

One Of Tiros Cameras Not Performing As Expected

WASHINGTON (AP)—The little camera was outperforming the big camera aboard the orbiting Tiros II weather-eye satellite today. But space scientists were hopeful that the larger camera's pictures would improve.

The satellite itself was launched Wednesday into what scientists said was the most nearly perfect orbit yet achieved. It ranges from 406 to 431 miles above the earth.

National Aeronautics and Space Administration officials still have not decided what's causing the trouble with the pictures from the larger camera. They said the difficulty could be in the equipment or a temporary result of an initial power drain.

If reduced power is to blame, there were hopes that the power supply for transmitting the pictures might build up as the drum-shaped satellite continues orbiting in the sunlight. Its batteries draw power from solar cells.

The large camera takes pictures covering an area about 800 miles square. The little camera snaps a 30-mile one in the center of the area covered by the wider angle.

Photos enlarged from the little camera enable weathermen to identify cloud types. Such pictures are coming through in good form from Tiros II.

But with poor quality wide angle photos from the larger camera, scientists have trouble pinpointing the exact section of the earth photographed by the small camera.

The overall photo gives the scientists the same advantage that the worker of a simple jigsaw puzzle gets at the outset by checking with the picture on the box cover to find where a particular piece belongs.

Tiros II's role is to provide cloud cover pictures which can be used in forecasting large weather systems such as snowstorms. Tiros I, orbited last April, sent back similar cloud pictures. But it was only an experimental satellite and no attempt was made to work out forecasts from its pictures.

There were indications that daily forecasts might have to await more advanced satellites. But major storm weather might be analyzed quickly with Tiros II photos.

If Tiros II proves successful, it could lead within four or five years to an operational network of six or seven polar-orbiting weather satellites. Twenty-one other nations have been invited to take part in the Tiros research

Plane Crash Kills Three N.C. Farm Bureau For Parity Plan

WARRENTON, N. C. (AP) — A day from Spring Valley, N.Y., of here.

The plane clipped several large trees before crashing into the woods but did not burn, Hundley said.

The wreckage was scattered over a wide area. The search party, using flashlights, had to cut through thick underbrush before reaching the wreck scene.

Funeral director Dorman Blalock of Warrenton said the plane was "totally demolished. You couldn't even find the parts to it." He said the bodies were badly mangled.

Crouzet, a native of Paris, France, and a graduate engineer, was married once before. He was with the French auto firm of Renault, Inc., in its New York City office.

Mrs. Crouzet, a graduate of the fashionable Spence School, also attended the University of Pennsylvania. For the past two years she had been secretary to Maynard E. Womer, an executive with Time and Life magazines. She was the daughter of the late Karl Brandt, literary agent.

Mrs. Clark is a divorcee. She resided in New York City with her two children, Billy, 8½, and Lauren, 5½.

Karl Brandt, Mrs. Crouzet's brother, and Mrs. Alloy said the Crouzets were going to stop first Mrs. Clark was to spend the holiday in the Bahamas for the Thanksgiving, and then go on to Nassau in the Bahamas for the Thanksgiving weekend.

Other planks:

1. Asked that tobacco continue to be supported at 90 per cent of parity;
2. Urged that no chemical or insecticide be used on tobacco until approved by the U.S. Agriculture Department's Research Service;
3. Asked that peanuts be supported at 90 per cent of parity when supply is kept in line with demand;
4. Requested a base price support level for cotton in 1961 which will not be less than the cents per pound level in effect this year.

Before adjourning, the group held a long discussion and went on record as opposing the state's compulsory auto insurance law. It suggested as an alternative that an uninsured motorist policy be made available in North Carolina or an optional basis.

The group reelected B. C. Mangum of Raleigh as president and handed him the duties of the department of executive vice president.

A. C. Edwards of Hookerton, who had been executive vice president, tendered a resignation several months ago, effective at this meeting.

RALEIGH (AP) — The North Carolina Farm Bureau Federation has endorsed the parity concept as "the best standard to indicate to farmers their fair share of the nation's economy."

This resolution, adopted Wednesday as the group ended its three-day meeting here, was in opposition to the American Farm Bureau stand, which opposes the parity concept.

The resolution was one of many included in an 83-page volume of policy planks for the coming year.

Congo President Holds Up UN Conciliation Efforts

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — U. N. efforts to bring peace to the Congo ran into another roadblock today after President Joseph Kasavubu persuaded a conciliation group to hold up its trip to the chaotic country.

The 15-nation Asian-African mission, slated to leave today for Leopoldville, suddenly canceled its trip Wednesday night when Kasavubu asked for time to prepare public opinion in the Congo to receive the U. N. delegation.

Delegates here had been apprehensive as to what kind of reception the group would receive from angry Congolese soldiers aroused over the killing of four of their men in a clash with U. N. troops.

The chief aim of the mission was to bring together rival forces backing Kasavubu and Patrice Lumumba, deposed Congo premier who has been supported by the Soviets.

Kasavubu, who opposed the mission for the past two weeks, changed his mind after winning the Congo's empty U. N. seat, and was reported doing what he could try to smooth the way for the group.

His efforts apparently failed. He told Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld's advisory committee Wednesday night that it would not be wise to make the trip at this time.

High officials under Col. Joseph Mobutu, Congo army leader, had served notice earlier they would send out troops to prevent the mission from landing at Leopoldville airport.

Resentment against the United Nations reached a fever pitch this week after Lt. Col. Joseph Kokolo and three Congo soldiers were killed in a clash with U. N. Tunisian forces guarding the residence of a Ghana diplomat declared persona non grata by the Mobutu regime.

Fearing reprisals by aroused Congolese, the U. N. command in Leopoldville has ordered all U. N. employees living in outlying districts to move into the headquarters area in the capital.

Others taking part in the service were Rev. John A. Moore, association missionary, S. Roanoke Baptist Association, who gave the prayer of invocation, and Rev. John W. Drake, pastor of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, who delivered the responsive reading. Rev. Robert B. Crawford, pastor of Greenville Free Will Baptist Church, read the Scripture lesson, taken from Psalm 103.

The Prayer of Thanksgiving was given by Rev. Carlton F. Hirsch, pastor of St. James Methodist Church. Rev. Thomas Money, pastor of Hooker Memorial Christian Church, closed with the benediction.

Rev. H. M. McLamb, pastor of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church, was host pastor.

Union Service Of Thanksgiving Is Held Today

"We don't take time to sense the glories around us," Rev. W. J. Hadden Jr. told those who attended the Union Thanksgiving Service this morning at Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church.

Speaking on "Eyes That See," the Rev. Mr. Hadden said that "The temple of life is expanding all the time." The Rev. Mr. Hadden is pastor of Eighth Street Christian Church here.

In all of our races to achieve, he said, "We don't pause, we don't take the time . . . to duly appreciate this creation."

The service, sponsored by the Greenville Ministerial Association, was well attended.

Kennedy Electoral Votes Hold Firm

WASHINGTON (AP) — President-elect John F. Kennedy's electoral vote count held firm at 300 today as Republicans lost preliminary efforts to overturn state results in Illinois and Texas.

Kennedy's slim popular vote margin also was increased as final returns from Georgia added more than enough to offset slight declines in official tabulations from Illinois, Missouri and Kentucky.

With more than 800 of the nation's 166,064 precincts still to report on Kennedy's race with Vice President Richard M. Nixon, the popular vote stood:

Kennedy—34,019,970

Nixon—33,806,468

Kennedy's margin was 213,502 compared with the 174,627 shown at the same time Wednesday.

Republican challenges in Cook County (Chicago), Ill., and in Texas were beaten back even as a top Republican party official expressed confidence that a recount in the Chicago area could swing Illinois' 27 electoral votes to Nixon. That opinion was expressed by Meade ALCORN, general counsel to the GOP National Committee.

But in Chicago the Board of Election Commissioners acted over protest of its lone Republican member to certify Cook County votes which gave Kennedy more than enough margin to offset Republican strength downstate.

Added to results elsewhere in the state, the Cook County returns gave Kennedy a statewide margin of 3,220 votes out of more than 4 million cast.

In Texas, Dist. Judge J. Harris Gardner ruled there is not enough evidence of criminal fraud in that state's election to justify a full-scale investigation by the state attorney general.

Republicans had alleged violations in throwing out ballots which were improperly marked. GOP State Chairman Thad Hutchison said party leaders would confer on possible further steps. The state's official canvass is set for Friday.

Cutoff Date Set For Dependents

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army, like the Air Force, has set a Jan. 31 cutoff date on sending dependents and children along with soldiers to many overseas posts.

Announcing that Wednesday, the Army rejected any idea that it has been dragging its feet in carrying out orders from President Eisenhower.

"The Department of the Army has avoided precipitous action in order that any instructions issued would be firm and valid," it said in a statement.

With details of the program still to be worked out, it said, "it will refrain from making premature statements which might later have to be retracted," with resulting confusion to those affected.

Eisenhower ordered a sharp reduction in the number of civilian dependents of servicemen overseas, as one of a number of means of cutting down a drain on U. S. gold supplies.

Army plans reportedly call for cutting back its 248,788 overseas dependents at the rate of 7,700 a month. It hopes to make the reduction largely through barring further shipment of dependents overseas rather than returning those already there.

Regulatory Law Rapped By Court

RALEIGH (AP) — The State Supreme Court has described as "an unwarranted delegation of legislative power" a law empowering the State Board of Education to regulate out-of-state correspondence schools.

The court ruled Wednesday the law was unconstitutional, and reversed the conviction of Louise B. Williams, who was charged with soliciting students for a Danville, Va., correspondence school without a license.

Overthrown by the court's action was a section of the law which places regulation of business, trade and correspondence schools under the Board of Education.

Associate Justice Clifton Moore, author of the opinion, hinted that any future attempts by the General Assembly to attempt to regulate out-of-state school solicitors might be futile.

In the court's opinion, he said, it appears that the statutes similar to the one overruled "burden interstate commerce and are unconstitutional" as they attempt to regulate solicitors for nonresident schools.

