PITT'S PRECINCTS SEE HEAVY TURNOUT

Advance Predictions Are Of 67 Million Votes Today

By ARTHUR EDSON and WILLIAM T. PEACOCK WASHINGTON (AP) — American voters went early and in big numbers today making their choice between Richard M. Nixon and John F. Kennedy for the next president.

As usual, a handful of New Hampshire precincts had their votes all in and counted by daylight. The score: 49 for Nixon, 8 for Kennedy. Republican headquarters rushed out a statement saying Nixon was running 5 per cent stronger than President Eisenhower did in 1956.

Illinois — Early voting heavier than in 1956 despite rain. Missouri — Near record early turnout in Democratic St. Louis; some outstate points reported big early vote despite chilly rain.

Georgia — Voting so heavy in larger cities that Atlanta sought extra voting machines but found none available. Ohio — Heavy early vote. State and congressional races, some of them as heated as the presidential contest, will help swell the vote total.

Lines Of Voters Formed Early Across Frosty N.C.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Shivering North Carolinians turned out in heavy numbers early today to vote, a check of various cities across the frost-bitten state indicated.

Records also were set in Goldsboro. At one medium-sized rural precinct in Wayne County, registrars said 25 per cent of the expected vote had been cast in the first two hours.

Air Force Fails Deep Space Shot

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. — (AP) — The Air Force failed to hurl a radiation study payload into space today when the second stage of the Blue Scout carrier rocket burned out too soon.

The rocket was to hurl the payload to an altitude of 24,500 miles in an experiment that could have led to methods of detecting nuclear clear explosions high above the earth.

Fire Said Caused By Short-Circuit

The cause of the blaze which resulted in extensive damage to the Quinn-Miller Furniture Company here Sunday night has been attributed to an electrical short circuit according to officials today.

Instead, the rocket assembly plunged into the Atlantic Ocean about 250 miles southeast of Cape Canaveral.

League Has November Meet

The November meeting of the Greenville Service League was held at the Recreation Building Monday morning.

Mrs. D. C. Wade Jr., president, presided. She led in unison the League's Prayer of Christian Service. Various reports were given by committee chairmen following reading of the minutes and treasurer's report. Mrs. Leonard Bloom, corresponding secretary, read a letter of appreciation from Mr. Marvin Blount for voluntary assistance offered the Greenville Art Center by the League.

Mrs. M. P. Hoot reported on the members' activities at the Art Center. She urged the group to bring newspaper or magazine clippings pertaining to North Carolina artists to future meetings to be filed at the Art Center.

Mrs. S. E. Coffman, projects chairman, expressed appreciation to those who assisted with the United Fund drive. Mrs. Morris Brody, United Fund solicitations chairman, announced that the last meeting for final reports of the drive would be held Nov. 10 at City Hall.

Three layettes were furnished during October. Mrs. K. G. Harris, layette chairman, stated. Emergency charity chairman, Mrs. Louise Ficklen, reported five calls answered and Mrs. Stuart Bost announced several memorials to the Hospital Bed Fund. One patient had been cared for through this fund in October. Mrs. Knott Proctor Jr. reported that Halloween favors were made and delivered to Pitt Memorial Hospital by her committee.

Mrs. Frank Longino, bloodmobile chairman, announced the coming visit of the Bloodmobile. They will take place Dec. 1 at E. C. C. and on Dec. 2 at the Moose Club. Workers were obtained for these visits.

The Coffee Shop report was given by chairman, Mrs. J. T. Little. The shop moved in October into temporary quarters within the hospital and Mrs. Little stated the new quarters would be completed by the end of the year. Plans are to open the chapel at the hospital in January. Four representatives from the League will go to Chapel Hill Wednesday to attend the Hospital Auxiliary Symposium.

Mrs. Wade adjourned the meeting with a reminder to vote and to help get out the vote on Election Day.

Mrs. Gerand Speaks On Samarcand Manor

Mrs. Walter Gerand Jr. of Washington, N. C., 1st vice president of District 15 of the North Clubs, spoke on "Samarcand Manor" at the November meeting of the Greenville Woman's Club on Friday afternoon.

Because appeals for a "helping hand for Samarcand" had been made many times to the Woman's Clubs, Mrs. Gerand said she thought members would be interested in the "what, where and why" of the project.

North Carolina has five training and corrective schools; two for white boys, one for white girls, one for negro boys, and one for negro girls. The one for white girls is Samarcand Manor located in Moore County. Although state schools, there are insufficient funds for any landscaping or beautification of the grounds. The Woman's Clubs of North Carolina have taken on the long term project of landscaping and beautifying the grounds of Samarcand Manor.

With money that has already been donated by clubs, Mrs. Gerand said brick terraces, brick walls and walks have been built, the name "Samarcand Manor" put on one of the walls, terrace furniture has been furnished, shrubs and lawn planted. More shrubs and plants are needed, she stated, and it is also hoped to build an outdoor amphitheater, so not only club donations, but private donations are welcomed. Any one interested can mail donations to the North Carolina Federation of Woman's Clubs, marking them "Samarcand Manor".

An important way that clubs can help, besides donating funds, is in the rehabilitation program, the speaker continued. When girls are released from Samarcand, the Woman's Club nearest to her residence is mailed a form with her name and address and suggestions for help. Ways members of clubs can help in rehabilitation, she listed, are to welcome the girls, give wise counsel to them, encourage her to go on to school, help the girl contact community services, if needed, and help the community understand the needs of the girl.

Another way of help is through the "Birthday Remembrance Fund". Every three months a party is held when any one who had a birthday within that time receives a gift. In all five schools there may be as many as ten birthdays in a month so gifts are needed. The value of the gifts

Salem Alumnae To Sponsor Sale

The Moravian Cookies and Moravian Herrnhut Christmas Stars have arrived in Greenville and are being sold by the Greenville Chapter of Salem Alumnae. The cookies have been sold in the area for several years but this year the alumnae is featuring the traditional decorative stars.

Among the distinctive features of Christmas in Moravian communities is the Christmas Star. This Star was introduced in Old Salem from Europe, where it originated a hundred years ago. According to European custom, this decoration is known as the Advent and Christmas Star, and the star is suspended and lighted on the first Sunday in the Advent season and retained until after Christmas. In the United States the general custom is to put up the decoration nearer Christmas time.

Orders may be placed with any Salem Alumnae or by dialing the president of the Greenville Chapter, Mrs. Luther Moore, PL 2-3711. Deliveries will be made.

Buddy Poppy Day Successful

The annual Buddy Poppy Day conducted Saturday by the Ladies Auxiliary of the VFW in Greenville was a successful day, according to Mrs. H. L. Vincent, chairman of the Poppy Sale.

A total of 2,200 poppies were sold for $391. Record sales were accredited to the favorable weather in Greenville that day.

The Poppy Sale is one of the organization's most important programs of the year and proceeds of the sale enables the group to carry on its work to aid the needy and disabled veterans and their families in this community.

Mrs. Vincent expressed appreciation to everyone who took part in the sale to make it a success.

Wives Are Tied Down

By NORMA GAUHN

AP Newsfeatures
NEW YORK (AP)—The good old days were when men called their wives "my ball and chain."

Now the men have traded places. They're the ones who hamper a woman's freedom rather than the other way around. And as a result, everybody is mixed up.

Take the word of marriage counselor Ruth Engle: "There's never been a time in history that girls had so much freedom before marriage — and been so tied down afterwards."

Mrs. Engle feels many marital woes arise because women no longer have a well-defined role. They are educated for careers far removed from homemaking. Then:

"It's a terrific letdown when a woman finds herself confined to home and babies. It brings out resentments she takes out on her husband — even though he isn't to blame."

Mrs. Engle is associated with Mrs. Jane Mayer in a private counseling agency, Marriage Council and Family Guidance, Inc. On the basis of four years experience listening to marriage troubles, her sympathy is with the men.

"The husband used to be recognized as head of the house. Now all the slogans emphasize togetherness. That implies equal authority — and that means trouble. Both partners feel their so-called rights are more important than a good relationship with one another."

Mrs. Engle notes that now nearly all women work before marriage. They have money to spend as they want and few restrictions on their comings and goings.

Then come the wedding bells—which toll a death knell for feminine independence. Income—the husband's. She is financially dependent. And it's worse when a child comes along. She's confined to the house and the routine gets her down."

Mrs. Engle is a great friend of household help — and finds it unfortunate that servants nowadays are virtually non-existent.

