Three Farm Buildings Destroyed By Fire

BARN BURN—Three farm buildings were destroyed by fire near Frog Level yesterday afternoon. The buildings were located on the Blount farm which is operated by Stancil McLathorn. Burning leaves were believed to have set fire to a hay barn. This, in turn, caught a storage shed. Then a third shed caught fire. No fire departments came to the scene but bystanders were able to save some farm equipment from the sheds. An unusually large number of fires have developed in the Frog Level area this year, it was reported. (Photo by Roy Hardee)

Public Housing Authority Is Given Priority In Urban Renewal Plans

By ALVIN TAYLOR, Reflector City Editor. Redevelopment commissioners last night asked the City Council to immediately establish a public housing authority for relocation of low income families now living in the proposed Urban Renewal area.

house and office building be included in the plans to replace the old structure. A motion by Commissioner Hodges was approved stipulating that the commission 'forget any further consideration of the court house' until estimates of construction costs, area acquisition costs and other figures are obtained.

A resolution requesting this action by the city's governing body was approved after Executive Director William I. Cochran told the commissioners that there would be approximately 200 low income families in the area who cannot be relocated in standard private housing.

"I feel a plan ought to be made and I think (when it is done) we have fulfilled our obligation to the city," he declared in making the motion.

Commissioners approved a contract with Roy Wenzlick and Co. of St. Louis for a transit housing study. Cochran told the commission such a study is required if a motel or hotel is being considered for the area. The study will cost $600.

The commission also ratified a contract for legal services with attorney Kenneth Hite.

He had pointed out that at this stage the city must show the Federal government the land in the redevelopment area can be sold and the people living there can be relocated.

A recently completed marketability study showed that the commercial sites in the area can be sold in two to four years.

The relocation of the 200 low income families can be accomplished only with public housing, he indicated.

Persons arriving in Havana from Matanzas, west of Corraillo, said the invaders have been engaging Castro soldiers and militiamen in sporadic battles the last two days. Some claimed to have seen truckloads of troops diverted to the area while en route to the Escambray Mountains to fight other insurgents.

Three of the insurgent group were captured when they hid in a cane field after the crash landing, and a fourth member, who was believed wounded, was reported surrounded by militiamen.

ACCRA, Ghana (AP)—Nathan-iel Welbeck, Ghana's charge d'affaires who was expelled from the Congo last month, blamed the Western powers Thursday night for the crisis in the Congo. He told a rally of Ghanaians that if the United States, Britain and France had had their way, the Congo would not have attained independence.

Belgian Lives Threatened In Move To Free Lumumba

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold took urgent measures today to avert threatened mass reprisals against Belgians by the supporters of Patrice Lumumba, deposed and imprisoned Congo premier.

The secretary-general received word during the night that Bernard Sakumu, leader of the Lumumba forces at Stanleyville, had threatened to arrest all Belgians in Oriental Province and start beheading them unless Lumumba is released within 48 hours.

He immediately cabled his special representative in Leopoldville, Indian diplomat Rajeshwar Dayal, for a full report and what is being done to protect the 2,000 whites in Oriental Province.

He also called his 18-nation Congo advisory committee into session. This committee is made up of all the countries which have troop contingents in the U.N. Congo force.

Hammarskjold told the Security Council early today that he had received "deeply disturbing" news from Stanleyville, but he did not give details.

The 11-nation council meets again tonight to continue its debate on the new Congo crisis.

Before Hammarskjold spoke, the Congo's U. N. delegate, Mario Cardoso, accused both the Soviet Union and the West of trying to stir up mutiny in his country.

He also suggested that the Congo's African neighbors stop meddling in its affairs if they really want to help the struggling new state.

Valerian Zorin of the Soviet Union, current president of the council, accused Hammarskjold of encouraging a "gang of murderers" to carry out cruel acts against Lumumba, whose release has been demanded by Moscow.

"The secretary-general speaks and acts like the colonizers," declared Zorin as Hammarskjold sat next to him, smiling occasionally and puffing on a cigar.

Zorin declared that colonizers were in the saddle in the Congo and "Mr. Hammarskjold seems to be washing his hands of the aggression against Mr. Lumumba."

The Soviet delegate accused the United States and other nations of the North Atlantic Alliance of backing attempts to remove Lumumba and his associates by force as the legal Congo government. The ex-premier's aides fled to Stanleyville after his government fell. He was heading there when captured.

He also charged that the United States and Belgium gave arms to the army led by Col. Joseph Mobutu, the Congo military leader whose troops arrested Lumumba Dec. 1 and brought him back to Leopoldville.

Argentine Ambassador Mario Amadeo presented a resolution his country is co-sponsoring with the United States, Italy and Britain. It would direct Hammarskjold to see that the rights of all imprisoned Congolese leaders are respected.

Amadeo voiced confidence in Hammarskjold and said the U. N. presence in the Congo was vital to make sure the new state does not become a breeding ground for a new world war.

Special precautions were taken to protect De Gaulle during his six-day tour.

Despite the presence of 6,000 police to cope with disorganized but bitter European settlers' movements, authorities admit that Algeria is a powder keg. The threat of an attempted coup d'etat haunts French security officials in this city of plots and political agitation.

The six-year-old Algerian war has been fought to a stalemate by a French army of half a million troops holding down guerrilla forces numbering in the tens of thousands. Although the Nationalist rebels' announced goal is independence, they appear willing to go along with De Gaulle's plan if they receive guarantees France will carry it out.

Frenchmen whose families have lived here for generations feel they are fighting a heroic war for France. Some professional army officers, defeated in one outpost of empire after another since World War II, feel they are making a last stand. Their political supporters in France are determined and outspoken men.

Government officials countered the strike appeal with a warning that shops failing to open for business would be seized for up to 30 days. Food dealers were told to consider themselves under military control.

De Gaulle is to spend six days trying to persuade the population his policy is the right one. His presence, as the symbol and author of a policy they hate, stirred diehards to riot in Oran and Algiers.

In Oran, relative quiet was restored when soldiers replaced hated riot police squads. Tear gas was fired on the mobs in both places.

The army also moved into some areas of Algiers shortly after De Gaulle's arrival in Algiers, forced their hand and, true to their tradition, they look to the streets.

De Gaulle's first stop was Ain Temouchent, a city of 25,000, about half European.

As he stepped from his car, scattered cries of greeting were drowned out by a roar of "Algeria is French." Police said 5,000 people stood in a chill downpour to shout their protests.

De Gaulle smiled thinly and strode erect to City Hall. After he had gone inside, an army colonel addressed the crowd through a loudspeaker. He told them to "demonstrate peacefully."

Stevenson Defers Decision On Accepting Post As Ambassador To The UN

WASHINGTON (AP)—President-elect John F. Kennedy, relaxing his pace after inviting Adlai Stevenson and two others to join his new administration, takes his wife and new son to Florida today.

Before the early afternoon departure for Palm Beach, Kennedy planned a round of conferences with callers at his Georgetown home. But only two were listed, compared with the 16 he saw in a busy day Thursday.

The schedule called for breakfast with Rep. Hale Boggs, D-La., and a meeting with Dr. Walt W. Rostow, a specialist in Soviet and U. S. economies. Rostow, now with Massachusetts Institute of Technology, has been mentioned for high office in the new administration.

Stevenson was offered the job of U. S. ambassador to the United Nations. Although he gave the impression he will accept, he withheld an immediate decision. He said he wanted to talk the matter over further with Kennedy but emphasized that "I have tried to make it clear that I want to help."

Wm. L. Barber Charged With Wife's Murder

PORTSMOUTH, Va.—William L. Barber, 60, identified as a Greenville, N. C. native, was charged Thursday by Norfolk County police with the murder of his wife, Mrs. Sadie B. Barber, whose body was found Monday in a wooded area near Petersburg, Va.

Sheriff J. A. Hodges said Barber, an aviation mechanic and former Greenville resident, denied the charge, lodged after several hours of questioning following his arrest here early yesterday. Bond was set at $10,000.

Two hunters found Mrs. Barber's body, clad only in a nightgown. She had been beaten and shot twice in the back of the head. Her hands were tied loosely with fishing line. Police estimated she had been dead about two weeks. She had been missing from her Norfolk County home since Nov. 21.

Barber was arrested by State Trooper J. P. Atwood early Thursday as he drove his car along the military highway near here. Barber told Atwood he had taken his car early Wednesday from police headquarters, where it had been impounded, and driven to Greenville, N. C., to "talk to his folks."

At the time of his arrest, Barber said he was returning to Portsmouth to see his lawyer.

Norfolk County officers failed to identify any of the persons in Greenville with whom Barber said he talked during his trip to the Pitt County seat.

Barber and the car had been sought by police since the car disappeared from police headquarters. The car had been impounded for examination of stains discovered by officers. Police had questioned Barber Tuesday night, but had not detained him.

While seated at police headquarters after his arrest, Barber drew a letter from his pocket, tore it into small pieces and dropped the pieces into a wastebasket.

Police retrieved the pieces, taped them together and said the letter, dated Wednesday and addressed to "Whom it may concern," appeared to be a will.

The Barbars had been married 4 1/2 years. By a previous marriage, Mrs. Barber had three daughters, all now married. Barber, reportedly, has a son, William L. Barber Jr.

Fear Fishermen Met Disaster

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—A Coast Guard search continued today for four fishermen missing at Oregon Inlet, N. C., amid indications their quest for striped bass had met disaster.

Missing are Jack Stedman, 35, George Albrecht, 42, and Tony Castagnaro, 49, all of Westerly, R.I., and Dick Nelson, of Ft. Lee, N.J.

Their damaged boat was found overturned about 7:40 a.m. Thursday. The 19-foot plywood outboard motor boat was about 400 yards southwest of Green Island in Pamlico Sound, near Oregon Inlet.

Sections of windshield, shoes and a jacket were recovered. Four life preserver cushions were aboard.

Earlier in the day, a fuel tank such as had been carried by the fishing party had been sighted.

The missing men were in a party of 15 led by publisher Hal Lyman and editor Frank Woolner of Salt Water Sportsman magazine. They had hoped to catch record striped bass.

The four went to Hatteras Island last week to try New England methods of catching giant striped bass. They were to have returned from their fishing trip at 6 p.m. shortly thereafter.

Stevenson was vague about just what he wants to discuss further before announcing his decision. All he would say was: "I have some matters both of organization of the work and of ways and means of strengthening the U.S. delegation to the U.N." that I want to consider and want to discuss with him further. This I hope to do in the very near future."

Stevenson said no definite date had been set for his next talk with Kennedy. However, Kennedy interjected to say "I hope it will be before the middle of next week."

Mob Violence In Algeria Greet's Visiting DeGaulle

ALGIERS (AP)—Mob violence erupted in Algeria today as President Charles de Gaulle flew into the rebellious territory wearing a general's uniform to whip up support for his plan for home rule.

Special riot police battled thousands of demonstrators in the packed streets of Algiers and tough soldiers moved into the great city square of Oran, 220 miles northwest of Algiers, to control a mob of thousands.

A call for a general strike proclaimed by the Front for French Algeria, largest group of diehard Algerians, was heeded to a large extent in most big cities.

De Gaulle stubbornly went ahead with his tour, pressing his plan that could even lead to Algeria's independence. That is what the settlers fear most, for they would be far outnumbered by Algeria's Moslem majority.

De Gaulle's first stop was Ain Temouchent, a city of 25,000, about half European.

As he stepped from his car, scattered cries of greeting were drowned out by a roar of "Algeria is French." Police said 5,000 people stood in a chill downpour to shout their protests.

Pupils Escorted By U.S. Marshals

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Federal marshals escorted all white pupils to classes at the William Frantz school today in the wake of threats and intimidations against those ignoring the school boycott.

Marshall Edward J. Pettibone confirmed reports that deputies would escort white children as well as the lone Negro girl to the newly integrated school.

Eight white children—compared to 14 Thursday and 23 earlier this week—turned out at Frantz this morning in 45-degree temperature.

There were no demonstrators in front of the school today. A cluster of five women huddled in a yard across the street, but there were none of the usual taunts, boos or jeers when the children arrived for classes.

Mary Sand, president of Save Our Schools, anticipated the drop in white attendance.

She blamed a "program of harassment" conducted against parents and SOS workers, who have transported white children to the school. SOS is a group working to keep the schools open, despite token integration.

At least two more fathers, Mrs. Sand said, were threatened with the loss of their jobs if they did not observe the boycott.

An anonymous donation of funds relieved a financial squeeze applied by the legislature on personnel at Frantz and at McDonogh No. 19, where three Negro girls attend the first grade. But there were also reports the state would not relent from its order preventing banks from lending money to the school board.

There was no break in the total white boycott of McDonogh No. 19 elementary school.

Women hecklers, now held a block away from the Frantz school, have become less vocal. Pickets at the McDonogh school sent up cheers Thursday when a police radio reported the dwindling attendance at Frantz.

An unidentified New Orleans citizen made $16,525 available for paying 38 teachers and 17 other workers at the two schools. Payments made Thursday were the first since Oct. 28 for personnel at Frantz and McDonogh.

Dr. James F. Redmond, school superintendent, said he hoped money for school administrators and clerical staffs would be released soon by the legislature. Their salaries were tied up when the legislature ousted the school board.

New Bern's City Manager Dies Of Gun Wound

NEW BERN, N.C. (AP)—Clifford E. Pace, New Bern city manager, died today from a self-inflicted bullet wound, reported R. Clyde Smith, Craven County coroner.

Smith said Pace, 43, died about 2 a.m. at his home from a self-inflicted wound from a .38 caliber bullet in the right temple.

Pace had served as city manager since May, 1959. He had been city manager of Asheboro from 1950 to 1959. Prior to that he was assistant director of the Institute of Government in Chapel Hill for eight years.