The court said the state has a limited right to regulate private schools and their agents and solicitors under these conditions:

- "1. There is a manifest present need which affects the health, morals or safety of the public generally.
- "2. The regulations are not arbitrary, discriminatory, oppressive or otherwise unreasonable, and
- "3. Adequate legislative standards are established."

Louise Williams was fined $100 and costs after her conviction in Craven County Superior Court. She represented the Citizens Training Service, Inc., of Danville, which conducts courses preparing students for civil service careers.

Three Killed On Mercy Mission

SILER CITY, N.C. (AP) — A pastor's wife and two women companions, making the rounds on a Thanksgiving Eve mercy mission, were killed Wednesday in a car-truck collision at an intersection near here.

The three victims were delivering Thanksgiving food parcels to rural Chatham County shut-ins.

They were up in a muddy ditch alongside State Highway 902 when they were thrown from the car after it smashed into a bulk feed truck.

Highway Patrolman J. B. Raynor said the car, driven by Mrs. Beulah Hedgepeth Dickens, 32, apparently failed to heed a stop sign as it entered the state highway from a rural road.

The victims were Mrs. Dickens, wife of the Rev. Grady Dickens, pastor of the Bonlee Baptist Church; Mrs. Goldie Beal Hammer, about 43; and Mrs. Jessie Fairbow Phillips, about 63. All were from Bonlee.

Mrs. Hammer's husband is a prominent Chatham County sawmill owner and Mrs. Phillips' husband is a bookkeeper and a Chatham County commissioner.

The Rev. Mr. Dickens' church sponsored the good will food distribution mission.

The truck driver, Jerry Wayne Campbell of Bear Creek, suffered a blow on the head. He was hospitalized and was unable to remember what happened.

The left front wheel was torn from the truck in the impact and the body was knocked off its chassis. Feed was sprayed all over the highway.

The crash occurred about 4 p.m. under skies darkened by an all-day overcast which produced intermittent drizzle.

The three women were the only occupants of the auto.

ALL IN CAPITAL

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower, Vice President Richard M. Nixon and President-elect John F. Kennedy all returned to the capital within a period of a few hours to spend Thanksgiving with their families.

Woman Beaten, Hit With Axe

A 25-year-old Negro woman was admitted to Pitt Memorial Hospital in serious condition last night after being beaten and hit on the head with an axe on the Major Smith farm about eight miles east of Greenville just off N. C. 43.

Sheriff Ruel W. Tyson identified the woman as Wesley Rosa Hooker.

Sheriff Tyson said Willie Gray Parker, 28-year-old Negro of Route 2, Greenville, is being held in the Pitt County Jail, without privilege of bond, on assault charges, pending the outcome of the Hooker woman's condition.

Investigators said Parker told them that the Hooker woman was his girl friend but they had had some trouble and she had run him out of the house.

They noted that the assault occurred about 7 p.m. and Parker was arrested about 12 midnight near Bell Arthur, after officers had searched for the man for several hours.

The Greenville Rescue Squad was called to the scene of the beating and carried the woman to the hospital.

New Jetliner To Cut Flight Time

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—Convair Division of General Dynamics Corp. Wednesday announced completion of a new jet airliner designed to cut 45 minutes from transcontinental flight time.

The company said the 139-foot-long Convair 990 will cruise at 640 miles per hour, 25 m.p.h. faster than the smaller Convair 440, which the firm calls the fastest jet on commercial routes.

The speed thus would be just below that of sound—660 m.p.h. at high altitudes.

Convair said American Airlines has ordered 25 of the new jets. They will carry from 96 to 121 passengers.

Montgomery Fearing Racial Violence At Grid Game Today

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—State, county and city officers stood by under emergency orders today to combat threatened racial violence at a Negro college Thanksgiving Day football game.

Montgomery Police Commissioner L. B. Sullivan instructed his men to arrest any troublemaker, white or Negro, at the Tuskegee Institute-Alabama State game.

State Highway Patrolmen and sheriff's deputies, including a horseback patrol, were ready to reinforce the city officers if needed.

Sullivan, who said he was "deeply concerned" by a series of incidents pointing to a possible racial outbreak, urged white and Negro residents to observe Thanksgiving peacefully.

But he had every available officer on duty to "cope with any emergency that might arise."

Recent Ku Klux Klan activity and an appeal to white people "who care for your children and their future" to turn out in mass numbers for the football game prompted the precautionary measures.

A dummy bomb—eight wooden sticks wrapped in brown paper to resemble a real explosive—carried a grim warning of possible trouble.

The "make-believe bomb" found hanging with a Klan banner on a gate at Cramton Bowl where the game is to be played, had this ugly threat: "This could be real Thanksgiving day at Cramton Bowl."

Cross burnings — 11 of them — last Friday night also had an ominous note. Beneath the crosses were the words, "Nov. 24"—the date of the Thanksgiving Day game.

Then on Saturday night, robbed and hooded klansmen—some of them masked—gathered at an abandoned nightclub on the outskirts of the city after driving through town in a 68-car motorcade.

Their self-styled grand wizard, Robert M. Shelton of Tuscaloosa, said that meeting was concerned primarily with school integration threats, but he added that his KKK group probably burned the cross the night before.

Tuskegee Institute and Alabama State have played in Cramton Bowl annually for more than 35 years, but the police commissioner tried unsuccessfully to get the public-owned stadium closed to the two schools this year.

Sullivan said he was fearful of violence because of tensions which he said still exist as a result of Negro student anti segregation demonstrations last February and March.

Experts Predict No Easing Of Communist Rift

By SPENCER DAVIS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Top American experts predicted today the Communist summit meeting in Moscow will bring no basic solution to the deep rift between Communist China and the Soviet Union.

Some sort of declaration probably will be issued in Moscow within the next few days which may gloss over the differences within the Communist world on coexistence with the West, it is believed here.

But such a declaration is not expected to settle the fundamental struggle between Soviet Premier Khrushchev and the Chinese Communist party chairman, Mao Tse-tung.

The meeting of Communist leaders in Moscow started Nov. 9. Strong signs that the differences are basic and continuing appeared this week as first China, in its people's Daily, and then the Soviet Union, in Pravda, published sharply conflicting views of what lies ahead.

American sources consider the length of the continuing Moscow conference as a sign that the Soviet Union and Communist China cannot agree because their state interests are not identical. Which set of interests will dominate in the long run cannot be predicted at the present time.

According to this line of thinking the Soviet Union, armed with powerful nuclear weapons takes a different view toward disarmament than the Chinese Communists who may be "here to five years, away from possession of such arms."

Another difference is that Moscow has no unsatisfied territorial claims while Peiping wants the Nationalist Chinese stronghold of Formosa and would like more positive Soviet assistance in gaining it. Some sources here believe Moscow has deliberately restrained Chinese militarists from an attack on Formosa.

Third difference is in Communist China's desire to achieve rapid economic development for itself. Moscow has provided substantial assistance to neutralist nations such as India and Afghanistan and has complained that Communist China has wasted some of the development funds it has received from Moscow.

There are also reports in diplomatic circles here that a power struggle is under way between Peiping and Moscow over which shall have the dominant voice in cuter Mongolia.

Chinese Communists have been attacking Communist Yugoslavia for what is called revisionism of the Communist doctrine. The Yugoslavs have criticized Communist China for preaching that a third world war would mean the end to all wars and would result in a Communist world.

The Yugoslavs contend that such a war would mean mass annihilation and would only delay the development of Communist countries. The Soviet Union has taken a similar line in insisting that peaceful coexistence with the West is the only solution.

U. S. authorities say that when Communist China lashes out at the Yugoslavs, they often are attacking their barbs at Khrushchev as well.

Finnish Dresses To Be Worn By Mrs. Kennedy

AP Newsfeatures

When the next First Lady moves into the White House in January, likely as not she'll take along some Finnish dresses and primitive lines and thundering color.

Mrs. John Kennedy bought nine no long ago in a small Finnish specialty shop in Cambridge, Mass., (Design Research, Inc.), the only place in the country handling Marimekko fashions.

By the time she's comfortably settled in her new Pennsylvania Avenue residence, the dresses should be available in New York shops.

They'll probably never replace her high fashion clothes for public appearances and entertaining. But for relaxing about the presidential mansion, the simple, uncluttered — sometimes tentlike — dresses can't be beat.

Up until now, Finland has been chiefly known to Americans for paying its World War I debt (600 million dollars) and for driving back the Russians (in 1918, 1939, 1943). But its fashion may become something to reckon with. Marimekko clothes are the inspiration of Armi and Viljo Ratia, a husband-and-wife whose 10-year-old firm in Helsinki, Marimekko Oy, makes textiles as well as clothes.

Finnish fashions differ from U. S. styles on two counts: COLOR — They're brilliantly bold, in combinations seldom seen here: red, pink and orange; blue, purple and orange; brown, purple and blue.

SILHOUETTE — They're pared down to the simplest form, completely unadorned, so that the amazing colors come through. Primitive, honest, pure and gutsy are words most often used in description.

Some of the dresses are free-form and straight-line. Others flare a little, looking like paper doll dresses. There are also housecoats, beachwear, children's dresses with matching bloomers. Many dresses have their own high-crowned hats and tote bags.

Fabric is mostly heavy canvas-like cotton in silk-screened patterns of irregular dots, stripes, checkerboards, Mondrian-like designs.

The original Marimekko dress (mekko is the Finnish word for girl's dress) was a loose fitting coat, meant for women to wear while caring for children, doing housework or working in the garden.

Chief designer is Vuokko Esko-Nurmesniemi, who also is an international prize-winning designer in glasswork and silver.

Mrs. Ratia, a woman of charm and forceful expression, visited New York the other day and her views of women and fashion are not to be passed over lightly.

WOMAN: " . . . the same with the rocks—stern, dreaming, harsh maybe, but often greatly individual and capable of winning. . . . Ageless, proud, free, — modern woman at her best."

