Police Halt Teenagers In New Orleans Crisis

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—City police who meant business scattered more than 100 teenagers trying to break into an integrated public school and arrested six today. After the abortive charge of the teenagers and obvious increased tension and anger among several hundred spectators, police sealed off a two-block area around McDonogh 19 School.

Police ordered everyone from the sidewalk in front of the school except those entering the building. One white woman across the street said "We are here to stop anybody from going into school." A newsmen asked how she and others intended to do this. "We'll grab hold of them and beat the hell out of them," she replied.

Full-Armed Polaris Sub Goes To Sea

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP)—The George Washington glided silently out of Charleston Harbor shortly before noon today armed with missiles with hydrogen bomb warheads and headed for the open seas. The nuclear-powered vessel became the first Polaris missile submarine to be sent into the Atlantic Ocean on what the Navy calls "war deterrent mission."

Representation Changes Announced By Govm't

WASHINGTON (AP)—Twenty-five states will gain or lose seats in the House of Representatives as a result of the 1960 census, the government announced today. The Commerce Department announced that the total population of the 50 states was 179,323,175 on last April 1—the date of the one-decade census.

Under the reapportionment that will not take effect until the 1962 election, 16 states will lose seats in the House. Nine states will gain seats. California will be the biggest gainer, adding eight seats to the present total of 30. Florida will get four new seats, making the new total 12. There will be gains of one seat each by Arizona, Hawaii, Maryland, Michigan, New Jersey, Ohio and Texas.

The biggest loser in the prospective reapportionment will be Pennsylvania which will lose three of 30 seats. New York, Massachusetts and Arkansas will lose two seats each and the following states will lose one each: Alabama, Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Maine, Minnesota, Mississippi, Missouri, Nebraska, North Carolina and West Virginia.

The final population figure for the 50 states was about 1.5 million higher than the preliminary total announced in August. The final figures showed that three states and the District of Columbia lost population between 1950 and 1960. West Virginia was the biggest loser. Its population dropped by 7.2 per cent. Arkansas population was down 6.5 per cent, the District of Columbia down 4.8 per cent and Mississippi down less than 0.1 per cent.

Local Church Is Planning Move

The Eighth St. Christian Church has approved plans to move to a new location. Rev. W. J. Hadden announced today. The church's congregation recently accepted a recommendation of the Planning Commission that the church move its location. Recommendations of the commission resulted from a year and a half study of the church program and facilities. The group also consulted with the Christian Church's advisory architect and representatives from their Board of Church Extension. B. B. Sugg Jr. is chairman of the commission.

Adm. Spring Among 10 Killed In Navy Crash

MANILA (AP)—Two U.S. Navy plane crashes at approximately the same spot today claimed the lives of 10 persons including the admiral commanding the base at Subic Bay. Killed along with Rear Adm. Arthur F. Spring, 52, was his wife, Clare, 52. Also killed were the admiral's aide, Lt. (j.g.) Karl Ziegenhagen, Gary, Ind.; the pilot, Lt. Cmdr. Wade K. Smith, Clinton, Tenn.; the copilot, Lt. (j.g.) Kenneth Cowles, whose father, Frederick, lives in San Marino, Calif.; and Airman Cecil G. Johnson, whose father lives in Kansas City, Mo. Four more men, including a U.S. Marine and three Philippine constabulary personnel, were killed when their helicopter crashed shortly after noon near the wreckage of the ill-fated amphibian carrying the Spring party. Their names were not immediately disclosed. They were among eight aboard the helicopter, which was dispatched from the carrier Hornet to the spot where the amphibian had crashed. Of the eight, the pilot and copilot were uninjured. An American Navy doctor was slightly injured and a U.S. enlisted man suffered minor burns. Two U.S. Air Force paratrooper medics later jumped to the remote area where the admiral's plane crashed and found the victims. There were no survivors. The Springs attended a military dinner-dance at Manila Monday night. They were flying back to Subic Bay. The wreckage of the Albatross was found about 2,700 feet up Mount Mariveles on Bataan Peninsula, overlooking Subic Bay where the United States maintains a key base for supporting

Nixon May Be Hesitant To Take Post In Demo Regime

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—President-elect John F. Kennedy was reported today to have discovered that Vice President Richard M. Nixon has reservations about the idea of Republicans taking key positions in the new Democratic administration. Kennedy, winner over Nixon in the presidential election, is understood to have sounded out the vice president on this matter at their history-making conference Monday at Key Biscayne, Fla., where Nixon is vacationing. Kennedy returned to his headquarters here immediately after the 63-minute meeting and prepared to confer at lunch today with a Democrat who may get a Cabinet post or some other top position in the Kennedy regime. He is Connecticut Gov. Abraham Ribicoff, a key adviser to Kennedy during the campaign. Kennedy told a news conference after his session with Nixon that he did not offer the vice president a post in the new administration. But sources in a position to know said Kennedy discussed with Nixon the possibility of naming some Republicans to important positions, particularly in the fields of foreign policy and national security.

Mid-Air Catch Of Satellite's Capsule Said 'Near Routine'

HONOLULU (AP)—The U.S. Air Force did it again Monday, plucking a Discoverer satellite capsule out of the skies for the second time. Proud airmen declared the catch was routine. The Air Force, which calls the gigantic recovery area a "ball park" could point to a climbing fielding average. Snared in the 250 by 50-mile "ball park" 500 miles northeast of Honolulu was the military spy capsule ejected by Discoverer XVII. The first 12 Discoverer capsules were lost in the vast Pacific. Number XIII was the first recovered, although it landed in the ocean and was retrieved from a Navy frogman dangling from a helicopter. On Aug. 19, a C119 Flying Boxcar made the first catch of an object from space. That was Discoverer XIV's capsule. Discoverer XVII's capsule was bagged. The Flying Boxcar that snared it, appropriately dubbed Pelican II, made the catch like an outfielder who does it up fancy after losing the ball in the sun. The Pelican II was piloted by Capt. Gene W. Jones, 39, of Walla Walla, Wash. Jones and his nine-man crew almost missed their rendezvous. His plane was late leaving Hickam Air Force Base because of a fuel leak. Then, in the northern area of the "ball park," Jones' crew spotted the capsule's silver and orange parachute against the clear blue Pacific skies and made a run for it at 11,000 feet. "We barely ticked it," Jones told reporters later. But the plane circled and went after the capsule again at 9,500 feet. The huge plane's trapezoid-like snare caught the chute and 21 minutes later the instrument-loaded capsule was reeled aboard. The successful grab was made at 1:02 p.m. Hawaii time—6:02 p.m. EST. The Discoverer XVII capsule was in orbit longer than the previously recovered containers. The others had been ejected from their satellites on the 17th pass around the earth. This one, rocketed aloft Saturday at California's Vandenberg Air Force Base, was ejected on its 31st time around. The gold-plated capsule weighed 100 pounds when it left the 2,100-pound satellite but only 125 pounds after its plunge back into the earth's atmosphere. "It was a little bit scorching around the edges," said Capt. Jones, referring to the fiery reentry into the atmosphere. After he and his crew, joined

Endorse Hodges In Cabinet Role

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Gov. J. Lindsay Almond Jr. of Virginia says he has spoken to most of the southern governors and received their support for Gov. Luther H. Hodges of North Carolina to become secretary of commerce in the Kennedy administration. Almond said he had telephoned their support to President-elect John F. Kennedy last Friday. However, he said Kennedy advised him no commitments had been made. Almond said Kennedy was very cordial. The Virginia governor also told newsmen most Southern governors support Gov. Abraham Ribicoff of Connecticut for either U.S. attorney general or a place on the U.S. Supreme Court. Ribicoff has been mentioned for both posts. In Raleigh, Gov. Hodges' office has been swamped with telegrams and telephone calls of congratulations on the still unconfirmed report that he has been appointed secretary of commerce. Harold Makepeace, the governor's private secretary, said he talked Monday with Hodges who is in Buenos Aires, Argentina. He added the purpose of the telephone call was to tell Hodges what was happening. Makepeace stated that Hodges "doesn't know a thing; he hasn't been notified. It is all premature." The New York Times and the Chicago Sun-Times have said flatly that Hodges has been appointed secretary of Commerce.

Guatemala Chief Asks OAS Help

GUATEMALA CITY (AP)—President Miguel Ydigoras of Guatemala has asked the Organization of American States to take action on his charges that Cuba gave aid to rebels who have been fighting his forces since Sunday. Rebellion broke out at Puerto Barrios, on the Atlantic coast 150 miles northeast of the capital city and at Zacapa, 70 miles north-east. Ydigoras made a nationwide broadcast Monday claiming the army and air force had been successful in their attacks on the towns. He said the rebels were seeking to negotiate but he was refusing to deal with the "traitors." Since the garrisons at Puerto Barrios and Zacapa first turned against him, the president has charged repeatedly that the government of Prime Minister Fidel Castro had a part in the uprising. His charge was heard Monday night at a special meeting in Washington of the OAS Inter-American Peace Committee, which then authorized its chairman to get further information from the Guatemalan ambassador.

Elaborate Underground Bootleg Still Uncovered

LENOIR, N.C. (AP)— Sheriff's officers slipped into a garage on a farm 7 miles southwest of here pulled a certain nail and watched an electrically operated secret compartment open in an apparently solid concrete block wall. They found a 10 by 12-foot tunnel, 100 feet long, containing an underground illegal whiskey making operation estimated to have cost $50,000. The raid Monday at the farm of Andrew Parsons, 54, resulted in two arrests, the seizure of large amounts of material and equipment and the end of a complex moonshining operation. Parsons was charged with manufacturing and possessing illicit whiskey. Paul Brown, 41, of Taylorsville was charged with manufacturing whiskey. A third man got away through an escape tunnel when Sheriff J. B. Myers and his men rushed in. Bonds of $2,500 apiece were set for Parsons and Brown. The officers confiscated an automobile, a truck, 520 cases of empty fruit jars, 306 gallons of moonshine whiskey, 1,600 pounds of brand, 800 pounds of rye meal, 4,000 pounds of sugar and a case of yeast. The distillery included a 900-gallon still and a 500-gallon still, two 300-gallon doublers, seven 500-gallon mash barrels, and twenty 500-gallon mash boxes. Water came from a fishing lake nearby and waste was dumped into a drain leading to a creek. A fan sucked the fumes from the distillery and vented them through a tall silo above the ground. The tunnel and cavern were shored every six feet by oak 4-by-4 supporting steel cross beams. Sheriff Myers said his men had been spying on the operation for some time before the raid but he did not say how low the distillery had been operating. He estimated that the total capacity, 13,500 gallons, would require three or four days to be run off and would produce about 1,350 gallons of whiskey. The wholesale rate for moonshine is about $4 a gallon.

Hostiles Menace Soldiers Of UN

ELISABETHVILLE, Katanga (AP)—U.N. troops, menaced by growing bands of hostile tribesmen, began pulling out of danger areas in north Katanga today. Heavy patrols of Irish and Ethiopian troops, stationed in northern areas for several weeks, began arriving back at their headquarters at Albertville. A U.N. spokesman said the United Nations will have to revise its methods of operation against the superstitious tribesmen. He said Irish troops were withdrawn completely from the area around Niamba—scene of an ambush of an 11-man Irish patrol last week in which 29 men were killed—nine of them Irishmen. Many of the Balubas were stopping passing cars and forcing the occupants to sign a pledge to support the Balubakat party—which controls most of North Katanga and is opposed to Katanga Premier Moise Tshombe. "There is going to be big trouble in north Katanga soon if the United Nations continues with its passive way in dealing with Baluba tribesmen," the spokesman warned.

No Pitt Complaints To Civil Rights Body Here

There were no complaints from Greenville or Pitt County residents presented to the North Carolina Advisory Committee of the Civil Rights Commission at their meeting here on Saturday, Chairman McNeill Smith of Greensboro said today. Smith said it was the first time the committee had met in Greenville or Pitt County, though meetings have been held in various localities in eastern North Carolina, as well as throughout the state. All meetings are open to the public. The committee follows a policy of rotating its meetings. Since there were no complaints to be heard, the committee discussed its work in the areas of equal protection in employment, housing, education and administration of justice, Smith said. The committee is studying these questions at the present time. Already the committee of 10 has released results of their studies on voting participation in North Carolina and equal protection of the law in education. The committee was created under the 1957 Civil Rights Act of Congress. There are 50 such committees, one in each of the United States. The North Carolina advisory committee has been active since 1959, Smith said, which is about 18 months. The Saturday meeting was held in the Pitt County Courthouse building. Facilities were provided through resolution of the Pitt County Board of Commissioners. Smith expressed appreciation for the hospitality in Greenville and to the commissioners.