Pace is survived by his wife and two children.

Mother-Daughter Banquet Held

"Mother—Our Guiding Star" was the theme of the annual Mother-Daughter banquet, Monday evening, in the Winterville School cafeteria. Mrs. W. T. Partin, of Scotland Neck was the guest speaker.

Miss Dolly Ann Harris, chapter president, was toastmistress and gave the welcome. Rev. Milton Worthington gave the invocation. A toast to the mothers was given by Miss Vivian Strickland and the response was given by her mother, Mrs. Bruce Strickland. Miss Eleanor Hart toasted the special guests consisting of the high school faculty, their wives and husbands and the board members and their wives. Miss Mavis Brown, Winterville High School commerce teacher, responded. Miss Corinne Jackson gave the toast to the Adviser, Miss Alya Ray Taylor and Miss Taylor responded.

A turkey dinner with all the trimmings was served by the ladies of the Christian Church of Winterville. The following eight girls served as waitresses: Gayle Little, Rickie Jackson, Judy Hathaway, Laura Braxton, Deols Harris, Patricia Worthington, Margaret Harris, Carolyn Savage, and Linda Worthington.

Mrs. W. T. Partin, guest speaker, was introduced by Miss Carolyn Cayton. Mrs. Partin chose as her topic, Living With and for One's Self. In order to live with one's self they must recognize themselves as their problem. They must know their desires and their weaknesses. She stressed controlling one's thoughts because life is what one's thoughts make it. She urged her listeners to read the Bible and poetry daily for inspiration and guidance. Mrs. Partin challenged each Future Homemaker to do her own thinking to help her to live unselfishly and to make wise choices.

Mrs. Clarissa May, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Troy Jackson, sang "The Birthday of a King" by Neidlinger.

Miss Regina Bullock, vice-president presented red roses to the mothers of the following girls who had sold the most to help provide funds for the banquet. These members are: Eleanor Hart, Ann Cox, Alice Garris, Judy Lawrence, Katherine Jones, Jean Mayo, Dolly Ann Harris, Winnifred Averett, Bettie Sue Avery, Peggy Baker, Linda Forlines, and Mary Frances Nanny.

Katherine Jones was presented a special gift for having sold more than any other club member.

Gifts of silver were presented to Mrs. W. T. Partin and Miss Alya Ray Taylor.

The Christmas theme was used for the decorations of the cafeteria. Tables were arranged in the form of a star and decorated with Christmas trees made of crimoline and cake icing, red ribbons and tinsel. White styrofoam F.H.A.s decorated with glitter and tinsel were used.

Approximately 150 members and their guests were present for the occasion.

Sunday night supper: crisp brown sausage links with potato pancakes and applesauce.

Decorating Ideas

Fall is a refreshing season. Frosty nights, colorful days, new plans in the making. If re-decorating your home is in your plans, study the striking hues that the leaves display during this time of year—you may get color scheme ideas that will excite your artistic touch. One note of caution—be careful in the use of vivid colors over wide areas of wall, particularly in the bedroom. The colors, like a good mattress, should promote a feeling of relaxation with the brilliant colors of Fall used with discrimination.

White Shrine To Meet Officers of the White Shrine will meet Saturday at 8 p.m. at Masonic Hall to practice for Ceremonial.

Real Daughters Of UDC Feted At Tea

The George B. Singletary chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy met with Mrs. J. L. Fleming and Mrs. J. L. Winstead Thursday afternoon.

Following the ritual, pledge and salute to the flag, the president, Mrs. R. R. Ross, presided over the business session.

Plans were made to send homemade cookies to the Marine Hospital at Cherry Point Dec. 15 to send $10 and cards to the Confederate Ladies Home in Fayetteville.

Mrs. E. W. Harvey and Mrs. R. R. Ross spoke on Christmas in the South during the Confederacy. Mrs. Ross welcomed Mrs. W. C. Martin, Mrs. Sprull Spain, Mrs. Sallie Irons, Miss Nettie Brogden as guests.

The chapter honored the real daughters of the Confederate soldiers, Mrs. J. L. Fleming, Mrs. Van Fleming Sr., Mrs. R. D. Harrington Sr., Mrs. H. T. Smith, Mrs. W. R. Smith, Mrs. Alice Keel, Mrs. Annie Pittman, Mrs. J. H. Handolph, Mrs. Sallie Irons, and presented them with Christmas corsages.

During the social hour, Mrs. T. T. Hollingsworth, seated at one end of the table, served homemade cake and Mrs. Ross, at the other end of the table, poured coffee.

THE REAL DAUGHTERS of the Confederacy were honored at a tea yesterday afternoon when the UDC met at the home of Mrs. J. L. Winstead on Greene Street. ## Reverend Drake Gives Program

The Aries Book Club was entertained Tuesday evening by Mrs. Philip Coleman at the Parish House of St. Paul's Episcopal Church.

Preceding the program, Miss Eunice McGee presented three readings. The Rev. John Drake, Rector, gave the program. His topic was "Christmas — Events Leading up to Christmas". He spoke about the Advent Season as the four weeks before Christmas. He described the German custom of the wheel or crown of greens with four candles, signifying the four Sundays of Advent as one of the loveliest customs. The father lighted the candle for the first week with appropriate ceremony; the mother, the second week; the oldest child, the third week and the youngest child the candle of the fourth week.

Rev. Drake mentioned the little houses which are used as a custom in some countries, in which a window is opened for each day in the Advent Season. Inside each window was a verse of scripture. He spoke of a custom in which the children are allowed to place a slip of straw on the Christ Child's bed each day, only if the child has done some act of sacrifice. On Christmas Eve a replica of the Child was placed on the crib. All of these customs signified, Rev. Drake said, the preparation of building toward Christmas.

Rev. Drake spoke of the yule log, the holly tree, mistletoe, the laurel and ivy as all generally used over the world, as are symbols of the star, light, candles and manger scenes. He attributed Martin Luther as using the first candle and the manger scene was first used by St. Francis of Assisi. Guests of the evening were Miss Gussie Kuykendall, Mrs. Gladys Winn Scoville, Miss Mary Eakes, Miss Lela Brown Stancil and Miss Eunice McGee.

At the conclusion of the program, Mrs. Coleman served a sweet course and coffee.

BISSETTE'S

By DENNIS WARREN
THE MAGIC WORD

Christmas! Amazing how that one word sends memories chasing one another through your mind. In a flash you see the trees, the gifts, the grinning faces of Christmases past.

And you know this Christmas will create its own precious memories, memories everyone wants to save in pictures. That's why we always say a new Kodak camera is one gift you can be sure will get a warm reception on the Big Morning.

Just check your own Christmas gift list and see how well a Kodak camera or gift outfit goes with almost any name on it.

A Kodak camera makes a real "grown-up" present for youngsters. It fits any teen-ager's idea of fun. It's so right for young parents. Perfect for proud grandparents who want plenty of pictures of their grandchildren.

Count on us to add an all-important finishing touch—"Open me first!" tags. They make sure your Kodak gifts are opened first on Christmas morning. Then all the fun of Christmas is saved in pictures right from the very first moment. And shared, too. Extra prints of Christmas pictures are so nice to send to distant members of the family.

So drop in and do your shopping before the Big Rush. See how easily you can play Santa Claus. —(Adv.)

Showers Honor Bride-Elect

Miss Judy Corbett, bride-elect of December 27, was honored at a linen shower Thursday evening in the Social Room of Garrett Dormitory.

Hostesses were Misses Rosemary Swisher and Lois McLean. The room was decorated in red and white complementing the bride's chosen color scheme. Red streamers extended from the centerpiece of red and white carnations entwined with greenery. The table was overlaid with a white lace cloth.

Miscellaneous Shower
Bridal cakes, nuts, mints, and strawberry punch were served to the 60 guests attending.

Bride-elect Judy Corbett was honored at a miscellaneous shower Wednesday morning by Miss Bessie Brown and Mrs. James Poindexter at the home of Miss Brown on East Fourth Street.

The serving table was decorated with an arrangement of white snapdragons and yellow roses. Mrs. Arlene Teel, mother of the honoree, poured coffee.

Old Safety Issues Raised Again

The Department of Motor Vehicles has put itself on the spot by renewing the 1961 legislative consideration key proposals that already have been turned down by the state's General Assembly.

Blood tests for people arrested on driving drunk charges, tightening up of the point system under which operator's licenses of habitual traffic law violators may be revoked, and renewal of mechanical inspection laws are all matters that previously have been given legislative consideration. They are also proposals which previously have been turned down by the legislature.

Obviously the Department of Motor vehicles feels that these three programs are essential to better highway safety in North Carolina. Otherwise, the department would not renew its request for legislative action on the items. It would place emphasis on other matters pertaining to highway safety for legislative consideration.

The very fact that the department which is charged with the responsibility for safer highways of the state has reiterated its proposals—even in the face of prior negative legislative action—gives a new note of urgency to the proposals. It re-emphasizes the fact that the department feels these three programs provide an important key to improving highway safety in the state.

Since repeal of the previous mechanical inspection law for motor vehicles, each session of the General Assembly has declined a request to enact alternate legislation. Each proposal for handling mechanical inspection of motor vehicles has been rejected because of the opinion that it would be ineffective, or because of the opinion that it would be impractical to administer. Even with the department putting its full force behind renewing some sort of mechanical inspection law, it is extremely doubtful that a new law will be accepted next year. Memories of the program that was tried and rejected are still too fresh in the minds of too many people of the state.

The other two major points of the department's proposals—blood test for alcohol and tightening up the point system—do not fall into the same category. In other states and also in some areas of North Carolina, there has been a growing acceptance of the idea that some sort of test should be administered those charged with drunken driving. There is the growing feeling that there should be some better way for a jury to determine whether a person was intoxicated or not than merely hearing conflicting testimony from arresting officers and from the accused. While the blood-test method is not considered altogether fool-proof, it does provide another means of helping to establish the facts in such a case.

In spite of the fact that a similar proposal has been previously rejected by the legislature, the merits of the proposal justify more, careful legislative consideration.

The same may be said for the proposal to strengthen the point system that applies to habitual traffic law violators. The principle of the law has received legislative approval. If the law is to accomplish the purpose for which it was intended, it needs strengthening. And the 1961 legislature should give serious consideration to the proposal that the law be strengthened.

State Revenue Picture Is Good

By LYNN NISBET

REVENUE—The State revenue picture continues to improve. Even without collections through the withholding plan, income taxes yielded almost 50 per cent more in November than the previous November. Nearly every general fund schedule showed increases, both for the single months and for the five months of the fiscal year. More significant than the dollar increase is the fact receipts have exceeded estimates made during the past General Assembly.

For the first time in many months gasoline tax collections were substantially more than for the same month last year. However, for the five months period since July 1 highway revenue has fallen below legislative estimates.

It is important to remember in analyzing tax collections that receipts of one month reflect business done one to three months before. Income taxes paid in November were based on income derived prior to that time, some of it as much as a year before. Sales taxes paid into the State treasury in November consisted of taxes paid by retail customers in September and October, or earlier. Sales taxes paid into the State treasury in November and December November consisted of taxes paid by customers in stores during November and December will not be reflected on revenue department reports until January, February and March.

The gasoline tax is more difficult to pin down to time of consumption. These taxes are paid by the wholesale distributors at the time the gasoline is released from the big storage tanks. The motorist may not actually pay the service station operator until weeks later. This procedure justifies the hope that the fine weather this fall, encouraging travel and gasoline usage, may result in greater yield from the gasoline tax to be reported during the next few months.

CONFUSED — The inauguration of a new Governor a month before the convening of the General Assembly continues to present problems. It is now proposed, apparently with consent of a majority of the legislators, that the nominating caucus for officers (especially in the House) be held on the night before the inauguration. That is the date already set for the inaugural ball.

Traditionally the caucuses have been held on the night before the Legislature convened, and the inauguration was scheduled for the day after the Assembly convened. Legislators could make one trip to Raleigh for the caucus, the formal convening, the ball, and the inauguration—and there was no conflict among the events. Also the legislators could collect travel expenses for the trip. The proposal to hold the nominating caucus a month before convening date and on the same night as the ball, means that members will have to pay their own way for what is actually a part of their official duties. They also will have to pay for bringing along their wives or lady friends. That has been the custom in the past. The difference in the proposed plan is that the women folks will want their men to get ready for the dance, while the men of necessity will be tied up with the legislative caucus. Every business man's wife can understand the difficulties inherent in such a situation.

(One delightful prospect fight is a legislative hall full of men wearing tux or tails, and the women members in full evening dresses—and curtailment of nominating speeches for the several candidates for the elective positions.)

INTERESTING — There are very interesting potentials other than the conflict between public duty and social obligations on part of legislators, involved in this split program. This will be the first time in memory, if not in all state history, when a new Governor will go into office before the General Assembly convenes. That is in contrast with the Federal plan, under which the Congress convenes more than two weeks before the President takes office.

For the period between January 5, when Governor Sanford is scheduled to be inducted into office, until February 8, when the General Assembly will convene, the Governor of North Carolina will have more nearly dictatorial power than any chief executive in history for putting into effect his own ideas.

There are other matters of small importance in themselves, but illustrative of the problems involved in the divided program. Traditionally the new Governor's inaugural address is regarded as an important "state paper." Always heretofore it has been made to a joint session of the General Assembly. This time there will be no General Assembly in session, and question arises whether the inaugural address will be a "state paper" or just another speech to a group of private citizens. If it is just another speech, should the taxpayers be required to pay for printing and distributing it, as has been the practice in the past? Should it go into the public record as an "official" document, or just as observations made by the Governor? Are the members of the inaugural committee named by the upcoming presiding officers in the Legislature acting as members of the General Assembly or as private citizens acting as personal representatives?

