

Kennedy Selects Stewart Udall To Be His Secretary Of Interior

REP. STEWART UDALL

NEW YORK (AP)—President-elect John F. Kennedy today selected Rep. Stewart Udall of Arizona to be his secretary of the interior—the third of the 10 Cabinet posts to be filled for the new administration.

Kennedy said in a statement that the 40-year-old congressman will bring to the position "vigilance and imagination" for the important task of preserving and developing "America's vast and abundant natural resources."

Udall's appointment was by no means a surprise. It had been a virtual certainty for days. The Arizona House member will serve alongside two governors, Abraham A. Ribicoff of Connecticut, Kennedy's choice for secretary of health education and welfare, and Luther H. Hodges of North Carolina, who will be the new commerce secretary.

Udall also had a luncheon engagement with a British representative at the U.N., David Ormsby Gore, a longtime friend. During the afternoon he hoped to get in some Christmas shopping.

Motor Vehicles Dept. Will Renew Disputed Proposals

RALEIGH (AP)—Three proposals which have caused heated controversy in past General Assemblies are included in the Motor Vehicles Department's 1961 legislative program. They were presented Tuesday at a meeting of the Governor's Traffic Safety Council.

Under Scheidt's proposal, persons refusing to take blood tests after their arrest on drunken driving charges would stand to lose their licenses.

Hodges issued another call for court reform, particularly in the lower court system. He said that while governor, "I have probably received more complaints and more criticism about the handling of traffic violations in our courts than about any other aspect of government in our state."

'Blue Laws' Face Legal Challenge In Supreme Court

WASHINGTON (AP)—State laws which forbid commercial activities on Sunday faced their most serious legal challenge in many years today. Faced with conflicting rulings by lower courts, the Supreme Court called for arguments today and Thursday involving the validity of Sunday closing laws—commonly known as blue laws—in Massachusetts, Pennsylvania and Maryland.

The special court declared: "What Massachusetts has done in this statute is to furnish special protection to the dominant Christian sects which celebrate Sunday as the Lord's Day, without furnishing such protection, in their religious observances, to those Christian sects and to Orthodox and conservative Jews who observe Saturday as the Sabbath, and to the prejudice of the latter group."

and as she did so, the robber hit her again and "told me to hush." This happened several times she noted, "then he told me to open the cash register" and "give me what money is in there."

Window-Breaking And Threat In New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Window-breaking and a threat by mail undelayed today the continuing bitterness over school integration in New Orleans.

Investigators said the youths entered the building and took five fire extinguishers, three baseball bats, one claw hammer, nine cans of paint, and a hand truck from the building.

Lessening of demonstrations, hastened by police action in moving blocking pickets back a block from William Frantz, appeared to be nothing more than an uneasy and temporary period of half-calm.

Cake Mix Is Popular At Fair

RALEIGH — Packaged cake mixes proved to be among the most popular products displayed at the U. S. exhibit at the recent British trade fair, according to a report to the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

A clip-the-coupon advertising campaign which permitted purchase below retail price of three items—cake mix, honey and canned chicken—was very successful. Sales clocked during the first five days showed that items from the packaged food stand sold at the rate of 1-1.3 a minute, and most were cake mixes.

Though cake mixes are not new in Britain, the American-type "packet" (packaged) mix is. Crowds each day watched the making of angel food cake from packages and expressed their enjoyment when they tasted samples of the finished product.

British families are as interested in new convenience foods as Americans and for the same reasons—more homemakers are working and few have servants, so saving time in getting meals has become increasingly important.

Such new food items as frozen cooked turkey rolls and small packages of frozen sliced turkey with gravy appealed to food editors,

Wash Old Toys To Look New Again

Before Christmas is the time to restore down-at-the-heels stuffed toys so they can be loved again by a new set of little owners.

Mend first so no stuffing will be lost during washing. If the stuffing is spongy rubber, put the toy right into the tub or washer. Otherwise, it's better to brush-wash the surface with thick "dry" soap or detergent suds. If two-tone toys "run," tint them a darker shade all over.

After the bath, replace "lost" features with fabric paint or with embroidery. Then sew on new button eyes—or use felt applique for all features. Wool yarn makes new hair for dolls, or manes and tails for animals. Bright ribbon hairbows or collars make the reclamation complete.

At the fruit exhibit the "queues" of people lined up for samples of orange juice and packets of raisins had a view of the display of fresh fruits from America—huge bunches of grapes, oranges, lemons, peaches, nectarines and avocados. Canned, dried and frozen fruits were also displayed.

The British sweet tooth made the honey stand a popular center. Honey in attractive jars proved

'High-Tilts' Spring Millinery Theme

By SHIRLEY GALLINA
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Spring hats will ride high on millinery's tresses this coming season if the California Millinery Guild styles are any indication.

The guild, comprised of a baker's dozen of California's millinery firms, unveiled spring collections for the fashion press and buyers from all over the country this week.

"High-tilts" is the theme. Height is the keynote, and is found in all shapes from soaring turbans to tall toques, high pillboxes to high-crowned sailors.

The cloche is an important silhouette, taking on new dimensions with extremely high crowns in the forms of a bubble, balloon, beehive, and a slightly pointed "sugar loaf."

The tilt comes either from wearing the hat at a jaunty angle, or is intrinsic in the design via asymmetric brims, profile lines, or trims set off center.

A profusion of flowers in improbable size bloom on some hats. A few are completely covered with giant silk roses or poppies. Others feature giant cornflowers, lilac, violets, and lilies-of-the-valley.

Flower hats are built on delicate frameworks of net, rose stem trellises, or raffia lattices. Incredibly light, even the largest weighs mere ounces. All the spring hats are notable for lightness, in silks as well as fabrics.

Some frothy turbans and toques look as if they were made of meringue or spun sugar. Maline and net or veiling are swirled around these tall shapes, or they may be made of fragile-appearing straw-lace. The more tailored hats follow the high and mighty trend, but trims are either smart grosgrain ribbon often worked in three tones, wide taffeta ribbons, or smashing big bows. Veils, more often than not, cover the hat rather than the wearer's face. Color characterizes the spring line—beige, burnt sugar, coffee and gold, vivid tones of hot pink, sapphire blue, emerald green and pure flaming orange.

A pinch of dry mustard in cream sauce for vegetables, such as cauliflower and broccoli, will give an added spark.

Depressed Areas Need Re-Defining

If the Kennedy administration moves into a major program of special assistance to so-called "depressed areas", it would seem logical that a broader definition be given to the term than the one which is now generally accepted.

The "depressed area" term is now generally applied to areas in which the migration of industry or changes in business conditions have left a considerable number of unemployed among the ranks of persons who normally have been regularly employed. It is obvious, of course, that federal influence in locating new industries re-opening old industries and stimulating business conditions in these areas could be an important help in eliminating unemployment and restoring better economic conditions.

It should be recognized, however, that any such program on the part of the federal government should take into consideration the fact that there are many "depressed areas" of the country which are not included in the present generally accepted definition of the term.

Eastern North Carolina, for example, is not an area in which the shutting down of industrial plants

Politics Put On Fulltime Basis

By LYNN NISBET
FULL TIME—Politics is going on full time basis in North Carolina. Partisan politics, that is, activities of the Democratic and Republican party organizations. The most acceptable definition of politics is that it is the science of government. Government is a continuing thing—365 days a year every year. In that sense politics has been full time all along.

In North Carolina, however, the activity of party organizations has been generally limited to a few weeks before elections and such occasions as Jefferson-Jackson and Lincoln dinners for raising money. The Democratic party has maintained a permanent office in Raleigh for the past decade, staffed by one woman—which was inadequate regardless of her competence and efficiency. The Republicans have not had central office except in the heat of general election campaigns.

National organizations for both parties have been maintained at Washington, but most times the liaison between national and state organizations has been skimpy—and between state and local groups nonexistent. The recent election has convinced all parties that relations between national and state should be more cordial, and contact with locals should be tightened up. State leadership in both parties is younger than ever before. The young leaders are not inhibited by precedent and are moving into new fields and new methods of approach. Almost certainly they will make mistakes. Which reminds of the story about the old railroad man's advice to his young colleague. "When in doubt, do something," advised the older. "It's a lot easier to explain doing the wrong thing than to explain why you did nothing."

REPUBLICANS—William E. Cobb, the youthful Republican state chairman, who achieved part of his goal this year to have candidates for every office from Governor down, is not waiting 18 months to start the 1962 campaign. Profiting by obvious mistakes this year in not putting the full force of the party organization behind all the candidates, he has already held several conferences looking to an all-out vigorous campaign next time. It is not understood that this plan contemplates a full-time staffed headquarters at the present, but it means more year-round activity than has been customary.

DEMOCRATS—The Democrats are moving toward a more complete business-like organization. State chairman Bert Bennett has announced appointment of Wallace N. Hyde as a full time executive secretary of the Democratic state committee. That position was authorized by the executive committee several years ago but previous chairmen did not recognize the need for it. Results of the recent election emphasized its importance.

North Carolina is now definitely a two-party state. That it was largely complacency on part of the Democrats rather than the Republicans that brought this about does not change the factual situation. It does emphasize the importance of both parties getting on the ball.

Without more intensive work on part of the Republicans they cannot hope to hold or increase the gains made in last month's election. Unless the Democrats exert more effort than they have during the past 25 years they cannot expect to retain control of State government—about which they have boasted since 1900.

NATIONAL-STATE—Speeded up activity in the state necessarily means closer contact with national organizations. That is especially true for the Democrats, since for the next four years that party will control Congress and the White House. It is only slightly less important for the Republicans, because it now appears that candidates of that party for Governor or Senator might be running for those offices—instead of for executive appointments if the Republicans took over the national administration.

Relations between national and state party organizations are likely to be closer from now on. That could make for better government at all levels. So long as North Carolina was considered "safe" for the Democrats, regardless, there was no reason to expect consideration from either party at national level. Now that it has moved into the borderline or doubtful column, both major parties are interested.

Appointment of Governor Luther Hodges to a place in President Kennedy's cabinet is the first pay-off. Other appointments of North Carolinians to high places are expected. And while executive appointments for Republicans may be scarce during the next few years, Tarheel adherents of that party can look to more recognition than they have been accorded in the past.

WATCHING—Meantime, there are numerous business men interested in sound government rather than in party affiliation, who are watchfully waiting developments to see which way they will go. Many of them are not happy about existing conditions in either party.

has contributed to swelling the ranks of unemployed. At the same time, it could be termed a "depressed area" if one would take into consideration the fact that the per capita income in the area is among the lowest in the nation. From the standpoint of unemployment it might be termed a "depressed area" if consideration were given to the fact that thousands of people are traditionally employed in seasonal jobs, and during the off-season have no regular employment.

