Tripp-Burney Nuptials Held

Miss Patricia Anne Burney and William Burton Tripp were married in a candlelight ceremony on Friday, November 25, at 7:30 p.m. in St. John's Episcopal Church in Grifton.

The Rev. Richard N. Ottaway officiated at the ceremony. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Franklin Burney of Grifton. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Burton Tripp of Ayden.

Wedding music was presented by Mrs. Eleanor Gower, organist, and Mr. Lowell Speight, vocalist. Mr. Speight sang "The Lord's Prayer" and "O Perfect Love."

Tommy Burney, brother of the bride, served as acolyte. The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length gown of imported peau de soie. The bodice, designed with a fitted basque waist, featured a sweetheart neckline heavily encrusted with flower designs of iridescent crystals and seed pearls. The long sleeves buttoned with bridal buttons and formed points over the hands. The skirt featured a three-dimensional effect pannier in front, embellished with flower designs of iridescent alencon lace, fabric rosebuds, crystals and seed pearls and bustle in back extended into a cathedral train.

The shoulder length veil was attached to a crown of iridescent crystals and rhinestones. She used her confirmation prayer book topped with a white orchid with pink bridal rosebuds, ivy leaves and lilies-of-the-valley.

Miss Phyllis Dudley of Grifton and Mrs. Bob Wilson of New Bern, cousins of the bride, were maid of honor and matron of honor, respectively. They wore dresses of gold combination, d'ustered satin over net, designed with portrait necklines and abbreviated sleeves. An unpressed pleated cummerbund joined in the back with butterfly bows and flowed into a wide panel over the box pleated bell shaped skirt. Ushers were Marshall Tripp, Ronnie Tripp of Ayden, cousins of the groom, Ikey Baldrre, Ayden, and Billy Burney, brother of the bride.

Gardening Today

By John G. Duncan

In a few weeks, Christmas will be here again. A gift for the gardener should present no problems. A year's subscription to a good garden magazine is a easy gift to get for that particular friend.

A visit to your local book store should enable you to pick up a good garden book on his favorite plant or plants. Not only this, but you may be able to find a book on man garden subjects that is sure to please.

If you have a plant in mind as a gift, visit your local nurseryman. His stock of plants is bound to have one that any gardener would be glad to receive as a present. You may find some that you would like to have in your garden. Give yourself a gift of a plant this year.

Pruning tools make ideal gifts. Almost any gardener would welcome a pair of hedge shears or hand pruners, or a good pair of garden gloves.

Any garden tool is a good gift. It could be a rake, spade, or any other useful piece of equipment. A power mower is a fine gift. A spray tank, a seed and fertilizer spreader are ideal gifts.

Another fine and lasting gift for the entire family is a new planting around the house. If not this, plant a tree that will serve as an outdoor Christmas tree.

You haven't too much time to get ready for Christmas in the gift line. When you make up your list, don't forget the gardener—the one in your own family, the one next door, and the one across town.

Don't let your gift planning put gardening out of your mind. If you haven't gotten your bulbs planted, take advantage of any warm day and get them in the ground.

Elect Local Women At Scout Meeting

GOLDSBORO — Mrs. W. M. Reading Jr. of Greenville was elected second vice president and Mrs. John Behr, also of Greenville, was elected district chairman for District VI of the Coastal Carolina Girl Scout Council at a meeting held here Wednesday.

Mrs. W. M. Reading, Jr.

The agenda included the proposed revision of the By-Laws of the Girl Scout Council of Coastal Carolina, and election of new officers and board members.

Mrs. R. A. Neely of New Bern was elected president and Mrs. Jack Blades of Cherry Point was named treasurer.

A report was made on the Girl Scouts' 35th National Convention held in St. Louis, Mo.

A new program is being adopted by the Girl Scouts of the United States. Age groups will be re-arranged to include the addition of a new unit, making four program groups. Ages will be broken down into the following categories: Brownies, ages 7 and 8; Intermediates, 9 to 11; older Intermediates, 12 to 14; and Senior Scouts, 15 to 17. The Brownies will remain Brownies, but name suggestions are requested for the other three groups.

The new program stresses more ceremonies and fundamentals; citizenship and international friendship; health and safety; fine arts, and more out-of-doors. A new handbook will be completed by 1962.

The National Council voted against establishing a board of review for proficiency badges and against a special uniform for Wing Scouts. The new Senior Girl Scout uniform just out will be worn by all Seniors, including Mariner and Wing Scouts.

There were 225 delegates at the St. Louis meeting from Region VI, which covers North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia and Florida, and the Canal Zone.

Magic Secrets Hide In A Cake Of Wax

By MAIDRED MORRIS
Now that the holiday season is approaching, many homemakers are discovering the magic of beauty that lies in a small cake of wax.

If you are interested in making candles and other decorations from wax, there are certain precautions to be observed. First, don't ever handle liquid paraffin over an open flame since it is inflammable. Melt the wax in a double boiler. If at any time a pot of hot wax catches fire, a lid should be placed over the flaming container immediately and it will smother quickly.

Also, do not spill hot wax in the kitchen sink. The minute the wax hits cold water, it gets extremely hard and the sink will be stopped up.

Among the tools that you will need will be an ice pick, an egg-beater, a knife, fork and spoon. Cover your working area with old newspapers and put a sheet of wax papers under the container. If you spill some wax, it is possible to peel it off the wax paper and use again.

It is always better to use new candle wick if you can get it. The next best is wick from old candle. If you use cotton cord, soak it first in a solution of one tablespoon of salt and two tablespoons of Borax dissolved in a cup of water. Then coat with wax before inserting it in the candle.

It has been found that wax is colored easier by melting wax crayons in the wax. Artist oil colors and lipstick may be used. Do not try to use vegetable or textile dyes since they are not soluble in oil.

There are different types of molds that can be used.

There is no end to the many items that can be created for Christmas. A tree can be made in a Christmas tree cake pan or can be carved out of a solid sheet of wax. You can decorate the tree by touching it with the tip of a hot crayon. Tiny glass ornaments are also attractive on that type of tree.

Santa Claus candles can be made from a roup of large and small balls placed on top of each other. Use red colored wax for the body and use whipped wax for the fur and whiskers. To make the ball, use round bottom tea-cups, mixing bowls, or berry bowls. After it cools, you can stick two of the half round balls together with melted wax.

Do you have any old candles at home that have lost their shape or perhaps been broken? They can be salvaged and brought back into beautiful useable items simply by warming them to straighten. Then heat some wax, let it cool, whip it with an egg beater, and frost over all of those old useless candles.

Use your imagination when working with wax. It may develop into a hobby that is not only satisfying but in many instances profitable.

Bus Ride Is Experience

By G. K. HODENFIELD

AP Education Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Is a school bus ride a learning experience?

Now there's a question that begs for an answer, and maybe one of the big foundations could sponsor some nation-wide research. Until then, we'll have to go along with about 100 school superintendents who baited the question around at an education convention earlier this year.

"It's a basic extension of the school program," they said. "It develops the democratic processes. Children learn certain arts on a school bus, like the art of conversation."

To one bemused observer on the sidelines, the discussion didn't seem realistic. As the educators themselves might put it, their judgments were not based on a life experience within their peer group.

Trouble is, there folks never drove a school bus. I did, for three never-to-be-forgotten weeks. Against the nightmarish background, here are some statements made during the discussion, and some balancing comment from one who knows:

Statement — Children learn respect for adults in their dealings with the bus driver.

Comment — Like the time I flung open the bus door with a cheery "good morning, kiddies." And caught a frozen snowball right on the kisser.

Statement — The mopitors are democratically chosen by the children from among their peers on the bus.

Comment — The democratic way to do it is for the driver to pick out the biggest bully on the bus, and threaten to make him walk home if he doesn't keep the other little monsters quiet.

Statement — The bus ride gives the children an opportunity to talk to each other, and they learn the art of conversation.

Comment — A mere babble of words, of which 49 per cent are "fabulous" and 51 per cent are "Fabian."

Statement — In some schools, the teachers develop units of training with the children, role-playing such as getting off and on the bus, monitoring it, etc.

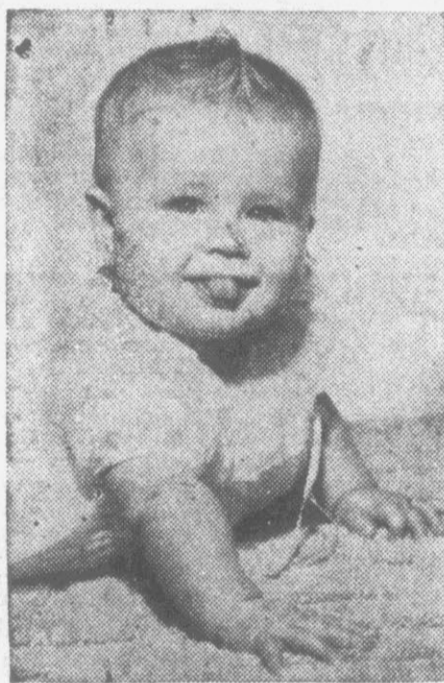

Comment — And there are such un-taught roles to be played as ponytail pulling, tantrum throwing, paper bag bursting, chewing gum in the hair of the kid ahead of you putting, and notebook hurling.

Statement — Riding a school bus is a seminar in human relations.

Comment — None of the kids on my bus had any human relations.

Hypnosis Talk Given Book Club

Members of the Thetis Book Club heard a talk on hypnosis, given by Dr. Harold Hoke, Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. W. N. Howard was hostess at her home on Slay Drive to the members and invited guests of the club.

A business session was conducted by Mrs. B. M. Whitehurst, president. Plans were completed for the annual Christmas party. The club voted to contribute to the Cherry Hospital in Goldsboro.

A resume was given by club members who traveled to Raleigh for a guided tour of the North Carolina Art Museum.

Dr. Hoke, local obstetrician, spoke on hypnosis and its value to the medical profession. He stated that it has been only in the past several years that the medical profession has fully recognized the value and practical applicability of hypnosis.

Dr. Hoke commented on the fact that hypnosis is not something to be played with, among non-professionals, and that even doctors have to choose their subjects carefully. A question and answer period followed Dr. Hoke's talk.

The hostess, assisted by Mrs. Guy McClanahan, served a sweet course and coffee.

Mrs. C. W. Moye, Mrs. Bob Windle and Mrs. Al Ward were introduced as guests.

For best results, the trick is to take cottons out of the dryer the instant the machine shuts off. Shake them out, stretch the seams, and more than likely they will look nice enough to wear.

When it comes to cosmetics, washing off is as important as putting on.

Highway Program Changes Loom

It is clear now during the next four years the Sanford administration will look upon the 15-year highway proposals only as study proposals rather than as a program which must be followed.

It is also safe to assume that other state administrations that follow in the next 15 years will likewise have their own ideas about what highway program North Carolina should follow.

In a speech before the Southern Albemarle Association at Pantego, the governor-elect asserted his administration will not be bound by the recommendations contained in the Highway Commission's 15-year plan. There was also an indication in Sanford's address that the eastern section of the state may receive more consideration in highway matters during his administration than was indicated in the 15-year plan announced by the Highway Commission some months ago.

Most of Eastern North Carolina is well aware that the 15-year program did not contain a number of highway projects that this section of the state looks upon as essential to continue economic growth and progress. It is likewise a widely held opinion in this section of the state that the priority system set up for the highway project showed favoritism to the Piedmont section, thus placing the Eastern projects farther down the list than they should have been.

To round out the highway picture as it now is indicated under the Sanford administration, one must also consider the fact that the Highway Commission is almost certain to be revamped. Sanford—as well as the other three Democratic candidates for governor—called for a revision of the Highway Commission set-up during the primary campaign last spring. The purpose of the reorganization would be to put the commission in closer touch with the people and enlarge the commission more along the line that it was prior to its change under the Hodges administration.

Putting all these things together, it is evident that the highway program that emerges for the state during the next four years may vary considerably from what was recommended for the period by the 15-year plan. There is also the possibility that Eastern Carolina's highway needs may receive more attention during the next four years than was indicated by the long-range plan adopted by the Commission some months ago.

While the state's highway program must be viewed from an overall standpoint, there appears now the likelihood that Sanford may be more intimately acquainted with the highway needs of Eastern Carolina than the present commission has indicated it is. The awareness of the needs may likewise bring a more rapid approach to seeing that the highway needs of the section are met.

Too Many Who Could Qualify

By LYNN NISBET
SURPLUS — North Carolina seems to be surfeited with too many persons who could appropriately hold top level positions in the next national administration.

Out-going Governor Luther Hodges has been often mentioned as secretary of commerce in the new cabinet. Rep. Harold Colley of the fourth district, dean of the Tarheel congressional delegation and long time chairman of the House committee on agriculture, is an avowed and receptive candidate for appointment as secretary of agriculture in the Kennedy cabinet. Since it is hardly likely that North Carolina will get two cabinet posts, the question is which of these two their fellow Tarheels should support.

Small Loans — Some of those who do not want stricter regulation of small loan companies have charged that Ben Roberts, banking commissioner, "jumped the gun" on the commission by releasing the text of his proposed new law to the press before the commission had passed upon it. Members of the commission do not feel that way. To the contrary, some of them at least, think it was a good idea. It is pointed out that the proposed act is not the banking commission bill, but the individual ideas of the commissioner. Popular reaction after publicity will enable the commission when it meets to add or delete provisions that might strengthen control over small loans. It is also noted that no bill can be introduced in the General Assembly without the approval of at least one member — the introducer.

Cost — The chief problem, perhaps the only real one, in connection with small loan legislation is to reduce the cost of money borrowed in amounts of $300 or less. Under present conditions it is almost impossible to ascertain this cost. The legal interest on $300 for a year is $18. For three months, $4.50. It is obviously impossible for loan companies to stay in business at that rate. So there has developed a system of additional charges for "investigation", writing mortgages and insurance. The insurance probably constitutes chief basis for whatever justification there may be for the charge of racketeering. Another practice has been duplication of investigation and insurance costs for loans to one person by two companies owned by the same people.

There have been instances reported where the borrower had to pay back more than twice the amount he borrowed—including all these investigation, insurance and service charges. This is an intolerable situation. On the other side of the fence is the fact that if total "cost" of borrowed money is limited to the legal 6 per cent rate, there will be no chance for anybody in real need of money to borrow from any source. That would work unconscionable hardship on many good people.