Ferry Service Decision Being Left To Others

By rejecting its committee's recommendation that the state take over operation of the Atlantic-Ocracoke ferry, the State Highway Commission has delayed temporarily—and perhaps indefinitely—the resumption of auto ferry service between the points.

Also by its action, the Highway Commission may have passed up for the state an opportunity to purchase the ferry the Taylor brothers built especially for the run between Ocracoke and the mainland.

The ferry provided an important and long needed link between a part of the outer banks of the state and the mainland and opened a large segment of the state to a large potential tourist traffic. Without the operation of the ferry from Ocracoke, this potential economic development of a section that sorely needs to boost its economy will be nipped in the bud.

It is to be hoped that further consideration will be given this matter either by the administration or the legislature in spite of the Highway Commission's action. It is a facility that is needed in that coastal area of North Carolina and one which could pay the state huge dividends in years to come.

Even though the Highway Commission apparently did not have the foresight to recognize this fact, perhaps the administration or the legislature will, and we trust they will act accordingly before the ferry is taken from North Carolina and sold elsewhere.

Dangerous Year Before Kennedy

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

Associated Press News Analyst
The first year of the Kennedy administration, by present indications, may be the most tense and dangerous of the whole 15 of the old war.

The reason for this speculation is that the Chinese Communists give the impression that they are itching for fireworks. This can be dangerous for their Soviet allies as well as for the United States.

Observers in Moscow relay a belief that Premier Khrushchev still is in the world Communist saddle but that he is riding a nervous bronco. These observers express the opinion that the Soviet premier paid a price to Red China's leaders in return for public Chinese acknowledgment that the Kremlin still runs the world movement's affairs.

The manifesto signed by 81 leaders of Communist parties after their Moscow conference shows that the main Communist efforts will be along lines like these:

1. In expectation of an American economic jolt with whip-lash effects elsewhere, the main propaganda attack will center on the United States. The hope is to isolate the United States and render it ineffective in countering Red drives elsewhere in the world.

2. Plans to expand communism's sway will center primarily in the underdeveloped lands. Latin America will occupy an increasingly important place in the drive. The manifesto indicates pressure will be stepped up in all uncommitted and underdeveloped areas, whenever and wherever opportunities exist for a Communist advance.

The Red Chinese seem to have argued at Moscow that because of Kremlin caution, communism already has missed good opportunities, and that this should not happen again, no matter what the peril.

The basic tenets of the new Khrushchev theory becomes invalid.

To back their argument, the Chinese point to the fizzle of Communist hopes in the Middle East. The Communists failed to grab oil-rich Iraq after its 1958 revolution because Khrushchev cautiously held them off, fearing a consequent major explosion. There were failures in what is now the United Arab Republic, before fear of Red strength caused Syria to unite with Egypt.

The Chinese continue: There will be other failures in Africa and Latin America if world Communists persist in following the cautious Khrushchev line. And this seems to be why the Chinese want a review of Soviet foreign aid programs.

Peiping says there is no sense in giving significant help to a government like Nehru's in India or Nasser's in Egypt if such aid serves to strengthen the position of essentially "bourgeois"—and thus basically capitalist—governments. Aid should be given, says Peiping, only where it can bring quick returns: For example, to revolutionary regimes like that of Cuba. Until situations like the Cuban can be brought about, aid on any significant scale should be withheld, the Chinese insist.

The signs are that Khrushchev gave ground in this debate. If that turns out to be so, this decade's early years will be extremely dangerous.

Japanese sewing machines almost drove American manufacturers to the wall, until the Japanese agreed to limit exports. Many of them sold below the amount it would cost American manufacturers to produce them. The basic reason is the great difference in wages.

Even today, many American electronics manufacturers are buying Japanese transistors because they can import them cheaper than they can make them with domestic labor.

"The man with the hoe at one time was considered the counterpart of the farmer. Today he can scarcely pass for a gardener. Few and simple tools used to be enough for farming, and some would be made right on the farm or at the local blacksmith's. Today, investment in farm machinery amounts to about ten per cent of the physical assets on farms." — Antigo (Wis.) Daily Journal.

Sam! No!

By HENRY HOWARD

So We Took Baby Along

On those occasions when we decide to take a night out or just a couple of hours off to go to a movie or something we are always, since April 26, last, faced with the problem of bringing in a baby sitter.

Such occasions arise not too infrequently and we always, through yesterday, come up with some solution to the baby sitter problem that practically everybody has to face at one time or another.

In searching out these persons in mind, we generally keep one thought foremost. We want to find a careful and responsible sitter. And we've had pretty good luck.

Still there are those things you can realize suddenly when you're trying your very best to be at your responsible best.

One of these things we experienced last night. As usual, we were considering where would be the best spot to deposit our youngster. And as usual, he sat there in the middle of the living room rug cooling and waving his arms in an obvious display of unconcern.

Also as usual, we gave little or no thought to where he, himself, might like to go. How could we know whether or not he had very definite feelings about where he wanted to go?

We discussed who we'd get to baby sit for the couple of hours we'd be gone to one of those Industrial League basketball games. Suddenly the better half wanted to know why we couldn't "just take him along with us."

Upon her suggestion, we all agreed, and left for the basketball game. It was sort of a novel idea, I thought, to carry him with us.

Whatever misgivings we might have had about allowing the seven-month-old to attend the ball game vanished completely as soon as we arrived.

The little tyke let us know right away he was already a staunch basketball fan. (I think the main attractions for him were the multi-colored uniforms and the fast and furious action.)

He sat on Mummy's knee and shouted (in his own way) at the racing basketball players throughout the evening. For the duration he never tired. He crowed and called as loudly as anybody else.

On the way home we realized maybe we should begin to prepare ourselves for those times just around the corner when where he wants to go and what he wants to do will be much more important than getting a good baby sitter.

Looking ahead to next week and then doing the old about-face to check the records—

Remember King Edward VII? It was 24 years ago Sunday, on Dec. 31, 1936, that Edward relinquished his English throne to marry Wallis Simpson.

Just 19 years ago Sunday, Dec. 11, 1941, Germany and Italy reared the ugly Axis head and declared war on the United States.

An important, or at least significant, anniversary is coming up Monday. It marks the 160 year since Washington, D.C. became our nation's capital (Dec. 12, 1800).

We might add that the Jewish Feast of Lights begins at sundown Tuesday and Thursday is Bill of Rights Day.

But Speaking of "Rights," let's get a little closer to home (Continued on page 8)

Other Editors Saying Hodges On Kennedy Team

(Henderson Dispatch)

Appointment of Governor Hodges as secretary of commerce and as a member of the Kennedy team might be interpreted in several directions. It could be regarded as an evidence that the new President will pursue a policy of reasonable moderation, at least so far as domestic affairs are concerned. Or it could mean that Hodges has slipped a bit farther to the left of center in conformity with promises so often heard during the campaign. The Governor has been represented as considering himself a moderate in terms of politics or of the national economy.

Hodges was one of the most active supporters of Kennedy during the campaign. He was at the beck and call of the Democratic candidate for any service he was capable of giving, which was considerable. His influence paid off in business connections and with acquaintances in the industrial arena.

From another standpoint, the North Carolina Governor's appointment is a recognition of the status and importance of the South in the national government. Across the years there have been a number of cabinet members from this section of the country, but far fewer, even geographically or as to population, than from other regions.

North Carolina in particular has had comparatively few men in the cabinet of any President. The last one before Hodges was Josephus Daniels as secretary of the navy under Woodrow Wilson.

The Governor had been mentioned for the commerce post even before the election, and the gossip was intensified following the Kennedy victory. It was made official last Saturday.

Hodges will take to the Commerce Department the same caliber of vigor, aggressiveness and ability which made him so outstanding as chief executive of this State. In his six years as Governor he attained to a high peak of respect, prestige and influence among leaders of the sovereign States of the Union. He towered well above most other State executives in many activities. His leadership, salesmanship and initiative were recognized throughout the country.

He comes to the Department of Commerce at a critical hour. American trade and commerce with the rest of the world is being challenged by many nations which have been rehabilitated and put on their feet by the generosity of this government. The imbalance in this field, as reflected in the continuing flight of gold from reserves here, and decline of the dollar as the recognized standard of values in the world, are problems that must be confronted. Present trends must be reversed in favor of the domestic economy if more serious deterioration is to be avoided. The new secretary will be a key figure in this undertaking.

The president-elect could not have found anywhere in the country a man better qualified to deal with these increasingly serious problems. He will add lustre to the Kennedy team, whatever its composition. He could become a balancing influence for stability and realistic approach in recovering losses this country has suffered in recent years.

North Carolina is honored in the Hodges selection for the Commerce post. It means that he is being recognized in the highest circles for his ability and fitness for responsibility of major proportions, even as he is already so esteemed among his own people here.

North Carolinians who know the Governor and are familiar with his calm but energetic method of grappling with governmental affairs are confident that he will quickly become one of the outstanding figures in the new administration. If all of the Kennedy appointments are as wise and appropriate as the naming of Governor Hodges as secretary of commerce, the country can take courage as it moves into the decade of the sixties.

Wage Scales And Flow Of Gold

By ELMER ROESSNER

American wage scales are in a large part responsible for the outflow of gold from the United States.

Because of high American wages, Japanese, German, British and other foreign manufacturers have been able to sell products in American markets cheaper than American manufacturers could, even after tariffs.

Japanese sewing machines almost drove American manufacturers to the wall, until the Japanese agreed to limit exports. Many of them sold below the amount it would cost American manufacturers to produce them. The basic reason is the great difference in wages.

Even today, many American electronics manufacturers are buying Japanese transistors because they can import them cheaper than they can make them with domestic labor. GOLD, AS WELL AS JOBS, EXPORTED

Many American manufacturers are importing other components because they can be delivered in Detroit, Chicago or Los Angeles cheaper than they can be made with American labor. Even the government buys items abroad when the differential prices is significant—and it is almost always considerable because foreign labor works at cheaper rates than Americans will. Furthermore, Americans insist on fringe benefits, restrictive practices and overtime rates, often compounded.

"Runaway" movie production also exports jobs and increases the drain on American gold. More American movies are being made abroad largely because foreign labor is so much cheaper than the Hollywood kind.

The combination of unions and stars, with their sky-high demands, are driving production abroad," director Michael Curtiz was quoted as saying in Variety, Nov. 30. He is in Italy directing "Francis of Assisi" in that town.

"SOME TOO GREEDY" "It's a shame to watch what's happening," he said. "There is no reason for it except that some of us are just too greedy. . . . The Italian crew . . . works fast and doesn't argue about who does what. . . . Nobody can run a business properly under conditions that prevail today in Hollywood. Your stars are asking these fantastic salaries and union demands bear no relation whatever to final revenue."

The situations noted above—as has been pointed out in this column before—constitute an "export of jobs." Jobs of American electronic workers have been exported to Japan; jobs of movie stagehands have been exported to Italy.

But what is often overlooked is that the export of jobs often involves the export of dollars. The money paid for sewing machines, transistors, industrial parts and for other components,

Racial Picture Tangle

By GEORGE E. SOLOSKY
Copyright, 1960, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

In the United States, the excessively emotional Negro question now divides itself into three parts:

1. The United Nations includes a large number of Negro or partially Negro countries as members, all having been formally recognized by the United States as sovereign states. The delegates from such countries, Presidents, Prime Ministers, Ministers of Foreign Affairs, etc., are usually men of education with degrees from important universities. When they come to the United States, they expect to be treated in accordance with their status at home and their international position. They are so treated in Moscow, London, Paris, etc.

Furthermore, as a matter of practical politics, as long as we are members of the United Nations, engaged in the Cold War, the United States needs these countries as allies. Soviet Russia has already made progress in Ghana and Guinea but not in Liberia or Nigeria. It can be costly for the United States, in many respects, to lose Africa to the Soviet Universal State.

When a restaurant headwaiter in New York makes a distinction between a diplomat and an ordinary Negro, when he asks where a person comes from who has a dark skin, preferring a Dominican or a Chadian to an Alabaman or a Harlem Negro, he makes a fool of himself because how are such distinctions to be made? What is the test? Is the headwaiter capable of making an anthropological or an etiological test?

The cost of such distinctions in terms of votes in the United Nations or in terms of diplomatic and commercial relations between this country and African or Latin American states where Negro or mixed populations prevail can be very damaging, particularly in these days when those who a few years ago were students are now important officials.

2. In the 1930's, an enormous movement of American Negroes from South to North took place. The result of this movement is that in some large Northern states, Negroes hold the balance of political power or come close to it.

In New York City, Negroes and their allies hold the balance of political power; no one opposed by Negroes as "unfriendly," can be elected to any public office. This is true to a lesser or greater degree in many other cities.

This means, in political terms, that what the Irish accomplished in the large Northern cities in the 1880's and the Italians presently, is today becoming the role of the Negro in these places. Some politicians are honestly without racial consciousness or prejudice; others are liars and hypocrites, playing the opportunist's game. Whichever be the attitude, all politicians in these Northern states must cater to the Negro vote and to Negro influence.

For instance, the Negroes in the North and outside the United States look upon Senator Fulbright as the Senator from Little Rock who did not stand up as a Liberal when the segregation problem became critical in his state. They regard him as a segregationist, as a reactionary in Arkansas and a Liberal in Washington. He will make no progress in Africa and the premature appointment of "Soapy" Williams to be Assistant Secretary of State for African Affairs will not help Fulbright if he is appointed Secretary of State. In New York State, this becomes very important in 1962 when Governor Rockefeller will run again for governor with the object of a build-up for the Presidential nomination. The appointment of one who is regarded as anti-Negro as Secretary of State, as is rumored at the moment of writing these notes, could affect the state vote in 1962 and the 1964 Presidential campaign. Such is Negro politics in the North.