Now the general term "depressed area" applies to locales which have seen their economy sag because of recent adverse circumstances. Little if any consideration has been given to those areas which have traditionally lived under what might be termed depressed conditions.

If it is important to the nation's economy to restore to permanent full-time employment people whose regular jobs have disappeared, is it not equally important to provide aid in securing year-round work to people of other areas who have never had 12-month regular employment?

If a community becomes a "depressed area" because it loses an industry, should another community be denied assistance simply because it has traditionally suffered from chronic unemployment?

We presume that any program for aiding so-called "depressed areas" will be handled through the Department of Commerce which Gov. Hodges will head during the Kennedy administration. We also feel that Gov. Hodges, having worked so diligently to pull up North Carolina's economic position in the past six years, recognized that a more realistic definition than the one now generally accepted must be given the term "depressed area" in any federal program.

It is, in our opinion, most fortunate that any such program of the federal government during the coming administration will be largely formulated and administered under Hodges' direction.

Largely Designed For Outside Consumption

The newly-composed Communist Manifesto disclaiming inevitability of war appears largely designed for outside consumption.

Factually speaking, they are at war—they have been war, they will continue to wage war—with the capitalist world. Absence of gunfire and bomb-dropping means nothing in the nature of warfare; and the Communist world would feel free to apply those weapons whenever conditions and needs called for them.

If observers are to find any great significance in the manifesto they will have to look between the lines. There, it is evident the Peiping branch has reluctantly bowed to Kremlin insistence as to the rights of leadership. Not so much because of a conviction Red China's policy-makers were in error, but because of the great need for continuing material support of the Soviet Union.

The situation could be likened to two cannibals debating how they wanted dinner served up, well-done or rare.

True enough, the free world can hope it has gained time before Communism finds it no longer expedient to delay attempts at world conquest by force of arms. What we do with that time could be mightily important.

Fight Not Over Inside Red Ranks

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

Associated Press News Analyst

Now that they have had their battle of words behind the Kremlin walls, the Soviet and Red Chinese Communists are trying to make it appear that they are agreed on all matters concerning world policy. The evidence is to the contrary. The fight is far from over.

Now making a ceremonial tour of the U.S.S.R., Red China's President Liu Shao-chi gave lip service Monday to Premier Khrushchev's brand of "peaceful coexistence." His words might fool the uncritical ear, but they clash with what is still going on in the Communist press.

On the day the Communist summit meeting ended, Pravda, the central organ of the Soviet party, devoted much of its second and third pages—traditionally the spot for important messages—to a long article denouncing those who "distort" Marxism-Leninism. It went back to the Marxist classics for citations to show that the movement's success "depends to a decisive degree on the inviolable unity of proletarians of all countries."

Pravda added: "Any violation of this unity, any disconnection in the actions of the Socialist parties or the national groups of the working class only weakens its own position and strengthens the position of the bourgeoisie."

"The great Marx and Engels struggled against all attempts to pit the national interests of the proletariat against its international interests."

Translated, Pravda meant that failure of any party to fall in line unquestionably with Moscow's leadership helps the enemy—the United States—and that any attempt by a Communist party to place its own fortunes ahead of the needs of Soviet policy harms the world movement.

What is the overriding interest of Soviet policy? It is to advance communism without serious risk of a nuclear war. The Pravda article quoted various Marxist saints as predicting that power could be seized peacefully, and as warning against "ultra-revolutionary" attitudes, "dogmatism and sectarianism." The Red Chinese have been accused of all those things.

Theory, said Pravda, is just dogma and not a guide to action. This was a reminder to the Red Chinese that theory must be set aside if and when it conflicts with the best interests of the leading Communist nation.

On the same day, an article was published by the Albanian Communists, who obviously supported the Red Chinese at the Communist summit. They weren't buying the Kremlin thesis, despite all their double-talk purporting to back the general Moscow line. And, if the Albanians aren't buying it, the likelihood is that they still are taking the cue from Peiping.

The Albanian article insisted Communists must have "no illusions at all that peace is secured" because the balance of forces in the world has changed. Khrushchev's argument is that war now can be avoided because of Soviet power. But the Albanian article insisted Soviet power could do more than provide the "possibility of peace."

"All events," it went on, "prove that although the positions of imperialism have weakened, imperialism has neither abandoned nor will it abandon, as long as it lives, its policy of aggression and war."

To picture peace as probable, said the article, plays into the hands of communism's enemies.

So the argument goes on and on, unresolved by three weeks of Red summit. And because it is unresolved, the Red Chinese, with their reckless and "ultra-revolutionary" attitudes, remain a grave threat to peace.

Transition From Santa

He's very young, . . . going on six, but from what I've been told he's on the threshold of going beyond the Santa Claus bit.

The North Pole visitor he knows. Knows the whole story about the toy-making factory, the reindeer, the helpers, etc.

On two Christmas-pasts Santa even dropped by to personally check up on him. . . . which you'll agree doesn't happen to every boy and girl.

I know for a fact that his parents, in other Christmas seasons, have tried to tell him about the First Christmas. Even showed him pictures and little manger scenes. But he hung on to the Santa Claus theme on the same reason most of us wish there was a real Santa with a giveaway heart.

This Christmas may be the turning point. His mother told me about it.

Seems her boy had once again been told the story of Bethlehem about the wise men who followed a star, about shepherds on a hillside, about a baby born in a stable.

This time it registered in his mind as something special. His mother found him at play, on a recent afternoon. . . . he had gathered together some plastic toys from a set of farm animals, Indians, firemen, and whatnot. . . . and had devised his own version of a crib, an infant, standing figures, and using as a "barn." It was an exciting improvisation for him, and he proudly told his mother all about what it represented.

In her telling, a blind man could see she too was more than a little proud; maybe a little bit sad, too, because she knew he was moving away from babyhood.

And what parent of a very young boy can look to that transition without a tug at the heartstrings?

When the boy's father came home, there was a prompt clamor for him to "come look!" It surprised him, too. He says that after the semi-indifference shown on other Christmases he was not really sure the Santa Claus game should have been played. He feels better about it now.

There will be a gradual change in Christmas emphasis at his house, he says. He is quite sure Santa won't be abruptly killed off, but gradually retired to that perspective which belongs to him alone.

Hurricane Donna was months ago and yet that storm could be said to have claimed one more victim in recent days.

That would be Rusty, a small-size dog who lived next door.

He and Cotton (the Schliez pooch) were buddies from the time Rusty was a pup.

Rusty's unhappy link with Donna represents one of those million-to-one things that are just too improbable to happen, but do.

When Donna blew through, she left a number of trees down in our neighborhood. Removing them has been a gradual process.

On this particular afternoon Rusty was playing at a distance from the tree-cleaning-up chore when for no apparent reason he frolicked up to the scene and under a falling log.

For days afterward, anyone who saw Cotton would say "there goes a lonesome dog."

He did act like one.

Paul Robeson knows what he is under a falling log.

"Everywhere I go people know me just because of my singing and because they know me they listen to me. Last year in Paris I was able to stand right up in the street and point my finger and say:

"Over there is America, and there are still slaves in South. Oh, yes, they listened to me."

One can understand Robeson's dedication to his race, but it is impossible to forgive his untruthful denunciation of his country in the interest of our national enemy. He is a self-proclaimed enemy of the United States.

It is difficult to understand why a man who despises a country insists upon being a citizen of it.

To The Editor

The present Urban Renewal Plan seems to have gotten the cart before the horse. Before planning parks and new municipal buildings we had better obtain or try to obtain new industry. New industry would bring about more income and in turn more people. If we spend as much time trying to put over the so-called "Urban Renewal Project", which will result in higher taxation with no new income, I am sure we would be doing the city and ourselves a much greater service.

If and when we are successful in bringing new industry here, then and only then should we consider the Urban Renewal Project. We must first create a need for parks, new municipal auditorium and other things suggested by the project. At present, I think our college facilities are ample enough to take care of our civic functions. In twenty years, if we are successful in bringing in new industry, then we might well be ready for such a project.

We must not forget that industry always considers low taxation in deciding on a location. If we put the Urban Renewal Plan into operation, I can assure you we would not be attracting industry, but would be preventing them from ever considering Greenville as a desirable location.

To build new, unnecessary buildings at this time would be most unfair to our children. At this time they are in grave need of a new junior high school. I think if our children had a voice in this project they would certainly request that you give them a school building—instead of a park. Parks are indeed necessary but I think the three R's had better come first.

As a substitute for the renewal project—I would suggest the tearing down of buildings which might be condemned because of their condition. I believe that if this was done fairly all over Greenville we would have adequate housing without all the unnecessary expense of the renewal project.

ONE OF GOD'S GIFTS

We have all heard the expression about an apple a day. It is supposed to have certain wholesome physical effects. Have you ever stopped to think what a poem a day might mean to your mind and spirit?

Poets are a strange lot of folks. They see things which the general run of mankind does not see. Furthermore, it is sometimes possible to express in poetic form truths which cannot adequately be expressed in straight prose. The telephone book has its place in life, but so do the many volumes of poetry. You may be amazed to know that in a recent census 90,000 people claimed that writing of poetry was their chief employment.

There has been wretched poetry written in every age. There were rhyesters and liturgical poets in Shakespeare's time and there are such today. But from the time of Homer to this present hour with newspaper or magazine or books setting forth the newest poetry, there have been people looking deeply into life, expressing what they see in unforgettable terms, in beautiful language. These are true poets.

God bless the true poets of every age. And let us always remember the privilege which is ours to go to this treasure house of beauty, inspiration, and wisdom and there find joy, new insights, security, and enlarged ambitions.

Whether you are 15 or 75, poetry still offers its spirit ministry to your mind and spirit. Poetry is truly a gift from God himself.

Singer Gone Wrong

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
Copyright, 1960, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Paul Robeson is a singer. He is also a Negro and an ardent Communist supporter. There are many singers and many Negroes, but they do not go all over the world making speeches against the United States. Paul Robeson chooses to do that. He chooses to spew hate against his own country. That is, of course, his right. Anyone may hate the United States who chooses to do so, but what does the United States do about it? Apparently, the Government of the United States takes no notice, although we do maintain an agency, the U.S.I.A., to give this country a good name.

They fact that Paul Robeson can sing "Ol' Man River" better than anyone else can, does not warrant his going down to Australia and saying this: "Robeson said that if there was a war between Russia and America he would be on the side of the Soviet Union, 'who would win—and should win.'"