HER FASIONS: "Everyday dresses which look nothing and can be made very own-looking according to the bearer's individualism." Versatile Mrs. Ratia, who says she has "other products than ready-to-wear always dropping from my head," admits she doesn't really like fashion. And that's the point of her dresses: "Marimekko fashions have something to give the modern, independent, intellectual woman — an unpretentious way of dressing to forget dresses, because she has other interests of children, home, books, music, career. Yet the colors thunder out of inspired pots and jars to give modern woman a new personality too."

This perhaps explains their attraction for Mrs. Kennedy, with her many cultural interests and her love for bright color and simple line in clothes.

Cleanliness Advice For The Kids

Be sure your hands are freshly washed before handling a baby! That's wise advice from Dr. Angelo Patri, a great authority on education, who also urges mothers to keep children's toys clean. "I cannot vote for woolly toys for little ones unless they are washable," he says. "These toys are not costly, so you can buy two at a time, wash one and while it is drying, give him the other." There is a direct relations between child health and these rules of hygiene.

Dr. Patri points out that practical mothers will follow these rules — what's more, they will also impress these rules on young baby sitters.

On This Great Day Of Thanksgiving

O God, make us thankful for the blessings of life.

We take so much for granted as we rush from one day to the next tending our own affairs that often we forget even the most fundamental of our blessings, life itself, is a gift from Thee.

If we pause at this Thanksgiving season to enumerate the blessings of the year, it becomes a job of massive proportions, for every thought, every scene the eye beholds, witnesses Thy presence, Thy goodness, Thy tenderness in dealing with us.

There have been hardships, trials and tribulations, but with each has come the comfort, the strength that stems only from Thy love for us, and through each hardship this has sustained us.

Who among us can count his blessings

Personal Cause To Be Thankful

By LYNN NISBET

THANKSGIVING — The proclamations issued by President Eisenhower and Governor Hodges calling upon the people to observe Thursday, November 24, as a time for special thanksgiving recounted many of the blessings for which the nation and the state should be corporately thankful. In addition to these general causes for gratitude, most of us have peculiar personal reasons to be thankful.

For expressing general thanks no words can be better than those found in the Book of Common Prayer used in the ritual of the Episcopal Church. Here are some:—

"Almighty God, Father of all mercies, we, thine unworthy servants do give thee most humble and hearty thanks for all thy goodness and loving-kindness to us, and to all men; We bless thee for the means of grace, and for the hope of glory. And we beseech thee, give us that due sense of all thy mercies, that our hearts may be unfeignedly thankful; and that we show forth thy praise, not only with our lips, but in our lives, by giving up ourselves to thy service, and by walking before thee in holiness and righteousness all our days."

"Most gracious God, by whose knowledge the depths are broken up, and the clouds drop down the dew: We yield thee unfeigned thanks and praise for the return of seed-time and harvest, for the increase of the ground and the gathering in of the fruits thereof; and for all the blessings of thy merciful providence bestowed upon this nation and people."

"Almighty God, who hast given us this good land for our heritage; We humbly beseech thee that we may always prove ourselves a people mindful of thy favour and glad to do thy will. Bless our land with honorable industry, sound learning and good manners. Save us from violence, discord and confusion; from pride and arrogancy, and from every evil way. And by the power of thy blood, preserve us, O Lord, from all unclean thoughts, from all evil desires, from all temptations of the devil, from all persecutions of men, from all sickness, from all sorrow, from all temptation, and from all sin, until we come to thy heavenly kingdom. Amen."

without omitting more than he accounts for?

Who among us has not been blessed far more than he realizes as he runs the course of life with ever increasing momentum?

In this Thanksgiving season throughout the length and breadth of our land people will pause to give thanks for the multitude blessings of life. For freedom, for liberty, for families, for food, for health, for peace of mind, for strength to endure trials, for beauty of nature, for love of friends, for opportunities of service. For life itself and all those things of the past which memory can recall and those things of the future which can be seen in the mind's eye.

And by no means least of all, for another Thanksgiving season which prompts us to pause and express gratitude.

Views Of Farm Bureau Head Are 'Different'

Obviously the president of the National Farm Bureau Federation who addressed the Tar Heel Farm Bureau this week indicated again that viewpoints of the national organization differ sharply with those broadly held by farmers of this state.

National President Charles B. Shuman called for removal of controls and restrictions on agricultural crops in order to allow commodities to find their own price levels. He declared the new administration should turn from the policies of controls and what he termed "price fixing" of farm commodities.

Although the National Farm Bureau Federation has taken this position over a period of years, most farmers of North Carolina—particularly those of the Eastern section of the state—recognize the wisdom and soundness of the tobacco program which utilizes realistic controls along with fixed price supports for the farmer in return for his compliance with the production controls.

If assertions made during the recent political campaign still mean anything, it appears the farm policy of more strict controls and realistic price supports favored by Tar Heel likewise impress President-elect Kennedy. Otherwise he would not have singled out the tobacco program as a model upon which to base an overall agricultural program.

The national organization clearly has a viewpoint toward agriculture that is different from that held by most North Carolina farmers.

A 'Happy' Trend For Communists

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

Associated Press News Analyst

U.S. troubles with the drain on its gold and dollar resources could create an atmosphere of apprehension among America's friends—and satisfaction for the Communists.

Unless the United States finds means of correcting the situation, the squeeze in which it finds itself conceivably could accomplish for the Communists some of the things they have been unable to do themselves.

The situation could create embarrassment for America's friends. It could raise worry about the health of the North Atlantic Alliance. It could arouse uneasiness about the future of U. S. aid programs for underdeveloped countries.

We are spending, investing or giving away abroad more than we take in from foreign spending and investments. This is called an "unfavorable balance of international payments." The nagging question arises: How long can U.S. economic strength withstand the strain of vast investment in a global cold war contest?

European business circles seem confident of the soundness of the U.S. economy. Actually, U.S. exports in the fiscal year ended this summer exceeded imports by a robust margin.

But the deficit comes from spending for military, economic and technical aid, maintenance of troops and bases, U.S. travelers' expenditures, short-term investments in things like the West European construction boom and other U.S. private capital investment. Since 1959, the over-all deficit has been in excess of $3 billion annually.

To stem some of the dollar outflow, President Eisenhower ordered a reduction in the number of families of U. S. service-men overseas. Already this has brought guarded European speculation about future unity of the Atlantic Alliance. How long, some Europeans ask, will the next U. S. administration be able to

Leave One Small Luxury

By ALVIN TAYLOR

This columnist doesn't get on a Woodman. Save That Tree kick very often.

I don't care if they move the front of the Capitol out a mile. It doesn't bother me. Mr. Kennedy can build a balcony on the front porch of the White House to match Truman's back porch balcony. I won't holler.

And in Greenville, officials can remove trees all over town and I won't be offended.

By now most readers must have the idea that I don't have much of an aesthetic sense, and you're right.

But occasionally a proposal comes along for changing something or other, which makes even calous me shudder. It has. I'm thinking of an item I saw the other day in the capital improvements budget for East Carolina College.

There were plans for splitting the reference room in the East Carolina College library in order to make two floors out of it. Somehow this bothers me. This new library building is the most beautiful structure on the campus to my unpracticed eye. It's one building in which students, officials and friends of the college can take real pride.

And, unlike some buildings which are impressive on the outside, its splendor carries to the interior. The lobby fairly gleams and the glass partitions on each side add to the luster.

But it is on entering the reading room at the west end that the visitor is really stunned. For upon passing through the glass doors in the big glass partition, he finds the spacious reading room extending nearly half the length of the building. This itself would not be enough to create the massive effect, but the walls extend up the full height of the building which is two-story in its other wing of the same height.

College officials say the room was built with the idea of eventually installing a ceiling and making a second floor in that wing.

Somehow I hate to see it done. It just won't be the same to my way of thinking. I know the space is needed. I'm not normally in favor of spending state money for unusually fancy buildings, particularly when additional building space is so badly needed.

But let's afford East Carolina College one little luxury. Maybe a high ceiling reading room is too much to ask, but to me it does look nice.

Opinions In Brief

"Government surveys indicate that less than 1% of the nation's school districts have used up their own local financial resources, or reached their legal borrowing limits. Whereas, from 1950 to 1959 pupil enrollments increased by 10.2 million, enough school rooms were built to take care of 16.8 million." — Winneemucca (Nev.) Star.

"We believe the time has come when the Department of Labor should devote itself to a study of the child labor laws and recommend the repeal or modification of many of them. In fact, recent studies of juvenile delinquency indicate that these laws may be a contributing factor to youthful wrongdoing." — Asbury Park (New Jersey) Evening Paper.

"At a time of wide general prosperity it is significant that the public relief load continues to increase." — Roanoke (Va.) Times.

"Describing her ride in a friend's private plane, the gal said, 'As we went into a sudden dive, all my past sins flashed before me. It was so interesting I made the pilot dive eight more times.'" — Cumberland (Wis.) Advocate.

"The excise tax on mink coats—and also on other outright luxuries, including diamonds—is 10 per cent. The average excise tax on gasoline, federal and state combined, is almost 50 per cent of its retail price at the service station, and 85 per cent of its wholesale price at the refinery gate." — Industrial News Review.

An Early Preview Of Next Year

By ELMER ROESSNER

Here's a preview of 1961: Unemployment will persist, probably worsening in the early months and improving later in the year.

Despite unemployment, unions will press for higher wages but the increases will be moderate. "Moonlighting," holding second jobs, will increase and become a grave problem for both unions and employers.

Here are the reasons behind those expectations:

Unemployment will rise chiefly because of the great increase of men and women on the labor market. The rise of the population in the working ages will be considerable and even if business rises moderately, the increase in job applicants will be greater.

The employment situation, now improving as Christmas and other seasonal jobs increase, will turn down in January as these jobs end and the weather closes down considerable highway, building and other construction and outdoor jobs.

PICK-UP LATER

However, as the new Administration steps up defense spending and fulfills some if not all of its promises, there should be a spurt in employment. Unemployment will nevertheless be far from cured.