"As housewives, women don't get as much free time as their grandmothers," she says. "servants, unmarried female relations, big families, all used to share the work. Now the wife does it all."

Mrs. Engle thinks women should be educated primarily for their ultimate destination — marriage. She is a strong advocate of pre-marital counseling in high school and college.

This doesn't mean women can't study languages, typing, chemistry or Zen Buddhism if they like. But Mrs. Engle says they should have a realistic view of what they're betting into in marriage and "be ready to handle it as an occupation with its own special skills."

Mrs. Engle sticks to the idea that woman makes the marriage. She concedes that some men are impossible to live with. But she also notes it is more important in our society, emotionally and economically, for a woman to be married.

"If a woman is able to see the relationship as more important than the idea of individual happiness, a marriage can work out," she adds:

— The most important thing in marriage is to make the other person happy — not to think "What do I get out of it?"

— Learn to give and it comes back to you. People are starved for praise; give it and your partner will bloom.

— Living happily ever after isn't automatic. You have to work at it, constantly.

— Boredom is the most deadly thing for a marriage. If either partner has no interests, either separately or jointly, it's difficult to keep the relationship alive.

— Bring in new things to do, develop activities and hobbies. Otherwise the husband or wife will start looking around for something — or somebody — else."

Sappho Club Has Luncheon

Mrs. Malcolm Williams and Mrs. D. G. Nichols were co-hostess to a luncheon for the Sappho Book Club recently at the home of Mrs. Williams on Elm St.

The home was decorated with arrangements of fall flowers. A luncheon was served to members and guests, consisting of cold sliced ham, fruit jello salad, green beans, pickles, hot rolls, tea, and homemade chocolate cake.

After luncheon, Mrs. Nichols introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Sue B. May, County Home Demonstration Agent from Winterville, who gave a talk on the subject of "People". She compared the seeds we plant in our minds and the minds of others, with seeds which are planted in the ground in the spring, and the kind of harvest we reap from these seeds. If we plant good seeds, such as our thoughts and deeds we will reap the benefits and have a good harvest.

Mrs. May also informed the Club that most people do not realize the Home Demonstration office is for the City and vicinity as well as just the rural areas, as most people seem to think. She also told us to make use of their material and facilities of that office.

Mrs. J. D. Gilliam, president, conducted a business meeting. Committee's were appointed to find a needy family for the Club to sponsor for Christmas. Books were exchanged and the meeting adjourned.

Referendum For Potato Growers To 9 At Chapter Meeting

December 3 marks the referendum date when producers of early commercial Irish potatoes vote on continuing self-assessment for promotion, research, marketing study and education purposes.

The referendum is conducted by the North Carolina Potato Association, and this year's voting will be the third since 1954. The assessment of one cent per hundred pounds, when voted in by the producers of the 13 eastern counties in North Carolina, will continue for another three-year period.

Hugh B. Martin, marketing specialist with the State Department of Agriculture, said the assessment is expected to return $22,000 annually. Growers in the following counties would be affected: Pitt, Currituck, Camden, Tyrrell, Hyde, Washington, Beaufort, Pasquotank, Carteret, Pamlico, Duplin, Wayne and Craven.

Don F. Alexander, Currituck, president of the association, said that votes are expected from a majority of the nearly 500 producers eligible. He said polling places will be announced at a later date.

RESOLUTION

At the regular meeting of the Pitt County Insurance Exchange on the 13th day of October, 1960, the following Resolution was unanimously adopted:

THAT, WHEREAS, Phil L. Goodson, Sr. was a loyal and faithful member of the Pitt County Insurance Exchange and was unselfish in his devotion to the ideals, goals and ethics of the Pitt County Insurance Exchange and took an active part in every worthwhile effort in its behalf in improving the ethics and public service of the insurance profession in Pitt County and the State; and

WHEREAS, he was a man of the highest integrity and character and, by his straightforward and unaffected devotion to his family, church, and to his profession, by his kindness and consideration for others, made life more pleasant for all who came in contact with him; and

WHEREAS, he gave his untiring service to all civic and public service projects in Greenville and Pitt County;

NOW, THEREFORE, be it RESOLVED THAT this RESOLUTION be passed out of respect for Phil L. Goodson, Sr. and out of the deepest sympathy for his family and friends, and to express to them the gratitude for his service and devotion, and that this RESOLUTION be spread on the minutes of the Pitt County Insurance Exchange; that a copy be forwarded to the widow, Mrs. Hortense H. Goodson, and one to the Daily Reflector.

This the 7th day of November, 1960.

Now That The Clamor Has Ceased

Today, in a manner of speaking, the wheels stopped.

Frantic campaign schedules may haunt candidates' dreams but they are over with and done. Racing mimeographs have ceased their function of churning out reams of statements, speeches and publicity. The candidates, having done everything they could to present their cases before the public, can afford to rest on their oars.

They exerted near super-human effort over a long campaign and everything to be said has been said, everything that could be done has been done. They can look back with the conviction that a losing cause cannot be attributed to any lack of personal effort.

At this point we too can look back. Pollsters and opinion samplers who provided a heavy diet of pre-election meaty speculation now stand ready to analyze significance of the greatest poll of all—and the only one that really counts. They left behind them some safety hatches in a heavy proportion of "undecided" voters, so that no matter how the results go the pollsters will be in business next time around.

In some states (particularly in North Carolina) there was an effort to promote a real two-party system. The goal was worthwhile and one we are sure would augment public interest in good government as well as possibly bring new faces to the fore in political life.

The sincerity of these past months' efforts and their real value will be reflected not in today's voting outcome but in the future work to organize and consolidate and build for campaigns to come. A political party's substance is more than a passing protest or advocacy; it must have a continuity, a core of working leadership and a body of followers.

Our national elections are important to 180 million Americans, but an even greater number of non-Americans are also watching and waiting. The outcome will be debated abroad in other capitals, at quiet meetings and street-corner exchanges. Their concern will not match our own, for the course of American foreign policy and alliances are reasonably fixed in principle. Still, there will be attempts to read significance in candidates' statements and party platforms.

Now the political guns are stilled. Only the will of the people remains to be determined. Sometime late tonight or in Wednesday's early hours we shall know the victors and the vanquished.

Those who must assume the burdens of leadership also face responsibilities that can be borne only with the help of God, and it would be well now, before we are caught up in tomorrow's excitement to ask the Almighty's blessing. A prayerful supplication that our land, our people, our leaders will cling to the path of righteousness and be deserving of His benediction is most certainly in order.

The years ahead are dangerous years. We shall need something more than human fallibility.

Remarkable Example Of Farsighted Planning

Sooner or later the office work of the city of Greenville was bound to grow to the place that all the office space in the city hall was required for city business.

The only amazing thing is that the point was not reached before now.

When the "new" city hall was constructed some 20 years ago city offices moved into new quarters with plenty of room to spare. There was considerably more office space in the building that city functions required, and so office space was rented for non-city business.

It is its meeting this month, the City Council decided that after 20 years the time has come when all of the space in the city hall is required for city business. Tenants in the building have been served notice that they will have to find new quarters by January. According to the Council, it was either remove the tenants from the city hall, or rent space outside the city hall to house some city offices. Certainly the decision made by the Council is the only wise one open to it.

In spite of the fact the city hall will be devoted entirely to city business after the first of the year, it will probably be several more years before the office space in the city hall becomes inadequate to house city functions.

It is a tribute to the long-range planning of more than two decades ago that the city hall has proved more than adequate for housing the city's business offices this long. The experience should be used as a guide at some future date when Greenville faces—as it surely will—the problem of erecting another building or buildings to provide office space for the official business of the city.

Candidates Rely On Impressions

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON, AP. This was not the most intellectual presidential campaign. The candidates gave it a mystical twist with their reliance on impressions through personal appearances.

They made presence a big thing. No wonder mobs tried to touch them.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Sen. John F. Kennedy could have thoroughly informed the electorate on the issues—and where they stood—by a series of prepared speeches which went into details.

Instead, their kind of campaign left little room for eloquence or dissertations. While it was physically the toughest ever undertaken, it gave them maximum chance for meeting voters in the flesh.

By jet and car it took them to all corners of the nation to appeal in person to people in shopping centers, airports, busy streets and assembly halls. But their biggest chance to make an impression was by way of television.

Their views came out in bits and pieces as they raced around like a pair of district aldermen, much of the time in banalities and bromides. Even their TV debates were off the cuff.