This seems to me to be pretty close to treason. He also said: "Everywhere I go I tell people 'Over there is the United States—and there are still slaves in America.'"

Of course, that is a lie and Paul Robeson is a liar. But he is also an artist. Is an artist warranted to be a liar? Often I hear some say of a person: "He is not a politician; he is an artist." But the fact is that he talks politics as Robeson always talks politics. Robeson has devoted his life to being an anti-American propagandist. However, he travels on an American passport. He does not travel on a Russian passport although he does Russia's ugly work against his country. Robeson himself said:

"I'm here for a concert tour. I'll stand up there and sing all night for 'em if they want me. "But I'm much more than an entertainer. Sitting here now, I'm not a singer, I'm Paul Robeson, American Negro, and I'm entitled to state my views without fearing anyone."

But he was not hired to sing songs. He sings songs beautifully; his views are mostly lying propaganda, wild hate for his native land, bitterness because he could not sing Otello in the Metropolitan Opera House. Furthermore, if his beloved Russia accepted him as a citizen, he could not state his views without fearing anyone.

There was a time when the State Department with greater wisdom than the Supreme Court, refused to give Robeson a passport to travel the Earth doing damage to this country. This country is spending a fortune in an effort to establish a favorable image throughout the world. This man, knowing that people will listen to his nonsense because they want to hear him sing, was unable to leave his country. Then the Supreme Court made it possible for any Communist or America-hater to travel on an American passport and Congress has failed to pass an adequate law defining the passport and stating who is entitled to one. So Paul Robeson goes down to Australia and says:

"I was a 1000,000 a year man before they took away my passport. In the next year I earned $2,000. But money is nothing. My father was a slave and I was born poor. I have my voice and fortunately I lasted through those eight years."

When asked whether he was bitter, Robeson answered: "I'd just like to knock the whole lot of 'em down the stairs and walk right over 'em. When I was playing football if a fellow hurt me I wasn't bitter. I just waited my chance to knock him over, and stomp right on his face."

Paul Robeson knows what he is under a falling log. "Everywhere I go people know me just because of my singing and because they know me they listen to me. Last year in Paris I was able to stand right up in the street and point my finger and say:

"Over there is America, and there are still slaves in South. Oh, yes, they listened to me."

One can understand Robeson's dedication to his race, but it is impossible to forgive his untruthful denunciation of his country in the interest of our national enemy. He is a self-proclaimed enemy of the United States.

It is difficult to understand why a man who despises a country insists upon being a citizen of it.

Businessmen Missing Good Bet

By ELMER ROESSNER

The typical ever-alert, wide-awake American businessman appears to be dozing.

Comparatively few businessmen appear to realize that for quite some time now they have been eligible for their own microwave communications system.

Recent Federal Communications Commission rules permit private point-to-point microwave communication. There is no restriction on the type of information that may be sent over the channels set aside for this work.

Production orders may be transmitted from office to distant factory. Payroll information may be sent from factory to main office.

readily communicate with headquarters or with warehouses; banks may keep in communication with branches; trucking firms may stay in constant communication with truck drivers, and any kind of chain can hold link to link conversations.

Since there is no restriction on the type of information, facts for electronic calculating machines can be sent in from scattered points, fed into the machine and answers produced in less time than it would take to send the data by teletype.

Automated production at distant plants could be controlled by instructions put on tape in a central office and sent to the plants by microwave.

OTHER USES

There are many other possibilities. A multibranch company may conduct all its accounting and billing work in one central office, supplied with data over a microwave system. Inventory records of a dozen branches can be kept in a central office. Officials can keep in touch with subordinates without depending on telephone or telegraph lines.

There are several systems on the market and a new one will be available next year. This (by General Electric) will accommodate up to 240 trunk lines for voice, teletype or data transmission. This system costs $10,000 and up, depending on equipment necessary to adapt it to an individual business.

While some systems and layouts may cost considerably more, they may cost nothing at all. That's because they may save spending for telegraph lines, telegrams and phone messages.

INDUSTRIALISTS EXPECT PROSPEROUS 1961

Of 230 industrialists surveyed by Mill & Factory, only 14 per cent feared the general business level in 1961 will be lower than in 1960. At the same time, 53 per cent said it would be the same and 33 per cent said the business level will be higher.

Of the 230, 71 per cent said they did not expect unusual labor unrest in 1961 and 60 per cent said they would expand plant operations in the coming year.

TOO BAD TV PROGRAMS CAN'T IMPROVE AS MUCH

Television cathode-ray tube facelifts now being produced are said to have a picture quality 500 times better than those in use. Plates five inches in diameter contain 140,000,000 super-fine glass threads, called fiber optics. These threads can carry light around corners, and have a growing number of uses in industry.

Foods For Holiday Giving

To give to others something that one has made is truly giving of oneself, making even more meaningful the joy of holiday giving.

A gift from the kitchen carries with it special significance as an eternal symbol of sharing friendship and hospitality.

The giving of gifts from the kitchen is traditional in many homes—a holiday custom that never gets out of date. Breads, cakes, cookies, confections, and home-canned goodies are the most popular gifts.

Most of the foods for holiday giving are rich in fruits, nuts and spices; most are significant of the holiday season in color, shape, or decoration.

Cookies which are good keepers and mellow as they "age" can be made ahead as part of pre-Christmas planning. When colored sugars, candy decorations, whole or chopped walnuts, candied fruits, and the like are used as decoration for cookies, cakes, or breads, they are usually arranged in the desired design before the food is baked. A light surface brushing of egg white acts as the binder on which to place the decoration so that it will stay in place.

Some types of cookies have best eating quality when they are freshly baked. Cookies can be packaged in baskets, plastic jars or boxes, or refrigerator dishes. Transparent containers need only seals and ribbons for attractive packaging.

Pine cones, tiny Christmas bells or balls, gay sets of measuring spoons, and the like add a special touch to the food gift package.

Try various recipes during the holiday season and surprise someone with a gift from your kitchen.

Magic Party Cookies
3 cups sifted flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
3/4 teaspoon salt
3/4 cup butter, melted
2 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
1 (15 oz.) can sweetened condensed milk

Sift together flour, baking powder and salt into a large bowl. Add remaining ingredients; blend thoroughly. Add only one of the following ingredients:
1 (6 oz.) package semi-sweet chocolate pieces
1/2 cups raisins
1/2 cups cornflakes
1 (4 oz.) package (1 1/2 cups) shredded coconut, toasted
1/2 cups chopped dates
1/2 cups chopped nut meats

Mix well. Drop by tablespoonfuls onto well-greased baking sheet. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) about 8 to 10 minutes or until delicately browned around edges. Remove from baking sheet immediately.

Dress Tablecloth For Christmas

To convert any tablecloth into a holiday cloth, spread it with an eye-catching runner made of washable spun rayon and cotton decorated with colorful Christmas bells, poinsettia, and candles. The same pattern comes in place mats and square or round tablecloths, complete with matching napkins. These accessories, which are color fast, can be laundered as often as needed to provide gala table settings throughout the holidays.

Use of the squeeze-tube has been adopted in retailing cheese spreads, catsup and other semi-liquid foods.

JAMES KEENE'S New Historical Novel IRON MAN, IRON HORSE

CHAPTER 35

"Adam, did you buy Midland-Pacific stock like I asked you to?" Ben Holliday asked his brother.

"Yes. And what a row that caused. If you want a reason for Father being here, blame it on that. You see, I'd just received a check from the Cartwright estate—a very handsome one, so I loaned you eight thousand. And I borrowed another six thousand. So when Father read the market report and saw the flurry, he hit the ceiling. Well, the upshot is that Father considers me a fool and you a madman for not accepting that offer to buy the railroad."

"It wasn't legitimate," Ben Holliday said. "Besides, there is no more offer."

"Oh? It's been withdrawn?"

"Definitely. I shot him the night before last." Ben knew that Adam would be shocked, and it pleased him.

"You mean, it was an accident," Adam said.

"No, I mean that I took a gun and went after him, and when I found him I shot him before he shot me. When it comes right down to it, a lawsuit can't hold a candle to a bullet for getting the job done. Did you happen to meet Jim Bender? I want to find him."

Adam Holliday frowned. "A tall, thin man? I think I saw him at the hotel." He reached out and took Ben's arm. "Say, you're not going to shoot him too are you?"

"No, he's a railroad man. I only shoot the ones who aren't." He reached out and pushed Adam flat on his head, then went down the back stairs, then went down the back stairs.

The town was quiet when he walked toward it, well past the general closing hour, even for the saloon. The clerk was sleeping when Holliday entered the lobby, and rather than wake the man, Ben had his look at the register, saw which room Bender had, and went on up.

He knocked twice and got no response, then the door opened a crack and Bender thrust the muzzle of his pistol against Holliday's stomach.

"You're a cautious man," Holliday said, and stepped inside.

Bender lit the lamp and put the gun away. "I ought to have shot anyway. What the hell's the idea of leaving me behind? Did you think I'd draw the line because of Betty?"

"You've got enough troubles," Ben said. "I've got to tell Betty how it is now."

"Just how is it now?" Bender asked.

"Carl's dead. He wired a shotgun trap for me, but I smelled it first. The place is burned to the ground. I'm going to have to tell Betty."

"Just say that it's over," Bender said. "She knows already how bad it is." Holliday frowned briefly and Bender explained.

"Ben, she knows what Carl deserves. Let it go at that."

"All right," Holliday said. "I take DuJoise to the post to see if Dawson couldn't get the Indians together for a talk."

Bender shrugged. "Slim chance, but worth a try."

"That's what I figured." He toed a chair around and sat down. "For the first time, I really think I can save this railroad, build it into something. For a fact, I worried more about Singer's attempt to buy it up than I did the Indians." He slapped his knees and stood up. "I think I'll go root the old man out of bed; he hasn't seen the sun come up in thirty years."

Ben knew that his father would be in the best room available, so he walked along the hall to the back suite and knocked on the door. He had to ball his fist and pound several times before he got an answer, and that was a grumble.

"What do you want? And who are you?"

"It's Ben. Open the door."

This did not erase Julius Holliday's irritation. He flung the young man in. "You damn fool, it isn't even daylight outside." He fumbled around for the lamp, lit it, then sat heavily on the edge of the bed and pawed the sleep from his eyes. "What possible reason could you have for this outrageous intrusion? Oooooo what an unearthly hour for a man to rise."

Ben went over to the windows and raised the curtains. "What did you come out here for Dad?"