This situation will not keep unions from pressing for higher wages. In fact, few situations do.

A survey by the Bureau of National Affairs shows that wage increases becoming effective in 1961 under existing contracts will average just above 8 cents an hour. The Bureau analyzed 1,900

Writer In Fear Of U.S.

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Copyright, 1960, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Many nationalistic Canadians suffer from an inferiority complex which causes them to say and do unrealistic things. For instance, should war occur again, it will be necessary for the United States to defend Canada from conquest. A nation with a total population no greater than that of New York State and with an industrial establishment no greater than that of Czechoslovakia cannot hope to defend itself in a modern war. Nor can it remain neutral because it is the easiest access to the United States and therefore an enemy of the United States would wisely seek to knock out Canada first. The first battles in an attack upon the United States by Soviet Russia or Red China or both are likely to be over Canada. The logistics of war require that both countries act as one and geography has so made it that Canada has no alternative.

Some jittery Canadians, recognizing the peril of such a situation, believe that they can solve this problem by becoming either neutral or anti-American. Were Americans to withdraw their investments from Canada, because of Canadian opposition to the United States, it could be a sorry day for both countries. What elicits these remarks is an article by Hugh MacLennan in the Toronto "Star Weekly," which I should say, is as unfriendly an utterance against this country as I have yet seen anywhere. Addressing the President of the United States, MacLennan says:

"It may not surprise you, Mr. President, but it will certainly surprise most of your countrymen, to be told that at the moment the United States is considered a greater threat to world peace than Russia. Such a statement, I suppose, would make me suspected of communism in many quarters. Yet it is a plain fact. Ask almost any foreigner."

This is not taken out of context. It is a bold statement, literally untrue but believed apparently by its author, who says further:

"It is impossible for the rest of mankind to accept a policy which says, in effect, that the whole human past and future must perish merely because two giant countries with big bombs refused to speak to each other in terms of violent abuse. When the giant who is our friend (we admit he has been sorely provoked) says in effect: 'We will blow up ourselves and everyone near us rather than permit Russia to become the most powerful nation in the world,' we weak outsiders tremble."

Does MacLennan prefer that we say that as an extension of the Marxist-Leninist theory of world conquest, the United States capitulate to Soviet Russia and become a satellite like Poland or East Germany? For that clearly is what every ruler of Communist Russia, Lenin, Stalin and Khrushchev, has held to be necessary. I think that MacLennan means that because he believes that the next war, all would be wiped out. He holds that he, quoting Lester Pearson, would "choose to live under Russia and then try to work to improve the situation."

This is precisely where we must differ. From the general character of MacLennan's article, it is possible to recognize that he is not familiar with the Marxist-Leninist mission of world conquest. The literature on the subject is voluminous and one needs only to study the subject. But the Canadian assumes that during the past 10 years, the Russian purpose has been modified, all evidence to the contrary notwithstanding. He says:

"...the Moscow conspiracy is already beginning to founder on the familiar rocks of nationalism. Tito broke with Moscow years ago. China, which many Americans seem to regard as a mere extension of Soviet power, is already beginning to snarl at Russia."

Unfortunately the record shows that Yugoslavia votes regularly with Soviet Russia in the United Nations. From this practical manifestation of Marxist unity, it is obvious that whereas there are differences between Khrushchev and Tito, Marxist unity is not diluted. As for the ideological quarrel between Khrushchev and Mao Tse-tung over the question as to whether war is essential to the universal success of Marxism, (Continued on Page 6)

Students Attending Annual Retreat

ATTENDING INTERNATIONAL STUDENT RETREAT . . . at Williamsburg, Virginia from East Carolina College are Julia Escalona, Catherine LaBaume, Dorothy Hayes and Hugh Motlagh.

Four East Carolina students are attending the fourth annual International Student Retreat being held at Williamsburg, Virginia today, tomorrow and Saturday.

The retreat is sponsored jointly by the Student Department of the Southern Baptist Convention and the Student Departments of the North Carolina and Virginia Baptist Conventions.

The four students include three foreign students: Julia Escalona of Santiago, Chile; Catherine LaBaume of Paris, France; and Hugh Motlagh of Tehran, Iran and Dorothy Hayes of Durham.

Approximately 150 international students enrolled in colleges and universities in the two states will be brought together for the three day event.

Miss Escalona came to ECC as an exchange student. At home she taught English for two years in elementary school, even though she had prepared for high school teaching. She is a graduate student majoring in Secondary Education, and is assisting in the Foreign Language department.

Miss LaBaume, also an exchange student, is a graduate from a 3 year business school in France. She is working in the Foreign Language department, and will have, next quarter, a language class at a local elementary school. Her hope is to be employed by a branch of some American business firm in France.

Motlagh came to the United States almost four years ago, and is attending ECC on his own. He is a graduate student studying Psychology, and after gaining some experience in this country, hopes to teach in his home country. He has assisted in the teaching of a course in Psychology at Kingston, one of the points for the extension courses offered by the college.

Miss Hayes is a graduate student majoring in Elementary Education; she is the only American student chosen from East Carolina to attend. Those American students chosen are selected on the basis of maturity, both emotional and spiritual, and on the basis of their ease of meeting and talking to people and discussing the Christian faith as well as current affairs. She will be among 10 American students from North Carolina campuses.

The program of the retreat is

Recognition Day Program Staged

POWELLVILLE — The North-eastern District 4-H Recognition Day Program was held Saturday in the C.G. White High School Auditorium here. District winners included some 4-H Club members from Pitt County.

More than 35 4-H members were recognized as district winners. Those from Pitt County include: Achievement, Tyrone Hopkins; Leadership, Charles Becton; Electric, Marvin Carmon.

District and state winners included the following: Clothing, Bernice Boyd; Boys Agriculture, William Council; Swine, Miles Wilson; Team Demonstration on tobacco, Charles Becton and Robert Brown.

Mrs. F.W. Corbett, district home economics agent, recognized the district winners for 1961. Miss Gladys Ruffin, home economics agent of Bertie County, gave the purpose of the program. Welcome remarks were made by T.M. Gar-riss, principal of C. G. White High School. Remarks on leadership were heard from W. C. Cooper, district 4-H Club agent.

Dinner was served during the program.

Three Attending Geography Meet At Cincinnati

Three members of the East Carolina College Geography Department staff will attend the annual meeting of the National Council for Geographic Education in Cincinnati, Ohio, November 25-26. They are Dr. R.E. Cramer, Dr. Woodford Garrigus, and Professor Charles Gritzer.

The State of North Carolina will be represented by Dr. Cramer, who is the official state representative and coordinator for the Council. While attending the meeting, Dr. Cramer will participate in two programs.

At the African meeting on Friday morning, he will preside while three authorities on African geography read papers on population explosions, resources, and West Africa. One of the speakers is Dr. Ernest Boateng, visiting geographer at the University of Pittsburgh from the University College in Ghana.

Later in the afternoon Dr. Cramer will address the meeting on "Content Problems of Introductory Geography Courses."

USS North Carolina Might Come Home

By LYNN NISBET
RALEIGH — It is reasonably certain that the battleship "North Carolina", now in mothballs at Bayonne, N. J. will be brought back to North Carolina for permanent exhibition, rather than consigned to the junk pile or the bottom of the ocean.

The committee named by Governor Hodges to consider ways and means of acquiring, moving, establishing and operating the vessel met Monday and asked the Governor to request the Navy Department to hold up on dismantling the ship until further study can be made. Disturbing reports had been received about such historic items as the ship's bell and wheel being taken off.

The battleship is slated for demolition early in January unless the State of North Carolina acquires it for a permanent exhibition. The overall committee was divided into four groups with specific duties—acquisition, location of site, financing removal and establishment, and operation on permanent basis.

It is anticipated that members of the committee will visit Bayonne and inspect the ship to determine whether or not it is worth the $100,000 to $250,000 necessary to get it located in North Carolina. Next step will be for committee members to go to Houston and see how the battleship "Texas" is being operated as a historic museum piece.

The immediate big problems are financing and location. The vessel is 725 feet long, 158 feet wide, and must have from 28 to 35 feet water depth. That limits sites to the Beaufort-Morehead City and Southport - Wilmington area. Money is the chief concern. Decision must be reached before the General Assembly convenes to make an appropriation.

Consensus of the committee was that perhaps the Governor and Council of State should tentatively guarantee sufficient funds to move the ship, with probable private contribution matching before the final allocation is made; that the local community should provide the site, and that operation of the vessel as a museum should be by a quasi-public corporation (patterned after the Tryon Palace set up).

Before the problems of operation must be faced the ship must have been brought to North Carolina. That calls for decision as to its value and the finding of money to get it here.

BRIDGE WALKER IS JUST SLEEPY—Two-year-old Chris Evans, his toy rifle across his lap, was too sleepy to be concerned that he might have fallen into the Ohio River. Chris was spotted on a railing of the Central bridge between Cincinnati and Newport, Ky. and snatched to safety. Chris, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Evans of Highland Heights, had wandered away from a baby sitter. He is shown in custody of the Newport police after his rescue. (AP Wirephoto)

Ruritans Have Ladies' Night

ROBERSONVILLE—The Robersonville Ruritan Club observed its annual Ladies' Night recently with a turkey dinner at the Fellowship Hall of the First Christian Church.

Guest speaker for the event was Ed Blair of Vanceboro. He was presented by Sherwood Roberson.

Guests were greeted at the door by Mrs. Eugene Roberson and Mrs. Tommy Taylor. Later Mrs. Wallace Roberson and Mrs. Kenneth Roberson presented chrysanthemum corsages.

The meeting opened with a short talk by Walter Everett, Rev. Austin Anderson gave the invocation, which was followed by an address of welcome by Gordon Roberson. Mrs. Wilson Wynne gave the response on behalf of the wives. Vincent J. Columbo responded for the teachers.