3. The segregation problem in the South heretofore ceased to be a local problem. It is both national and international. It affects our position in the Cold War. It can lead to our defeat in the United Nations. It could, in fact, result in isolation. The "whites" are in a minority. They have held sway for only a few centuries and the revolt against (Continued On Page 8)

Quick, Businesslike Meet For Presidential Electors

By REESE HART
 RALEIGH (AP)—When North Carolina's presidential electors meet here Dec. 19 to cast ballots their meeting is expected to be quick and to the point. Only a few minutes should be needed to cast North Carolina's 14 electoral votes for the Democrats' John F. Kennedy and Lyndon Johnson.

In fact, minutes of the meeting have already been prepared, leaving blank spaces to fill in where names are needed.

The 14 electors are not bound by law to follow the majority of the voters in casting their ballots for president and vice president, but "God help one if he doesn't vote that way," said Secretary of State Thad Eure.

Atty. Gen. Wade Bruton said the session is so routine that it could be completed in a few minutes, he added. "The brief session is mostly routine because the procedure to be followed in casting the ballots is spelled out in federal and state law."

Bruton said the electors are morally obligated to follow the will of the majority of the voters in casting their ballots.

Kennedy and Johnson carried the state by a margin of more than 58,000 votes in their successful bid for president and vice president, respectively.

Based on previous meetings of Tar Heel electors, Bruton said, the session will be called to order at noon in the hall of the House of Representatives by Eure.

A roll call of the electors will be made. A State Supreme Court justice will then administer the oath of office to the electors. If any of the electors are absent, the others are authorized to name replacements.

Then the group will get down to the business of electing a chairman and secretary. Following this, motions will be made to cast ballots for Kennedy and Johnson. A roll call vote will then be taken.

Bruton said the 14 electors are required to sign a certificate showing that the result of their vote has been canvassed and confirmed. This is forwarded to the president of the U.S. Senate.

"They can finish up the meeting in 10 minutes or less," Eure said.

"W. T. Joyner of Raleigh, who served as an elector in 1952, said the meeting "is very friendly and formal."

Gov. Hodges issued a proclamation Dec. 1 calling the electors to meet here Dec. 19. He told his news conference, "I am presuming they will follow the will of the majority of the voters."

Hodges said he made the observation only because there have been suggestions from some states that electors would not do so.

North Carolina has two at-large electors — W. Frank Taylor of Goldsboro and D. Hidden Ramsey of Asheville. The electors by congressional districts are: first, Edgar Gurganus; second, Olin Reed; third, Dr. John D. Robinson Sr.; fourth, Daniel L. Bell; fifth, E. T. Pullen Jr.; sixth, O. A. Kirkman; seventh, R. M. Kermon; eighth, Miss Edith Marsh; ninth, Mrs. Stella Anderson; tenth, Charles M. Walton; eleventh, John M. Akers; twelfth, Robert R. Livingston.

Small Increase Juvenile Crime

WASHINGTON (AP)—Juvenile delinquency court cases increased by 2 per cent in 1950, the smallest yearly increase during the past decade, the Children's Bureau reported today.

The rate has risen steadily for 11 consecutive years, but the increase in 1950 was less than the 5 per cent rise in the child population of juvenile court age—10 to 17.

There were about 483,000 juvenile delinquency cases, excluding traffic offenses, handled by the juvenile courts during 1950. These involved about 416,000 different children. The children represented 1.7 per cent of the nation's child population. Boys were referred to juvenile courts more than four times as often as girls.

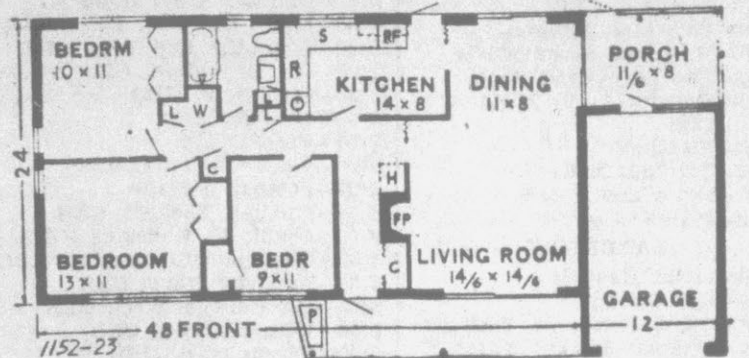

The juvenile delinquency data are compiled by the bureau with cooperation of a representative sampling of juvenile courts throughout the nation.

The bureau said its 1950 findings roughly parallel data recently issued by the FBI, which showed a 4 per cent increase in police arrests of juveniles in 1950 over 1949.

Both juvenile court and police arrest data show that both juvenile arrests and court cases have more than doubled since 1948 while the population of young people has increased by less than one-half.

The 1950 findings showed a 2 per cent decrease in the number of juveniles handled in juvenile courts in urban areas while such courts serving semi-urban and rural areas had increases of 7 and 15 per cent, respectively.

Investing Abroad Now Is Easier Than Ever

By SAM DAWSON
 AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—Want to put some money into foreign business ventures?

American citizens have been sending lots of dollars outside the country to buy stocks of foreign companies, bonds of other governments, real estate in nearby or distant shores.

Other lands have been making it increasingly easy for you to invest. And Uncle Sam puts no curbs in the way of such exporting of dollars.

A dozen or so American stock brokerage firms have helped by opening branches abroad. The original idea was to solicit trading in U.S. stocks on our exchanges, but now they're handy for trading in foreign stocks for American investors.

The New York Stock Exchange lists 23 common and three preferred foreign stocks of which 12 are Canadian; and 75 bond issues of 35 foreign corporations, and a long list of foreign government bonds.

Other nations don't allow American brokers to trade directly on their exchanges. So they deal through the brokerage firms of the land in question.

Floating a new issue of common stock of a foreign corporation is hard here, brokers say, because Europeans aren't accustomed to publishing the financial details demanded by our Securities & Exchange Commission.

This also holds down listings on U.S. exchanges, whose rules demand more information than European companies normally give.

Americans still run into currency exchange problems and also curbs which some countries still keep on withdrawal of dividend or other income, such as capita gains.

Biggest One-Night Gross In Business

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The biggest one-night gross in the history of show business—that's what Frank Sinatra is planning to celebrate John F. Kennedy's inauguration as president in January.

It's no secret that the thin singer has been one of Kennedy's biggest boosters. Sinatra has been put in charge of a gala to end all galas on the night of Jan. 19 in Washington. Who approached him?

"The gang in Washington, including Jack," he said.

"This is something that hasn't been done before. Usually there is a ball after the inauguration and that's it," Sinatra said.

"This year we're having a show on the night before the inauguration. It will be held at the armory, and it'll be a theater-in-the-round—the stage in the center and seats all around. The place holds 10,000 and the seats will sell for $100 apiece. Some of the upper seats might be scaled lower; boxes will be sold for $10,000.

"We expect to raise $1.7 million for the one night. There's never been anything like it in show business."

The proceeds will help pay off the Democratic party's $2-million debt from the 1950 campaign. Sinatra said he and Peter Lawford, Kennedy's brother-in-law, had hoped to promote a closed-circuit TV entertainment for fund-raising dinners in six cities, but there wasn't time for organizing.

He listed those who will help erase the Democrats' red ink: Harry Belafonte, Gene Kelly, Louis Prima and Keely Smith, Ella Fitzgerald, Joey Bishop, Tony Curtis and Janet Leigh, Nat King Cole, Dean Martin, Peter Lawford, Milton Berle, Sammy Davis Jr., Mahalia Jackson, Juliet Browne, Red Skelton—"and I hope Judy (Garland) will be able to come over from Europe."

Sinatra said he would set up headquarters in Washington around Jan. 8 to begin organizing the affair. He'll sing at the event—"but I'd like not to; I'll be busy enough with the arrangements that night." He said he has been busy with phone calls to spring performers like Davis, Smith and Prima from Las Vegas and other engagements.

School Easter Programs Banned

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—Portland public schools today banned future Easter programs.

Supt. Jack Edwards also said that baccalaureate services no longer will be held in Protestant churches, but in the school buildings.

Objections from those of the Catholic and Jewish faiths brought the change, Edwards said. He added there also has been some objection to Christmas programs in the schools, but these will be continued.

The baccalaureate services will include speakers from Protestant, Catholic and Jewish faiths, Edwards said.

LADY in the MARKET

BY FRANCES V. RUMMELL

From the novel "Aunt Jane McPhipps and Her Baby Blue Chips," published by Prentice-Hall, Inc. © 1960 by Frances V. Rummell. Distributed by King Features.

CHAPTER 1

Her black sailor askew, her tear-streaked face needing powder, Jane McPhipps leaned forward in the front seat of Al Bonnell's old sedan as if to help it climb San Francisco's steep California Street hill.

The weather, cleansed by a morning fog, boasted a high spate and the buff-colored apartment houses were smiling in the sunshine. But Jane didn't notice. For, together with her young neighbors, she was returning home from the funeral of her husband, Horace McPhipps, and all she could see was the hill ahead— with both widowed and middle-age awaiting her on the other side.

Digging her heels into the floor board, Jane steered herself against more tears, and then reached over to pat Al's arm. She must not think only of herself; Al, too, had loved Horace.

Where, she wanted to ask, does courage come from? Is courage a muscle that can be strengthened by exercise? Maybe the only way to have courage was to use it.

Trying it out, she told Al, "I have absolutely determined something. I'm going into my apartment alone." Her tone didn't come out as firmly as she'd intended. Trying again, she turned to Rosemarie and Eleanor in the back seat and warned, "Don't anybody try to argue with me." Rosemarie was Al's wife, and Eleanor Forbes was the pretty kindergarten teacher who lived down the hall.

This time Jane was so convincing that Rosemarie reproached her. "We've taken the whole afternoon off to be with you!"

Al turned to look at Jane. "Now, Aunt Jane," he said brusquely, "don't be any more stubborn than you have to be. Of course we're staying with you. It's all settled." A onetime pupil of Jane's in high school, Al felt very protective, very filial. Besides, Rosemarie was Horace's niece, and Al had strong family feelings.

"You're a dear," Jane said softening a little. "But the answer is No. I must try it alone."

"Al lighted a cigarette and inwardly shuddered to think of the bird Jane was in. Al was a junior bank executive, and he was well aware that Horace had departed this earth about as free of assets as when he had entered—that is, save for some mused bookkeeping manuals, old flute scores, a spare set of false teeth, Social Security, and enough life insurance to cover his widow for about two years of genteel poverty.

"But, why, dear," she asked, "are you worried?" The one thing that concerned Jane least was the idea of her earning her own living again.

As if reading Jane's thoughts, Eleanor exclaimed, "Look, Jane, you can always go back to full-time teaching."

Jane gratefully replied, "Yes, thank heavens." For several years, doing substitute work in the schools, she had lived on the ready, like a fireman. It would seem strange to have a regular job again.

Turning into Bush Street, Al stopped the car in front of a grey-stone apartment building. Everybody got out, climbed a flight of stairs, and paused stolidly in front of Jane's door, as though to go in.

Pulling off her hat, Jane smoothed her soft black hair, which she wore in a smart French roll, her forehead fringed with the wispiest shadow bangs. Bracing her shoulders against the door frame, she said, "You're all so sweet. But I've got to try it alone."

Al said, "Dammit, Aunt Jane. You're being impossible!"

Rosemarie asked anxiously, "Will you promise to bang on the kitchen wall if you want anything?"

Jane nodded. Their kitchens adjoined, and the wall between served as a primitive telegraph whenever they needed each other.

"I'll see you tomorrow," resolutely turning her back on her friends, Jane opened her door on the familiar scene. The furniture she saw with a new eye— tables and chairs old-fashioned enough in the afternoon sun to stand out sharply in all their shabbiness. The little table by the side of Horace's old leather chair still held his pipe rack.

Jane had loved Horace dearly and deeply. A gentle, quiet man, he had been a bookkeeper, and one of Jane's most poignant memories was of Horace's concern that he couldn't die economically but had to dissipate his widow's substance by stretching out the hideous expense of a coronary.

It was only an hour later that Jane reached out toward the only security she knew—teaching. Feeling the urgent need for action, she picked up her telephone and dialed a familiar number, the Board of Education. Speaking with an assistant superintendent, she said confidently, "I guess at this time I'm ready for a full-time post."

But he dealt her a blow that made her heart flop. He said, not unkindly, "No one over forty is eligible for new full-time employment, Jane. But we'll be glad to keep you on our substitute list." Jane, who was forty-nine and whose fine skin made her look young enough to model swimming suits, was left quivering in a bog of helplessness.

Yet the feeling did not remain easily with Jane. Rushing to check the school's idiosyncrasy against the world's at large, she reached for the local newspaper, quickly rifled through the help wanted ads and read again and again. "Applications invited, ages 18 to 35." A few hard nonconformists went as high as 45.

Jumping from her chair, she ran into the kitchen and began beating with both fists upon the kitchen wall adjoining Al's and Rosemarie's apartment. Before she had returned to the living room, Al burst in like a man ready to put out a fire, and tall, blonde Rosemarie in blue jeans flew in right behind him.

"Did you know," Jane cried indignantly, "that I'm too old to get a regular job teaching? Or filing? Or selling geraniums? Or taking tickets at a laundromat?"

At that moment the telephone rang, and it could not have picked a better time. Or carried a more astonishing message. It was Mr. Gresham. Horace had been his head bookkeeper, and since nothing less than catastrophe merited Mr. Gresham's attention, Al and Rosemarie were as startled as Jane, who seemed to listen forever.