This made it easy—for those voters who lacked the time, the knowledge or the inclination to reach a cool conclusion by pulling the pieces together—to rely on impressions in choosing between the candidates.

Did this one look more earnest than the other? More sincere? Calmer under pressure? More the leader? More to be trusted? Actually Kennedy's prepared speeches, in which he did express his position on many issues, far outnumbered anything Nixon attempted. But Kennedy almost always tossed the formal speeches aside, saying what occurred to him at the price or moment.

This made him and Nixon even. The vice president had told newsmen before the campaign he would talk mostly in generalities, skipping the details.

While each man's great reliance on the impression he thought he could create meant a great reservoir of self-reliance each in his own way carried a crutch.

This was Kennedy's: At a time when there are more registered Democrats than Republicans he kept himself linked closely with his own Democratic party, using its long record to bolster his own appeal.

Nixon, knowing his Republicans are outnumbered and that he couldn't win without some Democratic and independent votes, chose to play down his Republican affiliation. He told voters to choose between men rather than parties.

But his crutch was President Eisenhower. He leaned on him enormously. He worked over time mentioning the highly popular Eisenhower and his relations with him.

In the end he got Eisenhower to campaign for him.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

NATURE KNOWS BEST

Yesterday I looked upon the picture of a pleasant and able man married to a homely, disagreeable woman. Yet when the woman died her husband soon died of a broken heart. Our conclusion was that love is indeed mysterious.

It is interesting, is it not, to see the people who get together in marriage. After performing the marriage service for quite a few hundred couples I am prepared to say that in the case of many of them I could not see how the marriage could have come about. What did this beautiful girl of scintillating personality see in this homely, crude man? What did this handsome chap see in this plain-looking, shy person whom he took to be his forever? After thirty years I gave up trying to speculate. The Bible calls marriage a mystery and a mystery it certainly is.

One conclusion I did come to, however, was that beautiful women and handsome men are seldom happy. Usually they are spoiled. With that strict compensation inherent in the order of things, the handsome and beautiful frequently do not have happiness when married to each other.

Handsome men usually marry plain-looking women and beautiful women usually marry men of ordinary appearance. But of course it should be so, else after a few generations of beauty married to beauty and homeliness to homeliness the race would be equally divided between demigods and monsters.

The Changes In Offing

It's here. In fact, by now it's about three-fourths over. We ought to be able to come up with something bright about election day. But, bright or not, election day is election day.

By sundown voters all over the country will have cast their ballots for the presidency and vice presidency. By tomorrow sometime everyone will know whether Jackie or Pat will be the first lady of this land. And new hair styles, new clothes styles and a fresh approach to entertaining will immediately be broached by various and sundry magazines.

We speak not without some authority and knowledge, for "we" are a woman. Remember when Mamie became the first lady? It wasn't altogether Ike that made all the headlines. It was Mamie and her bangs, and bangs were the vogue for that year.

Then there have been the stories about which presidents and first ladies have been the easiest for the White House, butlers, ladies in waiting, servants, etc. to get along with and naturally since Ike and Mamie were there, they were the easiest to get along with. Of course the butlers, etc., all said the Eisenhowers were tactful, considerate and well organized. So much for that.

Then the type meals served, a formal or an informal method of serving, and which room to use for which tea: all have found a time and place, and a change, with each change of administration and new publicity.

Menus have been advertised as the way Ike and Mamie serve them.

And after one set of people gets in, what do you suppose the new hobby will be? For Roosevelt it was trips to Georgia, for Truman it was numerous cruises, if you recall. For Ike there has been that infallible golf.

We can tell already, that for Kennedy, should he get in the White House, it will be memorizing facts and figures at an astounding rate of speed as well as the comfortable sport of sailing.

Nixon? His hobby, or extracurricular interest? It might be public speaking. Or politics. Or maybe he doesn't have an interest which qualifies for the traditional presidential "hobby."

It certainly isn't in us to make a prediction about this election with the "unknowns" in control of the matter, as some of our pollsters claim.

But we'll wish you, our candidates, the best of luck. And if you get this newspaper and you haven't voted, you've got just a little time left if you hurry.

A Tax Squeeze At Worst Point

By ELMER ROESSNER

State sales tax collections were $4.3 billion in the year ended June 30, 1960. Commerce Clearing House reports.

This was a rise of 16 per cent over the previous year. At that rate, the total will be $5 billion in the current fiscal year.

Sales taxes are now the major source of revenue of 30 of the 50 states, and they amount to nearly 25 per cent of all state tax collections.

This is a sorry situation. Doubly so. It has long been contended in this column that the sales tax is one of the worst possible taxes.

TAKE AT WRONG POINT

Obviously, states and other governmental bodies need money. They can levy at any point in the stream of the economy. They can levy when money flows into businesses, such as they do with various gross business income taxes. They can levy when business pays out money in wages and dividends, as they do with income taxes. They can levy on money not spent, such as taxes on inheritances or by taxes in the form of inflation. Or they can levy on the money spent, as they do with sales taxes.

All taxes—and each of those taxes—serve as strictures on the flow of the economy. Things slow down at the point of each levy.

We are a mercantile country. Our prosperity rises and falls with retail sales, with buying for inventory. We have never had a boom while consumers reduced their buying; consumer buying in many recent periods have checked threatening recessions.

Therefore, applying the tax squeeze at the point of sale is applying it at the very worst place. Since taxes restrict, sales taxes restrict the very thing we need most for prosperity. Sales taxes can reduce merchants' profits and throw men out of work; they can swell savings at the time that savings should flow into the market place.

A SECOND DANGER

The double danger lies in the fact that there is always the danger of a recession, no matter how hard we plan, no matter whom you vote for tomorrow.

If there should be a slide in business, demands on states would increase immediately. It would be imperative to create more jobs, to provide food for the hungry, to shore up weak businesses and to launch broad programs. There would not be time for the Federal government to act.

But where states depend on sales taxes, just at the time they needed more revenue, their sources of revenue would fall off simply because people cut buying when recessions threaten.

That could be critical. States would frantically scramble for new sources of revenue, a project that should have been

We Can Always Abstain

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
Copyright, 1960, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Voting is a right inherent in our system of government in the basic concept of the right of choice. We, the American people, have the inherent political right of selecting those who govern us. We go to the polls to vote for specific officials who are nominated for us by political parties.

But no one can require or force an American to vote. He may not be coerced to go to the polling places. Whatever he does, whether he votes or he does not vote, is a matter of choice. He must not be impressed into voting. No social pressure may be employed to drive him to vote. The American Heritage Foundation is drumming up interest in voting and has asked clergymen of all faiths to celebrate an American Heritage Sabbath. This is nonsense and is designed to give the American Heritage Foundation undue advertising. An American has as much right to abstain from voting as he has to vote. John C. Cornelius, who is president of this body, says:

"The observance of American Heritage Sabbath and Sunday is particularly fitting because the heart of our heritage is a religious and moral concept—the supreme worth of the individual person created in the image and likeness of God. We believe that each person counts and that he possesses certain inalienable rights that no state can take away."

Election Day, in this country, never occurs on a Saturday or a Sunday. It takes place on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November—this year on November 8. A citizen may, if he chooses, go to the polls. If he chooses, he may go to the golf course or to a motion picture theater. He may abstain from voting because he has no one to vote for.

There is a standing Seventh Avenue joke (the garment district in New York):

"Who you gonna vote for?"
"This year, I can't make up my mind."

"So what will you do?"
"I'm only glad I don't have to vote for both of them."

The right to vote, like all constitutional privileges, is to be used with discretion. The citizen should ponder a man's record. For instance, when a person says to me that she will vote for John Kennedy because he's better looking than Richard Nixon, I feel that she ought to be deprived of the right to vote. This is no beauty contest. If it were, why not select some handsome actor for President no matter how dopey he may be? Similarly, when I am told that the shades of Hitler establishing racial, religious, denominational exclusion, none of which have anything to do with the qualifications for the Presidency.

If one has no better reason for voting than that a candidate has a good voice on television, it needs to be remembered that Abraham Lincoln had a squeaky voice and that Enrico Caruso had the most brilliant voice that any man ever possessed. Would Caruso have made a superior President to Lincoln?

The Republicans, since Herbert Hoover, have only been able to have Dwight D. Eisenhower elected and he had never been affiliated with the Republican Party until he ran for President. They had nominated Alf Landon, Wendell Willkie and Thomas E. Dewey, and many Republicans abstained from voting for them. Had those who voted for Republican candidates for Governor and United States Senator also voted for Willkie or Dewey, they might have been elected.

