School Board Endorses $300,000 Industrial School

By PATRICIA MOORE Reflector Staff Writer A proposal for an industrial school, to be located in Pitt County, was endorsed this morning by members of the Pitt County Board of Education.

Several such schools already are operating in the state, including facilities at Burlington, Wilson, and Goldsboro. Plans for industrial schools to be erected at Raleigh, Asheboro and Kinston have recently been approved by the State Board of Education.

The State of North Carolina has authorized the establishment of a limited number of industrial schools throughout North Carolina. Sen. Humber told the board. The Piedmont section has been very active in qualifying to secure these institutions.

The $300,000 figure denoting cost of the building, with exclusion of land, was arrived at by experience of other industrial schools already in operation. Sen. Humber noted. The State Board of Education recommended that the building represent that investment, he added, to be a success.

The state would acquire, install and maintain the necessary machines. Since the industrial school would be part of the statewide system of education, the state would assume as their expense, all members of the faculty and all instruction, Sen. Humber explained.

"Pitt County, the leading county of eastern North Carolina, has need of such an institution in order to afford to its use the advantages of a skilled and technical training," Sen. Humber said.

Chairman of the board, Joseph S. Moye, pointed out that an industrial school would be a tool to work with. Through such a school would not guarantee that industry would come into this area, he said, it would serve as an inducement for industry to locate in Pitt, since skilled labor could be trained to suit the needs.

might require as much as three years. The curriculum covers such a wide diversity of subjects, as electronics, the automobile industry, radio, blue printing, specialized carpentry, farm implements and commercialized fishing.

Large Amounts Of Smoke Hampered Fire Fighters

FIREMEN BATTLE FURNITURE STORE FIRE . . . heavy smoke hampered fire fighters as they attempted to extinguish the blaze.

Firemen Battle Fire At Furniture Store Three Hours Here Last Night

Greenville firemen worked for three hours last night before completely extinguishing a fire which caused heavy damage to the Quinn-Miller Furniture Company at 516 Colaniche St.

Reade Sts was turned in at 10:35 p.m. The chief, who noted that firemen themselves turned in Box 23 at Five Points to summon additional aid, said large amounts of smoke were coming from the burning building when fire units arrived at the scene, and hampered firefighters in extinguishing the fire. Fire officers, who said the blaze was confined to the south side of the divided street, noted that it took firemen "an hour and a half" to bring the fire fully under control.

An investigation into the cause of the blaze is being conducted by fire and police officials, Gardner said. He added that a preliminary examination this morning indicated the fire probably started about "three quarters of the way back, in the ceiling of the store.

Kennedy Presses All-Out Campaign Into Final Hours

WITH KENNEDY in New England (AP)—Sen. John F. Kennedy opened the last day of his presidential campaign today with a charge that Vice President Richard M. Nixon believes that peace can be secured "by parades and visits to the Soviet Union."

He said in Providence, R.I., that the productive power of the United States "put to great purposes" is the only real answer to the struggle with the Communists.

That, Kennedy said, is the "basic issue" of the campaign. Kennedy's press secretary, Pierre Salinger, said estimates indicated that the Republicans are spending $600,000 for television time today. He said this includes Nixon's four-hour question and answer telecast this afternoon and three "choice one-half-hour spots." "We are demanding to know from the vice president sometime during his telecast what is the origin of these funds and what commitments were made to get them," Salinger said.

Nixon Knocks Kennedy Farm Program In Wisconsin Speech

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon started this final day of the campaign early — and with a vigorous new attack on his Democratic rival, Sen. John F. Kennedy.

Facing a grueling last round of battling, including four hours of answering voters' questions on nationwide television, Nixon arrived here shortly before 8 a.m. CST, after an overnight flight from Anchorage, Alaska.

Nixon dealt briefly with the situation in Cuba and the Fidel Castro regime there. He said Cuba "needed a revolution," which Castro led. But, the vice president added, the people of Cuba "need an honest government, a good government."

Citizens Of Pitt Are Expected To Vote In Record Numbers Tomorrow

Pitt citizens are expected to go to the county's 25 polling places in record numbers tomorrow to cast their ballots in the hard fought presidential and gubernatorial elections.

Some political observers were predicting a vote of more than 16,000 for Pitt County tomorrow. The predictors were assuming the unusually heavy campaigning this year will bring out an even larger vote than the presidential election of 1956—and that year 14,400 votes were cast in this county.

The county vote was expected to be higher than in the Democratic primary of last spring when 12,500 registered Democrats went to the polls to choose their party candidates.

How tomorrow's vote will be split between the two parties depended on which candidates the prognosticators were supporting. Democratic officials, basing their predictions on a 16,000 county-wide vote, were saying that 12,500 of them would be for the Democratic ticket and 3,500 for the Republicans.

Superintendent Of County Home Resigning Post

By HENRY HOWARD Reflector Staff Writer Pitt County's Commissioners this morning accepted the resignation of County Home Supt. D. C. Wilson, effective Jan. 1, 1961.

In his letter of resignation, addressed to Commissioner B. Alton Gardner of near Ayden, Wilson expressed the reason for his resignation as because of "personal health."

Clerk to the board, Mrs. Blair C. Wheelless, county register of deeds, reported the county has already received five applications for the county home post.

Listed as applicants were Horace G. Hardy, Heber D. Lancaster, Herman Evans, Franklin Eugene Porter, and Lyman K. Eason. Action on replacing Wilson was delayed pending further consideration of applicants.

The board unanimously approved the appointment of W. Leslie Elks of Grimesland to succeed J. Lyman Edwards as representative from the Grimesland area on the Pitt County Development Commission. Commissioner Robert Little submitted Elks' name to replace Edwards who has resigned his post on the county industrial development body.

RALEIGH (AP)—The Motor Vehicles Department's report of highway deaths and injuries for the period from 6 p.m. Friday to 10 a.m. today:

Killed 12 Injured (rural) 102 Killed this year 993 Killed to date last year 977 Injured to Sept. 1, this year 16,724 Injured to Sept. 1, last year 15,430

Pitt County has voted strongly Democratic for years, even going Democratic in 1928 when the state as a whole went for Republican Herbert Hoover.

Winterville Man Is Fatally Injured In Sunday Accident

WINTERVILLE—Death claimed a Winterville man this morning as a result of a head-on auto collision near here yesterday.

The fatally injured man was identified as Herman H. Weatherington, 56, Box 63, Winterville. Coronor Withers Harvey said Weatherington died in Pitt Memorial Hospital around 10:30 today.

He was suffering from internal and chest injuries, according to the coroner.

However, Harvey said he had made no ruling in the case. He is investigating along with the highway patrol.

Four other persons, all occupants of the second car involved, were injured in the crash. Investigating patrolman W. K. Chapman identified them as: Effie Carlisle Wilson, 42, 3104 Oaks Rd., New Bern; Mrs. Ruby Dunn, 39, New Bern and Mrs. Dunn's sons, Gerald Lee Dunn, 12 and Hildred Dunn, Jr., 8.

Weatherington was identified as the driver of a car which was headed south on N. C. 11. Mrs. Wilson was the driver of the second car involved headed north on the highway.

Mrs. Dunn told the investigating officer Weatherington's car had passed another vehicle and returned to his lane. Just as the two cars met Weatherington's vehicle swerved into her lane, she told the investigating patrolman.

Chapman said the location of the debris from the accident indicated the impact occurred in Mrs. Wilson's lane.

The wreck took place around 9:45. The two demolished vehicles blocked the highway for more than an hour and passing traffic had to move around on the highway shoulders.

Greenville Rescue Squad members labored for some time to remove the injured from the cars and place them in ambulances. Three of the victims were moved to Pitt Memorial Hospital by funeral home ambulances while the other two were transported in the rescue ambulance.

RESCUEMEN ADMINISTER AID TO VICTIM . . . Herman H. Weatherington died this morning of injuries received yesterday.

Canadian Teams Take Rescue Squad Honors

PHILADELPHIA—Two Canadian teams took top honors in the International First Aid Contest in which the Greenville Rescue Squad First Aid team competed Saturday at the International Rescue and First Aid Association convention in Philadelphia.

First place in the international competition . . . which included 36 teams from the United States and Canada . . . was won by the Metford Branch, St. John's Ambulance Corps, Toronto, while second place in the field was taken by the Mt. Aurore Ski Patrol who won national honors in competition with other Ski Patrols throughout Canada.

Third place in the competition was taken by the Boiling Green, Virginia mens team while a team from Lamberfield, New Jersey placed fourth. A team from Massachusetts, New York, placed fifth.

According to the contest judges, who said that the no rating was given teams beyond the fifth position, only 56 points separated the first and sixth place teams, while there was only six points difference between the fourth and sixth place contestants.

Claude Christopher, who acted as team captain during the competition, said "the team hated not to bring back a trophy to Greenville" but that "a lot was learned from the competition and the workshops held at the convention which will better prepare the team for the state and international contests next year."

STRETCHING THE HOUR—Do you have to teach a child a new game, to make a birthday cake or are you hamstrung to fixed schedules and ideas? Take a look at your 12-hour schedule and see if you can use your time more wisely.

According to Miss Rose Badgett, home economics agent in Randolph County, Home Demonstration Club women in her county have been analyzing their work day to find ways of using time and energy savers.

MAKES OWN GIFTS—Do you admire lovely bathroom linens, but have to refuse them in the stores because of the high price tag? Mrs. Martha B. Adams, assistant home economics agent in Richmond County, says the zig-zag attachment for the new automatic zig-zag sewing machine makes it possible for today's homemaker to apply monograms or motifs on her own linens at little expense.

Mrs. Joe Waugh, Rockingham, has found that monogrammed linens make cherished gifts for the person who has everything.

Worried About The Biography Survival

By JOY MILLER
AP Women's Editor

NEW YORK (AP)—Isabel Ross is a jolly little blonde Scotswoman who looks like the last person in the world to hang crepe. But she's worried these days about the survival of something close to her heart—biography.

"I'm afraid it's going to be killed off," she said a few days ago as her latest book—on the queen of Chicago society, Mrs. Potter Palmer—rolled off the presses. "Everybody is writing his own biography, or having it ghosted."

"This terrible urge of self-confession that's rampant," and she sniffed, "is going to affect the whole biographical period."

"And besides, nowadays nobody keeps diaries, or even writes letters you can call letters. There are no more charming epistles being penned in violet ink and tied together by a ribbon to be discovered by a biographer."

This might make Miss Ross sound like a lawyer and old lace type. The truth is, she's been a hardheaded reporter since about World War I. For years she covered top news events for the New York Herald Tribune, and she's still the tireless reporter in re-searching her books.

"I go after biographical facts the same way I would cover a story," she explained. "I study the historical scene, read books of the period, travel extensively and interview innumerable people."

"I hope always to be the objective reporter, dealing in facts. Readers are intelligent. They can draw their own conclusions. They don't have to have facts digested for them. If you've been a reporter as long as I have, you can't do a pontifical job of great significant interpretation; you can't take yourself too seriously."

Miss Ross left Scotland after finishing school, worked on Canadian newspapers for awhile, then joined Herald Tribune in 1919. On an assignment in 1922 she met and married Bruce Rae of the New York Times, and they're still a happy couple.

When their daughter arrived in 1933 she quit newspaper work to stay home with the baby. She tried writing novels, and her first one "Promenade Deck" became a best seller. It was made into a movie called "Three on a Honeymoon," a fact she has learned to live with.

After a spate of novels the old reporting urge got the upperhand. She wrote "Ladies of the Press," a book that swept more than one impressionable girl into a newspaper career.

A biography of Elizabeth Blackwell, the first woman doctor, followed. That led to a procession of famous Civil War ladies: Mrs. Jefferson Davis, Mrs. Ulysses S. Grant, Rose O'Neal Greenhow, Clara Barton, Kate Chase.

She'd love to write about a man some time. "But you get interesting slants on the husbands while doing the wives," she said, "I usually get fond of them. I got especially attached to Gen. Grant. I always thought of him as a grim soldier, but I found he was very tender in private life."

Writing about people who have living—and hence interviewable—descendants has its moments, but Miss Ross said she'd still prefer working on subjects in the 17th century. There would be no outraged family feelings to consider.

"The Davis and Grant descendants are still friendly, but it must have been hard on them," she said.

Of all her biographies, she believes Mrs. Jefferson Davis was the most solid book; she enjoyed most writing the latest, on Mrs. Potter Palmer, titled "Silhouette in Diamonds."

"Mrs. Palmer had so many facets, a Midwestern society leader dripping with famous jewels who crashed the gates of Eastern society, a glamorous and feminine feminist who didn't believe in being militant about it, a philanthropist who gave receptions for shopgirls as well as royalty, a favorite at the court of Edward VII, a shrewd businesswoman who turned the 8 million her husband left her into 20 million. Well, I could go on and on. She was a truly fascinating woman."

Peg-Board Popular As Kitchen Feature

Pre-decorated peg-board panels, available in many colors and patterns, are convenient for hanging shelves to hold dishes, utensils, cookbooks, condiments, and other items cooks like to have close at hand.