Circle No. two of the Christian Women's Fellowship served a turkey dinner to the 90 members and guests. Marvin M. Everett Sr. introduced guests prior to the singing of "Smiles." The singing of "America" was directed earlier in the evening by Mrs. Austin Anderson.

Miss Gail Bullock entertained the group with piano selections. The United States administers 8,475 square miles of Pacific Islands under trusteeship granted by the United Nations.

Dr. Best Featured Speaker For 4-H Achievement Day

WINTERVILLE — Dr. A. A. Best, Greenville physician, was principal speaker at the Annual 4-H Achievement Day program for Pitt County Negro 4-H Club members, held last week at Robinson Union High School here.

Englishmen Get Less For Money

LONDON (AP)—Noble peers in the House of Lords complained bitterly that racial distinction is robbing Englishmen of their fair share of Scotch whisky.

They said a new weights and measures bill now before Parliament does little to correct the injustice under which an Englishman in London gets less Scotch for his money than a Scotsman in Scotland.

"A single Scotch is nothing more than a dirty glass," declared Lord Dundee, a Scot in debate Tuesday. "Anyone who, after this bill takes effect, goes to a London restaurant and orders a double Scotch will know he is entitled to one-third of a gall, which is only two-thirds of what he will get in Scotland."

A gall is a quaint old English equivalent for 1-1/2 of a pint. For that much of the fine old mellow the Londoner has to pay 4 shillings 6 pence—63 cents.

Dundee orated: "The depreciation of the lira by the Italians and the livre (franc) by the French is nothing compared with the depreciation of the measure of Scotch whisky by the English."

But at least, said Dundee, the new law on what made up a measure of Scotch meant the hard-done Englishman would get more in the future than he is getting now.

From Lord Morrison of Lambeth—born and bred cockney—came this plaintive cry: "Why is it that London always gets the worst of things, whether it is the price of coal or whisky?"

Approximately 600 4-Hers and leaders attended the program. Charles Becton, senior 4-H'er of Ayden, introduced Dr. Best, who spoke about achievement.

Explaining what it means to achieve something, Dr. Best used the following descriptive terms: action, charity, heritage, ignorance, environment, versatility, energy, mental stability, emotional stability, negligence and time, all which spell the word "Achievement."

Welcome remarks were given by J.W. Maye, principal of Robinson Union High School. Miss Lillie Robbins, County Council president, presided at the meeting. Others participating in the program included Miles Wilson, of Grimesland 4-H Club, who read the Scripture; Annie Hall, of Bethel 4-H Club, who gave the prayer; Myrtle Darden, of Ayden Senior 4-H Club, who gave a summary of 4-H achievements for 1960; Talent numbers were given by members of Winterville Senior 4-H Club.

J.M. Goode, county agricultural agent, presented awards and certificates. County winners in leadership and project work were awarded gold pins and certificates.

The most outstanding senior and junior 4-H club members for 1960 were Peggy Perkins and William Council, Gloria Buck and Miles Wilson.

Health awards went to Peggy Perkins and William Council of Bethel Senior 4-H Club.

Other awards went to the following:

Season Prospects Are Good

North Carolina's fifty-day duck season opened Saturday and prospects are bright for one of the best harvests in several years.

Some of the state's best duck areas—the northeast section encompassing Lake Mattamuskeet, Currituck, Pamlico Sound and Bodie Island—recently reported duck populations from good to excellent.

North Carolina, given its choice of 50 days and a three-duck bag limit or forty hunting days and four ducks daily, chose the longer season, lower bag.

The extreme shortage of canvasbacks and red-heads has caused a complete ban on the shooting of these species this season. Hunters must be able to identify the drakes and hens of both species in order to comply with the rules.

To many hunters, a duck is a duck—be it mud-hen or water turkey—so down it comes. Last year you could have one of each, but this year one will cost you something like $27.50—maybe more, depending on the justice of peace who hears your explanation.

Just a reminder for the duck hunters. Everyone must have a duck stamp unless under 16. The stamp will not be valid unless your name is written across it.

Proper License Should Be Obtained

Quail season opened this morning and will last through February 5, 1961. Bag limit will be eight birds . . . Turkey season opens November 24 and will last to February 15. The bag limit is one bird (toms only) . . . Rabbit season will also run the same date and the limit will be five . . . All hunters should be sure to have proper hunting license . . . Game birds and animals can be taken legally only between the hours of sunrise to sunset . . . Automatic shotguns must be plugged so they can not hold more than three shells . . .

A few more safety tips have been passed along by Pitt's Wildlife Protector, Joe Teel. They are: (1) Do not point at anything you don't want to shoot.

USHERS IN DUCK SEASON—Tom Arthur, Rose High student, helped usher in the duck season this week. It took Tom only a short while Monday afternoon to ground this wood duck along the Tar River.

(2) It would be a good idea to wear yellow or another color that another would not mistake for game or a target. (3) Do not carry two sizes, or two gauges, of gun shells in your pocket at the same time. (4) Unload gun before jumping ditch, climbing fences, or putting gun into car.

Two Accidents In Pitt County

According to Joe Teel, North Carolina Wildlife Protector in Pitt County, two hunting accidents have been reported in the county during the month of November.

One deer hunter recently shot another from a distance. The shot ricocheted and no fatal accident occurred.

Another hunter forgot to unload his gun before placing it in the car. He was sitting on it when his child pulled the trigger. The results? A hot seat for the hunter and a hole in the car . . .

Saturday's Game To Close Out Snead's Grid Iron Role

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
An era in Wake Forest football ended when the Demon Deacons close out their season at South Carolina Saturday.

It will mark the last time that Norman Snead will operate at quarterback for Wake Forest. For the other seven head coaches in the Atlantic Coast Conference, it will be a relief not to see the hulking 6-foot-4, 205 pounder cock his ever - dangerous right arm. But for Wake's coach, Billy Hildebrand, he'll leave mighty big shoes to be filled.

The Warwick, Va., ace burst on the horizon in 1958. Although Wake won but three of 10 games, Snead was chosen three times as the ACC's sophomore of the week by The Associated Press. In 1959, he led the Deacons to a 6-4 record, their best since the 1951 team compiled the same mark.

Among the ACC records belonging to Snead are the single-season total offense, most total plays, most passes attempted, most passes completed and most yards passing. Over his three-year career holds the same conference records. If he picks up 26 yards passing or running against South Carolina Saturday, he will break his single-season record for total offense (1,365 yards).

In 1960 Wake has been something of a disappointment, winning two of nine games. The Deacons are 2-4 in the ACC, good for fifth place, but a loss to South Carolina (1-3-1) would top them a notch.

Over three years and 29 games, Snead has completed 257 of 568 passes or 45 per cent. He's accounted for 3,767 yards and 25 touchdowns.

South Carolina has quarterback Dave Sowell tossing in a workout Wednesday held in a steady drizzle. The coaches also commended left guard, Don Miles, 5-foot-10, 190 pounder from Petersburg, Va. Fred Shepherd, the ACC's leading ground gainer, sparked as winless Virginia continued offensive preparations for Saturday's 65th meeting with North Carolina. The Tar Heels, meanwhile, drilled in the rain for about an hour and ended the session with a blackboard meeting. North Carolina (2-7 and 1-5) plans to leave for Charlottesville, Va., Friday afternoon.

At Clemson, Coach Frank Howard was worried about the number of injuries besetting his Tigers. He bypassed the usual mid-week scrimmage to avoid any additional injuries before Saturday's season windup with nonconference foe Furman. Clemson will be shooting for victory No. 6 in its 16 game card.

Duke, after a two-day break, resumed workouts Wednesday for its Dec. 3 battle at UCLA. Still hopeful of a bowl bid, the Blue

Hardin Believes Navy Line Must Play Its Best

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP)—Navy line will just have to play its best and not necessarily above its and not necessarily above its to outscrap Army Saturday in Philadelphia. Coach Wayne Hardin believes.

That, Hardin says, is one of the major differences in preparation for this year's Army game and year's when Navy stunned the Cadets 43-12.

"Last year we felt Army had us outmanned in the line," Hardin told a news conference Wednesday. "Our team had to perform above its capabilities and it did."

"This year our lines are comparable. If we just play up to our ability," then the win will be determined by the better overall team, in contrast to many college games which are decided primarily in the line, Hardin said.

The Navy coach said he would tab both center Frank Visted and guard John Hewitt as superior linemen to Army's All-America candidate Al Vanderbush, guard and co-captain.

He scoffed at reports that Vanderbush, whom the Middles respect as one of the best linemen they will have faced, is primed primarily to stop Navy halfback Joe Bellino.

"If they'll promise they'll assign just Vanderbush to Bellino, then we'll be glad to take our other 10 men off the field if they'll take their other 10 out," Hardin said. "I'm sure they'll have more on No. 27 (Bellino's number) than just one man."

Hardin said Army should be the best team Navy has faced all year although the Cadets are unranked and the Middles are listed seventh in the nation in this week's Associated Press poll.

Same Scores By Winning Teams

NEW YORK (AP)—It doesn't sound probable but the three winning teams in the National Basketball Association Wednesday night all scored the same number of points.

Boston beat New York 122-105, Cincinnati downed Los Angeles 122-118 and Detroit whipped Syracuse 122-115.

Devils take a 7-2 record and the Atlantic Coast Conference championship into the West Coast battle.

Scrapping Inside Loop Ends Today

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Southern Conference football season, as far as scrapping inside the ranks is concerned, comes to an end today with Virginia Tech meeting Virginia Military Institute and William and Mary facing Richmond.

Tech's Gobblers, a major disappointment, and VMI's Keydets, league champions for a second year in a row, meet for the 55th time at victory stadium in Roanoke. The Gobblers hold a 31-19-5 edge in the series dubbed the "Military Classic of the South."

At Richmond, William and Mary's Indians go against Richmond's Spiders for either the 70th or 71st time. In the W-M record books the rivalry is all even at 32-32-5. Richmond gives W&M a 32-32-5 edge.