Grange Leaders Working At Statements On Farm Problems

By NOEL YANCEY WINSTON-SALEM (AP)—Committees of the National Grange continued today to hammer out statements of policy on farm problems and other national issues to be acted on during the Grange's convention here. The Grange's 94th annual meeting got underway Monday with the assembly of voting delegates from 37 states representing some 850,000 Grange members. At the opening session the delegates heard talks from Rep. Harold E. Cooley, D-N.C., chairman of the House Agriculture Committee; and from Herschel D. Newsom of Columbus, Ind., national Grange master. Newsom reaffirmed the Grange's long-time policy of seeking solution to farm problems through a commodity-by-commodity approach rather than any single overall legislative solution. Newsom said farmers "must insist on a system of just reward in proportion to (their) contribution to the general welfare." But, he warned, those who would seek to solve the problem of farm surpluses by reducing the income of farmers by arbitrary controls on production would "not serve America well." Newsom asserted that the nation's huge farm surpluses and the low income of farmers are "a measure of the fertility and inadequacy of our present agricultural and farm program structure." "No such surplus situation would have developed," he added, "under the sort of series of commodity programs sought by the Grange." He added, however, before the Grange commodity programs could succeed steps would have to be taken to eliminate surpluses. The Grange has only 74 voting delegates, but several hundred other Grange members are attending the convention which will continue through Nov. 22. From 2,000 from other states, are expected to be on hand for events scheduled Friday and Saturday. Some of the Grange committees went to work last week considering more than 400 resolutions presented by the 37 state Granges.

Drafting Doctors May Be Resumed

Prestige Polls Termed 'Absurd'

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—British humorist Malcolm Muggeridge says the rich and powerful are always disliked and Americans, because they don't like being disliked, have done "such absurd things as take opinion polls to find out how your prestige is." He said prestige is like health. "The moment you start thinking of it you probably haven't got it."

ECC Instructors Give Program To DAR Meeting

FARMVILLE — The November meeting of the Major Benjamin May chapter, D.A.R., was held Saturday, in the Greenville Women's Club building, with Mesdames E. L. Baker, Margaret Farley and Vance Perkins as hostesses.

Miss Elizabeth Lang, regent, presided and led the salute to the flag and the opening ritual, including the singing of The Star Spangled Banner.

Mrs. G. Alex Rouse, chaplain, gave the meditation, which was based on the admonition and promise contained in Philippians 4: 6-7. Mrs. Rouse cited Biblical characters, the Pilgrims and American presidents, who praised God and proclaimed thanksgiving days in the midst of seemingly insurmountable personal, national, and international problems comparable to those with which the United States is faced today.

Reports were given by Mrs. Robert Fennell, national defense chairman; Mrs. Chas. E. Moxing, approves schools chairman; Miss Tabitha DeVisconti, state chairman, American Indian; Mrs. M. V. Jones, D. A. R. magazine chairman. Mrs. Howard D. Moye, honor roll chairman, discussed requirements.

The regent, called attention to Safety Week with bicycle hazards emphasized, and in the absence of Mrs. S. H. Aycock, chairman of good citizens, announced that Noel Lang, Farmville high senior, and Beverly Lang, Walstonburg high senior, had been selected as Good Citizens candidates, and will be sponsored by the chapter for the district title.

Miss DeVisconti made an announcement regarding Christmas gifts to be sent as usual from the chapter to hospitalized veterans. A cordial welcome was extended Miss Henri Perle Johnson, a new Junior member, and Mesdames Lynwood Worthington, Reid Perkins and James Fleming, Sr., guests of the hostesses.

Mrs. Farley introduced Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Howell, instructors in business education at East Carolina College, and Miss Cynthia Mendenhall, director of College union activities, who presented a visual program of colored scenic slides of sea, mountain and plain, which furnished a background for inspirational readings and a vocal solo, "How Beautiful Upon the Mountains"—Harker, rendered by Miss Mendenhall. Mrs. Ingabord Jarratt, a graduate student of the college, was accompanist.

The slides were selected from a collection, made by the Howell's son, Jerry, who is majoring in geology at Duke University.

The program was brought to a close with the singing of "America, The Beautiful", by the assemblage.

Following adjournment, refreshments were served from an appointed table, centered with an arrangement of fruit and flowers.

The regent, Miss Lang, poured hot, spiced cider from one end of the table, and guests helped themselves to an assortment of party sandwiches, date rolls, chicken salad in timbales, cakes and salted nuts.

Quantities of chrysanthemums in seasonal colors and red berries were used in decoration of the Rachel Maxwell Moore auditorium, in which the meeting was held, and in other rooms of the lower floor of the Woman's Club.

BPW Club Has November Meet

The National Security Committee gave the program for the meeting of the Greenville Business and Professional Women's Club.

The members of this committee are: Mrs. Ruth Garner, chairman, Mrs. Elsie May and Mrs. Eva Warren. Mrs. Warren directed the program and showed a picture entitled "New Family in Town." The picture gave information on how to be safe from atomic attacks.

Mrs. Ruth Garner, parliamentarian, explained the requirements for being eligible for membership in the Business and Professional Women's Club. Under the direction of Mrs. Margaret Parley, chairman of the Legislative Committee, the club voted on changes in the Constitution.

Miss Camille Clark reminded the members to get their hobbies and gifts ready for the December meeting at which time a Bazaar will be held to sell gifts made by members and also those bought in foreign countries. The date of this Bazaar is Dec. 8.

Special guests were Mrs. Helen Reid and Mrs. Letha Henderson from Newport.

WSCS Celebrates 20th Birthday

The Woman's Society of Christian Service of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church met in the Fellowship Hall Monday for luncheon and a birthday party, followed by the program and business meeting.

Mrs. Clara Shackell, president, gave the invocation.

The ladies of Jarvis celebrated the 20th birthday of the W.S.C.S. Mrs. Reynolds May gave a resume of the work of the W.S.C.S., explaining the symbol which decorated the birthday cake. Mrs. Georgia Hearne, pianist, played "Happy Birthday" while the women placed a love offering for missions around the cake. Birthday cake was served for the dessert.

Mrs. J. H. Waldrop, Spiritual Life chairman, opened the meeting with prayer. The program chairman, Mrs. Reynolds May, gave an explanation concerning the work done with refugees by the Council of Church Women and the Methodist Church. A film, "We Very Much Regret," was shown depicting the life in a German Refugee Camp.

The business meeting was conducted by the president, Mrs. Shackell.

An announcement was made that the annual Harvest Day would be held in the Fellowship Hall at Jarvis Nov. 22. The public is cordially invited to come visit the "Country Store." Tickets are now on sale for the luncheon to be served as a part of the Harvest Day.

Horse Is Girl's Best Friend

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

A lonely girl can find great companionship in the friendship of an animal, says Meg Hauseman of Kings Point, Long Island.

Meg had no close girl or boy friends and her sister and brother... were much older, so she fell in love with a horse when she was 9 years old.

"A horse is a wonderful friend. When I got this pony Cinnamon Sugar, she was just to be a companion, but I learned to ride well enough to go into some horse shows, and she has become more than a friend. She has made me a good rider," says Meg, who becomes a teen-ager on her next birthday.

For the third year Meg has participated in the National Horse Show in New York. She has won more than 200 ribbons, 11 championships and 10 reserves. She won the large pony championship with another pony she owns, Serendipity. She rides him in winter, and the smaller pony, her room mare, Cinnamon Sugar stays home.

Serendipity boards out, so Meg doesn't assist with those chores. But she helps a good deal with Cinnamon Sugar. Her dad gives her a hand with the water pails she can't lift.

Meg has fun keeping her pony clean. She says it is a real production.

"I tie her to a hitching post. Then I get a bucket of warm water and soap suds, and wash her with a sponge. Her tail and mane must be soaped, and this causes plenty of splashing when she swooshes around. I clean her with the hose and she drinks from it. She likes the cold hose water even though she doesn't like cold weather," Meg explains.

Meg sometimes wins seven or eight ribbons at one show. She wins small money awards.

"I use the money to help pay for the horse. I'm saving up now to buy a horse van."

A horse need not be expensive, she points out, if you can care for him yourself, and have access to hay and oats, "but a horse sure can eat a lot," she says. "It costs about $40 a month."

She also has a French poodle and a cat, and finds that all animals are wonderful friends as well as pets. She knits and cooks, plays baseball, golf and swims, but best of all she likes to be with her animal friends.

There are important lessons in owning a horse and riding in shows, she says. She has learned "to win and lose gracefully, and applaud when others win, and developed a sense of fair play and self-sufficiency."

"Horsemanship is good too, she says, to help you develop poise and a good carriage."

CHOCOLATE FUDGE

4 squares (1 ounce each) unsweetened chocolate
1-3 cups undiluted evaporated milk
4 cups sugar
dash of salt
1-4 cup butter

Stir chocolate and milk together over low heat until chocolate melts; beat to blend chocolate. Add sugar and salt. Cook, stirring often, until sugar is dissolved and mixture reaches boiling point. Continue cooking, without stirring, to 238 degrees on candy thermometer (soft ball stage). Remove from heat. Add butter. Cool without stirring until lukewarm (110 degrees). Beat until creamy and mixture loses gloss. Turn into 8-inch square cake pan.

SUNDAY DINNER

ELLIN'S OLIVES

1 can (4 ounces) ripe olives
1-3 cup lemon juice
1 teaspoon olive oil
1/2 teaspoon salt

Drain olives and pack into a jar just big enough to hold them. Mix remaining ingredients and pour over the marinade; it should just about cover olives. Cover tightly and refrigerate overnight or longer. Makes 4 servings.

Note: Do not use pitted olives in this recipe.

Spouse Selection

AP Newsfeatures

What a rising young salesman should look for in a wife is spelled out by Vincent F. Sullivan, New York newspaper executive, in a book called "How to Sell Your Way into the Big Money," just published by Prentice Hall.

He writes—

"A wife must be ambitious not only for herself but for her husband. She must work with him, prod him, push him if he needs it, but never too obviously nor too fast.

"She must be a good sport about disappointments and setbacks. When a real crisis takes place, her philosophy should be, 'Well, I'm on the floor now—I certainly can't fall off from here.'"

"She must demonstrate her loyalty to you, and show a deep respect for your abilities and your ambitions.

"She must never be critical of you in any way—but, reversely, should go out of her way to compliment you whenever at all possible.

"If she quibbles about money—drop her fast.

"The young lady under inspection must have a pleasant and varied voice. If she is the whining type or in any way bolster-ous, check her off the list immediately.

"If she has a good sense of humor, including the ability to laugh at herself, she probably will do."

"She must be big enough in mind to accept your friends and modes of recreation without sarcastically telling you that perhaps they might be improved upon or changed.

"Above all, she must show a keen interest in the man that you are, the problems of your job, and your supreme ambition to reach out for the high salary objective.

"And she should have some sex appeal.

"If you can't find a girl with all the aforementioned qualifications, you should just keep trying."

Good luck, young man!

This of course is just one facet of Mr. Sullivan's advice on how to become a super-salesman. After outlining the techniques, from product research to the dotted line, he winds up with a call to "get back to work."

"The secret of Soviet successes," he says, "is that their people work as if coffee breaks didn't exist; our people work as if nothing else existed."

Tangy Fresh Cranberries Return

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

The fresh cranberry is with us again. What's tried and true, what's new in using this tangy little fruit?

Is there any good cook left who hasn't yet tried one of the raw cranberry relishes that Americans have taken to their hearts? Cranberry jelly and sauce still go on our holiday tables with roast turkey. But nowadays chances are that families will also want the relish—that delightful basic combination of 2 cups of fresh berries coarsely ground with an orange (peel and all) and sweetened with 1 cup of sugar. Be sure to chill at least a couple of hours before serving.