With Cooley as chairman of the house committee on agriculture, Jordan a member of the companion senate group, and Joe Williams directing the tobacco program, North Carolina farmers feel they have a situation that should not be weakened—and if they can get Horace Godfrey in top position with the Federal ASC set up it will be strengthened.

Others — Another reason tobacco farmers would like to keep Cooley in congress is they want also to keep Joe Williams as head of the tobacco section in the department, despite the fact he is a Republican. And there is support for Horace Godfrey, state ASC officer, for an important post in the U.S. Department of Agriculture. If Cooley stepped out chairmanship of the committee would to W.R. Poage of Texas—and with the Vice President and Speaker of the House being also from that state would give it too much prestige. Similar reasoning suggests that if Cooley went to the cabinet the prospects of getting Williams and Godfrey in the department would be lessened.

Kremlin Likely Not Too Happy

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press News Analyst
For some time now the Communist Chinese have been busily spreading propaganda that they expect soon to have a nuclear weapon. One object seems to have been to apply pressure on the Soviet Communist party and government to cough up sufficient help to get Red China into the nuclear weapons club.

What it may mean is that the Russians are letting Mao Tse-tung know Moscow may feel it self moved to take some corrective action if the Red Chinese leadership persists in upsetting the Kremlin's carefully calculated political and economic campaigns on the world stage.

Soviet Effort Doomed Before Really Begun

By DON SCHLIENZ
Another Soviet effort to discredit United Nations Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold and the U.N. effort in the Congo appears doomed before it gets off the ground.

It was a matter of weeks ago that the Soviet delegation, headed by Premier Khrushchev, launched a vigorous attack on Hammarskjold before the U.N. General Assembly. Members of the organization, however, quickly rose in defense of Hammarskjold and his work, soundly defeating the Soviet move to oust Hammarskjold.

Now the Soviets are repeating their demonstration against the Secretary-General, using as their basis the U.N. action in the Congo. Hammarskjold's direction of the Congo operation under U.N. auspices has already received the support of the majority of U.N. membership. Likewise it is obvious that the Soviet Union would like the U.N. out of the Congo in order that it might convert this emerging African nation into a Soviet puppet state.

Members of the United Nations were aware of this fact the last time Soviet representatives took Hammarskjold to task. They will not be unmindful of it as the Soviets launch their new attack against the Secretary-General. As was the case a few weeks ago, this new Soviet criticism of Hammarskjold will probably influence many smaller nations of the U.N. to side with the West rather than drawing them closer to the Soviet bloc.

Did the outcome on November 8's election suit you perfectly? Did every candidate and every issue for which you cast your ballot win? If not, citizens need not sit on their hands and wistfully hope for better luck next time—or snarl that the nation is headed toward inevitable ruin.

Moscow has given broad hints to the Chinese that it is getting rather tired of Peiping's nagging. It is rare for the official Soviet Communist newspaper, Pravda, to break into print with an ideological argument of the sort that usually is confined to the Communist family's chambers.

What it may mean is that the Russians are letting Mao Tse-tung know Moscow may feel it self moved to take some corrective action if the Red Chinese leadership persists in upsetting the Kremlin's carefully calculated political and economic campaigns on the world stage.

The 'Gift' That Stays

Every time the bloodmobile comes to town it's surprising to find so many misconceptions about the program. . . . And at a time when the "fiscal year" of the blood program is getting off to a good start in the County, it's a crying shame there are still so many who are uninformed about it.

There are bells; there is excited chatter; the rustle of paper and, some say, the clatter of their hooves on a roof. . . . But it's the music which captures attention of most people. We look forward to the traditional carols, the familiar songs of the season and the rare newcomer that somehow captures the spirit.

Opinions In Brief

"NATO's armed force is admittedly small. But its value as a rigid, unyielding symbol of resistance to Communist aggression is tremendous. Were this not so, Soviet Premier Khrushchev would not spend as much time as he does trying to undercut and destroy the organization." — Ruston (La.) Leader.

"The ultimate in men's courage should be the scent of money. Pick up a stack of new bills and take a good long sniffer. You will find a faint but very distinctive aroma. It's agreeable, too. Think of the sensation it might prove to be if captured by science and placed in a small bottle. Think of the long line of feminine charm following you if you had two drops of this on your lapel." — Charleston (S.C.) News and Courier.

"The citizen may, if he chooses, live on the sidelines "withering into an amiable ghost," Mr. Douglass and Miss McMahon observe. But to do so invites fulfillment of the warning they quote from Jose Marti: "When good men are indifferent, bad men will triumph." No prescription for curing the nation's political ills can guarantee 100 per cent success. But that which includes the essential ingredient of citizen participation certainly will come closer than those which do not.

Demo Platform Spells Changes

One of the most remarkable feats pledged the American people in the Democratic platform is a balanced budget, no rise in taxes and a surplus for reducing the national debt. . . all this despite promised expansion of housing aid, Federal aid to schools, aid to commutation, and more welfare benefits.

Sure, there's a need for greater "deposits" of blood in the centers; for national emergencies for further research. But we're concerned with our own immediate needs, and so far as blood resources are concerned Pitt County is living on a hand-to-mouth basis.

Today and tomorrow the bloodmobile is supposed to receive 20 pints . . . 120 each day. The activities connected with the Christmas parade may or may not affect today's collection. But there won't be any such excuse for Friday.

The sound of Christmas is many things, but mostly it is music. There are bells; there is excited chatter; the rustle of paper and, some say, the clatter of their hooves on a roof. . . . But it's the music which captures attention of most people. We look forward to the traditional carols, the familiar songs of the season and the rare newcomer that somehow captures the spirit.

fair share of taxation. . . by expanding the economy itself." CRACKDOWN ON EXPENSE ACCOUNTS
Later on, there is a reference to "false expense accounts" which, coupled with the paragraph above, sounds like a new drive against fictitious expense accounts. The Internal Revenue Service is currently warning business and employees that expense payments must be completely itemized, either to the employer or to the government and that unitemized amounts will be regarded as taxable income to the employee. Perhaps the Democrats plan tougher penalties.

For a while there is warmth and sentiment. My principal objection is that it goes on for so long; the carols, the songs are sung and re-sung until in the end they inspire nothing so much as a fervent wish for another season . . . and even, another place.

Don't get me wrong. I love the Christmaside; but it palls after three weeks of steady diet.

ed to encourage housing than ever before, the minimum wage was increased, a vast highway program was initiated and a large number of other benefits were bestowed. I think there will be another, even broader step, not forward but to the left. I think the Democratic platform should be considered seriously, perhaps with some fear.

Fabian Society History

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
Copyright, 1960, Kins Features Syndicate, Inc.

The term, Fabian Socialism, was used during the recent campaign and a number of readers have written to ask what it means. The Fabian Society started as a loose, discussion group in England in 1883 but the name was adopted by the group later. It means, in effect, slow Socialism. Herbert Hoover gave it the better description of creeping Socialism. The name came from the Roman General Quintus Fabius Maximus whose strategy was to go slow, to thwart the enemy and thus to thwart him down, to tire him, to defeat him by attrition. It is Socialism by trickery rather than a frontal attack. It is Socialism by disguise, by masquerade rather than by revolution.

Among the leading Fabians were George Bernard Shaw, Sidney and Beatrice Webb, H. G. Wells, Havelock Ellis. Sidney Webb once wrote of his group: "The Society exercises a considerable influence, more real than apparent, by the personal participation of its members in nearly all reform movements, as well as by their work at the Universities and in the fields of Journalism and the teaching of Political Economy. It is not, however, a numerous body, and makes no attempt to increase its numbers beyond a convenient limit."

John Maynard Keynes, a leading Fabian, came to the United States during the Roosevelt Administration and established himself in this country as a prophet whose words somehow were to be accepted as coming directly from Heaven. Keynesian Economics dominated the thinking of the Roosevelt Administration, found its place in American universities, particularly Harvard, and was subconsciously accepted by many American bankers who did not understand its purpose.

I recall that several years ago an editor questioned my use of the term Keynesian Economics which he had never known before. Nevertheless, it is Keynesian Economics based on Fabian socialism which is today taught in the leading American universities and is making a deep impression on the younger generations. No single person has influenced thinking and action in the field of economics during the past half century as has John Maynard Keynes who convinced many politicians, bankers and businessmen that his ideas formed a realistic answer to Russian Marxism. Some Americans did not recognize Fabian Socialism as a step toward the Marxian revolution. Every Fabian, from Sidney Webb on, was and is a Marxist, modified only as to pace.

John Maynard Keynes, the son of a Cambridge professor of economics, became a Fabian while a student at Cambridge University. He was a radical who opposed the private enterprise system, the religious, the press, Cambridge and national capitalism. Nevertheless, he led the Liberal Party, a characteristic of the Fabians in this country is combined with A.D.A.; that is to infiltrate and permeate the existing political parties and to go by attrition other than Socialist.

It was after World War I during which he was a cabinet member, that Keynes wrote his masterpiece, "The Economic Consequences of the Peace" which became the guide for those who believed that World War I ushered in a new period for mankind. In a subsequent work, he said:

The battle of Socialism against unlimited private profit is being won in detail hour by hour. The Fabians differ from the Communists in many respects, but essentially in timing. The Fabians, in effect, believe that instead of employing revolutionary means, violent means, they can argue and even trick mankind into accepting Socialism. In this country, many Fabians, particularly those at Harvard University and in the A.D.A., take the position that although the ideas of Keynes sound like Socialism, look like Socialism, act like Socialism, they are not Socialists in fact. It is difficult to follow their reasoning because the essence of his doctrine is that the capitalist process must be completely regulated and controlled by the State. Thus the State rather than the individual

Eddie, Liz File Big Libel Actions

NEW YORK (AP) — Actress Elizabeth Taylor and her husband, Eddie Fisher, have filed $7.25-million libel actions against eight movie and TV magazines, charging them with character damage through "lurid" headlines.

The papers in the suit were submitted Wednesday in State Supreme Court as the Fishers, in Paris, prepared to fly back to the United States today.

Louis Nizer, attorney for the couple, said they planned to appear in court in connection with the action. He set no date.

The suit accuses the magazines of acting maliciously and irresponsibly for the "crass commercial purpose" of stimulating circulation.

The suits charge that the actual stories "themselves in no way substantiated those headlines and often belied them."

Named as defendants were Official Magazines Corp., publisher of Screen Stars; Interstate Publishing Corp., publishers of Movie World; Fawcett Publications, publisher of Motion Picture; Dell Publishing Co., publisher of Modern Screen; Countrywide Publications, publisher of Movie TV Secrets; Sterling Group, Inc., publishers of Movie Mirror; and Ideal Publishing Corp., publishers of Movie Stars-TV Closeups and Movie Life.

Some of the headlines cited in the complaint:

"Eddie Named Father of Liz Child (Liza Todd)," from Modern Screen, October 1960.

"Will Liz' Children Be Taken Away From Her?" Screen Stars, October 1960.

"Is Liz Breaking Her Marriage Vows?" Movie World, November 1960.

"Liz-Eddie-Debbie: Are They Planning to Live Together?" Movie Mirror, November 1960.

"We Dare to Print the Facts, Trouble Between Liz and Eddie," Motion Picture, February 1960.

"Stephen Boyd Has Split Up Eddie and Liz!" Movie TV Secrets, December 1960.

The "teaser" headlines, the suits charge, were designed to lead the public into believing the articles would "reveal scandalous conduct."

In the court papers, Miss Taylor says some of the headlines depict her as "an experienced and shameless courtesan who engaged in acts of love-making and displays passion in public without restraint or modesty."

She also contends the headlines implied that she was an unfit mother and had committed adultery, and that as a result her children had been exposed to "the scorn and ridicule of their playmates."

Tobacco Tips

By S. J. WEEKS
Pitt County Tobacco Agent

At this season of the year tobacco farmers are beginning to make plans for producing the best possible crop of tobacco next year. The tobacco plant bed is a very important part of growing a good quality and profitable crop. A good healthy plant at transplanting time is almost imperative if the tobacco crop gets off to a good start in the field. Therefore, the importance of a good plant bed program on the farm cannot be over emphasized.

If a good plant bed site has not already been selected, this should be done immediately. Begin preparing the plant bed soil. The soil should be well pulverized prior to applying chemicals for weed and nematode control. Methyl bromide is one of the best chemicals used for nematode and weed control. Nine pounds of methyl bromide should be used for each 100 square yards of bed. When applied as a liquid the plastic covers should remain on the bed from 24 to 36 hours. When the methyl bromide is applied in the vapor form (not gas) the plastic covers can be removed six hours after application of the gas-tations have shown that when methyl bromide is heated and is applied as a vapor instead of a liquid, effective results can be obtained. By using the hot gas treatment plant beds can be treated much faster with fewer plastic covers than when applied as a liquid and given time to evaporate before removing the plastic covers.

When applying methyl bromide as a vapor a supply of hot water (at least 145 to 200 degrees F.) will be required. Vaporize the methyl bromide by puncturing the upper portion of the can with a regular applicator and submerging the can in hot water, keeping the opening in the uppermost position at all times so that only the vapor can escape through the applicator tube. The hot methyl bromide should be applied at the same rate (9 lbs. per 100 sq. yds.) as when applied as a liquid.

More complete information on the use of heated methyl bromide can be obtained from the County Agents Office.

Art Discovery In Old Warehouse

WEST STAYTON, Ore. (AP)—More than 70 years ago, when Homer Davenport was a railroad engine wiper here, he left behind evidence of the talent that made him one of America's best known cartoonists of the early 20th Century.

The evidence is a sketch of his dog Duffy, revealed when boards were pulled away from a rough inside wall at what is now a Southern Pacific warehouse.

Davenport in a book of his life once said of Duffy:

"I like him more than I did some people and he preferred me to some dogs."

Davenport was a newspaper cartoonist in the early 1900s. He died in 1912 and is buried at nearby Silverton, Ore., his home town.

Recognition For Pitt 4-H Girl

A 4-H Club member from Winterville, Bernice Chapman, will be recognized for her sewing ability at State 4-H Recognition Day to be held Saturday at A.&T. College in Greensboro.

Miss Chapman is a member of

BERNICE CHAPMAN

the Winterville Senior Club and is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willie Patrick.

In making the announcement of participation in the state program, Miss Amelia Capehart, Negro home economics agent for Pitt County, said that Bernice was successful in making 13 garments for herself. Cost of the 13 garments was valued at $2.04, but the actual value of the dresses was about $69. Miss Capehart said, which meant a savings of $38.90. In addition to the clothes Bernice made for herself, she helped make garments for members of her own family and made about 15 garments for people outside her family. By helping those outside her family, Bernice made $12.25, which she used in her clothing project.