Until the Gobblers ran into a 9-7 upset at the hands of Davidson on Nov. 5 and then lost to George Washington 21-8 the following week, they were rated at least an even chance with VMI for the conference championship.

Now Tech carries a 5-4 overall record and 3-2 league slate into the game against the Keydets, who are 7-1-1 and 4-0. VMI clinched its second conference title Nov. 19 by whipping The Citadel 20-6.

Just one other circuit team has regular season activity remaining. Furman, assured of a winning campaign with a 5-3-1 overall mark, has a Saturday date at Clemson of the Atlantic Coast Conference.

BIG STAR MISSING
NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Tulane basketball coach Cliff Wells wasn't too happy with early practice. Missing was Jack Ardon, 6-foot-9 pivotman who was sidelined with a back injury.

Major Leagues Head For Los Angeles Showdown

By ED WILKS

Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — With the nine-team, inter-league schedule apparently due for the scrap pile, American and National leagues today still are headed for the inevitable showdown in their squabble over the lush Los Angeles territory.

The American League wants in, determined to go ahead with its expansion to 10 teams next season. The National League, in the person of owner Walter O'Malley, of the Los Angeles Dodgers, wants the AL to stay out until the Dodgers' new park is completed.

And the man in the middle of the muddle is baseball Commissioner Ford Frick, who wants a show of good faith, an agreement that is "fair and equitable," before either league moves into the other's front yard.

The AL, failing to reach agreement with O'Malley, offered its "arbitrary" alternative Tuesday, to postpone entry into Los Angeles until 1962 and operate as a nine-team league next season—if the National also agreed to add a club and enter into an inter-league schedule. The National's expansion plans call for the addition of Houston and New York in 1962.

Even the American League admits it isn't likely the National, which turned down a similar plan a year ago, will approve the proposal.

Frick also indicated he thought there was little chance for the inter-league idea. The commissioner has set up a meeting here next Wednesday with AL president Joe Cronin and NL president Warren Giles to draft an amendment to the rule governing territorial rights. The amendment would be presented to the 16 club owners at the joint league meeting in St. Louis Dec. 8.

As the rule stands one major league can move into a city occupied by the other only with the unanimous approval of both.

Commissioner Frick said in an informal news conference Wednesday:

"I'm not dedicated to the National or the American—or Mr. O'Malley or anyone. But we're not giving anybody a license to steal. I said New York would be open territory, and so should Los Angeles. But not without qualification. Open territory doesn't mean you can come in, put it under your arm and run away with it."

"There should be a definition of what indemnities should be paid, and how. The invading league should commit itself, show good faith that it's not just going in, turn a fast buck and get out. There should be some commitment for park arrangements."

Team Honored

The Third Street midget football team was honored with a weiner roast at Elm Street Park Monday afternoon. Gene Justice, ECC student and coach of the team, was awarded a gift for his work with the group.

Approximately 18 team members attended along with some parents.

In three seasons as Harvard football coach, John Yovicin's teams show a 13-13 record.

Bobcats Staying At Top Of Poll

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

With only one poll remaining, Ohio University's Bobcats still top the weekly small college football ratings by an Associated Press panel of eight selectors.

The rugged Ohio eleven completed a perfect, 10-game season last Saturday with an impressive 48-6 victory over Southern Illinois.

Second-place Lenoir Rhyne, victor in nine straight, risks its spotless record against Catawba today in its final game.

Ohio University received four first-place votes in piling up 57 points, based on the usual 10 for first, nine for second, etc., Lenoir Rhyne failed to receive a first-place vote, but wound up with 42 points.

The top 10 teams with first place votes in parentheses:

1. Ohio U. (4) 57
2. Lenoir Rhyne 42
3. Iowa St. Tchrs (1) 34
4. Bowling Green 29
5. Whitworth 27
6. Southern U. (La.) 24
7. Muskingum 23
8. Humboldt St. 19
9. Louisiana Tech 18
10. W. Chester (Pa) Tchrs (1) 17

Tennessee's first bowl appearance brought a 17-0 victory over Oklahoma in the 1939 Orange Bowl.

Rookie Of Year Honor Is Surprise

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) — Frank Howard, named the National League rookie of the year, has no designs on Babe Ruth's record of 60 home runs in one season.

"I don't think I have a chance to approach his record," the towering strong boy who hit 23 homers for the Los Angeles Dodgers in 1960, said when it was suggested he might be a likely challenger for the mark.

Howard, 24, who is leading the Puerto Rico winter baseball league in home runs with six, said he was "completely surprised" by his choice NL as rookie of the year. Howard, a resident of Columbus, Ohio, received 12 of the 22 votes cast by a special committee of the Baseball Writers Association of America.

"I had no idea I was up for the honor," he said.

Joe Bellino: Pin-Up Boy For The Army

WEST POINT (AP) — Joe Bellino is the pin-up boy of the Army post this week. His likeness hangs, literally, on the barracks walls.

The cadet corps, still smarting from the three received by Bellino scored for Navy last year in the 43-12 rout of Army, is concentrating on the Middles' stocky halfback.

A bed sheet suspended from one barracks window pictures a sailor sitting in a rowboat with a hole in the bottom. "USS Bellino" is painted on the side of the boat which is settling into the briny deep.

"A beano for Bellino" another work of art suggests. A man-sized figure of a football player in a blue shirt with No. 27 (Bellino's number) on his back, hangs by his hands from another barracks.

On the parade ground, a statue erected in memory of Sylvanus Thayer, founder of the Academy in its present form, is decked out with a banner reading, "Sylvie sez bust Navy."

The victory wagon, used only to transport a winning Army team when it returns home after beating the Gobs, is ready and waiting.

"Smote the Gobs," reads one banner. "Mop the Middles" says another. Some of the others you won't read in this paper.

During this week, any upper-classman meeting a plebe (freshman) on the campus, asks, "What's the word?" The plebe answers, "Beat Navy, sir" or else.

The cadet enthusiasm has been building up for weeks. It now is nearing the peak. Tonight the traditional rally will be held in the mess hall with all 2,500 cadets participating at the dinner hour.

The team leaves Friday morning with a tank escort. They will travel by bus to Newark and then take the train to Philadelphia where they will view the stadium. They will be quartered at the Manufacturers Country Club in nearby Orland, Pa.

Casper On Hand To Defend Title

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — The $15,000 Mobile Sebring Open Golf Tournament began today with indications of plenty of low scores in the 72-hole meet.

Billy Casper Jr., Apple Valley, Calif., won the inaugural meet last year with a 280, eight under par. He's on hand to defend his title.

Tournament followers predicted it would take a much lower score than 280 to win this time. Cards in a $3,000 pro-amateur meet Wednesday indicate they are right.

A course record 64 was turned in by Fred Hawkins, El Paso, Tex., for top individual money of $250 in the pro-am.

Casper shot a 69 and the other co-favorite, Arnold Palmer of Ligonier, Pa., shot 70.

JAMES KEENE'S New Historical Novel IRON MAN, IRON HORSE

CHAPTER 24

"Western Union will string wire to Fort Sil at and take the rest off your hands," Mr. Swinner told Ben Holliday. "That's our offer. We're not going to buy easements until our till is pumped dry."

"We wouldn't want Western Union to go broke," Holliday said. "I think Midland-Pacific could provide easements along our right of way. Under these terms, twenty thousand would be a fair price. That's a third of material and labor cost."

Swiner whistled, then said, "Now you've made me lose interest."

"Why don't you talk it over? I'll be in Dodge until tomorrow evening. Give me an answer then."

"All right, Holliday, I'll present the offer," Ben said, and shook hands.

After he stepped out, Jim Bender sighed and rubbed his stomach. "That wasn't much different from courthouse politics. You ought to run for Congress, Ben."

"Thanks, no."

"What's Western going to do about the wires strung to Singer's place?" Bender asked.

"Tear them down, probably," Holliday said.

"Ain't you got contracts with Singer and Hutchins and Vale?"

"Sure," Ben said. "Contracts with three men who want my railroad. What do you want me to do, Jim? Go on honoring the agreements?"

"I would," Bender said. "Even if it cost me."

"And that's why you're not running a railroad," Holliday said. "If it just cost me, personally, then maybe I'd stick it out. But with the railroad at stake, I'd cut a man's throat from ear to ear to save it."

"I guess," Bender said. "You save it and save yourself, then you can report back to your pappy that you're a whoppin' success."

"Oh, hell, there's more to it than that!"

"Sure there is; I never doubted it." He turned to the door. "I'm going to get me a bath and a shave, then a drink."

"Jim, you're not mad, are you?"

"Naw, but I've learned that one side of the fence is no cleaner than the other. You comin' along, John-Jack?"

"I stay with M'sieu Holliday," he shrugged. "I'm in the middle."

"No man's in the middle," Jim Bender said.

"Holliday stared at him. 'That's kind of a switch for you, isn't it, Jim?'"

"Well, I guess when a man wants to get off the fence, the best way is just to jump."

He went out and DuJoise said, "A good man but bound by his own principles. To live, a man must be a little bit of the coward one day, a wise man the next, a hero another day, and a fool the day after. And all with-out a twinge of conscience. M'sieu is hot or cold, good or bad, never in between."

Holliday ordered bath water, and a meal, then left to make arrangements for a tailor to fit him for a suit of clothes.

When he got back to the room, he found Harry Lovell waiting in the hallway. "I'm sorry," Lovell said. "I tried to get the poles and wire from Western Union, Ben."

"That's all a man can do. Don't moon about it. Come on in."

He closed the door and heard DuJoise singing in the adjoining room. Then he came out clad in the lower half of his underwear, toweling himself dry.

"Sit down, Harry. Sergeant, this is Mr. Lovell, my accountant. Sergeant John-Jack DuJoise."

The two shook hands, then Lovell sat down and lit a cigar. The tailor came, and DuJoise let him in. While the man took measurements and displayed his samples, Holliday and Harry Lovell talked.