Another advantage is that peg-board panels can be sponged clean with soap or detergent suds.

Program Given On Landscaping

Mrs. C. D. Clark gave the demonstration for the month on "Landscaping" at the Belvoir Home Demonstration Club Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. R. F. Clark.

Plans were made for a Christmas party to be held during the December meetings, which will meet at the home of Mrs. Claudelle McRoy.

Mrs. R. F. Clark presided over the meeting. She stated that the club had won a $40 prize for the booth at the Pitt County Fair.

Mrs. W. K. Clark was commended on the work she had done throughout the year in sending in reports each month of the club's activity to the Home Agent's office. The club received $2.50 for having made the highest score in the county.

'Tasty' Toothbrushes

Even children who must be prodded to brush their teeth should be pushovers for the new ice cream toothbrushes. These "flavored" delights—made according to American Dental Association standards—come in vanilla, chocolate, orange, lemon, lime, and strawberry.

Although they have little or no taste to conflict with a dentifrice, these brushes are colored and scented to give the impression of ice cream flavors. The odors are impregnated in plastic handles, and the colored package caps are also scented. These enticements to cleanliness, which are made with multi-color nylon filaments, come in two sizes—suited to youths and children.

Recent excavations in Egypt unearthed a quarter of an old Roman city—nearly all of it consisting of public baths.

Adapts Furniture Design Talents To Juvenile Level

Stretching Dollars

RALEIGH—Plenty of turkey is in prospect for Thanksgiving this year.

You'll find practically all turkeys now have been inspected for wholesomeness by the USDA—you can be sure if you see the round mark on the package that says so. The mark is your assurance that the bird has passed a careful examination by a Federal inspector and that the bird was prepared under kitchen-clean conditions.

There also will be more turkeys graded under the Federal-State grading program for quality than ever before. Amounts of turkey graded over the past four years have more than doubled.

The shield-shaped U. S. Grade A mark on your turkey means that a Government grader has judged it to be full-fleshed and meaty, with a good layer of fat to help keep it juicy and tender while roasting. The U. S. Grade A rating also means that the turkey is clean free of pinfeathers, broken or crooked bones, and has little if any skin discoloration. It will be a bird you can be proud to serve.

One last word on turkey buying—the ones best for roasting will carry the word "young" on the label— young hen, young tom, or simply young turkey.

Personals

The personnel of Friendly Beauty Shop attended the Hair Fashion Form Show in Wilson Sunday.

If you have a particular dirty job to do, first wash hands thoroughly; then rub vaseline well into the pores. Your hands will be easier to clean and they will stay soft and white.

By VIVIAN BROWN
 AP Newsfeatures Writer
 NEW YORK (AP)—A new look in nurseries corals the eye at the National Home Furnishings Show.

Dedicated to "The Wonderful World of Children," the show appeals to Mom and Dad as well as the lollipop set.

Paul McOobb has adapted his design talents to the juvenile level, bringing the charm and uncluttered lines of his adult designs to youngsters' furniture.

His basic pieces are in cherry with a hand-rubbed finish. The nursery features a combination chest, dresser, four-drawer chest and crib. A handsome—and completely different—child's chair has a seat about five inches from the floor and a high curved and shaped back. Another item built along the same lines is a combination table, chair and toy box.

Accessory pieces are in the bright colors which seem to have been taken over as accents in the modern nursery—blue, green, yellow. A toy pen, designed to warm the heart of any mother, is an oversized basket that manages to make a pile of toys look decorative, even while they are in use.

Emily Malino, well-known designer in the juvenile furnishings field, showed eight simple settings, including a series of rooms, adaptable to a growing child.

An infant's room is in bright sea-blue, white, deeper blue. Shades begin halfway down the windows; the upper sections are gay house designs painted on cloth.

Above the crib hangs a mobile of colorful discs. Modern, low chests with sliding panels hug the walls.

For age 3, the baby chests are painted white, moved under the windows. Miss Malino uses a cheerful fabric of blue, green and lilac in a bold design at the window. A doll house is built into the area between the windows. The shelf above it is used for an animal collection. A bed cover is mint corduroy.

The same bed is used in the room setting for the 10-year-old youngster and is covered with a sea-blue fabric. Pale blue green and a green striped fabric is at the windows. Holed wall board between the windows holds a doll collection. Chests are white used against a green wall.

The same chests stained in a natural wood are used in the teenage setting. The room is now lilac, combined with white and green to give a sophisticated note.

Designer Larry Peabody makes the walls of his nursery look like something out of Wonderland. Oversized photostats of Alice in Wonderland illustrations decorate one wall. Lambskin is used to cover another. Peabody says the lambskin idea came from his son, and that it may be considered an investment since it can be used later as a rug in a teenager's room.

Nine table settings by Janice Gerton are inspired by children. A cheerful breakfast table for the entire family is decorated in sunny yellow and bronze-green. A "dinner at 6, children can mix" company dinner, using hyacinth and olive color schemes, has both child and adult appeal.

Real Southern Demos Stay Loyal

There are a good many Nixoncrats in the South who have taken great delight in justifying their choice in this election by declaring the Democratic party has forsaken the South by nominating Sen. John Kennedy.

They have reiterated time and again that the Democratic party and the Democratic platform are only interested in using the South to get electoral votes and then will knife the South if they gain control of the administration.

Some Southerners have been influenced by this kind of talk. Others have discounted it as an attempt to sway votes, which, after all, is the purpose of an election campaign.

For those who might still be undecided about the question of the Southern traditions and the plans of the Democratic party, we might suggest they consider the viewpoint taken by some of the dyed-in-the-wool Southern spokesmen.

Among those who have thrown their weight behind Sen. Kennedy's bid for election as the Democratic nominee are such men as Georgia's Sen. Herman Talmadge and Gov. S. E. Vandiver; South Carolina's Sen. Olin Johnson; Alabama's Senators Lister Hill and John Sparkman; Mississippi's Senators John Eastland and John Stennis; and Speaker Sam Rayburn to mention only a few.

These men are all Southern Democrats in the old-time tradition. Each of them has championed the cause of the South over the years. They have fought the South's battles on Capitol Hill against Republicans and within the Democratic party.

No one could tell one of these men to his face that he is knifing the South, that he is untrue to Southern tradition, that he is disregarding the welfare of his section by supporting the Democratic nominee in this election.

Nor can anyone say that these men have "hitched their wagon" behind the Kennedy star... they aren't riding the bandwagon, they are helping it move forward because they conscientiously feel it is in the best interest of their people, their section and the nation.

The Bomber Is Like A Needle In Haystack

In some respects it seems incredible that mysterious bombings could go on Sunday after Sunday in the nation's largest city, without police coming up with clues that might lead them to the terrorist who has now become a murderer.

The fifth mysterious explosion in New York in the past six Sundays claimed two lives yesterday in a subway and brought the total number injured by the explosions to more than 50.

For the police of New York City it must be like looking for the proverbial needle in the haystack, seeking the "holiday bomber" in the sea of people that inhabit the nation's largest city. Certainly the law enforcement agencies of the city have come under severe criticism for not apprehending the bomber earlier. That criticism will increase now that two people have been killed by the blasts.

It should be remembered, however, that the officers are working against tremendous odds, looking for one person among millions and not even knowing who they are looking for. It is a tribute to law enforcement agencies everywhere that they have worked against such odds before and have found the person they sought. If the future can be judged by the past, the "holiday bomber" will be caught and brought to justice. It will take time perhaps, but police everywhere have learned to endure public criticism while they trace every possible clue and follow many blind leads before getting on the track that leads them to the person they seek.

You're Invited To See The Returns Flow In

Pitt Counties have an invitation to join in the traditional Daily Reflector Election Party that will be held Tuesday night to compile election returns from Pitt County's 25 precincts and those from the rest of the state and the nation.

Election returns will be announced as they are received from the polling places throughout the county and posted on the huge scoreboard that has been erected in front of the Reflector building. Running totals on the election returns of North Carolina and the nation will also be posted as they are received throughout the nation.

Factors Behind Recession Talk

By RALPH ROBEY
Never has there been as much discussion as today on whether we are in a recession. Some of it, perhaps the majority, arises from the fact that this is an election year, and the business trend has been made into a campaign issue. But much of the discussion arises from analysts and business men who are personally worried and uncertain.

Those who believe that we are in a recession have many facts that they can cite. For example, production, as measured by the Federal Reserve Board index, has declined the past two months and is now four percent below last January. Steel is still operating at only a shade above half of capacity, and the date of an upturn keeps being postponed.

Housing starts are well below last year. They showed an increase in August, but in September they fell to the lowest level this year. Inventories are still being liquidated, and this backs up across the board, hurting both production and employment.

Business investment in plant and equipment has stopped increasing, and at best is leveling out and it may be on a slight decline. Corporate profits are rather sharply down, and there is no prospect of an improvement in the near future.

Many industrial and raw material prices are soft, and concessions have to be made from quoted prices in order to move the goods. In general business is shipping more than it is getting in new orders, which means that backlogs are declining.

Government spending is increasing, at both the federal and the state and local levels. Exports are increasing appreciably more rapidly than imports, and our international deficit is becoming somewhat less important.

Personal income continues to rise, and so does employment. The Federal Reserve System is following a policy of relative money ease and interest rates have declined sharply.

Those are just some of the favorable factors, but they are not enough, in our judgment, to warrant the conclusion that we are not about to enter a recession.

At a fire drill recently held at Veterans Administration office, the fire chief and his staff were invited to watch. With the ringing of the fire alarm, the 600 employees evacuated the building in a little over three minutes. Everyone was pleased until quitting time rolled around. This time the building was cleared in two minutes flat. Lamar (Mo.) Democrat.

In U.S. People Pick Their Leaders—

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

So Many 'Uncommitted'

Copyright, 1960, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

The decision in 1960 puzzles the pollsters because of the enormous size of the uncommitted voters. Actually, it is unbelievable that so many voters should not, by now, know whether they are going to vote for Nixon or Kennedy. Why, then, do they not declare themselves?

In the first place, many state that they are uncertain because they favor or oppose one or the other for reasons which they themselves reject subconsciously. Among such emotional responses are the religious issue, the beauty contest, and gibbness of the debates.

Thus, the uncommitted voter is holding off saying how he is going to vote because he anticipates that he may make a last moment change. Usually, in Presidential elections, there are few last moment changes.

James Farley goes by the rule that the voter's decision is generally made just after the Conventions. That has not been true this year. New York State, with its 45 electoral votes, is a big prize in this campaign. Vice President Nixon left the management of that state to Governor Rockefeller and Senator Jacob Javits. It was most unfortunate because neither of them has done anything like an adequate job for Richard Nixon. Senator Javits knows New York City politics and the very complicated racial and religious complex of this largest city of the nation. At no point did Nixon act politically sound in New York City. Professionals of both parties say that he was sabotaged both as to timing and as to the centers he visited.

If Vice President Nixon carries New York City or New York State, it will be because of the religious issue. Unfortunately, this was revived by two factors: One, the insistence of the Puerto Rican Roman Catholic bishops that it is a sin to vote for Governor Luis Munoz Marin because he favors birth control and secular schools. No matter what happens in Puerto Rico, the attention paid to the activities of these bishops on two Sundays, the failure of the Vatican to denounce them, and the widespread use of their activities by Republican propaganda unquestionably helped Nixon.

Other factor is that various organizations of bigots have accelerated their propaganda of hate. Many Catholics who dislike John Kennedy dislike even more the anti-Catholic propaganda. They will vote for Kennedy not because they prefer Kennedy as much as they take umbrage at anti-Catholicism.

Those who are conducting the anti-Catholic propaganda are not Republicans. They are Protestants who sincerely and fanatically believe that the Roman Curia dictates the conduct of every government headed by a Catholic. Religious movements usually run deep and when they come to the surface, their impetus can be riotous. It is unfortunate that at a time like this, in world affairs, such a question should arise in the United States. It is not likely to die down soon.

For what has been raised in this campaign are many local issues, such as the large increase in parochial schools and high schools, the use of public buses by children going to parochial schools, tax exemption for church property, etc. These questions have nothing to do with the Presidential campaign but they are the side effects of the hate campaign against Catholicism.

Should John Kennedy be elected, the Republican Party will immediately face a battle for control between Senator Barry Goldwater, the Conservative leader, and Governor Nelson Rockefeller who will move to the left of the Democrats.

Whereas Goldwater's conception of the loyal opposition will be for Congress to put a brake on the expenditures of an inflationary Democratic Administration, Rockefeller is likely to contend that the Democrats are not doing enough. Most of the remaining Republicans will follow Goldwater, but Rockefeller will immediately put his presently quiescent organization in high gear to capture the 1964

Other Editors Saying... A-Bombs, Bacteria Too

(Rocky Mount Telegram)
The recent Army decision to strengthen its defenses against germ warfare emphasizes a point military men have long known: atomic warfare is not the only mass-killer threat to the peoples of the world. Little publicity has accompanied the development of germ agents, mainly because of the more spectacular elements of nuclear warfare.