Do you know how zealous cranberry sauce is mixed with applesauce? Or heat-canned pears in a little of their syrup along with grated lemon rind and then fill the cavities with cranberry sauce. Serve as a main-dish accompaniment or dessert.

Then there are the cranberry quick loaves, muffins and sweet biscuits. For something new, we don't believe you'll be disappointed in this coffee cake. It has a light texture and delectable flavor. Easy to make, too!

CRANBERRY ORANGE UPSIDEDOWN COFFEE CAKE

6 tablespoons butter
1/2 cup firmly-packed light brown sugar
1 cup cranberries (cut in halves)
1-4 cup chopped pecans
1 1/2 cups biscuit mix
1 cup granulated sugar
1 egg
1 tablespoon grated orange rind
2-3 cup orange juice

Melt 3 tablespoons of the butter in a baking pan (8 by 8 by 2 inches); mix in brown sugar, cranberries, and pecans; spread evenly. Beat together enough to blend the biscuit mix, granulated sugar, 3 remaining tablespoons soft butter, egg, orange rind and 1-3 cup of the orange juice; beat vigorously 1 minute more. Gradually stir in remaining 1-3 cup orange juice; beat 1 minute. Pour over cranberry mixture in pan. Bake in moderate (350 degrees) oven 40 minutes or until cake tester inserted in center comes out clean. Turn out on serving plate. Delicious served warm.

Urban Renewal Plans All Tentative

The possibilities inherent in Greenville's urban redevelopment program dazzle the beholder. The more its prospects are explored, the greater enthusiasm we feel for beautifying . . . and making more useful . . . a segment of the city largely ignored by the march of progress.

A story in last Friday's Reflector raised possibility of "a department store, marina, motor hotel, apartment building, municipal auditorium" or a number of other economic assets which a planned urban renewal program might bring.

All of it was speculation. Nothing definite has been really decided except that Greenville is going into urban renewal.

The reasons are self-evident. That disease known as "urban blight" is far more easily dealt with before it becomes a major sickness. Too, a municipality must work at keeping up appearances as well as encouraging local entrepreneurs to grow and provide more and better services.

Aside from more eye-appeal, growth of business and services, more modern and comfortable housing, the results should also mean more municipal wealth, health and pride.

All this from a program in which the federal government puts up two dollars for every one dollar of local funds applied.

The Greenville program hasn't even properly gotten off the ground, yet. As of today it is very vague; not even the area to be re-worked has been decided beyond a tentative basis. The program will remain in the planning stage for some time and there is much to be taken into consideration.

As announced earlier, the tentative area being considered extends from the ACL railroad to a ravine east of Side Street, and from Tar River to points on Second, Third and Fourth Streets.

We can look for a preliminary plan for the renewal area by the end of the month. But again, this will be purely a preliminary plan. We can expect it will receive the most studied and careful perusal; for the results will be a great factor in Greenville's future.

Certainly the situation today does not justify hasty conclusions that the program will take away much private property or do many other things people might fear.

It would appear far more logical to follow the course of the planning, see how it is developing, and reserve criticisms of the ultimate program until we really know what it is.

From the foregoing, one might judge The Daily Reflector is enthusiastic.

Early Maneuvers For The Campaign In '64

It became rather obvious soon after Republican Party chieftains began their vote-counting maneuvers that their purpose could not be to reverse November 8th's decision. Rather, it was a gesture with 1964 in mind.

When that presidential election year rolls around it will be to their advantage to emphasize anew the closeness of the 1960 vote; and the closer they can make it in the drawn-out counting, the better for them.

For decades the GOP has been the minority party . . . victorious only when their principal candidate could sway the support of independents and dissidents within Democratic Party ranks.

Four years from now the Republicans will go forth to do battle with more optimism than might have been the case had Richard M. Nixon been snowed-under.

It is reasonable to expect that President John F. Kennedy will earn friends and enemies during his tenure of office. Too, the portions of the Kennedy program which are enacted are going to have an impact on the voters of 1964.

But Republicans in general, and Mr. Nixon in particular, are going to be bouyed by the memory of 1960. The question is, whether a memory will outweigh four years of a Democratic Administration.

That is a question!

All Depends On Next 10 Weeks

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP) — President-elect Kennedy is off and running. But speed alone is not enough. In these next 10 weeks his wisdom in preparing to take over the presidency will affect his whole administration.

Before he is sworn in Jan. 20 he must pick the key administrators and advisors who will help him run the government, figure what it will cost to make good on campaign promises, and blueprint the plans he lays before Congress.

Kennedy has already named some immediate aides and chosen others to come up with recommendations soon on setting up shop. Then he started Friday on a brief vacation. He'll have no rest after his return.

Since Kennedy and Vice President Richard M. Nixon were both optimists about their chances, both got busy weeks before the election on the problems of transition from President Eisenhower's administration to the new one.

Each named a representative—Kennedy's was Clark Clifford, his personal attorney—to work with Laurin L. Henry and others at the Brookings Institution in Washington where presidential transition was being studied.

Henry has just finished a book, to be published Nov. 28, on the problems of transferring power from the outgoing president to the new one. His studies cover the presidents back to Woodrow Wilson.

One of the most important, and still rather nebulous, questions facing Kennedy is how he will deal with Congress and through whom.

Eisenhower used to call batches of congressional leaders to the White House for meetings with himself and perhaps 10 to 15 members of his staff. This was a heavy cumbersome way of getting Congress to do what he wanted.

Kennedy is apt to limit himself pretty much to meetings with a few top Democrats in the House and Senate, along with Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson who will preside over the Senate.

Johnson, who was of precious help to Kennedy in the campaign in keeping Southern Democrats in line with Kennedy, should be close to indispensable in helping Kennedy with Congress.

Johnson, Democratic leader of the Senate since 1954 and a master manipulator, is also the protégé of Sam Rayburn, speaker of the House and the most powerful single force on that side of the Capitol.

Kennedy's relations with Congress will be crucial in trying to make his campaign promises and programs a reality since most of them have to go through Congress where a majority of Democrats and Republicans are conservative people who know Kennedy say they are convinced he made few, if any promises, to anyone about what he'd do for them if he won.

Casualties Of Elections

Are there casualties in elections?

Most people who wind up losing them are convinced there are certain degrees of damage. After all the vote-counting and the whooping it up for the victor, the losing side undergoes a general deflation of ego. The sudden disappointment of becoming the fabled "defeated candidate" can indeed be termed a casualty.

But there are other casualties in elections. Some that are seldom or never related or heard of. And sometimes they happen right under our noses.

For instance, the Pitt County Board of Elections chairman, during the recent general election, had a casualty to report. D.S. Spain Jr. of Greenville was indeed a hurried man during the campaign and especially so during the final frenzied days before the Tuesday balloting.

In addition to his running here and there around the county making sure everything was in readiness for the 16,000 voters that flooded Pitt's polls, Mr. Spain had to cope with innumerable visits and telephone calls from interested citizens in quest of specifics about the registration and voting requirements.

That was all well and good, the chairman believes, because it's indeed well and good for the populace to feel the vital importance of electing government leaders. In fact, it's downright gratifying.

Well, Mr. Spain believes he weathered the storm in fine style, considering the intensity of the storm. But still he had a casualty to report.

His telephone held up well also under the constant barrage, but his doorbell system fared more badly.

Mr. Spain had his doorbells at the front and rear doors, respectively, wired to ring one and two times, also respectively, as a means of distinguishing between front and rear door visitors without taking unnecessary steps. That's where the casualty came.

According to our chairman, by the time election day arrived, his doorbell system had become so overworked it apparently became frustrated and refused to perform properly.

When an information-seeking visitor would ring the doorbell, no matter whether from or rear, the chime would sound only once. At last report, the casualty was recuperating.

Funny how far-reaching politics and elections can be, ain't it?

Other Editors Saying . . . Tarheels In New Cabinet

(Henderson Dispatch)

Senator Kennedy's election last Tuesday may carry significance for North Carolina. Some rather pronounced gossip is that a North Carolinian will be appointed to the cabinet in the new administration.

Governor Hodges is prominently mentioned for secretary of commerce. Congressman Harold Cooley is talked of as a potential selection for secretary of agriculture. Kennedy has said that he did not plan an announcement as to appointments before about Thanksgiving, which is some two weeks away. By that time an idea of the trend of the chief executive's thinking and of his decisions may be revealed. In the meantime, speculation will become rampant as to selections he will make.

Hodges has been especially active in the Kennedy campaign. He headed a committee whose purpose was to line up business people for the Democratic candidate. He flew all the way to New Hampshire on election eve to introduce Kennedy on a television network. He is widely supposed to have a burning ambition to be a member of the cabinet. His chances are thought to be very promising. The Governor would give the office many years of experience as an executive; he has had innumerable contacts with leaders in the business world. North Carolinians who know him consider him as well qualified for the office as any individual Kennedy could select.

It is not likely that both men will be appointed to the cabinet. Nor is it absolutely certain that either will be. But, if gossip can be trusted, one or the other will become a member of the official family in the Kennedy administration. North Carolina's huge margin for Kennedy in the election Tuesday did no damage to the State's claims or chances in this respect.

Evaluating Business Prospects

By ELMER ROESSNER

Businessmen today are quietly evaluating the attitudes of the new Congress and mapping lobbying and public opinion campaigns to protect their interests.

The evaluation is not leading to happy conclusions. The 87th Congress appears to be somewhat more "liberal" than the 86th, and those liberals include many to regulate and restrict business more.

The three major concerns of all business are Federal taxes, the danger of more inflation and the amount of government spending. Those three are inter-related: there can be no increase in spending without an increase in taxes or an increase in inflation.

It would appear today that the fulfillment of any large part of the campaign promises would require more spending. Just how the new Congress and the Administration works out this problem will be interesting — and probably painful to watch.

VARIETY OF FORMULAS
It can solve the problem by increasing spending and taxes, or by increasing spending and inflation, or by increasing spending and getting the money partly from taxes and partly from inflation.

Or can postpone the redemption of some party pledges and forget about the rest of them. While that is the concern of business generally, many groups and industries have other worries.

The 86th Congress since 1935 has extended Social Security in some ways. There are sure to be new homes in this direction next year.

WAGE AND HOUR CONTROLS
Of great concern to all retailers will be proposals to extend Federal wage and hour controls to stores. In the 86th Congress, both the House and Senate passed legislation that would have ended retailers' exemption, although they did not

States Losing Power

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
Copyright 1960, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Actually, the Federal Government has been increasingly assuming the functions of the states and absorbing much of the taxing powers of the states. This is not a new problem; it was a characteristic of the New Deal and it has continued since Franklin D. Roosevelt. Its counter-characteristic is that the Federal Government then allocates funds for the states. This is a method of making one state pay for something in another state without saying so. Professor William G. Carleton, writing in the "Political Science Quarterly," says:

"Since 1953, it is true, there have been demands for an enlargement of old state functions and for the initiation of new state functions, but most of the states fail to respond to the demands. At the same time, the Federal Government has been taking on and expanding functions hitherto regarded as largely state or private matters — road building, welfare, housing, slum clearance, urban renewal, individual and public health, hospitals, education, and so forth. The Federal Government has been concerning itself more and more with these activities, either directly, or indirectly through grants-in-aid. Older grants-in-aid are expanding, new grants-in-aid are being adopted, and Federal money appropriations for grants-in-aid are increasing enormously. In 1901, they amounted to less than $3,000,000. In 1931, they amounted to about $220,000,000. In 1941, they rose to $615,000,000. By 1951, they had expanded to $2,280,000,000. Today, they are running close to $7,000,000,000, counting the so-called highway trust fund."

The general attitude of our people is national, although there are vestiges of local emotionalism. As the economy of the United States has lost its local character, as the population has grown more mobile, state lines no longer have the meaning they did when the phrase, "these United States," was sharply emphasized. Such a state as New Jersey, for instance which in the north is part of Metropolitan New York and in the south is part of Metropolitan Philadelphia, loses its distinctive characteristics. In fact, the transportation system of New York City and New Jersey are tied together in the Port of New York Authority which controls tunnels, bridges, airfields and all sorts of things, existing by the authority of the Congress of the United States.