"I never saw Dodge stirred up," Lovell said. "To look at it, you'd think something really important happened." He reached into his pocket for some papers. "The cattle buyer accepted our head count and made out the draft. It's good to have a little money for a change."

"Take a good look at it," Holliday said. "We won't have it tomorrow. You'd better take this down, Harry. I want an order for thirty-five ton of rail sent out before supper. And see what you can do about ties; we'll use all we have. I want to put that siding in; running one train at a time is foolish. And send a wire to my brother, Adam. Ask him if he can come out here for two weeks. I'm going to need some legal advice."

A knock on the door interrupted him and DuJoise opened it. "Well, for heaven's sake! Anna!"

"I'm sorry to intrude," she said smiling. Then she saw Harry Lovell, and he turned quickly and went over to the window and stood looking out. "I heard you were here, and since—well, I thought I'd say hello."

"What are you doing in Dodge?"

"My father came to see a lawyer about a patent," she said.

Ben turned to the tailor. "You've got enough there. Something in a dark brown. And not a heavy material." He stepped into the hall and closed the door. "Will you have a cup of coffee with me?"

My father's in a room downstairs," she said. "Would it be all right?"

"Of course," he said, taking her arm.

As they walked down the stairs, Anna said, "Papa and I are going to take the night mail train back. Maybe I shouldn't have interrupted you."

"If you hadn't and I found out about it, I wouldn't have forgiven you."

This pleased her; he could tell that from the sudden warmth in her eyes. "I do hope that man found his wife," she said. When he frowned, she went on to explain. "The man who was in your room talking to you. He was in the lawyer's office when Papa and I went there. The lawyer was trying to find his wife."

"Which man?"

"The short one with the suit," Harry Lovell? You must be mistaken, Anna."

She stopped at the base of the stairs. "I'm not. Papa thinks he works for you. Is that so?"

"Lovell's the accountant. Which lawyer did you go to?"

"Mr. Bristow."

Somewhat he felt that he knew that even before she said it, and it gave him a sickness in the stomach to know that Lovell was working against him.

Anna said, "Is something wrong, Ben?"

"No, nothing now."

She opened the door for him, and Fritz Neubauer turned his head; he had been dozing in the chair. When he saw Ben Holliday he stood up and straightened his coat. "Papa, this is Mr. Holliday."

"So much a pleasure," Neubauer said, shaking hands. He was ill at ease, unsure of himself or what he should say. "Anna spoke of you. My English is not good."

"It's fine," Ben said. His glance touched Anna Neubauer briefly. "Would you excuse me for ten minutes? I've got to talk to Lovell now. Anna, it's the way I am; I can't leave a thing go, or wait."

"I understand," she said. When he turned to the door, Neubauer said, "You come, you go. I say something bad?"

"Explain it to him," Ben said, and went out.

"If the railroad is so worthless, why do Singer and the others want it?" Ben wants to know as the story continues tomorrow.

Offer Students Naval Program

Representatives from the Raleigh Office of Naval Officer Programs and the Naval Air Reserve Training Unit, Norfolk, Virginia, will visit East Carolina College for the purpose of explaining the Navy's commissioned officer programs to interested individuals. The team will be located in the College Union, November 28-December 1 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Openings are available for assignment in Aviation, General Line, and several specialty categories. Most of the programs are open for application only to college seniors; however, undergraduates who have completed 60 semester hours of accredited college work may apply for appointment as a Naval Aviation Cadet.

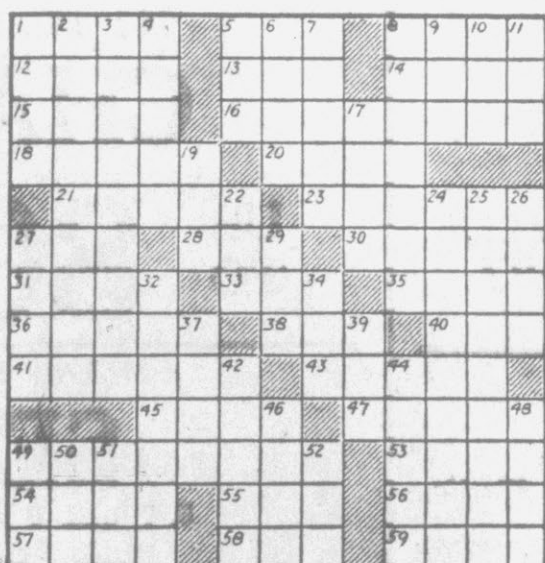

Any student who meets the required standards and is within nine months of graduation may take the qualification test and make application with the visiting Navy Procurement Team. Those who take the qualification tests or who make application and subsequently change their mind are not obligated in any way.

All students are urged and welcome to stop by and talk with the team about their plans for military service.

About 77 per cent of the eligible voters of Idaho cast ballots in the 1956 presidential election. The national average was 69 per cent.

BANDIT RAIDERS

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — Armed bands killed 10 persons, wounded several and destroyed many houses in three raids in West Java villages, reports from Bandung said today.

Tobacco Tips

By S. J. Weeks

Pitt County Tobacco Agent

The best tobacco is produced when careful attention is given to the plant nutrient requirements. The rate of fertilization has a definite relation to yield, quality, and profit of a tobacco crop. Heavy applications of fertilizer will not necessarily improve the yield and often lowers the quality of cured tobacco. However, rates that are too low are sure to lower both yield and quality. It is very important to use as nearly as possible the exact amount of fertilizer for proper development of the plant. An accurate soil analysis will help determine the correct amount of fertilizer ingredients to use.

Nitrogen promotes plant growth. If too much nitrogen is used, delayed ripening, dark color and heavy body results. If the plant receives too little nitrogen, the leaves develop a yellow cast during the early stage of growth. This results in premature firing and starts drying up the leaves. Tobacco should have adequate supplies of nitrogen while growing, but the nitrogen should be almost used up when the crop reaches maturity.

Most fields in Pitt County on which tobacco is grown, are not deficient in phosphorus. However, some readily available phosphorus is essential in the production of tobacco. Tobacco plants get off to an earlier start and develop faster where adequate amounts of phosphorus are available.

Potash improves the quality of tobacco in general. It helps to produce the desired burning quality in the leaf. Adequate potash also increases the resistance to firing in dry weather. Muriate of potash should be used as little as possible because too much muriate will lower the leaf quality.

Other fertilizer ingredients such as magnesium, chlorine and calcium are also important in the tobacco fertilization program.

When planning your tobacco fertilization program, it is well to know as much as possible about the nutrient level of your soil. A sample of soil properly taken from each field tested by the soil testing division of the State Department of Agriculture will give you this important information.

Soil sample boxes and instructions for taking the samples can be obtained at the County Agricultural Agents' Office.

UNIFICATION STEP?

TOKYO (AP) — Communist North Korea today proposed a meeting of representatives of North and South Korea to discuss trade and economic cooperation as a step toward eventual unification of the divided country.

One of the world's largest steam plants is near Kingston, Tenn.

Science At Work

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
 Bright older men, a very bright and what makes glowing fish bright are subjects this week for science at work:

In Favor of Age

The bright young men are not as bright as they will be when they are bright older men. The scientist who reported this, Dr. William A. Owen of Purdue University, checked the mental ability of 127 men against their U. S. Army intelligence scores in 1919. They proved brighter on the average by 70 per cent than their old scores.

That was in 1950. Now Dr. Owen has embarked on another study of the same men—to see how they score now and how their lift patterns were influenced by their mental ability.

The Face Is Familiar

A new robot that will be able to recognize friends from strangers is being fashioned by British scientists. They hope to make it able to talk in electronic squeaks, to see, read and write.

The machine will have an eye of 100 photoelectric cells, its brain will have 4,000 cells. University of London researchers are trying to equip it with the ability to distinguish important problems from unimportant ones. They expect to have it operating in about a year.

A Slight Delay

How well we do a job appears to depend on how closely our minds check the work while we are doing it.

Psychologists set volunteers to some simple writing chores, tracing figures and writing simple words. The volunteers watched their hands at work in a television monitor. By using a TV tape recorder, the psychologists were able to delay by a fraction of a second the subject's impression of what he was doing.

With the delay the figure tracings became wildly marked by scribbling and the simple words were illegible or misspelled.

Glimmer

Crystals of the stuff that makes fireflies and luminous fish glow in the dark have been extracted from a South Pacific fish the Japanese call the glow fish.

A Business Must Look To Past

NEWTON, Iowa (AP) — Progress is important but a firm sometimes has to live a bit in the past, George Umbreit, a washing machine company executive points out.

In 1959 his company sold five cranks for the wringer assembly of a washer it introduced in 1919. And last year, Umbreit adds, was the first in which the firm has not received an order for a piston ring for the engine of a washer first brought out in 1914.

Japanese call kinme modoki. U. S. and Japanese scientists had to dissect more than 4,000 luminous organs from fish before they had enough of the material to isolate a crystal. It was the third time a chemically pure, luminescent substance had been isolated, the first two times from fireflies.

For Swimming Only

Th. plants in your garden may look longingly at the water in your swimming pool when the summer sun gets hot, but it's a pool of poison for them.

Chlorine added to the swimming water to kill bacteria and algae causes a continuous build-up of salt. University of California experts report. If the salty water gets to plant roots, it stunts growth, burns foliage and may kill the plant.

A splash deck and curb around the pool will protect plants against dripping, splashing gathers.

Never A Prouder Boy Scout Than Young Bob

PORTSMOUTH, Va. (AP) — There's probably not a prouder tenderfoot Boy Scout anywhere today than 12-year-old Bobby Springer.

The youngster's longstanding wish to become a scout was fulfilled Wednesday night in the Neuro-surgical Ward of the Naval Hospital here. Bobby is paralyzed from the waist down.

"On my honor, I will do my best to do my duty to God and my country," he said in an unwavering voice during an investiture ceremony which took him into Troop 202.

Wearing his tenderfoot scout uniform, Bobby's eyes sparkled when Scoutmaster Raymond L. Schools lit the scout candles as the youngster completed his final requirement.