"Well, I wasn't getting proper action from you, Ben."

Ben turned and looked at him.

"What did you want?"

"I wanted you to listen to me!" Julius snapped. "That's what I wanted!" He calmed himself. "Let me tell you that you'd fired him. I made up my mind to come then."

"I'd rather have you do your own snooping than hire it done," Ben said. "If you didn't fully trust me, then why give me the job?" He knew he wouldn't get an answer to that, and didn't wait for one.

"You sent me here to make the line pay, then recommended that I take Singer's offer. Why? So it would look good? So it wouldn't be put down as a failure for Julius Holliday?"

Ben laughed softly. "Well, if you want to sell it now, you'll have to rustle up another buyer. The three men that made the offer aren't interested now, Jerry Vale is dead, Bert Hutchins has been burned out, and Murray Singer's been burned out, clean to the ground. And the price has gone up. Or don't you watch the markets?"

"I saw that flurry," Julius snapped. "Ben, that was the cheapest bit of conniving I ever saw. I suppose you wanted the stock up a half or so, then you'd dump yours and pocket the profit."

The impulse to hit him was strong; he had never known it so strong before. But he resisted it. "I want working capital. Not one share of my stock is for sale."

"Julius Holliday was surprised. "What's that?"

Ben walked over and stood near his father, looking down at him. "I don't want to sell the line at any price, Dad. I want to stay with it, rise with it if it succeeds, and fall if it fails. All my life I've wanted to go it on my own. That's the way it's going to be this time."

"I've only tried to help you," Julius said.

"Sure, but I don't want any more help, Dad."

"You're turning into a man, Ben," Julius said. "I like you better. And I'm sorry if I held you back."

"Don't be sorry. It's a lesson I've learned in Texas: never be sorry. Good or bad, do what has to be done and don't cry about it." He got up and walked back to the window and watched the sky turn rose.

"Dad why don't you go on back to Chicago and let me be? Not because I want to get rid of you. But because I want to be on my own."

Julius Holliday chuckled. "I met the German girl. Serious with you?"

"It might be in time," Ben said. "You'll like her; she isn't afraid of you at all."

"I sure found that out," Julius said. "Ben, would you take my word that I won't interfere and let me stay a week or so? Just as a favor?"

"Sure," Ben said, turning, a smile on his face. "Why not? He walked over to the chair that held his father's clothes, and tossed them to him. "Come on, I'll buy you a Texas breakfast!"

"You killed my son and burned me to the ground. Did you think I'd let you get away with it?" The story concludes tomorrow.

Science At Work

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

X-rays of trees, now detective work on clouds, and speculation about the beginnings of life are on the week's science menu:

Inside Story

X-rays are peeking into trees to uncover secrets of insect life. Instead of chiselling away sections of bark to study habits of tree insects, Prof. Ronald W. Stark, University of California entomologist, snaps pictures and population changes without disturbing the insects.

Tree samples now are brought into the laboratory for X-raying, but a portable X-ray outfit is being developed which could be taken into the woods to look inside living trees.

Light Housekeeping

Landing on another planet, the spacemen build themselves a house and even furniture out of lightweight plastic foam.

They squirt or mold the foam into desired shapes, and it hardens quickly to put housekeeping under way. The plastic foam appears promising this way, according to studies by the Air Research and Development Command. Such foam might also be used to make weather and communications satellite balloons more rigid.

Start of Things

Did life just drop in upon earth some 500 million years ago or so? Perhaps, suggests Edwin Norbeck, State University of Iowa physicist. At least, he says, such a theory could fit with some of the problems of accounting for life on earth.

Life generally is presumed to have started with a single cell, with all types of animals later evolving from that. But scientists cannot find evidence, or remains, of animals dating back more than some 500 million years ago. By that time, the main biological divisions of animals existed, Norbeck says.

So, he suggests, perhaps all the types of animals started living on earth at the same time—and came here aboard part of a smashed-up planet which once circled between Mars and Jupiter.

Eggs and larvae of such animals—if not the adults themselves—could have been lumped into earth's oceans to start developing here.

The theory may seem unlikely, Norbeck admits, and it doesn't answer the question where animals came from originally.

Cloudy Question

The weather satellite, Tiros II, now circling the earth is expected to answer a prime question: What kind of clouds control the flow of heat and sunlight away from the earth?

Over-all, the earth maintains a heat balance—radiating or losing as much heat as it receives from the sun. But variations in the balance at various parts of the world cause energy shifts, or changes, and these are a basic cause of world weather.

Experiments in Explorer VII satellite showed that cloudiness controls the earth's heat loss, and cameras aboard Tiros II can show what kinds of clouds are responsible.

Prof. Werner Suomi of the University of Wisconsin thinks high clouds control the heat loss. The higher clouds are, the colder they are, and strangely enough, the colder a cloud is the more effective it is as a blanket to keep heat in the atmosphere, he says.

Snowy Owls May Invade The U.S.

NEW YORK (AP)—The United States may be facing an invasion of snowy owls from the Arctic.

The owls, about two feet long from beak to tail tip, have been seen as far south as Long Island, the National Audubon Society said Monday.

The birds are likely to go on exodus once every four years. The owls—white but flecked with brown—are harmless and are protected by law in New England and New York, among other states. They hunt in the daylight, feeding on rats and mice.

Individual Americans Are Investing Abroad

EDITOR'S NOTE — Individual investors have been putting a lot of U.S. dollars into foreign stocks and bonds. In this, the first of a series of three articles, Sam Dawson, AP business news analyst, discusses the extent of this outflow and for what it is going.

By SAM DAWSON

AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Individual Americans haven't trailed too far behind corporations in seeking greener investing fields beyond our borders.

Sometimes the citizen has lost his shirt. More often perhaps he's made more than he might have with a like investment here.

Americans have paid an estimated $4 billion for present holdings of foreign bonds and $5 billion for other foreign securities and real estate—no one knows for sure just how much. Buying runs in cycles. It started upward sharply months ago, but has slumped in the last three.

Total individual holdings are well below the $29 billion American corporations have spent abroad for new plant and equipment or to buy up sources of raw materials—with this year adding an estimated $4 billion.

Both forms of spending are in the spotlight today because of their role, however small, in causing this nation to spend more abroad than it has taken in return. This deficit is now running at around $4 billion a year.

And the resultant loss of dollars—and especially the outflow of our gold—has raised a hullabaloo in Washington and a brief but disturbing flurry in the London gold market that some saw as threatening the value of our dollar.

There have been three streams of individuals' dollars flowing abroad:

1. Foreign stocks. American investors took a shine to European, and to some extent Japanese, corporate securities when prices of U.S. stocks soared far above what common stocks of foreign corporations in the same fields were bringing. Later the continuing European industrial and stock market booms, when American business was going slack and U.S. stock prices dropping, helped the trend. This tended to push European stock prices higher.

Then they too turned weak, and have fallen faster in the last three months than have American.

Brokers here report a drying up of American demand for foreign stocks of late, but little selling on balance.

2. Foreign government bonds. Sale of new issues in New York reached a postwar peak in 1958 of $223.3 million, but so far this year is down to $85 million. Political turmoil in Africa and Latin America tended to scare off investors this year. Many old issues of foreign bonds are traded on stock exchanges here.

3. Hot money. This is idle capital held by individuals, corporations, financial institutions looking for short-term investment at the highest return. With interest rates dropping here and staying much higher overseas, hot money has flowed out in volume.

She Makes A Success Out Of Problem Girls

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—For a girl with no problems, Connie Stevens is certainly making a success of problem girls.

This Brooklyn blonde is well on her way to being the big new heartbeat of the teen-age set, as well as their stodgy elders. You have only to cast an eye at the fan magazines, traditional ground swell of coming sensations. She's a hot item with the fans.

TV watchers will recognize Connie as Cricket Blake, the warm night club singer of "Hawaiian Eye." The juke box clique know her as the world-be borrower on the hit disc, "Kookie, Kookie, Lend Me Your Comb." She also had a recent, near-million seller, "18 Reasons."

Now the movie crowd is going to get a closeup of Connie. She has leading roles in two upcoming films, both potential star-makers. The first is "Parrish."

"I play a bad girl who has a problem," she related. "She's the daughter of a tobacco picker who has 14 children and they live in the worst of circumstances. Sex is taken as a matter of course. She gets pregnant and Troy Donahue, who is not the father, offers to marry her."

Now Connie is playing the title role in "Susan Slade."

"I play a good girl who has a problem," she recounted. "She comes from a nice, well-to-do family and she knows little about sex. She falls in love with a boy and gets pregnant. The boy dies and her mother, played by Dorothy McGuire, makes it appear the baby is her own."

Later, the girl's maternal instincts prevail and she wants her baby back. Who should come to the rescue but reliable Troy Donahue.

Such are the problems of young girls these days—in the movies, at least. Connie herself is virtually problemless.

"I couldn't be happier," she says glowingly. She's unlike most Warner Bros. TV stars, who yearn to escape the small screen for the big one.

'Obscured' By TB Successes

DURHAM, N. C. — Dramatic successes in the fight against tuberculosis have obscured many problems that must be solved before the disease can be wiped out, according to Duke University medical scientist D. T. Smith.

A past president of the National Tuberculosis Association, the Duke microbiologist states in the current issue of "The Health Bulletin" published by the N. C. State Board of Health that extensive research is needed to solve the remaining problems in tuberculosis control.

He emphasizes also that "the danger of the undetected spreader of the disease... justifies expensive X-ray surveys of apparently healthy people."

Dr. Smith cites these needs in the fight against TB: a vaccine which would be as effective as smallpox vaccine; and a harmless, inexpensive drug which would kill dormant or inactive TB germs in apparently healthy individuals and thus prevent them from breaking down under stress and strain.

He states that "we need to know the secret of the healthy individual who becomes infected but never develops the disease."

Also, he writes, "we need to know why the disease is so slow in its evolution. Often ten, twenty years or even larger periods

Oil Hunter Uses A 'Doodlebug'

HANOVER, Ill. (AP) — A. A. Potter, a veteran of 47 years of wildcat oil drilling, used a variation of the "witching stick" to locate the present drilling site he has drilled to a depth of 750 feet.

"Most people laugh when I tell them about my 'doodlebug,'" the elderly Texan said. Then Potter took a capsule from a plastic box and slipped it into the end of a curious-looking object.

"The capsule," he said, "contains a secret ingredient which attracts to electricity given off by oil. That's what makes the 'doodlebug' act up when there's oil in the area."