The future of the states, as sovereignties, is seriously affected by the election of John Kennedy to the Presidency. His platform has assumed an even greater Federal responsibility than heretofore and there the Administration in Washington will be performing more services that have in the past been limited to the states. This may be particularly true as regards education. I use "may" rather than "will" because the relationship between a party platform and actual conduct on the job is often remote and Kennedy will have to be studied and appraised not from the standpoint of what was said between July and November 1960 but of what he does between January 20, 1961 and four years hence.

It is not likely that John Kennedy as President will be tolerant of the wastage of brains. The utilization of brain-power will, under Kennedy, become a primary objective. An intellectual himself, he will ride roughshod over any impediments to the discovering, the training, the utilization of intelligence in the national interest. Practically, this will mean that the Federal Government will make it possible for bright boys and girls to pursue their intellectual aspirations whether they can afford to pay for them or not. Kennedy's attitude is likely to be that the nation cannot afford to lose these persons of extraordinary talent and capacity for intellectual work no matter what it costs to conserve brain-power.

This will not be an altogether new approach to the problem of the mobilization of intelligence, but it will undoubtedly be accelerated beyond anything that (Continued on Page 5)

Talmadge Proposes Farm Plan To Reduce Surplus

Government Collective Farm Plan Now Almost Complete In Bulgaria

By EDWARD ESMERIAN
SOFIA, Bulgaria (AP) — "Life is too difficult—in fact, it's getting better and better," said an elderly man in Sofia who once lived three years in France.

A small-town hydraulic technician saw things differently: "You can't express yourself freely in cafes. There are fewer political prisoners, it is true, but this is because people have started to shut up. If there were a referendum, no more than 2 per cent of the people would approve the regime."

He and his wife had studied seven years in France.

"We know what freedom is, but the others?" he shrugged.

On the road to Sofia there are indications that the collective farm program has not completely stamped out the small peasantry. Here and there, amid vast collective fields, are small patches of corn or small orchards with corn planted helterskelter among the trees.

Occasionally one sees a peasant cottage with chickens in the yard, or shepherds driving a dozen sheep or so.

Stranger than the collective farms is the compulsory hand-washing ritual. On a lonely country road some 20 miles out of Sofia, a militiaman stops all vehicles, ordering the occupants to wash their hands. Several basins of muddy water are lined up on a bench at the side of the road.

Some workmen in a truck had just finished performing this curious ritual and all were laughing as we set to do the same. One of them said the basins were filled with disinfectant. The militiaman didn't seem to take it too seriously either, but he was nonetheless insistent.

All along Bulgarian roads one finds signboards showing the tons of steel produced or the number of pigs raised in 1959 and the quotas for 1960.

One also sees rows of two-story brick houses, all identical, being built to replace hovels.

The main roads are usually of asphalt, but often abruptly become dirt tracks, bumpy and potholed, strewn with boulders. The traffic is mostly trucks. The relatively few cars are mostly of Soviet manufacture.

The Soviet Volga sells for the equivalent of $4,320.

While civilians seem eager to talk with foreigners, the army is distrustful of visitors. One young frontier guard said, when asked how long his military service lasted, "I can't tell you. It's a secret."

Lottery ticket vendors are num-

There are few shops in Sofia, considering the size of the city. One big department store displays a small radio costing 530 leva—176, at 6.8 leva to the dollar. This represents nearly a month's pay for the average worker.

Lightweight men's suits also were selling for about a month's pay. A plain rayon dress sold for a week's wages. Men's shoes cost the equivalent of 4½ to 12 days' pay.

The elderly man suggested that consumer goods and agricultural products were being sacrificed to speed up the country's heavy industry production.

"The industrialization program is going well, almost too well," he said, stretching his arms in helplessness. "But you must remember there are enemies everywhere: Turkey, Greece (Bulgaria's neighbors), they don't like us, it seems. The governments, that is, not the people."

Stopping in villages, a foreign visitor will be surrounded by crowds of onlookers, children for the most part. Some will try to start a conversation in whatever foreign words they know.

That was how the hydraulic expert introduced himself.

"Here we always speak of peace," he said, "but people are waiting for the next war, thinking it will set everything right. They believe the country that thinks itself the strongest will start it, but that Russia will lose."

"We work like cattle here," he said bitterly, "and earn nothing. Farther north in some farm co-operatives the workers only earn two or three leva—29 to 43 cents a day. Those who can, escape to the cities to work in factories. But it's illegal to change like that. If one of my children fled abroad, my wife and I would probably go to prison."

"Many cooperatives are run by just women. If both husband and wife worked there, they could not make ends meet."

MACON, Ga. (AP) — Sen. Herman Talmadge, D-Ga., announced a farm plan today which he says will reduce the national farm surplus within the program itself.

In essence, the reduction would come through payment of surplus commodities, not money, to a farmer who takes land out of production. The farmer's income thus would depend upon whatever market price he could get for the surplus goods.

Talmadge said he will introduce the program shortly after the convening of the 87th Congress in January.

In a speech prepared for the annual convention of the Georgia Farm Bureau Federation, Talmadge said the next Congress has a mandate to devise and enact a new national farm program, but maintained that none of the proposals made during the presidential campaign "envisions the bold, front-door approach which the farm crisis demands."

He said he was optimistic about the chances for the new farm legislation to be enacted next year to follow the lines of his idea for a program bolstered by compensatory payments on domestically consumed basic commodities except tobacco which would continue under its present support formula.

"My bill would eliminate all acreage controls and government loans and instead assign to each farmer a domestic product quota," he said. "Expressed in terms of pounds, bushels, bales and other appropriate units of measurement, that quota would be the same percentage of the previous year's national consumption of basic commodities as the farmer's average annual production bears to the total national average production."

"The farmer would market what he produced and would be guaranteed the difference between the price he received for his domestic production quota and 100 per cent of parity. He would have to submit a bill of sale to qualify for his support payment and no farmer would be allowed to receive more than $12,500 in government payments in any one year. Payment also would be prohibited to contract farmers and to farmers whose families have total nonfarm incomes of more than $5,000 a year."

He said his plan would absorb the $9 billion agricultural surplus already accumulated as follows: "Any farmer so electing could, by agreeing to put into conservation practices without payment the amount of land on which he would grow his domestic production quota, receive from the secretary of agriculture a negotiable certificate entitling him to sell the equivalent of his quota from surplus stocks held by the Commodity Credit Corporation. No compensatory payments would be paid on such sales as the participating farmers would have, in effect, received such payments in eliminating the cost of growing their shares of the domestic market. Under such an arrangement existing commodities would be substituted unit-for-unit for assigned quotas which would assure against any disruption of normal trade channels."

Atlas Firing Test Reaches Objective

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — A power-packed intercontinental range Atlas missile streaked 5,000 miles down the Atlantic missile range early today.

The Air Force reported the Atlas, America's most potent military rocket, achieved all test objectives in plunking its nose cone on target near Ascension Island in the South Atlantic.

Two hours after launch, a recovery vessel retrieved a data capsule that ejected from the 1½-ton cone and parachuted into the water.

The cone was coated with improved materials designed to afford better protection for hydrogen warheads carried and operational Atlases now stationed at bases in California and Wyoming.

Past Party Chief Freed On Charge Ex-Farm Official Gets 2-Year Term

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Municipal court has freed Camille F. Gravel, former Democratic national committeeman from Louisiana, of an intoxication charge arising from an incident aboard an airplane last July 1.

The complaint was dismissed Monday after the prosecutor told the court that he did not have a strong case.

Gravel, who had pleaded innocent, was arrested when he alighted from an airliner to attend the Democratic National Convention. The pilot had radioed a report that a passenger was drunk.

Portland, Ore. (AP)—A former federal farm official was sentenced to two years in prison Monday for profiteering in grain storage contracts.

A partner in the venture with Earl C. Corey, former regional director of the Commodity Stabilization Service also was sentenced to two years. The partner was Lawrence M. Smith of Waterville, Wash. Their attorneys said they would appeal.

Corey was convicted on two counts of conspiracy and another of conflict of interest. Smith was convicted on 10 counts of submitting false statements and for conspiracy.

The government has filed a suit to recover $249,000 paid to the Three State Warehouse Co. in which Corey was a silent partner.

Still, a lot of people who backed Kennedy or worked for him in one way or another will be looking for rewards now that he is in a position to dish them out.

Just keeping them satisfied, or off his back, will be a monumental task.

has heretofore been known. In the battle with Soviet Russia, this country requires engineers, technicians of all kinds, and brilliant, disciplined minds that it needs foot soldiers, for instance. The war between us is of such a nature. Therefore, the emphasis will be on brains and the Federal Government will find a formula for their cultivation. But what will that do to the authority of the states over education? Sooner or later this question will become a very active political one throughout the country. It was, of course, raised in Arkansas; but that was over another matter.

JAMES KEENE'S New Historical Novel IRON MAN, IRON HORSE

CHAPTER 16

Satchel came back with a horse, and Carl Singer motioned for Ollie Skinner to mount up. When Skinner showed some reluctance, Singer hit him with his gun barrel, not hard enough to knock him out, but hard enough to hurt him.

"I'm not going to fool with you," Singer said, and got on his own horse. They rode out with Ollie Skinner between them, and kept up a steady pace for over an hour.

Their destination was a dry wash, a ten-foot-deep gully splitting the face of the prairie in an irregular line. Satchel took care of the horses and Carl Singer crouched down, his gun still covering Skinner.

"We can talk here," Singer said. "I'll ask questions, and you'll answer 'em, Ollie."

"If I know the answers," Skinner said.

"Oh, you're a smart old buzzard," Carl said. "You know a lot, say a lot." He turned his head as Satchel came back. "Fix a fire. I saw some brush along here earlier today."

Satchel stomped around, breaking up brush, and finally got a small fire going. Then he sat down and pointed his gun at Ollie Skinner. "I'll keep an eye on him, Mr. Singer."

"Be careful, he's sneaky as hell," Carl said. "Ollie, we want to talk over some railroad business with you."

"I fetch meals, fend horses, and run errands," Skinner said. "What do I know?"

"You've got your ear to every keyhole, Ollie. I figure you know what's goin' on. Is Holliday going to take the offer made to him?"

"What offer?"

Satchel hit him with a heavy stick and Skinner fell over. But he sat up again, a red welt on the side of his head. Carl Singer spoke. "A lawyer in Dodge made an offer to buy the line. Is Holliday going to take it?"

"Ask Holliday. He's the boss." Again Satchel struck him with the club, across the mouth, and Skinner bled from the lips. He sat up more slowly this time and spat out a broken tooth. Carl said, "What do you want to be like that for, Ollie? You co-operate, and I'll give you a horse and fifty dollars." He looked at Skinner to see how the offer was going to be taken, but there was nothing in the old man's expression except disgust. "All right, we've got some time. How does Holliday expect to keep the Indians from tearing down the telegraph wires?"

"Are they goin' to tear down the wires? I didn't hear nobody say that," Skinner replied.

Satchel would have hit him again, but Carl blocked his arm. "He's not afraid of that club, Satchel. Ollie, we don't want to hurt you, but we want to know about these things. The Indians will sure as hell tear the wires down once they find out what they're for. Now what's Holliday goin' to do about it?"

"Pray," Skinner said. "Write to his congressman. How do I know?"

"You know," Carl said. He looked at Satchel. "We've been too easy on Ollie. Strip him to the waist."

The man got up and started for Skinner, but made the mistake of putting his pistol into the holster first. It was all the break Skinner needed; he kicked Satchel flush in the face and drove him backwards full into the fire. Satchel lit in a sitting position, his tight denim no protection at all. With a scream he vaulted up and started rolling away, and Skinner dived for Carl Singer.

For a moment they just rolled on the ground, their arms locked tightly about each other, legs thrashing for purchase; then Skinner battered Singer's face with his knuckles and tried to break away, to climb the bully wall. He almost made the top when Singer pulled his gun, sighted quickly, and smashed Ollie Skinner's hip. The old man cried out and tumbled down, then Singer got up and went over and stood there, looking at him.

"I could have killed you easy," Carl said.

"You'd have — saved time if you had," Skinner said, panting. "Satchel, quit that moaning and strip him like I said!"

Skinner was shorn of shirt, and his underwear was ripped clean to the waist, then Satchel went to his saddlebags and brought back four pocket pins and some short lengths of rope. In spite of his wound, Skinner fought, and it took both of them to spread-eagle him.