Some believe that Dewey is a brilliant political strategist, but, on the national scene, he has always met with defeat. However, he was one of the maneuverers who eliminated Senator Robert A. Taft and brought Eisenhower to the fore. Whether this is a worthy achievement will be decided in the present election because the real question at issue is the Eisenhower Administration—whether it is worthy of continuation. Senator Kennedy claims that the United States did not move during the Eisenhower Administration. Whereas this is not a demerit (Continued on page five)

Kennedy Waits Quietly At Home For Voters Verdict

By RELMAN MORIN
BOSTON (AP)—Sen. John F. Kennedy waited quietly at home today for the verdict of the voters after closing one of the longest, hardest, and most beautifully engineered presidential campaigns in history.

He looked supremely confident, the picture of a man who felt he had won.

For the record he continued to call today's election "close."

But the feeling in his camp is that he is heading for at least a substantial victory over Vice President Richard M. Nixon and at most a Roosevelt-type landslide.

It has been that way for the past week or so.

Kennedy's strategists believe he succeeded in seizing the initiative from Nixon in the final weeks of the campaign. Kennedy hammered at the question of the immediate future of the country, arguing that it is slowing down economically and militarily and that it has lost prestige around the world. His aides feel he convinced the voters that he is better equipped than Nixon to "get it moving again."

Their own findings, the figures in national and regional polls, and the unexpectedly large and enthusiastic crowds in the past three days bolstered the high optimism in Kennedy's entourage.

The Democratic presidential candidate, working right up to the midnight deadline, spent the night in Boston at his apartment on Beacon Hill.

He prepared to vote today at the West End branch of the Boston Public Library in Ward 3, Precinct 6. His wife, Jacqueline, said she would motor the 75 miles from their summer home at Hyannis Port to cast her ballot with him.

Immediately afterward the senator and his wife expected to fly to Hyannis Port to await the returns.

Near the senator's house fronting on Nantucket Sound are the homes of his brother Robert, and his father, Joseph P. Kennedy.

Robert served as his campaign manager. His home was set up as headquarters and filled with communications machinery — four news agency teleprinters, extra television sets, and more than 30 telephones.

The key states, in the eyes of Kennedy's strategists, are California, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Ohio, Texas, Virginia and New Jersey. They are considered close.

These seven have a total of 168 electoral college votes. The minimum for victory is 269.

Hanging over the voting is the brooding, silent issue of Kennedy's religion. He is a Roman Catholic.

Kennedy addressed himself to the religious question once again in the final hours of the battle.

In a coast-to-coast television program on which he appeared with his three sisters, the senator answered a series of questions.

One was: "If elected, will your actions as president be influenced by your church?"

Kennedy replied carefully and at great length. He said, as he has before, that he will "take the oath to defend the Constitution which includes the separation of church and state, and includes the provision that there shall be no religious test for office." He said that if he violated the oath he should be impeached as president.

The final day of the long campaign was sheer drama.

Kennedy devoted it to more rallies in his native New England. The story repeated itself at Providence, R.I., Hartford, Conn., Burlington, Vt., Manchester, N.H., and finally Boston. There were overflow crowds, roars of applause, excited admirers breaking through police lines and virtually mobbing Kennedy even in cities and regions considered strongly Republican.

In Washington, New York and Boston, Kennedy's aides were dueling with Nixon to match his four-hour telethon from Detroit.

They were advised that he could purchase 45 minutes of extra time beginning at 6 o'clock.

With telephone calls flying back and forth from Kennedy's motorcade, the senator hastily dispatched two top aides to act as monitors on the Nixon show. They were Theodore Sorenson and Meyer Feldman, legislative aides. By the time he reached Manchester, N.H., they were ready with a report.

However, the format for Kennedy's half-hour was not arranged until 10 minutes before he went on the air. The script was still being written.

From Manchester Kennedy flew to Boston. His home town saw him a riotous welcome. Police said it was the biggest since Gov. Alfred E. Smith of New York came to Boston during his presidential campaign in 1928.

The crowds were so thick that it took nearly two hours for Kennedy's motorcade to cover the two miles from a downtown hotel to Boston Garden. An estimated 18,000 people were in the Garden.

Marlow Col...

The impression Kennedy gave of himself was simpler and more consistent than the Nixon impression. He followed a fairly straight course from the beginning without shifts or surprises. Nixon tried both.

Kennedy attacked the Eisenhower-Nixon record; tried to create a sense of urgency, movement, and vision; and, compared with Nixon, didn't spend much time belittling his opponent.

Nixon started out rather mild and agreeable. Witness his first TV debate in which he repeatedly agreed with Kennedy. This had too much of the me-too in it for some Republicans.

Thereafter, Nixon stopped agreeing.

Nixon started out trying to When Kennedy did well on the first TV debate, Nixon added first TV debate, Nixon added words like "dangerous" to the immaturity complaint.

In the end he used up a lot of the time, in which he might have built himself up, in running Kennedy down.

For example: When both spoke on separate TV programs last Saturday night, Kennedy in his half-hour practically ignored Nixon's existence. For most of the half-hour Nixon kept Kennedy high in the consciousness of the audience he himself was trying to impress by deriding his opponent.

SUFFOCATE IN TUNNEL
PALANCARES, Spain (AP) — Five passengers including two children suffocated when a train stalled in a 2-mile railway tunnel Monday. Five other passengers were in grave condition. ## 'Wagon Train' Will Need A Replacement

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Death of Ward Bond means NBC's popular "Wagon Train" will soon enlist a new wagon master.

Reports from the West Coast are that there are 16 new episodes of the Wednesday night show are ready for showing, which will keep Bond in the cast until Feb. 20. During the next few days, however, some plan will have to be worked out to give the show a new wagon master. Will Robert Horton be transferred from scout to head man? Or will a new cast be brought in?

Such a situation has arisen comparatively few times in television. When Jack Webb's original partner in the early "Dragnet" series, Barton Yarborough, died suddenly of an embolism in 1951, a special episode was written quickly which had Joe Friday's partner, Ben Romero, shot and killed in line of duty. Later, Ben Alexander took over as Webb's co-star. (Yarborough's death was handled on his radio show—he played Cliff Barbour on "One Man's Family" for years—by having the character unexpectedly leave for China for a protracted stay.)

ABC coped with its current difficulties with James Garner, "Bret" of "Maverick," by replacing him with a new Maverick character — Cousin Beau — without loss of popularity to the program.

Timmy of "Lassie" has had three mothers (Jan Clayton, Cloris Leachman and, now, June Lockhart) and Danny Thomas has had two TV wives (Jean Hagen and Marjorie Lord). Usually, non-emergency shifts in casts are made between seasons, as quietly as possible.

CBS found it was having trouble clearing time on affiliated network stations for showing a fam-

Half-Mast Flag For Ward Bond

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The American flag flew at half-mast beneath a cloudy sky as last rites were said for actor Ward Bond, 55, who died of a heart attack Saturday in Dallas.

John Wayne, a chum of Bond's since college days, said, "It's the way he would have wanted it. There was no one who loved his country more."

The services were held Monday at the Field Photo Farm, a home for Purple Heart veterans, in the San Fernando Valley community of Reseda.

Wayne was a pallbearer, as were bearded Frank McGrath and Terry Wilson of Bond's "Wagon Train" TV series. Co-star Bob Horton sent condolences to Bond's widow.

onstrable statistically, there is a measure of disappointment at some of the results.

The voter who cannot make up his mind is entitled to say so. Maybe there ought to be a spot on the ballot where a voter can say, "I abstain." I wonder what a percentage of votes it would show.

Homicide Counts Face Turncoat

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Claude Batchelor, convicted as a turncoat during the Korean War, was charged with two counts of negligent homicide Monday.

