October last year.

State Revenue Commissioner James S. Currie reported to Gov. Hodges today that the general fund receipts for October totaled $27,484,350. Highway fund collections were $9,050,943, a drop of $437,752 over the same month last year.

Income tax collections during October totaled $8,738,820, an increase of $4,942,810 over the corresponding month of 1959. A break down shows that of the $6,738,820 the withholding plan, accounted for $5,505,565.

Sales and use tax receipts for the month totaled $7,783,593, a gain of $359,969.

Currie reported that for the first four months of this fiscal year general fund collections amounted to $95,809,890, an increase of $28,609,841. Highway fund collections were $37,687,698, up $381,763.

Currie said an analysis of the $394 million in income tax collections during this fiscal year shows $25 million from the withholding system which went into effect Jan. 1. This consisted of $16,400,000 from wages, $44 million paid on declarations by self-employed persons and $44 million on corporate declarations.

Franchise tax receipts showed a drop of $555,214 during the month but it was pointed out that this was not significant since the collections fluctuate.

Nuclear Sub Base In Scotland Protested

LONDON (AP) — The British government launched a public relations campaign today in an effort to avert an outcry against the basing of U.S. nuclear missile submarines in Scotland.

A the first voices of protest were raised, the government invited leading officials of 12 towns and counties in the Clyde area to a meeting at Greenock Thursday to discuss the base agreement.

The invitations were sent out by John MacLay, secretary of state for Scotland.

Prime Minister Harold Macmillan told the House of Commons Tuesday that Holy Loch, the Clyde yachting center 30 miles from Glasgow, would become a Polaris submarine base next February.

A submarine tender, and eventually a floating dock, along with 1,500 U.S. navy personnel will be stationed there to service submarines that can fire the 1,200-to-1,500-mile range Polaris missile from under water.

Macmillan recognized the risk of objections.

"But on reflection," he said, "I hope the House will feel that this new arrangement does not add to the risks to which we are all inevitably exposed in this nuclear age."

Moscow radio warned that the Polaris base would be the target for "an inevitable retaliatory blow" if used for aggression.

Labor members of Commons at once attacked the arrangement, saying the people of Scotland would resent exposure to destruction. The Glasgow District Trades Council invited representatives from the Vale of Leven and Dumbarton trades councils to its monthly meeting tonight to hear expressions of alarm.

John Johnston, secretary of the Glasgow Trades Council and the city's treasurer, said "There is very grave concern about the Polaris base."

Dr. Andrew Hood, former mayor of Glasgow, said several organizations were getting up petitions and that he expected expressions of feeling against the base from all over the west of Scotland in the next two weeks.

The Town Council of Dunoon at the entrance to Holy Loch, met privately Tuesday night to consider Macmillan's statement. The mayor, Miss S. C. MacPhail, said "We view the proposals with a certain amount of uneasiness."

Laborites in Commons reported it drafted a motion objecting to the Polaris base, demanding removal of U.S. bases from Britain and criticizing Britain's defense expenditures as being too high.

The conservative Daily Mail said "few will wish to salute the happy morn" when the first U.S. depot ship arrives in February.

The Daily Sketch commented: "It is painfully easy to foresee incidents involving Polaris submarines which will make the recent U2 affair look like child's play."

The Independent London Times said, however, that the submarine deterrent is "a much less hair-trigger business than the land-based rocket and would help to remove some American anxieties about the balance of power."

Britain already is host to U.S. rocket bases.

Kennedy Promises Demo Bill To Raise Teachers' Pay

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sen. John F. Kennedy today pledged that next year a Democratic congress and president "will enact a bill to raise teachers' salaries."

The presidential candidate also said: "One of the first items on the Democratic agenda in 1961 is the passage of an adequate bill for school construction."

He outlined these promises and others in the education field in a talk prepared for a "key to victory" breakfast, before hopping south to San Diego and then north to San Jose and San Francisco.

Kennedy's campaign explodes into a frenzied climax this week. After his San Francisco appearance, he will fly to Phoenix, Ariz.—Between now and election night, he'll touch 16 states. A stop at Detroit, Mich., on Friday had to be dropped because it just couldn't be fitted into the tight schedule.

A new and mocking note toward Vice President Richard M. Nixon again entered Kennedy's tone Tuesday, a kaleidoscopic day that brought him here from the East Coast for a mammoth downtown motorcade at noon.

The reception was hot, and so was one of the escorting police motorcycles. It burst into roaring flames and set afire the carpet of ticker tape in the street. No one was hurt.

As he did the day before, Kennedy taunted Nixon for bringing President Eisenhower into the campaign in the closing days before the election next Tuesday.

At a rally at the Douglas Aircraft plant in Long Beach, Kennedy said, "Yesterday I understand Mr. Nixon spent two hours and a half in the White House asking the President to go with him to Pittsburgh and Cleveland.

"Mr. Eisenhower is not a candidate. Mr. Nixon is. And if he can't stand up to the American people, if he won't come and meet me in a fifth debate, how is he going to stand up to Mr. Khrushchev?"

(Actually, the President will not be accompanied by Nixon at Pittsburgh and Cleveland.)

Kennedy again sought to point up the divergence of views among some Republican leaders by saying: "Mr. Nixon takes a ride through New York City tomorrow. He has with him Gov. Rockefeller, Henry Cabot Lodge, President Eisenhower. Where is Barry Goldwater? I think it is only fair that they all get in the car and ride down Broadway."

Kennedy had to wait an hour and a half before his plane could penetrate the fog and land here Tuesday morning. Late in the afternoon he again had fog trouble. Returning to his hotel by helicopter from the Long Beach meeting, his pilot was forced to land in a vacant lot some miles from its destination. The candidate proceeded by taxicab.

Cuba And Red Supporters Lose Round In UN Ballot

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Cuba and her Communist supporters lost their fight Tuesday night for an immediate U.N. Assembly airing of charges the United States plans an invasion of Cuban soil. But the vote was closer than many expected.

The 99-nation assembly voted 45-29 against the Cuban-Soviet attempt to upset the steering committee's recommendation that the Cuban complaint be sent first to the assembly political committee. Eighteen nations abstained.

The assembly then voted 53-11 with 27 abstentions to follow the steering committee's recommendation.

The balloting came after two days of bitter attacks by Cuba and the entire Soviet bloc, who accused the United States of aggression, subversion, invasion plans and all-around sinister intentions.

U.S. Ambassador James J. Wadsworth said he would reply in full when the political committee debates the complaint. He termed the charges "monstrous distortions and downright falsehoods."

Cuba's bid for an assembly debate got expected support from the Soviet bloc and Yugoslavia. But to the surprise of many, 18 Asian and African nations rallied behind her demand. They were India, Indonesia, Iraq, Yemen, Saudi Arabia, the United Arab Republic, Libya, Nepal, Ceylon, Burma, Cambodia, Ethiopia, Ghana, Guinea, Nigeria, Morocco, Mali and Afghanistan.

Other Asian and African nations and a scattering of Latin Americans were among those abstaining.

Wadsworth said the United States wants a complete airing of Cuba's charges. He predicted the debate would show up Cuba and her Soviet bloc backers but insisted the political committee was the proper spot for calm discussion.

Cuban Foreign Minister Raul Roa lashed back that the United States was unworthy of U.N. membership and was violating the principles of the U.N. charter by trying to block discussion.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin also accused the United States of seeking to delay discussion "which would expose its aims."

He charged that the United States sought to gain time "to carry out measures planned by the Pentagon to prepare and commit direct armed intervention in Cuba."

UF Campaign Tops '59 Total

Approximately $10,000 in collections and pledges were reported in the United Fund campaign yesterday afternoon.

Chairman David J. Whichard reported the total of yesterday's report as $9,847.38. This pushed total collections for the entire drive to $72,740.18.

Whichard said this amount is more than total cash and pledges for the entire campaign in 1959.

"The campaign is still rolling strong," the chairman declared. He urged solicitors to complete their work and make reports.

The next report meeting is scheduled for 4:30 Thursday afternoon in the Wachovia board of directors room.

There are still many workers who have not completed their solicitations," the drive chairman stated. "We would like for as many of those as possible to make their reports tomorrow afternoon."

Whichard said he was pleased with yesterday's report meeting. Goal for the drive is $111,000 and it is scheduled to end Nov. 15.

'Boycott' Rumor Said Buzzing

LONDON (AP) — Salons and saunas buzzed today with the report that a piqued Princess Margaret boycotted Britain's state opening of Parliament.

Rumors flew across tea cups and beer mugs that she stayed away from the glittering occasion because there was no seat of honor for her husband, Antony Armstrong-Jones.

A Clearance House spokesman confirmed that Margaret had no public engagement, but added: "She may have had a private one of course."

Asked whether there was any significance to Margaret's absence, the spokesman replied: "Absolute nonsense."

MOUNTAIN PARK, Okla. (AP) — Mrs. W. A. Fullington was 100 Tuesday. There was no party because she has been ill, but her husband, 165 lbs. July, said he feels just fine. Both plan to vote next Tuesday. They were married 61 years ago.

Ex-Foe Wishes Kennedy Luck

TOKYO (AP)—The skipper of the Japanese destroyer that sank Sen. J. Torpede boat said today he hopes Kennedy wins the U.S. presidency.

"I personally hope that this youthful, brilliant man—the man I might have killed—may be honored with the presidency," Eboe Hanami wrote in a five-column account of his wartime experiences published in the English-language edition of the newspaper "Yomiuri."

Grifton Democrats Turn Out For Rally

GRIFTON—Grifton Democrats last night held a political rally attended by U. S. Rep. Herbert Bonner, Sen. Robert Lee Humber and Democratic candidates, in Pitt County.

Terry Sanford, Democratic nominee for governor, sent a telegram expressing regret that he could not attend the rally due to other campaign commitments.

W. I. Bissette, township chairman of Grifton, opened the meeting and gave the welcome. Democratic office seeking candidates of Pitt County were introduced to residents of the Grifton Precinct who attended the rally. Some 350 persons were on hand for the rally, which was termed "very successful" by its sponsors.

Grifton Mayor Wiley Gaskins

introduced Rep. Bonner, who in turn presented Sen. Humber. John Clark of Greenville, chairman of Pitt County Democratic Executive Committee, and Charles Horne of Greenville, co-chairman, were also present. Clark concluded the program.

Others in attendance included Louis Gaylor, Pitt campaign manager for Terry Sanford; Walter Jones of Farmville, and others.

The Grifton arrangements committee for the rally consisted of Bissette; Gaskins; Henry Olesby; Robert Wheeler; Leroy Cherry; Charlie Hardee; Brown Hodges; George Saieby; Milton Hart; and Sam Nelson.

The rally was held in the Grifton gymnasium and community building.

Sharp Reply By Cuban President

HAVANA (AP) — Cuban President Osvaldo Dorticos, in a sharp reply to President Eisenhower, implied Tuesday night that the U.S. lease on the naval base at Guantanamo can be abrogated by the Cuban people without U.S. consent.

President Eisenhower, in a statement Tuesday, said the United States would take "whatever steps may be appropriate" to defend the base. He said the U.S. lease could be terminated or changed only by mutual agreement of the United States and Cuba.

Dorticos, in a speech to presidential palace employees, said Eisenhower's statement was designed "to justify armed aggression against our country" and supported the claims of Cuba's revolutionary regime that Washington is planning a faked incident at Guantanamo as a pretext for military action.

The Cuban president said Eisenhower's statement made it appear that "to make a decision respecting the territory of Cuba, an agreement with a foreign power is necessary."

"Have these gentlemen forgotten that all that is needed is the agreement of the Cuban people?" he asked.

In his formal statement, Eisenhower said: "While the position of the government of the United States with respect to the naval base at Guantanamo has, I believe, been made very clear, I would like to reiterate it briefly.

"Our rights in Guantanamo are based on internal agreements with Cuba, and include the exercise by the United States of complete jurisdiction and control over the area. These agreements with Cuba can be modified or abrogated by agreement between the two parties, that is, the United States and Cuba. Our government has no intention of agreeing to the modification or abrogation of these agreements and will take whatever steps may be appropriate to defend the base.