After Skinner's arms and legs were both tied tightly, Carl sat back and wiped sweat from his face. "Ollie, you're making me do this."

"I ain't makin' you do nothin'," Skinner snapped. "It's your own damned meanness."

"Put a little fire on his belly," Singer said.

Skinner drew taut like a violin string when Satchel laid a burning twig on him, and he moaned and bit his lips and sawed his head from side to side until Singer couldn't stand it any longer.

"Get it off him," Carl said, and Satchel flicked the burning wood away. "Ollie, I've got to know about Holliday's plans. What's he to you, anyway? It's just a job, ain't it?"

"You wouldn't understand," Skinner said softly. "He only cusses me when I got it comin', not when he feels like it. Burn me if you want. That's all I am going to say."

Carl Singer didn't believe that, so they put some more fire on Skinner, and after a while, when he lost consciousness, Singer, realizing that was the truth; Skinner just wasn't going to speak again.

"I should have known him better," Singer said. "He was never known to back down on anything in his life." He got up and brushed off the seat of his pants. "Let's go."

"He'll talk if we leave him," Satchel said.

"No. You get the horses."

When Satchel turned, Carl Singer drew his gun and cocked it. "Damn you, Ollie, you're the world's worst fool." He fired and then coked the gun and shot two more times, because he was a little frightened now and doubted his own ability to kill this old man. Then he turned and walked down the gully to where Satchel waited with the horses. "Leave Skinner's horse here." He stepped into the saddle, but Satchel remained dismounted. "Well, you want to stay here with him?"

"I can't ride," Satchel said. "My butt's one big blister."

"Then walk," Carl Singer said harshly. "You'll make it all right."

"I don't want to be found anywhere around here," Satchel said flatly.

"Who's going to find you?" Singer asked. "If he's missed, it won't be until daylight. And who the hell cares enough about him to go looking for him?"

"Holliday."

"He's a greenhorn who has a hell of a time finding his way from the house to the barn." He gazed his horse and ran up the steep walls of the gully, and once clear he set a brisk pace back to his father's place.

He wasn't sorry he had killed Ollie Skinner; he was bothered more by the possible consequences of what he had done; he'd hang for it if he was caught, and this seemed grossly unfair to Carl, hanging for killing a worthless old coot like Skinner.

Carl Singer must face up to his father. Can he look him in the eye? Continue the story here tomorrow.

Rest Home Has 2 100-Year-Olds

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP)—"I feel a thousand years old," retired lumberjack John Sands told newsmen.

Actually John Sands is 100 years old today, but he still has to take a back seat to another resident of the Seattle rest home where he lives.

Sands and Margaret Starkweather got together Monday for some picture-taking and pre-birthday celebrating. Mrs. Starkweather will be 101 Nov. 22.

With a little coaxing from a photographer, Sands put his arm around Mrs. Starkweather and clasped his right hand over hers. "Those," Mrs. Starkweather chuckled, "will be some pictures."

Campus Democrat Pays With Nose

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP)—An election bet was paid off at Wake Forest College Monday and it was a Democrat who paid.

Larry James of Elkin, N.C., president of the college's Young Democrats, had bet that President-elect John Kennedy would carry 35 states. He paid off by nudging a peanut 2,000 feet around the campus plaza with his nose.

Actually, he pushed two peanuts. One of them wore out.

Republicans made a last-splash stand for Vice President Richard M. Nixon. At least once, somebody doused the sidewalk with water.

Margin Dwindles As Count Goes On

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Continued counting of absentee ballots from last week's presidential election has cut Sen. John F. Kennedy's California margin over Vice President Richard M. Nixon to less than 29,000.

At the end of Monday's tabulations, Kennedy had 3,134,226; Nixon, 3,105,310. The difference was 28,916.

Nixon's ratio in the returns was at 59.4 per cent. In the national vote count, his percentage was 49.7.

ELECTION BET PAYOFF—Miss Tybie Paul, left, plants a cream pie in the face of Miss Georgianna Walker at the corner of Sunset and Vine in Hollywood, Calif. Miss Walker, 35, cast her vote for Richard Nixon. Yep, bet payoff was: the winner could publicly smack a pie into the face of the loser. Basketball
In their respective debuts last Tuesday at Maury, Winterville High's basketball squads won season openers.

The girls topped the Maury team by 37-29, while the Wolves capped the doubleheader with a one-sided 65-43 romp over the Maury boys.

Both coaches, Blaine Moyer of the boys and Troy Jackson of the girls were well-pleased by the performance of their squads.

Winterville's 1960-61 home slate: Nov. 18—Maury; Nov. 29—Hookerton; Dec. 2—Grimesland; Dec. 6—Ayden; Dec. 13—Grifton; Jan. 3—Chicod; Jan. 6—Bethel; Jan. 10—Stokes-Pactolus; Jan. 20—Belvoir-Falkland; Jan. 31—Bear Grass; and Feb. 7—Farmville.

Games away: Nov. 15—Hookerton; Nov. 22—Bear Grass; Dec. 9—Belvoir-Falkland; Jan. 13—Ayden; Jan. 17—Grimesland; Jan. 27—Grifton; Feb. 3—Bethel; Feb. 10—Stokes-Pactolus; Feb. 14—Chicod; and Feb. 17—Farmville.

Winterville Band
The Winterville High band, under the direction of Bob Ellwanger, began the school term by teaming with the Ayden High School band in supporting the Ayden football team.

To date Winterville students have participated in the Winterville-Ayden band's performances at Havelock, Ayden, Greenville, Robersonville, Beaufort, and Farmville.

On Dec. 1, the band will participate in the annual Greenville Christmas parade. The band's annual Christmas concert will be presented at the December meeting of the local chapter of the Parent-Teacher Association.

The WHS musicians have elected the following officers: Harold Nichols, president; Steve Worthington, vice president; Mary Virginia Langston, secretary-treasurer; Michael McLawhorn, librarian; and Tony Day, custodian.

Odds 'n' Ends
At its meeting Nov. 4, the Winterville Glee Club practiced "It's Beginning to Look Like Christmas" and "Joseph Dearest, Joseph Mine," an old German carol.

Nov. 8, the individual study halls practiced the Winterville High School song written by Ray Oglesby. The music was written by Sara Brown Braxton and Mrs. Annette Braxton, WHS piano teacher, arranged the music.

The installation of the WHS chapter of the Future Homemakers of America was conducted in the Elementary School Auditorium Nov. 3. After the installation devotional, the FHA prayer song was sung by Norma Worthington and LaVerne Cayton. Following the program, refreshments were served at the Home Economics Cottage. Miss Alya Ray Taylor is the local FHA advisor.

School Board Head Is Rugged Man

By DAVID ZINMAN
NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Lloyd J. Rittiner, president of the embattled New Orleans School Board that authorized Louisiana's first school integration since Reconstruction, is a rangy, rugged man with no love for telephones or mailmen.

Rittiner's unpaid school board post him squarely on the horns of a sizzling dilemma. The Louisiana Legislature demanded he maintain segregation. A federal court ordered school integration. The school board — which has had its power taken away by the state and restored by the federal courts four times since August — obeyed the court order Monday.

The 44-year-old engineer's phone rings day and night. Mailmen pile letters by the score on his doorstep.

"Let me say, I think you're a disgrace to your country, to the South, and to your race," one letter read.

"Old mealy-mouth" another said. "I'm a parent of six who would rather see her children grossly ignorant than associates of niggers."

"I am writing simply to express a vote of thanks for the courageous stand you have taken in trying to keep the schools open," a third letter read.

"Traitor, scalliwag, coward, vote hound" the names trailed off endlessly as Rittiner read the letters in his office.

"When I was elected to the board four years ago," Rittiner said, "I never dreamed I would be in the public eye like this. I don't say I would have dodged it. But I didn't think it (integration) could have happened here."

Ironically, Rittiner regards himself a staunch segregationist. Yet he voted with three of four other board members for a pupil placement plan that admitted four Negro girls to white schools Monday.

"Why? Rittiner said he figured it came down to a choice between integration or destruction.

"It is one thing to fight as far as humanly possible and still be able to recognize when you've reached the end of the road and surrender," Rittiner said.

"And it is another thing to continue to fight without recognizing you have reached the end of the road and be destroyed. I don't don't want to see the public schools of Louisiana destroyed."

Rittiner's roots lie deep in New Orleans. He was born here, grew up and schooled here, graduating from Tulane in 1939.

After college, he took a crack at the oil industry, then went into business for himself. He owns and runs three engineering companies.

Rittiner, who is divorced, has two children. A boy and a girl, both attending public schools.

Rittiner said he ran for a post on the school board—which has a $28-million budget for its 95,000 children—because he felt like doing some service work for the city.

"Everybody can give money," Rittiner said. "I felt like giving my time."

He ends his one-year term as board president next month. He'll keep his 6-year board seat, however, until 1962.

Rittiner says the phone calls come at all hours. Some praising, some damning, some threatening.

"If they don't say who they are, I don't listen."

Elizabeth Taylor 'Still Sick Girl'

LONDON (AP)—Elizabeth Taylor's American doctor said today the actress is "still a sick girl."

Dr. Red Kenamer, of Los Angeles, at the urging of Miss Taylor's husband Eddie Fisher, arrived Monday night the actress, suffering intense head pains, was semi-conscious under sedation.

"We're encouraged," the doctor said this morning.

He said he hoped to be able to issue a medical bulletin later in the day.

With Dr. Cary Goldman, and Lord Evans, Miss Taylor's British physicians, Dr. Kenamer had just come from the movie star's bedside. Lord Evans is one of Queen Elizabeth II's doctors. He was brought into the case last month when the beautiful actress continued to run a fever every afternoon.

FATAL WARNING
CHICAGO (AP)—"Guns can be dangerous," Leroy Rutkowski, 26, warned his four children Monday as he showed them his .38 caliber revolver. Then he bent to retrieve a cartridge from the floor.

The weapon discharged, fatally wounding Rutkowski in the head.

When it's 12 noon in New York it's 3 o'clock the next morning in Melbourne, Australia.

Rooney Requests Alimony Relief

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor Mickey Rooney has asked superior court to give him some relief from his alimony payments.

The actor petitioned Monday for modification of terms of a property settlement with ex-wife Elaine Mahnkne, 30, his fourth. A hearing was set for Dec. 8.

Rooney claimed a 1959 court order for him to pay her $1,750 a month was unfair and inequitable. The actor recently claimed that he is broke. He said his current tax liens and debts total more than $87,000.

3 NEW MODELS FROM FORD...

NEW ECONOLINE PICKUP...
America's lowest-priced pickup—bar none!

New Ford Econoline Models

*Based on a comparison of latest available manufacturers' suggested retail delivered prices

ALL-THE-WAY NEW TO SAVE IN 4 BIG WAYS!

1. America's lowest-priced* pickup—as much as $260 below conventional 1/2-tonners!
2. Up to 30 mpg! In certified tests, the Econoline delivered 30 miles per gallon... you can save as much as 40% on gas.
3. Less dead weight! 1050 pounds less chassis weight to haul, yet carries over 1/2-ton payloads.
4. Bigger loadspace! 7-foot box—up to 23% more room but 3 feet less truck to handle.

And... on all 1961 Ford Trucks, each part, except tires and tubes, is now warranted by your dealer against defects in material and workmanship for 12 months or 12,000 miles, whichever occurs first. The warranty does not apply, of course, to normal maintenance service or to the replacement in normal maintenance of parts such as filters, spark plugs, condensers and ignition points.

Floor on all Econoline models is level right out to the tailgate or doors with no rear engine hump! This provides greater loadspace and easier loading.

The 85-hp Economy Six gives up to 30 mpg on regular gas. And its up-front design means better engine cooling and better vehicle performance. Saves on oil change expense with 4000 miles between changes. I-Beam front axle and long leaf springs provide a comfortable ride and reduce tire wear. Front tires can last up to twice as long, compared to tires on independent-type suspensions.

Proposals For 1961 Laid Before Tar Heel Baptists

ASHEVILLE (AP)—A 1961 program calling for 40,000 new baptisms and contributions of $45 millions to denominational activities was laid before the Baptist State Convention here today.