Patrol Leader Peter Moxon and Glover Howard, senior patrol leader, welcomed Bobby into the troop. Rear Admiral John W. W. Cummings, USN (ret.) author of "A Tribute to the Flag," recited it and gave Bobby an autographed copy.

A number of leading scout officials from the Portsmouth area also looked on.

A fellow patient and former scoutmaster, A. H. Buccini, a boatswain's mate, started plans for the ceremony when he heard the boy express a desire to become a scout. The Army heard of the plan and got two weeks temporary duty at the hospital for Bobby's stepfather, Spec. 4 Charles R. Voel of the 82nd Airborne Division, Ft. Bragg, N.C. He looked on proudly as his stepson became a scout.

My Children

NEW YORK (AP) — Neatly dressed and hand in hand, the little boy and girl were found roaming Wednesday through the toy department of Gimbel's department store.

"Hello there," said store security officer Michael Browne, "where are your mommy and daddy?"

The boy spoke up, smiling: "My name is Michael and I'm 5. I'm taking care of my sister. She is Maria and she is 4. We are looking for Yogi Bear (a TV cartoon character). Mommy said we could."

Browne broadcast a description of the children via the loudspeaker system. No parent showed up.

Finally, in the boy's pocket, Browne found this note:

"These are my children, Michael and Maria. They are Catholics. They have had their shots and vaccinations. I love them dearly but I have no money, no food, and no place to go. Please be kind to them. I hope I can come and claim them some day soon. Things are very black for me. Thank you for your help." The youngsters were taken to the City Children's Home.

Street Work In Ayden This Week

AYDEN—Town employees are engaged in several street improvement projects this week, Town Manager Cleveland Paylor said Tuesday.

Streets are being patched with asphalt where it is needed, he said, as long as weather holds up. The spring-like weather on Monday and Tuesday was ideal for such work, Paylor noted.

The Police Department is remarking all crosswalks and parking spaces with traffic paint, in another project. The marking is done about twice a year, Paylor said, and takes about two days. Work started Tuesday morning.

Large Amount Of Bootleg In The House

OFFICERS WARD, TAYLOR AND LAWSON... with part of the 79-plus gallons of bootleg whiskey found in a house at 703 Cherry St. last night.

Pitt County ABC officers J. M. Ward and Walter Taylor and Greenville Police Detective Lt. H. F. Lawson made Thanksgiving an unthankful time for a Greenville Negro when they charged him with possession of non-tax-paid whiskey for the purpose of sale after finding over 79 gallons of illegal booze in his house early this morning.

The officers said "13 cases and a part of another case" of non-tax-paid whiskey were found in a closet in the home of Frank Harris, 34, of 703 Cherry St., about 1:30 a.m. today. Charged with possession of non-tax-paid whiskey for the purpose of sale, he was placed under a $500 bond for his appearance in City Court Nov. 28.

According to Ward, the booze would sell at retail for four dollars per gallon or two dollars per pint. Wholesale the white liquor would bring about $35-$40 per case. At the retail price, the batch of liquor confiscated would bring $322.

Officers said Harris told them he did not know the whiskey was in his house and did not know who put it there. Later this morning, about 3 a.m., the three officers arrested Lewis

Ward at his home, 801 Fleming St., when they found three gallons and one quart of non-tax liquor in his possession.

Charged with possession of non-tax-paid whiskey for the purpose of sale, Ward was placed under a $300 bond for City Court Dec. 5.

Report Nixon To Enter Law Firm

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon intends to join a California law firm after his term expires in January, the Los Angeles Times said today. The newspaper did not identify the firm or the city in which it is located.

The Times Washington bureau said it had learned authoritatively that Nixon made the tentative decision while on vacation in Florida and the Bahamas after the election.

"He regards his native state of California, which slipped belatedly into his electoral column along with most of the western states, as a key battleground in the GOP resurgence he aspires to lead," wrote Times correspondent Robert Hartmann.

Someone Goofed In Coordinating

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The brand new State Building towers handsomely at 1st St. and Broadway, and its brand new sidewalks were pretty, too.

But jack hammers are ripping them up. Someone discovered that the sidewalks had covered ventilators which supply air to an underground tunnel linking the new and old State buildings.

"Someone goofed on the co-ordination," an official explained.

PROTESTANT GROWTH
WASHINGTON, D. C. (AP) — An official of the National Association of Evangelicals reports that the number of Evangelical Protestants in Colombia increased from 16,000 to 80,000 since 1956, a 400 per cent increase.

Cases Heard In City Police Court

Judge Charles H. Whedbee disposed of the following cases in Municipal Recorder's Court on November 21.

Mack Patterson, Negro, 909 Imperial St., no operator's license, pay costs; James Edward Paul, Route 2, Belhaven, operating under the influence, 90 days, suspended, pay $100 and costs, not drive for 12 months; Roosevelt Thigpen, Negro, 818 Venters St., Ayden, no operator's license, called and failed to appear, capias issued; Pittman Stocks, West Fifth St., drunk, 30 days, suspended, pay $16, costs deducted; Kenneth Steve Meeks, 1109-B Fairfax Ave., carrying concealed weapon, action dismissed; and improper equipment, action dismissed; Grover Thigpen, Negro, Route 5, Box 277, Greenville, improper equipment, prayer for judgment continued; Garnett Lee Hall, 319 Hudnell St., Washington, speeding, pay costs; Larry J. Stalls, Route 2, Box 86, Greenville, careless and reckless driving, pay $20, costs deducted and surrender driver's license to clerk and not drive for 20 days except for employer; Ted Arthur Hollingsworth, 1010 East 10th St., speeding, pay costs; Jurden Coppage, Negro, P.O. Box 434, Bethel, fail to stop for a stop sign, pay $10 on costs.

Marvin Hayward Nobles, 1401 Myrtle Ave., fail to yield, pay costs; Zeno Moore, Negro, Chicod, speeding, pay costs; Albion Ray Brown, Rt. 4, Box 40, Greenville, assault on female, six months suspended, not harm or molest prosecuting witness in any way, not in her presence or call her for six months unless he has written invitation from her. Pay into court for Dr. M. P. Hoot, $3.00 and Pitt Memorial Hospital, $3.00 and pay $2, costs deducted; Billy W. Westerington, 112 Cox Ave., Jacksonville, fail to yield, pay costs; Charles Cobb, Negro, 103 Ford St., speeding, pay costs; Samuel Renny Cox, 313 Long Meadow Rd., speeding, not pressed; Terry J. Dixon, Route 3 Box 347, Greenville, fail to yield, pay costs; Edna Forbes Oakley, 105 N. Jarvis St., fail to yield, not guilty; Willie David Adams, Negro, 203 Center St., improper passing, pay costs, surrender driver's license to clerk. This cause retained for further action.

They were the Highway Patrol and the Wildlife Resources Department.

The 600-man patrol was out in force in an effort to keep down motor vehicle accidents.

The North Carolina State Motor Club estimated that 18 persons would die during the period from 6 p.m. Wednesday to midnight Sunday.

The 1959 total was 19 dead, 425 injured and 875 accidents.

The Wildlife Department's 150 game wardens were on duty in an attempt to watch an estimated 250,000 hunters greeting today's opening of the quail, rabbit, wild turkey and grouse seasons, and participating in the seasons on ducks and geese, already under way.

MILAN, Italy (AP) — Shares on Milan's stock exchange plunged to 1960 lows Wednesday. Losses brought some down as much as 50 per cent from the year's high levels in September.

Financial circles blamed, among other things, the United States gold drain and uncertainty here about recent Wall Street activity.

Church Conference Here Goes Into Its Third Day

The North Carolina Annual Conference of the Fifth Episcopal District swung into its third day today with Dr. George James Hill of New Bern delivering a noon Thanksgiving sermon.

Dr. Hill, pastor of St. Peter's AME Zion Church of New Bern, spoke from his text, "True Saving for Christ," to a large gathering at the York Memorial AME Zion Church here, the site of the 97th annual conference.

Music was furnished by the choir from St. Peter's and from the Metropolitan Church in Washington, N. C.

The conference was organized yesterday in the morning session. Delegates were certified and seated and heard an address by Dr. J. W. Eichelberger, secretary of Christian Education for the AME Zion Church, from Chicago.

Dr. Eichelberger spoke to the conference on his world travels in behalf of the church's Christian Education program.

The noonday sermon yesterday was delivered by the Rev. Solan T. League, former pastor of York Memorial and current pastor in New Bern.

Public Relations Director Alexander Barnes of Washington, D. C., addressed the conference briefly during the afternoon session. The annual sermon was delivered by Rev. Goler L. Newby, pastor of Trenton Chapel AME Zion Church of New Bern.

Following Rev. Newby's sermon, the conference held its welcome program. The featured address came from Greenville Mayor S. Eugene West. Rev. L. A. Williams responded.

Bishop W. A. Stewart opened Wednesday's session with a scripture reading and a brief address on Thanksgiving.

A variety of Australian termites, appropriately called "compass termites," construct slablike nests with narrow ends invariably pointing due south and north.

Heavy Damage In Auto Collision

Heavy damage resulted in a collision at the intersection of West Fifth St. and Memorial Dr. about 5:45 p.m. yesterday which sent several people to Pitt Memorial Hospital for treatment of injuries.

Investigating Patrolman H. R. Winslow identified the drivers of the cars as F. C. Hester, 17-year-old Negro of Route 1, Fountain, and Jimmie Spain, 30, of Route 4, Greenville.

Winslow said the Hester car was headed east on N.C. 43 while the Spain vehicle was traveling north on U.S. 13. He noted that an estimated $150 damage resulted to the Hester auto while the Spain vehicle was said to be a total loss.

Spain was thrown from his car and was admitted to the hospital for observation while Sudie Bell Eason, 12-year-old Negro and passenger in the Hester car, was admitted and treated for lacerations of her face. She, too, was thrown from the car. Two other riders in the Hester car were treated for minor injuries and released.

According to Winslow, investigation of the mishap is continuing.