"The people of the United States, and all of the peoples of the world, can be assured that the United States' presence in Guantanamo and use of the base pose no threat whatever to the sovereignty of Cuba, to the peace and security of its people or to the independence of any of the American countries. Because of its importance to the defense of the entire hemisphere, particularly in the light of the intimate relations which now exist between the present government of Cuba and the Sino-Soviet bloc, it is essential that our position in Guantanamo be clearly understood."

Adm. Arleigh A. Burke, chief of naval operations, and other U.S. leaders earlier had made it clear that Prime Minister Fidel Castro would be in for trouble if he tried to take Guantanamo.

U.S. Ambassador James J. Wadsworth told the U.N. General Assembly in New York Tuesday that Cuban and Communist bloc charges of U.S. aggression against Cuba were "monstrous distortions and downright falsehoods." But he said the United States would welcome debate on the allegations.

Cubans continued to be fed a diet of rumors of invasion threats and stories of defense preparations.

Press reports from Oriente province said Prime Minister Fidel Castro's forces were reinforcing shore defenses with artillery. Guantanamo is in Oriente.

Castro has called for volunteers among the workers' militia to learn to handle antitank and anti-aircraft weapons. Czech technicians are reported in Cuba to help train the volunteers in use of the Czech-made guns.

EXTENDED WEATHER OUTLOOK FOR N.C.

Temperatures will average a few degrees below normal Thursday through Monday, with no great day-to-day temperature changes indicated. A period of rain likely over the weekend, with the amount totaling about half-inch in the mountains.

Secret Summary Said To Report Prestige Slip

NEW YORK (AP)—Two newspapers today quoted from a secret government summary which is said to report that United States prestige in the world has been slipping in comparison with that of the Soviet Union.

Both papers identified the document as the one, dated Aug. 29, which first was disclosed by Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark. chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

The New York Times said the summary of world opinion showed "a decline in United States standing relative to the Soviet Union" and found the decline in prestige was "a continuing and accelerating trend."

The Times said it has obtained "pertinent parts of the report, which is labeled 'secret.'"

The Washington Post said the summary "supports other reports that U.S. prestige has been going down while the Soviet Union's has been going up."

The Post said it obtained a copy of the summary, which Fulbright and Sen. John F. Kennedy have been seeking for weeks.

The summary, said to have been prepared by the U.S. Information Agency, has become an issue in the presidential campaign.

Richard M. Nixon contends American prestige abroad has never been higher.

The Times has endorsed Kennedy for president. The Post has announced that following its policy in five of the last six elections it will not make an election.

The Times noted that the report "is one of a series made periodically as a possible guide in shaping Washington policy."

Newspapers have quoted from previous reports on declining U.S. prestige.

This was the results of a poll of various groups in 23 lands on which they thought would be the strongest country 25 years from now—the United States or the Soviet Union.

"In 13 of the countries," the Times said, "the report favored the United States. Eight national groups thought the Soviet Union would be in the lead. In two, the division was even. The groups polled varied in number from 200 to 1,612."

"It was perhaps significant that the later the poll was taken the less favorable was the result to the United States. All those taken in 1960 put Moscow in the lead."

Presents Play At PTA Meet

ROBERSONVILLE — "Safety" was the theme of the October P.T.A. meeting held in the Robersonville High School auditorium.

The president, John Gray Taylor opened the meeting. The Rev. Brown of Gold Point gave the invocation and Mrs. Pitt Roberson read the minutes.

The highlight of the evening was a play written by Mrs. Vincent Columbo and Mrs. Robert James. The title "Let's Do It Right — the Safe Way" was in keeping with the theme for the month. It pointed out the many dangers in the home where most accidents occur. The play served a two-fold purpose. It was entertaining while emphasizing the necessary precautions around the house.

Stretching Dollars

RALEIGH — Homemakers who are looking for a different, yet tasty way, to serve potatoes will find the answer in potato pancakes.

With plenty of fall potatoes coming to market, now is a good time to serve potatoes often. The U. S. Department of Agriculture estimates the fall potato crop at 171.6 million hundredweight, 4 per cent above last year's crop and 10 per cent above average.

For making about 1 1/2 dozen potato pancakes, 3 inches in diameter, USDA suggests the following recipe. Combine 2 beaten eggs with 1/4 cup of milk in a mixing bowl. Grate, grind, or shred 2 cups of raw potato and add to the egg-milk mixture as soon as each cupful is prepared.

Use only the pulp of the potato, not the liquid.
Add 1 tablespoon of grated onion, 3 tablespoons of flour, 1 teaspoon of salt, and a dash of pepper. Then mix well.
Drop the mixture by tablespoonfuls onto a hot, lightly greased griddle or frying pan. Stir the mixture before dropping each pancake. Cook the cakes slowly until they are well-browned and crisp on the bottom. Turn and brown the other side. If cooked too fast, the pancakes will scorch before they are cooked thoroughly.

Hot potato pancakes go real well with most any meat dish, or with applesauce or apple butter. Serve immediately after taking out of the frying pan while the pancakes still are hot.

George Lautares Speaks To Thetis

George Lautares, Registered Gemologist, was the guest speaker for the Thetis Book Club at a luncheon meeting yesterday.

Mrs. W. N. Howard introduced the speaker, whose topic was "Diamonds and Precious Stones."

Mr. Lautares used various stones for illustration and discussed sources, methods of mining for the same, cutting and values. Rubies mined in Franklinton, by the speaker were displayed and he defined imitation, cultured, and oriental pearls. Round and brilliant diamond cuttings were described and methods of cleaning were discussed.

The meeting adjourned after a brief business session, over which Mrs. E. M. Whitehurst, president, presided.

Hostesses for the luncheon were Mrs. Joe Clark and Mrs. Trevilian Lyon.

Chicora Club Hears Mr. Clark

The Democratic National Convention was the topic Mr. John Clark, Sr. discussed to the Chicora Book Club on Tuesday afternoon.

He gave several highlights and personal experiences about the 1960 convention and the previous one. In closing he said, "Vote as you please, but be sure to vote!"

The meeting was held in the home of Mrs. Lewis Clark. After hot chocolate and cake, Mrs. Clarence Tugwell introduced Mrs. Milton Williamson who was a guest.

During the business meeting which followed, it was decided to give the last year's books to the Wilson Tuberculosis Hospital.

Jr. Woman's Club To Give Program

The general meeting of the Greenville Woman's Club will be held Friday afternoon at 3:15 at the club-house.

The Junior Woman's Club is in charge of the program. They will have as their guest speaker, Mrs. Walter Gerand, Jr., of Washington, first vice-president of District 15 of the North Carolina Federation of Woman's Club, who will talk on Samaritan Manor.

Samaritan Manor is a state home and industrial school for girls located on about 500 acres in Moore County. The state appropriates little for landscaping the grounds, so the North Carolina Federation of Woman's Clubs, which has supported the institution since its establishment, undertook in 1958 a long range project of landscaping and beautification of the campus.

Hostesses for the day include Mesdames: H. P. Milstead, C. M. Respass, T. S. Womble, J. R. Carrington, and P. E. Wells.

ECC Football Seniors Honored

Delta Zeta Sorority honored the graduating seniors on the East Carolina Varsity football team, coaches, and their wives with a wicker roast Monday night.

Entertaining the football team seniors, will be an annual event for the Delta Zetas in the future.

Those attending were co-captains, Charles Gordon and Glen Bass. Sonny Basinger, Bob Gresham, Henry Vansant, Cary Canady, Bert Stafford, Wayne Davis, Mac Thacker, Gary Pierce, Coach Bill McDonald and wife, and son, Billy. Coach Jack Boone came later in the evening.

The spirit of Halloween night provided just the perfect atmosphere for the occasion. After eating entertainment was provided by Vernon Davis (Bruno), and the group enjoyed singing around the campfire.

Good Farm Year Affects All Of Pitt

The highly successful season of the Greenville tobacco market which held its final sales Monday is a barometer to the appreciable improvement to the agricultural economy of Pitt County this year compared to what it was a year ago.

Although Pitt County does not depend entirely upon tobacco for its farm income, that one crop alone accounts for the major portion of the farm income in Pitt County.

Total amounts paid out on the Greenville tobacco market this year rose nearly $10 million or almost 40 per cent above what tobacco sold on the market in 1959 brought in. The season also reflected a 28.8 per cent increase in the amount of tobacco sold in Greenville compared with 1959.

These figures point to a much more successful year for the farmers of Pitt County this year compared with 1959. With the gross income from the county's principal agricultural crop up nearly 40 per cent, it is evident that a considerable increase in overall agricultural income of the county will be reflected final statistics on 1960 farm income in Pitt.

While Pitt County has diversified its economy in recent years, agriculture remains the moving force behind its economic level. A good year for the farmer in

Attention Now Given Assembly

By LYNN NISBET

LEGISLATURE — With results of the November election fairly well assured, politically minded folks are turning attention to the General Assembly. There appears little doubt now that a special session will be called early in January for the double purpose of participating in the inauguration of the new Governor and other State officials, and for perfecting the legislative organization by election of presiding and administrative officers. This special session most likely will convene on Wednesday, January 4.

Opinion of legislative leaders seems to favor the idea of carrying the special session right on into the regular biennial session, or at least to fix the regular convening time two or three weeks earlier than the presently set date of February 8.

Cloyd Philpott as Lieutenant Governor is constitutionally president of the Senate. No contests are in sight for most of the other elective officers. Sen. Lunsford Crew of Halifax is unopposed for president pro tem of the Senate. No contests are in sight for most of the other elective officers. Sen. Lunsford Crew of Halifax is unopposed for president pro tem of the Senate. No contests are in sight for most of the other elective officers.

On the House side the organization is expected to be changed from last session, except for substitution of Joe Hunt for Addison Hewlett as Speaker. Mrs. Annie E. Cooper is a shoo-in for principal clerk and Joe Warren of Caswell for sergeant at arms. Billy Arthur of Chapel Hill is expected to be reading clerk again.

COMMITTEES — Both the prospective presiding officers, who have responsibility of appointing committees, are giving serious thought to this matter — and they are getting a lot of advice from lobbyists. The problem is not so acute on the Senate side because there are more experienced men there — experienced by prior service in one branch or the other, although many of them were not in the last session.

Primary casualties took over some mighty good committee material from the House Membership, and the general election may eliminate two or three more. Speaker-to-be Joe Hunt is keeping his own counsel about tentative choices. Inasmuch as his election seemed assured since Cloyd Philpott entered the race for Lieutenant Governor last March, he has had more time than usual to think about committee assignments.

Rumor has it, and Hunt will neither confirm nor deny, that he has settled on the money committee leaders. Betting odds favor Tom Woodard of Wilson for appropriations and H.P. (Pat) Taylor, Jr., of Anson for finance. Woodard is an insurance executive serving his third term; Taylor is a lawyer in his fourth term. Influence of the money committee chairman extends far beyond purely legislative activities. They are ex-officio members of the Advisory Budget Commission, which has large control over State finance throughout the year and is responsible for preparing the appropriations and revenue bills for the next Legislature.

Generally, committees on education, highways and judiciary rank next to the money groups in importance. There is probability they may be displaced in rank in 1961 by committees dealing with government organization, revision of constitution and court procedure and reapportionment of congressional and legislative membership. These committees will handle many matters of far reaching effect that under normal conditions might be referred to other groups.

POSSIBILITIES — Is almost a certainty that John Umstead will again head the committee on constitutional institutions, a post he has held in the past four sessions. He is also chairman of the State Hospitals Board of Control. Following that precedent John Kennedy of Mecklenburg, a member of the Board of Higher Education, may be tapped as chairman of that committee in the House.

Others indicated for important committee chairmanships are Reps. Herbert Hardy of Greene, Irwin Belk of Mecklenburg, John Hargett of Jones and J.Y. Jordan of Buncombe. Being from the same county as the Speaker may depreciate prospects for a top level assignment for Ed Kemp of Guilford, who did a good job last session with the local government committee.

John Kerr of Warren, a former Speaker and recognized leader in many sessions, has been credited (or blamed) with major part in defeating the constitutional and court revision bills last session. That may preclude a top committee assignment, and his position will not be helped by his all-out support of Beverly Lake in the recent primaries.