The goals were included in the report of the convention's General Board handed to the first general session of the 130th annual meeting of delegates representing the state's largest Protestant denomination.

The 2,800 messengers (delegates) also heard the annual report of Convention President C. B. Deane, who is scheduled to be re-elected for his second one-year term.

Another report, by the Rev. T. L. Cashwell of Lenoir, chairman of the Christian Life Committee, urged that a special education program be provided for teenagers explaining the meaning of Christian marriage. The counseling program would be available both before and after marriage.

The General Board report called for a budget of $4,400,000 for convention expenses and support of its agencies and institutions. Of the total, $2,904,000 would go to direct support of state projects and $1,496,000 to the Southern Baptist Convention's cooperative program. The $45 million outlay would be in connection with the Southern Convention's participation in the Baptist Jubilee program of world Baptists through 1964. This program calls for 476,000 new baptisms next year, of which North Carolina Baptists have pledged 40,000.

Another phase of the program is the "30,000 Movement" under which 30,000 new Baptist churches and mission points would be established during the four years. The Christian Life Committee referred only briefly to race relations in its report. It pointed to recent "awakening" of unprivileged peoples in Africa and other parts of the world.

It urged Christian peoples to recognize that change is inevitable, accept it and "even welcome it." The report added: "Since this particular region is one of the strategic spots where rapid change is taking place in race relations, we cannot avoid being closely and intimately involved."

It said many current beliefs about races and minority groups are "based on myths and legends" and have "no more foundation in reason or fact than beliefs in ghosts or woodland-fairies."

The report reaffirmed that all races are alike under the constitution, and declared that "Christian worship, when reviewed as a basic activity of the Church of Jesus Christ rather than our own private organizations or clubs, should be open to whoever desires to peacefully participate."

President-Elect To Visit Johnson

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—President-elect John F. Kennedy will arrive Wednesday afternoon at the Air Force's Bergstrom base for conferences with Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson, vice president-elect. Secret service agents met with officials at Bergstrom to complete arrangements. Kennedy probably will go by plane or helicopter to Johnson's ranch 65 miles west of Austin.

President John Quincy Adams got only 31.8 per cent of the electoral vote in the 1824 election. He was chosen President by the House of Representatives.

VICTOR AND VANQUISHED—President-elect John F. # Newspaper Editor Asks Support South's Progress

By JACK SIMMS

BOCA RATON, Fla. (AP)—The editor of the Memphis Commercial-Appeal today called on newspaper publishers to provide direction and support for progress in SMUGGLED ART—New York art dealer Frank Caro displays 600-year-old Chinese scroll painting valued at $65,000 in his gallery after the Treasury Department announced seizure of more than $400,000 worth of art objects smuggled into the United States from Red China. the "creative South." "Creativeness—this is the tenor of the times and the challenge," Frank R. Ahlgren told delegates to the annual convention of the Southern Newspaper Publishers Association.

"We are growing by leaps and bounds in the South—growing, learning, inventing, and absorbing, changing, progressing," he said. "That's the picture of the creative South."

Ahlgren said the South has made vast strides in recent years on four fronts:

1. The massive industrialization experienced in the past decade.
2. The tremendous expansion and improvement of public school systems and universities.
3. Changing agriculture.

Market Averages See Drop Monday

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Average prices dropped in Monday's sales on fine-cured tobacco belts still operating in North Carolina and Virginia.

The North Carolina-Virginia Old Belt reported declines of mostly $1-$4 per hundred pounds in sales Monday compared with last Thursday—the previous sales day. The Federal-State Market News Service also said quality was slightly improved as the proportion of non-descript declined and volume was heavy on the belt.

North Carolina's Middle Belt, moving into its final week of sales, reported general price declines of $1-$6 per hundred at the six markets still selling. Prices for medium to better quality grades continued steady. Volume was medium at most markets and quality better.

4. The wave of cultural progress which has swept across the South.

"He said the Southerner of today is not merely a product of a plodding society...He has changed willingly for the most part...He has Americanized himself."

"The task today," Ahlgren said, "is to accustom the rural South to the transcendence of the urban South."

He also said the Southern press must help maintain the momentum of progress built up during recent years in all of the various fields.

"We must be better than average," he told the publishers. "We should have the courage and willingness to solve our problems."

This, Ahlgren said, "is the credo for every Southerner today regardless of color, profession, or economic status."

In addition to the Ahlgren address, today's schedule included a "Meet the Press" panel, moderated by Turner Catledge, managing editor of the New York Times. Ahlgren and other speakers for the three-day convention were questioned by a panel of publishers on the future of the South.

Nearly 700 policy-making executives from 14 states are attending the SNPA's 57th anniversary convention which ends Wednesday.

Kennedy Schedules Visit To LBJ Ranch To Sample Texas Hospitality

By GARTH JONES
AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—Big vote hunter John Kennedy will get a chance this week at some Texas big game, of the animal type.

By coincidence or otherwise the president-elect is scheduled to arrive Wednesday at the ranch of Vice President-elect Lyndon B. Johnson a few hours after the opening of Texas' hunting season for white tail deer.

Johnson's ranching spread along the Pedernales River and in the rocky hills of Blanco County has some of the choicest hunting in the state. Herds of 15 and 20 animals including big fat bucks are common sight at sundown.

LBJ ranch hands take particular care of the deer and Johnson's guests often get an invitation to sit in one of the cosy deer blinds placed near the paths and feeding grounds.

Kennedy will find numerous other signs of hospitality at Johnson's ranch, 65 miles west of here.

The LBJ ranch house on a grass-covered rise near the banks of the Pedernales. Johnson said the river's name, of Spanish origin, means "Little White Rocks Shining in the Night." The entrance to the grounds is across a low water dam and driveway that in flood times becomes impassable.

"I'll see you Saturday if the Lord be willing that the creeks don't rise," Mrs. Johnson often tells invited guests.

The rambling stone and white frame ranch house is mostly shaded by giant live oak trees. The tortlike stone walls are more than 100 years old. One of Johnson's aunts did all of her cooking over a mammoth fireplace that is now in the house living room.

Four big bedrooms in the house and more in a nearby guest house take care of frequent guests. Twenty-eight telephone lines attempt to take care of Johnson's political and business endeavors when he is at the ranch.

Just outside Johnson's first-floor bedroom is a big blue swimming pool — with telephone outlets around the edge.

"Welcome to LBJ ranch" is etched in the concrete of a sidewalk leading to the front door. Concrete stepping stones near the pool have signatures from famous figures including one signed by Speaker Sam Rayburn.

In warm weather Johnson and his family spend much of their time around the pool. There is a big cooler for cold drinks. White-coated waiters serve breakfast or lunch by the pool.

Johnson has a standing warning to news photographers not to take pictures of him or any of the family in bathing suits or shorts.

Although 65 miles from the nearest city, Johnson keeps in close touch with the outside world. About 100 feet from the ranch house back door is an airplane hangar and a landing strip that will accommodate all but large four-engine airliners.

Ranch foreman Henry Blackburn says Johnson is as sharp in the stock farm business as in politics. Shortly after being nominated for vice president, Johnson took time out to brag about a good profit he turned on the sale of 270 lambs.

This fall the ranch has about 80 head of commercial cattle and about 35 head of registered Herefords. "As fine a herd of breeding stock as you'll find in the United States," Blackburn says.

Peacetime Use Of Nuclear Energy Stirs Imagination

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Next to atomic power and heating plants, the peaceful use of nuclear energy that most excites the imagination of scientists and general public alike is in the field of propulsion.

Atomic-powered submarines, ships, aircraft, trains, cars and trucks—and, of course, space devices—also arouse business interest. Government defense and civil agencies are prime movers in most of these studies. But private business gets most of the contracts.

Still ahead lies the dream of turning such devices into transportation, competitive in a profit-and-loss world with the older conventional fuel types.

A report to the Joint Committee on Atomic Energy, Congress of the United States, notes drily: "Reactors and radioactive materials have been considered as propulsive energy for ships, aircraft, ground transport and space devices. None of these, however, holds early promise of being competitive in civilian use."

The search goes on. Many countries with shipping interests explore the possibilities. In the government field the United States already has nuclear submarines, a cargo and passenger ship, and the Soviet Union has an ice-breaker and say they also have atomic subs.

The report to the congressional committee, made at its request by Robert McKinney, who was first permanent representative of the United States to the International Atomic Energy Agency in Vienna, Hungary, suggests that using nuclear propulsion units in conventional hulls may be the wrong civilian approach. He suggests, "there may be a need for a rethinking of marine transport systems and patterns as a whole."

McKinney a former assistant secretary of the interior, who is editor and publisher of the Santa Fe New Mexican, adds: "Systems not now in use, such as sea-trains and submarine cargo ships, associated with advanced high-speed cargo-handling terminals, may be explored in the future."

Scientists studying propulsion on the ground — locomotives, off-road vehicles, placer dredges — have run into engineering and radiation hazards more serious than those encountered in stationary atomic electric power plants.

Atomic aircraft has been explored as a possibility but the report to the congressional committee headed by Sen. Clinton P. Anderson, D-N.M., feels that space technology seems to have dimmed these prospects.

ECC Extension Division Sets Study Tour For Summer, 1961

The Extension Division of East Carolina College announces a travel study tour through the Southwestern States of the nation during the first term of summer school, 1961. The tour will extend over a period of 30 days, and will take those enrolled to nineteen states and to Juarez, Mexico. Tour members will assemble on the campus the afternoon of June 4 and leave early on June 5. Travel will be by air-conditioned Trailway Bus. Included in the itinerary will be New Orleans, Carlsbad Caverns, El Paso, Juarez, Mexico, Phoenix, Grand Canyon, Las Vegas, Los Angeles, Yosemite National Park, San Francisco, Reno, Salt Lake City, Colorado Springs, St. Louis, Louisville, Asheville, and home on July 3.

This schedule will permit members to return to the campus in time to enroll for the second term of summer school at East Carolina if they so desire.

Nine quarter hours of college credit for the tour can be obtained at two levels: Geography 150B is an undergraduate course for those working toward a bachelor's degree; Geography 350Gb and Education 350Gb offer senior-graduate extension credits. Credits from the graduate courses can be applied toward the bachelor's or the master's degree or for certificate renewal. The Extension Division invites inquiries by those who wish to take the tour, but do not need the college credits.

The overall objective of the study-travel program is to give an understanding and appreciation of the land, people, history, and problems that exist in a large region of the United States. Major benefits will come from actual observations and contacts while traversing the region.

Dr. Robert E. Cramer, professor of geography, who has conducted other travel study tours for the college, is planning the tour and will escort the group.

A special feature made available to the tour members will be the use of colored slides taken on the tour. Members will have the opportunity to duplicate those taken or to borrow them on free loan to show to their friends, class or church groups.

Since enrollment is limited, those interested in this tour for the summer of 1961 should write for a descriptive folder, and reservations should be made as soon as possible. Address inquiries to: Dr. Robert E. Cramer, Extension Division, Box 307, East Carolina College, Greenville, N. C.

UN Congo Committee Remains Divided

By TOM HOGE
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The U.N. Congo advisory committee remained split today on what to do about dispatching a conciliation commission to the chaotic African state.

Informed sources said Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld's 18-member committee failed after haggling for four hours Monday night to decide when to send its mission to the new African republic to try to bring warring factions together. It will meet again Wednesday.

One element in the committee is reported, contends there is no sense in sending a 15-member mission all the way to Africa to try to bring President Joseph Kasavubu and his arch rival, deposed Premier Patrice Lumumba, together since Kasavubu is in New York. The Congolese president came here last week to claim the Congo's empty seat in the General Assembly. The United States put a resolution through the credentials committee naming Kasavubu as head of the Congo delegation, but the recommendation is expected to run into bitter opposition in the assembly where the Soviet bloc and many Asian-African states favor Lumumba.

Some members of the committee are said to favor bringing Lumumba to New York while Kasavubu is here and try to effect a reconciliation on the spot. This suggestion did not gain much headway, informants said. The United States, it is reported, wants the assembly to meet this week on the credentials issue, but has not made any move to call for a plenary meeting.

Western delegates believe they can muster enough support from the Latin American bloc and members of the African French community to seat Kasavubu.