Finally they heard her say, "Yes—yes, I do understand." But she looked utterly mystified. She went on, "Let me repeat what you said to make sure, I am to take Horace's life insurance in a lump

Bank Teller Is Shaken By Pet

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — George Bouchard, 13, didn't mean to disturb anyone. He just wanted three rolls of pennies.

But when bank teller Peggy McClure looked up and saw George at her window, she screamed and backed away.

George was wearing a 4-foot-6-inch inch snake around his neck. Mrs. McClure refused service to George until the snake was removed.

The youth handed the snake to his 11-year-old sister while he completed his business transaction.

Brothers Share Parking Space

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — There's a sign on the street in an outlying shopping district in Des Moines that says:

"Parking for patients of Dr. Walter, Dr. Gustafson and customers of Gustafson's meats."

Dr. John P. Gustafson is a dentist and Emery Gustafson operates a meat market. They're brothers.

sum and send you $3,000 of it." Making excited faces at her friends and utterly confusing them, Jane said, in a voice strangely vibrant with warmth, "Mr. Gresham, you are a very, very generous man."

Placing the phone in the cradle, she looked up as though surprised to see Al and Rosemarie there. "Isn't Longfellow Leasing a lovely name?" she asked happily.

"Come off it," Al demanded. "What does that old skinflint want with your $3,000?"

With exasperating airiness, Jane explained, "Mr. Gresham just said, 'Jane, I want to do something for you. This is a sure thing.' And so he is buying me one hundred shares of very nice stock."

"Stock! Oh, no!" Al began to sputter. "That you would fall for Gresham. The old boy is rooking you, sure as hell."

Jane's voice rose. "He said it would double!"

"Yeah," said Al. "I've heard that one before."

"But why," asked Rosemarie, siding with Al, "would Mr. Gresham be so generous all of a sudden? He never gave uncle Horace any fringe benefits. Never even raised his salary the last five years."

Jane shrugged her shoulders, had no ready answer. Then, brightly, one came to her. "This kind of generosity doesn't cost him anything," she said.

Al mas not impressed. "Aunt Jane, you cannot do this. Gresham is a cold-hearted miser. But suppose he weren't. I still wouldn't trust the stock market."

God's Promise of a Savior

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Isaiah 9; St. Matthew 4:12-17, 23-25; Galatians 4:4-7.

"The people that walked in darkness have seen a great light; they that dwell in the land of the shadow of death, upon them hath the light shined."—Isaiah 9:2.

"Thou hast multiplied the nation, and not increased the joy; they joy before Thee according to the harvest, and as men rejoice when they divide the spoil."—Isaiah 9:3.

"For unto us a Child is born, unto us a Son is given; and the government shall be upon His shoulder; and His name shall be called . . . The Prince of Peace."—Isaiah 9:6.

And Jesus went about all Galilee, teaching in their synagogues, and preaching the Gospel . . . and healing all manner of disease."—Matt. 4:23. GOLDNER TEXT—Isaiah 9:6.

God's Promise of a Savior

CHRIST, THE SUBJECT OF PROPHETIC SCRIPTURES AND THE GUARANTEE OF FUTURE UNIVERSAL BLESSEDNESS ON THIS EARTH

Scripture—Isaiah 9; Matthew 4:12-17, 23-25; Galatians 4:4-7.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

THE PEOPLE that walked in darkness have seen a great light; they that dwell in the land of the shadow of death, upon them hath the light shined."—Isaiah 9:2.

sea coast, in the borders of Zabulon and Nephthaliim, when He heard that St. John was cast into prison. This was not because He was afraid, but "That it might be fulfilled which was spoken by Esaias the prophet, saying, The land of Zabulon, and the land of Nephthaliim, by the way of the sea, beyond Jordan, Galilee of the Gentiles."—Matthew 4:12-15.

The Golden Text

Joseph and the Infant Jesus. "For unto us a Child is born, unto us a Son is given; and the government shall be upon His shoulder; and His name shall be called Wonderful, Counsellor, The mighty God, The everlasting Father, The Prince of Peace."—Isiah 9:6.

(AP)—A jet engine will swallow almost anything, and as a result often suffers from "that tired run down feeling." There are numerous cures, but the cheapest so far is a dose of walnut shells. Jet doctors have found they can restore a patient's zip by feeding shells through the air intake. Once inside, the shells prove just about as effective to clean out the accumulation of jet fuel grease, bird feathers, sand and old newspapers. Previously a sick jet engine had to be torn down, cleaned and hand polished, a lengthy and costly operation. Now the cure can be effected in four minutes with a $9.90 sack of walnut shells. # Reviews And Reflections

By JIM POINDEXTER

If troubles come in packs, so does activity. It seems. This weekend in Greenville brings more events than the average person will be able to cover.

First of all, the College Playhouse is offering "The Lady's Not for Burning" tonight and Saturday at 8:00 in McGinnis Auditorium. This Christopher Fry comedy in verse deals with a returned war hero of 1400 who hates the human race so intensely that he tries to get himself hanged.

Things begin to happen to him, however, when he comes across the heroine, who has been condemned to be burned for witchcraft. What ensues has been widely hailed by the critics as "killingly funny," "brilliant," "rich in character."

The only sour reaction to the original run of the play in London was struck by the London "Times," which complained that Fry gets nowhere dramatically, in spite of his bright verse. We shall see.

"Village of the Damned." Showing at the Pitt is a movie called "Village of the Damned." Made in England and starring George Sanders, "Village" is traveling the circuit without fanfare. Yet "Time" calls it "one of the nearest little horrors."

pictures since Peter Lorre went straight." Maybe this is a real sleeper.

And there is Handel's "Messiah" Sunday afternoon at 3:30 in Wright auditorium. This year's concert has become practically as much of a Christmas institution to the people of this section of Eastern Carolina as turkey and Santa Claus. Dr. Carl Hjørsvang of the college will direct the 100 vocalists, seven soloists, and orchestra.

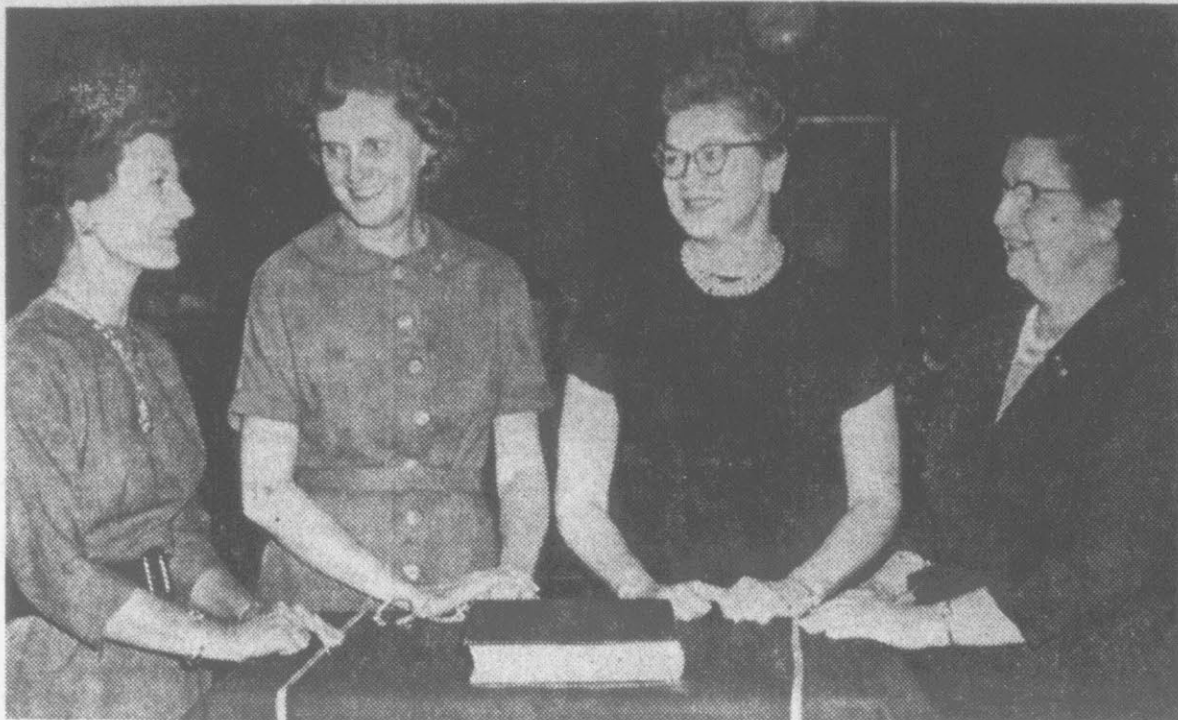

Then, for those who like Christmas music of a somewhat different kind, there will be the concert of the College Chapel Choir on Wednesday at 7:00 in Austin Auditorium.

Sir Walter Award Last Friday night at the State Literary and Historical Society a goodly number of Greenvilleans were thrilled when Ovid Pierce of the college was presented the Sir Walter Award for his "On A Lonesome Porch." Saturday morning, one of the principal state papers featured this event on the front page, calling Pierce "a Weirton writer."

Other prizes given in Raleigh went to Professor Richard Barlow of Woman's College for his work "The Negro Vanguard," and to Jonathan Daniels, whose "Stonewall Jackson" won the prize awarded by the AAUW for juvenile literature. Mr. Daniels is a Raleigh writer, formerly of Washington, D. C.

Library For Elementary School Talked At PTA

The importance of a well equipped elementary school library was demonstrated by Mrs. H. T. Patterson, a member of the Elmhurst library committee, at the Elmhurst School P.T.A. meeting on Thursday evening.

Mrs. Patterson reviewed the services of the library and emphasized the fact that a library is not only a source for books, but also includes many of the materials which are needed by teachers and students to carry out a good instructional program.

Last year the circulation of 3,025 library books was 14,973, an average of 30 books per child, she said. The National Council of School Libraries recommends 10,000 books for a school of 500 to 1,000 students. Based on these figures, the Elmhurst School library is understocked by approximately 700 books, Mrs. Patterson said.

Parents' interest in the library is evidenced by the fact that in the current library drive they have contributed $864.95 for library improvements. The State of North Carolina allots 50 cents per child per year for library books. This amount only helps maintain books after a library is established.

A display of Christmas materials, books, periodicals, tape recordings and filmstrips were exhibited to further familiarize parents with the research and teaching facilities in the library. Parents heard a recording of Christmas poems by Mrs. Hugh Tucker's primary class, and a filmstrip on the origin of Christmas carols was shown.

In conclusion, Mrs. Harrington pointed out that there was an acute need for a full time school librarian to assist and instruct children in the proper use of library equipment.

A Christmas reading was given by Patrick Paul, as Malinda Hall portrayed the mother of the Christ Child. This was followed by a group of Christmas carols sung by the Glee Club under the direction of Mrs. James Horton. Mrs. Kenneth Hite and Mrs. Gordon Johnson were accompanists for the group.

Dr. W.M. Aldridge, president, invited parents to visit the library and inspect the available facilities. Refreshments were served in the library by the Social Committee under the chairmanship of Mrs. J.H. Ward, Jr. Parents participated in a bake sale following the social hour. The sale was directed by Mrs. Brinson Cox and Mrs. O. A. Verner.

Greensboro Man Addresses Club

STOKES—Edison P. Holmes of Greensboro, Rural Electrification Administration representative, was guest speaker at the December meeting of the Stokes Ruritan Club here Wednesday.

Holmes related some of the short stories and anecdotes published in his three books—"The Disadvantages of Being a Minister's Son," "100 North Carolina Oddities," and "Nothing Ain't No Good."

During the club's business session, new President W. A. Crandell was installed into office for 1961.

Other officers taking office for the new year were: J. L. Corey Jr., vice president; D. M. Nobles, treasurer; and J. E. Fleming, secretary.

The club and guests were served a barbecued chicken dinner by the ladies of Stokes Christian Church.

The group was asked to support a lecture program to supplement the course of study in the possible lines of chemistry world history, conversational French and mathematics for high school students.

In other business, the Grounds and House Committee was authorized to spend $735. Dr. Christens reported that the Halloween carnival was a success. High attendance awards went to Miss Bertha Cray Johnson's fourth and Adrian E. Brown's ninth grades.

'Escapee' Didn't Leave Grounds

LA GRANGE, Ky. (AP)—How prisoner J. L. Galbreath escaped from Kentucky Reformatory puzzled officials for three days. Then, very hungry, he emerged Thursday from behind a pile of cartons in the prison's auto-license plant, saying he had never left the premises. He was fed a good meal and placed in solitary confinement.

The prisoner, 29, is serving 10 years for holding up a Louisville bakery earlier this year.

Ghosts, Etc. In certain quarters recently there has been quite a rumble of complaint over the prevalence of ghost writing, a charge to which we plead innocent. Maybe the late election brought this problem to a head. Anyhow, there is the story of the Western politician last month who deliberately put down his speech manuscript and said, "And now I would like to say a few words of my own."

In the New York "Times" last Sunday there was an interesting discussion by leading writers of books which they have read and will read again. On any such list of our own we would have to place D. H. Lawrence's "Lady Chatterley's Lover." Maybe we were taken in by it—ah, "sensationalism." Incidentally, "Lady Chatterley" is the latest hit in England, where it has recently been removed from the banned list, over thirty years after an Englishman wrote it. One English critic hailed this the other day as a final victory over Puritanism. Could be.

Wake Forest, Duke Meet Non-Loop Foes

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
 Duke's Blue Devils, defending Atlantic Coast Conference champions, and Wake Forest take on a pair of tough non-conference opponents tonight and Saturday night in basketball doubleheaders at Charlotte, N.C.