Because of the peculiar conditions prevailing as result of the primaries — and general election — and the impact of the reapportionment — redistricting issue, it will not be surprising if more than usual number of second term men land good chairmanships. Speaker-to-be Hunt will not be embarrassed by necessity of "taking care of" his friends, because he apparently has unanimous support of the entire membership. Speaker Hewlett last session was pressured so much by his supporters in the hotly contested speaker-ship race he was forced to pass over some very able material for chairman. Hunt is in position to choose from the whole House.

Pitt County is generally reflected by a good year in other phases of the economy. A poor year for the farmer likewise has a generally depressing effect upon the economy of the county.

Based on the agricultural conditions this year as indicated by the sales record of the Greenville tobacco market, the economic outlook for Pitt for the remainder of the year is good; and certainly the situation may be expected to carry over into 1961.

A Political Gesture Above The Ordinary

First things first, we always say;

And if keeping Britain's pubs open later at night interests most the bulk of the Queen's loyal subjects then, for sure, inclusion of that item in Elizabeth's address at the opening of a new Parliament was in order.

We suspect that for a long time the early warning of "time gentlemen" in the average Briton's social center posed grounds for dissent. Legislation curtailing the sacred functions of a public house come perilously close to trespassing on an Englishman's "castle".

To be sure, the Queen's address included such mundane matters as the close friendship with the United States, efforts toward greater political and economic unity of Western nations and the like.

But the world loves a manifestation of affinity between ruled and ruler.

On this side of the Great Water, people who have been witnessing a most-vocative political campaign can recognize political gestures above the ordinary; and Tuesday's pronouncement by a Queen is recognized as such.

Her popularity had already been established; but today, if the improbable circumstances should arise for "electing" a queen to another term . . . Elizabeth II would win in a walk.

More Hazardous Days Of Driving Lie Ahead

With the coming of colder, worse weather of the winter months to North Carolina, driving conditions on the state's highways will worsen and the toll of deaths and injuries will take an upward turn.

According to the Motor Vehicles Department, October was the worst month on the state's highways since last December, and final figures for the month may push the October death tolls past the figure of 124 registered in December 1959.

It is important during these months of poorer driving conditions that motorists take extra precautions to prevent highway and traffic accidents. Days are growing shorter, presenting the increased hazard of more after-dark driving. Weather conditions will cause more rain and snow-slicked highways that further handicap the motorist.

Safe driving is the responsibility of every person who gets behind the wheel of an automobile. In the winter months particularly, the necessity for greater caution on the part of every driver is essential to keeping the highway toll from moving upward sharply.

Johnson, Lodge Are Sensitive

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — Those busy-people—the vice presidential candidates—could be using this time beating up on each other instead, they keep picking on the big boys.

Sen. Lyndon Johnson and Henry Cabot Lodge practically ignore each other while they hit a fast pace on the outskirts of the presidential campaign. But there's one thing they have in common: Both are sensitive to meddling.

For that matter, so is Vice President Richard M. Nixon. So far the only one who seems to have kept his temper with the hecklers all the way through is Sen. John F. Kennedy.

Johnson, acting as a pacifier in trouble spots for Kennedy, spends a good deal of his efforts deriding Republican performances and raising hopes high for a Democratic future.

In between times he is as "dangerously deceptive," accusing him of "doubletalk" and "pushing the panic button" and warning to look out for the "old Nixon."

But Johnson, after being Democratic majority leader in the Senate for years, is adroit enough not to bump heads with Kennedy. The same can't be said for Lodge. But, like Lodge, Johnson can get annoyed.

Republican pickets at a Democratic rally got under his skin at Greenville, S.C., when a youthful group of them paraded in front of him with anti-Johnson signs. They were a little too personal for the tall Texan.

One said "LBJ, the counter-freedom confederate" and another "Texas low horn." Johnson fired back: "Father, forgive them for they know not what they do." And he suggested the young hecklers' parents "get them back in the house."

Lodge manages to get in cracks at Kennedy but on a latter plane than Johnson inhabits in the campaign. The favorite theme of Lodge, for seven years American ambassador to the United Nations is that Nixon is a tested man.

This gives him the chance to suggest obliquely that Kennedy is not experienced enough for the presidency by suggesting the White House is not the place for "on-the-job training."

Lodge has demonstrated great calm in brushing aside unfavorable surveys. If polls abroad show a dip in American prestige, he says that he's a better judge of this country's prestige than the United States Information Agency. If polls at home indicate Kennedy is out in front, Lodge says he's not worried because "the polls can't predict what's going to happen."

But last week he pounded his fist and shouted angrily when some students at Western Reserve University heckled him on civil rights. Then he drew cheers when he said he favored strong civil rights legislation.

Possible Housing Problem

By PATRICIA MOORE

On 'Sizing Up People'

We just finished reading a most interesting book called "Sizing Up People" by Donald A. Laird and Eleanor C. Laird—about just that: sizing up people.

It has a few pointers on what to look for in people, what qualities to use as guides to understanding people and suggestions as to what qualities in oneself to discount when trying to "size up a personality." You might think such a book is geared for the employee—interviewer, the cool cat who beats a path to hire or fire.

Well, you're partially right. But it's a good little path to take toward being cube, man, cube. In other words, to gain a little knowledge that will air your insight into others, and thus keep from liking people you shouldn't like, or hiring those you shouldn't hire. Or not giving credit to those who are really cool cats and instead being fooled by a square who appears to be cube.

Get it, man? It's not a big-word speaking book; it's on a level which anyone can understand, man.

Cool, cool. Halloween. Here were three big daddy cats taking their little cats, four of them, around to these places called houses to "trick or treat." The little cats ate it up (the goodies) for three hours.

Then one little cat had enough of that stuff. When the shadows came to the door to heap plenty of goodies in the little kitties' bags, one little cat said, "I don't want any more, I don't want any more" in a deep gruff voice sort of beat-like. And the little cat said that for 25 more houses, or rather, the whole night.

This could change the whole concept of Halloween.

Now is the time for commendations. We must say that the Home Demonstration Club women of Pitt did themselves proud at their annual achievement observance held last week. For the first time, they invited husbands and had an evening banquet.

About 350 people showed up at the North Cafeteria of East Carolina College was overflowing. They had an international dinner, and foreign students from the college gave short talks, and there was other entertainment.

There's just one more little thing. What has happened to the television schedules? Tuning in to political rallies is terrible when you are expecting a favorite program, but some of these unscheduled programs, changes are just as surprising.

As far as politics is concerned, it's O. K. as long as it is MY candidate; others, well, you know how that is. Ever heard of voting against a political party that spoiled television programs?

(We aren't, but it's an interesting idea.)

Strength For Today

"Can you imagine President Eisenhower shouting names and banging on a UN desk with his shoe? Or even Harry Truman?" —Chattanooga News-Free Press.

"We can understand the case in which a fool and his money are soon parted. What puzzles us is how the fool got hold of money in the first place." —Cleveland (Ga.) Courier.

"After looking at the antics of the leaders of Russia and Cuba we wonder if Darwin wouldn't like to reconsider his theory of evolution." —Hawkinsville (Ga.) Dispatch and News.

"We all ought to be able to fix the size of the Thanksgiving turkey before having to worry over the height of the Christmas tree." —St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

"It seems to me the republic is in far greater danger from those who exercise the privilege of voting in an off-hand casual manner than from those who merely ignore the process altogether." —Sen. Barry Goldwater.

Words Being Twisted

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY Copyright, 1960, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Colonialism has become a bad word. Liberation has always been a good word. The Western Powers have abandoned colonialism because they do not wish to be smeared by bad words (there are also other reasons, perhaps as pressing). Soviet Russia calls colonialism liberation when it is associated with Soviet Russia. It is only colonialism when someone else does it. Ergo, Soviet Russia engages in a new kind of colonialism.

Let us take Cuba as an example. Spain practiced colonialism in Cuba. The United States went to war with Spain, occupied Cuba, gave Cuba its independence, in fact, liberated Cuba. So, we are gringos for doing that. We are colonialists, imperialists, exploiters because we liberated Cuba. Now, Soviet Russia is turning Cuba into a Soviet satellite which is colonialism, but it is called liberation. From whom is Cuba being liberated?

While other countries are receiving their colonial charters and are giving subject peoples their freedom, Soviet Russia has engaged in a new colonialism and so has Red China. Soviet Russia has become a successor to the Hapsburg Dynasty in the Danubian area. It has conquered and taken the Balkan area, well as the Baltic countries, Hungary, Rumania, Bulgaria, Albania, Czechoslovakia, Latvia, Lithuania, Estonia, and Poland have become colonies (satellites) of Soviet Russia. East Germany has become little more than a province of Soviet Russia. Mongolia is a hunting ground between Soviet Russia and Red China. And now, the Kremlin is moving into Ghana and Guinea and the Congo in Africa, while Red China has conquered Tibet and is moving into Ladakh, Nepal, Assam, and is seeking to operate southward until it reaches the Bay of Bengal. As soon as a country gains its freedom, Soviet Russia attempts to liberate it — this is, to control it.

It is estimated that between 1945 to 1960, 38 nations have won their freedom from Western European colonial powers, whereas Soviet Russia has extended its control over more than 25 countries. The list includes:

A. Nations or areas formally incorporated into Soviet Union: Ukraine, Georgia, Armenia, Azerbaijan, Lithuania, Latvia, Estonia, East Poland, East Prussia, Bessarabia and Northern Bukovina, Sub-Carpathian Ruthenia, Karelia, Sakhalin, Tannu Tuva, Kurile Islands.

B. Nations formally maintained as independent but in fact subject to Communist (Soviet and Chinese) colonial rule: China, Manchuria, North Vietnam, North Korea, Tibet, Outer Mongolia, Poland, East Germany, Rumania, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Bulgaria, Albania.

The Soviet plan is twofold: it conducts a violent agitation for liberation or supports a local party which seeks liberation. Then it steps in and takes over. Thus, in Indonesia, where Sukarno believes that he is independent and neutral, he is constantly being forced to move farther to the left and was required to bring with him to the United Nations General Assembly a Communist leader, perhaps because his Communists are so powerful or because he needed a monitor. At any rate, he was afraid of something.

The West has made a grievous error in giving up its colonies, particularly in Africa where in most countries there the people are not ready for self-government and where significant mineral deposits can fall into the hands of Soviet Russia. The rejection of colonialism by the Western Powers was forced by "the spirit of the times," a trite and meaningless phrase which can be defined as anyone chooses but which never means anything specific. What happened was that in each Western country many persons, hoping to avert war and to change the world, insisted upon moving hither-skeller into liberation movements, assuming that others are equally just and upright. The African leaders do not have sufficient popular support or a long enough tradition to appreciate the values of self-government any more than the various peoples of the vast territory of Soviet Russia know

Even A 'Recession' Not So Bad

By ELMER ROESSNER

We are going through a recession now, say some economists, some Democrats.

True; things are not as lush as we'd like them. They rarely are. But if we are in a recession, it is one of those fantastic recessions that is possible only in America.

The gross national product was at an annual rate of $494.1 billion in the third quarter. That's $41.1 billion higher than the rate in the third quarter of 1959.

It's also true that unemployment is up. There were 3,389,000 unemployed in September, compared with 3,230,000 in September, 1959. That's an increase of 159,000.

At the same time, there were 67,767,000 employed last September, compared with 66,347,000 a year earlier. That's an increase of 1,420,000 in a year. That's the kind of recession we are having.

Are taxes to blame? The figures show that the average income for every man, woman and child after taxes was at an annual rate of $1,984 in the third quarter of this year, compared with $1,909 in the third quarter of last year. A recession now? If so, it's a recession in which total personal and per capita income rose. Fantastic.

The politicians and the economists have been saying that the farmers are the real victims of the present recession. Let's look at the figures: Farm income in the third quarter was at an annual rate of $38.1 billion, while it was at a rate of $36.7 billion in the third 1959 quarter.

Another phenomenon about the current recession is that average industrial weekly earnings were only $90.68 in September. This was $1.61 a week less than the all-time high in January, 1960, but $1.11 more than in September, 1959.

The stock market has sagged. But corporate dividends in the third quarter were at an annual rate of $14 billion, and $13.6 billion in the same 1959 quarter.