The United States could run into another defeat, however, if the 45 Asian-African nations team up with the nine-nation Soviet bloc as they did last week when they advised the Congo debate over American opposition. Jaja Wachuku, chief of the Nigerian delegation, has made known he would oppose the credentials committee's recommendation to seat Kasavubu. Other African delegates have indicated privately that, if the issue is brought to the assembly floor, they will vote for another postponement.

Still Negotiate On TV Accords

NEW YORK (AP)—Negotiators for the major television and radio networks and a performers' union continue contract talks today with prospects that the session might continue right up to the strike deadline at midnight tonight.

Minor progress was reported by a spokesman for the American Federation of Television and Radio Artists (AFTRA) after Monday's discussions.

Radio and television performers in New York, Chicago and Los Angeles have authorized their national guard to call a strike if new contract agreements are not reached. The union has about 16,000 members.

Such a strike would be the first by performers against network operations. It could black out live performances and stop the taping of shows and commercials.

AFTRA is seeking a 10 per cent increase in performer fees and higher payments to performers for reruns of commercials.

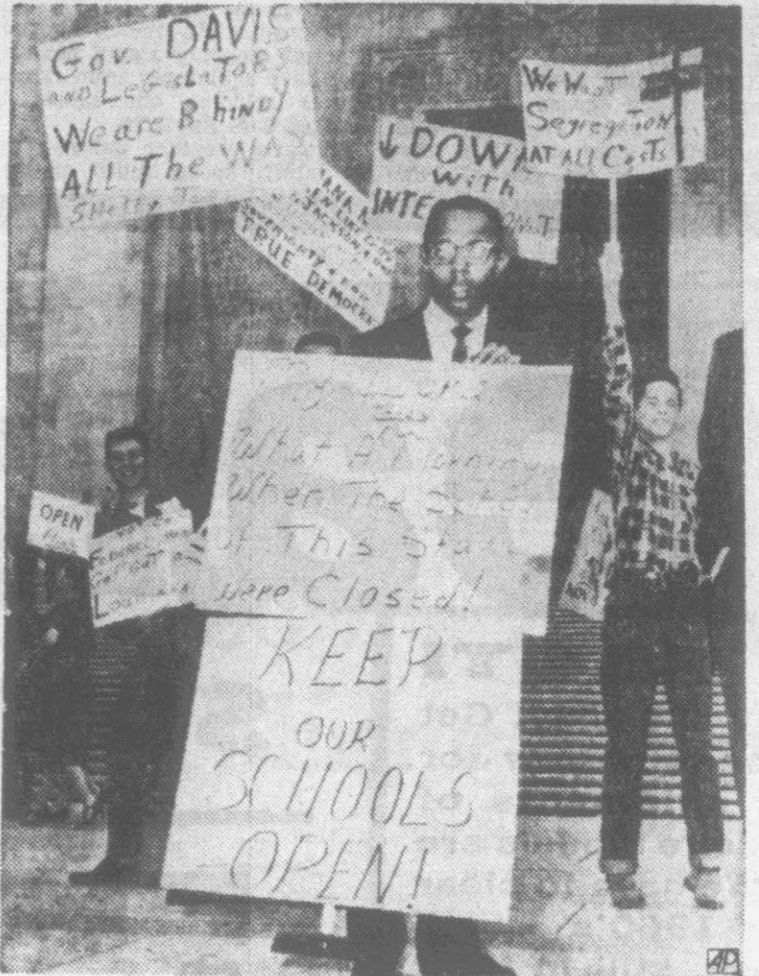

The federation's demands have been called "completely out of line" by an executive of a major advertising agency.

The networks represented in the negotiations are the American Broadcasting Co., the Columbia Broadcasting System, the National Broadcasting Co., and the Mutual Broadcasting System. MBS is a radio-only network.

Also sitting in on the AFTRA talks are representatives of the Screen Actors Guild, which has network contracts covering filmed commercials.

Soviet Asserts 'Heavy' Ruble Outweighs $$$

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union declared today that its new heavy ruble will be worth more than the dollar. Western economic experts in Moscow said the chief motive probably was prestige.

Under a decree the official rate of exchange will be changed Jan. 1 from four rubles for $1 to one ruble for $1.11. The Soviet government said the new rate would reflect a fourfold increase of the ruble to be put into effect on that date.

However, the ruble that will be put into circulation at that time is being exchanged for 10 of the present rubles.

The official Soviet news agency Tass said in its announcement of the currency revaluation that the state bank was instructed "to increase the rate of exchange of the ruble with the currency of other capitalist countries in conformity with the higher gold content of the ruble."

That content is going from .22 grams in the old ruble to .38 grams in the new.

Western economists here said prestige was more likely one of the motives for the currency revaluation because of the weakness the dollar has shown recently in foreign markets—a weakness that has led to such things as the pushing up of the price of gold on the London exchange.

They said the actual effect of decreeing that the dollar will be worth only 90 kopecks—there are 100 kopecks in the ruble—instead of four rubles was negligible unless the ruble is made into convertible currency which can be freely changed into other money in international commerce.

At present the ruble has an arbitrary set value which bears little relation to world or domestic prices.

No mention was made in the announcement of the present special tourist rate of 10 rubles to $1.

Because the calm waters are rich in vitamins, a bay on the southwest coast of Puerto Rico contains millions of microorganisms which glow in the dark. The phenomenon, called bioluminescence, occurs there to a degree found in few other places.

Envision 'Sandmen' Living In Universe

By FRANK CAREY Associated Press Science Writer PHILADELPHIA (AP)—There may be true "sandmen" on some yet undiscovered planets, a team of University of Pennsylvania scientists said today.

The sandmen were envisioned as living creatures having silicon—an essential constituent of sand and rocks—as their basic component, instead of carbon. The latter is the key element in the chemistry of all life on earth.

The researchers told about it in a report prepared for the opening of the autumn meeting of the National Academy of Sciences.

The team, headed by researcher M. Abedini, also envisioned that some day vitamins and hormones, for use in medical fields, might be prepared from sandy substances.

The Penn researchers said that for the first time they have prepared new, simple silicon-containing compounds which are closely analogous in both chemical and physical properties to a number of familiar compounds based on carbon.

One of them is a silicon-based "ether" which is the exact counterpart of the widely known pain-killing compound—except that it contains atoms of the element silicon instead of the usual atoms of carbon.

Stieben, whose true name is Walter Francis Howell, said Monday he has led a blameless life for two years in suburban Highgrove.

But sheriff's officers said FBI fingerprint files have identified Howell as a man who fled from a prison camp near Charlotte, N. C., in 1956. He was arrested at his home Sunday night.

Howell said he dropped his keys in a drug store. He added: "I had had a few drinks; but wasn't drunk. However, an officer came along while I was fumbling with my car door. He smelled my breath and booked me as a drunk. So I was fingerprinted."

Howell was sentenced to 30 years for the shooting of a Roanoke Rapids, N. C., policeman in 1946. The shooting took place during an altercation while he was celebrating his brother's release from the Army.

"I've led a sober life and minded my own business," Howell

Many Injured In Virginia Crash

SMITHFIELD, Va. (AP)—"I was surrounded by twisted metal and what had been the driver's seat," a young sailor said after scrambling out of an overturned bus carrying 40 servicemen.

"A loud crashing sound woke me," Seaman Byron C. Crane, 18, said.

The Trailways bus ran off a foggy highway near this eastern Virginia town and overturned in a shallow creek at 4 a.m. Monday. Nearly all of the servicemen were injured.

Most seriously hurt was Robert Sprankie, a 20-year-old seaman from State College, Pa. He suffered head injuries and was still unconscious at last report.

State Trooper B. H. Seymour, who charged driver J. S. Evans of Rocky Mount, N.C., with reckless driving, said the bus was traveling in "very dense fog" at a speed of between 40 and 50 miles per hour. The bus ran onto the right shoulder of the road and the driver lost control, Seymour said. It plunged down an embankment, turned over on its right side and skidded across a shallow creek.

A lone soldier aboard the bus was apparently the only man not injured.

Bidding On Vast Ranch To Begin At $1 Million

SAN DIEGO, Tex. (AP)—A historic South Texas ranch goes up for auction today, and prospective buyers will need a lot more than pocket change.

On sale to satisfy creditors of political boss George Parr—with the advance stipulation that bidding start at $1 million—is the 55,700-acre Doble ranch.

The auction will be held on the steps to the Duval County courthouse, center of a domain once recognized as Parr's personal empire.

Once a showplace where Parr proudly entertained, the property has been empty of cattle and untenanted since he moved out in 1956 except for custodians hired by Duval County.

Terms set by lawyers for the auction provide that 20 per cent of the sale price go to Parr's bankrupt estate. Duval County, from which Parr borrowed $662,000 in 1945-47, will collect the rest as his major creditor.

Headquarters for the ranch—a low and long house of white concrete blocks and red composition roof now in need of repair—are west of San Diego. The nearest city is Corpus Christi, 50 miles east of here.

J. M. Doble, an uncle of Texas author J. Frank Doble established the ranch about the turn of the century. The younger Doble spent much of his youth there and gathered a great amount of material for his writings.

Parr purchased the ranch in 1945 for a reported $422,000. Testimony in bankruptcy proceedings credited him with spending $200,000 for improvements.

Although a 30-acre lake before the ranch house built by Parr is almost empty, recent rains have left the spread a verdant expanse of grass and thorny brush. In the absence of cattle, the place has been taken over by deer, coyotes, javelinas and mountain lions.

There are about a dozen wells producing oil and some believe the ranch offers good prospects for further drilling.

Troubles with political foes got Parr into financial straits. He became the defendant in a rash of court suits and finally pleaded bankruptcy in 1957.

Jack Sees Margin Dwindling Slowly

WASHINGTON (AP)—President-elect John F. Kennedy had a dwindling lead today over Richard M. Nixon in the popular vote. Nixon had narrowed the margin to 257,590.

As officials counted absentee ballots and votes trickled in from unreported precincts, Kennedy's lead was cut 14,227 votes in 24 hours.

With 1,636 precincts out and thousands of absentee ballots uncoun- ted, Kennedy had 33,748,774 votes and Nixon had 33,491,184 votes.

It was still uncertain which candidate had taken California's 32 electoral votes. Officials still had to count 200,000 ballots there, and Kennedy's lead was only 28,916.

Not counting California, Kennedy had 300 votes in the Electoral College, 31 more than needed to win. Not counting Alaska and Hawaii, where his leads were slight, Nixon had 185 electoral votes.

Louis XIV ruled France for 72 years between 1643 and 1715, the longest reign in modern history.

110 Counted Dead In Czech Tragedy

VIENNA, Austria (AP)—At least 110 people were killed and 106 injured in a train crash at the station of Steblova in Czechoslovakia Monday night, radio Prague said today.

The broadcast said the disaster occurred when two local trains crowded with passengers collided on a siding in the railway station. Steblova is a small town in Bohemia, some 75 miles east of Prague.

Testimony Begins In Harnett Trial

LILLINGTON (AP)—Testimony was expected to begin today in the trial of two men charged in connection with the December, 1959, traffic death of a state highway patrolman.

Jury selection began Monday but was not completed when court adjourned for the day.