She said the satisfaction she has received "could not be measured in terms of dollars and cents."

Others attending the Recognition Day Program will be Mrs. Willie Patrick, Mrs. P. M. Anderson and Miss Gracie M. Cheek.

Attention Drawn By Bit Of Past

BALTIMORE (AP)—You know how it is on Sundays, when the kiddies go out to the airport to watch the big jets come in? Well, don't kid yourself.

At Friendship International Airport one sunny Sunday, for instance, the eyes of young America weren't on the airliners.

The spectacle they climbed on, touched, stared at and exclaimed over was a miniature, imitation 19th Century railroad locomotive in the lobby which costs 10 cents to ride.

Winter Recess For UN, To Hear Kennedy's Views

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The General Assembly is planning an unusual winter recess to await the views of the new Kennedy administration in Washington.

The assembly, still in sort of a state of shock since Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's table-thumping antics at the start of this session, has not taken action on a single major issue in the past two months. It has given up hope of ending its business on the target date of Dec. 17.

Most delegates feel that the United States cannot make any hard decisions until Sen. John F. Kennedy takes over the presidency. They do not want the 99-nation assembly to reconvene before the middle of February.

Many hope that with a new U.S. president not bound by the commitments of the Eisenhower administration, the Soviet Union may take a more conciliatory position on its major conflicts with the United States.

So far the major accomplishments of the assembly have been the perennial decision to shelve Communist China's bid for membership and seat the Congo delegation backing President Joseph Kasavubu.

But other debates have so bogged down the schedule that night and Saturday meetings are set in the trusteeship committee and the assembly itself in a drive to clean up a bulging agenda of colonial issues before the recess in mid-December.

The assembly itself is confronted with a staggering list of 64 speakers who want a say on the Soviet proposal to abolish all colonies at once. This idea was proposed by Khrushchev during his four-week visit here.

Another of Khrushchev's ideas, a three-man board to replace Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold, has not been made into a formal proposal by the Soviets. But Communist spokesmen have taken a lot of time talking about Hammarskjold and his secretariat in various assembly committees.

Next week the Political Committee takes up the question of the Algerian rebels' six-year war for independence from France. It is likely to produce plenty of verbal fireworks, with the Soviets joining in hot and heavy against the French. The Political Committee has indicated it also plans to go on a double schedule then.

Right now the Political Committee is discussing disarmament, a question on which its members would like to hear the views of the Kennedy administration. Most delegates want to avoid voting on rival proposals at this stage.

School Squeeze Worries Church

HAVANA, Cuba (AP)—Roman Catholic Church authorities fear that Prime Minister Fidel Castro's government soon will squeeze their schools out of operation.

A top-ranking church spokesman, who declined the use of his name, said in an interview the "possibility that the University of Villanueva will be functioning six months from now" appears doubtful.

The informant suggested that the government may demand "indoctrination" courses in Cuba's private schools which Catholic institutions will not accept.

There are about 2,000 private schools in Cuba, 275 of them Catholic.

Castro recently attacked Villanueva as a "pro-Yankee" college. Opened 14 years ago as Cuba's first private Catholic university it began the year with 750 students, a drop of 200 from last year.

During this year about 300 more students have dropped out because of the exodus of upper and middle class families from Cuba.

It is financed mostly by donations and private grants, which have declined to almost nothing. Eduardo Boza Masvidal, auxiliary bishop of Havana, and its administrative staff consists almost entirely of American and Spanish priests of the Order of Saint Augustine. There are 120 lay professors, mostly Cuban.

A university spokesman suggested that the Castro attack on the university fits into a pattern to undermine church influence. He foresaw the definite possibility the government eventually will expel all foreign priests.

Giant Ear Points To The Heavens

By RALPH DIGHTON
 SAN NICOLAS ISLAND, Calif. (AP)—On this barren, gullied clod of earth 55 miles off the California coast man has cupped a giant ear to the heavens.

Today this ear, a dish-shaped antenna 60 feet in diameter, is listening to a satellite 400 miles high which photographs the world's weather and measures the heat the earth receives from the sun.

Sometime next year it will be listening to another kind of satellite—one with a man in it. This antenna and others in the network around the globe will keep ground scientists informed around the clock when America's astronauts venture into orbit.

Newsmen got their first look at this new and heretofore secret tracking facility of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration Tuesday as the robot weather man, Tiro II, made its 92nd circuit of the globe.

At the sound of an alarm, an operator seated himself at a console of flashing lights and dials with nervous needles. Centered on a small panel was a lollipop-sized "joy stick."

Grasping this control lever he swung the 11-ton dish around like a toy, picking up the satellite's signals as it whizzed over the northern horizon.

At the push of a button the 230-pound satellite began radiating pictures it had taken and stored during its previous orbit. This finished, it began chattering into the giant ear what it had learned about the way the earth absorbs and radiates the sun's heat rays. Fourteen minutes later it was all over. The satellite had rushed on beyond the southern horizon.

Fifty-five miles away, in the headquarters of the Pacific Missile Range at Point Mugu, the pictures and the infrared data had been received by microwave radio and were being processed and studied.

Within two hours, the photographs of clouds snapped by the satellite would be in the hands of Navy, Air Force and civilian weather forecasters thousands of miles away.

Fantastic as all this may seem, Tiro II actually has not accomplished much so far because one of its two TV cameras—the one which was supposed to cover an area of 30,000 square miles—isn't working properly.

Eventually after many of these satellites have been launched weathermen will know what's brewing upstairs all around the world. This will mean safer travel, quicker storm warnings and better odds that you need never be caught in the rain without a slicker.

Three Collisions In City Reported For Wednesday

John David Ehrighausen, 19, of Morehead City, was charged with failure to stop for a stop sign by investigators following a collision at the intersection of Fourth and Jarvis Sts. at 8:50 a.m. yesterday.

Officers identified the driver of the second vehicle as Larry Elmer Meeks, 47, of 206 Mumford Road.

Damage to the Ehrighausen car was set at $400 while damage to the Meeks truck was placed at $200.

No injuries were reported.

Morgan Fordam, 54, of 112 North Summit St. was charged by police with operating under the influence of alcohol following a three-vehicle collision at the intersection of Dickinson Ave. and 10th St. at 3:15 p.m. yesterday.

Investigators said the Fordham truck headed North on Dickinson Ave. struck the rear of a truck driven by William B. Kittrell, 23, of Route 3, Winterville which was stopped for a red light. The force of the impact knocked the Kittrell vehicle into the rear of a car driven by Edwin Maurice Baldree, 40, of 1501 Ragsdale Road, which was also stopped in the line of traffic.

Damage to the Baldree car was set at $75 while damage to the Kittrell truck was placed at $100, no estimate of the damage to the Fordham truck was given.

No charges were placed in a third collision which occurred at the intersection of Dickinson Ave. and Greene Sts. at 1:07 p.m. yesterday.

Officers listed driver of the two cars involved as Carson R. Jones, 52, of Falkland and Harold J. Priley, 24, of Route 1, Grimesland.

Damage to the Jones car was set at $10 while damage to the Priley auto was placed at $60.

Adult Art Craft Class To Begin

The first class of adult art crafts will begin Dec. 8, at Nichols School, according to Principal F. M. Moore.

The class will be under the supervision of Mrs. R. J. Williams, a member of the school faculty. Such items as popstickle sticks, ice cream spoons, soft drink lids, ice cream containers, paper plate, milk bottle tops, macaroni and the like will be used to make articles.

All parents of the surrounding areas are invited to attend.

Conducts Symphony In Sunday Concert

John Barnes Chance, young American composer now living in Greensboro, will conduct the East Carolina College Orchestra in a performance of his "Symphony" at a concert Sunday, Dec. 4, at 3:30 p.m. in the Wright auditorium on the college campus.

The concert, presenting the college ensemble in an afternoon of music, will be the third attraction on the 1960-1961 Entertainment Series at East Carolina. In addition to the Chance "Symphony" the orchestra will play under the direction of Donald Hayes of the college music department works by Brahms, Handel, Strauss, and others.

Chance, one of the outstanding young composers in this country, now holds a Humanities and Arts Grant from the Ford Foundation and is a "composer in residence" in Greensboro. His experience as a musician includes directing the Eighth Army Band in Korea.

Among his compositions, in addition to "Symphony," are chamber music and selections for band and orchestra. A number of his works have been performed by the Oklahoma City Symphony.

The East Carolina Orchestra is an organization of 67 members, including students and faculty members at East Carolina and other instrumentalists from Greenville and the surrounding area.

The concert will open with Brahms' "Symphony," No. 2, first movement, and will include Handel's "Water Music" and the "Emperor Waltz" by Strauss.

Of particular interest on the program will be Gould's "Declaration Suite," based on the Declaration of Independence and performed by the orchestra and a speaking chorus from Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia, national professional music fraternity for men.

Chance's appearance at East Carolina as guest conductor is sponsored by the college Entertainment Committee and the Student Government Association.

Demonstration Of Water Safety For Handicapped

A demonstration of water safety for handicapped children will be given at 9 a.m. Friday for those attending the North Carolina Association of Health, Physical Education and Recreation Annual Meeting.

The demonstration will be presented at the pool in the college gym by Guy Cutolo, director of safety services, American Red Cross, Mecklenburg County, Charlotte.

With Cutolo are identical twin brothers, one an amputee and the other a victim of cerebral palsy. The local Red Cross chapter announced that there will be a running commentary and demonstration, with some background of the swimming program and problems involved.

This program will be interesting and challenging to those who work with the physically handicapped. The public is invited to the demonstration.

One Radioactive Truck Is Stolen

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—The Atomic Energy Commission says a mildly radioactive truck was stolen Tuesday from its test site at Camp Mercury, 40 miles from here on the desert. The pickup truck, contaminated by plutonium in a 1957 safety experiment, had been parked with four other contaminated trucks in the open beside a double fence. Trucks and fence bore radiation warning signs.

The AEC said it is unlikely, however, that persons exposed to the stolen vehicle's radiation would suffer any ill effects.

The average January temperature in Santiago, Chile, is 69.3 degrees while for July it is 48.1 degrees.

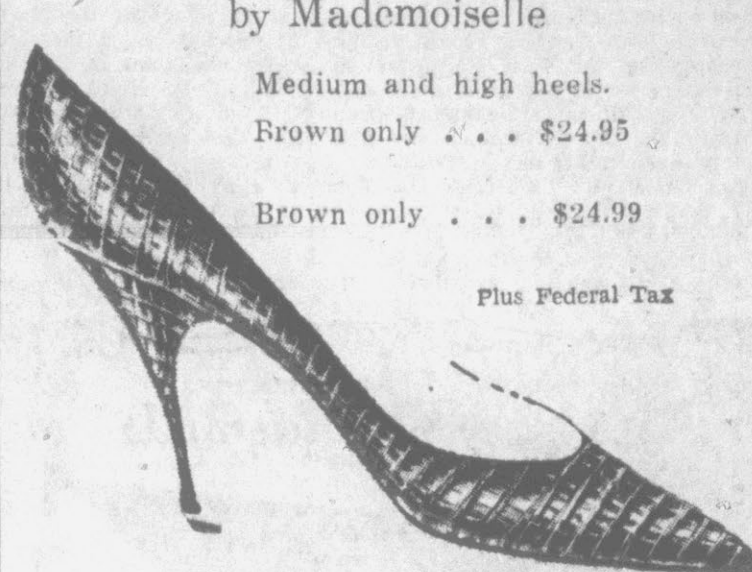

The Central American republic of El Salvador is the smallest country in the Western Hemisphere.

TRASH FIRE caught fire. Firemen were called to the 1400 block of Colonial Ave. about 9:05 a.m. today when a trash pile from the blaze which was quickly extinguished. Officers said no damage resulted.

Counterfeit $20 Bills Turn Up At Greensboro

GREENSBORO (AP)—Twelve counterfeit $20 bills have turned up in Greensboro this week at the start of the Christmas shopping season. Two men have been arrested.

One of them, Arthur Herbert Ransom, 28, waived a preliminary hearing Wednesday on charges of possessing and passing counterfeit money. He was ordered held in $10,000 bail for trial in federal court.

He said he had served two prison terms on other charges, and completed a 3-5 year sentence a week ago.

Ransom was arrested at a hotel here after a merchant identified a picture of him as the man who allegedly passed a home-made $20 bill at the store.

Richard Allen Kiese, 23, of St. Paul, Minn., was arrested Monday night on charges of possessing and passing bogus $20 bills. He also has waived preliminary hearing, and is held in $5,000 bond for federal court trial.

Escapee Caught, Again Facing Bootleg Charges

A 23-year-old Greenville Negro, who escaped from officers November 13, was taken into custody yesterday near Bells Fork on charges of possession and transportation of non-tax-paid whiskey for the purpose of sale.

Matthew "June" Hardy Jr., 612 Pamlico Ave., was placed under arrest November 13, by ABC officer H. B. Lilley and constable Levi Wilson on the charges. The officers handcuffed the man, then left the subject to collect the whiskey.

Hardy escaped and was captured yesterday near Bells Fork, by Lilley and constable William Crandel.

Officers, who placed Hardy under a $500 bond for appearance in City Court December 12, quoted the man as saying he filed the handcuffs off.

BABY SURVIVED

NEWARK, N. J. (AP)—A baby girl was delivered by Caesarean section Wednesday shortly after her mother died of a heart attack. The woman, Irene Royster, 36, suffered the attack at home. She was dead on arrival at Martland Medical Center. Dr. Jack Cohen, who performed the operation, said the baby is doing well.

Mrs. Moore's Portrait To Be Given Art Society

A portrait of Mrs. J.H.B. Moore, long active in the arts program of this community and in civic affairs, is to be presented to the East Carolina Art Society by artist William C. Fields on Saturday, Dec. 10.

The portrait will be hung in the gallery of the East Carolina Art Center, which is sponsored by the East Carolina Art Gallery for 18 years. Formerly housed in Sheppard Memorial Library, the East Carolina Art Society opened its new galleries in the Greenville Art Center last May, largely through efforts of Mrs. Moore.

This year, Mrs. Moore was made an honorary member of Associated Artists of North Carolina in recognition of her many accomplishments in her home town of Greenville and her tireless efforts on behalf of the arts throughout the state.

She has been a member of the Board of Directors of the N. C. State Art Society since 1947 and was named chairman of the art department of the N. C. Federation of Woman's Clubs in 1958. Mrs. Moore has been instrumental in the work of the Greenville Woman's Club and its establishment as the organization it now is.