Quickly Gives Up To Armed Posse

LAREDO, Tex. (AP) — Curtis Lee Jones, 38, Arkansas ex-convict accused of murder, rape and kidnaping, surrendered without a struggle Tuesday after the stolen horse on which he was attempting to escape stumbled and fell.

Jones, object of an intensive week-long manhunt, was captured on the Callahan ranch, 20 miles north of Laredo. He threw up his hands after a member of a posse fired a shotgun blast over his head. The shotgun was fired by state highway patrolman Jack Carpenter, one of four officers summoned to the ranch after being notified that Jones had forced a woman living there to feed him.

"I was coming in to give myself up," Jones later told Laredo newspaperman John Costello of radio station KVOZ. "I thought they were going to kill me. If he (Carpenter) hadn't shot at me I would have surrendered anyhow."

The capture ended a giant manhunt started six days ago after Jones kidnaped his 21-year-old cousin and her male companion in Fort Worth, tried to strangle the man with a rope and raped the young woman. He then kidnaped an expectant mother and her baby daughter from a rural home west of Fort Worth. The young mother and child were freed unharmed in San Antonio nine hours later.

The manhunt switched to Laredo Monday when Jones abducted a woman tavern owner and one of her employes in San Antonio, drove southward toward the Mexican border and freed the pair outside Laredo.

Jones will be turned over to authorities at Texarkana, Tex., where he is charged with the murder of ex-convict Doyle Jackson, 45.

Second Hearing Set Wednesday

AYDEN—A second public hearing on the proposed zoning ordinance and map for the city of Ayden has been scheduled for Wednesday, Nov. 16, at 7:30 p.m. in the town courtroom.

This hearing has been called by the Ayden Town Board. The Ayden Zoning Commission previously held a public hearing last week. The commission has recommended that the town board accept the zoning ordinance and map as it was originally presented.

The hearings enable the public to hear discussion of the proposal and to offer criticism and suggestions. Town Manager Cleveland Paylor said.

Ayden Club Met At Pitt Hospital

AYDEN—Ayden Rotarians, taking a fellow-member into consideration, held their Friday meeting at Pitt Memorial Hospital, where Rotarian Alton Rowe is a patient.

Rowe recently was awarded the 28-year perfect attendance pin. Members of his Rotary Club were hoping to help him win his 29-year pin by "going to him when he couldn't go to them."

A general discussion was held during the meeting, including topics such as the United Fund Drive.

Attendance Pins

Perfect attendance pins also were recently awarded to other club members. Rotarian Cleveland Paylor presented pins to the following:

- Corey Stokes, 17 years; Bill Johnson, 17 years; Fannie Edwards, 14 years; Ralph Hardee, 11 years; Mac Edwards, 11 years; Jack Quinerly, 10 years; Theibert Worthington, nine years.

Sees An Urgent Need For U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower says there is an urgent need for Americans to which have been followed in the vote to continue "the program and prudent economic policies which have been followed in the past eight years."

Speaking Tuesday on a political television program with Secretary of the Treasury Robert B. Anderson, Eisenhower said: "Let us make no mistake about it, the preservation of the confidence that the dollar will remain sound, is absolutely essential, both for the welfare of our citizens at home and the rest of the free world."

The President said his administration had been working since he took office "to do the things in our government that will help maintain a sound, honest dollar."

"In budget policy, this means the avoidance of deficit spending which can lead only to inflationary pressures. It means managing our debt so as to be as non-inflationary as possible. It means Federal Reserve operation of monetary policy to provide soundly for credit and money needs of a growing economy while avoiding creating excessive money and credit."

Anderson said Sen. John F. Kennedy, the Democratic presidential nominee, has not said how he would pay for programs advocated in the Democratic party platform.

Home-Stretch Campaign In State Keeps Up Hot Pace

Home-stretch campaigning kept up a fast pace today, with candidates on the trail across North Carolina.

Robert L. Gavin, Republican contender for governor, followed up a Fayetteville rally Tuesday night with a handshaking swing through the East. He was headed for Washington, N.C., and a rally and television appearance this evening.

Former Sen. William F. Knowland, now a California newspaper publisher, told the Fayetteville rally that Democratic presidential candidate John F. Kennedy has shown he lacks maturity for the job. Gavin shared the platform with Knowland.

Meanwhile, Terry Sanford shifted campaign from east to west. From a morning rally at Bayboro in Pamlico County, the Democratic candidate for governor flew to Shelby for a tour of Forest City and the surrounding area. He will be in Spindale tonight for the 11th Congressional District rally.

Sen. Robert C. Byrd, Democrat from West Virginia, will be the top speaker for the rally.

Sanford himself was the speaker Tuesday night for the Fourth Congressional District rally in Smithfield. He described the Republican party as the party for "people who look backward, who have little faith..." the Democratic party he added, is for those who "have faith in the future and confidence that they can do for themselves those things that will create better opportunity..."

Republicans prepared to roll in a big gun for a Saturday evening rally in Chapel Hill. Speaker for the occasion will be Henry Cabot Lodge, vice presidential candidate. He will be accompanied by his wife.

The affair in Memorial Hall at the University of North Carolina will be sponsored by the campus chapter of Youth for Nixon-Lodge, and the North Carolina Volunteer Democrats for Nixon-Lodge.

Knowland, former Senate majority and minority leader, said he believes Vice President Nixon holds the edge in California at this time. Both Nixon and Knowland are Californians. However, Knowland said if the voting had been held two weeks ago, Kennedy would have carried the state.

Harold D. Cooley, Fourth District congressman, got in another jab at Agriculture Secretary Benson in his remarks to the Smithfield rally. Cooley, House Agriculture chairman, said he was looking forward to seeing "dear cousin Ezra Benson buy that one-way ticket for the salt flats of Utah."

Gov. Hodges, also at the rally, said North Carolina is "not in doubt, but will be all the way Democratic."

From his campaign headquarters in Raleigh, Sanford put out a statement Tuesday, summing up his position as a candidate. "I have spelled out in detail for nearly a year my program for better schools, industrial development, raising of farm income, roads, mental hospitals, highway safety and over 30 other major subjects," he said.

"I have not had too much to say about the Republicans and what I have said has related only to their positions and lack of a positive program," he went on. "I have had nothing to say reflecting on their honesty and good intentions because I do not believe that exchange of public insults is a proper way to run a campaign."

Kennedy Camp Confident, But Avoiding Claims

Editor's Note: Geoffrey Gould of The Associated Press Washington bureau has traveled with both presidential candidates. Here he attempts to pinpoint some differences in strategy and approach.

By GEOFFREY GOULD LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sen. John F. Kennedy's camp is sufficed with an air of quiet confidence in these final days of the campaign, but there is no attempt to exploit it or display it ostentatiously.

Quite the reverse, in fact. It seems to be Kennedy's policy, and it is followed by all his aides, to avoid grandiose claims of victory.

On Monday in Philadelphia, Kennedy said in a speech, "I look to the future with some degree of hope." That's about as far as he went until Tuesday night. Under the stimulus of a "he's going to win" introduction by Adlai E. Stevenson, Kennedy said, "We're going to march forward to success and victory."

The Kennedy people keep saying they expect the result to be close. They decline to claim easy victory in any state.

Nor do they try to make much of the huge and tremendously enthusiastic crowds Kennedy draws almost everywhere. They decline to issue their own crowd estimates or even solicit them from police officials. They let the reporters do that for themselves if they wish.

This sort of playing it cool and close to the vest is a considered policy of Kennedy and his strategists. Last weekend news stories emanated from the camp of Vice President Richard M. Nixon to the effect that he believes he can carry most or all of the six big northern industrial states and will have a winning margin in electoral votes.

The stories got wide display. In the interest of achieving full coverage, the Associated Press asked Pierre Salinger, Kennedy's press secretary, if the senator or any of his aides desired to give their own estimates on a state by state basis.

Salinger's reply was terse. "We don't care to play that game," he said.

The business of comparing crowd estimates of the two candidates has been called "crowd-manship" by Nixon.

But Nixon at almost every speaking stop takes note of the crowd he has drawn, or mentions one at a previous stop. He says if such a crowd turns out for him he is sure to carry that state.

He also often says he senses a strong tide running in his favor, that he is certain of victory on Nov. 8.

Kennedy never mentions crowds in his speeches. He appears so eager to get his message across that he will hardly even let a crowd roar its approval. He cuts it short and resumes his rapid-fire delivery.

Sen. Kennedy Seriously Challenging Nixon's Hopes In His Home State

Editors Note—It takes 269 electoral votes to win the presidency, and six great states have about 70 per cent of that total. Here's an Associated Press story on the prospects in California, which has 32 electoral votes, the same number as Pennsylvania and second only to New York. Articles on Illinois, Texas and Pennsylvania will follow.

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Sen. John F. Kennedy is seriously challenging Richard M. Nixon where it may hurt the most — right here in the vice president's home state.

Some signs—disputed by Republicans—indicate Kennedy may take California. There's a strong feeling that it's going to be close. The polls haven't been much help. They have turned up enough of the undecided among 7½ million registered voters to swing the result for either man.

No doubt that's why the candidates themselves reserved California for the important last days of the campaign.

Kennedy is here now in his second round of appearances. Nixon, who made two earlier visits, plans to devote this weekend to his native state.

The latest professional poll — this among 3,018 voters in 16 of the 58 counties—favored Nixon 49.9 to 49.9 per cent, with 6.2 per cent on the fence.

But Las Vegas bookmakers list Kennedy as a 7-5 favorite in California.

Democrats feel the scene was set in 1958 when Gov. Edmund G. Brown, a Catholic, led a Democratic landslide that captured every state office but one.

This year the party staged a successful registration drive that gained 619,000 voters since the primary and boosted its 3-2 registration lead over the Republicans to 1.4 million. The GOP picked up 406,000 in the same period.

Democratic leaders say they're concerned only over the "silent vote"—those people who are quiet about it but intend to mark their ballot against a Catholic president.

"If it weren't for the religious issue, there would be no doubt of the outcome," says Roger Kent, Democratic state chairman, who nevertheless predicts Kennedy will carry California by a comfortable margin.

Gov. Brown, a self-styled optimist, predicts the Democratic ticket will coast in by one million or so.

V. John Krehbiel, Republican state chairman, says he isn't worried by registration showing the GOP badly outnumbered. That's an old story here, and Californians have built a tradition of independent voting.

Krehbiel is convinced, he says, that Democrats will cross party lines, as they did for President Eisenhower, who carried California each time by more than 600,000.

In the last 22 presidential elections, California has voted Republican 13 times, Democratic 8 and Bull Moose Republican once. The state has landed on the winning side of every presidential race since 1916.

The GOP chairman emphasized that Republican campaign workers expressly have been ordered not to mention the religious question. He said Democrats keep bringing it up "to stir up charges of bigotry."

Don Bradley, Democratic executive secretary, says the state has been flooded with anti-Catholic material and that it may cost Kennedy some normally Democratic counties in the San Joaquin Valley.

Democrats confidently claim Northern California; Republicans don't challenge this too hard. Bradley predicts Kennedy will capture the state's north, including San Francisco and Alameda counties, by 250,000.

Both camps insist they'll take Los Angeles County, home of a good 40 per cent of California's vote, although a political veteran remarked, "I don't know if anyone really knows the answer in Los Angeles."

The eight counties which make up Southern California command fully 60 per cent of the state total. This year, for the first time, Democrats lead in registration in the entire area. In the state as a whole, only three counties are predominantly Republican in registration.

Both sides agree on one point: The television debates helped Kennedy, hurt Nixon.

On the other hand, Republicans contend the Democrats have lessened Kennedy's chances by intraparty squabbling that first broke out at the Democratic National Convention.

The Democrats, however, appear to have patched up their differences pretty well. For instance, Sen. Clair Engle of California, who bucked Brown's preference for Kennedy and supported Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri, is now active as vice chairman of the Kennedy-Johnson campaign.

Delegates who held out for Adlai E. Stevenson at Los Angeles swung into line after the former Illinois governor vigorously took the stump for Kennedy in California.

Despite the prevailing opinion, there are some people who discount a close outcome. They think it will be decisive one way or the other. It's true enough that in six of the eight elections of the past 32 years, the margin of victory has been 475,000 or more.