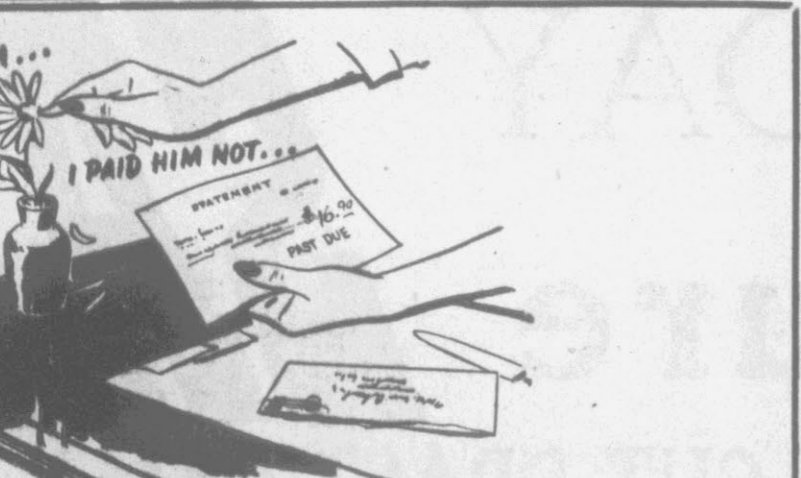

The charges, alleging first- and second-degree negligent homicide, grew out of the death of Simona Barrera, 46, in a collision involving Batchelor's auto last Friday. Conviction carries a maximum penalty of three years in jail or a $3,000 fine or both.

Batchelor, 28, was convicted in 1954 of collaborating with his Communist captors during the Korean War and was sentenced to life imprisonment. It later was reduced to seven years.

Batchelor, paroled last year, listed his occupation as clerk with a San Antonio firm.

Bone-Wearied Nixon Flies Home, Predicting GOP Win

MEET THE PEOPLE — King Baudouin of Belgium and his Spanish fiancée, Dona Fabiola de Mora y Aragon, acknowledge the cheers of a Brussels throng from balcony of the town hall. They rode in an open car through the capital before visiting the town hall.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Bone-weary Vice President Richard M. Nixon, predicting Republican victory after 64,000 miles of campaigning, came back to his home

Report Progress Against Cancer

RALEIGH — Reports made at the meeting of the North Carolina Division of the American Cancer Society here indicate marked progress in the long drawn battle for control of this disease.

The educational program has alerted the average man and woman to the wisdom of frequent check-ups for early discovery of cancer if it exists. The research program has developed drugs and medical technique offering high hope of cure if applied in time.

Report Progress Against Cancer

State Senator John R. Jordan of Raleigh was elected president, succeeding Dr. Max Schiebel of Durham. Dr. Rachel Davis of Kinston was re-elected secretary. A budget for 1961 was adopted in the amount of $306,000. This money will be used for education, research and for direct aid to persons in need of treatment.

state early today to vote and await the nation's verdict. The GOP nominee's swift-paced, far-ranging quest for the presidency came to an informal, spectacular close here even as early rising voters in the East were stirring from their beds to start the nation's march to the polls.

Nixon's chartered jet airliner arrived from Chicago at 12:57 a.m., PST, after a grueling 7,200-mile tour from California into Alaska, Wisconsin, Michigan, Illinois and back to California in the final two days of the campaign. A crowd estimated by police at more than 15,000 waited several hours at suburban Ontario International Airport to greet the vice president and his wife.

The formal close of Nixon's campaign against his Democratic rival, Sen. John F. Kennedy, came earlier in a nationwide television address from Chicago. In that low-keyed talk, Nixon called a halt to his weeks-long attack on Kennedy and urged the voters to elect the man—regardless of party label—they regard as best qualified to serve America and safeguard peace.

He left no doubt that he hopes their choice will be Nixon and his vice-presidential running mate, Henry Cabot Lodge.

Voted Republican Ever Since 1920

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Anna Welsh, 106, was born July 15, 1854—11 days after the Republican party was founded at Jackson, Mich. She says she will cast her ballot today for Vice President Richard M. Nixon for president and vote the straight Republican ticket—as she has in every presidential election since women's suffrage in 1920.

Coal is believed to have been used first by the ancient Chinese, probably about 1500 B.C.

had seen a more enthusiastic crowd and "I never saw a bigger one at 1 o'clock in the morning."

At that point the public address system failed for a few minutes, but the vice president said laughingly it made no difference because he was making his last speech of the campaign.

Before he arrived at the studio in downtown Chicago, Nixon had spent 48 almost sleepless hours traveling from California to Alaska, then on to Wisconsin, Michigan and Illinois before returning to his starting point.

During those fading moments of the campaign, Nixon also appeared for four hours on television in Detroit, grueling hours spent answering questions from anyone who cared to ask.

The rush-rush pace began telling on the vice president in Detroit where he exhibited signs of irritation when he was off camera.

Absentee Ballot For Ailing Actor

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Clark Gable, recovering from a heart attack and deemed too sick to have any visitors except his wife, still plans to vote today.

He and his doctor made arrangements to sign papers that would get him an absentee ballot after the usual deadline.

Gable, 59, was stricken Sunday at his suburban Encino home. His condition was reported as satisfactory late Monday night.

His wife, Kay, who is expecting a baby in March, is sleeping in Gable's room on a cot. His physician has prescribed at least three weeks hospitalization.

affect every man, woman and child in the world."

That man, Lodge said, should be a man of experience "who will never yield to an impetuous act."

In his 15-minute finale Nixon made only one slight reference to his Democratic opponent, Sen. John F. Kennedy. He said that "those who say America is drifting are dead wrong."

Before emplaning for Chicago Nixon spent nearly eight hours in Detroit, enemy country where only about 30 per cent of the voters are Republicans.

Michigan has 20 electoral votes and is regarded by Nixon supporters as one of the possibly pivotal states.

During his stay in the auto-making capital Nixon rode in a motorcade to a rally at Ford Auditorium on the Detroit River and then made his four-hour television appearance, an appearance unprecedented in the history of presidential campaigning. At the rally, Nixon was wildly cheered by the capacity audience of 3,000 inside and 4,000 outside on the front steps and approaches.

His big pitch at the rally was peace. "My friends," he said, "I am convinced that we are going to have peace and have it without surrender. I am convinced that the forces of freedom are going to prevail, that the people behind the Iron Curtain are eventually going to have freedom."

Afterwards Nixon was off to his big appearance over a 125-station AB network over 100 telephones were installed to receive the questions telephoned from all over the nation.

Bomb-Like Device Found In Mail

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — A bomb-like device was found in a package mailed here and addressed to Vice President Richard M. Nixon in Washington, D. C., postal authorities report.

Clerks became suspicious when they noticed a note on the package reading: "Pull string to open."

An Army ordnance unit at nearby Ft. Rosecrans found inside the package an Army M15 artillery simulator, a flashpowder-filled device used to simulate an exploding shell for training purposes.

Pulling the string would have detonated it, experts said. They said the powder could have killed anyone nearby.

Italian Leftists Score Big Gains In Provincial Voting

ROME (AP)—The Communist Socialist left scored impressive gains today in nationwide Italian provincial elections.

Italy's long-dominant Christian Democrat party also won a slightly larger percentage of the vote than in the last provincial elections four years ago but showed less strength than in the 1958 parliamentary elections.

In complete unofficial returns from the voting Sunday and Monday in 78 of Italy's 91 provinces, the Communist-Socialist left moved ahead to within 1.4 per cent of the Christian Democrats' total vote.

Despite the leftist gains, the immediate effect nationally could be to strengthen the present middle-of-the-road Christian Democrat government headed by Premier Amintore Fanfani.

The three feuding minor center parties which lost ground, are less likely now to withdraw their support from Fanfani's single-party government, both because of their fear of the left-wing gains and the increased possibility of finding themselves pushed aside.

The Christian Democrats also are less likely to call national elections before the expiration of Parliament's normal five-year term of office in 1963. Some Christian Democrats had advocated holding an election for a new Parliament if the local elections indicated they had a chance of winning a majority that would enable them to govern alone.

Another eventual result might be renewal of negotiations for a move toward cooperation between the Christian Democrats and Pietro Nenni's left-wing Socialists. The Communists appeared to have been the big gainers in the election's left-wing surge, with Nenni's fellow-traveling Socialists just maintaining their strength. In the last provincial elections, in 1956, the two left-wing parties ran on the same ticket, so comparison of the 1956 and 1960 votes is possible only by lumping the Communists and Socialists together again. But the Socialists won only 14.4 per cent of the total nationwide vote this time, in comparison to 14.65 per cent in the 1958 national election.

Plays Original Piano Composition At High School Assembly Friday

Jake Gaskins, sophomore at Rose High School, played his original piano composition titled "Metropolitan Midnight" for an assembly at the high school last Friday morning. His work is in the Gershwin style and was an immediate success with the students and visitors present.

Jake, who has been studying piano for eight years, composed other pieces when in elementary school, but this is his first work since his prize-winning compositions while in the sixth grade.