The artist who painted her portrait and who will present it to the East Carolina Art Society, William Fields, was the first American artist to paint the late Pope Pius XII. This portrait has received widespread favorable comment both in this country and in Italy.

Mrs. Robert F. Wagner, wife of New York's mayor, officially opened Fields' New York show in October, 1955, in acknowledgement of the authenticity of this portrait as an original painting of the Pope. European portraits painted by Fields include Italian premier Vittorio Orlando, Italian premier

Suspension Move Is His Decision

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The president of Warner Bros. studio says he personally decided to suspend actor James Garner, of television's "Maverick" series, during a writers' strike.

Jack Warner testified Wednesday he did so after learning there were no available scripts for the series costarring Garner.

Warner Bros. is suing to force the actor to resume work under his $1,750-a-week contract. Garner contends the studio broke the contract with the two-month suspension. He asks $341,000 damages.

Sense Of Smell Brought Arrest

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Policeman Anthony Settle has a strong sense of smell and he proved it while settling a disturbance at a Phoenix tavern.

Settle broke up a fight at the tavern and on the way out took a deep sniff. He turned and walked to the rear of the bar and arrested a 32-year-old man for possession of narcotics.

The officer said he smelled burning marijuana and, on investigation, found the man had 19 marijuana cigarettes in his shirt pocket.

May Be Involved In 40 Burglaries

NEW BERN, N.C. (AP)—A parolee charged with first degree burglary may be involved in 40 burglaries in the Craven County area, Sheriff Charlie Berry said Wednesday.

Daniel Bryant was arrested Tuesday in a fingerprint check made with those found at the location of a burglary, Berry said. He added that three witnesses had identified the 27-year-old Negro.

Police said records show Bryant was sent to Hoffman Training School when he was 13, but later escaped. They also said he had been paroled from a 30-year term in an Orange County robbery.

Tiniest Baby Has Gone Home

TRACEY CITY, Tenn. (AP)—The tiniest baby ever to survive in Chattanooga's Children's Hospital beat her Christmas deadline for going home by nearly a month.

Lisa June Oliver, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Oliver, weighed only 23 ounces when she was born June 28 at nearby Palmer, Tenn. Her weight dropped to 15½ ounces soon after.

This week she tipped the scales at 3 ounces over the 5-pound minimum when hospital authorities released her.

Among North Carolinians whose portraits have been painted by Fields are Inglis Fletcher, author; Judge A. F. Seawell, for the Supreme Court; Archibald Henderson, dean of the U.N.C. School of Business Administration; Dudley DeWitt Carroll; the late Governor W. W. Williams; and Honorable Harry McMullen, attorney general of North Carolina.

Born in Fayetteville, Fields was the first student to graduate with an art degree from the University of North Carolina. He became director of the N. C. State Art Society in 1938 and was appointed assistant state director of the Federal Art Project in 1940.

Later he was awarded a full tuition scholarship to the Museum of Fine Arts, Boston, where he studied under Karl Zerbe. He now maintains a studio at his Fayetteville home on Route Five, in addition to a New York studio. He is director of the newly organized N. C. Civic Ballet Company and president of the North Carolina Symphony Board.

Special guests at the Saturday noon portrait presentation will be board members of the State Art Society; staff members of the State Museum of Art; officers of the N. C. Artists Association; Mrs.

Old Cemetery Might Tell A Lot Of Stories

TREE-LIKE MEMORIAL . . . stands here, enticing an observer into past. The inscription has receded to the point that the date is unclear. This is one of the more unusual monuments in Cherry Hill Cemetery.

A BROKEN STONE . . . lies here forgotten by those who first placed in, alone in a part of the cemetery.

By PATRICIA MOORE
Reflector Staff Writer

An old cemetery can tell a lot of stories about the families buried within it.

When they were born and when they died . . . who a second wife was . . . how many children; how many children the married daughter had, all buried in the family plot.

One stone is over 50 years old and its inscription is as clear, had it been written yesterday. It's in an old part of the cemetery.

Another is a little less than 50 years old, and its writing seems to have died itself, and is hidden within the stone which rests as a memorial.

Old parts, new parts, church parts, broken parts, a colored part. Now, all freshly cared for by Cemetery Superintendent Cecil Jones. All but broken stones, and some half buried. Some chipped forever, never to be restored.

All this in Cherry Hill Cemetery, a landmark now, and a history of Greenville. No other cemetery could hold a candlestick to it as far as atmosphere is concerned; the trend in cemeteries has changed, and they are called memorial gardens, where fountains, green grass and beautiful flowers grow as memorials, ever living. Cherry Hill, though, is steeped in history. It is one of the oldest municipal cemeteries, and probably the oldest in Greenville, next to an old one between first and second streets, which seems to have disappeared into oblivion as far as history is concerned.

Churchyard

In the year 1833, the Methodists of Greenville bought some land from a Mr. Cherry, land which now is located just off Pitt Street. It was called Saint Paul's Methodist Church and was located in what is now Cherry Hill cemetery. The church group bought a half acre of ground for the church and graveyard on May 7, 1833, according to information gathered by Wyatt Brown of Greenville, member of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church.

He notes that finally the graveyard was expanded to cover more than the half acre.

Then, not much later, an Episcopal Church was erected within the same area in 1838. It also had a graveyard. The Episcopal church was located on the grounds just to the left of the entrance, and is fronted by a brick wall dedicated to Mrs. Hattie Cotten Skinner and built in 1935.

The Methodist property began after you enter the gates of what is now Cherry Hill Cemetery.

About the 1880's, the Methodists moved from the cemetery and built elsewhere in Greenville. Their old church was given to the Methodists in Simpson, and was removed by raft from Greenville to Simpson, via the Tar River. The Episcopal congregation became St. Paul's Parish in Dec. 1, 1846 and used their original building until 1885, when it was sold to the Roman Catholics and removed to Second Street.

One can tell now, by names on the grave markers, those members of the Episcopal Church, and those of the Methodist.

William N. Moore, city clerk of Greenville, says that a 1897 minute book of the city tells a little more about Cherry Hill Cemetery, and its gradual transfer from the church graveyards to the municipal cemetery it now is. However, the records are obscure. In this old minute book, Moore found the first mention about Cherry Hill Cemetery, dated August 4, 1898: "The committee for the white cemetery shall have control and supervision of that part of Cherry Hill Cemetery set apart for the burial of colored persons."

About October 6, 1898, lots were beginning to be sold, and the cemetery was mapped out according to burial plots, Moore notes.

So, about this time, Cherry Hill became a municipal cemetery.

Years after the first churches were built, and the first graves filled, people can retrace some of the history and capture some of the past.

TV Networks About To Introduce Replacements

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Television networks, or at any rate their publicity departments, are the most affirmative-thinking, optimistic institutions since Pollyanna.

They talk up their programs as if each were a masterpiece, and then, when one proves definitely to be a dud, they beat drums for its replacement without even bothering to announce the demise of the old show.

The end of the first 13-week period of the TV season will soon be upon us, and although many shows have been bought for 26 weeks or re-signed by sponsors, a number are bound to disappear. Some fatalities have already been learned, mostly by checking schedules to find out what current shows are occupying time periods in which new shows have been set.

The new year will bring several changes to the NBC schedule. "Riverboat," which has barely managed to keep afloat during a season and a half, will be dropped in favor of "The Americans," an hour-long Civil War series.

"Dan Raven," a better-than-average police action series, and "The Westerner," a better-than-average horse opera, will depart from the Friday night lineup after 15 weeks, leaving 90 minutes which the network will fill with three half-hour situation comedies. They are "Happy," a pedestrian little show which caused little interest, as a summer replacement, "Happy Family," and the Nanette Fabray show, based on her own family life. In addition, Gene Rayburn's "Do Re Mi," a daytime audience participation show with ratings troubles, will be replaced by another fun-and-games program called "Say When," a title inviting invidious comment.

ABC is either standing pat on its schedule or isn't saying. But if anything is likely to disappear there, it is "The Islanders," an adventure series. Some others — including "Harrison and Son" and "The Roaring Twenties"—are being watched nervously.

CBS will drop "The Witness," a show based on a good idea but with mechanical troubles, and will be replaced, in a bold, original move, by an hour-long series called "Gunslinger," "Person-to-Person," now opposite the highly rated "Untouchables," is in a very shaky condition, although there is a chance it may be moved to a better spot—say opposite NBC's "Meet the Press" Sunday evening. There is also talk of moving "The Ann Sothern Show" out of competition with Elliot Ness, where it has suffered a grievous loss of audience.

Despite a pretty smug and self-important title, NBC's Tuesday night "White Paper" turned out to be a stirring, informative and carefully constructed recounting of the U2 flight of Francis Gary Powers into the Soviet and the aftermath of his capture.

The program was put together in an economical, fast-moving fashion and the commentary was crisp and brief.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—FBI agents have found another $100,000 of the ransom paid kidnapers of sportsman Anthony Alessio. To date $182,515 of the $200,000 paid has been recovered. Agents discovered the money Wednesday in a Los Angeles apartment occupied briefly by Frank Marrone, 31, one of five arrested suspects. The money was in a panel on the inside of a refrigerator door.

Alessio, kidnaped in San Diego Nov. 21, was freed unharmed after payment of the ransom.

Boy Is Winner In Style Revue

DOUGLAS, Wyo. (AP)—Boyd Bowles of Jackson was the first boy ever to compete in the Wyoming state fair 4-H style revue.

He walked off with a blue ribbon for the all-wool shirt and trousers which he made and modeled.

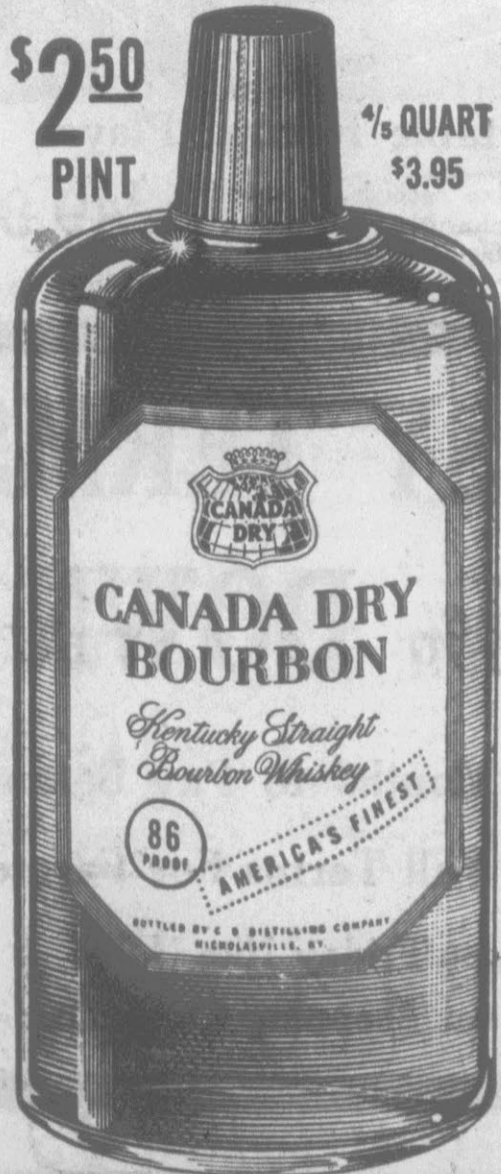

Bowles is a farm boy who has finished five years of 4-H sewing work.

LINCOLN, Ill. (AP)—Seven years ago Tommy Joe Davis was remembered by a Valentine greeting by his cousin.

He was unaware of it until August 1960, when Postmaster Floyd Durst found it in back of a post office cabinet which was being moved to make way for a new one.

East Carolina Puts Win Streak On Line Tonight In Game With The Citadel

CHARLESTON, S. C. — East Carolina will have a lot at stake when it puts a two game winning streak on the line in quest for a third victory of the season and added prestige.

The First of Coach Earl Smith tangle with The Citadel of the Southern Conference and the game is expected to be a true test for East Carolina's highly-touted cagers.

Most of all, Smith and his round ballers have their reputation to think about tonight. Last season East Carolina was humiliated on the hardwood by a weak U. of Richmond crowd.

Smith likes to think of it as a "slip-up". East Carolina followed it up with some impressive games, including a seven game winning streak.

The East Carolina coach is hopeful of proving the gap of Southern Conference basketball and North State dribbling is a narrow one. He figures his club to be at a high pitch for the Bulldogs.

And too, a victory over The Citadel would add another talking point in EC's bid for Southern Conference entrance coming on the heels of a football upset of U. of Richmond.

It will be a veteran five that takes the floor tonight. A club that picked up momentum in crubbing Guilford, 86-69, after

Bruins Finish Second In Poll

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Three teams with 10-0 records headed the Associated Press small college football final poll today, but Ohio University was named champion on the strength of a stronger schedule.

Bobcats, coached by William R. Hess, took half the eight first-place votes submitted by selectors from the eight NCAA districts. Lenoir-Rhyne of Hickory, N.C., was second and Humboldt (Calif.) State was third.

The Bobcats, from Athens, Ohio, play most of their games within the Mid-American Conference, but defeated Dayton 28-0, Boston University 36-6 and Xavier of Ohio 6-0.

Coach Earl Smith may not decide on his starting center until just prior to the game. He has Benny Bows ready to start at either the pivot or forward and Bill Otte, a freshman, has been a big gun thus far this

Pacific Coast Plans Operation

LOUISVILLE, 71 (AP) — The minor league baseball map in 1961 probably will stretch from Honolulu to San Juan, Puerto Rico.

The Pacific Coast League announced Wednesday it plans to operate in Honolulu next season although several arrangements have to be completed, such as park lease and transportation.

Dewey Soriano, league president, said three unidentified groups were interested in the proposition.

The league has an option to buy the Sacramento club for $55,000. This would be transferred to Honolulu when the ownership problem is settled.

Honolulu is about 2,450 miles from San Francisco—4 1/2 hours by jet. Soriano estimated the additional travel costs, to be paid by the Honolulu owners for all visiting clubs, would be about $80,000.

The International League announced earlier in the week the transfer of its Miami franchise to San Juan. A league committee will go to Syracuse, N.Y., Wednesday elected Tommy Rich as a possible site for the Montreal franchise.

The International League Wednesday to look into that city ardon president to succeed Frank Shaughnessy, who has retired. Richardson, 65, has been president of the Eastern League for 26 years. He received a one-year contract at $15,000.