Even Matchbooks Were Impartial

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — Sidelight to be a political campaign: Paper matchbooks circulating in Anne Arundel County were imprinted on the front cover: "Re-elect Ira E. Wolcott, Republican candidate for sheriff."

On the back, they said: "Vote Democratic."

No Cancer For 'Smoking Mice'

NEW YORK - Lifetime exposure of mice to cigarette smoke by a team of four scientists did not cause lung cancer in any of the animals, the Tobacco Institute reported today in its publication, Tobacco and Health.

The animals responded to the smoke in such varied ways that the scientists are now studying the possible role of viruses as a cause of lung cancer, according to their report.

For the experiments, the scientists exposed 360 mice to cigarette smoke every day for periods ranging from a month to a "mouse lifetime."

The scientists said the results "would seem to detract from the importance of cigarette smoke as an injurious agent invariably affecting the major bronchi."

The research team is composed of Dr. Cecile Leuchtenberger and her husband, Dr. Rudolf Leuchtenberger, of the Children's Cancer Research Foundation in Boston, and Dr. William Zebrun and Patricia Shaffer, both of the Institute of Pathology, Western Reserve University, Cleveland, Ohio.

Chicod 57 Bath 56

BATH—Chicod's spirited Hornets came up with some razzle-dazzle play in the final minute of the game last night to upset a rugged Bath five, 57-56.

Coach Bob Howell's outfit rallied for six points in the final minute of play to knock the wind from Bath's basketball machine.

All-County Ray Fornes caused the biggest damage to Bath, harvesting the final three points. The flashy senior converted on a foul shot and dropped a field goal seconds later to climax the dramatic come-from-behind victory.

Fornes' field goal came with less than 20 seconds remaining on the clock. The blond bomber was second in the scoring column with 18 points. Ray Hardee had 19 points to pace the victory.

Leo Sullivan of Bath was high man in the game with 26 points. In the girls' game, Bath racked up a 47-26 victory without working up a sweat.

Paced by Sandra Cox's 26 points, the winners led 30-8 at intermission. Pansy Jones had 13 for Chicod.

The Hornets return to county action Friday, meeting Grimesland.

Robersonville 57 Belvoir-Falkland 45

ROBERSONVILLE—Tommy Ward hit a field goal just seconds before the end of the first quarter, giving Robersonville its first lead of the game, and the Rams were never headed in posting a non-conference 57-45 victory over Belvoir-Falkland.

The visiting Eagles of Pitt County surged out front early in the contest on the shooting of Willie Wallace, but Bonnie Stevenson and Ward pooled their talents to overcome the lead and carry the Rams to their first victory of the season.

Robersonville had pulled ahead by 29-20 at halftime and it was 48-37 after three quarters.

Ward was the top gunner with 18 points and Stevenson trailed with 13. Jimmy Brown collected 11.

Willie Wallace led the Belvoir-Falkland scoring with 14 points. Harold Harris had 12 and Joe Jenkins 10.

In the girls' game, Coach Ed Warren's outfit took charge after an 11-11 first quarter tie and raced to a 60-50 non-league victory.

High-scoring Phyllis Nichols dumped in 26 points but got scoring help from Carolyn Harris who had 22.

Mary Rogerson had 18 points for Robersonville.

The Rams open conference play this week against Beargrass.

Ayden 61 Winterville 53

WINTERVILLE—Led by a trio of sharpshooters and the savage rebounding of Ted Norris, Ayden's Tornadoes roared through a 19-point third quarter and then hung on to hand Winterville's Wolves their first conference setback, 61-53, here last night.

Coach Blainie Moyer's Wolves returned to the floor after half-dozen of Coach Stuart Tripp outpoint them 19-10 during the third time with a slim margin at 33-32 only to watch the hustling Tornadoes.

The quints matched points the final quarter to give Ayden its second straight win of the young Pitt County Conference season.

William Edwards led the balanced Tornado scoring attack with 15 points. Dennis Mills tallied 14 and Norris added 12. The other two starters, Tommy Dunn and Clem McLawhorn, contributed 10 and eight points, respectively. Norris, 6-4 forward, grabbed 20 rebounds.

Lanky Jim Braxton, the Wolves' 21-point-per-game ace, saw his average dip as he bucketed only 11 points. Steve Worthington led the local losing effort with 20 markers. John Westington and Bobby Hobgood added eight each while injured Alfred Gold could get only four points.

Following last night's loss, Moyer's Wolves stand at 5-2 for the season and 1-1 in conference.

Coach Troy Jackson's local girls, however, pleased the packed Winterville gym by winning easily from the visiting sextet, 69-49.

Winterville's Carolyns, Cayton and Barnes again paved the way for the girls' victory. Each tossed in 31 points to lead Winterville to its second straight conference win in as many starts. Jackson's charges are 5-2 overall.

Andrea Harris' 24 points led the losing effort of Ayden Coach Tommy Craft's girls that never seriously challenged the local lassies. Winterville jumped into a 22-11 lead by the end of the first quarter and was never headed.

Bethel 86 Stokes-Pactolus 35

BETHEL—Bethel's Indians ran roughshod over Stokes-Pactolus here last night as Coach Walter Latham emptied his bench in the first half, turned his starters into the showers a halftime, and watched his reserves wind up an 86-35 Pitt County Conference rout of the Blue Jays.

The outcome was never in doubt as the Indians poured in 22 and 25 points in the first two quarters while holding the visitors from Stokes to 11 first half points.

Bethel's girls also had little trouble in picking up a victory in the first game of the doubleheader. Carolyn Manning, with 20 points, led the Bethel lassies to 50-17 decision.

A reserve, Jimmy Lewis, led the Indians' scoring attack, picking up 14 points as his front-line mates watched from the stands. Starters John Smith, Harvey Lewis, James Ayers and Tex Everett divided the early scoring for Bethel with eight points each. The remaining starter, Don Dewar, added four.

Donnie Whitehurst led the losing Stokes-Pactolus effort with 12 points but no other Blue Jay could net more than six points. All the nine reserves used by Coach Latham contributed to the Bethel scoring total.

In the girls' action, Bethel moved into a 12-5 first quarter lead that stretched to 20-10 by halftime. Lily Crisp led the losing Blue Jays with seven points. Bethel saw a 23-point final stanza to turn the conference tussle into the complete rout. Stokes-Pactolus could get only two points during the final period.

Bethel is scheduled to host Farmville's Red Devils here Friday night in efforts to extend its unblemished conference slate. The local girls have dropped one conference encounter.

High Point Upsets ECC Cagers, 60-58

High Point overcame an eight-point East Carolina lead early in the second half last night and held on to knock the wind from the high-riding Pirates, 60-58.

High Point, a solid underdog going into the game, tooted its warning horn early in the contest when Wofly Unger, a dead-eye with a one-hand jump shot from the corner, fired in five straight field goals to send the Panthers into a 10-2 lead.

The quick outburst by Unger forced East Carolina to change game tactics, switching from a zone defense to a man-for-man.

The Bucs battled from behind and a couple of free throws by Charlie Lewis tied the game for the first time, 23-23. A field goal by Larry Nolan gave High Point the lead again but EC tied it on a bucket by Cotton Clayton.

It was tied again at 27-all but High Point pushed ahead with two field goals just before the halftime buzzer, 31-29.

Clayton, EC's high man for the night with 15 points, hit a field goal with 19:26 left in the second half and East Carolina took the lead for the first time, 33-31.

After High Point tied it at 35-all, East Carolina pushed back in front and stretched its lead to 44-36 with 14:28 left in the game.

The Panthers, scrappy all the way, fought back with eight straight points and tied it 44-44. A three-point play by Joe Guzinski tied the game.

Wofly Unger converted on a charity toss and High Point was ahead 44-44. Guzinski hit a jump shot and the visitors shot out-front to stay, 47-44.

The final ten minutes of action was nip-and-tuck all the way with East Carolina trailing all the way. The Bucs closed the gap to two points on several occasions but were never on equal footing again.

Don Smith's field goal with a little over a minute remaining out the score to 56-54 but Guzinski countered with a two-pointer. Benny Bowes and Unger swapped field goals and Smith hit on another basket with 17 left on the scoreboard, leaving the score at 60-58.

East Carolina had several opportunities to tie the count in the final seconds but failed, a last second desperation shot by Cotton Clayton hitting the rim and bouncing off to the right.

The defeat, East Carolina's second in five games, knocked Coach Earl Smith's charges from atop the North State standings. High Point's record is now 2-0 in the league and 2-1 overall.

Although second in height to the Pirates, High Point was able to gain position for most of the night and controlled the backboards. The Panthers also had their hottest night from the floor, hitting 53%.

Wofly Unger, the lad who tore the Bucs apart early in the contest, was high man for the winners with 23 points. Guzinski followed with 16.

Clayton's 15 stood up for East Carolina. Charlie Lewis, who had 10 in the first half, and Don Smith had 13 points apiece.

The victory was the third straight for High Point over the Smith-coached Pirates. The Panthers won both meetings last year.

East Carolina will be trying to bounce back here Friday night when it concludes its pre-holiday play, hosting the Lenoir Rhyme Bears.

Banquet Set For Thursday

The East Carolina Touchdown Club, headed by Louis Clark, will stage the annual banquet for the college football team tomorrow night at the college cafeteria. Starting time is 7:00.

The banquet will feature Sam Bundy of Farmville as master of ceremonies and Bill Currie of Raleigh as guest speaker. The public is invited, including ladies. Tickets may be obtained by calling Louis Clark or the athletic department at East Carolina College.

Currie, the guest speaker, is manager of radio station WRAL in Raleigh and provides the color and halftime show for the University of North Carolina football network. He attended Catawba College and worked as a sports writer prior to entering the radio media.

East Carolina posted a 7-3 record this fall—its best record since 1953—and gained a 22-7 upset over U. of Richmond in the season finale.

PHANTOMS' SCORE—Greenville's Billy James goes up for two points against a Rocky Mount defender. The Phants won their first game of the season last night, 59-53.

Celtics, Hawks Head For Title

As things stand in the National Basketball Association, it looks like another championship playoff next spring between the Boston Celtics and St. Louis Hawks unless the Philadelphia Warriors can come up with the necessary ingredients.

The Warriors remained only one game behind idle Boston in the Eastern Division, after defeating the Syracuse Nationals 113-107 in the first game of a Madison Square Garden twin bill Tuesday night.

This dropped Syracuse, which was riding a four-game winning streak, seven games behind the Celtics.

The Hawks, meanwhile, held a 3 1/2-game edge over the Los Angeles Lakers after knocking off the Detroit Pistons 146-110 at St. Louis.