Duke faces Penn State in tonight's first game, and Wake Forest collides with West Virginia in the second. The two ACC teams swap opponents for Saturday night's games.

Meanwhile, South Carolina won a non-conference game Thursday night, and Clemson lost one.

The Gamecocks, paced by Art Whisnant with 23 points, scored a 73-71 victory over Georgia to spoil the Bulldogs' home debut.

Clemson was soundly trounced, 82-65, by Marshall, a Mid-America Conference basketball power. Clemson's Choppy Patterson took scoring honors with 27 points, but the Tigers proved no match for Marshall in South Carolina, hitting only 39 per cent of its shots from the floor, compared to 38 per cent for Georgia. Whisnant broke a 67-67 tie with a free throw at the 1:44 mark, and the Gamecocks managed to stay ahead from there.

Wake Forest's Deacons will have their work cut out for them, despite the fact that West Virginia is no longer as Jerry West. Each team has a 1-1 record, but you might say West Virginia has the advantage of the "home floor." The Mountaineers have played in the big Charlotte Coliseum several times in recent years, including the last two Eastern Regional NCAA playoffs.

Wake Forest Coach Bones McKinney says he thinks 6-8 Len Chappel, the Deacons' leading scorer last year, will be ready to make his first start of the season. He was injured in pre-season drills and sat out the first two games.

Duke has the same starting unit that won the ACC title last year and advanced to the finals of the regional NCAA playoffs. Duke has won its only start this year, beating LSU in overtime. Penn State lost its opener to Maryland, but has won two since then.

Meanwhile, the Kentucky-North Carolina basketball game Dec. 13 at Greensboro will be televised by five stations. The announcement was made Thursday by Chuck Erickson, North Carolina athletic director.

Stations carrying the game include WFMY-TV, Greensboro; WBT, Charlotte; WTVD, Durham, WNCN, Greenville; WECT, Wilmington.

Duke Tackle Wins Trophy

RALEIGH (AP) — Duke tackle Dwight Bumgarner has been voted winner of the Jacobs Blocking Trophy for 1960, the Atlantic Coast Sports Writers Association announced today.

Bumgarner, 6-6, 235-pound senior from Lexington, N.C., was one of the Blue Devils' leaders on Duke's way to the conference championship and invitation to the Cotton Bowl.

Duke Coach Bill Murray said, "Much of the success we had this season could be traced to our blocking. And Bumgarner was our best. I am delighted his fine work in that direction has been recognized."

Bumgarner, an end in 1959, was asked to switch to tackle this season because of lack of talent there.

Other players receiving votes were Rip Hawkins, Milam Wall and Bob Elliott of North Carolina; Gary Collins, Pat Drass and Everett Cloudy of Maryland; Art Browning and Jerry McGee of Duke; Collice Moore, Alex Gillespie and Roger Moore of North Carolina State; Romald Gassert of Virginia; Jerry Ball of Wake Forest; Dave Lynn of Clemson, and Jake Bodkin of South Carolina.

DINKY MILLS

Mills Named To All-East Squad

Ayden fullback Dinky Mills was named to the All-East Class A football team today, released by the Raleigh News & Observer.

The 5-9 170 pound fullback led the Tornadoes to the Coastal Conference title and into the second round of the state playoffs, losing to state champion James Kenan. Coach Stuart Tripp praised his fullback throughout the season and it was a fitting climax of a high school career for Mills who hopes to land a college scholarship.

Receiving honorable mention in the voting were ends J. Y. Monk of Farmville and Bonnie Stevens of Robersonville; tackle Mitchell Cannon of Farmville; and backs Danny Dilda of Farmville and Tommy Ward of Robersonville.

Brief Drills On Tap For Bruins

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Brief drills were scheduled by Lenoir Rhyne and Humboldt State College today as they prepared for their Holiday Bowl football game Saturday night.

The two teams will clash for the national small college championship under the sponsorship of the National Association for Intercollegiate Athletics.

Both teams held brisk 90 minute workouts Thursday with emphasis on defense.

The Humboldt Lumberjacks from Arcata, Calif. concentrated on running and passing defense against the single wing offense of Lenoir Rhyne.

The Hickory, N.C., team concentrated mostly on defense against the aerial attack team of Lumberjack quarterback Fred Whitmire and lonesome end Deew Roberts.

Ray Hayworth, ex-Chicago Cub scout, has signed a three-year contract with Milwaukee's Braves as director of scouts.

Norris Faces Last Round With Fight Investigators

WASHINGTON (AP) — James D. Norris, who says he dealt reluctantly with mobster Frankie Carbo, faced his last round today before Senate investigators who want more details of relations between the two prizefighter figures.

Norris was called back for additional closed-door questioning by the Senate Antitrust and Monopoly subcommittee, which was making public a transcript of his testimony.

He testified Thursday he associated with Carbo in the fulfilled hope of averting difficulties with boxing managers who howled for more money and threatened to pull out of televised bouts.

Norris formerly headed the International Boxing Clubs, disbanded by court order last year for monopolizing championship fights. He was excused from testifying in public after doctors agreed the strain might provoke another heart attack. Norris, 53, already has been stricken twice.

John G. Bonomi, special counsel to the subcommittee, said he planned to get down to cases today about Norris' contacts with Carbo. Long regarded as the underworld's boxing boss, Carbo is in the midst of a two-year prison term for undercover manipulations as manager and matchmaker.

Other witnesses had linked the names of Norris and Carbo. Norris said Carbo visited his New York apartment about twice a year for a decade. He portrayed Carbo as knowing more fight managers than anyone else in the game.

He said he employed Viola Masters—the girl friend who later married Carbo—as a "good will representative." He denied that the move was an effort to curry favor with Carbo, but conceded later that "possibly unconsciously I had that in mind."

Norris said he thought Carbo probably exerted influence on Al Weill, manager of former heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano and once matchmaker at Madison Square Garden. He figured Carbo could sway Billy Brown, who succeeded Weill at the Garden.

After listening to Norris, the subcommittee headed by Sen. Estes Kefauver, D-Tenn., planned to open the doors for appearances by boxing managers Bernie Glickman of Chicago and Frank Mitchell of St. Louis, plus alleged St. Louis racketeer John Vitale.

Glickman manages former welterweight champion Virgil Akins and has been tagged among Carbo's close friends. Mitchell once

Thompson Hopes To Cop Paret's Title

NEW YORK (AP)—If Argentina's Federico Thompson can throw leather as good as he talks, he could lift Benny (Kid) Paret's world welterweight crown Saturday night at Madison Square Garden.

Thompson, 33, a native of Panama, fought a 12-round draw with Paret, the champion from Cuba, in their first meeting here last March 25.

"I think I won the first fight with him," said Thompson confidently. "And, I expect to beat him this time."

All this, despite the fact that the Cuban is 10 years younger than Thompson, who jumped into prominence last December by knocking out then world champion Don Jordan of Los Angeles in the fourth round in Buenos Aires. It was a non-title bout.

This will be the first defense of the title for Paret since he won it with a 15-round decision over Jordan May 27 at Las Vegas, Nev.

Thompson took a 10-round decision from Ortega, and is the second ranked challenger to Paret.

The 15-round bout will be televised (ABC) starting at 10 p. m.

Ring experts admit this is a tough fight to figure, because in their March draw there was a big conflict of opinion. Thompson was ahead in the early rounds. But the Argentine never has gone 15 rounds, and many figure his age will be against him while it will help the younger Paret.

Neither expects to have any trouble meeting the 147 pound limit. Both scaled 147½, and it's likely they'll go into the ring a pound less.

Replica Of Holy Land Considered On Harnett Land

DUNN, N.C. (AP) — A group planning a $22 million replica of the Holy Land is to meet here today and may decide whether to place the project on a 2,000-acre tract of Harnett County land.

The group, Christiland Inc., was to consider buying the land at a price of $100 an acre. Mrs. Esta Barr of Boston, Mass., sparking the project, said the $22 million is no worry and work could begin quickly after the property is acquired.

She told reporters Thursday two years would be required to finish the mammoth job. Mrs. Barr said she was directed to Dunn after contacting the State Department of Conservation and Development. Dunn was one of several areas suggested by the department's advertising director Charles Parker.

Mrs. Barr said she began considering North Carolina as a possible site after plans fell through to acquire land in California. The land in question in Harnett County is between Dunn and Bunnell, about four miles from Interstate Highway 91, a major North-South route.

Mrs. Barr said several foundations, as well as a number of prominent citizens, have shown interest in the plan.

When finished, she said, the project would illustrate the land and way of life 2,000 years ago. The project would employ 400 full-time workers who would live on the restoration and wear the costumes of the times. With a $1 admission charge, Mrs. Barr estimated, the project would gross $1 million a year.

Bows To County Welfare But Not To The Officials

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — Sarasota County's financial troubles have been resolved to everyone's satisfaction except the tax collector, Miss Charlie Hagerman who still doesn't have her office redecorated.

Earlier this week she refused a County Commission request for a $100,000 advance in tax funds to cover county operations until after the first of the year.

Miss Hagerman refused, saying she had been unsuccessful in getting the commission to complete redecoration of her office. Under state law she was not required to release the tax funds until Jan. 9, but it has been the practice in the past to make an advance.

Thursday Miss Hagerman re-elected. Depositing a $100,000 check to the commission's general operating account, she said, "I'm not bowing to the County Commission, but I am bowing to the welfare of the county."

Because the Caspian Sea is gradually shrinking, some fishing villages along the 2,000-mile Russian coastline now stand miles from water.

Save A Few Bucks To Buy The 1960 License Plate

RALEIGH — Christmas spending may have many a weary Tar Heel on the ropes, but if driving is in his plans for 1961 he'll save a few bucks for a new license tag. They go on sale January 3 in Raleigh and around the state January 2 or 3 depending on branch outlets' observance of the New Year's holiday.

The '61, yellow-on-black tags must be in use after February 15, the final expiration date for current plates.

Miss Foy Ingram, director of the Motor Vehicles Department's registration division, envisions sales to close to two million '61 tags. She had listed late in November of this year about 1.9 million registered vehicles and the count next year isn't expected to fall off any.

North Carolina cars and trucks have been required to be tagged since 1909, the year the Legislature authorized the state's first auto census and subsequent registration.

Court Injunction For Dock Strike

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Injunctions forbidding picketing at state port facilities in South Carolina and Georgia were obtained Thursday night as a result of a wildcat strike Thursday by terminal workers at some state port facilities in the Carolinas and Georgia.

There was no indication whether North Carolina would take similar action.

Terminal workers set up picket lines at state port facilities at Wilmington, N.C., Charleston, S.C., and Savannah, Ga. Savannah was least affected because of the many private terminals not picketed.

Ralph A. Massey of Galveston, Tex., president of the Southeastern Gulf Coast District of the International Longshoremen's Association, said, "we are only trying to get these men a decent wage, and bring them near the level in pay of the longshoremen." He denied that the ILA is trying to organize terminal workers.

Longshoremen at the state facilities have been organized for several years, but most of the terminal workers have not.

At Savannah, Superior Court Judge B. B. Heery issued the injunction at the request of the Georgia Ports Authority, which contended the picketing is illegal because the 150 to 200 terminal workers are state employees. He scheduled a hearing for Dec. 20.

The injunction restrains the ILA and "other participating groups" from picketing the Garden City and Ocean Terminal facilities at Savannah.

A similar order was issued at Charleston by Circuit Judge John Grimball at the request of the South Carolina Ports Authority.

Pickets carried signs reading: "Non union. State docks unfair to the ILA."

Early day owners made their own tags of wood, tin and similar material, painting on numbers issued by the Secretary of State. The "do-it-yourself" trend continued until 1913 when the state began supplying tags.

Since 1930 prison labor has hammered out new plates which in past years have been yellow-and-blue, maroon-and-silver, green-and-white, and silver-and-blue, white, and silver-and-blue.

They've ranged in size from a real slim-Jim tag measuring a scant four and one-half inches by 15 inches issued in 1927 to the current standardized six by twelve plate.

OPPOSE SUB BASE

GLASGOW, Scotland (AP)—The Glasgow Town Council Thursday urged the British government to rescind an agreement allowing the United States to establish a base for Polaris-carrying submarines on the Holy Loch. Almost every large municipal authority in West Scotland now is opposed to the Holy Loch base.

The next four months will see about $446,000 in construction work at East Carolina College completed, including an addition to the infirmary. It was reported by F. D. Duncan, business manager.

According to plans, 30 more beds and an additional doctor's office will be added to the present 40-bed infirmary, almost doubling its capacity. This construction, estimated to cost about $75,000, will be finished in about three months, Duncan said.

Women Picket Own Union HQ

ANDERSON, Ind. (AP) — A small band of women, members of United Auto Workers Local 633, reversed the normal pattern Thursday and picketed their own union headquarters here in protest over lack of seniority rights.

The women, who marched in below freezing temperature, said the demonstration stemmed from the recent layoffs of a number of women at the General Motors Lamp Division here.

They are seeking the same seniority rights granted male employees at the plant and women workers at other General Motors plants in Anderson.

A union spokesman, Norman Goodwin, declined to comment until consulting UAW officers.

Other projects going on include the addition of parlors and lobbies to Slay and Umstead Dormitories, converted this year to women's dormitories. Men formerly housed in Slay and Umstead now have quarters on the south side of Tenth Street.

Converting the dormitories from men's to women's necessitated the building of the lobbies, parlors and small apartments which will house counselors. One small apartment will be added to Slay and two to Umstead. These facilities were not needed for the men students, Duncan noted. The estimated cost of this project totals about $116,000.