Some Discrepancy On Highway Mileage Figures

By LYNN NISBET

RALEIGH—A difference in accounting methods results in the Bureau of Public Roads at Washington giving North Carolina credit for less completed interstate highway mileage than State figures show.

Speaking at the Carolina Motor Club directors luncheon at Sedgewick Field, R. D. Tallamy, Federal Highway Administrator, said North Carolina had 114 miles of interstate roads "completed to the full standards that, so far as we can see today, will meet the traffic requirements of 1975, and another 137 miles are adequate for present traffic."

The State folks claim 225 miles completed, 157 miles under contract a good part of which will be open within a few weeks. The discrepancy is due to two factors. One is that the federal figures do not include some recently activated mileage. More important is that the U. S. Bureau does not accept mileage as "completed" until all the proper signs, including the I-numbers, are posted.

The 225 miles claimed by the State has been completed to the degree that it is all four-laned controlled-access, with interchanges, pavement and shoulders meeting all Federal requirements.

North Carolina has 775 miles of the 41,000 in the whole interstate system. Sam Beard, public relations director for the highway commission, says that while several other states have more completed mileage, on percent basis North Carolina leads the field. By end of next year more than half the North Carolina mileage will be in use. The original deadline for completion of the entire system is 1972.

Tallamy emphasized that while the interstate system is the "show piece" of highway construction and gets most of the headlines, it is equally important to remember that there are 790,000 miles of other roads eligible for Federal aid. The Federal government pays 90 percent of the cost of the interstate highways, while on the other projects it is a 50-50 Federal-State basis.

Original estimates of the I-system total cost was $25 billion. That has been upped to $35 billion—and may go higher, due to many factors not contemplated in 1956. Tallamy insisted that construction cost should be considered in relation to other items—such as the saving in transportation costs, enhanced value of real estate, etc.

The Federal official adverted to reports of misuse of funds in connection with some projects. He noted that the I-system alone involved $35 billion dollars, handled in agreements with multiplied thousands of contractors employing an estimated million and a half people. "You just can't assemble a million and a half people," he said, "without getting some crooks." He thought it salutary that when the misfits are found—whether crooked or just stupid—they are quickly weeded out.

Local Man Retires After 21 Years With Dupont

Dick Culbertson of 223 Pineview Dr., Greenville, retired Monday from 21 years of service with the Dupont Company. He was Kinston Plant Stores Supervisor.

Culbertson was the first plant employee to retire under the Pension Plan provision, allowing pension at 65 and after at least 15 years of service.

A native of Woodleaf, N. C., he graduated from King's Business College. Later he enlisted in the United States Navy and was sent to Princeton University for Paymaster training. He was then commissioned an ensign. He remained in the Navy another year before going on inactive duty.

He joined the United States Department of Commerce and for some years was stationed on the Pribilof Islands, off the Alaska coast, in the Bering Sea. He served as American agent and caretaker of St. George and St. Paul's Islands, acting as U. S. Commissioner, Postmaster, Justice of the Peace, Register of Vital Statistics, U. S. Finance Officer, Jailer, Historian and Custodian of Government Alcohol and Liquors, among other duties.

During his stay in the Pribilofs, the Culbertsons' only son was born.

After that, Culbertson returned to the United States and joined Dupont Company at Richmond in their clerical department, until 1935 when he re-entered the U. S. Navy on active duty. After returning again to the Dupont Seaford, Del. plant, he was again called into active duty during World War II.

DICK CULBERTSON

He was awarded the Navy Unit Commendation (USS Calvert); Naval Reserve Medal with one bronze star; World War I Victory Medal; American Campaign Medal; European-African-Middle Eastern Campaign Medal with one bronze star; Asiatic-Pacific Campaign Medal; World War II Victory Medal.

He attained the rank of full captain.

Culbertson transferred to the Kinston Dupont plant as stores supervisor after serving in the Martinsville plant.

The Culbertsons plan to remain at their residence in Greenville following his retirement.

One Injured In Head-On Crash

AYDEN—One person was injured and two cars demolished Monday night in a head-on collision within the city limits, Ayden police reported.

The injured person was identified as Mrs. Malissa Parker, Negro, who was a passenger in a car driven by her son, Wallace Perkins Jr., 27, of Rt. 3, Box 334, Greenville.

Driver of the second vehicle was Charlie Lee Suggs, 52, of Rt. 2, Box 184, Ayden.

Investigating officers said the accident occurred when Perkins, driving east on Third Street, reportedly went across the center line of the street to collide head-on with the automobile driven by Suggs, which was going west on Third Street.

Perkins has been charged with careless and reckless driving. Officers said he will be tried Monday at 2 p.m. in Ayden Recorder's Court. He was released under $300 bond, police said.

Total damage to automobiles was estimated at $1,100.

Investigating officer was Patrolman Edward Hudson, assisted by Patrolman Clifton Dennis.

Republicans Making A Bid For Nearly Every Office

By LYNN NISBET

RALEIGH—For the first time in many years the Republican party in North Carolina has a candidate for every state and congressional district office on the November 8 ballot, except for one seat on the Supreme Court. Associate Justice Clifton L. Moore does not have an opponent.

Associate Justice R. Hunt Parker, Democrat incumbent, is challenged by Paul West, Republican aspirant, for an eight year term on the high court. Other names on the statewide and district ballots are:

Governor—Terry Sanford, Democrat; Robert L. Gavin, Republican.

Lieutenant Governor—H. Cloyd Philpott, Democrat; S. Clyde Eggers, Republican.

Secretary of State—Thad Eure, incumbent Democrat; David Morton, Republican.

State Auditor—Henry L. Bridges, incumbent Democrat; Dallas M. Resse, Republican.

State Treasurer—Edwin Gill, incumbent Democrat; Frederick R. Keith, Republican.

Superintendent of Public Instruction—Charles F. Carroll, incumbent Democrat; Mrs. Walter Zachary, Republican (only woman on the state ticket).

Commissioner of Agriculture—L.Y. (Stag) Ballentine, incumbent Democrat; A.H. Farmer, Republican.

Commissioner of Labor—Frank Crane, incumbent Democrat; T. Paul Messick, Republican.

Commissioner of Insurance—Charles F. Gold, incumbent Democrat; Julian E. Cameron, Republican.

Attorney General—T. Wade Bruton, incumbent Democrat; Donald L. Paschal, Republican.

Congress

U.S. Senator B. Everett Jordan, incumbent Democrat, is challenged by Kyle Hayes, Republican.

Ten of the 12 incumbent representatives in the Congress are seeking re-election. Voluntary retirement of Graham Barden in the third and Carl Durham in the sixth leave those two places open for new men. The score by district is as follows:

First: Herbert C. Bonner, incumbent Democrat; Zeno Ratcliff, Republican.

Second: L.H. Fountain, incumbent Democrat; L. Paul Gooding, Republican.

Third: David Henderson (new Democrat); Jack Brinson, Republican.

Fourth: Harold D. Colley, incumbent Democrat; E. R. Temple, Republican.

Fifth: Ralph J. Scott, incumbent Democrat; Russell F. Biggan, Republican.

Sixth: Horace Korneasay (new Democrat); Holland L. Robb, Republican.

Seventh: Alton A. Lennon, incumbent Democrat; Joel C. Clifton, Republican.

Eighth: A. Paul Kitchin, incumbent Democrat; A.M. Snipes, Republican.

Ninth: Hugh Q. Alexander, incumbent Democrat; W.S. Bogle, Republican.

Tenth: Charles Raper Jonas, incumbent Republican; David Clark, Democrat.

Eleventh: Basil Whitner, incumbent Democrat; Kelly Dixon, Republican.

Twelfth: Roy A. Taylor, incumbent Democrat; Heinz Rollman, Republican.

Governor Given Amended Plea

RALEIGH (AP)—Gov. Hodges will consider an amended petition filed by eight union men seeking to avoid serving prison terms for conviction on charges of conspiring to destroy cotton mill facilities.

Lawyers for the eight, who are scheduled to enter prison on Thursday, left the papers in Gov. Hodges' office Tuesday.

In a 14-page affidavit, Boyd E. Payton of Charlotte said he was confident "a fair and impartial hearing... will reveal that justice was not done in this case."

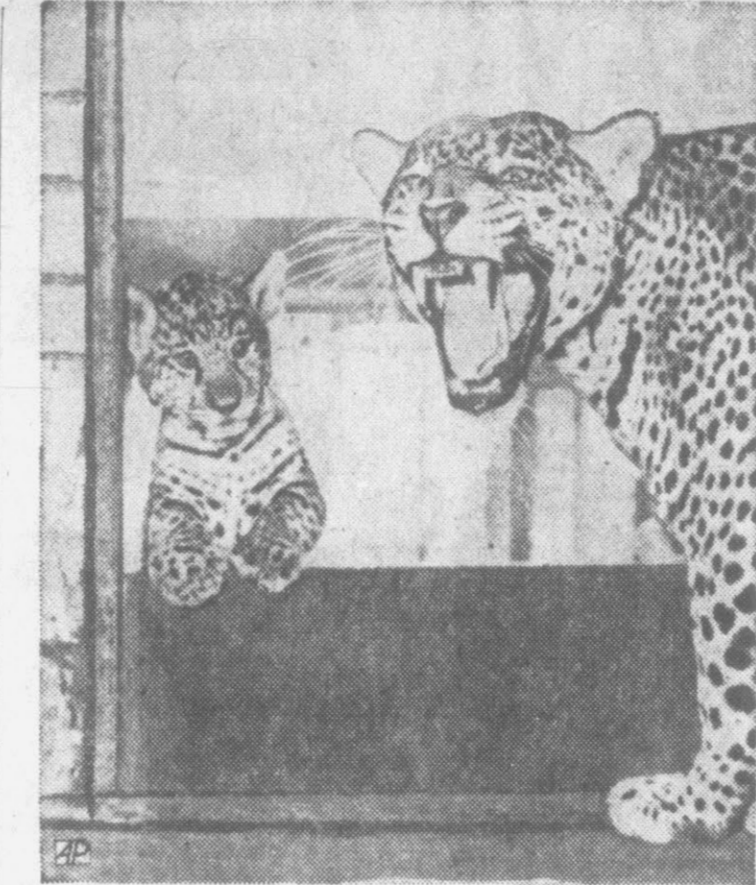

Payton, Carolina director of the Textile Workers Union of America, received a sentence of 6 to 10 years. He was a leader in the long unsuccessful strike at the Harriet - Henderson Cotton Mills. The charges grew out of a plot to dynamite mill property, unveiled by the State Bureau of Investigation.

Payton repeated his claim of innocence. "I have not committed any crime. I have never participated in or had any knowledge of any conspiracy," he asserted.

Gov. Hodges last week turned down a plea for executive clemency, acting on recommendation from the State Paroles Board.

In the amended petition, attorneys said it was invited by the governor's telegram containing his denial of the first petition. "If information had been placed before me showing that the defendants had not received a fair and impartial trial or showing that the defendants had been wrongfully convicted, I would have had some basis for exercise of executive clemency."

The amended petition added: "We place before you the affidavit of Boyd E. Payton which we think conclusively shows that we did not receive a fair trial and that we were wrongfully convicted."

GMC Dramatizes Rush Of U.S. Funds Abroad

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—The rush of Yankee dollars into investments abroad is dramatized by General Motors' announcement it is sharply increasing its overseas capital spending.

GM sights a growing market abroad for its products—and apparently feels it can best assure this market by building and expanding its plants on the scene.

The general trend in foreign investment outlays is noted by the department of Commerce. It says U.S. manufacturers this year are spending $1.3 billion for foreign plants and equipment. This is almost as much as the record of $1.35 billion in 1957, and $100 million more than was spent in either 1958 or 1959.

The motor industry has been one of the leaders in the movement. But the oil industry probably ranks first. The petroleum department of the Chase Manhattan Bank of New York puts the American oil companies' fixed assets abroad at $16 billion, out of a total industry overseas investment of $42.6 billion. This is in addition to the $54.7 billion of the industry's fixed assets in the United States. Total investment in

Guantanamo Defenses Said Adequate For The Job

By ELTON FAY
AP Military Affairs Writer

GUANTANAMO NAVY BASE, Cuba (AP)—The top U.S. naval commander in this area said today defense forces now at the U.S. naval base at Guantanamo Bay should be able to repel any attack until reinforcements can be sent.