KROGHIE ANDRESEN

College Season Opens Tonight

By TED MEIER Associated Press Sports Writer The "new look" college basketball season officially opens tonight in all parts of the country.

Last year the headlines went for the most part to Oscar Robertson of Cincinnati, Jerry West of West Virginia, Jerry Lucas of Ohio State, Darral Imhoff of California, Lennie Wilkens of Providence, Lee Shaffer of North Carolina, Tom Sanders of NYU, Tony Jackson of St. John's and Tom Stith of St. Bonaventure.

Whether the Texas Aggies will threaten Texas for the Southwest Conference championship depends a lot of Qualls. He plays his first varsity game tonight, against Trinity of Texas.

The top opening night game is the Ohio State encounter with Ohio University. This will be the first appearance of the Buckeyes since they won the NCAA championship last March by beating California.

Other top games find Bradley at Minnesota, Virginia Military at Kentucky and Utah at Los Angeles Loyola.

This trio of games should provide some indication of whether Bradley, the NIT champ, will succeed Cincinnati as champion in the Missouri Valley Conference; whether Utah will win the Skyline crown; and whether Kentucky will regain the top in the Southeastern Conference.

Virtually all major teams in the country will be in action by Saturday night.

Major Felix (Doc) Blanchard, former Army All-America, is on duty with the U.S. Air Force in England.

In Rocky Mount Tomorrow Night

Phants Open Cage Season

By JOHNNY HUDSON Reflector Sports Editor

Little Jack Horner sat in corner eating his Christmas pie. He put in a thumb, pulled out a plum and said, "What a good boy am I."

Coaches Bill Lundy of Rocky Mount and Bo Farley of Greenville might not have this nursery rhyme in mind while planning coaching strategy but the victorious tutor in tomorrow night's cage debut might easily express the win in the above Mother Goose tale.

On the eve of the non-conference cage opener in Rocky Mount, both coaches contend, after two off-interrupted weeks of practice, that their club is an unknown quality. And both tutors will see their starting lineup weakened due to football obligations.

Layne Jorgensen, Greenville's rugged center and top rebounder, and the Blackbirds' captain and guard, Ronnie Jackson, will be combining football talents Saturday, hoping to help North Carolina capture a victory in the Shrine Bowl classic in Charlotte.

Both clubs will suffer from their absence tomorrow night but the height of Jorgensen may weigh heavier in the final count.

Lundy figures "it will be impossible to know much about our club until we have played somebody." Farley is in like accordance but has been impressed with the spirit and progress made so far by his hoopsters.

Greenville, short on depth and also lacking height, will channel its pre-Christmas action to non-conference competition. Playing at Rocky Mount in an 8:00 match tomorrow night, the Phants remove the lid on their home season Tuesday against the same Blackbirds.

"We have only six or seven boys we can count on right now," says Farley. Included in Farley's plans are four boys—Erskine Duff, Kroghie Andresen, Billy James and Alan McArthur—who saw regular duty last winter.

Also expected to be inserted into tonight's starting lineup is John Bynum at center. Bynum is also a holdover from the 1959-60 club.

With height a definite problem, Farley hopes to utilize the speed of his club.

While Jackson continues in football, Rocky Mount will bank on sophomore forward Danny Talbott to provide the scoring punch. Others who may get into the Rocky Mount act tonight will be Monk Quincy, Tom Parrish, Rickey Creech and John Griffin.

Creech stands at 6-2 and Griffin is 6-1. Talbott, according to Lundy, has been the 'Birds' leading rebounder thus far. He stands only 5-10.

For Little All-American

Glenn Bass Mentioned In Voting

By JACK CLARY NEW YORK (AP)—A line that averages 220 pounds and a backfield that gained over three miles in yardage this season highlight the 1960 Little All America selected by The Associated Press.

Center Dick Greenl, a 233-pound senior center from Ohio University and already drafted by the Cleveland Browns, and Doug Brown, a 246-pound guard from Fresno State, drafted by both the National Football League's Los Angeles Rams and Dallas of the American League, head the line.

They are joined by a repeater from the 1959 team, end Tom Hackler, a 212-pounder from Tennessee Tech, and Erie, Tenn.

Dale Mills, a senior from Northeast Missouri State Teachers who gained 1,343 yards this season and has a career total of 4,502, heads the "traveling" backfield. Mills career total easily better the record of 3,943 established by Luther College's Brad Husted.

He is a Columbia, Mo., native. The quarterback is Paul Terhes, a senior from Bucknell, and halting from Milmont, Pa. He is tabbed an almost sure-shot to make the pros after completing 87 of 155 passes for 981 yards and nine touchdowns this year. In addition he gained 141 yards running and scored 26 points. Charles (Tornado) Fuller of San Francisco State and Muskingum's Bill Cooper round out the backfield. Fuller, from Vallejo, Calif., had a 7.2-yard average as he gained 892 running and another 182 passing.

The other end is John Simko, from Augustana, in South Dakota. The Sioux Falls, S. D., native, a senior who weighs 190, snagged 12 passes during a rain-drenched game this year against North Dakota.

The tackles — a pair of 220-pounders — are Chattanooga's Charles Long and Willie Crafts from Texas A&M. Long is a senior from Fayette, Ala., while Crafts is a junior and comes from Brownsville, Tex.

Brown, from Long Beach, Calif., is joined at guard by George Asleson of Iowa State Teachers from Charles City, Iowa. He weighs 210 and is a senior.

Greenl, who is on the East squad in the annual East-West game, also bulwarked the unbeaten Ohio University team that beat two major opponents in addition to winning the Mid-America Conference title.

The second team is composed of Powell McClellan, Arkansas Tech and Wagner's Al Ferrie, ends; Vester Flanagan of Humboldt State and Jim Larkin of Hillsdale, tackles; Louisiana Tech Joe Hinton and Houston Antwine of Southern Illinois, guards; Curtis Miranda, Florida A&M, center; and Whitworth's Dennis Spurlock, Lee Farmer of Lenoir Rhyne, Bernie Casey of Bowling Green and West Chester's Joe Iacone in the backfield.

The scores of players named for honorable mention included Ed Haupt, tackle from Lenoir Rhyne, and Glenn Bass, back from East Carolina.

North Carolina Shrine Coach Has End Standouts

CHARLOTTE (AP) — "All the halfbacks are about equal," says Coach John McKissick of South Carolina's 1960 Shrine Bowl all-star football team.

The Summerville High School coach said Wednesday that John Johnson of Winnsboro appears to be in line to be the No. 1 fullback. But at the halfbacks, Billy Ward of Columbia Eau Claire, Harold Rowe of Georgetown, Mike Derrick of Columbia Brooklyand-Cayce and Tony Lewis of Darlington all are bidding hard for the two starting spots.

McKissick says Jim Tom Oliver of Orangeburg and Jerry Priestley of North Augusta give the Saddlepoppers two good quarterbacks. A hulking 222-pound fullback, Randall Bunch of Bamberg, has an injured leg muscle and hasn't ran since Monday.

North Carolina Coach Gus Purcell of Charlotte says of his foe, "I've heard they are bigger and stronger. But we've tried to work about equally on running and passing."

Many observers who have seen both teams workout feel the South Carolinians will offer a heavy, eager squad while the Tar heels have a lighter and faster outfit.

Purcell has four of the best high school ends in North Carolina — Gary Williams of Charlotte Harding, Jim Sweezy of Hickory, Glen Fogle of Charlotte Garinger and Steve Holloway of Elkin.

And in the backfield, quarterback Gary Black of Charlotte Garinger is believed equal to anything the South Carolinians can offer. King Triplett, 175-pounder from Boone and Gene Lenhour, 195-pound fullback from Statesville are speedsters and in line for offensive starting assignments.

The 24th annual Shrine Bowl game will be played Saturday in Memorial Stadium. Some 20,000 fans are expected.

GREENVILLE END—Layne Jorgensen, Rose High senior, will be a member of the North Carolina squad which meets South Carolina in the Shrine Bowl at Charlotte tomorrow. Jorgensen was a standout on the foe 1960 Phantom club which posted a 9-1 record.

Robinson Will Have To Score KO In 5 Rounds

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sugar Ray Robinson will have to knock out Gene Fullmer within five rounds if he is to capture the National Boxing Association version of the world middleweight title.

That was the consensus today as the two battlers took matters easy and speculation continued over their 15-round fight to be nationally televised Saturday night in the Sports Arena.

Close observers of Robinson in his boxing drills at Gilman Hot Springs, 70 miles east of here, feel that the 39-year-old New York veteran still packs a lethal left hook.

There is some doubt about what was once the most feared left-right combination in the business, and the once fine right-hand punch.

The only knockout in Fullmer's career was registered by Robinson in five rounds in 1957 in the Garden for the championship.

"No, it was not a lucky punch," the victim recalled. "It was well timed, well executed."

Fullmer, 29, from West Jordan, Utah, smiled. "I don't say he can't do it again because he can, but I'll be a little more alert and cautious, knowing what he can do," he said.

Dick Sisler, whose 1950 home run won the National League pennant for the Phils, will coach with Cincinnati in 1961.

Money Problems Confront ACC

GREENSBORO (AP) — Money problems connected with bowl game receipts shape up as the major hurdle confronting the Atlantic Coast Conference at its fall meeting here Friday.

A suggested revision of the formula pertaining to the division of a school's bowl game receipts is the lone major item on the agenda.

A committee headed by Clemson's Frank Howard, an old hand at bowl excursions, has been studying the problem since it was commissioned last spring.

The Howard group would have the conference assure a school whose team takes part in a post-season football game a greater share of the receipts to meet its expenses.

Currently, an ACC member with a bowl team retains half its share of the receipts and turns over the remainder to the conference and its membership.

The Howard committee would relax this formula to the extent that it would apply only in the event the bowl check turned over to the competing school exceeded $200,000.

Lenoir Rhyne Preps For N. Michigan

HICKORY, N.C. (AP) — The Northern Michigan College football team is due here early this afternoon for its Saturday NIAA Eastern playoff date with Lenoir Rhyne College.

The winner advances to the St. Petersburg, Fla., Holiday Bowl game Dec. 10. The other bowl team will be determined Saturday at Arcata, Calif., when Humboldt State of California meets Whitworth of Spokane, Wash.

Northern Michigan, ranked 11th in the NIAA ratings, brings an 8-1 record into the game against top-ranked Lenoir Rhyne, which has won 10 in a row.

Northern Michigan, with a tackle to tackle lineup averaging 220 pounds, has a high-scoring powerhouse that averaged 33 points a game and 328 yards on total offense while limiting the opposition to 210.

Gene Valesano, a 205-pound junior fullback, netted 615 yards in 105 rushes to lead the running game.

Two other junior backs played vital roles in helping set the top record in the Marquette, Mich., school's history. Quarterback Frank Novak threw 12 touchdown passes and hit 43 of 88 passes for 765 yards. Halfback Paul D'Arras is the top scorer with 78 points but 14 other players had a hand in the scoring for Coach Frosty Ferzacca's Wildcats.

After losing to Youngstown, Ohio, 49-26, in its third game, Northern Michigan closed with 6 victories, 4 of them shutouts.

Coach Clarence Stasayich's Lenoir Rhyne team won the North State Conference crown for the sixth year in a row on a total offense average of 327 yards a game against 187 for the opposition.

Fullback Richard Kemp, with 66 points, and tailback Lee Farmer, with 58, topped the scoring. Five backs ran for better than 450 yards. Kemp led them with 622, followed by Farmer's 528 and Tony McClamrock's 319.

Farmer, second team Associated Press Little All American choice, led the passers with 73 complete in 74 attempts for 491 yards. McClamrock was a worthy relief man, hitting 29 of 71 for 492 yards and eight touchdowns against three interceptions.

An injury curtailed Farmer's activity, but he ran for 1,009 yards despite the setbacks.

A crowd of about 7,000 is expected for the game which starts at 2 p.m.

Baseball Heads Back In Huddle

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick and the president of the American and National leagues went back into another secret huddle today in an attempt to iron out expansion woes but with a promised news blackout whatever the decision.

The 10-team American League for 1961 was the problem before Frick and American League President Joe Cronin and National League President Warren Giles. The Los Angeles situation, with Walter O'Malley of the National League's Dodgers blocking the way, was the center of the roadblock.

"There will be no statement of progress," said a spokesman for Frick.

A baseball rule providing that unanimous agreement must come from the 16 major league clubs before one league can invade a city with a big league club is the fly in the ointment.

The American League recently suggested that it go into Los Angeles next year, with a 10-team circuit. The Washington Senators' franchise is off to Minneapolis-St. Paul, with a new group of owners ready to open shop in the nation's capital.

The junior circuit also proposed an interleague schedule for 1961, delaying for a year the Los Angeles invasion, but the National League majority appears definitely opposed. So, the American League has gone back to the 10-team idea for 1961.

O'Malley, who shifted the Dodgers to Los Angeles from Brooklyn, is opposed to two major league teams in that city until the new Chavez Ravine Stadium is completed.

By STERLING F. GREEN
WASHINGTON (AP)—"The nation is in great danger. Communist aggression and subversion threaten all that we seek to do both at home and abroad."

With that warning, the President's Commission on National Goals has underscored its call to Americans to shoulder still heavier burdens of armament and foreign aid in the 1960s.

In a soberly phrased section titled "Goals Abroad," the commission's report—placed this week in the hands of both President Eisenhower and President-elect John F. Kennedy—recommends this posture for the United States in the coming decade:

1. A "substantial increase" in foreign aid, shared equitably by the larger free nations.

The growth rate of the underdeveloped countries would be doubled—from 2 per cent to 4 per cent annually—within five years, the commission said.

This can be accomplished if the efforts of the poorer nations themselves are bolstered by an 8 per cent increase in foreign investment, both public and private, by the United States and other industrialized countries.

"The U. S. share of such an effort would require by 1965 an outflow of $5 billion to $5.5 billion a year of public and private capital, as compared with $3.4 billion a year in the 1956-59 period," the commission estimated.

2. A step-by-step, reciprocal lowering of tariffs and import quotas by the United States and other industrial powers.

Two provisions which protect domestic industry from lower-cost foreign competition, the "peril point" and "escape clause" sections of the Trade Agreements Act, may have to be changed because they prevent further lowering of U. S. tariffs on some commodities, the commission said.

"We should seek this goal while safeguarding the national economy against market disruption against destructive competition as

U. S. overseas information programs; encouraging "far larger numbers of qualified Americans to live and work abroad"; developing better coordination of all existing aid programs, including those of international organizations; and devising "new forms of cooperation" to industrialize the poorer countries, in which those countries themselves would have opportunity to participate.