Greenville Pulls Upset On Rocky Mount Five, 59-53

Greenville's scrappy Phantoms turned the tables on Rocky Mount, 59-53, here last night for their first victory of the 1960-61 campaign.

Defeated 43-21 last Friday night by this same Blackbird club, Greenville stormed in front late in the first period and simmered a late Rocky Mount rally for the victory over the class 4-A club.

With Layne Jorgensen in the lineup, it was a different club from the one that stumbled and fumbled in defeat last week. The visiting 'Birds were also improved over their first game performance.

Alan McArthur's hot-shooting from the floor carried the Phants to victory, along with the rebounding of Jorgensen, the 6-4 center. "Mac" scored 20 points and first victory of the 1960-61 campaign.

A jump shot by McArthur in the final minute of the initial period gave Greenville a one-point lead, 9-3, and the 'Birds were trailing the remainder of the night.

By halftime, Greenville boosted its lead to 28-22 and led by as much as 12 points in the third period.

Triggered by Jimmy Dunn, Rocky Mount staged a rally late in the game and moved to within three points of the winners, 56-53.

Basilio Goes Before Hearings

By WHITNEY SHOEMAKER WASHINGTON (AP) — Carmen Basilio moves from the boxing ring to the hearing room today to face a senatorial prizefight inquiry.

John G. Bonomi, special counsel to the Senate Antitrust and Monopoly subcommittee, said he planned to question the former middleweight champion about possible relationships with James D. Norris and Frankie Carbo.

Both names have been mentioned frequently in the subcommittee's hunt for an underworld taint on boxing. Norris was co-owner of the International Boxing Club, dissolved by court order on monopoly grounds. Carbo is a gangland figure presently in prison for undercover matchmaking and managing.

In addition to Basilio, the Senate unit hoped to hear from Jack Kearns, the colorful manager-promoter who handled Jack Dempsey among many others. Kearns is said to have received at least $137,000 from Norris enterprises for good will activity among other managers.

Before getting to them, Bonomi ordered more testimony from ex-New York Manager Herman (Hymie the Mink) Wallman.

Wallman made no attempt to conceal his chumminess with Carbo when he began testifying Tuesday. He said Carbo considered Billy Brown, former IBC matchmaker, as Carbo's man and made it easier for Wallman's fighters to appear on IBC cards.

Bonomi produced testimony before a New York grand jury in 1958 in which Wallman agreed with an interrogator that Carbo practically controlled matchmaking in Madison Square Garden. The IBC, ran Garden boxing shows.

Big Gabe Chosen Player Of Year

Gabriel, who led North Carolina State to a successful football season with his deadly throwing arm, has been named the Atlantic Coast Conference player of the year.

The Atlantic Coast Sports Writers Association gave him the nod by a huge margin over several other top flight conference performers. Out of 72 ballots, Gabriel was named on 51.

The swarthy Wilmington junior, who has a B average in his course in education, completed 105 of 186 passes for 1,182 yards. His total offense figure was 1,346 yards.

As a field general, Gabriel led the Wolfpack to several comeback victories. Largely through his efforts, State improved its record from 1-9 in 1959 to 6-3-1 in 1960. Gabriel is 6-4 and weighs 218 pounds. He exhibited the poise of a pro as he faded to pass and was adept at gaining key yardage through his line rushes.

As a sophomore, he led the nation's passers by completing 60.4 per cent of his tosses. Last season's percentage was 56.5. However, only seven of his passes were intercepted in 1960.

Carolina, State Cop League Wins

North Carolina State's fast-starting basketball team shattered a 10-game losing streak on the road, and uncovered a bright sophomore in the process.

The Wolfpack held on for a 70-67 win over Clemson in the Atlantic Coast Conference Tuesday night, snapping a losing streak away from home that stretched over the entire 1950-51 season. Not since 1938-39 had N.C. State been able to win away from the sprawling confines of Reynolds Coliseum in Raleigh.

Jon Speaks, a highly regarded sophomore, came off the bench to pump in 16 points in leading N.C. State to its third straight win and first in the ACC.

North Carolina continued to run rampant over the opposition, completely outclassing Virginia 81-47. Maryland scored an 80-68 win over George Washington in a non-conference game.

No ACC teams are scheduled tonight. Thursday night Clemson plays Marshall in Huntington, W.Va., and South Carolina visits Georgia.

Speaks, a 6-footer from basketball-rich Lexington, Ky., entered the game late in the first half. He promptly helped the Wolfpack into a 32-26 intermission lead, and starting the second half, he scored in 11 of N.C. State's first 17 points for a 49-37 margin.

Clemson, which lost its first game in the ACC, now stands 1-2 overall. Choppy Patterson and Ed Krjack, a pair of veterans, helped Clemson pull within three points of N.C. State, but the hometown Tigers couldn't quite close the final gap. Krjack ended with 16 points and Patterson added 15 for Clemson.

Besides Speaks, Anton Muehlbauer, 6-2 junior, added 14 for N.C. State.

Balanced North Carolina was the last ACC team to open its basketball season, but the Tar Heels are moving plenty fast. Doug Moe scored 20 points, York

Larese 15, Jim Huddock 13 and Dick Kepley 12 as North Carolina ran up a 45-21 halftime margin over Virginia and outscored the Cavaliers by 10 points in the last half.

Moe, 6-foot-6 senior, hauled down 16 rebounds to lead in both scoring and rebounds. He teamed with Larese to dazzle Virginia with a series of defensive interceptions and steals which were turned into goals.

Virginia, which lost its second game, both in the ACC, got 12 points from sophomore Gene Engel. No other member of the Cavalier squad scored better than nine points.

The win was North Carolina's first in the conference, and second in as many starts.

Unbeaten Maryland tripped George Washington at the foul line. The Terps copped their third straight game by converting 28 of 37 free throws, while George Washington got only 16 to 28.

West Virginia Missing Services Of Jerry West

By JACK CLARY
Associated Press Sports Writer

How bad will West Virginia miss All America Jerry West, you ask?

Well, they miss him bad enough today to have to start a home winning streak from scratch after The Citadel broke the 44-game string Tuesday night 83-80 and set itself up as the one to beat in the Southern Conference race.

The loss, first in two games for new coach George King, also shattered a string of 33 conference victories at home. It also made King, who succeeded Fred Schaus, now coaching the professional Los Angeles Lakers, a prophet of sorts.

"A team can't lose a two-year All America and expect to be better, especially early in the season," King said before the campaign began.

But while West Virginia lost its home streak, an even bigger one continued. St. Bonaventure, which plays in the army in Olean, N.Y., won its 94th "home" game, beating little Villa Madonna (Ky) 63-73, behind Tom Stith's 32 points.

19 points from Jerry Colangelo while John Tidwell's 38 points paced Michigan. Maryland's 28 of the Terps against George Washington, whose 16 of 28 free throws proved its undoing. Each team scored 26 field goals.

Cal's victory was its 24th straight at home but came in the face of a hot-shooting first half by San Jose, which led 27-22. The Bears' defense gave the losers only two free throws for 11 minutes of the second half.

Elsewhere, Penn beat Navy 64-53, Penn State rolled past Lehigh 66-50, Princeton won over Temple 74-64, Texas A&M defeated Houston 86-61, Marquette easily handled Wisconsin-Milwaukee 99-63, Hardin Simmons knocked off Eastern New Mexico 72-61, Arizona belted Arizona State College 78-59, Southern Methodist conquered Florida 74-64 and Memphis State walloped Baylor 84-58.

At the High Point American Business Club's 15th annual awards night banquet following the conference meeting, Lee Farmer of Lenoir Rhyne was presented the conference's most valuable trophy in absentia. He is in St. Petersburg, Fla., where Lenoir Rhyne will play in the Holiday bowl game Saturday.

In other decisions, the conference officially named Lenoir Rhyne the football champion, decided to continue playing under NCAA rules and the Kicklan Blocking Award was presented to back Adam Maples of Lenoir Rhyne.

Limited Scholarship Aid Is Presented In NS Meet

HIGH POINT, N.C. (AP) — A program limiting athletic scholarships to 35 was presented to the North State Conference at its winter meeting here Tuesday.

The plan is outgrowth of a year's study by presidents of the conference's members. The plan stipulates that not more than 22 scholarships be for football and 10 for basketball. The other three apparently would be for spring sports.

In a 12-point program presented by Dr. A. R. Keppel, president of Catawba College, the North State would begin offering letters of intent to prospective grants-in-aid athletes.

No formal action can be taken until the conference constitution on the proposals until the spring meeting next May. However, they apparently will be adopted then without opposition.

An application for membership from Newberry College in South Carolina was tabled until the spring meeting. At the same time, the conference directed that information be sent to three other South Carolina colleges—Wofford, Erskine and Presbyterian—in reply to a letter of inquiry concerning possible membership.

back Adam Maples of Lenoir Rhyne.

Dr. Allen R. Sharp of Atlantic Christian College was named conference president. He succeeds Dr. A. L. Hook of Elon. Dr. E. G. Purdom of Guilford was chosen vice president; Dr. D. E. Faust of Catawba re-elected secretary and Dr. C. R. Hinshaw of High Point named commissioner.

Hulan Jack Is Convicted In Conflict-Of-Interest Case

NEW YORK (AP)—Manhattan Borough President Hulan Jack faces automatic ouster from his $25,000-a-year post after conviction on conflict-of-interest charges involving a $4,400 deal.

The city charter, however, makes it plain that any public officer convicted of a crime automatically forfeits his job.

The jury had deliberated only 4 hours and 35 minutes. An earlier trial on the same charges ended in a hung jury last July.

All Postmarked At 'North Pole'

JUNEAU, Alaska — Thousands of happy kids across the country are doing a double-take at the mail box this month, as they come up with genuine, honest-to-goodness letters from old Santa Claus himself.

Jack also was convicted on an additional charge of conspiring to obstruct justice in telling the district attorney a false story to cover up the remodeling job.

Ungar, once his campaign manager, was listed as a co-conspirator—not a defendant—in the case after a grand jury had given him immunity.

NEW YORK (AP)—When, last season, a toiletries manufacturer opened a sponsor a special documentary called "The Race for Space," he found that no network would accept the independently produced program because of a general networks broadcasting policy that each news department exercise supervision and control over preparation of this type of program.

It has been reported, and more or less conceded by the principals, that relations are not quite idyllic between Allan Funt, creator and spokesman-in-chief of "Candid Camera," and Arthur Godfrey, who came into the show at the last minute as host.