The U.S. Army is tripling the supplies of antibiotic wonder drugs which it keeps available for quick use by troops. It is not felt that the Army's action is prompted by any evidence of an increased threat of germ warfare. But Army doctors recognize there is an enemy capability of unknown magnitude to induce illness in varying numbers through exposure to biological agents.

The Army is also experimenting with several promising live vaccines against diseases which might be used in such warfare. These include a Russian-developed vaccine against rabbit fever in humans and a vaccine against Venezuelan equine encephalomyelitis which also can infect man.

Increased stockpiling of antibiotics is motivated by evidence that practically all diseases due to bacteria and rickettsia, as well as to certain of the viruses, can be controlled readily after their onset by the early use of adequate quantities of antibiotic.

Today, however, he lives with the full knowledge that he can be destroyed without his enemy ever leaving home to threaten his shores personally. And the death that faces him comes in particularly horrifying form: slow death through radiation fallout; the searing destruction of atomic explosion, the creeping paralysis of super gas agents, and the varying forms of bacterial agents which can lay him low.

Pay increases will be moderate during the next six months. General Electric's settlement on a 3 per cent rise has set a pattern. Many other industries are talking about a 3 per cent or strike policy and, in view of all the talk about a recession, many unions will accept. Significantly, a 3 per cent rise approximates the increase in productivity, which means that the rise would not be inflationary.

Steel price rises are certain, despite the lag in buying orders. Basically, most steel companies figure they cannot pay the December 1 rise under the steel strike settlement, unless prices are boosted. However, because of the inventory situation, the rises may be less than originally intended.

Petroleum prospects are no brighter than an oil lamp. The domestic surplus is being increased by lower gas and oil consumption of smaller cars. Mild weather so far has cut demand for heating oils and a mild winter, not unlikely, could brake the seasonal increase in factory workers increased from 1950 to 1959, a study by the National Industrial Conference Board shows.

The average weekly rate increased 51 per cent in those years and after discounting for inflation, was still 24 per cent ahead of 1950.

Why Not Run Railroads Like Highways?
"Railroad after railroad is getting into a bind because of rising costs, lower revenues and highway competition," the Old Promoter remarked on his visit today.

"Here's an idea for the new President: let the government put trucks and railroads on an equal footing. Let the government take over the tracks just as it owns the highways. Then make railroads pay license fees and taxes, just like the truckers do."

"Of course, since any truck can use any highway, any railroad company could use any tracks — and so could individual companies."

There's the idea, Jack and Dick. Take it away!

Industry Of The Future

By ROGER BABSON
BABSON PARK, Mass.—When the electronics stocks were becoming popular, I was slow to discuss them in this column. Now, however, I have concluded that electronics will be the next industry.

AUTOMOBILE INVESTMENTS
Forty-five years ago, nearly forty different types of automobiles were being advertised and sold. In the stocks of the companies making these forty automobiles, there was much speculation. Mr. Ford's "Tin Lizzie" was the most popular, selling around $500, while the most expensive car was the Packard. Another popular car was the Studebaker, whose manufacturer was once the largest maker of wagons and carriages. Both the Packard and the Studebaker since declined in production, resulting in severe reorganization which effected a combination of the two companies.

Another very popular car of those early days was the Hudson, while the Nash also forged ahead. Notwithstanding intensive advertising and sales efforts, the production of these two companies were united into the present American Motors Corporation. Thousands of investors lost money buying the stock of these once popular auto manufacturers. American Motors, however, has since put out the Rambler, and under a very able leader, Mr. Romney, has been rapidly coming to the fore. While the other stocks have gone down, American Motors has climbed from around 2 in 1956-1957 to 20 today.

HISTORY REPEATS ITSELF
My reason for giving the above illustrations is to warn investors that the market for electronics stocks in which people are now speculating, probably over thirty years ago, through a severe reorganization and most of them will go out of business. Yet the industry as a whole will be a great and permanent one. Let me explain one reason for this last statement.

Thus far, the electronics industry has depended very largely on dense spending. Present talk about a reduction of armaments gives the electronics people the jitters; they wonder what they will do when, as, or if there comes a reasonable peace. This must come about some day, or else we will all go broke from armament expenditures or World War III. Electronic production is inevitable, but must come slowly. It is very expensive for private manufacturers to change their plants over to electronic automation.

The electronic experiments at the Providence, Rhode Island post office may hold the answer. The government, to prevent unemployment, could greatly help the industry by operating all their important post offices electronically. This would take some time and, in the meantime, prevent any serious period of unemployment. Furthermore, with the government's getting behind this proposition, congress could pass legislation requiring the standardization of all mail as to size of envelopes, location of addresses, stamps, etc.

WHAT IS THE MIRACLE?
Some post offices are now using electronic "shaking" machines to sort letters and drop them into the proper slots for 300 cities; but the reading of handwriting electronically is just being developed, and this is what I call the miracle of the industry. It is technically known as "scanning." The scanning machine will first be used in the Oakland, California Post Office, and then in Detroit. "Scanning" should keep down the postage rate, which will interest every reader of this column.

The concern which is getting the most publicity on this scanner is Farrington Manufacturing Company of Needham, Mass. Its main competitors in postal equipment include International Telephone and Telegraph (which built the Providence, R.I. Post Office), International Business Machines, Chance Vought, Pitney-Bowes, Food Machinery and Chemical, now building the Oakland plant, Emerson Radio, Sperry Rand, and Western Union. Many others will enter the field. In some cases the stocks will triple in price, but in many cases the companies will go into bankruptcy. However, I now say: "Watch Electronics."

Some Business Probabilities

By ELMER ROESSNER
Here are more probabilities and predictions in business, based on analyses of developing trends:

New campaigns against moving plants will be launched by unions as soon as the election nonsense is cleared away. Unions are doubly losing jobs with removal of plants to low-wage, unorganized sections of the country and to low-wage foreign nations. Leaders are busy chattering drives to halt both.

Cheaper flights to Latin America and Asia are coming. While airlines are yet to determine advantages of the new 17-day trans-Atlantic tourist rates, they are sweet enough to start studies of similar off-season rates in other directions.

More no-deposit bottles are likely in 1961. The no-deposit boom of a few years ago, then lost out as beer and soft drink cans rose in popularity. Now the glass industry is challenging the tin can industry with lower prices.

Talked Back To GOP Charges

By LYNN NISBET

TALKING BACK—Mrs. Henry (Doris) Cromartie, Democratic national committeewoman for North Carolina, has been passively resistive under accusations of Republican campaigners that the "leadership" of the Democratic party is incompetent of not actually venal. She decided the other night she had taken all of that kind of talk she could without talking back. At the 11th district rally at Spindale the other night, last in the series of congressional district meetings, she voiced the resentment she and the other women feel.

She reminded the Republicans, led by gubernatorial candidate Robert Gavin, who have so vigorously castigated the ineptness and crookedness of Democratic leadership, that more than half the leadership of the Democratic party is made up of women. There are more women employees in State government service than me, as many women members on party committees and in other areas of leadership activity.

The politically active women in both parties are the same women who have assumed responsibility for leadership in their churches, parent-teacher associations, and all phases of civic progress. Cromartie thinks that attacks upon the good will and integrity of leadership in the Democratic party and State administration, is in effect an almost insulting attack upon the good women who make up so large a part of that leadership.

Dominant influence of women in civic-social affairs has been recognized for a long time. Up to now they have not been recognized for a long time. Up to now they have not been markedly potent in politics. But they are moving into that area, and any time they want to do so they can take over—because there are more women than men voters.

CRYSTAL BALLS—Before the next Governor is inaugurated, even before his election has been determined, many political observers are polishing up their crystal balls to pick the chief executive for the period between 1965 and 1970.

At least three names bob up in nearly every conversation about prospective candidates in 1964. There is ample evidence that Beverly Lake, who ran second in two hotly contested primary bouts this year, will have to be reckoned with again. Both physical and political geography may operate to his disadvantage in the next election. There remains considerable sentiment for east-west rotation of Governors, and Lake as an easterner would be handicapped by that tradition. It also is quite likely that four years from now his extreme conservative and segregation ideas may be less popular than now. There is also the chance that four years from now these issues may be even more potent.

The two names most frequently mentioned as probable contenders for the 1964 nomination are Cloyd Philpott of Davidson and Woodrow Jones of Rutherford. They are naturals for prime contenders.

Philpott is a furniture manufacturer, who is at home in the conference rooms of big business men and working members of labor organizations alike. After several terms as representative of his county in the General Assembly he won the nomination for Lieutenant Governor this year over two strong opponents.

Jones is a lawyer, several times member of the General Assembly from his county, retired voluntarily from the Congress as representative of the 11th district, and has just completed tenure as chairman of the State Democratic committee. Developments during the next four years may bring up a lot of other candidates. Looks now like Beverly Lake, Cloyd Philpott and Woodrow Jones will be among those filing for the top office in March of 1964.

ROAD NAMES—The State Board of Agriculture has added its official endorsement by formal resolution for retaining on highway signs the common names of local roads. For administrative purposes the State Highway Commission sometime ago adopted the policy used in most states of designating all secondary and local roads by numbers instead of the commonly used local names. That is appropriate, almost necessary, for purposes of the highway commission. The policy can be very inadequate and unsatisfactory with respect to the travelers who are looking for familiar-name places. Many of the local road names have historic significance.

Historical societies and travel promotion groups are trying to get more adequate information signs along the highways. Removal of road names if directly reverse policy and tends to defeat the purpose of making travel easier and more pleasant.

NEW COMMITTEE—The State Personnel Council has recommended appointment of a special committee in the Legislature to deal with problems affecting State employees. Here, before bills relating to working hours, salaries, qualification standards, etc., have been referred to various legislative committees. Consolidating them into one channel will make it much easier for interested persons to keep up with them.

Actor Clark Gable Suffers Heart Attack At His Home

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Clark Gable—struck by a heart attack that probably has been much worse if he hadn't called off a hunting trip—was resting satisfactorily today.

Edward's U.S. As Fighting Attack

CHICAGO (AP)—Dr. Edward Teller, key figure in the development of the hydrogen bomb, said today the nation's civil defense is in "such a tragic state of unpreparedness that we are practically inviting attack."

"Too many Americans, he told men, have an attitude that we can do as we please and take a suicide pill and get away."

Actually, he said, most Americans and the American way of life can survive a nuclear attack if civil defenses are prepared.

He said the United States should construct shelters "that people in cities can reach on foot in 10 minutes."

"It's a miracle," said Kay Gable, expectant mother and fifth wife of the 59-year-old king of the movies. "He had planned a week-end hunting trip at his duck club near Stockton. There are no phones there and it's miles from a doctor."

"Then Friday night he said: 'I think I'll spend the weekend home with you and the children. I don't think I should go up there.'"

"On Saturday night he seemed fine, wrestling with my two children all over the living room floor."

"Later he said he felt a little sick and went to bed at 9 p.m. About 4 a.m., he awakened and complained of chest pains. He was perspiring and he felt clammy. I gave him two aspirin.

"At 8:15 a.m., he got up and tried to dress but the pains in his chest were too much. He just sat there helpless. I called the doctor immediately."

The doctor took one look and called a fire department rescue squad and an ambulance.

Gable had no history of heart trouble. His wife said he hadn't even had a cold in years.

Friday he wound up a movie with Marilyn Monroe—"The Misfits."

"I talked with him that day and all he could talk about was his coming fatherhood next March. He will be 60 then, and a father for the first time."

"This is a dividend that has come to me late in life," he said. "I'm taking off until the baby is born. I want to be there and I want to be there a good many months afterward."

Mrs. Gable, who married the film king five years ago after divorcing sugar heir Adolph Spreckels Jr., slept on a couch at the foot of Gable's hospital bed.

Once during the night Gable complained of chest pains and irritation from the oxygen plugs in his nostrils. Dr. Fred V. Cerini, his doctor, gave him an injection that put him to sleep almost immediately.

The physician said Gable "couldn't be better at this stage of the game. His condition is very satisfactory."

Fire Fatal To Five In Family

WEINER, Ark. (AP)—Five members of one family died in a fire that swept through their five-room house after a heating stove exploded Sunday.

Aaron E. Hurst, 46, died in a hospital an hour after he leaped through a window, his clothes in flames.

The bodies of Kenneth, 9; Wanda, 6; Geraldine, 16, and Alice, 11, were found in the house.

Mrs. Hurst and two other children, David Eugene, 18, and Glenn, 14, were in Little Rock where Glenn had undergone an appendectomy.

A Nixon victory would, at any rate, continue the Eisenhower-Nixon image of the party; a Nixon defeat would also be an Eisenhower defeat. The Conservatives, under Goldwater, would seek Democratic support because Republican Conservatives are weary of being associated with radical Keynesian Republicans such as Senator Jacob Javits, Clifford Case, etc. They want a party which can have a clear-cut, distinct, meaningful program. They will, wherever they can, form an alliance with Conservative Democrats. They will therefore watch the vote in Virginia more closely than the vote in New York. To them Texas is more significant than California.