Approximately six new classrooms and a language laboratory as well as offices are being added to Graham Building and should be completed in about four months, Duncan said. The construction is going on at the back of the building and extends to a three-story height.

About $100,000 will be spent for construction costs, Duncan said. In addition to these projects, programs for improvements to the campus electrical system and additions to the warehouse are also being made. Improvements to the electrical system involve a lot of underground work, and probably isn't even noticed by the college population.

Here workmen are reworking the underground electrical system, rerouting some of the main lines and putting some underground, at a cost of about $95,000.

An addition to the warehouse, located between Slay Dormitory and the heating plant, will almost double it in size, Duncan noted. The needs have outgrown the present building, he added.

The warehouse contains "a little of everything," including all janitorial supplies and necessities for maintenance of the buildings. Extra supplies, furniture, chairs and even mattresses are kept here. The addition to the warehouse won't be completed for about four months. This will cost approximately $60,000 when completed.

As for the future, bids will be accepted soon for additions to the heating plant and an additional boiler.

No 'Middle Ground' In Christopher Fry's Play

By MARY H. GREENE

Performance of such a play as Christopher Fry's "The Lady's Not for Burning" allows no middle ground; either it is good or it is bad.

Last night's performance of the Fry comedy by the East Carolina Playhouse, this reviewer is happy to say, was good. The audience of three or four hundred people was appreciative and enthusiastic.

The chief problem of "putting across" the Fry comedy is handling of his lines—now colloquial, now soaring into poetry.

The plot of the play is fairly simple. Thomas Mendip, a misanthropic soldier back from the wars and disgusted with a sorry world, wishes to escape from life and comes to the mayor of Cool Clary in England demanding that he be hanged.

Outside the mayor's house a witch hunt is in progress. Jennet Jourdemayne, young and beautiful and accused of witchcraft, seeks aid at the mayor's home and shrinks from being burned.

confesses the murder of the rag-and-bones man Skippis, and she is accused of turning him into a dog. They fall in love as the play approaches a happy ending.

The two principals, both for their clear and sympathetic reading of the lines and for their admirable acting deserve chief commendation among members of the cast.

Priscilla Kilgore of Greenville made a lovely and fascinating witch. The student actress "bull" the character well from her panting entrance to the mayor's home and her plea that the foolish charges against her be met with laughter, through her terror at the penalty of burning and her discovery that her heart takes precedence over her senses and her reason.

Outstanding also were Thomas Hull of Durham as Catarrhal and perplexed Mayor Tyson; Lois Garren of Greenville as Margaret, the mayor's sister, in whom Thomas sees "a gleam of hell" but who, occupied with the difficulties of a trying household, looks upon sin as "inconvenient"; Fitzhugh Dade of the college library staff, whose interpretation of Justice Tapperoom was one of the most gratifying of the performance; and the anonymous student whose fine sense of comedy made Skippis' brief appearance memorable.

Pierre Benmouyal of Morocco, in spite of difficulties created by his pronounced foreign accent, conveyed to the audience surprisingly well the character of the Chaplain.

Carole Barham of Seaboard and James Bateman of Danville, Va., as the clerk and the girl from the convent who fell in love, and Douglas Mitchell of Greenville and Sanford Peele of Wilson as the brothers Nicholas and Humphrey completed a well selected and competent cast.

The play was a delight to the eye. The setting, designed by Paul Minnis of the department of art and his students, was one of the most artistic used in any production by the Playhouse in recent years.

Dr. Robert T. Rickert, assisted by Ben Avery of Goldsboro, directed the play with the cast and a large technical staff they share the honors for successful production of a play which offers a real challenge to a college dramatic group, however expert.

"I am afraid I appear rabidly social," says the Chaplain in "The Lady's Not for Burning." Perhaps this review appears so too. There were, of course, a few things to be desired in the performance: a few larraine notes, as

Young Kennedy Flies South Today

By MARTHA COLE

WASHINGTON (AP)—Baby John Kennedy Jr. heads south today along the same air route on which his father made a hectic turn-around dash when the infant was born just two weeks ago.

President-elect and Mrs. John F. Kennedy plan to take their newly baptized son to Palm Beach Fla., early this afternoon. Young John's three-year-old sister, Caroline, is waiting there at the home of her grandparents for her first glimpse of her baby brother.

Mrs. Kennedy was scheduled to leave Georgetown, U.S. Virgin Islands, with her son about mid-morning and go to the family's Georgetown home.

She will remain in Florida with her children through the holidays at the Joseph P. Kennedy beach home. The president-elect plans to return to Washington on Monday, but will join his family again before Christmas.

When Mr. J. F. Kennedy several times his pronounced words, a few scenes which might have achieved greater depth and intensity, for instance, the love scene between Richard and Allison; a few members of the cast who had not quite lost the flatness of the Southern voice. But why find fault with what deserves praise?

The baby went through his baptism at the hospital chapel Thursday with aplomb—and a yawn. He made little murmuring sounds and gurgled and kept his eyes closed most of the time.

His only protest was a subdued little cry that came at the moment the Rev. Martin J. Casey asked: "John Fitzgerald Kennedy Jr., wilt thou be baptized?"

According to the ritual of the Roman Catholic sacrament of baptism, the sponsors answered yes. They were Mrs. Charles L. Bartlett, the godmother, and her husband, who stood in proxy for the godfather, Prince Stanislas Radziwill. The prince, who is married to Mrs. Kennedy's sister, could not come from his London home. He sent a small religious medal which was pinned to the baby's dress.

Bartlett is the Washington correspondent of the Chattanooga, Tenn., Times. He and his wife introduced the Kennedys to each other.

The baby wore a long white, embroidered batiste dress which his father had worn at his baptism 43 years ago.

Young John weighed 6 pounds, 1-3/4 ounces. That was just a bit

CAMERA Angles

By IRVING DESFOR

AP Newsfeatures COLOGNE (AP)—The most over-worked expression at the 1960 Photokina was "fully automatic." It made its first appearance in connection with camera exposure calculation at the 1956 Photokina. It picked up a good-sized following in '58 and became universal this year.

It's so universal, in fact, that a new expression will have to come along to give fresh meaning to modern camera automation in describing next year's models. So far, the likely substitute is the "thinking camera." Practically all new models shown do just that. Their all-seeing electric-eyes scan the scene over the lens's shoulder and select the fastest possible speed and smallest possible lens opening which together make a perfect exposure.

CROWDS JAM the exhibit counters at the 1960 Photokina in Cologne. The biggest attractions: fully automatic cameras.

This automatic action removes all thought, guesswork, experimentation and worry that has been so much a part of photography in the past.

This year's models even have warning signals to prevent possible failures. Some produce a red flag when light is inadequate while others have a moving pointer which must fall between a certain area as a sign that it's OK to go ahead and shoot.

All of these steps toward simplification are an effort to spread photography beyond the ranks of the current camera fan.

The photo companies want to reach the housewives who have always thought that photography was too intricate—a man's job.

They want to reach the athletes, hunters, boatmen, sportsmen—people who are too active to divert their attention to exacting details of exposure calculations.

They want to reach the youngsters who haven't gained the knowledge and the oldsters who have retired theirs.

In short, they want to reach back to George Eastman's original dream: "You press the button, we do the rest."

Now that modern cameras automatically assure success as far as the mechanical appearance of a picture is concerned, a more important measure of success is necessary.

Is the subject matter meaningful... worthwhile... interesting? With the "thinking camera" taking care of the mechanical details, the next step may be the "thinking photographer."

Red Skelton To Undergo Surgery

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Red Skelton will undergo major surgery Monday for correction of a diaphragmatic hernia.

Cedars of Lebanon Hospital said Thursday the comedian is suffering from a rupture of the diaphragm, the thin membrane separating the stomach from the upper chest.

Skelton, 47, entered the hospital Monday after complaining he felt "bushed."

Some 20 guests, including family and the two doctors who delivered the baby and have looked after him, attended.

When Kennedy left the hospital he reported his son didn't cry a bit during the ceremony—"he laughed."

Has Barbs For Prince And Tony

LONDON (AP)—Prince Philip was publicly accused today of being "openly arrogant" and his brother-in-law Antony Armstrong-Jones rapped for taking life too easy since he married Princess Margaret.

The criticisms came from the barbed pen of one of Britain's most widely read columnists, William Neil Connor, who writes in the Daily Mirror under the pseudonym Cassandra.

"Prince Philip is immensely able, publicly charming," Cassandra wrote of Queen Elizabeth's husband.

But he added: "In addition to possessing this theater royal, Drury Lane, glamor, he is openly arrogant, and occasionally an expert in the deadly art of being able to offend and get away with it most of the time."

Princess Margaret's husband was described as one of the Jones boys "and therefore has a bag balance of good will in every home in the land because of his name." But if he ever elected to take a title, then beware, the columnist warned. "So far he has played it safe. Not only has he played it safe but he has played it slow." The royal family has what to most people would be an intolerable burden of duties, noted the Mirror. "Real heavy on the collar stuff that needs a lot of solid carthorse pulling." "Mr. Armstrong-Jones is the new shire horse that seems to cost a little too often on the shafts."

Arrived In Time To Begin A New Period

By RALPH MILLS
WINTERVILLE — Winterville High School's student teachers, four of them, have arrived here just in time to begin work for the third grading period.

All East Carolina College students, they are Miss Linda Vick English; Mrs. Ronita Respass Vann, shorthand and typing; Charles R. Smith, bookkeeping and typing; and Gerald Gaskins, health and physical education.

One of the new faculty additions here, Mrs. Vann, is a former beauty queen—Miss Greenville of 1957. This term marks the first time Winterville High has had student teachers in shorthand and health and physical education this year.

Banquet
Winterville's Future Homemakers of America chapter Monday held its annual Mother-Daughter Banquet here.

According to the FHA girls, everyone attending enjoyed the dinner, program, and decorations planned and staged by the local chapter.

What FHA people called a "very successful banquet" was attributed to hard work and careful planning by the chapter's membership. Reports said every member joined in the cooperative effort.

Winterville's Glee Club has been hard at work rehearsing for its presentation of a special Christmas program at the next meeting of the local Parent-Teacher Association chapter.

A large crowd, as usual, is expected to attend the annual affair that will see the WHS band join the vocal group in presenting the program of Christmas music.

In view of the "big event" coming up, the Glee Club has called several "outside" practice sessions to allow more rehearsal time. One extra session was held last night, another is scheduled Sunday.

"Searchlight"
Winterville High's newspaper, the "Searchlight," hit the halls Tuesday afternoon.

The first 1960 issue featured student-written articles relating to the November "straw poll" at WHS the FHA Mother-Daughter Banquet, elementary school events, and others.

Included also were editorials concerning school spirit and Thanksgiving and a pair of political poems—"Richard Nixon" and "Kennedy"—by Tommy Lassiter.

The "Searchlight" apparently left the faculty and student body well-pleased. More than a few members of both groups have "heard" hearty "thank you's" to the WHS paper's staff.

Here, we list Winterville's basketball performers as a matter of record. While often only the top performers, score-wise, receive recognition, the functioning unit includes all the members of the team.

Winterville's cagers for 1960-61 are:
Girls squad—Dolly Ann Harris and Mary Ellen Mills, co-captains; Linda Forlines; Lorraine Buck; Cora Lynn Worthington; Corrine Jackson; Joanne Worthington; Mary Virginia Langston; Janie Lou Jackson; Lynda Hall; Kate Worthington; Eleanor Hart; Judy Lawrence; Andrea Whitchard; Carolyn Barnes; and Carolyn Cayton.

Boys squad—John Weathering and James Allen Braxton, co-captains; J. Alton Hill; Bobby Hobgood; Alfred Gold; Steve Worthington; Michael McLawhorn; Ronnie Worthington; Charles Jackson; Mitchell Avery; and Billy White.

Honor Roll
Qualifying for the honor roll during the second grading period at Winterville High were only three students.

Two seniors and a sophomore qualified with grades of "A" on all subjects and "H" (honor) on conduct. Seniors were Eliza Olive and Ralph Mills; the sophomore was Jamie Lou Jackson.

Meeting the requirements for principal's list honors were seven more WHS students. Standard requirements for that honor rating include grades of "A" on at least half the subjects taken with no grade less than "B."

One senior, Wilton McLawhorn, was listed on the principal's honor sheet. The remaining six represented the lower three classes equally.

Included were juniors Alfred Gold and Carolyn Barnes; sophomores Nancy Whelham and Connie Jones; and freshmen Dickie Allen and Ann Jackson.

New Teachers
In the Winterville school system this year are four new permanent staff additions.

Joining the science department was Alton Tyndall Dale. Dale is gaining the reputation around Winterville for his interest in hunting and fishing as a pastime.

His wife, Mrs. Gerie Jean Johnson Dale, seventh grade teacher here, says she enjoys only the fishing half of her husband's favorite sports.

Wade Ward has assumed the position as Winterville's seventh and eighth grade science instructor. Ward is a Greenville resident where his wife is attending East Carolina College.

Mrs. Clarissa May, new public music teacher, is a returnee to the Winterville faculty. As a matter of fact, Mrs. May was Winterville's first public school music teacher.

Thought for the week—"If you would smile the day through there would be no need to worry about your problems. Face the world, smile, and look for guidance from Above."

Their Gift: Visit By His Mother

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Each year enlisted men at 6th Army headquarters in the Presidio of San Francisco choose a patient in Letterman Army Hospital to receive their Christmas gift—a visit from his mother.

This year the man selected is Airman John E. Uterbeck, who has been a patient since June 1959, suffering auto accident injuries.

The soldiers collected enough money among themselves to fly his mother, Alice E. Cook, from Coeur D'Alene, Idaho. She will arrive Dec. 22 and stay until Dec. 26.