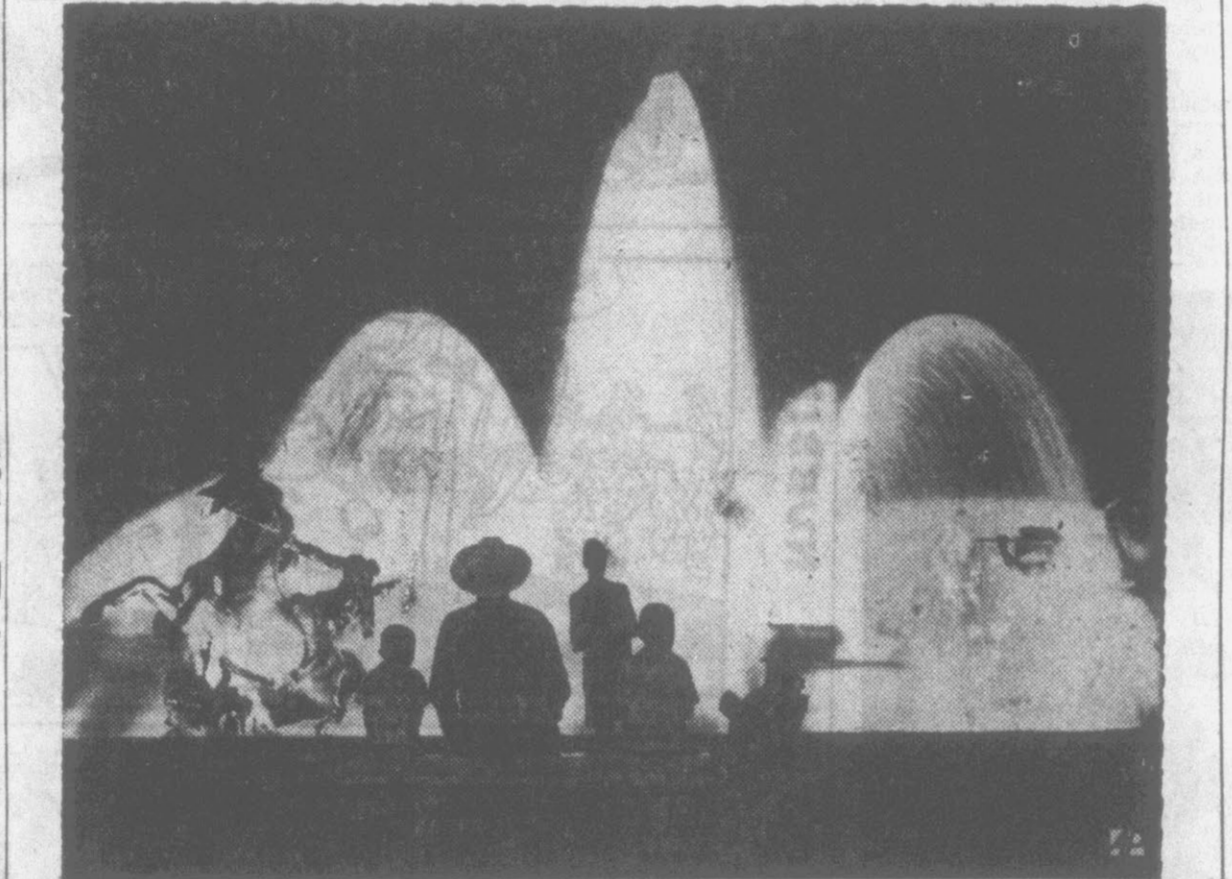

Washington Thornton and Oliver Creech, were charged in the death of Patrolman Harry Long, who was struck by an auto as he stood on U.S. 301 checking another motorist's license.

Thornton was charged with manslaughter and hit and run driving and Creech with being an accessory. The accident occurred Dec 17 between Benson and Dunn.

Walter Catlett Dies At Age 71

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Walter Catlett, 71, veteran of a half century in show business, died Monday in the Motion Picture Country Home at nearby Woodland Hills. Born in San Francisco, Catlett was on the legitimate stage for 30 years before he made his film debut in 1929. Since then he had been characterized as a fidgety, goggle-eyed comic in scores of movie roles. Catlett's widow, Kathlene and a son, Richard, of San Francisco, survive. The actor entered the home's hospital on Oct. 28.

Fabulous Television Salaries Are Exceptions; Not The Rule

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—Television like the movies and radio before it, is fond of big round figures, and its publicists are not reluctant to plump out the figures even more. We see printed reports that Debbie Reynolds received some $200,000 for her recent hour's special, that Perry Como paid Casey Stengel more than $7,000 for one guest appearance on his show, that "Rivak, the Barbarian" cost NBC about a half million dollars all statistics which should be absorbed with several grains of salt. It is true, of course, that many performers and behind-the-camera executives do make a lot of money in television. There are several "spokesmen"—announcers and performers under contract to represent a sponsor or even several non-competitive sponsors—who are making upwards of $75,000 a year selling cigarettes, deodorants, coffee and soap on television. There are performers—such as Perry Como and Dinah Shore—whose annual salaries exceed those of most corporation presidents.

But these are the exceptions. Recently the American Federation of Television and Radio Artists (AFTRA) made a survey of its membership and found that 75 percent of its membership made less than $3,000 a year in television. The minimum rates of pay under AFTRA's code of fair practice for network TV broadcasting—rates which the union is seeking to increase—are not quite as dramatic as those astronomical star salaries. For instance, the minimum fee for a principal performer—one who speaks more than five lines in a 15-minute program is $87 and this includes three hours of rehearsal. That may sound pretty good, but remember it isn't steady work. Performers who speak less than five lines receive $61.50 for a 15-minute program; the minimum for a specialty act with two performers, including six hours of rehearsal, is $371. When the program is un-sponsored, prices are cut by 20 per cent.

Hard luck story of the tv season is Walter Winchell's. He did the premiere broadcast six weeks ago on ABC, promptly came down with an infected tooth and jaw and friends rallied around to substitute for him. Now, with the jaw infection still not responding to treatment, he is giving up his Sunday night spot and the network is returning the time to the local stations.

Robots May Spot Victims

By FRANK CAREY
Associated Press Science Writer
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Robot mathematicians—high speed computing machines, that is—may hold the key to spotting candidates for major disease among the healthy, a University of Texas doctor says. Dr. Roger J. Williams said susceptibility to ailments ranging from cancer and mental illness to arthritis and alcoholism appears strongly to be related to inherited biochemical weaknesses. "The potentiality exists for the complete exploration of the innate susceptibilities to every disease and to identify in advance those individuals who are vulnerable to each. Recognition of vulnerability and the factors which enter into it, should go a long way in the direction of effective control," Dr. Williams said. Dr. Williams told the autumn meeting of the National Academy of Sciences Monday that information of a given individual, if fed into a computing machine, conceivably could strongly indicate whether he was susceptible or resistant to a given malady. Dr. Williams said: "There exists in each individual because of his distinctive anatomical, physiological, neurological, biochemical and psychological inheritance a host of innate, measurable factors... Collectively these items constitute a pattern which is distinctive and different for each individual and which can not be handled by traditional statistical methods."

In other reports:
1. Dr. L. H. Peterson of the University of Pennsylvania described development of tiny electronic instruments, less than a hundredth of an inch in diameter, which can be inserted in blood vessels of man, animals, and possibly those of humans, to measure elasticity and other properties of the vessels. He said experiments indicate that scientists may have to re-examine previous views on the mechanism of such things as high blood pressure.
2. Dr. Irwin I. Oster of Philadelphia's Institute for Cancer Research said experiments with fruit flies indicate that certain chemicals which can cause cancer in man might sometimes produce animals, and possibly those of humans, to measure elasticity and might not produce cancer.

Tommy Forrest of Rt. 1, Ayden, is a member of the junior class in Maudy High School. He was selected winner on the basis of his 4-H accomplishments and leadership as shown by his 4-H record. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy T. Forrest.

TOMMY FORREST
... State Winner

During the past six years, Tommy has fed and cared for 250 animals. He and his father are now producers of registered Durocs.

Some of his honors include: District 4-H Swine project winner, 1959, and 1960; County Livestock Conservation Demonstration winner, 1960; Showmanship Awards in local and district swine shows, and exhibiting junior champion and reserve champion individual and pen of three hogs at the Coastal Plain Livestock Show and Sale, 1958.

While in Chicago, Tommy will represent the entire North Carolina 4-H membership.

Lions Club Gives Funds

Greenville Lions Club presented a check for $100 to Miss Bibian April for the purchase of a truck to be used in blind work.

Miss April, agent for the home industries division of the North Carolina State Commission for the Blind, covers 33 Eastern North Carolina counties.

There are no funds available in the commission's budget for the purchase of a truck, to be used in her work.

Miss Majorie Pierce and Earl Jennings presented a program on the use of visual aids before the Lions club last night. Both do blind rehabilitation work.

Miss Pierce said the main purpose of the rehabilitation work is to gain "maximum utilization of existing vision."

Jennings is a graduate of East Carolina College.

Official Urges Fire Precautions

Firemen were called to 1264 Forbes St. at 11:30 p.m. yesterday when an oil heater flared up.

Responding fire officers said no damage resulted from the hot heater.

Fire Chief George W. Gardner, who said "a good part of the calls" received by the local department during the winter months are due to oil heaters, cautioned homeowners to be careful when operating the heaters.

The chief said all heaters should be cleaned, then checked by a qualified serviceman before they are lighted for the winter.

He also cautioned citizens not to re-light a hot heater, but instead, allow the heater to cool before lighting it. He noted that the gasses in hot heaters may cause an explosion if the heater is re-lighted when hot.

He also pointed out that if a heater becomes too hot, the oil should be cut off and, if in doubt, the fire department should be called. The firemen had rather been called to a small blaze than to one that has gotten out of control, the chief said.

Boy Hurt In Auto Mishap

An eight-year-old Greenville boy received minor injuries yesterday when he was struck by a car on Chestnut St. in front of the West Greenville School.

Investigators said the youth, Clifton Hugh Edwards III, Ayden Highway, was struck by a car being driven by Mrs. Myrtle Joyner Walls, 405 Line Ave. just after he had gotten out of a truck bringing him to school. Police noted that Mrs. Walls, herself, had just stopped to let out a child at the school and was starting off when the accident occurred.

The student was treated at Pitt Memorial Hospital for bruises to his left hand and side and released.

No charges were made, officers said.

In a second mishap yesterday, Kenneth M. Lloyd, 18, of 1009 West Fourth St. was charged with failure to yield the right of way following a collision in the 400 block of Holly St.

Investigators said $30 damage resulted to a car driven by Reid Harris II, 20, of Seaboard, N.C., the second vehicle involved in the collision.

Police, who reported no damage to the Lloyd car, no one was injured in the wreck.

Scout Leader Urges Support

AYDEN — Scoutmaster Hall Miller urged more support of Scout Troops and Explorer posts before the Methodist Men's Club last week.

Miller told the group there are approximately 30 boys in the scout troop and it is impossible for him, as scoutmaster, to counsel them as they should be. He also pointed out that the Explorer unit is inactive now and he has been unable to interest anyone in becoming a scout leader.

The club voted to change its meeting night to the second Tuesday of each month.

Twelve members volunteered to clean the windows and blinds in the Educational Building.

Bob Denton, chairman of the fruit cake sale, urged the captains of the teams to canvass their districts and make deliveries before the holiday season. He asked that all orders be turned in at the earliest possible date so the supply could be replenished if necessary.

Doug Woodworth was elected a

Firm Superintendent Here Dies Suddenly

Mr. Richard Edison Fries, superintendent of the Greenville Branch of the Export Leaf Tobacco Company, died suddenly at his home, 601 East Tenth Street, at 9:45 Monday night following a heart attack suffered a few minutes earlier. Funeral services will be held at the Wilkerson Chapel Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 by his pastor, the Rev. Percy Upchurch. Burial will be in Greenwood Cemetery. The body will remain at the home until the funeral hour. Personnel of Export Leaf Tobacco Company will be honorary pall bearers.

Mr. Fries, son of Mrs. W. A. Fries of Greensboro and the late Mr. Fries, was born and reared in Greensboro and had been employed by the Export Leaf Tobacco Company for the past thirty-eight years. For a number of years he was in China and Java with Export. He moved to Greenville from Winston-Salem in 1937 and was a member of the Memorial Baptist Church.

Surviving are his wife, the former Anne Stinson of Talbotton, Georgia, to whom he was married in 1936; his mother; two sisters, Mrs. Verona Whitley of Greensboro, and Mrs. Marlon Dick of Charlotte Court House, Virginia; and a brother, H. F. Fries of Greensboro.

Syria's Worst Fire Kills 152 Children

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — Syria's worst fire disaster in memory killed 152 school children trapped in a burning theatre at Amude 400 miles northeast of here on the Turkish border.

Only 40 of those attending the special showing of an educational film Sunday night escaped from the frame building, and half of them were injured. Almost every family in town lost at least one child in the roaring blaze.

The victims were given a mass burial Monday.

CLEAN GETAWAY

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — A thief entered a new Tucson subdivision and took a bath—all of it.

Officers said a green bathtub valued at $100 and other bathroom fixtures were stolen from a home under construction on the outskirts of the city.