Pitt Countians At Cancer Clinic

ROCKY MOUNT—Twenty-nine persons, including some from Fountain and Farmville, were examined in the Cancer Detection and Diagnostic Clinics Wednesday.

Those examined consisted of two white men, 26 white women and one Negro man. Nine of the examinees had been referred to the clinic by a physician.

The clinics are held each Wednesday at the Rocky Mount City Health Department, 1616 W. Thomas St., Rocky Mount. They are open only to persons 35 years of age and older, regardless of race or ability to pay. Those under 35 may be admitted with referral from their physicians.

Dynamite Bomb Explodes Aboard N. Y. Subway Train

NEW YORK (AP)—A deadly dynamite bomb exploded with a thunderous, shattering roar aboard a subway train deep under Harlem Sunday night, killing a young girl and injuring 18 other persons.

Police did not believe it was the work of New York's "Sunday Bomber," who has been blamed for four other explosions since Oct. 2.

The bomb had been hidden under a straw covered seat at the rear of the fifth car of a six-car Independent Line Express Train. The southbound train was halted at the 125th Street station in the heart of Harlem when the bomb exploded.

The force of the blast bulged out the steel sides of the car, gouged out a two-foot hole in the floor, shattered every window but one. Big chunks of concrete were ripped from the underside of the station platform.

About 30 passengers were aboard the fatal car. A girl sitting directly over the bomb, was killed—her legs torn off. Two youths sitting across the aisle from the girl were injured critically.

The girl was tentatively identified as Sandra Breebald, 17, of Brooklyn. Her handbag was blown to bits.

Cordell Jones, 18, was just boarding the train when the bomb exploded. He was blown across the platform and onto the southbound local tracks. He suffered head, neck and back injuries.

"It looked like the seats blew into the roof," he said. "Just as I was getting on, I turned around to look at two boys who were laughing about something. Except for that, I would have got it right in the face."

Police searching the wreckage found a detonating cap, which they said, confirmed that the explosive probably was dynamite.

Leads were skimpy, however. Two injured youths said they saw a man hurriedly leave the car sev-

Airman Chooses Horseback Trip

ALBANY, Ga. (AP)—A former Air Force master sergeant has given up airplanes to ride horseback 1,000 miles to Detroit.

James W. Keller of Leesburg left this south Georgia city Sunday on the first leg of a trip expected to take about 25 days. He is traveling the hard way, not even stopping at hotels.

"I'll sleep in my bedroll along the way while the horse gets in some grazing," he said.

JAMES KEENE'S New Historical Novel IRON MAN, IRON HORSE

CHAPTER 9

"Some soldier wants to see you," Ollie Skinner told Ben Holliday. "Says he talked to you at the depot."

"All right, send him in," Holliday said. "And go over to the cookshack and bring back some sandwiches and some coffee."

Skinner went out and Lieutenant Gary stepped in, his manner hesitant. "I'm sorry to intrude, but they told me at the depot that you run the railroad."

"Have a chair. Run it?" Holliday smiled. "You're very generous, Lieutenant. However, you have problems of your own, I'm sure."

"Mainly, getting to Fort Elliot. It's my understanding that the roadbed runs to within eight miles beyond. Is Fort Elliot your assignment?"

Gary nodded. "And I'm going to be late for it, damn it. A man's first duty and he has to botch time with my sisters. I'm afraid, and did not take into consideration the abominable travelling conditions." He crossed one leg over the other and put his hands on his knee. "I was told that you sent a train south last night. May I ask how far?"

"To the end of the track."

Gary swore softly in a gentlemanly manner. "I've been missing connections since St. Louis!" He slapped his knee. "I don't suppose there's another train—no, I thought not. Damn, but there is an ominous tone to a man being tardy for his first assignment."

Ben Holliday was thinking about this when Skinner came back with a tray of sandwiches and a pot of coffee in hand. Gary said, "That looks good. I haven't had anything since last night."

"Help yourself," Holliday said. "Skinner, I think I'll take the handcar to the end of track. See that it's ready in about an hour."

"You ain't goin' alone, are you?" Skinner asked.

"I thought I'd take Lieutenant Gary along," he smiled at Ollie Skinner. "Well, don't look like that. I can pump a handcar. And get me a rifle and some shells from the freight office. I'll take care of the rest."

"All right," Skinner said, his tone predicting dire things to come.

After he left, Lieutenant Gary said, "If you're doing this for me, I—"

"I can't run a railroad sitting down," Holliday told him. "We can pump ten miles an hour, spend the night on the prairie, and leave you with only an eight-mile walk to the post." He bit into one of the sandwiches. "I thought a military escort was supposed to meet you officers."

"Likely there was one, at Tascosa, a week ago," Gary said. "I'm really that far behind, I'm sorry to say." He shrugged and picked up his cup of coffee. "I tried to send a wire, but the telegraph only runs to here."

"I thought the army had its own signal service."

"Of course, heliograph and dispatch riders." He snorted in disgust. "But not telegraph, except when near the main line. You say the post is eight miles from your telegraph lines? What a shame they're not tied into it."

"Take it up with your congressman the next time you're in Washington. Poles and wire and insulators cost money. Who's going to foot the bill? The railroad? We built this line out of our own pocket, for railroad business. I've three letters from Colonel Dawson asking if we'd string wire to Fort Elliot. We would, only he hasn't the authority or the money to pay the bill."

"You're certainly not much of a visionary," Gary said frankly. "How so?" He got up and took his coffee to the windows and stood there, sipping it and looking out.

"Fort Elliot's function is to keep the Indians in line, Mr. Holliday. It seems to me that it would serve your function admirably if you put the line in at your expense. You railroaders are always stirring up the Indians. A telegraph wire would bring the army in a hurry."

Holliday turned and looked at him for a moment, then came back to his desk and sat down. "Mr. Gary, I assume that you are a genius."

"I was sixty-third in my class," Gary said. "There were seventy-one, all told." He frowned pleasantly. "Did I say something bright? By golly, I'm due for a change, you know."

"Finish your sandwich and coffee," Holliday said, picking up his coat. He stepped out and went down the hall to Dan Rawlins's office. The freight superintendent was reading an old newspaper and he put it away quickly when Holliday came in, as though ashamed at getting caught. "Have you made up that string of empty cattle cars yet?" Rawlins handed him a sheet and Holliday looked at it, then gave it back. "When the first cattle train rolls out for Dodge, deadhead six flatcars to Lovell to handle the paper work, but I want all the poles and wire Western Union can spare. Enough to string an additional eight miles."

"All right, but who's going to pay for it, Mr. Holliday? We can't afford those kind of expenditures. I hate to remind you, but everyone knows we're broke, or close to it. We don't have enough credit to buy a ton of coal."

"Do you play poker, Mr. Rawlins?"

"Well, I do now and then. But I'm not crazy about the game."

"You should play with my brother Adam; he can bluff the money out of a cardsharp's pocket." Holliday slapped Rawlins on the shoulder. "I'm not bad at bluffing myself."

He whistled on the way back to his office, then looked in Donovan's office. The telegrapher was out napping, his feet on the desk, and Holliday shook him awake. "Curly, are you friendly with the Dodge City operator?"

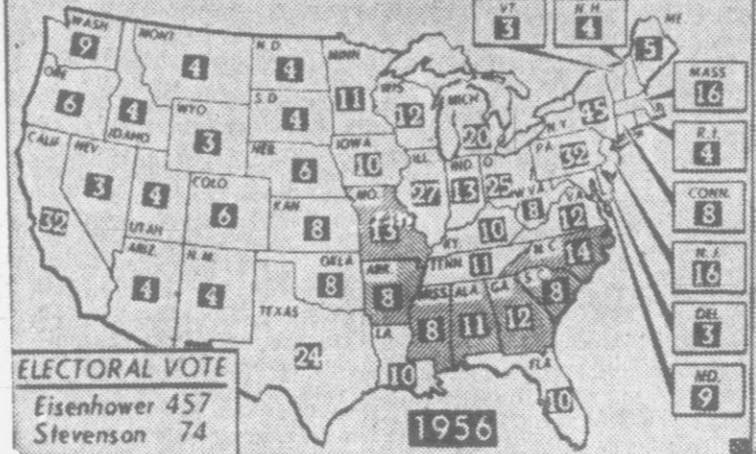

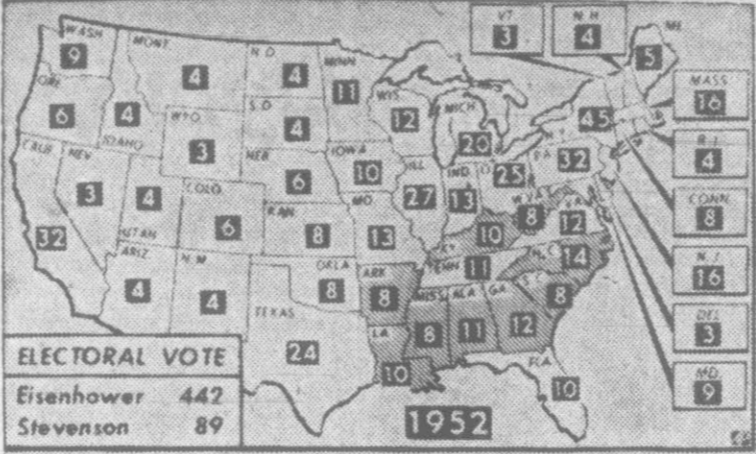

"Why, sure. We used to work connecting shifts for Western Union."

"Then I got a bit of gossip for you to pass along to him." He bent forward to speak softly, and glanced over his shoulder before he really came out with it. "We've got some fresh money, Curly. Over a hundred thousand dollars from a Dodge City investor."

He clapped the man on his back. "We're out of the hold. And I've been thinking about a raise to celebrate."

He went out while the man was still a little open-mouthed over it, and before he stepped into his office, Holliday puffed his cheeks airily, as if a long breath. The telegrapher was asking for a clear signal, and Holliday stepped in and closed the door.

Victory In Texas Claimed By Democrats, Republicans

By DAVE CHEAVENS
 AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Both parties publicly roared victory claims for Texas' 24 electoral votes but worked desperately as if to stave off defeat in the last days of the presidential campaign.

Their immediate objective was an estimated 5 to 15 per cent who can't or won't tell the pollsters how they are going to vote.

From the first it has been a campaign of cross-currents and uncertainties.

The biggest question now as it was early in the campaign is Sen. John F. Kennedy's religion.

The next biggest question is how much Vice President Richard M. Nixon will benefit from the carryover of Dwight D. Eisenhower's political charm that put traditionally Democratic Texas in the Republican camp in 1952 and 1956.

Closely related to these and half a dozen other turbulent undercurrents battering the state's estimated 2½ million voters is the unusually heavy percentage of those who are silent or undecided.

Most of the recent polls timily indicated a faint leaning toward Kennedy and Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson in a state where the professional and expert political opinion said the big word was doubt.

The unknown 5 to 15 per cent could on Nov. 8 make it a decisive victory for either the Democrats or the Republicans. It also could give to either party a hair-line decision.

Three Associated Press surveys of 24 key counties at two-week intervals consistently turned up one factor: The voter who often truculently and flatly refused to talk about his intentions.

The surveys extending from late September into early November tapped these sources: Local political leaders such as county judges who usually are close to the grass roots; some country newspaper editors; and on the state level, established campaign publicists or managers and lobbyists who make their living out of the raw material of public opinion.

This survey, plus at least two commercial opinion polls, plus the latest statewide studies by newspapers, indicate that the race is close and the outcome uncertain. Built-in evidence of this comes from the strategists of both parties.

The Republicans booked Nixon into Texas for a return engagement in three vote-heavy big cities this week.

The Democrats brought their Kennedy-Johnson team back to Johnson's home state for two appearances in heavily-populated areas untouched in Kennedy's first tour.

Both parties have put on the strongest pressure ever exerted in a presidential race in Texas because of the baffling array of unknowns, such as:

1. Will Johnson's No. 2 place on the ticket help or hurt with the average voter? Johnson has made many friends and many enemies in his long career in public office. There was a division of opinion at home on whether he should have taken the vice-presidential nomination.

2. Will Johnson's double entry as a candidate for re-election to the Senate and for the vice presidency stir up enough resentment to make it a factor? The Republican speakers have made much of it throughout the campaign, especially his active Senate opponent, John G. Tower.

3. Will Texas' non-Catholics listen to some of their preachers or to the politicians? Both Democratic and Republican leaders tell them not to let the fact that Kennedy is a Roman Catholic influence them. Many ministers, spearheaded by militant Baptists, have said or intimated that Kennedy's church loyalty could or might disqualify him for the presidency, in the face of his repeated avowals that it would not.

Recent developments in which some Baptist leaders have also raised questions about Nixon's and Henry Cabot Lodge's views on government aids for private schools could help the Democrats. The Puerto Rican church-political controversy could help the Republicans.

4. How much effect on normally-Democratic voters will former Gov. Allan Shivers' "Democrats for Nixon and Lodge" organization have? How strong is a separate campaign by a group called "Texans for Nixon" led by a prominent Baptist layman, Dallas insurance man Carr P. Collins?