Rear Adm. Allen Smith, commander of the Caribbean's 10th Naval District, told visiting newsmen, "the situation is tense because we are in a position of waiting for someone else to do something."

The admiral emphasized the United States is not pursuing any aggressive acts against Prime Minister Fidel Castro's regime.

Castro has accused the U.S. government of planning some sort of provocative incident to give a pretext for American military intervention in Cuba. U.S. officials have denied the charge, but President Eisenhower warned in a statement Tuesday that because of the Guantanamo base's "importance to the defense of the entire hemisphere," the United States "will take whatever steps may be appropriated to defend the base."

Smith disclosed that mine fields were planted along the boundary of the 45-square-mile Guantanamo reservation several weeks ago.

"The mine fields are labeled plainly," he said. "Dr. Castro has stepped up his tempo and we have taken steps accordingly. We have made our defense a little bit tighter."

Defending forces include a few hundred Marines, Marine and Navy fighter plane squadrons that come here for training purposes, destroyers usually anchored in the bay or nearby waters, plus virtually every one of the several thousand military men on the base.

"We are hoping they will not bother us but we are ready if they do," said the admiral. "We would like to hold out at least for a 72-hour period."

This should be time enough for more Marine ground forces, jet fighter outfits and ships from the United States and nearby Caribbean areas to arrive at Guantanamo.

Other officials responsible for the defense of the base recognize that acts short of open attack are possible.

Capt. C. W. Schoenweiss, acting commander of the base, was asked about the possibility of sabotage by Castro agents sneaking into the base or operating as part of the Cuban work force that comes in daily.

"It would make things unpleasant," Schoenweiss replied. "Between 3,000 and 4,000 Cubans work on the base."

"The danger is not so much of all-out attack as harassment and sabotage," said Schoenweiss. "I doubt Dr. Castro would see any wisdom in an all-out attack."

Outdoor Views

By Johnny Hudson

Clad in army-brown gear and with gun by side as if going to war, a friend came strolling by a couple of weeks back with an invitation to explore the outdoor sport of "hunting".

"Every man interested in sports should try hunting," informed my crony, using Ted Williams, the Boston Red Sox baseball star, as a living example. But my previous hunting background had been confined to a couple of squirrel-hunting excursions as a teenager.

And even on these trips, the little animals never had a sporting chance, aroused from their nest by a .22 and popped from the limbs with a 12-gauge shotgun. (Just kidding)

Several other invitations followed and just as we decided to enter the new-fangled activity, a report came from Michigan, informing us of 32 accidents on the opening hunting day. This sent us fleeing back to the safety of our typewriter.

But with courage built up again, I am tackling the problem in a milder form, with a weekly column on man and nature (hunting, fishing, etc.)

Being limited in the field, I am leaving an open door for hunters and fishermen in this area to step forward without modesty in helping supply the material for this column.

Any contributions in forms of letters, phone calls, interesting tales, and photos will be graciously accepted, just drop us a line in care of Sports Dept., Daily Reflector or give us a ring, PL 2-6166.

Hunting Getting To Be Risky

"You can't hit what you can't see."

This reversal of the popular old baseball adage should be acknowledged by every American hunter as the 1960 season gets underway, according to the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness.

"Hunting today has become nearly as risky for the hunter as it is for the animal," warns John W. Ferree, M.D. "Each year," he points out, "thousands of woodsmen are killed or injured in hunting accidents that need never have happened."

During the past 10 years, nearly one of every five hunting accident casualties proved fatal, according to estimates of the National Rifle Association, and in the same period, the shooter hit another hunter in almost 75 per cent of the accidents.

A Few Tips For The Hunters

The first steps in reducing the toll of fall tragedies should take the hunter to an eye specialist's office for a thorough visual examination, explained Dr. Ferree. While eye tests are not mandatory for hunting license applicants in most states, he noted, any safety-conscious person will welcome the advice of an eye doctor as a means to keep him and his fellow sportsmen alive.

Here are a few hunting tips to be passed along to the reader: (1) Wear hunting clothes of bright and easily noticed colors (fluorescent orange and golden yellow best colors). (2) Get out of the woods before dark. Visibility diminishes with sundown. (3) If you wear glasses regularly inquire about shatter-proof safety lenses for woodland wear to protect your eyes from twigs, and other field dangers.

Betty, Moorman Lead In AC Loop

Maryland quarterback Dale Betty and Duke end Tee Moorman today were named as the Associated Press Atlantic Coast Conference back and lineman of the week.

Betty, 170-pound sophomore of Butler, Pa., completed 13 of 18 passes in leading the Terps to a 15-0 victory over South Carolina. Moorman nosed out teammate Butch Allie, a center, for lineman honors with a great offensive and defensive performance in the 6-0 triumph over Georgia Tech.

Moorman, 210-pound senior of Miami, Fla., snared six passes for 56 yards to run his season total to 30.

Allie, 200-pound senior of Stateville also turned in an outstanding performance. Duke Assistant Coach Carmon Falcone said Allie was largely responsible for stopping Georgia Tech's sweeps, "and his line-backing work was outstanding."

Betty helped set up Maryland's first touchdown with his passing and running and flipped a 28-yard aerial to end Hank Poniatowski for the other touchdown.

Maryland halfback Tom Brown and Duke halfback Deane Wright received mention for the back of the week. Brown caught five passes for 30 yards, covered a South Carolina fumble on his own 10 and returned an intercepted pass 41 yards. Wright was Duke's busiest ball carrier against Georgia Tech, carrying 15 times for 55 yards. He crashed over from the one in the final period for the game's only score.

Maryland end Gary Collins was nominated for lineman honors. He caught three passes for 42 yards, including a key 19-yarder in the first touchdown drive against South Carolina. His punting included a quick kick for 50 yards.

Pirate Of The Week

BOB GREGSON . . . defensive standout

East Carolina lost its first football game of the 1960 season last week to Appalachian State Teachers College by the slim margin of 21-17, but the loss was of no fault of senior guard Bob Gregson.

A native of Asheboro, Gregson played his first years of collegiate football at Wingate Junior College. The 185-pounder was a standout in the Wingate forward wall for two seasons before transferring to East Carolina last year. Ridden with injuries most of last season, Gregson has come in to his own on this year's Pirate club. He has been one of the defensive sparkplugs in East Carolina's many goal line stands this season and has also had a share in opening holes for a most of fleet Pirate backs.

Thus, the senior guard became the Athlete of the Week with his sensational defensive effort against the App.

The agile little guard outplayed his larger Appalachian foe. Both took a physical beating but in the end, Gregson, with his nose broken, had complete control, pushing the App guard in any direction he wanted to move him.

It was probably the best game for Gregson, who is accustomed to playing on a winning team. The pint-sized guard will be trying to get his club back on the right tracks Saturday against Lenoir Rhyne.

Bob, who often slips through the line to spill an opponent back for a loss, relies on quickness as his main asset. Coach Jack Boone figures him as one of the quickest linemen in the North State Conference.

Navy Has Highest Respect For Duke

By BUD THALMAN
ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP)—Two Navy linemen who help anchor a powerful Middle forward wall regard Duke as Navy's toughest opponent since Washington.

Center Frank Visted and guard John Hewitt say that the Blue Devils are big, deep and can throw either a running or passing game at you.

Fourth-ranked Navy and Duke, ranked No. 13, meet in one of the nation's top football attractions Saturday at Durham, N.C.

Navy is 7-0 for the season and has won 10 straight. Its closest call this season came at Washington where the Tarps escaped with a 15-14 victory. Duke is 5-1 on the campaign and features a 6-0 victory over Georgia Tech in its most recent outing.

Visted is a 217-pound senior from Smithtown, N.Y., and as a linebacker and defensive signal caller has been a bulwark of Navy's defense the past two seasons. Hewitt, another star in Navy's 14-7 victory over Notre Dame last Saturday, weighs in at 187. He's a junior from Belle Vernon, Pa.

Both linemen agree that Washington was their toughest opponent thus far. But as far as line play is concerned, they think Notre Dame was the roughest they've encountered.

The two linemen think Navy has a chance to go all the way to its first undefeated season, if, as Hewitt put it, "we take one game at a time." Hewitt said the Middle couldn't even afford to let up against hapless Virginia, which has lost 24 in a row and will play Navy next week.

LR Still Second But Apps Jump

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Top-rated football teams are rough on their opponents.

Southern Illinois University and Lenoir Rhyne, one-two again this week in the NAIA rankings, each scored in the 60s last weekend and held their positions. Three other teams in the top eight scored 40 points or more.

Southern Illinois beat Eastern Michigan 66-8 and Lenoir Rhyne drubbed Georgetown of Kentucky 63-14. Both winners have 7-0 records.

Southeastern Louisiana College (7-0) edged past Humboldt State of California (7-0) for third place. Florida A&M remained in fifth place after swamping South Carolina State 80-0.

Tied for 18th place are Appalachian State of North Carolina (6-1), McNeese State of Louisiana (5-2) and Idaho State (4-2).

Wild Card Rules Gets Approval

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—College football's wild card substitution rule apparently has received the overwhelming approval of coaches and fans alike, the chairman of the NCAA Rules Committee said today.

Gen. Robert R. Neyland, University of Tennessee athletic director and head of the committee, said he had heard nothing but praise for the rule.

"It definitely has speeded up the college game, and, I think, has made it more interesting," Neyland said.

The rule allows a coach to send in one player between plays without taking a time out or a penalty.

Southern Cal. Guard Through For The Season

By BOB MYERS

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Mike McKeever's college football days are over and only time will tell if he plays later as a professional.

The big University of Southern California guard successfully underwent an emergency operation Tuesday night for removal of two blood clots on the right side of the brain.

The operation followed a diagnosis by a team of medical experts who discovered fresh blood in a spinal tap of the 20-year-old, 232-pound athlete, who was a third-team choice in last year's Associated Press All-America selections.

Dr. Thomas Cline, USC team physician, said surgeons believe the first clot may have been caused by an injury McKeever sustained in the Ohio State game Oct. 1. Since then his health has deteriorated. He complained of headaches after the Ohio State game, played only one-half of the game against Georgia, Oct. 8, and a week later, against California, suited up but did not play.

Last week he played 40 minutes against Stanford and was accidentally kicked in the head. He had been unable to hold any food until he was taken to Cedars of Lebanon Hospital Tuesday.

Surgeons said the operation took about two hours and that McKeever, when informed the surgery was necessary, expressed a wish to get it started at once.

With him in the hospital were his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William McKeever, his fiancée, Judy Primrose; his brother, William, and his twin brother, Marlin, who was The Associated Press' All-America selection last year as an end. Mike and Marlin plan a double wedding Dec. 3. Marlin marrying Suzie Blackman. Doctors said Mike probably can be sent home in about a week.

Hundreds of telegrams flooded the hospital after the news that McKeever was to undergo surgery. "We think of you as a great opponent," said a telegram of good wishes from the Sportsmen of the South, a UCLA group. UCLA end coach Bob Bergdahl said, "All UCLA and the UCLA team wish you a speedy and complete recovery." The Bears are pulling for you," wired Herb Weiner of California.

Losing Streaks Go On Line In UNC-Tiger Game

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A couple of three-game losing streaks go on the line Saturday when Clemson and North Carolina collide in an Atlantic Coast Conference football game in Frank Howard's "Death Valley."

Howard, the Clemson coach, will have hard-running Bill McGuirt, the 204-pound sophomore linebacker, ready for action. McGuirt, from Lancaster, S.C., missed last weekend's loss to Vanderbilt because of a charley horse. However, he was back in uniform Tuesday and running well, coaches said. The ACC's leading scorer with 36 points, McGuirt also boasts Clemson's best rushing record—picking up 168 yards in 60 tries—although sitting out one game.

Clemson is 3-3 on the season. The Tigers lost two games by two points each and were bounced 21-6 by ACC leader Duke. North Carolina, meanwhile, brings an 8-3 ACC record and 1-5 overall slate to Clemson.

The Clemson and North Carolina losing streaks are the longest among ACC teams except for Virginia's 24 straight. The Cavaliers, who play Navy next week, are idle this weekend.