Of the over-all problem, the report said: "The power and opportunities of the Sino-Soviet nations are such that it will be a major task to prevent their expansion in the coming decade.

"Nevertheless, we must never lose sight of our ultimate goal: to extend the opportunities for free choice and self-determination throughout the world.

"We must stand firm wherever, as in Berlin, our commitments and interests are squarely opposed to those of the Soviets.

"A secure deterrent is essential. We must be ready to make the sacrifices necessary to meet the rising costs of such military capabilities. We should be prepared to negotiate on any reasonable basis."

nationalist view on issues over which legislators are bound to clash in the 87th Congress as they have in the past several congresses.

The bipartisan, 11-member commission of leaders in industry, science, labor, education, and public affairs, called for these measures to bolster the economy of the West under cold war conditions:

1. A "substantial increase" in foreign aid, shared equitably by the larger free nations.

"We should seek this goal while safeguarding the national economy against market disruption against destructive competition as

U. S. overseas information programs; encouraging "far larger numbers of qualified Americans to live and work abroad"; developing better coordination of all existing aid programs, including those of international organizations; and devising "new forms of cooperation" to industrialize the poorer countries, in which those countries themselves would have opportunity to participate.

Of the over-all problem, the report said: "The power and opportunities of the Sino-Soviet nations are such that it will be a major task to prevent their expansion in the coming decade.

"Nevertheless, we must never lose sight of our ultimate goal: to extend the opportunities for free choice and self-determination throughout the world.

"We must stand firm wherever, as in Berlin, our commitments and interests are squarely opposed to those of the Soviets.

"A secure deterrent is essential. We must be ready to make the sacrifices necessary to meet the rising costs of such military capabilities. We should be prepared to negotiate on any reasonable basis."

Dead Fly Foils Rainfall Gauge

CRIPPLE CREEK, Colo. (AP)—A 10-minute rain fell on this old gold mining town. The town's rain gauge measured a quarter of an inch. However, re-examination disclosed a dead fly in the gauge. Correction was made to show the official rainfall was only one-eighth of an inch.

FOR DISARMAMENT

MIDDLETOWN, Conn. (AP)—A group of Wesleyan University students and residents of Middletown will begin a week-long nonviolent demonstration Friday night to rally support for general disarmament.

MARTINIS OR NOODLES—English aristocrat Tony Moynihan, shown beating bongo drums in a Tokyo club for his Pakistani wife, has challenged reviewer Al Ricketts of Pacific Stars and Stripes newspaper to a duel. Ricketts wrote that Amina's belly dancing was routine. Moynihan, heir of Baron Moynihan of Leeds, demanded the duel in a letter to Ricketts. The reviewers said he would accept—maybe—if the choice of weapons was between martinis and cold noodles. (AP Wirephoto)

Cotton Acreage Allotments Soon

Acreage allotments for the 1961 upland cotton crop are now being established for all the eligible farms in Pitt County, according to J. Lyman Edwards, Chairman of the County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee. Each cotton farmer will be notified by mail of the acreage allotment applicable to his farm well before the December 13 marketing quota referendum. If marketing quotas are approved in the referendum farm operators who plant within their acreage allotment will be eligible for price support at the full level available for the crop—not more than 90 nor less than 70 per cent of parity in 1961. If quotas are not approved in the referendum price support to complying farmers will drop to 50 per cent of parity, as directed by law. According to the chairman, the total 1961 allotment available for distribution within the state is apportioned among counties and the county allotment of 9,004 acres is apportioned among farmers according to provisions of the Secretary of Agriculture. The county allotment is divided among farms on which cotton was planted or regarded as planted in 1958, 1959, or 1960. The county committee is permitted a small reserve for adjusting allotments for "old" cotton farms and for hardship cases. In distributing the acreage reserve, the county committee considers the type and productivity of the soil, crop rotation, the labor and equipment available for cotton production, past cotton production, and other factors.

SOMETHING FISHY WATERBURY, Conn. (AP) — Dorothea Loughran's car had been stalled off and on for the past month. Finally, after having checked everything else, garage-men removed the gasoline tank and inspected it. Inside they found a 7-inch trout. No one seemed to know how it got there.

Focus On Health

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Doctors this week report on silent heart attacks, empty injections for high blood pressure, and what makes a leader. Phony Drug Injections of a placebo—a solution having utterly no drug action—have reduced blood pressure for three years in a number of patients, and worked about as well as shots of a real drug given to others. Oddly, placebos taken by mouth did not reduce blood pressure, University of Mississippi researchers report. Silent Hearts Heart attacks can occur without a person's knowledge. A survey of middle-aged men living in cities finds 10 to 15 per cent of mild heart attacks can happen with no symptoms of pain or distress. Later, electrical readings of the heart gave the clue these men must have had a blockage of coronary arteries. Regular electrocardiogram check-ups might detect a significant number of such silent heart attacks, and the victims might benefit from treatments designed to prevent further attacks, a Chicago research team suggests. Sensitivity to Anesthetics Local anesthetics can cause sensitivity or allergic-type reactions, says an American Medical Association consultant. Such flare-ups are more likely to happen when the anesthetic is applied locally to the skin, rather than when injected. The pain-killing procaine, and related drugs, are among those which sometimes cause reactions after repeated application, he says. Leaders' Minds What elements makes a man a leader? Research could learn why, and could also study the stresses to which administrators and policy-makers are subjected, a World Health Organization Expert Committee on Mental Health suggests. Some committee members wonder whether the stresses of being a leader are just too much for normal people, and so whether some leaders may be persons with psychopathic make-up. Comparisons of leaders in various countries could be illuminating, they think. Illness Rampant To a greater or lesser extent, practically everyone has some chronic ailment, says Dr. Paul Chodoff of Washington, D. C. After age 40, practically everyone has some minor-to-serious ailment which he will carry to the grave. But so, also, do the millions under that age. How the "well" people regard the obviously chronically sick or unfit affects attitudes and behavior of the disabled, he adds. The presumably healthy ones can look upon the obviously ill people with disdain, with indifference, cruelty, too much sympathy, with prying curiosity, or with pseudo-helpfulness which prevents the disabled from doing as much for themselves as they might otherwise do.

Beauties Of 5 Communities In Grifton Parade

GRIFTON—Beauty queens from five communities in this area will participate in Grifton's Christmas parade, scheduled for the afternoon of Friday, Dec. 9. Chairman of arrangements, Jimmy Herring, said beauty queens from Contentnea, Vanceboro, Wheat Swamp, Grifton and Kinston had accepted invitations to ride in the parade. Bands scheduled so far to participate include the Lenoir County Marching Band, South Ayden Band and Grifton High School Band. At least eight to ten floats will be included. The parade will begin at the Grifton School, and continue down to Queen Street. It will travel from Queen down to Tucker Brothers, enter Highway 11 and then turn back and end at the school building. The V.F.W. color guard will also participate in the parade, which is expected to attract a large crowd, Herring said. Children on bicycles, ponies and with other animals may also participate, Herring added. Prizes will be offered for the best floats, but floats will not be classified. Prizes are $25 for first place, $15 for second place and $10 for third place. Judges are to be announced. Working with Herring on parade arrangements are Archie Rogers, Ed Casey and Walter Murphey. The parade is sponsored by the merchants of Grifton.

Four Breaks For Queen Of Roses

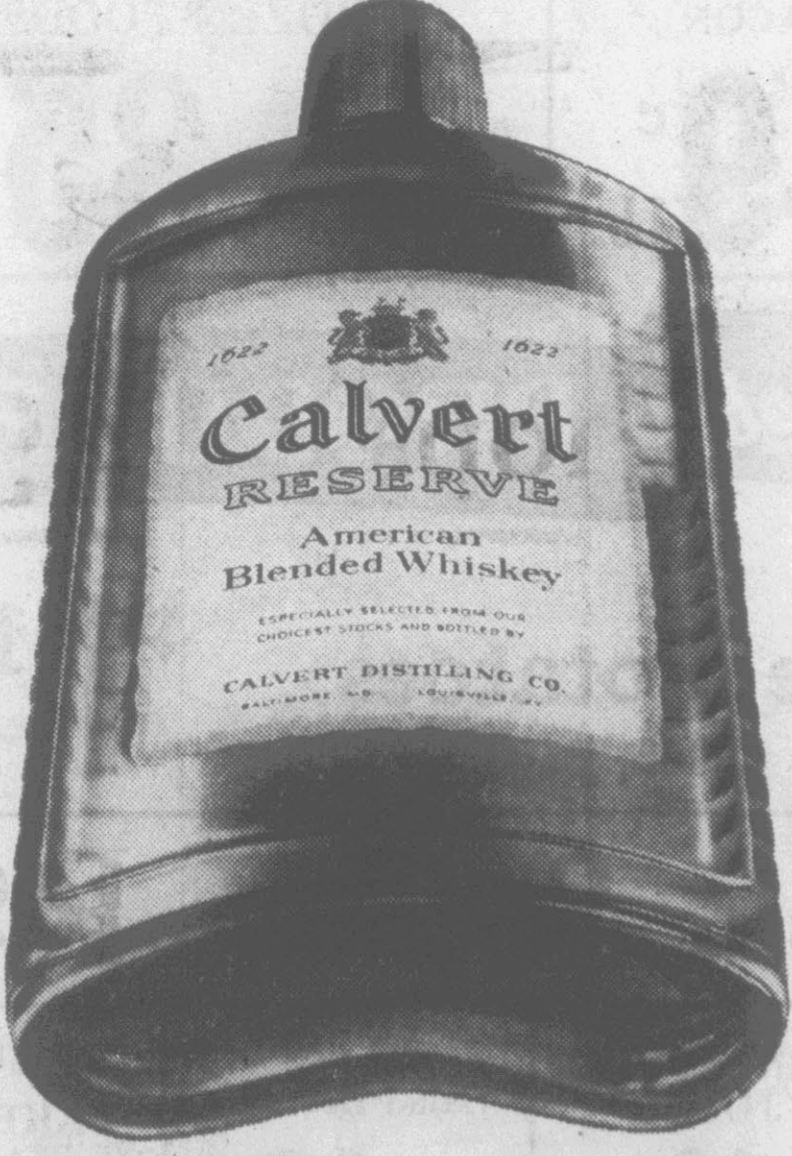

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—The world is suddenly a bed of roses for a girl who has suffered four broken noses. She is Carole Anne Washburn, a dimpled 18-year-old who will be crown of the 1961 Tournament of Roses. She was selected Wednesday to reign over the Rose Parade and the Minnesota-Washington Rose Bowl football game Jan. 2. Carole, a freshman at Pasadena C. College, is 5 feet 8, weighs 127 pounds, has hazel eyes and auburn hair, and measurements of 35-24-34. She suffered her first broken nose in a fall from a teeter-totter. I happened again when a boy hit her with a rock, again when she fell downstairs and the last time in a dive into the shallow end of a swimming pool. You could never tell it.

Victim's Jewels Are Not Found

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Only $4,000 to $5,000 worth of Jayne Librace's jewelry was found with her remains in plane crash wreckage this week, attorneys for her estate report. When the former wife of violinist George Liberace disappeared last May 15, attorney Lloyd Saunders said he believed $43,000 in jewelry listed in a will was either with her or in a safe deposit box. The box was opened and revealed nothing, he said Wednesday. The private plane crashed near Mt. Wilson, but the wreckage was not found until Monday. Mrs. Librace, 42, and three other persons were killed. There is a statue of the "Angel Caldo" (Fallen Angel) in the main park of Madrid, Spain.

Film Producers Deny Moral Sag

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (AP)—"We do not agree that Hollywood has made a 'bold and unprecedented' departure from previously accepted moral standards," says the Association of Motion Picture Producers. The association commented Wednesday on a statement issued in Washington in which a committee of bishops urged the 40 million U.S. Roman Catholics to stay away from movies not meeting acceptable standards. "We do not agree that 'objectionable films' have created a 'national crisis,'" the producers' statement said. "We do not agree that the production code administration is 'presently ineffective.' The facts do not support any such conclusion."

JAMES KEENE'S New Historical Novel IRON MAN, IRON HORSE

Colonel Dawson offered Ben Holliday his hand, then turned as Lieutenant Gary came up with Betty Singer. "We found her on the prairie," Dawson explained. "When it got dark, I lost my sense of direction," Betty said. Jim Bender stepped out of the shadows and she straightened a slight bit. "Hello, Jim."

"Come on," Bender said softly, taking her arm. "I'll get you some coffee." He glanced toward Dawson briefly. "The reason you rode or through is because they wanted you here in the morning. I guess they must expect some friends tonight."

"That's a grizzly thought," Dawson said. "From the fires, I'd say there were a hundred now." He looked around to find Ben Holliday, but he was already moving off to catch up with Bender and Betty Singer.

"I don't want to intrude on you two," Holliday said, taking Betty's free arm. "But what are you doing out on the prairie with an Indian scare in full swing?"

"Coming here," she said softly. "I've changed my mind, Jim." She looked around at him when she spoke. "Is it too late?"

"Never too late," he said. "We'll talk about it over coffee." He went inside the cook tent; it was vacant, but a fire in the sheet-iron stove kept the coffeepot warm. He poured for the three of them, then stood with his back

"Out. Forth-six, counting the cook, and the colonel's detail." He gave his waxed mustache a swirl. "Well, m'sieu, it might be more florid to do outnumbered than the other way around."

"I'm too old to die," Cameron Dawson said, smiling. "Just getting to the point where life is He slapped his lean stomach. "We'll be smart to get some sleep. Breakfast ought to be an hour or so before dawn, Holliday. We'll all fight better on a full stomach."

Holliday and DuJoise settled down in the cab of the engine, stretching out on the steel floor with only a blanket to soften it. "It is sad to think of," DuJoise said, "but before this day, your plan for making peace held some hope; there was only the railroad for them to forget. But now, there's going to be dead brothers to forget. I'm afraid there won't be any peace, m'sieu."

"A man can't have everything," Ben Holliday said. "Bender seems to have," DuJoise said. He turned his head and peered at Holliday. "He's a wandering man these last few years. I know him well enough to say that. He loves the singer woman. Maybe she loves him too, or she wouldn't have come here."

"She didn't know he was here," Holliday said. "So? He was here." He lay back hands behind his head then he suddenly reared erect, as did Holliday. Out on the flats, from the Indian camp, came the rattle of small-arms fire and the whooping surprise of many men.