The Republican organization has also been unusually active. It offers the largest number of state office and legislative candidates in history and some of them have a chance to win or make a good showing.

The GOP has welcomed Shivers and Collins. Shivers and Johnson are old political enemies and much of the oratory in the last two weeks has been a renewal of their feud. Shivers was the top Democratic leader who bolted to help Eisenhower in 1952 and 1956. Johnson said that there have been no such defections on the state level among Democratic officials this time and that this will be a strong factor. Shivers is equally confident that many voters will follow him again.

5. Will Lodge's statements regarding a Negro in the Cabinet disturb conservatives, who generally are also segregationists, and thereby hurt the Republican cause? Democratic leaders say Lodge can't match Johnson as a vice-presidential candidate, that he doesn't appeal to Texans. They say the fact that his one appearance here was not followed up by a repeat such as Nixon's is a sign of his weakness.

A 17 per cent undecided element was reported in mid-October by the Joe Belden Texas poll which also at that time had 44 per cent of the decided voters favoring Nixon, 39 per cent Kennedy.

A poll by Lou Harris Associates at the end of October showed Kennedy 49 per cent, Nixon 41, and undecided 10.

Republicans widely quote the Belden poll and Democrats the Harris survey.

Official statements by state leaders of each campaign were warmly confident with the election only a few days away.

Said Kennedy-Johnson Director Gerald C. Mann: "I am certain the Democratic ticket will have the overwhelming approval of Texans."

Said Republican State Chairman Thad Hutcheson: "I feel confident that Texas is going for Nixon."

Both leaders claimed a high pitch of worker enthusiasm plus large numbers of volunteers as signs of victory.

Crown And Scepter Club Installation Rites Held

AYDEN — Twenty juniors and seniors of South Ayden School were installed as charter members of the newly organized Crown and Scepter Club recently.

The purpose of the club is to promote scholarship, excellence of characters and excellence of service. To be eligible for membership, one must be a junior or senior in high school, holding an average of B or above. Good conduct is also a necessary quality.

Charter members are Robert D. Brown, president; Charles Beaton, vice president; Harriet Lowry, secretary; Myrtle Darden, treasurer; Linwood Burney, reporter; Jimmie Brown, sergeant-at-arms.

Also, Mary L. Forbes, Eula B. Davis, Willie R. Moore, Gracie M. Murphy, Eddie L. McCarter, Frederick E. Smith, Carolene James, Thelma Suggs, Lillian Gracie Williams, Nelda Ormond, Lucy Stewart, Alton G. Darden, Nancy A. Williams and Lula G. Younger.

The installation service included a procession with all members attired in black, adorned with a gold crown and a gold scepter, the emblems of the club. Principal J. W. Ormond presided over the ritual.

To Attend Observance

Three of the Crown and Scepter members of South Ayden will be among the high school students of North Carolina who will visit N. C. College in Durham for the 50th anniversary celebration on Wednesday, Nov. 9. There will be special workshop sessions for administrators, teachers and students.

The general theme for the program is "The Responsibility of the College to Public Education" with special emphasis on "The High School Faces the Challenge." Thelma Suggs, Gracie Williams, seniors, and Myrtle Darden, juniors, will be accompanied by the school counselor, Mrs. R. I. Brown.

Whatever you do, carry the torch for somebody tomorrow and vote

There's more to siding with your candidates than just saying so. Like the enthusiasts pictured, you've got to do something. And the most powerful and practical thing you can do is to get out and vote.

It's not that just the act of voting is an end unto itself, or the fulfillment of a sort of vague moral responsibility. The long-range results of voting reach far out and they're as practical as a spare tire pumped up and ready to go.

Look at it this way.

A big vote from every crack and cranny of this enormous country tells the whole wide world we're more than a little interested in the future of our democracy. A big popular vote will help give the winning candidates a stronger assurance that the people are really behind them. And a big vote might even say to the Red wheels and their satellites, "Don't underestimate the decision and determination of a free people."

So vote. Vote with vigor and enthusiasm. Carry the torch of your belief proudly to the polls tomorrow.

By JOHNNY HUDSON Reflector Sports Editor HICKORY — East Carolina took care of Lenoir Rhyne's All-American tailback Lee Farmer here Saturday night and made shambles of the Bruins' rushing defense credentials but still finished second on the scoreboard reading, 17-0.

It was the second defeat for East Carolina after opening the season with six straight wins. The Bucs have games with Presbyterian and U. of Richmond remaining.

age-hitting Ronnie Frye with a 11-yard completion. Marion Kirby booted the extra point to send the Bears out front 7-0.

Lenoir Rhyne had a scoring opportunity early in the first period after recovering Glenn Bass' fumble on the EC 16. But East Carolina's defense held and took control on the 17.

Only Duke Wins In Non-Loop Play

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Clemson Coach Frank Howard had just come into the dressing room after a 24-0 victory over North Carolina Saturday.

His question also signified the shift of power in the Atlantic Coast Conference this year. After two years as ACC champion and two years of bowl games, Clemson has slipped from the throne and stands in a tie for fourth place in the league with a 3-2 record.

How They Ran

Nick Hilgert rammed to the 10 but Glenn Bass was caught for a 20 yard loss back to the 30. Two more plays failed to pick up yardage and LR took control at its 30.

Lenoir Rhyne moved 164 yards on the ground and added 96 through the air. Sonny Baysinger, the pint-sized halfback, was the backfield star for East Carolina.

Minnesota, Missouri On Top Of College Grid Pack

By JACK CLARY Associated Press Sports Writer The world of college football today belongs to Minnesota's resurgent Golden Gophers and their oft-maligned coach, Murray Warmath. They hope they can hold onto it a bit longer than some of the other kingpins this season.

won't make it 13 Big Eight titles in a row after last week's 10-6 loss to Iowa State. But Kansas is still around and if it beats Colorado this week, then the Mizzou-Kansas game the following Saturday will produce the conference champion.

Duke's victory over Navy was the only non-conference win for ACC teams Saturday. Maryland bowed to Penn State 29-9 and South Carolina fell before Louisiana State 35-6. Within the league, in addition to the Clemson-North Carolina game, North Carolina State edged Wake Forest 14-12. Virginia had an open date.

on seven more points in the final 30 minutes. After being grounded once within the Pirate 20 yard line, Lenoir Rhyne found enough impetus through the air midway the second period to parade 85 yards for its initial touchdown.

The Bucs' biggest drive came in the fourth period when they moved from their 45 to the Lenoir Rhyne one. A 28 yard run by Bert Stafford and a 31-yard pass from Stafford to Jones Lockerman triggered the drive.

Tough Line Cited In Big Win For Golden Gophers

By JIM KLOBUCHAR
 Minneapolis (AP) — The Minnesota football team mowed down Iowa Saturday by applying a simple football principle: Nobody is fast enough to beat you if he's lying flat on his back.

This is where the Hawkeyes sprinters spent most of the afternoon in a 27-10 Minnesota victory that was the supreme triumph of the Gophers' destructive line.

It is a line that was compared today by such a knowledgeable pundit as Bernie Bierman, the old master, with Minnesota's great lines of the past, some of the best college football has produced.

"It's in a class with some of those old Minnesota combinations," said Bierman. "It's active, strong and plays smart football."

Gopher coach Murray Warmath didn't see Bierman's great lines, but he and Bernie joined on this point: If there is a better college lineman in the country than Minnesota's 240-pound ex-Navy policeman, Tom Brown, neither has seen him.

Brown's contribution Saturday was enormous. Almost single-handed he knocked out nearly one-third of the Iowa offensive repertory, its inside shots that so often had opened the way for long-run knockout blows.

With ends Tom Hall, Bob Deegan and Dick Larson, and line-backers Julian Hook and Dick Enga, he blunted the Iowans' outside speed. On offense better than 50 per cent of Minnesota's best rushes went over his guard position.

Three Minnesota touchdowns in the final 25 minutes after Iowa had taken a 10-7 lead drove the Gophers and their once, buffeted coach to heights none had imagined possible two months ago.

With seven straight victories Minnesota is now a hot contender for its first national title in 19 years.

University of Minnesota officials declined to speculate on how the school would react to a Rose Bowl invitation — Minnesota has voted against Big Ten involvement in the past — but they pointedly noted that an entirely new situation would exist this time.

Minnesota has voted strictly on a conference agreement in the past, they said. This time the school would be voting on an invitation extended specifically to one institution, namely, Minnesota.

But there is nothing hazy about the Gophers' Big Ten title prospects. They can clinch at least tie by beating Purdue Saturday and grab it all with victories over Purdue and Wisconsin.

Houston Still Moving In AFL Football League

By WHITNEY MARTIN
 Associated Press Sports Writer

The respective leaders of the two divisions of the American Football League meet next Sunday in what promises to be the highlight game of the day.

Houston, which is dominating the Eastern Division with a 2-0 record, takes on Los Angeles (5-3) at Los Angeles, and the Oilers loom as favorites because of their consistently strong offense that has rolled up a total of 246 points. Los Angeles has a slight edge in defense, yielding only 162 points in its eight games.

Houston gave another impressive demonstration of its power Sunday when it defeated Denver 45-25, thanks to the passing of George Blanda and the running of Billy Cannon and Dave Smith.

Blanda threw four touchdown passes as the Oilers completed 17 of 34 for 256 yards. The Houston running attack accounted for 191 yards. The Denver attack netted only 93 yards on the ground, but was good for 402 yards via air through completion of 31 of 54 tosses.

Frank Tripucka, Bronco quarterback, threw three touchdown passes, but his team couldn't match the ground attack of the Oilers in the second half. The Houston margin at the half was only 17-15.

Blanda personally accounted for nine points to run his season total to 84, tops in the league.

Dallas edged back into contention in the Western Division with a convincing 45-28 victory over the Buffalo Bills. The Texans blew the game wide open in the third period with three touchdowns.

The running of Abner Haynes and the passing of Cotton Davidson highlighted the Texans' attack. Haynes scored three touchdowns, two of them on passes from Davidson. Tommy O'Connell sparked the Bills' belated fourth-period rally which brought two touchdowns.

Those were the only two AFL games played Sunday. Last Friday Los Angeles defeated New York 21-7 and Boston edged Oakland 34-28.

No Females In Kansas Press Box

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — The University of Kansas, which allows no women reporters in its press box at football games, had a protest today from the Hutchinson, Kan., News.

The news' assistant sports editor, Barbara Simmers, was denied access to the press box during Saturday's Nebraska-Kansas game. She was given a seat in the stands instead.

"She is a highly competent writer and at least half our readers are women," wrote sports editor Fred Mendell to A.C. Lonborg, the K.U. Athletic Director. "Indeed, 80 are half of parents of members in your football team and the students in the school. They, too, might be interested in the coverage of Kansas games from the woman's angle."

Earl (Red) Blaik, former Army football coach, played end at Miami, Ohio, University.

McGuirt Retains Scoring Margin

GREENSBORO (AP) — Clemson's Bill McGuirt scored two touchdowns in his team's 24-0 victory over North Carolina Saturday to remain on top of the Atlantic Coast Conference scoring race.

Statistics from the ACC Score Bureau show that halfback McGuirt now has scored eight TDs for a total of 48 points, 18 points better than the No. 2 scorer, N.C. State's quarterback Roman Gabriel. Gabriel's points have come on five touchdowns.

Tied for third, with 24 points on four touchdowns apiece, are Duke fullback Dave Burch and Wake Forest halfback Bobby Robinson. Clemson guard Lon Armstrong is fifth with 15 conversions and two field goals for 21 points. Two Duke halfbacks, Dean Wright and Mark Leggett, are tied for sixth with 20 points on three touchdowns and two points after touchdown apiece.

Seven ACC players have scored 18 points each: Lowndes Shingler of Clemson, Dale Betty and Rex Collins of Maryland, Al Taylor of N.C. State, Tony Uehla of Virginia, and Donnie Frederick and Bobby Allen of Wake Forest.

Unitas Flipped a 16-Yard Touchdown Pass to Ray Berry

Unitas flipped a 16-yard touchdown pass to Ray Berry with 3:49 left and snapped a 24-24 tie that gave the Colts their triumph over Green Bay, which stayed in contention on Paul Hornung's 18-point output. Hornung, the league's scoring leader, scored on 2- and 10-yard runs. He also kicked a field goal and three conversions in a duel with Unitas, who also hit Berry with 45 and 21-yard scoring shots for a career total of 101 TD passes.

St. Louis (4-3) made it three in a row as John Crow scored on runs of 45 and 30 yards and John Roach connected with Sonny Randle on touchdown pass plays of 14, 7 and 3 yards. The Cards checked the Washington (1-3-2) offense except in the third quarter when Dick James carried over from the 3 for a Redskins touchdown.

Winless Dallas (0-7) took an early lead on the first of Fred Cone's two field goals, but a 61-yard touchdown pitch from Frank Ryan to Jim Phillips put the Rams (2-4-1) ahead to stay. Ryan also hit Phillips with a five-yard TD pass while Jim Maron sped 5 and 75 yards for scores. Walt Kowalczyk tallied the Cowboys' only touchdown on an 11-yard sprint.