Active in St. Paul's Episcopal Church as an acolyte and scrapbook chairman for the Young Churchmen, Jake also likes to draw and is interested in biology.

At the present time, he is experimenting with the effects of x-radiation on the development of the chicken embryo. Dr. Allen Taylor, local radiologist, is advising him in this work.

Although carrying a full schedule of work this year, Jake is an honor roll student and a member of the GREEN LIGHTS staff. He hopes to study medicine. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Gaskins of 1601 East 6th Street, Jake studies music under Miss Eva Hodges.

Direct Line To Kennedy Home

BETHLEHEM, Pa. (AP)—Ever hear of Fountain Hill? It's a small borough near this eastern Pennsylvania steel city.

Sen. John F. Kennedy has installed a private telephone line from the hamlet to his home in Hyannis Port, Mass.

The Democratic presidential candidate has asked Roy Rebeck, Lehigh county Democratic chairman, to phone election results to him as soon as they are known.

Know why? The First Ward of Fountain Hill has voted for the winner of all 15 presidential elections this century. The ward has 673 registered Democrats and 395 Republicans.

Chemist To Talk Before Society

Dr. Joseph J. Katz, senior chemist at Argonne National Laboratory, will address the Eastern North Carolina Section of the American Chemical Society at 7:30 p.m. Thursday.

The address on "Chemical and Biological Studies with Deuterium" will be held in Flanagan Hall at East Carolina College. Dr. Katz will discuss the effects of deuter-

Asthma Formula Prescribed Most By Doctors—Available Now Without Prescription

Stops Attacks in Minutes... Relief Lasts for Hours!

New York, N.Y. (Special)—The asthma formula prescribed more than any other by doctors for their private patients is now available to asthma sufferers without prescription.

Medical tests proved this formula stops asthma attacks in minutes and gives hours of freedom from recurrence of painful asthma spasms.

This formula is so effective that it is the physician's leading asthma prescription—so safe that now it can be sold—without prescription—in tiny tablets called Primatene.

Primatene opens bronchial tubes, loosens mucous congestion, relieves taut nervous tension. All this without taking painful injections.

The secret is—Primatene combines 3 medicines (in full prescription strength) found most effective in combination for asthma distress. Each performs a special purpose.

So look forward to sleep at night, and freedom from asthma spasms. Primatene only 95¢, at any drug store.

Duke Jumps To Seventh Spot In AP Weekly Poll

The five teams of The Associated Press top 10 who escaped unscathed on "Black Saturday" last week possibly are a little apprehensive today.

lands of Georgia Tech, was a member of the top 10.
Minnesota took over the No. 1 spot by virtue of its decisive, 27-10 victory over Iowa, previously the No. 1 team. The Hawkeyes were dropped to fifth place in the voting by a 48-man panel of sports writers and sportscasters taking part in the poll. It was the Gophers' seventh straight victory.

Ohio State jumped from fifth to third by walloping Indiana, and Mississippi climbed from sixth to fourth with an easy victory over Chattanooga.
Three of the top 10 losers last week - Tennessee, Syracuse and Rice - were dropped from the list

Grid Trend Toward Use Of Field Goal

By JACK CLARY
If the 1960 college football season accomplishes little else, it will be known for returning, in a big way, the foot to football. And at the same time it may be bidding farewell to the "workhorse" back who has dominated many backfields.

seen a further decline to only 29.5 per cent.
At the same time, the accuracy of the place kickers in this period has risen from 68.6 to 79.7 per cent, again getting a boost from the winded goal posts.
The field goal pace is slightly ahead of last year's pace when a record 195 were kicked in major college games. So far 168 have been made.

Others receiving votes were: UCLA 38, Pittsburgh 31, Michigan State 16, Tennessee 15, New Mexico State 10, Rice 9, Yale 8, Syracuse 8, Utah State 7, Florida 6, Alabama 3, Texas, Kansas 3, Oregon 2, Michigan 1, Army 1.

Final Week Of NE Action Won't Produce Headlines

Northeastern 3-A Conference football clubs draw the curtain on the season this Friday and the final action will have little bearing on final standings.
By virtue of a 13-0 victory over New Bern Friday, Tarboro won its first Northeastern title. It was only the second season of competition for the league's youngest member. They finished in second place last year.

While Tarboro was annexing the conference title, Greenville's second place Phantoms were making headlines and adding a feather to league prestige, dumping unbeaten and 4-A kingpin Wilson, 20-19.
Other action last Friday saw Jacksonville club Elizabeth City 26-0 to pull into a fourth place tie with Roanoke Rapids. The Yellow Jackets gained a 25-0 non-conference win against Weldon.

At Kinston, Washington dominated the ball to rack up its first league win, 13-0. Halfback Bill Horton paced the winners, scoring the first touchdown following a 37 yard drive in the first quarter and flurried in setting up the second touchdown in the final period.
Both teams close out the season this week with league matches. Kinston meets an old foe, New Bern, and Washington invades Jacksonville.

Coastal League Meets To Decide All-Conference

By LEONARD LAO
Reflector Sports Writer
Coastal Conference play came to a close last Friday night, but not before a couple of thrilling battles topped the loop action.

Underdog Farmville turned back third place Havelock in a brilliant second half comeback by the slimmest of margins, 14-13, while the Rams of Robersonville dropped LaGrange 21-6.
When the Red Devils took the field Coach Elbert Moye had only 15 players in uniform, and two of them were dressing for a varsity game for the first time. The Red Devils had been stricken with injuries all through the season, but never this badly.

If they took a vote in the Southern Conference this election day, George Washington's Colonials no doubt would be chosen by a landslide as the most improved football team in the league.
The Colonials were everybody's favorite patsy last season, with a 1-8 over-all record and a 9-5 conference log. Prospects for 1960 were mighty dim when Bill Elias assumed command as coach.

Finch-Tregoff Jury Is 'Hung'; Face 3rd Trial

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Three women doubted a gigolo's story, the jury deadlocked—and a third murder trial now faces Dr. R. Bernard Finch and his red-haired sweetheart, Carole Tregoff.

The second trial ended Monday with the unshaken, impassive defendants going back to jail and an angry judge, his face florid, tongue-lashing an ashen-faced defense attorney.

Then as the 11 women and one man of the jury separated and scattered to their homes, they told newsmen how they reached their hopeless deadlock.

All agreed that Dr. Finch was guilty of murdering his wife, Barbara Jean. But while nine voted for first-degree murder, three held out through 59 ballots for a verdict of second-degree.

These three said they didn't believe the testimony of one of the state's key witnesses, gigolo-hoodlum John Patrick Cody, who said Dr. Finch, 42, and Miss Tregoff, 23, had hired him to murder Mrs. Finch.

The split was the same on Mrs. Tregoff. Nine voted her guilty and three voted her innocent.

"Cody was unbelievable," said one of the three, Mrs. Vada E. Pontious. "I couldn't find that there was any premeditation based on the statements of a self-confessed liar."

The state claimed that when Cody didn't kill Mrs. Finch—but told the defendants he had, to bilk them of money—then the doctor and Miss Tregoff went to the Finch home and "did it themselves." The defendants claimed Mrs. Finch was killed when a pistol discharged accidentally.

The third trial was set for Jan. 3.

"Obviously the case should be retried," said Superior Court Judge Dawson. "We cannot put a price tag on justice."

Unofficial estimates set the combined cost, to the county and defendants, of the two trials at $600,000.

The first lasted 95 days, including 37½ hours of deliberation by jurors, and the second—the longest in California criminal court history—for 133 days, including 71 hours of deliberation.

The second trial ended with the attorney for Dr. Finch, Grant B. Cooper, facing two contempt charges. He will be sentenced Thursday.

They were brought Friday when Cooper claimed that Judge Dawson was invading the jury's province by advising the panel that he thought there had been a murder, and that he doubted the stories told by the defendants. Judge Dawson said he had the right to advise the jurors on points of law and credibility of witnesses, as provided by a California constitutional amendment. He said Cooper's comments could have caused a mistrial.

Cooper, his face ashen but expressionless, stared implacably at the angry judge during the scathing rebuke. He said he would represent Dr. Finch at the third trial, as did Donald Bringgold, Carole's attorney. A new judge and a new jury will be assigned.

Shaw of Charlotte. Shaw, chairman of the Piedmont Chapter of the American Society of Tool and Manufacturing Engineers, told some 200 members of the chapter here Monday night that a Piedmont Triangle would be an industrial complex bounded by Charlotte, Greensboro and Statesville.