Daily Train To West Berlin Could Be Cold War Issue

By CARL HARTMAN
BERLIN (AP) — Promptly at 4:37 a. m. every day of the year a U. S. Army train pulls up to the station at Marienborn, just inside the Iron Curtain of Communist East Germany.

It usually has six cars, drawn by an old-fashioned coal-burning locomotive of the East German rail system. An Army lieutenant steps to the station platform and checks his papers through the Soviet control officer.

In half an hour, if there are no hitches, the coal burner is puffing along the 110-mile stretch of Communist territory to isolated West Berlin.

This has been routine ever since the U. S. soldiers took over their sector of Berlin the summer of 1945. The French and British armies run similar trains.

Now these milk runs again may become a cold war issue.

Railroad officials and U. S. authorities are burrowing through old records—"a lot of agreements signed by captains," as one official put it—to find out how they were set up. How they were organized and, most important, exactly how that East German locomotive is paid for, have been forgotten.

The first agreement was made with the Soviets. Since then, Moscow has set up its East German satellite as a sovereign state—which the United States does not recognize. Neither does West Germany. But railroad authorities get together all the time to handle such routine problems as timetables and freight charges.

The Germans and Americans who deal with the American train believe—though they are far from sure—that the East German locomotive is paid for in some way through the West German railroads. Just how is not clear.

It may become important because West Germany has canceled its trade agreement with Communist East Germany, effective Jan. 1. Among many other things, this pact regulates how the two parts of the country settle their railroad bills.

The West Germans canceled the pact as a reprisal for the Communist squeeze on Berlin. Both East and West Germans have made it plain that they want to renew and have begun negotiations.

If the agreement is not renewed by New Year's Eve and the Communists decide to be nasty, they could refuse to operate the trains. But such a move could lead to another Berlin blockade and the East Germans undoubtedly would have to get approval by Moscow first.

By ROBERT BERRELLEZ
HAVANA (AP) — Church officials today blamed Communists for a shattering bomb explosion in a Roman Catholic church whose pastor is a leading critic of Prime Minister Fidel Castro's regime.

The attack, first on a church since Castro's feud with Roman Catholic officials began, took place just after Tuesday night's vesper services. None of the 50 persons inside was injured but pews and flooring in the Our Lady of Charity church were damaged extensively.

The bombing underscored the growing tension between the church and Castro, whose internal problems appeared to be mounting on three other fronts: economic, labor, and armed opposition.

A small red flag was left inside the bombed church. It bore a hammer and sickle and the inscription: "Viva Khrushchev, down with the clergy. Viva Fidel Castro."

Pastor of the church, located in the older eastern section of Havana, is Msgr. Eduardo Boza Masvidal. He is a member of the church hierarchy which Sunday angrily denied in a pastoral letter the prime minister's charge that priests took sugar company bribes to preach against his revolution.

Several other bombs exploded in Havana's residential areas during the night, marking an intensified campaign by antigovernment factions.

The bombings are just one of the growing signs of opposition to the Castro regime.

An increasing number of armed insurgents, including some of Castro's own soldiers, have taken to mountains of western and central Cuba.

The latest defection was reported in Pinar del Rio Province where Capt. Clodomiro Miranda Mediel and a band of men took large supplies of arms and ammunition into the mountains.

Miranda Mediel, commander of the Seboruco garrison was said to have taken "numerous companions" with him. The number was not given, but a force of 2,000 militiamen was reported to have been sent to chase them.

Other armed anti-Castro bands have been active in the province. Insurgents also are reported stepping up activities in the Escambray Mountains of Las Villas Province in south-central Cuba.

Unconfirmed reports say this insurgent activity caused Castro and his brother Raul, armed forces minister, to go to Las Villas to supervise the rebel hunt by army troops and militiamen. Raul previously moved his headquarters from Havana to easternmost Santiago where unrest is reported.

The government stepped up its campaign because of fears of sabotage to sugar mills and plantations as harvest time approaches.

There were indications the Castro regime failed in an attempt to persuade labor to work today—a national holiday in memory of Gen. Antonio Maceo, hero of the independence war against Spain—and contribute the day's pay to the workers' social fund.

The Labor Ministry announced that a petition by the workers asking to work arrived too late to be approved at labor assemblies.

Government newspapers had given prominent play to a report that today would be a work day.

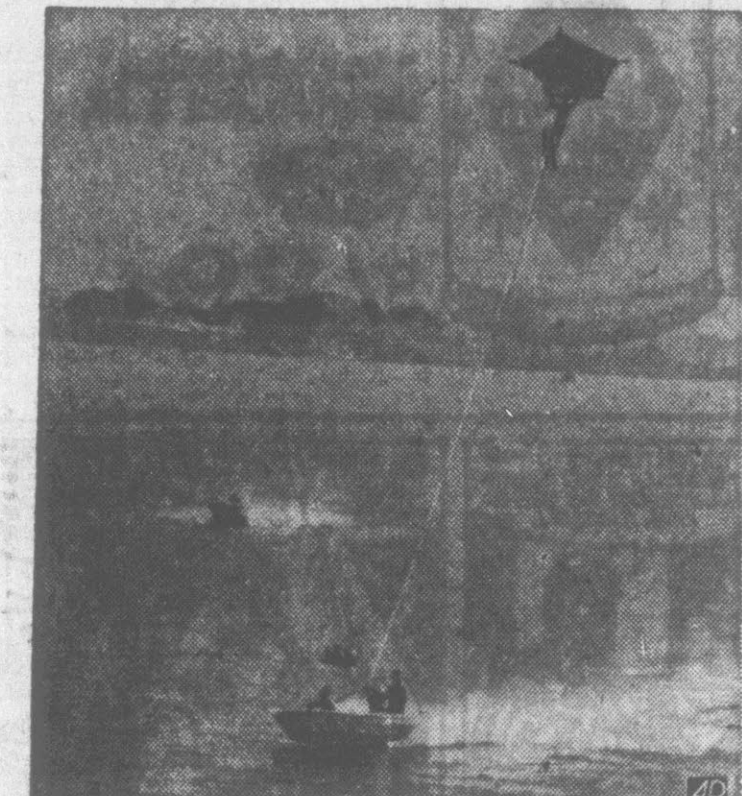

Reliable sources said large segments of labor are "fed up with so many deductions" from their pay checks and decided to take the day off, forcing the Labor

Ministry to change its plans at the last minute.

On the economic front, Castro named a high-powered commerce minister to go to Canada in an effort to expand trade with the United States' northern neighbor.

Castro apparently hopes Canada will supplant the United States in loan from Red China and in trade relations. Canadian banks created sugar trading with that in Cuba are the only foreign financial institutions not nationalized.

Ernesto (Che) Guevara, Cuban National Bank president, is touring the Far East in hopes of picking up loans and trade agreements. His only announced success so far has been a $60-million loan from Red China and in trade relations. Canadian banks created sugar trading with that in Cuba are the only foreign financial institutions not nationalized.

Montevideo's Shoreline Becoming Ultra-Modern

By JOSE MARIA ORLANDO
MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (AP) — An unprecedented building boom is turning the shoreline of safely mansions built here at the turn of the century into an ultramodern complex of towering apartment buildings.

The gray sprawling mansions used to give the shoreline a look of baronial loftiness.

In the old days, parasolled women in long, white lace gowns rode in horse-drawn streetcars for fashionable summer afternoon promenades at the Pocitos Beach suburb, four miles from downtown Montevideo.

In the last 10 years, the cool, manors have been torn down. Brightly modern apartment buildings of a dozen stories have replaced them.

Homes for some 200,000 people—more than a fifth of Montevideo's present population—have been built in this capital on the Atlantic seaboard. The number of apartment houses built in the same period is estimated at 1,500.

The boom started shortly after the adoption of a new "horizontal property" law allowing apartments in each building to be sold separately. People jumped at the chance to own their own home at a cheaper price than standard house. With land and building costs divided among the prospective owners, the price of each living unit is about 30 per cent less than a house of the same size.

Virtually no one here builds for rent, since housing laws make it a Herculean feat to evict a tenant or even get him to pay a little more rent.

The building boom has boosted land prices in the Pocitos area fivefold. Under such pressures, even the more stubborn old families could not resist selling their oversized and dusty mansions and moving into one of the new apartments. Most Pocitos apartment buildings now are upper-middle class—with common gardens, swimming pools and chic stores and restaurants.

The state bank grants low-interest, long-range loans to Uruguayans who want to buy apartments. Such government programs are a hallmark of Uruguay's welfare state.

In search of squid, its favorite food, a sperm whale dives 3,200 feet below the ocean surface where pressure is 1,400 pounds to the square inch. It often remains submerged for an hour.

Flying Gifts To Korean Orphans

HONOLULU (AP)—Santa Claus took off today in a New Hampshire National Guard C97 transport with 10,000 pounds of toys, clothing and food for Korean orphans.

Waiting in Seoul is Santa's helper, Lt. Horace D. Verry, whose letter to his hometown newspaper, the Keene (N.H.) Evening Sentinel, started it all.

Verry requested a few toys for children in a nearby orphanage. Five tons of material is the result, with the Air Guard pitching in by scheduling the flight as a training mission.

Found 'Gunshots' Were Just Pods

GASTONIA, N. C. (AP)—The case of the popping pods went down in police books Tuesday as wisteria hysteria.

Frightened citizens telephoned police that guns were being fired in a residential area. Officers approached with caution and took cover when they heard the firing.

One officer, hiding beneath a wisteria tree, discovered that the shots were really cold wisteria pods popping open as the air became warmer.

The first actual evidence of the use of spectacles is in a 1352 portrait of an Italian cardinal. He is holding two lenses attached to a forklife handle.

Carried Away By Check-Writing

SHEBOYGAN, Wis. (AP) — Sheriff Harold Kroll says a Kewaskum man sent a cashier's check to cover a traffic violation fine.

But somebody got carried away in the process. Kroll said he was returning the check, which was made out for $1,000.025, in payment of a $25 stipulation.

Still Has Time To Go Straight

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — A two-year series of minor burglaries were solved when police nabbed a thief entering a plastic company. Authorities said, despite the admission of many burglaries during the past two years, the thief still has time to go straight. He is 12 years old.

The silver eel is simply a common green eel grown old. When they are six to eight years old, eels stop feeding and change to a silvery color for their long trip out into the ocean where they spew and die.

TV-Watching Mouse Is Safe

BALTIMORE (AP) — C. Heath Johnson says there's a mouse in his house that creeps out on a desk top every evening to watch television, for as long as 30 minutes at a time.