Jim Ninowski opened the scoring for Detroit (2-4) by throwing a 55-yard touchdown aerial to Dan Lewis late in the second quarter. He then set up a Jim Martin field goal with a 63-yard heave to Gail Cogdill as San Francisco (3-4) was shut out for the first time since 1955. Nick Pietrosante's 27-yard run and Terry Barr's 19-yard scamper accounted for the Lions' other points.

Davidson Upset Will Go In History Books

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Three teams are left in the running for the Southern Conference football championship. And three crucial games, at most, were left to decide the issue.

The contenders are VMI's defending champions, with a 3-0 conference record; The Citadel, just behind at 4-1; and Virginia Tech, at 3-1 after last Saturday's 9-7 deflation at the hands of Davidson.

The decisive games are Virginia Tech at George Washington Friday night; VMI at The Citadel Saturday afternoon; and, perhaps, Tech versus VMI at Roanoke Thanksgiving Day.

Should surprising George Washington turn back Tech, the VMI-Citadel victor would tuck away the championship this week. In any event, the loser at Charleston will be eliminated.

Who'll win the all-or-nothing scrap on The Citadel's home field?

A coach whose team has met and lost to both the Keydets and the Bulldogs — Mill Drewery of William and Mary—picks VMI.

"Both have good ball clubs, but I believe VMI has the experience and the speed to win," says Drewery.

The Citadel, owner of a 6-1-1 overall record that exactly matches VMI's season worksheet, downed William and Mary 14-0 Saturday night. VMI took care of the Indians, 33-21, back on Sept. 17.

VMI downed Lehigh, 18-14, last Saturday. Quarterback Howard Dyer, playing about half the way, scored a touchdown to hike his conference-leading point total to 66; threw his seventh touchdown pass of the season; and all told gained 91 yards to set conference records for total offense and passing yardage.

The Citadel's Early Eestburn, who has scored 30 points, is tied for fourth in scoring. Among those in a three-way tie for eighth with 24 points, are Bill Gilgo of The Citadel and Tony Carmignani of Furman.

Dyer now has 1,297 yards of total offense, 1,093 of them via passing. The old records were 1,227 and 1,072.

Saturday's big news, though, wasn't made at Lexington but at Blacksburg, where an inspired Davidson team caught powerful Virginia Tech with its overconfidence showing and scored a monumental upset.

Danny House snagged a pass from Tee Redding for a touchdown and later downed Tech's Johnny Watkins in the end zone for the safety that gave Davidson its 9-7 triumph in the rain. Tech played without star quarterback Warren Price but had been expected to prevail with ease, anyway.

Alabama made mincemeat of Furman, 51-0, and winless West Virginia played Boston U. to a 7-7 tie in other Saturday games for conference teams. George Washington had licked Richmond, 16-0, Friday night.

This week's schedule starts with Richmond playing at Furman Friday afternoon. Tech meets GW that night. On Saturday, VMI is at The Citadel, William and Mary at Vanderbilt, Davidson at Lehigh and West Virginia at Oregon.

Elon Scores Win Over Newberry

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It will take a mighty big upset to keep Lenoir Rhyne from its sixth straight North State Conference championship and an undefeated season.

Lenoir Rhyne, now 4-0 in conference play and 8-0 overall, slipped down an East Carolina team regarded as strong by a 17-0 score Saturday and did it without the services of the Bears' Little All America tailback, Bob Farmer, who is nursing an injured foot.

Farmer played only two plays, but his position was well filled by Tony McClamrock, who ran and passed for 206 yards.

In the only other conference game last weekend, second-place Appalachian ran its league record to 5-1 with its 13-0 victory over last-place Guilford, now 0-4.

Non-conference activity saw Western Carolina defeat Emory and Henry 19-14, Elon stop Newberry 7-0, and Catawba lose to Presbyterian 20-0.

East Carolina dropped to third place in the standings, 4-2, followed by Elon, 2-3; Catawba, 1-3; Western Carolina, 1-4; and Guilford.

Lenoir Rhyne has only two games remaining, both conference contests — against Elon at Burlington Saturday night and at Catawba Nov. 24.

In addition to Lenoir Rhyne-Elon, the North State schedule for this weekend has Catawba against

N.C. Political Hopefuls Making 11th Hour Appeals

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
 Tar Heel political hopefuls made 11th hour appeals today before throwing the most hotly contested election campaign in state's recent history into the hands of the voters.

The election day forecast called for partly cloudy and not quite as cool weather and gave added impetus to the belief that a new state record would be set Tuesday.

Of prime importance were the presidential and gubernatorial races, both of which shunted other statewide contests to the sidelines in voter interest.

Tar Heels will choose Tuesday between Democrat Terry Sanford and Republican Robert Gavin as a successor to Gov. Luther H. Hodges. They will deliver the state's 14 electoral votes to Democrat John F. Kennedy or Republican Richard Nixon in the presidential race.

Also at stake is a U.S. Senate seat, 12 congressional seats, the lieutenant governorship, all council of state posts and all 170 General Assembly seats.

Turnout predictions have ranged between 14 to 1 1/2 million voters. The record was set in 1952 when 2,210,000 Tar Heels went to the polls.

While Sanford "played it by ear" this final day of the campaign, Gavin planned some last minute handshaking in Charlotte and a statewide telecast from High Point.

Sanford was to be in his hometown of Fayetteville Tuesday morning to vote and then to return to Raleigh to await returns. Gavin said he would vote at Sanford in the morning and await the outcome at his state headquarters in High Point.

In weekend developments: State Republican Chairman William E. Cobb renewed charges of mishandling of absentee ballots in the western part of the state and warned of possible violence on election day as a result.

In an address at Chapel Hill, Democratic vice presidential nominee Henry Cabot Lodge called for full civil rights for all Americans and attacked Kennedy's foreign policy stands.

Robert Kennedy, the presidential candidate's brother and campaign manager, met with Tar Heel party leaders and made a new appeal for North Carolina votes. He was at Charlotte and Morganton.

State Democratic Chairman Bert Bennett and Sanford again predicted a Democratic sweep in Tuesday's voting. Sanford said he would go easy the rest of the campaign, making moves only when trouble spots appear.

Gavin told a Wilmington news conference the GOP would carry the state by 100,000 votes.

short paid telecasts, there were the usual analyses, interviews, projections, plus frequent plugs by each network for its forthcoming election night coverage.

The campaign managers of the two presidential candidates ("Meet the Press") acknowledged they thought the campaign went on for too long a time in this era of electronic hustings. It's almost over now, but we've all had a pretty steady TV diet of politics and politicking since July. During the last couple of weeks there have been more political programs than westerns.

Ed Sullivan gave us a tour of Chicago and Dinah Shore took us on a trip through Spain and Portugal Sunday night.

So little imagination was used on the backgrounds of the Sullivan show it might just as well have stood in its New York theater. But where else on television could you learn that the electric washing machine was first introduced in Chicago in 1907?

Dinah's show was beautiful, dignified—and slow.

Building

Building permits for $119,100 in new construction were issued by Building Inspector J.W. Wilson in October.

There were permits for five residences with a total value of $60,500, two residence alterations valued at $5,500, one business building with a value of $10,000 and six residence additions valued at $15,700.

Construction of three garages to cost $2,200 were approved, as were two storage buildings valued at $700 and two duplex apartments valued at $30,000.

A total of 21 permits were issued during the month and 29 plumbing and sewer inspections were made.

Fees turned over to the city clerk amounted to $301.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture says total assets of the nation's farmers increased last year to a new record high of $203.6 billion.

According to Mrs. Turner, the classes will begin at 2:30 p.m. Nov. 10 and Nov. 16. On Nov. 10, the topic of the class will be "Christmas Lighting Ideas." The Nov. 16 gathering will feature a discussion of "Dry Flowers and Their Arrangement."

Refreshments will be served and door prizes will be given at both classes.

'Elite Race' Plan Recalled In Film

BERLIN (AP)—Hitler's experiment to breed a new Germanic master race is the subject of a new West German movie titled "Lebensborn."

It will show how young girls were herded into special farms to be mated with selected "Nordic type" Nazis.

Their babies were taken away, to be brought up by the state as members of an elite race. The plan was known as "Operation Lebensborn"—a Nazi-coined word meaning "source of life." The men and girls were collected in 18 special hostels.

Nobody knows for sure, but it is believed about 1,000 children were born from this experiment.

Preserved Illusion Of Voters' Wisdom

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
 AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—It may be a good thing that Allen Funt and his "Candid Camera" crew decided to hold up their filmed political poll until a late date—Sunday night—in the campaign.

They asked 35 customers in an airlines office whether a candidate known to have scruples should be removed from the ticket, whether vice president Richard M. Nixon was the more retroactive candidate and if they thought Sen. John F. Kennedy was the more superfluous speaker.

Fifteen or so of the prospective voters who were asked these nonsense questions expressed firm opinions even though they obviously had no idea what the words—scruples, retroactive and superfluous—meant. It was funny but it was also a sharp commentary on human nature. Anyway, it's too late now to have scruples or lack of them becoming a burning issue in the campaign.

Meanwhile, television continued to be full of politics over the entire weekend.

In addition to many long and SOUTH SHIELDS, England (AP)—Mint-flavored smog wafted through this northern industrial town today.

The Shields Gazette, printed England's first "smelly" advertisement—for a brand of canned peas "with the mint flavor." It was printed in green ink with a special mint ingredient.

Alec Moir, managing director of the paper, wasn't sure the experiment was a success.

"The smell might render the newspaper objectionable in the home where it might come into contact with food," he said.

THEY GREW HAIR

Scalp Specialist Shows How to Save Hair and Prevent Baldness

Mr. Melton's complete recovery from hair loss is typical of the results possible thru Erickson's modern scientific methods.

Mrs. Barnes, the same as any woman, is proud of this lovely hair which was restored through prompt treatment by the famous Erickson methods.

The gave 20 minutes of their time for an Erickson FREE consultation and re-grew their hair in only a few months by using Erickson's Home Scalp Treatments in the privacy of their own home. Neither have male pattern baldness.

Are You In The Dark About BALDNESS?

No need to be in dark, it's really very simple. YOUR HAIR WANTS TO GROW.

Now in its eight year, Erickson Hair and Scalp Specialists have had the proven treatment which ends dandruff, checks scalp itch and makes conditions right for hair growth so that hair, by the positive laws of nature, has to grow better.

Tuesday, Nov. 8th, at the Proctor Hotel in Greenville, N. C. Staff Director J. L. Cannady will personally and privately give free hair and scalp consultations between 1 p.m. and 8:30 p.m. to men and women.

WHAT CAUSES HAIR LOSS

Actually there are several scalp disorders that can cause hair loss and baldness. Erickson guarantees satisfaction. This is all the more remarkable in the light of the fact that the great majority of cases of excessive hair fall and baldness are the beginning and more fully developed stages of male pattern baldness which cannot be helped by any known treatment.

But how can any man or woman be sure what is actually causing their hair loss? Even if baldness may seem to "run in the family," this is certainly no proof of the cause of your hair loss. No matter which one is the cause of your hair loss, if you wait until you are sick bald and your hair roots are dead, you are beyond help. If you still have hair (or at least some fuzz) on top of your head and would like to stop your hair loss and grow more hair—NOW IS THE TIME TO ACT!

USERS HAVE SAID:

"The Erickson Treatment has grown me more hair."

"I saved my hair in time."

"My scalp no longer itches."

"My dandruff was gone after just a few treatments."

"I'm proud of my hair after using the Erickson Treatment."

"I'm glad I see the same consultant at regular intervals during the year."

"I'm glad to be under the guidance of a reliable firm."

"After using Erickson Home Scalp Treatment and gaining such fine results, I'm truly sorry I was skeptical and waited so long."

WRITTEN GUARANTEE

We do not ask you to take our word for it. You receive a written guarantee at the time you begin until your treatments end. This fact alone proves what users have said.

PLAN NOW

To see J. L. Cannady at the Proctor Hotel in Greenville, N. C. at your convenience between 1 p.m. and 8:30 p.m. Consultations are private and at no cost or obligation to you. It will only require a few minutes of your time. SURELY YOUR HAIR IS WORTH THIS TO YOU!

By WILLIAM N. OATIS

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—Congo President Joseph Kasavubu was flying to New York today to demand that U.N. soldiers from Ghana and Guinea get out of his chaotic country at once.

Stopping over in Paris briefly, Kasavubu told a news conference he would demand the withdrawal of all U.N. soldiers. Then he indicted he would be satisfied with the immediate withdrawal of the soldiers from Ghana and Guinea. Ghana and Guinea are leading a drive in the U.N. General Assembly to get the Congo Parliament back in session, believing the Parliament will reinstate Soviet-supported Patrice Lumumba as premier.

Col. Joseph Mobutu, the Congo army commander, ousted Lumumba and suspended Parliament in a coup in September supported by Kasavubu. Since then Ghana soldiers have protected the premier from arrest by the Mobutu-Kasavubu regime.