One of the railroaders, started from his sleep, panicked and yelled. "Attack!"

Instantly Jim Gary's shrill voice shouted, "Quiet that man knock him out if you have to!"

The soldiers maintained order and Colonel Dawson came up; they stood there together and studied the fight taking place out there. It was too far to distinguish even the shadows of mounted men, but they could see the lance of bright muzzle flares as the fight grew hot, then dropped off to a spasmodic shooting.

"What the hell caused that?" Dawson asked absently. "If I didn't have better sense, I'd say a force rode through the Indian camp."

"Riders coming!" A guard shouted this, then the sound of mounted men approaching grew louder. Holliday grabbed up his rifle and ordered a bright fire built up. The guards let them through, eleven Texans; a few horses with empty saddles tagged along.

Murray Singer flung off and his face was gray in the firelight; he shook his head like a man struck numb. "We lost twelve men at least. Carl, for Heaven's sake, find out how many. Vale? Where's Vale?" He looked around for the man and saw that he was gone. "Dead? Hell, I didn't think there was more than forty-fifty. A hundred anyway."

His attention focused on Ben Holliday and a smear of anger came into Murray's eyes. "You

Nat'l Guard General Pushes Idea Of Total Defense

By JAMES E. COOK
SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (AP)—Maxwell E. Rich, who was a salesman long before he became a major general, is in the midst of one of his hardest merchandising jobs. To his mind, it's the most vital of all.

Rich, adjutant general of Utah, calls his product "total defense."

"When they drop the bomb," he explains, "it will be damned hard to tell the difference between civil defense and any other kind."

The Adjutants General Association of the United States has named Rich chairman of a committee to determine how the National Guard can make the most of its abilities as a survival, recovery and fighting force in the event of nuclear war. He hopes to report by next spring.

The association then will try to sell the program to military and congressional leaders.

"If a well-trained rifle squad came through Emigration Canyon right now, we wouldn't have enough small arms ammunition for more than a three-hour fight," says Rich.

The National Guard is issued enough .30-caliber ammunition only to keep its members qualified with small arms, and to meet local emergencies. There probably isn't a round of artillery ammunition within 500 miles.

Rich and his organization disagree sharply with the philosophy that an all-out nuclear attack will destroy both the attacked and the attacker. They feel that a majority of Americans—and thus a majority of National Guardsmen—would survive even the most severe attack.

"Certainly we feel that with units in 2,500 communities, it will be impossible to completely knock out our organization," Rich says.

Rich is the second Maj. Gen. Rich to be placed in charge of Utah's defenses since the Utah militia was born as the Mormon's Nauvoo Legion. His great-grandfather, Maj. Gen. Charles C. Rich, was one of Brigham Young's apostles. Among other distinctions the great-grandfather had six wives and 52 children.

The current Gen. Rich, now 47, has been a National Guardsman for 28 years, and adjutant general since 1953.

Dispersal is one of the key selling points for the guard as a total defense force. For 300 years, the militia has grown up in rough proportion to America's population.

Each governor is commander in chief of the National Guard of his state, until it is federalized. Should the chain of command from the Pentagon be snapped, a new chain of command would begin in the office of each governor.

Rich has divided big, sparsely populated Utah into seven regions, each the command area of a guard battalion. His committee will recommend that supplies not only be cached in each state, but distributed strategically to command posts within each state.

"With things like ammunition and gasoline, we will have to have them on hand already," Rich says. "because when the bombs drop, we won't have a chance to get them here."

The other problems are communications—now being worked out in Utah—and transportation, which also will require federal help.

Ending his second term as president of the Adjutants General Association last May, Rich summarized the goal of his committee—to provide a plan so that "in an emergency we will not be waiting for orders from some agency in Washington before we begin to dig ourselves out and rebuild for attack—for orders might never come."

Ceramic Artists Exhibiting Work

By TRAN GORDLEY
Two ceramic artists, Dr. Kenneth Beittel and Dr. Robert Berkhart, have their works displayed at the Greenville Art Center. A sampling of the show may be seen in the display cases at the entrance to the Rawl Building at East Carolina College. The art department at the college is sponsoring this pottery exhibit in cooperation with the Greenville Art Center.

Dr. Beittel teaches at Pennsylvania State University, State College, Pennsylvania. Dr. Berkhart teaches at Central Michigan University, Mount Pleasant, Michigan. These two artists operate a studio pottery each summer.

The pottery on display in the Art Center shows variety in size, shape, and approach to the function of the object. Of particular interest is a collection of candlesticks. Others are more exciting in regard to the daring height achieved by means of piling up clay forms on top of one another. This technique produces an interesting surface quality which is sculptural in effect. Another candleholder appears to be a pot with its sides slit open. These openings allow light to pass through the sides of the pot which contains a candle. The result is a lantern type object.

All the pottery in the exhibit is exceedingly interesting in terms of glazing. The color and textural surfaces do much to complement the design of the ceramic forms executed by these two potters.

In conjunction with the pottery exhibit at the Art Center is a painting show by Hans Moller. Moller's work is of exceptional high quality. He shows respect for good design in his work and preserves meaningful subject matter. So often the various "schools of painting" which divert an artist from his own personal direction will destroy his sensitivity. Moller has escaped this fate. He has benefited by the experience of different approaches to painting and at the same time maintained his own personality as an artist. The paintings of Hans Moller rank high in relation to work being done today and will prove a rewarding experience for anyone who will visit the Art Center to view them.

Efficient Hen Brings In Eggs

ALBEMARLE, N. C. (AP)—Blackie, a bantam hen, has achieved the maximum in production efficiency at the C. S. Honeycutt farm.

Mrs. Honeycutt says Blackie slips into the house through a small hole in the screen door, lays her eggs in an old churn in the kitchen, then scoots back out again without any fuss.

"It's real handy to the frying pan," says Mrs. Honeycutt.

Scholarship Won By Local Youth

Ray McFarland Spears, Jr., of 1114 S. Overlook Dr., Greenville, is one of 147 students throughout the South who have been awarded college scholarships by Winn-Dixie Stores, Inc.

The scholarship is in the amount of $250 a year, to attend East Carolina College in Greenville. This grant was based on scholastic achievement, merit and desire for educational advancement, according to an announcement by C.R. Rigdon, manager of the Raleigh division of Winn-Dixie Stores, Inc.

The company sponsors a scholarship program under which annual grants are made to 15 colleges and universities throughout the South for the purpose of providing financial assistance to students in the junior or senior years.

Thirty-nine scholarships were awarded for the 1960-61 school year, making a total of 147 students now attending college under the program, which was begun in 1943, Rigdon said.

'Serious' Crime In U.S. Jumps

WASHINGTON (AP)—Serious crime in the United States jumped 11 per cent over last year's figures for the first nine months of this year.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover reported Wednesday what he called "this accelerated crime rate" on the basis of preliminary figures covering most cities and nearly half of the country's rural areas.

Hoover noted that the first three months of this year witnessed a 7 per cent crime increase which grew to 9 per cent at the mid-year mark and picked up another 2 per cent in the third quarter.

The nine-months crime data showed the sharpest increases in property crimes, with robbery up 16 per cent, burglary 15 per cent, larcenies involving $50 or more up 9 per cent, and auto theft 6 per cent.

Among crimes against the person, forcible rapes led off with an 8 per cent increase. Murders increased 4 per cent and aggravated assaults 3 per cent.

Reflector Staff Writer

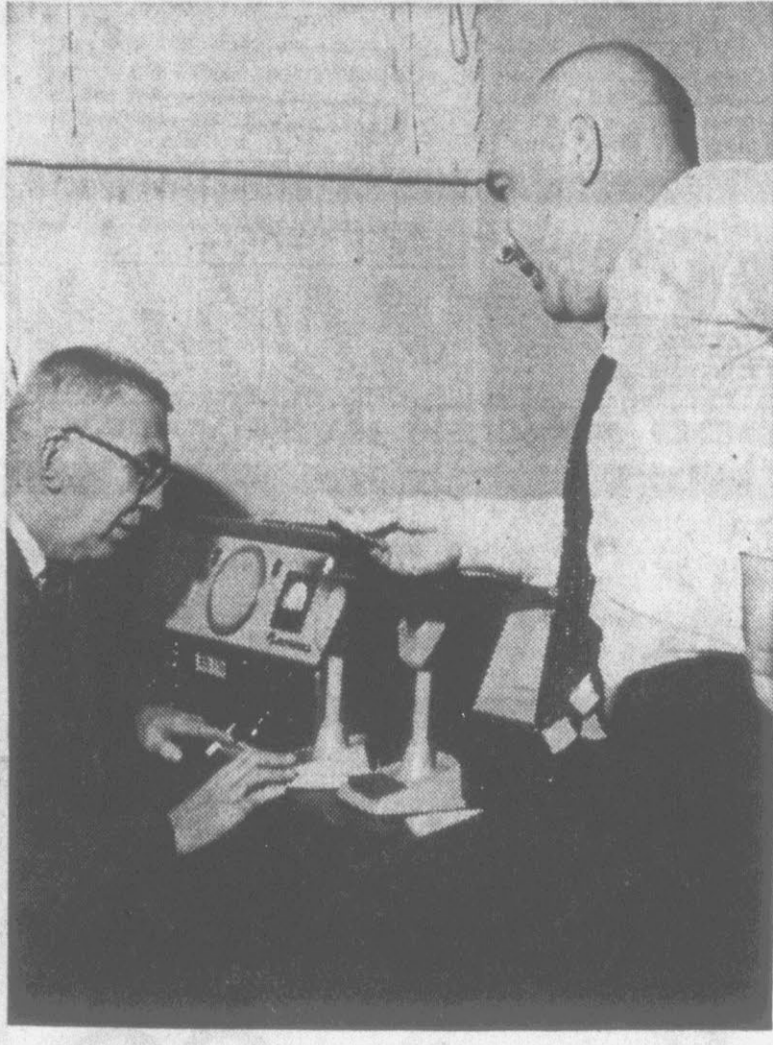

A native Virginian, David H. Sencindiver, Administrative Officer for the Voice of America and a world traveler, likes Greenville so much he intends to make Greenville his "official" home and hopes to retire to Greenville.

Sencindiver, born and raised in Winchester, Virginia, attended Randolph-Macon College for one year, then went to the University of Virginia where he graduated with a degree in business administration.

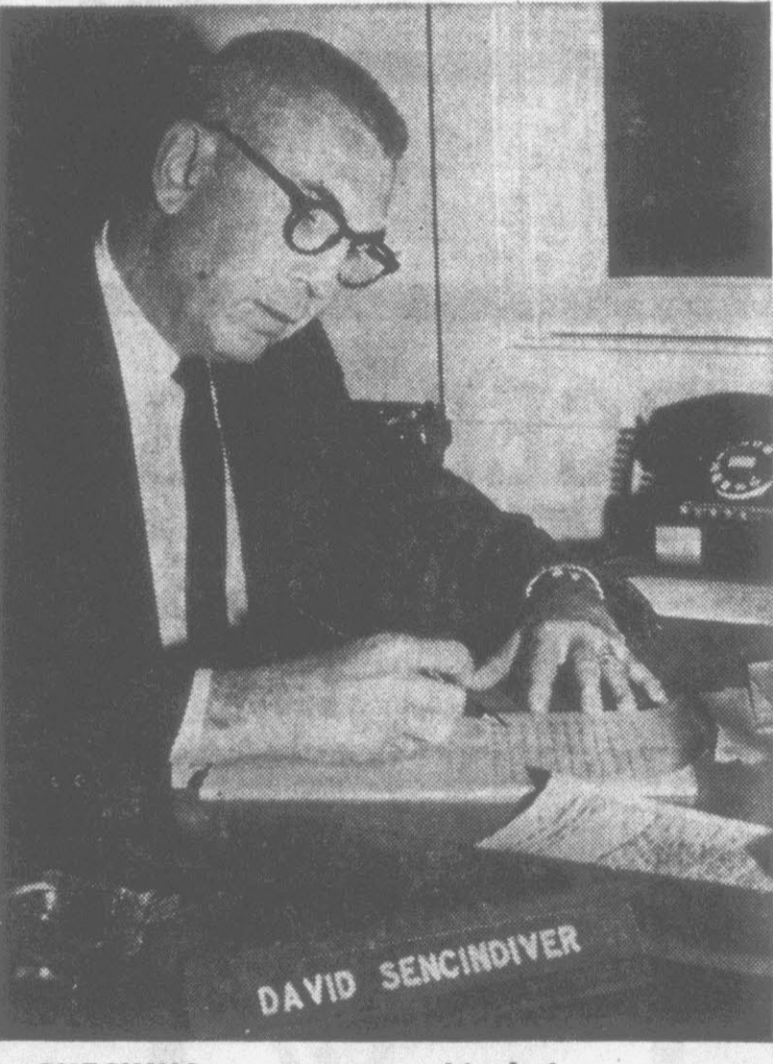

In 1942 he entered the Army's Signal Corps and was attached to the Army Air Force in Florida and Nebraska until he was discharged in 1946. He entered the radio announcing field in Florida then returned to Richmond as an auditor for the State of Virginia until 1948. Sencindiver then returned to the broadcasting field as a radio engineer. Sencindiver began his duties with the Voice of America, a service of the U. S. Information Agency, in May of 1952.

The Southerner's first post with VOA was in Manila, as engineer and administrative officer for the radio station there. Sencindiver left Manila, in 1954 to return to the agency's office in Washington, D.C. as personnel officer for Production of pulp and paper has increased 850 per cent in the last 50 years.

CONTACTING . . . field units by radio

DAVID SENCINDIVER

CHECKING . . . reports at his desk

VOA's media extension services. In September of 1956 Sencindiver was reassigned to the Okinawa Relay Base, where he remained until January 11, 1960 when he was brought back to the U.S. He came to Greenville as Administrative officer February 15, 1960.

According to the veteran VOA man, his wife and three children have always accompanied him to his posts and all have traveled around the world together, visiting such places as Hong Kong, Singapore, Beirut, Rome, Paris and London.

The thing Sencindiver likes best about his job is the "combination of radio engineer and administration" duties required of him. He noted that the engineering side is more "cut and dried" while his Administrative duties are more varied, and bring him into contact with almost every segment of the organization.

As administrative officer, he is in charge of all personnel, payroll, procurement of supplies, motor pool, radio communications and almost everything else that is required to keep the local plant functioning.

Sencindiver, who said he is "very well pleased with his job," emphasizes "all in all it is a pretty wonderful experience."