Duke, ranked No. 13 in the nation by the Associated Press, worked long and hard on offense and defense Tuesday. Coach Bill Murray's Blue Devils bid for more national prestige when they play undefeated and 4th ranked Navy this Saturday. Duke has only a 31-6 pounding from Michigan marring a six game record.

A conference feature Saturday will be North Carolina State's invasion of Wake Forest. The Wake team concentrated on defense in its drills Tuesday, and Coach Billy Hildebrand warned the Deacons they must stop N.C. State's Roman Gabriel on both the ground and through the air. Wake Forest is 2-4 overall and 2-2 in the ACC.

N.C. State (3-1 and 5-2) concentrated on offense and defense. Coach Earle Edwards said sophomore Skip Matthews, a 205-pounder from Hertford, N.C., had been moved to the right guard post.

"We'll get the iron test this week," says Maryland's Coach Tom Nugent. The Terrapins are the season and riding a three-game victory. Among Penn State losses are defeats by USC, Missouri, No. 2 in the nation, and Syracuse, No. 9.

South Carolina's Coach Wade Giese has re-installed senior Costen at quarterback. Costen started the first four games of the Gamecocks, but gave way Saturday to Dave Sowell, who suffered a thigh injury and may miss Saturday's game against Louisiana State University. South Carolina has 1-4 record.

Stengel Offered Detroit Position But Wants Time

By DAVE DILES
Associated Press Sports Writer

DETROIT (AP) — An impatient John E. Fetzer may not be able to wait the three weeks Casey Stengel says it would take him to decide whether he wants to manage the Detroit Tigers.

Fetzer, the club's president and principal owner, made a surprise trip to the West Coast and visited for several hours with Stengel Tuesday.

Fetzer offered Stengel a multiple-year contract to become the eighth manager of the Tigers in 10 seasons. But Stengel, 70, fired last month after a dozen seasons as manager of the New York Yankees, said he would like to think it over. Stengel said he had several offers in baseball but would make no decision for about three weeks because he wanted to "rest and take it easy."

The Tigers have been without a manager since early last month when Joe Gordon stunned them with a surprise resignation. A few days later, Fetzer acquired majority control of the sixth-place team.

Fetzer, who has had Rick Ferrell, his assistant, screening candidates for several weeks, said he decided to take a personal hand in the matter "because we want to get this thing settled and get on with the business of building a better baseball team."

"I wanted to visit personally with Stengel to get the feel of the man," said Fetzer. "I wanted to discuss things generally with him, and he was courteous and gracious enough to spend some time with me."

"I was very impressed also with his knowledge and background and he expressed a great personal interest in what we are attempting to do in Detroit."

But Fetzer added in a telephone interview from Los Angeles, that Stengel did not express a real interest in managing the Tigers.

"He has a bushel basketful of offers on his desk," Fetzer said. "He is tired and he wants to rest. He doesn't know what he wants to do right now. First, he wants to let the dust settle a bit."

Fetzer said he had no plans to meet again with Stengel, but indicated he might discuss the Tiger job with Bill Rigney, who also resides on the West Coast.

"I have no plans to talk with Rigney," said Fetzer, "but it might turn into that. I don't like the idea of having to wait three weeks. I wouldn't mind it, if I knew we could get Stengel."

Navy Picked To Topple Duke; Tigs Over Carolina

By HAROLD CLAASSEN
NEW YORK (AP) — Just another reminder the late Bob Zuppke once explained a football as a prolate spheroid filled with crazy bounces. There were 16 real crazy bounces along with the 39 correct guesses last week for a .709 average. (Season's figures: 250 right, 81 wrong, .755 average).

This week's picks:

Iowa over Minnesota: Iowa, with its speed, is the irresistible force. Minnesota, with its powerful line, is the immovable object. On the football field speed usually wins.

Missouri over Colorado: Mel West and his playmates guide the Tigers to a Big Eight Conference championship.

Navy over Duke: Joe Bellino will find a way of bringing sadness to the Durham crowd. Another close one.

Ohio State over Indiana: A mere romp for the Buckeyes.

Mississippi over Chattanooga: How did this ever get in here?

Southern California over Washington: It might be different if Bob Schloredt were able to play for the Huskies.

Tennessee over Georgia Tech: But the Volunteers will have their hands full with Stan Gann.

Syracuse over Army: The Cadets have been playing in an entirely different league.

Elsewhere: Rice over Arkansas, Baylor over Texas, Auburn over Mississippi State, Pittsburgh over

Notre Dame, UCLA over California, Purdue over Michigan, Friday night

Richmond over George Washington, Detroit over Marquette, Miami over Florida State, Saturday

EAST: Cornell over Brown, Buffalo over Connecticut, Washington & Lee over Carnegie Tech, Colgate over Bucknell, Dartmouth over Columbia, Hampden Sydney over Franklin & Marshall, Holy Cross over Dayton, Penn State over Maryland, Princeton over Harvard, Rutgers over Lafayette, Delaware over Temple, Boston College over Villanova, West Virginia over Boston University, Yale over Pennsylvania.

MIDWEST: Oklahoma over Iowa State, Kansas over Nebraska, Michigan over Illinois, Oklahoma State over Kansas State, Tulsa over Wichita, Wisconsin over Northwestern.

SOUTH: Alabama over Furman, The Citadel over William & Mary, Clemson over North Carolina, Georgia over Florida, Kentucky over Vanderbilt, Louisiana State over South Carolina, Virginia Military over Lehigh, Virginia Tech over Davidson, North Carolina State over Wake Forest.

SOUTHWEST: Cincinnati over Houston, Hardin-Simmons over North Texas State, Texas A & M over Southern Methodist, Texas Tech over Tulane.

FAR WEST: Air Force over Denver, Arizona State over Texas Western, Arizona over Idaho, Montana State over Montana, Oregon over Stanford, San Jose over College of Pacific, Wyoming over Utah State, Washington State over Oregon State.

Pitt End Receives Top Honors In Win

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Almost any football lineman will tell you it's fun to play on defense. There's a feeling of satisfaction in getting your hands on opposing runners and bringing them to earth with hard tackles.

Mike Ditka, Pitt captain and end, is no different. He had a wonderful time last Saturday in gumming up the Syracuse offense as the Panthers scored a 10-0 upset.

His feats brought him honor today as he was named lineman of the week by The Associated Press.

Ditka, a 21-year-old senior from Aliquippa, Pa., spent most of the afternoon in the Syracuse backfield. He was in his glory making tackle after tackle. He didn't confine his efforts to defense. He was good when Pitt had the ball, too.

Two former linemen of the week were high up in the voting in the weekly AP poll by sportswriters and broadcasters.

Allen Green, the Mississippi center whose last-second field goal beat Arkansas the previous Saturday, came through again for Ol' Miss last week. This time his two field goals gave the Rebs a 6-6 tie with Louisiana State.

Stats Show VPI Line As Tough

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — The statistics finally have begun to corroborate the notion that Virginia Tech's line is the best in Southern Conference football.

After seven games, the Techmen have taken over the league lead in rushing defense, but it was a long climb.

Four weeks ago, Tech was only the fifth best team in the conference in rushing defense with an average yield of 182 yards per game. Since then only one touchdown has been scored against the Techmen in three games and the rushing yield now is down to 148.3 yards.

Davidson — which plays Tech this week—is No. 1 in the league in total defense with a yield of 216.6 yards per game. The Citadel's 231.1 yards average is second and Furman, 235.3, is third.

Furman is tops in total offense, replacing VMI. The Hurricane is averaging 316.3 yards per game as against 306.3 for the Keydets. The Citadel's 259.6 yards per game is third.

Most of Furman's yardage has come on the ground. It's average of 247 yards rushing per game is far ahead of the 180-yard average of Virginia Tech, in the second position. Third is The Citadel, 170.1 yards per game.

VMI still is ahead of the rest of the conference in passing offense with a lofty average of 165 yards per game through the air. Third in passing is The Citadel, averaging 90.9 yards per game.

Davidson's pass defense, allowing 56.6 yards per contest, tops that category.

Bob Grieve is in his 15th season as Syracuse University cross-country coach.

Way Cleared For Portsmouth Team

PORTSMOUTH, Va. (AP) — City Council has cleared the way for establishment of a South Atlantic League baseball franchise here by formally approving the lease of Portsmouth Stadium for only $600 rental.

City Manager Aubrey Johnson was authorized by council Tuesday night to sign the stadium lease with the owners of the Savannah, Ga., Sally League club, who plan to move the franchise to Portsmouth.

The lease will specify that the city will bear the cost of making necessary improvements to the stadium, as well as the cost of lighting it for night games and keeping it in proper condition.

The William B. MacDonald Jr. Corp. of Miami, which also operates the Miami club in the International League and the Tampa club in the Florida State League, will operate the team here.

Formal signing of the lease is scheduled today, with Joe Ryan and Marshall Fox representing MacDonald, a millionaire sportsman. Other teams in the league still must approve the franchise transfer.

Portsmouth has not had a team in organized baseball since the old Class B Piedmont League flopped financially and folded in 1955.

Frick Orders Major Leagues To Get Together

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick has ordered the American and National leagues to cease their bickering and get together on any future expansion.

Frick, openly disturbed over competition for the more lucrative franchise, met with league presidents Joe Cronin and Warren Giles Tuesday and insisted on complete cooperation.

"I don't give a darn about the two leagues," he said. "I don't care who goes where as long as the new cities meet the requirements. Any further expansion steps should be taken jointly. This doesn't mean one league cannot expand without the other. It simply means that one league should let the other know of its plans—and also the commissioner. I'm against secret meetings in which a city suddenly finds it has a major league franchise."

Frick announced a procedure for 1961 staffing of Los Angeles and Washington, the new American League clubs. No provisions were made to supply players for Houston and New York, the new National League clubs, since they are not to operate until 1962.

Los Angeles and Washington will be entitled to sign free agents and buy or trade players under existing rules. They also will have special draft privileges.

Under normal rules, they would not be permitted to draft, because they didn't operate last season. But, at the end of the regular major league draft Nov.

VMI Keydets Confident Of Winning Saturday

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

VMI's football team is fresh out of winning streaks at present, but the Keydets figure this will be only a temporary situation. They hope to start another one this week against Lehigh.

For the Keydets, winning streaks have become habit-forming, so when their 14-game undefeated skein ended last weekend at Memphis State, the reaction was more determination than anger or despair.

28, they can get two players each at the regular selection price of $25,000 for each contract. In this special draft, not more than one player may be drafted from one club and first year men eligible in the regular draft, will be excluded.

Frick said the American League has agreed on a formula for supplying to them players from the roster of the current eight clubs, but he did not go into details. It is believed that all but 15 players from each club will be made available for purchase. No more than three players may be bought by the newcomer from one club. The price would be $50,000 to $75,000 a player.

"I am convinced the two new clubs will have pretty good ball teams," Frick said. "At first I feared they would have nothing but left-overs and discards. But I know now that the American League will provide them with good, substantial players."

The Heisman Award was named in memory of John W. Heisman, a former Brown and Pennsylvania lineman, who coached football for 37 years.

Hardly had the final gun sounded on Memphis State's 21-8 victory when quarterback Howard Dyer, the VMI sparkplug, was vowing "We'll take the rest of our games," with his teammates shouting agreement.

The winning habit developed in 1957, when the Keydets started a streak in which they went unbeaten—though three times tied—in 13 games. Even the oldest members of the 1960 squad can recall only four defeats.

Star quarterback Warren Price was out with an arm injury in Virginia Tech's practice Tuesday. Quarterbacks Elmer Reed, Harold Ward and Aster Sizemore led the top three units in offensive work against the freshmen. Allen Whittier and Rickey Tolley shone in the defensive line.

Richmond, with three players sidelined indefinitely with injuries, had a look at George Washington's triple-slot offense, then turned to a session on pass defense.

Davidson huddled down to concentrated work on defense as the Wildcats prepped for Saturday's game at Virginia Tech. The varsity looked at Tech players as executed by the frosh, then worked on kicks and punt returns.

End Bill Allen and end Ed Harrington looked sharp at The Citadel, where the Bulldogs split time offense, defense and punters. Furman worked against the Alabama offense as executed by the freshmen.