The U.N. assembly was scheduled to begin debate on the Congo this afternoon. Kasavubu's plane was due in New York about the time the session was to start, and his chief New York representative, Sen. Cyrille Adoula, said he would seek to get the debate postponed 24 to 48 hours so Kasavubu could be on hand for the start.

Kasavubu had two advantages in forcing a showdown:

1. The assembly's rules of procedure entitle any chief of state to issue credentials for assembly representatives and the custom is to seat a chief of state without credentials.

2. A new U.N. report on the Congo says the only two fixed institutions in the young nation's political life are Parliament and the chief of state.

The report last week by Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld's chief deputy in the Congo, Rajeshwar Dayal of India, practically ignored Lumumba. But it also severely criticized army commander Col. Joseph Mobutu and the commissioner's council that Mobutu and Kasavubu installed to run the country. The head of the council, Justin Bomboko, is accompanying Kasavubu to New York.

Hammarskjöld's 18-nation advisory committee made up of countries with troops in the Congo force in the Congo, already instructed a conciliatory mission being sent to the Congo next week to work for restoration of parliamentary democracy.

Kasavubu and Mobutu could lead that the Congo is too shaken by political and economic chaos for parliamentary rule to operate.

Hi-Lo's To Open Series At ECC

East Carolina College's 1960-1961 Entertainment Series will open November 12 with a concert of popular music by the Hi-Lo's, vocal quartet whose appeal is described as reaching "the young pop music buyer, the adult album buyer, and the dyed-in-the-wool jazz fan."

The concert is scheduled for 4 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 12, in the Wright auditorium on the campus. Patrons of the college Entertainment Series will be admitted on their season tickets. Others may purchase tickets at the door Nov. 12 at a sale beginning at 3:15 p.m.

Since the Hi-Lo's first established their new, complex, harmonic singing a few years ago, they have been the number-one vocal group in the country and have won every major music poll for vocal groups.

The Hi-Lo's recently completed a three months' tour of Europe. The favorable response which they received has prompted plans for another tour in the near future which is expected to take them to Russia and other countries across the Atlantic.

In addition to their concerts the group has appeared in night clubs, over radio and television, and in the movies. They are Columbia records recording artists.

Prices of the concert for those who do not hold season tickets are $2 for adults and $1 for children. Season tickets are $7 for adults and $3.50 for children.

A study of 1,064 U. S. companies reveals that employ payroll deductions for life and health insurance averaged $4.96 a month during 1959. Employers contributed $9.52 monthly per worker.

Nine Die As Bus And Car Collide

TEMPLETON, Que. (AP)—Nine persons were killed Sunday night and at least 10 others injured when a bus and a station wagon collided head-on on a slight curve near this town 10 miles east of Ottawa.

The station wagon penetrated five feet into the bus. All five persons in the car were killed. So were bus driver Paul Poirier, 30, of Buckingham, and three of his 17 passengers.

A light snow was not believed a factor in the crash. A policeman said it was falling too lightly to obscure the drivers' vision and that most of it had blown off the highway.

The bus was en route from Hull to Buckingham.

The driver of the station wagon was Roland Lavigne, 29, of Hull. With him were his brother Emile, 21; two Ottawa men, Patrick G. Mayville, 21, and Paul Sauve, 19, and a fifth person who was not identified.

Police refused to release the names of the dead bus passengers.

ON THE HOUSE

By ANDY LANG
AP News Features

Family fallout shelters are enjoying a new wave of popularity. Pushed into an eclipse when the United States and Russia agreed to a suspension of nuclear tests, these shelters have been getting increasing attention since it became apparent that world conditions were anything but rosy. New York's Governor Rockefeller and several other state executives have expressed the opinion that such shelters are both practical and desirable.

Many companies now have added the construction of fallout shelters to their usual building line. Other organizations have sprung up for the sole purpose of making and selling units designed to protect against the effects of radiation.

One of the most interesting offshoots of the renewed attention of this subject is taking place in Littleton, Colo., about 13 miles southeast of downtown Denver. There in a new community of some 1,000 homes, fallout shelters are being offered as optional items to the purchasers of 600 of the houses. It was after 400 homes had been completed that the builder hit upon the idea of the shelters.

The distinguishing feature of the plan is that the specifications for the shelters are incorporated into the design and construction of basement bedrooms. Thus, the room has a dual use, as a regular bedroom or as a shelter in case of emergency. Two windows in the room can be closed off in a couple of minutes by placing two solid four-inch concrete blocks into the specially designed openings.

The requirements of the Office of Civil and Defense Mobilization are being met in the construction of these dual-use rooms, as well as in the regular fallout shelters being built by individual companies.

One manufacturer is putting out a blast-and-fallout shelter made of fiberglass and concrete. This underground unit will be located alongside the house and will include a 30-inch fiber-glass entrance tube connecting from the basement. If the house has no basement, an eight-foot vertical shaft will serve as an entrance way. In preliminary tests, the unit was said to protect against multi-megaton blasts to within several miles of the center of the burst.

Still another manufacturer has come out with a fallout shelter designed to be installed by do-it-yourselfers. Units are available for both basement and earth-covered installations. The Office of Civil and Defense Mobilization will use this shelter in a new emergency control station in Thomasville, Ga.

Arrest Three On Liquor Charges

Pitt County ABC officers arrested three Negroes over the weekend on charges of illegal possession of non-taxed whiskey.

According to officers, Hattie Gray of Route 1, Greenville was charged with possessing non-taxed whiskey when a quart of illegal spirits were allegedly found in her possession.

She was recognized to appear in county court to answer the charges.

Harr Mitchell, 58, of 404 West 12th St. was placed under a $300 bond when officers charged him with possession of non-tax-paid whiskey for the purpose of sale after two quarts of booze were allegedly found in his possession. His trial on the charges was set for November 21 in city court.

Willie Joe Parker, 38, of Route 1, Fountain, was charged with possession of non-tax-paid whiskey and driving without a license when officers stopped his car and found a small amount of liquor in his possession.

He was placed under a $200 bond for county court November 15.

"Remodeling our old barn with concrete was the best investment I ever made!"

You hear comments like this everywhere today—for sound reasons! Naturally, with a well-planned concrete remodeling job, you get a building that's good as new at a fraction of the cost of new construction. That's real economy.

But that's not the half of it. Remodeling with concrete gives you unequalled fire safety, solid durability and low upkeep. And concrete floors cut chore labor, make possible the efficient installation and use of modern labor-saving equipment.

Concrete floors boost sanitation, too—easy to clean, won't trap filth, disease germs, parasites—bar rats and mice. Concrete masonry walls keep livestock warm and dry in winter—keep you free from weather worries. Write for fact booklet!

The striking United Federation of Teachers claims to represent a fourth of the 40,000 teachers in the city's 537 public schools. Enrollment exceeds a million. Al Shanker, a union official, said more than 5,000 teachers were expected to picket at all 128 junior high schools, 80 of 86 high schools and about 200 of 600 elementary schools. An hour before classtime, 40 teachers marched outside Seward Park High School on Manhattan's lower East Side. Six pickets patrolled Dunbar Junior High in the Bronx. They said 60 of 80 teachers there were striking. Eight pickets took up posts at La Salle Junior High in midtown Manhattan. At one school, only one of 20 teachers normally on duty by 8:30 a.m. had reported. Charles Cogen, UFT president, called the strike "a great success." The union has accused the school board of breaking promises regarding collective bargaining, sick pay benefits and other issues. The strike coincided with the start of "Open School Week," when parents traditionally are invited to visit schools. Education officials have said the striking teachers would lose their jobs and possibly their state teaching certificates. The state's

16TH DISTRICT, NEW YORK
November 3, 1960

My dear Neighbor:

On January 2nd, 1961, your Congressman will become one of the nineteen chairmen of the House of Representatives of the United States Congress - the head of the tremendously powerful Committee on Education and Labor. To win this victory for Harlem we must have a Democratic Congress, therefore, YOU MUST VOTE THE STRAIGHT ROW B ALL THE WAY ELECTION DAY, NOVEMBER 8TH.

Under my Chairmanship, this Committee will bring out a new Minimum Wage Bill, Federal Aid to Education, massive scholarship assistance for African students and from other areas AND A NATIONAL FEPC - therefore, you must vote straight ROW B November 8th.

ONLY JACK KENNEDY IS PLEDGED TO SUPPORT ALL OF THIS PROGRAM. Only Kennedy voted for these issues in the past. Nixon - THE GREAT PRETENDER - would veto all of these bills because he voted every time in the last fourteen years against the Powell FEPC, against Minimum Wage, against Housing, against Federal Aid to Education. Even this year, when the Nixon Administration refused at the last minute to bring the students from Africa to the United States it was Kennedy who personally paid $100,000.

1960 is the year of truth! Whether you are Republican, Democrat or Liberal, black or white, Jew or gentile, Protestant or Catholic, this is the year for all of us to vote together. To vote for your Congressman to be the Committee Chairman, to vote for a dedicated man, Jack Kennedy, to be President of the United States who will back up our bills 100%.

Let us lay aside all partisan politics and show America that Harlem is on the march Election Day.

Hold down every lever and leave them down on ROW B and ROW B only. Yours for a complete victory for the people.

Sincerely,
Adam C. Powell

South Carolina Teeters On Brink Of Republican Vote

By AL LANIER
COLUMBIA (AP) — Traditionally Democratic South Carolina makes its presidential choice Tuesday in a toss-up election.

Both parties are making victory predictions.

Loyal Democrats say they are certain the Palmetto State isn't going to stray into the Republican fold for the first time in 84 years.

However, there seemed no question on this election eve of major Republican inroads, and GOP state leaders forecast a clear-cut victory.

The sometimes unreliable polls and straw ballots, coupled with the admittedly uncertain consensus of political observers, seem to indicate Republicans will capture the state's eight electoral votes by ever so narrow a margin.

But it adds up to this: Don't bet on the South Carolina election outcome. It's too close to predict.

With such partisan issues as civil rights fanning the flames, a record turnout at the polls could occur among South Carolina's more than 600,000 registered voters. Predictions have ranged up to 400,000 and anything approaching that would surpass the previous general election record of 343,900 in 1952.

An estimated 80,000 Negroes are registered and a big percentage of them can be expected to vote. The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and other Negro organizations have for months urged a big turnout as the best way to end segregation.

One state Negro organization, the South Carolina Progressive Democrats, has endorsed the Kennedy-Johnson Democratic ticket. Another, the Palmetto State Voters Association, declined to take a stand.

It will probably never be possible to accurately assess the votes Sen. John F. Kennedy's Roman Catholic faith will influence in predominantly Protestant South Carolina.

State Democratic leaders have claimed the religious issue is a major factor in the Republican resurgence. Republicans deny it, accusing the Democrats of bigotry in reverse by repeated assertions that religion might be a reason for a Democratic defeat.

South Carolina was one of the few Southern states that voted for Democrat Al Smith, a Catholic, in the presidential election of 1928.

A few county Protestant groups have recently passed resolutions opposing the election of a Catholic president.

As to the racial issue, neither the platforms of the two parties nor their candidates offered much comfort to segregation-minded South Carolinians.

The "lesser of two evils" was the main pitch here.

Republican spokesmen urged South Carolina to "get out of the Democratic bag." They sought to woo the traditionally conservative vote by viewing their party as the standard bearer for states' rights and free enterprise.

Democrats declared South Carolina can best fight its battles from within the party. Farm policies

NOTICE
NORTH CAROLINA
PITT COUNTY
Under and by virtue of an order of the Superior Court of Pitt County made in that special proceeding entitled Jesse James, Executor of the Estate of James S. Rollins Sr., et al. vs. James S. Rollins Jr., the undersigned commissioner will on the 14th day of November, 1960, at twelve o'clock noon offer for sale at public auction on the premises in Bethel, Pitt County, North Carolina, to the highest bidder for cash, a certain lot or parcel of land lying and being in the Town of Bethel, Bethel Township, Pitt County, State of North Carolina, and more particularly described as follows: Lying and being in the Town of Bethel on the northwest corner of James and Jefferson Streets and being bounded and described as follows: Being bounded on the north by the lot of Callie Thomas (now Wadie T. Carson); on the west by the lot of Bertha Crane; on the south by Jefferson Street; and on the east by James Street, being commonly known as the J. S. Rollins Sr. residence, house, and lot containing about 2-5 of an acre, more or less, and being that conveyed to J. S. Rollins by deed of J. R. Bunting dated December 13, 1913, and being that same lot conveyed to J. R. Bunting by deed of M.C.G. Bryan by deed dated November 13, 1885, and recorded in Book T-4 at page 53 of the Pitt County Registry, to which deeds reference is hereby made.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—North Carolina poultry markets: fivers and broilers steady to slightly stronger, farm price 14 1/2 to 14 3/4.

NEW YORK (AP)—Blue chips made some good gains but were clipped back early this afternoon as the stock market kept a ragged edge to the upside in pre-election trading.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .30 to 211.50 with the industrials up 1.20, the rails off .20 and the utilities unchanged.