He said the Research Triangle between Raleigh, Durham and Chapel Hill, "is a big concentration of research facilities." The Piedmont Triangle, Shaw added, would be "a big concentration of industry in action."

Under the plans outlined by Shaw, one side of the triangle would be Interstate Highway 85 from Charlotte to Concord, Kannapolis, Salisbury, Lexington, Thomasville, High Point and Greensboro. The other sides would be Interstate 77 from Charlotte to Statesville and Interstate 40 from Statesville to Winston-Salem to Greensboro.

Shaw said the ASTME plans to promote the Piedmont Triangle to offer new industry a wealth of know-how in virtually any kind of manufacturing venture. This know-how, he said, would be supplied by the industrial education centers of Burlington, Gastonia, Hickory, Charlotte, Leaksville, Greensboro and Winston-Salem and proposed training centers in Lexington and Salisbury.

SNOW IN VIRGINIA

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—The State Highway Department Monday reported an accumulation of two to three inches of snow at the junction of U.S. 211 and the Skyline Drive in northern Virginia. Road crews used a snow plow to keep the mountainous route open to traffic.

Geography Fraternity Adds Nine New Members

East Carolina College's Beta Iota Chapter of Gamma Theta Upsilon, national professional geography fraternity, has announced the addition of nine students to its membership and a program of activities for 1960-1961, according to Michael B. Jones of Manteo, president.

The organization, one of the most active student groups on the campus, began this fall a series of bi-weekly meetings at which staff members in discussion of topics relative to the field of geography.

This fall the fraternity chapter issued its first news letter. A mimeographed publication, the booklet is being distributed to students, faculty members, and alumni of the college geography department.

Two other projects to be carried out during the school year include the chapter's annual field trip to Washington, D. C., to visit government and private agencies in

Giant Stratojet Crash Kills Five

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A six-engine B47 Stratojet bomber crashed on take-off from nearby Lockbourne Air Force Base early today, killing all five persons aboard.

The $2½ million jet exploded and burned on impact with the 12,000-foot runway.

The crew was on a routine training mission, the base public information officer said. They were members of the 301st Bomb Wing of the 801st Air Division at the base.

JAMES KEENE'S New Historical Novel IRON MAN, IRON HORSE

CHAPTER 10

Ben Holliday and Lieutenant Gary walked together to the switchyard. Ollie Skinner was there, sitting in the sparse shade. He had some gear stowed on the handcar, and Holliday looked at it. "Where do you think you're going?"

"Along," Skinner said. He held up his hands. "Before you get to yellin' at me, let me just say that it ain't goin' to hurt you none, and it may do you a bit of good. I know this country. It would pay you to listen once in a while. That there chairman of the board thing don't make you that smart."

Lieutenant Gary frowned; he disapproved of this kind of talk from a hired man. But this was railroad business and he kept out of it. Finally, Holliday said, "Let's go then, Gary and I'll pump. We don't want you keelins over from overwork, Skinner."

They pushed the handcar past the switch, and while it was coasting the two men laid their weight on the handles and got up a little speed. Skinner sat in the bow, his Sharps rifle crossways on his knees.

It was a good feeling, the dripping sweat from Holliday's face soaking his shirt, and he liked the sound of the wheels clacking over the rail joints, eating the miles away, moving along briskly southward in a flat, dun-colored country with hardly a break in it. The string of telegraph poles marched by, and if a man wanted to count them and do a little mental arithmetic, he could calculate his rate of travel very accurately.

Skinner spelled them in turn, and they didn't stop at all until the sun was well down. They left the handcar on the track and camped near the roadbed. Skinner put together a fire, gathering the heavy stems of brush for fuel. The meal was mainly bacon and soggy pancakes, followed by coffee, so strong you could etch copper with it. Gary brought out three cigars, and this pleased Skinner, who had a taste for them but was too tight with a nickel to buy his own.

"When you report to Colonel Dawson," Holliday said, "it might soften the effect of your tardiness if you mention that you'd talked me into building the telegraph line to the post."

Skinner raised his head and looked disgustedly at Ben Holliday. "That's a fool move. Ain't you got enough troubles without bringing in the army?"

"I never thought of it until Mr. Gary mentioned it, but it's the smartest advice I ever took. Skinner, our position's a lot stronger with the Texans if we string wire to Fort Elliot. It's like Mr. Gary says: the army is there to keep the Indians in line."

Ollie Skinner chuckled, but Lieutenant Gary didn't see the humor in it. "The military," he said, "is not an instrument to be used by civilian enterprise, Mr. Holliday."

"It is if you want a telegraph," Ben pointed out.

"I see. If I'd known that—" "You'd still need the telegraph," Holliday said. "Now before you accuse anybody of pulling a sneaky, try to see my position. If this railroad operates, army supplies will only be eight miles from the post, and instead of freighting them in on the stage road to Tascosa, the army will get them at much less rate. You're forgetting about the contract the government has with all railroads: men and material transported at a rock-bottom rate. Don't expect to get anything for nothing. It never works."

"I'm going to inform Colonel Dawson of these ramifications," Gary said.

Ben Holliday laughed. "He already knows, and then some. The railroad is going to make his job easier."

"And tougher," Gary said. "I heard about all the Indian trouble you've stirred up."

"Then look at it this way," Holliday said. "If we didn't stir up the Indians, you wouldn't have a job to do."

Skinner stopped puffing on his cigar and said to Gary, "Sonny, don't argue with him; it don't do any good. His old man's one of them big moguls, and his brothers are swindlers from the word go. And most of 'em rubbed off on him."

Gary said, "Are you going to let him talk to you like that?"

Holliday waved it aside. "All Texans are windbags, Mr. Gary. Now get some sleep." He turned to his blankets and stretched out. "Skinner, how are the rattlesnakes around here?"

"Friendly. Come right up and share your blankets. But don't roll on 'em. Makes 'em grouchy."

"Good advice," Holliday said blandly.

"Say, he's joking, isn't he?" Gary asked.

"Don't go walking along the tracks at night," Skinner said. "You'll find out then whether I'm joking or not. They like to lay against the rails to keep warm."

"I think I'll sleep on the handcar," Gary said, and got his blankets. Skinner chuckled and lay there, his cigar end glowing redly for a time. Then he snuffed it out and went to sleep.

The dawn sunlight woke them, and Skinner booted first Holliday, then Gary. "Up! Up!" he said. "Come on, up!"

Gary came to a sitting position and rubbed his backside. "I'm not used to being woke like that," he said. "Didn't you ever hear of shaking a man, Skinner?"

"Did that one time. Got my hand bit." He rubbed his hands together. "Let's get pumpin'!"

"On an empty stomach?" Gary said. He stood there while Holliday and Skinner rolled the blankets and put them on the handcar. Then Gary sighed and took a handle while Skinner pushed it into motion.

"If I had him in my outfit," Gary said, meaning Skinner, "I'd have him in the guardhouse."

"And I doubt if it'd hold him," Holliday said. He pointed to a spot far out on the prairie.

"What that?"

Skinner, who was riding backwards, turned his head for a look. He squinted his eyes for a moment, then said, "Oh, oh. Here, you pump." He picked up his rifle and sat on the prow. "Buffalo. Not many. Fifty—sixty maybe. Movin' this way too."

"Can't we outrun them?" Gary asked.

"No, you can't," Skinner said. "Maybe we won't have to, though. Just keep up that steady pace, genis. Or a little faster, if you've a mind to. Speed at a time like this won't hurt nothin'. From his coat pocket he took out a box of cartridges.

Holliday, who had a good view facing in the direction of their travel, could see that the buffalo herd was traveling a course converging on their own; they were likely to meet up ahead somewhere, and it wasn't good to think about.

Bronze Statue Honors Mother

MILWAUKEE (AP) — A six-foot bronze statue, "The Immigrant Mother," has been unveiled in Cathedral Square.

The statue is a $30,000 gift to Milwaukee County from William George Bruce, founder of the Bruce Publishing Co., who died in 1949.

The sculptor, Ivan Mestrovic, a Yugoslav who came to this country in 1947, is now a professor of sculpture at the University of Notre Dame.

First True Two-Party Election In North Carolina

By NOEL YANCEY
RALEIGH (AP)—A true two-party election was held in North Carolina for the first time today and the increased interest was expected to result in a record vote-weather permitting.

Whereas the Republicans in the past have offered only token opposition, the GOP had a candidate for every major state office and a candidate in all 12 congressional districts. The state has 14 electoral votes.