Some soil on the Caribbean island of Martinique is so fertile, according to the National Geographic Society, that a signpost may take root and sprout leaves.

SERVICE STOP—Streetcar stop is added convenience at new department store in Ludwighafen, Germany. Passengers get off and on within building and save shopping steps.

Yul Brynner Has Found It Easy To Resist TV

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—Yul Brynner, the suave actor with the shaved skull who became a star in "The King and I," has found it very easy to resist a plunge into television.

The only reason he is finally succumbing—Saturday night in a 90-minute special on CBS called "Rescue"—is that he believes the show will make people in this country aware that there are still some 15 million displaced persons around the world.

Brynner's show, made with United Nations assistance, tells about this unhappy group—adults and children born in camps and growing up there. These people are of great concern to the actor, and for some time he has been acting as a special unpaid consultant to the U. N. High Commissioner for Refugees, traveling to the camps, trying to relocate them permanently, attempting to better their living conditions.

Brynner has not kept away from television all these years because he has that fear of the unknown that afflicted many a nervous motion picture or stage star. Brynner was one of the successful pioneering directors in television.

"I know television so well, as a director and as a creator," he explained, "that it just didn't appeal to me to get into it as a performer. I just wasn't interested and never thought about it."

Annie Farge's better-than-most situation comedy, "The Ann Sothern Show," set a good break in CBS' rescheduling of its Thursday night programs. Ann Sothern goes into the 7:30 p. m. spot, followed by "Annel."

ABC and NBC are planning their usual coverage of Pasadena's annual "Tournament of Roses," but its hard to say why. It's just a parade, and to date has proved pretty dull viewing. The metals manufacturer who will sponsor NBC's Dec. 21 "The Coming of Christ" has decided to skip the commercials for one half-hour—just a brief mention of the company in the opening and closing announcements.

Ferry's Owner Is Asking Damage Due New Bridge

CLARKSDALE, Miss. (AP)—A woman who owned a Mississippi River ferry has filed suit seeking $720,000 damages resulting from construction of a bridge.

The bridge will span the river eastward from Helena, Ark., in an area once served by the ferry. Gladys Johnson of Helena named as defendants the Mississippi highway department, Mrs. Norman Jeffries Terry of Cleveland, Miss., and the builders—the Guy H. James Construction Co. and the Kansas City Bridge Co.

Mrs. Johnson claimed lease rights to property belonging to Mrs. Terry between the levee and river in Coahoma and Tunica Counties, Miss.

She seeks $250,000 in punitive damages and the rest in actual damages, including destruction of moorings, barge landings and 13 road rights-of-way. Also included was loss of expected profits.

The armadillo, which feeds on insects, may eat 40,000 ants at a sitting.

Early Ice And Snowstorm Cut Off Communities In Southwest Today

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (AP)—One of the heaviest and earliest snowstorms in recent years has stranded motorists, isolated communities and cut off communications through wide areas of the Southwest.

The storm blanketed Arizona and New Mexico with up to 15 inches of snow in some areas while a freezing drizzle preceding the storm threatened a major flood in East Texas.

New Mexico was the hardest hit in the three-state area. All major highways in the state were closed stranding many motorists.

At Santa Rosa a 7 1/2-inch snowfall closed U. S. 66 west to Albuquerque. Motorists filled up all motel and hotel space in the town of 2,200. The town opened up the high school gymnasium, a theater, and the City Hall to give travelers sleeping space for the night.

Albuquerque and El Paso, Tex., surrounded by mountain passes were virtually isolated. Albuquerque received two inches and El Paso had four. Highways leading from the two cities were closed to all except emergency vehicles.

All airline flights were grounded and railroad service was running five to six hours behind.

At El Paso, on the Mexican border, Texas Western College and the El Paso Public Schools closed today. No classes were held Thursday at Hobbs, Melrose, House and Roswell on the east side of New Mexico. Electric and telephone service was constantly disrupted. More than 100 telephone poles were knocked down between Tatum and Lovington in the southeastern corner.

Iceing and power failures knocked out two microwave relay towers in central New Mexico, interrupting telephone, telegraph and television transmissions between Albuquerque and Roswell during the night.

The heavy rains sent the swollen Sabine River out of its banks in northeastern Texas and threatened a major flood. Heavy losses were forecast in the Sabine basin from flooding of oil and gas wells.

The U. S. Weather Bureau at Albuquerque said no letup was in sight. The forecast for northern New Mexico and Arizona called for continued snow today while more freezing rain was expected more than 100 power poles snapped under the ice in the Sweetwater area of West Texas while Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. said it lost 340 poles in that area.

The snow reached as far south as Ajo, Ariz., where the fall, believed to be the first in 36 years, amounted to three inches.

Roads in northern Arizona were slick and dangerous with nine inches of snow reported in the Holbrook-Winslow area. Grand Canyon had 14 inches.

The heavy ice storm in Texas was called the worst since 1949. Texas Electric Co. reported more than 100 power poles snapped under the ice in the Sweetwater area of West Texas while Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. said it lost 340 poles in that area.

The heavy rains sent the swollen Sabine River out of its banks in northeastern Texas and threatened a major flood. Heavy losses were forecast in the Sabine basin from flooding of oil and gas wells.

The U. S. Weather Bureau at Albuquerque said no letup was in sight. The forecast for northern New Mexico and Arizona called for continued snow today while more freezing rain was expected more than 100 power poles

Asks $2,250 In Suing Actress

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla. (AP)—A doctor has filed a $2,250 damage suit against actress-model Suzy Parker. Dr. Richard Worsam of Jacksonville claims Miss Parker owes him the money for medical treatment after a train-car accident near here in 1958 in which her father was killed and she was injured.

Miss Parker recently received a $50,000 settlement from the Florida East Coast Railway. The earliest reference to coal in the United States is found on a map prepared by the Joliet and Marquette expedition to the Mississippi River in 1673.

Stock And Market Reports

RALEIGH (AP)—North Carolina egg markets steady to slightly weaker. Supplies generally short, demand good. Prices paid producers for clean, ungraded eggs, delivered nearby grading stations on a grade-yield basis, cases exchanged: Grade A large, whites 48-49, browns 46-50; mediums, whites 38-38½, browns 39-40; small whites 32-33, browns 34-35.

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market moved unevenly but began to show some selective strength in active trading early this afternoon.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was unchanged at 216.10 with the industrials down .10, rails unchanged and utilities up .10.

Gains and losses of most key stocks were fractional. A few moved a point or so either way. Steels and coppers tilted to the upside. Motors, oils and airlines were mixed. Rubbers declined. Economists continued to talk recession but the rise in U.S. goldholdings and the cut in the British bank rate were cheerful items.

Two Stills Are Destroyed By Pitt Enforcers

Pitt County ABC officers yesterday destroyed two stills, one in the Haddock's Crossroads section and the second near Cox's Crossroads.

The unit near Haddock's was composed of a 55-gallon wooden still with 60-gallon drum boiler, 60 gallon cooler with copper coils and three 55-gallon mash barrels. No mash was present at the site, officers said.

The still was fired with two oil burners. The second unit, found near Coxville, included a 100-gallon galvanized tin still with five 60-gallon galvanized mash barrels containing 100 gallons of mash. A 100-gallon mash box and a 60-gallon cooler barrel with radiator condenser was also found at the site.

Both units were destroyed with axes, officers said, noting that neither still was in operation and no arrests were made.

Made All A's In The Fall Quarter

WILMINGTON—Margaret Patrick Haskett, granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter L. Patrick of 406 Student St., Greenville, was one of four students at Wilmington College who made all A's during the fall quarter.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harris W. Haskett of Wilmington.

Pierce Novel Has State And Nat'l Recognition

Ovid Williams Pierce's novel "On a Lonesome Porch," published last May by Doubleday, has recently received both national and state recognition for excellence. Mr. Pierce, North Carolina author, is professor of English at East Carolina College and lives at his country place, The Plantation, near Effrid and Weldon.

Set Production Credit Meeting At Snow Hill

The Greenville Production Credit Association has scheduled its 27th annual stockholders meeting for 10 a.m. Dec. 16 at the Greene County Courthouse in Snow Hill, according to general manager J. R. Boswell.

Boswell urged all stockholders of the Pitt-Greene County association to attend next week's meeting "because we believe you can better use the services of your association by being better informed on its policies."

Both units were destroyed with axes, officers said, noting that neither still was in operation and no arrests were made.

ABC officers J. M. Ward, H. B. Lilley and Walter Taylor took part in the raids.

Tobacco Meeting Slated Monday

Pitt County tobacco farmers today were urged to attend a tobacco meeting set for Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the county courthouse.

Assistant County Agent S. J. Weeks urged Pitt's tobacco growers "to plan to attend" the session that will feature discussions on the latest information on varieties, fertilization and other cultural practices, and disease and insect control.

Weeks said the discussions will be led by F. A. Todd and S. N. Ham Jr., extension tobacco specialists from N. C. State College in Raleigh.

Weeks pointed out, "This meeting and discussion should be of great interest to each tobacco farmer in Pitt County."

Food Gift Will Admit Children

A can or a package of food is the admission price to a special cartoon show for children in this area, being held at 9:30 at the Pitt Theatre tomorrow morning.

The food will be used by the Salvation Army for needy Greenville and Pitt County families. Each child attending the show is asked to bring either a can of food, a bag of flour, a pound of potatoes or something similar to be added to the collection that will be gathered at the door of the theatre for distribution to the families.

The effort is sponsored by local radio station WGTC, The Daily Reflector and the Pitt Theatre. Theatre Manager Gordon Sturm said he felt that the program would be highly successful, providing the weather is good.

For the past two years, a similar program netted a large amount of foodstuffs that helped many families. The show will consist of an hour and a half of cartoons, a "Little Rascals" comedy. Cartoons will include Tom in Jerry, Bugs Bunny Droopy, Herman, Tweety Pie and Barney.

Many Out-Of-Town Guests To Attend Unveiling Of Portrait

The portrait unveiling ceremonies honoring Mrs. J. H. B. Moore will attract some 50 out-of-town guests tomorrow at the Greenville Art Center.

These guests will witness the noon portrait presentation by artist William C. Fields to the late Mrs. Moore's portrait. Mrs. Moore's portrait will be unveiled at the center in Mrs. Moore's honor.

Four of Mrs. Moore's great nieces will unveil the recently completed portrait: Ione Maxwell and Anna Maxwell Wailer of Augusta, Ga.; Julie Maxwell Allen and Laura Patterson Maxwell of New Bern.

Others participating in the ceremonies are M. K. Blount, president of the East Carolina Art Society, who will give the welcome; Dr. K. B. Pace, first vice president, who will introduce Dr. Robert Lee Humber, Dr. Humber will make remarks and introduce the artist, who will present the portrait. T. I. Wagner, second vice president, will make the acceptance.

Funeral Set For Mrs. C. McGilbert Ross

GREENVILLE—Funeral services for Mrs. C. McGilbert Ross, 84, widow of Charles McGilbert Ross, died at the home of daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Glisson, 307 Vance Street, in Greenville at 5:30 Thursday afternoon following several years of failing health.

Funeral services will be conducted at the Wilkerson Chapel at 2:30 Saturday afternoon by the Rev. Robert B. Crawford, her pastor, and burial will be in Greenwood Cemetery.

Mrs. Ross daughter of the late William Hardy and Nancy Barnhill Whitchard, spent all her life in Pitt County and had lived in Greenville for the past nineteen years with her daughter, Mrs. Glisson. She was an associate member of the Greenville Free Will Baptist Church. Her husband died in 1930.

Surviving are three daughters: Mrs. B. J. Keeter of Newport News, Va.; Mrs. L. A. Smith of Pactolus, and Mrs. Henry Glisson of Greenville, and W. A. Ross of near Greenville; 13 grandchildren; 23 great grandchildren; three brothers: Jesse L. and John E. Whitchard of Greenville, and Fernando Whitchard of Bethel; and a sister, Mrs. B. D. Moore of Greenville.

board member of the N. C. Museum of Art.

Members of the N. C. Museum of Art staff include Ben Williams, curator, Charles Stanford, curator of education, and Miss Betty Debnam, a former secretary.

George F. Hill of Raleigh, a North Carolina artist, will also be in attendance.

Others from throughout the state will be Mrs. George F. Hill, curator of Ackland Museum, University of North Carolina; Miss Gertrude Carraway, director of Tryon Palace; Mrs. Ben Williams, head of art department, St. Mary's Junior College; Miss Claude Howell, head of art department, Wilmington College; Mrs. C. Corndon Madrey, president of N. C. Federation of Women's Clubs; Miss Jane Hall, member of staff of The News and Observer, Raleigh; Mrs. J. R. Turnage, Elm City; Mrs. C. W. Beasley, Colerain; Mrs. Janie Davis Griffin, Wilson; Mrs. W. Jesse Moyer, Farmville; Arthur Levy, Raleigh; Mrs. Gregory Ivy, Greensboro; Mrs. Egbert Davis, Jr., Winston-Salem.

Fair Meeting To Be Held In Ayden

The annual meeting of the Pitt County American Legion fair will be held at the American Legion Home in Ayden, December 12 at 7 p.m., according to President Ford McGowan.

The supper meeting program will include the election of officers and the executive committee for the association. A financial audit of the 1960 Pitt County Fair will be given at the meeting; also, McGowan said.

All directors of the Association and the Post Commanders are urged to be present.

C. Maxwell, Mr. and Mrs. William Maxwell, and Dr. and Mrs. Reginald Maxwell, all of Augusta Ga.; Mrs. Raymond Maxwell, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Maxwell, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Maxwell, Jr., and Miss Alice Ward Allen, all of New Bern; Mr. and Mrs. Morgan Maxwell, Seven Springs.