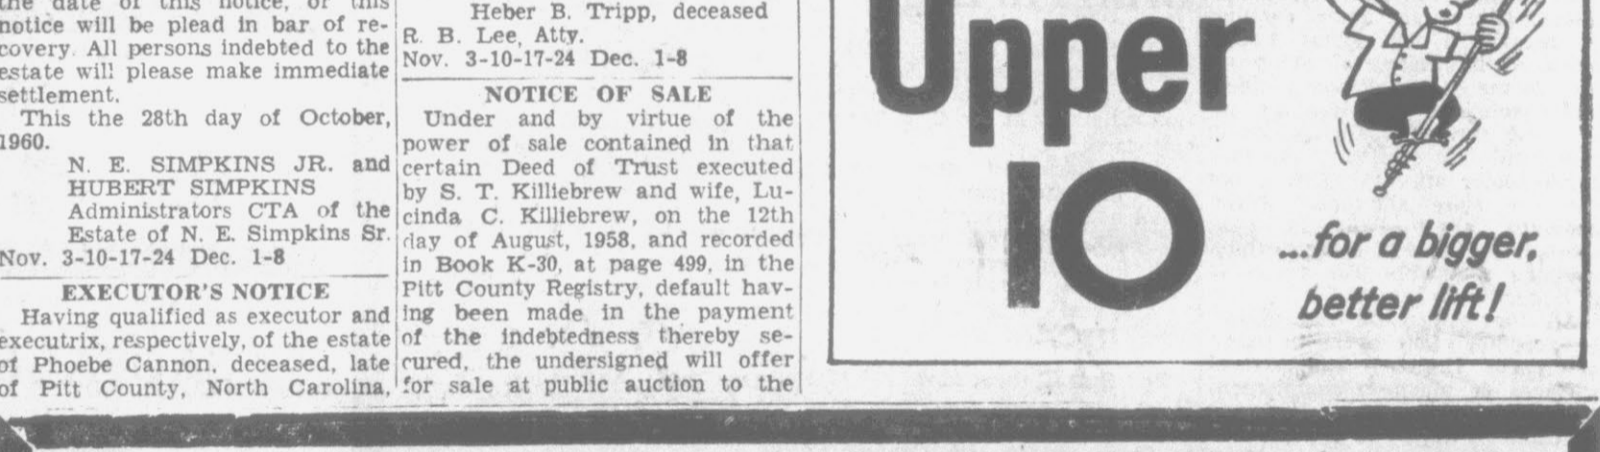

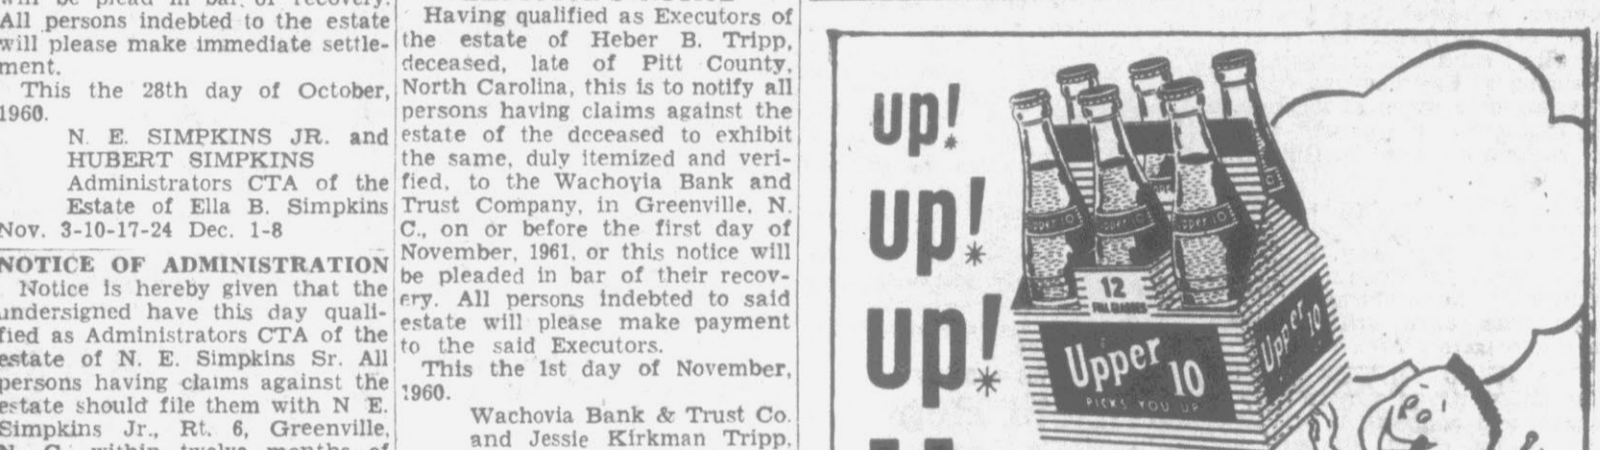

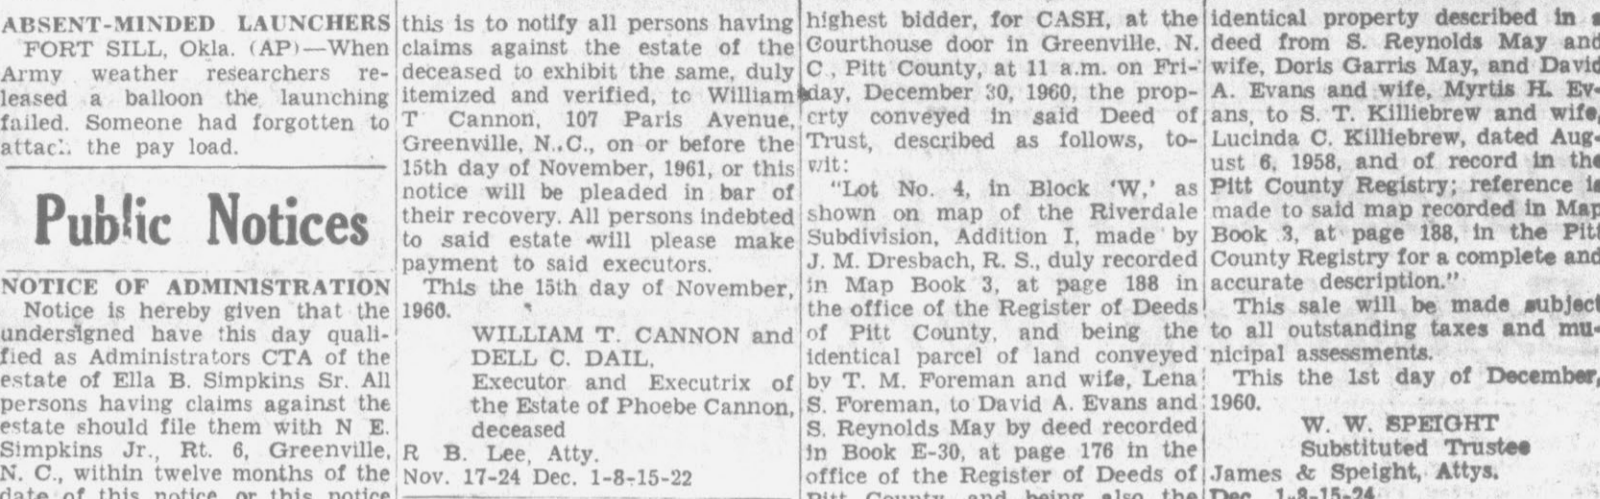

Expounding on the merits of Greenville, Sencindiver said he is "delighted with Greenville" and has "enjoyed being here," noting that he now is a legal resident of North Carolina with a home here and expects "to retire to Greenville."

"Overseas, we preferred the Far East," the VOA official commented, adding he and his family "have no reluctance at all about going back." He noted that he and his wife were "most fond" of Beirut but "when we get homesick . . . we get homesick for Okinawa."

He said that his wife Margaret, a native of Richmond, Virginia, taught school overseas in both mission schools and U.S. dependent schools. His three children attended four different schools last year.

His hobbies include flying (he has a student pilot's license), reading, ping pong and tennis, swimming and water skiing, and his children, David, 17, Mary, 11, and Margaret, 8.

He is a member of the Roman Catholic church.

Flames Damage Tenant House

STOKES—A morning fire today resulted in an estimated $750 damage to a tenant house of the E. F. Little farm two miles east of here.

Twelve Carolina Township volunteer firemen responded to a call about 9 a.m. today and extinguished the blaze by around 10 o'clock.

Though unoccupied at the time of the fire, the house is the residence of Walter Outlaw and his wife.

Firemen said the fire broke out in the rear of the frame structure. Burning clothing threw out heavy smoke that hampered firefighting for a short time.

Exact cause of the blaze was undetermined this morning; however, firemen discovered upon arrival a swinging chimney had fallen on through its supports onto a heat stove.

This morning's blaze marked the second fire in three days to be extinguished by efforts of the young Carolina Township Volunteer Fire Department.

NEW YORK (AP)—Stock prices attempted a modest rally early this afternoon, but the move was not enough, in its early stages, to reverse morning losses.

Trading picked up as prices stiffened, carrying volume to a pace slightly in excess of Wednesday's.

Losses ranged from fractions to an occasional point or so, while scattered gains were minor.

The Associated Press 60-stock average at noon was down 0.60 to 213.40 with industrials down 1.20, rails down 0.20 and utilities down 0.10. At the same time Dow Jones' closely watched average of 30 industrials was off 3.62 at 593.60.

"IF AT FIRST YOU DON'T SUCCEED . . . try, try again." That is what Greenville Utilities employees were saying yesterday afternoon when the Christmas decorations at Five Points came tumbling down. The mishap occurred about 2:30 p.m.

Fragments Of Exploded Space Rocket Said To Fall On Cuba

HAVANA (AP)—Fragments of a space rocket launched from Cape Canaveral, Fla., landed in eastern Cuba Wednesday, bringing charges of "a new provocation of imperialism" from the Cuban press.

The Cuban News Agency said rocket debris rained on several settlements around Holguin, Cuba's third largest city, causing "loud explosions and great alarm."

A military headquarters spokesman at Holguin said some of the rocket fragments weighed as much as 40 pounds but caused no damage. He said they struck a hillside 10 miles from the center of the city at about 3 p.m.

The rocket had been launched in an attempt to put two satellites in orbit but was destroyed in flight when a malfunction developed.

A Defense Department spokesman in Washington said he could not exclude the possibility that parts of the rocket might have struck Cuba as reported, adding: "We certainly are concerned about it and we are investigating it further."

Farmers reported the incident to authorities. They said the fragments looked like pieces of a falling airplane.

Holguin lies near the north shore of easternmost Oriente Province, roughly 500 miles from Havana.

A two-headed U. S. space rocket was fired from Cape Canaveral, Fla., at 2:50 p. m. The rocket was later destroyed in flight.

A spokesman for the semi-official newspaper Revolution said markings on the fragments which fell clearly identified them as made in the United States.

Sources at Cape Canaveral were concerned lest the rocket fall on Cuban soil and provide a new occasion for Prime Minister Fidel Castro's government to assail the United States for "aggression" against Cuba.

The Cuban news agency said rocket debris rained on several settlements around Holguin, causing "loud explosions and great alarm."

The incident seemed likely to provide ammunition for fresh attacks on the United States by Cuba in either the United Nations or the Organization of American States, and possibly in both.

Castro's Cuban news agency quoted the U. S. State Department as saying the rocket was deliberately exploded while over Cuba.

The path of the 80-foot Thor-Able Star rocket would have taken it over Cuba on its way down the U. S. Atlantic missile test range.

'Scoop' Jackson Plans Resign As Demo Chairman

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., announced today he will resign as Democratic national chairman, effective Jan. 20 — inauguration day — or the next day.

Jackson made the announcement after a 20 minute conference with President-elect John F. Kennedy in the Senate Office Building.

He recalled that in accepting the chairmanship at the Democratic National Convention in Los Angeles, he had said he planned to serve only until shortly after the election.

Kennedy told reporters "we couldn't possibly have won" without the kind of help Jackson had given in coordinating campaign efforts.

The president-elect said he recognized that Jackson had stated he had obligations to his state and to Senate business that would keep him from retaining the job much beyond inauguration day.

Dr. Howard Gradis, chairman of the blood program for Pitt County, has urged support of the program. It is urgent that the total quota of 240 pints for both days be met, he said.

Christmas Parade For Farmville Tomorrow

FARMVILLE—Final plans were reported complete today for Farmville's annual Christmas Parade tomorrow afternoon at 4:30.

Louis Williams of the Chamber of Commerce said this morning some 15,000 persons are expected to attend the annual gala event. Included in the parade will be "at least 25 units," Williams said.

Scheduled to appear in the procession are 15 "professionally decorated floats" and four marching bands, Williams told the Daily Reflector. Clown acts, funny cars, and old autos will also appear in the parade.

Bands scheduled to provide rhythm hall from the two local high schools, S. Ayden High of Ayden, and Grifton High School.

As in past years, floats for the parade were designed and supervised by Mr. and Mrs. Vassar Fields. Work on the floats is complete, Williams said.

Route Altered
The Chamber of Commerce has altered the original route plans for tomorrow's official ushering in of the Christmas season in Farmville.

According to Williams today the parade will assemble along W. Horne Ave. just before 4:30.

From that point, the procession will make its way southward on Main St. to Cotton St. where it will turn right on Cotton and continue to George St.

It will travel north on George to Wilson St., east on Wilson to Contentnea St., north on Contentnea to Grimmersburg St., west on Grimmersburg to Main St., and north on Main to Horne Ave. again where it will disband.

The new route plan doubles the original planned length of the parade's route. Initial plans would have carried the procession along six blocks down Main St. The altered route totals around 12 blocks.

Williams pointed out the local stores will remain open until 9 p.m. tomorrow for the first time this Christmas season. The town's already installed Christmas decorations and lights will be turned on for the first time tomorrow afternoon in time for the parade.

Three Injured In Collision Today

Henry Arthur Evans, of Route 2, Greenville, operator of the second vehicle, received bruises to his right knee. All were treated and released.

Officers, who charged Evans with failure to yield the right of way, said the Oakes vehicle was headed West on 10th St. at the time of the wreck while the Evans vehicle was traveling North on Charles St.

Damage to the Oakes car was set at $700 while damage to the Evans car was placed at $800. Investigators said the Oakes vehicle, after colliding with the Evans auto veered off the street and struck a house at the intersection owned by Mrs. J. J. White, causing an estimated $150 damage to the dwelling.