William and Mary set defenses against The Citadel's varied attack after extensive tackling drills. West Virginia labored on passing offense and defense. Guard Pete Tolley still was absent, after a death in his family, and Coach Gene Corum had sophomore Bob Fuller in his place.

WHO'LL BE THE NEXT FIRST LADY?

MRS. PATRICIA RYAN NIXON

Ask Patricia Nixon or Jacqueline Kennedy about the possibility that either one might live in the Presidential mansion, and you'll get practically the same answer. Says Mrs. Nixon: "It's a long way from that. I never think ahead, then I won't be disappointed, I'm sort of superstitious." And Mrs. Kennedy replies: "I really think it would be silly to talk about that now."

In the meantime, both women are doing what they can, in their own way, to root their husbands in. Pat Nixon is at her husband's side every moment as he makes his campaign swing. Jackie Kennedy would like to be with her husband too, as she was last spring during the primaries, but she's expecting her second child in November, and doctor's orders forbid her to make the strenuous trips. So she's content to rest and make their Georgetown home a retreat where Kennedy can escape pressure. Occasionally she'll be with him when he speaks nearby.

Pat Nixon has seen her husband through successful campaigns since he first ran for Congress in 1946. One Washington political observer characterized the Nixons — he's 47 and she's 46 — as "one of the great husband and wife teams in American political history. Nixon handles the big talk. Pat takes care of the small talk."

A socialite heiress who looks like a fashion model, 31-year-old Jacqueline Kennedy paid little attention to politics until she married into it. That was in 1953 when John Kennedy was 36 and a United States Senator from Massachusetts. She professes to like the quiet, introspective life. Her major aim: "I'd like to have a lot of children."

MRS. JACQUELINE BOUVIER KENNEDY

Patricia Ryan in 1937, 3 years before she wed Richard Nixon. This is photo she attached then to teacher placement application to University of Southern California.

Pat Nixon has been perfect partner for husband's climb up the political ladders. She's been with him on all campaign trips. Here they're greeted in Indianapolis.

Jacqueline Lee Bouvier in 1953 when her engagement to U. S. Senator John F. Kennedy was announced. Their wedding in Newport that year was big social event.

Jacqueline Kennedy speaks for husband in Wisconsin when he suspended appearances in state primary campaign to return to Washington for vote on civil rights legislation.

For White House ball, Mrs. Nixon wears blue satin bouffant gown. Skirt is topped by bodice embroidered in pearl and crystal.

Pat says she loves meeting people. She gets warm greeting from little boy when the Nixons visited Honduras.

Attending formal dinner, Jacqueline wears sack type gown. It's "unfair," she says, when women critics describe her as "too chic."

Jacqueline finds politicking is tiring, so grabs rest with book on plane during spring primary campaign in Wisconsin.

The Kennedys — Jack, Jacqueline and daughter, Caroline, 2 1/2 — pose on lawn of their Hyannis Port, Mass., home.

JAMES KEENE'S New Historical Novel IRON MAN, IRON HORSE

WHAT HAS HAPPENED

Was Ben Holliday enough of an iron man to make the iron horse run? Towns were still few and far between in North Texas in the Eighties. Some big ranchers fought railroads that cut through open ranges and brought in settlers. The Indians' anger against any invasion of their ancient domain had risen to fanatical fury after the destruction of buffalo herds wherever rails were laid. Some railroad ventures into the prairies had been abandoned. The Midland-Pacific R.R. was falling into bankruptcy when Ben Holliday's wealthy father turned over the line to his son.

Ben didn't want to have to learn anything from failure. But even the smaller ranchers, whom he expected to ship their cattle to market by train, were turning away from the rails and back to the trails because of Indians' concentrated attacks on the railroad.

CHAPTER 5

Ben Holliday stood by the corner windows of his office for a time and looked south along the unused roadbed made for the railroad. His concentration seemed to center on a point far down the tracks, then he got a pair of binoculars out of his desk and adjusted them. For a full minute he made his observations through the glasses, then he put them away and stepped out to the smaller office across the hall.

Fred Casten, the timekeeper, was bringing his daily pay sheets up to date, and he looked around as Holliday stuck his head in the door.

"Harry Lovell is pumping the handcar up the track," Holliday said. "I want a meeting of all superintendents in my office in an hour."

Casten nodded, and Ben Holliday went down the stairs and walked to the switchyard. The maintenance super came out of the roundhouse, and when he saw Holliday standing by the tracks he walked over. "Is that Lovell coming back?" He lit a cigar, then held it tightly clamped between his teeth. "Well, good luck, Mr. Holliday. So far all we're having is bad."

"A man makes his own luck," Ben said.

Kisdeen grinned. "I said that myself, when I was thirty." He turned and went back to his job and Ben Holliday waited while the handcar grew larger and finally came to a stop on one of the sidings.

Harry Lovell brushed the dust from his clothes and picked up his brief case. He was tucking a rifle in the crook of his arm when Ben Holliday came up. A grin came over Lovell's florid face and he patted the brief case. "Four signatures, Ben. Is that enough?"

"Yes," Holliday said, relieved. "I wanted more, but I can force the others into line now." He laughed. "Get cleaned up, then come to my office. And thanks for a good job, Harry."

"I was a little disappointed myself," Lovell said.

They walked back to the administration building together and Lovell went into his room on the lower floor while Ben climbed the stairs to his office. When he sat down behind his desk, he felt good for the first time since he'd arrived. Four signatures; he considered this a good start. A very good start.

Ollie Skinner came back and Ben Holliday sent him right out again to Comanche to invite Marshal Jim Bender to the meeting.

Bender arrived early. He came in and wiped sweat from his face with a large bandana.

"Marshal," Holliday said, "what does that job pay you a month?"

"Sixty."

"I'll pay seventy-five."

Bender raised his eyebrows. "Must be a big job."

"It could work into that," Holliday said. "The salary will go up in relation to your value to the railroad." He leaned back in his chair and studied Jim Bender. "You've been a puzzle to me. I've never been able to figure out who you're for or against. Have you been walking the fence long?"

"All my life," Bender said. "It's easier to be for everything and against nothing, as long as I get what I want." He shook out his tobacco into a paper and rolled it.

"You think I want to be a small-town marshal all my life?" Jim Bender laughed. "A town's just a town, Mr. Holliday, just a big and not much chance of getting bigger. Now a railroad's different. This line is part of another line, which is part of another. A man could grow and never worry about bumpin' his head against the top. Are you still interested in lining up?"

"Yes," Ben Holliday said. "I'm of the opinion that you'll make a good company man, Jim."

"I guess there are worse things," Bender admitted. "Your man came back, huh?"

"Yes," Holliday said, "and with some luck." He leaned forward and folded his hands tightly together. "I'm going to take a train south to the end of the line. In thirty days I intend to have the rust worn off those rails."

"And Indian trouble," Bender said. "They don't like the railroad."

Claim they scare the buffalo, and they ain't going to stand still for it. Sure, they won't bother you, because they can't shoot a train off the track, but they'll raid every ranch house in North Texas to get even. That's how come you're not running trains now; surely you know it. The Texans figure it's simpler to drive cattle than to ship them and fight Indians over it."

"Do they think this situation can last forever?" Holliday asked.

"The railroad is here to stay, Jim. The Indians have to face that, and so do the Texans. I know they've been fighting Comanches and Apaches for fifty years and they're tired of it. But what if I could run the road without a fight?"

Bender laughed. "Mr. Holliday, you'd find it easier to walk on water. You don't see that trick very often."

Footsteps came down the hall, and Holliday's door opened. Harry Lovell came in first with his brief case, and he frowned slightly when he saw Jim Bender sitting there. The others filed in and sat down, and Holliday didn't bother to introduce Bender, since they all knew him by sight. He waved them into chairs, then glanced at Harry Lovell, who was taking papers from his brief case.

These were slid across Holliday's desk, and he studied them carefully for a few minutes. Finally he pushed them aside and swiveled his chair around so he could cock his feet up on an open drawer.

"Kisdeen, if I wanted to take a train south, how soon could a work train leave?"

"As soon as the engineer got steam up, Mr. Holliday."

They all straightened in their chairs and their attention sharpened as they looked at Emil Kisdeen. Ben Holliday said, "I want every telegraph pole we have loaded, every roll of wire, every wire insulator. A full work crew will be ready to leave tonight." His glance switched to Matt Donovan, the chief telegrapher. "Get me four telegraphers, Matt. And have their gear with them because they won't be coming back for a while."

"Just what the devil's going on?" Donovan asked.

"We're going to run a railroad," Ben Holliday said. "You all know that Mr. Lovell went to the end of track, and now I'll tell you what. The Texans have refused to ship on our railroad because they all believe we'll stir up the Indians, then stand back while they fight them for us. Until they change their minds, our rolling stock will stay on sidings. So my first concern has been to convince the ranchers that the railroad is ready to stand shoulder to shoulder with them in any fight that comes up."

Law Stays Hand For A Tomcat

ALAMEDA, Calif. (AP) — The law stayed its hand and Herman the tomcat is on the town again. Herman had been under a temporary Municipal Court order restraining him from the female felines of a neighbor's cattery. This meant Herman was confined on leash to the company of a dog at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Bowler.

The owners of the cattery, cat-corned near the Bowlers, are Mr. and Mrs. J. Howard Cook. They obtained the court order while suing the Bowlers for more than $1,000 damages they alleged Herman had done to their breeding stock. The Cooks went to Superior Court Tuesday to get another restraining order to replace the expired Municipal Court order. But Judge Ralph Hoyt refused to grant it, ruling that no evidence had been adduced to show Herman was a menace.

Herman, out on the town for the first time in 10 days, slept most of Tuesday afternoon after his return home.

"He looked pretty tired when he came in," Mrs. Bowler told a reporter. "He's asleep now."

Accused Slayer Dies In Hospital

ELIZABETH, N.J. (AP)—Michae Fekecs, the Hungarian Refugee charged with murdering six persons, died in Elizabeth General Hospital early today after 3½ months in a coma.

Fekecs shot himself in the forehead July 12 as two policemen were closing in on him in nearby Union. He was brought to the hospital that day and never regained consciousness.

A Middlesex County jury indicted Fekecs Sept. 24 on six counts of murder.

He was charged with slaying four persons on the North Brunswick estate of Dr. Francis Clarke Township policemen.

Name In A Bible Led To Arrest

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—A name in a Bible led officers to the home of a youth wanted for stealing hubcaps and hit-and-run, driving.

Patrolman G. H. Rothweiler said he spotted a young man taking hubcaps from cars in a parking lot. In trying to escape, the youth's car slammed into another vehicle and a Bible fell to the ground.

The inscription in the front led officers to the home of Dan Weldon Wilson, 19.

City Court Judge John Santora Tuesday imposed a 10 p. m. curfew on the youth for the remainder of the year.

House Divided By Ward Lines

CHARLOTTEVILLE, Va. (AP)—Mr and Mrs. Elmer J. Snow will vote for the same presidential candidate next Tuesday, but they'll have to go to separate polling places.

The line that divides the 1st and 2nd wards runs through their home — and between their bedrooms.

Their favorite candidate is a secret.

No Regrets For 2nd Hallow'e'en

WINSTON-SALEM (AP) — "I was a child once myself."

That was Mayor Marshall Kurfes' explanation for proclaiming Tuesday night as an extra hallow'e'en. His action came when heavy rains forced most of the trick or treat youngsters to stay home Monday night.

Although there was a smattering of complaints from those among the anti-hallow'e'en, Mayor Kurfes said he felt the thing had been worthwhile. "I did it with good intentions," he explained.

Kurfes said he couldn't speak for the rest of Winston-Salem, but he counted more than 135 youngsters who rang his doorbell Tuesday night.

Son Says Dad Is A Road Menace
LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Edward Ashby is 80, stone deaf and extremely independent. He also is a dangerous driver, says his son Wayne, 54.

"Take his license, Judge. I want to save his life or someone else's," the son pleaded in traffic court Tuesday.

The father was charged with reckless driving. Police said he attempted a U-turn in heavy traffic.

Wayne Ashby said state officials refused to revoke his father's license without affidavits.

"My father will obey the law; he won't drive if he doesn't have a license, but as long as he has one he will," the son said.

Judge Ralph Stone continued the case to Nov. 9.