Johnson doesn't plan to try to trap the mouse. He has nothing against it, he says, except its taste for TV spectacles.

Knows Business From The Inside

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP) — A former prisoner at the county jail came back recently to visit a prisoner with whom he had done time in the past.

The visitor was neat and well dressed. He confided to the prisoner he was doing quite well. The visitor now is a jailer in a city in a neighboring state.

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market ignored gloomy economic news and advanced in active trading early this afternoon. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon rose .90 to 215.20 with the industrials up 1.90, rails up .20 and utilities up .20.

Industrials carried the burden of the advance as key stocks throughout the list rose from fractions to 1 or 2 points.

Government reports of a decline in capital spending by business and of rising unemployment were shrugged off by Wall Street.

TB Board Members Urged To Become More Active

Hal Wilson, president-elect of the North Carolina Tuberculosis Association, last night called on Pitt County Association board members to "become more active in carrying out your duties and goals."

Wilson, speaking to the mid-year meeting of the Pitt board of directors, spoke from the topic: "Board Members Against TB."

The Washington, N.C. television executive presented contrasting types of board members. He listed "those who have a personal reason for fighting tuberculosis, the medical professional who fights TB in his career, and the member who accepts a board position only to elevate his social status."

Wilson urged Pitt board members to guard against use of the latter type member. He declared the status-seeking board member "is in every case a disinterested and inactive person in an important position."

The state president-elect pointed out the fight against tuberculosis "is far from complete," citing the national figure that shows an active case of tuberculosis is discovered in America every seven minutes.

He told the Pitt group emphasis "must be placed on the work in this country" since Pitt ranks fourth in North Carolina in number of active cases of the respiratory disease. Wilson complimented the county group for having Miss Lella Higgs on the state board of directors. He described Miss Higgs as a "very interested and active" board member.

Wilson was introduced by Pitt Association Pres. G. Earl Trevathan, Greenville physician. Trevathan presided and welcomed guests that included Mrs. Wilson, State Association Director C. Scott Venable, state field consultant Miss Addie Murry Darden, and Pitt Countians Robert D. Wheeler of Grifton, J.S. Grimes and Mrs. David Sencindiver of Greenville.

Campaign Report

Prior to Wilson's address, Pitt Association Executive Director Mrs. Milton V. Clarke reported the 1960 Christmas Seal Appeal had resulted in a total of $4,004.40 raised through yesterday. She reported 10,000 letters were mailed and the local office had received a total 1,335 replies through yesterday.

The Seal Sale Committee report extended appreciation to Seal Sale Committee volunteers, "and especially the Pilot Club," for aiding in preparing the 10,000 letters for mailing.

Other notes of thanks went to Greenville Builders, Charles Lewis, and Bill ("Red") Taylor for helping with the local association's Christmas Parade float; and to radio station WGTC and its manager, J.T. Snowden Jr., for taping and using Christmas Seal Appeal spot announcements.

Winterville Has Two Area Fires

WINTERVILLE — Two fires were reported here this week, one destroying a tenant house and another causing only minor damage, Fire Chief Lloyd Worthington reported.

A tenant house on the Lovie Garris farm, located on the old New Bern Road below the county home, burned Tuesday afternoon about 1 o'clock, Worthington said. By the time firemen were called, the fire was beyond control.

The house and everything in it were lost, Worthington said. James Henderson, Negro, his wife and family occupied the home. No one was injured. Owner of the house was Mrs. Lovie Garris, who lives near Hanrahans.

Worthington said the fire possibly started from a match, which the family reported had caught fire earlier in the day. The fire was put out and the mattress left in the house. It probably smoldered and ignited late, Worthington speculated.

In a fire about 7:45 p.m. Monday, Worthington said some mixed paint exploded close to a heater, causing about $35 or $40 in damages. Most of the damage was due to water rather than fire.

This fire occurred at the home of Johnnie Patrick, Negro, of Winterville. No one was injured in this fire, either.

Both fires were answered by the Winterville Volunteer Fire Department.

N.C. Revenues Well Above Rate Of 1959

RALEIGH (AP)—Revenue Commissioner James Currie has reported that November general fund collections, not counting the withholding windfall, were 17.6 per cent higher than those of November, 1959.

In his monthly letter to Gov. Hodges, Currie said $34 million was collected in the fund last month as against $22.1 million for the previous November. The withholding system, he said, accounted for $8.3 million.

Total revenue collections for the month totaled $34 million, nearly $12 million more than the November, 1959, total.

The highway fund collected $9 1-3 million, a gain of 15 per cent over last November.

For the first five months of the fiscal year, general and highway fund revenues totaled $167 1/2 million compared with $125 1/2 million for the same period last year.

Discounting the withholding plan which resulted in $33 1/2 million, the general fund total was 8.8 per cent higher than the same period in 1959 and the highway fund was 3.5 per cent higher.

For the five months, all general fund schedules showed increases over the same period last year. The income tax collections, not counting the windfall, rose 18.9 per cent.

The commissioner said the general fund schedules which produce substantial revenue posted gains last month over November, 1959.

Pass Franchise In First Reading

BETHEL—The first reading of a new 30-year franchise with the Virginia Electric Power Company was passed by the Bethel Town Board last night.

Mayor Clifton Everett said most of the board's monthly meeting was concerned with discussion of the franchise. The franchise was passed at a second reading, to take place at the January meeting, before it goes into effect.

The previous franchise for electric power was also with the Virginia Electric Power Company, for 30 years, Everett noted. The company serves several communities in this area.

In other business, commissioners heard a report on the test well which is being dug in connection with a new town well. Everett said that tests have not been completed yet but the test well itself is almost complete.

Soil and water must be tested for analyses to find if the water is desirable.

The town's bills were also paid at the meeting.

Optimists Back Industrial School

Greenville Optimists Monday unanimously endorsed the proposed Pitt County Industrial School at its weekly dinner meeting here.

Voting on a motion from the membership, the Optimist group threw its "whole-hearted support" behind the proposed $300,000 facility for the county, Pres. Walter Whitehurst said.

The Optimist action, another in a lengthening series of organization and agency endorsements of the school in recent weeks, followed the local club's regular program.

Sherrill Bryant of Wachovia Bank and Trust Co. here presented a movie, "Agri-Business Caravan," as the club's program. The film showed a recent tour of Wachovia personnel through Detroit, Canada, New England, and New York to observe agriculture and business operations in the areas.

Finance Co-Chairmen Johnnie May and Bill Woolard urged Optimists to participate in the club's annual Christmas tree sale. May pointed out each Optimist will be called on to help maintain the lot at Elm St. Park during the sale that began today.

D. Vinson, manager of the Helix-Meyers Furniture Co., was accepted into the club. Vinson is a transfer Optimist from the Goldsboro Optimist Club.

It is expected next Monday's program will include a six-contestant oratorical contest being managed by Bob Starling and Optimist Tom Money. Money, however, was not available to announce details.

Pres. Whitehurst announced the annual Optimist Ladies' Night observance has been scheduled for Dec. 19 at the Greenville Country Club. Optimist Bob Lee is in charge of arrangements.

Jaycees Throwing Support To Urban Renewal Project

Greenville Jaycees have thrown their support behind the city's proposed Urban Renewal project, club president George Coffman announced today.

The club's board of directors last night approved a motion to "wholeheartedly support Urban Renewal in Greenville and anything that is necessary to implement it."

A redevelopment project is now in the planning stages for an area bounded on the west by the Atlantic Coast Line railroad, on the east by a ravine beyond Reade St. and on the south by Second, Third and Fourth Sts. at various points.

The federal government will pay two-thirds of the net cost with the city to pay one-third. Most of the property would be sold to private enterprise for commercial development.

"Greenville Jaycees are for urban development primarily because we think it is the only way in the world the downtown section will have the opportunity to grow," Coffman said this morning. "If new stores are to come in the downtown section, we have to have a development like this."

He said a Jaycee committee has been appointed to work with the Redevelopment Commission, the mayor and City Council and "to help in whatever way we can to see that the project is successfully carried out."

Milton Foley and Julian Vainwright are co-chairmen of the committee. Serving on it along with Coffman will be Clarence Tugwell, David J. Winchard, W. C. Taylor Jr. and Alvin Taylor.

The club's board of directors had heard Redevelopment director W. I. Cochran and other officials present the Urban Renewal plans at a meeting last night. Cochran appeared again last night to answer questions. He presented several photographs showing conditions in the section.

Coffman said it was the board's thinking that Greenville's business area had reached the saturation point.

"In all probability a major shopping center will develop if something like this is not done," he declared.

He pointed out that studies show a city of Greenville's size cannot support two major business areas.

He also noted there is room for a municipal auditorium in the preliminary plans. "We as Jaycees are much interested in this," he declared. "It is one thing industry is interested in—how well a community is equipped to serve the social needs of employees."

Coffman described the proposed redevelopment area as one of the two major slum areas of the city.

"Anyway you look at it—as a public health, juvenile delinquency or an eyesore problem—the area has got to be cleaned up if Greenville is going to grow and develop."

"It is the cheapest way for the citizens of Greenville" since they have to pay only one-third of the net cost, the club president brought out.

He emphasized that the new commercial area will be tied in with the present business section. It is designed to complement the present downtown rather than to draw business from it.

Fire Calls Kept Townfolk Awake

GRIFTON—A lot of people in Grifton didn't get much sleep this past Saturday night, and one thing is for sure: the firemen got even less.

Events started about 1:30 a.m. Sunday when a condemned house on Waters Street caught fire. Firemen responded, put the fire out and went back to bed.

About 4 a.m. firemen received another call to the same house. The fire had started up again. They responded, put the fire out, and went back to bed.

To really ruin the night's sleep routine and get things off to a good start, the same fire in the same house flared up again about 7:30 a.m. Sunday morning, and the firemen went back. This time, the flames were squelched for good.

Police Chief Luther Lewis said the house was a total loss. Though it had been condemned, it was reported, the house had been inhabited.

Like we said before, there were a lot of people who didn't sleep in Grifton this past weekend.

Install Light At Intersection

AYDEN—A new street light is stalled at the corner of Lee and First Streets, one of the busier corners of town.

Workmen began the installation yesterday and were still working late yesterday. Following the installation of the new stop-go light, Town Manager Cleveland Taylor said all the street lights will be synchronized to facilitate an easy flow of traffic through the center of town.

The traffic light was authorized by the Town Board of Aldermen several months ago. Taylor said the light will be helpful on traffic since the corner is a busy one and parked cars sometimes cause hazardous driving conditions.