The list was surprisingly strong at the start, in view of election uncertainties, as high quality issues continued their progress of last week. As the Dow Jones industrial average pushed close to the 600 level, which has proved an upside barrier in the past, profit taking cut back many gains and there were increased losses.

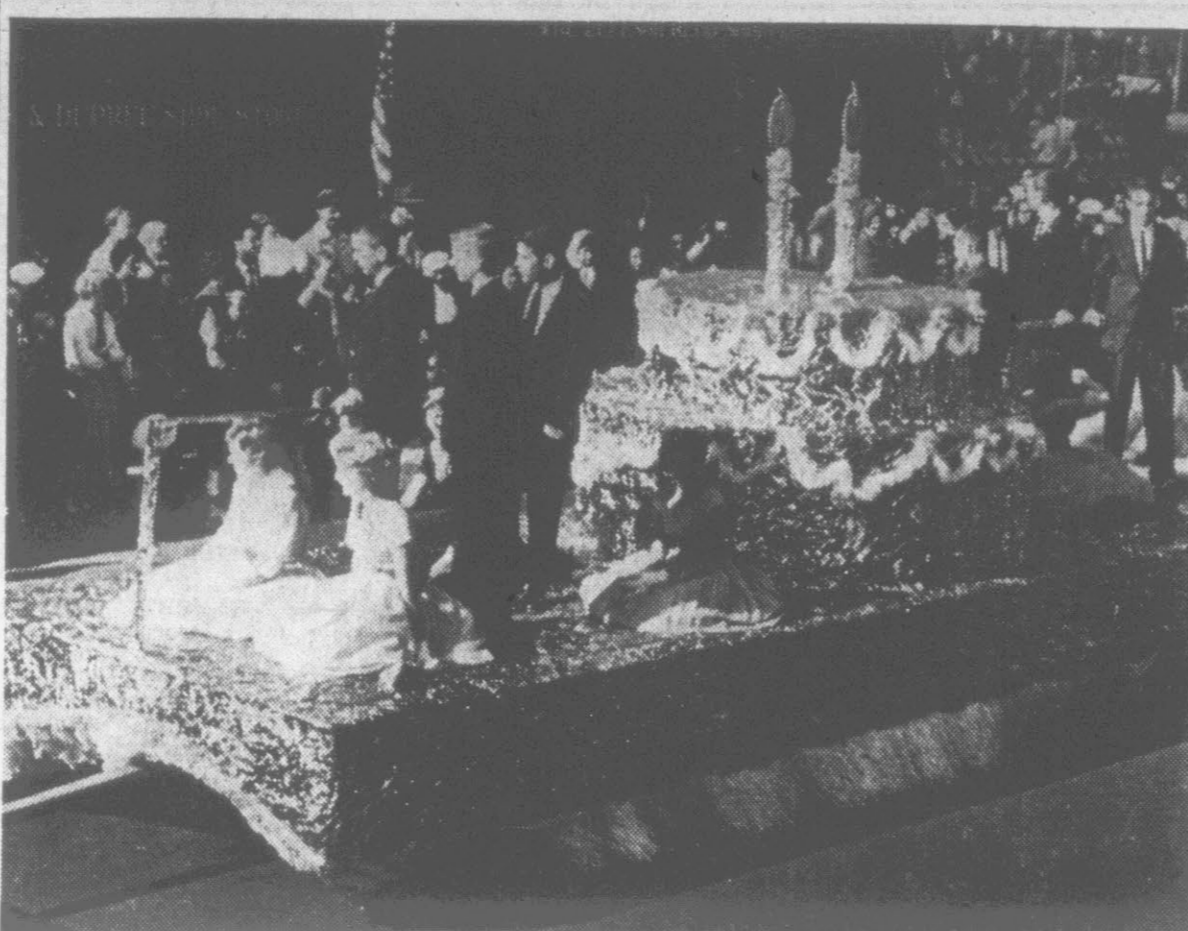

Assorted gains among chemicals, tobaccos, electrical equipment, aircrafts and motors kept the list on the upside.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 2.22 at 538.29. Corporate bonds were mixed. U.S. government bonds were irregular.

Craven GOP Chairman Refuses To Quit Post

MORGANTON, N.C. (AP)—The Republican chairman of Craven County restated today his refusal to resign his post because of a newspaper advertisement which State GOP Chairman William Cobb termed "vitriolic (and) anti-Catholic."

W. B. Rouse asserted in a telegram to Cobb from New Bern that he had acted as an individual, not as a Republican official, and declared, "as an individual citizen and voter I shall continue to exercise my constitutional right of free speech."

Cobb said he had not received Rouse's telegram. After being read a copy of the message by The Associated Press, Cobb declared that his party "will not consider Mr. Rouse to be in authority any longer. We have disassociated the party from him. His actions violate the policy adopted by the candidate for president and the executive committee of the state party."

The anti-Catholic newspaper advertisement, signed by Rouse, was directed at Sen. John F. Kennedy, the Democratic nominee for president and a Catholic.

Rouse noted that the North Carolina Democratic party broadcast Sunday night on television a taped program based on Kennedy's appearance several weeks ago before a group of Protestant ministers in Houston, Tex.

Cobb said Sunday that Rouse, chairman in the county since 1919, "has sabotaged the entire Republican party by a vitriolic, anti-Catholic newspaper ad." He said the other 22 members of the state Republican Executive Committee concurred in ousting Rouse.

Rouse said that no request from the state committee to avoid mention of Kennedy's religion "has ever been received in this office." But he said his office had "scrupulously refrained from violating your alleged rule" and that he acted as an individual in placing the ad.

Kennedy Edge In Final Gallup Poll

PRINCETON, N. J. (AP)—The Gallup poll's final nationwide survey of the presidential race shows following division of the popular vote among likely voters:

Kennedy - Johnson 49 per cent.
 Nixon - Lodge 48 per cent.
 Undecided 3 per cent.

George Gallup, director of the American Institute of Public Opinion, gave the figures in a copy-right story.

Gallup also said in part that considering only those voters who expressed a preference, the division would be:

Kennedy - Johnson 51 per cent.
 Nixon - Lodge 49 per cent.

These results are based upon interviewing conducted during the period Nov. 1 through Nov. 4. This final survey, therefore, does not register the impact of President Eisenhower's campaigning in the final days nor the last-minute appeals and efforts on television by Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Sen. John F. Kennedy.

The figures in today's final election report apply solely to the popular vote. For an election poll to estimate the division of the electoral vote it would be necessary to conduct individual surveys in each of the 50 states," Gallup said.

Gallup said the institute's error has averaged between 3 and 4 percentage points during the 25 years since its founding in 1935.

He said the size of the sample used in today's final report is about 8,000 interviews.

sented copies of reports published by various counties showing county governmental information. The commissioners request to further investigate the cost of such a project in Pitt to furnish information about the county's government agencies in a brochure-type booklet.

The board heard routine reports during the morning session and drew names for a jury list.

Commission Chairman J. Vance Perkins presented information from the N. C. Association of County Commissioners concerning a planned state-wide Industry Appreciation Week set for Nov. 28-Dec. 3. Local plans for the special observance were incomplete.

Woman Is Found Dead In Her Bed

A 45-year-old Negro woman was found dead in bed Saturday at her home on Cotanche St. by a friend making a visit to her house, Greenville Detectives said today.

Officers reported that investigation into the death is continuing and said an autopsy will be performed on the body to determine the exact cause of death.

Investigators said Hazel Mayo of 113 B. North Cotanche St. was found by police after Lonnie House, 45-year-old Negro of 105 North Reide St. reported to police that he saw her lying on the bed when he looked through a window after she did not answer the door. The death was reported about 9:48 p.m.

Farm Dwelling Burned Saturday

Carolina Township Volunteer firemen answered a call to the Henry Harrell farm Saturday about 7:40 p.m. when a dwelling on the farm was destroyed by fire.

According to Chief W. F. Roebuck, firemen responded to the alarm when they were called and told a dwelling on the Cherry Lane Road was on fire.

Roebuck said that when firemen arrived on the scene, the house and its contents were completely burned but firefighters stood by to protect out-buildings in the event they were threatened by the blaze.

The house was occupied by the Preston Campbell family, Roebuck said. They were not at home when the fire started.

The origin of the fire was not determined, Roebuck said.

Rites Today For Actor Ward Bond

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The body of actor Ward Bond was flown from Texas for funeral services today at a home for Purple Heart veterans.

Bond, who played important roles in dozens of movies but achieved his greatest fame on the "Wagon Train" television series, died of a heart attack Saturday at Dallas. He had gone there to watch a football game.

Director John Ford, an old friend of the 55-year-old actor, said Bond's widow, Mary Lou, told him: "He went out like he wanted, at the top of his career."

The funeral was to be held at the Field Photo Home in nearby Reseda. The home was one of Bond's favorite charities.

The Rev. Kermit Castellanos of All Saints Episcopal Church in Beverly Hills was to officiate.

Funeral Tuesday For James E. Warren Sr.

BETHEL—James Earl Warren, Sr., 74, died at his home on Route 2, Bethel Monday morning after several months of declining health.

Funeral services will be conducted from the home Tuesday at 2 p.m. by the Rev. T. N. Cooper, Bethel Baptist minister, assisted by the Rev. C. W. Barbee, Bethel Methodist minister, and the Rev. Wiley Clark, Pentecostal Holiness minister of Bethel.

Interment will be in Bethel Cemetery. Masonic Rites will be accorded at the graveside.

Mr. Warren was born in Pitt County, son of the late William and Amanda Warren. He spent his entire life as a farmer. Mr. Warren was a charter member of Bethel Masonic Lodge No. 589 A.F. and A.M., and a member of Bethel Baptist Church.

Mr. Warren is survived by his wife, the former Della Martin, two sons, J. O. Warren of Robersonville, Clarendo R. Warren of Pen. sacola, Fla.; two daughters, Mrs. Fred Taylor of Robersonville, and Mrs. Horace Tetterton of Bethel. Surviving also are five grandchildren, one great grandchild and several nieces and nephews.

'Not Vindictive' Toward N.C. Demo Party Bolters

RALEIGH (AP)—Democratic gubernatorial candidate Terry Sanford and state Democratic Chairman Bert Bennett indicated today they have no intentions of being vindictive toward Democrats who have bolted the party in the current campaign.

Bennett said, however, he feels the party setup in the state will need some revamping and tightening up and this might be "the ounce of prevention" that would prevent future bolting.

Sanford said that if elected governor he would "have no apologies if I appointed a solid Democratic administration" because "I believe in party responsibility."

He said "I will certainly call on people who've indicated North Carolina must keep on the go and that would mean Democrats."

"However, I'm not going to be vindictive," he added. "I'm not made that way. I'm going to treat everybody fairly and I'm not going to hold any grudges."

Sanford and Bennett's comments came at a pre-election news conference in answer to questions from newsmen. Sanford reiterated predictions of a Democratic victory in North Carolina in the Tuesday election.

Bennett was asked if he had given any consideration to the status of Democrats for Gavin after Tuesday's election, and Sanford was asked if he plans to appoint to office any Democrats for Nixon or Gavin.

"I don't think they were Democrats to start with," said Bennett. "We've got to do some housecleaning and tightening up of our organization."

"But I don't intend to go off the deep end," he said, adding that efforts should be made to win the dissidents back into the party.

During the news conference Sanford also said that:

He sees no need of calling a special session of the General Assembly to attend his inauguration if he is elected. Under the law, the General Assembly will convene in early February.

He is hopeful that the United Forces for Education program can be put into effect without tax increases, but indicated he is prepared to propose new revenue sources if needed to put the program into effect. UFE proposals would boost state school appropriations by better than 50 million dollars a year.

He intends to offer the General Assembly a bill calling for legislative reapportionment which he has advocated during the campaign.

Bennett said that as part of the tighter party set up he favors having party headquarters operating on a full time basis—rather than folding up almost completely between campaigns.

Heavy Damage In Two Collisions

Heavy damage was reported by police in two collisions occurring in Greenville Saturday.

Officers estimated $400 damage to a car operated by Robert Farthington, 101 Dogwood Drive, when it was involved in a collision at Third and Washington Sts. with a vehicle operated by Louis George Zappas of 120 A West 13th St.

Damage to the Zappas vehicle was set at $300.

No charges were made by investigators who said an estimated $50 damage was done to a cement ledge at the Planters Bank, as a result of the mishap.

In the second collision, which occurred at the intersection of Boyd and Broad Sts. at 5:58 p.m., John Calvin Blanchard, 82, of 405 Student St. was charged with failure to stop for a stop sign when his car collided with a vehicle driven by Dorothy J. Wilson of Raleigh.

Damage to the Wilson car was set at $200 while no estimate of damage to the Blanchard car was given.

Dutch Offer U.S. Base In Antilles

THE HAGUE, Netherlands (AP)—The Netherlands government has proposed establishment of a U.S. naval base on the Dutch Antilles island of Bonaire, off the coast of Venezuela. Vice Premier C. D. Kroon said today Bonaire was offered as an alternative to the U.S. base at Guantanamo, Cuba, in view of Prime Minister Fidel Castro's campaign to force the United States out of the Cuban base.