Interest in the presidential race between Sen. John F. Kennedy and Vice President Richard M. Nixon undoubtedly helped crystallize toward the Republicans conservative feeling from members of both parties.

The Democratic gubernatorial candidate was Terry Sanford, a 43-year-old Fayetteville lawyer whose only elective experience was one two-year term in the State Senate. His opponent, Republican Robert L. Gavin, a 44-year-old Sanford lawyer, has never held public office.

Strong opposition to the Democratic ticket, both state and national, came from Republicans and dissatisfied Democrats.

The strength of this feeling caused the Democrats to send their top speakers into the state, including Kennedy and Lyndon Johnson, the vice presidential candidate.

Early in the campaign, Nixon appeared in Greensboro. He was so well received that he returned to North Carolina, appearing in Charlotte before 12,500. His running mate, Henry Cabot Lodge, also made two successful appearances in the state.

Roughly, the state is divided in its sentiments. The agricultural eastern section is traditionally Democratic. The western section and the highly industrialized Piedmont section leaned to the Republicans.

Republican interest was generated mainly in the larger cities—Charlotte, Greensboro, Winston-Salem, Asheville, Durham, High Point and Wilmington.

Cherokees Have A Point, There

CHEROKEE, N. C. (AP)—On the wall in the tribal headquarters of the Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians there is a framed placard with this comment:

"Before the white man came to this country there were no taxes, and the women did all the work. How can the white man improve on that?"

No answer to the question appears.

FOR DELIBERATION
UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Sweden served notice Monday it wants the United Nations to consider next year the question of birth control.

Some 17 million of the 68 million workers in the United States are covered by private pension and retirement plans.

Played Double Role At Funeral

CHATTANOOGA (AP)—County Patrolman Jimmy Catlett, assigned to escort a funeral procession to a cemetery, got a bigger assignment than he expected when the minister failed to show up.

Catlett, an ordained Baptist minister, was asked to officiate. Doffing his cap and pistol, he preached a 12-minute sermon at the funeral home. Then he escorted the procession to the cemetery, again doffed cap and pistol and preached a graveside service.

Surprise Posed Special Problem

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—When Mrs. Ruthie Alexander, 27, went to Doctors Hospital, she and her husband, Nathaniel, had decided that if the baby was a girl she would be named Karen and if a boy Douglas.

Triplets were born—two girls and a boy—and, said Mrs. Alexander, "we didn't even expect twins." She and her husband had to think about a name for the second girl.

Charlotte, the largest city in the state with a population of 208,000, is in the 10th Congressional district which has sent a Republican, Charles Raper Jonas, to Congress for four terms. Jonas was opposed a second time by Dave Clark, a young Lincolnian lawyer.

William Cobb, state GOP chairman, predicted another Jonas victory. He said in the 12th District the Republicans also had a good chance. Heinz Rollman, German refugee who rebuilt a successful shoe manufacturing business, is the Republican candidate opposing incumbent Roy Taylor of Black Mountain.

210,000 votes were cast. One hundred and 70 seats were up in the Legislature with Republican opposition in about half of the state's 100 counties.

Cadillac

Some secrets its owner can't keep!

We wouldn't go so far as to say that your life is an open book when you're seen in the company of a new Cadillac car.

But we will admit that at least a few of the pages have been turned.

For a Cadillac indicates—with unmistakable clarity and eloquence—the personal virtues that lead a man to the "car of cars".

Beautiful, distinctive and substantial—it reflects his eminence in his field of endeavor... and testifies to what he has made of his years.

Gracious, spacious and luxurious—it denotes his desire for comfort... and his concern for the well-being of his family and passengers.

Practical, sound, and desired—it evidences his awareness of the true aspects of value and quality.

And if a Cadillac has historically cast such credit on its owner—how much more grandly it will do so in 1961!

For the car now offers more of everything to inspire the respect of those who behold it.

Its styling is graceful as never before. Its interiors are remarkably generous in every dimension. And its performance and ride make every journey a miracle of motion.

You ought to inspect and drive this 1961 Cadillac. Your dealer will be delighted to accommodate you. And we wager you'll quickly see the wisdom of letting the "car of cars" reveal a few discreet secrets about you.

Nikita Calls Toasts To Peace

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet Premier Khrushchev, radiating good cheer and confidence in communism's eventual triumph, called the American and West German ambassadors to his side Monday night to toast to peace and friendship.

The occasion was a gigantic Kremlin reception celebrating the 43rd anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution.

While the rest of Moscow dined and danced, Khrushchev proposed a series of eight toasts with various of the 2,000 guests in the Kremlin's great St. George's Hall. Clanking glasses with U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson and West German Ambassador Hans Kroll, the Soviet premier drank "to friendship of all peoples, to Europe, to the United States, to coexistence in order to live in peace and friendship."

"Our relations should allow peace and friendship in the world," he continued. "Raise your glasses and drink for peace and friendship."

They joined him in the toast. Acting as if he were sitting on top of the world, Khrushchev's toasts ranged from world peace to the city of Moscow for arranging the anniversary parade earlier Monday through Red Square.

October Births In Pitt See Slight Decrease

Pitt County births declined slightly during October while deaths shot to a new monthly high for 1960, according to statistics released today by the Pitt County Health Department.

Live births dropped from a September total of 157 to 149 while deaths recorded during October stood at 61. September deaths were 42. The previous high for 1960 was January's 52.

Of the birth total, 73 were white and 76 were Negro. Thirty of the deaths were white while 31 were Negro. The department recorded a total of four stillbirths, six deaths under one month, and four deaths under one year. Cancer accounted for five more deaths.

Illegitimate births declined from September's total of 29. Statistics showed October births out of wedlock totaled 22. Of the total, one was white, 21 were Negro.

Neither Party Conceding Edge In Governors Races

By JOE F. KANE

WASHINGTON (AP) — Neither major political party is conceding the other the edge in today's 27 gubernatorial races.

The stakes are big. Victors win not only statehouse patronage but valuable springboards for further political build-ups.

Three incumbent governors are drawing on their statehouse backgrounds today in races for the Senate. They are Delaware's J. Caleb Boggs and West Virginia's Cecil H. Underwood, both Republicans, and Iowa's Herschel C. Loveless, a Democrat.

In the states balloting for chief executives, 14 of the governor-ships are held by Democrats and 13 by Republicans. Eight of the 14 incumbent governors seeking re-election are Democrats, six are Republicans.

Democrats scored a net gain of seven in the last two elections involving governorships.

Contests in Michigan, Illinois and Kansas hold the chief national interest.

G. Mennen Williams is not seeking re-election in Michigan after an unprecedented six consecutive two-year terms. Paul D. Bagwell, a Michigan State University faculty member who made a strong race against Williams two years ago, is the Republican nominee. Lt. Gov. John B. Swainson, who has wide support from organized labor, is the Democratic candidate.

Otto Kerner, a Chicago judge, is given a good chance of nipping the third-term ambitions of Republican Gov. William G. Stratton in Illinois. Stratton became governor in 1952 when Albi E. Stevenson quit to head the Democrat presidential ticket.

George Dooking, who in 1958 became the first Democrat ever to be re-elected Kansas governor, is seeking a third two-year term. His GOP opponent is State Atty-

Gen. John Anderson. Also running is Prohibitionist J. J. Steele.

Four of the governors seeking re-election figured in overturns two years ago. They are Republicans Paul Fannin of Arizona and Christopher Del Sesto of Rhode Island and Democrats John Burroughs of New Mexico and Ralph Herseth of South Dakota.

Governors also are being elected in Arkansas, where Orval E. Faubus is seeking a fourth term; Delaware, Florida, Indiana, Iowa, Maine, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, New Hampshire, North Carolina, North Dakota, Texas, Utah, Vermont, Washington, West Virginia and Wisconsin.

Ballot-Stuffing Calls Were Hoax

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP) — Shortly before the polls opened at 6:30 o'clock this morning, Wilmington police received a telephone call from an unidentified man who said that Henry C. Bost, New Hanover County election board chairman, had been seen stuffing 300 ballots into boxes at the Fifth Ward Second Precinct.

S. F. Collins, Democratic member of the elections board, and L. A. Beck, Republican member, rushed to the precinct to check the report. The entire official staff at the scene aided them in opening the boxes. They were empty.

While the check was being made, the Wilmington News received an anonymous call that Bost had been seen stuffing 600 ballots into the very boxes being checked.
